Mr. Magnus: Thank you, Mr. Speaker. I'm very pleased to move second reading of Bill 50, the Workers' Compensation Amendment Act, 2005 (No. 2).

This bill separates the medical panel process from the WCB, and it also extends presumptive coverage to one extra health condition commonly experienced by firefighters. Mr. Speaker, I will touch briefly on the separation of medical panels, but hopefully my hon. colleague from Calgary-Egmont will elaborate more on this topic later on in second reading or perhaps in committee stage.

The medical panel process was established in its current form by Bill 26 in 2002, and members of this House may recall that this was the same bill that separated the reporting lines and administration of the Appeals Commission for workers' compensation from the WCB, thereby making the Appeals Commission an entity that reports directly to the Minister of Human Resources and Employment, funded out of the general revenue fund of the Alberta government. We'll be doing the same thing with the medical panel process.

Our government feels that it's important that in both actual function and in perception there are appropriate checks and balances built into the overall framework of workers' compensation in this province, and the move is very consistent with that principle, Mr. Speaker.

Bill 50 will modify the act, which currently says that the WCB "may make rules governing," to be repealed and replaced with language that says that cabinet makes the regulations surrounding the working procedures of medical panels.

Also, a new section will be added which will say that the Minister of HR and E is responsible for medical panels and that the function of these panels be paid for through general revenues, to be reimbursed by the WCB at a later date. As I said, Mr. Speaker, the Member for Calgary-Egmont is an expert on this particular clause and will elaborate further shortly, I'm sure.

The other part of the bill, Mr. Speaker, the topic especially near and dear to my heart, is that the bill builds on my private member's bill of 2003 and provides additional presumptive coverage for firefighters. Members will recall that presumptive coverage for seven different firefighter cancers was put into law back in 2003. Since 2003 two new cancers have been included and are covered now within that same act – and actually it has been put into regulation – that being lung cancer and colorectal cancer.

The change, however, Mr. Speaker, required for Bill 15 with respect to firefighters' WCB coverage is allowing for presumptive association for a myocardial infarction, also known as a heart event or an MI and commonly referred to in lay terms as a heart attack. When a firefighter regardless of length of service suffers a heart attack within 24 hours of an emergency response, it will be presumed that it was caused by his employ as a firefighter unless the contrary can be shown.

Mr. Speaker, common sense dictates that this is the right thing to do with this bill. Obviously, when a firefighter is in the hall and hears that first fire alarm, his heart rate goes to 100 per cent of the rate of a 25 year old in very good shape, and firemen are the in occupation that is in the best shape of any occupation in the world. When that same fire truck with the firefighter rounds a corner and they see a house on fire or the emergency, their heart rate goes up even further and past 100 per cent, and then when they have to don 70 pounds' worth of equipment and have limited breathing because of their breathing apparatus, it puts that much more risk to their hearts.

Not a lot of firefighters die in this country each year because of heart events or heart attacks; however, any one is too many. I believe the number for 2004 was that two in Canada actually died, but many others have heart events while they're on the job. We think that, frankly, they deserve to be covered the same way that we cover firefighters for the cancers.

With that, Mr. Speaker, I will sit down and listen to debate and look forward to committee stage.

8:50

The Deputy Speaker: The hon. Member for Edmonton-Manning.

Mr. Backs: Thank you, Mr. Speaker. I'm very pleased to rise in support of this bill. The importance of recognizing this I think was clear, and we expected this, actually, to be in Bill 50. I was very disappointed and made my disappointment clear last week that this was not brought forward and perhaps made some threats that would have been forthcoming if it had not been brought forward. You know, I'm very pleased to see the brothers from the various locals of the firefighters' associations here in the province present to see this bill come forward.

I do have some reservations, and I'll state them. On the arbitrary point in the heart attack provision – to use the language in the bill, the myocardial infarction – to have it within the 24-hour period is good, but there are some arguments that that could be extended even to 48 or 72 hours. You have just one sleep after these intense, intense events that the firefighters go through when they actually are protecting our lives and properties and our families. It is something that, you know, maybe we should be looking at in the future too. We should be checking out how this happens and see if there are, in fact, any cases that might come into that situation. The idea to provide presumptive coverage is to ensure that the onus has shifted, that the firefighter is not dealt the severe burden of trying to provide proof, actually, that in fact this is caused by their work or an event at work.

Some further reservations. I understand there is some sense that this could be extended to volunteer firefighters. There are many, many members in the House tonight who have communities within their constituencies that rely on volunteer firefighters. I personally really don't see much of a difference between some of the events a volunteer firefighter might have to attend at and a professional firefighter's even though they may do it in more serious situations often and also that it happens much more often, of course.

The other area that might be of concern is that maybe it does not go far enough in covering just firefighters. Although there may not be quite the degree of research done, quite the degree of information that is available that we have on the occupation of firefighters in this type of situation, what we do know is that similar events happen with other types of emergency personnel who are also given the responsibility of protecting our hearths and homes and families. I think there should be extension to police. There should be extension to EMTs. There should be extension to paramedics and correctional officers of that same provision. I will be presenting amendments to that effect.

Nonetheless, the existing provision is a good step. It can go farther. I do think that some of the cancer provisions that are going to be extended in regulation are, again, a very positive step and have arisen out of some things, some cases that have come up in the last number of years. In the future I'd hope that somehow we could deal with that, not just out of regulation, because I still don't think regulation has the weight of having them included in the statute.

I congratulate the Member for Calgary-North Hill for bringing this forth, and I congratulate the Member for Calgary-Egmont for also, I understand, having some major input on the medical reporting. The medical reporting, again, is an improvement. I believe the WCB is an area that has been of very, very great contention to many communities, to many people. It's been a great problem, and even though there have been many improvements – and this bill is an improvement – it still has a ways to go.

The importance of having this particular section report to the ministry rather than to the WCB itself certainly allows for some greater independence. One of the greatest types of criticisms that we've seen of the WCB is how they use their medical personnel. I think there could be some even greater extensions of that concept into the operations of other areas and the use of medical personnel in the WCB.

The language sometimes still retains a certain harshness, a certain control type of mentality. You know, we always have to be careful how the WCB is administered in our province because it operates much, much differently than our usual contract and business relationships in a liberal democracy. It is a power unto itself. It is not particularly accountable. It is accountable, really, through what we're doing right now and only on an infrequent basis. The need to ensure that we have some review in a very, very regular way, other than just occasional bills, I think still remains true. The need for other changes, the need for some of the provisions in the Workers' Compensation Act to be even enforced is clear. The long-standing contentious issues remain, and really there has been very little use of that provision in the act even though that came forward some years ago.

In any case, Mr. Speaker, I commend the mover of the bill. I'm pleased to see it come forward. The Official Opposition supports this bill. We'll be continuing to monitor the workers' compensation system, and we look to further improvements in the future.

Thank you, Mr. Speaker.

The Deputy Speaker: The hon. Member for Calgary-Egmont.

Mr. Herard: Thank you very much, Mr. Speaker. I want to thank the hon. Member for Calgary-North Hill for having introduced this bill. I'm very pleased to stand in support at second reading and to add a few comments, as the hon. member did indicate, with respect to medical panels.

Now, in Bill 26 in 2002, as the hon. member has already stated, we did move the Appeals Commission away from the WCB and at the time probably should have moved the medical panels as well. So this bill does that. It makes sure that not only is there independence in fact but also in perception.

9:00

I recall when this happened in 2002, when the WCB recruited Dr. Ohlhauser, who was the registrar of the College of Physicians and Surgeons. I can recall how much difficulty he had initially in getting this off the ground. To be very honest with you, he couldn't find very many doctors who would agree to work on a medical panel because, as most of you probably understand, there had been for some years a culture of denial, and doctors' advice was being denied as frequently as other things. So Dr. Ohlhauser took it upon himself to visit scores of general practitioners and specialists to communicate to them how the WCB process with respect to medical panels was now going to change and that people's training and opinions would be heard. Over time he has in fact recruited some of the top Alberta specialists in virtually all disciplines who now will take on a WCB medical panel.

One of the things that I want to point out is that in the old bill, section 46.1, there were only two methods of establishing a medical panel: either the WCB asked for one or the Appeals Commission asked for one. But in practice Dr. Ohlhauser was able to convince the WCB that a treating physician should also be able to ask for and get an independent medical panel. That improvement is going to be handled in regulation so that we have a lot of flexibility to ensure that all of the conditions under which injured workers currently find themselves are improved.

If a treating physician feels that the WCB medical advisors are in error, then the treating physician can ask for and receive an independent medical panel. Now, it's my understanding that there are approximately 25 or so medical panels per year and that about 50 per cent of them overturn the decisions that were previously made. So that is, in my view, quite a large number of cases that without this process would have absolutely no hope at all.

The process that Dr. Ohlhauser did bring to bear – I would really counsel, I would suggest to the members of the opposition to invite Dr. Ohlhauser to come and speak to them, speak to their caucus to explain to them how this process works. I think that you'll be as convinced as I am that we now have a fair system. By moving this now away from the WCB and under the responsibility of the minister, that will indeed improve it.

A couple of things that the medical panels have to do, as I recall my discussion, is that they must consult the treating physician. So you can't have a medical panel that simply comes in and does a document review of a case and makes a decision. They must consult the treating physician. The other thing is that all three, if it's a three-member panel, must agree on the medical facts or keep working until they do and then render a decision. So it's not good enough that two of them agree. It's not good enough that they have opinions this way or that way. They must agree on the medical facts, or the decision is not accepted.

So I think that what you'll find in this bill is that there are a number of clauses that are required for transitional matters because I understand that it's going to take two or three months to transition the records and all of that from the WCB into new premises and so on. So there are some transitional requirements, and there are also some immunity clauses in here that are identical to the ones that are dealt with by the Appeals Commission.

So I would hope, hon. members, that you will support this bill. Thank you.

The Deputy Speaker: The hon. Member for Calgary-Mountain View.

Dr. Swann: Thank you, Mr. Speaker. It's my pleasure to rise and speak to Bill 50, the Workers' Compensation Amendment Act, 2005. I want to congratulate the initiators of the bill and the hon. Member for Calgary-Egmont, who's obviously had a lot of commitment to this issue for many years. I particularly was impressed by this latest discussion about the independent medical panel, which has been a source of such contention in the communities and in the medical community itself.

Before I comment on that, I wanted to say, along with my colleague from Edmonton-Manning, that heart attack provision for coverage for the firefighters is an important inclusion that should also be extended to other emergency workers. Clearly, if anyone is under stress – and they are all under similar stresses in the case of an emergency – and place themselves in harm's way to try to save people, under both physical and mental stress, if firefighters should deserve the benefit, then surely all emergency workers should similarly be compensated.

In relation to the shifting of this medical panel outside the WCB, I see a tremendous commitment to the appearance, not only the substance, of independence from the WCB. That has been a source of contention for many years, especially when there's a difference in the perception of pain or disability by a community physician compared to the perception of these issues within the panel of WCB physicians. There needs to be an independent process for dealing with this, and you very appropriately and well dealt with that in this new bill.

I think that constitutes my main comments on this, just to say that I and my colleagues do support this. It's a significant progress in the WCB and will serve all Albertans in the future. I would encourage again some of the extension of these compensation commitments to other emergency workers and leave it there.

Thank you.

The Deputy Speaker: I'd like to remind all members that Standing Order 29(2)(a) is available for questions or comments.

Seeing none, the hon. Member for Edmonton-Strathcona.

Dr. Pannu: Thank you, Mr. Speaker. I appreciate the opportunity to rise and speak to Bill 50, the Workers' Compensation Amendment

Act, 2005 (No. 2). I, too, would like to express my appreciation for the work that the hon. Member for Calgary-North Hill has done over the years on this bill and continues to do to address and make sure that this House redresses some of the concerns that have been long-standing by people who earn their living by working on very, very dangerous jobs. So I'm pleased that this bill is before us.

There are two parts to it, obviously. The first one expands the medical problems that workers may experience as a result of their work. So the inclusion of heart attacks is very important and a good expansion of the presumed workplace injuries that must be covered by the Workers' Compensation Board.

9:10

Certainly, we were very happy to support presumptive coverage for firefighters when it was first introduced and lent our strong support to it. In fact, the proposed amendments, that the Member for Calgary-North Hill at that time drew our attention to, were very much in keeping with what the NDP government in Manitoba had already enacted. So we created here, rightly, a parallel provision and coverage. We're delighted that that's happened. We know that the firefighters put their lives on the line for Albertans every time they respond to an emergency. Supporting this amendment is the least we can do in return.

The second provision of the bill deals with medical panels. Although it's a step forward, there are some concerns and problems with the proposed changes, in our view, to the medical panels; in particular, section 3(b), which amends section 46.1 of the original act. Now, this amendment would make decisions of medical panels final. While we are sensitive to the fact that doctors should be making decisions about medical conditions rather than lawyers, there does appear to be a need to provide an avenue of appeal even for these decisions.

The WCB's history and its relations with injured workers leave a lot to be desired. As has been pointed out by the hon. Member for Calgary-Egmont, there has been a culture of denial in the WCB. This has been identified by retired Judge Samuel Friedman in his review committee of the Workers' Compensation Board appeals system. What that really means is that many workers, most workers, and, in particular, a majority of injured workers do not trust the Workers' Compensation Board because of that history and because of problems that they've experienced over a fairly long period of time.

This mistrust, this kind of relationship that many injured workers have had with the WCB is exacerbated by the fact that this amendment appears to be designed to close one more avenue by which a worker could fight for a decision which is deemed by that worker to be more favourable. In our consultations we have been given examples of individuals who appealed a medical panel decision in court and learned some very important things in the process. Don't forget, Mr. Speaker, that when an appeal goes to court, everyone is under oath. Apparently, according to the consultation that we have had with workers, this has had a tendency to help get to the heart of matters.

There have also been concerns raised about instances where workers have degenerative medical conditions, particularly in their knees or their spine. There needs to be room to revisit decisions in these instances. Where there was only a 15 per cent disability found by a medical panel in one year, two years later there may have been significant further degeneration.

We shouldn't forget that the composition of these panels, though improved recently, are still perceived by workers to be somewhat stacked against them. The panel is created by allowing the employer, the board, and the worker to each name one doctor to sit on the panel. So we have two panelists named by stakeholders who have an interest in either not awarding benefits or awarding only minimal benefits. Further, the panelists are named from a list of doctors deemed eligible by the board itself. In theory this could be a workable way of establishing panels, but given the board's ongoing culture of denial, it does seem as if some room for appeal should remain.

That said, that reservation expressed, the positive aspects of the bill, namely the addition to presumed medical conditions for firefighters, seem to certainly lead us to support the bill in principle at this stage of the debate on the bill. Thank you.

The Deputy Speaker: The hon. Member for Edmonton-Centre.

Ms Blakeman: Thanks, Mr. Speaker. I've listened carefully to the speakers preceding me.

The Deputy Speaker: Excuse me, hon. member, I just want to remind the members that Standing Order 29(2)(a) is available.

Seeing none, please proceed.

Ms Blakeman: Thank you. A number of the issues that I was interested in raising have been raised by the speakers previous to me, so I don't need to go into depth with them.

Just briefly, my concerns were: why can this not be widened for emergency personnel beyond firefighters? I think it should be. Certainly, if my colleague from Edmonton-Manning is going to bring forward an amendment, I encourage him to do so because I think this is an opportunity for us to do this right this time and to expand it to include other emergency personnel.

I also share concerns with Edmonton-Strathcona around the Lieutenant Governor in Council making regulations. I always have concerns about that, Mr. Speaker, because it's done behind closed doors. So once again there's delegating of authority and delegating of regulation-making that happens behind closed doors and away from the scrutiny of this Assembly and from the public. Having put that on the record . . . They also were able to make regulations there around the appointment and removal of members of the medical panel. Actually, if you read through the rest of that list in section 3, which is amending section 46.1, to me it reads shades of the WCB, but I am cognizant of what the Member for Calgary-Egmont has said.

Under that same section that is being amended, section 46.1, there's a subsection (h). This is regarding the regulations being made by the Lieutenant Governor in Council respecting the ownership, custody, control, collection, et cetera, of "reports and information submitted to or created or acquired by a medical panel or the medical panels commissioner." I'm wondering if that comes under the Health Information Act, and the rules and regulations of health information should supercede what's in this act. So which of them is paramount?

I would echo my colleagues who have voiced their concerns about the medical panel not being subject to any appeal.

Those were the concerns. Others have put it better than me previous to my speaking, so I will let their words stand for me. Thank you.

The Deputy Speaker: Again, anyone under Standing Order 29(2)(a)?

An Hon. Member: Question.

The Deputy Speaker: Under Standing Orders 29(2)(a)? A question or comment?

Mr. Hinman: Well, a question first.

The Deputy Speaker: Okay. Go ahead, hon. Member for Cardston-Taber-Warner.

Mr. Hinman: I'm not totally sure on the question, but twice the hon. members here have made mention of adding more people to this. I guess my question is: those other EMTs and other officers, do they really feel that these are in the same category? It does seem like firefighters are in quite a special category of their own for the risk that they put in place. I guess I'm just wondering why they expound and think that we need to broaden it, when I think that this is specifically for the firefighters in a very unique, life-stressful situation every time they respond to a call.

The Deputy Speaker: Hon. member, do you wish to respond?

Ms Blakeman: Sure. I think it's because we are looking at emergency personnel. I guess if the member has a particular argument as to why others shouldn't be included, I'm interested in hearing it. To my eye, yes, firefighters are carrying 70 pounds of equipment up three flights of stairs in smokey circumstances and all of that, but equally we can have a paramedic going into a building that is unstable or has already come down, and they're crawling over rubble with dust coming up, and they're breathing in the dust. You know, there are different circumstances and emergencies that I think we can draw parallels for.

9:20

I guess my concern is: if we're willing to recognize and protect one group of people in circumstances which arise out of emergencies, why are we not willing to extend that same protection to other personnel also involved in providing protection in emergency circumstances to the public? And if we have an opportunity to do it, then I would think: let's do it. That's not to take anything away from the first group of people. Why wouldn't we include others if we could and are able to offer protection to more than one group?

The Deputy Speaker: Under Standing Order 29(2)(a) the hon. Member for Edmonton-Manning.

Mr. Backs: Mr. Speaker, I'd also like to respond to that.

The Deputy Speaker: You can have a question or a comment.

Mr. Backs: I'll ask a question then, you know, in the sense of some of the areas that have been covered by the Member for Edmonton-Centre. Clearly, what we see in the many, many new types of materials we have out today, you know, the causes for heart attacks can be increased quite a bit. I find it very difficult that the Member for Cardston-Taber-Warner would not like to see an extension to volunteer firefighters, would not like to see an extension to police officers, would not like to see an extension to EMTs. I think that, clearly, the presumptive nature of this . . . [interjections] I'm asking this question of that member, and I can comment briefly.

The Deputy Speaker: Edmonton-Manning has the floor, and he can ask a question or make a comment under Standing Order 29(2)(a). Please proceed.

Mr. Backs: Thank you, Mr. Speaker. The presumption that is part of this in extending it to other emergency personnel does not in any way take away from firefighters, and I think that must be made clear. To extend that presumptive coverage for even just 24 hours to other emergency personnel I think only improves this legislation and only improves how the WCB act will work because I think that we must recognize those things.

I guess my question would be to the Member for Cardston-Taber-Warner. Do you not want to see it extended to volunteer firefighters?

The Deputy Speaker: Hon. member, the question would be directed to the original speaker. If you have a question, it should be to Edmonton-Centre. Anyone can make a question or a comment based on the original speaker's comments, not on a previous questioner.

On 29(2)(a), or do you wish to speak on the bill?

Mr. Hinman: I wish to speak on the bill.

The Deputy Speaker: Okay. If there's no more on 29(2)(a), I recognize the Member for Cardston-Taber-Warner on the bill.

Mr. Hinman: Thank you, Mr. Speaker. I just had a few comments where it says in section 24.1(1)(a) that "firefighter means an employee, including officers and technicians." Being from rural Alberta, the majority of our firefighters there are volunteers. I'm very concerned. I've had discussion on that, and people say, "Oh, well, out in the country they don't risk as much or as often." I don't think it's about the number of times. I can tell you from my own experience in rural Alberta that those volunteer firefighters there put their lives on the line just as much and just as willingly as any employee.

I wonder about changing it from "means an employee" to "means a worker, including officers and technicians." It goes on: works for the municipality. They don't get paid, so they're not an employee. If there's some way of changing that to just being a worker for the municipal area, that would cover the volunteers. I guess that's where my biggest concern is: we're leaving a vast amount of people out there that do their work risking their lives.

I would like to see some amendment in order to include the volunteer firefighters because I believe that they're a very admirable group, and we should definitely be extending it to them.

The Deputy Speaker: Any comments on Standing Order 29(2)(a)? Just for clarity, hon. members, Standing Order 29(2)(a) doesn't specifically define brevity. It says that comments and questions should be brief, but as it doesn't define it specifically, I would suggest that under a minute would be considered brief by the chair.

The hon. Member for Edmonton-Rutherford.

Mr. R. Miller: Thank you, Mr. Speaker. I think my colleagues on this side of the House have pretty much covered the points that I wanted to make. There's been a lot of discussion about groups that are not included in the bill as it sits before us, and I'd like to add one more if I could. That would be MLAs that are invited to the firefighter training day at the Poundmaker's Centre and might experience a heart attack within 24 hours of the training exercise.

Thanks to Mr. Block and his tremendous team of volunteers several of the MLAs in this House as well as a number of other local and, in fact, national politicians were invited to spend a day at the Poundmaker's Centre, experiencing some of what firefighters in this province and across this country experience daily. I must say, Mr. Speaker, that it certainly brought a much greater understanding to myself and those that attended as to what the firefighters and other emergency personnel go through.

I, myself, sat through the live-burn exercise with the Deputy Prime Minister on my right-hand side. I remember thinking to myself: "I'll be fine. They're not going to let anything happen to the Deputy Prime Minister. If something goes wrong with this live-burn exercise," which, they were kind enough to share with us, was the first one they had every done with VIPs, "they'll definitely come in to rescue us because the Deputy Prime Minister is sitting right beside me." Then, on second thought, I realized that if anything did go wrong, they were probably going to tramp all over the newly elected Member for Edmonton-Rutherford in order to rescue the Deputy Prime Minister. So I once again considered having a heart attack.

It is certainly an opportunity for me to recognize the work that these fine gentlemen and their colleagues do, Mr. Speaker, and I didn't want to let that go by without doing so. Thank you.

The Deputy Speaker: Any comments or questions under 29(2)(a)?
The hon. Member for Calgary-North Hill.

Mr. Magnus: Thank you, Mr. Speaker. To close debate on this, I appreciate all the questions I got, in particular from the Member for Edmonton-Manning, very good questions. There were some questions to do with volunteer firefighters and whether they should be covered and, in fact, other professions within emergency procedures, whether we're talking police officers or medical personnel. I want everyone here to remember that while I applaud the way you're thinking because, frankly, I would like to see them all get it, we don't willy-nilly walk out of the House and assign benefits to everybody that we'd like to just because they're nice folks.

You have to remember that when a firefighter goes to a call, not unlike a police officer or an emergency medical technician, they're also hearing a bell. Granted, that will take their heart rate up, but again – and the Member for Edmonton-Rutherford mentioned it – they are wearing 70 pounds worth of equipment. They are running into the fire, not out of the fire. Their breathing is somewhat limited because of the mask that they wear. I'm sure the Member for Edmonton-Rutherford would verify that. I didn't have to wait until I got home to think I was having a heart attack. It was happening right there, and I was just happy to get out of there at the end of the day. They thought my big smile was because I was having fun. It was because we were done at that point.

In any event, tomorrow we'll be, I believe, in committee stage on this bill. I'd love to get up and answer these questions, and I will look over the Hansard after tonight and make sure that we've got every single one of your questions answered on here.

As I say, the only thing I can say about the volunteers as well as putting police officers and emergency medical technicians in it is: great, except that I can prove it going back to 1920 based on a whole series of studies, Guidotti is one of them and the biggest one, and a number of other studies that say that firefighters get this more than other professions. I believe that they deserve this special coverage. Frankly, as I say, I'm not opposed to the others. I'm just saying that we can prove one and can't prove the other.

I've already moved second. Thank you, Mr. Speaker. I'll close debate.

[Motion carried; Bill 50 read a second time]

9:30

Bill 43
Alberta Resource Rebate Statutes
Amendment Act, 2005

[Adjourned debate November 16: Mr. Miller]

The Deputy Speaker: The hon. Member for Edmonton-Centre.

Ms Blakeman: Thanks very much, Mr. Speaker. I'm pleased to get an opportunity to bring some of the comments of my constituents forward into the debate on this Bill 43, the Alberta Resource Rebate Statutes Amendment Act, 2005. I have to say, Mr. Speaker, that overwhelmingly the reaction from my constituents was not in favour of these rebates, and I've tabled some of the letters in the House. They raised concerns about: why wasn't this money being pooled or put into things like libraries, smaller class sizes? So there are a number of them. [interjections] Well, I can see that people are getting very excited, and I am definitely looking forward to having the Minister of RAGE get up and join the debate, seeing that he's so energetic in his heckling tonight. I'm sure he can manage to join in.

They raised a number of concerns both about the choice of using a rebate as a way of dealing with, essentially, very good resource revenue – part of their concern was where the money was coming from and that that is not an infinite source of money – but also about the choice to give it back individually to Albertans rather than pooling the money, investing it in things, as I've mentioned, like hospitals or child care or smaller class sizes. Libraries was one I remember particularly; that was one of the letters that I tabled in the House. So most of what we heard was overwhelmingly not in favour of these rebates.

I also want to stop and point out that I was invited to speak to a group that meets regularly in my constituency called Pathways. This is run by – I'm not going to get this right; I'm sorry – I think it's the city of Edmonton, but it could be Canadian Mental Health, and my apologies for not remembering the sponsoring organization. It's a kind of meeting and activity opportunity for people in the downtown core who are struggling with mental health issues. I met with them, and they were some very passionate, impassioned speakers on this who said, well, fairly bluntly that I should, you know, give my head a rub because these people are really struggling with finances and they need that 400 bucks and who am I to say that they shouldn't get it?

I agree. I'm not saying that they shouldn't get it, but we talked a lot about the appropriateness of this choice and the fact that having that debate doesn't negate that they need this money at all. They had to make it clear to me that this money is important to them, and with the cost of utilities – thank you so much for electrical deregulation; boy, that was a winner – that's really affected people and their ability to get by on the income they have. They wanted it clearly pointed out that they need that money and that they want that money. I feel obliged to bring their point of view into the Assembly and to put it on the record because I respect what they were saying to me. As always, I'm trying to balance what my constituents are saying.

So here I had most of them going: "Bad idea. Should have been invested elsewhere. Really don't want to see this go forward." And a very distinct group of people are saying: "We need this, and you have to respect that you have created the situation where we are now people in need. Don't take that money away from us. It's going to be groceries." This is not an iPod to them. This is not a colour television to them. This is not a payment on their car or a weekend in Jasper. This is an electricity bill. This is food. This is rent. So very basic needs. There was a series of questions today talking about poverty in the midst of plenty, and that situation is really underlined for me when I look at the points that were raised by those folks at Pathways. So I wanted to get that on the record.

I think that to me what this discussion has raised more than anything is that we need a natural resource revenue policy more than a surplus policy. This has evolved, and I'll admit that, Mr. Speaker. This started from an initial discussion and particularly, obviously, with the Liberals that we needed a surplus policy. We did in fact have a very good surplus policy in the last election, and we got a lot of points for that. But I think we've evolved beyond that in the last year. What I'm looking into and considering with some of my colleagues is the idea of a natural resource revenue policy. The idea behind that is that, really, those natural resources, those dinosaurs that died that long ago to produce all of this for us . . .

An Hon. Member: Nonrenewable resource revenue.

Ms Blakeman: Nonrenewable resource revenue. Thank you.

It's our ancestors', it's ours, and it's our descendants'. Our ancestors didn't go through it nearly as fast as we are. We're going through it at an amazing rate, and there likely won't be much at all or maybe nothing for our descendants.

To me the idea that is inherent in this bill has really brought forward the need for us to establish a very clear nonrenewable resource revenue policy. We know that those resources are limited. I mean, let's face it: you can't get oil out of the ground at five bucks a barrel anymore. That oil is gone. You can't get it out of the ground for 10 bucks a barrel anymore. That oil is gone. That was the easy stuff. That was where you stuck a stick in, and the oil just shot out of the ground. That stuff was easy, and it's gone. Now we're looking at all kinds of ideas where we're going to inject water down, where we're going to inject CO₂ down there. We're going to inject all kinds of things, which is basically to sort of get underneath the oil or the gas and bring it up so that we can pump it out of the earth. This is not an infinite resource that will flow forever for us.

Inside of, really, two generations we've seen an enormous depletion of that stock. I think we need to deal with that, and we need to understand that we are spending both the money that our ancestors didn't spend – they were more frugal – but more frighteningly we are spending our descendants' share of that. I think it's more important that we take it and set it aside. Now, however much that is – and that's what the debate needs to be – do you take the nonrenewable natural resource revenue and say: okay, we're going to set 50 per cent of it aside or 30 per cent or 80 per cent? I don't know. That's what the discussion should be. Set that aside in endowment funds. Either separate it out for various ideas or one big lump or put it all in the heritage fund or whatever you want to do with it. Then you're able to take the interest that's generated off that and flow it out into other things.

You know, that's when you can start looking at what Norway did and what Alaska has done. Alaska is giving the personal dividends every year, and I think Norway is getting rid of its income tax because they can replace the amount of money with what they're making from the interest on their resource revenue now.

I was very frustrated to see such a simplistic, short-term idea come out of the government on this one. It's purely PR. If you want to go with the argument that, well, you know, we have a surplus, which meant that we overtaxed you and therefore we should rebate some of your taxes back to you – but the Treasurer herself has said: really, we don't now collect enough income tax from people, and we don't have any room to be reducing that any more. Really, this extra money, this surplus money, has come as a result of that nonrenewable resource, and we need to recognize that.

9:40

There's a legacy for the Premier: put in place something like that. That really would last beyond our generation and well into future generations. It really would ensure the prosperity of Alberta for – who knows? – centuries to come. But at the rate we're doing it right now, we're just pulling that resource out, turning it into cash, and spending it. The argument that, well, if you give the resource revenue to people, they'll spend it here and the money will circulate in the economy – oh, really? Okay. But what if we go with the iPod argument? I mean, let's face it. For the people who make the money off those iPods or the televisions, that money is not circulating in this economy. It's going to whoever, to the shareholders of that company in the U.S. or in multinational corporations. That's not staying in Alberta. Yes, some people probably will use it to pay their electricity bills or their rent, and in that case it is going to stay here and circulate in our economy, but those are the very people that I started out talking about to begin with, Mr. Speaker.

So I don't think this is a good idea. I don't think it's showing leadership. I actually think that it's backward thinking. It's old style, old boy thinking, and we need to move forward. I'm very conscious of the students and the younger people that are living in my constituency that challenge that old way of thinking all the time, who are very environmentally alive to repercussions and consequences of choices that we make, especially around those nonrenewable resources. They don't have a lot of patience for us when we make decisions like this because they're going: "We're not going to have the same environment. You guys will have done things to it that will forever change it." They're much more interested in environmental protection and moving forward.

What I want to see is the prosperity of Alberta in the future. I'm really impressed by what the Alberta heritage resource – I'm going to get this wrong; I'm sorry, Mr. Speaker – the medical research body that just made announcements of new scholarships . . .

Mr. Doerkson: The Heritage Foundation for Medical Research.

Ms Blakeman: Thank you. That's excellent. Thank you to whoever that came from. We'll put that one into Hansard. I think it was the Minister of Innovation and Science.

That had value added to it because what's happened is that people have started to come to Alberta because those scholarships are available, and that organization becomes an economic driver on its own. It starts a cluster of like-minded organizations, businesses, and individuals who come to gather around that because they all start to work with each other.

I start to think: wow. Okay. That's medical research. What if we looked at alternative forms of energy and set up a similar foundation to do that kind of work and set up something to do the same sort of work in the arts? I mean, I know how much work and what a driver and a vitalizer of our culture the arts can be, an excellent opportunity there, and we can't seem to draw any funding money out of them beyond what they've been funding since 1988. So maybe that's another way to go at future possibilities for the arts in the province.

There's enormous possibility there, which gives me great hope. When I look at very narrow thinking, like this rebate, I get extremely frustrated because it is not moving us forward in any of those directions. So I'm looking forward to the debate because I'm hoping I'm going to hear some brilliance from the other side. You know, I'll be honest with you: I'm hoping that. It is getting close to Christmas, and sometimes there are Santa Clauses, but I'm not entirely confident that I'm going to hear that. We've heard a lot of rhetoric. We've already seen the government spend a lot of money – like, a lot of money – advertising this rebate. I mean, how bad is a rebate when the government has to do an advertising program to convince us that it was a great thing? How bad is that? Like, that's pretty miserable if they have to spend our own money to convince us that this was a good idea. If there's no other indicator than that, I think we could say that the program has failed and is not a great idea, based simply on that.

An Hon. Member: And $10 million is ridiculous.

Ms Blakeman: Well, the books will show eventually how much money has been spent on this because there are all kinds of numbers that get bandied about. I mean, $10 million: I think that would have printed the brochures. You know, if we're going to talk television time and production and all the rest, consultants, I bet you the final bill is way higher than that.

An Hon. Member: And you'll have to FOIP it.

Ms Blakeman: Yeah. Well, we'll likely have to FOIP it because it's always hard to tickle that kind of information out in Public Accounts, but we'll try.

You know, I find it interesting how often this government has to employ communication specialists to convince us of something that they're already doing.

Thank you, Mr. Speaker.

The Deputy Speaker: Hon. members, Standing Order 29(2)(a) is available. Before I recognize anyone under that, I would advise that I've been advised by counsel that questions and comments under Standing Order 29(2)(a) would be restricted to about 30 seconds, so I'll be asking us all to strive for that time frame as well.

Anyone under 29(2)(a)? The hon. Member for Calgary-Mountain View.

Dr. Swann: I would like to take the opportunity to ask the hon. Member for Edmonton-Centre what this investment would do in the arts, social sciences, and culture community in Alberta that this $400 rebate would not accomplish in individual gifts?

The Deputy Speaker: The hon. member, briefly.

Ms Blakeman: Thank you. I can say right now I can't answer that in 30 seconds, Mr. Speaker.

Well, we know that, for example, to create a job – and this is a well-known statistic – in the arts sector is $30,000. To create it in the manufacturing sector is $200,000. So if you start to look at the amount of activity that can be generated from an endowment fund or a research foundation, such as I was discussing, it's almost endless. When we look at what we're so proud of in this province right now in our arts and our cultural sector, like Head-Smashed-In Buffalo Jump and a lot of those ideas, they all came at a time when we had a government in place that understood the value of the arts and invested in it heavily. From that we have most of the things that everybody likes to tout as being amazing right now, but we haven't added to that in any significant manner in the last 10 years.

I'm sorry. That's not as lengthy as I would like to get, but I can hear the mutterings from over there on the time.

The Deputy Speaker: Anyone else under 29(2)(a)?

Anyone on the bill? The hon. Minister of Restructuring and Government Efficiency.

Mr. Ouellette: Mr. Speaker, I just want to add a little bit to the debate here and say that I believe that this is a very, very good bill. I'm going to try and be brief and go back a little bit. Before I was an MLA, when you'd sit in the coffee shops and were in the coffee circles and listened when people got into conversations about politics, what always came up was: why does the government with all their wisdom believe that they can spend our money better than we can? Everybody always says: if there's extra money there, why wouldn't they give it to us so we can spend it? When you explain it properly to people that way, when you can say: "You know what? You may not need the money. Maybe you believe that your hospital needs a little bit of money or your school or your library or maybe someone down the block that is just on a hard-luck day today. You can walk down there and you can give them your $400." A lot of people say: "That's right. Maybe I don't need it, but at least I get to spend it the way I want to, not a bunch of other people saying they're way brighter than us, and we're going to put it into this one particular item."

So, Mr. Speaker, I do believe that this is a good bill, and everybody should be supporting this bill because people in Alberta are brighter than a lot of other people give them credit for.

9:50

You know, there was a bunch of rhetoric going on about our using up all of our nonrenewable resources. Today, Mr. Speaker, with the technology we have, we have more reserves and resources than we've ever had, and with one ounce more of technology we will have the most reserves in the world. We talk about our depleting natural gas. With the technology we have today in coal-bed methane, we have larger reserves than ever.

So, Mr. Speaker, I think we've just listened to a bunch of rhetoric in some cases. We have a good bill here. That's all I needed to have on the record.

Thank you.

The Deputy Speaker: Under 29(2)(a), the hon. Member for Cardston-Taber-Warner.

Mr. Hinman: I guess I just have to ask the hon. member: when he says that this is a good bill and that the people are so wise in Alberta, which I agree with, why don't we give it all back, then, and follow that line of thinking and get rid of so many government programs? We're taking so much so that we can give so much. I don't follow. Either it's good or it isn't. Earlier this spring when the Finance minister was asked about this, there was no way.

I guess I'll go back to Bastiat where he talks about legal plunder, where a government takes the money through legal means as under tax laws and redistributes it. Redistribution of wealth has never worked anywhere in the world. Why does it work here? If we've got overtaxed people, which is what a surplus is, that the government is taking in more than it's spending, it should go back to those who have been taxed. And $1.4 billion was collected on property taxes, which could have gone back. So is that a good bill, I ask you.

Mr. Ouellette: I would like to say to the hon. member across the way that we do have a surplus, and we're using the surplus very wisely to try and give to all of the people the necessities that they believe they need. I also want to remind my hon. colleague across the way that we do live in a province with the lowest taxes in the country.

Mr. Elsalhy: I would like to ask the hon. Minister of Restructuring and Government Efficiency pursuant to his statement if some of his constituents, before or after he became an MLA – you know, they're asking them to take the money and spend it as they wish – really mentioned that better they blow the money rather than leave it with the government to blow it themselves.

Mr. Ouellette: They never ever say: give me the money to blow the money. They say: I can make good use of that money.

I also want to say that my constituents aren't all in agreement, but when I sit down and speak to them and explain that they can do whatever they like with this money, they understand it much better.

The Deputy Speaker: The hon. Member for Edmonton-Manning, Standing Order 29(2)(a).

Mr. Backs: Thank you, Mr. Speaker. The Minister of RAGE criticized some of the so-called experts that have said that this is basically throwing gasoline on the fire of a very, very active and very, very hot economy, and money that's thrown onto such a fire disappears into the steam of the fire and the burn of that economy that's so hot. My question is: why does it take so much money to try to sell this to Albertans? Why did our government have to spend so, so much money to sell this to Albertans even at the same time when there's no money in supplementary spending being spent in the whole Human Resources and Employment department at all, where we could be alleviating some of the poverty, alleviating some of the difficulties that many families still have in the midst of our plenty, and ensuring that all families have the Alberta advantage?

Mr. Ouellette: Mr. Speaker, there was so much in front there that I was wondering if he was ever going to get to the question, and I'm lost in his question.

I will have to say that I don't think I've criticized or said anything about any fires or smoke or money going anywhere. But I will say that because of all the rhetoric that does come across sometimes, we do have to publicize some of the good things that this government does. It wasn't strictly all the $1.4 billion that's going to this bill.

The Deputy Speaker: Does anyone wish to participate in the debate? The hon. Member for Edmonton-McClung.

Mr. Elsalhy: Thank you, Mr. Speaker. I followed with keen interest the previous speakers who spoke on Bill 43, the Alberta Resource Rebate Statutes Amendment Act, 2005. To start off, I think this whole idea was probably thought of in a good way, but it came on hasty and rash. However, I am thankful that it created a bit of buzz around the province, that it stimulated discussions by the water coolers and around kitchen tables, discussions that were missed for quite a while and that ended up restoring some level of interest in the Legislature, the political scene, and policy debate.

As I was thinking about some sound bites to put into my speech, which is basically a practice that government members do all the time, and we're learning from the pros – we are going to give a rebate to the people of this province. Why not give them a rebate from the interest of a savings fund? Not the principal itself. How much could we have paid every single Albertan year after year from a dividend fund that we invested $1.4 billion in over many, many years?

The government gave a rebate, and some people are grateful for it, but it lacks vision. It lacks direction. It lacks clarity and structure. The government doesn't have a strategy for the future. They're thinking to the next fiscal quarter, not to the next quarter century.

During the provincial election in the fall of last year the Alberta Liberals pioneered a plan that would allocate the resource surpluses year after year with a formula. Thirty-five per cent of the surplus would go into the heritage trust fund, which, I should mention, was established in 1976 and did not grow since. It's basically shrinking because today's dollars are weaker than 25 or 30 years ago. Thirty-five per cent of that surplus would go into a postsecondary education endowment fund. I know that the hon. Minister of Advanced Education worked on a plan that mimics that. Again, why stop there?

Twenty-five per cent would go into a capital account to eliminate the infrastructure debt. We all know that there was an idea floated by the hon. Minister of Infrastructure and Transportation to go back into debt, which the government referred to as good debt. I have to disagree. No debt is good, and they themselves signed a law that prohibits this province from going into debt again.

We are going to invest 5 per cent of the annual budget surplus, up to $500 million, into an endowment fund for the humanities, social sciences, and arts, which have taken a back seat in any budget debate in this province.

Other surplus ideas that we can investigate would be to eliminate the health care premiums, like the hon. Member for Edmonton-Centre said, or novel ideas like helping out our municipalities, which are crying for more support and more money. Edmonton's mayor, Calgary's mayor, and many of the mayors and reeves across the province are asking for more support from the government.

Having said that, I have to emphasize that I and my colleagues in the Official Opposition do not begrudge those who are eagerly awaiting the arrival of the $400 cheques. These people, many of whom are low-income earners or people on assistance, deserve all the support they can get from this province, not just a lousy $400.

The underlying question I constantly ask myself is: why do we in this province in this day and age have people living from paycheque to paycheque or from one assistance stub to the next? Why is there poverty in the midst of prosperity? The Alberta advantage should extend to all Albertans. It is unacceptable in my opinion to let this type of need go unnoticed or unaddressed. I respect the fact that $400 can go a long way in paying for electricity and natural gas to light and heat peoples' homes or buy clothes for their children or send them to school with something in their lunch boxes or lessen the impact of escalating school fees on those parents, et cetera.

10:00

In the Calgary Herald on the Friday, October 21, editorial page they wrote that by itself, "spending would never work as a strategy" and that it would "greatly inflate the size of government and pour too much fuel on an overheating provincial economy." In other words, they say, $400 that was not planned is going to be inflationary.

We have to think beyond our current riches. The hon. Minister of RAGE indicated that we're on the verge of having the most natural resource reserves in the world, rivalling places like Saudi Arabia, for example. Fine. But these resources are nonrenewable. Even if we're discovering more today and tomorrow and the day after, they're eventually going to disappear. The resource is finite. It has a limit, and it's going to dwindle.

We have to shift our focus and our thinking from a resource-based economy to an idea-based economy, diversifying for the future, preparing for the day when these resources dwindle to a really low level or become uneconomical to harvest or extract. Take a place like Japan, for example, a country that is really small with very rugged terrain, mountains. It almost doesn't support any form of agriculture, and they don't have resources like we do here. But look at Japan now. They came out of a world war. They were battered. They were divided. But they grew out of their pain and out of their experience into a superpower. They have the best technology in the world. Most brands and most products that we buy here, even automobiles, are made in Japan. Why is Japan such a superpower, and why can't we be?

The Calgary Herald also mentioned on October 13 that people who traditionally support conservative philosophy, like the Canada West Foundation, for example, are surprisingly opposed to this move to spend $1.4 billion on the prosperity cheques. They conducted a poll of 507 people, and 51 per cent of the people who replied to that poll did not want the money to stay with the government. They wanted it spent on programs and much-needed services or, in fact, wanted some of it in the form of a dividend. So 51 per cent of the people did not want the money to stay with the government. I asked the hon. minister if that meant that they think that they should spend it and shouldn't leave it in the arms of the government, and he declared that, yes, people are smart and they should make their own decisions, and I respect that.

However, why don't we, as I mentioned, invest some of the money in expanding or growing the Alberta heritage savings trust fund? The hon. Member for Edmonton-Centre mentioned places like Alaska and Norway. These places can pay dividends in the tens of thousands of dollars to every citizen every year if they choose to.

Mr. R. Miller: You know they rake a billion dollars out of that fund every year.

Mr. Elsalhy: Yes. One billion dollars comes out of that fund every year that is shared with the citizens of those jurisdictions.

In Alberta since 1976, 91 per cent of all the revenues from reserves that we received were spent and are unrecoverable. The decision was arbitrary. It was an ad hoc decision that was apparently opposed even in the Conservative caucus itself. When we received our training as opposition MLAs when we first joined, we were clearly cautioned against making policy on the fly without proper and exhaustive research. This decision was driven or led by the Premier himself against advice from his own caucus.

Again quoting the Calgary Herald – and I'm intentionally not choosing Edmonton publications because people say that the Alberta Liberals are concentrated in Edmonton, so I'm quoting the Calgary Herald: "Premier Ralph Klein's decision abandons [the] most cherished conservative principles, not least of which is fiscal responsibility."

The Deputy Speaker: Hon. member, we don't use proper names in this Assembly.

Mr. Elsalhy: Okay. I apologize.

Also, there is another line that says that the outcry has been fiercest from the very sectors that would normally favour the return of funds to private hands – the business community. The Chamber of Commerce and probusiness think-tanks like the Canada West Foundation are opposed to that idea. I find this really interesting.

Also, now quoting the Edmonton Journal, Scott Hennig, the Alberta director of the Canadian Taxpayers Federation, wrote in the Edmonton Journal on October 2:

If your government unfairly imposes a regressive $528 "premium" and then refunds you $400 of [that money] as a "prosperity rebate," do you thank them?

If it is a tax your government has been imposing for many years and in fact raised by 29 per cent in 2002, never before refunding you one cent, then perhaps you do thank [the government], ignoring the fact that you are still $128 in the hole.

What the government has done, what the Premier has done is basically refund 80 per cent of the health care premiums that the government collected for 2005, to be released back to the people who paid that health care premium in early 2006. Only 80 per cent of it was refunded. Why not scrap the whole thing? Like the Advanced Education minister is freezing tuition rates, why not cancel health care premiums like they did for the seniors and extend that to everybody in this province?

They are spending a lot of money to distribute these resource rebate cheques. I think this money could have been better spent to cover more operations; for example, people on waiting lists. They could have extended the hot lunch program. They could have waived school fees. We have many better uses. Had we been consulted, we would have offered them to the government gladly, but they chose to arbitrarily decide this and go for it. They didn't realize that most of the people in this province don't like this idea because it was not thought out.

Thank you, Mr. Speaker. I'll listen for more discussion.

The Deputy Speaker: Any questions or comments under 29(2)(a)?
The hon. Member for Edmonton-Calder.

Mr. Eggen: Thank you, Mr. Speaker. I rise with great interest to speak on Bill 43 here in the second reading. Usually I try to look for some sense of balance in respect to a bill being put forward. I like to be optimistic, to think that most bills have some element of the public's best interest in them, but I really believe that this Bill 43 is overshadowed by the fact that it enacts the very worst kind of politicized spending in this Legislature. I'm quite frankly appalled, from the moment that it came forward to this moment where I have the opportunity to speak on it. Clearly, it demonstrates a lack of vision and a lack of a plan for spending. As I say, it represents the very worst kind of politicization of the spending that goes on in here, and I find it, quite frankly, appalling.

The worst of it is that this money is so desperately needed by many Albertans. Albertans have struggled in the face of higher utility costs, ever-increasing school fees, the health care premium tax, higher fees for long-term care, the highest auto insurance rates in western Canada, and all other ways that this government has put costs and downloaded costs onto regular Albertans. So we're in a bit of a quandary. What are Albertans being offered in return? A one-time payment that would not even probably cover most people's utility bills for more than a couple of months.

10:10

The NDP has put forward a number of solid proposals that would provide real relief from the squeeze that many of us feel on our pocketbooks. I would suggest that these are practical solutions that we should consider in this House. Number one – and this crosses right across political boundaries – scrap health care premiums, a saving of $528 for every Albertan this year: approximate cost of $850 million. Please note that effective October 1 all seniors and some low-income Albertans are partially exempt from paying these premiums, but still two and a half million Albertans are paying these full premiums. We don't need this sort of flat tax on everyone, a head tax so to speak, and everybody would be most relieved. I'm sure everyone's constituents on both sides of the House would appreciate this more than anything else on an ongoing basis.

Number two, cut the provincial school property taxes at least by half. Savings for residential property owners would be about 500 bucks per year. Scrapping school property taxes completely nearly doubles those savings.

Number three, increase the basic personal income tax exemption to $20,000 from $14,000. At the current 10 per cent flat tax rate this would represent a saving of about $550 per individual taxpayer per annum in Alberta personal income taxes and a yearly total revenue loss of about $750 million to the province.

Mr. Speaker, considering the serious circumstances that many people are in, I realize the importance and necessity of accepting these one-time cheque payouts as proposed by Bill 43. However, there are so many better ways that we could structure our financial future here in this province. I would suggest that we would have the opportunity to give out something like a dividend or a rebate on perhaps even an annual or biannual basis if we collected a reasonable return for the oil and gas revenues that companies are extracting from this province and paying a bargain basement rate for. If we were able to look at those royalty rates in a reasonable way and not give out these fire-sale prices to large companies, who are laughing all the way to the bank – and that money is passing right out of this province; it never even touches the ground – then we would be able to give out rebate cheques and benefits to our citizens on an annual basis.

So, Mr. Speaker, for the sake of brevity I just wanted to express my absolute disgust with the means by which this is happening. I recognize the necessity of it. Many of my constituents are certainly eagerly anticipating this cheque to meet the extra costs that have been downloaded on them for many years. But let's try to do something that is a little more permanent, a little bit lasting, and something responsible that young individuals can look up to and say that we're doing something for the future and not just for the immediate, political present.

Thank you.

The Deputy Speaker: Comments or questions under Standing Order 29(2)(a)? The hon. Member for Red Deer-North.

Mrs. Jablonski: Thank you. I just wanted to ask the hon. member: if he's so disgusted with the cheque, I wondered if he had already planned what he was going to do with his.

Mr. Eggen: I don't think I have to necessarily tell you what I'm going to do with my finances, thank you very much. I certainly think that there are a lot of reasonable ways that I can spend that money in a constructive manner, but you can make your own choice. I'm not going to tell you. I don't need to tell you necessarily what I'm going to do with my money. Right?

Ms Blakeman: Give us some examples of how you're going to do it.

Mr. Eggen: There are many things that certainly have passed through my fertile imagination. First of all, I could invest it in change, and I would invest perhaps, you know, in different charities that could use the money. I would look for ways to invest it in certain political parties that could make real, lasting political change in this province. I do have some political parties that I do like to invest in. I was just discussing that with my honourable friend over here. I always like to make investments in the Alberta Alliance Party, who I appreciate very much. Absolutely.

The Deputy Speaker: The hon. Member for Peace River.

Mr. Oberle: Thank you, Mr. Speaker. I'd like to congratulate the hon. member for his wise choices and for his fertile imagination. I would just like to ask him why it is that he seems to think he's the only Albertan that's capable of making such wise choices in what to do with the prosperity bonus.

The Deputy Speaker: The hon. member.

Mr. Eggen: Thank you, Mr. Speaker. I certainly didn't say anything to that regard whatsoever. I said that this is just a matter of taking some money, that some people wrote on the back of a napkin some kind of plan. "What are we going to do? I don't know. I don't know." Maybe someone lost the napkin in between, and then somehow at the end of the day we end up with this embarrassing politicized way of spending our money. That's what I said. I didn't say anything about people not being responsible. In fact, I think that Albertans are responsible to know exactly what this is all about. It does not pass the smell factor.

Thank you.

The Deputy Speaker: Anyone else on 29(2)(a)?

The hon. Member for Grande Prairie-Smoky.

Mr. Knight: Thank you, Mr. Speaker. One of the members across the floor was saying that she was looking for some brilliance. Unfortunately, you won't find any brilliance sitting my chair, but I do want to join in the debate and make a couple of comments with respect to things that are said relative to a lack of a resource revenue policy.

Certainly, anybody living in the province of Alberta that's paid any attention whatsoever to what this government has been doing in the last four or five years would at the very least understand that we have in place and are following a 20-year strategic plan. That plan is our policy, and that plan does include a policy to deal with resource revenues. Mr. Speaker, the plan is based on four solid pillars: unleashing innovation, leading in learning, competing in a global marketplace, and being the best place in which to live, work, and visit.

Mr. Speaker, this government went out some time ago. We've consulted with the public in Alberta on all of these major issues. Whether or not other people like to agree with the consultation or if they disagree with what the people of the province of Alberta are asking us to do, then I'm sure that, you know, they can pick all sorts of holes in what it is that we do.

It's Your Money was a circular sent out to Albertans, and it was one of the most subscribed to pieces of information that we had asked people to respond to as a government, to tell us what they thought we should do with their money.

Subsequent to the strategic plan and subsequent to asking Albertans that question, we brought in an additional plan. It is a plan, Mr. Speaker, and it has been activated, and the results today are already noticeable and in 20 years will be spectacular. We had made a commitment to Albertans on a number of different capital expenditures for infrastructure around the province. With some of the surplus money we will fund the commitments already made.

Then, Mr. Speaker, we have a three-point plan. This is a plan that Albertans developed and this government developed with the help of Albertans, and we are moving forward on this plan. First of all, we're going to increase investment. We're going to save. We're going to increase investment in the infrastructure that is required in the province to meet the terms of our 20-year plan. If you have a solid plan with a solid foundation, with the four pillars, it has to have some investment in order to make it work. Albertans have asked us to make those investments, and we're doing that.

10:20

Secondly, what we're going to do is save, save for the future. Albertans asked us to save, and if you would spend even a little bit of time taking a look at what's happened with our surplus money, you would see that our endowments, Mr. Speaker, in many areas of endowment, have been and will continue to be bolstered and brought up to a level that will truly sustain them in the long term.

Mr. Speaker, after that, what Albertans want was to give back their money, and that's exactly what we're doing. We are giving back to Albertans a portion of the money that was rightfully their money brought into the provincial government through the resource revenue system.

Mr. Speaker, we need to be also cognizant of a fact here that a balance needs to be reached. When you're talking about going out and spending billions of dollars, which we already are, in infrastructure across the province, we would want to be sure. It's been mentioned by members across the aisle that in a heated economy you need to have a balance of how much money you're going to put into capital. Sure, it would be great. Take the $1.4 billion, build more schools, build more hospitals, build whatever. However, we took a very calculated look and made the determination that the amount of money that this government is investing in capital projects in the province of Alberta now is what is doable and sustainable with the province's ability to absorb that capital investment.

So, Mr. Speaker, I think that the debate on this particular piece of the bill, of course, as we would understand, has led into a much, much broader arena. However, just looking at what we've done and the last piece of the plan that we laid out to give back to Albertans some of this resource revenue, I believe that this bill deserves support of the House.

Thank you.

The Deputy Speaker: Anyone under Standing Order 29(2)(a)?
Seeing none, the hon. Government House Leader.

Mr. Hancock: Thank you, Mr. Speaker. I'd move that we adjourn debate.

[Motion to adjourn debate carried]

head: Government Bills and Orders
Committee of the Whole

[Mr. Marz in the chair]

The Chair: I'd like to call the committee to order.

Bill 48
Justice of the Peace Amendment Act, 2005

The Chair: Are there any comments, questions, or amendments to be offered with respect to this bill? The hon. Deputy Government House Leader.

Mr. Stevens: Thanks, Mr. Chairman. I have some relatively brief comments. It seems to me that I outlined in some detail the history with respect to this bill in second and received a concurrence from the people who spoke in the opposition.

I think the clearest way to deal with the amendments in Bill 48, Mr. Chairman, is to discuss each amendment as it relates to the original section. There are only three sections to the act that are to be amended. Two of them are virtually the same, so the same amendments apply to both sitting and nonsitting JPs alike, and I outlined what that is in some detail in second reading.

With respect to section 7(5) currently this section provides that a person who was a nonsitting JP on January 31, 1999, under the old justice of the peace system shall be appointed and designated a presiding JP under the reformed system. The Judicial Council determines who is qualified to be a presiding JP.

The proposed amendment to this clause would clarify this transitional section. The amendment ensures that there is no continuing mandatory legal obligation to appoint as presiding JPs those persons who have become qualified after January 31, 1999. The amendment to this section will be retroactive to January 31, 1999.

The intention of the legislation when the justice of the peace system was reformed in 1999 was to have the Judicial Council make a determination as to whether the incumbent nonsitting JPs were qualified to be appointed as presiding JPs under the reformed system. Those determined to be qualified would be designated as presiding JPs in the reformed system. Those determined not to be qualified would be appointed as nonpresiding JPs in the reformed system. The Judicial Council made its determination and appointments were made.

As I mentioned in second reading, this provision was not intended to be long term. It was transitional, intended to ensure a smooth transition from the old to the new. The provision was not intended to require the appointment of incumbent JPs under the new system if they were not found to be qualified at the time of the 1999 reforms. If, since the 1999 reforms, a JP is found to be qualified by the Judicial Council, he or she may certainly apply for a new appointment at the presiding JP level. What we are clarifying is when the requirement to mandatorily appoint these JPs applies and when it does not. What we are saying is that now, six years after the stricter qualifications were brought in, those who now qualify can apply for an appointment along with other qualified candidates, but there is no legal obligation for them to be automatically appointed as presiding JPs.

Section 7(4) is being amended exactly as subsection (5), which I've just described. The wording of the amendment is the same and the rationale is the same. It merely applies to sitting JPs instead of presiding JPs. For consistency's sake, sitting and presiding JPs should be treated the same.

Section 15(1) is the only other clause that is being amended. Currently this section, which describes the regulation-making power of the Lieutenant Governor in Council, may not provide sufficient authority to make the regulation that has the affect of restricting the jurisdiction of sitting JPs. The amendment adds a specific regulation-making power to section 15(1), providing clear authority to issue the constitutional notice regulation under the Justice of the Peace Act. Constitutional notice regulation provides that justices of the peace are not assigned to determine matters related to aboriginal, constitutional, or Charter of Rights. The validity of the regulation has been challenged on the basis that such a regulation to be effective must be issued under the Justice of the Peace Act. The amendment merely clarifies the authority of this government to do this.

In conclusion, I would appreciate support for the bill as it currently is structured and look forward to comments from other members. Thank you.

The Chair: The hon. Member for Edmonton-Centre.

Ms Blakeman: Thanks very much, Mr. Chairman. I appreciate the opportunity to speak in Committee of the Whole to Bill 48, the Justice of the Peace Amendment Act, 2005. I have heard from my colleague who is the Official Opposition critic on this bill, that being the Member for Edmonton-Glenora, that he regarded this as a useful bill and did indeed support it. We would obviously have no problem with a bill that's ensuring that JPs are properly qualified for their responsibilities, ensuring that there is a proper appointment process, and being able to ensure that there is a way of distinguishing between presiding and sitting JPs.

I understand that a briefing was made available from the department to the critic. We have had the opportunity to check with some stakeholders in the community and to my knowledge there have been no issues raised that would be contrary to the passage of this bill, so at this time I'm happy to support Bill 48 in Committee of the Whole.

Thank you.

[The clauses of Bill 48 agreed to]

[Title and preamble agreed to]

The Chair: Shall the bill be reported? Are you agreed?

Hon. Members: Agreed.

The Chair: Opposed? Carried.

10:30

The Chair: The hon. Government House Leader.

Mr. Hancock: Thank you, Mr. Chairman. I'd move that the committee rise and report Bill 48.

[Motion carried]

[The Deputy Speaker in the chair]

Mr. Johnson: Mr. Speaker, the Committee of the Whole has had under consideration a certain bill. The committee reports the following bill: Bill 48.

The Deputy Speaker: Does the Assembly concur in the report?

Hon. Members: Concur.

The Deputy Speaker: Opposed? So ordered.

The hon. Government House Leader.

Mr. Hancock: Thank you, Mr. Speaker. In light of the hour I'd move that we adjourn until 1:30 p.m. tomorrow.

[Motion carried; at 10:32 p.m. the Assembly adjourned to Wednesday at 1:30 p.m.]

Legislative Assembly of Alberta

Title: Wednesday, November 23, 2005 1:30 p.m.

Date: 05/11/23

[The Speaker in the chair]

head: Prayers

The Speaker: Good afternoon.

Let us pray. Author of all wisdom, knowledge, and understanding, we ask for guidance in order that truth and justice may prevail in all of our judgments. Amen.

Please be seated.

head: Introduction of Visitors

Mr. Mar: Mr. Speaker, I rise today to introduce to you and through you to Members of the Legislative Assembly Mr. Brian Rushfeldt, a constituent of mine from Calgary-Mackay. Accompanying him today is an individual who is very familiar to you, Mr. Speaker, and to members of this Assembly, Mr. Julius Yankowsky, who served as a member of this Assembly from 1993 through 2004. I ask them to rise and please receive the usual warm welcome of this Assembly.

The Speaker: The hon. Minister of International and Intergovernmental Relations.

Mr. Stelmach: Thank you, Mr. Speaker. I have two introductions. The first guests are seated in your gallery. I am pleased to introduce to you and through you to members of this Assembly His Excellency Alan Baker, ambassador of Israel to Canada. His Excellency is accompanied by his wife, Ms Dalia Baker.

The ambassador is on his first official visit to Alberta. His Excellency has a very busy schedule in the next couple of days, building upon a $100 million trading relationship between Alberta and Israel. With his training in law His Excellency has been an important part of the state of Israel's search for Middle East peace. I'm looking forward to hosting an official luncheon for His Excellency tomorrow. In the meantime I would ask that our honoured visitors please rise and receive the traditional warm welcome of this Assembly.

Mr. Speaker, I have seated in the members' gallery two very special guests from the town of Tofield that I wish to introduce to you and through you to members of this Assembly. Seated are His Worship the mayor of the town of Tofield, Mr. Nabil Chehayeb, and accompanying him is Councillor Laurie Weatherill, tremendous volunteers in the town of Tofield who have served on council for some length of time. I would ask you to please rise and receive the traditional warm welcome of this Assembly.

head: Introduction of Guests

The Speaker: The hon. Minister of Agriculture, Food and Rural Development.

Mr. Horner: Thank you, Mr. Speaker. It's a pleasure for me to rise to introduce to you and through you a gentleman who has 28 years' experience as an education professional in our province and who happens to live in the Grande Prairie-Wapiti constituency, but with that member's indulgence I've been allowed to introduce this gentleman, who is also a journeyman mechanic with a red seal. He's spent a great deal of time advocating for vocational studies and industrial arts courses in our high schools. He's also someone that I referred to in my maiden speech in this House, almost five years ago, as someone who I'm very, very proud of, and that is my brother Rick Horner, who's seated in the members' gallery. I'd ask him to rise and receive the traditional warm welcome.

The Speaker: The hon. Minister of Infrastructure and Transportation.

Dr. Oberg: Thank you very much, Mr. Speaker. It gives me great pleasure to introduce to you and through you a gentleman who has been associated with my office for a considerable length of time. He is a former principal with the Edmonton public school system, and he is married to my assistant Sandy Semeluk. I would ask Len Semeluk to please stand and receive the very warm welcome of this Legislative Assembly.

The Speaker: The hon. Member for Drayton Valley-Calmar.

Rev. Abbott: Well, thank you, Mr. Speaker. It does give me great pleasure to rise on this glorious Alberta day. In fact, at noon the weatherman said that it would be the warmest on this day since 1890, so it's a great day to be travelling up here from Winfield. For guests to introduce today, I have visitors from Winfield school: 21 students accompanied by their teacher, Mrs. Terri Cocke, and the principal, Mr. Elwood Johnson, who was my former teacher when I went to Winfield school, and also parent helpers Mrs. Jeanette Chappell, Mrs. Kathleen Zimmerman, and Mrs. Brenda Hoflan. I'd ask them all to rise in the members' gallery and receive the warm welcome of the House.

The Speaker: The hon. Member for Leduc-Beaumont-Devon.

Mr. Rogers: Thank you, Mr. Speaker. It gives me great pleasure to introduce to you and through you to all members of this Assembly Mr. S.N. Sinha. Mr. Sinha is a lawyer who is visiting Alberta from Ranchi in Jharkhand state, India. I'd ask Mr. Sinha to stand and receive the traditional warm welcome of this Assembly.

The Speaker: The hon. Member for Edmonton-Centre.

Ms Blakeman: Thank you very much, Mr. Speaker. I'm very pleased today to introduce to you and through you to all members of the Assembly a class who is attending from NorQuest College today. I'm going to introduce them, and if they would please rise when I call their names: Prakash Awasthi, Hamid Chaudhry, Nancy Guan, Asish Kumar, Edgar Mosquera, Adnan Naeem, Shama Naqvi, Myoungbum Park, June Park, and Muhammad Sheikh. With them are their instructors, Allan Carlson and Margarita Cameron. Would you please join me in welcoming them to the Assembly.

I have a second introduction, if I may, Mr. Speaker. I'm pleased to welcome and introduce to you and through you to all members of the Assembly a student activist and keen follower of politics in Alberta. He's also been active with the Young Liberals. I would ask David Cournoyer to rise, please, and accept the warm welcome of the Assembly. He's accompanied today by my assistant Jane Wisener. Would you please rise.

The Speaker: The hon. Member for Edmonton-McClung.

Mr. Elsalhy: Thank you, Mr. Speaker. I am proud and honoured today to rise and introduce to you and through you 57 of my young friends from Ormsby elementary school in the constituency of Edmonton-McClung. They're here on a tour of the Legislature. They're joined by their teachers/group leaders, Ms Cathleen

Gardner, Mrs. Joanne Zuke, Ms Alana Eaton, Mr. Thomas Lock, and parent helper Mrs. Annette Vawter. I would ask them all to rise and receive the traditional warm welcome of this Assembly.

The Speaker: The hon. Member for Edmonton-Rutherford.

Mr. R. Miller: Thank you very much, Mr. Speaker. It is indeed my pleasure today to introduce to you and through you to all members of the Assembly 37 bright, energetic, and inquisitive young men and women from Duggan elementary school in the fabulous constituency of Edmonton-Rutherford. They are accompanied today by three teachers, Mme MacLaren, Ms Eliuk, and Mrs. Rattray, as well as parent helper Mr. Wesenberg. I would ask them to please rise and receive the warm welcome of this Assembly.

The Speaker: The hon. leader of the third party.

Mr. Mason: Thank you very much, Mr. Speaker. I'm pleased today to introduce to you and through you to this Assembly Laura Lowrie. Laura has been an active member of the United Food and Commercial Workers union local 401 for the past 24 years. She's been an ardent supporter of many NDP candidates, past and present, and is active in her community on a number of fronts. Some of the issues important to Laura include the entrenchment and improvement of worker rights and the preservation of the public, not-for-profit health care system. I'd now ask that Laura rise and receive the traditional warm welcome of this Assembly.

The Speaker: The hon. Member for Edmonton-Beverly-Clareview.

Mr. Martin: Thank you, Mr. Speaker. It gives me great pleasure to introduce to you and to members of the Assembly Mr. Don Stuike. Don is one of the directors of the Edmonton Friends of the North Environmental Society. He and others from his organization have collected signatures for a petition urging the government to declare a moratorium on any further expansion of confined feeding operations. He is seated in the members' gallery, and I would now ask that he rise and receive the traditional warm welcome of the Assembly.

1:40

The Speaker: The hon. Member for Edmonton-Calder.

Mr. Eggen: Thank you, Mr. Speaker. I have three introductions this afternoon, and perhaps I could get the three of them to rise at the end when I'm finished with the introductions.

First of all, I'm pleased to introduce to you and through you to the members of the Assembly Mr. Ben Howse. Ben is a lifelong resident of the Kikino Métis settlement. He is a third generation Métis advocate on issues and Métis rights. In particular, he is an advocate for self-governance and is a former board member of the aboriginal rights society.

Second of all, I'm happy to introduce Tracy Harris. Tracy has been assisting us in my constituency since September. She previously worked in the health field, for the last 16 years. Tracy is currently a student in the registered social work program at Grant MacEwan College.

Last but not least, Mr. Speaker, is Jennifer Binkley. Jennifer was born and raised in Edmonton and did much of her postsecondary studies in B.C. She completed the business management and legal secretary program and was working in banking. Jennifer decided to volunteer in my constituency as an assistant, and she did such excellent work that we recently decided to employ her at my office.

I'd now ask that Jennifer, Tracy, and Ben all rise and receive a warm welcome from this Assembly.

The Speaker: The hon. Member for Edmonton-Strathcona.

Dr. Pannu: Thank you very much, Mr. Speaker. I'm truly delighted today to introduce to you and through you to this Assembly Ms Donna Martyn. Donna and I have known each other since the '60s, when both of us were students at the University of Alberta in the same department. Donna is a schoolteacher and has taught across this province. She is also a passionate advocate for human rights issues in this province. She recently won a case through the Human Rights Commission against the Edmonton Taxi Cab Commission, the city of Edmonton, and two taxi companies who were found to be violating her human rights and the rights of those requiring accessible taxi service. Donna is also the NDP federal candidate in Edmonton Centre. Donna is seated in the members' gallery, in this corner. Please give her a warm welcome.

The Speaker: The hon. Member for Edmonton-Rutherford.

Mr. R. Miller: Thank you, Mr. Speaker. I have a further introduction, three very important individuals that I would like to introduce through you to all members of this Assembly. The first is a long-time supporter of my political career as well as a very active advocate and volunteer in the community. His name is Dr. Harb Sandhar. Dr. Sandhar is a member of the Gateway Rotary Club. In fact, he was a founding member of that club, which coincidentally celebrated its 20th anniversary this morning.

With him today is his daughter, Dr. Kulwinder Sandhar, who is a graduate from Punjabi University with a master of science in zoology and a PhD in immunology. We are fortunate to have her moving to Canada. She is quickly going back to India to be married on the 20th of December and then will be making her residence in Canada early next year.

As well, he has with him today a very special young lady who he refers to as his other daughter. Sophie Krzymien is a Rotary exchange student from Poland who is spending one year in Canada, sponsored by the Gateway Rotary Club. I had the honour, Mr. Speaker, of presenting Sophie with a centennial medallion this morning at the Rotary club. That was on behalf of the government of Alberta in recognition of her stay in Alberta during our centennial year.

They're in the members' gallery. I would ask all three to please rise and receive the warm welcome of the Assembly.

The Speaker: The hon. Member for Calgary-North Hill.

Mr. Magnus: Thank you, Mr. Speaker. It's my pleasure to introduce to you and through you to members of this Assembly a gentleman who means much to many Albertans. His membership is, I believe, around 60,000 now, and he has done a bang-up job for those members for many, many years. I'd ask Dan MacLennan to stand in the members' gallery and receive the warm traditional welcome of this Assembly.

The Speaker: The hon. Minister of Human Resources and Employment.

Mr. Cardinal: Thank you very much, Mr. Speaker. It's my pleasure to introduce to you and through you to the members of this Assembly a group of communications interns from various departments of our government: Amy Wolski, Erin Martin, Nick Kaczmarek, and Trevor Gemmel. I'd like them to rise and receive the traditional warm welcome of the Assembly.

head: Oral Question Period

The Speaker: First Official Opposition main question. The hon. Leader of the Official Opposition.

Securities Commission Investigation

Dr. Taft: Thank you, Mr. Speaker. The Alberta Securities Commission saga continues to twist. More evidence is being made public this week by an investigative journalist that there exist two sets of enforcement rules at the ASC, one for the well connected and one for everyone else. The situation with Zi Corporation, formerly known as Multi-Corp, a company well connected to top Tories, raises serious questions about the ASC enforcement process. To the Minister of Finance: given that Zi Corporation failed to disclose the name of the buyer of more than 10 per cent of its stock, which is contrary to Canadian securities law, why didn't the ASC intervene?

Mrs. McClellan: Mr. Speaker, the hon. member is referring to an article in a paper, and he's referring to activities that happened some time ago. I suggest that if the hon. member has any – any – substantiated fact, he has a responsibility to bring it forward, and it will be investigated.

The Speaker: The hon. leader.

Dr. Taft: Thank you, Mr. Speaker. Complete dodge.

To the same minister: will the minister clear the air categorically and bring this all to an end by denying that Alberta Securities Commission senior enforcement staff were pressured to drop their investigation into Multi-Corp?

Mrs. McClellan: Mr. Speaker, again, if this hon. member has any – any – substantiated, factual information on this allegation that he's bringing forward, I believe he has a responsibility to bring it forward, and it will be investigated.

The Speaker: The hon. leader.

Dr. Taft: Thank you, Mr. Speaker. My questions are to the minister responsible for the Alberta Securities Commission, the Minister of Finance. Again I repeat: yes or no? Will the minister clear the air and categorically deny that ASC senior enforcement staff were pressured to drop their investigation into Multi-Corp?

Mrs. McClellan: Mr. Speaker, I have a greater responsibility than reading articles in the paper and making allegations regarding them and accepting them as fact. I will repeat one more time – and this hon. member could or could not answer yes or no – if he has any factual, substantiated information that this is in fact a fact rather than another allegation against a very important regulator in this province, he has the responsibility to bring it forward, and he should do so forthwith.

The Speaker: Second Official Opposition main question. The hon. Leader of the Official Opposition.

Nutrition Programs in Schools

Dr. Taft: Thank you, Mr. Speaker. Today, again, thousands of Alberta children are sitting in schools hungry because there isn't food at their homes. [interjections] It may be something for the Tories to jeer at, but it's not for those kids.

Thousands of children are mired on waiting lists for school lunch programs because this government refuses to act. If achievement tests were given for caring for hungry children, this government would fail miserably. To the Minister of Education: does this minister at least acknowledge that hunger is a serious issue for thousands of children in Alberta schools?

Mr. Zwozdesky: Mr. Speaker, food, clothing, and shelter are important to all of us, and clearly the first responsibility does lie with the parents or legal guardians.

I just want to tell the hon. member asking the question the level of assistance that is available to individuals or to families who find themselves in difficult situations. That level of assistance is available, for example, for a single person who's looking for work to receive about $402 a month to help out. A two-parent family with three children under 12 years of age could receive up to $1,126 a month. Parents who are looking for work, Mr. Speaker, can get an additional $324 a month from the federal national child benefit supplement. There are other programs like that, and there are community agencies. There could be a good neighbours fund who are there to help out.

Mr. Speaker, if he knows of some circumstances, perhaps he could let those families know about that or direct them to us, and we will help them.

1:50

The Speaker: The hon. leader.

Dr. Taft: Thank you. To the same minister. Listening to his response, then, is it this minister's position that it is the child's fault when there is no food at home to have a meal on a school day? Is that what you're saying?

Mr. Zwozdesky: Mr. Speaker, you know, it just amazes me how low some people in this House will go. It just absolutely amazes me. While I'm prepared to tolerate that from certain members, to come from the Leader of Her Majesty's Official Opposition is just simply, absolutely amazing.

There are programs that can help these children. There are school boards who care deeply about these children. There are community agencies who care deeply, and we have a provincial government that helps out when we're asked to do so through our various support programs.

The Speaker: The hon. leader.

Dr. Taft: Thank you. My last question is to the Deputy Premier: how can this government refuse to provide meals to hungry children in Alberta schools that cost $2 each when it provides $45 million a year to prop up the horse-racing industry?

Mrs. McClellan: Mr. Speaker, this government stands on its record of support to children, and I would like to give the Minister of Children's Services an opportunity to just remind this House of the tremendous support that we give to the children in this province.

Mrs. Forsyth: Well, Mr. Speaker, I think it's important. Since we brought in a new act last November, the Child, Youth and Family Enhancement Act – the incredible success that we're having with this act. We're doing early intervention. We're working with the families to provide them the basics for their family, some education about making sure that their children don't go to school hungry. This act is a first in Canada and is being widely watched right across this country and has been hugely successful.

The Speaker: Third Official Opposition main question. The hon. Member for Calgary-Mountain View.

Sour Gas Well Safety

Dr. Swann: Thank you very much, Mr. Speaker. Recent blowouts involving toxic hydrogen sulphide gas in our province have illustrated that there are some serious flaws in the response procedures of the EUB, industry, municipalities, and even health authorities. The Acheson blowout in late 2004 and, more recently, the leak outside Innisfail illustrated ignorance of the risks, confusion, and serious lack of communications. In these most recent incidents the government quickly reassured Albertans after the panic and emergency actions were taken that they were never in any real danger. My question is to the Minister of Energy. When will this government acknowledge that the province's sour gas response plans are dangerously inadequate?

Mr. Melchin: Mr. Speaker, they're not, first off. With respect to the Acheson well that you've referenced, there was quite an investigation in response to that. That well itself: levels of emissions were so low that that well never was described as a sour gas well, high critical, or anything like unto it. What that report did say is that they were overly precautionary in evacuating people beyond even the need. Certainly, no one faults anybody at any company at any time in trying to be overly precautionary on evacuation or anything like unto it.

The Speaker: The hon. member.

Dr. Swann: Thank you, Mr. Speaker. To the same minister: how many close calls is this government willing to allow before it insists on having an effective response plan in each setting with all players before approving sour gas developments near populated areas?

Mr. Melchin: Mr. Speaker, let's place some things into context. The industry as well as the regulators on the standards have had decades of experience in managing this substance very safely. That does not mean that you're not continually trying to upgrade and update with the latest technology and procedures to ensure that all safety issues can be addressed.

The Energy and Utilities Board, being very proactive, a few years ago did an extensive consultation and research on the sour gas itself as to the procedures, approval, and likewise. There were about 87 recommendations. Most of those have already been implemented. The last few are still requiring some further work before implementation can be complete. The Energy and Utilities Board takes safety as the first and paramount issue in regard to approval of any activity in the energy industry.

The Speaker: The hon. member.

Dr. Swann: Thank you, Mr. Speaker. That's not the impression of most Albertans. Given these recent events does the minister support the recent application by Compton in proximity to 150,000 people in southeast Calgary?

Mr. Melchin: Mr. Speaker, those things are put, appropriately, before the Energy and Utilities Board. It is there as an independent body having the expertise to judge all of the factors coming forward. They will not approve any wells under any circumstances if it cannot be safely done. That said, the Energy and Utilities Board is best in position to evaluate those and any other future applications that come with things like sour gas.

The Speaker: The hon. Member for Edmonton-Highlands-Norwood, followed by the hon. Member for Red Deer-North.

Corporate Accountability

Mr. Mason: Thank you very much, Mr. Speaker. Conrad Black, Bernie Ebbers, Martha Stewart, and Ken Lay are among the corporate CEOs who have either done or are facing jail time in the United States for violating corporate laws. Unlike the United States, which has zero tolerance for corporate crime, this province fails to rigorously enforce the few rules that it does have. The result is a growing climate of corruption in this province. My question is to the Minister of Finance. When the former superintendent of Treasury Branches was accused of getting hundreds of thousands of dollars in cash delivered in brown paper bags to bribe him into signing a sweetheart deal for West Edmonton Mall, why did the government cover this up by settling out of court and to this day keep all of the documents safely locked up inside an ATB bank vault?

Mrs. McClellan: I'm looking to the Minister of Justice for some advice on dealing with this, Mr. Speaker, but I'll take this question under advisement. I think I need to review it before I know whether I could appropriately respond.

Mr. Mason: We'll move on then, Mr. Speaker. When there are not one but two sweetheart land deals in Fort McMurray with the same Tory-friendly developer receiving free land and sweetheart financing, why is no one being held accountable for this corruption and wrongdoing?

Mrs. McClellan: Mr. Speaker, the Auditor General has delivered a report to this Legislature on this matter. I read that report, and I certainly did not read those words in the Auditor General's report. I would suggest that the hon. member refer back to the Auditor General's report on this matter before he frames another question on it.

The Speaker: The hon. member.

Mr. Mason: Thank you very much, Mr. Speaker. We'll move on again. When Alberta's top securities cop is caught red-handed by the Auditor General making a significant profit trading shares in a company that he himself is investigating, why is the minister allowing this conduct to go unpunished?

Mrs. McClellan: Mr. Speaker, again the hon. member should read the Auditor General's report because I think he's mixing up people that are involved in this. When he says that it was a company that he himself was investigating, I think he is in error. However, what I did say yesterday in the House – and I stand by that, hon. member – is that I will provide for you a sequence of events in this matter as quickly as possible. I had hoped I would be able to give it to you today. I cannot, but my hope is that it will be tomorrow at the latest, and then we'll have a further discussion on it.

The Speaker: The hon. Member for Red Deer-North, followed by the hon. Member for Edmonton-Decore.

Aboriginal Issues

Mrs. Jablonski: Thank you, Mr. Speaker. In the late 1980s, almost 20 years ago, there was a meeting of the first ministers on aboriginal issues. Tomorrow, after more than 20 years, the first ministers' meeting on aboriginal issues will begin in Kelowna. This is an important historic meeting between the government of Canada, the provinces and territories, and aboriginal organizations throughout the country. My questions are for the Minister of Aboriginal Affairs and Northern Development. Considering the importance of this meeting to the future of aboriginal people in Alberta, what did you hear from aboriginal leaders that you met with in advance of this first ministers' meeting?

2:00

Ms Calahasen: Well, Mr. Speaker, first of all, it's the first meeting of first ministers that I have ever attended, and I'm very proud to be going to this meeting. As a result, to prepare ourselves, I did meet with the First Nations and the Métis leaders, and we did that a number of times: on October 11, October 12, and again on November 8. Basically, we wanted to make sure that that input would be coming to the table so that we knew, when we were going to the first ministers' meeting, that we'd be well prepared.

The First Nations and the Métis people have told us that they have certain views. One is the need to honour and respect the spirit and the intent of the treaties from the First Nations, the desire to participate fully in the social and economic life of Canada and specifically in Alberta, and of course the need to close the gap between First Nations and other Canadians on a number of fronts. Of course, that would be education, housing, and health.

The one common thread, Mr. Speaker, that I thought was really interesting is that they continually said, whether it was the First Nations or the Métis, that we must improve the quality of life of aboriginal people on and off reserves as well as in Métis communities and urban centres.

The Speaker: The hon. member.

Mrs. Jablonski: Thank you. I think the minister has addressed the key issues that will be discussed at this meeting. So my next question, my last question, would then be: how will Alberta move forward, and what steps will you take following the first ministers' meeting?

Ms Calahasen: Well, Mr. Speaker, as I indicated in my first answer, the areas that we're going to be dealing with, of course, are relationships, education, economic opportunities, housing, and health. All of these are interrelated. If you don't understand the aboriginal community, you can't begin to see how they see everything as interrelated and interconnected. So what we wanted to do was make sure that when we brought the information forward, we would be looking at how we can improve the lives in aboriginal communities. The First Nations and the Métis people were very good in determining what it is that they want us to bring to the table. They wanted us to make sure that whatever it is, it will improve the lives of people at the community level.

The next step, of course, Mr. Speaker, is to see how we can implement the recommendations and concrete actions that will come out as a result of this meeting. I know that on this side of the House we want to see what we can do to improve the lives of aboriginal people in this province.

Minable Oil Sands Strategy

Mr. Bonko: Mr. Speaker, this government recently released the plan for developing the minable oil sands strategy northeast of Fort McMurray. Basically, this plan will strip bare a 2,500-kilometre zone. We're sacrificing environmental integrity for rapid and uncontrolled development. My first question to the Minister of Environment: given that the MOSS plan clearly indicates that the government policy is to get as much oil out of the ground as possible with no regard for the consequences for the environment, is this a policy that would dictate the future resource extraction for this province?

Mr. Boutilier: Mr. Speaker, if I could put in proper context the purpose of MOSS. The MOSS is to streamline to ensure, number one, that the environment is protected and, number two, that necessary regulation is put in place to prevent unnecessary delays. Clearly, today MOSS and the sole purpose of MOSS is for the greater enhanced protection of the environment.

Mr. Bonko: To the same minister: given that the Auditor General clearly stated that without commitment to sustainable resource and environmental management, and I quote, awareness and interest will diminish, can the minister tell the House and all Albertans if he will regard the recommendations and follow them, or will they be ignored?

Mr. Boutilier: Mr. Speaker, we are following the ruling by the Auditor General, which we believe is very substantive and has very good substance to it. Further to that, though, and most importantly for all Albertans, this member also calls Fort McMurray home, where my family is. We breathe clean air, and the clean water we drink and the land we work will never, never, ever be compromised for development.

The Speaker: The hon. member.

Mr. Bonko: Thank you, Mr. Speaker. To the same minister: given that this new strategy clearly indicates that the government is not committed to sustainable development, is the minister telling us that the principles of balancing resource extraction and environmental protection are no longer possible or desirable for this government?

Mr. Boutilier: Mr. Speaker, I'll also have my colleague the Minister of Energy respond. The integrity of the oil sands industry and what their work has done over the last 25 years – it's important to note here today that pertaining to CO₂ emission, because of technology they have dropped their emissions by 50 per cent. Nowhere else in this entire country has such a feat been accomplished in protecting the environment. Technology will continue to play a key role in helping enhance the environment. I can assure the member and members of this Assembly that the environment and the sustainability of the environment that we are blessed with in this province will always be protected.

Mr. Melchin: Mr. Speaker, there were six policy areas that were part of the minable oil sands strategy. They haven't at all focused on – for example, the first one was that it be “managed as a co-ordinated development zone”; that we look at this as a regional approach rather than project specific. I usually hear from the opposition that they would wish that we could take a look at the entire context rather than the project, the cumulative issues. That's what this is about. It talks about “progressive, timely and seamless reclamation” – I thought that's what they supported – “to a self-sustaining boreal forest ecosystem.” Number 5 says that “the environmental liabilities from oil sands mining will not be passed on to future generations.” I’m not certain what they would oppose in that context. It says that “both existing and new operators will be expected to continuously improve their technology and methods.” All things that I think Albertans would support.

The Speaker: The hon. Member for Calgary-McCall, followed by the hon. Member for Calgary-Currie.

Student Loan Program

Mr. Shariff: Thank you, Mr. Speaker. Last week I was approached by a university student who had received a letter from an Ontario company that administers Alberta student loans advising him that his six-month grace period to begin repaying his loan was coming up next month. This letter indicated that he had an Alberta student loan of $30,000, which could be repaid using two options available to him. He could either repay it using a floating interest rate, which would be prime plus 2 and a half per cent, or he could have his interest rate fixed at prime plus 5 per cent. My first question is to the Minister of Advanced Education. Given that the Alberta student loan is usually one-third of Canada’s student loan, which means that the student could have a total student debt of $90,000, what is the government doing to ensure that Alberta postsecondary students who have to finance their education can graduate and enter the work force without having a crushing amount of debt hanging around their necks?

The Speaker: The hon. minister.

Mr. Hancock: Well, thank you, Mr. Speaker. If that is the debt load that the student has graduated with, if that $30,000 worth of debt is Alberta student loan debt, then one can only assume that that student has graduated from a professional program. The normal student debt application would be that for a four-year undergraduate program you could graduate with a maximum debt load of $27,000. That would be this year. It was $20,000 up to now. All of that would be federal student loan debt. If you used more than $27,000, all of the provincial debt would have been remitted or forgiven on a student remission completion payment. So I can only assume from the circumstances that are being described that the student involved was a professional student graduating in medicine or dentistry or a faculty like that and, therefore, in a position to carry a greater amount of student debt.

In terms of the description of crushing student debt, one has to look at the context of the student in terms of what they’re graduating in to determine the ability of the student to repay. We do have in this province significant loan relief completion payments, which we apply. For most students, particularly those in undergraduate courses, if they’ve completed with a debt over $30,000, all of their provincial debt would be relieved, and they would be paying federal student loan debt.

Mr. Shariff: My second question is to the same minister. Can you clarify how the interest rate paid on student loans is structured and if it is the official policy of the government to gouge our students to pay prime plus 5 per cent?

Mr. Hancock: Mr. Speaker, borrowers have a choice of whether to pay their student loans back with a fixed rate of interest or a variable rate of interest, as the hon. member has indicated. They’re responsible for repaying principal and interest over a period of time. In my experience we had a 10-year time frame to repay. In fact, that’s what I had to face when I graduated. Payments do begin six months after you cease to be a student.

The two options of interest are, in fact, as outlined: a variable rate of prime plus 2 and a half, or with the prime rate currently at 4.75 per cent the current student rate would be 7.25 per cent. That’s not an unusual rate of interest based on what a consumer would pay at the bank if they were borrowing without collateral, but it is a high rate. The fixed rate, which they could choose, is prime plus 5 per cent. So the rates would appear to be high, but in the context of what’s charged on student loans across the country, I can assure the hon. member that only one jurisdiction is lower than that.

2:10

Mr. Shariff: My final question is also to the same minister: given that a residential mortgage is usually prime or prime plus 1 per cent, would the Minister of Advanced Education consider limiting the mortgage on an Alberta student’s career – by that I mean a student loan repayment plan – to bank prime or prime plus 1 per cent?

Mr. Hancock: Mr. Speaker, as the hon. member knows, of course, we have been in the process over the course of this year of looking at affordability, and we’re working very hard to come forward with a policy both with respect to tuition rates and affordability. Everything is on the table. So, yes, of course, one of the things that has to be looked at and looked at very clearly is the interest rate.

Now, I would hesitate to relate a student debt to a mortgage because if one doesn’t pay the mortgage, of course, there’s foreclosure. There’s security on that debt. There’s no security on a student debt. So there is a default rate. The interest that’s currently being paid with respect to student finance is based on and reflects the fact that there’s no security involved.

However, this minister knows and this government knows that an education is the best investment that any Albertan can make, and therefore we should be looking at education as being a valuable investment and one which should attract lower interest rates.

The Speaker: The hon. Member for Calgary-Currie, followed by the hon. Member for Drayton Valley-Calmor.

Access to Postsecondary Education

Mr. Taylor: Thank you, Mr. Speaker. Despite the Conservative propaganda that all you need to do to get ahead in Alberta is work hard and pay off your student debts, this government actively engages in policies designed to keep the poor in their place. University tuition has tripled in the last 12 years while average incomes have been stagnant. You don’t need a math degree to know that that discriminates against low-income Albertans who want to better themselves through higher education. To the Minister of Advanced Education: how does the minister justify a postsecondary system in which the poor are left behind?

Mr. Hancock: Actually, Mr. Speaker, the hon. member would be wrong in that assertion. The poor Albertan is among the best financed in our student system because we have grants and loan remission, which are best aimed at the lowest income. The people that he really ought to be talking about who have trouble in this system are the middle-income Albertans. They’re the ones that we need to work really hard with to figure out how we ensure that a postsecondary education is affordable, and we’ve been working very hard on that. Now, we won’t leave out the poor in that process by any stretch of the imagination because every Albertan has to be encouraged to get an advanced education, and every Albertan should know that finances are not a barrier to getting an education. But when he looks at the equation, those at the lower end of the income stretch are well financed by this government to get an education.

The Speaker: The hon. member.

Mr. Taylor: Thank you, Mr. Speaker. To the same minister: given that campus food bank usage at the University of Alberta, for example, has increased almost tenfold over this same period, will the minister concede that the student aid system is failing learners from – he can concede whatever he wants – low-income families, moderate-income families? Will he concede that the system is failing?

Mr. Hancock: No, Mr. Speaker, the system is not failing. What I would say to the hon. member and to students across the province is that if anybody gets into a position of crisis, there are opportunities for them. They can go to the student aid office at their institution. They can call student finance. There are emergency relief programs with student finance. There are emergency relief programs at students' unions in each of the institutions. So if students do find themselves in an emergency situation or where they're hungry and they need relief, they need to get some assistance, there is assistance available.

If there is any failure in assistance, perhaps it's that we haven't communicated that as well as we should have, so I thank the hon. member for raising the opportunity so that we can communicate it again. There is relief available for those who need it.

The Speaker: The hon. member.

Mr. Taylor: Thank you, Mr. Speaker. Given that the waiting lists for campus daycare spots can be two or three years, will the minister today fund additional daycare spaces at Alberta universities and colleges to ensure that single parents can continue their education?

The Speaker: The hon. minister.

Mr. Hancock: Thank you, Mr. Speaker. The Minister of Children's Services has been working on daycare policy and has just signed a national agreement with respect to daycare policy. I think that when you're talking about daycare, you shouldn't necessarily single out any specific area but work globally to make sure that daycare and child care are available to any Albertan who needs it at an appropriate level.

Now, with respect to each institution, again, in my knowledge and experience most of the institutions do have daycare facilities available and work very hard to make sure that both staff and students have appropriate child care opportunities on campus.

The Speaker: The hon. Member for Drayton Valley-Calmar, followed by the hon. Member for Edmonton-Mill Woods.

Electricity Line between Edmonton and Calgary

Rev. Abbott: Well, thank you, Mr. Speaker. Recently many of my constituents received some information regarding a new transmission line that is proposed to run across their land. They've been hearing about this for several months now and have several concerns regarding the transmission lines. My questions are to the Minister of Energy. Why are new transmission lines needed between Edmonton and Calgary?

The Speaker: The hon. minister.

Mr. Melchin: Thank you, Mr. Speaker. Alberta's Electric System Operator has a mandate of looking at the needs of transmission around the province. They have put together a 10-year plan. They're working on a 20-year plan. All of us wanting electricity in our homes need a system that's reliable. We have to make sure that that backbone is there to support any generation that comes forward. We have a huge challenge with the growth coming at us of a need for quite a bit of additional capacity between the Edmonton-Calgary corridor. It's in that light that this will help ensure that there's reliable electricity delivered to each of our homes when needed, as needed.

The Speaker: The hon. member.

Rev. Abbott: Well, thank you, Mr. Speaker. To the same minister: given that my constituents and other area residents have expressed their concerns to AltaLink on several occasions, but they are not convinced that their concerns are being taken into consideration during this approval process, what is the government doing to ensure that the residents of these communities are heard in this process?

Mr. Melchin: Mr. Speaker, the transmission facility owner, AltaLink, was assigned to build the project in their area, and they are conducting consultations with affected people in the areas when they're looking at the siting of these lines. That will be happening to the end of this month and through the beginning of December. These lines and the final approval still have to go through the Energy and Utilities Board, so both consultations will have to be required, and individuals can certainly ensure that their comments are made.

I'd also like to highlight that we put in place a transmission committee, actually chaired by the MLA for Whitecourt-Ste. Anne along with two other members. Their task, working with the regulators, is to ensure that these transmission lines are implemented, that those concerns are heard, and that they can be facilitated to ensure reliable access to electricity.

The Speaker: The hon. member.

Rev. Abbott: Well, thank you, Mr. Speaker. Again to the Minister of Energy: given that it sounds like this new line is a go, that the construction is going to be happening, what is the province doing to ensure that Albertans don't experience electricity blackouts and aren't burdened with excessive costs for these necessary investments?

Mr. Melchin: Mr. Speaker, with respect to these transmission lines, clearly, they do cost money. They are costs that would be borne by all ratepayers across the province. Initial estimates show that residential customers would pay no more than $1 to $2 per month, and that's out past 2010. But the likelihood is that there still could be very substantial savings had by having more transmission capacity. The lines that we have now between those areas are heavily congested. You can reduce the line loss by having more capacity, so there could be savings also by having greater capacity.

The Speaker: The hon. Member for Edmonton-Mill Woods, followed by the hon. Member for Edmonton-Calder.

Impoverished Albertans

Mrs. Mather: Thank you, Mr. Speaker. Living in poverty causes stress and anxiety, which damages health, limits choices, and impacts the ability to participate in society. Improving conditions for children will impact their lifestyle for decades that follow, creating healthier, more successful Albertans. Almost 14 per cent of children in Alberta live in poverty, which is not by choice. To the Minister of Children's Services: when will the minister establish plans, timelines, budgets, and targets for reducing the number of children living in poverty?

2:20

Mrs. Forsyth: Well, Mr. Speaker, I think that goes back to my question earlier. The Child, Youth and Family Enhancement Act, that is just celebrating its first birthday, is an act that deals with it at an earlier time instead of what happened before when we were at the protective side. The new act has been highly, highly successful. We're dealing with families at an earlier time, dealing with some of the issues that they're dealing with on an earlier basis, and we're very excited about what we're seeing coming out of that new act.

The Speaker: The hon. member.

Mrs. Mather: Thank you, Mr. Speaker. To the same minister: given that the number of homeless children in Alberta continues to rise year after year, can the minister tell the House what kind of cross-ministerial approach is being developed to deal with the problems of homelessness in Alberta?

Mrs. Forsyth: Well, Mr. Speaker, I think we should be very clear that, first of all, we never turn away a family in need, and we'll provide them with emergency accommodation if necessary. The social workers, or the case workers as they're now called, do a wonderful job trying to meet these family needs. We're in discussions with the minister of seniors and the minister of human resources trying to see how we can further enhance these people's lives.

The Speaker: The hon. member.

Mrs. Mather: Thank you, Mr. Speaker. To the Minister of Health and Wellness: given that there is a clear link between low income and poor health and education programs and pamphlets on nutrition don't seem to be making a significant difference, what concrete action will the minister take to address proper nutrition and wellness for Albertans living in poverty?

Ms Evans: Mr. Speaker, one of the initiatives that's part of the third way is the early child development piece, which talks about health supports for families, for parents. We have presently arranged for Fraser Mustard with population health to come and review the wellness opportunities that we have to expand existing programs, making sure that children and families right from the time of birth and before birth, prenatally, are given the proper supports, given the kinds of information they need, given the tutorial to help parents know where to get additional supports so that at least in the early days with the other agencies in the community, with parent link through child and family services, we're able to connect. Frequently it's the lack of co-ordination of effort that enables children to fall through the cracks, which is really most unfortunate. So we hope that with this education we will bridge a portion of it.

I'm sure the Minister of Human Resources and Employment is just dying to talk about the programs for the third quarter.

The Speaker: The hon. Member for Edmonton-Calder, followed by the hon. Member for Edmonton-Castle Downs.

Climate Change

Mr. Eggen: Thank you, Mr. Speaker. Alberta's Environment minister has said that he will attend the largest meeting of climate change experts in international history in Montreal next week, but Albertans must question the value of such a journey. The government's policy on regulating large industrial emitters is a national and an international embarrassment as it only allows our emissions to increase, not decrease. My question is to the Minister of Environment. Seeing as Alberta has failed to curb greenhouse gas emissions and has no intention to do so, why doesn't the minister spare Albertans the travel tab, stay home, and get to work on a real climate change plan?

Mr. Boutilier: Well, Mr. Speaker, the alternative would be to let him go, so think about that one.

I might add that Alberta, this province, is a leader across Canada, and I might add that the federal counterpart, the Liberal Minister of the Environment, has acknowledged Alberta's leadership relative to reducing greenhouse gases in this entire country.

Mr. Eggen: Well, we're all in big trouble if we take the Liberal plan for environmental climate change.

Given that the minister's climate change plan continues to increase emissions by 26 per cent over the 1990 levels, why does the minister insist on flying to Montreal with the sole purpose of being a long-winded apologist for environmental destruction?

Mr. Boutilier: These questions are fun, Mr. Speaker. I want to say that, clearly, I'm very pleased that actually the Liberal opposition are going to be attending Montreal as well because they see value in it, and I suggest that he may want to talk to his leader about attending as well. I welcome his involvement.

One thing for sure. As we go there, we will be ambassadors talking about the technology front, talking about the fact of capturing and storing CO₂, talking about agricultural practices and how we're reducing greenhouse gases. We are the only province in Canada with a climate change law. We are the only province in Canada with a private/public partnership such as Climate Change Central.

Mr. Speaker, let me conclude by saying that if I had time, I would walk to Montreal, but I'm going to have to take a plane to get there quickly to represent Alberta.

Mr. Eggen: Watch out for Stéphane Dion. He's a very tricky guy, you know. You'd better watch what you're dealing with.

Given that the minister is defending a plan that fails to reduce greenhouse gas emissions, fails to regulate large industrial emitters, and fails to invest in renewable energy, how can the minister insist that he has a serious plan?

Mr. Boutilier: Mr. Speaker, we are the only province in Canada that has a climate change law. Not even the federal government has a law. We will be the first province in Canada to have a regulation that the federal government has assured me it's going to follow. Again, Alberta leadership at its finest.

The Speaker: The hon. Member for Edmonton-Castle Downs, followed by the hon. Member for St. Albert.

Services for Immigrants

Mr. Lukaszuk: Thank you, Mr. Speaker. Let's call it a happy coincidence for the province of Ontario on the eve of a federal election. Our federal government has just announced an increase of funding to Ontario for programs and services for new immigrants. Canada's shortage of skilled workers is well documented and well known to us all. This shortage in particular is evident in Alberta, where employers are unable to compete for their projects and costs of projects are rising. To the Minister of International and Intergovernmental Affairs: what is our government doing to secure the same level of funding consideration for Alberta as Ontario has just received for immigrants from the federal government?

The Speaker: The hon. minister.

Mr. Stelmach: Thank you, Mr. Speaker. Under the new agreement that the hon. member has raised, the Ontario government will receive approximately $3,400 per immigrant for services covering language and supplement. Now, that again is over five years. We don't know as yet how that will break down over that period of time. Presently we receive about $1,020 per immigrant for the same supplement purposes. We are working closely with the federal government. I met with my counterpart, the Minister of Intergovernmental Affairs, plus the Minister for Internal Trade to work towards settling once and for all a fair and equitable treatment to Alberta.

The Speaker: The hon. member.

Mr. Lukaszuk: Thank you, Mr. Speaker. To the Minister of Human Resources and Employment: has the minister considered negotiating an agreement with the federal Department of Citizenship and Immigration to allow Alberta in co-operation with the feds to process our own applications for visas and, like Quebec, have more control over immigration?

The Speaker: The hon. minister.

Mr. Cardinal: Thank you very much, Mr. Speaker. That is a good question. Currently we have an agreement with the federal government to co-fund settlement services and to fast-track skilled workers to the provincial nominee program. We are encouraging the federal government to live up to its responsibility and try and reduce the processing time for skilled workers. We are not of course considering taking over any federal responsibility. That is a federal role. Our responsibility that we will take a leading role in at the provincial level is marketing Alberta in other jurisdictions outside of Alberta to ensure that people know that Alberta is here. We have a strong economy, the best government in the world, and the best place to live.

The Speaker: The hon. member.

Mr. Lukaszuk: Thank you, Mr. Speaker. To the Minister of Advanced Education: since we are often criticized as having the best educated taxi drivers in the world, what will the Ministry of Advanced Education do to tackle that problem and allow the immigrants who are already here and are underemployed?

The Speaker: The hon. minister.

Mr. Hancock: Thank you, Mr. Speaker. There are a number of elements that go into what Advanced Education does in this area. First and foremost, when bringing in workers to the province, we do have a process where we can certify their education before they come, or we can assist them with certification of their education after they get here. Our international qualification assessment division, for example, will look at qualifications that people bring to Alberta and certify what standing they might have and provide a certificate so that they can show employers or others what level of education they do have and what it equates to in terms of a Canadian or an Alberta standard. About 3,500 of those certificates will be issued this year. That's a way of helping someone who's got an education through a university in another part of the world: to have someone here understand what that education might equate to. That's a very important part.

2:30

Another important part, of course, is bridging programs, which are shared both by Advanced Education and Human Resources and Employment, to assist people to get the language skills they need for the job or to otherwise get the skills and training they need so that they can get employment in their field in Alberta.

The Speaker: The hon. Member for St. Albert, followed by the hon. Member for Calgary-Fort.

Education Fundraising

Mr. Flaherty: Thank you, Mr. Speaker. A key principle of the publicly funded education system is equity. Parents are paying hundreds of dollars a year in school fees and fundraising for educational basics like tables and books: all this work in order to support an educational system where only 69 per cent of the students graduate in three years, hardly an equitable system. My question is to the Minister of Education. Why won't this government commit to abolishing fees and fundraising for basic educational services and remove these barriers to an equitable education system?

Mr. Zwozdesky: Mr. Speaker, obviously the hon. member wasn't listening when I answered part of this question last time, but let me just repeat some of that because it is good information. First of all, this was the first item on the agenda of the meetings that I just held right across the province with 62 school boards. I specifically asked them about school fees: how much they were roughly getting in terms of school fees and what specifically they were charging them for. Now, the School Act allows for school fees to be assessed, collected, and otherwise determined by the local school board working with its local school, and as long as those particular school fees apply to nonbasic items, to nonessential items such as consumables or other instructional materials and supplies, then they are conforming to that School Act that I've referenced and also to the ASBA, or Alberta School Boards Association, general policy.

School boards also told me that they don't feel any tremendous amount of discomfort yet with respect to the fact that some of the fundraising that is going on may be creeping over into the basic area. Now, there might be the odd exception to that – I will concede that – but it has not been brought to my attention in that way. Should it be, then I would ensure that something would be looked into to alleviate the problem.

The Speaker: The hon. member.

Mr. Flaherty: Thank you, Mr. Speaker. When will this government recognize that the dependence of schools on fundraising leads to have and have-not schools and abolish fees and fundraising for educational basics?

Mr. Zwozdesky: Well, Mr. Speaker, let me make it perfectly clear that we spend about $23 million each and every school day to help support education in this province from kindergarten to grade 12.

That's a significant amount of money. We also do it at the request of the school boards, I should say, with a maximum amount of flexibility. If the member would take a look at this renewed funding framework, which all school boards have and several others have as well, he would see just how those monies get distributed.

Furthermore, with respect to the school fees issue and the issue of fundraising there was a reference to this in the Learning Commission report, and I have undertaken to respond to that more fully. That's why I've asked school boards for their input, and I will be doing that, Mr. Speaker.

The Speaker: The hon. member.

Mr. Flaherty: Thank you, Mr. Speaker. Instead of studying this issue, why doesn't this government solve this problem now by committing to guidelines on fees and fundraising and putting it in the 2006-2007 budget?

Mr. Zwozdesky: Mr. Speaker, as part of those consultations with the school boards I specifically asked them a very important question in this regard as well. I asked them if parents were complaining to them about school fundraising and so on. Virtually every single board told me that parents don't mind having some level of involvement in the education of their children directly at the schools, and they don't mind doing fundraising per se unless there's too much of it or unless they might be creeping into the area of essentials or basics. Otherwise, parents appreciate having a little bit of involvement.

As I've indicated, we have studied this issue, we have consulted on this issue, and I will be making a further comment on it very soon in response to the Commission on Learning report.

The Speaker: The hon. Member for Calgary-Fort, followed by the hon. Member for Edmonton-McClung.

Workers' Compensation Appeals

Mr. Cao: Thank you, Mr. Speaker. The Workers' Compensation Board plays an important role in insurance coverage for workers who suffer an accident at work. But for this accident insurance program there are serious issues and hot disputes between the injured workers, who suffer from the real pain of injuries and denial of coverage or are forced to go through many costly and lengthy procedures, and the insurer, WCB, who makes such decisions. My question today is to the hon. Minister of Human Resources and Employment, responsible for WCB legislation. Given that recommendation 15 in the MLA recommendation report on WCB dated January 31, 2001, states that "an injured worker's benefits must not be cut-off until conflict in medical opinion is resolved," can the minister tell the Assembly: what is the policy written by the WCB to deal with this situation?

The Speaker: The hon. minister.

Mr. Cardinal: Thank you very much, Mr. Speaker. My answers won't be too long. The policy that the member asks about sets out, actually, the criteria for when a worker is eligible for disability benefits. If there is a medical-related conflict between WCB and the worker, there are steps to resolve such disputes, including a medical panel review and the Appeals Commission.

The Speaker: The hon. member.

Mr. Cao: Thank you. To the same minister: does this continuation of benefits include the agreement of the WCB chief medical adviser to implement the medical panel on the claim?

The Speaker: The hon. minister.

Mr. Cardinal: Thank you very much, Mr. Speaker. I'll be short. A new process for medical panels was implemented, of course, in 2002. A medical panel has a set of criteria for when it is used. The criteria are clearly outlined in the policy.

The Speaker: The hon. member.

Mr. Cao: Thank you, Mr. Speaker. To the same minister: can the continuation of benefits be implemented after or before the decision review body or the Appeals Commission decision?

Mr. Cardinal: Again, thank you, Mr. Speaker. A reinstatement of benefits can occur at any point in the process where new evidence is considered and a decision changed.

The Speaker: Hon. members, in a few seconds I'll call upon the first of six, but in the interim might we revert briefly to Introduction of Guests?

[Unanimous consent granted]

head: Introduction of Guests
(reversion)

The Speaker: The hon. Member for Edmonton-Meadowlark.

Mr. Tougas: Thank you, Mr. Speaker. It's my pleasure to introduce to you and through you nine seniors from the constituency of Edmonton-Meadowlark who are here to watch the daily pageantry of question period. They are Ruth Mark, Sandra Miller, Earl and Lynn Milner, Beryl and Mike Nahornick, Adrian and Johanna Petoom, and Barbara Wiseman. Would they please rise and accept the traditional warm greeting of the Legislature.

head: Members' Statements

The Speaker: The hon. Member for Edmonton-Gold Bar.

Enron Activities in Alberta

Mr. MacDonald: Thank you, Mr. Speaker. I plan to table later on today and next week proof of Enron's direct influence over the Progressive Conservative government in this province. Enron's influence was to serve their own financial needs. I'm disappointed in this Progressive Conservative government, that readily agreed to accommodate their demands even when they knew of Enron's pending financial collapse and criminal investigation.

In December of 2001 the government found it undesirable and unnecessary to release publicly the details of the cabinet decision to split the Sundance B power purchase arrangement. Enron quickly sold this generation capacity in 10 days to AltaGas Services Inc. for $220 million. In October of the same year Enron's corporate lawyers demanded and instructed the secret changes to the deal to senior government officials, which facilitated the sale of Sundance B power purchase arrangements. These arrangements provide some of the lowest cost electricity in Alberta with an all-in cost of less than 2 and a half cents per kilowatt hour. The average electricity price for 2001 in Alberta was 7.15 cents per kilowatt hour. Where was the benefit for consumers in this sweetheart deal?

While the Alberta government was catering to Enron's demands, south of the border American authorities were starting to conduct investigations into the fraudulent activities of Enron. We need a public inquiry into Enron now. The following questions could be asked at that inquiry, and hopefully we would get answers. Why did the Progressive Conservative cabinet have the opinion that the publication of the deal be deemed undesirable and unnecessary to the public? Why was the deal made with Enron here in Alberta while at the same time in America Enron was under investigation for fraud and price-fixing? Why did the Progressive Conservative government allow Enron's legal department to dictate the words of the secret changes to the power purchase arrangements?

More later.

Thank you, Mr. Speaker.

The Speaker: The hon. Member for Whitecourt-Ste. Anne.

2:40 Memorial to Fallen RCMP Officers

Mr. VanderBurg: Thank you, Mr. Speaker. Almost nine months ago four young RCMP constables made the ultimate sacrifice and were lost tragically in the line of duty. This devastating loss continues to be felt in my constituency and throughout the province.

People feel a need and an obligation to remember the sacrifice made by these four brave and dedicated men, who were loved and respected members of their families and their communities. The need to remember these four individuals is the motivation behind the desire to build the Fallen Four memorial in Mayerthorpe. This memorial will serve as a way to honour the memory of these four constables forever and help the community and the province to heal.

This past Thursday, November 17, an official launch of the 7-Eleven and Wal-Mart Kids 4 Cops product sales took place at the Elmer Elson elementary school in Mayerthorpe. Seventy-six 7-Eleven and seven Wal-Mart stores have agreed to be an official point of sale for Kids 4 Cops products, which will include vehicle magnets and decals. These products will be available until mid-December, with all proceeds going to the building of the Fallen Four memorial.

The co-operation of these stores and the hard work of many people in my constituency will ensure that these men will not be forgotten.

Thank you.

The Speaker: The hon. Deputy Speaker.

Community Learning Campus at Olds College

Mr. Marz: Thank you, Mr. Speaker. I rise today to recognize an outstanding educational innovation within my riding, the community learning campus at Olds College. The CLC is an innovative, groundbreaking approach to learning. Integrated within the Olds College campus, the facilities of the community learning campus – a core high school, e-learning centre, health and wellness facility, and fine arts and multi-media centre – provide a framework upon which opportunities can be built for learners of all ages. These facilities create a system of seamless educational delivery which takes students smoothly from high school into the postsecondary system.

The CLC concept is focused on students, the community, rural growth, and lifelong learning. This project is designed to help inspire a new generation of leaders who want to live and work in the communities in which they were born and raised. I believe that as our province moves forward with the rural development strategy, other communities could benefit from examining how the community learning campus operates at the Olds College.

Mr. Speaker, the community learning campus as an innovative approach to educational design and community partnership has recently been recognized with a prestigious international award. This award was presented by the Council of Education Facility Planners International at their annual conference in San Antonio, Texas. The CLC project in Olds was selected for this award because it exemplifies the community learning concept, serves as a centre of excellence, and has renewed enthusiasm for this rural community.

Project architect Craig Webber, community learning campus director Rob Mackenzie, and all those involved in the community learning campus are to be congratulated for the fine work that they've done and a job well done.

Thank you, Mr. Speaker.

The Speaker: The hon. Member for Calgary-Currie.

Affordability of Postsecondary Education

Mr. Taylor: Thank you, Mr. Speaker. About 400,000 Albertans live below the poverty line, 400,000 individuals each with their own personal life story, their own unique set of circumstances. There is no magic pill to cure poverty, but over a century of research tells us that one of the most effective routes out of poverty is education. I know that the Minister of Advanced Education recognizes this because that message came through strongly in the minister's review of postsecondary education this past summer and fall. The minister's forum and the process leading up to it began as an affordability review of Alberta's postsecondary system.

Many Alberta learners from low-income families are already in or trying to get into postsecondary education, and their efforts are causing them financial problems, huge problems. They're taking up to seven years to complete a four-year degree because they have to keep taking off time to work. If they have to leave home to go to school, they're running up enormous living expenses just trying to pay the rent in places like Grande Prairie, forced to rely on campus food banks in Edmonton. They're graduating with thousands of dollars in debt and entering into their adult working lives with one if not both arms tied behind their backs. They're delaying buying a house, getting married, starting a family. Their debt loads prevent them from being fully participating members of society, and that hurts Alberta's productivity.

Mr. Speaker, the minister's review sought to lay the groundwork for the postsecondary education system of the 21st century. I think that's both commendable and achievable, but while we're working on that, we need to fix the problems in the 20th century model we're using today. To my mind that means that the minister has to re-engineer the student aid system in this province to meet the needs of the students participating in the system today and reduce their debt burdens. It's rather like having an old car that you won't be ready to trade in until next year but which needs brakes right now. You have to replace the brakes if you're going to keep the old car on the road till the new one is ready. The student aid system can be and must be fixed this year in time for this fall.

Mr. Speaker, education is a route out of poverty only if the poor can afford it.

The Speaker: The hon. Member for Leduc-Beaumont-Devon.

Municipal Excellence Awards

Mr. Rogers: Thank you, Mr. Speaker. The Alberta Association of Municipal Districts and Counties recently held their annual conference here in Edmonton. The Alberta Urban Municipalities Association held their convention in early October. Each year at these gatherings of municipal leaders the minister's awards for municipal excellence are presented by the Minister of Municipal Affairs to recognize the outstanding accomplishments of Alberta's municipalities.

Mr. Speaker, I rise today to acknowledge this year's recipients in appreciation of the important role that municipal government plays in delivering service to Albertans. I'm very pleased that the partnership award went to Strathcona, Leduc, Beaver, and Lamont counties, and 15 federal/provincial departments and nongovernmental organizations for their joint work on a land management framework for the Beaver Hills-Cooking Lake moraine.

In addition, the town of Rocky Mountain House took home the innovation award for its vision and commitment in creating an antibullying bylaw. The town of Black Diamond was awarded the smaller municipalities award for a unique program that supports and encourages youth in their community.

Finally, this year's outstanding achievement award was presented to the city of Calgary for its 311 state-of-the-art telephone information line providing a one-window approach to city services.

Mr. Speaker, Alberta's municipalities symbolize the collective spirit across this province in continuing to develop creative solutions to keep our province a safe, well-managed place to live, work, and raise a family. I know that the Minister of Municipal Affairs and all members of this Assembly will join me in extending their best wishes and congratulations to all of this year's award recipients.

The Speaker: The hon. Member for Wetaskiwin-Camrose.

Historical Preservation in Wetaskiwin

Mr. Johnson: Thank you, Mr. Speaker. During the past year there have been multiple celebrations throughout our province in honour of Alberta's centennial anniversary. These celebrations have given us an opportunity to look back and reflect on the history of our province. Historical sites and artifacts provide a special insight into past events that cannot compare to a textbook or a photograph. The preservation of Alberta's physical history ensures a greater understanding of how Alberta was developed over the years, changing from a province wholly dependent upon agriculture to the development of other industries and the rise of the oil patch in our province.

For this reason I am proud to rise in the House today to recognize the efforts at historical preservation which are being undertaken in Wetaskiwin. In October, marking the end of 14 months' labour, work was completed on refurbishing one of the most visible landmarks in my constituency, the Wetaskiwin water tower. This tower has stood vigil over Wetaskiwin for close to 100 years. It is the oldest working water tower in western Canada. Instead of demolishing the water tower, the community decided that preservation of the tower was a goal worth reaching, and they threw their support behind it. While the provincial government provided funding, the bulk of the money for the project came from fundraising by the Memorial Fund Society and from the city of Wetaskiwin itself. Because of this support Wetaskiwin and Albertans have a living, working piece of history in our province.

Of course, the water tower is not the only place in Wetaskiwin where history is being preserved. The Reynolds-Alberta Museum is home to over 8,000 artifacts. This museum is unique because it is dedicated to following the history of the machine in our province. A walk through the halls of RAM is a walk in the footsteps of pioneers of agriculture, aviation, and industry.

Alberta's history is one which is rich and diverse, and I would like to commend the people of Wetaskiwin and all Albertans who work to preserve our heritage.

The Speaker: Hon. members, might we revert briefly to Introduction of Guests?

[Unanimous consent granted]

head: 2:50

Introduction of Guests (reversion)

The Speaker: The hon. Member for Cardston-Taber-Warner.

Mr. Hinman: Thank you, Mr. Speaker. It gives me great pleasure to introduce to you and through you to this Assembly a great group of students. Time is precious. They ended up having to leave, but I'd like to introduce them. They have two wonderful supervising teachers: the principal, Mr. Roger Baldry, and the vice-principal, Mr. Darryl Christensen, who go to great lengths to make social studies exciting and for them to understand the democratic process and the Legislature. They come from the town of Magrath. They've had a long day, and they're heading back because they've got a tight schedule. I'd just like to give them a warm welcome from this Legislative Assembly.

Thank you.

The Speaker: My apologies to the hon. Member for Cardston-Taber-Warner for not getting him in a little earlier when his group was still here.

Vignettes from Alberta's History

The Speaker: Hon. members, by way of historical vignette two important events in the history of Alberta on this day. First of all, 18 years ago November 23 was the day of election for the hon. Deputy Premier and Minister of Finance and MLA for Drumheller-Stettler.

A lot of few years before that, in 1925, the Hon. Herbert Greenfield resigned as Premier of Alberta. From 1921 to 1925 Herbert Greenfield presided over the province's first United Farmers of Alberta government. He emigrated from England with his family to eastern Canada in 1892. There he married, and then he came west as a farm labourer. In 1906 he moved to the Westlock district to be a homesteader and became a successful farmer and, ultimately, a Premier of the province of Alberta.

head:

Presenting Petitions

The Speaker: The hon. Member for Edmonton-Manning.

Mr. Backs: Thank you, Mr. Speaker. I'm very pleased to present a petition today from 100 Alberta tradesmen and women from the communities of Barrhead, Bashaw, Didsbury, Glendon, Cereal, Chipman, Millet, Thorhild, and others, and it reads:

We the undersigned residents of Alberta, petition the Legislative Assembly to urge the Government of Alberta to prohibit the importation of temporary foreign workers to work on the construction and/or maintenance of oil sands facilities and/or pipelines until the following groups have been accessed and/or trained: Unemployed Albertans and Canadians; Aboriginals; unemployed youth under 25; under-employed landed immigrants; and displaced farmers.

Thank you, Mr. Speaker.

The Speaker: The hon. Member for Edmonton-McClung.

Mr. Elsalhy: Thank you, Mr. Speaker. I am submitting a petition signed by concerned parents from the communities of Siksika, Cluny, Coaldale, Lethbridge, and Turin, and it reads:

We, the undersigned residents of Alberta, hereby petition the Legislative Assembly to urge the Government of Alberta to take measures that will require school boards and schools to eliminate all fees for instructional supplies and materials and general school services, including textbooks, musical instruments, physical education programs, locker rentals, lunch hour supervision and required field trips, and to ensure that schools are not deprived of the resources necessary to offer these programs and services without additional charges to parents or guardians.

Thank you.

The Speaker: The hon. Member for Calgary-Mountain View.

Dr. Swann: Thank you, Mr. Speaker. On behalf of the citizens of Alberta I present a petition for a province-wide moratorium on confined feeding operations.

We, the undersigned . . . petition the Legislative Assembly to urge the Government of Alberta to introduce legislation declaring a moratorium on any future expansion of Confined Feeding Operations, with a view to phasing out existing operations within the next three years.

The Speaker: The hon. Member for Edmonton-Calder.

Mr. Eggen: Thank you, Mr. Speaker. I would like to table two petitions today. The first one has 509 signatures on it. This petition was co-ordinated by the Edmonton Friends of the North Environmental Society and calls for "a moratorium on any future expansion of Confined Feeding Operations, with a view to phasing out existing operations within the next three years."

I would also like to table a petition that I've been circulating across Edmonton and northern Alberta. This first instalment has 155 signatures and is calling on the government to "immediately provide funding [for] municipalities and the RCMP to hire 500 additional community police officers" in the province of Alberta.

Thank you.

head: Tabling Returns and Reports

The Speaker: The hon. Minister of International and Intergovernmental Relations.

Mr. Stelmach: Well, thank you, Mr. Speaker. On Monday the hon. Deputy Premier and Minister of Finance took under advisement three questions directed to her by the hon. Member for Cardston-Taber-Warner. At this time I would like to table responses to those questions.

The Speaker: The hon. Minister of Gaming.

Mr. Graydon: Thank you, Mr. Speaker. I have three tablings, three annual reports, to table today. I'd personally like to table the Alberta Gaming and Liquor Commission 2004-2005 annual report, the Charitable Gaming in Alberta 2004-2005 annual report, and the Horse Racing Alberta 2004 annual report.

The Speaker: The hon. Minister of Government Services.

Mr. Lund: Thank you, Mr. Speaker. I rise today to table the required number of copies of the Freedom of Information and Protection of Privacy annual report 2004-05. This marks the 10th anniversary of the FOIP Act, and I'm pleased to support legislation that continues to preserve the balance between access and privacy, as Albertans desire. Since the act took effect, provincial government bodies have handled more than 20,650 requests for information and responded to 93 per cent of them within 60 days. Administering the act will continue to be part of this government's commitment to openness and transparency balanced by our responsibility to guard the personal information entrusted to us.

Thank you.

The Speaker: The hon. Member for Edmonton-Centre.

Ms Blakeman: Thank you very much, Mr. Speaker. I have several tablings today. First, I'm tabling copies of eight motions that I presented to this morning's Public Accounts Committee meeting and in doing so gave them notice of motion asking them to debate this at the meeting next Wednesday. These are amending Standing Order 50 to create a more effective Public Accounts Committee.

My second tabling is from Shirleen Smith, who is writing with an idea for a lasting legacy rather than the $400 rebate cheque, suggesting the creation of a charitable, nonprofit society to which people could donate their cheques to buy books for schools.

The next one is from Cherylyn Stacey, who is suggesting that "in Alberta there's a whole other area of importance that has long been neglected and appears to have been overlooked now," that "it is not only social justice to take heed of our disadvantaged, it is simple prudence." She would like to see the money "put into people and programs instead of concrete."

Finally, a submission from Mary Anne Jaedicke, who's the executive director of the South East Edmonton Seniors Association, again talking about rather than the need for $400, the need for funding for daycare facilities, crisis centres, and seniors' centres, urging us to reconsider the delegation of the money and to support FCSS initiatives as we should.

Thank you very much, Mr. Speaker.

The Speaker: The hon. Member for Edmonton-Gold Bar.

Mr. MacDonald: Thank you very much, Mr. Speaker. I have three tablings today. The first one is an e-mail dated October 9, 2001, from Robert.Hemstock@enron.com to Joseph.Segatto@gov.ab.ca. These are instructions from Enron to the government's Legislative Counsel in regard to the sale of the power purchase arrangement at Sundance.

The second tabling I have is a letter dated August 14, 2001, to the president and CEO of Enron Canada in Calgary, and it is from the Minister of Energy. It states among other things that "we look forward to working with Enron on the continued development of a competitive electric industry in Alberta."

My third tabling this afternoon, Mr. Speaker, is a letter that I received from the hon. Minister of Energy dated October 31, 2005, and it is in regard to the temporary suspension of maximum rate limitation requirements on oil wells and oil production.

Thank you.

The Speaker: The hon. Member for Edmonton-Ellerslie.

Mr. Agnihotri: Thank you, Mr. Speaker. I have a tabling from a constituent, Mrs. Karen Maloney, whose husband has been going through cancer treatments for the last nine years. They have to travel to Calgary for the IVF treatments, and they can't afford a huge amount of money. The clinic fees are about $6,500 and the medication $2,500 to $5,200, plus travel allowance. She is asking the government of Alberta to cover all the expenses.

Thank you.

The Speaker: The hon. Member for Edmonton-Rutherford.

Mr. R. Miller: Thank you very much, Mr. Speaker. I rise this afternoon to table the requisite number of copies of an e-mail correspondence from a constituent by the name of Carol Carbol. She is writing today to express her grave concern regarding Capital health's proposed plan to replace the outpatient residence at the University hospital and Stollery children's hospital "with a private full service hotel that will be available to patients and their families at a much higher cost." She's inviting all members of the public to an information picket on November 29 between 11:30 and 12:30 in front of the outpatient residence.

3:00

The Speaker: The hon. Member for St. Albert.

Mr. Flaherty: Yes. Thank you, Mr. Speaker. I wish to table a Showcase Celebration of the Public School Boards Council, held at McKay Avenue school last Friday, November 18, and there are five copies.

head: Tablings to the Clerk

The Clerk: I wish to advise the House that the following documents were deposited with the office of the Clerk. On behalf of the hon. Ms Evans, Minister of Health and Wellness, the Alberta Dental Association and College annual report 2004, the College of Licensed Practical Nurses of Alberta 2004 annual report, the College of Dietitians of Alberta annual report 2003-2004, the College of Dietitians of Alberta annual report 2004-2005, the College of Alberta Psychologists annual report 2004-2005, and the Alberta College of Social Workers annual report 2004.

On behalf of the hon. Mr. Cardinal, Minister of Human Resources and Employment, the Alberta Land Surveyors' Association report of proceedings of the 96th annual general meeting, April 21 to 23, 2005; the College of Alberta Professional Foresters annual report 2004-2005; the Workers' Compensation Board annual report 2004; the Certified General Accountants Association of Alberta annual report 2005; the Consulting Engineers of Alberta 2004-2005 annual report; Workers' Compensation Board Alberta 2004 accountability framework report; and the College of Alberta Professional Forest Technologists financial statements for the year ended December 31, 2004.

head: Statement by the Speaker

Microphone System in the Chamber

The Speaker: Hon. members, before I call Orders of the Day, just a little note. At the beginning of this session I indicated that the microphone system in the desks had been changed. Today and yesterday there seem to be some members' voices that penetrate quite well in the Assembly; others do not.

Look, we had undertaken a Pavlovian approach with the reorganization of the desks. The tradition is that when members raise questions, they raise them through the chair, which means that they should look at the chair. When members respond to questions, they should give them to the chair, respond to the chair.

The previous microphones in the desks were in the centre of the desks. Members tend to start moving away and start putting their backs to the chair, so the chair cannot protect them. If you look at the desk, the microphones are on the extreme left-hand side of the desk, which is the direction of the chair. When you turn toward the chair, the microphone will activate. If you turn away from the chair, the microphone will not activate to the same degree, so not all members will be able to hear. Secondly, if you take a piece of paper and block it, because of the sensitivity of the mike, it will tend to blur it a bit. So the best thing to do is just line up with the mike, which lines you up with the chair, and you'll project very, very well.

head: Orders of the Day
head: Committee of Supply

[Mr. Shariff in the chair]

The Deputy Chair: Hon. members, we'll call the committee to order.

head: Supplementary Estimates 2005-06
General Revenue Fund and Lottery Fund

Health and Wellness

The Deputy Chair: The hon. Minister of Health and Wellness.

Ms Evans: Thank you very much. Alberta Health and Wellness requested an extra $64.6 million in the supplementary estimates this year to provide funding for 14 health capital projects. The funding was part of a multiyear, $1.4 billion announcement that was made for 20 capital projects on October 14. There's an investment here of dollars from the unbudgeted surplus, and it will provide additional bed capacity in the form of new buildings, renovations, and expansion of existing facilities. This historic investment is evidence of our commitment to take concrete action on wait-time reduction.

Mr. Chair, as we look at capital priorities, responsibility for capital planning is shared between the ministries of Health and Wellness and Infrastructure and Transportation as well as the health authorities. The health authorities are responsible for assessing the impact of operational strategies contained in their plans on their capital assets and formulating appropriate capital plans and projects to implement those strategies. As the Minister of Health and Wellness I'm responsible for setting health system priorities, including recommending specific capital priorities. The Minister of Infrastructure and Transportation oversees the implementation of approved capital projects and programs. Alberta Health and Wellness consolidates health authority plans and in consultation with Infrastructure prepares the priority list.

For the Calgary region. The Calgary health region will receive $50.9 million for five projects. The Peter Lougheed centre will be allocated $18 million this year for phase 2 of its redevelopment. Phase 2 involves construction of a six-storey east addition. Levels 2 and 4 and portions of level 1 will be finished to provide additional beds including intensive care unit beds, coronary care unit beds, and medical surgical beds. Phase 2 also includes expansion of cardiovascular diagnostics and partial emergency department redevelopment.

The new Sheldon M. Chumir health centre has been allocated $8.1 million this year. This exciting project will involve construction of a new facility on the former site of the Colonel Belcher veterans centre to house a 24/7 urgent care centre, outpatient mental health programs, chronic disease management programs, primary care clinics, and a new aboriginal health centre program.

The Foothills medical centre redevelopment project will receive $11.3 million this year. The phase 1 expansion will include construction of a new addition to house an expanded intensive care unit and emergency department as well as space for the future expansion of surgical and diagnostic imaging.

The Rockyview general hospital redevelopment project has been given $10.5 million this year. Phase 2 work includes construction of a south addition to the Highwood Building to house an expanded emergency department and provide space for a future intensive care unit, coronary care unit, and ambulatory care and clinical support expansion. A new heliport will be constructed, and renovations will be done to provide two additional operating rooms.

The Richmond Road diagnostic and treatment centre will receive $3 million in 2005-06 for renovations to convert the former Alberta Children's hospital to a diagnostic and treatment centre providing day surgery, day medical, and outpatient programs.

For the Capital region. The Capital health region will receive $13.4 million for six projects in this fiscal year. The Eastwood primary health care centre replacement project has been allocated $2 million this year. The funds will go toward constructing a new facility to accommodate relocation and expansion of public health and community mental health clinic programs and to introduce primary care medical services and 24/7 urgent care. The facility will also house region 6 child and family services programs.

The Strathcona county hospital and health centre will receive $7.4 million in 2005-06 to begin work on a new hospital and health centre. The facility will provide acute-care services and will accommodate a primary care network, family practice, community health services, and children's services programs.

The Fort Saskatchewan health centre replacement project has been allocated $3.6 million this year. This project involves replacement of the 32-bed hospital with a 38-bed health centre on a new site. It will feature expanded acute-care and community health service capacity.

The Grey Nuns community hospital has been allocated $100,000 this year for redevelopment. The project involves renovations to expand the intensive care nursery, diagnostic imaging and emergency departments, reopening in-patient units and operating rooms, as well as development of a geriatric assessment unit.

The redevelopment project of the Misericordia community hospital has been allocated $200,000 this year, and Health and Wellness will be in support of that program.

3:10

Some of the other projects that have been identified on the list, including the Edson health care centre redevelopment, the Lethbridge regional hospital redevelopment, the Barrhead health care centre redevelopment, the Viking health centre renovation and expansion, and the High Prairie health complex replacement, are projects in other health regions. That means that we will have 45 additional acute-care beds in rural Alberta. In total, there will be 162 more acute-care beds in Calgary, 459 more acute-care beds and 100 more long-term care beds in the Capital region, and projects in the other regions will mean 45 additional.

Mr. Chairman, it's my contention that this expenditure this year, which enables all of these projects to be launched, will be a very solid opportunity for the projects to create an estimated 666 additional acute-care beds, 85 long-term care beds, and vastly improve the circumstances for providing better access throughout Alberta for the treatment and support of patients.

The Deputy Chair: The hon. Member for Edmonton-Centre.

Ms Blakeman: Thank you very much, Mr. Chairman, for the opportunity to speak to this. I will note on the record my disappointment with the limitation of three days set aside for supplementary supply. We have not been able to give adequate debate in the previous two days set aside, and I'm hopeful that we'll make it today, but it does mean that we're spending approximately 17 minutes per department, which does not seem adequate for a good exchange of questions and answers.

Going directly to what has just been outlined by the minister and what appears on pages 37 through 40 in the supplementary estimates 2005-2006, general revenue fund and lottery fund, the October 14, 2005, media release announced that $1.4 billion in funding had been approved. I believe the media release actually talks about this money coming out of – yes, indeed. I'm quoting from the October 14, 2005, media release. The health minister is quoted as saying, "Government is using the unbudgeted surplus to help build Alberta's future." As part of this, in the same press release it talks about $1.4 billion for health infrastructure.

What I see before me, Madam Minister, is $64 million and change, and I'm wondering where the rest of the money is. I look forward to a description on that. Essentially, there's a discrepancy here between the $1.4 billion that was announced in October and what we actually see in this supplementary supply being asked for, which is $64,630,000. Where's the rest of the money that was announced, or why don't we see what was announced in October? We were told that it was unbudgeted spending; it was from the surplus. Where is the rest of it?

The minister has attempted to go through and list how the $64 million is being divvied up. I made notes as she spoke. I might have missed something, but she did say that there were six projects being funded in the Capital health region. I got the $100,000 for Grey Nuns, the $7.4 million out of $85 million for Sherwood Park, $3.6 million out of $40 million for the Fort Saskatchewan hospital, $2.2 million for Eastwood. It never gave us a price tag in the original press release. One, two, three, four: that's all she mentioned. I'm wondering what else is happening out of the Capital health region.

The other slight discrepancy I picked up was that at one point she talked about 100 more long-term care beds, but the media release was talking about 85 more long-term care beds. So if she could tell us where the 15 new long-term care beds will be located and how that funding is working, I'd appreciate it. And, of course, where's the rest of the money between $64 million and $1.4 billion?

My next question is that the $1.5 million contract with Aon Consulting is not listed here, so I'm presuming that that means that it was included in the budget that was presented in this Assembly last March. My question is: did the minister know prior to the symposium that she hosted in May that she would be contracting with a private company to create a three-tiered health system or the third way health system or however she wishes to term it? I'm interested in the timing on that one, Mr. Chairman. If that $1.5 million contract which was let to Aon Consulting was not anticipated when the budget was presented, where is it? It should be in this supplementary supply, and I don't see it. So if the money has been freed up from somewhere else, I'd like to know where it was freed up from.

There has been extensive coverage this summer about long-term care flowing from a great deal of advocacy by the community and members of the Official Opposition and the third party opposition and validated by the Auditor General's report released in early May. As a result of that, there was a long-term care review committee, comprised of two government MLAs and one opposition MLA, that spent the summer holding public consultations and released a report.

We've heard all kinds of price tags on implementing that report. I'm wondering from the minister: where's the money? I take it that there is no money for long-term care or to do anything with long-term care prior to the next fiscal year, as it is not listed in what we are looking at for supplementary supply. So can the minister, then, confirm that there is no money that has been allocated for the implementation of the recommendations from the long-term care review or from the Auditor General's report from May of 2005?

The question that I have been asked the most often around the announcements of infrastructure funding in the Department of Health and Wellness is: where are the accompanying operating dollars? I've had all kinds of letters from people saying: are we going to have empty buildings with empty beds because there is no one to staff them? So we are contemplating here new buildings being built. I guess what we need to hear from the minister is: what is the timeline that is accompanying these facilities and expansions and renovations, and when will we see the matching money that needs to go along with it to pay for the human resources to actually operate and work in the infrastructure that is being built here?

I'm interested in how this money is being used specifically. Most of it is fairly small amounts from fairly significant price tags. I'd mentioned some of them: you know, $10.5 million for phase 2 on the Rockyview out of $92 million which was announced in October. So I would like some detailed information from the minister on exactly what is going to be paid for from this money. She gave us a sort of general overview: it would go toward this and so. I'm interested in seeing what is anticipated here. Particularly, if there are going to be contracts signed to provide architectural drawings, to do initial cost assessments, to dig the foundation, where is the money that is allocated in this fiscal year that we are contemplating before us today from this supplementary supply estimate? How exactly is that money going to be spent? How is it contracted? To whom? Obviously, she is not going to have time to give that to us today, so I would appreciate receiving that from her in written form.

3:20

I'd like to know, because these are partial payments toward much larger price-tag projects, who made the decision. Did the minister approach the regional health authorities and say: I'm going to give you X amount? For example: "Calgary, I'm going to give you 50.9. You figure out how to divvy it up, and get back to me. Capital health region, I'm going to give you 13.4. Figure it out, and get back to me." Did the department go through and decide how to allocate the money specifically to various projects? Did you all have a big party, and everybody pitched, and somehow they figured it out on the spot with a calculator? I'd like to know how these amounts were arrived at for these particular projects.

I would also like to know if other monies were reallocated during the year. I'm suspecting that monies were in fact reallocated inside of the budget year, and we're not seeing that in the supplementary supply because it's moving between line items, and it's not asking for additional supply from the Crown, but I would be interested in where other monies were reallocated during the year. From where did they come, to where did they go, and why?

One of the initiatives that was listed under the minister's third way initiatives was mental health, and I don't see any money allocated for mental health in this supplementary supply. My understanding from talking to someone earlier today was that someone from the department had been saying that there was an expected $300 million going into infrastructure for mental health facilities. One, is that true? Two, why isn't it in this budget? Three, when do we expect it?

Again looking at the fact that we are getting partial payments, what is the schedule for the rest of the payments? More particularly, do we have to wait for another surplus to get the next instalment on the building or on the renovation? We have a situation here where there's a long wish list and a long need list of capacity building and infrastructure in Health and Wellness, but we don't see it in the original budget that comes forward from the minister. When we ask questions about it, we're always sort of given a catch-all phrase that's it in a business plan and we need to do other things and we know what they are, but we're not telling you.

So now we have unbudgeted spending. What do they call it? Off-budget spending, which always reminds me of off-track betting. They're both done in the dark and away from the real action. I would like to know where the plan is. Does this mean now that the remaining money, the difference between the $40 million for the construction of a new hospital in Fort Saskatchewan and the $3.6 million that they were given through this supplementary supply – do they have to wait until there's another surplus? If there's no surplus in the next fiscal year, do they then just halt everything and leave the wires sticking out of the ground until there is a surplus, and then they get another allocation? Or will there now be a concrete plan with timelines, expected outcomes, contracts, dates, amounts, monitoring, and evaluation that goes along with it? I'd really like to see how the minister anticipates laying that out and whether there's a concrete plan to have this roll out over so much money and so many other years or if this is again awaiting surpluses.

Another question I've been asked a lot by people that have written to me is: why did the government make this announcement after the budget was passed? Why not include this money in the budget planning in the first place, where we had a level of detail that would make it clear what the government was anticipating rather than getting a big announcement on the 14th of October with two pages' worth of listings of what's going to be covered?

The other thing I've noticed from serving on Public Accounts for many, many years is that for funding that comes after the budget is passed, particularly late in the year, there's always a sort of rush to spend the money before the end of the fiscal year. In that rush, well, sometimes contracts aren't signed before the work starts, might skip a little bit on some of the monitoring. I mean, maybe all of the performance measurements aren't looked at, or the contract isn't evaluated. The key points in there are kind of skipped over. So how do we get reassurance from the government that these funds will be properly expended, they will be properly contracted, and that the risk will be acknowledged and planned for and hedged against? It's taxpayers' money here that could be wasted if things are not done properly and either have to be redone or done, for example, in an unsafe way.

A slight repeat, which is the question: where are the operating dollars that match the infrastructure that's anticipated here? Is there a budget in place that actually tells the minister how much money she's going to need in order to staff these new hospitals and, in some cases, expanded hospitals? I think the background to that is that we're already experiencing staff shortages and heavy workloads for health professionals. I'm sure we've all heard of that. The United Nurses of Alberta recently warned the province. What was their quote? Something about don't be buying bed sheets because we don't have people to actually staff the beds that they have. The University of Calgary's executive dean of health sciences is quoted as fearing that physician shortages will become a crisis in the next eight to 10 years. They're not even coming close to meeting their needs.

My question to the Minister of Health and Wellness is: what is the short-term strategy and the long-term plan to increase the amount of health professionals in Alberta; in other words, to staff these very buildings that are now going to be built? What programs are in place for recruitment of health professionals? Exactly what is being done in conjunction or collaboration with the Ministry of Advanced Education in an effort to recruit and train health professionals? We know that there's a limit on the number of spaces, for example, in med school. There are only so many of them, and that's it. People get in, and those spaces are filled, and you only graduate so many of them. Only so many are funded, more to the point, by the provincial government. So what collaboration is happening cross-ministry with the Ministry of Advanced Education?

I'd like to know, given the shortage of health professionals, particularly in rural Alberta, why the decision was made to not provide extra supports to the rural physician action plan? It strikes me that if we have a health workforce crisis, and particularly I think we see that manifested in rural Alberta, why was this extra support not provided there?

So the additional questions. I'm wondering if there is any money targeted from off-budget spending? I'm beginning to wonder if there isn't another supplementary supply that's coming that's got the rest of this money in it. Is there any money that's targeted from off-budget spending for the third way initiatives? Additionally, is there any money targeted from the budget money that is specific to third way initiatives?

The minister did go through, for the most part, how much money was targeted to each facility but with a very general description, and I would like much more detail, please. I would also like to know how much has been spent. Given that the original announcement was October and the government – well, certainly the Premier has made it very clear that he regards the debate in the Assembly as a much-after-the-fact, long-after-the-fact rubber stamp, how much of the money that is being detailed here has actually been spent as of the end of this month? Was most of it already spent this summer? By the end of October? Will it be mostly spent by the end of December? Where are we with that?

3:30

I'm also interested in the $919,852,000 that are listed as credit or recovery for balance of expense. Could we get a breakdown of exactly what that amount of money represents? I'm assuming that this is recovery, so it may well be premiums, health care premiums, but I'm interested in whether that is what it is and what else is included in that. Are there other fees? Were there monies unallocated that have now been transferred? Did they say that they were going to do something that they didn't? Where is that money from?

I'm being very aware of the extremely limited time that we have here and the number of my colleagues that also wish to debate. I note today that as well as Health and Wellness we're trying to get through Sustainable Resource Development, Agriculture, Food and Rural Development, Community Development, and Environment. Left over from previous days we have Children's Services, Solicitor General, Infrastructure, Seniors, and Municipal Affairs. So I will take my seat and allow the minister an opportunity to briefly respond. I believe that there are others of my colleagues that also wish to direct questions to the minister on this particular supplementary supply.

Ms Evans: Thank you very much for the questions. Let me just say at the outset that the unbudgeted surplus that's been the basic host for the expenditures is to host capital expenditures. Plans that were announced last year, both in June and in October, were the target of these expenditures. These were plans that were in various stages of development, functional studies, planning studies that were announced in 2004 that had not been fully acknowledged in this year's capital budget. Of course, there were many capital projects under way this year. This fulfills the obligation of plans that were announced, projects that were in various stages of development, and provides an accounting for how those projects can be funded in future.

The funds are held in an account, obviously, under the support system of the rules of Finance and through Infrastructure and Transportation, who manage the release of the funds. When the regions came forward and presented what they would absolutely need in this budget year, 2005-06, to accomplish at least the start-up for those particular projects or the advancement of those projects, these dollars that were given, the $64 million, were an acknowledgement of what their needs are today. They did not acknowledge next year's expenditures.

Next year's expenditures will be invoiced to those accounts that are identified and properly tracked for those particular projects. Calgary health authority, for example, will receive the money that's allocated for their projects on the basis of when they use it. So if there was a lack of opportunity, if there was some shortage of supplies, then that advancement would not be made. So it's in a very controlled situation. When invoices are received, they are paid through the sign-off in Infrastructure and Transportation. That's part of the service of management that Infrastructure and Transportation gives to approved projects.

Long-term care, because it is predominantly staffing, although there is an accommodation portion of it as well, which the Minister of Seniors and Community Supports has in her department, will be something that we will come forward and talk about at a different time. The approvals were announced in October, and these supplementary estimates focus on those approvals. Later approvals would come from later dollars that would be available. So that would deal with long-term care and any additional funding.

On the subject of the Aon contract there were dollars that were in a consulting budget that were identified in Health and Wellness to enable us to hire people to provide work for either the third way or other projects. It's from those dollars that are available for contracted services that Aon was retained. Right from the time that the RFP was announced in July, I think it was clear that there would be dollars expended on that contract. It is not part of the supplementary estimates.

The operating dollars is a very good question. I could give just as an example a summary in today's dollars of cumulative annual operating cost implications for the new health projects. For example, Edmonton Eastwood primary care over the next three years is not anticipated to have any operating dollar implications because it will take at least that long to build. In 2009-10 it's anticipated to be $1.751 million, 2010-11 to be $2.865 million, 2011-12, when it's getting more fully operational, $5,092,000, and 2012-13 to be $7.319 million annualized, so that's at a fully operational level. In 2013 it's anticipated that that primary health care replacement, a new project, would cost about $7 million in operating costs.

The staffing plan both for rural projects and for urban projects is being developed as we speak. Parts of that have been done. For example, Edson in their redevelopment phase 2 is not anticipated to have any additional operating costs. I believe the costs were nominal. About $146,000 was expected to be the cost. So it depends on staff deployment and each individual project.

The decisions on these projects, as I said previously, were from decisions made, submissions initially by the health regions last year, announcements that were made in support of those health regions. Then at the juncture of making a final determination of the amounts of these particular projects, significant conversation was engaged between the regional health authority with Infrastructure and Transportation and Health and Wellness. So the final determination was a blend of participants in decision-making.

Briefly, on the mental health that has been referenced by the member opposite, some $300 million for a mental health facility. Although there's been speculation about the mental health facilities in the future, this was not part of this announcement.

I'd like to clarify that while she asked about, quite properly, the long-term care beds, although 100 new beds are being built in the Capital health region because of a redeployment of patients in the Barrhead health care centre renovation projects, it's a net of 85 because 15 patients in the Barrhead facility are being relocated to other existing facilities, to new supportive living facilities that will serve their needs. So although we build a hundred, it's, in fact, this year a net of 85 new long-term care beds.

In terms of third way initiatives, again, not part of this particular supplementary expenditure.

On the reference to some $919,852,000 we will provide a written response so that it can be detailed and, quite properly, precise mathematically so that that's available for the hon. member.

I will say this, and I'm sure sitting with her colleague on the benches opposite: the challenge of the health workforce is something that we are all struggling with. One of the things that I think I'm encouraged by is that the Minister of Advanced Education agrees with me, and we are working together on a plan to add to that supply because, obviously, with a buoyant economy and the growing population we need that. A number of initiatives, I think, will take some coalition building. We've talked today with some of our federal counterparts about some things that we can do as strategies Canada-wide to encourage the support of a viable, healthy workforce.

The Deputy Chair: The hon. Member for Edmonton-Highlands-Norwood.

3:40

Mr. Mason: Thank you very much, Mr. Chairman. I'm pleased to rise and ask some questions of the hon. minister with respect to her supplementary estimates. I'd like to start, if I can, with the government's approach to private insurance. I understand that this isn't directly under the supplementary estimates, which are capital items, but I'm pleased that she did respond to my colleague from Edmonton-Centre on this question.

One of the great concerns we have is that the terms of the contract for Aon Consulting did not include establishing a comparator for the public sector. In other words, this company is going to be looking at how you would structure private health care insurance in this province and how that might be done, how much it would cost and so on. What's missing, Mr. Chairman, is a comparator in the public sector. We, of course, think that there's lots of evidence to indicate that the public sector will be able to do it more cheaply. So in the absence of one it makes it very, very difficult to actually make a policy decision with respect to public versus private.

Related to this is the whole question of extending private coverage to all nonemergency health care services. I would appreciate it if the minister could give us an idea of the scope of what the government considers to be nonemergency services. As we understand it, nonemergency might include very, very serious surgery that was not instantly required in order to save the patient's life. In other words, if you need some heart surgery at some point or if you're going to have a heart attack but you haven't yet had the heart attack, that would be considered nonemergency.

Ms Blakeman: A kidney transplant.

Mr. Mason: Or a kidney transplant, my hon. colleague said, and so on. Even cancer treatment could be considered to be nonemergency. So, Mr. Chairman, this could extend to almost anything that didn't involve the emergency room or intensive care in a hospital. In other words, the vast majority of the system could be up for privatization. So I think it is very important that we get some clarity from the minister about what exactly is on the table with respect to the potential for private coverage.

I know that the Premier is talking about the potential of violating the Canada Health Act. He has raised this himself in the past, and he's now being asked this question in eastern Canada, and he's really not being very, very crystal clear about what the government has in mind. Under what circumstances would the government agree or decide to violate the Canada Health Act? What is the potential cost to Alberta of doing so? If, in fact, we do lose that funding – and it may be, according to our calculations, up to about $3 billion a year – how will that be covered and whether or not that will be covered by extending private insurance to Albertans?

The question of wait times is very important. I'd like to know how the government is doing with respect to reducing waiting times, and how successful the national strategy to reduce wait times is, what progress has been made, and what money from the federal government for that has been put towards?

I had a chance to discuss with the minister in her office the whole question of pharmaceutical savings when we talked about our bill, which was just defeated yesterday on second reading, the Alberta Pharmaceutical Savings Commission Act. I wonder if the minister will just express for the House her comments with respect to what the government has been doing in that area and the status of the national work that's being done on that. In my view, I was somewhat surprised when I did meet with the minister that, in fact, it's considerably less than maybe some people have been led to believe.

I want to ask a little about long-term care; that is, the conversion of long-term beds into assisted-living beds. This is an area of great concern to us right now: what the changes are when a bed is changed from a long-term care bed to an assisted-living bed, what services are no longer covered or are no longer received by the person in that bed, what the cost savings are to the owners of the facility, what the cost savings are to the government and, conversely, what the additional costs may be to access those services outside the system – what is the policy of the government toward controlling the conversion of long-term beds into assisted living, and how much conversion has already taken place? – what the stock of long-term beds is, what the government's plan is, what the government estimates the need for long-term beds to be in the future, and how we relate to that.

This is a very serious concern, Mr. Chairman, and it's been an issue. The government has committed to dealing with the Auditor General's report on long-term care, but they haven't really addressed the whole question of this conversion process that's going on, and it's causing a lot of difficulties for people. It needs to be seriously addressed.

I would also like to ask the minister on the same point what the government's commitment is relative to the Auditor General's report on long-term care. At the time that the Auditor General made his report on long-term care, the Premier stood in this House and said that the government was committing to every single recommendation of the Auditor General. But then the government appointed a committee of MLAs, including a Conservative MLA and a Liberal MLA, and that report came back with a considerably less rigorous set of recommendations than the Auditor General had. In fact, it fell far short of what the Auditor General had said. So if the government is going to adopt those recommendations, does that mean that they are no longer committed to adopting and putting into place all of the recommendations of the Auditor General's report? That's a very important question because it's created a lot of confusion about where the government's commitment actually lies.

I want to ask about the two hospitals in Sherwood Park and in Fort Saskatchewan. The Premier had identified in some of his comments that this was solving a political problem – I assume, a battle between two towns, the hamlet of Sherwood Park and the city of Fort Saskatchewan – over where the hospital would be located. In a Solomon-like decision they decided to split the baby. I would like to know from the minister and I wonder if she would commit to providing a timeline of the decision-making around this and to also provide cost estimates of building a single hospital as opposed to the two separate stand-alone hospitals, those costs and the comparison. Also, the costs of operation of two smaller hospitals as opposed to the cost of operation of one larger facility would be much appreciated by us.

I'm sure that the government did its homework and actually looked at that whole question because I'm sure that they're committed to providing the very best and most cost-effective use of taxpayers' dollars when it comes to building and operating new facilities. So they must have looked at that, and I'd certainly like the minister to provide that.

I just want to conclude by saying that I have appreciated this minister's openness to discussion and dialogue. Although she doesn't agree with our point of view, nor do we agree with her point of view, it is a bit refreshing to have a minister that is prepared to share information and have a dialogue even if it's sometimes just off the record a little bit, to have some back-channel communication. It's most appreciated, and I think that it would lead ultimately to better government and better opposition.

Thank you, Mr. Chairman.

3:50

The Deputy Chair: The hon. minister.

Ms Evans: Yes. I'm going to more fully respond to the detail of questions that the hon. members opposite have given at a later date.

I'd like to just indicate that the points that the hon. member has raised relative to the structure of comparators for the models being developed to evaluate the actuarial costs for any change in the insuring of services – supplementary health services, pharmacy and drug-related costs, or continuing care – are points that I will respond to, will take back, in fact, and ask our administration how they view the capacity of the RFP to respond to those models with a comparator. It's my understanding that that in fact is going to take place, but I want to gather that assurance so that I am providing it quite properly.

The hon. member tempts me when he talks about the definitions of emergency, nonemergency, and medically necessary. Something may not be an emergent health issue, but it will be medically necessary, and at some point it may become an emergent issue. Things that are medically necessary are obviously not always emergency related. When you review the comments about the vagueness of the Canada Health Act on this issue, governments generally tend to define what they don't consider to be emergent but may at some point require more immediate care.

So while it is an interesting discussion point not necessarily related to the discussion of this particular supplementary estimate, I take most seriously the evaluation of how we best define this. I am sure that over the months ahead we'll be compelled to provide that so that Albertans know what is nonemergent and what is medically necessary and most things that may not be an emergency but are medically necessary for treatment at some point. I digress, but it is an important element for us to understand so that we aren't in violation of proper care.

The Premiers of Alberta and Quebec have talked about the need to look at options and to debate the issues surrounding the Canada Health Act at this time. Quebec's Jacques Choulli, speaking at a conference I attended in Vancouver, said that by Justice Deschamps' adjudication of section 1 of the Quebec charter as being like section 7 of the Canadian Charter, in his view section 1 and the decision they've made on that subject should also be imposed on section 7 of the Canadian Charter. Ergo, it's his belief and the belief supported by some of the judiciary that were at that conference that in actual fact Alberta and any province that held a prohibition to private insurance would already have a strike against that private insurance prohibition because of the Quebec ruling. I think we're very anxious to see the white paper that Quebec brings forward and examine whether or not this is more significant, in their judgment, because of the similarities between the intent and the design of section 1 of the Quebec charter and section 7 of the Canadian Charter.

We're working on getting a wait-time report available not only for Albertans but for Canadians. This bed capacity that is provided in the supplementary list here I believe will ultimately improve our bed capacity.

The conversation about the operating costs of the two hospitals, both located in Sherwood Park and Fort Saskatchewan, is an interesting one. At full operational costing the Fort Saskatchewan health centre replacement in today's dollars in the year 2013 is estimated to cost an additional $205,000 and the Sherwood Park facility $22 million. When I discussed with the capital region, "Why not one hospital instead of two?" they said that, in their view, from the studies between both, yes, there was a political issue, but they felt, I think, that the needs of the population are better served by defining primary care centres in close proximity to the populations.

The building of one stand-alone facility, either between the communities or in one community or another, might well cost more because the pressure would be on that facility to become more of a regional hospital by definition rather than two facilities, health care community centres, that will deliver health care in, hopefully, the new and more advanced way of having health teams to adjudicate the problems and to respond to them.

I do appreciate, as I've said previously, the views of the hon. members opposite, of the third party, because I'm encouraged that they are looking at being creative and innovative about how we reduce our costs.

In terms of the long-term care and moves to assisted living, that is something that the hon. Member for Lethbridge-East and the government members on the long-term care review panel looked over very seriously. In the definition of standards that will ultimately come forward – they are in draft form now – we have to have very carefully articulated protocols because my understanding is that two things are in play. The assisted-living definition isn't the same in every community. Also, the long-term care patients that are more appropriately placed in assisted living need to be assured through their assessments that they are suitable for those placements, and ultimately the standards will compel that to happen.

In the short term in Chinook, for example, where many are being located to assisted-living supports, there's careful work being done both with the guardians or the families involved, and hopefully those placements – some will be grandfathered – will be in the best interests of the patient, which is ultimately the responsibility of the health services delivery.

I just want to say this. I see that the Auditor General's report was one piece to be responded to, and yes, we accepted those recommendations. The recommendations from the MLA committee that reviewed long-term care will supplement and add to the strength of those recommendations, gave a more detailed opportunity for us to review the issues, and I would suggest that when we ultimately bring forward the government response and the plan for implementation, the hon. member will be reassured that we are making some gains on that.

I think that the difficulty that I face in reviewing all of those reports is that it's not having standards on paper that is ultimately going to affect better care for people in long-term care or in home care or in assisted living. It's having the staff understanding and the commitment and the regional health authority commitment to making sure that that implementation takes place that will tell the tale. So we have work to do.

The Deputy Chair: The hon. Member for Edmonton-Ellerslie.

Mr. Agnihotri: Thank you, Mr. Chairman. It's my great honour to rise and speak to the supplementary estimates on Health and Wellness. I want to start with the Grey Nuns hospital, which is in the Mill Woods area. The people there have been experiencing shortages of staff and beds for a long, long time now. I heard that the current budget is only for new beds. In emergency the waiting time is still four to nine hours, and I have seen people suffering and some people crying. You know, it's a big problem there. So I request the hon. minister to look at it as sometimes they are continuously suffering as a result of the shortages of staff and beds. I want to ask the hon. minister: when will this government provide new staff and place all the new beds in the Grey Nuns hospital in Edmonton? Also, I want to know: when will this government solve these problems in this hospital and how?

4:00

My constituents are firmly in favour of a reformed public health care system. They've asked me to let you know that their stand on public health care is firm. What are the short-term and long-term plans for this particular hospital? My constituents are anxious to know the answers from the provincial government. They are anxiously wanting to know the reforms promised by the Tory government. They are totally confused about the government's three-way plan, so they keep on asking me to ask the government. So please, please tell Albertans. If you have any sustainable policies, please let us know.

Thank you.

Ms Evans: Just briefly I'd like to identify that the bed reclamation phase 4 of the Grey Nuns community hospital is anticipated to have a total provincial support of $49,700,000 and a hundred thousand dollars for the redevelopment this year.

I'd just like to make one observation. The expanded use of the Alberta wait list registry will hopefully enable people to see, when a bed is not available in their local community hospital, where they could possibly get served. We do have to encourage Albertans to look at their health delivery in a different way and, if their local hospital isn't available, find out what the wait times might be like for procedures in other hospitals. Although it would be lovely to be able to just serve one person in those hospital beds, it's not always possible, and I know that the hon. member opposite understands that.

In terms of the public system I would tell anybody that asked, "Are they committed to public health, number one," yes, $1.4 billion for new public facilities to help us acknowledge the growing Alberta population. So we are working in that vein to improve the capacity in the public health system.

The Deputy Chair: Hon. members, in light of what the Speaker stated earlier on, I would caution everyone that the noise level is getting very, very high. The microphone system has to have the ability to pick the voice of the speaker. So please reduce the level of noise. The Minister of Health and Wellness has the floor.

The hon. minister.

Ms Evans: Yes. So just briefly in conclusion to the hon. member opposite, the commitment is solid in the public system and the commitment for possible innovations or other things in the future; for example, looking at how we deal with supplementary health care funding or health services funding, how we look at the continuing care funding in the future. Those are chapters that haven't been written yet. We're using our RFP to make examination of the costs, and in due course Albertans, stakeholders, will hear from this government on those issues.

Thank you.

The Deputy Chair: The hon. Member for Cardston-Taber-Warner.

Mr. Hinman: Thank you, Mr. Chairman. It's a pleasure to be able to stand and make a few comments on the supplemental supply for Health and Wellness. The first thing I want to say is that one positive point is that at least our Premier is out there saying that health care is not sustainable in its current situation, and as soon as Canadians realize that, we can start doing some serious changes to our system to actually serve Albertans better. [interjection] We will. Be calm for a minute. Be happy to. That's why we're here.

I'm always amazed at how many people say that there's no way for private facilities. I don't think that too many people back up and realize that most doctors' offices are private facilities here in this province, and they function and serve us very well. [interjection] Absolutely. That's what we need to keep. It's critical that we have single-payer . . .

Mr. Mason: Single-payer, private, two-tiered health care.

Mr. Hinman: No, no. Let's just keep going here, and we'll stop the rhetoric bit.

At this time I'd like to share with the minister some innovative ideas that I've heard from many Albertans because they are not in the new supplemental supply, and I thought that some of them might be. One of the things I wanted to talk about is the pharmaceuticals. We all know and understand the cost of research and development of new drugs and the fact that these corporations have to recoup that, but by not allowing any of those new drugs onto our list of availabilities, they keep those prices very high. I was wondering if the minister has ever talked to those pharmaceutical companies and asked them: would they reduce those drugs if, in fact, we were to put them onto the list that could be utilized by Albertans to improve their health? There are many new ones out there that are a great advantage, but the cost is prohibitive, and perhaps we could strike a deal to show them how many patients would be using those drugs and get a reduced cost and thereby get them onto our list sooner.

Another thing that's often talked about is the actual cost of each, whether it's a hip replacement, kidney. We talk about actuaries, trying to find out the prices. I feel that that's where the free market has always done its best. If, in fact, the minister was to put out and say, for example, "We're doing 5,000 hip surgeries this year" or whatever the numbers are. Due to the lack of funding our research in this caucus isn't always as good as I'd like it to be, so I don't know the numbers on hip surgeries or MRIs or those things. You know those numbers, and if in fact you were to put them out and say, "We're looking at a five-year contract; we have to have this many," facilities would be built by private industry if the funds followed those services. I feel that the fastest, quickest, most efficient way – and I've talked to many rural areas – is by putting those out for an open bid by the doctors here in Alberta. Just like their own private clinics where they treat the average Albertans, we could also have many private clinics that would do perhaps MRIs, CAT scans. We already have some in the province. Look at that on all types of services that we have such a huge backlog on. The most painful part about our healthcare here is how long many people have to wait.

I know a lady in my area who I consider to be young, in her late 40s, that needs a knee replacement, and it's just terrible that she's going to have to wait possibly another six months and is not able to work. That's something that we can and should be able to facilitate. By allowing the funding to follow the service, we would get more of it coming online.

Another interesting area is the cost and the amount of people that come and utilize our emergency services. It's a struggle to keep those people out, but as those of us who have gone and visited emergency just to observe, we do see that there are a fair amount of people that walk in that could go to more evening clinics if, in fact, we had them open. Again, if those services were being funded by the province, I really believe that the private enterprises would open more facilities at no cost to us and that the money would go to services being provided again. So if the minister would look at that.

Another area of great concern in the south with the Chinook health region and other small regions – currently to my understanding such things as angioplasty are off-limit for smaller regions to offer. Down in the States a little town like Kalispell actually has a surgeon that does angioplasty, and they're able to function in small areas. Once again, if the actual funding followed the service, the Chinook health region I believe would already have an angioplasty surgeon from the States who wants to come back to Canada, but because the funding doesn't follow the service, we have a backlog and a shortage.

Many times at the Lethbridge regional hospital people don't get in in time, and the time for the air ambulance is too late to get to Calgary. It would take a great load off the big regions if, like I say, we'd allow that funding to follow the service and let small regions, if they have someone who can come in willing to do it, take that on.

I guess my last comment that I'd like to make today is that fear at the greatest height is the unknown. Albertans have gone on for a long time through many reports on what this government is proposing, and the fear is still at a very high level with all this talk of this private health care and private insurance. I don't believe we need to go to that length if, in fact, we would just fund the services that are provided here in the province. We have the opportunity. That should be the first step that we take and realize how well that can work.

4:10

By not allowing those funds to follow service, it seems like it's more bureaucratically driven. When a budget is given to the different health regions, they look at every service that comes in as an expense out of their budget. I really believe that by turning that around and by saying, "What services have you provided Albertans, and we will pay you," they'll be driven by service and satisfaction and not try to hoard the money and close down operations for four or six hours a day because they say: well, we don't have the funding. We could have those running 24/7 in many facilities, including MRIs, if in fact they're being paid for the services.

So I'd really encourage this minister to continue with her openness and be more open and let Albertans know what's coming down and the ideas that are there. Let's seriously look at, I ask, funding following the services and let free enterprise step up and help Albertans and reduce our waiting lines.

Thank you for the time.

Ms Evans: Mr. Chair, I'm just going to be very brief. There are many thoughts that have been expressed by the hon. member opposite, but one of the questions really relates to the fact that the private sector, especially insurance companies, could analyze and give us a pretty good feel for how much the cost would be and engage in help to the system.

I guess the thing that I have always wanted as a consumer is to be able to estimate or at least know what I'm likely to pay for something before I go shopping. I think this Alberta government, if in fact we change – and I stress if in fact we change – any way of supporting people to receive health care in the public system, has to know that if we remove our prohibition to private insurance or if we open the door to more private insurers to take part in Alberta, if they so choose – they may well not choose – we will always have a core of people that require our support, that are either unable to provide that support for themselves, that are unable to plan for their future because of their economic circumstance, or that are already senior and on fixed incomes. No matter what, we have to know the equation so that if we say, "All right; we are going to, for example, look at future generations paying towards supporting their own continuing care if they're financially able to do so," we still have to know what remains in the system.

The other part is the pre-existing conditions. If I'm already a person with multiple sclerosis, what opportunity will I have to gain insurance? So you have to cross that bridge for those people that are medically fragile or have a pre-existing condition. I think that's another part of why we have to look at those kinds of things.

I thank you for the observation that we are open to looking at other things. I would like to indicate that when I listened to Gordon Gibson, who was formerly assistant to the former and late Prime Minister Trudeau, he quoted that today the health care systems – and I'm just going to paraphrase – have a need to introduce a more honest dialogue and transparency about what's happening because we are not sustainable in our current form. We have to look at what's happening with other OECD countries who may be able to do it better and get people in and shorter waiting times and make sure that we have a better functioning system.

Last but not least, the national organization the Canadian council on health care has observed that waiting times may harm patients, and that's their number one principle. We have to pay attention to that regardless of private insurance or private care or anything else. Waiting can harm patients, and if we know that as Members of the Legislative Assembly, for that reason alone it behooves us to find better ways. So thank you for that encouragement.

The Deputy Chair: The hon. Member for Edmonton-Gold Bar.

Mr. MacDonald: Thank you very much, Mr. Chairman. Certainly, there are a number of issues to be discussed this afternoon, and there is so limited time. However, I have some questions in regard to the health care budget and the supplementary estimates that are being discussed.

When one looks at this amount, when one looks at the entire government budget, we hear the arguments from across the floor about how our health care system is not sustainable, that we have to initiate change because it's just not sustainable. But I believe that we have to heed the words of the hon. Member for Edmonton-Riverview and consider better management of the system.

We are looking at new facilities. Again, I remind all hon. members of this House that it's the same government that dynamited a perfectly good hospital in Calgary and closed many others. [interjections] It was a perfectly good hospital. The hon. Minister of Advanced Education may disagree with that, but many of the fine citizens of Calgary are still puzzled about why it was blown up.

Here we have a decade later the same government. I'm sure they're going to give themselves centennial medals for their hospital reconstruction efforts, but that goes back to what the hon. Member for Edmonton-Riverview stated, and that was that we could manage the system better.

The public accounts, that were tabled yesterday, indicate that we had in the Calgary regional health authority an amount in excess of $2 billion granted. If we compare that to Edmonton, the Edmonton Capital health authority is roughly a little greater than $2 billion. Edmonton would be $2.2 billion, and Calgary would be $2.1 billion. In light of the time, I'm certainly not going to go through all of the regional health authorities that are included in the public accounts, but could the hon. minister provide to me, please, the per capita amount of Alberta Health and Wellness funding for 2004 and 2005 for each of the respective health authorities in the province. I would really appreciate that.

The hon. Member for Cardston-Taber-Warner was talking earlier about procedures that are available in Montana. I understand that there are a number of pilot projects going on in both the Capital health authority region and the Calgary health authority region to increase the number of knee and hip replacements through a partnership or an alliance. One specific company here comes to view, and it's numbered company 1157268 Alberta Ltd. I was wondering if we could get an update, please, on how those pilot projects are working out.

Of course, our Premier is travelling and explaining to the rest of the country exactly how health care should be operating in the rest of Canada. I don't think that anybody from this government has the right to tell the rest of Canada how to deliver or to eliminate in this case public health care, particularly with the performance in the last 10 years of this current government. We have to go back to what the Member for Edmonton-Riverview said. We've got to manage what we have better. Privatization is not the answer. I find it quite ironic that on the current speaking tour being conducted by the Premier, the Premier on behalf of this government wants to tell the rest of the country how to manage their health care affairs.

4:20

Now, certainly, the Health Care Protection Act came into effect with a lot of questions by the public in regard to this. How exactly would this work? Mr. Chairman, one only has to go to the Calgary regional health authority to find out how this is working. We've always been promised that this is going to work out and that it's going to reduce wait times.

If we look, for instance, at ophthalmology in Calgary, in that regional health authority the wait list, as I understand it, for cataract surgery has increased 11 per cent when compared to the previous year although the wait time, fair enough, has remained constant. Now, I learned through the annual report from the Calgary regional health authority that in January of this year as a wait-list reduction endeavour the Calgary health region approved 1,000 additional one-time cataract procedures. Also, the Calgary regional health authority approved an increase in the number of cataracts to be completed in 2005-2006, increasing from 7,000 to 8,500. This agreement, as I understand it, is in effect until March 31, 2008.

Now, we were told and promised that this was all going to work out. If this is an experiment, I would like an explanation from the hon. minister as to how this is actually working. Whenever we heard that privatization would reduce waiting lists and reduce waiting times, it's apparent from the annual report that that has not happened. Calgary seems to be leading the charge in this sort of privatization by stealth. If the hon. minister could provide me with the information in regard to that, I would certainly be grateful.

When we look at the contracts in this regional health authority

under the Health Care Protection Act, if we compare last year to this year, we will see that there has been almost a 30 per cent increase in those contracts, and there also has been an increase in contracts to health services operators. If I could have the information provided to me for the other health authorities through the course of our discussion this afternoon at some time – and I can understand if the hon. minister does not have that information available and could provide it in writing, hopefully, before the end of the year – I would be grateful.

With that, Mr. Chairman, that is all I have to say at this time in regard to the supplementary estimates of Health and Wellness. Thank you.

Ms Evans: Mr. Speaker, I will respond to the hon. member's observations, but I'd just like to make one observation, not because of this minister's involvement but because of the involvement of my predecessors who sit in this Chamber and one that doesn't. Alberta is respected across the country as having one of the most advanced health care systems on every front. Alberta is also recognized as a place that has been much more restrictive to the development of private care than either Ontario, Quebec, or British Columbia. So criticisms that our Premier should not shine the light on this issue I think are misplaced. Our Premier is, in fact, I think openly encouraging discussion because of the inequities we find ourselves in in terms of the manner in which we're dealt with as provinces.

Today I listened to the people from New Brunswick who came and identified that it's the first time that the Canada Health Act dispute resolution will be applied in their particular part of the country. Not in Alberta. Alberta has had a track record of being in compliance with the Canada Health Act over the past several years and I think has shown by the number of specialists it has attracted that it is capable of delivering a very sound system.

In terms of the pilot projects and numbered company 1157268, I believe that would be illustrative of one of the partners delivering the hip and joint replacements. That is a project that's going extremely well. I'll clarify that when we look at the Blues and make sure that we table those responses.

The Deputy Chair: After considering the 2005-2006 supplementary estimates for the Department of Health and Wellness for the fiscal year ending March 31, 2006, are you ready for the vote?

Hon. Members: Question.

Agreed to:

Expense and Equipment/Inventory Purchases	$64,630,000
---	--------------

The Deputy Chair: Shall the vote be reported? Are you agreed?

Hon. Members: Agreed.

The Deputy Chair: Opposed? Carried.

Sustainable Resource Development

The Deputy Chair: The hon. minister.

Mr. Coumts: Thank you, Mr. Chairman and colleagues all. I'd like to certainly address the Assembly this afternoon on the need for $80 million in supplementary estimates for the Department of Sustainable Resource Development; $75.2 million of that request for $80 million is needed for wildfire-fighting costs, which would actually bring the total operating expenditure for the year to $151 million.

There were over 1,300 forest fires this last season, mainly as a result of dry weather in the remote northern section of Alberta, and this happened especially early in the season. There weren't a lot of fires in the southern section this year because of climatic conditions. There was a lot of moisture in our forests, and that's a good thing. Totally, the fires that we did have this year, Mr. Chairman, consumed more than 60,000 hectares of land. Because these wildfires were in such remote locations, as I said, access to water supplies was often limited, and they were quite expensive to suppress in this particular year. As a result, a forest fire emergency was declared. Wildfires, that certainly disrupt communities and impact our environment, for example, threaten to destroy sensitive watersheds. When this occurs, these wildfires must be actioned.

Most Albertans aren't even aware that we still have wildfires burning in Alberta. Even though the fire season officially ended on October 31, only yesterday a forest protection crew worked with the Slave Lake and area fire departments on a grass fire 20 kilometres west of Slave Lake, and that's because of the unusually warm weather and yesterday's very strong winds in the area. The local fire department and our crews made sure that the fire was out in very good time and saved some of the houses that were very, very close to the beginnings of this fire.

[Ms Haley in the chair]

So this demonstration of always being ready for a fire, Madam Chairman, is a very good example of our staff's efforts to manage many wildfires not only during the high wildfire season but also throughout the year.

The department also requires an additional $4.8 million to address mountain pine beetle infestations, which were quite intense this year along Alberta's western border. I've spoken in this House many times about the pine beetle and how it's encroaching into Alberta. In order to stop that, it takes significant expenditures of manpower and dollars to attack the pine beetle at those locations that have been identified by our aerial and our ground surveys as well as by the forestry companies and the national parks that are very, very close to the forest and can recognize fader trees where the pine beetle is starting to infest. So we require an additional $4.8 million to address the mountain pine beetle infestations, and that would bring the total expenditures in this area to $7.4 million for 2005 and 2006.

4:30

Madam Chairman, the mountain pine beetle is just what we are starting to term and starting to consider as another smouldering fire developing in the bark of these trees. Certainly, our surveillance discovered large infestations in the Willmore wilderness park as well as the Kakwa wildland park. Along with the co-operation from Community Development, again an emergency was declared. We worked very quickly in cutting and burning more than 5,000 trees in four weeks with minimal impact.

We learned from our neighbours in British Columbia, who are struggling with the mountain pine beetle, that inaction is not an option. British Columbia saw the mountain pine beetle infestation spread from about 165,000 hectares of land in 1999 to an estimated 4.2 million hectares in 2004. We don't want that to happen in Alberta, so quick, decisive, aggressive action is required. That's why we have had to limit the spread of this forest pest in Willmore as well as Kakwa this year. Also, in the last fiscal year in parts of Alberta we identified areas from the Crownsnest Pass right through to K Country and the Bow Valley park.

Our surveillance and our prevention and control measures here in Alberta along with both sides of the border remain a priority. I also have to commend the B.C. government for assisting us in that project in terms of their memorandum of understanding and co-operation between our two provinces to stop this pine beetle. It's in their best interests to do the same.

I'd like to also just briefly remind the House that it's important that we stop this beetle because there are 2 million hectares of pine forest at risk along the eastern slopes of the Rocky Mountains. That has an estimated economic value of more than $23 billion. That's just in the forest resource itself. That doesn't include any effects that it would have on our tourist industry as well if we had a red forest out there, not a green forest, against the beautiful majestic Rocky Mountains. So it's important that we continue to treat this as a slow fire.

So, Madam Chairman, I request the support of the Assembly for funding to protect Alberta's most valuable forest resources not only from wildfires but also from the pine beetle threat. Thank you.

The Acting Chair: Edmonton-Decore.

Mr. Bonko: Thank you, Madam Chair. Thank you, Mr. Minister. I do believe that an opportunity arises right now to be able to speak to this important but underfunded and underutilized ministry. We're to ask you for a supplemental requisition of $75.2 million for forest fires and then the small amount, unfortunately, for controlling the mountain pine beetle. Perhaps with our combination of requests for this, next time with supplementary requests we can get more monies because we do realize that the mountain pine beetle is, as you pointed out, threatening to destroy a multibillion dollar industry. Oil and gas isn't the only industry that employs people in this province.

The pine beetle is a natural, unfortunate part of the ecosystem. It attacks mature standing lodgepole pine forests. As well, when they're infested, they quickly lose their market value within about four to five years. It's an increasing problem as warmer weather in winters continues to persist. Fire suppression and migration from B.C. have allowed the population numbers to increase. There are no chemical pesticides that we're aware of that can be used, and the only viable treatments on hand so far that I've heard is burning infested trees, called the fall and burn, harvesting the infested wood, or harvesting the prescribed burning and mature pines before they can be infested. That's about the extent of it so far besides releasing woodpeckers, I believe, but they're not into this area. They're usually into their own areas and don't travel too far outside them.

The extra money is good, but I would insist that it does not go far enough. We've been calling for more and more money to be put into this in the past, and we'll continue to call on this government to invest more to resolve this problem before the pine beetle can spread, damaging more trees and affecting this vital industry. The pine beetle's infestation in B.C. is huge, and it covers a larger area than New Brunswick itself. It will remove the timber supplies for the whole forest and dependent communities could fall then.

It's ironic that this ministry is asking for more money for fighting forest fires because it addresses the mountain pine beetle. While fighting forest fires is vital to protecting public safety and private property and structures and buildings and valuable timber, the experts have now concluded and are saying that fires are a normal part of the forest. In B.C. they recognize that the highly successful fire suppression has made the mountain pine beetle infestation worse by allowing it to increase its habitat into the mature pines.

The mountain pine beetle is now considered individually the most expensive piece that we're going to be fighting in the next few years. So I would ask some specific questions then. Is the Minister of Sustainable Resource Development considering the role of forest fires for controlling the pine beetle for starters? Do they have a fire management plan as part of the larger ecosystem management strategy for this forest? What exactly does the word "control" mean in reference to the $4.8 million going to control the mountain pine beetle? Is this ministry investing in research, planning, and other proactive efforts to control this beetle or just responding in an ad hoc fashion? How did they decide on this amount? Given the cost of an action seen in B.C., do we feel that $4.8 million will be sufficient to control the pine beetle for the next year? What role is industry playing in fighting the pine beetle? Have they invested staff to coordinate effective longer term approaches?

[Mr. Shariff in the chair]

Now going on to the supplementary supply of the forest fires point, which is $75.2 million. The firefighting costs are familiar from what we've seen in the supplementary supply estimates. The government has asked each year for more and more. In 2002-2003 the suppression costs were overbudgeted by about $227 million, in 2003-04 they were overbudgeted by $128 million, in 2004-05 they were overbudgeted by $124 million, and now we're at about $75 million for this year as a result of the severe drought conditions. The base budgets always remain relatively stable. It is important to fight forest fires that threaten lives, property, and commercial forest values, but the budget should reflect the actual spending levels.

So some of the questions are: do we have a plan to accurately budget for the fluctuating forest fires and suppression so that the people of Alberta can understand the actual true costs of fighting the fires? What would be some proactive steps that were taken to reduce the piece with regard to the forest fires? I know that's a tough one: you know, huge uncontrollable fires and the property losses. What would some of the steps be to ensure effective forest fire management costs?

If I can maybe deviate a little bit, we've got those two areas basically covered, but I would go off and ask for maybe a supplementary supply that could also include considerations in other areas such as putting in more field officers or conservation officers, fish and wildlife officers. I feel that there is a real need to be able to monitor the activity in the province as the population has grown. The season right now is still the hunting season. It's still alive and kicking, and we need to have enough people to do enforcement.

I do appreciate the piece from the Public Accounts Committee where the minister has provided that there is almost $3 million spent directly on monitoring the lakes and the fish stocks. I got a call to my constituency office. They're concerned that when the lakes freeze over, the people take on the recreational point of it and ice fishing pops up on the lakes. We do have derbies that happen. There's one derby that's going to be taking place in February on Gull Lake. It's a relatively shallow lake. They're going to be punching about 2,000 holes and charging about $75 per person. I think that comes out to about $150,000, and the prize for the biggest fish that day would be about $50,000. Some individual has invested in this particular tournament, resides, I think, in Winnipeg, and will be taking his windfall of $100,000 for organizing it back to his province and leaving our lakes depleted as a result. I'm just wondering if the minister would be able comment particularly on that piece, which was brought up as a concern for some of the anglers and the fish and wildlife people in that particular area.

4:40

The other concern I would be able to maybe raise. It's still hibernation season for some animals. Spring would be the awakening for others. With awakening, I'm referring to the grizzly bear.

What would this ministry have as a real plan to protect the grizzly bears? I would like to see, perhaps, a suppression or a temporary moratorium placed on a spring grizzly hunt until actual numbers could be confirmed. It's unfortunate, but overall I think industry and recreation has continued to strangle the amount of territory that not only the grizzly bear but the caribou have to migrate and cohabit. Unfortunately, even this summer there were more bears killed as a result of some traffic fatalities there, which has continued to deplete the stocks.

I've given the minister a number of specifics. I'll sit down here and wait for his response. Thank you.

The Deputy Chair: The hon. minister.

Mr. Coutts: Mr. Chairman, thank you, and thanks to the hon. member for a number of questions that pertain directly to the supplementary supply but also outside of the supplementary supply. We have other departments that want to get on here this afternoon, so I'll try to be brief. Anything that I do miss I will definitely make sure that you get responses on in writing.

The comments regarding the pine beetle. It is important that we put as many dollars as we possibly can into fighting the pine beetle now because if you have beetle kill as was mentioned in British Columbia, that beetle kill is a fire hazard itself. If that permeates itself into Alberta, we have all that dead forest out there. In future years fire suppression and firefighting are going to take a lot more than presently. What we average per year is about $195,000 to a million to about $210 million, depending on the amount of fires that we have every year.

Certainly, the value of the timber and the cutting sequences when there is a tremendous amount of beetle kill has a tremendous effect on the industry. The industry is as concerned about that as we are. They want to be sustainable for the future. They do not want this beetle to take over a healthy forest. The industry also identifies valleys where the pine beetle can actually move up and go into some mature stands of pine forest, so we work with industry to make sure that the cutting sequences that they have in their annual management plans can be looked at and altered to make sure that that food source is taken away. We think that that's being very proactive.

You asked about the role of the firefighters. The 5,000 trees that were cut in the Willmore wilderness area and the Kakwa were done by our fire suppression crews. Well-trained helicopter tactical teams went in once the trees were identified and cut those individual trees. It's a very expensive way of fighting the pine beetle, and that's why the need for more dollars. Is it enough? It's probably enough for this year in terms of the fact that the beetle itself actually flies the latter part of May and June and into early July and then gets into a stand of trees. You really don't know about whether or not they've attacked a tree until later on next spring. Is it enough for this year? Yes. Will it be enough for next year? We don't know. It depends on the amount of beetle infestation. How can you plan for that? You can only plan by doing aerial surveys next spring and keeping industry informed but also making sure that our national parks are well aware of protecting the stands that are in their areas as well.

A big expense that we're going to have is a prescribed burn that we're looking at for the Meadowland Creek area, and we will have our fire suppression teams there to make sure that that doesn't get away on us. So it is about control.

In terms of research, between jurisdictions across this country and into the United States we pretty well know everything there is about the mountain pine beetle, so to put money into research might not give us any more information than we presently have. I'd sooner take the dollars and put them into seeing if we can stop the pesky little beetle rather than putting money into research. It might I think be good money after bad. I talked about the industry being a big player in this because it's in their best interests to help us as well.

In terms of the firefighting costs, on average we would have firefighting costs of about $195 million to $210 million, depending on the amount of fires. Before we actually have a fire, contracts have to be put in place in getting ready for a fire season. Even though we think we have the fire season over by October 31, we have to have contracts in place for all of our fire suppression needs by the 1st of May. So that comes automatically. Without having a fire, that comes to about $75 million. It's really important that we have that in place to provide the security for communities, as you mentioned.

Another thing that we work on – just outside the estimates and a question that you had regarding more field officers to look at more enforcement and being on the ground. That certainly would be a great asset to Sustainable Resource Development in terms of making sure that if we have some pockets of mountain pine beetle that haven't been detected, if you have more enforcement guys out there, they can tell us and work with the department. So that's a real bonus to us.

The other thing you talked about that is really important in terms of fire suppression and saving dollars is that we have expert staff. Even in the off-season, our department works on FireSmart communities and FireSmart plans for communities so that we can save houses, save people's livelihoods, and those types of things. It's really important for us to make sure that we have the dollars to keep those people on in the planning stages. Certainly, that's part of the great work that forest protection services does in the off-season as well.

Along with that, of course, you talked about wildlife displacement and plans for caribou reclamation, et cetera. We have recovery plans in place, and I would be more than pleased to provide you with details on those recovery plans. We have a plan in place right now particularly on grizzlies, and I've articulated it in the House many times, but I'll be glad to put that in writing. The plan that has come forward from the provincial committee has not reached my desk yet. You know, you're absolutely right. We had 10 bears taken last year during the hunt. We probably had more grizzly bears taken by – I mean, even the unfortunate one of the two orphan cubs that were hit on the highway. Certainly, we'll lose more bears to human contact. We'll lose more bears to cars, trains, and those types of things than we will by the actual hunt. Also, having a bear smart program, an education program, for communities that live in the foothills and close to the mountains is really important too.

Maybe we won't have to worry about the ice fishing because if the weather keeps going the way it is, we won't have any ice. But I will certainly share with you in writing the ice fishing regulations.

With that, Mr. Chairman, maybe you can call the question.

4:50

The Deputy Chair: Are you ready for the question?

Dr. Swann: I just want to ask a quick question about the sustainable resource and environmental management program. [interjections]

The Deputy Chair: Hon. member, somebody has just drawn to my attention that you are not in your place. Is that correct?

Dr. Swann: That's true.

The Deputy Chair: You will have to move to your chair to be recognized.

Hon. member, since you're now in your place, you are able to speak. Go ahead.

Dr. Swann: Thank you, Mr. Chair. Could you comment on whether any of the supplementary supply is involved in the new sustainable resource and environmental management integrated land use planning process that you've struck?

Mr. Coutts: That's a good question, Mr. Chair. The answer directly to that is no. This is for forest protection. The supplementary supply is for costs incurred for wildfire expenses for this year and also for the mountain pine beetle. It does not include anything on the integrated land management. That will come forward in next year's budget, through our business plan and through our budgeting process in the coming year.

The Deputy Chair: After considering the 2005-2006 supplementary estimates for the general revenue fund and the lottery fund for the Department of Sustainable Resource Development for the fiscal year ending March 31, 2006, are you ready for the question?

Agreed to:

Expense and Equipment/Inventory Purchases	$80,000,000
---	--------------

The Deputy Chair: Shall the vote be reported? Are you agreed?

Hon. Members: Agreed.

The Deputy Chair: Opposed? Carried.

Agriculture, Food and Rural Development

The Deputy Chair: The hon. minister.

Mr. Horner: Thank you, Mr. Chairman. I'm pleased to be here today to discuss Alberta Agriculture, Food and Rural Development's supplementary estimate request. I don't need to tell anyone in this Assembly how challenging the past few years have been for our agriculture industry. From disease, border closures, drought, and low commodity prices our producers and processors have faced the gamut of challenges, and as a government we have stood by our industry.

The majority of the supplementary estimate, $169 million, is to offset disaster assistance that helped with the continued impacts of BSE and the border closures. Of that, $154 million is directed towards increased payments to our beef, dairy, and other ruminant producers under the pilot program that changes the way CAIS payments are calculated. Changes to the way benefits are calculated has meant that the program responds better to back-to-back disasters. However, it has also meant increased costs, which are outlined here.

Direct assistance is not enough. That's why there is also a request for $10 million to assist municipalities with infrastructure that they need to support increased agricultural/industrial activities such as slaughter and processing. These would include such things as municipal waste water and environmental infrastructure. We have also allocated an additional $3 million to continue to build beef product and market development within the province.

Finally, none of these measures would be effective without reopened borders, and that's why we've allocated $2 million for an enhanced age-verification initiative, allowing us to have the first age-verified herd in Canada. As of last week more than 800,000 cattle have been age verified within the province. Being able to prove the age of cattle gives us one more unique tool to help us reopen those borders.

This year was also hard on our crop producers. Increased demands on programs such as CAIS and crop insurance have meant an increase in payments, and $118 million of our supplementary estimate is for agriculture insurance and lending assistance costs. Of that, $47 million is the provincial share of crop insurance premiums, specifically revenue insurance coverage and spring price endorsement, more than budgeted because of higher than expected crop losses, and $71 million is to help with the retroactive changes to the CAIS program for our other producers. This is the balance of the costs for the CAIS program changes, amounting to a total of $224 million. Finally, $109,000 is to offset increased costs for wildlife damage and compensation.

That concludes the explanation of our request, and I'd be happy to take questions. If I am unable to give you an answer this afternoon, I will seek the assistance of my very capable staff and provide you with a written response in the future.

Thank you, Mr. Chairman.

The Deputy Chair: The hon. Member for Edmonton-Gold Bar.

Mr. MacDonald: Thank you very much, Mr. Chairman. Certainly, it's a pleasure to participate in the debate this afternoon regarding Agriculture, Food and Rural Development's supplementary estimates. I heard the minister earlier today in Public Accounts discuss at length the CAIS program and some of the questions put by the members of that committee. However, one question they didn't ask and I would like at this time to discuss before the floor of the Assembly is in regard to the CAIS program. I appreciated the letter that I received from the minister's office some time ago in regard to the 2003 benefit year and the fact that there is over $80 million outstanding in overpayments in the CAIS year ending in 2003. We're looking at a substantial amount of money here, over $226 million, in additional funding for the CAIS program, the Canadian agricultural income stabilization program.

Some of this money, I should say, is coming from the sustainability fund. That was the idea of the former Member for Lethbridge-East, Ken Nicol. This government just called it the sustainability fund, but he called it the stabilization fund, the stability fund. He would be pleased, I think, to learn that his sustainability fund is being used in this manner. The minister is absolutely right: there have been some tough years for the farming community and the ranching community. Hopefully, they're behind us.

However, there is an additional amount asked for here, $71 million, "for retroactive changes to CAIS program benefit calculations that are not related to disaster assistance, and increased provincial administration costs." The first question, Mr. Chairman, would be: for the year ending 2004 and an estimate for 2005, what are the overpayments in the CAIS program? How much of the money that was announced – I don't have the press release with me, but I think it was $224 million that's going to be allocated for the CAIS program. How much of that money will be used up by the producers to eliminate these overpayments, regardless of when they happened: 2003, 2004, 2005, to date?

Also, Mr. Chairman, I'm quite concerned about these administration costs. Now, we in this province are administering the program. It's a 60-40 split with the federal government. There are other provinces that have the federal government administer this. There are some professors of agriculture from the University of Saskatchewan who have conducted research into the administration costs of this program. I'm led to believe that the administration costs are higher in this province than in others, and I would like to hear the minister's opinion on this. We shouldn't be looking at increased administration costs.

Many hon. members of the Public Accounts Committee expressed disappointment that the local ag offices had been closed going back to 2002. This was at Public Accounts this morning, and those members thought that perhaps there should be a decentralization of Alberta Agriculture, and there should be more employees of the department sort of located at the foot of the farm gate.

5:00

Mr. Oberle: One thought that, anyway.

Mr. MacDonald: Well, there was quite a discussion on this.

However, if we could get an update on why these administration costs are going up. Is it because we have eliminated those offices? I would be very interested in hearing the minister's answer. There are many people who have questions about the administration of this program. They are the producers themselves. They are the academics that are having an overview of this. Whenever those groups have questions, I think that we have to provide an answer.

With those questions, Mr. Chairman, I will take my seat and await the minister's reply. In conclusion, I must say that his answers were concise and of interest and were appreciated this morning at Public Accounts. Thank you.

The Deputy Chair: The hon. minister.

Mr. Horner: Well, thank you, Mr. Chairman, and thank you to the hon. member for the questions.

First of all, I'd like to talk a little bit about the overpayment situation, which the member alluded to, for the year ending '03. With many of the overpayment situations – and I believe it was alluded to in the letter that we sent out; I don't remember when it was sent either, but I know that it was some time ago – effectively what had happened is that there was an advance initiated based on the herd that a producer would have based on what we projected the cattle prices would be given our BSE situation at the end of the claim year.

The advances were sent out based on what the entitlement to that particular producer would be based on our estimate of what the prices would be at the end of the year. Fortunately or unfortunately, dependent upon how you look at it, the price of cattle did rise. It did not rise to the extent that it recovered to 2002 levels or anything of that sort, but it did rise quite a bit higher than what we had forecast those prices would rise. That meant that the inventory that those producers held was higher than what the forecast was, and therefore their entitlement under CAIS would be diminished by that amount. That gave rise to in some cases an overpayment situation, which the producers had been advised of when they received those funds.

When we go back through those applications, which we are doing on every one of those overpayment situations, we're going back through them for a number of reasons. One of the reasons relates to one of the other points the member brought up, and that's the questions on CAIS. The reason that we're going back through these applications is to ensure that if there are errors, there is a catalog of the errors being made on these applications and the information coming into the AFSC office because we want to identify the common errors that are slowing down the process of the CAIS application.

We get this catalog of errors, and then we can go back out to the accounting community and the farming community and say: lookit, here are the common errors that are being made on the input that's coming into the office on these applications. If the applications have errors, that's what slows down the system. We want to reduce the amount of errors. We want to make the system a lot simpler and less complex for both the producer and our office.

The other thing that we're finding is that there are a number of errors in the calculation of the entitlement on these overpayment applications. Some of the initial indications that we're getting upon the review is that upon a detailed review of an overpayment application 40 to 50 per cent of those producers are actually being reduced to a zero overpayment because we've maximized their entitlement. That, hon. member, was even before we announced changing to an optional three-year average calculation.

I believe that once we've gone through this total calculation and this total optional calculation of either the Olympic or the three-year average, a good portion of those overpayments for the '03 year will probably show a higher entitlement because of going back three years as opposed to an Olympic average, not only for the cattle industry but also for the grain industry, which is the intent of doing that three-year averaging. Had we done that at the outset, which is one of the things that Alberta had presented, we probably wouldn't be in that situation that we find ourselves in on those overpayments. So there is a twofold reason for doing that calculation review that we're doing on every one of those.

In terms of the '04-05 situation there was no advance of that nature in '04 or '05. There are advances against the CAIS program, true, but they're based on an estimate of the overall farm operation, not just on cattle prices. So that type of an advance isn't available anymore which caused the overpayments in '03. I can't give you a number off the top, but we will certainly get some information back to you from AFSC if there is an indication of any type of overpayment in '04-05.

As it relates to the administration costs of CAIS, the hon. member is quite right. Alberta and a number of other provinces, three other provinces, do the administration of the CAIS program ourselves. That's very, very beneficial to us, Mr. Chairman, because we have been able to respond much, much quicker. We have been able to make our process that much easier. I know it's hard to believe, but in other provinces the situation is even worse in terms of complexity, delays, and overpayments than it is in Alberta.

In fact, I recently had a very good meeting with one of the largest farm accounting organizations in western Canada. They handle probably 18,000 to 20,000 CAIS applications and farm producers every year across western Canada. They recently made a presentation to the national CAIS committee, and in that presentation they cited the good work that Alberta was doing and asked that the rest of the country follow our lead in calculations, in how we handle the information coming into our office, the processes that we dealt with upon reviews of applications.

I'm very, very comfortable, from this third-party type of compliment of our operation, that we are on the right track to make this system simpler, more effective, more responsive, that we are on the right track to finally get to a position where the CAIS program can become a business management tool just as much as it is a business risk management tool. In other words, I can see a point in time where the producer individually will look at his CAIS application, be able to look at the numbers, and make management decisions based on what's happened either in the past or what he forecasts will happen in the future. That will be a very valuable tool for our producers.

As to the administration costs the studies that I've seen would indicate that we are half – half – the cost per application of what the rest of Canada is. I don't know the professor's due diligence in the University of Saskatchewan, but I can tell you that if they included all of the costs associated with the CAIS application, as we do, my guess is that you would find a different outcome in their analysis. I think that's pretty indicative of a lot of the things that we're doing in CAIS, and I cite the leading accounting firms' analysis of this; it's not our own. We are the leaders in the advancements and progress being made on the CAIS program.

It's unfortunate that the federal government doesn't seem to have as much faith in that CAIS program and a targeted approach as we do, as evidenced by their recent announcement of, once again, an ad hoc without consultation.

I think I've answered the questions of the hon. member. If there are other things that are out of that, more detail, we will provide those.

The Deputy Chair: The hon. Member for Cardston-Taber-Warner.

Mr. Hinman: Thank you, Mr. Chair. I appreciate this opportunity to go over the supplemental supply for Agriculture.

I guess the first thing that I'd like to comment on is that we seem to constantly be in a struggle with the federal government on numerous programs. Once more, with most of the rural people that have talked with me in the past, CAIS is a very, very complicated filing system, and even the CGAs mess up to a great extent. It's good to hear that someone who files $18,000 is becoming good at it, but I guess I have to question: why do we always grab onto the coattails of the federal government and their programs?

Perhaps it's time that we stand up, much like Quebec often does, and say: well, you send us the money, and we'll run our own programs. I'm always disappointed in the federal programs. It seems like the complexity of them and the difficulty they cause the producers at large – and CAIS has been no exception, as you are very much aware and have shared with me, with the number of times we have to relook. It's been very discouraging for producers in my area on being told that they have to pay that money back when the ones that I've talked to haven't seen a significant change in their filing, yet it's there.

5:10

One of the major concerns – and I don't see anything in the new supply bill that you've brought forward – is some innovative ways to help the farmers help themselves. Input costs have been going up astronomically with the cost of natural gas and electricity. Is this government looking at anything to rebate? We rebate the housing costs, the fuel heating costs. Farm fertilizer has been a big issue. Farmers are very nervous going into next spring with the price of fertilizer. If we were to reduce the taxes on that, it would be very helpful.

The same with the cost of farm fuel. We're continuing to tax those areas. I consider this very much like basic tax exemption. Why do we tax in areas where we already understand they're under duress? Why would we want to tax, as we don't here in the province, someone making $12,000? Why do we want to tax the farming industry at this time, when commodity prices are down for the grains, when the weather has not been the most conducive to growing? A lot of the quality of crops was down this fall because of the moisture, yet with those farm input costs many farmers who traditionally have put in the fertilizer in the fall have chosen not to because of the cost. It would be great if we were to eliminate those taxes off those.

Another area that I'd like to address. We seem to have got a good grasp on the tar sands, and we need capital expense in there. We've given them some very good incentives, and I wish those incentives would go over into the agricultural business. We talk very much about value-added. I know that you're a keen believer in that. Perhaps if we were to have capital costs that had the same type of writeoffs. I realize that we don't have royalties, but if in fact, for example, a feedlot decided to put up a biomass reactor to deal with the manure on the place, instead of paying taxes, you know, perhaps 80 per cent of their taxes could go to paying off those capital funds. We could stimulate a whole new level of industry in agriculture if, in fact, we could have capital cost writeoffs and reduce our taxes. I think there are many areas in which we can do that.

Another area that I would urge the minister to continue dealing with Ottawa on is that we are driven many times by our tax problems. During the drought the stock replacement was given a two-year vacation. They weren't taxed on the inventory that they sold. It just seems like the federal government has many tax laws that are driving our industry. We saw the same thing with the feedlots. They had taken terrible losses, yet they still had to put back their inventory. Otherwise, they were going to be taxed as if they'd made a gain.

There are many areas. It would also be another area that would help farms with energy in the south if they could in fact use windmills as a capital expense and write those off, thereby decreasing our shortage of electricity here in the province.

I would strongly urge the minister to try and put in more incentives where farmers could help themselves and put the capital costs in. There have been many co-ops that have wanted to get up and running – you can give written response, I guess, and there are a lot of farmers that wanted the check-offs and to be able to get some . . .

head: Vote on Supplementary Estimates 2005-06
General Revenue Fund and Lottery Fund

The Deputy Chair: I hesitate to interrupt the hon. Member for Cardston-Taber-Warner, but pursuant to Standing Order 59(2) and Government Motion 23, agreed to on November 16, 2005, I must now put the following question. Those members in favour of each of the resolutions not yet voted upon relating to the 2005-2006 supplementary estimates for the general revenue fund and lottery fund, please say aye.

Some Hon. Members: Aye.

The Deputy Chair: Opposed, please say no.

Some Hon. Members: No.

The Deputy Chair: The motion is carried.
The hon. Government House Leader.

Mr. Hancock: Thank you, Mr. Chairman. I'd move that the committee rise and report the supplemental estimates as dealt with in committee.

[Motion carried]

[Mr. Shariff in the chair]

The Acting Speaker: The hon. Member for Airdrie-Chestermere.

Ms Haley: Thank you, Mr. Speaker. The Committee of Supply has under consideration certain resolutions relating to the 2005-06 supplementary estimates for the general revenue fund and lottery fund, reports as follows, and requests leave to sit again.

The following resolutions for the fiscal year ending March 31, 2006, have been approved.

Agriculture, Food and Rural Development: expense and equipment/inventory purchases, $288,289,000.

Children's Services: expense and equipment/inventory purchases, $38,400,000.

Community Development: expense and equipment/inventory purchases, $24,030,000; capital investment, $2,970,000.

Environment: expense and equipment/inventory purchases, $5,200,000.

Health and Wellness: expense and equipment/inventory purchases, $64,630,000.

Infrastructure and Transportation: expense and equipment/inventory purchases, $526,836,000; capital investment, $231,180,000.

Municipal Affairs: expense and equipment/inventory purchases, $138,235,000.

Seniors and Community Supports: expense and equipment/inventory purchases, $109,000,000.

Solicitor General and Public Security: expense and equipment/inventory purchases, $7,494,000.

Sustainable Resource Development: expense and equipment/inventory purchases, $80,000,000.

Mr. Speaker, I wish to table a list of those resolutions voted upon by the Committee of Supply pursuant to Standing Orders.

The Acting Speaker: Does the Assembly concur in the report?

Hon. Members: Concur.

The Acting Speaker: Opposed? So ordered.

head: 5:20 Government Bills and Orders
Second Reading

Bill 43

Alberta Resource Rebate Statutes
Amendment Act, 2005

[Adjourned debate November 22: Mr. Hancock]

The Acting Speaker: The hon. Member for Edmonton-Highlands-Norwood.

Mr. Mason: Thank you very much, Mr. Speaker. I'm pleased to speak to Bill 43, the Alberta Resource Rebate Statutes Amendment Act, 2005. I'm in a very unique position here with respect to this bill in feeling that I must support the bill and, yet, deploring the conditions that gave rise to this bill in the first place. The reason that I'm supporting it is because so many of my constituents and so many Albertans are depending on this bill and are desperate to receive the money that they need. I cannot certainly in good conscience turn my back on those people, although I hasten to add that this government in fact has turned its back on these very same people and are offering them crumbs at a time when they need a loaf of bread to feed their family.

Let's just take a look at it. I represent, Mr. Speaker, one of the poorest constituencies in the entire province. I have a lot of individuals in my constituency that live in poverty, and my office has received many calls from people who are very much desperate to receive these cheques. The fact that in the land of plenty there are so many people that are desperate for $400 speaks volumes about this government's failures to deal adequately with those issues.

We continue to have in Alberta a very significant percentage of our citizens that live in poverty notwithstanding all of the wealth that's being generated in this province and in particular being generated for the government's friends. More than 14 per cent of the children in this province live in poverty, Mr. Speaker. That's 100,000 children. In 2001 the census found that nearly 400,000 Albertans lived below the poverty line. Alberta has the highest per capita food bank usage in Canada. The homelessness count in Calgary, according to the most recent data, is that 2,000 people in Calgary are living without homes.

I think that there are some other factors that need to be taken into account when we judge the need for this bill, and that is that the average income of women in Canada is only 62 per cent of men's income, so women are disproportionately in need of assistance. This gap between men's and women's earnings is the greatest in Alberta and the least in Prince Edward Island. In Alberta men's income averaged $40,297 in 2000. In the same year women averaged only $22,462 in income, or only 56 per cent of that of men. So a large number of the people calling my office waiting for these cheques, Mr. Speaker, are women that are trying to feed their children.

You know, we have such an enormous wealth, and we've been very critical of the government over the years for underbudgeting on resource revenues by low-balling the prices for natural gas and for crude oil. The result has been a number of surplus budgets that have occurred in almost every year for I think about $20 billion over the past nine years or so in surplus. The government has dedicated a lot of this to fighting the debt and paying off the debt and prides itself on paying off Alberta's debt. The high price of oil and natural gas made that comparatively easy to do, but I don't want to underestimate the sacrifices that have been made by Albertans in accomplishing that.

To everyone's amazement, when the government reached the point where they had in fact paid off the debt, it became apparent that they had no plan for the surplus revenues that were coming forward, and in fact they still don't. I've heard the hon. Finance Minister talk about: yes, we have a plan; we just adopted it last week at a caucus meeting. Then a few weeks later they change the long-term plan in a substantial way again, and they're trying to find ways to spend the money because they haven't thought ahead, and they haven't planned ahead.

I think it's very important right now that we would have some sort of dialogue with Albertans because I think we're at a crossroads. Where do we want to go now that we're debt free and we have all of this money rolling in? But the government is not doing that, so they go into caucus meetings in different parts of the province, and they cook up ways to deal with the surplus. One of the ways that they cooked up was to give everyone a rebate cheque.

I've indicated already why I think many Albertans are desperate for this money. It's interesting because it's split very much. The polls show that Albertans are very much split on the advisability of this program. Higher income people think the money should be invested in programs and long-term planning, and lower income people, quite understandably, would like to see some sort of rebate program.

What could the government do instead, Mr. Speaker? Well, we put forward some proposals. If they scrapped health care premiums instead of using health care premiums as an incentive or to soften the blow of private insurance, which is what they're planning to do – they're going to say: we're going to scrap health care premiums, but by the way for all these things you're going to have to take out private health insurance. So they're going to use that as a little bit of honey on the bitter pill of private insurance, but if they scrap them now, they would save $528 per adult Albertan each year. I think that that would be a very good form of tax reform. They could deal with the question of school property taxes.

Now, it's interesting because I've heard the Minister of Municipal Affairs talk about how, when he talks to the municipalities, he wants to eliminate the provincial education portion of property taxes, and he gets great applause. Then when the Minister of Education speaks to the Alberta School Boards Association, he says something quite different, and he gets a round of applause. So we don't know where the government is going on that, but eliminating school property taxes would be a good way to go.

The fact is, Mr. Speaker, that this $400, as needed as it is by some Albertans, would be needed less if the government's policies in general were more favourable to low-income people. If they had public auto insurance, we might see substantially lower auto insurance rates. If we hadn't gone down the road of deregulation, we would see lower electricity rates. If we eliminated health care premiums, we would see families getting this kind of savings on an ongoing basis and not just a once-only basis. Ultimately, we need to see the surplus revenue that we're receiving, and we're not receiving nearly enough because of the low royalty rates that we have in this province. If we increase the royalty rates to a reasonable level to get the return on what is a declining capital resource of the people of this province, then that money could be invested to a green energy corporation that would position Alberta as the future in nonrenewable energy to lead the country, to maintain its position as the energy capital of Canada but to do it in a way that takes into account that conventional reserves of oil and gas are very, very limited.

That's the kind of leadership that we should be getting from the government. We should be seeing the government investing the declining oil and gas revenues so that all generations benefit as much as this one. They're not doing that, Mr. Speaker, because they don't have a vision. So they make up policies almost on the back of a napkin and issue these cheques.

I'm forced into the position of voting for the bill because I want my constituents to have the $400, but I want so much more for my constituents than just $400. I want low insurance rates for their car. For their home I want lower home heating bills, lower electricity rates. I want a government that cares, that puts in place actual social programs that help people get out of poverty. I want the government to deal fairly with people in long-term care or who are on AISH or on workers' compensation, none of which this government is doing. But they are giving $400, Mr. Speaker, and I guess for that we have to be grateful.

I just want to indicate that that is why I am supporting the bill. I do believe that there's so much more that the government could be doing to help people's pocketbooks on an ongoing basis, which they're refusing to do. So, as I say, Mr. Speaker, this is crumbs from the table, and the fact is that the feast . . .

The Acting Speaker: Hon. members, the House stands adjourned until 8 p.m.

[The Assembly adjourned at 5:30 p.m.]

Legislative Assembly of Alberta

Title: Wednesday, November 23, 2005 8:00 p.m.

Date: 05/11/23

[The Deputy Speaker in the chair]

The Deputy Speaker: Good evening. Please be seated.

head: Government Bills and Orders
Second Reading

Bill 43
Alberta Resource Rebate Statutes
Amendment Act, 2005

[Debate adjourned November 23: Mr. Mason speaking]

The Deputy Speaker: Anyone wish to participate in the debate? Edmonton-Beverly-Clareview.

Mr. Martin: Thank you, Mr. Speaker. I think all of us would like to have a chat about this particular bill, better known as the prosperity bill. I think that we look at the fact that the government says, "Well, this is an extra surplus for all the hardship that we created, all the cutbacks, and we're going to give Albertans a reward." Their clever way is to say: "All right. How much money are we going to afford so that we can talk about some of the other things? Do we have a billion, $1.2 billion, $1.3 billion, $1.4 billion? Therefore, we'll stick it out and offer people some money. We hope that we'll buy their votes." Usually they do it just before an election, but they moved ahead very quickly.

Now, Mr. Speaker, there's no doubt – and I want to be clear from the start – that we in the opposition are going to support this because many people can use the $400. There's no doubt about that. [some applause] I'm glad I finally got some clapping. I'm sure it won't go the rest of the way.

It seems to me – and I know that my colleagues have talked about it – that there is a better way to be able to do it. It seems to me that when we talk about poverty and we talk about the problems that we're facing in this society, it seems to be such a mediocre way to sort of pass money back to the people.

Now, let's say, for instance, that the things you want to do beyond housing, social programs, and the other things – you want to put some money in the pockets of lower income and middle-income people, Mr. Speaker. Let's say that that's what we want to do. Yes, this will do it in the short run, $400 a person, but in the long run you can't keep doing this every year. Maybe the government thinks they can do it every year, but I tell you: once you start doing these types of bonuses, people are going to expect it in the next year. Maybe the income won't be coming in to the same degree in a couple of years.

That's precisely what's happened with the trust fund in terms of giving money as they do in Alaska. They started off giving a fair amount of money, and now the income is going down, and people still expect that money to come in the dividends. That's the problem with these one-time, quick-fix types of money going back to the people. That's precisely what will happen. Next year what do you do? You're going to have to have $400 or $500. Is there going to be another prosperity bonus? How long does this go on? The more you do it, the more that people are going to expect it, Mr. Speaker.

The point that we're making is that I don't believe that everybody needed this $400. If we wanted to direct it to the people that could most use it – and I know that my colleagues have talked about this – we could have gotten rid of medicare premiums, a very regressive tax, and that would have put money . . . [interjections] Well, you want tax relief, and people are talking about tax relief. Let's make it on a more permanent basis that we can afford over the long run rather than this ad hoc sort of $400 here and $500 next year or whatever. Raise the exemption before people have to pay taxes. Yes, it costs money, but is it sustainable over the long haul? That's what we should be looking for if we want that sort of tax relief, something that would put money in the pockets of the lower income and middle-income people.

Frankly, Mr. Speaker, in downtown Calgary an oil executive doesn't need the $400. Not everybody in Alberta needs this money, but that's the problem with this sort of scattergun approach, where everybody gets $400, instead of directing it to the people that need it through some permanent sort of tax relief if that's the way they want to go.

Of course, Mr. Speaker, we could talk about the way the money could have been spent, over a billion dollars. People talked today in the Legislature about the homeless people. How are they going to get their money? I know the Bissell Centre is trying to make sure that they're registered. That becomes another problem in itself. If we really wanted to direct money, it should have gone into programs that actually help the poor to help themselves. Over the long haul that would do a lot more. As I said, if you want to put money in, do it in a more permanent way through raising the exemption before people pay taxes and, as I said, medicare premiums.

The other aspect, Mr. Speaker. If we really want to break the cycle of poverty in this province, in this country for that matter, if we really want to dig into it, it's a long-range sort of problem. I see that the Minister of Education is here. The only hope that we have and for the people in what we call the high-needs areas – I represent a number of them, and my colleagues do too – is that we have to do it through education.

I know the Education minister has said that he's going to tell us what's going to happen in terms of full-day kindergarten and junior kindergarten. That is absolutely crucial if we're going to give these kids a chance in life. I would much rather have seen that money put into programs like that and, if need be, the hot lunches that many other groups are doing. We can complement them or whatever. Many groups are doing good work. Those types of things would really deal with the problems that we're facing.

We have a growing underclass even in this rich province, Mr. Speaker. You can't ignore it. It's certainly true. It's true in the riding I represent. It's true in rural areas, as I travel through there. Not everybody is getting the Alberta advantage. Not everybody lives in downtown Calgary. That's the hard reality.

As I said, it's a mixed blessing. I would say that it's the only game in town, that the $400 is going to go to everybody, so we're going to support it for that reason. But it's certainly not the way we would absolutely want to go in terms of being creative and getting money into the hands of the lower income and especially of needed programs, Mr. Speaker, needed programs that will begin to build and to stop the cycle of poverty, if I can put it that way.

Now, Mr. Speaker, the questions that I would really like to ask – again, it's a budgeting thing. I mean, surely we should have known back when we passed the spring budget that we were going to have a fairly significant surplus. I don't remember any discussion at that time about the approach that the government is taking; you know, probably over $4 billion, just snap like that, and then we're debating it here in three days. We've gone through that discussion.

I really want to know: what are we going to do in the future? Is this idea of the prosperity bonuses, $400 or whatever the number is going to be, going to be a permanent feature? This is what I would ask the minister: what is the planning so that we can begin to understand where you're going in the budget in the spring instead of having to deal with it now? If this is a permanent feature, I would argue, then, that it's a better way. It's more money than we're talking about in cutting medicare premiums and about the same as if we raised the exemption, you know, $3,000 or $4,000. It seems to me that if this is permanent, that's a better way to go. It's going to get money into the hands of the people that need it.

As I said, the people in downtown Calgary, MLAs, and all sorts of other people do not need this prosperity bonus. I guess the question that I would ask at some point along in the debate is for the Finance minister to tell us what the plans are for the future. I guess the future is our next budget in February, March, or whenever that may be. I think that's important as we decide where we're going. If this is a permanent feature, then I have some real problems with it. If it's only one time and they're looking at other tax relief, not cutting medicare premiums to pay for private insurance but cutting to actually help people put more money in their pockets, I'd be very interested in what the government is thinking in the future.

Thank you, Mr. Speaker.

The Deputy Speaker Hon. members, Standing Order 29(2)(a) is available for questions and comments for the next five minutes if anyone wants to rise on that.

Seeing none, the hon. Member for Calgary-Varsity.

8:10

Mr. Chase: Thank you very much. I personally am going to be voting against this motion. I'm voting against it because I believe it is ill-conceived. The 20 per cent of people who most need this money are not going to have their problems lessened to any great degree by a one-time inoculation of $400, which does not do anything to prevent the poverty disease which is encompassing their lives.

This is not about sharing the wealth. It's about one individual trying to buy a legacy rather than earn it. It concerns me and I think it should concern members of the government caucus that they had a very brief opportunity during their retreat in northern Alberta to discuss the idea of a rebate. No vote was held. It was a singular napkin-type decision.

An Hon. Member: Were you there?

Mr. Chase: No. I've actually talked to people who were and who share my concerns. But the problem is that due to loyalty to the leader they will feel obliged to ignore the majority of their constituents' wishes, gather around the man and, unfortunately, ignore their constituents' wishes and vote for it. I'd be very interested if anybody had the wherewithal to admit whether the whip will be on when it comes to this vote. I would love to think that there are some individuals on the government side who will let their true feelings and those of their constituents, that they are supposedly elected to represent, be heard.

Rather than going on about my particular concerns, I want to address the concerns that my constituents have brought forward to me. I have received more e-mails on this particular topic than on any other issue that this government has brought forward, so I'll let the people be heard. These are the words of my constituents, and I will not read all of them. I will read a sampling so that I'm not repetitious.

In terms of giving out cash I would much rather see the money spent on infrastructure or services. Some things the government could consider are upgrades to public transit in cities, upgrades to bike pathways with the goal of convincing more commuters to use alternate methods to get to work, establishing a commuter rail network utilizing the existing rail network between Calgary and outlying communities, i.e. Cochrane, Canmore, High River, or investment in health care. To me, giving $400 to every Albertan seems to be a very short-term investment.

Another constituent writes:

Your government has cut from education, cut from medical care, cut social programmes over the years, and now we are in an enormously privileged position of sitting on lots of oil which is in high demand, and you propose to give each household four hundred dollars. There are hundreds of better ways to use this money. I for one will donate my amount to a charity or school of which there are many who would be pleased to have some support. But I blush to think our government is so incompetent and lazy that it sees this as the only solution to our wealth. We should have a health and education system which is the envy of the world. We should have no poor people, and this is the best you can do? It is a sad day.

Another resident writes:

Many residents, myself included, recently completed a government sponsored survey and ranked our top three government spending priorities. I personally did not include "a rebate to Albertans" as one of my top three choices. In fact, I do not remember rebates being in the overall top three for the rest of the respondents either (correct me if I'm wrong).

If Albertans did not want a rebate, who came up with this idea?

Rebates are not the answer. How is the money going to get to the people who need it the most? I was in downtown Calgary early on Saturday morning and saw at least 100 people sleeping on the street and in parks. How does the government plan on getting them a $400 cheque? If you were to combine the rebate money and the money that is going to be wasted sorting out the logistics of issuing the cheques, the government could purchase or build a high-rise condominium building and provide each one of these people a place to live for the next year. Wouldn't that be more beneficial and productive?

In my opinion the majority of Albertans do not want a rebate issued directly to them. We all know that the money could be better spent in high priority areas.

Another constituent writes:

How vacuous of you to point out that the citizens of Alberta deserve something back after all the cut backs and services they have put up with! As if 2 or 3 hundred dollars would even touch the financial losses that those cut backs incurred (for example exorbitant extra school fees, increased health premiums etc etc).

Why not do something permanent in this Centennial year such as abolishing health premiums altogether? What a great lasting gift that would be. It is disgusting that a province with Alberta's wealth is still charging for Health Care premiums when the majority of other provinces in much less favourable fiscal circumstances don't charge and your government could easily afford to pick up the 825 million yearly tab. What a long term benefit that would be to young families and indirectly to grandparents who would see their families benefiting from this.

Another constituent gives an example of where money could be used in terms of providing organizations with support.

Dear Mr. Chase:

My handicapped son participates in a therapeutic horseback riding program through an organization called Opening Gaits. Opening Gaits is a non profit organization run entirely by volunteers and provides therapeutic horseback riding to approximately 30 handicapped children. As with most small organizations, Opening Gaits is in need of funding so the parents of these children do not have to bear the full burden of this program.

I was hoping that you could provide me with information on government funding and/or direct me to the appropriate government department.

For the 20 per cent of the population that are in the poverty area and for those who are on fixed incomes, this $400 will cover a particular bill one time, and that's it. It's not something that you could invest. These are examples of people who are not going to have their problems solved. I'm in a middle class and in some places would appear to be an upper middle-class constituency, and these are some of the stories that came across my desk with regard to poverty. I'm sure every member here has similar stories, and I would love you to share them.

My constituent who has a debilitating respiratory condition attempted to commit suicide while on assistance because of the obstacles that were placed in his way in trying to get Alberta Works assistance for his required accommodation. He was told that he didn't qualify for AISH even though he is not employable according to his physician, so he didn't apply. Individuals on Alberta Works that are waiting to get onto AISH are not provided with the same benefits that will be available to them under AISH. Four hundred dollars won't help this individual very long or go very far.

Another constituent who has a debilitating heart condition and has applied for AISH is receiving Alberta Works benefits while waiting for his application to be assessed. His physician has ordered oxygen for him because of his low blood-oxygen levels resulting from this cardiac condition, which is exacerbated by stress. Alberta Works has denied him coverage for the oxygen apparently because Alberta Works only pays for O₂ if it's for a respiratory condition. I'm not sure how many bottles of oxygen he could get for $400.

Another constituent who has a lifelong chronic condition that requires he not be exposed to sunlight has also attempted suicide while on Alberta Works while waiting for approval for AISH. My constituency assistant was trying to get some transportation funds so that he could use a cab. The constituent's Alberta Works worker advised my assistant that the program included $25 per month for travel in the basic allowance, but additional costs would be considered for medical appointments only with a doctor's note explaining how often the individual would see the doctor in a month before consideration could be given. Apparently if an individual is on Alberta Works benefits for medical reasons, is not able to work and can use public transit and can provide a doctor's note and bus passes for the medical appointment would exceed the monthly $25, then $70 would be available to purchase a bus pass. My constituent cannot use public transit due to his medical condition. However, my assistant was advised that he would have to provide the doctor's note, and then he would have to get approval for each and every taxi ride from his worker only for medical appointments prior to each appointment. There would be no consideration for extra transportation costs that did not involve a medical appointment regardless of the constituent's medical condition. I'm not sure how many taxi rides will get this individual to the help that he needs for $400.

8:20

Another constituent had been on EI disability benefits but went on Alberta Works disability benefits after EI ran out. Under Alberta Works she and her family were eligible for extended health benefits. This constituent was anxious to retrain so that she could get back to work as soon as possible and was okayed by her physician to do a classroom training while at the same time she was not medically able . . .

An Hon. Member: Relevance.

Mr. Chase: I know. You'd like to avoid these. Everything's wonderful.

The Deputy Speaker: Hon. members.

Mr. Chase: How many of you have ever worked at the Mustard Seed? [interjections]

The Deputy Speaker: Order. Hon. members. Order.

I would like to remind all hon. members of Standing Order 13(4)(b), which says, "When a member is speaking, no person shall . . . interrupt that member except to raise a point of order." So we will be adhering to these strictly tonight.

The hon. Member for Calgary-Varsity.

Mr. Chase: Thank you, Mr. Speaker. This constituent was anxious to retrain so that she could get back to work as soon as possible, and it was okayed by her physician to do classroom training while at the same time she was not medically able to return to her previous work. She was refused the training program and missed the enrolment date. She had to appeal the refusal and was finally accepted for training benefits but was placed on EI training benefits, apparently under a program that both provincial and federal governments work together on. The constituent began the training program and then found that her health benefits had been cut because she was no longer eligible for them under the EI training benefit. Admittedly, the allowance is higher under the EI benefit than under Alberta Works, but here you have an individual with medical . . .

Mr. Zwodzesky: Point of order.

The Deputy Speaker: The hon. Deputy Government House Leader on a point of order.

Point of Order Quoting Documents

Mr. Zwodzesky: Thank you. Mr. Speaker, I would cite 23(d). I think the member is engaging in a fairly lengthy debate by quoting lengthily and unnecessarily from one or more documents. I appreciate that those are excellent stories for him to be narrating, but we are here debating a particular bill. I wonder if I could just ask the chair to rule on this because I thought we were debating the Alberta Resource Rebate Statutes Amendment Act, 2005. We'd be happy to hear the rest of that debate at another time, I'm sure, but right now I would ask under 23(d) that the member perhaps cease to quote unnecessarily and lengthily from other documents.

The Deputy Speaker: The chair has in the past allowed all members a little levity on that particular point, hon. Deputy Government House Leader.

I will ask the member to stick to the subject matter and proceed.

Debate Continued

Mr. Chase: Thank you very much. As the hon. members have noted, I have several examples. I'll provide them for Hansard in a tabling fashion.

Mr. MacDonald: Table them now.

Mr. Chase: Well, there's a thought. Hansard had requested it as well. I will do both.

We have a wonderful opportunity. We have the $1.2 billion to $1.4 billion worth of rebates. If we had put that money away like we have in terms of other endowment funds, with the heritage trust fund, we could have had that money grow on an annual basis. We could have provided the people most in need with yearly grants. We could have done tremendous work to eliminate the poverty that we've spoken of in terms of the breakfast programs for children. We could increase the level of AISH from $950 – granted, it will be up to the whopping sum of a thousand. There is so much good that this money could do on a lasting year-to-year basis.

We've seen examples of countries who have invested in their people: Norway, $192 billion just in the late '90s in terms of the equivalent of our heritage fund. We've seen the Alaska fund. This idea has, sort of, glimpses or glimmers of the dividend that the Alaska government does on a yearly basis to its members, but that's a yearly basis. It's planned, and it uses the interest not the principal from the royalties that are achieved.

The only thing that prevents us from providing help on an ongoing basis to those who need it whether they be children, whether they be seniors is vision. We've got the money. Please, let's have the vision.

Thank you.

The Deputy Speaker: Anyone on Standing Order 29(2)(a)?

Mr. Dunford: We had a reference a few minutes ago, Mr. Speaker, about ideas. I'm sure that in the history of Alberta and throughout the whole history of mankind probably at various times it's been hard to identify where the actual idea came from. In this particular case of rebating money to the citizens of Alberta, I'm not sure who had the first idea. One of the things that we've noticed about our Premier over the years is that he recognizes a good idea when he sees or hears it. So for the public record I'm not sure whether it was the Premier's idea or it came from somewhere else, but in any event, as he started to talk about it, I think more and more of us came to realize that this in fact might not be a bad idea at all.

I would dare to say that one of the areas of evidence that I would put forward is that if we were to take a survey of all of the members of this Legislature, and if the question was asked, "Do you think, generally speaking, that individuals or families are in a better position to determine how their money should be spent rather than a government?" I think there would be an overwhelming majority that would indicate yes to that question. As a matter of fact, looking at the members of this Legislature, I'm not so sure that it wouldn't be unanimous.

The interesting thing, however, is that people when they get into this place – and we know that over the years more people have talked their way out of here than have talked their way into it, and I suspect that we might be getting an example of that tonight with the previous speaker. I'm not sure that they listen to their heart when they get up on their feet because if, in fact, the hon. member would have answered yes to that question, then what is all of this other rhetoric and the fact that he's edited all of his letters that he received in his constituency office about? I sincerely doubt that every letter that he received was in opposition to this.

Mr. R. Miller: Ninety per cent.

Mr. Dunford: Well, 90 per cent is fine. Ninety per cent is fine, but he didn't read any of the 10 per cent, did he?

So my point is that if an MLA, whether they be in Edmonton or they be in Calgary or in little old Lethbridge, starts receiving mail and everything is a hundred per cent on one side of the agenda, you need to get out on the street and get to work because then a significant number of your constituents are not bothering to deal with you. I think anyone here in this Assembly – if it happens to them, it can happen to any of us. If we find ourselves in that kind of a situation, then we know that we've got to get out to the coffee shops, we've got to get out to the meetings because there's a significant number of people that no longer think that we can represent them as their MLA.

8:30

But I want to get back to the fact that what separates MLAs from being the kind of persons that are here to represent their people and the other kind, that are here to represent their ego, is just what we're hearing. When an MLA stands in this House and starts to indicate how $400 could be spent better than getting it into the hands of the people, then I think we're in danger of that. We're not going to pick on the Member for Calgary-Varsity tonight because he's just an example of what can happen in this place. I would ask each one of us, as we look at this bill, to ask ourselves if we would have answered yes to the question: do you think that, generally speaking, an individual or a family knows better how to spend their money than a government? I think the answer is yes. We should deal with that, then, in that kind of manner here in this House.

The Deputy Speaker: Anyone under Standing Order 29(2)(a)? I'm kind of amazed that nobody would stand up and ask questions under 29(2)(a) when they prefer to interject when speakers are talking on this subject tonight. This is an opportune time for people to get up and make a comment on what the previous speaker said.

Mr. Chase: I just want to be sure that I understand where the member is coming from, whether he is referring to me as a generic MLA or whether he is suggesting that I hold my ego in higher esteem than I hold my constituents' wishes.

The Deputy Speaker: Does the minister wish to respond?

Mr. Dunford: Well, you provided me with the opportunity to make my speech, and now you're providing me with the opportunity to read into the record even more of that.

I would just want to say, Mr. Speaker, through you to the member that when any member – and so in that case maybe it's generic – stands in this House and talks about how the government could have spent the money better than an individual or a family, then I think we have transformed from a feeling of our constituents to a feeling of ego. That is my position, and I think that was the theme of my speech.

The Deputy Speaker: The hon. Member for Edmonton-Rutherford under 29(2)(a).

Mr. R. Miller: Thank you, Mr. Speaker. I'd just like to ask the hon. Minister of Economic Development if he would commit to do the same as my hon. colleague for Calgary-Varsity; that is, table in this Assembly every letter that you've received in your office that was written to you in regard to the rebates.

Mr. Dunford: The answer is no. I wouldn't take up the time of the public record to do that. Of the letters that I've received, I would say that 90 per cent were opposed to the rebate.

Mr. R. Miller: Thank you.

The Deputy Speaker: The hon. Member for Edmonton-Beverly-Clareview under 29(2)(a).

Mr. Martin: I won't bother about egos and things like that. I think the question that the minister asked the MLAs is if they could better manage the money. I think that was the drift of it. The point I would make is that there are other ways to come at that. Would the minister not admit that this is a one-time bonus, that perhaps more sustained tax relief for the middle/lower income, like medicare premium exemptions, would be better for them over the long run?

Mr. Dunford: Mr. Speaker, we were discussing the unbudgeted surplus. When we first looked at it, we entered the tunnel first looking at: "Well, okay. We have an opportunity to do something on infrastructure." So we added more to the capital budget to the point where I would say, based on the current ability and the current capacity of contractors in this province, that we've probably maxed out. We could've looked like heroes to all of these people that have been writing to these MLAs and put another billion dollars in the infrastructure or the capital account. But you know what? We would have been playing with smoke and mirrors because we couldn't have spent the money anyway.

The next place that we looked was: "Okay. Let's look at the endowments that we have." Not only did we add to the endowments we currently have; we've actually created more endowments so that we have more savings. Then, what was left over? "Now what are you going to do with this money?" So we had all kinds of opportunities as to what to do with this money. Somebody said: "You know what? Why don't we just give it back to the people that know how to spend it best?"

The Deputy Speaker: The hon. Member for Edmonton-Rutherford.

Mr. R. Miller: Thank you, Mr. Speaker. I'm utilizing your advice and addressing my questions to the minister through the chair as opposed to heckling during his comments.

My question would be this. As opposed to issuing $400 rebates, which obviously are controversial – and the minister even admits that 90 per cent of the correspondence into his office is against the idea of rebates – I'm wondering if the minister would enlighten me as to how he and his government can justify rapping a billion dollars out of the heritage savings trust fund again this year and putting that money into general revenue when you're looking at a $10 billion surplus?

Mr. Dunford: Well, our commitment to the heritage savings trust fund was that as soon as we had no debt, we would start to inflation-proof it. Everything that we've said in the last 12 years we've done, and that was another aspect of it.

I'd like to point out again to the hon. member, though, in terms of the 90 per cent of letters that were sent to me, that one of the nice things about age is that you get to express ideas that are based on experience, and you hope that they're wisdom. I would say to the hon. member that to be successful as an MLA, one has to follow and one has to lead and one has to know when the difference is.

The Deputy Speaker: The time has elapsed for 29(2)(a).

The chair recognizes the hon. Member for Cardston-Taber-Warner on the bill.

Mr. Hinman: Thank you, Mr. Speaker. I rise with pleasure to discuss Bill 43 here tonight. It's been an interesting discussion that we're getting into, and I guess that I would like to start off with the fact that's been brought up so many times, which is: what is the plan? They talk about a 20-year plan, and that's great, but if it isn't written down, it's only a wish. We've gotten into a situation here where I feel like what's happened is like a foreign tourist with foreign money who happens to jump on the airplane. Realizing we've got some money left over: quick, where do we spend it? This is the saddest case of money too hot to handle and burning a hole in my pocket that we've seen, in my personal view, to this point.

To go on and to talk a little bit more, the thing, I guess, that is disappointing to me – I agree, though, with the hon. minister. I do have faith in Albertans, and they do definitely know how to spend the money better than we do. But that isn't what I think we're discussing here with Bill 43. I'm disappointed to see the $10 million that it takes to disburse and, possibly even more, to basically bribe the people into saying that this is good. Most people that I've also received discussion from are not in favour of this. Why should we be spending money trying to make people excited about it?

Going back to what the hon. member said, though, about money being spent best by the people, that would be the first thing that I would like to see, that this government streamline and reduce the size of government. One of the easiest ways to do that and to benefit long term, that has been brought up by many members now and I think will continue to be brought up, is to eliminate health care premiums and the bureaucracy that it takes to collect and to chase down those Albertans that aren't paying it. It's a major problem. I've met many, many people that owe those health care premiums. I think that it would be a great area where we could eliminate all of that, and we could use those people working in that area for something that is more productive than trying to draw money out of the people that are already hurting.

The other thing that's been mentioned many times is that during times of profit like this, it isn't how much can we spend how quickly. When we don't have a plan, let's put it into savings. There's nothing worse than having a few extra billions of dollars and thinking, "What are we going to do with it," and having to spend it. The heritage trust fund was set up a long time ago. We had a savings account. We should be putting it in there. We don't need four, five, six, or seven new endowment funds. That's what the heritage trust fund was for. We've given out many, many things in the past, and it's worked very well. We should go back to one simple fund and have disbursements out of there rather than playing the politics of so many different funds and so many extra bureaucrats.

8:40

I agree with the hon. minister that it's best in the hands of the individual. What this was: there was a surplus, and much like when we file our federal income tax, at the end if we've overpaid, we would get that back. We have a huge revenue. This is the time to give back to those people who have been taxed, and a refund on our property tax would be an excellent way. I don't say to eliminate property tax. I say a refund because we've got a surplus, and this would go back to the taxpayers of Alberta. Many of them do feel that their taxes are onerous. Much to their dismay they listen all the time in this House that we have the lowest taxes in the country. That isn't good enough if we can do better. Let's lower them and benefit people on a yearly basis.

There are many other programs that we could and should be looking at. I get kind of amused by the fact that our Premier – was it yesterday or today? – announced a $20 million scholarship for Canadians outside Alberta. He spoke before he left that he was going to distribute the money, and now he's gone out there.

Perhaps what he could do for Albertans is put up a $20-million lottery where things like the Warner hockey school could put in their ticket for their millions they want. The Magrath golf course could put in their bid for theirs. Taber has a collapse in their water lines; they could put that in there. Perhaps for all of the communities around that are asking for projects that we realize we can't have, have a lottery fund so that there's that little streak of hope here in the province that: oh, maybe we can win our lottery fund from that endowment fund.

It just seems like there's just no plan, and it's very disappointing to lots of Albertans that we come up with something on the spur of the moment like that. Albertans can spend the money better, and we need to be looking avidly at all programs where we can be reducing taxes. That would truly be a benefit in many areas.

The other one that I've missed speaking to tonight: I think that we need to lead this great country. We've talked about other areas where we've been leading in our thoughts. The $8,500, whatever the basic tax exemption is of the federal Liberals: it's very, very upsetting to me that they'd sit there and say on one hand, "We're trying to help those that are impoverished or low income." I'm proud here in Alberta that we're at $14,000 for our basic tax exemption. Let's shame those federal Liberals and raise it to $20,000 and help those to help themselves. Then we can have something to talk about when we go down there and say: hey, what do you mean you want to help them when you're taxing them at $9,000? We can and should be leading by example across this country, and I would hope that we'd be fiscally responsible and help in that area.

A few other areas that I referred to earlier because of agriculture. The agricultural industry is not doing well with the water, the flooding, the heat, the adverse weather – it's gone up and down – many problems, but the toughest thing right now is their input costs. We could and should reduce the taxes on those input costs. I've mentioned many times the incentives in the oil industry. Let's put that across to all businesses. Let's lower our business tax. Let's lower our flat tax and balancing that budget. I'd very much like to see a reduction in these things. We have the opportunity.

It should be first in our thoughts on all budgets: how can we help Albertans to help themselves? How can they enjoy the prosperity that we're doing? And that is by streamlining the size of government. It's by reducing the amount of taxes and service charges that we have. We can and we should do better.

I would hope that we would continue to debate these things in this House and that we'll move forward. Let's try and simplify. Let's go back to the heritage trust fund. Let's put our money in there, and then we can come up with programs from there to help like we once did, for example all of the rail cars and many other things that we used to see advertised across this country, and could be proud of, what the heritage trust fund was doing not just for Albertans but many Canadians.

I thank you.

The Deputy Speaker: Anyone under Standing Order 29(2)(a)?

The chair recognizes Red Deer-North, followed by Edmonton-Mill Woods.

Mrs. Jablonski: Thank you, Mr. Speaker. I'm in support of Bill 43. I've carefully considered whether this was a good idea or not, and I was finally convinced by one of my constituents who wrote me a letter. This constituent is a single parent with three school-aged children, and unlike the lower income Albertans that the Member for Edmonton-Beverly-Clareview has been talking about, who have access to some of our programs for low-income Albertans, she makes just a little bit too much money to be considered low income. But she said simply: thank you; I intend to catch up on my bills, to buy some new clothes for my kids, to take them to the Tyrrell museum for a day, and to fill the fridge with good and tasty snacks. I think she represents an area of Albertans that we sometimes forget about. I know that people in that group of Albertans are very appreciative of this $400 resource rebate, and I just thought that I would put her letter on the record and her thanks to us for making that decision for her.

The Deputy Speaker: Anyone on Standing Order 29(2)(a)?

The hon. Member for Edmonton-Mill Woods on the bill.

Mrs. Mather: Thank you, Mr. Speaker. The purpose of Bill 43 is to provide Albertans with a $400 per-person resource rebate as a result of Alberta's prosperity. After consultation with many constituents and meetings regarding the surplus, my first concern with this bill is the undemocratic process that has been used in the decision-making. Constituents should have been involved through public debate and consultation so that their ideas and concerns could be considered.

Alberta needs a coherent investment strategy because we have the phenomenal opportunity presented with the combination of being debt free and high energy prices. We have a tremendous opportunity to invest wisely. We knew that this was coming. We should have had a plan. Alberta badly needs a long-term investment strategy, a strategy that would be locked in, not like the heritage trust fund, where we abandoned saving.

I believe the $400 rebate is an example of poor public policy. It is a contentious issue and gives a poor impression even nationally with people thinking: well, we don't even know what to do with all our money.

A positive is that this rebate has become a catalyst for debate and discussion throughout the province about wise use of our surplus. I hear many areas of concern from my constituents, such as the government transferred the debt to everyone else in the province – the municipalities, infrastructure, and social services – and multiple problems were ignored. The minimum wage in Alberta is one of the lowest in the whole country. We have people working full-time who barely make it above the poverty line. Benefit levels like AISH are not sufficient, not near the minimum income based on the market basket. Downloading responsibilities without proper funding has put tremendous pressure on services such as ambulances. With the surplus decision-making it is a shame that too little thought continues to be given to targeted cuts such as eliminating health care premiums or reducing the government's share of property taxes taken for education.

We live in a very wealthy province, and we have a tremendous capacity to do what we want. The only constraints are in our thinking. Our surplus is larger than Saskatchewan's operating budget and about the same as the federal surplus, and we have the capacity to pay for education, seniors, and health from our tax base. Services should be paid through our core tax. If we believe they are important, we should be prepared to pay for them. Dollars in health care and education are investments.

The present government established credentials by saying no with cuts and being fiscally conservative. Now we need to rediscover what government should be in a period of affluence. There is a pressing need for a long-term strategy and for thinking beyond the surplus, thinking about the natural resource wealth, and thinking in the long term. We need a combination of spending and investing and a clearer idea of what the balance between the two should be. We have to look at the increasing gap between rich and poor. It is of significant concern that the gap will increase. We know that what we invest in people in early years has a great payoff. Quality education and social supports are good investments.

Rather than bragging that we are debt free, this province should be bragging that Alberta has no homeless and no children living in poverty. Good stewardship means wise use of resources for the good of the whole household. It means we must look broadly in our decision-making process.

Although I support the intent of the $400 rebate, I question the decision-making process and the apparent lack of planning. We need a vision that will make Alberta even a better place to live.

8:50

The Deputy Speaker: Anyone on Standing Order 29(2)(a)?

The hon. Member for Edmonton-Decore on the bill.

Mr. Bonko: Thank you, Mr. Speaker. This is one of these instances where you're caught between a rock and a hard spot. You're damned if you do and you're damned if you don't, unfortunately.

I think that in the last four or five years leading up to the prosperity rebates that we're talking about tonight, Albertans were told to tighten their belts, turn down the heat, put on sweaters, suck it up for a bit because the prosperity will be well worth the wait for the hardship that we're enduring right now. Well, now we're here. We're debating this particular point.

The Alberta government has had four or five years to discuss what to do when that day does come, when the sun shines and the rebate is upon us. I think that most Albertans are a little bit shocked and/or horrified by the fact that the best idea that we could come up with after waiting four or five years is to dole out the money. I think it's an honourable idea because people expect that we've suffered for years and that we're entitled to have a little bit of relief, but on the other end they expect some leadership and some real, I guess, intent and thought put into how the money is to be spent. After all, a lot of people have had cutbacks, have had hardship, and it wasn't their fault. It was the fault of the government who created the debt.

I think there could be no fault laid if, in fact, what they were willing to do on a lot of occasions was put out a survey. Yes, it's tough to get a good proportion of those surveys back, but they can't be faulted if they have made the effort and they made the try. After all, they're willing to put out $10 million to print it and mail it. This is on top of the $1.2 billion as well as 60-plus thousand dollars or more for the information pamphlet telling you why it's such a good idea as well as probably countless other paraphernalia and government pieces to say why this is such a good idea.

People are somewhat suspicious if they're continually told the message: this is a great idea; sign up; take it. Myself, you know, if it sounds too good to be true, it must be too good to be true, and this is maybe one of those instances. People in my office who have either dropped in, through e-mail, door to door when I've done door-knocking, or just on the street have said: "You know what? It's money. I'll take it, but I wish they could have done something else with it. There are far better ways to spend this money in the province than dole it out." Quite frankly, they said: "You know what? I don't need the money. My neighbour doesn't need the money. We're living quite comfortably."

That doesn't reflect all people in the province, and I'll admit that there are a number of cases here where there are people who do have some hardships. Not everyone in my constituency is doing well. There are those that are quite hard up, that are having problems meeting the day-to-day bills, that are having problems meeting the utilities and the increased costs over the last couple of weeks. They could certainly benefit from the bill, but even the majority have said: I would like to have seen this go to more deserving individuals or individuals who need this more than myself.

We've already heard about a number of issues such as education, which is always chronically underfunded. We hear it on a day-to-day basis from the school boards. [interjection] You'll have your chance, or should I call section 24, Mr. Speaker? You've already warned all the members to have decorum, and maybe you should pick them and single them out for speaking against what you've already warned. Or can I just continue on then?

An Hon. Member: Are you challenging the chair?

Mr. Bonko: Not at all. I'm just reminding him of Standing Order 24, Mr. Speaker.

The Deputy Speaker: Hon. members, the hon. Member for Edmonton-Decore has the floor.

Mr. Bonko: Thank you so very much, Mr. Speaker. I will continue.

We've heard about education, how money could be put there. We've had the Alberta School Boards Association in town, on top of the Public School Boards' Association, and they continually tell us, for the last 10 years and my time on the school board, that education is one of those things that is first and foremost, one of the top priorities of this government, yet they continually say that we're underfunded. Another top priority is health care, and they continually say that they're underfunded.

Now, I know that we do have unexpected windfalls, and we are putting some monies back in. That is great. The Minister of Economic Development said: "You know what? Let the people decide." But if we're letting them decide on this surplus, what about the next surplus and the surplus after that? Once you start something, it's hard to stop it. We started the rebates with regard to deregulation, giving people breaks with the amount of gas consumption and utilities, and now I think that we're on a slippery slope. Now that we've given something like this out, how can you say no when you continue to post surpluses year after year? So that's going to be something hard to be able to say, that you can't possibly do it once you've done it once.

There are other social programs out there. AISH received a modest increase. After years and years of asking for it, they've finally been given an increase. There are community groups. We also have groups of shelters, even drug programs and detox centres. The member across the way has already discussed that that would be a great way. He was very passionate about wanting to pass a bill on detoxing for children. This certainly would be another way to have money like that spent on it as well. But then again we're always going to have haves and have-nots.

What is the best way to spend the resources? Again, if we would've sent out a survey perhaps asking, getting maybe 10, 15 per cent back, then it's not the fault of the government. We did the job of asking the people. They didn't send it back. But those that did did have their voice. Like I said, from time to time we do receive. The Minister of Economic Development said that 90 per cent of the constituents in his area are opposed, and I would say that that is probably the number in my constituency that is opposed to the rebate as well.

Thank you, Mr. Speaker.

The Deputy Speaker: Any questions or comments under Standing Order 29(2)(a)? The hon. Member for Edmonton-Rutherford.

Mr. R. Miller: Thank you, Mr. Speaker. I'm just wondering if my colleague from Edmonton-Decore might have any idea as to what percentage of the correspondence into his constituency office was for the rebate cheques and what percentage might have been against the rebate cheques.

The Deputy Speaker: The hon. member.

An Hon. Member: He can't read.

Mr. Bonko: Thank you, Mr. Speaker. I didn't have to read. Some of it was verbal. Thank you, member, for that.

Some of it was through e-mails; some of it was through letters. The majority, in fact all of them, were not in favour of the rebate. I can say that truthfully: none were in favour of the rebate.

An Hon. Member: Only the ones you received.

Mr. Bonko: Well that's exactly it: only the ones I received.

The Deputy Speaker: Through the chair.

The hon. Deputy Government House Leader.

Mr. Zwozdesky: Thank you. I think it's important for members to consider a very important fact before they go too far down this line of what percentage of people said this or that in the letters. When the Minister of Economic Development concluded his comments a few minutes ago and referred to 90 per cent, I specifically turned to him and asked: how many letters did you get in total? The total was just over 20. So let's keep that in perspective here when we talk about these large numbers like 90 per cent of this or 90 per cent of that.

Thank you.

The Deputy Speaker: Does the hon. member wish to respond to those comments?

Mr. Bonko: Again, I'm not sure if the Minister of Education was responsible to myself. But when I did put out a newsletter to the constituents of my constituency, I did in fact ask them: since you were not consulted with how to spend the rebate, how would you best direct that? I have been receiving. I directly asked my constituents so that I could better represent them.

Mr. Zwozdesky: Well, I can appreciate what the hon. member is talking about. I simply wanted to put into perspective what the 90 per cent comment was in terms of relevance to the statements made by the Minister of Economic Development because I can see where this is going. People are going to read into this: wow; 90 per cent of the people were opposed to it. Now, we're talking here about 18 families, and I'm sure those 18 are important, but when you make grandiose statements that seem to question what was said, I thought I would just try and put that in perspective and clear that up for all hon. members.

9:00

The Deputy Speaker: Just for clarification on Standing Order 29(2)(a), a member may make a comment or ask a question.

Anyone else on 29(2)(a)? The hon. Member for Calgary-Varsity.

Mr. Chase: Yes. Hon. member . . .

The Deputy Speaker: Through the chair.

Mr. Chase: Sorry.

Speaker's Ruling Addressing Questions through the Chair

The Deputy Speaker: Hon. members, to everyone in the Assembly, if you look at the microphone on your desk, you'll see that it is positioned to the Speaker's side of your desk regardless of which side of the House you're on. That's intended so that you speak into the mike, and while doing so, you're speaking through the chair. You're also heard better through the microphone system. So I would ask everyone to address their comments through the chair.

Mr. Chase: Thank you very much, Mr. Speaker, for that clarification. I appreciate it. I can no longer claim to be a novice; I'm a seasoned professional.

Debate Continued

Mr. Chase: My question to my fellow hon. member with regard to percentages and their importance: is the hon. member aware that just over 20 per cent of eligible voters put this government into power?

The Deputy Speaker: Anyone else on Standing Order 29(2)(a)?

Seeing none, I recognize the hon. Member for Stony Plain on the bill.

Mr. Lindsay: Thank you, Mr. Speaker. I want to take this opportunity to speak to Bill 43 and talk about the opportunity that we have now to give back to Albertans, Albertans who contributed to eliminating our provincial debt. Contrary to some comments on this debate, I believe we have excellent programs in place to look after those in need, and this bill will give them an additional bonus. This bill is part of a well-thought-out strategy to manage this year's unbudgeted surplus. This is a bonus for all Albertans that will benefit all Albertans, and I support it wholeheartedly. I believe that the silent majority of my constituents do as well, and with the vocal part of my constituents it was pretty much an even split.

Thank you, Mr. Speaker.

The Deputy Speaker: Any comments or questions under Standing Order 29(2)(a)? The hon. Member for Edmonton-Rutherford.

Mr. R. Miller: Well, thank you very much, Mr. Speaker. I'm going to guess that the hon. Member for Stony Plain is expecting this question. I'm wondering if he would be willing to share with this Assembly by tabling all of the correspondence into his office in reference to the rebate cheques. [interjections] Excuse me; I have the floor.

The Deputy Speaker: Hon. members, the hon. Member for Edmonton-Rutherford has the floor.

Mr. R. Miller: Thank you very much, Mr. Speaker. For some reason Wednesday nights seem to be like this, every Wednesday that I happen to be in this Assembly.

The second part of my question. [interjections] Mr. Speaker, earlier my colleague from Edmonton-Decore referenced 24(1), and I think you have several times tonight cautioned members in this Assembly to keep it down while somebody else is speaking. They don't seem to be responding to your request at all, Mr. Speaker.

The Deputy Speaker: Standing Order 24(1) isn't the relevant standing order, hon. member. It's 13(4)(b).

Mr. R. Miller: If I could finish the question that I was asking the hon. Member for Stony Plain, Mr. Speaker, the second part of the question is: would he be willing to share with this Assembly the percentage of correspondence into his office that is in favour of the rebate cheques and the percentage of correspondence into his office that is against the rebate cheques?

Thank you.

The Deputy Speaker: The hon. Member for Stony Plain.

Mr. Lindsay: Thank you, Mr. Speaker. To the hon. member: if I had received any written correspondence, I would be more than willing to share that. The only response I got was verbal, and as I indicated before, it was pretty much evenly split.

The Deputy Speaker: The hon. Member for Edmonton-Manning.

Mr. Backs: Thank you, Mr. Speaker. I'd just like to ask a quick question to the Member for Stony Plain, who referenced that this bill is as well thought out as programs that are dealt with in other parts of the government. I just wonder. Through you to the Member for Stony Plain: is this as well thought out as the response from the government to the oil spill by CN at Wabamun in his constituency?

The Deputy Speaker: Does the hon. member wish to respond?

Mr. Lindsay: Mr. Speaker, if I could respond. I don't believe the oil spill in Lake Wabamun has any relevance to Bill 43 or in regard to the unbudgeted surplus. In any event the planning of managing the surplus, in my humble opinion, is very well thought out and very well planned, and so was the initial response by our government to the oil spill out at Lake Wabamun.

The Deputy Speaker: Anyone else on Standing Order 29(2)(a)?

Seeing none, the chair recognizes the hon. Member for Edmonton-Manning.

Mr. Backs: Thank you, Mr. Speaker. I don't know if I'm really all that pleased to rise to speak to this bill because I think that what it is is another example of the seat-of-the-pants, almost bumbling type of decision-making we so often see from this government. You know, many of the people who will be getting this $400 will be people like NHL players who file an income tax return for the year 2005 and are here for just a short time, people who are executives from Hong Kong and Houston who are here for a short time and will get that $400, people who have some sort of a reason to file an income tax return here in Alberta. I hope it isn't Conrad Black that's going to be getting a $400 rebate bonus from this program in Alberta.

You know, a lot of my constituents, Mr. Speaker, at first blush, when they first heard of it, when they first saw it, kind of liked the idea of getting $400 because they're so used to, they're so accustomed to, they're so understanding of the fact that they feel that most often the monies go to the big interests in this province and that this money would not in fact go to those big interests and to those types of things. You know, I look at the supplementary spending, and again there was not a single penny of that extra, supplementary spending going into the Human Resources and Employment budget, which covers some of the old things that we used to call social services and some of the people who cannot work and some of the people who are poor in our province.

You know, in speaking to a lot of the people in my constituency, many of them began to think about this. I'm not saying that all of them don't like it. Some of them do and some of them will. Some of them are quite poor, and some of them quite need it. But they do look at the facts, and they do see that it is not all going to go to the right people and that it was very, very quickly put out. I hope that none goes to some of the scam artists and things that the Secreds saw when they did it back in the '50s. I mean, even in that particular instance the government had a similar program, and certain potted plants were able to get the payout from the government.

The ability of this government to deal out funds, to deal with funds, and to manage things like this is sometimes very much in question. I mean, of course, they did pay down a $23 billion debt, Mr. Speaker, with $63 billion in oil revenues from '93 on, but it's not good economics to be throwing this sort of money at this time, in this heated economy onto what I described yesterday night as a fire. It's like throwing gasoline onto a roaring fire. It just flares up real quick, disappears very much into the inflationary air, and is gone in a minute. Now, there are those who say: "Well, some will go back to the government through VLTs and through things like, you know, the revenues from casinos. Some will get to charities through that, and some will go through bingos and things like that." Yeah, well, there'll be that sort of stuff that'll go on.

One of the things that really bothered me about this, that really bugged me about this whole program, why it really doesn't seem to go over very well with many Albertans is that it wasn't put out before Christmas. Why couldn't it have at least been done so that people could have bought some Christmas presents? You know, I mean, gosh, that just shows very basically and very clearly that it wasn't planned, that it wasn't something that was put into a clear program, and that it was something that is very much seat of the pants, spur of the moment, and something that just came up out of a quick decision that I don't think really is in the long-term or even the short-term interests of Albertans.

Thank you, Mr. Speaker.

9:10

The Deputy Speaker: Anyone wish to rise under Standing Order 29(2)(a)? The hon. Member for Edmonton-Rutherford.

Mr. R. Miller: Thank you, Mr. Speaker. I'm wondering if the hon. Member for Edmonton-Manning would care to share with this Assembly the percentage of correspondence into his office that might have been in favour of the rebates and that which might have been against the rebates, and also if he would be willing to table those correspondences in this Assembly.

Thank you.

Mr. Backs: I had a number of letters that were sent to me on this, Mr. Speaker. I'd have to check as to where it was at the last, but as far as I know, it was a hundred per cent against the $400.

Thank you, Mr. Speaker.

The Deputy Speaker: Anyone else? The hon. Member for Calgary-Egmont.

Mr. Herard: Thank you very much. I wonder, Mr. Speaker, if all of the hon. members across the way who are so willing to ask for commitments of tabling people's personal correspondence have asked permission of those constituents to table that correspondence because, as far as I know, unless you do that, then you are really dealing with private information. You need permission to do that, and I'm wondering if they've all got permission for all of these multitudes of letters that they want to table.

The Deputy Speaker: Anyone else under 29(2)(a)? The hon. Member for Edmonton-Decore.

Mr. Bonko: Well, I wasn't sure, Mr. Speaker, if that was directed to us individually who have gotten up and spoken or if it was to anyone who cares to answer the question from the member. Since I'm standing, I have always asked permission when anyone else gives me correspondence just in case one day I may add that. [interjections] That's right. I carefully cover all the bases and all the places.

The Deputy Speaker: The hon. Member for Edmonton-Gold Bar.

Mr. MacDonald: Thank you very much, Mr. Speaker. It's a real pleasure to get an opportunity to participate in the debate this evening.

The Deputy Speaker: Excuse me, hon. member. This is under 29(2)(a)?

Mr. MacDonald: No.

The Deputy Speaker: I'm afraid someone is ahead of you.

Mr. MacDonald: I apologize.

The Deputy Speaker: If there's no one else under 29(2)(a), the hon. Member for Calgary-Fort.

Mr. Cao: Thank you, Mr. Speaker. I'd just quickly mention a couple of points in here. The previous debates have good thoughts, but to me they missed many points of the bill. The point was missed when we heard a lot members talking about how to spend the total unbudgeted surplus, or the windfall. The point of the bill that we should realize is about the $400. I worked it out with the total estimate of the coming surplus and divided it by the population of Alberta, which is 3 million, so each Albertan would have about $2,400. The government still keeps and invests $2,000 of the surplus on behalf of each of us and rebates $400 to each to meet the cost of living in Alberta due to the fuel costs and natural gas costs.

I personally also received only three e-mails from the frequent e-mailers to me. They expressed their dislike to the government and complained about not enough money in other areas, only adding that the $400 rebate should not be done. So you can say that I received three e-mails and all of them objected to that, but when I walked in my neighbourhood, I talked to people in different areas. I went to talk to people at the drop-in centre. Everybody said: "Great, Wayne. Great." So those should be considered in the debate as well.

That is my point, that's all I have, and I support this bill wholeheartedly. Thank you.

The Deputy Speaker: The hon. Member for Calgary-Varsity under 29(2)(a).

Mr. Chase: Thank you. I'm just wondering if the hon. Member for Calgary-Fort, when he visited the drop-in centre, passed out his cards with his address and indicated his willingness to help out those men and women in a sad plight with filling out their last year's income tax return so that they could qualify for the donation, the rebate.

Mr. Cao: Well, the question is really personal. I did not. The management of the centre has organized those things, so I rely on the volunteers and the management of the centre to do all of that work. Individually I do other things.

Thank you.

The Deputy Speaker: The hon. Member for Edmonton-Rutherford under Standing Order 29(2)(a).

Mr. R. Miller: Thank you, Mr. Speaker. I'd just like to make a brief comment on the answer that the Member for Calgary-Fort just provided. He has very clearly outlined for all Albertans one of the real problems with this rebate program, and that is that as he acknowledged, he is doing nothing to aid those people in getting the rebate cheque. However, he is relying completely on the agency to make sure that those people are aware of it.

The Deputy Speaker: The time for Standing Order 29(2)(a) has elapsed.

I'd recognize the next speaker, the hon. Member for Edmonton-Gold Bar.

Mr. R. Miller: Mr. Speaker, that was only about 30 seconds.

The Deputy Speaker: There is only five minutes allowed in total for Standing Order 29(2)(a), and that five minutes has elapsed.

The hon. Member for Edmonton-Gold Bar.

Mr. MacDonald: Thank you very much, Mr. Speaker. Again it's a pleasure to have this opportunity to participate in the great debate tonight on the rebate. Certainly, there are many different opinions. It depends on who you talk to. In the travels that I have had throughout the constituency, the vast majority of citizens are feeling that the money could have been much better spent.

Now, this has been from the start all about the legacy of a retiring Premier. It has nothing to do with all of a sudden this notion that we're going to share the wealth in the form of a resource rebate with the citizens who own the resource. It is quite unusual that we would have this sudden turn of events and a completely new direction in public policy by this government after what we have gone through in this province in the last dozen or so years.

Now, Mr. Speaker, why would I say that? Well, it was only in June that the Minister of Infrastructure and Transportation was talking about borrowing money. There wasn't enough money in the treasury to start eliminating the massive infrastructure debt that has occurred in this province over the last decade. I'm surprised that we have this idea that we have to borrow money to build roads, bridges, schools, and fix up our province. If our province is going to grow and develop more economically, we've got to ensure that we've got sound infrastructure. I'm not saying that we don't need to invest in infrastructure, but what I'm saying is that it's ridiculous to be talking about borrowing billions of dollars in June, and all of a sudden now we're going to give back $1.4 billion in the form of this rebate.

Now, one group that has not been discussed tonight is the many people in this province – and there are anywhere between 22,000 and 25,000 files – who are on SFI, or welfare, or as we call it these days, Alberta Works. This government had to be shamed during the last provincial election to increase modestly the rates for AISH recipients. I was glad to see that come about, a hundred and some-odd dollars, but I don't think that's enough in light of utility costs and other costs that just seem to go up and up and up. This group has received virtually no money, no change in their monthly take-home amount. I don't think that is right. I don't think that they should not be getting a permanent increase in their allowances, their benefits. And they're not.

9:20

Of course, this $400 is going to seem like a lot of money whenever you're faced with high utility costs, whether it's for electricity or natural gas. Or maybe one of your children wants to try out for a special team at school, and you know you don't have the money to pay the fees, so the $400 is going to come in real handy. The basic amount that we're providing as a province to those people is not enough. Perhaps many citizens would not be nearly as reluctant to support this legacy payment if they knew that this government was doing their very best to look after the interests of those who, unfortunately, cannot participate in this economic prosperity. We heard in question period earlier today questions about the needs of children. They should be addressed as well before we give this $400 legacy payment.

Now, when we talk about money, it was only in the spring session when this government forced a school board to close community schools in this city to save close to $300,000, yet we're going to spend in the blink of an eye $1.4 billion. Oil executives told me that we should be building roads across the north from Fort McMurray over to the Peace district. That would be a wiser investment of this money than this one-time legacy payment.

Now, the hon. member talked about the drop-in centres. Certainly, we can't forget about the citizens of this province who frequent the drop-in centres. The $400 will certainly be welcome, but we would be better, I think, making good investments in facilities to house these citizens, many of whom have no home of their own. Secure housing for those citizens I think is vital.

There are also people in the constituency of Edmonton-Gold Bar who have reminded me that this legacy payment is just a diversionary tactic, Mr. Speaker. It's a diversionary tactic by this government to distract citizens from what is really going on in this province, and it's the scandals; the electricity deregulation, for instance. One of the reasons – and the hon. Member for Red Deer-North alluded to it – that the $400 is going to be welcome is because of outstanding household bills. Many people are complaining about their electricity bills and their natural gas bills regardless of their income because they've gone up, up, and up because of the scandal, which is electricity deregulation. Now, I don't know what we're going to do about this, Mr. Speaker, because electricity is driving up the costs of everything in this province.

One of the most detailed articles – and I would certainly urge all hon. members of the Assembly to have a look at this – is in the Western Standard. The Western Standard is, in my view, a very good news magazine. It's welcome in the Alberta market. It asks a lot of the tough questions, and it reports on a lot of stories. We're talking about scandals here and how people will appreciate the $400 because the electricity deregulation, which is a scandal, has forced them to take whatever money they can get. Now, in the June issue the Western Standard wrote about electricity deregulation and Enron and Enron's involvement in it, and I would encourage all hon. members to read that.

The fact that we're getting this $400 in January also distracts attention away from this Assembly and one of the main topics that's been discussed here in this brief fall session, and that's the ASC, the Alberta Securities Commission. That, too, in itself is perceived in some circles as being a scandal.

Now, when we talk about the rebate – and here we are at 9:30 at night talking about the rebate, Mr. Speaker – no one in Alberta is really paying attention to the evening sessions, unfortunately, but they do pay attention to question period. The hon. Member for Edmonton-Riverview has been diligent in doing his duty as Leader of the Official Opposition to try to find out what's going on at the Alberta Securities Commission. Not only is he doing that, but the Western Standard is doing that as well. They have a news article – and the hon. member opposite was talking about tabling documents. Well, I'll table this one. It is an article from the December issue of the Western Standard, and it concerns the goings on at the Alberta Securities Commission. There are all these allegations.

Whenever we talk about this, no one is paying attention, really, because of this resource rebate. Everyone is talking about what they're going to do with their $400. I go to a junior high and they tell me, Mr. Speaker, that they're going on a spending spree with their $400. I tell them that their Progressive Conservative government is already on a big spending spree, a big one. The junior high children, whenever they get their $400, are going to go on a spending spree too because they think that this is how things work out. We all know that not to be true because whenever governments go on a spending spree, there is always a consequence.

The consequence in this province has been a lack of infrastructure spending. Routine maintenance has been ignored, has been put off. Now we've got a minister down there that wants to borrow money. Meanwhile, while all this is going on, we have the scandals, the mismanagement of this government, whether it's with electricity deregulation or anything else. I would certainly, Mr. Speaker, table this document. There was an issue about tabling documents before. Well, that is the latest article from the Western Standard, the December issue, that's on sale. People can read about it themselves. It talks about insider interference, stock prices. It talks about a two-tier regulatory regime in this province. It talks about Zi Corp and their relationship with Multi-Corp. All these are issues that are going on.

People, whenever they get their $400 cheque, are still going to get a bill in the mail that's higher than it should be because of electricity deregulation. A scandal, if I ever saw one. It is really, really unfortunate that we don't pay more attention to the issues of electricity deregulation in this Assembly and the issues of the Alberta Securities Commission. I mean, these aren't trivial or vexatious complaints. In fact, Mr. Speaker, the Auditor General put out a special report on the Alberta Securities Commission and the carrying-on of activities down there. Sometimes I think that we would have been better off if we had left at least part of that office in the city of Edmonton, really close to the regulatory body, which is this Legislative Assembly, and the hon. Minister of Finance.

I don't want to be charged with wandering away from the issue of the resource rebate, Mr. Speaker, but I must say in conclusion that I think we could have at some time in the future a permanent resource rebate. At this time in our fiscal model that we enjoy, we have to save a lot of these resource dollars. A lot has to be invested in the heritage savings trust fund. It has to be inflation-proofed.

The hon. Member for Cardston-Taber-Warner was talking about some modest tax relief. The first thing I would like to see this government do is take 4 cents a litre off gasoline taxes. Perhaps we could have an increase in the fuel rebate for farmers as well. They would appreciate it. The farmers I talk to, and there are many, are very concerned, Mr. Speaker, about fuel costs, fertilizer costs, and electricity costs. Electricity is a big issue with farmers. I would remind the hon. Minister of Finance that my research indicates that it was 1992 when we last had a good look at the farm fuel allowance. The price of fuel has more than doubled since then, and that fuel allowance has remained the same. It would be my view that this government would be better served if it would consider increasing that amount of fuel allowance. Do that for farmers, and for other motorists reduce the gas tax.

Thank you.

9:30

The Deputy Speaker: Questions or comments on 29(2)(a)? The hon. Member for Edmonton-Rutherford.

Mr. R. Miller: Thank you very much, Mr. Speaker. I'd like to ask the hon. Member for Edmonton-Gold Bar if he might be willing to share with this Assembly the approximate percentage of correspondence he has had into his constituency office that is in favour of the rebates and that which might have been against the rebates, and if he'd be willing to table that correspondence in this Assembly. If he should happen to have any concerns about not having permission to table those letters, he could always lift a page from the government's protection of information department and black out most of the page, which is the way we receive most of that information when we ask for it.

The Deputy Speaker: The hon. member.

Mr. MacDonald: Thank you very much, Mr. Speaker. I'm like the hon. Member for Stony Plain. The comments that we have received have been all verbal. We have not received any e-mails. I received three letters from students from social science class, grade 10, at W.P. Wagner. Two of them were opposed to the rebate; one was for it. I received those letters.

The Capilano Mall, Mr. Speaker. I could get an empty styrofoam cup there, and I could have written down what the people thought on that. I can tell you and I can tell all Members of the Legislative Assembly that the crowd at the coffee shop in Capilano Mall are not happy about this $400 rebate. They think the Premier is trying to buy himself a legacy before he retires. That's their view of this.

Many of them are senior citizens, and they would much prefer – they would much prefer – to see our long-term care facilities strengthened through an investment so that more staff could be hired and they could get better wages so that they would stay in the facilities. They want the whole issue of long-term care resolved. They like the ideas that have been presented by the Member for Lethbridge-East. That's what they want to see the money spent on, and these are seniors that are at the Capilano Mall.

The junior high students, Mr. Speaker, I think are going to buy iPods. That's what they're going to do, and that's about it.

The Deputy Speaker: The hon. Member for Calgary-Varsity on 29(2)(a).

Mr. Chase: Thank you. I would just like to ask the hon. Member for Edmonton-Gold Bar, based on his experience and the high results he's had in the last three elections, a question with regard to political ethics, which I'm afraid is becoming an oxymoron in this province. If it is your belief based on talking to your constituents, based upon e-mails that you've received, based on walk-ins into your office, that the majority of your constituents who have contacted you and who you have contacted are opposed to this rebate, do you not feel honour bound to vote your constituents' wishes and vote against this rebate if that's what they have told you?

Mr. MacDonald: Mr. Speaker, those citizens have told me that the rebate, the $400 rebate, is not at this time sound public policy. They remind me – it doesn't matter whether I'm at the Italian Centre or the Capilano Mall. The junior highs are a different story. I must say that the junior highs want the money and they want it now. They'll eat their lunch in a crowded corridor in a junior high. They have no problem with that. There's 30 some-odd kids in the class. They don't see that. They see a new iPod. But the majority of citizens are not in favour of this program at this time, and I could not go against their wishes. They have given me specific directions in regard to this legacy payment, and they just don't see the merit in it. I'm sorry.

The Deputy Speaker: The hon. Member for Edmonton-Manning on 29(2)(a).

Mr. Backs: Thank you, Mr. Speaker.

The Deputy Speaker: Fifteen seconds.

Mr. Backs: Pardon me?

The Deputy Speaker: Ten seconds remaining.

Mr. Backs: Thank you, Mr. Speaker. I was very interested in the things on this farm crisis, the price on purple fuel that was brought about, and I would like the Member for Edmonton-Gold Bar to speak on it.

The Deputy Speaker: On the bill the hon. Member for Lethbridge-East.

Ms Pastoor: Yes. Thank you, Mr. Speaker. When people sent back this I think it was called futures survey, it was quite clear that this rebate was not high on their agenda, yet the government spent $65,000 to try to change that attitude, to try to change that concept of the fact that they were going to give out this $400 rebate. At that point, I don't think it was the amount; it was just the fact that it was going to happen. I really feel that this has been a knee-jerk reaction. It's been poorly thought out. The first thing that came to my mind when I heard that this was coming out – I went: "Oh, my God, another election. I just got through one." However, there have been other ideas put forward on why this would be happening at this point in time.

One of the reasons that I think that it's very poorly thought out policy is because I compare it to what Norway and Alaska have done and the way they actually can sustain a rebate instead of just having a little tease every now and again. I really don't believe that it's been well thought out. Again, it's probably the what that is perhaps okay, but it's the how it's been done that I would really question.

The other thing is that there's been huge administration cost, $10 million, to get this out to every person that has filed income tax. Mr. Speaker, $10 million would instantly wipe out the neglect and the premature deaths that are happening in long-term care in this province. It would provide well-trained front-line workers now. Absolutely now.

Even those who can use these dollars in this one-time windfall have used the word "silly," which I haven't heard people use in a long time. They've said they thought it was silly. Even my gas jockey said that although he's already bought his iPod, he really felt that it was a silly way to spend money and that the cumulative dollars were more powerful. He used the words "cumulative power of the dollars," and I thought: "Wait a minute. This isn't my average gas jockey." So I asked, in fact, what grade he was in, and he was in grade 10. So these kids are really thinking. Despite the fact that he has bought his iPod and, actually, more computer games, deep down he knows that it is really a flawed way to spend these dollars.

As far as the NHL hockey player that's been mentioned, he's probably going to be thrilled. It will be the first 400 bucks he's got that he doesn't have to share with his agent. So he's probably going to be happy, but undoubtedly he certainly doesn't need it.

9:40

There are many struggling people out there, and I'm not just talking about the homeless; I'm talking about the working poor. The two parents who are working for $3 an hour above the minimum wage. They have two children in grade 1 and grade 2. Both of these parents are shift workers. These dollars, they thought, could be used for something for the kids. Maybe they could go to different activities. The point is that because these parents are working shift work and these kids are in care, it's the time that's important to them, not the dollars. Now they've got the money, but they can't get them to the activities because of the way that they have to spend their time either babysitting or else hiring care for their children. So they said that they were going to use the $1,200 that their family was going to get and actually put it toward the utilities that they felt would give them a break, which in my mind is a very responsible thing to do. However, they also said: what am I going to do next year?

I'm not sure that there really is a great deal more that could be said on this. I just really believe that it's been poorly thought out in comparison to Norway and Alaska, as I've mentioned, and that that $10 million would really, really help the people and the families that are coping with the neglect in long-term care.

The Deputy Speaker: Anyone on Standing Order 29(2)(a)? The hon. Member for Calgary-Varsity.

Mr. Chase: Thank you. Hon. Member for Lethbridge-East, you mentioned examples of how the $10 million could be spent in terms of relieving the situation in long-term care. You talked about the number of individuals who could be hired to be a part of that system. If you go beyond the $10 million and you go all the way to the $1.4 billion, have your constituents suggested ways that that money could be invested to help them out in the longer term than this one-shot, one-time funding?

Ms Pastoor: Most of the people that I had conversations with wanted to tell me how they were going to spend the money. They said it was silly, but they wanted to use it, and they were going to spend it. I may be a little bit different, but the majority of the people that I spoke to – now, granted, we have to take into mind that I was at the malls, and I was talking to different people – actually thought that this would help them now, but they said: God help me for later.

Really, the conversations didn't get into the depth of what they could do with it. Long-term care, of course, because people recognize me in my neighbourhood as, you know, sort of being, I suppose, almost obsessive about the fact that this is going on in this wealthy province, people would speak to me about. So I didn't come up with any other than education, other than putting more money into education and helping kids get educations quicker and not having to work their way through university.

The Deputy Speaker: The hon. Member for Edmonton-Rutherford.

Mr. R. Miller: Thank you very much, Mr. Speaker. Just a brief comment on the correspondence issue again. I'm sure most members are dying to know the numbers in my office, and I'm happy to share them with this Assembly. As Finance critic I am in receipt of all of the letters, and they are in the hundreds if not thousands of letters that come into both the Alberta Liberal Party office and the Liberal caucus office in regard to the rebate cheques. I can assure all members that it is well in excess of 90 per cent that are against the idea of the rebates. Most interestingly, I think the majority of those letters are CCs of letters that were sent to the Premier of this province.

Thank you.

The Deputy Speaker: The hon. Member for Highwood.

Mr. Groeneveld: Thank you, Mr. Speaker. What I would like to do, I guess, is form a bit of an observation or comment. I get letters in my office too. There's always someone who has an issue with the government. I get people that have an issue and are against it. I get none from the people that like it. So if I get two letters, I'm sorry I don't conclude that all my people are a hundred per cent against what's going on.

The Deputy Speaker: Anyone else?

Mr. Backs: I'd like to address a question to the hon. Member for Lethbridge-East regarding the amounts that are paid to temporary foreign workers as there are a lot of temporary foreign workers that work in southern Alberta for very, very short periods of time. Do you believe that those temporary foreign workers . . .

The Deputy Speaker: Hon. member, I believe the intent of 29(2)(a) is a question or a comment on what the previous speaker was speaking about, not something totally irrelevant. So I would have to rule that out of order on relevance.

Anyone else on the bill?

The hon. Minister of Finance to close debate.

Mrs. McClellan: Mr. Speaker, there have been some very interesting comments. I have checked the Blues of previous debate on this and found no questions but a great deal of comment, some of which I'd like to respond to. But in the interests of time and with the concurrence of the Assembly, I would suggest that I might answer those questions or comments in the committee stage of this bill.

I would move second reading of Bill 43.

[Motion carried; Bill 43 read a second time]

Bill 46

Criminal Notoriety Act

[Adjourned debate November 16: Dr. Miller]

Mr. Chase: I just wanted to lend my support to this particular act, the Criminal Notoriety Act. The idea of anyone benefiting from the victimization of another individual and getting to celebrate that victimization through writing, through movie rights, through promotion is absolutely intolerable. Therefore, I stand in support of this government bill. I know that in Ontario the example is with Homolka and in B.C. the examples there. I'm glad that Alberta is taking this strong moral stance, and I support the government for taking this stance.

Thank you very much.

The Deputy Speaker: Anyone on 29(2)(a)?

Seeing none, the hon. Member for Edmonton-Beverly-Clareview on the bill.

Mr. Martin: Well, thank you, Mr. Speaker. I won't go on long because I may have to get my letters back from Clifford Olson and Paul Bernardo.

Mr. Speaker, of course, we're going to support this bill. I mean, it's a no-brainer to me that no one should profit from serious crime, and that's what this bill is all about. The point that would make it difficult – and I don't know how this would work – is that I think the member said that there were a couple of provinces that have this type of legislation. It seems to me that until all provinces participate, you sort of have a patchwork solution. If a person was serious about it, they could go to another province. I don't know if B.C., for example, has one and still does. That's not the prerogative of this Legislature, but it seems to me that that would have to be done.

I also want to say – and the Solicitor General is here today – that this is good in the sense that it looks like we're being tough on crime. I'm not sure how many Olsons, Bernardos, and Homolkas have been around Alberta recently, and I don't know if there has been any need to deal with this issue. I think it's good to bring it forward.

9:50

I do think that there is a serious concern certainly in the city I represent and the constituents I represent with growing, serious crime whether people are going to make money from it or not. We've had a couple of recent examples of young people, sort of senseless crimes. We know that we have gang problems developing. It's not just a simple matter of hang 'em all high. The justice system is only part of it. I think that we are going to have to take a look at some initiatives, especially in the major cities and especially in the city of Edmonton, about how we're dealing with serious crime whether they're going to make money from it or not.

I think that some thought has to be done in terms of gangs and these sorts of things. I'm not sure any of us have the total answer here. There are long-term problems. There's poverty and the rest of it. But in the short term surely there are some things that we can do. There are some initiatives that I know the Solicitor General has talked about, some communication and doing those sorts of things amongst police forces. I understand that there are some initiatives that Toronto and Winnipeg are looking at because they're facing similar problems. I don't know if there's anything we can learn there, but I would certainly be interested, before we get to profiting, that we begin to deal with some of the systemic causes of crime.

In saying that, Mr. Speaker, I think this bill can move along fairly quickly. It sounds from both sides that we certainly will be supporting it. Thank you.

The Deputy Speaker: Any comments or questions under 29(2)(a)? Seeing none, the hon. Member for Edmonton-Rutherford.

Mr. R. Miller: Thank you, Mr. Speaker. No, I'm not going to ask about your letter from Clifford.

Mr. Speaker, it would appear on the surface, as my colleague from Edmonton-Beverly-Clareview has suggested, that this bill should be able to move along fairly quickly. The one situation that I'm not sure is addressed by the bill – and I'm hoping that we can have some clarification provided to us at some point – is the situation where a plea bargain has been entered into, where you have an accomplice or someone who has abetted a crime and agrees to testify against the other individual in exchange for being let off the hook as it were. Is that person who agrees to testify against a co-conspirator and who is thereby excluded from profiting from a crime that he or she might otherwise have been convicted of but in this case was able to relieve themselves from that penalty by testifying against a co-conspirator also included in this bill? As near as I can tell, that situation is not addressed in here, and it probably should be. Perhaps the minister may consider some amendments that would look after that situation.

Thank you.

The Deputy Speaker: Any questions or comments under 29(2)(a)? Seeing none, the hon. Member for Red Deer-North to close.

Mrs. Jablonski: Thank you, Mr. Speaker. I will just call the question.

[Motion carried; Bill 46 read a second time]

Bill 53

Surface Rights Amendment Act, 2005

The Deputy Speaker: The hon. Member for Peace River.

Mr. Oberle: Thank you, Mr. Speaker. I'm very pleased to rise tonight and move second reading of Bill 53 and provide some opening comments to the debate.

I bring this bill, this amendment, on behalf of the Minister of Sustainable Resource Development. Basically, it's a very short bill. I seem to have all the short bills this session. This bill provides an amendment for a person operating an industrial facility on private land in the event that they have received a notice that their reclamation certificate has been rescinded and in the event that they require re-entry onto the private land to provide some sort of an environmental remedy to fix a problem and in the event that they cannot obtain consent from the landowner to re-enter that property, this amendment simply allows the Surface Rights Board to issue an order granting right of entry to that company to provide for prompt environmental cleanup.

Mr. Speaker, this is a rare case. In most cases the oil company, as it were, the energy operator, would achieve an agreement with the landholder. But there is the odd case where there's a dispute, and the intention by way of this amendment is to provide for the Surface Rights Board to issue an order to provide for prompt environmental cleanup, and I think that's in all of our interests.

The rights of the landholder are still protected in that they have access to the Surface Rights Board. They can get compensation for disturbances or damage upon the re-entry and other costs as the Surface Rights Board might see appropriate. Certainly, the landholder at any time has opportunity to discuss that with the board.

So that is the sum total of the purpose of this amendment, Mr. Speaker. I think it's in our best interest to effect prompt and thorough environmental cleanup whenever issues arise, and that's all I have to say about it. Thank you.

The Deputy Speaker: The hon. Member for Edmonton-Decore.

Mr. Bonko: Thanks, Mr. Speaker. The key concern in this process is the reason why a large number of operators need to re-enter the private land to conduct remediation efforts and that proper reclamation has not occurred. That's the reason for this bill to be put in. Remediation efforts are important, and we support the appropriate efforts to ensure that remediation work is complete and that the areas affected by the oil and gas are restored to their pre-existing condition or as close as possible. However, if all operators properly reclaimed their sites, then government and this legislation would not be necessary. So if we got it right the first time, this sort of legislation, even as short as it is, wouldn't be required.

If the government conducted more inspections and audits, there would also be less need for remediation projects. There is also the potential that this bill could reduce the standard of issuing reclamation certificates as a reclamation certificate is no longer to be the final operator because he has to continue to return to the site or the area. It's our expectation that issuing a reclamation certificate means that actually the site or the area has been restored, final. No system – we recognize that – is going to be perfect, and it addresses that reclamation or remediation is sometimes required. The rights of the landowner must be balanced with the need to access and reclaim disturbed areas. Consultation with the stakeholders suggests that there is support from the landowners for this amendment. However, there will be some concerns with increased access to private land, which was already mentioned as well.

The Alberta Surface Rights Federation does support the legislation as they believe that rural landowners will continue to be paid, rather than the current system where the payment ceases after the certificate is issued. The lease payments are likely to be a big concern for the rural landowners, and our response would be that this is a sensitive area. How will the Surface Rights Board handle the payments? It's unclear, but it should cover the cost and the use of the affected areas or the adverse affects. The amendment does not ensure operators will maintain all their duties, presumably including the duty to pay for the loss or use of the affected area.

While we're happy that the government is making it easier for the operators to perform the remediation work, this government is ignoring the real problem: too many reclamation certificates are being issued in error. Again, as I said, we need to get it right the first time, to contact the operators and make sure that the land is returned to its natural state first and foremost, and this isn't always the case. We'd like to see more staff, more field officers to conduct more audits before issuing reclamation certificates. If this was complete, fewer operators would have to return to the rural properties and disturb the lives of the rural landowners. Industry creates these problems and should be responsible for paying for their costs.

Some questions that I have for the member. Why aren't these areas properly reclaimed before issuing reclamation certificates? What steps will be taken to protect the rights of the private landowners? As well, there are a large number of provincial and regional environmental and landowner advisory groups. What groups have you consulted with, and how are their concerns addressed within this bill? How will these changes affect lease payments to rural landowners?

Thank you, Mr. Speaker.

The Deputy Speaker: Does anyone else wish to participate? The hon. Member for Calgary-Varsity.

10:00

Mr. Chase: Thank you. I just have one question for the hon. Member for Peace River.

The Deputy Speaker: Are you rising under Standing Order 29(2)(a), or are you rising to speak on the bill?

Mr. Chase: Yes.

The Deputy Speaker: Okay. Please proceed.

Mr. Chase: Yes. Thank you very much, Mr. Speaker. My question is to the hon. Member for Peace River.

An Hon. Member: He just asked if you were going to speak to the bill or ask a question.

Mr. Chase: I'm speaking to the bill in the form of a question. Sorry. I hope I have it right now.

My concern has to do with section 2(c), where the company doing the reclamation "does not have the consent of the owner or occupant of the surface of the land." I'm just wondering about the owner's rights. They obviously didn't have the mineral rights to their property.

The Deputy Speaker: Hon. member, on second reading we're speaking to the principle of the bill. We get into the detail of the bill in Committee of the Whole.

Mr. Chase: Okay. Thank you very much. I'll reserve my comments until that time.

The Deputy Speaker: Anyone else on the bill?
The hon. Member for Peace River to close.

Mr. Oberle: Thank you, Mr. Speaker. Just a very brief closing. I'm pleased, I guess, of apparent support.

Just in response to a couple issues raised by the one member. He asked who was consulted. He himself obviously consulted a number of people who were in favour of it. He was worried about the landholders' rights and how much payment they would get. He indicated that the landholders were in favour of the bill.

Mr. Speaker, certainly we'll have more debate as we get into committee about some details of the bill. Overall we think it's a very good move. We should all be interested in prompt environmental remediation.

I would just point out, Mr. Speaker, that it's not the case that we've just failed to inspect a site and, lo and behold, somebody decides that we should rescind a reclamation certificate. In many cases these lands are actually back in farming production, and later on there's a subsurface issue that arises, and the farming lands have to be disturbed again. So it's not a matter of just failing to inspect it. It's sound policy that we should go back in and clean environmental spills as fast as we can.

[Motion carried; Bill 53 read a second time]

head: Government Bills and Orders
Third Reading

Bill 15
Workers' Compensation Amendment Act, 2005

The Deputy Speaker: The hon. Member for Calgary-Egmont.

Mr. Herard: Thank you very much, Mr. Speaker. On behalf of the hon. Member for Calgary-Foothills, I'm pleased to move third reading of Bill 15.

I think that most people would probably agree that this bill has had a fair amount of scrutiny and that the bill we have now is significantly improved from the bill that originally was placed on the Order Paper back in the spring session. As you may recall, the bill made it through Committee of the Whole back in May, and we used the summer and the fall to take into account the various points of discussion and disagreement and so on to make this bill better. I think the members from the opposite side would probably agree that we took their considerations into account and that we've done a lot to address the overall spirit of the concerns that were raised with the earlier version of this bill.

The word "vesting" makes clear the intent of section 22 of the Workers' Compensation Act when taken as a whole. However, there has been a great deal of effort to reinforce the rights of the worker and to guarantee the checks and balances that WCB will need to follow with such a framework. I think it's a very reasonable compromise that the processes to be followed in terms of client consultation, selection of legal counsel, and the like will be put into regulation, where the government retains some checks and balances over the process.

Also, Mr. Speaker, we have significantly amended section 22(2) of the act. These changes will apply only to accidents that occur after proclamation of the bill. Therefore, we took the retroactivity out of it.

Similarly, the significance of the strong language of "solely" and "sole" being removed from the bill has also made a significant difference.

The consequences for non co-operation have been significantly relaxed and clarified. Checks and balances work both ways, Mr. Speaker, and there has to be some mechanism for the WCB to have recourse when a worker does not fulfill his obligations under the law. Co-operation with required litigation is standard practice in any sort of insurance law. Bill 15 balances the rights of workers and employers. However, it's now clear that any suspension of income replacement benefits is temporary and lasts only as long as the period of non co-operation. Again, medically-related services related to the WCB claims, such as scheduled surgery, therapy, or prescription medications, will not be the subject of suspension. The clause that suggested that an overpayment could be established that the WCB would try to recover from an injured worker has been completely deleted.

Mr. Speaker, although it is a rare problem, we also introduced to Bill 15 an element that prohibits the employer of an injured worker from pressuring a worker not to sue.

This bill also gives workers on temporary partial disability benefits the same benefit of cost-of-living increases that workers on other WCB benefit streams get, which, of course, is long overdue and a worker-friendly move. Now they do have COLA clauses.

Finally, it gives members of the WCB board of directors the same immunity that members of virtually all government-mandated boards enjoy.

In summary, Mr. Speaker, various stakeholders and members of our government, including myself and members of the opposition parties, raised some reasonable concerns with this bill as it was originally drafted. The Minister of Human Resources and Employment and the sponsor of the bill and a great number of people went to work and made this bill better. These third-party actions will vest with WCB but with greater controls in place to ensure that injured workers are treated as a partner and not an adversary.

Thank you, Mr. Speaker.

The Deputy Speaker: The hon. Member for Edmonton-Manning.

Mr. Backs: Thank you, Mr. Speaker. I'm pleased to rise to speak to the effects of Bill 15, the Workers' Compensation Amendment Act, 2005. I have said before that the workers' compensation system is a very important pillar in the operation of any liberal, democratic, capitalist economy. With over 200,000 claims a year in Alberta alone our courts and our business system would bog down completely if there was not some type of workers' compensation system in place. There would be too many lawsuits. But there are trade-offs.

I'll touch a bit on the history to speak to the effects of Bill 15. The origins of workers' compensation go back to the medieval guilds and the need to care for workers' families when they were injured or became sick. Many further developments occurred in response to the needs of the Industrial Revolution in Europe in the 1800s. It was the arch-conservative Otto von Bismarck who, in response to workers' movements in the late 1880s, passed a law instituting a compulsory, state-run accident compensation system financed by both employers and workers.

Great Britain passed the first true Workmen's Compensation Act in 1897, which placed full responsibility on individual employers to compensate their own workers for their work-related injuries, but workers were permitted to sue their employers for damages rather than accept compensation under the 1897 act.

Throughout the industrial world at that time lawyers started to get interested in accidents. They worked on contingencies, basically a percentage of what they could collect on a final-award basis. Accident rates and legal heat were being brought to bear. Many companies were feeling bottom-line pressure from lawsuits.

10:10

The response in Canada was legislation proposed by Mr. Justice W.R. Meredith, a former Conservative opposition leader for the province of Ontario. His scheme embodied what he called an historical trade-off in which workers gave up their right to sue their employers, a right that was contingent on their ability to prove negligence, and in return they were guaranteed protection against income loss due to industrial injuries and diseases irrespective of fault. It was to be publicly administered, compulsory, and was to be a collective liability system with payments secured by an accident fund. There were provisions to promote health and safety in the workplace. Coverage for medical costs, the addition of merit rating, and the introduction of vocational rehabilitation followed very rapidly. This act came into force in Ontario in 1915, and it was followed by similar legislation in other provinces, including Alberta.

Large government bureaucracies grew up, and these have become an important part of the operation of our economy in Alberta and the rest of Canada. Although the Alberta government has attempted to appear distant from the WCB, it remains a creature of provincial law. The WCB is a creation of this Legislature, and that is why we are in fact debating this enabling legislation today. The WCB is responsible to, even if it's not always held accountable to, the government of Alberta.

I've provided this bit of history, Mr. Speaker, in looking at Bill 15 and its effect in order to illustrate a couple of things. First, workers' compensation is paid for by a trade-off between workers and their employers. Workers are not allowed to sue, and the trade-off is that they will get compensation for lost income due to their injuries. I've been distressed by the statement I've heard so often from WCB employees, that the WCB system is paid for by employers. I would very much appreciate it if the WCB would begin to balance the story and begin to put forward that it's also very much paid for by employees. Workers forgo potentially huge compensation by the fact that they are forgoing their right to sue for damages in tort. The WCB is not a social program. It is not owned by employers. It in fact provides insurance to workers for a workplace injury.

By law under the act there is no way a worker can sue. Clearly, the WCB protects its prohibition from lawsuit and its fear of lawsuit. That certainly is the effect of section 2 of the act. Bill 15 protects WCB directors, more specifically, from lawsuit. This is a proper provision, for it would be difficult to find directors if the decisions that the board sometimes makes were open to lawsuit. Nonetheless, I've seen many Albertans being very disappointed by the actions and decisions of the board, and I would hope that in the future they exercise their immunity to lawsuit with the utmost of discretion and ultimately try to define their decisions in the interests of injured workers. I would also hope that they do not try to foist a bill such as Bill 15 on this Legislature again as they did in the spring, posing it as some sort of insignificant piece of housekeeping legislation.

Some sections are sweeping, in the power they give to the WCB over injured claimants' lives. Sections 22(3) and 22(5) give the WCB the power to arbitrarily take over an auto insurance action where a WCB claim is involved. Clearly, Mr. Speaker, this legislation is not insignificant. Section 22(6) allows the board to throw natural justice to the wind by legislating that the WCB can choose to be in a clear and arbitrary conflict of interest. I'll repeat that. They can choose to be in a clear and arbitrary conflict of interest, according to this act.

With this "have your cake and eat it too" power the WCB can represent a worker, deny his claim, and still pursue legal action where there is alternative insurance involved and then claim that the worker is eligible for benefits that the board itself has denied. Incredible.

Although the board has improved with the reforms of the past few years, the culture of the heavy hand is clear and self-evident in 22(9) and 22(11)(c). These onerous, demanding, and complicated provisions in combination allow the WCB to completely control the payment outcome to any claimant. They allow the WCB to dictate the actions of claimants in a way that would have made any Stalinist state operation proud, and they allow for no recourse. I wish that the government would have accepted the amendments put forward by the Alberta Liberal Opposition yesterday to at least make this part of Bill 15 less onerous.

I'm also pleased that there are improvements from the original so-called insignificant legislation of the spring. I'm also pleased that there are other improvements that have been put forward and over into Bill 50, which had second reading last night: the medical panel provisions. I understand and thank the Member for Calgary-Egmont for putting some of those forward. The firefighters' provisions, which were helped along by the Member for Calgary-North Hill, I think were very welcome additions. Credit is due.

This bill, Bill 15, is still not good enough. It still seeks a heavy hand, a power that goes too far. It reflects a culture of control that the WCB has still not shaken off. It reflects an attitude that the WCB takes on itself that it's somehow supposed to act like a corporation, that its role is to act like a corporation that is designed to make a profit. I suppose that is clearly reflected by the $850 million 2004 surplus outlined in its last report. There's been no movement on long-standing contentious claims. It still does not have the confidence of many applicants. You hear of problems from both employers and injured workers.

I continue to hear time and again that in the one business sense that I hope it would excel at, customer service, it continues to fail. I hear time and again of those with long-term claims, many of whom have worked as respected members of their trades or professions who are presented with demands to work as greeters at Wal-Mart or they will lose coverage. Those claims are then reduced when these injured workers will not surrender what they consider to be their right to dignity, to a job that fits their training and experience.

We must respect the dignity of injured workers, we must ensure that there is a WCB system that can be viewed with respect, and we must ensure that workers can be confident that they will be adequately compensated if they are injured at work. I cannot honestly advise workers that they can be fully confident of coverage under the Alberta Workers' Compensation Board. I can only honestly advise workers to get extra insurance.

Bill 15 does not make the system better. I urge the Assembly to defeat this bill. Thank you, Mr. Speaker.

The Deputy Speaker: Anyone else wish to participate? The hon. Member for Edmonton-Beverly-Clareview.

Mr. Martin: Thank you, Mr. Speaker. This has been a long, arduous road for Bill 15, and make no doubt about it: it's not a perfect piece of legislation. The amendment that bothered me the most is that people can still be forced against their will to be involved in a third-party dispute and a lawsuit, and I think that that is wrong fundamentally. But that amendment was brought forward and lost.

What I want to say about the bill – and I recognize that in this Legislature, after being here a number of years, I can't remember that I ever had a bill passed. I think I have a perfect record, having been in opposition all the time. But there was one, and I gave the members credit that at least there was some attempt to improve this bill when it was draconian to begin with: the retroactivity, not being allowed to divest, going back to the Gutierrez case. At least, now they are talking in the bill about working together and choosing lawyers and that. That's certainly an improvement, Mr. Speaker. So I don't think it's nearly as draconian. It's not perfect by any stretch of the imagination.

What we're dealing with – and I think this is the problem. No matter what legislation we wrote down here, it's the culture that we're dealing with with the WCB. You get it in your constituency office time and time again that the injured workers do not feel that the WCB is there for them. Now, that's probably unfair in some cases, probably not in others. I think the Economic Development minister, who used to be in this, said that they tried to deal with that culture of denial. Well, the fact is that they have not dealt with it. When I talk to advocates, the people that work with WCB, they say that that culture of denial now is worse than it was a few years ago. So there's no trust at all with the WCB, and that's what you're dealing with.

10:20

It's not the legislation, necessarily, that is going to solve all those problems. Probably I could have taken the old Bill 15, as draconian as it was, if the culture was there that it was set up for injured workers, that it's a partnership with business, as the Member for Edmonton-Manning said. If they believed that that was the case, probably we could have worked through it even with the bad legislation if the culture was different. This legislation, as I said, is better, but we had better start dealing with what is happening over in the WCB. For people to say that those problems that retired Judge Samuel Friedman in his review talked about, the culture of denial, have been solved – that's there. That's there. That's the perception that the workers have: when they go in there, they're dealing with the enemy. Not every injured worker can be wrong. Every time that something comes up in the news, Mr. Speaker, about the WCB, you'll get calls in your constituency office, and they can't all be wrong.

In some ways I'll give credit to the members opposite, especially Mr. Webber, because there was a culture of denial for him. Here this new member walks in and says, "I'm bringing in this housekeeping bill," and people in the opposition . . .

The Deputy Speaker: We don't mention names in the Assembly, hon. member.

Mr. Martin: Sorry. You're absolutely correct. I forgot which riding in Calgary he represents, the member from Calgary that sponsored the bill.

I give him credit. I'm sure he felt abused because here is a new member saying, "Here's a housekeeping bill," and all of a sudden the opposition is all over him. That just says something about the WCB to me, that they would even mislead the person here. He admits that, and that's why he came back and changed this legislation, to his credit. So that should tell us a lesson, a little bit about what's going at the WCB. If they tell somebody here that they're bringing in legislation, that it's a housekeeping bill, and it's a new member and he walks in and that's not the case, that it's a major bill, doesn't that tell you something about the WCB? It certainly does to me.

So I'm saying that with this bill I know that this is what we're going to get. It certainly is an improvement. I'll give some credit, as I say, to the members opposite for that, but I tell you that there are serious, serious problems at the WCB. The Appeals Commission: that's another matter that we'll have some discussions about.

Mr. Speaker, I would just conclude by saying that it's better than it was, but we're not dealing with the real problem yet. Thank you.

The Deputy Speaker: Any questions or comments under Standing Order 29(2)(a)?

Mr. MacDonald: Yes, please, Mr. Speaker.

The Deputy Speaker: The hon. Member for Edmonton-Gold Bar.

Mr. MacDonald: Thank you. To the hon. Member for Edmonton-Beverly-Clareview . . .

The Deputy Speaker: Through the chair, please.

Mr. MacDonald: Yes. Thanks. Mr. Speaker, through you to the hon. Member for Edmonton-Beverly-Clareview, do you think the only way to eliminate a lot of this culture or this climate of fear that is at the WCB is through a full, independent public inquiry into how that outfit works? Do you think that would help?

Mr. Martin: I do believe it would. It may be one way to do it. Another way, like with the Securities Commission: we may have to start right at the top and go right through and be a little more aggressive in who's working over there because there is a culture there. But if it takes an independent inquiry, it's worth doing because this is a very important organization, extremely important to workers but extremely important to business too. It can't be seen – and I think the Member for Edmonton-Manning mentioned it – to be a social program. It's a contract. It's a contract, and smart businesses must realize that this is an important contract to them because if you don't have workers' compensation, I can tell you that they're going to be facing some lawsuits that they wouldn't want to deal with. So it's up to them, to both people to make sure that the system works in fairness to everybody. If it takes a public inquiry to do it, I would certainly support it, but something has to be done.

The Deputy Speaker: Any other questions or comments?

[Motion carried; Bill 15 read a third time]

head: Government Bills and Orders
Committee of the Whole

[Mr. Marz in the chair]

The Chair: I'd like to call the committee to order.

Bill 45
Maternal Tort Liability Act

The Chair: Are there any comments, questions, or amendments to be offered with respect to this bill? The hon. Member for Edmonton-Rutherford.

Mr. R. Miller: Thank you very much, Mr. Chairman. It's my pleasure to be able to participate in discussion tonight in the committee stage on Bill 45, the Maternal Tort Liability Act. Let me just say up front that despite the government's assurances so far, this is a very narrowly drafted and crafted bill and will not have serious implications. I wasn't here the other night during second reading, but certainly I did manage to listen to the debate via the Internet at home, and I was quite interested to hear many of the comments on both sides of the issue.

Mr. Chairman, unfortunately, any time you're talking about a fetus in the womb, it raises serious moral issues and doubts and concerns in I think most members' minds, and certainly I'm no different in that. It's one of those areas, unfortunately, that is not black and white, very much like abortion rights, very much like same-sex rights, very much like any number of moral issues that we as legislators find ourselves dealing with. I'll be honest with you: despite the fact that I appreciate what this bill is trying to achieve, I have those concerns with Bill 45 as well.

Specific to section 3 in the bill, Mr. Chairman, it refers to "injuries suffered by the child on or after birth as a result of the mother's actions prior to the child's birth." I've said in this Assembly before – and I have no shame in saying it again – that I'm not a lawyer. I don't have the resources that the government has to call on lawyers to decipher these things for us. I will say that when I read that sentence and it talks about injuries suffered on birth, I'm not sure that that would necessarily stand up in a court of law because if the accident that we're talking about actually took place several months prior to birth, I have a concern that there may be an opening there for a lawyer to argue that those injuries did not in fact take place on birth but, in fact, several months prior to birth and were pre-existing to the birth taking place. So right there already in my mind I think there's a flaw with the way that this bill is drafted.

10:30

Section 5(1), the limit of liability, refers to the fact that the mother's liability is "limited to the amount of insurance money payable under contracts of automobile insurance." Everybody will know, of course, that automobile insurance and issues surrounding automobile insurance have been a big concern in this province for several years now. In fact, Mr. Chairman, the Insurance Bureau of Canada is on record as saying that if this bill passes, many of those good Alberta drivers that the Minister of Finance is so fond of referring to will actually have an increase in their insurance costs as a result of this bill passing. I'm sure everybody will understand that I'm not here to defend the Insurance Bureau of Canada, but I am concerned about defending Alberta drivers, and if there is reason to believe that Alberta drivers are going to face yet further increases in their insurance costs because of this bill, then I think that that should be a concern for Alberta drivers, and I'm sure it is for many of them.

Again, I'm not a lawyer, but I do find it interesting that this bill, innocuous and narrowly crafted and to the point and all of these words that have been used to describe it, takes up approximately one and a half pages. Given the Pandora's box that I'm fearful and that other members on both sides of the House have expressed fear might well be opened by passing this legislation, I'm surprised and a little dismayed that there's only a page and a half of legislation protecting us from that box being opened.

In fact, Mr. Chairman, we have another bill before the House right now, Bill 47, the Alberta Association of Former MLAs Act, that is nearly nine pages. If there were to be a bill that would be innocuous and relatively irrelevant in terms of the big picture of the good work this Legislature does, I would think that that would be the bill, and it's nine pages. This one, which I'm very fearful may well open all sorts of other issues to debate both in the Legislature and, of course, in the courts, is only a page and a half. So I'm somewhat concerned about that.

With that, Mr. Chairman, I'll end my comments. I would look forward to either the minister responsible or perhaps the mover of the bill responding to those concerns but particularly to my concern about clause 3 and that word "on" as it refers to the birth taking place.

Thank you.

The Chair: The hon. Member for Peace River.

Mr. Oberle: Thank you, Mr. Chairman, and thank you to the past speaker, the member, for his considered comments. As the member pointed out, we had considerable discussion about this bill in second reading, and I wholeheartedly agree with him that it's quite a serious issue. Of course, we're considering a bill before the Private Bills Committee as we speak that covers a similar topic area, so there's been much discussion around there. The member allows that he has not been available or not been present at all of the debate. The discussion that we've had so far has focused around many of the same issues that the member brought up.

First of all, the idea of limiting the compensation to the mother's insurance. The Supreme Court in the Dobson ruling was pretty clear that the mother in no way could be personally liable; that would be an infringement on her rights. So there's no legislative room to consider anything else here.

Another point of discussion that a colleague of the hon. member brought up is that the bill perhaps leaves some room for interpretation or invasion into other areas of maternal responsibility. Mr. Chairman, this bill isn't about maternal responsibility. It's about the responsibility of a person driving a car and their responsibility to abide by the laws and drive in a responsible manner according to the traffic laws of our province.

This hon. member brought up his fear of invasion, I guess, into fetal rights. He mentioned the issue of fetal rights. There are no fetal rights whatsoever contemplated in this bill, which is why the wording: at birth. The child has to be born. If and when the child is born, then a cause of action becomes available. There are no fetal rights contemplated here.

Mr. Chairman, this in my mind is a rare opportunity to move to protect the rights of the child without infringing upon the rights of the mother. These rights always existed. There was a time when children could sue their mothers for negligent driving of an automobile while the mother was pregnant. Upon being born, they could sue the mother for negligence. Those rights were extinguished by the Dobson decision of the Supreme Court in 1999.

The Dobson case was actually a car accident. The mother was pregnant and, I understand, negligent. The Dobsons actually won their case in the New Brunswick courts and won an appeal in the New Brunswick Court of Appeal. It was appealed to the Supreme Court, who extinguished those rights for many of the fears that the member has expressed, Mr. Chairman. The court refused to wade into this area because we're talking about tort law and the ability of tort law to ebb and flow, if you will, with precedent. They were adamant that a finding of liability in this area could possibly be interpreted or expanded into findings in other areas of maternal responsibility. They were absolutely adamant that that can't happen.

What they did was invite the Legislatures to invade this area and establish legislation strictly around the issue of car accidents and strictly limited to the level of insurance carried by the mother. This is what this bill does. It does nothing more than that. It is consistent with the Supreme Court ruling and the Supreme Court invitation for us to invade this area, Mr. Chairman.

The Supreme Court, in contemplating this area, spoke extensively of the existence of a law in the United Kingdom that covers the exact same topic area, the Congenital Disabilities Act. That act has been in place for 29 years, and the Supreme Court commented on how the crafting of that act made it impossible to expand the maternal responsibility in the case of a car accident into other tort situations. So they were complimentary of that law and also of the limitation to insurance coverage imposed by that law. They felt that that was a very reasonable balance between the rights of the mother and the rights of the child in that it did not infringe upon the rights of the mother. It did not establish any personal liability on the part of the mother and, therefore, did nothing to harm the mother/child relationship. The United Kingdom, incidentally, has mandatory insurance legislation, which was a very strong foundation for that law, as we do in Alberta and as we do in all provinces in Canada.

The Supreme Court, in overturning the action, was clear that this is a place where the Legislatures can venture, a place where there is room to establish firm legislation that cannot be expanded. That is the intent of this legislation. It's crafted in response to the Supreme Court ruling and in consideration of the Congenital Disabilities Act of the United Kingdom.

The member commented that it's short. Absolutely, it's short, Mr. Chairman. There's no room for anywhere else to go here. It's about the negligent operation of a motor vehicle causing an injury to a child that is subsequently born. It's not about fetal rights.

This is the area the Supreme Court gave us to invade, Mr. Chairman, and that's what we're trying to do with this legislation. Thank you.

10:40

The Chair: The hon. Member for Edmonton-Beverly-Clareview.

Mr. Martin: Thank you, Mr. Chairman. I understand what the member is saying, and I understand what the Supreme Court is saying, but lawyers being lawyers, times change and Supreme Court decisions change. I accept what he is saying about the narrow interpretation, and I do understand that it's been in Britain for a long time, but this, I think, has the potential to become a bigger political issue even though it's meant in a narrow way for a very good reason. I understand what the minister is saying.

You know, we talk about fetal rights. I know he says that it's after the child is born, and that's correct, but there would still be groups that will say: well, it happened, you know, before the child was born. We've talked to some lawyers, and there are varying opinions on this. I'm sure the hon. member is aware of that. I think there's a potential for a slippery slope there, maybe not immediately, but as I say, lawyers are divided on this issue. The Supreme Court is lawyers, and they change, and they will make different decisions. We know that. I know that this government in the past has not been sort of raving about the Supreme Court decisions. I think it's more convenient.

So I guess I'm wondering why we didn't look at other policy initiatives to be able to deal with cases like this. It seems like no-fault insurance would be a help, you know, extra help, some measures to help people that face those circumstances rather than going this route because it's rare. I think we would both admit that this is a rare situation. I know that the member is convinced that it's this very narrow interpretation, but I wonder if there's not going to be a lawyer somewhere down the line that's going to say: well, you know, the mother was drinking. Do we draw a parallel here? I know the member will say no, but there are going to be some lawyers that are going to attempt to do it. There's no doubt in my mind about this. I think there's a potential for a slippery slope. I guess I'm wondering if the other measures that I've talked about, if we couldn't have worked on those first.

The other thing. I think there's a potential to go to the Supreme Court even though they've ruled on it. I think some lawyer will say: well, is it fair under the Charter of Rights? Say one parent had $200,000 liability, and another one had a million? I can just see some lawyer chomping at the bit there: my client is not being treated fairly because of the insurance. I think that that's another potential. I know that on the insurance there's nothing else you can do if you go this route, but I do think that that will be a challenge too, eventually, to the Charter. All I'm saying is that I guess I'm not sure if the risk here is worth it when we could have done some other things in there, and I'm not sure if down the way it will be quite as lawyer-proof as the member is talking about. I do think that there's a potential, as I said, for the slippery slope, and I wish we would have looked at other issues.

I know that the member is bringing it in in good faith, because he cares about what happened here. I just don't think it's necessarily the way to go. I think we're going to get into a lot of legal debates down the way and that certain political groups are going to use this, I believe, the anti-choice groups and the rest of them, saying: "Well, this is one step in the right direction. Where can we go from here?" I know that the advice that the member has is that this is a very, very narrow interpretation. We will see maybe down the road five or 10 years, but I'm sure that we're going to see some legal challenges on it.

Thank you, Mr. Chairman.

The Chair: The hon. Member for Peace River.

Mr. Oberle: Thank you, Mr. Chairman. Thank you very much to the member for his very considered comments. This is one of those extremely rare occurrences in legislation. Normally, when you pass legislation that establishes, extinguishes, or changes rights, you would have to wait for a test case to filter its way through to the Supreme Court to find out, in fact, how it's going to turn out. In this case this legislation is crafted in response to a Supreme Court ruling. The Supreme Court actually laid out how it was that we should craft this legislation and what topic areas it should cover.

Mr. Chairman, the member's comment on maybe other programs. It's a rare occurrence. "Maybe the government should be responsible"; that comment came up as well. Nothing in this legislation extinguishes any other government program, infringes upon, or changes any assistance programs. It doesn't have any effect on the health act or anything else. It's not about that. So I'm not concerned about that.

I understand the trepidation, the fear. The member commented: how long will it be before somebody begins talking about, well, the mother's drinking? There is an area of maternal responsibility. I'll repeat what I said in my opening comment that this isn't about maternal responsibility; it's about maternal operation of a motor vehicle. The Supreme Court addressed that exact situation, which is why the bill is crafted the way it is.

In overturning the Dobson case, the Supreme Court said that if the court had allowed that, then that is exactly what would have happened, Mr. Chair. That decision, built on past precedent, would have expanded the law into the area of maternal responsibility, and who knows where it would have gone from there. The Supreme Court specifically cited that in overturning the Dobson case. What they said was that in the event that the Legislatures were to craft such legislation, that would be a hard and fast wall beyond which we could not go. A judicial finding in an area of court law merely adds precedent and moves the area of law a little bit. Their concern was that it expanded it into an area where they did not believe it could go because it could not infringe on the mother's rights.

What the Supreme Court said was that in areas outside of the operation of the motor vehicle, there is no way that you could define a standard of care for a mother towards her unborn child. You could think of many examples. Should she be allowed to stand on a ladder? If so, how high up should she be allowed to stand? Drinking and smoking, improper nutrition. There's no way that you could define a standard of care, and that's why they cut it off. That's why they said that we will not go into the area of maternal responsibility or maternal liability.

However, if the provinces were to craft legislation that allowed for this very narrow area – and that was the consideration of the Dobson case. It was a response to a car accident. If the provinces were to construct legislation that covered that very narrow area, they could move to protect the rights of the child or enhance the rights of the child without infringing upon the rights of the mother. For the hon. member's benefit I quoted I believe it was either paragraph 36 or 65 of the Dobson decision in second reading. They said it would be – and they were describing the U.K. legislation – impossible to argue by analogy that this could be expanded into other tort situations. Legislation would set a hard and fast wall.

As I said in the opening comment here, Mr. Chairman, it's an area that the Supreme Court, as a result of a decision, invited us to invade and described how to invade it. I don't think this is going to be open for interpretation. The existence of the Congenital Disabilities Act in Great Britain for 29 years has been extremely successful and has not caused an invasion into other areas of maternal responsibility. The court pointed that out as well.

One final comment. The member indicated: is this fair? You know, one child has $200,000 coverage; one child has a million coverage. Is it fair, and is that an area to press this into a Supreme Court appeal? Mr. Chairman, is it fair that a child currently receives nothing when they're injured as the result of a negligent act solely because of who it was that acted negligently? That's not fair.

We do have mandatory insurance legislation. Yes, there are going to be different levels of insurance, and, yes, there are going to be different compensations paid to children. We're arguing that something is better than nothing. The Supreme Court said that it was going to be fair. The courts in Great Britain have found it to be fair. We believe this legislation will pass the test of time, Mr. Chairman.

Thank you.

10:50

The Chair: The hon. Member for Edmonton-Gold Bar.

Mr. MacDonald: Thank you very much, Mr. Chairman. This has been a very interesting debate. I have listened to the last number of speakers here in committee, and I, too, have questions in regard to this legislation. We hear a great deal about how this has worked in the United Kingdom. There certainly are some significant differences between, in my view, what we are proposing here and what occurred 29 years ago in the United Kingdom. It is my understanding from what I have read on this that the law in the United Kingdom has not led to women's rights being changed or reduced in any way. I do have some reservations about this.

I had the pleasure of hearing retired Justice Peter Cory speak, and I certainly respect his opinion and the fact that he was on our Supreme Court of Canada when this issue was discussed. He states, Mr. Chairman, in that decision that "a carefully tailored solution could benefit both the injured child and his or her family, without unduly restricting the privacy and autonomy rights of . . . women. Now, that's from Justice Peter Cory. Again, the word in there is "could," and that could lead to any number of future legal wranglings. I would caution this Assembly in regard to this legislation because I'm not so sure that this in the future is not going to lead to an erosion of the privacy or autonomy rights of women.

Now, the hon. Member for Peace River certainly has worked very hard on this. I had a discussion about this bill. One of the most pleasant parts of this job is to get to exchange opinions on respective legislation from not only members of your own caucus but other caucuses as well, Mr. Chairman. We were discussing this, and perhaps we should look at the concept of providing compensation to the victims of these motor vehicle accidents in a different way. The hon. Member for Peace River is right when he stated just a few moments ago that this is an extremely rare occurrence.

I'm wondering if it wouldn't be possible or if this has been studied, the idea of allowing victims of motor vehicle accidents of this nature access to a risk management fund in this Legislative Assembly. I have in the past had a good look at our risk management fund.

Of course, when we think of the risk management fund, what immediately comes to mind is the access of the fund by a former member, Mr. Stockwell Day. I through access to information got some of the documents, not all of them, in regard to his file. One of his lawyers at that time would have been a gentleman who I think practises in Calgary, a Mr. Gerald Chipeur. I learned a lot about the risk management fund from that access to information request. We went to great lengths to get that information. In fact, it was a justice in Calgary that finally ruled, and that information was made public. But the risk management fund covers a lot of different forms of insurance, not only insurance for members of this Assembly whenever they are sued in the course of their duties, but automobile insurance I believe for Executive Council members comes from the risk management fund. The hon. Member for Edmonton-Manning may be accessing that fund. The CLAC, the Christian Labour Association – I can't believe it, and I don't understand it, but apparently they've got some sort of legal action pending against the hon. member.

So those are some examples of the risk management fund. I'm just wondering if it wouldn't be better to take these extremely rare occurrences, as they have been described in the debate this evening, and contemplate using the risk management fund to protect those individuals that may be victims of accidents of this nature, where a woman who is pregnant is involved in an accident while operating a motor vehicle. I would appreciate in the course of the debate if the hon. member has any suggestions in regard to this. Or have any studies been done in regard to this as an alternative to this legislation as we see it?

Thank you.

The Chair: The hon. Member for Peace River.

Mr. Oberle: Thank you again, Mr. Chairman. I thank the hon. Member for Edmonton-Gold Bar for his comments and for pointing out that, in fact, the Congenital Disabilities Act in the United Kingdom, despite its existence for 29 years, has not caused any infringement or weakening upon the privacy and autonomy rights of women.

Three speakers that I can think of, Mr. Chairman – Edmonton-Decore, Edmonton-Gold Bar, and Edmonton-Beverly-Clareview – have expressed their concern that this is going to cause an invasion or an infringement upon the privacy and autonomy rights of women. Given that the Congenital Disabilities Act in its existence has proved to be a sound instrument, I don't think so. Given that the Supreme Court themselves said that, no, it wouldn't, I don't think so.

I agree that we should be deeply concerned about invasions into the privacy and autonomy rights of women, and I agree that we should be vigilant, and I agree that there may in fact be threats to the privacy and autonomy rights of women, but I submit that it's not because of this legislation. The Supreme Court agrees with that opinion. They suggested this. They invited this legislation. So I'm not concerned about that, Mr. Chairman. Again, this is sound public policy. Let's move to protect the rights of children in a very narrow occurrence where we have an opportunity to do so without infringing upon the rights of the mother.

One final comment in my remarks, Mr. Chairman. The Member for Edmonton-Gold Bar referred to this as a rare occurrence, that maybe the government should consider liability here through the risk management fund, and asked if there were any studies about whether this could be done or how it would be done. No studies that I'm aware of.

We live in a regime of mandatory automobile insurance. Automobile drivers are required to carry third-party liability insurance. I do not understand why we wouldn't utilize that instrument. The Supreme Court said that it was a reasonable instrument to use, and that's what the Congenital Disabilities Act lays out in the United Kingdom. Mothers are required to carry car insurance; anybody who operates a vehicle is. That instrument is available, and it's a reasonable and fair tool without infringing upon the rights of mothers.

Thank you very much, Mr. Chairman.

11:00

The Chair: The hon. Member for Calgary-Varsity.

Mr. Chase: Thank you very much. I want to state first that I very much appreciate the historical and legal precedents and the reasoning for this bill that the hon. Member for Peace River has pointed out. This bill makes me think of the Biblical phrase of the sins of the father being visited upon the child, in this case the sins of the mother.

I'm a father. I'm a grandfather. I've taught for 34 years. I feel very strongly about the rights of a child being protected, but I'm not sure that this is the way to go. I'm concerned about the repercussions that this bill could potentially have.

By suing the mother, who stands as the guardian that brings forward the suit? Could it not be the case where between the individual who brings forward the suit and the opposing legal professions, just simply the cost rises and rises and rises to the point where the portion that the child actually receives as a result of the suit is diminished by the amount that has been put out in terms of legal representation.

Another concern I have is: if this becomes less than a rare experience when insurance companies offer insurance to women of a child-bearing age, is there a possibility that the risk will be considered to such a point where women, depending on what their background is, may not be considered eligible for insurance or a level of insurance, and therefore if they're driving and have a child in the womb and that child is injured, will their coverage be denied because they were considered a high risk and therefore weren't able to achieve insurance in the first place, or were they given a reduced amount of insurance in terms of the paying out of a claim?

The whole legal profession is an area that is new to me. My concern is that in trying to protect the few pregnant women who have had a history of, say, epileptic seizure or have had a history of potential drug dependency, there is the possibility of causing hardship to the many if they will not receive the coverage. Will we start listing a whole lot of preconditions on women that would prohibit them from receiving the insurance because they're within those child-bearing years? I don't know. I'll look forward to the member's response.

The Chair: The hon. Member for Peace River.

Mr. Oberle: Thank you, Mr. Speaker. I thank the Member for Calgary-Varsity for his considered comments. I'll just respond briefly, if I can, to a couple of them. He addressed the area of who is the guardian if the child is suing the mother and that what the child gets is going to be diminished because of legal costs. Anybody who sues somebody else for negligence and damages has to pay legal costs, and certainly their award is presumably reduced somewhat because of that. The child in this case would not be any different.

The Dobson case spoke a little bit about the issue because this would be an extremely rare case where in a legal sense the mother and child are in an adversarial position, but in a real sense their interests are aligned in this case. Although it seems like a suit with malice, in fact the interests of the mother and child are aligned here. It's important that the care of the child is addressed for both the child and the mother, and the relationship between the mother and child is important. So the Supreme Court did look at that.

Mr. Chairman, the member asked about what risks the insurance companies are going to take. Will women, in fact, be covered by insurance? As a father – the member indicated he’s a father – he should know that had he had a car accident as a result of his negligence when his wife was with child, he could have been sued by his child upon birth. That has always existed. And any other member of the family or any other third party driver: there would be a cause of action there. So the addition of mothers to that list to be held responsible for their negligent operation of a motor vehicle is no different than anybody else.

The existence of the act in the U.K. has not caused any such problems. I would remind the member that the existence of a cause of action here requires the child to be born, but it also requires negligence on the part of the mother. It’s not just if she was driving and this accident occurred. It requires negligence on the part of the mother, which is why she carries liability insurance in the first place.

Final comment, Mr. Chairman. In his comments – I’m losing my place because my colleagues are bugging me over here. I may have to start over. Final comment. The member talked about: “Well, what other risks? Are we going to have a long list about whether mothers should be insured or not if they have epilepsy, if they have drug dependency?” Again, this is not about the standard of care that a mother owes her child in the general sense of motherhood. It’s about negligent operation of a motor vehicle. It has nothing to do with drug abuse, nutrition, alcohol abuse, or anything else. It’s about the negligent operation of a motor vehicle only.

Thank you, Mr. Chairman.

The Chair: The hon. Member for Lethbridge-East.

Ms Pastoor: Thank you, Mr. Chair. Just a couple of comments that I’d like to make. I have some of the same concerns that have been expressed on this side of the House. One of them is that I could see that all pregnant women, upon knowing that state, would run out and, if they could afford it, would have increased premiums so that the increase of the payment, should this ever occur, would be that much greater. However, those that are poorer would not be able to afford that. I guess my concern, and I’d like the Member for Peace River to address it, is: how does the health care system fit into and around what the insurance payment would be because often these damages are for life?

Then the other thing that would occur to me is that – and again this goes back to women’s rights – should a woman be in an accident, she could easily have an amniocentesis that, in fact, would give an indication that there was damage and then, of course, would have an abortion, at which point there would be father/mother rights that might come into play on how that would go.

The reason that I’m bringing up the health versus the insurance was because I remember years ago when I sat on the tribunal for the Canada pension. Because disability pensions fell under the Canada pension they often would come to our tribunal. What was happening was that the government was actually saying: before we’ll even look at you, I want you to go to your insurance companies first. Then they would pay out. So I just can see perhaps an unfair disconnect between those that could really afford to buy the premiums and those that were perhaps poorer and working at minimal jobs having the actual skills and ability to look after a child that had been hurt and had lifelong chronic disabilities.

Mr. Oberle: Yes. Briefly, Mr. Chairman, so my hon. colleagues don’t start to bug me. On the issue about whether the poor could afford extra insurance, we have mandatory liability insurance in Alberta, we have had for a very long time, and it’s designed for this purpose. Everybody has to carry it.

11:10

With regard to the health care system, I can’t comment on that. This bill has nothing whatsoever to do with the delivery of health care or any other programs that we have. It’s about the negligent operation of a motor vehicle.

The final comment about whether the woman, having suffered such an accident, might go get amniocentesis, determine an injury, and subsequently get an abortion: well, I guess that’s a choice that the mother could make. That clearly has nothing whatsoever to do with this bill, which relates to when and if a child is born only. It has nothing to do with the bill, Mr. Chairman.

Thank you.

The Chair: The hon. Member for Edmonton-Decore.

Mr. Bonko: Thank you, Mr. Chairman. Just a comment on some of the talk that I’ve already heard with regard to this particular piece. The member is clearly indicating that this is to do with motor vehicles and that everyone must carry a certain liability insurance. Yes, we realize that that is a law. We also realize that there are laws out there that prohibit people from speeding, but that doesn’t in fact ensure that no one does it. There are lots of people that drive without insurance. They just haven’t been caught yet. They may register their vehicle, put the insurance on, and because they can’t afford it, they drop it. If that person does get into an accident, what prevents them being covered and being able to sue because the person driving the vehicle who is pregnant no longer carries insurance? So is that particular piece being covered as well?

We talk about the fact that this is ironclad and that it doesn’t go into our greatest fears being realized. But I’ll say again that in this Legislature we have the power to conduct and assist and make and deliberate on proposed bills. We can also at times at our discretion revisit and amend these bills. So once we’ve allowed this particular piece to come through, there’s nothing to prevent this Legislature from, in fact, revisiting it a little later on in the future, when perhaps our greatest fears are realized: it morphs into something that we are in fact talking about, saying it was never going to happen.

Again, we can’t predict what’s going to happen in the future, but once you allow this bill to continue to go through the stages and be passed, there’s nothing to prevent it from being further deliberated and amended from realizing the future concerns that we’re talking about this evening then.

The Chair: The hon. Member for Peace River.

Mr. Oberle: Yes, Mr. Chairman. Two comments there. The first is: what would happen if the mother was driving without insurance? People do break the law and make such choices in life. It’s very clear in this legislation exactly what would happen: there would be no compensation payable. That would be a choice of the mother. That was also the choice of the Supreme Court in that the mother could not be held personally liable. So if she wasn’t carrying insurance, there would be no coverage.

The other issue is that we could at some point in the future amend this bill, again to invade the privacy and autonomy rights of the mother. We should always be vigilant about invading upon the rights of anyone. If at some point an amendment to this bill, or in the absence of this bill any other bill, was tabled in this Legislature that invaded upon the privacy and autonomy rights of women, I wholeheartedly agree that we should be very careful about such things. This particular bill does not do so, Mr. Chairman. It just simply doesn't.

The Supreme Court invited us to do this. It wouldn't be an amendment to this bill that would invade on the rights; it probably would be some other bill. Yes, at that time we should probably have the debate, and yes at that time it would be a very serious consideration.

The Chair: The hon. Member for Calgary-Varsity.

Mr. Chase: Thank you. A question about negligent mothers. It would seem that if they're driving without insurance, they're doubly negligent, yet I would wonder what kind of compensation or health benefits or state care would be available to a child whose mother has shown that double negligence.

I do appreciate the fact that the speaker has been very patient in trying to explain to me how pre-existing conditions might limit coverage, but if he could try once more. I understand the negligence while driving. But is it not possible that if a number of these cases came to the front and insurance companies were paying out large amounts of compensation, they would potentially look at restricting the amount of coverage women of child-bearing age might have in the way of pre-existing conditions? Might they not start picking and choosing under what circumstance they would offer insurance? That was my first intent.

Thank you.

Mr. Oberle: Mr. Chairman, I don't believe that the insurance companies would do that, and they haven't done that in the United Kingdom. The insurance companies offer liability insurance. As I said before, there has always been a cause of action on the part of the child against a negligent driver, be that a family member or a third-party driver.

This isn't talking about general injuries to the born child. It's talking about specific injuries caused as the result of a car accident which was the result of negligent driving. Now, one other speaker yesterday talked about: that's going to be hard to prove. In fact, there's a very large body of litigation around this because children have always had this cause of action against other drivers. How to determine that and where those injuries came from: there's a very large body of litigation and medical evidence around it. I don't think it's a consideration, and I don't think the insurance companies are going to react in any way differently than they have in the United Kingdom.

The Chair: The hon. Member for Edmonton-Rutherford.

Mr. R. Miller: Thank you very much, Mr. Chairman. I said earlier that I'm not a lawyer. Despite that, often people ask me if I am, so I must give that impression at times. The more I think about this particular bill, perhaps I should have been a lawyer. I hope that the hon. Member for Peace River, who sponsored this bill, takes this debate in the spirit in which it's intended because certainly, as I suggested the first time I spoke, it's not that we don't appreciate what's trying to be accomplished here. But I do, again, have serious concerns about what doors may be opened by this.

Now, the Member for Peace River has taken great pains tonight to describe that this bill is intended to deal with the negligent use or operation of an automobile. My guess is going to be, based on all of the debate that I've heard, that what is being contemplated is an automobile accident. The problem that I'm seeing as I listen to the debate and as I look at clause 4 is that I think all of us will understand that you can be found negligent or illegally responsible for use or operation of an automobile that's not in fact moving. In fact, the member who held my constituency several years ago was found guilty of a nonmoving offence of an automobile. As I'm thinking about this, it opens up all sorts of possibilities.

I know that the hon. member mentioned drinking alcohol, Mr. Chairman, or using drugs, but let's just say, as an example, that the mother were in an automobile and legally operating it. As we know, if the vehicle is running and she's behind the wheel, she's deemed to be operating that vehicle according to the law. If something were to happen to the child as a result of her negligent operation of that vehicle – i.e., doing drugs or drinking – while she is behind the wheel of that vehicle that's running, I don't know how this legislation would prevent that particular situation from being dealt with by the court. So I think that right there it opens up all sorts of issues.

Mr. Chairman, another example, and I'm just thinking out loud here, as it were. Perhaps the mother attempts suicide and runs a hose from the exhaust pipe into the car. She may or may not be successful. The child is born, and as a result of her negligent operation of a motor vehicle, the child has suffered injuries as a result of that negligent operation, and that child then would be eligible to seek sanction under this legislation.

11:20

Again, Mr. Chairman, it's not that I don't appreciate the intent of the bill, but despite the fact that the Member for Peace River is attempting to alleviate our concerns about the narrow scope of the bill, I do not believe that you can narrowly enough define the scope of this bill in a page and a half to address many of these ideas that are coming forward in my mind.

Now, he often cites the Dobson decision by the Supreme Court, and I will acknowledge that I'm not as familiar with that particular decision as I should be, but based on the comments that the member has made tonight, I don't believe that that decision addresses the concerns that I have raised here tonight in terms of a mother being legally, according to the law, in operation of a motor vehicle even though she may not be involved in a motor vehicle accident. Again, I think it opens up all of the issues that many members have mentioned tonight, and that is drinking, drugs, attempted suicide. I'm sure there are many other examples, Mr. Chairman.

The Chair: The hon. Member for Peace River.

Mr. Oberle: Just very quickly, Mr. Chairman. The bill is straightforward. It's what happens when there's a negligent operation of a motor vehicle. The mother is covered by insurance. The child has a cause of action against the mother to the limit in the amount of that insurance.

Many of the situations that the member described wouldn't apply to liability insurance, Mr. Chairman. This bill is crafted the way the Supreme Court invited us to craft it, and it's consistent with the legislation in the U.K., that's operated for 29 years.

Mr. Chairman, in closing, I just want to say to the member that I most certainly do take this debate in the spirit in which it's offered, and I take no offence whatsoever, and I hope that he doesn't either. Thank you.

The Chair: The hon. Member for Calgary-Varsity.

Mr. Chase: Thank you. It seems that besides the Supreme Court a lot of the support driving this argument, this suggested legislation, is from the U.K., and I would like to know: does the frequency of successful U.K. suits justify this legislation in Alberta, where we're holding up the United Kingdom as a model that we should potentially follow from a legal point? It's also been used as a model for the third way.

Secondly – and this is along the lines of the first question – do we have any percentages or financial figures from the U.K. that would suggest that the suit route is the way to go, that this is the best way to answer the problem?

Ms DeLong: Mr. Chairman, when this bill first came forward, I did not support it. I did not think that it was a good idea. As a woman, an independent woman, I did not like the whole idea of it. The thing which really opened my eyes was that until 1999, which was six years ago, this was the state of the world. Okay? The Dobson case actually turned things around, and all we're doing is fixing what the Dobson case did. We're not going off into new territory here. All we're doing is going back to 1999, when kids could sue their mom. All we're doing is going back to '99. This is no big deal.

The Chair: The hon. Member for Calgary-Varsity.

Mr. Chase: Thank you. I've asked a couple of questions, which I've asked for legitimate purposes. I'm trying to understand the support that the United Kingdom has demonstrated, that obviously is so key to this bill. Can the hon. member provide me with any kind of assurance that this is the way that the U.K. has gone and that these are the results of it and that it's been so terrifically successful over there, the majority of suits have been won, and that based upon that British experience this is the way we should be going in Alberta?

If the Supreme Court is providing instruction for the Legislatures to correct the problem that the Supreme Court may have made in their earlier decisions – we're always getting after the Supreme Court for making decisions that should be dealt with in the parliament, and then within the parliament we're saying: well, let's leave that decision to the Supreme Court. It's confusing.

Mr. Oberle: Mr. Chairman, I can't provide any litigation history for the United Kingdom or any financial analysis. The reason I mentioned the U.K. is because the Supreme Court did extensively as an example of how to carefully craft a law that will set some firm bounds around this and protect the rights of the child without infringing upon the rights of the mother.

[The clauses of Bill 45 agreed to]

[Title and preamble agreed to]

The Chair: Shall the bill be reported? Are you agreed?

Hon. Members: Agreed.

The Chair: Opposed? That's carried.

The hon. Deputy Government House Leader.

Mr. Zwozdesky: I would just move that the committee rise and report.

[Motion carried]

[The Deputy Speaker in the chair]

The Deputy Speaker: The hon. Member for Leduc-Beaumont-Devon.

Mr. Rogers: Thank you, Mr. Speaker. The Committee of the Whole has had under consideration a certain bill. The committee reports the following bill with some amendments: Bill 45.

The Deputy Speaker: Does the Assembly concur in the report?

Hon. Members: Agreed.

The Deputy Speaker: Opposed? So ordered.

The hon. Deputy Government House Leader.

Mr. Zwozdesky: Thank you, Mr. Speaker. Another very invigorating night of debate. I would move that we stand adjourned until 1:30 p.m. tomorrow.

[Motion carried; at 11:28 p.m. the Assembly adjourned to Thursday at 1:30 p.m.]

Legislative Assembly of Alberta

Title: Thursday, November 24, 2005

1:30 p.m.

Date: 05/11/24

[The Speaker in the chair]

head: Prayers

The Speaker: Good afternoon.

Let us pray. We give thanks for our abundant blessings to our province and ourselves. We ask for guidance and the will to follow it. Amen.

Please be seated.

head: Introduction of Visitors

The Speaker: The hon. Minister of Education.

Mr. Zwozdesky: Thank you very much, Mr. Speaker. It's indeed a great pleasure for me today to introduce to you and through you to all members here in the Assembly some very special guests seated in your gallery. Visiting us from Ukraine is Roman Krutsyk, president of the Kyiv Memorial Association, and Mr. Peter Dackiw, vice-president of the national council of the League of Ukrainian Canadians. They are accompanied by Audrey McConnell from my office.

I should say, Mr. Speaker, visiting us from Ukraine, Mr. Krutsyk is a professional jurist, also a former member of the Ivano-Frankivsk city council, the Ivano-Frankivsk provincial council, and Ukraine's National Parliament. Since 1999 he has been head of the Kyiv chapter of the Ukrainian Memorial Society, working on a special project, a documentary exhibit called Not To Be Forgotten. This very special project reflects the communist-imposed famine in Ukraine during the 1930s during which millions of innocent lives were taken. A copy of that special document will be presented to you for all members to enjoy later this afternoon.

May I ask Mr. Krutsyk and Mr. Dackiw to please rise and receive the warm welcome of this Assembly.

head: Introduction of Guests

The Speaker: The hon. Minister of Human Resources and Employment.

Mr. Cardinal: Thank you very much, Mr. Speaker. It's my pleasure to introduce to you and through you to the members of the Assembly 24 students, teachers, parents, and bus drivers from the Thorhild school. They are seated in the members' gallery. I'd like them to rise and receive the traditional warm welcome of the Assembly.

The Speaker: The hon. Minister of Agriculture, Food and Rural Development.

Mr. Horner: Thank you, Mr. Speaker. I don't believe that my group is in the gallery, but I would like to introduce them for the record as I don't believe I'll have the opportunity a little bit later. They are a group of 83 visitors who are currently touring our building from J.J. Nearing school in St. Albert. The teachers accompanying these 79 grade 6 students are Mrs. Sonia Reid, Mrs. Christine Sowinski, Ms Carmen Berard, who's a student teacher, and Mr. Curt McDougall with parents/helpers Mrs. Liane Jensen, Mr. Carman Mackie, Mrs. Corinne VanDeWalle, Mrs. Nancy Hoffman, Mr. Ambrose Micklich, and Mrs. Maureen Maione. They're all enjoying the great hospitality of this building and the excellent tour guides that we have in the building, and we hope to see them in the gallery soon.

The Speaker: The hon. Member for Strathcona.

Mr. Lougheed: Thank you, Mr. Speaker. I'm pleased to introduce to you and to the Assembly three classes from Wye school. They're accompanied by Ms Carol O'Connell, Mrs. Allison Baker, Mr. Alan Dubyk, and teacher assistants Tia Bartlett and Susan Otway. They're in the public gallery. I would ask them to stand and receive the welcome of the Assembly.

The Speaker: The hon. Member for Dunvegan-Central Peace.

Mr. Goudreau: Thank you, Mr. Speaker. It's my pleasure to introduce to you and through you to the members of this Assembly one of our newest youth members in our PC constituency association for Dunvegan-Central Peace. Jessica Simard was involved in the last election and co-ordinated the activities in one of our three offices during this past election. She's very involved and willing to get involved in the community. She's presently active with the Falher Chamber of Commerce. She attended for the first time ever and certainly took an active role in the PC policy conference in Red Deer. Jessica is accompanied by Mat Stepan, the director of constituency finances and north field director. They're seated in the members' gallery. I would ask them both to stand up and receive the warm, traditional welcome of the Assembly.

The Speaker: The hon. Member for Edmonton-Highlands-Norwood.

Mr. Mason: Thank you very much, Mr. Speaker. I have one guest and one group of guests to introduce today. It gives me great pleasure to introduce to you and through you to this Assembly Liesel Hack. Liesel is a first-year social work student who is assisting us in my constituency of Edmonton-Highlands-Norwood. Liesel was born and raised here in Edmonton and is interested in pursuing a career in international social work and the development of social policy. We're pleased to have her with us, and I'd now ask that she rise and receive the warm welcome of this Assembly.

Mr. Speaker, I'm delighted to introduce to you and through you to this Assembly a group of long-term care senior advocates. This group is led by Lynda and Ron Jonson of Hinton and is called Seniors I Care. Many members of this group were instrumental in helping raise $120,000 by collecting money through penny jars and other means in order to build a long-term care facility in Hinton. Seniors I Care are here today to urge the government to reinstate the 25 continuing care beds that have been redesignated as assisted living. I'd ask that as I call out their names, they rise and receive the warm tradition welcome of this Assembly: Lynda Jonson, Ron Jonson, Elaine Koch, Vern Koch, Theron Hindman, Judy Hindman, Rita St. Onge, and George Callihoo.

The Speaker: The hon. Member for Edmonton-Strathcona.

Dr. Pannu: Thank you very much, Mr. Speaker. I'm delighted today to introduce to you and through you to this Assembly Ken and Audrey Johnston, who have travelled today from Leslieville near Rocky Mountain House to come here and watch the proceedings of the Assembly. They are here also today to add their voices for the betterment and improvement of long-term care facilities in this province. It was a delight for me in October to visit them at the community meeting they organized in Alhambra, where they raised concerns around the quality of care of seniors in long-term care in this province. They're seated in the public gallery, I think, and I now request them to please rise and receive the warm welcome of the Assembly.

The Speaker: The hon. Member for Edmonton-Calder.

Mr. Eggen: Thank you, Mr. Speaker. I'm very pleased today to introduce to you and through you to the members of the Assembly Ireen Slater. Ireen is a tireless advocate on seniors' issues. She's currently the acting president of Seniors United Now and the chair of the St. Albert chapter of SUN. She is seated in the public gallery, and I would ask that she rise and receive the warm traditional welcome of the Assembly.

The Speaker: The hon. Member for Lethbridge-East.

Ms Pastoor: Thank you, Mr. Speaker. I am privileged today to introduce to you and through you to this Assembly a man who is involved in a very public and courageous struggle to ensure that no one will suffer neglect, as his mother did, in long-term care in this province. He wants the very best care for all. I would ask that Mr. Robert Warden, who is in the public gallery, rise and accept the traditional welcome of this House.

Thank you.

head:

Statement by the Speaker

Death of Canadian Soldier in Afghanistan

The Speaker: Hon. members, it's with great sadness that I advise all members in the House that there has been a report, now covering the country of Canada, that a Canadian soldier has been killed in Afghanistan, and four others are injured. Now, it appears to have been an accident, but we don't know that. I'm going to ask all hon. members to rise with me, and we're going to have a moment of silence for this member of our Canadian armed forces.

May he rest in peace eternal. Our prayers will go to the family of the deceased. Our prayers will also go for a quick recovery of the other four soldiers who have been injured as well.

Thank you very much.

head: 1:40

Oral Question Period

The Speaker: First Official Opposition main question. The hon. Leader of the Official Opposition.

Securities Commission

Dr. Taft: Thank you, Mr. Speaker. The Alberta Securities Commission needs to be completely independent from government. Our market's integrity depends on it. However, the ability for government MLAs to directly influence the makeup and enforcement process of the ASC threatens to destroy that independence. My questions are to the Minister of Finance. Given that government MLAs can nominate candidates to be ASC commissioners and even at the same time can be officers in companies trading under the ASC, will the minister admit that this puts government MLAs in a conflict of interest?

Mrs. McClellan: Well, Mr. Speaker, first of all, all MLAs can nominate. Not all of their nominations are chosen, but all MLAs can nominate. Members of the public can nominate. Members of the business community can nominate. There is a search process as well that these would all be added to. Usual practice is a panel that examines the qualifications and expertise of each person that's brought forward, and a member is chosen, perhaps, at times to fill a vacancy of someone who has left with a certain expertise.

Mr. Speaker, to suggest that government MLAs somehow are the only people available to nominate is completely false, and I would have expected the hon. Leader of the Official Opposition to know that anyone can nominate to these positions.

The Speaker: The hon. leader.

Dr. Taft: Thank you, Mr. Speaker. Given that a former ASC manager has publicly stated, "Sometimes you would get calls from the minister [of finance] inquiring about certain problems, issues, in which case there would be enforcement taken," can the minister deny that ministers of her government have at times called to pressure ASC enforcement investigators?

Mrs. McClellan: Mr. Speaker, I can tell this member unequivocally that I have never called to influence any case. I cannot speak for people who have served in this position in the past, but I would suggest that if this hon. member, rather than casting doubt, raising allegations, an air of suspicion, has any – any – real fact, he should bring that forward. I find this line of questioning quite distasteful because day after day, week after week, including the spring session, it has been allegations, innuendo, a hint of doubt, a bit of suspicion, and no real – no real – information has come from that hon. member to my desk.

Dr. Taft: To this same minister: why should investors believe that the Tory appointments at the ASC don't simply turn a blind eye to their Tory friends?

Mrs. McClellan: Mr. Speaker, again – again – I thought we had reached a level of lowness in these questions some point ago, but this member is in a House where we respect members. If he has concrete proof of anything that he is raising, he has a responsibility to provide it rather than cast aspersions on hon. members in this House. This is the way this hon. member has chosen to lead this discussion. The people in this province are not fooled. They do not understand what the hon. member's goal or intentions are. I can tell you, hon. member, that people do not respect what is happening here. They would like proof. They would like these allegations to be founded instead of an attempt to destroy a regulatory institution that is so important to the markets in this province.

The Speaker: Second Official Opposition main question. The hon. Leader of the Official Opposition.

Dr. Taft: Thank you, Mr. Speaker. It seems this government will go to great lengths to cover up the problems at the Alberta Securities Commission. The Minister of Finance dodges opposition questions, avoids the Auditor General's report, fails to disclose a chronology of events before today's question period, and now there are published reports that senior Tories even tried to stop a magazine from running a damning story on the ASC and its relationship with Multi-Corp. It's one cover-up after another. To the Minister of Finance: in order to protect the image of the Alberta Securities Commission, can the minister tell us which top Tories attempted to halt the printing of this month's Western Standard?

Mrs. McClellan: Mr. Speaker, the dodging that is occurring in this Legislature is occurring by the hon. Leader of the Opposition, who has dodged every opportunity to bring factual information here of any substance. All he has done is put allegations in place, again today in this question an allegation that comes out of a newspaper column. Surely you can do better than that. I've read this. The allegations are weak. They're confusing. In places that document is contradictory. Everything that's reported in there has been reported before. They are the same unsubstantiated allegations. The claim is that several persons spoke to the reporter. None are identified, as is the practice of this hon. member: making allegations with nobody identified. You identify them, sir. The ball is in your court.

The Speaker: The hon. leader.

Dr. Taft: Thank you, Mr. Speaker. I'll give the opportunity to the Minister of Finance to set the record straight. Given that one of the ASC's top investigators admitted that Multi-Corp would have been pursued if it hadn't been for the directive of those above him, will the minister clear the air and categorically deny that ASC senior enforcement staff are pressured from time to time to drop their investigations?

Mrs. McClellan: Mr. Speaker, allegations again. Bring proof. I have said to this hon. member over and over again in this House that if you have any substantiation for any of these things that you're bringing forward, put it on the table. Give it to me. Read an article: somebody says something. That somebody has every avenue and opportunity to have that investigated, and this hon. member knows that.

You do this House and this question period a disservice by continuing a line of questions when you can't substantiate your allegations. You give hints of maybes. Well, you know what? On this side of the House we deal in fact. I have not dodged my responsibilities, and I have backed up my statements, and I will in this House at the appropriate time table the chronological order of fact. I did not hide it from anyone until that point. In fact, the one person who asked me for it has received it.

1:50

The Speaker: The hon. leader.

Dr. Taft: Thank you, Mr. Speaker. An opportunity for a yes/no factual answer. I'll repeat: given that a former ASC manager has stated, "Sometimes you would get calls from the minister [of finance] inquiring about certain problems, issues, in which case there would be enforcement taken" can the Minister of Finance deny that ministers of her government have at times called to pressure ASC enforcement investigators? Just say no.

Mrs. McClellan: Mr. Speaker, I can speak for this minister and I have said no. I would suggest that if this person, who is not named but a former employee, has a concern, he has an avenue to bring it forward. I don't know that that's happened.

The Speaker: Third Official Opposition main question. The hon. Member for Lethbridge-East.

Death of Patient in Long-term Care

Ms Pastoor: Thank you, Mr. Speaker. In September for-profit, long-term care resident Jean Warden died of dehydration, malnutrition, and an infection. This government bears some responsibility for the failure to take immediate action following the Auditor General's May 2005 report. Four separate investigations have been launched through the College of Physicians and Surgeons, Capital Health, and two through the protection for persons in care office. Sadly, the results will come as no surprise to anyone. My question is to the minister of seniors. Given that Robert Warden, Jean Warden's son, is committed to an open and accountable process, will the minister guarantee that the results of these investigations will be made public?

The Speaker: The hon. minister.

Mrs. Fritz: Thank you, Mr. Speaker. You know that it would be inappropriate for me to comment in the Assembly on the personal health care needs of individuals and especially those that are related to the case that the member has brought forward.

Having said that, I can tell you that the Protection for Persons in Care Act, Mr. Speaker, does allow for investigations that are filed. Reports are taken, and investigators are appointed to the file. The report is given in its entirety to the complainant. The complainant looks at that report and will evaluate the report. If they have any change that they'd like to see to the report, they can give that back to the investigator. There is very much a two-way communication in that process.

The Speaker: The hon. member.

Ms Pastoor: Thank you. Would the minister launch a fatality inquiry to ensure a complete and full examination of all the facts, leading to key directives that may prevent a similar situation?

The Speaker: The hon. minister.

Mrs. Fritz: Thank you, Mr. Speaker. Given that the question relates to a fatality inquiry, I would like to direct it to the Minister of Justice.

The Speaker: The hon. minister.

Mr. Stevens: Yes. Thank you, Mr. Speaker. The Fatality Inquiries Act is under my responsibility. The circumstances that give rise to an inquiry essentially are as follows. If there is an attending physician, that attending physician can raise the matter with the medical examiner and an inquiry into the cause of death would be done by the medical examiner. A family member can raise the matter with the medical examiner, and the medical examiner would look into the issue. If the medical examiner's office has cause for concern, he can then ask the Fatality Review Board to review the matter. The Fatality Review Board reviews certain deaths investigated by the medical examiner's office in order to determine whether or not a public fatality inquiry should be held. If one of those circumstances arises, Mr. Speaker, then the medical examiner's office becomes involved. If none of those circumstances arise, then he does not.

The Speaker: The hon. member.

Ms Pastoor: Thank you. I'd redirect my third question to the Minister of Seniors and Community Supports. Given that families, residents, and staff across the province are fearful to launch complaints, will the minister establish an independent office to solve the problems with enforcement and accountability?

The Speaker: The hon. minister.

Mrs. Fritz: Thank you, Mr. Speaker. As the member for the opposition is fully aware, there are 45 recommendations in the long-term care task force report. The member has contributed a supplementary report to those recommendations. That does include the inspector general, whom the member is referring to. We will look at that in due course as we go through the recommendations.

The Speaker: The hon. leader of the third party, followed by the hon. Member for Lac La Biche-St. Paul.

Securities Commission Investigation

Mr. Mason: Thank you very much, Mr. Speaker. My questions are to the Minister of Finance and Deputy Premier. I'd like to start by thanking the minister for providing me today the chronology that she promised, which is a letter from Mr. Bill Rice to her. I received that at 1:29 today. The chronology shows, as I expected, that the shares in question were purchased by the director of enforcement in the morning, and the investigation order was only signed in the afternoon. This is entirely predictable. There's no written record of an alleged conversation in which the director of enforcement was purported to have reported this breach to the executive director of the ASC, a conversation the executive director cannot recall. To the minister: is this account good enough for the minister, or will she do her job and ensure that the unsubstantiated claims made in this document are properly investigated? Don't give me the Auditor General because he can't do it.

Mrs. McClellan: Mr. Speaker, thank you, hon. member. It was 1:29, but that's when you asked.

Mr. Mason: I asked for it days ago.

Mrs. McClellan: Well, I didn't have it days ago.

The Speaker: Hon. member, would you direct your question to the chair.

Mrs. McClellan: Mr. Speaker, the hon. member is reading the sequence of events that are in here, and he's entirely accurate. It is documented in here that there was no documentation from either party on this issue. It does go on, though, to talk about the actions taken by the Alberta Securities Commission on the matter. The ASC, after careful consideration, has determined that although there was a breach of ASC policy, there was no use of any confidential information, there was no interference with the conduct of the ASC file and there was no breach of ethical standards. The . . . breach by the Director . . . of the ASC's policy has been dealt with internally by the ASC.

Mr. Speaker, I would like to add some more, but I think this line of questioning will continue, and I will wait.

Mr. Mason: Well, who's the Artful Dodger now, Mr. Speaker?

Mr. Speaker, the letter to the minister goes on to say that the investigation into the insider allegation against this company "continued without the [Director of Enforcement's] active involvement, over the next few months, with the last action being taken on August 3, 2004." Given that, does the minister believe that the staff were adequately able to investigate this company when they knew that their boss had shares in it?

Mrs. McClellan: Mr. Speaker, first of all, I think the hon. member needs to understand how a securities commission works. I've indicated before in this House that you don't post a list. You don't stick it up with Post-its or put a list up of companies that are being investigated. Investigations are handled confidentially and with a very narrow number of people.

There is no question nor have I denied nor does this letter dodge the fact that the person involved, the director of enforcement, did not document his disclosure of this. Indeed, there is no indication of documentation by the other person involved that this was received. What's important in here, Mr. Speaker, is that "the ASC has acknowledged to the Auditor General that greater discipline should forthwith be introduced" into this. I'm not going to read it all. I will table it.

The Speaker: Good.

The hon. leader.

Mr. Mason: Thank you very much, Mr. Speaker. Well, you know, given that the minister has highlighted the complete lack of documentation in regard to this, it's no wonder that the matter was only brought to the attention of the ASC management through the Auditor General's review. Does she think that that's good enough for the ASC management?

Mrs. McClellan: Absolutely not, Mr. Speaker. Obviously, I'm not dodging anything. It's all here, and I'm tabling it.

Mr. Speaker, what is important to me and I believe sincerely to this hon. member is that processes are put in place that this can be prevented and/or detected if it does happen. It says right in the letter that the matter was brought to the attention of the ASC management through the Auditor General's review. He found, obviously, the documents in the file. That's why he reviewed them.

Mr. Speaker, the last paragraph – and I invite members to read this when I table it – is the important one. The last sentence is most important to me: "The Auditor General will be informed of all steps taken in this regard." That is important.

The Speaker: The hon. Member for Lac La Biche-St. Paul, followed by the hon. Member for Calgary-Varsity.

2:00 Postsecondary Opportunities for Youth

Mr. Danyluk: Thank you very much, Mr. Speaker. Recently I met with members of the Youth Advisory Panel, a group of Alberta youth who provide advice to the government about initiatives for and issues of challenges to youth. I was concerned to hear that young Albertans who wish to pursue a career in the trades don't know where to turn for help and information. My question is to the Minister of Advanced Education. What is your ministry doing to ensure that Alberta's tradespeople of tomorrow are not lost to us because of being frustrated and discouraged by the lack of assistance?

The Speaker: The hon. minister.

Mr. Hancock: Thank you, Mr. Speaker. Certainly, everyone recognizes the need for more tradespeople in Alberta, the need to increase the awareness of trades as a very appropriate career option for young Albertans for whom that's their passion. We do have a number of projects under way which are designed to provide information about the option and to support students who are interested. The youth apprenticeship program, for example, is a pilot program. Grades 7 through 12 can explore career options. More than 200 grade 7 students in five rural schools have participated in this project in 2004. We anticipate taking that pilot project further.

We've developed a strategy to increase an awareness among aboriginal students using promotional materials and presentations by aboriginal youth ambassadors. The promotional materials are being made available to schools and students from K to 9. Advanced Education has been a major contributor to the aboriginal apprenticeship project, with well over 200 registered aboriginal apprentices. Student ambassadors are going out to schools and taking the learning clicks program.

So there are a number of ways in which we're trying to make sure that students right from K to 9, through junior high, and into high school have access to the information, the pathways that they need to get into the trades if that's their passion.

The Speaker: The hon. member.

Mr. Danyluk: Thank you very much, Mr. Speaker. Further to those comments and again to the Minister of Advanced Education: how are you ensuring that the students in rural Alberta have ease of affordable access to the trades training?

The Speaker: The hon. minister.

Mr. Hancock: Well, an important question, Mr. Speaker. One of the areas that I would have liked to have touched on in the first one but, in trying to keep brief, didn't, so I'll expand on it here, is that there are areas that we do need to develop. I need to have a discussion with the Minister of Education as well so that we can ensure that our school facilities across the province either have or have access to appropriate facilities and appropriate equipment and teachers so that young students can have, first of all, in what we used to know as industrial arts, an opportunity to try certain trades and learn whether they have a passion or in vocational programs even start their trades while still in high school. There's some work that needs to be done in that area, particularly on the Advanced Education side, some work to be done on the teacher education side so we have vocational and industrial arts teachers available and also to make sure that we have access to the equipment.

The other part of that question, Mr. Speaker, is that we do have distance learning opportunities for rural Alberta. For example, I was talking to the president of NAIT last night, and he was participating in distance learning through the technology of the SuperNet, that is being provided across the province. There are mobile trailers that are going across the province. In Conklin: the first graduating class this year.

In a number of other ways we're making sure that trades training is available in rural Alberta.

The Speaker: The hon. member.

Mr. Danyluk: Thank you very much again, Mr. Speaker. My last supplemental is again to the same minister. Could you please tell me if there are any scholarships that are specifically for rural, northern, aboriginal, and youth-in-need students for other kinds of postsecondary education in addition to the trades?

The Speaker: The hon. minister.

Mr. Hancock: Well, thank you, Mr. Speaker. Through the Northern Alberta Development Council bursary, of course, $3,000 is provided to about 125 students who are training in areas of high demand in northern Alberta. There's a return service part to the Northern Alberta Development Council bursaries. There are areas of high needs, like medicine, where there's additional support available.

The northern student supplement provides grants of between $500 and $1,500 to northern Alberta students needing financial assistance. We have the aboriginal health careers bursary. Children's Services has, as I understand it, the advancing futures bursary.

This is an area where we need to, not just for northern Alberta but for rural Alberta, add to the bursaries and scholarships and the financing opportunities for rural students because we know that the cost of getting to school is sometimes higher than the cost of going to school. A lot of talk about tuition costs, but for those of us who grew up in rural Alberta and had to go to Edmonton or Calgary to get an education, we know that the cost of getting there is way higher than the cost of tuition.

The Speaker: The hon. Member for Calgary-Varsity, followed by the hon. Member for Strathcona.

Private/Public Partnerships

Mr. Chase: Thank you very much, Mr. Speaker. P3 or not P3: that is the question. Asked by governments, their auditors, and electors throughout the world, the Alberta government claims that it can avoid the huge cost overruns, the inferior quality, and the sweet private/profit deals that come at public expense, which have caused other governments to abandon this faulty financial arrangement. My questions are all to the Minister of Infrastructure and Transportation. Can the minister provide this House with any specific completed P3 examples throughout the world that were built cheaper and faster without compromising either quality or safety?

The Speaker: Well, with due respect, this is the parliament of Alberta, so let's restrict it to Alberta.

Dr. Oberg: Mr. Speaker, if I was much better at my Shakespeare, I would go on, but unfortunately my Shakespeare has left me.

The answer to the hon. member is that I'd be more than happy to give him information on the Anthony Henday.

The Speaker: The hon. member.

Mr. Chase: Thank you, Mr. Speaker. There aren't any successful P3 examples in Alberta.

My second question to the minister: when the Ministry of Infrastructure and Transportation states that a P3 project such as the Anthony Henday will cost taxpayers $490 million, does that price tag refer only to the principal, or does it also include the interest that will be paid out over the 30-year contract life?

Dr. Oberg: Mr. Speaker, it refers to the principal.

The Speaker: The hon. member.

Mr. Chase: Thank you. When this government, awash in nonrenewable resource riches, has the money now to build projects through conventional, transparent, within the debated budget process financing, why would it add further to Albertans' infrastructure debt by borrowing?

The Speaker: The hon. minister.

Dr. Oberg: Thank you very much, Mr. Speaker. As I've answered in this Assembly numerous, numerous times, this deal is presently at $23 million over 30 years. It's quite simple to multiply 23 times 30. Included in this is payback on the financing charges that are on the Anthony Henday.

Mr. Speaker, quite simply, if we were to put out $493 million in one year, there would not be another road built in this province. There are roads right around this province that need to be built. We have taken this money, and we have gotten a good deal. We know exactly when this road is going to be built. We know exactly that 30 years from now this road is going to be returned to us in the same condition as when it was built. That risk assumption by the private sector, that assurance of the actual cost over the next 30 years, the assurance of the actual quality over 30 years is extremely, extremely beneficial to the citizens of Alberta.

The Speaker: The hon. Member for Strathcona, followed by the hon. Member for Edmonton-Glenora.

Traffic Safety

Mr. Lougheed: Thank you, Mr. Speaker. Constituents have been asking questions about the new traffic laws. Now, they certainly believe that speed reduction when passing police and emergency vehicles at the roadside is good legislation. They have some questions about this. Since the emergency personnel and the police officers are busy with either medical or policing activities, I'd like to ask the Minister of Infrastructure and Transportation if the new law is difficult or impossible to enforce.

The Speaker: The hon. minister.

2:10

Dr. Oberg: Thank you very much, Mr. Speaker. First of all, I would like to say that I'm hoping that we never, ever have to enforce this law. I'm hoping that all Albertans slow down when they see emergency vehicles, when they see police, when they see ambulances. But in case there are people that do speed, obviously the emergency personnel, albeit police officers or ambulance attendants, have to first and foremost look after the situation that they are there for in the first place. However, there have been times where there are extra personnel, extra policemen there who are monitoring traffic, and it can be left up to them to do it. To use an example, this law has been in the province of Saskatchewan for a couple of years now, and since 2001 there have actually been 3,000 charges laid. So this law does work, but I really, really must emphasize that I sincerely hope that we never, ever have to enforce this law.

The Speaker: The hon. member.

Mr. Lougheed: Thank you, Mr. Speaker. Constituents also have questions about traffic laws related to speeding in construction zones. To the same minister: who's responsible for posting the speed limit signs at those construction sites?

The Speaker: The hon. minister.

Dr. Oberg: Thank you, Mr. Speaker. At each construction site we have the construction contractor as well as the construction engineer, and it is their responsibility to post the speed limit on these sites. One of the obvious questions that I think may well be coming is that we're currently looking at putting a sign that says "fines doubled in this particular area" so that we can be consistent with the law that was passed in this House back in the spring.

Mr. Lougheed: Mr. Speaker, another concern is that sometimes reduced speed limit signs for construction zones are left up even when there's no activity, or some signs are removed and some others are left standing. Is there any intention to have contractors ensure that the signing is appropriate?

The Speaker: The hon. minister.

Dr. Oberg: Yeah, absolutely, Mr. Speaker. The hon. member raises a very, very important issue. At too many locations too many times around this province the speed limit signs for construction zones are actually left up when there is no active construction going on. That's for two reasons. First of all, if there is another reason why the speed limit must be lowered; for example, an uneven centre line, no lines painted on the road, things like that. There is presently a decrease in speed limit for that. I really must reiterate that the doubling of the fines only occurs when there's active construction taking place. So the reason for the sign in many cases is that there is some other obstacle, some other obstruction there, and they leave out the construction signs.

Currently I'm experimenting in my particular department with changing the word "construction" to only where there is active construction and actually calling the obstruction something else. We're currently taking a look at how that would work. It probably makes more sense to do that, Mr. Speaker.

The Speaker: The hon. Member for Edmonton-Glenora, followed by the hon. Member for Wetaskiwin-Camrose.

Policing Services

Dr. B. Miller: Thank you, Mr. Speaker. The Police Act states that "the Government of Alberta is responsible for ensuring that [an] adequate and effective [level of] policing is maintained throughout Alberta." The reality is that many rural areas are not safe due to inadequate police resources. This was recently confirmed by a report on the RCMP from the Auditor General of Canada. My questions are to the Solicitor General and Minister of Public Security. Given that it is the minister's responsibility to ensure that municipalities with RCMP services have the police resources to ensure safety, can the minister tell us why Alberta consistently ranks nearly last in Canada for the number of police officers per 100,000 population?

Mr. Cenaiko: Well, this past year has been an outstanding year for policing in Alberta. The province of Alberta committed $30 million to policing this past year; $24 million of it went to municipal policing. Mr. Speaker, we had the largest single increase since 1982. Almost 200 officers were added to the strength for front-line policing in this province. The majority of those officers went to rural Alberta.

We also made a commitment, Mr. Speaker, to look at the serious issues of organized crime, the issues related to meth and crystal meth and crack cocaine and other illegal drugs in this province. We also made a commitment to fund as well positions in the integrated child exploitation unit in the various police services in Medicine Hat, Lethbridge, Calgary, Edmonton, and the RCMP.

We're, as well, preparing our budgets for next year. These are issues that we're looking at and developing as we speak. We're working with all our police agencies to look at areas that we have to continue to move forward on in the future.

The Speaker: The hon. member.

Dr. B. Miller: Thank you, Mr. Speaker. To the same minister: given that this fine report from the Auditor General of Canada indicates that there are gaps in the requalification of RCMP officers on the use of their weapons – they're supposed to take retraining every three years – can the minister tell us and assure us that the police in Alberta remain current and up to date in their mandatory training?

Mr. Cenaiko: Yes, they are, Mr. Speaker. In fact, the standard for our RCMP officers in this province is that they qualify with their handgun once per year. We want to continue that. We are in fact looking at other standards. We're working with the assistant commissioner regarding looking at new programs and provincial standards across the province. Our ministry is, in fact, at this very moment hiring four auditors to ensure that policing standards are of the highest in this province. No other province does audits like this. Again, we will be leading the nation regarding ensuring that policing standards are the highest in the country.

Dr. B. Miller: To the same minister: will the minister ask the provincial Auditor General to conduct an examination of policing in Alberta such as the federal Auditor General did with the RCMP to assure us that the government is meeting its responsibilities to our police and to all Albertans to guarantee their safety and security as well as our safety and security?

Mr. Cenaiko: Mr. Speaker, in fact, our ministry is doing that already. We are abiding by the report that came out regarding Alberta's role in Confederation. One of those issues and areas was that we look at the value-for-dollar study on the RCMP policing in this province. We are also going to add on to that the costs and provision of municipal policing in the province as well as First Nations policing. We want to develop a program for the future to provide us with the determinants that we will have to look at: what are our needs in this province, what are our needs throughout Alberta, and what needs do we have regarding policing in rural Alberta, in northern Alberta, in remote Alberta as well as in our major municipalities?

The Speaker: The hon. Member for Wetaskiwin-Camrose, followed by the hon. Member for Edmonton-McClung.

Animal Health Surveillance

Mr. Johnson: Thank you, Mr. Speaker. Alberta's agricultural sector plays a major role in our provincial economy. Between the $1.8 billion that our primary producers exported in 2004 and the $8.2 billion in farm cash receipts, our primary agriculture sector means a great deal to our provincial economy. However, we've seen the devastating effects on the agriculture industry that can come from biological causes such as BSE, and the best weapons we have for combating such biological entities are research and knowledge. My first question is to the Minister of Agriculture, Food and Rural Development. Will the minister please give the House an update on when the province's new level 3 lab will be completed and tell us the type of research that will be taking place there?

The Speaker: The hon. minister.

Mr. Horner: Well, thank you, Mr. Speaker. Given the media on animal diseases and zoonosis recently, it's a very good question. Construction on our level 3 lab is progressing very, very well. We believe that construction will be completed by the end of this December. We still have to get Canadian Food Inspection Agency approval of the laboratory and how we're going to be approaching the tests there. We anticipate that that should be accomplished by late February, so we hope to have the lab up and operational shortly thereafter. I should note that we're doing this in partnership with the Alberta Research Council and with the University of Alberta. In addition to what the lab will be doing, which is the only provincially owned level 3 lab in the country, we will also work with these to provide them with some space to do some further research that they're interested in.

Mr. Johnson: My second question is to the same minister. How prepared is Alberta to address other animal health issues which could have an effect on Alberta's agricultural sector such as John's disease and others?

The Speaker: The hon. minister.

Mr. Horner: Well, thank you, Mr. Speaker. Again a good question. We are very well positioned in Alberta to address these diseases. Certainly, the level 3 lab, that will be in operation, as I said, sometime after February of next year, is going to increase the capacity which we have in that area. We're working with the Alberta veterinary surveillance network in keeping a close eye on the health of our livestock in the province. We announced last year a new veterinary college, which will increase the capacity of veterinary training in the province as well as providing some more valuable research space.

2:20

On the specific question of John's disease, Mr. Speaker, we're currently in the process of working with our federal partners to develop a national control program for John's, a program that I'm quite pleased to say is patterned after the Alberta surveillance program.

The Speaker: The hon. member.

Mr. Johnson: Thank you, Mr. Speaker. My final question is to the Minister of Innovation and Science. What research will be undertaken with regard to prion diseases through the Alberta ingenuity fund?

Mr. Doerksen: Mr. Speaker, following on the comments of the Minister of Agriculture it's important for us to be able to understand the interface between animal health and human health, particularly as it relates to misfolding proteins. It's toward that end that the Alberta prion research institute is being directed. This is a $35 million program. It'll be a multiyear program. The members of this Assembly need to know that we put together an international panel which will be chaired by Alberta-born, rural-born Dr. Joe Martin, who's the dean of medicine at Harvard University, along with other international representatives to give us direction so that we can in fact add to the knowledge that the world already has in addressing this important issue. I'd also like to say that we're reviewing project applications now. We expect that some of these will be awarded early in 2006.

The Speaker: The hon. Member for Edmonton-McClung, followed by the hon. Member for Edmonton-Beverly-Clareview.

Protection of Personal Information

Mr. Elsalhy: Thank you, Mr. Speaker. Albertans value their privacy and rely on this government to protect their personal information from unauthorized disclosure. A report by the B.C.

information and privacy commissioner dated October 2004 argues that the USA PATRIOT Act has created new threats to the privacy of Canadians. The Minister of Government Services indicated during the spring session that he would be collaborating with B.C.'s commissioner to assess this threat in this province. To the hon. Minister of Government Services: has the minister made any attempts to secure assurance from U.S. authorities that they will not utilize the provisions of the PATRIOT Act to access Albertans' information through extraterritorial contractors operating in this province?

The Speaker: The hon. minister.

Mr. Lund: Well, thank you, Mr. Speaker. Of course, that is a big concern of ours, that the PATRIOT Act could be used to gain access to information that government has on individuals. But it goes beyond that too. Under PIPA we also have concern expressed in there, which, of course, applies to the private sector, where, in fact, the private sector has a lot of information. Some of the information is housed in data banks in the U.S., or they may even be a company with people that are from the U.S.

So one of the things that we're doing is that we are going to be moving forward on this in conjunction with the B.C. Privacy Commissioner and looking at situations. If, for example, a U.S. court rules that a company must disclose to the intelligence agency the information – and that's the area that it usually applies to – we would pass legislation that would require that the company, if it's about Canadians, could not disclose it even under a court order. The way that we would enforce that would be with a very, very severe fine in Canada on the company if, in fact, they revealed that information to an agency in the United States.

The Speaker: The hon. member.

Mr. Elsalhy: Thank you, Mr. Speaker. I would personally support that.

To the same minister: does this government perform regular audits of foreign-based contracted companies to ensure that they are abiding by Alberta's Personal Information Protection Act, PIPA, and our FOIP legislation?

Mr. Lund: Well, Mr. Speaker, as I said earlier, particularly in the private sector there is some information that's housed in the U.S. We are looking very closely at any information that government has to make sure that that's not flowing into the U.S. It's not quite as easy as it sounds because it takes a very, very thorough forensic audit in order to track this, but we are doing some of it. So far we're quite satisfied that government information is not flowing into the U.S.

Like I said earlier when we were talking about PIPA, it's so difficult to follow it, so we think that by penalizing it very heavily in Canada, we can maybe stop that information from going into the U.S. in the first place.

Mr. Elsalhy: To the same minister: can this government assure Albertans today that their personal information is not at risk of being disclosed, whether inadvertently or intentionally, by putting regulations in place in these contracts with these contractors, having a clause in that contract, that they should not?

Mr. Lund: Well, Mr. Speaker, we have done that. Where government information is housed, we are following it very closely. I can't say one hundred per cent but very close to it that there won't be any leaks into the U.S.

The Speaker: The hon. Member for Edmonton-Beverly-Clareview, followed by the hon. Member for Calgary-Bow.

Long-term Care

Mr. Martin: Thank you, Mr. Speaker. The horror stories continue with respect to long-term care for our most vulnerable seniors. In May this government committed to action on long-term care within six months. This hasn't happened, and conditions have actually deteriorated for many vulnerable seniors. One of the major reasons things have deteriorated is that many facilities have been downgraded to assisted living, where there are no standards, fewer staff, and higher costs for seniors. My question is to the minister of seniors. How can the minister justify allowing a long-term care facility to change its designation overnight with the very same vulnerable seniors so that it has fewer staff, less care, and higher prices?

The Speaker: The hon. Minister of Seniors and Community Supports.

Mrs. Fritz: Well, thank you, Mr. Speaker. I'm very pleased to answer this question today. We all know that long-term care has evolved dramatically over the past few years. The community is meeting that need. It has changed from just having lodges that previously, even 15 years ago, were available for people that were approximately the age 65. Yesterday when I was speaking to the association for seniors with housing, the average age is 86 in a lodge. That changes the care needs.

People no longer move just directly from a lodge into long-term care. There has to be a middle component. We know that. We've talked about it. It's been out in the community through that long-term care task force, and that is called supportive living. It's designated assisted living and assisted living, and it is working in the communities. In fact, it's the communities that have come forward with the plans and the fundraising and showed us the need in the community for our seniors.

So, Mr. Speaker, I'm interested in the next two questions.

Mr. Martin: I'm absolutely amazed at what they're doing. It's the same people, the very same people, and they're changing the designation to where there are no standards. How can that be better for the people in those facilities?

Mrs. Fritz: Well, Mr. Speaker, if this member had read that task force report, he would see that the standards that were in place in 1995 have been updated through the regional health authorities, through the care operators, through ASCHA, the Alberta Senior Citizens' Housing Association. Those standards have been updated. They were taken out to the community through the long-term care task force, and they are now being worked upon with the Minister of Health and Wellness and myself and will be brought forward here very soon as to what are the current standards meeting the supportive living for seniors.

Mr. Martin: Mr. Speaker, I'm trying to ask the minister very simply: when an institution overnight changes its designation to where the Auditor General says that there are no standards, how can that be for the betterment of the people in that facility?

Mrs. Fritz: Mr. Speaker, I can tell you this: we have over 330,000 seniors in the province of Alberta over the age of 65; 10 per cent of those seniors are over the age of 85. That is increasing by 40 per cent within the next 10 years. The change that comes about with that is that there are chronic health care needs, there is dementia, and there is Alzheimer's. Those needs are being addressed through designated assisted living and assisted living, where people are in a care setting, where they can bring their own furniture to their rooms. They can have essential cooking. It's just a far better level of care.

The accommodation standards: I do not want you to mislead this House. There are standards. Those accommodation standards are being reviewed with the Minister of Health and Wellness and I, and they are coming forward through the long-term care task force recommendations, Mr. Speaker.

The Speaker: The hon. Member for Calgary-Bow.

2:30 Climate Change

Ms DeLong: Thank you very much, Mr. Speaker. Alberta is on record as saying that we will address climate change with innovation and technology. Yesterday the Minister of Environment was asked about Alberta's participation at the Montreal conference on climate change, and the minister talked about technology solutions in general terms. My question is to the Minister of Innovation and Science. Are there actual, specific technology solutions that the government of Alberta is working on now?

Mr. Doerksen: Mr. Speaker, in fact, I will be attending the Montreal conference for part of that conference as well. My interest lies in two areas. One area, of course, is to find out what the other countries are doing on the technology and innovation side as well as to reinforce to our federal government the fact that we see as part of the solution investment in research and technology because we think that that is the answer. Alberta is led very capably in our research strategy through the Alberta Energy Research Institute, which is very capably chaired by the Member for Grande Prairie-Smoky. We've established six key areas. I won't elaborate, but they're clean coal, CO₂ management, bitumen upgrading, the improved recovery of oil and gas, alternate and renewable energy, and water management.

The Speaker: The hon. member.

Ms DeLong: Thank you very much, Mr. Speaker. My final question is also to the Minister of Innovation and Science. What part does industry play in energy research and technology development?

Mr. Doerksen: Mr. Speaker, industry plays a very important role. Let me emphasize that directly the Alberta government invests $30 million annually into energy research. We invest more than that again through incentives through various programs to encourage industry involvement in areas such as CO₂ management and CO₂ capture and storage and for use in upgrading facilities.

Mr. Speaker, specifically on some of the alternate energy, just to give you two examples, we have invested money through the innovation program into a 52-home subdivision in Okotoks on solar energy and in another project in Vegreville to do with biomass. So we are engaged in these areas. These are important, and we do see innovation and technology as the key.

The Speaker: Hon. members, I'll call upon six hon. members in a few seconds from now to participate in Members' Statements, but might we revert briefly to Introduction of Guests?

[Unanimous consent granted]

head: Introduction of Guests (reversion)

The Speaker: The hon. Member for Lac La Biche-St. Paul.

Mr. Danyluk: Thank you very much, Mr. Speaker. It is indeed a pleasure to introduce to you and through you to members of this Assembly a group of 40 promising young Albertans from the Lac La Biche-St. Paul constituency. Today we are honoured to have the grade 10 class from the J.A. Williams school in Lac La Biche observe the proceedings along with their teachers and parent helpers. They are seated in the members' gallery, and I would like them to rise and receive the traditional warm welcome of this Assembly.

Mr. Speaker, it is my pleasure to rise again to introduce to you and through you to all the members of this Assembly an outstanding young Albertan, Jeeshan Chowdhury. Jeeshan was instrumental in the development of the Youth Advisory Panel, a group of youth who advise government on issues that affect Alberta's youth. He has invested a great deal of time and effort in many initiatives related to children and youth. He was involved in the review of the Child Welfare Act, discussions on alcohol and drug use among youth, and the development of the advancing futures bursary program, just to name a few. Jeeshan also received a Great Kids award in 2000.

Currently he is studying medicine at the University of Alberta, where he is researching medical uses of nanotechnology. He's also this year's recipient of the Alberta Rhodes scholarship. The Rhodes scholarship is the oldest international fellowship. It provides scholarship for two years of study at the University of Oxford.

Mr. Speaker, he is accompanied by his proud parents, Mr. and Mrs. Chowdhury, who are to be commended for their lifetime of influence and support. If I could ask Jeeshan and his parents to please stand. Accompanying them is also Dione Nobrega, the senior manager of youth in transition, Children's Services. Please stand.

The Speaker: The hon. Minister of Education.

Mr. Zwodzesky: Thank you very much, Mr. Speaker. I see that the final member of our Ukraine famine project delegation has just arrived. He was unfortunately inadvertently delayed by some airplane-related matters. Nonetheless, I would ask us all to please welcome Mr. Yaroslav Szewczuk, president of the Edmonton branch of the League of Ukrainian Canadians. Would he please rise and would all the members rise once again so that we can thank you for being here.

Thank you.

The Speaker: The hon. Member for Calgary-North Hill.

Mr. Magnus: Thank you, Mr. Speaker. Once again it's my pleasure to rise to make an introduction to you and through you to members of this Assembly. I'd just like to introduce once again to the members the president of the Edmonton fire association, Ken Block, and the vice-president, Dale McLean, who are in the members' gallery. I'd ask that they stand and receive the warm traditional welcome of this House.

head: Members' Statements

The Speaker: Well, hon. members, this Sunday there's going to be a national competition. We have rules in this House about a dress code. We have rules about exhibits. But I'm going to waive all of that for the momentary two minutes to allow the hon. Member for Edmonton-Manning to give his statement. He can doff his coat; he can put on his cap. If the hon. Member for Edmonton-McClung wants to take out his flag and wave it and if the hon. Member for Edmonton-Castle Downs wants to take out his flag and wave it, go ahead. Two minutes, and then we're going forward.

Edmonton Eskimos

Mr. Backs: Thank you very much, Mr. Speaker. Many football fans across Alberta were treated to two incredible football playoff games in the last two weeks. These games produced our western champions, and they are from Edmonton, the City of Champions. Edmonton is one of the best football cities in the world, again producing the best pro squad in Canada, and the team is our soon-to-be Grey Cup champions, the great 2005 Edmonton Eskimos.

With the one-two punch of Ricky Ray or Jason Maas as quarterback, with Troy Davis giving offensive punch along with the whole offence, the Eksks have pulled out sometimes nail-biting but exciting victories. Punter Sean Fleming and special teams have scored continually and held the team in the game. Many have called the rock-hard Edmonton defence the key to our playoff victories and know that they will be there to make the Green and Gold proud on Sunday.

In the hot seat and in only his first season as head coach for the Eskimos is Danny Maciocia. Go get 'em, Danny, and we wish you all well on Sunday.

With two former Premiers and our present Lieutenant Governor having played in the past for Grey Cup champion Edmonton Eskimo teams, I am sure that all Albertans will be cheering for the Green and Gold when they take the field at BC Place on Sunday. I sure will, and I look forward and I'm sure all Alberta looks forward to our Edmonton Eskimos bringing back the Grey Cup on Monday. What better way to cap off our Alberta centennial than with a Grey Cup parade down Jasper Avenue next week.

Thank you, Mr. Speaker.

The Speaker: Hon. members, Bryan Hall will not sleep well tonight after that presentation. The only thing missing was that hat with the two beer cans over it.

Hon. member, you should also know that there is a tradition in this House that when an hon. member shows up wearing an exhibit, it is incumbent upon that hon. member to make it available to all other hon. members in this Assembly. So it's a shirt and a hat, to be delivered promptly.

Okay. Anybody on that same theme? Any other speakers? We'll tie it all together. [Mr. Magnus rose] You're not on the list, hon. member. No, no. Sorry. You're not recognized.

The hon. Member for Peace River.

2:40

Food Bank Usage

Mr. Oberle: Thank you, Mr. Speaker. Yesterday during debates in this Assembly the leader of the third party, the hon. Member for Edmonton-Highlands-Norwood, said in his speech, "Alberta has the highest per capita food bank usage in Canada." I hold in my hand a document entitled Time for Action: HungerCount 2005, which is published by the Canadian Association of Food Banks and carries the subtitle Canada's Only Annual Survey of Food Banks & Emergency Food Programs. I will table copies of this document at the appropriate time.

Mr. Speaker, this document reports that on a per capita basis Alberta, in fact, has the lowest rate of food bank usage in Canada. Furthermore, the statistics show a decline in food bank usage in Alberta from the previous year of 16.6 per cent, which is the largest decline of any jurisdiction in Canada. I do not bring this information forward to make light of the very serious issue of poverty, nor do I intend in any way to suggest that this fundamental problem has been solved. I bring this information forward because of my respect for this House and the important debates that occur here. I most respectfully suggest that in the interests of open and thorough debate, it would be most useful if we could all operate from a basis of fact.

Thank you, Mr. Speaker.

Centennial World Cup

Mrs. Tarchuk: Mr. Speaker, Alberta has a century of sport memories that have left a mark in our history books and in our hearts. In mid-December another chapter will be written in Canmore as our province hosts 200 of the world's best cross-country skiers at the upcoming Alberta Centennial World Cup. These races are another centennial event in a long list that has captured our imaginations and celebrated who we are as proud Albertans. For the first time in 10 years Canadian athletes including Albertans Beckie Scott and Sara Renner will have the home turf advantage as they compete in front of fans waving the maple leaf.

The races are taking place at the renewed Canmore Nordic Centre. This 1988 Olympic legacy is already the home of Canada's cross-country and biathlon national teams, but now thanks to a $23 million make-over from this government it can once again host international events and will be a focal point for Canada's Nordic training in preparation for Canada's 2010 Winter Olympics.

Residents of the Bow Valley have thrown themselves behind this event wholeheartedly. There is a four-day winter festival accompanying the races, and the Calgary Stampede is putting on its first ever winter rodeo. The event will also generate tremendous exposure. CBC Sports Saturday will be hosting its December 17 show from the Canmore Nordic Centre, and internationally an estimated 50 million to 70 million people will be watching the world cup circuit on television.

Mr. Speaker, I am confident that the people organizing the races and the winter festival have created a package of events that will be one of the highlights of our centennial year. Canmore was on display for the world in 1988, and it is ready to be so again. We welcome Albertans to join us.

Thank you.

The Speaker: The hon. Member for Edmonton-Meadowlark.

Problem Gambling

Mr. Tougas: Thank you, Mr. Speaker. The third week of November every year marks National Addictions Awareness Week. When we hear the word "addictions," we generally think in terms of alcohol, drugs, and tobacco, but there's a less publicized addiction that is of increasing concern in Alberta. Problem gambling is on the rise in this province, and the primary cause is an addiction to VLTs or slots. Data from the Alberta Gaming Research Institute indicates that about 80 per cent of those seeking help with their gambling addiction through AADAC list EGMs as their preferred method of gambling. Sadly, this responsibility for the increase in problem gambling lies solely with the provincial government in the fact that every one of Alberta's 6,000 VLTs and more than 7,000 slot machines are owned and operated by the province of Alberta.

Gambling machines are ingenious and insidious. They are designed to appear friendly and fun on the outside while inside they are complex pieces of equipment designed by experts in computers and psychology to drain the maximum amount of money from a player's pocket. They are so easy to use. No thought processes are needed at all. If you can put a coin in a slot and push a button, you can gamble on a slot machine. A trained chimp could win or lose as much money at a slot machine as an adult human being.

They are extraordinarily addictive. Studies have found that EGMs are the only form of gambling where the majority of revenue derives from problem gamblers. It is for that reason that these machines are known as the crack cocaine of gambling. The provincial government has exclusive control over how many EGMs are allowed in this province and where they go. With the rampant expansion of casinos, there could quite easily be 10,000 slots in Alberta in a year or two. In a province that already has one of the highest rates of problem gambling as well as the highest per capita losses at gambling, this unchecked expansion of slot machines is the height of irresponsibility. Gambling machines have turned law-abiding citizens into addicts. Lives have been ruined because of gambling machine addiction, and the blame rests solely with the provincial government.

Thank you.

The Speaker: The hon. Member for Lac La Biche-St. Paul.

Youth Advisory Panel

Mr. Danyluk: Thank you very much, Mr. Speaker. I am pleased to rise today and recognize the Alberta Youth Advisory Panel. Premier Klein formed the Youth Advisory Panel in the year 2000.

The Speaker: The hon. member knows better.

Mr. Danyluk: The hon. Premier. Sorry.

It is a group of 15 youth between the ages of 15 and 22 who represent communities across the province. The group provides feedback on current initiatives and proposes improvements and new ideas to enhance the quality of services to youth. Panel members represent a diversity of ethnic groups, cultures, geographic areas, ages, genders, and socioeconomic status. They ensure that Alberta youth are heard in a meaningful and relevant way on issues that impact their lives.

Since its inception the Youth Advisory Panel has played an important role in a number of issues and policies for the Alberta government. Currently the panel is involved with several initiatives including youth justice and postsecondary education. Its key role is to provide government with a solid youth perspective.

The youth involved in this group are exceptional young people with amazing potential, such as the young man that we introduced earlier today who was there at the beginning. I cannot emphasize enough the importance of listening to our youth. They provide us with valuable insight and effective solutions to many issues that affect our youth. I encourage all youth in our province to take an active role in their communities and make their voices heard on issues important to them.

Thank you very much.

The Speaker: The hon. Member for Edmonton-Strathcona.

Postsecondary Tuition Fees

Dr. Pannu: Thank you very much, Mr. Speaker. Postsecondary students in Alberta have been asking for a tuition freeze for over a decade and have instead received a flimsy commitment to a so-called rebate. No long-term plan for reducing tuition is on the horizon. With the second-highest university price tag and the highest college price tag in the country this is simply not good enough. Seventy per cent of all jobs either now do or will require a postsecondary education very soon. Education brings better health outcomes, stronger communities, and a more dynamic and innovative economy.

The NDP opposition along with students, faculty, and even business organizations like TD Waterhouse have all told this government that tuition fees in this province are too high and that it keeps many low-income students away from the system. Postsecondary access statistics are stark. Low-income youth are two and a half times less likely to attend university than high-income youth. Half of university students graduate with an average debt of $20,000, but that is only public debt, Mr. Speaker. Alberta's student finance system has not kept pace with the high cost of living and tuition. Many students now have two or three credit cards and a student line of credit. This is big business for the big banks, a billion dollars a year. Student loans are an excessive burden for the taxpayer as well. For every dollar borrowed by Alberta students, taxpayers shell out 50 cents in administrative costs. A complete waste of precious resources.

A province-wide system of needs-based grants is indeed the way to go. In the next budget cycle the province must commit to doing more than freezing the tuition for the PSE students. We must immediately roll it back by at least 10 per cent, and then we must work with students and other concerned Albertans for a better tuition fee policy, one that will encourage every qualified student to pursue the education of their choice, not their price range. A highly educated population will enable Alberta to weather the storm of Alberta's boom/bust cycles and build the kinds of communities we want. In order to fulfill the vision for the Alberta we want, we must ensure that quality postsecondary education is accessible and affordable for all, whether rural or urban, privileged or underprivileged.

Thank you, Mr. Speaker.

The Speaker: Hon. members, I'd like you to be aware that November 24 is the anniversary of the miraculous entry into the world of the hon. Member for Drayton Valley-Calmar.

Vignettes from Alberta's History

The Speaker: By way of an historical vignette on this day in 1997 Thelma Chalifoux began a term as a Senator from the province of Alberta. Thelma Chalifoux was born in Calgary. She became the first aboriginal woman as well as the first Métis ever appointed to the Senate of Canada. A long-time advocate of Métis culture Senator Chalifoux was the first Métis woman to receive the national aboriginal achievement award in 1995. This respected woman has served on the boards of several organizations as well as the University of Alberta senate. She retired from the Senate of Canada on February 8, 2004, at the age of 75 and now spends time with her family and is very active in the community of Morinville.

head: 2:50

Presenting Petitions

The Speaker: The hon. Member for Edmonton-Calder.

Mr. Eggen: Thank you, Mr. Speaker. I'd like to table a petition with 329 signatures on it. The petition was co-ordinated by the Edmonton Friends of the North Environmental Society and calls for "a moratorium on any future expansion of Confined Feeding Operations, with a view to phasing out existing operations within the next three years." This brings the total signatures to this petition for this week to 1,342.

Thank you.

The Speaker: The hon. Member for Edmonton-McClung.

Mr. Elsalhy: Thank you, Mr. Speaker. Contrary to what the hon.

Minister of Education indicated yesterday, I am submitting a petition signed by concerned parents from the communities of Taber, Magrath, Cardston, Calgary, Raymond, Coaldale, Lethbridge, and Fort Macleod. It reads:

We, the undersigned residents of Alberta, hereby petition the Legislative Assembly to urge the Government of Alberta to take measures that will require school boards and schools to eliminate all fees for instructional supplies and materials and general school services, including textbooks, musical instruments, physical education programs, locker rentals, lunch hour supervision and required field trips, and to ensure that schools are not deprived of the resources necessary to offer these programs and services without additional charges to parents or guardians.

Thank you.

head: Notices of Motions

Mr. Hancock: Mr. Speaker, I rise pursuant to Standing Order 34(2)(a) to give notice that on Monday I will move that written questions appearing on the Order Paper do stand and retain their places and also to give notice that on Monday motions for returns 49 and 50 will be dealt with. There being no additional motions for returns, there are none to stand and retain their places.

The Speaker: The hon. Minister of Community Development.

Mr. Mar: Thank you, Mr. Speaker. I give notice today of a bill I intend to introduce on Monday next, being Bill 58, the Alberta Centennial Medal Amendment Act, 2005.

Thank you.

head: Introduction of Bills

Bill 51
Appropriation (Supplementary Supply) Act,
2005 (No. 2)

Mrs. McClellan: Mr. Speaker, I request leave to introduce Bill 51, the Appropriation (Supplementary Supply) Act, 2005 (No. 2). This being a money bill, His Honour the Honourable the Lieutenant Governor, having been informed of the contents of this bill, recommends the same to the Assembly.

[Motion carried; Bill 51 read a first time]

The Speaker: The hon. Minister of Advanced Education.

Bill 54
Alberta Centennial Education
Savings Plan Amendment Act, 2005

Mr. Hancock: Thank you, Mr. Speaker. I request leave to introduce Bill 54, the Alberta Centennial Education Savings Plan Amendment Act, 2005. This being a money bill, His Honour the Lieutenant Governor, having been informed of the contents of this bill, recommends the same to the Assembly.

[Motion carried; Bill 54 read a first time]

The Speaker: The hon. Minister of Advanced Education.

Bill 55
Post-secondary Learning
Amendment Act, 2005 (No. 2)

Mr. Hancock: Thank you, Mr. Speaker. I beg leave to introduce a bill being the Post-secondary Learning Amendment Act, 2005 (No. 2), which will be Bill 55.

[Motion carried; Bill 55 read a first time]

Bill 56
Business Corporations Amendment Act, 2005 (No. 2)

Dr. Brown: Mr. Speaker, I request leave to introduce a bill being the Business Corporations Amendment Act, 2005 (No. 2).

These amendments allow minority shareholders who oppose converting a corporation to or from an unlimited liability corporation to dissent and be bought out at fair market value, and it will also clarify the limitation periods for actions against former shareholders.

[Motion carried; Bill 56 read a first time]

The Speaker: The hon. Government House Leader.

Mr. Hancock: Thank you, Mr. Speaker. I move that Bill 56 be moved onto the Order Paper under Government Bills and Orders.

[Motion carried]

The Speaker: The hon. Minister of Advanced Education.

Bill 57
Apprenticeship and Industry Training
Amendment Act, 2005

Mr. Hancock: Thank you, Mr. Speaker. I beg leave to introduce Bill 57, a bill being the Apprenticeship and Industry Training Amendment Act, 2005.

[Motion carried; Bill 57 read a first time]

The Speaker: The hon. Member for Olds-Didsbury-Three Hills.

Bill 210
School (Property Tax Reduction)
Amendment Act, 2005

Mr. Marz: Thank you, Mr. Speaker. I request leave to introduce Bill 210, being the School (Property Tax Reduction) Amendment Act, 2005.

The purpose of Bill 210 is to eliminate the education portion of the property tax, thereby giving Albertans a tax break. This bill would eliminate education property tax over the course of five years.

Mr. Speaker, thanks to the fiscal prudence of this government, as a province Alberta is in an unparalleled fiscal position. It's important that we take this opportunity to reward Albertans by returning to them their hard-earned money. If successful, when fully implemented Bill 210 will represent a tax cut of approximately $1.4 billion.

[Motion carried; Bill 210 read a first time]

The Speaker: The hon. Member for Edmonton-Calder.

Bill 211
Alberta Commission on Energy Efficiency Act

Mr. Eggen: Thank you, Mr. Speaker. I request leave to introduce Bill 211, the Alberta Commission on Energy Efficiency Act.

Mr. Speaker, this bill gives us an opportunity to reinvest in the infrastructure of our province and realize efficiency goals which are key to energy efficiency and sustainability for our future.

[Motion carried; Bill 211 read a first time]

head: Tabling Returns and Reports

Mrs. McClellan: Mr. Speaker, I have three tablings. I'm pleased to table today five copies of my response to the hon. Member for Edmonton-Gold Bar pertaining to questions raised during the supplementary estimates debate on Wednesday, November 16.

Additionally, Mr. Speaker, I'm tabling a letter I received from the chairman of the Alberta Securities Commission pertaining to the chronology of events surrounding the breach of policy by the director of enforcement.

Also, Mr. Speaker, I am tabling my response to the hon. leader of the NDP opposition's question that he raised yesterday regarding corporate accountability.

The Speaker: The hon. Minister of Advanced Education.

Mr. Hancock: Thank you, Mr. Speaker. I'm pleased to rise this afternoon to table the appropriate number of copies of the Campus Alberta Quality Council's first annual report for the period 1 July 2004 to 31 March 2005. The annual report demonstrates the council's openness, transparency, and public accountability. I will be in the near future making copies available to all members of the Assembly so that they can avail themselves of the appendices which show Campus Alberta Quality Council's key operating principles, publications of the quality council, and the membership of the quality council, in addition to the information contained in the report.

3:00

The Speaker: The hon. Minister of Gaming.

Mr. Graydon: I made my tablings yesterday. Thank you, Mr. Speaker.

The Speaker: The hon. Minister of Human Resources and Employment. The hon. minister sent me a note saying that he wanted to table something. [interjection] Okay.

The hon. Member for Edmonton-Beverly-Clareview.

Mr. Martin: Thank you, Mr. Speaker. I will table something. On behalf of the leader of the NDP opposition I'd like to table a letter from Mary Roberts, who is very concerned that the Chinook health region plans to leave only one continuing care facility in the city of Lethbridge.

Thank you.

The Speaker: The hon. Member for Edmonton-Glenora.

Dr. B. Miller: Yes, Mr. Speaker. Thank you. I'd like to table chapter 1 of the report of the Auditor General of Canada which pertains to the Royal Canadian Mounted Police, which points out some gaps in their services to rural areas in Canada.

The Speaker: The hon. Member for Edmonton-Ellerslie.

Mr. Agnihotri: Thank you, Mr. Speaker. I have tablings from my constituent Mr. Holowaychuk, who is directly affected by the development of the ring road, Anthony Henday. He is concerned about the safety and loss of lawful enjoyment of his property due to the construction design being used, and he has not received any hearings on this so-called development.

The Speaker: The hon. Member for Edmonton-Meadowlark.

Mr. Tougas: Thank you, Mr. Speaker. I'm tabling the appropriate number of copies of a pamphlet handed out today by the Bigstone Cree nation during their demonstration outside the Legislature and outlining their concerns over the forestry management agreement on their traditional homelands.

The Speaker: The hon. Member for Edmonton-Rutherford.

Mr. R. Miller: Thank you, Mr. Speaker. I have a number of tablings this afternoon. The first is a letter from a constituent, Cliff Haberstock, who is writing with concern about the furnace replacement program which the Alberta government instituted earlier this year. Unfortunately, according to Mr. Haberstock, he was informed that the program was oversubscribed within a matter of weeks. He would like some action on that from the government.

I have a tabling from Kristen Warner regarding her concerns with the government's failed automobile insurance reforms.

I have a tabling from a Mr. Nicholas Janik, who is writing with his concerns about the unfunded teachers' liability. He expresses concern that "the teacher shortage in the future will be significantly impacted by the government's decisions regarding unfunded liability."

A tabling, Mr. Speaker, from Mariola Adamowska, who also is writing about the unfunded teachers' liability. She, being a new immigrant to Canada, says that she realizes today that "the 'significant' financial burden, caused by the errors of prior governments, has been delegated" to her without her consent.

A letter from a Janice Hrdlicka, who also writes about the unfunded liability. She asks, "How can this provincial government profess that it is 'debt free'? The unfunded liability is a debt. Plain and simple."

Finally, Mr. Speaker, a letter from a Mr. Ed. Harasem, also writing about the unfunded teachers' liability, and his only comment is that the unfunded liability is "totally ridiculous."

Thank you, Mr. Speaker.

The Speaker: The hon. Member for St. Albert.

Mr. Flaherty: Yes. I wish to table five copies of a letter to Mr. Campbell, president of the Edmonton Eskimos, thanking him for the successful season and for good luck in the Grey Cup from the Leader of the Opposition.

The Speaker: The hon. Member for Peace River.

Mr. Oberle: Thank you, Mr. Speaker. I wish to table the appropriate number of copies of a document published by the Canadian Association of Food Banks entitled Time for Action: HungerCount 2005, being Canada's only annual survey of food banks and emergency food programs.

Thank you, Mr. Speaker.

head: Tablings to the Clerk

The Clerk: I wish to advise the House that the following document was deposited with the office of the Clerk. On behalf of the hon. Dr. Oberg, Minister of Infrastructure and Transportation, a return to order of the Assembly MR 48, asked for by Mr. Elsalhy on behalf of Mr. Chase on November 21, 2005.

head: Projected Government Business

The Speaker: The hon. Member for Edmonton-Rutherford.

Mr. R. Miller: Thank you very much, Mr. Speaker. Pursuant to Standing Order 7(5) I'm wondering if the Government House Leader would kindly share the projected government business for the week of November 28 to December 1.

The Speaker: The hon. Government House Leader.

Mr. Hancock: Thank you, Mr. Speaker. On Monday, November 28, at 9 p.m. under Government Bills and Orders we would anticipate proceeding with Government Motion 25 with respect to the appointment of the Chief Electoral Officer search committee; second reading of Bill Pr. 4, the Brooklynn Hannah George Rewega Right of Civil Action Act; Bill 51, the Appropriation (Supplementary Supply) Act, 2005 (No. 2); Bill 54, the Alberta Centennial Education Savings Plan Amendment Act, 2005; Bill 55, the Post-secondary Learning Amendment Act, 2005 (No. 2); Bill 56, Business Corporations Amendment Act, 2005 (No. 2); Bill 57, Apprenticeship and Industry Training Amendment Act, 2005; time permitting, Committee of the Whole on Bill Pr. 4 and Bill 47 and as per the Order Paper.

On Tuesday, November 29, in the afternoon under Government Bills and Orders we anticipate the introduction of Bill 52, Miscellaneous Statutes Amendment Act, 2005 (No. 2), and Bill 58, the Alberta Centennial Medal Amendment Act, which may also be available on Monday for introduction. The Committee of the Whole would proceed on Bill 51, the Appropriation (Supplementary Supply) Act, 2005 (No. 2), and thereafter all bills remaining at second reading. At 8 p.m. Committee of the Whole on Bill 51, Appropriation (Supplementary Supply) Act, 2005 (No. 2), and all bills remaining at second reading or Committee of the Whole and as per the Order Paper.

On Wednesday, November 30, in the afternoon under Government Bills and Orders for third reading Bill 51, Appropriation (Supplementary Supply) Act, 2005 (No. 2), and all bills remaining at Committee of the Whole and third reading. At 8 p.m. under Government Bills and Orders for third reading Bill 51, Appropriation (Supplementary Supply) Act, 2005 (No. 2), and all bills remaining at Committee of the Whole and third reading and as per the Order Paper.

On Thursday, December 1, in the afternoon all bills remaining in third reading and Royal Assent and as per the Order Paper.

The Speaker: Let me apologize to the hon. Minister of Human Resources and Employment. Earlier I had recognized him. That was inadvertent.

The hon. Member for Calgary-North Hill may have misunderstood my comment when I invited members to participate in statements with respect to the football game. This is Alberta. The Member for Edmonton-Manning is a supporter of Edmonton, so he was recognized. The hon. Member for Calgary-North Hill was not given an opportunity for the obvious reason.

head: Orders of the Day

head: Government Bills and Orders
Committee of the Whole

[Mr. Marz in the chair]

The Chair: I'd like to call the committee to order.

Bill 50

Workers' Compensation Amendment Act, 2005 (No. 2)

The Chair: Are there any comments, questions, or amendments to be offered with respect to this bill? The hon. Member for Calgary-North Hill.

Mr. Magnus: Thank you, Mr. Chairman. It's my pleasure to get to my feet to talk about Bill 50, the Workers' Compensation Amendment Act, 2005 (No. 2).

I'd be remiss if I didn't just take a little liberty here with the Speaker's latest chatter about the football games. I would point out that the Edmonton Eskimos did defeat our much-beloved Calgary Stampeders two weeks ago, or it would be us waving the flags and wearing the sweaters today. I would also point out that one of my two guests in the gallery is Dale McLean, the vice-president of the Edmonton firefighters, also an alumni of the Edmonton Eskimos football team.

3:10

Mr. Chairman, firefighting remains one of our most dangerous occupations. It's known as one of the most dangerous occupations in the world. While we don't have an awful lot of statistics gathered in Canada – the United States is far, far better at doing this – in 2000, the latest year that we've got these statistics for, firefighters continue to suffer job-related injuries in numbers that far exceed other occupations, with nearly 1 in 5 injured in the line of duty each year as opposed to the average profession, which has about 6 per cent, which works out to – what? – 1 in 20. Professional firefighters are more than three times as likely to be injured on the job as the average worker in private industry.

Mr. Chair, heart injury is the number one killer of firefighters on the fire scene. We all know that. Through the various bill stages and the committees prior to getting into the Assembly, we've talked about this. When an alarm goes off in a fire hall, a firefighter's heart rate goes up to about 100 per cent of what a 25 year old's in very good shape would be. At the point he rounds the corner and sees the fire, his heart rate goes up higher. He then dons 70 pounds' worth of equipment, and again the heart rate goes up.

This is exercise at its extreme and at very dangerous levels, which raises their core body temperatures to also very dangerous levels. They work under extreme heat with superheated gases and toxic gases. They have limited breathing with the stress of using an artificial air source. Their movement is often restricted, and they work in total darkness many, many times. Most of all: the stress from being in an environment where your brain is telling you very clearly, "It's time to get the heck out of here," and they have to go in and do their daily work in this kind of an environment. For that reason we've asked for the presumption for the firefighters, the same as we did in the cancer bill in 2003.

Mr. Speaker, we've had a number of questions in second reading that I'd like to address just to hopefully shorten a little bit of the debate that we have today and save some of the members some time. I'll start out with a question that was asked by the Member for Edmonton-Manning specifically about firefighters. While I admire their enthusiasm and, frankly, would like to give a great many professions this benefit, I would like to say that there are some differences here.

One of the things that we did in Bill 202, which is the firemen's cancer bill, was that we asked in the very last line of that bill that the WCB in Alberta would in fact consult with the WCB in Manitoba, who were the leaders on this type of legislation, that they would do the consultation with them and bring back very specifically why we shouldn't cover volunteer firefighters. We're still waiting for that study. It is not due until the spring of 2006, and we're anticipating that somewhere down the road here, hopefully on time. I might add that the study to be concluded in 2006 will talk about a number of issues.

I'd like to point out some of the differences, if you like, between a volunteer firefighter and a full-time urban firefighter. Quite honestly, Mr. Chairman, the difference is the aggressiveness with which they fight fires. In a full-time urban environment a firefighter goes in and aggressively knocks down that fire. For a volunteer firefighter, because they're volunteers, obviously their conditioning is not quite as good. They take a little bit more of a defensive approach. Now, this is not a hard-and-fast rule by any stretch of the imagination, but it is certainly a difference between the two sides.

One of our other reasonings behind this. As I say, I'd love to give it to them, but again we simply don't have the studies and the science behind it to justify it. We have studies for full-time urban firefighters from all over North America and, indeed, from Europe that go back to 1918 and discuss things like the cancers and the heart issue that we're here today asking for. But there is no study, and until about 10 or 15 years ago even in this province we simply kept no records of who did what. That changed, again, 15 years ago because finally we started giving a very token payment to these same volunteers, who were out there in smaller centres and battling fires, some of them to a very, very great extent. We have a firefighter in Red Deer that fought 170 grass fires a couple of years ago in one summer. Hard to believe, but it's the truth.

We had a number of questions about: why can't we give this same benefit to police officers, probation officers, security officers? How about air traffic controllers? There is nothing anywhere in the rule book that says that any of these people that could participate with workers' compensation, if they have an injury of this sort and it is from their job, can go into workers' compensation and make application for some kind of a benefit, some kind of a payment to compensate them for their work. That is the way that most people are going. I go back to my original statement when I stood up today, which mentions that 1 in 5 firefighters every year suffers a serious injury as opposed to the general population, which I believe is 6.1 per cent on average.

With that in mind, Mr. Chairman, we've got a couple of amendments coming forward, that I'm aware of, and I'll speak a little more to this topic. As I say, I admire the member's enthusiasm for this and certainly agree with it in the context of a common-sense aspect of it.

There's no question in my mind that a police officer is having his heart rate elevated when he hears his siren going off, but again we don't get into things like the exercising at a dangerous level, raising body core temperatures, putting on the 70 pounds of equipment, and running into a building dragging a very, very heavy hose. You've heard the rest of this, members, and a number of you have been on the orientation exercise. You know exactly what I'm talking about. This is extremely physical exercise. For that reason and for all of the statistics and the science behind those statistics, I'm looking forward to the debate here in committee, and we'll get on with it.

Now, there is another portion to this bill. It has to do with the WCB. The Member for Calgary-Egmont is an expert on this particular clause, and I'd ask him to supplement at your discretion, Mr. Chairman.

The Chair: The hon. Member for Calgary-Egmont.

Mr. Herard: Thank you very much, Mr. Chairman.

The Chair: I'm sorry, hon. member. It is customary that I recognize a member of the opposition for the second speaker, so that would be the hon. Member for Edmonton-Manning.

Mr. Backs: Thank you, Mr. Chairman. I do recognize the contribution of the Member for Calgary-Egmont, and I'm sure he'll be up in a second to deal with the medical panels.

Bill 50 is an important piece of legislation, and I am pleased that it is going through. The need for expanding the ability of firefighters to have presumptive coverage within a 24-hour period for a myocardial infarction, a heart attack, Mr. Chairman, after attendance at an emergency response is, as the hon. Member for Calgary-North Hill has said, something that's been a matter of great study and is something that, although it doesn't happen very, very often, should not bring about hardship to a firefighter who is seeking coverage when, in fact, he is subject to that condition because of his work. It's an admirable amendment that recognizes the inherent dangers that are unique to the occupation of a firefighter.

Research has shown that firefighters in an emergency response situation involving fire and toxic smoke inhalation at the scene are subject to many, many different types of stresses. The Member for Calgary-North Hill has listed some of the stress factors, some of the things that bring great stress to bear on the human system, their bodies, when they are in the situation of a serious emergency, factors that when combined with an accelerated heart rate can and have caused myocardial infarctions to firefighters.

Extending the presumptive coverage here to cover the situation is completely acceptable. The medical panels I think are an important move forward. I spoke extensively on Bill 15 as to some of the problems with the Workers' Compensation Board, and I won't repeat those here today. I think we went over those quite extensively yesterday and in previous debates on Bill 15. The need for those medical panels to report to something other than the WCB and to now report to the minister I think is a very positive move. At the very least this creates more transparency and does allow for them to be better understood and better supported by those that are subject to the decisions.

3:20

I did indicate to the Member for Calgary-North Hill yesterday that I would be bringing forth amendments, and I did bring forth some of the arguments regarding extending to other occupations. What I was looking to was to really limit that not to air traffic controllers, not to those types, not to certain other fields but to emergency personnel or people who are in fact dealing quite often with emergency situations. There is an argument that presumptive coverage should be extended to include other emergency personnel who face hazards in their terms of employment that could lead to a heart attack – and I'll get this down eventually – a myocardial infarction.

Mr. Rogers: Be careful how you say that.

Mr. Backs: The Member for Leduc-Beaumont-Devon was very candid in saying that I should be careful how I should say that.

But a heart attack, you know, this type of problem does not happen very often. I think it would be important for this Assembly to consider those emergency personnel such as police officers, EMTs, or emergency medical technicians and technologists, as well as corrections officers, to be truthful, because they deal in many of the same types of difficult situations, especially in a prison riot. I've got many friends and acquaintances who actually do work in corrections, and I've been made aware of many difficult situations that they have. I've also spoken with numerous peace officers and EMTs, as have members of the Liberal opposition and our research staff.

To apply to police officers and paramedics, who not only deal with an amazing amount of stress in their occupations but also respond and are present at the same types of emergency situations that firefighters attend – that is often the case. For example, at a large building fire police and ambulance at the periphery of the scene are there from the initial response to the conclusion and are subject to high levels of toxic smoke and other damaging vapours. These emergency personnel do not always have access to proper oxygen masks, often not, that serve to shield others such as firefighters from some or all of the harmful content of the smoke. So even though these emergency personnel may not directly enter the blaze, they are still in harm's way of ingesting into their lungs smoke from a fire, and they, too, will have elevated heart rates due to the nature of the emergency.

The key point here is that for any emergency of a substantial nature, especially a fire, it is all three components of the emergency response team – fire, police, and ambulance – that respond to those incidents. Thus, the dangers borne by one prong of the emergency response team is in some form borne by others. Over time the same conditions that apply to firefighters may very well have a similar effect on police and paramedics. Due to this, the presumptive coverage specifically relating to myocardial infarctions 24 hours after attendance at an emergency response should be extended in this specific case to police and paramedics.

In addition, the dangers faced by correctional officers, specifically the dangers faced by an accelerated heart rate due to the nature of the job in emergency situations in prison as well as the stress that comes from working in a jail with prisoners on a daily basis, could also be seen as a cause of a myocardial infarction following a period after an emergency situation. This probably does not happen often, but the same presumptive coverage should apply to these officers for the same reasons.

Given these factors, Mr. Chairman, I'm introducing an amendment to section 2 of Bill 50 to the proposed section 24.1(7) by striking it out and extending the presumptive coverage that applies to firefighters to police officers; paramedics; emergency medical technicians, ambulance; and corrections officers. It is specific to a response to emergency situations causing a myocardial infarction and simply extends the provisions of it to apply to other emergency personnel.

I have provided the proper number of copies to the table, and I move that amendment. Should I read that amendment now, Mr. Chairman?

The Chair: The amendment that's being distributed we will call amendment A1.

Mr. Backs: Should I read that?

The Chair: You can proceed because it's already distributed.

Mr. Backs: Okay.

I move that Bill 50, Workers' Compensation Amendment Act, 2005 (No. 2) be amended in section 2 by striking out the proposed section 24.1(7) and substituting the following:

- (7) If a worker who is a
 - (a) firefighter,
 - (b) police officer appointed under section 36 of the Police Act,
 - (c) emergency medical technician – ambulance as defined in the Emergency Medical Technicians Regulation (AR 48/93),
 - (d) emergency medical technologist – paramedic as defined in the Emergency Medical Technicians Regulation (AR 48/93), or

- (e) corrections officer appointed under the Corrections Act suffers a myocardial infarction within 24 hours after attendance at an emergency response, the myocardial infarction shall be presumed to have arisen out of and occurred during that worker's course of employment unless the contrary is proven.

I move that amendment Mr. Chairman.

The Chair: The hon. Member for Calgary-North Hill on the amendment.

Mr. Magnus: Thank you, Mr. Chairman. As I said before, while I admire the Member for Edmonton-Manning's enthusiasm and while I believe he's as big a fan of these four departments as I am, I would respectively decline to vote for this for the very simple reason that there is no demand for it and there's no science behind it. I did yesterday, when I got wind of the amendment, phone the head of the Calgary Police Association, a gentleman I've known for some time who's very, very concerned about police issues. It's just not an issue for them, hasn't come up. Again, they still have the right, if a police officer, as an example, has a heart attack while he's on the job, to go to the WCB and say, "Benefits, please," and the decision will be based on the facts of each individual case as opposed to the presumption in this.

So I would respectfully mention to the House that I won't be voting for this.

The Chair: The hon. Member for Edmonton-McClung.

Mr. Elsalhy: Thank you, Mr. Chairman. I, too, would support the amendment as suggested and introduced by my hon. colleague from Edmonton-Manning. The question I ask myself is: why cover only firefighters when, in fact, other emergency personnel or people who react or respond to emergencies face dangers and threats which are just as pronounced? People like our police officers or correctional officers or paramedics for example. The pressures that they face and the stresses that they are under are every bit as real, and the risk to their hearts is comparable.

Some members across from the government caucus are trying to reject this. They claim that the suggestion pits firefighters against those other emergency response personnel. In their opinion, it dilutes the intent of the bill and implies that we don't want the firefighters to get this benefit. I have to totally disagree. This is entirely incorrect. What we're doing is trying to extend this presumptive coverage to people who are affected by it and that are at comparable risk. They all deserve our support and protection.

Also, using the same argument as was put forth by the hon. Member for Calgary-North Hill, who says that there is no science and there is no demand for it, I would just say that if so, then there is no risk to include it in this amendment. If there is no demand for it, or if in fact they have one case a year or one case every second year, it's not going to be a big burden for the Workers' Compensation Board or the medical review board. If it's only one case a year or every second year, it's not a big deal. So I would use this argument to say that, yes, in fact we should include these people in this coverage.

Thank you.

3:30

The Chair: The hon. Member for Calgary-Egmont on the amendment.

Mr. Herard: Thank you very much, Mr. Chairman. With respect to the amendment, while I certainly respect the intent – it's well intended – as the hon. Member for Calgary-North Hill has said, there is no research that indicates that there are similar occurrences with respect to heart attacks in these other occupations, and I certainly respect all of those occupations as well.

I just want to maybe share with the hon. member something about how policy is done, in government caucus at least. If there is to be a change in policy, it has to go through our process: standing policy, cabinet, and caucus. Even if this was the most reasonable of amendments, it would have to have come to us in enough time for us to consider a change in policy. On this side we can't just make policy willy-nilly. We have to do the research, and we have to get approval from members of caucus.

Thank you.

The Chair: The hon. Member for Edmonton-Ellerslie on the amendment.

Mr. Agnihotri: Thank you, Mr. Chairman. I support the amendment by the hon. Member for Edmonton-Manning. This is a good amendment as it shifts the burden of proof to the WCB and allows the claimant full benefits immediately.

However, I would like to have all emergency personnel included in the provisions of this amendment. Police officers, EMTs, paramedics, and correctional officers should specifically be included to have the same type of presumptive coverage. As well, there should be an additional provision to allow either the minister by regulation or the Lieutenant Governor in Council to expand the definition of an emergency worker as it arises. In other words, leave the door open for other workers in the emergency sphere, such as volunteer firefighters in rural areas, part-time firefighters, special constables, or emergency medical responders who work on ambulances in the rural areas.

While the existing provision for firefighters is a good step, this act can go further and include all emergency personnel who as a term of their employment put themselves at risk for an MI due to attendance at emergency or critical situations. In other words, a police officer involved in a fatal shooting or a violent arrest or a paramedic in a hazardous situation where they put themselves in harm's way to save a life or a correctional officer forced to quell a riot should also have the same presumptive coverage.

Thank you very much.

The Chair: Edmonton-Highlands-Norwood, you indicated that you wished to speak. Was that on the amendment?

Mr. Mason: Not to the amendment, no, Mr. Chairman.

The Chair: Edmonton-Meadowlark.

Mr. Tougas: Thank you, Mr. Chairman. First, I'd just like to say that we're in complete agreement with Bill 50. This is an excellent piece of legislation, and I'm sure that we will all support it once it gets through.

I would also like to speak in favour, though, of the amendment. A lot of us went through the pretend to be a fireman for a day routine sponsored by the Edmonton Police Service. I see the Member for Calgary-North Hill is nodding his head. As I recall, he loved doing this. I saw that he had a huge smile on his face during the whole thing. It just about killed me. So I have a pretty good idea of what it's all about to be a fireman now.

Mr. Magnus: And I'm older.

Mr. Tougas: Well, we'll see.

I also found out, you know, that when I grow up, I don't want to be a fireman. It's just too hard. It's very difficult work. These guys deserve all the respect and protection that we can give them. At the same time, being a policeman is a very difficult job, very stressful. They can run into a lot of the same things that a fireman runs into. I don't think it's a particularly big stretch to add other emergency personnel to this bill. It's not a willy-nilly piece of legislation or some sort of change. I think it's a gesture of fairness to the other members of, I guess, the civil service who protect us on a daily basis. I don't think it's a huge stretch. I think it's simply a fair thing to do.

I would fully support this amendment, and I hope that the members across the floor do so as well. Thank you.

The Chair: The hon. Member for Calgary-North Hill.

Mr. Magnus: Thank you, Mr. Chairman. Again, I appreciate the comments from the hon. member opposite. Very simply, I'd love to give other professions, including air traffic controllers, of which I was one for 21 years – I understand stress very, very well. But you've got to have some science there. If the hon. members have a profession that they have some science for, I will make a commitment at this point in time that somewhere along the line in the very near future I will bring in another bill for it, but I need the science. So with that in mind, I'd ask the House to defeat this amendment.

The Chair: The hon. Member for Edmonton-Manning.

Mr. Backs: Thank you, Mr. Chairman. I'm somewhat dismayed by the fact that the Member for Calgary-North Hill says that there's no demand because that is not what I heard from quite a number of people from these professions after they became aware of this bill. Although we don't want to get bogged down in years and years of consultation and want to get this thing done quickly and improve what we have in Bill 15, this is an outgrowth of some of the improvements, I guess, that we were looking at for Bill 15 and some of the problems that we had with that particular act. There is demand from what I've seen, and I expect demand will increase, to be truthful, once this is known because there will be simple fairness factors that will come to bear.

As the Member for Calgary-Egmont said, there sometimes is the need for studies, and the Member for Calgary-North Hill convinced me that we shouldn't have volunteer firefighters on this particular amendment because of some clearer studies that will be coming out in the near future on volunteer firefighters. I'm not convinced that volunteer firefighters should not in fact get this in the future. I expect that some of this information will be very valuable in trying to bring that forward.

The understanding that we have of presumptive coverage is, clearly, that if the WCB thinks that somebody is not due the coverage, they can move to find out and work against that coverage. The idea of presumptive coverage is that the guy gets it automatically. Firefighters should get it, and I believe that other emergency personnel will very clearly have the same arguments. That we don't have a particular study that we can point to or dig up or find at the moment does not mean that there will not be some need for this and, I think, that it will not be necessarily fair to bring forward. I would hope that the government would attempt to initiate some sort of study if this amendment, in fact, is not passed to try and bring forward this coverage, which undoubtedly does not affect a great number of individuals in any given year or even over a number of years but does provide some, I guess, peace of mind to those professionals that protect us in many ways from day to day.

I again urge this Assembly to pass this amendment because I think this is important, if only for fairness, to cover these professions and give this rather limited extra coverage to those who protect our hearth and home. Thank you.

[Motion on amendment A1 lost]

3:40

The Chair: On the debate on the bill, the hon. Member for Edmonton-Highlands-Norwood.

Mr. Mason: Thank you very much, Mr. Chairman. In the interest of moving this through, I'm going to be very brief and indicate only that the NDP caucus is strongly in support of the bill. We think that it is, in fact, necessary. The whole approach that has been pioneered I think by the Manitoba government is an excellent one, the idea that you have these presumptive clauses where people are presumed to have had certain diseases caused by the workplace if they work in certain occupations where the science is there to support it. So we think it's an excellent approach.

If you look at the history of the Workers' Compensation Board and the dealings that many of our constituents have had with it, you'll find that time and time again they go through all kinds of hoops trying to associate some illness that they've got with their occupation. They get bogged down in all kinds of difficult processes and expenses – and it's frustrating – instead of getting on with their lives. This approach is a very, very positive one.

I want to commend the NDP government of Manitoba for pioneering this approach. I also want to commend the hon. Member for Calgary-North Hill for his persistent work with respect to these kinds of diseases and adding them to the list of diseases that are presumed to be occupational. He's been very good on this issue. I think, you know, he belongs to a party that's otherwise a little bit wacky sometimes, Mr. Chairman, but in this particular case I think the hon. Member for Calgary-North Hill has done a good service, and I'd like to extend my congratulations to him for that. The firefighters do a lot to protect people's lives, and they put their own lives at risk in order to do that. I think that this is the very least that we can do in return.

I would urge all members of the House to support speedy passage of this legislation. Thank you.

The Chair: The hon. Member for Calgary-Egmont.

Mr. Herard: Thank you, Mr. Chairman. I certainly don't want to delay any speedy passage of the bill. I just want to make a couple comments. I was reading through Hansard and the comments made by the hon. Member for Edmonton-Strathcona. I have a great deal of respect for that individual, and I think that he was giving us the best of his knowledge on how he thought the system was working. I wanted to perhaps share the best of my knowledge with respect to the fact that maybe he was referring to the system that used to be, not the system that is today.

One of the things that I want to make sure is clear is that if, in fact, an injury is aggravated, part of his concern was, you know, the word "final," if the medical panel's decision is final. I think he knows and he should know that any time there's new medical evidence, it becomes a new case. The injured worker is not precluded from seeking further support and benefits if there's new medical evidence that develops. So if an injury becomes worse over time, just because they had to go to a medical panel to make the first determination doesn't mean that he can't submit the new evidence, and it becomes a new case. I just wanted to clarify that because that's really the practice today.

The second thing was the statement made in Hansard at page 1814, which says that "the panel is created by allowing the employer, the board, and the worker to each name one doctor" and "the panelists are named from a list of doctors deemed eligible by the board itself." My understanding of the process now is that the College of Physicians and Surgeons and the AMA provide the medical panel commissioner with lists of doctors and their qualifications. The commissioner chooses doctors based on who is most qualified to deal with the injury that is currently going to be reviewed. So this business of, you know, selecting this doctor or that doctor because this one represents workers or that one represents the board is no longer the practice. My understanding is that the WCB no longer has a list of doctors that they present to the commissioner. He operates from the College of Physicians and Surgeons and the AMA. I just wanted to share that with you because I know that you weren't trying to mislead anybody. You know, most of what you said is the way it was, but it's no longer that way.

Thank you.

The Chair: The hon. Member for Edmonton-Beverly-Clareview.

Mr. Martin: Thank you, Mr. Chairman. This is a very important piece of legislation that time is somewhat of the essence on because we never know how long this session is going to be. So we want to move it along. I'm a little disappointed. It's an excellent, excellent bill, and I give credit for a lot of hard work to the Member for Calgary-North Hill. He does know how to lobby; whether you want to talk to him or not, he's going to be there. So I give him credit for that.

Clearly, firefighters are in those special circumstances, as the member pointed out very correctly: stress situations with heavy equipment, smoke, all the things that can lead to a heart attack. I think that as the NDP government in Manitoba has done, we're bringing this bill forward. As my leader said, we're happy to support this particular bill.

I wish, though, that we had not stuck in the medical panels as part of this bill. I have an amendment I want to bring in. I know that the Member for Calgary-Egmont told me that you have to do it through the government caucus. Well, we didn't have that bill that long to get amendments to contemplate, but in that spirit – in that spirit – I'm presenting an amendment. I think we need some more thought on these medical panels. I expect that I won't get it here, but perhaps by bringing it up, we will review it.

I agree that there has been a move in the medical panels, that the changes have been in the right direction, Mr. Chairman. This idea that there's no more appeal, that it has to go to the medical panel: probably 99 per cent of the time that makes sense. Doctors should be making medical decisions, not lawyers. I think we can all agree with that. But there are cases where, I think, people should probably have an appeal to the court if there is a difference of opinion. We're under oath, and I think that changes that situation to some degree. I don't think that we need to bring this into this particular act. If the medical panels are working fine, people still should have that right to go to court if they don't agree with it. To say that this is the final arbitrator, that you can't go to court, I think is a bit of overkill.

Now, as I said, as a result of that, I bring this amendment forward – and I don't expect necessarily that people will want to debate it; they can – perhaps in the spirit that they may at least go back to the government caucus to think about this. I think there are some questions about degenerative medical conditions. I think that there is a difference when an appeal goes to court and you're under oath. There are lots of advantages to having that final step to go to court.

So I'm asking that if they can't support this amendment here, they at least go back to the government caucus and think about it. I'm asking, Mr. Chairman, to move that Bill 50, Workers' Compensation Amendment Act, 2005 (No. 2), be amended in section 3 by striking out clause (b). I think I've provided copies to go around.

Thank you, Mr. Chairman.

3:50

The Chair: We'll refer to this amendment that's being circulated as A2.

Do you wish to proceed?

Mr. Magnus: We don't have the amendment.

The Chair: Okay.

Would the hon. Member for Edmonton-Beverly-Clareview wish to speak on the amendment?

Mr. Martin: Well, I think I've made the case, Mr. Chairman. I'm just suggesting that that needs further thought, and this amendment would allow that to happen.

The Chair: The Member for Calgary-Egmont.

Mr. Herard: Thank you, Mr. Chairman. As I understand it, a dispute in the medical findings typically would likely result when new information becomes available. I mean, it's the case with MRIs or CAT scans and things like that. In all of those cases, the file is reopened. In other words, if the condition for which the decision was made changes – that decision is final and binding, but if it changes or if new information comes to light, it becomes a new case. So I don't think there's a need for doing this, for changing this at all.

Besides, in any administrative law tribunal if the concern is that there's no accountability, I think that we still see, with respect to even the Appeals Commission, cases that do go to the courts, and they go to the courts on grounds of law and regulation and things like that. So I think that the protection is still there.

You know, I can't see how any particular case could be concluded if, in fact, the findings of the medical panel were not final. It's just like the decision of the Appeals Commission is final. If you've got one that's final, you need the other to be final as well, with the proviso that if new information is brought forward, it can always be reopened.

Thank you.

The Chair: The hon. Member for Edmonton-Strathcona.

Dr. Pannu: Thank you, Mr. Chairman. I will be very brief. I'm speaking in support, of course, of the amendment. This provides me with an opportunity to address some of the remarks made by the Member for Calgary-Egmont with respect to what I've said on this bill in its second reading. The intent of my comments was precisely what this amendment focuses on. The amendment takes away from the injured worker the right to appeal, the opportunity to appeal. So the question of natural justice here is at issue.

The fact that there would be three members on the medical panel, one selected by each party to the issue, suggests that panels and medical experts can have differing opinions, and sometimes medical experts err in their opinions. So the point is that the very fact that we are constituting a panel of three experts, not one, allows for the possibility to think that the panel could make a decision that's not right, that's not based on satisfactory evidence. Otherwise, why not have just one member of the panel? If the expert opinion is so irrevocable and it can be always right, then have just one person.

The very fact that we are asking for three, and one of them is to be appointed by the injured worker, allows for making the assumption that panels could go wrong, could make erroneous judgments. It's only in that case that the right to appeal, I think, needs to be provided for in the amended legislation.

That was the whole point of my comments, not to cast any doubts on the importance and the expertise of medical professionals as such.

The Chair: The hon. Member for Calgary-Egmont.

Mr. Herard: Thank you very much, Mr. Chairman. I have absolutely no doubts that that is exactly what the intent of the hon. member is. I'm not sure if he was here when I was explaining that the process today involves total and complete agreement on medical facts. In other words, I can understand what you're saying, and I can understand that sometimes you can get involved in medical opinion where one doctor thinks this and another doctor thinks that and then two out of the three could possibly make a difference. But the process that we now have is that if you can't agree, if all three members can't agree, then don't come back with a decision until you do. So that's a whole lot different than what it used to be.

I would still make the same recommendation I made yesterday, and that is that I would really encourage all opposition caucuses to have Dr. Ohlhauser come in and give them a presentation on the extent to which he has gone to make this a fair process. Then I think you would have the same amount of confidence in the process that I do.

Thank you.

[Motion on amendment A2 lost]

[The clauses of Bill 50 agreed to]

[Title and preamble agreed to]

The Chair: Shall the bill be reported? Are you agreed?

Hon. Members: Agreed.

The Chair: Opposed? Carried.

Mr. Hancock: Mr. Chairman, I'd move that the committee rise and report Bill 50.

[Motion carried]

[The Deputy Speaker in the chair]

The Deputy Speaker: The hon. Member for Lac La Biche-St. Paul.

Mr. Danyluk: Thank you very much, Mr. Speaker. The Committee of the Whole has had under consideration a certain bill. The committee reports the following bill with some amendments: Bill 50. I wish to table copies of all amendments considered by the Committee of the Whole on this date for the official records of the Assembly.

Thank you.

The Deputy Speaker: Does the Assembly concur in the report?

Hon. Members: Concur.

The Deputy Speaker: Opposed? So ordered.

head: Government Bills and Orders
Third Reading

Bill 50
Workers' Compensation Amendment Act, 2005 (No. 2)

The Deputy Speaker: The hon. Member for Calgary-North Hill.

Mr. Magnus: Thank you, Mr. Speaker. It is certainly a pleasure for me to move third reading of Bill 50, the Workers' Compensation Amendment Act, 2005 (No. 2).

Mr. Speaker, I'd just like to say thank you to the Member for Calgary-Egmont, who's done yeoman service on the second part of this bill to do with the medical appeal panel. I'd also just mention that all sides of this House are somewhat guilty every once in a while of maligning, if you like, the WCB. I'd just like to point out that there are 1,600 working people in the WCB: 120 of them are from my fair city of Calgary, and the other 1,500 are from Edmonton, so there are approximately 80 WCB workers in each of the Edmonton ridings.

4:00

Normally speaking, in my experience dealing with the WCB – and I've had quite a few dealings with them, going back to the cancer bill in 2002 – these folks do yeoman service and do great work. When we've been going through these various bills, they've helped me to the nth degree on every single one of them, and I would have to say a very large thank you to a fellow named Jordan Cleland, who's their communications director, and a fellow named Guy Kerr, who is the CEO of the WCB, because they've gone to extraordinary lengths to make these bills happen and to provide a sense of fairness within the bills and within their rulings on these bills. They've made my life quite a bit easier, and I'd just like to say thank you to all of them and ask all members to approve this in third reading.

Thank you.

The Deputy Speaker: The hon. Member for Edmonton-Manning.

Mr. Backs: Thank you, Mr. Speaker. I'm very pleased to rise to speak in support of this bill. I've made clear, I think, in the debates on Bill 15, of which Bill 50 is almost an outgrowth, some of the challenges ahead for the WCB, and I will not be an apologist for them.

This bill is a very important bill. We've made our arguments, I think, in second reading and in committee. I would like to see further research come forward on volunteer firefighters. I would like to see further moves in the future brought out for other emergency personnel that were covered and defeated by the government side. The bill is in essence a good bill. I support it, and I ask the Assembly to support it as well.

The Deputy Speaker: The hon. Member for Edmonton-Beverly-Clareview.

Mr. Martin: Yes, Mr. Speaker. Very briefly. We've made it clear that this is an important bill. We certainly support it. I would just say to the hon. member that criticism of the WCB has to do more with the culture, not the people that work there. I think we have to keep that in consideration. When you criticize an organization, it's not the individuals that work there; it's the culture or the policy disagreements that you may have with them. I think that's an important distinction.

Mr. Speaker, I'd like to move this bill along. It's a good bill. Good work by the Member for Calgary-North Hill. I think we can move on.

The Deputy Speaker: The hon. Member for Edmonton-McClung.

Mr. Elsalhy: Thank you, Mr. Speaker. I, too, rise in support of this bill, the Workers' Compensation Amendment Act, 2005 (No. 2), on third reading. One of the things I learned in my first year as an MLA is that it doesn't matter what the size of the amendment is or what the size of the document is to be important or to be deemed necessary. We've had bills or amendments that are tens of pages thick and have no value, and then this one here is only four pages thick and has tremendous value. So this is a lesson that I learned, and I wanted to put it on the record.

My understanding, in reading all the sayings by the various hon. members and doing my own little research, is that presumptive coverage is not new in this province and certainly came into play in 2003, when seven different cancers were added to the definition for firefighters and then, I think shortly after, two more followed for a total of nine.

Firefighters are honourable and respectable people, and looking after them is only the right thing to do. We're talking about a heart attack. We're talking about the risks that are inherent in a certain job or the stresses that a firefighter is facing. In doing so, I don't think that we should have limited ourselves to the 24-hour interval as stipulated in this amendment. However, I'm still in agreement with the essence and the idea of the bill. The hon. Member for Edmonton-Manning wanted to extend it to maybe 48 or 72 hours, and he mentioned that in his debate.

I wanted to mention something to the hon. members that maybe they didn't include in their research, something that is called transient ischemic attacks, or TIAs. TIAs are every bit as dangerous, and they can sometimes lead to a full-blown incident of a cardiovascular event later on, maybe not within the first 24 hours after they respond to an emergency call. It could take longer. Transient ischemic attacks are usually harder to detect, and they're usually very insidious. The damage they exert, however, is every bit as real.

Maybe that's why the hon. Member for Edmonton-Manning was hoping to extend that interval of presumptive coverage to something that is more reasonable, along the lines of 72 hours or possibly even a week. I can go as far as advocating for a week of presumptive coverage. Cardiac events are serious, and the detrimental effects that follow are in most cases irreparable. Firefighters are facing a real threat.

I, too, Mr. Speaker, participated in the firefighters' drill at the Poundmaker facility in the west end and experienced first-hand the speed at which they have to react to situations, the heavy load that they carry on their arms and their backs. I even took part in the live burn exercise, and I found that to be an eye-opener. I also clearly remember a wonderful visit that I had with the local firefighters in Edmonton-McClung during my campaign when I visited the local fire station and asked them what was on their minds, and here we are today talking about one of those issues.

I am really glad to have participated in accepting and supporting this important amendment. Firefighters are wonderful people, as I mentioned. They are professional, they're disciplined, and they're caring, and they deserve our support fully. [interjection] Thank you.

I also know that because this is third reading, we shouldn't really pick the nitty-gritty of the line by line in that bill. However, I just have to say that although I agree with the direction of 46.1, taking the reporting duties from the Workers' Compensation Board and giving them to the minister, I have similar concerns to what the hon. members from our caucus and the ND caucus have voiced with regard to the medical panel. Again, they mentioned the culture and the protocols in place. So maybe this should be an area of improvement in the future, perhaps, from the government caucus or maybe an amendment from our side.

However, I also have to put on record my strong opposition to the proposed section 46.1(6), making the medical panel findings final. I think this goes against fairness, and it goes against democracy, even, because you have to have an appeal mechanism. So, again, maybe this is something in the future, in keeping with the spirit, the government side can look at restoring: some sort of appeal procedure or appeal provision so people can have some recourse if they disagree with the findings of that medical panel.

In general, again, I will re-emphasize my support and the support of my colleagues. This is a good day. Thank you, sir.

The Deputy Speaker: The hon. Member for Calgary-North Hill to close debate.

Mr. Magnus: Thank you, Mr. Speaker. To close debate I'd just like to thank all the members of the House for their support on this very important bill and just remind them that, I guess in my opinion, this is the right thing to do.

Thank you.

[Motion carried; Bill 50 read a third time]

4:10

Bill 48

Justice of the Peace Amendment Act, 2005

The Deputy Speaker: The hon. Government House Leader.

Mr. Hancock: Thank you, Mr. Speaker. On behalf of the Minister of Justice and Attorney General I'm pleased to move Bill 48, Justice of the Peace Amendment Act, 2005, for third reading.

I won't go into detail with respect to the provisions of the act; it was outlined both in second and in committee. If anyone has any need to refer themselves to the rationale for the act, they can look at page 1822, where the Attorney General outlined it very succinctly on November 22, I believe, Tuesday evening. So a quick reference back to that will put the rationale for the act on the table. I don't think that it bears repeating it into the record, and I would move third reading.

The Deputy Speaker: The hon. Member for Edmonton-Glenora.

Dr. B. Miller: Thank you, Mr. Speaker. We don't have any problems with the Justice of the Peace Amendment Act, 2005, Bill 48. I think it gives more power to the minister to raise the standards for justices of the peace and to have more control over their appointments. It's a very important function, and the act that has the authority over justices of the peace outlines all the different ways in which justices of the peace serve the province. I think this act expedites and speeds up the process, and I have no objections to this at all.

Thank you, Mr. Speaker.

The Deputy Speaker: The hon. Member for Edmonton-Strathcona.

Dr. Pannu: Thank you, Mr. Speaker. I rise to speak in support of Bill 48, Justice of the Peace Amendment Act, 2005. I think the bill does provide the clarifications that were needed. It standardizes the whole issue of qualifications and the appointment process. Certainly, justices of the peace increasingly serve important functions, so it is critical that we have in place clear qualification requirements, appointment procedures, and a requirement that people should expect to be appointed on the basis of merit and not just because they have qualifications. Lots of people have qualifications, but certainly in the selection process the merit criteria must kick in. That's what the bill does in addition to clarifying some of the other issues. So on behalf of the NDP opposition caucus I'm happy to extend our support to this bill in its third reading.

Thank you.

The Deputy Speaker: Does the hon. Government House Leader on behalf of the hon. Minister of Justice wish to close?

[Motion carried; Bill 48 read a third time]

head: Government Bills and Orders
Committee of the Whole

[Mr. Marz in the chair]

The Chair: I call the committee to order.

Bill 49

Police Amendment Act, 2005 (No. 2)

The Chair: Are there any comments, questions, or amendments to be offered with respect to this bill? The hon. Member for Calgary-Hays.

Mr. Johnston: Thank you, Mr. Chairman. I am pleased to rise this evening on behalf of the hon. Solicitor General and Minister of Public Security to address a couple of concerns raised by the hon. members across the floor during second reading of Bill 49, the Police Amendment Act, 2005 (No. 2).

The hon. Member for Edmonton-Glenora raised concerns with the amendments that allowed the Law Enforcement Review Board to dismiss complaints that are frivolous and vexatious. The LERB, Law Enforcement Review Board, deals with disciplinary issues and is not a court of law. Allowing the board discretion on whether or not to hear a complaint will ensure that the process moves along smoothly and in a timely, consistent matter. It is important to point out that the Law Enforcement Review Board has a stellar record for allowing great latitude to complaints in the appeal process. However, the Law Enforcement Review Board should be allowed to use their discretion when they feel the system is being used inappropriately.

The amendments would also allow the board to order costs against those who file frivolous complaints. This will alleviate the backlog of appeals before the board and reduce the potential for a backlog occurring in the future. Specifically, in section 20 of the act we are striking out "that a party" and substituting "that a party or counsel to a party" could be awarded costs. This amendment ensures that legal counsel for all parties are doing their due diligence in representing their clients and are not taking advantage of the hearing process. We want to ensure that the process is fair and that the rights of both members of the public and the rights of police officers remain intact.

A second concern was raised by the hon. Member for Edmonton-Calder regarding amendments to section 5. This section speaks to the creation of panels and the chair's role in appointing members to deal with procedural matters. Allowing the board to establish panels is another way to ensure that complaints are heard more quickly. This will allow cases to be heard in different parts of the province at the same time, thereby speeding up the process. Allowing the chair to appoint members to deal with procedural matters such as setting dates and times for gathering simplifies the process even more.

Mr. Chairman, these amendments will streamline and enhance the LERB, the Law Enforcement Review Board's effectiveness in the police disciplinary process. This is a positive step for all parties. I would like to thank all hon. members for their support and questions related to this bill. I believe I have responded to all the questions raised.

I would again urge all members of the Assembly to give Bill 49 their support.

The Chair: The hon. Member for Edmonton-Glenora.

Dr. B. Miller: Thank you, Mr. Chairman. Just a few comments about this bill. I respect the hon. member's mentioning the point about vexatious and frivolous matters that are brought before the Law Enforcement Review Board and the change to make sure that lawyers who impede the process are not being vexatious and so on in order to get at the backlog of work that the Law Enforcement Review Board has to deal with. I hope that that's on the right track because it gives a lot of power to the board to make that decision. I know that a lot of lawyers have concerns about various matters especially in relation to citizens and the police. There are a lot of issues that come before the Law Enforcement Review Board. I hope that this is going to be a good process with this change. I'm not going to amend it to bring about any further changes.

Now, an issue around the rules of evidence. I guess I do support this because, as I mentioned in second reading, other boards have specific references to the fact that they don't follow the rules of evidence; they follow the rules of natural justice, and I suppose that that would speed up the process. But I think that sometimes these rules of evidence are there to safeguard people who are involved in bringing complaints before these boards, and I would hope that these safeguards are not removed. I guess that a person could still appeal if the person did not think that they were being heard properly by this board. They could still appeal on the basis of natural justice.

To my understanding natural justice just means that a person has a right to be heard, and that's what these boards are all about. They are there to hear complaints from citizens or from police officers and the response. The right to be heard is an important rule of natural justice, so I assume that that's what's being upheld here.

The second rule of natural justice is that the tribunal that is making a judgment is to be not biased but to be impartial. So I presume that a complainant, somebody who brought a complaint and didn't feel satisfied, could appeal on the basis that perhaps the board was biased and could make that argument. So I guess natural justice would prevail here without having to have some sort of statement about the rules of justice. So I'm not going to bring any amendment to change that. I think that's acceptable.

4:20

In general, this Police Amendment Act I think strengthens the role of the Solicitor General. I appreciate that in the sense that it talks about standards for police services, then it adds police commissions and policing committees. I think that's important. I was quite impressed by the Auditor General of Canada's report on the RCMP. In respect to standards the Auditor General of Canada thinks that the RCMP actually is responsible for determining a minimum standard of policing in detachments throughout Canada but fails to do that. So it's important when the Solicitor General enters into contracts with the RCMP to make sure that minimum standards are set by our police services. It's in the interest of law and order. It's in the interest of safety and security of peace officers and safety and security of people in the community.

I find it deplorable that one of our major police services in Canada does not set minimum standards, so I'm happy that it's clear in the act that it's the Solicitor General's responsibility to establish standards for police services in this province, which includes all municipal police services and, of course, the RCMP and police commissions. That's the addition here, which I thoroughly support because, as we've been following the sad saga of the Edmonton City Police Commission with all the problems around the appointment of a police chief and other issues concerning the Overtime scandal and so on, it's really important that the members of police commissions get the proper training and can really represent the people between the powers of the municipal council, city council, and the police.

So, Mr. Chairman, I have nothing else to say about this. I'm not bringing any amendments. This can go forward out of committee.

Thank you very much.

The Chair: The hon. Member for Calgary-Hays.

Mr. Johnston: Thank you, Mr. Chair. Just my clarification: when I say across the floor, I don't mean across the floor to here.

Dr. B. Miller: We're on the same side.

Mr. Johnston: Yes. Members to my left, the opposition. Thank you.

The Chair: The hon. Member for Edmonton-Ellerslie.

Mr. Agnihotri: Thank you, Mr. Chairman. It's my great honour to rise and speak in support of Bill 49, the Police Amendment Act, 2005 (No. 2). Bill 49 is a complement to Bill 36 from the spring session, the Police Amendment Act, 2005, and introduces additional changes to the Police Act. The amendments will clarify the role and powers of the Law Enforcement Review Board in assessing costs, paying expenses, and clarifying the LERB authority and responsibilities. It will clarify the minister's responsibility for policing standards and clarify that policing includes the police commissions and committees, not just police services.

The purpose of this bill is to provide some additional amendments to the Police Act which were not included in Bill 36, the Police Amendment Act, 2005. These amendments include changes to the functionality of the Law Enforcement Review Board, LERB, as well as instituting provincial standards for policing to extend to police commissions and committees. I wonder why we didn't make amendments in the last spring session, but this amendment, it seems to me, is worthwhile to add.

The Law Enforcement Review Board is an independent judicial body established under the Police Act. The main purpose of this board is to hear complaints from citizens who have already lodged a complaint about the conduct of a police officer and are not satisfied with the result of that complaint. As well, the police officers who have been the subject of discipline rising out of a complaint and who feel that the decision was unfair with the decision of the chief of police may also appeal to the LERB. The LERB provides a forum for both citizens and police officers, including special constables, separate and removed from the police service involved. The main objective of this process is an independent and impartial review.

Membership in this board is comprised of a minimum of three members from the public. Current membership is two lawyers, a former MLA, a former member of the police commission, a former councillor, and a former president of the AUMA.

Mr. Chairman, I support this bill because the amendments as proposed in this bill are all generally acceptable and, in fact, are crucial to updating the current Police Act, that has not been updated for 17 years. The recent problems seen with the Edmonton City Police Commission serve as an example of why there is a need for boards such as this to have the proper training so that they can carry out their duties effectively and without controversy.

This is a good amendment. The police commission has a very important role in ensuring that police services are free from undue political influence. The police commission provides the balance against undue political influence from the elected officials. It is of utmost importance that commissions be independent from direct influence from the municipal councils but at the same time maintain an open and transparent relationship with the council.

To ensure that committee members are aware of their roles and responsibilities, it is crucial that they receive the training necessary to understand their role fully and completely before committing to their duties. Establishing standards that must be followed is a very effective way to do this.

Given the importance of independence from undue political influence, it is critical that the province be responsible for standards but that their involvement in the municipal commissions ends there. There must be no move towards placing a provincial representative onto police commissions and committees. This would be the definition of political influence. Municipal police commissions and committees must be bound by a clear understanding of their roles and responsibilities, but they must not be subject to provincial meddling in the internal affairs of their police services. This would clearly undermine municipal autonomy. The role of the province and the minister must be only in establishing provincial standards for commissions and committees.

Mr. Chairman, these amendments to the Police Act, Bill 49, are timely and needed for the Police Act, that did not receive any changes for 17 years. These amendments by the Solicitor General are much better than the amendments made in the spring through Bill 36, which utterly failed to provide the open and transparent public oversight of police services that the public was demanding.

However, these amendments are a step in the right direction, especially the establishment of provincial standards for police commissions and committees. It is imperative that the establishment of provincial standards for policing includes an examination of police policies relating to police pursuits, to the use of force, and to cultural diversity training for all police officers to better serve the public. These standards must be made in consultation with the municipal police services and with the RCMP to ensure that police services can better serve the public and to enable them to fight and win the war on crime in Alberta.

Thank you very much.

4:30

The Chair: The hon. Member for Edmonton-Strathcona.

Dr. Pannu: Thank you, Mr. Chairman. I'm pleased to rise and make some observations on Bill 49, Police Amendment Act, 2005 (No. 2) in my capacity as critic for the Solicitor General and Minister of Public Security for my caucus.

Before I make some specific comments on the bill, let me iterate very clearly, Mr. Chairman, how important I think the services are that the men and women who serve in the police forces provide to our communities to make them safe, to make them free of threat to other persons or property. I want to be on record as expressing my appreciation for the value of the hard work that the women and men who serve in our police forces provide us. They certainly risk their lives to protect our lives. Anything that I say about the bill should not be construed as casting any negative sort of observations on the members of the police service as such.

The bill is certainly a step, I think, in the right direction. It does address some of the concerns that were expressed in this House in the spring when we engaged in debate on Bill 36. I'm pleased to say that some of the criticisms that were made then were I think received well by the government side. Some of those concerns are being embodied in these amendments.

My colleague from Edmonton-Calder, I think, in his intervention during second reading drew attention to some of our general concerns about the specifics of the bill, so I won't repeat those concerns. I have some questions. For example, I'm looking at an amendment in section 20 which repeals clause (f) in the existing legislation and substitutes the following: "the Board may accept any evidence that the Board considers to be relevant to the determination of the issues and is not bound by the rules of law respecting evidence applicable to judicial proceedings." It's a change which on the surface, I think, looks good. It gives the board the additional power to accept information that is relevant to the determination of issues at stake.

On the other hand, the rules of law respecting evidence applicable to judicial proceedings include rules which require evidence to be adduced, I guess, under oath and the cross-examination that can follow from evidence that's adduced under oath. I wonder: those particular procedures or practices which are relevant to and applicable in judicial proceedings, what is the status of those kinds of rules when it comes to the ability of the board to accept information or evidence? I thought they were good rules. They allow for getting at the root of the issues and the evidence that's required. I wonder if the change that's being made here from the existing law is in the best interests of all parties involved.

The Law Enforcement Review Board does of course deal with highly contentious matters. It is of the utmost importance that the trust of the public in our police forces is maintained, is in fact strengthened. That's the only way that police services can provide the kind of service that communities require and work in co-operation with local communities in providing that service. That mutual trust and respect for the conduct of police officers is of the utmost importance. That helps the police to do their work. It certainly helps the communities to feel safe and also concur with the police when police take certain actions which may be questioned by some.

Any changes that we make should be made not only to streamline the Law Enforcement Review Board activities but also to ensure that they result in strengthening our trust in the police forces, ensuring that the conduct of the police is transparent, that if it comes under question, thorough investigations are done and the complainants receive full satisfaction for the complaints that they make. That's the only way that we can make the work of the police forces more effective and more valuable to our communities.

I'm raising these as questions. In my view, the goal of these amendments should be and perhaps is to improve the ability of the Law Enforcement Review Board not only to provide judgments and decisions in a timely and efficient fashion but also to do it in a way which strengthens and contributes to our trust in our police forces and the valuable work that they do. So that's one question that came to my mind as I was looking at the provisions of the bill before us, Bill 49.

4:40

One other question that arose was whether or not Bill 49 and the amendments that it makes to the Police Act do in fact provide a comprehensive enough review of the existing legislation. During the debate on Bill 36 in the spring I think lots of issues were raised about what needs to be done in order to change the existing legislation to improve the work that police forces do and make that work more transparent and above board. Police misconduct activities have come to the attention of Albertans over the last several years, particularly last year, and there was a concern, I think, around this House and outside whether or not we can trust the activities that sometimes some members of the police forces engage in. They are questionable. One of those incidents is certainly still out there under investigation, and perhaps judgment will be made sooner or later.

The broader concern that I have about this is that the amendments being proposed here are good insofar as they move us forward, but they may be limited in scope in addressing all the issues and the concerns that I have expressed with respect to the efficacy of the existing statutory piece of legislation dealing with the Police Amendment Act.

I don't have any amendments to propose. I just wanted to put some of these general concerns on record and otherwise indicate the support of our caucus for the amendments, limited though they may be in scope as they stand as part of this bill.

Thank you, Mr. Chairman.

[The clauses of Bill 49 agreed to]

[Title and preamble agreed to]

The Chair: Shall the bill be reported? Are you agreed?

Hon. Members: Agreed.

The Chair: Opposed? Carried.

Bill 46 Criminal Notoriety Act

The Chair: Are there any comments, questions, or amendments to be offered with respect to this bill? The hon. Member for Edmonton-Glenora.

Dr. B. Miller: Thank you, Mr. Chairman. Bill 46, the Criminal Notoriety Act, has sort of had an evolution across the country. Ontario has developed a version of this bill and then Manitoba. Interestingly, Manitoba added a section on criminal memorabilia, which is in this bill, and that's really important to add. I'm sure that other provinces will follow suit and have a similar bill.

I'm not going to look at it specifically in terms of the various clauses because it's a bill that's very similar to others adopted throughout Canada. I guess that's why it's as long as it is: it's covering all kinds of eventualities. It's basically the same as the Manitoba legislation, drawn up for Alberta.

In general, the problem I have with it is that it deals with not very many specifics. I don't think many specific cases will ever come up about this. I mean, how many books will be written by criminals who have committed serious crimes? How many books and television programs will they produce or develop in Alberta? Have we ever had any cases like this? It's interesting that one of the most notorious cases, namely Clifford Olson, happened in B.C. and B.C. doesn't have this kind of legislation.

My preference would be that Alberta Justice would bring bills having to do with the prevention of crime rather than dealing with this kind of example of trying to make it impossible for a criminal to take advantage of his crime by producing a book or a television program or whatever. I mean, we need to be in the business of preventing crime, not simply adding more and more sanctions to the punishment of criminals, which I think is what this does. It just adds another sanction on top of the sentence that has already been meted out to a criminal.

Certainly, it's difficult to actually oppose something like this because I think there's zero tolerance in the public for the idea that a criminal should profit from his or her crime. So this is something that I don't think I would oppose in principle, and I already said that in second reading. I think that there still could be a Charter challenge along the way.

Now, I personally reviewed some of the history of the son of Sam law in the States, which I think was developed in 1977 in New York state, but almost all states in the U.S. have similar legislation to prevent criminals from profiting from their crime. The son of Sam legislation was challenged constitutionally on the basis of the First Amendment. I mentioned this in second reading, and I think that still could be possible. If somebody who actually finishes their sentence, has completed what they owe in terms of debt to society by serving their term, gets out and decides to write a book about their experience, both the crime and their experience in prison, that person I think could challenge the prohibition of being able to write such a book on the basis of the Charter, the freedom of speech and the freedom of expression. It would be interesting to see if such a challenge took place.

Of course, if it was something that was educationally important for society, that person could apply under this act for a contract to recount the crime, and there are many stipulations about that, so it still may be possible for a former convict to write a book about his experience if it has some sort of educational benefit for society. Under this act section 2(3) does allow for contracts that recount crimes if they support various crime prevention programs or victims' programs by a law enforcement agency, et cetera, an agency like the John Howard Society and so on, where it's really important to have people who have served time get out into communities and warn youth about the disadvantages and the terrible experiences that they go through as a result of a life of crime.

I also like in this bill the fact that if people are fined for being in contravention of this bill, the fines would be for the benefit of the victims and their families. I think that's really good.

Well, I think that's all I have to say about this bill. Thank you, Mr. Chairman.

The Chair: The hon. Member for Edmonton-Ellerslie.

4:50

Mr. Agnihotri: Thank you, Mr. Chairman. It's my great honour to rise again and speak in support of Bill 46, the Criminal Notoriety Act. The purpose of this bill is to prevent criminals from benefiting financially from their crimes. In this sense that's the reason I'm supporting this bill.

Caution is suggested primarily because of potential Charter issues. Specifically, will this bill violate the following sections of the Canadian Charter of Rights and Freedoms?

2(b) freedom of thought, belief, opinion and expression, including freedom of the press and other media of communication . . .

15(1) Every individual is equal before and under the law and has the right to the equal protection and equal benefit of the law without discrimination and, in particular, without discrimination based on race, national or ethnic origin, colour, religion, sex, age or mental or physical disability.

Another area of concern is the potential implication of this bill. Will this bill have an effect on novelists or writers who want to write a true crime story or a biographical account of a criminal's life? This is an area that requires clarification.

Another point of concern. What is the rationale for this bill? Why does this government feel that it is necessary? This government may be pushing this bill in order to appear tough on crime. Although this is a positive step in protecting victims of crime, it does not act as a deterrent to committing crimes. If the government truly wants to be tougher on crime, it should focus its attention on more urgent and practical measures: increasing the number of police officers, better funding for law enforcement, social programs, targeting young offenders, et cetera. These measures would have a stronger, more immediate impact.

I support the underlying principle of this bill, and I believe that it is a positive measure. We believe that the government should focus its attention more on combating crime on the front line. I believe that it's a positive measure. The details of the bill need to be clarified to ensure that it achieves its purpose without having a negative impact on other individuals such as novelists. We do have some concerns regarding its relation to and potential violation of the Canadian Charter of Rights and Freedoms, as I mentioned, in section 2(b) and section 15(1).

Alberta would be the third province in Canada to implement legislation of this type. Both Manitoba and Ontario currently have similar legislation in place. When the legislation was passed in Manitoba, questions regarding its infringement on individual rights and freedoms were raised.

Those are a few questionable concerns, but still at this moment I would commend the sponsor of this bill for the good work. Thank you very much.

The Chair: The hon. Member for Edmonton-McClung.

Mr. Elsalhy: Thank you, Mr. Chairman. I, too, am very pleased to rise and participate in the debate on Bill 46, the Criminal Notoriety Act. I agree that the intent of the bill is to tell the whole world, tell all the people that crime doesn't pay.

An Hon. Member: It does sometimes.

Mr. Elsalhy: It does sometimes, but we're trying to tell people that they shouldn't accept that. Nobody should elicit any profit or any benefit from a criminal act.

One of the questions that I had to struggle with is basically balancing the rights of the victim with those of the criminal. I know that my statement can get me in all sorts of trouble by saying that the rights of the victim should really outweigh those of the perpetrator, or the criminal. The criminal has already given away some of his rights by committing a criminal act or an atrocity.

Now, some of the questions that I have are really about thinking of the difference in our use that this bill might apply to, all the different parameters and factors and things that maybe we cannot forecast ahead of time. So one of the people that I would like to think about is a person who committed a crime but then repented or was totally and fully rehabilitated. Another example would be a person who walks or is acquitted based on technical reasons during a trial, and the name O.J. Simpson comes to mind here.

Number three is a question about novelists or writers who want to write a true crime story or a biography about the life of a criminal. Would this piece of legislation apply to them as well?

My fourth example would be about the victim himself or herself. Can we stop the victim from recounting the crime that they had to live through? Will these restrictions extend to them as well?

An Hon. Member: If they're still alive.

Mr. Elsalhy: If they're still alive, absolutely.

Also, what about book, movie, or television series deals that are entered into in other jurisdictions, whether in Canada or outside? Would this law apply to those agreements or those contracts that might have originated outside this province?

Also, I know that this concern was voiced by my hon. colleague from Edmonton-Glenora and my hon. colleague from Edmonton-Ellerslie, but really why does this government feel that it's necessary? Do we have cases waiting to be pursued, or do we have examples that maybe we're not aware of? Why are they pushing this bill? It's a question on my mind. I don't know if they're really trying to appear tough on crime, as was mentioned before.

It is a positive step in protecting the rights of the victims of crime, but it doesn't really deter or stop crime. It is not an obstacle. People who are having thoughts about committing crime or who are contemplating committing a crime or people who have ill intentions for other people or for society at large will not be stopped because we're telling them that you can't write a book after or you can't be given money for a movie that talks about your crime. I don't think people commit crimes based on a further-down-the-road plan that they would market the story or recount in press or cinematic production or however. I don't think people plan their crimes according to a marketing scheme that they're thinking about after.

As discussed by my hon. colleague from Edmonton-Glenora, this act is likely not going to survive legal and constitutional challenges. Maybe it's just a statement we're giving. Maybe it's an overarching argument that crime doesn't pay, and we want to put it on paper. Whether, in fact, it survives a constitutional or legal challenge in a court of law remains to be seen.

Finally – and I know that everybody is trying to be brief here – will there be a provision to include an appeals mechanism to minimize the need for the people whom this act covers to take their appeals to court? So can we have an appeals mechanism? You know, not every piece of legislation, not every law applies to all the subjects that are covered under this law equally and with the same effect and the same force. So maybe we should have an appeals mechanism for people who think that they are entitled to write a story. Maybe they want to write a story to educate the citizens about not falling prey to a criminal, or maybe they want to write a story to make us aware of a certain scheme that's happening. It could be identity theft, or it could be fraud or credit card scams. A person might have repented and want to educate other citizens about how they did it and how to avoid it, how not to fall prey. So maybe there should be an appeals mechanism to allow these people to say: "Look, I'm trying to do something good here. I'm not trying to exploit a situation. Let me write a book. Let me put it on TV or on radio so other people can learn from other people's mistakes and move forward."

I think this is a fair recommendation, and I hope that the government side will take it under consideration. Thank you, Mr. Chairman.

5:00

The Chair: The hon. Government House Leader.

Mr. Hancock: Thank you, Mr. Chairman. There have been a number of issues raised, and I thought it appropriate to address some of them. There's some speculation about who this might apply to. The act is very clear that it applies to convicted criminals who have been convicted of what's defined as a serious crime. There's a definition in here for that purpose. So it's clearly a defined group of people.

It's clearly intended to take away the proceeds – in other words, profiting – from a crime. It doesn't limit the person's freedom of speech. They can write an educational piece of work if they wish.

They can't profit from it. It doesn't suggest that you can't talk about your crime or why you committed it or that you repented from it or that you want to help educate other people to not go into a life of crime. It clearly allows us to take away the ability for somebody to profit from a crime. That's the nature of it.

There's been some speculation that this might be something which offends the Charter. We should I think be very clear about the Charter and how we approach the Charter and those sorts of things. There obviously are some things which are clearly offensive to the Charter, and as legislators we ought not to enact things which are clearly offensive to the Charter.

The Supreme Court of Canada has indicated in rulings that the art of legislating is an iterative process. It's a discussion between the courts and the legislators. This, I think, would lead us to correctly suggest that we ought not to shy away from making good law in areas where we believe it to be appropriate because somebody says that it might offend a particular area. I mean, clearly this is not an area where we're talking about an egregious breach of a person's rights. We're talking about something where some people may raise an argument that may bring the Charter into the discussion. That's clearly something that needs to be defined by the courts. So we shouldn't shy away from that. If we think it's the right thing to do, we ought to do it. If somebody wants to challenge it and if they're successful, then we can learn from that. If we learn from that, we can come back and say: well, is there a way of doing it right, or is it something that has been very clearly indicated to be wrong?

So the question about whether we shouldn't bring in this particular piece of legislation because there may be a possibility that somebody might raise a Charter argument and even perhaps be successful I think is not a good reason not to act. We have mechanisms in place to deal with the fringes, with where the boundaries are, and we ought to know and understand that that's a perfectly appropriate process to bring into place.

What we have before the House is a bill which has some clear intent. It's not taking away from any of the other good activities that the Department of Justice or the Department of the Solicitor General might be doing with respect to crime fighting. It doesn't detract from the resources being applied in those areas. It doesn't take away any of the energy. But it's a clear statement of public policy that people who commit serious and egregious crimes ought not to profit from them.

So we have a mechanism in place where if they attempt to profit from them, we can take that profit away. We can make it an offence to profit from the serious crime as defined in the bill. A narrow area, an important statement of public policy. Let's not be scared of the Charter. Let's not be scared of what might be. Let's welcome the courts' interpretation of it, if they want to in the future, because we're making a very important statement: that there are some nefarious crimes that go on, that books come out about them. If it's a book being written by the person who perpetrated the crime, that's a bad thing from a public policy perspective, ought not to be allowed, and that's what we're trying to stop.

The Chair: The hon. Member for Edmonton-Meadowlark.

Mr. Tougas: Thank you, Mr. Chairman. I appreciate the hon. minister's articulate defence of his bill. It doesn't change my opinion, though, that essentially this is a waste of public time, to be honest with you.

You know, I read a lot of books, and I have yet to encounter a book written about an Alberta criminal by an Alberta criminal. I thought that maybe I might have just missed something, so I thought: okay, I'll check the Edmonton public library database.

They have exactly one book about true crimes of Alberta, not written by the criminal.

To be honest, this appears to me to be a law that's a cure for which there is no known disease. We've taken a step here to prevent something that has never happened and is not going to happen. You've got to think about that one. It's a play on words: a cure for which there is no known disease. You're shaking your head. It's a tough one. You've got to think about it.

I'm just baffled why this government in this ridiculously short fall session has chosen to eat up valuable time with a bill that will in all likelihood never be applied in the province of Alberta and have no impact whatsoever. [interjection] I'm speaking out because you guys put a bill here, so I figure I might as well talk about it for a little bit.

Mr. Dunford: Well, then, don't complain about the time.

Mr. Tougas: Well, I'll tell you that we could be talking about fixed election dates. We could be talking about lobbyist registry. We could be talking about any number of laws that would be beneficial to all of Alberta, but instead we're talking about this showboat piece of legislation. Then, of course, we have the association of former MLAs to deal with too. Boy, that's a hefty agenda we've got going here. I'll tell you: this government has apparently completely run out of ideas, Mr. Chairman. I won't waste any more time talking about it, but if you're going to bring us in here, at least give us something to chew on, a little bit of meat.

Thank you very much.

Dr. Pannu: We have some minutes left, Mr. Chairman, so I may as well take advantage of the clock.

A very interesting discussion. As the member of my caucus who's responsible for dealing with this bill, I listened with a great deal of attention to the arguments made here. You know, to say that a person responsible for a serious crime should not benefit from it is a no-brainer. I mean, there's no disagreement on it. There's absolutely no disagreement on it.

The Member for Edmonton-Meadowlark, of course, raised an interesting question: what is the problem? I mean, we obviously deal with issues and create legislation and make laws that deal with problems. We solve them. Does it have a preventive effect? Will it reduce crime? I suppose not. It doesn't have an intention. It's not intended to prevent crime. It's only intended to prevent people from profiting from crime once they've committed it.

So the question does arise: how big is the problem they're dealing with? You know, there are horrible crimes committed in this country by the likes of Clifford Olson and the couple in Ontario. We know that. They're disgusting in the extreme. They're terrible crimes, and surely no one would want to see any of those characters writing a long story after they're out of jail and making millions on it. Agreed. But these are so few exceptions. We have to ask ourselves: what is the problem they're trying to address here? Something that might happen in the future, or what?

I share that concern. I ask that question: what is it that we are trying to address? What is the problem that we are trying to address? Albertans have a right to ask us: "What are you doing here in the Legislature? What problems are you trying to solve?" What problems are you trying to address? Or are you simply trying to just play some sort of games or promote some fears which may or may not be justified? So it does raise a question on the appropriate use of our time here given the nature of the problem, if there's a problem.

5:10

The other question that I have. I was looking through this and found what kind of offences might be covered that this bill is written about. I wonder if any property crimes or any crimes of business fraud and others are also covered under it or not. These are crimes against other persons: murders, rapes, you name it. Surely, the abhorrence of those crimes is there for all of us to acknowledge. But I wonder: what crimes? Property crimes or crimes that are related to business activity? For we all know, because we have become familiar with large-scale criminal acts committed by responsible persons – you know, on boards of directors or CEOs and others – that in recent years they've come to light. What happens to those people once they have served time and come out and want to write? They may have in fact accumulated a huge amount of capital, not all of which may be lost in the process of the trial and conviction and sentencing. They have already profited from it. Does this bill address those issues too? What's the scope of the kind of crimes that this covers? That's yet another question that I have here.

Now, I don't know whether the Criminal Code of Canada covers fraud committed by the likes of Lay and others who are serving time now across the border. There may be people that we know in this country who may be in that situation pretty soon. I'm not sure whether those crimes are covered by the Criminal Code of Canada because that's, I think, the sort of umbrella under which we are considering the crimes committed for which the convicts or ex-convicts should not profit by writing books.

So I have some of these questions. Maybe the Minister of Advanced Education or someone else in this House would like to enlighten me on what crimes are not included here which may be very serious and from which people may benefit both when they have been sentenced and after they come out and write about it.

Thank you, Mr. Chairman.

Mr. Agnihotri: Can I add something? Suppose somebody says that he cheated the Alberta government for all his life and wanted to write a book on that?

Mr. Dunford: Boy, we'd nail him, I'll tell you.

[The clauses of Bill 46 agreed to]

[Title and preamble agreed to]

The Chair: Shall the bill be reported? Are you agreed?

Hon. Members: Agreed.

The Chair: Opposed? Carried.

Bill 47

Alberta Association of Former MLAs Act

The Chair: The hon. Member for Wetaskiwin-Camrose.

Mr. Johnson: Thank you, Mr. Chairman. It's a pleasure to rise today to begin debate on Bill 47 in committee. In second reading we had a very interesting debate, and some good points were raised. Again, I want to thank the Speaker for his encouragement and support of moving this bill forward so that the work of all former members of the Legislature will be recognized at the 100th anniversary of the first sitting of the Legislature in March of 2006. Passing a bill to create a former members' association is one way of including all former members in our centennial celebration.

Mr. Chairman, to begin, I would like to state that the wording of this act has been based on the acts used in other jurisdictions including British Columbia, Ontario, the act which governs the Canadian Association of Former Parliamentarians, and to a limited extent Quebec. These pieces of legislation were chosen as road maps because their associations have been successful in achieving the objects of their associations. I believe it is important to see to the core of what this association will be doing and what it is intended to do. It's difficult to see or predict what projects and activities that an organization like this might undertake in time.

The very first object of the association is laid out in section 3(1)(a) which states that the object of the association is "to put the knowledge and experience of its members at the service of parliamentary democracy in Alberta and elsewhere." This organization is about serving the interests of parliamentary democracy, not about partisan politics, not about lobbying government, and not about being a second Chamber, as was mentioned previously. It is about utilizing the knowledge which MLAs have gained during their time in this Chamber to support our style of democracy.

The second objective of the proposed association is "to serve the public interest by providing non-partisan support for the parliamentary system of government." Mr. Chairman, in no way is this organization designed to support government or opposition or third party members. It is designed to serve the public by supporting parliamentary democracy. As was mentioned by previous speakers, this may take many forms, but the one that is most visible is speaking with students and providing for scholarships, as is the case with the federal association and with the Ontario association.

This bill sets up a nonpartisan association and has no role to play relative to the work of sitting MLAs. Members of this association have no authority to speak on behalf of the government or of this Legislature.

Mr. Chairman, earlier in the debate surrounding Bill 47 it was cited that the United States Association of Former Members of Congress had spoken to 150,000 students on 207 campuses across the United States of America. This is a great accomplishment, and while the Alberta association may never reach that level, it may make an impact on our learning centres.

Mr. Chairman, the final point which I would like to raise concerns itself in section 3(2), which states that "the Association must not pursue its objects for any partisan political purpose."

In conclusion, I would like to just mention four points. First of all, this bill, encouraged and supported by the Speaker, leading to a former members' association, is an appropriate initiative marking the 100th anniversary of the first sitting of the Legislature. Secondly, it is an initiative to take advantage of the knowledge and experience of former members to promote and make strong our parliamentary system of democracy. Third, it provides expression by this Legislature that former MLAs over the past 100 years are a valuable resource in promoting our system of government. Finally, the bill provides a mechanism by which former MLAs in Alberta will have communication and an opportunity to liaise with other provincial former members' associations and the former members of the federal Parliament.

Thank you, Mr. Chairman. I look forward to any comments.

The Chair: The hon. Member for Edmonton-McClung.

Mr. Elsalhy: Thank you, Mr. Chairman. In the interests of time and because I have two amendments and the hon. Member for Calgary-Mountain View has two amendments and the hon. Member for Lethbridge-East has one, I would move that we adjourn debate so we can have more time next week.

[Motion to adjourn debate lost]

The Chair: The hon. Member for Edmonton-McClung.

Mr. Elsalhy: Thank you, Mr. Chairman. What the hon. members across don't understand is that, basically, we would still go ahead with the amendments, but we just wanted to save the circulation until next week.

This amendment is sponsored by myself, and it moves that "all former MLAs are eligible to become members of the Association in accordance with any bylaws of the Association not less than one year after they cease to be MLAs." So I would bring it to your attention.

5:20

The Chair: We'll refer to this amendment as amendment A1.
The hon. Government House Leader.

Mr. Hancock: Mr. Chairman, we'd hoped to use fully the time of the House in the interest of getting debates going forward and appreciate the hon. member having tabled his motion, but in order to report progress today, we do need to rise and report before 5:30. So I would move that the committee now rise and report bills 49 and 46.

[Motion carried]

[The Deputy Speaker in the chair]

Dr. Brown: Mr. Speaker, the Committee of the Whole has had under consideration certain bills. The committee reports the following bills: Bill 49, Bill 46. The committee reports progress on the following bill: Bill 47. I wish to table copies of all amendments considered by the Committee of the Whole on this date for the official records of the Assembly.

The Deputy Speaker: Does the Assembly concur in the report?

Hon. Members: Concur.

The Deputy Speaker: Opposed? So ordered.
The hon. Government House Leader.

Mr. Hancock: Thank you, Mr. Speaker. In light of the hour I'd move that we adjourn until 1:30 p.m. on Monday, November 28.

[Motion carried; at 5:24 p.m. the Assembly adjourned to Monday at 1:30 p.m.]

Legislative Assembly of Alberta

Title: Monday, November 28, 2005

1:30 p.m.

Date: 05/11/28

[The Speaker in the chair]

head:

Prayers

The Speaker: Good afternoon and welcome.

Let us pray. Give to each member of this Legislature a strong and abiding sense of the great responsibility laid upon them. Give us all a deep and thorough understanding of the needs of the people we serve. Amen.

Hon. members, Mr. Paul Lorieau is with us today in the Speaker's gallery. He'll lead us in the singing of our national anthem. I'd invite all members and individuals in the gallery to join in the singing in the language of your choice.

Hon. Members:

O Canada, our home and native land!
True patriot love in all thy sons command.
With glowing hearts we see thee rise,
The True North strong and free!
From far and wide, O Canada,
We stand on guard for thee.
God keep our land glorious and free!
O Canada, we stand on guard for thee.
O Canada, we stand on guard for thee.

The Speaker: Please be seated.

head:

Introduction of Visitors

The Speaker: The hon. Minister of Education.

Mr. Zwozdesky: Thank you very much, Mr. Speaker. It is indeed my great pleasure today to rise to introduce to you and through you to all members of the House three very special guests, who are seated in your gallery. I see that they've risen. On my far right is Mr. Bart West, honorary colonel of the 408 Tactical Helicopter Squadron and co-chair of the Edmonton Salutes Committee and an ATCO volunteer supreme. Next to him there are Lieutenant Colonel Paul Keddy, commanding officer of the 408 Tactical Helicopter Squadron, who took over the command on June 30 of this year, and Squadron Chief Warrant Officer Brian Maudsley.

Mr. Speaker, Lieutenant Colonel Keddy held a senior position as the Canadian commander with NORAD for the four years after the 9/11 tragedy in the United States, for which he received the United States President's meritorious service medal. Beginning in 1974, Chief Warrant Officer Maudsley has had a long and distinguished career in the Canadian armed forces and has been involved overseas in operations in Cyprus and Egypt.

Mr. Speaker, this is truly a unique unit which is reflected through the members in the gallery in that they are the only air force unit in Canada that works on an army brigade base, our base here at the Edmonton Garrison. Approximately 100 helicopter tactical unit members will be leaving Edmonton for Afghanistan in February 2006 on peace support operations. I know that we wish them all well, and I would ask that we now thank them and warmly welcome them with our usual traditional applause. [applause]

head:

Introduction of Guests

The Speaker: The hon. Minister of Advanced Education.

Mr. Hancock: Thank you, Mr. Speaker. It's my pleasure to introduce to you and through you to members of the Assembly 42 enthusiastic grade 6 students along with their teachers, Natalie Gago-Estevés and Laurie Moreau, and parent helper Sabine Sintenis. The students are from Brander Gardens elementary school in my constituency of Edmonton-Whitemud. They're here today to observe and learn with keen interest about government, although I can tell you that from the questioning I had shortly after pictures were taken today, many members of the House could go to school with them. I had questions about health care, about waiting lists, about the prosperity bonus, about gas prices, about numerous other very relevant issues. Earlier today they participated in decorating a tree in the pedway and took a tour of the legislative buildings. They're seated in the members' gallery. I'd ask that they now stand and receive the traditional warm welcome of the Assembly.

Mr. Shariff: Mr. Speaker, I have great pleasure in introducing to you and through you to members of the Assembly four individuals formerly from Africa who are present here in the members' gallery today, three of whom have made Edmonton their home and one of whom is visiting from England. Originally from Kampala, Uganda, and presently living in England is Aruna Kara; originally from Kampala, Uganda, is Bena Pattni; from Tanga, Tanzania, is Arvind Pattni; and from Dar es Salaam, Tanzania, is Mr. Naren Mehta. I see that they are now standing. Would all members please accord them the warm hospitality of the House.

The Speaker: The hon. Member for Edmonton-Gold Bar.

Mr. MacDonald: Thank you, Mr. Speaker. I have two separate groups to introduce to you and through you to all hon. Members of the Legislative Assembly this afternoon. The first group is a group from Suzuki charter school in the constituency of Edmonton-Gold Bar. The group numbers 24 individuals. They are led by Mr. Ian Gray and Mrs. Roberta Stewart. They are accompanied by parents Mrs. Embree and Mrs. Hardy. It is always a pleasure to have Mr. Gray's class from Suzuki school join us here in the Legislative Assembly. Certainly, it is interesting to visit his class as the students are always polite and respectful, and they are very current on issues that happen in this Assembly. They are in the public gallery. I would ask them to please rise and receive the traditional warm welcome of this Assembly.

The second group that I would like to introduce to you and through you to all hon. members of this Assembly is from Forest Heights elementary school. This is a grade 6 class. There are 32 students, two teachers, and two parents here today. The teachers are Ms Amanda Burnett and Mrs. Judy Wiest. The parent helpers this afternoon are Mr. Keith McKinnon and Mr. Mohammed Kabir. Mr. Kabir and his two daughters, Hasina and Sulima, as well as two other students, Anosha and Tahmina, are new immigrants to Canada, originally from Afghanistan. They are also in the public gallery. I would now ask this group to please rise and receive the traditional warm welcome of the Assembly.

Thank you.

The Speaker: The hon. Member for Edmonton-Meadowlark.

Mr. Tougas: Thank you, Mr. Speaker. It's my pleasure to introduce to you and through you to all members of this Assembly a group of 32 bright-eyed students from Afton school of the arts, which is one of my favourite schools in Edmonton-Meadowlark. They are accompanied by their teacher, Mrs. Wendy Reddekopp, and parent helpers Mrs. Lisa Adam, Mrs. Darlene Schmidt, Ms Teresa Hyatt, and Mr. Brad Larsen. I'd ask that they please stand and accept the traditional warm greeting of this Assembly.

The Speaker: The hon. Member for Edmonton-Beverly-Clareview.

Mr. Martin: Thank you, Mr. Speaker. I am delighted today to introduce to you and through you to this Assembly Tracy Minnifée. Tracy is a second-year social work student at Grant MacEwan College. She's the proud single mother of her talented seven-year-old daughter, Akesha. Akesha is a rising swimming star in Alberta, who hopes to compete in the 2016 Olympic Games. We have been privileged and honoured to have had Tracy work in my constituency office since June. I now ask that Tracy rise and receive the traditional warm welcome of this Assembly.

1:40

The Speaker: The hon. Member for Edmonton-Calder.

Mr. Eggen: Thank you, Mr. Speaker. I'm very pleased to introduce to you and through you to all members of the Assembly someone very special to me: my mother, Marion Eggen. Marion worked for 27 years at the Royal Alexandra hospital here in Edmonton. She is a tireless volunteer and community activist. She is seated in the public gallery. I would like everyone to please give her the traditional warm welcome.

head: Ministerial Statements

The Speaker: The hon. the Premier.

Edmonton Eskimos

Mr. Klein: Thank you, Mr. Speaker. It is with great pleasure that I stand today to recognize a group of outstanding individuals who have made all Albertans proud in this our centennial year. I'm speaking, of course, about the Edmonton Eskimos. [applause] They have brought the Grey Cup home after the most exciting Grey Cup championship in years. The Eskimos' 38 to 35 victory over the Montreal Alouettes in overtime had fans across the country, including me, on the edge of our seats until the very end – I was, really – and it was a very exciting finish. In fact, I understand that it was the first time in over 40 years that the Grey Cup was decided in overtime.

It was a fitting end to a fantastic season for the Eskimos and their fans throughout Alberta and across the country, including the Minister of Finance. In a province where we are blessed – and indeed we are – to have two outstanding CFL teams, we always come together at Grey Cup time to wave the Alberta banner high and loudly cheer our team on to victory. As Premier of this great province I am proud to say that I cheered as loudly as anyone in Vancouver yesterday. I might add: maybe not louder than Lynn Hall in my office. I could hear her all the way to Vancouver. But I was cheering pretty loudly, Mr. Speaker. I'm sure that Edmonton's mayor, Stephen Mandel, is just as thrilled to know that his Montreal counterpart will wear the Eskimos' uniform today as a symbol of Edmonton's football supremacy.

Congratulations to coach Danny Maciocia – I had the opportunity of meeting him, and he makes me feel old – also to quarterback and most valuable player, Ricky Ray; our outstanding Canadian, Mike Mauer; all the Eskimo players; Hugh Campbell; Rick LeLacheur; and all those in the Eskimo organization.

I know that the team just arrived home a short time ago to a championship welcome at the airport, and I encourage all Edmonton

Eskimo fans to cheer on the team at their official championship celebration in downtown Edmonton tomorrow.

So congratulations to the Edmonton Eskimos on winning the 93rd Grey Cup championship and showing all of Canada why Edmonton is called the city of champions.

The Speaker: The hon. Leader of the Official Opposition.

Dr. Taft: Thank you, Mr. Speaker. I appreciated the comments from the Premier. Like most Albertans yesterday, I'm sure, I sat with family and friends to watch our Eskimos battle it out for the 93rd annual Grey Cup in Vancouver. The Eskimos were in fine form as they claimed their second Grey Cup title in three years with the overtime win, and I think it's their 13th Grey Cup title in total. I'm sure that everyone here will agree that this was probably the hardest fought Grey Cup victory in history. It was only the second time in the CFL's 93 years that the Grey Cup was awarded in overtime. The last time was in 1961, when Winnipeg defeated the Tiger-Cats from Hamilton.

The Eskimos are great representatives of Edmonton. They remind all Canadians where the City of Champions is, and they work tirelessly in our city with community groups. It's clear that they're committed to serving Edmonton, whether it's raising money for local food banks, participating in Read In week programs in schools, or visiting kids in the hospital. For that we should all be very, very proud.

A big thank you to rookie coach, Danny Maciocia, for a job well done as well as to the Grey Cup MVP, Ricky Ray, for his outstanding performance. I have to mention Jason Maas, who conducted himself with incredible class through the whole season. As well, there was the outstanding Canadian, a good prairie boy, Mike Mauer, and let's not forget the record set by Tony Tompkins for his longest punt return in Grey Cup history.

Vancouver should be commended for its efforts in hosting the event for the sold-out crowd of 60,000 fans. I'm sure that there were many Edmontonians in the audience. Unfortunately, I wasn't among them, but we were all cheering on the Green and Gold.

The Grey Cup is one of the greatest Canadian traditions, one that brings everyone together to celebrate our very best in football. I'd like to congratulate and all MLAs I'm sure would like to congratulate the entire Edmonton Eskimos team, coaches, staff, and families for bringing the Grey Cup back to where it belongs, right here in Edmonton.

Thank you.

The Speaker: I suspect the hon. Member for Edmonton-Beverly-Clareview would like to seek unanimous consent of the Assembly to allow his leader to participate, and I suspect that that would be given.

[Unanimous consent granted]

The Speaker: The hon. leader of the third party.

Mr. Mason: Thank you very much, Mr. Speaker. I appreciate that, to all members of the House. On behalf of the NDP opposition I want to add my congratulations to the 2005 Grey Cup winners, the Edmonton Eskimos. When it comes to excellence in professional sports, it's hard to beat the record of excellence of the Edmonton Eskimos CFL franchise. The Eskimos haven't missed the playoffs in well over 30 years, Mr. Speaker. During that time the Eskimos have won 10 Grey Cups, including a record five in a row, and now two Grey Cups in the last three years.

We all know that the CFL game is the most exciting brand of football in North America, Mr. Speaker, and yesterday's Grey Cup ranked right up there as one of the most exciting cups ever. It really did have all of us on the edge of our seats. I'm sure I'm not the only one to have provided my television set with a great deal of coaching advice during the game.

I also want to give recognition to the Montreal Alouettes and congratulate them on being such worthy opponents, thereby making the Eskimos' victory all that much sweeter.

So congratulations to President Hugh Campbell, Head Coach Danny Maciocia, MVP Ricky Ray, and all of the Eskimo players and coaches. You should feel justifiably proud of your accomplishments in going from a third-place finish to sipping champagne from the Grey Cup.

Thank you, Mr. Speaker.

The Speaker: The hon. Member for Cardston-Taber-Warner would like to seek unanimous consent of the Assembly to participate as well.

[Unanimous consent granted]

The Speaker: Proceed.

Mr. Hinman: Thank you, Mr. Speaker. It truly is a great privilege to stand. I was born here in Edmonton. I've been an Eskimo fan all my life. [interjections] Good roots.

It was a true privilege to watch yesterday as they put on a superb team effort under the leadership of Ricky Ray and as they forged ahead many times, not showing any discouragement, knowing that they were true champions.

It's a pleasure to be from Alberta, to be able to stand proud and to say that we put in our 100 per cent effort here. It's my hope that we'll follow the leadership of the championships of the sports teams in this province and continue to forge on and to be a leading province in not only Canada but the world in all the things that we do and the efforts that we make.

Thank you, and congratulations once again to the Eskimos for their superb effort.

The Speaker: Well, thank you all very much. In that spirit of harmony I truly am going to look forward to question period.

I would also like to acknowledge the hon. Member for Edmonton-Manning, who did carry through in the direction given to him by the chair the other day to provide all members with an Edmonton Eskimos T-shirt. That's the source.

head: 1:50

Oral Question Period

The Speaker: First Official Opposition main question. The hon. Leader of the Official Opposition.

Securities Commission

Dr. Taft: Thank you, Mr. Speaker. In response to my questions in previous weeks and months regarding enforcement problems at the Alberta Securities Commission, the Minister of Finance has made repeated requests for specific concerns. My question is to the Minister of Finance. Given that Lancer funds purchased 49 per cent of Zi Corporation's equity without the ASC ringing any alarms about insiders, why should investors be confident in the ASC enforcement processes?

Mrs. McClellan: Mr. Speaker, to put it simply, the Auditor General has reviewed the work at the Alberta Securities Commission. He had full access to all files, and while he did raise concerns about proper documentation, he did not find evidence that any of those files should be reopened.

I have complete confidence in the Auditor General's review of the Alberta Securities Commission. I have complete confidence that the Alberta Securities Commission has stated very clearly in their management response to his report that they will follow up on all of the Auditor General's recommendations immediately, with the exception of one in which they requested a bit more time to review policies across Canada before coming back with a final plan.

The Speaker: The hon. leader.

Dr. Taft: Thank you, Mr. Speaker. To the same minister: given that a Zi Corporation shareholder complained to the ASC, seeking action against Zi's violation, why was the ASC in a letter to the shareholder, which I will table, so content to quickly close its file on Zi without a thorough investigation?

Mrs. McClellan: Again, Mr. Speaker, I'm sure that the hon. member knows very clearly that the Minister of Finance, to whom the Alberta Securities Commission reports, does not involve herself in the day-to-day operations of the Alberta Securities Commission and their handling of files. However, it is my responsibility to ensure that those files are handled appropriately. The Auditor General has made recommendations that will improve the documentation supporting their decisions. The Alberta Securities Commission has agreed that that should happen, and in fact that is in process now.

The Speaker: The hon. leader.

Dr. Taft: Thank you, Mr. Speaker. The minister wanted specifics, so to the same minister: given that 11 and a half per cent of Zi Corporation's shares were sold with neither the buyer nor the seller filing anything with the ASC, which is a breach of Canadian securities law, why should investors be confident in the ASC's enforcement procedures?

Mrs. McClellan: Again, Mr. Speaker, the Auditor General has reviewed all of the Alberta Securities Commission's enforcement procedures. They have made recommendations. The Auditor General has made very specific recommendations on how to ensure that proper documentation follows every file. The Alberta Securities Commission has responded in their management response saying clearly that they will put those processes in place, that the Auditor General again will follow up as part of any special audit, meeting with the Alberta Securities Commission at an appropriate time to ensure that that is happening. Surely, the hon. member opposite does not believe that this Legislature is going to take on the job of investigating files.

The Speaker: Second Official Opposition main question. The hon. Leader of the Official Opposition.

Dr. Taft: Thank you, Mr. Speaker. In response to my questions last week concerning possible political interference in the Alberta Securities Commission, the minister made it clear that she had never interfered in the commission. She was equally clear that she could not speak for anyone else, for other ministers. My questions are to the Minister of Finance. In the days that have passed since my question, has the minister shown the initiative to ask other current and former members of cabinet if they have ever intervened in the operations of the Alberta Securities Commission?

Mrs. McClellan: Mr. Speaker, if I could go back to Hansard of Thursday, I answered this question by telling the hon. member that I could tell him “unequivocally that I have never called to influence any case.” I don’t think it would be appropriate for me to comment on other members, some of which I may not even know, depending on how far back you want to go. However, I did say that rather than casting aspersions on members of this House, past or present, if the hon. member had any – any – real, factual information on this rather than suggestions and innuendo, then he should bring them forward. I stand by that statement.

The Speaker: The hon. leader.

Dr. Taft: Thank you, Mr. Speaker. Again to the Minister of Finance. Since she is the minister responsible for the Alberta Securities Commission, can the minister now assure the Assembly that no other cabinet ministers in this government, current or previous, have interfered in the operations of the Alberta Securities Commission? Can she give us that assurance?

Mrs. McClellan: Mr. Speaker, again – again – as I said last week, I find this line of questioning quite distasteful because day after day, week after week this hon. member has cast suspicion, hints of doubt, maybes, unnamed sources, and when sources are named, unknown persons who might have done these things.

If you have any – any – factual information, you have a responsibility, I believe, hon. member, to bring it forward. I have no information that would suggest that.

The Speaker: The hon. leader.

Dr. Taft: Thank you, Mr. Speaker. My previous question had plenty of specific information, and she sloughed it off.

An Hon. Member: Where is it?

Dr. Taft: Read the Hansard. Read the Hansard.

To the same minister: can the minister assure the Assembly that no staff of cabinet ministers have interfered in the operations of the Securities Commission? Give us the assurance.

Mrs. McClellan: Mr. Speaker, I have stated very clearly in this House that I have not interfered. To the best of my knowledge my staff has not and would not interfere. I can think of no reason why they would.

Again, I find it very distasteful. I find it demeaning to this House that day after day after day there are allegations, suspicions, hints, and maybes that cast, I think, doubtful aspersions on members of this House, past and present.

On the issue of staff, again, Mr. Speaker, I have no reason to believe that any of my staff would have interfered.

The Speaker: Third official opposition main question. The hon. Member for Edmonton-Rutherford.

Teachers’ Unfunded Pension Liability

Mr. R. Miller: Thank you very much, Mr. Speaker. In 1992 Alberta teachers were stuck with a bad pension deal. While the Conservatives like to boast that the two-thirds/one-third deal is acceptable, frankly, it is not. The $6 billion unfunded liability is leaving an unreasonable share of the burden on the backs of our children’s teachers. My first question is for the Education minister. Given that the Education minister said in this House on November 17 that he cannot enter into discussions right now and that it’s not even on the government’s radar, what is it that’s preventing this government from opening new pension negotiations with Alberta’s teachers immediately? What are you waiting for?

Mr. Zwozdesky: Mr. Speaker, my comment was in reference to that specific moment during the debate. This has been an issue that we’ve talked about very openly, in fact, with teachers and with schools boards. We discussed it with some of the school boards just recently both at the ASBA conference and in some of the 62 school board meetings I had. The simple fact is that there was an agreement that was signed by the teachers through their ATA and by the government through the minister of the day and the Premier of the day to ensure that the unfunded pension liability would be addressed. The government assumed two-thirds of the responsibility; that’s $4 billion. Teachers agreed to look after the other one-third, or the $2 billion.

We’re working on trying to open up some of those chats again because we do recognize that there are impacts on this particular issue for the recruitment of new teachers and for sustaining the ones that we have. It’s a very serious issue, and it’s one that I have undertaken to comment on further in the new year. That’s what I plan to do.

2:00

The Speaker: The hon. member.

Mr. R. Miller: Thank you. My question is for the Minister of Finance. Why does this minister think that it’s such a good deal for Alberta taxpayers to pay more than $30 billion over the next 55 years instead of the $4 billion it’s owed today?

Mrs. McClellan: Well, Mr. Speaker, I don’t remember saying that. Again, I don’t remember saying that this is such a good deal. But what I do know is that two parties made an agreement some years ago and signed on to this agreement. I think the Minister of Education has very clearly laid out that this is not a subject that we are averse to speaking about. I think that each one of us in here, in this Assembly, that has ATA representatives has talked about this. I know that I do with mine and talk about possible solutions in the future. But please don’t attribute that I said that this was such a good deal. I don’t remember saying that.

The Speaker: The hon. member.

Mr. R. Miller: Thank you, Mr. Speaker. To the same minister: will the minister please tell the 30,000 Alberta teachers and their families as well as all of the outstanding students considering a career as a teacher why they should be paying the equivalent of a new car payment every month for the rest of their working lives for an unfunded liability that they did not create?

Mrs. McClellan: Well, Mr. Speaker, obviously, when this was discussed and an agreement put together some years ago, there were two parties that assumed responsibility for this. Two parties. So it will be the two parties, and it will be our Minister of Education that engages the other party in this discussion.

The Speaker: The hon. leader of the third party.

Securities Commission (continued)

Mr. Mason: Thank you very much, Mr. Speaker. Whitewash, snow job, smokescreen, ongoing cover-up are just a few of the words that spring to mind after reading the Alberta Securities Commission

November 23 chronology involving its director of enforcement's speculative trading activities. While the government continues to defend the ASC's handling of the matter, the assistant dean of U of T's Rotman School of Management is asking: "How can they let this guy keep his job? It doesn't make any sense at all." To the Minister of Finance: why is the director of enforcement not being required to step aside while his trading activities are independently investigated?

Mrs. McClellan: Mr. Speaker, there has been a review of that. It is outlined very clearly in the document that I provided to the House, a letter from the Alberta Securities Commission, from the chair. It does outline entirely how this trade occurred. I don't think I'll take the House's time to read this again. I don't see anything that would suggest that there's a cover-up. It's here in black and white, and it's quite lengthy.

So, Mr. Speaker, it has been investigated. It has been reviewed, and it states very clearly in the review that the ASC management had considered the matter thoroughly and had determined that although there was a breach of ASC policy, there was no use of confidential information, that there was no interference with the conduct of the ASC file, and there was no breach of ethical standards. The matter of the breach by the director of enforcement of the ASC's policy has been dealt with internally with the Alberta Securities Commission. No whitewash, no cover-up, but there it is: black and white.

Mr. Mason: Mr. Speaker, only this minister would go on the statement.

Why is the minister relying on the statement of the ASC chair in exonerating the director of enforcement when the ASC chair himself is implicated in breaching security regulations, thereby undermining the credibility of his claims?

Mrs. McClellan: Mr. Speaker, you know, to draw the two together is quite ridiculous. Actually, the occasion occurred before he was the chair if you want to split hairs.

However, if you go to the Auditor General's report, Mr. Speaker, he deals quite extensively with the trading activities by employees. He outlines very clearly the events and what happened with that trade, and he did recommend very clearly that there be processes put in place to ensure as much as possible that this could not happen again. The Alberta Securities Commission has agreed with that, has agreed to put those in place, has made some changes to date but has assured the minister and, I'm sure, the Auditor General that further changes will be in place by January 1 of 2006.

The Speaker: The hon. leader.

Mr. Mason: Thank you very much, Mr. Speaker. Well, given that the ASC chair provided no documentation or evidence whatsoever to back up his claim that there was no wrongdoing by the director of enforcement in this case, will the minister provide the House with a detailed independent investigation that will show one way or another whether or not these people are telling the truth?

Mrs. McClellan: Mr. Speaker, I do not think that the hon. member, if he thought this through, would expect me to table in the House details of trading information. I don't think that he would expect me to do that. That would be certainly breaching my responsibilities respecting the confidentiality of activities. I am convinced, I am satisfied that the proper information has been provided and that the follow-up of the Auditor General on this matter, who does have the responsibility of respecting the confidentiality of the information, will provide to him all of the information that the Auditor General requires to ensure that this matter has been dealt with appropriately.

The Speaker: The hon. Member for Cardston-Taber-Warner, followed by the hon. Member for Red Deer-North.

Clean Energy Incentives

Mr. Hinman: Thank you, Mr. Speaker. The warm feeling all Albertans felt yesterday with the Eskimos' victory will not keep us warm all winter long, and the $400 energy rebate will quickly be spent on winter heating bills. High energy prices are the result of monopolies and a shortage of energy. To the Premier: what is this government doing to increase the supply of clean electricity and truly drive prices down?

Mr. Klein: Well, Mr. Speaker, I would like to say that although the hon. member raises concerns about the rising cost of natural gas energy in particular, we're better off in this province than any other jurisdiction perhaps in North America, perhaps even around the world.

Mr. Martin: The universe.

Mr. Klein: Well, maybe the universe. Who knows? In the terrestrial world. I don't know if there's life beyond. Maybe the hon. member does.

Mr. Speaker, in addition to the rebate, the $400 to every man, woman, and child, of course we were in a position and we are in a position in this province to rebate natural gas prices to a maximum of $8.75 a gigajoule. That extends through last month I believe, October, November, right through to March, and in the case of some industries that consume more of their gas during the summertime, like irrigators and greenhouse operators, the rebate is extended during the summer months instead of the winter months. So it's very generous.

Mr. Hinman: I was worried time was going to run out.

Will this government take the lead to spur on private research and development that will truly benefit the world into coal gasification and CO₂ sequestration through aggressive tax incentives as it has for the development of the Alberta oil sands?

Mr. Klein: Mr. Speaker, we aren't using tax incentives right now, but we have established the Alberta ingenuity fund, which is under the Ministry of Innovation and Science. I don't know what that fund stands at right now, but it certainly is in excess of half a billion dollars, and individuals and companies can draw on that fund to initiate and proceed on defined research relative to coal-bed methane, coal gasification, clean-coal technologies, and perhaps there are others.

I'll have the hon. minister complement my question.

The Speaker: He may have an opportunity in the next question forthcoming from the hon. member.

Mr. Hinman: The question wasn't on government grants; it was on tax incentives.

Will this government allow Alberta's energy companies to forge ahead in the research and development for cleaner and environmentally economical energy sources like wind, solar, geothermal, and biomass reactors through aggressive tax incentives?

2:10

Mr. Klein: Mr. Speaker, outside of the oil sands royalty regime we are basically out of that business. Not only have we had pressure to apply tax incentives to research relative to coal and other energy sources such as wind and solar, but we've had requests from the movie industry and other industries to get back into the tax credit business. As the hon. member well knows, that would violate our laws. That would violate our laws. The Financial Administration Act simply says that we cannot get back into that business. Now, if the hon. member wants to bring forward an amendment to the Financial Administration Act next spring, he's entitled to do so, but he'll have to remember the words that were spoken by so many Albertans during the early '90s: for God's sake, get out of the business of picking winners and losers. If he wants us to get back into that business, then fine.

The Speaker: The hon. Member for Red Deer-North, followed by the hon. Member for Edmonton-Gold Bar.

Aboriginal Issues

Mrs. Jablonski: Thank you. Mr. Speaker, last weekend Canadian political and aboriginal leaders, including our Premier and the minister of aboriginal affairs, launched a $5.1 billion strategy to end aboriginal poverty at the first ministers' meeting in Kelowna. This is a very significant agreement, especially for the 94,000 status Indians and 66,000 Métis and Inuit, who make up 6 per cent of our population in Alberta. I understand that this agreement is directed at areas like education and health care to allow aboriginals to live healthier and happier lives. Could the minister of aboriginal affairs identify what decisions were made in the various sectors of housing, education, health, economic opportunities, and relationships and accountability?

The Speaker: Well, if the hon. Minister of Aboriginal Affairs and Northern Development can do that in 45 seconds, go for it.

Ms Calahasen: Well, this is a very important question. First of all, that was a really great meeting. It was a very productive meeting, and our Premier led us very well, and I want to say thank you for his statesmanship. We were able to come out . . . [interjections] Excuse me. You've got to listen to this. This is important to aboriginal people. Pardon me, Mr. Speaker.

First of all, Mr. Speaker, on the educational side there definitely were commitments made on dollars, and I want to identify these dollars because these are very, very important: first of all, on the education side, $1.8 billion; on housing and infrastructure, $1.6 billion; on relationships and accountability, $170 million; on economic opportunities, $200 million; on health, $1.3 billion. Of course, that all totals up to $5.1 billion. I would love to talk about the outcomes, but I'll leave that for the second question.

The Speaker: The hon. member.

Mrs. Jablonski: Thank you. How will the outcomes of the first ministers' meeting impact aboriginal people in Alberta?

Ms Calahasen: Well, let me get to the point. As the hon. member indicated, much of the funding will be directed through federal government programs for education, health, housing, and of course the other areas. We do look at education from K to 12, Mr. Speaker. That's to increase the number of aboriginal high school students. More funds will be available for innovative education and for off-reserve schools.

On the postsecondary side, Mr. Speaker, I'm just going to pick some areas that we've been working on: increased number of aboriginal postsecondary graduates, more funding for scholarships and apprenticeships; on the health side new targets to reduce rates of infant mortality, youth suicide, diabetes, and of course violence against women, to double the number of health professionals; on the housing side, of course, to reduce the housing shortages. There is a housing shortage on reserves here in the province of Alberta in the amount of 20,000 homes. So when we look at that, no one can get anything done or deal with the poverty issues if they don't have adequate homes.

The Speaker: The hon. member.

Mrs. Jablonski: Thank you, Mr. Speaker. Given that many people have suggested that the ownership of their own homes would improve the quality of life and reduce poverty for First Nations people, what has this government committed to to improve the quality of life among aboriginal people in Alberta?

Ms Calahasen: Mr. Speaker, of course, the housing was a huge issue, as I indicated. There were some 20,000 shortages of homes in the province of Alberta alone. What has happened in that respect is that the federal government is willing to look at options to deal with the shortage and to be able to close the gap. Their approach could result in improving, I would say, market-based approaches to home ownership on First Nations reserves. That's an important part because it'll depend on the First Nations to be able to do that. Funding is also required to ensure that we begin to look at other options to deliver their homes for the First Nations. Therefore, I was very pleased to see that the federal government was willing to look at other options than just the usual, that has been creating some problems on reserves.

The Speaker: The hon. Member for Edmonton-Gold Bar, followed by the hon. Member for Edmonton-Castle Downs.

Enron Activities in Alberta

Mr. MacDonald: Thank you, Mr. Speaker. Enron has always been a winner with this government. [interjections] In December of 2001 this government – and this is not a laughing matter – found it undesirable and unnecessary to release publicly the details of the cabinet decision to split the Sundance B power purchase arrangement owned by Enron. This sweetheart deal allowed Enron to quickly sell this generation capacity to AltaGas Services Inc. My first question is to the Minister of Energy. Why did the Progressive Conservative cabinet have the opinion that the publication of the deal be deemed undesirable and unnecessary to the public?

Mr. Melchin: Mr. Speaker, I guess what is known is that the policy that came forward at the time was to split that power purchase arrangement into two and that that would be in the best interests of Albertans so that they'd have a greater opportunity for more companies being involved in our marketplace.

Mr. MacDonald: Again to the same minister: why was this deal made with Enron here in Alberta when at the same time in America Enron was under investigation for fraud and electricity price fixing?

Mr. Melchin: Mr. Speaker, this was not a deal done with Enron and the government.

Mr. MacDonald: Yes, it was. They wanted you to do it.

The Speaker: The hon. minister has the floor.

Mr. Melchin: Mr. Speaker, it was an arrangement which they requested at that stage, wanting to sell their power purchase arrangement, which companies are allowed to do at any time. This is a marketplace that we've accepted. Those who have bought those arrangements are in the marketplace and allowed to resell them. That could happen any time. At this stage they just asked for the ability to split that power purchase arrangement into two smaller amounts, which we also concurred was a very good policy.

Mr. MacDonald: Again, Mr. Speaker, to the same minister: why did the Progressive Conservative government allow Enron's legal department to dictate the wording of the secret changes to the power purchase arrangements? Call it what you want: an arrangement or a contract. Why did you allow Enron to call the shots?

Mr. Melchin: Mr. Speaker, there's nothing secret about this at all. As I've just said, any company can submit ideas. The department is always acting independently on behalf of Albertans. The Energy and Utilities Board likewise will act independently on behalf of the benefits of Albertans. We will assess policy as cabinet as we deem in the best interests of Albertans. In this case that was done.

The Speaker: The hon. Member for Edmonton-Castle Downs, followed by the hon. Member for Calgary-Mountain View.

Lunchtime Supervision in Schools

Mr. Lukaszuk: Thank you, Mr. Speaker. My office is receiving an increasing number of calls from parents who are raising some opposition to the lunchtime supervision fees. To the Minister of Education: why are students or their parents required to pay to eat their own lunches at school?

Mr. Zwozdesky: Mr. Speaker, I would suspect that most students across the province aren't expected to pay a fee. If there are some schools where that type of policy is in place, then that's entirely a decision made by the local school board and by the school in particular. I would further suspect that if they are charging a fee for that lunchtime supervision, they're probably doing it on a straight cost-recovery basis with respect to perhaps labour costs, perhaps cleanup costs.

The Speaker: The hon. member.

Mr. Lukaszuk: Thank you, Mr. Speaker. Since some parents can't afford to pay what I understand is $20 per child per month, are there any options for those parents other than paying those fees?

2:20

Mr. Zwozdesky: Well, Mr. Speaker, there are probably some schools, particularly I would think within Edmonton public, whose policies I'm somewhat familiar with, where, in fact, supervision programs are undertaken by volunteers. Some of them are comprised of parents, others of volunteers who just come forward in the system. I think that's probably one option for them to pursue right there.

The Speaker: The hon. member.

Mr. Lukaszuk: Thank you, Mr. Speaker. Our parents are not only volunteers, but are teachers not involved in supervising our children in schools during lunchtime, which would then alleviate the fees?

Mr. Zwozdesky: Well, Mr. Speaker, I suspect that many teachers are involved in supervisory-type activities, be it at lunchtime or before school starts or after school, but I also think that there are probably in some cases restrictions within contracts, within negotiated settlements where if teachers are teaching only a specified number of minutes in a given week, then perhaps they're not able to supervise during lunchtime. It will vary from jurisdiction to jurisdiction and from school to school. I think the important point is that if any parent feels that they cannot afford fees where, in those few cases, fees are being charged for lunchtime supervision, they can always talk to the principal and have some of those fees waived. That pertains, for example, to people in hardship cases, perhaps, or people with special-needs children or where distance might be a factor and so on.

The Speaker: The hon. Member for Calgary-Mountain View, followed by the hon. Member for Calgary-Fort.

Minable Oil Sands Strategy

Dr. Swann: Thank you, Mr. Speaker. The Alberta government has sent a clear message to oil sands companies around the world that we are open for business in our boreal forest area under the minable oil sands strategy before we understand the environmental implications. I quote the University of Alberta's tailings research expert, Dr. Segeo. No one has come up with a technique to deal with the tailings pond, he said, including the toxic metals naphthalene and bitumen. To the Minister of Environment: how can the minister say that we understand the environmental consequences of tripling oil sands output in the next decade?

Mr. Boutilier: Mr. Speaker, through the chair, first of all I have never said that we understand the consequences of the important point that the hon. member has made. In fact, I think that in the proper context of what was described, we are open for business but not in any way, shape, or form at the compromise of environmental principles in this province.

The Speaker: The hon. member.

Dr. Swann: Thank you, Mr. Speaker. To the same minister: how can the minister be believed when he says, as he did last week in the House, that the industry has reduced greenhouse gases by 50 per cent when the target of this government is 50 per cent reduction by 2020?

Mr. Boutilier: Mr. Speaker, it's important to recognize this: over the past 25 years technology and renewable energies have played an important role in Alberta, and that's why Alberta, this province, is viewed by, actually, the federal government and other governments as a leader in dealing with the issue of reducing greenhouse gases. Let me say without any fear of contradiction that as we go forward, technology will continue to play a key role, and let me repeat for the members and the hon. member that in the past 25 years relative to the economic output per barrel of oil the actual greenhouse gas emissions per barrel have been reduced by 50 per cent.

The Speaker: The hon. member.

Dr. Swann: Thank you, Mr. Speaker. Will the Minister of Environment take a stand and slow the development of the oil sands in the interest of people and the environment, particularly the First Nations?

Mr. Boutilier: Mr. Speaker, absolutely yes. We have taken a stand in the past and we will in the future. I want to remind the hon. members that of the six principles of the minable oil sands strategy number 4 talks about this: "Within the coordinated development zone there will be progressive, timely and seamless reclamation to a self-sustaining boreal forest ecosystem." I think that principle in itself clearly indicates the importance of environmental principles as we go forward. Open for business for development, but at the same time mining will never, ever, ever overshadow the economic but, more importantly, the environmental principles of this government.

The Speaker: The hon. Member for Calgary-Fort, followed by the hon. Member for Edmonton-Calder.

School Infrastructure Needs in Calgary

Mr. Cao: Well, thank you, Mr. Speaker. Calgary's population is rapidly increasing on the order of 25,000 new residents every year, and so is residential community expansion, and so is our student population. Our school board is under tremendous pressure to accommodate all of these new needs for building new schools, for expanding existing schools, for modernizing aging schools. My question today is to the Minister of Education. Given such a desperate need for more school facilities, what are you going to do, and how will your plan to consolidate the infrastructure of schools within the Ministry of Education help the school boards?

Mr. Zwozdesky: Well, Mr. Speaker, I certainly agree: Calgary is one of the high-growth areas. We have started on helping to address some of the infrastructure needs there. In particular, the $10.9 million that went to the Calgary Catholic board for their new school in Tuscany will help, and so, too, will the $13 million or so to Calgary public for their new school in Shawnessy-Somerset help a lot.

I have met with the board on a few occasions. I am aware of some of their additional needs over and above that. I think it's important to just note that there are about $59 million worth of projects already under way involving seven different locations with the Calgary board of education right now, on the infrastructure piece, and there are about four new schools that are being added to the Calgary Catholic system that will be opened shortly, I hope, and they total about $33 million. The consolidation piece is really a recommendation coming out of the Commission on Learning, where they said: please bring all of the infrastructure piece under the guise of Alberta Education. So that's what we're moving toward doing right now.

The Speaker: The hon. member.

Mr. Cao: Thank you, Mr. Speaker. To the same minister: given that we have the Ministry of Infrastructure and Transportation, what are you going to do to clear up any confusion regarding which ministry is responsible for school construction planning and approval?

Mr. Zwozdesky: Well, Mr. Speaker, I would hope that there's minimal if not no confusion whatsoever because I've just finished meeting with all 62 school boards, and we talked specifically about this. In a nutshell, there are three pieces to the infrastructure component. One of them is IMR, or infrastructure maintenance renewal programs, formerly the old BQRP program for building quality restoration, the second one is plant operations and maintenance, and the third one is, of course, school construction projects. So I've cleared that up with them. The piece dealing with plant operations and maintenance has formally been transferred to Education, so we're dealing with that now. In fact, there was an augmentation of about 43 million additional dollars over and above the 300 and some million that's already there. The other two pieces will be flowing our way as soon as we can get there.

The Speaker: The hon. member.

Mr. Cao: Thank you, Mr. Speaker. To the same minister: given that construction of a school needs a long lead time in planning, architecture, financing, and so on, when will you provide the school boards with a long-term plan to address ongoing school infrastructure needs?

An Hon. Member: Good question.

Mr. Zwozdesky: Well, that is a very good question, Mr. Speaker, and I think most members here would know that we do provide significant dollars, in the hundreds of millions, to address infrastructure needs in a general sense.

I will acknowledge two things quickly. One is that the $207 million of unanticipated surplus monies that went into the system through an announcement I made in September will certainly help address many of those needs, but we do need stable, predictable funding to help deliver on the capital plans as submitted by the school boards, and we're working on that right now as we start preparing our budgets. Whether or not we will get the full amount of money in comparison with the other ministries such as health care and advanced ed and seniors and roads and transportation and so on remains to be seen. Suffice it to say, hon. member, that I do support the need for stable and predictable planning, and we'll do our best to respond as we can.

Greenhouse Gas Emissions

Mr. Eggen: Mr. Speaker, the majority of Albertans and Canadians support the Kyoto protocol, while Alberta's greenhouse gas emissions continue to increase dramatically. Alberta's policy purports to decrease emission intensity, but the actual result is an alarming increase to the absolute emissions that actually pass into the air. The Alberta plan is based on math only George Bush can love, and in fact the Globe and Mail reports today through the United Nations Secretariat that Canada's emissions across the country have gone up by 24 per cent over 1990 levels. My question is to the Minister of Environment. How can the minister go to Montreal insisting that the Alberta government's plan heads down the same path as the Kyoto protocol when the Alberta plan allows our total greenhouse gas emissions to increase up to 37 per cent higher than 1990 levels?

2:30

Mr. Boutilier: Well, I think the hon. member raises an important point, that being that any province in this country if they were blessed with the resource that we have would be taking the prudent, responsible environmental action that we take. I want to remind the hon. member that the resource that we develop in this province with important environmental principles is shared with people in Quebec and in Ontario and other parts because they drive cars and they want their homes fuelled. I want to remind other parts of the province and the hon. member that the resource we actually develop in this province, which, true, has been expanding, the oil sand development, we're providing to markets. So ultimately the consumption is because of the demand by other Canadians in other provinces. We are delivering on that demand, but we are doing it continually in an environmentally sustainable way.

Mr. Eggen: If we produce it, we should be responsible.

Given that the oil sands exploration is the single most greenhouse gas intensive form of oil extraction in the world, can the minister explain how tripling oil sands production without any real government commitment to investing in renewable energy can lead to an absolute reduction in greenhouse gas emissions?

Mr. Boutilier: Mr. Speaker, in our minable oil sands strategy the six principles are talking about the environmental principles of ensuring that any future development, along with past development, is done where reclamation is done properly, where people are consulted with. The Minister of Innovation and Science may want to complement on the example of the EnergyINet, which is making real results in protecting the environment as well.

Mr. Eggen: To the same minister: if the environment minister is serious about reducing greenhouse gas emissions, when will he commit in this House to firm dates and policies on the following: net metering, low-impact renewable energy, real . . .

The Speaker: Hon. member, sit down. We'll take one at a time. That's what question period is about.

Mr. Mason: Mr. Speaker, I have a point of order.

The Speaker: You sure as heck can have one.
The hon. Minister of Environment.

Mr. Boutilier: Yes. On the important point of the impact of what Alberta is doing, I spoke with my federal colleague the other day, the Minister of the Environment from the federal government. In a letter to me he makes reference to the fact of the EnergyINet, the first province in Canada with Climate Change Central, the first province with a law, the first province going out in a consultation to ensure that there is no duplication between provincial jurisdictions and federal jurisdictions in regulating final large emitters.

I believe that at the end of the day, Mr. Speaker, because in Fort McMurray, in the oil sands – not only am I Minister of Environment, but my family breathes that air and works that land and drinks that water. I can assure you and the hon. member and all members and all Albertans that we're going to make sure that environmental principles are protected and sustained for future generations because it's my family as well that's involved.

The Speaker: The hon. Member for Edmonton-Centre, followed by the hon. Member for Dunvegan-Central Peace.

Health Care Operating Costs

Ms Blakeman: Thank you, Mr. Speaker. Once again emergency rooms in Alberta are having to divert ambulances because the ERs don't have the beds to put people in. The backlog is created because there is no available space or staff to admit patients to the hospital, and in both Edmonton and Calgary orthopaedic surgeries have been cancelled because the hospitals lack staff and bed space. My questions are all to the Minister of Health and Wellness. How much longer will the minister let this go on? Two weeks? Two months? Indefinitely? How much longer?

Ms Evans: Mr. Speaker, all across Canada the problem of crowding in emergency rooms exists, and in actual fact it's a situation that both the health authorities and the municipalities are addressing. They're looking at ways and means and looking at ways of co-ordinating. One of the reasons why, I believe, over the past several months we've been looking at how we properly co-ordinate a ground ambulance delivery is that it was recognized that it was important for the regional health authority to have a role in that co-ordination with frequently provided municipal contract or managed services. There are peaks and valleys in various facilities where that occurs. We know it's a problem. We know that frequently there are long waits, but we do our best to prioritize the patients on entry and give those that are most in need of treatment that treatment as required.

The Speaker: The hon. member.

Ms Blakeman: Thank you. To the same minister: Albertans want to know why surgeries are being cancelled and ERs are diverting patients when the minister has $1.4 billion to fund bricks and mortar.

Ms Evans: Well, Mr. Speaker, the $1.4 billion that was assigned from unbudgeted surplus this year for future construction is a good-news story. This year several million, $146 million, are being spent on projects throughout Alberta to sustain the growth and development of those projects either at the design stage or in renovation. I think that any time you have, for example, a city, like Calgary, growing by about 25,000 people a year, it's very difficult to keep pace with all of the facilities as you would wish.

One of the most important things we did this year was expand our capacity on the wait-list so that people who aren't able to be served in one community can look at the wait-list and see what capacity exists in other regions or with other medical practitioners because we are linked with the College of Physicians and Surgeons to give that acknowledgement on the registry.

The Speaker: The hon. member.

Ms Blakeman: Thank you. Again to the same minister: when will the minister provide existing hospitals with the operating dollars necessary to provide safe and adequate care for their patients? When?

Ms Evans: Well, Mr. Speaker, in this past budget year the overall macrobudget of Health and Wellness was some 8.3 per cent increase. If you factor in operating expense, each regional authority received different amounts of money depending on the menu of services they provide as well as the province-wide services. To say that they haven't got the right amount of money depends on exactly what concern is being raised. For the most part you could look across Canada and find no better funding for health for people in any part of the community than you can in Alberta.

The Speaker: The hon. Member for Dunvegan-Central Peace, followed by the hon. Member for Edmonton-Glenora.

Labour Force Resources

Mr. Goudreau: Thank you, Mr. Speaker. My first question is to the Minister of Human Resources and Employment. Everyone knows that Alberta's economy is hot. Such a thriving economy means there aren't enough skilled workers for jobs that are available. No matter where one goes, employers are looking for help. My question to the minister is: what is the government doing to develop Alberta's labour force?

The Speaker: The hon. minister.

Mr. Cardinal: Thank you very much, Mr. Speaker. That's a very good question. Our government is developing a long-term labour force strategy to meet Alberta's current and future labour needs. The strategy will focus on a number of areas including informing people and organizations about Alberta's labour market opportunities and trends, attracting Albertans to the workforce and workers to Alberta, developing and increasing the skills and knowledge of current workers, and of course trying to retain current workers in the Alberta labour force.

The Speaker: The hon. member.

Mr. Goudreau: Thank you, Mr. Speaker. My second question is also to the same minister. Given that 32 of 53 occupational groups are reporting an unemployment rate of less than 3 per cent, a definite skill shortage, what is Human Resources and Employment specifically doing to address skill shortages?

The Speaker: The hon. minister.

Mr. Cardinal: Thank you very much, Mr. Speaker. Of course, part of our strategy is that Human Resources and Employment and Advanced Education are co-leading the development of a long-term labour supply strategy to ensure that Alberta remains internationally competitive and productive. Human Resources and Employment alone is spending $288 million this year to help people get the training and information they need so they can keep meaningful employment.

Mr. Goudreau: My last question is also to the Minister of Human Resources and Employment. When you say that we need to increase our labour force's productivity, do you mean that workers will need to do more with less?

Mr. Cardinal: No, Mr. Speaker. No. Improving labour productivity means investing in innovation and enhancing employees' training to develop a highly skilled and safe workforce. The future of Alberta's economy depends on the strength of our labour force, and the strength of our labour force depends on the number of workers we have and their skill levels, their health and well-being, and the quality of their workplace.

The Speaker: The hon. Member for Edmonton-Glenora.

2:40

Policing Services

Dr. B. Miller: Thank you, Mr. Speaker. The safety of Alberta's communities is being threatened by guns, gangs, and senseless acts of violence. Violence among our youth is especially alarming. Police resources are already stretched too much, and the government is not responding. To the Solicitor General: given the alarming increase in violent crimes with guns, especially among our youth, will the Solicitor General take immediate action now to increase police resources and keep our communities safe?

The Speaker: The hon. Solicitor General and Minister of Public Security.

Mr. Cenaiko: Thank you very much, Mr. Speaker. It's a very good question, and yes, we are working as we speak with the chiefs to look at strategies regarding policing, with opportunities in investigating organized crime, opportunities for looking at sharing intelligence information amongst our police agencies in the province. This is extremely important, and it's a very good question because as we move forward, we can't police the same way we were policing 10 years ago or five years ago. Violence in Alberta is important to every Albertan.

In fact, last week we had a number of representatives from all throughout Alberta here in Edmonton with the Minister of Gaming. We met with individuals regarding violence in and around licensed establishments. They're going to be providing us with a number of recommendations in January regarding those issues, but it stems from issues regarding gang activity. It stems from issues regarding the consumption of liquor. So we're going to work with the industry in that area to look at some of those gang violence issues. We have to look at solutions and strategies as we move forward.

The Speaker: The hon. member.

Dr. B. Miller: Thank you, Mr. Speaker. Given that our two major urban police services desperately need more resources on the ground to get guns off the street, will the minister finally increase the funding formula for policing in our cities? Why are we the last in Canada?

Mr. Cenaiko: Well, Mr. Speaker, as I mentioned last week to a similar question, we this past year added almost $30 million of new funding for policing in this province. Nearly 200 additional officers were put onto the street in Alberta.

Mr. Speaker, we're going to continue to look at new programs, new strategies. As I mentioned in my last answer, we want to look at new opportunities of how we are investigating crime, violent crime, organized crime, any type of crime in this province, utilizing all of our police services. We have 5,000 officers, but as well the community has to be involved. We need community support. We want the community to be phoning the police and letting us know where the issues are, what the issues are, and how they can help us. So are we going to be looking at additional officers next year? We're preparing our '06-07 budget, and we'll have to wait until the spring to find out.

The Speaker: The hon. member.

Dr. B. Miller: Thank you, Mr. Speaker. My last question is to the Minister of Justice and Attorney General. Given that other jurisdictions in Canada are expanding their resources to deal with gun violence by hiring specialized Crown prosecutors to work directly with police, will the minister commit to similar action for Alberta?

The Speaker: The hon. minister.

Mr. Stevens: Well, thank you, Mr. Speaker. We do have prosecutors in Alberta who are specialized. In fact, we have prosecutors who work closely with the various police groups that are focused on various areas, including organized crime. I can tell you that we intend to follow what happens in the expanded policing here in Alberta and ensure that additional prosecutor resources are made available as the good work of those expanded police forces are shown in our communities.

head:

Members' Statements

The Speaker: Hon. members, in a few seconds from now I'll call upon the first of six hon. members to participate.

The hon. Member for Edmonton-Strathcona.

Child Care

Dr. Pannu: Thank you, Mr. Speaker. The absence of significant direct public funding for child care centres and licensed day homes combined with part-time kindergarten and the absence of public funding for pre- and after-school care creates serious distress for working parents, especially women, in Alberta. When we compare Alberta to Quebec, we find far lower average wages for child care workers, less parental leave time, fewer supports for stay-at-home parents, and more expensive child care.

There is a better way, Mr. Speaker. First, Alberta must raise the wages for child care workers by using the new federal money for making direct grants to operating centres. This will bring up standards and bring down parent fees. Currently 86 per cent of Alberta's child care spending goes to parent subsidies rather than operating grants to centres. At the other end of the spectrum, Quebec spends 97 per cent of its child care expenditures on operating grants and achieves more affordability for parents. Further, Alberta's child care investments should be made in the nonprofit sector, a position that the NDP opposition is committed to, the only strong voice in the Assembly on that point.

Alberta must also keep the promise that the province made in the wake of the Learning Commission and implement junior and full-day kindergarten. The early education experiences benefit the children enormously and also strengthen our communities and our economy. Parenting centres and support of the municipal FCSS programs would also improve education outcome for all children but especially low-income and aboriginal children.

Finally, Mr. Speaker, Alberta must do more for stay-at-home parents. Despite the rhetoric of parental choice, Alberta has never proposed measures such as fiscal reform, changes to labour legislation, employer requirements, or parental insurance top-ups to support caregivers in the home. Let's use the Quebec child care model as a starting point and make changes to our child care program that will provide real choices for Alberta's parents.

Thank you, Mr. Speaker.

The Speaker: The hon. Member for Calgary-Hays.

Private Braun Scott Woodfield

Mr. Johnston: Thank you, Mr. Speaker. I rise in this Year of the Veteran to recognize another Canadian soldier who has paid the ultimate price in the service of our country and in the interests of peace. I speak, of course, of the death of Private Braun Scott Woodfield of G company, second battalion, Royal Canadian Regiment. Private Woodfield lost his life in Afghanistan when his light armoured vehicle rolled over. It was an accident that also injured four of his fellow servicemen.

As has been the case so often, this life was lost far from family and friends and far from his Canadian home of Eastern Passage, Nova Scotia. Private Woodfield was in Afghanistan because he committed himself to the service of his country in war and in peace. It is a commitment that thousands of Canadians have fulfilled in countless fields of conflict over the years. We stand today in honour of that patriotism and duty and in deep sadness that too often those qualities are paid for with the lives of our brave young men and women.

Mr. Speaker, I know that the thoughts of all hon. members are with the Woodfield family and with Private Woodfield's colleagues in arms. We all honour the price that Canadian troops continue to pay in the cause of peace.

Thank you.

The Speaker: The hon. Member for Strathcona.

Barrier-free Accessibility

Mr. Lougheed: Mr. Speaker, persons with disabilities and seniors with mobility challenges often find stores, offices, and public buildings to be inaccessible. For someone in a wheelchair or scooter a curb that may only be a few centimetres high becomes an obstacle that cannot be overcome. Just a few days ago a young man who uses a wheelchair told me that he often drives by buildings and then just keeps on going because they appear not to be accessible.

This is the same concern expressed a few years ago by Glen Lavold, an Ardrossan resident, who because of MS realized that soon he would be unable to access many buildings in his scooter or wheelchair. Glen and I talked a few times about doing an access survey and making that information freely available. Because of the effects of MS Glen was unable to continue the project, but community volunteers Bob and Deanna Loewen and Bob Simpson offered to do the work. They spent hundreds of hours canvassing more than a thousand businesses and services in Sherwood Park and the rest of Strathcona county. Parking, curbs, washrooms, doors, and other features that affect accessibility to stores, offices, and public buildings were examined. The results of this barrier-free survey, the first of any major municipality, are now online at www.communityaccessibility.ca. Now anyone living in Strathcona county or visiting Sherwood Park can check the website to determine how accessible buildings are.

Mr. Speaker, the website www.communityaccessibility.ca is hosted by the Premier's Council on the Status of Persons with Disabilities with the support of the Minister of Seniors and Community Supports. The Premier's council will be pleased to offer advice to any other volunteers who would like to do a barrier-free survey of their region and provide this valuable service to persons with disabilities.

Thank you.

The Speaker: The hon. Member for Wetaskiwin-Camrose.

2:50 University of Alberta Augustana Campus

Mr. Johnson: Thank you, Mr. Speaker. My constituency is home to the Augustana faculty, University of Alberta. Augustana serves as the rural presence for the University of Alberta and as such is a key component of our government's rural development strategy.

When Augustana University College and the University of Alberta came together in 2004, creating the Augustana faculty of the University of Alberta, all parties including Augustana, the U of A, and the government of Alberta promised there would be a number of benefits for Augustana students and for the Camrose region. Two important steps in the growth and development of Augustana were undertaken on November 9.

The first was the signing of a memorandum of understanding between the East Central health region and the University of Alberta. This MOU creates a new partnership to provide rural Albertans with increased opportunities to pursue professional health education and careers. Residents in rural communities will benefit from an increased number of health professionals and from an increased focus on the well-being of rural Albertans. The Minister of Health and Wellness and the Minister of Advanced Education were both in attendance for the signing.

Following the MOU signing was the groundbreaking ceremony for the Camrose regional sport development centre, a partnership between the city and county of Camrose, the University of Alberta, and the government of Alberta. The centre will include a large arena with seating for approximately 3,000 people, a second ice surface, a fitness centre and running track, sport training labs, and classroom facilities. This facility will meet the recreation needs of the people of Camrose area and the needs of the University of Alberta, Camrose campus athletics program. The sport development centre is a major step forward in the Augustana Viking Cup, which is now celebrating its 25th anniversary. The centre will be completed in time for the 2007 Viking Cup.

Taken together, the MOU signing and the groundbreaking ceremony underline the importance of the University of Alberta, Augustana faculty, to my constituency and rural Alberta. Thank you.

The Speaker: The hon. Member for Calgary-Varsity.

A Centennial Summary

Mr. Chase: Thank you very much, Mr. Speaker.

In just under fifty legislative days,
We acknowledged our first hundred years,
Fought for smoke free work places
And against the “Third Way’s” two tiers.

We mourned the tragic loss,
Of our great hugger, Lois Hole.
We congratulated Normie Kwong,
As he assumed his new role.

We paid heartfelt homage
To the Mayerthorpe “Four”
Who passed prematurely
Through Heaven’s open door.

We honored our veterans,
Sixty years after their fight,
Having sacrificed for the peace,
We claim as our birthright.

At Wabamun Lake an oil train
Derailed from the track.
While in northern Alberta,
Our Boreal forests are under attack.

Our gracious Queen survived our rain
As well as . . . an errant umbrella,
Thrust in her direction
By government’s number one fellah.

He disappeared, went AWOL,
During this fall’s short sitting,
Avoiding the questions,
That we thought befitting.

His Conservative cousins cringed,
Wishing his tongue was less sharper,
Especially when protruding at Their Federal father, Stephen Harper.

For while bestowing his blessing,
The predictions he plucked
Caused Peter McKay to call for Red Green’s tape à la duct.

Edmonton’s green and gold beat
Montréal’s rouge, blanc et bleu.
Tomorrow, the Eskimos’ Grey Cup
Will be paraded for you.

Our centennial year’s ending,
As Christmas fast approaches.
Let us celebrate together
Without regrets or reproaches.

From under the cupola
Of this Legislature’s dome,
We wish Albertans the season’s best
In this great province we call home.

The Speaker: The hon. Member for Red Deer-North.

Domestic Violence Handbook

Mrs. Jablonski: Thank you, Mr. Speaker. On September 28, 2003, in Red Deer Josif Fekete shot and killed his estranged wife, Blagica, and their three-year-old son, Alex, before turning the gun on himself. The Fekete family had a history of involvement with the Red Deer RCMP, and a fatality inquiry cited a number of factors that may have played a role in their deaths. The judge’s recommendations identified several areas for improvement including the need for police training to understand the dynamics of family violence, the need for a clear protocol for dealing with issues of domestic abuse, and the need for a collaborative and co-ordinated approach to family violence.

On Friday the Minister of Justice and the Solicitor General and Minister of Public Security released the Domestic Violence Handbook for Police and Crown Prosecutors. The handbook provides information on investigative procedures, prosecutions, victims and abusers, risk factors, and safety planning. Guidelines for developing a domestic violence protocol for police services in Alberta have also been distributed for use with this handbook. It encourages a co-operative and consistent approach for handling domestic violence cases throughout the criminal justice system. This training tool will go a long way toward preventing future tragedies.

I want to congratulate those involved for getting everyone on the same page when it comes to family violence. Seeing that Alberta has one of the highest rates of domestic violence in Canada, I will look forward to seeing the impact that this training and the new protocol will have on reducing the rate of family violence in Alberta.

head: Presenting Petitions

The Speaker: The hon. Member for Edmonton-Beverly-Clareview.

Mr. Martin: Thank you, Mr. Speaker. I would like table a petition today which has 400 signatures on it. The signatures were collected by Lynda and Ron Jonson of Seniors I Care. The petition calls for either the reinstatement of the 25 continuing care beds “that Hinton had before the Good Samaritans Society and the Aspen Health Region changed it to a Designated Assisted Living Facility” or, failing that, commit to build a “new 25 bed Continuing Care Facility in Hinton.”

Thank you.

The Speaker: The hon. Member for Edmonton-McClung.

Mr. Elsalhy: Thank you, Mr. Speaker. Again I’m submitting a petition signed by concerned parents from various communities including Taber, Magrath, Fresh Start West in Edmonton, Barnwell, Coaldale, Lethbridge, and Fort McLeod. It reads:

We, the undersigned residents of Alberta, hereby petition the Legislative Assembly to urge the Government of Alberta to take measures that will require school boards and schools to eliminate all fees for instructional supplies and materials and general school services, including textbooks, musical instruments, physical education programs, locker rentals, lunch hour supervision, as was mentioned today, and required field trips, and to ensure that schools are not deprived of the resources necessary to offer these programs and services without additional charges to parents or guardians.

Thank you.

head: Introduction of Bills

The Speaker: The hon. Minister of Justice and Attorney General.

Bill 52
Miscellaneous Statutes Amendment Act, 2005 (No. 2)

Mr. Stevens: Thank you, Mr. Speaker. It's my pleasure to introduce for first reading Bill 52, Miscellaneous Statutes Amendment Act, 2005 (No. 2).

[Motion carried; Bill 52 read a first time]

The Speaker: The hon. Minister of Community Development.

Bill 58
Alberta Centennial Medal Amendment Act, 2005

Mr. Mar: Thank you, Mr. Speaker. I beg leave to introduce a bill being the Alberta Centennial Medal Amendment Act, 2005, and ask that this bill be read and received a first time.

[Motion carried; Bill 58 read a first time]

The Speaker: The hon. Member for Lethbridge-East.

Bill 213
Standing Committee on Continuing Care Standards Act

Ms Pastoor: Thank you, Mr. Speaker. I rise today to request leave to introduce private member's Bill 213.

The purpose of that bill is to establish an all-party standing committee that would review and monitor the legislated standards for continuing care facilities, the compliance of those standards, and in return would report to the Assembly on a yearly basis.

[Motion carried; Bill 213 read a first time]

The Speaker: The hon. Member for Calgary-Mountain View.

3:00 Bill 214
Water Protection and Conservation
Statutes Amendment Act, 2005

Dr. Swann: Thank you, Mr. Speaker. I rise today to request leave to introduce private member's Bill 214, Water Protection and Conservation Statutes Amendment Act, 2005.

This bill is designed to enhance the protection, conservation, and long-term management of our water resources in Alberta.

[Motion carried; Bill 214 read a first time]

The Speaker: The hon. Member for Lac La Biche-St. Paul.

Bill 218
Land Agents Licensing (Licence Requirement)
Amendment Act, 2005

Mr. Danyluk: Thank you very much, Mr. Speaker. I request leave to introduce Bill 218, the Land Agents Licensing (Licence Requirement) Amendment Act, 2005.

The bill removes the restrictions on who can negotiate on the landowner's behalf for the acquisition of surface interests.

[Motion carried; Bill 218 read a first time]

head: Tabling Returns and Reports

The Speaker: The hon. Minister of Education.

Mr. Zwozdesky: Thank you, Mr. Speaker. I'm pleased to rise and table responses to Written Question 35, which pertains to costs regarding Alberta's incredible SuperNet project, and also to Motion for a Return 17, which pertains to an hon. member's request for information regarding certain ministry-related expenses.

The Speaker: The hon. Minister of Community Development.

Mr. Mar: Thank you, Mr. Speaker. Sir, I wish to table for the House five copies of a letter from Reverend Lynn Maki, who is the executive secretary of the Alberta and Northwest Conference of the United Church of Canada. The letter passes on the United Church's congratulatory wishes on the occasion of Alberta's centennial.

Also, Mr. Speaker, for the benefit of the House I would like to table five copies of my responses to questions raised during Community Development's appearance before the Committee of Supply on the 11th of May 2005.

Thank you, sir.

The Speaker: The hon. Member for Edmonton-Centre.

Ms Blakeman: Thank you very much, Mr. Speaker. I have four tablings today. The first I wish to table on behalf of the Official Opposition leader is a letter sent to him on November 7, 2005, from Bradley Nemetz of the Bennett Jones law firm telling him to curtail his comments in regard to the ASC or face possible legal sanction. In light of the RCMP probe now under way into the ASC, the opposition leader wants this letter to be part of the public record.

Secondly, I'm tabling with the permission of the recipient a letter from Alan Currie, investigative counsel for the ASC, to a Zi Corporation investor in response to the investor's request for the ASC to look into Zi Corporation's disclosure violation.

The appropriate number of copies of correspondence directed to me, Mr. Speaker, expressing the person's extreme disappointment about the irresponsibility of the Alberta government with the recent announcement of the $400 payment. They believe that with proper economic policy it could have been put to much better use and end up benefiting Albertans.

Finally, Mr. Speaker, on behalf of John Flipsen, a constituent: he asks why he was required to get repeated tests when they knew that an operation would be coming in the future. He also attached information on ResPRate, which is a new blood pressure device to assist people with high blood pressure.

Thank you very much, Mr. Speaker.

The Speaker: The hon. Member for Calgary-Varsity.

Mr. Chase: Thank you very much, Mr. Speaker. Today I rise with two sets of tablings. The first is the correspondence from Calgary-Varsity constituent Dr. Ramesh Joshi to the hon. Minister of Infrastructure and Transportation concerning the extension to the Confederation Park Senior Citizens Centre. Dr. Joshi calls into question the manner in which the contract was awarded and is concerned about the lack of transparency, accountability, and the use of taxpayers' money.

My second tabling comes to me in my role as Infrastructure and Transportation critic from Diane Newman of Edmonton. While Diane is aware of the excitement and economic benefits of the West Edmonton Mall Grand Prix racing event, she would like to see greater education and emphasis placed on the differences between professional track racing and the dangers associated with street racing.

The Speaker: The hon. Member for Edmonton-Glenora.

Dr. B. Miller: Thank you, Mr. Speaker. I'd like to table a letter from the Alberta and Northwest Conference of the United Church of Canada addressed to the people of the province of Alberta, celebrating with us the centennial but also reminding us of the challenges to Alberta concerning homelessness, poverty, threats to public health care, assault on the environment, and the need to respect all persons regardless of age, colour, sex, language, sexual orientation, or ethnicity.

The Speaker: The hon. Member for Edmonton-Manning.

Mr. Backs: Thank you, Mr. Speaker. I'd like to officially table one T-shirt from the Edmonton Eskimos and two thunder sticks provided through the Edmonton Eskimos. I thank the Clerk and the pages for distributing them before this House was at work so it didn't disrupt the business of the House.

Thank you, Mr. Speaker.

The Speaker: The hon. Member for Edmonton-Ellerslie.

Mr. Agnihotri: Thank you, Mr. Speaker. I have a tabling from my constituents, Mr. and Mrs. Adamson. They have a concern about the cost of Alberta health care premiums. They are urging the government to eliminate "this archaic and punitive levy."

The Speaker: The hon. Member for Edmonton-Highlands-Norwood.

Mr. Mason: Thank you very much, Mr. Speaker. I'd like to table the appropriate number of copies of a letter I received last Thursday from the Minister of Finance. It was provided to me in reply to an earlier oral question involving the settlement between the ATB and West Edmonton Mall. The minister asserts that the government is not soft on corporate crime.

The Speaker: Are there others? The hon. Member for Edmonton-Rutherford.

Mr. R. Miller: Thank you very much, Mr. Speaker. I rise this afternoon to table a number of letters from Albertans regarding the unfunded teachers' liability, and I'll just list a couple of examples. Warren Marcotte says that "to saddle future taxpayers with many billions in debt is beyond [his] comprehension." Phil Mark, a teacher, says, "Could you please have our provincial government deal with this matter with expedient and proper manner?" Doug Johnson says, "It is my belief that teachers in this province would be willing to make this a strike issue in the near future if this issue remains unaddressed." Deen Khan says, "I do think that in this time of plenty . . . the government of this province stand up and face its responsibility towards its teachers."

I'm in receipt of 100 further letters that have been written by teachers from all across the province asking the government to address this very serious issue of the unfunded teachers' liability.

I'm not going to take the time to read them all into the record, but it could be noted . . .

The Speaker: Well, I would hope, hon. member, that you wouldn't – please sit down – because all 83 of us in this Assembly are getting the same ones. If we get 40,000 teachers times 83, we're looking at roughly 3,200,000 tablings. If we start now, next April 14 we'll still be here tabling them. So let's assume that we've got them tabled now. Okay?

head:

Tablings to the Clerk

The Clerk: I wish to advise the House that the following documents were deposited with the office of the Clerk. On behalf of the hon. Mr. Hancock, Minister of Advanced Education, public postsecondary institutions' audited financial statements, public colleges and technical institutes, for the year ended June 30, 2004, and universities and Banff Centre for Continuing Education for the year ended March 31, 2005; pursuant to the Apprenticeship and Industry Training Act the Apprenticeship and Industry Training Board 2004-2005 annual report.

On behalf of the hon. Mr. Melchin, Minister of Energy, responses to questions raised on April 20, 2005, Department of Energy 2005-06 Committee of Supply debate, and return to order of the Assembly MR 26, asked for by Mr. MacDonald on April 25, 2005.

On behalf of the hon. Mr. Coutts, Minister of Sustainable Resource Development, returns to orders of the Assembly MR 11, MR 12, and MR 13, asked for by Mr. Bonko on April 11, 2005.

On behalf of Mr. Liepert, chair of the Standing Committee on the Alberta Heritage Savings Trust Fund, pursuant to Standing Order 52 the 2004 report of the Select Standing Committee on the Alberta Heritage Savings Trust Fund and the 2005 report of the Select Standing Committee on the Alberta Heritage Savings Trust Fund.

3:10

The Speaker: The hon. Member for Edmonton-Highlands-Norwood. I'm just assuming that the hon. member is rising asking for a response to 13(2) of the Standing Orders?

Point of Order

Explanation of Speaker's Ruling

Mr. Mason: Yes, Mr. Speaker, indeed I am rising on that. The hon. Member for Edmonton-Calder was involved in asking questions to the Minister of Environment, and in one of his supplemental questions he provided what I would call a bit of a laundry list of things that he'd like the minister to respond to. The chair ruled that out of order. The question I have for the chair is that when the hon. Member for Red Deer-North provided a similar laundry list of questions within a supplemental question to the minister of aboriginal affairs, she was not ruled out of order. I'd like to know why.

The Speaker: Hon. member, there's an assumption there that isn't true. The chair did not rule out the hon. Member for Edmonton-Calder on a point of order. The hon. Member for Edmonton-Calder was speaking. He was proceeding with a question, and he said to the same minister: "If the Environment minister is serious about reducing greenhouse gas emissions, when will he commit in this House to firm dates and policies on the following . . ." At that point in time the chair rose, stood up. The hon. Member for Edmonton-Calder continued to speak. The chair said, "Hon. member." The hon. member caught the chair's eye. I saw him catch my eye. The hon. member continued to speak and did not sit down. The chair was standing. At that point in time the chair said, "Sit down" because the first two interventions and interjections did not count.

For the hon. Member for Edmonton-Highlands-Norwood to suggest that the chair was going to rule the member out of order on his question is totally erroneous. The chair raised his voice because the hon. member did not sit down when the chair rose. That's the explanation.

head: Orders of the Day

head: Written Questions

The Speaker: The hon. Deputy Government House Leader.

Mr. Zwozdesky: Thank you, Mr. Speaker. Proper notice having been given on Thursday, November 24, it is my pleasure to move that written questions appearing on today's Order Paper do stand and retain their places.

[Motion carried]

head: Motions for Returns

The Speaker: The hon. Deputy Government House Leader.

Mr. Zwozdesky: Thank you, Mr. Speaker. Proper notice having been given on Thursday, November 24, it is my pleasure to move that motions for returns 49 and 50 be dealt with today. I would just note that since there are no additional motions for returns, there are none to stand and retain their places.

[Motion carried]

Diploma Examinations

M49. Mr. Flaherty moved that an order of the Assembly do issue for a return showing a copy of all reports, studies, papers, presentations, memos, correspondence, or other ministry documents pertaining to the plan to phase in a method for equating diploma examinations as referenced on page 28 of the Ministry of Learning's 2003-04 annual report.

The Speaker: The hon. Deputy Government House Leader.

Mr. Zwozdesky: Thank you, Mr. Speaker. I have reviewed Motion for a Return 49, submitted by the hon. member, and I would like to indicate that I'm prepared to accept Motion for a Return 49, albeit with some amendments. I'll speak to that in just a second, but I would like to indicate firstly that I did share this amendment with the hon. colleague opposite prior to 11 a.m. today as per our procedures.

Now, specific to the amended motion. If I could be allowed to continue briefly, I would just like to explain, Mr. Speaker, that the original motion as presented by the Member for St. Albert requested a copy of all reports and studies and papers and presentations and memos and correspondence or other ministry documents with respect to the planning and phasing in of our method for equating diploma examinations. I just find that that's just so broad, so generic that it isn't focused enough to allow me to respond because I simply can't guarantee that I would be able to provide all, each and every stitch of paper. Sometimes human error may occur.

What I'm simply suggesting in the friendly amendment, hon. member, is to focus the question in a way that would allow me to accept it. I'm hoping that the hon. member opposite would appreciate and understand that and will also appreciate the fact that I am willing to provide the information as outlined in this friendly amendment, as I call it.

Mr. Speaker, in conclusion, the only thing here is that I will undertake to provide everything that I can under the motion as amended, and I would ask for his and other members' support of that amendment.

The Speaker: Has the amendment been circulated? [interjections] Well, a number of members tell me they haven't seen the amendment.

Are there any comments on the amendment?

[Motion on amendment carried]

The Speaker: The hon. Member for St. Albert to conclude the debate.

Mr. Flaherty: So moved, Mr. Speaker.

[Motion for a Return 49 as amended carried]

Postsecondary Degree Program Approvals

M50. Mr. Chase moved on behalf of Mr. Taylor that an order of the Assembly do issue for a return showing all documents prepared or received by the Ministry of Advanced Education, formerly Learning, between January 1, 2002, and February 28, 2005, pertaining to the accreditation of postsecondary institutions granting baccalaureate degrees, the approval process for institutions seeking to grant baccalaureate degrees, and the establishment of the Campus Alberta Quality Council, including but not limited to correspondence between the ministry and the Association of Universities and Colleges of Canada on this issue.

The Speaker: The hon. Government House Leader.

Mr. Hancock: Thank you, Mr. Speaker. As Minister of Advanced Education I would have to request that the House reject this motion. I would be prepared to provide comment now if that's the appropriate time.

The Speaker: Proceed.

Mr. Hancock: I certainly appreciate the interest being expressed by the hon. member in putting the question forward with respect to the designation of postsecondary institutions to offer baccalaureate degrees and the approval process for such degrees. Under Bill 43 now, the Post-secondary Learning Act, that's clearly the way forward that's been set out, and the Campus Alberta Quality Council's role in approving programs is essential not only to approving our programs but to setting standards of accreditation. In fact, as I've said in this House on many occasions, Alberta is leading the process across Canada to ensure that there are appropriate accreditation standards, and the Campus Alberta Quality Council is leading the way in this regard. So it's a very important question.

Unfortunately, Mr. Speaker, the question is so broadly worded that the natural result of that question would be to bring over the filing cabinets with all the information that Alberta quality council has dealt with. What it asks: the accreditation of postsecondary institutions granting baccalaureate degrees, the approval process for institutions seeking to grant baccalaureate degrees, the establishment of the council, and correspondence. So that's every piece of paper that's there. Surely that's not what the hon. member wants, but I cannot discern from the question what the appropriate information to deliver would be. In fact, if we approved this motion for a return, we would have to provide for the files of the Legislature all of the files of the Campus Alberta Quality Council.

3:20

We've had several other motions this session, particularly MR 40, which have required this sort of broad, sweeping type of information, and the Legislature has been good enough to recognize that that's not an appropriate way of framing questions. It's simply too broad, requests a vast array of material, much of which is already part of the public record. The motion doesn't specify public or private degree-granting institutions, so it's thousands of pages, and many, actually several branches, not just Campus Alberta Quality Council secretariat but public institutions, the former PCAB secretariat, et cetera.

Much of the information may well be subject to the Freedom of Information and Protection of Privacy Act, so it would have to be reviewed first because it involves information with respect to private institutions, et cetera. In order to release that information, a privacy review would have to be conducted on all the information available.

I want to make it perfectly clear that I'm not averse to providing information to the hon. member about the quality council, about the process, about what it does. In fact, we'd be happy to arrange whatever meetings that might be necessary to make sure that whatever information he's looking for is made available. But to answer this question, as broadly as it's posed, would not be a good use of time or resources and would not necessarily give him the information he wants because he would have to then sort through thousands and thousands of documents to achieve it.

The motion for a return specifically asked for correspondence between the department and the Association of Universities and Colleges of Canada concerning the establishment of the Campus Alberta Quality Council. There is, I can say, Mr. Speaker, no such official correspondence of which I'm aware. With respect to the establishment of the Campus Alberta Quality Council, this information is a matter of public record. The act establishing the council and list of members are available on the council's website. As you and other members will know, I tabled the council's first annual report last week. It's also available on the website, and we'll be providing all members with a copy of that shortly.

The hon. member is inquiring about the process for institutions seeking to offer baccalaureate degrees. This process is clearly laid out on the Campus Alberta Quality Council's website, which members can access at www.caqc.gov.ab.ca. Click on Application Process on the main page and then on Approval Process for New Degree Proposals. So that information is available.

The Campus Alberta Quality Council was specifically established to review proposals from postsecondary institutions that wish to offer new degree programs. Its members are "objective, forward-thinking individuals who are highly respected by the post-secondary system and have demonstrated an understanding and support for lifelong learning," to quote from my predecessor who established the council.

In short, I'm pleased to see the interest that's been taken in the process. I'm happy to work with the hon. member to find out what particular type of information he's seeking or what understanding about the Campus Alberta Quality Council he's seeking to find. Obviously, one of our key goals in our ministry is "to provide increased access to quality advanced education opportunities." We do it "through policy, programming, and funding support to post-secondary institutions and working with industry to facilitate the development of training and certification standards." Obviously, Campus Alberta Quality Council is key to that.

Mr. Speaker, I'm very interested in people taking an interest in the role, function, and work of the Campus Alberta Quality Council, very interested in ensuring that there's a clear understanding by the hon. member and all members of the House with respect to the role and function of the quality council. There's a good, clear starting place by going to their website and getting the information that's published there, looking at the annual report, and getting the information that's published there. No public purpose would be served by bringing over the filing cabinets and having all of the documents in them numbered as documents for the benefit of the legislative records, but I can assure the hon. member that I'd be happy to work with him on any specific questions that he has that I've not been able to answer here.

I'd ask the House to reject MR 50.

The Speaker: If I recognize the hon. Member for Calgary-Varsity, that concludes the debate.

Mr. Chase: Thank you, Mr. Speaker. Just for clarification, is the minister suggesting that the accreditation for Alberta's postsecondary institutions in itself is thousands of documents, or does that narrow the scope of what's being requested? I believe that it is the intent of this motion not to carry over entire file cabinet cases but simply the postsecondary institution information within this province.

Thank you.

[Motion for a Return 50 lost]

The Speaker: Before the Clerk calls the next order of business, I'd just like to let all hon. members know that the hon. Member for Edmonton-Calder and I have had an exchange of information. The hon. Member for Edmonton-Calder failed to see me rise, and I failed to see the hon. member sit, so all is fine in paradise again.

head: Public Bills and Orders Other than Government Bills and Orders
Committee of the Whole

[Mr. Shariff in the chair]

The Deputy Chair: Hon. members, we'll call the committee to order.

Bill 204
Pharmacy and Drug (Methamphetamine Limiting)
Amendment Act, 2005

[Debated adjourned May 9: Mr. Cao speaking]

The Deputy Chair: Are there any comments, questions, or amendments to be offered with respect to this bill? The hon. Member for West Yellowhead.

Mr. Strang: Thank you, Mr. Chairman. Bill 204 is a very important bill, and it has far-reaching effects. That being said, after consultation with stakeholders and further research we have come to the conclusion that a necessary amendment needs to be made to strengthen this piece of legislation. I'd like to table the appropriate amendment to Bill 204, the Pharmacy and Drug (Methamphetamine Limiting) Amendment Act, 2005. Would the chair like me to continue or wait until the items have been circulated?

The Deputy Chair: Hon. member, I believe the amendments have not been circulated as yet, so we should give the members an opportunity to receive the amendments.

Mr. Strang: Thank you.

The Deputy Chair: The pages have the amendments, and I believe they will be circulating momentarily. Hon. members, when we deal with this amendment, we shall deal with it as amendment A1.

Hon. Member for West Yellowhead, you may proceed.

Mr. Strang: Thank you very much, Mr. Chairman. Bill 204 as it currently sits does not exactly accomplish what I hoped it would. My intention for this bill is to eliminate the cause of the problem some of our communities are having with drug abuse. So often we as a society try our very best to handle the effect of poor decisions made by people in our communities.

3:30

This is the same with crystal meth. Most of what we are doing as government to deal with the crystal meth problem is to try and solve the effect of the drug. From increasing penalties to increasing funding for recovering addicts, we do our best to deal with the effect of this naughty drug. What I am trying to do with Bill 204 is address the cause of a lot of those problems that are seen in our communities as a direct result of drug use. I think that if we can get to and try to eliminate the cause, we will be better off. The problem is crystal meth, and if we can get something to eliminate that, we will be better off.

This is where my amendment comes, Mr. Chairman. As the bill is currently written, ephedrine and pseudoephedrine products will be removed to schedule 2 drugs. This means that the product containing ephedrine and pseudoephedrine will be put behind the counter in pharmacies, and a person would only be able to obtain said products after discussing it with a pharmacist. As we've heard through the debate in second reading, in order to make crystal meth, the makers must have access to ephedra, ephedrine, and pseudoephedrine. These entities and only these entities are required for meth to have its desired effect on the users.

We did research into this drug and its effects. We thought it would be a good idea if we would limit access to all these products that had those entities prevalent in them, which is what this bill does without the amendment tabled. The problem with this bill right now is that by the way it's worded, we would be putting a lot of products behind the pharmacy counter. As I met with the College of Pharmacists and other stakeholders, I learned that if the bill passed, there would be pharmacies that would undergo serious renovations to ensure that all products affected by this bill would be able to be stored behind the counter. Pharmacists have told me that this was too much for them, especially for rural drugstores that do not have the greatest amount of space to work with.

Therefore, something had to change, and the amendment does that by putting single-entity pseudoephedrine products behind the counter. What we think needs to be clarified is the difference between single-entity and multi-entity products as this has caused a bit of confusion while I was going through the process.

First of all, Mr. Chairman, it has been a bit complicated, but I'll try to explain this as best I can. When you have a product that has pseudoephedrine in it as a single entity, this means that this entity is the only active ingredient in the product. Conversely, when you have a product that has multi-entity ingredients, this means that all of those ingredients are active in the product. There is a difference between the two.

So now we have to look at the amendment that I have proposed this afternoon. The research that was done while we prepared this bill seemed to show that the makers of crystal meth were not purchasing multi-entity pseudoephedrine products because it was far too difficult to chemically synthesize the product to get the pseudoephedrine out and separate for the purpose of making meth.

Meth makers are far more likely to find the single-entity pseudoephedrine products to make their drug as it is much easier. Therefore, we should amend what we have before us to reflect this. The amendment, therefore, before the House also removes ephedrine products from the bill.

Now, ephedrine is one of those ingredients that is necessary for the production of meth. However, ephedrine is already a schedule 1 drug when there are over 8 mg doses in the product and can only be accessed by prescription. As well, there are very few, if any, single-entity ephedrine products on the market that have so little ephedrine that they are unclassified. Therefore, there is no real need for us to try and move those products to schedule 2 because that would be counterproductive. That is why the amendment removes amphetamine from the bill.

There is also another reason for this amendment that I would like to touch upon in the remaining time. In June the western ministers of health, justice, and public security met to discuss, among other things, meth use, a strategy to combat it. At the meeting they agreed to come up with a common strategy that all western jurisdictions could follow. The jurisdictions involved are Saskatchewan, Manitoba, Alberta, British Columbia, Northwest Territories, the Yukon, and Nunavut. All of the ministers went back to their respective provinces or territories, and each one decided that the best approach would be to limit all single-entity amphetamine products.

I think it's fair to say that at this meeting it was considered that all products with pseudoephedrine be behind the counters. The western ministers also agreed that if one province does something by itself, it does not really eliminate the cause of the problem because drug makers could easily hop a province's or a territory's border to pick up the ingredients needed to make meth. It was decided that if all provinces take a common approach, they may have more success in combating the problem each jurisdiction is facing.

Mr. Chairman, this is not just an Alberta problem, nor is it strictly a rural or urban problem. This is turning into a nation-wide issue, and I think it's encouraging that at least the western jurisdictions are working together to try to find a solution to this problem.

Because of all these issues it was important and necessary that we amend this piece of legislation before us. I think this is a good strategy, and I think it will see some more good results by implementing this law.

Thank you, Mr. Chairman. I look forward to the rest of the speakers on both sides of the House on this issue.

The Deputy Chair: Hon. members, I have a very long list of people who wish to speak. Just to remind hon. members, currently we're dealing with the amendment that's before us, so there will be opportunity for people to speak to the bill itself once we have voted on the amendment.

On the amendment, the hon. Member for Edmonton-Mill Woods.

Mrs. Mather: Thank you. The amendment to Bill 204 is definitely more specific and pragmatic in supporting the intent of the original bill to ensure that meth makers will have a more difficult time purchasing the main ingredients for the manufactured crystal meth. I believe this amendment is a wise step and will serve the purpose better.

Much of the concern about crystal meth and other drugs comes down to simple supply and demand. If we pass this amendment and make it harder for the producers, some might quit making it, and the lack of supply generally drives prices up, which we could hope might be a deterrent for purchase. The reason why crystal meth's use is so widespread in Alberta is that it is so inexpensive to buy and is so readily available. If it were more expensive and harder to find, perhaps we could stop some of our children from experimenting and inevitably becoming addicted.

Many of us know that break-in and theft charges are on the rise in our communities. If we can reduce the number of people who are addicted to crystal meth, logically we may reduce the associated crime costs. There is a great concern in our province about the devastation caused in our communities and among our youth because of crystal meth addiction. This amendment is still not a panacea. It does not get to the root of the problem, but it is a step to help us in a tremendous challenge.

What's being proposed with the bill is that making drugs that are the active ingredients used in the manufacture of crystal meth more difficult to get will diminish the amount that is being produced. However, as long as the demand is there for that cheap high, there will be people who will be happy to continue to make it in whatever form and with whatever chemicals they may need in order to sell it to people and make money. So until we address the demand for this drug, we're going to continue to have problems with it.

3:40

This amended bill is addressing a small part of the problem, but it's not addressing why we have such a demand for this drug or other drugs, especially by teenagers. It does nothing to address that demand. It does nothing to address creating and providing activities for youth to get involved with. Youth who are not engaged in positive activities get bored, and this can result in connecting with other peers who are feeling the same way. Then that group, or gang if you like, gets into activities that may not be helpful, and they do not have moral leadership or guidance although this new group may actually become a family of sorts. Most people would rather be engaged in something and do something, but if we don't allow them positive opportunities, their boredom and apathy may lead to poor choices, including trying drugs. We need to look at existing opportunities and why many choose not to get involved. What are the barriers that prevent involvement, and what do we need to change?

Another thing that's not addressed in this amendment is any kind of treatment, and that's the second way to reduce demand. Somebody addicted to crystal meth is driven to the exclusion of all other factors, including sleep and food, to get the drug, to get another high. So by reducing their addiction or eliminating their addiction with treatment, we would reduce the demand. I think that addressing the demand and treatment is more effective than trying to address a small part of the supply side of this issue.

This government has a problem with addictions, whether it's alcohol addictions, drug addictions, or gambling addictions. I would prefer to see an approach that has a complete management plan to it. Determining what needs to be in place in our society to prevent drug use and abuse overall is much more complex, and it requires a collaborative approach. AADAC and many other agencies can make a difference in communities across the province with their knowledge and expertise and the best practices to prevent and treat addictions as well as the range of services that they can provide. The problems related to drug and alcohol use are wide ranging in scope, complex in nature, and costly in personal and economic terms to Albertans. We can succeed with the involvement of partners in the community, including individuals, municipal leaders, government and nongovernment agencies, law enforcement, educational and health professionals, and others.

Momentum is obviously growing in this province as people work together to tackle these problems and other drug issues in an effort to build safer communities where we can raise healthier children. We need to extend the reach of the existing services we offer and provide and invest where the likelihood of success is greater. Hopefully, this amendment will help reduce access. We can increase hope by increasing the number of facilities we use for drug treatment and rehab and also counselling. Let's fund the DARE program so that every child in this province before they enter junior high knows full well the consequences of this addictive drug. There are other programs that the police officers offer that are also not reactive but educational and of great value, and they deserve support.

In principle I'm supportive of what's being recommended and being proposed in this amended bill, but this is not looking at an overall plan of management to attack this addiction. It doesn't include any kind of treatment. It doesn't deal with the demand side of things. It doesn't do anything to address activities for youth or to expand educational programs that can make a difference. We need to do better.

The Deputy Chair: Hon. Member for Edmonton-Beverly-Clareview, did you want to speak on the amendment or wait until the bill?

Mr. Martin: Yeah, on the amendment.

The Deputy Chair: On the amendment. Okay.

Mr. Martin: Mr. Chair, just very briefly. I understand the reason that we've limited this, and I'm sure that pharmacists won't be too happy about that. But I guess the bottom line to me is that we want something that's going to be effective. I'm sure the member wants that. I guess that if this is what's possible at this time, then we'll certainly support it. The questions I have, though, are flowing from the member's statements. I have a couple questions that I think deal with the amendment, Mr. Chair.

You mentioned – and I remember reading about it – that the western health ministers and premiers were getting together because this is a very serious problem not only here but, of course, in the United States, everywhere. Am I led to believe that the reason that we're limiting pseudoephedrine is that that's what all four have agreed and that's what's possible at this particular time? That's the one question.

The second question I would have, Mr. Chair, is that there are some examples I believe in the States, who are formally ahead. I think this might be worth checking out because I don't see this yet as a government bill. I expect that the hope is that it eventually will be a government bill rather than a private member's bill.

It's my understanding that Oklahoma became the first U.S. state to classify such common cold remedies as Sudafed and Claritin as schedule 5 narcotics, forbidding sales in stores other than pharmacies, ordering the pills placed behind counters, limiting the amount sold per customer, and requiring purchasers to show a photo ID inside to register. It seems to me that they're going much further. I'm wondering if the member – in terms of research maybe he doesn't have it, but if we deal with this bill down the way – can give us an update of how that's working because surely their pharmacists must have been a little exercised, I would say. It would be extra work for them there. I'm wondering how that has worked out and if it has worked out. Perhaps there could be some suggestions about how we might deal with this in the future.

Thank you, Mr. Chair.

The Deputy Chair: The hon. Member for Lac La Biche-St. Paul.

Mr. Danyluk: I'm going to speak on the bill, not on the amendment.

The Deputy Chair: Okay.

Does anybody else wish to speak on the amendment? The hon. Member for Red Deer-North.

Mrs. Jablonski: Thank you, Mr. Chairman. It's a pleasure to speak to the amendments to Bill 204, the Pharmacy and Drug (Methamphetamine Limiting) Amendment Act, 2005. This is an important piece of legislation, and these amendments will ensure that the intent of the bill is preserved while the interests of Albertans are maintained.

I believe Bill 204 is complementary to Bill 202, the Protection of Children Abusing Drugs Act, that was passed in the spring session. I would like to commend the Member for West Yellowhead for his persistence and dedication in working with various groups to ensure that the bill will produce the intended effects without the unintended consequences. This is always a difficult task when creating legislation.

Mr. Chairman, the fight against crystal meth is difficult since the drug is readily available because of the ingredients used to produce it. It is very cheap to make and, unlike other drugs, can be made anywhere. This is why the drug has spread so rapidly and why it has created such havoc in Alberta as well as most of Canada and the United States. To combat this trend, jurisdictions have created various pieces of legislation. The biggest challenge to our government has been to balance the interests of Albertans with the need to take action against this deadly drug.

With the amendment to Bill 204 these interests will be balanced quite reasonably. The amendments deal with which products should be behind the counters and which should not. The original purpose of the bill was not to put every product that contains ephedrine, ephedra, or pseudoephedrine behind the counter. Rather the purpose was to put those medications which contain substantial amounts of these ingredients in the control of the pharmacists. This is why the bill is being amended to focus on products where pseudoephedrine is the only ingredient. These are the products that are being used by the drug producers, not the products where pseudoephedrine is one ingredient amongst many.

The amendment will mean that approximately 21 products will be behind the counters as opposed to 200 originally thought to be included and that sick Albertans will have access to the medication they need to feel better without being inconvenienced too much. The amendment creates a real win-win situation.

3:50

Mr. Chairman, the problem I had with this bill when it was introduced several months ago was that I thought it would work better as federal legislation. My issue was that if someone could not get these ingredients in Alberta, they would simply drive to Saskatchewan or B.C. However, the other western provinces have been working to create similar legislation to avoid this problem. I'm very happy to hear that the provinces have all stepped up in the absence of federal leadership on this issue.

I want to thank the federal government, however, for taking some action on crystal meth by increasing sentences for the trafficking and possession of this terrible drug. This was a very important move as dealers were simply not deterred by the law. More leadership from the feds would go a long way, like tripling the sentence for a dealer who is selling to a minor, but I think Albertans and Canadians will take what they can get.

The lack of federal leadership on this and many other fronts forces provinces to work closely together to do what is right for Canadians. This lack of leadership is why in recent years provincial premiers have united and have held several summits and meetings to fight tough issues that the federal government does not act on.

On June 10 there was a meeting of western ministers of health, justice, and public safety, which was called Building Partnerships to Address Addictions, Responding to Crystal Meth. During that conference the western leaders decided that each jurisdiction should adopt legislation to restrict the sale of products containing ephedrine and pseudoephedrine. The idea was to follow Alberta's lead and create legislation that is similar to Bill 204. This is the reason for this amendment. Bill 204 was the sample piece of legislation for the western leaders, but it needed to be amended slightly to ensure that it created an appropriate response to the problem without creating unintended consequences.

Mr. Chairman, what I found comforting about this conference was the level of co-operation and participation that was achieved. Aboriginal communities are among the victims of the meth problem, and for this reason the provincial leaders invited Chief Bird of the Federation of Saskatchewan Indian Nations to express the important perspectives of the First Nations peoples. As we all know, Alberta's aboriginal communities often live in isolated areas. They do not enjoy the same access to pharmacies and medications as the people who live in Edmonton, Calgary, or any other larger communities. Many rural Albertans must also travel to access pharmacies and medications. The amendment we are discussing addresses the concerns of these groups by ensuring that most cold products are available in convenience and grocery stores.

Mr. Chairman, this was the intended purpose of Bill 204. This amendment will ensure that the bill will have maximum effect in reducing the production of crystal meth and will not cause undue hardship on Albertans who are in need of cold medications.

In conclusion, Mr. Chairman, I would like to acknowledge the Member for West Yellowhead for introducing this bill and for working with several stakeholders to ensure that the bill will produce the desired results. I would also like to express my thanks to the ministers and leaders from the western provinces, aboriginal communities, and the federal government for taking action on crystal meth. Working together is the only way we will be able to overcome this devastating problem in our society.

Mr. Chairman, Bill 204 is not meant to be a panacea, a cure-all, for crystal meth addiction. However, it is an important step in the war on this drug. It is my duty to support this amendment, this bill, and any reasonable measure that will help us win the fight against crystal meth. I strongly urge all members to also support this amendment and the legislation.

The Deputy Chair: Hon. Member for Edmonton-Centre, did you want to speak on the amendment?

Ms Blakeman: To the bill, please.

The Deputy Chair: To the bill itself. Okay.

The hon. Member for Lac La Biche-St. Paul.

Mr. Danyluk: Thank you very much, Mr. Chairman. I'd like to speak on the amendment as it pertains to Bill 204, the Pharmacy and Drug (Methamphetamine Limiting) Amendment Act, 2005, which I believe is very important. I'm glad to have this opportunity to rise and speak to it. I would also like to thank the hon. Member for West Yellowhead for bringing it forward so that we can discuss it here today.

[Mr. Prins in the chair]

It would mean that cold, cough, and allergy medicines that are multi-entity pseudoephedrine products rather than single-entity would be accessible to the general public. This would be a wise decision, Mr. Chairman, since multimedicines containing pseudoephedrine are subject to a complicated procedure in order to be used in the manufacturing of methamphetamine and should, therefore, still be easily available to citizens who require them.

I believe, Mr. Chairman, that anything the government can do to prevent individuals from manufacturing crystal meth is a noble goal. Bill 204 will no doubt help to reduce the number of meth labs within the province of Alberta. I don't believe that Bill 204 and our other current laws aimed at reducing the production and sale of methamphetamines will completely halt the production and sale of this highly addictive drug.

Mr. Chairman, I think we need to be aware that there are still methods by which methamphetamine producers are going to be able to obtain the pseudoephedrine products that are required in order to get the ephedrine they need for the production of this illegal drug. Not only will meth producers be able to simply drive to the United States, pick up these drugs, and return to Alberta for manufacturing, but they will also be able to use the Internet in order to obtain them. There are a large number of online pharmacies out there, both Canadian-run and internationally-run, and not much, if anything, can be done in order to regulate the companies and, in some cases, the individuals running these sites and delivering these pharmaceuticals. In other words, there is not much that can be done to prevent a methamphetamine manufacturer from simply ordering a large quantity of pseudoephedrine off the Internet and having it shipped to an Alberta address.

In order to see how simple it would be, Mr. Chairman, to obtain a large quantity of pseudoephedrine, I simply researched the Internet and found that a number of these online pharmacies will sell large amounts of drugs to anyone with a credit card and, in some cases, even a personal cheque. One such example was on the site drugstore.com where for a mere $178.30 I would have been able to order 500 pseudoephedrine capsules. Another site, canadadrugs.com, which is based in Winnipeg, would allow me to purchase four boxes, or 96 doses, of Tantaferd, tab 60 milligrams, which is a single-ingredient pseudoephedrine product, for a mere $36.87 including shipping. There are countless online pharmacies, and no doubt it is nearly or equally as easy to obtain these products from them.

Unfortunately, whereas placing these products behind the counters in pharmacies to be monitored by pharmacists according to Bill 204 is a realistic option to curb the production of meth, there is no such procedure available for the sale of a single-entity pseudoephedrine product online. If we are able to place these drugs in schedule 2, there is no way to be sure that those interested in making the drug wouldn't simply order the necessary nonprescription drugs from other provinces, the States, or from other international companies.

Even if it were to be decided that the single-entity pseudoephedrine products would be placed as schedule 1 drugs, which are prescription-only drugs, there are still ways that individuals would be able to obtain the needed drugs for the creation of crystal meth. Although many online pharmacies require a copy of the person's prescription to be faxed to the company, these types of documents can be forged easily enough by determined individuals. As well, Mr. Chairman, there would no doubt continue to be methods of obtaining the drugs whether or not a prescription were required from different Internet groups, just as they are now.

Also, although volume control may be possible by pharmacists in actual pharmacies with physical locations, limiting quantities of the drug does not seem to be something that can be or is enforced by online pharmacies. Again, Mr. Chairman, in looking at these Internet pharmacies online, I found that most sites do not limit the amount of single-entity pseudoephedrine products that a consumer is able to buy.

Mr. Chairman, the limitations that I have mentioned are not to discourage or to in any way denounce Bill 204. I mentioned the availability of the drugs that are the precursor to methamphetamine over the Internet before. I believe that it is a matter of which we must all be aware. The bill will unfortunately be unable to stop the production of methamphetamine, Mr. Chairman.

4:00

That being said, I must reiterate that I do still support this bill. I believe that Bill 204 will be able to help decrease the number of small-scale, or mom-and-pop, meth labs within the province. Whereas the big-scale methamphetamine producers have access to large quantities of ephedrine, Bill 204 will help to reduce the number of small operations by curbing their access to large quantities of over-the-counter single-entity pseudoephedrine products needed for the creation of crystal meth.

Mr. Chairman, again I would like to take this opportunity to thank the presenter of Bill 204 and to thank the hon. Member for West Yellowhead for bringing this issue forward for discussion. Methamphetamine is very dangerous as an illegal substance and one that I know we would like to get rid of from this province.

Thank you very much, Mr. Chairman.

The Acting Chair: Well, thank you to the Member for Lac La Biche-St. Paul. You did very well with all those pronunciations.

Now, anyone else on the amendment? I believe the Member for Edmonton-McClung maybe was standing up first.

Mr. Elsalhy: Thank you, Mr. Chairman. Very briefly – and I've expressed my support in the initial phases of debate – on this amendment A1 to Bill 204, the Pharmacy and Drug (Methamphetamine Limiting) Amendment Act, 2005, one thought came to mind when I listened to the presenter of the bill, with whom I agree on most of what he said. When he mentioned, you know, the rationale for limiting it to single-entity cough, cold, and flu remedies and not extending it to multiple-ingredient products, I immediately remembered the discussion that we had in this House last week when we were debating the merits of extending presumptive coverage for cardiovascular events to other emergency response personnel in addition to firefighters. The hon. sponsor of that bill stood up, and he said that he disagreed with me and my caucus colleagues because, in his words, there was "no science" backing up our statements. So my question to the hon. sponsor is: what is the science on which you based your thinking?

We may be limiting single-entity products initially, but then those criminals, those crooks who cook up crystal meth in their homes or in their basements, will probably find some other household detergent or some other product that is readily available to extract ephedrine or pseudoephedrine from those multiple-ingredient products. So what we're doing is just delaying it a bit. They're very resourceful, they're very creative, and they would probably find a way around it.

Second would be the thought I had when the discussion centred around how cumbersome it is and how costly for pharmacies and pharmacists to redesign their dispensaries and to bring in more shelves or spend more money on restocking those multiple-ingredient products in their dispensaries. I find this argument not very strong because, for example, the hon. Member for Red Deer-North mentioned that there are 200-plus products that include ephedrine or pseudoephedrine or some derivative thereof, and I would argue that most of these are interchangeable. By that I mean that you don't have to stock them all to have all the different various combinations of ingredients.

[Mr. Shariff in the chair]

From my own experience as a practising community pharmacist you can actually have only about 30 or so of those products without risking not having all the different combinations available. You don't have to stock every single brand name and every single make and strength and bar code to have general coverage of all the different afflictions. You can have one for just a runny nose or one for a runny nose and sneezing or for a runny nose, sneezing, and red eyes or runny nose, sneezing, red eyes, and cough or any different permutation of those. So you don't have to stock all 200 products.

Also, my colleagues in the Official Opposition and myself particularly, because of people's knowledge of my prior life, we have not received a lot of communication from concerned pharmacists or pharmacy operators who said that this was going to be very cumbersome. As a matter of fact, the college itself supported this, and they said: yes, that's a good idea. So it's not an argument that I'm willing to accept.

Also, I wanted to mention that if we're really concerned about those drug stores, maybe we should look at a mechanism where they are empowered and compensated to undertake such an initiative. One example comes to mind with the electronic health record. For example, when the Ministry of Health and Wellness was promoting the EHR and trying to have it widespread and have it across the province, they offered an upgrading allowance to all the different participating drugstores, an upgrading allowance that included upgrades to your software to be able to link to the EHR and also to your hardware to be able to secure the information and access the information on a timely basis. So it has been done before. Why not extend it to this scenario as well?

Finally, I think that the concern that was quoted from the chain drugstores or the grocery distributors was overemphasized. These people, yes, have a reason to be concerned because they risk losing some of their sales, but honestly I think these products should belong in a pharmacy to start with. They don't belong in a gas station. They don't belong in a corner grocery store. They belong in pharmacies only, and maybe that's a good decision to have them behind the counter so a pharmacist has to intervene and has to offer professional advice before they're accessed.

Further, the argument that patients in rural Alberta may not have access to a drugstore and that they would have to go to a local grocery store or a gas station to buy their cough, cold, or flu remedy really intrigues me. We should then be thinking about the reasons why most rural communities do not have a medical clinic or why they do not have a local pharmacy or drugstore within them. We're not graduating enough health professionals in this province, and we're not encouraging the ones who do graduate to practise or to set up shop in rural communities. We're not enticing them with any incentives whatsoever, and the bigger centres are more attractive, of course – Edmonton, Calgary, and Red Deer – and then the smaller communities are suffering. So maybe this is a discussion for another day where we should look at what we can do to attract and retain health professionals, top-notch practitioners, in rural Alberta, be it physicians and/or pharmacists.

Although I don't disagree with the amendment – I understand where they're coming from – I think it's just a statement that they didn't want to displease the grocery association, and I think that in doing so, they have sidetracked from the initial intent, which was basically to protect the public and to limit access to a precursor that is easily available and easily used to make crystal meth in people's homes or kitchens or basements. I think that we would have been better served if we had kept the initial bill in its original format, which also included the multiple-ingredient preparations.

With that I would invite further debate and thank you for this opportunity.

The Deputy Chair: The hon. Member for Drayton Valley-Calmar.

Rev. Abbott: Well, thank you, Mr. Chairman. It is with great pleasure that I rise to join the debate surrounding Bill 204 as it moves through Committee of the Whole. There is no doubt that the problem faced by Albertans and Canadians on the whole with respect to crystal meth is a large one. The highly addictive properties of the drug, coupled with the relative ease with which it is made and the low cost to purchase it, make this drug one of the most dangerous narcotics in circulation. It's certainly a problem in Drayton Valley, and I know that it's a problem in the hon. Member for West Yellowhead's riding as well, so I thank him for bringing this important bill forward.

Mr. Chairman, the effects of crystal meth are horrendous, rotting both the mind and the body. Any addiction has a negative effect on that person and on their family, but with this drug the effects seem to be magnified.

The proposed amendment to Bill 204 is one which makes a lot of sense. The changes which are proposed in the amendment to section 2 of the bill ensure that the Pharmacy and Drug (Methamphetamine Limiting) Amendment Act, 2005, will achieve the goal which it is intended for; that is, limiting access to ingredients used in the manufacture of crystal meth. As representatives of Albertans we have a responsibility and an obligation to address issues which have an effect on our province. This piece of legislation gives us another avenue to pursue the reduction of drug use in Alberta.

4:10

Also, the measures outlined in the amendments to Bill 204 will be an excellent fit with other programs which are in place to combat this awful drug. Mr. Chairman, at present there are programs in place which pursue other methods of addressing the problem of drug abuse in Alberta. These include addressing issues of education as well as treatment of those addicted to drugs. The government of Alberta, through AADAC, has long been involved in a variety of education programs informing Albertans of the dangers of drug use. I would argue that the function of these programs is very similar to what is being addressed by the amendments to Bill 204, and that is prevention.

Some of these programs specially target young Albertans. Recently AADAC has run a successful ad campaign featuring two different advertisements which highlight the consequences of using crystal meth. Having seen these ads, I can say that they address the issue in a straightforward and frank manner. It is acknowledged that the drug can bring positive feelings, which come with the high, but it then goes on to illustrate the side effects, and there are many and they are extremely negative. Educational tools such as these have a strong effect because they show Albertans what the true consequences of using crystal meth can be. By reducing access to the key ingredient of crystal meth, we can hopefully limit the amount of this drug being manufactured and thereby prevent more Albertans from becoming addicted to it.

On the other end of the spectrum from prevention is treatment, treatment of those who have become addicted to crystal meth and other drugs. This issue is also being addressed by the government through the auspices of AADAC. Earlier this month AADAC announced the opening of 24 new addiction treatment beds in the province specifically targeted at youths. This expanded space will allow for treatment of higher numbers of youths in the province who have fallen prey to a drug addiction. While these beds are not specific to any one drug, increasing the province's capacity to deal with addiction will certainly help alleviate the impact that crystal meth has on our society.

Mr. Chairman, while the prevalence of this drug has not yet reached levels witnessed by some of the U.S. states, I believe that this means we have an opportunity to act and ensure that Alberta never sees those levels of use. The proposed amendments to Bill 204 take a proactive approach to addressing a part of the crystal meth issue. Any obstacle which can be thrown in front of those looking to produce methamphetamine provides us the opportunity to reduce the chances that another Albertan will become addicted to this drug.

A possible outcome of the increased barrier to the manufacture of crystal meth is a potential rise in the price of the drug. Now, this could happen through two ways, Mr. Chairman. First, in absolute terms the amendments to Bill 204 are designed to make the production of meth more difficult. This means that producers will need to charge more for their product, reducing one of the – and I use this word very loosely – attractive points of meth, which is of course the low cost.

Secondly, by reducing the amount of crystal meth being made, this will cause the price of the available drug to rise because there will be less of it. It's a simple case of supply and demand. Again, the higher price reduces the attractiveness of this drug and will hopefully act as a deterrent to those who are interested in obtaining this drug. By reducing access to the necessary ingredients used in making crystal meth, we can positively affect the amount of this drug in our society.

Mr. Chairman, I fully support the proposed amendments to Bill 204. They provide a common-sense approach to addressing the issue of crystal meth use and production in Alberta. Additionally, I support an amended Bill 204. This piece of legislation as amended will provide another deterrent to drug use in Alberta and is a good fit with current policies and programs addressing drug use in our province.

I would like to congratulate the Member for West Yellowhead on bringing forward this piece of legislation. Mr. Chairman, in closing I would invite all members on both sides of the Chamber to stand and support Bill 204, the Pharmacy and Drug (Methamphetamine Limiting) Amendment Act, 2005.

Thank you.

The Deputy Chair: The hon. Member for Edmonton-Calder.

Mr. Eggen: Thank you, Mr. Chairman. Please, if I could be reminded, are we speaking on the amendment or the bill?

The Deputy Chair: On the amendment.

Mr. Eggen: On the amendment still?

The Deputy Chair: Yes.

Mr. Eggen: Okay. I was wanting to speak on the bill actually.

The Deputy Chair: Okay. Great.

The hon. Member for Calgary-Lougheed.

Mr. Rodney: Thank you, Mr. Chairman. It's with pleasure that I rise today to continue debate on the amendment proposed to Bill 204, which ensures that it's more difficult to access an important precursor to methamphetamine. To set the record straight right from the start, I'd like to point out that while people commonly refer to crystal meth and methamphetamine synonymously, crystal meth is only one form of the drug. It's the smokable form.

Mr. Chairman, while individuals and society are quickly learning that meth is indeed extremely dangerous, public awareness surrounding it does continue to grow every day. And those are good things. We see it on television. News, specials, movies of the week: they highlight the devastating effect that substance abuse in general has on communities and families. As chair of AADAC I hear first-hand accounts all too regularly of how meth use has become a very serious problem for all kinds of Alberta communities: rural and urban, rich and poor.

I believe that there are two reasons for the rapid rise in meth use and production in Canada and the United States. The first is due to the actual nature of the drug: very highly addictive. The second is the relative ease with which this drug can be produced. It's this aspect of the drug that both the amendment and the bill itself seek to address. Anyone who has access to the Internet and possesses basic chemistry skills can make meth just about anywhere with supplies that are readily available at hardware and grocery stores. Mr. Chairman, the ease with which meth is produced is the reason why it is so important that this amendment proceed.

This amendment would elevate single-entity pseudoephedrine products to schedule 2 from their current unrestricted status. The elevation of pseudoephedrine to schedule 2 would mean that single-entity pseudoephedrine could only be sold by pharmacists and that those products would have to be kept out of public access areas in the pharmacy. In other words, products like Sudafed extra strength decongestant tablets would only be available behind the pharmacist's counter because it is a single-entity pseudoephedrine product. Bill 204 would then have the potential to limit public access to precursors used in the production of meth.

Although federal actions and regulations are making it more difficult to get large quantities of ephedrine, producers may turn to single-entity products like those with pseudoephedrine to make meth. The amendment would allow the Alberta government to act in a pre-emptive fashion and help prevent the production of meth by restricting access to one of its precursors. While the use of cold medication in the production of meth is currently limited, the potential exists for it to be expanded. So for obvious reasons it's extremely important that we not allow methamphetamine production to expand.

Mr. Chairman, the amendments proposed by the hon. Member for West Yellowhead strike an important balance between protecting Albertans from the negative impacts of meth use and allowing them access to the medications that they need. However, they limit the availability of only single-entity products. The distinction between multi-entity and single-entity is very important.

The purpose of this bill is not to limit the legitimate use of cold medications. Bill 204 as originally proposed would have moved all products containing ephedrine and pseudoephedrine behind the pharmacist's counter. At first glance this would not seem to be that great of a restriction. For example, any legitimate user of Sudafed or a similar product would likely not have a problem asking the pharmacist for such a product, while an illegitimate user would be less likely to ask for the product from a pharmacist since any request for a significant quantity of the product would likely draw suspicion. There's no significant difficulty for the legitimate user of cold and allergy medication.

However, this law would have prevented all multi-entity products containing pseudoephedrine from being sold in grocery or convenience stores without pharmacies. While this may not seem like a major issue for the people of Calgary or Edmonton where 24-hour pharmacies are common, I can assure you that it would be a major issue for rural Albertans. I hear about it quite regularly. In rural Alberta during evenings and on weekends there's less access to pharmacy products. Grocery and convenience stores provide a vital link in helping rural Albertans to get relief until they're able to get proper medical attention.

4:20

Under the amendment proposed this afternoon, the medications that would still be available in convenience stores are multi-entity pseudoephedrine products. Mr. Chairman, as I alluded to earlier, the easiest and most common way of making meth, at least at the current time, involves using ephedrine. The second easiest way to produce this drug is through the use of single-entity products. The use of multi-entity products to produce methamphetamine is actually rare and represents the most difficult method of extracting the necessary precursors. These products do however provide Albertans with necessary relief from legitimate medical symptoms and, therefore, should continue to be available at all retailers.

In short, I believe that it would be unreasonable to restrict access to needed medications when that restriction would not likely result in the reduction of methamphetamine production. Albertans should have reasonable access to multi-entity pseudoephedrine products so that if they don't feel well in the evening, they can purchase medications to relieve their symptoms until they have a chance to go to the doctor. From a rural perspective this amendment makes complete sense. It seeks to ensure that Albertans can access medication while limiting the ability of those who seek pseudoephedrine for illicit purposes to gain access to large quantities of this product.

Mr. Chairman, this amendment reflects a commitment that I've seen recently in this House towards ensuring that Albertans and their children are protected from drug abuse, including the use of methamphetamine. If successful, this bill will join with the initiatives proposed in Bill 202 and pave the way for Alberta to be a leader in protecting children from substance abuse.

At a recent ministerial meeting I attended in Regina in June, ministers from western Canada agreed to work together on the meth issue in an attempt to stop the abuse of this drug. The amendment to Bill 204 supports that objective and all of the others that were laid out in the ministerial communiqués produced at that meeting.

Mr. Chairman, Bill 204 as amended will take a significant step forward in limiting the production and use of methamphetamine. By taking a comprehensive approach to this emerging issue, I believe we're making significant progress towards AADAC's goal of an Alberta free from the harmful effects of substance abuse.

I urge all members to support this amendment from the hon. Member for West Yellowhead and to support Bill 204. I believe we owe it to the future generations of Alberta.

Thank you, Mr. Chairman.

The Deputy Chair: Hon. Member for Calgary-Varsity, did you want to speak on the amendment?

Mr. Chase: Yes. Hopefully, it's to the amendment. I would like to ask the hon. Member for Calgary-Lougheed how many staffed AADAC beds we have in total throughout the province now that the 24 additional beds have been added.

The Deputy Chair: I believe you are wanting to kind of rise like we do under Standing Order 29(2)(a). That doesn't apply, but the hon.

member may be able to participate later on because at committee there's no limit on the number of times you can stand.

Mr. Chase: Okay. Thank you very much.

The Deputy Chair: The chair will recognize the hon. member, if he so chooses.

At this time the chair recognizes the hon. Member for Strathcona.

Mr. Lougheed: Thanks, Mr. Chairman. I'm pleased to join this debate on the amendment to Bill 204 that's currently before us. The Member for West Yellowhead has sponsored a valid amendment to the original bill that was put forward. As amended, this bill would make it more difficult to obtain single-entity pseudoephedrine products by reclassifying these drugs as schedule 2 drugs under the Pharmacy and Drug Act. As I am sure we have heard, but it's certainly worth repeating, schedule 2 drugs are sold behind the counter in a licensed pharmacy or an institution's pharmacy.

Now, when this legislation came forward, it afforded me the opportunity to question pharmacists and other professionals and discuss their view of the problem. That discussion has also given me insight into what I perceive is their view of this proposed amendment. After all, it's the pharmacists who work on the front lines and would be most affected by this legislation. The amendment is putting single-entity pseudoephedrine products behind their counter and in their control. They would be responsible for releasing them at their discretion to the general public.

Pharmacists have been asked what they thought about the proposed amendment to put single-entity pseudoephedrine products behind the counter, and these pharmacists, most concerned about Albertans and their ability to keep Albertans safe and informed about their health and their medication, have discussed it with me at some length. One of the first points the pharmacists all made was that they have already voluntarily moved single-entity pseudoephedrine products behind the counter. The reason they gave for this is that the Alberta College of Pharmacists, the body to which all Alberta pharmacists both belong and answer to, requested exactly that. I understand also that in June of 2004 pharmacies voluntarily relocated single-entity pseudoephedrine products to behind the counter at the request of the Alberta College of Pharmacists.

One of the pharmacists referred to other jurisdictions as another reason to voluntarily move their products, stating that recently both Manitoba and Saskatchewan have announced legislation requiring pharmacies to relocate single-entity pseudoephedrine products to behind the counter. The pharmacists thought it appropriate that even if there was not similar legislation in Alberta, the practice should be recommended so as to prevent someone, say, from the Saskatchewan side of Lloydminster visiting the Alberta side and buying the products off the shelf here in Alberta. That was an example given as quite possible.

Though I understand that Bill 204 is necessary, I was extremely pleased to hear that pharmacies across the province and the Alberta College of Pharmacists are already taking action. In fact, Mr. Chairman, one of the pharmacists mentioned earlier that the national chain that he works for has made the decision to voluntarily move all single-entity pseudoephedrine products behind the counter in all of their pharmacies across all of Canada. This is good news, of course, and I'd hope that all members would support this legislation if for the sole reason to ensure that Alberta regulations fall in line with what happens in other parts of this country. They have already done this voluntarily in large measure.

Mr. Chairman, when an Albertan walks into a pharmacy, they need to feel that they are being provided with accurate and safe information. I've been reminded by the pharmacists that their first and primary concern is the well-being of their patients, and they agree that if they were to allow the sale of single-entity pseudoephedrine products to customers without ensuring that the customer was informed and the use was safe, then they would not be doing their job. As a matter of fact, one pharmacist stated her concern as follows, and I quote: does the proliferation of crystal meth go against the well-being of my patients? Yes. End of quote. It is apparent that pharmacists are doing what they can to ensure that single-entity pseudoephedrine products stay out of the hands of those interested in abusing them for the purpose of making crystal meth.

Pharmacists did raise some concerns, however. I think their concerns are valid, and they need to be discussed to ensure that we as a Legislature are doing all that we can to stop the proliferation of crystal meth. They felt that although increasing the restriction on single-entity pseudoephedrine products will help to reduce the crystal meth problem, it's a long way from making it go away. They referred to this legislation as a single step in what would be a very long trip. I share that opinion as well. Crystal meth is a monster hazard. It's consuming the lives of our youth, and it's growing worse. We can't solve this issue overnight, but we have to ensure that as members of this Legislature of this great province we do everything we can in our power to limit the access to the chemicals needed to produce crystal meth. As long as we view this amendment as part of a larger solution, then we are headed in the right direction, but we still have quite a long way to go.

4:30

Another concern pharmacists have shared is the fact that the majority of crystal meth is not being made with off-the-shelf pseudoephedrine; rather, it is coming from chemical wholesalers via the Internet and even mail distribution. In fact, the pharmacists I talked to made the observation that since they voluntarily pulled all single-entity pseudoephedrine products off the shelf and put them behind the counter, they have not noticed any increase or any additional inquiries for its sale.

We can't look at this proposed amendment as a solution, and certainly we can't sweep the whole problem under the rug. We as representatives and legislators must find alternative and innovative solutions to win the battle against drugs like crystal meth. The pharmacists I talked to concerning the proposed amendment were guardedly optimistic. They liked that this legislation would bring a standard that's in conjunction with the volunteer efforts currently taking place, and we would in reality be raising the bar to where the Alberta College of Pharmacists have already placed it. However, they were concerned that MLAs would step back, thinking that all that can be done has been done. Mr. Chairman, I assured anyone I talked to that we would not take that approach.

Mr. Chairman, we need to assure Alberta's youth and their parents that we are doing everything we can to protect them from crystal meth and, for that matter, other illicit drugs. So I encourage all members to support this proposed amendment and continue to support the battle against crystal meth.

Thank you very much.

The Deputy Chair: The hon. Member for Wetaskiwin-Camrose.

Ms Blakeman: On the amendment?

The Deputy Chair: On the amendment.

Mr. Johnson: On the amendment. Thank you, Mr. Chairman. It's a pleasure of mine to rise today and contribute to the discussion on the amendment for Bill 204, Pharmacy and Drug (Methamphetamine Limiting) Amendment Act. First, if I could, I wish to thank the hon. Member for West Yellowhead for his leadership in introducing this most important bill. The issue of methamphetamine abuse is a real concern, and this bill is a part of a series of measures targeting that abuse.

Crystal methamphetamine, also known as jib, crank, meth, crystal, ice, or speed, is a synthetically produced drug that directly alters the hormonal regulations of the central nervous system. What is most disturbing regarding crystal methamphetamine is the simplicity of how it is composed. Should you or I, Mr. Chairman, pay a visit to a local drug store, we could easily obtain the most critical ingredients to produce crystal meth. It is this very fact that Bill 204 combats.

Bill 204, coupled with the amendment that I rise to speak to today, is a first attainable step in limiting the availability of pseudoephedrine containing medicinal drugs and its salts by reclassifying the drugs as schedule 2 drugs under the Pharmacy and Drug Act. What this reclassification does is remove these medications from public access, where there is minute purchasing tracking, and places them behind the counter, where the purchase of pseudoephedrine medicines may be observed and regulated by pharmacists.

To understand how important this measure is, Mr. Chairman, we must understand the severity of crystal meth abuse itself. In all frankness, the realities surrounding this specific drug are startling, and its effects on society and individuals are quite simply frightening. Production labs for crystal meth synthesis are so makeshift and simplistic in nature that they have been found in homes, apartments, hotels, vehicles, and warehouses.

Further, the production of crystal methamphetamine is a highly toxic process. Chemicals used in its production are corrosive, explosive, flammable, toxic, and can cause major environmental harm in addition to posing serious health and public safety concerns. In fact, Mr. Chairman, for every one pound of methamphetamine produced, an average of five or six pounds of toxic chemical waste is produced. As startling as this might be, one has yet to even scratch the surface of the horrors that crystal meth evokes.

Posing another great risk to individuals is the ambiguity revolving around the toxicity of the drug. No matter how seasoned a user, it is difficult, in fact impossible, to know the exact strength of the drug or what dangerous chemicals it is being cut with even when buying from a familiar supplier. The resulting effects after one consumes crystal meth are limitless. Even in small amounts one may feel increased wakefulness, increased heart rate and respiration, decreased appetite, excessive talking, and increased body temperature. Users may also experience tremors, mental confusion, hyperthermia, convulsions, insomnia, irritability, aggression, and chest pain, also hypertension, and cardiovascular collapse. The list continues, Mr. Chairman.

Users rapidly develop a strong pattern of psychological dependence in which the next use is typically larger than the last. Psychological effects include memory loss, hallucinations, paranoia, mood disturbance, repetitive behaviours, and formication. Overdosing can cause delusions, seizures, stroke, heart failure, coma, and even death.

Police in rural cities, towns, and villages primarily in the northern area of the province, including right here in Edmonton, have identified the use and manufacturing of methamphetamine as a growing and immediate problem. The abuse of crystal methamphetamine is indiscriminate to the provincial boundary. As a response to this, western ministers responsible for health, justice, and public safety met in Regina on June 10 of this year to discuss a western interprovincial and interterritorial approach. The result of that meeting is the amendment that we are discussing today.

My support for this amendment is in effect two-tiered. The first tier of my support stems from what this move will accomplish in the fight against crystal methamphetamine. This amendment removes pseudoephedrines from the public store shelf and places them behind the counter under the control and supervision of pharmacists. Not only will this move act as a significant deterrent to one wishing to use pseudoephedrines for illegal purposes, but it will also equip drugstore personnel with the ability to more closely monitor the purchasing patterns of patrons. Red flags, Mr. Chairman, will be able to be determined more easily and reported to the proper authorities.

The second tier of my support is based on the effectiveness that this amendment will create. The interprovincial and interterritorial approach represents a powerful tool in reducing the prevalence of crystal meth in our province and is the first real, tangible mechanism that we have had to do so.

Mr. Chairman, perhaps what is most solidifying for me in my support of this amendment is to hear the personal stories of people whose lives have been torn apart by crystal meth abuse. In a documentary originally aired on March 23, 2005, on The Fifth Estate, viewers were introduced to a young girl who at the age of 13 became addicted to crystal meth. This young girl, now 16, who is just beginning to free herself from her addiction, described one night in which she overdosed on meth. She said: "I ended up outside in the rain. I had frostbitten feet. I was talking to people I thought were there, but they actually weren't there." Another young individual in this documentary had been addicted to crystal meth for five years. He said: "The dark side is when it takes control of you. You don't choose when you do it. It chooses you and pretty much isolates you. I have so much potential, but I'm slowly drifting further and further away from it."

4:40

Mr. Chairman, as a province and we as its leaders must do everything we can to ensure that this isolation and loss of potential as described is kept at bay. It is in this light that I support this amendment as an important tool in the fight against the resurgence of crystal meth. I not only ask my colleagues, but I also urge them for their support of this amendment. We must seize this opportunity to deliver a solid blow to this stunningly disturbing addiction.

Thank you, Mr. Chairman.

The Deputy Chair: The hon. Member for Edmonton-Centre.

Ms Blakeman: Thank you very much, Mr. Chairman. In considering what is proposed in this amendment that has been brought forward by the same member who proposed the bill, what I keep seeing is that the government and this government member keep making choices that are easy but not right. They're ineffective choices. We know that the problem here is not one of supply; it's one of demand. This bill does nothing to deal with what drives that demand. Nothing.

On the other end of it, what are we dealing with here? What's everybody complaining about? What are the effects that people have been now talking about for an hour and a half? They're talking about a need for treatment, and what the effect of this bill is on somebody. There's nothing in this bill that addresses treatment at all.

Let's face it. To actually be able to cook a good batch of meth, you need boxes and boxes and boxes and boxes of this, so changing this to an over-the-counter deal is not going to substantially alter what's going on here. You know, you are not getting people going in and purchasing 30 boxes of Sudafed or NyQuil or something with this active drug in it in order to cook meth. They might be going to several different pharmacies in an urban area and getting six boxes at each, but frankly, we've got to give the pharmacists a bit of credit here. They know what's going on in their stores. They're already watching. Most of them are already running voluntary programs.

The Pharmacists Association I think has a voluntary code that they're already working with that lays out that they need to be watching for this kind of thing and being involved in public education strategies. So they can already see when you've got a customer coming in and purchasing a number of units of boxes of pills for this and are likely, probably, already communicating with their local police detachment about that if they see it happening.

You know, once again I watch this government see a problem develop. Do they actually take steps that are going to address the problem or make a significant dent in it? No. What I see them doing – and yet again this is a perfect example – is pass off the responsibility to somebody else. Who's responsible for this? It's the pharmacists. The pharmacists are going to be the ones on whose backs this whole scheme rides.

Whether it's just the active ingredients here or whether they're composite drugs that are available, which the amendment is dealing with, that we won't deal with the multi-ingredient products and we will only put pure products behind really doesn't significantly matter because the government, this private member that is a member on the government side have not dealt with anything that is going to reduce the demand for this. Certainly, I've heard it repeated on this side with opposition members saying: "What are you doing? What strategies, what initiatives are out there to reduce the demand?" Without reducing that demand, this is a nod; this is a tip of the hat. This will not be effective in reducing the crystal meth problem that we have.

You know, I look across Canada and say: "Okay. What is everybody else doing here?" Well, we've got Alberta considering it. Manitoba and Saskatchewan have already limited the access and made it a schedule 2 or essentially made it that you have to purchase it over the counter. Therefore, you have to talk to the pharmacist, which frankly is a good thing because when the pharmacist gets involved, there's an opportunity for additional counselling and for the pharmacist to get a better idea of who they're dealing with and to be more alert for problems.

Again, we've got to give the pharmacists as a profession some credit here about being able to do their job. When I look at the crystal meth strategy in B.C., for example, it's working in partnership with the federal government, the College of Pharmacists, and the Pharmacy Association to control access. They're looking for bulk sales. They're looking for theft of cold medications. If there's a pattern, then they're following up on it.

The strategic plan for crystal meth and other amphetamines in Saskatchewan, 2004, is around a comprehensive alcohol and drug strategy developed by Saskatchewan Health. I mean, we've got absolute piecemeal happening, and this amendment is a perfect example of that: let's just throw one or two things at it; let's make it somebody else's problem and hope this all works. Well, it's not going to. The Ontario Pharmacists' Association has launched an awareness campaign at teaching pharmacists and the public about the threat of the drug, and it's meant to alert pharmacy staff to unusual purchases. Now, that's the kind of thing, you know, I'm talking about. They're already doing that in a lot of places. They're catching onto it in other places.

But whether what's being proposed by this member is really going to be effective in what we're trying to do, I have to say no. Am I going to vote against this bill? Probably not because it's harmless in itself, I suppose, except that once again it puts the onus on a group of people that didn't ask for this. This will have a cost for pharmacists. Will it drive them out of business? No, not likely. But it will be a cost for them. Once again the government, who's responsible for this issue and for developing a strategy and some concrete actions to deal with it, off-loads onto another group of people, who not only have to integrate it and produce something, but they've got the additional cost of building new shelves behind their counters on which to stock this product, maybe additional staff because they're now going to have to deal with everybody that comes forward looking for this.

My colleague rightly talked about rural health strategies and people's access in rural areas to these perfectly legal products. Will this stop someone who is really determined to get hold of it? No, it won't because, as I said, they'll shop around. They'll get three boxes from here and four boxes from there and six boxes from there, and they'll just keep going. Now, harder to do in the rural areas because, as my colleague from Edmonton-McClung pointed out, they're likely having to go and get cold remedies from the local gas station or from the grocery store because they don't have access to pharmacies in every small town anymore.

I'm just really disappointed at how ineffective this strategy is. I know that there have been a lot of government members get up and speak at length to it today, but really if that same political will had been put into a strategy to actually deal with decreasing the demand of it by looking at some activities for people to get involved with so that they aren't looking to drugs as an amusement, as a way to break the monotony of their life and of their existence, that would have been far more productive. Once again, the government member that's proposing this bill is doing the easy thing, not the right thing, and frankly it's ineffective.

Thank you.

The Deputy Chair: The hon. Member for Calgary-Foothills.

Mr. Webber: Thank you, Mr. Chairman. I'm pleased to rise this afternoon to speak to the amendment proposed by the Member for West Yellowhead. I think this amendment is reasonable, and I hope that each member present here today understands the reason for it.

As we've all heard, crystal meth is horrible. It is one of the most brutal drugs that have beset our communities. I know that there are plenty of drugs that we must all be aware of, drugs that are harmful to our children, and I think crystal meth is the most harmful of them all. I believe this is because it is not a drug that is imported from the fields of Colombia or cooked by experts in intricate labs. Rather, this drug can be made and is made by the most innocuous group. It doesn't take much to cook up crystal meth in one's basement, barn, or living room, and it is in these places where the drug is being made. I think that is a point that needs to be hammered home here today. This stuff is easily made, and we as legislators need to do our best to change that. This is where the amendment introduced today comes in.

4:50

As has been mentioned time and time again, the amendment puts single-entity pseudoephedrine products behind the counter in pharmacies across Alberta. This, Mr. Chairman, is important. The reason that we have crystal meth being cooked in basements, barns, and living rooms is because the ingredients are extremely easy to find. We have heard during debate how easy it is to find the recipes to make crystal meth by simply doing a search on the World Wide Web.

What I think has been overlooked a little bit is that not only are the instructions readily available online, but so are the ingredients.

Some may ask: what are the ingredients to make crystal meth? Well, after a quick search on the Internet, it is found that there are only three main ingredients that are needed to make this horrible drug: pseudoephedrine, iodine crystal, and red phosphorus. Now, red phosphorus is a very easily attainable substance because it is found in all strike pads on matchbooks. In my opinion, there is no possible way that we can limit this. It would be much too difficult to outlaw matchbooks without appearing ridiculously heavy-handed, so that part will remain easily obtainable.

Iodine, another ingredient, is watched and regulated by the federal government, and if large quantities are attempted to be bought, it is usually flagged. Iodine crystals can also be found in bottles of iodine tincture, which many farmers use for horses with problems with their hooves. It is easy enough to buy, and our farmers use it quite often, so regulating that more than it already is may also be too difficult to do.

However, the third and most important part of meth-making is the pseudoephedrine, which is found in many cold medications and is currently unregulated. This is the ingredient which is the most important to meth. This is the part of the meth equation that must be regulated more strictly because without this ingredient it is nearly impossible to make crystal meth.

Mr. Chairman, that is what this amendment is trying to accomplish today. The amendment before the Committee of the Whole ensures that all of those single-entity pseudoephedrine products will be put in an area where only those who need it will be able to access it. We are taking this drug and putting at least some restrictions on it.

Pseudoephedrine is only part of the crystal meth formula that is essential. By passing this amendment today, I think that we will be able to limit the access to this key ingredient. I think that it is important to recognize that this law is probably not going to rid our province of crystal meth. However, what it may do is ensure that the labs that are found in the basements, barns, and living rooms are few and far between. That is what we must focus on.

As I outlined some of the key ingredients of meth earlier in my remarks, I hope that members noticed that they weren't highly expensive products. In fact, I've been told that you can make this drug for very little money. This is why it is so attractive, as many different groups of people are able to make and access this drug.

Mr. Chairman, we must hope that this bill will cause some change within our communities. It is my hope that this step we are taking today will make access to crystal meth much more difficult. The more difficult it is to make, the more expensive I think it will become. The more expensive it becomes, the less it will be used. If we can lessen the use, we should be able to combat addictions a little easier. I believe this amendment is going to go a long way in accomplishing what we wish. I think today we will take a step forward in the fight against crystal meth. I urge all hon. members to vote in favour of the amendment here today.

Thank you.

The Deputy Chair: The hon. Member for Calgary-Fort.

Mr. Cao: Well, thank you, Mr. Chairman. It is a great pleasure to join the debate on Bill 204, the Pharmacy and Drug (Methamphetamine Limiting) Amendment Act, 2005, sponsored by the Member for West Yellowhead. As amended, Bill 204 would move single-entity pseudoephedrine products behind the pharmacy counter. This amendment and this legislation are long overdue.

The Alberta College of Pharmacists, businesses and pharmacists themselves, have been voluntarily moving single-entity pseudoephedrine products behind the counters. We've heard examples of this happening in Alberta, but it is also happening in other jurisdictions across North America.

For example, in April of this year the Target chain of stores in the United States announced that they would move all product containing pseudoephedrine behind the pharmacy counter. Additionally, the chain of stores also stated that in stores where there is no pharmacy, products containing pseudoephedrine would not be sold. Although some government jurisdictions had previously enacted legislation concerning the access to pseudoephedrine products, Target referred to itself as the first national retailer to voluntarily decide to place pseudoephedrine-based cough, cold, and allergy products behind the pharmacy counter. Target also stated that consumers who purchase products containing pseudoephedrine would continue to be limited to two packages per transaction or to more stringent restrictions as required by the local law.

In the United States the practice of moving pseudoephedrine products behind the counter began in April 2004. The approximately $2 billion over-the-counter cold, allergy, and sinus tablet category got a wake-up call when Oklahoma ordered that items containing the ingredient pseudoephedrine be removed from shelves and placed behind the pharmacy counters. Since then, several municipalities and states have passed or are considering legislation regarding the sale of pseudoephedrine products.

In fact, Mr. Chairman, at the same time that Target was announcing its new policy towards pseudoephedrine products, there were a number of other large consumer chain stores doing the same. In the span of one week Longs Drugs, Albertsons, and Wal-Mart each announced plans to move pseudoephedrine products behind the counter. In addition, Safeway has a policy limiting the sale of cold medications containing pseudoephedrine to three packets at a time. In that week alone 1,330 Target stores, 472 Longs Drugs stores, 2,000 Albertsons stores, and 4,000 Wal-Mart stores moved to limit access to pseudoephedrine products.

The trend followed into August, when Walgreens announced it would move all products containing pseudoephedrine, including liquids and gels, behind the pharmacy counter. Prior to that, for more than three years Walgreens had voluntarily placed limits exceeding those imposed by most of the state laws on the purchase of pseudoephedrine and other over-the-counter medication. Mr. Chairman, this was a substantial move as the Walgreens company in the United States is the largest drugstore chain, with fiscal 2004 sales of $37.5 billion. The company operated 4,859 stores in 45 states and Puerto Rico. When the largest drugstore chain in the United States jumps on board, it is time for the rest of the continent to jump on board as well.

These are examples, and it's quite an accomplishment and proof positive that by accepting the proposed amendment and passing this legislation, we are doing the right thing.

Colorado's attorney general John Suthers commented on the voluntary actions. I would like to share those comments with the House today. He stated:

The scourge of methamphetamine labs in Colorado has reached dangerous levels. In many cases, the labs pose a danger not only to users but also to innocent children and neighbors. I am pleased that Target and Albertsons have volunteered to put certain medicines used to manufacture meth behind the counter in an effort to discourage their purchase by illicit manufacturers.

He continued by mentioning that state officials in Oklahoma credit a state law, which moved certain non-prescription drugs containing pseudoephedrine behind the counter, with an eighty per cent decrease in meth lab seizures. In light of this evidence, I encourage other retailers in Colorado to consider following the lead of Target and Albertsons.

That was a quote from the Attorney General. An 80 per cent decrease, Mr. Chairman – 80 per cent – is a substantial step in the right direction. We may see the same type of result here, or we may not, but it is worth a try.

5:00

To ensure that the quoted statistic of 80 per cent was accurate, I found an ABC news report which discussed the history of this policy in the U.S.A. I would like to share that as well. The report stated that Oregon and Oklahoma have been among the most aggressive states in fighting meth production in smaller labs. In Oregon the law enforcement official asked the advice of meth dealers, users, and smurfers about what would work to slow down the production of meth. For clarification, Mr. Chairman, smurfers are the people who go from one store to another buying Sudafed or other pseudoephedrine-based products for cooks. The answer provided to the question is as follows: making pseudoephedrine hard to get would cripple small-time operators. As a result, in 2001 state legislation was drafted that would do just that, but the bill was quashed due in large part to extensive lobbying by the pharmaceutical industry.

Then in 2003 an Oklahoma police officer was shot and killed by a meth addict during a routine traffic stop, and that was impetus for an Oklahoma law passed in 2004 restricting the sale of products containing pseudoephedrine. Those medicines are now sold from behind the pharmacy counter, and people have to show ID to the pharmacist, who also keeps a monthly record of individual purchases.

According to Oklahoma's drug task force, that move has been a major victory on the war on meth. Local law enforcement saw results immediately, including an immediate 50 per cent reduction in meth labs. According to Oklahoma's drug task force, since the law was passed, there has been an 80 per cent to 90 per cent reduction in meth lab seizures plus the state has seen fewer meth-related cases being handled by child welfare and other social service programs.

Mr. Chairman, Oregon and more than 30 other states have adopted laws restricting the sale of pseudoephedrine, but the law enforcement officials readily admit that shutting down domestic labs has not kept anyone from getting meth. What they found is that the demand is being met by trafficking from other states or Mexico, but they still call the restriction successful to the welfare of the state. What they don't have are the deathtrap labs, destruction of property, and danger to children at risk.

In conclusion, Mr. Chairman, the voluntary and legislative examples I have provided show that this kind of legislation works. It is not a complete solution, but it is a long step in the right direction. I urge all members to support the proposed amendment and support the amended version of Bill 204.

I would like to call the question, Mr. Chairman.

The Deputy Chair: Any other speakers on the amendment?

[Motion on amendment A1 carried]

The Deputy Chair: On the bill itself, the hon. Member for West-Yellowhead.

Mr. Strang: Thank you very much, Mr. Chairman. At this time I'd like to sort of answer a couple of questions from the Member for Edmonton-Beverly-Clareview, the Member for Edmonton-McClung, and the Member for Edmonton-Centre. Pseudoephedrine is the main ingredient. I've talked to a detective with the Edmonton Police Service, and I've talked with the head of the RCMP, and they're telling me that if we get this precursor handled by the pharmacists, we'll be moving a long step forward because 95 per cent of all crystal meth labs are made by the ma-and-pa scenario. Only 5 per cent is made by the huge organized crime.

Then I guess the other thing is that I've talked with the pharmacists and explained this to them. They understand that it's going to take some time to move this. A majority of them are willing. I've also talked with retail Alberta, retail British Columbia, retail Canada. They're a little concerned, if we move it to a schedule 2, for the simple reason that it'll take it out of some of the smaller retailers.

Let me just explain this one thing. A friend of mine is a pharmacist, and he was in Edson one day at a local store, not a drugstore, and while he was in the store, he watched a young man walk in, grab a handful of pseudoephedrine cold medicine, buy them all from a clerk, and then walk out. The pharmacist went up to the clerk and said: "Why did you sell all those? You know what he's going to use that for." She said: "Well, what do I do? I can't stop him from buying this product that the store sells." She was correct. She has no right not to sell these products to whoever wishes to buy them, even though it was clear to my pharmacist friend that the product was most likely going to be used for crystal meth.

With this bill amended, I hope we'll be able to move on, and we'll never have to have this clerk sort of second-guess. We'll secure the products where our pharmacists can keep tabs on who's buying them. The pharmacists want – and they've stated it through the Health Professions Act – to be involved more with the aspects of helping the total health scenario work with the health programs that we're doing. So here's a chance. I'm sure that they'll be working with all of us.

Thank you, Mr. Chairman.

The Deputy Chair: Are you ready for the question?

The hon. Member for Calgary-Varsity.

Mr. Chase: Thank you very much. I've spent most of my teaching career working with junior high students, who are the most vulnerable to drug addictions through peer pressure, through the desire to experiment, the desire to set themselves apart or in many cases just be a member of the group. I've also worked locally in my constituency with police and social workers with a particular young offender who was expelled from two of the schools in my constituency and for a number of months afterwards had an online drug availability, complete with pictures, of the types of drugs that you could get if you simply contacted him. So I'm extremely concerned about limiting access to any of the products that would contribute to the creation of crystal meth. This is part of the solution.

My question that I had hoped to address earlier possibly – I don't see the Member for Calgary-Lougheed. I'm trying to get a sense as to how things are improving. I know that we've recently added 24 more AADAC beds, which have been split between Edmonton and Calgary. If anyone can provide me with the answer as to how many beds – oh, I see the Member for Calgary-Lougheed returning. I would like to have a sense as to how many AADAC beds there are in total that can be used to treat currently addicted crystal meth users. Can any member provide me with an answer to this? Has there been any noticeable decline in the number of drug-related apprehensions since the five-day detox meth act was passed or since the commercials have been broadcast? I know it's very early on in the process, but I'd like to get sort of almost an interim report card suggesting: are we making progress? I would hope very much that we are. This is a terrible drug, and various other members have explained how it has affected their constituents.

What I'm basically looking for is: is this watered-down, five-day detox from the initial Bill 202 having, from the intended 90-day institutionalization, the desired anti drug addiction effect? Limiting the product is a good first step, but treating those who are already under its influence has to be part of the entire program.

If anyone can provide me with those answers or details, I'd very much appreciate it. Thank you.

5:10

The Deputy Chair: The hon. Member for Whitecourt-Ste. Anne.

Mr. VanderBurg: Thank you, Mr. Chairman. It's a pleasure to join in the debate on Bill 204 as amended. Although I understand that Bill 204 is necessary, I was extremely pleased to hear from the Member for Strathcona that pharmacists have taken action.

You know, colleagues, crystal meth is a deadly drug. It's consuming the lives of youth all across this country. We can't solve this issue overnight, but we have to ensure that we as legislators do everything in our power to limit access to the chemicals needed to produce crystal meth. As long as we view this bill as part of a larger solution, then we're headed in the right direction, but we have a long way to go.

The fact that the majority of crystal meth is not being made with off-the-shelf pseudoephedrine but, rather, that it's coming from the chemical wholesalers via Internet or mail distribution is another concern which was raised by previous speakers. Again, Mr. Chairman, crystal meth or any other drug will always find a way to terrorize our youth. If it's not crystal meth, it'll be something else, something newer and something more serious. We cannot look at the proposed bill as a solution. We cannot sweep this problem under the rug. We as leaders must find alternative, innovative solutions to win the battle against drugs like crystal meth.

I remember a time when marijuana was the most serious thing out there. Boy, what I'd give to have marijuana as our greatest disadvantage to today's youth. Now we're hearing that the feds want to legalize it. I find it rather disturbing that as we sit here and discuss how we're going to prevent the children of Alberta from falling victim to crystal meth, the federal government is making a move to legalize drugs.

An Hon. Member: We don't have a federal government any more.

Mr. VanderBurg: Well, I understand that we don't have a federal government right now, but we will have again.

Mr. Chairman, until we can remind Alberta's youth that they do not need artificial substances to enjoy a state of abstracted musing or daydreaming, we need to ensure that we're doing everything we can to protect them from crystal meth or any other serious illicit drugs.

I encourage all my colleagues and members of this Assembly to support Bill 204. Thank you.

The Deputy Chair: Hon. member, it's 5:14. I could recognize you, but I'd have to interrupt at the same time.

The hon. Member for Edmonton-Ellerslie.

Mr. Agnihotri: Thank you, Mr. Chairman.

The Deputy Chair: I hesitate to interrupt the hon. Member for Edmonton-Ellerslie, but pursuant to Standing Order 4(2), which provides for the Committee of the Whole to rise and report no later than 5:15 p.m. on Monday afternoons, I must now put the following question: shall progress on the bill be reported?

Hon. Members: Agreed.

The Deputy Chair: Opposed? Carried.
The hon. Government House Leader.

Mr. Hancock: Thank you, Mr. Chairman. I'd move that the committee rise and report progress on Bill 204.

[Motion carried]

[Mr. Shariff in the chair]

The Acting Speaker: The hon. Member for Olds-Didsbury-Three Hills.

Mr. Marz: Thank you, Mr. Speaker. The Committee of the Whole has had under consideration Bill 204. The committee reports progress on the following bill: Bill 204.

The Acting Speaker: Hon. members, does the Assembly concur in the report?

Hon. Members: Concur.

The Acting Speaker: Opposed? So ordered.

By way of information, hon. members, the federal vote was 171 to 133, and the federal government has fallen.

The hon. Deputy Government House Leader.

Mr. Zwozdesky: Thank you, Mr. Speaker. On that historic notation of yours, I would move that we now call it 5:30, repair to our televisions and see what's going on in Ottawa, and reconvene here at 8 p.m.

[Motion carried; the Assembly adjourned at 5:17 p.m.]

Legislative Assembly of Alberta

Title: Monday, November 28, 2005

8:00 p.m.

Date: 05/11/28

[Mr. Shariff in the chair]

The Acting Speaker: Please be seated.

head: Motions Other than Government Motions

Salaries of Government Employees

512. Mr. Snelgrove moved on behalf of Mr. Griffiths:

Be it resolved that the Legislative Assembly urge the government to index the salaries of all government employees to the average weekly earnings index and provide salary adjustments based on supply and demand pressures within one year following a provincial election.

The Acting Speaker: The hon. Member for Vermilion-Lloydminster on behalf of the hon. Member for Battle River-Wainwright.

Mr. Snelgrove: Thank you, Mr. Speaker. It is with a great deal of pleasure that I rise to introduce a motion on behalf of the hon. Member for Battle River-Wainwright. He is, as many in the Chamber know, expecting to start a family fairly shortly and hopefully, he's hoping, before the new year so that he's eligible for all of the appropriate incentives. But I think we would all agree that although we do some very important work in this Chamber, he's certainly off on some important business of his own. Looking out for the future generations, he's introduced this bill.

Mr. Speaker, what the hon. member is trying to start here is a debate about what's the intent of the negotiating process with the provincial government and its employees. I think all people in the House would agree that it's in our best interest to have a working relationship that is transparent, that the importance of our staff is recognized, and that we're not entering into endless negotiations through salary increases that may just be a small part of the total package that we're dealing with.

What he's suggesting, Mr. Speaker, and what I support is that the public sector could receive an automatic base salary increase, the same as MLAs receive, yet their union or association would still be able to negotiate the other parts of the arrangement, be it whatever particular vocation they are, whether it be class size or teaching hours, whether it be staffing ratios in nursing homes. All of the other issues that make up a collective agreement would still be on the table. All of the major adjustments to this would occur after a provincial election within one year so that politicians are neither blackmailed nor forced into making settlements that are either unfair to the employee or unfair to the taxpayer, and the balance and the confrontational way that we've had negotiations simply don't serve the process very well.

The other thing we want to let our employees know is that we value their work, and many of them would like to continue to provide the good work they do knowing they would be treated fairly. I think there is a fairly common misconception, Mr. Speaker, that somehow – and this comes up many times in our travels – MLAs receive huge increases and that we are just determining all of our own salaries willy-nilly. In fact, most people would be surprised to know that our salaries are increased on a completely independent assessment of the increases in cost of living, and we accept that.

Since 1999, Mr. Speaker, we've actually received an average of 2.2 per cent, from 1999 to 2004. They range from a high of 3.34 in 2001 to a low of 1.36. I think it's fair to say that no one is in this Chamber for the exorbitant salary that we receive, and although I think that we're fairly compensated, it also is appropriate that we don't determine our increases year to year.

I'm looking forward to the debate tonight, Mr. Speaker, because I think that if we take this as an opportunity to improve our relationship with our staff, we can build this on a positive note, that we accept that how we do in this province is how you will be compensated. That directly is related by the salaries that the private sector gives, and that's based on profit. Our government needs to be able to follow and maintain our workforce at the level that is comparable and equal to what they bring to the table.

Mr. Speaker, I think that if we were to implement Motion 512, we would simply see this as fair, that it's predictable and transparent, and it settles all wages in our government sphere as we are settled here.

The other thing, Mr. Speaker, that is very troublesome is that we seem to have negotiations go on and on and on, and when they're finally settled, they may be retroactive for a year or a year and a half, and you're right back into the negotiating cycle again. I don't see how that serves anyone.

Mr. Speaker, with that, I will take my seat and look forward to the debate on Motion 512. Thank you.

The Acting Speaker: The hon. Member for Edmonton-Manning.

Mr. Backs: Thank you, Mr. Speaker. Now, this motion appears to be a way for the government to strike at collective bargaining and the ability of a union to negotiate wages with the Crown. By indexing all government employees to the average weekly earnings index, there is no opportunity for any of the public-sector unions to negotiate a fair wage based on other factors, such as real inflation, what the market offers, the changing nature of the particular trades, occupations, professions, and whatever they represent. That free market process, that allows for these things to be brought about in free and fair negotiations, fails to come about.

This motion seriously undermines the process of collective bargaining. I don't see how it could conform to the Alberta labour code, and it would probably make necessary some huge changes in that – and I don't have some of the specifics here with me right now – which we usually only see in jurisdictions that would have been called in the past corporatist. There are other words that are used for that.

The second prong of this motion seems to be very much at odds with the first. Simply speaking, either the government incorporates indexing to the average weekly earnings index, or they rely on supply and demand pressures or market forces to determine salary adjustments. There is an inherent contradiction in these two statements. It is very bad public policy to have two different approaches to salary adjustments for all government employees. In the interests of consistency and transparency one approach should be taken, not two varied approaches.

This method most certainly takes away from unions such as the Alberta Union of Provincial Employees the right under their existing collective agreement to negotiate salary increases under the terms of their collective bargaining agreement. It can be seen as terribly eroding the power of the union to negotiate fairly and equitably and with full input of all of the members of the union the terms of the salary increases. This also can be seen as a way for the government to take some of the power of the union away in this very important area of collective bargaining. It strikes at the heart of the principle of collective bargaining, and I think you will see a firestorm in this province if this motion and the legislation that would be needed to bring it to effect are brought into effect.

Thank you, Mr. Speaker.

The Acting Speaker: The hon. Minister of Economic Development.

Mr. Dunford: Yes. I'd like to enter into the debate on the motion and begin by saying that the motion as written looks tantalizingly seductive in terms of agreement of this House, but I think there are other, underlying issues that need to be dealt with here. I would see it as part of any MLA's responsibility in having that kind of knowledge or that kind of concern to rise and at least put onto the record what those concerns would be.

First of all, I want to make sure that we make note of the fact that it does talk about government employees. One assumes, then, that we're talking about everyone from whatever the lowest classification is within the government right up through all of the executive positions. Certainly, I don't know if there are any wage or contract workers left on the payroll of the government of Alberta. I know that there has been a move to try to, you know, remove that category through collective bargaining over time.

8:10

So if we are indeed talking about government employees, I think there are some things that taxpayers should know and understand, and that would be that within the collective bargaining with the Alberta Union of Provincial Employees we certainly haven't had a history of runaway wage increases, that sort of thing. As a matter of fact, if I could speak on behalf of the Alberta civil service, I wonder if they've really been paid what they're worth. Certainly, any government knows and understands that in order to achieve the objectives of a political arm of a government, there has to be the civil service, then, in place in order to actually do the day-to-day work and to carry that out.

Even though doctors didn't take the 5 per cent cutbacks, certainly nurses did, and certainly teachers did. If we were to look at a base year, then, to start to compare what's happened in terms of wage and salary increases, I would pick perhaps the year '93 or '94. I don't have information in front of me, so I'm going a bit from memory, but if we were to compare, let's say, the last 10 years of what's actually happened, I think you would find that doctors, nurses, and teachers, who would not be covered by this particular motion, have actually had outstanding wage increases, probably somewhere in the order of a 40 per cent increase in those particular salaries. In those numbers I certainly wouldn't be including the last go-round. So it's likely now that we're approaching 50 per cent, whereas the government of Alberta employees certainly have not had the kind of scale of increases that would be put into place.

It might seem unfair, then, if one was to look at a period of time to try to adjust the Alberta civil service wage rates to what's actually been happening. It would seem perhaps unfair to bring in – I realize that this is a motion, but if this were to carry the government into legislation to actually enact this motion, it would seem that the timing would be a little bit unfair because we're really catching them at a period of catch-up.

On the other hand, there is, I think, amongst taxpayers out there a general belief that we MLAs and civil servants generally are overpaid, so that's the seductiveness of this kind of motion. I think we'd want to be careful in looking at this type of thing, and if it was to proceed much further, we would want to spend I think a fair amount of analysis on the time frame in which this would happen.

Now, I'm trying to be as discreet as I can in my comments because I know that Dan MacLennan, president of the Alberta Union of Provincial Employees, is an avid reader of Hansard, and I would hate the thought that my comments would become part of the next collective bargaining process. You know, I do think that facts speak for themselves and that there is a situation there that I for one believe there was a plan in place to rectify. Certainly, I would want to see that plan go forward.

I think the hon. member that spoke previously – and I'm sorry; I forget the constituency – in fact is correct. We would have to open the labour code. I think that any legislation in this House, of course, is subject to being opened at the bequest of the government. I mean, that's what governments do. But to open the labour code at this particular time I think would be, again, another risky venture. What we've had lately in this House are questions regarding, you know, some emotion that was around the Lakeside Packers dispute. We had Finning Tractor out there, the Telus agreement. We've got now an emotional cry amongst many portions of the labour movement for implementing first agreements. I would think that if anyone is going to argue against this kind of emotion, they would also have to argue against the implementation of first agreements because in any other definition you would have to be starting to infringe, then, upon the interpretation of what free collective bargaining would be all about.

I think that the record of labour relations in Alberta is without peer. It stands far and away as a living code that's been able to deal with situations over time. The record speaks for itself. The overwhelming majority of disputes have been resolved, and it's usually because reasonable people after a period of time of emotion, after a period of time of leveraging and flexing muscles and the rhetoric that all goes with that, ultimately know that eventually they're going to have to live with each other, so they're able to come to types of agreements.

Again, I would caution any supporter of this motion that we, in fact, then would have to dig into the Labour Relations Code. All I'm doing is warning that once opened, there might be other things that would have to be considered that, again, supporters of this motion might not be interested in looking at.

The intent, I think, of the motion is to deal with government employees the way that we're dealt with in terms of attaching the wage increases to the average index. But I'm not sure that it's the wages that are the problem. The benefits have become a real cost. I don't know where our pension plan is, but if we're going to talk about equalizing government employees with MLAs, then maybe it's time to start thinking about MLA pensions again. If we're going to do that, of course, that would be more expensive, Mr. Speaker, to the Alberta taxpayer than the transition allowance. I'm not sure that everybody understands that, but when you do the math, that's what in fact happens.

So this looks good, but it won't be able to stand in isolation. There are other things that will come with it. I think I would encourage a real hesitancy before we support this kind of motion.

The Acting Speaker: The hon. Member for Edmonton-Strathcona.

Dr. Pannu: Thank you, Mr. Speaker. I rise to speak on Motion 512. To start, I read the motion, and I'm not entirely sure if the motion is clear enough. It's a motion, certainly, that refers to government employees, a very large number of Albertans who provide very valuable and valued services to the government as well as to Albertans through this government.

There's a reference in this motion to "index the salaries" of government employees "to the average weekly earnings index" on the one hand, and then immediately following that it says, "provide salary adjustments based on supply and demand pressures," which is quite different from the average weekly earnings index because there's a more dynamic aspect to the supply and demand pressures, and "within one year following a provincial election" is yet another thing.

So I'm not sure if the motion is clear. In fact, I think it's rather confusing and unclear. So one wonders what exactly the motion is calling for to allow the supply and demand relationship to determine what wages are agreed to or collectively bargained for. Or is it that we impose some sort of measure to the average weekly earnings index?

8:20

So even at this point I'm not focusing on the issue of what it does to the right of collective bargaining of employees. I'll come to that later. But even if we are not talking about that, still the question remains: what exactly is the motion asking us to do? It seems to me that you are asking for two quite different things, two different things that may be at cross purposes with each other because the average weekly earnings index is the broadest measure of all earnings across all occupations and economic sectors, covering everyone who is drawing a salary or wage. On the other hand, supply and demand pressures vary depending on whether we are talking about skilled tradespeople, nurses, teachers, or someone else.

It is also unclear, Mr. Speaker, who is covered by the term "government employees." Does it include public service managers? The Minister of Economic Development, who formerly had the portfolio of Human Resources and Employment, has raised that question already. Does it include public service managers or other public service employees? Are chairs, chief executive officers, and senior managers of government agencies, boards, commissions, and provincial corporations included? This is an important question that must be answered given that the officials at the most senior level of the public service barely six months ago received a huge, hefty increase of 27 per cent and a benefit hike just last summer on top of all the regular annual pay hikes. So we need to ask this question: who is being called a government employee?

Should we make the comparisons real and fair between those who receive the 25 per cent salary hike and an increase in other benefits and those who didn't before we begin to look for a uniform measure, even if that were desirable, to see how we want to deal with the salary increases for government employees? I raise the question of whether we have provincial corporations like Alberta Treasury Branches and the Workers' Compensation Board restricted to increases in the average weekly earnings index? What about the regional health authorities? The senior managers have seen their pay hike packages more than triple over the last 10 years or so.

So there are different rates at which salaries have increased, different rates by which they have been adjusted over the last 10 years. Some groups of government employees have fallen way behind. Teachers and others have suffered cuts, as the minister just mentioned earlier, 5 per cent cuts, while others have enjoyed very, very significant increases and growth in their take-home pay.

What about bonuses and lump sum payments? Would they be similarly disallowed? If not, senior managers, who routinely receive bonuses with a value of 20 per cent or more of their total pay package, would gain an advantage over rank-and-file employees who are not provided with such bonuses. So a question of fairness arises in a very significant way when you begin to look at the implications of what this motion is trying to accomplish.

The yearly salary increases of the rank-and-file public service employees have in some cases not even kept pace with living costs. That's the other side of the equation. For example, the most recent collective agreement negotiated with the Alberta Union of Provincial Employees provides for salary increases averaging about 3 per cent a year, which is just about at the level of inflation. So there are differences within this group of public employees, great differences that will have to be first reconciled before we really begin to develop a formula that is applied equally, without discrimination, to all of these groups of workers that we call government employees. Some have highly benefited from the way we have offered them increases, and others have really fallen behind.

We talk about all of this in the context of labour shortages and the importance to retain government employees who have worked for the government for years and years and developed the kind of skill sets that are absolutely necessary to do those jobs well. The problem of retention becomes another one. You know, if you begin to impose these kinds of settlements by way of legislative fiat, what happens? What does it do to the stability of the workforce we call the government employees?

Finally, Mr. Speaker, this motion also, of course, I think, has perhaps inadvertently forgotten the fact that rights to collective bargaining are one of the most important democratic rights in Canada, in our kind of society. We are a democracy. First and foremost, these collective bargaining rights are a part of that democratic rights package that all of us are proud of having available to all of us as citizens. Two, if this motion were to be passed by this House, this would be a statement against the continuation of a guarantee of those democratic rights, which include collective bargaining rights. So I think the whole issue of democratic rights – we have talked in this House of democratic deficit. Let's not add another element to the democratic deficits that we must address as legislators, democratically elected representatives of our own fellow citizens. Also, the issue of the labour code has been raised by the hon. Member for Edmonton-Manning and then by the Minister of Economic Development, who also represents Lethbridge-West.

Critical questions seem to be overlooked in the drafting of the motion in addition to the lack of clarity of what the motion really seeks to establish. When you put the motion against the backdrop of a fairly high level of labour strikes and employee/employer conflict situations that have risen over the last five, six months, one has to ask whether or not giving support to a motion like this would further intensify that conflict, would further fray those relations between employers and employees; in this case, between us as employers, I suppose, representing the government, and government employees, another large group of workers.

For those reasons . . . [Dr. Pannu's speaking time expired]

The Acting Speaker: The hon. Member for Red Deer-North, followed by Cardston-Taber-Warner.

Mrs. Jablonski: Thank you. Good evening. I'm pleased to rise and join the debate on Motion 512, sponsored by the hon. Member for Battle River-Wainwright. This is a very interesting motion to address very important concerns.

Mr. Speaker, I would like to begin my remarks this evening by acknowledging the excellent work that is done by the civil servants of this province. Alberta's public service is second to none and has helped to ensure that Alberta is the best place to live, work, and raise a family. Our public officials are well compensated, and they deserve to be.

Motion 512 proposes that the salaries of all government employees be indexed to the average weekly earnings rate for Alberta as prepared by Statistics Canada. This motion would also allow for a labour demand adjustment in the year following an election. Mr. Speaker, as a government it's important that we are able to provide needed services to our citizens. The men and women of the public service help us accomplish this goal, and as I mentioned above, they do this in an exemplary fashion. We are also responsible for ensuring that taxpayer dollars are spent in a responsible fashion. As much as possible the cost of administering a program should be kept to a minimum, ensuring that public dollars are directed toward helping Albertans in need of assistance.

8:30

Mr. Speaker, constant collective bargaining activities eat up important resources that could be better utilized if directed away from administration. Too often public resources are eaten up on annual collective bargaining. For example, the Lethbridge school district reached an agreement with the ATA on September 9, 2004, but the agreement was for less than a year. Both sides will now have to return to the bargaining table, consuming resources that would be better used in the classroom.

By laying a foundation for wage increases, we would be ensuring that all public service employees are treated equitably. Public servants, no matter where they live in the province, could count on a consistent method of salary evaluation. It is not fair for employees in one division to be given a double-digit increase while those in other divisions are given a small cost-of-living adjustment. Indexing salaries will also ensure that government employees' salaries grow at the same rate as their counterparts in the private sector. It is important in recruiting and retaining quality people to make a commitment to them. By indexing salaries, we can ensure that we do not lose employees to a wage gap between the private and public sector. As private sector salaries increase, so will government employees' salaries.

The motion also allows for there to be a salary adjustment every four years in order to keep up with the supply and demand pressures in the labour market. This is an important feature of this motion. It is important in Alberta that we do not lose teachers and nurses to other jurisdictions. Re-evaluating salaries every four years will ensure that our public service remains a competitive employer. Alberta has the highest paid teachers and nurses in this country, and this motion will help Alberta maintain this status.

The government salary structure should reflect the nature of the Alberta economy. The same principle, Mr. Speaker, governs how our salaries are determined. If Albertans on average are making more money, then MLAs' salaries increase. On the other hand, if Albertans' salaries are decreasing, then MLA salaries are adjusted accordingly.

The salaries of government employees should reflect the salaries of the private sector. When private-sector employees are getting 3 to 4 per cent increases annually, it is not fair for public-sector employees to receive a 14 per cent increase. I do not feel comfortable asking a hard-working Albertan who just received a 4 per cent raise to pay more in taxes in order to support a 14 per cent increase for a public servant.

The indexing of salaries will also help to ensure that departments and agencies are properly able to budget for expected salary increases. Every year in the budgeting process departments estimate the expected increase in employees' salaries within their ministries and agencies. Indexing salaries will increase the predictability of the wage increases and ensure that resources are not diverted away from programs to meet salary requirements. For example, let's say that a school board knows that their contract with the ATA expires in the upcoming year. They build into the budget a 6 per cent salary increase. However, the collective bargaining process leads to a 14 per cent increase in salaries. This development forces the school board to alter their budget and cut funding to other areas. Politics are then often brought into the discussion as complaints go out about funding levels and the like. If wages are indexed, these unexpected jumps will be eliminated.

Mr. Speaker, this motion allows for across-the-board salary adjustments after every election. Should the government or, for that matter, a member of the opposition feel that it is necessary to increase the salaries of our public servants, then it's important for that belief to be made public during the election. Indexing salaries in the manner outlined in this motion will help to increase the openness and transparency surrounding government salaries. I'm sure that even the members of the opposition will not argue with the idea of further increasing the transparency of government processes.

I would urge all members here this evening to endorse this proposal. The indexing of government employees' salaries will help to reduce administration costs and ensure that employees are fairly rewarded in a manner that is accountable and affordable to taxpayers. Mr. Speaker, when I was in business and whenever my employees would come to me and complain that I wasn't paying them what they were worth, I would agree with them because, you know, I could never pay them what they were worth, and I think that's the case with every valuable employee everywhere. However, we could decide on a salary that would make them happy and that was affordable for me, and the business would continue, and they would be able to support their families, and we would continue to supply parts in the fibreglass industry.

I would like to thank the hon. member for bringing this idea forward. I believe this will create good debate and creative thinking. Perhaps we can find a way of increasing salaries without having disputes every time the issue arises.

Thank you.

The Acting Speaker: The hon. Member for Cardston-Taber-Warner, followed by the Minister of Health and Wellness.

Mr. Hinman: Thank you, Mr. Speaker. It gives me great privilege to stand up and speak to Motion 512 this evening. We've had some very good debates, and many of the points I wanted brought up have been brought up. So I'll maybe just speak shortly. It's always difficult with a motion to know what the intent is, so I appreciate the hon. Member for Vermilion-Lloydminster sharing his thoughts on that. But I have a few questions in regard to that because I'm not quite clear on the intent still at this point.

One of my biggest concerns – the Member for Red Deer-North just brought it up – is that I'm not sure in the wording and from the different comments that have been made how it's actually linked, whether this is going to be just on government wages or linked with the private sector. So I have that in question. I think that it's something that we need to very cognizant of as elected representatives and government employees, that it really is the private sector that drives the economy. As was being pointed out, if in fact there's a 14 per cent adjustment in the cost of living for some outrageous reason a given year, the private sector doesn't always receive that and has to take the brunt of it. So I am concerned exactly how that average index is going to be, and I think that should be addressed.

Although the intent is very good and we always want to reduce conflict, I worry a great deal that passing legislation to say that this is the way it's going to be often causes the most ire in the worker, being told that you don't have that ability to bargain. That perhaps is my greatest concern, just the fact that we're trying to fit everybody into one box. There have been many different points brought up on the different levels and the type of work and the supply and the demand and all of those things. My greatest concern is the fact that by putting everybody in one box and painting it with the same broad brush, we're going to cause more distress and more, I guess, dysfunction in the market by trying to do that.

So at this time I will reserve my decision on this and continue to listen to the debate that goes on, but I hope that we can come to a positive resolution on how to deal with the public sector and reward them for their diligent work and good labour.

Thank you.

The Acting Speaker: The hon. Minister of Health and Wellness, followed by Edmonton-Gold Bar.

Ms Evans: Thank you very much, Mr. Speaker. I'm going to raise just a few points. I think that studying the issue – and I'm not talking about ad infinitum but at least in a shorter period of time – would be a very valued opportunity for this government. One of the issues that I encountered when we were doing collective bargaining with teacher groups is that frequently collective agreements have a clause included which says that in no subsequent year should any salary be less than the preceding year. That would argue against those times when we were in a period of deflation unless, of course, the entire body covered by the collective agreement was in agreement with that.

There is another point that has been raised, I believe by a member of Her Majesty's third party, and that is the issue where we have the trilateral agreement for doctors that has quite a different parameter: an eight-year agreement with financial openers. A number of these kinds of agreements would perhaps be arguably not necessarily government employees but people who have been paid by the government either through special arrangements or contractual arrangements.

When I was in my previous portfolio, I remember quite clearly we had several people that were under a contract-managed system for delivering supports for children in care. Again, often there were imbalances between what the government workers were paid vis-a-vis the contract workers. I think that's an area that if we're looking at this, we can't look at one piece without looking at the broader scope. The contract workers were frequently not only in Children's Services but in Persons with Developmental Disabilities and other government groups asking for like-minded judgments.

8:40

While I admire the intent of what the hon. member has proposed, I think what would be responsible to do is see this motion considered by the government in the context of the future of not only labour relations but in the future of how we acknowledge contract people who are providing service, to see whether or not we are satisfied. The bottom line is that we are getting fair value for the dollars that are spent and quite specifically so Albertans are getting fair value for the dollars spent.

I'll reflect on one time when I was a school trustee. We had about 50 contractors driving school bus that owned the buses and paid the total expense, and they were given a certain quantity of money to cover their costs as well as deliver the children safely. The other 50 were employed by the school board. There was always a feeling that you could understand and harmonize the costs fairly well if you had both groups arguing for what they believed was fair compensation for the work that was done. There were mileage amounts paid in one circumstance, and in the other circumstances there was a straight salary that they were paid, acknowledging the length of the route and the time of the day. It worked well in that there was some form of tension that set up so that you weren't acknowledging one group exclusive of the other, but you were giving employees of a number of, I suppose, interests and capacities the chance to be employed but be compensated according to the effort they were providing. All in all, it's not a simple thing.

I would not quarrel with the intent of finding what seems to be a reasonable labour adjustment, but we see what happens when we have wide disparities. For example, this year there was an acknowledgement after several years of the costs that would be appropriately paid to senior executives in government so that we wouldn't continue to lose them to the private sector.

In my municipal experience those swings were more easily adjusted to in the private sector than they are in government. I suspect that the year after the election, while it sounds tempting, was to protect the elected official from having to do that salary adjustment just before they went out and met the electorate. But what more honest time is there to do it and then to defend it rather than to do it the year after the election and hide under the shelter of that glow of joy which might emanate from some of your residents when you first were elected. I would rather see it as an adjustment that was made when those values were appropriately understood.

I think that in the first year, in my reflection, of my embarking on any task, just like the first year as minister of health, there's an incredible learning curve. You're not always prepared to make those decisions and understand those decisions. From my bitter and past experience I can see times when you think you might be acting with the best judgment on behalf of your constituents but might not know well enough just exactly how they feel.

A particular waterline comes to mind. When we decided that we had a better mousetrap for providing water in rural Alberta the year after a particular election, I was in an auditorium, a gymnasium, apologizing to some 750 people, profusely, I might add, so that I took my sorry carcass out of there in one piece. I thought we had a better idea for getting them water, and it was nothing that they had contemplated that we would do at the time of the last election.

All in all, I am encouraged that someone's bringing the issue forward for us to discuss. But I think that if I had my druthers about this motion, it would in fact refer to the whole issue of how we pay Albertans and how this government compensates Albertans, either through salary or contract arrangements or the many arrangements that are represented by almost everybody here in the government, and have a sober second and third look at it and take the motion for that face value rather than agree with any prescriptive formula for what we might do without having all of the rest of the pieces of the puzzle.

Thank you.

The Acting Speaker: The hon. Member for Edmonton-Gold Bar, followed by Calgary-Bow.

Mr. MacDonald: Thank you very much, Mr. Speaker. It's with interest that I want to participate in the debate this evening on Motion 512, which is urging the government "to index the salaries of all government employees to the average weekly earnings index and provide salary adjustments based on supply and demand pressures within one year following a provincial election." Perhaps it would be easier to take this motion more seriously if we had fixed election dates, but to link this just like that to a provincial election is odd, to say the least.

Certainly, when we're talking about all government employees, one would just on the surface think that this is specifically for public servants employed directly by the government. If one looks, Mr. Speaker, at the annual report for 2004-2005 of the Alberta Department of Human Resources and Employment and you look at the distribution of staff by department, you would see that there are 23,197 employees employed in departments from Aboriginal Affairs and Northern Development right through to Sustainable Resource Development. You know, in Justice we have 2,200 employees. We have over 2,000, also, in Human Resources and Employment. We have 2,600 in Children's Services. These are some of the larger departments. Infrastructure and Transportation.

If we were just to consider that these employees were to be affected by this motion, that would be different, but hon. members in this Assembly earlier in debate had talked about teachers and nurses. Certainly, the number of people that would be directly impacted by this would be significantly more if we were to take all the teachers across the province and all the nurses across the province and make them subject to this Motion 512.

I, like others, consider this a direct intrusion on collective bargaining. I don't see how this is necessary. We don't have a lot of labour disputes in this province, particularly with the civil service. However, there is a lot of work to be done with the civil service, and I think if we were to pass this motion tonight, it would send the wrong signal to our civil service.

Before I talk about that, I must say that I was surprised when the hon. Member for Red Deer-North talked about how this would make it easy, if we were to have this sort of system, for this government to stick to a budget. This government, we are led to believe if we supported this motion, could stick to a budget now that they would have this system of indexing. I would be surprised at that. One of the most difficult things for this government to do is to stick to any budget. It is my view that this is a government that is out of control with its spending. It is directionless.

Certainly, there are many areas where we need to have spending. There are a lot of things left to be done in this province after the Conservative debt has been paid off, but just to spend money for the sake of spending – and that is what's going on in some quarters today – is wrong. To say that an argument to support this would be, "Well, it would get us back on the right track, and we wouldn't be addicted to all this unbudgeted spending" is a stretch, to say the least.

8:50

Mr. Speaker, when we look at the age distribution of our civil service, the average age of permanent, salaried public service employees remained at 46 in 2004-2005. We're going to have to look at recruiting very quickly some younger people to the civil service. There's 37 per cent of the total staff in the age group between 45 and 54. To suddenly tell them, "Well, whatever limited collective bargaining you do have, we're going to take away" I don't think is going to be beneficial if we want to attract people to the civil service.

It's interesting, Mr. Speaker, that the average annual salary of permanent, full-time public service employees in 2004-05 was $55,269, to be precise. If we look at the salary distribution of our public servants, 25 per cent are between the salary range of $30,000 and $39,000, and 22 per cent are between $40,000 and $49,000.

I don't think it would be fair to our civil servants to pass this motion tonight and tell them that they can no longer have what limited collective bargaining rights they do have, particularly in light of the fact that earlier this year we gave their bosses a 27 per cent wage increase without any public discussion. If we can be that generous with the top levels of the civil service, I think we have to be fair and generous to the remaining civil service.

I would like to also point out, Mr. Speaker, that it is interesting to note the location of public service employees. Sixty per cent are in and around the city of Edmonton. Maybe I shouldn't make that public. They'll either start laying them off or consolidate back to Coronation or somewhere like that. There's 59 per cent in the city of Edmonton, 13 per cent in Calgary, 6 per cent in Red Deer, Lethbridge has 3 per cent, and Grande Prairie has 1 per cent.

Now, there was an argument made at Public Accounts last week that perhaps the Minister of Agriculture, Food and Rural Development should consider moving some of the public service outside the city of Edmonton to some of the rural areas where the ag offices had been closed in 2002. I'm certainly not opposed to that because many of the hon. members who are members of the Public Accounts Committee made very valid arguments when we had a brief discussion last week regarding the closure of those ag offices. It's quite interesting that naturally, Edmonton being the capital, the majority of civil servants are going to be located here.

We have to show confidence, as many people have stated previously, in our civil service. I don't think this motion would do anything to ensure that the public service cannot be suspicious about this government. I don't know if the hon. member has talked to the Alberta union of public employees about this motion, but I certainly would urge the hon. member to do so and recognize that we don't have a lot of disputes in this province as it is. I think we need to show confidence in our public service and respect for the work that they do.

Thank you.

The Acting Speaker: The hon. Member for Calgary-Bow.

Ms DeLong: Thank you very much, Mr. Speaker. I'm grateful for the opportunity to contribute to this important discussion on indexing public-sector wages. I would like to commend the Member for Battle River-Wainwright for bringing forward this motion, which is a good idea in so many respects.

Creating a fair way for public employees to be paid that eliminates the need for constant collective bargaining would save Albertans a lot of money because collective bargaining is expensive for the government, the union members, and the public in general. Also, if collective bargaining takes place in the year following an election as opposed to constantly, the government would be able to hire negotiators on a more ad hoc basis rather than keeping them as FTEs. These savings in tax dollars could be used for things that are of higher priority to Albertans than paying negotiators.

In addition to saving Albertans tax dollars, this idea would create a climate of stability in the province. This stable environment could then attract more business to the province as business owners always prefer to have operations in jurisdictions that are more predictable and where the government has a good relationship with its public-sector employees. By creating an environment where more businesses come into the province, we will also get the spinoff of the creation of more jobs and a more diverse economy, which is definitely a goal of this government.

Mr. Speaker, these are some of the ways such an idea would help the government. I know that the members opposite don't usually support an idea just because it helps the government. In fact, as we all know, this is usually the basis of their disapproval towards an idea. Fortunately, this idea will also help union members and the unions in several ways. In fact, the idea is win-win, which is, coincidentally, the definition of the most successful type of negotiation. Public-sector employees win because their wages are determined using a very equitable and predictable system. Furthermore, if wages do not have to be part of the collective bargaining process, the union could focus on fighting for better working conditions for nurses, smaller class sizes for teachers, and many other important issues that would benefit their members.

Recently there have been some articles in the newspaper about the possibility of paying bonuses to public employees. Just imagine how our health care might improve if, say, all health care employees got a bonus for lower wait lists, if they got a bonus for higher life expectancy, if the teachers got a bonus for every child that learned to read.

Currently an employee pays the union to fight for more money. Would it not be easier just not to pay the union and keep the money? On the other hand, an employee would likely have less of a problem paying union fees if the union fights for his or her rights as an employee, his or her working conditions, or anything else that's important to the job. What I'm saying is that this idea eliminates the need to negotiate the part of the collective agreement that is often most controversial and most political but usually not the most important.

I think that the majority of people who work in the public sector believe that they are paid fairly. This is not to say that wages have not been the issue in strikes in the past, but these issues have largely been eliminated over the years. In fact, for the most part Alberta's public sector is the highest paid in the country, so now would actually be the most beneficial time to introduce such legislation to make sure that these employees continue to be paid fairly.

Another reason why now is a good time to introduce such legislation is because wages are likely going to increase across the board due to anticipated labour shortages for the next decade at least. Also, as our economy expands and as more people retire, this trend should continue for many years to come. With this reality, public-sector employees would likely see a rising trend in their wages using this method, whereas the union is limited as to how much it could negotiate wages as wages are usually only one bargaining chip amongst the many. The way bargaining goes, you have to give up something to gain something because you can't get it all, so choices might have to be made between working conditions and wages. One simply has to be chosen over the other, and this is the reality. It's so much better for all parties involved to eliminate this aspect from the negotiating table.

9:00

The Acting Speaker: I hesitate to interrupt the hon. Member for Calgary-Bow, but under Standing Order 8(4), which provides for up to five minutes for the sponsor of a motion other than a government motion to close debate, I would invite the hon. Member for Vermilion-Lloydminster on behalf of the hon. Member for Battle River-Wainwright to close debate on Motion 512.

Mr. Snelgrove: Thank you, Mr. Speaker, and I thank all the hon. members for participating in tonight's discussion. I'll try and answer some of the questions as best I can from the documents that the hon. Member for Battle River-Wainwright has produced.

Who does it cover? I would say quite clearly: if you're under the budget that we approve here in the spring, you'd be covered. It wouldn't include the Treasury Branch; it wouldn't include other corporations that are arm's length, but I think his intent was to include teachers, nurses, everyone in this government from top to bottom.

It is somewhat interesting that we talked about collective bargaining in government. It really doesn't exist when you give a union, that we know we have to work with and that has to deal with a department that has a limited budget, collective bargaining. That's not exactly how it was intended to be. Companies that are involved in collective bargaining have options with the employees that they work with. They can move their factory to Mexico if they want. The employee can go work for the neighbour if they want. Quite frankly, Mr. Speaker, in this country you are going to deal with your unions with a reasonable hand, and that's what's happened, but to call it collective bargaining I think is a little bit of a stretch.

I think that if we had this motion that said, "We would be willing as a government to index the salaries if that's what you wanted," we'd be surprised in here if we went to our employees and said:

would this be something that you would like to see to take the confrontational part of collective bargaining, so to say, out of it? We would like to guarantee you at least the same raises that the MLAs get. The raise you get is what your boss is going to get, is what anyone working maybe below you on the pay scale is going to get. I'd like to ask them: would you like to accept this as a starting point? Every four years we'll sit down with an independent group and have a look at: have we kept up with the demand required? Have we kept pace with the private sector? Are the classroom conditions okay? If it's within that scope, we proceed, and if it's not, you negotiate a settlement that would reflect the current-day conditions. Then you have labour peace for four years hence.

Mr. Speaker, I think we need to look at this not as a way to beat down or to hold back our public-sector friends. It's to say: what would make your job more comfortable? How would you like to approach the next four or five years knowing that you've got an agreement, that you've got a raise that's fair? In this House we receive a raise, and we'll negotiate things outside of that part of the agreement every four years. I think most of our employees would like that stability, I think the public and taxpayers would like that transparency, and I think it gives us another tool to dialogue with our employees.

Once again, I want to thank the speakers and look forward to the vote. Thank you.

[Motion Other than Government Motion 512 lost]

head:

Government Motions

Chief Electoral Officer Search Committee

25. Mr. Zwozdesky moved on behalf of Mr. Hancock:

Be it resolved that

- (1) A Select Special Chief Electoral Officer Search Committee of the Legislative Assembly of Alberta be appointed consisting of the following members, namely: Mrs. Tarchuk, chair; Mr. Ducharme, deputy chair; Ms Blakeman; Mr. Flaherty; Mr. Griffiths; Mr. Lougheed; Mr. Marz; Dr. Pannu; and Mr. Strang for the purpose of inviting applications for the position of Chief Electoral Officer and to recommend to the Assembly the applicant it considers most suitable to this position.
- (2) The chair and members of the committee shall be paid in accordance with the schedule of category A committees provided in the most current Members' Services Committee allowances order.
- (3) Reasonable disbursements by the committee for advertising, staff assistance, equipment and supplies, rent, travel, and other expenditures necessary for the effective conduct of its responsibilities shall be paid subject to the approval of the chair.
- (4) In carrying out its responsibilities, the committee may with the concurrence of the head of the department utilize the services of members of the public service employed in that department and of the staff employed by the Assembly.
- (5) The committee may without leave of the Assembly sit during a period when the Assembly is adjourned.
- (6) When its work has been completed, the committee shall report to the Assembly if it is sitting. During a period when the Assembly is adjourned, the committee may release its report by depositing a copy with the Clerk and forwarding a copy to each member of the Assembly.

The Acting Speaker: The hon. Deputy Government House Leader.

Mr. Zwodzesky: Thank you very much, Mr. Speaker. It's my pleasure tonight to move on behalf of our Government House Leader Motion 25. I won't read it all, but it goes on to talk about the schedule of pay for the committee, the reasonable disbursements of the committee, the utilization, with permission, of the services of members of a particular public service. It comments on the sittings of the committee and the reportings of the committee.

I would just point out, Mr. Speaker, that members from all recognized parties in the Assembly – MLAs, that is – will be on this committee, and I would also note that this particular committee would become, effectively, a subset, so to speak, of the Legislative Offices Committee. That Legislative Offices Committee, as we all know, is comprised of 11 MLA members from the House, and nine of those same members will also be on this new Select Special Chief Electoral Officer Search Committee of the Legislative Assembly of Alberta.

So with that, I would move that motion, and I look forward to the support of other members present.

The Acting Speaker: The hon. Member for Edmonton-Gold Bar.

Mr. MacDonald: Thank you very much, Mr. Speaker. Certainly, regarding Motion 25, which is essentially a search committee to find a new Chief Electoral Officer for the province with the retirement of the current officer, this is a very important post, and I think the province has been served well in the past. Committees in the past I think have been very wise in their selections, but we can't overlook just how important this office, the office of the Chief Electoral Officer, is. There are 10 employees there. They work not only during the election year but, of course, every year, and they quietly go about their business of preparing for the next general election.

Certainly, the role that the Chief Electoral Officer plays is important. The independence of this office is so important so that each party, each candidate is treated fairly. It would be this member's view that each candidate from each respective party has been treated fairly in the past, and this has to continue. When we look at the whole electoral process and the role the Chief Electoral Officer plays, again this is an important role, but that individual, whether he or she, when they are selected, of course, must follow the electoral map, which is, again, determined by another committee.

With this in mind, Mr. Speaker, I would like to remind all hon. members of this Assembly how the city of Edmonton was shortchanged, shortchanged not by the Chief Electoral Officer but by the commission that was struck to change the electoral boundaries. Hopefully, the city of Edmonton will not be shortchanged in the future, and we won't see a government or a Progressive Conservative dominated committee removing a seat, a voice for the city of Edmonton unnecessarily from this Assembly. That is, unfortunately, what happened with Edmonton-Norwood. Unfortunately, that commission took an eraser to that constituency, and as a result the city has one less representative.

9:10

Under this motion, Motion 25, when they get together, they do a search, and they do select a new Chief Electoral Officer. I wish that person well. This process, as we know it, of course, is going to be dominated by members of the government. I would like to urge them to consider, when they make their selection, not only rural Alberta's needs but the needs of Calgary, the needs of Edmonton, the needs of northern Alberta and southern Alberta. I hope they find a suitable candidate. I wish them well in their deliberations, and hopefully the person that is selected will have a much different electoral map to work with under the second election, that they hopefully will have the opportunity to administer.

Thank you.

The Acting Speaker: The hon. Deputy Government House Leader to close debate?

[Government Motion 25 carried]

head: Government Bills and Orders
Second Reading

Bill 51
Appropriation (Supplementary Supply) Act,
2005 (No. 2)

The Acting Speaker: The hon. Deputy Government House Leader.

Mr. Zwodzesky: Thank you, Mr. Speaker. It's my pleasure on behalf of the Minister of Finance to move for second reading the Appropriation (Supplementary Supply) Act, 2005 (No. 2).

In doing so, I would just note that this bill is obviously extremely important, I think, to all Albertans because so many – in fact, I would think almost every ministry is referenced within it. In particular, the Ministry of Education, which I'm privileged to represent, has a request here for over $75 million that is very much needed in the school system at this time. There are other ministries that are also asking for additional monies, all for very important programs and/or services that I think Albertans are waiting on, and I would hope that all members would therefore support second reading of Bill 51.

On that note, I would ensure that it is now moved at second reading.

The Acting Speaker: The hon. Member for Edmonton-Ellerslie.

Mr. Agnihotri: Thank you, Mr. Speaker. It's my great honour to rise and speak to Bill 51, Appropriation (Supplementary Supply) Act, 2005 (No. 2). I want to ask some general questions on the supplementary estimates of Community Development. I'll start with 2.2.1, community service grants of $5.5 million. This grant was allocated to a movie based on the First World War battle of Passchendaele. My question is: what were the conditions of this grant? Will the contract of this grant be made public? If not, why not? Is Mr. Gross obligated to ensure that Alberta's artists and actors are hired to take part in this movie production? If not, why not? What percentage of the cast and the crew will be local? Will this film be produced in Alberta?

Will the Premier or the Minister of Community Development be personally credited in the production of this movie? What exactly was the grant process? Did this process violate the guidelines that other Alberta artists must abide by? Has this been a project that the government has known about for some time? If so, why wasn't it budgeted for? How many times did Mr. Gross meet with the minister and the Premier? Did Mr. Gross contact the minister, or did the minister pursue Mr. Gross to offer him this part? Did the minister consult with any stakeholders before granting this money to Mr. Gross? Is the minister or the Premier willing to arrange personal meetings with other Alberta artists to discuss their projects? Is any minister or MLA sitting here or the Premier getting any role in this particular movie? If not, let me know. I'm interested.

I move to 4.1.4, Historic Sites and Cultural Facilities: a grant of $500,000.

An Hon. Member: You're a star to me already, Bharat.

Mr. Agnihotri: Already? Okay.

Point of Order
Second Reading Debate

Mr. Zwozdesky: I wish to rise on a point of order under Beauchesne 640(2). Not to interrupt the hon. member unnecessarily, but I just would remind people that we are in second reading, hon. member, and the purpose of this stage in debate “is primarily concerned with the principle of a measure. At this stage, debate is not strictly limited to the contents of a bill as other methods of attaining its proposed objective may be considered.” However, this stage is the point at which we don’t get into any of those details such as you’re asking for. You’re certainly welcome to raise those kinds of questions if you wish and if the chair permits it when we get to the committee stage. Right now I would ask the chair to just remind all members, including the previous speaker, that second reading really deals with the principles contained in the bill and not so much the specific questions that you’re looking for answers to.

The Acting Speaker: I presume you are not rising on a point of order, but just some clarification.

Mr. Zwozdesky: Clarification.

The Acting Speaker: Hon. members, this chair has given a lot of latitude to a number of members who have spoken in this Assembly over the last number of years that I have been an acting chair. It’s good advice from time to time to read Beauchesne, read our Standing Orders, and learn about the procedures of the Assembly.

Hon. member, I hope you’ll have some time somewhere along the line to read a little more about Beauchesne and some of the rules of the debate. At this time the chair has recognized you, Edmonton-Ellerslie, and you may proceed.

Mr. Agnihotri: Okay. Now, I move to page . . . [interjections]

The Acting Speaker: Hon. member, just so I can clarify once again, when we are discussing a bill at a second stage, we talk about the general principles of the bill. We do not talk about the clauses of the bill. That’s something we deal with at committee stage. So we talk about the principles of the bill: do we move it forward or not? That’s generally supposed to be the discussion at second reading. However, from time to time members do stray away from it. So it’s just a word of advice to you to stick with the principles of the bill.

Debate Continued

Mr. Agnihotri: Okay. I pass.

The Acting Speaker: Hon. Member for Edmonton-Ellerslie, the chair has recognized you. You may finish whatever you had wanted to say. It’s okay. Go ahead.

Mr. Agnihotri: No. I understand, but I will ask a few questions maybe in the next stage.

The Acting Speaker: Okay. Good. Thank you.

The hon. Member for Edmonton-Gold Bar.

9:20

Mr. MacDonald: Thank you very much, Mr. Speaker. It’s a pleasure to get this opportunity to debate Bill 51. Certainly, we were talking earlier this evening about government spending that many consider out of control. We have this schedule of amounts to be voted line by line, and there’s a significant amount of money here. Certainly, when we look at Agriculture, Food and Rural Development, we’re looking at $288 million in additional money there. We’re looking at Children’s Services and, as the hon. Member for Edmonton-Ellerslie was talking about, Community Development, including money for a movie on World War I. I think that there are many members of the government caucus who would be suitable characters for a sergeant major in those World War I battles. [interjection] No, I wouldn’t be. I would prefer to have the job as a sniper.

Speaker’s Ruling
Addressing the Chair

The Acting Speaker: Just a few minutes ago there was a little advice given that we have to follow procedures that I established in this Assembly. The hon. Member for Edmonton-Gold Bar has the floor, and the accepted practice is that he would be speaking through the chair and not to other members in the Assembly. So I think it is fair to allow members who want to speak the opportunity to speak without being interjected.

The hon. Member for Edmonton-Gold Bar.

Mr. MacDonald: Thank you. I appreciate that, Mr. Speaker.

Debate Continued

Mr. MacDonald: Now, this bill could be one of those roll-out-the-barrel bills because the good times are here with this government. We’re not going to follow any budgeting logic with this, but we’re certainly going to spend significant amounts of money.

Now Seniors and Community Supports. There’s over $100 million here, Mr. Speaker, that is being allocated in this bill. I don’t know if this government has taken the time to have a look at the second part of the Auditor General’s report for May of 2004. This report of the Auditor General is on seniors care and programs. There certainly is a need for adequate funding for Seniors and Community Supports. It is inconceivable that some seniors, particularly those in long-term care facilities, are not getting the time and the attention that their medical condition demands. Our system is failing them.

Now, when we look at this amount of money and we look at some of the recommendations that the Auditor General listed in this extra report, the Auditor General makes this recommendation 6.

We recommend that the Department of Health and Wellness and the Department of Seniors and Community Supports establish standards for care and housing services provided in assisted living and other supportive living settings.

Has this been done?

We can go on here a little bit further. Now, we’re talking about spending over $100 million, Mr. Speaker. In recommendation 7 the Auditor General is recommending that the Department of Seniors and Community Supports

1. update the Seniors Lodge Standards and implement a process to maintain them;
2. improve its systems to monitor management bodies’ compliance with the Seniors Lodge Standards.

It also states in here that there is voluntary compliance with seniors lodge standards, that seniors lodge standards in some cases look like they are “out of date,” and there is “no system to monitor compliance,” again, with seniors lodge standards. There are a lot of other recommendations in here for seniors, but there are certainly discussions on the audit findings and recommendations on the effectiveness of the Alberta seniors’ benefits program.

Now, I know that I didn't have an opportunity, Mr. Speaker, and I don't know if other hon. members of the Assembly had an opportunity before this to discuss this supply budget for the Department of Seniors and Community Supports. Certainly, the Auditor General has got his eye on the Alberta seniors' benefits program and is recommending that "the Department of Seniors and Community Supports improve the measures it uses to assess whether it is meeting the objective of the Alberta Seniors' Benefit Program."

The Auditor General notices that the department's goal for the Alberta seniors' benefits program is: "Seniors in need have access to financial supports that enable them to live in a secure and dignified way." Now, we have to make sure that all our seniors are able to live in a secure and dignified way. There always has been this issue around the Alberta seniors' benefits program, Mr. Speaker, about forcing seniors to go cap in hand to a government that likes themselves to be benevolent but does not necessarily live by the rules that they want others to live by.

This government is the same group that imposed a significant fee hike on residents of long-term care facilities, and that fee hike was to go to improve services and improve the lives of the individuals who were in those facilities. I know that that hasn't happened. It was late May when this report became public, and I don't know how much of this has been heeded by the Department of Seniors and Community Supports. Before this Assembly we're asking for a lot of money, but have the recommendations from the Auditor General been taken seriously?

Now, the Auditor General travelled extensively in the province. He visited all nine regional health authorities. He had quite a look around, and he had a lot to say about what he saw. The government disappoints me because to date they have been silent. They have been completely silent on what they're going to do with these recommendations. We're in a land of plenty; there's no doubt about that. A lot of money can hide a lot of incompetence.

An Hon. Member: Does this mean we should pay you more?

Mr. MacDonald: No.

This government has been throwing a lot of cash at some problems, but the problems, unfortunately, Mr. Speaker, are still there. I hope that this money will go a long way towards improving the conditions that have been outlined in the report by the Auditor General. I hope that his advice has been heeded and that this money will be well spent and that it will be well spent where it's needed, not on a computer program, not on a delivery system, but on front-line service.

9:30

Now, Mr. Speaker, when we also look at Agriculture, Food and Rural Development, the majority of this money I would assume would be going into the CAIS program, but I notice where there has been a significant increase in the number of BSE tests completed in Alberta under the Canada/Alberta BSE surveillance program. The target that was set for 2004 we were slow to reach, but certainly I think a lot of progress has been made. In 2005 between the Alberta Agriculture, Food and Rural Development lab in Edmonton and the Canadian Food Inspection Agency lab in Lethbridge there have been carcasses – or I wouldn't think it's the total carcasses, but the tests for BSE to date have exceeded 24,000. That would be more than double the target that was set. I'm very interested to know if there are any additional amounts in this bill that are needed for those BSE testing programs.

Also, in this amount – and I spoke about this earlier, Mr. Speaker, and I'm going to bring it up again – is any of this money going to be used for another farm fuel allocation allowance? The minister is shaking his head. I think in light of these high fuel prices and the fact that this program has not been reviewed, as my research indicates, going back into the early '90s, this program should be adjusted to reflect the high cost of diesel. There's still room to work on this program because if you look at the farm fuel allowance of about $33 million, that hasn't changed. [interjection]

The hon. minister of agriculture wants to blame the feds again. That's something the feds will have to work out, and this is an ideal opportunity during this election campaign for him to voice that opinion. But let's show some leadership. Let's review this because when this fuel distribution allowance was set, a litre of diesel was probably half if not less than half what it costs a producer now. Producers from all across the province are telling me that after fertilizer, electricity and fuel costs are two and three on their lists of, as the hon. Member for Edmonton-Manning likes to say, input costs.

The hon. member was up in the Peace district over the weekend, and he met with hundreds of farmers there, Mr. Speaker. It will be interesting to hear what they told him in regard to the CAIS program and whether it's working or not and what is working in that program and what is not working.

Mr. Speaker, when we look at the supplementary supply, we've always got to remember that this bill will add to the government's spending above what was originally planned in the budget. When we look at this total amount of $1.5 billion that's an increase in voted expense and equipment/inventory purchases, and we also have a $234 million increase in voted capital investment and a $5 million increase in voted lottery fund payments, that's a significant amount of money, and we are at this time able to do that because of high resource royalties. [Mr. MacDonald's speaking time expired] I'm disappointed that my time has expired.

The Acting Speaker: The hon. Member for Edmonton-Decore.

Mr. Bonko: Thank you, Mr. Speaker.

The Acting Speaker: I'm sorry. Because Edmonton-Gold Bar had sat down, the chair forgot to ask. Standing Order 29(2)(a): any questions or comments for the hon. Member for Edmonton-Gold Bar? The hon. Member for Edmonton-Manning.

Mr. Backs: Thank you, Mr. Speaker. I'm very interested in the comments that the hon. Member for Edmonton-Gold Bar put forward on the Canadian agricultural income stabilization program and the difficulty that many farmers look at it as some sort of glorified disaster and welfare program that doesn't really meet their needs and is excessively bureaucratic and problematic for the operation of their businesses. I wish the member could comment on that.

The Acting Speaker: The hon. Member for Edmonton-Gold Bar.

Mr. MacDonald: Thank you very much, Mr. Speaker. I would like to thank the hon. member for the question. Certainly, there is a need for a support program for producers in this province. The CAIS program is split on a 60/40 basis with the feds. It would be certainly within reason in this appropriation Bill 51 that some of the amounts of the $288 million are going to be used for supporting the additional amounts that the hon. minister announced early last week. I believe it was $224 million.

However, I was astonished to see in the financial statement from the Alberta Agriculture Financial Services Corporation where there was a carry-over of $105 million in overpayments and advances, I believe, in the CAIS program. I was hoping to get that clarified with the hon. minister. I hope that this is a carry-over from the CAIS year of 2003, that this has just come forward with the Alberta Agriculture Financial Services Corporation, and that almost half of that money that we are discussing here would be used to take care of those overpayments in previous CAIS years. This is one way around that problem.

Farmers and other producers tell me that they are really frustrated with the program when they get a notice that they do have an overpayment and they have to pay it back. Their accounts will be credited, but I think we could manage the CAIS program better.

There seem to be some long turnaround times. Some of the accounting community also express frustration with the amount of time before a file is processed. Again, hon. member, this gets back to what we were discussing in Public Accounts last Wednesday. I guess it's easy to point fingers, but many people feel that the regional office . . .

The Acting Speaker: Hon. member, brief questions, brief comments.

The hon. Minister of Justice has a question for you.

Mr. Stevens: When the time comes, Mr. Speaker, I wish to move that we adjourn debate on Bill 51, so if there's somebody else who wishes to ask the hon. member a question.

The Acting Speaker: Sorry. Anybody else have a question or comment? The hon. Minister of Agriculture, Food and Rural Development.

Mr. Horner: Thank you, Mr. Speaker. Just a comment on some of the quite frankly uninformed, by the sounds of it, comments that have been coming from across the way with regard to not only the CAIS program but also some of the other Ag portfolio items that were brought up. Yes, hon. member, it is a 60/40 cost-shared program with the federal government. Unfortunately, after repeated attempts to have them participate in the pilot with us, they did not. They decided instead to spread the money to the wind in an ad hoc payment, which most producers do not want to see this ag industry go to.

9:40

Secondly, when you talk about the $105 million advances, I would ask you to check with Hansard and my answers to you that evening. I did explain where those came from, and they were from '03. I agree that there is a lot of frustration with the program, hon. members, which is why we are putting so much effort into trying to get a national program. Remember: it's a national program. We don't set all the rules. They're set by consensus amongst all of the provinces. We are, actually, if you check with the largest farm accounting firm in western Canada, at the head of the pack in terms of making good changes to the program.

The Acting Speaker: The hon. Minister of Justice and Attorney General.

Mr. Stevens: Thank you, Mr. Speaker. I move that we adjourn debate on Bill 51.

[Motion to adjourn debate carried]

head:

Private Bills Second Reading

Bill Pr. 4

Brooklynn Hannah George Rewega Right of Civil Action Act

The Acting Speaker: The hon. Member for Peace River.

Mr. Oberle: Thank you, Mr. Speaker. I'm most pleased and honoured tonight to move second reading of Bill Pr. 4, the Brooklynn Hannah George Rewega Right of Civil Action Act.

This bill has been recommended to us by the Standing Committee on Private Bills, and as members are aware, it covers much of the same topic area as Bill 45, which is currently being contemplated by this House, except that it addresses a specific family that finds itself in a situation as a result of a car accident on December 31, 2000. Brooklynn Hannah George Rewega was born with severe injuries as a result of that car accident, and she has no right of action because of a Supreme Court ruling. This is the only family in Alberta that finds itself in this situation, in the gap between the Supreme Court ruling in 1999 and the current public legislation.

It should be clarified, Mr. Speaker, that the family, through the forwarding of this bill is not asking that we find negligence or determine liability or award damages; they're asking for their right to have a cause of action to seek compensation to address her significant care needs. With changes recommended in the Private Bills Committee, which I will table at the appropriate time, Bill Pr. 4 will be entirely consistent with public Bill 45.

Mr. Speaker, I'm proud to move second reading on this bill, and I would humbly encourage all members to support it. Thank you.

The Acting Speaker: The hon. Member for Edmonton-Ellerslie.

Mr. Agnihotri: Thank you, Mr. Speaker. It's my great honour to rise and speak to Bill Pr. 4, Brooklynn Hannah George Rewega Right of Civil Action Act. The purpose of this private bill is to provide compensation for a child born with injuries from a motor vehicle accident occurring prior to birth as a result of the negligent driving of his or her mother. When and if the child is born with injuries, the cause of action can be commenced and the claim for the damages can be made.

This particular case, famous as the Rewega case, arose from a motor vehicle accident that occurred when the mother of the child was in a single-vehicle accident on December 31, 2000, near the town of High Level. Four months following the accident a girl was born with cerebral palsy. This is a very serious, sensitive, and touching story. The father and legal guardian of the girl then presented application to the government requesting a bill be passed to allow her, through her legal guardian, the right to bring or maintain a civil action in the courts against her mother for compensation for the injuries that arose resulting from the accident.

Under the present federal law an unborn child is not a person and therefore not the subject of rights and duties. A pregnant woman and her unborn child are considered to be one entity. This has since been called the born alive rule. The fetus has no status. Consequently, a pregnant woman cannot owe a duty of care to her fetus anymore than she can owe a duty of care to herself.

It is logical to assume that this bill could easily be challenged under section 15, equality rights, of the Canadian Charter of Rights and Freedoms. Even with the specific exceptions to allow this type of duty of care to apply only to a motor vehicle accident, it is still subject to the provisions of the Charter. The argument can then be made that placing this burden of care upon pregnant women that is not applied to women who are not pregnant or to men infringes upon the equality rights of women.

In this particular case there are a few things I want to discuss tonight. Section 634 of the Insurance Act clarifies that if Brooklynn Rewega, the girl, was successful and did get a judgment in her favour, the only way she can enforce that judgment is against the insurer. She cannot enforce that judgment against the mother personally. My firm belief is that it is a social problem, and it is the responsibility of the government to take care. The mother is a giver, and she must have respect and trust. History is the record: a mother always does her best to grow her child. Forcing her or stopping her against her wishes is a violation of her fundamental rights. The rights of the woman or any individual must be protected. She must have freedom of choice, and we all trust her decision.

How can we make sure that the passing of this bill doesn't open the door for other cases? For example, after we pass this legislation, lawyers will get examples of this bill and litigation will start coming. The government must recognize that this issue is very complex and contrary to the Supreme Court of Canada. The legislation must be in clear and precise language and may not lead to many lawsuits. The legislation is not clear about women who are not aware of their pregnancy. Passing of this legislation may upset some parents who have children living with a disability.

The sponsor of this bill supported his case without providing sufficient evidence to support those generalizations. We cannot compare England, for example, with Alberta. They have better social programs than this province. Why do we have private and public bills represented in this legislation? Why is the government shifting responsibility to insurance companies? Who will be paying higher premiums? I think it's you and me. We are the taxpayer. We will pay more premiums if we pass this legislation.

The intention of this government is very clear. They are showing their true colours. This is a social problem, and they must deal with this accordingly, not by shifting responsibility to insurance companies, not by opening the door for other similar cases. Who will suffer? It's the taxpayers again: you and me. Think about it. I won't support this bill.

Thank you very much.

9:50

The Acting Speaker: Hon. Member for Foothills-Rocky View, do you want to participate in the debate?

Dr. Morton: Please. Thank you, Mr. Speaker. It's with pleasure that I rise today to continue the debate on Bill Pr. 4, the Brooklynn Hannah George Rewega Right of Civil Action Act. This is an important piece of legislation that needs to proceed in order to ensure justice to a young Albertan and correct yet another poor decision of the Supreme Court of Canada.

I begin by reminding my colleagues that this bill is about restoring a right that has long existed in Canadian tort law. Two principles have formed the basis for all arguments that have been made in support of allowing children to sue their mother for damages that occurred in utero. In Canada for the past 80 years tort laws held that a child does have the right to sue negligent third parties for injuries that are sustained prior to birth. The leading precedent for this claim was the Supreme Court ruling in Montreal Tramways vs. Leveille. In this case the plaintiff successfully sued for prenatal injuries when his mother was propelled from a tram car due to the driver's error.

The second principle is that this first principle also applies to parents. In Canadian tort law parents have not enjoyed immunity from negligence lawsuits brought against them by their children.

For example, children have been allowed to sue their parents for damages caused from parental sexual abuse.

It is these two principles that have formed the basis of the common law surrounding the issue of children being able to sue for damages sustained in utero.

In the 1998 case of Dobson versus Dobson the Supreme Court ignored and overruled these precedents. In the Dobson case Cynthia Dobson was involved in a motor vehicle accident which seriously and permanently injured her son Ryan, whose premature birth was the result of this accident. In this case the trial judge employed the precedents and line of reasoning that I've just recited and justified his ruling that the infant, Ryan Dobson, could in fact sue his mother for the injuries she caused him before his birth. The New Brunswick Court of Appeal, citing the same precedents, upheld the trial judge ruling.

Mr. Speaker, although both the trial judge and the appeal court judge ruled in favour of Ryan Dobson following 80 years of precedents, the Supreme Court did not. The Supreme Court declared that allowing a child to sue their mother for injuries that occurred prebirth would constitute too much of an intrusion on the lives of pregnant women and would be a violation of their so-called right to privacy, a term that appears nowhere in the text of the Charter and is yet another example of judge-made law.

In sum, Mr. Speaker, the Supreme Court of Canada removed a right that had been clearly identified in common law. Fortunately, however, the Supreme Court did not completely close the door on this issue. In his decision for the Supreme Court Mr. Justice Cory stated:

If, as a society, Canadians believe that children who sustain damages as a result of maternal prenatal negligence should be financially compensated, then the solution should be formulated, after careful study and debate, by the legislature.

That's what we are doing here this evening. Not only did the Supreme Court leave the door open for legislative action on this policy issue but invited us to walk through it and re-establish a proper balance between the interests of mothers and the interests of children. The remedial legislation proposed in Bill Pr. 4 strikes this balance.

It is also an example of what's called Charter dialogue: a dialogue between courts and Legislatures. Canada's leading constitutional scholar, Professor Peter Hogg, of Osgoode Hall Law School, has praised the Charter dialogue as striking a proper balance between courts and Legislatures, between unelected judges and elected representatives, in deciding where one right ends and another begins. Professor Hogg says that this sharing of Charter development is what democratizes the Charter and makes it acceptable to our system of responsible government.

Mr. Speaker, the people of Alberta did not send us to this Chamber to act like beaten dogs and to slink away and do nothing every time the Supreme Court oversteps its mandate. Certainly, Albertans have a right to expect their elected MLAs to exercise this delegated power responsibly, the power to make laws for Alberta. This is what Bill Pr. 4 does.

If we look into the past, we see that Brooklynn Rewega had this right before the Dobson case, and thanks to Bill 45, the Maternal Tort Liability Act, we see that similarly situated children will have this right in the future. What Bill Pr. 4 does, Mr. Speaker, is simply fill in the gap, fill in the legal loophole and ensures that Brooklynn Rewega will have the same rights, equal rights, as the children that came before her and the children that come after her. Surely, this is simple justice.

I encourage all hon. members to support Bill Pr. 4. Thank you, Mr. Speaker.

The Acting Speaker: Standing Order 29(2)(a). Any questions or comments? The hon. Member for Edmonton-Gold Bar.

Mr. MacDonald: Yes. Thank you, Mr. Speaker. The hon. member in his remarks talked, of course, about elected officials to this Legislative Assembly and others. Does he also consider that judges should be elected and not appointed?

The Acting Speaker: Hon. Member for Foothills-Rocky View, do you want to comment?

Dr. Morton: Well, just to make the obvious point. I made no comment about electing judges. In fact, it's the balance. This Charter dialogue is the sharing of institutional responsibilities: elected Legislature and the unelected and therefore more independent judges. It's the sharing of Charter development that Professor Hogg and other constitutional scholars have described as Charter dialogue and encouraged as a democratic way of developing our rights and freedoms.

The Acting Speaker: Any other questions or comments?
The hon. Member for Edmonton-Rutherford.

Mr. R. Miller: Thank you very much, Mr. Speaker. I'll keep my comments brief. I think most of what I would have wanted to say in regard to Bill Pr. 4, the Brooklynn Hannah George Rewega Right of Civil Action Act, I managed to get on the record when we spoke to Bill 45 the other evening, the Maternal Tort Liability Act.

I would like to just point out how ironic I find it that this government, which prides itself in waving the flag of less government and staying out of people's lives, has now managed in the same session of this Legislature to pass legislation that removed the legal right of an entity to sue. In fact, it was a company that was involved in a lawsuit with the government. I love the terminology. That particular lawsuit was extinguished, as a matter of fact. That's certainly Big Brother, the heavy hand of government stepping into rights, and it raised a lot of concern for a lot of Albertans and a lot of corporations across the country that do business in Alberta. Now we have a situation where we're about to pass a piece of legislation, notwithstanding all of the honourable goals that we're trying to achieve here for the Rewega family, that will allow a lawsuit to take place where currently the legislation would not allow it.

I do find it quite ironic that the heavy hand of government can sort of step in at will when it's deemed appropriate and either extinguish a lawsuit that is currently under way or in this case allow one that would not otherwise have been allowed to take place.

Thank you.

The Acting Speaker: Standing Order 29(2)(a). Any questions or comments?

Hon. Member for Edmonton-Strathcona, do you want to participate in the debate? You are recognized.

10:00

Dr. Pannu: I want to say a few words.

The Acting Speaker: Yes.

Dr. Pannu: Thank you, Mr. Speaker. I'll be very brief. I want to speak to Bill Pr. 4, Brooklynn Hannah George Rewega Right of Civil Action Act. I was on the Private Bills Committee when this matter came before the committee of this House I think last year sometime. We had some extensive discussions in that committee with respect to the request that came forward in the form of Pr. 4 before that committee. Many matters were raised, and they remain as a matter of concern to me as we're proceeding with this bill. Not only with this, but then Bill 45, which is the Maternal Tort Liability Act, is before this House too. So both of these bills now in a sense extend the debate that took place in that committee.

While Pr. 4 is a specific case dealing with creating the ability, I guess, of Baby Rewega to proceed with the right of civil action against her mother, it does raise broader questions about the relationship between children and their parents, particularly when they are still in utero. The fetal rights issue was one that importantly figured in that committee debate. Now, this matter, especially Bill 45 in conjunction with this bill, can I think open a whole series of new questions about what happens when a mother smokes when she's pregnant and about the damage that may result to a baby to be born when a mother has been smoking or the mother uses alcohol while she's pregnant and that does damage the baby and results in some disabilities. What happens then? And on and on and on.

You know, we could go on to open this Pandora's box, where we haven't really given thoughtful consideration to all these possibilities that may spring from us having taken this legislative action that we're called on to take. We may find ourselves returning to address these unexamined questions, questions that remain unaddressed today, and say: well, we made a mistake. I think this debate begs so many important questions that in my view we ought not to proceed with this with the haste with which we are proceeding.

There is a remedy, I think, in the Pr. 4 case. I think the right of civil action will allow this baby to sue the mother for the auto insurance coverage, the third-party coverage, I guess, that the mother carries, so there's public liability. There are limited assets that can be subject to this civil action in any case. I'm sure that we as government have the capacity to address the needs of this particular child rather than opening this whole larger issue which raises so many questions which require a more thorough and detailed debate, which this session and this sitting in my view do not allow.

So I am very concerned about us proceeding quickly with this bill and Bill 45. Given those reservations that I've expressed before and have tried to put very briefly before the House today, I would find it very difficult to support this bill. Thank you.

The Acting Speaker: Standing Order 29(2)(a). Any questions or comments?

Anybody else wish to participate in the debate?

The hon. Member for Peace River to close debate.

Mr. Oberle: Thank you, Mr. Speaker. I'm pleased to rise with just some brief comments to close.

First of all, in response to the Member for Edmonton-Ellerslie, Mr. Speaker, we've covered this ground significantly. While the member's understanding of fetal rights in Canada or the situation of fetal rights in Canada may be correct, his application of it to this situation is not. Evidence of that is that a child that is born with such injuries that were suffered prenatally can currently under Canadian law sue another member of his family or a third party. It's only mothers that are currently immune from this tort liability.

In response to the Member for Edmonton-Strathcona, again, about the extension of this legislation wandering into other areas of alcohol abuse or anything else, the government is acting upon the direction and the invitation of the Supreme Court of Canada, and this legislation by their direction is strictly limited to incidents of car accidents. The Supreme Court themselves said that it would be impossible to argue by analogy that this exemption could be extended into other tortious situations.

With those comments, Mr. Speaker, I would be happy to close and call the question.

[Motion carried; Bill Pr. 4 read a second time]

head: Government Bills and Orders
Second Reading
(continued)

Bill 54
Alberta Centennial Education
Savings Plan Amendment Act, 2005

The Acting Speaker: The hon. Minister of Advanced Education.

Mr. Hancock: Thank you, Mr. Speaker. I'm pleased to rise to move for second reading of the Alberta Centennial Education Savings Plan Amendment Act, 2005.

An amendment is being proposed to the Alberta Centennial Education Savings Plan Act, that was passed earlier this year. I might say that since that act was brought forward and passed, we've had a considerable amount of feedback in response from Albertans, mostly good but some critical. I would say that the critical elements related to two parts of the bill. One, it provided for contributions to an education savings plan for a child or children born in 2005 and going forward. Of course, many people were concerned that if their children were born in 2004, they didn't get to participate.

One of the other elements in the bill provided for $100 to be contributed to an educational savings plan for children at ages eight, 11, and 14. If parents made a contribution of $100 at those ages, the province would match those contributions but for children born in 2005 and beyond. On reflection and on considering comments made by Albertans, we determined that it would be appropriate to change that particular aspect of the program so that any children as they turned eight, 11, and 14 would be eligible for the program rather than only those born in 2005 and later. There are approximately 40,000 children at each age level, so that would allow every year as we go forward from 2005 for children at the ages of eight, 11, and 14 to have a contribution made to an RESP on their behalf and for the government, then, to match $100 of that contribution.

Why is it important, Mr. Speaker? It's important because we know that the single biggest indicator of a child going to postsecondary is a parent's expectation that they will do so. That still tracks as the largest single indicator of transition from high school to postsecondary. We also know that a considerable number, certainly more than the norm, 80 per cent of children with RESPs in their name, go on to postsecondary, and that's a significantly higher number than the regular population.

So while the program goes some way towards having money in an account for a child to finance their education, that clearly is not the most significant part of the program. The most significant part of the program, the most significant purpose of the program is to encourage parents to think early about their children getting an education, to think early about that expectation and evidence that expectation by opening an RESP for their children at birth, and to contribute at ages eight, 11, and 14, contribute obviously other times, but to remind them that it's there and to remind them of that expectation that they have for their child.

10:10

The program itself is still, I believe, a very sound one. It's sound not just in providing a vehicle or encouraging a vehicle for parents to open an RESP at their child's birth and to start it with the $500 grant that the bill provided for but to encourage in every year as we go forward parents to have that expectation for their children that they will go on to a postsecondary education. We know that in the new knowledge economy it's projected that 70 per cent of the new jobs created in Alberta, in Canada will require some form of postsecondary education. Having this opportunity to encourage parents to think about their child's education, to have aspirations for their children to have an education will increase the probability that their children will go on to get an education. So I would encourage members to support this amendment.

I would say once again, Mr. Speaker, that the Member for Calgary-Egmont was instrumental in bringing forward this idea. It was a good idea at the time. Hopefully, this small change to the program will make it an even better idea and that more Albertans, starting in 2005 and moving forward, will have the expectation for their children that they will get a postsecondary education and that this program will help in encouraging more people to have that expectation.

Thank you, Mr. Speaker.

The Acting Speaker: The hon. Member for Edmonton-Rutherford.

Mr. R. Miller: Well, thank you very much, Mr. Speaker. It gives me pleasure on behalf of the Member for Calgary-Currie to open debate for the Official Opposition on Bill 54, the Alberta Centennial Education Savings Plan Amendment Act, 2005. I'm not sure if the hon. Member for Edmonton-Whitemud and Advanced Education minister came right out and said it or not, but I think what he meant to say was that the Alberta Liberals were bang on in debate on Bill 1. When we opposed Bill 1, one of the comments that we made time and time again was that it was unfair to exclude children that were born prior to the year 2005.

In fact, Mr. Speaker, it wasn't just members of the opposition who raised that concern but Calgary-Egmont, as the minister has acknowledged, and I believe the Member for Vermilion-Lloydminster was very vociferous in his comments in terms of how inequitable it was to exclude children that were born before the year 2005. I'm pleased to lend my support to the bill on that account, the fact that we are addressing children that through no fault of their own managed to be born prior to the province's centennial beginning.

Mr. Speaker, there are several concerns about this that I would like to mention despite the fact that overall I'm quite confident that I will be supporting the bill. It's been acknowledged by many that registered education savings plans are a significant growth field for student aid and, in fact, a significant growth industry for banks and other financial institutions. That in itself is not necessarily a bad thing. But as the minister acknowledged, those accounts require parental seed money to start them. I believe the minister used the figure that 80 per cent of children who have RESPs in their name go on to postsecondary education, and I'm pleased to hear that the number is so high. The concern is: what about those whose parents can't afford to make that initial contribution and open those accounts?

In fact, several studies that I've been party to have indicated that it's mostly the families that are relatively well off in the first place that open these RESPs for their children, so perhaps the ones who most need that help are not getting it in the first place. Supporters of this bill tend to view the grants as a cost-effective and future-oriented mechanism, Mr. Speaker, to encourage the parents to save for their children's education while critics have complained about it as a way of funneling scarce public dollars to parents whose children are already more likely to attend a postsecondary institution. That is a result of their ability to establish and contribute to the RESPs, as I had already indicated.

Mr. Speaker, I think it would be fair to say that the expectation that parents will contribute to the costs of their children's education according to their assessed ability is built into the current student loan system. In other words, if parents have money, then they are expected by the government to contribute to their children's education, and that contribution level is then essentially clawed out of the student's loan award. We've heard many anecdotal stories from students whose parents, for whatever reason, although they may have money, are not willing to put it towards the student's education. Perhaps there's been a falling-out or the students have left home under trying circumstances, yet they're unable at times to get the loan assistance that they need because of the parents' financial wherewithal.

I would certainly like to ask the minister if he would consider bringing back answers to these questions when we get to the committee stage. Apparently, there are about 120,000 students who would be eligible for this new program, but I'm wondering if he would have an estimate of the actual numbers of families who would subscribe to it. In other words, how many families are they projecting would make the contributions and, therefore, would have to have those contributions matched by the government with this program?

Originally the money for Bill 1 was to have come out of the general revenue fund. I've looked through the supplemental supply requisitions this evening, Mr. Speaker, and I haven't been able to see any place where this money is listed. I'm wondering where it is contemplated that this money would come from, and just exactly how much money is contemplated would be required to now fund the changes that are being brought forward by this amendment to the bill.

So with that, Mr. Speaker, I will take my chair and cede to any others who wish to speak to it tonight, and I look forward to further debate on this bill. Thank you.

The Acting Speaker: The hon. Member for Edmonton-Strathcona.

Dr. Pannu: Thank you, Mr. Speaker. I'd like to speak to Bill 54, the Alberta Centennial Education Savings Plan Amendment Act, 2005. Bill 54 amends a bill that we very recently approved in this Assembly, in the spring, another example of how hastily prepared bills become so quickly wanting and need amendments. You may recall the debate in which, certainly, one of the points that I made was why this bill would simply permit children born in 2005 and after to qualify for this small amount of grant in their eighth, 11th, and 14th years and why not others. So here we are. This amendment tries to correct that one flaw in that bill. So far, so good. You know, at least it recognizes the most sort of obvious flaw in the piece of legislation that this House debated not so long ago.

Now, I think the minister was right in suggesting there'll be about 120,000 students who will be eligible for the $100 grant every year, so it'll amount to about $1.2 million per year at the minimum. As the population of the province grows, I guess this number of 120,000 will grow because this number is certainly a function of the present population base, and if the population base changes, this number will change accordingly.

10:20

The minister also mentioned, and I think he was right in drawing attention to the fact that 80 per cent of children with registered educational savings plans in their names go to postsecondary institutions. Mr. Speaker, it's also true, however, that children who come from families with more than $75,000 a year in income are much more likely to go to postsecondary institutions whether they have RESPs or not. So going to postsecondary education in this province seems to be very strongly associated with family income. The well-off families do find their children, daughters and sons, more likely to be going to postsecondary institutions. Low-income families and children born in those families are in a very different situation. In 2001, for example, only 20 per cent of youth from families with incomes below $75,000 a year went to university. More than double that percentage, 46 per cent, of youth from high-income families did so.

It's clear that this $300 that will be available to every child in this province at the age of eight, 11, and 14, three times I suppose, before they go into the postsecondary will benefit, certainly, those families who already are able to send their children to postsecondary institutions in much larger proportion than their low-income counterparts. It certainly helps those. People who have RESPs, those families who do in fact register RESPs for their children, are also families in the higher income range. So no wonder, then, that RESPs and putting money into RESPs will in fact help essentially families which are already in a position to send their children to university or school. Income resources is certainly one determinant of whether the children will go to university or college or an institute or not. There are other determinants. We should recognize that.

The families that really need help need some sort of encouragement so that they would then in turn encourage their children to think of going to or plan to go to college, a technical institute, or university are ones in the low-income bracket. Families that have very low savings rates, maybe none, can save very little, may not be able to find money to put into RESPs in any case. For them to take advantage of this $100 for every child they have when that child turns eight, 11, and 14, they'll have to find money to put into the RESP first, and only then will they become eligible to apply to take advantage of this $100 for each of the children. So families with three or four children will have to find $300 or $400 if they are in that age bracket. Not many low-income families have that kind of money lying around that they can put in the RESPs and then turn around and apply on their children's behalf to take advantage of the money that's being offered by way of this bill.

It would be, I think, far more effective if the government developed a system of grants based on need to help children and families that are unable for financial reasons to encourage and send their sons and daughters to postsecondary institutions. One point two million dollars per year would go some way, I suppose, to providing some grants, but we need to do more.

I think the minister has been engaged in what he calls, you know, a comprehensive review of the postsecondary system including student financing, accessibility, affordability, ensuring that a larger number of students from Alberta participate in postsecondary education. We have one of the lowest participation rates, and that is not just because parents are negligent about thinking long term, saving money, and putting it into RESPs. It must have to do with something else because parents all across other provinces are in the same situation, but certainly conditions are such over there in other provinces that more children go to postsecondary institutions. So I think we need to find a way of addressing this question by asking: why is it that the participation rate in this province is the lowest in the country?

Would this bill – you know, this sort of piecemeal, ad hoc approach to addressing a clearly identified problem in this province, which is the low participation rate in the postsecondary system by our own young people – this $300 token amount send a real message to parents and families and children that this government is serious about helping them? I'm afraid not. I think we need to put in place policies. I think if the grant system based on need were available and families and children knew that, given their needs, they will have grants available to take advantage of postsecondary institutions, I think we will encourage more of them to want to go to postsecondary institutions, and we'll see more of them going there ultimately.

We have to make a start along that road. This bill doesn't seem to do very much in terms of putting in place real incentives for young people who presently don't go to postsecondary institutions in this province but have the educational qualifications and grade level achievement at the high school level to enter these institutions if they had the resources, including monetary resources.

It's also a statutory expenditure, Mr. Speaker. You can't control it. It can grow and grow. If there were a clear sort of targeted population in mind that would benefit in the sense that it presently doesn't take advantage of the opportunity to go to postsecondary institutions but will do so if this policy and program were in place, I think we would be further ahead, but I don't see this happening. It seems to me that a much larger proportion of higher income families will be the ones who will be taking advantage of it.

I think the question has been asked of the minister. I'm sure during debate in the committee he will have some information for us with respect to the question, the question being whether he has some information already which indicates that this program, $100 at years eight, 11, and 14, this being in place already for children born this year, has encouraged, in fact, families who in the past have not thought of putting in place RESPs for their children, that because this program is now there, they have started doing this. We need to have some evidence to show that this, in fact, has stimulated the interest of families who previously weren't thinking of saving money for their children's postsecondary education, that this program has indeed spurred them to do so. I hope the minister has some information on it. Maybe it's too early yet to have that kind of information in hand, but it would be good to have some tentative answers from the minister if any such information is available to him.

10:30

Some other problems with RESPs. When you start talking about, you know, registered education savings plans, focusing on that takes attention away from the real issue, the affordability issue. Are the tuition fees too high, which discourages people? We know that tuition fees in this province are very, very high, the second highest in the country. To what extent does that explain, in fact, the low participation rate in the postsecondary system by our young people rather than the absence of RESPs? RESPs surely put the onus on individual families, true, but I don't think we can simply assume that those families that don't put money into RESPs are not willing to take responsibility for their children's education. It's a question of ability to take that action. So there are some underlying assumptions here that we need to question.

Postsecondary education must be treated as a public good. We talk a lot about how important it is for us to have more and more Albertans take advantage of postsecondary education. Why is that so? Why do we emphasize this as a matter of public policy? Because it is in the public interest to do so. Postsecondary education, in my view, should be treated as a public good and therefore made available to people regardless of their ability – monetary ability, financial ability – to take advantage of it. Focusing on RESPs takes attention away from the way in which we can in fact make this public good available to people who otherwise will not be in a position to purchase it as a private good.

On the other side of the ledger, you know, surely it's a small expenditure. One could argue that it's a gesture worth putting in place. It does provide some help to middle-class, middle-income families who can't access some loan programs due to income levels.

But the larger problem of low participation in the postsecondary system in this province remains. It's a stubborn problem, and it's not amenable to feeble solutions such as the one this bill provides.

Thank you, Mr. Speaker.

The Acting Speaker: Standing Order 29(2)(a). Any questions or comments for the hon. Member for Edmonton-Strathcona?

Anybody else wish to participate in the debate?

The hon. Minister of Advanced Education to close debate.

Mr. Hancock: Thank you, Mr. Speaker. Just a few brief words. I certainly appreciated some of the comments that were made about it. I would indicate that just because one moves on certain things doesn't mean that it's ad hoc. As we move forward to try to encourage more Albertans to get an advanced education, to transition to postsecondary, we need to move on all fronts. This is one way of encouraging that kind of participation. So I would say that it's not an ad hoc measure but one that moves a step forward to ensure that parents consider that expectation that their children get an education, consider it early in life. It's one mechanism. It's not the whole program by any stretch of the imagination.

In terms of having an opportunity with feedback to go back and look at how we can make the program better, I don't think one has to be embarrassed at all about being prepared to make improvements as we move along, and this is one that lent itself well. Unfortunately, the take-up of the program hasn't been as rapid as one might have hoped although we do expect that it will continue to be taken up. But there's money in the budget to handle the expected take-up of this additional element to the program. Therefore, it is not needed to add to the budget at this point in time.

[Motion carried; Bill 54 read a second time]

Bill 55

Post-secondary Learning Amendment Act, 2005 (No. 2)

The Acting Speaker: The hon. Minister of Advanced Education.

Mr. Hancock: Thank you, Mr. Speaker. It's my pleasure to move Bill 55 for second reading.

Bill 55 proposes an amendment to the Post-secondary Learning Act, and it's a very simple and straightforward amendment. Under the Post-secondary Learning Act there's a form of governance set up for colleges and technical institutes, and that form of governance provides a model for an academic council. This amendment would put in a clause which would allow the creation of a different type of academic council model for those institutions that wanted to do it. It's not something that would be forced upon the system. Rather, it would be an option which could go forward. What we're simply asking for is a change which will make it more possible to tailor an academic council to the specific interests or the specific governance that a college or technical institute might want to engage in.

There may be reasons, Mr. Speaker, why a college might want to do that. In utilizing this section and setting up such academic councils, we would not want to put an inordinate amount of pressure on the system for everybody to design their own academic councils or to have a multiplicity of academic councils. We will want to consult thoroughly with the colleges and technical institutes in the province with respect to the design of the regulations which would be put in place in terms of how and when a college or technical institute could move forward to utilize this particular section and ask for a specific design for an academic council for that college or institution.

It does provide for some needed flexibility in the system, and for that reason we determined to bring forward this proposed amendment this fall, which would allow us the opportunity to work over the winter with the institutions to design the regulations necessary and have discussions with the colleges and institutions and move forward with those who wanted to make changes to their academic structure.

At this point, Mr. Speaker, I would move adjournment of debate on Bill 55.

[Motion to adjourn debate carried]

Bill 57
Apprenticeship and Industry Training
Amendment Act, 2005

The Acting Speaker: The hon. Minister of Advanced Education.

Mr. Hancock: Thank you, Mr. Speaker. I rise to move second reading of Bill 57, the Apprenticeship and Industry Training Amendment Act, 2005.

This act makes two minor housekeeping amendments to the Apprenticeship and Industry Training Act. The first one corrects a section reference in the definition of a designated trade. The second amendment corrects an oversight in the original act.

On January 1, 1992, the Apprenticeship and Industry Training Act repealed and replaced the Manpower Development Act. The trades that were designated under the Manpower Development Act were deemed to be designated under the new act. The Apprenticeship and Industry Training Act, however, did not contain a provision which would allow these trades to be listed in a regulation. At the time it didn't matter because the old regulation under the Manpower Development Act was still widely available. It was easy to find out what trades were designated.

With the passage of time the legislative trail has become somewhat obscure. There is currently no regulation which indicates what trades are designated under section 57. The matter is further complicated by the fact that the names of 16 of these trades have changed since 1992. There's no authority to make a regulation listing the new names for those trades. The proposed amendment will give the Lieutenant Governor in Council that authority.

I'd like to make it clear that the amendment is not about what should or should not be a designated trade. It's about correcting an oversight in the act, providing the ability to list in regulation the designated trades that already exist in Alberta. These amendments are minor changes that do not change the intent or the meaning of the legislation. There are no policy or financial implications arising from the amendment. Again, it's simply something which was brought to light.

Actually, Mr. Speaker, in a court case where an enforcement action was being taken with respect to a designated trade, the defence that was put forward convinced the judge in that case that there was an obscurity in the legislative trail, and as such we now need to move to correct that so that it can be clear which trades in Alberta are designated trades, so that the law can be appropriately applied and enforced.

Thank you, Mr. Speaker.

10:40

The Acting Speaker: The hon. Member for Edmonton-Manning.

Mr. Backs: Thank you, Mr. Speaker. There obviously was some obscurity in the legislation that gave rise to this bill, and it flowed from a court case. The original transfer that this bill speaks to was obviously flawed, and the court case which led to this amendment proved that. The original legislation, which brought about a transition between the former Manpower Development Act and the current Apprenticeship and Industry Training Act, was not just flawed in the way that it failed to properly list the designated trades to show which trades were properly covered by the legislation; it was also flawed in the way it changed the way the trades were viewed. That bill enshrined optional certification in certain trades, in fact degraded trades from the equal status that they had formerly held with other trades and, in fact, created what some would term greater and lesser trades.

It may have caused and been motivated by a move to have lesser compensation and benefits for those trades that were made optional. Those people that had earned journeyman status in optional trades were outraged at the time. It would have been like a medical doctor being told his medical degree was being reduced to the equivalent of an undergraduate degree, that it suddenly had lesser importance.

Those who were subject to optional certification as opposed to compulsory certification know that the skill set, the knowledge necessary for the trade, should in no way be deemed of a lesser status than in other trades. Those that know the many skills required of the now optional trades, say, for example, for a master carpenter, know that this is a trade where proper mastery of the many skills involved does not come easily. My dad was a carpenter, in and among his many other skills, and the time and experience he had to have to properly practise his trade were extensive.

Now, the differences in terms of compulsory certification and optional certification basically go to certain criteria that are outlined. For the most part, all the rest of the things are the same except for the designated occupations, but between the compulsory and optional the basic differences are that there is additional criteria for compulsory designation, which is

- (a) the degree of risk of harm to workers from the improper application of the materials and methodology of the proposed trade;
- (b) the degree of risk of harm to . . . the public from
 - (i) the improper application of the materials and methodology of the proposed trade, and
 - (ii) the activity or product produced by the proposed trade;
- (c) the demonstrated need for proven competency to perform the work of the proposed trade due to the presence or use . . . of any or all of the following:
 - (i) dangerous substances;
 - (ii) dangerous or destructive equipment;
 - (iii) dangerous techniques or practices.

Many of the people in what are the so-called deemed optional trades now don't understand why those are different for certain trades because they, in fact, apply to them all.

It's very, very significant in what this does because in terms of an optional trade the necessity to be certified or registered or to be a registered apprentice in the trade does not exist. This designation of optional has had the real effect in those trades designated of reducing those that are attracted to that trade. We'll have some real demographics facing us here in a few years that have given some cause for concern. I don't know if they're exactly here yet. We are presently facing thousands and thousands of tradesmen coming into the union halls, the hiring halls, that are out of work because of the end of projects and at the same time seeing temporary foreign workers flowing into projects that are hiring for the Progressive Contractors Association, the PC Association.

Bill 51
Appropriation (Supplementary Supply) Act,
2005 (No. 2)
(continued)

The Acting Speaker: I hesitate to interrupt the hon. Member for Edmonton-Manning, but in accordance with Standing Order 61(5) the chair is required to put the question to the House on the appropriation bill on the Order Paper for second reading.

[Motion carried; Bill 51 read a second time]

Bill 57
Apprenticeship and Industry Training
Amendment Act, 2005

(continued)

The Acting Speaker: The hon. Member for Edmonton-Manning.

Mr. Backs: Thank you, Mr. Speaker. An additional outgrowth of this move has been to push to develop multiskilling, to degrade the trades in general by segmenting the skills, by compartmentalizing certain components of tradesmen's larger skill sets so that the wage rates can be reduced. This indeed has proven to be false economy in the long run for many young people have chosen to leave a job that they'd been apprenticed into because they are not getting proper training or are doing repetitive jobs where they learn little about their prospective trade and have little hope for advancement.

The fact that statistics are not even kept anymore for first-year leavers from their apprenticeship is a sure indication that the system there is in crisis. The fact that the average age of apprentices is more than 25 is an indication that there is something absolutely and totally wrong with this system. Why are young people not being attracted to the trades? Why are so many employers making so little use of things like the RAP program? You know, these things are real difficulties and problems.

I think some of the stuff that already came about because of the original bill and the transition from the Manpower Development Act to the current Apprenticeship and Industry Training Act may have led to this. It is not only a simple listing. I think it's something that has brought forward the flaws in the initial change that was brought about at that time, a number of years ago, and brought forward by that particular change in the legislation.

I think that it is something that we should be looking at to get rid of the whole idea of optional trades, to ensure that there is mobility and proper training for all tradesmen so that we can ensure that there is an increase in the number of the trades when we hit the bomb that's going to be causing such a problem in three to four years. To ensure that all of the trades have that compulsory certification I think would be the proper and right move not only for those tradesmen but for our economy and for all Alberta.

Thank you, Mr. Speaker.

The Acting Speaker: Anybody else wish to participate in the debate?

The hon. Member for Edmonton-Gold Bar.

Mr. MacDonald: Thank you very much, Mr. Speaker. When one looks at Bill 57, the Apprenticeship and Industry Training Amendment Act, 2005, it certainly looks innocent, but when we look at the trend – and the hon. minister was talking about the old Manpower Development Act and how times have changed since the days of the Manpower Development Act. The hon. minister is certainly right: how times have changed and how times have changed with this Progressive Conservative government. In the past there used to be so much more debate and discussion on legislation in this Assembly. That was in the past. Now, of course, everything seems to be done by regulation.

At first glance this legislation would certainly appear to just be a minor housekeeping detail, but when you look at it, Mr. Speaker, it does not appear to impact authority respecting newly designated trades. That authority already exists to designate trades under sections 21 and 22.

This government, of course, initially wanted to put this through the Miscellaneous Statutes Amendment Act, but this Legislative Assembly meets so seldom, and with the habit of this government to do everything through order in council, a government by regulation, not by statute, this is part of the democratic deficit that exists in this province. This democratic deficit exists because, of course, there has been one party in power since 1971. [interjection] This was the first dynasty of the Progressive Conservative Party. There were three dynasties. There is a question, hon. member, whether there will be a fourth.

10:50

When you look at how things have changed – and you have to realize, Mr. Speaker, that when we see Bill 57, of course, it's just minor housekeeping – we have to be very, very cautious, and we have to be concerned about how this government operates by regulation. We only have to go back to question period today, and we see all these little deals that were made behind closed doors with Enron in 2001. Everything was done by regulation, including even a regulation to suppress the publication of a regulation. So if I and others would much prefer that all these discussions took place in public, you can understand why. It's the Minister of Justice that is the minister in charge of regulation, publication, suppression. I think it's section 3 of the Regulations Act that gives the Minister of Justice that authority, and that is significant authority.

Now, I'm certainly not saying for one minute that if this government was to look at changing the compulsory or the optional designation of a trade, they would use that seldom used section of the Regulations Act, but they certainly used it whenever they were dealing with Enron. The deal to sell off Enron's power purchase arrangement at Sundance was done, and it was certainly hidden from the public. This idea that, "Oh, well, we were just suppressing the publication of this regulation because it was large, and we wanted to reduce the size of the Alberta Gazette," well, that argument certainly doesn't hold merit. There are other regulations in there that were quite extensive, and they were published. They were published in the Alberta Gazette, but not this one. So you can understand if I am suspicious any time there is a move now by this government to change how we operate and to provide more opportunities to do everything by regulation, behind closed doors, without any public discourse.

As far as the apprenticeship and industry training goes in this province, we have to be very careful because in the past I have been disappointed to find out that this government is not willing to enforce those compulsory and optional trades. They're not willing to do that. [interjection] The hon. Minister of Advanced Education is very keen to get this legislation passed, and I'm sure he's going to have his way.

We have to be very, very careful here. People work very hard to get a trade ticket in this province, and they're quite willing to participate in their good economic fortunes, but let's make sure that we are going to work and work to provide access to education for each and every Albertan that wants to participate in the apprenticeship and industry training programs that are available. They want to get a skilled trade. They want to participate in the workforce. They want to earn a living for themselves and their families. Let's make sure that we're doing this in an open and transparent manner and that we're not watering down our trades. This government I think is right whenever they speak about how we train our workers. We are in most cases doing a very, very good job of training our workers.

But enforcing the regulations that these workers are bound by: we're not doing a very good job of that. We're turning a very blind eye to that.

It is my view that some outfits know that they can get away without having compulsory trade tickets for their workers. I don't understand how the insurance company will allow this, but at the moment they seem to be getting away with it. Now, it's only a matter of time, in my view, before there will be a lawsuit of one sort or another. So we can shrug our shoulders, we can go on with the status quo, or we can ensure that this government is not going to water down our compulsory trade certification process. I for one, Mr. Speaker, would encourage the government to look at making more of our trades compulsory. I would like our government to have a look at this.

Now, I don't know if it's going to happen. I know that the hon. Minister of Advanced Education is very busy. In this term to date there have been significant changes to Advanced Education, but certainly we should be looking at strengthening our Apprenticeship and Industry Training Act. We should be ensuring that it is enforced and that all Albertans that are interested have access to training under this act.

This notion that we're going to have this program to allow temporary foreign workers into this province when there are so many other pools of labour that could be accessed to help with our current construction boom – I just am leery of a lot of the efforts being made. I do not want to see our programs watered down. I don't want to see this system weakened. I think we should be enhancing it.

With those remarks, Mr. Speaker, I will cede the floor to another colleague. Let's be careful, and let's protect all optional and compulsory trade certification programs in this province. Thank you.

The Acting Speaker: Standing Order 29(2)(a). Any questions or comments?

Does anybody else wish to participate in the debate? The hon. Member for Edmonton-Strathcona.

Dr. Pannu: Thank you, Mr. Speaker. I would like to speak to Bill 57, Apprenticeship and Industry Training Amendment Act, 2005, in second reading. Let me start by saying that I'm glad that the minister allowed himself to be persuaded to bring these amendments forward in the form of these stand-alone pieces of legislation in the form of bills 56 and 57.

He had engaged me in some discussion on whether it would be acceptable from our side to let these changes proceed as part of the Miscellaneous Statutes Amendment Act. But as we were going through those processes, I guess, the minister thought and was convinced that it would be better to bring these forward as stand-alone bills so that we'll have something on record with respect to how this Legislature and members of it feel about the changes being proposed. So I welcome this opportunity, and I want to I think join with the other colleagues in expressing some concerns about making some important changes in the existing legislation, changes that will in fact put the power to designate trades in the hands of the cabinet with no reference provided in the legislation as such with respect to definitions of what would be designated as a compulsory certification trade and what would be designated as an optional certification trade.

11:00

I think what the minister is asking for here is a sort of blank cheque in terms of allowing the cabinet to make these decisions, decisions which, in my view, will have a far-reaching impact on people who practise these trades. One wonders why it is necessary for these matters to be taken out of the legislation and put in the hands of the Lieutenant Governor in Council to be able to make these designations through regulations. Regulations are not open to debate. Regulations are not subject to public intervention.

Certainly, the growing number of tradespeople in this province given the booming industry, the attempts to diversify the economy – there are a very large number of people who are in these trades. I think they have reason to worry about the change being proposed because one could fear arbitrary decisions on, you know, what gets downgraded to optional certification and what gets designated as a compulsory certification trade. These designations have consequences for being hired, for how one gets paid, where one can work, what kinds of jobs one can do at a work site, what jobs one cannot do. So these designations do matter for people in the trades areas. As I said, the number of people who work in different trades is growing, and we want to make sure that they have the certified skills that they claim to have and that they acquired through apprenticeships and acquired through going to NAIT and SAIT and technical institutes.

We, I think, cannot be sure that putting all these important matters in the hands of the minister or through him in the cabinet for designating these important trades either as compulsory or optional is a good thing. I think there are serious questions that the change raises. I'm sure we'll have opportunity for the minister to respond to some of these concerns in the debate on this bill in the committee stage, but at this point I think it's important that we put these matters, these concerns on the table, on record, and then we can speak to them in the next round of debate.

Thank you, Mr. Speaker.

The Acting Speaker: Standing Order 29(2)(a). Any questions or comments? Anybody else wish to participate in the debate?

The hon. Minister of Advanced Education to close debate.

Mr. Hancock: Question.

[Motion carried; Bill 57 read a second time]

Bill 56

Business Corporations Amendment Act, 2005 (No. 2)

Dr. Morton: Mr. Speaker, on behalf of the hon. Member for Calgary-Nose Hill I am pleased to move second reading of Bill 56, the Business Corporations Amendment Act, 2005 (No. 2).

The Business Corporations Act was amended earlier this year to harmonize Alberta's legislation with the Canada Business Corporations Act and to allow unlimited liability corporations to be incorporated in Alberta. Further amendments are required now: one, to protect minority shareholders who disagree with the corporation converting to or from an unlimited liability corporation; two, to clarify the time period that former shareholders of unlimited liability corporations remain liable; three, to clarify that only registered shareholders have voting rights; and, finally, for some small housekeeping amendments.

The key amendments are as follows, Mr. Speaker. The first is protection of minority shareholders. We're proposing an amendment to allow minority shareholders who disagree with the corporation converting to or from an unlimited liability corporation the right to dissent. If a shareholder exercises this right, they have the right to have their shares purchased from them at fair market value.

The second key amendment concerns the limitation period of former shareholders of unlimited liability corporations. The government proposes an amendment to cap the limitation period on shareholder liability for former shareholders of unlimited liability corporations. Under these proposals if the claim arises prior to the shareholders selling their shares, this liability would end two years after the shareholder ceased to be a shareholder. If the claim arises after the shareholder last ceased to be a shareholder, the shareholder would not be liable for any of the obligations of the corporation arising out of the claim. The current uncertainty regarding this limitation period for former shareholders is acting as a deterrent for individuals incorporating an unlimited liability corporation in Alberta.

Finally, the third amendment concerns the right to vote. Here the government proposes an amendment to clarify that registered shareholders have the right to vote at shareholders' meetings but that beneficial owners do not. The wording in the act currently implies that beneficial holders of shares also have the right to vote, and the government wishes to strike that.

Thank you.

The Acting Speaker: The hon. Member for Edmonton-Rutherford.

Mr. R. Miller: Thank you very much, Mr. Speaker. On behalf of my colleague from Edmonton-McClung I'm glad to rise on Bill 56, the Business Corporations Amendment Act, 2005 (No. 2). I will indicate right up front that we will be supporting this bill with a certain amount of caution as it relates to section 15.2 being amended.

A few minutes ago my colleague from Edmonton-Gold Bar spoke about openness and transparency, and despite the fact that we're now speaking to Bill 56, I am very concerned that the government is not exhibiting openness and transparency. In fact, this evening they've taken full advantage of Standing Order 61(3) to severely limit debate on the appropriation bill, which is really what we should be discussing tonight as opposed to the rather innocuous Bill 56 or some of the other minor bills that we've been looking at. For whatever reason the government doesn't seem at all interested in discussing the literally millions and millions and, in fact, almost $2 billion in supplementary supply that they've asked for, and as I've suggested, they've taken full advantage of a standing order to throttle debate on that tonight. I expect, Mr. Speaker, that they will do the same again tomorrow in the afternoon and probably again tomorrow in the evening to ensure that everything is wrapped up for Thursday afternoon, and I find that very frustrating.

It's not that I'm not wanting to speak to Bill 56; in fact, as I suggested, there are some things in Bill 56 that are quite good. I particularly like the idea where Alberta, as an example, is requiring 25 per cent of unlimited liability corporation directors to be resident of Canada. That trumps Nova Scotia, which doesn't have a Canadian residency requirement. But I would much, much rather have had an opportunity to discuss supplementary supply for Municipal Affairs, as an example: $138,235,000 which to this point has had zero debate, Mr. Speaker.

The Acting Speaker: Hon. member, we are dealing with Bill 56 and not supplementary supply, so please direct your remarks to Bill 56.

11:10

Mr. R. Miller: Thank you, Mr. Speaker. I will attempt to focus my remarks on Bill 56.

As I indicated earlier, we have discussed Bill 56 with a number of legal experts and a couple of stakeholder groups. They indicate to us that, primarily, this is a housekeeping bill. However, they do recommend caution, Mr. Speaker, as it pertains particularly to the changes that are being made to section 15.2. The goal of the amendment as it has been explained to us is to cap the time period for which a former shareholder can be liable for any liability, act, or default of the corporation. As I suggested, stakeholders agree that this was a necessary measure. However, given the complexity of the issue, clarification is being sought as to the potential implications of this two-year limitation.

Now, Mr. Speaker, as I said, the amendments appear to be primarily housekeeping ones. As a result of that, I'm willing to give my support to Bill 56 although it does appear that, as I said, section 15.2 creates some concern. The question, I suppose, that we have really is: will the two-year limitation free the former shareholders who took part in unethical activities perhaps to escape responsibility for their actions? Another question that I have in my mind is whether or not this change to section 15.2 would mean that shareholders of an unlimited liability corporation would then be held accountable for actions of former shareholders of that corporation.

I do also find it ironic – again, there seems to be a lot of irony in here tonight, Mr. Speaker. I find it ironic that this government, with its almost unlimited resources – and I'm not sure how many lawyers they have on staff. I'm sure my colleague from Edmonton-Gold Bar would be able to tell us how many lawyers they have on staff. I can tell you that the Official Opposition doesn't have the resources for any lawyers on staff, so we rely on the good graces of some volunteer legal experts to occasionally offer up their opinions. But with all of the resources and lawyers that the government has on staff, this bill managed to slip through the first time in the spring with three typographical errors, and I do find that rather ironic.

Now, I guess that in conclusion, Mr. Speaker, the point is, as I said before, that although it certainly would get qualified support, the primary concern is really whether or not this amendment would free a former majority shareholder, board member, or an executive from responsibility if he or she had in fact partaken in illegal activity while they were a shareholder. If so, would the remaining shareholders be held accountable for activities that they were unaware of? Who, if anybody, would actually bear responsibility for those actions of the former shareholder if, in fact, they were found to have been responsible for unethical or illegal activities?

With that, Mr. Speaker, I will take my seat. Thank you.

The Acting Speaker: The hon. Member for Edmonton-Gold Bar.

Mr. MacDonald: Thank you very much, Mr. Speaker. I rise this evening to participate in the debate on Bill 56, the Business Corporations Amendment Act, 2005 (No. 2). Certainly, as this evening has progressed, like with many other debates in this Assembly, one has to listen with interest to the discussions that occur in here. One only has to, when we're discussing Bill 56, remind ourselves of the advice from the hon. Member for Edmonton-Strathcona in previous debate in regard to the Apprenticeship and Industry Training Act, I believe. The hon. member was talking about the haste with which legislation seems to be drafted, and the hon. member went on to indicate that he has some problems sometimes with some of the legislation that's drafted. I certainly would have to agree whenever I look at this.

It was only this past spring that we had Bill 16, the Business Corporations Amendment Act, 2005 – and this I believe came into effect in June – allowing American residents carrying on business activities in Alberta to have a more practical and cost-effective mechanism to structure some of their tax planning. The amendments in Bill 16 allowed for the creation of unlimited liability corporations. Alberta and Nova Scotia are the two Canadian provinces that allow for unlimited liability corporations.

Now we have these sort of innocent amendments. I don't know why they couldn't have been incorporated in the initial legislation, but they certainly seem to be needed. As I understand it, without these amendments some shareholders who disagree with conversion into an unlimited liability corporation could be – and this is very important: it could be without their consent – personally liable for the debt or other obligations of the corporation.

We have to give confidence that businesses can have a level playing field in this province. I would have to question: would someone that is operating under this Business Corporations Amendment Act behave like this government did tonight? Again, I'm disappointed to have to say this, Mr. Speaker: a suppressed debate on the appropriation bill. Under the Business Corporations Act certainly good corporations are going to consult always with their shareholders. This is such a contrast to this government as they do not seem to have any interest in consulting with taxpayers. It's sort of ironic when you compare the obligations of the business community and the obligations as perceived by this government to the taxpayers.

For this legislation, Bill 56, Mr. Speaker, there have been consultations with members of the legal community. It appears as though we can say that, yes, Bill 56 is a housekeeping bill that aims at cleaning up some of the errors and inconsistencies that previously existed in the Business Corporations Act. Again I would urge caution. Caution is recommended due to the changes set out in part 2 of the proposed amendments. Part 2 amends section 15.2 of the Business Corporations Act. This amendment, as I understand it and as our research indicates, establishes a two-year limitation on former shareholder liabilities for unlimited liability corporations. The goal of this amendment is to cap the time period for which a former shareholder can be liable for any liability, act, or default of the corporation. Stakeholders agree that this was a necessary measure. Still, given the complexity of the issue, clarification should be sought as to the potential implications of this two-year limitation.

Mr. Speaker, it appears that the amendments in this bill are fairly minor, again with the exception of changes to section 15.2. Will this two-year limitation free former shareholders who took part in unethical activities to escape responsibility for their actions? How will that work? I would appreciate an answer to this.

11:20

I have another question regarding the amendments in this bill. If we are limiting the liability of former shareholders, who will be held responsible for their actions if they are, in fact, at fault?

Another concern, Mr. Speaker, is again the change to section 15.2. I'm wondering – and I would appreciate an answer in due time in the course of this debate – if this will mean that shareholders of an unlimited liability corporation will be held accountable for the actions of former shareholders?

Again, the amendments that are proposed in this bill appear to be primarily housekeeping issues. The stakeholders that the Official Opposition has consulted believe that these changes are necessary. Therefore, I am willing to certainly support Bill 56 at this time, but I would urge the government in the future to take a little bit more due diligence. Again, this was legislation that was housekeeping.

If we were to compare the miscellaneous statutes act, Mr. Speaker, to a broom, with this government it would be a 36-inch or a 42-inch wide broom that a janitor in a school would use to sweep the corridor, because there are a lot of things that can get caught up in that. It's not a narrow broom. I think that is unfortunate because this government has now become more reliant on the miscellaneous statutes amendments. I think that's really unfortunate, and it's reflective of a government that is tired and drifting. It is unfortunate. It is really, really unfortunate.

Now, there might be a breath of fresh air and new direction and new leadership there. Who's to say? Certainly, this is an indication that things are not working the way they should. I'm disappointed, again, in this government. Bill 56 is another attempt at correcting some unfortunate errors in the original drafting of this bill in the spring.

Certainly, to provide the business community with confidence in this Legislative Assembly and its ability to provide laws that are fair, I would support this bill at this time, Mr. Speaker. I cede the floor to any other hon. colleague who would like to participate in the debate.

Thank you.

The Acting Speaker: Standing Order 29(2)(a)?

Does anybody else wish to participate in the debate?

The hon. Member for Foothills-Rocky View to close debate on behalf of the Member for Calgary-Nose Hill.

Dr. Morton: I will relay the questions that the hon. member posed to the Member for Calgary-Nose Hill and move the question.

[Motion carried; Bill 56 read a second time]

head:

Private Bills
Committee of the Whole

[Mr. Shariff in the chair]

The Deputy Chair: Hon. members, I'll call the committee to order.

Bill Pr. 4
Brooklynn Hannah George Rewega
Right of Civil Action Act

The Deputy Chair: Are there any comments, questions, or amendments to be offered with respect to this bill? The hon. Member for Peace River.

Mr. Oberle: Thank you, Mr. Speaker. I'm pleased to open discussion on Bill Pr. 4 in Committee of the Whole, and in doing so, I wish to table an amendment as recommended by the Private Bills Committee and as agreed to by the Rewega family. The amendment is being circulated right now. I won't bother reading it out other than to say that by the addition of these clauses to Bill Pr. 4 the intent and the wording is to make it entirely consistent with Bill 45. As I said, this was recommended by the Private Bills Committee and agreed to by the Rewega family.

Thank you, Mr. Speaker.

The Deputy Chair: The hon. Member for Edmonton-Ellerslie.

Mr. Agnihotri: Thank you, Mr. Chairman. I'll be very brief on this. I want to ask the question to the sponsor: if she had the right before Dobson case, why do we need two bills, private and public bills? Let me finish a couple of other questions you can answer maybe.

The Deputy Chair: Hon. member, we have on the floor an amendment that we shall refer to as amendment A1. Are you wanting to speak on the amendment, hon. member?

Mr. Agnihotri: I haven't got that. I haven't seen it.

The Deputy Chair: The amendment has been circulated. Is it before you now? Hon. Member for Edmonton-Ellerslie, would you like to speak on the amendment?

Mr. Agnihotri: No.

The Deputy Chair: Okay. Would anybody like to speak on the amendment? Are you ready for the question?

[Motion on amendment A1 carried]

The Deputy Chair: Hon. Member for Edmonton-Ellerslie, would you like to speak on the bill?

Mr. Agnihotri: My question is from this amendment, section 2(1): "Any compensation for injuries and losses under section 1 shall be limited to the amount of insurance money." What's the maximum amount for the settlement?

Another question is: how can we make sure the lawyers won't use this case as precedent setting? Legislation should have clear and precise language so that lawyers won't be able to play their games in future lawsuits.

Once the settlement has been paid out, what prevents this person from accessing other programs to supplement their income: disability, pension, or AISH, or any other social program? Those are my questions, please.

Thank you.

Mr. Oberle: Mr. Speaker, I cannot speak to the amount of insurance carried by Mrs. Rewega, and that would be private information anyway. There is a minimum amount of liability insurance that we are required to carry by law. You're allowed to carry more than that. That's all I can say on the matter.

With regard to the bill being precedent setting and the need for concise language, this is exactly what the Supreme Court invited us to do and the language in essence is provided by the Supreme Court, and the Congenital Disabilities Act of the United Kingdom. Beyond that, Mr. Speaker, I don't know what else to comment to this hon. member.

The Deputy Chair: The hon. Member for Edmonton-Gold Bar.

11:30

Mr. MacDonald: Yes. Thank you, Mr. Chairman. Certainly at this time in regard to Bill Pr. 4 I have to for the record express my disappointment in the amendment, not necessarily about the contents but the process that was followed here. At this hour in the evening some of the pages have left the Assembly. I certainly wanted to have a look at section 635 of the Insurance Act before we could have discussion on this, but unfortunately I could not. I've been stopped before from going into the cupboards personally to get the statutes, and that's fair enough, but I would just like to express my regret that this is being so quickly . . .

Chair's Ruling

Access to Statutes in the Assembly

The Deputy Chair: Hon. member, every member of this Assembly has a right to access statutes that are sitting in the Assembly. We are at the committee stage. The chair will have no problems in you leaving your seat and picking up the statutes. It might take a little while, but we may be able to get to you. But you can easily walk over there, and I'll allow you the few minutes to go and get that.

Mr. MacDonald: Mr. Chairman, I appreciate that because it has been the past practice of this Assembly that that has not been the case. I appreciate that. Thank you.

Debate Continued

The Deputy Chair: Are you finished?

Mr. MacDonald: The amendment has already been passed, so it's water under the bridge.

The Deputy Chair: The hon. Member for Peace River.

Mr. Oberle: Mr. Chair, I would just like to point out to my hon. colleague that this is the same wording that was in Bill 45 that's been before us for quite some time, and this wording was recommended by the Private Bills Committee last week. So this is not new and not a surprise amendment here.

Thank you.

[The clauses of Bill Pr. 4 as amended agreed to]

[Title and preamble agreed to]

The Deputy Chair: Shall the bill be reported? Are you agreed?

Hon. Members: Agreed.

The Deputy Chair: Opposed? Carried.

The hon. Deputy Government House Leader.

Mr. Zwozdesky: Thank you, Mr. Chair. I would move that we now rise and report.

[Motion carried]

[Mr. Shariff in the chair]

The Acting Speaker: The hon. Member for Wetaskiwin-Camrose.

Mr. Johnson: Mr. Speaker, the Committee of the Whole has had under consideration certain bills. The committee reports the following bill with some amendments: Bill Pr. 4. I wish to table copies of all amendments considered by the Committee of the Whole on this date for the official records of the Assembly.

The Acting Speaker: Does the Assembly concur in the report?

Hon. Members: Concur.

The Acting Speaker: Opposed? So ordered.

The hon. Deputy Government House Leader.

Mr. Zwozdesky: Thank you very much, Mr. Speaker. It has been a really nice evening of debate tonight, and I just want to thank all members here for their co-operation. On that note, I would move that we stand adjourned until 1:30 p.m. tomorrow.

[Motion carried; at 11:34 p.m. the Assembly adjourned to Tuesday at 1:30 p.m.]

Legislative Assembly of Alberta

Title: Tuesday, November 29, 2005

1:30 p.m.

Date: 05/11/29

[The Speaker in the chair]

head: Prayers

The Speaker: Good afternoon.

Let us pray. We confidently ask for strength and encouragement in our service to others. We ask for wisdom to guide us in making good laws and good decisions for the present and the future of Alberta. Amen.

Please be seated.

head: Introduction of Visitors

The Speaker: Hon. members, it's my pleasure today to introduce three distinguished officers of the Canadian army, who are seated in the Speaker's gallery.

Canada's military contribution to Afghanistan is called Operation Archer, and in early February 2006 the Canadian army will be deploying nearly 2,000 personnel to Kandahar in southern Afghanistan. Our forces there will be part of a multinational brigade composed of British, Australian, Dutch, Romanian, Danish, and Estonian contingents. The officer who has been specially chosen to command this formation is Brigadier-General Dave Fraser of St. Albert.

General Fraser has spent much of his home service in Alberta. Abroad he commanded the second battalion, Princess Patricia's Canadian Light Infantry in Bosnia in 1996. A year prior on attachment to the French army in Sarajevo he was awarded Canada's meritorious service medal for his actions during the Bosnian civil war.

Colonel Tom Putt is a reservist and former commanding officer of the South Alberta Light Horse, the province's senior reserve regiment. He has seen service in Germany and with the United Nations Emergency Force. Colonel Putt has been selected deputy commander, National Command Element, Task Force Afghanistan. While Colonel Putt will be stationed in Kandahar, his responsibilities will take him to Kabul and elsewhere in the theatre.

South Alberta Light Horse Honorary Colonel Stan Milner is an outstanding Alberta business leader and philanthropist. A former chairman of the University of Alberta, he is an officer of the Order of Canada, a member of the Alberta Order of Excellence, and an honorary doctor of laws. His regiment will contribute 20 reservists to the Kandahar mission.

All three of our visitors were recently awarded the Alberta centennial medal.

Hon. members, the risks of serving sovereign and country on this mission are well known. We wish the two visitors, who will be deploying early in the new year, and those who they have the privilege to lead well in all that lies ahead. We pray for their safe return.

The majority of personnel for Operation Archer will come from Land Force Western Area, which is Canada's army in western Canada. The majority of the Canadian contingent will be formed from regular and reserve units from Edmonton, Calgary, Medicine Hat, Lethbridge, Red Deer, Morinville, and other cities and towns across Alberta.

I would ask these three great Albertans – General Fraser, Colonel Putt, and Colonel Milner – to remain standing as they receive the traditional welcome of this House. [applause]

head: Introduction of Guests

The Speaker: The hon. Minister of Advanced Education.

Mr. Hancock: Thank you, Mr. Speaker. It's my pleasure today to introduce to you and through you to members of the Assembly 24 enthusiastic grade 6 students along with their teacher, Ms Margo Cahn, and two student teachers, Jill Williams and Shivon Lavallee, from Earl Buxton elementary school in my constituency of Edmonton-Whitemud. They are here today to observe and learn with keen interest about government. They're seated in the members' gallery. I'd ask them to rise and receive the traditional warm welcome of the Assembly.

The Speaker: The hon. Minister of Agriculture, Food and Rural Development.

Mr. Horner: Thank you, Mr. Speaker. It is indeed a pleasure for me to introduce to you and through you to members of the Assembly a very accomplished young woman, Ms Kristen Hedley. Kristen is joined by her parents, Robert and Leona, her sister Kelsey, her brother Kennan as well as one representative from my department's 4-H branch, Mark Muchka. Kristen is the 2005 4-H Premier's award recipient, the highest honour the Alberta 4-H program bestows on a member. The award recognizes young Albertans who demonstrate strong management, leadership, and communication skills as well as a strong dedication to their community.

Nineteen-year-old Kristen is from Consort, Alberta, and has been active in 4-H for more than 11 years. She is an accomplished public speaker, a dancer, has held several executive positions in the Consort Creative Hands 4-H Club, and has represented Alberta 4-H at national and international events. Currently she is a second-year educational psych student at the University of Alberta. I would also note that Kristen's grandfather was the late Hon. Gordon Towers, who was Alberta's Lieutenant Governor from 1991 to 1996. I'm sure he would be very proud of his granddaughter's accomplishments.

Congratulations, Kristen, and it is my personal pleasure to invite you and your family to rise and receive the traditional warm welcome of this House.

The Speaker: The hon. Member for Edmonton-Castle Downs.

Mr. Lukaszuk: Thank you, Mr. Speaker. Sitting above me today in the public gallery, I'd like to introduce to you and through you to the members of this Assembly a group of 60 students from the Lorelei elementary school in north Edmonton. I had the pleasure of visiting that school just a few days ago, and I must tell you that it's seldom that you see students so well informed not only about what's going on in our Legislative Assembly but also in city hall and in the federal government, which definitely is a tribute to the students but also to the teachers who have prepared them so well. They are accompanied today by their teachers, Mr. George, Mr. Gibson, Ms McCurry, Ms Mockford, and Miss DeGroot, and also two parents, Mr. Poon and Mrs. Webb. I'd like them to rise and receive the traditional warm welcome of our Assembly.

Thank you.

The Speaker: The hon. Member for Calgary-Hays.

Mr. Johnston: Thank you, Mr. Speaker. As a veteran myself it's an honour in this Year of the Veteran to introduce to you and through you to members of this Assembly 10 men who served our country and its armed forces with distinction in both war and peace. With us are seven veterans who served in the Second World War. They are George Custance and Bob Storrer of the army. Bob also served in Korea with the decorated Princess Patricia's Canadian Light Infantry. Serving at home and in Europe during World War II were Canadian army veterans Bill Calder in England and the continent, Tom Hayden in Italy and Holland, and Al Sunley of the Royal Canadian Air Force on duty in Great Britain. In the north Atlantic were Stan Myers and Walter Sobkow with the Royal Canadian Navy. Mr. Sobkow also served in the English Channel, in the Pacific, and with the Fleet Air Arm. With them are three veterans of NATO service and service with the United Nations: Ben Murdock, a former soldier in the Canadian army; Don Pagee of the Royal Canadian Air Force; and Willy Willett, RCAF, who also served in the Sinai desert. I would ask these gentlemen to please rise and receive the gratitude and appreciation of this Assembly.

1:40

The Speaker: The hon. Leader of the Official Opposition.

Dr. Taft: Thank you, Mr. Speaker. It's my pleasure to introduce to you and through you to all members of the Assembly visitors who are deeply concerned about the Capital health authority's plans to replace the current outpatient residence at the U of A hospital with a high-cost privately run hotel. They believe the outpatient residence provides a valuable service to over 5,000 Albertans every year, and they don't want to see Albertans who are already facing serious illness struggle to find affordable accommodation while receiving care.

Mr. Speaker, I'd like to first introduce Tonya Malo, head of the local AUPE chapter, who is seated in the public gallery, and also Carol Carbol, a licensed nurse on the surgical unit at the U of A hospital. Carol has seen many of her patients and their families benefit from the outpatient residence. They both helped organize an information picket today, which I attended.

I'd also like to introduce Patty Moar. She's a current resident at the outpatient residence and has greatly appreciated the opportunity to stay there.

There are several other guests I'll introduce, and I'll ask them to rise as I mention their names. They are Alecia Hinton, Phyllis Patrie, Jim Shelley, Margaret Heil, Terry Nicholson-Knudson, Nancy Rakowski, Cathie Heard, Jeanne Payne, and Joel Byron.

Mr. Speaker, please join me in giving all of these guests the warm welcome of the Assembly. Thank you.

The Speaker: The hon. Member for Cardston-Taber-Warner.

Mr. Hinman: Thank you, Mr. Speaker. I'm honoured today to introduce to you and through you to the members of this Assembly my guests, who are seated in the public gallery and who have a keen interest in the actions of this government. My distinguished guests represent the Alberta Social Credit Party executive and membership, and they are here to see their petition regarding the need for reasonably priced energy for Albertans be presented to this Assembly. I know that they have done a lot of work to collect the thousands of signatures from concerned Albertans. I would ask that my guests Gordon Barrett, Ken Shipka, and Karen Richert please rise to receive the traditional warm welcome of this Assembly.

head:

Oral Question Period

The Speaker: First Official Opposition main question. The hon. Leader of the Official Opposition.

Capital Health Outpatient Residence

Dr. Taft: Thank you, Mr. Speaker. For 20 years the outpatient residence at the U of A hospital has been providing affordable accommodation for families dealing with illness. Now this affordable, publicly run facility is being replaced by a higher cost private hotel. The facility is outdated, and it does need to be replaced, but this costly change will be a major blow to rural Albertans in particular, many of whom have to travel from outside the region for prolonged treatment for transplants, cancer, kidney problems, and heart disease. My first question is to the Minister of Agriculture, Food and Rural Development. How does this minister justify this blow to rural Albertans who have to travel to Edmonton from all over rural Alberta to receive medical care given that a quarter of Capital health's patients are from out of the region?

Mr. Horner: Well, Mr. Speaker, obviously the question is more likely directed to the minister of health, but as it relates to rural development, in the rural development strategy which we're coming forward with there is a need and a desire to move patients from the city centres to the outlying or regional areas of health care so that we can utilize those facilities outside of those major centres and actually have an expertise built in rural Alberta as well as in the city. It's also important – and the hon. member brings up a good point – to have facilities available for parents and for families as they come in. This government is not ignoring that fact. There will be facilities available for those folks.

The Speaker: The hon. leader.

Dr. Taft: Thank you, Mr. Speaker. To the Minister of Health and Wellness: does the minister recognize that the increase from $25 a night to $100 a night is unaffordable – simply unaffordable – for many patients who need to stay for weeks at a time, patients who may often not even qualify for credit cards?

Ms Evans: Mr. Speaker, I'm delighted to answer this question. Subsidized arrangements will be available for low-income people who need that additional support. This last summer 1,800 outpatient folks that had come in that were surveyed were asked if they would like to have some kind of accommodation, and most wanted to have living facilities, parking, and some longer term capacity. Eighty-eight per cent agreed with this new plan. Eighty-eight per cent said that a modestly priced room for a hundred dollars a night was not too much to be expected to pay if, in fact, they were able to maintain a residence.

Mr. Speaker, the Premier would like to supplement.

Mr. Klein: Mr. Speaker, there's no doubt about it that Capital health plans to replace its outdated outpatient residence facility with an updated private facility. I need to stress that Capital health is the only health region in North America – and I hear the chitter-chatter over there about two-tier – that has subsidized accommodations for families. The only health region in North America with subsidized accommodations for families.

I'm told that the region surveyed people who use the facilities, not the NDs and not the Liberals but people who use the facilities, and they found that 88 per cent said that they were in favour of a new facility that could accommodate them in a reasonable fashion. Also, as the hon. minister pointed out, there will be subsidies for low-income families that cannot afford the facility.

The Speaker: The hon. leader.

Dr. Taft: Thank you, Mr. Speaker. To the Premier: why are the taxpayers of Alberta putting millions of dollars into building this facility only to turn it over to Ritz-Carlton or Marriott or some other corporation? Why are we in the hotel business?

Mr. Klein: Mr. Speaker, as I understand it, Capital health is not building this facility out of public funds. The taxpayers are not on the hook for anything. The only thing that taxpayers will be on the hook for is the subsidization of a private facility. I would remind the hon. Leader of the Official Opposition that this region is the only region in North America that offers subsidized accommodations. The only.

The Speaker: Second Official Opposition main question. The hon. Leader of the Official Opposition.

Securities Commission

Dr. Taft: Thank you, Mr. Speaker. The Alberta Securities Commission is vital to the integrity of our capital markets. However, as the days and weeks and months pass and the spotlight grows brighter on the ASC, information continues to flow forward indicating that our Securities Commission under this government is in disarray. Most of these challenges and controversies could be dealt with by the Minister of Finance, but she is failing to take a leadership role and get to the bottom of this issue. To the Minister of Finance: given that the Ontario Securities Commission enforces strict conflict-of-interest guidelines for its chairman the moment the person takes office, can the minister explain why the new chair of the Securities Commission sat as a director of not one but two publicly traded companies while sitting as the chair of the Securities Commission?

Mrs. McClellan: Mr. Speaker, it was clear right from the outset, when the chairman took over, that this would be permitted in a transitional time frame to allow him to take on his responsibilities and to wind down his participation in this company. It was under very strict guidelines that the chairman would not deal with anything that would involve that company, and it was completely reviewed. No pretense at trying to avoid it; it was well known at the time.

Mr. Speaker, I question why the constant discrediting of the Alberta Securities Commission continues.

1:50

The Speaker: The hon. leader.

Dr. Taft: Thank you, Mr. Speaker. To the same minister: given that ASC interim chair, Mr. Peter Valentine, sat on the boards of several publicly traded companies while serving as interim chair of the Securities Commission, what was the minister's due diligence process in handling his appointment and conflicts of interest?

Mrs. McClellan: Mr. Speaker, the Alberta Securities Commission has very clear conflict-of-interest guidelines. That has never been in question.

Again, with the interim chair all of his activities and involvements were reviewed. Any concerns around those are put to rest by the conflict-of-interest guidelines, which clearly state that they cannot involve themselves in any matters pertaining to those companies.

The Speaker: The hon. leader.

Dr. Taft: Thank you, Mr. Speaker. To the same minister: will the Minister of Finance before her appearance at the Public Accounts Committee tomorrow take the time to ask her cabinet and caucus colleagues if they have ever interfered with enforcement cases at the Securities Commission?

Mrs. McClellan: Mr. Speaker, I invite the hon. Leader of the Opposition, before I appear at the Public Accounts Committee tomorrow, to come forth with some substantiation of any evidence that any member of this Legislature or my staff interfered with files at the Alberta Securities Commission. Day after day we have had allegations. We have no substantiation, and it continues.

Mr. Klein: Mr. Speaker, in order to save time at Public Accounts, I will ask any member of this caucus: please stand if you have in any way interfered with the Alberta Securities Commission. Please stand. Please stand. Well, there's no need to ask the question.

The Speaker: Third Official Opposition main question. The hon. Member for Calgary-Mountain View.

Turner Valley Gas Plant Historic Site

Dr. Swann: Thank you, Mr. Speaker. This government is negligent in relation to reclamation of contaminated sites. Repeatedly this government refuses to prosecute and to hold industry accountable for spills, to require timely cleanup of abandoned sites, and to be open with the public in affected communities. Just ask the residents of Turner Valley, Black Diamond, and Okotoks, whose river is affected by the old refinery site, now a public liability since becoming an historic site under the Department of Community Development. My first question to the Minister of Community Development: why after 18 years has the Turner Valley site not been properly cleaned up?

Mr. Mar: Well, not only is the contamination of grave concern to us; it is something that we are acting upon. Some of the contaminants that are referred to by the hon. member are in fact naturally occurring ones. Some of it does come from the former site that was there. But I want to assure you, Mr. Speaker, and people in the Assembly and Albertans that the health and safety of people in Turner Valley is our priority. Results of drinking-water testing show that the water is safe. We are moving forward on infrastructure that will put a containment wall around this area. This has been in consultation with the people who live in the area.

Mr. Speaker, we met with Infrastructure and Environment and the people who live in the Turner Valley area as recently as about a month ago, and I think that, by and large, the people in the community are quite satisfied that we're taking the right steps forward on an infrastructure basis. We have money for this in our budget to place the containment wall to help mitigate the damage to the river.

The Speaker: The hon. member.

Dr. Swann: Thank you, Mr. Speaker. To the Minister of Environment: with more mercury and hydrocarbons released from the summer flooding at this site and recently significant radiation found on-site, how can you reassure the public that you are protecting the environment?

Mr. Boutilier: Well, Mr. Speaker, we have been working very closely, as the Minister of Community Development has suggested, with the residents. Furthermore, we are constantly doing water testing, ensuring that, first and foremost, the drinking water for the citizens is safe.

The hon. member does mention the issue of radioactivity. We actually just in the last 10 days have met with the residents again at a public meeting, and in actual fact we are doing more testing on the point by a professor who has done some radioactive testing. Everything that I have been informed of with my staff – we will ensure that the water is safe, that all Albertans enjoy safe drinking water. As the Minister of Community Development has mentioned, we will and are taking the correct steps of ensuring that this contaminated site is restored to something well before any laws were in place in Alberta, going back many, many years.

Dr. Swann: It's 18 years, actually, that we've been waiting.

Again to the Minister of Environment: how many more contaminated sites are there across the province, and how much will the public have to pay to get these cleaned up?

Mr. Boutilier: Mr. Speaker, this government initiated a plan, and in fact it falls under the Ministry of Municipal Affairs. I want to say that it identified contaminated sites across all of Alberta. It was really interesting. The plan was made up of $60 million. There is no other plan like this in the country in terms of dealing with contaminated sites.

The question was asked: how many more sites? It's my hope for the benefit of future generations that the good work that we are doing within the environment, holding people to account for the contaminated sites, that the money we are investing is restoring the land to its proper order, and ensuring that Albertans who value the environment deeply will continue to appreciate this valuable resource we've been blessed with. Contaminated sites: zero is my ultimate goal as Minister of Environment in this province.

The Speaker: The hon. leader of the third party.

Long-term Care Standards

Mr. Mason: Thank you very much, Mr. Speaker. The fatality inquiry into Jennie Nelson's death is a harsh reminder of why we need better standards for seniors' care in Alberta, including staffing ratios, standards for training, and rigorous inspections. The Premier promised in this House to implement every single recommendation of the Auditor General's report on long-term care, but instead the government is deregulating care, allowing long-term care facilities to be redesignated as assisted living, where there are no standards whatsoever. It's a cruel game of bait and switch. My question is to the Premier. Given that the Nelson fatality inquiry is revealing the extent to which seniors' care must be regulated and standards set, why is the government allowing deregulation of seniors' care by redesignating hundreds of long-term care beds as assisted living?

Mr. Klein: Mr. Speaker, the assertion is not true, and I'll have the hon. Minister of Health and Wellness supplement.

Ms Evans: Mr. Speaker, first of all, because of the medical examiner's inquest I will not discuss any circumstance surrounding the very unfortunate death of the resident that's been referenced.

In fact, there are standards in our long-term care facilities. In assisted-living facilities, where they are yet unregulated, regional health authorities undertake a contractual arrangement identifying standards of care that must be in place so that if people have been reduced from the requirements of a long-term care facility and are placed more appropriately in a facility that is tailoring care to their particular needs, a contractual relationship enforces the standard that must be met in the care of those patients and the people that are resident there.

Mr. Mason: Mr. Speaker, given that the minister has admitted that there is no regulation in assisted living, and given that there are hundreds of beds being converted right now to assisted living, why, when the Premier promised Alberta seniors higher standards of care, is he delivering them no standards at all?

Ms Evans: Mr. Speaker, it's not by regulation and government-wide regulation that designated assisted-living residences have standards. It's by contractual relationship. I've just identified that there are standards in place. There must be standards in place or the government wouldn't provide funding for people in those residences. If people choose a private residence where there are not standards in place, that is not something that the government is involved with.

2:00

But there are standards in place, and through our review – and it's been an intensive review, following the review by the Auditor General – we are looking at a set of standards that would be a framework for Alberta for all of those people that enter care, whether they're coming in at the home-care entry point or whether they're in long-term care, and looking at how we collaborate with a set of standards with regions and all kinds of private or private/public deliveries that we have out there currently, today, and are expanding upon.

The Speaker: The hon. leader.

Mr. Mason: Thank you very much, Mr. Speaker. Well, given that the Minister of Health and Wellness is trying to indicate to us that we have standards, can she tell the House if those standards are exactly the same as the standards that the government committed to in the Auditor General's report, and will she provide the House with a side-by-side comparison of the standards that she claims are available to people in extended care through contractual means?

Ms Evans: Mr. Speaker, once we have committed to the Auditor General to undertake to provide standards and have accepted his recommendations, we will fulfill that to the letter of the law. To the particular standards in the various facilities with the regional health authorities, one of the commitments made in the review that was undertaken by the MLA task force is that we would assure that these standards had a common theme throughout Alberta, and we will continue and work in that regard.

Mr. Speaker, I stress: for anybody in a government-funded care centre for either designated assisted living, nursing home, long-term care, or any other of the continuums, including lodge care, if there's care being provided and it's publicly funded, there are standards for that care.

The Speaker: The hon. Member for Red Deer-North, followed by the hon. Member for Edmonton-Decore.

Highway 2A

Mrs. Jablonski: Thank you. Mr. Speaker, there is a need for our highways and secondary roads to keep pace with the huge growth in population and economic development, especially in the fastest growing economic corridor in Canada. I have constituents who have expressed serious concerns about traffic safety issues on highway 2A, particularly from north of the Red Deer city limit to the town of Blackfalds. The area of particular concern is the part that provides access to Blindman industrial park. Due to increased traffic volumes on this stretch of highway and poor lighting at the intersection it has become very difficult to turn onto this highway. During rush hours and in bad weather this stretch of road is very dangerous. There have been a number of serious accidents on this road. My questions are for the Minister of Infrastructure and Transportation. Are there any improvements scheduled for this area, such as better turning lanes, widening of the highway, or lighting?

The Speaker: The hon. minister.

Dr. Oberg: Thank you very much, Mr. Speaker. This section of the highway certainly has seen increased traffic counts. It's seen increased traffic. There presently is many times a seven- to 10-minute wait to cross the intersection in this particular area. It is scheduled for twinning. We have done the functional plan on it, and we are looking at twinning it as soon as the dollars bear out. I'm hoping that that will be sooner as opposed to later.

The Speaker: The hon. member. One question only.

Mrs. Jablonski: To the same minister: will you consider installing traffic lights at the busiest intersection to allow people to safely turn onto highway 2A?

Dr. Oberg: Yes, Mr. Speaker, we certainly will install the traffic lights. I think they're needed there. One of the issues that we have is that if we get into construction of twinning, then basically we will have put the traffic lights on there for nothing. So what we're looking at doing, quite simply, is that when the twinning is going to occur, if the twinning is not going to occur immediately, within the next year, we will indeed put the lights up to ensure that the intersection is considerably safer than it is at the moment.

The Speaker: The hon. member.

Mrs. Jablonski: Thank you. To the same minister: in order to make this section of highway safer, is there any consideration to reduce the current speed limit from the current 80 kilometres per hour since this extends to 90 K or more?

Dr. Oberg: Mr. Speaker, I certainly would hope that when the speed limit is 80 kilometres, people would go 80 kilometres per hour, specifically in the areas where there is a lot of congestion, such as this one. I don't believe that there's any point to decreasing it because, quite simply, those people that are going faster are going to go faster regardless. I certainly would ask, though, that the people of Red Deer and Blackfalds, when they see the 80 kilometres per hour, stay at the 80 kilometres per hour because it is quite a dangerous situation in this particular area.

The Speaker: The hon. Member for Edmonton-Decore, followed by the hon. Member for Grande Prairie-Smoky.

Wildlife Conservation

Mr. Bonko: Thank you, Mr. Speaker. This government continues to stand by while all the controlled oil and gas, recreational use, and resorts squeeze Alberta's wildlife to the brink. The reality is that this government sees dollar signs and growth potential while failing its international obligations to protect endangered species. This government stands by and watches extinction in the 21st century. My question to the Minister of Sustainable Resource Development: when will this minister commit to a moratorium on hunting, establish recovery teams, and create grizzly bear conservation areas, giving the bears a faint hope clause?

Mr. Coutts: Mr. Speaker, Sustainable Resource Development works very, very closely with the endangered species committee, that is chaired by the hon. Member for West Yellowhead. They have made recommendations to our department regarding recovery plans for caribou, for endangered species like grizzly bear. We have put recovery plans in place, even prior to receiving all of their recommendations, because we are being proactive in managing and making sure that all species are part of the biodiversity of this province regardless of the industrial activity that is being placed on the land.

The Speaker: The hon. member.

Mr. Bonko: Thank you, Mr. Speaker. Given that the minister has a caribou recovery plan, when will the minister defer development in critical areas and preserve the caribou?

Mr. Coutts: Well, Mr. Speaker, we do have a caribou recovery plan put in place, and the caribou recovery plan is done in co-operation with industry as well as with our own biologists as we manage the threat that may happen where habitat is involved. We take a look at opportunities to maintain that caribou on the land and on our landscape, and we do that by providing, definitely, habitat that will keep the caribou and the caribou numbers across this province on the landscape.

The Speaker: The hon. member.

Mr. Bonko: Thank you, Mr. Speaker. Will this minister table the latest DNA population results and give Albertans a clear sense of the bear numbers?

Mr. Coutts: In terms of the request for grizzly bear information and DNA, we haven't fully got that information available at this point in time. Our Foothills model forest bear recovery office is working on this, and, Mr. Speaker, you can rest assured that when the details of the DNA are available to me, I will make sure that the hon. member and this House and all Albertans receive that type of information.

The Speaker: The hon. Member for Grande Prairie-Smoky, followed by the hon. Member for Edmonton-Gold Bar.

Minable Oil Sands Strategy

Mr. Knight: Thank you, Mr. Speaker. The recent release of a discussion paper termed Mineable Oil Sands Strategy, or MOSS, has caused concern among many northern constituents. To the Minister of Environment. The six key policy components in MOSS are progressive, supportive strategies with the exception of point 2: "Within the coordinated development zone, oil sands mining will have the highest priority." Will the minister assure this House and all Albertans that that strategy will not preclude protection of the environment?

The Speaker: The hon. minister.

Mr. Boutillier: Thank you, Mr. Speaker. I think that probably in all my years sitting in this Legislature, that is perhaps the finest question I have ever heard, and the reason I say that is because it's about protecting the mother ship. I indicate to my colleagues all the time, as the Premier did, that the mother ship is protecting what Albertans expect us to protect, and that is the environment.

Mr. Speaker, it is grossly misunderstood . . . [interjections] If you could listen just for a moment. It is grossly misunderstood about this principle. It's not a be-all and end-all in terms of compromising the environment for the sake of mining. Unequivocally not. My family lives there, and I do breathe the air, believe it or not, and we do emit CO₂ when we exhale. We actually drink the water; we do work the land.

Let me assure all Albertans that without any question we are going to do this right. We're going to do it in protecting the principles of environmental protection and sustainability, and at the end of the day we will never compromise the environment for mining. Unequivocally not. That is my backyard, and that is my commitment to every member of this Assembly and every Albertan.

2:10

Mr. Knight: Well, Mr. Speaker, that may be the best answer I've ever heard.

To the Minister of Energy: why is a MOSS policy discussion necessary at this time?

The Speaker: The hon. minister.

Mr. Melchin: Thank you, Mr. Speaker. I think everybody is aware around the world that this world-class resource has attracted, clearly, the attention and the investment of companies from around the world. It's in that light, especially how fast things have come about with technology and our ways to improve the development, that we wanted to take a co-ordinated approach to managing the development of these resources rather than just a project-specific, one-off at a time, that we do look at it as a co-ordinated approach. Even as my colleague the Minister of Environment just mentioned, these principles are to be in conjunction. The industry is supportive and certainly the Department of Energy is supportive that as we develop, there ought to be a coexistence of the development of these resources and those environmental principles.

The Speaker: The hon. member.

Mr. Knight: Thank you, Mr. Speaker. To the Minister of Sustainable Resource Development: what is your department doing to ensure that the existing resource management plan will be strengthened by the minable oil sands strategy?

Mr. Coutts: Mr. Speaker, the existing plan for the area was developed after public consultation in 1996, and it was further amended in the year 2002. The plan already recognizes the importance of the oil sands in the area. We use an integrated resource management and planning approach to managing these public lands and the resources. Those plans are developed after making sure that other affected government departments are involved in the planning process plus a public consultation as well. The proposed minable oil sands strategy is requiring an update because we would like to move from a site-specific or a project-by-project management basis to a larger landscape planning, and we're using public consultation to do that.

The Speaker: The hon. Member for Edmonton-Gold Bar, followed by the hon. Member for West Yellowhead.

Enron Activities in Alberta

Mr. MacDonald: Thank you, Mr. Speaker. The Minister of Energy's statements yesterday in this House indicated that the secret Enron deal was executed in the best interests of Albertans. However, the government allowed Enron to violate the very conditions placed by them on the secret deal. In a letter dated August 14, 2001, the government gave their support for the deal so long as Enron did not sell its electricity generation capacity to a company that already owned generation capacity in Alberta. My first question is to the Premier. Given that the government stated in that letter, "We look forward to working with Enron on the continued development of a competitive electric industry in Alberta," why did this government allow Enron to violate the very conditions set forward by this government?

Mr. Klein: I don't know that to be true.

Mr. MacDonald: It certainly is.

Mr. Klein: Oh, well, Mr. Speaker, there are so many things going on in this government. This is a question I'd have to take under advisement.

The Speaker: The hon. Member for Edmonton-Gold Bar, and you can't answer your own question.

Mr. MacDonald: It's the only way to get an answer here, Mr. Speaker.

To the Minister of Energy then: can the minister please explain how a deal that included specific terms dictated by Enron's legal department to serve its own tax purposes is an example of this government acting independently on behalf of Albertans?

Mr. Melchin: Mr. Speaker, we'd have to get the specific dates in mind. He's going back to 2001. But first off, it was in August of that same year, of 2000 actually, that the PPAs were sold, of which some of those were purchased, and later Enron came asking about the resale of that. Through that policy it was determined, actually, that it was in the interest, as mentioned yesterday, that that specific PPA that Enron purchased, the power purchase arrangement, be split into two. So it was under that policy that we agreed as a department that it would be in Albertans' best interest that it be sold and split into two.

Mr. MacDonald: Again to the same minister: given that this government secretly facilitated Enron's demands to transfer this electricity generation capacity without any public knowledge, how can the minister now claim that this deal was executed in the public's interest?

Mr. Melchin: Mr. Speaker, these were contracts between individual companies. They clearly have the ability to sell those. They would have to have that and retain that permission through a regulator. So from that perspective a lot of those documents are not in the secret domain. They are in the sense that when you come forward, there's a lot of correspondence between the department, between regulators, between companies all the time. That's in the normal course of doing business. Some of that would be confidential, specific to their company. It's under that light when the regulators oversee and approve that. Nothing is secret at all. That's the due process that all departments are required to fulfill.

The Speaker: The hon. Member for West Yellowhead, followed by the hon. Member for Calgary-Currie.

Caribou Conservation

Mr. Strang: Thank you very much, Mr. Speaker. Much of Alberta's economic success is based on development of our natural resources, including forestry, oil, and gas. However, this development may have a negative effect on wildlife such as woodland caribou, a threatened species in Alberta. My question is to the Minister of Sustainable Resource Development. What is his department doing to ensure that the caribou population is being adequately protected?

Mr. Coutts: Mr. Speaker, I want to be very specific here and relate to you and to people that last June Alberta announced several actions based on a caribou recovery plan, which means greater protection for caribou and their habitat. We are committed to provincial land management that takes into account the importance of habitat for caribou remaining on the land. A caribou committee has been established to co-ordinate the management activities. As well, we look at selective predator management to protect caribou and their populations. We're in the process of hiring four biologists from Grande Prairie right through to Peace River, Fort McMurray, and the Slave Lake-High Prairie area to make sure that they can assist in those management activities as well.

The Speaker: The hon. member.

Mr. Strang: Thank you, Mr. Speaker. My first supplementary question is to the same minister. How does his department ensure that the industry follows government guidelines to mitigate effects on species such as caribou?

Mr. Coutts: Mr. Speaker, to be specific we work very, very closely with industry to make sure that we balance the development with the environmental protection. Industry must submit a caribou protection plan each and every year, which we will enforce under our legislation. Over the past 10 years industry has been addressing the width size of seismic lines and co-operating with other companies in terms of the numbers of roads and where the roads would go in certain areas so we don't lose the habitat for the caribou. It's also important to know that forestry companies adjust their harvesting sequences to make sure that habitat is well looked after. It's part of their management plans. The department, in addition to that, has worked with Suncor and ConocoPhillips to make sure that their planning for their pipelines takes into consideration habitat, particularly for the Little Smoky caribou area.

The Speaker: The hon. member.

Mr. Strang: Thank you, Mr. Speaker. My second supplementary question is to the same minister. Because caribou require good quality habitat to survive, why doesn't Alberta simply put an end to industrial activity in sensitive areas until studies can be conducted to ensure that sufficient caribou habitat is being protected?

Mr. Coutts: Mr. Speaker, in Alberta we continue to be innovative with the planning processes that we use, and we believe that caribou recovery can be achieved without a moratorium on caribou habitat. We are intensifying our areas to work in the forests with our oil and gas as well as forestry industries. We're promoting industry best practices more widely so that companies can operate on all caribou ranges. Some companies are actually going beyond that practice. In fact, if you look over the past 10 years, between the government and the companies they invest over half a million dollars a year into caribou management and monitoring just to keep caribou on the landscape.

The Speaker: The hon. Member for Calgary-Currie, followed by the hon. Member for Edmonton-Strathcona.

2:20 Accessibility of Medical Education

Mr. Taylor: Thank you, Mr. Speaker. Too many Albertans do not have a regular family doctor, yet this government's policies are aggravating rather than solving the problem. Since 1993-94 tuition at the University of Calgary medical school, for example, has increased from just over $3,600 to over $15,000. Access is inequitable, and new doctors say that they're moving away from family medicine just to pay their student debts. To the Minister of Advanced Education: given all the evidence, will the minister admit that his government's user-pay ideology for education is in fact making all Albertans pay?

The Speaker: The hon. minister.

Mr. Hancock: Thank you, Mr. Speaker. The short answer to that is no. Neither would I admit it, nor is it true. The fact of the matter is that there is a lineup of people that want to get into medical school, and we need to find ways to provide more space for Albertans to get into medical school here and abroad. We've worked with the rural physician action plan to make sure that rural students have an opportunity to get medical training. We've worked with all institutions across the province to make sure that spaces are available for the training of other health care professionals. It's not the tuition for medical school that's the problem. It's the fact that we need to gear up to find more space to overcome a decision that was made about 15 or 20 years ago right across this country to cut back on medical training.

Mr. Taylor: Well, I didn't hear anything in there, Mr. Speaker, about family docs.

To the same minister: given that a new national study demonstrates that as medical tuition soared, access for students from low- and moderate-income backgrounds fell, will the minister reverse course and make medical education affordable to all Albertans?

Mr. Hancock: Mr. Speaker, it's the policy of this government and the practice of this government that finances are not a barrier to a student getting an education. We have the best student finance system in the country, and we provide finances for those students who need to access it, particularly poorer Albertans, in terms of grants, loans, and other support.

Mr. Taylor: Mr. Speaker, good enough is not good enough.

To the same minister: why are medical residents, who are still students, required to begin paying back their student loans? What happened to fairness?

Mr. Hancock: Finally a very good question, Mr. Speaker. That is an issue that we do need to work on. We do need to make sure that the opportunity is there for students, when they graduate, to have the time to get properly into the workforce and into a position where they can start to pay back. I've been talking with residents about this particular issue, and it is an issue that I hope we'll be able to resolve within the next year as we deal with the affordability policy that we're coming forward with in the spring.

The Speaker: The hon. Member for Edmonton-Strathcona, followed by the hon. Member for Drayton Valley-Calmar.

Wait Times for Health Care

Dr. Pannu: Thank you, Mr. Speaker. According to October 2005 stats on the government's wait-list registry, four times as many Calgarians are waiting for cataract eye surgery compared to the number of Edmontonians waiting. Moreover, those Calgarians are waiting on average three times longer than Edmontonians. In Calgary almost 100 per cent of cataract surgeries are done in private, for-profit clinics while in Edmonton over 80 per cent of the procedures are done in public facilities like the Royal Alex eye clinic. My questions are to the Premier. Given this clear-cut evidence of privatization failing to deliver, why is the Premier indifferent to the pain and suffering of elderly Calgarians that this government forces to wait three times longer than Edmontonians for cataract surgery?

Mr. Klein: I really don't know that to be true, Mr. Speaker. You know, I've talked to people in the private system and people in the public system. Those people in Calgary practising ophthalmology say that services are much quicker in the city of Calgary. I don't know where he gets his figures. Perhaps the Minister of Health and Wellness can shed some light on it.

Dr. Pannu: Thank you, Mr. Speaker. I'll send the Premier this information that he needs to look at.

Why does the Premier keep talking about cataract eye surgery being a leading candidate for further privatization when the existing Calgary private eye surgery clinics month after month and year after year fail to deliver timely access to cataract surgery?

Mr. Klein: Again I don't know that to be true, but I'll have the hon. minister supplement.

Ms Evans: Mr. Speaker, one of the things that's happened in Calgary is that when patients take a look at the wait-list registry, they can find alternatives. It's when they choose a preference of a particular private facility, perhaps, that the wait times become more difficult. As we speak, the Calgary regional health authority has been doing extensive consultation not only with patients but with the ophthalmologists and the operators of private clinics as well as the surgery that's available in public facilities, looking at ways to resolve the situation with the excellent people that are providing cataract surgeries in Calgary. There was a cap put on which was restrictive for some of the ophthalmologists to provide the surgery that they were prepared to do. So as we look at it, they're looking at some of the alternatives, Mr. Speaker.

Dr. Pannu: My second supplementary to the Premier, Mr. Speaker: why doesn't the government reduce waiting times for all Calgarians needing cataract surgery by adopting the successful model developed in Edmonton instead of letting only those select Calgarians who can buy private insurance jump the queue?

Mr. Klein: Mr. Speaker, that is absolutely false. As I understand it, all cataract surgeries are covered under the Alberta health care system, whether they're delivered under contract by a private operator or whether they're delivered in a public system. So for this hon. member to intimate that people jump the cue is wrong, and he ought to apologize for making an outrageous statement like that. Mr. Speaker, I'll have the hon. minister supplement.

The Speaker: Well, I think we're probably going to move on to the hon. Member for Drayton Valley-Calmar, followed by the hon. Member for St. Albert.

Widows' Pension

Rev. Abbott: Thank you, Mr. Speaker. My first question is to the Minister of Human Resources and Employment. Some of my constituents have expressed concerns about the ending of the provincial widows' pension and possible financial hardship that they may face as a result. What is going to happen to the widows and widowers who remain with this program?

The Speaker: The hon. minister.

Mr. Cardinal: Thank you very much, Mr. Speaker. Legislation, of course, has been introduced in this Assembly to allow people who get the widows' pension today to keep getting the same benefits until they're 65 years old and qualify for the seniors' benefit. The program only needs to be extended until the last client turns 65, which is about nine years from now.

The Speaker: The hon. member.

Rev. Abbott: Thank you, Mr. Speaker. My second question is to the same minister. Why was the decision made to end this program when, clearly, there should be plenty of dollars in this province to support needy people?

Mr. Cardinal: A very good question, Mr. Speaker. There are several good reasons to end the program, and they have nothing to do with money. The decision was made so that we could move to a single program based on income, not marital status, to provide consistent support to all Albertans in need. The MLA low-income review committee recommended a single program. Also, the courts have questioned having an assistance program based on marital status.

The Speaker: Go ahead.

Rev. Abbott: Thank you, Mr. Speaker. My last question is also to the Minister of Human Resources and Employment. Why, then, is Alberta the only province getting rid of its widows' pension program?

Mr. Cardinal: Mr. Speaker, in fact, there's a good reason. Alberta is the only province in Canada that's ever had a program of this nature.

The Speaker: The hon. Member for St. Albert, followed by the hon. Member for Foothills-Rocky View.

Childhood Obesity

Mr. Flaherty: Thank you, Mr. Speaker. The World Health Organization stated that government should take responsibility for leadership in responding to the child obesity crisis. Children who eat fruits and vegetables five times a day are substantially less likely to be overweight. This means that we need leadership from the government for a province-wide plan. Waiting will only mean increasing current and future medical costs. To the Minister of Education: will he respond to the child obesity crisis by banning the sale of junk food in Alberta schools?

The Speaker: The hon. minister.

Mr. Zwodzesky: Thank you, Mr. Speaker. I'm grateful to the member for actually raising this issue because it will give me a chance to tell all members here that we are addressing this very matter. We started with the first part of the strategy just this past September. That was with the daily physical activity aspect, and that is providing 30 minutes per day for all students in grades 1 through 9. The second part of this will come into place next September. That will be a focus on the nutritional aspects. That will come forward as part of the new health framework which we are developing with the ministry of health.

2:30

Obesity is a problem. We acknowledge that. It's not just a problem in this province, Mr. Speaker, as you well know. It's a problem right across the country, and we ministers of education have been dealing with this during the past few meetings that we've had.

So we are taking some leadership in that regard, and I'd be grateful for the hon. member's continued support.

The Speaker: The hon. member.

Mr. Flaherty: Thank you, Mr. Speaker. I'll get into my second supplemental. I thank the minister for his positive answer. Education in health is a necessity for kids. When will the minister make healthy eating habits part of the education curriculum in all Alberta schools?

Mr. Zwozdesky: Mr. Speaker, there are numerous references within the existing curriculum that already address that. I want to make it clear that once the new health framework, which I alluded to in the first answer, is fully fleshed out and more complete and provided through to our stakeholders for their final input before we shoot that puck, so to speak, there will be a very comprehensive document available that complements what we have already in the system. Part of that focus will be not only on the nutritional aspects – in other words, the benefits of healthy eating – but also on the healthy habits that must accompany that to sustain it not only within the schools but also, we hope, in the community and in the home life. So we are doing a lot about that, hon. member.

Thank you.

Mr. Flaherty: My last supplemental: will the minister then tell us if he's going to ban junk food in our Alberta schools soon?

Mr. Zwozdesky: Mr. Speaker, the short answer is no. I'm not planning to ban that, but I don't know what might come out of the review that is going to occur over this next little while. I should say that those kinds of decisions are really being taken very seriously, and they are being developed and looked at at the local level: local school boards and local schools. I can tell you that during the 62 meetings that I just had with the school boards, some of them did mention this issue, and the corollary of it all simply is that many of them have removed so-called junk foods from their rosters already.

The Speaker: The hon. Member for Foothills-Rocky View.

Climate Change

Dr. Morton: Thank you, Mr. Speaker. In July the federal government quietly introduced new regulations that classified carbon dioxide as a noxious gas under the Canadian Environmental Protection Act. Last week the federal Minister of the Environment, Stéphane Dion, declared that the new regulations would allow Ottawa to directly regulate large emitters of carbon dioxide, including Alberta oil sands operations, pipelines, and refineries. My first question, then, is to the Minister of Environment. What is the government doing to protect Albertans against these predatory intrusions into provincial jurisdictions?

Mr. Boutilier: I think, Mr. Speaker, that Alberta is viewed by the rest of the nation as a leader, and as much as we're providing a valuable resource to the rest of Canada, it's very important that we avoid duplication. What I mean by that is that Alberta is in such a better position when it comes to the regulatory regime, that we have done a very good job with over the last 30 years. We want to continue in that leadership. To give you an example, the hon. Member for Calgary-Montrose sits on Climate Change Central, which is an important leadership example of what Alberta has been doing.

I think it's really about proactivity. How do we continue to be proactive? Certainly, some of the correspondence I've received from my federal counterpart, the Environment minister, has been very positive. I do believe that we are continuing to move the football down the field in a way that doesn't protect, shall I say, the predatory and intrusive agreements from the federal government but, actually, what is most important, the environment.

Dr. Morton: Mr. Speaker, the minister and some of his spokesmen keep assuring Albertans not to worry about these new federal regulations because Alberta can and will enact our own equivalent regulations that will pre-empt legislation. So my second question to the same minister is: what protection does enacting our own regulations give us if all we're doing is re-enacting the same rules and penalties enacted by the federal government? If the rules are bad, aren't they bad regardless if they're federal or provincial?

Mr. Boutilier: Hon. member, I have to reframe. First of all, the province of Alberta, with the only law in Canada on climate change emission management, will be the first province in Canada with regulations because we've been proactive. We have been leading on the climate change file, and we will continue to protect the environment.

So rather than following something that the federal government is doing in the future, it's important to recognize that I anticipate reporting back to this Assembly that in the next six months we will have completed a regulatory review. I'm eager to report back. I do believe that at the end of the day the federal government will stand down, based on the actual agreements that we had in place in the past and those that will be in the future.

Dr. Morton: Well, the minister seems to be saying that it depends on – the federal government's own data shows that current greenhouse gas emissions are 26 per cent above 1990 levels.

The Speaker: Preambles are not permitted in the second and third questions.

Dr. Morton: My question then is: what has the government done to communicate to the federal government that Albertans will not tolerate the shift of implementation costs of Kyoto onto Alberta oil and gas industries?

Mr. Boutilier: Mr. Speaker, as Minister of Environment my first and foremost principle is the protection of the environment. I believe that our actions have demonstrated that we are committed to that. I also might say that for the first time in the history of Canada the federal minister allowed Alberta to talk about renewable energies, to talk about technology, important initiatives that, again, Alberta is leading on. The minister of science and technology may want to, in fact I'd encourage him to supplement relative to the EnergyINet and the positive initiatives we're doing to help reduce greenhouse gases in this province through our regulatory consultations that we're taking.

The Speaker: Hon. members, in a few seconds from now we'll call upon the first of six to participate in Members' Statements.

Vignettes from Alberta's History

The Speaker: Hon. members, by way of an historical vignette for the day, on this day in 1890 Lethbridge was incorporated as a town by the North-West Territories by way of Ordinance 24. The Lethbridge region was originally the home of the Blackfoot confederacy, but after 1890 European and American traders arrived in the area, and Lethbridge developed as a town and was incorporated as a town. On May 9, 1906, it was incorporated as a city as well. It now boasts a population of some 77,000 people.

head:

Members' Statements

The Speaker: The hon. Member for Whitecourt-St. Anne.

Canadian Finals Rodeo and Farmfair 2005

Mr. VanderBurg: Thank you, Mr. Speaker. I rise today to mention the significant and successful events that took place in Edmonton earlier this month: the Canadian Finals Rodeo and Farmfair International. These events give rural Alberta an opportunity to put on a show for the city, and they give our province an opportunity to reach out to the world.

CFR is a sport up close and personal, and Farmfair showcases rural life and the products people have for sale. Our Minister of Economic Development wrote a wonderful article that appeared in the St. Albert Gazette on November 23 remarking how CFR and Farmfair are great educational and tourist events, with close to 100,000 people taking in the rodeo and another 50,000 visiting Farmfair exhibits and livestock displays.

The importance of CFR and Farmfair goes far beyond a visit to Northlands Park. They are provincial events that allow all types of businesses to benefit, not just those in Edmonton but throughout Alberta, as visitors travelling to and from the city stop for gas and food in towns along the way. Organizers estimate that $60 million is spent in Edmonton and points in between as stores, hotels, and restaurants are filled with people in western wear from all over western Canada and the United States.

CFR creates economic waves through the province, but Farmfair and the CFR are far more important than the money generated. These events reflect our rural pride, our western heritage, history, and culture, and create new opportunities for tourism visits. It is imperative that our province continues to reach out to the world with events like these.

Congratulations to everyone that organized and participated in the Canadian Finals Rodeo and Farmfair International 2005. I hope that the CFR and Farmfair encourage Albertans from the city to take a mini country vacation to visit their rural neighbours, to experience the open skies, the friendly people, the great food, western art, and music and crafts of rural Alberta.

Thank you.

The Speaker: The hon. Member for Highwood.

2:40

Alberta Film Industry

Mr. Groeneveld: Thank you, Mr. Speaker. I rise today to recognize the economic significance of the film industry in Alberta. Last Friday I along with several other members of this Assembly had the opportunity to visit a set being used in the filming of The Assassination of Jesse James by the Coward Robert Ford. Located roughly 15 kilometres south of Canmore, this set has recreated the town of Creede, Colorado, an 1880s mining town. This impressive townsite, which cost $1 million to build, was constructed with the expertise Alberta tradespeople have, using Alberta materials. While visiting the set, I had the opportunity to meet a few of the Albertans who make up the cast, crew, and support staff who have been involved in the shooting of this film since August.

It is not only those who work directly on the film whose employment is supplemented by the movie industry. Filming of this movie will result in roughly $27 million being spent within Alberta on various products and services such as rental cars, hotels, meals, and employment. This is just one example of the many movies which have been filmed in Alberta. In 2003-04 the film industry generated a net economic activity of $129 million, and this figure is estimated to rise to almost $200 million in the 2005-06 fiscal year.

In addition to the economic benefits, the exposure Alberta receives through being on film generates a positive effect on other Alberta industries, such as travel and tourism. The benefits of having this industry are undeniable, and because of this, competition for production crews is getting intense. It is important for Alberta to continue to foster an environment which ensures that we remain competitive internationally to grow this labour-intensive industry which gives Alberta international recognition.

Thank you.

The Speaker: The hon. Member for Calgary-Fort.

Forest Lawn High School Awards Night

Mr. Cao: Thank you, Mr. Speaker. Today I rise to speak about an annual event in my constituency of Calgary-Fort. It's the Forest Lawn high school awards night. It took place last Saturday night at the school. First of all, I want to express our appreciation to the principal, Mr. Tim Main, teachers, and every staff member for doing a great job in providing excellent education services to our future generation. I also want to thank the chair, Michelle Wagler, and all members of the Forest Lawn High School Parent Council for their volunteering involvement with the school.

The students of Forest Lawn school are excellent. I have met many of its past graduates who are now leading citizens and professionals in Alberta, in Canada, and the world. This year 45 received our provincial Rutherford scholarships, 40 received outstanding subject awards, 100 received honour grade awards, and one the Canadian Governor General's award.

There were 30 bursary and scholarship awards sponsored by organizations and individuals who are sponsors of the school. As I don't have time to mention all of them, I would take the liberty to mention a few big ones: the Owen Hart memorial scholarships, the University of Calgary entrance awards, the government of Alberta Rutherford scholarships, the Alberta government school citizenship awards, the BP Canada Energy award, the city of Calgary scholarship awards, the Gerry Art memorial scholarship by our Calgary-Fort Constituency Association, the international peace bursary, and many, many more.

Mr. Speaker, the Ataturk peace bursary has been recently established by the Turkish Canadian Cultural Association of Calgary. This bursary amounts to $1,000 for students graduating from high school. They plan to increase the number of bursaries from the current two to five in the coming year.

Mr. Speaker, our thanks go to all the scholarship and award sponsors, including the Member for Calgary-East. My congratulations to all the students.

The Speaker: The hon. Member for Calgary-Mountain View.

Reclamation of Contaminated Sites

Dr. Swann: Thank you, Mr. Speaker. Contaminated sites are a shameful legacy that we're leaving to our children. Today in Alberta there are thousands of contaminated sites with the potential public liability of billions of dollars as well as unpredictable health consequences. This government has legislated no deadline to complete surface reclamation and subsurface soil remediation. Companies defer the expense for many years, in some cases until after they go out of business. This leaves the cleanup to the public and to the future, an invisible liability to our children.

In addition, Alberta Environment lacks standards of remediation for many contaminants. With thousands of industrial sites across the province spills occur on a daily basis. Despite this, very few prosecutions occur, while the evidence vanishes over time, especially where a site is left for decades. This, of course, conveniently defers expenses for the company, assuming it is ever identified at all. Clearly, this failure to prosecute rewards rather than punishes polluters and means an invisible incremental risk to adjacent people, to the future, and to the environment. This is not acceptable.

Alberta Environment has a responsibility for issuing reclamation certificates for downstream oil and gas and for all other industrial sites. The capacity of Alberta Environment for monitoring a site reclamation is now so compromised by lack of staffing that only 10 per cent are actually visited and attempts made to establish the extent of remediation of contaminated soil. Unlike the upstream oil and gas sector, Alberta Environment has not established an orphan fund from industry to pay for reclamation costs when a company goes out of business.

Legislation is needed urgently to establish regulations, not guidelines; to require immediate cleanup of spills and prosecution where there is a violation of the act. No soft-peddling on pollution. Thirdly, legislation is required for timely reclamation preceded by a proper environmental assessment and, fourthly, to establish an industry-funded cleanup fund. New funds are needed to provide enough inspectors to actually test sites before reclamation certificates.

I call on the Minister of Environment to give a supreme effort to ensure that we do not leave a huge, shameful legacy to our children.

The Speaker: The hon. Member for Edmonton-Gold Bar.

Enron Activities in Alberta

Mr. MacDonald: Thank you, Mr. Speaker. The Progressive Conservatives' close relationship with Enron during Alberta's deregulation process raises many questions. We in the Official Opposition believe that these questions can only be answered through a full, independent public inquiry.

Enron played a significant role in the deregulation process here in Alberta, a role that included drafting Alberta legislation to suit its own financial needs. Shockingly, the provincial government accommodated Enron every step of the way despite the fact that Enron was on the verge of financial collapse and the subject of a regulatory investigation at that time. Enron was able to secure a sweet deal from the Alberta government, purchasing some of the lowest costing electricity in North America. Meanwhile, Alberta consumers have been gouged by electricity deregulation.

By hiding its dealings with Enron from public knowledge, this government has displayed an utter disregard for open and transparent governance. This government concealed its dealings with Enron because it deemed their publication undesirable and unnecessary. The only thing that is undesirable and unnecessary is this provincial government's eagerness to keep Albertans in the dark.

When people speak of a democratic deficit in Alberta, this is exactly what they are referring to. We have a provincial government that executes secret deals with a disgraced corporation and then hides these deals from public knowledge. The citizens of this province deserve to know the facts regarding Enron's role in the deregulation process. More importantly, they deserve to know why this government accommodated Enron at the expense of Alberta consumers.

The answers that we deserve will only come to light when a full, independent public inquiry is mandated to investigate this matter. While other jurisdictions investigate, the Progressive Conservative government here procrastinates.

Thank you.

The Speaker: The hon. Member for Wetaskiwin-Camrose.

Family Doctor Week

Mr. Johnson: Thank you, Mr. Speaker. It is with pleasure that I rise today to recognize Family Doctor Week in Canada, which runs from December 5 to December 11.

Each and every day family doctors diagnose and treat illness and injury and promote disease prevention and good health. They advocate on behalf of their patients and play a key role in co-ordinating care with other medical specialists and health professionals.

Public surveys repeatedly show that Canadians hold family doctors in high regard for the quality of work they provide, working from their offices as well as hospitals, long-term care centres, community clinics, and other community facilities. These doctors are involved in teaching students and residents and in supporting and conducting research to continually improve the practice of family medicine.

2:50

The contribution which family doctors make to Alberta's health care system is one which is appreciated by us all, so I wish to thank the family doctors from my constituency and throughout Alberta and Canada.

Thank you.

head:

Presenting Petitions

The Speaker: The hon. Member for Edmonton-Decore.

Mr. Bonko: Thank you, Mr. Speaker. I have two petitions signed by two different groups.

We, the undersigned residents of Alberta, petition the Legislative Assembly to urge the Government of Alberta to introduce legislation declaring a moratorium on any future expansion of Confined Feeding Operations, with a view to phasing out existing operations within the next three years.

The Speaker: The hon. Member for Calgary-Mountain View.

Dr. Swann: Thank you, Mr. Speaker. I'd like to table a petition on a province-wide moratorium on confined feeding operations.

We, the undersigned residents of Alberta, petition the Legislative Assembly to urge the Government of Alberta to introduce legislation declaring a moratorium on any future expansion of Confined Feeding Operations, with a view to phasing out existing operations within the next three years.

The Speaker: The hon. Member for Edmonton-Manning.

Mr. Backs: Thank you, Mr. Speaker. I'd like to table a petition from some tradesmen and -women from the communities of Duffield, Vermilion, Alliance, Elk Point, Okotoks, Barrhead, Westlock, Drayton Valley, and Rimbey, and it reads:

We the undersigned residents of Alberta, petition the Legislative Assembly to urge the Government of Alberta to prohibit the importation of temporary foreign workers to work on the construction and/or maintenance of oil sands facilities and/or pipelines until the following groups have been accessed and/or trained: Unemployed Albertans and Canadians; Aboriginals; unemployed youth under 25; under-employed landed immigrants; and displaced farmers.

There are 210 Albertans on that list.

The Speaker: The hon. Member for Edmonton-Beverly-Clareview.

Mr. Martin: Yeah. I have a couple petitions. Thank you, Mr. Speaker. I'd like to table a petition today which has 386 signatures on it, bringing the total number of signatures for this petition to 786. The signatures were collected by Lynda and Ron Jonson of Seniors I Care. The petition calls for either the reinstatement of the 25 continuing care beds "that Hinton had before the Good Samaritans Society and the Aspen Health Region changed it to a Designated Assisted Living Facility" or, failing that, to commit to building a "new 25 bed Continuing Care Facility in Hinton."

Mr. Speaker, for the leader of the NDP opposition I have a further petition. I'd like to table today a petition by 1,584 individuals that urges the Alberta government to "increase infrastructure development funding for Highway 63." To date 6,496 Albertans have signed this petition.

The Speaker: The hon. Member for Cardston-Taber-Warner.

Mr. Hinman: Thank you, Mr. Speaker. It's my privilege to present a petition to this Assembly with over 8,000 signatures from residents across Alberta who are not feeling the Alberta advantage. They come from Peace River, Medicine Hat, Hanna, Fort Macleod, and Onoway, just to name a few. The petition reads: "We, the undersigned residents of Alberta, petition the Legislative Assembly to urge the government to introduce legislation to re-regulate Alberta's utilities to restore reasonably-priced energy to Albertans."

head:

Notices of Motions

The Speaker: The hon. Member for Edmonton-Strathcona.

Dr. Pannu: Thank you, Mr. Speaker. Earlier today I advised your office of my intent to move a motion pursuant to Standing Order 40 after completion of today's daily routine.

Thank you.

The Speaker: Would you like to read it into the record now?

Dr. Pannu: Yes. The motion, Mr. Speaker, reads as follows:

Be it resolved that the Legislative Assembly deplores the government for not providing sufficient time to debate billions of dollars in unbudgeted government spending, thereby undermining the democratic process and the integrity of the public finances.

head:

Tabling Returns and Reports

The Speaker: The hon. Minister of International and Intergovernmental Relations.

Mr. Stelmach: Well, thank you, Mr. Speaker. Today I'm pleased to rise and table the required number of copies of the response to Written Question 17 and motions for returns 20, 21, and 22.

The Speaker: The hon. Member for Edmonton-Centre.

Ms Blakeman: Thank you very much, Mr. Speaker. I am tabling the required number of copies of the Ontario Securities Commission bylaws relating to the avoidance of conflict and disclosure guidelines as published on the Ontario Securities Commission website.

Thank you.

The Speaker: The hon. Member for Edmonton-McClung.

Mr. Elsalhy: Thank you, Mr. Speaker. Today I'm submitting the required number of copies of a document listing current practice opportunities for physicians as per the Alberta rural physician action plan, RPAP, website as at November 3, 2005. This document lists in excess of 82 requests for general practitioners, or GPs, alone as well as numerous other specialists and highlights the plight of all nine health regions as they struggle to attract qualified medical practitioners.

Thank you.

The Speaker: The hon. Member for Edmonton-Ellerslie.

Mr. Agnihotri: Thank you, Mr. Speaker. I have a tabling from my constituents Mr. and Mrs. Dickerson. They have a concern about his appeal with respect to the provincial disaster fund and last year's storm damage. They paid $21,000 from their own pocket and received only $6,000 back. They're asking the government to consider their case on the grounds of hardship and special circumstances for the funds to cover their loss.

The Speaker: The hon. Member for Calgary-Currie.

Mr. Taylor: Thank you, Mr. Speaker. I rise today to table the required number of copies of a Statistics Canada research paper called The Impact of Tuition Fees on University Access: Evidence from a Large-scale Price Deregulation in Professional Programs.

The Speaker: The hon. Member for Edmonton-Gold Bar.

Mr. MacDonald: Thank you, Mr. Speaker. I have three tablings this afternoon. The first is a letter dated June 18, 2001, to the Minister of Energy, the government of Alberta, and this letter is from the Industrial Association of Southern Alberta, and it is in regard to Enron's apparent PPA offer strategy in the competitive market. This letter, among other things, states that consumers are getting fleeced as a result of the flawed Alberta market for electricity.

The second tabling that I have this afternoon, Mr. Speaker, is an e-mail from a Mr. Joseph Segatto dated September 11, 2001, to Robert Hemstock at Enron, and this letter is in regard to the statutory authority of minister or cabinet to split Sundance B PPA through enabling regulation.

The third tabling I have today is from Joseph Segatto to Robert.Hemstock@enron.com, and this is dated October 10, 2001, and the subject of this is the final versions of Sundance unit PPAs and Enron's comments on regulation to amend, 175/2000.

Thank you.

The Speaker: The hon. Member for Edmonton-Rutherford.

Mr. R. Miller: Thank you, Mr. Speaker. As referenced by the hon. leader of the opposition, there was an information picket this afternoon in front of the outpatient residence at the University hospital. I'm pleased to table five copies of the pamphlet that was distributed by the AUPE urging members of this Legislature to say no to private hospital/hotel facilities and no to private health care in Alberta.

Thank you.

The Speaker: The hon. Member for Edmonton-Beverly-Clareview.

Mr. Martin: Thank you, Mr. Speaker. I have two tablings. One, for the leader of the NDP opposition, an appropriate number of copies of a letter from Nita Stein of Edmonton expressing her opposition to the Aon Consulting contract awarded by Alberta Health and Wellness.

The second tabling, Mr. Speaker, is a letter sent to the Minister of Education from the Canadian Council of the Blind, Alberta division, which expresses concerns about teacher aids, rather than certified teachers, teaching Braille to blind students.

Thank you.

The Speaker: Are there others? The hon. Member for Lethbridge-East.

Ms Pastoor: Thank you, Mr. Speaker. I have three tablings today. I'm tabling today a letter with the requisite five copies from a constituent who is a senior and expresses her displeasure at the time it takes for her new dental benefits to not only be approved but also paid.

I'm also tabling a letter with the requisite five copies from a constituent, Mark Busch, who objects to the systematic closing of long-term care facilities in the Chinook health region in favour of assisted living, including the facility that he's called home for 14 years. He expresses his concern for those residents like himself, paraplegic. He's not afraid of change; he's afraid of life-threatening change.

3:00

Mr. Speaker, I'm tabling a letter, with the requisite five copies, signed by 117 of my constituents who live in a lodge and realize that after paying for board and room, keeping the $265 does not allow them enough money to pay for their personal needs in today's market.

Mr. Eggen: Mr. Speaker, I rise today to table the appropriate number of copies of a letter sent to the Minister of Sustainable Resource Development by the Alberta Wilderness Association asking for a deferral of industrial activities until public hearings occur for the area known as the Rumsey natural area.

head: Tablings to the Clerk

The Clerk: I wish to advise the House that the following documents were deposited with the office of the Clerk. On behalf of the hon. Ms Evans, Minister of Health and Wellness, pursuant to the Dental Disciplines Act the Alberta Dental Assistants Association 2003 annual report and the Alberta Dental Assistants Association 2004 annual report, pursuant to the Occupational Therapy Profession Act the Alberta Association of Registered Occupational Therapists 2004-2005 annual report, and pursuant to the Health Professions Act the Alberta College of Medical Laboratory Technologists 2004 annual report, College of Dental Technologists of Alberta 2004 annual report, and the College of Chiropractors of Alberta annual review 2004-2005.

head: Motions under Standing Order 40

The Speaker: The hon. Member for Edmonton-Strathcona on an application for Standing Order 40.

Debate on Supplementary Estimates

Dr. Pannu:

Be it resolved that the Legislative Assembly deplores the government for not providing sufficient time to debate billions of dollars in unbudgeted government spending, thereby undermining the democratic process and the integrity of public finances.

Dr. Pannu: Thank you, Mr. Speaker. Pursuant to Standing Order 40 I move to adjourn the ordinary business of the Assembly to deal with the following motion of urgent and pressing necessity. It's urgent that this request be approved and the motion debated today as the fall sitting of the Legislature will likely come to an end in the next day or two. There is simply no other time on the Order Paper to have this necessary debate unless we have the debate this afternoon.

Speaking to urgency, Mr. Speaker, this Assembly is being asked to approve $1.8 billion in unbudgeted appropriations involving 13 different ministries. Yesterday evening the government only allowed a few speakers into the debate during second reading on the supplementary appropriations bill before moving adjournment and then only bringing the bill up when it, under our Standing Orders, automatically comes to a vote. It's urgent that the Assembly debate this motion, which expresses its disapproval of this undermining of the democratic process.

I urge all members to approve this Standing Order 40 request. Thank you, Mr. Speaker.

[Unanimous consent denied]

head: Orders of the Day

head: Government Bills and Orders
Second Reading

Bill 52

Miscellaneous Statutes Amendment Act, 2005 (No. 2)

Mr. Stevens: Mr. Speaker, it's my pleasure to move Bill 52, Miscellaneous Statutes Amendment Act, 2005 (No. 2) for second reading.

The principle behind a miscellaneous statutes amendment act of necessity is that the matters which comprise the bill are matters that have been discussed with opposition members and are matters which either are in policy a matter of agreement or are of a technical nature and are amendments to various statutes to correct oversights. I will briefly describe the contents of the Miscellaneous Statutes Amendment Act so that members are apprised of the particulars of the four separate acts which are the subject of the amendment.

The first one is the Assured Income for the Severely Handicapped Act. That provision provides for a personal income support benefit for AISH clients who require additional support and have $3,000 or less in assets. Where the $3,000 asset limit is exceeded and the minister determines that there is financial hardship, an individual may be eligible for personal income support benefits.

The second relates to the Income and Employment Supports Act. That provides for the Widows' Pension Act to be repealed in 2014 instead of 2006.

The next piece of legislation is the Pharmacy and Drug Act. In this case it deletes a regulation-making power as it overlaps with a similar regulation-making power.

Lastly, Mr. Speaker, there is a provision dealing with the Traffic Safety Amendment Act, 2005. This adds an offence for exceeding the maximum speed limit established or proscribed for a highway, section 115(2)(e), back into section 86 of the act. That provision was originally included in section 86 but was inadvertently left out when section 86 was amended in the spring of 2005.

Hon. Members: Question.

The Speaker: The question to be called? No need to conclude?

[Motion carried; Bill 52 read a second time]

Bill 55
Post-secondary Learning
Amendment Act, 2005 (No. 2)

[Adjourned debate November 28: Mr. Hancock]

The Speaker: The hon. Member for Calgary-Currie.

Mr. Taylor: Thank you, Mr. Speaker. It is my pleasure to rise on second reading debate on Bill 55, the Post-secondary Learning Amendment Act, 2005 (No. 2). This was a piece of legislation that was alluded to I guess before the fact a couple of weeks ago when we were in Committee of the Whole debate on Bill 9, the Post-secondary Learning Amendment Act, 2005, when the minister referred to a desire that he had to bring forward an amendment that would deal with the academic council composition makeup for colleges and technical institutes. He referred to it at the time as his hope that he could bring forward some legislation or an amendment in some form like that. It did not fit within the confines of Bill 9, so after some discussion, the minister has brought this forward as a separate bill now, Bill 55, the Post-secondary Learning Amendment Act, 2005 (No. 2). It offers, therefore, the opportunity for some debate on this particular amendment, this particular piece of legislation that will amend the Post-secondary Learning Act.

The idea behind this, as the minister has spoken to already, is to give some flexibility to colleges and technical institutes similar to the flexibility that our province's universities already have under section 33, I believe it is, of the Post-secondary Learning Act around the composition of their general faculties councils, which are the rough equivalent at the university level of what an academic council is set to do at the college and technical institute level, and to do that at the college level without necessarily compelling an institution, a college or a technical institute, that is perfectly happy with the model that it has now to have to go out and custom build an academic council above and beyond that.

You know, it's a basic philosophy here. This is something that I can certainly commend because we've talked about this and urged the government to do these sorts of things from time to time, not to fix what ain't broken. Where some institutions, some colleges, perhaps the bulk of colleges in this province are concerned, section 46, which governs the formation of the standard-existing academic councils now, does the trick for most of them.

3:10

There are, though, some which do or might like to tinker with that basic model for purposes that seem to suit them. One example of that might be to pursue accreditation by the AUCC – or recognition, I suppose I should say. Accreditation is not exactly, as the minister knows, the correct word to use here because the AUCC is not an actual accrediting body. It's kind of a de facto accrediting body in the absence of a de facto body that does that. But AUCC recognizes degrees issued by its member institutions, and institutions which are not members of AUCC cannot be assured that their credentials will automatically be accepted by other institutions, particularly for graduate school applications.

This has become more of an issue, Mr. Speaker, in the last few years as more and more undergraduates have decided upon graduation that, in fact, they do want to pursue graduate studies and build on their baccalaureate degree because for one reason or another they find that the baccalaureate degree in and of itself doesn't get them where they want to go, or it doesn't get them where they want to go now that they've been through four years of undergraduate education.

Now, against that context we have the Post-secondary Learning Act, which established the Campus Alberta Quality Council to advise the minister on program and degree approvals so that other institutions that don't call themselves universities could nevertheless offer baccalaureate degrees in this province. At least one institution has taken on that model and has begun to offer baccalaureate degrees which are approved by the Campus Alberta Quality Council, but at least one other college has held back from doing that.

I don't think it's any secret in this House that that college is Mount Royal College in Calgary, and I don't think it's any secret in this House that Mount Royal ultimately wishes to become a full-fledged university. While Mount Royal very much is desirous of being able to grant degrees, Mount Royal feels very strongly that it needs AUCC accreditation in order for those degrees which it confers upon its students to be portable, transportable, to other AUCC-accredited or recognized member institutions so that a graduate from Mount Royal College with a baccalaureate degree can go on to graduate studies at a Queen's University or a UBC or whatever graduate school that does belong to AUCC should that student wish to do that.

This Bill 55, Post-secondary Learning Amendment Act, 2005 (No. 2), should give the flexibility to Mount Royal College to pursue AUCC accreditation by custom designing its academic council if it wishes, should provide the flexibility to other colleges and technical institutes to custom design their own academic councils for their own purposes of course in consultation with the minister. As I said a couple of weeks ago, of course the minister is not going to let an academic council that's been designed by a college pursue if the model simply doesn't cut the mustard, if the model stinks.

I find myself in an interesting position right now because, of course, we usually on this side of the House take the position that legislation is better than regulation and that less rather than more power to make regulations and make decisions should be concentrated in the hands of the minister, that consistency is better than flexibility. In this case we have a situation where this particular piece of legislation contains a number of things that normally we would not find particularly palatable or particularly commendable, but I think I understand why the minister has gone about doing it in this case.

So I would support with reservations Bill 55. Normally, we don't like legislative changes that provide the minister with too much power or too much discretion or which move the substance from the legislation into regulation, that can be changed by a minister or Lieutenant Governor in Council without debate of this House. This change does do that, but we are willing to support this because of our support for Mount Royal College in Calgary moving ahead with its governance and programming changes. The problem with postsecondary access across this province generally but especially in Calgary is acute, and allowing a change that would then in turn allow Mount Royal College or any other college which wishes to take advantage of this to move ahead is I think one piece of the solution.

Thank you, Mr. Speaker.

The Speaker: The hon. Minister of Advanced Education to conclude the debate?

[Motion carried; Bill 55 read a second time]

Bill 58

Alberta Centennial Medal Amendment Act, 2005

The Speaker: The hon. Minister of Advanced Education for the hon. Minister of Community Development.

Mr. Hancock: Thank you, Mr. Speaker. It's my pleasure to move Bill 58 for second reading.

Bill 58 is a very modest amendment to the Alberta Centennial Medal Act, that was passed earlier this spring. It just allows for a minor amount of flexibility in the awarding of the centennial medals. As I understand it, the purpose for making this amendment was to allow for protocol purposes, really, with respect to interprovincial exchanges and that sort of thing. The bill is very short. It provides a section that says, "the Minister may nominate other individuals the Minister considers deserving," which is indeed a bit of a catch-all but, nonetheless, an appropriate way to make it possible to deal with the final matters coming out of Alberta's centennial year and the Alberta centennial medal.

Thank you, Mr. Speaker.

The Speaker: The hon. Member for Calgary-Currie.

Mr. Taylor: Thank you, Mr. Speaker. Now, what did I just say in this House not two minutes ago about the problem that I have and that we have on this side of the House with this kind of flexibility? You read this bill, and it essentially allows this government or a minister to go off and give a centennial medal to any Tom, Dick, or Harry that he or she should choose. I know that we've been told that this is for protocol purposes, but let's remember that the legislation establishing the Alberta centennial medal, which was "established as an official honour of the Crown in right of Alberta," says that "Canadian citizens who are current or former long-term residents of Alberta are eligible to be awarded the Alberta Centennial Medal." Not too many dignitaries from other provinces or other lands, one or two maybe but not too many, fall into the category of being current or former long-time residents of Alberta.

Mr. Speaker, if the Premier of Alberta or the Minister of Community Development or the Minister of Advanced Education or any other minister of the Crown wishes to give his or her counterpart a lasting memento of Alberta's centennial, let them act now, in the next 33 days, and take that person out for a good Alberta beef dinner. That ought to be enough. If it isn't, give them an Alberta centennial medallion to boot. But these are centennial medals created under, you know, very clear, I think very specific, legislation, created to honour 8,000, give or take, hard-working Albertans, most of whom have given generously, beyond generously, of their time and their efforts and their talents to make their communities, their own communities here in this province, a better place to live and honour that.

For one, I don't think we ought to be handing these things out like, you know, candy from the 7-Eleven to anybody who happens to come here because this is a great place to live, work, and visit. It's a great place to live and work, it's a great place to visit, but if you're a visitor, you don't qualify for one of these medals.

This legislation, Mr. Speaker, is bogus.

The Speaker: The hon. Member for Edmonton-Calder.

3:20

Mr. Eggen: Thank you, Mr. Speaker. I, too, would like to rise briefly to speak on Bill 58. It's our understanding that there's not a great deal to be concerned with with Bill 58 in regard to allowing the centennial medals to be awarded to individuals outside the province of Alberta. My understanding is that this was at least partially precipitated by the desire of Saskatchewan and Alberta to give medals across the border, this being both the centennial for our province and for Saskatchewan as well. So I think that in the spirit of that sort of co-operation we certainly would support this bill.

I, too, have some reservations about not having a limit on the minting of centennial medals, but I think that this is something that the government, I hope, can show some restraint towards because, of course, if something is not considered to be rare or it's given out in haste or is anything that's perceived as being frivolous, then perhaps it lessens the value of the medal in general. But, you know, I think that everyone in this House can agree that these medals have been a tremendous success and have perhaps been the very best part of the centennial celebrations, as far as I can tell, the ceremonies associated with giving out these medals. Then, again, to extend that to some degree to some individuals across our provincial borders shouldn't be such a problem.

I believe that Saskatchewan's Legislature is putting together a similar capacity for them to give out the Saskatchewan medals, so I guess this might be in keeping with that. I'm kind of secretly hoping that maybe Saskatchewan will give me one as well. Then, you know, we'll be able to have more than one medal across the blazer, which would look great at special occasions.

So as I said before, the NDP caucus doesn't have a great deal of problems with Bill 58. Thank you, Mr. Speaker.

The Speaker: Hon members, Standing Order 29(2)(a) is available.

Then shall I call on the hon. Minister of Community Development to close the debate? The hon. minister.

Mr. Mar: Thank you, Mr. Speaker. I can first of all comment in response to the hon. Member for Edmonton-Calder that in fact Saskatchewan pursuant to its legislation already has the capacity to confer a medal upon a nonresident of the province of Saskatchewan, so that is exactly what we seek to do through Bill 58.

If you look at the Saskatchewan legislation and look at Bill 58, they are mirror images of each other. I think that it has been quite well recognized by members of the Assembly, yourself, Mr. Speaker, and all Albertans that these medals have not been frivolously given out to individuals who are not deserving nor will they be in the future. This is not an invitation for simply another round of nominations. There isn't the time to do that between now and the close of the year. But I can say that in the very best interests of celebrating the centennial and the kind of co-operation that has taken place between the province of Saskatchewan and Alberta, in fact we will do what is appropriate with this bill in terms of conferring a medal upon a significant nonresident of Alberta. This particular example has been about Premier Calvert of Saskatchewan, and it is the intention of the province of Saskatchewan to confer a reciprocal medal upon our Premier.

With that, I wish to call the question and ask the Assembly for support of Bill 58, being the Alberta Centennial Medal Amendment Act. Thank you, Mr. Speaker.

[Motion carried; Bill 58 read a second time]

head: Government Bills and Orders
Committee of the Whole

[Mr. Marz in the chair]

The Chair: I'd like to call the committee to order.

Bill 52

Miscellaneous Statutes Amendment Act, 2005 (No. 2)

The Chair: Are there any comments, questions, or amendments to be offered with respect to this bill? The hon. Member for Edmonton-Centre.

Ms Blakeman: Thank you, Mr. Chairman. Traditionally with miscellaneous statutes, which is Bill 52 before us, there is an agreement with the opposition parties that any statute we're not comfortable with will get pulled and brought forward as an individual bill and that the package of the remaining statutes will go forward without debate. Therefore, I am happy to call the question on Bill 52, miscellaneous statutes.

[The clauses of Bill 52 agreed to]

[Title and preamble agreed to]

The Chair: Shall the bill be reported?

Hon. Members: Agreed.

The Chair: Opposed? Carried.

Bill 55

Post-secondary Learning Amendment Act, 2005 (No. 2)

The Chair: The hon. Member for Calgary-Currie.

Mr. Taylor: Thank you, Mr. Chair. I rise to debate further Bill 55, the Post-secondary Learning Amendment Act, 2005 (No. 2), at committee. As I indicated in second reading debate, I'm certainly supportive of this legislation, with reservations, the reservations having to do with, you know, our general feeling on this side of the House that we don't like, as a rule, legislative changes that provide the minister or the cabinet with too much power, too much discretion, too much opportunity to change regulations without legislative debate. This change does have the potential to do that, but I think that in this case, provided that this is done right – provided that this is done right – this is a bill where the potential for benefit for the students in the province of Alberta specifically in this case outweighs the problems that we have normally with changes of this nature.

There is in section 47(1), which this bill would add to the Post-secondary Learning Act, an entire section that allows academic councils to be custom- designed, if you will, by a public college or a technical institute with the written approval of the minister, something that a university already has the ability to do, to craft, with its own general faculties council, which is roughly the university equivalent of an academic council. It provides the opportunity for flexibility that allows colleges or technical institutions, should they wish, to go off in a direction that they believe will benefit their students over the long haul. I think this is a good thing. I think this is something in this case very much to be encouraged. But again I say: if the minister goes about it the right way. As usual, the devil is in the details or the regulations.

A couple of weeks ago the minister indicated his desire to bring forward this amendment, and that was before it existed as a separate piece of legislation. He referenced the one-size-fits-all academic council structure that is currently in the act under section 46, and I know that the minister will correct me if I'm wrong on this, but my understanding is that section 46 will continue to exist and continue to provide the default template, if you will. It's in place unless a college or a technical institute specifically goes to the minister and says: we want to change that.

3:30

So he recognizes that there is a one-size-fits-all component there, and he's willing to allow that to continue, and that, too, is a good thing. But if we want to build in this kind of flexibility that the minister has talked about, you know, a provision for a board of a college or a technical institute which wants to have a different form of academic council or needs a flexible structure in some other way than is in the act, regulations to give it that flexibility, then we have to be very careful about how those regulations work.

Really, my question to the minister is around those regulations. In introducing second reading debate on Bill 55 yesterday afternoon, he talked about wanting to consult thoroughly with colleges and technical institutes across the province with respect to the design of the regulations which would be put in place in terms of how or when a college or technical institute could move forward to utilize this particular section and ask for a specific design for an academic council for that college or institution. I'm taking it from that – and I know the minister will set me straight if I'm reading into his comments things that aren't there – that there are almost two sets of regulations needed here: a kind of governing regulation to which colleges and technical institutes across the province will be consulted that sort of sets the ground rules for an institution designing its own academic council and then regulation to follow to in effect ratify the academic council that has been designed by the college or technical institute in co-operation with the minister and his department.

What I need to know from the minister is whether the minister is committed here to a series of regulations that absolutely gives colleges and technical institutes, each one as an individual case, the opportunity to design in co-operation and concert with the minister and his officials the academic council that it feels works best for them, or are we moving in section 46 from one one-size-fits-all model to now in section 47(1) through the enabling regulation something that may turn out to be another one-size-fits-all option? If the minister could clarify that, I think I'd be prepared to move ahead from that point.

The Chair: The hon. minister.

Mr. Hancock: Thank you, Mr. Chairman. First of all, clearly what we're trying to establish is: we have under section 46 a template which all institutions fall into. What we're offering to do is to set up a more flexible second option for institutions to come forward and say, "We would like to design our academic council in such a way for such a reason," and as long as it meets all the criteria and doesn't offend any of the sensibilities of the act, then there's no good reason why it shouldn't be.

The concept is that it would be at the behest of the particular institution with the approval of the minister in accordance with the regulations. The regulations, then, would set out the criteria, presumably, under which, first of all, the procedures for doing it, the composition, whether there needs to be any criteria – and I don't know whether there need to be any criteria with respect to the composition; that will be the subject of consultation with the institutions – and the powers and duties. I don't know whether there needs to be any prescription on the powers and duties, but I would assume so, that powers would be first of all delegated from the boards of governors.

The short answer to the question about whether this is a second template or an individually designed model is that I don't know the answer to that until I've fully consulted with the players. I am not about to design the system. I am about to work with them. What I am committed to is that we come up with a design that works. The contemplation here is that an institution would be able to come forward and say, "We have a particular need that we'd like to create around our academic institution," and then the test would be that if it makes sense under the act, if it doesn't offend any of the requirements of the act, we would be able to work with them to go ahead and put that model in place; in other words, a flexibility structure which would allow them to move forward.

Now, I have committed to the system that we would not design those regulations without having a thorough consultation with them. So I can't give the absolute assurance, but I can give this assurance: I will consult with the hon. member with respect to the regulations before I bring them through so that he's fully aware of what we're contemplating and can have input into them. What we're really trying to do is provide that flexibility so that an institution can say, "This is the aspiration we have," and as long as that aspiration fits within the system context, makes sense within the system, and doesn't leave holes, we would be prepared to work with them to move forward and put that in place.

That's what we're trying to achieve here. We have one structure that has worked, that is working for most if not all of the colleges and technical institutes, but there's a need for some flexibility to allow an institution or institutions to design their own. I don't know this as yet, but if it's possible, the ideal would be to be able to set up a structure so that each could come forward and say: here's how we want to differ from the template and design our own model. That would be the ideal. The fallback would be the position, as the hon. member outlined, that it may end up being a second template; in other words, an option. You have an option under 46; you have the second option under 47.1. My preference and purpose is the first, not the second.

As I say, we'll be consulting, and I'll be more than happy to give the hon. member assurance that before I bring something forward, we'll have a thorough discussion with him.

Mr. Taylor: Mr. Chairman, I want to extend my thanks to the minister both for that answer and for his undertaking to consult with me as the process develops. I think he's been as clear as he probably can be at this time under the circumstances, given his commitment to consult with the other colleges and technical institutes as well. Certainly, for now, that answer satisfies me.

Thank you.

The Chair: The hon. Member for Edmonton-Centre.

Ms Blakeman: Thank you. Given what the minister and the critic are saying – and I understand that, and I support what they're saying – I still always have to be cautious when I see the government granting authority to itself to make regulations behind closed doors, particularly when we're talking about any institution. In this case it's our postsecondary institutions, but it could be any other institution. I must always put on the record my concern about that.

I appreciate hearing that the minister is willing to share that, but I think we always need to be very careful to make sure that this is a democratic process, that it's as accessible as possible. In Alberta I think I need to put on the record that it is not in any way benefiting the private sector over the public sector or disproportionately disadvantaging the public sector, in this case the public postsecondary education sector.

So thanks for the opportunity to get that on the record.

Mr. Hancock: I'll just briefly respond to that. This has no bearing whatsoever on private. This is entirely publicly governed institutions. The clear wording of the section, I believe, makes it clear that it's something that's done because "a public college or technical institute may, with the written approval." In other words, it's at their behest, not something that the minister does. It doesn't say: the minister can. It says: they can with the approval of the minister and in accordance with the regulations.

So the current situation is that under section 46 this one would make some flexibility so that a college could come forward in accordance with the regulations and ask for a change. It's nothing that we would impose on them. It would be providing the flexibility. So I think I can assuage the member's concerns.

The Chair: The hon. Member for Edmonton-Beverly-Clareview.

Mr. Martin: Thank you very much, Mr. Chairman. I won't take a great deal of time. I understand the purpose of Bill 55, and I know that it's supposedly a work in progress, but I believe it's still somewhat a questionable solution to a very real problem. As I recollect, during the debate on Bill 43, I believe it was, a number of problems were identified including the one that we're attempting to deal with here, the one-size-fits-all approach to the establishment of academic councils.

Correct me if I'm wrong, but the minister seems to be saying that this is sort of a temporary approach, that we're dealing with this problem. I guess that to remove the legislative requirements entirely with only the written consent of the minister required and then give the power to cabinet to determine the composition of academic council seems to me to be part of Bill 55. Correct me if I'm wrong. I'm certainly quite prepared to be wrong if that's the case.

It seems to me that we're taking a provision from legislation where it's publicly debated in an open forum and giving more power than I think we might want to the minister and the cabinet. Ministers change. I know this minister would never do anything inappropriate, but ministers do change. It does show, though, the problem that I think we're trying to deal with with the one size fits all with the many different institutions that we have.

3:40

I note the minister looks a little baffled. Maybe I am wrong. I'm sure he'll straighten me out. The one specific question: has the minister considered adding schedules to the Post-secondary Learning Act with the institutions, sort of specific provisions, as an alternative to taking the composition of academic councils out of legislation and putting them in regulations so that it's a little more, you know, above board and open and transparent? I wondered if that has been considered.

Mr. Speaker, I think that I understand the reason for Bill 55. I guess that our hesitation on the opposite side is that it seems to be, you know, keeping it under the control of the minister and the government. There seems to me to be, perhaps, better ways to do it. Maybe not. I'd be interested in the minister's comments.

The Chair: The hon. minister.

Mr. Hancock: Thank you, Mr. Chairman. Again, I want to be clear about this. Section 46 is the template which sets what the composition is of academic councils for colleges and technical institutes. So it's clear. The minister can't change that. We can't change it unilaterally. We can't change it in any way. It's in the act. To change that, we would have to come back by legislation.

What 47 does is suggest that we would then have the ability after consultation, yes, to make regulations but not regulations that allow the minister to make individual determinations with respect to colleges or technical institutes but to set up a framework after consultation to say what's permissible in the setting up of an academic council. Then it would be at the behest of an individual college or technical institute to design their academic council within the framework and then come forward and request it.

Under 47.1(1) it puts the onus on the public college or technical institute to initiate the process. So it's not that the minister is going to have additional power to change academic councils in any way. What we would do after consultation with the system is say: okay, here are the parameters under which colleges and technical institutes might design their own if they wanted to. Then if they wanted to, they would bring forward their design within the context of the regulations for approval. If the minister agreed that their design fit the parameters and was in the interest of the system as well as in the interest of the institution, then you could approve it.

In this circumstance it's not creating a regulation that's sort of a carte blanche governing authority, as the opposition normally is opposed to, but rather the ability to create a framework within which the colleges and institutions, which are board governed, could come forward and say: we would desire this kind of flexibility. I hope that deals with the member's concerns.

Mr. Martin: Just a follow-up, if I may, Mr. Chair. It comes back to the last question. I understand what the minister is saying, that within the framework of 46 the minister under regulations can take an individual, say it's NAIT or whatever, and if they have a proposal, he can come in and make sure that it does follow the guidelines in 46(1). I believe that's what the minister is saying. I guess the question I'd come back with is: would it not be, again, more transparent if we could lay out schedules to the Post-secondary Learning Act so that there are rough guidelines that all institutions understand so we don't have to go through that process? Has some thought been put into that, or is the minister saying that there are too many permutations and combinations, that that is impossible? It seems to me that if we could do that, it would be a better way to proceed because, you know, everybody can see it. I'd be interested in his comments on that.

Mr. Hancock: The "too many permutations and combinations" comment would prevail.

Mr. Martin: Okay.

The Chair: Are you ready for the question on Bill 55?

Hon. Members: Question.

[The clauses of Bill 55 agreed to]

[Title and preamble agreed to]

The Chair: Shall the bill be reported? Are you agreed?

Hon. Members: Agreed.

The Chair: That's carried.

Bill 58

Alberta Centennial Medal Amendment Act, 2005

The Chair: Are there any comments, questions, or amendments to be offered? The hon. Member for Edmonton-Centre.

Ms Blakeman: Thank you. [interjection] I'm looking forward to the Minister of Economic Development's contribution to this.

Thank you for the opportunity to speak in Committee of the Whole to Bill 58, the Alberta Centennial Medal Amendment Act, 2005. On the face of this it appears to be a fairly innocent and innocuous expansion to the centennial medal program that was instituted by the Minister of Community Development. My issue with this is that it gives a huge expansion without any reason for it. As we were brought to understand, there was a restricted number of medals and medallions that were made available for very specific purposes during this centennial year. [interjection] I see that Drayton Valley-Calmar is yipping off as usual. I'll be looking for his contribution to this.

An Hon. Member: He has a contribution?

Ms Blakeman: Well, I'm being kind in calling it a contribution, but others disagree with me.

The point to all of this is that what's being asked for here is a wide-open carte blanche to mint as many medals as he wants to without giving us any reason for it. Our understanding was that they wanted there to be an opportunity to do reciprocal medal presentations if we found ourselves in a position. For example, Saskatchewan is also celebrating a 100th birthday, and if we had their Premier or cabinet ministers offering a presentation of medals to our cabinet ministers or our Premier, we would like to be in a position to reciprocate. Fine. I don't think we have any problem with that, but the amending legislation should be tight enough to specify that, and that's not what we're seeing in front of us here.

This is essentially allowing the minister to nominate any other individual and then to approve his own nominations. We think that that's just not staying with the spirit of what we were told these medal presentations were supposed to be about. I understood that they were to be for people who were from Alberta and had long-standing contributions to Alberta. So I can see making an exception as a courtesy to other elected officials in other provinces or federally, but to open it wide and say that you can nominate as many people and produce as many medals and give them away I just think puts it open for abuse, and it doesn't put any controls on it. I don't like seeing that, so I'm speaking against the bill.

Thank you.

Mr. Mar: Mr. Chairman, I can assure you and members of this Assembly that the process by which medals are recognized pursuant to Rideau Hall's order of precedence has quite specific requirements with respect to how medals may be conferred. This is not done as a frivolous matter by anyone, and I should point out to opposition members who choose to speak against this bill that the government placed a great deal of responsibility in the hands of MLAs themselves to exercise good judgment in the people that they nominated for these medals.

I should say, Mr. Chairman, that there should be the reciprocal kind of respect shown to government when government says that it also, within the spirit and within the parameters under which medals are given, should be conferred the same respect as we have given to private members of this Assembly.

Mr. Chairman, it's my pleasure to move this bill at the committee stage.

The Chair: The hon. Member for Edmonton-Beverly-Clareview.

Mr. Martin: Well, thank you. We'll show great spirit and generosity. I understand that the proposal was because Saskatchewan and Alberta – that was the reason we were told back a while ago – could do a sort of co-operative venture across the way. Again, I have no problems with that.

Then maybe without being cynical about it, I'll ask the minister because it doesn't give us an idea of what sort of numbers we're looking at and what other purpose there would be: are we looking at the end at 500 more medals or what? I could see that maybe Premier Klein wants to give one to Premier Calvert. Maybe the cabinet ministers want to exchange, but there's no idea here. It's our job not to be totally cynical all the time, but with a bill like this it could be: "Gee, we can hand out 10,000 more medals; there are a few PCers that don't have them." I doubt that that's the point of the bill.

At least, give us some idea of what we are looking at here in terms of expense and numbers and that sort of thing. That would help us.

3:50

Mr. Mar: Mr. Chairman, in response to this hon. member's good question, I can say that, to the best of my recollection, in the order of precedence, the honours system in Ottawa, we cannot confer more than 9,000 in total. I can further advise that there simply isn't the time to confer a thousand more medals on anyone.

At this point what's contemplated is one. Mr. Chairman, there may be circumstances where it may be more than one, but this amendment is simply to reciprocate the honour that the province of Saskatchewan wishes to confer upon our Premier. So I can honestly tell the member that what's contemplated now is one. There may be other exceptional circumstances, but at this point the answer to his question is one.

The Chair: Are you ready for the question on Bill 58, the Alberta Centennial Medal Amendment Act, 2005?

Hon. Members: Question.

[The clauses of Bill 58 agreed to]

[Title and preamble agreed to]

The Chair: Shall the bill be reported? Are you agreed?

Hon. Members: Agreed.

The Chair: Opposed? Carried.

Bill 43
Alberta Resource Rebate Statutes
Amendment Act, 2005

The Chair: Are there any comments or questions with respect to this bill? The hon. Member for Edmonton-Glenora.

Dr. B. Miller: Yes. I think I'm the last speaker in Committee of the Whole consideration of Bill 43 on the rebate. I'm not going to say very much at all. I just want to make a moral statement. I was in a discussion with a group at a church in the city of Edmonton, and the majority – in fact, I think it was unanimous – of people there were against the rebate for the simple reason that giving $400 to every person in Alberta does not recognize the inequality that exists in our province. So if the moral issue is one of trying to value equality by giving the same amount of money to every person, that flies in the face of the fact of inequality because $400, of course, means nothing to someone with wealth. To someone who is poor, of course, it means a great deal.

But as one woman said to me, a woman who is on AISH – she receives about $950 a month – she would gladly receive the $400 cheque and the next one and the next one and the next one because, really, what this bill is overlooking is the fact that it's our basic programs that need support, the basic programs that would deal with people who are living in poverty. They need support on a continuous basis.

I came across this quote in an article reviewing the history of the welfare system, and I think it's very important.

There is a difference between the reasonable expectation of receiving a service and a possibly random act of mercy. The certainty of being entitled to the equal distribution of basic services and options is a valuable achievement.

I think that what's really important in our society if we're going to deal with the issues of poverty is that we have basic services that are reliable, that are there on a continuous basis. This $400 gift is not the granting of a service or a program. It is more like a random act of mercy. In fact, Mr. Chairman, I would say that it's just a random act. It's just an act without rationale. It's an arbitrary act. There's no plan, no ongoing plan. Alaska has had a plan for many, many years of giving out dividend cheques every year. This is just a random act.

I think, Mr. Chairman, that what we need is a rationale, a plan for the long-term future, a plan in which we would take a public good – the surplus is a public good. It belongs to the people of Alberta, to be sure, but we need to use that public good for the common good and to invest it in programs and basic services and invest it in the long-term future. If there is a moral issue here, I think the moral issue is one of intergenerational equity because what we're doing is we're taking the surplus from the resources, from oil and gas, and we're spending it now instead of investing it for the long-term future.

So, Mr. Chairman, those are just a couple of the ethical questions that I wanted to raise. I think the debate has been a good one. Those are my comments. Let's get on with getting it out of Committee of the Whole.

Mr. Martin: Well, it will get out. I won't go on very long. [some applause] Thank you. Thank you. I love it when I get applause in this place.

The point that I want to make – I won't talk about the priorities of where the money should go in terms of social programs and that, but I want to come back to a debate that we had here. I see that the Minister of Economic Development is here. If we believe that part of this money should be given to people, especially people of middle or lower income, that they need some sort of tax break – and that was, I think, the argument that was given – then it seems to me that we have to move in much more of a permanent way in terms of a tax reduction that actually helps the people that we're talking about.

Nobody is going to turn down the $400. Some of those people need it. As a result, as I said at the time, we're not going to vote against this particular bill, but I come back and say again that if we want to get money to those people, it can't be on a hit-and-miss basis because once we start this – and I use the example of Alaska with the dividends – people demand sort of the same money every year. They get used to having that. And as their dividend fund keeps going down, people are still demanding. That's the problem you run into.

So I don't know what the plans are in the future. Are we going to have rebate 2 next year, rebate 3 the following year? That's, I think, a serious problem that we have to deal with because, again, I would argue that the oil industry in downtown Calgary doesn't need the $400. Some people do. If that's the case, then, if we want to give some sort of more permanent taxation room, the easiest way is to raise the exemption at the lower level and, especially, get rid of medicare premiums, which are a regressive tax. Now, I know that costs money over the long haul, but the reality is, I think, that we could afford it. That would be the best taxation relief, and people struggling and middle-income and lower income families could count on that money coming in every year. So here we have $400 this year. Is it going to be there next year? People will gladly take it. So I think that's the point.

The other debate is: well, this is the best way to spend the money in social programs and the rest of it. It shouldn't be an either/or sort of situation, as far as I'm concerned. That's the point that I want to make because it seems to us that it wasn't well thought out. It came all of a sudden out of the blue. We could have predicted back with the budget a while ago that we were going to have a big surplus because we were told $2 billion, and then it was $5 billion and then $8 billion, you know, within a week or so. I'd like to know where the government is going in the next year. Is it going to be, as I say, rebate 2? Rebate 3? If we get into that, it becomes a very difficult thing to sustain if our oil and gas revenues go down.

I think a much better way, as I said – I just want to say it again – would have been to raise the exemptions a little bit and to get rid of medicare premiums, not for private insurance but to give people a little more money in their pockets, the people that actually need the money. They could look at that in a more permanent way. I wish the government would have gone in that direction. I'll certainly be looking forward to the spring budget to see where we're going with all of this.

Thank you, Mr. Chairman.

[The clauses of Bill 43 agreed to]

[Title and preamble agreed to]

The Chair: Shall the bill be reported? Are you agreed?

Hon. Members: Agreed.

The Chair: Opposed? That's carried.

4:00

Bill 44

Residential Tenancies Amendment Act, 2005 (No. 2)

The Chair: Are there any comments or questions or amendments in regard to this bill? The hon. Minister of Government Services.

Mr. Lund: Thank you, Mr. Chairman. As you know, this bill is simply setting up the residential tenancy dispute resolution service. Due to the leniency of the chair in second reading there were a lot of questions asked and I tried to answer them. I did miss a couple, so I will just briefly touch on those.

One was from the hon. Member for Edmonton-McClung. He commented that tenant/landlord conflicts are rarely simple and frequently involve complex issues relating to things like child welfare, health, disability, language barriers, et cetera. Certainly, that's true. Those do occur. What would happen, then, is that the hearing officer would identify that there are things that are outside the scope of the Residential Tenancies Act and therefore would refer it to the court.

Another question that was asked that I didn't cover. The hon. member asked about whether it was Provincial Court or Court of Queen's Bench. The type that we just referred to would be going to Provincial Court. The only time that it wouldn't be going to Provincial Court would be where there was a claim that amounted to over $25,000, which therefore would go to Court of Queen's Bench. There could be a claim that maybe was $30,000 or $40,000, and one of the things that we would be watching for was to make sure that those weren't split into two claims and therefore avoid going to Court of Queen's Bench. But otherwise they would go to the Provincial Court.

I missed one question as well from the hon. Member for Edmonton-Centre. Question 2: what does the minister anticipate would be the fee for these mediators? The fact is that the mediators would be hired through the public service and therefore would be paid on a salary basis depending on a range that they would qualify for.

Mr. Chairman, I believe that that covers all the questions that were asked in second reading.

The Chair: The hon. Member for Edmonton-McClung.

Mr. Elsalhy: Thank you, Mr. Chairman. Again, I would like to thank the hon. Minister of Government Services for initially sharing the amendment with us and for trying today to reply to some of the concerns and questions that we raised in earlier debate.

I would thus move that all hon. members of this Assembly accept the amendments, and I'm hoping to co-operate with the government side on future projects. Thank you.

The Chair: The hon. Member for Edmonton-Beverly-Clareview.

Mr. Martin: Yeah. Just very quickly, Mr. Chairman. I believe the minister said – and correct me, because it's been a while and I haven't had a chance to look at the bill – that this is a pilot project in Edmonton and that it would run for a year and see where it goes. I certainly support the thrust of this bill. Any time we can keep these disputes out of the courts, I think, everybody is better served.

I know that the city of Edmonton, in particular, has signalled its intention that it wants to shut down its Landlord and Tenant Advisory Board. For a lot of the issues that they deal with, the laws are province-wide. I take it that the purpose of trying this in Edmonton would be to see if we could have a province-wide board that would do some of the same things. Is that the goal ultimately, Mr. Chair?

Mr. Lund: Mr. Chairman, that's absolutely true. The difference between what we're setting up here and the committee that the city has is that they are a mediation whereas we're setting up something that is more formal, quasi-judicial. It's still not a court, but it has more power to enforce the Residential Tenancies Act. That would be the purpose of it. It is for one year, and we will be evaluating it as we go. If, in fact, it turns out that it works – and we think it will – then we would be expanding it to across the province because currently there is in excess of 5,000 of these disputes in the province.

Edmonton happens to have about 2,100 of them, so I thought it was an excellent place to try the pilot.

[The clauses of Bill 44 agreed to]

[Title and preamble agreed to]

The Chair: Shall the bill be reported? Are you agreed?

Hon. Members: Agreed.

The Chair: Opposed? Carried.

Bill 53
Surface Rights Amendment Act, 2005

The Chair: Are there any comments, questions, or amendments? The hon. Member for Peace River.

Mr. Oberle: Thank you, Mr. Chairman. I'm pleased to rise and open remarks on Bill 53. Just briefly, I'd like to respond to two comments by the hon. Member for Edmonton-Decore that arose in second reading.

First of all, the Member for Edmonton-Decore was concerned about how the Surface Rights Board would handle payments to landowners. I'm pleased to inform him that the Surface Rights Board would just use the existing process, the same principles of compensation as with any other right-of-entry applications to cover the same loss provisions.

Also, the member asked about consultations. I'm pleased to inform him that the Alberta Environment Oil and Gas Reclamation and Remediation Advisory Committee was consulted. This committee is made up of stakeholder representatives: landowners, the municipal and provincial governments, and nongovernment organizations. In fact, this bill arose out of a recommendation of that committee.

Thank you, Mr. Chairman.

The Chair: The hon. Member for Edmonton-McClung.

Mr. Elsalhy: Thank you, Mr. Chairman. I rise today on behalf of my hon. colleague from Edmonton-Decore to conclude debate on Bill 53. In reviewing it, I noticed that it's not a malicious bill. It's useful. It offers a solution for those situations where the agency that was looking after the site has to regain access to that site to offer some cleaning up or to fix or remedy a problem or an environmental situation that needs attention. I don't think we're necessarily opposed to it, as was voiced by my hon. colleague.

I thank the sponsor of the bill, the hon. Member for Peace River, for his answers in this stage of debate. We will continue to look forward to co-operation on surface rights issues because it is on people's minds, in the rural setting particularly, because there is an apparent conflict between the rights of the landowner and the rights of the operator, and we need to achieve a happy medium that recognizes and appreciates and respects the rights and also the duties of both.

In doing so, I thank him again, and I move that we all accept this amendment. Thank you.

4:10

The Chair: The hon. Member for Edmonton-Beverly-Clareview.

Mr. Martin: Yeah. Just a question. This seems to be sort of what we call no-brainer legislation, that if there's reclamation, we have to do it. It seems to me that it would always be to the benefit of a producer, if they had land that needed to be reclaimed, to have this done. I was sort of curious as to why we needed this legislation. Has this been a serious problem in the past, where the landowner refuses, even though there's environmental damage and the rest of it? Or is this just that we're being proactive, that we need this? I want to understand why we're having this legislation brought forward at this time.

Mr. Oberle: Mr. Chairman, to the best of my knowledge there are no situations presently where this has occurred. I think it's more of a proactive move recommended by, as I said, the stakeholder advisory committee

[The clauses of Bill 53 agreed to]

[Title and preamble agreed to]

The Chair: Shall the bill be reported? Are you agreed?

Hon. Members: Agreed.

The Chair: Opposed? Carried.

Bill 54
Alberta Centennial Education
Savings Plan Amendment Act, 2005

The Chair: Are there any comments, questions, or amendments with regard to this bill? The hon. Member for Calgary-Currie.

Mr. Taylor: Thank you, Mr. Chairman. Just very briefly, to put on the record. We on this side of the House with the Official Opposition did have problems with the Alberta centennial education savings plan when it first came out specifically because of the restrictions on eligibility, that this amending bill takes care of. Before Bill 54 came through, only children born in or after the centennial year were eligible for the centennial education savings plan. The amendment act enables students born before centennial year 2005 to be eligible for the second element of the grant program, the supplemental grants of $100 provided to parents with RESPs, provided the parents also match this contribution. This is exactly what should have been done from the get-go. Better late than never. We're pleased to support it.

[The clauses of Bill 54 agreed to]

[Title and preamble agreed to]

The Chair: Shall the bill be reported? Are you agreed?

Hon. Members: Agreed.

The Chair: Opposed? Carried.

Bill 56
Business Corporations Amendment Act, 2005 (No. 2)

The Chair: Any comments, questions, or amendments in regard to this bill? The hon. Member for Edmonton-Centre.

Ms Blakeman: Thanks very much, Mr. Chairman. I know that some of my colleagues have spoken to this during second reading. It appears that what's being contemplated here is primarily housekeeping, but it does include a two-year limit of liability for the former shareholder of an unlimited liability corporation. It's currently unlimited and joint and several, and this is proposing that it would limit the liability of the former shareholders to two years after the former shareholder ceases to be a shareholder. Boy, nothing is ever simple in business terms, eh?

We're willing to support this although we have some cautions. I believe that we had put our questions on the record during second, but our concerns were around whether this limitation would free the former shareholders who may have been involved in, for example, unethical activities. Does it allow them to escape responsibility for their actions? If that did happen, then who would be responsible or who could be held responsible for it?

As I said, it's primarily housekeeping. We just wanted to make sure that this wasn't allowing any additional wiggle room. Certainly, I think those in the private sector should be held to a very high standard of behaviour, and I would expect that this bill would be upholding that.

Thank you.

The Chair: The hon. Member for Calgary-Nose Hill.

Dr. Brown: Thank you, Mr. Chairman. If I could respond to some of the concerns that have been raised in second reading regarding the issue, primarily, of the obligations of former shareholders of unlimited liability corporations following dissolution of those corporations.

I believe that the concern stems around the possible shortening, as it's perceived, of the liability period for persons who are in breach of some ethics or make some transgressions during the course of their tenure as a shareholder and may no longer be with the corporation. If you read the existing section 15.7, it refers to "the liability of shareholders for obligations of the unlimited liability corporation." There is no exculpation of liability for shareholders for personal wrongdoings, but rather after two years from the period of dissolution there would no longer be liability for the obligations of the corporate entity itself.

I don't think that there's anything there that would remove the present limitations in the Limitations Act of Alberta, which presently provides for two years from the date of discovery of some wrongdoing and a 10-year ultimate limitation period. So I believe that those would continue to apply to someone who had committed a transgression while a shareholder of the unlimited liability corporation. It's only the obligations of the corporation that are being referred to here. I think that was the intention of the legislation as it was originally drafted. Unfortunately, the drafting did not make it clear.

I'd just point out also that the Business Corporations Act presently provides such provisions for a two-year period of limitation after the dissolution of the corporation for liability.

The Chair: The hon. Member for Edmonton-McClung.

Mr. Elsalhy: Thank you, Mr. Chairman. I rise today to participate at this stage of debate in discussing Bill 56, Business Corporations Amendment Act, 2005 (No. 2). Of course, this is the second time this year that we revisit this statute, talking about the unlimited liability corporations and so forth. As was voiced by my hon. colleagues from both Edmonton-Gold Bar and Edmonton-Centre, we are in support of this bill. We like the idea that it is streamlining this legislation with others like it in Canada and that it clarifies the language and clarifies the clauses of the act to closely follow and mimic other jurisdictions.

I appreciate the opportunity that I had to have met with the hon. minister initially when this bill was part of the Miscellaneous Statutes Amendment Act and the other opportunities I had with the hon. sponsor of the bill from Calgary-Nose Hill because he definitely has a lot of legal experience and he can understand the language and the convolutions of these clauses and subclauses and sections and all the legal mumbo-jumbo, basically.

4:20

However, the question that was answered today was about the two-year limit. When we met, we raised the issue that maybe personal culpability, as it was referred to, and being liable as a shareholder of a corporation for things that are beyond the corporation's actions, being personally liable criminally or financially, was not discussed here. However, it is not a big enough concern for us to stall the progress of this bill, so with that, I would invite all hon. members to support it.

I thank you for this opportunity.

The Chair: The hon. Member for Edmonton-Gold Bar.

Mr. MacDonald: Thank you very much, Mr. Chairman. I rise this afternoon in regard to Bill 56 to express my gratitude to the hon. member for his diligence in providing answers to the questions that we had from second reading last evening.

Thank you.

[The clauses of Bill 56 agreed to]

[Title and preamble agreed to]

The Chair: Shall the bill be reported? Are you agreed?

Hon. Members: Agreed.

The Chair: Opposed? Carried.

Bill 57 Apprenticeship and Industry Training Amendment Act, 2005

The Chair: Are there any questions or comments regarding the bill?

Mr. Hancock: Very briefly, Mr. Chairman. There were a number of issues raised last night in debate on second reading. I just wanted to assure the hon. Member for Edmonton-Manning that there's no intention whatsoever to denigrate any trades. In fact, it's been my effort to promote trade training and trade certification. This bill simply is intended to correct an error. If there are other issues that we need to deal with with respect to trade certification, trade training, and valuing trades, I'd invite the hon. member to come and sit with me at some point, and we can discuss those and determine how we can do more to ensure that both compulsory trades and other trades are valued and to allay any fears of compartmentalizing or taking apart the trades into individual skills. I'd be more than happy to have that discussion with him. This bill is not about that, and I encourage support.

The Chair: The hon. Member for Edmonton-Manning.

Mr. Backs: Thank you, Mr. Chairman. I'm very pleased to rise to speak on Bill 57, and I'm heartened by the minister's statements. I will take him up on that, and I look forward to speaking about the problems that many tradesmen have related to me about optional certification, perhaps some of the difficulties of enforcement, and some of the other things.

I understand that we are looking to move quickly through the debates here today. I did touch on a number of things last night in second reading.

That's all I have to say today. Thank you, Mr. Chair.

[The clauses of Bill 57 agreed to]

[Title and preamble agreed to]

The Chair: Shall the bill be reported? Are you agreed?

Hon. Members: Agreed.

The Chair: Opposed? Carried.

Bill 51
Appropriation (Supplementary Supply) Act,
2005 (No. 2)

The Chair: Are there any comments or questions? The hon. Member for Edmonton-McClung.

Mr. Elsalhy: Thank you, Mr. Chair, for this opportunity to participate in this discussion on Bill 51, Appropriation (Supplementary Supply) Act, 2005 (No. 2), in Committee of the Whole. I would start off by saying that while I realize and appreciate the need to allocate the unbudgeted surplus revenues to programs and services for Albertans, I must repeat my concerns which I voiced back in the spring when we discussed the initial supplementary supply figures for this year.

Many speakers before me in second reading and in committee have asked the same question: why the rush? Why is this government cramming things through when the decisions we reach here today are this significant? Why not slow down a little and examine all our options so the amounts we earmarked or spent are allocated wisely and appropriately?

Mr. Chairman, supplementary supply this time around is roughly $1.8 billion. A whopping six hours of debate was allocated for this meagre sum of money: $1.8 billion that was discussed in six hours.

Ms Blakeman: Wow. How much is that a minute?

Mr. Elsalhy: It roughly translates into about $5 million per minute. I think this is not only ridiculous, it should not be happening.

The Conservative government has basically scheduled 17 minutes per department for this debate. The 17 minutes were not even guaranteed for each department, so some departments received a little longer; some departments received no debate whatsoever. Democracy is not well in this province.

What is happening during the fall sitting of the Legislature is a symptom of a larger problem. Major decisions are being made behind closed doors, and funding is announced after the fact. Things are spent first, and then we bring them to the Legislature to talk about them in retrospect. Things are done without public consultation and without planning. The MLAs are expected and are entrusted to ask questions of the government, especially on financial issues, but their authority and their mandate is undermined.

A few misguided Conservative MLAs say that there is no need for the opposition to question the government decisions and that all is fine. The Premier himself once was quoted as saying that decisions pertaining to how the surplus is spent are none of the opposition's business. This is simply not acceptable.

Their federal Conservative cousins, for example, have suggested that Parliament set up an independent advisory council to advise the federal government and Parliament on how to allocate unbudgeted surplus revenues. What a novel idea. But I don't see the local Conservatives willing to relinquish the power or the control that they hold to an independent, arms-length, impartial, and objective organization. No. They want to keep it all, so they can be Santa when they please or Scrooge when they so decide.

Anyway, today I'm going to focus on things which I was disturbed to find missing from this supplementary supply, particularly as pertains to Health and Wellness. The Alberta Liberal plan for health care includes different initiatives, which can be summarized in the following brief points. One, maintaining and strengthening our public health care system by doing things like establishing an independent health auditor, restoring accountability by going back to having elected regional health authorities, and modifying the fiscal year for those health authorities so that they can plan their business and approve it before the provincial budget comes down.

Two, ensuring better access to care and reducing waiting times for medical treatments and surgeries. A subset of this would be to aggressively recruit and train sufficient numbers of physicians and other health professionals and ensure that there are enough residency training spots. Here an Alberta Liberal government would re-examine the roles and scope of practice of all health care professionals . . .

An Hon. Member: What about pharmacists?

Mr. Elsalhy: And other health care professionals including pharmacists, yes. Evaluating alternative and innovative methods of payment for doctors, including services like palliative care and midwifery as core health services, and offering full recognition and top-notch training to our nurse practitioners.

Three, using tobacco tax revenue to establish a community wellness fund to support wellness and positive lifestyle initiatives and expand family and community support services, FCSS, to build stronger, healthier communities from the ground up.

4:30

None of these ideas were considered when all this money was spent. Roughly $1.4 billion was allocated to this ministry alone, and perhaps rightly so. We do need investing in our health care system. Health is on everyone's mind. The system needs to be better, to be improved, and to be strengthened and better managed. Pouring in more money is not the solution, of course, especially when done with no plan whatsoever just to please a certain voter group. Take, for example, the two hospitals for Fort Saskatchewan and Sherwood Park. For so long neither community was listened to. Now all of a sudden they both are. Where is the co-ordination and planning here? This is only one example, Mr. Chair.

This government has to shift its thinking framework from simple brick-and-mortar spending to the more comprehensive realm of investing in people to operate and run these empty shells. We do not need any more ghost houses. We do not want history to repeat itself, where in a few years this government will come around and close wards, or entire hospitals for that matter, pretending to be streamlining service or cutting costs.

My point is simply: what is this government doing to address the shortage of practitioners like I mentioned: physicians, nurses, pharmacists, and other front-line health care workers? All nine health regions are screaming for more practitioners, but particularly – this is of note – in rural Alberta. There is nothing in this supplementary supply bill to try to alleviate this problem, which is both chronic and acute.

Earlier today I tabled information showing at least 82 requests for general practitioners from the Alberta rural physician action plan website. The Alberta Medical Association itself, as illustrated in their physician placement directory, opportunities for employment under their general practice list, is listing six requests for family physicians for the Aspen health region, for example, four for the David Thompson health region, nine for the Calgary health region, and nine for the Capital health region, and this is only their latest bulletin.

People all over this province, particularly new arrivals to any particular town or city, are increasingly having difficulty seeing a family physician. The seemingly standard answer that they receive now is: "Sorry. The doctor cannot see you." The poor patient then asks: "Okay. Can you tell me who would? Where should I go?" In turn he or she is told to check a website for who may be seeing or accepting new patients. The patient goes down the list on that website only to find out that these physicians have various restrictions and wait times, et cetera. Some physicians will only see pregnant mothers. Some physicians will only see children. Some physicians will only see you if you have a life-threatening condition. Winning with a scratch-and-win ticket has better odds than turning up an available doctor, as I was once told.

Older physicians are retiring, we're not graduating enough new grads, and even of those who graduate, a considerable number choose to leave for other Canadian jurisdictions or even south of the border.

Medical school tuition is really costly in this province, and it is only going to get worse as time goes, especially if the Minister of Advanced Education gets his way with deregulating postsecondary education.

We're also complaining about restrictions and unnecessary hurdles put in the path of international medical graduates, referred to as IMGs. The hoops they go through are unreal and unnecessary. Instead of practising in their much-needed fields, they drive taxis, clean toilets, or pump gas at gas stations. Why aren't we accelerating their equivalency accreditation? Why is this government stalling? The federal government some years back did establish a task force to examine ways of removing obstacles in the accreditation process. What has this provincial government done to match that?

At a recent meeting in Cold Lake between the hon. Minister of Infrastructure and Transportation and the local chamber of commerce the hon. minister explained why Alberta has a shortage of physicians. He indicated that when he graduated from medical school quite a few years back and opened his first practice in Cold Lake in 1983, there were 125 graduating physicians in Edmonton and another 95 in Calgary. He said that part of the problem now is that this number is going down. He also indicated that universities in this province do not have the physical space to accommodate more medical students, and even so, those medical schools do not prepare doctors for rural communities.

Another reason that he quoted was the change in demographics. Now we have more physicians who are females, and some of them might not want to practise full time or might find it less desirable to practise in the rural setting. He also went on to say, and I quote: I'm still of the belief that if you were brought up in rural Alberta, you will return to rural Alberta. But the statistics do not bear that out.

So, again, what are we doing to attract and retain top-notch practitioners in the rural setting? What can we do to alleviate that pressure that is faced by our small towns and cities?

In a recent study conducted by researchers at a western Canadian university, it was confirmed that far more medical students are choosing specialty medicine over family practice, and the author of this study, a Dr. Fraser Brenneis, indicated that in his opinion there were many factors or reasons, one of which was, again, the rising tuition and debt that the students incur as they're going through their postsecondary education. They graduate – yes, physicians make a decent living – but their hands are tied. They're wearing cement boots, and you're just asking them to service that debt for many years to come.

Another reason that was quoted is the type of relationship students have with their patients. Again, this is an area where some much-needed help and much-needed life support from the province has to come in to allow more physicians to practise in the rural setting and perhaps also nurse practitioners and pharmacists, that are now getting more prescribing rights, and so on.

To summarize, the plight of both urban and rural Alberta, their needs and their desire to have qualified physicians and competent front-line health care workers, is real, and it is here. There is nothing in this supplementary supply that even tried to address this. I don't discredit and I don't disqualify and I don't argue with the need for acute-care beds, and I don't argue with the need for a hospital in Calgary. I don't argue with the need for a hospital in either Fort Saskatchewan or Sherwood Park but not both. Really, we have to look at the people. It's not only bricks and mortar. It's the people who run these services and run these facilities who we should be focusing on.

With this, I just wanted to express my surprise and my frustration that $1.4 billion did not even try to address the chronic shortage of practitioners that we have in this province, that is now becoming more acute and more real and more scary. With that, I look forward to hearing more debate.

Thank you, sir.

The Chair: The hon. Member for Lethbridge-East.

Ms Pastoor: Thank you, Mr. Speaker.

Some Hon. Members: Chairman.

Ms Pastoor: Chairman. I'm sorry. Well, I had two voices. I wasn't sure which was which.

I actually have some really pretty straightforward questions on Seniors and Community Supports. I'm certainly delighted with the dollars that have been put forward, but a lot of this is towards the bricks and mortar, which are more than necessary in this province.

One of the questions I would have is that there appears to be a discrepancy between the two announcements. One came out of the department, and one came out of the Premier's office. What came out of the department was $109 million, and what came out of the Premier's office was $140 million. So there's a discrepancy there that I'm not sure that I understand.

Another thing. With the $50 million that had been previously announced for rural affordable supportive living, they speak of a 50-50 split, with the other 50 being private or the voluntary sector. So my question on that would be: are these going to be P3s, and is there any expectation that the municipalities or that the health regions would be included in that other 50 per cent? What would be the eligibility criteria to build these, either supportive living, the urban affordable housing, and the rural affordable housing? What criteria are you going to use as to who is actually going to provide the building?

4:40

Will the minister require that all of the homes outline in unambiguous terms who is responsible for the cost and delivery of the services? That really has two or three expansions on it. Who would be responsible for the services, the actual delivery of the building, but, then, also the services that could well be divided into that building, which would be the housing part of it; i.e., housecleaning and all those sort of things?

Then we go out, actually, out of this department and into the next one, which of course would be the care. Would the minister create a website where all the facilities are required to fully disclose their staffing, levels of service, programs, and all the related costs and fees? I believe that would be very fair to anyone who is under a crisis. Unfortunately, many people who are moving into these sorts of facilities, particularly the elderly elderly, are usually in a crisis to find some place to live. I think it's only fair that if they move into someplace, they understand fully what they are paying for and what they can expect to get.

The other part about the supportive living is that it does cover many, many different levels, and I'm more than aware that there will be standards and hopefully very, very clear definitions coming down by the end of the year relating to, really, what supportive living means. Is it lodges or enhanced lodges, et cetera, et cetera, in that whole continuum of conversation? What I would like to know is if by expanding what we call supportive living, is it going to be a replacement for long-term care because residents then cover more of their costs? How many supportive living homes currently exist in Alberta? Again, that may be, in fairness, difficult to actually answer because supportive living can be about five different kinds of definitions. So I appreciate that that will probably be difficult to answer.

How many designated assisted living are going to be built? Again the same problem: what is designated living? Does it fall under supportive living, or is it supportive living? But my question on that one would be: how many of those, meaning any kind of a definition for those buildings, are being used to replace long-term care facilities?

In the administration the joint agreement between Canada and Alberta says that the program, the affordable housing program, would be administered by Alberta Seniors and Community Supports, and it says that the department is responsible for the selection of affordable housing projects. My question on those would be: what is the criteria that you'd be using on who would be bringing them forward? Who would be on that committee that would choose the affordable housing projects? How will the public at large be represented on that group? Also, how would families be represented on that selection committee?

Again on the joint Canada/Alberta affordable housing program, they're saying that the federal assistance is 50 per cent of the capital costs to a maximum of $75,000 a unit, which I believe has been raised. Now, I'm not sure what the definition of a unit is because $75,000 for a studio apartment seems like a tremendous amount of money. So I'm not sure if that is speaking about a $75,000 door, which then includes the unit, or just what that unit definition would be. Who would actually determine what that definition is?

I think that, Mr. Chairman, pretty much covers my questions. I just wanted them to be pretty straightforward and direct, and I certainly look forward to the answers. Thank you.

The Chair: The hon. Member for Edmonton-Glenora.

Dr. B. Miller: Thank you, Mr. Chairman. I, too, along with our hon. Member for Edmonton-McClung want to express my concern about the lack of time for debate of such a serious amount of money, $1.8 billion. Six hours of debate is not enough. It equals $300 million an hour. Every minute $5 million will be debated.

In my previous job working in a church, we had a budget of about less than half a million, on which we spent hours looking at every line in the budget, being responsible because in a church it's money that people have voluntarily given. Here in the province money that comes from people through taxation – we're considering so much money and not enough debate. One word that I carry over from my previous career is the word "stewardship." You know, our responsibility as members of the Legislature is to act as good stewards of the wonderful resources that we have in this province. It doesn't seem to me to be an act of responsible stewardship to spend such little time debating such serious issues.

I want to make some comments about the Solicitor General and Public Security supplementary estimates. The Solicitor General's department's request for additional money is to the amount of "$7,392,000 for additional operating costs primarily resulting from staff salary settlements in 2005-06." If there had been time for debate, I could have asked the Solicitor General a number of questions about what these numbers actually mean. Going through the list, there are a number of additional funds being asked for for different areas; for example, an additional $162,000 for strategic services, another $20,000 and $47,000 for the minister's office and the deputy minister's office, $112,000 for information management, $143,000 under the security services branch for protection services. Security operations asked for an additional $688,000. Adult remand and correctional centres asked for an additional $4,040,000.

It's not clear to me whether this is all having to do with increases in salaries or other items. There's no breakdown, and I don't know how to get an answer to that. The young offender centres, for example: an additional $868,000. Under community corrections another $783,000. In terms of community corrections I'm very interested in the support to youth justice committees because I think that they are underfunded, and I don't know whether this money goes at all to youth justice committees. If it's all to salary increases, I don't understand why that couldn't have been in the original budget. What kind of planning is involved here when this has to be added for salary increases? Don't we know when those increases are going to come?

What is not in here is more serious. I have been asking questions in the House about the spending support, financial support for policing in Alberta. I have mentioned a number of times in questions to the Solicitor General that I think the funding for policing in Alberta is too little. We're falling behind other provinces. We're not keeping up with the kind of policing that we need.

Many of us in our constituencies work closely with community groups that are concerned about crime in our community. In my own constituency there's a crime council in one area of the constituency. There's a caring and safe community group in another area. These committees work with the police, and we're very impressed by the willingness of the police to work in our communities with people to discuss how to deal with increasing crime in many neighbourhoods. It becomes clear that many people feel a great deal of insecurity because they're not sure that there are enough police on the streets. Now, when you get outside of our major centres into the rural areas, there's even a greater concern about whether there are enough police in local detachments and whether they'll be there for people when there are crimes.

4:50

Now, in terms of the statistics the province of Alberta falls short of other provinces in Canada when it comes to funding municipal policing. In 2003 the per capita expenditures by the province rated the lowest of all provinces. Alberta had the lowest per capita provincial contribution of all provinces at $33.3 per capita in total funding. By comparison, the province of Newfoundland and Labrador had the highest provincial contribution at $130 per capita. Other provinces, like Ontario and B.C., both had substantially higher rates of per capita funding than Alberta. For 2004 the province increased its share to $42 per capita total funding for municipal funding. However, it is safe to assume that unless other provinces made dramatic cuts to their contributions for policing, the province of Alberta continues to contribute fewer funds for policing than any other jurisdiction.

This is serious, especially for cities like Edmonton and Calgary. I know that in response to the Mayerthorpe tragedy there was an increase in the number of RCMP officers in rural areas, and that is a good thing, but unfortunately for the cities we still remain underfunded. Huge additional money to the budget for the Solicitor General, $7.392 million, but none of that translates into more policing for our cities.

Now, I think this is a very serious issue. I brought up many times that there's a problem with the formula. In negotiating with municipalities, the formula is too low. When we were in southern Alberta, we had some conversation with the mayor of Taber. Taber has its own municipal police force, and it has to spend over a million dollars a year on its small detachment for municipal policing, but it only gets about $264,000 from the province. It puts the town of Taber in a great deal of difficulty trying to raise the rest of the money. They get some money from revenues from speeding tickets and so on, but mostly they have to raise the rest from their own municipal revenues. The problem is planning. A town like Taber can't plan ahead in terms of where the money is going to be because it doesn't know what the formula is going to be from one year to the next. This is a very serious issue.

I was hoping there would be more attention to the basic funding of policing in the appropriation supply increases, but nothing here, and I don't know whether I'll ever get any answer to the questions that I'm bringing. Those are my questions, Mr. Chairman.

The Chair: The hon. Member for Edmonton-Beverly-Clareview.

Mr. Martin: Thank you, Mr. Chairman. Supplementary estimates: $1.8 billion. I remember that there was a time when supplementary estimates were a necessity, but they were there for emergencies. That's what the purpose of them was back then. Now they've become just part of the government. We don't need to take the budget seriously in the spring because we know we can bring billions and billions in later on in supplementary estimates. To me this is abuse of the Legislature, to be looking at these sorts of figures.

I look here at $1.8 billion. I look at all the departments that seem to have emergencies: Advanced Education, Agriculture, Food and Rural Development, Children's Services, Community Development, Education, Environment, Gaming, Health and Wellness, Infrastructure and Transportation, Municipal Affairs, Seniors and Community Supports, Solicitor General and Public Security, and Sustainable Resource Development. I mean, if we handled our household budgets in this way, Mr. Chairman, we'd all be going broke. This government comes here, and, you know, we're lucky if we get six hours because with these sorts of little procedures, we can shorten that for the $1.8 billion. I thought that we were going to get six hours from what happened last night. This will be over at 5:15, and we're dealing with $1.8 billion. Not $1.8 million; $1.8 billion. This $1.8 billion is probably more of a budget than some of the smaller provinces even have, and here we are dealing with it in this way.

I wish this government, who talk about being fiscal conservatives, would realize that this is not the way to budget. We have to make a lot of changes, I believe, in this order. That's why my colleague from Edmonton-Strathcona brought in Standing Order 40, just to try to draw back to the members what we're doing here. Of course, the government side says that they didn't want a debate about the budget. No, they don't want to debate about $1.8 billion, Mr. Chair. They just want to say: let's just pass it and move on. This is: "We're the government. We can do whatever we want." The fact is, I would remind them, that they had fewer votes than the opposition in the last provincial election. Things are changing, and this is partly why things are changing.

I remind you that this is just the beginning of it. After we brought in the budget in the spring, Mr. Chairman, we spent over $4 billion on things that may have been desirable, some of the things, but surely if they're desirable, you can plan a budget around them. We're looking at probably $6 billion that were unaccounted for in the budget that we're dealing with here after the fact. I suggest to you that that's just not the way to run a government.

We have to make some changes. Some of the budget estimates should be debated in committee so that we can look into them in a little more detail. We need other democratic changes. The chairman of Public Accounts is here, and I know that he would agree. We need to be able to bring in some democratic changes. We've had one-party rule here too long, and this is why we're dealing with this sort of money, Mr. Chairman, $1.8 billion in supplementary estimates. We'll be lucky if we get six hours. We'll probably get three or four hours to debate this. I think members that call themselves conservatives fiscally should be ashamed of this sort of performance. They should be ashamed of it.

I say to the members, some of them who need things to do on the backbench over there, that perhaps they could start to tell the Government House Leader sitting across there and others that they find this unacceptable, that they find this approach unacceptable. If we're all elected to look after the taxpayer, we can have a debate about priorities – that's what it's all about – but surely there should be no debate about how we handle the finances of this province. To pass $1.8 billion in a matter of probably three hours if we're lucky, with all these departments that all of a sudden had emergencies, not even counting the over $4 billion that was spent on new programs that they couldn't figure out to budget for before, I find unacceptable. Surely the people of Alberta would find that unacceptable. I know that the Minister of Economic Development will – glad to give you some time, Mr. Minister, because we love it when you stand up and speak.

Mr. Chairman, there's no more evidence of the democratic deficit that we have in this province than what we're doing right here: $1.8 billion, as I say, plus the $4 billion. As legislators we should all be ashamed of this because we have no idea of where this money is going. We know that all of a sudden a bunch of departments had emergencies, but supplementary estimates should be for what they were intended to be, for emergencies that you couldn't foresee in the budget, not for this type of approach. As I say, this government is going to have to learn some lessons. Maybe they should go back to NAIT or something and take bookkeeping 10 so that they can begin to figure out how to budget.

Thank you, Mr. Chairman.

The Chair: The hon. Member for Edmonton-Manning.

5:00

Mr. Backs: Thank you, Mr. Chairman. I'm pleased to rise to speak to supplementary estimates, I suppose. The supplementary estimates that we're looking at will authorize a $1,531,247,000 increase in voted expense or expense and equipment/inventory purchases, a $234,150,000 increase in voted capital investment, and a $5,000,000 increase in voted lottery fund payments. The nature of the problem is in dealing with supplementary estimates in such amounts and all of the ways that this government seems to deal with sort of seat-of-the-pants management, which we see so often. We've seen it in the $400 short-term gift, or whatever you want to call it, that's being sent out to everybody in the new year.

Mr. MacDonald: Legacy payment.

Mr. Backs: Legacy payment, I'm informed by the Member for Edmonton-Gold Bar.

The reality here is that there is no budgetary process in Alberta. There's the spring spending and there's the fall spending and then there's the supplementary spending that we get again later on.

Mr. Taylor: Don't forget the drunken spending.

Mr. Backs: Maybe there's the drunken spending, I understand from some of the members here.

The reality is that there is no plan; there is no budget. There's just an ability to say: oh, we need this tomorrow or next month or maybe in two months. To go beyond that, to actually budget for a year is not what happens in Alberta.

With that said, I see that the Department of Human Resources and Employment, for which I am the critic, did not have any supplementary spending in this. Seeing that we have this three-times-a-year see-what-we're-going-to-spend sort of process, I begin to wonder why Human Resources and Employment does not deal with some of the problems of those payments to people who are deemed the poor in our society. They're not getting real increases. They're not getting dealt with. They're not getting ways to get out of those problems that for some areas of our province create gang violence, create problems and difficulties with many areas of societal development and the children and all the rest of it, and the Human Resources and Employment department did not have one penny, one nickel, one quarter of supplementary supply to debate here. That gives rise to some great concern.

You know, if it was deemed to be a regular budgetary process and all departments were acting in this manner and being responsible, if that was what it was – but it's not that way. We seem to just have time and again these decisions to move when it's handy, to spend when it's handy. I mean, this was very obvious in the type of decision we saw for our so-called September 1 holiday that was to celebrate the Alberta centennial. That was thrown out there and it was going to happen, and then it didn't happen and it wasn't planned ahead and thought ahead and all the rest of it. It turned out that the school kids weren't even scheduled so that they could attend here at our Legislature Grounds ceremonies. It was sad because this is a huge thing, this 100th anniversary for Alberta.

Mind you, I was very pleased today to see that we could cap it off with the welcoming back of the Eskimos. I will just note that my colleague from Edmonton-Decore was able to get on his number 15 Ricky Ray jersey a signature from Ricky Ray and, with that signature on his back, hoist it above his head for a great memento picture. By the way, it was a great thing to end our centennial, and I think the Eskimos and the Eskimos organization again should be commended for all of that.

To end, the problem with the supplementary supply is that it is not a budgetary process. It's something that we see that's not acting as emergency spending. It's something that is part of the way that we seem to be seeing the government spend our monies here in Alberta.

Thank you, Mr. Chairman.

The Chair: The hon. Member for Cardston-Taber-Warner.

Mr. Hinman: Thank you, Mr. Chairman. Being on the football subject, I guess I'd like to maybe start there with this supplemental supply and how we enjoy that, and then go to education.

It's a worry to me that this $1.5 billion is on expense or expense and equipment/inventory purchases. How can supplemental supply be going to that extreme on expenses? We've got a very little amount, $234 million, going into capital investment, which might be something for the future.

What I want to go back to on education, to start with, is that the wonderful, booming metropolis of Raymond, Alberta, came up with a tier 1 championship here in Edmonton. I'm very proud of that little area. If you look at the investment that's put in there, they're getting a $13 million school, which is long overdue.

An Hon. Member: Are you? You're getting a new school?

Mr. Hinman: Yes. My good buddy was down there and announced that. It's in the papers all over. The point is what we can and should do in Alberta, if we allow them to do it. They want to close down rural schools and say: "Well, they're not equitable, you know. It's not a good disbursement of money. We can do it better in the bigger areas." Bigger is not always better. This budget has gotten bigger, and it isn't better. It's become almost a joke when the government says that they don't like picking winners and losers, they don't like being in business, yet here's $1.8 billion. What are they doing with it? Very much influencing business throughout the province.

The sad part, though, is that there is no plan. They talk about a 20-year plan. You don't have a plan unless it's written on a piece of paper and people can see it, and then you're held accountable to it. Many times when we were doing our budget in our business, we would put out our yearly, two-year, three-year, and five-year plan. In that plan we would have our priorities on what we need to do this year, what we'd like to do next year, and then we'd have a wish list in there. The province has none of these things.

The good Member for Edmonton-Glenora talked about the little town of Taber and their struggle with their police force. To me, one of the most discouraging things in this whole supplemental supply is that we have a backlog and a shortage of services throughout the province in policing and in health care for hip replacements, cataracts, all types of areas. If you have the extra money, this was the time to put an injection to get something for it. We need to give the services to Albertans, not just the money. "Here, my friend; here's $5 million to do something on expenses," and we don't know what those expenses are. We have to ask the questions. Where is it going? Why aren't the details here for us to go over and to truly debate where we should be putting it?

Like I say, it's amazing to me that they can stand up and continue saying that they have a plan yet not show it. We need to show it, have it out there. Most importantly – and it was referred to a couple of times – what about a formula? How are we going to have these capital disbursements? How are they going to go to the municipal governments, that really are providing the services for the people? They need to be able to plan not just one year in advance but five years and 10 years. We definitely need to have that plan for them to do their planning because there is a deficit in the infrastructure in this province. They're struggling to meet those ends, yet they're all wondering if and when the lottery is going to come to their town and they're going to be able to address their problems.

5:10

The money going to the health regions. Again, I just want to go over that one. We have $64 million, and once again it's just itemized as expense and equipment. We know the backlog we have on those services in the province. I mentioned earlier this week what I consider a young lady – hasn't reached her 50s yet – who's waiting for a knee replacement.

An Hon. Member: Oh, you're smooth.

Mr. Hinman: Speak up.

An Hon. Member: I said you're smooth: young lady.

Mr. Hinman: She is in my books.

The point is that she's been incapacitated for six months. How much longer is it going to be? That is the type of area. If we were putting this money to services, how many hips could we do? How many policemen could we have? How could we be helping the farmers with some rebates on their high fuel, high fertilizer costs? These are areas where inflation has really hit, yet we don't seem to address any of them, as the good Member for Edmonton-Beverly-Clareview says, on an emergency supply bill. It's very discouraging to be going through all of this stuff like it's an emergency when it isn't. It's more like we're tourists in that foreign country and we've got to jump on a plane, so let's get our money spent before we go back home because the kids are going to have it when we get there.

I guess my final comment on all of this is that it definitely looks like a legacy that they're trying to build. I would not be proud of this legacy of drunken sailor spending. Unfortunately, it's not even the drunken sailor's money; it's the people of Alberta. We need services, not false promises and wondering where and what the money is going to.

Thank you.

The Chair: The hon. Member for Edmonton-Gold Bar.

Mr. MacDonald: Thank you very much, Mr. Chairman. There is a lot to be discussed in this bill, and unfortunately there is so little time. There are things in here that perhaps shouldn't be, and there are things that should be in here that are not. Certainly, when we look at this Legislative Assembly and the priorities that are coming from this government as a result of this appropriation bill, one has to wonder about this government.

I was sitting here, Mr. Chairman, thinking about the Deep Six, the famous group of Progressive Conservative backbenchers in 1993 that were for less government and significantly less government spending. There were six of them obviously.

Mr. Dunford: I wasn't one of them.

Mr. MacDonald: The hon. Member for Lethbridge-West indicates that he was not one of them.

I've forgotten who they were. Certainly, some of them are still in the House, and they are senior government ministers now. I've forgotten the membership of the Deep Six, but this government has forgotten what the Deep Six was all about. This government is now spending money, in my view, in some cases in a very wasteful way.

We could look at some of the priorities that have not been covered. We need to remind ourselves of some of the less fortunate in this province. Let's think, for instance, of the homeless people. The Edmonton community plan on homelessness uses the following definition, Mr. Chairman, for homeless.

A . . . family is considered homeless if:

- the individual or family has no residence at all and is living on the streets; or
- the individual or family is living in any premises which is not intended or suitable as a permanent residence; or
- the individual or family is at risk of becoming homeless
 - (a) through losing their residence, or
 - (b) through being discharged from an institution/facility and has nowhere to go, or
 - (c) through loss of income support.

I don't see any amounts in this bill to improve the conditions for homeless people.

Now, the 2004 rental market report from CMHC shows that in spite of the fact that Edmonton has the highest apartment vacancy rate since 1996, at 5.3 per cent, the average rent for a one-bedroom apartment rose by 1.5 per cent to $597. Rents for a two-bedroom rose 1.1 per cent to an average of $730. These rates are considerably higher than the shelter allowances provided by the province. I was very pleased to get this information from the general manager of a housing association. This general manager is working very hard, as is her organization, to improve the lot of many Albertans. Why isn't there a shelter allowance increase in this budget?

In fact, the hon. Member for Edmonton-Manning mentioned that Human Resources and Employment does not have any amounts listed in here, but certainly Community Development does and, more specifically, Seniors and Community Supports. We're talking here in excess of $100 million, but there is no amount for an increase in shelter allowances. I think that at this time this is a very poor reflection on this government, and it indicates that they're not really sincere in their efforts to improve the lives of those Albertans.

Now, the shelter allowances in Alberta are as follows, Mr. Chairman: for a single person, $168 a month; for a single mother with one child, $428 a month; for a single mother with two children, $503 a month; for a single mother with three children, $524; for a single mother with six children, $586. These rates include a utility allowance.

We all know, Mr. Chairman, how much the government has increased their travel and communications budgets in the last number of years. They've got no problem with that, no problem at all with hosting budgets, travel budgets, international travel, domestic travel. It doesn't matter. This is a government with itchy feet, but I think they should be staying here in the province and recognizing the problems that exist here and doing something to correct them, and they're not.

Now, we need to deal with this issue. We need to recognize that this is not enough money to get by on. It's not enough money to provide any sort of reasonable shelter that this government is currently providing. I would urge at this time all government members to have a look at these shelter allowances and then change your priorities.

At this time, Mr. Chairman, I would like to move that we adjourn debate. Thank you.

[Motion to adjourn debate carried]

The Chair: The hon. Government House Leader.

Mr. Hancock: Thank you, Mr. Chairman. I was taken a little bit by surprise by that, but given that we've adjourned debate, I would move that the committee rise and report bills 52, 55, 58, 43, 44, 53, 54, 56, 57, report progress on Bill 51, and beg leave to sit again.

[Motion carried]

[The Deputy Speaker in the chair]

The Deputy Speaker: The hon. Member for Peace River.

5:20

Mr. Oberle: Thank you, Mr. Speaker. The Committee of the Whole has had under consideration certain bills. The committee reports the following bills: Bill 52, Bill 55, Bill 58, Bill 43, Bill 44, Bill 53, Bill 54, Bill 56, and Bill 57. The committee reports progress on the following bill: Bill 51.

Thank you, Mr. Speaker.

The Deputy Speaker: Does the Assembly concur in the report?

Hon. Members: Concur.

The Deputy Speaker: Opposed? So ordered.

The hon. Government House Leader.

Mr. Hancock: Thank you, Mr. Speaker. I would move that we adjourn until 8 p.m., at which time we'll return in Committee of the Whole.

[Motion carried; the Assembly adjourned at 5:21 p.m.]

Legislative Assembly of Alberta

Title: Tuesday, November 29, 2005 8:00 p.m.
Date: 05/11/29
 [Mr. Marz in the chair]

head: Government Bills and Orders
 Committee of the Whole

The Chair: Good evening, I'd like to call the committee to order.

Bill 51 Appropriation (Supplementary Supply) Act, 2005 (No. 2)

The Chair: Are there any comments, questions, or amendments?
 The hon. Member for Edmonton-Centre.

Ms Blakeman: Thank you very much, Mr. Chairman. I'm pleased to finally get an opportunity to speak again to the supplementary supplies that were introduced by the government this year.

I just want to be clear about what's happened here. Three days were designated by the government for consideration of the supplementary supply No. 2 this fall session. In attempting to have a reasonable question and answer period over those three days – by the way, each day, of course, is only 120 minutes long because it's set for two hours – what we were not able to get debated out of the 13 departments were Solicitor General for $7.4 million, Seniors for $109 million, Municipal Affairs for $138.2 million, Environment for $5.2 million, Community Development for $27 million for a subtotal of $286,929,000.

We were able to get some debate, but no vote was taken for Children's Services at $38.4 million, Infrastructure and Transportation at $758,016,000, and Agriculture at $288,289,000 for a subtotal there of $1,084,705,000. So in total, Mr. Chairman, the Official Opposition did not get an opportunity to debate and get answers to our questions for over $1.3 billion worth of expenses that had been already allocated by this government.

Certainly, the public reaction to the arrogance that was displayed by the government in this off-budget spending – they've been fairly clear in that they felt that the budgeting should be a better process and that the government should be able to get closer to actually balancing its revenue and its expenses to deliver programs and services to the citizens of Alberta and that we should not have these totally out of whack budgets where the government somehow miraculously always manages to come up with billions and billions in surplus, which it can then divvy up away from the scrutiny of the public. The public is obviously not happy about this. So that was a real flaw in the process, what happened there.

Now we have that same supplementary supply coming before us through an appropriation bill in which, yes, we get an opportunity through second reading, Committee of the Whole, and third reading to comment again on what is in and what is not in that appropriation bill. But we do not have the opportunity for those departments, Mr. Chairman, and for those amounts of money to have an exchange of questions and answers with the ministers that are responsible. For those ministries we have no idea of what is going on. There's a one-line explanation that is provided in the supplementary supply booklet that is made public, and that really gives us very little information at all as to what's happening.

One of the things that the public that has contacted me has been really irritated by is that so much of this spending started within weeks, maybe even within days of the budget being passed last spring. For all we know, maybe this spending was going on before the budget had even passed but was in fact before the Assembly. So there's a huge flaw in this process and, I would argue, is a huge arrogance on behalf of the government in that they don't feel they need to bring this before the Assembly and before the people of Alberta for scrutiny and for accountability. I think there's a real lack of respect for both elected representatives but also for those Albertans that they represent. That's what's really gone wrong in this system.

I would like to raise some issues both of what is specifically noted in the budget but also – perhaps it's in there, and I don't know because with a one-liner it's real hard to tell. Maybe it's in there, but without being able to have a Q and A with the minister, we really don't have any better explanation of what that money stands for than the one line. Under Children's Services, for example, the one-line explanation divides up $38,400,000 and talks about $1.2 million "in equipment/inventory purchases for information systems enhancements to support program delivery" under a couple of acts, the Child, Youth and Family Enhancement Act and the Family Support for Children with Disabilities Act. Sorry, I just remembered something else that I have a question about. Then there's Alberta's early learning and child care investment plan, which I suspect is actually the money from the federal government, and again some inventory and equipment purchases for information systems enhancements.

What I don't know is in there is the issue of any follow-up on the round-table on bullying and family violence that was held in May of 2004. I'm interested in hearing about what exactly are the firm timelines and budgets flowing from the recommendations from that 2004 round-table. Now, obviously, that international conference that was held in Banff in late October, which I attended, had something to do with what came out of the May 2004 recommendations, but that was never really clearly laid out. I would like to know what those actual timelines are for implementing what came out of that May 2004 round-table. The minister, I think, has claimed in the past that the money is in the business plan. Yes, but what are the actual measurable targets and timelines and outcomes and associated tasks that are affiliated with this particular initiative?

I have a question under Community Development. Ah, yes, the $5.5 million which has caused both anger and great consternation in the arts community in Alberta. This is a community that exists under great embattlement, no small irony given the project that was approved here, so they do tend to stick together and support each other even when they're not entirely thrilled with what happens. Now, Paul Gross graduated a year after me from the bachelor of fine arts program in acting at the University of Alberta, so I know Paul Gross. Fine fellow; he's done very well for himself in Canada. Congratulations. But it does cause the community some concern when they see someone swan in from out of province, get an appointment with the Minister of Community Development, get an appointment with the Premier, and walk out of the meeting with $5.5 million.

Let's put this in context, Mr. Chairman. That is one-quarter of the budget that is allocated to all of the arts. All of the arts. Not just the film commission, not just performing arts, not writing, not visual, all of the arts. The entire budget for the AFA that funds all of the arts in Alberta is $21 million, and this guy walked out of there with 5.5 million bucks. So you can understand that it has caused that community a bit of consternation. Do they line up and start to phone the minister to get individual appointments now, or should they move to Ontario and come back here to get some kind of extra consideration with their grants?

8:10

There was a huge problem with the process here. It may well be appropriate given that it's the Year of the Veteran, and it may well be appropriate given that it's involved Albertan veterans, and it may well be appropriate that we fund it under the centennial act, but boy was there a huge problem both in perception and in reality with this one. It does not smell good. That community is very hard-pressed to come forward and say publicly that they have problems with this but, man, have I heard about this one. So I'll just note that one.

There were some upgrades for exhibit redevelopment in various museums and historical sites. Well, my question is: how long would we have had to wait? Where was it in the business plan that these various exhibits were going to be upgraded? Is it in the business plan, or do we just have to wait once again in arts and culture and historical sites for some bonanza to drop out of the sky so that they can actually get some funding for stuff? Was this just a bonanza, and they're going to have to wait until the next one or the next time the minister smiles upon them? Is there some actual planning about replacement of things, or do they just have to starve and wait? It's very poor planning here and very ineffective use of money, if we're trying to protect our historical sites and our resources this way.

I'm wondering if any of this money got allocated to the Human Rights Commission, which also falls under this department. What I'm interested in is whether there is any review being taken of the Human Rights Commission, whether there's any consideration being given to updating the human rights legislation to include a description of adult bullying under prohibited grounds for discrimination or for treatment.

That seems to be becoming an increasing problem, and at this point the commission can't do anything to help people because adult bullying, you know, harassment that isn't of a sexual nature is not specifically named in the act. Therefore, all the staff and all the resources there can't help people that come forward with a complaint about that. We're missing something in being able to provide service to our citizens in not being able to expand the act to include that. I'd like to know if that consideration is being taken here.

Are there any plans under the Human Rights Commission to change the way it operates? There have been concerns for a long time that there's a huge push on the claimants that come forward to settle, settle, settle, and there's great pressure, and people keep going to meetings with them and saying: "Well, won't you take this? Won't you just settle?" People went there because they wanted some action. They don't just want to have to cave and go, "Oh well; I guess it's okay," or "I guess I'll accept this." They wanted to see some action. They wanted to see some closure, and in some cases they wanted an apology or some kind of retribution, which is perfectly appropriate. So this constant push to clear off the books and just forgive and forget and walk away and accept whatever is being offered is very frustrating to people.

I'm also wondering if it isn't a flaw in the process at this point. There's no incentive for those that are being complained about. There's no incentive for them to follow through with the process, to indeed come forward, come to the table with any kind of apology or compensation in any way or whatever is being asked for. There's nothing that compels them to do that. Therefore, they can just hang back and keep saying, "no, no, no," and you know the person has got to be forced to settle on the other end. So there is a flaw in this system. I urge the minister to look at his colleagues' work across the country to see what amendments are being made to their human rights process and to their legislation.

I note with great interest that there was a ruling last week – I think it might have been Thursday or Friday – on the family law statutes.

Not that I'm going to stand here and say that I told you so, but you know what? I blinking well am. I stood here and debated all one afternoon in 2003 on what was being proposed by the government to amend the family law statutes. In each and every case I said that you were making a mistake and that this was not Charter-proof. I've been proven right because one of those amendments has now been struck down.

It was an amendment where the artificial insemination was set up so that it would – basically the flaw in the whole act and in what the government did was that they tried to exclude same-sex couples, so they kept naming heterosexual couples by being gender specific. They kept saying mother or father rather than saying parent or spouse. That's what I kept pointing out all the way along: you are going to have to go back and redo this. Indeed, you are going to have to go back and redo it because the AI section in particular was struck down. It was either Thursday or Friday, and for exactly what I said.

The way it's written, by naming the father, you basically had a situation where hetero couples would not have to go through an adoption process to make sure that both parents were legal guardians for the child. But you also had gay men because you could name both of them as fathers. They were okay too. What you left out there were the lesbian couples, and now you're in trouble because it's not Charter proof and you are discriminating against someone. We've had laws passed in the country that say that this is perfectly legitimate. Now you're in trouble because you've got legislation that you're going to have to go back and fix, and I told you so.

I wonder if there's any money in the budget or if there'll be any money in any subsequent supplementary supply budget to fix that. You're going to end up having to fix all the sections that I told you you'd have to fix. I refer you back to my debates in the spring – I think it was March 2003 – on the family law statutes because I was right all the way through there.

A couple of other points I'd like to raise with the Justice minister. There's nothing at all in here for supplementary supply, but one of the things that I'm noticing is that in the domestic violence courts the prosecutors are cycling through there at a rate of about six months apiece. I know that there is some great gung-ho idea in there to have prosecutors cycle through on a two-year basis, you know, to give them better experience and broader experience through different sections.

All well and good, but what's happening right now is that you basically have upheaval in that domestic violence court, which was supposed to be about stability. It was supposed to be about building expertise. It was supposed to be about having people in place that actually knew what was going on and could work together and share experience. Because the prosecutors are being shifted every two years and you've got several prosecutors working in there, you basically have a turnover of your prosecuting team every six months. Somebody is on their two-year shift and they're on the way out the door, and somebody new is coming. Six months later the next one's out the door, and the next one's replaced. It's upheaval. I don't think that's what the minister was intending to have happen here, and I ask him to look at that because I think that's flying in the face of what was the intent of that domestic violence court.

I have another question for that minister. Is there any money coming out of his department or is he looking in any way at the whole idea of going to a public defender system? We're hearing more and more rumours out of the legal community that that's what's being considered, and I'd like to get some expansion on that, please. That's quite troubling because it again puts us into following an American model, which arguably works for them – I think it doesn't – but we have a completely different system, and I would argue that it's not going to work well here.

Under Government Services, I think it would be. I've been contacted by Margaret Kocot, who's wondering about the recycling policy on computers, which was launched with great fanfare I think in this budget year. Her issue is that basically the government is paying recycling companies to recycle these computers without any requirement that you actually test the computer and see if it works. If it still worked, it could be going to schools. It could be going to nonprofits. It could even be sent to Third World countries to be used in the state that it's in. But that's not even being tested. It's just immediately being dismantled and the parts recycled. She's asking how together we could change this situation, stop all of the e-waste, she calls it, and get people in government aware of the benefits of these unchecked learning tools.

She's working with the Electronic Recycling Association of Alberta. They're a nonprofit association with a goal of keeping e-waste, electronic waste, out of the landfills. They're very proud to recycle. Their point is well made. This is coming from people whose point is to recycle. They think that more of it should be fixed and re-used than put into the recycling system.

I had a few follow-up questions to the Minister of Health and Wellness. The ministry didn't identify future expenses, so my question is: how does the department know the total amount of money that's needed for either the infrastructure projects that are being planned here or for the operating expenses to run those projects once they're completed if she hasn't identified future expenses? She said in response to a question that they hadn't identified future expenses. Well, then, how do you know how much the whole project is?

I think much more troubling to Albertans and the question they keep asking me is: how do we know that there's going to be money to actually operate the facility once it's built? People are really concerned that, you know, there will be a building, the lights will be on, and nobody will be working there because there's no money that's put into the annual operating budget, just these one-time injections of infrastructure money. How are these projects expected to be achieved when we're only talking about $64 million in this supplementary supply out of a total of $1.4 billion that has been announced for infrastructure projects in Health and Wellness?

8:20

Finally, when asked about the contract for Aon, whether they had identified that Aon was going to get this contract, where the money for that was in the budget, and why it wasn't talked about during the budget debates, they said that, well, basically they have a slush fund for consulting. My question is: well, how much is this slush fund or this fund for consulting services that they can basically pull any amount of money out that comes up? I mean, $1.5 million is not a small consulting budget. What is the total amount of that fund for consulting? What are the contracts that have been identified on an ongoing basis, and what else has come out of that fund for this year?

Thank you very much, Mr. Chairman. I look for an additional opportunity to ask the remainder of my questions.

The Chair: Hon. members, may we revert to Introduction of Guests?

[Unanimous consent granted]

head: Introduction of Guests

The Chair: The hon. Member for Edmonton-Calder.

Mr. Eggen: Thank you, Mr. Chairman. With great pleasure I would like to introduce to you and through you to all members here this evening my son Jonathan. Jonathan is very interested in politics and would like to know what his dad is doing down here. As well, he's a student at Victoria high school. I would ask you all to please give him the traditional very warm greeting of the House.

Thank you.

head: Government Bills and Orders
Committee of the Whole

Bill 51
Appropriation (Supplementary Supply) Act,
2005 (No. 2)
(continued)

The Chair: Hon. members, before I recognize the next speaker, the background conversations tend to escalate the longer the speaker talks. I would just ask that we restrict them to very low tones or take them into the committee room out back.

The next speaker is the hon. Member for Calgary-Varsity.

Mr. Chase: Thank you very much, Mr. Chair. For the record I want to express the difficulty I have with the fact that there's $1.8 billion worth of what I consider overspending that we're expected to rubber-stamp after the fact rather than preapprove. What I see is that this is a case of putting the cart before the horse. I have less trouble with the amount of money than I do with the procedure. If I'm concerned about the $1.8 billion that I see as overspending, you can imagine how I feel about the government's attitude to what they consider to be their own stomping grounds, the unbudgeted surplus, which is basically double what we're talking about tonight.

I, again, don't have a whole lot of difficulty with the amount of money that is being spent when I can tell where the money is going, but I have a great deal of difficulty, as the former Member for Edmonton-Centre pointed out, in trying to track where this money is going.

Ms Blakeman: I'm still the current member.

Mr. Chase: The current member. Sorry. The former speaker, the current member. As far as I know, there's no assassination plot, and I hope there never would be.

I would actually like to provide more money for a number of the departments. For example, in Community Development I look at the figure of $2,495,000 to replace firepits, picnic tables, and resurface roads within provincial parks. I would love to be able to grant the Minister of Community Development considerably more millions because this money does not begin to address the deterioration that has happened in these parks over the last 12 years. I'd be interested and wonder if the minister would reply: has any of this money gone to improving pathways? Has it gone to improving stairs that have rotted over the years? Has any of this money gone to fencing to keep the cattle out? We have this multi-use concern, where cattle roam freely among the tents and trailers. It's rather discouraging for the campers to find the overnight special deposits that have been left right beside their firepit, whether it's a new pit or an old pit that's been replaced.

It's great that the Canmore Nordic Centre continues to receive millions of dollars in upgrades, but my feeling is that this is because it's out there. It's in the public. It's on TV in terms of filming because it is a wonderful centre. It's one of those jewels that gets frequently thrown out as "this is what the Alberta government is doing in terms of sports and recreation" whereas when it comes to the wilderness parks that I'm more familiar with, it seems that they're basically abandoned.

The resurfaced roads. The parks that I'm familiar with and that a lot of Albertans prefer are the ones that are out in the wilderness, the ones where you go out on a forestry road and you turn off and you're onto gravel. Rarely have I seen, other than in the very early spring, a grader come down those roads to upgrade them or actually get so adventurous as to go into the park itself and grade the roads. I've spent a lot of time in my past shovelling gravel onto the back of a pickup truck and filling in those holes myself for the benefit of my former campers. So in this particular case I, if given the power, would be giving several million dollars more to upgrade the parks, to bring them back to the standards that they were when they were first conceived.

When it comes to Education, first off, look at the infrastructure of $42 million, and look at the school facilities operations of 351 and a half million dollars. The Calgary board of education alone has an infrastructure deficit of $400 million. This money doesn't begin to address it. The money in the spring budget didn't address it. The problem is that it goes unaddressed.

In terms of schools, Calgary got two schools. We've got a million population in Calgary, and we get two new schools. We're supposed to celebrate the fact that we got one new Catholic and one new public school. Again, had I the power, I would like to see a number of those 40 communities that are currently without schools have schools that are the centre of their community. I would also like to see the older schools in the established neighbourhoods being brought up to speed in terms of infrastructure instead of waiting until they get to such a sad state that basically they get closed. This has happened to a number of the sandstone schools in Calgary. This is part of our historic heritage, and we've lost it.

When it comes to Gaming, I have a great deal of difficulty thinking that large organizations such as Edmonton Northlands and Calgary Exhibition and Stampede need the government somehow to prop them up with a total of $70 million. In Calgary we see great expansion plans, and I've seen the plans for Northlands. Obviously these organizations have a tremendous amount of money generated from the very wonderful agriculturally related fairs and activities that they put on, whether it be the Calgary Stampede, whether it's a series of agricultural AgriCom type of activities. Likewise with Northlands, whether it's Klondike Days or the series of activities that take place in those facilities: there is no doubt that they're popular. They should be self-supporting. This is basically government welfare for very wealthy organizations. Let them do it on their own instead of digging into the taxpayers' pockets.

8:30

When it comes to Infrastructure and Transportation, the minister and I, despite our exchanges, would get along very well because if I had my wish, I would be providing him with considerably more money. For example, instead of using $3 million to build what could very well be a temporary cement wall along the river's edge to keep back further seeping of the Turner Valley gas plant historic site, I personally would like to see that whole area reclaimed. If we want to have an historic site, so be it, but right now what we have is a leeching, polluting circumstance. Simply building a portion of a concrete wall, that may wash out in the next flood, doesn't address it. I would love to give the minister of infrastructure the money to go ahead, to basically level the site, dig down, and if you want to create a monument, replace some of it. Right now that area has been allowed to rust and basically has gone its own way for the last 20 years. If it wasn't of historical importance then, how is it more important now that we're going to come to its rescue with a $3 million wall?

The minister provided an explanation with regard to the $18 million in scope changes to the Edmonton and Calgary ring roads. I accept the explanation. I appreciated it when it was first given. I realize that with the types of overpasses that have been planned and where they've been located, the off ramps and so on, you have to make adjustments. I understand that process.

I like the word "accelerate." It says: "$100,000,000 to accelerate provincial highway projects in other resource development areas within the province." The idea of acceleration – the minister knows of two of my favourite highways, 28 and 63. I'm all in favour of accelerating. What this doesn't tell me is to what extent they've been accelerated, and possibly the minister can tell me. It's my understanding that originally this highway twinning was going to take 10 years, and then I believe we're trying for five years. I believe that is the case. When we did a bit of research, we found out that we could twin these two highways, 28 and 63, for the equivalent of 21 days of royalties. Our cost that we estimated based on a million a kilometre was $491 million, so hopefully the money that will take those roads and twin them from Edmonton to Fort McMurray is part of that $30 million to accelerate provincial highways in the Wood Buffalo resource region.

I'm wondering if any of this $100 million will provide more than just passing lanes for people travelling from Medicine Hat to the Crownsnest Pass. I know that when I was down there earlier this month and talking to residents in Medicine Hat, they were very disappointed that instead of twinning they were only getting passing lanes. That same concern was expressed by people connected with the municipal government in Lethbridge. They would have liked to have seen that highway twinned the whole way to the pass. They see it as their lifeline, the equivalent of our highway 2, or the Calgary-Edmonton corridor.

Medicine Hat would like to see the same kind of economic advantages to an east-west road as we're seeing in our north-south corridor. They're envious of what's happening and would like to be included in the economic well-being of the entire province. Again, if I could be told how this money has helped to accelerate the timeline, how it's been changed, to know that the process has been speeded up, I would be very supportive of the minister in so doing.

I have trouble with the idea that we're here tonight rushing again through a process. To me what we should be doing is sitting in quarterly legislative sittings. If we're going to deal with these what I consider budget overruns, why don't we just simply have quarterly budgets? Why don't we meet and come up with: what are the needs of the province? Let's discuss those needs. Let's debate them. Let's prioritize them. Notice that I'm using the word "let's." The idea that the government in its omniscient wisdom can make these decisions by themselves, without any input other than after-the-fact stamping, is erroneous.

We all have a role in deciding how the money should be spent, what Alberta's priorities are, and I think there would be greater strength within this process if everyone and all parties were allowed an effective role and participation rather than after-the-fact approval. I would be interested in hearing from any of the ministers as to why they feel that it's acceptable to bring us in for this short period, this less than three weeks, to do this after-the-fact discussion. Why can't we deal with it ahead of time?

Thank you very much.

The Chair: The hon. Member for St. Albert.

Mr. Flaherty: Thank you, Chair. I will start by looking at the Education portion of the supplementary supply. Let me just say this. Of the $75 million that we're spending, I believe that what is required – and I think the government deserves some praise here. I think that to move the school buildings under the Department of Education's control is a very good move, but in building portables and school buildings, I think it's important that the government come up with stable and sufficient and predictable funding for schools. The question that I think is important to look at is: if there isn't enough money for permanent schools, will the government in '06-07 plan for building schools before providing emergency funding? In other words, I think it's important that the government have a plan set out for school buildings, send it out to the school systems, let them react to it, and then submit a plan based on the criteria that the department sets.

Also, I believe that if we look at the plant operations and maintenance of the supplementary, we see that there is $24 million required. This really makes me wonder: is this a sign that the new funding formula under the plant operations and maintenance aspect of the Education budget is well thought out, and is it providing the right kind of funds for school systems across the province?

May I also say that I would commend the government on their transportation incentive, the extra dollars for fuel, for diesel fuel for transportation. I think that was very, very critical and very necessary.

Let me then look at the supplementary supply in terms of what it may be lacking and what I was surprised was not there. It seems to me that all of the dollars were directed for matters pertaining to infrastructure, transportation, and that kind of thing. I think what is important to note is that in meeting with the two school districts in St. Albert prior to this sitting, one of the biggest problems that schools are having in this province is the matter of support services for the family. I would have been in joy to see if there was an estimate overlap in dollars, if we'd have seen more indication of support services for schools such as guidance counsellors, school psychologists.

Let me just talk a little bit, in light of that, not only in terms of support services, but let me talk about the need for good counselling services in terms of apprenticeship. We were told, in meeting with the chamber of commerce in I believe it was Calgary, that they predict that 90,000 skilled jobs will be required in the next five years. I'm glad my colleague from Edmonton-Manning talked about this last night when he said: why are young people not being attracted to trades? Why are so many employers making so little use of things like the RAP program? You know that these things are difficult. In other words, why do we not have more students going into the trade areas?

8:40

My belief is that the junior high school is lacking a good, solid career education curriculum program and also lacking support with good guidance counsellors. That stems right into the high school. I think we really have to look at this very, very carefully. In other words, I'm suggesting that if you have extra dollars that you require to spend, they need to be more in the service area for the school system.

Let me, then, just talk about kids with special needs and the whole business of early diagnostic and curriculum development for remedial education. I note that in the supplementary supply estimates there was no indication of a move away from the achievement testing at grade 3 and a move to more diagnostic and remedial curriculum activities for schoolchildren who are not making it – not making it – falling through the cracks because they don't have a good start in school. This is costing us a lot. I think this is something that we should ask this government to look at very, very carefully.

The other question that I would like to mention in terms of the supplementary supply is the business of school fees. I think it's time that the minister looked at this issue, again urging him to look at it in terms of the new budget year, '06-07, that is coming up, not just studying it but making some reference as to how he will set some guidelines for school fees; in other words, what the department will supplement schools to help them and to help parents that have to pay these school fees and what other things parents will be asked to pay for, such as sporting events, extracurricular activities, that type of thing. I think there's some really needed leadership required here on school fees. I think this government should show this in the new budget year, and I hope they do.

Let me move to, if I can, Mr. Chair, the matter of a letter here from the city of St. Albert to the Solicitor General and Minister of Public Security, I believe, where policing comes into effect. One of the things that I note here – this comes from the mayor of St. Albert – is that “the AUMA calls for full provincial funding of policing costs for the first 5000 residents in every Municipality in Alberta, $35 per capita and for the next 10000 residents (up to 15000), and $18 per capita thereafter.” I think I'll just read that again. For every municipality in Alberta they're asking $35 per capita for the next 10,000 residents up to 15,000 and $18 per capita thereafter. In other words, in St. Albert that would mean $18 per head for our tax base. I think this is a very, very important thing in terms of security for our citizens.

Also, we have a major problem with some of the young people with crystal meth. Property damage has become intense. I think this would be very helpful if we could have this looked at in this budget area.

So those are some general comments, Mr. Chair. I'll sit down. Thank you for letting me speak.

The Chair: The hon. Member for Calgary-Currie.

Mr. Taylor: Thank you, Mr. Chair. [interjections] Still listening. [interjections]

The Chair: Hon. members.

Mr. Taylor: Always pleased to see. Of course, Mr. Chair, I have a long experience, years of experience, in competing with other sources of noise for the attention of the listeners as they're drifting off to sleep, saying something pithy – pithy – from time to time, because sometimes I get into a pithy mood, to pull them back in to the speaker and get them to pay attention again. I hope I can do a little bit of that here tonight. Thank you.

I was reviewing Hansard from Tuesday, November 22, with interest here as my colleagues were speaking because there was an interesting back and forth between myself and the Minister of Advanced Education that day as we were discussing supplementary estimates for the Ministry of Advanced Education. There was some back and forth, as there often is when the minister and I get into an exchange in this House, a few digs, a few shots in there. But if you go back and you read the exchanges between the minister and myself, you do find that we come out of those exchanges with some fairly valuable information.

I feel that that was the case here in our back and forth, and I had to go back over territory a couple of times in a couple of instances to nail the minister down to some specific answers to specific questions, but eventually I got pretty darn close there, in the ballpark anyway. I walked away satisfied that we had in fact made some progress around the debate for supplementary estimates for the Ministry of Advanced Education. We were talking a fairly significant amount of money there, about $99 million all told, as I recall.

I wanted to just refer back to that, and I may actually refer back to a couple of very short, specific, one might say pithy comments made during the course of that exchange as we go on here. In general terms, Mr. Chairman, I wanted to refer back to that because I've been listening to my colleagues, and I've been listening to the specific questions that they have had to ask, questions to which they cannot get answers from the ministers because we have moved beyond the supplementary supply debates into the committee debate on Bill 51, questions about departments that weren't debated: Solicitor General – and my colleague from St. Albert referred to that just a moment ago – Seniors, Municipal Affairs, Environment, Community Development. Very little, if any, debate on those particular departments.

There were 13 ministries in all, I believe, that were involved in the supplementary estimates this time. We know the total amount involved: $1.8 billion. We've done the math over here and entered the results into the debate. We are essentially debating $5 million a minute with the time that the government allocated for debate of this massive amount of money that they spent above and beyond what was agreed to in the budget that this House debated and voted on just last May.

Now, I want to refer back to a specific comment made in the exchange between the Minister of Advanced Education and myself on November 22. I had asked a series of questions. One of the questions had to do with when the minister was going to put the advisory council and other regulations into place regarding the access to the future fund that [I said] will transform this fund, absent those regulations, absent the existence of that council right now, from something that could be seen as being akin to the minister's personal piggy bank into an accountable decision-making body with clear rules and regulations.

8:50

Now, I am taking the minister's response out of context because I just want to quote one very short part from that. I don't want to leave the impression that I was dissatisfied with the minister's overall answer there or anything like that. I just need to refer to this specific quote from the minister. It goes like this.

In fact, I think he referenced it as the minister's personal piggy bank, which is really quite an offensive way to talk about public money. I can assure you that I would never treat public money in that way, and no member of this government would consider that.

Well, without meaning to cause the Minister of Advanced Education offence – although one of the things that I learned in a long career in radio is that you can only control your part of the message that goes out over the radio. You cannot control how people are going to interpret what you say. You can't control the spin they're going to put on it. The fact is, Mr. Chairman, that there maybe should be some offence taken there.

There's some offence taken on this side of the House because it looks like – and I don't mean specifically the Minister of Advanced Education here – a whole series of personal piggy banks when you're confronted with $1.8 billion in unbudgeted spending and supplementary estimates that are presented with the opportunity for six hours of debate and the notion that: well, if we don't get to a scheduled department on the scheduled day for debate, we'll just gloss over that department altogether, and maybe we can sort of pick it up with the trash when we're debating Bill 51.

This is no way to run a railroad or a government or a province or a democracy. I think that that is a concept that the government members opposite are having a really hard time after 12 years in power, 12 years of doing whatever they please, getting their pointed little heads around. I think it's about time that the government members opposite went off for a weekend retreat somewhere or perhaps four years wandering in the wilderness, reconnecting with the people of Alberta, with the values of the people of Alberta, with the values that got them elected in the first place, which they seem to have lost all connection with, values of thrift and stewardship and fiscal prudence. Mr. Chairman, as far as I can see in this whole sad, sorry, pathetic process, that's all gone out the window to be replaced by featherbedding, arrogance, complacency, and this notion that, you know, when the government decides to engage in off-budget spending, it's nobody's business but the government's.

Mr. Chairman, the government works for the people of Alberta. It doesn't work the other way around. They've forgotten this basic first rule in their job description. You know, even if we had an extra hour or two or six to debate these supplementary estimates, I don't think we could ever have enough time to get these government members' heads reoriented back around to where their heads ought to be if they are going to be true public servants.

This government, Mr. Chairman, needs to go. It's old, it's tired, and it's out of touch. Thank you.

The Chair: The hon. Member for Edmonton-Calder.

Mr. Eggen: Thank you, Mr. Chair. I rise to speak on these supplementary estimates with sort of a grab bag of different departments and specific concerns that have come to our attention as a caucus not just over these past few weeks but since the spring sitting, when we initially approved the budget that we're now supplementing to such a high degree.

First, I was curious to look back and see the parting comments that I had made, Mr. Chair, in regard to the spring budget that we approved. I found it interesting to note that one of my big concerns – and it still is today – is this idea of deliberately lowballing the revenues that the government would collect and thus create the structure of how we build the budget. Lo and behold, I guess it was to no one's surprise that, in fact, our budget surplus grew to a tremendous extent. You know, the day that we finished with the spring session, I had made a note that the price of oil was at $48 a barrel, and now I think we're up to something like $59.

Now, there are certain problems or perils in perhaps guessing that your price of energy would be moving up in such a dramatic fashion as it has for the past six months, but the budget was based on a much lower price for both oil and natural gas than even the $48. It made it, I think, a deceptive way to make this initial budget in the first place. We all knew that we were in for a tremendous surplus and that, in fact, many of the departments that had put forward budgets were not fully disclosing what they were intending to do as far as the responsibilities that they had for the coming year. So as previous speakers have mentioned, I think that it is confusing for the public to perhaps know in terms of full disclosure what is going to happen and when it's going to happen. It creates this culture of where the money sort of comes down from on high and individual projects are announced often four or five times just kind of out of the air.

One thing that I find particularly distressing about this very large supplementary budget estimate that we're now speaking on and will inevitably probably pass is that I think it creates a deceptive and confusing way of looking at government. So what I'm seeing to a large extent is that a lot of people who sort of put in their requests over the last couple of years are now calling in their chits, so to speak, to get their little piece of this surplus. It creates a very ad hoc way to plan for the future, Mr. Chairman.

I would suggest that in a number of these specific ministries it's not a question of spending the money. Certainly, we do need to spend money. There's a deficit in infrastructure; there's a deficit in quite a number of areas over the last 12 or 13 years of underfunding public institutions in this province. At the same time, the helter-skelter way in which these budget surplus estimates are now coming in and the way they're applied to the supplementaries I think does not one any real service at all.

Just to look through various ministries here to give some examples, with SRD, Sustainable Resource Development, one problem I had in the spring – and it still does not seem to be addressed in any real way – is the problem that we have of not funding or taking proper stewardship towards our provincial parks with all of this extra money that's around. Provincial park plans is not something that is renewable in any way. Certainly, it's self-sustaining given the proper stewardship, but it's not something that we can grow on trees.

I think that what's happened in the last dozen years or so is that the amount of workers, either provincial park wardens or people working on the infrastructure for provincial parks, has been very sadly lacking, and still here today now with this budget supplement and the budget from the spring we still don't see any real progress. You know, I'm getting so much information from people in protected zones, provincial parks, who are saying that the parks are in a terrible state of repair and that no one is there to provide security for the parks. Lots of people are using them in inappropriate ways, you know: cutting trees and running ATVs there. Otherwise, there's no one to administer that thing. So I think that money is lacking for our provincial parks and protected areas, and we need to become much more serious about that and, in fact, designate more areas while we still can. Things are changing and growing and developing so quickly, Mr. Chair, in our province that we only have a small window of opportunity to protect special areas.

9:00

Again, in the area of the Solicitor General and Public Security one sore point I'm hearing about a lot from my own constituency is the lack of investment in new positions for police officers. I know that the hon. member has said that he has created some, but my sources tell me that, in fact, this just meets the rate of attrition for police who are retiring in our province and not creating new positions like we do need. Alberta's population is growing, perhaps at a greater rate than any other in the Confederation. We have a lot of movement of people, and there is an increasing crime rate that each member, I'm sure, in every constituency in Alberta would attest to being unacceptable.

So my position is very clear – and I think that I am echoing the concerns of my constituency and probably millions across this province – that we need to create at least 500 new police positions in the province of Alberta as soon as possible. I know that I'm hearing some signals that something like that might happen, but let's remember to create new FTEs and not just replacement positions. A focus on community policing, I think, at this juncture would be very much appreciated, especially in the urban areas.

In regard to Environment, one of the problems that I have is that this department seems to be being swallowed up by the Energy department. A case in point is the new MOSS strategy for northeastern Alberta. Please, don't get me wrong. I do appreciate the difficulties in managing such massive projects up in the Fort McMurray area and the difficulty associated with providing an integrated environmental strategy, but one of the problems is that I think the Department of Environment has lost its teeth to effectively and independently assess new projects as they come on board, and, you know, this is creating a very potentially difficult situation, Mr. Chairman. I would suggest that we need to look at it more honestly than we have been in this past 12 months.

Also, my suggestion – and I think that it's being echoed in some way across the floor, but I think that we need to be much more serious about it – is to use much more of our energy windfall revenues to create sustainable, alternative energy sources in this province, not just to perhaps hope that industry might bite onto the odd windmill or what have you but, in fact, to take the bull by the horns and take some of our royalty money, a good whack of our royalty money, and invest it in a new sort of energy corporation, an energy corporation that could not only perhaps expand and meet the needs of our energy future here in Alberta but assist the rest of our country as well. There is a tremendous investment potential for alternative energy systems around the world. With our tremendous resource revenue that we're bringing in at this moment, I think we're in a position to take a leadership role in that regard. We're not doing that at this time, and I think it would take a much more focused set of resolutions from this government to do so.

In Seniors and Community Development we see a lot of investment in infrastructure, building new facilities in this province, Mr. Chairman. The problem – and it seems to be a perennial one – is that we're not meeting the staffing levels that would be adequate to provide the services that each of these new facilities might be there for. When we build new hospital expansions and new seniors' centres, long-term care facilities, and whatnot, it seems a bit ironic that if these buildings stand with insufficient staffing, they in fact are not functioning as they were designed to do. You know, a lot of the problems that we're seeing recently in terms of the lack of care or the crisis in long-term care and confusion about this is a lack of vision and direction in terms of the staffing that goes into these public institutions.

You know, we are responsible here in this Legislature to provide these services, these public institutions of health care and education to the public. If we are not meeting those needs, then we are not administering these funds responsibly. I would suggest that, in fact, the latter is the case, Mr. Chair, at this point because of the continuing problems in delivery of health care and in long-term care and housing for seniors in the province of Alberta right now. It's an embarrassment of riches, yet, you know, the money is not going directly to these sore points where we need it to be.

In regard to other ministries, Mr. Chairman, in Education, certainly, we're seeing some hopeful signs, but again, you know, the information that I'm receiving is that the class sizes, especially in division 2, are still not going down. While we might be considering new schools here and there, which is great, and most of the Learning Commission has been accepted on paper, the practice of funding our school systems still seems to be quite uneven at best.

It's a very time-sensitive subject because as each group of students passes through our system, that's the only opportunity we have to educate them. While we might be reflecting on this for a couple or three more years or four more years to reassess whether or not the monies to meet the needs of the Learning Commission are going through, a whole other generation of students has already graduated through the school system in large classrooms, perhaps unacceptably large, and with other resources lacking as well. Speed, I think, is of the essence in regard to secondary education, K to 12, and I would certainly encourage us to move post-haste to meet the needs of the Learning Commission in the best way possible.

In terms of postsecondary education, once again the very best that the Conservative government can do is Bill 1 from the spring, a great focus and a great deal of money on this postsecondary education problem that we have. Still, you know, in so many key areas as I travelled around the province to different colleges and universities, they're just not meeting those needs that people are bringing up. The needs are immediate financing to make it affordable for all persons to go to university. Still, at this juncture, I am seeing a lot of people making the choice not to go to postsecondary because they just can't afford it.

You know, we're losing. The very most conservative way to look at our population in this province, Mr. Chair, these are perhaps the students who would be best suited intellectually to go onto postsecondary but because of their socioeconomic conditions we lose those people. Again, it's a window of opportunity that closes rapidly as students leave high school and get older and move on to jobs. If they're not going to postsecondary because they can't afford it, well, that's just a crying shame.

Also in postsecondary a lot of infrastructure pledges in the budget but a problem of uncertainty in regard to staffing. I hear all the time about these beautiful buildings at the University of Alberta, for example, here in Edmonton that are just using temporary workers, and it's very unstable, and they can't attract the best staff necessarily because they don't feel as though they can put roots down because they don't know what's going to happen next.

Finally, just to close off, Mr. Chair, that's the structural planning problem of underestimating one's revenues in general, be it a government or your own personal revenues. By underestimating them deliberately, I would say that we're doing a disservice to the long-term planning for this province. We're building something for the future that lasts beyond the next budget cycle, that goes on to the next five or more years. That's what each of these departments requires, and that's what each of these departments deserve.

You know, there's been a lot of talk about a dearth of democracy in the province of Alberta, and it's not just from these quarters that this information is coming. I think we owe it to the people of Alberta to demonstrate that we are in fact interested in a proper process and transparency that comes with using this Legislature as it was designed to be used. We can make some moves even in this session. We still have an opportunity, for example, with Public Accounts. We have an opportunity to perhaps amend how Public Accounts is run and how it casts a critical eye on the finances of the province, and we can do that tomorrow.

9:10

So I think, certainly, we do have lots of potential in this province. We have a lot of potential because we have such great citizens who are interested in the future. We have some resources that our coming our way at this moment. Let's make the best use of those things and not build our budgets in an ad hoc, sort of secretive way. Let's put it all out in the open for the people of Alberta to decide in the best possible way.

Thank you, Mr. Chair.

The Chair: The hon. Member for Calgary-Mountain View.

Dr. Swann: Thank you very much, Mr. Chairman. It's a great privilege to stand and discuss estimates, Bill 51. I want to focus on a couple of departments, primarily Environment and Health, but will have a few comments about some others as well.

Clearly, the environment faces some serious challenges in the 21st century, and the goal of protecting and conserving the environment is a priority for most if not all Albertans. We've heard increasingly through surveys how they place this as a very high priority right next to health and education. The recognition that natural capital – that is, the water resources, forestry, wildlife, natural habitat, clean air – has a value inherent to it and must be balanced with the other resource needs and values is becoming increasingly pressing.

The importance of integrated land-use planning is another issue that highlights why Albertans feel that the future has to be addressed in a much more serious way and, in fact, that priority zones for planning need to be addressed. For example, a serious commitment to the eastern slopes as a recreation area, as a watershed, as a hunting and fishing area, as a tourism area has to be at least as . . .

The Chair: Hon. members, the Member for Calgary-Mountain View has the floor.

Dr. Swann: We have to be thinking about the eastern slopes, in other words, as a vital area for natural capital. The degree to which we exploit natural resources over protecting some of this natural capital will be judged in the future, I think, in a harsh way.

We need stronger legislation rather than guidelines, as I mentioned earlier in the House, in relation to the reclamation of old industrial sites, oil and gas sites. It's a serious question to ask why there are so few prosecutions in the province in relation to the ongoing smaller and larger spills that go on across the province. We must send a clear message that the polluters pay, that they are not asked for and give an apology afterwards. They must be more than encouraged and educated and admonished. They must be fined to get the message that this is not acceptable in Alberta.

Sustainable development has established principles, and this government supported them over the last decade in writing. It's not clear how these are being measured, how these principles are being lived out, and for many Albertans there's a growing lack of confidence that we are balancing appropriately the long-term needs of the surface environment, the subsurface environment, and the people in relation to extraction of resources.

Reclamation, then, is a serious issue and will leave a legacy to our children. We must have an orphan fund similar to the oil industry in this province, a clean-up fund that's industry based, to address some of the public liability in many of the sites that now exist across the province and which will default to the public as a result of them leaving the business, becoming bankrupt, and abandoning their responsibility. We need regulations for more timely reclamation. We need Alberta Environment to have sufficient staff to inspect sites. They need more in the way of resources to do that. At the present time we rely on industry to report its own faults. This is a perilous course to take in terms of protecting the environment. We need Alberta Environment staff to evaluate before and after reclamation to ensure that the job has been done. We cannot rely on a consultant's report to assess and provide reclamation certificates that relieve companies of liability into the future without doing more on-site testing. Ten per cent of sites simply isn't good enough.

In relation to climate change Alberta has been recognized as the number one polluter in the country, and it's a shame that we have not seen a more proactive position and the setting of clear limits on air emissions. We have an international commitment. We simply have to do better. The Kyoto agreement is a baby step towards reducing our impact on the environment. We have to do at least as well as 6 per cent below 1990, and indeed we are increasing and are well above 25 per cent higher than the 1990 standard for greenhouse gas emissions. This cannot continue.

More and more scientists are clamouring for a stronger commitment as we see increasingly unstable weather patterns, increasing infectious diseases moving north, the dramatic changes in our Arctic, the flooding in some of the coastal communities in the south, the poorest countries who have the greatest to lose and the least resources to cope with some of the impacts of climate change. We have to do better than that in terms of our commitment to climate change. The U.S., in fact, is ahead of Canada in spite of not having made the commitment to get lower than the Kyoto accord. Why is that? Why is industry setting the agenda in Alberta for climate change? The government has been elected to be an intermediary between the private interest and the public interest.

I have a question for the Department of Environment around the carbon dioxide pipeline and the CO₂ injection plans. He has indicated, at least in the press, that $1.5 billion will be committed to that. We need to see a lot more evidence that the cost benefit is there, that the technology is there, and that the return on the investment will be worth it.

In relation to specific challenges in the environment one of the most pressing this season was Lake Wabamun, and we still don't know what that's going to cost to clean up. I think we need to know what kind of fines are going to be levied against the company and how the First Nations are dealing with that issue, how it's affecting their own lives and their businesses. I don't think we've had enough feedback and enough connections with First Nations around Lake Wabamun to understand that as well as we should.

I understand that the supplemental budgets this session related to increasing waste management contracts, and I'm pleased to see that there is a commitment to recycling and especially the e-cycling program. I understand that there are some real problems, though, around Rimbey and a real question about how much of the electronic waste is actually waste and how much of it could be reused, in fact, if they had the staffing to assess some of these computers and how they could be refurbished and for a very low cost returned to use, especially in some of the nongovernment organizations, some of the poorer areas of the country, and some of the poorer countries of the world. I hope that we can see some cost-benefit in investing in some better assessment of the electronics before they're actually recycled and deconstructed, which they may well need to be but in many cases could be reused with a little bit of technical support.

9:20

In relation to water protection we still see a lot more rhetoric than reality on the ground in terms of the Water for Life strategy. I heard from the minister that something like $150 million were released to Alberta Environment for water programs. It's still not clear from the budget whether some of that is included in this supplemental budget or what the millions are going to be spent on. It's my understanding – and it's not defined anywhere – that much of this is going into water infrastructure and not into the Water for Life strategy per se but into water quality issues. If that's the case, we still have a long way to go to implementing the Water for Life strategy, which receives only $5 million per year and is expected somehow to protect the quality and the ecosystems and the quantity of water into the distant future for the major river systems across this province. This is not a commitment to water conservation and protection. We need to do better than that.

We need better science. One of the issues that has increasingly raised its head is how well we're doing on groundwater and how soon we're going to get an accurate inventory of the groundwater in this province. It's clearly an issue across this country. One of the Senators, I believe, has recently asked for a commitment across the country, provincial and federal, to examine more carefully our groundwater resources and the serious implications global warming and climate change have for our water supplies into this coming decade.

We are anticipating a new water bill in the spring for another request for an interbasin transfer – I think that's a very serious proposal – into the special areas. Albeit the Minister of Finance's area, it has serious implications for the long-term sustainability of water in this province and the precedent that it sets about taking water to people instead of expecting people to live within their means, conserve, and commit to adequate in-stream flows and the priority for people to move towards the water instead of awaiting increasing technology and costs and infrastructure to take water to them. I need to see a lot more evidence that that is a cost-effective measure in the special areas.

New technologies in coal-bed methane have raised serious questions about the long-term impacts on water supply, water quality, including southeastern Alberta. We have called for a moratorium to assess more clearly the longer term impacts on water quality and water quantity. Many, many Albertans have raised concerns and sent petitions around the issue of understanding better the groundwater and the potential for irreparably damaging that through some of the new technologies of the new nonconventional oil and gas development and, specifically, coal-bed methane.

In relation to health I wanted to mention a couple of issues. I was disappointed this year in relation to the negotiations with residents and interns in the hospital sector. For the second term in a row they were denied real meetings and substantive discussions around their contracts. This is very discouraging for the budding physicians in this province and not setting a good tone for attracting physicians to this province.

On the question of privatization and the third way we've seen a flip and a flop and another flip since this first began its discussions. After the May symposium the minister indicated that we were going to move more along the status quo. Then by October there was a clear discussion around increasing the rate of privatization, examining even the medical services that are covered under our present health care insurance plan. This was quickly cut off by the Premier. Now again it appears as if we are supporting and are in some ways aided by the Aon Corporation's assessment despite its clear conflict of interest and corruption charges both in Canada and the U.S. This is disturbing in terms of our future priority for the ministry of health.

People in Alberta are very concerned, as they should be, that this government does not know what it's doing in relation to health care. There's been no serious commitment to reform in the health care system, to looking at ways of improving team functioning in the workplace, to emphasizing primary health care and community health centres, to streamlining the administrative roles and responsibilities, and to critically analyzing the unhealthy workplaces that many of our health care workers are working in, that sap their energy and increase their stress levels.

All of these have to do with improving the health and the quality of care that we can expect from a publicly funded health care system, which most Albertans continue to see as a priority. There's been over the last decade a consistent erosion of public funding and a predictable demand, then, for alternatives, which this government has interpreted as a need for increased privatization, which will neither increase quality nor over the long term improve access but will increase the conflict of interest for physicians who are able to practise in both the public and the private sectors and will unfortunately be in a position of trying to judge what is best for their patient and at the same time judge what is best for their pocketbook. This is clearly untenable.

In relation to physiotherapy it's disappointing, again, that this eminently effective preventive mode has been delisted in terms of its funding by Alberta health care. This is a false economy, to be sure, and leaves seniors particularly vulnerable to less than adequate rehabilitation, less than adequate strength training, and increasingly vulnerable to falls and subsequent increased hospital use and health care costs, not to mention premature death. Physiotherapy is an essential medical service that should be funded through the public purse, and it should be seen as what it is: an investment in people, an investment in health and well-being, an investment in their full functioning and contributing to society.

Just a couple more comments, then, Mr. Chairman. I've had a number of letters from persons who care for persons with developmental disabilities increasingly feeling the pinch in relation to salaries that are well below what they can reasonably live on in a dignified way of life. I hope that this government can look at the crucial role and the vital caring that persons caring for persons with developmental disabilities are playing in our culture and look at a serious review of funding for salaries for those who care for persons with developmental disabilities, a very special service, a very special population.

In relation to Agriculture, Food and Rural Development I had a couple of questions from their supplemental budget that had to do with continued public money sustaining game ranches that have no viable market and the question of public money increasingly going to game ranchers who clearly cannot maintain a reasonable economic balance, in part due only to chronic wasting disease, which has meant the death knell for elk velvet. It has meant increasingly that even the meat market has been threatened.

But quite apart from that, it has never been successful in this country or beyond. It's not clear and never has been from the budgets I've seen – and I'm not sure whether it's in the supplemental budget for the CAIS support program – whether any of this CAIS support money is going to game ranches. That's a serious question for us as a government since we have on behalf of the people of Alberta financially supported game ranching in this province despite the fact that it's threatening wildlife and, potentially, human health with chronic wasting disease.

That's all I have at this time, Mr. Chairman. Thank you.

The Chair: The hon. Member for Edmonton-Rutherford.

Mr. R. Miller: Thank you very much, Mr. Chairman. I'll try to keep my comments brief. I'm going to guess at this point that I could go the full 20 minutes; I'm not sure. I might just be the last speaker before this gets voted this evening.

I just wanted to acknowledge that custom would normally dictate that the Finance critic would lead the debate on behalf of the Official Opposition on Bill 51. Last evening when this bill opened in second reading, I chose not to do that, Mr. Chairman. I had a sense of duty to my colleagues in the opposition caucus who had not had an opportunity to speak to the supplementary supply estimates in committee. There were several of them who were here last night particularly for that reason because they had departments that hadn't been addressed at all.

9:30

Just as an example, we had last night the critic for Community Development here, who was hoping to have an opportunity to speak to the $27 million in supplementary supply that hadn't been addressed yet. We had someone here hoping to speak to the Municipal Affairs supplementary supply of $138 million and our critic for Seniors and Community Supports hoping to speak to the $109 million that was being asked for. Unfortunately, despite my efforts to give them as much time as possible, the government chose last night to take advantage of a standing order, Standing Order 61(3), to throttle debate in second on this bill.

It was unfortunate that they chose to take advantage of that. Nevertheless, they did, and it just lent even more credence to the complaints that a number of opposition members have voiced both within the Official Opposition caucus and the third party, and I believe even the member from the Alliance Party has mentioned it as well. That is the very short amount of time that has been dedicated to debating some awfully large numbers. I'll quickly reiterate: six hours in supplementary estimates for $1.8 billion; $300 million an hour, or to break it down even closer, $5 million a minute. Even at that I don't think most Albertans can quite comprehend the amount of money that was being debated in this Assembly and how quickly we were going through it and, in fact, the number of departments that were receiving no debate at all, Mr. Chairman. So that is a frustration for us.

I'm still sorry, despite the fact that it looks like we're going to manage to conclude debate this evening within the allotted time. I'm disappointed for my colleagues that were here last night who had hoped to have an opportunity to speak to this bill in second reading and never got that. Unfortunately, now they're going to have some questions that may never get asked, and that is a tragedy, I believe, for the people of Alberta, who certainly have every right and every expectation to have an understanding of how and why their dollars, their very hard-earned tax dollars, are being spent.

Mr. Chairman, as to this particular bill, Bill 51, I think that this speaks to a much larger issue. Already, I've only been here for a year, and I find myself using the same arguments that I used in bill debate back in the spring; that is, it seems to me that year after year this government either intentionally or otherwise underestimates the amount of revenue that they're going to take in. I certainly can't say that they don't spend enough because the budget that was passed in the spring was $26 billion, substantially more than any budget that this House has ever passed before.

Notwithstanding that, here we are only a scant six months later debating Bill 51, which is going to supply the government with another $1.8 billion on top of the $26 billion that we approved in the spring. As I said, we're only six months into the year. Lord knows that when we're back here in March and we look at a further supplementary supply bill, which we all know we will because the Premier has already acknowledged that he has committed more than $7 billion of the expected $10 billion surplus – so we know for sure that there will be another supplementary bill in the spring. I don't know how big it's going to be. I'm not sure if anybody on the other side of the House would be willing to share that number with me now. I suspect not. But it's going to be big.

It speaks to the much larger problem. Most economists will say that if you've got surpluses year after year after year, you're either not spending enough money or taxing too much. Clearly, one of those two has to be the case here. It would appear to me as if we're spending enough money, so I have to wonder on behalf of all Albertans if we're not taxing too much.

I know that the $400 rebate program, which is being discussed under Bill 43, is meant in some way to give something back to Albertans, although it's very, very controversial, and several members on the other side have admitted that at least half of the correspondence that they're getting into their offices is against the idea of the rebates. We had one member, the Member for Lethbridge-West, acknowledge that 90 per cent of the correspondence into his office is against the idea of the rebates. So I think that that's clearly not what Albertans are looking for in the way of getting something back.

The Official Opposition has talked for some time now, going back prior to last fall's election, about the idea of eliminating health care premiums for all Albertans. I think that that is something that would give a significant tax break to everybody, and it would be something that would be ongoing. I think that Albertans have a right to expect that.

It's been suggested by some that we can't afford that, and I take exception to that comment. Eight hundred and seventy-five thousand dollars a year is what it would cost this province to eliminate health care premiums for everybody. Clearly, based on the surplus history in this province, that's quite affordable, quite sustainable.

We have had over the last six years, not counting this year, $22 billion in surplus in this province, and more than $15 billion of that, Mr. Chairman, has been unbudgeted surplus. What that means is that at least $7 billion in the last six years has been budgeted surplus. Every year we budget for a surplus. Every year, including the year 2001 with the 9/11 tragedies in the States, we have managed to have at least a $1 billion surplus in this province. So, clearly, if the decision was made, if the political will was there to give all Albertans a tax break by permanently immediately eliminating the health care premium tax, we could do that today, and we could sustain it. I think that most Albertans would very much appreciate that.

Bill 51, again, $1.8 billion in supplementary supply. I'm just going to once again acknowledge the Municipal Affairs minister for his $138 million that he's asking for in supplementary supply. Every single penny of that is for disaster relief. Mr. Chairman, I would submit to this House that if we're going to have supplementary supply and if we're going to be spending money outside of the budget, that's the sort of thing that I think Albertans expect supplementary supply to be used for. That's the sort of thing that Albertans can understand. Clearly, you can't predict when there's going to be severe flooding, a 100-year flood for the second time in a short period of years in southern Alberta. You can't predict when there's going to be a major forest fire that causes hundreds of millions of dollars of damage. Those are the sorts of things that Albertans understand that the government may need money for outside of the budget process.

Based on the comments that I've seen in the media, based on the letters that I've received in my office, and based on the comments I've had with members of the community on the street in my constituency, clearly Albertans expect the government to be able to come up with a budget plan and stick to it. If we have things like hospitals and schools that are so desperately needed, those should be in the budget. We shouldn't be literally spending every single extra penny as it comes in. Again, I think history would dictate that, by and large, that's the plan that this government has: to spend every single extra penny as it comes out of the ground.

In my estimation – and many agree with me; in fact, the other night when I mentioned this in this House, I saw many heads nodding on the other side of the House – that is no plan at all. Albertans deserve better than a government that simply spends every extra penny as it becomes available. Again, I'm not necessarily disputing the need for hospitals and schools, although I would question whether or not we really need two new hospitals so close together – Sherwood Park and Fort Saskatchewan – when even the Premier of this province has admitted that that was a political decision and that one hospital would have been sufficient.

In fact, it makes me wonder what the reaction of members opposite might have been if the Prime Minister of this country had made some sort of an announcement, let's say – I don't know – a contract to build airplanes, and he had given one contract to one company in Winnipeg and another one to a company in Saskatoon and suggested that the only reason he let two contracts was because it was a political decision. It's just not a good enough reason for the taxpayers of this province.

9:40

My real concern, I suppose, when it comes to the surplus spending is that, again, history dictates that year after year we go through this same process, and what it illustrates to me, as I said, is that there is no plan, although certainly I've suggested before to the members of this government that if they use the word "plan" often enough, perhaps they'll start to believe that they do have one. If you're going to have surpluses year after year after year, not counting this year when the surplus is expected to be $10 billion or more, we've been averaging about $4 billion in surplus a year, Mr. Chairman, and there's no realistic reason to expect that that's not going to continue for a number of years, based on history. If that's the case, then Albertans deserve to know that there is a plan not just for how to have spent this year's $10 billion surplus. My God, let's start thinking about how we're going to deal with the surplus next year, if it should happen to be $8 billion or $10 billion, and in the year '07-08 and in '08-09.

This is an incredible opportunity for Albertans, and it's not good enough just to simply have the Premier flying around the province in a government jet . . . [interjection] It's not a jet. You're right. It's a turboprop, I guess, but it certainly does allow him to smoke.

It's just not good enough to have him flitting about the province in the government turboprop, announcing hundreds of millions of dollars day after day, and then bringing it to the House after the fact in the form of a supplementary bill, and it's already gone. Albertans had no input into that. There's an argument on the other side that every dollar gets passed in the House, but of course we've already talked about the fact that it gets passed in the House at the rate of $5 million a minute. That's, again, just not good enough for Albertans.

So I would strongly urge all of the members of this House to start thinking about the future of this province and not just the next quarter and how many millions or in this case – we're fortunate this year – how many billions of dollars might be available to spend on some pet project in the next quarter. Let's start talking about the next quarter century or the next two quarter centuries. Let's look at what this province could be if, rather than coming to this House with an appropriation bill every six months that's worth $2 billion or more, we actually had a plan for how to invest those dollars wisely, if we had a plan for how to make sure that when the oil is gone or when it's not $60 a barrel any longer or when there's no market for oil anymore and alternative technologies have been advanced and people aren't knocking down our doors to get our oil. Let's have a plan to make sure that all Albertans will continue to benefit from the great opportunity that we have today, as opposed to simply the bricks and mortar, ad hoc spending that we're doing right now.

Another thing I didn't touch on but that certainly causes me concern is that there's an awful lot of money in here – I believe my colleague from Edmonton-Centre mentioned this the other night – for bricks and mortar when it comes to health care and education, hospitals and schools, but very, very, very little in the way of supplementary spending to address the ongoing operation of those facilities, to address staffing, to address sustainability of those facilities to make sure that, you know, they don't end up as boarded-up brick edifices to this government, as we saw happen in the mid-1990s after the so-called Klein revolution, if I can call it that without contravening House rules. I'm not sure. I'm not meaning to name a member, but certainly the media and I think the public refer to it as that.

We ended up with a lot of the government buildings that were constructed in the late '80s and early '90s being literally boarded up, sold off. I'm not sure if they were sold off for a dollar, but they were certainly sold off, many of them, below market value. As a result, I think Alberta taxpayers took a big hit for that. I would hate to see our legacy from this tremendous opportunity that we have today be boarded-up, brick buildings in towns and communities across this province, and that be all we have left to show for the fact that oil was $60 or $80 a barrel and natural gas was $12 or $13 a gigajoule. It reminds me again of the bumper sticker that many of us sported on the backs of our vehicles in the mid-1980s: "Please, God, let there be another oil boom. I promise not to piss it all away next time." My fear is, Mr. Chairman, that if we're not careful, we're going to find ourselves with that bumper sticker on our cars again. That would be a travesty for all Albertans, and I would hate to see that.

Thank you very much.

The Chair: The hon. Member for Cardston-Taber-Warner.

Mr. Hinman: Thank you, Mr. Chairman. I thought that I was seven down the way. I just want to comment a little bit more. I was kind of rushed on a few of the things I wanted to cover before our evening break.

Going back to the plan again, Mr. Chairman, and what we're doing. It seems like this is a classic case where the money is literally burning a hole in our pocket. I'm very concerned that we don't have an actual formula set up for what we will do. It was almost a blessing to have the debt for so many years because we had to be responsible, and we understood that we needed to pay that off.

Mr. R. Miller: That's when they had a plan.

Mr. Hinman: Yes. Now that that's paid off, we need to pass a new bill on the percentage that we're going to put into the heritage trust fund. What I'd really like them to understand – and I'll refer back to the Scouts. I was at a youth conference with Scouts a while back, and one of the speakers got up and talked about the importance of restraint. He handed out a package of candy worth $5 to each of the young men and told them: "Hold this. You can't open it yet." At that point he said, "I'll give each of you the opportunity: you can have the candy, or I'll give you $20." We were going to be out there for a week. Out of that group of seven or eight kids there were a couple that wanted the candy although it was only worth $5 and they could have had $20 to buy it in a week's time. It seems like that's the case that we've got here. We've got $1.8 billion that could do a lot for our province, yet we won't be patient enough to sit and think and put a plan out on what really would be the best value for those dollars spent.

I just would really urge the government to slow down. I mean, we've done this already, but we're going to have a surplus in the next quarter and the quarter after that, to start putting it away into the heritage trust fund. We talk about inflation-proofing it. Well, it should be at $50 billion, a hundred billion dollars, not at the $12 billion, and there's nothing there.

The one area I also want to talk a little bit on and I referred to just for a few minutes is the superb effort that we get from the young people in rural Alberta. They don't always get the curriculum and the opportunities that the bigger cities have, and it's a concern in my area as they try to balance their education funding. It would be great to see, whether you had it in a scholarship fund or something set up for rural schools, that when they achieve such accomplishments as Raymond did in winning the tier 1 football here in the province, they receive some sort of incentive and reward for their hard work and achievements. It would be very pleasing, I think, to many rural areas if we were to recognize more and to reward them with extra funding for curriculum, extracurricular sports, and other areas where they put a great deal of work.

I just want to refer once again to the little town of Warner and not enough kids there in the school. They worked very hard. They've started that girls' hockey school there. It would be a wonderful addition to our province. It would be the gem of Canada, a growing ground for the women's Olympic hockey team. We seem to be missing some of these ideal opportunities. Whether they put in a $2 million or $8 million facility, it would be something that we would have for many, many years into the future and look back on with fond memories, as we have with many different institutes that we've started and seen the benefit of as we go.

9:50

There are just so many opportunities. It's hard to believe with $1.8 billion what we really could be doing if we were to sit back and have a long, hard debate and put everything on the table and say, "Well, here's all the projects that we're looking at," whether it's highway 63 twinning or the Warner hockey school, and really evaluate them and see where we can benefit Albertans. You know, is it increased research on brain surgery or helping the autistic? There are so many areas that we could, and I feel that we should, be putting these dollars toward. So I once again would say that I wish we'd take caution. We're going to have billions more coming in in the next months, years to come. It would be great to start building up a war chest and really have a priority list on where we want to spend this money.

With that, I'll turn the time over to someone else to share their ideas on where possibly we could be utilizing this $1.8 billion and that coming in the future.

The Chair: The hon. Member for Calgary-Varsity.

Mr. Chase: Thank you very much, Mr. Chair. I'd be remiss if I didn't bring out the infrastructure shortcomings of Calgary-Varsity, specifically the University of Calgary. The university has made the decision – basically it's been forced to make the decision – to borrow hundreds of millions of dollars for a series of projects, among them the digital library that's going to serve all postsecondary institutions through the SuperNet and the various linkages. The university shouldn't have to be going into further debt to promote postsecondary education.

It concerns me, and here would be an area where I'd like to help out the Minister of Advanced Education. The 80 and a half million dollar figure for postsecondary facilities infrastructure is not going to realize the 15,000 new seats by 2007, which the department has promised, without more investment in postsecondary infrastructure, whether it be at the University of Calgary, Mount Royal, SAIT, NAIT, throughout the province. Unless we get under way with creating the infrastructure to house these extra students, this goal of 15,000 basically a year from now is not going to happen. So I would like to see more spending in that particular area.

The government has recently acknowledged the University of Alberta's purchase of the former Bay building to have a downtown campus, and that's a very worthwhile expenditure. The ministry has also supplied some money to Bow Valley College for its extension, but it's about half of what is required. I would like to see an expanded downtown campus, kind of one-stop shopping. You could have representation from Mount Royal, from the University of Calgary, from the Alberta College of Art and Design, from the Southern Alberta Institute of Technology in that expanded central campus so that from a transportation point of view all services could be centrally located and easier transfers from one area to the other.

My concern is also that if by 2020 we're going to have 60,000 spaces, which are very much in need, we have to see that infrastructure under way. Again, I refer to the cranes as being the example of upcoming infrastructure. They're in very short supply in Calgary. I would like to offer to the Minister of Advanced Education my support for increasing the infrastructure budget. Let's get students into those seats. Let's turn out more postsecondary graduates, and let's give opportunities for high school students to a greater degree to access postsecondary opportunities within this province, whether it be in Calgary, Edmonton, or in satellite campuses throughout.

Thank you very much.

[The clauses of Bill 51 agreed to]

[Title and preamble agreed to]

The Chair: Shall the bill be reported? Are you agreed?

Hon. Members: Agreed.

The Chair: Opposed? Carried.

Bill 47

Alberta Association of Former MLAs Act

The Chair: Are there any comments, questions, or amendments to be offered on this bill? The hon. Member for St. Albert.

Mr. Flaherty: Yes. Thank you, Mr. Chair. First of all, these are mostly housekeeping issues, I believe. It seems to me that this bill requires a clear statement of its purpose, its mission. That would be one thing I would really like to see done and clearly stated.

One of the objectives I'd like to add to the bill, if I may suggest, is to inform students and the public about how government works in Alberta: the machinery, how it operates. That kind of endeavour would be very helpful.

On the matter of elections, which I believe is item 16(1), it says, "Within 3 months of the coming into force of this Act, the Speaker must appoint 7 former MLAs, who shall constitute the Board." Why don't we just have an election based on all the MLAs available in the province and have a board selected out of all MLAs? Just an ordinary election. I don't understand why this has to be appointed by one person. Who does it? Who does the appointment? Let's have an election.

An Hon. Member: The Speaker.

Mr. Flaherty: Well, the Speaker. Let's clarify that if that's the case, and I still would object to that if that's the case.

In terms of the mission statement, I'd like to see a mission statement because I believe it would clarify the role of this group, the Alberta association of former MLAs, and interface to make sure that there's no conflict with other groups in the province such as Rotary, Chambers of Commerce, Lions Club, et cetera, et cetera.

Those are three or four things I'd like to see addressed in this bill. Thank you very much, Mr. Chair.

The Chair: The hon. Member for Calgary-Varsity.

Mr. Chase: Thank you very much, Mr. Chairman. The hon. Member for Edmonton-McClung previously provided to all members an amendment. I don't know that you've assigned a particular number or letter to it, but it's the one that all members have on their desks, which reads: "All former MLAs are eligible to become members of the Association in accordance with any bylaws of the Association not less than one year after they cease to be MLAs." This was a substitution for section 6(1). At this point there has been no discussion. It was introduced, but it's yet to be debated.

The Chair: Hon. member, sorry to interrupt you, but there is an amendment on the floor, amendment A1.

Mr. Chase: Okay. Thank you.

The Chair: Just to refresh everyone's memory, A1 was introduced just before we rose and reported the last time this was debated. You all have copies of that. They have been distributed.

Did you want to speak on the amendment?

10:00

Mr. Chase: Thank you very much, Mr. Chair. What we're trying to achieve with this amendment is that you don't automatically become a member of the club, that there has to be at least call it a cooling-off period, a period of separation of at least one year before you qualify for this club. The concern is that there needs to be some sort of distance between being in a role of power and being in a club which may have considerably more power to it than what would first appear in Bill 47. The feeling is that there needs to be that period of separation. You don't slide from being an elected member right into what could be a very powerful association. We suggest that there be a year cooling-off period when a person leaves the department before they can seek a position of influence again with the government. That is the basis of this particular amendment.

I would invite any discussion from other members on the amendment. Thank you, Mr. Chair.

The Chair: The hon. Member for Wetaskiwin-Camrose.

Mr. Johnson: Thank you, Mr. Chairman. In addressing the amendment, I can understand that there might be merit for a cooling-off period where there might be personal financial gain as a result of a former position held or where there might be political gain. But this bill states very clearly in section 2 that it is a "non-profit body corporate," and section 3(1) states that it is "non-partisan," so I see no need for any cooling-off period. I've never heard of an alumni association that would institute a cooling-off period of six months. It seems to me that once you're an alumnus, you're an alumnus.

The Chair: The hon. Member for Edmonton-Rutherford.

Mr. R. Miller: Thank you very much, Mr. Chairman. Just briefly, I'd like to point out that one of the things that this amendment would do, if it were to be adopted by this House, is set a tremendous example not only for this Assembly but for this province, I believe. We in the Official Opposition have spoken many times very vociferously about the need for a cooling-off period in the public service. Perhaps this Assembly could draw a page from the federal Conservative election campaign handbook, which is calling for an extended cooling-off period not only for MPs but also senior officials in the federal government. This, I believe, would perhaps send a really positive message to the government of the day in Alberta as to the value of having a cooling-off period when ones leaves a position of high authority.

The Chair: The hon. Member for Cardston-Taber-Warner.

Mr. Hinman: Thank you, Mr. Chairman. I've had the privilege of speaking with the hon. Member for Wetaskiwin-Camrose. It appears from speaking with him that it's all in good intention, but I guess, for the record, I'd like to put a few things on there. I, too, agree with a cooling-off period, but if, in fact, the bill was to say that if an alumni member was not going to be running again, I believe that would be different. I'm very concerned, Mr. Chairman, that this is nothing but a possibility for displaced MLAs from the government to stay closer and receive some added help in travelling around. Nonprofit doesn't mean that it doesn't accept or receive any money and I'm – it seems awfully noisy in here. I just wanted to see what people were talking about.

The Chair: Hon. members, the hon. Member for Cardston-Taber-Warner has the floor.

Mr. Hinman: Thank you, Mr. Chairman. I have great concern that this could possibly be an extension to the government in power in doing work in promoting this government, that the costs to cover expenses in other areas could in fact be covered by taxpayers' money. I would feel much better if, in fact, it was to say that this is at arm's length and that there would be no money received from the government that would entail any tax dollars and that it would only come from actual people that are members of this association. They wouldn't be going to the government saying, "Well, we want to promote this or promote that in this area, this educational program," and say that this is non-profitable.

We have many nonprofit organizations in our country now where 80 per cent of the money raised goes to running those organizations. I think that loses the spirit. I understand that that's not the intent of this, but I have those concerns. I think that it could be amended and covered in there to make sure that this really is a nonprofit organization, that they raise their own money, that there's no appealing to the government or the Speaker's office for funding to promote good government in any way.

I guess, like I say, once again, if they were to say that this was for alumni, that those MLAs aren't going to be coming back – they'd have to have a cooling-off period before they'd want to run again. In my own area I run into this all the time and was confronted by a former MLA asking what I was doing at a function because he thought that I didn't belong there while he was being recognized by the minister. I found that somewhat shocking.

I personally have concerns about, you know, about what will and could happen if, in fact, they have an association now to actually give them . . .

An Hon. Member: Self-promotion.

Mr. Hinman: . . . self-promotion in those areas.

I hope that the intent of this bill is truly what it is and that perhaps we would tighten up a few of the lines to clarify that there will be no money coming from the Speaker's office or any government area. Thank you.

The Chair: The hon. Member for Calgary-Varsity.

Mr. Chase: Yes, hon. Chair. Because we have a number of amendments to discuss, I move that we go to the question at this point.

Thank you.

[Motion on amendment A1 lost]

The Chair: The hon. Member for Calgary-Mountain View on the bill.

Dr. Swann: Yes. Thank you, Mr. Chairman. I'd like to suggest another amendment to Bill 47, Alberta Association of Former MLAs Act, that it be amended in section 4(2)(a) by striking out the word "government." I have the appropriate number of copies here.

The Chair: We will refer to the amendment that's being distributed as amendment A2.

Would the Member for Calgary-Mountain View care to proceed?

10:10

Dr. Swann: Thank you, Mr. Chairman. Clearly, one of the key issues for us as members of the Assembly is to build public trust. One of the concerns I and my colleagues have about this bill is that it may not have gone far enough in building public trust around the formation of this association. Building on the discussions that were earlier expressed, it appears – and it may not be the intent of the bill – that this association can go to government for benefits. I don't think that's an appropriate capacity for this association.

If we want to be seen to be independent and associated amongst ourselves for the purposes of building an understanding and contributing to the public good, to have the appearance that we can then come back to government and be funded again, whether it's for trips or whether it's other activities that we want to undertake, to have the word "government" in there is unfortunate. I think we can accomplish the same goals for what I think are the true purposes of that association without having recourse to government, which may be perceived to be self-interest and not helpful to building the public trust.

Thank you, Mr. Chairman.

The Chair: The hon. Member for Wetaskiwin-Camrose on amendment A2.

Mr. Johnson: Thank you, Mr. Chairman. I can understand the comments from the hon. member, but section 4(2)(a) addresses some of the ways that the association could give benefit, not get benefit, so that they can "initiate, finance and administer programs and activities relevant to its objects," and of course, that means that it must be nonpartisan, "including programs and activities by government" such as scholarships, for example. If they would like to contribute to scholarships for our pages, for example, they would be able to do that. If they wanted to contribute to scholarships for students in universities run by government, they would be able to do that. I see no problem there at all.

It seems to me that this is being interpreted the wrong way. It's not going to government to get; it's going to government to give, to participate in any programs such as scholarship programs or other types of programs for the public good that the association may want to contribute to, so I would vote against the amendment.

The Chair: The hon. Member for Lethbridge-East on the amendment A2.

Ms Pastoor: Thank you, Mr. Chair. I'll just be very brief. I really believe that this association should not be in any way, shape, or form connected to the government. After all, we are talking about former MLAs, which makes them only ordinary citizens after they've left here. I don't believe that they should be connected to the government.

I believe that the concept is excellent, but if it is so good, then it really should not require public dollars to keep it going. If they want to have scholarships, it's a great idea, but I think two or three good golf tournaments would raise those kinds of dollars without being connected to the government. That's why I would support this amendment to remove "government" from this bill.

The Chair: The hon. Member for Cardston-Taber-Warner on amendment A2.

Mr. Hinman: Yeah. I'm just not sure what the hon. Member for Wetaskiwin-Camrose means when he says "they." I take it that "they" is the government and not "they" as the MLAs. I, too, would support this amendment. It's critical that this is nonpartisan. If you're at the Rotary or any other club, they don't have connections with the government. I, too, am very worried where this will lead to and am concerned. I think that we really should look at this amendment and realize that for the good of the association, being a separate identity from the government the association would be bona fide as a more credible association that's out there really trying to do good, not promoting the current government in power, which it seems to me it has the ability of doing.

[Motion on amendment A2 lost]

The Chair: The hon. Member for Calgary-Mountain View.

Dr. Swann: Thank you, Mr. Chairman. I've tabled another suggested amendment to Bill 47, Alberta Association of Former MLAs Act. In this case in section 8(1) I'm amending it by striking out "appointed or holding office" and in section 16(3) by striking out "appointed or" after "until their successors in office have been."

The intent of this amendment, these two changes, is that again there could be a perception that if the Alberta government, even in the first instance, is appointing the officers to this organization, there could be a conflict of interest. There could be a perceived benefit to accrue from those who are in government and who immediately leaving government are then appointed to a body that potentially could gain benefits from their association with government.

I would ask you to seriously consider this in the context of building public trust. This is not going to change the ultimate purpose of the organization, but both of these amendments are intended to not only protect the public interest and the public trust but to be seen to be addressing concerns that some of us have about the possibility of abusing this organization for self-gain.

The Chair: Did the hon. Member for Wetaskiwin-Camrose wish to respond?

Mr. Johnson: Well, thank you for the comments from the Member for Calgary-Mountain View. I guess it depends upon how much we want to legislate what this organization can do. It was not my intent that we would legislate everything, and the bill leaves it up to the association to include in their bylaws just how their directors are to be engaged, whether they're to be elected or appointed. It seems to me that's as far as I would want to go in terms of dictating or giving guidelines to the association. In other words, there is some flexibility, and it's assumed that the association would address the situation in their bylaws.

Dr. Swann: It may be a misinterpretation on my part, but it appears that the government of the day will appoint the first board of this organization. That's where the conflict of interest is. The members themselves should be electing or identifying their own leadership. You're prescribing that in the existing act.

Mr. Johnson: It is not the government of the day; it's the Speaker of the Legislature. There's quite a difference.

The Chair: The hon. Member for Cardston-Taber-Warner on amendment A3.

Mr. Hinman: Thank you, Mr. Chairman. I think it has been said very clearly. The perception here is very much that this is partisan. Perhaps those on the government side don't see that as partisan, but the public and those on the other side – I just have never known of an organization that's a subcommittee from government that would say, whether it's Rotary or something else, that we're going to have our first president appointed from somewhere else. If these people are joining this association, it only makes sense that those who are there, just as we elect the Speaker, would elect the president or the chairman of that association. I see no reason for outside interference in appointing who is actually going to lead that association.

The perception here truly is the question of what the motive is. This is what brings all of it into a very, well, questionable area. What is the motive of this? I believe that the hon. Member for Wetaskiwin-Camrose is doing and wanting to do it on that level, but the way the wording is, it's very much dictated by the Speaker of the day. It just doesn't seem clear, and I would hope that all members would look at this and vote against the Speaker appointing those first members. It just isn't necessary. The MLAs that want to join that have the ability within themselves to nominate and elect their board, and that's where it should be. I really would ask that all members seriously look at this and that we accept this amendment.

10:20

The Chair: The hon. Member for Lethbridge-East.

Ms Pastoor: Thank you, Mr. Chair.

An Hon. Member: Okay, be brief.

Ms Pastoor: In your dreams.

The last section of this bill is 17, and it says that "this Act comes into force on Proclamation," which to me means almost immediately when this is being passed. Therefore, this Speaker of the House definitely is the Speaker of the government. I have never in my knowledge known any government, either federal or provincial, that actually has a Speaker elected that doesn't come from the government side of the House. So I find that comment perhaps a little discouraging.

I really don't think that if you have a group of former MLAs who are now ordinary citizens, that because they've had the experience of being MLAs, they are totally incapable of sitting down in a room and electing their own presidents and their own vice-presidents and whoever else they want to go on this board. To have someone appoint them I think is an absolute insult to the people that want to join this organization. I'm not saying that I don't want to join it. I think it's a great concept. What I don't like is the way it's being presented.

The Chair: The hon. Member for Calgary-Varsity on amendment A3.

Mr. Chase: Thank you very much. If the House in general hasn't seen the direction we're going, we're trying to have a very definite separation, instead of between state and church, in this case between the state and the club, between the government and this club concept. What we're concerned about is that the Speaker basically is the key government representative, and we don't want to see the government or the Speaker meddling in the affairs of a private club because there could be undue influence brought to bear. What we're trying to do is basically cut that umbilical cord, remove the intravenous tube which funnels directly from the government to this club. The two entities need to be separated, and hopefully the importance of that separation and being seen to be separated is as important to the government members as it is to us. It needs to be independent and able to make its own decisions, not appointed ones from some outside government source.

The Chair: The hon. Deputy Government House Leader.

Mr. Stevens: Yes, Mr. Chairman. I've been listening to the members opposite on this particular matter. Clearly, they have a concern with respect to this particular provision. I by no means ascribe to the idea of cutting umbilical cords, but it seems to me appropriate that bylaws can provide for the appointment of the first officers and directors. They can be elected from the people who join if that, in fact, is what the bylaws say. To my knowledge that is what happens with new societies or new companies. Those people who are members of that organization band together, they have an election, and they appoint the first group that are going to manage or direct it.

I think that the point made by the members opposite with respect to this is quite appropriate. It is not necessary that the Speaker appoint the first directors. The bylaws can provide for an election. I must admit that it's not often that I listen to the other side and am convinced by what they have to say, but on this particular matter I do support this amendment.

[The voice vote indicated that the motion on amendment A3 carried]

[Several members rose calling for a division. The division bell was rung at 10:24 p.m.]

Ms Blakeman: I'm willing to put forward a motion to shorten the division bells to two minutes, if that's acceptable to the Assembly.

[Unanimous consent granted]

[Two minutes having elapsed, the committee divided]

[Mr. Marz in the chair]

For the motion:

Abbott	Fritz	Oberg
Amery	Haley	Oberle
Blakeman	Hancock	Pastoor
Brown	Hinman	Rogers
Calahasen	Johnston	Stelmach
Chase	Liepert	Stevens
DeLong	Lindsay	Swann
Doerksen	Melchin	Taylor
Flaherty	Miller, R.	VanderBurg

Against the motion:

Danyluk	Knight	Ouellette
Goudreau	Lund	Strang
Griffiths	Magnus	Webber
Johnson

Totals:	For – 27	Against – 10
---------	----------	--------------

[Motion on amendment A3 carried]

10:30

Ms Pastoor: I don't want to think I'm on a roll, but I'd like to move an amendment to Bill 47 which will be known as A4. I'd like to change 5.1: "The Association is not eligible for grants or other funding from the Government of Alberta or from a Committee or Office of the Legislative Assembly of Alberta."

I think that this amendment is fairly clear in what I'm intending here. Again, it's from our former conversation on the fact that we really have to keep this group of now ordinary, unemployed, perhaps, citizens in a group that wants to do something really, really positive with the knowledge that we have been privileged to learn in this House, for which we were well paid to learn in this House, and disseminate. Now we can go out and disseminate that with even, if I might say, an altruistic view of how we can share this knowledge with whomever. But we have to do it as a solid group, that we stand alone.

So this is just one more step to keep the division very clear from the group of the former MLAs and the government of the day.

The Chair: Anyone else on amendment A4?

Mr. Johnson: Mr. Chairman, section 14(1) says that "the Association is not an agent of the Government and the directors and employees of the Association are not part of the public service of Alberta." Therefore, the government has no obligation or commitment to this organization. It seems to me that to restrict them in such a way that they cannot even have an office or a room here in Edmonton is going a little bit far and is a little bit picky because I suppose that you could say that that is, you know, government contributing something to their cause.

I vote against this amendment.

The Chair: The hon. Member for Calgary-Mountain View.

Dr. Swann: Thank you, Mr. Chairman. Again I have to emphasize that we are under scrutiny as never before in the country as government members. The whole question of self-interest, of benefits from association with very powerful positions and friends and connections in government: this will not fly with most of my constituents in terms of the opportunity that it presents for the organization to gain from previous connections with this government and actually receive money from this government. It is not acceptable.

If we believe that the federal government has not been true in honouring its commitment to the public good at this time, we have to believe that we are setting the stage for very similar criticism, very similar abuse if we include the possibility of getting money from this government for former MLAs. It just doesn't wash.

Mr. Hinman: I also would like to talk in favour of this amendment, that it's the perception. Every time this association does something and receives money from the government, it's going to be looked on with a tainted view. In order to be above reproach, I feel that this is a common-sense thing. Again, let's do the right thing and cut ties with the government in funding so that it is clean and that we're raising the money charitably on our own, out doing good works, and not going to the government and saying: "Oh, we've got connections. We can get you something." That's going to be the perception on this.

The Chair: The hon. Member for Calgary-Varsity.

Mr. Chase: Thank you very much. The members of this House collectively demonstrated their intelligence tonight in passing the last amendment, which clearly separated government influence, whether it be the government itself or the Speaker, from this organization, this club. We are all capable as elected individuals of putting forward good ideas without connecting to the government financial pipeline.

If this organization is to achieve any independent benefits and be a spokesperson for a variety of activities throughout this province, a sort of mentorship group, then it cannot rely on the apron strings of the government. It must be not only independent; it must be perceived to be independent. If there is a financial connection, finance equals influence. Let's cut that influence, potential or otherwise. Let's remain separate. It should not be funded by the taxpayer's dollar. It should be free of government influence, and that's what this amendment is trying to achieve: independence.

[Motion on amendment A4 lost]

The Chair: On the bill, the Member for Calgary-Varsity.

Mr. Chase: Thank you very much. Through the appropriate process of notification of amendments I am moving on behalf of the hon. Member for Edmonton-McClung an amendment to section 3(1)(e). Prior to discussing it, if I could have the page give a copy to the desk and copies to all members, and then we'll give the members a chance to discuss it.

Thank you.

The Chair: We will refer to this amendment as amendment A5. Please proceed, hon. Member for Calgary-Varsity.

Mr. Chase: Thank you very much. The objection that the hon. Member for Edmonton-McClung brought in in this particular amendment is to find out how absolutely self-serving the idea of "to protect and promote the interests of former MLAs" is. When we are either defeated or we resign, to a large extent I would hope that we're on our own, that we've broken that connection between the government and the gravy train. This business of "protect and promote": what I'm concerned about is basically that we give sort of a government seal to what I would call the equivalent of Mattel's Ken and Barbie inaction figures. In other words, we're allowing people to maintain that handout. We're still connected to the government either through influence or through financial arrangements.

10:40

This notion of "protect and promote the interests of former MLAs": is that at the expense of the taxpayer? To what extent do we protect and promote our own self-interests? If there has to be a connection to the government to stand up as the shield to protect our former interests, then I believe that we have to stop this train. At some point we have to stand on our own. We have to be reliant. We have a very financially sound pension arrangement. Let the members achieve their own independent standing without protecting and promoting our own self-interests within this club, not at the expense of the people.

Thank you.

The Chair: The hon. Member for Cardston-Taber-Warner.

Mr. Hinman: Thank you, Mr. Chairman. I guess I was offended about the gravy train, and perhaps Members' Services needs to address something if they're on a gravy train over there. We've got crumbs in other places.

I'd like the hon. Member for Wetaskiwin-Camrose to explain the phrase "to protect and promote the interests of former MLAs." I believe that what he's trying to say there is that if your interest is in zero or net metering for electricity or something else, you might want to promote those things. But the wording there just seems to be offensive, that it's about us. This whole association should be about trying to make Alberta better.

It just seemed to me like we should be striking that because it's in contrast with the first four points on what we're trying to do and build, you know: good spirit amongst all former MLAs, working with the community, and promoting other people interested in serving in government. So I think I will vote in favour of this amendment, wishing to have it struck, just again on the perception and what we're trying to accomplish here. It seems counterproductive.

Mr. Johnson: Mr. Chairman, I think that I don't interpret this the same way as I'm hearing. It's kind of a motherhood statement really: "to protect and promote the interests of former MLAs." I see the interest, for example, as being interested in good parliamentary democracy, things like that. I don't see that it's such a controversial statement at all. It is the same statement that's in the Quebec bill, the Ontario bill, and the B.C. bill. They all have the same thing. I don't really see that it's derogatory in any way.

I'll vote against the amendment.

[Motion on amendment A5 lost]

The Chair: Are you ready for the question?

Hon. Members: Question.

[The clauses of Bill 47 as amended agreed to]

[Title and preamble agreed to]

The Chair: Shall the bill be reported? Are you agreed?

Hon. Members: Agreed.

The Chair: Opposed? That's carried.
The hon. Government House Leader.

Mr. Hancock: Thank you, Mr. Chairman. I would move that the committee rise and report bills 47 and 51.

[Motion carried]

[The Deputy Speaker in the chair]

The Deputy Speaker: The hon. Member for Airdrie-Chestermere.

Ms Haley: Thank you, Mr. Speaker. The Committee of the Whole has had under consideration certain bills. The committee reports the following bill: Bill 51. The committee reports the following bill with some amendments: Bill 47. I wish to table copies of all amendments considered by the Committee of the Whole on this date for the official records of the Assembly.

The Deputy Speaker: Does the Assembly concur in the report?

Hon. Members: Concur.

The Deputy Speaker: Opposed? So ordered.
The hon. Government House Leader.

Mr. Hancock: Thank you, Mr. Speaker. I would move that the House adjourn until 1:30 p.m. tomorrow.

[Motion carried; at 10:48 p.m. the Assembly adjourned to Wednesday at 1:30 p.m.]

Legislative Assembly of Alberta

Title: Wednesday, November 30, 2005 1:30 p.m.
Date: 20051130
[The Speaker in the chair]

head: Prayers

The Speaker: Good afternoon.

Let us pray. Grant that we the members of our province's Legislature fulfill our office with honesty and integrity. May our first concern be for the good of all of our people. Let us be guided by our deliberations this day. Amen.

Please be seated.

head: Introduction of Visitors

Mr. Liepert: Mr. Speaker, it gives me a great deal of pleasure today to introduce someone who is very familiar to those who were serving in this Assembly prior to November 22 of last year. Although she now resides in the Premier's constituency, it gives me a great deal of pleasure to introduce my predecessor as the MLA for Calgary-West from 1997 to 2004, Karen Kryczka.

The Speaker: The hon. the Premier.

Mr. Klein: Thank you, Mr. Speaker. It's my pleasure to introduce to you and all members of the Legislative Assembly four guests this afternoon. Sometime ago my guests attended the 12th annual Zep classic golf tournament and silent auction, with the charity being the Zebra society for abused children. They bid on and won a lunch with me, and it has only taken us two years to co-ordinate all our schedules and honour that prize. I'm pleased that my guests, Audrey Poliakiwski, Bill Poliakiwski, Eugene Dmytriw, and Marcia Arnot, were finally able to join me today. It was a very enjoyable lunch, and I certainly hope it was worth the wait. They are seated in the members' gallery, and I would ask that they rise and receive the traditional warm welcome of the Legislature.

head: Introduction of Guests

The Speaker: The hon. Minister of Agriculture, Food and Rural Development.

Mr. Horner: Thank you, Mr. Speaker. It's a pleasure to rise today and introduce to you and through you a fairly large group, 104 visitors, from the great city of St. Albert, just north of us. There are about 100 bright, capable students from the Muriel Martin school accompanied by dedicated, hard-working teachers and a caring, devoted group of parents. I'll go through the teachers first: Mrs. Rhonda Surmon, Mr. Rick Lof, Mrs. Katie Boyd, Mr. Ryan Mooney. The parent helpers are Mr. Martyn Piper, Mrs. Crystal Karbonik, Mrs. Susan Jackson, Mrs. Heidi Brett, Mr. Ross Newton, Mrs. Brenda Clark, Mrs. Susan Kamminga, Mr. Jack Dunnigan, Mrs. Patti Boucher, Mrs. Tracy MacLeod, Mrs. Cherylyn Thorsley, and Mr. Jeff Hebner. They are in both galleries, I believe, of the Legislature. I'd like them to rise and receive the traditional warm welcome of this House.

The Speaker: Hon. Member for Edmonton-Centre, have your guests arrived?

Ms Blakeman: No, they haven't. They're coming in at 2 o'clock, so if I may introduce them following question period.

The Speaker: Sure.

The hon. Leader of the Official Opposition.

Dr. Taft: Thank you so much, Mr. Speaker. It's a real pleasure to introduce to you and to all members of the Assembly Craig Miller, who is seated in the public gallery. Craig is the author of his first novel, Against the Strength of Night, which was just published. Craig was born in Halifax, but he grew up in Edmonton and attended Old Scona high school and the University of Alberta. He's currently working on two works of fiction, one in the fantasy genre. Craig is the oldest son of Rhea Jansen and her husband, the hon. Member for Edmonton-Glenora. I'd ask Craig to rise and receive the warm welcome of all members of the Assembly.

The Speaker: The hon. leader of the third party.

Mr. Mason: Thank you very much, Mr. Speaker. It gives me great pleasure to introduce to you and through you to this Assembly Pat Spady. Pat is a physical therapist who lives near Lamont, Alberta. She has organized a series of health care vigils here at the Alberta Legislature over the past three weeks to help protect public medicare. We appreciate her dedication and commitment to this issue. I'd now like to ask that she rise and receive the traditional warm welcome of this Assembly.

The Speaker: The hon. Member for Bonnyville-Cold Lake.

Mr. Ducharme: Thank you, Mr. Speaker. It is my great pleasure to introduce to you and through you to all members of the Assembly a group of hard-working individuals who comprise the staff of government members. We have with us today a group of 28, headed by our director of caucus, Jason Zwarg. He is responsible for making our lives run smoothly, along with our 18 legislative assistants. Mike Simpson is our senior researcher, and his group of researchers provide us with everything from speeches to background information.

The groups today are seated in both the members' and the public galleries. I would ask them to rise as I call their names. The legislative assistants are Jan Aldous, Darlene Beckstrand, Jon Buck, Darla Cowdell, Carmen Frebrowski, Brenda Goebel, Matt Hebert, Phyllis Hennig, Cheryl Koss, Cheryl Lees, Stacey Leighton, Barb Letendre, Brendalee Loveseth, Bethany MacGillivray, Marie Martin, Brock Mulligan, Eric Taylor, Lanny Westersund. The researchers are our senior researcher, Mike Simpson, and Jordon Copping, Dan Hanson, Elizabeth Jeffray, Tyler Lawrason, Emir Mehinagic, Peter Pilarski, David Williams, Jeff Kasbrick, and the director of caucus, Jason Zwarg. Please join me in giving them our traditional warm welcome.

The Speaker: Are there others? The hon. Minister of Advanced Education.

Mr. Hancock: Thank you, Mr. Speaker. I think I spied in the members' gallery Mr. Terry Downey, who is the president of St. Mary's University College in Calgary. St. Mary's is one of the private, not-for-profit institutions, which does exceptional service for students in Alberta. I had the opportunity to meet with Terry and other presidents at noon today. I'd ask Terry to rise and receive the traditional warm welcome of the Assembly.

head: Oral Question Period

The Speaker: First Official Opposition main question. The hon. Leader of the Official Opposition.

Walton International Group Inc.

Dr. Taft: Thank you, Mr. Speaker. The RRSPs and investments of countless Albertans are influenced by the operation of the Alberta

Securities Commission, but the unanswered questions about the commission are piling up. For example, Walton International is a company that sells undivided interests in land in Alberta. According to a 2002 Alberta Securities Commission ruling, companies that sell undivided interests in land must file a prospectus. However, Walton continues to sell undivided interests without filing a complete prospectus. Like Zi Corporation, Walton is well connected to top Alberta Tories. My question is to the Minister of Finance. Would the minister please share with this Assembly why Walton International, after the 2002 undivided interest ruling by the Alberta Securities Commission, was allowed to operate unregulated from 2002 to 2004?

Mrs. McClellan: Mr. Speaker, I do not have any first-hand knowledge of this. However, I did ask the hon. member to bring specific cases forward, and I will certainly endeavour to get a response and provide it to him.

The Speaker: The hon. leader.

Dr. Taft: Thank you, Mr. Speaker. We'll be tabling all the documents at the appropriate time.

To the same minister: could the minister please explain why the Alberta Securities Commission has taken such a soft approach to Walton when the B.C. Securities Commission has taken a much firmer approach?

1:40

Mrs. McClellan: Again, Mr. Speaker, as I've indicated in the House prior, I do not get involved in the day-to-day operations of the Alberta Securities Commission. However, I have made the commitment that I will research this particular action after, of course, receiving the tabled documents, which I assume will happen later. I can tell the hon. member that if he wanted an answer to that question, he could have simply given me the information this morning – we saw each other earlier – and I would have probably had the answer for him now.

The Speaker: The hon. leader.

Dr. Taft: Thank you, Mr. Speaker. To the Premier: given that we don't have a lobbyist registry in the province, could the Premier please advise this Assembly of the steps taken by Walton to have this government's ear?

Mr. Klein: I know Walton International. I've known the company for some time. Pat Doherty, I believe, is the president. Bill Doherty runs their operations. They do extensive work in Asia. I understand that they land bank. My daughter used to work for Walton about four years ago. I've been fishing with Pat Doherty and his son, Bill. I know nothing of their operations other than they own some land in the vicinity of Spruce Meadows. They also own some land, as I understand it, or have assembled some land in the vicinity of the proposed packing house northeast of Calgary. What else do I know about the corporation? That's about it.

The Speaker: Second Official Opposition main question. The hon. Leader of the Official Opposition.

Labour Relations Board

Dr. Taft: Thank you, Mr. Speaker. Albertans should expect this government to administer this province's labour laws with fairness and justice. Today's revelation that the vice-chair of the Alberta Labour Relations Board actively participated in drafting a government bill indicates that this supposed impartial judicial body is being used as a tool of this government. The referees should not be making the rules of the game. To the Premier: given that a minister for his government has denied that the Alberta Labour Relations Board was involved in the drafting of Bill 27 regulations, a statement now completely proven to be false, what does the Premier plan to do to restore public confidence in the Labour Relations Board?

Mr. Klein: Well, it's news to me that a minister was involved. The information I have is that internal e-mails mistakenly released – that is, publicly released – by the Privacy Commissioner suggest that the Alberta Labour Relations Board impartiality has been breached. The e-mails indicated that the board sent draft regulations to the government for Bill 27 – as I said before, I am unaware that any minister was involved – the legislation that consolidated the health care bargaining units. I recall that. The Privacy Commissioner undoubtedly will have to answer any questions about why or how these e-mails were released. I would remind members of the Legislature that the Privacy Commissioner reports to the Legislature, not to me.

I understand also, Mr. Speaker, that there is the matter of ultra vires here. The Court of Appeal has before it arguments about the board's role in Bill 27. I can't comment any further on that case in that it is before the courts.

The Speaker: The hon. leader.

Dr. Taft: Thank you, Mr. Speaker. The minister involved is the Member for Lethbridge-West. We will table the documents at the appropriate time.

To the Premier again: will the Premier admit that there is a clear and undeniable conflict of interest in allowing the vice-chairman of the Labour Relations Board to draft legislation and then to chair tribunals to interpret it?

Mr. Klein: Mr. Speaker, I'm sorry; it's sub judice. That's the word I was looking for. You caught me off guard.

I don't know. I haven't had a chance to talk to the minister in question as to whether or not he elicited help from the Labour Relations Board in the drafting of regulations vis-à-vis Bill 27, but I can say that because the matter is sub judice, I can't comment any further on the case. It is before the courts.

The Speaker: The hon. leader.

Dr. Taft: Thank you. Again to the Premier: given that this newly public information shows that the Labour Relations Board is biased and that many of the decisions in the past are now under a cloud of suspicion, will the Premier initiate a full public inquiry into the operations of the Alberta Labour Relations Board?

Mr. Klein: Mr. Speaker, first of all, I take exception that the Labour Relations Board is biased.

As I indicated, this matter is before the courts. Now, the courts, as I understand it, are very public bodies, and the hon. Leader of the Official Opposition can attend the courtroom and the court proceedings. He can sit there and listen to every word. That, in fact, is a public inquiry.

The Speaker: Third Official Opposition main question. The hon. Member for Edmonton-Manning.

Mr. Backs: Thank you, Mr. Speaker. The mission of the Alberta Labour Relations Board is "to administer, interpret and enforce Alberta's collective bargaining laws in an impartial, knowledgeable, efficient, timely and consistent way." Alberta's labour movement has lost confidence in the impartiality of this board. A board vice-chair designed legislation and then sat to judge its interpretation.

My question is to the Minister of Human Resources and Employment. Will the minister do anything to restore public confidence in the supposedly independent and impartial Alberta Labour Relations Board?

The Speaker: The hon. minister.

Mr. Cardinal: Thank you very much, Mr. Speaker. I think the public has confidence in our government. To start with, the question about the board's role in Bill 27, of course, as the Premier says, is before the courts, and I will not comment specifically on that particular issue.

The Alberta Labour Relations Board itself is an independent and impartial body. The Alberta Labour Relations Board has no involvement in the approval of policy in Alberta. Good advice leads to good legislation, Mr. Speaker. The board is one of several stakeholders that may be – may be – consulted about labour relations issues flowing from policy decisions done by the government.

In addition, as far as confidence, in a recent independent study on transparency and openness of labour boards in North America, Alberta tied for first in that process.

Mr. Backs: Who was the judge of that?

Mr. Speaker, to the same minister, will the minister inquire into the actions of the Alberta Labour Relations Board to see if it has unfairly advanced the so-called Christian Labour Association in the interests of certain employers?

Mr. Cardinal: No, Mr. Speaker, I won't.

The Speaker: The hon. member.

Mr. Backs: Thank you, Mr. Speaker. To the same minister: did the minister have any knowledge of this flagrant abuse of an independent, semi-judicial board, and if he did, will he accept ministerial responsibility and resign?

Mr. Cardinal: No, Mr. Speaker.

Mr. Mason: Back in March of 2003 a bill that restructured health care bargaining by tearing up dozens of existing collective agreements was rammed through this Legislature. The minister insisted at the time that the Labour Relations Board was not involved in drafting that law, and we can provide that, Mr. Speaker. Documents that the government has fought for two years to keep secret have proven otherwise. I will table these documents at the appropriate time. My question is to the Premier. Given that one of the board's vice-chairmen actually wrote the outline of the draft health care restructuring law, will the Premier come clean and admit that the government was not telling the truth when it claimed back in 2003 that the LRB was not involved in drafting this law?

1:50

Mr. Klein: I don't know what was said or what wasn't said back two or three years ago. All I know, Mr. Speaker, from my briefings is that Bill 27, the act now in question, is being challenged before the Court of Appeal. It is therefore sub judice, and I really can't comment.

The Speaker: The hon. leader.

Mr. Mason: Thank you, Mr. Speaker. Well, I'll ask the Premier about the LRB then. To restore Albertans' faith in the Labour Relations Board given that it's been seriously compromised by this government, will the government now ask for the immediate resignation of the LRB chair and the two vice-chairmen who seriously breached their duty of impartiality by siding with health care employers against health care unions, and if not, why not?

Mr. Klein: Mr. Speaker, that is the question precisely that is before the courts, the question as to whether the unions were compromised by the LRB or, in fact, by any member of the government. So that matter is sub judice in that it is before the courts.

Mr. Mason: It's not sub anything, Mr. Speaker. It's just subclarity.

To clear the air, will the government call for an immediate public inquiry into the incestuous relationship which exists in this province between the government, health care employers, and the top echelon of the Labour Relations Board?

Mr. Klein: Mr. Speaker, that question was asked by the hon. Leader of the Official Opposition, and my answer is the same. The Court of Appeal is indeed a public inquiry – very, very public – and I would ask not only the Leader of the Official Opposition but the leader of the third party to attend the court proceedings and see for himself.

The Speaker: The hon. Member for Whitecourt-St. Anne, followed by the hon. Member for Lethbridge-East.

Affordable Supportive Living Program

Mr. VanderBurg: Thank you, Mr. Speaker. There are issues out in the constituency that people are concerned about, and the recent announcement of $140 million in capital funding for seniors' supportive living in affordable housing projects was certainly great news for all Albertans. Part of that announcement was $15 million for lodge upgrades, especially appreciated by housing providers and rural communities like those of Mayerthorpe in my constituency. Those lodges are aged and in need of great repairs. My questions are all to the Minister of Seniors and Community Supports. Given that details are sketchy, my seniors' foundation is asking me many questions. Can the minister advise how this funding for lodge upgrades will be allocated throughout the province?

The Speaker: The hon. minister.

Mrs. Fritz: Well, thank you, Mr. Speaker. The member is absolutely right. The Premier's funding announcement has been very well received by communities and by groups throughout the province like the Alberta Senior Citizens' Housing Association, which I had an opportunity to meet with last week and speak to 400 members about this funding announcement. This funding, as you know, is to ensure that our provincially supported lodges are going to meet the community needs and the needs of our seniors.

As you know, we have almost 150 lodges in Alberta, and that's for 9,000 residents. The priority that the member has asked about, the priority for this funding, will be for our oldest lodges, especially those that are in need of renovation, and also for urgent repairs in other lodges; for example, boilers or roof repairs or whatever the community brings forward.

The Speaker: The hon. member.

Mr. VanderBurg: Well, thank you, Mr. Speaker. Again to the same minister: how can my foundation operators request this funding?

The Speaker: The hon. minister.

Mrs. Fritz: Well, thank you, Mr. Speaker. As I said, we are focusing on lodges that would require urgent repairs and those that have not been recently upgraded. I'd like to let this member know that that would include the Pleasant View Lodge in Mayerthorpe, which he mentioned in the question. You and those in the community that may be listening to this have to recognize that the Mayerthorpe lodge is over 40 years old and is in urgent need of repair.

As I told you, I did speak to 400 members of ASCHA last week. At that meeting of the annual convention I did let them know that we will be sending a letter. I think the letter went out yesterday or today, but it's this week. That letter will identify the funding and the requirements for the funding and how they can make application for this.

The Speaker: The hon. member.

Mr. VanderBurg: Thank you.

The Speaker: The hon. Member for Lethbridge-East, followed by the hon. Member for Vermilion-Lloydminster.

Continuing Care Standards

Ms Pastoor: Thank you, Mr. Speaker. The lack of enforced provincial standards in continuing care facilities has resulted in regions and facilities augmenting basic standards by issuing policies of their own, resulting in inconsistencies throughout the province. Families and residents are confused when it comes to identifying the basket of services and levels of care provided in these facilities. Alberta requires one set of provincial standards, administered by one department. My questions will be to the Premier. Mr. Premier, will this government take action to ensure consistency and equity throughout the province?

Mr. Klein: A very interesting question. As a matter of fact, we had a discussion about that very situation just a few days ago, and we're looking into it. If the hon. member has anything to offer, we'd be glad to receive her comments.

The Speaker: The hon. member.

Ms Pastoor: Thank you, Mr. Speaker, and thank you to the Premier for that answer. It does give me hope.

Can we expect this government to legislate province-wide standards of care to apply in both public and private settings by the spring?

Mr. Klein: Relative to legislated requirements relative to the level of care, I'll have the appropriate minister respond, I believe the Minister of Seniors and Community Supports.

The Speaker: The hon. minister.

Mrs. Fritz: Thank you, Mr. Speaker. I'm pleased to respond to the member's question. As we heard earlier in the Assembly, in May of 2005 the Auditor did bring forward in his report on seniors care and programs that the 1995 basic service standards for continuing care centres should be upgraded and enhanced.

Mr. Speaker, as we mentioned earlier as well, the Minister of Health and Wellness and I are working together in that regard, and it's actually a process that's been interesting because the member that has asked the question was on the task force that went out to the community with those standards. Those standards have come back, and they've been reviewed. They've gone back out to the community once again, and we will continue to work with what has come back, hon. member. You know that we will continue to work with that.

As far as legislation, though – and that was what your question asked about, legislation with the standards – that will go through the due process.

The Speaker: The hon. member.

Ms Pastoor: Thank you. My third question would again be to the Premier. Given that the problems with long-term care in Alberta are caused in part by the splitting of the responsibility for seniors between ministries, will this government consolidate all seniors-related care, programs, and services under one ministry, as it has been in the past?

Mr. Klein: Mr. Speaker, that pertains to the question that was asked first. As I mentioned, there was a discussion about this a couple of days ago amongst government members, and it is under active consideration.

The Speaker: The hon. Member for Vermilion-Lloydminster, followed by the hon. Member for Edmonton-McClung.

Oversize/Overweight Trucking Permits

Mr. Snelgrove: Thank you, Mr. Speaker. The tremendous growth in my area has not only resulted in bottlenecks in the road systems themselves but in the process to obtain the permits required in many cases move the equipment involved in this construction. Contractors have informed me that it's routinely a two- or three-hour wait on the phone, sometimes as long as four or five hours, to obtain this permit. My question is to the Minister of Infrastructure and Transportation. Has the department made him aware of this situation, and what steps has he taken to address it?

The Speaker: The hon. minister.

Dr. Oberg: Thank you very much, Mr. Speaker. Yes. Not just the department has made me aware of this, but I've had numerous complaints from truckers right around the province on this particular issue. Typically what we see around this time of year, when there are a lot of trucks being moved, is an increase in the number of certificates that are needed. In order to alleviate the backlog that the hon. member has asked about, we've done several things. First of all, you can put in for the certificate by fax, you can put in for it on the Internet, or you can simply phone in. The third thing that we have done is we've actually allowed four private registries in Alberta to also issue the certificates.

Mr. Speaker, I want to assure the hon. member as well that we're looking at going one step further, which is actually the outsourcing of this particular part of my department, with the exception of those intricate certificates that require engineering plans. We've got to make this work better. The three- and four- and seven-hour waits just are not acceptable, and I'll give my assurance to the hon. member that this will be looked at and will be rectified very, very soon.

The Speaker: The hon. member?

The Speaker: The hon. Member for Edmonton-McClung, followed by the hon. Member for Calgary-McCall.

2:00 Government Accountability

Mr. Elsalhy: Thank you, Mr. Speaker. Public trust in the integrity and fairness of government and the entire political process is at an all-time low. An all-party committee of this Assembly has just reviewed the Conflicts of Interest Act and has made numerous recommendations that will at least begin to create the conditions for more open, transparent, and accountable government. Yet previous reports and recommendations for increased accountability have been rejected or ignored by this government. My questions are all to the Premier. Will the Premier listen to the committee and even his own caucus members and support the creation of a lobbyist registry so that Albertans can see who has the government's ear? Albertans have a right to know who is paying for those limousines on Wednesday evenings.

Mr. Klein: Mr. Speaker, I know of no limousines on Wednesday nights or any other nights. Maybe the Liberals have been accommodated in limousines, but I'm sure that none of our members have.

The Speaker: Hon. member, to the chair's knowledge the report of the committee has not been filed with the Legislative Assembly yet. The Assembly has no report to deal with. Hon. member, proceed.

Mr. Elsalhy: Okay. Not yet. That was just a draft.

However, my second question is also to the Premier. Can the Premier stop the revolving door between his government and the private-sector lobbying or consulting by supporting a legislated cooling-off period for ministers and senior officials for at least 12 months?

Mr. Klein: You know, first of all, we should wait for the report. But if you'll allow me to respond: 12 months may be okay. It might be okay for some ministers; maybe it won't be okay for some ministers.

You know, it's so easy for the opposition to say, "legislate this" and "legislate that" and "do this" and "do that" without examining the negative side of the issue. For every action there is an equal and opposite and often negative reaction. They would legislate the world, Mr. Speaker, without taking into account what the consequences might be. They're so willing to stand up and say, "legislate this" and "legislate that" and "do this" and "do that." Never, never, never do they stop to think about the consequences.

The Speaker: Hon. member, not only has no report been done yet. My understanding is that the report hasn't been finalized. There is no such thing as a draft report either.

So proceed with your third question.

Mr. Elsalhy: Okay. Discussions that we had in the all-party committee . . . [interjections] Okay.

Mr. Speaker, given that the employees of the Alberta Securities Commission are still too afraid to go public with their concerns about clear conflicts of interest within their organization, will the Premier support legislative protection for public-sector whistleblowers, or does he still believe that the verbal and generic assurances of protection offered by the Minister of Finance are adequate?

Mrs. McClellan: Well, Mr. Speaker, there was a definite comment directly on the Alberta Securities Commission. The hon. member should know that the Alberta Securities Commission has committed to have that policy in place by January 1, 2006, which I think is 31 days plus a few hours from now. To suggest that that isn't happening is wrong.

Deerfoot Trail Median Barriers

Mr. Shariff: Mr. Speaker, there have been two fatal collisions on Deerfoot Trail during the past six months in which vehicles crossed the grass median and collided with oncoming traffic. The deaths and injuries associated with these two crashes have taken a terrible toll on a number of families in the Calgary area. My questions are for the Minister of Infrastructure and Transportation. What is the minister doing to prevent these types of collisions on Deerfoot Trail?

The Speaker: The hon. minister.

Dr. Oberg: Thank you very much, Mr. Speaker. We had this question asked by the families that were involved in the very tragic accidents that occurred along Deerfoot Trail. Quite simply, cars crossed the median, went into the other lane of traffic, and caused deaths on at least two occasions. Subsequently, I ordered a study to be done on that particular part of the road to determine if barriers were applicable. What came back was that, basically, the barriers should be put in place between 16th Avenue and Beddington. After seeing the report, I've actually taken it one step further, and we're putting in barriers from 16th Avenue right up to Country Hills Boulevard, and we're putting in a different type of barrier. This is a type of barrier that has been used in other jurisdictions and, supposedly, has quite superior performance in preventing cars from crossing the median into the oncoming lane of traffic.

The Speaker: The hon. member.

Mr. Shariff: Thank you, Mr. Speaker. My first supplemental is also to the same minister. Why is his department installing an untried barrier system in Alberta rather than concrete barriers?

Dr. Oberg: Mr. Speaker, this barrier system is a series of collapsible wires that are strung between posts, and the idea behind it is that when a car hits it, it actually envelops the car. Essentially like a spiderweb is probably the best example that I can give it. This particular barrier has been used all across North America, although it has yet to be used in Canada. This is the first time it's going to be used in Canada. What people are saying, though, is that it's much more successful because, quite simply, you don't bang off the barrier and go back into a lane of traffic in an uncontrolled spin. The barrier actually grabs the car, so to speak. So we really feel that this will be very, very effective on Deerfoot Trail, and we're going to be putting it in this spring at a cost of roughly a million dollars.

The Speaker: The hon. member.

Mr. Shariff: Thank you, Mr. Speaker. My final question is also to the same minister. If these barrier systems improve safety and work so well, is his department looking at putting them all along Deerfoot Trail and on other highways in Alberta?

Dr. Oberg: Mr. Speaker, one of the things we're looking at is where we can put these. We're trying them, obviously, first of all, between 16th Avenue and Airport Road. In those parts of the road that are much closer together, the issue is that it does have to be a very solid barrier because, as I explained, there's very much a give when a car hits it. We can't be having a car, despite the give, go on into the other lane of traffic.

So for those many other areas of the province, Mr. Speaker, through to the hon. member, where there is a separation of the two lanes of road, we are looking at this. We're trying it here first. Obviously, Deerfoot Trail has the most traffic of any of our highways in Alberta, and we hope that it's going to be very successful. As a matter of fact, we know that it's going to be very successful, and it's just a matter of where we continue to put it on. But I think this is good news for the citizens of Calgary and certainly good news for those people involved in the accident.

The Speaker: The hon. Member for Calgary-Varsity, followed by the hon. Member for Edmonton-Beverly-Clareview.

Parks and Protected Areas

Mr. Chase: Thank you, Mr. Speaker. The importance this government places on parks and protected areas is evidenced by the fact that it has set aside only 4 per cent of provincial land, key natural regions remain unprotected, and park planning is woefully out of date. Clearly, this government has failed its role as an environmental steward within the 4 per cent of the province referred to as provincial parks. I would like to thank the Premier for agreeing to answer my first question. Mr. Premier: will this government set aside the 640 square kilometres in the Castle-Crown wilderness area for a wildland provincial park as a legacy to Andy Russell and in respect to the Peigan First Nation as a centennial Christmas present to all Albertans?

2:10

Mr. Klein: Well, it's a very interesting question and a very interesting proposition. First of all, I'd like to clarify something. I will answer the question, or maybe I should answer the question first, and I'll have the two ministers responsible reply specifically to the Andy Russell park.

What I want to comment on, Mr. Speaker, is the fact that in 1990 the late Don Sparrow and myself gave an undertaking to the Duke of Edinburgh that we would designate 12 per cent of Alberta land – not 4 per cent, 12 per cent. I understand that we're up to about 15 per cent – one five per cent – for ecological reserve, and that says a lot about this province.

Now, I'll have the hon. ministers of Community Development and Sustainable Resource Development . . .

The Speaker: Unfortunately, we're running along a little slower than I thought.

The hon. member.

Mr. Chase: Thank you, Mr. Speaker. I hope the Premier isn't counting the 8 per cent of our national parks.

My second and third questions are to the Minister of Community Development. When will this government complete the protected areas system by setting aside more land for parks through reinvigorating the special places campaign?

Mr. Mar: Well, Mr. Speaker, I'd like to first of all address the first area that he referred to, being the Castle region. In 1998 the Castle area was considered for inclusion in our special places initiative. A local committee at that time agreed to make and create the West Castle Wetlands ecological reserve and the Castle special management area forest land use zone.

I should say, Mr. Speaker, that there are many factors that have to be considered before you can create a park. In this area there are numerous energy and forestry resource commitments. We also have to further consider any impact that there may be on the local rural economy and the interests of local municipalities.

Now, by comparison, Mr. Speaker, we did create the Lois Hole centennial provincial park relatively quickly. There was a great deal of municipality support, all the areas that surrounded the park, there were minimal resource commitments, and this created the circumstances that allowed us to move very quickly on this. The number of issues involved in the Castle region would be much more numerous.

I don't foreclose on the possibility that some day we could do this, but in the meantime a great deal of work has to be done at the local level to have support for such a thing to take place.

The Speaker: The hon. member.

Mr. Chase: Thank you very much. My last question to the Minister of Community Development: will this government commit the necessary resources to restoring the decaying infrastructure in our current parks?

Mr. Mar: Well, Mr. Speaker, the hon. member himself knows about our commitment to this. In fact, my recollection is that during the last round of budgets he applauded the fact that we moved our capital budget for parks and their infrastructure from $11 million to $45 million. At the time my recollection is that he not only recognized this; he also applauded it. We are moving forward on our plans and how we will use that money to ensure that necessary infrastructure is fixed up. It goes: everything from park benches to roads to signage to making sure that things like washrooms are built and that the parks in fact look in the kind of condition that they ought to look in. We are proceeding on that.

The Speaker: The hon. Member for Edmonton-Beverly-Clareview, followed by the hon. Member for Calgary-Bow.

Continuing Care Standards

(continued)

Mr. Martin: Thank you, Mr. Speaker. On page 45 of his June 2005 seniors care report Alberta's Auditor General states: "There are no minimum standards for housing, nursing and personal care [assistance] provided in assisted living" facilities. Yet the absence of standards has done nothing to slow down the drive to redesignate hundreds of long-term care beds across the province as so-called assisted living beds. My question is to the minister of seniors. How can the minister put the health and safety of vulnerable seniors at serious risk by continuing to allow redesignation of hundreds of long-term beds as designated assisted living without first having minimum standards of care in place?"

The Speaker: The hon. Minister of Seniors and Community Supports.

Mrs. Fritz: Well, thank you, Mr. Speaker. The member opposite knows that designated assisted living is intended for seniors who require a high level of personal care and support services, but those seniors do not have complex health care needs because those seniors, then, would require placement in a long-term care facility. As I said, the decision to convert a facility – and the Minister of Health and Wellness has previously said this in the Assembly – is made by the regional health authority based on their continuing care service plan to address the needs of the people in their region. Having said that, I will take that question under advisement for the Minister of Health and Wellness.

Mr. Martin: Mr. Speaker, the minister of health said yesterday that there were contractual arrangements.

The point that I'm saying is: who should Albertans believe? These ministers, who say that there are contracts and there are standards, or the Auditor General, who says that there are no minimum standards?

The Speaker: The hon. minister.

Mrs. Fritz: Well, thank you, Mr. Speaker. As I said in an earlier question from the Member for Lethbridge-East, the Auditor General did say that the standards for continuing care from 1995 should be updated. That's the first step. There are standards from 1995. That's exactly what he said in this report. It's a different one than you're quoting from. Also, the long-term continuing care committee took that to the community. The community reviewed those 1995 standards. That came back to the long-term care committee. They then took it out again to the community saying: did we hear you correctly? The committee is evaluating that. There is a recommendation regarding those standards in their report.

What the Minister of Health and Wellness referred to yesterday in the Assembly is the contractual obligations of standards related to care services. I will continue to take that under advisement for the Minister of Health and Wellness.

Mr. Martin: Mr. Speaker, the point is that the same people who were in long-term continuing care are being shifted into assisted living. The Auditor General says that there are no minimum standards. How can the minister justify this approach in dealing with our most vulnerable seniors?

The Speaker: The hon. minister.

Mrs. Fritz: Thanks, Mr. Speaker. I will take that under advisement for the Minister of Health and Wellness as well.

The Speaker: The hon. Member for Calgary-Bow, followed by the hon. Member for Edmonton-Mill Woods.

Film Industry

Ms DeLong: Thank you very much, Mr. Speaker. I have a question for the Minister of Economic Development. Film in Alberta has had a very high profile this year with a few major stars visiting Alberta to film their movies. Some of my constituents have been thrilled by star sightings, but what benefit to the Alberta economy does a major movie production produce?

Mr. Dunford: None of us enter this House, Mr. Speaker, without some background and some experience. I recall that in the summer of 1989 or 1990 I happened to be working in the High River area at the time when Unforgiven moved into town to film in that area. Because it was on a contract with the local chamber of commerce, we were actually working with small businesses. It was just absolutely amazing to see the difference in that community when we had started our project, when Unforgiven came to town, and then, of course, as we finished off. It was tremendous.

Now, there are economists around that have more access to the numbers than what I do, but it's basically assumed that the multiplier effect is 1 to 10. So every dollar that is on a movie budget generally creates another $10 inside that particular community. I can indicate to you, Mr. Speaker, then, that as the person in charge of the operations of the film commission we're taking a serious look at that to see if there's not some way that we could add more movies to the Alberta advantage.

The Speaker: The hon. member.

Ms DeLong: Thank you, Mr. Speaker. I have a question to ask the hon. Minister of Economic Development. These productions have typically gone to urban centres. With a nod to the Member for Battle River-Wainwright, what is the minister doing to encourage film in rural Alberta?

2:20

Mr. Dunford: We're now on to our rural development strategy, and certainly further development of the film industry in Alberta is very, very important to rural development. When you look around at the tremendous scenery that we have in Alberta, you can see why you have situations similar to a recent movie called Open Range done in Alberta, filmed in Alberta. I'm not a movie critic, maybe not even an expert on the movies, but, Mr. Speaker, I think that the Alberta scenery could be classed as a character in that particular movie because the scenery was just tremendous. Most of it was done in rural Alberta, and it just created a tremendous amount of economic activity out in the rural areas, where we want it to be.

The Speaker: The hon. member?

The hon. Member for Edmonton-Mill Woods, followed by the hon. Member for Lacombe-Ponoka.

Child Care Standards

Mrs. Mather: Thank you, Mr. Speaker. In mid-October the province announced a plan to invest $489 million in federal funding in child care programs for children up to six years old. Out-of-school care providers for children over six are not eligible for this federal funding, but this does not explain why the province has refused to take action to ensure that child care workers are on even ground. My first question is to the Minister of Children's Services. Given that out-of-school care staff require the same training and qualifications as those working with younger children, will the minister ensure that salaries and training are equitable for everyone in the child care field?

Mrs. Forsyth: Well, Mr. Speaker, that's a good question, and I'm pleased to answer that. Under the national child care plan that Alberta negotiated with federal Minister Dryden at the federal/provincial/territorial meeting, I brought that exact question up to Minister Dryden, that daycare just doesn't stop at the age of six, that it also goes to the age of 12. The answer from Mr. Dryden was: it's not on the table; I don't even want to discuss it. It's unfortunate that we're in a federal election right now, or I would encourage my hon. colleague to write the federal minister and tell him how important it is to continue daycare to the age of 12.

The Speaker: The hon. member.

Mrs. Mather: Thank you, Mr. Speaker. Are there any plans in place to extend the accreditation process to out-of-school care programs?

Mrs. Forsyth: Mr. Speaker, I think there are two points that have to be made. First of all, we have a review going on on the social care facilities, which is done by the hon. Member for Calgary-Fort. We also have a second review on the FCSS funding that is being done by the Member for Leduc-Beaumont-Devon. I'm looking forward to their recommendations on both of them.

The accreditation program that we brought forward in Alberta is the first in Canada, Mr. Speaker. In fact, Minister Dryden came here to look at it. We have had 97 per cent of the daycares and day homes in this province apply to be accredited. So it's very, very successful.

The Speaker: The hon. member.

Mrs. Mather: Thank you. What is being done to prevent the federal funding from becoming a business subsidy for large commercial, corporate daycare providers?

Mrs. Forsyth: Well, Mr. Speaker, I think the hon. member should know that this national child care plan that we did for Alberta was based on what Alberta parents wanted, and that's what we lobbied and fought for in our discussions with the federal minister. It's based on what Albertans wanted. They wanted choice. They didn't differentiate between a nonprofit or a for-profit. This plan was done on what Albertans in this province wanted for their children, and they wanted choice.

The Speaker: The hon. Member for Lacombe-Ponoka, followed by the hon. Member for Edmonton-Meadowlark.

Private Postsecondary Institutions

Mr. Prins: Thank you, Mr. Speaker. My questions will be directed to the hon. Minister of Advanced Education. Earlier this year we passed Bill 1, which was designed in part to increase or improve access to education for students wanting to get a postsecondary education. Later this fall it was announced that there would be a tuition freeze to help students with their financial burden to access education. This loss of tuition funding to universities would be offset by an increase in their base funding. Unfortunately, the private, not-for-profit accredited university colleges were left out of this increased base funding, which was put in place to replace that lost tuition revenue, and put them at a distinct disadvantage. My question to the hon. minister: is our government working on a solution to this inequity?

The Speaker: The hon. minister.

Mr. Hancock: Thank you, Mr. Speaker. In fact, when we did the tuition rebate last year, it wasn't actually an adjustment to the base funding levels. What we indicated to the public institutions was that if they increased their fees, we would pay the increase for last year. So it was a grant that was made directly to the universities and colleges, essentially paying the tuition increase for the year rather than an adjustment to the base funding. In fact, it was at that time expressed as a one-time support.

Now, the hon. member is absolutely correct. In doing so, we unfortunately left out those students who were at the private, not-for-profit universities and colleges. The reason for that was that they are not under the Post-secondary Learning Act in terms of tuition control and tuition policy. I have indicated to the students and to the institutions as early as this spring, when we were discussing it, that we would consider including them if we could if the program was extended. I met with some of the presidents as recently as today to assure them that as we go forward, we'll look at how we might include them in that process given that it may be extended for an additional year. But it's not in the base funding; it's actually paying the increase. The problem was that the increases are limited under the Post-secondary Learning Act for public institutions but not for the private, not-for-profit.

The Speaker: The hon. member.

Mr. Prins: Thank you. A supplemental question: is the department planning to revisit the whole issue of base funding for all the private, not-for-profit institutions, the base funding which was set in 1989?

The Speaker: The hon. minister.

Mr. Hancock: Well, thank you, Mr. Speaker. In fact, we are looking this year at the whole funding formula. As members will recall, we have a five-year review of the funding formula as it relates to the public institutions. For the private institutions that are funded, members will also recall that there were four private institutions that were funded for publicly accredited programs, and this year we added an additional four. One of the original ones became an adjunct to the University of Alberta. So there are seven private, not-for-profit university colleges which are publicly funded in some manner.

The agreement to fund them goes back as far as 1989, and essentially at that time the agreement was to fund them at 75 per cent of the level of the implicit average of an arts and science course. We are reviewing that process, and I've invited the private, not-for-profit university colleges to be involved in that review and provide us with their input as to why and how they should be included.

The Speaker: The hon. member.

Mr. Prins: Thank you. My second supplemental question is also related to private institutions. Will the government also include the private institutions in the common application process for entrance to the public institutions?

The Speaker: The hon. minister.

Mr. Hancock: Thank you, Mr. Speaker. This again is a topic in which I've had a lot of input from private, not-for-profit university colleges. We promised in Bill 1 that there would be a common application system. We've worked with the public institutions. We've asked them to design it. They have taken on the challenge of designing it and, unfortunately, in doing so have not consulted with the private, not-for-profit university colleges. I have talked to the ACTIA group and the university groups that are involved in putting the design together and asked them to consider the university colleges. It is in the best interest of students and learners across the province that there be a common application that all of them can be involved in. It would be my hope that if it can't be done immediately as the system is designed that it certainly be accommodated as soon as possible in that one-stop application system.

The Speaker: Hon. members, six members today will participate in Members' Statements. Prior to calling on the first one, might we revert briefly to Introduction of Guests?

[Unanimous consent granted]

head: Introduction of Guests
(reversion)

The Speaker: The hon. Minister of Advanced Education.

Mr. Hancock: Thank you, Mr. Speaker. I indicated in answering a question that I had met as early as today with some members of the private, not-for-profit university colleges. I introduced Dr. Terry Downey earlier. My eyesight wasn't quite good enough to spot Dr. Harry Fernhout, president of The King's University College. Dr. Fernhout recently arrived from Ontario to take over and be installed as president of King's University College in September. So we welcome him as a new Albertan. I'd ask him to rise and receive the traditional warm welcome of the Assembly.

The Speaker: The hon. Member for Edmonton-Centre.

Ms Blakeman: Thank you very much, Mr. Speaker. It's my very great pleasure to introduce to you and through you to all members of the Assembly one of the truly great schools in my constituency. Today in the public gallery we have joining us 52 students from Victoria school. I must say that these students are very professional looking today. They have taken their visit to the Legislative Assembly very seriously, and they are extremely well turned out for our benefit. I'd like to acknowledge those students. With them today are teachers Ms Jan Antoniuk, Ms Carla Kerr, Mrs. Judy Sills, and parent helpers Mr. Mark Nicoll, Mrs. Karen Grant, and Mrs. Denise Green. I would ask them all to please rise and receive the traditional welcome of the Assembly.

head: 2:30 Members' Statements

The Speaker: The hon. Member for Highwood.

Foothills Country Hospice Society

Mr. Groeneveld: Thank you, Mr. Speaker. It is my pleasure to rise today to recognize the efforts of the Foothills Country Hospice Society. This society was created several years ago with the goal of building and operating a free-standing, nonprofit rural hospice near Okotoks. This will be first rural hospice in Alberta; in fact, I believe the first rural hospice in Canada.

Through concerted fundraising efforts and generous donations from individuals, businesses, and service clubs the hospice society has raised $2.5 million to date. In addition, eight acres of rural land were donated, paving the way for the construction of this country hospice.

Last Saturday I attended the ground-breaking ceremony for the construction of this new facility. This home will have eight beds, four providing palliative care to residents and four providing respite services. The respite beds are designed for short-term admission for people who are being cared for at home and require expert symptom management. This will give family members providing care a chance to have a short break and to recharge themselves.

At present it is hoped that the hospice will be ready to provide care services by late next year. This facility will provide services to the towns of Blackie, Turner Valley, Black Diamond, Okotoks, High River, Longview, and Cayley and all the residents of the MD of Foothills and the surrounding areas.

The achievement of the Foothills Country Hospice Society is not only admirable but also remarkable because the money raised has been done solely from the community with no government funding whatsoever. I would like to congratulate all those who have been involved in this project and thank them for their hard work and dedication. I would also like to recognize the community for their generosity and donations and for their support of this most worthy project.

Thank you.

The Speaker: The hon. Member for Edmonton-Centre.

Caritas Health Group School Lunch Program

Ms Blakeman: Thank you very much, Mr. Speaker. This is the 13th year that the Caritas Health Group has been cooking lunches for inner-city students in the Edmonton City Centre Church Corporation school lunch program. Every school day since 1993 the Caritas Health Group nutrition and food services team has delivered hot lunches prepared in their facilities at the Misericordia and General hospitals to Edmonton schools, and the General is in my riding of Edmonton-Centre.

From an original two the service now provides for 12 schools, feeding nearly 2,300 students in the Edmonton inner city. The hot meals, which include fresh fruit and milk, provide at least one-third of the children's daily nutritional requirements. Any leftovers are distributed to the families. The cost to the parents is $1 a day, but the meals are delivered to all children regardless of ability to pay. As the actual cost of these meals is $2 a day, the remainder is made up by a group of donors including the Caritas Health Group.

Teachers find that students who receive the program benefit from improved morale, behaviour, attendance, concentration, and overall ability to learn. Students who eat a filling, nutritional lunch do better in school.

Mr. Speaker, it gives parents a sense of comfort to know that they can send their children to school and be assured that they will receive a nutritious hot meal, especially when those parents can't afford to provide a balanced lunch or sometimes any lunch at all.

Please join me in recognizing the valuable and generous work done by the Caritas Health Group in providing almost 2,300 Edmonton inner-city students with a nutritious hot lunch every day. I'd especially like to mention Gem Catering, who provide the food services at the General and whose fabulous carrot cakes have enhanced all of my centennial medal and medallion presentations this year, including those of the 11 centenarians at the General's long-term care.

Thank you very much.

The Speaker: The hon. Member for Calgary-Bow.

SuperNet Learning Resources

Ms DeLong: Thank you, Mr. Speaker. Completion of the Alberta SuperNet has opened the world to students and teachers in Calgary schools. SuperNet video conferencing and LearnAlberta.ca are opening up the world for our students and our teachers in Calgary and throughout the province. This technology, reach to teach, allows teachers to learn about the world from experts in their field and about the universe from scientists at the Canadian Space Agency, for example. Through unique partnerships LearnAlberta.ca provides students with learning resources unavailable anywhere else.

LearnAlberta.ca is a website that provides engaging and interactive learning resources that are directly tied to Alberta's curriculum. It also includes a number of online resources that are available 24 hours a day to support those students in French programs or in French immersion. Teachers can use these resources in classrooms to illustrate concepts as part of their lesson plans. Students can access the resources to review key concepts, enrich project work, enhance homework sessions, and explore new ways of thinking and learning.

LearnAlberta's online reference centre, a suite of electronic databases and encyclopedias, is particularly helpful with all kinds of project work. Parents with Internet access at home can log on during homework sessions to discover how their child is understanding a particular topic.

Together, SuperNet and LearnAlberta.ca are providing innovative approaches to learning. This is crucial to the future success of Albertans in a knowledge-based economy infused with technology. SuperNet will help all schools to have equal access to the educational treasures of LearnAlberta.ca. My constituents are excited about these resources that enhance learning in the classroom and at home. I encourage all students, teachers, and parents to log on to LearnAlberta.ca and take advantage of this incredible collection of teaching and learning resources provided by Alberta Education.

The Speaker: The hon. Member for Foothills-Rocky View.

Governor General's Awards for Excellence in Teaching Canadian History

Dr. Morton: Thank you, Mr. Speaker. Each year there are nine Governor General's awards presented nationally for excellence in teaching Canadian history. This year four of those nine awards are going to Alberta teachers. After parents, primary and secondary schoolteachers are often the most important people in our children's lives, so I'm pleased today to share with you the stories of these four award-winning educators from Alberta who developed unique methods to encourage our students to uncover pieces of Alberta's rich history.

The first two, Mr. Speaker, Ms Lorretta Stabler and Ms Patti Thorne, teach grades 4 and 5 at the Millarville community school in my constituency of Foothills-Rocky View. This dynamic duo was selected from 190 nominations nation-wide to receive the Governor General's award. They developed a year-long, hands-on archaeology project literally in the school's backyard. Through this project wider cultural connections were fostered as students conducted online research, comparing artifacts found in their own dig with other Canadian archaeological digs. The Millarville community school project has attracted attention from schools in the United States and Great Britain.

The third Alberta teacher to receive this prestigious award is Mr. Jean-François Bélanger, a teacher at école primaire King George in Calgary. Mr. Bélanger has been recognized for helping students to become personally involved and gain first-hand experience in their historical studies. One such project was the re-creation of the transatlantic voyage to New France. In another, Mr. Bélanger facilitated student involvement with scientists in Canada's Arctic.

Ms Linda-Rae Carson, a teacher at Harry Ainlay high school in Edmonton, is the fourth recipient from Alberta. Ms Carson has developed a grade 10 program called the Canadian Historical Identity.

Mr. Speaker, I'm pleased to honour these four dedicated teachers who have made a difference in their students' lives and who have helped make Alberta's education system the best in Canada.

The Speaker: The hon. Member for Leduc-Beaumont-Devon.

2:40

Kevin Robins

Mr. Rogers: Thank you, Mr. Speaker. In October the Alberta Urban Municipalities Association, or the AUMA, held their annual conference in Calgary. Each year the AUMA recognizes the accomplishments of one outstanding chief administrative officer in an Alberta community by presenting that individual with the dedicated chief administrative officer award.

Mr. Speaker, I rise today to acknowledge this year's recipient, Mr. Kevin Robins of the city of Leduc, for long-term excellence and commitment to municipal government and administrative management. This award recognizes Mr. Robins for his contributions in the field of municipal administration through dedicated service to the city of Leduc, for his 11 years of leadership. It recognizes exemplary work in several areas. Excellence in leadership, policy development, council relations, human resources and financial management, strategic planning, community relations, professional development, and many other areas are acknowledged through this award. Mr. Robins has been recognized by Leduc city council through their nomination and, in turn, by the AUMA as they honoured him by presenting him with the dedicated chief administrative officer award.

Prior to becoming Leduc's city manager in 1994, Mr. Robins spent 12 years on the city of Leduc fire department. In 1982 he was hired as the city's first full-time fire chief, making him the youngest chief in the province, laying the foundation for one of Alberta's most exceptional volunteer fire departments today. The province is fortunate that he has chosen to continue this tradition of excellence through continued service to the city of Leduc and the residents of his community.

Mr. Speaker, Alberta's municipal administrators continuously show unparalleled commitment to building strong and successful communities and, in turn, a strong and successful Alberta. I know that the Minister of Municipal Affairs and all members of this Assembly join me in extending their best wishes and congratulations to Mr. Kevin Robins for his ongoing dedication and for this achievement.

The Speaker: The hon. Member for Edmonton-Rutherford.

Linda-Rae Carson

Mr. R. Miller: Thank you, Mr. Speaker. I would like to begin my remarks this afternoon by acknowledging the tremendous contribution of the leadership students at Harry Ainlay high school to the centennial medal presentations made by myself and our Lieutenant Governor a few weeks ago. These incredible young people volunteered their time and talent as hosts and hostesses, sound and lighting crews, ushers, and musicians to make this a truly memorable occasion for 37 outstanding Albertans.

Mr. Speaker, we all recognize that leadership skills in students are a result of tremendous leadership examples by their educators, and Harry Ainlay is blessed to have one of this country's very best. On Tuesday at Rideau Hall in Ottawa Linda-Rae Carson was presented with the Governor General's award for excellence in teaching Canadian history. Students and teaching colleagues joined together in nominating her for this most prestigious honour.

Ms Carson won the award for developing a learning program based on the theory that her students bring more historical skills to class than previously thought. Students interview their parents and grandparents as they explore their family's histories in the past 100 years, and then they compare their findings to Canada's history over the same time frame. She also includes interactive games and role-playing to make the subject come alive. Ms Carson attributes her love of history to her own family roots, particularly her father, who also taught history.

Mr. Speaker, it is through the remarkable talents of teachers like Linda-Rae Carson that our children are enabled to grow into the fine young leaders we know they are capable of being. I would ask all members of this Assembly to join me in congratulating her for receiving this distinction.

Thank you.

head:

Presenting Petitions

The Speaker: The hon. Member for Edmonton-Beverly-Clareview.

Mr. Martin: Thank you, Mr. Speaker. I would like to table a petition today which has 229 signatures on it, bringing the total amount of signatures for this petition to 1,015. Signatures were collected by Lynda and Ron Jonson of Seniors I Care. The petition calls for either the reinstatement of the 25 continuing care beds that Hinton had before the Good Samaritan Society and Aspen health region changed it to a designated assisted living facility or, failing that, to committing to building a new 25-bed continuing care facility in Hinton.

Thank you.

The Speaker: The hon. Member for Edmonton-Manning.

Mr. Backs: Thank you, Mr. Speaker. We're pleased to present a petition from 318 Alberta tradesmen and -women from the communities of Mundare, Lloydminster, Two Hills, Athabasca, Drumheller, Barrhead, Forestburg, Three Hills, Goodfish Lake, and other communities. It reads,

We the undersigned residents of Alberta, petition the Legislative Assembly to urge the Government of Alberta to prohibit the importation of temporary foreign workers to work on the construction and/or maintenance of oil sands facilities and/or pipelines until the following groups have been accessed and/or trained: Unemployed Albertans and Canadians; Aboriginals; unemployed youth under 25; under-employed landed immigrants; and displaced farmers.

Thank you, Mr. Speaker.

head:

Introduction of Bills

The Speaker: The hon. Member for Calgary-Currie.

Bill 217

Election (Electoral Reform) Amendment Act, 2005

Mr. Taylor: Thank you, Mr. Speaker. I request leave to introduce a bill, being private member's Bill 217, the Election (Electoral Reform) Amendment Act, 2005.

The purpose of Bill 217 is to strengthen democracy in Alberta by introducing fixed election dates for provincial elections and establishing a citizens' assembly representative of all Albertans to assess and make recommendations on reforming our electoral system.

Thank you, Mr. Speaker.

[Motion carried; Bill 217 read a first time]

head: Tabling Returns and Reports

Mr. Doerksen: Mr. Speaker, I have three tablings today. First, I'm pleased to table in the Assembly nine copies of amended Motion for a Return 18.

My second tabling is five copies of the Alberta Heritage Foundation for Medical Research community report, which is in the form of a 2006 calendar, including the program and financial highlights for the triennial reporting period of 2002-2005 and for the past fiscal year of '04-05. These documents have already been forwarded to all MLAs and the Legislature Library directly from the foundation.

Mr. Speaker, my final tabling is five copies of the iCORE, which stands for Informatics Circle of Research Excellence, '04-05 annual report with the financial statements for the year ending March 31, 2005.

The Speaker: The hon. Minister of Sustainable Resource Development.

Mr. Coutts: Thank you, sir. I'm pleased to table nine copies of a response to Written Question 19, which was accepted on April 18, 2005, looking at reforestation timelines, and also a response to Written Question 28, accepted on May 2, 2005, looking at loss due to theft in the Department of Sustainable Resource Development. Original copies have also been sent to the hon. Member for Edmonton-Decore.

The Speaker: The hon. Minister of Education.

Mr. Zwozdesky: Thank you, Mr. Speaker. As Minister of Education I'm very pleased to table letters of congratulations to the four outstanding Alberta teachers who were just awarded the Governor General's award for teaching Canadian history. Nine of these national awards were given out, and four of them came here to Alberta. What a tremendous accolade for our teachers. Very quickly, they are Jean-François Bélanger, King George in Calgary; Linda-Rae Carson, Harry Ainlay high in Edmonton; Patti Thorne, Millarville community school; and Lorretta Stabler from the Millarville community school. I might add that this is Lorretta's second time to win this award. Congratulations.

The Speaker: The hon. Member for Wetaskiwin-Camrose.

Mr. Johnson: Thank you, Mr. Speaker. I wish to table five copies of the Alberta Research Council's 2005 annual report. Since its inception in 1921 the ARC has been dedicated to furthering the economic prosperity and quality of life for all Albertans through its numerous innovation and research initiatives.

The Speaker: The hon. Member for Calgary-Currie.

Mr. Taylor: Thank you, Mr. Speaker. On behalf of the Leader of the Official Opposition I would like to make three tablings today. First is the requisite copies of an Edmonton Sun news article from September 3, 2003, quoting the former labour minister as saying that the Alberta Labour Relations Board had no input in drafting of bargaining legislation.

Secondly, I would like to table two e-mails that prove that members of the Alberta Labour Relations Board had input into the Labour Relations Code amendment act.

Finally, Mr. Speaker, I would like to table a copy of the Alberta Federation of Labour news release calling for a public inquiry into the Alberta Labour Relations Board due to the conflict of interest that occurred when key figures of the ALRB breached their role by actively participating in the drafting of legislation.

Thank you, Mr. Speaker.

The Speaker: I'm going to go through these and then make a comment with respect to that last tabling.

The hon. Member for Edmonton-Centre.

2:50

Ms Blakeman: Thank you very much, Mr. Speaker. I'd like to table five copies of Walton International Group's leveraged bundle investment scenario.

I have three more tablings, Mr. Speaker: copies of a land deal done by Walton International which affects what is happening here in Alberta, copies of frequently asked questions for purchasers of undivided interests, and, finally, copies of a Land Development complaint that is addressed to Walton International Group.

Thank you, Mr. Speaker.

The Speaker: The hon. Member for Calgary-Mountain View.

Dr. Swann: Thank you, Mr. Speaker. I have three tablings, five copies of each: the first lists Walton International's executive management and board of advisors as found on its website in summer 2005, the second is the corporate registry for Walton International Group, and the third is political donations from Walton International to Alberta Conservative members.

The Speaker: The hon. Member for Edmonton-Glenora.

Dr. B. Miller: Thank you, Mr. Speaker. I would like to table today four tablings: the first, five copies of an Alberta Securities Commission staff notice regarding the sale of undivided land, five copies of the reason for the decision of the Alberta Securities Commission regarding the case between the ASC and the Land Development Company, five copies of a notice of hearing for the matter between the Alberta Securities Commission and the Land Development Company, and five copies of an ASC new release entitled "Securities Can Include Interests in Land, Says ASC."

The Speaker: The hon. Member for Edmonton-Rutherford.

Mr. R. Miller: Thank you, Mr. Speaker. I have four tablings today, the first of which is from a constituent, Maxine Girard, who due to a medical condition is forced to apply for welfare and is pleading her case in that she doesn't believe anybody can possibly live on $432 a month; a copy of a letter dated July 9, 2002, from Bennett Jones to Walton International indicating that the Alberta Securities Commission is closing the Walton file and stating that no further action would be warranted; five copies of an invitation to an overview of Walton's land banking business to be held at the Calgary Petroleum Club; and five copies of a letter to the Alberta Securities Commission dated February 24, 2004, from the Land Development Company in which the writer asks, "Does your favourable treatment to Walton's have anything to do with Ralph Klein's daughter working for Walton?"

The Speaker: The hon. Member for Edmonton-Meadowlark.

Mr. Tougas: Thank you, Mr. Speaker. I'm rising today to table the appropriate number of copies of a petition featuring the names of 4,435 Albertans in opposition to the interim Métis harvesting agreement.

The Speaker: The hon. Member for Edmonton-Highlands-Norwood.

Mr. Mason: Thank you very much, Mr. Speaker. I'm rising today with two tablings. The first is to table the appropriate number of copies of three letters from Lethbridge, from Mr. Peter Williams, Colleen Kullman, and Michelle Draper. All three letters express concerns about the low wages paid to people who work with adults with developmental disabilities and the recent budget cutbacks.

The second tabling is the appropriate number of copies of documents showing the chair of the Alberta Labour Relations Board at a Progressive Contractors Association golf tournament with the lawyer for Finning Canada the day before a Labour Relations Board decision, which is also appended, being tabled in favour of Finning and against the machinists' union, which was made the very next day.

The Speaker: The hon. Member for Edmonton-Beverly-Clareview.

Mr. Martin: Thank you, Mr. Speaker. I have two tablings today. I would like to table the appropriate number of copies of a letter sent to the Minister of Municipal Affairs from the city of St. Albert, requesting that the provincial education property tax be removed and that tax room be left to the municipalities.

The second tabling is a series of correspondence, including letters and e-mails, between the chair and two vice-chairs of the Labour Relations Board and the Department of Human Resources and Employment, indicating that the LRB helped in drafting regulations governing the restructuring of health care unions in Alberta.

The Speaker: The hon. Member for Edmonton-Strathcona.

Dr. Pannu: Thank you, Mr. Speaker. I rise to table the appropriate number of copies of records taken from the Alberta Health and Wellness website which show that privately delivered contract services in Calgary have much longer wait times than those delivered publicly in Edmonton, directly and completely contradicting the Premier's claim made in response to my questions in the House yesterday.

Thank you.

The Speaker: The hon. Member for Edmonton-Calder.

Mr. Eggen: Thank you, Mr. Speaker. I have two tablings today. First, I have the appropriate number of copies of a request from the Alberta Wilderness Association for an immediate moratorium on the development of the Kakwa-Narraway watershed until the full environmental assessments take place, in particular the impact on endangered woodland caribou.

My second tabling: again, the appropriate number of copies of a letter sent to Toronto's Bay Street corporations inviting them to a $3,000 a plate fundraiser for the Alberta Liberal Party.

head: Statement by the Speaker
Tablings

The Speaker: Hon. members, I indicated when the hon. Member for Calgary-Currie made a tabling that I would make comment with respect to it. The hon. Member for Calgary-Currie basically tabled some newspaper articles, and I'll make quick mention of that but then say some other things about tablings, period.

Newspaper articles, as we all know, and the authenticity of newspaper articles, or in fact media reports, are not the subject of question period in this House nor the subject of debate for authenticity. We all know that that's a special industry unto itself. The authenticity of reports in newspapers or the media are not valid points in this Assembly. So, quite frankly, in the past the Speaker has ruled that newspaper articles are not – not – to be tabled in the Legislative Assembly.

What's really quite ironic about this is that the hon. member who raised this issue with the chair in this Assembly on March 2, 1999, was a member of the Official Opposition and the former Member for Calgary-Buffalo, who took great exception at that point in time to the then Provincial Treasurer tabling some newspaper articles. After listening attentively to the arguments put forward by the hon. Member for Calgary-Buffalo – again, a member of the Official Opposition – the chair indicated that there is no way that we could handle the filing of newspaper articles should members wish to do this.

The chair at that time indicated that there would be an asterisk set in the official record, but the newspaper articles would be shredded and not filed. It seems to me that that policy then, going back to March 2, 1999, should not really be violated today simply because it's a reversal of members on various sides of the House. I'm sure all members would want the chair to be quite consistent with respect to this.

The chair has also noticed and has made comment before about tablings, which is a part of the tradition of the Legislative Assembly of Alberta, but it is not part of most parliaments that follow the British form of government. It is not part, as an example, of the Canadian House of Commons, where basically tablings are filed with the Clerk.

There was a situation in this Assembly a number of years ago when nearly two and a half hours were consumed one day in tablings. Two and a half hours. There was a reason for it that day. Members in the House were trying to basically make sure a certain piece of legislation was not to be addressed. So you have the potential, in an indirect way, of a filibuster occurring. We spend nearly 10 minutes a day plus 12 minutes a day on tablings in this Assembly.

Perhaps if there is to be a sojourn starting next week or two weeks from now or whenever it is, perhaps when the three Government House Leaders do meet, as they do meet, I know, on occasion, they might just want to talk about this whole question of tablings. We've got a good system in here with the Clerk. You'll note that all official records, statutory records, are tabled.

Then when members get up and editorialize or selectively take one group of words out of a tabling, you have the potential here of sparking great debate, leading to a whole bunch of other things in here which I know hon. members would not want to see happen because openness and transparency and honesty is what this is all about.

head: Tablings to the Clerk

The Clerk: I wish to advise the House that the following documents were deposited with the office of the Clerk: on behalf of the hon. Mr. Cardinal, Minister of Human Resources and Employment, response to Written Question 42, asked for by Mr. Elsalhy on behalf of Mr. Chase on November 21, 2005; on behalf of the hon. Mr. Renner, Minister of Municipal Affairs, response to Written Question 30, asked for by Mr. Flaherty on behalf of Dr. Taft on May 2, 2005; return to the order of the Assembly MR 19, asked for by Mr. MacDonald on behalf of Dr. Taft on April 18, 2005; on behalf of the hon. Mr. Melchin, Minister of Energy, return to the order of the Assembly MR 25 asked for by Mr. MacDonald on April 25, 2005; on behalf of the hon. Mrs. Forsyth, Minister of Children's Services, pursuant to the Social Care Facilities Review Committee Act the Social Care Facilities Review Committee annual report 2004-2005; and on behalf of the hon. Mr. Boutilier, Minister of Environment, pursuant to the Environmental Protection and Enhancement Act the environmental protection security fund annual report April 1, 2004, to March 31, 2005.

3:00 Vignettes from Alberta's History

The Speaker: Hon. members, before we go on, by way of a historical vignette – this is really a neat point today – in 1911, 94 years ago, the Third Session of the Second Legislature began. It was the first time – the first time – that a Legislature convened in this Chamber. So this room is actually 94 years old today.

head: Orders of the Day
 head: Government Bills and Orders
Third Reading
Bill 43
Alberta Resource Rebate Statutes
Amendment Act, 2005

The Speaker: The hon. Government House Leader.

Mr. Hancock: Thank you, Mr. Speaker. I rise with pleasure to move Bill 43, Alberta Resource Rebate Statutes Amendment Act, 2005, for third reading on behalf of the hon. Minister of Finance.

There's been quite a bit of discussion about the act and the fact that it amends three acts: the Alberta Personal Income Tax Act so that the rebate can be delivered as a refundable tax credit, the Fiscal Responsibility Act so that the cost of the rebate is not a charge to the contingency allowance, and the Child, Youth and Family Enhancement Act so that the rebate can be provided to children in care of the province.

There's been much talk about tax cuts versus rebates. The reality is that this allows a one-time return of monies to Albertans, a $400 rebate to Albertans. As the Premier has said, Albertans are very intelligent people who can decide where they want to spend their money.

There has been a lot of discussion about what might have been done or could have been done. The only thing I would add to the debate, Mr. Speaker, is that the beauty of this Chamber and the beauty of this government is that there are a wide variety of opinions expressed. We truly represent the breadth of this province. Those opinions across the province as have been expressed to me and, frankly, opinions from my constituency that have been expressed range from strong support for the rebate to people suggesting that we should be spending the money on endowments, which I personally favour, or spending the money on capital projects not just for today but into the future.

The reality is that the government has struck a balance. We've committed resources to the endowment portfolio. Bill 1 provided for about 4 and a half billion dollars' worth of endowments. We talked about three additional endowment funds being considered, an additional $500 million for the heritage medical research fund, all of which will do wonderful things to help prepare this province for a very, very phenomenal future.

A similar amount of money, if not more, has been allocated to the capital fund so that infrastructure can be built across this province for postsecondary education, for education, for the roads that support our economic platform, for health, and for many other areas that are important to Albertans. And, yes, Mr. Speaker, under this bill about $1.3 billion will be returned to Albertans as a tax rebate. That provides an excellent balance for Albertans so that the views of all Albertans as to how we should deal with natural resource revenue can be fulfilled.

I would ask members of the Assembly to support this bill in third reading.

The Speaker: The hon. Member for Calgary-Varsity.

Mr. Chase: Thank you very much, Mr. Speaker. My one short comment would be that if rebates are to be considered again in the future, could the process please happen within this Legislature before the $10,065,000 advertising campaign takes place? Can we have full debate before granting this rebate for a second time?

The Speaker: The hon. Member for Calgary-Currie.

Mr. Taylor: Thank you, Mr. Speaker. It's my pleasure to rise on third reading debate on Bill 43, the Alberta Resource Rebate Statutes Amendment Act, 2005. This being third reading debate, we are debating the anticipated effect of this bill once it becomes law, or perhaps the anticipated lack of effect, because $1.3 billion or $1.4 billion dollars in one or two or possibly even three large chunks can make a significant difference – a significant difference – to life in the province of Alberta. Handed out $400 at a time, it represents $1.4 billion in potentially forgone opportunities.

That's not to say that there aren't people in the province of Alberta who need these $400 cheques. Indeed, they tend to be the people who have been neglected, marginalized, abused, misused, confused, and used by this government over the course of the last 12 years, and now this government believes that one $400 cheque will make the boo-boo all better.

Well, Mr. speaker, I don't think it will, and I think there's a very good chance that, in fact, what it will do is create the very kind of expectation of entitlement, if I may use that word, that members on the opposite side of the House like to rail against from time to time as people who need that money hope and expect that they will get another $400 cheque next year and another one after that and another one the year after that and so on and so on in a sort of Alaskan model. This government has indicated that that's not likely to happen, but it hasn't said absolutely that that won't happen.

There will be that hope out there on behalf of people who need the money and, frankly, for whom this government could do so much more should they abolish health care premiums for all Albertans, for instance; should they do away with the provincial portion of education tax and property tax, for instance; or should they do any one of a number of other things directly addressing the problem, in some instances by further increasing payments to people on AISH, for instance. I mean, there are a gazillion things they could do, and we don't have time to list them all off. So if they want to help those people who need the $400, there are many more creative, more lasting, more beneficial things that they could do than to cut them a cheque for $400 one time or even two times if they do it.

Had they instead looked after the needs of those people in years gone by and taken this money, in total $1.3 billion, $1.4 billion, and decided to do something with a lasting legacy endowment effect with this, then they could have made a difference. The access to the future fund is certainly a start on making a difference. There have been some starts on making a difference and credit to the government for what they've done in those areas as far as they've gone. They haven't gone far enough, but as far as they've gone, credit to the government for that.

For instance, $1.4 billion could have created 70,000 daycare spaces in this province. It could have replaced the nation's entire fleet of 10,000 taxicabs and limousines with hybrid vehicles, making a long-term difference to the environment. It could have offered thousand dollar rebates to first-time buyers of hybrid automobiles, for instance. I mean, there are so many things that could have been done.

I heard a comment from a member opposite that: oh, that would work for one year, creating the 70,000 daycare spaces. But, you know, the $400 cheques, for whatever purpose they were intended and for whatever purpose, Mr. Speaker, they will be used – and, yes, that decision will be an individual decision for each and every Albertan who gets the cheque – are only good for one time too. In fact, the Minister of Advanced Education kind of trumpeted this as a one-time opportunity, a one-time benefit. So, you know, you can't have your cake and eat it too.

There is, suffice it to say, so much more of a lasting benefit that we could have gotten out of this money, so many better ways to look after people for whom this $400 cheque will make a difference. We've wasted a fair amount of money just setting up this program, more money advertising and trying to convince Albertans to go along with the government on this one, and it's been rather a silly waste of time, I think.

Thank you, Mr. Speaker.

The Speaker: The hon. Member for Edmonton-Strathcona, followed by the hon. Member for Calgary-Mountain View.

3:10

Dr. Pannu: Thank you very much, Mr. Speaker, for this opportunity to speak on Bill 43, the Alberta Resource Rebate Statutes Amendment Act, 2005. The NDP opposition caucus has been on record with respect to the alternative ways in which this $1.4 billion could have been invested in the future of Albertans, so I won't go into great details. I just want to underline how simplistic this approach that the government has chosen is. It takes no thought. Just write $400 cheques to every child, every senior, everyone once and get rid of $1.4 billion.

Many members have mentioned, including my own caucus members here, health care premiums. About 2,450,000 Albertans, about 90 per cent of all nonseniors, are subject to full health care premiums, and that's $528 per person per year. This money could have been used to take that burden off Albertans' pocketbooks.

The basic personal income tax exemption, reducing tax by raising the personal income tax exemption to $20,000 from the current $14,523, a proposal that we have made in this House. At the current 10 per cent flat tax rate this would represent a saving of about $550 per individual taxpayer per annum in Alberta personal income taxes and a total yearly revenue loss of about $750 million to the province. This is another alternative that is available to the government, but it certainly has no vision about how to really assist Albertans on a basis that has staying power, that has some sustainable kind of future.

Regulating electricity and natural gas prices. Each 10 per cent reduction of rates would save Albertans about $350 million per year, and Albertans have been loudly complaining about the growing and unbearable cost of keeping their homes heated and their furnaces going. There are many, many ways in which this huge amount of money could have been spent to provide real relief to a vast majority of Albertans.

Inner-city agencies such as the Bissell Centre here in this city are working incredibly hard to help people file income tax returns, and people are able to use these centres as a mailing address. These centres could be helped. Homelessness in this province could have been addressed by using these monies. The tuition fees could have been rolled back by 10 or 20 per cent using this money, and that'll go a long way in sending a real kind of signal to Albertans, young and not so young, that this government is really committed to investing in the future of Alberta through making postsecondary education more affordable and really truly accessible to all Albertans.

So all of these could have been done, but the government chose, as I said, a way of doing it that lacks vision, that lacks a commitment to a systematic, thorough look at how we can ensure that our future is the one that receives the investments. Those investments must be made, Mr. Speaker, in increasing the capacity and ability of Albertans to add to the well-being of every Albertan in this province as well as strengthening the economic future of this province.

Environmental issues come to mind. Some of this money – $1.4 billion is a huge amount of money – could have been used to encourage Albertans towards conservation in their use of energy whether it's the gas with which we heat our homes or whether it's the automobile that we use on a daily basis to go to work, back and forth. In all of those areas we need to conserve energy, stop waste, and these resources, the $1.4 billion, could have been used in part to put in place programs that would help Albertans not only this year, this Christmas season, but also over the years by encouraging them to conserve energy and providing them the assistance that they need to move in that direction.

School property taxes is another issue where Albertans have been calling for relief. Our municipal governments have been calling on the government to take action on that side to vacate some tax space for municipal governments so that they could provide services that in all of our local communities residents need, require, and ask for.

All of these clear alternatives were simply not accessible to this government, that seems to have lost the capacity to look at the future and say: what are the best ways in which the resources and the public finances that are available to us can be used and deployed to secure a better future for all?

Thank you, Mr. Speaker.

The Speaker: Hon. members, I neglected to offer hon. members an opportunity under Standing Order 29(2)(a) to question the hon. Member for Calgary-Currie. We will not go retroactively in here to this. There is such an opportunity now available for the hon. Member for Edmonton-Strathcona. None?

The hon. Member for Calgary-Mountain View.

Dr. Swann: Thank you, Mr. Speaker. I do welcome the opportunity to make my first comments about Bill 43, Alberta Resource Rebate Statutes Amendment Act, 2005. It's certainly created a stir around the province and no less in my constituency of Calgary-Mountain View, where I heard very little support for the decision of this government and needed to get on the record in that respect.

There are a significant number of individuals who are low-income in my community. Only a few of them identified this as a boon and a help to them in their financial distress but felt that there was still real opportunity to do more and do a better thing for Alberta by spending it in a different way.

The bottom line, I think, in brief was that people were looking for leadership on our nonrenewable resource revenue, a one-time bonus for which we could leverage much better opportunities both in terms of resource development and in terms of economic returns for the future. The recurring question was: how is it that we are addressing the Alberta economic situation as being one without debt when so many of us are struggling financially, when there is still significant social disparity, and when we have serious environmental debts?

In that context, then, what could we do with the $1.4 billion? There were a number of groups that got together in my constituency, meeting in the evenings to talk about alternatives. A host of creative alternatives were suggested, many of which will be followed up by either individuals or groups in the constituency. Certainly, investment in illness and injury prevention came up recurrently, reducing the demand on the health care system, providing a living wage for people on AISH.

In the environment sector the recurring theme in my constituency is water: the Bow River and the threats to its sustainability, the lack of understanding of what groundwater resources we have and how threatened they may be, and how we can manage the various basins more effectively through basin councils, all of which need a tremendous amount of financial support to do the research, to develop the information packages, and to educate their constituents to take a role in water preservation, water conservation, and water management.

Finally, in the energy sector a lot of ideas around incentives for energy efficiency, incentives for renewable technology, clean renewables. These would have lasting savings for all Albertans instead of a one-time benefit and indeed have spinoffs in terms of climate change and our contribution to reducing greenhouse gases.

In summary, Mr. Speaker, I'll just close with the statements that this is a short-term fix; it's not sustainable. It's equal, but it's not equitable. It's a feel-good but not a visionary decision. Albertans deserve better wealth management.

Thank you.

The Speaker: Standing Order 29(2)(a).

The hon. Member for Calgary-Bow to participate.

3:20

Ms DeLong: Thank you very much, Mr. Speaker. I believe in Albertans. I really do. I believe that they are really smart in terms of how they handle their money. I believe that by them having the money, they can do it the best way possible. I keep hearing about these ways of spending money as if this $400 is just going to come and come and come.

People of Alberta are perfectly capable of taking their $400, sticking it in the bank and getting, I don't know, 5 per cent, 10 per cent a year off of it. What does that come to? It seems to me it comes to, let me see, four times five is about $20 a year, okay? If it's in their pockets, yes, they can have that $20 a year from now on if that's the way they want to spend their money. They can use that to put against whatever possible tax they might have. What I just don't understand is how people might possibly think that $400 one year is going to somehow pay out any of these taxes ad infinitum. How did that $20 turn into I don't know what?

The Speaker: Well, Standing Order 29(2)(a) is available. The hon. Member for Calgary-Varsity on Standing Order 29(2)(a).

Mr. Chase: Thank you for the invitation to participate. I would just like to ask the hon. member: are you not aware of the cumulative effect of an endowment fund? In other words, we put the money away, and then we just spend the interest. It's kind of like what you suggested on an individual basis. If you'd care to comment, I'd appreciate it.

The Speaker: The hon. Member for Calgary-Bow.

Ms DeLong: Thank you very much. We have put money away in endowments, okay? There is money that we are continuing to put away in endowments and, yes, that does work. But you can create your own endowment. You can take your $400 and make your own endowment and get your money just exactly the same way as anybody else. There is no magic to so much more money in an endowment than what any of us can get.

The Speaker: Others?

Others to participate in the debate?

The hon. Minister of Advanced Education, then, on behalf of the hon. Minister of Finance to close the debate.

Mr. Hancock: Question.

[Motion carried; Bill 43 read a third time]

Bill 44

Residential Tenancies Amendment Act, 2005 (No. 2)

The Speaker: The hon. Government House Leader on behalf of the hon. Minister of Government Services.

Mr. Hancock: Thank you, Mr. Speaker. It's my pleasure to move Bill 44, Residential Tenancies Amendment Act, 2005 (No. 2) on behalf of the Minister of Government Services.

The bill has been debated and appropriately explained by the minister in previous stages. It basically provides for an alternative dispute resolution process for residential tenancies which makes dispute resolution more available and more understandable for tenants and landlords in the province. I would commend it to the attention of the Legislature.

The Speaker: The hon. Member for St. Albert.

Mr. Flaherty: Thank you, Mr. Speaker. I wish to close debate on behalf of my colleagues. I'm happy to say that my colleagues generally are in agreement with this direction of the dispute resolution model. We think it's beneficial to tenants and landlords. There are some issues that we would like addressed. We think the appointments to this board need to be open and transparent.

Administrators and dispute resolution officers need to be qualified individuals and properly paid, have suitable backgrounds to do the job, and supplemented with in-service training to do the job better.

Another question we have is: how will the dispute resolution board be paid or funded? We're asking the question: through fees collected and/or government funding? We'd like some clarification on that.

What fee will a citizen pay for utilizing this service? Will it be $25, $50, $75? As we can appreciate, some of the particular citizens that would use this would lack resources to utilize this service.

We support the general direction of the bill. Hopefully, the minister will study the questions raised by my colleagues prior to implementing Bill 44, which we generally support and I recommend.

Thank you.

The Speaker: The hon. Member for Edmonton-Strathcona.

Dr. Pannu: Thank you, Mr. Speaker. I'd like to briefly comment in my closing remarks on the debate on Bill 44, Residential Tenancies Amendment Act. In my intervention in the debate at the time of second reading of the bill I did lay out some concerns. One that I didn't at the time but that certainly remains at the top of my mind, I think, is one I want to talk about, and that is that while the alternative dispute resolution mechanism looks attractive in that it will save time for all parties and will hopefully reduce prolonged litigation and the attendant expenses, the inability of either of the two parties going before such a board to be able to appeal the decision is something that concerns me, especially so because this particular alternative dispute resolution board will have quasi-judicial powers, but it will not have the independence that we assume that our courts have.

It will be a board appointed by the minister, so my concern is that while the board has quasi-judicial powers, the lack of judicial independence that it will enjoy may create doubt in the minds of those who are unhappy with the decisions. Not providing people who are not happy with the outcomes of the decisions made by such an alternative dispute mechanism model the ability to go to the court to appeal the decision is something that concerns me.

That said, Mr. Speaker, I think it's something that we should perhaps experiment with. It's a pilot project that's then going to be under way in this city. I said to the minister earlier in this House that I would like to see the ministry report back to the House on the results of that one-year pilot project and seek the approval of this House for the continuation of this model into the future based on a review that, I think, I'm asking for the opportunity for this House to have.

Thank you, Mr. Speaker.

The Speaker: Standing Order 29(2)(a) is available.

The hon. Member for Edmonton-Calder.

Mr. Eggen: Thank you, Mr. Speaker. My comments are very brief and just to add to my colleague's interest in seeing how this might work. It's an experimental process that I think has some merit, certainly.

What I would like to focus my comments on would be the board and the composition of that board. What we would like to see perhaps is a province-wide board that could do adjudication work, sort of, envisaged by this amendment as well as to provide advice and information to all Alberta landlords and tenants. I think that this Bill 44 goes some distance to streamlining and to making it easier for disputes to be resolved, which is great. I just would like to put forward this idea and then to have a report back, as my colleague suggested, in a year's time or so to see how it's going.

There are many people renting in Alberta and many people moving into the province. It's coming and going. It's very important to expediate any disputes that might arise between landlords and tenants.

Thank you, Mr. Speaker.

The Speaker: Hon. members, Standing Order 29(2)(a) is available. There being none, and the chair seeing no other movement, shall I call the question?

Hon. Members: Question.

[Motion carried; Bill 44 read a third time]

3:30

Bill 45 Maternal Tort Liability Act

The Speaker: The hon. Member for Peace River.

Mr. Oberle: Thank you, Mr. Speaker. I'm very pleased to move third reading of Bill 45, the Maternal Tort Liability Act.

By way of this bill the government seeks to provide an exception to the common-law rule of maternal tort immunity, a very narrow exception limited to the incidence of the negligent operation of a motor vehicle by a mother where the standard of care is clear. The compensation due to a child who is born as a result of the negligent operation of a motor vehicle by its mother and who is born with injuries resulting from that prenatal car accident is limited to the amount of insurance carried by the mother to prevent an infringement on her rights. This wording is consistent with the Supreme Court case that invited this legislation, and it's consistent with a 29-year law operating in the United Kingdom.

Thank you, Mr. Speaker.

The Speaker: The hon. Member for Edmonton-Glenora.

Dr. B. Miller: Thank you, Mr. Speaker. I'm pleased to stand to respond to Bill 45, the Maternal Tort Liability Act, at third reading. When I spoke about this in second reading, I emphasized that it makes a big difference, when you're looking at this bill, whose point of view you're looking at it from. If we approach this bill from the point of view of a child who is injured as a fetus when his or her mother was responsible for a car accident when she was driving, then in principle it seems to be fair that the later born-alive child should be able to sue for the insurance coverage. That's a gap in the present insurance laws, and the Supreme Court in the Dobson versus Dobson case allowed that Legislatures may develop a "carefully tailored" bill which would benefit both the injured child and his or her family without unduly restricting the privacy and autonomy rights of women. So what we have before us is such a carefully tailored bill which is trying to protect the common tort law to go any further.

The intent of the bill is to fill this needed gap, so certainly that's a beneficial step. However, if we look at this from the point of view of the pregnant mother – and these issues have been raised by all the members. I think there was a full debate on the issues of the extension of duty of care to her or the issue of the extension of tort law to a pregnant woman or the invasion of her rights to autonomy and privacy. Many members have addressed those issues. They're important issues, so in terms of the effect of the bill it's important that those issues were raised.

But the intent of the bill is, of course, to restrict tort liability. That's clear. The only question I have is in terms of the effect of the bill. Will it be successful in restricting tort liability?

Now, when insurance claims are made and there are court cases to deal with the complexities of accidents, especially when you have accidents where more than one person was injured – there are injuries in the other car as well as the injuries in the car that the pregnant woman is driving – it could get very complicated. How such situations are handled we'll see as courts deal with such situations. Hopefully, we don't have too many of them. I wonder if the principle that the common law should not impose liability on a pregnant woman isn't here and won't be in such complex cases comprised; in other words, their door will be opened just a little bit, and that might be a problem.

From the point of view of society and the common good many of us raised the question about the effect of this bill because it seems to us that the bill is quite limited. As many members have pointed out, insurance settlements may not be enough to ensure the care of a severely injured child who is injured in utero. Such children who are severely injured need support over the period of a lifetime. So I think that is a real problem. The effect of this bill is quite limited.

The majority judgment of the Supreme Court in Dobson versus Dobson made the important statement that the pressing societal issue is "the lack of financial support currently available for the care of children with special needs." Many of us expressed the view that going the route of insurance is not enough. I mean, it's something, but it's not enough. Justice Cory in the Supreme Court judgment, speaking for the majority, suggested that "carefully considered legislation could create a fund to compensate children with prenatally inflicted injuries." Many of us addressed that issue, that governments have to do more than just allow for this insurance claim. We have to have some sort of fund to cover such severe injuries. That is not what we have in this bill.

The effect of this bill, I think, is too limited and does not address the real, tragic social problem. As I said in second reading, a social problem needs a social solution, which goes much further than this bill. So we need more legislation, a different kind of legislation, which will take care of this kind of tragic situation. At the same time, given the limited applicability or limited definition of this bill and what it tries to do to help a child who is so tragically injured to receive compensation, at least compensation through the insurance route, I would support it in principle even though I've offered so many caution signs.

Thank you, Mr. Speaker.

The Speaker: The hon. Member for Edmonton-Strathcona.

Dr. Pannu: Thank you, Mr. Speaker. In the third reading on Bill 45, the Maternal Tort Liability Act, I'd like to make some brief comments. The very limited scope and the limited ability of this piece of legislation to address the problem that it purports to address has already been noted. The built-in unfairness is another issue that I just want to draw attention to. Because it focuses on insurance coverage and the ability of the child who might have sustained damages when he or she was in the mother's womb, the bill allows such a person to sue the mother to claim some damages from the auto insurance coverage provided.

Now, we all know that the auto insurance coverage varies. Some people have only a $200,000 liability limit, and others have $2 million or more. Yet in the latter case a claim for 10 times more compensation could be made by a child who has suffered injuries that are similar to the child who can only make a claim up to $200,000. So there's a fundamental question of equity here, and the bill does not deal with it.

Having made that point, Mr. Speaker, I just want to very briefly deal with the political implications of this bill. The bill, although limited in scope, focuses on a very limited problem and tries to fill a gap. It does, I think, raise the possibilities that antichoice groups, who have steadfastly opposed the right of pregnant mothers and women to make decisions about abortion – it could fuel that campaign of people who are anti choice, and I don't think we need to sort of open the door to that possibility. Women need protection. They need protection of their rights to make decisions about themselves, about their bodies, about their future.

3:40

Without undertaking the kind of legislative action that this piece of legislation is proposing, the very, very rare problem of children who are presently not covered under auto insurance, children who get injured while they're in a fetal state, could have been addressed by social policy. Social programs are needed to help families – mothers, parents, children – with special needs. That's been said here again and again and again. Simply moving step by step in the direction of transferring responsibility for such very difficult cases onto the shoulders of families or the insurance companies with which they deal is really abandoning a very, very important public responsibility by a government that proposes to take such an action.

So I think this act will not rectify the need, will not address the need that families with children with special needs have. It will create inequities, and it will probably open the doors for a very unpleasant, unnecessary debate on the rights of women to abortion. For that reason, Mr. Speaker, I will certainly not be able to vote in favour of this bill.

Thank you.

The Speaker: Standing Order 29(2)(a) is available.

Additional speakers? The hon. Member for Edmonton-Calder.

Mr. Eggen: Well, thank you, Mr. Speaker. I made most of my remarks in regard to this bill in second reading, and I do want to recognize the hon. Member for Peace River for his very steadfast and persistent work on this issue. Certainly, I can commend him for his contribution to this bill, as I would, once again, express my sympathy to the individual case that precipitated bringing this forward to the Legislature in the first place.

However, upon reflection on this bill, quite careful reflection, there is one further point that I did want to bring forward, and that is: you know, this bill is looking at a specific instance of a calamity that befalls human beings or, in this case, a fetal human being. Tort law covers all manner of these things, but just by the very essence of the fact that there are so many things that can befall human beings, so many calamities that can befall human beings, my question – and I think it's a very serious one – is: why would we construct specific legislation to deal with this one specific circumstance?

Now, I know, to answer my own question to a certain extent, that this is an extraordinary and rare occurrence that seems to be falling between the cracks of insurance law. Certainly, we do want to look after individuals that require special attention and special needs in our society, but I think that looking to the insurance industry in an untoward way to cover the needs of people in this circumstance is not really the best way to deal with this, especially to make legislation to deal with it. As I said before, there are so many things that can literally happen to a person, an infinite possibility, and that's what tort law is for. You know, for us to perhaps cross that boundary into the legislative arena to deal with these things has some essential lack of logic to it, I believe.

The second issue that I want to just reiterate I have spoken on before, but covering the financial concerns of people with special needs using private insurance I find to be somewhat, again, structurally unacceptable. We have a social responsibility as the state to look after people with special needs, and perhaps part of what brought on this individual case was not meeting those special needs of the person who, as it happens, was in a very remote area, so it's difficult. Creating a gap in the ability for us to provide special needs to people who require them I think is not, again, in the realm of looking at insurance to take care of that.

Once again, as I've described before, there is some opportunity, I think a very large opportunity, for litigation to push the envelope of this very narrowly prescribed law, which is of course the right of lawyers to do so.

So with those two main arguments, I find that I cannot accept supporting this bill at this time. Thank you.

The Speaker: Hon. members, Standing Order 29(2)(a) is available.

Then shall I call on the hon. Member for Peace River to close the debate or call the question?

Hon. Members: Question.

[Motion carried; Bill 45 read a third time]

head:

Private Bills
Third Reading

Bill Pr. 4
Brooklynn Hannah George Rewega
Right of Civil Action Act

The Speaker: The hon. Member for Peace River.

Mr. Oberle: Thank you, Mr. Speaker. I'm very pleased and, in fact, honoured to rise today to move third reading of Bill Pr. 4, the Brooklynn Hannah George Rewega Right of Civil Action Act.

Mr. Speaker, this bill is very similar in form to Bill 45, which just passed third reading a moment ago, and of course it was purposely structured that way. The key difference in the bill is that it addresses the situation of one family that I'm aware of in Alberta that in the interim period between 1999, when this maternal exception was extinguished, and 2005, when by way of public policy the government is going to re-establish it, finds itself in this situation with a child that's handicapped.

Mr. Speaker, this bill is, of course, a private bill, recommended to us by the Standing Committee on Private Bills. I urge all hon. members to support it, and I thank them for the considered debate we've had to this point.

Thank you, Mr. Speaker.

The Speaker: The hon. Member for Edmonton-Glenora.

Dr. B. Miller: Thank you, Mr. Speaker. I'd like to briefly respond to this bill, Bill Pr. 4, just to say that I really commend the family for their persistence. They've had to wait probably for a long time, and it's commendable that they've had the patience to wait until this kind of legislation goes through the House.

My only problem in terms of the effect of the bill is that I worry that there are still some hurdles for that family to face in terms of court action. Of course, there is a law already in place in terms of insurance law to cover loss or damage for bodily injury to people. I think that an argument probably could be made that there was a law in place when this accident occurred. So insurance policy that was set down by this Legislature when it enacted section 616 of the Insurance Act would cover whatever is going to take place, but when that act was passed, it did not include thinking about hypothetical situations that may have to be dealt with in the future that are not covered by the act.

So I wonder about the status of this act when it goes to court. Would the insurance company then insist that the legislation that was in place when the accident occurred applies and it can't be changed? I don't know what the answer to that is. Maybe there's an easy answer, and I'm missing it.

3:50

Also, section 614 of the Insurance Act provides that every action or proceeding against the insurer under this contract in respect of loss or damage to the automobile shall be commenced within one year next after the happening of the loss and not afterwards, and in respect of loss or damage to persons or property shall be commenced within one year next after the cause of action arose and not afterwards.

So there is a statutory limitation, and that seems to strengthen the argument that the law is a reference to the law in place at the time and that that would prevail. So I'm just concerned about more lengthy court discussion in terms of what the insurance company is supposed to do.

It's interesting – and I hope this is not a problem with this bill; I didn't have a chance to raise it before – that the bill actually does not refer to insurance liability. It makes a statement that liability can be applied to Mrs. Rewega, but there's no mention of insurance liability. I'm not sure that that is a problem, but I hope not.

So those are my only points in respect of the effect of this bill.

Dr. Pannu: Mr. Speaker, I'll be very brief in making comments on Bill Pr. 4, Brooklynn Hannah George Rewega Right of Civil Action Act. I'm profoundly sympathetic for Baby Rewega and family for the predicament that they have found themselves in given the state of our laws and ability or lack of ability on their part to seek available remedies. That predicament needn't have been there. We still have that capacity to create benefits for children born with a disability as a result of car accidents. We haven't done that. If we'd had that kind of arrangement in place, then Baby Rewega's family would have been able to avoid to a degree, at least, the financial consequences of the predicament that they were thrown into as a result of that unfortunate accident many years ago.

Other than that, I think that my concerns with respect to this bill are very similar to the ones that I've expressed with respect to Bill 45. Thank you, Mr. Speaker.

The Speaker: Hon. members, Standing Order 29(2)(a) is available.

If not, and no further speakers, hon. Member for Peace River, would you like to close the debate, or should we call the question?

Mr. Oberle: Mr. Speaker, I'll call for the question.

[Motion carried; Bill Pr. 4 read a third time]

head:

Government Bills and Orders
Third Reading
(continued)

Bill 46
Criminal Notoriety Act

The Speaker: The hon. Member for Red Deer-North.

Mrs. Jablonski: Thank you, Mr. Speaker. It's my pleasure to move Bill 46, the Criminal Notoriety Act, for third reading.

I appreciate the input and comments we received from all the hon. members. We seem to all agree with the intent of this bill. It's obvious to us that no one should profit from serious crime. There were some concerns regarding the purpose of passing this legislation when we do not have an extensive collection of books at the local library that recount crimes, that perhaps there's no point. There were also concerns raised that there needs to be a consistent approach across the country for this legislation to be most effective.

Mr. Speaker, Albertans expect us to be proactive whenever we are able. We have the opportunity to make our province inhospitable to those who wish to profit from the inappropriate recounting of their crimes. We do not need to wait until the first book is published in Alberta to know that it is wrong for criminals convicted of serious offences to profit in this way.

Mr. Speaker, there are several questions still outstanding that I would like to address. It's important that Albertans know that we have answers to the concerns raised by members of this House. I would like to emphasize that the overarching purpose of Bill 46 is that persons convicted of serious crimes should not profit from recounting their crimes in a book, movie, on television, or on the Internet. The bill does not eliminate all possibilities that a serious offender may publish a story about their life. Alberta strongly supports the right of freedom of expression. This bill is not intended to violate that right. Everyone has the right to tell their story, but it is unacceptable that someone convicted of a serious crime should profit from it.

As the hon. Member for Edmonton-Glenora noted, there is a great deal of sympathy for victims when a criminal publicizes the details of a crime. Even in a society that seems to be fascinated by graphic detail, the thought of a serial killer making millions selling his or her book is repugnant. On the other end of the spectrum is the success story of a young person who got into trouble but turned their life around as a result of incarceration. This bill also strikes an appropriate balance between freedom of expression and the protection of victims of crime and their families.

There are two parts to consider when we look at the aim of this legislation. The first is that the book, movie, or television show must actually recount the crime. The second is whether the criminal or the agent will profit from recounting it. The hon. member expressed concern about passing legislation that blankets all situations with one law. Section 8 of this bill provides for flexibility. Section 8 says that the court may order payment of consideration in accordance with the contract if the court is satisfied that there is some value in the recounting. The parties to a contract who wish to receive compensation under the terms of the contract may apply to the Court of Queen's Bench. Under this section it is up to a judge to consider the specific circumstances of the story a person wishes to tell. Again, we must bear in mind that the bill does not apply to every story an offender wishes to tell. It applies specifically to the recounting of the crime.

Some of the examples raised by the hon. Member for Edmonton-Glenora in second reading would not be an issue in relation to this legislation as they do not involve recounting crimes. The bill applies only to contracts for the recounting of crime. It does not apply to contracts for books about prison conditions or unjust laws, so a journalist writing as a co-author with a prisoner on prison conditions or someone writing about an unjust law would be able to publish a book.

If a journalist or some other person writes a story about the details of a crime on his own and not as an agent of the criminal, this does not violate the act. If the wife of a convicted criminal wished to write a book that recounts his crime, she would be deemed to be acting as his agent under section 1 of the act unless she can prove that she is not. If her book does not recount his crimes, it does not come under this bill, and she would be free to write it and be compensated for it. If it does recount his crimes, she must apply to the court regarding compensation.

Occasionally offenders wish to write an autobiography in order to warn others against falling into the same life of crime. If the book recounts the offender's crime, the act applies, and the parties can apply to the court for payments to be made under the contract. If the judge finds value, based on specific criteria listed in section 8, the offender may receive compensation for the story.

The hon. member also suggested that this bill is simply another sanction in addition to the sentence already imposed for the crime. This is not the case. Bill 46 does require that parties to a contract give notice to the Crown of contracts that they have entered into. It also regulates how compensation is paid and received under those contracts. Contraventions of these provisions are offences and are subject to fines upon conviction. This means that a contravention of this legislation would be a new offence. Any penalty is imposed for a new crime, not for the original Criminal Code offences.

The hon. Member for Edmonton-Rutherford asked about someone who testifies against a co-conspirator, and before we conclude, I'm happy to provide the clarification he requested. Mr. Speaker, if a person is convicted of a crime that falls within the definition of a serious crime, then the act applies. If not, the act does not apply. If as part of a plea agreement someone is convicted of a crime that is not a serious crime under this bill, the legislation does not apply to them.

I thank the hon. members for their support of this bill and ask for your further support in third reading. Thank you.

4:00

The Speaker: The hon. Member for Edmonton-Glenora.

Dr. B. Miller: Thank you, Mr. Speaker. I stand to respond in third reading to Bill 46, the Criminal Notoriety Act. I thank the hon. Member for Red Deer-North for those explanations. Third reading is not the time to debate back and forth those points that were raised. I think the qualifications and clarifications that the hon. member has made are really helpful. I must respond positively that if one reads this bill very carefully, the hon. member's remarks and interpretations seem to clearly apply.

My question is still: will this bill have any effect? Will it have any effect at all? I think the hon. Member for Edmonton-Meadowlark raised that issue. He consulted with the library and couldn't find any books written by notorious criminals in Alberta. We're wondering whether we're spending a lot of time dealing with an issue that may not have very much applicability at all. Nevertheless, as has been pointed out, people who have committed serious crimes elsewhere in Canada may end up in Alberta sometime and may write a book specifically about their crime, and this bill, of course, would apply to those examples.

In conclusion, I think that if we're going to really make a great effort to prevent crime – and that must be the most important thing for all of us as legislators – we have to bring legislation that applies to that, not something like this. I'm still having questions about constitutional challenges to this bill, especially in regard to a prisoner who has served time and is out. All the freedoms that are ours under the Charter apply to such people. That person might indeed challenge this bill constitutionally under the Charter, section 2(b), especially freedom of expression, freedom of the press, and so on, although as the hon. Minister of Advanced Education argued, when you craft some legislation, you don't worry about Charter challenges down the road. They might happen; they might not.

Those are my remarks. I don't think this bill is going to have tremendous effect on much of anything. It took a lot of time in the House. I would prefer to see legislation really dealing with the prevention of crime in Alberta. Nevertheless, this is something that in principle I would vote in favour of.

Thank you, Mr. Speaker.

The Speaker: Shall I call the question?

Hon. Members: Question.

[Motion carried; Bill 46 read a third time]

Bill 47

Alberta Association of Former MLAs Act

The Speaker: The hon. Member for Wetaskiwin-Camrose.

Mr. Johnson: Thank you, Mr. Speaker. It's a pleasure to rise and move third reading of Bill 47, the Alberta Association of Former MLAs Act.

This bill would create an association which could utilize the knowledge and experience of former MLAs to promote the ideals of parliamentary democracy.

Mr. Speaker, this bill has been well debated during both previous stages of debate in this House, and it was amended last night during the committee stage. In light of this extensive discussion, I will simply ask the House for their support of this bill at third reading.

The Speaker: The hon. Member for Calgary-Mountain View.

Dr. Swann: Thank you, Mr. Speaker. It's a pleasure to rise for the final time on Bill 47 and say that this is an interesting and potentially useful addition to organizations in the province and particularly a role for past MLAs in Alberta. The opposition, however, has made some suggestions to improve it, as was discussed in the House last night, amendments that we feel would strengthen it.

Trust in government is absolutely fundamental to a healthy, just society. Trust is achieved when government acts in ethical ways and is seen to act in ethical ways. The political climate in Canada today is perhaps unprecedented in terms of the lack of trust in elected officials. I think that in that context we in the opposition recommended some amendments that would deal with the profound loss of trust in elected officials, which contributes to a democratic deficit in this country, part of which we're about to face with another election nationally. The danger here is that this new opportunity for former MLAs may be perceived not to be contributing to the well-being of society through this association but to a culture of entitlement, which is precisely the issue that's at stake across the country at this time, and diminished trust in our government.

We recommended several amendments, which I could summarize by indicating that, in the first instance, it would be more appropriate and more supportive of democracy to amend the clause relating to appointment of officials to that of election of an executive. This was supported by the majority of the House last night. The second essentially had to do with prohibiting applications for funding from former MLAs to present MLAs, to government. This clearly could be seen to be an abuse of power that continues after the term of an MLA. The third had to do, essentially, with a cooling-off period such that the influence that former MLAs might still hold within the province with the connections they have could be perceived to be not helpful to the greater cause of this association.

For those reasons and in closing, on behalf of the Official Opposition we cannot support this bill. Thank you, Mr. Speaker.

The Speaker: The hon. Member for Cardston-Taber-Warner.

Mr. Hinman: Thank you, Mr. Speaker. I'd just like to be brief and say that I commend the hon. Member for Wetaskiwin-Camrose in his intent here. I felt that there were some very good amendments that came forward yesterday. We passed one. It still is of great concern to me that there's a connection between the former MLAs and the sitting government, and I'm disappointed that we didn't pass more amendments. For that reason I, too, will be voting against this bill. We had an opportunity to make it nonpartisan, but I don't feel that the way it's structured, it will appear that way to the public.

Thank you.

The Speaker: Standing Order 29(2)(a) is available.
Additional speakers?

Mr. Chase: I just would like to thank all members who participated in the discussion, including the amendments, last night. It was a very positive process, and I'm very thankful to the government members for accepting the amendment that we had.

What hasn't been dealt with is autonomy. For this club to have respect, it must be autonomous from the government, whether it be in funding or whether it be in influence. Thank you very much.

The Speaker: Standing Order 29(2)(a) is available.

Additional speakers?

Shall I call on the hon. Member for Wetaskiwin-Camrose to close debate?

[Motion carried; Bill 47 read a third time]

Bill 49

Police Amendment Act, 2005 (No. 2)

The Speaker: The hon. Solicitor General and Minister of Public Security.

Mr. Cenaiko: Thank you very much, Mr. Speaker. I'm pleased to move third reading of Bill 49, the Police Amendment Act, 2005 (No. 2).

The main purpose of the proposed legislation is to streamline and enhance the Law Enforcement Review Board's effectiveness in how complaints are handled by police and how the police disciplinary process works. Specifically, it's proposed that the chair of the LERB be given the authority to appoint one board member to deal with preliminary or procedural matters. The amendment also gives the board the authority to establish subpanels with the same powers as the full board, which would sit simultaneously in different regions of the province.

4:10

An amendment of this bill that will directly benefit Albertans concerns the change to the rules of evidence. Currently when Albertans complain to the LERB, they must follow the rules of evidence used in judicial proceedings. These rules are stringent and unnecessary. The amendment would see the board use the principles of natural justice, which follow an approach based on common sense. This change will help Albertans understand the process without having to obtain legal counsel. The proposed amendments also clarify the role and powers of the board to assess costs and pay expenses.

The Police Amendment Act also covers the minister's responsibility for policing standards. This amendment has a minor wording change to clarify that standards for policing include police commissions and committees, not just police services.

Mr. Speaker, I believe I have highlighted the key points of this bill. I'd like to take this opportunity to thank our department staff for their hard work in drafting this bill as well as stakeholders for their invaluable input on this very important issue. I'd ask all members to support this bill on third reading.

The Speaker: The hon. Member for Edmonton-Glenora.

Dr. B. Miller: Thank you, Mr. Speaker. I'm pleased to rise to address Bill 49, the Police Amendment Act, 2005 (No. 2) in third reading. Let me just say something about standards up front. The recognition of the importance of standards: I've talked about that before. I think that's really important, especially as it applies now to police commissions and police committees. I think that's really important given recent events, and I hope that leads to a strengthening of our police committees and police commissions throughout the province.

The intended purpose of the changes to the wording and to the procedures is to make the process of hearing complaints by the Law Enforcement Review Board more efficient and more expedient. Instead of the rules of evidence, the process of natural justice will be followed. It has been argued that this will help ordinary citizens, who are often intimidated by the legal process.

Mr. Speaker, what has not been mentioned is whether it will help police officers who come before the board. In fact, I've received letters from police officers expressing their dismay that the rules of evidence are set aside, opening the door for what they consider to be the admission of unsubstantiated, unverified, and hearsay evidence. Their expression of dismay raises for me an important question, and that is whether there has been sufficient consultation in the preparation of this bill; namely, consultation with the public and with citizens who might bring complaints but also consultation with the police because it is often police officers who come before the Law Enforcement Review Board.

Now, the legal advice that I have received is that the principles of natural justice should be enough to ensure fairness. I'm inclined to agree with the hon. minister when he suggests that nothing is lost, that this makes the process more expedient because under the principles of natural justice the most important principle is that a person has a right to be heard. All people coming before this board have a right to be heard, and they ought to have the right to be judged impartially. But I think the effect of this bill remains for me ambiguous because if there hasn't been enough consultation with the parties involved, especially the police, then I wonder about the ongoing effect of this bill.

Finally, the effect of changing the clauses on vexatious and frivolous matters. The changes include a reference to lawyers. Mr. Speaker, I haven't heard any evidence presented that there has been a lot of time wasted before the Law Enforcement Review Board especially by lawyers who hold things up, that they should be accused of frivolous and vexatious complaints. I'm not sure where this is coming from. Again, what consultation has been made with organizations like the John Howard Society or the Criminal Trial Lawyers Association? Certainly, they have a stake in how these procedures unfold. I'm wondering what kind of consultation the Solicitor General department has had with the criminal trial lawyers. Is this going to prevent the lawyers from carrying out their responsible duty to defend complainants when they come before the board?

Actually, I'm quite angered by this whole process, Mr. Speaker. In just two weeks of a session we have these bills all coming at us, and some of them at first glance don't appear to be all that serious, but as time goes on, when you begin to consult with stakeholders, it appears that these bills may be more serious than we thought. What we haven't had is enough time to consult with all the different stakeholders so that we can responsibly deal with bills like this.

Mr. Speaker, in light of that lack of consultation and the letters that I've received, I would oppose this bill going forward. I just lament the fact that we haven't had enough time for proper public consultation.

Thank you, Mr. Speaker.

Dr. Pannu: Mr. Speaker, I am speaking to Bill 49, Police Amendment Act, 2005, in its final reading, third reading. I'll be brief. I stated my concerns with respect to the piece of legislation before the House, and those concerns stand at the time of third reading. I don't think they have been properly addressed.

[Mr. Shariff in the chair]

I also raised my concern at that time about: why rush this kind of important bill when what hangs in the balance is the public's trust in our police services? Police provide such essential, fundamental services and put their own lives on the line, put their lives in danger providing them. Any piece of legislation that has to do with the way in which the complaints against police officers are heard has to have a strong public consensus behind it. Lack of consultation, the rush with which we are putting this piece of legislation through the Assembly, doesn't give me any satisfaction with respect to the questions that I raised. Are the public behind it? Are the police services behind it? Are all the stakeholders consulted properly? Given that the answer to many of these questions is no, I'm going to have to withhold my support for the bill.

Thank you.

The Acting Speaker: Anybody else?

The hon. Solicitor General and Minister of Public Security to close debate.

Mr. Cenaiko: Question.

[Motion carried; Bill 49 read a third time]

Bill 52

Miscellaneous Statutes Amendment Act, 2005 (No. 2)

The Acting Speaker: The hon. Minister of Advanced Education on behalf of the Minister of Justice and Attorney General.

Mr. Hancock: Thank you, Mr. Speaker, it's my pleasure on behalf of the Minister of Justice and Attorney General to move Miscellaneous Statutes Amendment Act, 2005 (No. 2), for third reading.

[Motion carried; Bill 52 read a third time]

4:20

Bill 53

Surface Rights Amendment Act, 2005

The Acting Speaker: The hon. Member for Peace River.

Mr. Oberle: Thank you, Mr. Speaker. It's my pleasure to rise today and move third reading of Bill 53, Surface Rights Amendment Act, 2005.

Mr. Speaker, it's quite a simple piece of legislation. It simply allows for the Surface Rights Board to issue an operator an order to enter private lands for the purpose of environmental remediation in the event that the operator and the landholder cannot agree on the terms of entry. The landholder remains protected in that they have access to the Surface Rights Board for compensation. I look forward to the debate on third reading.

Thank you, Mr. Speaker.

The Acting Speaker: The hon. Member for Calgary-Varsity.

Mr. Chase: Thank you very much. I hope this bill will achieve what it's intended to do. Given the lack of EUB public hearings resolving the rights of surface holders and mineral holders, a great deal of grief and conflict can result. Whether it's a gas well to be drilled or a hydro tower to be erected, consultation can be deliberately limited.

The landowner may see this drilling or erecting of a tower as encroachment on their land. They may view it as a form of legalized trespassing. The fact that the operator who initially did the drilling or installation left a mess in the first place just rubs salt in the first inflicted wound. Anger at loss of rights, anger at a further mess being made. The landowner may be considerably less than willing to have the same perpetrator come back onto their land for a third time. So I would hope that within this bill there is an extremely fair dispute resolution process. Sometimes, just simply paying a person to assuage their anger isn't sufficient.

Thank you.

The Acting Speaker: Hon. members, before I recognize the hon. Member for Grande Prairie-Smoky, may we briefly revert to Introduction of Guests?

[Unanimous consent granted]

head: Introduction of Guests
(reversion)

The Acting Speaker: The hon. Minister for Human Resources and Employment.

Mr. Cardinal: Thank you very much, Mr. Speaker. I'd like to introduce to you and through you to the members of the Assembly Jodi Newman and her friend. They're attending Concordia College here in Edmonton. I'd like them to rise and receive the traditional warm welcome of the Assembly.

The Acting Speaker: Hon. members, I've just noticed my assistant from the Calgary office, Jeremy Hexham, has just walked in, and I'd ask him to rise and be recognized by the Assembly.

head: Government Bills and Orders
Third Reading
Bill 53
Surface Rights Amendment Act, 2005
(continued)

The Acting Speaker: The hon. Member for Grande Prairie-Smoky.

Mr. Knight: Well, thank you, Mr. Speaker. I just rise to make a comment or two with respect to Bill 53. This piece of legislation, as my colleague has indicated, is relatively straightforward and simple. However, I would like to point out that along with that it is extremely important. The issue that we're dealing with here – although a member opposite has indicated that perhaps the EUB's shortcomings with respect to public hearings, et cetera, may have alleviated problems like these if, in fact, we were more diligent in that respect, indicating that in some ways these industrial contracts that are made are nothing more than legalized trespass and all these types of things.

We do have at the end of the day a very serious problem. It is this: when an operator moves out of an area that he has occupied for the purposes of an exploration, they would do a reclamation to remediate the area that they worked in. A certificate can be issued with respect to the reclamation, and it may hold and be valid for a number of years. At some point in time some unforeseen circumstance happens with respect to the piece of real estate. It will require then that we would withdraw the reclamation certificate and require that the operator revisit the site in order to make right the environmental damage that may be existing at that time. There has to be a way for us to ensure that the operator can get access to the site in order to do the reclamation. As my colleague has stated, the owner of the real estate has a right to fair compensation for an operator returning to the property and can apply to the Surface Rights Board to be sure that his compensation is fair and equitable to allow the operator to return.

Mr. Speaker, I would suggest that all members would want to support this bill. It's an important piece of legislation to help us continue with our diligence with respect to being sure that our environment remains in a good condition.

Thank you.

The Acting Speaker: Standing Order 29(2)(a). Any questions or comments? Hon. Member for Edmonton-Strathcona, are you rising on Standing Order 29(2)(a) to ask questions? Okay.

Well, nobody wishing to ask a question, I'll recognize the hon. Member for Edmonton-Strathcona.

Dr. Pannu: Thank you, Mr. Speaker. I'll be very, very brief in my comments on Bill 53, Surface Rights Amendment Act, 2005. I think the bill certainly is heading in the right direction. There are some questions I have raised with respect to how they arrive at fair compensation of the owners of the property to which entry is being allowed here, by way of this act, to a company whose reclamation certificate might have been withdrawn and, therefore, asked to go back onto the property to do further remediation. That to me is an issue that needs addressing, perhaps in regulations, so that there is a fair compensation for whatever damages are a result to the property upon entry by a company that is required to go back in to do the remediation work on environmental damage caused during earlier activity or operation.

I would certainly be in support of this piece of legislation except that I would like to see companies being required to put money in some sort of fund which is substantial enough for them to be able to do the remediation that is necessary. That's one of the problems that remains in this province and needs to be addressed. Just requiring landowners to permit companies who have found themselves being called upon to go back in is not enough. I think there have to be enough reserve resources for these companies to have put in place, that they can then call upon or use to do the remediation.

That being said, I think this piece of legislation is going in the right direction, and I will support it.

The Acting Speaker: Standing Order 29(2)(a). Any questions or comments?

The hon. Member for Peace River to close debate.

Mr. Oberle: Thank you, Mr. Speaker. I'll call the question.

[Motion carried; Bill 53 read a third time]

Bill 54
Alberta Centennial Education
Savings Plan Amendment Act, 2005

The Acting Speaker: The hon. Minister of Advanced Education.

Mr. Hancock: Thank you, Mr. Speaker. It's my pleasure to move Alberta Centennial Education Savings Plan Amendment Act, 2005, for third reading.

I was delighted to hear members from all sides of the House claim credit for this wonderful idea, and I'm sure that they will follow through with the sentiments that were expressed in debate with respect to the need to amend the act so that Alberta children at ages eight, 11, and 14 can be encouraged, or rather their parents and guardians might be encouraged, to open a registered education savings plan, if they have not already, to deposit $100 at least, to have that matched, and by doing so create a clear expression of interest and intention that their children will get a postsecondary education.

4:30

The Acting Speaker: The hon. Member for Calgary-Currie

Mr. Taylor: Thank you, Mr. Speaker. It's my pleasure to rise on third reading debate of Bill 54, the Alberta Centennial Education Savings Plan Amendment Act, 2005. Without claiming credit for anything necessarily, I just want to reiterate our support for this bill and the amendment that it will attach to the original Alberta Centennial Education Savings Plan Act. It opens up opportunities here to many, many more children; children born before January 1, 2005. I think it makes it much fairer and more equitable, and I'll be pleased to support this bill on third reading.

The Acting Speaker: The hon. Member for Edmonton-Strathcona.

Dr. Pannu: Thank you, Mr. Speaker. On Bill 54, the Alberta Centennial Education Savings Plan Amendment Act, 2005, in its third reading I just want to draw the attention of the House to the fact that I made some fairly extensive observations on it when the bill was in second reading. I think it's a feeble gesture of encouragement for parents.

I think this government needs to learn how to really encourage families and young people to want to go to university from the experience of countries like Finland, which has made postsecondary education free. That sends a very strong message of encouragement and support to parents as well as to young students who may be in school or may be returning after having done some work outside for a while and who want to return to postsecondary institutions.

Similarly, I think we need to learn something from Ireland, a country that without the rich resources that we have took a bold step with a very healthy vision for the future and threw open the doors of postsecondary education by removing tuition fees altogether for Irish citizens. That's the kind of, I think, example that we need to use in order to send a real message of encouragement to students and families that postsecondary education in this province is available and that this government wants to encourage everyone to participate in it.

Knowing especially what we know about the low participation rate of Albertans in postsecondary education, there is indeed a need for a very bold step forward, and this bill doesn't provide that. I just wanted to make sure that I'm on record reminding the House, and the minister in particular, that there's a need for bold action along the lines of the countries of Finland and Ireland.

Thank you.

The Acting Speaker: Standing Order 29(2)(a)? Any questions or comments?

Anybody else wish to participate in the debate?

The hon. Minister of Advanced Education to close debate.

Mr. Hancock: Question.

[Motion carried; Bill 54 read a third time]

Bill 55
Post-secondary Learning
Amendment Act, 2005 (No. 2)

The Acting Speaker: The hon. Minister of Advanced Education.

Mr. Hancock: Thank you, Mr. Speaker. I am pleased to move Bill 55, the Post-secondary Learning Amendment Act, 2005 (No. 2), for third reading. This is a rather modest act, but I think it will have some significant opportunities for the colleges and technical institutes in our system, and it will allow us to move forward with the system to design appropriate frameworks for alternate models for academic councils. I've committed to working with the system over the course of the winter if the Legislature passes this act, to help design the frameworks that would be appropriate and put in place the regulations which would be necessary to allow an individual institution to propose some alternate form of academic council which helps them to meet their goals and aspirations.

I've also committed to the opposition critic to work with him and to discuss with him the proposed models and frameworks, and I look forward to any advice and direction that he and other members of the House might have in that regard as we move forward to help create the best learning system in the country, in fact in the world, so that Alberta can have the best education and have access to the opportunities which we provide.

Thank you.

The Acting Speaker: The hon. Member for Calgary-Currie.

Mr. Taylor: Thank you, Mr. Speaker. Again, pleased to rise on third reading debate of Bill 55, the Post-secondary Learning Amendment Act, 2005 (No. 2). In the perfect world there may have been a better way to go about this, but this is not the perfect world. I do believe that this change to the Post-secondary Learning Act will give colleges and technical institutes that want it the flexibility that they need to design academic councils in their own way, that allow them to move forward with their plans, whether that's to pursue AUCC accreditation or design another model, whatever it might be.

The thing that I especially like about this bill is that it does not necessarily – although the minister acknowledged in committee yesterday that he has committed to consulting with all the colleges and technical institutes about this, and it's possible that what we're creating here is a second model for academic councils at the college and technical institute level. But if it works really well – if things work really well – what we'll come up with is an academic council that follows the general template that's in the act now plus, under this amendment that would create a section 47.1 to the Post-secondary Learning Act, an ability for colleges and technical institutes to have the flexibility to pursue their own paths.

So if one particular college wants to go in one direction and creating its own custom-designed academic council will enable it to do that – for instance, getting itself into a position where it can offer degrees that are recognized by the AUCC – this amendment, this bill, this act would give them that ability whereas another college might wish to go a slightly different route, and the flexibility would be there, we hope, for that to occur as well.

I thank the minister again for committing to consult with me as this consultation process and the development of the regulations go along. I think that will be helpful and informative as well. Hopefully, I will be able to provide some input that the minister will find useful. I will try. I will commit to do that. Hopefully out of this whole process will come good regulation that allows for our colleges and technical institutes in this province to achieve their full potential both over the short term and over time.

Thank you.

The Acting Speaker: The hon. Member for Edmonton-Strathcona.

Dr. Pannu: Thank you, Mr. Speaker. I'll be very brief on my comments on Bill 55, Post-secondary Learning Amendment Act, 2005 (No. 2). I just want to note that during the debate on Bill 43, that umbrella piece of legislation which lumped universities, colleges, and technical institutes together under one piece of legislation, we drew attention to the limits of the sort of approach that that bill seemed to represent, which is the one-size-fits-all approach to the establishment of academic councils.

Colleges in this province are dynamic entities. They are changing their charters, their roles, their program delivery. The scope of programs is changing. We're moving to a degree-granting status for some of the colleges, and we can't have the same one model of academic councils that was envisaged in Bill 43.

So the minister is responding to some of this dynamic change and, specifically, requests from some of the colleges that are to be given powers which are somewhat similar to those that the universities, which grant degrees, enjoy at the moment. The solution that's being proposed by way of this bill is, I think, perhaps not ideal, not something that some of the colleges really want, but certainly it's accommodative of some of the requests that they have made.

4:40

I think what we need as we move towards allowing colleges to offer degree programs, not in one or two areas but in many areas – it is important to revisit the whole issue of the structure of governance for those colleges, from boards of governors down to academic councils, and ask why not: if these colleges are going to be increasingly doing the work that universities have done in the past, that we bring their governance structures closer to the model that presently prevails across the universities because the universities' model does seem to work. And the core of that model is greater institutional autonomy for degree-granting institutions to make decisions that affect the substance of their academic programs, the delivery models, the standards of performance, and the sort of rights and duties of academic and nonacademic staff in those institutions. These rights and duties have to be commensurate with the kind of work that we expect them to do, and degree-granting work is very different from diploma programs and activities.

So I hope the minister will continue to work on this issue, perhaps bring forward stand-alone legislation which governs degree-granting non-university postsecondary institutions in the near future because that may be the real answer. In the meanwhile, this is a step, I think, in the right direction, and he does have my support. I hope he will continue to consult both with the members of this House and certainly on this side of the House but also with institutions, who will certainly bear the major impact of the changes in legislation that are made in this House based on the initiatives that he takes.

Thank you, Mr. Speaker.

The Acting Speaker: Standing Order 29(2)(a). Any questions or comments?

There being none, the hon. Member for Calgary-Varsity.

Mr. Chase: Thank you. As the representative for Calgary-Varsity and the University of Calgary I'd like very much to thank the Minister of Advanced Education for his collaborative efforts and consultation with the hon. Member for Calgary-Currie in terms of drafting and explaining Bill 55.

There is a great deal of co-operation in Calgary amongst the postsecondary institutions. Mount Royal College, the University of Calgary, the Alberta College of Art and Design, the Southern Alberta Institute of Technology, and the Bow Valley College all work very well together, as do their various students' unions. There has been some discussion about a perceived threat if Mount Royal were given a degree-granting status. But from what I've heard from both students and faculty, this threat is not real. Each institution, as the hon. Member for Calgary-Currie pointed out, has a unique place, and the co-operation between the various institutes enables a relatively smooth transition from one institution to another.

Again, thank you very much, Advanced Education minister, for pushing Mount Royal College that much closer to a degree-granting status.

The Acting Speaker: Standing Order 29(2)(a)?

Anybody else wish to participate in the debate?

The Minister of Advanced Education to close debate.

Mr. Hancock: Question.

[Motion carried; Bill 55 read a third time]

Bill 56

Business Corporations Amendment Act, 2005 (No. 2)

The Acting Speaker: The hon. Minister of Advanced Education on behalf of the Member for Calgary-Nose Hill.

Mr. Hancock: Thank you, Mr. Speaker. It's my pleasure to move the Business Corporations Amendment Act, 2005 (No. 2).

This act deals very succinctly with some elements with respect to amendments that were made to add the concept of an unlimited liability corporation. It was a new concept for Alberta in the spring of this year, and the amendments were made to the Business Corporations Act this spring in order to allow for the unlimited liability corporation.

That having been done, there was opportunity for a more thorough look and review over the summer and to get some feedback. That feedback resulted in the amendments being brought forward this fall relative to how shareholders in an unlimited liability corporation might end their association with that unlimited liability corporation and, therefore, remove their liability for the actions of that company, among other amendments.

It's an important piece of work because unlimited liability corporations will become a good vehicle for people to do business in the province. It's an opportunity for yet another form of corporate organization, giving choice to companies and to Albertans in terms of how they organize their affairs to maximize their ability to do business, create jobs, create economic opportunity in the province. I'd commend the bill to the House for passage in third reading.

The Acting Speaker: The hon. Member for Edmonton-Meadowlark.

Mr. Tougas: Thank you, Mr. Speaker. In regard to the Business Corporations Amendment Act, 2005 (No. 2) I believe this bill has been adequately debated. We have a few minor reservations about some of the clauses but nothing too terribly substantial. I'd be happy to move that we adjourn debate and call the question.

The Acting Speaker: The hon. Member for Edmonton-Strathcona.

Dr. Pannu: Thank you, Mr. Speaker. I'm glad that you didn't accede to the request to adjourn debate on the bill.

Mr. Speaker, Bill 56 is really an attempt to make what's called minor amendments to an already existing bill, Bill 16, that was debated in this House I think in the spring. The flaws in that bill were certainly debated in this House at some length, among other things. Just to remind the House of one of the problems with that bill, I'm quoting from a publication from the Fasken Martineau corporation, the article written by Morgan Tingle, in Calgary. I'll just read the last part of it. Commenting on the unlimited liability act, they said:

The difference in shareholder liabilities notwithstanding, the creation of the AULC [Alberta unlimited liability corporation] provides an excellent opportunity for U.S. companies to benefit from Alberta's corporate-friendly legislative and tax regimes. In particular, there are several key differences between the Nova Scotia Companies Act . . . and the Alberta Business Corporations Act . . . many of which make AULCs a more attractive alternative to the NSULC, the Nova Scotia counterpart of it, according to the assessment provided by this expert on business legislation.

The amendments, Mr. Speaker, that are proposed here are not enough to address the flaws in the previous legislation which they're trying to amend. They demonstrate that there must be serious failings in the earlier legislation. Whether this bill fixes these failings is highly questionable.

I ask: what's the rush in bringing the unlimited liability corporations act amendments here now? The whole concept is poorly understood. Its implications for tax avoidance have not really been fully explored. Why rush into approving amendments to a bill that seems to have serious flaws? Given the state of Alberta securities enforcement practices here and our rather poor track record in prosecuting corporate misconduct or crime, U.S. companies must think that it's a pretty safe bet for them to incorporate as a ULC in Alberta in exchange for tax advantages.

I continue to have serious reservations about this piece of legislation, Bill 56, Mr. Speaker. I thought I'd very briefly reiterate them for the purpose of the record of this House. Thank you.

4:50

The Acting Speaker: Standing Order 29(2)(a)?

Does anybody else wish to participate in the debate?

The hon. Minister of Advanced Education to close debate on behalf of the hon. Member for Calgary-Nose Hill?

[Motion carried; Bill 56 read a third time]

Bill 57 Apprenticeship and Industry Training Amendment Act, 2005

The Acting Speaker: The hon. Minister of Advanced Education.

Mr. Hancock: Thank you, Mr. Speaker. With great pleasure I move Bill 57, Apprenticeship and Industry Training Amendment Act, 2005, for third reading.

This, again, is a modest act but one that's important. As I explained to the House on earlier occasions, there was a discrepancy in the legislation or a potential concern or a vagueness in the legislation dealing with the transition from the manpower training act to the Apprenticeship and Industry Training Act a number of years ago. That ambiguity was highlighted in a court case recently, and as a result it was deemed appropriate to move forward to clarify so that there was no doubt as to what trades would be listed as designated trades under the legislation.

The purpose of this bill is to create the regulation-making authority so that designated trades can be listed and clearly identified for Albertans. There has been some suggestion that that should be done in the legislation as opposed to by regulation, but that's not really a practical suggestion, Mr. Speaker. The fact is that we don't designate trades lightly, and we certainly don't de-designate trades lightly.

We have a very appropriate but detailed process in the province with the Alberta Apprenticeship and Industry Training Board, which has members from both industry and trades on the board. We take advice from that board. That board takes advice from a series of provincial advisory councils and local advisory councils. When we deal with issues such as apprenticeship-to-journeyman ratios, we ask that series of advisory groups for advice and direction in that area. When it comes to areas where we ought to have appropriate designations for required trades, the Apprenticeship and Industry Training Board provides advice after consultation through the provincial advisory committees and the local advisory committees. When we're talking about where there needs to be improvement in trades training, again, we get advice through that process.

Mr. Speaker, we have in this province an apprenticeship training system which is the envy not only of the country but of the world. In fact, we had a recent mention, I believe it was in Barbados, in their throne speech, on the apprenticeship and industry training system that they're setting up there, which is modelled on Alberta's. Others have come from around the world to see how it's being done here. I'm not saying this to blow our horn as government but to blow our horn as to the way in which industry and trades have worked together to create a comprehensive system and comprehensive trades training.

This piece of legislation is a modest way of yet evergreening our legislation, continuing our efforts to improve legislation so it's clear for Albertans, understandable for Albertans, so they know where to go to find the information that they need, so it's clear that when we're trying to enforce the legislation, there's a clear line of authority for that enforcement.

The situation that this arose out of was a situation where there was a request for an order directing an individual who owned and operated an autobody repair shop to cease working in the autobody technician trade until he was in compliance with sections 21(3) and 21(4) of the Apprenticeship and Industry Training Act. That application was not successful because the court found that there wasn't a clear line of authority showing that to be a designated trade.

Of course, since the time that the act came into effect, there have also been a number of name changes. To put it in the act and to outline it in the act, either directly in the act or as a schedule, would be a cumbersome process.

I can assure all members of the House that this is not a method to denigrate the noncompulsory trades, to have an easy way to move from compulsory to noncompulsory, or to fragment the trades. As I indicated to the hon. Member for Edmonton-Manning when he raised his concerns, I'm more than happy to sit down with him, discuss the concerns that he raised with respect to trades and trades training.

We look forward to a very, very bright future in this province, with many opportunities for young Albertans who want to go into the trades as a valid career choice. I want to assure that hon. member and other members of the House that we take the issue of trades training, trades certification, the designated trades, or compulsory trades very, very seriously. We would ask for the support of the House in making this amendment so that where there is the necessity for compulsory trades and to enforce the regulations around compulsory trades, we have a clear line of authority to do so.

Thank you, Mr. Speaker.

The Acting Speaker: The hon. Member for Edmonton-Decore.

Mr. Bonko: Thank you, Mr. Speaker. I'm pleased with such a thorough explanation from the minister. Some of the concerns, comments, or questions that we had, which were raised by the Member for Edmonton-Manning, have been answered. His consent to go back and discuss some of the concerns that the member has is great. I thank him for that. We did raise a number of concerns, as the minister did, with the compulsory trades and/or the optional trades. As for everything that we have mentioned and had concerns about, I think we can live with what's going on.

Thank you.

The Acting Speaker: Hon. Member for Grande Prairie-Smoky, are you rising to speak?

Mr. Knight: Thank you, Mr. Speaker. Again, there doesn't appear to be much to this particular piece of legislation. Of course, many times we gloss over some of the smaller bits of legislation that appear not to be detailed or important.

I had the very good fortune to come up through the apprenticeship training system in the province of Alberta. In fact, when I initially engaged in the trade of an instrument mechanic, there was at that point in time no regulation with respect to who could or could not practise that trade. What we did was work under the auspices of electricians, so we would have journeymen electricians that would sort of be our mentors, and we worked along with them.

However, what happened to instrument mechanics in that particular period of time was that their opportunities for advancement and also their opportunities with respect to equalizing salaries around that trade were limited simply because there was no recognition of the fact that that enterprise was, indeed, a registered trade.

When it came forward through the system, a very similar situation. It really did add an awful lot for young Albertans who wanted to become involved in the instrumentation and control business to have a licence to practise that trade in the province. It made a huge difference in their ability to have both secure employment and a level playing field with other individuals that worked very closely in the same industry although were certified as qualified electricians.

5:00

The other thing that's important with respect to this, although nothing mentioned in the legislation but is supplemental to this, is that the certified engineering technologists that come along behind the technologists, people that would decide that they want to advance their opportunities another step further, the more certifications that we have that are clear I think the more opportunities it will afford young workers to move along and further themselves in the area of being certified engineering technologists as well.

So I applaud the legislation and hope that all members of the House would support it. Thank you.

The Acting Speaker: Standing Order 29(2)(a).

Anybody else wish to participate in the debate?

The hon. minister to close debate?

[Motion carried; Bill 57 read a third time]

Bill 58

Alberta Centennial Medal Amendment Act, 2005

Mr. Mar: Mr. Speaker, much debate has taken place over this bill at previous stages of its reading, and I appreciate comments made by members on both sides of the House and would move third reading of Bill 58.

The Acting Speaker: The hon. Member for Calgary-Varsity.

Mr. Chase: Thank you very much. Before closing debate on Bill 58, I'd just like to commend the efforts of our respective and respected House leaders in their schedule of collaborations that led to very efficient debates and discussions both last night and this afternoon. I commend their efforts. It shows how we can be a working unit.

With regard to Bill 58 I would like to thank the Minister of Community Development for providing opportunities for us all to recognize the efforts and contributions of our constituents. Both the medallions and the medals were very much appreciated by the recipients. I'm sure each of us could recount specific stories of deserving candidates within our constituencies, but I won't take that time now.

This Sunday, in terms of a collaborative effort, I will be presenting with the Member for Calgary-Nose Hill candidates that he suggested from the Banff Trail Community Association executive, of which he is a member. We have wonderful collaboration in Calgary-Varsity.

With regard to specifically Bill 58 one of the beauties of this whole medallion/ medal is that we each got an equal number. We each had 30; we gave them out. It was a universal kind of equivalency. If we wish to give the Premier of Saskatchewan a medal, I'm all for it. Saskatchewan is our sister province. It just seems to me that this bill is a very complicated way of accomplishing that.

Thank you.

The Acting Speaker: The hon. minister to close debate.

Mr. Mar: Thank you, Mr. Speaker. I'm happy to close debate on this. In response to the comments made by the hon. Member for Calgary-Varsity, I can assure the House that were it as simple as simply conferring it on the Premier of Saskatchewan, we would have done so. He may think that this is an awkward way of doing it, but as currently constated, our legislation doesn't permit the conferring of a medal upon a non-Alberta resident. So this was the simplest way of addressing it. We've taken the Saskatchewan legislation and mirror imaged it and applied it ourselves. This is the simplest solution to reaching the objective.

Thank you, Mr. Speaker.

[Motion carried; Bill 58 read a third time]

Bill 51

Appropriation (Supplementary Supply) Act, 2005 (No. 2)

The Acting Speaker: The hon. Minister of Finance.

Mrs. McClellan: Thank you, Mr. Speaker. It gives me pleasure to move Bill 51, the Appropriation (Supplementary Supply) Act, 2005 (No. 2) for third reading.

Mr. Speaker, I've reviewed Hansard for the number of questions, comments – I must say more comments than questions – and reviewed them through the debate on supply on the various departments that were before the House for supply. I found it helpful to review those comments, and I think that there's a great deal that we can take from many of those comments to make our process work better.

What I really understood from the discussion was certainly that there was a firm commitment for the majority of the spending, whether it was health facilities, a conclusion of health facilities, schools, advanced education facilities, but many, many comments about the process. So I certainly take that advice in the manner that it was provided and will look at that. As I say, I did check for questions. There weren't really any definitive questions in the area.

So, Mr. Speaker, I would conclude my comments in moving third reading and look forward to comments from other members.

The Acting Speaker: The hon. Member for Cardston-Taber-Warner.

Mr. Hinman: Thank you, Mr. Speaker. I just wanted to briefly address once more, as it has been several times, that a plan really should have been in place. Just today alone I received three letters from teachers in my constituency that are very concerned about the unfunded liability of the teachers' pension plan. There are many debts in the province that I feel we should be looking at and addressing, yet in this Bill 51 it seems like it was more of an expense and spending spree than it was addressing the problems. I'd just like to make that note again that we should be looking at a plan. We should be looking at debts and other problems that we should be cleaning up at this time and not go on a spending spree and look at where and how fast we can spend this money for political purposes, it seems.

Thank you.

The Acting Speaker: The hon. Government House Leader.

Mr. Hancock: Thank you, Mr. Speaker. It is my pleasure to speak to Bill 51, the appropriation act. There have been a number of comments made about spending sprees, about unplanned spending. To be perfectly frank, nothing could be further from the truth.

Much of the appropriations and much of the concern about the application of unbudgeted surpluses this year has been that there hasn't been accountability. Well, accountability is happening. We're back to the Legislature asking for approval for the funding, but between sittings of the Legislature it is normal for governments to govern. It is very appropriate to take what is a very well-thought-out, I think, capital program where we know and understand - for example, in my area of responsibility in Advanced Education we have 21 public institutions, most, if not all, of whom have a clear understanding of their way forward in terms of the types of places that they want to provide for students, the type of educational opportunities they want to provide for students, and the capital needs that they have in order to meet those aspirations.

5:10

If we go through the province, we can see that the University of Lethbridge, for example, has become the pre-eminent centre for water research. That is something that is very important to Alberta, very important to our Water for Life strategy, very important to move forward. We've taken the opportunity to indicate to the University of Lethbridge that we will put aside in the capital fund sufficient resources to allow them to move ahead on their water research building. They have other needs that are part of the capital plan that have not been funded as yet in terms of academic spaces and other spaces. So if, indeed, more resources come available, I will be working with and lobbying the Minister of Finance and the Treasury Board and my colleagues to allocate more resources to the capital fund to deal with those issues.

The University of Calgary, for example, as I indicated, has about a $780 million or $800 million program that over the next number of years they would like to embark on with respect to funding. So there have been allocations there.

Supplementary supply is the funds that we're asking to spend in this year, some of which go towards longer term projects and some of which go towards operational funding. Very, very appropriate that we move ahead on our plans, that we come to the Legislature and ask for the spending that we require in this year. The supplementary supply that is being asked for includes for Advanced Education some $80 million.

Some of those are very important projects and projects which go forward this year: $15 million, for example, to assist the University of Alberta in its acquisition of the Bay building, which will be not only important for the university in terms of student learning opportunities but very important in terms of the whole process of commercialization of research. So I know that Innovation and Science will be very interested in working with them as they move their commercialization centre from an old building at the university, which will have to be taken down to make way for the new ambulatory learning centre, to relocate it downtown Edmonton, where it will be an engine of commerce and commercialization. Very, very important for that pillar of the 20-year strategic plan where we're talking about unleashing innovation.

So many different things which we can go forward on. It's important that we have the opportunity to move forward, that we have the opportunity to do this strategic planning process, to move ahead with the capital plan, to ask for permission to spend in this year those dollars which need to be expended in this year, some, a modest amount, for program spending because we're limited to a modest amount of in-year spending on programs. One per cent of the budget is in the contingency allowance. There are lots of things that happen in-year in terms of cost pressures for institutions, for example, in terms of rising energy prices and those sorts of areas. Rising energy prices: obviously a very good thing for a province which sells energy as a commodity, but it creates a pressure for Albertans in terms of gas prices, and pressure for Alberta institutions in terms of their heating costs. So those are the types of things that we need to address in-year through supplementary supply, and those are the things that we're asking permission for in this bill. I think they're all very understandable.

I do understand the opposition's concern about having the opportunity to review supplementary supply and debate it, but I certainly don't understand their desire for us to stop the process of government and do nothing while we await their opinions on it when, in fact, the government has been duly elected by the people of Alberta to govern the province and be accountable to the Legislature. That's what we're doing now: asking for permission to move ahead with spending, subjecting government programs based on clear and decisive and important plans to the Legislature for approval.

So I would hope that members would approve the appropriation act today and allow us to move forward with that.

With that, Mr. Speaker, I would move that we adjourn debate.

[Motion to adjourn debate carried]

Mrs. McClellan: Mr. Speaker, I would move that we call it 5:30 and reconvene at 8 o'clock this evening.

[Motion carried; the Assembly adjourned at 5:15 p.m.]

Legislative Assembly of Alberta

Title: Wednesday, November 30, 2005 8:00 p.m.
 Date: 05/11/30
 [The Speaker in the chair]

The Speaker: Please be seated.

head: Government Bills and Orders
Third Reading
Bill 51
Appropriation (Supplementary Supply) Act,
2005 (No. 2)

[Adjourned debate November 30: Mr. Hancock]

The Speaker: The hon. Member for Edmonton-Centre.

Ms Blakeman: Thank you very much, Mr. Speaker. I'm pleased to get the opportunity to speak to the appropriation bill again in the third reading. Just a couple of things that I'd like to touch on in third reading. We are trying to speak to the anticipated effect of the bill once it's passed. There are some interesting things happening with this government and their approach to budgeting and supplementary supply. I haven't been able to read the Blues, but I understand that just before we adjourned for the dinner break, the Minister of Advanced Education was speaking.

I want to be clear here. I don't think anyone on the opposition side is saying that there shouldn't be a supplementary supply, but I think that we have a lot of issues, which we've outlined during this debate and during the supplementary supply debate, around the process and around the timing and around the thoroughness of how this government is approaching supplementary supply and, in fact, the whole issue of budgeting and appropriation for the province.

We understand that there has to be supplementary supply occasionally. But even in my day – and I haven't been sitting in this Assembly anywhere near as long as some of the other people in this Assembly – I have seen supplementary supplies go from a few tens of thousands, maybe hundreds of thousands in situations where you'd expect it. You know, there was a higher number of forest fires, or there was some flooding, or there was some other kind of emergency preparedness or disaster relief which you can't anticipate. You can kind of go on a law of averages and give it your best shot, best average for any given year, and then if you need to, you would put supplementary supply into that area after the fact once you knew the full cost. But we've moved from that position to a position where we're looking at literally billions of dollars.

When we on the opposition side see the government members pass a budget in May and within minutes start talking about unbudgeted spending, which is some new wonderful spin phrase coming out of the Public Affairs Bureau, bless their tiny little hearts, you have to think: well, what is the commitment here to a pure form of finance that best serves the province?

This year we looked at I think it was 13 departments for $1.8 billion. Mr. Speaker, for the three days that were allocated by the government to have supplementary supply, which is meant to be a give-and-take situation in which you're meant to be able to ask questions and have the minister respond to you, we were not able to debate some eight departments, eight out of the 13, representing some $1.3 billion. So we only ever really got through about $500 million and some five departments in those three days of supplementary supply.

What I've seen in nine years here is that the budget comes in later and later and later every spring. It used to come in a week or two weeks exactly after the throne speech. Now it's coming in just before we break for spring break. So somewhere towards the end of March the budget is actually laid before us. Then there's this pell-mell dash to get through the number of allocated days that match the number of ministries and then to do the appropriate readings of the appropriation bill.

At the same time, obviously, even though the budget has been laid before us, the government is already aware that they're off on their estimates. I mean, the budget is supposed to be a plan. There should be a good reason why you would be exceeding it or falling behind on your budget plan. To do it regularly and to be out by as much as this government is out is either appalling mismanagement or quite deliberate.

I'm sure that someone here could make the argument for appalling mismanagement, but I rather think it's deliberate because then you get the Premier saying: it's no business of the Legislative Assembly's to talk about the surplus. [interjection] Well, this is what he was in the press saying. I don't get to follow along, but that's certainly what he's been widely quoted as saying. Now, if the Minister of Finance believes that she was on the spot and has a more precise quote, I of course welcome her to join the debate, and she of most ministers is far more likely to. But there we had a situation where the Premier very clearly was saying: it's none of your business; you don't get to talk about this; it's the government's business, what the surplus is and how we will spend it. I would argue that that's not true at all.

I would also argue that the government has taken a great deal of heat and the individual members have taken a great deal of heat for that attitude. Certainly, we've heard about people's unhappiness with that attitude in our office, and we're representing the opposition. I can just imagine how hot it's been over there, and frankly, I think it's about time.

The effect of this appropriation bill. What I see the effect being is that the government presents a budget later and later and later into the year. They're already working on a plan for their surplus before in fact we've ever passed it. Then they spend all summer out on the barbecue circuit making promises and giving away money. They come in here in the fall session, and we get one day, two days, three days, whatever the government decides we're going to get on supplementary estimates, which as this gets a larger and larger amount of money, it completely passes the ability of the Assembly to deal with it in any meaningful way. So we now have what is bordering on a meaningless supplementary supply debate.

Mr. Speaker, I would argue that when you are looking at about 17 minutes out of a total possible six hours – because that's what we had. Each "day" of supplementary supply is 120 minutes; it's two hours of guaranteed debate. We had three days; that's six hours of debate on supplementary supply for 13 ministries and $1.8 billion. We were trying to debate one department every 17 minutes. It is not possible for there to be a meaningful exchange between an Official Opposition critic and a minister, never mind adding in the representatives from the third party in this Assembly or from the independent member or, indeed, from any member of the government backbench. Not that that happens very often, but it certainly could. I mean, it is reaching the point of meaningless. Is this a deliberate move? Is the effect of this bill a deliberate move on behalf of government to make this meaningless and to make it – what? – laughable, make it trivial, make it unimportant, to support that claim that it's none of our business how the government decides to spend that money?

Mr. Speaker, we were looking at a surplus this year, I think, of $8 billion from a total budget of $24 billion, the budget we passed back last May. We're looking at a surplus of one-third of the total budget of the year. For that, the Premier says: you've got no right to talk about that. So that's what I'm seeing as the effect of this particular appropriation bill.

More specifically, I look at, for example, the Health and Wellness budget that's being presented in the supplementary supply. The minister was looking for $64 million but had been out there on that same hotdog/steak barbecue circuit since last May making press releases on $1.4 billion of spending. We're not seeing that $1.4 billion here, nor could I get any detailed information out of the minister about how the $64 million relates to the $1.4 billion and whether the rest of that money in fact is allocated, whether it's there, or whether we get $64 million into this and put the brakes on, leave the rebar sticking out of the cement from a hole in the ground and wait. For what? Another increase in a barrel of oil? Another increase in the price of a gigajoule of natural gas?

8:10

I think it is very poor management and very unwise of us to be spending our natural resource money as it comes in. I think that especially for nonrenewable resources we need to look seriously at developing a nonrenewable resource revenue policy and getting that in place so that we're not spending every dime of that money as it comes in. That revenue will start to decrease or deplete, and our ability to rely on that will decrease and deplete, maybe not in five years, maybe not in 10 years, maybe not in 15 years, but it certainly will. Just because we are serving today as legislators in 2005 doesn't mean that we shouldn't be looking 15 or 20 or 30 years down the road.

I would argue that that stuff is coming much faster. We need to be moving faster legislatively and with a clear planning cycle to anticipate that, yet what we're seeing is the budgeting cycle collapsing so that we have a target that is now moved from March because our year-end – and I don't have to remind you of this – is the end of March of a given year. Well, we're now getting the budget presented within days of year-end. So, obviously, there is no hope that we are going to be able to debate that budget and pass it before year-end, to the point where it would be implemented literally the next day. That's not happening anymore. It's actually not happened in so many years that I think some people don't even connect that that's why we try and do a budget process at that time of year.

So we've got a budget planning process that is collapsing. It's imploding upon itself. The budget in the spring is coming in later and later. It has less and less to do with what is the reality of the money that is available to the province. We have unbudgeted spending and again – I'm so sorry; I got that little phrase wrong. Off-budget spending. Just like off-track betting. That off-budget spending goes on all summer long, and then we have an incredibly truncated and almost meaningless supplementary supply debate.

That doesn't mean that I think it should be meaningless, Mr. Speaker. I think it should be very meaningful. It is an opportunity where the hopes and desires and wishes and concerns of Albertans should be represented in this House, and it should be brought forward by every member, not just members of the opposition. Every member should be able to read in Hansard what their member, what their representative said about what they needed or wanted and were expecting regarding a financial commitment.

Now we are also in the habit of going into the early spring session with a second supplementary supply. That has also become very common. So the whole idea of a budget as a plan that you do your very best to stick to has completely gone out the window, and with it are all the other controls that you try and put in place to be good managers, good fiscal stewards of the resources and the revenue of Albertans.

What do I see as the effect of the appropriation bill, Bill 51, in passing, likely this evening, Mr. Speaker? I see it as another step down the road to this government taking and breaking a parliamentary process long established where the people, through their representatives, get to have a meaningful discussion about choices in spending money and in how the money comes in. That is being taken away from this Assembly and, therefore, taken away from the people of Alberta. I think that is sad. I think it's dangerous.

We'll see how the people of Alberta react. So far they haven't been too keen on this last go-round, but we'll see whether they keep the fire on all the way through, keeping all those little bums warm over there through the holiday season. We'll wait until the next supplementary supply, in which I hope the government will grant us sufficient time to reasonably debate the amounts of money that are put before us in an expected and anticipated second supplementary supply budget.

Thank you for the opportunity to speak this evening.

The Speaker: Hon. members, we have an opportunity now for 29(2)(a) with the Member for Edmonton-Centre; however, there's one little quirk that developed late this afternoon. The hon. Government House Leader was participating and, I believe, adjourned the debate which precluded the opportunity for 29(2)(a) to kick in. So we're going to go retroactively now to deal with the Minister of Advanced Education. Then we'll come to the Member for Edmonton-Centre. So I'll recognize first the Member for Cardston-Taber-Warner just to make sure we have everything copacetic.

Mr. Hinman: Thank you, Mr. Speaker. I would like to refer back to the end of the discussion when the hon. minister mentioned that they have a plan, that they have a 20-year strategic plan, and that they need to move ahead on that capital plan. I don't think any of the opposition have said that we don't need to move ahead. Our concern is that a plan is only a wish unless it's written down, and it would seem that it's a wish list to most Albertans because we don't get to see this plan and the priorities that you refer to and where they might sit on there.

One of the comments that you made was rising energy prices, obviously a very good thing for the province, which sells energy as a commodity. Perhaps I'm unaware, but for many of the school districts and things that I'm working with, it's very frustrating when the prices go up, and they have to wait retroactively to cover those expenses. Maybe there is a formula – but I'm not aware of one – for when the prices go up where that extra supplemental supply would go to them to cover those expenses due to the high energy costs and heating.

You spoke about us desiring to stop the process of government and do nothing until you wait for our opinions. I don't think that is accurate as well in the fact that we just want to be able to debate, to know what those plans are, and to discuss and be part of that.

You also mentioned at the end there: programs based on a clear and decisive and important plan. Once again I say that I haven't seen any of those written plans. I think it's more of a wish, and if, in fact, it's just a wish, I'd refer back to there be nothing nicer than to have a wish list planned for such places as the Warner-Taber hockey school and the Magrath golf course and to be able to put it in. You would pull out of that wish list a lottery, where there is hope for these communities to be funded on areas that don't seem to be on your strategic 20-year plan. With that, I guess I'll wait for the response.

Thank you.

The Speaker: The hon. Minister of Advanced Education.

Mr. Hancock: Well, thank you, Mr. Speaker. First of all, I'm really pleased that the hon. member raised the issue of the 20-year strategic plan because I'm particularly proud of the fact that the government is one of the first if not the first government in the country that has a 20-year strategic plan that's clearly enunciated, that was published with the budget, published with the business plans last year and the year before. It's on the website. You can find it there. It talks about unleashing innovation, leading and learning, competing in a global marketplace, making Alberta the best place to live, work, and visit.

Now, the hon. member I know had confused the 20-year strategic plan, which is publicly available, which sets a clear direction for Alberta about the type of Alberta that Albertans want to have. The capital plan that I was speaking of in which we talked about in the case of Advanced Education going to each of the public postsecondary institutions that operate in our system and in our system context and asking them for their goals and aspirations and their long-term plan with respect to the capital to achieve the goals and objectives that they have – they submit those plans. We work with those plans and talk about them in a systems context to set priorities. That's part of the process of governance and governing, and that's clearly what we do, take those plans. I know that the Minister of Education does the same things with the school boards.

The hon. Member for Edmonton-Norwood sat on the Edmonton public school board. He knows that every year they submitted a plan with respect to the capital priorities for that particular system. The Minister of Education's role in concert with the Minister of Infrastructure and Transportation is to bring all of the plans together from all the board-governed authorities in the area of education and develop a strategy as to how you go forward, how you prioritize the need because there's need in all sorts of different areas, and you could say the same thing with the Ministry of Health. So, of course, there's a plan with respect to capital. Nobody dreams this stuff up in their head.

You're talking about a lottery where there's hope, and I guess that's one thing, but I find it rather strange because to me there's no such thing as lottery and hope in the same breath. Lottery is pure chance, a voluntary tax paid by people who want to give their money voluntarily.

8:20

When you talked about the concept of prices going up, of course oil and gas are commodities, and they're sold on a world market, and when the world market price goes up, the price goes up locally as well. Now, we have a plan in place where consumers get a bit of a break. We can do a natural gas rebate plan, so there's a break on that side of the equation. Yes, in supplementary supply, I believe in the Ministry of Education's supplemental estimates, there was provision to pay to school boards an additional amount to pay for the cost of gas that went up.

So clear and decisive decisions: that's what we do on an ongoing basis. But the operation of management of government, where you take the priorities that you've looked at, the capital priorities, because that's where most of the unbudgeted surpluses can go . . .

The Speaker: I draw to the attention of the hon. Minister of Advanced Education that that time segment is now expired. Now we have an opportunity under section 29(2)(a), if there are questions to the hon. Member for Edmonton-Centre.

There being none, then I will recognize the hon. Member for Edmonton-Beverly-Clareview, to be followed by the hon. Member for Edmonton-Mill Woods.

Mr. Martin: Thank you, Mr. Speaker. I'd just remind the House leader that I am now from Edmonton-Beverly-Clareview rather than Edmonton-Norwood. [interjection] I know that you confuse easily.

Mr. Speaker, I had a few comments to make at Committee of Supply, and I absolutely have to take the opportunity to put not my two cents' but my ten cents' worth in on the supplementary supply. I do remember back when it was a big issue on supplementary estimates when we used to come back in the spring. I can remember one time when there was a hundred million dollars, and we were quite exercised about that. Now if the supplementary estimates came in at a hundred million dollars, I think we'd run over and congratulate the other side. Now we're talking about billions.

The point that I want to make, Mr. Speaker, is that supplementary estimates were always met. Sometimes we cannot control circumstances that can't be foreseen, and we've talked about it before. It could be floods that we faced or BSE and these sorts of things. Nobody questions the need for supplementary estimates. We had supplementary estimates in the spring, and now we have them in the fall. We're talking about $1.8 billion, and 13 departments had emergencies. I mean, this is just not the way to run our budget. I say with all due respect that supplementary estimates are now just part of the government and, as the Member for Edmonton-Centre said, with limited time to budget. I think we have to change a lot of things around in this Legislature about how we handle the taxpayers' money.

I want to stress that this has gone out of control from where it used to be. We can remember, Mr. Speaker, those wonderful days back when. I know you can. I think you would agree that supplementary estimates meant a different thing, and as opposition we were often critical of that, as I say, when it was a hundred million. But now, $1.8 billion. You know, C.D. Howe used to say: what's a million? We say, "What's a billion?" in this province.

You can say that the government suggests that somehow this is good management. Well, it's not good management. It's very poor management. I would remind members, Mr. Speaker, that we also spent over $4 billion in new spending, so we're looking at almost $6 billion that was not planned in the budget in the spring. So what's the point of having a budget in the spring? Not to say that some of the things that we're spending it on aren't worth while, but if they're worth while, they should be put in the budget at that time and with a plan.

Now, the Minister of Advanced Education said that they have a 20-year plan. Well, they may have a 20-year plan, but they can't keep a five-minute plan going in terms of their budget. It changed almost immediately after the provincial budget that came out in the spring, Mr. Speaker.

I'm suggesting that we are not doing due diligence with taxpayers' money the way we are going in this province. We're fortunate that the money is flowing in, not to the good management of this government. We happen to have the resources. Now, I've said before that 83 monkeys could somehow run this province with the amount of money that's coming in, but I'm saying to this government that we better start to do something about the way we're dealing with the taxpayers' money because it may not always be this easy.

Again, I see this as part of a democratic deficit, and perhaps an economic deficit, Mr. Speaker. If the government wants a legacy, if the Premier wants a legacy – or maybe the new backbenchers would start to say: "Something's wrong here. Something's wrong about the way we're handling finances." People that have been in municipal government would not run their finances in this way. Maybe they should be doing something and getting the government to change.

We should have this going, and we should be sitting longer and doing more committee work on the budget, delving into a little more detail. Our Public Accounts should be made to work. All these things would help, and we would be doing the taxpayers of Alberta a favour. It doesn't matter. This is not right or left or anything else. This is just good money management, Mr. Speaker.

So I say to this government: surely, they can't suggest to us that coming back in the fall with a $1.8 billion supplementary estimate is good management. It can't possibly be with 13 departments having emergencies. There's no onus on them to follow the regular budget that we passed in the spring, Mr. Speaker. It doesn't mean anything anymore. There's $6 billion more floating around than we talked about in the budget. How can this be good budgeting?

As I say, I do not think that we're doing due diligence in terms of taxpayers' money. This supplementary estimate is coming to an end. There's not a lot we can do about that, but I really would say honestly to this government, to the Finance minister, that things have to improve. I'm sure that when she was running the farm, she would not run those finances the way they do here in the Alberta government. I think government members know that, and I think government members know that this is not the proper way to budget. I would hope that they take this back. Sure, we'll get this through this time, but let's make the spring budget much more meaningful. If there's a 20-year plan, at least have a year plan that we can take a look at as part of the 20. The budget certainly was not a plan that we're living with, so how would a 20-year plan be something we're going to live with? That could change overnight. Mr. Speaker, I think it's really important that we start to shape up the way we do the budgeting around this Legislature.

Thank you, Mr. Speaker.

The Speaker: Hon. members, Standing Order 29(2)(a) is available. The hon. Member for Edmonton-Glenora.

Dr. B. Miller: Thank you, Mr. Speaker. I appreciate what the hon. member says about the need for emergency spending. As far as I can tell, the Municipal Affairs budget has a number of items like flood relief and so on, which are very important. My understanding of supplementary estimates is that besides the emergency aspect, it is possible for governments to bring a request for grants to existing services. That's what I read in Beauchesne. So the point you're making is that it's the huge, huge expenditure, not just millions but $1.8 billion, that is completely unusual. Is that your point?

The Speaker: The hon. member.

Mr. Martin: Thank you, Mr. Speaker. It's probably classified as emergencies. Clearly, supplementary estimates do perform an important role. I'm not arguing that. They've been there forever, but as I said, they were set up for emergencies or unforeseen circumstances. Something can happen, so you have to have that right. Nobody questions that, and we used to always have it.

The point that I'm making is only that this has gone beyond that approach to where it's just part of government. It doesn't matter what our budget is. You know, here's $1.8 billion; we'll do that in the fall. So we really don't have a budgeting process is the point I'm making.

I'm not arguing against supplementary estimates. As I said, I can remember when we had them, and it was, as I recollect, a hundred million dollars. We thought that was a lot of money at the time. There's a need for them, but it shouldn't part of the way we govern, and that's how we're budgeting using this now.

Thank you.

The Speaker: Additional questions?

Then the hon. Member for Edmonton-Mill Woods.

8:30

Mrs. Mather: Thank you. As we consider Bill 51, Appropriation (Supplementary Supply) Act, I would like to comment on the supplementary estimates for Children's Services and the anticipated effects of this bill. I realize that the intent of this request is to impact child care in Alberta in a positive way through the early learning and child care investment plan, specifically through the $37,200,000 in federal funding. I believe that this money will make a great difference, and it is a positive step. I had hoped that the budget would include a plan to make sure that salaries and training are equitable for everyone in the child care field.

Although out-of-school care staff require the same training and qualifications as those working with younger children, they are not paid the same. Consequently, some of our out-of-school programs are losing staff because they can get better pay by moving to daycares. Competitive wages would help retain staff. Children need that stability. The investment plan has created positives for some child care programs but negative impacts for others.

The other question that I have is about the fact that it is essential that daycare staff receive financial support and professional development grants. I know that the accreditation program is hoping to put an impetus there, but I don't see this being specifically addressed in this supplementary budget.

The other thing is that income in the child sector field is about half the national average for all occupations and less than half as much as elementary school and kindergarten teachers.

We need to recognize that well-paid, trained child care workers are at the heart of building a quality system. The federal funding is a start, but this government needs to do more.

Although the intent is to improve child care with this budget, there is no increase for youth shelters. The impact of this is that it's harmful because agencies that provide these services do not have a guarantee of funding past one year. I had hoped that we would see some movement toward sustained, predictable, stable funding for shelters.

I'm also disappointed that this supplemental request does not include more funding for treatment for addictions, specifically crystal meth. I know that we have had an increase in beds in the last while. I believe that we have $4.2 million for the youth detox and residential treatment program, which offers a total of 24 beds: 12 in Calgary and 12 in Edmonton. What about using other existing facilities in this province, some of which have outstanding expertise and experience and capacity and could do a great amount of good in treating addictions? The passing of Bill 202 has created an urgent need for treatment. This budget is not looking at this need, and the impact is frustration for many parents and professionals as they deal with and try to help addicted youths.

As the intent of the budget is to improve child care and create more choice, I had hoped that we would see more support for stay-at-home mothers and middle-income earners.

Another concern is the absence of rules to prevent unreasonable hikes of daycare fees. We need checks and balances, or the impact of our efforts will not be positive for families.

Finally, with this particular budget the intent of accreditation is excellent. However, there are major difficulties with the process at present. The expectations are somewhat extreme and need to be reviewed. Daycares have a very important job, often a difficult one, and I do not think we are doing enough to help, and we are making too many demands with accreditation. They're given a year, and they're telling me that to attain this goal, we must first bring the wages and benefits up to par with other industries to entice sufficient and qualified staff. They need help to entice the young population to the child care field by establishing awareness in colleges and high schools to let them know that child care is a good career. But the word out there on the street is that there is no future in daycare because of poor working conditions and low wages and a highly stressful environment.

So I'm thinking that we are totally in support of measures to provide better daycare for children in terms of their welfare, optimum development, and happiness, but accreditation is too much too soon in a field that's already stretched to the limit. Perhaps we could phase it in more slowly, area by area; for example, programming for children, child development, interactions with children, healthy and safe environment for children, communication with families and community, et cetera. The impact of not reviewing accreditation is serious. I believe we need money committed to the review and consultation with the stakeholders.

We all have a role in deciding how the money should be spent, what Alberta's priorities are. I think that there would be a greater strength with this process if everyone and all parties were allowed an effective role in participation rather than after-the-fact approval.

I'd like to go on and talk also about the education portion of the supplementary supply. I support the requests, but I have concerns. I see that the plant operations and maintenance budget is at $24 million. This really makes me wonder if the new funding formula is providing the right kind of funds for school systems across the province.

I have a great concern about the lack of counsellors in junior high and high school and the lack of solid career education programs, especially in junior high. There needs to be more in this service area for the school system. I'd like to see some indication of support for proactive programs like DARE, that deal with addiction and drugs, proactive programs on bullying and violence.

The other concern I have is that there's no indication of a move away from the achievement testing at grade 3 and a move to the diagnostic and remedial curriculum activities that children who are not doing well need. They're falling through the cracks because they're not getting a good start, and this is costing us a lot. I think that this is something that we should ask this government to look at very carefully.

I'm also disappointed that there is no plan or indication of concern regarding school fees. We need guidelines for school fees. How will the department supplement schools to help them and help parents that have to pay these school fees? This is a great concern in my constituency.

It seems to me that all of the dollars were directed to matters pertaining to infrastructure and transportation and that kind of thing. I had hoped for more indication of support services for schools, as I mentioned, for counselling and librarians. The formula for utilization needs to be looked at because schools seem to be punished if they don't use all their space, but they're also punished for building a new school in an area that doesn't have a school because new schools get less funding for maintenance, while old schools get punished for being open, and their operational dollars are low because the school is not full. It's a double-edged sword.

There's rumour – and I hope it is only rumour – that special-needs students – that is, adaptation students – are no longer allowed to have accommodations for diploma exams. More research needs to go into a decision like that. It's a very serious one.

The other concern I have is that the province changes the curriculum but does not dedicate in any way funds to add to school budgets to implement the new curriculum. The social studies curriculum is coming, and the schools need a budget of $30,000 for the new curriculum. This goes for the mandatory French that is coming as well.

Finally, the government's mismanagement of the teachers' pension dates back to the 1950s or earlier and has meant ever increasing contribution rates for Alberta teachers. Much of the growth in the unfunded liability is a direct result of provincial government policies that in the 1990s cut teachers' salaries and reduced the number of teachers working in this province. Our young people are in need of the best teachers we can provide them, especially in today's troubled times. How can we expect to attract and retain quality teachers when their work seems not to be valued? I have a concern that this unfunded liability is continuing to be a contentious issue, and there is apparently no indication of any action plans by this government.

Thank you.

8:40

The Speaker: Hon. members, Standing Order 29(2)(a) is available. The hon. Minister of Advanced Education.

Mr. Hancock: Thank you, Mr. Speaker. My ears perked up at the comment that the hon. member was making with respect to the unfunded liability of teachers' pensions. I for one am very sympathetic to the need to deal with the unfunded pension liability issue, but I find it aggravating when we constantly hear the unfunded pension liability characterized as strictly an issue relative to government.

I'm wondering if the hon. member is not aware that the reason that the agreement was made in 1992 the way it was, where the government pays two-thirds and the teachers pay one-third of the unfunded liability portion, is because there were problems on both sides of the equation: one with respect to the amount of money that the government did or did not put away back in the 1960s, and the second because the cost-of-living increases and other adjustments to the pension benefits were not properly funded with increased premiums. It was understood at the time and accepted at the time by both parties that there was liability on both sides; therefore, the two-thirds government and one-third teachers.

When it comes back to the discussion, would she not agree that it's not helpful to go back and try and recharacterize history but, rather, much better to go forward and say: how do we make sure that the burden of the unfunded pension liability doesn't lie with new teachers, who don't get the benefit of the extra payments? We need to deal with it from that perspective.

Mrs. Mather: Thank you for the information. I do agree that we need to be looking forward, but we do have a problem here in this province with the perception by teachers about this unfunded liability.

The Speaker: Additional questions? The hon. Member for Lethbridge-East by way of a question or comment?

Ms Pastoor: Yes.

The Speaker: Proceed.

Ms Pastoor: Thank you. It's actually a question to the hon. Member for Edmonton-Mill Woods. I wondered if you could elaborate on the business about not being able to accommodate students – I didn't quite get that – a place for them to write exams or something. I'm sorry. I just sort of caught it.

Mrs. Mather: That refers to diploma exams and adaptation students, who often have an average ability, but they have learning difficulties such as reading or other impairments. There's always been accommodation in giving them extra time, for example. They have more hours to write. Sometimes they're allowed to have a scribe, and sometimes they're allowed to have it taped, you know, so that they're listening instead of having to read so much. So there are various accommodations that can be made for learning-disabled students, and they're very important accommodations to give these children a fair chance.

The Speaker: Additional questions?

There being none, then I shall call on the hon. Member for Edmonton-Manning.

Mr. Backs: Thank you, Mr. Speaker. I'm pleased to rise this evening to speak to the effect of the supplementary supply act, Bill 51. It is clear that there is a need in government for a budget. This is nonbudgetary spending. It is clear that the budgeting process is a long-standing tradition in parliamentary democracy. It is clear that it is incredibly important for long-term confidence in the ability of a government to manage its role in the economy to have a budget.

It is bizarre, this government's argument since 1993 until just not too long ago that it had to pull draconian cuts in people's services and education and health care and letting our roads rot and many, many other things all in order to battle down a deficit. Maybe that was a ruse. In reality, $23 billion in debt, accrued, by the way, by a previous Progressive Conservative dynasty of this government, $23 billion in debt that was paid off with $63 billion in resource revenue from 1993 on, revenues that many provinces who have had much stronger fiscal management and realistic financial controls did not have yet did not have to make such draconian cuts to those many things to that effect. Alberta seniors, its education, its universities, its health care, and indeed all of its public-sector employees were squeezed, cut, and hurt time and time again. I even hear from some of the staff around the Leg. here, around the LAO and stuff, that they never did get their 5 per cent back in reality. I'd have to check that. I don't know for sure. But many, many public servants didn't feel that they got their due for all the cuts that were coming from those times.

Then the floodgates opened. Spending, spending, spending again: spend, spend, spend till your daddy takes the T-bird away. Because the oil and gas revenues which accrue to this government are so huge that a deficit is not possible, anything goes. Any spending is all right. This supplementary spending, that is in figures that most people can't understand, happens with no plan.

I will add to the comments of the Member for Edmonton-Ellerslie on the huge continuing deficit and growing deficit in the unfunded liability for our educators. As the Member for Edmonton-Whitemud rightly said, there is a degree of joint responsibility for any pension, but the multi-billion-dollar unfunded liability for our educators is clearly something that is part of the provincial deficit, and it's not being dealt with at all by our supplementary spending. As the Member for Edmonton-Whitemud clearly said, younger teachers will have to pay. Yes, younger teachers will have to pay hundreds of dollars every month for something from which they will not receive one single bit of benefit. Is that right? This can only have the effect of steering away many potential young teachers from the rewarding career of teaching Alberta's children. It will also be a deficit that will pile up and increase if it is not dealt with somehow.

As I said in Committee of the Whole, the nature of the beast that we have in this supplementary spending is that there is just no real budget happening here. We're dealing with just phase 1 and phase

2 of seat-of-the-pants spending by our government. The effect of these huge supplementary estimates is to ensure that Alberta is seen as running a government that romps merrily along, dancing fiscally to its every whim, throwing money here and money there yet smiling nicely when it does just throw it around.

Mr. Speaker, I ask: what sort of example is this setting for our children? What sort of example is it setting for families? What sort of example is this putting forth for the future? I would hope that this government comes forth with a true budget in the spring session and that next fall when we debate these supplementary estimates, in about a year's time, we are debating spending for unforeseen circumstances, for emergency circumstances, as the Member for Edmonton-Beverly-Clareview very clearly put it from his experiences as well as the Member for Edmonton-Centre. I look forward to seeing that we're not spending just because the province has come into a lot of cash.

Thank you, Mr. Speaker.

The Speaker: Hon. members, Standing Order 29(2)(a) is available.

That being the case, I'll call on the hon. Member for Lethbridge-East.

8:50

Ms Pastoor: Thank you. I'd like to address what I think the effect of some of these supplemental estimates will be, particularly the one from Gaming: the First Nations grant program and $1,000,000 in grants being decreased to the bingo associations. This will actually have a huge effect on the people that depend on the bingo associations. The increase in the VLTs, and in fact there is a rumour that there may be cashless technology – I assume that means that you can use your debit card in the machine – really takes away from the bingo associations that aren't getting these dollars.

The people that suffer from this are the ones who are the small groups. The lottery funds now are distributed only through government members; that is just such a surprise. However, they usually come in huge hunks of dollars, so the people that suffer because they depend on the bingos and they're not getting those large dollar figures from the lottery are the Boy Scouts, the Girl Guides, boys and girls hockey teams, small theatre presentations, the Boys and Girls clubs, Big Sisters, Big Brothers, the YMs and the YWs, the Elks clubs, and the Kinsmen. These are the ones that actually have volunteers that go and spend their time in the bingo parlours doing the volunteering, selling the bingo pages, selling the coffee, and whatever. There's a tremendous amount of work that's required to go into these for the small return that they get. Their chances of getting to work a casino are almost nil. They wait sometimes almost a year to get into a bingo to get money. So I think this really is going to have a huge detrimental effect by decreasing dollars to the bingo associations.

I, for one, have worked many bingos. I'm sure that there are many people in this room who have also worked bingos for the small charity of your choice or your kid's hockey team or whatever. I'm sure that we've all stripped down before we went into our houses because our clothes were so full of smoke. You know what? That's the part we play to make sure that our kids can play hockey or whatever or, in fact, to make sure that some kid can play hockey or play soccer that doesn't have the money. A lot of these are groups. I'm sorry; the name escapes me at the moment. There is a group that raises money simply for the kids that don't have money so that they can play sports.

Mr. MacDonald: Sport Central.

Ms Pastoor: Sport Central. Thank you. It's a hugely important organization because, believe it or not, even soccer is expensive these days, which is really a crime because it used to be one of the sports that any kid could play because they could afford it.

I think enough said on that. I'm most, most disappointed that the bingo associations are not being supported more, and I'm also disappointed that the lottery dollars don't come back to the communities through the old-fashioned lottery distribution committee that they used to have.

The other thing that I would like to talk about, the effect that I think the bill will have on Community Development, is the fact that a lot of dollars are going into replacing firepits and picnic tables. A lot of it is going into equipment for our parks, but what we're really missing here is somebody to maintain them. Our parks are a total disgrace. There is no reason that a provincial park should be closed for the winter. There really are people that like to go and camp in the snow, and there's nowhere to go because the gates are closed. I just think that's totally unacceptable, and part of it is because they're scrimping on the staff that would look after it during the winter.

Lots of the trails have been neglected. I'm going to partially blame that on the fact that the people that are delivering these services that used to be done by people that really loved the environment – i.e., conservation officers, fish and wildlife – are being replaced by people who are simply doing a job. They're stacking firewood, and they're cutting a tree, and they're maybe cleaning out the toilets every now and again. Our provincial parks are atrocious, and some of them are almost not even enjoyable to go into. I think that's just most unacceptable. It's fine to increase all of these things, but I think we're missing the boat on the fact that we actually are not looking after these parks with people who love the parks and understand trees and water instead of just learning how to stack wood.

I guess I could probably go on all night, too, but I'll leave it at that. Thank you.

The Speaker: Standing Order 29(2)(a) is available.

Then I will recognize the hon. Member for Edmonton-Gold Bar.

Mr. MacDonald: Thank you very much, Mr. Speaker. It's with disappointment that I rise to participate in the budget debate on Bill 51 this evening, our appropriations bill. Again, many members in the course of this brief session have brought up the whole issue of budgeting and the lack of budgeting discipline that is being demonstrated by this government, the fact that in the spring when the budget was tabled in the Assembly by the hon. Minister of Finance, it wasn't three days before ministers were out in the rotunda adding – not subtracting but adding – to the budget.

I think one could safely say, Mr. Speaker, that this government, this Progressive Conservative government, is using limited calculators that one would get at a dollar store, and they are really not focusing on a viable budget plan. To come back here now with this request is amazing.

The hon. Member for Edmonton-Beverly-Clareview talked about a point when there would be a discussion in this House about appropriations of $100 million, and this was at a time when this very same government was borrowing money and putting the province in debt. In some cases it was necessary, but in other cases it was an industrialization process that was very similar to what would have been attempted by one of the central planners in the old Soviet government.

Mr. Speaker, we had a discussion earlier in regard to Infrastructure and Transportation, which is getting a considerable portion of this money. We were talking about the $43 million cost overrun on the Anthony Henday Drive/Queen Elizabeth II intersection and the flyway that's going in there. I got some explanation from the hon. minister as to why this $43 million cost overrun had occurred. Certainly, concrete has been a problem. There has been a shortage of powder, and the hon. minister recognized that.

The hon. minister also recognized that one of the driving factors in this $43 million cost overrun was the cost of gravel. I'm puzzled, with all our resources of gravel. We even have more gravel in this province, Mr. Speaker, than we do oil. Surely, with all the Crown land that we have in this province, we should be able to control this cost. The Crown must have large tracts of land where gravel can be extracted and cleaned and sorted in an economical fashion. Gravel should not be driving up the costs at this time of much-needed road construction. If the hon. minister could clarify that for me, I would be very grateful.

Also, while we're in Infrastructure and Transportation – I was hoping to have more of an opportunity to look through the blue book before my time to speak. Certainly, if we look at the public accounts document, it is growing. It is certainly growing in thickness, Mr. Speaker. We're recognizing that this is the detail of grants, supplies, and services from the general revenue fund for the year ending March 31, 2005. We're looking at this fiscal year specifically in Infrastructure and Transportation. My first question would be this: how much of this money is being used to pay out extra for the service contracts that this government initiated when you privatized the road maintenance?

9:00

I had an opportunity to look at an article when this first happened, and there were promises of megasavings to the taxpayers, and a more efficient service, a better service was going to be provided by the contractors on the road maintenance. Now, I'm certainly not convinced that has happened. In fact, it seems to me that snowplows disappear whenever there's a substantial snowfall. That never used to happen. The roads were cleared straightaway, and they were plowed so that motorists could travel around in safety, and I can't say this is happening now.

Mr. Speaker, if we look under Infrastructure and Transportation from last year, Carmacks Enterprises received $44.9 million. Now, obviously the majority of that money if not all of it is for those contracts, and I'm wondering if they're going to get any extra money in this request that we're debating here tonight. Now, we look at Ledcor. The Ledcor Group of Companies under Infrastructure and Transportation are doing work for $74 million. Seventy-four million dollars. How much of that is used for providing services to maintain and clear our roads? Another one that has a contract is Volker Stevin Contracting Ltd., and this, Mr. Speaker, is a $49.2 million amount.

Quickly you can see where these numbers add up. These are not half the contractors that are involved in this, and the minister that initiated this program said that there would be millions and millions and millions of dollars in savings. If the hon. minister could explain this, I would be very grateful. How much of this money is going into this program? Clearly, this program has not worked. The promise was made when it was initiated that there would be millions and millions of dollars saved; it would reduce the costs. The quote from the minister at the time was that $60 million being used. One of these contracts alone is worth more than that, and when you factor in inflation, sorry.

Once again, Mr. Speaker, this government got it wrong. You're determined to go ahead with privatization of health care. You got that wrong. The promotion of energy deregulation whether it's for electricity or natural gas: wrong. Now we're discovering that the privatization of our road maintenance is the exact opposite of what was promised. Instead of lower costs and better service, we are getting higher costs and worse service, so the taxpayers are losing twice here. If the hon. minister could clarify that and provide some information, again, I would be very grateful.

Now, the public accounts tell the tale of, certainly, a government that has got a spending problem, a real spending problem. I said at committee when we were discussing this bill that there are certainly some areas that need the government's immediate attention, and unfortunately they're not getting it. That group is families across the province who are considered homeless. I don't know what it's going to take for this government to finally show some initiative and look after these citizens.

I'm going to remind this House once again – and this is according to the Edmonton Community Plan on Homelessness – that this is the definition of homelessness that this government must consider: “the individual or family has no residence at all and is living on the streets.” Homeless. The second category: “the individual or family is living in any premises which is not intended or suitable as a permanent residence.” I hope this government doesn't consider a station wagon to be a permanent residence because, unfortunately, I encountered in the line of my constituency work a family, a dad and two children, living in a car. I think this is shameful, and I know that we can do better.

Now, Mr. Speaker, the Edmonton Community Plan on Homelessness also indicates that the individual or family is

- at risk of becoming homeless
- (a) through losing their residence, or
- (b) through being discharged from an institution/facility and has nowhere to go, or
- (c) through loss of income support.

We discussed this in here the other day, but it is important to repeat it to a government that has so far failed to listen.

I can go through this public accounts document, and I can find any amount of money that we have to question: was it necessary to spend? I consider it necessary to try to correct the homelessness problem. It's a difficult problem, but you are not working hard enough at it. You are failing in your obligation, in your duty as a government to provide for those who cannot provide for themselves, and we have to recognize that. But, no, we have to have this very Darwinian attitude where it's the survival of the fittest. Again, I am very, very disappointed, Mr. Speaker, with this government's attempts to correct or at least try to correct some of the deplorable conditions that some people in this province live in or call their home. I know we can do better, but you've got to make more effort, please.

Now, in Committee of the Whole we were talking also, Mr. Speaker, about the Deep Six and what the Deep Six would think about this bill. The Deep Six, some of whom are in this cabinet, had attitude about government waste and government spending. I don't know whether the Deep Six, the ones that are in cabinet now, have jet lag and have forgotten about their old ideology or whether they're travelling so far so often that they have completely lost touch with their roots. Before we conclude debate, I would certainly love to hear from the Deep Six, what's left of them: the Deep Four, the Deep Three.

An Hon. Member: Two, you mean.

Mr. MacDonald: Deep Two.

Mr. Speaker, it would be interesting to hear their reasons for this large expenditure. I know that many of them have gone onto other things. I didn't realize that there was only one-third of them left, but I think we need the other four back just to remind this House and this government of their previous commitment to the budget process and what we have now in this bill.

Now, there's a lot, Mr. Speaker, that has not been said, but in the short time that I have left, I would certainly hope that this government looks at a different budget process. Thank you.

9:10

The Speaker: Hon. members, Standing Order 29(2)(a) is available. The hon. Minister of Government Services.

Mr. Lund: Thank you, Mr. Speaker. The hon. member in his diatribe this evening made comments that he could find many, many examples of how money was spent that didn't need to be spent and, of course, all of the waste and all the other things that he talked about. It's my understanding that the Provincial Treasurer was before Public Accounts today, and it's my understanding that the hon. member is chair of Public Accounts, so certainly there was an opportunity to question the Minister of Finance. I believe she was there for over an hour and a half. Because she is responsible for, generally, the overall spending, I would have thought that perhaps there would have been a lot of those examples. I would like to ask the hon. member to summarize, in the short period of time that he has left, how many examples – and could he give the examples – he found this morning in Public Accounts that the government wasted.

Mr. MacDonald: Yeah, I'd be delighted, Mr. Speaker. I would first like to remind the hon. minister that as chair of the committee I don't have the opportunity to ask questions, but certainly all members of the committee ask questions. All Members of this Legislative Assembly under Standing Order 53 are permitted to come to the committee and get on the list and ask questions.

Today I would be pleased to report to the hon. minister that there were over 22 questions and supplementary questions directed to the minister's department. We did that in less than an hour, but we need more time to go through not only the minister's annual report but what the Auditor General had to say. We didn't have time to go through the Government of Alberta's annual report, nor did we have time to thoroughly investigate the Auditor General's other report on the Alberta Securities Commission. We had a lot of issues and very little time, and that's why we have to reform this whole budget process.

I would thank the minister for his question.

The Speaker: Others? Well, we'll provide for other members on an alternate basis.

Mr. Hinman: I was intrigued with the hon. member as he talked about the cost overrun of the overpass. My experience in the past on those projects has been that they go out, they retain their gravel pits, they get a bid on it, and they know exactly what the cost is. I'm wondering if the member can tell me if, in fact, this is a new loophole where the referees are making the rules, and they leave that open so that they can have an automatic overcost by not locking in the price of the gravel for a project. In the past they've always done that to my knowledge, and I find it amazing that you tell me that that's an overrun now because that would be, I would say, very poor management in planning and pricing out the cost of the project and leaving it open for an overrun in cost. Perhaps you could comment on that.

The Speaker: The hon. member.

Mr. MacDonald: Yes. Thank you. For the information of the House this was one of the hon. members of the Assembly who was not a member of Public Accounts who was present this morning and wanted to ask questions to the hon. minister.

In direct response to your question, I see in here under W an outfit called Wapiti gravel. It could be corrected to be Wapiti sand and gravel. They supplied over $13 million worth of gravel under supplies and services, capital assets, and other. That's a lot of gravel, and that's only one outfit. If we were to look in the annual report of the Minister of Infrastructure and Transportation, at least in the old days – I haven't looked this year – we would see that there is an allocated amount for sand and gravel. Now, whether it's for icy roads or whether it's for concrete, who's to say? Certainly, there are many different outfits in here that are supplying, obviously, large amounts of gravel at a good price, in my view, to this government.

In conclusion, I would have to say that we would have to get the rest of the story from the hon. minister as to why gravel costs are so high, and they are driving up the costs of this flyway at Anthony Henday.

The Speaker: Are there others, hon. members, to participate in this debate on third reading?

Then shall I call on the hon. Minister of Finance to close the debate?

Mrs. McClellan: Mr. Speaker, I want to thank all members for their contribution to the debate. There was more comment than question; however, I will very carefully review Hansard, and as is the usual practice, follow up very quickly with detail for hon. members on specific items.

I thank members for participating and would encourage support for third reading of this bill.

[Motion carried; Bill 51 read a third time]

Mrs. McClellan: Mr. Speaker, we've had a good day of work, and I would move that the Assembly now adjourn until 1:30 p.m. tomorrow.

[Motion carried; at 9:17 p.m. the Assembly adjourned to Thursday at 1:30 p.m.]

Legislative Assembly of Alberta

Title: Thursday, December 1, 2005

1:30 p.m.

Date: 05/12/01

[The Speaker in the chair]

head:

Prayers

The Speaker: Good afternoon and welcome.

Let us pray. Renew us with Your strength. Focus us in our deliberations. Challenge us in our service to the people of this great province. Amen.

Please be seated.

head:

Introduction of Visitors

The Speaker: The Deputy Chair of Committees.

Mr. Shariff: Thank you, Mr. Speaker. I have the great pleasure of introducing to you and through you to members of our Assembly Mr. Brent Rathgeber. Mr. Rathgeber served the constituents of Edmonton-Calder in the 25th Legislature. He is currently practising law part-time and is the executive director of the Progressive Contractors Association of Canada. He has now risen in the Speaker's gallery, and I'd like to ask the hon. members of this Assembly to please accord him the traditional warm welcome.

head:

Introduction of Guests

The Speaker: The hon. Minister of Gaming.

Mr. Graydon: Well, thank you, Mr. Speaker. It's my pleasure to introduce to you and through you to members of the Assembly today a young lady in your gallery. It's her first visit to question period, and I'm confident that she'll leave at the end of the afternoon impressed with the wonderful decorum in this Assembly. I'd like to ask my wife, Anne Graydon, to rise and receive the welcome of the Assembly.

Mr. Dunford: Mr. Speaker, it's a pleasure today to rise and to introduce to you and through you to the House members Mr. Austin Mardon. Austin had quite a scholastic career, but I'm recognizing him today as having been a volunteer with the Schizophrenia Society of Alberta for the last 13 years. He was recently awarded the Alberta centennial award by the Lieutenant Governor for his volunteer and scientific contributions to the province. I see that Austin is standing, and I would like all of us to provide him with the traditional warm welcome here in the Legislature.

The Speaker: The hon. Minister of International and Intergovernmental Relations.

Mr. Stelmach: Thank you, Mr. Speaker. Today I have two introductions. First, it's my pleasure to introduce to you and through you to members of the Assembly my constituent Mr. Randy Sampert of Fort Saskatchewan. Randy is the chairperson of Living Positive, the society for persons living with HIV. This is a coalition of persons living with HIV that provide support to others living with HIV or stricken with AIDS. Today, December 1, 2005, is the 18th annual World AIDS Day as declared by the World Health Organization. Around the world activities are taking place to raise awareness of HIV and its impact on our communities. Randy is seated in the members' gallery, and I would ask him to rise and receive the traditional warm welcome of the Assembly.

I have another introduction. It is my pleasure to introduce to you and through you to members of the Assembly two Edmontonians, two businesspeople, Mr. Bruce Kinisky and Mr. Mike Grau. Of course, the word Kinisky is synonymous with municipal leadership in the city of Edmonton for many, many years. They are seated in the members' gallery. They were here to talk a bit about labour shortage and, of course, to observe question period. I would ask them both to rise and receive the traditional warm welcome of the Assembly.

The Speaker: The hon. Minister of Advanced Education.

Mr. Hancock: Thank you, Mr. Speaker. It's my pleasure today to introduce to you and through you to members of the Assembly 48 enthusiastic grade 6 students from the George P. Nicholson elementary school in my constituency of Edmonton-Whitemud. They're accompanied by their teachers, Mrs. Carrie Grossman and Mrs. Colleen Reeder, and parent helpers Mrs. Edith Delanghe, Mrs. Susan Smelquist, and Mrs. Debbie Chella. They're here today to attend the School at the Legislature and observe with keen interest and learn about our government. I might also mention that Mrs. Carrie Grossman, in particular, headed up a committee for quite a number of years in the Twin Brooks area of the Edmonton-Whitemud constituency to get George P. Nicholson school built. Now she's teaching at the school, and it's a wonderful thing. I'd ask them to all rise and receive the traditional warm welcome of the Assembly.

The Speaker: The hon. Minister of Infrastructure and Transportation.

Dr. Oberg: Thank you very much, Mr. Speaker. It gives me great pleasure today to introduce Mr. Mike Maynes, who is seated in the members' gallery. He is a councillor with the village of Stirling and a social studies teacher at Raymond high school in the Westwind school division. He's presently here on AUMA business. I would ask that Mike rise and receive the warm welcome of this Assembly.

The Speaker: The hon. Deputy Speaker.

Mr. Marz: Thank you, Mr. Speaker. It's a privilege today to introduce to you and through you and to recognize a group of individuals in the galleries today who play a key role in the democratic process in the province of Alberta. These are the men and women who work for the members of this Assembly in their constituency offices. The democratic process starts in the constituency, and as the front line in their constituencies these individuals proudly represent all Albertans.

These employees are here today participating in the winter constituency employee information session, which provides them with an opportunity to network with other LAO staff and obtain an overview of numerous programs and services available through the Legislative Assembly Office. Each year the service and contribution of these individuals are celebrated with an employee recognition dinner, which the Speaker will be hosting later this evening. Today over 60 constituency office employees are with us, and I would ask that they all rise and receive the warm welcome and recognition of the members of this House.

Thank you.

The Speaker: The hon. Member for Peace River.

Mr. Oberle: Thank you very much, Mr. Speaker. It's my honour today to introduce to you and through you to all members of this Assembly a family that's on a very long journey both literally and figuratively. Many of the members may not have met them yet, but their names are certainly familiar. They've echoed around these halls for the last couple of years, actually. They are of course the reason for and the subject of Bill Pr. 4, which passed third reading in this House yesterday. Seated in the members' gallery behind me are Doug and Lisa Rewega, their daughter, Brooklynn, family friend Bruce Sparrow, and Brooklynn's nanny, Jacqueline Babey. I would ask them to please rise and accept the traditional warm welcome of this House.

The Speaker: The hon. Member for St. Albert.

Mr. Flaherty: Thank you, Mr. Speaker. I'm pleased to introduce to you and through you to members of the Assembly 66 pupils from the grade 6 class at Leo Nickerson elementary school in St. Albert. They are accompanied by their teachers, Mme Sylvie Desjardins, Mr. Dave Power, and Miss Amanda Saïpe, and volunteer parent James Simmers. Would they please rise and receive the warm welcome of the Assembly.

The Speaker: The hon. Member for Edmonton-Glenora.

Dr. B. Miller: Thank you, Mr. Speaker. Because today is World AIDS Day, I'm particularly pleased to introduce to you and through you to the members of the Assembly Mr. Michael Daniels, a member of the board of directors of Living Positive, the most important organization housed in my constituency. This organization promotes AIDS awareness, basic human rights, and a positive, dignified, hopeful attitude to HIV-positive individuals in our community. I'd ask Michael to stand and receive the traditional warm welcome of the House.

head: 1:40 Oral Question Period

The Speaker: First main question. The hon. Leader of the Official Opposition.

Securities Commission

Dr. Taft: Thank you, Mr. Speaker. The controversy surrounding the Alberta Securities Commission grows and grows. The investments and savings of countless Albertans are at stake. My question is to the Minister of Finance. Given the statements of a former Alberta Securities Commission manager of investigations, which we provided to the minister earlier today, can she still deny that the former Treasurer, Jim Dinning, interfered in enforcement cases at the Alberta Securities Commission?

Mrs. McClellan: Mr. Speaker, no, I can't confirm that. I appreciate the hon. member bringing these documents to my office about 10 to 1 today. I did have a chance to review them. What I read in the documents – and I'll certainly do a closer appraisal of them – is some rather key words: he was unclear; a third party told another party that another party had said that another party had spoken to a particular person; there may be some suggestion, but this is speculation – and I'm paraphrasing – as the witness's information didn't go that far. I'm sure the hon. member is going to table this in the Legislature, but if he doesn't, I will. Again, a document that is unclear, not sure, and speculation.

The Speaker: Hon. members, I'm going to ask one of you to table this. No other hon. member in this Assembly is aware of what's going on here.

The hon. leader.

Dr. Taft: Thank you, Mr. Speaker. I will table that, and I will table court documents that back it up. Thank you.

My question to the Premier: given that a lead investigator for the Alberta Securities Commission says that he had daily contact with then Treasurer Jim Dinning concerning a specific enforcement file, was Mr. Dinning acting entirely on his own, or was he acting on behalf of others?

Mr. Klein: I have no idea. Mr. Speaker, I haven't seen the memo. I was briefed very briefly on the memo. I understand that the matter goes back to 1996-1997, so it's obvious that the Liberals are reaching into the archives on this one. I'll have the Minister of Finance respond.

Mrs. McClellan: Well, Mr. Speaker, I think it's important to put this on the record. It's going to be tabled later. I think hon. members have a right to know what it says. I don't think I'm saying anything that would be out of place. It says:

Apparently Mr. Ryckman told Mr. Swerchuk that Blakey had told Mr. Ryckman that Blakey had spoken to Dinning every day.

There is some basis to say that the Chairman of the panel had prior knowledge of certain aspects of the investigation.

“There is some basis”: that's a person's opinion.

There may be some suggestion that the Provincial Treasurer had suggested a result in the investigation, but that is speculation and this witness's information does not go that far.

That's what the document says.

The Speaker: The hon. leader.

Dr. Taft: Thank you, Mr. Speaker. To the Minister of Finance: is the reason the minister is reluctant to ask former Finance ministers about their involvement in enforcement cases at the Securities Commission because she's afraid that she'll actually find something?

Mrs. McClellan: Mr. Speaker, I've answered this question repeatedly in the House. I am not asking former finance ministers either in this House or out of this House such a demeaning question without some actual information that this indeed happened. This document talks about speculation. It talks about: third and fourth parties may have given some information. This is an example – another example – of the tack that has been taken in this House day after day in this session and, I would suggest, in the spring session. Again, if this hon. member thinks that this is solid information with what I just read, then he should reconsider his solid information.

Speaker's Ruling Questions about Previous Ministers

The Speaker: Hon. members, I wish to draw to the attention of all hon. members Beauchesne 428. Beauchesne 428 says “a question . . . must not:” – then I go to (11) – “seek from an ex-Minister information with regard to transactions during that person's term of office.”

Second main question. The hon. Leader of the Official Opposition.

Securities Commission (continued)

Dr. Taft: Thank you, Mr. Speaker. To the Minister of Finance: has the minister discussed the Alberta Securities Commission issues with former Treasurer Jim Dinning since she assumed the role of Finance Minister?

Mrs. McClellan: Absolutely not.

Dr. Taft: Again to the Minister of Finance: now that there is clear written evidence, including court documents, that former Treasurer Dinning meddled in the Securities Commission, can she deny that other former Treasurers, including Steve West or perhaps former chief of staff Rod Love, may also have interfered with enforcement cases at the Securities Commission?

Mrs. McClellan: Mr. Speaker, again, the same line of questioning, obviously supported by his caucus. Well, I can tell you that on this side of the room and in this government caucus we're accountable. We put information on the table that can be backed up with fact. Mr. Speaker, I would yield to your reading of this relevant passage from Beauchesne.

The Speaker: The hon. leader.

Dr. Taft: Thank you again. To the Minister of Finance: does the government have any policies in place to prohibit cabinet ministers, MLAs, or government staff from contacting ASC officials about ongoing enforcement investigations?

Mrs. McClellan: Mr. Speaker, all of us take an oath, and I have absolutely no information provided to me by the opposition or from any other source that that oath might have been broken.

The Speaker: Third Official Opposition main question. The hon. Leader of the Official Opposition.

Dr. Taft: Thank you, Mr. Speaker. Clearly an answer no to the last question.

The success and foundation of a securities regulator is built around perception and trust. The investing public needs to be assured that when violations occur at the securities commission, the perpetrators are punished accordingly. My questions are again to the Minister of Finance. Given that the Minister of Finance has admitted that she knows the punishment handed down to the director of enforcement at the Securities Commission for insider trading, will the minister enlighten the House, be accountable, be transparent and inform the House and the investing public as to what that punishment was?

Mrs. McClellan: Mr. Speaker, I have been, I think, open on all of these questions. I was asked yesterday in a scrum as to whether I knew what action had been taken. I don't think I used the word "punishment" but what action had been taken. I said that, yes, I did and that I was satisfied that the action was appropriate. But I also said at that time that what we would all concentrate on is ensuring that this could not, as much as possible ensure that it did not, happen again and, if it did happen, that there were checks and balances in place so that it could be dealt with in a much more expedient manner.

1:50

The Speaker: The hon. leader.

Dr. Taft: Thank you, Mr. Speaker. Well, given that the minister knows the dollar amount made by the director of enforcement through insider trading at the Securities Commission, will the minister enlighten the House and the investing public by telling us just how much he made?

Mrs. McClellan: Mr. Speaker, the Alberta Securities Commission has transmitted this information to the Auditor General. They copied me the information. This is a matter that was under part of the investigation of the Auditor General, and I am responsible for ensuring that the Alberta Securities Commission operates under its legislation and its regulation.

Mr. Speaker, I am assured of that, and where processes can be put in place to better move this forward, I take my responsibility in seeing that that happens. But I will tell you that in the last short time, although this information was sent out some time ago, maybe seven days ago or so, I have been in conversation with the Securities Commission as to whether it would be appropriate for me to release a letter that was sent from the Securities Commission to the Auditor General, and I do not have that answer.

The Speaker: The hon. leader.

Dr. Taft: Thank you, Mr. Speaker. Again to the same minister: will the minister do the right thing and put in place policies, indeed legislation, that prohibit cabinet ministers, MLAs, or government staff from contacting Alberta Securities Commission officials about enforcement investigations?

Mrs. McClellan: Well, Mr. Speaker, I'll consider that, and I would include opposition members in that.

The Speaker: The hon. Member for Edmonton-Highlands-Norwood, followed by the hon. Member for Red Deer-North.

Boards, Commissions, and Agencies

Mr. Mason: Thank you very much, Mr. Speaker. Whether it's the Alberta Securities Commission, the Labour Relations Board, or the Calgary health authority, the boards and commissions appointed by this government are rife with conflicts of interest, patronage, and political interference. The Auditor General has made numerous recommendations to remedy this appalling situation, but while the Premier promises to adopt them, he fails to act. My question is to the Premier: why has this government let senior officials guilty of flagrant violations of the rules, to use the Auditor General's words, go unpunished?

Mrs. McClellan: There has been action taken.

Mr. Klein: Mr. Speaker, as the hon. Minister of Finance pointed out, if he's alluding to the director of enforcement, there was action. I don't know what that actions is, but relative to the . . .

An Hon. Member: Well, find out.

Mr. Klein: I'm supposed to find out, Mr. Speaker. I will find out.

The Speaker: Ignore.

Mr. Klein: Okay. As to the preamble, Mr. Speaker, there is a process that is in place relative to an interview procedure that all appointments to various boards, authorities, commissions, agencies have to go through, and that procedure is followed.

The Speaker: The hon. leader.

Mr. Mason: Thank you very much, Mr. Speaker. Why has this government failed to implement the Auditor General's recommendations to end patronage in appointments to government boards and commissions? Can the Premier please tell the House what they are and what he's done about them?

Mr. Klein: Mr. Speaker, I don't know of any patronage involved at all. Most boards, authorities, commissions, agencies are volunteer positions. These people are paid in some cases a per diem to cover expenses, but it comes nowhere near what they would lose or what their earning capabilities would be for one day's work in their own professions.

The Speaker: The hon. leader.

Mr. Mason: Thank you very much, Mr. Speaker. Will the Premier commit in this House here and now to establish a truly independent panel headed by a judge or retired judge to investigate, report, and make recommendations to clean up the mess of patronage, conflicts of interest, and political interference that characterize the boards and commissions of this government?

Mr. Klein: Mr. Speaker, I take exception to the statement that there is a mess, that there is patronage. These are hard-working, individual, committed Albertans who want to do something for their province and volunteer to serve on various boards, authorities, commissions, and agencies.

The Speaker: The hon. Member for Red Deer-North, followed by the hon. Member for Edmonton-Manning.

Drug Abuse by Children

Mrs. Jablonski: Thank you, Mr. Speaker. Parents love and nurture their children. They work hard to see that the needs of their children are met. Nothing is more devastating for a parent than to find out that their child is seriously ill. Being told that your child is abusing drugs can be just as devastating. The first instinct of every parent is to do anything and everything they can to help their child. My questions are to the Minister of Health and Wellness. Are parents able to access drug testing for their child if they suspect he or she is using drugs?

Ms Evans: Mr. Speaker, yes, they are. Physicians in Alberta can order tests for children, particularly if there's a suspicion of or an allegation of or a concern about amphetamines being present. Physicians must inform the child about the type of test that is being made available. If the physician feels that it is a medically necessary test, then that test will be supported by Alberta Health and Wellness. In a situation where a physician may make a nonmedical notation on the file and say that it is not medically necessary, that type of test shall be supported, if the parent so wishes and the child concedes, by the parents themselves.

Mrs. Jablonski: To the same minister: can the minister comment on the merits of using home drug testing kits?

Ms Evans: Mr. Speaker, I'm aware that through the Internet and other means there are number of home testing kits that are available, and I would just provide a caution for parents that there are concerns about the results of those types of tests. The laboratory tests that are certified and are regulated and are monitored through Health and Wellness and through the regional health authorities we would be confident in. But a number of tests may not be accurate. Certain foods, for example, or medications can create false positives in some tests. So we do caution that drug testing should be left to the health professionals.

The Speaker: The hon. member.

Mrs. Jablonski: Thank you. To the same minister: what assistance is available to parents who are concerned that their son or daughter is using drugs?

Ms Evans: Mr. Speaker, clearly there are a number of programs with AADAC that provide supports and counselling supports. I think that parents are, of course, in the best position to know whether their child's behaviour exhibits any differences which would lead them to believe that soliciting such counselling or such outpatient concern would be available. AADAC has recently opened 24 new detox and residential treatment beds for youth. Frankly, in 2006 with the work that we're doing on the follow-up of Protection of Children Abusing Drugs Act, there will be mandatory treatment available for children that so require.

The Speaker: The hon. Member for Edmonton-Highlands-Norwood, there was a point of order raised with respect to your preamble. We'll deal with it at the end of the question period.

The hon. Member for Edmonton-Manning, followed by the hon. Member for Calgary-East.

Labour Relations Board

Mr. Backs: Thank you, Mr. Speaker. Yesterday in this Legislature the impartiality of the semijudicial Alberta Labour Relations Board was called into question. Labour has lost confidence in the referee, has lost confidence that there is in any sense a level playing field left. It is clear that employer lawyers, Labour Relations Board officers, and the government have colluded in writing anti-union labour law. My question is to the Minister of Human Resources and Employment. Why did this government allow a management lawyer from the firm of McLennan Ross and board vice-chair Les Wallace to join them in drafting Bill 27 amendments to the Labour Relations Code?

Mr. Cardinal: Mr. Speaker, I just want to indicate again that the labour relations issue itself in Alberta is one of the best in North America, and let's keep that in mind. Ninety-nine per cent of all collective agreements – 1,300 collective agreements – have been settled the last two years without any disruption in the system. In addition to that, an independent report came out, in fact, just a couple of days ago, that between Canada and the United States the Labour Relations Board in Alberta is the most transparent of all jurisdictions. So it does work.

In relation to the question itself you know I cannot comment on that. That issue is in front of the courts. I will not comment on anything that may influence the court's decision.

2:00

Mr. Backs: A supplementary to the same minister, Mr. Speaker: in what way did the minister use Labour Relations Board officers and employer lawyers to create the division 8 declaration, which had the effect of giving a project to the so-called Christian Labour Association, at the Horizon megaproject?

Mr. Cardinal: There again, Mr. Speaker, it's another issue that I will not comment on.

Going back to the Labour Relations Board, Mr. Speaker, there are five vice-chairs, there's one chair, and there are 33 members that sit on this. The 33 members represent all sectors of the working area: construction, retail, food, utilities, health care, manufacturing, municipal, engineering, public. I mean, I can go on.

Mr. Backs: Mr. Speaker, to the same minister: will the minister fire the chair and vice-chairs of the Alberta Labour Relations Board, or is this government prepared to suffer numerous court challenges? The referees are making the rules. Heads must roll for faith to be restored.

Mr. Cardinal: When you look at the whole labour relations issue in Alberta, Mr. Speaker, we're number one. We have a hot economy. In 10 years we're going to have a hundred thousand extra jobs that we can't fill. There are jobs there for everybody. There is no way we should be fighting over issues like this when we can't even find enough people to fill the jobs.

The Speaker: The hon. Member for Calgary-East, followed by the hon. Member for Lethbridge-East.

Seniors' Property Taxes

Mr. Amery: Thank you, Mr. Speaker. Prior to 1993 seniors did not have to pay the educational portion of their property tax assessment. In many cases it is a yearly cost that's unexpected to many seniors who have long since paid off their homes and many of whom are on fixed incomes or pensions. Now that our fiscal house is back in order, we should look at eliminating this tax for seniors. While many seniors are pleased that we froze that levy at 2004 levels, they are hopeful that we will be able to remove this tax entirely. My question is to the hon. Minister of Finance. When will the government be able to eliminate the educational portion of the seniors' property tax bill?

Mrs. McClellan: Mr. Speaker, certainly with the good advice from our minister responsible for seniors and the concerns that seniors felt over a year ago about rising property taxes, this government moved very quickly to freeze that level of tax for seniors, understanding that many seniors are on a fixed income and need predictable information to meet their obligations. In addition to that, we have a tax review occurring – I've mentioned it before – and we will look at this as part of that review. The Minister of Municipal Affairs has been working with a variety of groups on this issue, and he may want to comment on that process.

The Speaker: We'll proceed with the member.

Mr. Amery: Thank you, Mr. Speaker. Again to the same minister: will the minister consider eliminating the educational portion of the property tax for seniors living below the poverty line?

Mrs. McClellan: Mr. Speaker, as I said, understanding the concerns that seniors have that are on a fixed income, that are dependent on GISs and CPP and OAS – some CPP, some not – we moved very quickly to ensure that seniors would not face a burden of a higher property tax, the education portion of it, in this very, very robust market that we're experiencing in Alberta.

Mr. Speaker, as I indicated, the Minister of Municipal Affairs has done a lot of work in this area, and I would like him to supplement on where that work is proceeding or how.

The Speaker: Sorry. We're going to proceed to the hon. member.

Mr. Amery: Thank you, Mr. Speaker. My second supplemental is to the hon. Minister of Seniors and Community Supports. Is the minister working with other departments and municipalities to ensure that these property taxes remain affordable for seniors so that they may continue to reside in their own homes as long as it's possible?

Mrs. Fritz: Well, Mr. Speaker, the hon. member has over 1,500 seniors' households in his constituency, and I agree with the sentiment that he has brought forward, that it's very important that we assist seniors with staying in their own homes. That's why this program is so important as we cover the year-to-year increases in the education portion of the property tax for seniors.

Yes, hon. member, we are working closely with municipalities, including Calgary, and in fact one municipality right now – it's the city of Edmonton – has taken the lead. They are following what we are doing, Mr. Speaker, by offering a rebate on the municipal portion of their property tax. I'm hoping other municipalities will follow the same.

I am hoping that the Minister of Municipal Affairs can supplement.

The Speaker: The hon. Member for Lethbridge-East, followed by the hon. Member for Foothills-Rocky View.

Long-term Care Funding

Ms Pastoor: Thank you, Mr. Speaker. There are issues around long-term care that this government has failed to address, not to mention the ongoing trials and lawsuits stemming from systemic carelessness and underfunding by this government. Questions need to be asked about how this government cares for Alberta's most frail and vulnerable citizens. To the Minister of Health and Wellness: given that the Jubilee lodge has received over $1.5 million in grants from Alberta Health over the past four years in addition to the funding that they received from Capital health, can the minister tell us what those grants were used for?

Ms Evans: Mr. Speaker, through the regional health authorities grants are distributed on the basis of contractual relationships with a variety of providers, and what the type of support was for would depend entirely on the mix of the acuity of the patients that were in any particular facility. There's an administrative component, an hours of care component, and there are other features dependent upon the various individual contracts.

Mr. Speaker, as the hon. member opposite knows from her work on the task force on continuing care, there are different definitions in some of the agreements. It's something that we hope to have a common understanding about. So you would find different things with different lodges. On the very specific arrangements that the health authority has with this particular lodge, I can't give specifics at this time.

The Speaker: The hon. member.

Ms Pastoor: Thank you. Can the minister guarantee that this money is being used for resident care and not toward profits?

Ms Evans: Mr. Speaker, for private providers obviously there is a profit motive in the provision of care, so there would be some dollars that would go to the profit. But in terms of work that we've done in expanding hours of care over this past year, there were funds that were very specifically targeted to those hours of care. If there was a percentage, it might be attributable to an administrative amount, and there may be some more, but the intent of our release of funds to support hours of care is not to increase the profits but, rather, to increase the hours of care.

The Speaker: The hon. member.

Ms Pastoor: Thank you, Mr. Speaker. Actually, I'm going to totally change what I was going to say. What I would like to ask the minister is: how are we tracking those dollars?

Ms Evans: Mr. Speaker, a good part of those dollars are tracked through the regional health authorities. The audits are available through the regional health authorities. The audit that the Auditor General did on regional health authorities I think was relatively thorough, very thorough in the discussion of particularly 25 facilities. So there's a normal course of events and financial accountability.

For that specific lodge on that specific point I would be very pleased to commit that information to the hon. member following.

The Speaker: The hon. Member for Foothills-Rocky View, followed by the hon. Member for Edmonton-Rutherford.

Hunting Regulations for Youths

Dr. Morton: Thank you, Mr. Speaker. Hunting is a central part of Alberta's aboriginal and settler heritage, and Alberta arguably today still has the best public hunting in the world. I know that all members of the government are committed to preserving this legacy. Prior to 1997 young Albertans 16 and 17 years of age were permitted to hunt without adult supervision. My question is to the Minister of Sustainable Resource Development. Why did the government change these rules in 1997?

2:10

Mr. Coutts: Mr. Speaker, youth of 16 and 17 years of age prior to 1997 could hunt without direct supervision. Following federal legislation that came into effect in the mid-1990s, licensing became mandatory for firearms possession. It should be recognized that it's firearms possession. That federal licensing requirement actually requires persons under the age of 18 years to be directly supervised by an adult when using the firearm. Therefore, the provincial Wildlife Act was changed to be in compliance with that federal legislation.

Dr. Morton: My first supplemental is to the same minister. Since, surely, it is preferable that our youths spend weekends in the fall in the field and forest rather than in the malls, what does the minister's department do to encourage youth hunters to join the ranks of the hunting community in Alberta?

Mr. Coutts: Mr. Speaker, youths from the age of 12 to 17 can hunt in Alberta under a residential youth wildlife certificate, and they can hunt a number of different wildlife species with either a firearm or a bow and arrow. As a matter of fact, we have over 5,000 youth registered as hunting in the province, which is up about 184 individuals from last year.

Our staff works very, very closely with educators in schools on hunter education as well as with the WISE foundation, the hunters for tomorrow program, and the Alberta hunter educators association along with conservation education programs. As a matter of fact, they're celebrating their 40th anniversary coming up this spring and they have educated over a million youth. So we have a number of good programs that teach our youth how to hunt responsibly.

Dr. Morton: Mr. Speaker, my second supplemental is to the same minister. Since our youth hunters, Mr. Minister, are already required to pass the provincial hunter education test and pass the federal firearms safety test, would you consider restoring the rights that 16- and 17-year-old Albertans enjoyed prior to 1997?

Mr. Coutts: Mr. Speaker, as I mentioned in my first answer, Alberta amended the Wildlife Act to be consistent with the federal legislation. That was brought on by requests from the Royal Canadian Mounted Police to make sure that we were consistent with the legislation so that it could be enforceable. It's also supported by our fish and wildlife officers so it can be enforceable as well. We have received very few complaints from the public about this issue and particularly the requirements for youth. Right at this moment I have no plans to reopen the legislation. If we did, we'd certainly have to look at the legalities of it. We'd have to do some consultation with both the RCMP and other enforcement agencies as well.

The Speaker: The hon. Member for Edmonton-Rutherford, followed by the hon. Member for Edmonton-Strathcona.

Treasury Branch Loans

Mr. R. Miller: Thank you, Mr. Speaker. My question is for the Minister of Finance. Will the minister please confirm or deny that this government guaranteed a $50 million loan to Rancher's Beef through the Alberta Treasury Branches?

Mrs. McClellan: Mr. Speaker, I can tell this hon. member that I do not get involved with the day-to-day operations or the loan portfolios of the Alberta Treasury Branch. If he has a problem with a loan that the Treasury Branch has given or guaranteed, he should take it to the board of directors.

Mr. R. Miller: Mr. Speaker, the Auditor General holds the minister responsible for Alberta Treasury Branches. Is this government back in the business of picking winners and losers?

Mrs. McClellan: Absolutely not, Mr. Speaker. If the hon. member followed the Public Accounts discussion around the Alberta Treasury Branches yesterday, he would know very much that Alberta Treasury Branch operates as a commercial entity. I've followed a line of questioning over here in the last days of trying to find out if there was political interference. Mr. Speaker, surely you would not expect or that hon. member would not expect that I would know the transactions that the Alberta Treasury Branch carries out.

Mr. R. Miller: Mr. Speaker, I did follow the Public Accounts Committee yesterday.

Given the Auditor General's continuing criticism of Alberta Treasury Branches' questionable lending practices, what assurance can the minister give that the required reforms will actually happen this year?

Mrs. McClellan: Mr. Speaker, I invite all hon. members to actually read the Auditor General's report instead of paraphrasing from it. What the Auditor General has indicated is that the Alberta Treasury Branches need to ensure that their corporate lending practices are followed, particularly in their branches. I would point out to this hon. member and all hon. members that if you go to the trouble of reading the Alberta Treasury Branches' latest report, their portfolio is just under $6 billion and their loan writeoffs are $23 million. I think even you can do the math.

The Speaker: The hon. Member for Edmonton-Strathcona, followed by the hon. Member for Calgary-West.

Wait Times for Ophthalmology Services

Dr. Pannu: Thank you, Mr. Speaker. Yesterday I tabled a document from the government's wait-list registry showing that Calgarians wait significantly longer for cataract surgery in private eye clinics than Edmontonians wait for the same surgery in a public facility. These statistics contradict the Premier's claim two days ago that a cataract surgery is quicker in the city of Calgary. No wonder this government can't be trusted as it moves to privatize more health services. A question to the Premier: will the Premier admit that he was wrong in his claims of two days ago and instead acknowledge that Edmontonians enjoy much more timely access to cataract surgery as a result of this health service being delivered mainly in a public facility?

Mr. Klein: Well, Mr. Speaker, the hon. member is wrong. Dr. Pannu asked the question: "According to October 2005 stats on the government's wait-list registry, four times as many Calgarians are waiting for cataract eye surgery compared to the number of Edmontonians waiting," then it goes on. Anyway, in response to the question:

I really don't know that to be true, Mr. Speaker. You know, I've talked to people in the private system and people in the public system. Those people in Calgary practising ophthalmology say that services are much quicker in the city of Calgary.

"Those people in Calgary practising ophthalmology say that services are much quicker." I didn't say it. The people said it. I don't know where he gets his figures.

Mr. Speaker, you can't slay the messenger. I am the messenger. He's trying to slay me, and that is wrong.

The Speaker: Okay. We'll go forward then.

Dr. Pannu: Mr. Speaker, the Premier is slayed by the figures prepared by his own government.

How can Albertans trust this government's so-called third way privatization blueprint when the Premier ignores the readily available evidence documenting that Calgarians endure by far the longest wait times in the province because cataract surgery in their city is done in private, for-profit clinics?

Mr. Klein: Mr. Speaker, I go on to say, "I don't know where he gets his figures," but he's explained that. I've since checked this out. In the case of Calgary, where there is choice, some people say: I want a particular doctor. That doctor says: I can't take you right now; you're going to have to wait six months. That so often is the case.

I'll have the hon. minister respond.

2:20

Ms Evans: Further, Mr. Speaker, there has been recently an ophthalmological review conducted by a private consultant to the Calgary health authority, who is looking at some of the problems associated with it. In order to be fair to the number of providers, there was a cap on the number of services some were delivering, and if you made a choice to go with a particular provider, you may wait longer. Both Calgary and Capital deliver ophthalmological services through a private/public mix.

The Speaker: The hon. member.

Dr. Pannu: Thank you, Mr. Speaker. The minister doesn't want to trust, I guess, her own figures here.

My final question to the Premier: given the clear evidence documenting significantly shorter wait times when cataract surgery is done in the public facilities, why doesn't the government abandon its failed strategy of using private, for-profit clinics to do cataract surgery in Calgary?

Mr. Klein: Mr. Speaker, you can't compare apples and oranges and bananas and grapefruits and so on. We leave it up to the various health regions as to how they wish to deliver and fund ophthalmology services. In Calgary there are third-party operators who contract with the regional health authority to provide ophthalmology services. The Calgary regional health authority believes that that is the most efficient way of doing things, and that is entirely up to them. It's not up to this member. It's up to the Calgary regional health authority.

The Speaker: We're sure excited over there today, aren't we?

The hon. Member for Calgary-West, followed by the hon. Member for Edmonton-Meadowlark.

School Construction in Southwest Calgary

Mr. Liepert: Thank you, Mr. Speaker. Several years ago the minister of infrastructure at the time approved construction of an elementary school in the Calgary-West constituency. The school was to be built on a site known as Battalion park, where a mini-school currently houses children up to grade 3. My question is to the Minister of Infrastructure and Transportation. My constituents would like to know why construction has not yet commenced on that school.

The Speaker: The hon. minister.

Dr. Oberg: Thank you very much, and that is an excellent question. Mr. Speaker, the project was approved on May 4, 2004. What subsequently occurs is that the Calgary school board puts it into the design process. The interesting part about this particular design is that there was methane gas discovered on the particular site where the school was going to be built. We have been working with them now to determine what exactly is the best way to alleviate that methane gas that is occurring on that site. My people have also been working with them in an attempt to allow them to move sites, but for some reason they actually want to keep the site there.

We presently have gone to tender. The tenders closed last Thursday. We'll see what happens when it comes to price, including the methane gas alleviation project that is going on there.

The Speaker: The hon. member.

Mr. Liepert: Thank you, Mr. Speaker. My first supplemental, then, is to the same minister. Given this new information regarding methane gas at the site, can the minister assure my constituents that this particular site is still safe to build a school?

Dr. Oberg: Well, yes, we can, Mr. Speaker. The methane gas management system that is being put in there will certainly alleviate the gas. The issue comes down to cost. This particular site is costing us $1.2 million more than if it was at another site. There is another site that is available there. However, this is where the co-ordination between the Department of Education, the Department of Infrastructure and Transportation, and the Calgary public school system has got to be bang on. The unfortunate part is that $1.2 million could be spent on this site to alleviate the methane when in reality it could have been put on a different site.

The Speaker: The hon. member.

Mr. Liepert: Thank you. My final supplementary to the minister: can the minister assure my constituents that once a determination is made regarding the methane gas, a decision to begin construction will be made immediately so that children in my constituency can go to school in their own neighbourhood and not ride a bus for up to an hour?

Dr. Oberg: Yeah. Absolutely, Mr. Speaker. As I stated, the tenders closed on Thursday. We'll now be opening the tenders and determining what company is going to build the school, what kind of system is going to be there. We will see what the price is. I can certainly give full guarantee to the hon. member that this school will be built absolutely as quickly as possible and, hopefully, will be ready in 2007 for those kids to go there.

The Speaker: The hon. Member for Edmonton-Meadowlark, followed by the hon. Member for Calgary-Montrose.

Gaming Technology

Mr. Tougas: Thank you, Mr. Speaker. This past September the Minister of Gaming attended the Global Gaming Expo in Las Vegas. At that event he met with the Association of Casino Operators, who asked the minister to consider the implementation of something called cashless technology. The minister then directed his department to examine the implementation of cashless technology in Alberta's casinos, which was described in the minister's report on his trip as exciting new technology. My question is for the Minister of Gaming. What exactly is this new cashless technology, and why is he so excited about it?

Mr. Graydon: Well, Mr. Speaker, it doesn't take too much to get me excited, but there we go. The new technology, I guess, would be new to Alberta, but it's certainly not new in the gaming industry in the world. In fact, I believe about 80 per cent of the world's casinos use what's called cashless technology in slot machines. Basically, as opposed to pushing a button and when you win having the machine spit out 20 loonies into the tray under the machine, it prints a piece of paper. You then take that piece of paper, and if you want to play the machine next door, you put it back in, or if you want to cash out and go home, you take that slip of paper to the cashier, take your money and head for home.

The Speaker: The hon. member.

Mr. Tougas: Thank you, Mr. Speaker. Is the government considering spending millions of dollars on new equipment that will do little other than serve to fatten the bottom line of casino owners?

Mr. Graydon: Part of the problem with technology, Mr. Speaker, is that as machines age, you can't get parts for the old ones. That is something that we know we're going to run into as it comes time to maintain our network, if you will, of machines in casinos. We won't be able to get the parts for the coin mechanism, and we will be relatively forced to implement this paper technology.

Mr. Tougas: Well, since the only real difference between a slot machine and a VLT is in the method of payment, doesn't that make these slots impact into VLTs?

Mr. Graydon: Well, the difference between slots and VLTs is in the location. The VLTs tend to be in bars and lounges, whereas slot machines are in casinos. True, a VLT does issue a piece of paper which you take up to the operator of the facility when it's time to cash out, so it will make the machines similar in that regard. Basically, a slot machine is in a destination gambling facility, a casino.

The Speaker: The hon. Member for Calgary-Montrose, followed by the hon. Member for Edmonton-Ellerslie.

Workers' Compensation

Mr. Pham: Thank you, Mr. Speaker. Some workers who sustain injuries on the job are deemed by the WCB to be able to return to a minimum wage job. Even if these workers are unable to find a minimum wage job, the WCB subtracts the current minimum wage from the workers' pre-injury salary to determine the earning loss supplement that is paid to the injured workers. Increasing Alberta's minimum wage for the working poor has inadvertently had a negative impact on many injured workers by substantially reducing the earning loss supplement that they receive. My question is to the Minister of Human Resources and Employment. What can the minister do to help injured workers who have had their earning loss supplement payment cut as a result of an increase in the minimum wage?

The Speaker: The hon. minister.

Mr. Cardinal: Thank you very much, Mr. Speaker. That's a very good question. Of course, the Workers' Compensation policy requires Workers' Compensation to determine an injured worker's level of employability once they are physically able to return to work. In some cases, of course, workers are only able to resume employment that pays the minimum wage. Workers' Compensation wage top-up benefits pay the injured worker for the difference between what they can now earn and what their wage was before they were injured. The Workers' Compensation Board adjusted the top-up required to reflect the increase in the minimum wage.

The Speaker: The hon. member.

Mr. Pham: Thank you, Mr. Speaker. For the cases where the WCB uses the minimum wage to calculate the earning loss benefit, can the minister ask the WCB to use the minimum wage at the time that the worker sustained the injury rather than the minimum wage of today?

2:30

Mr. Cardinal: No, Mr. Speaker. Raising the minimum wage is the government's response to regular cost-of-living increases. The workers' compensation benefits also increase through cost-of-living adjustments yearly. Of course, the workers' compensation benefits reflect the potential earnings, and as they change, so do the benefits to top it up.

Mr. Pham: The last question is to the same minister. Will the minister ask WCB to pay back the money that they have collected from injured workers as a result of the increase to the minimum wage?

Mr. Cardinal: No, Mr. Speaker.

The Speaker: The hon. Member for Edmonton-Ellerslie.

Arts Funding

Mr. Agnihotri: Thank you, Mr. Speaker. In September of this year a proud Alberta-based book publisher was forced to sell to an Ontario company due to the lack of provincial arts funding. This was the fifth book publisher forced to leave the province in the past decade. The Book Publishers Association of Alberta has been lobbying this government for the last eight years for sufficient support, with very little success. My questions are to the Deputy Premier. Why does this government continue to bleed the book publishing sector dry?

Mrs. McClellan: Mr. Speaker, we have some fabulous publishers in this province, and they've accomplished great things: the university press and others that are there.

Actually, this question would be more appropriately posed to the Minister of Community Development, who has the responsibility for arts and culture.

Mr. Mar: Mr. Speaker, in looking at all of our cultural industries in the province of Alberta, we do try our very, very best to do the very best with what we've got. The reality is that we haven't changed our funding for the arts for some number of years. We will be making every effort to try and change that through the budget process. As the hon. member knows, the upcoming budget process is currently under way, and the budget will be tabled in February of next year. He can wait to see then whether or not advocacy in this area has been successful.

Mr. Agnihotri: To the Minister of Community Development: given that Alberta is the wealthiest province in this country, why does our funding for the arts continue to rank among the lowest in the country?

Mr. Mar: Mr. Speaker, the proper operation of government requires many priorities to be looked after. We do have extremely high funding per capita in the area of health. We have extremely high per capita funding in the area of education. These are the areas that Albertans feel are their strongest priorities.

Mr. Agnihotri: To the same minister, Mr. Speaker. Given that years of lobbying the stakeholders have proven unsuccessful, is it the policy of this government to only provide arts funding after a personal meeting with the Premier?

Mr. Mar: No, Mr. Speaker.

The Speaker: Hon. members, I will call on six members today to participate in Members' Statements, but prior to that, might we revert briefly to Introduction of Guests?

[Unanimous consent granted]

head: Introduction of Guests
(reversion)

The Speaker: First of all, then, the hon. Member for Banff-Cochrane.

Mrs. Tarchuk: Well, thank you, Mr. Speaker. I'd like to introduce to you and through you to members of the Assembly a gentleman who is no stranger to most of us here. He is our recently retired Chief Electoral Officer, Mr. Brian Fjeldheim. Brian is seated in the Speaker's gallery with his wife, Colleen. If I could ask them to stand, please, and receive the warm traditional welcome of the Assembly.

The Speaker: The hon. Deputy Speaker.

Mr. Marz: Thank you, Mr. Speaker. It's my honour to introduce to you and through you today four constituents from the busy village of Linden, Alberta, home of the famous Country Cousins Restaurant. They're here today to visit this wonderful building and tour it as well as see how efficiently and smoothly our democracy runs. They are Bruce and Tina Klassen and Dwayne and Jolene Klassen. They are seated in the members' gallery, and I would ask that they all rise and receive the warm welcome of the Assembly.

The Speaker: The hon. Member for Lacombe-Ponoka.

Mr. Prins: Thank you very much, Mr. Speaker. It's my great pleasure today to introduce to you and through you to all members of the Assembly some special guests. Today in the members' gallery is my wife, Pauline, my son Lorne and my daughter and her husband, Julia and Trevor VanderVeen. They have just finished their education, about eight and a half years of university each. They're back in Alberta trying to find a job, so we're trying to repatriate them. With them is a friend of ours from Niger, Africa, Miss Jan Disselkoe. She has worked in Sierra Leone for 13 years, then eight years in Niger doing community development. It's our pleasure to have her here today. Would they please rise and receive the traditional warm welcome of this Assembly.

The Speaker: The hon. Deputy Chair of Committees.

Mr. Shariff: Mr. Speaker, it's my great pleasure to introduce to you and through you to members of this Assembly Jan Marz, the lady who keeps our Deputy Speaker in line. She is seated in the public gallery. I'd ask her to rise and receive the traditional warm welcome of this Assembly.

head: Members' Statements

The Speaker: The hon. Member for Red Deer-North.

National Day of Remembrance and Action on Violence against Women

Mrs. Jablonski: Thank you, Mr. Speaker. As Family Violence Prevention Month draws to a close, I would like to note that violence is an issue that requires our attention year-round. This coming Tuesday marks the 16th anniversary of the tragic events that took place at l'école Polytechnique in Montreal. In recognition December 6 is the National Day of Remembrance and Action on Violence Against Women. On that day I encourage everyone to pause and consider the devastation that violence has on individuals, families, and our society. I encourage Albertans to think about how their communities can support actions to eliminate all forms of violence.

In Alberta we are working very hard to achieve our goal of eliminating family violence, including working with communities at the grassroots level to develop family violence prevention initiatives, providing specialized treatment services for offenders to break the cycle of abuse, training front-line professionals so that they may better respond to incidents of family violence, developing a provincial strategy to prevent sexual violence, increasing the number of provincially funded beds in women's shelters, expanding community outreach services and supports, establishing specialized domestic violence courts for more timely and effective response to family violence cases, developing safe visitation supports for children and families where family violence is an issue, working with aboriginal communities, and implementing education and awareness activities that encourage Albertans to speak up about family violence.

As the Year of the Veteran and our centennial year draws to a close, reminding us of the great sacrifices of the past, I would like to say that no one loves you more than your family. On December 6 I ask all Albertans to renew their pledge to never commit, condone, or remain silent about any act of violence.

The Speaker: The hon. Member for Strathcona.

International Day of Disabled Persons

Mr. Lougheed: Thank you, Mr. Speaker. It's my pleasure to rise today and inform the Assembly that December 3 marks the United Nations International Day of Disabled Persons. Events and celebrations will be taking place all over the world, all across this country, and in communities throughout Alberta.

In 1992 the United Nations proclaimed December 3 as International Day of Disabled Persons, and recognition of this day is intended to increase awareness and understanding of persons with disabilities and the issues that impact their lives. Albertans will celebrate International Day of Disabled Persons in a variety of ways including special ceremonies in Edmonton, Calgary, Fort McMurray, Red Deer, Medicine Hat, and even the smaller community of Bow Island.

Awards of excellence will be presented by the Premier's Council on the Status of Persons with Disabilities. These awards will be at events in Calgary, Edmonton, and Bow Island. Because December 3 falls on a Saturday this year, the events in Edmonton, Calgary, and Red Deer will actually be taking place on Friday, December 2.

This year's theme is Nothing About Us Without Us. It is a reminder that the involvement of persons with disabilities in the decisions being made about them is critical. Together we will bring down the barriers – physical, systemic, and attitudinal – that impede their full participation in all aspects of community life.

I encourage all hon. colleagues and all Albertans to join these festivities and celebrate the achievements and acknowledge the aspirations of persons with disabilities. Thank you.

The Speaker: The hon. Member for Drayton Valley-Calmar.

2:40 Centennial Salute for Sport and Recreation

Rev. Abbott: Thank you, Mr. Speaker. Alberta has a long and proud tradition of athletic excellence. The skill and enthusiasm that our athletes, coaches, and athletic promoters exhibit on a daily basis has brought international fame and notoriety to our province. In recognition of this and to commemorate Alberta's centennial, the Alberta government and the Alberta Sport, Recreation, Parks & Wildlife Foundation created jointly an award that would acknowledge the efforts and achievements of 100 exceptional Albertans.

The Alberta centennial salute for sport and recreation gives recognition to those administrators, participants, builders, coaches, leaders, officials, and athletes who have made a lasting positive impact on the development of sports in this province. These individuals come from diverse backgrounds. They represent a multitude of different sports and disciplines. Included in their numbers are rodeo stars, Olympic athletes, politicians, and volunteers who have worked tirelessly behind the scenes to promote sports and recreation in their communities. They have one thing in common, an extreme sense of dedication and boundless enthusiasm toward the establishment and promotion of sports and recreational development in Alberta. They have served and continue to serve not only as ambassadors of sport and community but as shining examples of the spirit that has made Alberta great.

Mr. Speaker, these exceptional Albertans will be honoured at the Alberta Sports Hall of Fame & Museum on December 8, where they will receive a centennial salute scroll signed by the Premier and the Minister of Community Development, a centennial pin, and the recognition of the museum. As the government adviser to the ASRPW Foundation I would like to commend all those who will be receiving the award as well as pay tribute to the memory of those who are being recognized posthumously. These 100 exceptional people have touched the lives of all Albertans and are truly the embodiment of the centennial spirit.

Thank you.

The Speaker: The hon. Member for Banff-Cochrane.

Brian Fjeldheim

Mrs. Tarchuk: Thank you, Mr. Speaker. Today I would like to pay tribute to a great Albertan known to most of us in the Assembly. Mr. Brian Fjeldheim, who is seated in the Speaker's gallery with his wife, Colleen, recently retired from his position as Chief Electoral Officer for the province of Alberta, a position he held from 1998 to 2005. As Chief Electoral Officer Brian presided over two general elections, a Senate nominee election, and four by-elections, and he served as senior adviser to Alberta's 2002-2003 Electoral Boundaries Commission.

Brian's achievements included in small part the development of a provincial register of electors and the implementation of Elections Alberta's interactive website. His dedication to the office of Chief Electoral Officer, his professionalism, and his service to the citizens of Alberta were commendable, and this Assembly was well served during his tenure. Brian was always passionate about the electoral process, and he took great pride in his office and the staff at Elections Alberta. I know that he'll be missed by many of his colleagues and friends.

I am pleased as an MLA and as chair of the Standing Committee on Legislative Offices to recognize the achievements of Brian Fjeldheim as an officer of the Legislature. It was an honour to work with him, and I would ask all the members of the Assembly to join me in wishing the very best to Brian, Colleen, and their family with their future endeavours.

Thank you.

The Speaker: The hon. Member for Edmonton-Glenora.

World AIDS Day

Dr. B. Miller: Thank you, Mr. Speaker. The Hebrew Bible prophets like Jeremiah and Isaiah were convinced that lament is the key to open action. Today is World AIDS Day, and for us to think about the AIDS pandemic is to engage in a deep, heart-rending lament for the millions who have died from AIDS. Since 1983, 734 people have died from HIV/AIDS in Alberta. The world statistics are overwhelming: 3 million deaths in the past year; that's 60,000 a week. Half of the 40 million people world-wide who are living with HIV/AIDS are women, and more than 2 million are children. Seventy-five per cent of the AIDS pandemic is happening in sub-Saharan Africa.

Statistics often just numb us and prevent us from experiencing the personal loss and tragedy. As a former pastor I have sat at the bedside of individuals who have succumbed to AIDS. I have tried to say words of comfort and encouragement, but in all cases what I have received is much greater: the gift of their courage and their hope. The Hebrew prophets have taught us that lament leads to hope and action. Gordon Brown, the U.K. minister of finance, said that when there are 30,000 children dying every day and when there are 100 million children not going to school at all in the poorest countries, the need to act is obvious. Stephen Lewis' new book, Race Against Time, is a call to action.

In the last two weeks we have been debating the spending of $1.8 billion on ourselves in Alberta. One point eight billion is enough to establish whole country-wide health care systems in most African countries, providing enough health care professionals and caregivers and pharmaceuticals to beat this disease. Africa needs at least $22 billion a year just for HIV/AIDS, all of which leads me to question the morality of our excessive spending in Alberta.

The good news is that the world is gradually awakening to the challenge, and thanks to local organizations like Living Positive a lot of awareness is happening about HIV/AIDS. May the lament of today be turned into hope and action tomorrow.

The Speaker: The hon. Member for Cardston-Taber-Warner.

Raymond Comets Football Team

Mr. Hinman: Thank you, Mr. Speaker. It is an honour to rise today and recognize the achievement of the Raymond Comets football team in winning their tier 1 provincial championship last Saturday against the number one rated Bev Facey, defeating them a decisive 25-nothing. The Comets' accomplishment was achieved because they demonstrated and drew from many of the attributes that make Alberta, our towns and our people, the success we are today.

First, they not only had a vision; they knew that what the mind could conceive, they would achieve. They were willing to work, to work very hard. They had leaders in their communities that were willing to give of their knowledge and their experience freely. These leaders were their coaches and the parents, who also sacrificed their time and efforts enthusiastically to coach and inspire these young men to be all they could be. Average or even above average was not the goal; it was to be the best they could be.

These young men and their coaches did not come with any excuses. They did not claim that they were from a small school or that they weren't as big or as tall as their opponents. They knew as a team that cohesiveness and harmonious execution is more important than powerful, individual strength and size. They knew the rules were the same for both sides, and they were enthused and excited to participate.

We must look to our youth for an example. The Comets are grateful that there were no rules to exclude them from competing at the tier 1 provincial level. Many may have said that they should not have competed, that their school was just too small. This competition teaches us the importance of rules of inclusion and not exclusion, which allows all people to have the opportunity to compete equally whatever the playing field.

I salute the Raymond Comets, the players, their families, coaches, and the communities for their outstanding achievement, once again showing that bigger does not always mean better.

The Speaker: The hon. Deputy Speaker.

Page Recognition

Mr. Marz: Thank you, Mr. Speaker. Hon. members, every day and night of the session we're served extremely well by the pages, and on behalf of all the members of the Assembly I get to be Santa Claus today. We want to give each page a small Christmas present to say thank you and wish them, each and every one, a very merry Christmas. I'll ask the Speaker's page, Janiesh Bali, to come and distribute these gifts on our behalf.

head: Presenting Petitions

The Speaker: The hon. Member for Edmonton-Beverly-Clareview.

Mr. Martin: Thank you, Mr. Speaker. I have two forms of a petition today. I'd like to table a petition by 595 individuals urging the Alberta government to "increase infrastructure development funding for Highway 63."

An Hon. Member: Thank you.

Mr. Martin: You're welcome.

You can thank me again because I'd also like to table on behalf of my colleague the Member for Edmonton-Highlands-Norwood the same petition signed by 570 individuals urging the Alberta government to "increase infrastructure development funding for Highway 63." That brings the total number of signatures to 7,661.

head: 2:50 Notices of Motions

The Speaker: The hon. Deputy Government House Leader.

Mr. Zwozdesky: Thank you, Mr. Speaker. I rise pursuant to Standing Order 34(2)(a) to give notice that on Monday I will move that written questions 43, 44, and 45 be dealt with that day. There being no additional written questions or motions for returns, there are none to stand and retain their places.

head: Tabling Returns and Reports

The Speaker: The hon. Member for Edmonton-Centre.

Ms Blakeman: Thank you very much, Mr. Speaker. On behalf of my colleague the Leader of the Official Opposition I'd like to table copies of a memo from James Eamon to William Code concerning operations of the Alberta Securities Commission and a second tabling, which is copies of court documents indicating involvement of the former Treasurer, Mr. Dinning, in the operation of the Alberta Securities Commission.

Thank you.

The Speaker: Hon. member, those would be the documents that I asked to be tabled?

Ms Blakeman: Those are the documents you requested. Yes, indeed.

The Speaker: The hon. Member for Calgary-Currie.

Mr. Taylor: Thank you Mr. Speaker. On behalf of my colleague the hon. Leader of the Official Opposition I table the requisite copies of a letter from the leader of the Liberal opposition to the ministers of Children's Services, Health and Wellness, and Education requesting a school meal program for hungry children in Alberta schools.

The Speaker: The hon. Member for Calgary-Mountain View.

Dr. Swann: Thank you, Mr. Speaker. I have two tablings, one petitioning the government of Alberta to press the federal government for resumption of talks with the Lubicon Cree in northern Alberta; second, a letter from a constituent calling on the government to give back the provincial education tax exemption to seniors, raise the annual income maximum to include average seniors, and grandfather property taxes so seniors will not be subjected to market value assessments.

The Speaker: The hon. Member for Edmonton-Mill Woods.

Mrs. Mather: Thank you, Mr. Speaker. I am pleased to table a letter and the appropriate number of copies from a teacher in Edmonton pointing out that this government needs to move forward with a plan to pay off the unfunded liability of the teachers' pension plan.

The Speaker: The hon. Member for Edmonton-Beverly-Clareview.

Mr. Martin: Thank you, Mr. Speaker. I have two tablings today. I'm tabling first of all the appropriate number of copies of 13 letters from schoolteachers from across Alberta. Again, they are greatly concerned with the unfunded liability of the teachers' pension fund and are urging the government to act quickly to remedy the situation.

The second tabling is the appropriate number of copies of a letter from Sylvia Scarfe of Edmonton, who is concerned about a three-month delay in the processing of her seniors' dental benefits.

The Speaker: The hon. Member for Edmonton-Calder.

Mr. Eggen: Thank you, Mr. Speaker. I rise today to table the appropriate number of copies of an open letter sent to me by a coalition of prominent Albertans, including Ian Tyson and Connie Kaldor, asking the province to proclaim the Castle wilderness area a provincial park in honour of Andy Russell and in recognition of the Piikani First Nation.

As well, I have the appropriate amount of copies of a letter from the Lethbridge Family Services board of directors indicating that their agency receives persons with disability funding, but they did not receive an increase in funding this year.

Finally, I have a tabling. This is a statement from the Non-Smokers' Rights Association from January 27, 2003, alleging that a fundraising and lobbying firm, GCI Canada, set up a fake citizens' group called the Smokers' Freedom Society as a front for the two big tobacco companies here in Alberta.

The Speaker: The hon. Member for Edmonton-Strathcona.

Dr. Pannu: Yes, Mr. Speaker. Thank you. I rise today to table the appropriate number of copies of a letter from Beth Pierog of Grande Prairie expressing deep concerns about the government's plans for health care privatization and the so-called third way for health care.

The Speaker: The hon. Member for Edmonton-Manning.

Mr. Backs: Thank you, Mr. Speaker. I'd like to rise and table the appropriate five copies of information regarding a partner in the firm of McLennan Ross cited in e-mails from the labour board yesterday.

head:

Tablings to the Clerk

The Clerk: I wish to advise the House that the following documents were deposited with the office of the Clerk: on behalf of the hon. Mr. Ouellette, Minister of Restructuring and Government Efficiency, response to Written Question 33, asked for by Mr. Elsalhy on November 21, 2005; on behalf of the hon. Mr. Renner, Minister of Municipal Affairs, return to order of the Assembly MR 14, MR 15, and MR 16, all asked for by Mr. MacDonald on behalf of Dr. Taft on April 18, 2005.

head: Projected Government Business

The Speaker: The Official Opposition House Leader.

Ms Blakeman: Thank you very much, Mr. Speaker. Under Standing Order 7(5) I would like to inquire of the Government House Leader as to what the government business is that's projected for next week.

The Speaker: The hon. Government House Leader.

Mr. Hancock: Thank you, Mr. Speaker. There appears to be very little if anything on the Order Paper other than two government motions, and I don't anticipate putting any on.

Vignettes from Alberta's History

The Speaker: Hon. members, by way of an historical vignette on this day in 1919 by order in council the town of Peace River was incorporated as a town. Just one little bit of addendum information about the town of Peace River: it is home to Henry Fuller Davis, also known as Twelve Foot Davis. Twelve Foot Davis had a 12-foot land claim in British Columbia during the Caribou Country gold rush, and he was able to mine almost $30,000 in gold from his land, which he then took to establish a trading post near the town of Peace River. Of course, there is a monument to old Twelve Foot Davis, who made 30,000 bucks at that time mining gold.

The hon. Member for Calgary-Nose Hill on a purported point of order.

Point of Order

Improper Questions

Dr. Brown: Thank you, Mr. Speaker. I rise on a point of order concerning the questions put by the hon. Member for Edmonton-Highlands-Norwood. In so doing, I wish to cite Beauchesne paragraphs 409(1) and (3) and Marleau pages 426 and 427 and our own Standing Order 23(j).

Mr. Speaker, my shorthand skills are extremely limited, so I will attempt to paraphrase the words that were put by the hon. member. He said words to the effect that whether it is the Alberta Securities Commission, the Labour Relations Board, or the Calgary health authority, the boards are "rife with conflicts of interest, patronage, and political interference." The question and particularly the preamble are not only inflammatory and offensive, but they are perhaps injurious to the reputations of those individuals involved with those boards. Not only that, but they are in the nature of an opinion or a statement or a representation. In my respectful submission those particular words offend the good order of the Assembly.

I would like to quote briefly from those authorities which I cited. Paragraph 23 of our Standing Orders says:

A member will be called to order by the Speaker if, in the Speaker's opinion, that member:

(j) uses abusive or insulting language of a nature likely to create disorder.

Beauchesne paragraph 409(1) states as follows: the question in question period must be a question, not an expression of an opinion, representation, argumentation, nor debate.

Citation 409(3) also states that the question ought to seek information and, therefore, cannot be based upon a hypothesis, cannot seek an opinion, either legal or otherwise, and must not suggest its own answer, be argumentative or make representations.

Marleau, page 426, states that a Member should

- ask a question;
- be brief;
- seek information;
- ask a question that is within the . . . responsibility of the government or the individual Minister addressed and the question should not

- be a statement, representation, argument or an expression of opinion.

Further, on page 427, the question should not

- make a charge by way of a preamble to a question.

It's my respectful submission, Mr. Speaker, that this question, and particularly the preamble, offends the good order of this Assembly, and it's my respectful submission that the Speaker should call the hon. Member for Edmonton-Highlands-Norwood to order.

3:00

The Speaker: On this point of order, the hon. Member for Edmonton-Beverly-Clareview.

Mr. Martin: Mr. Speaker, I relish this opportunity to talk about this point of order. I would suggest that a lot of the quotes that the member – he must have spent the whole question period doing that, and I appreciate it. I know the hon. member. He does good work in committees. I wish he would continue with that.

My point, Mr. Speaker, is that in this session he may not like the preamble, but it's not really a point of order. We can talk. He mentions patronage. We believe it to be true that there's patronage. He talks about conflict of interest. We believe that that happened in the Securities Commission. He talks about political interference. We believe that that just happened in the Labour Relations Board.

Mr. Speaker, it seems to us that as part of the debate in this Assembly, this has been going on for years and years and years. So I honestly suggest that it's really not a point of order. It's a fact that the member really doesn't like the preamble. Too bad. It's a democracy. We will continue doing our job.

The Speaker: Well, look, if I understood the Government House Leader, there's probably no business on Monday, so let's do something. Okay? Between now and the next time we reconvene, let's all of us take some of these books, and let's read about what the rules of debate are because I think that in the last 12 days I could have ruled out 95 per cent of the questions from all sides of the Assembly. Nobody is free on this. Let me assure you of that. There would have been very, very few questions permitted if all the rules were applied. So in the spirit of harmony as we go through the next several months, let's just try and find these wonderful things to deal with.

head: Orders of the Day

head: Government Motions

Adjournment of Session

26. Mr. Hancock moved:

Be it resolved that when the Assembly adjourns to recess the fall sitting of the First Session of the 26th Legislature, it shall stand adjourned until a time and date as determined by the Speaker after consultation with the Lieutenant Governor in Council.

[Motion carried]

head: Royal Assent

The Speaker: The hon. the Premier.

Mr. Klein: Thank you, Mr. Speaker. His Honour the Honourable the Lieutenant Governor will now attend upon the Assembly.

[The Premier and the Sergeant-at-Arms left the Chamber to attend the Lieutenant Governor]

[The Mace was draped]

The Speaker: Hon. members, while we wait for the arrival of His Honour, you might just be interested in a couple of things here. This year, in 2005, this Assembly dealt with 58 bills. This is only the fourth time since 1971 that the Order Paper has no bills left over on it – only the fourth time – the other times being 1996, 2001, and 2004.

You might also be interested in noting that this year including today we had 53 sitting days including 36 evening sittings.

[The Sergeant-at-Arms knocked on the main doors of the Chamber three times. The Assistant Sergeant-at-Arms opened the doors, and the Sergeant-at-Arms entered]

The Sergeant-at-Arms: All rise, please. Mr. Speaker, His Honour the Lieutenant Governor awaits.

The Speaker: Sergeant-at-Arms, admit His Honour the Lieutenant Governor.

[Preceded by the Sergeant-at-Arms, His Honour the Lieutenant Governor of Alberta, Norman L. Kwong, CM, AOE, and the Premier entered the Chamber. His Honour took his place upon the throne]

His Honour: Hon. members, please be seated.

The Speaker: May it please Your Honour, the Legislative Assembly has at its present sittings passed certain bills to which and in the name of the Legislative Assembly I respectfully request Your Honour's assent.

The Clerk: Your Honour, the following are the titles of the bills to which Your Honour's assent is prayed.

- 9 Post-secondary Learning Amendment Act, 2005
- 15 Workers' Compensation Amendment Act, 2005
- 43 Alberta Resource Rebate Statutes Amendment Act, 2005
- 44 Residential Tenancies Amendment Act, 2005 (No. 2)
- 45 Maternal Tort Liability Act
- 46 Criminal Notoriety Act
- 47 Alberta Association of Former MLAs Act
- 48 Justice of the Peace Amendment Act, 2005
- 49 Police Amendment Act, 2005 (No. 2)
- 50 Workers' Compensation Amendment Act, 2005 (No. 2)
- 51 Appropriation (Supplementary Supply) Act, 2005 (No. 2)
- 52 Miscellaneous Statutes Amendment Act, 2005 (No. 2)
- 53 Surface Rights Amendment Act, 2005
- 54 Alberta Centennial Education Savings Plan Amendment Act, 2005
- 55 Post-secondary Learning Amendment Act, 2005 (No. 2)
- 56 Business Corporations Amendment Act, 2005 (No. 2)
- 57 Apprenticeship and Industry Training Amendment Act, 2005

58 Alberta Centennial Medal Amendment Act, 2005
Pr. 4 Brooklyn Hannah George Rewega Right of Civil Action Act

[The Lieutenant Governor indicated his assent]

The Clerk: In Her Majesty's name His Honour the Honourable the Lieutenant Governor doth assent to these bills.

The Sergeant-at-Arms: All rise, please.

[Preceded by the Sergeant-at-Arms, the Lieutenant Governor and the Premier left the Chamber]

[The Mace was uncovered]

The Speaker: Please be seated.

Hon. members, just to conclude what I was saying a little earlier, as of December 1 – that's today – 53 days including 36 evening sittings occurred this year. Last year, in 2004, we had 43 days of sittings including 29 evening sittings. This year at the end of the sitting day, Wednesday last night, November 30, we'd been here for 16,899 minutes. In 2004 we were here for 12,246 minutes. The number of hours at the end of sitting day, Wednesday, November 30: we'd been here for 281 hours, 39 minutes. In 2004 this was 204 hours, 6 minutes, but please remember that there was no fall session in 2004.

Hon. Government House Leader, do you wish to await the return of the Premier, or do you wish to proceed?

3:10

Mr. Hancock: I think we can proceed, Mr. Speaker, and I appreciate the information provided. The only piece that you might have added if you'd wanted to was that three of the four times in which the Order Paper had been completely cleared was under the current House leader. But I digress.

Given that the Order Paper is cleared, Mr. Speaker, I would move, pursuant to Government Motion 26 recently passed, that we do recess the fall sitting and adjourn.

The Speaker: Let me wish you all a safe and happy festive season.

[Motion carried; pursuant to Government Motion 26 the Assembly adjourned at 3:11 p.m.]

NOTE: Use the search capabilities of Adobe Acrobat to search the index and find the topic you are interested in; note the page number(s) associated with it. Then click on the page number range in the list below to open the issue.

Alberta Hansard page and issue number information (26th Leg./1st Sess. 2005)

Issue No.	Date	Pages
1 (Elect Spk/Throne Sp)	Mar. 1 aft. & Mar. 2 aft.	1-5 & 7-11
2	Mar. 3 aft.	13-38
3	Mar. 7 aft.	39-68
4	Mar. 7 eve. & Mar. 8 aft.	69-80 & 81-103
5	Mar. 8 eve. & Mar. 9 aft.	105-16 & 117-46
6	Mar. 9 eve.	147-58
7	Mar. 14 aft.	159-86
8	Mar. 14 eve. & Mar. 15 aft.	187-98 & 199-228
9 (Interim Est. 2005-06)	Mar. 15 eve. & Mar. 16 aft.	229-41 & 243-69
10 (Suppl. Est. 2004-05)	Mar. 16 eve. & Mar. 17 aft.	271-84 & 285-313
11	Mar. 21 aft.	315-42
12	Mar. 21 eve. & Mar. 22 aft.	343-57 & 359-87
13	Mar. 22 eve. & Mar. 23 aft.	389-407 & 409-37
14 (Easter recess)	Mar. 23 eve. & Mar. 24 aft.	439-51 & 453-80
15	Apr. 4 aft.	481-509
16	Apr. 4 eve. & Apr. 5 aft.	511-25 & 527-52
17	Apr. 5 eve. & Apr. 6 aft.	553-67 & 569-95
18	Apr. 6 eve. & Apr. 7 aft.	597-610 & 611-39
19	Apr. 11 aft.	641-67
20	Apr. 11 eve. & Apr. 12 aft.	669-88 & 689-715
21 (Budget Address)	Apr. 12 eve. & Apr. 13 aft.	717-33 & 735-50
22 (Main estimates start)	Apr. 13 eve. & Apr. 14 aft.	751-64 & 765-93
23	Apr. 18 aft.	795-825
24	Apr. 18 eve. & Apr. 19 aft.	827-46 & 847-75
25	Apr. 19 eve. & Apr. 20 aft.	877-95 & 897-923
26	Apr. 20 eve. & Apr. 21 aft.	925-43 & 945-71
27	Apr. 25 aft.	973-98
28	Apr. 25 eve. & Apr. 26 aft.	999-1021 & 1023-49
29	Apr. 26 eve. & Apr. 27 aft.	1051-70 & 1071-98
30	Apr. 27 eve. & Apr. 28 aft.	1099-1116 & 1117-42
31	May 2 aft.	1143-71
32	May 2 eve. & May 3 aft.	1173-94 & 1195-1223
33	May 3 eve. & May 4 aft.	1225-46 & 1247-75
34	May 4 eve. & May 5 aft.	1277-99 & 1301-29
35	May 9 aft.	1331-59
36	May 9 eve. & May 10 aft.	1361-83 & 1385-1414
37	May 10 eve. & May 11 aft.	1415-39 & 1441-70
38	May 11 eve. & May 12 aft.	1471-93 & 1495-1515
39	May 16 aft.	1517-45
40	May 16 eve. & May 17 aft.	1547-65 & 1567-94
41	May 18 aft.	1595-1616
42 (Queen's Address)	May 24 aft.	1617-18
..... Spring sittings: 42 days; 28 evenings
43	Nov. 15 aft.	1619-47
44	Nov. 15 eve. & Nov. 16 aft.	1649-62 & 1663-89

... continued

45 (Suppl.Est. 2005-06)	Nov. 16 eve. & Nov. 17 aft.	1691-1703 & 1705-34
46	Nov. 21 aft.	1735-61
47	Nov. 21 eve. & Nov. 22 aft.	1763-75 & 1777-1806
48	Nov. 22 eve. & Nov. 23 aft.	1807-23 & 1825-53
49	Nov. 23 eve. & Nov. 24 aft.	1855-78 & 1879-1906
50	Nov. 28 aft.	1907-35
51	Nov. 28 eve. & Nov. 29 aft.	1937-58 & 1959-87
52	Nov. 29 eve. & Nov. 30 aft.	1989-2005 & 2007-33
53	Nov. 30 eve. & Dec. 1 aft.	2035-2044 & 2045-58

..... Fall sittings: 11 days; 8 evenings

..... TOTAL: 53 days; 36 evenings

- 3 Star Selection lottery ticket
See Hockey, Lottery funding for
- 3R committee
See Provincial/Municipal Council on Roles, Responsibilities and Resources in the 21st Century, Minister's
- 4-H ambassadors
 Statement re ... Marz 1204
- 4-H Premier's award
 Statement re ... Griffiths 1204
- 7-Eleven, Inc.
 Kids 4 Cops products sale ... VanderBurg 1835
- 16th Avenue, Calgary, widening
See Alberta Children's Hospital, New hospital: Road access
- 20-10 by 2010 (Agricultural research framework)
See Agriculture Research and Innovation Strategic Framework
- 20-year strategic plan
See Alberta-Economic policy, 20-year strategic plan
- 23rd Avenue/Calgary Trail intersection, Edmonton
See Roads-Edmonton, 23rd Avenue/Calgary Trail intersection: Upgrading
- 24/7 medical care
See Medical care, 24-hour service re
- 75th anniversary celebrations, Alberta
See Alberta 75th anniversary celebrations
- 100th anniversary celebrations, Alberta
See 2005 Alberta centennial celebrations
- 2005 Alberta centennial celebrations
 [See also Centennial legacies grant program]
 Airdrie celebrations: Statement re ... Haley 1786
 Bonnyville celebrations ... Ducharme 1482
 Bonnyville celebrations: Statement re ... Ducharme 1714
 Busing of schoolchildren to ... Agnihotri 1724;
Zwozdesky 1725
 Centennial hockey game, Lloydminster, April 14, 2005:
 Premiers' wager re (SP331/05: Tabled) ... Klein 784;
Zwozdesky 784
 Commonwealth Stadium concert re ... Mar 1473
 Commonwealth Stadium concert re, payment of artists at ...
Blakeman 1477
 Communications re ... Klein 1100
 Funding for ... Agnihotri 1474, 1783; Blakeman 1477;
Brown 1482; Chase 1481; Ducharme 1482; Eggen 1478;
Mar 1473, 1479, 1783; Oberg 1085
 General remarks ... Agnihotri 305, 692; Chase 264;
Haley 1; Her Majesty 1617; Hinman 1273; Klein 3, 11,
 1099, 1617; Lindsay 955; Mar 692, 1472-73, 1484;
McClellan 747, 749-50; Speaker, The 1; Speech from the Throne 8
 Gifts to Canadians nation-wide (scholarships and artwork) ...
Ady 1738-39; Hancock 1738; Mar 1739
 Legacy of ... Blakeman 1477; McClellan 1479-80
 Legislature grounds concert re, September 1 ... Mar 1473,
 1479
 Replica of Famous Five statuette, to be housed in Legislature Building during ... Speaker, The 856
 Statement re ... Cao 1605
- 2005 resource rebates
See Resource rebates from budget surplus (2005)
- 1157268 Alberta Ltd.
 Hip and knee surgery contract ... Evans 1846;
MacDonald 1846
- AAA Cattle Company
 Feedlot expansion approval ... Boutilier 1027; Coutts 1027;
Swann 1027
- AACL
See Alberta Association for Community Living
- AADAC
See Alberta Alcohol and Drug Abuse Commission
- AAMDC
See Alberta Association of Municipal Districts and Counties
- AARN
See Alberta Association of Registered Nurses
- Abandoned well sites
See Well sites, Abandoned
- ABC Benefits Corporation
See Alberta Blue Cross Benefits Corporation
- ABC Benefits Corporation Act
 Amendment (Bill 26) ... McClellan 210
- Abduction of children-Calgary
 Police actions re ... Cenaiko 486-87; Lund 486; Pham 486
- Aboriginal Affairs and Northern Development, Department of See Dept. of Aboriginal Affairs and Northern Development
- Aboriginal apprenticeship training
See Apprenticeship training, Aboriginal people
- Aboriginal children, Welfare of
See Child welfare, Aboriginal children
- Aboriginal children-Education
 Funding for ... Zwozdesky 166, 1261, 1264
 General remarks ... Calahasen 839; Zwozdesky 123
- Aboriginal continuing education
See Education, Postsecondary, Aboriginal students
- Aboriginal court workers
 General remarks ... Stevens 1233
- Aboriginal courts
 Diversion provisions See Diversion (Aboriginal offenders)
 General remarks ... Miller, B. 1228; Stevens 1233
- Aboriginal diversion programs
See Diversion (Aboriginal offenders)
- Aboriginal economic development
 General remarks ... Calahasen 836, 844, 1781; Dunford 1008;
Tougas 838
 Kelowna first ministers' meeting consideration of funding for ... Calahasen 1829, 1912; Jablonski 1912
- Aboriginal employment training
See Employment training programs, Aboriginal peoples
- Aboriginal gambling
See Gambling-Aboriginal reserves
- Aboriginal health careers bursary
 General remarks ... Hancock 1883
- Aboriginal high school students
See High school students, Aboriginal
- Aboriginal issues
 First ministers' meeting re, Kelowna, November 2005 ...
Calahasen 1781, 1829, 1912; Jablonski 1829, 1912;
Tougas 1781

Aboriginal issues (Continued)

General remarks ... Bonko 843, 845; Calahasen 835–42, 844–45, 1781, 1829; Danyluk 836–37, 843, 844; Eggen 839–40; Hinman 841–42; Jablonski 1829; Speech from the Throne 9; Swann 844, 845; Tougas 837–38, 844, 1781

Aboriginal land claims

General remarks ... Calahasen 836, 1502–03; Tougas 1502–03
Traditional land-use studies re ... Calahasen 615, 836, 844, 1781

Aboriginal offenders

See Prisoners, Aboriginal

Aboriginal offenders' diversion programs

See Diversion (Aboriginal offenders)

Aboriginal participation in Royal visit

See Elizabeth II, Queen of Great Britain, Alberta visit, May 2005: First Nations participation

Aboriginal people and the judicial system

General remarks ... Miller, B. 1228; Pannu 1231; Stevens 1233

Aboriginal peoples

Federal policies re ... Cardinal 1133, 1141
General remarks ... Her Majesty 1617; Speech from the Throne 8

Aboriginal peoples—Education

General remarks ... Calahasen 839
Kelowna first ministers' meeting consideration of funding for ... Calahasen 1829, 1912; Jablonski 1912

Aboriginal peoples—Employment

General remarks ... Backs 279, 1131; Blakeman 1139; Cardinal 281, 1131, 1132–33; Knight 1450

Aboriginal peoples—Health care

Kelowna first ministers' meeting consideration of funding for ... Calahasen 1829, 1912; Jablonski 1912

Aboriginal peoples—Housing

General remarks ... Calahasen 841; Eggen 840
Kelowna first ministers' meeting consideration of funding for ... Calahasen 1829, 1912; Jablonski 1912

Aboriginal peoples—Self-government

General remarks ... Calahasen 836

Aboriginal peoples—Urban areas

General remarks ... Calahasen 835, 836, 838–39; Eggen 840; Tougas 838

Aboriginal peoples—Urban areas—Calgary

General remarks ... Calahasen 838

Aboriginal peoples—Urban areas—Edmonton

General remarks ... Calahasen 838; Tougas 838

Aboriginal peoples—Urban areas—Lethbridge

General remarks ... Calahasen 838–39

Aboriginal peoples/energy industry issues

See Energy industry—Crown lands, Aboriginal issues re

Aboriginal police services

General remarks ... Cenaiko 768, 1428; Ducharme 768

Aboriginal policy framework

General remarks ... Calahasen 835, 836; Flaherty 874; Stevens 1233

Aboriginal policy initiative

General remarks ... Calahasen 836, 839, 845; Cenaiko 1428

Aboriginal postsecondary graduates

See Postsecondary graduates, Aboriginal

Aboriginal prisoners

See Prisoners, Aboriginal

Aboriginal self-government

See Aboriginal peoples—Self-government

Aboriginal skills development program

See Employment training programs, Aboriginal peoples

Aboriginal teachers

See Teachers, Aboriginal

Aboriginal traffic accident injuries

See Traffic accident injuries—Aboriginal communities

Aboriginal Urban Affairs Committee, Calgary

See Calgary Aboriginal Urban Affairs Committee

Aboriginal Urban Affairs Committee, Edmonton

See Edmonton Aboriginal Urban Affairs Committee

Aboriginal Women, Institute for the Advancement of

See Institute for the Advancement of Aboriginal Women

Aboriginal women, Violence against

See Violence against women, Aboriginal women

Aboriginal workforce participation initiative

General remarks ... Knight 1450
Statement re ... Knight 294

Abortion—Edmonton

Provision by private clinic only ... Evans 853; Pannu 853

Abortion—Rural areas

General remarks ... Evans 853; Pannu 853

ABSA

See Alberta Boilers Safety Association

Abuse of children—Prevention

See Child abuse—Prevention

Abusers, Spousal

See Spousal abusers

Academic council model (Colleges and technical institutes)

See Technical schools, Governance structure, academic council model, legislation re (Bill 55); Universities and colleges, Governance structure, academic council model, legislation re (Bill 55)

Academic high school construction

See High schools—Construction—Edmonton, South Edmonton academic school construction

ACAT

See Alberta Council on Admissions and Transfer

Access Advisory Council (Postsecondary educational institutions)

Appointment process re ... Pannu 873

Access and privacy branch (Dept. of Government Services)

See Dept. of Government Services, Access and privacy branch

Access Growth Fund (Postsecondary education)

[See also Education, Postsecondary—Finance]
General remarks ... Hancock 277, 278, 859, 860, 862, 981

Access to information law

See Freedom of Information and Protection of Privacy Act

Access to postsecondary educational institutions

See under Education, Postsecondary

Access to public lands

See Public lands, Access to

Access to the Future Act (Bill 1)

First reading ... Klein 11

Second reading ... Agnihotri 390–91; Backs 225–26; Blakeman 234–35, 393; Cao 396; Chase 236–38; Eggen 154–55; Elsalhy 223–25; Flaherty 236; Hancock 150–52, 222, 224, 391; Hinman 227–228, 396–97; Johnson 223; Lukaszuk 224; MacDonald 226–227; Mason 393–95, 396; Mather 219–220; Miller, B. 221–23; Miller, R. 391–93; Oberle 224–25; Pannu 232–34; Pastoor 395–96; Snelgrove 222; Swann 218–219; Taft 389–90; Taylor 152–54; Tougas 220–221

Committee ... Abbott 895; Blakeman 728–29, 892–93; Brown 1069; Hancock 728, 732–33, 1064, 1066–69; Martin 893–94; Mather 565, 893; Miller, R. 565, 729–30; Pannu 565–66, 1064–69; Pastoor 894, 1064; Renner 895; Taft 566; Taylor 564–65, 730–32, 894–95, 1065–67

Third reading ... Hancock 1237, 1242; Morton 1238–40; Pannu 1240–42; Taylor 1237–38

Royal Assent ... Lieutenant Governor 10 May, 2005 (Outside of House sittings)

Advisory council appointment process ... Pannu 873

Amendment A1 (SP271 & 313/05: Tabled) ... Abbott 567; Deputy Chair 728; Hancock 868, 870–71; Oberle 733; Taylor 564, 862, 870

Amendment A2 (SP314 & 343/05: Tabled) ... Abbott 895; Chair 892; Oberle 733; Taylor 731

Amendment A3 (SP344 & 367/05: Tabled) ... Abbott 895; Brown 1069; Hancock 1064; Taylor 894

Amendment A4 (SP368/05: Tabled) ... Brown 1069; Pannu 1065

Amendment A5 (withdrawn) (SP369/05: Tabled) ... Brown 1069; Pannu 1067

Amendment A6 (SP370/05: Tabled) ... Brown 1069; Pannu 1068

Cap on contributions to ... Hancock 870–71; Taylor 862–63, 870

Four amendments (SP371/05: Tabled) ... Brown 1069; Taylor 1065

General remarks ... Hancock 864, 868, 871, 1079, 1738, 2014; Mather 302; Pannu 259; Prins 2014; Speech from the Throne 9; Taylor 767, 1079

Access to the Future Fund

[See also Education, Postsecondary–Finance; Endowment funds, Public]

Establishment of ... Klein 11; Speech from the Throne 9

General remarks ... Blakeman 866; Doerksen 1375, 1377; Eggen 1374; Hancock 20, 859, 865, 867–68, 869, 870–71, 1078–79, 1790, 1791, 1792, 1795; Klein 767; Knight 900–01; McClellan 748, 901, 958; Taylor 20, 261, 767, 862–63, 870, 1078–79, 1791

Role re centre for Chinese studies ... Hancock 946–47

Accessibility of buildings to the disabled

See Architecture and the disabled

Accident injuries, Traffic

See Traffic accident injuries

Accidents, Traffic–Prevention

See Traffic accidents–Prevention

Accidents, Workplace

See Workplace accidents

Acclaim Energy Inc.

Acheson gas well failure, Edmonton ... Eggen 575; Melchin 575, 1828; Swann 1828

Accountability, Government

See Government accountability

Accountants Association of Alberta, Certified General

See Certified General Accountants Association of Alberta

Accreditation Board, Private Colleges

See Private Colleges Accreditation Board

Accreditation of daycare centre employees

See Daycare centres–Employees, Accreditation program for Accreditation of universities and colleges

See Universities and colleges–Accreditation

Accredited agencies, Authorized

See Authorized accredited agencies

ACFA

See Alberta Capital Finance Authority

Acheson gas well failure, Edmonton

See Acclaim Energy Inc., Acheson gas well failure, Edmonton

Achievement tests

See Student testing, Achievement tests

Active living strategy

Funding for ... Agnihotri 1474; Mar 1476

Activity, Physical–Teaching

See Physical fitness–Teaching

Adamson, Mr. Seabron (Enron consultant)

See Enron Canada Corporation, Electricity price manipulation scheme (Project Stanley): Adamson report on

Addictions Awareness Week, National

See National Addictions Awareness Week

Addictions treatment for youth

See Substance abuse–Treatment–Youth

Addictive gambling

See Gambling, Compulsive

Adjournment of the Legislature

See Legislative Assembly of Alberta–Adjournment Administrative Procedures Amendment Act, 2005 (Bill 23)

First reading ... Stevens 170

Second reading ... Eggen 679; Miller, B. 678–79; Morton 679; Stevens 354–56

Committee ... Miller, B. 718; Pannu 719

Third reading ... Hancock 942; MacDonald 942–43; Stevens 942

Royal Assent ... Lieutenant Governor 10 May, 2005 (Outside of House sitting)

General remarks ... Miller, B. 1228

Administrative tribunals

General remarks ... Miller, B. 1228

Administrator of the Province of Alberta

Role in Edmonton–Castle Downs election determination: Letter to the Speaker re (SP4/05: Tabled) ... Speaker, The 26; Taft 26

Role of, authority for: Letter to the Speaker re, response to (SP201/05: Tabled) ... Stevens 370

Role of, authority for: Letter to the Speaker re (SP4/05: Tabled) ... Speaker, The 26; Taft 26

Admissions and Transfer, Alberta Council on

See Alberta Council on Admissions and Transfer

Admissions to postsecondary educational institutions

See Postsecondary educational institutions–Admissions (enrollment)

- Adolescent psychiatric care
See Mental health services—Children
- Adscam
See Sponsorship scandal (Federal government)
- Adult Health Benefit (Human Resources program)
See Alberta Adult Health Benefit (Human Resources program)
- Adult learning
See Education, Postsecondary
- Adult learning councils
See Community learning centres
- Adults in care—Protection
See Social services recipients—Protection
- Advanced Coronary Treatment (ACT) Foundation of Canada
 High school CPR program, Statement re ... Johnson 535
- Advanced education
See Education, Postsecondary
- Advanced education—Finance
See Education, Postsecondary—Finance
- Advanced Education department
See Dept. of Advanced Education
- Advanced education review
See Education, Postsecondary, Access to, affordability review to improve
- Advanced technology
See Research and development
- Advancing futures bursary program
 Funding for ... Forsyth 1052, 1062
 General remarks ... Hancock 1883
- Advisory committee on retail electricity business
See Utilities Consumer Advocate, Advisory committee re: Report on retail electricity business
- Advisory Council on Health, Premier's
See Premier's Advisory Council on Health
- Advocate, Children's
See Children's Advocate
- Advocate, Mental Health Patient
See Mental Health Patient Advocate
- AEDA
See Alberta Economic Development Authority
- AEUB
See Alberta Energy and Utilities Board
- Affordability review of postsecondary education
See Education, Postsecondary, Access to, affordability review to improve
- Affordable housing
See Social housing
- Affordable Housing Program, Canada/Alberta
See Canada/Alberta Affordable Housing Program
- Afghanistan conflict, soldier's death in See Canadian armed forces, Service in Afghanistan: Prayer/condolences for death re
- AFSC
See Agriculture Financial Services Corporation
- After school care
See Child care after school
- Ag offices, Rural
See Dept. of Agriculture, Food and Rural Development, Rural offices closure
- Ag policy framework
See Agricultural policy framework (Federal/provincial)
- Ag service boards
See Agriculture service boards
- Ag societies
See Agricultural societies
- Age and employment
 General remarks ... Bucks 1131–32
- Age Care Ltd.
 Board of directors ... Blakeman 460; Evans 460
 Partnership with Calgary health region re long-term care facilities ... Blakeman 460; Evans 460
- Age verification of slaughter cattle
See Cattle, Age verification system re
- Agencies, boards, and commissions, Government
See Government agencies, boards, and commissions
- Agencies, Non-profit social services
See Social services agencies (Non-profit)
- Aging in place housing (Seniors)
See Seniors' supportive housing incentive program
- Aging in place housing (Seniors)—East Central Health region
See Seniors' supportive housing incentive program—East Central Health region
- Agribusiness
 Provincial assistance to ... Martin 1212
 Statement re ... Cao 1032
- Agricultural bioproducts industry
 General remarks ... Doerksen 1369
- Agricultural exports
See Farm produce—Export
- Agricultural land
 Assessment level of See Assessment—Agricultural land, Level of Carbon absorption properties See Soils, Carbon absorption properties
- Agricultural legacy endowment fund, Walter Paszkowski
See Walter Paszkowski agricultural legacy endowment fund
- Agricultural policy framework (Federal/provincial)
 General remarks ... Horner 488, 1222
- Agricultural Products Marketing Council
See Alberta Agricultural Products Marketing Council
- Agricultural programs
See Bovine spongiform encephalopathy, New assistance programs re (2005); Calf set-aside program; Canadian agriculture income stabilization program; Farm Fuel Distribution Allowance; Farm income disaster program (Alberta); Farm Income Payment Program (Federal); Fed cattle set-aside program; Net income stabilization account (Farm income program)
- Agricultural research
See Agriculture—Research
- Agricultural research and innovation strategic framework
See Agriculture Research and Innovation Strategic Framework
- Agricultural Research Institute
See Alberta Agricultural Research Institute
- Agricultural Safety Week, Canadian
See Canadian Agricultural Safety Week
- Agricultural sinks
See Carbon dioxide sinks

- Agricultural societies
 Insurance costs for ... McClellan 965, 1031
 Lottery funding ... Graydon 124, 534
- Agricultural value-added production
See Food industry and trade
- Agricultural wastes
 Conversion to fuel source ... Horner 1222
- Agricultural workers
 Status under Charter of Rights: Petition tabled re (SP508/05) ... Eggen 1608
- Agriculture
 General remarks ... Horner 1206–07
 Government assistance programs ... Danyluk 1624–25; Horner 119–20, 122, 488, 1210, 1214, 1624–25; Martin 1212; Marz 488; McClellan 749; McFarland 122; Mitzel 119; Speech from the Throne 9
 Government assistance programs: Federal involvement ... Hinman 1851
 Statement re ... Cao 1032; Goudreau 1080
- Agriculture, Food and Rural Development, Dept. of
See Dept. of Agriculture, Food and Rural Development
- Agriculture–Environmental aspects
 General remarks ... Horner 1222; Swann 1221
- Agriculture–Research
 Funding ... Horner 1207
 General remarks ... Doerksen 1390; Horner 1389–90; Johnson 1389–90
 Strategic framework re See Agriculture Research and Innovation Strategic Framework
- Agriculture Financial Services Corporation
 Advertising costs ... Horner 1211; MacDonald 1208
 Annual report, 2003–04 (SP66/05: Tabled) ... Clerk, The 94; Horner 94
 Annual report, 2004–05 (SP587 & 664/05: Tabled) ... Clerk, The 1675, 1789; Horner 1675, 1789
 CAIS program ... Horner 122, 298, 367, 488
 Debt servicing costs ... MacDonald 1209
 General remarks ... Horner 1220, 1221
 Governance issues ... MacDonald 1208, 1209
 Risk management tools ... Oberle 698
 Role of ... Horner 1210–11; MacDonald 1208
- Agriculture income stabilization program, Canadian
See Canadian agriculture income stabilization program
- Agriculture ministers' meeting (Federal/provincial/territorial), Alberta (July 2005)
 CAIS program discussions ... Horner 1215
 General remarks ... Horner 119, 122
- Agriculture Research and Innovation Strategic Framework
 General remarks ... Hinman 1218; Horner 1207
- Agriculture research institute
See Alberta Agricultural Research Institute
- Agriculture service boards
 Funding ... Horner 1207
- Agri-fibre-based product development
See Agricultural bioproducts industry
- Agri-food production
See Food industry and trade
- Agrology Profession Act (Bill 17)
 First reading ... Danyluk 128
 Second reading ... Danyluk 194
 Committee ... Backs 557–58; Bonko 557–58; Danyluk 557–58
- Agrology Profession Act (Bill 17) (Continued)
 Third reading ... Backs 1513; Danyluk 1513; Knight 1513
 Royal Assent ... Lieutenant Governor 2 June, 2005 (Outside of House sittings)
- AHCIP–Premiums
See Alberta Health Care Insurance Plan–Premiums
- AHFMR
See Alberta Heritage Foundation for Medical Research
- AHFSER
See Alberta Heritage Foundation for Science and Engineering Research
- AHSTF
See Alberta Heritage Savings Trust Fund
- AHSTF, Standing Committee on
See Committee on the Alberta Heritage Savings Trust Fund, Standing
- AIDS Day, World
See World AIDS Day
- Aids to Daily Living
See Alberta Aids to Daily Living
- AIMS
See International trade, Alberta strategy re
- Air Access Network of Alberta, Commuter
See Commuter Air Access Network of Alberta
- Air ambulance service
See Ambulance service, Aerial
- Air India
 Bombing of flight 182, June 23, 1985: Public inquiry into ... Mason 462
 Bombing of flight 182, June 23, 1985: Statement re ... Mason 462
- Air pollution–Alberta
 Fact sheet re (SP601/05: Tabled) ... Eggen 1716
- Air quality
 General remarks ... Boutilier 1046
- Air quality–Monitoring
 Toxic waste fires situations ... Boutilier 1335–36, 1337–38; Eggen 1337–38; Lougheed 1335–36
- Air quality–Standards
 General remarks ... Eggen 1041
- Air tankers (Water bombers)
 Fees for airport use by ... Coutts 937; Oberle 936
 Upgrading of ... Bonko 928; Coutts 927
 Upgrading of bases for ... Coutts 927
- Aircraft, Government
See Government aircraft
- Aircraft, Government chartered
See Government chartered aircraft
- Airline company failures
 Consumer insurance plan for ... DeLong 204; Lund 204
- Airline industry
 Government incentives to ... Oberg 1391; Rogers 1391
- Airport, Edmonton City Centre
See Edmonton City Centre Airport
- Airport, Edmonton International
See Edmonton International Airport
- Airport authorities
 Independence of ... Oberg 362
 Rent paid to federal government ... Danyluk 362; Oberg 362, 1390–91; Rogers 1390–91
- Airport Authority, Calgary
See Calgary Airport Authority

Airport vicinity protection area discussions

See Edmonton International Airport, Airport vicinity protection area discussions

Airports—Northern Alberta

Employment opportunities re ... Cardinal 1138
Review of fees at, for water bomber fleet ... Coutts 937;
Oberle 936

Airports Authority, Edmonton

See Edmonton Regional Airports Authority

AISH

See Assured Income for the Severely Handicapped

AISI

See Alberta initiative for school improvement

Al-Pac

See Alberta-Pacific Forest Industries Inc.

Alaska-Alberta Bilateral Council

See Alberta-Alaska Bilateral Council

Alaska Maritime National Wildlife Refuge

Drilling in ... Brown 1188; Stelmach 1188

Alaska permanent fund

General remarks ... Elsalhy 966; McClellan 967

Alberta

Statement re ... Cao 857; Speaker, The 1617

Alberta—Economic conditions

General remarks ... Agnihotri 1141

Alberta—Economic policy

[See also Budget Address]

20-year strategic plan ... Dunford 1007; Hancock 20, 48, 859, 868–69, 1571; Johnson 1673; Klein 1099; Knight 901; McClellan 747; Zwozdesky 1260
General remarks ... Speech from the Throne 8–10

Alberta—Foreign policy

Development of ... Pannu 415; Stelmach 415

Alberta—History

General remarks ... Her Majesty 1617–18; Speech from the Throne 8

Alberta 75th anniversary celebrations

Legacy of ... Blakeman 1477; Chase 1481; Eggen 1478

Alberta 2005 resource rebates

See Resource rebates from budget surplus (2005)

Alberta Act (Federal government)

Amendment of, re municipal government authority ... Taft 1321

Alberta Adult Health Benefit (Human Resources program)

General remarks ... Backs 278; Cardinal 278, 1129

Alberta Advantage

Letter re (SP493/05: Tabled) ... Martin 1579

Alberta Advisory Council on Electricity

Electricity exports recommendation ... Eggen 1306; Melchin 1306

Alberta Agricultural Products Marketing Council

Annual report, 2002–03 (SP665/05: Tabled) ... Clerk, The 1789; Horner 1789

Alberta agricultural research and innovation strategic framework

See Agriculture Research and Innovation Strategic Framework

Alberta Agricultural Research Institute

Annual reports ... Elsalhy 1370
General remarks ... Eggen 1373

Alberta Aids to Daily Living

Breast prosthesis inclusion under: Petition tabled re (SP306/05) ... Speaker, The 699; VanderBurg 699

Alberta Aids to Daily Living (Continued)

General remarks ... Fritz 877, 878, 879, 887, 890
Hearing aid coverage for seniors ... Fritz 163
Jurisdiction re long-term care residents' treatment ... Evans 613
Staff assistance under ... Hinman 888

Alberta-Alaska Bilateral Council

Alberta membership in ... Calahasen 836

Alberta Alcohol and Drug Abuse Commission

Addictions treatment programs, funding for ... Evans 1458
Annual report, 2003–04 (SP173/05: Tabled) ... Rodney 326
Annual report, 2004–05 (SP649/05: Tabled) ... Rodney 1788
Chimo Healing Home (youth addictions treatment program) ... Forsyth 23
Fetal alcohol spectrum disorder program ... Evans 271
Funding ... Evans 1458
Gambling addiction programs ... Chase 1284; Graydon 487, 1281; Pannu 1285, 1286; Rodney 1787
Gambling research ... Graydon 1286
Henwood facility, replacement of ... Oberg 1800
Leased facilities costs ... Oberg 1800
Lottery funding for ... Graydon 1286; Pannu 1285
Smoking prevention programs ... Rodney 1577, 1787
Statement re ... Rodney 1787
Youth gambling addiction survey ... Evans 741
Youth substance abuse treatment programs ... Evans 23, 267, 1669, 1670, 2048; Flaherty 266–67; Forsyth 799; Mather 799; Rodney 804, 1787
Youth substance abuse treatment programs, letter re (SP607/05: Tabled) ... Agnihotri 1716–17

Alberta Alliance Party

Caucus research and secretarial funding request ... Hinman 262
Member of, participation in Question Period ... Blakeman 54; Hancock 56, 57; Hinman 55–56; Speaker, The 16, 90
Payment of senators-in-waiting speaking tour costs ... Eggen 695; Ouellette 695

Alberta Apprenticeship and Industry Training Board

Annual report, 2003–04 (SP292/05: Tabled) ... Clerk, The 623; Hancock 623
Annual report, 2004–05 (SP733/05: Tabled) ... Clerk, The 1920; Hancock 1920
Ratio of journeymen to apprentices ... Cardinal 1138; Martin 1136
Ratio of journeymen to apprentices, review of ... Hancock 980

Alberta Association for Community Living

General remarks ... Zwozdesky 311

Alberta Association of Architects

Annual report, 2004 (SP447/05: Tabled) ... Cardinal 1508; Clerk, The 1508

Alberta Association of Chiefs of Police

General remarks ... Cenaiko 574

Alberta Association of Former MLAs Act (Bill 47)

First reading ... Johnson 1631
Second reading ... Abbott 1643–44; Agnihotri 1643; Blakeman 1640–42; Cao 1646–47; Eggen 1645–46; Elsalhy 1644–45; Johnson 1639–40; Miller, R. 1643, 1645; Pastoor 1647; Shariff 1642–43

Alberta Association of Former MLAs Act (Bill 47)(Continued)

Committee ... Chase 2001, 2003–05; Elsalhy 1905–06; Flaherty 2001; Hinman 2001–05; Johnson 1905, 2001–05; Miller, R. 2001; Pastoor 2002–04; Stevens 2003–04; Swann 2002–04

Third reading ... Chase 2026; Hinman 2026; Johnson 2025–26; Swann 2026

Royal Assent ... Lieutenant Governor of Alberta 2057
Amendment A1 (SP716 & 767/05: Tabled) ... Brown 1906; Chair 2001; Elsalhy 1906; Haley 2005

Amendment A2 (SP768/05: Tabled) ... Haley 2005; Swann 2002

Amendment A3 (SP769/05: Tabled) ... Haley 2005; Swann 2003

Amendment A4 (SP770/05: Tabled) ... Haley 2005; Pastoor 2004

Amendment A5 (SP771/05: Tabled) ... Chase 2005; Elsalhy 2005; Haley 2005

Supercedes similar Bill 207 ... Speaker, The 1789

Alberta Association of Former M.L.A.s Act (Bill 207)

First reading ... Johnson 984

Not proceeded with (withdrawn from Order Paper) ... Speaker, The 1789

Alberta Association of Municipal Districts and Counties

Federal gasoline tax revenue discussions ... Oberg 852

Municipal excellence program See Municipal excellence program

Municipal Government Act review discussions ... Martin 1325

Police funding discussions with provincial government ... Cenaiko 1250, 1432

Representation on Rural Development Strategy Task Force ... Horner 1221

Alberta Association of Police Governance

General remarks ... Cenaiko 574

Alberta Association of Registered Nurses

Annual report, 2003–04 (SP609/05: Tabled) ... Clerk, The 1717; Evans 1717

General remarks ... Evans 271

Alberta Association of Registered Occupational Therapists

Annual report, 2004–05 (SP763/05: Tabled) ... Clerk, The 1971; Evans 1971

Alberta Association of Sexual Assault Centres

Core services for survivors ... Blakeman 1060

Funding for ... Forsyth 1062

General remarks ... Cenaiko 1438

Alberta Automobile Insurance Board

[See also under new name Automobile Insurance Rate Board]

Annual report, 2003 (SP69/05: Tabled) ... Clerk, The 94; McClellan 94

Alberta Beef Producers

Check-off fees ... Hinman 1218; Horner 1220

General remarks ... Horner 290, 299, 300, 949, 1210, 1215, 1498

Alberta Blue Cross Benefits Corporation

Change in tax-exempt status: Legislation re (Bill 26) ... McClellan 210

Alberta Blue Cross Plan

Drug coverage ... Stelmach 1189

Nongroup benefits, provincial funding for ... Blakeman 1464; Evans 1458, 1465

Seniors' drug benefits ... Evans 1458; Fritz 164, 877, 887

Alberta Boilers Safety Association

Annual report, 2004 (SP642/05: Tabled) ... Clerk, The 1746; Renner 1746

Alberta/British Columbia accord

General remarks ... Calahasen 836

Alberta/British Columbia joint cabinet meeting, March 2005

B.C. ports strategy discussion at ... Dunford 319; Knight 319

Mountain pine bark beetle infestation discussions ... Coutts 740

Alberta/British Columbia relations

General remarks ... Stelmach 1180, 1183

Alberta Building Trades Council

Reaction to division 8 designation for oil sands projects construction ... Mason 209

Alberta/Canada infrastructure program

See Infrastructure Canada/Alberta Program

Alberta Cancer Board

Annual report, 2003–04 (SP142/05: Tabled) ... Evans 252

Annual report, 2004–05 (SP626/05: Tabled) ... Clerk, The 1717; Evans 1717

Funding ... Evans 271, 1458

Funding increase for ... Blakeman 1028; Evans 1028; McClellan 748

Locating of facility at new south Calgary hospital ... Evans 274

Alberta Capital Finance Authority

Annual report, 2004 (SP67/05: Tabled) ... Clerk, The 94; McClellan 94

Loan interest rate ... Hinman 900; McClellan 900

Alberta Career Computer Center Inc.

Letter to ND member from solicitors for (SP509/05: Tabled) ... Pannu 1608

Alberta centennial celebrations

See 2005 Alberta centennial celebrations

Alberta Centennial Education Savings Plan

Children born before 2005 exclusion from ... Hancock 47–48; Herard 47–48

General remarks ... Hancock 277, 278, 859; Mar 1473

Alberta Centennial Education Savings Plan Amendment Act, 2005 (Bill 54)

First reading ... Hancock 1890

Second reading ... Hancock 1950, 1952; Miller, R. 1950–51; Pannu 1951–52

Committee ... Taylor 1979

Third reading ... Hancock 2028; Pannu 2029; Taylor 2029

Royal Assent ... Lieutenant Governor of Alberta 2057

Alberta Centennial Medal Act (Bill 2)

First reading ... Mar 51

Second reading ... Agnihotri 238–39; Flaherty 239; Mar 238, 240; Pannu 239–40

Committee ... Eggen 354; Mar 354; Miller, R. 354

Third reading ... Agnihotri 439; Hinman 439; Mar 439; Pannu 439

Royal Assent ... Lieutenant Governor of Alberta 465

Alberta Centennial Medal Amendment Act, 2005 (Bill 58)

First reading ... Mar 1919

Second reading ... Eggen 1973; Hancock 1973; Mar 1973–74; Taylor 1973

Committee ... Blakeman 1976; Mar 1976–77; Martin 1977

- Alberta Centennial Medal Amendment Act, 2005 (Bill 58) (Continued)
 Third reading ... Chase 2032; Mar 2032
 Royal Assent ... Lieutenant Governor of Alberta 2058
- Alberta centennial medallions
See Centennial medallions
- Alberta Centennial Multicultural Gala Night, Calgary
 Statement re ... Chase 775
- Alberta centennial salute for sport and recreation
 Statement re ... Abbott 2054
- Alberta Centennial Scholarship Program
 [See also Scholarships]
 Nation-wide program ... Ady 1738; Hancock 1738;
Hinman 1805
- Alberta Centennial World Cup Cross Country competition, Canmore (December 2005)
 Funding for ... Mar 1473
 General remarks ... Graydon 305; Pannu 305
 Statement re ... Tarchuk 1888
- Alberta Centre for Child, Family and Community Research
 Funding ... Forsyth 1052
- Alberta child health benefits program
See Child health benefits program
- Alberta Children and Youth Initiative
 General remarks ... Backs 279–80
 Sexual exploitation initiative ... Cenaiko 1433
- Alberta Children's Hospital
 Former hospital: Renovations to ... Evans 1839
 New hospital ... Chase 1467–68
 New hospital: Funding for ... Evans 1458; McClellan 748; Oberg 1086
 New hospital: Opening of ... Oberg 1309
 New hospital: Road access ... Chase 364; Oberg 364
 New hospital: Road access, letters re (SP127-128, 150, 182-184, 240, 300-301/05: Tabled) ... Chase 210, 253, 327, 463, 653
- Alberta Cities Transportation Partnership program
 General remarks ... Oberg 1085
- Alberta College of Art and Design
 2005 convocation ceremony program (SP491/05: Tabled) ... Chase 1579
 Downtown campus site ... Hancock 796–97
 Infrastructure needs ... Chase 796; Hancock 796
- Alberta College of Denturists
See College of Alberta Denturists
- Alberta College of Medical Laboratory Technologists
 Annual report, 2003 (SP96/05: Tabled) ... Evans 128
 Annual report, 2004 (SP764/05: Tabled) ... Clerk, The 1971; Evans 1971
- Alberta College of Optometrists
 Annual report, 2003 (SP95/05: Tabled) ... Evans 128
 Annual report, 2004 (SP615/05: Tabled) ... Clerk, The 1717; Evans 1717
- Alberta College of Pharmacists
 Annual report, 2003 (SP94/05: Tabled) ... Evans 128
 Annual report, 2004-05 (SP612/05: Tabled) ... Clerk, The 1717; Evans 1717
 Standards for pharmacy services: Legislation re (Bill 38) ... Ady 491
- Alberta College of Physicians and Surgeons
See College of Physicians and Surgeons of Alberta
- Alberta College of Social Workers
 Annual report, 2003 (SP216/05: Tabled) ... Clerk, The 370; Evans 370
 Annual report, 2004 (SP688/05: Tabled) ... Clerk, The 1838; Evans 1838
- Alberta College of Speech-Language Pathologists and Audiologists
 Annual report, 2003 (SP97/05: Tabled) ... Evans 128
 Annual report, 2004 (SP614/05: Tabled) ... Clerk, The 1717; Evans 1717
- Alberta Commission on Energy Efficiency Act (Bill 211)
 First reading ... Eggen 1890–91
- Alberta Connects (Government information initiative)
 [See also Government information, Access to]
 General remarks ... Klein 1101
- Alberta Conservation Association
 Funding for, from fishing licences ... Coutts 855; Jablonski 855
- Alberta Construction Association
 Labour supply survey ... Martin 1137
- Alberta Corporate Service Centre
 General remarks ... Ouellette 752, 755, 756, 757, 758, 761, 763
 Sole-source contracts: Auditor General's comments re ... Elsalhy 619; MacDonald 760; Ouellette 619, 761
 Transfer to Dept. of Restructuring and Government Efficiency ... Elsalhy 1417; Lund 1418, 1420; Ouellette 244, 751
- Alberta Council of Women's Shelters
 Shelter statistics ... Blakeman 1061; Mather 1055
- Alberta Council on Admissions and Transfer
 General remarks ... Hancock 1796
 Mount Royal College issue ... Hancock 864; Taylor 862
- Alberta Criminal Intelligence Service
See Criminal Intelligence Service Alberta
- Alberta Dental Assistants Association
 Annual report, 2003 and 2004 (SP761-762/05: Tabled) ... Clerk, The 1971; Evans 1971
- Alberta Dental Association and College
 Annual report, 2004 (SP211 & 683/05: Tabled) ... Clerk, The 1838; Evans 370, 1838
 General remarks ... Fritz 951
 Radiation health and safety program annual report, 2003 (SP452/05: Tabled) ... Cardinal 1508; Clerk, The 1508
 Radiation health and safety program annual report, 2004 (SP658/05: Tabled) ... Cardinal 1789; Clerk, The 1789
- Alberta Dental Hygienists' Association
 Annual report, 2003 (SP213/05: Tabled) ... Clerk, The 370; Evans 370
 Annual report, 2004 (SP611/05: Tabled) ... Clerk, The 1717; Evans 1717
- Alberta Disability Strategy
 General remarks ... Blakeman 880–81
- Alberta Disaster Services
See Emergency Management Alberta
- Alberta Drug Strategy
 General remarks ... Rodney 1787
- Alberta Economic Development Authority
 Annual report, 2003-04 (SP280 & 485/05: Tabled) ... Dunford 622, 1578
 Report on mega projects See Mega Project Excellence: Preparing for Alberta's Legacy, An Action Plan (Report)

Alberta Electric System Operator

- Electric power lines, 10-year plan re ... Melchin 1831
- Electricity price manipulation scheme concerns ...
Melchin 360, 796, 899; Taft 360, 796, 899
- Electricity supply study ... MacDonald 911–12
- Markets & Strategic Initiatives report (SP191/05: Tabled) ... MacDonald 327

Alberta electronic health record

See Medical records, Electronic

Alberta Elevating Devices and Amusement Rides Safety Association

- Annual report, 2004-05 (SP643/05: Tabled) ... Clerk, The 1746; Renner 1746

Alberta Endangered Species Conservation Committee

See Endangered Species Conservation Committee

Alberta Energy and Utilities Board

- Canadian Natural Resources pipeline leak ... Boutilier 1448; Melchin 1447–48; Swann 1447–48
- Coal-bed methane extraction impact ... Melchin 1201–02; Swann 1201
- Coal bed methane well applications approved by, 2001-04 (M6/05: Defeated) ... Eggen 664; Melchin 664; Zwozdesky 664
- Coal bed methane well applications denied by, 2001-04 (M5/05: Defeated) ... Eggen 664; Melchin 664; Zwozdesky 664
- Coal-bed methane well drilling requirements ... Bonko 1075; Horner 1075
- Drilling applications on Lubicon claimed lands, review of ... Bonko 843, 951; Boutilier 615, 902–03; Calahasen 1503; Eggen 902–03; Melchin 615, 643, 802, 951; Stevens 486; Swann 615, 643, 802; Tougas 838, 1502–03
- Edmonton/Calgary transmission line upgrade application, approval of ... Lindsay 903–04; Melchin 904, 1447
- Electricity price overcharging advisory ... MacDonald 949; Melchin 949
- Electricity prices monitoring ... Lund 1420; Melchin 1913
- Electricity transmission projects applications ... Melchin 649, 1447, 1831
- Emergency response plan update for upstream oil industry incidents ... Renner 207
- Enforcement policy changes ... Eggen 575, 1033; Melchin 575
- Enforcement policy changes: EUB bulletin re (SP275/05: Tabled) ... Eggen 579
- Enforcement policy changes: News release re (SP274/05: Tabled) ... Eggen 579
- Engage Energy electricity overcharging: Decision re (SP129/05: Tabled) ... MacDonald 211
- Funding for ... Chase 1048; Melchin 910
- Gas well applications approved by, 2001-04 (M10/05: Defeated) ... Eggen 665–66; Melchin 666; Zwozdesky 666
- Gas well applications denied by, 2001-04 (M9/05: Defeated) ... Eggen 665; Melchin 665; Zwozdesky 665
- Grid West membership (SP382/05: Tabled) ... MacDonald 1154
- Guide 56, well licence application ... Bonko 951

Alberta Energy and Utilities Board (Continued)

- Guide 56, well licence application (SP352/05: Tabled) ... Bonko 957
- Informational letter IL2001-5 (well site preparation prior to licence issuing) ... Bonko 951
- Informational letter IL2001-5 (well site preparation prior to licence issuing) (SP351/05: Tabled) ... Bonko 957
- Kidzone website ... Eggen 915
- Oil/gas sites reclamation costs, prevention of disclosure re, under FOIP law ... Melchin 1519; Swann 1519
- Role in handling of chemical vapour pressure release by Shell chemical plant ... Boutilier 162; Renner 207
- Role of ... Boutilier 1049; Chase 1048
- Sour gas recommendations ... Melchin 741–42, 910, 1828; Swann 1828
- Sour gas well hearings (Compton Petroleum), Calgary area ... Melchin 1391, 1828; Swann 1391, 1828
- Sour gas well leak, Innisfail area, reported to ... Melchin 1741–42, 1828; Swann 1741, 1828
- Staff ... Melchin 913
- Standards for reclamation of abandoned well sites ... Boutilier 166
- TransAlta hydropower pricing strategy ... MacDonald 363, 488; Melchin 363–64, 488
- TransAlta power pricing activities ... MacDonald 455; Melchin 455
- Utilities Consumer Advocate's presentations to ... Lund 1416

Alberta Energy Research Institute

- Annual reports ... Elsalhy 1370
- EnergyINet initiative ... Doerksen 292, 1369
- General remarks ... Doerksen 1887; Eggen 1373
- Public/private research arrangements ... Eggen 1373

Alberta Environmental Protection Commission

See Environmental Protection Commission

Alberta family employment tax credit

- Improvement of ... Klein 768; McClellan 749
- Improvement of: Legislation re (Bill 40) ... McClellan 1034

Alberta Federation of Labour

- News release re LRB involvement in drafting collective bargaining legislation (SP781/05: Tabled) ... Taylor 2017
- Workplace fatalities, report and factsheet re (SP412-413/05: Tabled) ... Backs 1315

Alberta Federation of Police Associations

- General remarks ... Cenaiko 574

Alberta Film Commission Advisory Council

- General remarks ... Dunford 322; Haley 322

Alberta film development grant program

See Film development grant program

Alberta Fire Commissioner's Office

- Budget reduction ... Agnihotri 1327

Alberta Fish and Game Association

- Provincial consultations with, re Métis hunting/fishing rights ... Calahasen 43; Tougas 43

Alberta Forestry Research Institute

- Annual reports ... Elsalhy 1370

Alberta Foster Parent Association

- General remarks ... Forsyth 1056

Alberta Foundation for the Arts

- Funding ... Agnihotri 692, 1474, 1475; Eggen 1478; Mar 692, 1783; McClellan 1479
- Review of Visual Arts Alberta Association ... Agnihotri 1571; Mar 1571

Alberta Funeral Services Regulatory Board

General remarks ... Miller, B. 1425; Mitzel 373

Alberta Gaming and Liquor Commission

Annual report, 2003-04 (SP144/05: Tabled) ... Graydon 252

Annual report, 2004-05 (SP669/05: Tabled) ... Graydon 1837

Board members, selection process re ... Graydon 1283; Swann 1283

Casino application process ... Graydon 1281, 1712

Disciplinary board hearings in camera ... Graydon 1288; Tougas 1287–88

General remarks ... Graydon 1277, 1283

Inspections for liquor licence violations ... Graydon 1029; Rodney 1029

Alberta Gaming Research Council

Board members, selection process re ... Graydon 1283; Swann 1283

Funding for ... Pannu 1288

General remarks ... Graydon 1277, 1278

Alberta Gaming Research Institute

Funding for ... Graydon 487, 534, 1278, 1288; Pannu 1288; Tougas 487, 534, 1288

General remarks ... Graydon 1277

Research done by ... Graydon 1286

Research done by, interference in ... Graydon 487, 534; Tougas 487, 534

Study on compulsive gambling revenue ... Graydon 487; Tougas 487, 1888

Alberta Government Offices

Annual report, 2003-04 (SP281/05: Tabled) ... Dunford 622

Beijing office ... Dunford 1016; Eggen 1014

China office ... Chase 1185; Stelmach 1185

General remarks ... Dunford 1007, 1008; Eggen 1014

India office ... Chase 1185

Japan office ... Chase 1185; Stelmach 1185

Korea office website ... Dunford 1016; Eggen 1014

Ottawa office ... Chase 1185; Horner 1211; Stelmach 1185

Shanghai office proposal ... Dunford 1016; Eggen 1014

Washington, D.C. office ... Bonko 1187, 1189; Chase 1185; Dunford 1016; Eggen 1014; Shariff 289; Stelmach 289, 1180, 1184, 1185–86, 1189, 1621; Taft 1621

Washington, D.C. office: Accommodation costs of head of (Q6/05: Response tabled as SP540/05) ... MacDonald 659; McClellan 1674; Pastoor 659; Stelmach 659, 1674; Zwozdesky 659

Washington, D.C. office: Budget breakdown for (M22/05: Response tabled as SP746/05) ... Pastoor 822; Stelmach 822, 1970; Stevens 822

Washington, D.C. office: Cost-benefit analysis re (M21/05: Response tabled as SP745/05) ... Pastoor 822; Stelmach 822, 1970; Stevens 822

Washington, D.C. office: Costs ... Pastoor 269; Stelmach 415

Washington, D.C. office: Documents re (M20/05: Response tabled as SP744/05) ... Bonko 821; Chase 821–22; Elsalhy 821–22; Pastoor 821; Stelmach 821, 1970; Stevens 821

Washington, D.C. office: Opening of ... Pannu 415; Stelmach 415

Alberta Government Offices (Continued)

Washington, D.C. office: Reports from director of (M37/05: Defeated) ... Martin 1166; Mason 1166; Stelmach 1166

Washington, D.C. office: Representative's comments re Alaska wildlife refuge drilling ... Brown 1188; Stelmach 1188

Washington, D.C. office: Role in resolving border closure to Canadian cattle issue ... Chase 1187; Hinman 739; Horner 42–43, 291, 740, 1211; Klein 739; MacDonald 1208; Martin 1166; Mason 42, 1166; Snelgrove 20; Stelmach 1166, 1187

Washington, D.C. office: Role in resolving border trade crossing issue ... Chase 1186; Stelmach 1186

Washington, D.C. office: Role in resolving softwood lumber issue ... Bonko 929

Washington, D.C. office: Role re energy trade ... Eggen 1014

Washington, D.C. office: Salary of head of ... Eggen 1183; Stelmach 1184

Alberta Grandparents Association

Letter re access to grandchildren (SP198/05: Tabled) ... Swann 328

Alberta Guide to Sport Fishing Regulations

See Fishing, Sport, 2005 Alberta Guide to Sport Fishing Regulations (SP110/05: Tabled)

Alberta Hansard (Publication)

See Sessional publications (Legislative Assembly)

Alberta Health Care Insurance Act

Notwithstanding provision addition to ... Evans 1665–66; Taft 1665

Alberta Health Care Insurance Plan

CT scans coverage ... Blakeman 366; Evans 366

Midwifery coverage ... Blakeman 1146; Elsalhy 1313; Evans 1146; Pannu 1314

Midwifery coverage: Mock invoices re (SP443/05: Tabled) ... Elsalhy 1507–08

Personal health cards for, security aspects ... Hinman 970

Podiatry coverage ... Blakeman 1463, 1471; Evans 1464–65

Services covered by: Expert advisory panel re See Expert Advisory Panel to Review Publically Funded Health Services

Alberta Health Care Insurance Plan—Premiums

Elimination of ... Blakeman 965; Elsalhy 966–67; Hinman 971; Klein 766, 768; Mason 768, 968; McClellan 967, 969; Taft 766

Elimination of: Email re (SP728/05: Tabled) ... Agnihotri 1920

General remarks ... Klein 766; Mason 968; McClellan 766, 968; Miller, R. 959–60; Taft 766

Increase in ... Chase 1466–67

Reducing of ... Elsalhy 954; Ouellette 954

Seniors' premiums: Elimination of ... Fritz 164, 877, 887; Klein 766, 768; Mason 968; McClellan 749, 766, 961, 968

Alberta Health Facilities Review Committee

Annual report, 2003-04 (SP209/05: Tabled) ... Clerk, The 370; Evans 370

Long-term care facilities inspection ... Fritz 1201; Klein 1334, 1386–87, 1443; Mason 1334; Pastoor 1443; Taft 1386; VanderBurg 1395

Long-term care facilities inspection: Letter re (SP419/05: Tabled) ... Martin 1342

Alberta Health Link

See Health Link Alberta

Alberta Heart Institute

See Mazankowski Alberta Heart Institute

Alberta Heritage Foundation for Medical Research

[See also Endowment funds, Public]

2005 calendar (SP107/05: Tabled) ... Zwozdesky 171

Annual report, 2003-04 (In Dept. of Innovation and Science annual report, SP55/05: Tabled) ... Clerk, The 94; Doerksen 94

Annual report, 2004-05 (In Dept. of Innovation and Science annual report, SP579/05: Tabled) ... Clerk, The 1675; Doerksen 1675

Financial highlights and statements, 2003-04 (SP108-109/05: Tabled) ... Zwozdesky 171

Funding for ... Doerksen 1368, 1375; Eggen 1374; Hancock 868, 871, 1795; McClellan 901, 958-59; Melchin 922

Programs and financial highlights, 2004-05, with attached 2006 calendar (SP773/05: Tabled) ... Doerksen 2017

Alberta Heritage Foundation for Medical Research Act

Amendment of (Bill 37) ... McClellan 775; Zwozdesky 775

Alberta Heritage Foundation for Science andEngineering Research

[See also Endowment funds, Public]

Annual report, 2003-04 (In Dept. of Innovation and Science annual report, SP55/05: Tabled) ... Clerk, The 94; Doerksen 94

Annual report, 2004-05 (In Dept. of Innovation and Science annual report, SP579/05: Tabled) ... Clerk, The 1675; Doerksen 1675

Funding for ... Eggen 1374; Hancock 868; Knight 901; McClellan 901, 959

Alberta Heritage Foundation for Science andEngineering Research Act

Amendment of (Bill 37) ... McClellan 775; Zwozdesky 775

Alberta Heritage Savings Trust Fund

[See also Endowment funds, Public]

Annual report, 2004 (SP68/05: Tabled) ... Clerk, The 94; Liepert 94

Annual report, 2005 (SP588/05: Tabled) ... Clerk, The 1675; Liepert 1675

Ethical investments by ... Blakeman 82; Elsalhy 966; Klein 82; McClellan 120, 964, 967; Miller, R. 120, 962-63

Ethical investments by: Statement re ... Miller, R. 294

First- and second-quarter updates, 2004-05 (SP83-84/05: Tabled) ... Clerk, The 94; McClellan 94

First-quarter update, 2005-06 (SP589/05: Tabled) ... Liepert 1675; McClellan 1675

General remarks ... Elsalhy 966, 1326; Hancock 871; Martin 920; McClellan 958; Melchin 922

Inflation-proofing of ... McClellan 901, 958, 962, 967; Speech from the Throne 9

Inflation-proofing of: Response to questions re (SP698/05: Tabled) ... McClellan 1891

Investment in tobacco companies ... Blakeman 82-83; Elsalhy 966; Klein 82-83; McClellan 82-83, 964; Miller, R. 294, 963

Investment in tobacco companies: List of (SP35/05: Tabled) ... Blakeman 93

Alberta Heritage Savings Trust Fund (Continued)

Investment income from ... Miller, R. 963

Second-quarter update, 2005-06 (SP596/05: Tabled) ... McClellan 1676

Surplus revenue deposited into (legacy funding) ... Miller, R. 960

Third-quarter update, 2004-05 (SP88/05: Tabled) ... McClellan 94

Use to reduce long-term mortgage interest rates ... Hinman 971

Alberta Heritage Savings Trust Fund, Standing Committee on

See Committee on the Alberta Heritage Savings Trust Fund, Standing

Alberta Heritage Savings Trust Fund Act

Amendment of (Bill 37) ... McClellan 775; Zwozdesky 775

Alberta Heritage Scholarship Act

Amendment of (Bill 37) ... McClellan 775; Zwozdesky 775

Alberta Heritage Scholarship Fund

[See also Endowment funds, Public; Scholarships]

General remarks ... Hancock 860, 864, 868, 869-70, 871, 1738, 1795; Knight 901; McClellan 901; Taylor 261

Inclusion of nation-wide scholarship endowment under ... Hancock 1738

Alberta Historical Resources Foundation

Consultation with, re renaming of provincial parks: Letter re (SP185/05: Tabled) ... Chase 327

Alberta Home and School Association

General remarks ... Zwozdesky 311

Alberta Home Education Association

Conference, Red Deer, minister's attendance at ... Zwozdesky 1256

Alberta Housing Act

Management bodies provisions ... Fritz 1253

Sale of public land provisions ... Fritz 1502, 1519-20

Alberta Human Rights and Citizenship Commission

Complaints procedure ... Agnihotri 1474

Funding for ... Agnihotri 1475; Mar 1475

Investigation of complaints re Bishop Henry's remarks ... Hinman 572, 1153; Klein 572; Morton 698

Investigation of inmate rape case ... Agnihotri 855; Mar 855

Role in provincial same-sex marriage strategy ... Mar 317; Taft 317

Alberta Informatics Circle of Research Excellence

See Informatics Circle of Research Excellence

Alberta Information and Communications Technology Institute

Establishment of: Legislation re (Bill 4) ... Doerksen 51, 1369

Alberta Ingenuity Fund

Funding for ... Doerksen 1368, 1372, 1375

Funding for clean energy research projects ... Klein 1911

Funding for prion research ... Doerksen 1368-69, 1372, 1885; Johnson 1885

General remarks ... Eggen 1373; Hancock 868, 871, 1795; Melchin 922; Taylor 261

Increase in value of (Motion 503: Knight) ... Backs 346, 513; Chase 512; Doerksen 347; Eggen 347-48;

Alberta Ingenuity Fund (Continued)

Increase in value of (Motion 503: Knight) (Continued)
 ... Elsalhy 345; Goudreau 348; Horner 512–13;
Johnson 345–46; Knight 344–45; Snelgrove 511
 Water research ... Doerksen 1373

Alberta initiative for school improvement

General remarks ... Martin 1269; Zwozdesky 123, 166,
 1260, 1261, 1269

Alberta Insurance Council

Special projects costs ... Miller, R. 963

Alberta international marketing strategy

See International trade, Alberta strategy re

Alberta Land Surveyors' Association

95th annual general meeting (SP449/05: Tabled) ...
Cardinal 1508; Clerk, The 1508
 96th annual general meeting (SP689/05: Tabled) ...
Cardinal 1838; Clerk, The 1838

Alberta Law Enforcement Review Board

See Law Enforcement Review Board

Alberta Law Foundation

Annual report, 2004 (SP154/05: Tabled) ... Clerk, The 253; Stevens 253
 Annual report, 2005 (SP51/05: Tabled) ... Clerk, The
 1675; Stevens 1675
 Financial statements, 2003-04 (SP155/05: Tabled) ...
Clerk, The 253; Stevens 253
 Financial statements, 2004-05 (SP592/05: Tabled) ...
Clerk, The 1675; Stevens 1675

Alberta Law Reform Institute

Alberta Rules of Court rewrite ... Stevens 1230
 Report on administrative tribunals ... Miller, B. 1228

The Alberta Legislature (Book)

General remarks ... Shariff 1605–06

Alberta Life Sciences Institute

Establishment of ... Doerksen 1369; Eggen 1374
 Establishment of: Legislation re (Bill 4) ... Doerksen 51

Alberta Long Term Care Association

General remarks ... Fritz 614, 1388

Alberta Lotteries and Gaming Summit (1998)

General remarks ... Tougas 1279

Alberta Lottery Fund

See Lottery Fund

Alberta Medical Association

Letter supporting Bill 201, Smoke-free Places Act
 (SP204/05: Tabled) ... Blakeman 370
 Provincial discussions with, re public/private health
 systems ... Evans 1665

Alberta Mental Health Board

Annual report, 2003-04 (SP143/05: Tabled) ... Evans
 252
 Annual report, 2004-05 (SP616/05: Tabled) ... Clerk,
The 1717; Evans 1717
 Funding ... Evans 1458
 Funding for diversion services for mentally ill offenders
 ... Cenaiko 1785

Alberta Mental Health Patient Advocate

See Mental Health Patient Advocate

Alberta Museum, Royal

See Royal Alberta Museum

Alberta-North; Northern Alberta Post-Secondary Institution Society

General remarks ... Hancock 981

Alberta-Northwest Territories Branch, Royal Canadian Legion

See Royal Canadian Legion, Alberta-Northwest Territories Branch

Alberta/Northwest Territories memorandum of understanding for co-operation and development

General remarks ... Calahasen 836

Alberta Oil Sands Technology and Research Authority

General remarks ... Doerksen 1372

Alberta One Window initiative (Government information access)

See Service Alberta initiative (Government information access)

Alberta Opportunity Company

General remarks ... Horner 1210

Alberta Opticians Association

Annual report, 2003 (SP98/05: Tabled) ... Evans 128
 Annual report, 2004 (SP610/05: Tabled) ... Clerk, The 1717; Evans 1717

Alberta Order of Excellence

Display of members of, in Jubilee Auditoria ... Klein
 1108

General remarks ... Johnson 1107; Klein 1107–08

Increase in awards per year (Bill 18) ... Rogers 128

Alberta Order of Excellence Amendment Act, 2005 (Bill 18)

First reading ... Rogers 128

Second reading ... Agnihotri 352–53; Eggen 353;

Mather 353; Rogers 352, 353

Committee ... Agnihotri 446; Chase 446; Rogers 446

Third reading ... Agnihotri 638–39; Rogers 638

Royal Assent ... Lieutenant Governor 10 May, 2005
 (Outside of House sitting)

Alberta Order of Excellence Council

Budget for ... Klein 1099

General remarks ... Johnson 1107

Web site for children ... Klein 1108

Alberta-Pacific Forest Industries Inc.

Forest management area study ... Eggen 1395

Alberta pension plan (Proposed)

General remarks ... Miller, R. 1188; Stelmach 1188

Alberta Pensions Administration Corporation

Appeals received by (M34/05: Defeated) ... McClellan
 1164; Miller, R. 1164; Zwozdesky 1164

Microfiche copies of pension cheques, loss of ... Elsalhy
 1026; Klein 1026; McClellan 1026

Alberta Personal Income Tax Act

Amendment to, re resource rebates (Bill 43) ...

McClellan 1630–31

Alberta Personal Income Tax Amendment Act, 2005 (Bill 20)

First reading ... Ducharme 128

Second reading ... Chase 437; Ducharme 436;

MacDonald 437; Martin 437; Miller, R. 436, 437

Committee ... Blakeman 479; Ducharme 478–79

Third reading ... Chase 551; Ducharme 551; Martin
 551; Miller, R. 551

Royal Assent ... Lieutenant Governor 10 May, 2005

(Outside of House sitting)

Alberta Personal Income Tax Amendment Act, 2005 (No. 2) (Bill 40)

First reading ... McClellan 1034

Second reading ... Ducharme 1244; Hancock 1244;
McClellan 1244; Miller, R. 1485

Alberta Personal Income Tax Amendment Act, 2005 (No. 2) (Bill 40) (Continued)

Committee ... McClellan 1492; Miller, R. 1492
 Third reading ... Ducharme 1557; Hancock 1557;
Mason 1557; McClellan 1557; Miller, B. 1557;
Miller, R. 1557
 Royal Assent ... Lieutenant Governor 2 June, 2005
 (Outside of House sittings)

Alberta Pharmaceutical Savings Agency (Report)
See New Democrat Opposition, The Alberta
Pharmaceutical Savings Agency (Report)
(SP636/05: Tabled)*Alberta Pharmaceutical Savings Commission Act (Bill 206)

First reading ... Mason 984
 Second reading ... Abbott 1756–57; Ady 1759–60;
Blakeman 1755–56; Elsalhy 1757; Evans 1755;
Mason 1754–55, 1760–61; Pannu 1757–59; Prins
 1759; Strang 1760
 General remarks ... Mason 1842

Alberta Podiatry Association

General remarks ... Mitzel 240

Alberta Politics Uncovered (Publication)

Excerpt from (SP395/05: Tabled) ... Martin 1206

Alberta prion research institute

Funding for ... Doerksen 1885

Alberta Psychologists, College of

See College of Alberta Psychologists

Alberta Racing Corporation

Gaming revenue to ... MacDonald 1289

Alberta Registries

General remarks ... Lund 1415

Alberta Regulations

Reform of ... Morton 1150; Ouellette 1150
 Review of ... Hinman 762; Ouellette 1710
 Review of, staffing for ... MacDonald 760; Ouellette
 761
 Secretariat to review ... Ouellette 1150

Alberta Regulatory Review Secretariat

See Regulatory Review Secretariat

Alberta Research Council Inc.

Annual report, 2003-04 (In Dept. of Innovation and Science annual report, SP55/05: Tabled) ... Clerk, The
 93; Doerksen 93
 Annual report, 2004-05 (In Dept. of Innovation and Science annual report, SP579/05: Tabled) ... Clerk,
The 1675; Doerksen 1675
 Annual report, 2005 (SP778/05: Tabled) ... Johnson
 2017
 General remarks ... Doerksen 1369; Eggen 1373;
Elsalhy 1370
 Level 3 lab for animal health, joint project re ... Horner
 1885
 Manure utilization system, joint project re ... Horner
 1389; Johnson 1389

Alberta Resource Rebate Statutes Amendment Act,
2005 (Bill 43)

First reading ... McClellan 1630–31
 Second reading ... Backs 1819, 1862–63, 1866, 1867;
Blakeman 1816–18, 1821; Bonko 1861–62, 1863;
Cao 1864; Chase 1856–58, 1862, 1864, 1866, 1867;
Doerksen 1817; Dunford 1858–59; Eggen 1820–21;
Elsalhy 1818–20; Groeneveld 1867; Herard 1863;

Alberta Resource Rebate Statutes Amendment Act,
2005 (Bill 43) (Continued)

Second reading (Continued) ... Hinman 1818, 1859–60;
Jablonski 1821, 1860; Knight 1821–22; Lindsay
 1862–63; MacDonald 1864–66; Martin 1855–56,
 1858; Mason 1852–53; Mather 1860; McClellan
 1700–01, 1867; Miller, R. 1701–03, 1820, 1858, 1859,
 1861, 1862, 1863, 1864, 1865; Oberle 1821; Ouellette
 1818–19; Pastoor 1866–67; Swann 1818; Zwozdesky
 1862
 Committee ... Martin 1977–78; Miller, B. 1977
 Third reading ... Chase 2019, 2021; DeLong 2021;
Hancock 2019; McClellan 2019; Pannu 2020;
Swann 2020–21; Taylor 2019–20

Royal Assent ... Lieutenant Governor of Alberta 2057

Alberta Response Model (Child welfare)

Evaluation of ... Mather 1054

Alberta Restaurant and Food Services Association

General remarks ... Lougheed 745

Alberta Restaurant and Food Services Exposition (ARFEX), Edmonton (2005)

Statement re ... Cao 744–45

Alberta royalty tax credit

Auditor General's comments re ... Martin 921; Melchin
 921
 General remarks ... Elsalhy 917; Melchin 918

Alberta Rules of Court

Rewrite of ... Stevens 1230

Alberta Scene (Arts festival, Ottawa)

Centennial funding for ... Agnihotri 305, 324, 692,
 1474; Eggen 1478; Mar 324, 692, 1473, 1783
 General remarks ... Blakeman 1476–77; Mar 1476
 Opening performance of ... Speaker, The 1151
 Return of artists at, to Alberta ... Eggen 1478; Mar
 1476, 1479
 Statement re ... DeLong 1257–58

Alberta School Boards Association

Collective bargaining model for teachers, study of ...
Bonko 1267; Lukaszuk 1147–48; Martin 1270;
Zwozdesky 204, 1147–48, 1268, 1274
 Edwin Parr awards, statement re ... Ady 1786
 Grade level achievement (GLA) discussions with province ... Zwozdesky 1783
 Input into provincial renewed funding framework ...
Zwozdesky 1261
 Pension fund liability discussions ... Abbott 1712;
Zwozdesky 1712

Alberta School Foundation Fund

General remarks ... Zwozdesky 1260

Alberta school of veterinary medicine

See Veterinary medical school (University of Calgary)

Alberta Science, Research and Technology Authority

Annual report, 2003-04 (In Dept. of Innovation and Science annual report, SP55/05: Tabled) ... Clerk, The
 94; Doerksen 94
 Annual report, 2004-05 (In Dept. of Innovation and Science annual report, SP579/05: Tabled) ... Clerk,
The 1675
 General remarks ... Doerksen 1368, 1369, 1373, 1377;
Eggen 1373

Alberta Science and Research Authority

See Alberta Science, Research and Technology Authority

Alberta Science and Research Authority Amendment Act 2005 (Bill 4)

First reading ... Doerksen 51
 Second reading ... Doerksen 194–95; Elsalhy 195
 Committee ... Backs 450; Doerksen 449–50
 Third reading ... Doerksen 638; Elsalhy 638; Pannu 638
 Royal Assent ... Lieutenant Governor 10 May, 2005
 (Outside of House sitting)
 General remarks ... Doerksen 1369; Eggen 1374;
Elsalhy 1370

Alberta Securities Commission

Annual report, 2005 (SP560/05: Tabled) ... Clerk, The 1675; McClellan 1675
 Board of, suspension ... McClellan 1072; Taft 1072
 Chairman, Opposition Leaders comments re, law firm letter re (SP721/05: Tabled) ... Blakeman 1919
 Chairman/commissioners of, MLA participation in nominating candidates ... McClellan 1568, 1597; Taft 1568, 1597
 Chairman's ties with former employer ... McClellan 1736–37, 1961; Taft 1736–37, 1961
 Commissioners of, dismissal ... Hancock 1250; Martin 1250
 Director of enforcement's breach of code of ethics/conflict of interest/insider trading ... Mason 1707–08, 1737–38, 1779–80, 1828, 1882, 1910–11; McClellan 1665, 1707–08, 1737–38, 1779–80, 1828, 1882, 1911; Taft 1665
 Director of enforcement's breach of code of ethics/conflict of interest/insider trading: Action taken re ... Klein 2047; McClellan 2047; Taft 2047
 Director of enforcement's breach of code of ethics/conflict of interest/insider trading: Auditor General's info. re ... McClellan 2047; Taft 2047
 Executive director's tenure ... McClellan 1665; Taft 1665
 Firing of director of administrative services (Grahame Newton) ... Martin 1148; Mason 1598; McClellan 974, 1144, 1599; Taft 974, 1144
 Firing of director of administrative services (Grahame Newton): Letter re (SP359/05: Tabled) ... Martin 984
 Human resource issues in ... McClellan 528, 570–71, 690, 948, 975, 1024, 1072, 1144, 1520–21; Miller, R. 528, 1520; Taft 570–71, 975
 Influencing regulatory activity case ... Elsalhy 2011; Klein 612; Martin 487–88; Mason 969; McClellan 410–11, 453, 487–88, 528, 570–71, 612, 690, 974–75, 1024, 1073, 1119, 1144, 1520–21, 1597, 1880–81; Melchin 772; Miller, R. 772, 1520; Taft 410, 453, 528, 570–71, 612, 690, 974–75, 1024, 1073, 1118–19, 1144, 1597, 1880–81
 Influencing regulatory activity case: Letter from Finance minister re ... McClellan 410, 487
 Influencing regulatory activity case: Letter from Finance minister re (SP221/05: Tabled) ... McClellan 419
 Influencing regulatory activity case: Letter from Finance minister re, response to (SP220/05: Tabled) ... McClellan 419
 Influencing regulatory activity case: Letter from Diane Urquhart re ... McClellan 419, 690; Taft 690
 Influencing regulatory activity case: Auditor General's authority challenged re, emergency debate re ... Hancock 1316–17; MacDonald 1318; Martin 1317–18; Speaker, The 1318–19; Taft 1315–16; Zwozdesky 1318

Alberta Securities Commission (Continued)

Influencing regulatory activity case: Auditor General's investigation of ... Hancock 1197, 1250–51, 1304–05; Klein 1333; Martin 1148–49, 1197, 1250; Mason 969; McClellan 898–99, 1148–49, 1332–33; Melchin 1197; Taft 898–99, 1304–05, 1332–33
 Influencing regulatory activity case: Auditor General's investigation of, appropriateness of ... McClellan 947–48; Taft 947–48
 Influencing regulatory activity case: Auditor General's investigation of, letter re (SP349/05: Tabled) ... McClellan 908
 Influencing regulatory activity case: Auditor General's investigation of, letter to Legislative Offices committee re (SP434/05: Tabled) ... Martin 1452
 Influencing regulatory activity case: Auditor General's investigation of, restrictions on ... Martin 1148; McClellan 1119, 1144; Taft 1118–19, 1144
 Influencing regulatory activity case: Auditor General's report on (2005) ... Mason 1708, 1737–38; McClellan 1664–65, 1707–08, 1737–38, 1880–81, 1909, 1911; Taft 1664–65, 1880–81, 1909
 Influencing regulatory activity case: Auditor General's report on (2005) (SP520/05: Tabled) ... Tarchuk 1632
 Influencing regulatory activity case: Auditor General's report on investigation of, release to media, point of privilege re ... Blakeman 1633–35; Mason 1635, 1636; Speaker, The 1635, 1636, 1637–38, 1719–20; Stevens 1635–36, 1637
 Influencing regulatory activity case: Chief Internal Auditor's office investigation of ... McClellan 1024; Taft 1024
 Influencing regulatory activity case: Chronology of events re ... Mason 1780, 1882, 1911; McClellan 1737–38, 1780, 1880–81, 1882, 1911; Taft 1880
 Influencing regulatory activity case: Chronology of events re, letter re (SP699/05: Tabled) ... McClellan 1891
 Influencing regulatory activity case: Emergency debate under SO 30 re ... Blakeman 1084; Hancock 1084; Martin 1083–84; McClellan 1082–83; Speaker, The 1084–85; Taft 1082
 Influencing regulatory activity case: Forensic audit re ... McClellan 975, 1144; Taft 975, 1144
 Influencing regulatory activity case: Former Treasurer's/chief of staff involvement ... McClellan 2047; Taft 2047
 Influencing regulatory activity case: Former Treasurer's (Jim Dinning) involvement ... Klein 2046; McClellan 2046–47; Taft 2046–47
 Influencing regulatory activity case: Former Treasurer's (Jim Dinning) involvement: Court documents re (SP812/05: Tabled) ... Blakeman 2055; Taft 2055
 Influencing regulatory activity case: Independent investigation of ... Blakeman 986; Martin 532, 987; Mason 1910–11; McClellan 532–33, 690, 947–48, 1144, 1911; Melchin 772; Miller, R. 772; Taft 690, 947–48, 1144
 Influencing regulatory activity case: Ministerial involvement ... Klein 1961; McClellan 1880–81, 1910, 1961, 2047; Taft 1880–81, 1909–10, 1961, 2047

Alberta Securities Commission (Continued)

Influencing regulatory activity case:
 Ministerial/MLA/senior officials' involvement, legislation re ... McClellan 2047; Taft 2047

Influencing regulatory activity case: Report on ...
Hancock 1305; Martin 488, 532; McClellan 410–11, 453, 487–88, 528, 532–33, 690, 898, 948, 1072, 1073, 1119, 1597; Taft 410, 528, 898, 1305

Influencing regulatory activity case: Retention of files re ...
McClellan 1333; Taft 1332

Interim chairman ... Hancock 1250, 1304; Klein 1333; McClellan 1333, 1961; Taft 1333, 1961

KPMG hired for forensic audit of employee e-mails ...
Martin 1148; Mason 969; McClellan 948, 969, 975; Taft 948, 975

Land Development Company case, decision re (SP790/05: Tabled) ... Miller, B. 2017

Land Development Company case, notice of hearing re (SP791/05: Tabled) ... Miller, B. 2017

Land interests included in securities, news release re (SP792/05: Tabled) ... Miller, B. 2017

Land sales (undivided interests), staff notice re (SP789/05: Tabled) ... Miller, B. 2017

Letter from staff at, to Minister of Finance ... McClellan 1072; Taft 1072

Members of, appointment process ... McClellan 453, 1880; Taft 453, 1880

New chairman of, search committee for ... McClellan 453, 1568; Taft 453, 1568

Operations of, memo to William Code re (SP811/05: Tabled) ... Blakeman 2055; Taft 2055

RCMP investigation of chairman/exec. director's e-mails ...
McClellan 948; Taft 948

Securities violations, review of investigation into ...
McClellan 453; Taft 453

Staffing ... McClellan 959

Walton International land sales without filing a prospectus ...
Klein 2008; McClellan 2008; Taft 2007–08

Walton International land sales without filing a prospectus: Decision re (SP794/05: Tabled) ...
Miller, R. 2017

Walton International land sales without filing a prospectus: Letter from Land Development Company re (SP796/05: Tabled) ...
Miller, R. 2017

Zi Corporation equity purchase by Lancer funds, investigation of ...
McClellan 1909; Taft 1909

Zi Corporation (formerly Multi-Corp) investigation ...
McClellan 1827, 1881; Taft 1827, 1881, 2008

Zi Corporation (formerly Multi-Corp) investigation: Letter re (SP722/05: Tabled) ...
Blakeman 1919; Taft 1919

Alberta Senior Citizens' Housing Association

General remarks ... Fritz 614, 1388, 1886, 2009

Alberta seniors benefit program

Benefits comparison, before and after July 1, 2004 changes (M46/05: Accepted) ...
Fritz 1748; Pastoor 1748–49

Booklet re, complexity of ...
Fritz 889; Hinman 888

Dental benefits ...
Agnihotri 260; Blakeman 881; Fritz 877–78, 882–83, 884, 951–52; Mather 884; McClellan 748; Mitzel 951; Prins 884; Speech from the Throne 10; Taylor 882

Alberta seniors benefit program (Continued)

Dental benefits: Enhancement of ...
Fritz 163–64, 282; Lukaszuk 163; Pannu 259; Pastoor 282

Dental benefits: Letter re (SP757/05: Tabled) ...
Pastoor 1971

Dental benefits: Letter re (SP818/05: Tabled) ...
Martin 2056

Evaluation criteria for ...
Fritz 1387–88; Pastoor 1387–88

Federal seniors' benefits relation to ...
Fritz 1387

Forms re, filling out of ...
Ady 889; Fritz 889

General remarks ...
Fritz 877, 884; MacDonald 255; Pastoor 879; Prins 884

Income testing of ...
Fritz 164, 1387

Optical benefits ...
Agnihotri 260; Blakeman 881; Fritz 877–78, 882; Martin 886; McClellan 748; Pannu 259; Speech from the Throne 10

Optical benefits: Enhancement of ...
Fritz 282; Pastoor 282

Replaces widows' pension ...
Abbott 1966; Cardinal 1966

Special-needs assistance component See Low-income seniors, Special-needs assistance

Alberta Social Housing Corporation

Transfer of land to Fort McMurray ...
Fritz 87, 1502, 1519–20; Klein 201, 485, 528; Martin 1502; Mason 1519–20, 1598, 1828; McClellan 527, 1598, 1828

Transfer of land to Fort McMurray: Alleged role of Minister of Environment in, Ethics commissioner's report on leaked to media, point of privilege re ...
Mason 1636–37; Speaker, The 1637–38; Stevens 1637

Transfer of land to Fort McMurray: Alleged role of Minister of Environment in, Ethics commissioner's report on (SP532/05: Tabled) ...
Speaker, The 1632

Transfer of land to Fort McMurray: Appraisal process re ...
Fritz 1519–20, 1568–70; Mason 1569; Pastoor 1568–69

Transfer of land to Fort McMurray: Auditor General's report on ...
Fritz 1741; Mason 1741; McClellan 1741, 1828

Transfer of land to Fort McMurray: Auditor General's report on leaked to media, AG's news release re (SP523/05: Tabled) ...
Martin 1632

Transfer of land to Fort McMurray: Auditor General's report on leaked to media, point of privilege re ...
Mason 1636–37; Speaker, The 1637–38, 1719–20; Stevens 1637

Transfer of land to Fort McMurray: Auditor General's report on (SP519/05: Tabled) ...
Tarchuk 1632

Transfer of land to Fort McMurray: Edmonton Journal articles re (SP521–522/05: Tabled) ...
Martin 1632

Transfer of land to Fort McMurray: Land titles certificate re (SP446 & 507/05: Tabled) ...
Eggen 1608; Martin 1508, 1608

Transfer of land to Fort McMurray: Role of Minister of Environment in ...
Fritz 1570; Mason 1570

Transfer of land to Fort McMurray: Tabling of copy of agreement re ...
Fritz 1520, 1569–70; Mason 1520, 1569; Pastoor 1569

Alberta Softwood Lumber Trade Council

General remarks ...
Coutts 21, 89

Alberta Sport, Recreation, Parks and Wildlife Foundation

Centennial salute for sport and recreation award ...

Abbott 2054

General remarks ... Mar 1150; Tougas 1288

Alberta Sport Plan

See Sports, Plan for

Alberta Strategic Tourism Marketing Council

See Strategic Tourism Marketing Council

Alberta Summit on Justice (1999)

General remarks ... Pannu 267; Stevens 1229

MLA committee re ... Pannu 267–68

Alberta SuperNet

Completion date ... Elsalhy 88; Martin 756, 757;

Ouellette 88, 757

Court services provision via ... Stevens 1225

Distance education delivery via ... Hancock 1883;

Lukaszuk 1505

General remarks ... MacDonald 255; Miller, R. 257;

Oberg 289; Ouellette 244, 289, 752–53, 753, 755,

757, 758, 762, 1149; Pastoor 289; Speech from the Throne 8; Taft 244; Taylor 757–58; Webber 1149

Health services delivery via ... Danyluk 853–54; Evans

854; Ouellette 854

Hookup fees ... Elsalhy 320; Ouellette 320; Webber

740; Zwozdesky 740

Justice dept. applications via ... Stevens 1226, 1229

Library access to ... Danyluk 843; Mar 1472

Monitoring of contracts re ... Blakeman 754; Ouellette

755

Municipal government offices' connection to ... Hinman

761–62

Rural homes access to ... Danyluk 843; Hinman 841

School access to ... Blakeman 760; Chase 756;

Danyluk 843; MacDonald 759–60; Oberg 1095;

Ouellette 756, 758, 760–61; Webber 740; Zwozdesky

740, 1260, 1262, 1274, 1723

School access to: Statement re ... DeLong 2015

School access to: Total amount spent on (Q35/05):

Response tabled as SP717/05) ... Bonko 1746;

Flaherty 1746; Zwozdesky 1746, 1919

Security features ... Ouellette 755

Telus bid on ... Elsalhy 320; Ouellette 320

Transfer to Dept. of Restructuring and Government

Efficiency ... Doerksen 461; Eggen 1373; Elsalhy

461, 1370; Klein 1109; MacDonald 255, 759; Martin

756; Mason 1108

Transfer to Dept. of Restructuring and Government

Efficiency: Documentation re (M29/05: Response tabled as SP515/05) ... Clerk, The 1608; Elsalhy

1160; Ouellette 1160, 1608

Video conferencing capabilities ... Ouellette 757, 1337;

Zwozdesky 1723

Voice over Internet capabilities ... Ouellette 757

Webcast of health symposium over ... DeLong 1336;

Ouellette 1337

Webcasting capabilities ... Ouellette 1337

Alberta Sustainability Fund

Eligibility of softwood lumber dispute situation for ...

McClellan 644; Strang 644

General remarks ... Elsalhy 966; McClellan 747;

Melchin 922

Transfers to education endowment funds ... Knight 901;

McClellan 901

Alberta Sustainability Fund (Continued)

Use for CAIS program funding ... MacDonald 1850

Use for forest fire control costs ... Coutts 930, 934

Alberta Teachers' Association

Annual report, 2003 (SP172/05: Tabled) ... Zwozdesky 326

Collective bargaining model for teachers, study of ...

Hinman 1273; Zwozdesky 204, 1147–48, 1268, 1274

General remarks ... Zwozdesky 311

Grade level achievement (GLA) discussions with

province ... Zwozdesky 1783

Inclusion of principals in ... Martin 1270; Zwozdesky

1266

Pension fund liability discussions ... Abbott 1712;

Zwozdesky 1712

Alberta Teachers' Pension Plan

See Teachers' Pension Plan

Alberta Teachers' Retirement Fund (Administrator)

See Teachers' Pension Plan

Alberta technology venture fund (Proposed)

See Technology venture fund (Proposed)

Alberta Transportation Safety Board

Appeals to, time limit on: Legislation re (Bill 13) ...

Oberg 93

Funding for ... Oberg 1085

Operational changes to, including appeals: Legislation re

(Bill 39) ... Magnus 746

Alberta Treasury Branch Financial

Annual report, 2004 (SP78/05: Tabled) ... Clerk, The

94; McClellan 94

Annual report, 2005 (SP561/05: Tabled) ... Clerk, The

1675; McClellan 1675

Subsidiary companies' control processes, Auditor

General's recommendation re (Q36/05: Response tabled as SP648/05) ... Hancock 1788; McClellan

1747, 1788; Miller, R. 1746–47; Zwozdesky 1747

Alberta Union of Provincial Employees

News release re fish and wildlife officers numbers

(SP406/05: Tabled) ... Eggen 1259

Alberta University Students, Council of

See Council of Alberta University Students

Alberta Urban Municipalities Association

2004 convention, invitees to (Q38/05: Accepted) ...

Renner 1747; Taft 1747; Taylor 1747

Ambulance service transfer to regional health authorities

discussions ... Evans 17, 483; Mason 245

Ambulance service transfer to regional health authorities discussions: Press release re (SP152/05: Tabled) ...

Mason 253

Chief administrative officer award: Statement re ...

Rogers 2016

Federal gasoline tax revenue discussions ... Oberg 852

Municipal excellence program See Municipal excellence program

Municipal Government Act review discussions ...

Elsalhy 1326; Martin 1325; Miller, R. 1327–28

Police funding discussions with provincial government

... Cenaiko 1250, 1432

Alberta Vehicle Theft Committee

General remarks ... Cenaiko 1256; Miller, B. 1424

Alberta Venture (Magazine)

Most-respected corporations list: Statement re ... Rogers

1450–51

Alberta Veterinary Medical Association

- Consultation with, re changes to Veterinary Profession Act ... Cardinal 1627
- Radiation protection program annual report, 2003 (SP451/05: Tabled) ... Cardinal 1508; Clerk, The 1508
- Radiation protection program annual report, 2004 (SP659/05: Tabled) ... Cardinal 1789; Clerk, The 1789

Alberta veterinary surveillance network

- General remarks ... Horner 1885

Alberta Warriors (Aboriginal street gang)

- General remarks ... Cenaiko 1430

Alberta Water Council

- General remarks ... Doerksen 1373
- Water conservation planning ... Boutilier 530; Johnson 1046; Speech from the Throne 9

Alberta Wilderness Association

- Big game farming ban, call for ... Bonko 250
- Calgary Tower climb ... Chase 907
- Letter re industrial activity in Kakwa-Naraway watershed (SP803/05: Tabled) ... Eggen 2018
- Letter re industrial activity in Rumsey natural area (SP760/05: Tabled) ... Eggen 1971

Alberta Works (Employment training program)

- General remarks ... Blakeman 1139; Cardinal 1129
- Learner assistance allowances ... Backs 1131; Blakeman 1139, 1140

Albertaquits.ca (Web site)

- See Smoking–Prevention, AADAC program re (Web site)

Alberta's Commission on Learning

- Aboriginal-specific recommendations ... Calahasen 839; Flaherty 874; Zwozdesky 1261
- Basic education vs extras, definition of ... Zwozdesky 1525
- Child progress reporting recommendation ... Zwozdesky 1446
- Class size guideline ... Flaherty 307; MacDonald 311, 369; McClellan 748; Pannu 308; Speech from the Throne 8; Zwozdesky 306, 308, 309, 1261, 1262, 1723, 1727, 1730
- Daily physical activity recommendation ... Ady 1027–28; Flaherty 416; Zwozdesky 416, 1028, 1261
- Early childhood funding recommendation ... Zwozdesky 1261
- ESL funding recommendation ... Zwozdesky 1261
- Feedback on ... Zwozdesky 165
- Francophone education funding recommendation ... Zwozdesky 1261
- General remarks ... Chase 1506
- High school completion rate recommendation ... Brown 123; Zwozdesky 123
- Kindergarten recommendations ... Martin 1269, 1722–23; Pannu 1917; Zwozdesky 1260, 1271
- Postsecondary system independent review recommendation ... Hancock 1254; Taylor 1254
- Recommendations ... Zwozdesky 1030, 1260–62, 1523, 1723
- School fees/fundraising issue ... Zwozdesky 1834
- School funding under Education dept. recommendation ... Cao 1914; Flaherty 84; Oberg 84; Zwozdesky 1914

Alberta's Commission on Learning (Continued)

- School transportation funding recommendation ... Zwozdesky 1261
- Second-language teaching initiative ... Goudreau 1603–04; Zwozdesky 1603–04
- Special needs students' programs recommendations ... Zwozdesky 1255, 1261
- Teacher bargaining model recommendation ... Abbott 1712; Lukaszuk 1147; Martin 1270; Zwozdesky 204, 1147, 1260, 1265, 1268, 1274

Alberta's Environment Conference 2005, Edmonton (April 20–22)

- General remarks ... Boutilier 978; Swann 978

Alberta's Legacy Act (Bill 203)

- See Report on Alberta's Legacy Act (Bill 203)

Alberta's Promise

- General remarks ... Speech from the Throne 10
- Partners' report, 2004 (SP590/05: Tabled) ... Clerk, The 1675; Klein 1675
- Private support re ... Forsyth 1052
- Recognition of new members in ... Liepert 578
- School nutrition program involvement ... Zwozdesky 1740

Alberta's Role in Confederation, MLA Committee on Strengthening

- See MLA Committee on Strengthening Alberta's Role in Confederation

Alcohol and Drug Abuse Commission

- See Alberta Alcohol and Drug Abuse Commission

Alcohol sales

- See Liquor sales

Alcoholism–Treatment–Youth

- See Substance abuse–Treatment–Youth

Aldersyde interchange

- See Highway 2–Aldersyde area, Interchange with highways 7 and 547

Alexander Forbes elementary school, Grande Prairie

- Expansion funding for ... Flaherty 1721, 1739; Zwozdesky 1729, 1739

Alexander Rutherford Scholarships for High School Achievement

- [See also Scholarships]

- General remarks ... Hancock 1738
- Impact of diploma exam grading errors on awarding of ... Pannu 164; Zwozdesky 164

All-party committees

- See Committees, All-party

All-terrain vehicles

- See Off-highway vehicles

Allan Gray Continuing Care Centre

- Conditions in ... Agnihotri 1499; Evans 1499–1500

Alliance Party

- See Alberta Alliance Party

Alliance pipeline

- General remarks ... Mason 572; Melchin 922

AltaGas Services Inc.

- Purchase of Sundance B power purchase arrangements from Enron ... MacDonald 1834, 1912–13; Melchin 1912–13

AltaLink Management Ltd.

- Public consultations re electric power line siting ... Melchin 1831

Alternate energy resources

See Energy resources, Alternate

Alternative education programs

See Education–Curricula–Edmonton, Alternative programs

Alternative education programs–Edmonton

See Education–Curricula–Edmonton, Alternative programs

Alternative payment methods (Physicians)

See Medical profession–Fees, Alternative payment schemes

Alternative payment plan (Physicians)

See Medical profession–Fees, Alternative payment schemes

AMA

See Alberta Medical Association

Ambassadors, Centennial

See Centennial ambassadors

Ambulance attendants

See Emergency medical technicians

Ambulance Governance Advisory Council

General remarks ... Evans 1458

Ambulance service

Co-ordination of ... Evans 1915

General remarks ... Chase 1467

Review of, 2002 ... Ouellette 244

Review of, 2002: Report ... Evans 202; Mason 202

Transfer of responsibility for, to health regions: AUMA news release re (SP152/05: Tabled) ... Mason 253

Transfer of responsibility for, to health regions: Calgary mayor's comments re (SP7/05: Tabled) ... Martin 27

Transfer of responsibility for, to health regions:

Cancellation of ... Blakeman 482, 754, 1463; Chase 1470; Evans 17, 19, 83, 202, 243–44, 482, 1464; Klein 17–18, 19, 83–84, 202; Mason 19, 83–84, 202; Ouellette 244; Renner 243, 1324; Taft 17, 243–44, 1323

Transfer of responsibility for, to health regions:

Cancellation of, provincial assistance re ... Blakeman 482; Evans 17, 19, 83, 202, 243–44, 245, 482, 1464; Klein 17, 83, 202, 245; Mason 19, 83, 202, 245; Renner 243; Taft 17, 243

Transfer of responsibility for, to health regions:

Cancellation of, provincial assistance re (Q5/05: Response tabled as SP627/05) ... Clerk, The 1717; Evans 658, 1717; MacDonald 658–59; Taft 658

Transfer of responsibility for, to health regions: Costs ...

Evans 19, 202, 245; Klein 17–18, 19, 83–84, 202, 245; Mason 83–84, 202, 245; Taft 17

Transfer of responsibility for, to health regions: Costs, advisory council re See Ambulance Governance Advisory Council

Transfer of responsibility for, to health regions:

Discovery projects re ... Blakeman 483; Evans 202, 245, 483; Klein 83, 202

Transfer of responsibility for, to health regions:

Documents re (M19/05: Response tabled as SP807) ... Chase 821; Clerk, The 2018; MacDonald 820–21; Renner 821, 2018; Taft 820

Transfer of responsibility for, to health regions:

Emergency motion under SO40 re ... Blakeman 28

Transfer of responsibility for, to health regions: Impact of joint ambulance/fire services on ... Blakeman 482–83; Evans 482–83

Ambulance service (Continued)

Transfer of responsibility for, to health regions:

Provincial commitment re (SP31/05: Tabled) ... Eggen 93

Transfer of responsibility for, to health regions: Red

Deer news release re (SP126/05: Tabled) ... Blakeman 210

Ambulance service, Aerial

Funding for ... MacDonald 255

Ambulance service–Finance

General remarks ... Evans 83

Petition tabled re (SP430/05) ... Jablonski 1396

Use of surplus funds for ... Blakeman 1463

Ambulance service–Medicine Hat

Joint fire/ambulance service ... Blakeman 482–83; Evans 482–83

Ambulance service–Red Deer

General remarks ... Evans 202, 245; Klein 202, 245; Mason 202, 245

News release re (SP126/05: Tabled) ... Blakeman 210

Ambulance service–Rural areas

Costs, provincial assistance re ... Evans 243–44; MacDonald 1209; Taft 243

Ambulatory learning centre, Health sciences

See Health sciences ambulatory learning centre (University of Alberta)

American Meat Institute (U.S.)

General remarks ... Horner 290, 1210, 1215

AMI

See American Meat Institute (U.S.)

Amiskwaciy Academy

General remarks ... Oberg 738

Amphetamine (Drug)

Restriction of access to: Legislation re (Bill 204) ... Strang 171

Amusement Rides Safety Association

See Alberta Elevating Devices and Amusement Rides Safety Association

Andy Russell I'tai Sah Kòp wild-land park

Redesignation of Castle wilderness as ... Chase 1673, 2012; Klein 2012

Redesignation of Castle wilderness as: Letter re (SP819/05: Tabled) ... Eggen 2012

Animal Health, World Organisation for

See World Organisation for Animal Health

Animal Keepers Act (Bill 32)

First reading ... Goudreau 370

Second reading ... Chase 541; Goudreau 540; Hinman 542; Horner 540–41, 543; MacDonald 541–42; Martin 541; Miller, R. 542

Committee ... Goudreau 558; Horner 558–60; Miller, R. 558–60; Pannu 559; Taft 560; Taylor 558

Third reading ... Goudreau 943; MacDonald 943; Miller, R. 943; Pastoor 943

Royal Assent ... Lieutenant Governor 10 May, 2005 (Outside of House sitting)

Animal parts, Wildlife

Sale of See Wildlife Act, Sale of animal parts regulations

Animal Protection Amendment Act, 2005 (Bill 22)

First reading ... Abbott 170

Second reading ... Abbott 424, 427; Bonko 425; Brown 427; Chase 425–26, 427; Eggen 424–25; Hinman 426–27; Horner 425; MacDonald 424; Taylor 426

Animal Protection Amendment Act, 2005 (Bill 22)(Continued)

Committee ... Abbott 1295; Goudreau 1295–96;
MacDonald 1296
 Third reading ... Abbott 1581; Blakeman 1581; Chase
 1581
 Royal Assent ... Lieutenant Governor 2 June, 2005
 (Outside of House sittings)

Animal violence, Legislation re*See Animals, Treatment of, Legislation re (Bill 22)Animals, FarmSee LivestockAnimals, Treatment of Legislation re (Bill 22) ... Abbott 170

 Legislation re (Bill 32) ... Goudreau 370

Animals, World Society for the Protection of*See World Society for the Protection of AnimalsAnne Frank exhibit, CalgaryStatement re ... Brown 1079–80Anthony Henday Drive, Edmonton

Backgrounder re (SP169/05: Tabled) ... Mason 295;
Pannu 295
 Cost overruns ... Chase 1336; MacDonald 1803–04;
Oberg 1336
 Funding for ... Oberg 1086, 1800
 Impact on highways 14 and 21 ... Lougheed 324; Oberg
 324
 Impact on resident, letters re (SP704/05: Tabled) ...
Agnihotri 1891
 North portion of, completion date ... Lukaszuk 1713;
Oberg 1713
 Public opening of, invitation of Opposition MLAs to,
 statement re ... Elsalhy 1744
 Public/private partnership funding model for north portion of ... Lukaszuk 1713; Oberg 1713
 Public/private partnership funding model for southeast portion of ... Chase 1883; Martin 1092, 1802; Oberg 324, 645, 1086, 1093, 1713, 1883–84; Speech from the Throne 9
 Public/private partnership funding model for southeast portion of: Contracts re (M39/05: Response tabled as SP513/05) ... Clerk, The 1608; Martin 1167; Oberg
 1608; Stelmach 1167
 Public/private partnership funding model for southeast
 portion of: Costs ... Klein 287; Martin 616–17;
Mason 287, 318; McClellan 617; Oberg 287, 318,
 617
 Public/private partnership funding model for southeast portion of: Costs comparison for (M41/05: Response tabled as SP514/05) ... Clerk, The 1608; Martin
 1169; Oberg 1169, 1608; Stelmach 1169
 Public/private partnership funding model for southeast
 portion of: Loan interest rate comparison re (M32/05: Response tabled as SP511/05) ... Backs 1162; Chase
 1161; Clerk, The 1608; Hancock 1161–62;
MacDonald 1161–62; Oberg 1162, 1608; Stelmach
 1162
 Public/private partnership funding model for southeast
 portion of: MLA questions/answers re (SP170/05: Tabled) ... Mason 295; Pannu 295
 Time frame for completion ... Lougheed 324; Oberg
 324

Antidumping laws (International trade)General remarks ... Abbott 293; Horner 293, 614; Prins
614; Stelmach 614AntiterrorismSee Terrorist attacks—PreventionAOCSee Alberta Opportunity CompanyAon Consulting Inc.

Private health insurance in Alberta, study of [See also Insurance, Health (Private), Alberta plan for];
Blakeman 1839; Evans 1627, 1665, 1670–71, 1841,
 1844; Klein 1666; Mason 1666, 1842; Pannu
 1626–27, 1670–71; Taft 1665
 Private health insurance in Alberta, study of: Letter re
 (SP755/05: Tabled) ... Martin 1971; Mason 1971
 Private health insurance in Alberta, study of: Letters re
 (SP554 & 598/05: Tabled) ... Pannu 1675, 1716

Aon Reed StenhouseGeneral remarks ... Evans 1671AOSTRASee Alberta Oil Sands Technology and Research AuthorityAPEGGASee Association of Professional Engineers, Geologists and Geophysicists of AlbertaAPFSee Aboriginal policy frameworkAPISee Aboriginal policy initiativeAppeals Commission (Workers' compensation)

Budget increase ... Bonko 1134; Cardinal 1135
 Funding transfer to minister's budget ... Backs 950;
Cardinal 950
 General remarks ... Backs 1131; Cao 1834; Cardinal
 1129, 1130, 1338, 1834
 Waiting times at ... Backs 950; Cardinal 950

Applewood Park Community Association, Calgary

General remarks ... Pham 1672
 Wild Rose Foundation grants to ... Agnihotri 1335; Mar
 1335, 1442, 1497; Taft 1442, 1497
 Wild Rose Foundation grants to: Association's letter re
 (SP459/05: Tabled) ... Blakeman 1528; Taft 1528
 Wild Rose Foundation grants to: Auditor General's random audit of, 2004 ... Mar 1525
 Wild Rose Foundation grants to: Auditor General's report on ... Agnihotri 1742–43; Mar 1742–43
 Wild Rose Foundation grants to: Auditor General's review of ... Mar 1525–26, 1597–98; Taft 1526, 1597–98
 Wild Rose Foundation grants to: Auditor General's review of, minister's letter re (SP464/05: Tabled) ...
Mar 1528
 Wild Rose Foundation grants to: Point of order re ...
Blakeman 1452–53, 1454; Hancock 1453; Pham
 1452, 1454; Speaker, The 1453–54
 Wild Rose Foundation grants to: Political interference re
 ... Mar 1597; Taft 1597

Appointments, Government*See Government appointmentsApprentice/journeyman ratioSee Alberta Apprenticeship and Industry Training
Board, Ratio of journeymen to apprentices*

Apprenticeship and Industry Training Amendment Act, 2005 (Bill 57)

First reading ... Hancock 1890
 Second reading ... Backs 1953–54; Hancock 1953;
MacDonald 1954–55; Pannu 1955
 Committee ... Backs 1980–81; Hancock 1980
 Third reading ... Bonko 2031–32; Hancock 2031;
Knight 2032
 Royal Assent ... Lieutenant Governor of Alberta 2057

Apprenticeship and Industry Training Board

See Alberta Apprenticeship and Industry Training Board

Apprenticeship program, Registered

See Registered apprenticeship program (High schools)

Apprenticeship training

Aboriginal people ... Backs 279, 411; Calahasen 1912;
Cardinal 411; Hancock 982, 1883; Speech from the Throne 8
 Automated registration system for ... Hancock 277, 861
 General remarks ... Backs 279; Bonko 1134; Cardinal 86, 280–81, 321, 531, 1129, 1135; Danyluk 1882–83;
Hancock 201–02, 248, 859, 860, 1792, 1794, 1882–83;
Hinman 1272; Jablonski 86; Martin 1171; Mather 1726;
Oberg 1089; Taylor 201–02, 247–48, 862
 Government supports for ... Cardinal 1129
 Improvements to ... Speech from the Throne 8
 Letters re (SP431, 435, 444, 463/05: Tabled) ... Backs 1396, 1452, 1508, 1528
 Mobile/distance delivery of ... Hancock 861
 Safety aspects ... Cardinal 980; Hancock 980; Taylor 979–80

Apprenticeship training—Finance

Equipment funding ... Hancock 277; Taylor 276
 General remarks ... Hancock 860; McClellan 748

Apprenticeship training—Northern Alberta

General remarks ... Danyluk 981; Hancock 861, 981–82
 Provincial assistance re ... Danyluk 1882–83; Hancock 1882–83

Apprenticeship training—Rural areas

Provincial assistance re ... Danyluk 1883; Hancock 1883

Appropriation Act, 2005 (Bill 41)

First reading ... McClellan 1507
 Second reading ... Chase 1565; Hancock 1554; Mason 1562–63;
Miller, R. 1554–56; Taylor 1563–65
 Committee ... Blakeman 1586–88, 1590–91; Chase 1588;
Flaherty 1593; Martin 1588–89; Mather 1589–90;
Miller, R. 1591–93
 Third reading ... Backs 1612–13; Eggen 1610–12;
Haley 1609–10; Hancock 1614; MacDonald 1613–14;
McClellan 1609; Stevens 1609; Swann 1615–16;
Tougas 1609
 Royal Assent ... Lieutenant Governor 2 June, 2005
 (Outside of House sittings)
 Unanimous consent to introduce denied ... Hancock 1485

Appropriation (Interim Supply) Act, 2005 (Bill 30)

First reading ... Hancock 295
 Second reading ... Elsalhy 349; McClellan 348; Miller, R. 348–49;
Zwozdesky 348

Appropriation (Interim Supply) Act, 2005 (Bill 30)

(Continued)

Committee ... Blakeman 400–02, 404–05; Hancock 402–03;
Hinman 405; Mason 402–03; Miller, R. 403–04
 Third reading ... Deputy Speaker 451; MacDonald 442–44;
McClellan 442
 Royal Assent ... Lieutenant Governor of Alberta 465

Appropriation (Supplementary Supply) Act, 2005 (Bill 27)

First reading ... Hancock 312–13; McClellan 312
 Second reading ... Bonko 351–52; Eggen 350–51;
Elsalhy 350; McClellan 349; Miller, R. 349;
Zwozdesky 349, 352
 Committee ... Miller, B. 406; Swann 406

Third reading ... Chase 441–42, 451; MacDonald 439–41;
McClellan 439
 Royal Assent ... Lieutenant Governor of Alberta 465

Appropriation (Supplementary Supply) Act, 2005 (No.2) (Bill 51)

First reading ... McClellan 1890
 Second reading ... Agnihotri 1944–45; Backs 1946;
Horner 1947; MacDonald 1945–47; McClellan 1944;
Shariff 1953–54; Zwozdesky 1944
 Committee ... Backs 1984–85; Blakeman 1989–91;
Chase 1991–92, 2000; Eggen 1994–96; Elsalhy 1981–82;
Flaherty 1992–93; Hinman 1985–86, 2000; MacDonald 1986;
Martin 1984; Miller, B. 1983–84; Miller, R. 1998–99;
Pastoor 1982–83; Swann 1996–98; Taylor 1993–94

Third reading ... Backs 2040; Blakeman 2035–36;
Hancock 2033, 2037, 2039; Hinman 2033, 2036, 2042;
Lund 2042; MacDonald 2041–43; Martin 2037–38;
Mather 2038–40; McClellan 2032–33, 2043;
Miller, B. 2038; Pastoor 2039, 2040–41

Royal Assent ... Lieutenant Governor of Alberta 2057

Aquifers—Contamination—Bow/Elbow Rivers watersheds

See Groundwater—Contamination—Bow/Elbow Rivers watersheds

Arbroath, Declaration of

See Declaration of Arbroath (Scottish independence, 1320)

ARC

See Alberta Research Council Inc.

Architects, Alberta Association of

See Alberta Association of Architects

Architecture and the disabled

Provincial initiative re ... Renner 1321

Statement re ... Lougheed 1917

Archives of Alberta, Provincial

See Provincial Archives of Alberta

ARFEX

See Alberta Restaurant and Food Services Exposition (ARFEX), Edmonton (2005)

Armed forces, Canadian

See Canadian armed forces

Armenian genocide

Statement re ... Jablonski 1031–32

Art Gallery, Edmonton

See Edmonton Art Gallery

ARTC

See Alberta royalty tax credit

Arts

Impact on tourism ... Chase 1012; Dunford 1013
 Role in provincial economy ... Bonko 1009; Dunford 1010–11

Arts–Finance

General remarks ... Agnihotri 692, 977, 1474, 1475, 1483, 1571, 1783, 2053; Blakeman 866, 1476–77; Brown 1482; Chase 797, 984, 1481; Eggen 1478; Hancock 869; Mar 692, 977, 1472–73, 1475, 1479, 1571, 1783, 2053; McClellan 2053; Zwozdesky 797
 Statement re ... Taylor 983
 Surplus revenue dedicated to (legacy funding) ... Miller, R. 960

Arts Awards, Lieutenant Governor of Alberta

See Lieutenant Governor of Alberta Arts Awards

Arts Centre, Ottawa

See National Arts Centre, Ottawa

Arts courses in high school

See High school education–Curricula, Fine arts courses: Letter re (SP195/05: Tabled)

Arts courses in junior high school

See Junior high school education–Curricula, Fine arts courses

Arts credit in high school

See High school credits, Fine arts credit requirement (Motion 505: Herard)

Arts festival, Ottawa

Alberta participation See Alberta Scene (Arts festival, Ottawa)

Arts foundation

See Alberta Foundation for the Arts

Artspace Housing Co-operative Ltd.

Brochure on co-op housing (SP551/05: Tabled) ... MacDonald 1675

ArtStart program

Recognition of Safeway contribution to ... Blakeman 252

Artwork, Alberta

Donation to National Gallery of Canada ... Ady 1738–39; Mar 1739

ASCHA

See Alberta Senior Citizens' Housing Association

ASFF

See Alberta School Foundation Fund

ASHC

See Alberta Social Housing Corporation

Asian/Alberta trade

See International trade–Asian countries

Aspen exhibition, Japan

Alberta participation ... Dunford 644

Aspen Regional Health Authority

Annual report, 2003-04 (SP132/05: Tabled) ... Evans 211

Annual report, 2004-05 (SP617/05: Tabled) ... Clerk, The 1717; Evans 1717

Funding ... Evans 271

Redesignation of continuing care beds in Hinton: Petition presented re ... Martin 1918, 1970

ASRA

See Alberta Science, Research and Technology Authority

Assassination of Jesse James by the Coward Robert Ford (Movie)

General remarks ... Groeneveld 1968

Assessment

Appeals system ... Renner 1321

General remarks ... Renner 1320

Linear assessment process: Appeal process ... Martin 1325

Linear assessment process: Legislation re (Bill 28) ... Renner 252

Market value as basis for: Impact on seniors ... Fritz 889; Hinman 888

Market value as basis for: Statement re ... Taylor 461–62

Assessment–Agricultural land

Level of ... Martin 1325

Assessment of students

See Student assessment

Assisted living concept (Seniors' housing)

See under Senior citizens–Housing, Assisted living concept

Association for Safe Alternatives in Childbirth

General remarks ... Elsalhy 1313; Pannu 1314

Package of information regarding midwifery (SP408/05: Tabled) ... Pannu 1314

Association of Municipal Districts and Counties

See Alberta Association of Municipal Districts and Counties

Association of Professional Engineers, Geologists and Geophysicists of Alberta

Annual report, 2004 (SP448/05: Tabled) ... Cardinal 1508; Clerk, The 1508

Association of Universities and Colleges of Canada

Degree-granting accreditation procedure ... Hancock 1791; Pannu 1794

Degree-granting accreditation procedure, documentation re (M50/05: Defeated) ... Chase 1921–22; Hancock 1921–22; Taylor 1921

Associations, Student

See Student unions

Assurance Fund, Real Estate

See Real Estate Assurance Fund

Assured Income for the Severely Handicapped

Benefit levels, formula for ... Blakeman 880; Fritz 880, 885; Martin 884–85; Pastoor 879

Benefit levels, market-basket measurement formula for ... Blakeman 880; Pastoor 879

Benefits dollar value (Q9/05: Response tabled as SP639/05) ... Clerk, The 1746; Fritz 661, 1746; MacDonald 660–61; Pastoor 660

Benefits increase ... Backs 889; Elsalhy 966–67; Fritz 22, 661, 877, 1149–50; Martin 884–85; McClellan 961, 967–68; Pastoor 22, 879, 1149–50; Speech from the Throne 10

Benefits increase: Funding for ... Fritz 878; McClellan 748; Pannu 259

Benefits increase: Legislation re (Bill 29) ... Fritz 806

Benefits increase: Letter re (SP176/05: Tabled) ... Taft 327

Benefits increase: Petition presented re ... Mather 1788; Pastoor 26

Benefits received under (Q32/05: Response tabled as SP640/05) ... Clerk, The 1746; Eggen 1344–45; Fritz 1344, 1746; Martin 1344; Stevens 1344–45

Earned income exemption under, raising of ... Amery 1254–55; Fritz 878, 890, 1254–55; Hinman 888; Johnston 890; McClellan 967

Assured Income for the Severely Handicapped*(Continued)*

- General remarks ... Fritz 877, 885, 887, 1524
 Modified AISH program for assisted care facilities residents ... Fritz 1149–50; Pastoor 1149–50
 Review of (2004) ... Speech from the Throne 10
 Review of (2004): Report ... Fritz 22, 661, 1150; Pastoor 22
 Review of (2004): Submissions received by (M23/05: Response tabled as SP641/05) ... Clerk, The 1746; Fritz 822–23, 1746; Pastoor 822–23
 Review of (2005): Report ... Amery 1254–55; Fritz 878, 1254–55
 Review of (2005): Report (SP389/05: Tabled) ... Lougheed 1205
 Supplementary benefits to personal income support ... Blakeman 881; Fritz 878, 879–80

Assured Income for the Severely HandicappedAmendment Act, 2005 (Bill 29)

- First reading ... Fritz 806
 Second reading ... Brown 1070; Fritz 939–40; Pannu 1069–70; Pastoor 1069
 Committee ... Fritz 1244–45; Mather 1246; Miller, B. 1245–46
 Third reading ... Backs 1512; Brown 1509–10, 1512; Flaherty 1510; MacDonald 1510; Martin 1511–12
 Royal Assent ... Lieutenant Governor 2 June, 2005 (Outside of House sitting), 2005 (Outside of House sittings)
 General remarks ... Fritz 879

At risk children—Education*See Children at risk—EducationATASee Alberta Teachers' AssociationATB FinancialSee Alberta Treasury Branch Financial; Treasury BranchesATCO learning centre, Royal Tyrrell MuseumSee Royal Tyrrell Museum of Paleontology, ATCO learning centre atAthabasca RiverRerouting of tributaries to ... Eggen 1715Athabasca UniversityGeneral remarks ... Hancock 981, 1793, 1795
 Mount Royal College transfer students ... Hancock 864Athletes, AlbertanSupport for ... Agnihotri 1151; Mar 1151ATOMS projectSee Apprenticeship training, Automated registration system forAttorney GeneralSee Dept. of Justice and Attorney GeneralATVsSee Off-highway vehiclesAUCCSee Association of Universities and Colleges of CanadaAuctions, PublicSee Public auctionsAudiologists, Alberta College of Speech-Language Pathologists andSee Alberta College of Speech-Language Pathologists and AudiologistsAudit CommitteePublic members on ... Klein 1102, 1106; Taft 1102Auditing, GovernmentSee Government auditingAuditor General

- Aboriginal Affairs dept. comments ... Calahasen 839
 Annual report, 2003-04 (SP158/05: Tabled) ... Tarchuk 295
 Annual report, 2004-05 (SP518/05: Tabled) ... Tarchuk 1632
 Anthony Henday Drive P3 contract, involvement in ... Oberg 287, 318
 BSE compensation programs auditing ... Horner 299; MacDonald 297
 BSE compensation programs auditing: Report on (SP157/05: Tabled) ... Tarchuk 295
 Charlebois Consulting Ltd. contracts, investigation of ... Evans 642–43; Taft 642–43
 Conflict of interest comments ... Lund 1420; Swann 1419
 Diploma exams equating process, recommendation re ... Zwozdesky 164
 Disaster recovery programs comments ... Swann 1419
 Fort McMurray land sale process, Auditor General's report on (SP518/05: Tabled) ... Tarchuk 1632
 Fort McMurray land sale process, report on ... Fritz 1741; Mason 1741; McClellan 1741, 1828
 Fort McMurray land sale process, report on leaked to media, AGs news release re (SP523/05: Tabled) ... Martin 1632
 Fort McMurray land sale process, report on leaked to media, point of privilege re ... Boutillier 1675–76; Mason 1636–37; Speaker, The 1637–38, 1675, 1676, 1719–20; Stevens 1637
 General remarks ... Ouellette 754
 Government agencies, boards, and commissions, political appointments to, recommendations re ... Klein 2047–48; Mason 2047–48
 Government aircraft usage, Review of ... Klein 82
 Government contracting process comments ... Elsalhy 1418; Lund 1419; Pastoor 1423–24
 Government employees' information technology security awareness recommendation ... Blakeman 754; Ouellette 755, 758, 759
 Government employees' information technology security awareness recommendation (Q18/05: Defeated) ... Elsalhy 812–13; Ouellette 812
 Government employees' information technology security awareness recommendation (Q33/05: Response tabled as SP824/05) ... Clerk, The 2056; Elsalhy 1746; Ouellette 1746, 2056
 Historic Resources Fund accounting comments ... Agnihotri 1475
 Interim estimates 2005-06: Debated ... MacDonald 254; Miller, R. 257
 Interim estimates 2005-06: Passed ... Webber 269
 Internal audit function centralization, comments re ... Klein 1100, 1102, 1106; Taft 1102
 Internal auditor, liason with ... Elsalhy 1104; Klein 1103, 1106; MacDonald 1103
 Introduction of ... Speaker, The 5
 Jubilee auditoria comments ... Agnihotri 1475; Mar 1473, 1476

Auditor General (Continued)

Long-term care facility grants: Audit of ... Evans 2050
 Long-term care facility management investigation (Seniors care programs) ... Evans 1077; Fritz 1201; Klein 1334; Martin 1077; Mason 1334
 Long-term care facility management investigation (Seniors care programs): Report ... Blakeman 1387, 1460; Evans 1497–98, 1623, 1707, 1843–44, 1962; Fritz 1387, 1388, 1392, 1497, 2010, 2012; Klein 1386–87, 1388, 1392, 1443–44; Martin 1444, 1886, 2010, 2012–13; Mason 1388, 1443–44, 1842, 1962; McClellan 1599; Pastoor 1497, 1707, 1717, 1881; Taft 1386, 1707
 Long-term care facility management investigation (Seniors care programs): Report (SP417/05: Tabled) ... Tarchuk 1342
 Main estimates, 2005–06: Passed ... Abbott 764; Chair 751
 Main estimates 2005–06: Tabled (SP319/05) ... McClellan 747
 Management letters re U of A and U of C, release of: Letter re (SP101/05: Tabled) ... MacDonald 128
 Municipal Affairs dept. comments ... Pastoor 1324
 Official Opposition press release re ... Klein 1333
 Official Opposition press release re (SP414/05: Tabled) ... Klein 1342; Zwozdesky 1342
 Oil sands projects approvals comments ... Martin 921; Melchin 921
 Pension plans compliance comments ... McClellan 962; Miller, R. 960
 Performance measures comments ... Boutilier 1037; Eggen 1041; Stelmach 1182
 Policing in Alberta, study of ... Cenaiko 1885; Miller, B. 1885
 Policing standards comments ... Cenaiko 1432
 Public/private partnership contracts, comments on ... Martin 616, 1092, 1802; McClellan 616; Oberg 1095
 Royalty reduction programs evaluation recommendation ... Eggen 915; Elsalhy 917; Martin 921; Melchin 921; Swann 1155
 Royalty revenues (oil sands) verification ... Martin 921; Melchin 921
 Securities Commission director of enforcement, information on action taken re ... McClellan 2047; Taft 2047
 Securities Commission enforcement processes, 2005 report on ... Mason 1708; McClellan 1664–65, 1707–08, 1828; Taft 1664–65, 1880
 Securities Commission enforcement processes, investigation of ... Hancock 1197, 1250–51, 1304–05; Klein 1333; Martin 1148–49, 1197, 1250; Mason 969, 1882; McClellan 898–99, 1144, 1148–49, 1332–33, 1882; Melchin 1197; Taft 898–99, 1144, 1304–05, 1332–33
 Securities Commission enforcement processes, investigation of, appropriateness of ... McClellan 947–48; Taft 947–48
 Securities Commission enforcement processes, investigation of, Auditor General's report on ... McClellan 1909; Taft 1909
 Securities Commission enforcement processes, investigation of, Auditor General's report on (SP520/05: Tabled) ... Tarchuk 1632

Auditor General (Continued)

Securities Commission enforcement processes, investigation of, authority to challenged, emergency debate re ... Hancock 1316–17; MacDonald 1318; Martin 1317–18; Speaker, The 1318–19; Taft 1144, 1315–16; Zwozdesky 1318
 Securities Commission enforcement processes, investigation of, letter to Legislative Offices committee re (SP434/05: Tabled) ... Martin 1452
 Securities Commission enforcement processes, investigation of: Minister's letter re ... McClellan 898
 Securities Commission enforcement processes, investigation of: Minister's letter re (SP349/05: Tabled) ... McClellan 908
 Securities Commission enforcement processes, investigation of, restrictions on ... Martin 1148; McClellan 1119, 1144
 Securities Commission enforcement processes, release to news media of report on, point of privilege re ... Blakeman 1633–35; Mason 1635, 1636; Speaker, The 1635, 1636, 1637–38, 1719–20; Stevens 1635–36, 1637
 Seniors' benefits program comments ... Fritz 1387; Pastoor 1387
 Seniors dept. financial statements, reservation of opinion re ... Fritz 1253; Pastoor 1252–53
 Sole-source contracts comments ... Elsalhy 619, 1418; MacDonald 760; Ouellette 619, 761
 Suggestive references to, in Legislative Assembly ... Blakeman 985–86; Hancock 984–85; Martin 986–87; Speaker, The 955, 984, 987–88; Tarchuk 987
 Sustainable resource development comments ... Bonko 1829; Boutilier 1829
 Tax programs recommendations ... McClellan 958–59
 Treasury Branches' control processes comments (Q36/05: Response tabled as SP648/05) ... Hancock 1788; McClellan 1747, 1788; Miller, R. 1746–47; Zwozdesky 1747
 Treasury Branches lending policies comments ... McClellan 2050; Miller, R. 960, 2050
 Wild Rose Foundation grants' auditing ... Agnihotri 1742–43; Mar 1497, 1525–26, 1597–98, 1742–43; Taft 1497, 1526, 1597–98
 Wild Rose Foundation grants' auditing: Minister's letter requesting (SP464/05: Tabled) ... Mar 1528
 Workers' Compensation Board performance review ... Cardinal 1338

Auditor General and Information and Privacy Commissioner Search Committee, Select Special Report, part 1 (Auditor General appointment) concurred in (Motion 23, 2002) ... Tarchuk 987

Auditor General of Canada
 RCMP services report ... Cenaiko 1884–85; Miller, B. 1884–85
 RCMP services report, chapter 1 (SP703/05: Tabled) ... Miller, B. 1891

Auditor's office, Chief Internal
 See Chief Internal Auditor's office

Augustana campus
 See University of Alberta, Augustana campus

Augustana University College
 Merger with University of Alberta: Legislation re (Bill Pr. 2) ... Johnson 622

AUMA

See Alberta Urban Municipalities Association

AUPE

See Alberta Union of Provincial Employees

Australian Wheat Board

General remarks ... Horner 1221, 1222

Authorized accredited agencies

Annual report, 2003-04 (SP646/05: Tabled) ... Clerk, The 1746; Renner 1746

Automobile accident injuries

See Traffic accident injuries

Automobile chop shops

General remarks ... Cenaiko 1256; Lund 1424; Miller, R. 1256; Pastoor 1423

Automobile drivers' licences

Graduated licences, monitoring of ... Cenaiko 1307-08; Jablonski 1307-08

Resumption of provincial control over issuing of ... Elsalhy 1417

Automobile drivers' licences—Security aspects

Facial recognition system ... Lund 1415

Automobile drivers' tests

Resumption of provincial control over ... Elsalhy 1417

Automobile industry

Greenhouse gas emissions reduction ... Abbott 772; Melchin 772

Automobile insurance—Premiums

See Insurance, Automobile—Premiums

Automobile Insurance Board

See Alberta Automobile Insurance Board

Automobile Insurance Rate Board

[See also under old name Alberta Automobile Insurance Board]

Announcement on rate reductions ... Ady 457; McClellan 454, 457; Taft 454

Annual report, 2004 (SP559/05: Tabled) ... Clerk, The 1675; McClellan 1675

General remarks ... McClellan 363, 958, 1669

Report on rate reductions ... Abbott 412-13; Mason 900; McClellan 86, 412-13, 900; Miller, B. 86; Miller, R. 283

Review of questionable practices by insurance companies ... McClellan 1339; Miller, R. 1339

Review of rates ... Mason 969; McClellan 454, 455, 457, 461, 900, 904, 969, 1339; Miller, R. 904, 1339

Review of rates: Letter requesting copy of (SP36/05: Tabled) ... Miller, R. 93

Automobile licence plates

Sale of, portion of to Wild Rose Ag. Producers ... Groeneveld 953; Horner 953

Veterans' stickers for ... Lougheed 366; Lund 366

Automobile seat belts

Role of, in preventive health care strategy ... Evans 205

Automobile telephones

See Cellular telephones in automobiles

Automobile theft—Prevention

General remarks ... Cenaiko 1256; Lund 1419, 1424, 1425; Miller, B. 1424; Miller, R. 1256; Pastoor 1423

Automobiles, Government

See Government vehicles

Automobiles, Written off/rebuilt

Resale of ... Lund 1424

Automobiles—Registration

Database of, use in child abduction cases ... Lund 486; Pham 486

Registrations transferred from other provinces, timeliness of ... Brown 1422

Automobiles—Seizure

For prostitution-related offences: Legislation re (Bill 39) ... Magnus 746

For prostitution-related offences: Legislation re (Bill 206, 2003) ... Cenaiko 456; Oberg 456-57; Taylor 456-57

Auxiliary hospitals

See Extended care facilities

Auxiliary hospitals, Private

See Extended care facilities, Private

Auxiliary hospitals—Finance

See Extended care facilities—Finance

Auxiliary hospitals—Standards

See Extended care facilities—Standards

Avian influenza

Industry protection measures re ... Haley 1780; Horner 1780

National surveillance program for See Canadian Cooperative Wildlife Health Centre, National surveillance program for avian flu

Avian influenza vaccine

See Vaccine, Avian influenza

Aviation, Standing Committee on

See Committee on Aviation, Standing

Aviation industry

See Airline industry

AVPA discussions

See Edmonton International Airport, Airport vicinity protection area discussions

Awards for Teaching Excellence, Prime Minister's

See Prime Minister's Awards for Teaching Excellence

AWPI

See Aboriginal workforce participation initiative

Axia NetMedia Corporation

Alberta Supernet contract ... Blakeman 754; Ouellette 755, 762, 854

B. C. Pension Corporation

See British Columbia Pension Corporation

B. C. Securities Commission

See British Columbia Securities Commission

B & R – Eckel's Transport Ltd.

General remarks ... Ducharme 744

Baby boom

General remarks ... Backs 1131-32

Babysitting services, Private

See Daycare in private homes

Backcountry safety

General remarks ... Coutts 769; Groeneveld 769

Badlands—Alberta

Tourism development in ... Dunford 48

Balancing Pool for Alberta's Electricity Consumers

Contribution to funding for Utilities Consumer Advocate ... Elsalhy 975, 1418; Lund 975, 1419

Baldwin, Mr. Tom

Recognition of ... Danyluk 251

Balzac horse racetrack

See Horse racetrack—Balzac

Banff Centre for Continuing Education

Audited financial statements, 2003-04 (SP291/05: Tabled) ... Clerk, The 623; Hancock 623
 Audited financial statements, 2004-05 (SP732/05: Tabled) ... Clerk, The 1920; Hancock 1920
 Sir Donald Cameron Hall renovations, funding for ... Oberg 1086, 1088

Banff/Jasper special infrastructure program

General remarks ... Renner 1320

Bank of Montreal

Executive Council account ... Klein 1107; Miller, R. 1107 Government procurement card system ... Ouellette 757

Barb Tarbox award of excellence and scholarship

See Smoking-Prevention, AADAC award of excellence and scholarship re (Barb Tarbox award)

Barley-Marketing

General remarks ... Martin 1213; Morton 1203; Speech from the Throne 9

Barrhead Healthcare Centre

Upgrades to ... Evans 1839, 1842

Barrhead-Morinville-Westlock (Constituency)

Member for, elected as Speaker ... Clerk, The 1; Haley 1; Kowalski 1

Barrier-free building design

See Architecture and the disabled

Bars

See Licensed premises

Basement suites, MLA Review Committee on

See Rental housing, Secondary suites: MLA Review Committee on, report

Basketball championships

Cardston Lady Cougars 3A provincial champions ... Hinman 956-57
 Foremost high school Falcons 1A provincial champions ... Mitzel 417-18
 Lord Beaverbrook Lords 4A high school champions ... Herard 325
 Raymond Comets 4A provincial champions ... Hinman 956-57
 U o A Golden Bears Canada West champions ... Taft 620

Batiuk, Mr. John (former MLA)

Memorial tribute to ... Speaker, The 1619

Battalion park school proposal, Calgary

See Schools-Construction-Calgary, Battalion park area

Battered children-Prevention

See Child abuse-Prevention

Battered women

Government programs for ... Blakeman 1139

Battered women-Housing

Second-stage housing ... Forsyth 743

Batterers

See Spousal abusers

Battle River-Water management

See Water resources development-Battle River

Battle River Community Foundation

Endowment funds, Statement re ... Johnson 1340

Battle River water diversion

See Water diversion-North Saskatchewan/Battle River basins

Battle River watershed

Planning re ... Boutilier 1047; Johnson 1046-47

The Bay building, Edmonton, purchase of

See University of Alberta, Bay building purchase, to accommodate learning transition facility

B.C. Information and Privacy Commissioner

See Information and Privacy Commissioner (B.C.)

B.C. ports strategy

See British Columbia ports strategy

Bear's Paw Day Care Centre, Edmonton

Closure of ... Eggen 1733; Forsyth 1733

Beef-Export

Age of animal verification system to expedite ... Horner 1220, 1600
 BSE-free status to expedite ... Haley 1599-1600; Horner 296, 1599-1600
 Diversification of markets for ... Dunford 1017; Hinman 1017, 1217; Horner 46, 298, 300, 1207, 1209, 1215-16, 1220; Martin 1213; Taft 15
 General remarks ... Stelmach 1184, 1186

Beef-Marketing

Farm gate sales ... Hinman 48; Horner 48
 Federal funding for ... Horner 258, 296
 Market retention and development fund for ... Horner 296, 300; Pannu 299
 Provincial funding for ... Horner 298, 1849

Beef-Prices

General remarks ... Horner 1210, 1499; MacDonald 1208; Mason 1499
 Minimum floor price ... Horner 300-01; Pannu 299

Beef export container initiative

See Stranded beef export container initiative

Beef Export Federation, Canada

See Canada Beef Export Federation

Beef Export Federation, Canadian

See Canadian Beef Export Federation

Beef industry

Compensation programs for, re BSE situation See Bovine spongiform encephalopathy, New assistance programs re (2005)

Beef processing

Concentration of, in few companies ... Horner 1209-10; MacDonald 1208
 General remarks ... Hinman 48; Horner 48, 296, 1211; Klein 14-15; McClellan 22; Pastoor 1181; Speech from the Throne 9
 Provincial assistance re ... Horner 1214

Beef Producers, Alberta

See Alberta Beef Producers

Beef recovery strategy (2004)

See Cattle-Export-United States, Contingency plan (2004) re continued border closure

Beef slaughter facilities

See Meat packing plants

Beer parlours

See Licensed premises

Behaviourally disturbed

See Mentally disabled

Behaviourally disturbed-Housing

See Mentally disabled-Housing

Beijing trade office

See Alberta Government Offices, Beijing office

Bell West

Alberta SuperNet contract ... Blakeman 754; Elsalhy 320; Ouellette 320, 755, 759–60, 854

Bellingham, Brendan Thomas

Recognition of ... Rodney 325

Benedict XVI, Pope

Statement re ... Lukaszuk 857–58

Bennett Jones LLP

ASC action on Walton International, letter re (SP794/05:

Tabled) ... Miller, R. 2017

Letter to Opposition Leader re comments concerning Chair of Securities Commission (SP721/05: Tabled) ... Blakeman 1919

Bentall Real Estate

Involvement with SouthLink health centre ... Chase 1467

Bercha Group

Sour gas blowout ignition study: Memos re (M7/05: Defeated) ... Eggen 664–65; Melchin 665; Zwozdesky 665

Sour gas blowout ignition study: Study re (M8/05: Response tabled as SP667/05) ... Clerk, The 1789; Eggen 665; Melchin 665, 1789; Zwozdesky 665

Best practices in health care symposium

See Unleashing Innovation in Health Systems Symposium (Calgary, May 3-5, 2005)

Bethany Long Term Care Centre, Camrose

Resident of, hunger strike re conditions in [See also Geddes, Marie]; Blakeman 1121, 1577; Evans 1074, 1077, 1121; Johnson 1074; Martin 1077; Mason 1599; McClellan 1599

A Better Balance: Nova Scotia's First Gaming Strategy (Report)

See Gaming industry–Nova Scotia, Policy re, report on

Big game farming

See Game farming

Big Lake basin

See Water resources development–Big Lake basin

Big Lake natural area

Designation as provincial park ... Flaherty 321; Lukaszuk 982; Mar 321

Renaming of ... Flaherty 321; Lukaszuk 982; Mar 321

Bighorn power plant

Exclusion from power purchase agreements ... MacDonald 363; Melchin 363–64

Bighorn sheep hunting

Under Métis hunting agreement ... Brown 850; Calahasen 850; Coutts 850

Bighorn wildlife recreation area

Access management plan for ... Coutts 648, 1573

Snowmobile trails in ... Dunford 744

Bigstone Cree Nation

Pamphlet on concerns re forest management agreement on lands of (SP705/05: Tabled) ... Tougas 1891

Biker gang crime–Prevention

See Gang-related crime–Prevention

Bill 11 (2000)

See Health Care Protection Act (Bill 11, 2000)

Bill 26, 2002

See Workers' Compensation Amendment Act, 2002 (Bill 26, 2002)

Bill 27 (2003)

See Labour Relations (Regional Health Authorities Restructuring) Amendment Act, 2003 (Bill 27, 2003)

Bill 28, 2004

See Feeder Associations Guarantee Amendment Act, 2004 (Bill 28, 2004)

Bill 37, 2003

See Climate Change and Emissions Management Act (Bill 37, 2003)

Bill 202, 2000

See Marriage Amendment Act, 2000 (Alberta Bill 202, 2000)

Bill 206, 2003

See Traffic Safety (Seizure of Vehicles in Prostitution Related Offences) Amendment Act, 2003 (Bill 206, 2003)

Bill C-38

See Civil Marriage Act (Federal) (Bill C-38)

Bills, Government

Bills containing similar provisions (Bills 47 and 207), ruling on ... Speaker, The 1789

Bills, Government (2005)

Information about any of the following Bills may be found by looking under the title of the Bill.

- No. 1 Access to the Future Act
- No. 2 Alberta Centennial Medal Act
- No. 3 City of Lloydminster Act
- No. 4 Alberta Science and Research Authority Amendment Act, 2005
- No. 5 Family Law Amendment Act, 2005
- No. 6 Fair Trading Amendment Act, 2005
- No. 7 Health Statutes Amendment Act, 2005
- No. 8 Personal Information Protection Amendment Act, 2005
- No. 9 Post-secondary Learning Amendment Act, 2005
- No. 10 Residential Tenancies Amendment Act, 2005
- No. 11 Stettlert Regional Water Authorization Act
- No. 12 Victims of Crime Amendment Act, 2005
- No. 13 Railway (Alberta) Amendment Act, 2005
- No. 14 Student Financial Assistance Amendment Act, 2005
- No. 15 Workers' Compensation Amendment Act, 2005
- No. 16 Business Corporations Amendment Act, 2005
- No. 17 Agrology Profession Act
- No. 18 Alberta Order of Excellence Amendment Act, 2005
- No. 19 Securities Amendment Act, 2005
- No. 20 Alberta Personal Income Tax Amendment Act, 2005
- No. 21 Hotel Room Tax (Tourism Levy) Amendment Act, 2005
- No. 22 Animal Protection Amendment Act, 2005
- No. 23 Administrative Procedures Amendment Act, 2005
- No. 24 Fatality Inquiries Amendment Act, 2005
- No. 25 Provincial Court Amendment Act, 2005
- No. 26 Corporate Tax Statutes Amendment Act, 2005
- No. 27 Appropriation (Supplementary Supply) Act, 2005
- No. 28 Municipal Government Amendment Act, 2005
- No. 29 Assured Income for the Severely Handicapped Amendment Act, 2005
- No. 30 Appropriation (Interim Supply) Act, 2005
- No. 31 Real Estate Amendment Act, 2005

Bills, Government (2005) (Continued)

- No. 32 Animal Keepers Act
- No. 33 Stray Animals Amendment Act, 2005
- No. 34 Insurance Amendment Act, 2005
- No. 35 Employment Pension Plans Amendment Act, 2005
- No. 36 Police Amendment Act, 2005
- No. 37 Financial Statutes Amendment Act, 2005
- No. 38 Pharmacy and Drug Amendment Act, 2005
- No. 39 Traffic Safety Amendment Act, 2005
- No. 40 Alberta Personal Income Tax Amendment Act, 2005 (No. 2)
- No. 41 Appropriation Act, 2005
- No. 42 Miscellaneous Statutes Amendment Act, 2005
- No. 43 Alberta Resource Rebate Statutes Amendment Act, 2005
- No. 44 Residential Tenancies Amendment Act, 2005 (No.2)
- No. 45 Maternal Tort Liability Act
- No. 46 Criminal Notoriety Act
- No. 47 Alberta Association of Former MLAs Act
- No. 48 Justice of the Peace Amendment Act, 2005
- No. 49 Police Amendment Act, 2005 (No.2)
- No. 50 Workers' Compensation Amendment Act, 2005 (No. 2)
- No. 51 Appropriation (Supplementary Supply) Act, 2005 (No.2)
- No. 52 Miscellaneous Statutes Amendment Act, 2005 (No.2)
- No. 53 Surface Rights Amendment Act, 2005
- No. 54 Alberta Centennial Education Savings Plan Amendment Act, 2005
- No. 55 Post-secondary Learning Amendment Act, 2005 (No. 2)
- No. 56 Business Corporations Amendment Act, 2005 (No.2)
- No. 57 Apprenticeship and Industry Training Amendment Act, 2005
- No. 58 Alberta Centennial Medal Amendment Act, 2005

Bills, Private (2005)

- Information about any of the following Bills may be found by looking under the title of the Bill.
- Pr. 1 Bow Valley Community Foundation Act
 - Pr. 2 Camrose Lutheran College Corporation Act
 - Pr. 3 Medicine Hat Community Foundation Amendment Act, 2005
 - Pr. 4 Brooklynn Hannah George Rewega Right of Civil Action Act

Bills, Private members' public

- Passage of ... Hancock 56
- Unanimous consent given for Bill 202 to proceed to Committee and Third readings (SO 8(3) waived) ... Jablonski 784, 790; Speaker, The 784; Zwozdesky 793

Bills, Private members' public (2005)

- Information about any of the following Bills may be found by looking under the title of the Bill.
- No. 201 Smoke-free Places Act
 - No. 202 Protection of Children Abusing Drugs Act
 - No. 203 Report on Alberta's Legacy Act
 - No. 204 Pharmacy and Drug (Methamphetamine Limiting) Amendment Act, 2005
 - No. 205 Fair Trading (Telemarketing) Amendment Act, 2005

Bills, Private members' public (2005) (Continued)

- No. 206 Alberta Pharmaceutical Savings Commission Act
- No. 207 Alberta Association of Former M.L.A.s Act
- No. 210 School (Property Tax Reduction) Amendment Act, 2005
- No. 211 Alberta Commission on Energy Efficiency Act
- No. 213 Standing Committee on Continuing Care Standards Act
- No. 214 Water Protection and Conservation Statutes Amendment Act, 2005
- No. 217 Election (Electoral Reform) Amendment Act, 2005
- No. 218 Land Agents Licensing (Licence Requirement) Amendment Act, 2005

Bills (Legislative Assembly publications)

See Sessional publications (Legislative Assembly)

Bingo halls

- Amendment to retain smoking in ... Blakeman 119; Klein 119
- Impact of anti-smoking legislation on ... Graydon 1799
- Revenue decrease from ... Graydon 1799; Tougas 1799

Bingos, Electronic

- Proceeds distribution ... Graydon 1278

Biodigesters

- Conversion of agricultural wastes to fuel source ... Horner 1222

Biomass as energy source

- [See also Energy resources, Alternate]
- General remarks ... Hinman 1426
- Tax incentives re ... Hinman 1426, 1851–52
- Vegreville project ... Doerksen 1887

Bioproducts industry, Agricultural

See Agricultural bioproducts industry

Biotechnology

- General remarks ... Dunford 1007, 1016

Bird flu

See Avian influenza

Bird flu vaccine

See Vaccine, Avian influenza

Birth to Three Society, Edmonton

- Recognition of ... Mather 578–79

Bison grazing on public lands

See Grazing lands, Public, Bison grazing on

Bitumen

- [See also Heavy oil]
- Value-adding re ... Mason 571–72; Melchin 532, 572, 909, 916, 917, 918

Bitumen–Export

- Impact on oil sands upgrading jobs ... Mason 571–72; Melchin 572

Black Gold Regional Division #18

- Letter to minister re collective bargaining method (SP403/05: Tabled) ... Martin 1259
- Operation/maintenance funding concerns ... Abbott 1030; Oberg 1030

Black Gold Teachers' Local #8

See Greater Black Gold Teachers' Local #8

Blais court case

See Natural Resources Transfer Agreement, First Nations hunting/fishing rights under, Blais court case re

Blind, Canadian Council of the. Alberta division

See Canadian Council of the Blind. Alberta division

Blind–Employment

CNIB assistance program re ... Cao 1524; Fritz 1524

Blind curling championship

See Curling championships, Western Canadian Blind championship

Blue Cross Benefits Corporation

See Alberta Blue Cross Benefits Corporation

Blue Cross Plan

See Alberta Blue Cross Plan

Blue Sky Communication Inc.

Film funding request ... Agnihotri 1475

Boards, Government

See Government agencies, boards, and commissions

Boilers Safety Association

See Alberta Boilers Safety Association

Bon Ton Bakery Ltd.

Healthy Choices pamphlet (SP6/05: Tabled) ... Taft 27

Book Publishers Association of Alberta

Lobbying for government support ... Agnihotri 2053

Book publishing industry

See Publishing industry

Border closure to Canadian cattle (2005)

See Cattle–Export–United States, Montana court injunction (2005) to keep border closed

Border crossings–Canada/United States

Additional 24-hour crossing for Alberta (Wild Horse crossing) ... Dunford 646; Mitzel 646

Boreal forest

Statement re ... Eggen 1395–96

Bouncers in licensed premises, training of

See Licensed premises, Bouncers in, training of

Bovine spongiform encephalopathy

Compensation plans re ... Horner 296, 1207, 1210, 1849; MacDonald 296–97; Martin 1212; Pannu 299
Compensation plans re: Auditor General investigation of ... Horner 299; MacDonald 297

Compensation plans re: Federal funding for ... Horner 258, 296, 1210; Miller, R. 257

General remarks ... Klein 1444; Stelmach 1181

Human/animal risk of ... Evans 319; Horner 250, 288, 319; Klein 288; Swann 319

Impact on cattle industry ... Chase 266; Danyluk 46; Haley 417, 1599–1600; Hinman 48–49, 262, 1217; Horner 42–43, 46, 48–49, 119, 289, 296, 298, 417, 1390, 1599–1600, 1607; Klein 14–15; MacDonald 296–97; Martin 22; Mason 42–43; McClellan 22–23, 749; Mitzel 119, 288–89; Pastoor 1181, 1182; Snelgrove 19–20; Stelmach 19–20, 288, 1182, 1184; Taft 15; Tarchuk 461

Impact on crop production ... Danyluk 695; Horner 695; Oberle 698

Impact on slaughter plants regulations ... Hinman 762

Live testing for ... Horner 300; MacDonald 297

New assistance programs re (2005) ... Horner 46, 258, 296; MacDonald 296–97; Miller, R. 257

Presence on game farms ... Swann 1221

Research into ... Doerksen 1372; Horner 258, 1211; MacDonald 1208; McClellan 749

Testing re ... Hinman 1017, 1218; Horner 1207, 1220

Testing re, to expedite exports ... Chase 266, 1185; Haley 1599–1600; Horner 296, 298–99, 300, 1216, 1599–1600; MacDonald 297; Martin 1213; Mason 16; Stelmach 1186

Testing standards re, harmonization with U.S. standards ... Horner 414, 417; VanderBurg 414

U.S. cow infected ... Hinman 262, 1217; Horner 1220

Bow River fishing

See Fisheries, Commercial–Bow River

Bow River Irrigation District

Headworks upgrading ... Oberg 1086

Bow River Water Quality Task Force

Water quality recommendations ... Boutilier 799

Bow Valley College

Construction projects at ... Oberg 1088

Courses offered to Prairie College of Applied Arts & Technology students ... Marz 1629

Bow Valley Community Foundation Act

Petition presented ... Brown 326

Recommendation to proceed ... Brown 1033

Standing Orders 85-89 complied with ... Brown 369

Bow Valley Community Foundation Act (Bill Pr. 1)

First reading ... Tarchuk 653

Second reading ... Tarchuk 1508

Committee ... Shariff 1509

Third reading ... Lougheed 1556; Tarchuk 1556

Royal Assent ... Lieutenant Governor 2 June, 2005
(Outside of House sittings)

Bowhunters Association, Southern Alberta

See Southern Alberta Bowhunters Association

Bowness school, Calgary

Refurbishment of ... Oberg 1572

Boyle McCauley Health Centre

Kindred House program: Statement re ... Mather 1451

BP Canada

Fire, Fort Saskatchewan facility ... Lougheed 207; Renner 207

Brabant, Loretta Van

See Van Brabant, Loretta

Braille

Teaching of, by teacher aids: Letter re (SP756/05: Tabled) ... Martin 1971

Braille menu

See La Ronde Restaurant, Edmonton, Braille menu at: Statement re

Brands, Livestock–Inspection

See Livestock brands–Inspection

Brazeau power plant

Exclusion from power purchase agreements ... MacDonald 363; Melchin 363–64

Breakaway to Win lottery ticket

See Hockey, Lottery funding for

Breast cancer–Research

Contributions by hang-gliding fundraiser to ... Miller, R. 1313

Breast prostheses

Inclusion under AADL program: Petition tabled re (SP306/05) ... Speaker, The 699; VanderBurg 699

Bridge to employment program

See Canadian National Institute for the Blind, Bridge to employment program

Bridges–Construction

Funding for ... Abbott 803; Oberg 803, 1086

Over waterways, federal approval process re ... Oberg 1802

Bridges–North Saskatchewan River–Drayton Valley area

General remarks ... Abbott 803; Chase 1802; Oberg 803, 1802

Bridges–Stoney Trail, Calgary

General remarks ... Chase 1802

Briefs, Court

Electronic distribution of See Disclosure of evidence (Legal procedure), Computerized system re

Brier champions, 2005 (Ferbey rink)

See Curling championships, Team Ferbey (2005 Brier champions)

British Columbia/Alberta accord

See Alberta/British Columbia accord

British Columbia/Alberta joint cabinet meeting

See Alberta/British Columbia joint cabinet meeting, March 2005

British Columbia Information and PrivacyCommissioner

See Information and Privacy Commissioner (B.C.)

British Columbia Pension Corporation

Appeal process: Website re (SP166/05: Tabled) ...
Miller, R. 295

British Columbia ports strategy

Alberta participation in ... Danyluk 772; Dunford 319;
Knight 319; Stelmach 772

British Columbia Power Exchange Corp.

Electricity price manipulation at Power Pool of Alberta ...
MacDonald 286; Melchin 286

Electricity price manipulation at Power Pool of Alberta:
Document re (SP164/05: Tabled) ... MacDonald 295
Involvement in Enron electricity price manipulation ...
Klein 83; MacDonald 83, 650; Miller, B. 42;
Stevens 42

Involvement in Enron electricity price manipulation:
Backgrounder re (SP148/05: Tabled) ... MacDonald
252–53

British Columbia regulations

General remarks ... Hinman 762; Ouellette 763

British Columbia Securities Commission

Procedures re land sales ... Taft 2008

British Columbia tie lines (electric power)

See Electric power lines, Tie lines with B.C. and Montana

British Commonwealth air crew memorial, Calgary

Recognition of ... Johnson 126

British Commonwealth of Nations

See Commonwealth of Nations

British monarchy

See Monarchy, British

Broda committee

See Long-Term Care Review Advisory Committee (1999)

Broda report

See Long-Term Care Review Advisory Committee (1999), Final report

Brooklynn Hannah George Rewega Right of CivilAction Act

Deferred until fall 2005 sitting ... Brown 1033

Petition presented ... Brown 326

Recommendation to proceed, with amendment ... Brown
1788

Standing Orders 85-89 complied with ... Brown 369

Brooklynn Hannah George Rewega Right of CivilAction Act (Bill Pr. 4)

First reading ... Oberle 622

Second reading ... Agnihotri 1947–48; MacDonald
1949; Miller, R. 1949; Morton 1948; Oberle 1947,
1949–50; Pannu 1949

Brooklynn Hannah George Rewega Right of CivilAction Act (Bill Pr. 4) (Continued)

Committee ... Agnihotri 1957–58; MacDonald 1958;
Oberle 1957–58

Third reading ... Miller, B. 2024; Oberle 2024; Pannu
2024

Royal Assent ... Lieutenant Governor of Alberta 2058

Amendment (SP647/05: Tabled) ... Brown 1788

Amendment (SP742/05: Tabled) ... Johnson 1958;
Oberle 1957

Brooks packing plant

See under Lakeside Packers

Brown, Mr. Allan

Statement re ... Brown 535

Bruderheim Elementary School

Closure ... Flaherty 693; Ouellette 287; Taylor 287;
Zwozdesky 693

BSE

See Bovine spongiform encephalopathy

Budget

2002-03 budget, advertising campaign re ... Elsalhy
1104; Klein 1105

2004-05 first- and second-quarter fiscal updates and activity reports (SP70-73/05: Tabled) ... Clerk, The
94; McClellan 94

2004-05 third-quarter fiscal update and activity report
(SP86-87/05: Tabled) ... McClellan 94

2005-06 first-quarter activity report (SP557/05: Tabled)
... Clerk, The 1675; McClellan 1675

2005-06 first-quarter fiscal update (SP556/05: Tabled) ...
Clerk, The 1675; McClellan 1675

2005-06 second-quarter activity report (SP595/05:
Tabled) ... McClellan 1676

2005-06 second-quarter fiscal update ... McClellan
1667; Morton 1667

2005-06 second-quarter fiscal update (SP594/05:
Tabled) ... McClellan 1676

As reflection of social values ... Forsyth 303; Mather
302

General remarks ... Blakeman 272; Brown 1106; Evans
273; Pannu 259; Taylor 261

Process re ... Evans 1622; Hancock 1621; Klein 160,
1621; McClellan 160, 1622; Oberg 1621; Ouellette
160; Stelmach 1621; Taft 160, 1621–22

Production of, prior to elections ... Mather 956

Budget 2005

Business plans 2005-08 (SP322/05: Tabled) ...
McClellan 747

Fiscal plan 2005-08 (SP321/05: Tabled) ... McClellan
747

Budget Address

[See also Alberta—Economic policy]

Motion 19: McClellan ... McClellan 747–50

Budget debate

Motion 19: McClellan ... Hinman 782–83; Lukaszuk
783; Mason 780–82; Taft 776–80

Building Alberta's Labour Supply

See Labour supply, Strategy re

Building design for the disabled

See Architecture and the disabled

Building trades—Collective bargaining

See Collective bargaining—Building trades

Building Trades Council, Alberta

See Alberta Building Trades Council

Bullying

Over the Internet ... Forsyth 1062

Bullying, Round-table on Family Violence and (May 2004)

See Round-table on Family Violence and Bullying, Calgary (May 2004)

Bullying–Prevention

General remarks ... Hinman 1272–73

Provincial initiatives re ... Forsyth 1062; Zwozdesky 1274

Provincial initiatives re: For gay/lesbian youth ... Blakeman 1060–61; Forsyth 1062

Provincial initiatives re: Funding for ... Forsyth 301, 303, 1051, 1052; Mather 303, 1054; McClellan 748; Zwozdesky 1265

Provincial initiatives re: Involvement of youth in ... Danyluk 1062

Statement re ... Lindsay 1715

Bullying Awareness Week

General remarks ... Lindsay 1715

Bunker C crude oil spill, Lake Wabamum

See Spills (Pollution)–Lake Wabamum

Burning of garbage

See Incineration

Bursaries

Funding for ... Hancock 860, 864

Bursaries for medical school students

See Medical profession–Education, Bursary program for

Bursaries for northern students

See Northern Alberta Development Council, Bursary programs

Bursaries for youth

See Advancing futures bursary program

Business & the Arts, Calgary Mayor's Luncheon for

See Mayor's Luncheon for Business & the Arts, Calgary

Business Corporations Amendment Act, 2005 (Bill 16)

First reading ... Brown 127

Second reading ... Backs 677–78; Brown 423; Elsalhy 675–76; MacDonald 423; Pannu 676–77

Committee ... Brown 1113–15; Elsalhy 1113–15

Third reading ... Bonko 1194; Brown 1194; Chase 1194

Royal Assent ... Lieutenant Governor 10 May, 2005 (Outside of House sitting)

Amendment (SP377/05: Tabled) ... Brown 1113; Lindsay 1116

Proclamation of ... Brown 1422; Lund 1422

Business Corporations Amendment Act, 2005 (No.2) (Bill 56)

First reading ... Brown 1890

Second reading ... Brown 1955; MacDonald 1956–57; Miller, R. 1956; Morton 1955–56, 1957

Committee ... Blakeman 1979–80; Brown 1980; Elsalhy 1980; MacDonald 1980

Third reading ... Hancock 2030; Pannu 2030–31; Tougas 2030

Royal Assent ... Lieutenant Governor of Alberta 2057

Business Information Centre, Calgary

See Calgary Business Information Centre

The Business Link

General remarks ... Dunford 1007

Businesses

See Corporations

Businesses–Taxation

See Corporations–Taxation

Busing of schoolchildren

See Schoolchildren–Transportation

Button, Gordon

See Ombudsman

Bylaws, Municipal

See Municipal bylaws

Byrd amendment

See Softwoods–Export–United States, Countervail duties re: Byrd amendment re

CAA

See Student assessment, Computer adaptive assessment tool re

CAANA

See Commuter Air Access Network of Alberta

Cabinet meeting, British Columbia/Alberta joint

See Alberta/British Columbia joint cabinet meeting, March 2005

Cabinet ministers

See Ministers (Provincial government)

CAIS program

See Canadian agriculture income stabilization program

CAJ

See Canadian Association of Journalists

Calf set-aside program (Canada/Alberta)

Extension of ... Danyluk 46; Horner 42, 46, 119–20, 301, 1207, 1208, 1498; MacDonald 1208; Mitzel 119
General remarks ... Horner 301, 1220

Calgary

As financial centre ... Dunford 1011

Calgary Aboriginal Urban Affairs Committee

General remarks ... Calahasen 838, 841

Calgary Airport Authority

Rent paid to federal government ... Oberg 362

Calgary Board of Education

Co-operation with police service in child abduction cases ... Cenaiko 487; Pham 486

English as a Second Language programs, funding for ... Amery 1572; Cao 1784; Zwozdesky 1572, 1784

International students ... Cao 1786

Portable classrooms ... Chase 1801

School construction delays ... Ady 1198–99; Oberg 1198–99

School maintenance problems ... Oberg 459; Swann 459

Shawnessy-Somerset school ... Zwozdesky 1914

Western Canada high school restoration funding ... Oberg 1572; Taylor 1572

Calgary Business Information Centre

General remarks ... Dunford 1007

Calgary Catholic Board of Education

Funding ... Ady 1501; Zwozdesky 1501

Portable classrooms ... Chase 1801

Tuscany school ... Zwozdesky 1914

Calgary-Edmonton corridor

Economic growth in ... Dunford 531

Calgary Exhibition and Stampede Ltd.

Closure of race track ... Graydon 1283

Funding for ... Graydon 1798–99; Tougas 1798

Lottery funding for ... Graydon 124, 976, 1278, 1288, 1289; Tougas 976, 1288

Statement re ... Ady 1204

Calgary Flames Hockey Club

Lottery funding See Hockey, Lottery funding for

Calgary General Hospital

Destruction of ... Chase 1087, 1466; MacDonald 1845

Calgary Health Region

Annual report, 2003-04 (SP91/05: Tabled) ... Evans 128

Annual report, 2004-05 (SP619/05: Tabled) ... Clerk, The 1717; Evans 1717

Cataract surgery/ophthalmology services ... Evans 1966, 2051; Klein 1966, 2051; MacDonald 1846; Pannu 1966, 2051

Cataract surgery/ophthalmology services, review of ... Evans 1966

Doctor shortage, northeast Calgary, review of ... Amery 533; Evans 533

Funding ... Evans 271, 977; MacDonald 1846; Snelgrove 977

Hip and knee surgery project ... MacDonald 1846

Hip/knee surgery contract with Health Resource Centre ... Blakeman 244-45; Evans 244-45, 644, 1145; Klein 644, 1145; Mason 643-44, 1145

Hospital capital upgrades ... Evans 1838; Oberg 1309

Partnership with Age Care Ltd. re long-term care facilities ... Blakeman 460; Evans 460

Partnership with Alberta Cancer Board re new cancer facility ... Evans 274

Physical therapy funding ... Evans 274

Privatization initiatives ... MacDonald 1846; Mason 1465

Calgary Heritage Fair

General remarks ... Chase 1342

Calgary HomeFront project (Domestic violence)

See HomeFront (Domestic violence prevention program)

Calgary Local Council of Women

Minimum wage increase, letter re (SP350/05: Tabled) ... Eggen 957; Mason 957

Calgary Mayor's Luncheon for Business & the Arts

See Mayor's Luncheon for Business & the Arts, Calgary

Calgary-McCall (Constituency)

Member for, appreciation extended to ... Speaker, The 4

Member for, elected as Deputy Chair of Committees, on second ballot ... Abbott 4; Cao 4; Clerk, The 4, 5; Danyluk 4; Haley 4; Johnson 4; Shariff 4, 5; Speaker, The 4, 5

Calgary-Montrose (Constituency)

Member for's role in Calgary ward 10 municipal election investigation ... Renner 1249; Taft 1249

Member for's role re transfer of Wild Rose grants to Vietnamese cultural society ... Mar 1442; Taft 1442

Calgary-Mountain View (Constituency)

Member for ... Blakeman 26

Calgary Police Service

Chief Crowfoot Learning Centre ... Cenaiko 1123

Child abduction procedures ... Cenaiko 486; Pham 486

Child exploitation prevention teams ... Cenaiko 206

Domestic violence conflict unit ... Cenaiko 1576

Organized crime cases See Integrated Response to Organized Crime

Peace officers on beat in inner city areas ... Cenaiko 1437-38

Provincial funding for ... Cenaiko 800-01; Pannu 800-01

Calgary Public School Board

See Calgary Board of Education

Calgary Remand Centre

Extension to ... Cenaiko 696

Calgary Stampede

See Calgary Exhibition and Stampede Ltd.

Calgary Sun (Newspaper)

Calgary mayor's comments re ambulance service transfer to municipalities (SP7/05: Tabled) ... Martin 27

Calgary Tower climb

See Alberta Wilderness Association, Calgary Tower climb

Calgary-Varsity (Constituency)

Events in, attended by the Member for ... Chase 1152, 1341-42

Calgary Vietnamese Cao daist Cultural Society

Statement re ... Pham 1672-73

Wild Rose grants transferred to ... Mar 1442, 1497; Taft 1442, 1497

Wild Rose grants transferred to: Community association's letter re (SP459/05: Tabled) ... Blakeman 1528

Wild Rose grants transferred to: Point of order re ... Blakeman 1452-53, 1454; Hancock 1453; Pham 1452, 1454; Speaker, The 1453-54

Calgary ward 10 municipal election

See under Elections, Municipal—Calgary, Ward 10 election process

Call centres

See Health Link Alberta; Service Alberta initiative (Government information access)

Calpine Energy Services

Electricity export application ... MacDonald 650; Melchin 650

Cambridge Strategies Inc.

Review of risk management fund for Alberta Members of the Legislative Assembly See under Risk management fund

Camp Firefly (Anti-bullying initiative)

General remarks ... Blakeman 1061

Campaign funds, Electoral

See Electoral campaign funds

Campus Alberta

General remarks ... Goudreau 1394

Campus Alberta digital library

See Lois Hole digital library (Proposed)

Campus Alberta Quality Council

Annual report, 2004-05 (SP701/05: Tabled) ... Hancock 1891

Degree program approval process ... Hancock 851, 1168, 1790, 1791, 1796; Pannu 1794

Degree program approval process, documentation re (M50/05: Defeated) ... Chase 1921-22; Hancock 1921-22; Taylor 1921

Minutes of meetings of (M38/05: Defeated) ... Hancock 1166-67; Martin 1166-67; Pannu 1166

Campus Calgary

General remarks ... Hancock 864, 1791, 1793; Taylor 862, 1791, 1792

Campus daycare spaces

See Daycare centres—Campuses

Camrose casino

See Casinos—Camrose

Camrose Lutheran College Corporation Act

- Petition presented ... Brown 326
- Recommendation to proceed, with amendment ... Brown 1033
- Standing Orders 85-89 complied with ... Brown 369

Camrose Lutheran College Corporation Act (Bill Pr. 2)

- First reading ... Johnson 622
- Second reading ... Johnson 1508; Prins 1508-09
- Committee ... Johnson 1509; Prins 1509
- Third reading ... Johnson 1556
- Royal Assent ... Lieutenant Governor 2 June, 2005 (Outside of House sittings)
- Amendment (SP363/05: Tabled) ... Brown 1033
- Amendment (SP457/05: Tabled) ... Johnson 1509; Prins 1509

Camrose Regional Exhibition and Agricultural Society

- Lottery funding for ... Graydon 1286; Pannu 1285

Camrose regional sport development centre

- General remarks ... Johnson 1917-18

Camrose women's shelter

- See Womens' shelters—Camrose

Canada—History

- General remarks ... Mather 302

Canada/Alberta Affordable Housing Program

- Funding for Fort McMurray housing ... Fritz 87
- Funding for northern Alberta housing ... Fritz 1125
- General remarks ... Blakeman 881; Fritz 878, 882, 888, 1198

Canada/Alberta infrastructure program

- See Infrastructure Canada/Alberta Program

Canada/Alberta labour market development program

- General remarks ... Stelmach 1392

Canada/Alberta municipal rural infrastructure program

- General remarks ... Oberg 1086

Canada/Alberta set-aside program

- See Calf set-aside program

Canada Beef Export Federation

- General remarks ... Horner 1209

Canada Health Act

- Discussions with federal officials re ... Hancock 1308; Swann 1308
- General remarks ... Blakeman 1463; Evans 205, 1147, 1465, 1843, 1846; Mason 1842
- Physician access to both public and private health systems provisions ... Blakeman 1622; Evans 1622

Canada Health and Social Transfer (Federal government)

- General remarks ... McClellan 1667; Miller, R. 1188; Morton 1667; Pastoor 1181; Stelmach 1188
- Impact of Alberta's health care restructuring on ... Hancock 1308; Swann 1308
- Parity of Ontario and Alberta re ... Groeneveld 1503; McClellan 1524; Pastoor 1523-24; Stelmach 1503, 1523-24

Canada Health Day

- Statement re ... Elsalhy 1505

Canada Safeway Ltd.

- Oliver, Edmonton, store support for ArtStart program ... Blakeman 252

Canadian Agricultural Safety Week

- Statement re ... Prins 293-94

Canadian agriculture income stabilization program

- Administration costs ... Horner 1851; MacDonald 1850
- Changes to ... Danyluk 1624-25; Horner 1624-25, 1849
- Claims under, impacts on ... Horner 1207
- Equity loss advance component ... Horner 298
- Funding of, with surplus funds ... McClellan 1626; Miller, R. 1626
- General remarks ... Hinman 263, 1217, 1714, 1851; Horner 49, 119-20, 122, 296, 297-98, 367, 488, 695, 1211-12, 1219-20, 1850, 1851; MacDonald 297, 1208-09; Martin 1212; Marz 488; McFarland 122; Mitzel 119; VanderBurg 367
- Overpayments ... Horner 1850-51; MacDonald 1850
- Recalculation of reference margins, pilot project re ... Horner 1624-25

Canadian armed forces

- Service in Afghanistan: Prayer/condolences for death re ... Speaker, The 1880

Canadian Association of Food Banks

- Time for Action: HungerCount 2005 (Report) (SP712/05: Tabled) ... Oberle 1891

Canadian Association of Journalists

- Code of Silence Award given to province of Alberta ... Mason 1569
- Code of Silence Award given to province of Alberta: News release re (SP462/05: Tabled) ... Chase 1528

Canadian Association of Petroleum Producers

- Greenhouse gas emissions reduction, comments on ... Boutilier 365, 485; Eggen 365

Canadian Beef Export Federation

- Legacy project ... Dunford 1017; Horner 298, 1220

Canadian Cancer Society

- Research on cancer prevention projects ... Evans 271

Canadian Cattle Identification Agency

- Age verification system for slaughter cattle ... Horner 1600
- RF ID tag requirement: Letter re (SP267/05: Tabled) ... Martin 536

Canadian Cattlemen for Fair Trade

- NAFTA challenge re U.S. border closure to Canadian cattle ... Horner 289, 290-91, 301; Klein 290; Martin 290; Mitzel 289; Pannu 300

Canadian Cattlemen's Association

- General remarks ... Horner 290, 299, 949, 1210, 1215, 1220, 1498

Canadian College International Institute

- Monitoring report on, 2004 (SP445/05: Tabled) ... Backs 1508

Canadian Cooperative Wildlife Health Centre

- National surveillance program for avian flu ... Coutts 1781; Horner 1780

Canadian Council of the Blind, Alberta division

- Letter re using teacher aids to teach braille (SP756/05: Tabled) ... Martin 1971

Canadian Cystic Fibrosis Foundation

- Statement re ... Lougheed 1577-78

Canadian Environmental Protection Act (Federal)

- Amendments to, in federal budget legislation ... Abbott 485; Boutilier 485
- Carbon dioxide classified as noxious gas under ... Boutilier 1967; Morton 1967
- Vehicle for Project Green implementation ... Melchin 772

- Canadian Finals Rodeo 2005
 Lottery funding for ... Graydon 1278
 Statement re ... VanderBurg 1968
- Canadian Food Inspection Agency
 Alberta level 3 lab approval ... Horner 1885
 Avian flu test results announcements ... Haley 1780;
Horner 1780
 BSE tests approval ... Hinman 1218; Horner 414, 417, 1220
- Canadian Forces Base Suffield National Wildlife Area
 Encana development in, news release re (SP550/05: Tabled) ... Swann 1675
- Canadian Forest Products Ltd.
 Hines Creek mill closure, impact of ... Bonko 123–24;
Coutts 88; Dunford 88–89, 123–24; Goudreau 88;
Oberg 88
- Canadian history, Governor General's award for excellence in teaching
See Governor General's award for excellence in teaching Canadian history
- Canadian Institutes of Health Research
 Report on workplace injuries in Canada ... Backs 1122;
Cardinal 1122; Martin 1118
- Canadian International Development Agency
 Alberta partnership with, for foreign aid projects ... Mar
 1442, 1497, 1597; Taft 1497, 1526, 1597
- Canadian Legion
See Royal Canadian Legion
- Canadian Medical Association
 Provincial discussions with, re public/private health
 systems ... Evans 1665
- Canadian National Institute for the Blind
 Bridge to employment program ... Cao 1524; Fritz
 1524
- Canadian Natural Resources Limited
 Donation to Bonnyville recreation centre ... Ducharme
 1482
 Horizon oil sands project ... Melchin 203
 Horizon oil sands project, airport for ... Cardinal 1138
 Horizon oil sands project: Foreign workers at ... Backs
 121–22, 2048; Cardinal 121–22, 322, 2048–49;
Jablonski 121; Klein 647; Martin 647, 920, 1137
 Horizon oil sands project: Foreign workers at, statement re ... Mason 209–10
 Pipeline leak ... Boutillier 1448; Melchin 1447–48;
Swann 1447–48
- Canadian Parks and Wilderness Society
 Newsrelease re Encana development in Suffield national wildlife area (SP550/05: Tabled) ... Swann 1675
- Canadian Petroleum Interpretive Centre
 Expansion to (Project Discovery) ... Rogers 774
- Canadian Security Intelligence Service
 Air India bombing investigation ... Mason 462
- Canadian Space Agency
 Partnership with Edmonton Public School Board ...
Mather 1726; Zwozdesky 1726
- Canadian Wheat Board
 Market choice addition to ... Hinman 1217; Horner
 1221, 1222; Martin 1213; Speech from the Throne 9
 Protesters against, Saskatchewan court decision re ...
Morton 1203
 Value-added products removal from ... Hinman 1217
- Canamex highway
See North/south trade corridor
- Cancer–Prevention
 Pilot projects re ... Evans 271
- Cancer–Research
 Dr. Stuart Kauffman's research ... Herard 1151
- Cancer–Treatment
 Funding increase for ... Blakeman 1028; Evans 1028
- Cancer–Treatment –Southern Alberta
 General remarks ... Hinman 1468
- Cancer Awareness Month
 Recognition of ... Chase 490–91
- Cancer Board
See Alberta Cancer Board
- Cancer Society, Canadian
See Canadian Cancer Society
- Canfor
See Canadian Forest Products Ltd.
- Canine sniffer program in schools
See Drugs in schools, Use of dogs to detect
- Canmore Nordic Centre
 Funding for ... Mar 1150
 General remarks ... Tarchuk 1888
 Upgrades to: Costs (M36/05: Accepted) ... Mar 1165;
Martin 1165; Pannu 1165; Zwozdesky 1165
 Upgrades to: Funding for ... Agnihotri 306; Graydon
 305, 306; Mar 305, 1473; Pannu 306
- Cannabis
See Marijuana
- Canoe trip, Rocky Mountain House to Edmonton
See Centennial canoe trip, Rocky Mountain House to Edmonton
- Canoffer Society
 25th anniversary: Program from (SP390/05: Tabled) ...
Chase 1205
 25th anniversary: Statement re ... Chase 1152
- Canola program
See Grow with Canola program
- CanWest CanSpell National Spelling Bee
 Champion (Finola Hackett) ... Lougheed 907
- Caodaist Cultural Society, Calgary Vietnamese
See Calgary Vietnamese Caodaist Cultural Society
- Capital account
See Centennial Capital Plan
- Capital endowment fund (Proposed)
 General remarks ... Chase 1801; Elsalhy 1326
- Capital Finance Authority
See Alberta Capital Finance Authority
- Capital fund
See Centennial Capital Plan
- Capital Health
 Abortion services, contracting out of ... Evans 853;
Pannu 853
 Allan Gray Continuing Care Centre, review of conditions in ... Agnihotri 1499; Evans 1499
 Ambulatory learning centre joint project See Health sciences ambulatory learning centre (University of Alberta)
 Annual report, 2003-04 (SP131/05: Tabled) ... Evans
 211
 Annual report, 2004-05 (SP620/05: Tabled) ... Clerk,
The 1717; Evans 1717
 Cataract surgery/ophthalmology services ... Evans 1966,
 2051; Klein 1966, 2051; Pannu 1966
 Electric power bills to, overcharging re ... Klein 161;
Lund 161–62; Mason 161

Capital Health (Continued)

Funding ... Evans 271, 273, 977; MacDonald 1846; Snelgrove 977

Hip and knee surgery project ... MacDonald 1846

Hospital capital upgrades ... Blakeman 1839; Evans 1839

Outpatient residence, U of A hospital See Walter C.

Mackenzie Health Sciences Centre, Outpatient residence, replacement with private run facility

Physical therapy funding ... Evans 274

Physiotherapy service cuts ... Blakeman 163; Evans 163

Surplus funding for ... Evans 1622; Taft 1621

Capital investment, Public

See Investment of public funds

Capital Plan

See Centennial Capital Plan

Capital projects

Deficit re ... Martin 1802–03; Oberg 1803

General remarks ... Chase 265; McClellan 747, 749; Speech from the Throne 9; Taylor 261

Provincial funding for (Capital plan) See Centennial Capital Plan

Public/private partnerships re ... Chase 645, 905, 1467, 1883; Elsalhy 88; Evans 646; Martin 616–17, 1092, 1802; McClellan 616–17; Oberg 617, 645, 905, 1093, 1095, 1803, 1883–84; Ouellette 88

Public/private partnerships re: Auditor General's comments re ... Martin 616, 1092; McClellan 616; Oberg 1095

Public/private partnerships re: List of all potential projects (M33/05: Response tabled as SP512/05) ... Backs 1163; Chase 1162; Clerk, The 1608; MacDonald 1162–64; Oberg 1163, 1608; Stelmach 1163

Small projects funding ... Chase 1801; Oberg 1800

Surplus spending on ... Oberg 1621; Taft 1621

Capital projects, Medical

[See also Health facilities–Construction]

Funding for ... Agnihotri 1844; Blakeman 272, 1839–41; Evans 271–75, 1458, 1838–39, 1841–46; MacDonald 1845–46; Mason 1842–43

General remarks ... Blakeman 1841

Operating funds for ... Blakeman 1840; Evans 1841

Capital projects, Municipal

General remarks ... Speech from the Throne 9

Capital projects, Municipal–Finance

Calgary education projects ... Ady 1198–99; Cao 1026–27; Oberg 1026–27, 1198–99

Crowsnest Pass projects ... Miller, B. 1305–06; Oberg 1305; Renner 1306

Edmonton projects ... Miller, R. 258, 1327

Federal funding ... Chase 1801; Miller, R. 1328; Oberg 1086, 1800; Renner 1323; Taft 1323

Fort McMurray projects ... Boutilier 485; Chase 484–85, 575–76, 1199, 1627–28; Danyluk 203; Klein 484–85, 527–28; McClellan 527, 1628; Melchin 203; Oberg 200, 576, 1199, 1628; Renner 1628; Taft 200, 527

Fort McMurray projects: Statement re ... Taylor 535

General remarks ... Agnihotri 1327; Chase 796–97, 1086, 1199; Elsalhy 1326; Forsyth 900; Hancock 796–97; Hinman 900; Martin 1091; McClellan 749, 900; McFarland 1253; Miller, R. 1327;

Capital projects, Municipal–Finance (Continued)

General remarks (Continued) ... Oberg 200–01, 900, 1085, 1093–94, 1096, 1199, 1253; Renner 1253, 1323; Taft 200; VanderBurg 1095–96; Zwozdesky 771

Legacy funding for, proposed ... Chase 741; Miller, R. 960; Zwozdesky 741

Regional pooling of ... Oberg 1096; VanderBurg 1096

Summer villages projects ... Oberg 1096; VanderBurg 1096

Vetting of projects with provincial government ... Martin 1091; Oberg 1094, 1253; Renner 848; Taft 848

Capital projects–Finance

General remarks ... Martin 771; Oberg 1085, 1803; Zwozdesky 771

MLA input into prioritization of ... Agnihotri 1089

Statement re ... Taylor 535

Use of budget surplus funds for ... Ady 797–98; McClellan 797–98; Oberg 798

Capital projects–Northern Alberta

General remarks ... Danyluk 804–05

CAPP

See Canadian Association of Petroleum Producers

Car accident injuries

See Traffic accident injuries

Car chop shops

See Automobile chop shops

Car insurance–Premiums

See Insurance, Automobile–Premiums

Car phones

See Cellular telephones in automobiles

Car-racing on city streets

See Street car-racing

Car theft–Prevention

See Automobile theft–Prevention

Carbon dioxide

Classification as noxious gas ... Boutilier 1967; Morton 1967

Carbon dioxide emissions

Reduction in ... Boutilier 1829; Eggen 1374

Regulations re ... Boutilier 1967–68; Morton 1967

Research into ... Doerksen 1369, 1374; Eggen 1374

Carbon dioxide emissions credits trading

See Emission control credits, Trading of

Carbon dioxide projects

General remarks ... Doerksen 1887; Melchin 743

Joffre project ... Boutilier 21

Tax incentives for research into ... Hinman 1911; Klein 1911–12

Carbon dioxide sequestering in oil recovery: Research

See Oil recovery methods, Carbon dioxide sequestering: Research

Carbon dioxide sinks

General remarks ... Griffiths 1334–35; Horner 1334–35

Carbon sequestration in soils

See Soils, Carbon absorption properties

Carbon technologies, Clean

See Clean energy technology

Carcass quality feedback program

See Cattle carcass quality feedback program

Cardiac surgery

See Heart–Surgery

Cardinal, Douglas (Architect)

Lieutenant Governor of Alberta Arts Award recipient ... Tarchuk 1606

- Cardinal Joseph Ratzinger
See Benedict XVI, Pope
- Cardinal-Schubert, Joane (Artist)
See Artwork, Alberta, Donation to National Gallery of Canada
- Cardiopulmonary resuscitation–Training
 As part of school curriculum ... Lukaszuk 204–05;
Zwozdesky 205
 Statement re ... Johnson 535
- Cardiovascular surgery
See Heart–Surgery
- Career Computer Center Inc.. Alberta
See Alberta Career Computer Center Inc.
- Career development department
See Dept. of Human Resources and Employment
- Career development programs
See Employment training programs
- Careers: the Next Generation (Youth employment program)
 General remarks ... Cardinal 1135
- Cargill, Incorporated
 Relation to Ranchers Own ... Horner 1210; MacDonald 1208
- Caribou–Kakwa–Narraway watershed
 Impact of industrial development on: Letter re (SP803/05: Tabled) ... Eggen 2018
- Caribou management
 General remarks ... Bonko 930, 1963; Coutts 926, 955, 1521, 1963, 1965; Strang 1964–65
- Caribou (Porcupine herd)–Alaska/Canada
 Impact of drilling activity on ... Brown 1188; Stelmach 1188
- Caritas Health Group
 School lunch program: Statement re ... Blakeman 2015
- Caroline highway maintenance yard, environmental issues re
See Dept. of Infrastructure and Transportation, Highway maintenance yard, Caroline, environmental issues re
- Cars, Government
See Government vehicles
- Cars, Rebuilt
See Automobiles, Written off/rebuilt
- Cars–Registration
See Automobiles–Registration
- Cars–Seizure
See Automobiles–Seizure
- Carseland/Bow River irrigation district
See Bow River Irrigation District
- Carson, Ms Linda-Rae
 Statement re ... Miller, R. 2016; Morton 2016
- CASA
See Clean Air Strategic Alliance
- Cash register system for traffic fines, Computerized
See Fines (Traffic violations), Computerized cash register system re
- Cashless technology for slot machines
See Slot machines in casinos, Cashless technology for
- Casino licences
 Application for, public hearing re ... Tougas 1288
- Casinos
 Amendment to retain smoking in ... Blakeman 119;
Klein 119
 Cashless technology in ... Graydon 2052; Tougas 2052
- Casinos (Continued)
 First Nations' casinos See Gambling–Aboriginal reserves
 General remarks ... Graydon 1281, 1283; Tougas 1279, 1889
 Impact on local crime rate ... Graydon 1287
 Limit on number of ... Graydon 1280, 1712–13; Tougas 1280, 1712–13
 Use as provincial revenue generator ... Chase 1744–45; Tougas 1279
- Casinos–Camrose
 Lottery funding for ... Graydon 1286; Pannu 1285
 Provincial funding for ... Forsyth 1200; Mather 1200
- CASS
See Council of Alberta School Superintendents
- Castle–Crown wilderness area
 General remarks ... Mar 2012
 Redesignation as Andy Russell I'tai Sah Kòp wild-land park ... Chase 1673, 2012; Klein 2012
 Redesignation as Andy Russell I'tai Sah Kòp wild-land park: Letter re (SP819/05: Tabled) ... Eggen 2056
- Castle Downs high school priority
See High schools–Construction–Edmonton, Castle Downs area school, change in priority re
- Castle Wetlands ecological reserve, West
See West Castle Wetlands ecological reserve
- Cataract Creek wilderness protected area
 General remarks ... Chase 1480–81; Mar 1484
- Cataract surgery, Private–Calgary
 Waiting times for ... Evans 1966, 2051; Klein 1966, 2051; MacDonald 1846; Mason 1465; Pannu 1965–66, 2051
 Waiting times for: Health and Wellness website chart re ... Pannu 1965–66, 2051
 Waiting times for: Health and Wellness website chart re (SP802/05: Tabled) ... Pannu 2018
- Catholic bishop of Calgary
See Henry, Frederick B., Roman Catholic Bishop of Calgary
- Cattle
 Age verification system re ... Horner 298–99, 1600, 1849
 Age verification system re: Press release re (SP496/05: Tabled) ... Horner 1607
 Tracking system re See Livestock, Tracking system re
- Cattle–Export–United States
 Alternatives to ... Horner 46; Taft 15
 Contingency plan (2004) re continued border closure ... Danyluk 46; Hinman 1017; Horner 43, 46, 48, 119, 1390; Klein 14–15, 290; Martin 22; McClellan 22–23; Mitzel 119
 Contingency plan re continued border closure ... Pastoor 1181; Stelmach 1182
 Current assistance plans re border reopening ... Danyluk 46; Horner 46
 Montana court injunction (2005) to keep border closed ... Chase 1186, 1187; Haley 417; Hinman 17, 262, 739, 1217; Horner 42–43, 289, 290–91, 301, 417, 739–40, 1207, 1210, 1220, 1498, 1849; Klein 14–15, 290, 739; MacDonald 297, 1208, 1209; Martin 22, 290, 1166; Mason 15–16, 42–43, 1498; McClellan 22–23, 749; Mitzel 289; Pannu 299; Pastoor 1182; Snelgrove 19–20; Stelmach 19–20, 1182, 1184, 1186–87, 1187; Taft 15; Tarchuk 461

Cattle–Export–United States (Continued)

Montana court injunction (2005) to keep border closed:
Appeal of ... Horner 949; Mason 949

Montana court injunction (2005) to keep border closed:
Appeal of, participation of federal PC party in ...
Horner 949, 1215; Martin 1212–13; Mason 949

Montana court injunction (2005) to keep border closed:
Appeal of, under NAFTA ... Horner 289, 290–91,
301; Klein 290; Martin 290; Mitzel 290; Pannu
299–300

Montana court injunction (2005) to keep border closed:
Web site re ... Tarchuk 461

Promotion of ... Hinman 1017

Cattle–Identification

RF ID tags for: Letter re (SP267/05: Tabled) ... Martin
536

Cattle–Import–United States

Montana court injunction (2005) to keep border closed, impact on ... Haley 417; Horner 417

Cattle–Marketing

Diversification of markets for ... Horner 46; Taft 15

Cattle–Prices

General remarks ... Horner 1499; Mason 1499

Minimum floor price ... Horner 42; Mason 42

Minimum floor price: Petitions presented re ... Eggen
51; Martin 26, 252, 294, 326

Cattle brands–Inspection

See Livestock brands–Inspection

Cattle carcass quality feedback program

General remarks ... Horner 1600

Cattle Identification Agency, Canadian

See Canadian Cattle Identification Agency

Cattle risk materials

See Specified risk material (Cattle parts)

Cattle rustling

Statement re ... Backs 1258

Cattle rustling–Prevention

General remarks ... Cenaiko 1121; Horner 1121–22;
Mitzel 1121

Cattle set-aside program

See Calf set-aside program

Cattle slaughter facilities

See Meat packing plants

Cattlemen Action Legal Foundation

See Ranchers–Cattlemen Action Legal Foundation
(U.S.)

Cattlemen for Fair Trade, Canadian

See Canadian Cattlemen for Fair Trade

Cattlemen's Association, Canadian

See Canadian Cattlemen's Association

Cattlemen's Beef Association (U.S.)

See National Cattlemen's Beef Association (U.S.)

Caucus policy committees (PC party)

General remarks ... Backs 737–38, 774; Blakeman 54;
Haley 58; Klein 737–38

Meetings of tobacco companies with, 2001–2004

(M4/05:Accepted) ... Evans 494; Mason 494; Pannu
494

CAUS

See Council of Alberta University Students

CBM development

See Coal bed methane extraction

CCIO

See Corporate Chief Information Officer

Celanese Canada Inc.

Edmonton plant closure ... Backs 1443; Martin 920

Celebrations casino, Edmonton

Licence application, public hearing re ... Tougas 1288

Cellular telephones

Security concerns ... Ouellette 752

Cellular telephones in automobiles

Legislation re (Motion 506: Chase) ... Agnihotri 1003;
Bonko 1000–01; Cao 1001–02; Chase 999, 1006;
Eggen 1002–03; Hinman 1005–06; Jablonski
1003–04; Liepert 999–1000; Miller, R. 1004–05;
Mitzel 1005

Cement

Shortage of, impact on road construction costs ...
MacDonald 1804; Oberg 1804

Cemeteries Act

Modernization of ... Lund 1425; Miller, B. 1424–25

Centenarians

Presentation of centennial medallions to ... Speech from the Throne 8

Centennial ambassadors

General remarks ... Chase 1481; Ducharme 1483; Mar
1484

Centennial canoe trip, Rocky Mountain House to Edmonton

Statement re ... Abbott 907

Centennial Capital Plan

General remarks ... Elsalhy 966; Hancock 1795;
McClellan 958; Oberg 1805

Centennial celebrations

See 2005 Alberta centennial celebrations

Centennial celebrations–Saskatchewan

General remarks ... Chase 1481; Mar 1484

Centennial Education Savings Plan

See Alberta Centennial Education Savings Plan

Centennial family farm awards

See Century Farm & Ranch awards

Centennial hockey game, Lloydminster (April 14, 2005)

General remarks ... Mar 645; Snelgrove 645
Premiers' wager re (SP331/05: Tabled) ... Klein 784;
Zwozdesky 784

Statement re ... Snelgrove 805

Centennial legacies grant program

[See also 2005 Alberta centennial celebrations]
General remarks ... Agnihotri 324, 1474; Mar 324,
1150, 1472

Centennial Legacy Ball, Edmonton

General remarks ... Chase 1342

Centennial medallions

General remarks ... Mar 1473

Legislation re (Bill 2) ... Mar 51

Presentation protocol adjustment: Legislation re (Bill 58)
... Mar 1919

Presentation to Airdrie–Chestermere constituents ...
Haley 1786

Presentation to Alberta centenarians ... Speech from the Throne 8

Presentation to Alberta schoolchildren ... Speech from the Throne 8

Presentation to Members of the Legislative Assembly ...
Klein 3; Taft 3

Centennial Multicultural Gala Night, Calgary, Alberta

See Alberta Centennial Multicultural Gala Night,
Calgary

- Centennial salute for sport and recreation
See Alberta centennial salute for sport and recreation
- Centennial Scholarship Program, Alberta
See Alberta Centennial Scholarship Program
- Centennial Summary (Poem)
 General remarks ... Chase 1918
- Centennial World Cup Cross Country competition, Canmore (December 2005)
See Alberta Centennial World Cup Cross Country competition, Canmore (December 2005)
- Centralized teacher bargaining
See Collective bargaining—Teachers, Province-wide bargaining
- Centre for Child, Family and Community Research
See Alberta Centre for Child, Family and Community Research
- Centre for Chinese studies (Proposed)
 General remarks ... Hancock 1079
 Statement re ... Hancock 946–47; Hinman 947; Taft 947
- Century Farm & Ranch awards
 Jones Hereford ranch, statement re ... Haley 1786
- CEPA
See Canadian Environmental Protection Act (Federal)
- Cereals—Prices
See Grain—Prices
- Certified General Accountants Association of Alberta
 Annual report, 2005 (SP692/05: Tabled) ... Cardinal 1838; Clerk, The 1838
- Certified Management Accountants of Alberta
 Letter re Mount Royal College's degree-granting request (SP391/05: Tabled) ... Taylor 1206
- Cervid industry
See Game farming
- Cesarean section booklet
See Maternity Center Association, Booklet about cesarean section (SP410/05: Tabled)
- CFEP
See Community facility enhancement program
- CFIA
See Canadian Food Inspection Agency
- CFOs (Confined feeding operations)—Environmental aspects
See Livestock industry, Intensive—Environmental aspects
- CFSAs
See Child and family services authorities
- Chair
 Election of ... Amery 2; Clerk, The 3; Klein 3; Marz 2, 4; McFarland 2; Shariff 2; Speaker, The 2, 3
- Chair, Deputy
See Deputy Chair
- Chairs for research
See Research and development, Chairs for, establishment of
- Champ Car Race, West Edmonton Mall Grand Prix
See West Edmonton Mall Grand Prix Champ Car race
- Charitable Gaming in Alberta, 2003–2004 in Review (Report)
 Copy tabled (SP145/05) ... Graydon 252
- Charitable Gaming in Alberta, 2004–2005 in Review (Report)
 Copy tabled (SP670/05) ... Graydon 1837
- Charitable societies, nonprofit organizations
 Gaming revenue for ... Graydon 1282; Tougas 1279
 Insurance costs for ... Blakeman 964–65; McClellan 965, 1031; Miller, R. 961
 Lottery funding for ... Graydon 1278; Pannu 1288
 Support for people on social assistance ... Blakeman 1139
- Charlebois Consulting Ltd.
See Kelley Charlebois Consulting Ltd.
- Charter for Humanity, Women's Global
See Women's Global Charter for Humanity
- Charter of Rights
See Constitution Act, 1982, Charter of Rights and Freedoms
- Chartered aircraft, Government
See Government chartered aircraft
- Chartered schools
 General remarks ... Zwozdesky 1274
- Chartered schools—Finance
 General remarks ... Zwozdesky 1260
- Chattels
See Property, Personal
- Check Stop program
 Use for graduated drivers' licence checks ... Cenaiko 1307–08; Jablonski 1307
- Cheviot Creek coal mine—Environmental aspects
 General remarks ... Eggen 1041–42
 Road access assessment ... Eggen 1042
- Chief Crowfoot Learning Centre
See Calgary Police Service, Chief Crowfoot Learning Centre
- Chief Electoral Officer
 [See also Fjeldheim, Brian (Retired Chief Electoral Officer)]
 Annual report, 2003 (SP13/05: Tabled) ... Speaker, The 27
 Interim estimates 2005–06: Debated ... MacDonald 254; Miller, R. 257
 Interim estimates 2005–06: Passed ... Webber 269
 Introduction of ... Speaker, The 5
 Main estimates, 2005–06: Passed ... Abbott 764; Chair 751
 Main estimates 2005–06: Tabled (SP319/05) ... McClellan 747
 Report on candidates who failed to file campaign financial statements (SP256/05: Tabled) ... Speaker, The 492
 Report on Senate candidates who failed to file campaign financial statements (SP257/05: Tabled) ... Speaker, The 492
 Supplementary estimates 2004–05: Passed ... Webber 312
- Chief Electoral Officer Search Committee, Select Special
 Motion to appoint (Motion 25: Hancock/Zwozdesky) ... Hancock 1943; MacDonald 1944; Zwozdesky 1943–44
- Chief Information Officer, Corporate
See Corporate Chief Information Officer

Chief Internal Auditor's office

Budget ... Klein 1099, 1103; MacDonald 1102–03
 Liason with Auditor General ... Elsalhy 1104; Klein
 1103, 1106; MacDonald 1103
 New chief's appointment process ... Elsalhy 1603;
McClellan 1603
 Performance measures ... Klein 1100
 Public members in, PC party membership ... Klein
 1024, 1102; Taft 1024, 1102
 Role in Securities Commission investigation ...
McClellan 1024; Taft 1024
 Role of ... Brown 1106; Elsalhy 1104; Klein 1100,
 1102, 1106; MacDonald 1102–03

Chief Justice (Hon. Catherine Fraser)

See Administrator of the Province of Alberta

Chief Medical Examiner's Office

Budget ... Stevens 1227

Chiefs of Police, Alberta Association of

See Alberta Association of Chiefs of Police

Child, Family and Community Research, Alberta Centre for

See Alberta Centre for Child, Family and Community Research

Child abduction—Calgary

See Abduction of children—Calgary

Child abuse

Nina Louise Courtepatte case ... Forsyth 1390; Mather
 1390
 Victims of, services to ... Blakeman 1060

Child abuse—Legal aspects

Sentences re, increasing of ... Miller, B. 1228

Child abuse—Prevention

Provincial initiatives re ... Cenaiko 206, 1433, 1671;
Jablonski 206; Speech from the Throne 10
 Provincial initiatives re: Funding for ... Forsyth 1051, 1052

Child and family services authorities

Employee health premium costs ... McClellan 766; Taft
 766
 Funding ... Forsyth 301, 1051; Mather 302, 303
 Mental health programs ... Evans 903

Child and Youth Advocate

[See also under old name Children's Advocate]

Funding for ... Forsyth 1598; Mather 1598
 Role of ... Forsyth 1052
 Transfer to legislature officer status ... Forsyth 1445,
 1737; Mather 1445, 1737

Child benefit, National

See National child benefit

Child care after school

Accreditation ... Forsyth 2013; Mather 2013
 Provincial support for ... Forsyth 1731; Mather 1731

Child care after school—Employees

Salaries and training ... Forsyth 2013; Mather 2013

Child care centres

See Daycare centres

Child care centres—Employees

See Daycare centres—Employees

Child Day, National

See National Child Day

Child drug abuse—Treatment

See Substance abuse—Treatment—Youth

Child health benefits program

General remarks ... Cardinal 1129

Child-in-need

See Child welfare recipients

Child labour

See Children—Employment

Child pornography

See Pornography, Child

Child poverty

See Children and poverty

Child prostitution

See Prostitution, Juvenile

Child psychiatric care

See Mental health services—Children

Child sex abuse—Prevention

See Child abuse—Prevention

Child support

See Maintenance (Domestic relations)

Child tax credit (In lieu of daycare subsidies)

See Tax incentives, Stay-at-home parents (re daycare)

Child welfare

Aboriginal children ... Forsyth 1052
 Early childhood intervention programs ... Blakeman
 1462; Mather 579; Pannu 1058
 Early childhood intervention programs: Funding ...
Forsyth 1052; Pannu 1063
 Government programs ... Forsyth 301–05; Mather
 301–03; Pannu 303–04
 Government programs: Cross-ministry initiative re ...
Forsyth 1056; Mather 1054
 Inquiry into: E-mail re (SP460/05: Tabled) ... Mather
 1528
 Statistics re, interpretation of ... Forsyth 1055; Mather
 1053–54

Child welfare, Regionalization of

See Child and family services authorities

Child welfare—Finance

General remarks ... Forsyth 1051–52; Mather 1055;
Pannu 1058

Child Welfare Act

Funding for youth in transition from custody ... Cenaiko
 1433

Child welfare recipients

Deaths of: Nina Louise Courtepatte case ... Forsyth
 1445, 1500–01; Mather 1390, 1445, 1500–01; Stevens
 1445
 Deaths of: Nina Louise Courtepatte case, fatality review of ... Forsyth 1390, 1445; Mather 1390, 1445;
Stevens 1445
 Deaths of: Nina Louise Courtepatte case, independent review of ... Forsyth 1445; Mather 1445
 Deaths of: Nina Louise Courtepatte case, internal review of ... Forsyth 1390
 Deaths of: Nina Louise Courtepatte case, special case review of ... Forsyth 1445, 1501, 1737; Mather 1501, 1737
 Deaths of: Special case reviews re, publication of ...
Forsyth 1737; Mather 1737

Child welfare workers

E-mail re (SP460/05: Tabled) ... Mather 1528
 General remarks ... Forsyth 1500–01; Mather 1500
 Protective safe houses for child prostitutes, awareness of
 ... Eggen 1733

Child, Youth and Family Enhancement Act

Amendment to, re resource rebates (Bill 43) ...
McClellan 1631

- Child, Youth and Family Enhancement Act (Continued)
 Assessment procedures ... Mather 1053–54
 Funding for implementation of ... Forsyth 301, 305, 1051, 1052, 1055, 1730, 1731; Mather 1054, 1731; Pannu 303–04, 1063; Stevens 275, 276, 1234
 Funding for youth in transition from custody ... Cenaiko 1433
 General remarks ... Forsyth 1500–01, 1827–28, 1832
- Childbirth, Association for Safe Alternatives in See Association for Safe Alternatives in Childbirth
- Childhood obesity
See Obesity in children
- Children
 Government programs for ... Speech from the Throne 10
- Children–Employment
 Age restriction re ... Backs 1779; Cardinal 1779
- Children–Food services
See School lunch programs; School nutrition programs
- Children and poverty
 General remarks ... Evans 1778, 1832; Forsyth 1827–28, 1832; Fritz 1778; Mather 1831–32; McClellan 1827; Taft 1778–79, 1827; Zwozdesky 1779, 1827
- Children and Youth Initiative
See Alberta Children and Youth Initiative
- Children at risk, Welfare of See Child welfare
- Children at risk–Education
 General remarks ... Zwozdesky 648
 Kindergarten programs for ... Martin 1028–29, 1269, 1722–23; Zwozdesky 1029, 1271
- Children in care
See Child welfare recipients
- Children Involved in Prostitution Act
See Protection of Children Involved in Prostitution Act
- Children's Advocate
 [See also under new name Child and Youth Advocate]
 Annual report, 2002-03 (SP482/05: Tabled) ... Forsyth 1578
 Annual report, 2002-03: Responses to (SP483/05: Tabled) ... Forsyth 1578
 Annual reports, lateness of reporting of ... Forsyth 1598; Mather 1598
- Children's hospital, Calgary
See Alberta Children's Hospital
- Children's mental health services
See Mental health services–Children
- Children's Services, Dept. of
See Dept. of Children's Services
- Children's services authorities
See Child and family services authorities
- Chimo Healing Home (youth addictions treatment program)
See Alberta Alcohol and Drug Abuse Commission, Chimo Healing Home (youth addictions treatment program)
- China-Alberta Petroleum Centre
 General remarks ... Dunford 1016
- Chinese oil sands investment
See Tar sands development, Chinese investment in
- Chinese studies, Centre for (Proposed)
See Centre for Chinese studies (Proposed)
- Chinook College
 General remarks ... Cao 1786
- Chinook Regional Health Authority
 Annual report, 2003-04 (SP89/05: Tabled) ... Evans 128
 Annual report, 2004-05 (SP625/05: Tabled) ... Clerk, The 1717; Evans 1717
 Continuing care facilities, Lethbridge, letter re (SP702/05: Tabled) ... Martin 1891; Mason 1891
 Conversion of long-term care facilities to assisted living status ... Evans 1843
 Conversion of long-term care facilities to assisted living status: Letter re (SP758/05: Tabled) ... Pastoor 1971
 Funding ... Evans 271
 Specialized medical services in ... Hinman 1468, 1845
- Chiropractic services–Fees
 Set fees for traffic injury cases ... McClellan 691–92; Rodney 691–92
- Chiropractors of Alberta, College of See College of Chiropractors of Alberta
- Chop shops, Automobile
See Automobile chop shops
- CHR
See Calgary Health Region
- Christian Labour Association of Canada
 Actions of Labour Relations Board in advancing interests of ... Backs 2009, 2048; Cardinal 2009, 2048–49
 General remarks ... Backs 1170; Martin 1170
 Use of foreign workers in oil sands projects ... Backs 411, 2048; Cardinal 321, 411, 458, 2048–49; Martin 321, 458, 647, 1136–37; Mason 362
- Christian schools–Finance
See Private schools–Finance
- Chronic disease management pilot projects
See Institute of Health Economics, Chronic disease management pilot projects
- Chronic obstructive pulmonary disease initiative
 Federal funding ... Evans 271
- Chronic wasting disease
 Deer infected with, served for human consumption, news article re (SP290/05: Tabled) ... Swann 623
 Elk and deer testing for ... Bonko 937; Horner 250
 Human/animal risk of ... Bonko 250; Coutts 934; Eggen 933; Evans 319; Horner 250, 288, 319; Klein 288; Swann 288, 319
 Presence on game farms ... Bonko 250; Coutts 934; Eggen 933; Horner 456; Klein 288; Prins 456; Swann 288, 1221
 Research into ... Horner 1211
 Roadkill testing for ... Bonko 937
 Survey of ... Coutts 926
- Chronic wasting disease–United States
 General remarks ... Hinman 1217
- Chrysalis Society
 10th annual achievement awards: Program from (SP390/05: Tabled) ... Chase 1205
 10th annual achievement awards: Statement re ... Chase 1152
- CHST
See Canada Health and Social Transfer (Federal government)

- Chumir health centre, Calgary
See Sheldon M. Chumir health centre, Calgary
- Churches' application for CFEP grants
See Community facility enhancement program, Churches' application to
- CIA office
See Chief Internal Auditor's office
- CIDA
See Canadian International Development Agency
- Cigarette smoking—Prevention
See Smoking—Prevention
- Cigarettes, Discount—Taxation
 General remarks ... Evans 1028
- Cigarettes—Retail sales
 Positioning re ... Evans 1028
- CIO
See Corporate Chief Information Officer
- CIP
See Community initiatives program
- CISA
See Criminal Intelligence Service Alberta
- Cities and communities, federal funding for
See Capital projects, Municipal—Finance, Federal funding
- Cities Transportation Partnership program
See Alberta Cities Transportation Partnership program
- Citizens' assembly on electoral reform (Alberta) (Proposed)
 General remarks ... Klein 691; Pastoor 691
 Legislation re (Bill 217) ... Taylor 2016
- Citizens' initiative referenda
 Legislation re ... Hancock 1251; Hinman 1251
- Citizenship Commission
See Alberta Human Rights and Citizenship Commission
- City centre education project (Edmonton)
See Edmonton Public School Board, City centre education project
- City of Edmonton Archives
 Historical projects: Statement re ... Blakeman 745
- City of Lloydminster
See Lloydminster, City of
- City of Lloydminster Act (Bill 3)
 First reading ... Snelgrove 51
 Second reading ... Eggen 382–83; Snelgrove 238, 382–83; Taft 382
 Committee ... Backs 447; Chase 447; MacDonald 447–48; Snelgrove 447–48
 Third reading ... Flaherty 479–80; Snelgrove 479; VanderBurg 479
 Royal Assent ... Lieutenant Governor 10 May, 2005 (Outside of House sitting)
- City transit—Finance
See Public transit—Finance
- Civil law system
 General remarks ... Stevens 1226–27
- Civil Marriage Act (Federal) (Bill C-38)
 General remarks ... Hinman 245–46, 572; Klein 245–46, 484, 572; Mar 317; McClellan 317; Morton 698; Oberle 484; Ouellette 317; Stevens 246; Taft 317
- Civil marriage commissioners
 Exemption from performing same-sex marriages, letter re (SP632/05: Tabled) ... Blakeman 1745
- Civil mediation
See Mediation (Legal process)
- Civil service—Alberta
See Public service—Alberta
- Civil service—Alberta—Salaries
See Wages—Public service employees
- Civil service pension cheques
 Loss of microfiche copies of, privacy concerns re ...
Elsalhy 1026; Klein 1026; Lund 1423; Mather 1423; McClellan 1026
- Civil service pensions
 Appeal process re ... McClellan 291–92; Miller, R. 291–92
 Letter re (SP425/05: Tabled) ... Miller, R. 1343
- Civilian oversight of police services
See Police Act, Civilian oversight provision enhancement
- CJD
See Creutzfeldt-Jakob disease
- CKUA Radio
 Statement re ... Tougas 907
- CLAC
See Christian Labour Association of Canada
- Clark, Mr. Bob
See Elections, Municipal—Calgary, Ward 10 election process: Bob Clark's inspection of
- Class size (Grade school)
 Capping of ... Martin 1723; Zwozdesky 1730
 General remarks ... Mather 1726; Zwozdesky 1727
 Reduction of ... Eggen 1728; Martin 1269; Speech from the Throne 8; Zwozdesky 123, 1729–30
 Reduction of: Funding for ... Ady 977–78; Flaherty 307, 1570; MacDonald 311; McClellan 748; Oberg 1570; Pannu 308–09; Zwozdesky 166, 306, 308, 309, 311–12, 977–78, 1260, 1261, 1262, 1723
- Class size (High school)
 Reduction of ... Martin 1269
- Classroom space
 Impact of class size reduction targets on ... Ady 978; Flaherty 307; Oberg 978; Zwozdesky 308, 978
- Classrooms, Portable/modular
See Portable/modular classrooms
- CLC, Olds College
See Olds College, Community learning campus
- Clean Air Strategic Alliance
 General remarks ... Boutilier 1040; Eggen 1041
- Clean coal burning research
See Electric power, Coal-produced, Research into
- Clean energy technology
 Provincial incentives for (royalty reductions) (Motion 504: Swann) ... Backs 673–74; Eggen 670–71; Groeneveld 674–75; Knight 674; Miller, R. 671–72; Pannu 672–73; Prins 670; Snelgrove 672; Swann 669–70, 675
 Provincial tax incentives for research into ... Hinman 1911; Klein 1911–12
- Clear-cut logging
See Logging, Clear-cut
- Climate change
 General remarks ... Boutilier 1832; Eggen 933, 1042, 1832
 Initiatives re ... Boutilier 44–45; Swann 44
 International conference on, Montreal, November 2005 ... Boutilier 1832, 1914; DeLong 1887; Doerksen 1887; Eggen 1832, 1914

Climate change (Continued)

Kyoto protocol on ... Abbott 485; Boutilier 485; Chase 1047; Danyluk 906; Eggen 1374, 1914; Hinman 1444, 1714; Horner 1222; Klein 201, 1444; Martin 920; Mason 571; Melchin 532, 918–19; Stelmach 1181; Swann 44

Kyoto protocol on: Alberta alternative to ... Boutilier 365, 1037, 1040, 1043, 1046, 1967–68; Eggen 364–65; Melchin 743, 771; Morton 1967; VanderBurg 743

Kyoto protocol on: Alberta alternative to, publicity campaign re ... Elsalhy 1104; Klein 1105

Kyoto protocol on: Carbon credit plan re ... Griffiths 1334–35; Horner 1334–35

Kyoto protocol on: Federal plan re See Project Green (Federal Kyoto accord implementation plan)

Kyoto protocol on: ND opposition proposals for (SP203/05: Tabled) ... Eggen 370

Technological developments re ... Boutilier 21, 485, 1832; Doerksen 1369; Johnson 21; McClellan 749; Melchin 771–72

Climate Change and Emissions Management Act (Bill 37, 2003)

General remarks ... Boutilier 22; Melchin 743

Climate Change Central

General remarks ... Boutilier 44, 365, 1037, 1039, 1043, 1832, 1915, 1967; Eggen 1042; Swann 1038

Climate Fund (Federal)

General remarks ... Abbott 771; Melchin 771–72

Clinical practice guidelines symposium

See Unleashing Innovation in Health Systems Symposium (Calgary, May 3-5, 2005)

Clinics, 24-hour

See Medical care, 24-hour service re

Clinics, Private medical

See Health facilities, Private

Closure

See Schools–Closure

Closure debate (Parliamentary procedure)

General remarks ... Blakeman 54

Clubs

See Licensed premises

Cluster study re utilization levels in schools

See Edmonton Public School Board, Cluster study re utilization levels in schools

CMA

See Canadian Medical Association

CN Rail

Role in Port of Prince Rupert terminal See Port of Prince Rupert, CN/Illinois Central's role in

Train derailment, Lake Wabamum ... Boutilier 1667–68; Lindsay 1668; McClellan 1668; Swann 1667–68

CNRL

See Canadian Natural Resources Limited

Co-energy electrical production

[See also Energy resources, Alternate]

Garbage as energy source ... Boutilier 1710–11; McFarland 1710–11

Co-generation power plants

See Co-energy electrical production

Co-operative housing brochure

See Artspace Housing Co-operative Ltd., Brochure on co-op housing (SP551/05: Tabled)

CO₂

See Carbon dioxide

CO₂ credits trading

See Emission control credits, Trading of

CO₂ emissions

See Carbon dioxide emissions

Coal–Supply

General remarks ... Melchin 910

Coal bed methane extraction

General remarks ... Eggen 1033; Melchin 910

Impact of ... Bonko 1075; Boutilier 1202; Coutts 1075; Eggen 914; Horner 1075, 1391; Melchin 916, 1075, 1201–02; Swann 1201–02, 1391

Reclamation costs re ... Eggen 914; Melchin 916

Tax incentives for research into ... Hinman 1911; Klein 1911

Water recovered from (Q7/05: Defeated) ... Melchin 659; Zwozdesky 659

Water recovery issues ... Boutilier 1202; Eggen 914; Melchin 916; Swann 1202

Well applications approved by AEUB, 2001-04 (M6/05: Defeated) ... Eggen 664; Melchin 664; Zwozdesky 664

Well applications denied by AEUB, 2001-04 (M5/05: Defeated) ... Eggen 664; Melchin 664; Zwozdesky 664

Coal bed methane extraction–Environmental aspects

General remarks ... Boutilier 1202; Eggen 914; Martin 920–21; Melchin 1201–02; Swann 1201–02

Coal bed methane extraction–Horseshoe Canyon area

Impact of ... Melchin 1202; Swann 1201

Impact on tourism of ... Chase 1012

Coal-fired electric power

See Electric power, Coal-produced

Coal mines and mining–Cheviot Creek area–Environmental aspects

See Cheviot Creek coal mine–Environmental aspects

Coalition for Alberta's Future

Newsrelease re land use and oil/gas industry activity (SP339/05: Tabled) ... Swann 858

Coalition for Equal Access to Education

English as a second language study ... Cao 1784; Zwozdesky 1784

Code of ethics

See Political ethics

Code of Silence Award

See Canadian Association of Journalists, Code of Silence Award given to province of Alberta: News release re (SP462/05: Tabled)

Cogeneration power plants

See Co-energy electrical production

COI Act Review Committee, Select Special

See Conflicts of Interest Act Review Committee, Select Special

Cold fX (Cold/flu prevention preparation)

Given to seniors in care facilities ... Evans 207

Collecting of accounts

See Debt collection

Collective Agreement Settlements in Alberta

See Collective bargaining, Report on: Collective Agreement Settlements in Alberta (SP638/05: Tabled)

Collective bargaining

First-contract certification legislation ... Backs 1625; Blakeman 647; Cardinal 1140, 1625, 1711–12; Klein 1625; Martin 1630, 1711–12

First-contract certification legislation, other provincial legislation re (SP606/05: Tabled) ... Martin 1716

Impact of use of foreign labour on ... Klein 647; Martin 647

Report on: Collective Agreement Settlements in Alberta (SP638/05: Tabled) ... Cardinal 1746; Clerk, The 1746

Collective bargaining—Building trades

Elimination of ... Martin 1137

Collective bargaining—Health authorities

Labour Relations Board involvement in ... Backs 2008, 2009, 2048–49; Cardinal 2009, 2048–49; Klein 2008, 2009; Mason 2009; Taft 2008

Labour Relations Board involvement in: Letters/emails to HRE dept. re (SP801/05: Tabled) ... Martin 2018

Labour Relations Board involvement in: News reports/emails re (SP799-780/05: Tabled) ... Taft 2017; Taylor 2017

Labour Relations Board involvement in: Public inquiry into ... Klein 2008, 2009; Mason 2009; Taft 2008

Labour Relations Board involvement in: Public inquiry into, news release re (SPSP781/05: Tabled) ... Taylor 2017

Collective bargaining—Teachers

General remarks ... Flaherty 203; Zwozdesky 203, 1260, 1266

Province-wide bargaining ... Abbott 1712; Bonko 1267; Flaherty 203–04, 1147; Hinman 1273; Lukaszuk 1147–48; Martin 1270; Zwozdesky 204, 1147–48, 1268, 1271, 1274

Province-wide bargaining: Letter re (SP403/05: Tabled) ... Martin 1259

Ten year deal in return for teachers' pension plan solvency ... Abbott 1712; Zwozdesky 1712

Collective bargaining—Teachers—Fort McMurray

Agreement: Northern allowance provision ... Flaherty 203; Zwozdesky 203

College campuses' daycare spaces

See Daycare centres—Campuses

College faculty

See University teachers

College of Alberta Denturists

Annual report, 2003 (SP214/05: Tabled) ... Clerk, The 370; Evans 370

Annual report, 2004 (SP613/05: Tabled) ... Clerk, The 1717; Evans 1717

General remarks ... Fritz 951

College of Alberta Professional Forest Technologists

Annual report, 2004 (SP450/05: Tabled) ... Cardinal 1508; Clerk, The 1508

Financial statements, 2004 (SP695/05: Tabled) ... Cardinal 1838; Clerk, The 1838

College of Alberta Professional Foresters

Annual report, 2004-05 (SP690/05: Tabled) ... Cardinal 1838; Clerk, The 1838

College of Alberta Psychologists

Annual report, 2004-05 (SP687/05: Tabled) ... Clerk, The 1838; Evans 1838

College of Chiropractors of Alberta

Annual review, 2004-05 (SP766/05: Tabled) ... Clerk, The 1971; Evans 1971

College of Chiropractors of Alberta (Continued)

Radiation health administrative organization annual report, 2003-04 (SP466/05: Tabled) ... Cardinal 1529; Clerk, The 1529

Radiation health administrative organization annual report, 2004-05 (SP660/05: Tabled) ... Cardinal 1789; Clerk, The 1789

College of Dental Technologists of Alberta

Annual report, 2004 (SP765/05: Tabled) ... Clerk, The 1971; Evans 1971

College of Dietitians of Alberta

Annual report, 2003-04 (SP215 & 685/05: Tabled) ... Clerk, The 370, 1838; Evans 370, 1838

Annual report, 2004-05 (SP686/05: Tabled) ... Clerk, The 1838; Evans 1838

College of Hearing Aid Practitioners of Alberta

Annual report, 2004 (SP398/05: Tabled) ... Clerk, The 1206; Evans 1206

College of Licensed Practical Nurses of Alberta

Annual report, 2003 (SP212/05: Tabled) ... Clerk, The 370; Evans 370

Annual report, 2004 (SP684/05: Tabled) ... Clerk, The 1838; Evans 1838

College of Medical Laboratory Technologists, Alberta

See Alberta College of Medical Laboratory Technologists

College of Optometrists

See Alberta College of Optometrists

College of Physical Therapists of Alberta

Annual report, 2003-04 (SP210/05: Tabled) ... Clerk, The 370; Evans 370

College of Physicians and Surgeons of Alberta

General remarks ... Mitzel 240

Investigation of complaints against physicians: Letter re (SP113/05: Tabled) ... Blakeman 171

Radiation health administrative organization annual report, 2003-04 (SP455/05: Tabled) ... Cardinal 1508; Clerk, The 1508

Radiation health administrative organization annual report, 2004-05 (SP661/05: Tabled) ... Cardinal 1789; Clerk, The 1789

Special register, section 5 (Foreign doctor recruitment) ... Evans 1122

College of Speech-Language Pathologists and Audiologists, Alberta

See Alberta College of Speech-Language Pathologists and Audiologists

Colleges

See Universities and colleges

Colleges, Private—Finance

See Private colleges—Finance

Colleges, Private non-profit

See Private non-profit colleges

Colleges of Canada, Association of Universities and See Association of Universities and Colleges of Canada

Collision injuries, Traffic

See Traffic accident injuries

Columbia College

Letters, memos re (M40/05: Defeated) ... Hancock 1167–68; Martin 1167–69; Pannu 1167

Commercial fisheries

See Fisheries, Commercial

Commercial motor vehicles—Inspection—Alberta/B.C. border

See Trucks—Inspection—Alberta/B.C. border

Commercial trucking industry

See Trucking industry

Commercialization of technology

See Technology commercialization

Commission on advanced education (Proposed)

Review of public postsecondary education system (Motion 509: Pannu/Mason) ... Ady 1547–48; Brown 1552; Cao 1553; Chase 1552–53; Hancock 1549–51; Martin 1551–52; Mason 1547, 1553–54; Pannu 1547; Taylor 1548–49

Commission on Learning, Alberta's

See Alberta's Commission on Learning

Commissions, Government

See Government agencies, boards, and commissions

Commissions, Police

See Police commissions

Committee of Supply

Interim estimates, 2005-06 considered for one day (Motion 14: McClellan) ... McClellan 211
Interim estimates, 2005-06 referred to (Motion 13: McClellan) ... McClellan 211
Main and Lottery Fund estimates, 2005-06 referred to (Motion 18: McClellan) ... McClellan 747
Motion to resolve into (Motion 5: McClellan/Hancock) ... Hancock 75; McClellan 75
Schedule of debate (SP315/05: Tabled) ... Hancock 746
Supplementary estimates, 2004-05 considered for two days (Motion 9: McClellan) ... McClellan 94
Supplementary estimates, 2004-05 referred to (Motion 8: McClellan) ... McClellan 94
Supplementary estimates, 2005-06 considered for three days (Motion 23: McClellan) ... McClellan 1681
Supplementary estimates, 2005-06 referred to (Motion 22: McClellan) ... Hinman 1679–80; Lukaszuk 1680; MacDonald 1678–79; Mason 1676–78, 1680; McClellan 1680–81

Committee of the Whole Assembly

Motion to resolve into (Motion 4: Hancock) ... Hancock 75

Committee on the Alberta Heritage Savings Trust Fund, Standing

Ethical investment deliberations ... McClellan 82, 120; Miller, R. 294
Members' list presented (SP2/05: Tabled) ... Hancock 11
Motion to appoint ... Hancock 11
Reports, 2004 & 2005 (SP739-740/05: Tabled) ... Clerk, The 1920; Liepert 1920

Committee on Aviation, Standing

Minister's presentation to, re airport rental costs ... Oberg 1391

Committee on Continuing Care Standards, Standing

General remarks ... Evans 1464
Legislation re (Bill 213) ... Pastoor 1919

Committee on Education and Employment, Standing Policy

Home education issues ... Abbott 1255

Committee on Energy and Sustainable Development, Standing Policy

Eastern Slopes access issues, discussion of rural municipalities report on ... Coutts 1573; Groeneveld 1573
Municipal infrastructure funding discussion ... Boutilier 485; Danyluk 531; Dunford 531; Klein 612; McClellan 527, 576; Taft 527

Committee on Justice and Government Services, Standing Policy

Vehicle Theft Committee's recommendations to ... Cenaiko 1256

Committee on Legislative Offices, Standing

Chair's comments re Auditor General ... Tarchuk 987
Discussion of Auditor General's power to investigate the Alberta Securities Commission: Letter re (SP434/05: Tabled) ... Martin 1452
Members' list presented (SP2/05: Tabled) ... Hancock 11
Motion to appoint ... Hancock 11
Referral of comments in Legislature re Auditor General to ... Blakeman 986; Hancock 985

Committee on Members' Services, Special Standing

Alberta Alliance member's request at ... Hinman 262
Coverage of Members of the Legislative Assembly from the Alberta Risk Management Fund review, referred to ... Martin 494
Coverage of Members of the Legislative Assembly from the Alberta Risk Management Fund review, referred to (Motion 10: Hancock/Stevens) ... Hancock 106; MacDonald 106–07; Pannu 107–08; Stevens 106, 108
Members' list presented (SP2/05: Tabled) ... Hancock 11
Members' Services orders no.1/05 to no.6/05 (SP258-63/05: Tabled) ... Speaker, The 492
Members' Services orders no.7/05 to no.9/05 (SP528-30/05: Tabled) ... Speaker, The 1632
Motion to appoint ... Hancock 11

Committee on Private Bills, Standing

Fees for petitions, recommendation to increase ... Brown 1033
Members' list presented (SP2/05: Tabled) ... Hancock 11
Motion to appoint ... Hancock 11
Report presented ... Brown 369, 1033, 1788

Committee on Privileges and Elections, Standing Orders and Printing, Standing

Members list presented (SP2/05: Tabled) ... Hancock 11
Motion to appoint ... Hancock 11
Referral of comments in Legislature re Auditor General to ... Blakeman 986; Hancock 985; Speaker, The 988

Committee on Public Accounts, Standing

Chair of, directing questions to ... Martin 1789; Speaker, The 1789
Changes to operation of ... Blakeman 625; Eggen 1783–64; Hancock 1784; Martin 625; Mason 699
Changes to operation of, eight motions to amend SO50 re (SP673/05: Tabled) ... Blakeman 1837
Charlebois Consulting Ltd. contract, discussion of ... Evans 643
Members list presented (SP2/05: Tabled) ... Hancock 11
Motion to appoint ... Hancock 11
Report, 2004 (SP111/05: Tabled) ... Blakeman 625; MacDonald 171

Committee on Public Accounts, Standing (Federal government)

Sponsorship program investigation ... Mason 699

Committee on Public Safety and Sour Gas, Provincial Advisory

See Provincial Advisory Committee on Public Safety and Sour Gas

Committee on Strengthening Alberta's Role in Confederation, MLA

See MLA Committee on Strengthening Alberta's Role in Confederation

Committee to review the Conflicts of Interest Act, Select Special

See Conflicts of Interest Act Review Committee, Select Special

Committees, All-party

General remarks ... Pastoor 1442

Statement re ... Pastoor 1451

Committees, PC caucus policy

See Caucus policy committees (PC party)

Committees, Select standing

Statement re ... Backs 773–74

Committees of the whole House

Historical background of ... Speaker, The 253

Commonwealth of Nations

General remarks ... Forsyth 301–02; Klein 1617

Commonwealth Parliamentary Association, Alberta branch

Annual report, 2003 (In Legislative Assembly Office, Annual report, SP16/05: Tabled) ... Speaker, The 27

Commonwealth Stadium concert re centennial celebrations

See 2005 Alberta centennial celebrations, Commonwealth Stadium concert re

Communicable diseases—Control

Emergency response plan for ... Speech from the Throne 10

Communications Technology Institute, Alberta Information and

See Alberta Information and Communications Technology Institute

Community Development, Dept. of

See Dept. of Community Development

Community facility enhancement program

Churches' application to ... Graydon 1287; Miller, B. 1287

General remarks ... Graydon 771, 1277, 1278, 1282, 1284; Tougas 771

Lottery funds to ... Graydon 1289

Community halls—Rural areas

Food safety regulations in ... Evans 248, 1520; Marz 248; Snelgrove 1520

Community health centres

General remarks ... Blakeman 1469; Swann 1468

Community incentive grants

General remarks ... Forsyth 1062

Community initiatives program

General remarks ... Graydon 1277, 1278, 1282, 1284

Lottery funds to ... Graydon 1289

Community learning campus, Olds College

See Olds College, Community learning campus

Community learning centres

Funding for ... Hancock 981

Community Living, Alberta Association for

See Alberta Association for Community Living

Community Loan Fund Society, Edmonton

See Edmonton Community Loan Fund Society

Community lottery boards

See Lottery boards, Community

Community policing

See Police, Neighbourhood patrols

Community Research, Alberta Centre for Child, Family and

See Alberta Centre for Child, Family and Community Research

Community schools

Funding for: Petition tabled re (SP273/05) ... Eggen 579

General remarks ... Bonko 1266–67; Chase 265; Eggen 1728; Flaherty 266, 1263–64; MacDonald 124, 1209; Zwozdesky 1729

Statement re ... MacDonald 369

Community support services program

See Family and community support services program

Community Supports, Dept. of Seniors and See Dept. of Seniors and Community Supports

Community timber program

General remarks ... Coutts 927, 931

Communityaccessibility.ca (Web site)

General remarks ... Lougheed 1917

Commuter Air Access Network of Alberta

Edmonton City Centre Airport status ... Dunford 125

Competition Bureau (Federal)

Enron electricity price manipulation scheme investigation ... Klein 18, 83, 247, 286; Lund 249; MacDonald 533, 911, 949, 1337; McClellan 42; Melchin 18, 24, 118, 161, 204, 249, 286, 360, 456, 533, 796, 917, 949, 1196, 1337; Taft 18, 286

Enron electricity price manipulation scheme investigation: Backgrounder re (SP148/05: Tabled) ... MacDonald 252–53

Enron's takeover of Sundance power plant production, investigation of ... Melchin 899

TransAlta electricity price manipulation scheme investigation ... MacDonald 949; Melchin 949

Complainant protection

See Whistle-blower protection

Composting

General remarks ... Boutilier 1040; Swann 1038

Compton Petroleum Corporation

Gas well drilling, Calgary area ... Eggen 915; Melchin 1391, 1742, 1828; Swann 1391, 1741, 1828

Compulsive gambling

See Gambling, Compulsive

CompuSmart.com

Executive Council contract ... Klein 1107; Miller, R. 1106

Computed tomography scans

See CT scans (Medical imaging procedure)

Computer adaptive assessment tool

See Student assessment, Computer adaptive assessment tool re

Computer equipment, Government

See Government computer equipment

Computer information systems, Government

See Government information systems

- Computer software licences for schools
See Microsoft Corporation, School software licences purchase by provincial government
- Computerized cash register system for traffic fines
See Fines (Traffic violations), Computerized cash register system re
- Computers—Recycling
See Electronic waste—Recycling
- Computers in schools
 Funding for ... Bonko 310; Zwozdesky 310
 General remarks ... Zwozdesky 1724
- Conditional sentences (Criminal procedure)
See Sentences, Conditional (Criminal procedure)
- Confederation, MLA Committee on Strengthening Alberta's Role in
See MLA Committee on Strengthening Alberta's Role in Confederation
- Confederation Park Senior Citizens Centre
 Extension contract, letter re (SP725/05: Tabled) ...
Chase 1919
- Conference on climate change, Montreal
See Climate change, International conference on, Montreal, November 2005
- Confidentiality of government records
See Public records—Confidentiality
- Confidentiality of medical records
See Medical records—Confidentiality
- Confidentiality of personal information
See Privacy, Right of
- Confined feeding operations—Environmental aspects
See Livestock industry, Intensive—Environmental aspects
- Conflict of interest
 Auditor General's comments re ... Lund 1420; Swann 1419
 Declaration of, re Children's Services estimates (member withdrew) ... Liepert 1051
 Labour Relations Board's involvement in drafting collective bargaining legislation (Bill 27, 2003) ...
Klein 2008; Taft 2008
 Market surveillance administrator ... MacDonald 161; Melchin 161
 Minister of Aboriginal Affairs and Northern Development and Lubicon land claim ... Stevens 1600–01
 MLA nomination of candidates for ASC commissioners ... McClellan 1597; Taft 1597
 Natural Resources Conservation Board advisors' appearance at appeals hearings ... Bonko 1252; Coutts 1252
 Securities Commission appointments, MLA involvement in ... McClellan 1880; Taft 1880
 Securities Commission chair/interim chair issue ...
McClellan 1961; Taft 1961
 Securities Commission director of enforcement issue ...
Elsalhy 2011; Mason 1707–08, 1737–38, 1779–80; McClellan 1665, 1707–08, 1737–38, 1779–80, 2011
 WCB/Ana Gutierrez case ... Backs 1169
- Conflict of interest commissioner
See Ethics Commissioner
- Conflicts of Interest Act Review Committee, Select Special
 Appointment of (Motion 11: Stevens) ... Chase 105–06; MacDonald 105; Pannu 106; Stevens 105–06
- Conflicts of Interest Act Review Committee, Select Special (Continued)
 Membership change for (Motion 24: Hancock) ...
Blakeman 1638; Hancock 1638
 Recommendations ... Elsalhy 2010–11; Klein 2011
- ConocoPhillips
 Pipeline planning, wildlife consideration ... Coutts 1965
- Conservation Association, Alberta
See Alberta Conservation Association
- Conservation of fish
See Fish conservation
- Conservation of forests
See Forest conservation
- Conservation of soil
See Soil conservation
- Conservation of the environment—Finance
See Environmental protection—Finance
- Conservation of water
See Water conservation
- Conservation of wildlife
See Wildlife conservation
- Conservation officers
See Fish and wildlife officers
- Conservative Association of Alberta, Progressive
See Progressive Conservative Association of Alberta
- Conservative Party of Canada
See Cattle—Export—United States, Montana court injunction (2005) to keep border closed: Appeal of, participation of federal PC party in; Daycare centres—Finance, National program for: Alberta participation, federal Conservative Party comments re
- Constables, Deputy
See Deputy constables
- Constables, Special
See Special constables
- Constitution Act, 1982
 Alberta definition of marriage inclusion in ... Hinman 1738; McClellan 1738
 Alberta definition of marriage inclusion in, response to question re (SP668/05: Tabled) ... Stelmach 1837
 Charter of Rights and Freedoms ... Hinman 1738; McClellan 1738
 Charter of Rights and Freedoms: 15 top Supreme Court decisions re (SP333/05) ... Pannu 806
 Charter of Rights and Freedoms: Application to farm workers, petition tabled re (SP508/05) ... Eggen 1608
 Charter of Rights and Freedoms: Application to prison inmates ... Agnihotri 855; Cenaiko 855; Mar 855
 Charter of Rights and Freedoms: Response to question re (SP668/05: Tabled) ... Stelmach 1837
 Charter of Rights and Freedoms: Same-sex marriage issue ... Hinman 1153
 Charter of Rights and Freedoms: Time limit for legislatures/elections ... Mather 956
 Opting out provisions (same-sex marriage issue) ...
Hinman 245–46, 1714; Klein 245–46; Stevens 246
 Property rights inclusion in ... Hinman 1738; McClellan 1738
 Property rights inclusion in, response to question re (SP668/05: Tabled) ... Stelmach 1837
- Constitutional law
 Question of, in government boards/tribunals, referred to courts (Bill 23) ... Stevens 170

Constitutional Referendum Act

- Property rights referendum during federal election ...
Hinman 1738; McClellan 1738
- Property rights referendum during federal election,
response to question re (SP668/05: Tabled) ...
Stelmach 1837

Construction Association, Alberta

See Alberta Construction Association

Construction sites on highways—Safety aspects

See Highway construction sites—Safety aspects

Construction trades

- Employment levels: Alberta government web site article on (SP355/05: Tabled) ... Backs 957
- Employment levels: Dorothy Paquette run for,
Edmonton - Fort McMurray ... Backs 652
- Employment levels: Relation to foreign worker hiring ...
Agnihotri 1090; Backs 121–22, 279, 318, 361, 411,
571, 1132; Blakeman 1140; Bonko 1266; Calahasen
839; Cao 802; Cardinal 85–86, 121–22, 280, 281,
318, 321–22, 361–62, 411, 458, 571, 802, 1133, 1135;
Danyluk 843; Hancock 248; Jablonski 85–86, 121;
Klein 647; Martin 321–22, 458, 647, 920, 1136–37;
Mason 361–62; Oberg 1090–91; Taylor 248;
Tougas 838
- Employment levels: Stats Can report on (SP202/05:
Tabled) ... Martin 370
- Employment levels: Stats Can report on (SP268 &
286/05: Tabled) ... Backs 536, 622

Consulting Engineers of Alberta

Annual report, 2004-05 (SP693/05: Tabled) ... Cardinal
1838; Clerk, The 1838

Consumer affairs department

See Dept. of Government Services

Consumer Choice (Government web site)

Excerpt from, re long-term retail electricity/natural gas contracts (SP375/05: Tabled) ... Eggen 1081

Consumer protection

- Auto insurance rates ... Blakeman 964–65; Mason
454–55; McClellan 363, 454–55; Miller, R. 363,
454; Taft 454
- Re electricity/gas contracts ... Eggen 1073–74; Klein
1073–74; Lund 1416, 1420; MacDonald 1073;
Martin 1420–21; Melchin 1073
- Re electricity/gas prices ... Elsalhy 975, 1418; Hinman
1074, 1426; Klein 161, 1074; Lund 161–62, 975,
1025, 1416, 1420; MacDonald 286, 455–56, 533,
650; Martin 420–21; Mason 161, 975–76, 1025;
Melchin 286, 455–56, 488, 533, 650; Swann 1419
- General remarks ... Elsalhy 1417; Hinman 1425; Lund
1415, 1416, 1424, 1425; Mather 1422; Miller, B.
1424; Pastoor 1423; Speech from the Throne 9
- Legislation re ... Lund 326; Oberle 326
- Web site for See Consumer Choice (Government web site)

Contagious diseases—Control

See Communicable diseases—Control

Container terminals, Railway—Grande Prairie area

See Railway container terminals—Grande Prairie area

Container terminals, Railway—Prince Rupert, B.C.

See Railway container terminals—Prince Rupert, B.C.

Contaminated sites

Cleanup of ... Boutilier 1961–62; Mar 1961; Renner
1323–24; Swann 1961–62; Taft 1323

Contaminated sites (Continued)

Energy industry sites, regulations re: Statement re ...
Swann 1969

Contaminated sites—Calgary

Cleanup efforts ... Boutilier 1709–10; Cao 1709–10

Contaminated soil—Lynnview Ridge, Calgary

Cleanup of ... Boutilier 84, 529–30, 1709; Cao 84, 529, 1709

Continental free trade

See North American free trade agreement

Continuing care facilities

See Extended care facilities

Continuing care facilities, Private

See Extended care facilities, Private

Continuing Care Health Service and Accommodation Standards, MLA Task Force on

See Extended care facilities, MLA committee to review (2005)

Continuing Care Standards, Standing Committee on

See Committee on Continuing Care Standards, Standing

Continuing education councils

See Community learning centres

Contracted social services agencies (Non-profit)

See Social services agencies (Non-profit)

Contracts, Government

See Public contracts

Cornea transplants

Registry for ... Evans 1601; VanderBurg 1601
Waiting list for ... Evans 1601; VanderBurg 1601

Coronary artery bypass grafting procedure

See under Heart—Surgery

Coroner's inquiries

See Fatality inquiries

Corporate Chief Information Officer

General remarks ... Ouellette 752, 757, 758, 761
Transfer to Dept. of Restructuring and Government
Efficiency ... Doerksen 461, 1372; Elsalhy 1370;
Ouellette 244, 751, 812

Corporate Corruption of Higher Education (Book)

General remarks ... Pannu 873

Corporate identity, Government

See Government corporate identity

Corporate income tax

See Corporations—Taxation

Corporate Service Centre

See Alberta Corporate Service Centre

Corporate Tax Statutes Amendment Act, 2005 (Bill 26)

First reading ... McClellan 210
Second reading ... Chase 537; Martin 537; McClellan
475; Miller, R. 537; Rogers 538
Committee ... Miller, R. 1489; Rogers 1489
Third reading ... McClellan 1513
Royal Assent ... Lieutenant Governor 2 June, 2005
(Outside of House sittings)

Corporations

Alberta Venture list of most-respected ... Rogers
1450–51

Provincial information assistance to [See also Electronic Business Intelligence Service]; Dunford 1007–08

Corporations—Law and legislation

Conversion to/from unlimited liability corporation, minority dissenting shareholders buyout (Bill 56) ...
Brown 1890

- Corporations—Law and legislation (Continued)
 Enforcement of ... Mason 1828; McClellan 1828
 Harmonization with federal legislation: Bill 16 ... Brown 127
- Corporations—Taxation
 General remarks ... Hinman 412; McClellan 412
 Rebates re, interest paid on ... McClellan 964; Miller, R. 963
 Reduction in ... Hinman 970; Mason 968; McClellan 961–62; Miller, R. 961; Pannu 1793, 1797
 Tax avoidance prevention: Legislation (Bill 26) ... McClellan 210
- Correctional institutions
 Aboriginal population See Prisoners, Aboriginal
 MLA committee to review See Correctional Services MLA Review Committee
- Correctional institutions—Finance
 General remarks ... Cenaiko 1427, 1433–34; Miller, B. 1432
- Correctional institutions—Staff training
 General remarks ... Cenaiko 1433
- Correctional institutions—Staffing
 General remarks ... Cenaiko 1427
- Correctional Services MLA Review Committee
 Report ... Pastoor 800
- Corridors, Strategic economic
See Strategic economic corridors (Highway construction)
- Cougars
 Public awareness of ... Coutts 769; Groeneveld 769
 Relocation of ... Coutts 769; Groeneveld 769
- Council of Alberta School Superintendents
 General remarks ... Zwozdesky 311
- Council of Alberta University Students
 A Plan for Alberta's Universities (SP206/05: Tabled) ... Taylor 370
 Postsecondary education funding concerns ... Pannu 872
- Council of Education Facility Planners International
 International award, given to Olds College ... Marz 1835
- Council of Ministers Responsible for Transportation and Highway Safety
 Airport rental costs issue ... Oberg 362
- Council of the Federation
 Alberta as chair of ... Stelmach 1181
 General remarks ... Stelmach 1185
 Meeting in Banff, 2005 ... Stelmach 288, 1182
 Meeting in Banff, 2005: Hosting costs ... Stelmach 1180, 1184
 Meeting in Banff, 2005: Senate reform discussions ... Stelmach 288, 455, 695
- Council on Admissions and Transfer
See Alberta Council on Admissions and Transfer
- Council on Electricity, Advisory
See Alberta Advisory Council on Electricity
- Council on Roles, Responsibilities and Resources in the 21st Century
See Provincial/Municipal Council on Roles, Responsibilities and Resources in the 21st Century, Minister's
- Council on the Status of Persons with Disabilities
See Premier's Council on the Status of Persons with Disabilities
- Counsellors, Family court
See Family court counsellors
- Counsellors, School/guidance
See School counsellors
- Counterterrorism
See Terrorist attacks—Prevention
- Countervail (Softwood lumber)
See Softwoods—Export—United States, Countervail duties re
- Court briefs
 Electronic distribution of See Disclosure of evidence (Legal procedure), Computerized system re
- Court interpretation services for disabled people
See Interpretation services for disabled people in court
- Court interpreters—Fees
 Increase in ... Cao 1502; Stevens 1226, 1502
- Court of Appeal (Alberta)
 AAA Cattle Company feedlot expansion ruling ... Boutilier 1027; Swann 1027
- Court of Appeal (Saskatchewan)
 Wheat Board protesters acquittal ... Morton 1203
- Court of Queen's Bench
 Edmonton Public School Board school closure decision ... Flaherty 1446; Oberg 1446; Zwozdesky 1446
 Edmonton Public School Board school closure decision (SP441/05: Tabled) ... MacDonald 1507
 General remarks ... Miller, B. 276
- Court proceedings, Video conferencing of See Video conferencing of court proceedings
- Court workers, Aboriginal
See Aboriginal court workers
- Courtepatte, Nina Louise
See Child welfare recipients, Deaths of: Nina Louise Courtepatte case
- Courthouse—Edmonton
 Kyle Young's death in See Young, Kyle James (Prisoner)
- Courtroom security officers—Training
 General remarks ... Cenaiko 743, 1433; Miller, B. 743, 1430; Stevens 743
- Courts
 Computer network expansion in, funding for ... Stevens 1225–26
- Courts, Aboriginal
See Aboriginal courts
- Courts, Drug
See Drug courts
- Courts—Calgary
 Additional courtrooms, funding for ... Miller, B. 275; Stevens 275, 276
 New courthouse, Public/private funding of ... Chase 905; MacDonald 255; Martin 616; Oberg 905
- Courts—Finance
 General remarks ... Miller, B. 1228; Pannu 1232, 1235; Stevens 1234
- Courts—Security aspects
 Funding for ... Cenaiko 1427
 General remarks ... Cenaiko 902, 1431; Johnston 902; McClellan 749; Stevens 1226
- Courts—Staff
 Increase in ... Stevens 275
- Cousins Building, Lethbridge Community College
See Lethbridge Community College, Cousins building upgrading, funding for Cow-calf set-aside program (Canada/Alberta)

See Calf set-aside program (Canada/Alberta)

CP Rail

Ogden rail yards, Calgary: Toxic materials runoff from ... Boutillier 1709; Cao 1709

CPA

See Commonwealth Parliamentary Association

CPR–Training

See Cardiopulmonary resuscitation–Training

Credit card companies

Refund policy for unprovided services (airline tickets) ... Lund 204

Credit ratings, Personal

Consumer protection legislation re ... Speech from the Throne 9

Credit Union Deposit Guarantee Corporation

Annual report, 2003 (SP79/05: Tabled) ... Clerk, The 94; McClellan 94

Annual report, 2004 (SP278/05: Tabled) ... McClellan 622

Credits, Emission control

See Emission control credits

Credits, High school

See High school credits

Creutzfeldt–Jakob disease

Incidence of ... Horner 250, 288

CRHA

See Calgary Health Region

Crime

News media coverage of ... Miller, B. 1227–28

Statistics re ... Pannu 1231

Toughening of sentencing re See Sentences (Criminal procedure), Increasing of Crime, Gang-related–Prevention

See Gang-related crime–Prevention

Crime, Violent

See Violent crime

Crime prevention

[See also Violent crime, Prevention of]

Aboriginal programs re ... Cenaiko 1428

Funding for ... Cenaiko 1427; McClellan 748–49

General remarks ... Cenaiko 1256, 1428, 1671;

Lukaszuk 1671; MacDonald 1258; Miller, B. 1227–28; Miller, R. 1256

Crime rate

General remarks ... Cenaiko 1671; Lukaszuk 1671;

Pannu 1231

Criminal Code (Federal)

Conditional sentencing provisions ... Stevens 1229–30

Criminal Intelligence Service Alberta

General remarks ... Cenaiko 459, 1148, 1427

Criminal justice system

General remarks ... Stevens 1226

Criminal Notoriety Act (Bill 46)

First reading ... Jablonski 1631

Second reading ... Chase 1867; Jablonski 1686–87;

Martin 1867–68; Miller, B. 1687; Miller, R. 1868

Committee ... Agnihotri 1902–03, 1905; Dunford 1905;

Elsalhy 1903; Hancock 1903–04; Miller, B. 1902;

Pannu 1904–05; Tougas 1904

Third reading ... Jablonski 2024–25; Miller, B. 2025

Royal Assent ... Lieutenant Governor of Alberta 2057

Criminals, Rehabilitation of

See Rehabilitation of criminals

Criminals, Violent

Prevention of profiting from their stories: Legislation re (Bill 46) ... Jablonski 1631

Crisis management planning

See Terrorist attacks–Prevention

Critical infrastructure

See Infrastructure, Critical

Crop insurance program

Claims under, impacts on ... Horner 1207

Deductible for ... Horner 1214; Martin 1212

General remarks ... Hinman 1216; Horner 1214, 1850; MacDonald 1208; Martin 1212

Payouts to renters of land ... Hinman 1217; Horner 1219

Per-acre funding for payouts re ... Horner 1214; Martin 1212

Premiums for ... Hinman 1216; Horner 1219

Production insurance coverage ... Goudreau 1570;

Horner 1570

Snowed under crop coverage ... Hinman 1216; Horner 1219

Spring price endorsement option ... Danyluk 695;

Goudreau 979, 1570; Hinman 1216; Horner 695,

979, 1211, 1214, 1219, 1570, 1624, 1850

Spring price endorsement option: Statement re ... Oberle 698

Cross-country ski championships

2005 World Cup event in Alberta See Alberta

Centennial World Cup Cross Country competition, Canmore (December 2005)

Haywood Canada Cup champion (Sara Renner) ...

Tarchuk 773

Crowfoot Learning Centre

See Calgary Police Service, Chief Crowfoot Learning Centre

Crown buildings

See Public buildings

Crown contracts

See Public contracts

Crown counsel

See Government attorneys

Crown lands

See Public lands

Crown leases

See Oil and gas leases

Crown wilderness area

See Castle–Crown wilderness area

Crowsnest Pass regulation

See Municipal Government Act, Crowsnest Pass regulation

Crude, Synthetic–Royalties

See Heavy oil–Royalties

Cruelty to animals, Legislation re

See Animals, Treatment of, Legislation re (Bill 22)

Crystal methamphetamine (Drug)

Cause of youth violence ... Agnihotri 1578

Chemical ingredients in, control of ... Stevens 1235

Chemical ingredients in, control of: Legislation re (Bill 204) ... Stevens 1235; Strang 171

Dogs as sniffers re, in schools ... Hinman 1272

Interprovincial conference re ... Stevens 1235

Manufacturing of (illegal meth labs) ... Cenaiko 1427, 1430; Jablonski 25

- Crystal methamphetamine (Drug) (Continued)
 Manufacturing of (illegal meth labs): Firefighting training re (SP186/05: Tabled) ... Taylor 327
 Safe injection site re: Letter (SP180/05: Tabled) ... Blakeman 327
 Test for use of (strips detecting smell) ... Zwozdesky 1265
- Crystal methamphetamine (Drug) abuse–Prevention
 General remarks ... Cenaiko 770, 1884; Evans 1669–70; Flaherty 1263; Jablonski 1669–70; Mather 1234; Strang 770; Zwozdesky 1265, 1729
- Crystal methamphetamine (Drug) abuse–Treatment
 AADAC treatment program for ... Evans 1669, 1670; Rodney 804
 Treatment centres for ... Evans 267, 852, 1669–70; Flaherty 266–67; Jablonski 1670
 Treatment centres for, in closed young offender centres ... Cenaiko 800; Pastoor 800
 Treatment centres for: News article re (SP194/05: Tabled) ... Mather 327
- CSIS
 See Canadian Security Intelligence Service
- CT scans (Medical imaging procedure)
 Coverage under health care plan ... Blakeman 366; Evans 366
 Private clinic provision of ... Blakeman 365–66; Evans 365–66
 Safety aspects ... Blakeman 365–66; Evans 365–66
- Culinary trade show
 See Alberta Restaurant and Food Services Exposition (ARFEX), Edmonton (2005)
- Cultural facilities–Finance
 General remarks ... McClellan 750
- Culture–Finance
 General remarks ... Chase 797; Zwozdesky 797
- Cunningham, Dr. John Robert
 Investiture into Order of Canada ... Jablonski 1743
- Curling championships
 Masters Curling Championship ... Rogers 126
 Team Ferbey (2005 Brier champions) ... Agnihotri 169; Lukaszuk 168
 Team Ferbey (2005 Brier champions): Letter from Premier to (SP115/05: Tabled) ... Lukaszuk 171
 Team Ferbey (2005 world champions) ... Ducharme 650–51; Lougheed 651–52
 Team Ferbey (2005 world champions): Premier's letter to (SP304/05: Tabled) ... Ducharme 653; Klein 653
 Team Martin (2005 Canada Cup champions) ... Rogers 418
 Under-18 International champions (Scheidegger rink, Alberta rink) ... McFarland 578
 Western Canadian Blind championship ... Abbott 126
- Curricula
 See Education–Curricula
- Custom Environmental Services Ltd.
 Fire at ... Boutilier 1335–36, 1337–38; Eggen 1337–38; Lougheed 1335–36
- CWD
 See Chronic wasting disease
- Cyberbullying
 See Bullying, Over the Internet
- Cypress Hills Provincial Park
 [See also Parks, Provincial]
 Centennial projects in ... Mar 1473
 Industrial development in ... Chase 1011–12
- Cystic fibrosis
 Statement re ... Lougheed 1577–78
- Cystic Fibrosis Foundation, Canadian
 See Canadian Cystic Fibrosis Foundation
- Daily physical activity in schools
 See Physical fitness–Teaching, Daily mandatory activities
- Daishowa Canada Co. Ltd.
 General remarks ... Chase 1012; Dunford 1013
- Damage deposits
 Legislation re (Bill 10) ... Strang 93
- Dangerous offenders
 See Criminals, Violent
- DARE program
 See Drug abuse resistance education program
- Darfur, Sudan
 See Genocide–Sudan
- DATS
 See Disabled Adults Transportation Service
- David Thompson Regional Health Authority
 Annual report, 2003–04 (SP92/05: Tabled) ... Evans 128
 Annual report, 2004–05 (SP624/05: Tabled) ... Clerk, The 1717; Evans 1717
 Funding ... Evans 271
- Day for Tolerance
 See International Day for Tolerance
- Day homes, Private
 See Daycare in private homes
- Day of Disabled Persons, International
 See International Day of Disabled Persons
- Day of Mourning, International
 See International Day of Mourning
- Daycare centres
 Available spaces in ... Miller, B. 1732; Pannu 1058
 National plan principles re ... Blakeman 1061; Forsyth 304, 1056, 1062, 1732, 2013; Hinman 1714; Miller, B. 1732; Pannu 304, 1057–58, 1309, 1917
 Quality of care in ... Mather 1054; Pannu 1057–58
 Special-needs children ... Forsyth 1730; Mather 1731; Zwozdesky 311
 Statement re ... Pannu 1916–17
 Subsidies re ... Eggen 1733; Forsyth 85, 304, 1730, 1733; Mather 85, 1054, 1055, 1731; Pannu 304, 1058, 1063, 1917
 Subsidies re, for stay-at-home parents ... Forsyth 1730, 1731; Mather 1731
 Survey re ... Forsyth 1056; Mather 1054–55
- Daycare centres–Campuses
 Waiting lists for ... Hancock 1831; Taylor 1831
- Daycare centres–Closure
 General remarks ... Eggen 1733; Forsyth 1733
- Daycare centres–Employees
 Accreditation program for ... Eggen 1733; Forsyth 1056, 1059, 1732, 2013; Mather 1056, 2013; Speech from the Throne 10
 Qualifications of ... Pannu 1063
 Salaries of ... Forsyth 1730, 1731, 1733, 2013; Mather 1054–55, 1731, 2013; Pannu 1063, 1917
 Salaries of: KPMG study of ... Eggen 1732; Pannu 1058
 Training for ... Forsyth 1730; Mather 1730
- Daycare centres–Finance
 General remarks ... Forsyth 1052; Pannu 1063
 National program for ... Pannu 621

Daycare centres—Finance (Continued)

National program for: Alberta participation ... Ady 1388–89; Blakeman 1059; Forsyth 85, 304, 1051–52, 1056, 1059, 1076–77, 1309–10, 1388–89, 1730, 1731, 1732, 1733, 2013; Groeneveld 1503; Hancock 1831; Hinman 1444; Klein 1444; Mather 85, 1054–55, 1731, 2013; Miller, B. 1732; Morton 1076–77; Pannu 304, 621, 1309–10; Stelmach 1392, 1503

National program for: Alberta participation, federal Conservative Party comments re ... Forsyth 1059; Pannu 1058

National program for: Alberta participation, Letters re (SP282-284/05: Tabled) ... Chase 622

National program for: Alberta participation, Letters re (SP308/05: Tabled) ... Mather 699

Resource rebate funds use for, letters re (SP675-676/05: Tabled) ... Blakeman 1837

Daycare centres—Inspection

Surplus funding for ... Forsyth 1732; Mather 1731

Daycare centres—Safety aspects

General remarks ... Eggen 1733; Forsyth 1733

Daycare in family members' homes

Subsidies for ... Forsyth 1730, 1732

Daycare in private homes

Subsidies for ... Forsyth 1730

Daycare in private homes—Inspection

Surplus funding for ... Forsyth 1731; Mather 1730

Death Highway

See Highway 63

Debate (Parliamentary procedure)

Time limits on ... Blakeman 54

Debenture Interest Rebate Program, Municipal

See Municipal Debenture Interest Rebate Program

Debt collection

Consumer protection legislation re ... Speech from the Throne 9

Debts, Public (Municipal government)—Fort McMurray

General remarks ... Chase 576; McClellan 576

Debts, Public (Provincial government)

General remarks ... Chase 1086, 1466; Dunford 1010; McClellan 749, 750, 958, 1448–49; Melchin 922; Miller, R. 1448; Oberg 1093; Speech from the Throne 9

General servicing costs re ... McClellan 964; Miller, R. 963

Retirement of: Legislation re (Bill 37) ... McClellan 775; Zwozdesky 775

Statutory servicing costs re ... McClellan 964; Miller, R. 963

Debts, Student

See Student financial aid

Deceased persons

Disclosure of personal information re: Legislation re (Bill 8) ... Mitzel 373

Declaration of Arbroath (Scottish independence, 1320)

Recognition of ... DeLong 578

Decriminalization of marijuana

See Marijuana, Decriminalization of Deep Well Oil & Gas Ltd.

Oil well drilling activity, Lubicon Lake area ... Boutillier 902–03; Eggen 902–03; Melchin 643; Swann 643

Deer

Testing of, for chronic wasting disease ... Horner 250

Deer—Alberta/Saskatchewan border area

Culling of, due to CWD threat ... Bonko 250, 937; Coutts 934; Eggen 933; Horner 250

Deer—New York (State)

CWD infected deer served for human consumption, news article re (SP290/05: Tabled) ... Swann 623

Deer ranching

Impact of chronic wasting disease on ... Horner 456; Prins 456

Deerfoot Trail, Calgary

Douglasdale Drive interchange, funding for ... Oberg 1086

Median barrier installation ... Oberg 2011; Shariff 2011

Deficit financing

General remarks ... Elsalhy 966

Delegations, International

See International delegations

Dell Inc.

Involvement in Alberta ... Dunford 1010

Delta Driving School

Licensing incident ... McFarland 1309; Oberg 1309

Demerit points (Traffic infractions)

Application to photoradar infractions ... Abbott 614; Oberg 615

Democratic renewal

See Electoral reform

Denmar Energy Services Ltd.

Donation to Bonnyville recreation centre ... Ducharme 1482

Team Ferby sponsors ... Ducharme 650

Dental Assistants Association

See Alberta Dental Assistants Association

Dental Association and College

See Alberta Dental Association and College

Dental benefits for seniors

See Alberta seniors benefit program, Dental benefits

Dental Hygienists' Association

See Alberta Dental Hygienists' Association

Dentistry, Veterinary

Inclusion in Veterinary Profession Act See Veterinary Profession Act, Changes to, re veterinary dentistry inclusion in

Denturists, College of Alberta

See College of Alberta Denturists

Dependent Adults Act

Review of ... Fritz 887; Speech from the Throne 10

Dept. of Aboriginal Affairs and Northern Development

Annual report, 2003-04 (SP39/05: Tabled) ... Calahasen 93; Clerk, The 93

Annual report, 2004-05 (SP562/05: Tabled) ...

Calahasen 1675; Clerk, The 1675

Estimates, 2005-06: Amount of detail in ... Tougas 837

Estimates, 2005-06: Debated ... Bonko 843, 845; Calahasen 835–42, 844–45; Danyluk 836–37, 843, 844; Eggen 839–40; Hinman 841–42; Swann 844, 845; Tougas 837–38, 844

Estimates, 2005-06: Responses to questions during (SP501/05: Tabled) ... Calahasen 1608

Funding details ... Calahasen 844, 845; Eggen 839–40; Hinman 841; Swann 844, 845; Tougas 837

Interim estimates, 2005-06: Debated ... MacDonald 254; Miller, R. 257

Interim estimates, 2005-06: Passed ... Webber 269

Dept. of Aboriginal Affairs and Northern Development
(Continued)

Minister's potential conflict re Lubicon land claim process ... Calahasen 841; Stevens 1600-01
Staffing ... Calahasen 835

Dept. of Advanced Education

Annual report, 2004-05 (SP563/05: Tabled) ... Clerk, The 1675; Hancock 1675
Budget target ... Hancock 1621; Taft 1621
Estimates, 2005-06: Debated ... Abbott 874; Blakeman 865-67; Brown 874; Cao 874-75; Eggen 875; Flaherty 874; Hancock 859-61, 863-65, 867-71, 875; Pannu 872-74; Prins 874; Taylor 861-63, 870
Estimates, 2005-06: Responses to questions during (SP429/05: Tabled) ... Hancock 1396
General remarks ... Chase 755
Interim estimates, 2005-06: Debated ... Chase 265-66; MacDonald 254; Miller, R. 257; Pannu 259; Taylor 261
Interim estimates, 2005-06: Passed ... Webber 269
Nonbudgetary disbursements ... Pannu 259
Return of capital funding to ... Oberg 1803
Separation from Dept. of Learning, costs re ... Blakeman 865; Hancock 869
Supplementary estimates, 2004-05: Debated ... Hancock 276-78; Mason 278; Taylor 276-77
Supplementary estimates, 2004-05: Passed ... Webber 312
Supplementary estimates, 2005-06: Debated ... Chase 1798; Hancock 1789-98; Pannu 1793-94, 1796-97; Taylor 1791-92

Dept. of Agriculture, Food and Rural Development

Annual report, 2003-04 (SP40/05: Tabled) ... Clerk, The 93; Horner 93
Annual report, 2004-05 (SP564/05: Tabled) ... Clerk, The 1675; Horner 1675
Estimates, 2005-06: Debated ... Hinman 1216-19; Horner 1206-12, 1214-16, 1219-23; MacDonald 1208-09; Martin 1212-14; Swann 1221
Interim estimates, 2005-06: Debated ... Hinman 262-63; Horner 258; MacDonald 254; Miller, R. 257
Interim estimates, 2005-06: Passed ... Webber 269
Minister's trip to Ottawa re border closure to Canadian cattle ... Klein 14; Stelmach 20
Rural offices closure ... Horner 298; MacDonald 297, 1850
Supplementary estimates, 2004-05: Debated ... Horner 296-301; MacDonald 296-97; Pannu 299-300
Supplementary estimates, 2004-05: Passed ... Webber 312
Supplementary estimates, 2005-06: Debated ... Hinman 1851-52; Horner 1849-51; MacDonald 1850
Supplementary estimates, 2005-06: Passed ... Haley 1852

Dept. of Agriculture (United States)

Position on Montana court injunction re border closure to Canadian cattle ... Horner 289, 290, 417, 739-40, 949; Mason 949; Mitzel 289; Stelmach 19-20

Dept. of Children's Services

Annual report, 2003-04 (SP41/05: Tabled) ... Clerk, The 93; Forsyth 93
Annual report, 2004-05 (SP565/05: Tabled) ... Clerk, The 1675; Forsyth 1675

Dept. of Children's Services (Continued)

Business plan ... Mather 1053
Estimates, 2005-06: Debated ... Blakeman 1059-61; Danyluk 1052-53, 1062-63; Forsyth 1051-52, 1055-57, 1059, 1061-62; Johnston 1053; Mather 1053-57; Pannu 1057-58, 1063; Taylor 1057
Estimates, 2005-06: Member declared conflict of interest re, and withdrew ... Liepert 1051
General remarks ... Cardinal 1138
Interim estimates, 2005-06: Debated ... MacDonald 254
Interim estimates, 2005-06: Passed ... Webber 269
Supplementary estimates, 2004-05: Debated ... Agnihotri 305; Forsyth 301, 303-05; Mather 301-03, 305; Pannu 303-04
Supplementary estimates, 2004-05: Passed ... Webber 312
Supplementary estimates, 2005-06: Debated ... Eggen 1731-32; Forsyth 1730-33; Mather 1730-31; Miller, B. 1731
Supplementary estimates, 2005-06: Passed ... Haley 1852
Youth substance abuse treatment programs funding ... Forsyth 23; Jablonski 23

Dept. of Community Development

Annual report, 2003-04 (SP42/05: Tabled) ... Clerk, The 93; Mar 93
Annual report, 2004-05 (SP566/05: Tabled) ... Clerk, The 1675; Mar 1675
Budget allocations ... Mar 1475-76
Estimates, 2005-06: Debated ... Agnihotri 1474-75, 1483; Blakeman 1476-77; Brown 1482; Chase 1480-81; Ducharme 1482-83; Eggen 1477-78; Mar 1472-73, 1475-76, 1479, 1484; McClellan 1479-80; Miller, R. 1483-84
Estimates, 2005-06: Responses to questions during (SP720/05: Tabled) ... Mar 1919
Interim estimates, 2005-06: Debated ... Agnihotri 260; MacDonald 254; Miller, R. 257
Interim estimates, 2005-06: Passed ... Webber 269
Seniors division, Ombudsman's letter re concerns re (SP289/05: Tabled) ... Pannu 622-23
Staffing ... Agnihotri 1475; Mar 1476
Supplementary estimates, 2004-05: Debated ... Agnihotri 305-06; Graydon 305-06; Pannu 306
Supplementary estimates, 2004-05: Passed ... Webber 312
Supplementary estimates, 2005-06: Passed ... Haley 1852

Dept. of Economic Development

Annual report, 2003-04 (SP43/05: Tabled) ... Clerk, The 93; Dunford 93
Annual report, 2004-05 (SP567/05: Tabled) ... Clerk, The 1675; Dunford 1675
Corporate communications, relation to Public Affairs Bureau ... Dunford 1015; Eggen 1014
Estimates, 2005-06: Debated ... Bonko 1008-10; Chase 1011-13; Dunford 1006-08, 1010-11, 1013, 1015-18; Eggen 1014-15; Hinman 1017
Grants distributed by (M45/05: Defeated) ... Bonko 1748; Doerksen 1748; Dunford 1748
Hosting expenses, 1992-2005 (Q39/05: Defeated) ... Bonko 1747; Doerksen 1747; Dunford 1747
Interim estimates, 2005-06: Debated ... MacDonald 254; Miller, R. 257

Dept. of Economic Development (Continued)

Interim estimates, 2005-06: Passed ... Webber 269
 Performance measures ... Bonko 1009; Dunford 1011
 Relation to Dept. of International and Intergovernmental Relations ... Eggen 1183; Stelmach 1183, 1187
 Supplementary estimates, 2004-05: Debated ...
Blakeman 281; Dunford 281
 Trade missions expenditures (Q13/05: Defeated) ...
Bonko 808; Chase 808; Elsalhy 808; MacDonald
 808; Renner 808
 Trade show expenditures (Q12/05: Defeated) ... Bonko
 807; Chase 807; Dunford 807; Elsalhy 807;
MacDonald 807; Renner 807

Dept. of Education

Annual report, 2004-05 (SP568/05: Tabled) ... Clerk,
The 1675; Zwozdesky 1675
 Business plan ... Zwozdesky 1260
 Estimates, 2005-06: Debated ... Bonko 1266-67;
Flaherty 1262-64; Hinman 1272-73; Martin
 1269-71; Mather 1275; Zwozdesky 1259-62,
 1264-69, 1271-75
 Interim estimates, 2005-06: Debated ... Chase 265;
Flaherty 266; Hinman 263; MacDonald 254
 Interim estimates, 2005-06: Passed ... Webber 269
 Minister's visits to all school boards ... Herard 165-66;
Zwozdesky 166
 Return of school capital funding to ... Cao 1914; Chase
 1086-87, 1801; Eggen 1728; Flaherty 84; Martin
 1802; Oberg 84, 1088, 1803; Zwozdesky 1723, 1914
 Separation from Dept. of Learning, costs re ... Blakeman
 865; Hancock 869
 Supplementary estimates ... Flaherty 1264; Zwozdesky
 1265
 Supplementary estimates, 2004-05: Debated ... Bonko
 309-10; Flaherty 307; MacDonald 311; Mason 310;
Pannu 308-09; Zwozdesky 306-12
 Supplementary estimates, 2004-05: Passed ... Webber
 312
 Supplementary estimates, 2005-06: Debated ...
Agnihotri 1724; Eggen 1728-29; Flaherty 1721;
Martin 1722-23; Mather 1725-26; Zwozdesky
 1720-30

Dept. of Energy

Annual report, 2003-04 (SP44/05: Tabled) ... Clerk, The
 93; Melchin 93
 Annual report, 2004-05 (SP569/05: Tabled) ... Clerk,
The 1675; Melchin 1675
 Communications contracts expenditures, 2003-04
 (Q16/05: Defeated) ... Boutilier 811; Chase 811;
Hancock 811-12; MacDonald 811, 812
 Contracted employees/consultants salaries, 2003-04
 (M25/05: Response tabled as SP808/05) ... Boutilier
 990; Clerk, The 2018; MacDonald 990; Melchin
 2018
 Discussions with Enron, correspondence re (M47/05: Defeated) ... MacDonald 1749; Melchin 1749;
Taylor 1749
 Discussions with Enron, correspondence re (SP678/05:
 Tabled) ... MacDonald 1837
 Discussions with Enron, public access to documents re
 ... Klein 246-47; MacDonald 246-47
 Estimates, 2005-06: Debated ... Eggen 913-15; Elsalhy
 917-18; MacDonald 910-12; Martin 919-21;
Melchin 908-10, 912-13, 915-19, 921-22

Dept. of Energy (Continued)

Estimates, 2005-06: Responses to questions during (SP484 & 734/05: Tabled) ... Melchin 1578, 1920
 Interim estimates, 2005-06: Debated ... MacDonald 254
 Interim estimates, 2005-06: Passed ... Webber 269
 Minister's noninternational trips details, 2003-04
 (M26/05: Response tabled as SP735/05) ... Boutilier
 990-91; Clerk, The 1920; MacDonald 990; Mason
 991; Melchin 1920
 Service contracts costs, 2003-05 (Q41/05: Defeated) ...
MacDonald 1748; Melchin 1748; Taylor 1748
 Staffing ... MacDonald 911; Melchin 913

Dept. of Environment

Annual report, 2003-04 (SP45/05: Tabled) ... Boutilier
 93; Clerk, The 93
 Annual report, 2004-05 (SP570/05: Tabled) ... Boutilier
 1675; Clerk, The 1675
 Corporate services ... Swann 1039
 Estimates, 2005-06: Debated ... Boutilier 1036-37,
 1039-40, 1042-49; Chase 1047-48; Eggen 1040-42;
Johnson 1046-47; Swann 1037-39, 1049; Taylor
 1044-45
 Funding level for ... Klein 573, 768-69; McClellan 769;
Swann 573, 768-69
 Information technology requirements funding ... Swann
 282
 Interim estimates, 2005-06: Debated ... MacDonald 254
 Interim estimates, 2005-06: Passed ... Webber 269
 Minister's role in Fort McMurray land sale [See also under Alberta Social Housing Corporation]; Fritz
 1570; Mason 1570
 Minister's role re hazardous materials spills ... Boutilier
 1668; Swann 1668
 Performance measures ... Boutilier 1037, 1043; Eggen
 1041; Swann 1038
 Staff ... Boutilier 1045-46; Swann 1039; Taylor 1045
 Supplementary estimates, 2004-05: Debated ... Swann
 282
 Supplementary estimates, 2004-05: Passed ... Webber
 312
 Supplementary estimates, 2005-06: Passed ... Haley
 1852
 Support services ... Eggen 1041

Dept. of Finance

Annual report, 2003-04 (SP47/05: Tabled) ... Clerk, The
 93; McClellan 93
 Annual report, 2005 (SP572/05: Tabled) ... Clerk, The
 1675; McClellan 1675
 Business plan ... Miller, R. 961
 Communications division ... McClellan 961; Miller, R.
 959, 963
 Estimates, 2005-06: Debated ... Blakeman 964-65;
Elsalhy 966-67; Hinman 970-71; Mason 968-69;
McClellan 958-59, 961-62, 964-70; Miller, R.
 959-63, 966
 Estimates, 2005-06: Responses to questions during
 (SP433/05: Tabled) ... McClellan 1452
 Interim estimates, 2005-06: Debated ... MacDonald 254;
McClellan 264; Miller, R. 256
 Interim estimates, 2005-06: Passed ... Webber 269
 Minister of, comments re ... Blakeman 986; Hancock
 420, 985; Speaker, The 421; Taft 410
 Nonbudgetary disbursements ... Miller, R. 256
 Performance measures ... Miller, R. 961

Dept. of Finance (Continued)

Revenues ... McClellan 959
 Staff ... McClellan 959; Miller, R. 963
 Supplementary estimates, 2004-05: Debated ... Mason 283; McClellan 283; Miller, R. 283
 Supplementary estimates, 2004-05: Passed ... Webber 312

Dept. of Fisheries and Oceans (Federal government)

Bridges over waterways, construction approval process ... Hinman 1804-05; Oberg 1802

Dept. of Gaming

Annual report, 2003-04 (SP48/05: Tabled) ... Clerk, The 93; Graydon 93
 Annual report, 2004-05 (SP573/05: Tabled) ... Clerk, The 1675; Graydon 1675
 Budget: Other initiatives item ... Graydon 1284; Tougas 1284
 Business plan ... Tougas 1279
 Estimates, 2005-06: Debated ... Chase 1283-84; Graydon 1277-84, 1286-90; MacDonald 1289-90; Miller, B. 1287; Pannu 1284-86, 1288; Swann 1282-83; Tougas 1279-81, 1284, 1287-88
 Estimates, 2005-06: Responses to questions during (SP458/05: Tabled) ... Graydon 1528
 General remarks ... Tougas 1279
 Interim estimates, 2005-06: Debated ... Flaherty 266-67; MacDonald 254; Miller, R. 258; Pastoor 268
 Interim estimates, 2005-06: Passed ... Webber 269
 Role of ... Graydon 1277
 Social responsibility division ... Graydon 487, 1286
 Supplementary estimates, 2004-05: Passed ... Webber 312
 Supplementary estimates, 2005-06: Debated ... Graydon 1798-99; MacDonald 1799; Tougas 1798-99

Dept. of Government Services

Access and privacy branch, role of ... Elsalhy 1418
 Annual report, 2003-04 (SP49/05: Tabled) ... Clerk, The 93; Lund 93
 Annual report, 2004-05 (SP574/05: Tabled) ... Clerk, The 1675; Lund 1675
 Estimates, 2005-06: Debated ... Brown 1422; Elsalhy 1417-18, 1426; Hinman 1425-26; Lund 1415-26; Martin 1420-21; Mather 1422-23; Miller, B. 1424-25; Pastoor 1423-24; Swann 1419-20
 Estimates, 2005-06: Responses to questions during (SP497/05: Tabled) ... Lund 1607
 Fees ... Lund 1415
 Interim estimates, 2005-06: Debated ... MacDonald 254
 Interim estimates, 2005-06: Passed ... Webber 269
 Performance measures ... Lund 1415; Martin 1421
 Relation to Dept. of Restructuring and Government Efficiency ... Martin 756; Taylor 757
 Staffing ... Elsalhy 1417; Lund 1418
 Supplementary estimates, 2004-05: Passed ... Webber 312
 Support services budget ... Elsalhy 1417; Lund 1418

Dept. of Health and Wellness

Annual report, 2003-04, sections I and II (SP50-51/05: Tabled) ... Clerk, The 93; Evans 93
 Annual report, 2004-05, sections I and II (SP575-576/05: Tabled) ... Clerk, The 1675; Evans 1675
 Budget target ... Evans 1621; Taft 1621

Dept. of Health and Wellness (Continued)

Contracts awarded to Charlebois Consulting Ltd. ... Evans 642-43; Taft 642-43
 Credit or recovery budget amounts ... Blakeman 273
 Estimates, 2005-06: Debated ... Blakeman 1459-64, 1469-70, 1471; Chase 1466-68, 1470; Evans 1458-59, 1461-62, 1464-65; Hinman 1468; Mason 1465-66; McClellan 1464, 1471-72; Swann 1468
 Health information protection budget ... Blakeman 617; Evans 617
 Interim estimates, 2005-06: Debated ... Evans 259-60, 267; MacDonald 255; Miller, R. 257, 258; Pannu 267; Pastoor 268-69
 Interim estimates, 2005-06: Passed ... Webber 269
 Medical imaging services, digital, cost savings on ... Ouellette 757
 Return of health facility funding to ... Chase 1801; Martin 1802; Oberg 1803
 Supplementary estimates, 2004-05: Debated ... Blakeman 272-74; Evans 271-75; Mason 274
 Supplementary estimates, 2004-05: Passed ... Webber 312
 Supplementary estimates, 2004-05: Responses to questions during (SP516/05: Tabled) ... Clerk, The 1608; Evans 1608
 Supplementary estimates, 2005-06: Debated ... Agnihotri 1844; Blakeman 1839-41; Evans 1838-39, 1841-46; Hinman 1844-45; MacDonald 1845-46; Mason 1842-43
 Supplementary estimates, 2005-06: Passed ... Haley 1852
 Website chart re cataract surgeries in Calgary (SP802/05: Tabled) ... Pannu 2018

Dept. of Health (Federal)

Draft report on CWD in wild game animals ... Horner 456; Prins 456

Dept. of Human Resources and Employment

Annual report, 2003-04 (SP52/05: Tabled) ... Cardinal 93; Clerk, The 93
 Annual report, 2004-05 (SP577/05: Tabled) ... Cardinal 1675; Clerk, The 1675
 Collective Agreement Settlements in Alberta (Report) (SP638/05: Tabled) ... Cardinal 1746; Clerk, The 1746
 Estimates, 2005-06: Debated ... Agnihotri 1141-42; Backs 1130-32; Blakeman 1138-40; Bonko 1133-34; Cardinal 1129-30, 1132-33, 1135, 1137-38, 1140-41; Martin 1135-37
 Estimates, 2005-06: Responses to questions during (SP494/05: Tabled) ... Cardinal 1579; Clerk, The 1579
 Interim estimates, 2005-06: Debated ... MacDonald 255
 Interim estimates, 2005-06: Passed ... Webber 269
 Labour Relations Board letters/emails to, re health care union restructuring (SP801/05: Tabled) ... Martin 2018
 Minister's resignation ... Backs 2009; Cardinal 2009
 Research and development funding ... Agnihotri 1142; Backs 1131
 Service centres ... Cardinal 280, 1129
 Supplementary estimates, 2004-05: Debated ... Backs 278-81; Cardinal 278, 280-81
 Supplementary estimates, 2004-05: Passed ... Webber 312

Dept. of Human Resources and Skills Development (Federal)

Minister of: Alberta MLA's comments re ... Abbott 1607; Miller, R. 1606-07

Dept. of Infrastructure

Annual report, 2003-04 (SP53/05: Tabled) ... Clerk, The 94; Oberg 94

Dept. of Infrastructure and Transportation

Annual report, 2004-05 (SP578/05: Tabled) ... Clerk, The 1675; Oberg 1675

Anthony Henday Drive southeast project, background re (SP169/05: Tabled) ... Mason 295; Pannu 295

Budget target ... Oberg 1621; Taft 1621

Estimates, 2005-06: Debated ... Agnihotri 1089-90; Chase 1086-88; MacDonald 1097-98; Martin 1091-93; Oberg 1085-86, 1088-91, 1093-98; VanderBurg 1095-96

General remarks ... Chase 755

Highway maintenance yard, Caroline, environmental issues re ... Oberg 1800

Interim estimates, 2005-06: Debated ... Chase 264; MacDonald 255; Miller, R. 258; Taylor 261

Interim estimates, 2005-06: Passed ... Webber 269

Reason for merging together ... Oberg 1088

Reassignment of capital funding to other departments ... Cao 1914; Chase 1086-87, 1801; Eggen 1728; Flaherty 84; Martin 1802; Oberg 84, 1088, 1803; Zwozdesky 1723, 1914

Supplementary estimates, 2004-05: Passed ... Webber 312

Supplementary estimates, 2005-06: Debated ... Chase 1801-02; Hinman 1804-05; MacDonald 1803-04; Martin 1802-03; Oberg 1799-1805

Supplementary estimates, 2005-06: Passed ... Haley 1852

Dept. of Innovation and Science

Annual report, 2003-04 (SP55/05: Tabled) ... Clerk, The 94; Doerksen 94

Annual report, 2004-05 (SP579/05: Tabled) ... Clerk, The 1675; Doerksen 1675

Credit card statements for deputy minister (M18/05: Response tabled as SP772/05) ... Chase 820; Doerksen 2017; Elsalhy 820; Zwozdesky 820

Employee information technology security awareness, actions to promote (Q18/05: Defeated) ... Elsalhy 812-13; Ouellette 812

Estimates, 2005-06: Debated ... Backs 1375-76; Chase 1377; Doerksen 1368-69, 1372-78; Eggen 1373-74; Elsalhy 1370-72; Miller, B. 1377-78

Estimates, 2005-06: Responses to questions during (SP498/05: Tabled) ... Doerksen 1607

Interim estimates, 2005-06: Debated ... MacDonald 255

Interim estimates, 2005-06: Passed ... Webber 269

Performance measures ... Backs 1376; Doerksen 1372, 1377; Elsalhy 1370

Staffing ... Doerksen 1372; Elsalhy 1370

Supplementary estimates, 2004-05: Passed ... Webber 312

Dept. of International and Intergovernmental Relations

Annual report, 2003-04 (SP56/05: Tabled) ... Clerk, The 94; Stelmach 94

Annual report, 2004-05 (SP580/05: Tabled) ... Clerk, The 1675; Stelmach 1675

Budget target ... Stelmach 1621; Taft 1621

Dept. of International and Intergovernmental Relations

(Continued)

Elimination of ... Bonko 1187; Stelmach 1187

Estimates 2005-06: Debated ... Bonko 1187, 1189; Brown 1188; Chase 1184-87, 1189; Eggen 1182-83; Miller, R. 1187-88; Pastoor 1181-82; Stelmach 1180-89

Hosting expenses, 1996-2004 (Q17/05: Response tabled as SP743/05) ... Pastoor 812; Stelmach 812, 1970; Stevens 812

Interim estimates, 2005-06: Debated ... MacDonald 255; Pastoor 269

Interim estimates, 2005-06: Passed ... Webber 269

Performance measures ... Bonko 1187, 1189; Eggen 1183; Pastoor 1181, 1182; Stelmach 1182, 1189

Relation to Dept. of Economic Development ... Eggen 1183; Stelmach 1183, 1187

Staff ... Miller, R. 1187; Stelmach 1188

Dept. of Justice and Attorney General

Annual report, 2003-04 (SP57/05: Tabled) ... Clerk, The 94; Stevens 94

Annual report, 2004-05 (SP581/05: Tabled) ... Clerk, The 1675; Stevens 1675

Business plan ... Mather 1234; Miller, B. 1227; Stevens 1225

Discussions with federal Justice dept. re sentencing in child abuse cases ... Miller, B. 1228

Estimates, 2005-06: Debated ... Flaherty 1235; Mather 1234; Miller, B. 1227-28; Pannu 1230-32, 1235-36; Stevens 1225-30, 1232-36

Estimates, 2005-06: Responses to questions during (SP495/05: Tabled) ... Stevens 1579

Interim estimates, 2005-06: Debated ... MacDonald 255

Interim estimates, 2005-06: Passed ... Webber 269

Relations with other depts. ... Miller, B. 1227; Stevens 1229

Relations with Solicitor General's dept. ... Stevens 1229

Role of ... Stevens 1229

Staffing ... Miller, B. 1228; Stevens 1229

Supplementary estimates, 2004-05: Debated ... Mason 276; Miller, B. 275-76; Stevens 275-76

Supplementary estimates, 2004-05: Passed ... Webber 312

Dept. of Learning

Annual report, 2003-04 (SP58/05: Tabled) ... Clerk, The 94; Zwozdesky 94

Credit card statements for deputy minister (M17/05: Response tabled as SP718/05) ... Chase 819; Flaherty 818; MacDonald 818-20; Martin 819; Zwozdesky 818, 1919

General remarks ... Chase 755

Separation into depts. of Education and Advanced Education, costs re ... Blakeman 865; Hancock 869

Dept. of Municipal Affairs

Annual report, 2003-04 (SP59/05: Tabled) ... Clerk, The 94; Renner 94

Annual report, 2004-05 (SP582/05: Tabled) ... Clerk, The 1675; Renner 1675

Credit card statements for deputy minister (M15/05: Response tabled as SP826/05) ... Chase 817; Clerk, The 2056; MacDonald 815-17; Renner 816, 2056; Taft 815; Zwozdesky 816

Dept. of Municipal Affairs (Continued)

- Credit card statements for minister and executive assistant (M16/05: Response tabled as SP827/05) ... Clerk, The 2056; MacDonald 817–18; Renner 817, 2056; Taft 817; Zwozdesky 817
- Elected officials' training courses See Municipal excellence program
- Estimates, 2005-06: Debated ... Agnihotri 1327; Bonko 1328–29; Elsalhy 1326–27; Martin 1324–26; Miller, R. 1327–28; Pastoor 1324; Renner 1319–24, 1326; Taft 1321–23
- Estimates, 2005-06: Responses to questions during (SP456/05: Tabled) ... Clerk, The 1508; Renner 1508
- Information technology section, contracting out of, privacy aspects ... Pastoor 1324
- Interim estimates, 2005-06: Debated ... MacDonald 255
- Interim estimates, 2005-06: Passed ... Webber 269
- Minister's business expenses (M14/05: Response tabled as SP825/05) ... Clerk, The 2056; MacDonald 815; Renner 815, 2056; Taft 815; Zwozdesky 815
- Performance measures ... Miller, R. 1328
- Staffing ... Martin 1325
- Supplementary estimates, 2004-05: Passed ... Webber 312
- Supplementary estimates, 2005-06: Passed ... Haley 1852
- Support services ... Renner 1321

Dept. of Restructuring and Government Efficiency

- Alberta Corporate Service Centre transferred to ... Elsalhy 1417; Lund 1418, 1420; Ouellette 244, 751
- Alberta SuperNet project transferred to ... Doerksen 461; Eggen 1373; Elsalhy 461, 1370; MacDonald 255; Miller, R. 257
- Alberta SuperNet project transferred to: Documentation re (M29/05: Accepted) ... Elsalhy 1160; Ouellette 1160
- Ambulance services restructuring, role in ... Ouellette 244; Taft 244
- Annual report, 2004-05 (SP583/05: Tabled) ... Clerk, The 1675; Ouellette 1675
- Budget statements ... Chase 756; Martin 756; Ouellette 753, 754–55, 756, 757
- Communications function ... Elsalhy 1104; Klein 1099, 1101
- Cost of establishing ... Ouellette 244; Taft 244
- Cross-government human resources function ... Elsalhy 1710; Ouellette 1710
- Deputy ministers, number of ... Chase 755
- Elimination of ... Hinman 1599; McClellan 1599
- Enron electricity prices manipulation scheme, investigation of ... Elsalhy 249; Ouellette 249
- Estimates, 2005-06: Debated ... Ady 763; Blakeman 753–54, 760; Chase 755–56; DeLong 758; Elsalhy 763; Goudreau 761; Hinman 761–62; MacDonald 759–60; Martin 756–57; Miller, R. 763; Ouellette 751–63; Taylor 757–58
- Estimates, 2005-06: Net loss statement ... Elsalhy 763
- Executive Council budget increase, investigation of ... Klein 1103; MacDonald 1103
- ICT initiative for cross-government system ... Ouellette 1710
- Interim estimates, 2005-06: Debated ... MacDonald 255; Miller, R. 257; Pannu 259
- Interim estimates, 2005-06: Passed ... Webber 269

Dept. of Restructuring and Government Efficiency*(Continued)*

- Microfiling of Alberta pension cheques, recommendation to cease ... Elsalhy 1026; McClellan 1026
- Opportunity and restructuring assessment function ... Ady 763; Elsalhy 763; Goudreau 761; Ouellette 751, 761, 763
- Regulatory review function ... Ouellette 1710
- Relation to Dept. of Government Services ... Martin 756; Taylor 757
- Role of ... Eggen 1183; Elsalhy 1104, 1710; Hinman 970; Klein 244, 1109; Martin 756; Mason 1108; Ouellette 244, 1710; Taft 244
- School closures for efficiency reasons ... Ouellette 287; Taylor 287
- Staffing ... Elsalhy 763, 1104; Klein 1099; MacDonald 759; Ouellette 761

Dept. of Revenue

- Annual report, 2003-04 (SP60/05: Tabled) ... Clerk, The 94; McClellan 94

Dept. of Seniors

- Annual report, 2003-04 (SP61/05: Tabled) ... Clerk, The 94; Fritz 94

Dept. of Seniors and Community Supports

- Annual report, 2004-05 (SP584/05: Tabled) ... Clerk, The 1675; Fritz 1675
- Estimates, 2005-06: Debated ... Ady 889; Backs 889–90; Blakeman 880–81; DeLong 890; Fritz 877–80, 882–85, 887–90; Groeneveld 887; Hinman 888; Johnston 890; Martin 884–86; Mather 884; Pastoor 879–80; Prins 884; Taylor 882–83
- Estimates, 2005-06: Responses to questions during (SP439/05: Tabled) ... Fritz 1507
- Financial statements, inclusion of management bodies' surpluses/assets in ... Fritz 1253; Pastoor 1252–53
- Interim estimates, 2005-06: Debated ... MacDonald 255; Pannu 259
- Interim estimates, 2005-06: Passed ... Webber 269
- Jurisdiction re long-term care residents' treatment ... Evans 613
- Supplementary estimates, 2004-05: Debated ... Fritz 282–83; Pastoor 282–83
- Supplementary estimates, 2004-05: Passed ... Webber 312
- Supplementary estimates, 2005-06: Passed ... Haley 1852

Dept. of Solicitor General

- Annual report, 2003-04 (SP62/05: Tabled) ... Cenaiko 94; Clerk, The 94
- Annual report, 2004-05 (SP585/05: Tabled) ... Cenaiko 1675; Clerk, The 1675
- Business plan ... Cenaiko 1427; Miller, B. 1429–30
- Communications branch ... Cenaiko 1435–36; Taft 1435
- Estimates, 2005-06: Debated ... Blakeman 1436–37; Cenaiko 1427–28, 1430–38; Mason 1437; Miller, B. 1428–30, 1432; Taft 1434–35
- Interim estimates, 2005-06: Passed ... Webber 269
- Minister's letter re Crowsnest Pass police grant ... Cenaiko 1305; Miller, B. 1305
- Minister's letter re Crowsnest Pass police grant (SP411/05: Tabled) ... Miller, B. 1315
- Relations with Justice dept. ... Stevens 1229

Dept. of Solicitor General (Continued)

- Supplementary estimates, 2004-05: Passed ... Webber 312
 Supplementary estimates, 2005-06: Passed ... Haley 1852

Dept. of Sustainable Resource Development

- Annual report, 2003-04 (SP63/05: Tabled) ... Clerk, The 94; Coutts 94
 Annual report, 2004-05 (SP586/05: Tabled) ... Clerk, The 1675; Coutts 1675
 Deputy Minister's and departmental official's credit card statements, 2003-04 (M13/05: Response tabled as SP738/05) ... Bonko 667; Clerk, The 1920; Coutts 667, 1920; Zwozdesky 667
 Deputy Minister's office budget ... Bonko 928
 Estimates, 2005-06: Debated ... Bonko 927-30, 937-38; Coutts 925-27, 930-37; Eggen 932-33; Groeneveld 935; Oberle 935-36
 Fee revenues ... Bonko 928; Coutts 931
 Human resources budget ... Bonko 928
 Interim estimates, 2005-06: Passed ... Webber 269
 Lottery funding to ... Bonko 928; Coutts 930
 Minister's and executive assistant's credit card statements, 2003-04 (M12/05: Response tabled as SP737/05) ... Bonko 666-67; Clerk, The 1920; Coutts 666, 1920; Zwozdesky 666-67
 Minister's business expenses, 2003-04 (M11/05: Response tabled as SP736/05) ... Bonko 666; Clerk, The 1920; Coutts 666, 1920; Zwozdesky 666
 Minister's office budget ... Bonko 928; Coutts 930
 Property theft in (Q28/05: Response tabled as SP776/05) ... Bonko 1158; Cardinal 1158; Coutts 1158, 2017; Miller, R. 1158
 Role in Métis hunting/fishing agreement ... Calahasen 1574
 Staff salaries ... Bonko 928; Coutts 930
 Staffing ... Coutts 925, 930
 Strategic corporate services budget ... Bonko 928
 Supplementary estimates, 2004-05: Passed ... Webber 312
 Supplementary estimates, 2005-06: Debated ... Bonko 1847-48; Coutts 1846-49; Swann 1849
 Supplementary estimates, 2005-06: Passed ... Haley 1852
 Support services funding ... Bonko 928

Dept. of Transportation

- Annual report, 2003-04 (SP54/05: Tabled) ... Clerk, The 94; Oberg 94

Deputy Chair

- Election of, on second ballot ... Abbott 4; Cao 4; Clerk, The 4, 5; Danyluk 4; Haley 4; Johnson 4; Klein 3; Shariff 4, 5; Speaker, The 4, 5

Deputy Chair—Rulings and statements

- Access to Statutes in the Assembly ... Deputy Chair 1958
 Decorum ... Deputy Chair 256
 Insulting language ... Deputy Chair 267
 Questions to members other than ministers ... Deputy Chair 839
 Referring to the absence of members ... Deputy Chair 267
 Relevance ... Deputy Chair 606
 Separating amendments ... Deputy Chair 723
 Speaking order ... Deputy Chair 1465

Deputy constables

- General remarks ... Blakeman 1436; Cenaiko 1437

Deputy Speaker

- Election of ... Amery 2; Clerk, The 3; Klein 3; Marz 2, 4; McFarland 2; Shariff 2; Speaker, The 2, 3

Deputy Speaker—Rulings and statements

[See also Speaker—Rulings and statements]

- Addressing questions through the chair ... Deputy Speaker 1862
 Decorum ... Deputy Speaker 142
 Historical vignettes of Alberta ... Deputy Speaker 199
 Legislature Page appreciation (Leah Halliday) ... Deputy Speaker 1258
 Legislature Page recognition ... Deputy Speaker 1604-05, 2055

Deregulation: Public inquiry into

See Electric utilities—Regulations, Deregulation: Public inquiry into

Desalination of water

- Research into ... Chase 1377

Developmental Disabilities Provincial Board, Persons with

See Persons with Developmental Disabilities Provincial Board

Developmentally disabled

See Mentally disabled

Developmentally disabled—Housing

See Mentally disabled—Housing

DeVry Institute of Technology

- Academic programs, approval of ... Hancock 1166, 1168; Martin 1166

Diabetes—Treatment

Edmonton Protocol See Edmonton Protocol (Diabetes treatment)

- Foot problems ... Blakeman 1463, 1471

Diabetes strategy

- Funding for ... Blakeman 272; Evans 271

Dietitians of Alberta, College of

See College of Dietitians of Alberta

Digi-bingo

See Bingos, Electronic

Digital fax machines

See Fax machines, Digital

Digital library, Lois Hole (Proposed)

See Lois Hole digital library (Proposed)

Digital photocopiers

See Photocopiers, Digital

Dinning, Jim

See Age Care Ltd., Board of directors; Alberta Securities Commission, Influencing regulatory activity case; Former Treasurer's (Jim Dinning) involvement; TransAlta Utilities Corporation, Hydropower generation pricing; Jim Dinning's role in

Dinosaur Provincial Park

[See also Parks, Provincial]

- Centennial projects in ... Mar 1473

Dinosaur Trail

- General remarks ... Dunford 48, 1013

Diploma exams

See Student testing, Diploma exams

Direct Energy Business Services

- Brochure re long-term contracts (SP299/05: Tabled) ... Eggen 653

Direct Energy Business Services (Continued)

Energy savings partnership with University of Calgary ... DeLong 696; Hancock 696–97; Oberg 696
 Promise to, re regulated rate electricity price ... MacDonald 1119; Melchin 1119

Directives, Personal

See Personal directives

Disability Strategy, Alberta

See Alberta Disability Strategy

Disabled

General remarks ... Lougheed 2054
 Government programs for ... Cao 1524; Elsalhy 967; Fritz 877, 885, 1524; Klein 1109; Mason 1109
 Services for ... Lougheed 745

Disabled–Employment

Government programs for ... Cardinal 1130, 1138

Disabled–Housing

General remarks ... Blakeman 881; Fritz 878

Disabled Adults Transportation Service

Provincial funding for ... Bonko 1328

Disabled and building design

See Architecture and the disabled

Disabled children

Daycare for See Daycare centres, Special-needs children
 Government programs for: Funding re ... Forsyth 1051, 1052; McClellan 748

Disabled children–Education

General remarks ... Flaherty 1030; Zwozdesky 166, 648, 1029, 1030
 Review of (2000) ... Flaherty 1255; Zwozdesky 1255

Disabled children–Education–Finance

General remarks ... Zwozdesky 311, 1126, 1261, 1501, 1525

Disabled people in court, Interpretation services for

See Interpretation services for disabled people in court

Disabled Persons, International Day of

See International Day of Disabled Persons

Disabled persons' council

See Premier's Council on the Status of Persons with Disabilities

Disaster preparedness

See Emergency planning

Disaster relief

Auditor General's comments re ... Swann 1419
 Disaster recovery program expenditures (M44/05: Accepted) ... Renner 1748; Taft 1748; Taylor 1748
 Funding for ... Graydon 1798–99; McClellan 1668; Swann 1668; Tougas 1798–99
 General remarks ... Renner 1320
 Letter re (SP749/05: Tabled) ... Agnihotri 1970
 National response system re ... Renner 1320
 Southern Alberta flood situation ... Amery 1708; Renner 1708

Disaster relief, Agricultural

See Farm income disaster program (Alberta)

Disaster relief fund (Proposed)

Funding for ... Graydon 1799; Tougas 1798–99

Disaster response services, Medical–Calgary

See Emergency medical response services–Calgary

Disaster Services Alberta

See Emergency Management Alberta

Disclosure of evidence (Legal procedure)

Computerized system re ... Stevens 1226

Discount cigarettes–Taxation

See Cigarettes, Discount–Taxation

Diseases, Animal

Transmission to humans, research into See Zoonosis–Research

Diseases, Communicable–Control

See Communicable diseases–Control

Dispute resolution (Justice system)

Child and youth cases ... Stevens 275, 1225

Dispute resolution (Landlord and tenant)

See Residential tenancies dispute resolution service

Distance education

[See also eCampus Alberta]

General remarks ... Hancock 981; Lukaszuk 1505; Speech from the Throne 8

Vocational courses ... Hancock 1883

Distance health services

See Telehealth services

Diversification

General remarks ... Dunford 1007; Eggen 1015

Diversified livestock industry

See Game farming

Diversion (Aboriginal offenders)

General remarks ... Stevens 1233

Diversion (Mentally disabled offenders)

General remarks ... Cenaiko 1785

Diversion of water

See Water diversion

Dividend cheques (Resource rebates)

See Resource rebates from budget surplus (2005)

Dividend payments to Albertans (From Heritage Fund)

[See also Resource rebates from budget surplus (2005)]

General remarks ... Elsalhy 966; McClellan 967

Division 8 designation (Foreign workers for major projects)

See Labour Relations Code, Division 8 provision (Foreign workers for major projects)

Division (Recorded vote) (2005)

Bill 15 (2r), Workers' Compensation Amendment Act, 2005 594

Bill 47 (CoW), Alberta Association of Former MLAs Act 2004

Bill 201 (2r), Smoke-free Places Act 186

Bill 201 (3r amendment and 3r), Smoke-free Places Act 997–98

Bill 201 (CoW amendment and CoW), Smoke-free Places Act 508

Bill 203 (2r), Report on Alberta's Legacy Act 1353

M24 Temporary foreign workers 989–90

Motion 501, Wellness initiatives 74

Motion 502, Elimination of library card fees in tribute to Dr. Lois Hole 343–44

Q1 Student loan defaults 655

Q8 Automobile insurance rebates 660

DNA-based census of grizzly bears

See Grizzly bears–Populations, DNA-based census of

Doan, Ms Catriona Le May

See Le May Doan, Ms Catriona

Doctors, Immigrant

See Immigrant doctors

- Doctors, Training of See Medical profession—Education
- Doctors—Rural areas
See Medical profession—Rural areas
- Doctors—Supply
See Medical profession—Supply
- Doctors' fees
See Medical profession—Fees
- Doctors' teams in medical care
See Medical care, Primary, Team-based care
- Dogs and drug detection in schools
See Drugs in schools, Use of dogs to detect
- Doha round of negotiations (WTO)
See World Trade Organization, Doha round of negotiations
- Dolphin, Frank (Author)
See The Alberta Legislature (Book)
- Domestic violence
 General remarks ... Blakeman 1527; Cenaiko 1196; Forsyth 739, 1200; Klein 739; Mather 1200, 1234; Miller, B. 1196–97; Pannu 739, 1231, 1235–36; Stevens 1196–97, 1236
 Murder/suicide case, Red Deer 2003 ... Cenaiko 1196, 1575; Jablonski 1575, 1918; Miller, B. 1196; Stevens 1196–97
 Provincial initiatives re: Funding for ... Blakeman 1061; Forsyth 301, 303, 305, 1051, 1052; Mather 303, 1054; McClellan 748; Pannu 303; Stevens 1226
 Provincial initiatives re: Impact of provision of, on health care demand ... Blakeman 1462
 Provincial initiatives re (Calgary HomeFront project)
See HomeFront (Domestic violence prevention program)
 Risk assessment group re violent cases ... Stevens 1196, 1233, 1236
 Statement re ... Jablonski 1629–30, 2053–54
- Domestic violence—Legal aspects
 General remarks ... Cenaiko 1433; Miller, B. 276
- Domestic violence courts
See Family courts
- Domestic violence courts—Calgary
See Family courts—Calgary
- Domestic Violence Handbook for Police and Crown Prosecutors
 Statement re ... Jablonski 1918
- Dominions, British
See Commonwealth of Nations
- Donation of organs and tissue
See Organ and tissue donation
- Dosseter Health Ethics Centre
See John Dosseter Health Ethics Centre
- Douglasdale Drive/Deerfoot Trial interchange funding
See Deerfoot Trail, Calgary, Douglasdale Drive interchange, funding for
- Downhill ski championships
 World Cup champion (Thomas Grandi) ... Tarchuk 773
- Drayton Valley bridge
See Bridges—North Saskatchewan River—Drayton Valley area
- Drayton Valley—Calmar (Constituency)
 Notice of privilege re actions by Member for (Not proceeded with) ... Blakeman 1614–15, 1633; Miller, R. 1614, 1633; Shariff 1615; Speaker, The 1633
- Drayton Valley sour gas well drilling
See Gas well drilling industry—Tomahawk/Drayton Valley area
- Driedmeat Lake—Water levels
 Raising of ... Boutilier 618
- Drilling industry, Gas well—Calgary area
See Gas well drilling industry—Calgary area
- Drilling industry, Gas well—Drayton Valley/Tomahawk area
See Gas well drilling industry—Drayton Valley/Tomahawk area
- Drinking water
 In schools ... Agnihotri 1711; Zwozdesky 1711
 Safety of ... Eggen 1041; Speech from the Throne 10; Taylor 1045
- Drinking water—Stettler area
 Allocation level for, in Bill 11 ... Boutilier 978–79; Swann 978, 1038
- Drinking water—Turner Valley area
 Testing of ... Boutilier 1961–62; Mar 1961
- Drinking water—Vietnam
 Wild Rose grants for ... Agnihotri 1335; Mar 1335
- Driver licensing, Motorcycle
See Motorcycle driver licensing
- Drivers' licences, Automobile
See Automobile drivers' licences
- Drivers' licences, Automobile—Security aspects
See Automobile drivers' licences—Security aspects
- Drivers' tests, Automobile
See Automobile drivers' tests
- Driving under the influence of alcohol
See Drunk driving
- Driving without insurance
See Insurance, Automobile, Driving without: Legislation re (Bill 39)
- Dropouts
See School dropouts; University dropouts
- Drought
 Compensation plans re ... Horner 296, 301
- Drug abuse
 Cause of youth violence ... Agnihotri 1578
 Impact on parents of drug addicted child: Document re (SP193/05: Tabled) ... Mather 327
 School programs re ... Flaherty 266
 Statement re ... Jablonski 25, 621
- Drug abuse—Prevention
 General remarks ... Cenaiko 1884
- Drug abuse—Prevention—Youth
See Substance abuse—Prevention—Youth
- Drug abuse—Testing
 General remarks ... Evans 2048; Jablonski 2048
 Home testing kits, accuracy of ... Evans 2048; Jablonski 2048
- Drug abuse—Treatment—Youth
See Substance abuse—Treatment—Youth
- Drug Abuse Commission
See Alberta Alcohol and Drug Abuse Commission
- Drug abuse resistance education program
 General remarks ... Cenaiko 1201; Flaherty 1263; Hinman 1272; Jablonski 1201; Mather 1234; Zwozdesky 1265, 1274
- Drug benefits, Seniors
See Alberta Blue Cross Plan, Seniors' drug benefits

- Drug courts
General remarks ... Stevens 1230
- Drug injection sites
See Safe injection sites (Drugs)
- Drug raid, Mayerthorpe area
See under Royal Canadian Mounted Police
- Drug-sniffing dogs in schools
See Drugs in schools, Use of dogs to detect
- Drug Strategy
See Alberta Drug Strategy
- Drug trafficking
Role in gang-related crime ... Cenaiko 1148
- Drug trafficking—Prevention
General remarks ... Cenaiko 770; Stevens 1234–35; Strang 770
- Drug usage by long-term care residents
See Extended care facilities residents, Prescription drug usage
- Drug use in the workplace
Random testing for ... Backs 45; Cardinal 45
Random testing for: Report on ... Backs 45; Cardinal 45
- Drugs, Generic
General remarks ... Mason 1465
- Drugs, Generic—Prices
Policy re ... Evans 1461
- Drugs, Prescription
National plan for ... Blakeman 1463–64; Chase 1189, 1468; Stelmach 1189
Public vs private development of ... Blakeman 1470
- Drugs, Prescription—Costs
General remarks ... Blakeman 1461; Chase 1468; Evans 1458, 1461–62; Hinman 1844; Mason 1465
Legislation re (Bill 206) ... Mason 984
- Drugs in schools
Use of dogs to detect ... Cenaiko 1256; Hinman 1272; Miller, R. 1256
- Drunk driving
Funding for government programs for ... Oberg 1800
- Dumps
See Sanitary landfills
- Dunn, Fred
See Auditor General
- Dunvegan bridge
See Highway 2—Dunvegan bridge area
- E-biz
See Electronic Business Intelligence Service
- E-health
See Telehealth services
- E-learning
See Distance education
- EAG
See Edmonton Art Gallery
- Early childhood education
Full-day programs ... Eggen 1728; Martin 1028–29, 1722–23; Zwozdesky 1029, 1260, 1723, 1730
Full-day programs: Studies re (Q29/05: Response tabled as SP499/05) ... Flaherty 1158; Zwozdesky 1158, 1607
Funding ... Forsyth 1730–33; Zwozdesky 1261
General remarks ... Mather 302, 1726; Zwozdesky 311, 1727
Junior kindergarten (prekindergarten) ... Martin 1028–29, 1269, 1722–23; Pannu 1917; Zwozdesky 1029, 1260, 1723
- Early childhood education, Private
Funding for ... Zwozdesky 1260, 1261
- Early intervention programs (Child welfare)
See Child welfare, Early childhood intervention programs
- Earning loss supplement, impact of increased minimum wage on See Workers' compensation, Earning loss supplement, impact of increased minimum wage on
- Earthquakes—Pakistan
Alberta disaster relief for 2005 quake ... Graydon 1798–99; Tougas 1798–99
- East Central Health
Annual report, 2003-04 (SP93/05: Tabled) ... Evans 128
Annual report, 2004-05 (SP621/05: Tabled) ... Clerk, The 1717; Evans 1717
Funding ... Evans 271
Funding formula ... Evans 977
Health education courses at Augustana campus, project re ... Johnson 1917
Seniors' supportive housing projects ... Fritz 282
- East Coulee spring festival
Statement re ... Chase 775
- Eastern Slopes areas
See Public lands—Eastern Slopes
- Eastwood Public Health Centre
Surplus funding for ... Blakeman 1839; Evans 1622, 1839, 1841; Taft 1621
- EBIS
See Electronic Business Intelligence Service
- eCampusAlberta (Distance education)
[See also Distance education]
General remarks ... Hancock 981, 1795
- Eckel's Transport Ltd.
See B & R — Eckel's Transport Ltd.
- Ecology
See Environmental protection
- Ecology—Finance
See Environmental protection—Finance
- Economic corridors, Strategic
See Strategic economic corridors (Highway construction)
- Economic development
General remarks ... Danyluk 531; Dunford 531, 1007; Melchin 532
- Economic development, Aboriginal
See Aboriginal economic development
- Economic Development, Dept. of
See Dept. of Economic Development
- Economic development, Rural
See Rural economic development
- Economic development—Lethbridge
General remarks ... Dunford 531
- Economic development—Northern Alberta
See Northern development
- Economic development and the environment
General remarks ... Abbott 485; Bonko 937, 1312, 1829; Boutilier 485, 1829, 1913–14, 1963–64; Chase 1011–12, 1048; Coutts 1312, 1964, 1965; Eggen 575, 1395–96, 1714–15; Groeneveld 648; Klein 573, 1105; Knight 1963–64; Melchin 575, 648–49, 1829–30, 1964; Strang 1965; Swann 573, 1037, 1606, 1913
Research re ... Boutilier 292; Doerksen 292; Knight 292; Melchin 292

- Economic Development Authority, Alberta
See Alberta Economic Development Authority
- Economic development partnerships, Regional
See Regional economic development partnerships
- Economic development (Value-added industries)
See Industrial development (Value-added industries)
- Economic diversification
See Diversification
- Economic policy—Alberta
See Alberta—Economic policy
- Ecotourism
 Relation to preserving boreal forests ... Eggen 1396
- Edmonton
 As festival city ... Dunford 1011
- Edmonton Aboriginal Urban Affairs Committee
 General remarks ... Calahasen 838, 841; Tougas 838
- Edmonton Airports Authority
See Edmonton Regional Airports Authority
- Edmonton Archives
See City of Edmonton Archives
- Edmonton Art Gallery
 Private donation to ... Blakeman 1476
 Provincial support ... Blakeman 1476; Brown 1482
- Edmonton-Calgary corridor
See Calgary-Edmonton corridor
- Edmonton-Castle Downs (Constituency)
 Report on electoral results in ... Clerk, The 11
 Role of Administrator of the province in legal decision re electoral results in: Letter to the Speaker re (SP4/05: Tabled) ... Speaker, The 26; Taft 26
- Edmonton Catholic School District
 Capital plan, 2002-05 (SP386/05: Tabled) ... Lukaszuk 1205
 Capital plan changes (Castle Downs high school, Terwillegar school) ... Lukaszuk 1078, 1197-98; Oberg 1078, 1197-98; Zwozdesky 1078
 Letter to (SP388/05: Tabled) ... Lukaszuk 1205
 Statement re ... Lukaszuk 1080
- Edmonton City Centre Airport
 Operational status ... Dunford 125; Oberle 125
 Statement re ... Pastoor 1527
- Edmonton Community Loan Fund Society
 Pamphlet (SP524/05: Tabled) ... Blakeman 1632
- Edmonton courthouse, prisoner's death in
See Young, Kyle James (Prisoner), Death in Edmonton courthouse
- Edmonton Eskimo Football Club
 2005 Grey Cup contenders: Letter re (SP711/05: Tabled) ... Flaherty 1891
 2005 Grey Cup contenders: Statement re ... Backs 1888
 2005 Grey Cup contenders: T-shirt and thunderstick from (to be provided) ... Speaker, The 1888
 2005 Grey Cup contenders: T-shirt and thunderstick from (no SP number: Tabled) ... Backs 1920
 2005 Grey Cup victors: Statement re ... Hinman 1909; Klein 1908; Mason 1908-09; Taft 1908
 2005 western final win: Statement re ... Lukaszuk 1743-44
- Edmonton Fire Rescue Service
 Response to Custom Environmental Services Ltd. fire ... Boutilier 1335-36
- Edmonton Folk Festival
 Provincial funding for ... Blakeman 1477; Eggen 1478
- Edmonton Foundation
See Greater Edmonton Foundation
- Edmonton International Airport
 Airport vicinity protection area discussions ... Renner 577; Rogers 577
- Edmonton Journal (Newspaper)
 Fort McMurray land deal articles (SP521-522/05: Tabled) ... Martin 1632
 Lawsuit by Edmonton Police Service against (Overtime bar case) ... Mason 411-12
 Nov.27, 2002 article about Castle Downs high school (SP387/05: Tabled) ... Lukaszuk 1205
- Edmonton Northlands
 Funding for ... Graydon 1289, 1798-99; MacDonald 1289; Tougas 1798
 Lottery funding for ... Graydon 124, 976, 1278, 1288; Tougas 976, 1288
 Statement re ... VanderBurg 1080
- Edmonton-Norwood (Constituency)
 Former member for, Report of Ethics Commissioner re allegations re (SP14/05: Tabled) ... Speaker, The 27
- Edmonton Oilers Hockey Club
 Lottery funding See Hockey, Lottery funding for
- Edmonton Police Service
 Child exploitation prevention teams ... Cenaiko 206, 1671
 Community support officers/special constables pilot project ... Cenaiko 1437
 Family violence conflict unit ... Cenaiko 1576
 Inmate sexual assault investigation ... Cenaiko 696; Miller, B. 696
 Mill Woods gang-related killing investigation ... Cenaiko 1148; Mather 1148
 Missing women investigations, joint team re See Project Kare (Missing women investigation team)
 Organized crime cases See Integrated Response to Organized Crime
 Police radio conversation transcript, publication in news media (Overtime bar case) ... Cenaiko 411-12; Mason 411-12
 Provincial funding for ... Cenaiko 800-01, 952-53, 1148, 1671; Lukaszuk 1671; Pannu 800-01
 Randy Fryingpan taser case ... Cenaiko 1431, 1504; Mason 1437; Miller, B. 1429, 1503-04
 Training centre ... Cenaiko 1123
- Edmonton Protocol (Diabetes treatment)
 General remarks ... Doerksen 1368
- Edmonton Public School Board
 City centre education project ... Martin 1029, 1269; Zwozdesky 1029
 Closure of schools ... Chase 1311; Eggen 1447; Flaherty 120-21, 576-77, 693, 851, 1446, 1570; MacDonald 124-25, 311, 369, 694, 738, 767, 1097; Martin 1722; Mason 310; Oberg 120-21, 577, 1311, 1446, 1570; Zwozdesky 124-25, 311, 693, 694, 767, 851, 1446, 1447
 Closure of schools: Court decision re ... Flaherty 1446; Oberg 1446; Zwozdesky 1446
 Closure of schools: Is Your Public School at Risk? document (SP353/05: Tabled) ... MacDonald 957
 Closure of schools: Letter re (SP100/05: Tabled) ... MacDonald 128

Edmonton Public School Board (Continued)

- Closure of schools: Letter re use of outdated regulation re (SP325/05: Tabled) ... MacDonald 776
- Closure of schools: Provision of Supernet service to ... MacDonald 759–60
- Closure of schools: Statement re ... MacDonald 982–83
- Closure of schools: Workshop re (SP341/05: Tabled) ... MacDonald 858
- Closure of Strathearn school: Report re (SP318/05: Tabled) ... MacDonald 746
- Cluster study re utilization levels in schools ... Lukaszuk 84–85; MacDonald 982–83, 1097; Martin 1270, 1722; Mason 310; Oberg 84–85, 577; Pannu 308; Zwozdesky 693, 851
- Cluster study re utilization levels in schools, geographic distribution of schools (SP487/05: Tabled) ... MacDonald 1578
- Learning resource personnel shortage, letter re (SP605/05: Tabled) ... Martin 1716
- Leasing of commercial space for continuing education ... MacDonald 738; Oberg 738; Zwozdesky 738
- Maintenance/utility costs, use of instructional funds for ... Flaherty 1570; Oberg 1570; Zwozdesky 1570
- Partnership with Canadian Space Agency ... Mather 1726; Zwozdesky 1726
- Portables for Kenilworth junior high ... MacDonald 694; Zwozdesky 694
- Portables for Kenilworth junior high, purchase of, letter to minister re (SP285/05: Tabled) ... MacDonald 622
- Portables for Kenilworth junior high, purchase of, letter to minister re: Minister's response (SP486/05: Tabled) ... MacDonald 1578
- Statement re ... Mather 1080–81
- Teachers, hiring of ... Zwozdesky 309
- Unused space ... Oberg 738, 1570–71
- Victoria school project funds, diversion to new school funding ... MacDonald 1524; Oberg 1524

Edmonton Regional Airports Authority

- General remarks ... Dunford 125
- Rent paid to federal government ... Oberg 362

Edmonton regional health authority

See Capital Health

Edmonton Remand Centre

- Funding for ... Miller, B. 1432
- New facility for ... Cenaiko 696
- Overcrowding ... Agnihotri 855; Cenaiko 696, 855, 1389, 1434; Mar 855; Miller, B. 695–96, 1389, 1432
- Rape of inmates in ... Agnihotri 855; Cenaiko 696, 1389, 1433; Magnus 1430; Mar 855; Miller, B. 695–96, 1389, 1430
- Replacement of ... Cenaiko 1434

Edmonton-Rutherford (Constituency)

- Notice of privilege re actions by Member for Drayton Valley-Calmar against (Not proceeded with) ... Blakeman 1614–15, 1633; Miller, R. 1614, 1633; Shariff 1615; Speaker, The 1633

Edmonton separate school board

See Edmonton Catholic School District

Edmonton Sexual Assault Centre

See Sexual Assault Centre of Edmonton

Edmonton Social Planning Council

- Information sheet (social determinants of health) (SP396/05: Tabled) ... Backs 1206

Edmonton Sport Council

- Request for provincial sport funding ... Agnihotri 1474

Edmonton Sun (Newspaper)

- Lawsuit by Edmonton Police Service against (Overtime bar case) ... Mason 411–12

Edson Health Care Centre

- Upgrades to ... Evans 1839, 1841

Edson trail

- Statement re ... Knight 1672

Education

- General remarks ... Mather 1726; McClellan 747; Speech from the Throne 8, 9; Zwozdesky 1260, 1267
- Impact of provision of, on health care demand ... Blakeman 1462
- Issues re ... Flaherty 952; Herard 166; Zwozdesky 166, 952
- Provincial support for: Statement re ... Chase 1506
- Statement re ... Cao 651

Education, Dept. of

See Dept. of Education

Education, Elementary

See Elementary education

Education, High school–Curricula

See High school education–Curricula

Education, International

See International education

Education, Postsecondary

- Aboriginal students ... Danyluk 843, 1395; Goudreau 1394; Hancock 1624
- Access to, affordability review to improve ... Brown 1571; Cao 874; Danyluk 981; Hancock 20, 48, 320, 361, 483, 649, 697, 798, 860, 863, 865, 981–82, 1123, 1202–03, 1571, 1574, 1624, 1795–96, 1830; Pannu 872–73; Rogers 320; Speech from the Throne 8; Taylor 20, 261, 649, 798, 1202–03, 1624, 1835
- Access to, affordability review to improve: Conference on results of ... Hancock 1571
- Access to, affordability review to improve: Funding for ... McClellan 748
- Access to, affordability review to improve: Legislation re (Bill 1) ... Klein 11
- Access to, affordability review to improve: U of A Student's Union news release re (SP103/05: Tabled) ... Pannu 128
- Access to, by low-income students ... Hancock 1830–31; Taylor 1830–31
- Access to, by low-income students, statement re ... Taylor 1835
- Access to, new spaces to improve ... Blakeman 866; Chase 1087; Danyluk 981; Hancock 48, 859, 863, 864, 870, 981, 1790, 1791, 1792–93, 1794; McClellan 748; Oberg 1089; Pannu 1793, 1796; Speech from the Throne 8; Taylor 862, 1791, 1792
- Commission to review ... Pannu 873
- Commission to review (Motion 509: Pannu/Mason) ... Ady 1547–48; Brown 1552; Cao 1553; Chase 1552–53; Hancock 1549–51; Martin 1551–52; Mason 1547, 1553–54; Pannu 1547; Taylor 1548–49
- General remarks ... Chase 265–66; Hancock 859; Knight 901; McClellan 747; Speech from the Throne 8
- Independent review of ... Hancock 1202, 1254; Pannu 873; Taylor 1202, 1254

Education, Postsecondary (Continued)

International learning component ... Johnson 1673
 Legislation re (Bill 9) ... Hancock 92

Education, Postsecondary—Calgary

Access to, new spaces to improve ... Hancock 1791–92,
 1793; Taylor 1791, 1792

Education, Postsecondary—Finance

[See also Access Growth Fund (Postsecondary education); Access to the Future Fund]

Capital spending ... Blakeman 865; Eggen 875;
Hancock 860, 863–64, 869; Taylor 861–62
 Federal funding ... Cao 1306–07; Hancock 1306–07
 Funding envelopes ... Hancock 864; Taylor 862
 General remarks ... Abbott 874; Blakeman 865–67;
Brown 874; Cao 874–75; Chase 265, 755; Eggen
 875; Flaherty 874; Hancock 859–61, 863–65,
 867–72; Klein 767; Mather 302; McClellan 747–48;
Pannu 872–74, 1793; Prins 874; Taylor 261,
 766–67, 861–63, 870
 Incentive funding for specific needs ... Flaherty 874
 Legislation re (Bill 1) ... Speech from the Throne 9
 Letter re (SP311/05: Tabled) ... Blakeman 700
 MLA committee to review (2000) See MLA Post- secondary Funding Review Committee (2000)
 Review of ... Brown 1571; Hancock 20, 320, 361,
 1202–03, 1571
 Surplus revenue dedicated to (legacy funding) ... Miller,
R. 960
 Surplus spending on ... Hancock 1621; McClellan
 1667; Taft 1621
 University of Alberta report on (SP187/05: Tabled) ...
Taylor 327
 University presidents' comments re (SP330/05: Tabled)
 ... Klein 784; Zwozdesky 784

Education, Postsecondary—Northern Alberta

General remarks ... Danyluk 843

Education, Postsecondary—Rural areas

Funding ... Hancock 860

Education, Preschool

See Early childhood education

Education, Special

See Disabled children—Education; Gifted children—Education

Education, Special—Finance

See Disabled children—Education—Finance

Education—Curricula

Aboriginal-specific courses ... Zwozdesky 1264
 Drug abuse awareness courses ... Flaherty 266
 Fine arts courses ... Flaherty 952; Zwozdesky 952
 First aid/CPR training courses ... Lukaszuk 204–05;
Zwozdesky 205
 General remarks ... Flaherty 307, 1262; Martin 1271;
Zwozdesky 166, 307, 308, 1264, 1272
 Health and wellness instruction framework ... Flaherty
 952; Speech from the Throne 10; Zwozdesky 416,
 952, 1028, 1967
 Review of ... Zwozdesky 1028
 Social studies courses ... Bonko 309; Zwozdesky
 306–07
 Vocational/trades courses See High school education—Curricula, Vocational/trades courses

Education—Curricula—Edmonton

Alternative programs ... Mather 1081

Education—Curricula—Rural areas

General remarks ... Zwozdesky 1274
 Matrix for ... Hinman 1273

Education—Edmonton

Statement re ... Mather 1080–81

Education—Finance

[See also Program unit funding (Education); School boards, Funding]

Cutbacks ... Bonko 1267
 Funding for teachers' salaries ... Flaherty 203;
Zwozdesky 203
 General remarks ... Ady 977–78; Bonko 1266; Chase
 265, 755; Flaherty 693, 851, 952, 1522, 1570;
Hinman 1272; MacDonald 1524–25; Martin 1269;
Mather 302, 1125–26; McClellan 748; Oberg 1522,
 1524–25, 1570–71; Ouellette 756; Zwozdesky 693,
 851, 952, 977–78, 1030, 1125–26, 1260–62, 1267,
 1525, 1570, 1833
 Letter re (SP442/05: Tabled) ... Chase 1507
 Property tax funds contribution to ... Renner 799;
Rogers 799
 Statement re ... Chase 1506
 Surplus funding for ... McClellan 1667
 University of Alberta report on (SP187/05: Tabled) ...
Taylor 327
 User fees ... Ady 1525; Flaherty 266, 1833–34;
Lukaszuk 1913; Martin 1723; Mather 1726;
Zwozdesky 1525, 1723–24, 1727, 1833–34, 1913
 User fees: Petition presented for elimination of ...
Elsalhy 1674, 1715, 1745, 1837, 1889–90, 1918–19
 User fees: Total revenue from, 2000–04 (Q14/05:
 Response tabled as SP500/05) ... Flaherty 808;
Miller, R. 808; Zwozdesky 808, 1607
 User fees: Total revenue from, 2000–04 (Q15/05: Defeated) ... Chase 809, 810; Flaherty 808; Hancock
 810; MacDonald 809, 810; Martin 809–10; Miller, R.
 808–11; Zwozdesky 808

Education—Finance—Rural areas

General remarks ... Zwozdesky 1273–74

Education—Specialists

Funding for ... Flaherty 1030; Zwozdesky 1030

Education and Employment, Standing Policy Committee on

See Committee on Education and Employment, Standing Policy

Education at a distance

See Distance education

Education at home—Regulations

See Home education—Regulations

Education Facility Planners International, Council of

See Council of Education Facility Planners International

Education levy

See Property tax—Education levy

Education Savings Plan, Alberta Centennial

See Alberta Centennial Education Savings Plan

Education savings plan, Registered (Federal)

See Registered education savings plan (Federal)

Education Week, International (November 2005)

See International Education Week (November 2005)

Education Week (Provincial, April 2005)

Statement re ... Flaherty 1032; Lindsay 955; Rodney 1032

Educational specialists

See Education—Specialists

Educators

See Teachers

Edwin Parr awards

See Alberta School Boards Association, Edwin Parr awards, statement re

EHR (Electronic health records)

See Medical records, Electronic

EIAs

See Environmental impact assessments

EI Mais, Mohamed

Recognition of ... Griffiths 417

Elder abuse

FAIRE report on (SP303/05: Tabled) ... Pastoor 653
General remarks ... Agnihotri 260; Backs 889; Martin 886; Pastoor 879

Elder Advocates of Alberta Society

Extended care facilities inspection: Letter re (SP419/05: Tabled) ... Martin 1342

Forum on extended care residents treatment ... Evans 613, 614; Fritz 614; Mason 613; Pastoor 614

Rights of vulnerable persons in care document (SP465/05: Tabled) ... Pastoor 1528–29

Eldercare facilities

See Extended care facilities

Eldercare facilities, Private

See Extended care facilities, Private

Elected officials—Training

See Municipal excellence program

Elected representatives, Recall of

See Recall of elected representatives

Election Act

All-party committee review of: Letter re (SP5/05: Tabled) ... Taft 27

Election contributions

See Electoral campaign funds

Election (Electoral Reform) Amendment Act, 2005 (Bill 217)

First reading ... Taylor 2016

Elections, Federal

Referenda on property rights and Alberta definition of marriage during ... Hinman 1714, 1738; McClellan 1738

Elections, Municipal—Calgary

Ward 10 election process ... Miller, R. 1328

Ward 10 election process: Bob Clark's inspection of ... Renner 1249, 1334

Ward 10 election process: Cost of investigation of (Q30/05: Response tabled as SP806/05) ... Clerk, The 2018; Flaherty 1158; Renner 1158, 2018; Stevens 1158; Taft 1158

Ward 10 election process: Police investigations re ... Renner 1249, 1333–34

Ward 10 election process: Public inquiry re ... Renner 1333–34; Taylor 1333–34

Ward 10 election process: Public inspection re ... Renner 1249, 1333–34; Taft 1248; Taylor 1333–34

Ward 10 election process: Public inspection re, news releases re ... Renner 1334

Ward 10 election process: Public inspection re, news releases re (SP415-416/05: Tabled) ... Renner 1342

Elections, Municipal—Law and legislation

General remarks ... Miller, R. 1328

Elections, Provincial

Fixed dates for ... Hancock 1251; Hinman 1251; Klein 691; Mather 956; Pastoor 691

Fixed dates for: Legislation re (Bill 217) ... Taylor 2016

Reform of: Legislation re (Bill 217) ... Taylor 2016

Report on general election of Nov. 22, 2004 ... Clerk, The 11

Report on general election of Nov. 22, 2004 results for Edmonton-Castle Downs ... Clerk, The 11

Review of conditions of ... Mather 956

Electoral campaign funds

Reform of ... Mason 699

Electoral Officer

See Chief Electoral Officer

Electoral Officer Search Committee, Select SpecialChief

See Chief Electoral Officer Search Committee, Select Special

Electoral reform

General remarks ... Hancock 1251; Hinman 1251

Statement re ... Mather 956

Electoral reform, Citizens' assembly on (Alberta)(Proposed)

See Citizens' assembly on electoral reform (Alberta) (Proposed)

Electric power, Coal-produced

General remarks ... Tougas 1127

Research into ... Boutilier 21; Doerksen 1369; Martin 920–21; Melchin 922

Research into: Funding for ... Chase 1377; McClellan 749

Research into: Tax incentives for ... Hinman 1911; Klein 1911–12

Standards for ... Boutilier 1046

Electric power, Natural gas-produced

General remarks ... Tougas 1127

Electric power—Export

General remarks ... Eggen 1306; Hinman 1425; Lougheed 1447; MacDonald 650; Melchin 650, 1306, 1447; Pastoor 1181; Stelmach 1182

Electric power—Import

General remarks ... Melchin 650, 1306, 1447

Price manipulation re, investigation into ... MacDonald 204, 650; Melchin 204

Electric power—Prices

Consumer protection re [See also Utilities Consumer Advocate]; Elsalhy 1418; Hinman 1074, 1425–26; Klein 161; Lund 161–62, 975, 1025, 1416, 1420; MacDonald 286, 455–56, 533; Martin 1420–21; Mason 161, 1025; Melchin 286, 455–56, 488, 533, 650; Swann 1419

Contributing factors to (London Economics group report on) ... Liepert 291; Melchin 291

Electric System Operator report on (SP191/05: Tabled) ... MacDonald 327

General remarks ... Eggen 914; Hinman 1074, 1425, 1911; Klein 1911; Lund 975–76, 1421; MacDonald 911, 912, 948; Martin 1420; Mason 975–76; Melchin 912–13, 948, 1120, 1306, 1307, 1447; Tougas 1127

Impact on seniors ... Backs 889–90; Hinman 888; Lund 1424; MacDonald 255; Pastoor 1423

Impact on universities ... Taylor 261

Electric power—Prices (Continued)

- Manipulation of ... Eggen 914; Klein 488–89; MacDonald 204, 286, 488–89, 948–49, 1196; Melchin 204, 286, 796, 899, 948–49, 1195–96; Taft 796, 899, 1195–96
- Manipulation of, legal penalties re ... Melchin 796; Taft 796
- Manipulation of: Project Stanley scheme ... Chase 1186; Elsalhy 249; Klein 18, 83, 118, 119, 247; Lund 249; MacDonald 23, 83, 161, 204, 247, 455–56, 533; McClellan 42; Melchin 18, 23–24, 118–19, 161, 204, 249, 360, 455–56, 533, 796; Miller, B. 42; Ouellette 249; Stelmach 1186; Stevens 42; Taft 18, 118–19, 360, 796
- Regulated option re ... Elsalhy 918; Hinman 1074; Klein 1073, 1074; Lindsay 647; Lund 1420, 1421; MacDonald 912, 1073, 1119–20; Mason 1120; Melchin 647, 913, 919, 1073, 1075, 1119–20
- Regulated option vs contract rate, compensation for difference in ... Eggen 1073; Klein 1074

Electric power—Retail sales

- Billing systems re ... Klein 18, 161; Lund 161–62, 1420; Mason 161
- Cross-Canada comparison, report on (SP323/05: Tabled)
... Melchin 775–76
- General remarks ... Elsalhy 918; MacDonald 912; Martin 1420–21; Melchin 913, 919
- Review of ... DeLong 1075; Lund 1075; Melchin 1075, 1119

Electric power—Supply

- General remarks ... Eggen 1306; Hinman 1425–26, 1911; Klein 1074, 1911; Lund 975, 976, 1025; MacDonald 650, 911–12; Melchin 489, 650, 913, 917, 921, 1073, 1120, 1306, 1307; Tougas 1127

Electric power contracts, Residential

- Long-term contracts for residential consumers ... Eggen 1073; Klein 1025, 1073; Lund 1025, 1424; MacDonald 1025, 1073, 1119–20; Mason 1025, 1120; Melchin 1073, 1119–20; Pastoor 1423
- Long-term contracts for residential consumers, cancellation of without penalty ... Eggen 1074; Klein 1074
- Plain language requirement ... Speech from the Throne 9

Electric power lines

- Capacity ... Melchin 649; Oberle 649
- General remarks ... MacDonald 650; Melchin 650
- Tie lines with B.C. ... MacDonald 911; Melchin 916–17
- Tie lines with B.C. and Montana ... Melchin 649–50; Oberle 649

Electric power lines—Construction

- Alberta to California (Northern Lights Transmission project) ... Pastoor 1181
- General remarks ... Lougheed 1446–47; Melchin 1447

Electric power lines—Edmonton/Calgary

- Upgrading of ... Abbott 1831; Lindsay 903–04; Melchin 904, 1447, 1831

Electric power production from waste materials

- See Co-energy electrical production

Electric System Operator, Alberta

- See Alberta Electric System Operator

Electric utilities

- Competitive choice re ... Lund 1421; Martin 1421

Electric utilities—Lake Wabamun area

- Taxation of ... MacDonald 912; Melchin 913

Electric utilities—Regulations

- Deregulation ... Eggen 653, 914; Hinman 1425–26; Horner 1222; Klein 83, 118, 119, 161, 1024–25, 1073, 1074; Liepert 291; Lund 161–62, 975–76, 1025; MacDonald 83, 161, 911, 1024–25, 1969; Martin 919–20, 1420, 1421; Mason 161, 975–76, 1025, 1120; McClellan 42; Melchin 118–19, 161, 291, 489, 796, 909, 917, 948, 1073, 1120, 1306; Miller, B. 42; Stevens 42; Taft 118–19, 796
- Deregulation: Energy dept. correspondence with Enron Canada re (M47/05: Defeated) ... MacDonald 1749; Melchin 1749; Taylor 1749
- Deregulation: Impact on seniors ... MacDonald 255
- Deregulation: Petition presented re ... Hinman 1970
- Deregulation: Private consultant re (Kellan Fluckiger) ... MacDonald 1307; Melchin 1307
- Deregulation: Public inquiry into ... Klein 18; MacDonald 204, 899; Melchin 18, 204; Taft 18
- Deregulation: Public reaction to ... Elsalhy 917–18, 975; Lund 975; Melchin 919, 921
- Deregulation: Publicity campaign re ... Elsalhy 1104; Klein 1105
- Deregulation: Statement re ... Tougas 1127
- Deregulation: Western Standard article re (SP697/05: Tabled) ... MacDonald 1865

Electric wire installation

- Permits for (journeyman/master electricians) ... Renner 904–05; VanderBurg 904–05

Electrical Contractors Association of Alberta

- Review of master electrician program ... Renner 905

Electrical power production from waste materials

- See Co-energy electrical production

Electrical power purchase agreements

- Enron activities re Sundance B power ... MacDonald 1337, 1834–35, 1912–13; Melchin 1337, 1912–13
- Enron activities re Sundance B power: Email re (SP677/05: Tabled) ... MacDonald 1837
- Enron comments re: Transcript of taped conversation re (SP422/05: Tabled) ... MacDonald 1342
- Enron comments re mispricing of ... MacDonald 1337; Melchin 1337
- Exclusion of hydropower from ... MacDonald 363, 489; Melchin 363–64, 489
- General remarks ... Melchin 118

Electricity, Alberta Advisory Council on

- See Alberta Advisory Council on Electricity

Electricity—Retail sales

- See Electric power—Retail sales

Electricity contracts, Residential

- See Electric power contracts, Residential

Electronic bingos

- See Bingos, Electronic

Electronic Business Intelligence Service

- General remarks ... Dunford 1008

Electronic health records

- See Medical records, Electronic

Electronic learning

- See Distance education

Electronic physician/specialist referrals

- See Physician/specialist referrals, Electronic

Electronic security

See Government information systems, Security aspects; Public records—Confidentiality

Electronic waste—Recycling

Fees for ... Boutilier 1043; Eggen 1041
General remarks ... Boutilier 1039; Eggen 1041

Elementary education

General remarks ... Flaherty 1262–63; Zwozdesky 1265

Elevating Devices and Amusement Rides SafetyAssociation

See Alberta Elevating Devices and Amusement Rides Safety Association

Elizabeth House

General remarks ... Fritz 1338

Elizabeth II, Queen of Great Britain

Address to Legislative Assembly ... Her Majesty 1617–18

Alberta visit, May 2005 ... Abbott 907; Haley 1786; Klein 1099, 1617; Mar 1473, 1476; McClellan 749; Miller, R. 257; Speaker, The 464, 1617; Speech from the Throne 8

Alberta visit, May 2005: First Nations participation ... Calahasen 1445; Eggen 1573; Mar 1445, 1573; Shariff 1444–45

Alberta visit, May 2005: Protocol questions, correspondence re ... Speaker, The 1579

Alberta visit, May 2005: Special Legislature sitting for (Motion 16: Hancock) ... Blakeman 597; Chase 597–98; Hancock 597; Hinman 597; McClellan 598

Elk

Testing of, for chronic wasting disease ... Horner 250

Elk antler velvet—Health aspects

General remarks ... Evans 319; Horner 456; Prins 456; Swann 319

Elk Island Catholic Separate Regional Division #41

Interest in Lakeland College's Sherwood Park campus ... Oberg 1575

Elk ranching

Impact of chronic wasting disease on ... Horner 456; Prins 456

Ellerslie elementary school

Condition of ... Agnihotri 1724; Zwozdesky 1725
Drinking water in ... Agnihotri 1711, 1724; Zwozdesky 1711, 1725

Ellerslie Rugby Club

General remarks ... Agnihotri 1327

Elzinga, Peter

See Office of the Premier, Former chief of staff (Peter Elzinga) remuneration (Q22/05: Defeated)

EMA

See Emergency Management Alberta

Embury, Mrs. Sheila (Former MLA)

Memorial tribute to ... Speaker, The 1619

Emergency agencies (Fire, etc.)

Procedures at toxic waste site fires ... Boutilier 1335–36; Lougheed 1335–36

Emergency debates under Standing Order 30

Long-term care facility standards (proceeded with) ... Abbott 1410–11; Blakeman 1398–99, 1404–05; Bonko 1407–08; Brown 1413; Chase 1400; Danyluk 1409–10; Doerksen 1408–09; Fritz 1406–07; Goudreau 1403–04; Hancock 1397–98; Martin 1399, 1411–13; Mason 1396–97, 1401–02; Mitzel 1405–06; Oberg 1402–03; Prins 1399–1400;

Emergency debates under Standing Order 30(Continued)

Long-term care facility standards (proceeded with) (Continued) ... Speaker, The 1399, 1400–01; Strang 1413–14; Webber 1406

Long-term care funding (Not proceeded with) ... Backs 1718; Hancock 1718; Pastoor 1717–18; Speaker, The 1718–19

Securities Commission, loss of investor confidence in (not proceeded with) ... Blakeman 1084; Hancock 1084; Martin 1083–84; McClellan 1082–83; Speaker, The 1084–85; Taft 1082

Securities Commission challenge of Auditor General's authority (not proceeded with) ... Hancock 1316–17; MacDonald 1318; Martin 1317–18; Speaker, The 1318–19; Taft 1315–16; Zwozdesky 1318

Emergency Management Alberta

General remarks ... Renner 1251

Role in handling of chemical vapour pressure release by Shell chemical plant ... Boutilier 162; Lougheed 162; Renner 162, 207

Emergency medical response services—Calgary

Contingency plan for ... Blakeman 644; Evans 645

Emergency medical technicians

Impact of ambulance service transfer to regional health authorities on ... Evans 17, 19; Klein 19; Mason 19; Taft 17

Increase in numbers of ... Chase 1467

Emergency medical technicians—Wainwright

Layoff of ... Evans 19; Klein 19; Mason 19

Emergency motions under Standing Order 40

Ambulance services funding ... Blakeman 28

Debate on supplementary estimates ... Pannu 1971

Emergency planning

Budget reduction ... Agnihotri 1327

Energy industry incidents ... Swann 1039

Funding for ... McClellan 1668; Swann 1668

General remarks ... Lougheed 207; Prins 1251; Renner 207, 1251, 1320, 1321

Statement re ... Mitzel 1151–52

Emergency Preparedness Week

General remarks ... Mitzel 1151; Prins 1251; Renner 1251

Emergency public warning system

General remarks ... Renner 207

Emergency relief

See Disaster relief

Emergency response plan for communicable diseases

See Communicable diseases—Control, Emergency response plan for

Emergency room volunteers

See Hospitals—Emergency services, "Friends of ..." volunteers re

Emergency services (Hospitals)

See Hospitals—Emergency services

Emergency vehicles, Stationary

Speed limits for passing of ... Lougheed 1884; Oberg 1884

Speed limits for passing of: Legislation re (Bill 39) ... Magnus 746

Emission control credits

Trading of ... Boutilier 485, 1043; Horner 1222; Melchin 743; VanderBurg 743

Employee/employer relations*See Labour relationsEmployer/employee relationsSee Labour relationsEmployment, Standing Policy Committee on Education andSee Committee on Education and Employment, Standing PolicyEmployment and ageSee Age and employmentEmployment and training centresGeneral remarks ... Cardinal 1129Employment credentials, ForeignSee Professional qualifications, ForeignEmployment departmentSee Dept. of Human Resources and EmploymentEmployment of childrenSee Children–EmploymentEmployment Pension Plans Amendment Act, 2005 (Bill 35)First reading ... Brown 419Second reading ... Brown 551–52; Miller, R. 1019–20; Shariff 1194Committee ... Blakeman 1491–92; Brown 1490–92; Miller, R. 1490–91Third reading ... Brown 1581–82; Miller, R. 1582
Royal Assent ... Lieutenant Governor 2 June, 2005
(Outside of House sittings)Amendment (SP437/05: Tabled) ... Brown 1490; Shariff 1493Employment standardsBathroom/coffee breaks inclusion in ... Backs 1625; Cardinal 1625General remarks ... Cardinal 1129Review of ... Cardinal 980; Speech from the Throne 10Employment tax creditSee Tax incentives, Employment tax creditEmployment training programsAboriginal peoples ... Backs 279, 281, 1131; Calahasen 839, 840, 844; Cardinal 280, 281, 1130; Danyluk 843; Eggen 840Eligibility of young adults for ... Cardinal 363; Jablonski 363General remarks ... Backs 278–79, 1131; Cardinal 86, 278, 280, 531, 1129, 1137, 1916; Danyluk 531; Goudreau 1916; Jablonski 86Non profit groups providing ... Cao 164–65; Cardinal 165Tuition fees re ... Cardinal 1130Employment training programs–Northern AlbertaGeneral remarks ... Danyluk 837, 843Enbridge Inc.Gateway pipeline, joint project with PetroChina ... Melchin 801Encana CorporationDevelopment in Suffield national wildlife area, newsrelease re (SP550/05: Tabled) ... Swann 1675
Donation to Bonnyville recreation centre ... Ducharme 1482Endangered plant speciesProtection of ... Coutts 1521; Strang 1521Endangered Species Conservation CommitteeGeneral remarks ... Coutts 1521, 1963Grizzly bear designation recommendation ... Bonko 957, 1396; Coutts 1963Statement re ... Strang 1605Endangered wildlife speciesDevelopment management plans re (Q34/05: Accepted) ... Bonko 1746; Coutts 1746Protection of ... Bonko 21, 929, 957, 1963; Calahasen 574; Coutts 21, 926, 931–32, 955, 1521, 1963; Lougheed 574; Strang 955, 1521Endowment fund for forest fire control (Proposed)[See also Endowment funds, Public]General remarks ... Eggen 932Endowment fund for postsecondary educationSee Access to the Future FundEndowment funds, Public[See also Access to the Future Fund; Alberta Heritage Foundation for Medical Research; Alberta Heritage Foundation for Science and Engineering Research; Alberta Heritage Savings Trust Fund; Alberta Heritage Scholarship Fund; Endowment fund for forest fire control (Proposed)]General remarks ... Doerksen 1368, 1372; Hancock 868, 871; McClellan 749, 958, 962Energy, Department ofSee Dept. of EnergyEnergy and Sustainable Development, Standing Policy Committee onSee Committee on Energy and Sustainable Development, Standing PolicyEnergy and Utilities BoardSee Alberta Energy and Utilities BoardEnergy bill (U.S.)See U.S. energy billEnergy efficiency (Buildings)Direct Energy/U of C partnership re ... Boutilier 1037; DeLong 696; Hancock 696–97; Oberg 696Interest-free loans for ... Boutilier 365; Eggen 365Legislation re (Bill 211) ... Eggen 1890–91Energy efficiency (Municipal buildings)Provincial interest-free loans re *See ME First!(Municipal Energy Efficiency Assistance) program*Energy industryAboriginal opportunities in ... Calahasen 1781; Tougas 1781Foreign investment in ... Melchin 801; Oberle 801General remarks ... Melchin 908–09Greenhouse gas emissions reduction ... Abbott 772; Melchin 772Impact on agriculture ... Swann 1221Land use activities: Coalition for Alberta's Future's news release re (SP339/05: Tabled) ... Swann 858Profits ... Eggen 914Statement re ... Cao 1526–27Use of water supplies ... Bonko 843Use of water supplies, phase out of ... Boutilier 978; Chase 1377Value-adding/upgrading increase in ... Melchin 909, 917, 1310Energy industry–Crown landsAboriginal issues re ... Bonko 843, 845; Boutilier 615, 802–03, 902–03; Calahasen 615, 836, 841, 844–45, 1503; Eggen 840, 902–03; Klein 486; Melchin 615, 802; Speech from the Throne 9; Stevens 486; Swann 485–86, 615, 802–03, 844; Tougas 837–38, 844, 1502–03Land management issues re ... Groeneveld 648; Melchin 648–49

Energy industry—Crown lands—Sawn Lake area

Oil well drilling before approvals for ... Bonko 902, 951; Boutilier 849; Coutts 902; Klein 849; Melchin 951; Stevens 1600–01; Swann 849; Tougas 1600
Photographs re (SP340/05: Tabled) ... Swann 858

Energy industry—Environmental aspects

EnergyINet information kit re (SP159/05: Tabled) ... Doerksen 295
General remarks ... Boutilier 292, 1040; Doerksen 292; Knight 292; Melchin 292, 802, 922; Swann 802
Reforestation activities ... Bonko 929

Energy industry—Safety aspects

General remarks ... Eggen 575; Melchin 575

Energy Innovation Network

General remarks ... Boutilier 292, 1915, 1967; Doerksen 292, 1369, 1375; Dunford 1016; Knight 292; Melchin 292
Information kit re (SP159/05: Tabled) ... Doerksen 295
Royalty relief incentives re ... McClellan 749

Energy rebates

Funding for ... Hinman 1805; Oberg 1085

Energy research

Funding ... Elsalhy 1371; McClellan 749
General remarks ... Backs 1376; DeLong 1887; Doerksen 1369, 1372, 1375, 1887; Melchin 909

Energy Research Institute

See Alberta Energy Research Institute

Energy resources

Development of ... Speech from the Throne 9

Energy resources, Alternate

[See also Biomass as energy source; Co-energy electrical production; Solar power; Wind power]

General remarks ... Boutilier 1037, 1832, 1915; Doerksen 1390, 1887; Eggen 1832, 1915; Hinman 1426; Horner 1389; Johnson 1389; Martin 920; Mason 1787; Melchin 922, 1120
Provincial government usage of ... Boutilier 22; Klein 1073; Oberg 696
Research into ... Doerksen 1369, 1374–75
Research into: Funding for ... Chase 1377; McClellan 749
Research into: Tax incentives for ... Hinman 1426, 1911; Klein 1911–12
Use of royalty structure to encourage ... Dunford 1016; Eggen 1015

Energy revenue

See Natural resources revenue

Energy technology, Clean

See Clean energy technology

EnergyINet

See Energy Innovation Network

Enforcement of fish and wildlife legislation

See Fish and wildlife legislation, Enforcement of Enforcement officers

See Fish and wildlife officers; Forest guardians

Enfranchisement of women

See Women—Right to vote

Engage Energy Canada, L.P.

Former executive of ... MacDonald 161; Melchin 161; Taft 118
Overcharging re electricity prices: EUB decision re (SP129/05: Tabled) ... MacDonald 211

Engineering Research, Alberta Heritage Foundation for Science and

See Alberta Heritage Foundation for Science and Engineering Research

Engineers' association

See Association of Professional Engineers, Geologists and Geophysicists of Alberta

Engineers of Alberta, Consulting

See Consulting Engineers of Alberta

English as a Second Language

Funding ... Amery 949–50, 1572; Backs 1131; Cardinal 1130, 1132; Chase 265, 755; Hancock 860; Zwozdesky 311, 949–50, 1126, 1261, 1501, 1525, 1572
General remarks ... Amery 1571–72; Blakeman 866–67; Bonko 1134; Cao 1784; Cardinal 1129; Flaherty 952; Hancock 859, 870, 871, 1833; Zwozdesky 166, 952, 1572, 1784
Review of ... Zwozdesky 1572, 1784

Enhanced oil recovery methods

See Oil recovery methods

Enrollment in postsecondary educational institutions

See Postsecondary educational institutions—Admissions (enrollment)

Enron Canada Corporation

Alberta activities, public inquiry re: Statement re ... MacDonald 1969
Alberta activities: Statement re ... MacDonald 1834–35
Bonuses to senior officials of: Website article re (SP188/05: Tabled) ... MacDonald 327
Discussions with Alberta Energy ... Klein 286; Melchin 286; Taft 285–86
Discussions with Alberta Energy, correspondence re (M47/05: Defeated) ... MacDonald 1749; Melchin 1749; Taylor 1749
Discussions with Alberta Energy, correspondence re (SP678/05: Tabled) ... MacDonald 1837
Discussions with Alberta Energy, documents re given to Competition Bureau ... Klein 286; Melchin 286; Taft 286
Discussions with Alberta Energy, e-mails re (SP651 & 677/05: Tabled) ... MacDonald 1788, 1837
Discussions with Alberta Energy, FOIP request re (SP189/05: Tabled) ... MacDonald 327
Discussions with Alberta Energy, public access to documents re ... Klein 246–47; MacDonald 246–47
Electricity price manipulation scheme (Project Stanley) ... Chase 1186; Elsalhy 249; Klein 18, 83, 118, 119, 246–47, 1964; Lund 249; MacDonald 23, 83, 161, 204, 246–47, 286, 455–56, 533, 650, 949, 1196, 1964; Melchin 913, 1964; Stelmach 1186
Electricity price manipulation scheme (Project Stanley): Adamson report on ... Klein 1145; MacDonald 1144–45; Melchin 1145
Electricity price manipulation scheme (Project Stanley): Background and e-mail re (SP148-149/05: Tabled) ... MacDonald 252–53
Electricity price manipulation scheme (Project Stanley): Destruction of trading tapes re ... McClellan 42; Miller, B. 42
Electricity price manipulation scheme (Project Stanley): Destruction of trading tapes re, e-mail re (SP149/05: Tabled) ... MacDonald 252–53

Enron Canada Corporation (Continued)

- Electricity price manipulation scheme (Project Stanley): Documents re (SP32 & 33/05: Tabled) ... MacDonald 93
- Electricity price manipulation scheme (Project Stanley): E-mails re (SP130, 163, 252-253/05: Tabled) ... MacDonald 211, 295, 492
- Electricity price manipulation scheme (Project Stanley): FERC documents re (SP246, 347, 393, 401-402/05: Tabled) ... MacDonald 464, 908, 1206, 1259
- Electricity price manipulation scheme (Project Stanley): Frontier Economics report re ... MacDonald 1145; Melchin 1145
- Electricity price manipulation scheme (Project Stanley): Frontier Economics report re (SP8/05: Tabled) ... Backs 27
- Electricity price manipulation scheme (Project Stanley): Public inquiry re ... Eggen 914; MacDonald 911; McClellan 42; Melchin 18, 23-24, 118-19, 161, 204, 249, 360, 455-56, 533, 650, 796, 916, 1195-96; Miller, B. 42; Ouellette 249; Stevens 42; Taft 18, 118-19, 360, 796, 1195-96
- Electricity price manipulation scheme (Project Stanley): Tapes of employees' conversations re (SP112 & 190/05: Tabled) ... MacDonald 171, 327
- Electricity price manipulation scheme (Project Stanley): U.S. lawsuits re ... MacDonald 1249; Melchin 1249
- Electricity price manipulation scheme (Project Stanley): Utilities Consumer Advocate's web site re (SP151/05: Tabled) ... Elsalhy 253
- Electricity price manipulation scheme (Project Stanley): Western Standard article re (SP697/05: Tabled) ... MacDonald 1865
- Involvement in Alberta power generation system ... MacDonald 1337; Melchin 1337
- Involvement in Alberta power generation system: Transcript of tape re (SP422/05: Tabled) ... MacDonald 1342
- Sundance B power purchase arrangement, sale of ... MacDonald 1834-35, 1912-13, 1964; Melchin 1912-13, 1964
- Sundance B power purchase arrangement, sale of: Letter/emails re (SP751-753/05: Tabled) ... MacDonald 1970
- Sundance B power purchase arrangement auction participation ... MacDonald 1337; Melchin 1337
- Sundance power plant, takeover of control of ... MacDonald 899; Melchin 899

Environics Research Group (Western) Limited

- Government advertising contract ... Klein 1103; MacDonald 1103

Environment, Dept. of

See Dept. of Environment

Environment and economic development

See Economic development and the environment

Environmental emergencies

See Emergency planning

Environmental farm plans

General remarks ... Horner 1222

Environmental impact assessments

- AAA Cattle Company feedlot expansion ... Boutilier 1027; Coutts 1027; Swann 1027
- Coal-bed methane extraction process ... Boutilier 1202; Swann 1202

Environmental impact assessments (Continued)

- Oil sands mining projects ... Eggen 1714-15
- Sour gas well drilling, Calgary area (Compton Petroleum) ... Melchin 1391; Swann 1391
- Well drilling, Lubicon Lake Band areas ... Bonko 843; Boutilier 615; Swann 615
- Well drilling, Sawn Lake area ... Bonko 902; Coutts 902

Environmental law

- Enforcement of ... Boutilier 1043, 1046, 1049; Eggen 1041, 1042; Klein 769; Swann 769, 1039; Taylor 1045
- Enforcement of, staffing re ... Boutilier 1045-46; Taylor 1045

Environmental officers

See Environmental law, Enforcement of, staffing re

Environmental protection

- Conference on ... Boutilier 1044
- Federal/provincial co-operation re ... Boutilier 1039; Chase 1047; Swann 1038
- General remarks ... Boutilier 1036, 1037, 1040, 1044; Chase 1048; Taylor 1044
- Public consultation re ... Pannu 268
- Public education re ... Boutilier 1043-44
- Statement re ... Eggen 1033

Environmental protection—Finance

- General remarks ... Eggen 1040-41; Klein 768-69; McClellan 769; Swann 282, 768-69

Environmental Protection Act (Federal)

See Canadian Environmental Protection Act (Federal)

Environmental Protection Commission

- Report on Lake Wabamum train derailment ... Boutilier 1668; Lindsay 1668

Environmental Protection Security Fund

- Annual report, 2003-04 (SP139/04: Tabled) ... Boutilier 211; Clerk, The 211
- Annual report, 2004-05 (SP810/04: Tabled) ... Boutilier 2018; Clerk, The 2018

Environmental regulations

- MacNichol report on ... Boutilier 1049; Swann 1049

Environmental research

- Endowment fund for (proposed) ... Doerksen 1375; Eggen 1374
- General remarks ... Boutilier 1043

Envoy to Washington, D.C. (Murray Smith)

See Alberta Government Offices, Washington, D.C. office: Role in resolving border closure to Canadian cattle issue

Enzyme replacement therapy for Fabry disease

See Fabry disease, Enzyme replacement therapy for, provincial assistance re

EPCOR Group of Companies

- Electricity bill changes ... Melchin 489; VanderBurg 489

Epidemic response services—Calgary

Contingency plan for ... Blakeman 644; Evans 645

EPPAs

See Electrical power purchase agreements

Equalization payments

- General remarks ... Hinman 971; McClellan 1524, 1667; Miller, R. 1188; Morton 1667; Pastoor 1181, 1523-24; Stelmach 1187, 1188, 1523

Equating diploma exams, studies re

See Student testing, Diploma exams: Method for equating, studies re (M49/05: Accepted)

Equipment, Medical

See Medical equipment

Equity loss advance component (CAIS program)

See Canadian agriculture income stabilization program, Equity loss advance component

Erosion control

See Soil conservation

ESL

See English as a Second Language

Estimates of Supply (Government expenditures)

Amount of detail in ... Bonko 928

General remarks ... Hancock 56

Interim estimates (Main, Legisl. Offices and Lottery Fund) 2005-06 considered for one day (Motion 14: McClellan) ... McClellan 211

Interim estimates (Main, Legisl. Offices and Lottery Fund) 2005-06 referred to Committee of Supply (Motion 13: McClellan) ... McClellan 211

Interim estimates (Main, Legisl. Offices and Lottery Fund) 2005-06 transmitted to Assembly (SP140/05: Tabled) ... Deputy Speaker 211; McClellan 211

Main and Lottery Fund estimates, 2005-06: Motion to waive SO 58(5) re ... Speaker, The 1085

Main and Lottery Fund estimates, 2005-06 transmitted to Assembly (SP320/05: Tabled) ... McClellan 746-47; Speaker, The 746-47

Main and Lottery Fund estimates 2005-06 referred to Committee of Supply (Motion 18: McClellan) ... McClellan 747

Schedule of debate (SP315/05: Tabled) ... Hancock 746

Supplementary estimates, 2004-05: Responses to questions during (SP279/05: Tabled) ... McClellan 622

Supplementary estimates, 2004-05 considered for two days (Motion 9: McClellan) ... McClellan 94

Supplementary estimates, 2004-05 referred to Committee of Supply (Motion 8: McClellan) (SP171/05: Tabled) ... McClellan 94; Webber 312

Supplementary estimates, 2004-05 transmitted to Assembly (SP85/05: Tabled) ... McClellan 94; Speaker, The 94

Supplementary estimates, 2005-06 considered for three days (Motion 23: McClellan) ... McClellan 1681

Supplementary estimates, 2005-06 considered for three days (Schedule of debate) (SP541/05: Tabled) ... Hancock 1674; Stevens 1674

Supplementary estimates, 2005-06 erratum (revised page 1) (SP629/05: Tabled) ... McClellan 1745

Supplementary estimates, 2005-06 referred to Committee of Supply (Motion 22: McClellan) ... Hinman 1679-80; Lukaszuk 1680; MacDonald 1678-79; Mason 1676-78, 1680; McClellan 1680-81

Supplementary estimates, 2005-06 tabled (SP696/05) ... Haley 1852

Supplementary estimates, 2005-06 transmitted to Assembly (SP593/05: Tabled) ... McClellan 1676

Ethane-Supply

General remarks ... Backs 1443; Melchin 1443

Ethical investments by Alberta Heritage Savings Trust Fund

See Alberta Heritage Savings Trust Fund, Ethical investments by

Ethics, Political

See Political ethics

Ethics Commissioner

Annual report, 2003-04 (SP12/05: Tabled) ... Speaker, The 27

Annual report, 2004-05 (SP531/05: Tabled) ... Speaker, The 1632

Directives to premier's chief of staff, publication of ... Klein 643; Taft 643

Gifts to members received during trade missions reported to ... Agnihotri 46

Interim estimates 2005-06: Debated ... MacDonald 254; Miller, R. 257

Interim estimates 2005-06: Passed ... Webber 269

Introduction of ... Speaker, The 5

Main estimates, 2005-06: Passed ... Abbott 764; Chair 751

Main estimates 2005-06: Tabled (SP319/05) ... McClellan 747

MLA nominating of ASC commissioner candidates, review of ... McClellan 1597; Taft 1597

Report into allegations re former Member for Edmonton-Norwood (SP14/05: Tabled) ... Speaker, The 27

Report into allegations re Minister of Environment and Fort McMurray land sale process, leak to media, point of privilege re ... Boutilier 1675-76; Mason 1636-37; Speaker, The 1637-38, 1675, 1676, 1719-20; Stevens 1637

Report into allegations re Minister of Environment and Fort McMurray land sale process (SP532/05: Tabled) ... Speaker, The 1632

Role in Conflicts of Interest Act Review Committee ... Stevens 105

Ethics of science

See Research and development, Ethical implications

Eurig court decision

See Supreme Court of Canada, Government fees decision (Eurig case)

Evidence disclosure (Legal procedure)

See Disclosure of evidence (Legal procedure)

Examination of students

See Student testing

Excellence, Alberta Order of

See Alberta Order of Excellence

Excellence in Teaching Awards

General remarks ... Haley 1504-05; Strang 1526

Excellence in teaching Canadian history, GovernorGeneral's award for

See Governor General's award for excellence in teaching Canadian history

Exceptional children-Education

See Gifted children-Education

Executive Council

Annual report, 2003-04 (SP46/05: Tabled) ... Clerk, The 93; Klein 93

Annual report, 2004-05 (SP571/05: Tabled) ... Clerk, The 1675; Klein 1675

Estimates, 2005-06: Debated ... Brown 1106; Elsalhy 1103-04; Johnson 1107; Klein 1099-1110; MacDonald 1102-05; Mason 1108-09; Miller, R. 1106-07; Taft 1101-02

Interim estimates, 2005-06: Debated ... MacDonald 254; Miller, R. 258; Pannu 268

Interim estimates, 2005-06: Passed ... Webber 269

Executive Council (Continued)

Limousine service costs ... Klein 1107; MacDonald 1103; Miller, R. 1106
 Staff ... Klein 1099
 Supplementary estimates, 2004-05: Passed ... Webber 312

Exhibitions

See Fairs

Expert Advisory Panel to Review Publically Funded Health Services

Report ... Blakeman 205

Export highway

See North/south trade corridor

Export tax on softwood lumber

See Softwoods–Export–United States, Countervail duties re: Export tax to replace

Exports

General remarks ... Dunford 1008; McClellan 1667

Expression, Freedom of

See Freedom of expression

Extended care facilities

Auditor General's review of ... Evans 1077; Fritz 1201; Klein 1334; Martin 1077; Mason 1334

Auditor General's review of: Report ... Blakeman 1387, 1460, 1577; Evans 1497–98, 1707, 1843–44, 1962; Fritz 1387, 1388, 1392, 1497, 2010, 2012; Klein 1386–87, 1388, 1391–92, 1443–44; Martin 1391–92, 1444, 1886, 2012–13; Mason 1388, 1443–44, 1842, 1962; McClellan 1599; Pastoor 1497, 1707; Taft 1386

Auditor General's review of: Report (SP417/05: Tabled) ... Tarchuk 1342

Conditions in ... Agnihotri 260, 1499; Blakeman 1469, 1577; Evans 1499–1500; Fritz 797; Klein 797, 850; Mason 797, 849–50, 1599; McClellan 1599

Conditions in: Letters re (SP404, 418/05: Tabled) ... Martin 1259, 1342

Conditions in: Petition tabled re (SP337/05: Tabled) ... Pannu 858

Death of resident in (Jean Warden) ... Fritz 1881–82; Pastoor 1881; Stevens 1881

Death of resident in (Jennie Nelson) ... Evans 1962; Mason 1962

Food service ... Fritz 887; Martin 886

General remarks ... Blakeman 1460, 1839; Evans 1707, 1839, 1841–42; McClellan 1464; Pastoor 1707; Prins 884

MLA committee to review (2005) ... Evans 1443, 1497–98; Klein 1442–43; Pastoor 1442–43, 1451, 1498

MLA committee to review (2005): Report ... Blakeman 1839; Evans 1623, 1707, 1843–44, 1886–87, 1962; Fritz 1624, 2010, 2012; Pastoor 1707; Taft 1707; Webber 1623–24

Ombudsman for (See Ombudsperson (Long-term care residents))

Redesignation to assisted living status ... Blakeman 1460, 1463; Evans 1843, 1962; Fritz 1886, 2012–13; Martin 1886, 2012–13; Mason 1842, 1962

Redesignation to assisted living status: Letter re (SP758/05: Tabled) ... Pastoor 1971

Review of ... Evans 1497; Fritz 614; Pastoor 614

Review of (1999) See Long-Term Care Review Advisory Committee (1999)

Extended care facilities, Private

Public funding of ... Blakeman 1460–61, 1569; Evans 1569

Extended care facilities–Fees

General remarks ... Blakeman 1387; Fritz 1387; Klein 1387

Increase in ... Chase 1467

Increase in, cancellation of ... Fritz 1201; Pannu 1201

Extended care facilities–Finance

Emergency debate on (Not proceeded with) ... Backs 1718; Hancock 1718; Pastoor 1717–18; Speaker, The 1718–19

General remarks ... Blakeman 1469; Evans 613, 1074–75; Johnson 1074; McClellan 748

Government funding revoked for inadequate performance by facility ... Klein 1387

Government grants ... Evans 2049–50; Pastoor 2049–50

Petition presented re ... VanderBurg 252

Extended care facilities–Hinton

Reclassification of: Petition presented re ... Martin 1918, 1970, 2016

Extended care facilities–Inspection

General remarks ... Blakeman 1469; Fritz 1200; Klein 850, 1334, 1386–87; Martin 1391; Mason 849–50, 1334; Pannu 1200; Taft 1386

Inspector general re (proposed) ... Fritz 1882; Pastoor 1881

Letter re (SP419/05: Tabled) ... Martin 1342

Extended care facilities–Inspection–Ontario

Publication of results of ... Klein 1334; Mason 1334

Extended care facilities–Lethbridge

Letter re (SP702/05: Tabled) ... Martin 1891; Mason 1891

Extended care facilities–Onoway

Petition tabled re (SP161/05) ... VanderBurg 295

Extended care facilities–Regulations

General remarks ... Blakeman 1460–61, 1469

Extended care facilities–Rural areas

Funding for ... Evans 1707; Klein 1706–07; McClellan 748

Extended care facilities–Staffing

Shortage of: Letters re (SP249/05: Tabled) ... Martin 492

Shortage of: Petition presented re ... Pannu 806

Shortage of: Re nursing hours per patient ... Blakeman 981, 1121, 1460, 1469; Chase 1467; Evans 981, 1074–75, 1077, 1121, 1124, 1458, 1497, 1498, 1623, 1707; Fritz 797, 887, 1200, 1392; Jablonski 1124; Johnson 1074; Klein 797, 850, 1392, 1706–07; Martin 886, 1077, 1392; Mason 797; McClellan 1599; Pannu 1200; Pastoor 268, 1497, 1707; Taft 1706–07; Webber 1623

Training of ... Backs 889; Fritz 890

Extended care facilities–Standards

Accommodation standards: Revision of ... Fritz 614; Speech from the Throne 10

All-party standing committee re See Committee on Continuing Care Standards, Standing

Chemical/physical restraints use standards ... Fritz 1497; Pastoor 1497

Emergency debate under SO30 re (proceeded with) ... Abbott 1410–11; Blakeman 1398–99, 1404–05; Bonko 1407–08; Brown 1413; Chase 1400;

Extended care facilities—Standards (Continued)

Emergency debate under SO30 re (proceeded with) (Continued) ... Danyluk 1409–10; Doerksen 1408–09; Fritz 1406–07; Goudreau 1403–04; Hancock 1397–98; Martin 1399, 1411–13; Mason 1396–97, 1401–02; Mitzel 1405–06; Oberg 1402–03; Prins 1399–1400; Speaker, The 1399, 1400–01; Strang 1413–14; Webber 1406

General remarks ... Blakeman 1121, 1460, 1469, 1498; Evans 1074–75, 1077, 1121, 1124, 1458, 1459, 1464, 1497–98, 1844, 1962; Fritz 878, 887, 1200–01, 1388, 1392, 1497, 2010, 2012–13; Jablonski 1124; Johnson 1074; Klein 797, 1388, 1391–92, 1962, 2010; Martin 1077, 1391–92, 2012–13; Mason 797, 1388, 1962; Pannu 1200–01; Pastoor 1497–98, 2010

Improvement of (Motion 507: Mason) ... Bonko 1178; Chase 1176; Eggen 1175–76; Herard 1176–77; Hinman 1177–78; Mason 1173–74, 1177, 1179; Mitzel 1177; Pannu 1200; Pastoor 1176, 1178–79; Snelgrove 1174–75

Personal hygiene standards ... Blakeman 1498; Evans 1498

Extended care facilities—Vegreville

General remarks ... Evans 977

Extended care facilities—Vermilion

General remarks ... Evans 977

Extended care facilities—Whitecourt-Ste. Anne constituency

Statement re ... VanderBurg 1395

Extended care facilities residents

Abuse/neglect of ... Evans 613, 614; Fritz 614; Klein 850; Mason 613; Pastoor 614

Incontinent supplies for ... Pastoor 268–69

Prescription drug usage ... Evans 207–08, 415, 613; Mason 613; Pastoor 207–08, 415

Extendicare Inc.

Lobbying of government ... Blakeman 1569; Evans 1569

Extension programs for seniors

See Universities and colleges, Extension programs for seniors

Fabry disease

Enzyme replacement therapy for, provincial assistance re ... Blakeman 290; Evans 290

Fabryzyme (Drug)

General remarks ... Evans 290

Facial recognition system (Drivers' licences)

See Automobile drivers' licences—Security aspects, Facial recognition system

Factory farms—Environmental aspects

See Livestock industry, Intensive—Environmental aspects

Faculty, University

See University teachers

Fair Trade, Canadian Cattlemen for

See Canadian Cattlemen for Fair Trade

Fair Trading Act

General remarks ... Hinman 1425; Lund 1415–16
Payday loan industry provisions ... Lund 365

Fair Trading Amendment Act, 2005 (Bill 6)

First reading ... Ducharme 51

Second reading ... Backs 217–18; Ducharme 216; Elsalhy 216–217

Committee ... Ducharme 476–77; Elsalhy 477–78

Fair Trading Amendment Act, 2005 (Bill 6) (Continued)

Third reading ... Chase 550; Ducharme 547–48, 551; Elsalhy 548; MacDonald 548–50; Martin 548; Miller, R. 550–51

Royal Assent ... Lieutenant Governor 10 May, 2005 (Outside of House sitting)

General remarks ... Lund 365

Fair Trading (Telemarketing) Amendment Act, 2005 (Bill 205)

First reading ... Pham 622

Second reading ... Abbott 1539–40; Ady 1753; Agnihotri 1540; Blakeman 1750; Bonko 1542; Brown 1542–43; Cao 1541–42; DeLong 1752–53; Eggen 1540–41; Elsalhy 1538–39; Groeneveld 1750–52; MacDonald 1543–44; Miller, R. 1752; Pham 1536–37; Taylor 1749–50; Webber 1544–45; Zwozdesky 1545

FAIRE

See Families Allied to Influence Responsible Eldercare

Fairs

Capital grants to ... Graydon 124, 1278; Johnson 124

Fairview College

Takeover by Northern Alberta Institute of Technology: Recognition of ... Goudreau 325

Falcons, Peregrine

See Peregrine falcons

Fallen Four memorial, Mayerthorpe

See Royal Canadian Mounted Police, Drug raid, Mayerthorpe area: Memorial for fallen officers, statement re

Falun Gong

Promotion of hatred against, letters re (SP552/05: Tabled) ... Miller, B. 1675

Falun school

See Schools—Construction—Falun

Families Allied to Influence Responsible Eldercare

Elder abuse report (SP303/05: Tabled) ... Pastoor 653

Family

General remarks ... Mather 302, 1234

Family and Community Research, Alberta Centre for Child,

See Alberta Centre for Child, Family and Community Research

Family and community support services program

Funding ... Forsyth 1052

Funding for, using resource rebate funds, letters re (SP675-676/05: Tabled) ... Blakeman 1837

General remarks ... Pannu 1917

Review of ... Forsyth 303

Youth program funding ... Forsyth 206–07, 532; Mather 532

Family and social services department

See Dept. of Human Resources and Employment

Family court counsellors

General remarks ... Stevens 1225

Family courts

General remarks ... Miller, B. 1197, 1228; Speech from the Throne 10; Stevens 1197, 1226, 1230, 1234, 1236

Visitation rulings in violent spouse cases ... Miller, B. 1196; Stevens 1196–97

Family courts—Calgary

General remarks ... Cenaiko 1433

Family day homes

See Daycare in private homes

Family Doctor Week

Statement re ... Johnson 1969

Family employment tax credit

See Alberta family employment tax credit

Family farm

Preservation of ... Horner 1214; Martin 1214

Family farm awards, Centennial

See Century Farm & Ranch awards

Family justice services funding

See Family law, Support services re, funding for Family law

Letter re (SP652/05: Tabled) ... Agnihotri 1788

Support services re, funding for ... Stevens 1225

Family Law Act

General remarks ... Stevens 1225, 1234

Family Law Amendment Act, 2005 (Bill 5)

First reading ... Stevens 51

Second reading ... Miller, B. 197; Stevens 195–98

Committee ... Blakeman 633–36; DeLong 636; Miller, B. 566–67; Pannu 567, 634–36; Stevens 444–46, 635

Third reading ... Chase 1021; Stevens 1020–21

Royal Assent ... Lieutenant Governor 10 May, 2005
(Outside of House sitting)

Amendment (Minister of Justice) (SP235, 272, 295/05:

Tabled) ... Abbott 567; Haley 636; Stevens 444, 566, 633; Webber 450

Subamendment (SP294/05: Tabled) ... Haley 636;
Pannu 635

Family mediation

See Mediation (Legal process), Child and youth cases

Family member child care

See Daycare in family members' homes

Family services authorities

See Child and family services authorities

Family shelters—Finance

See Women's shelters—Finance

Family Support for Children With Disabilities Act

Initiatives re: Funding for ... Forsyth 1051, 1052, 1730, 1731; Mather 1731

Family violence

See Domestic violence

Family Violence, World Conference on Prevention of, Banff (October 2005)

See World Conference on Prevention of Family Violence, Banff (October 2005)

Family violence—Legal aspects

See Domestic violence—Legal aspects

Family Violence and Bullying, Round-table on (May 2004)

See Round-table on Family Violence and Bullying, Calgary (May 2004)

Family Violence Prevention Month

General remarks ... Jablonski 1630, 2053

Famous Five

General remarks ... Blakeman 856

Replica of Ottawa statuette re, to be housed in Legislature Building ... Speaker, The 856, 1526

Farm, Family

See Family farm

Farm & Ranch awards

See Century Farm & Ranch awards

Farm aid package (Federal)

See Farm Income Payment Program (Federal)

Farm animals

See Livestock

Farm cash receipts

See Farm income

Farm fertilizer—Taxation

See Fertilizer—Taxation

Farm foreclosure

See Foreclosure—Farms

Farm fuel—Taxation

General remarks ... Hinman 1218; Horner 1219

Farm Fuel Distribution Allowance

General remarks ... Horner 695, 1219

Farm gate sales (Beef)

See Beef—Marketing, Farm gate sales

Farm Implement Board

Annual report, 2004 (SP293/05: Tabled) ... Horner 623

Farm income

Decline in ... Mason 16

Impacts on ... Horner 1207

Farm income disaster program (Alberta)

General remarks ... Horner 296, 297

Farm Income Payment Program (Federal)

Alberta participation ... Horner 488; Marz 488

Farm income support

General remarks ... MacDonald 1209

Farm input costs

General remarks ... Danyluk 695; Horner 695

Tax portion impact on ... Hinman 1218

Farm manure—Recycling

Pilot project re ... Doerksen 1390; Horner 1389;
Johnson 1389

Farm plans, Environmental

See Environmental farm plans

Farm produce—Export

Antidumping rules re ... Horner 293, 614; Prins
613–14; Stelmach 614

General remarks ... McClellan 749

Statement re ... Cao 1032

Farm produce—Processing

See Food industry and trade

Farm safety

Statement re ... Prins 293–94

Farm vehicles

Eligibility for veterans' licence plate stickers ...
Lougheed 366; Lund 366

Farm workers

See Agricultural workers

Farmers' markets

Food service regulations at ... Evans 1520; Snelgrove
1520

Farmfair International 2005

Statement re ... VanderBurg 1968

Farming

See Agriculture; Family farm

Farming, Organic

See Organic farming

FASD

See Fetal alcohol spectrum disorder

FASD affected adults—Housing;

See Fetal alcohol spectrum disorder affected adults—Housing

Fatalities, Traffic*See* Traffic fatalities*Fatalities, Work-related

Day of mourning re ... Backs 1118; Cardinal 1118;
Eggen 1081; Martin 1118
 Federation of Labour report and factsheet re (SP412-
 13/05: Tabled) ... Backs 1315
 Statistics on, over past 100 years (SP374/05: Tabled) ...
Eggen 1081

Fatality inquiries

Fekete family murder/suicide case ... Cenaiko 1575;
Jablonski 1575
 Kyle Young's death in Edmonton courthouse ... Stevens
 743
 Long-term care resident's death (Jean Warden) ... Fritz
 1881; Pastoor 1881; Stevens 1881
 Long-term care resident's death (Jennie Nelson) ...
Evans
 1962; Mason 1962
 Nina Louise Courtepatte case ... Forsyth 1390, 1445;
Mather 1390, 1445; Stevens 1445
 RCMP corporal's death in mentally ill gunman case ...
Cenaiko 1784; Miller, B. 1784
 RCMP drug raid fatalities investigation ... Stevens 41,
 43; VanderBurg 43, 91
 Role of news media at ... Miller, B. 414; Stevens 414

Fatality Inquiries Act

Public inquiries provision ... Cenaiko 162; Pannu
 1231–32

Fatality Inquiries Amendment Act, 2005 (Bill 24)

First reading ... Stevens 170
 Second reading ... Blakeman 703–04; Bonko 702–03;
Chase 700–01; Elsalhy 702; Martin 701–02; Miller,
B. 679–80; Pannu 680–81; Pastoor 682–83;
Snelgrove 681, 702; Stevens 380–81; Tougas
 681–82
 Committee ... Blakeman 721–23; Miller, B. 725; Pannu
 722–24; Pastoor 723–24; Stevens 719–25
 Third reading ... Miller, B. 1378–79; Stevens 1378
 Royal Assent ... Lieutenant Governor 10 May, 2005
 (Outside of House sitting)
 Amendment (SP312/05: Tabled) ... Oberle 733; Pannu
 722
 General remarks ... Miller, B. 414; Pannu 1231–32;
Stevens 414

Fatality Review Board

General remarks ... Stevens 1881

Fathers

Statement re ... DeLong 1394

Fax machines, Digital

Security concerns ... Johnston 413; Ouellette 413, 752

FBI

See Federal Bureau of Investigation (U.S.)

FCM

See Federation of Canadian Municipalities

FCSS

See Family and community support services program

Fearnley, Mr. Ken

Statement re ... MacDonald 858

Feather industry

See Poultry industry

Fed cattle set-aside program

Extension of ... Horner 119, 1498; Mitzel 119

Federal Building

Disposition of ... Oberg 1096–97, 1518; Taft 1518;
VanderBurg 1096

Federal Bureau of Investigation (U.S.)

Access to Canadian health records held by U.S. companies ... Evans 482; Taft 482

Federal elections

See Elections, Federal

Federal Energy Regulatory Commission (U.S.)

Enron collusion with other electricity suppliers:
 Documents re ... MacDonald 911
 Enron collusion with other electricity suppliers:
 Documents re (SP347, 401–402/05: Tabled) ...
MacDonald 908, 1259
 Enron collusion with other electricity suppliers:
 Testimony re ... MacDonald 1196; Melchin 1195;
Taft 1195
 Enron collusion with other electricity suppliers:
 Testimony re, document re (SP393/05: Tabled) ...
MacDonald 1206
 Frontier Economics report on Enron trading strategies on website of ... MacDonald 1145
 Report on Enron trading strategies (SP246/05: Tabled) ...
MacDonald 464

Federal government

Governing party's loss of vote of confidence ... Shariff
 1935

Federal/Ontario fiscal relations

Impact of federal parliamentary situation on ... Abbott
 1392; McClellan 1524; Stelmach 1392, 1503, 1523

Federal/provincial fiscal relations

General remarks ... Abbott 1392; Groeneveld 1503;
Hinman 971, 1444; Klein 1444; McClellan 1444,
 1524; Miller, R. 1188; Pastoor 1181, 1523–24;
Stelmach 1188, 1392, 1503, 1523–24

Federal/provincial relations

Budget increase for ... Eggen 1183; Pastoor 1181;
Stelmach 1182
 General remarks ... Hinman 1444; Klein 1444;
McClellan 1444; Miller, R. 1188; Stelmach 1180,
 1187, 1188
 Statement re ... Hinman 1714

Federal/provincial/territorial agriculture ministers' meeting, Alberta (July 2005)

See Agriculture ministers' meeting (Federal/provincial/territorial), Alberta (July 2005)

Federation of Canadian Municipalities

Subsidized housing statistics ... Fritz 1198

Federation of Police Associations, Alberta

See Alberta Federation of Police Associations

Feeder Associations Guarantee Amendment Act, 2004 (Bill 28, 2004)

General remarks ... MacDonald 1209

Feeder associations (Livestock)

Provincial guarantees to ... MacDonald 1209

Feedlots

Clean up costs re ... MacDonald 1209
 Tax incentives re ... Hinman 1852

Feedlots–Waste disposal

Biomass reactor for, tax incentives re ... Hinman
 1851–52
 Joint research project re ... Doerksen 1390; Horner
 1389; Johnson 1389

Fees, Government

General remarks ... Bonko 928; Coutts 931
Review of ... Blakeman 754; Ouellette 752

Fees, User

See Dept. of Government Services, Fees;
Education–Finance, User fees; Extended care facilities–Fees; Medical care–Finance, User fees;
Midwives and midwifery–Fees;
Schoolchildren–Transportation, User fees for Fekete family tragedy

See Domestic violence, Murder/suicide case, Red
Deer 2003

Fellowship program for university graduates

See University graduates, Fellowship program for

Ferbey rink

See under Curling championships

Fertilization treatment, In vitro

See In vitro fertilization treatment

Fertilizer, Nitrogen

See Nitrogen fertilizer

Fertilizer–Taxation

Reduction of ... Hinman 1851

Festivals–Finance

General remarks ... Blakeman 1477; Chase 1481;
Eggen 1478

Fetal alcohol spectrum disorder

AADAC program re, funding for ... Evans 271
Canada northwest partnership re ... Forsyth 769
Funding for programs re ... Forsyth 303; Mather 302
General remarks ... Blakeman 769–70; Forsyth 769–70

Fetal alcohol spectrum disorder–Research

General remarks ... Forsyth 769–70

Fetal alcohol spectrum disorder affectedadults–Housing

General remarks ... Blakeman 770; Forsyth 770

FIDP

See Farm income disaster program

Film Commission Advisory Council, Alberta

See Alberta Film Commission Advisory Council

Film development grant program

General remarks ... Agnihotri 1475; Dunford 322;
Haley 322; Mar 322, 1473

Film industry

Benefits received from Alberta trade missions ...
Agnihotri 46; Mar 46
Film distribution problems: Letter re (SP178/05: Tabled)
... Blakeman 327
General remarks ... Bonko 1009; DeLong 2013;
Dunford 1011, 1013, 2013; Eggen 1015
Government budget for ... Agnihotri 1474; Bonko
1010; Mar 1476, 1783
Hiring of local talent provisions ... Eggen 1015
Impact of industrial development on ... Chase 1011–12
Statement re ... Groeneveld 1968
Tax incentives for ... Bonko 1009; Dunford 1010,
1013, 1016; Eggen 1015

Film industry–Northern Alberta

General remarks ... Oberle 1341

Filumena (Opera)

Opening performance at Alberta Scene in Ottawa ...
Speaker, The 1151

Finance, Dept. of

See Dept. of Finance

Financial Administration Act

General remarks ... Klein 1912

Financial aid, Student

See Student financial aid

Financial management–Alberta

See Alberta–Economic policy

Financial management and planning department

See Dept. of Finance

Financial Statutes Amendment Act, 2005 (Bill 37)

First reading ... McClellan 775; Zwozdesky 775
Second reading ... Eggen 939; MacDonald 939;
McClellan 845, 939; Miller, R. 938–39; Zwozdesky
845–46
Committee ... Chase 1018; Miller, R. 1018–19;
Zwozdesky 1018–19
Third reading ... Mason 1112–13; McClellan 1112–13;
Taft 1113
Royal Assent ... Lieutenant Governor 10 May, 2005
(Outside of House sitting)
General remarks ... Eggen 1374; McClellan 961;
Miller, R. 959
Responses to questions asked during second reading
(SP376/05: Tabled) ... McClellan 1112
Responses to questions asked during third reading
(SP438/05: Tabled) ... McClellan 1507

Fine arts courses in high school

See High school education–Curricula, Fine arts courses: Letter re (SP195/05: Tabled)

Fine arts courses in junior high school

See Junior high school education–Curricula, Fine arts courses

Fine arts credit in high school

See High school credits, Fine arts credit requirement
(Motion 505: Herard)

Fines (Poaching violations)

General remarks ... Coutts 21

Fines (Traffic violations)

Computerized cash register system re ... Stevens 1225
Graduated licence conditions violation ... Cenaiko 1308;
Jablonski 1308

Finning (Canada)

Labour Relations Board decision re company and machinists' union (SP799/05: Tabled) ... Mason 2018

Fire–Control

Winter conditions' effect on ... Bonko 1328–29

Fire Commissioner's Office

See Alberta Fire Commissioner's Office

Fire-killed timber

See Timber, Fire-killed

Firearms–Licensing

Impact on provincial hunting regulations ... Coutts
2050; Morton 2050

Firebag project

See Suncor Inc., Firebag project, royalty discussions re

Firefighters–Training

Provincial initiative re ... Renner 1320–21

Firefighters' heart attacks

See Heart attacks in firefighters

Firefly, Camp (Anti-bullying initiative)

See Camp Firefly (Anti-bullying initiative)

FireNet (Forest fire communications system)

General remarks ... Coutts 930

Fires, Forest—Prevention

See Forest fires—Prevention

Fires at hazardous waste sites

Monitoring of ... Boutilier 1335–36, 1337–38; Eggen 1337–38; Lougheed 1335–36

FireSmart program (Forest fire prevention)

General remarks ... Coutts 47, 1849; Strang 47

Firewall committee

See MLA Committee on Strengthening Alberta's Role in Confederation

Firewall issues (Federal/provincial relations)

General remarks ... Miller, R. 1188; Stelmach 1188

First aid—Training

As part of school curriculum ... Lukaszuk 204–05; Zwozdesky 205

First-contract certification legislation

See Collective bargaining, First-contract certification legislation

First ministers' meeting on aboriginal issues, Kelowna, November 2005

See Aboriginal issues, First ministers' meeting re, Kelowna, November 2005

First Nations apprenticeship training

See Apprenticeship training, Aboriginal people

First Nations children—Education

See Aboriginal children—Education

First Nations courts

See Aboriginal courts

First Nations development fund

General remarks ... Graydon 1278, 1282
Revenue decrease ... Graydon 1799; Tougas 1799

First Nations economic development

See Aboriginal economic development

First Nations' gaming policy

See Gambling—Aboriginal reserves

First Nations health care

See Aboriginal peoples—Health care

First Nations land claims

See Aboriginal land claims

First Nations participation in Royal visit

See Elizabeth II, Queen of Great Britain, Alberta visit, May 2005: First Nations participation

First Nations police services

See Aboriginal police services

First Nations traffic accident injuries

See Traffic accident injuries—Aboriginal communities

First Nations treaties

Honouring of ... Calahasen 1829

Fiscal Responsibility Act

Amendment of, re resource rebates (Bill 43) ...
McClellan 1631
Amendment of (Bill 37) ... McClellan 775; Zwozdesky 775

Fiscal sustainability fund

See Alberta Sustainability Fund

Fish and Game Association, Alberta

See Alberta Fish and Game Association

Fish and wildlife legislation

Enforcement of ... Bonko 928; Coutts 931, 933–34, 936; Eggen 932–33; Oberle 936

Fish and wildlife officers

[See also Forest guardians]
Number of ... Bonko 928, 929, 1848; Chase 1480–81; Coutts 925, 931, 933–34, 936, 1254, 1849; Eggen 932–33, 1254

Fish and wildlife officers (Continued)

Number of: AUPE news release re (SP406/05: Tabled)
... Eggen 1259

Fish conservation

General remarks ... Coutts 855
Impact of Métis hunting rights on ... Calahasen 43, 45, 89; Coutts 89, 615–16, 926; Morton 615–16; Oberle 89

Fish management

General remarks ... Coutts 925–26, 934

Fish populations—Alberta

General remarks ... Coutts 855; Jablonski 854–55

Fish stocking

General remarks ... Coutts 855; Jablonski 855

Fisheries, Commercial

Exclusion from Métis hunting/fishing agreement ...
Calahasen 842
Impact of Métis hunting rights on ... Coutts 615–16; Morton 615–16
Reduction in ... Coutts 926

Fisheries, Commercial—Bow River

General remarks ... Coutts 615; Morton 615

Fisheries department

See Dept. of Sustainable Resource Development

Fishing, Industrial

See Fisheries, Commercial

Fishing, Sport

2005 Alberta Guide to Sport Fishing Regulations (SP110/05: Tabled) ... Coutts 171
General remarks ... Coutts 855; Jablonski 854–55
Impact of Métis hunting rights on ... Calahasen 89; Coutts 89; Oberle 89

Fishing rights, Métis

See Métis hunting/fishing rights

Fitness—Teaching

See Physical fitness—Teaching

Fixed election dates

See Elections, Provincial, Fixed dates for

Fjeldheim, Brian (Retired Chief Electoral Officer)

[See also Chief Electoral Officer]
Statement re ... Tarchuk 2054

Flat tax, Provincial

See Income tax, Provincial, Flat tax

Flawed, Failed, Abandoned: 100 P3s (Report)

See Friends of Medicare, Report on P3s in health care projects (Flawed, Failed, Abandoned) (SP302/05: Tabled)

Flesher, Mr. Ken

Recognition of ... Rogers 126

Flood Risk Management Committee

Flood prevention planning ... Renner 1709

Floods—Guyana

Recognition of ... Agnihotri 50

Floods—Prevention

General remarks ... Amery 1708; Renner 1708–09

Floods—Southern Alberta

Compensation re ... Amery 1708; Renner 1708

Floor of the Assembly Chamber

See under Legislative Assembly Chamber

Floor price for beef

See Beef—Prices, Minimum floor price

Flu, Avian

See Avian influenza

Flu vaccine, Avian

See Vaccine, Avian influenza

Fluckiger, Mr. Kellan

See Electric utilities—Regulations, Deregulation: Private consultant re (Kellan Fluckiger)

Fly for a Cure (Charity fundraiser)

Statement re ... Miller, R. 1313

FMA's

See Forest management agreements

FOIP Act

See Freedom of Information and Protection of Privacy Act

Folk Festival, Edmonton

See Edmonton Folk Festival

Food and Rural Development department

See Dept. of Agriculture, Food and Rural Development

Food banks

General remarks ... Fritz 366; Pastoor 366

Statement re ... Oberle 1888

Food Banks, Canadian Association of

See Canadian Association of Food Banks

Food for schoolchildren—Edmonton

See School lunch programs—Edmonton

Food industry and trade

General remarks ... Danyluk 836; Horner 1222; MacDonald 1208

Provincial support programs re ... Horner 296, 298, 1214; MacDonald 297; Martin 1212

Research re ... Horner 296

Statement re ... Goudreau 1080

Food Inspection Agency, Canadian

See Canadian Food Inspection Agency

Food production

See Agriculture

Food safety

Chronic wasting disease infected deer, served for human consumption, news article re (SP290/05: Tabled) ... Horner 623

Chronic wasting disease threat to ... Horner 250, 288; Klein 288; Swann 288

General remarks ... Horner 48, 1222

Rural community halls ... Evans 248, 1520; Marz 248; Snelgrove 1520

Food service employees—Wages

See Wages—Food service employees

Food Services Association, Alberta Restaurant and See Alberta Restaurant and Food Services Association

Foot patrols

See Police, Neighbourhood patrols

Football championships

Edmonton Eskimos Grey Cup contenders and champions ... Backs 1888; Hinman 1909; Klein 1908; Lukaszuk 1743–44; Mason 1908–09; Taft 1908

Edmonton Eskimos Grey Cup contenders and champions: Letter re (SP711/05: Tabled) ... Flaherty 1891

Raymond Comets tier 1 provincial champions, Statement re ... Hinman 2055

Foothills Country Hospice Society

Statement re ... Groeneveld 2014–15

Foothills Medical Centre

Road access to new children's hospital ... Chase 210, 364, 653; Oberg 364

Foothills Medical Centre (Continued)

Single room format ... Chase 1467

Upgrades to ... Blakeman 644; Chase 1470; Evans 533, 644; Oberg 1309; Taylor 1309

Upgrades to, funding for ... Evans 1838; Oberg 1086

Forbes elementary school, Grande Prairie

See Alexander Forbes elementary school, Grande Prairie

Foreclosure—Farms

BSE related situations ... Hinman 49; Horner 49

Foreign doctors

See Immigrant doctors

Foreign investments

See Investments, Foreign

Foreign medical graduates

See Medical graduates, Foreign

Foreign offices, Albertan

See Alberta Government Offices

Foreign policy

See Alberta—Foreign policy

Foreign qualifications assessment service

See Professional qualifications, Foreign, Assessment service

Foreign relations

See International relations

Foreign students

See Students, Foreign (Grade school)

Foreign trade—United States

See International trade—United States

Foreign workers, Temporary

[See also Labour Relations Code, Division 8 provision (Foreign workers for major projects)]

Alberta document re (SP245/05: Tabled) ... Martin 464

Alberta/federal government memorandum re: Information package (SP366/05: Tabled) ... Cardinal 1034; Clerk, The 1034

Alberta/federal government memorandum re (M24/05: Defeated) ... Backs 823, 825, 989; Cardinal 823, 989; Chase 824–25; MacDonald 823–24; Mason 824; Zwozdesky 989

Ban on: Petitions presented re ... Agnihotri 652, 699, 1128; Backs 294, 326, 418, 463, 491, 536, 621, 652, 745–46, 775, 806, 858, 957, 984, 1033, 1128, 1132, 1153, 1205, 1314, 1396, 1451–52, 1507, 1528, 1578, 1607, 1630, 1674, 1715, 1745, 1788, 1836, 1970, 2016; Bonko 326, 419, 621, 652, 699; Elsalhy 369, 462, 621; MacDonald 369, 418, 463, 491, 536, 1507; Miller, B. 1396; Miller, R. 418, 463, 536, 579; Pastoor 491, 579, 653, 806; Taylor 369, 462–63

Ban on: Petitions presented re, tabling re disallowed ... Abbott 1206; Speaker, The 1258–59

General remarks ... Agnihotri 1090; Backs 121–22, 279, 318, 360–61, 411, 571, 1132, 1443; Blakeman 1140; Bonko 1266; Calahasen 839; Cao 802; Cardinal 85–86, 121–22, 280, 281, 318, 321–22, 361, 362, 411, 458, 571, 802, 1133, 1135, 1443; Danyluk 843; Dunford 86, 1008; Hancock 248; Jablonski 85–86, 121; Klein 647; Martin 321–22, 458, 647, 920, 1136–37, 1171; Mason 361–62; Oberg 1090–91; Taylor 248; Tougas 838

Implications re workplace safety ... Martin 1136

Language training for ... Backs 1131; Bonko 1134; Cardinal 1132

Letter re (SP254/05: Tabled) ... Elsalhy 492

Foreign workers, Temporary (Continued)

- Letter re (SP336/05: Tabled) ... Pastoor 807
- Letters re (SP116, 136, 168, 208, 243, 255, 269, 287, 424, 431, 435/05: Tabled) ... Backs 171, 211, 295, 370, 463, 492, 536, 622, 1342, 1396, 1452
- Letters re (SP205/05: Tabled) ... Blakeman 370
- Letters re (SP338 & 360/05: Tabled) ... Martin 858, 984
- Letters re (SP444, 463, 492, 505/05: Tabled) ... Backs 1508, 1528, 1579, 1608
- Process to apply for (SP217/05: Tabled) ... Cardinal 370
- Statement re ... Mason 209–10
- Suncor communications plan re (SP244/05: Tabled) ... Martin 464
- Treaty 8 First Nations resolution and letter re (SP134-135/05: Tabled) ... Backs 211

Forensics lab closure, Edmonton

- See Royal Canadian Mounted Police, Forensics lab closure, Edmonton

Forest conservation

- General remarks ... Bonko 929, 930, 1312; Coutts 936, 1312
- Sierra Club press release re Alberta policy re (SP421/05: Tabled) ... Eggen 1342
- Statement re ... Eggen 1395–96

Forest fire areas, logging in

- See Logging in forest fire hit areas

Forest firefighters

- Room and board rates for ... Bonko 618, 928; Coutts 618, 934; Eggen 932

Forest firefighters—Training

- General remarks ... Coutts 1393

Forest fires—Control

- Capital funding for ... Coutts 927
- Endowment fund for See Endowment fund for forest fire control (Proposed)
- Equipment for ... Bonko 928; Coutts 930
- Funding for ... Bonko 928, 929, 938, 1848; Coutts 930, 934, 1846–47, 1849; Eggen 932
- General remarks ... Bonko 618; Coutts 618
- Impact on pine beetle control ... Bonko 1847–48; Coutts 1848
- Use of government aircraft for ... Oberg 1096; VanderBurg 1096

Forest fires—Control—Municipal areas

- Assistance program re ... Bonko 929

Forest fires—Prevention

- General remarks ... Coutts 47, 1393; Oberle 1393; Strang 47
- Phone reporting line re ... Coutts 1393

Forest guardians

- [See also Fish and wildlife officers]

- General remarks ... Coutts 925, 931, 934, 1252, 1254

Forest harvesting

- See Logging

Forest industries

- Impact of mountain pine beetle on ... Coutts 247, 926; Oberle 247
- Impact of softwood lumber dispute on ... Coutts 20–21, 1626; Strang 20, 1626
- Value-added processing in ... Coutts 926–27, 937; Dunford 88, 124, 644, 836; Strang 644

Forest Lawn high school

- Awards night: Statement re ... Cao 1968

Forest management

- General remarks ... Eggen 1396; Oberle 935

Forest management agreements

- Al-Pac agreement: Study ... Eggen 1395
- Bigstone Cree lands, pamphlet on concerns re (SP705/05: Tabled) ... Tougas 1891
- Consultation on renewals of, with Treaty 8 First Nations, resolution re (SP634/05: Tabled) ... Bonko 1745
- Recreational/snowmobile access to lands under ... Coutts 694; Rogers 693–94
- Reforestation requirements ... Bonko 929; Coutts 1575

Forest protection

- Budget for, reports on (Q37/05: Accepted) ... Bonko 1747; Coutts 1747

Forest regeneration

- See Reforestation

Forest Resource Improvement Association of Alberta

- General remarks ... Bonko 937; Coutts 530, 927, 931, 936, 1575

Forest resource improvement program

- General remarks ... Coutts 927

Forest sustainability

- See Forest conservation

Forest Technologists, College of Alberta Professional

- See College of Alberta Professional Forest Technologists

Forest tenure system

- General remarks ... Coutts 936–37; Oberle 936

Forest Week

- See National Forest Week

ForestCare (Forest protection program)

- General remarks ... Coutts 936

Foresters, College of Alberta Professional

- See College of Alberta Professional Foresters

Forestry department

- See Dept. of Sustainable Resource Development

Forestry Research Institute

- See Alberta Forestry Research Institute

Forestry sinks

- See Carbon dioxide sinks

Forintek Canada Corp.

- Provincial partnership with ... Coutts 927

Fort MacKay First Nation

- Passing of Chief Dorothy McDonald ... Johnston 1628

Fort McMurray

- Impact of oil sands expansion on ... Boutilier 201, 485; Chase 484–85, 575–76, 1086, 1627–28; Danyluk 203, 843; Evans 576; Klein 201, 484–85, 527–28; MacDonald 911; McClellan 527, 576, 962, 1628; Melchin 203; Oberg 200–01, 576, 1628, 1800; Renner 1628; Swann 201; Taft 200, 527; Taylor 535; Tougas 838
- Impact of oil sands expansion on: Environmental aspects ... Boutilier 1048; Chase 1047
- Impact of oil sands expansion on: Meeting re, April 8, 2005 ... Klein 201
- Impact of oil sands expansion on: Report on (SP266/05: Tabled) ... Melchin 536

Fort McMurray health authority

- See Northern Lights Health Region

Fort McMurray hospital

- See Hospitals—Fort McMurray

Fort McMurray land sale

- See Alberta Social Housing Corporation, Transfer of land to Fort McMurray

Fort McMurray rail link

See Rail service—Edmonton/Fort McMurray

Fort McMurray teachers' salaries

See Wages—Teachers—Fort McMurray

Fort Saskatchewan hospital

See Hospitals—Fort Saskatchewan

FortisAlberta Inc.

Co-ordination of bills with EPCOR ... Melchin 489;
VanderBurg 489

Forum for Young Albertans

Statement re ... Danyluk 1126

Forum on advanced education

See Education, Postsecondary, Access to, affordability review to improve

Foster children

Requirement to work ... Backs 1779; Cardinal 1779

Foster Parent Association, Alberta

See Alberta Foster Parent Association

Foster parents

Increased funding for ... Forsyth 301, 305, 1052, 1056;
Mather 303, 1054
Legal aid funding for ... Flaherty 1235; Stevens 1235
Review of ... Forsyth 1052
Statement re ... Mather 1715

Foundation for the Arts, Alberta

See Alberta Foundation for the Arts

Fox, Terry

Statement re ... Johnston 698–99

A Framework for Reform (Report)

See Premier's Advisory Council on Health,
Recommendations (A Framework for Reform)

Franchise, Provincial

See Voting in provincial elections

Franchise, Women's

See Women—Right to vote

Francis Winspear Centre for Music

General remarks ... Bonko 1009

Francization

See French language—Teaching

Francophone school boards

See School boards, Francophone

Francophone schools

Provincial funding of ... Hinman 1805; Oberg 1805

Francophone Secretariat

Funding for ... Ducharme 1482; Mar 1484

Frank exhibit, Calgary

See Anne Frank exhibit, Calgary

Frankenstein (Film)

Statement re ... Johnston 1126–27

Fraser, Hon. Catherine (Chief Justice)

See Administrator of the Province of Alberta

Free trade—Continental North America

See North American free trade agreement

Free trade highway

See North/south trade corridor

Free tuition

See Tuition fees, Remission of, for second year courses

Freedom of expression

Statement re ... Morton 698

Freedom of Expression Committee (Book and Periodical Council)

General remarks ... Blakeman 25–26

Freedom of Information and Protection of Privacy Act

Annual report, 2004-05 (SP672/05: Tabled) ... Lund
1837

Application to Canadian subsidiaries of U.S. corporations ... Elsalhy 1886; Lund 1886

Application to police radio conversations (Overtime bar case) ... Cenaiko 411

Edmonton Journal request under, re government aircraft manifest information ... Chase 1518–19; Elsalhy
1521; Lund 1521–22; Oberg 1519, 1521

Edmonton Journal request under, re government aircraft manifest information: Public inquiry re ... Oberg
1519, 1521

Enron/Energy dept. correspondence re electricity deregulation request under ... Melchin 1749; Taylor
1749

Environmental information requests under ... Boutilier
1036

Fees ... Elsalhy 1521; Lund 1521–22

General remarks ... Backs 1169; Blakeman 1140;
Cardinal 1169; Chase 57; Haley 58; Hancock 1167;
Lund 1416, 1423; Martin 1166, 1167; Mather 1422;
Miller, R. 257, 1164; Stelmach 1166; Zwozdesky
1164

Liberal opposition requests under, re Enron/Alberta
Energy records (SP189/05: Tabled) ... MacDonald
327

Liberal opposition requests under, re government aircraft manifest information ... Blakeman 53; Eggen 87;
Klein 19; Oberg 42, 53, 87, 122–23

Oil/gas sites reclamation costs, prevention of disclosure of ... Melchin 1519; Swann 1519

Social Housing Corporation sale agreement re land transfer to Fort McMurray, release of information re under ... Fritz 1569; McClellan 1598

Freedom of speech

See Freedom of expression

Freedom to Read Week

Statement re ... Blakeman 25–26

Freestyle ski championships

World Cup moguls winner (Jennifer Heil) ... Lindsay
417

French language—Teaching

Funding for ... Zwozdesky 1126

FRIAA

See Forest Resource Improvement Association of Alberta

Friends of Medicare

Co-sponsor of alternative Calgary health care conference
(Weighing the Evidence) ... Blakeman 1459; Chase
1152; Swann 1468

Long-term care facilities' conditions, news conference re
... Klein 797, 850

Report on P3s in health care projects (Flawed, Failed, Abandoned) (SP302/05: Tabled) ... Chase 653

Friends of the Emergency Room

See Hospitals—Emergency services, "Friends of ..."
volunteers re

Friends of the jubilee auditoria societies

General remarks ... Mar 1484

Friendship centres, Native

See Native friendship centres

- Frontier Economics Inc.
 Report on Project Stanley ... MacDonald 1145; Melchin 1145
 Report on Project Stanley (SP8/05: Tabled) ... Backs 27
- Fryingpan, Randy
See Edmonton Police Service, Randy Fryingpan
 tasing case
- Fuel tax
See Gasoline–Taxation
- Fund-raising, School
See School councils, Fund-raising activities
- Funding envelopes (Postsecondary education)
See Education, Postsecondary–Finance, Funding envelopes
- Funeral Services Regulatory Board, Alberta
See Alberta Funeral Services Regulatory Board
- Funerals–Law and legislation
 General remarks ... Lund 1425; Miller, B. 1425
- Furnace rebate program
 Letter re (SP706/05: Tabled) ... Miller, R. 1891
- Further education councils
See Community learning centres
- Future Fund, Access to the See Access to the Future Fund
- Future leaders program
See Leaders of Tomorrow program
- Galileo (European satellite navigation system)
 General remarks ... Doerksen 1369
- Gambling
 General remarks ... Graydon 1286
- Gambling, Compulsive
 Amount of ... Graydon 1281
 General remarks ... Graydon 1286; Pannu 1284–85, 1285–86
 Level of revenue from ... Graydon 487; Tougas 487
 Research into ... Graydon 1278, 1281, 1286
 Statement re ... Tougas 1888–89
 Youth gambling ... Evans 741; McFarland 741
- Gambling, Compulsive–Treatment
 General remarks ... Graydon 487
- Gambling–Aboriginal reserves
 General remarks ... Graydon 1282; Swann 1282; Tougas 1279
 Revenue from, distribution of ... Graydon 1278
- Gambling–Moral/legal issues
 General remarks ... Chase 1284; Graydon 1286; Pannu 1285; Swann 1282; Tougas 1279–80
- Gambling–Research
See Gambling, Compulsive, Research into
- Gambling industry
See Gaming industry
- Gambling research
See Gambling, Compulsive, Research into
- Gambling summit
See Alberta Lotteries and Gaming Summit (1998)
- Game farming
 BSE disease issue in ... Swann 1221
 Chronic wasting disease issue in ... Bonko 250; Coutts 934; Eggen 933; Horner 250, 288, 456; Klein 288; Prins 456; Swann 288, 1221
 Federal/provincial compensation to ... Horner 258
 General remarks ... Swann 1221
 Public inquiry re ... Bonko 250; Horner 319; Klein 288; Swann 288, 319
 Use of public lands for ... Swann 1221
- Gaming, Dept. of See Dept. of Gaming
- Gaming and Liquor Act
 General remarks ... Graydon 1277
- Gaming and Liquor Commission
See Alberta Gaming and Liquor Commission
- Gaming industry
 Future of ... Tougas 1279–80
 General remarks ... Tougas 1279
 Revenue from ... Chase 1283–84; Graydon 1279, 1281; Pannu 1284–85; Tougas 1279–80
 Revenue from, distribution of ... Graydon 1289; MacDonald 1289
 Revenue from, impact of smoking restrictions on ... Graydon 1279
 Revenue from, relation to oil/gas revenues ... Chase 1283; Tougas 1279
 Revenue from, statement re ... Chase 1744–45
- Gaming industry–British Columbia
 Revenue from ... Tougas 1279–80
- Gaming industry–Nova Scotia
 General remarks ... Graydon 1280
 Policy re, report on ... Tougas 1280
- Gaming Licensing Policy Review
 Lottery fund disbursements, charity-based ... Pannu 1285, 1288
- Gaming Research Council
See Alberta Gaming Research Council
- Gaming Research Institute
See Alberta Gaming Research Institute
- Gaming Summit (1998)
See Alberta Lotteries and Gaming Summit (1998)
- Gang-related crime
 General remarks ... Cenaiko 1148, 1430; Mather 1148
- Gang-related crime–Prevention
 General remarks ... Cenaiko 205, 1148, 1916; Mason 1437; Mather 1148; Miller, B. 16; Pannu 205
 Police intelligence sharing re ... Cenaiko 205, 1916
- Ganwon, Korea, twinning arrangement
See Twinning of cities, provinces, etc., Ganwon, Korea
- Garbage disposal
See Refuse and refuse disposal
- Garbage dumps
See Sanitary landfills
- Garden on Legislature grounds
See Legislature grounds, Memorial garden for Hon. Lois Hole on
- Garden suites
See Senior citizens–Housing, Garden suites
- Gas, Natural
 General remarks ... Melchin 908–09, 910
 Upgrading of See Energy industry, Value-adding/upgrading increase in Use as power source in oil sands production ... Chase 1377; Eggen 1715
- Gas, Natural–Export
 General remarks ... Melchin 922
 Impact on petrochemical industry employment levels ... Mason 572; Melchin 572
- Gas, Natural–Export–United States
 Impact of U.S. energy bill on ... Knight 1310; Melchin 1310

Gas, Natural–Prices

Forecasting of ... Eggen 914; Elsalhy 966; Martin 919;
McClellan 962, 1667; Melchin 909, 915, 921
 General remarks ... McClellan 747; Melchin 916
 Impact on seniors ... Backs 889–90; Hinman 888
 Provincial rebate re See Natural gas rebates
 Residential heating prices, provincial comparison of ...
MacDonald 1670; Melchin 1670

Gas, Natural–Retail sales

General remarks ... MacDonald 912

Gas, Natural–Royalties

[See also Royalty structure (Energy resources)]
 From disputed aboriginal lands ... Calahasen 1503;
Tougas 1503
 General remarks ... Mason 1787; Melchin 922, 1670
 Rebate for gas used as feedstock for nitrogen fertilizer:
 Letter re (SP174/05: Tabled) ... Taft 327
 Relation to gaming revenues ... Chase 1283

Gas, Natural–Supply

General remarks ... Melchin 916

Gas contracts, Residential

See Natural gas contracts, Residential

Gas emissions, Greenhouse

See Greenhouse gas emissions

Gas in coal extraction

See Coal bed methane extraction

Gas industry

General remarks ... Eggen 915; Melchin 922

Gas leak, Innisfail area

See Gas well drilling industry–Safety aspects, Sour gas leak, Innisfail area

Gas leases

See Oil and gas leases

Gas pipelines–Alaska/Northwest Territories thru Alberta

Stripping of natural gas liquids from throughput of ...
Melchin 922

Gas plants

See Gas industry

Gas-produced electric power

See Electric power, Natural gas-produced

Gas rebates

See Natural gas rebates

Gas recovery methods

Research into: Funding for ... McClellan 749

Gas revenue

See Natural resources revenue

Gas well drilling industry

General remarks ... Eggen 915
 In vicinity of urban areas ... Eggen 665, 1033; Melchin
 1828; Swann 1828
 Sour gas blowout ignition study by Bercha Group:
 Memos re (M7/05: Defeated) ... Eggen 664–65;
Melchin 665; Zwozdesky 665
 Sour gas blowout ignition study by Bercha Group:
 Study re (M8/05: Response tabled as SP667/05) ...
Clerk, The 1789; Eggen 665; Melchin 665, 1789;
Zwozdesky 665
 Well applications approved by AEUB, 2001-04
 (M10/05: Defeated) ... Eggen 665–66; Melchin 666;
Zwozdesky 666
 Well applications denied by AEUB, 2001-04 (M9/05: Defeated) ... Eggen 665; Melchin 665; Zwozdesky
 665

Gas well drilling industry–Calgary area

General remarks ... Eggen 915; Melchin 1391, 1742,
 1828; Swann 1391, 1741, 1828

Gas well drilling industry–Safety aspects

General remarks ... Eggen 915; Melchin 910, 1828;
Swann 1828
 Sour gas leak, Innisfail area ... Melchin 1741–42, 1828;
Swann 1741, 1828

Gas well drilling industry–Tomahawk/Drayton Valley area

Safety aspects ... Lindsay 741–42; Melchin 741–42

Gas wells, Abandoned

See Well sites, Abandoned

Gasoline–Taxation

Federal revenue from ... McClellan 1667
 Federal revenue from, transferred to municipalities ...
Magnus 852; Oberg 852, 1085, 1199; Renner 1323

Gasoline storage sites remediation program

See Petroleum tank sites remediation program

Gay couples–Law and legislation

Marriage laws See Same-sex marriage–Law and legislation

Gay/lesbian youth, bullying of

See Bullying–Prevention, Provincial initiatives re: For gay/lesbian youth

GCI Canada

Tobacco industry front groups, website article re
 (SP821/05: Tabled) ... Eggen 2056

Geddes, Marie

[*See also Bethany Long Term Care Centre, Camrose,
 Resident of, hunger strike re conditions in*]

Statement re ... Blakeman 1577

Geiger, Alyse

Recognition of ... Hancock 169; Oberle 169

General Accountants Association of Alberta, Certified

See Certified General Accountants Association of Alberta

General Hospital, Calgary

See Calgary General Hospital

General Revenue Fund

Details by payee, 2003-04 (SP65/05: Tabled) ... *Clerk,
 The* 94; McClellan 94
 Details by payee, 2004-05 (SP657/05: Tabled) ... *Clerk,
 The* 1789; McClellan 1789

Generic drugs–Prices

See Drugs, Generic–Prices

Genocide–Sudan

Statement re ... Swann 1341

Geologists' association

See Association of Professional Engineers, Geologists and Geophysicists of Alberta

Geophysicists' association

*See Association of Professional Engineers, Geologists
 and Geophysicists of Alberta*

George C. King Tower, Calgary

Security concerns ... Cenaiko 616; Fritz 616; Taylor
 616

George Nicholson school

Community use of ... Martin 1270

GHG reduction programs (Federal)

See Greenhouse gas reduction programs (Federal)

Ghost-Waiparous recreation area

Access management plan for ... Coutts 927, 1252, 1573;
Tarchuk 1252

Ghost-Waiparous recreation area (Continued)

Management of use of ... Coutts 1252; Tarchuk 1252
 Off-highway vehicle access to ... Chase 1601; Coutts
 1573–74; Groeneveld 1573; Mar 1601

Gifted children—Education

Funding for ... Flaherty 266
 General remarks ... Lukaszuk 1078, 1080; Zwozdesky
 1078

Giguere, Caroline

Statement re ... Strang 1526

GLA

See Student assessment, Grade level achievement method

Glenbow Museum

General remarks ... Blakeman 1476; Brown 1482; Mar
 1484

Glendale elementary school

Film created by students at: Statement re ... Johnston
 1126–27

Global Charter for Humanity, Women's

See Women's Global Charter for Humanity

Global Gaming Expo, Las Vegas (September 2005)

Minister of Gaming's attendance at ... Graydon 2052;
Tougas 2052

Global positioning systems

Centre of excellence in ... Doerksen 1369

Global warming

See Climate change

Global warming, Kyoto protocol on

See Climate change, Kyoto protocol on

Golden Triangle (Snowmobile trail)

General remarks ... Dunford 744

Gomery inquiry

See Sponsorship scandal (Federal government)

Good Samaritans Society, Hinton

Redesignation of continuing care beds: Petition presented re ... Martin 1918, 1970

Goodman, Dr. Ron

See Spills (Pollution)—Lake Wabamum, CN train derailment: Minister's advisors re

Government

Public participation: Statement re ... Swann 1606

Government accountability

Federal Conservative Party leader's address re (SP526 &
 548/05: Tabled) ... Elsalhy 1632, 1674
 General remarks ... Elsalhy 2010–11; Klein 2011;
McClellan 2011

Government agencies, boards, and commissions

Constitutional law situations in, referred to courts (Bill
 23) ... Stevens 170
 PC party supporters' appointment to ... Elsalhy 1603;
McClellan 1603; Ouellette 1603
 Political appointments to ... Klein 2047–48; Mason
 2047–48; McClellan 2047
 Political appointments to, independent panel to investigate ... Klein 2048; Mason 2048

Government aircraft

Costs ... Eggen 46; Oberg 46
 General remarks ... MacDonald 255
 Policy on usage of ... Chase 18–19; Eggen 45–46;
Klein 18–19; Martin 979, 1091; Oberg 18–19, 45–46, 979, 1094
 Policy on usage of: Review by Auditor General ... Klein
 82

Government aircraft (Continued)

Reduction in number of ... Oberg 41; Taft 41
 Release of flight logs/manifests for ... Blakeman 52–53;
Chase 19, 122–23, 1518–19; Elsalhy 1521; Klein 19;
Lund 1521–22; Miller, R. 257; Oberg 42, 53,
 122–23, 1519, 1521; Taft 42
 Rod Love's trip to Fort McMurray on ... Chase 612;
Klein 82; Oberg 612; Taft 82
 Use for forest fire fighting ... Oberg 1096; VanderBurg
 1096
 Use for Tory leadership campaign purposes ... Oberg
 42; Taft 41

Government appointments

PC party supporters' appointments ... Elsalhy 1603;
Evans 1603; McClellan 1603; Ouellette 1603

Government attorneys

Specialization in child exploitation cases ... Cenaiko 206
 Specialization in gun-related crime cases ... Cenaiko
 1916; Miller, B. 1916
 Training in aboriginal case handling ... Stevens 1233
 Training in domestic violence case handling ... Speech from the Throne 10
 Training in domestic violence case handling: Handbook for ... Jablonski 1918

Government auditing

Prior to elections ... Mather 956

Government auto insurance plan

See Insurance, Automobile, Public plan re

Government automobiles

See Government vehicles

Government bills

See Bills, Government (2005)

Government buildings

See Public buildings

Government cars

See Government vehicles

Government chartered aircraft

Policy on usage of ... Eggen 45–46, 86–87; Martin 979,
 1091; Mason 699; Oberg 45–46, 87, 979, 1094
 Premier's use of ... Chase 160–61; Klein 160–61, 1109;
Mason 1108; Ouellette 161
 Provision of details re ... Mason 691; Oberg 691
 Provision of details re: Documents, April 2001 to Dec.
 2004 (SP358/05: Tabled) ... Clerk, The 957; Oberg
 957

Government computer equipment

Cost savings on ... Ouellette 757
 Costs of ... Martin 757

Government contracts

See Public contracts

Government corporate identity

General remarks ... Klein 1101–02; Taft 1101

Government debt, Municipal—Fort McMurray

See Debts, Public (Municipal government)—Fort McMurray

Government debt, Provincial

See Debts, Public (Provincial government)

Government departments

Communications staff ... Mason 1109
 Control of infrastructure planning/funding ... Chase
 1086–87
 Number of ... Elsalhy 773, 953; Hinman 761, 762;
MacDonald 759; Martin 756; Ouellette 773, 953
 Renaming of ... Chase 755
 Restructuring of ... Hinman 1599; McClellan 1599

Government efficiency

General remarks ... Ady 763; Blakeman 753–54, 760; Chase 755–56; DeLong 758; Eggen 694–95; Elsalhy 763, 773, 804, 953–54; Goudreau 761; Hinman 761–62, 1599; MacDonald 759–60; Martin 756–57; McClellan 1599; Ouellette 691, 695, 751–63, 773, 804, 953–54; Pastoor 691; Taylor 757–58

Monitoring of ... Martin 756; Ouellette 751, 754

Government Efficiency department

See Dept. of Restructuring and Government Efficiency

Government employees—Alberta—Salaries

See Wages—Public service employees

Government fees

See Fees, Government

Government grants to municipalities

See Municipal finance, Government grants

Government information

Access to [See also Alberta Connects (Government information initiative)]; Elsalhy 1103–04; Klein 1100–01; Lund 1425; Ouellette 751–52

Access to, through MLAs' offices ... Miller, B. 1425

Access to, through registry offices ... Lund 1416, 1419

On-line provision of ... Ouellette 751

Government information systems

Security aspects ... Blakeman 754; DeLong 758; Johnston 413; Ouellette 413, 755, 758–59

Security aspects: Improvement of employee awareness of (Q18/05: Defeated) ... Elsalhy 812–13; Ouellette 812

Government investments

See Investment of public funds

Government lawyers

See Government attorneys

Government motions

See Resolutions (2005)

Government of Alberta

