Ms Notley: Thank you. I appreciate your indulgence. There were just a few more points that I wanted to make that I didn't get a chance to finish up on when I last spoke. I want to talk just a little bit about some of the things that we would have done or that we thought were important in terms of what should have been included in this budget. I spoke already a little bit about some of the challenges that students in the postsecondary education system face, but I also want to just talk a little bit about the infrastructure maintenance program.

You know, I think it was in their comprehensive institutional plan, that was released in January, that at that time the U of A noted that although there had been a little bit of a reinvestment into their infrastructure maintenance, in order to avoid catastrophic failure – catastrophic failure – of some of their building systems, they needed all of the infrastructure maintenance program funding, which had been cut a couple of years prior to that, to be reinvested. So that's a problem. I mean, it's not technically in my riding, but it's immediately adjacent to my riding. A lot of people that I know attend and work at the U of A, and I am disconcerted by the notion of catastrophic failure of some of their infrastructure. That's something that the government ought to have invested in.

Another thing that I'm concerned about within the budget is the issue of seniors' drug benefits. Now, last year the government announced that it was going to cut, I believe it was, about $130 million, if anyone wants to correct me, from seniors' drug benefits by restructuring the program. Then after much consultation and then more consultation and additional consultation – it was good that they did that, but perhaps I would have suggested that they do that beforehand – they decided not to move ahead as quickly.

8:40

Then in this budget we found a $120 million budget cut, which they claim can be reached simply by the conversion to generic drugs. I believe that was the explanation for that. I'm a little bit worried that, in fact, what we might really be seeing here is that the government has set a target to reduce the costs or the benefits associated with seniors' drug benefits and that they're going to get to it one way or the other. That's very much a concern of mine, and I'm not happy that that is included in the budget.

You know, I talked a bit about child poverty and poverty reduction, but one thing – and I didn't have the chance to look at my notes – is that we have roughly 400,000 Albertans who live in poverty, Madam Chair. That's 400,000. Some people, some institutions, estimate that that very fact of people living in poverty actually costs roughly $7 billion a year to the system with the increased demand on our public services. Now, we spend about $40 billion a year. Imagine if you could eliminate a lot of that poverty and reduce that $7 billion pressure on our system. There is actually – dare I say it? – a cost-benefit analysis to the notion of reducing poverty, not in a social impact bonds kind of way because those are scary for a whole schvack of other reasons, but generally speaking, in a good governance kind of way, you could see long-term savings by investing in a reduction of the gap between rich and poor in this province.

Another thing that I wanted to just talk about was that I had said that there was a billion dollar Health windfall and that the government was spending $750 million. I think that it was actually more that there was a $1.3 billion windfall from the federal Ministry of Health to Alberta and that they'd only allocated $600 million of those dollars into the health system. We're short about $600 million or $700 million that should have also been allocated to the health system.

You know, what would we have done with that to deal with the front-line services in our health system, to improve that? Well, we could have invested in quality public long-term care beds for our seniors. We know that the absence of properly staffed, high-level care long-term care beds is what is backing up our emergency rooms. That is as true now as it was two years ago as it was four years ago as it was whenever we raised the issue. In fact, we also know that the number of long-term care beds is not only not keeping pace with our population, but that, in fact, they are being reduced and, theoretically, replaced with these notional little supportive living, pay-out-of-your-pocket kinds of scenarios that the government is orchestrating in order to enhance creeping and/or jogging privatization.

That's wrong. Bad management. It will cost taxpayers more. It will make more money for these guys' friends in long-term care or, you know, supportive living, but it certainly overall will not benefit the majority of Albertans. I mean, it's a constant thing. We're all MLAs here. We all have people come and tell us what's wrong. I can't imagine that there's a single MLA here who hasn't heard about the many problems and shortcomings of our long-term care system. I mean, come on. We could have invested some of the money into that.

We could have, as I said, reduced the costs of prescription drugs borne by seniors and low-income Albertans. We could have looked at the issue of providing more resources to mental health care. It's a travesty the way we provide mental health care in this province, and every study that's been undertaken shows that we are probably the most poorly performing province in the country when it comes to providing a well-planned and thoroughly managed system around mental health care.

These are some of the things that that $600 million is not being allocated to in health care even though it came from the federal government for health care, what it could have gone towards. I think that even at his most offensive the Minister of Health could not avoid admitting that there is a great deal that could be improved in our health care system.

When I ran out of time to speak last time, I was talking about PDD and the community access supports. Of course, that was the area last year that received the $45 million cut. Then, you know, we saw some of that money go back in this year, but ultimately it hasn't all gone back. I've been meeting with families, I've been meeting with service providers, I've been meeting with service recipients, and what I'm hearing is a very different story than what the government has been telling people.

What I'm hearing is that, you know, the SIS assessments are being applied and that in many cases it's resulting in reduced services. Although the government has said, "Oh, well, no; your SIS can be appealed," they're unable to tell us how many have been appealed and how many have been reviewed and what the outcomes of those appeals are. Why? Because there are no actual appeals going on. Meanwhile I'm hearing from people who have filed 15, 16 appeals, and they still haven't heard back from the government a year afterwards. So the fact of the matter is that "you can appeal" was one of those talking points that was thrown out the door last summer when they were in crisis, but it's not something that they followed up on. That all comes down to cost, and the outcome is that these very, very vulnerable Albertans receive less funding.

Dr. Swann: Sounds similar to the children dying in care scenario.

Ms Notley: It's very similar to the children dying in care scenario, the Member for Calgary-Mountain View points out.

On the flip side, with respect to the administration of PDD, you know, we have this money that the government is kicking out the door. More power to you. Thank you for doing it. It's good. I approve of this money that's going out there to help ever so slightly ameliorate the gross wage gap that exists with respect to people that work on the front line and most of these nonprofit agencies providing these important social services. The problem is that we are not consistently auditing whether that money is actually going to the employee.

I asked about this last year, and I was told: "Oh, no, no. We know for sure it's going to the employees." But I have then since spoken with a number of different service providers and then spoke to a different minister about it. In fact, it appears to me that we are not consistently auditing whether the employees are actually getting this money and that that varies from organization to organization to organization whether or not that wage increase actually went to the employees. In fact, the Disability Workers Association did a survey which suggested that almost half of their members did not receive the full increase in their salary that was to have been reflected by that budget increase. While the money being committed to that project is a good thing, the administration and the follow-up does not appear to be happening, and that is a problem.

Madam Chair, this is a matter that I think would be of some interest to you, which is, you know, going back to this issue: what would we spend the money on if we had a proper revenue collection system?

The other issue, of course, is the Michener Centre. We have no business closing Michener Centre right now. We have no business throwing those vulnerable, vulnerable Albertans out on the street or into whatever inappropriate, quasi-long-term care setting may be found for them. We have no business disrupting their lives at this late time in their lives, when they are so incredibly fragile. We have no business breaking the promise that was made originally to the families of these vulnerable, vulnerable Albertans. Yeah, it's going to cost the government a little bit more money to keep the Michener Centre open until everybody has aged out of that centre, but that is the humane thing to do.

The fact that it was the humane thing to do is what underlay the original promise not to force people out. It's the departure and the disconnect between this government's current leadership and the notion of what is the humane thing to do which is driving this decision. That's one of the things that I would absolutely correct if, you know, we were trying to figure out what to do with the money that came from a proper and fair taxation system. Let me tell you: that's something that goes without saying.

Those are a few of the issues and concerns that I have with this budget. It's not exhaustive, but I feel that I have managed to touch on some of those that are most important to my critic areas. I'm certain, of course, that the government will come – well, I guess they can't even procedurally come rushing in with amendments. Anyway, this is another number of points about why I don't think it is in the best interests of Albertans for us to support this budget.

Thank you.

8:50

The Deputy Chair: Thank you, hon. member.

Are there any other members? The hon. Member for Calgary-Buffalo.

Mr. Hehr: Well, thank you very much, Madam Chair. I know I'm speaking again on the appropriation bill, Bill 8. While the hon. member was talking, it brought to mind many things that, in my view, Alberta, with a proper revenue stream, could be doing a lot better. Primarily my comments are going to be based around our education system, our K through 12 education system, and where we've seen it go since the baseline year of '08-09, when we actually had a reckoning of sorts, where we recognized that we would no longer be having predictable, sustainable funding to go forward given our revenue streams.

I'll go back to that time. That was the year we started running deficit budgets. Now we've run six consecutive deficit budgets. Although the government goes to great pains to say that this is a balanced budget, I think anyone who looks at it under the auspices of the old accounting mechanism can clearly see that this is a deficit budget and that fundamentally the province is sinking into debt. That's a direct result of our fiscal structure or lack thereof.

But I'm getting sidetracked a little bit. Let me go back to the comments of what a reasonable fiscal structure would do to support kids in K through 12 education. If you look at the Alberta Teachers' Association, they put out a graph where since '08-09 we have added about 50,000 students to our K through 12 education system – that's just in the last three years – and in that time we have seen only an additional 120 or so teachers be hired into the system. Clearly and in no uncertain terms, if we had kept the same ratio of teachers to students that we had even in '08-09, we would be seeing far greater numbers of teachers hired in our classrooms. This would allow kids to get more help learning their reading, writing, and arithmetic, more time for them to spend being creative and to get the assistance they need, more time to look at problems of the world they're going to be solving or actually work to get them engaged in becoming learners instead of becoming just another number in a classroom.

These are real lives that we're affecting by our refusal to get a handle on our fiscal structure in some form or fashion in this province. It has real outcomes, where you have kids now in classrooms that are bursting at the seams. You know, if you look at the numbers that are coming in, they're going up, up, and up throughout our system. Clearly, this does not lead to optimal learning conditions for our students. That's a direct result of us not getting a handle on our fiscal structure.

The other side of the education front in our K through 12 system is that we have not kept up with the building of schools in this province. Even with the promise of 50 schools and 70 modernizations in the last election, even if that promise were able to be fulfilled, with the addition of students coming into this province, like I've said, at the rate of 50,000 in the past three years – we're going to add 50,000 or more in the next three – with the numbers we come up with, we'd actually need approximately 86 new schools if we were going to keep up with population growth in this province. That's 86 schools from where we were at the last election to where we need to be by 2016. Clearly, although the hon. Infrastructure minister begs to differ with me on this point, I see no possible way that these schools can be built by 2016.

Simply put, here we are at – what is it? – April 2014, and there are no shovels in the ground, in fact, no concrete plans in place, no money transferred to various boards, no finalization of who's going to be building schools, what mechanism the schools are going to be built by, and the like. For us to think in Alberta at this time that schools are going to be built in a year and a half, well, I just don't think so. I just find it . . .

Dr. Swann: Are you skeptical?

Mr. Hehr: Yeah. I'm more than skeptical. You know, to have these 50 schools built is a virtual impossibility. If we had a reasonable revenue system in this province, we would have been able immediately after the 2012 election to move to building those schools, you know, move to actually getting schools in neighbourhoods where kids live. That would be something. It would eliminate busing times. It would eliminate all sorts of things. It would encourage kids to be healthier because they wouldn't have to ride on the bus. You'd be dealing with a whole host of problems and a whole host of things that kids and communities need that would make Alberta truly a great place to live. It'd be more than just a place to have a job on Monday morning. It'd be a place where you could have a school in your neighbourhood. Those are real, tangible things that we are missing here at this time.

It's not like we're overtaxed. I pointed out that, you know, by and large, we're the lowest taxed jurisdiction by a country mile. I think at this point in time we should learn that contributing to the public purse allows us to have that sense of community, allows us to have our kids educated in a reasonable fashion, allows our kids to have schools in neighbourhoods where they live. These are real things that are missing in our education system.

I know I brought up earlier another component of that, not having a reasonable fiscal structure. This government wasn't able to follow through on the former Premier's promise of delivering kindergarten. You know, in my view, this is a thing that our children are missing out on as a result of us not having a reasonable, fixed fiscal structure. I'm not even going to get into saving some of this oil wealth for the future. That's important too, but really we've got to get a handle where conservatives in this province understand that a conservative philosophy is paying for what you use in taxes. I for the life of me don't understand how two right-wing parties don't get that, that that is somehow unreasonable. Instead they believe that spending all the oil wealth in one generation is somehow fiscally prudent. It's just fiscal nonsense, Madam Chair. It's the furthest thing – it's folly, and we still haven't learned that at this stage.

By pointing out those examples in our education system, there are real people. We're impacting kids' futures. I've got to keep talking here because I forgot about this. You know, Madam Chair, probably in Red Deer you have a great deal of kids coming to this province, because their parents do jobs in our oil and gas industry, from a great many jurisdictions throughout the world. English is their second language, and over the course of the last three years we've gone from funding kids as English language learners from seven years to five years. This is clearly not in their best interests for the long run.

9:00

As a result of us not being able to follow through on that, on getting kids the ability to best learn English as well as they can at a very difficult time – you know, all the research indicates that it's very difficult to learn a second language when you move past your fourth birthday to a new country and to be able to get up to developing a depth of vocabulary necessary to fully achieve your full potential. The evidence is clear on this, but at least when we had seven years, we were actually trying to do the best we could. I think the move back to five years of funding for English language learning sets us up for a generation now of us having kids, who will then be adults, who will not be succeeding as well as they could be.

Dr. Swann: Or contributing.

Mr. Hehr: Or contributing. You're right. It's going to have problems later down the line.

Again, thank you, Madam Chair. This allowed me to get up and show, again, what a reasonable fiscal structure would allow us to do. It would allow us to live better today as well as, hopefully, save some oil wealth for the future, when, sure enough, the world has moved on.

Thank you very much, Madam Chair.

The Deputy Chair: Thank you, hon. member.

The hon. Member for Calgary-Mountain View.

Dr. Swann: Thanks very much, Madam Chair. I was speaking earlier about the fundamental roles of government, and I skipped over one that I feel badly about because it's a pretty critical one that others have commented on. I commented on the role of government being to provide leadership through fair laws, services, oversight, and a stable resource base, to protect people and the environment for the long term. In doing so, I described stewardship of resources and a longer term energy future. I talked about a fair revenue stream to provide stable, consistent funding for our essential services and vulnerable populations. I talked about protecting the environment, and I talked about infrastructure and public services. I neglected to mention the role of providing a funding situation that deals with the large and growing economic disparity in our province.

It's no news, I don't think, to anybody here that the rich are getting richer and the poor are getting poorer and that this is a recipe for not only increasing problems in our economy because more and more people are not contributing as they could and are actually draining the system, but it creates a failure of our humanity, let me say, a failure to help those who should be reaching their potential, the resources and the opportunities to meet that potential.

I'm speaking to some extent about poverty and child poverty, very specifically. It distresses me to no end that this government is unwilling to define poverty, especially child poverty, and therefore refuses to hold themselves accountable for failing to meet any indicators of progress in reducing child poverty. A sustainable economic plan, a budget that is worthy of the term "budget," a government that's worthy of the term "leadership" would not be ignoring the growing poverty, the income gap, the growing challenges we're seeing in learning problems, social problems, mental health problems in children, many of which are eminently preventable. If there's anything that characterizes this government, it's penny wise, pound foolish. They are not willing to look at the huge costs of ignoring poverty and inequity in this province.

The report a year ago from the poverty reduction strategy in Calgary, called the cost of poverty, very realistically looked at numbers in relation to poverty in general and costed it out at $7 billion a year. That's about a fifth of our budget, and that is not only economic loss; it is human potential loss. We are condemning families to return to the cycle of poverty. By the lack of vision and the lack of investment in prevention we are contributing to massive future costs and loss of human potential.

The Perry preschool study of 30 years ago. Cheryl Perry was a great child researcher out of the U.S., who followed children, especially disadvantaged children, for 30 years and showed very persuasively that an investment of $1 in childhood in a disadvantaged family returns $7 over the course of 30 years in terms of learning disabilities, emotional disabilities, behavioural problems, criminal justice issues, joblessness, employment problems, mental health issues.

It is a travesty of leadership when a government refuses to invest in its children. We continue to see growing numbers of children, up to 91,000 children, now living in poverty and a government that refuses to address it. They made some nominal promises in the 2012 leadership that seem to have fallen by the wayside. No sign of their commitment to child poverty in this budget and a clear default on their commitment to their oft-used phrase of "children first." It's beyond reproachable that this government continues to say that children are first and watch on the sidelines as growing numbers of children are faced with not only intellectual disabilities but economic loss to our society.

Poverty costs through other dimensions when we don't invest, and this budget itself fails to address prevention in other areas of life as well. I'm most familiar, of course, Madam Chair, with the health care system, where we have made no significant improvements in our investments in prevention and wellness. A particular group, chronic disease prevention, and the wellness foundation proposal that's been on the table for at least two years continues to wither, and this government continues to find ways to ignore what is a fundamental commitment of any advanced government, and that is investment in primary prevention.

We know, for example, that early intervention in mental health challenges in families and in children, in indications of behavioural problems and addictions can yield tremendous, cost-effective results. Basic elements of reducing risk in people involve not only education but community capacity development and recognizing that education is a foundation of prevention, not only formal education but life skills and helping young people and, especially, new Canadians who are struggling with new culture and new challenges and new language and must have a serious investment in their development. Education has to be foundational for that.

Again, as my colleague from Calgary-Buffalo indicated, a sustained investment in English as a second language and work with individuals who are still struggling to find their way in life, their career path, their language skills, whatever it is, is worth so much more when this is clearly a commitment to getting them to a particular level of functioning, where they can become self-sufficient. They can contribute not only in their career but also in their tax contributions.

9:10

Again, it's a surprise that after this many years in government we see an actual default again. With a recognition that with the resources we have and the security we have as a province, now is the time to invest in prevention. There are huge payoffs. Monetary, human potential, tax, long-term community well-being, criminal justice system, mental health issues: all of these things benefit when we bring in the revenues and distribute them in a way that will maximize our human potential.

That's all I needed to add, Madam Chair. This is a budget that really is just holding the line, continuing a tradition of short-term thinking, an emphasis on corporate advantage, minimal savings, and a lack of vision for a future that is going to be very different than the present in terms of energy, in terms of our environmental challenges, and in terms of the lost human potential that we continue to ignore in budgets such as this.

I'll take my seat and let someone else speak to this budget, which I'm sure the government is now seeing is unacceptable and will also vote against themselves.

Thank you, Madam Chair.

The Deputy Chair: Thank you, hon. member.

Are there any other members who wish to speak? The hon. Member for Edmonton-Beverly-Clareview.

Mr. Bilous: Well, thank you very much, Madam Chair. I'm pleased to rise and continue where I left off earlier. I know that all the members of the House were quite disappointed when the bells went at 6 o'clock and I had to finish early. I'm sure they're all very excited to hear what I have to say. Part of what I have to say actually fits with where I was.

With this budget I think it's disappointing for a number of reasons. There's been some talk about some of the programs and services that have been cut, the PC government's inaction on eliminating child poverty, doing next to nothing, nothing in this budget for that. We're already coming up to the halfway point. It just seems like this will be another broken promise, something that we've become too familiar with with this PC government ruling the province.

One of the areas that has been starved for decades, Madam Chair, is the infrastructure around the province. You know, when I talk about infrastructure, I talk about the long-term maintenance, that is often deferred. In fact, in budget estimates the Minister of Infrastructure made a comment about how maintenance is always the first thing that gets taken off the table because you can continually defer it. It's the easiest thing to defer. However, I would argue that you might be able to defer it quite easily in one given year, but you continue to do that, and you're actually paying more in the long run. Our friends over in Edmonton public have forecasted I believe a billion dollar deficit by 2025 – does that sound accurate? – which is absolutely absurd.

Where I was tonight was listening to some very frustrated parents in a situation where they have to accept three school closures in order to get one new school in their mature neighbourhood. [interjection] I'm not quite sure why the member was banging on his desk.

Mr. Eggen: He was banging his head against the desk.

Mr. Bilous: Ah, okay. I was going to say that the parents aren't necessarily excited about school closures.

But the point of it is that schools should be invested in. They are a hub of the community, and it's quite frustrating that communities are being forced, especially in mature neighbourhoods, to accept closures. I find it quite frustrating.

Of course, everyone loves shiny new schools with the fanciest of equipment. But let me tell you that some of the points that the parents brought up were very, very significant. I mean, the fact that in some of these older schools they already have the Smart boards and the technology, so questions are about: what are the new bells and whistles that will come with the new school? I can tell you, Madam Chair, that some of the most passionate speeches were about the value of small community schools, of parents being able to allow their kids to walk to school, knowing their neighbours, knowing the teachers, knowing all the kids in the school, all of them being on a first-name basis, kids not having to spend hours on a bus every day going to and from their school. The frustration is that – well, let me first say that one of the parents asked: was it the Edmonton public school board that decided that three schools needed to close in order to get one new one? Gladly I responded, and the answer, quite frankly, was: no, it wasn't the school board; this is a decision by this PC government and an arbitrary one at that. I asked the Education minister where the 3 to 1 ratio came from. Why not 1 to 1? Why not 2 to 1? Why 3 to 1? So a very valid question.

Again, going right back to this bill and to this budget, Madam Chair, this year's budget is not increasing as far as Education goes. I mean, it's increasing to cover only population and inflation, and I don't even know if it covers that much. As I pointed out earlier, last month in our fabulous province here the inflation and population numbers – of course, I'm going to struggle to find it right now. The inflation rate in March surged to 3.9 per cent. That's almost double the Canadian inflation rate and the highest of any other province in this country. So a hold-the-line budget is really a budget that is cutting. It's cutting into core services that Albertans depend upon.

You know, it makes me sad, the thought of any school having to close. I can appreciate looking at creative ways of keeping schools open, but, again, when you defer maintenance for years and years and decades and then claim that Alberta is debt free, I mean, really, all you've done is taken the numbers off your books. Just take a look at the integrity of our schools, our hospitals, our roads, our bridges. I believe it was last fall that the Auditor General did an audit on the integrity of our bridges. It was appalling, Madam Chair, the fact that we don't even know the condition of about a third of our bridges around the province. We don't know how the inspections were done. Most of the inspections were done by inspectors who weren't even licensed. We don't know if they spent two minutes on a bridge or 24 hours.

I mean, this kind of data is crucial if we and Albertans are to have faith and trust that the infrastructure in this province is up to code, is up to standard, and is going to be there for them. We saw what happened in Montreal when one of their bridges collapsed. God forbid that we experience something similar here in Alberta. The scary part, Madam Chair, again, is that as long as we continue to defer maintenance, especially in the crucial areas, it is possible that something like what happened in Montreal could happen here.

You know, my colleague from Edmonton-Calder and I were talking in the past few weeks about the state of many of the seniors' facilities in this province and the fact of the tragedy that struck in Quebec, where a seniors' home went up in flames. Questions we were asking: do our seniors' homes here in Alberta have the appropriate systems in place, and do they have sprinklers? Again, months ago I was assured by a minister that $31 million last year was earmarked for seniors' homes modernizations. You know, the sad truth, Madam Chair, is that a fraction, a pittance, of that $31 million actually went toward retrofitting seniors' homes with sprinkler systems. So the outcome is that we have many seniors around this province in unsafe homes should an emergency erupt. I mean, this government should be ashamed, again, living in the province that we do, putting the lives of seniors, the very folks who built this province, at risk and in jeopardy because either this government is too cheap to invest in their lives and their safety or they're just incompetent, you know. Or is it oversight?

9:20

In this year's budget we've been calling for dollars earmarked specifically to ensure that our seniors' residences have sprinkler systems. I mean, the NDP was calling for flashing strobes as well should an emergency occur. There are many seniors who are either hard of hearing or cannot hear, so your traditional alarm bells wouldn't actually alert them to an emergency when it's happening.

You know, Madam Chair, it truly is disappointing, especially when you talk to seniors. They're struggling to make ends meet. It seems like they're falling further and further behind. Again, Alberta leads the country in inflation. Staying on the seniors issue, the problem is that their fixed incomes are not rising at the pace of inflation and population growth, so they are sliding backwards. The purchasing power of their dollar is shrinking daily. There should have been dollars in this budget earmarked for that, and we should ensure that we're taking care of our seniors.

You know, on that note, we've got a significant number of folks who are retiring, who are becoming seniors, and who are going to be in need of beds and facilities. There is a serious shortage in this province. We've got many seniors tying up beds in hospitals because there simply aren't available accommodations for them either in their community or anywhere. Obviously, Madam Chair, you understand that what that does is that it backs up even further a system that's already backed up.

Again, as I pointed out earlier with this budget, on the one hand the government will say: "Oh, no. We need to tighten our belts. We need to cut back on spending. We can't work to eliminate child poverty, we can't help our seniors to afford to live in this province, we cannot help our young people go to postsecondary, but we can afford expensive flights or penthouse suites or corporate welfare for some of the largest multinationals that are making significant profits every quarter."

I'd like to remind the House that the Alberta NDP was the only party during the 2012 election that had in our platform a reduction in the small-business tax. We would have reduced it by a third. We understand that small businesses really are what drive the Alberta economy. But, again, instead of helping out the little guy, this government is interested in returning the favour of the bigger corporations, the ones that help them get elected election after election. You know, it's quite frustrating.

Albertans are asking: why is this the case? Why are we seeing cuts to PDD? Why aren't we seeing a stronger investment in education, in health care, in the services that many Albertans need? Quite frankly, Madam Chair, I shake my head and say: you know, this province has a $43 billion yearly budget. We're told that we can't afford one thing, but, hey, there's more than a billion dollars for an unproven, unfounded technology: carbon capture and storage. We've got a billion to throw there. But you want a new seniors' home? Sorry. We want to reduce our class sizes: "No, no, no. You've got to deal with more students in the classroom." Albertans, quite frankly, are quite tired, and they don't believe what this government is trying to sell. They're not buying anymore.

Again, government should respond to the citizens and not the other way around. I think it's quite clear that this government is completely out of touch with Albertans, with Albertans' priorities. So again the tale of two Albertas continues, where there's one set of standards for 5 per cent – maybe 5 per cent is too high – maybe for 3 per cent of the Alberta population, and the other 97 per cent have to deal with less and make their dollar stretch even further.

Madam Chair, you know, the government could and should be doing much more. I look forward to hearing what some of my colleagues have to say on the budget and possibly having the opportunity to share a few more of my thoughts.

Thank you, Madam Chair.

The Deputy Chair: Thank you, hon. member.

Are there others? The hon. Member for Peace River.

Mr. Oberle: I move that we rise and report, Madam Chair. [interjections]

Mr. Campbell: Point of clarification, Madam Chair. If we're not allowed to rise and report, then we'll let the Member for Edmonton-Calder speak, and then we'll finish.

The Deputy Chair: The hon. Member for Edmonton-Calder.

Mr. Eggen: All right. Well, that's great. You know, in the spirit of that decision, I'm going to take off my jacket. I wanted to show my new shirt that I got as well. Very expensive.

Ms Notley: Was it very expensive?

Mr. Eggen: It was very expensive, yes.

Ms Notley: Was it like $40,000?

Mr. Eggen: No, no, no. It's not that expensive.

You know, we always talk about different areas of spending and so forth, but I think it's important for us to recognize as well the importance and the opportunity that we have before us here to actually balance this budget. We don't have many opportunities like this. We've just toured around the province, the Alberta New Democrats, and from north to south and east to west we found that the economy, lo and behold, in each of these places is doing very well, thank you very much. The population is growing very well, too. So what's the problem with balancing the budget?

We know as well that there's lots of wasteful spending that we see inside this budget, and there are ways by which we can adjust the revenue to make it all come out to zero. I think that in a modern, industrial society, where we are, in fact, one of the world's leading energy producers, we have a responsibility to balance the budget when we can. I mean, you're not always able to do that, right? Certainly, you don't do it at the expense of the essential services which we are responsible for. But, you know, considering everything here in 2014 – take a look around the world – we have a capacity to actually balance the budget or approach balancing the budget here in the province of Alberta. I just wanted to bring that up. We often lend so much of that space over to other people talking about balanced budgets and so forth. We used to even have a law about balancing the budget here. I seem to recall that. I don't know what happened to that law.

9:30

You know, the other side of it, too, is where we, I think, don't apply a very careful eye, right? You guys are supposed to be doing this – what is it? – continuous, revolutionary budget making. Is that what it's called? No. It's results-based budgeting. That's what it is – right? – where you just keep on budgeting till the cows come home, and the cows come back and you're still budgeting.

[Mr. Jeneroux in the chair]

I mean, how the heck did you miss that you didn't balance the budget during that continuous, revolutionary process that you seemed to engage in over there? I mean, really. How did you miss, for example, all of this crazy spending in Alberta Health Services? I mean, that's where 40 per cent of our budget goes. Yes, we need to make investments in health care, but you have to do it smart, right? This whole business about giving these wild bonuses to executives and creating this culture of entitlement there, you know, is not just bad politics and is not just bad management, but you actually end up wasting money as well as a result of doing so, and you can't trace it. It's very important to have auditing procedures in place so that you know where the money is going and whether or not you're meeting your goals. Really, there's a flip side to it, and that is that we should and can balance budgets here in the province of Alberta.

You know, I had a friend visit me from England. He is from here originally, but he said: the simple fact from the outside looking in that (a) you do not take your nonrenewable resources, your revenue, and invest it in a renewable energy economy and (b) the fact that you don't balance your budget in the province of Alberta are inexcusable administrative and political oversights that a government should pay for. And I said: "Well, you know what? This time, my friend, I think the government really is going to pay for this. For sure. We just have to wait for the next election."

[Mrs. Jablonski in the chair]

You know, it's just a good reminder, right? We always used to have the PCs across the way dancing in front of us, jumping up and down and doing all of these sort of calisthenics about how they balanced the budget and they have a law and la-di-da. Well, they sure as heck don't do that now. You know why? Because they don't collect the revenue that they're supposed to, and they don't have a finger on where the best investment is and the best return on investment is, right? You know, if you make an investment in human capital by investing in young people and education, by investing in preventive medicine and investing in ways by which people could be secure for the future with their pensions and so forth, then you get the value-added from one dollar of public expenditure that ends up as a $7 or $14 investment in the future, like when you're talking about early childhood education and so forth.

You know, I just go back to this idea that we misuse language so often in this Chamber, right? People talk about choice, and the subtext of choice here so often is really choosing that people just end up not getting the public services that they need. Yeah, sure. Rich people can choose to go to a private school or to a private hospital or so forth, but there are not very many people that can actually do that. So the choice is really no choice if you're the vast majority of Albertans, who live in a place where we make the best benefit from investing in a public institution that we all own together, that social investment in the public interest. That's what I got a leg up on, that's what my family got a leg up on, and I sure as heck am not going to pull that out from the next generation of people who could use that opportunity to make a good life, a secure life for themselves and for their families here.

So let's try to remember that. Let's remember those first principles when we try to do the next budget. I know the next budget will be a lot closer to or maybe right before an election, so that always gets everybody all excited about spending more money. But let's collect the money so that (a) we balance the budget on revenues that we do have, that we just let slip through our fingers like sand right now, and (b) that we make the proper investment in the public service, right?

You know, when I look at this budget, Bill 8, there's an inordinate amount of money that comes from very peculiar places like lotteries, say, for example. While the lotteries have provided lots of good funding for community projects and stuff like that, I can't help but think it's a bit of a scam – right? – because here we are going to these casinos when we volunteer for our community leagues or soccer teams and whatever, and we just kind of stand there while they run the casino themselves. I mean, it feels like we're just the front people for a casino operation, like we're running a Las Vegas thing here but that, oh, yeah; we're going to get mom and dad to go down and watch them count the money for eight hours.

Now they want to move that process, some of the tables and so forth, and want to have them open to 4 o'clock in the morning – right? – which is a huge blow to the regular folks that have to go and, you know, watch the people play casino and count the money and all of that kind of thing. I mean, that whole idea of using community – if we need the money for our community leagues and so forth, let's just distribute it in an equitable way and not go through this facade of watching people gamble and watching people ruin their lives on the VLTs – right? – and then collect the money at 4:30 in the morning and lose all of that sleep over it.

I mean, really, that's a part of this bill, again, that I find objectionable, quite frankly. It's the inordinate amount of revenue that we are required to bring in through our lotteries to run basic services. The whole thing just doesn't make sense to me, right? Really, if you attach the lottery money to health care and mental health, then you've got this cycle and circle going on just like, you know, the way we use taxation for cigarettes, right? People go through the health care system and they have a mental health problem that manifests itself in VLTs, and then around and around we go, right? What kind of racket is that, Madam Chair, really? So I think we could do a lot better with that.

You know, there are places that just pop out at me, and I just wanted to get up and make some quick mention of this. I know that the people of Alberta want us to pass a responsible budget, and I certainly want to exercise that responsibility in the best possible way. I'm particularly annoyed about this whole pension thing. I just find it unbelievable that we would actually do that. I mean, sure, we can reform and build and strengthen our public pensions and everyone's pensions over time. Certainly, there are lots of people that don't even have proper pensions in this province, Madam Chair, and that's a problem, right? But you don't do it by attacking other pensions. I mean, that's just so crazy, right? I think that we should put more money into the mental health part of our health care thing because, obviously, we're seeing some exhibitions of abhorrent behaviour right here in this Chamber when we're talking about these pensions, and I don't like that at all.

Anyway, that's just a couple of points that I wanted to bring up, Madam Chair, that (a) let's go back to brass tacks and talk about the way that I balance my budget in my family and that we make sure that we cover the bases and we look after health care and the basic services that we need in our family. I know that that's not something that you directly translate to 4 million people and $43 billion, but in the province of Alberta the fact that we don't balance our budget here in 2014 I find quite embarrassing.

Thank you.

The Deputy Chair: Thank you, hon. member.

Are there any other members that wish to speak in Committee of the Whole on Bill 8? The hon. Member for Edmonton-Beverly-Clareview.

Mr. Bilous: Thank you, Madam Chair. I'm quite pleased to rise and continue with my thoughts on this budget, and I'm thankful how attentive the members are this evening. I'm going to start with or go back to what I spoke a little bit about earlier, where I was at a meeting where communities are forced to have to accept a potential school closure in their community in order to get a new school.

You know, something that I didn't touch on earlier, that is really important, I think, was a motion that was made in here, Madam Chair. But the discussion needs to take place as far as the fact that when a new school is built, there's nothing requiring the builder, the developers to do anything whatsoever when it comes to playgrounds or to ensuring that kids have that space. Something that was raised this evening is that wherever this new school happens to go, whether it's in the Coronation area or the Highlands area or the Beverly area, would this new school get a playground, or are parents on the hook for having to fund raise for that?

9:40

Again, playgrounds aren't cheap, Madam Chair, even to refurbish an existing playground. It's a valid question and something that, again, the Alberta NDP would support. You know, there are many creative ways to levy dollars to ensure that there is a space for children. Again this an example where the government can say: well, it will add that much more to the price tag. Yes, it would be an additional cost to the government and to taxpayers, but there is a case to be made for the value of exercise and play and how that helps children in their development, learning about co-operation and working with each other, learning how to be a good – what’s the word I’m looking for? If you lose at a game, but you lose with integrity, you can say: yes, I lost, but I’m a good sport about it.

There are the health benefits of ensuring that our kids are getting as much exercise as they need. I believe that in our province the challenge of obesity is on the rise. Again, you know, part of the way to combat that, Madam Chair, obviously, is ensuring that kids get enough exercise.

The issue of playgrounds is one that was brought up in estimates. I did follow up because it was a private member’s motion that was passed here in the House, Motion 516. I mean this motion couldn’t be any softer, you know, as far as exploring funding for basic site prep for playgrounds for new schools and a very small ask. I mean, I’m surprised the other side of the House actually passed it, but I think it was a step in the right direction. I’d like to see much more than that. But the question, Madam Chair, that I asked in estimates was: where are we on this motion, and is this happening? Now, you can probably guess what the answer was because, really, it’s still under discussion, and there hasn’t been much movement on this whatsoever. That’s disappointing.

I talked about deferred maintenance, which is a significant challenge. Again, as long as this government continues to defer maintenance on our infrastructure, it’s going to get to the point where it’s past repair, which is what’s happening already. Now we’re looking at forcing closures, whether it’s schools, hospitals, roads. Again, Madam Chair, it’s more cost efficient and less expensive if you have ongoing maintenance. As any homeowner in the House or in the province will know, investing in your home . . .

An Hon. Member: Relevance?

Mr. Bilous: Oh, it’s absolutely relevant. We’re talking about investing so that that way you’re not putting it off and putting it off to the point that it just gets so expensive to repair that you just have to close it.

Now, there are some that would say that that’s this government’s intention, that basically you starve a system to the point where you can then make the case that, well, it’s just more economical or cheaper just to shut it down altogether. I think it’s ridiculous that we’re not investing in our core infrastructure and that we haven’t been investing adequately, I would argue, for more than 20 years. Again, you know, this hold-the-line budget means that we’re sliding backwards further and further year by year.

One of the areas that there’s been little to no movement on is full-day kindergarten. Again, this was something that was promised, but as we’ve come to learn, when this PC government makes a promise, don’t hold your breath. As we see, the optional full-day kindergarten programs are not province-wide, do not exist. It needs to be noted here, Madam Chair, that schools that do offer full-day K are actually taking money out of their operating budget that could be used for specialists or to have more staff or smaller class sizes. I mean, there is a trade-off. You know, hats off to the schools that recognize the need in their communities for a full-day kindergarten. However, it’s shameful that it’s not being funded by this PC government and that they’re pulling money out of maintenance, out of wherever they can find it. So that’s frustrating.

Modernizations. I mean, that’s such an interesting one because the boards have some schools that have been on a wish list for over five years. In fact, the Calgary board of education has had numerous schools that are in desperate need of modernizations, and year after year they keep getting passed over by this government. Again, you know, it’s a question that’s often been asked. How is it decided which schools get chosen or which areas get new schools as others are forced to wait?

The issue of portables, Madam Chair. In Edmonton here – and I’ll speak to that as an Edmonton MLA – Edmonton public only received 10 out of the 22 modulars that they were asking for. Now, again, they are depleting any reserves that they have in order to pay for them. It should be noted as well for members who aren’t aware of this that even when the province funds a portable, it’s the board that has to pay for the – connection is not the right word here . . .

An Hon. Member: Set-up.

Mr. Bilous: . . . set-up of the portable and making it functional, which is a significant cost, again, that the school board is having to bear.

Let’s see what else. You know, when we’re talking about building schools, the discussion of whether it’s built in-house or it’s shopped around, I find, is an interesting one. Since I’ve been elected, this government has gotten up and waxed about how great P3s are and, you know, how they are God’s gift to schools, yet we’ve got an example in this province where the bid was tendered and, really, there was only one company that put in a bid to build 19 schools. I talked to the minister about this, that, well, that shoots one hole in the whole argument that competition will drive the price down. When you only have one bidder, there is no competition.

Again, I find it interesting that the CBE, the Calgary board of education, got tired of waiting for this knuckle-dragging government and decided to build in-house and said: “You know what? We can do it more efficiently and cheaper than what the government can do.” They’ve asked for themselves to build in-house, which, again, is very interesting.

Again, you know, I have concerns. I’ve talked to both the Infrastructure minister and the Education minister. They’re very great at promising things, but the delivery seems to be another question when we’ve got, you know, the promise of 50 new schools and 70 modernizations, yet shovels haven’t hit the ground, but they’re supposed to be open by the fall of 2016. Now, I don’t want to be a pessimist, Madam Chair, but when you look at how long it takes a new school to open its doors from time of design or initial tendering of design, you know, that’s more like – what is it? – a three- to five-year window. There are only two years left, and a shovel hasn’t hit the ground. Again, there is such a need for new schools.

I find it fascinating – and I might have mentioned this the other day, Madam Chair. When I was up in Fort McMurray, I was meeting with the board and the superintendent up there. You know, you look at the birth rate up in Wood Buffalo, and it’s astonishing that they’ve got on average 1,500 births per year. Now, again, when you do the math, how many schools are going to be required when these newborns get to the school age? I mean, it’s unbelievable. The superintendent told me that they would need two new schools every year as long as the birth rate keeps that pace. That area has lots of young families. In fact, I think it’s the fastest growing municipality with young people or has the youngest demographic of folks.

9:50

Again, they’re in desperate need and quite frustrated with this government, and rightly so, looking at the fact that they really are one of the main drivers of Alberta's economy, the economic hub or driver, I should say, of the province. The fact that they are desperate for infrastructure really begs the question: you know, does this PC government appreciate the constraints and challenges that are being placed on the area of Wood Buffalo, not to mention the fact that you've got the highest cost of living anywhere in the province? Rents are ridiculous. I mean, I'm not sure how people afford to live there. You've got lots of folks who are not working directly in the oil patch. You've got nurses, and you've got teachers, and you've got bus drivers, and you've got maintenance and repair and janitorial staff that are not making $150,000, $200,000, $300,000, $400,000 a year. How are they keeping up and not falling further and further behind? It's a great question. You know, it seems like this government is reluctant to acknowledge it and even more reluctant to do something to do about that, Madam Chair.

I'll jump back over to infrastructure here because my colleague from Edmonton-Calder has revealed through FOIPs over the last couple of weeks a lot of really shocking and embarrassing realities or discoveries of what's going on at the Misericordia. I mean, there are parts of the hospital that are unsafe. You've got staff that don't even want to work in the facility. It's dangerous. You've got water, when it rains, leaking onto electrical panels. I mean, it's actually quite shameful that that hospital has been allowed to deteriorate to the point that it's at, and again my point is going back to deferred maintenance. The government is saying, I believe, that they were throwing a handful, several million, maybe even $19 million – I'm not sure if that was the number that was quoted – at the Misericordia. Again, you know, had there been ongoing upkeep, I would love to know how much smaller that number would be and, in fact, if we never would have let it get to the state that it's in.

I can tell you, Madam Chair, that one of my frustrations is that it seems that this PC government only acts when it's either shamed into doing the right thing or when a disaster strikes. Again, look at the flooding last June. You know, members from this side of the House had been calling for years to update the flood mapping, to protect communities as much as possible. We even had a report back in 2006, the Groeneveld report, that raised lots of flags. I believe it was myself that raised the point that the federal government had dollars for provinces to invest in flood mitigation, and this government sat on its hands and did nothing, and they claim that there was not enough time. Well, you tell me how B.C., Saskatchewan, and Manitoba could all get it together and get the application in, yet somehow Alberta was sleeping at the wheel or maybe not even at the picnic. I don't know where they were. It's frustrating, and I can imagine how frustrated the folks who were affected by the floods are.

You know, what are we doing to prevent future tragedies and travesties from happening in this province? Again, I see a government not investing enough, moving very slowly on infrastructure that's quite critical. You know what? Even the most fiscally conservative members would recognize that if you can put dollars into the preventative side, you will save money rather than, you know, waiting for an emergency or a travesty and having a knee-jerk reaction and suddenly having to spend three times, five times, 10 times the amount. I really don't understand their logic, so I'm happy to hear that members from that side also don't understand their own logic and are questioning the front bench.

Madam Chair, I think that this budget for a myriad of reasons is disappointing. I think many Albertans are disappointed with it, again scratching their heads: how is there money for carbon capture and storage, money for expensive junkets, flights, travel plans for the government, yet for your working Albertans . . .

Mr. Mason: Foreign offices.

Mr. Bilous: And foreign offices. That's a very valid point. Thank you. I mean, the fact that you've got – let's see here. Oh, wait. There's money in the budget to open three new international offices.

Mr. Eggen: Where?

Mr. Bilous: In Brazil, in California, and in China. Wow. It's amazing that Alberta needs more offices in other countries – I didn't know Alberta was a country – yet there isn't money in the budget to ensure that grandma doesn't have to wait for weeks or months for much-needed surgery. You know, public-sector workers are being attacked. I mean, they give their lives in service to their province, and the province and this PC government return the favour by clawing back the pensions and what they're getting. I need to remind the members that their pensions are very, very modest. We're talking about $12,000 to $15,000 a year, you know, versus the cost of setting up one of these offices in one of these foreign countries. If I'm not mistaken, Madam Chair, I believe there are Canadian embassies that exist in these countries already.

Mr. Mason: But not in Rio de Janeiro.

Mr. Bilous: Well, that's very interesting. The Member for Edmonton-Highlands-Norwood brought up where in Brazil that office is going. Now, if I recall, Rio is not the economic hub in Brazil. If I'm not mistaken, it's São Paulo. That really begs the question: how was Rio selected? I mean, I've been there. It's got a beautiful beach. It's very nice, but is that the best use of taxpayer dollars? One really has to question this government and its priorities.

I appreciate that the Member for Calgary-Mountain View talked at length about the cost of poverty and, again, the fact that this was yet another disappointment in this budget, the lack of dollars to address, you know, all the different facets of poverty and look at the root causes and not just throw Band-Aids on a problem. Again, looking at investments, I recall that when I was teaching in the inner city, the figure to put a young person through a year of school was something like . . .

The Deputy Chair: The hon. leader of the ND opposition.

Mr. Mason: Thank you very much, Madam Chair. I'd like to make a few comments with respect to the budget. You know, I was disappointed with the budget, and of course it's now Bill 8, the Appropriation Act, 2014. I think that the budget was disappointing in a number of ways. I think that it's an example of a tale of two Albertas, one for the wealthy and the powerful and the friends and the people who are connected to the PC Party and another one for the rest of us. We want to continue to address that inequity that is built into the budget and is built into the ideology of the governing party for the last 42 years.

10:00

Despite the fact that we live in an incredibly prosperous province, I think the government is not treating people fairly. Opportunities in our province are endless, but I think that the majority of us need a better deal than this government seems prepared to do.

For example, the University of Alberta has specifically asked the minister to reinvest in their infrastructure maintenance program in order to avoid the catastrophic failure of some of their building systems. I just came from a school closure meeting in my constituency, where the government is offering one new school if the school board is prepared to close three older schools. There are some outstanding schools there, where the government has refused to fund the capital priorities of the school board year after year after year, and it's meant that some of these schools – I was in Highlands junior high tonight, where my son actually attended years ago, a beautiful historic building, a mirror image of the Academy at King Edward on the south side if you know that. But it is in bad need of renovation and assistance. It has the original boilers, if you can believe it, hundred-year-old boilers still operating in that school. It has been fairly high on the public school board's capital priority list to do renovation and upgrading in that school, and it has been rejected year after year after year.

The school board has a problem. It's not just a question of enrolment; it's a question of being able to get the capital priorities that they see fit to be accepted by the government. The government over and over again when we were debating Motion 503 talked about how important it was to empower local school boards to make local decisions, and in that case it was a way for the government to avoid taking responsibility for defeating 503. But when it comes to something where the school board really should have control and really have a say – that is to say over their capital and their maintenance budgets – the province overrules them.

Madam Chair, I was actually quite pleased with the PC platform in the last election in certain respects [interjection] – wait for it, hon. member – particularly the commitment to end child poverty, and I think a lot of people who might not have otherwise voted for this government voted because they were supportive of that direction. We've now had three budgets and three throne speeches, and it's absolutely missing. It's absent. It's not present. It is completely not there. Now, if the commitment was to eliminate child poverty in five years, we're now on the third budget of five, and there are further cuts to programs that support people in poverty. I think that if we're talking about unkept promises, this is one of the biggest ones and perhaps the most disappointing.

You know, we've seen that the government wants to save money. I know that when it all boils down to the pension issue, it's not the unsustainability of the pensions that's bothering the government; it's how much they're having to pay as an employer in order to get the pensions back on track. The government is trying to save a little money by gutting the pension plans.

Why is it, hon. members, that every time the government wants to save a little money, it goes to the programs that support the middle class or low-income families? Why is it that every time they want to find economies, it's in those kind of programs: cuts to social programs, cuts to poverty programs, cuts to pensions for hundreds of thousands of Albertans? This is what I don't understand. Don't you realize that if you want to save some money, you shouldn't be going after the nickels and dimes in the budget? You should be looking at the hundred-dollar bills, and there are plenty of these in the budget.

I want to talk a little bit about the general situation with respect to the province's finances. I know that the Finance minister has heard me talk about this before, but more than 30 per cent of our program spending is funded by fluctuating royalty revenue because the actual revenue from taxation is not sufficient to support the programs that we have. That's not just a wild, socialist theory; that's an actual fact. We don't have enough taxation revenue in this province to pay for all of our program spending, and that's been the case year after year after year. So we draw heavily on the royalty revenue in order to pay for it.

Well, of course, we all know there are two problems with that. First of all, royalty revenue is extremely volatile. It goes up and down, and every time the price of oil drops, we're laying off teachers and nurses or we're attacking a pension plan or we're doing something like that. That's not a desirable state of affairs.

The other problem, of course, is that these resources are nonrenewable, and they actually belong to all generations of Albertans. For us to steal from future generations of Albertans in order to spend this money on our own needs today is simply cheating future generations of Albertans. We need to, in my view, wean ourselves off that, and the key to that is to ensure that we have sufficient tax revenue to cover our program spending needs. Then we should be investing the royalty revenue in long-term funds, for example, like Norway's. I think that that's not only fair to future generations, but it requires us to pay for our own program expenditures. I think that that's something that the budget fails to address, something I've addressed many times in this House. My views are no surprise to the government members. I do think that it's important that we address that very important question.

I think there's been a lot said in this House about the waste and the culture of entitlement that afflicts this government. We've seen the extensive first-class flights, misuse of government aircraft, the sky palace. The sky palace is interesting. I know that the rules of the House say that you sometimes have to accept two different versions of the same story as being true at the same time. But I find it really interesting that two Infrastructure ministers claim to have cancelled the project. Now, we can't ask the former Minister of Infrastructure about his assertion that he did that because he's no longer the minister. So we have to accept the current Minister of Infrastructure's assertion that he did it but that also the other guy did it, too, and take that, I guess, at face value.

An Hon. Member: Very strange.

Mr. Mason: But it is indeed passing strange, Madam Chair, that there is an actual interdimensional time warp within the cabinet that allows this kind of thing to take place.

10:10

You know, the former minister was of course copied on the correspondence – and we saw it – by the Premier's executive assistant, who repeatedly copied him on all of the changes that he wanted to see as he was communicating and directing the architect directly. He would send copies to the former Minister of Infrastructure, who claims that he didn't see that, but he did know enough to cancel the project, which then had to be recancelled by the new Minister of Infrastructure. Oh, what a wonderful world it is in Alberta politics, Madam Chair. It is just ever so fascinating, with twists and turns in the plots worthy of a Dr. Who serial.

Now, I want to go to the wage freeze. This, I guess, is another example of what I was saying earlier, that when the government wants to save money, they don't save money by charging the oil companies more for the oil that belongs to us, that they take out of the ground, they don't charge the banks and their big financial contributors more, they don't charge the very wealthy Albertans who support them more, but they go after people who have modest incomes. They go after seniors. They go after the disabled community. They go after the poor. I just don't follow that.

I've learned to live with it, Madam Chair. Unfortunately, I have learned that, you know, you just can't argue these things out with conservatives. That's just how they see the world. Going back from the time when I lived in a certain house with a certain member of the government for a couple of years, I learned that it's just the way they are, just the way they think. It maybe doesn't make sense, but it's just who they are, and we have to love them despite that. We have to realize that they're human, too. They're, you know, a bit weird. But they, unfortunately, have been running the province for 42 years, and we have to deal with that. So I think we will indeed deal with that perhaps in the next election. It's a very interesting thing.

Now, I know the Finance minister wants to talk about savings. He thinks that we should be doing some saving. I don't disagree with him. I don't disagree that we should be putting some money into savings. But when we have huge deficiencies that aren't funded because we don't have enough money, simply allocating some of an insufficient budget to savings at the expense of already starved programs, you know, is not the best way to go. I think the better way to go is to make sure you have enough revenue and then put your savings away. I think if we take a look at Norway, which has very significantly higher royalties and saves a much higher percentage of the royalties than we do here in Alberta, keeps the money in the fund instead of taking out the interest revenue and spending it, then builds it up to about . . .

The Deputy Chair: Hon. member, I hesitate to interrupt you, but in accordance with Standing Order 64(4) the vote on the appropriation bill that is currently before Committee of the Whole must be put. Accordingly, we'll go to the vote.

Pursuant to Standing Order 64(4) I must now put the following question: does the committee approve the following bill, Bill 8, Appropriation Act, 2014?

[Motion carried]

The Deputy Chair: Hon. members, pursuant to Standing Order 64(4) the committee shall now immediately rise and report.

[Mrs. Jablonski in the chair]

Mr. Jeneroux: Madam Speaker, the Committee of the Whole has had under consideration a certain bill. The committee reports the following bill: Bill 8.

The Acting Speaker: Does the Assembly concur in the report?

Hon. Members: Concur.

The Acting Speaker: Opposed? So ordered.

Government Bills and Orders Second Reading

Bill 10 Employment Pension (Private Sector) Plans Amendment Act, 2014

[Adjourned debate April 22: Mr. Anderson]

The Acting Speaker: Are there any members who wish to speak to Bill 10 in second reading? The hon. Member for Edmonton-Strathcona.

Ms Notley: Thank you so much. I am so pleased to be able to rise and begin debate on Bill 10, the Employment Pension (Private Sector) Plans Amendment Act, 2014. Let me begin by saying that we are unequivocally opposed to this bill, that it is a continuation of the bad work that the government is attempting to complete at the expense of Albertans through Bill 9. We just think it's a very bad idea.

Now, basically, what Bill 10 attempts to do is that it takes a bill that was passed a couple of years ago but not yet proclaimed and it further amends that bill, and it does so to make it super clear that the government ultimately has the authority to allow single-payer employer pension plans to be converted from a defined benefit plan to a targeted benefit plan. Just for those folks out there who are listening to this debate, let's talk just a moment about the difference between a defined benefit plan and a targeted benefit plan.

A defined benefit plan is something that, well, you know, some of our friends over on the right, right, right side of the House there, in the Wildrose Party, have characterized as being gold-plated pensions and all that kind of stuff. That's not what they are. A defined benefit plan is a pension that somebody contributes to for years and years and decades and decades, to a factor of in most cases 85, and then they get a certain amount of money in their retirement. And what kind of outrageous amounts of money do they get in their retirement? Well, the average payout for the government public-sector defined pension plan right now is $15,000 a year. Not so gold plated, but it is something that helps ensure that our seniors do not fall into the growing gap of poverty, which every expert in the country says that our seniors and our soon-to-become seniors are at risk of falling into.

The point of a defined benefit plan is that when you pay into it for a certain amount of time and your employer pays into it for a certain amount of time and you get to a certain age, then you can predict how much money you will have to retire on, and you can plan for that 10, 15, 20 years in advance. You know what, Madam Speaker? Many, many, many working people in this province do just that. They plan 15, 20, 25 years in advance about how they will be able to support their modest retirement in a way that doesn't put an outrageous burden on their children or others. That's what regular working Albertans do.

10:20

Now, we've talked about Bill 9 and the impact that has on the public-sector pension, but I think that we need to understand that with Bill 10, as much as it says "private sector," one of the plans under the act that this bill amends is ultimately to facilitate the movement of most public-sector pension plans to be covered under this other piece of legislation that is being addressed through Bill 10. It isn't just limited to private-sector plans, and, in fact, there are some public-sector plans that are already covered under this legislation. In fact, there are parts of this legislation that apply to all public-sector plans, so let's just not get too wrapped up that the two are not connected because they are connected.

What is the primary objective of this bill? Well, the original piece of legislation that this Legislature passed about a year and a half ago but has not yet proclaimed allowed for the administrator of the pension plan to basically decide that any plan that is not a targeted plan could reduce benefits to their employees should they be unable to pay the benefits. So that's what it used to say.

Now what we're doing in this is that we're making it super clear that if you have a specifically named and described defined benefit plan, then the employer can, if they jump through a few hoops, all of which will be written by these guys behind closed doors at some point in the future – who knows what those hoops will be. They'll probably be very big and very wide, big enough to drive many trucks through. Anyway, you stroll through those hoops, shall we say, and you get to convert the defined benefit plan to the targeted benefit plan. A targeted benefit is a close your eyes, cross your fingers, cross your toes, think about unicorns, and maybe wish upon a falling star sort of retirement planning strategy. That's what a targeted benefit plan is.

Mr. Lukaszuk: A fairy tale.

Ms Notley: It is kind of a fairy tale, Member for Edmonton-Castle Downs, because it is not the plan that our cautious, our conservative, our hard-working, regular working Albertans started planning their retirement on 25 years ago. They didn't plan their retirement on the basis of this, you know, close your eyes and sprinkle fairy dust on their mutual fund kind of retirement planning strategy. No, they did not. They planned their retirement on the basis of a defined benefit plan with certain guarantees in the future, and this government wants employers to be able to convert those plans willy-nilly from a defined benefit to a targeted. I'm going to call it the pixie dust plan from here on in. We're going to call it the PC pixie dust retirement plan. That's what this bill wants to do. That's what this government wants to do with this bill.

Now, who does this apply to, and who should care? Well, basically, right now we have about 250,000 people who are covered under the act, which once proclaimed will apply to them, and then it will be amended by this bill. Of that 250,000 people about 138,000 of them currently enjoy the benefits of a defined benefit pension plan. Of those about half of them at least, give or take, are not represented by unions. So what the government will say is: "Well, you know what? Don't worry your pretty little head about our pixie dust plan because we won't convert it to a pixie dust plan unless both sponsors of the plan agree to it; i.e., the union and the employer."

Now, I actually have a problem with that, and I'll talk about that in a moment. The problem is that there are many, many people covered by this piece of legislation who are not represented by unions, so the mechanism for consulting with one of the partners for how you convert to their defined benefit, this is what my retirement is going to look like, plan to the pixie dust plan is unclear. How do we find out whether these guys are A-okay with having their defined benefit pension plan gutted? Well, this act is going to give all that authority to this fabulous, trustworthy cabinet which has a stellar record on consultation with vulnerable Albertans across the board and has brilliant trustworthiness ratings across the board. Well, needless to say . . .

Mr. Mason: Insert sarcasm here.

Ms Notley: Insert sarcasm here.

You can imagine that we don't have a lot of faith in this.

Mr. Mason: Well, otherwise people might read it and think she's saying this.

Ms Notley: The Member for Edmonton-Highlands-Norwood is concerned people might have thought I actually meant that to be true.

That being said, that's what we're looking at. We're looking at giving employers the ability to convert defined benefit plans to pixie dust plans, and the rules around how they will do that will be: "You know, don't worry about it. We'll just pat you on the head. We'll figure it out ourselves around the little cabinet table, and we'll let you know. We will probably talk to some more employers because, by the way, that's why we're bringing this in in the first place, because our pals in big business wanted us to do it."

So who are some of the people that we're looking at? Well, TransAlta, Suncor. These are the folks that came to this government and said: hey, you know, if you could tweak that pension plan legislation so that we could be sure to abandon our liabilities to those pesky little employees that we have, that would be super awesome. So that's what we're doing right now. That's what this piece of legislation will ultimately achieve. And everyone will say, "Oh, that's not what we're doing; we're protecting the plan for the future, and yada yada yada; trust us," because, of course, this bill is also written on the trust us basis, you know, thou shalt have authority to do whatever the cabinet in its great wisdom thinks is necessary. You see a lot of that throughout this act, that we will just sort of take the retirement hopes and dreams of 250,000 Albertans, or in this case 138,000 Albertans, and just give them over to this incredibly trustworthy cabinet who is doing so well when they poll Albertans on how trustworthy Albertans think they are right now. Anyway, so that's what this does.

Now, this is really concerning to me, Madam Speaker. You know, we've talked about this generally in the past, but the fact of the matter is that we've seen retirement savings by Canadians drop. Canadians today only set aside about 5.5 per cent of their income for retirement, down from 20 per cent in the '80s. We've seen the number of Canadians who are covered by defined pensions drop well below 40 per cent of Canadians now. What that means is that the number of Canadians, and in this case Albertans, who will live in poverty is going to grow.

Now, the Member for Edmonton-Highlands-Norwood in his question to the minister today in question period highlighted the experience of a state in the U.S. where they moved away from a defined benefit plan to a defined contribution plan, and 15, 20 years later they discovered they had a huge problem because their seniors were all really super poor and hungry and they couldn't afford health care and they couldn't afford rent. It just was bad news, and they realized that this was very much connected to the fact that they had gutted their public service pension plan. So they decided that they needed to go back to the drawing board and reconsider this notion of eliminating defined benefit pension plans.

Well, the fact of the matter is that that is the trajectory that we are on in this province and in this country, and it is not just me saying it. Pretty much every expert out there on the state of Canadians' retirement planning and retirement savings will say that we are heading for a crisis. Many experts who are concerned about the well-being of the majority of those impending retirees, those people who are actually elected to represent the overarching public interest, those people are saying that what we actually need to be doing is increasing pensions, increasing, for instance, CPP and enhancing that particular defined benefit, because that, too, is a defined benefit.

Lo and behold, here we are in Alberta up until a couple of years ago the one holdout in the whole country saying no to building up the CPP. Why? Well, I don't know. Maybe their friends in the banking industry won't make as big a commission on the RSPs. I have no idea how you could possibly say that that's not a good idea, but trust Alberta; we did. So hand in hand with that miserly, unconcerned approach to the best interests of regular working Albertans and their families comes a piece of legislation like this, that is designed to give the employer sponsors of plans a much easier time in the process of reducing the nature of the benefits that their employees will receive.

I want to talk just a little bit even about those employees who are covered by union plans. Of course, the argument would be: well, you know, this conversion will only happen if both sponsors of the plan agree, and where you've got unionized, collectively bargained, sole-employer contribution plans or defined benefit contribution plans, it would only happen if the union agrees. What this is essentially doing is taking something that the union has won and earned and putting it back on the bargaining table, so it's forcing unions to actually bargain for something that they thought they'd already bargained for.

10:30

They had something protected in legislation. It's sort of akin to saying: "Well, you know, I know you don't think you need to bargain employment standards minimums and minimum wage, but you know what? We're going to make you bargain that. We're going to make you earn those standards at the bargaining table even though they've been there in legislation for 80 years or whatever." This is the same kind of thing, and this is unbalancing the negotiating process.

Now, I understand that these folks wouldn't understand that because negotiation is kind of a foreign term.

Mr. Mason: Not in their vocabulary.

Ms Notley: It's not in the vocabulary of this government.

This is an attempt to undermine, destabilize, and weaken the bargaining position of even those employees who are represented by unions. It's not a complete answer to say, "Oh, don't worry; it won't happen if the union doesn't agree to it" because you're opening the door and inviting the union to come in and have to bargain all of that over again. That's a solution.

I look forward to speaking about this more in the future.

The Acting Speaker: We have 29(2)(a). Go ahead, hon. Member for Edmonton-Beverly-Clareview.

Mr. Bilous: Thank you very much, Madam Speaker. I was quite enjoying the Member for Edmonton-Strathcona's speech, educating many of the members in this Assembly on the difference between defined benefit and target benefit, but I was hoping that the Member for Edmonton-Strathcona maybe can explain further, especially for some of the members on the front bench, exactly what she means by pixie dust pensions.

Ms Notley: Well, you know, really, today in question period the Minister of Finance said: I will not in any way, shape, or form reduce the benefits Alberta pensioners will receive. That was actually in relation to both bills 9 and 10 and the policy considerations implied in those questions. The fact of the matter is that, no, that's not true. There are a number of different areas where we're looking at that.

What this bill does is that it makes it very clear that by moving to a targeted benefit, where the contributions are not high enough and where the assets are not great enough, this gives the pension plan administrators the ability to reduce benefits. That's right there in the legislation, Madam Speaker.

Truly, when we met with the folks from the minister's ministry who briefed us on this – and I appreciate the time that they gave, by the way; it was a very informative briefing and very helpful to us – it was very clear that that's what you're doing. Nobody tried to suggest that a targeted benefit plan was the same as a defined benefit plan, and no one for a moment tried to suggest that a targeted benefit plan wouldn't result in the potential for lost income.

Not only do people not have a guaranteed cost-of-living increase – just to be clear, in Alberta, you know, our cost of living is going up rather aggressively, especially compared to the rest of the country. If we don't keep pace through COLA, pensioners are going to lose. Of course, we're already at a point where we only do 60 per cent – well, this is in the other one, of course – and now the government wants to make that more flexible.

That's an argument for Bill 9, but the whole other issue is that with targeted benefits you could get way less, so it's not even a question of keeping the same amount and watching it become less and less valuable if someone fails to have it keep pace with COLA. Instead, we're actually seeing the amount drop unpredictably. After you've retired, you cannot count on how much you will receive every month or every year. That's what a targeted benefit plan is. You know, that's really super clear, and that's why I referred to it as the pixie dust plan.

Mr. Mason: But who is Tinker Bell?

Ms Notley: Tinker Bell is the fabulous Minister of Finance, I guess. I've never really thought of him as Tinker Bell-ish. Perhaps he's not even listening now. In any event, it will be the minister who is Tinker Bell because, again, the other issue is that a great deal of authority is given to the minister and to the cabinet. As a result, it certainly won't be the employees.

I'm very, very concerned about this as well because, you know, with Bill 9 I know members over there will have to acknowledge that they've received countless concerns expressed to them by constituents about what Bill 9 is going to do to them. They may not have heard the same about Bill 10, but one of the reasons for that, of course, is because those who are at greatest risk under Bill 10 are those people who are part of defined benefit plans right now but don't have a union. My question is: how many of those people even know this is happening? How many of those people have been notified? How many of those people have been consulted with? How many of those people have been asked whether this was the direction they want to go in? I will say to you that the answer is none. Then the question becomes: well, how will they be consulted? The answer from these guys is: trust me. That's not the way you should be legislating, and it is certainly not the way you should be legislating something as fundamental and as meaningful to the vast majority of working Albertans as a defined benefit pension plan to which they have been contributing for many, many years and that is extremely important to them.

We're looking at about, I think, 70,000 non-union members who are impacted by this. If that number is a little high, I'm happy to hear that. Either way, it's bad news for them.

The Acting Speaker: Thank you, hon. member.

Are there any other members that wish to speak to Bill 10 in second reading? The hon. Member for Calgary-Buffalo.

Mr. Hehr: Well, thank you very much, Madam Speaker. I'm rising tonight to speak against Bill 10, and I'd hope that all members of the Assembly listen to what is happening here in this province in regard to what we're doing on bills 9 and 10 and how it is an attack on working people, what they've contributed to their pension plans, what they believed they had set themselves up for as a reasonable retirement, how they were going to pay their daily bills, and how they were going to try and make it through life when they are no longer working.

Before I get to the merits of the bill, I would like to point out that the evidence is clear. Economists and government reports and industry reports all indicate that seniors in Canada are retiring with less and less money compared to the way things have been over the course of the last 50 years. Essentially, through attacks like these on pension plans as well as a move to a workforce that is less unionized and, frankly, to government supports being less, people have an inability to retire like they have in the past.

This is leading to an increasingly unequal society. You see that with statistics offered at various times in publications and the like which show statistics. You know, in 1980 the average employer made 40 times more than his worker did. Now the average employer in Canada makes 235 times more than an employee. You see, it's clear that there's been a move throughout the course of the last 35 years to inequality, a real sense where governments have favoured certain individuals, especially here in Alberta certain wealthy individuals, individuals from certain industries, and have left behind or not considered the effects on the middle class and, even worse, the plight of those who are in meagre circumstances. That's just a plain fact.

10:40

This does nothing. Bills like bills 9 and 10 here do nothing to rectify or to look at the problem of inequality. In fact, they exacerbate it. One of the ways that working people who have gotten involved in pension plans can ensure they retire with at least some form of income is to negotiate a pension plan in their workplace, whether they're represented by a public-sector union or whether they work in private industry at a place like TransAlta or the like that has these defined benefit plans. Remember that these were negotiated fairly amongst employees and through unions at the bargaining table, who then came to the conclusion that that's the way they wanted their compensation packages addressed, through both the employer and employee contributing to these plans, that that would ensure that they would have a reasonable standard of living in their retirement years, and to ensure that they had a reasonable standard of living in their retirement years, they would need to have a defined benefit plan.

As the Member for Edmonton-Strathcona so rightly pointed out, when you move from a defined benefit plan to a target benefit plan, you're moving to basically a pension plan that's based on a hope and a prayer and wishful thinking because that's all they are. Simply put, when you move from there, it gives no protection to the retiring person that income will be there for them when they need it going forward. It has no air of reality as to when inflation goes up or when stock markets go down or when governments swoop in to do things of this nature. Simply put, it really exacerbates the inequality we are seeing here in Alberta and, frankly, throughout the rest of Canada.

In my view, instead of governments continuing on in this fashion, like we see in bills 9 and 10 and what we're doing here, we should be looking at ways to ensure more people have pensions, that more people have predictable, sustainable income that they can rely on in their senior years, whether that's through augmenting the Canada pension program or other things like encouraging people to get into defined benefit plans, that they can then count on in their retirement. This appears to be directly opposite to what we know to be in the best interests of our seniors.

What is most troubling to me here, though, too, is that by doing this, the government may actually be adding to the expenses that they will have to carry in the future without these employees now having a defined benefit plan or, virtually, whether they have any income at all coming from their pension. Well, that essentially means that the government is looking at more seniors in subsidized housing, more seniors who may be in need of seniors' benefits and the like. It may actually just be adding to the government expenses in the long run as compared to doing it in the proactive way, having a defined benefit plan.

In my view, this is the wrong way to go. It affects a large number of people in Alberta. I believe the number that I heard was 250,000 individuals who will be affected by this change. Some of them will be, of course, in a unionized environment, and as was rightfully pointed out, these were benefits they had bargained for. They had worked these out with the employer and had come to an agreement thereon. They are now being systematically stripped away by the government at the drop of a bill. That, to me, doesn't appear right.

I'm also very worried about those employees who are not in a union and what is actually going to happen to them, whether it's just a winding up of the pension plan altogether, which, in my view, could happen in some of these situations because there won't be the organization where they can bind together and look at things in an objective manner, or the simple power of the employer to push through things that may not be in their best interests and the like.

Nevertheless, I hope to speak more on this at subsequent intervals. I hope that we can look at this, at whether this is really good for stemming inequality in this province, which many people identified as one of the single largest threats to not only this province but actually to many governments throughout the world. I don't think this does anything to address that. It doesn't deal with anything about seniors' incomes and what their retirements are going to look like.

In my view, bills 9 and 10 go against this principle, and I would encourage all members to vote against this and go from there. Thank you very much.

The Acting Speaker: Thank you, hon. member

Standing Order 29(2)(a). The hon. Minister of Finance and President of Treasury Board.

Mr. Horner: Thank you, Madam Speaker. I just wanted to ask a quick couple of questions of the hon. member because I've heard again a little bit of a recurring theme here. One of them is that when you talk about going from a defined benefit to a targeted benefit, there is a huge loss or some sort of loss to the retirement infrastructure for people who are in those plans. First of all, the joint sponsorship of those plans would have to agree to move in that direction. My thought would be that the only reason they would do that is if the plan was in very dire straits and they needed to move to make some changes and have that flexibility.

The hon. members talked about it being on a wing and a prayer or something, that somehow this would be based on some sort of... [interjection] I'm assuming he's talking about that the returns of the fund would be the determinant factor of whether or not the benefits would be paid. I guess what I'm asking is: if the fund does not give a suitable amount of return, where would the hon. member think that the money is going to come from to pay for the benefits if there's no money or return given the fact that the fund is the fund that would pay those benefits? If they're suggesting that under a defined benefit plan the fund will always earn enough to pay the benefits, then, I guess, we have no problem if they could guarantee that, which they can't.

I'm curious if the hon. member would please enlighten the House. In a targeted benefit plan or in a defined benefit plan if the returns are not there, where would the funds come from if not from the employer and from the employees paycheques? Just curious.

Mr. Hehr: The hon. minister answered his own question. I don't know why he's asking me this. It would come from the employers and the employees. Of course it would. It would come from those generations that are continuing to work, hopefully, at the company where they're active and productive to ensure that they understand that when a pension plan is there for their retired employees, it is also going to be there for them. I don't know why the hon. minister seems confused about this. It seems very simple that that's how we've had defined contribution plans, and that's how they work. Maybe that's the trouble. Maybe why he's going about this is that someone, maybe a deputy minister, has got a hold of him and filled his head full of all sorts of nonsense and has gotten him down a path of how he wants to take away pensions not only from those under Bill 9 but also under Bill 10. It seems illogical that the hon. minister would not understand where the money comes from. It would come from employers and employees, of course. That's just how it is.

10:50

I'm also really surprised that the hon. minister does not quite understand that there are a great many seniors in this province who do not have enough revenue to get by in today's world, with inflation running at 3.9 per cent, with the cost of living and the likes there, and simply the overarching evidence that is out there that we should be doing more for seniors, not less. Yet his government chooses to do less. It is really befuddling to me how the minister asks his questions and doesn't understand. He should go back to his deputy ministers and talk about this and say: where am I getting it wrong? He clearly has it wrong.

The Acting Speaker: The hon. President of Treasury Board.

Mr. Horner: Thank you, Madam Speaker. The interesting piece to that is that if you don't have enough contributors paying in and you've got more retirees, the plan fails. That's what the hon. member doesn't get.

The Acting Speaker: Do you have a point of order?

Mr. Mason: Yes. I believe, Madam Speaker, that it is the practice to alternate questions. If another member has a question under 29(2)(a), you don't let the same person go twice.

The Acting Speaker: I understood that we had a back and forth. He asked questions. He was going to answer. We'll ask Parliamentary Counsel to . . .

Mr. Horner: May I continue to answer the question?

The Acting Speaker: Yes, hon. minister.

Mr. Horner: The answer to the hon. member's question is: when the number of retirees is tripling and the number of new contributors is only doubling or staying the same, the money isn't there. That's the problem with defined benefit plans that are mature. The hon. member should actually know that. If he had actually done his work as a Finance critic, he would understand that defined benefit plans in this country and around the world are having difficulty because there are more retirees than there are new entrants to the plan. The PSPP plan, as a really good example, in 1993 had 40,000 contributors. In 2013: still 40,000 contributors yet the number of retirees had almost tripled. To coin the phrase from the Auditor General in Public Accounts, the math doesn't work.

The Acting Speaker: Thank you.

Is there another member that wishes to speak to Bill 10? [interjection] You'll get your chance later.

The hon. Member for Edmonton-Beverly-Clareview.

Mr. Bilous: Thank you, Madam Speaker. I rise to speak to the second reading of Bill 10, the Employment Pension (Private Sector) Plans Amendment Act. In a moment, when I speak, I will address the title of it, which is misleading, that it's private sector when, in fact, we'll see how there are public-sector employees that are going to be affected negatively by this act.

Madam Speaker, I'm going to start by stating the fact that I'm absolutely opposed to this bill, Bill 10, and to Bill 9. I'll give my arguments, but I'll ask members to vote against this bill. It needs to be thrown out from start to finish.

Part of one of the major issues that I have with this bill, Madam Speaker, is that we've got a significant number of pensioners that have been paying into their pensions for many, many years; some, for their whole working life. Suddenly now with the passage of this bill rules can completely change. So a pensioner who had worked, signed up from day one thinking that they were going to get a certain amount in their retirement, could with the stroke of a pen suddenly see their benefits reduced significantly. Now, I'd love for someone on the other side of the House to try to tell me how that's fair. You've been promised something, you've been working toward it, you've been saving for it, and now suddenly the government says: "No. You're not getting that anymore. We're going to actually cut back on what you've contributed to for your whole life."

Now, another issue with this bill, which we seem to see a lot more of. The Member for Edmonton-Highlands-Norwood, who's been a member here in the House a lot longer than I have, has told me that in the past we would see legislation that didn't give sweeping powers so much to the ministers. Well, it is very disturbing, Madam Speaker, that these bills that I've seen since I've been a member, which in about an hour and four minutes will be, I believe, two years to the day if we're going on April 23 – much of the legislation that the government has brought in does in fact give the minister and cabinet sweeping powers to make changes, which I think, first of all, is very problematic. I mean, when we're talking about making significant changes to any legislation, whether it's through regulation, it should be discussed and debated in this House. It should not be allowed to be done with the stroke of a pen behind closed doors so that folks wake up in the morning and see that the tooth fairy stole their tooth and has not given them anything in return.

First of all, the government is trying to pitch this bill as encouraging those who have pension plans to continue contributing to them because the pension participation is very low. Now, again, "private sector" within parentheses in the title of this act is again a misnomer. The fact of the matter, Madam Speaker, is that there are public-sector pension plans that qualify under this bill such as the university's academic pension plan, the firefighters' supplementary pension plan, and other small municipality plans. You know, one of my concerns is that this PC government's long game is to put LAPP and PSPP under this piece of legislation. That's going to affect a significant number of people and is the old bait and switch.

There are about 250,000 workers that fall under this act, and I believe the number is somewhere around 138,000 of them that have defined pensions. As the hon. Member for Edmonton-Strathcona noted earlier, part of the reason there isn't and hasn't been as much public outcry on this bill – first of all, I would draw Albertans' attention to the time of day that we're debating this second reading. As well, many of the folks who are affected by this bill do not have a larger group or a union to represent them or a vehicle to voice their malcontent for Bill 10.

Now, here's the thing, Madam Speaker. I mean, pensions benefit all of us in the sense that, again, we're not only talking about individuals being able to afford to pay their bills, pay their heating. You know, the concept of pensions, again, comes from the fact that you have folks who have decided to take certain occupations or certain jobs and looked at how they would be remunerated for their work, the pension being a part of it. It's not that the pension is some kind of bonus gift, a Christmas bonus that can be withdrawn whenever the government or a minister feels like it. This is something that has been negotiated, that is part of their contract and part of the reason that many Albertans have made the decision to work for certain employers or to take certain careers.

So the benefit of it, obviously, let's say, for someone living in a small town having a decent pension means that not only can they afford to live, but they're also contributing to the economy. Let's keep in mind, as well, that folks pay tax on them when they're drawing their pension, so this is also contributing to the economy.

The other frustration with bills 9 and 10 is that the number of Canadians covered by pensions is declining. The amount that Canadians are saving for retirement is dropping, which is a concern. We should be looking ahead and doing what we can to take smart, prudent actions and to expand our pension system, not shrink it.

11:00

Again, the Alberta NDP has been pushing for an expansion of the CPP. There are many provinces across the country that are willing and are in favour of expanding CPP, except for, of course, the government in Alberta. The good old PC government: if it's good for the people, then it's bad for them.

Moving again back to the title, like I said, this legislation is going to affect 138,000 workers with defined benefit pensions. I listed some of those that are going to be affected, and the concern is with the fact that the minister is going to have sweeping powers.

Let me see here. [interjections] I'm happy to hear that some members on the other side are listening. I'm going to go through just briefly and explain again the difference between the three different pensions. We've got defined benefit, which is exactly what it says. When you started your work, whether it was 30 years ago, 40 years ago, 10 years ago, or five years ago, you'd know how much you're going to get when you retire. It's defined. It's not going to change. You don't have to worry about how much a loaf of bread is going to cost, whether you're retiring in five years, 10 years, 20 years. You don't have to worry about, again, the cost of electricity or to heat your home and what that's going to look like.

Madam Speaker, there are a significant number of Albertans who don't have pensions, who don't have defined benefit pensions, and every time they see a rise in inflation or in the cost of living, you know, they're making tough decisions on heating their house versus filling their prescriptions. The advantage to a defined benefit plan is that there's a formula that you signed up for and agreed to with your employer from day one. You know what you're going to get. So if you work for X number of years, for example, you're entitled to X amount of dollars a month once you retire. Okay? So that plan, obviously, is the best plan as far as our seniors, our workers knowing that they have that retirement security.

Now, a couple of things about defined benefits here. You know, the way it works is that if the pension plan is underfunded, then contributions can or have to go up in order to meet the needs for the unfunded liability portion. What that means under defined benefit is that that increase is split by both the employer and the employee. Monthly payments into the pension plan go up for those that are still working, and matching contributions, like I said, from the employer also increase to make sure that that promise is delivered.

I mean, pension fund managers can't predict the future, so there are times when that fund is going to be overinvested and there are times that it's going to be underinvested. But what's important to realize is that these plans should be looked at as long term and looked at over the long term, not in specific snapshots. You know, we're all aware of what happened in 2008 and the fact that not just plans but, obviously, the stock market took quite a hit and with it a lot of different plans, whether it was pension plans or investments. The flip side as far as pensions is that we have been building it back up, and 2013 was a great year, that actually produced a significant rate of return. Again, this plan, the best plan, defined benefit, is that Albertans don't have to worry about being able to afford to live in their retirement or about outliving their retirement.

Now, defined contribution is exactly that. The only thing that's set in stone is what you're putting in, the employer and employee. One of the challenges with defined contribution is, you know, that when you get to retirement, if you haven't saved enough or if you live too long or if your investments don't perform well enough, well, then you've got to either get a job when you're in your 80s or you simply can't afford to live. There's no safety net under the defined contribution. That's putting a lot of risk onto individuals, onto Albertans.

The third type of plan is the target benefit. Now, this one basically is the worst of the three. I would argue that the only way to go is the defined benefit. This one basically allows for folks that are receiving benefits at the moment in their pensions – they've paid into their plans for years and years, their pension payments, and what they're getting in retirement can be unilaterally changed under this legislation. Target benefit plan contribution rates are fixed for employers and employees, and the benefits to retirees can fluctuate based on the health of the pension fund. This clearly sounds like the worst of all three.

I'll give you a quick example. A person has benefits dropping based on meeting a target of 100 per cent solvency within five years. So the pensioners get their benefits cut to the extent necessary to see the plan return to full health in the next five years. But such a plan could have such a dramatic effect on a pensioner's monthly income during a recession like 2008. The first to go under this is any idea that your benefits will actually keep up with the cost of living. Again, you're stuck with fixed benefits even though we all know that due to inflation the cost of living is continually going up year after year. Under this plan, the targeted, your actual core benefits, what you signed up for, what you were promised, can be chopped, can be changed or dramatically reduced with the stroke of a pen. So people are getting by on even less. The security for a retiree is gone.

You know, it's important to note, Madam Speaker, that a number of, I would say, Albertans and Canadians, when they're thinking about what career to go into, look at not just salary in a given year, but they also look at benefits and they look at retirement security.

The Acting Speaker: Thank you, hon. member.

Standing Order 29(2)(a). The hon. Member for Edmonton-Highlands-Norwood.

Mr. Mason: Thank you, Madam Speaker. On 29(2)(a) I just wanted to ask the hon. member whether or not he agrees with the Treasurer's proposition, as it were, that the only time that this act would be used to allow the conversion of a plan from a defined benefit plan to a target benefit plan was if the plan was completely unworkable, if there just weren't enough new people paying into the plan to continue it. Or might there be the situation . . .

The Acting Speaker: Hon. member, could you please speak into the microphone so that we can hear you?

Mr. Mason: Oh, sure.

An Hon. Member: Some of us are listening.

Mr. Mason: Really? Okay. All right.

The question really is that the Provincial Treasurer asserted that the only time this plan would be used was if the plan was completely unsustainable, and then everybody would have to see that it should be converted and that the benefits should be curtailed in order to match it. I'm asking the hon. Member for Edmonton-Beverly-Clareview if it might not be a situation where the plan might be in some trouble and the employer wants to do exactly what the government wants to do – that is, wants to not pay any extra in order to get the plan back – but the employees want to pay, whether allowing the minister to make all of the decisions about which option would be chosen is going to in fact be fair to the workers or whether or not we can actually trust the government or the minister of the day to protect the workers' rights when the employer is looking to convert the plan and there is a fundamental disagreement about the future plan and different options that might be available.

11:10

Mr. Bilous: Well, I thank the hon. Member for Edmonton-Highlands-Norwood for the question. I think that, to state it quite simply, I trust the Finance minister as far as I can throw him. Needless to say, there have been too many examples where this PC government promises one thing and does the exact opposite. From their actions can Albertans trust that the minister or cabinet will make the best decisions or decisions in their best interests? Sadly, time and time again we have examples of the fact that, no, they will not.

Again, you know, many workers in this province are part of unions that expect to go to the bargaining table in good faith with this government, and the way that this government operates, as we've seen, is that if they don't get the response they want, they'll just come in and legislate. It's shameful and almost laughable when the Education minister talks about negotiating the teachers' agreement last year. I mean, you legislate it because you have some locals that say: no; this is a bad deal. Legislating is not negotiating.

I think this legislation is cause for real concern for workers, especially, again, because with the stroke of a pen the minister can completely change what was promised. I honestly believe that Albertans, when learning about that ability in this legislation, will be outraged. Imagine yourself, Madam Speaker, that you've been promised a certain amount. You've put in your duty, your 20 or 30 years. You're expecting an outcome or a certain dollar amount or benefits on the other end when you retire. Let's say that you're in your second year of retirement and suddenly the minister decides that with a stroke of pen they're going to change that and cut back your benefits even though you've been paying into it for 30 years. I mean, there's nothing that's more undemocratic, in my view, than that.

You know, this bill and the fact that it does give the minister a significant amount of power to make changes to pensions and to what Albertans were promised is shameful.

The Acting Speaker: Thank you, hon. member.

The hon. Member for Calgary-Mountain View.

Dr. Swann: Thank you, Madam Speaker. I'm pleased to stand and speak to Bill 10, Employment Pension (Private Sector) Plans Amendment Act, 2014. In general the bill is intended to amend the unproclaimed Employment Pension Plans Act of 2012, which was supported by all four caucuses. If passed, this bill would allow private-sector pension plan administrators to convert previously accrued defined benefits to targeted benefits without permission from the superintendent of pensions.

Therein lies, I think, one of the fundamental problems that this government is having not only with this bill but with other bills that relate to public-sector and private-sector workers and, indeed, Albertans in general. It's the lack of due process. The minister has indicated that he has been consulting with people, but I guess the question is: has he been accommodating people? Has he been listening to the point where he is making the kinds of decisions that reflect the input he's getting and the balance of interests he says that he's trying to achieve? On the face of it it raises questions about his ability to balance two different interests that have in this case come into conflict.

Again, in my view, this government is struggling with a crisis of trust in this province. When it comes to something as sensitive, emotional, fundamental, and part of our human security needs as a pension fund, they're starting off with at least one hand and one leg tied behind their back because they have no trust in this province. They have repeatedly talked about consultation, whether it's with First Nations or with unions or with landowners, and don't appear to understand that the process is as important as the outcome. It may well be that there is a liability, and the minister has talked about the liability. It would appear that he is reluctant to admit that the liability has already gone down substantially over the past year, but it may well be that our generation is living longer than the previous generation and we have more drawers on the pension than we have contributors to the pension. What I hear repeatedly from economists, some economists at least, and some actuarial experts is that this is being addressed. It is fundamentally, especially in our growing economy, that we're seeing many of these, including – I just read today – Air Canada: a $4.4 billion unfunded liability with their private-sector people is basically gone after a year.

So one has to wonder, again, about why the government has launched into this at this time. What evidence has pushed this particular agenda? Again, the theme is recurring, that average Albertans have lost a sense of being a part of this discussion, a part of a government that is supposed to be representing them, and have lost trust in the government's commitment to due process, whether it's public sector or private sector.

People are currently, indeed, living longer than 10 years ago, but many people don't believe this is going to be sustained.

In the name of serving the public interest, this government has not consulted in a meaningful way and accommodated the various interests that people are requesting and shown, I guess, what I would call fundamental respect for the boards and the negotiators, in this case the private-sector unions and individuals and the employers.

Clearly, they set the tone with bills 45 and 46, that have alienated so many not only in the unions but in the public sector, that fly in the face of basic human rights and due process, and they now are dealing with a public and unions that do not trust that this government has their best interests at heart. It appears again, whether true or not, that this government is intent on balancing its own books and looking good from a financial perspective without addressing the need to accommodate the long-term interests of seniors and people close to retirement and people who are building their retirement package at current times and that this government would arbitrarily insert itself in a process instead of respecting the maturity and the capacity of industry and their employees to deal with these issues in a responsible way, just as Air Canada did in the past week, as I indicated. They reported a major unfunded liability as being addressed because they know how to do it. I mean, these are employers. They understand balancing future interests and current funding. This government has demonstrated a consistent lack of understanding of the importance of a process. In addition to getting results, there has to be a legitimate process that everyone respects and that everyone feels is valued.

In a similar way, I guess, people are asking about whether this minister can be trusted to balance the employee interest with government interest, and without that trust it's very difficult to envision success for this government in either these bills or other bills such as 45 and 46.

To quote another person, in his book Good to Great Jim Collins wrote the classic on principles of successful, sustainable business. It is perhaps true that this government aspires to greatness of business, but it's lost its way in part because government is not a business. As Ken Chapman mentioned today over coffee, governments should be working for the greater good as opposed to simply talking about going from good to great in this province.

11:20

So moving to targeted premiums from defined benefits raises again the whole question of trust. Who is going to determine what those targeted pension funds will look like, and if this government intends to insert itself in this process, how does it reflect a respect for the employer and the employee, who to me are the experts in how to manage their own pension funds? This is undermining a pretty fundamental relationship, and I don't think that it's going to serve either very well.

In the 1990s there were unfunded liabilities higher than today's. There were agreements at that time for targeted premiums to pay the unfunded liability that has now resolved itself. Private employers currently can withdraw from the plan, but this new bill makes it unclear how that arrangement will change. So, Madam Speaker, it's very clear to me that this government is not only inserting itself in a process that has self-correcting capacity; it is offending people on both sides that have respect for the process, and they are creating much more instability, uncertainty, and distrust than they are creating certainty and trust around this important area of all of our lives.

Given the modest nature of many of these pensions I think it's fair to say that this is going to be a very significant two weeks in the history of this government because it's an example, again, of how they really don't listen with any real intent to change their direction. They have an agenda. They give nominal support to a consultative process. But in the end they know exactly where they're going, and that's apparent from this and many other bills that I've watched go through this House in the last eight years.

So we on this side of the House, the Alberta Liberal caucus, will not be supporting this bill among others. Thank you, Madam Speaker.

The Acting Speaker: Thank you, hon. member.

Standing Order 29(2)(a)? Do we have any members who wish to question or comment? Hon. member, under 29(2)(a)?

Mr. Mason: On 29(2)(a)?

The Acting Speaker: Yes.

Mr. Mason: Sure, Madam Speaker.

Hon. Member for Calgary-Mountain View, just a comment. I really did appreciate your speech. It was good, and I would really like to hear a little more.

Dr. Swann: Well, I'm very grateful that you give me yet more time to speak on something that I do actually feel very strongly about, that this government is meddlesome, it is disrespectful, it focuses much more on outcomes than on process, and it doesn't accommodate in a meaningful way the consultation with people, whether it's employers or employees. I think it's been demonstrated again and again in this House that they are losing ground fast as a result of the kinds of processes. Some of the decisions and goals are laudable, but the process often stinks, and that's what you're paying a price for today.

Thank you, Madam Speaker.

The Acting Speaker: Thank you, hon. member.

Three minutes left. Anybody else on 29(2)(a)?

Are there any others who wish to speak in second reading to Bill 10? The hon. Member for Edmonton-Highlands-Norwood.

Mr. Mason: Thank you very much, Madam Speaker. [interjections] The bleatings from the other side are getting louder and less coherent as the hours tick by.

I'm pleased to stand and speak for the first time to second reading of Bill 10, the Employment Pension (Private Sector) Plans Amendment Act, 2014. I think that there's a very important change that is being made here. It allows plan administrators to change defined benefit plans to target benefit plans, and the only caveat is that it is to be done in accordance with rules established by the minister.

Now, the minister has said earlier that, in fact, you know, there are pension plans that aren't sustainable because there aren't enough new people working to support a large number of retirees at all of the benefits that they had been receiving. It's quite true that in some cases that has occurred, and plans simply collapse because there's not enough people paying in to afford the benefits.

But that's not the only time this legislation would be used, Madam Speaker. I think that's really the important point, and the minister skipped right over that as if it would be cut and dried in every case where a plan was not sustainable as a defined benefit plan and had to be converted, and everybody would agree, and all he's just doing is getting government out of the way so they can go ahead and make the changes that everybody agrees upon. Nothing could be further from the truth, as we've seen with the debate over provincial pensions, over the public-sector pension plans.

Different people have different numbers, different people make different assumptions, and different people have different interests. Employees in this case want to retain the full benefits that they currently have under the public plan, but government doesn't want to pay the price of keeping those plans whole and is moving to convert it by stealth into what is effectively a target benefit plan. That's really what it is because with a cap in place if you can't increase the payments by the employer and the employees to sustain the plan, something has to give, and you have to reduce the benefits. It is, essentially, because of those changes, going to become a target benefit plan, something the government does not want to admit. In fact, their propaganda is all about how this can be protected as a defined benefit plan. Nothing could be further from the truth with respect to that.

We're going to see many kinds of situations emerge in these various private-sector plans where there would be disagreements between the employers and the employees, and then the question is: who gets to make the decision? Well, guess who, Madam Speaker? It's going to be the minister. It's going to be the cabinet. They're the ones that are going to decide. I don't know. Maybe we could just guess here. Based on their track record, how many think that they'll side with the employees? Okay. One. How many think that they'll decide to side with the employers? Well, lots more. I think that that's probably a fair assessment of what this... [interjection] It was 4 to 1. We won a vote against you, so just deal with it. Just deal with it, okay? [interjections]

Ms Notley: It's not the kind of vote we wanted to win, though.

Mr. Mason: Yeah.

The Acting Speaker: Hon. members, The Member for Edmonton-Highlands-Norwood has the floor.

Mr. Mason: So you see what it's like.

Now, Madam Speaker, I think it's important that, you know, we have to recognize that in the bill there are no parameters around how a decision about the viability of a defined benefit plan would be determined. There is no set of rules or criteria that would allow an objective assessment about the viability of some of these plans. It's all left up to the minister to make the decision, and that's just not good enough.

I'm sure that as we progress, this plan will enable employers to wriggle out of their responsibilities in their negotiated defined benefit plans, and I think that's what the intent is. In my opinion, that is exactly what the long-term goal of the government is. That's why we've decided that Bill 10 is just as bad as Bill 9.

11:30

In fact, I think that there are a lot of reasons why the true intent of this plan needs to be thoroughly discussed and that the government needs to be a little more straightforward. It has got this private-sector note, in brackets, on the bill. We think it's a misnomer because some public-sector plans would qualify under this act, like the universities academic pension plan, the firefighters' supplementary pension plan, and some plans of small municipalities. We also believe that the government's long-term game is to put the PSPP and the local authorities pension plan under this piece of legislation, so calling this a bill that affects private-sector pensions, I think, is not misleading.

The minister has said that this has been called for, this act has been requested by employers. But he has not, as far as we're aware, consulted with some of the major unions that are invested in private-sector pension plans. There may be a few – I'd like to hear who they were – but when we started calling some of the large unions in the private sector, they were unaware of this bill and had certainly not been consulted about it. Again, it's that same one-sided approach, where the government may have consulted with some employers. There may have been some employer requests to move in this direction. It wouldn't surprise me. But I will also recall that today when I was speaking at the Alberta Chambers of Commerce, I was approached by one of the senior people there, who asked me why the government was going after pensions and said that as far as they were concerned, they had not requested it. They had not asked the government to move against pensions of Albertans, including public-sector pensions.

I think it's really unclear who wants this bill. I think the minister should tell Albertans and tell the House who exactly wants this bill and what their rationale was. He should tell us whom he's consulted with. Whom has the government talked to with respect to this piece of legislation? I don't believe there's been any comprehensive consultation whatsoever. This is just another arbitrary move by this government, where they decide something is going to happen and they move the legislation. We've seen that every time they do that, they shed very significant amounts of public support. I raised that the other day in question period. When they brought in bills 19 and 36 and 50, attacking landowners' rights, they pretty much lost their right wing. When they brought in bills 45 and 46, attacking public-sector workers and their bargaining rights, they pretty much lost whatever left wing they had. And when they brought in these two bills, they lost their landing gear. You can see where the good airship PC government is headed, Madam Speaker, and it's not going down for a soft landing. I think that's clear.

This kind of arbitrary approach: "Let's not negotiate; let's not use our political skills to get a settlement. We'll decide what needs to be done from our point of view, and we'll just legislate it." People have had enough of that approach, Madam Speaker. They've absolutely had enough of that approach, and they've had enough of this PC government.

At this particular point, Madam Speaker, because of our serious concern with this, I would like to move an amendment to the bill.

The Acting Speaker: Hon. member, can we pause for a moment while we circulate that amendment to the rest of the members in the House, please?

Mr. Mason: You'll let me know when to proceed to read the amendment?

The Acting Speaker: Hon. member, if you'd like to go ahead and read the amendment while we're finishing passing it around.

Mr. Mason: Thank you very much, Madam Speaker. I move that the motion for second reading of Bill 10, Employment Pension (Private Sector) Plans Amendment Act, 2014, be amended by deleting all the words after "that" and substituting the following:

Bill 10, Employment Pension (Private Sector) Plans Amendment Act, 2014, be not now read a second time because the Legislative Assembly believes that the bill forces unilateral changes to pension schemes that endanger the health of the plans and restricts transparency and decision-making authority for members.

The Acting Speaker: Hon. member, you understand this is a hoist amendment?

Mr. Mason: It's not a hoist. It's a reasoned amendment, Madam Speaker.

The Acting Speaker: Thank you.

Mr. Mason: Thank you very much. Do you want me to speak now?

The Acting Speaker: Go ahead and proceed.

Mr. Mason: Thank you very much, Madam Speaker. The motion is quite clear. We believe that it forces unilateral changes or permits unilateral changes to pension schemes that may not involve proper consultation with all parties nor balance the interests of all of the parties to a pension scheme and may result in actions that endanger the health of the plan and that the process by which it does so lacks transparency and takes away decision-making authority from members of the particular plan. As a result, we believe that we should not read this bill now a second time. That is the reason why we don't think it should be read a second time; therefore, it's known as a reasoned amendment.

In my view, Madam Speaker, the arguments have been made quite well that, in fact, what we're seeing with this act is actually the creation of a vehicle to allow large private employers and in some cases public employers to convert their plans regardless of the wishes of the people who have paid into the plans and who will receive the benefits from the plans. They have a major ally in that in this provincial government. So I think it's pretty clear that the government's intention here in the long run is to assist large employers to wrap up their pension plans or to convert them to targeted benefit plans, and that is something that I think is absolutely unacceptable.

Madam Speaker, when people go to retire, they have a lifetime of work behind them. They have a limited time in which to enjoy the benefits and the fruits of their labour. They have made plans and they have dreams, and they don't have a chance to do it again. They don't have opportunities for a second chance. When unilateral changes are made to their pensions that reduce that and change everything that they worked for and everything that they planned for, it's just heart-wrenching, and it's unacceptable. For this government to be facilitating it and even, through this legislation, encouraging it is absolutely reprehensible.

This bill should not be passed, and we should pass this amendment in order to send a clear message to this government that they're out of touch, they're out of step with the desires and the needs of Alberta families and Alberta retirees and Alberta seniors. It's time they started focusing on the regular folks in this province who've worked hard all their lives and have eked out a modest retirement benefit for themselves instead of constantly picking on the poor, on the disabled, on the seniors, on middle-class families, attacking education and health care.

It's time this government stopped and looked in the mirror and said: "Why is it that we're in so much trouble? Why is it that we're in so much disarray?" Well, frankly, it wasn't just the former Premier's flights to different parts of the world or her use of government aircraft. If this government had kept its promises that it made in the last election, if it had followed through and done what it said that it was going to do for Alberta families, then I think its popularity, despite the former Premier's transgressions, would have remained fairly high because those were things that people wanted. Those were things that people voted for.

11:40

When it comes right down to it, when they threw the Premier over the side, it was not because of her style or how she dealt with people because people on the other side were willing to put up with that stuff for two years. It was because they were so low in the polls that a vast majority of the members opposite feared the loss of their seats. They have reason to fear the loss of their seats, Madam Speaker, because this is the kind of legislation, this is the kind of approach that has led this government to the cliff, to the abyss, and to the end of its dynasty. I think it's high time that this Legislature stood up to the government, including members on the other side, and said: "No more. We need to be on the side of the working people. We need to be on the side of middle-class families. We need to look after our seniors."

The Acting Speaker: Is there anyone on 29(2)(a)?

Mr. Horner: This is on the motion, is it not?

The Acting Speaker: He has moved the recent amendment, so we get to debate it.

Mr. Horner: Yeah. I want to speak to the amendment, Madam Speaker, not 29(2)(a).

The Acting Speaker: All right. But first we have to make sure that nobody wants to speak on 29(2)(a).

You'd like to speak on 29(2)(a), hon. Member for Edmonton-Calder?

Mr. Eggen: Oh, absolutely. Well, I was just curious to know – the hon. Member for Edmonton-Highlands-Norwood was making a very good point about how this is sort of a fundamental shift away from the public that probably largely voted for this government here. What effects does it really have on that same group of people? Quite frankly, I'm surprised to see both of these bills come forward at this juncture, a very sort of shaky time for the ruling party. So I just would like to hear more about how, you know, it might shake down in a place like Edmonton-Highlands-Norwood.

Mr. Mason: Well, Madam Speaker, I certainly spend a lot of time talking to my constituents. I was at a school closure meeting earlier tonight, where there were several hundred people. Even though the school closure was top of their mind, a number of them wanted to take the opportunity to talk to me about the direction that the government is going and encouraged me to continue our efforts to try to protect pensions for people who work in public jobs. In fact, in northeast Edmonton, that I represented for nearly 25 years at two different levels of government, there's a large number of people who are public employees, either working for the city or the province or other agencies – Alberta Health, for example – and the schools. They're very aware of Bill 9, and they're very concerned about Bill 9.

I'm not sure that people have yet heard as much about Bill 10. But for those employees, for example, who work in Refinery Row – there are lots of them that live in northeast Edmonton; they live in the hon. Member for Edmonton-Beverly-Clareview's riding and in mine – there will be a lot of concern. Many of those operations are unionized and have large private-sector union membership, and they have their own pension plans.

It was interesting that when we contacted Unifor, the union that represents so many of these workers, they had not been consulted. That's a former Canadian energy and paperworkers union, one of the largest unions, and it merged with the Canadian Auto Workers to form a new, large union called Unifor. It represents many of the refinery workers just on the eastern border of the city. There certainly is a substantial stake for those workers in this particular piece of legislation, and I think that they should know about it before the Legislature passes it. But I think that at this rate that won't happen, and I think that that's wrong.

Thank you.

The Acting Speaker: Thank you.

The hon. Minister of Finance and President of Treasury Board.

Mr. Horner: To speak to the amendment, Madam Speaker?

The Acting Speaker: Yes.

Is there anybody else under 29(2)(a)?

Seeing none, the hon. minister.

Mr. Horner: Well, Madam Speaker, as the hon. member may be surprised to know, I cannot accept the amendment. We encourage all members here to not vote for this amendment because of what it says. It says, "The bill forces unilateral changes to pension schemes that endanger the health of the plans and restricts transparency." That's a misrepresentation of the facts and is not anywhere close to the facts of this particular bill.

The House will be reminded, I guess, of some of the comments that I made when we introduced second reading, that this particular amendment comes from something that was done in the fall of 2012. The proposed act will amend the Employment Pension Plans Act, which was passed by this Assembly, as the hon. Member for Edmonton-Strathcona rightly pointed to, with support, I might add, Madam Speaker, from all parties in the fall of 2012.

The act then was actually based on recommendations of the 2008 report that was put forward by the Joint Expert Panel on Pension Standards. Madam Speaker, the panel was struck when the governments of Alberta and British Columbia appointed a variety of experts to look into ways to harmonize and modernize the two provinces' private-sector pension legislation. This is part of the recommendations that the panel came forward with.

As part of their recommendations the panel proposed a new type of pension plan called the target benefit plan and suggested that the rules be developed to allow defined benefit plans in the private sector to retroactively convert accrued defined benefits into targeted benefits. In fact, Madam Speaker, the idea of union plans or collectively bargained plans is actually already in the act. In fact, what we said when we introduced this legislation and what we have said all along is that the regulation will include a clause that stipulates that plan members must be in agreement before a conversion can happen. Let me repeat that: the plan members must be in agreement before a conversion can happen.

In fact, a threshold of agreement must be met in order for that conversion to take place. That means, Madam Speaker, that plan members will be consulted, and if a significant portion of the members disagree with the conversion, it cannot go through. So the fear and the fearmongering that has been going on over on the other side obviously is, you know, pandering to their stakeholder group – they think it is their stakeholder group – for votes, which is unfortunate.

Madam Speaker, I've talked a lot in this House about the fact that defined benefit plans, targeted benefit plans, pension plans in this province need to be helped to foster, to grow, to be sustainable because we want more people on pension plans for exactly the reasons that the hon. members opposite have talked about. In fact, we talk about encouraging employers to create plans and pension plans so that their employees can be rewarded in their retirement years and so that they have something that's there. In fact, you know, there have been good definitions of what defined contribution plans and defined benefit plans and targeted benefit plans are.

One of the hon. members said: well, your DC plan could be retroactively changed. Hardly, Madam Speaker, because a defined contribution plan is exactly that; it's your contributions into the plan. The problem with it is that when the amount that you set aside is gone, it's done. You have nothing.

Defined benefit plans, on the other hand, are there for life. Regardless of what you contributed, you have the amount that's there. We are not doing anything in Bill 9 or Bill 10 that will change that pension promise. In fact, Madam Speaker, what we are doing in both of these bills is ensuring that companies and the public sector can afford to sustainably provide those kinds of pensions and those kinds of benefits to their members.

Frankly, Madam Speaker, for one who does not have a defined benefit plan or a targeted benefit plan, for that matter, I look at this and think to myself: why would somebody over there want to put at tremendous risk – tremendous risk – defined benefit plans or targeted benefit plans by saying, "Don't do anything"? When you look at all of the examples across North America where they didn't do anything, now they are having to do a great deal. Most of those plan members are losing benefits because governments failed to act. Opposition to their action caused the failure of those plans.

11:50

Madam Speaker, this government will not fail to act to protect the defined benefit pension plans, the targeted benefits for employers to offer to their employees, by inaction. We are going to take modest steps to ensure that there is a defined benefit pension plan for their workers in the future. The opposition can fearmonger all they want. The facts don't lie. The Auditor General did not lie when he said that we had to take action now to protect these plans, to deal with these plans, and to deal with this issue.

New Brunswick didn't take action when they should have, and members there are losing benefits. The state of Maine almost went bankrupt because they didn't take action. The state of New Jersey is 64 per cent funded because they didn't take action. They're having to now.

Madam Speaker, it is our duty as the trustees of the public to ensure that people have pensions in the future. It is our duty to ensure that we provide the framework so that plans today can be sustainable into the future. That is why I will not accept a motion to do nothing, and I will not accept the opposition's argument that doing nothing will save the plans. We need to take action, and we need to do it now.

Thank you, Madam Speaker.

The Acting Speaker: Under 29(2)(a), hon. member?

Mr. Dorward: Sure.

The Acting Speaker: Standing Order 29(2)(a) is when you question . . .

Mr. Dorward: The minister?

The Acting Speaker: Yes, the minister.

Mr. Dorward: Yeah. That's kind of what I thought I might do.

The Acting Speaker: Hon. Member for Edmonton-Gold Bar, please proceed.

Mr. Dorward: Thank you, Madam Speaker. As a chartered accountant and somebody who has been following and studying and looking at pensions for my entire career, I just wanted to stand and say that I'm glad to be able to be on this side of the House, to be working with the government, with people who would care enough about the pensions and the future of pension sustainability in the province of Alberta such that the minister would do what he's done with Bill 10 and with Bill 9 as well, if I could speak to that. I ratify everything that the minister just said. In my experience and in my knowledge of 40 years in my career as a chartered accountant and a certified management accountant, this is the right thing for Alberta to do at this time.

Thank you.

The Acting Speaker: Thank you, hon. member.
Any further comment, Minister?

Mr. Horner: Well, thank you, Madam Speaker, and thanks to the hon. Member for Edmonton-Gold Bar. As a chartered accountant he sees a lot in the financial community in terms of what his clients would be looking at in their retirement. He also sees the benefits for those clients, I'm sure, who have defined benefit programs versus those who have defined contributions.

Madam Speaker, we've talked to people like the teachers' plan in Ontario, which is held up as the gold standard – the hon. members opposite might want to listen to this part – for many of the unions and the plans that they're in in Canada. Even the teachers' plan had to make changes to the COLA to make it conditional as opposed to guaranteed because they understand that, moving forward, as the plans mature, there have to be more levers than just taking more money from people's cheques, that there have to be more levers in order to make sure that the pension promise is there.

It's interesting that when we talked to Jim Leech, who wrote the book The Third Rail – and I think somebody over in the Liberal caucus was actually quoting from some of the history in the book. I hope she read the rest of it, because the rest of it said: don't crater defined benefit pension programs as per the Wildrose option; actually change it so the variables are there so they can manage it in the good times and in the negative times of returns. The whole concept of the book – prior to reading it, I didn't think it was – is how you defend and preserve defined benefit programs for Albertans, for Canadians. Frankly, Madam Speaker, a lot of what we're doing didn't come from the book, but it has actually been backed up by what is in that book. It's also been backed up by what good pension plans in this country and beyond are doing today to ensure the sustainability of those plans going forward.

I look at the teachers' plan, and I say: there's a plan, that several of the hon. members opposite should be aware of if they're not, that has joint sponsorship. When I met with the unions last week and we talked about the joint sponsorship discussion that we're going to start, I actually suggested: "Why don't we look at that as the model? It's agreed to in Ontario by the teachers' union, it's agreed to by the payer, if you will, and the joint sponsorship is there. Why don't we look at that as the model? Why don't we bring experts that have been there and done that to say that they have saved their defined benefits and their future for their pension plan? Why don't we bring them out to Alberta to sit down and talk to us? You know, maybe our contribution cap should be arranged like they did in New Brunswick." We're open to that. But I'll come back to this, Madam Speaker.

To do nothing is to not fulfill the duty that we have to employees today, the employees of the past, and the employees of the future. We will not do nothing, Madam Speaker.

The Acting Speaker: Speaking on the amendment, the hon. Member for Edmonton-Strathcona.

Ms Notley: Indeed. Thank you very much, Madam Speaker. Well, you know, that all sounds compelling, but with all due respect, I think the Minister of Finance is really overselling his case, and in so doing, I think he undermines his argument just a touch.

You know, first of all, no one has ever said, the unions themselves have not said: do nothing. The unions have said: negotiate. But this is not negotiation, what you're doing right now. Whether there are tweaks that can be made to enhance the security of the sustainability is an issue that's up in the air, but there has been no negotiation. This is legislation. To suggest otherwise is disingenuous, I would say.

As well, I would say that on your suggestion that we are fearmongering, all I can do is read the legislation to you. Prior to the amendment what we had was a section that allowed for certain changes to plans in the case where the plan was a negotiated cost plan or a jointly sponsored plan and the plan text document of the plan does not contain a target benefit provision, [they] may, with the written consent of the Superintendent, amend the plan text document to reduce benefits.

And then it goes on to suggest that they can reduce or eliminate benefits, that they can reduce the benefit under the targeted benefit provision that was intended to be paid, and they can increase the amount of the contributions. That's what was there before.

Now, if what the minister is saying is true, that all we want to do is make sure that under targeted benefit plans we have flexibility and that we are absolutely not at all interested in scooping away defined benefit plans, then it would not be necessary to add the following clause to that section of the act:

If the plan text document of the plan contains a defined benefit provision, [we can] amend the plan text document to convert, in accordance with the rules prescribed [elsewhere], the defined benefit provision to a target benefit provision, which conversion may apply to accrued benefits, which is another way of saying: retroactive conversion. That's what your act says.

Let's be very clear. Your act is creating the authority to convert from a defined benefit plan. That's what your act is doing. Don't tell us that we're fearmongering because that's what this is all about. That is the crux of this bill. That is what we were advised by your staff. The crux of this bill is to ensure that there is the ability to convert defined benefit plans to targeted benefit plans according to a certain set of rules.

Now, previously the minister also said: well, you know, we're not going to go around converting defined benefit plans to targeted benefit plans on a whim. Presumably, it would only happen if it was the last resort or if there were serious circumstances. I can't remember his exact language, but that was the implication. Well, you know, I followed the trail. I went to section 112, and then I went to section 159, and you know what? There are no rules anywhere – anywhere – in this piece of legislation that prescribe the circumstances under which that conversion can occur. It doesn't say that the plan is at risk of going under tomorrow. It doesn't say that there are absolutely no resources to pay out the benefits. It doesn't say any of those things. So the circumstances under which that conversion can occur are open to interpretation – or, no, not actually. They're open to the decision of cabinet, which will be made at some future time behind closed doors.

12:00

Now, the minister has suggested: "Oh, no. It's only under limited circumstances that we would do it. We promise." Well, with all due respect, Mr. Minister, you may not have noticed with Bill 45 and Bill 46, but your government has no credibility with working people in this province anymore. No one is going to trust you on that, and nobody is going to forgive us for giving you the authority to make up the rules for when you take a defined benefit plan away from a bunch of hard-working retirees and replace it with a targeted benefit plan. Nobody is ever going to forgive us for giving you guys the authority to do that, because you've lost their trust. You've fundamentally and completely lost their trust. You went so far as to arbitrarily and gratuitously breach the Charter of Rights and Freedoms just because you were so keen on beating up on working people. Somebody's having a temper tantrum, so then we decided we needed to express that through sort of the gratuitous breach of our Charter of Rights and Freedoms.

There was no strategic objective to that, but there was an outcome in our little outcome-based world. The outcome was that there was no credibility or trust or faith in that cabinet to make decisions about when targeted benefit plans will replace defined benefit plans for hard-working, long-suffering, long-contributing regular Albertans, who simply thought: "You know what? I went to work. I showed up. I went home. I do my job. I go every day. I pay my contributions. I make my plans. They're not big plans. I don't have houses in Canmore. I don't have free flights to Jasper. I don't get to vacation at the JPL just whenever because it's part of my job perks." They just go to work every day. They make their contributions. They plan their modest retirement for the end of that contribution period, and they think that there was a contract and a promise and a handshake and they can expect to be treated with respect and dignity.

This act makes it very clear that you are giving yourself authority to undo that, to change that bargain, to undo that handshake, and to threaten that modest, secure retirement. The only answer that you can give is: "Don't worry. We'll make regulations to make sure it doesn't happen in too arbitrary of a fashion." But, my friends, I'm sorry. I don't know. There are a lot of Conservative governments, frankly, across this country that could make that argument to working people, but I know for sure that this government is the last one that could make that argument to working people.

It is shocking to me, really, that you folks over there don't get that, that you actually think that this is a strategically wise path to follow. Going after working people arbitrarily, gratuitously, for no good reason to ensure that you keep their raises at zero per cent at a time when the cost-of-living in this province is 2 or 2.1 or 2.2 per cent, to suppress their wages and to do that while also bringing in legislation that breaches the Charter of Rights and Freedoms and also breaches their freedom of speech and also fines them into the Stone Age: you do all that stuff gratuitously because someone was having a temper tantrum. I have to think that it was a temper tantrum generated initiative because it certainly was not strategically considered by anybody with a good political nose. You do that, and then you bring on this: "Hey, you know what? We need to find a way to ease the transition from a defined benefit plan to a targeted benefit plan."

So the minister is simply not correct when he suggests that we are fearmongering. Madam Speaker, what we are doing is reading the legislation. If they think the legislation means something else, then they should write it to mean something else. If they are not happy with the way that we are interpreting the legislation, then they should refer this piece of legislation and not proceed any further. Sit down and actually consult with those 70,000 unrepresented non-union employees who stand to lose their defined pension plan without any consideration, consultation, or notice that this is even happening.

What they should do is go back to the drawing board, write the language the way they apparently think they mean it, and talk to the folks whose lives will be fundamentally changed if this permissive piece of legislation goes forward and hands off that kind of authority to this cabinet and to employers.

They should go back and they should consult with them because this is a mistake. This is a mistake. This is a mistake being made by a government that has really not done a whole heck of a lot but make a whole bunch of mistakes, repeatedly alienating people across the province, repeatedly justifying excesses, justifying overpayments, justifying communications management of objective internal FOIP reviews, justifying everything as though it's all okay while at the same time going after regular working people time and time again. It just doesn't make sense.

I mean, I want to give you guys advice. You know, politically you're not positioning yourselves in a thoughtful way, not at all. But, more importantly, what you're doing is taking yet another run at regular working folks. You are setting up another group of people whose retirement security will become unsecure and whose income stability will become unstable, who will spend less in their rural communities, who will contribute less to their local economies, who will rely more on their children and their children's children for care and for income support, who will put more pressure on our health care system because, as we've already covered earlier tonight, when people are poor, they become more unhealthy and they make a bigger demand on our health care system. This is what you do when you remove security of retirement.

The great thing about most Albertans is that they don't live like these folks over here. They don't just sort of take as a matter of right a plane ride to the JPL and to here and to there and: "Oh, you know, I don't want to drive. I'll just fly on our private jet." That's not their world. The fact of the matter is that on a very modest retirement income, a very modest one, they can actually plan to live well. They can plan to put food on the table. They can plan to make sure that they've got a roof over their heads. They can plan to make sure that they've got enough money put aside to give the grandkids Christmas presents. They can do all that without drawing on social resources while continuing to contribute to the community. They can do that on a very small fraction of the amount of money that these folks seem to think is an entitlement that they need to live on.

All we need to do is to let them do it. All we need to do is to give them certainty and say: "Carry on the way you've been going before. Continue contributing to the community. Continue volunteering. Continue buying your groceries at your local store at the end of Main Street in your small town in rural Alberta. Continue doing all those things, and we'll support you because we know that you are what this community is based on. This is how we grow our communities and provide healthy communities. That's what we do."

But what you do instead is say: "Guess what? You may or may not have this much money when you retire. Next month you may not have this money. The month after that you might have a bit more. Two months after that you might have a bit less. We needed to do this because, you know, Suncor was at risk of defaulting on the defined benefit pension plan, and we know how at risk Suncor is. So it was really important for us to ensure that we never ask Suncor to raise their contributions." That's what you're doing. You're making choices, and the choice that you are making is not favouring regular Albertans. That's why you should reject this bill and vote in favour of our amendment.

Thank you very much, Madam Speaker.

The Acting Speaker: Thank you, hon. member.

Standing Order 29(2)(a). Hon. Member for Edmonton-Calder, are you on 29(2)(a)?

Mr. Eggen: On 29(2)(a), yes, Madam Speaker, please.

The Acting Speaker: Go ahead.

Mr. Eggen: Well, thank you very much. That was a very interesting and illuminating speech. I notice you cleared out some of the people. Their ears were burning so much that they just had to get out for a while from under the radiance of that analysis.

But there was one part there that I just wanted to know more about. I'm quite flabbergasted. My impression from the Finance minister's speech, which was actually pretty good, too – it didn't have a lot there, but it sounded good. He seemed to be hanging so much of his argument on the idea that the employees, if they wanted to move from a defined benefit plan to a targeted, would have to all agree first or, he said, like, a significant number of them or something like that. Where in the legislation is that supported? That seems to be the key thing that says: oh, well, everybody has to be agreed and happy about moving from a defined benefit to a target before it goes forward. Is that actually supported in the legislation?

12:10

Ms Notley: Well, that's really a very good question because, in fact, that goes back to the discussion we had before, and the answer is no. It is clearly not laid out in the legislation. In circumstances where there is a union representing the members at a particular site with a particular pension plan, presumably the union does have the internal process at their disposal to ensure that their members agree. The fact of the matter, though, is that this does not just apply to unionized settings. It also applies to where there are no unionized employees, and then, Member for Edmonton-Calder, what we are being asked to do is, once again, trust that this government will come up with a set of rules through regulation that ensures proper consultation with those employees.

Interestingly, there's another section of the legislation that actually reduces the obligation for service and notice on employees and makes it much simpler. You can just send notice to the last address we had 10 years ago and, you know, that kind of thing. So they're already opening the door to reduce any sort of consultative obligation.

We don't know what a significant number of employees is. Is it 20 per cent? Is it 50? Is it 75? We don't know. That's a decision that they're going to make. We don't know how much they have to be told before they're asked. We're not told what information they're going to be given, how objectively that information will be put before them, or if it will just be presented by the employer that wants to get away from having to increase their contributions. We know none of those answers. It's all left to regulation. The fact of the matter is that it's another "trust us." Again, it just goes back to my initial statement. I don't get that you guys wouldn't understand that asking employees to trust you is just not on. You've done nothing to earn that trust. Nothing to earn that trust. Yeah, that's all I can say.

There is, actually, nothing in this legislation that ensures significant and appropriate consultation on the part of non-unionized employees, and frankly there are even some questions about what it would look like with the unionized sector, but my bigger concern at this point is the many non-union employees that are covered by these changes, for whom there are no guarantees written anywhere in this legislation.

Mr. Eggen: So you're saying that there's a "trust in me" kind of thing. You know, it came to me. This member is not that great with cultural allusions – right? – but there's that scene in the Jungle Book where Mowgli is talking to the giant snake. The giant snake is trying to get him up into the tree, and he just says: trust in me. He's got a song that he sings like that. Of course, the snake does not have the best intentions of the public in mind, really, but says come on up. It just came to my mind.

Well, you know, it seems like bills 9 and 10 are very closely linked in that we're moving the power of decision-making from the boards, from – correct me if I'm wrong – a consultative process, from the employees to executives and cabinet. So is that the link I'm seeing between 9 and 10, or am I missing something?

Mr. Mason: The snake's name was Kaa.

Ms Notley: Thank you, because I couldn't really have gone on with an answer to that question without knowing the snake's name, and I think that's . . .

Mr. Eggen: Well, from the Jungle Book.

Ms Notley: From the Jungle Book. It's important to understand. Kaa. If I knew the tune I'd sing it, but . . .

The Acting Speaker: Are there any other members that wish to speak to the amendment?

The hon. Member for Edmonton-Calder on the amendment.

Mr. Eggen: Yes, on the amendment. Thank you, Madam Speaker. You know, I'm sort of two minds with this amendment because in some ways it's such a gift that not only – well, with Bill 9 it was such an egregious, obvious, and sort of vengeful attack on the public sector that the only problem that we were sort of having in trying to work through how we're going to talk about this is that, well, we know that the members opposite will hit back and say, "oh, well, you're just trying to defend the public sector, and they have these giant pensions and all that kind of thing," which is not true at all. The average draw for a public service pension is between $13,000 and $15,000 per annum, not per month like some of you might think, right? They would try to say: oh, well, there is only 15 per cent of the population that has that public service pension. Along comes Bill 10, lo and behold, where they go after the whole thing, where any defined benefit pension that might exist somewhere on the horizon in the province of Alberta suddenly goes into the gunights of this same government.

I mean, it's not good at all, Madam Speaker, this whole thing. The only reason that I would let them carry on is that you give a person – what's the analogy? I'm full of analogies late into the night. You give somebody enough rope, and they will . . .

Mr. Bilous: Hang themselves.

Mr. Eggen: . . . hang themselves. Exactly. This whole thing really does that.

I just think that we are actually doing this government a favour by saying, "Okay; well, just pull back a little bit" because the scope by which you are aggravating the working population of this province here with Bill 9 and Bill 10 goes far beyond your favourite target, which seems to be unionized employees, who actually organize themselves and create a certain power base to create some sort of enhanced benefit for not only their own members but for the rest of the population, too. Don't forget that when there exists a proper unionized . . .

[Mr. Jeneroux in the chair]

Mr. Bilous: Look at the Speaker.

Mr. Eggen: Holy Toledo. There you go.

Where there exists a strong union presence, then even the non-unionized workers gain some benefit, the classic examples being Suncor and Syncrude, right? The idea that you would go ahead with this Bill 10, where anybody who has managed to pull together a defined benefit pension – and don't forget that those are negotiated and organized not just by the workers but by the employers, too, to attract workers into their place because this is part of what you negotiate. It's part of the person's wages. And it's not just the wages, but it's that intangible but very important thing, which is a sense of security for the future, right? Because, Mr. Speaker – enjoy it while you're up there – all power is brief, let me tell you. He looks good up there, though.

The whole issue around these pensions is not just the money, the very modest sum that you can look forward to in your retirement, but the security as you work through your entire working life to know that that's going to be there and that the terms of that are defined in a way that you can be secure about and that you can make plans for in the future. If you change the rules, Mr. Speaker, in the middle of the game, you are not just breaking a law; you're breaking an ethical tenet by which we function here in our society, and that is a sense of security and a sense of a contract between the working people that signed up for a defined benefit and the employer that did sign up for that, too.

This is a way by which somebody can change the rules. Mr. Speaker, when do we think, really, that the rules are going to be changed? It's not going to be in the midst of wine and roses and, you know, when everybody is doing great. No. It's going to be when a business is not doing well, and they're not doing well because they're short of money. When they're short of money, where is the first place that they're going to go? They'll go for the pensions, especially for the people that have already retired and are not working there anymore.

You know, the examples are legion amongst Canadian and international companies that have gone broke over time. The first people that get hit are the pensioners that already signed up. So if you create a mechanism by which you change those rules and allow the employer to make those changes to the rules, then you're just asking for trouble, right? I don't have to go any further to give everyone a very lugubrious example in the very recent past where pensions were cast aside, and that word is "Nortel," where literally tens of thousands of people suddenly had the rope pulled out from under them. Lots and lots of people lost their jobs, yes, but the very first people to lose were the pensioners, who lost their benefits.

[Mrs. Jablonski in the chair]

The Finance minister said – I've heard him say this before, you know, and this is a very hollow argument – well, where do you think the money is going to come from? Well, if you organize something in a responsible way and you know that the law is standing there that's going to compel you to pay that pension and they're not going to be able to change those rules in the midst, Madam Speaker, then you're just going to organize yourself and make sure that you follow those rules and not be so cavalier about your business and about your pension responsibilities, that you are not going to be able to pay them.

12:20

Yes, of course, some businesses do fail in time, and some businesses are more successful or less successful than others. But if you have strong, solid rules that compel a business to ensure that they stay with the pension benefit that they had signed their employees up for, then that's going to be more likely to create stability, not just for the pensions but for those businesses, too, and they're less likely to behave in a cavalier sort of way, especially when they get into a bit of trouble.

I'm just very glad that we are – you know, you should be glad, too, that we're giving you a little escape route here, right? This is nothing, no skin off anybody's back. We can all shake hands afterwards and talk about this reasoned amendment, moving this thing forward here. Unilateral changes are not good for anyone. They don't just affect the health of pension plans, but they can also affect the health of political parties that are already in a little bit of trouble, I would suggest. I mean, that's just friendly advice. I don't know. You can go your own way on that. But I think it's not unreasonable to just pull back here at the moment and face the sober light of dawn and perhaps find something else to go after. [interjection] It is coming up very soon, yes, it being spring and all.

I guess my main concern – if it wasn't for that one provision, really, Bill 10 could have functioned okay. I remember, in fact, being with the Finance minister a couple of years ago when you were sort of thinking about which way to go on these things, right? It's just not so unreasonable for people to make a choice from the onset what sort of pension plan they want to draw from and so forth. You know, pensions are meant to go over a very long period of time. They can function and continue to function and maybe find some instability and regain their footing over a 30- or 40-year period.

Sometimes for human beings that's a hard thing to think of, but we do have to realize that. You have to look at the long-term demographics of your population. If you do not have young people investing into the pensions for the people that have already retired, then the whole scheme is gone. It doesn't matter how much money you've got banked out or whatever for the pension. That money will disappear very, very quickly if you don't have a continuous stream of new people to sign up for those pensions and, essentially, pay for the pensions of the people that have already retired.

Now, for most people that's not a big deal. It's great. We quite enjoy doing that. I was part of the teachers' pension. You know, you expect the same from what came before, right? But if you start to make these sorts of attacks like bills 9 and 10, not only are you destabilizing the people that might be looking for those pensions, but you are deterring younger people from investing and getting involved in those pensions in the first place. I find that the most despicable part of this whole little exercise here. That's the unsaid part of the whole thing, that you are dislodging the young people to join the pension plans in the first place, and thus the whole thing just crumbles like a sandcastle. It doesn't take much. It doesn't take long to burn through the money, like you say, if you have lots of retirees, and then suddenly, boom, you don't have a lot of young people starting to invest in it.

The second prong of that thing that you can use if you really want to be subversive is that you just stop hiring people with pensions on the public service side, and, lo and behold, there's not anybody investing in that front end to help pay for the back end. Why? Because you've shrunk the public service so much that, you know, it's just a shadow of what it was before. I mean, that's a sidebar, I suppose, to the central thing here with Bill 10, the idea that we just want to make a very reasoned amendment here from my colleague from Edmonton-Highlands-Norwood and move on to bigger and better things.

I certainly support this amendment. I think it's very timely, and I think that everybody will walk away feeling better if they do support this.

The Acting Speaker: Thank you, hon. member.

Standing Order 29(2)(a). Any questions or comments for the hon. Member for Edmonton-Calder?

Seeing none, the hon. Member for Calgary-Buffalo on the amendment.

Mr. Hehr: Well, thank you very much, Madam Speaker. I'm pleased to speak in support of the amendment put forward by the Member for Edmonton-Highlands-Norwood, which states, "Bill 10, Employment Pension (Private Sector) Plans Amendment Act, 2014, be not now read a second time because the Legislative Assembly believes that the bill forces unilateral changes to pension schemes that endanger the health of the plans and restricts transparency and decision-making authority for members."

On the face of it I have to support this amendment. I listened to the arguments put forward by the hon. minister of Treasury Board as well as the arguments put forward by the hon. Member for Edmonton-Strathcona. Don't get me wrong; both were impassioned speeches. Nevertheless, when one looks at the legislation and how it is worded and the real result of what this Bill 10 does, which, in my view, essentially is a companion bill to

Bill 9, that serves as an attack on working people and what they can expect to get in retirement, this bill sort of serves to take away the defined benefit plans that people had paid into for their lives at the stroke of a pen or the passing of this bill.

You must remember that the hon. minister stated that this would be subject to some form of negotiation, that you'd have to get employees and employers together outside and that this wouldn't be done willy-nilly or at the drop of a hat, that it would only be used in some sort of limited situations.

I, too, then went to the legislation. Primarily, this is in section 20. As it's amended in the new reading of the bill, it says:

- (d) if the plan text document of the plan contains a defined benefit provision, may amend the plan text document to convert, in accordance with the rules prescribed for the purposes of section 112, the defined benefit provision to a target benefit provision, which conversion may apply to accrued benefits.

If you follow the bouncing ball along over to section 112 and further on in the bill, there is no reference to any type of consultation, any type of agreement, any type of meeting of the minds that must take place between employees and employers when this so-called move happens when you go from a defined benefit plan to a target benefit plan as the minister suggested in his comments was the actual way the new Bill 10 was going to work. In no way, shape, or fashion does this appear on the face of the bill. Now, I do say that the minister did say that this would be contained in regulation. You know, I guess that could happen, but I guess that it couldn't either. In particular, I don't think people who are part of these plans would have much confidence in the government doing anything on behalf of the working men and women of this province. Simply put, if I was a working person, I would come to the exact opposite conclusion.

If we look at what's happened since that election in 2012, we've seen an unprecedented attack on public-sector workers, and now we have it even on private-sector plans. Now, it is true that some people affected by the changes of this bill will have a union to represent them to, I guess, discuss these plans and negotiate them and go back to the drawing board on these things, which is something they've already negotiated. But it's my understanding that there are 70,000 non-unionized employees who will be affected by this and, in my view, the way this legislation is written, could have but more likely will have at some point in time in the very near future their pension plans moved from a defined benefit plan to a target, which in no way, shape, or form will serve them in the same way going forward.

12:30

We've been through this before, but I think it's important to understand that defined benefit plans ensure that people have a set, predictable, sustainable retirement. I think those were a lot of buzzwords around the last election: predictable, sustainable funding. It would seem to be a goal that this government promised and wanted to deliver on and the like. Sure enough, you'd think they'd want it for retirees, but by enacting this type of legislation, that certainly is not going to be the case.

I have to also comment that I believe the political calculation here in the way the government has acted since being elected is completely backwards. I think they actually had it right in the 2012 election. They understood that the province had changed, that it actually wanted to have, you know, schools in neighbourhoods where kids live. They wanted to move away from what had been sort of described as a slow to move government that was very right-wing and was not implementing progressive alternatives to support, I guess, frankly, the people on the margins, the working people of this province, who got the short end of the stick for quite a few years.

But I think the political calculation is all wrong in this. Instead of following through on that – I think they were right to understand to want to move towards fixing a fiscal structure that was broken, to fixing a lot of our social benefits that were teetering, to fixing the direction of public education, and moving towards full-day kindergarten and things like that, that other provinces had gone to – they instead said: “Oh, my goodness. Despite winning a majority going after a centrist vote, let's go for the votes that we already lost.” For some inexplicable reason this party did that, and in my view, it was unwise, silly. Nevertheless, bills like this seem to suggest – or not even suggest; verify – that that's the direction they're going in. In attacking regular working people and attacking the benefits that they have worked for, that they were hoping for in their retirement in both the public-sector and now the private-sector pension plans, I really don't know where they think they got their mandate from.

In any event, I think this motion would actually go some way for us to allow us to move to have this bill stopped here at this time, allow the government to get their bearings and assess whether this is truly in this province's best interest and to actually look at whether or not, if we want to continue down this path, we have in this province bills 45, 46, now 9 and 10, which are, in my view, attacks on regular working people, people who maybe, you know, are not working in the high-paying oil and gas sector or maybe not in the sort of category of income that the flat tax benefits but nevertheless they've negotiated a reasonable retirement through a defined benefit plan. That's what they went into, and they did so to hope for a reasonable retirement.

In any event, that's why I'm supporting this. I appreciated the hon. Member for Edmonton-Strathcona pointing out that this bill, Bill 10, does not contain any of the things that allegedly were supposed to be there, where employees and employers would come to a meeting of the minds to discuss as to whether you'd move the defined benefit pension plan to a targeted benefit plan in these situations. This is not present in the legislation. Accordingly, I have no confidence that it will be there. As it is, on its face, the legislation in front of us is just a way to convert defined benefit plans to targeted benefit plans, which will impact the average employee in a negative way in their retirement years.

Thank you very much, Madam Speaker.

The Acting Speaker: Thank you, hon. member.

On Standing Order 29(2)(a)?

Seeing none, is there any other member interested in debating the reasoned amendment? The hon. Member for Edmonton-Beverly-Clareview.

Mr. Bilous: Thank you very much, Madam Speaker. I rise in support of this amendment for a number of reasons, which I will outline here. Again, to remind members, this amendment is quite simply stating that Bill 10, the Employment Pension (Private Sector) Plans Amendment Act, 2014, be not now read a second time.

The reasons behind this are really why it is a reasonable and reasoned amendment. This bill does force unilateral changes to pension schemes, which can and will endanger the health of the plans yet at the same time also restrict transparency and decision-making authority for its members.

Now, a large reason of how the decision-making authority will be restricted is because, again, this bill as it is currently written means that the minister will have the ability to change pension plans that were already negotiated in the past, that have been in place for years if not decades for some. These pensions were part of the agreement that workers made with their employer as part of their compensation for their work. It seems absurd that an agreement that was made over the span of decades, where what an employee was under the impression, was promised, they would be getting in their retirement can suddenly change for no reason other than the minister decides that the plans need to change. Maybe the minister is lobbied by said company. Regardless, the outcome is that this worker has devoted their life to this company, to their employer, again, under the assumption that they're going to be compensated, and the compensation came in how they were going to be paid in wages, in benefits, and, again, in retirement.

Part of where pensions came from was rewarding loyalty to employees for staying with a company. Again, you know, I think what this government is forgetting or overlooking is the importance of retirement security and knowing that you're going to be able to afford to continue to live whereas when changes are made on the fly or at a moment's notice, this is going to put unbelievable pressure on folks, especially because of its retroactive ability. That, to me, just boggles my mind, Madam Speaker, that something that was signed and agreed to for years if not decades can suddenly be changed. I mean, it's outrageous, quite frankly.

12:40

You know, I want to also talk about this attack, and it is, quite frankly, an attack on working Albertans, between Bill 9 and Bill 10. Again, this is where bills 9 and 10 are just dripping with irony. We had some of the most severe flooding in Alberta's history happen last year. The people who were on the scene first, our front-line workers, people who came from all over the province to assist with families and the emergency workers in southern Alberta, were praised by this government, by every member in this House over and over for their work, their dedication, their sacrifice of themselves, their own health, their own families in order to assist fellow Albertans, which was extremely noble. Many of us if not all of us were extremely proud of our fellow Albertans.

Now, where the irony comes in, Madam Speaker, is that Bill 9 and Bill 10 along with bills 45 and 46 are how this PC government repays those very same front-line workers: wage freezes, wage rollbacks, now attacking their pensions. I mean, it's quite clear that this government's agenda is to hollow out and offend all of the very same workers that work in their offices, which help make this province go round on a day-to-day basis.

I'm quite frustrated with this, but I agree with the Member for Edmonton-Highlands-Norwood's amendment in that this bill is terrible. It doesn't actually say that although it really could. We're saying: let's not read this bill for a second time. You know, again, part of the issues are the unilateral changes that can be made, should the minister so desire, with the stroke of a pen, and that's just not right.

Now, Madam Speaker, I'd like to just read – and I have dictionary here – the definition of negotiate because this government doesn't seem to get negotiate. [interjections] I am planning to. I need to wrap up this thought. This is extremely important. Excuse me, hon. members. I'm trying to read. Negotiate is trying “to reach an agreement or compromise by discussion” with others. Here's something that maybe the Finance minister missed. A negotiation is a discussion with others, not with yourself, not with your cabinet.

Mr. Eggen: Imaginary friends.

Mr. Bilous: Not with your imaginary friends. It's talking to the very folks who this legislation along with Bill 9 is going to affect. That is one of the reasons I think that so many public-sector workers and private-sector workers are quite upset with this legislation. They were not consulted. There was no negotiation. This is being forced. It's being forced on them. Madam Speaker, I feel it my duty to explain this to the Finance minister along with every member in the House.

I'll leave that there for now, Madam Speaker, although I would really like to say that I'm just warming up. Therefore, I strongly urge all members of the House to support this amendment and now not read Bill 10 for a second time.

Thank you, Madam Speaker.

The Acting Speaker: Are there any other speakers on the amendment?

Seeing none, we'll call the question.

[Motion on amendment to second reading of Bill 10 lost]

The Acting Speaker: We will go back to second reading of Bill 10. Are there any other members who wish to speak?

Hon. Members: Question.

Mr. Campbell: Madam Speaker, I'd ask for unanimous consent to go to one-minute bells, please.

[Unanimous consent granted]

[The voice vote indicated that the motion for second reading carried]

[Several members rose calling for a division. The division bell was rung at 12:46 a.m.]

[One minute having elapsed, the Assembly divided]

[Mrs. Jablonski in the chair]

For the motion:

Amery	Horner	Rodney
Bhullar	Hughes	Rowe
Campbell	Jansen	Sandhu
Cusanelli	Jeneroux	Sarich
Dallas	Johnson, L.	Starke
DeLong	Klimchuk	Strankman
Dorward	Luan	VanderBurg
Fawcett	Lukaszuk	Wilson
Fraser	McIver	Woo-Paw
Fritz	McQueen	Xiao
Hale	Oberle	Young
Horne	Quadri

12:50

Against the motion:

Bilous	Hehr	Notley
Eggen	Mason	Swann
Totals:	For – 35	Against – 6

[Motion carried; Bill 10 read a second time]

Mr. Campbell: Madam Speaker, it's late, so let's call it a morning, and we will adjourn until 1:30.

[Motion carried; the Assembly adjourned at 12:51 a.m. on Wednesday to 1:30 p.m.]

Table of Contents

Government Bills and Orders
Committee of the Whole
Bill 8 Appropriation Act, 2014.....	563
Second Reading
Bill 10 Employment Pension (Private Sector) Plans Amendment Act, 2014	580
Division	596

If your address is incorrect, please clip on the dotted line, make any changes, and return to the address listed below. To facilitate the update, please attach the last mailing label along with your account number.

Subscriptions
Legislative Assembly Office
1001 Legislature Annex
9718 – 107 Street
EDMONTON, AB T5K 1E4

Last mailing label:

Account # _____

New information:

Name:

Address:

Subscription information:

Annual subscriptions to the paper copy of Alberta Hansard (including annual index) are $127.50 including GST if mailed once a week or $94.92 including GST if picked up at the subscription address below or if mailed through the provincial government interdepartmental mail system. Bound volumes are $121.70 including GST if mailed. Cheques should be made payable to the Minister of Finance.

Price per issue is $0.75 including GST.

Online access to Alberta Hansard is available through the Internet at www.assembly.ab.ca

Subscription inquiries:

Subscriptions
Legislative Assembly Office
1001 Legislature Annex
9718 – 107 St.
EDMONTON, AB T5K 1E4
Telephone: 780.427.1302

Other inquiries:

Managing Editor
Alberta Hansard
1001 Legislature Annex
9718 – 107 St.
EDMONTON, AB T5K 1E4
Telephone: 780.427.1875

Province of Alberta

The 28th Legislature
Second Session

Alberta Hansard

Wednesday afternoon, April 23, 2014

Issue 22a

The Honourable Gene Zwozdesky, Speaker

Legislative Assembly of Alberta The 28th Legislature

Second Session

Zwozdesky, Hon. Gene, Edmonton-Mill Creek (PC), Speaker
Rogers, George, Leduc-Beaumont (PC), Deputy Speaker and Chair of Committees
Jablonski, Mary Anne, Red Deer-North (PC), Deputy Chair of Committees

Allen, Mike, Fort McMurray-Wood Buffalo (Ind)
Amery, Moe, Calgary-East (PC)
Anderson, Rob, Airdrie (W),
 Official Opposition House Leader
Anglin, Joe, Rimbey-Rocky Mountain House-Sundre (W)
Barnes, Drew, Cypress-Medicine Hat (W)
Bhardwaj, Hon. Naresh, Edmonton-Ellerslie (PC)
Bhullar, Hon. Manmeet Singh, Calgary-Greenway (PC)
Bikman, Gary, Cardston-Taber-Warner (W)
Bilous, Deron, Edmonton-Beverly-Clareview (ND)
Blakeman, Laurie, Edmonton-Centre (AL),
 Liberal Opposition House Leader
Brown, Dr. Neil, QC, Calgary-Mackay-Nose Hill (PC)
Calahasen, Pearl, Lesser Slave Lake (PC)
Campbell, Hon. Robin, West Yellowhead (PC),
 Government House Leader
Cao, Wayne C.N., Calgary-Fort (PC)
Casey, Ron, Banff-Cochrane (PC)
Cusanelli, Christine, Calgary-Currie (PC)
Dallas, Hon. Cal, Red Deer-South (PC)
DeLong, Alana, Calgary-Bow (PC)
Denis, Hon. Jonathan, QC, Calgary-Acadia (PC),
 Deputy Government House Leader
Donovan, Ian, Little Bow (W)
Dorward, David C., Edmonton-Gold Bar (PC),
 Deputy Government Whip
Drysdale, Hon. Wayne, Grande Prairie-Wapiti (PC)
Eggen, David, Edmonton-Calder (ND),
 New Democrat Opposition Whip
Fawcett, Hon. Kyle, Calgary-Klein (PC)
Fenske, Jacquie, Fort Saskatchewan-Vegreville (PC)
Forsyth, Heather, Calgary-Fish Creek (W)
Fox, Rodney M., Lacombe-Ponoka (W)
Fraser, Hon. Rick, Calgary-South East (PC)
Fritz, Yvonne, Calgary-Cross (PC)
Goudreau, Hector G., Dunvegan-Central Peace-Notley (PC)
Griffiths, Hon. Doug, Battle River-Wainwright (PC)
Hale, Jason W., Strathmore-Brooks (W)
Hancock, Hon. Dave, QC, Edmonton-Whitemud (PC),
 Premier
Hehr, Kent, Calgary-Buffalo (AL)
Horne, Hon. Fred, Edmonton-Rutherford (PC)
Horner, Hon. Doug, Spruce Grove-St. Albert (PC)
Hughes, Ken, Calgary-West (PC)
Jansen, Hon. Sandra, Calgary-North West (PC)
Jeneroux, Matt, Edmonton-South West (PC)
Johnson, Hon. Jeff, Athabasca-Sturgeon-Redwater (PC)
Johnson, Linda, Calgary-Glenmore (PC)
Kang, Darshan S., Calgary-McCall (AL),
 Liberal Opposition Whip
Kennedy-Glans, Donna, QC, Calgary-Varsity (Ind)
Khan, Stephen, St. Albert (PC)
Klimchuk, Hon. Heather, Edmonton-Glenora (PC)
Kubinec, Maureen, Barrhead-Morinville-Westlock (PC)
Lemke, Ken, Stony Plain (PC)
Leskiw, Genia, Bonnyville-Cold Lake (PC)
Luan, Jason, Calgary-Hawkwood (PC)
Lukaszuk, Hon. Thomas A., Edmonton-Castle Downs (PC)
Mason, Brian, Edmonton-Highlands-Norwood (ND),
 Leader of the New Democrat Opposition
McAllister, Bruce, Chestermere-Rocky View (W)
McDonald, Everett, Grande Prairie-Smoky (PC)
McIver, Hon. Ric, Calgary-Hays (PC)
McQueen, Hon. Diana, Drayton Valley-Devon (PC)
Notley, Rachel, Edmonton-Strathcona (ND),
 New Democrat Opposition House Leader
Oberle, Hon. Frank, Peace River (PC),
 Deputy Government House Leader
Olesen, Cathy, Sherwood Park (PC)
Olson, Hon. Verlyn, QC, Wetaskiwin-Camrose (PC),
 Deputy Government House Leader
Pastoor, Bridget Brennan, Lethbridge-East (PC)
Pedersen, Blake, Medicine Hat (W)
Quadri, Sohail, Edmonton-Mill Woods (PC)
Quest, Hon. Dave, Strathcona-Sherwood Park (PC)
Redford, Alison M., QC, Calgary-Elbow (PC)
Rodney, Hon. Dave, Calgary-Lougheed (PC)
Rowe, Bruce, Olds-Didsbury-Three Hills (W)
Sandhu, Peter, Edmonton-Manning (PC)
Sarich, Janice, Edmonton-Decore (PC)
Saskiw, Shayne, Lac La Biche-St. Paul-Two Hills (W),
 Official Opposition Whip
Scott, Hon. Donald, QC, Fort McMurray-Conklin (PC)
Sherman, Dr. Raj, Edmonton-Meadowlark (AL),
 Leader of the Liberal Opposition
Smith, Danielle, Highwood (W),
 Leader of the Official Opposition
Starke, Hon. Dr. Richard, Vermilion-Lloydminster (PC)
Stier, Pat, Livingstone-Macleod (W)
Strankman, Rick, Drumheller-Stettler (W)
Swann, Dr. David, Calgary-Mountain View (AL)
Towle, Kerry, Innisfail-Sylvan Lake (W),
 Official Opposition Deputy Whip
VanderBurg, George, Whitecourt-Ste. Anne (PC),
 Government Whip
Weadick, Hon. Greg, Lethbridge-West (PC)
Webber, Len, Calgary-Foothills (Ind)
Wilson, Jeff, Calgary-Shaw (W),
 Official Opposition Deputy House Leader
Woo-Paw, Hon. Teresa, Calgary-Northern Hills (PC)
Xiao, David H., Edmonton-McClung (PC)
Young, Steve, Edmonton-Riverview (PC)

Party standings:

Progressive Conservative: 58 Wildrose: 17 Alberta Liberal: 5 New Democrat: 4 Independent: 3

Officers and Officials of the Legislative Assembly

W.J. David McNeil, Clerk	Stephanie LeBlanc, Parliamentary Counsel and Legal Research Officer	Philip Massolin, Manager of Research Services
Robert H. Reynolds, QC, Law Clerk/ Director of Interparliamentary Relations	Fiona Vance, Sessional Parliamentary Counsel	Brian G. Hodgson, Sergeant-at-Arms
Shannon Dean, Senior Parliamentary Counsel/Director of House Services	Nancy Robert, Research Officer	Chris Caughell, Assistant Sergeant-at-Arms
		Gordon H. Munk, Assistant Sergeant-at-Arms
		Janet Schwegel, Managing Editor of Alberta Hansard

Executive Council

Dave Hancock	Premier, President of Executive Council, Minister of Innovation and Advanced Education
Naresh Bhardwaj	Associate Minister – Services for Persons with Disabilities
Manmeet Singh Bhullar	Minister of Human Services
Robin Campbell	Minister of Environment and Sustainable Resource Development
Cal Dallas	Minister of International and Intergovernmental Relations
Jonathan Denis	Minister of Justice and Solicitor General
Wayne Drysdale	Minister of Transportation
Kyle Fawcett	Associate Minister – Recovery and Reconstruction for Southwest Alberta
Rick Fraser	Associate Minister – Public Safety Associate Minister – Recovery and Reconstruction for High River
Doug Griffiths	Minister of Service Alberta
Fred Horne	Minister of Health
Doug Horner	President of Treasury Board and Minister of Finance
Sandra Jansen	Associate Minister – Family and Community Safety
Jeff Johnson	Minister of Education, Ministerial Liaison to the Canadian Forces
Heather Klimchuk	Minister of Culture
Thomas Lukaszuk	Minister of Jobs, Skills, Training and Labour
Ric McIver	Minister of Infrastructure
Diana McQueen	Minister of Energy
Frank Oberle	Minister of Aboriginal Relations
Verlyn Olson	Minister of Agriculture and Rural Development
Dave Quest	Associate Minister – Seniors
Dave Rodney	Associate Minister – Wellness
Donald Scott	Associate Minister – Accountability, Transparency and Transformation
Richard Starke	Minister of Tourism, Parks and Recreation
Greg Weadick	Associate Minister – Recovery and Reconstruction for Southeast Alberta
Teresa Woo-Paw	Associate Minister – International and Intergovernmental Relations

STANDING AND SPECIAL COMMITTEES OF THE LEGISLATIVE ASSEMBLY OF ALBERTA

Standing Committee on Alberta's Economic Future

Chair: Mr. Amery
 Deputy Chair: Mr. Fox
 Dorward Pastoor
 Eggen Quadri
 Hehr Rogers
 Kubinec Rowe
 Lemke Sarich
 Luan Stier
 McDonald

Standing Committee on the Alberta Heritage Savings Trust Fund

Chair: Mr. Casey
 Deputy Chair: Mrs. Jablonski
 Amery Khan
 Barnes Sandhu
 Dorward Sherman
 Eggen

Select Special Ethics Commissioner Search Committee

Chair: Mr. Rogers
 Deputy Chair: Mr. Quadri
 Blakeman Leskiw
 Eggen McDonald
 Goudreau Saskiw
 Lemke

Standing Committee on Families and Communities

Chair: Ms Olesen
 Deputy Chair: Mrs. Forsyth
 Cusanelli McAllister
 DeLong Notley
 Fenske Pedersen
 Fritz Sandhu
 Jablonski Swann
 Jeneroux VanderBurg
 Leskiw

Standing Committee on Legislative Offices

Chair: Mr. Jeneroux
 Deputy Chair: Mr. McDonald
 Bikman Leskiw
 Blakeman Quadri
 Brown Wilson
 DeLong Young
 Eggen

Special Standing Committee on Members' Services

Chair: Mr. Zwozdesky
 Deputy Chair: Mr. VanderBurg
 Casey Mason
 Forsyth McDonald
 Fritz Sherman
 Johnson, L. Towle
 Kubinec

Standing Committee on Private Bills

Chair: Mr. Xiao
 Deputy Chair: Mrs. Leskiw
 Allen Notley
 Brown Olesen
 Cusanelli Rowe
 DeLong Stier
 Fenske Strankman
 Fritz Swann
 Jablonski

Standing Committee on Privileges and Elections, Standing Orders and Printing

Chair: Ms Kubinec
 Deputy Chair: Mr. Rogers
 Calahasen Pastoor
 Casey Pedersen
 Kang Saskiw
 Khan VanderBurg
 Luan Wilson
 Notley Young
 Olesen

Standing Committee on Public Accounts

Chair: Mr. Anderson
 Deputy Chair: Mr. Dorward
 Allen Khan
 Amery Luan
 Barnes Pastoor
 Bilous Sandhu
 Donovan Sarich
 Fenske Young
 Hehr

Standing Committee on Resource Stewardship

Chair: Mr. Khan
 Deputy Chair: Mr. Anglin
 Allen Goudreau
 Bikman Hale
 Bilous Johnson, L.
 Blakeman Webber
 Brown Xiao
 Calahasen Young
 Casey

Legislative Assembly of Alberta

1:30 p.m.

Wednesday, April 23, 2014

[The Speaker in the chair]

Prayers

The Speaker: Hon. members, let us pray. Let us be thankful for the opportunity given to us to meet daily in this Assembly for the service to others, and let us be mindful of the obligations we all have in that regard. Amen.

Please be seated.

Introduction of Guests

The Speaker: Let us begin with school groups, starting with Grande Prairie-Smoky, followed by Edmonton-Mill Woods.

Mr. McDonald: Well, thank you, Mr. Speaker. I am pleased to introduce to you and through you members from my constituency of Grande Prairie-Smoky. These members are from the Ridgevalley school. Accompanying these members today is Edi Harden, the schoolteacher. They are seated in the public gallery today. I'll ask them to rise and receive the warm welcome of the House.

The Speaker: The hon. Member for Edmonton-Mill Woods, followed by Strathmore-Brooks.

Mr. Quadri: Thank you, Mr. Speaker. I'm pleased to introduce to you and through you to all the members of this Assembly 51 grade 6 students, the brightest and the sharpest kids from Greenview school in my constituency of Edmonton-Mill Woods. They are accompanied by their teachers, Mme Cheri Krywko and Angela Sharun, and parent helpers Heather Pitts, Chrisaline Wiens, Terri Cuthill, Susan McFarlane, Terri White, Cathy Doty, Lisa Headrick, Rosalind Clarke, Patti Fersovitch, and Charlene Greenwood. I will request that you please all rise and receive the traditional warm welcome of this Assembly.

The Speaker: Strathmore-Brooks, I understand your guests are not here yet.

Let's go on to Lacombe-Ponoka.

Mr. Fox: Thank you, Mr. Speaker. It's with great pleasure that I get to introduce to you and through you to all members of this Assembly 47 students and parents and teachers from one of my favourite schools, Terrace Ridge, in Lacombe, Alberta. These incredibly bright students are accompanied by their teachers, Pat Jenkins and Mr. Brent Buchanan, and parent helpers Mr. Blair Andrew, Ms Weady Sanders, Mrs. Helga Reiner, Ms Jamie Nichols, Mrs. Verna Bawtenheimer, and Ms Wanda Guske. I would ask that they receive the traditional warm welcome of this Assembly.

The Speaker: Thank you.

Are there other school groups or youth to be introduced?

If not, let us move on with other important guests, starting with the Premier.

Mr. Hancock: Thank you, Mr. Speaker. It's indeed my pleasure today to introduce 10 guests who are here seated in your gallery. Nine of them are the 2013 Daughters Day award recipients, and they're accompanied by the Daughters Day chairperson. Daughters Day is the initiative of the International Association of Citizens for a Civil Society, a registered not-for-profit society in Alberta supported by more than 40 diverse community organizations. Daughters Day celebrates the lives and contributions and achievements of daughters. With us today is the cofounder of Daughters Day and its current chairperson, Charan Khehra. Now, I might say with some note that I had the pleasure and privilege of running in an election against Charan several elections ago. As is the case in Edmonton-Whitemud, it's always a friendly affair, and after the affair is over, we get to work together in the best interests of the community.

With him today are the 2013 Daughters Day award recipients: Rebecca Fitzsimmons, who opened a licensed preschool in Savanna and is implementing the food for thought school breakfast nutrition program; April Lam, a gifted young athlete representing Alberta in the 2013 Canada Summer Games and in the 2014 national Special Olympics in swimming; Shawnay McRorie, a recipient of the John Humphrey youth human rights award, committed to working with young children and adults living with disabilities; Christina Nsaliwa, a strong advocate of human services and inspirational mentor for women; Andrea Payne and Corissa Tymafichuk, grade 11 students from Paul Kane high school in St. Albert with a lifetime mission to help survivors of human trafficking and who organized a city-wide community walk, raising $5,000; Laura Smith, an ESL instructor, motivated and instructed over 600 individuals, improving their level of proficiency in English; Linda Winski, a social justice advocate, opened her home to the community, providing friendship, hospitality, prayer, and a listening ear; and April Wiberg, a proud member of the Mikisew Cree First Nation and a founding member of Edmonton Stolen Sisters Awareness Walk, was not able to join us today.

Mr. Speaker, I'd ask all of my Legislature colleagues to honour the presence of these award winners with the usual warm welcome.

The Speaker: Thank you, and welcome.

The Associate Minister – International and Intergovernmental Relations, followed by Edmonton-Decore.

Ms Woo-Paw: Well, thank you, Mr. Speaker. It's my pleasure to introduce to you and through you to members of this House a constituent of mine from Calgary-Northern Hills, Lawrence Connell, who has travelled here to visit the Legislature and observe question period. Lawrence has served our province as a registered nurse for 35 years and has worked in corrections as well as for various regional and provincial health authorities since 1985. Lawrence is also on the board of directors for the Calgary Workers' Resource Centre, a nonprofit organization that helps Calgaryans understand and access their rights under various employment legislations. He is seated in the members' gallery, and I ask that he please rise and receive the warm welcome of the House.

Mrs. Sarich: Mr. Speaker, it's my honour and privilege to rise today to introduce to you and through you to all members of the Alberta Legislature representatives from the Edmonton Chinese Bilingual Education Association, here in recognition of their role in over 30 years of promoting and supporting Mandarin language programming through the Edmonton public school system. Also attending are grade 6 Mandarin language students from Kildare elementary school accompanied by their teacher. My guests are seated in the members' gallery, and I would now ask them to please rise as I mention their names.

I would like to welcome from the Edmonton Chinese Bilingual Education Association board of directors Mr. Stephen Tsang, president and parent of an alumni from Edmonton public schools' Chinese bilingual program and has a child enrolled at Parkview school; Ms Angie Loo, vice-president and parent of children enrolled at Kildare elementary school and Londonderry junior high school; Mr. John Yee, past president, involved since 1997, and parent of alumni from the program; Mr. Wei Wong, past president, involved since 1988, and parent of alumni from the program; Mr. Peter Wong, who sends his regrets, past president, involved since 1989, and parent of alumni from the program. The grade 6 Kildare elementary school representatives include teacher Ms Remina Chen and students Henry Chiem, Jessica Fang, Bowei Huang, and with regret Vienna Chen could not join the group today. I would now ask that the Assembly please honour all my guests with the traditional warm welcome.

Thank you.

The Speaker: The hon. Member for Edmonton-Beverly-Clareview, followed by the Associate Minister – Seniors.

Mr. Bilous: Thank you very much, Mr. Speaker. It's my honour to rise today to introduce to you and through you to all members of the Assembly board members of the Olde Towne Beverly Historical Society. The Olde Towne Beverly Historical Society was formed in 2005 to preserve the history of the town of Beverly, Alberta. The society began when members published their first book on Beverly's early years, Built on Coal, in the year 2000. Today the society engages in numerous activities to promote and share Beverly's history. The society runs annual pancake breakfasts, historical carriage rides, a pop-up interpretive centre, and social events. I'd like to highlight their exceptional efforts to offer educational school programs to teach local students about Beverly's coal-mining history. The society is hard at work planning community events for Beverly's 100th anniversary. I will ask my guests to rise as I call their names and remain standing: President Dan Vriend, Amanda Harriman-Gotjan, Edie Boonstra, Alene Carter, Bertha Pisarchuk, Ray Loga, Darlene Schlotter, John Henker, and Zenovia Rockwell. Please join me in giving them the warm traditional welcome.

1:40

The Speaker: The hon. Associate Minister – Seniors, followed by Calgary-West.

Mr. Quest: Well, thank you, Mr. Speaker. It gives me great pleasure to introduce to you and through you to all members of this Assembly two guests who join us today to watch the House proceedings. First is Tammy Leach. Tammy is the executive director of the Alberta Continuing Care Association, which is a nonprofit, voluntary organization representing the providers of continuing care services in Alberta. The Alberta Continuing Care Association collaborates with other associations and organizations in Alberta and across Canada to share information, ideas, and resources. Joining Tammy is her nephew Jonathan Moore, who is visiting here from Strathmore and has a keen interest in politics. I know he was very excited to join us today. Tammy and Jonathan are seated in the members' gallery, and I'd ask that they both rise to receive the traditional warm welcome of this House.

The Speaker: The hon. Member for Calgary-West.

Mr. Hughes: Thank you, Mr. Speaker. It's my pleasure to introduce to you and through you to all members of this Assembly Kathleen Hamnett, a constituent of Calgary-West. Kathleen is the vice-president of local 115 of the United Nurses of Alberta. As you know, there are 26,000 members in the United Nurses of Alberta, who together with the 100,000 Albertans who are part of the health care delivery service in this province do exceptional work day in, day out on behalf of all Albertans. Kathleen is seated in the members' gallery, and I ask her to rise and receive the traditional warm welcome of the House.

The Speaker: Thank you.

Members' Statements

The Speaker: Hon. members, you have two minutes each for these statements. Let's start with the Leader of the Official Opposition, followed by Edmonton-Beverly-Clareview.

Provincial Election Anniversary

Ms Smith: Thank you, Mr. Speaker. It's been exactly two years since the last provincial election, and I think it's a great opportunity to reflect and to look ahead. This PC government was re-elected on promises to balance the budget and stay out of debt without a single budget cut to the front lines. Not much more needs to be said about that. Debt levels will soon reach early-1990s levels, and the cuts to the front lines have been swift and harsh and unrelenting.

They were re-elected on a promise to build 50 new schools and renovate 70 more. Well, here we are, two years down the road, without a single shovel in the ground, lots of signs but no shovels. And another one bites the dust.

They were re-elected on a promise of double-funding to municipalities. Instead, they froze funding. Oops. Full-day kindergarten? Nah. Teachers' tax credit to help buy school supplies? Nope. Seniors' activity tax credit? Try again. Tuition refunds for rural physicians? Sorry; no dice on that one either. You name a promise, Mr. Speaker, and it's probably been broken. Such is life in PC Alberta. Promises aren't meant to be kept; they're meant to get you re-elected.

On top of the broken promises, we have seen more scandal and taxpayer abuse than ever before: lavish expenses, luxury travel, penthouse apartments, and more sweetheart insider deals than there are days in a year. It's a major reason why the PC leader that was there in 2012 in the campaign is gone and why once again Albertans will watch as the PC Party tries to pick a new saviour. Best of luck to the poor soul who gets that job, Mr. Speaker. Whoever takes over the leadership of that party across the aisle will step into an impossible task, rebuilding broken trust with Albertans while attempting to shed the baggage that has brought down two Premiers in three years.

Albertans are ready for something entirely new. As we look back on two years' worth of . . .

The Speaker: The hon. Member for Edmonton-Beverly-Clareview, followed by Edmonton-Decore.

Beverly Centennial

Mr. Bilous: Mr. Speaker, I'm honoured to rise today to mark a historic anniversary in my constituency of Edmonton-Beverly-Clareview. I'm proud to call Beverly my home and to represent the community in the Assembly in 2014, Beverly's centennial year.

In 1914 the coal-mining community northeast of Edmonton became the town of Beverly. Built on Coal tells the story of the remarkable people, coal mines, organizations, and merchants that created and shaped Edmonton's working-class town. Beverly has always cherished our rich history. Rundle Heights and Rundle park are named after Reverend Robert Rundle, the first Protestant missionary to serve at Fort Edmonton Park. Abbottsfield and Abbott school are named after Abe Abbott, Beverly school's caretaker from 1922 to 1958. Allan Merrick Jeffers, the architect of the building we stand in today, built Beverly's first town hall. One of the Famous Five, Emily Murphy, worked in the Beverly town hall as the justice of the peace.

Mr. Speaker, after amalgamation with Edmonton in 1961, Beverly still retains its small-town feel. Neighbours know each other by name, look out for one another, and are proud of their community. New families are moving in, and their children are learning about the area's history from my guests today. Our small business community is thriving, with shops and restaurants opening their doors.

Beverly's centennial will be celebrated with activities for the whole community. Markers will be erected at historic mine sites, there will be a giant of Edmonton mural unveiled on May 1, and numerous activities over the summer, including a parade, pancake breakfast, concerts, carriage rides, and more. I encourage all members to visit beverlyhistory.ca. I invite all members to join Beverly centennial celebrations this summer.

Thank you, Mr. Speaker.

The Speaker: Thank you.

The hon. Member for Edmonton-Decore, followed by Dunvegan-Central Peace-Notley.

Chinese Bilingual Education in Edmonton

Mrs. Sarich: Thank you, Mr. Speaker. Albertans of Chinese ancestry have an extremely proud, valued, and equally long history, heritage, culture, and identity in our province. The Chinese population in Edmonton has grown along with our city, and they have developed strong organizations to assist them to promote and preserve all aspects of their heritage and culture.

One such organization is the Edmonton Chinese Bilingual Education Association, founded over 30 years ago by parent volunteers who were determined to support and help develop an internationally renowned Chinese Mandarin bilingual program offered by Edmonton public schools. Through this organization's effort the first Chinese Mandarin bilingual program was established in 1982, with 20 kindergarten students enrolled at Kildare elementary school, located in the constituency of Edmonton-Decore.

Today the district's Chinese Mandarin enrolment has grown to nearly 2,000 students at 12 school sites and is the largest in North America. The program is considered a model to emulate, and although most students come from Chinese backgrounds, it is attracting interest from others as no prior knowledge of the Chinese Mandarin language is required.

Mr. Speaker, the Edmonton Chinese Bilingual Education Association has garnered many achievements, ranging from district recognition in 2008 to receiving the city of Edmonton salute to excellence award of distinction in 2009. Also, to showcase and share Chinese history and culture, all 12 Chinese bilingual schools along with other community groups have performed at the Chinese New Year carnival at City Centre Mall.

Mr. Speaker, it has been said that culture is the window through which the rest of the world sees our great province. In that spirit, congratulations and heartfelt appreciation to all Edmonton Chinese Bilingual Education Association parent volunteers and Edmonton public schools for their immeasurable contribution to the teaching and learning experiences which embrace Chinese heritage and culture.

Thank you, Mr. Speaker.

The Speaker: Thank you.

The hon. Member for Dunvegan-Central Peace-Notley, followed by Lesser Slave Lake.

Cancer Awareness Initiatives in Wanham

Mr. Goudreau: Thank you, Mr. Speaker. Last week in this Legislature we all wore daffodils to increase awareness of those who have cancer, and we were encouraged to become involved in a variety of ways. Well, there is a lady who has done a lot to inspire those around her by promoting the importance of cancer research and funding. Teresa Nuthall of Wanham in my constituency of Dunvegan-Central Peace-Notley received much attention provincially last summer when she energized her community to become active in breast cancer awareness.

Attention to cancer awareness is what Ms Nuthall desired, and attention is what she received. Joining in the efforts of Wild Pink Yonder's Pinkest Little Town in the West cancer fundraiser, Wanham residents painted their towns – homes, porches, vehicles, and, yes, buildings – pink. Incredibly, the town of only 162 people managed to raise a staggering $55,000 for breast cancer research during the bid to be named Pinkest Little Town in the West, which, by the way, they did receive. Even after the campaign came to a close, the community has continued to raise funds for breast cancer research. Last year they hosted a fun dance and A Pink Affair Christmas party. These events as well as others added considerably to their fundraising total.

Teresa Nuthall was a strong advocate for breast cancer research after losing her sister to the disease. Now because of her love for her family she's managed to increase breast cancer awareness in her community, in our constituency, and around the province.

Please join me in congratulating Ms Nuthall and the community of Wanham for their efforts to increase awareness and raise funds dedicated to breast cancer research.

Thank you.

The Speaker: Thank you.

We'll finish off Members' Statements after QP.

1:50

Oral Question Period

The Speaker: You each have 35 seconds now for a question and 35 seconds for an answer. I'll do my best to enforce it. Let's start.

FOIP Request Process

Ms Smith: Mr. Speaker, yesterday we released a leaked e-mail that raised concerns about the government undermining the integrity and independence of the freedom of information process by getting political staff to collect information on active FOIP requests. Now, the jobs minister claimed that the memo he wrote on November 23 was approved by the Information Commissioner, and he tabled the letter to try and prove it. Well, that letter does not endorse what the government is doing. In fact, it raises all of the same concerns that we have. To the Premier: why is this government politicizing the freedom of information process?

Mr. Hancock: The short answer, Mr. Speaker, is that it's not. In fact, it is quite prudent for ministers to be aware of information that's being made public out of their departments. Actually, when that information is being made public, by definition it's public information. It would be ludicrous to suggest that the only people who shouldn't know about it are the people who are responsible for it.

Ms Smith: I think the Premier needs to reread the memo because the Information Commissioner says that giving weekly reports to the Deputy Premier and the Premier goes too far. She says that it increases the potential risk of allegations of interference in the release of information. She also says that press secretaries are political appointees and that using them to develop key messages presents a potential perception that releases could be delayed until mitigating strategies and messages are developed. Why is the government ignoring the Information Commissioner?

Mr. Hancock: Mr. Speaker, this government would never ignore an officer of the Legislature. The officer of the Legislature was providing good advice: do not interfere politically as you engage in this process, and make sure that you're not doing something untoward with respect to the timing. She doesn't suggest for a moment that ministers should not be aware of the information that's going out and be prepared with appropriate, key messages. That's what the public of Alberta would expect the minister of the Crown to do, and that's what ministers of the Crown do.

Ms Smith: Mr. Speaker, yesterday the jobs minister told the media that at most a cabinet minister and his staff would get to see a FOIP release only five days before it was sent out. However – breaking news – CBC is reporting that the Health minister's political staff was writing talking points about an embarrassing information request two months before it was scheduled to be released. How is it that a political staffer in the Health minister's office got to see an Alberta Health Services FOIP request two months before it was released?

Mr. Horne: Well, Mr. Speaker, one of the other things that's very interesting about the FOIP process is how it results in information, most often from the opposite side, being presented that's either inaccurate or out of context. In this case, as the Premier has clearly stated, ministers of the Crown bear the responsibility for the accurate and timely release of information pertaining to their departments in accordance with the Freedom of Information and Protection of Privacy Act. That process is delegated by ministers to their deputy ministers and other officials. As the Premier has said, it is only reasonable that we are aware of what information is being released so that . . .

The Speaker: Thank you.

Second main set of questions, Leader.

Ms Smith: Keep on dancing, Minister. We'll have more questions on it tomorrow.

Health Care Performance Measures

Ms Smith: Mr. Speaker, over the last two weeks Wildrose has highlighted unprecedented levels of waste in Alberta Health Services. We've shown that they've wasted money on consultants and routinely sole source contracts that should have been open to competitive bids. Today we released a 68-page document about Edmonton and the capital region which shows what happens when AHS wastes money: patients get hurt. The data shows that on 15 tangible health targets AHS is below target and getting worse on 12 of them. Will the Premier admit that AHS is broken?

Mr. Horne: Well, Mr. Speaker, what the hon. member has just illustrated is the point I made in my answer to the last question. One of the benefits of the FOIP process is, of course, that it allows us to ensure that information is not presented that's inaccurate or out of context. That is the information the opposition is referring to. The performance measures today and that were published a month later from this release show some tremendous improvements in the health care system, including a reduction of 9 per cent and 15 per cent respectively for hip and knee surgery, significant reductions in waiting times for cardiac surgery. It also illustrates all of this being accomplished while volume increases across the . . .

The Speaker: Thank you.

Ms Smith: Mr. Speaker, health care workers are doing a great job in a broken system. It's the management and this government that are the problem.

This 68-page presentation shows that in Edmonton and the capital region on the vast majority of their key measures AHS is not only not hitting their targets, they are headed in the wrong direction. It's getting worse. Will the Health minister admit that he and AHS are letting down our front-line workers?

Mr. Horne: No. What I'll admit, Mr. Speaker, is that this hon. member and her colleagues are letting down Albertans and the health care system every time they present information inaccurately and out of context. The truth, which is readily available on the AHS website, is that we've seen a 2.7 per cent increase in the number of patients being discharged from hospital, meaning that we're seeing more patients; almost a week decrease for urgent cardiac bypass treatment; almost a four-week decrease in scheduled cardiac bypass wait times. The list goes on. This is a testament to success in health care in a population that is the fastest growing in Canada, and AHS deserves . . .

The Speaker: Final supplemental.

Ms Smith: The list does go on, Mr. Speaker. In 12 of those indicators they are getting worse, and they are not meeting their targets. It took a FOIP request to get this information, which should have been readily available.

If this government does everything in their power to hide the flaws in AHS, nothing is ever going to be fixed. We were promised that AHS would end waste and reduce wait times. Well, waste is up, wait times have never been longer, and this minister refuses to do anything about it. What does the Premier have to say to Albertans who have to wait for health care in a system that is wasting so much money?

Mr. Hancock: Mr. Speaker, we have an incredibly complex health care system that delivers incredibly good service to Albertans on a day-to-day basis. If you talk to anybody who has had an acute situation, they will tell you – and I've talked to many Albertans – about the great service they get in the health system. We have a growing province, we have a growing demand, and we have a growing appetite for new services in the health system. The health system is working very hard and this minister is working very hard to ensure that Albertans get the health services they need when they need them.

The Speaker: Third main set of questions.

Public Service Pensions

Ms Smith: Well, Mr. Speaker, speaking of our front-line workers, this government is unilaterally pushing through changes to public-sector pensions that have no support from the people who will be impacted. My questions are about the process and not about the legislation. I think that Albertans would hope that the government could sit down with public-sector unions and make improvements to their pensions collaboratively. One would expect that the unions have several good ideas about easy fixes that would improve the viability of the plans. Has this government agreed to all of these easy fixes?

Mr. Horner: Well, Mr. Speaker, I can take the hon. member back in the history of the consultative process, that we started in July of 2012, but I'd also like to remind the hon. members, all members opposite, that on all of the plan boards, the four that we're talking about, that are the public-sector boards, there are union representatives, and there are employer representatives. We've been consulting with those boards all the way through. Those boards then did surveys with all of their membership to talk about the various different things that they could do. In fact, on the websites of those boards they talk about the challenge of sustainability given the current situation in future interest . . .

The Speaker: Thank you.

Ms Smith: Well, Mr. Speaker, here are a couple of easy fixes that the unions' leadership has put forward. The AUPE has asked the government to end cost-of-living adjustments for deferred pensions for people who have quit as employees. They say that this would save pension money and not harm any of the pensioners or employees. They've also said that the government is using the wrong rate for commuted value. The actuaries say that using the right rate would result in better planning. These are easy fixes, which the unions say will improve the situation. Why won't the government make them?

Mr. Horner: Actually, Mr. Speaker, we are using expert advice on the commuted rates, and we're working with all of the plans to ensure that their unfunded liability is calculated correctly and that the future values are calculated correctly. I would also say that one of the recommendations that was brought forward by the union representation is around joint sponsorship of the plans, and in fact that is exactly where we're going.

Ms Smith: Mr. Speaker, a reasonable government would negotiate with the unions and then bring in implementing legislation to put a deal into effect. Instead, we have the traditional PC "we know best; keep your advice to yourself" approach. This government offended our front-line workers with bills 45 and 46, and now they're upsetting hundreds of thousands of employees and pensioners by unilaterally messing with their retirement plans. How has this government's approach to labour relations gotten so far off track?

2:00

Mr. Horner: Well, Mr. Speaker, as a matter of fact, last week, when I met with all of the union representation, we talked about moving forward with the contribution rate cap discussion and the joint sponsorship discussion. In fact, I'm looking forward to sitting down with Mr. Smith on the PSPP joint sponsorship because he'd like to get that rolling fairly quickly.

I'd like to quote something, though. It says:

The reason why there are so few defined benefit plans in the private sector [or public sector] is because they are unsustainable with no flexibility to adjust [for volatility] . . . If the issue is not addressed early enough, major corporations and even national governments face financial ruin as more and more people turn 65 and start drawing from their defined benefit [plans].

That's right out of their 2013 . . .

The Speaker: Thank you.

You also have two pension bills on the Order Paper this afternoon. Presumably, there will be greater debate.

Let's move on. The hon. leader of the Alberta Liberal opposition.

Dr. Sherman: Thank you, Mr. Speaker. The Premier said something rather curious while defending his government's Republican-style attack on public-sector pensions. He said that there will be "fewer people paying and more people drawing" from the pension plan. Well, Alberta's population is exploding, and young people are moving here in droves. We need more public-sector workers, not fewer. It's illogical for this Premier to say: more work will be done for more people with fewer workers. It doesn't make sense unless the Premier's plan is to provide fewer government services, privatize services, and switch to robots. Premier, which is it? [interjections]

Mr. Horner: Well, Mr. Speaker, it's interesting that, in fact, one of the unions' leadership last week suggested to me that the solution for this is to simply make the government workforce bigger – make it lots bigger – so you've got more contributors, and that will solve the problem. It's kind of like the Liberal logic that we're hearing right now. The truth of the matter, Mr. Speaker, is that in the public-sector plan in 1993 there were 40,000 contributors to the plan. In 2013, 20 years later, there were 40,000 contributors to the plan. That is a testament to the great work that our public sector does. They're doing a lot more for less. But we've had a doubling or tripling of the number of retirees. The math, as the Auditor General says . . .

The Speaker: Thank you.

Dr. Sherman: Mr. Speaker, that's a long way of saying: fewer government services, more privatized services, and robots.

Mr. Speaker, this government is changing the rules of the game for 300,000 public-sector workers, who have already stepped up and forgone wage increases to fix the damage done by the Wall Street cowboys to their pension plans. The Premier said that he's switching from a defined cost-of-living adjustment to a targeted one dependent on return on investment. That means that when times are bad, the plans may not pay out enough. Doesn't the Premier understand that it's exactly when times are tough that the pensioners need these wage guarantees?

Mr. Hancock: Mr. Speaker, I think the only robotics that are happening are on the other side, because we get the same question over and over and over again. The answer would be that when times are tough, the cost of living is probably lower, and therefore the return on the investment will probably pay the cost-of-living adjustment. The reality is that you can't pay more than you have, and you can't put a pension plan in peril by paying more benefits than are being contributed for. The cost of living is the one key factor in that piece. Everything else in the pension promise is being held constant, and that is a very important piece about viability.

Dr. Sherman: Mr. Speaker, the only robotic attack is a constant attack on front-line workers: Bill 45, Bill 46, cutting staff, flatlining their wages, and now their pensions.

The last election was two years ago and at no point during the campaign leading up to election day did the former Premier talk about launching a Republican-style attack on public-sector pensions. The people of Alberta sure the heck didn't give this government a mandate for such an attack. This Premier wasn't elected as a Premier by Albertans. Premier, if you think this is really what the people of Alberta want, why don't you put it aside, call an election, and run on it? [interjections]

Mr. Hancock: Not only is he robotic, Mr. Speaker, but he doesn't understand the parliamentary process. The people of Alberta don't elect a Premier. The people of Alberta elect MLAs, and MLAs form a government. The people of Alberta have entrusted the Progressive Conservative MLAs to form this government. [interjections]

I also know that the people of Alberta, Mr. Speaker, want this government to do what's right each and every day, not just what was talked about two years ago or 10 years ago or, like those guys in that party would want, 15 or 30 years ago. [interjections]

The Speaker: Okay. We've all had our little bit of fun. Let's just settle down and move on.

The hon. leader of the New Democrats.

Mr. Mason: Thank you very much, Mr. Speaker.

Lord knows, we wouldn't want to talk about what you promised in the election, Mr. Premier.

FOIP Request Process (continued)

Mr. Mason: Yesterday the jobs minister told the House that his policy of political interference was approved in advance by the Information and Privacy Commissioner, but the memo he released from the commissioner tells a very different story, Mr. Speaker, warning of the risks of ministers and their political staff influencing or interfering with FOIP requests. The commissioner clearly did not approve the policy. My question is to the minister. Why did you tell us that the commissioner had approved your policy in advance when, clearly, she had not?

Mr. Lukaszuk: Well, Mr. Speaker, let's set the record straight. Obviously, when a member rises in question period or the media approaches us in a scrum or, frankly, when the public calls on an issue that they know about as a result of a FOIP, they fully expect that a cabinet minister that is in charge of a ministry has a full understanding of what information is being released from his or her ministry. Cabinet ministers are the storekeepers of their ministry. They ought to know what's being released. In order to do that, it is important that a cabinet minister be advised by his department of what is going out and what information is being released.

The Speaker: The hon. member. First supplemental.

Mr. Mason: Thank you very much, Mr. Speaker. Well, the minister's memo to the Premier and cabinet, informing them of this policy, which he claims that the commissioner had approved, was dated November 29, 2013. The commissioner's letter to the minister, in which she warns of the risks of the policy, was dated a week later, December 6, 2013. I want to ask the Premier what he thinks about his minister telling the House that the commissioner had approved this policy when, clearly, she had not. She had warned a week later that it was wrong.

Mr. Lukaszuk: So, Mr. Speaker, what I have done, as the commissioner writes in her letter, further to our telephone conversation of November 27, 2013, is that I have called her, and I said: would it be inappropriate if our ministries were to tell us, the ministers, what it is that they will be releasing, starting Monday to Friday next week, so that we know in advance what it is that we will be dealing with with the public, with constituents, with media, and with the opposition? She said that in principle she has no issue with ministers being advised as long as there is no interference, and there wasn't any.

The Speaker: Final supplemental, hon. member.

Mr. Mason: Thank you very much, Mr. Speaker. Well, that's interesting because the commissioner's concerns have been validated. A memo dated December 13, 2012, shows that a FOIP request to the Minister of Health was vetted by his partisan press secretary two months before it was released. Not only that, but it was clear that the source of the FOIP request was partly revealed to the minister. I want to ask the Premier. Mr. Premier, will you please stop the baffleleg and admit that your government is interfering with the freedom of information process?

Mr. Hancock: Mr. Speaker, the public of Alberta wants to know and can be assured that the FOIP process works appropriately for them without political interference. They also want to know and can be assured that ministers of the Crown will know and understand the information that's being released from their department in order that they can discuss it appropriately in the public context. Those are all appropriate pieces, and that's an appropriate way for it to happen. The ministers of the Crown do not interfere with FOIP co-ordinators' release of information, but they should be informed about the information which is being released.

The Speaker: Thank you.

Please curtail your preambles from this point on.

Let's go to Calgary-Fish Creek, followed by Whitecourt-St. Anne.

Health Care System Information Reporting

Mrs. Forsyth: Thank you, Mr. Speaker. Today we released approximately 70 pages of detailed health information. It's the Edmonton zone performance dashboard, and it includes key measurements on ER wait times, continuing care, surgeries, children, mental health, and radiation therapy, among others. It's incredibly important information, but none of that is readily available to the public. We went through a costly FOIP process, taking months, just so AHS could release data about the state of public health to the public. To the Minister of Health: why do you refuse to proactively and publicly report this important information about our health care system?

Mr. Horne: Well, Mr. Speaker, perhaps what the hon. member should explain is why she would want to spend good money to buy outdated information from Alberta Health Services, that doesn't tell the story today about the tremendous performance of our health care system. This hon. member knows that AHS publishes a performance report, available on their website, which compares the performance of our health system to other provinces and territories using nationally recognized benchmarks. This reflects the everyday experience of citizens in their health care system. It provides them with accurate comparisons. It's the right way to proceed, and it's what we're doing.

2:10

The Speaker: Thank you.

Mrs. Forsyth: Well, Mr. Speaker, let me just say this to the minister if I may. We'd have more up-to-date information if he had let the FOIP go through and gave it to us immediately.

Given that less than a year ago Alberta Health Services did report comprehensive system performances by zone on a regular basis, why are you now leaving it up to the opposition to dig and publish this information? Minister, it's about accountability.

Mr. Horne: Mr. Speaker, it's about ethics and ethical behaviour. [interjections] If I just heard this hon. member correctly, she suggested to this House that I interfered with the release of information that she had requested under the FOIP Act. I certainly hope that's not the case.

What I will say is that we have developed a performance measurement system that reflects all of the nationally accepted indicators reported by the Canadian Institute for Health Information. It will be broken down by zone, Mr. Speaker, in the next iteration. It's a good snapshot of the very good performance that our health system is delivering and the workers that support it.

Mrs. Forsyth: Well, Minister, maybe you'd like to answer this. This is from a CBC document. The memo shows that Mr. Johnson and the minister had direct access to the AHS records two months before they were to be released. Under the FOIP Act documents are to be released within 30 days, which means an extension appears to have been taken by Alberta Health Services to facilitate Mr. Johnson's vetting of the records. Maybe you'd like to respond to that. [interjections]

Mr. Horne: Well, Mr. Speaker, this hon. member doesn't seem to know when to stop. I haven't seen the e-mail that she's referred to, but if she is accusing me in this House of interfering with the release of information under the Freedom of Information and Protection of Privacy Act, then she should say so. [interjections] Otherwise, she should educate herself on the provisions of that act and the responsibilities of ministers to ensure their departments comply with that legislation.

The Speaker: Hon. members, a little less noise would be much appreciated, please.

Let's move on to Whitecourt-Ste. Anne, followed by Airdrie.

Keystone XL Pipeline Project

Mr. VanderBurg: Thank you, Mr. Speaker. Premier, on Friday Albertans received the unwelcome news that the U.S. government has decided there will be yet another delay in the review of the Keystone XL pipeline. This despite the fact that the project was nearing its end at the U.S. State Department's . . . [interjections] Are you going to listen, or are you going to talk?

The Speaker: Hon. members, let's remember that someone has the floor. They've been recognized by the Speaker. Let them ask their question. It's not any easier for one side to listen to a question or to an answer than the other, but show some respect for their right to ask it or answer it.

Hon. Member for Whitecourt-Ste. Anne, I couldn't hear what you were saying, so would you start over?

Mr. VanderBurg: Thank you, Mr. Speaker. Premier, on Friday Albertans received the unwelcome news that the U.S. government has decided there will be yet another delay in the review of the Keystone XL pipeline. This despite the fact that the project was nearing the end of the U.S. State Department's national interest determination review. Does the Premier see any rationale for allowing more time for the information to be provided on this project?

Mr. Hancock: Mr. Speaker, the decision on Friday to extend the time frame was extremely disappointing for all Albertans and for Canadians and, I would say, for many Americans because the Keystone pipeline project provides job opportunities both in Canada and the United States, economic opportunities, which are very much needed. It also is the most environmentally sustainable way of shipping oil. It's very important from a safety perspective – there are so many pieces – and it's been studied longer than any pipeline project in history, I think. So it's very untenable that it will take longer for a process to study it, but we do have to await the end of that process, and we will encourage the right decision.

Mr. VanderBurg: To the Minister of Environment and Sustainable Resource Development. My constituents in Whitecourt-Ste. Anne are suggesting that the government has taken enough action on protecting the environment, and it's time to look at other trading partners. Does the minister believe that this government has taken the necessary actions on the responsible development of our resources?

The Speaker: The hon. minister.

Mr. Campbell: Well, thank you, Mr. Speaker. Thanks for the question. I think it's important to know that we were the first jurisdiction in North America to put a price on carbon. Just this week we announced 24 projects at the Zero 2014 forum as part of Alberta's global competition to reduce our carbon footprint. Attendees commented that Alberta is a leader in innovative solutions, and thanked this government for our commitment and foresight. We're also implementing the integrated resource management system. But we have to own the environmental agenda. We have to make sure that Albertans, Canadians, and people in the world know that we're doing a good job with the environment.

The Speaker: Final supplemental.

Mr. VanderBurg: Thank you, Mr. Speaker. To the Minister of Energy: what are you doing to ensure that Alberta's record as leader in responsible energy development is understood in the United States and with our other existing and potential trading partners?

The Speaker: The hon. Minister of Energy.

Mrs. McQueen: Well, thank you, Mr. Speaker. We'll continue to share the facts about our strong, responsible energy development with the United States. These facts have been acknowledged through the State Department, acknowledging the work with the land-use framework in the lower Athabasca region, acknowledging our climate change strategy, and the acknowledgement of the fact that the approval of KXL will not impact GHG emissions. In addition to that, I'll be in the United States next week speaking about our responsible energy development. Also, the southern part of this leg of the pipeline is already delivering oil to the United States.

The Speaker: Thank you.

Provincial Budget Documents

Mr. Anderson: Mr. Speaker, this morning's Public Accounts hearing was a real eye-opener. There was discussion regarding the new PC budget accounting methods, which, of course, have been roundly criticized for being misleading. The Auditor General said that the Finance minister's budget and updates are "not in accordance with accounting principles." He then went on to explain several needed changes to bring the budget in line with generally accepted accounting principles. Now, we know you would never ever ignore an officer of this Legislature. Minister, is the Auditor General wrong in his assessment?

Mr. Horner: Mr. Speaker, the Auditor General has said his opinion on the budget, which is the policy document we table in this House. The financial statements, the Auditor General has actually said, do follow all of the accounting principles. In fact, our Auditor General has made no recommendations to this House on our financial statements, unlike other jurisdictions across Canada, who have many, many comments on their financial statements. The hon. member is trying to suggest that the budget, as the Auditor General has requested, should be constructed at the start of the year versus the end of the year. We're actually doing that for the Auditor General in this budget.

Mr. Anderson: Up is down; black is white. It's fantastic.

Well, given that the AG also said, "The time spent interpreting the Fiscal Management Act budget takes away from time available to understand the province's [actual] financial condition" and then went on to say how the budget is confusing to interpret, Minister, will you instruct your department to implement the AG's recommendations immediately to bring the budget and budget updates in line with generally accepted accounting principles?

Mr. Horner: Well, Mr. Speaker, I want one thing to be perfectly clear. We have already talked to the Auditor General about constructing the budget the way he's requested, and we're going to be doing that in every budget as we move forward. We've done it in this one. But I also want to make one other thing very clear. The consolidated financial surplus of $1.1 billion will not change regardless of what we do with the Auditor General because it is by the appropriate accounting principles, that the Auditor General is asking us to use. To suggest to Albertans that somewhere that $1.1 billion is not true is not true information, and the member should be . . .

The Speaker: Thank you.

Mr. Anderson: Minister, you've lost the argument. Your party is battling for fourth place in the polls right now. You've lost.

To the Premier: given that your Finance minister has lost every shred of public credibility in his budget presentation, are you going to permit this minister to continue this budget charade, or will you instruct him to immediately accept and implement the Auditor General's recommendations to straighten out his budget and its quarterly updates, as the Wildrose has been asking for month after month after month?

Mr. Horner: Mr. Speaker, this Finance minister doesn't do things just to get votes; this Finance minister does things because they're the right things to do. The opposition opposite wants to confuse Albertans in terms of what the true financial picture is. Let me say this. The credit rating agencies, that actually look at our financial statements and understand what financial statements are all about, different than this Finance critic, believe that our financial statements are the most transparent, the most detailed, and the most accurate, I might add, of all provinces in Canada, including the federal government, who has more recommendations than we do. I think that's a good thing.

The Speaker: Thank you.

The hon. Member for Sherwood Park, followed by Edmonton-Centre.

2:20 Sherwood Park Provincial Courthouse

Ms Olesen: Thank you, Mr. Speaker. The current Sherwood Park courthouse is located in a strip mall and was opened in 1981 as a temporary facility. Now almost a hundred thousand people call Sherwood Park and Strathcona county home. This building is not suitable for the needs of my constituents, and I have received numerous letters from constituents who work in the justice system regarding the dismal state of this facility. To the Minister of Justice. My constituents want to know how the money earmarked for exploration of a court facility in Sherwood Park will be used.

The Speaker: The hon. Minister of Justice.

Mr. Denis: Thank you very much, Mr. Speaker. I'm very pleased to confirm for this member that the budget in 2014 accrued $1 million for planning, and these funds are being used. I do expect a report in the fall. In addition to that, the budget in 2014 also accrued $30 million. That's $30 million for actual courthouse construction over the next couple of years. Of course, that's not enough to construct a courthouse, but it is enough to get the ball rolling.

The Speaker: First supplemental.

Ms Olesen: Thank you. To the same minister: given that there is $30 million of nonallocated capital funding earmarked for addressing the infrastructure needs of the courts in Alberta, can we expect Sherwood Park to see some of this money?

Mr. Denis: I can tell you that the planning is under way. I don't want to handcuff the particular committee, Mr. Speaker, but I can tell this member that Sherwood Park has been identified as a priority for the exact reasons that she has indicated here as well as to me outside of the House.

The Speaker: Final supplemental.

Ms Olesen: Thank you. To the same minister: given that the judges in my community tell me that our courthouse is the worst in the province – and I will agree with them – will Sherwood Park get a courthouse that will truly meet the needs of my constituents?

Mr. Denis: Well, Mr. Speaker, again, that is the particular plan. I'm happy that this member knows where the courthouse is, as I do as well. Geotechnical and environmental studies have been completed on the proposed site for the Sherwood Park courthouse, and it has been determined that this site is, in fact, suitable for courthouse development. I'm happy that we're making progress in this area and will continue to work with this member as well as the other member for Sherwood Park.

The Speaker: The hon. Member for Edmonton-Centre, followed by Edmonton-Calder.

FOIP Request Process (continued)

Ms Blakeman: Thanks very much, Mr. Speaker. The timing of the actions stemming from the November 2013 correspondence between the former Deputy Premier and the Privacy Commissioner isn't adding up. The government memo states that a new process to track the release of FOIP requests is being initiated, but a Liberal FOIP clearly shows that the weekly FOIP status report existed in June 2013. To the Minister of Service Alberta: are these the same weekly reports for which permission was sought from the Privacy Commissioner, oh, six months later, or are they another different, similar but not the same FOIP status report?

Mr. Scott: Mr. Speaker, this government is delivering unprecedented transparency. Under the leadership of this Premier we have the gold standard expense disclosure, we have the gold standard salary and severance disclosure, and we are conducting a review of the Freedom of Information and Protection of Privacy Act. That review has been under way for some time. We've been talking to Albertans about ways to improve the act, and we've consulted with media. The opposition parties have participated. We believe that we are going to have an improved act, and that work continues to be under way.

Ms Blakeman: Well, Mr. Speaker, to anyone on the other side that actually knows the FOIP Act, I'll present this question. Given that the Privacy Commissioner memo explicitly warns against any action that would delay the FOIP requests yet an Alberta Liberal FOIP shows the Deputy Minister of Executive Council ordering all the ministries to delay responding to the Liberal request for 30 days, does that not violate the spirit and the letter of the FOIP Act?

Mr. Hancock: Mr. Speaker, once again the Member for Edmonton-Centre is confused. There are two parallel pieces. As I explained in the House last week, the Deputy Minister of Executive Council has the responsibility for co-ordinating FOIP releases when they cross departments, and someone FOIPed every department for all their ARs. It's very important to have a process because when you FOIP ARs, you may get cabinet documents, and they are not releasable under the FOIP Act, which she would know if she was familiar with it. The other process which the former Deputy Premier initiated with a memo didn't actually commence because there was a cabinet shuffle . . .

The Speaker: Thank you.

Ms Blakeman: Right. So that other FOIP status report was just a figment of your official's imagination.

Okay. Back to the Premier, then. Now, since the Privacy Commissioner warns about potential interference by press secretaries, which are political animals, how is having a press secretary working out mitigating strategies for opposition members' FOIPs complying with section 40 of the act?

Mr. Hancock: Mr. Speaker, it is obviously the job of a press secretary to advise their minister with respect to how to handle information that's being released to the public with respect to FOIP or any other public release of information. That is, in fact, their job. In fact, we do not interfere with the release process, but we do need to know the information that's being released so that we can have mitigating or other strategies relative to the explanation of that information to the public because the public will know that the opposition never puts their information into any context that makes any sense.

Government Policies

Mr. Eggen: Mr. Speaker, two years ago today this government came to power selling a much different vision than what they're providing now. Under this PC government we've seen broken-promise budgets and broken-promise policies that they never promised in the first place. To the Premier: why are you attacking the working people, that give so much to this province, our nurses, social workers, tradespeople, emergency response workers, firefighters, park wardens, corrections officers, physiotherapists, sheriffs, agronomists, water experts, librarians . . .

The Speaker: Thank you.

Mr. Hancock: Mr. Speaker, nothing could be further from the truth. First of all, I adhere to the premise that was raised by Premier Lougheed: no one comes to power. We have the responsibility to govern that's been granted to us by Albertans, and we take that responsibility and that privilege very, very seriously. Secondly, we respect the people who work on behalf of the public in this province, whether they're elected to this Legislature, whether they serve in this government, or whether they're the civil servants that provide the services that Albertans need on a daily basis. We respect them. We hope that they will respect them, because they do important work for Albertans.

Mr. Eggen: Well, Mr. Speaker, given that this government has spent two years breaking promise after promise on everything from health care wait times, advanced education, to full-day kindergarten and now they're asking Albertans to just trust them while their government meddles with their pension security future, why doesn't this Premier start reading the warning labels as we see them here, that a steady diet of broken promises leads to grave health risks for all Albertans?

Mr. Hancock: Well, Mr. Speaker, obviously, he can't even read his notes correctly because I'm sure it doesn't say on his pills: a steady diet of broken promises. I'm not sure that his question is premised on anything other than political rhetoric, and therefore I would respond this way. This government takes the job of governing very seriously. This government likes to focus on the big-picture issues, which focus on what makes Alberta the best place to live, to work, and to raise our families. This government cares about not only our children but our grandchildren and their future in this province, and we will govern in those children's and grandchildren's interests.

The Speaker: Thank you.

Mr. Eggen: Well, you know, that's very interesting, Mr. Speaker, because given that this government has promised to end child poverty, two years later 10 per cent of Albertan children are still waiting for the help that has never ever come. Making pensions thinner and harder to come by actually increases the poverty. To the Premier: is this government planning to keep any of these promises, or are they willing to just cut them loose 24 months later, just like they did with the last Premier?

Mr. Hancock: Mr. Speaker, I would think that every member in this House would want to commit to reducing and ending poverty for children in this province. This government initiated, in discussion with the public of Alberta, a social policy framework which is on track to do just that. We also initiated the discussion on Together We Raise Tomorrow so that we can do foundational work to ensure that it's not just stopgap measures, not just paying for constant continuance of poverty but actually putting in place policies and programs that will end it. Our social innovation fund, which we put in place, will help us to get the knowledge and the tools we need to do just that.

The Speaker: Thank you.

Educational Curriculum Redesign

Mr. McAllister: Mr. Speaker, in 2008 Alberta Education changed the way that math was taught in our schools, and the results have not been good. The same thing happened in Manitoba, but the Manitoba government had the humility to realize they had erred, and they fixed it. They went back to the fundamentals. Their education minister just went on record saying that provinces like ours are utilizing methods and curriculums which have not been found to be successful. To the Education minister. Parents, teachers, math experts, and now other governments all recognize this is a flawed program. Will you do your job and address it?

Mr. Hancock: Mr. Speaker, the province of Manitoba's results are nowhere near the results of the province of Alberta in math. The PISA results have shown that Alberta students are actually very good in the fundamentals in math; it's the problem-solving skills that they need. The Minister of Education has indicated to this hon. member time after time that no one is moving away from the fundamentals of numeracy and literacy as important foundational aspects of education in this province.

2:30

Mr. McAllister: Mr. Speaker, the number of math-illiterate kids in this province has doubled since the implementation of this program. That's a problem that you need to address.

Now, given that Manitoba took concrete action, explicitly including the four standard algorithms in the curriculum – vertical addition with a carry, vertical subtraction with a borrow, and they even have their kids memorize times tables by a certain level – will the minister change Alberta's curriculum to require the same thing? If so, give us some specifics about when you are going to do the right thing.

Mr. Hancock: Mr. Speaker, one of the problems in education, of course, is that everybody is an expert because they went 40 years ago, and that's obviously the case with this hon. member.

The reality is that we have not moved away from fundamentals in math or literacy in our curriculum. The reality is that teaching children is a matter of teaching pedagogy, not a matter of the curriculum. The curriculum sets the outcomes, sets some ways in which you can get to those outcomes, and it's up to the teachers to differentiate the methods of instruction which will work for each individual child. It's not up to that hon. member or anyone else to mandate how a child learns.

Mr. McAllister: The minister and those thumping their desks ought to realize that all of the math experts say that you're failing on this file.

Now, given that the Manitoba education minister also said that they are "revisiting the curriculum to make sure that it meets the needs of our students so that they have those most basic skills" and "so that kids have a better understanding of memorizing math facts and then bringing back standard algorithms for addition, subtraction, multiplication and division," again to the minister or the Premier: do parents, teachers, math experts, and other governments have it wrong, or do you maybe have it wrong?

Mr. Hancock: Mr. Speaker, Alberta is redesigning its curriculum as well, and who would be doing that? It would be teachers. It would be experts in education. It would be the very people that he's talking about who are involved in designing the Alberta curriculum. And as they do it, they are designing it with some fundamental principles. Those fundamental principles are based on foundational learning in literacy and numeracy and the necessary 21st-century skills to be engaged thinkers, ethical citizens, and involved . . .

The Speaker: Thank you. Perhaps we'll hear more a little later.

Let's go on to Edmonton-McClung, followed by Innisfail-Sylvan Lake.

Loyalty Program Prohibition for Prescription Drugs

Mr. Xiao: Thank you, Mr. Speaker. The Alberta College of Pharmacists has made a decision to prohibit pharmacists from allowing patients to receive reward or loyalty points such as airline miles when purchasing prescriptions. The prohibition will take effect on May 1. Many of my constituents in Edmonton-McClung are not happy with this ban. My question is to the Minister of Health. What is the reasoning behind this decision?

Mr. Horne: Well, Mr. Speaker, the College of Pharmacists is responsible for setting the standards of practice for pharmacists in Alberta. It is one of many colleges under the Health Professions Act that have a similar responsibility. In this particular case the college has deemed it necessary to change their standards for the protection of the public. As the hon. member said, they have instituted a policy whereby loyalty programs will not be permitted with respect to the purchase of prescription drugs only.

Mr. Xiao: To the same minister: given that reward and loyalty programs encourage patients to visit the same pharmacy and become familiar with their pharmacist, are there other ways to encourage patients to return to the same pharmacy after these reward programs are cancelled?

Mr. Horne: Well, Mr. Speaker, there are, and they actually don't have anything to do with loyalty programs. They have to do with the range of services that pharmacists can now provide in Alberta. This includes things like renewing and modifying a prescription, developing a complex medication plan for clients with multiple chronic diseases, working as members of a multidisciplinary team in a primary care network or a family care clinic. These are the reasons why Albertans continue to choose their pharmacists in increasing numbers, maintain that professional relationship, and improve their health in doing so.

The Speaker: The hon. member. Final supplemental.

Mr. Xiao: Yes. Finally, to the same minister again: given that some patients do not make a lot of money and depend on these reward programs, how can your ministry protect their interests if these benefits are taken away from them?

Mr. Horne: Well, Mr. Speaker, I certainly appreciate that there are many Albertans who are members of the loyalty programs and that they accrue various benefits from them. All I can say is that we put the health of Albertans first, and in this case the college, within its own purview and under its own authority, made the determination that points should not be awarded in connection with the purchase of prescription drugs. That's a health care decision. That has to do with quality and patient safety in our system. It is the college's decision to make, and I believe they stated the reasons for doing so.

Thank you.

The Speaker: Thank you.

The hon. Member for Innisfail-Sylvan Lake, followed by Calgary-East.

FOIP Request Process (continued)

Mrs. Towle: Thank you, Mr. Speaker. The four-year court battle between the PC government and the media saw the current Premier dragging his feet to avoid releasing information related to the deaths of children in care. Now we learn that the real gold standard is for the Deputy Premier to intervene in the freedom of information process and the releasing of information. Even the Privacy Commissioner expressed serious concerns regarding this interference. To the Associate Minister of Accountability, Transparency and Transformation: does the gold standard include the associate minister continuing to sit on his hands while the integrity of the FOIP process is completely eroded?

The Speaker: The hon. associate minister.

Mr. Scott: Thank you, Mr. Speaker. I'm very pleased to say that under the leadership of this government we have been conducting a review of the Freedom of Information and Protection of Privacy Act. I was disappointed that there wasn't more participation from the opposition parties in that process, but we're always accepting new information. We spoke to about 600 Albertans throughout the process; we had online participation. We did speak to the media. We spoke to municipalities, school boards, and others. I think that the information is still under way. We're compiling it, and the work is still continuing. I believe that we're delivering good results with the efforts that we put in.

Mrs. Towle: Oh, once again, this minister really doesn't know his portfolio. The opposition asked to be on your all-party committee, and you refused.

Given that the Deputy Premier was writing letters to cabinet, which includes this associate minister, instructing on how to interfere in the FOIP process and given that the Deputy Premier gave direction to cabinet on how to avoid releasing information that had political or other reputational issues for the government, can the associate minister responsible for transparency stop the jibber-jabber and explain why the Deputy Premier was taking responsibility for FOIPs, which are in your ministry, and why you are not protecting the process? That's your job.

Mr. Scott: Mr. Speaker, I heard a comment about my participation in the committee. That's patently untrue. I don't know what she's talking about in that comment.

What I can say about the FOIP process is that it has been effective. In the most recent statistics that I've been given, we responded to more than 4,200 FOIP requests. Ninety per cent of those requests, received by Alberta departments, agencies, boards, and commissions, were processed within 30 days; 96 per cent were completed within 60 days. The work that we've been undertaking to improve the FOIP process – as I've said, we've been undertaking a review of that – is continuing, and we expect to have that ready shortly.

Mrs. Towle: Hear no evil; see no evil.

Given that this minister, the associate minister, was either aware of the Privacy Commissioner's serious concerns or the associate minister completely ignored them and given that the associate minister, who is a member of cabinet, did not once voice his concern and speak out and oppose this interference in the FOIP process – Minister, it is your job to know your FOIP legislation, to protect the integrity of it, and if you're not going to do that, Albertans want to know: exactly what do you do?

Mr. Lukaszuk: The third creature should speak no evil if she doesn't have a full grasp of the facts.

Mr. Speaker, nothing could be further from the truth. The fact is that there is no interference with the FOIP process. Albertans, as the minister has indicated, are receiving information in record time. A large volume of information is being requested, particularly by this opposition. However, I think this member, who should speak no evil – whatever that critter is that we always use that signage for – would expect the minister to have the answers to her questions, to know what it is that she is asking about, and to know the information that is being released through a FOIP. In order for that to happen, he needs to be briefed like any other cabinet minister. Accept it.

The Speaker: Thank you.

The hon. Member for Calgary-East, followed by Calgary-Shaw.

2:40

Health Care Wait Times

Mr. Amery: Well, thank you, Mr. Speaker. Survey after survey shows that health care is the number one issue on Albertans' minds. My constituents tell me that we do have an excellent health care system, provided that they can get through the emergency department. We had issues with wait times in emergency rooms when our health care budget was $3 billion, and we are still having the same issues and the same problems with a budget of $18.2 billion. My question is to the hon. minister. Even with an $18.2 billion budget wait times are still untenable. What is the minister doing about this?

Mr. Horne: Mr. Speaker, wait times are an issue across the country. As I said in answer to an earlier question, we are very proud of the work AHS has done to reduce wait times while coping with growing volumes in the health care system. In the case of emergency departments, as I said earlier, the volume of visits has gone up about 3 and a half per cent in the last year. At the same time we've seen the evolution of new models like family care clinics. There is one located in the hon. member's riding. FCCs have contributed to a 50 per cent reduction in emergency visits for those patients that are attached to them. That's progress.

The Speaker: First supplemental.

Mr. Amery: Well, thank you, Mr. Speaker. Primary care networks were supposed to alleviate hospital emergency wait times, yet this doesn't seem to be the case. Is the minister still standing by the claim that PCNs are solving or will be solving the problem?

The Speaker: The hon. minister.

Mr. Horne: Well, thank you, Mr. Speaker. Obviously, for patients who don't need to visit an emergency department, a primary care network or a family care clinic is a great option. As the hon. member knows, in a number of hospitals across the province we have very high numbers of patients who are classified as CTAS category 4 or 5, who don't need emergency department care, but for lack of primary health care options they end up in the emergency department. The 41 PCNs across Alberta and the FCCs that we have launched, including in the hon. member's own constituency, are combating this problem very well.

The Speaker: Final supplemental.

Mr. Amery: Thank you, Mr. Speaker. Given that part of the problem is a shortage of doctors, what is the minister doing to accelerate accreditation of foreign-trained medical doctors?

Mr. Horne: Well, Mr. Speaker, that is a very good question. Of course, physicians are in short supply in some specialties. We see an abundance of specialists in certain areas, but we continue to try to attract more family doctors into our system. The international medical graduate process is difficult for doctors who want to come to Canada. There are national elements to the process. There are provincial elements. We continue to work with the College of Physicians & Surgeons to simplify and to ensure that foreign-trained doctors who are adequate, who are proficient to practise in Alberta have that opportunity.

The Speaker: Thank you.

Hon. members, the time for Oral Question Period has expired.

Statements by the Speaker

Second Anniversaries of Election

The Speaker: Just before we move on to other business, I want to take a moment to indicate to all of you something that became obvious a little earlier this afternoon, and that is that we have a major anniversary being celebrated today. In particular, I want to salute the 39 new members, who are here among us, that were elected to this Assembly for their very first time two years ago on this day.

I will name them quickly, and then we can applaud them and welcome them to the ranks on their special second anniversary of being elected. The members are from Banff-Cochrane, Barrhead-Morinville-Westlock, Calgary-Currie, Calgary-Glenmore, Calgary-Hawkwood, Calgary-Hays, Calgary-North West, Calgary-Shaw, Calgary-South East, Calgary-Varsity, Calgary-West, Cardston-Taber-Warner, Chestermere-Rocky View, Cypress-Medicine Hat, Drumheller-Stettler, Edmonton-Calder, Edmonton-Beverly-Clareview, Edmonton-Gold Bar, Edmonton-Mill Woods, Edmonton-Riverview, Edmonton-South West, Fort McMurray-Conklin, Fort McMurray-Wood Buffalo, Fort Saskatchewan-Vegreville, Grande Prairie-Smoky, Highwood, Innisfail-Sylvan Lake, Lac La Biche-St. Paul-Two Hills, Lacombe-Ponoka, Little Bow, Livingstone-Macleod, Medicine Hat, Olds-Didsbury-Three Hills, Rimbey-Rocky Mountain House-Sundre, Sherwood Park, St. Albert, Stony Plain, Strathmore-Brooks, and Vermilion-Lloydminster.

I think, Edmonton-Calder, you were actually elected for a second time, but we rolled you in anyway because we welcome you back.

Please, hon. members elected for their first time, would you all rise and let us applaud you and congratulate you on your accomplishment.

Thank you. On that note, I would remind you that today is also St. George's Day. Very briefly, we have a couple of Georges at least here with us. I'm not sure they're all saints, but they're here.

The most recognized symbol associated with St. George, of course, is St. George's cross, which is on the national flag of England, and St. George is the patron saint of England. Today we're celebrating that day.

Oral Question Period Practices

The Speaker: While I have your attention, a couple of other quick notices here. I want to indicate to you that today we had a large number of preambles, not the usual given and on you went, which is allowed and acceptable, but just straight-out preambles. What it tends to do is that it takes up valuable time because technically you're allowed 35 seconds for a question, and a supplemental, and another supplemental, and so on. Mathematically it's just impossible to get beyond the 15th or the 16th speaker if everybody takes the full 35 seconds and goes on with preambles.

We had a number of outbursts on both sides of the House today. There was some conviviality and some joviality that went on today. I sensed the mood to let the laughter go on, and I did. There was considerable heckling and stuff across the bow that took up some time as well. So please bear that in mind for tomorrow. I will be chatting with House leaders about this very soon.

Finally, if you have objections to the conduct of other members, you can always stand and raise a point of order. Opposition members, you're welcome to do that, and so, too, are government members. So know the rules and know how to use them.

Could I have unanimous consent, please, to revert briefly to introduction of visitors? I hear no objection.

[Unanimous consent granted]

Introduction of Guests

(continued)

The Speaker: Let's go, Strathmore-Brooks.

Mr. Hale: Thank you, Mr. Speaker. It's my pleasure to rise today and introduce to you and through you to all Members of the Legislative Assembly two members of the Freehold Owners Association that have come to partake in our ceremonies today, Else Pedersen and David Spears. I would ask the House to give them the traditional warm welcome.

The Speaker: Thank you.

Members' Statements

(continued)

The Speaker: We'll begin with Lesser Slave Lake, followed by Strathmore-Brooks.

Murdered and Missing Aboriginal Women

Ms Calahasen: Thank you, Mr. Speaker. Shelly Tanis Dene, Marie Antoinette Carlson-Hill, Amber Alyssa Tuccaro, Shirley Ann Waquan, Roxanne Marie Isadore: this roll call is but a small number of the 93 cases of missing and murdered aboriginal women and girls to date in Alberta. Of these cases, 76 per cent of aboriginal missing women and girls disappeared from urban areas, which is higher than the national average. It's sad, Mr. Speaker.

Last year the Native Women's Association of Canada called for a national public inquiry into missing and murdered aboriginal women because since March 2010 the information this group has gathered is staggering, over 580 cases nationally. Thank you to the Native Women's Association of Canada and the Institute for the Advancement of Aboriginal Women, who have worked tirelessly to not only look at every case but to bring attention to this issue.

In fact, in 2012 Premiers across this country, including our own, agreed to support this public inquiry that would investigate closed cases involving Canada's aboriginal women. I am saddened by the federal government's decision to reject the inquiry for murdered and missing aboriginal women, and today I call upon all of my colleagues in this Legislature to engage in lobbying the federal government to change its mind and for all of us to support what this government can and will do to work with these organizations.

As representatives of all Albertans it is our responsibility to take prudent action in helping organizations like NWAC and IAAW as they continue to bring attention to this issue. After all, Mr. Speaker, we do it for family. These girls and women are someone's sister, someone's daughter, someone's aunt, someone's mother, someone's wife, someone's grandma, and they do belong to a community. They, too, deserve justice.

The Speaker: Thank you.

The hon. Member for Strathmore-Brooks.

Dog Theft in Newell County

Mr. Hale: Thank you, Mr. Speaker. I rise today to speak about a very troubling situation which I'm hearing about in my constituency. In the past three weeks I have heard that over 20 dogs have been stolen from family homes, yards, and farms. This has quickly become an important issue in the county of Newell area and has the possibility of affecting the rest of the province. As a dog owner myself this is very troubling. These people are not just stealing animals; they are stealing four-legged members of our families. I have spoken with the Brooks Animal Protection Society, the Animal Care Centre of Strathmore, the SPCA, and RCMP to see what information and updates they have on this file. To date they are saying that this issue is unconfirmed but that it seems to be contained within the county of Newell.

Think about it, Mr. Speaker. We are not talking about one or two dogs going missing; we are talking about more than 20. I heard one story this morning where a dog was taken out of a kennel in the backyard while the people were at home. Imagine getting off the school bus as a kid only to find your prized pal, your buddy, your dog, had been stolen. We do not know for sure what is happening with these dogs when they are taken. There are more than a few unsettling, disturbing theories out there. What we do know is that these people are stealing our pets, and this must be stopped.

It is our responsibility as caring neighbours to look out for each other. I am urging everyone to be aware of strange vehicles and uncommon activities you witness. Please take action by documenting and reporting any suspicious activity to the local authorities. I ask pet owners in my constituency to remain vigilant, and I would like to urge all authorities in Alberta to look into it and work together to stop these egregious acts of theft.

2:50

Introduction of Bills

The Speaker: Hon. Member for Strathmore-Brooks, you have a bill to introduce?

Bill Pr. 1

Rosebud School of the Arts Amendment Act, 2014

Mr. Hale: Yes, Mr. Speaker. I've got to get my ducks in a row. I've got a lot going on here today.

Thank you, Mr. Speaker. I request leave to introduce a bill being the Rosebud School of the Arts Amendment Act, 2014.

I know members across the aisle and on both sides of the House have had the opportunity to experience the Rosebud Theatre and take advantage of the school of the arts there. It is a gem in my constituency, and I'm very honoured to introduce this bill.

[Motion carried; Bill Pr. 1 read a first time]

Bill Pr. 2

Maskwachees Cultural College Amendment Act, 2014

The Speaker: The hon. Member for Lesser Slave Lake.

Ms Calahasen: Thank you, Mr. Speaker. I request leave to introduce a bill being the Maskwachees Cultural College Amendment Act, 2014.

Mr. Speaker, Bill Pr. 2 is administrative in nature and proposes changes to the college's name so that the spelling is corrected and it properly represents the people, culture, and organization.

[Motion carried; Bill Pr. 2 read a first time]

Tabling Returns and Reports

The Speaker: The hon. Associate Minister – Services for Persons with Disabilities.

Mr. Bhardwaj: Thank you very much, Mr. Speaker. I have two tablings regarding FASD. FASD is a lifelong condition that has no cure but includes a broad range of disabilities related to the permanent brain damage caused by exposure to alcohol. FASD is one hundred per cent preventable. First, I would like to table five copies of The Lancet global health charter for the prevention of FASD. This is known as the Edmonton charter and was published in the prestigious journal Lancet Global Health in March of 2014. The Edmonton charter recognizes Alberta's leadership in addressing this important issue and summarizes the latest evidence presented to the conference, calling for urgent global action to address FASD.

My second tabling, Mr. Speaker, is five copies of a consensus statement on the legal issues of FASD. This document was the result of a major consensus conference held September 18 through 20 of last year. This steering committee was chaired by the hon. Marguerite Trussler, QC, retired justice of the Court of Queen's Bench and chairperson of the Alberta Gaming and Liquor Commission. The jury chair was the hon. Ian Binnie, CC, QC, former justice of the Supreme Court of Canada.

Thank you very much, Mr. Speaker.

The Speaker: Thank you.

The hon. Member for Edmonton-Beverly-Clareview, followed by the leader of the Liberal opposition or someone on behalf of.

Mr. Eggen: Well, thanks, Mr. Speaker. On behalf of the Member for Edmonton-Beverly-Clareview I'd like to present 50 of more than 4,000 postcards that our office received asking the PC government to restore consistent and reliable funding for postsecondary education in Alberta.

The Speaker: The hon. Member for Calgary-Buffalo, followed by Innisfail-Sylvan Lake.

Mr. Hehr: Well, thank you very much, Mr. Speaker. I have a couple of tablings for the Member for Edmonton-Meadowlark. First, is the George & Bell Consulting study commenting on the financial positions of the local authorities pension plan and the public service pension plan, which essentially says that the plans are healthy and that the unfunded liability will be paid down in due course within nine years with no substantial changes to the pensions.

Another tabling I have is a final report called Canadian Pensioners' Mortality by the Canadian Institute of Actuaries. One of the government's calls for the need for pension reforms is that people are living longer, but one of the interesting things in this is that in the next generation lifespans are actually going down. So I submit that report as well for our records.

The Speaker: Thank you.

The hon. Member for Innisfail-Sylvan Lake.

Mrs. Towle: Thank you, Mr. Speaker. I have three tablings today, five copies, the required amount. The first one is on the early learning and child care diploma program suspension as a result of the government's 7.3 per cent cut to Alberta's postsecondary institutions and the impact it's having.

The second one is the possible effects of the Red Deer College early learning and child care development diploma program suspension, the impacts of that, for discussion, on programs and staff and what it means to everyday Albertans.

The third one is the petition of the local students and those affected by these cuts by this government and the greater impact that will have on young Albertans who receive this kind of care.

Thank you.

The Speaker: Thank you.

I don't have any points of order today unless I missed some. I don't think I did. No? Okay. Thank you.

Orders of the Day

Government Bills and Orders

Third Reading

Bill 8

Appropriation Act, 2014

The Speaker: The hon. President of Treasury Board and Minister of Finance.

Mr. Horner: Thank you very much, Mr. Speaker. I am very pleased to rise today to move third reading of Bill 8, the Appropriation Act, 2014.

The schedule to the act provides amounts that were presented in greater detail in the 2014-15 government and Legislative Assembly estimates tabled on March 6, 2014. These were since debated in Committee of Supply and the legislative policy committees over the past several weeks. During this time we examined and debated the budget and explained how government will continue to make prudent investments in core services such as health, education, human services, and infrastructure.

Budget 2014 is a good budget for this province. It delivers on the values and priorities that Albertans told me about loud and clear as I travelled the province in the fall during budget consultations. Albertans said that they wanted investment in key areas, especially after the tough budget that was Budget 2013. So we delivered $1 billion in new money for health care, education, and supports for the vulnerable.

Albertans also talked about the need to continue building Alberta. We are the fastest growing province with the strongest economy in the country, and there are many pressing infrastructure needs right now in communities across this province. So we're continuing to build the schools, health care facilities, and roads that Albertans require today, to the tune of more than $19 billion over the next three years.

Albertans told us that they wanted to put more of our provincial savings to work for the long term, so we created a new savings plan that earmarks money for new endowments and funds to support Alberta innovation.

Last and certainly not least, Albertans said that they wanted the province to be fiscally responsible, to live within our means and control spending, and to hold the line on taxes, so we are.

Mr. Speaker, Budget 2014 is the first balanced budget in six years. Even under the old presentations this would be a $1.1 billion surplus. We've kept spending growth below population plus inflation for the second year in a row. Alberta has the strongest balance sheet in the country, and Budget 2014 will continue to keep us on top.

There's been a lot of discussion in this House on our fiscal situation and what we are or, as others claim, what we are not doing. With that, let's go over some of the common themes and misconceptions. Let's start with our capital plan and how it's being financed. Certain parties across the floor seem fixated on this issue, so let's talk about it. Two-thirds of the three-year capital plan will be financed by borrowing and using P3s; one-third will be paid by cash. Let me be clear about the ground rules for the borrowing. Unlike almost every other jurisdiction out there, Alberta does not – does not – borrow to pay for the groceries. We don't use our credit card, so to speak, to buy groceries. We don't run an operational deficit. Our borrowing is strictly to build infrastructure. Full stop.

Other rules include a legislated cap on how much we can borrow that is interest-rate and revenue sensitive. We must have a repayment plan in place that sets aside money every year to pay down our bonds as they come due, and we must protect our triple-A credit rating, which allows us to borrow at the lowest possible rates.

3:00

Across the aisle we have an opposition that claims things like: our borrowing is for risky investments. Mr. Speaker, that couldn't be further from the truth. Every dollar we borrow goes into an asset, be it the bricks and mortar of a school or hospital or the asphalt on a highway. These are tangible assets that are on our balance sheet and used by Albertans every day to improve their lives.

The opposition also takes issue with analogies that our borrowing is like a mortgage. I don't want to get into the finer points of distinction between a bond and a mortgage, but let me say this. Albertans know the difference between borrowing for a vacation and borrowing to purchase a home. The government is borrowing to build hard assets like schools, and we're paying interest on the debt and setting aside money every year to pay down the principal. That sounds a lot like a mortgage to me, Mr. Speaker.

That gets me to my next point, about claims that we don't know what the interest rates will be in the future, so we're going to get into trouble down the line. Well, they're right on one count here. I don't know what the interest rates are going to be in the long term, which is exactly why we made our borrowing cap interest-rate sensitive. If I did know what the interest rates were going to be in the future, Mr. Speaker, I probably wouldn't be standing here. I'd have had a very successful career on Wall Street and be retired, probably, by now.

What this claim does show, though, yet again is a disturbing lack of understanding on the other side from the opposition when it comes to the provincial finances. When we borrow at, say, 3 and a half per cent today, we actually lock that rate in for the term of the entire bond. So if it's a 30-year bond, the interest rate remains the same for the 30 years. So in a sense we do know what the interest rates are for the long term, Mr. Speaker.

While we're on the subject of interest payments, another point they like to make is that we could run whole departments on what we'll be paying in interest down the line. It's as if they truly believe that if we don't borrow, then there would be no impact, no trade-off. While they may get to operate in these mythical scenarios where they can have their cake and eat it too, we have to be accountable to Albertans and we have to operate in reality.

Let's take a moment and talk this myth through, too, Mr. Speaker. Let's say that we don't borrow a penny for capital. Yes, we would theoretically have money available to spend on other priorities, perhaps into savings, but the trade-off is simply this: dozens and dozens of schools and health facilities would not get built, or we wouldn't be able to rehabilitate our thousands of kilometres of highway, let alone build new ones like the Stoney Trail around Calgary. We'd have to drastically scale back the support that we give municipalities for their priority infrastructure although I assume they would continue to borrow for theirs. Albertans would feel these impacts very, very quickly. An infrastructure deficit, Mr. Speaker, is as bad as a dollar deficit.

As government we will not not build. We need to make decisions that balance the needs of Albertans today and the needs of paying for interest today. It would mean telling Albertans that they're not going to get the infrastructure that they need in a timely fashion if we were to not borrow. And what's the bigger priority here for Albertans? Albertans that I've talked to across this province said: build the infrastructure we need today because people are coming and our kids need schools.

That's the point that the opposition doesn't seem to grasp, Mr. Speaker. They have a fake budget, that operates in some mythical world, where they would save a few billion a year by simply stretching out the capital plan by a number of years. Sounds pretty easy. What they don't tell you is that that means delaying the projects that Albertans are looking for today, that we desperately need now, like a new school in Airdrie, flood mitigation in High River, completing the Calgary ring road. They should try having a conversation with Albertans about when they might build those. I can give them a hint as to how those conversations are going to go.

Now, we know what the opposition will say. They will say that it's simple, that you find the money you need by eliminating government waste. Well, that's easy for them to say, having never been in government, having never been in a position to make very difficult and important decisions. But let me remind the hon. members of this. We could eliminate the entire civil service – the entire civil service – for the sum total of $3 billion. In exchange for the entire government of Alberta proper, we would get less than one year of the opposition's so-called 10-year debt-free capital plan. Then, of course, we would have no civil service to run the government.

Even their 2014 budget recommendations fall woefully short of explaining how they would support their own plan, how they would pay for it. Adding up these numbers, which I'll remind this House are hypothetical at best and often just plain fiction, brings us to under a billion dollars. All of the savings recommendations they have: just under a billion, which is less than one-fifth of one year of their 10-year plan. So I ask the members opposite: where does the rest of the money come from? Or the real question is: what do you cut? Which Albertans' core services do you eliminate? How do you choose which students, which seniors, which young families should have to wait for their health care facilities, for the schools, or for the critical supports that they need today?

This is a need that we know as a government will only grow as we move forward. And we want to see this need grow, Mr. Speaker, because it reflects the economic growth and the opportunity that positions us as the ongoing economic engine of our country. This growth is good news, and we must both protect it and support it. That is our duty to the 4 million plus Albertans who live here today and the million we expect to welcome within the next decade.

Another myth being perpetuated by our critics is that Alberta has been building infrastructure debt free for the past 15 to 20 years. Mr. Speaker, this is simply not true. We began using P3s in 2005-06 because it made financial sense. The other point they neglect to explain is the different circumstances that existed decades ago. In 1976 we borrowed at over 9 per cent. The interest rate peaked at 16 per cent in 1981 and hovered around 9 per cent to 11 per cent from '86 to '92. Today we are borrowing at less than 3 and a half per cent on 30-year bonds.

While the other side seems stuck in the '90s, the reality is that Alberta has changed. The world has changed. We are growing by a hundred thousand people a year right now. Our economy is much larger. Interest rates are at historic lows. I would say that good governance, good leadership is about making the right choice in order to serve the greatest interests of our constituents. I can say with confidence that the choices we are making today, to borrow at less than 3 and a half per cent when our savings are returning 12 per cent or even higher, is about leveraging available tools to keep pace with that growth.

In the past different choices were made to meet different demands of the time. Ralph Klein's focus on debt elimination was entirely appropriate for his day. The debt he was paying off came from overspending on the operations side. We've now solved that problem. In fact, we've taken it one step further, pursuing some of the forward-thinking ideas Premier Ralph Klein entertained during his time in office, and I quote: I want to look at the whole accounting system and the way that we finance capital projects using P3s, public-private partnerships, and finding imaginative ways to finance these projects rather than the pay-as-you-go; I want to find ways to end the uncertainty of surplus years and bad years. End quote.

So you see, Mr. Speaker, any suggestion by those members across the way that what we're doing today is an insult to Premier Klein's legacy once again stands contrary to the truth. What we're doing as a government is honouring Premier Klein's, Premier Lougheed's, Premier Stelmach's, Premier Redford's service to Alberta by ensuring that we continue to build for the future of our great province; that we continue to provide the supports, services, and infrastructure Albertans need today; and that we ensure that our economy continues to thrive.

On the savings piece, Mr. Speaker, I often hear from the other side that it makes no sense – no sense – for us to save and borrow at the same time. I would ask the hon. members this. Do they not save and borrow at home? Many of us have a mortgage and a car loan while at the same time we put aside money for RRSPs or for a rainy day. If you waited until everything was paid off before you set aside money for savings, you would not have a very enjoyable retirement and you might not have the money you need to send your kids to college or to university or to help them out in their future. Where a province differs from personal finances is that the province will never retire.

It would seem that further lessons are required on the province's savings plan, the budget presentation, and our own balance sheet given that they don't seem to understand that we have no net debt in Alberta, Mr. Speaker, and our net assets are growing. Alberta is running a consolidated surplus of $1.1 billion this year. This number is based on current public accounting standards for all Canadian governments, and the Auditor General agrees with that statement. These standards were changed in 2003, so any Finance minister or Premier since this time would end up with the same number. We have received no major reservations, as I said today in question period, from the Auditor General on our budget and have committed to show how the consolidated financial statements, that will come out at the end of the fiscal year, will link back to the budget, the constructed budget that the Auditor General is looking for, which is exactly what I said in question period today.

3:10

So at the end of the day what does Budget 2014 mean to Albertans? It means a lot of things, Mr. Speaker. It means things like 40 new RCMP officers, housing for 2,000 homeless Albertans. It means twinning highway 63 and rehabilitating 2,500 kilometres of our provincial roadways. It means support for our seniors, the handicapped, the mentally ill, and those with addictions. It means more money for new schools, new school spaces, health care, and scholarships, and it means an ongoing commitment to open new markets, ensuring our resources can get the best price possible and creating wealth and opportunity for all Albertans.

Budget 2014 delivers on these commitments and many more with a $2.6 billion operating surplus and no tax increases. At its core, Mr. Speaker, Budget 2014 helps Albertans who need it most and puts the right mix of programs, services, and infrastructure investments to ensure Alberta's continued success. We're investing in communities and families. We're opening new markets. We're saving for the future, and we're living within our means. This act will provide the government with the financial resources needed to deliver on the operational savings and capital plans set out in Budget 2014. I ask all members of this House to support this bill.

Thank you, Mr. Speaker.

The Speaker: Thank you.

Hon. members, we've heard from the government minister. We'll go to the Wildrose, then we'll go to the Liberals, then we'll go to the ND, and then we'll alternate ping-pong style: government, opposition, government, opposition.

Let's start with Innisfail-Sylvan Lake.

Mrs. Towle: Thank you, Mr. Speaker. You know, I wasn't really going to speak to this, but there's so much that the Finance minister has said that is completely erroneous and so much that he has actually said that flies in the face of everyday Albertans.

Let's talk about what he said. He talked about living within their means. The reality of it is that they've had six straight deficits and this government has driven this province back into debt. That's not living within your means by any Albertan standards. Not at all. The reality of it is that when Premier Klein left this government, he left them with a $17 billion sustainability fund, and today there is none of that money left over. The reality of it is that Premier Lougheed created the Alberta heritage savings trust fund, and it is worth today exactly what it was worth when it was created. This government has shaved off every piece of value they could from that trust fund.

Our government, our province, and our residents could have had a sustainability fund that had grown. They could have had an Alberta heritage trust fund that is worth substantially more – some even propose that it could have been worth hundreds of billions of dollars – and the revenue off of that fund could have actually replaced the dependency on resource revenue. That's not living within your means, Mr. Speaker. Living within your means means that you don't spend more than you make.

Nobody has a problem with you saving and borrowing at the same time. What they're saying, though, is that you've got to do it when you actually control the spending that you're seeing go out of your government. We are stewards of taxpayer money, and you have to be responsible with that taxpayer money. I understand that there are a lot of people on the other side who like to moan and groan about what the Wildrose says about this, but everyday Albertans don't want to see their dollars going to pay for executive coaching in Alberta Health Services. They don't want to see their dollars paying high severances to the likes of Mr. Allaudin Merali. They don't want to see their taxpayer dollars going to a CEO of Alberta Health Services that for every single month that she is hired, up to a year, is getting the exact same amount in severance pay. That is not responsible use of taxpayer dollars.

For this government to talk about living within your means, that's what that means. Every single Albertan knows what it's like to live within our means. Every day we make choices within our own households. We make choices regarding our children. We make choices with regard to purchases: our mortgages, our cars, our wants, and our needs. We balance that decision every single day. Some make better choices than others. But in a province as rich as ours we should be able to have balanced budgets, we should be able to have a hefty sustainability fund, and we should be able to have a heritage trust fund that has grown by leaps and bounds. The fact of the matter is that we have none of those things, none of them.

There is no question that things need to be built in this province – no question – and the Wildrose doesn't disagree with the party on the other side about that. What we also have proposed is that you could do that through the 10-year capital plan. Now, this government will tell you that we actually end up putting more money into infrastructure over 10 years than this government is putting in over the same period of time. The reality of it is that this government touts and talks about all of this building for infrastructure: 50 new schools, 70 renovations yet not a single shovel in the ground. Not a single one.

How can you sit there and tell Albertans that the reason we went into debt this year is because we're building when you haven't actually built a single thing? [interjection] You can tell me what you have, though. We know what we have. We have Alberta Health Services spending a billion dollars on waste. We have them spending $460,000 every day in an 18-month period. What did they spend that money on? Executive coaching, snow removal, marriage counselling, yoga mats: that's what we have. We have proof of that.

Just last year we saw the Auditor General come out and talk about how Alberta Health Services spent $100 million – $100 million – on credit cards. What were they buying? Tickets to Flames games, actual product. The same things that they were supposed to save money on through the procurement process they actually ended up doing on credit cards, and the Auditor General spoke out against that.

What else do we see? Well, we see severance packages going to Alberta Health Services executives that far exceed what the average Albertan makes. Do you know what you could do with a hundred million dollars? Do you know what you could do for this province with the $1 billion that was spent in 2012-2013? Do you know what that could have done to reduce the debt of this province?

When this government sits up here and talks about living within your means, why didn't you actually live within your means? Why didn't you go to Alberta Health Services and say: "This kind of behaviour will no longer be tolerated. We're going to take $1 billion, and we're going to eliminate the pension liability for our front-line workers"? Why didn't you say to Alberta Health Services: "We care so much about how our front-line workers provide services to the needy, the vulnerable, the elderly. We respect you so much"? Why didn't you say to them: "Rather than padding our own pockets and the people who donate to our party, you know what, front-line people? We're going to get right behind you, and we're going to make sure that Budget 2014 actually protects those who provide the most needed care in this province"?

Why didn't this government live up to its campaign promises and balance the budget? Why couldn't they do that? That was a campaign promise. They like to talk all the time about what the Wildrose would do or what the Wildrose wouldn't do. The reality of it is that they went door-knocking, and they told everyday Albertans, "This is what we're going to do for you," and then the minute they got elected, they turned their tails and ran.

Why does this government continue to disrespect the very people who built this province, the very people who right now are having a hard time paying their power bills, have an incredibly hard time getting two baths a week, can't even get home-cooked meals? Are you guys actually really proud of the fact that you spent $460,000 a day in an 18-month period on executive coaching? Is the PC government proud of Budget 2014, which in previous years allowed executive pensions that are so grossly overrated to go to people that don't even provide front-line service?

When we want to talk about Budget 2014, do you want to make real change? Do you want to actually effect change in this province? You stand up and you say: "I'm going to protect the needy. I'm going to protect the vulnerable. I'm going to side with my front-line services. I'm going to make sure that we actually do have the best health care system in the world, not just a mediocre one. I'm going to actually make sure that every single taxpayer dollar is responsibly spent, and we will end the process of abusing the taxpayer."

That's what Budget 2014 could have done, but it doesn't do that. Instead, what it does is disrespect everyday Albertans by telling them things that aren't accurate, by telling them that this is a balanced budget, by telling them that we live within our means, but we've blown through a $17 billion sustainability fund. The reason we are back in debt today is not because of anyone else. There's been one government in this province for 43 years, and every single problem that we have today is because of one government. The government actually could have said: "Today we're going to change the way we do business, today we're going to stand up for everyday Albertans, today we're going to live within our means, and we're going to set the example."

3:20

Budget 2014 could have reversed the 50 per cent increase that the PC members on the other side, who have the controlling interest on committees, voted to give MLAs. It could have reversed that. We certainly would have supported that. Budget 2014 could have put stronger caps on sole-sourced contracts. It could have done that. It didn't do that either. Budget 2014 really could have said that we are going to reinvest in Alberta, and it chose not to do that.

Here's the added problem that Budget 2014 has, and this is the problem that the Minister of Finance has. In Budget 2013 he stood up and said almost exactly the same speech as he gave this year. What happened two months after Budget 2013? Well, I'm pretty sure most of the people in the gallery could tell you what happened two months after Budget 2013. It looked a lot like this, Mr. Speaker. It looked like people with developmental disabilities got a $42 million cut. That wasn't in Budget 2013. Two months after, what did this government do? They said to the most needy and the most vulnerable in this province: we're going to cut you by $42 million.

They would have went through with that plan. The only thing that stopped them was massive protests and massive organizing and an effective all-party opposition. It was not the PC Party, it was not the PC government that stood on the steps of the Legislature saying: "We will reverse those cuts immediately. We made a mistake." It wasn't them. They were going to push through the $42 million in cuts. [interjections] I understand that the members on that side don't like to hear this. It makes them uncomfortable. But that's a fact. Nobody made that up. The department of PDD got a $42 million budget cut right after the budget was delivered.

Who else got a cut? A 7.3 per cent cut to postsecondaries. But that wasn't in Budget 2013 either. What happened then? Programs were cut, programs that affect every single everyday Albertan. What did they say then? They said: "In Budget 2013 we're living within our means. In Budget 2013 we're standing up for Albertans. In Budget 2013 we are protecting the needs of Albertans." Two months later they cut postsecondary, and they cut disabilities for $42 million. Now, the Minister of Infrastructure applauds that. That's an interesting take. I'm not so sure his constituents would agree with him, but if he likes to applaud cuts to disabilities, that's his position. That's not what Albertans want. That's not living within your means.

The problem they have with Budget 2014 is that, quite frankly, they just don't trust you. How do we know that two months from now Budget 2014 doesn't talk about all the same things and then turns around and makes the exact same cuts they tried to make last year? Mr. Speaker, we can all sit here and talk about partisan lines. We can do that, and I do it all the time, and every single member in here does. [interjection] Yeah, I absolutely do. You're right, Minister of Finance. You're absolutely right. I'm a Wildrose member, and I'll stand up for Wildrose policies any time.

The difference between me and the Minister of Finance is that I campaigned on balanced budgets, and that's exactly what we'll do. It is not my job to make sure that they fulfill the promises they made in the 2012 election. My job is to hold them accountable to the promises they made in the 2012 election campaign. My job is to stand up for everyday Albertans.

I will remind the hon. members on the other side that 440,000 Albertans, actually a little more than that, didn't vote for your party. Four hundred and forty thousand Albertans. There were actually more Albertans who voted against you than with you.

I would remind all members that when you're talking about living within your means, everyday Albertans know exactly what that means. When their power bills go sky-high and their mom and dad can't get a fresh-cooked meal in their care facility and they can't get a care worker for their disabled person because there are not enough resources, everyday Albertans very clearly know and they remember that Alberta Health Services executives got big buyouts. They know you spent $460,000 a day for 18 months. They know that you gave perks to Alberta Health Services employees the day after they were reorganized out of their positions. That's something each and every one of you will have to answer for at the doors in your constituency.

But just remember. To everybody in this room: you had a $17 billion sustainability fund, that you blew through in seven years, in the best years this province has ever had. That is not living within your means by any standard.

Thank you, Mr. Speaker.

The Speaker: Hon. members, as I indicated, in the rotation we will now go to the Liberal opposition on Bill 8, followed by the ND opposition, and then back to government.

Ms Blakeman: Thanks very much, Mr. Speaker. I did get an opportunity to speak a little bit in committee about my concerns on how the budget process had gone and about some of the different departments where I felt there could have been either money saved or where it should have been reallocated.

You know, I don't even know where to start with this. It's always the same overriding issues, Mr. Speaker. We are an immensely wealthy province, and that's a good thing and a bad thing. On the bad side it means that we don't have to be as creative as other provinces and even other states in the U.S. have been to solve some of their problems. They haven't investigated or supported sectors to get things happening that ended up working very well for them. So we have too much money to be creative. That's not to say that there's no creativity in what's going on, that there's no innovation or no research. All of that is true, but to the level that we are capable of in this province, we are not even coming close because we can just chuck money at it. We, the government, can just chuck money at it, and they do. That's how they fix lots of stuff. Now, amazingly, they tell us there's no money one day, and then, lo and behold, they've got money to chuck at something the next day because they think they might lose that seat.

On the other side of this we are spending nonrenewable resource revenue every single day, and that is the oil that came out of the oil sands or out of conventional oil and gas yesterday. We're spending it today. We're subsidizing our operating every single day by 30 per cent. For every dollar the government spends today providing programs and services, 30 per cent of that, 30 cents on that dollar, came out of the ground yesterday. We can't get it back. They're nonrenewable resources. They're not trees. It's not agriculture. We can't get it again unless a few of my hon. colleagues would like to lay down and die, and in a few hundred thousand years we would have more of it. That just went right over everybody.

Mr. Eggen: That was kind of weird, actually.

Ms Blakeman: Well, you know, we had a Premier that once said that greenhouse gases were from dinosaur farts.

But what is problematic for me about the spending of that nonrenewable resource revenue is that it's gone. We are increasingly in a situation – we can just start to see it out there on the horizon – where people either cannot or will not want to buy that oil or gas, and then what? We can't subsidize ourselves with that money anymore because it's not there. We're not likely to run out of it – we've got pretty good reserves – although eventually we will. I think we're at somewhere between a 50- and a 75-year horizon. But the likelihood that people will stop buying it from us because it has a bad reputation or we use too much water in production or any number of other reasons: that's much more likely. So then what? You're going to cut 30 per cent of the programs and services here because you don't have that revenue anymore? You shouldn't have to do that.

3:30

I have always looked and the Liberal caucus has always looked for savings plans, that that nonrenewable resource revenue would be put into a savings plan. This year when I heard that there was going to be a social investment fund – I'm sorry. Am I using the right words? Social impact bond? Social endowment fund? I mean, there's a reason why there's such confusion around that. Every time I asked about it in a budget debate, I got: well, we're working on that. I'm sorry. How do you do a budget if what you've actually defined has not been worked out yet? How do you know what the budget figure is? You can't. So that tells me that you're kind of making up figures, which is what I always thought, but it's nice to have the proof.

I was very interested in these social bonds, this social investment fund. Where's the money coming from? Oh, well, let's just take it out of the heritage savings trust fund. That's not making much of a difference. It's taking it out of one trust fund and putting it into another trust fund. That's doing nothing about spending that nonrenewable resource revenue. So no problem solved there.

Then somehow we're going to get private investors involved in public services by investing in it, but if they don't like the outcomes, then they get their money back. You know, to me there's a reason why there is a difference and a separation between public administration and public money and private corporations. Now, private corporations are there to make money for their shareholders. Okey-dokey. Fair enough. Public administration is there to provide a program and a service for the particular user groups, and any surplus they get is reinvested into providing that program or service. So they have different objectives. When you start crossing those objectives, it doesn't work.

I remember that in the arts community some years back it was decided that part of the reason the arts were struggling was not because we weren't getting enough funding but because we weren't running enough like a business. Well, we're not a business. Anyway, we were made to act like businesses, and as a result we lost almost half of our large companies in Alberta. We lost Stage Polaris, we lost the Phoenix, and a number of the other companies were in serious, serious trouble: Theatre Calgary, the Citadel, Alberta Ballet, and a couple of other ones. So this whole thing about, yeah, let's make the not-for-profits and the public administration, which is also government, folks, act more like a business does not work. I still don't understand this great social fund that's supposed to be happening. It sure isn't doing anything to save nonrenewable resource revenue.

Now, you will see that we have a number of pages that assist us in this Assembly. If I were them, I would be right ticked off at the people that sit in here because we're spending their money. They're not even going to get a choice in it. They're not even going to get a chance to say: gee whiz, don't you think you could save some of that so there might be some left when I get to a point where I could really use it? They don't even get that chance because we're spending it already. We spent it yesterday.

What do I think about this appropriation bill? Well, I don't like it. I don't like it because I think that there's a deliberate attempt on behalf of the government to deliver three sets of books. I just think that's inappropriate. Lo and behold, the Auditor General agrees with me. He thinks it's inappropriate, too. It is not done according to generally accepted accounting practices, which is the standard, even, if I may say, the gold standard of how we produce financial statements in this country and across the world. So we've now taken ourselves out of any comparison with any other jurisdiction. That may well be deliberate on the part of the government. They don't want to be compared. I can't imagine why that would be, but there you are.

I don't like the three sets of books. I don't like the fact that there is no real savings plan in there. I don't like the fact that supposedly a budget is produced and nobody can tell me how because they haven't finalized details on things. I mean, a budget is a plan. If you don't actually know what your plan is, how are you going to be able to implement it day after day? Oh, well, that would be why they're not.

Back to where I started, which was that we have enormous wealth, which should be able to work for all of our constituents, all of our citizens in the province. It really should. I have to admit that this government has absolutely baffled me in the way they can blow so much money and have almost nothing to show for it. I mean, yesterday I was talking about them rolling up and smoking something, and I was kind of teasing them, but honestly it's literally gone up in smoke. How could we possibly be plowing more and more and more money into health care and having less and less and less access? We are doing worse on just about any target or benchmark or comparison or outcome that we've ever used. We're putting more money in and getting less of a result and less of an outcome. This is just not good. I'm being studiously ignored. It tells me that I'm probably right.

You know, we're speaking in third reading, and we're supposed to be speaking about the anticipated effect of the bill. I think the effect of this bill will be another series of stumbling and bumbling, a lack of credibility in what the government is doing, no new ways of actually dealing with problems, just pretending that you're doing something new without really doing it. The people that are really going to pay the price for this are the people that have less tools at their disposal in this province: the vulnerable, the poor, the elderly, the aboriginal, and the new immigrants that can't find a place for themselves.

That just isn't, you know, the society that I wanted to live in, and frankly it's not what the people across from me are capable of. There are a lot of good brains over there. They're just not getting a chance to work, for some reason. I just find this Bill 8, the Appropriation Act, profoundly – I mean, what are the words you can use here? Disappointing? That doesn't seem accurate enough.

Mr. Eggen: Insubstantial.

Ms Blakeman: Insubstantial, yes. It's all of those things.

There's just no good reason. I'm tired of listening to the rhetoric that we get from over there, the pretending that it's all okay. You know, the first thing on the road to recovery is admitting that you have a problem, and this government has to admit they have a problem. You do.

Thanks very much.

The Speaker: Thank you.

Hon. members, 29(2)(a) is now available.

Seeing none, let's move on, then, to the hon. Member for Edmonton-Calder, followed by the associate minister.

Mr. Eggen: Well, thank you, Mr. Speaker. I just have some brief concluding remarks in regard to the budget bill. I have spoken at length on this Bill 8 already, but I think it's important for us to just make a quick review here of some of the main points that form the foundation of any given budget and what specifically they are in this particular budget in 2014.

Whenever we see a budget come forward, we like to look to see what the government uses as a measurement of inflation and a measurement of population growth. We can debate as to whether those numbers are accurate or not. I found them to be reasonably so in this particular document. It's very important as a benchmark for how each of the budgets in each of the ministries comes through because, of course, if inflation and population growth are at a certain level, then it doesn't matter if you have a small increase or even a larger increase in a budget. If it doesn't meet that number, then effectively it's still a cut. So it's very important.

[The Deputy Speaker in the chair]

I think the numbers for this year in terms of a combination of inflation and population growth globally for our economy here in the province of Alberta were set by the government at about 5 per cent. So this budget overall I believe was at about 3.7 per cent. If you didn't meet that 3 per cent, let's say, in each of the ministries just as a baseline, then it's as good as a cut, really, considering the growth of our economy. Everybody knows that our economy is growing here. Any suggestion about belt tightening and, you know, that we have to make hard decisions and make these cuts here and there is absolute balderdash, right? We know very well that our economy is doing very well. Thank you very much.

The Alberta New Democrats toured around to each corner of this province before the budget came out, and we found no signs of anything but substantial growth in both the economy and the population in our fair province from north to south and east to west. So if you're not meeting that 3 per cent rate for any of the ministries, then in fact you're making a cut. Really, this budget is nothing more than a hold-the-line budget if you put it right across the whole spectrum.

3:40

If you start looking at where the money is actually coming from, then it becomes even more interesting, Mr. Speaker. As I said last night, at this juncture with our economy and the way things are, I think it's a precondition of building a budget, a responsible budget, that it balances. This one sort of does, but once you go through all of the Byzantine layers of how they report this budget, which takes an expert and a team of researchers to finally sort through it, you'll see that, probably, we are balanced or around $50,000 north or south of balancing the budget, which is quite remarkable, really, when you're thinking of a $43 billion number. The key to that is that we received a $1.1 billion increase in our transfer payments for health care from the federal government. If we didn't get that, indeed we would have ended up with another budget deficit here in 2014 in Alberta.

So we need to really give our heads a shake about that. Here we are with, probably, the engine of the Canadian economy, this tremendous growth in population and in our economy, and we're still not really balancing the budget without some transfer payment from Ottawa. That makes you wonder, I think. Everybody's shaking and scratching their heads to various degrees here, and I certainly am, too.

It's very important, Mr. Speaker, to look at this picture in the wider sense, not just where we spend those monies in each ministry but how we get the revenues to actually pay for that. We've talked about this before. We know very well that we have a serious revenue problem in this province. We let billions of dollars slip through our fingers that are rightfully ours as the owners of the natural resources that we have in this province and the generators of the economy which creates the basis by which people make so much money. Some people make a lot of money out of this province. If we're not capturing that money, we're not being responsible as legislators here in the province of Alberta.

I am embarrassed to watch just how much money does slip through our fingers through a very, very antiquated and primitive tax structure that we have here for both personal income tax and corporate tax. Then, of course, there are the royalties that we fail to collect from our nonrenewable natural resources.

It's interesting. We have to look around. We should always try to learn from best practices in other jurisdictions in Canada and around the world. I was looking at Saskatchewan. I know people like to hold Saskatchewan up because it's also having a period of economic growth and prosperity. Good for them. That's all fine and good. You know, they have a much more reasonable agreed-upon tax structure that is progressive. A progressive tax structure, for people who don't know what it is: the most advanced, industrialized countries in the world use it. It's a way by which you can tax at different levels different levels of your income so that people that are earning $50,000 or $40,000 are not being unfairly burdened with the same tax percentage as someone who earns a million dollars or something like that.

With a progressive tax structure similar to the way Saskatchewan collects their taxes and other ways by which they collect their taxes, we could realize an extra $3.7 billion here in the province of Alberta. That would not just balance the budget very well, thank you very much, but it could actually make the investments for which we are responsible here as the provincial Legislature a real investment in social capital to ensure that no child gets left behind, that we do have a proper K to 12 education program with not overburdened class sizes, that postsecondary education is not unaffordable for people who need and should be able to go there, and that our health care system is looking after people, especially in their senior years.

Just why one simple adjustment that we can learn from the province next to us, only a few hundred kilometres away – I don't see anybody in Saskatchewan suffering from a progressive tax structure. I think that they all think that this is a very fine thing. The net emigration from Saskatchewan to Alberta has been stemmed by their very progressive tax structure and the way by which they organize themselves. You know, we could do something very similar, a very modest proposal. It's not radical. It's something that we ran our province on for the majority of the history of this province, and then suddenly we've slipped into this sort of, as I say, very primitive and regressive tax system of the flat tax, which is to nobody's benefit except the very few people that earn over a million dollars or so.

Those are some of the things that I just wanted to make sure that we got out of the way, that we made very clear here before we finished off with our appropriations debate. Alberta New Democrats believe that we have fundamentally a very strong province. We have a very educated population, and we have a natural resource base that is the envy of many other places in the world. We've created a situation by which we are not using those nonrenewable energy resources to transition into a renewable, sustainable, equitable, and socially just society, and until we do that, we're not doing our jobs as legislators. We will certainly continue to fight, to push in that direction. There are strong forces that push in the other directions, but then, I suppose, through that tension we should really work in the spirit of compromise and look for the things that are best for the people and the majority of the people most of the time.

We look for common-sense, practical solutions. We're not walking around carrying these heavy burdens of ideology that seek to dismantle the public good. We know where we came from as New Democrats, and we know that the vast majority of Albertans actually entertain the same basic principles as we do: the spirit of co-operation, the spirit of looking after each other when we're most in need, the spirit of creating something that's sustainable and not blowing off all of your nonrenewable money and resources all in one go, all in one generation. You know, it's a matter of time. So these budgets, moments in time once a year, are a chance for us to remind ourselves of what's most important and to remind ourselves of exactly whose money we're debating on in the first place here, right? We look for ways to be more efficient, and we look for ways to be more equitable.

Mr. Speaker, you know, someday I would sure like to vote for a budget. It would be so great, and I'm hoping, based on the very practical suggestions that we've put forward in regard to education, in regard to health care, in regard to finance, energy, and so forth, that we can find some middle ground by which we can work and move forward.

It's sort of ironic because, I mean, some of the things that I was reflecting on over the last 48 hours about this budget are places that this government sought to go to, at least in writing, on paper, when they ran the last election: this idea of full-day kindergarten, this idea of investing in postsecondary education, diversifying our economy, and so forth, right? Obviously, this government knows what is the right thing to do because they put it in black and white in their campaign documents in 2012, so it's not as though they are working from a deck of cards that's ignorance, by any chance, but they are making choices, and the last 24 months have been a bit cathartic, Mr. Speaker, quite frankly, for everyone. You know, I've never seen anything quite like it, quite frankly, how things started to fall apart in terms of the government and the change in direction that they've made, but now is a chance to pull back. It's a fresh beginning. We'll have a new Premier, and I really do expect that this PC government will take a hard, existential look at just where they are right now and start to invest in the things that people really need and want in this province.

We can have lots of empty words about how we want to take care of people and so forth, but we can only judge a government by their actions, so every single individual action that this government seems to take on money, on social policy, and so forth always seems to default to looking after a very small percentage of the population and making those people more able and more well off while the rest of the population, which is more than 4 million people here now, seems to have to get by with less and less. It's perhaps the most bitter irony when you live in a place where there is obvious prosperity, such obvious prosperity, and the cost of living even at full employment is becoming more and more difficult to bear.

So, Mr. Speaker, Alberta New Democrats are here. We are providing some practical alternatives. I think people are starting to listen, and I'm very proud to be having this opportunity to speak here today.

Thank you very much.

3:50

The Deputy Speaker: Thank you, hon. member.

Standing Order 29(2)(a) is available.

Seeing none, I'll recognize the next speaker, the hon. Associate Minister of Recovery and Reconstruction for Southwest Alberta.

Mr. Fawcett: Thank you very much, Mr. Speaker. It's an honour to rise and speak to Bill 8, the Appropriation Act, 2014. Obviously, this is the bill that sets out the amounts per department that were in the budget and puts them into law for those amounts to then be utilized by the various government departments in delivering public services to Albertans. I do want to provide a number of comments today that focus on a couple of key areas that were discussed already as part of this act by the Minister of Finance and President of Treasury Board as well as some of the members of the opposition that have spoken already and provide a particular context for myself and on behalf of my constituents of Calgary-Klein.

The first thing that I do want to talk about is that, you know, obviously, we've heard from a couple of opposition parties that the government can never do enough, that there's never enough money for the government to deal with all the challenges that we have, and they are correct, Mr. Speaker. One of the fundamental reasons that we are here as Members of the Legislative Assembly is to allocate what is a finite amount of resources in our society to try to make our province a better place to live for those that live in it, our constituents. So there will never be enough money.

But what is really interesting is that they continue to perpetuate this plan of spending more and taxing more, whether it's raising royalties, income tax, whatever, that, frankly, has been rejected by Albertans over and over and over again for decades in this province. I can tell you that a significant majority of my constituents do not want their taxes to be raised. They do want the government to be more efficient with their taxpayers' money, and that's what we've set out to do through our results-based budgeting process and in a number of steps that we've taken in last year's budget and this year's budget. So, you know, I just can't subscribe to that line of thinking, Mr. Speaker.

I do want to make some comments around what was talked about earlier, actually, in question period by the Member for Airdrie, and I think the Member for Innisfail-Sylvan Lake referred to it as well. It has to do with the budget deficit or surplus that we may or may not have in this province. When the Minister of Finance and Treasury Board tabled his particular budget about a month ago or a month and a half ago, he indicated, as he mentioned earlier today, that we have a consolidated $1.1 billion budget surplus in this province for the first time in six years. That's something that I think every member of this Assembly can be very, very proud of. I know that I'm certainly proud of it. I know that a majority of the work and effort that I put in with my time as the MLA for Calgary-Klein has been focused on trying to get us back into a surplus position, and this is something that I'm very proud of.

But there have been a number of comments that this is not true. Frankly, I get the sense that a number of members without saying it have actually said that we're not telling the truth, that we're hiding something. Well, I went back and did an analysis and looked at Budget 2005, one of the last budgets tabled under former Premier Klein, who these members always hold up to the highest standards of fiscal conservatism and responsibility, and looked at how they calculated the surplus that was put out there. At that time they were projecting a $1.5 billion surplus. The way that you calculate it – and this is according to public-sector accounting standards, the exact same standards that the hon. Member for Airdrie was talking about earlier today in question period – is by essentially taking all revenue sources and subtracting the total expenses, and that's how you get your surplus. Total expenses are essentially the sum of your program expenses and debt servicing costs, and what goes under program expenses are your base operating expenses, expenses for capital purpose, and any sort of sustainability fund transfers. That's how you calculate it.

One of things that probably not very many members know about – and I'm sure that the Member for Airdrie for his time on Treasury Board probably understands this, but I would bet dollars to doughnuts that not very many members over there, particularly the Member for Innisfail-Sylvan Lake, who wanted to stand up and suggest that the Finance minister didn't know what he was talking about, could tell, from a public-sector accounting practice, the difference between capital investment and capital grants. Now, they all go into capital projects, and they go into our capital plan, $6.6 billion of it. But some of it is capital investment, and some of it is capital grants.

Capital grants are grants that we provide to third-party entities like Alberta Health Services, school boards, municipalities, whatever, that end up going on to own that asset. Capital investments are stuff like provincial roads, corrections facilities, any sort of provincial bridges, any sort of assets that are then owned by the provincial government. Those actually are not counted in total program expense according to the public-sector accounting standards. It has been like that forever. That's how Ralph Klein used to calculate his budgets. Frankly, it's how every government in this country calculates whether they have a deficit or a surplus position, including the federal government. When the members over there wanted to stand up and suggest what a great job Jim Flaherty did for this country – and he did – this was the standard that he used to determine the calculation of whether the federal government was in a surplus or a deficit position.

It's funny, I got into this debate on Twitter with the gentleman that purports to represent the taxpayers in Alberta. He's a well-intentioned individual, but he threw out two different deficit numbers: the deficit is actually $2.3 billion, or it's $3.9 billion. I said: "What? How can there be two deficit numbers?" How can you have any sort of credibility by saying, "Well, it actually might be two different things?" I said: why don't we just decide to calculate it the way that every other government in Canada decides to calculate it, the way that the Institute of Chartered Accountants wants us to calculate it when they set out the public-sector accounting standards? By doing that, you get a surplus this year of $1.1 billion, Mr. Speaker. That's something that I think we can all be proud of as Albertans.

The second thing that I want to talk about – and it goes to the crux of what I think is a very significant division in this Legislature – has to do with our capital plan. As I just mentioned, it's actually a $6.6 billion capital plan. It's certainly a little bit more than we anticipated that we were going to spend last year, but we have some significant challenges. Last year when the budget was tabled, in 2013, we didn't have a deal for the southwest portion of the ring road. Last year when we tabled Budget 2013, we didn't have the 2013 floods. This is a significant difference about the approach around capital and how those capital projects should be financed, Mr. Speaker.

Under the way the opposition is proposing, they would have had to cut schools, cut roads, cut hospitals and all other capital expenditures in order to then fund the southwest Calgary ring road because their 10-year debt-free capital plan provides them with no flexibility to be able to deal with these things that come up on an ongoing basis when you're in government. In order to put in the mitigation that we're putting in in southern Alberta, that we're investing in, they would have had to cut hospitals, roads, and schools. In fact, Mr. Speaker, they would have cut, according to their plan, $2.6 billion out of this capital plan.

If you go to pages 72 and 73 of your fiscal tables that were tabled with the budget, there's the capital plan, and it lays out all of the money. I challenged them last year, and they couldn't do it, and we were asking them to cut even less money out of the budget. Now they're saying that they're going to cut even more money out of the capital budget this year. I challenge them to do it. They make up this excuse: well, we don't have a priority list. Go to pages 72 and 73 of the fiscal tables, and do it. Put your money where your mouth is because that's what this government is doing. We are talking about building Alberta, and that's what we're doing. A 36 per cent reduction in the capital plan does not cut it.

4:00

I want to go back to Ralph Klein. Again, I mentioned this last year. You know, I represent the constituency of Calgary-Klein. I've got a great respect for Ralph Klein and what his legacy was. One of his legacies, of course, was to get rid of the provincial debt. I agree with that. Some might think that we're not meeting those needs or not respecting that by doing what we're doing, by capital financing infrastructure projects.

One of the other things that was Ralph Klein's legacy is being an honest guy and suggesting that when we've done something wrong that we should be doing something different and changing courses. He did that very, very well. In 2006 he came out and said: yes, we didn't have a plan; what they're saying is right. I tabled the CBC article last year in the House around this time about when he said: we didn't have a plan, but we're working on it.

What would be a shame for Ralph Klein's policy would be to not heed his advice and to not have a plan to deal with the growth that we're experiencing right now in this province, which is the highest amount of growth that we've experienced in decades and decades and decades. We've increased the population in this province by 25 per cent over the last 13 years, and it's anticipated to increase by another 20 per cent over the next 10 years. That is substantial growth, and these projects cannot be put on hold. It's amazing.

The member from Medicine Hat has stood up over the last couple of months and asked questions about a hospital. I think it was in Consort or something. He stood up and asked questions about a school that has mould and leaking issues. Oh, the hospital was the one in Sherwood Park. Sorry. The Member for Chestermere-Rocky View stood up and asked questions about schools needed in west Calgary. The Member for Livingstone-Macleod stood up and asked questions about the twinning of highway 8 and highway 3. These are all issues that are pressures because of the growth that we're experiencing.

I can tell you this, Mr. Speaker. On this side of the House we're going to work very hard to make sure that those projects are going to get done. I'll tell you how they're not going to get done, though, or not get done as fast as the people that they're asking these questions on behalf of want them to be done: by cutting $6.2 billion out of the capital plan. That's how they're not going to get done.

With that, I do want to suggest that this is a government that's trying to find balance. We found balance by balancing the budget this year. But we're trying to find balance by living within our means, making government better, making it more efficient while trying to meet the needs of today, of citizens today, because that's what our constituents want. I know that's what the constituents in Calgary-Klein want. They don't want me to turn a blind eye to the growth that we're experiencing because I'm ideologically bound to not taking on any debt to build capital projects.

Now, yes, our capital plan has grown. I, too, will have the same concerns if our debt levels, you know, continue to rise, rise, rise, and rise to the point where they're not sustainable and it puts us in a very difficult position in the future. But we're a long way away from that, Mr. Speaker. We have the appropriate mechanisms in place, as the Minister of Finance clearly articulated earlier, to make sure that that doesn't happen.

Finally, Mr. Speaker, I just want to say that I'm open to all sorts of debate around whether we're making the right decisions or the wrong decisions. But let's be open and honest and not be blinded by ideology, not be blinded by partisanship. That fact is that we have a lot of pressures in this province, and we as elected people on behalf of our constituents are put here to meet those pressures while balancing those needs with those of future generations.

I might get into it a little bit later when we start discussing some of the pension legislation that's before the House around the complete hypocrisy of what the Official Opposition is proposing to deal with the unfunded liability and just leaving that for future taxpayers because they're just going to cut off defined benefits and start putting new hires on a defined contribution plan. The liability, the debt, that that would leave for future taxpayers – but then they oppose any sort of debt while putting an asset in the ground. The hypocrisy is amazing, Mr. Speaker, and I think some of those members should be shaking their heads and asking themselves some very serious questions about why they're actually here in this Legislature. Is it to win the next election, or is to serve their constituents and do the right things on behalf of their constituents not just for today but for tomorrow?

Thank you very much, Mr. Speaker.

The Deputy Speaker: Thank you, hon. member. Standing Order 29(2)(a) is available.

Then I'll recognize the Member for Little Bow.

Mr. Donovan: Thank you, Mr. Speaker. I love following the passionate speeches of Calgary-Klein because, I mean, he is very passionate on numbers and stuff like that. It's good to hear. I appreciate that.

Now, the key to value for money – and I appreciate when he brings that up. He talks about the southwest ring road and whatnot. I've had the opportunity to talk to the previous MLA in my riding. He was part of those negotiations way back when. They found that they always had problems getting something signed because it was going to cost too much money at the time. They didn't feel they had good value for money. So if the current Infrastructure minister feels that he did get a good deal on that, I guess, then so be it. We'll let the public decide on that one. I think I understand where everybody has to move forward.

You talk about ideas for where to cut some money. Well, the hillbilly farmer will give you a couple of thoughts and equations here on it, and these are not my fresh ideas. Don't get me wrong. But quite a few of them are to just go back to some standard things for how to save some money on the schools. If at some time somebody plans to build 50 new schools and renovate 70 of them, let's go back to some old cookie-cutter ideas. I'm not going to be the ape of the place. It goes back so many years. You know, back in Vulcan county in the '50s and '60s all the schools there – Mossleigh, Arrowwood, Milo, Brant, Lomond, Vulcan – had the same floor plans. The bigger the school was, you made two levels of it. Those are some places we can save some honest money as far as how to build things.

When I was on the Tri-Services Building Committee in Vulcan, we had an ambulance, RCMP, and fire department built into one. The first person we got, an architect that came onboard, got 8.75 per cent for their job. So they're going to come in and try to sell us a $10 million building because in their eyes we needed to have lots of two-way glass and rock and everything else, not to mention the fact that behind the building there are two huge concrete silos where the two local elevators are. So aesthetically pleasing? Maybe we didn't need to do that there.

Now, the problem is that you have an architect saying: well, we have to do this. And there are only two architects that the RCMP will hire when they do new buildings because of security, so they come across with that. They almost kind of push you into that corner of: what are you going to do if you don't take us? It's pretty simple. You fire them, which we did. We said: “Okay. That’s fine. We’re going to make this project into two, then. We’ll do the ambulance and RCMP, which is our side.” When we did that and we got that across, we put up an extra concrete wall. We built our side. Then we let the RCMP go back to hiring their architect and doing their part on their half of the building. It saved over half the money by doing it that way.

Those are little things. This goes back to when you don’t lose source stuff and you sit there and make people be accountable for the money they use. I’m not saying that we can’t move forward with some of these ideas. I get that we can’t change the past and that.

You know, we talk about our assets, which the Finance minister talked about before. I’ve run a farm. When I do my assets sheet, it’s what you can sell, what’s liquid, stuff like that. Then you look at your whole farm, what your farmland is worth, what your home is worth, what your farm machinery is worth if you were to have an auction sale, and go from there.

The problem in this province is that you can’t sell the roads, the bridges, the schools, the hospitals. When we’re looking at things to sell and do that, it’s going to be a challenge that way, to make that come across.

One of the big things I hear from my constituents is about severance packages. I mean, we have a gallery full of people here that are looking at their pensions and stuff. I’ll guarantee you that not one of them up there would argue the point that if they were told that they would get one month’s wages for every month they worked, they’d be tickled pink. Nobody else in the real world gets that unless you’re a communications staff member or the past Premier, stuff like that. That’s what the problem is. We start signing people up for things that are unobtainable. If you wouldn’t do that with your own money, you should never do that with public money. It’s that simple. There are rules that obviously got danced around a little bit there to make those happen.

When I was on county council, when I was a reeve, if somebody got let go or somebody was retiring, mostly let go, they got one month’s wage for every year they worked up to 18 months. So you got a year and a half’s wages. That’s a pretty standard thing. But when you start getting one month’s wage for every month worked, it’s unheard of. Nobody does that. That’s the problem. These are the things that people get outraged about. So moving forward, I sure hope you guys can get that wrangled that back in. Those are issues, I guess, where people feel that maybe the value for money isn’t there. That’s where they have concerns on this budget that’s going through. Are we truly getting value for the money?

4:10

The Minister of Transportation and I have talked lots, and you’ve raised it, Calgary-Klein, you know, about what we ask for on this side. Well, we’re here to represent our constituents. I think we all do that. I think there are 87 people here that went out and got elected, worked hard. I never argue that we didn’t all go out and work hard to get elected here, and you’re here to represent your constituents. My constituents have asked for some intersections. They’re asking about school upgrades and everything else. So of course I’m going to advocate for them. But I find it slightly ironic that you sit there and throw it back at us that we ask about these things. That’s our job. I think we all know that. And it’s politics, and it’s a part of being in the House, and I get the theatrics side of it.

You know, talking with the Minister of Transportation, I mean, Coalhurst intersection is a key one where I’ve raised the issue here. I’ve had the questions. He’s been great to answer them. If we want to get back to saving money and what we’d do differently, do a value for dollar when you’re doing projects. They’re going to be doing an overlay on that highway there coming up this summer. Transportation has let us know that’s going to happen. I get that we’re working, that we’re paving and making the province better. One of the things when we’re doing that is to maybe do the extra lane that needs to go into this community while they’re doing that because it saves money. It doesn’t have the start-up costs like if I were to bring in a whole crew to do that. You already have the paving crew coming in. It’s stuff like that if you want to save some money.

Go back to some of the key people around those tables. They know how to make things happen. They know where to save money if you give them the opportunity. Go back and talk to the people that are making it work.

The Nobleford intersection. We don’t have the $40 million – I talked to the previous Transportation minister about it – to do an overpass there. It’s understandable. Then let’s live within our means. If you talk with the people there, they’re keen on: what can we come up with that’s different for that? When you sit and talk with people from around our constituency, they’re fine with that. They understand that the money isn’t maybe there for that. But what can we do to live within our means and get good value for our dollar? You know, those are the kinds of things, I think, if you’re looking for ideas on where to save some money, to sit there and just make some basic, simple cuts. Basic things for how to get the best value for your dollar.

Is it going to work in every scenario? No. Obviously not, and I get that. I’m a realist that way. But I think those are the kinds of things that we need to always keep our eyes on and say: I think that’s what we need to do. Those are the challenges, I guess, that we have.

Other colleagues have raised what was brought up in previous budgets and what happened and the flood. Yeah. I mean, that’s going to be a challenge. Nobody saw that coming. Remember, also, that we should get a large amount of money back from the federal government on that. But as a taxpayer, you know, I guess I’m paying for it either way, whether it goes through federal taxes or provincial.

We talk about how fast this province is growing. One of the things that’s great when people come here, the 100,000 a year that are moving to this province, is that they also do pay taxes here. So they’re paying into the system. Is it going to cumulatively come up that fast? Probably not, but at least they’re paying taxes. We always have to make sure we know that.

With that, Mr. Speaker, I will sit down and let my other colleagues go. Thank you.

The Deputy Speaker: Standing Order 29(2)(a) is available.

Seeing none, I’ll recognize the next speaker. The hon. Member for Edmonton-Strathcona.

Ms Notley: Thank you so much, Mr. Speaker. It’s a pleasure to be able to rise again to speak on the issue of this budget and why it is that our caucus will not be supporting this budget. I was just looking online here – the joys of having computers in the Assembly these days, and thank you to the Speaker for that – and I note the report on the Public Accounts Committee that occurred today, where the Auditor General was asked about the accounting processes used with respect to this budget and what he thought of them. In fact, the article says that Alberta’s Auditor General told an all-party Legislature committee and senior Finance officials on Wednesday that the provincial budget fails to meet general accounting standards. I’m pretty sure that this is something that people have been telling this government for a long time. The quote, in fact, is as follows:

From my experience and just observing from the sidelines, a lot of time is spent interpreting these different formats . . . time [that] could be . . . spent on actually debating the essence of the budget itself.

Now, there's an interesting thought.

Then, finally, one of the Finance officials, you know, the public servants who are compelled to follow the direction of this government, stated:

The budget is a policy choice of government.

This is the ADM in Finance.

A government of the day could choose to move to a budget that's based on a financial statement basis at some point in the future. That has not been the choice of government.

Then Saher went on to say: I just think there's a better way of presenting information to the public.

Then this raises an interesting question. Why does the government present and report the budget the way they are now? I think the fact of the matter is that they really don't want Albertans to see the state of our finances in a clear fashion. Now, just to be very clear. I'm no Wildroser. I am not going to come riding in on my . . .

Ms Blakeman: Palomino.

Ms Notley: Palomino – thank you, Member for Edmonton-Centre – to demand that we slash and burn services and eliminate this debt tomorrow. But I do think that we cannot deal with the problem if we don't begin by looking at the numbers honestly and identifying the extent of the problem clearly and openly for all Albertans. Now, I appreciate that this government is not terribly interested in having that kind of conversation with Albertans because – you know what? – they've been in charge for 43 years, and the fact of the matter is that they are completely and entirely responsible for the extent of the problem.

The problem is not only a shortcoming in a number of areas that I'm going to talk about in a bit, but the problem is also a profound shortcoming in terms of our infrastructure debt. Now, this is something that our caucus has been talking about for decades – decades, Mr. Speaker – and now it is getting to the point where even this government cannot hide the degree to which they've allowed this province to decay at the expense of giving fabulous tax breaks to their very, very wealthy friends and/or royalty breaks to their very, very wealthy friends. Then they have a problem because we do have our gargantuan debt, and we have to deal with it.

I agree completely with the Wildrose that P3s are, in fact, just another way of hiding debt. You know, we've always been opposed to P3s because they're bad for the public service. They're bad deals. They undermine the employees who are typically involved with those P3s, they undermine the community within which those P3s operate, and on top of that, they're just a mechanism of hiding debt. We've always said that right from the beginning. We actually said it long before those folks were saying it. We've got even more debt hidden by this government as they pursue P3 construction. Here we have a government that uses a number of different tactics to hide their debt.

Well, why do we have debt? Well, we have debt because we have a revenue problem. Our revenue problem can be traced to two fundamental sources. One, we have a flat tax in this province, a strategy that has been adopted by no other province in the country – why? – because it's a really stupid strategy. We also have one of the most forgiving royalty regimes, forgiving, that is, if you are a shareholder for, you know, Suncor or Esso or CNRL or whoever it is that is currently enjoying the benefits of one of the most forgiving royalty regimes in the developed world. I believe Angola charges less than we do. I'm not sure, but I think that's about where I'd have to stop in terms of describing who has lower royalties than this province.

Ms Blakeman: In a rush to the bottom.

Ms Notley: Oh, we're not rushing to the bottom. We're drowning in the bottom. We've rushed to the bottom, we've fallen into the puddle, and we can't even get out of it. We're at the bottom.

Ms Blakeman: Doing the backstroke.

Ms Notley: Doing the backstroke and coming up with creative ways to hide the financial mess that we have allowed ourselves to sink into.

You know, I've talked about the infrastructure deficit, and there are, of course, so many ways in which we see this hurt Albertans every day in our communities. I mean, we've talked about the travesty at the Misericordia hospital on the west side of Edmonton, we've talked about the horrific conditions at the General hospital, we've talked about the imminent catastrophic failure which exists at the U of A, and of course we're now hearing about the gutting of mature communities through our education system as this government pushes school boards to find the cheapest way possible to deal with the fact that they failed to maintain schools over the course of the last 25 years. We have a lot of consequences to this decision to ignore infrastructure, and they, of course, affect regular Albertans, not the high-flying ones who take employer-sponsored plane trips to the JPL on any given weekend. So that's a problem.

4:20

Now, the other thing, of course, is that this budget contains no vision, Mr. Speaker. It contains no vision for how we can actually take these resources, which we are the owners of, and convert them into a vehicle to actually grow our province, strengthen our communities, and expand upon the opportunities of each and every Albertan, who are themselves the owners of the resources about which I'm speaking. We continue to ignore these opportunities.

What are some of the ideas that we should be looking at? Well, the Member for Edmonton-Calder suggested that, based on what the government ran on in the last provincial election, some of their platform ideas – I think he suggested that they know it's the right thing to do some of these things, yet they still backed off on it. I would suggest, with the greatest of respect to my very positive and friendly colleague, that I have a bit more of a cynical view of this thing.

I think that what actually happened over there was that these folks knew that those policy platforms were what Albertans wanted, but it is not what they believed was the right thing to do. They never wanted to do it. They just knew it was what Albertans wanted to hear because it's what Albertans wanted. They knew that that was the way to get themselves re-elected. In their minds, the right thing to do continues to be what is in the best interests of a very small, select, entitled group of special interests in this province, a group which is getting smaller and smaller and wealthier and wealthier every day. Sooner or later they're not going to be able to buy enough votes for these folks. That's, I think, the direction and the trajectory that this very old and tired government is on, and I think that is reflected in this budget.

That having been said, though, I want to talk about those promises that were broken and a couple of things that I think ought to also be included and considered in the kind of positive, proactive budget that would actually be an investment in the future of Albertans' opportunities.

We talked about full-day kindergarten. Many people have talked about full-day kindergarten. Indeed, the former Premier talked about full-day kindergarten, and I think it was around December 24 – maybe it was December 28, this Christmas – when there was a tiny, little press release that went out from the Premier's office saying: Oh, yeah; by the way, we don't think this is going to happen. I don't know how many people noticed that. I remember chuckling quite a bit when I saw that press release come out because I thought that, gee, that looks like a FOIP management strategy: let's dump that one in between Christmas and New Year's, where we acknowledge that that particular promise is not going to be met.

What else did they promise to Albertans and not follow through on? Well, we've talked about it a lot in the last few days, the commitment to end child poverty in five years and eliminate poverty for all Albertans in 10. Not only have we done absolutely nothing on that project; we have actually taken a number of steps backwards in a number of different settings.

For me, personally, I just find that to be one of the most cynical moves that a government can make, to actually make child poverty and the future hopes of children who are at risk an election issue that you will run on when you know you're not going to do anything about it. We're all politicians, and I think we probably all have a higher tolerance level for cynicism than the average voter, unfortunately. It comes with the job. But that one went well beyond mine. I've seen cynical, manipulative politics, but that went beyond what I think should be acceptable for anybody on either side of this House who wants to feel good about the job that they do when they go to work every morning.

What else did we not get? Well, we were told that we were going to get funds to actually promote and expand access to our postsecondary institutions for Alberta students, rural students, aboriginal students, those people who find it the most difficult to get into postsecondary education. What have we done? Well, we didn't follow through on the promised funds, and indeed we made additional cuts which are going to ensure that the number of spaces are reduced and that access to our postsecondary institutions will be limited even more than they were when this promise was first made. So not only did we not go forward; we went backwards.

What are some of the other things that I would have liked to have seen? Well, I'm just going to talk really briefly about two. I've talked about them before, but I just can never say it enough. Child care is one of those public policy issues that is so clearly proven to bring about profound improvements in the quality of life on a broadly equitable basis in a way that you can see decades and decades later. It's like medicare in terms of its public policy value and its merits to the best interests of the greatest number of citizens in our province. The research is out there. You can look at any jurisdiction on the other side of the ocean there and see what that does for health outcomes, education outcomes, employment outcomes. All those things go up when you have a fully accessible, affordable, quality child care system, and that is something that we continue to ignore in this province.

It's particularly frustrating because we attract people to come here to jump on our little – what are those wheels called? – treadmill, you know, and run as fast as you can to generate activity in our economy. We invite everyone to come here and work more hours in a day, in a week, in a year than they do in any other province, but we are absolutely opposed to providing the kind of child care that would ensure that people who are contributing to the economy like that will also have the ability to have a balanced family life in a way that builds and grows our communities above and beyond simply how much money someone is putting in their pocket at the end of a given shift.

We're not doing that, and we happen to have the youngest population in the country, I believe, and probably the greatest demand, and we have the greatest number of resources at our disposal if we would just use them that way, but we just have no vision. You know, the leadership on this issue is stuck back in 1952, and it's all about: well, you know, mom can stay home, and dad can go to work. I don't know who lives that life anymore, almost nobody, certainly not the public-sector employees that this government is so fond of attacking. We could do so much if we did that, but we're not, and it's a lost opportunity.

The only other thing that I'm going to talk about briefly, Mr. Speaker, is the whole issue of how we support those Albertans who are particularly vulnerable, those Albertans with special needs, with developmental disabilities. We know that last year we saw this government take a very punishing approach to that particular community in a really callous way that surprised, you know, onlookers from all sides of the political spectrum. We were quite surprised that anyone would pick that particular fight with that particular group of people, but they did, and they restored some of the funding but not all of it.

The problem with that, Mr. Speaker, is that these folks have so many opportunities before them, but they really need to be supported for that to work, and in the course of justifying these cuts, the minister at the time suggested: "Well, here's the problem. There's a whole schvack of other vulnerable Albertans who don't qualify for support because of our criteria right now. We need to change the criteria so that we can deal with more people." Well, they changed the criteria. They reduced the number of people that were receiving services, but they haven't invited anybody else in, and the number of people receiving services has not gone up. It's gone down. In fact, that was an incredibly disingenuous approach to things, and I think that we have the option to do better.

Thank you, Mr. Speaker.

The Deputy Speaker: Thank you, hon. member.

Standing Order 29(2)(a) is available. I recognize the Member for Edmonton-Beverly-Clareview.

Mr. Bilous: Thank you very much, Mr. Speaker. I was quite fascinated with the Member for Edmonton-Strathcona's proposal on what she would like to see in the budget and what the Alberta NDP would propose. I'd very much like for her to finish her thought and to hear the rest of it.

The Deputy Speaker: The hon. Member for Edmonton-Strathcona.

Ms Notley: Well, thank you so much. I'm glad someone was listening. That was great. He's great to work with. He's a really great guy.

4:30

Anyway, what I was going to say about supporting people with special needs is that it goes beyond simply PDD. It also goes into the area of mental health and mental health services. It goes into the area of long-term care. It goes into home care. It goes into the kind of services that you provide to people who need support. Rather than picking away at it and cutting it, whether it's the Health minister arbitrarily restructuring home care in Edmonton in a way that created vast chaos and disruption in the families and the lives of many vulnerable Edmontonians, not just seniors but also people with lifelong disability, or whether it's closing Michener Centre, you know, breaking a promise that had been made to families for decades that this would not happen and taking our most fragile, vulnerable citizens and forcing them to change the home that they've had for 25 or 30 years at the very end of their life – incredibly short sighted and also cruel, Mr. Speaker.

It's about ensuring that our kids who are both in care or are not in care but are at risk can get access to the supports they need in our schools to not only deal with whatever special needs they have but also to ensure that they have access to the kind of education that will allow them to meet their full potential. Mr. Speaker, you can have a child who gets that help in their early years in the school setting and you can have a child who does not get that help in their early years in the school setting. The difference in that child's life will be profound 15 years later. It's not just a difference in that child's life, although for me that's all I really need to talk about; it's also a difference in the draw on taxpayer resources in the justice system, in our health care system, and all the other things that become more expensive as we allow poverty and inequality to grow unchecked.

Those are the kinds of things that we could do better, Mr. Speaker, but none of those issues are addressed in this budget. Instead, it's a hold-the-line or below-inflation budget. We know that the population is growing dramatically every year. We know the demands are increasing. We know that that's what's going on, but we are not meeting those demands because it is so important to these guys to continue their practice of giving preferred taxation benefits to their pals who earn a million dollars a year or more and to their pals who run very, very large oil and gas corporations, that aren't paying their fair share of royalty revenues. That's what these guys are interested in, and unfortunately it's regular working Albertans, regular families, vulnerable Albertans who pay the price. It's short sighted, and in the long run it's more costly.

So 43 years later we have a budget like the one we are dealing with today. Those are the kinds of decisions, not an exhaustive list but some of the decisions, that have resulted in a budget that is like the one that we have before us today, that myself and my colleagues in the NDP caucus absolutely cannot support.

Thank you, Mr. Speaker.

The Deputy Speaker: Thank you, hon. member.

Are there others under 29(2)(a)?

Seeing none, I'll recognize the Member for Calgary-Shaw.

Mr. Wilson: Thank you, Mr. Speaker, and thank you to my hon. colleagues for hearing me today. It's a pleasure to stand up and speak to the budget bill, Bill 8, on behalf of my constituents in Calgary-Shaw and our team here in the Official Opposition. You know, I always find it interesting listening to the Minister of Finance talk about his budget. I understand that it's easy to be passionate about it. I appreciate the passion that the Member for Calgary-Klein often brings into this House. I would caution him not to generate more indignation than he can conveniently contain at times, but I do appreciate the way in which he delivers his words in this House, Mr. Speaker.

I will talk about a couple of good things about this budget. First off, it's got the governing party focusing a lot on us. I think that between the Minister of Finance and the associate minister the majority of their comments were about the Official Opposition, so I thank them for paying so much attention to what it is that we're doing here.

I will say that it is refreshing to see a focus on savings in the budget, though. Irrespective of the argument about saving and taking out debt for savings, what we like to see is money being put into that heritage savings trust fund. We recognize that there is a place in time where Alberta will either have its reliance on the oil and gas sector – the world will have moved on, and we're going to have to find another revenue source to replace the $8 billion, $9 billion, $10 billion per year that we get in resource revenues, that goes into the general revenue fund. We believe that the best way to do that is to build up the heritage savings trust fund and to use the interest off that fund to replace that revenue source. So it is a positive sign to see that the government is refocusing some of its attention on savings. It is unfortunate that they are doing it in a way that is also forcing us to incur debt, and I'll get back to that a little bit later.

Talking about keeping promises and, you know, that this is a government that stands by what it says and says what it's going to do just doesn't hold weight. Unfortunately, this government has lost complete credibility with the Alberta public around some of the things that it has promised and committed to Albertans. The building of the 50/70 schools. Two years ago today, as we talked about earlier, this government was elected. The democratic process in this province worked. They promised the world to do it. The 50/70 program. We'll talk about the number that was committed in this budget: $1.2 billion for that. The reality is that there's no possible way that they can complete 50 new schools for which not a single shovel is in the ground right now. There are a lot of signs that have been put up around the province talking about it but not a single shovel in the ground, and we are also looking at the 70 renovations or modernizations. It's $1.2 billion. It's not going to fly. Their original promise in the 2012 campaign was to have those schools open by the next election, so it is quite simply just a broken promise and one of many.

You know, we talk about P3s and the benefit of P3s, but let's be honest. The majority of people out there believe that P3s can be a useful tool, but this government is using them in order to hide debt. If there are scenarios where P3s do make sense, I think that at times we may be supportive of that. For example, the 19 schools that can only attract one bidder for a P3 deal: I just don't think that that is enough of a competitive process to convince Albertans that it's working.

We talk about municipal funding. There were promises made that this government was going to start funding the MSI program at a rate of $1.4 billion by next year. Well, it's nowhere close to that. They also talk about how there are a hundred thousand people moving to Alberta every single year. Well, as my colleague from Little Bow alluded to earlier, those hundred thousand people that move here, Mr. Speaker, bring with them tax revenue, to the tune of $872 million last year. That's a pretty sizable chunk of change. Unfortunately, the municipalities in this province that are responsible for building around the growth of this province aren't receiving the funding from the province to do it. The additional tax revenue flows in, again, to the general revenue fund of the government, but it doesn't flow through.

We talk about the minister not making decisions to buy votes. I think he mentioned that today in question period, and that was one of those laugh out loud moments for me. I'm sure every Albertan who's driven around this province over the last number of months and has seen a nice Building Alberta sign with the former Premier's name on it is assuming that they did that not as a way of buying votes but just simply as a way of advertising the infrastructure that they were planning to build because that's what Albertans needed to know. You know, the unfortunate part of putting someone's name on those signs is that when they're no longer in that office, it makes it a little awkward. So now we're spending more money on what was a vanity exercise for the former Premier to take all those signs down because it's a little bit embarrassing to see that PC orange and blue all over the province.

We talk about some of the areas where we can save money, and just in this past couple of weeks, Mr. Speaker, we've talked about $1 billion that AHS has spent on sole-source contracts, no competitive bid whatsoever. That is not the best way to be a steward of taxpayer dollars. Two hundred and fifty million dollars on outside consultants. You have one of the largest organizations in the province in AHS, and they're spending a quarter billion dollars looking outside of their own organization for consulting and executive coaching, all of these other things. The reality is that it adds up. It just adds up. Just like a $45,000 flight, it all adds up.

Let's get back to the crux of the conversation because we do have some disagreements fundamentally on the idea of debt, and there was a point in time when this government shared some of those problems with debt. You know, I'll give you a couple of quotes from the former Premier from when she ran in the last election. She said: "It's entirely possible for us to continue to provide the quality of life that we as Albertans have without going into debt." Agreed. "Debt is the trap that has caught so many struggling governments." Agreed. "Debt has proven the death of countless dreams." Can't argue that one. And finally, "Alberta does not have debt, and we will not incur debt."

4:40

So when this government stands up and the Minister of Finance says that when they say something and they make a promise and they make a commitment and they live within their means yet they stand up and defend going into debt to the tune of $21 billion, it just doesn't add up. They often ask us what schools we wouldn't build, what roads we wouldn't pave. Well, I think that they owe it to Albertans to start talking about that in a little bit of the longer term sense because come 2016, we're going to be spending $820 million a year on debt-financing and debt-servicing costs. You think of some of the turmoil that was created over last year's budget when they cut $42 million out of the PDD program. How are they going to find $820 million? They talk about the $140 million that was taken out of the postsecondary. Where are they going to find that?

Well, I'll tell you, because I've got a list here, based on this budget, that will add up to the $820 million that will be spent on debt servicing come 2016. So I think it's time for some honesty from the other side. I'll just go through the list: wildlife management, $24 million a year cut; fisheries management, $8 million a year cut; the child health benefit . . .

An Hon. Member: What?

Mr. Wilson: If you're looking for clarification there on the other side, this is $820 million in programs that you currently fund. You will have to find money to fund these because this will now be spent on servicing your $21 billion of debt.

Child health benefit, $28 million cut. That's the optical, drug, and dental benefits for low-income children. The insulin pump therapy program, $8 million. Can't do it anymore. Child intervention supports for permanency, $54 million. That's got to go. Protection of sexually exploited children, $7 million. Can't afford that anymore; we're paying off our debt. Fetal alcohol spectrum disorder initiatives, $24 million. Sorry. Shelters for women, $33 million; emergency transitional shelter support, $38 million; provincial disability supports initiative, $21 million; modular classrooms for high-growth areas, $154 million a year. We're not going to be able to afford that anymore, Mr. Speaker.

Academic health centres for postsecondary institutions, $21 million; addictions and mental health, $48 million a year. Well, we're not going to be able to afford that either. Special-needs assistance and project grants for seniors, $31 million; cancer research and prevention, $25 million; labour attraction and retention, $40 million; labour qualifications and mobility, $7 million; police assistance to municipalities, $83 million; First Nations policing, $12 million; organized and serious crime, $30 million; municipal water and waste-water programs, $75 million; Alberta Emergency Management Agency, $10 million; PDD employment supports, $31 million; immunization support, $8 million.

If you add all of that up, you get to that nice round number of $820 million, Mr. Speaker. Now, that's a lot of stuff. That is a lot of programming that Albertans rely on. So to sit there, stand up, and suggest that you are taking this province into debt because you're building Alberta without telling them what you're going to do to pay off that debt on the back end: shame on you.

Mr. Speaker, that is the fundamental difference between their party and ours. We believe that we can do some of the things that Ms Redford suggested when she was running in that election campaign two years ago. It is entirely possible for us to continue to provide the quality of life we have as Albertans without going into debt.

Thank you. I move that we adjourn debate.

[Motion to adjourn debate carried]

Government Bills and Orders Second Reading

Bill 11 Child, Youth and Family Enhancement Amendment Act, 2014

The Deputy Speaker: The hon. Associate Minister – Family and Community Safety.

Ms Jansen: Thank you, Mr. Speaker. I'm pleased today to rise on behalf of the hon. Minister of Human Services and move second reading of Bill 11, the Child, Youth and Family Enhancement Amendment Act, 2014.

At the centre of all the programs available through Human Services are the children and the families that we work to support. Our priority is keeping children healthy and safe. These are often the children who are most vulnerable because of challenges they have in their families that put them at risk, challenges like poverty, family violence, and addiction. Many Albertans point to the child intervention system as being responsible for assisting families to address their concerns and for keeping children safe when their parents are unwilling or unable to.

But everyone has a role, Mr. Speaker, in supporting children and families. The problems that they have are rooted in issues that are far greater than any one system, and they need a multisystem approach to solve. For those children and families who must receive support from the child intervention system, we are committed to ensuring that they have the best system possible to meet their needs. For this to happen, we need real change, with an emphasis on being accountable to all Albertans, most especially to the children and families who receive our services.

It also means building a culture of transparency, quality care, and continuous improvement in Alberta's child intervention system. That's why we believe that the amendments to the Child, Youth and Family Enhancement Act will help improve accountability, transparency, and quality assurance. This will also improve our overall focus on continuing improvement and providing services aimed at keeping children healthy and safe.

These amendments to the legislation will also put in elements of the five-point plan, that was announced in January, that will, if fully realized, have a tremendously positive impact on Albertans. The five-point plan focuses on enhancing information sharing, addressing the root causes that bring children into care, and supporting collaborative research to improve services to children and families. Once fully implemented, Alberta will have a quality child intervention system that is robust in its assurance mechanisms and one that is based on a culture of continuous improvement.

Human Services has already completed the first two actions identified in the five-point plan. In January we hosted a roundtable to discuss investigations and reporting into the deaths of children in our province. We were fortunate to have 13 experts, 91 in-room participants, and more than 475 online participants sharing their viewpoints and their ideas about improvements.

Also in January we established the implementation oversight committee to accelerate activity on our five-point plan and prioritize responses to previous recommendations for improving the child intervention system. This committee is already very active in defining their role, and they have already provided their first report. They have also been working with the Child and Family Services Council for Quality Assurance and the Child and Youth Advocate on how they can co-ordinate their respective mandates and their work.

The child intervention system has been criticized by family advocates, members of the opposition, media, and others for lacking in transparency and therefore, by extension, accountability. We heard loudly and clearly that the publication ban provisions of the Child, Youth and Family Enhancement Act need to be changed, and we plan on doing just that, specifically amending that the ban no longer applies to deceased children. There are a number of families who have long asked for the ability to talk publicly about their deceased child. This change will give them that right. The current ban prohibits the publication of the name and/or photograph of a child and their family or guardian who are involved in the child intervention system. This remains unchanged.

In speaking with the families and the media about their concerns about the existing ban, they feel it is overly restrictive, especially compared with other jurisdictions. The amendment would enable the name and photograph of a deceased child and their parents or guardians to be published. It will also empower families to speak publicly about their children and to share their stories and viewpoints about their involvement with the child intervention system.

But there are times when it may be more appropriate for the name and photograph of a deceased child to remain private. That's why we've included a provision that allows for those closest to the child who has passed away to decide if they want information about that child or their family to be made public. In these circumstances family members or an interested party can apply to have the court impose a publication ban.

4:50

We are intent on making sure that Albertans are confident that our province has a leading system in place to support at-risk children and their families. Confidence is built upon the knowledge of and access to information about how the system works. It's also built on the understanding that there needs to be an intentional and comprehensive activity when it comes to quality assurance, continuous improvement, and learning from external reviews. The proposed amendments embed quality assurance requirements in the legislation and encompass the activities of the council for quality assurance, expert panels, and the committees and councils appointed by the council and the director of child, youth, and family enhancement. This includes new provisions that will help with information sharing about child intervention services and provide statutory protection for internal quality assurance activities and reviews.

The Child and Family Services Council for Quality Assurance was established in late 2012 to help increase public understanding of and confidence in the child intervention system. A clarified and enhanced mandate for the council will provide additional means for ensuring that our system is continuously improving. While the council already has the ability to call an expert panel to review the death of a child, we propose that they also have the ability to appoint a committee to support quality assurance activities and that this committee would be protected by a statutory shield, the same as the expert panel's. In addition, embedding in legislation that matters must be included in the council's annual report, that is tabled in the Legislature, will provide additional accountability. This public report will also serve as a means of demonstrating progress in implementing recommendations and improvements related to quality assurance.

Another aspect of quality assurance lies with the director of child, youth, and family enhancement. Expanding the requirements of the director to release information to the public is a significant opportunity for increasing transparency and accountability in the system as a whole and when investigating and reporting on the deaths of children receiving child intervention services. With this new provision the director will also be required to publicly release information about the findings and about the recommendations resulting from internal quality assurance activities, including those reviews of death, serious injury, and serious incident.

The director will also be mandated to share statistical data about children and youth who are currently in the system or who have received intervention services in the past. With this provision the plan is to establish a gold standard for data sharing about child intervention services, the most comprehensive and integrated data set on a provincial child intervention system. This will not only be transparent, but it is important for research and informing the child intervention system in its future work.

Since the Child and Youth Advocate was established as an independent officer of the Legislature in 2012, he has been one of our highest levels of external quality assurance by identifying where improvements to the child intervention system can be made. We propose to amend the Child and Youth Advocate Act to expand the advocate's investigation powers to include the death of a child or youth that occurred up to two years following the child's involvement in the child intervention system. Through the recent release by Human Services of data related to deaths of children and youth known to the child intervention system, we became aware that a number of deaths happened postinvolvement.

We have spoken about the need to have a better sense of the bigger picture with respect to the challenges facing children and youth after they are no longer in the system. We agreed that changes to the legislation were needed to ensure that an expanded mandate for the advocate was supported by the Legislature. Enabling the advocate to conduct investigations for this subgroup of children and youth may bring to light changes and enhancements we need to make to our services.

As we mentioned earlier, we are committed to making real change that will help improve outcomes for Albertans and increase accountability and transparency. We have garnered support from Gordon Phaneuf of the Child Welfare League of Canada; Robyn Blackadar of the Alberta Centre for Child, Family and Community Research; and Tim Richter, chair of the implementation oversight committee and president and CEO of the Canadian Alliance to End Homelessness. Your support in moving these changes forward is much appreciated.

Thank you, Mr. Speaker. I now move to adjourn debate on Bill 11.

[Motion to adjourn debate carried]

Bill 9

Public Sector Pension Plans Amendment Act, 2014

[Adjourned debate April 22: Mrs. Towle]

The Deputy Speaker: The hon. Member for Edmonton-Strathcona.

Ms Notley: Thank you very much, Mr. Speaker. I'm very pleased to be able to rise, for the first time actually, on this bill to offer up commentary with respect to its merits in second reading. There's already been a fair amount of conversation about this bill. Of course, it is one which is the outcome of the government's – well, failed negotiations would imply that there had been negotiations – failed consultations and their nonexistent negotiations with their employees and other public-sector employees about the future of their pension plan. The outcome, ultimately, is a series of changes which, in our view, jeopardize a number of different components of the pension plan and will reduce the security and the adequacy of pensions enjoyed by roughly 300,000 Albertans.

You know, I have to say that I am perplexed by this government and the way in which they choose issues to pursue. There's a notion of leading with your chin. It seems to me like this government has put on a blindfold and stuck their chin out, and it's just been sort of staggering through the last six months at every turn. This, of course, is a continuation of that pattern, and it's one that I suspect is not going to help them in the long run.

Nonetheless, we're dealing today with this particular bill, which is a problem. The minister has tried to suggest that this bill is good because it moves public-sector pension plans into a model of joint sponsorship. He says: "Well, look at us. We're doing what the unions actually told us they wanted when we consulted with them" – not. The fact of the matter is this, Mr. Speaker. You know what? This bill only does that after the government has completely loaded the dice and written all the rules and established all the legislation about what the joint sponsorship can consist of such that there is no such thing as joint sponsorship. They don't have any independence. The critical and important rules that unions and workers and other plan sponsors would have wanted to see in place are those that give them the flexibility to make decisions jointly in the best interests of all members of the plan. Instead, what happened is that we've got the government deciding to just write a whole bunch of rules and then hand over responsibility for the plan. Of course, that's not joint sponsorship.

Every time the minister says, "Hey, look, there's something good in this," I think people need to remember that it's not even that. Even the good things that they're trying to sell are not really what they are saying they are. That is sort of a continuation of a theme with this government. They're becoming increasingly distant from the facts in terms of the way they communicate about things. You know, we've seen a lot of it over the last few weeks, but this is just another example of them forgetting to mention the fine print, which has, you know, profound implications and consequences. That's the first thing.

The second thing, of course, is that the minister suggested: "Oh, no. We listened to the boards. We consulted with the boards, and we listened to what they had to say." Well, I don't know. I wasn't in the room. It's possible that they actually listened, but either way they then took what they heard, wrote it down on a piece of paper and crumpled up the piece of paper and threw it into the garbage can and continued on their way. They consulted in much the way they consult with anybody that they claim they're consulting with. You know, they did an information session and then said: by the way, we're out of here.

5:00

So most of the original components of the changes that the government first put out to union members many months ago or maybe even a year ago remain in place. There have been minor tweaks, but quite frankly I think those minor tweaks mostly exist in the form of the clarity of the bill. In many cases what the government has done is that instead of overtly making the changes that many people asked them not to make, they've just given themselves oblique permission to make those changes by way of regulation at some point down the road.

As I was saying last night, when we were talking about Bill 10, any structure of legislation that leads to giving this government more authority to make decisions that impact working people behind closed doors is absolutely not on because this government not only has not earned the trust of working people in this province; they probably, worse than any other government in the country these days, have betrayed the trust of working people in this province and, in so doing, can't expect anyone to be anything but alarmed and deeply, deeply suspicious of all of the authority that this government is giving itself within this piece of legislation.

Now, the minister also suggests: you know, all we've done is that we've moved from a fixed COLA to a targeted COLA, and it may well be that someday there will actually be no difference in what people receive. Well, that again is simply not an accurate description of what this legislation includes. This legislation allows for the government to move from an 85 factor to a 90 factor and, in so doing, reduce the pensions that people were expecting to receive.

I was talking to a neighbour two or three weeks ago who went online and used the government's actual calculator to figure out what these changes meant to him. He is somebody that is about halfway through his career; he's about 44, 45 years old. What he realized was that these changes were going to mean about $350 a month to how much he receives when he finally retires. That's based on the calculator that the government itself has put on their website. So it really surprises me, Mr. Speaker, when the minister gets up and says, "Oh, there's no change; nothing is going to happen," that we're all scaremongering because their own documents, their own resources contradict that.

The other and probably the most important thing that concerns me the greatest about this piece of legislation is the plan to impose a contribution cap on these pension plans. We know that what that means in the long run is that should the plan get into trouble, the only way we can deal with that trouble is by reducing benefits and not just by reducing the COLA. It's not just about reducing the COLA. It's about reducing benefits and reducing benefits that are paid out. So we know that that's what's contemplated through this legislation, and although it doesn't say it overtly, it absolutely gives authority to the plan to do that.

You know, it was interesting because the minister tried to say: well, it's not a target plan; we're just putting a cap on contributions. But, interestingly, when I was being briefed about this plan and briefed about the legislation, we were talking about Bill 10, and I was told, "Well, you know, many of the plans under Bill 10," which is not this one but the other one, "are for all intents and purposes already a target benefit plan because we have the opportunity for contribution caps in place for all of those plans already; so all we're doing is that we're making it more overt by putting in this provision for a target benefit, which is to be contrasted with the defined benefit." Fair enough. That's probably true.

Then it's quite interesting that when the minister is up talking about Bill 9, he says: oh, well, we're not moving to a target benefit. The fact of the matter is that his own official sort of said: well, you start talking about caps and contributions, and that's kind of where you're going. We all know. We might not call it that, but that's what it is. Again, less than clear communication from this government. I really think that when you're doing something as substantive as what these folks are doing, you need to communicate clearly.

The other thing that's included in the bill which is very concerning to me, of course, is this notion of a moratorium on all benefit improvements till 2021. I mean, we don't know that that necessarily needs to be in place, but absolutely the government has decided that, if nothing else, we need to ensure that for the next seven years there are no improvements made to the benefit. Yet we can't predict that. Presumably, if we were in a target benefit plan, we could potentially do that. But, no, we're going to make sure that under no circumstances do we improve benefits until 2021, and at the same time we maintain the freeze on contributions. Again, you know, clearly, they are stacking the deck.

Now, there are so many problems with this bill that, of course, it is our view that we should not be proceeding any further with it. As a result of that, Mr. Speaker, I would like to introduce an amendment to Bill 9. I will hand that over to a page.

The Deputy Speaker: We'll just pause, hon. member, and have the amendment distributed.

I think we're good, hon. member. This is a referral amendment.

Ms Notley: Yes.

The Deputy Speaker: Proceed.

Ms Notley: Thank you, Mr. Speaker. For those who are unaware, this amendment moves that Bill 9, Public Sector Pension Plans Amendment Act, 2014, be amended by deleting all the words after "that" and substituting the following: "Bill 9, Public Sector Pension Plans Amendment Act, 2014, be not now read a second time but that it be referred to the Standing Committee on Alberta's Economic Future." That is the amendment.

Now, Mr. Speaker, the purpose of this amendment, of course, is to begin by allowing for that actual consultation and negotiation and consideration of this issue that Albertans need to have. I know that a select group there in cabinet have convinced themselves that this is all okely-dokely, but I would suspect that a vast number of the Conservative caucus itself are not fully briefed on what this means. Either way, the fact of the matter is that most of the people who are impacted by this piece of legislation have not had an opportunity to really fully consider the implications of the changes, nor have they been given the opportunity to really fully communicate to this government, which is accountable to them by way of that trite, old, little institution we call democracy, to listen to what they have to say about this.

Because this has such an incredibly far-reaching set of consequences to the lives of so many Albertans, I would suggest that this not be a bill that we ram through at, you know, 4 o'clock in the morning as this government is scrambling to get out of the Legislature so they can run off and slap a whole bunch of ineffective bandages over their broken political vehicle.

5:10

The fact of the matter is that what we should be doing is actually putting on our good-governance hat and putting out a very clear, open, transparent process for everyone to participate in discussing what the consequences of this bill are, what the objectives of the bill are, the competing expert assumptions, the competing characterizations of what different components of the bill mean to pensions in the future for these Albertans. All that information should be fully canvassed and fully discussed by having this matter referred to the standing committee. Then, hopefully, that committee would move to have public hearings on it and to secure independent expert evidence. By doing that, we could ensure that we actually acted in the interests of those people who voted for us and got the best deal for those people, all people, not just those people but also the taxpayers that the Finance minister claims to be standing up for – frankly, I think that's a bit disingenuous – and let everybody in on the conversation. That is what we could do by accepting this amendment.

Of course, the reason for it is because there are just so many things that are wrong with this bill, Mr. Speaker. There are just too many ways in which the retirement future, the modest pensions, secured by 300,000 hard-working Albertans would be put in jeopardy if we continue down the path which is laid out within the terms of this bill. For that reason, we need to take a step back and do some due diligence and a much broader range of expert input into this.

When I realized that it was really, like, about 300,000 people whose retirement we were looking at impacting, we did a bit of research. You know, in the last election that party over there received a total of roughly 600,000 votes. This impacts 300,000 Albertans. You've got to think that a lot of the folks that voted for you actually are included in this group. I am quite sure that never once was the issue of fundamentally threatening the security of their long hard-fought-for, worked-for, earned pension something that was talked about in the election. I am pretty sure that that was not a platform piece.

So that's why I urge members to support this amendment.

The Deputy Speaker: Standing order 29(2)(a) is available. The hon. Member for Edmonton-Beverly-Clareview.

Mr. Bilous: Thank you, Mr. Speaker. I just wanted to ask the Member for Edmonton-Strathcona if there's anything salvageable in this bill or if the motion or the notice to refer this is just because, really, once you go through it, there's nothing left that's of use. I'm hoping you can comment on that.

Ms Notley: Well, you know, I actually think that people in unions are actually very practical folks, and the folks who are receiving these pensions are very practical folks. I talked about it last night. Unlike the people over there, the people that are receiving these pensions plan 20 years ahead. They have modest incomes, and they figure out how to provide for their own security, to have their houses paid off if possible, to have a little bit of savings tucked away, to have enough money to put food on the plate and buy Christmas presents for the grandkids, all that kind of stuff. They don't need their private jet. They don't need taxpayer-funded trips to the JPL. They don't need any of that kind of stuff. They're just planning to live a good life and contribute to their community and be part of their community when they retire, all that good stuff.

So they're more than prepared to talk about whether or not these pension plans are in true jeopardy. The fact of the matter is that to talk about it, you need to have a truly meaningful consultation process. You have to have a range of experts providing information about what is necessary and what is not necessary and what's at risk and what's not at risk. You need to talk about what really, truly needs to be done based on the consensus of those experts in terms of where we end up going. What's happened here is that the minister has taken a relatively small problem and bootstrapped it into an excuse for fundamentally converting the nature of these pension plans. That's not the way we go about finding solutions.

To the extent that this bill actually allowed for joint sponsorship and genuine negotiation, then that part of the bill is good. There might be tweaks, ultimately, that would be something that everyone would agree to and think are reasonable in the circumstances, but we don't even have, as I said before, a true joint sponsorship. What we have is the minister writing all the rules and doing all the planning and then handing over responsibility for the pension once he's broken it. That's not joint sponsorship. Joint sponsorship at the front end of the changes is actually not a bad idea at all.

In answer to your question, that component of it is quite reasonable, but the problem is that the joint sponsorship is planned at the other end of the process, long after all the changes have been made, when it's no longer relevant. That's why we need to refer this to committee and restructure the components of it, do better research, expand the nature of the consultation, improve the quality of the consultation, establish negotiation processes and protocols, come up with fair and objective assessments that everybody can have faith in and have good trust in, and then move forward from there.

The minister suggested that he did consult with the boards of the plans, and you do need to know, Mr. Speaker, that this is not something that the plan boards are recommending. They are absolutely not recommending this set of changes. Just to be clear, this is something that is coming from that cabinet, that PC government, over the objections of the plan administrators and the boards, to whom they should be listening.

Thank you.

The Deputy Speaker: There is more time left under 29(2)(a). Are there any others?

Seeing none, we will go, then, to speaking on the amendment. This is, for the record, RA1. On RA1 I'll recognize the hon. Associate Minister – Recovery and Reconstruction for Southwest Alberta.

Mr. Fawcett: Thank you very much, Mr. Speaker. Where to start? I guess what we see in this House on an ongoing basis is that when you fail the logic and the common-sense test, you go, you know, to the we-haven't-done-enough-consultation test. That's essentially what this amendment does.

I do need to highlight all of the work that the Minister of Finance and President of Treasury Board has done since July 2012. I know, as the associate minister of Finance back when that started, that the minister had all of the intentions and followed through on all of those intentions to do the consultation work with the plan boards and with Albertans. The truth of the matter is that the member wants to talk about the 300,000 stakeholders or people that are interested. Last time I checked, there are 4 million people in this province now, and they actually all have an interest in the sustainability of these pensions.

What the minister did back in July 2012 is that he asked the pension boards to go back and look at the challenges that they have with their particular pension funds and to provide him with some options moving forward about how we can as Albertans address this issue, not just for those that are members of these pensions but for all Albertans, who potentially are on the hook for any future liabilities.

Mr. Speaker, the pension boards came back, some with some recommendations, some with no recommendations. In fact, the LAPP, which has had an unfunded liability for a good portion of the last 22 years, came back with no recommendations. The minister then had to sit down and work with his department people and take a look at what potential options are on the table.

5:20

The Minister of Finance has already stated – I'm of the same opinion, and I think it's probably the opinion of many in this House – that actually his original position was the thought that, you know, we might have to look at going towards a defined contribution pension plan. On how you implement that, whether you go with the Wildrose approach or what, you would have to ask some questions about that, but he thought that was the direction he wanted to go. But through consultation and through discussions with his department he has come to the conclusion that that's actually not the case.

To suggest that the Minister of Finance hasn't done this consultation and the proper due diligence on this is just not true, Mr. Speaker. In fact, his actions have suggested the complete opposite. After engaging the boards and asking them what to do and then engaging the Department of Finance on what to do and what options might be available, they put some of those options out there in the public. From September 16 of last year to December 31 Albertans were asked what their opinions were, and again many of the ideas that were put out there, based on the feedback that was received, were taken off the table, not all of them but a portion of them, the ones that didn't make sense, the ones where there were some rational or logical reasons as to why you shouldn't actually be doing that. As a result, the minister took that feedback, has come back, and has brought forward this legislation.

To suggest that there hasn't been any consultation or that there needs to be more consultation is, I think, frankly, just a way to try to avoid the issue and bury your head in the sand around the issue, that there needs to be some adjustments with our public-sector pension plans moving forward. These adjustments are well thought out, have sought the opinions of all Albertans. I think it's time to try to move forward with the legislation, have a healthy debate in this Legislature, have a healthy debate in Committee of the Whole, bring forward any amendments at that particular time, and move forward with the changes in the spirit of the legislation that the Minister of Finance has intended.

The Deputy Speaker: For the record, hon. members, amendment RA1. The Member for Edmonton-Beverly-Clareview, followed by Edmonton-Centre.

Mr. Bilous: Thank you very much, Mr. Speaker, and I'll thank the Member for Edmonton-Centre as well for allowing me to speak before her.

I rise to speak in favour of this amendment, and I'm going to list the reasons. Now, I do want to address some of the concerns that the hon. Member for Calgary-Klein, I believe it is, raised, especially around consultation. That word has different meanings for different people, and I'll go through and give some examples of how I've had claims that the government has consulted. The best examples are really when it comes to consulting with our indigenous communities, or alleging to consult with our indigenous communities.

You know, again, the example that I brought up last night was the legislation that the government brought forward called the Aboriginal Consultation Levy Act, which has the word “consultation” in it, so one would hope that there was some consultation actually done with different aboriginal communities. What we learned and, in fact, what all opposition parties learned from having dialogues with representatives from all three treaties was that there wasn’t consultation. So the government making a reference to bringing forward sometime down the road a piece of legislation to deal with levies to help enable aboriginal communities to consult was really the extent of it, yet the minister at the time would talk about how they’d consulted. Quite frankly, if you asked the aboriginal communities and representatives from treaties 6, 7, and 8, they’d have a much different response.

Now, jumping back to this amendment and to the bill, I just want to very briefly touch on the reason and the history of why we have pensions. I think it is something that shouldn’t be overlooked. When we want to attract quality workers to the public sector, as was even discussed this morning in Public Accounts, there are three different ways to remunerate workers, which is through their salary, through their benefits, and through pensions. Again, by stripping public-sector workers, 300,000 Alberta front-line workers, of their pensions, of their defined benefits, what they supposedly were to rely on, to count on for retirement security, knowing that it would be there – many of them have contributed their whole working life toward this plan, expecting it to be there. Suddenly, with the introduction of some legislation and the stroke of a pen, the Minister of Finance can completely change what these folks are going to be getting and expecting to get.

You know, quite frankly, Mr. Speaker, our offices have received hundreds and hundreds of letters from irate Alberta workers who, if I can put it into two words – well, maybe it would be three, then.

Ms Blakeman: Go on. I dare you.

Mr. Bilous: Well, that’s exactly it. “How dare you” is the theme of the letters. That was very creative thinking from the Member for Edmonton-Centre.

Again, it’s folks who are irate, and they’re irate for a number of reasons. First and foremost, these plans have been looked at and audited by numerous groups who have said over and over again that the plans are back on track to paying off the unfunded liability portion of these plans. There are tools within the existing pensions to accommodate a downturn in the market, which is what happened in 2008, and these pension plans are working toward paying it off. It has to do with contribution rates and the fact that employees stepped up and agreed to pay more in order to cover the loss that occurred in 2008. The fact is that these pension plans, prior to this bill being introduced, were a shared responsibility between employer and employee. With some of the sweeping changes that this bill is proposing, it is really putting all of the onus onto the workers, onto the employees, and removing responsibility from the government and from, well, the chief employer.

You know, an issue that I have with the bill is that it removes from the board their already limited role in making fundamental decisions about plans and, again, gives broad, sweeping powers to the minister or the Lieutenant Governor in Council. The decisions about the terms of the plans, the terms that actually affect how the plans operate for hundreds of thousands of Albertans who rely on these, will now be made behind closed doors, behind cabinet doors, which takes away oversight that members have had into how decisions have been made. Again, members are losing even more of a voice with some of the changes. The very folks who are,

I guess, wearing the changes or are going to be affected by the changes are the ones with the least amount of voice in the decision-making of what’s happening with their retirement.

You know, I’ve met with numerous constituency members who have come to me, having worked for 25-plus years for the government, dismayed at how this government is returning their loyalty and years of service by taking away something that was negotiated and was part of their contractual agreement when they decided to work for the government.

5:30

I mean, there are numerous other areas that I’m going to go through. The next is looking at COLA, which is obviously looking at cost-of-living adjustments, which was part of the defined benefit to ensure that the dollars that were put in as far as purchasing power and real spending will be the same on the other end. Now that that’s been removed or has been changed to a target, we could quite easily see that the value of the dollars that workers are getting are continuing to slide backwards, so they’re getting less and less year in and year out. When we look at the fact that the minister has claimed that these changes will not affect the defined benefit . . . [interjection] I agree that is quite a funny joke if it were actually funny.

Moving decisions as far as COLA, as far as contribution caps, which I’ll go through in a second, basically means that decisions are moving out of legislation into regulation, which, again, the minister can make with cabinet, Lieutenant Governor in Council, behind closed doors. When you look at setting contribution caps, which is one of the ways that pensions have been able to adapt to, say, years where the market is poorer or returns are not as good, that was one of the methods of dealing with that.

Again, looking at plans over a long term, when you remove the flexibility of these plans, whether it’s the cost-of-living contribution, you’re handcuffing the boards and the plans on what they can do to adapt to these problems or these challenges. So, basically, this is forcing the pensioners to accept less, because if you take away the contribution caps, if you take away the ability for the plan to adapt to poorer years, then the only other way to keep it sustainable is essentially to cut back on benefits, which is what this piece of legislation is going to do, what it is driving forward to do.

When you look at Alberta – and I mentioned this last night – we have the highest rate of inflation out of any province in the country. Again, in March alone the inflation rate in Alberta went up to 3.9 per cent, which is almost double what the Canadian average is throughout the country. When you remove COLA or change it from guaranteed to targeted, you are essentially reducing the benefits that workers have been promised, and you are reducing them year in and year out.

The other thing with this bill – I mean, there’s a long list of issues that I have with it – is when we look at the limitation of liability. The fact that Bill 9 adds a complete limitation of liability for benefit reductions or contribution increases . . .

The Deputy Speaker: You’re speaking to the amendment, hon. member.

Mr. Bilous: Oh, absolutely. These are all reasons, Mr. Speaker, why this bill should not now be read a second time.

The Deputy Speaker: Thank you.

Ms Notley: And go to a committee.

Mr. Bilous: And go to committee, and it's what the committee needs to explore.

When we're looking at – I threw myself off – the limitation of liability, it basically means there's no recourse for the losses that are suffered by any of our Alberta workers who are our pensioners as a result of the reduced benefits.

Now, as I said earlier, currently employees retain about half of that risk even though, again, ironically, they don't have necessarily a proportional role when it comes to the plan governance. This bill is moving all of the risk onto the employees. So it gives the minister all powers, all decision-making authority regarding the plans that are affecting 300,000 workers except the minister bears none of the risk or liability. That's put solely onto the folks who have contributed to these plans from day one.

Another thing that's interesting is that part of this bill is looking at rolling the MEPP into the PSPP and talking about intergenerational equity. The minister claims that one of the aims is for more fair and equitable plans, but by making these changes, the government is actually increasing the burden on certain groups. Younger plan members are paying higher contribution rates to bring the plans back up to fully funded status, but they're doing that because they're under the impression or they're being told that their benefits are defined. So they pay higher now, and that will come back to them when they retire.

Ms Blakeman: And that's not the truth.

Mr. Bilous: No. That's quite far from the truth.

The Deputy Speaker: Hon. member, if you could have the conversation through the chair, I'd appreciate that. Thank you.

Mr. Bilous: Sure, Mr. Speaker. I know this corner of the House is very excited to talk about this awful bill.

By creating conditions for reduced benefits, the younger workers are paying now for benefits that likely they're never going to see, not if this bill passes. As well, by rolling the MEPP into the PSPP, government is placing an unfair burden on front-line workers, so managers, with their higher salaries and higher benefits, necessitate higher contributions of active members to be able to fund those benefits. With both levels of employees being rolled into the same plan and making the same set of contributions, the lower paid front-line workers will essentially be subsidizing the higher benefits paid to management employees, which is quite the opposite of being fair.

I don't know if it's been brought up yet, Mr. Speaker. You know, we talk about the 300,000 Albertans that this is going to affect, but I think it's worth taking a look more specifically at who those 300,000 workers are. I do want to mention it, and I had some statistics here. Again, to clarify for members of the House, LAPP and PSPP payouts are between $12,000 to $15,000 a year. We're not talking generous like, for example, the severance packages that communications staff out of the Premier's office get. We're talking about something that's very, very modest. Again, when we look at the average salary . . .

The Deputy Speaker: Thank you, hon. member.

Standing Order 29(2)(a) is available, and I'll recognize the Member for Edmonton-Strathcona.

Ms Notley: Well, thank you very much. I'm just very interested in what the member has to say about the extent of the benefits that are currently being received by pensioners and/or that will be received from working members of the province, public-sector workers, currently as well as potentially in the future and some observations that the member was about to share with us in terms of those amounts. I'm wondering if he could share that.

The Deputy Speaker: The hon. Member for Edmonton-Beverly-Clareview.

Mr. Bilous: Yes. Thank you very much, Mr. Speaker, and thank you to the Member for Edmonton-Strathcona for asking that. Where I'm going with this, Mr. Speaker, is that, again, when we look at the salaries of the folks who are being affected, they average around $60,000 to $70,000 a year. These aren't, you know, AHS executive salaries that we're talking about here. These are modest salaries. But, again, folks who are earning $60,000 to $70,000 stand to lose nearly 15 per cent of their pension benefits with this current legislation.

5:40

What I wanted to draw attention to, Mr. Speaker, is that over 90 per cent of UNA members and over 75 per cent of HSAA members are women. This legislation is a direct attack on not only working Albertans but on women. We all know that in this province and in this country it is completely unfair – that's not even the right word. It's outrageous that women working in a position similar to men do not receive the same amount of remuneration. Women actually are paid less for jobs equal to men, which is something that is shameful and shouldn't be happening. When we look at this bill and its attack not just on Alberta workers, again, especially, this is an attack and unfair predominantly toward women and women in the workplace. This is something that the government, if it wasn't aware of, should have been aware of.

For that reason along with every other reason that I've outlined, the Alberta NDP and myself will continue to be vehemently opposed to this bill. Therefore, Mr. Speaker, I strongly encourage all members to vote in favour of this amendment to not now read this bill a second time and send it back to committee.

The Deputy Speaker: Thank you, hon. member.

There's still time left under 29(2)(a).

Seeing none, hon. members, I have quite a long list of speakers, and I'll tell you who they are in order: Lacombe-Ponoka, followed by Edmonton-Centre, followed by Calgary-Varsity. And might I remind you that we are now dealing with amendment RA1, please.

Lacombe-Ponoka.

Mr. Fox: Thank you, Mr. Speaker. I'm looking at this bill and kind of wondering to myself what's going on with it. Where's the human element in it? It seems that our government has lost a bit of credibility on this one. The PC government has once again failed to lead by example. In the midst of the publicity surrounding the obscene severance packages their political staff have been getting, they're ramming through a pension plan change, and they expect that public-sector employees are supposed to take one for the team while they continue to spend lavishly. I just don't get it. I don't understand it.

You know, I went back and I talked to a few people that would be affected in my riding, and specifically I talked to some nurses. I've talked to them on several occasions. This isn't the first time I've talked to them. Really, they are the front-line services in our province, and specifically they're the people that are working hard to make sure that those who are sick get better. They are the ones that provide the service, and they are a group that are affected by this particular piece of legislation.

Now, they work very hard. They put a lot of blood, sweat, and tears into the work that they do. They tend to work in situations where they're understaffed and overburdened. They work very hard, they do wonderful things, they put their patients ahead of themselves, and they do that in situations that aren't always ideal. They put in extra hours, they worry, they care, and to be honest, right now they feel abandoned. That's what I'm hearing from the members that I'm talking to in my constituency.

They've requested help, they've asked for resources from their managers, they've asked for resources from the government, they've gone to AHS, and it's all fallen on deaf ears. It's funny to me that this government is willing to burn out this workforce that gives of themselves so very often. They're the workforce that we need to keep healthy because they keep us healthy, and they bring Albertans back into good health when they're not. The understaffing that they go through creates a lot of problems for them. They go through mental breakdowns. They take a lot of stress leave. It's unfortunate that we treat such wonderful people in such a horrible manner.

You know, I spent a good part of my youth watching what nurses do in our health care system. My mother was sick for a very long time. I watched nurses care for her day in and day out. Not only did they care for her as she was sick, but while I was there in the hospital, when I was visiting, the hours that I spent there with my mother, they actually cared for me, too. They made sure that my mental health was where it needed to be. They talked to me on many occasions about what was happening, what was going to happen, and what I needed to do to try and keep myself healthy. They would even cook for our family. We would get meals that would be given to us in the hospital from these nurses. Now, this wasn't part of their job description. This was just something that they did. They cared for their community. They cared for the people that were in their care and for their families. It's this compassion that I think sets them apart, but they are the front-line services, and they are affected by this piece of legislation.

Not only are they worried about their work conditions, the resources that they get, the supports that they get, the hours that they have to put in, and the toll that it takes on their families and on their own health; now they have worry about what their pension is going to look like. They've got to worry about their retirement. It's just not right, and it's not fair to go to these people, that are already overtaxed, overworked and give them one more thing to worry about because you're not negotiating with them. You haven't negotiated or bargained in good faith with these people, with these hard-workers. You haven't done it with all of the front-line services workers in this province, and it really is a travesty that you're not listening to the very people that do the work of this government, that provide the services to Albertans.

The changes proposed in Bill 9 could even allow the minister to alter pension plans without regulation, without recommendation from the pension boards. You're taking away their very ability to have a say in what happens in their pension. We could just have it with a stroke of a pen from this minister or a future minister changing the very nature of their retirement. That's not right. It really is not right. You can't do this to people. You have to support the contracts that you've signed. You need to honour the contracts that you've signed, and if decisions have to be made, you need to bargain and negotiate in good faith. This is a basic tenet of our society. You don't just pull the rug out from underneath a hard-working group of people because all of sudden you seem to think that the actuarial numbers don't work.

It's interesting that we hear that the actuarial numbers don't work from this government because we hear from other sources that there is a plan in place, that these unfunded liabilities were slowly being chipped away. I wonder why we're doing this right now, why this government has put this forward in this manner. There really does need to be more consulting on this. There needs to be the ability for these people to stand up, negotiate, and find the solution to the problem rather than to have one dictated and imposed upon them.

This is the way our government works. We're not supposed to dictate and impose from this Chamber. We're supposed to go out, converse, listen, come back, and negotiate in good faith.

Now, I worry about the nurses in my riding, I worry about all of the nurses in this province, I worry about our public-sector employees, I worry about their future, and I worry about our future as a province when we fail to negotiate with those who do our work.

I'm not in support of this particular piece of legislation. I will be voting against it in second reading. I do not believe that our nurses, and specifically the one who carried a message to me on my graduation day from my deceased mother, who had carried it for five years – I do not believe that this is fair to her or that it is fair to any of those that she works with. I really to believe that they need to be consulted and they need to be negotiated with and that a solution can be found, but it's not this one.

Thank you, Mr. Speaker.

The Deputy Speaker: Thank you, hon. member.

Standing Order 29(2)(a) is available.

Seeing none, I'll recognize the Member for Edmonton-Centre.

5:50

Ms Blakeman: Thanks very much, Mr. Speaker. I am in support of this particular amendment for a couple of reasons. I think, you know, we want to go way back and sort of ask ourselves how we got into all this and why.

But as the previous member mentioned, you know, there is a deal. There is a written and unwritten contract that everyone understands. I think the part of that that hasn't been considered by the government in all of this is the nonmonetary aspect of it. There was an expectation that workers came, that they worked for a particular employer, in this case the public sector, for an extended period of time. There was an expectation from the employer that there was loyalty, that they would be loyal to the company, that they would work in the best interests of the particular government department or agency, Crown agency, whatever, and in return for their service and for taking lower wages as they went, there would be a defined retirement benefit that they could count on over the long term and budget for over the long term.

I just want to remind everybody about the institutional memory that we gain with long-term workers in any sector. Just to put a little bug in your ear, some of the people during this debate have talked about, "Well, you know, what if people that are close to retirement just go pfft; nothing more for me here; I might as well go," and they take their retirement now, and off they go? Just imagine the municipal workers that we have that are in that kind of 55 to 64 range; in other words, early retirement; they could go now. What if they went? Imagine the institutional memory that's going to walk out the door.

Now, imagine if you take the number of workers in the city of Edmonton or the city of Calgary, Bonnyville, Lloydminster, Medicine Hat, Lethbridge, Ponoka, Lacombe, a lot of those places that have municipal workers that are in that age range, and they go: "Pfft. I'm out of here. You know, why should I have loyalty to my employer here when they don't have loyalty to me?" Just think about how much of what we now take for granted in the smooth running of municipalities would disappear overnight because those workers and that institutional memory will have walked out the door. It's just a little bug to put in your ear.

Remember that we had a hiring freeze in the '90s, so there is no cohort that comes behind them. That cohort that's sort of 45 to 55 or 40 to 55 is not there. The next cohort is in their 30s. So you're going to have the 55-year-olds, that know how to do stuff, walk out the door. Who's left? The thirtysomethings. Not that there isn't great potential there and not that some of them don't know what they're doing – I'm sure they do – but overall imagine the havoc in our towns, in our villages, and in our cities. Who is it that remembers: don't buy that particular kind of rock because it doesn't lay down as well as gravel when you're salting or sanding the roads and the highways? Where is that actually written down? It probably isn't. It's probably in somebody's head.

So, you know, that deal that was struck, that loyalty, that long-term relationship, that recognition of service and the provision of service: that's what's being pulled apart here. The weave of that is being pulled apart in what's being contemplated by the government in this particular bill.

There's a lot more to be considered here than what we've seen actually considered, so it should go to a committee to think about other things. I think it's a very valid point that's been made by others that there is a consultation gap here. The government seems to have talked to the board members of the plan, and then they put it out to the public. Who did we miss? Anybody? Anybody? The workers, the beneficiaries of the plan: that's who didn't get talked to here. So if you're looking for another reason why a committee could do some work, they could talk to the actual beneficiaries of the plan. The government very clearly talked to the board members. I just heard that they talked to the public, put it out to public, but didn't actually talk to the beneficiaries of the plan. That might be a bit of a problem here.

There's also a real hustle up in the timeline. I noticed that in some of the sections there's a – I mean, the government understands it in other places. There are sections in there that go:

“Oh. We've got to have a moratorium on this stuff while we allow the plan to get into place. You're not allowed to do anything to it until 2020.” You know, there's a six-year timeline to establish the plans and get them onboard. Yet what's the timeline we're working with here? Eighteen months. Whoa. What's the hurry? If you understand that it takes six years to get this plan moving, why do you expect us to do all the rest of this stuff on the front end in 18 months? I think there's a gap with that.

We've also had a number of: I'll put my stats up against your stats. That will probably continue through the rest of this debate. I think the stats I'm looking at are better than your stats. I think they come from a wider number of places. Today the Leader of the Official Opposition tabled something from the Canadian Institute of Actuaries. You know, I'm going to trust that a bit more than the government telling me that they've consulted with some people. Frankly, I don't find any government consultation now credible because you've not done what you've said before, and I'm holding that against you.

Now, I notice the clock is ticking by for us here, so I think what I'm going to do is adjourn debate on this amendment and look to be able to pick it up again this evening. With that, I would ask that we adjourn debate on amendment RA1, which is amending Bill 9.

Thank you.

The Deputy Speaker: Thank you, hon. member.

[Motion to adjourn debate carried]

The Deputy Speaker: The hon. Deputy Government House Leader.

Mr. Oberle: Yes, Mr. Speaker. I was looking at the time. I move that we call it 6 and that we reconvene tonight at 7:30.

The Deputy Speaker: Thank you.

[Motion carried; the Assembly adjourned at 5:57 p.m.]

Table of Contents

Prayers	597
Introduction of Guests	597, 608
Members' Statements
Provincial Election Anniversary	598
Beverly Centennial	598
Chinese Bilingual Education in Edmonton	599
Cancer Awareness Initiatives in Wanham	599
Murdered and Missing Aboriginal Women	608
Dog Theft in Newell County	609
Oral Question Period
FOIP Request Process	599, 602, 605, 607
Health Care Performance Measures	600
Public Service Pensions	601
Health Care System Information Reporting	602
Keystone XL Pipeline Project	603
Provincial Budget Documents	604
Sherwood Park Provincial Courthouse	604
Government Policies	605
Educational Curriculum Redesign	606
Loyalty Program Prohibition for Prescription Drugs	606
Health Care Wait Times	607
Statement by the Speaker
Second Anniversaries of Election	608
Oral Question Period Practices	608
Introduction of Bills
Bill Pr. 1 Rosebud School of the Arts Amendment Act, 2014	609
Bill Pr. 2 Maskwachees Cultural College Amendment Act, 2014	609
Tabling Returns and Reports	609
Orders of the Day	610
Government Bills and Orders
Third Reading
Bill 8 Appropriation Act, 2014	610
Second Reading
Bill 11 Child, Youth and Family Enhancement Amendment Act, 2014	623
Bill 9 Public Sector Pension Plans Amendment Act, 2014	625

If your address is incorrect, please clip on the dotted line, make any changes, and return to the address listed below. To facilitate the update, please attach the last mailing label along with your account number.

Subscriptions
Legislative Assembly Office
1001 Legislature Annex
9718 – 107 Street
EDMONTON, AB T5K 1E4

Last mailing label:

Account # _____

New information:

Name:

Address:

Subscription information:

Annual subscriptions to the paper copy of Alberta Hansard (including annual index) are $127.50 including GST if mailed once a week or $94.92 including GST if picked up at the subscription address below or if mailed through the provincial government interdepartmental mail system. Bound volumes are $121.70 including GST if mailed. Cheques should be made payable to the Minister of Finance.

Price per issue is $0.75 including GST.

Online access to Alberta Hansard is available through the Internet at www.assembly.ab.ca

Subscription inquiries:

Subscriptions
Legislative Assembly Office
1001 Legislature Annex
9718 – 107 St.
EDMONTON, AB T5K 1E4
Telephone: 780.427.1302

Other inquiries:

Managing Editor
Alberta Hansard
1001 Legislature Annex
9718 – 107 St.
EDMONTON, AB T5K 1E4
Telephone: 780.427.1875

Province of Alberta

The 28th Legislature
Second Session

Alberta Hansard

Wednesday evening, April 23, 2014

Issue 23e

The Honourable Gene Zwozdesky, Speaker

Legislative Assembly of Alberta The 28th Legislature

Second Session

Zwozdesky, Hon. Gene, Edmonton-Mill Creek (PC), Speaker
Rogers, George, Leduc-Beaumont (PC), Deputy Speaker and Chair of Committees
Jablonski, Mary Anne, Red Deer-North (PC), Deputy Chair of Committees

Allen, Mike, Fort McMurray-Wood Buffalo (Ind)
Amery, Moe, Calgary-East (PC)
Anderson, Rob, Airdrie (W),
 Official Opposition House Leader
Anglin, Joe, Rimbey-Rocky Mountain House-Sundre (W)
Barnes, Drew, Cypress-Medicine Hat (W)
Bhardwaj, Hon. Naresh, Edmonton-Ellerslie (PC)
Bhullar, Hon. Manmeet Singh, Calgary-Greenway (PC)
Bikman, Gary, Cardston-Taber-Warner (W)
Bilous, Deron, Edmonton-Beverly-Clareview (ND)
Blakeman, Laurie, Edmonton-Centre (AL),
 Liberal Opposition House Leader
Brown, Dr. Neil, QC, Calgary-Mackay-Nose Hill (PC)
Calahasen, Pearl, Lesser Slave Lake (PC)
Campbell, Hon. Robin, West Yellowhead (PC),
 Government House Leader
Cao, Wayne C.N., Calgary-Fort (PC)
Casey, Ron, Banff-Cochrane (PC)
Cusanelli, Christine, Calgary-Currie (PC)
Dallas, Hon. Cal, Red Deer-South (PC)
DeLong, Alana, Calgary-Bow (PC)
Denis, Hon. Jonathan, QC, Calgary-Acadia (PC),
 Deputy Government House Leader
Donovan, Ian, Little Bow (W)
Dorward, David C., Edmonton-Gold Bar (PC),
 Deputy Government Whip
Drysdale, Hon. Wayne, Grande Prairie-Wapiti (PC)
Eggen, David, Edmonton-Calder (ND),
 New Democrat Opposition Whip
Fawcett, Hon. Kyle, Calgary-Klein (PC)
Fenske, Jacquie, Fort Saskatchewan-Vegreville (PC)
Forsyth, Heather, Calgary-Fish Creek (W)
Fox, Rodney M., Lacombe-Ponoka (W)
Fraser, Hon. Rick, Calgary-South East (PC)
Fritz, Yvonne, Calgary-Cross (PC)
Goudreau, Hector G., Dunvegan-Central Peace-Notley (PC)
Griffiths, Hon. Doug, Battle River-Wainwright (PC)
Hale, Jason W., Strathmore-Brooks (W)
Hancock, Hon. Dave, QC, Edmonton-Whitemud (PC),
 Premier
Hehr, Kent, Calgary-Buffalo (AL)
Horne, Hon. Fred, Edmonton-Rutherford (PC)
Horner, Hon. Doug, Spruce Grove-St. Albert (PC)
Hughes, Ken, Calgary-West (PC)
Jansen, Hon. Sandra, Calgary-North West (PC)
Jeneroux, Matt, Edmonton-South West (PC)
Johnson, Hon. Jeff, Athabasca-Sturgeon-Redwater (PC)
Johnson, Linda, Calgary-Glenmore (PC)
Kang, Darshan S., Calgary-McCall (AL),
 Liberal Opposition Whip
Kennedy-Glans, Donna, QC, Calgary-Varsity (Ind)
Khan, Stephen, St. Albert (PC)
Klimchuk, Hon. Heather, Edmonton-Glenora (PC)
Kubinec, Maureen, Barrhead-Morinville-Westlock (PC)
Lemke, Ken, Stony Plain (PC)
Leskiw, Genia, Bonnyville-Cold Lake (PC)
Luan, Jason, Calgary-Hawkwood (PC)
Lukaszuk, Hon. Thomas A., Edmonton-Castle Downs (PC)
Mason, Brian, Edmonton-Highlands-Norwood (ND),
 Leader of the New Democrat Opposition
McAllister, Bruce, Chestermere-Rocky View (W)
McDonald, Everett, Grande Prairie-Smoky (PC)
McIver, Hon. Ric, Calgary-Hays (PC)
McQueen, Hon. Diana, Drayton Valley-Devon (PC)
Notley, Rachel, Edmonton-Strathcona (ND),
 New Democrat Opposition House Leader
Oberle, Hon. Frank, Peace River (PC),
 Deputy Government House Leader
Olesen, Cathy, Sherwood Park (PC)
Olson, Hon. Verlyn, QC, Wetaskiwin-Camrose (PC),
 Deputy Government House Leader
Pastoor, Bridget Brennan, Lethbridge-East (PC)
Pedersen, Blake, Medicine Hat (W)
Quadri, Sohail, Edmonton-Mill Woods (PC)
Quest, Hon. Dave, Strathcona-Sherwood Park (PC)
Redford, Alison M., QC, Calgary-Elbow (PC)
Rodney, Hon. Dave, Calgary-Lougheed (PC)
Rowe, Bruce, Olds-Didsbury-Three Hills (W)
Sandhu, Peter, Edmonton-Manning (PC)
Sarich, Janice, Edmonton-Decore (PC)
Saskiw, Shayne, Lac La Biche-St. Paul-Two Hills (W),
 Official Opposition Whip
Scott, Hon. Donald, QC, Fort McMurray-Conklin (PC)
Sherman, Dr. Raj, Edmonton-Meadowlark (AL),
 Leader of the Liberal Opposition
Smith, Danielle, Highwood (W),
 Leader of the Official Opposition
Starke, Hon. Dr. Richard, Vermilion-Lloydminster (PC)
Stier, Pat, Livingstone-Macleod (W)
Strankman, Rick, Drumheller-Stettler (W)
Swann, Dr. David, Calgary-Mountain View (AL)
Towle, Kerry, Innisfail-Sylvan Lake (W),
 Official Opposition Deputy Whip
VanderBurg, George, Whitecourt-Ste. Anne (PC),
 Government Whip
Weadick, Hon. Greg, Lethbridge-West (PC)
Webber, Len, Calgary-Foothills (Ind)
Wilson, Jeff, Calgary-Shaw (W),
 Official Opposition Deputy House Leader
Woo-Paw, Hon. Teresa, Calgary-Northern Hills (PC)
Xiao, David H., Edmonton-McClung (PC)
Young, Steve, Edmonton-Riverview (PC)

Party standings:

Progressive Conservative: 58 Wildrose: 17 Alberta Liberal: 5 New Democrat: 4 Independent: 3

Officers and Officials of the Legislative Assembly

W.J. David McNeil, Clerk	Stephanie LeBlanc, Parliamentary Counsel and Legal Research Officer	Philip Massolin, Manager of Research Services
Robert H. Reynolds, QC, Law Clerk/ Director of Interparliamentary Relations	Fiona Vance, Sessional Parliamentary Counsel	Brian G. Hodgson, Sergeant-at-Arms
Shannon Dean, Senior Parliamentary Counsel/Director of House Services	Nancy Robert, Research Officer	Chris Caughell, Assistant Sergeant-at-Arms
		Gordon H. Munk, Assistant Sergeant-at-Arms
		Janet Schwegel, Managing Editor of Alberta Hansard

Executive Council

Dave Hancock	Premier, President of Executive Council, Minister of Innovation and Advanced Education
Naresh Bhardwaj	Associate Minister – Services for Persons with Disabilities
Manmeet Singh Bhullar	Minister of Human Services
Robin Campbell	Minister of Environment and Sustainable Resource Development
Cal Dallas	Minister of International and Intergovernmental Relations
Jonathan Denis	Minister of Justice and Solicitor General
Wayne Drysdale	Minister of Transportation
Kyle Fawcett	Associate Minister – Recovery and Reconstruction for Southwest Alberta
Rick Fraser	Associate Minister – Public Safety Associate Minister – Recovery and Reconstruction for High River
Doug Griffiths	Minister of Service Alberta
Fred Horne	Minister of Health
Doug Horner	President of Treasury Board and Minister of Finance
Sandra Jansen	Associate Minister – Family and Community Safety
Jeff Johnson	Minister of Education, Ministerial Liaison to the Canadian Forces
Heather Klimchuk	Minister of Culture
Thomas Lukaszuk	Minister of Jobs, Skills, Training and Labour
Ric McIver	Minister of Infrastructure
Diana McQueen	Minister of Energy
Frank Oberle	Minister of Aboriginal Relations
Verlyn Olson	Minister of Agriculture and Rural Development
Dave Quest	Associate Minister – Seniors
Dave Rodney	Associate Minister – Wellness
Donald Scott	Associate Minister – Accountability, Transparency and Transformation
Richard Starke	Minister of Tourism, Parks and Recreation
Greg Weadick	Associate Minister – Recovery and Reconstruction for Southeast Alberta
Teresa Woo-Paw	Associate Minister – International and Intergovernmental Relations

STANDING AND SPECIAL COMMITTEES OF THE LEGISLATIVE ASSEMBLY OF ALBERTA

Standing Committee on Alberta's Economic Future

Chair: Mr. Amery

Deputy Chair: Mr. Fox

Dorward	Pastoor
Eggen	Quadri
Hehr	Rogers
Kubinec	Rowe
Lemke	Sarich
Luan	Stier
McDonald

Standing Committee on the Alberta Heritage Savings Trust Fund

Chair: Mr. Casey

Deputy Chair: Mrs. Jablonski

Amery	Khan
Barnes	Sandhu
Dorward	Sherman
Eggen

Select Special Ethics Commissioner Search Committee

Chair: Mr. Rogers

Deputy Chair: Mr. Quadri

Blakeman	Leskiw
Eggen	McDonald
Goudreau	Saskiw
Lemke

Standing Committee on Families and Communities

Chair: Ms Olesen

Deputy Chair: Mrs. Forsyth

Cusanelli	McAllister
DeLong	Notley
Fenske	Pedersen
Fritz	Sandhu
Jablonski	Swann
Jeneroux	VanderBurg
Leskiw

Standing Committee on Legislative Offices

Chair: Mr. Jeneroux

Deputy Chair: Mr. McDonald

Bikman	Leskiw
Blakeman	Quadri
Brown	Wilson
DeLong	Young
Eggen

Special Standing Committee on Members' Services

Chair: Mr. Zwozdesky

Deputy Chair: Mr. VanderBurg

Casey	Mason
Forsyth	McDonald
Fritz	Sherman
Johnson, L.	Towle
Kubinec

Standing Committee on Private Bills

Chair: Mr. Xiao

Deputy Chair: Mrs. Leskiw

Allen	Notley
Brown	Olesen
Cusanelli	Rowe
DeLong	Stier
Fenske	Strankman
Fritz	Swann
Jablonski

Standing Committee on Privileges and Elections, Standing Orders and Printing

Chair: Ms Kubinec

Deputy Chair: Mr. Rogers

Calahasen	Pastoor
Casey	Pedersen
Kang	Saskiw
Khan	VanderBurg
Luan	Wilson
Notley	Young
Olesen

Standing Committee on Public Accounts

Chair: Mr. Anderson

Deputy Chair: Mr. Dorward

Allen	Khan
Amery	Luan
Barnes	Pastoor
Bilous	Sandhu
Donovan	Sarich
Fenske	Young
Hehr

Standing Committee on Resource Stewardship

Chair: Mr. Khan

Deputy Chair: Mr. Anglin

Allen	Goudreau
Bikman	Hale
Bilous	Johnson, L.
Blakeman	Webber
Brown	Xiao
Calahasen	Young
Casey

Legislative Assembly of Alberta

7:30 p.m.

Wednesday, April 23, 2014

[The Deputy Speaker in the chair]

The Deputy Speaker: Please be seated.

Government Bills and Orders Third Reading

Bill 8 Appropriation Act, 2014

[Adjourned debate April 23: Mr. Wilson]

The Deputy Speaker: I recognize the hon. Leader of Her Majesty's Loyal Opposition.

Ms Smith: Thank you, Mr. Speaker. I rise to speak against Bill 8. Maybe it won't surprise you that I will be voting against it and encouraging my colleagues to vote against it as well. I'll tell you a few of the reasons why. The evidence against voting for this budget has come fast and furious from some unlikely sources, two former Finance ministers and, today, the Auditor General.

Let me read into the record a few of the things that these honourable gentlemen have to say about the budget put forward by the Finance minister. Ted Morton, who of course was Finance minister, wrote on March 24, 2014, in the Calgary Herald:

For many PC faithful – and I was one – that was our hallmark, the PC brand. We may agree to disagree on social issues, but when it comes to paying our way and telling Albertans the truth about how much we are spending, and how much, if any, we owe the banks – that's untouchable. [The former Premier and the Finance minister] threw that brand overboard.

In one fell swoop, Alberta went from leader to laggard in public accounting clarity and integrity. For many veteran PCers, repealing the Klein-Dinning accounting rules was the final straw.

What does that other former Finance minister have to say about the new budget and the new presentation by the current Finance minister? Well I can tell you because Jim Dinning wrote in the Edmonton Journal on April 2, 2014:

I'd like to see a new leader take up the Opposition's idea of establishing an Independent Budget Office. Albertans would welcome an objective set of eyeballs on the government's finances. And let's return to the simple and clear accounting rules used to get our government back in the black. The budget is one of the most important things the government does, because it drives almost everything else. Albertans sacrificed a lot to have a debt-free future. We don't want that hard work put at risk, and we should be able to understand the government's books.

Now, I know the Finance minister likes to say that the books are clear and they conform to accounting standards, but we found that the Auditor General challenged that in Public Accounts this morning. Let me quote what our Auditor General had to say because he commented that the way the government presents the books is not based on accounting rules, and, as has been said, it's a policy document. The Minister of Finance is preparing his budgets in accordance with that policy document. As simply as I can explain it, the policy document has a budget treatment which is not in accordance with accounting principles. I'll just take this opportunity, if I may, to speak a little bit longer.

And he goes on:

In my opinion it would be best for Albertans to have a budget presented before the start of the year in the same way that the actual results will be presented. The clearest picture of the province's finances comes from the audited consolidated financial statements. A constructed budget constructed at the end of the year is, in my opinion, second best.

How is it that the books are actually presented in the annual report? Well, I pulled out the annual report from last year, 2012-13, and I would direct hon. members to page 21 because it has a reconciliation summary right here in black and white that talks about what the revenue is, talks about the adjustments for the various other types of spending, has expense on a consolidated basis, and then gives a single consolidated financial statement basis showing the surplus or deficit in the given year. In 2012-13 that was $3.1 billion.

What the Auditor General is saying is that the budget should reflect the statements that are going to be produced in June. We shouldn't have to wait until we get to June to find out what the deficit is going to be on a consolidated basis. Unfortunately, the current Finance minister seems to be prepared to ignore the advice of previous Progressive Conservative Finance ministers, in addition to the Auditor General, in following what the Wildrose has said all along is what we should be returning to, which is the very simple consolidated statement of revenues in and expenditures out and whether or not we have a surplus or a deficit.

We know why this is causing a problem. You can talk to eight or 10 different organizations that analyze the budget and get eight or 10 different estimates of what the consolidated budget deficit is going to be this year. We think it's going to be $2.7 billion, but I guess we'll have to wait until we get the real consolidated statements to find out what that is going to be. It shouldn't be this difficult to figure out what the actual spending and what the actual revenues are.

For me to have been able to vote in favour of this bill, there were some key things that we were looking for, Mr. Speaker. We were looking for leadership from the top. We know that there is no possible way that you can get any kind of buy-in on negotiations with public-sector unions if you're not seeing leadership being taken from the top. We would have wanted to see the elimination of associate minister positions, reducing the number of ministers to 16. We would have liked to have seen them roll back the 8 per cent wage increase that was given to MLAs last year. We would have liked to have seen a cut in the pay for cabinet ministers and the Premier and a reduction in the size of the Public Affairs Bureau by at least half and prohibiting its partisan political activities. We would have wanted to see a cap on bonuses so that we were limiting it to something reasonable. Limiting severance packages: we keep on seeing almost every day why it is we need to see a limitation on severance packages.

We wanted to see a halt on the unnecessary extras to the new MLA offices in the federal building. Keep in mind that we made that recommendation before we found out about the sky palace and the special PC lounge for retired and other PC MLAs, limited only to the government party, with their special elevator so that nobody else is able to access those upper floors. We would like to have seen a cap on annual travel costs to $500,000 for the Premier, the ministers, MLAs, and staff. We have seen in living colour over the last four months why that limitation is absolutely necessary to show leadership.

We also in the second case would have liked to see an end to corporate welfare. There's absolutely no way that you can argue to those who look to government and rely on them for services, our most vulnerable citizens, whether they're persons with developmental disabilities, whether they're individuals who are in seniors' care, whether they're people waiting in long waiting lists, or whether it's parents who are concerned about crowded classrooms – there's no possible way that you can justify handing out grants to individual companies in the form of corporate welfare when there are unmet needs. We calculate that that is some $500 million a year being spent in direct subsidies and grants, and we would have wanted to see an end to that.

We also wanted to see some effort to eliminate ineffective bureaucracy and empowering the front lines, in particular, significantly reducing the cost of government and AHS bureaucracy while continuing to support our front lines. Instead, what have we seen? Continued growth and management layers, seven or eight layers of management in Alberta Health Services; no return to local controls so that we can get more dollars down to the front line; sole-source contracting in every area but, in particular, in Alberta Health Services, knowing that we're not getting the best value for dollar because we're not seeing competitive bidding; in addition to that, contracting out of consulting services across a whole range of services that I think and most Albertans think are not the necessary business of Alberta Health Services. Those are the kinds of things that we would have liked to have seen in the budget. Unfortunately, this budget failed to deliver.

We also would have liked to have seen a capital plan that was over the course of a longer period of time and funded in a debt-free way. We've put forward our 10-year debt-free capital plan. We would have spent $50 billion over the course of 10 years and done so without going into debt by changing the way that procurement is done and making sure that there isn't scope creep in these projects that causes them to continue to get bid up.

We also would have liked to have seen a new relationship with our municipalities. We proposed a 10-10 plan for funding municipalities through a community infrastructure transfer that would have ensured that more dollars got down directly to the people who should be making decisions. Again, another aspect of the budget that we can't support because we're seeing no progress in that regard.

Zero-based budgeting. The government talks about results-based budgeting. Unfortunately, it's delivering no results. We need to have a real zero-based budgeting approach.

We'd like to strengthen the Auditor General's office, and I think we're beginning to see exactly why the Auditor General needs more resources to be able to do value-for-money audits, not only because of the comments that he made today but the comments that he's made on the government's pension plan changes. In addition to that, we are very concerned about the sole-source contracting that we're seeing across the board in Alberta Health Services and other departments.

7:40

We want to see the establishment of a waste-buster program that would be protected by whistle-blower legislation. Many of the things that we are hearing about government waste are coming to us directly because the government's ineffective whistle-blower legislation, first of all, does not actually protect the whistle-blower, nor does it get the information out. This is the kind of thing that we need to do to ensure that we're empowering the front line and identifying the areas where we can get savings so that we can direct those to front-line spending on important programs for Albertans.

The last area is that we want to see a savings plan, a real savings plan. Unfortunately, this government initially came up with what we thought was a pretty good idea, the idea of earmarking and retaining a certain portion of the investment income into the heritage savings trust fund. They undid all of that goodwill by identifying new ways that they could withdraw money from the fund so that they can spend it on a variety of different endowments, which we think is breaking and undoing the promise of last year. What we really need is the kind of budget that looks forward into the future 20 or 30 or 40 years.

If we'd had the kind of approach that we saw when Peter Lougheed first implemented the heritage savings trust fund, if at any point they had decided that they were just going to retain the value of investment income in the fund, it would be worth $150 billion today. It would be generating some $8 billion or $9 billion or $10 billion per year, which would have allowed us to wean ourselves off resource revenue. We could today, with a couple of good decisions having been made in the 1980s, be in a position more like Norway or Alaska, with a large fund generating enough income so that we're not only able to take care of today's needs, but we're also making sure that the next generations are able to benefit from our resource development as well. The absence of that type of plan, the absence of any type of forward-looking approach to take our heritage savings trust fund and grow it to $150 billion or $200 billion so that we can actually have that same kind of future is another reason why I can't support this budget.

I'll say one last word about debt before I finish, Mr. Speaker. This to me is the biggest broken promise of this government. Two years ago they were campaigning, saying that they would be able to get elected, not have any cuts to front-line services, not increase taxes, not run deficits, and not go into debt. Here we are two years later looking at a budget that projects that by the time we go into the next election in 2016, we'll have $21 billion worth of debt, the same level, incidentally, as a former Premier, Premier Don Getty, who faced the same fate as the previous Premier for this party for probably exactly the same reasons. Twenty-one billion dollars worth of debt by 2016, generating some $820 million in interest charges: that is going to cannibalize away from other program spending. When you're paying money on interest charges, those are dollars that cannot be spent on hiring teachers and nurses and doctors and putting it towards programs for the most vulnerable.

That is the reason why this budget must fail. The fact that this government has decided without a mandate to put future generations $21 billion in debt and basically have no plan for how we're going to manage it and steward our resource wealth for the future so that future generations can benefit from that as well, that's the reason why this budget should be voted down.

Thank you, Mr. Speaker.

The Deputy Speaker: Thank you, hon. member.

Standing Order 29(2)(a) is available.

Seeing none, I'll go to the Member for Calgary-Buffalo.

Mr. Hehr: Well, thank you very much, Mr. Speaker. I'm compelled to talk because some things that were brought up by the hon. Leader of Her Majesty's Loyal Opposition I actually agree with. It centres around the way we have continued to finance this province, essentially treating the nonrenewable resource wealth as being a revenue source to be spent in one generation. If you see what has transpired over the course of the last 43 years since this government has been in power, that is exactly what has played out.

We've brought in some $375 billion, maybe more, in nonrenewable resource revenue. If you take a look at, you know, what other societies have done, Norway, to be specific, has treated that nonrenewable resource revenue as something to be saved for the future. That society recognizes that once you take a barrel of oil out of the ground and you receive income for it, you are never going to have that barrel of oil to sell again. That seems pretty clear. They recognize that principle, and they've invested that in a sovereign wealth fund. Okay. That seems to me a pretty wise thing to do, understanding that it is nonrenewable.

What we have done: I guess we've given lip service to the fact that we should save some of this. I do note that in the Lougheed years of this government they at least tried in some small way to do that, pegging 30 per cent of the nonrenewable resource revenue to be saved. Over the course of that time, I believe, a relatively small sum was saved, probably exactly the amount that's there today. In fact, we haven't made any significant contributions to the heritage trust fund in the last 25 years.

Where does that leave us? Well, of that $375 billion or so of nonrenewable resource revenue we've brought in, the governing party has only managed to save $16 billion or so. Any way you cut it, that's not a very good record. If you're running around as a conservative party, allegedly being fiscal conservatives, that, to me, would be the basis point of how you judge that record. Where are we in terms of our nonrenewable resource wealth? How much have we saved? How much have we got going in for future generations? Have we set up a really dynamic society? Do we have the best running universities, the best running things?

If you've decided as a government to put that money into different vehicles – because there is some contention amongst people whether we should put this in a sovereign wealth fund or develop things today – one of those viable options could be to develop the best university system on the planet. Those decisions were not made – okay? – either way you cut it. Whether you put it in a sovereign wealth fund, whether you develop the best university system on the planet, or other things, those things were forgone for some form or fashion.

Of course, it's my postulation that instead of doing these things that would have made our society truly great and set up for the long run, we took the easy way out, Mr. Speaker. We said: "My goodness. You know, we can do most of it here. We can have nobody pay any taxes, and we can provide most of the services. Maybe we'll struggle sometimes, we'll do well sometimes, but we'll do the best we can in providing these and sort of we'll go along on that path instead of developing a real plan on what we're going to do with our nonrenewable resource revenue."

Given that that's what has transpired, here we find ourselves in the unenviable situation of facing an uncertain way forward and where we have embraced debt to the tune of $21 billion by 2017. That's a significant number, and I believe the hon. Leader of the Opposition said that that is approaching the debt that we saw this great province have by the time the 1993 election rolled around. We're no further ahead on that file. We're right back where we started, when we started recognizing that things had to change, okay? Somehow we don't have a handle on this yet. The government of the day, who has been in power for 43 years, does not have a leg to stand on if you evaluate them from where they are in terms of what they have done with the nonrenewable resource revenue.

One might argue that it's difficult for them to have a good record on whether they provided the services that individuals here in Alberta need. Look, we're short schools, we're short long-term care centres, we're short doctors, we're short a whole abundance of things that just scream that this government has not been paying attention to what is happening out there. I think that if we haven't learned from this, the idea that something has to give, well, then we're destined to repeat it. That is my great worry, that there appears to be a willingness amongst the governing party to say: "Oh, well, you know, this is okay. It allows us to carry on, to pretend things are all right. The future revenues are supposed to get a little bit better, and maybe we can fool ourselves that this time we might save a little more. This time we might do a little better." But if we haven't learned that that hasn't transpired and we haven't changed anything to ensure that it doesn't transpire, well, we're kidding ourselves.

7:50

Here's where I mean, that something had to give. This is where my and the hon. Leader of the Official Opposition's, I guess, trails diverge, shall we say. I see the problem in regard to us spending all our nonrenewable resource revenue on the basis of a lack of revenue. We have a revenue problem, and I don't think – she mentioned former Finance minister Ted Morton, who says that our new accounting methods are a sham. Well, Minister Ted Morton has also admitted that we have a revenue problem. So has virtually every other Finance minister who has been in charge of this government's books going back a long way, whether they be Jim Dinning, whether they be Ron Liepert, whether they be a whole host, a cadre of characters and public servants who have had that position. If we don't get a handle on that, I think we're destined to repeat it.

So that's where we are. I hoped we had learned from this. It doesn't appear that this government is going to do anything but hope the status quo carries the day through the next election, and that is the greatest disappointment, where I see where we are now. I sense that if they would have tried to have solved this problem, a whole host of their other problems would have gone away because this is the elephant in the room, why we are at this stage of the game broke, okay? That really is it. Anyone who hasn't really tried to think about that in this Legislature, really, I think, should. If you haven't at this point in time asked yourself how we as a province find ourselves broke, I think you should. Give it a 20-minute academic study and ask yourself and come to a conclusion one way or another. Have we spent too much? Have we undertaxed too much? Figure it out for yourself what that is, okay? Then try and devise some plan going forward in that regard, but it doesn't appear that we're going to do it.

Essentially, if the government of the day had chosen not to do nothing, I think many of their problems would have gone away. You wouldn't see a lot of this nuttiness, in my view, of what we see on Bill 45, Bill 46, bills 9 and 10, the attacks on working people. I think you would have an easy way to build 50 schools and 70 modernizations, which the government still hasn't figured out. Although they promised it, they still haven't figured out how to pay for it. I think you'd have an easier time getting long-term care to seniors and people with disabilities who need it. I think you'd have an easier time trying to delve into solving child poverty, which you promised to eliminate. Those were big-ticket items that you guys said that you were going to fix, but the only way you can fix them was to fix the fiscal structure. When you didn't do that, you decided to come up with a bunch of other phony baloney arguments to say why we couldn't do it. Simply put, I think it was gutless and, in my view, wrong, and I don't think it is going to serve your political interests in the long run anyway. In my view, you blew it, but, hey, that's sort of where I am on that. I just felt compelled to say it one more time for the record, Mr. Speaker.

Thank you very much.

The Deputy Speaker: Thank you, hon. member.

Standing Order 29(2)(a) is available. The hon. Member for Edmonton-Highlands-Norwood.

Mr. Mason: Yes. Thank you very much, Mr. Speaker. I wanted to thank the hon. Member for Calgary-Buffalo for his excellent albeit far too brief speech and ask him a little bit more about what he thinks the royalty structure ought to be in the province with a view to balancing the need for investment and revenue for the province, which – I agree with him – should be primarily used for savings for future generations.

Mr. Hehr: Well, this is a complex question. Nevertheless, I think if I had to look at it, the fact that we charge the lowest royalty structure on the planet for our nonrenewable resource revenues I think has something to say of the position where we are, okay? That's clear. Am I an oil and gas expert? No. I'm a recovering lawyer. But if you look around and you see where we are in terms of the amount of royalties collected vis-à-vis other nations, clearly we are not doing well in that regard.

My understanding is that the oil wealth is owned by every single citizen in the province of Alberta and we should be collecting as high a royalty rent as we can. Simply put, we have a policy that says we actually have a goal of being in the bottom collectors of rent in the world when it comes to royalties. It seems like our policies are based on some skewed notion that the royalties are not, in fact, the people's but the companies' who drill them, and that to me is perplexing.

Nevertheless, the reason we find ourselves here was that in 1993, in my view, we made a mistake in selling the Alberta Energy Company, okay? That was a company that Lougheed had started and built a petrochemical industry around, where the government had a stake in being able to control some portion of the oil and gas industry, and it was roughly 50-50. The Alberta government controlled 50 per cent; the private sector controlled 50 per cent. It had some balance as to what was happening out there. The government essentially knew what was happening in the industry.

When we lost that ability to have that understanding, it became very difficult to push back on oil companies. For instance, if you tried to say that we're going to raise royalties, well, they threatened to leave, and they'd tell all their employees that, my goodness, if the government takes a cent more, we're gonna fire every last one of you. That happens, and that makes it difficult for this to occur. So in my view, that was a mistake. But, clearly, at some point in time we have to look at ourselves honestly. Are we doing well on that front?

If we get back to the revenue collection, it has to happen on our royalties, our royalty structure, as well as citizens of this great province have to realize they have to contribute to the public purse. At the end of the day I think a much larger portion of our nonrenewable resource revenue, whatever our royalty structure is, should be saved for the future. I honestly think a reasonable position of any political party would be that you pay for what you use in taxes. If you can't provide the service or get the electorate behind the services you want to deliver as a government, you don't provide those services. If you don't want to provide those services, you don't want to run those deficits. That's how it is.

I think your society has to decide what they want. I believe Albertans at this time want public education. They want hospitals. They want roads. They want all of this. We just have to make the case that it's worth them investing in. I think the government, instead of trying to make that case, has taken the easy way out.

Thank you for your question, hon. member. I look forward to this evening.

The Deputy Speaker: Thank you, hon. member.

We have 30 seconds left on 29(2)(a).

If not, the next speaker, the Member for Edmonton-Highlands-Norwood, on third reading.

Mr. Mason: Thank you very much, Mr. Speaker. Well, I appreciate that excellent answer, which was not too brief. I just wonder why you feel that the Conservative government has been so extraordinary in its generosity to the oil companies in this province?

8:00

The Deputy Speaker: I recognized you to speak to third reading, hon. member.

Mr. Mason: Oh. You said I had . . .

The Deputy Speaker: No. It was over. It went. Your time has started for speaking to third reading, hon. member.

Mr. Mason: But didn't you say that I had 30 seconds?

The Deputy Speaker: You did, but it's expired, long expired. Your preamble used that time, hon. member.

Mr. Mason: Okay.

The Deputy Speaker: You may continue to speak to third reading.

Mr. Mason: I didn't know we moved seamlessly from one to the other, Mr. Speaker, but I'll try to adapt.

I will attempt to answer my own question, which has to do with this government's extraordinary generosity towards the large oil and gas companies that operate in this province. Sometimes we misjudge the government. We look at their policies towards poverty and housing and persons with disabilities and seniors, and we think that they're selfish. We think that they're mean-spirited and that they don't really care. But when we look at the oil and gas industry, we can see the most extraordinary generosity, that is unmatched, I think, anywhere in the world.

The value of the oil and gas that belongs to all Albertans is shared without any qualms or recriminations with the oil companies that are so friendly with this government. They have a very close relationship. It's something, really, that we all have to admire. You know, the oil and gas companies give the PC Party lots of money at election time, and then after the PC Party is elected, they give even more money to the oil and gas companies by keeping royalties at the lowest level of any jurisdiction in the country. You know, it's a very, very loving relationship, I think. It's very close. The only problem with it is that the value of our resources, that are being pumped out of the ground, in terms of conventional oil and gas and now unconventional gas and, of course, the oil sands, is enormous. It's billions and billions of dollars.

In the past 20 years or so Norway has established its sovereign fund. They have quite a bit higher royalties than we have in Alberta, and they save those royalties. They've invested them in a fund. Their fund was actually modelled very consciously on the heritage savings trust fund, established by former Premier Lougheed, and they followed the principles that Premier Lougheed had established, which were to put the money there, to keep adding, to have a certain, fairly high percentage of your nonrenewable royalty revenue go into the fund, and you keep it there. You don't draw down interest and use that for operating costs, and you let the fund grow and grow and grow.

That's what Norway has done, and they have had approximately the same value of oil and gas taken out of the ground that we have here in Alberta, and they have a $600 billion fund. They invest that, and they're very careful because they don't want to create distortions in their own economy, so they invest it all offshore, not in Norway but in other places. That fund is now producing tremendous returns. The standard of living of the Norwegian people has risen.

Mr. Denis: So have their taxes.

Mr. Mason: Their taxes have gone down, and they have expanded the social services that they all enjoy. The prosperity in Norway is amazing, and it's certainly surpassed Canada in terms of its standard of living. It's as a result of these wise policies that were originally developed by our own Peter Lougheed, who, ironically enough, was the first Premier and leader of the Progressive Conservative Party of Alberta. Seemingly because of the close relationship that's developed with the oil and gas industry, this government has moved in a different direction.

You know, it's interesting. We had a bit of a look at what Peter Lougheed did. He was very concerned when he became the Premier that the Social Credit Party was only collecting about 10 per cent of the value of these resources in royalties for the owners. The rest of it was going to the oil and gas companies. Certainly, they need to have some return if we're going to expect them to invest in the extraction and processing and transportation and sale of our natural resources. You need to allow them to have a certain share of the value of those resources in order to make sure that they have enough incentive to do that. But the question is: how much is enough? What we should be doing is allowing just enough to provide the incentives for them to make those investments at the level that we would like to see as a matter of our public policy, and everything else should be coming back to us.

Peter Lougheed said: "Well, we're only getting 10 per cent of the value under Social Credit. I want to set a different goal. I want to set the goal at 30 per cent." So they did. There were a couple of major changes to the royalty regime under Peter Lougheed. The oil companies squawked. They certainly did screech and scream, and they threatened to leave the province, but – guess what? – they didn't. In a couple of years they actually exceeded 30 per cent of the value, and they started to build up the heritage savings trust fund. I remember that period. It looked very, very promising.

Now, since Peter Lougheed left office, the oil and gas industry has exerted more and more and more influence over the PC Party and over the government. Under Premier Klein the percentage of royalties that was collected was reduced very substantially, and this government has continued that policy.

There was a brief glimmer when Ed Stelmach, who was the Premier, tried to adjust the royalty rates, and I think that he had some problems on the conventional oil and gas side, which is extremely complex. There were problems with regard to that, but frankly I thought, Mr. Speaker, that it was a step in the right direction with regard to the oil sands in particular. I remember the oil and gas companies claiming that this was going to bankrupt them and they were all going to leave. They had some phony demonstrations outside the Legislature, where they gave all their staff the day off and bused them to the Legislature, and nobody took it very seriously.

Then, unfortunately, there was a really serious economic downturn, and the price of oil and gas dropped. The oil companies are nothing if not kind of cagey, Mr. Speaker. What they did is that they blamed the drop in activity not on the downturn in the economy and the drop in the price of oil – oh, no – but they blamed it on the regime that had been established by Stelmach and convinced a lot of Albertans that that was what the problem was. Of course, people forget one thing, and that is that royalties are calculated as a percentage of price, so they have a percentage of the impact that price does. If the price falls $10 and your royalties are $1, or 10 per cent, then obviously it has 10 times the impact than the adjustment in the royalties. The impact is a fraction of the impact of the price. Of course, that scared off the government.

Then they did something else. They're pretty smart, and they've done this before. They used to support the Western Canada Concept when they didn't like what Don Getty was doing. I remember, when I was in university, the election of a guy called Kesler, who was basically an oil field – well, he observed other companies' activities. I think it would be a little rude to call him a spy. He was elected in the Olds-Didsbury constituency, and that kind of scared Mr. Getty and the PC government at that time so that kind of brought them back into line a little bit.

What they did after the Stelmach royalty regime is that they tried the same trick again, only they did it on a bigger scale, and they started to shift their funding towards the Wildrose Party. That really scared the Stelmach government. They were quite, quite scared – not as scared as they are now, but they were pretty scared – so they backed off on many of the aspects of the royalty changes that Mr. Stelmach had brought about. Anyway, the genie was maybe out of the bottle.

But it's interesting that both parties, both the PC Party and the Wildrose Party, are completely opposed to reconsidering our royalty regime in this province. On the big issues these parties are the same, Mr. Speaker. They are not different. They have a difference of opinion over corruption and government waste and borrowing for capital projects, but that's about it.

8:10

Mr. Anderson: And we're nicer.

Mr. Mason: Well, they are newer, and they have not had a chance to do the kinds of things that 40 years in government, you know, brings about. I don't know how long it'll take them to get there. But they maybe have the advantage, if not of being more progressive, at least of being newer. There is something to be said for that, Mr. Speaker.

Now we're in the position where we still have the lowest royalties in the world, and we are getting less benefit from our oil and gas than just about any other jurisdiction in the world. Now, I don't think we have to go as far as Venezuela, for example, Mr. Speaker.

Some of you may have heard this story. If you have, you know, just stop me. [interjections] Or try. About five or six years ago I went up to Juneau, Alaska to find out what they had done with respect to their royalty regime. I met with lawmakers in their House on both sides, both Republicans and Democrats, and I also managed to have a briefing from the governor's staff, and I met briefly with the governor. She had led this process and brought about a substantial change in the royalty system in Alaska.

They looked very closely at Alberta. They studied Alberta's royalty system very carefully. They provided me with the documents where they had done this analysis. They brought about changes. For example, I remember one figure that stuck out in my head. They had made these changes to the royalties so that at the price of a hundred dollars a barrel Alaska gets 60 per cent more in royalties per barrel than Alberta does. I mean, it varies according to the price, of course. But that was the difference. Now, it's interesting that this process and this change in royalties was done over the objection of the oil companies, who threatened to leave. Of course, they squawked, and they made all kinds of noises, and they threatened to walk out and leave Alaska and never come back. Of course, they never did. They never did leave. They stayed.

Now, it's interesting that this change was brought about in Alaska under the leadership of a Republican governor. Her name was Sarah Palin, and she brought about this change and has certainly improved the financial position of Alaska, improved the payments that they give to their citizens, and so on. So I have a question for the Conservatives in the House, Mr. Speaker. If a gun-toting, Bible-thumping, right-wing Republican can raise royalties on the oil companies in Alaska, what the heck is wrong with you guys?

The Deputy Speaker: Thank you, hon. member.

Mr. Mason: Thank you, Mr. Speaker.

The Deputy Speaker: Standing Order 29(2)(a) is available. The hon. Minister of Job, Skills, Training and Labour.

Mr. Lukaszuk: Well, thank you. Now, this was phenomenal. While working, I was listening attentively to our colleague from the NDP caucus. You made what you purport to be factual statements about Norway, and you're indicating that their taxes are lower. Well, a little check of the government websites for Norway tells us that they actually have 48 per cent income tax, and they have 25 per cent GST. They don't pay transfer payments because they're not a province. They're a country, so they're not carrying the weight of other provinces and not transferring any of their funds to other areas. So that's one thing I'd like to have you reconcile, the facts from the government statistics versus what you're purporting over here right now.

Second thing. You're talking about conventional oil both in Alaska and Norway. Can you tell us about the difference in investment that companies first have to make in order to get bitumen, the first barrel of oil, out of the ground versus oil just gushing out of the sea? Can you talk a little bit about that?

And can you maybe give us a news flash update: how did Governor Palin do after all those reforms? Is she still the governor of Alaska?

The Deputy Speaker: The hon. Member for Edmonton-Highlands-Norwood.

Mr. Mason: Well, thank you very much, Mr. Speaker. I'll take them in reverse order. Now, Sarah Palin suffered from some of the afflictions that sometimes affect conservatives in government, and guess what? There was an investigation into her expenses, and she resigned as governor. Sound familiar, Mr. Speaker?

I asked that question, believe it or not, hon. jobs minister, when I was up there. They said that because the recovery on the north shore is very difficult – first of all, it's offshore drilling; it's in Arctic conditions; they have lots of problems – it's actually quite expensive.

But I would remind the minister that the break-even point for oil sands production is generally somewhere around $40 a barrel in terms of price, so anything above that is very profitable. One of the top consultants in the world on royalties that was engaged by your government back in the time of the Stelmach changes wrote – and I still have his report – that the operations of Syncrude and Suncor are two of the most profitable enterprises on the face of the planet. That's despite or because of the royalties that you're providing at the expense of all Albertans.

With regard to the information that the minister has with respect to Norway's tax regime, it differs from the information I have, and I'll have to get back to him on it.

The Deputy Speaker: Thank you.

Are there other speakers? The hon. Deputy Government House Leader.

Mr. Denis: Thank you very much, Mr. Speaker. I just wanted to rise to ask unanimous consent of this Assembly for a one-minute interval bell for any standing votes this evening.

[Unanimous consent denied]

The Deputy Speaker: The bells will be 10 minutes. Thank you.

So we're back to the bill. Are there other speakers on the bill?

Does someone wish to close on behalf of the Minister of Finance?

Seeing none, we'll call the question.

[The voice vote indicated that the motion for third reading carried]

[Several members rose calling for a division. The division bell was rung at 8:20 p.m.]

[Ten minutes having elapsed, the Assembly divided]

[The Deputy Speaker in the chair]

For the motion:

Bhardwaj	Griffiths	Pastoor
Calahasen	Johnson, L.	Quadri
Casey	Kennedy-Glans	Sandhu
Cusanelli	Klimchuk	Sarich
DeLong	Kubinec	Scott
Denis	Leskiw	Starke
Dorward	Lukaszuk	VanderBurg
Drysdale	McDonald	Weadick
Fawcett	McQueen	Woo-Paw
Fraser	Oberle	Xiao
Goudreau	Olesen	Young

Against the motion:

Anderson	Hehr	Stier
Anglin	Mason	Strankman
Barnes	Notley	Swann
Bikman	Pedersen	Towle
Eggen	Rowe	Webber
Fox	Sherman	Wilson
Hale	Smith

Totals: For – 33 Against – 20

[Motion carried; Bill 8 read a third time]

Government Bills and Orders Second Reading

Bill 9

Public Sector Pension Plans Amendment Act, 2014

[Adjourned debate April 23: Ms. Blakeman]

The Deputy Speaker: Hon. members we're dealing with amendment RA1, and I'll recognize the hon. Leader of Her Majesty's Loyal Opposition.

Ms Smith: Thank you, Mr. Speaker. If I understand it correctly, we are speaking to an amendment to put this to committee. Is that correct?

The Deputy Speaker: That's correct.

Ms Smith: Thank you. I'm making a list of all of the points that I have about why this should be put to committee. I'm not sure if I'll be able to get through them all in my allotted time, but suffice to say that I'm speaking in favour of the motion.

I think we have to talk about why it is that we've gotten to this point. It's because the government is worried that the contribution plans for our public-sector pensions are going to have contribution rates that are going to be too high for not only the government to be able to shoulder but also for employees to shoulder. From what I understand from talking to members of our public-sector unions and others, the upper bar that the government wants to maintain for contribution rates is a combined total of 25 per cent. I think that even the union leadership recognizes that if you get much beyond that, you're going to face a backlash from your employee groups. They're not interested in seeing contribution rates go much above 25 per cent, but there is a fundamental difference of opinion between the union leadership and this government on the solvency of the plans and the nature of the unfunded liability.

I want to start by saying that the issue that we're seeing between the government and our union leadership when it comes to making these unilateral decisions to change the pension plans, particularly for the two plans, the LAPP and the PSPP, is that we've got a fundamental issue of respect. Do you respect the independent nature of the pension boards to be able to govern themselves or not? You know, in answer to a question that I asked today in question period, the Finance minister waxed eloquent about the independent governance that he was going to consult on possibly moving towards, but I have to tell you that that is not gaining much traction with the union leadership.

In fact, I'm sure Gil McGowan is going to be as surprised as I am that I'm going to be quoting from a letter that he sent, that was cosigned with Guy Smith, Heather Smith, Elisabeth Ballermann, and Marle Roberts, that states, "handing governance to employees and employers after the plans have been gutted is a little like an arsonist handing you the keys to your house after he's burned it down."

If you're going to move to an independent governance body, you have to do so by maintaining the factors that keep the plan solvent. Unfortunately, with the decisions that are coming through or the changes being proposed by Bill 9, solvency is going to be one of the factors that's greatly at risk. I can see why the union leadership is very concerned that making a move to independent governance after you've already wrecked the plan is not going to move you in the right direction.

There are a couple of things I think we need to have context in as well. I don't want us to mistake the frustration and disgust that Albertans have about the lavish overcap pensions paid to senior executives and managers that we keep on seeing, that are sometimes in the order of a million dollars or more, with what our front-line union workers are receiving through each of these plans. In fact, the local authorities pension plan has an average pension on an annual basis of $14,456. Our public-sector pension plan has an average pension of $12,732. These are very reasonable amounts of money. These are not excessive amounts of money by anyone's standards. These are not gold-plated pensions that we're talking about. It shouldn't be surprising because most of the workers who are in each of these two plans earn around $65,000 to $70,000 per year. These are not lavish pensions because these are not highly, highly paid employees who are in these two different plans.

The other issue that we have to talk about is an issue of fairness. I can tell you how frustrating it is for our front-line workers to continue to see that perks and benefits go to not only politicians but also senior managers, and then they're the ones asked to take it in the ear. Let's recall that last year the managers' pension plan was increased. It will ultimately be wound down, but you can't increase the amount of compensation and benefits that you're going to give to your managers and then tell your front-line workers that there's not enough money left over for them. It is an issue of fairness.

The other concern that I have is the lack of information. As I mentioned, the 25 per cent combined contribution rate is a concern. In looking at the actuarial figures put forward by the Alberta Federation of Labour, they even acknowledge that for the next few years, in the worst-case scenario, the contribution rates may have to go up slightly, but it's only up to about 27 per cent, they would think, that at the outset would be the highest amount in combination that they would have to have employers and employees share.

What doesn't get talked about is that about one-third of this amount is already an amount that is apportioned to the unfunded liability contributions, about 7 per cent that's currently going to pay down the unfunded liability. Why is that? Well, it's because they recognized in the management of these pensions years ago that they had to deal with this unfunded liability issue, and they started doing that in 2008.

In fact, even the government recognizes that the plans are well on their way to solvency. When you look at the comments of the Minister of International and Intergovernmental Relations, he talked about it solving itself within 12 years. The AFL's predictions suggest that it's more like nine years. In fact, in the best-case scenario, if Leo de Bever keeps having great success in managing the accounts as he has in the last year, it could actually be eliminated in as soon as five years. Once that unfunded liability is eliminated, so are those additional premiums that go along with it, so you'd be able to get within the government's defined contribution threshold within very short order, by about 2020 at the latest. So the fact that the government thinks that they have to cap contribution rates I think is not borne out when you look at the fact that over the next five or six years these contribution rates are going to come down.

8:40

The other absence of information that we have is that the government is arguing that part of the reason they fear an increase in contribution rates by about 4 per cent is because there's going to be a change in the mortality tables. Well, we won't know what kind of impact that's going to have on contribution rates and the solvency of the plan until we see the new actuarial reports for these two funds, which aren't going to be released till June. So why race ahead and try to fix a problem right now until we know the true nature of the problem? We're not going to find that out until June. It would make sense to put this forward to committee and wait for these reports to be tabled so that we can actually see the true impact that the change in the mortality tables is going to have to the solvency of the plan. That's another reason it should be put to committee.

The other piece of information that AFL has been asking for is a freedom of information request if you can believe it, Mr. Speaker. We know how difficult it is to get those these days. They have been asking for every actuarial report and analysis that the government has done in determining that this is the draconian approach that they need to take. Surprise, surprise; that information has not been released yet. It would seem to me that until that information is released, we shouldn't jump ahead and assume that there's a problem here when it looks as though there's competing information out there, that it may be able to solve itself.

Now, I know that my colleagues in the NDP and the Liberals will have all sorts of progressive and liberal reasons to oppose this legislation, but I've got some conservative reasons to oppose this legislation. I'm going to try to make the case to Gil McGowan that he's actually a conservative because when he and I were talking today, you wouldn't believe how many areas of agreement we actually had.

Let me talk about why I as a conservative am opposed to this legislation. One, the rule of law. We expect that our governing officials are going to operate within the rule of law. Well, what does the current rule of law actually say? If we go to the legislation, the law says that the Finance minister can only change the provisions in this plan on the recommendation of the pension plan boards. Here's the problem, Mr. Speaker. He didn't get that approval in making these changes. Instead, he does what the PCs always do when they bump up against legislation that they don't like. He's proposing Bill 9 to give him unilateral power to make a ton of changes that the pension boards don't agree with. He is giving himself absolute authority. He wants to change the early retirement rules. He wants to be able to change the cost-of-living rules. He wants to be able to unilaterally cap the contribution rates.

There is a clause in here as well about potentially having the Finance minister change the treatment of salary for the calculation of benefits, changing the vesting rules. All of this is going to be determined by the Lieutenant Governor in Council, by cabinet. That goes away from the existing structure that we have right now, where the Finance minister is confined by current legislation.

I just don't like the practice that the PCs get into of trying these workarounds in legislation when they find pieces of it that they don't like. So that's one reason I'm opposing it.

Another reason I'm opposing it is that you know that as conservatives we value local decision-making. Many of the changes that this government is bringing through are going to have massive changes on other orders of government, particularly our municipal orders of government. The Alberta Urban Municipalities Association, the Alberta Association of Municipal Districts and Counties have gone on the record expressing their concerns about the changes that are being proposed by Bill 9. They think that the government is making a fundamental error in treating the local authorities pension plan the same way that they're treating their public-sector pension plan. In the local authorities pension plan there are three workers to every retiree. In PSPP there are two workers for every retiree. So it's very clear by looking at those ratios that there are probably unique risk factors and unique resolutions to each of those. You can't treat them the same, but the government is attempting to treat them the same under this legislation.

The big issue that the municipalities are raising is the impact that these unilateral changes will have in their ability to attract qualified labour. Our municipalities are in a fierce competition for workers. One of the advantages they offer is an attractive benefits program so that they can attract individuals into the public service as opposed to the private sector. They're very worried that on the calculation of benefits over the long haul, young workers are going to opt for other jobs and that they're going to end up seeing an exodus of young people from their labour force.

The other reason why as a conservative I oppose this is because I respect contracts. When you're making changes to pension plans – and this is what was brought forward by the AAMD and C – it involves three parties: the employer, the employee, and the retirees. All three of them have to be at the table and involved in coming up with solutions to a plan solvency. The government is throwing that out the window, ripping up contracts. We've talked about this a number of times in the past when the government wants to behave in a unilateral way without respecting the sanctity of contracts.

The other reason I oppose it is that I respect private property rights. One of the big debates through the 1980s, when we were talking about having property rights vested in the Charter of Rights and Freedoms, was whether or not entitlements should be considered a property right, an entitlement program like a pension program. I would argue that when somebody puts their dollars into a fund and it is matched by their employer, they have a right to expect that the provisions under which they bought into that plan are going to be consistent over the course of their lifetime. When you look at what these changes are potentially going to do, there's a potential that it is going to reduce the value of this entitlement by up to 25 or 30 per cent for new, young workers, slashing 25 to 30 per cent off the retirement value of every worker's pension plan, and it has a disproportionate effect for our youngest workers.

The problem that we're also seeing is that the government is not being entirely accurate and forthright in trying to split the different groups. It's sort of a divide-and-conquer strategy that we've seen, and we're accustomed to seeing that with this government. They're trying to tell those current retirees, who are already accepting their benefits, that they're not going to be impacted by these plan changes. However, that's not quite true because the government has given themselves an escape clause on page 17 of the bill. I'm looking at section 15, which would revise section 4(2)(a). In here it says that council may amend or repeal and replace plan rules only on the Board's recommendation if or to the extent that the effect is to change benefits that relate to service that occurs or occurred before 2016, unless the change deals with vesting or the treatment of remuneration as salary for the purposes of calculating benefits.

The way the unions are reading that is that they actually can change the benefits for those who are currently on the plan and receiving the benefits if they change the vesting and if they change the treatment of remuneration for salary. That means that perhaps rather than having the best five years of an individual's employment record go into the calculation of benefits, the Finance minister has given himself the power to change that. Maybe it would only be the average five years, or maybe it's only the best three years. In any case, these are the kinds of provisions that have been inserted into the legislation that leads unions to believe that whatever they're telling current retirees, there is an escape valve that could allow them to break that promise.

The problem with the government is that they have no credibility with our front-line workers now. I mean, you could have perhaps in the past argued that you could trust the Finance minister, that he would never do the kind of things that we're talking about, but of course I think our public-sector unions trusted that they wouldn't have their collective bargaining rights snatched away in Bill 45 and that they wouldn't have their free-speech rights snatched away in Bill 46, and those two things happened. This is why the trust level that we have between our front-line workers and this government is at probably the lowest point that we could possibly imagine. This is why, when they look at this legislation and see the power that the government is taking away from their pension boards and giving to the Finance minister to have behind closed doors in a unilateral way without the need to consult, they're suspicious of how those are going to turn out for their existing retirees and their future workers as well.

The other issue that we have – and we talk a lot about it; we talked about it in the previous bill as well – is the intergenerational issues that we're facing when you make these kinds of unilateral changes. As we know, younger workers under this proposal are going to be asked to pay more, yet they're going to get less. I've already mentioned one of the consequences that can happen as a result of this. You could end up having workers leave to the private sector instead of staying in the public sector.

You could have employees opt out. That's the other part of the plan. You can get a run on the plan because there are a number of employees that can choose to opt out of the plan because they're part-timers. You can also get employers that choose to opt out. If you get provisions of a plan that an employer can no longer sell, they start looking at ways in which they might be able to start their own plan. Look at AHS as a prime example: 100,000 employees, the largest employer in Alberta. They certainly don't need to be within a public plan. They certainly could develop their own plan, and then you put the entire plan at risk.

8:50

The last reason why I oppose this bill as a conservative: the Auditor General has been giving some fantastic quotes lately, Mr. Speaker. Let me read to you another quote that he most recently gave on the issue of the pension plans. This was from his February 2014 report on page 43. He talks about the potential for these changes to cause workers and employers to start heading for the exits, and this is what he says.

Practically speaking, current and future employees will not likely pay for benefits accruing to past employees if current employees' contribution rates are significantly more than the value of their own expected pension benefits. If current and future employees will not support the plan, then the options are limited to [the following]: the employer is left to assume more of the past liability; retired employees will receive benefits that are less than promised; or the plan risks insolvency.

So if you're creating through legislation the danger that you're going to see a run on the plan, which is forcing its insolvency, then what that means is that taxpayers may end up having to shoulder a greater portion of the unfunded liability because there will not be as many workers in the plan to be able to get it to solvency.

I would say that although there might be some great progressive reasons to oppose this bill, there are also some great conservative reasons to oppose this bill. I think the government is going absolutely in the wrong direction on this, which is why I support the motion to refer this to committee. Let's wait until the freedom of information requests come back, let's wait until we get the actuarial studies in June, and let's make sure that we're not trying to solve a problem that is already going to solve itself.

Thank you, Mr. Speaker.

The Deputy Speaker: Thank you, hon. leader.
Standing Order 29(2)(a) is available.

Mr. Fawcett: I'm just wondering if I can ask the hon. Leader of the Opposition if one of the reasons she wants this particular bill to go to committee is so that she can explain what her party is proposing as far as making any changes to pensions and why that position has possibly changed and why their new position might possibly, actually, leave a very good chance of a significant amount of liability to future taxpayers.

Mr. Speaker, when she talked about not supporting this bill on conservative principles – we just saw a few minutes ago the hon. leader stand up and not support the budget. One of the main reasons she talked about was not leaving future liabilities to taxpayers. So does she want to go to committee so that she can explain to Albertans why it might not be appropriate to leave financial liabilities for taxpayers in building infrastructure but it's quite all right to leave future financial liabilities to taxpayers by cutting off the defined benefit plan and making all new employees go to a defined contribution plan in the public sector?

The Deputy Speaker: The hon. leader.

Ms Smith: Thank you, Mr. Speaker. I welcome the opportunity to answer that question. One of the differences between our party and how we operate and the way that the governing party operates is that we actually have member-passed policy. So when we put forward ideas, they come forward to our policy convention, and then they get voted up or down. When we get policies voted down, we accept the will of our members.

In point of fact, we had voted on the idea of moving to a defined contribution plan. But I can tell you what our members told us at the AGM. When this policy came forward, the speakers at the mike said that a well-run defined benefit plan can be solvent and can actually be more cost-effective than a defined contribution plan. So they voted it down. Because we are a party that values the grassroots opinion of our members, we accepted that view.

What does a well-run defined benefit plan look like? Well, I can tell you what you could do if you're making any changes. You would follow what other plans have done in both the private sector and the public sector. When you make changes, number one, you negotiate them, which is something that the Auditor General has also acknowledged should be done. Secondly, if you're going to make significant changes, you make them apply to future hires so that when somebody comes in, they know what the rules are rather than unilaterally trying to retroactively change the rules after you've already got somebody in the plan.

I also reject the premise of the associate minister's point, just assuming or declaring that these plans have an unfunded liability that won't be resolved. He obviously didn't listen to any of the points that I raised on behalf of not only the AAMD and C and AUMA and the five different unions that signed the letter to me but also on behalf of his own international and intergovernmental affairs minister, who has acknowledged that because there is a dedicated portion of the premiums that our employers and employees pay, it will go to pay that unfunded liability down. Indeed, last year alone the unfunded liability was reduced by $1 billion.

What we're asking for is for the government to wait until the June actuarial studies come out for both of these plans so that we can actually all be on the same page with the same information in determining what the solvency of the plans actually are.

Right now I'm afraid that the government has absolutely zero credibility in trying to light their hair on fire, claiming that there is a problem when we have the evidence of employers like the AUMA, AAMD and C, and the five main unions with actuarial studies which prove the exact opposite. I'm just not prepared to support a piece of legislation on the government's word. I'm afraid that their word has not demonstrated to have much value over the last couple of years of governance. I think that we need to wait until we have good information before we can make that decision. This is why it needs to go to committee.

Thank you, Mr. Speaker.

The Deputy Speaker: The hon. Member for Calgary-Shaw on 29(2)(a).

Mr. Wilson: Yes. Thank you, Mr. Speaker. Very quickly, I'm wondering if the leader could comment on how she feels the PC leadership race may influence the outcome of this bill.

Ms Smith: I have to say, Mr. Speaker, that I'm sure the potential candidates for future Premier are probably watching this debate with great interest because the fact of the matter is that the government has 300,000 individuals who are impacted by this plan: 150,000 existing workers in the LAPP plan and 50,000 existing retirees . . .

The Deputy Speaker: Thank you, hon. leader.

I'll recognize the next speaker, the hon. Member for Calgary-Varsity, followed by the leader for the Liberal opposition.

Ms Kennedy-Glans: Thank you, Mr. Speaker. I'm very pleased to stand and speak to . . . [interjection]

The Deputy Speaker: The hon. Member for Calgary-Varsity has the floor, hon. member.

Please proceed.

Ms Kennedy-Glans: Thank you, Mr. Speaker. I'm very pleased to rise to speak to the amendment proposed by the Member for Edmonton-Strathcona. I actually quite endorse the recommendation. Again, to follow in the vein of why a conservative, a fiscal conservative in particular, is speaking in support of continued dialogue on this bill, I'd like to elaborate.

In the constituency where I live, in Calgary-Varsity, this issue is one that has really resonated. It's something that we've been talking about for months. Since the Finance minister introduced this change, our office, like many, has received well over 100 very personalized letters. We've had people walk in the door. We've had calls. We've had people just drop by to offer an opinion. This issue really matters to constituents, and it really matters to me. I just want to talk through that a little bit.

Pension reform is important, and I think we all understand the financial reasons for the changes. In 2012 I was very happy to put my name on a bill to amend private-sector pension funds to give more choices to employees and employers and to align Alberta's legislation with the pension legislation of other Canadian provinces. It was thoughtful.

I was and I am fully supportive of a government that's unafraid to make the difficult decisions needed today to ensure long-term prosperity for our children. I heard that from the Member for Calgary-Klein, and I agree with it. These decisions that we make every day have to have fiscal discipline and rigorous scrutiny to ensure that Albertans get value for every dollar spent. This is what it means to me to be a fiscal conservative.

I welcome this government's desire to ensure that private- and public-sector pensions are sustainable and affordable. Like many in this House, I have studied actuarial tables and expert reports to more fully understand the implications of the choices we're making here today as legislators. I've done this to try to figure out for myself and my constituents what the critical questions are. We've heard lots of them. Will the pensions self-correct if we just give them time to recover from the 2008 crisis?

9:00

I've come to the conclusion that the current system does need changing if it's to be adaptive to recent and future fiscal realities. More important than all of that, this legislation is not just about policies and forecasts and actuarial statements; it's about people, my constituents and every one of yours. For my part, I've sat down with dozens and dozens of constituents working through their own pension realities, trying to understand their situations and the implications of the bill on their own lives and their own futures. In many cases this has been a very successful approach. Getting to the facts of an individual pension situation and going through the implications has been helpful. Even when there were material implications, they can understand that.

But what was very alarming to me was the high level of fear that people brought to this process. As an MLA I can't help but reflect that many people, way too many people, are genuinely afraid about their own family's ability to sustain fiscal security postretirement because they don't understand the implications of these proposed changes. I have seen this kind of fear before. Many, many decades ago I was an employee in a large energy company when the company decided to make the shift from defined benefit to defined contribution pension plans. As a lawyer I was brought in to help people understand those choices. Even though a lot of time has passed since then, I can still remember fully that anxiety and in some cases fear that co-workers felt about the process and its outcomes, especially those who were closer to retirement than I was.

What I also remember about that time is how our employer, a big oil company, was patient and understanding as it made the effort to ensure that each employee and our families understood the individual choices and the implications. While it took a long time – it took nearly two years – eventually we got to a place where a majority of employees felt comfortable and secure in those choices, and this was a very, very large company.

I have to say that the constituents I've spoken to on this matter have not generally felt that level of patience and concern from their employer, whether it's the province or another public body. They feel that they have not been involved in a process that informs them as to why the changes are necessary and how those changes might impact their situations, not just their financial situations but their emotional ones as well. These people I have spoken to on this issue understand the need for personal responsibility. They're not asking for a nanny state, but they are asking for better information and input on decisions that affect them.

This government, like other governments, has legislative options in dealing with its employees that are not available to other large private-sector employers in Canada. This government does have the power to enact Bill 9 and to make changes regarding public-sector pensions, but that power must respect the people whose lives will be impacted. Pensions provide emotional and fiscal security to people. If changes are to be made, we need to spend more time educating the public on pensions, as daunting as that task may be, and ensuring that individual employees have access to the information they need to appreciate the implications of their choices and the proposed legislative changes.

I know that members of this government are genuinely committed to giving all interested Albertans a voice in decision-making and policy development, but I think there is much work still to be done on this particular issue. That leaves me as the MLA for Calgary-Varsity in a very difficult position. On the one hand, as somebody who has studied the issue, who is a fiscal conservative, I strongly support pension reform that ensures sustainability of pensions over the long term. This legislation has those elements and calls for my support.

But I can't forget the fear I've heard in the voices and seen on the faces of my constituents. This fear, like most fear, comes from a lack of understanding or knowledge. Before proceeding, the government must try harder to address the critical need for better public understanding of pension reform and better employee understanding of the implications of change. This is not just about ideology or some kind of a power struggle between the government and the public-sector unions. It's a law that would affect individuals, and we all need to figure out a better way to reach out to these employees and engage them more fully in these critical discussions.

In short, it's too soon for the government to bring its legislative hammer down on this debate by enacting reform now without better understanding from employee partners. I cannot support this legislation at this time. Rather, I would encourage the government to pause, as has been suggested, and work with its partners, the public-sector unions to explore better ways to support public and employee understanding of pension reform options and implications. I'd also ask for the inclusion of accounting, actuarial, and other respected professions in this task. Reading actuarial tables is dry, but we all can do a better job of making individual employees have a better understanding of the implications of their choices and of these proposed legislative changes.

Thank you, Mr. Speaker.

The Deputy Speaker: Thank you, hon. member. Standing Order 29(2)(a) is available.

Seeing none, I'll recognize the next speaker. The hon. leader of the Liberal opposition, followed by Edmonton-Highlands-Norwood.

Dr. Sherman: Thank you, Mr. Speaker. On behalf of the Alberta Liberals I stand opposed to Bill 9 and in support of the motion put forward by the hon. Member for Edmonton-Strathcona. I'd like to thank the conservatives to the right of me here in the Wildrose for opposing this bill. They've got good conservative reasons for doing it. I'd like to thank the hon. Member for Calgary-Varsity, who has put forward many very reasonable arguments and conservative reasons for opposing this bill, and I would like to thank the NDP here on our left for the socialist reasons for opposing the bill.

Mr. Speaker, I'd like to give fiscally and socially responsible reasons and, really, reasons of human dignity and human respect for why we should oppose this bill and intellectual arguments for why this bill is unnecessary. First of all, I'd like to take a look at the argument. This argument came forward because the Minister of Finance read a book, this book called The Third Rail, and he had a nightmare, and he got scared, and he panicked. So this government unilaterally, because he read a bedtime story, told us that the pension plan is unsustainable.

Well, let's talk about this. Their own Minister of International and Intergovernmental Relations has said that the pension plan is sustainable and in 12 years it will be fully funded. Why do we have this unfunded liability issue? Well, the majority of the reason is because the cowboys on Wall Street did a horrible job of the markets. In fact, the union leaders have suggested that this could be paid down in nine years.

How is this unfunded liability being paid down? Well, it's being paid down by the employees, the very employees who did not cause this stock market crash. They have elected to pay more money, and they've elected at a time of inflation and growth in Alberta – it's extraordinarily expensive to live here – to forgo wage increases in lieu. You know, they understand the issues of the government and the employer. In lieu of the government increasing their contribution, essentially the employees are almost funding both sides of the argument here, both sides of the unfunded liability. So from $7.5 billion it's been paid down to $6.4 billion and, hey, as was mentioned, if Leo de Bever keeps doing the wonderful job he is at AIMCo, it may be paid off many years fewer than 12 years or even nine years. So that argument holds no water of sustainability.

Then there's the issue of longevity. People are living longer. Well, the mortality tables in Canada were originally based on U.S. mortality tables, so that's already factored in. However, Canadians live longer. You know, we're a little bit healthier. There is a little adjustment to be made on that, but not to the point where it's getting to be unsustainable. So it's a minor adjustment, I believe in the area of – my understanding is it's 1 or 2 per cent. And after this unfunded liability is paid off in five, nine, 12 years, the contribution rates for the employees and the employers will drop.

9:10

I'd like to talk about the other issue. The hon. Premier said that, hey, we're going to have fewer workers and more people collecting, so that's going to be unsustainable. We have three workers for every person who collects. Well, Mr. Speaker, there's no foundation for that. In Alberta the province is growing. We're up to 4 million people. It's a younger province. There are many young people from across the country and across the world moving here. When there are so many citizens in Alberta, so many residents, there's a need for more public services. You're going to need more teachers, more nurses, more doctors, more staff, more people to clean and run the hospitals and the schools and the public buildings and the buildings in which we work. You're going to need more roads to be built and maintained. The more people you have, the more public services we're going to have to deliver.

Now, they're going to say that it's talking about more government. Well, it's not about more government. That's just a foolish argument. You know, if you've got a hundred people, well, you need public services for a hundred. You've got 200 people; you're going to need services for 200. That has nothing to do with more government. The front-line staff aren't about more government. The front-line staff are about more front-line services. There will be a requirement – in fact, we are already so short of front-line workers in the areas of education and health care and social services and community supports for the population we currently have. If the government had the wisdom to actually hire the number of front-line workers that we need, we wouldn't be in chaos and crisis in many of the areas of essential public services. That assertion that, oh, we're going to have more collectees than workers: you know what? That may be true in Quebec, but it's not true in Alberta. You cannot generalize what's happening in Quebec or Ontario to Alberta. That argument holds no water whatsoever.

Mr. Speaker, the other issue that was raised is that these pensions pay 12,000 bucks a year, 15 grand a year. That's chump change in Alberta. We're talking $1,000 to $1,250 a month. What does that get you in this province when your bills are $400 or $500 a month? Have you seen your power and gas bills lately? Well, have you checked the price of gas at the pump? I don't know if these guys have bought groceries lately. They might be getting free meals all the time on the taxpayers' dime, but for the regular Albertan the cost of food, cost of clothing, cost of housing is immense. So $1,000 to $1,250 a month is poverty level.

Oh, yeah, Mr. Speaker. I forgot to talk about the cost of medications. Do you know how much medication costs these days? For seniors to be getting $1,000 to $1,250 a month – well, I'll tell you one thing, hon. members on that side. We might fix them up in the medical system, but if they can't afford their drugs – guess what? – they're coming back to the hospital again.

So what I'm alluding to here is poverty, Mr. Speaker. In the wealthiest place in the country, if not the planet: poverty. We already have 90,000 children living in poverty. Well, I don't know if these guys on the conservative side understand that poor children have poor moms and dads. Okay? Poor kids don't have rich parents. Now you're going to turn their grandparents into poor grandparents. So you're going to have three generations all living in poverty.

Well, here are the effects of poverty. The reality is that in the Capital health region, according to a study done years ago, poor men die seven years before rich men. And before you die, there is a ton of human suffering that happens. Many visits to the health system happen, many medications that need to be had.

The effects of poverty. I was at the food bank earlier today, and some members from the conservative government were there. Well, we have a lot of people in our province, in this city right here, in the capital city, who go to the food bank because of food insecurity.

The effects of hunger on the human body and the human condition. Mr. Speaker, I was born in the developing world, in a third-world country. I can't believe that these conditions exist in the wealthiest place on the planet. This policy will only exacerbate these conditions.

I'll tell you one thing, hon. members on that side. You think that you might be saving a few bucks over here, but get ready to pay more for homelessness, poverty, addictions, mental health, and the health care system over here. Way more on this side. That's what unsustainable, the costs of health care because people are sick, and many of them are sick because they're poor. Seniors in poverty are at even higher risk than younger people in poverty because their health conditions can be much worse. So if you think you've got problems in health care today, you just wait. Pass this policy. You just wait. We will be busier than ever in the emergency departments.

I want to talk about the morale, the dignity of the very people that built this province, the 24-hour health responders, the police officers, the firefighters, the paramedics, the front-line staff in the hospitals, those teachers, and those heroes who help all our public buildings run. They do every job there is. These are not the highest paid folks amongst us in our society. The morale of the health care workers, you know, is at about 52 per cent already demoralized. The morale of the public service, the civil service, is at 47 per cent because of actions like bills 45 and 46 and because of the fact that they're doing more work for more people with less resources and less pay and no respect. They're already taking home way less because of the cowboys on Wall Street. They're paying off their own unfunded liability and taking no pay raise at a time of inflation.

This will only seek to demoralize the workforce even more, the civil workforce and the front-line workforce, that's going to actually look after all of you when you get sick or when your family gets sick – and I hope they don't – and educate your children and grandchildren. When you demoralize front-line staff, as any businessman will tell you – you know what? – that's bad for business. People become less productive. When morale is low, your stress levels are high, your cortisol levels are high, your injury rates are higher, and your sickness rates are higher. When that happens – guess what? – then your overtime costs are going to go up. This is only going to seek to demoralize even further a front-line workforce that's already demoralized. Whether you're a Liberal, a Conservative, or a New Democrat, this is just common sense here, my dear friends.

Mr. Speaker, when people retire – you know, women are wiser than we men are, and women live longer than men in our society. Guess what? This is going to affect the widows. You're going to have a lot of women who are widows, who are going to have to deal with this. I know; I lost my father three years ago. My mother is a 75-year-old widow, and she's healthy. Dad worked in the mill. He was a union guy. He worked at Weldwood in Squamish. He didn't earn much. You know, he could have started a business, but he decided to take a lower wage in lieu of benefits for his family. He thought he'd have a little pension, he'd work hard for less money, and he and his wife would be looked after, and if he passed away, his wife would be looked after. They made sure that all the kids in the family got an education, so we did okay, and we made sure that mom and dad were okay.

But, I'll tell you, in many families you've got a lot of seniors whose children are somewhere else in the world or whose children aren't doing well themselves. Our widows are already living in poverty, and we're only going to exacerbate this even more. This is an attack on the women in our society.

By the way, Mr. Speaker, talking about women, women don't earn what men earn in our society. They don't earn what men earn, and this is going to hurt mothers and women and grandmothers. I ask those members on that side – you've got the majority of the votes. You can pass this bill – no problem – but I urge you to listen to these arguments.

Mr. Speaker, then there's the issue of the cost of living. The Premier said that I don't know what I'm talking about and that I should read the material again. Well, I read his answer. He said: "The major change with respect to cost of living is going from a defined cost-of-living adjustment process to a targeted one, one that's based on return on investment." So he's going to make the pension dependent upon the same cowboys on Wall Street who caused the problem to begin with.

9:20

Mr. Speaker, this is nothing more than a Republican-style attack on the very people that build this province and country each and every day as well as the cities and all of our municipalities, who run our universities, run our schools, run our hospitals, and run our democratic institutions. That's all this is.

Mr. Speaker, I want to talk about mandate. The former Premier who recently resigned did not run on this issue. It affects directly 300,000 people. They've got family members, so that's about 600,000 people, family members, that vote. Well, maybe they have more family members. They also have children and grandchildren. This government did not run on this during the election. The current Premier wasn't democratically elected as Premier by the people of the province. They're going to have another leader coming in September. We say: put this aside; let's run on this next election.

The Deputy Speaker: Standing Order 29(2)(a) is available. The hon. Member for Calgary-Mountain View.

Dr. Swann: Thanks, Mr. Speaker. Well, I was eager to hear just the end of what the hon. leader has to say about this important amendment that's been proposed.

The Deputy Speaker: The hon. Member for Edmonton-Meadowlark.

Dr. Sherman: Thank you very much, hon. member. As I said, let's put this issue off till the election. I challenge the governing party to show some real courage. I propose that this be an election issue.

Mr. Speaker, the pension plans are sustainable. We should be hiring more front-line workers, delivering more public services for the increasing number of Albertans. In fact, the ratio of front-line workers probably should be 4 to 1 or 5 to 1 for the amount of people that live here. We need to hire more front-line staff. We're a younger province. These pension changes are unnecessary.

Mr. Speaker, then there's the last thing. Here's why I think this government is doing this. One, it's absolute power. Absolute power corrupts. After 43 years they actually believe that they can do anything they want and get away with it. They think Albertans aren't watching because, you know, this is the mid-election cycle. It's two years away. This government has collectively managed to cheese off everybody in society. Everybody. There's nobody that's happy with them right now. But, I'll tell you, hon. members on that side, you are messing with the seniors and the pensioners and the baby boomers and their spouses and their children. If you are arrogant enough to think that you're going to win this next election, I strongly urge most of you in the backbenches to vote against your interim Premier and your cabinet. You backbenchers are the moral authority of that government, that caucus, if conservative, social, moral, and intellectual arguments aren't enough to convince you.

One good thing, Mr. Speaker, is that when this government drops – not if, when – I'm pleased to see that all the good parties on this side, from the New Democrats to the Liberals to the Wildrose and the hon. independent Member for Calgary-Varsity – after the next election will all reverse whatever decision they make.

Mr. Speaker, oh, gosh. You know, I think I probably made too many arguments for that side to handle. If the Finance minister were to read these arguments, he might have another nightmare.

Mr. Speaker, I believe that we should all as members strive to build a strong economy and a strong society that puts the very people who build this province at the forefront, that shows them the respect and dignity that they deserve. If we do that, I believe we can all build a much better province together. It's all about dignity and respect and doing the right thing in the wealthiest place in the world. I'll tell you, the main question in the next election is actually about inequality, fairness, justice, and dignity. This bill proposes to increase inequality, increase unfairness, and is going to increase the fact that many people can't even afford justice anymore. They've even cut legal aid.

That's what this bill is about. It's about inequality, and inequality, we all know – even the Conservatives here know – is actually going to cost you more money down the road. It's going to cost you more money down the road, and the major increases in spending in this country, in this province are health care and social services. Health care and social services and homelessness and the effects of poverty and addictions. Not only is it going to cost more money; it's actually just going to increase human suffering. It's going to increase human suffering, and when you spend over there, you're going to cut even more your kids' education and teachers and the support that our communities need to build a strong, thriving province.

Mr. Speaker, I thank you for this opportunity to speak to this very important topic.

The Deputy Speaker: Thank you, hon. member.

I recognize the Member for Edmonton-Highlands-Norwood, followed by Airdrie.

Mr. Mason: Thank you very much, Mr. Speaker. I'm happy to rise and speak to this most excellent amendment that has been made to Bill 9 by my colleague the MLA for Edmonton-Strathcona.

Before I begin, I just want to reference the call we just heard from the leader of the Liberal Party for an immediate election to be fought on this question. Perhaps the only party less prepared than the Progressive Conservatives for an election right now might be the Liberal Party. I would suggest to the hon. leader that he may want to reregister his 52 constituency associations and get his fundraising into six digits before he faces the next election.

Mr. Speaker, this is a motion to refer Bill 9 to the Standing Committee on Alberta's Economic Future. I think that's very appropriate because this is, in fact, a question of hundreds of thousands of Albertans' economic future. It's important for them and their families and for their own piece of mind, but it's also a significant impact on the economy. If future retirees don't have the money to live comfortably and with dignity, it not only affects them; it affects the rest of the economy through reduced spending but also increased costs for health care, public housing, and that sort of thing. So I think it's very appropriate.

I think the hon. Leader of the Official Opposition made some good points in her comments with regard to reasons why we might want to have more discussion, potentially even some public hearings at the committee level, before we proceed with second reading of this bill. That would allow us to listen to Albertans and listen to people who are currently in the pension and people who have paid into it and may be receiving benefits or are expecting to about their situation. We could ask questions of the government with regard to the actuarial studies that they've conducted. We could talk to the people who serve on the pension boards who have opposed this particular piece of legislation and draw upon their expertise in making a decision that, I think, would serve well all Albertans, not just public employees.

I think that the government has to answer some questions. They haven't been adequately answered in the debate here today, I'm afraid to say, and I regret that. One of the biggest questions that I have, Mr. Speaker, is for the Minister of Finance with regard to his claim that this is about taking action to protect pensions and to make sure they're viable in the future. You know, in order to make sure that a pension plan is viable, you need to make sure that there are enough people paying enough money in contributions because they're employed in order to meet the obligations to those people who have retired and are receiving the benefits. So we need to take a close look at that question.

9:30

You can deal with it in one of two ways, Mr. Speaker, or maybe one of three ways. If there are more people employed, then there are more contributions. If there are fewer people employed but you raise the contribution rates for the employees and for the employer, then you can increase the revenue to meet your obligations. Or, if necessary, you could reduce the benefits that are received to bring the plan into balance that way. Those are all options. I'm not suggesting that we do the latter. Those are things that support the argument of the Finance minister that they want to protect the viability of the pension. If we take it as a given that he's saying that we need to take that action – and I don't agree with him – then one of those three things or some combination of those three things would be necessary.

The interesting thing about this bill, Mr. Speaker, is that it has a couple of provisions that run counter to the Finance minister's claim that he wants to protect these pensions. The first one is the cap on contributions because that limits the ability of the pension boards to bring the plans back into balance and, as a result, limits their ability to make sure that the pensions are sustainable and viable in the long run. That's contrary to the minister's claim that what he's really doing is trying to protect people's pensions. That's number one.

The second one contained also in this bill, Mr. Speaker, has to do with the government passing legislation to protect itself from liability. The government will no longer be liable for anyone's losses in the plan as a result of changes that are being brought about. So the government protects itself from being liable for any losses people receive as a result of lower pensions because of the impact of this legislation. More significant, perhaps, is that the government is protecting itself from liability in case the plans fail and is limiting the liability for the remaining assets of the pension fund itself. So they are taking themselves and the public, therefore, off the hook should these plans fail. Now, that also speaks to the minister's assertion that he wants to protect the plans because what he's really doing is that if push comes to shove, he's going to throw the plans and pensioners under the bus. That's what he's saying.

So I think there are some real contradictions in what the Minister of Finance is saying about the intention of this bill. I think that, in fact, we should have an opportunity in the committee to grill the minister about these contradictions, and I think he needs to provide us with some really clear and rational explanation for this apparently contradictory direction that's contained in the plan.

There are some other things, Mr. Speaker. Of course, we know that an increasing number of Canadians, including Albertans, don't have adequate retirement finances and that more and more Canadians will retire into poverty. The solution that's been advanced across Canada and supported by nine of 10 provinces was a major overhaul and improvement in the Canada pension plan. That, I think, would have been a very significant and timely step to take. Unfortunately, under a previous Minister of Finance it was the province of Alberta that blocked direction in this way. It was led by several other provinces, but Alberta opposed that direction. Ultimately, the former Minister of Finance federally, who recently passed away, finally put an end to the discussions with respect to improving the Canada pension plan.

Now, that's not directly related to the bill, Mr. Speaker. It's a related issue, but it is something that I think bears some exploration by the committee as well. I think, going beyond just this bill, that this Legislature ought to have a more comprehensive discussion about the retirement situation of Albertans. These public pension plans cover a very significant number of Albertans: 250,000 people, a very significant chunk. But many Albertans have no pension protection at all. Certainly, the companion bill to Bill 9, which is Bill 10, gives the government the authority to assist private employers and public pension plans not covered by Bill 9 to convert from a defined benefit plan to a targeted benefit plan. There are many questions that need to be asked about that.

I would actually support not only this motion to refer Bill 9 but would really like to see a similar motion with respect to Bill 10 because it has actually received very little public attention, Mr. Speaker. The government, in terms of Bill 9 and the public pension plans, did do a briefing for the unions representing the workers covered under these plans, and they took the initiative to make a major public campaign. So the public is generally aware of the contents of Bill 9, and there has been some healthy public debate with regard to that.

But with respect to Bill 10, which may potentially affect hundreds of thousands of other Albertans' pension rights, there has been almost no discussion, no coverage. When we debated it last night in second reading, we went until after 1 o'clock in the morning. Who's listening then? You know, the media has gone home. There might be a few people who can't get a hockey game or something on TV and manage to tune in to us for a brief period of time and may have seen some of it. But generally that discussion, that debate, took place in a vacuum. Again, I think Bill 10 is a related issue, and I would really like to see it also considered in the Standing Committee on Alberta's Economic Future.

I do really think that what we need to emphasize here is that very small changes in these plans can have very big effects on individuals. These changes can trigger bigger changes within the plans themselves that may be unanticipated. I think that's one of the things that we also need to explore. If people have to work – and I've been talking to different groups of public employees, as has my caucus, over the past several weeks. Just yesterday I went to speak to my old union, my own union, the Amalgamated Transit Union local 569, which represents the city of Edmonton transit employees. One of the people, after we'd had a bit of a discussion about the changes, said: "You know what? I really just feel like I would like to get the hell out of this pension plan and figure out something else to do." Now, she doesn't have that authority. She can't do that. But I do feel that there is a real risk that when we present people with a fait accompli, where they don't really have any say, and we tell them that they have to work longer and they will get a reduced pension, then I think there's a great deal of frustration. At some point there may be a real run on the plan. The way people are talking about it is to head for the doors before the changes to the plan take effect, to get out before those changes take effect. I think that that's something we need to take into account.

9:40

Aside from that, Mr. Speaker, we know that more and more seniors are retiring into poverty, and very slight changes in the plan – for example, reducing the COLA, increasing the penalties for early retirement, and reducing the capacity of the boards to adjust contribution levels – may actually have a result quite the opposite of what the minister is claiming. I think this is true in a very real way.

This bill converts the public-sector pension plans from defined benefit plans into targeted benefit plans because there is a limitation on the capacity of the boards to manage difficulty, to manage difficult economic circumstances. They may have no choice sometime down the road but to actually reduce the benefits that are paid. That is in every sense of the word a targeted benefit plan. So that's also something that I think the minister has not been particularly straightforward with.

Thank you, Mr. Speaker.

The Deputy Speaker: Thank you.

Hon. members, Standing Order 29(2)(a) is available. The Associate Minister of Recovery and Reconstruction for Southeast Alberta.

Mr. Weadick: Thank you, Mr. Speaker. I wasn't going to stand and speak to this issue tonight, but listening to the hon. member across just kind of piqued me a little bit that I should stand up and maybe just say a few things that are on my mind.

Mr. Speaker, I support our public sector, and I support the fact that they have pensions. It's great that they do because 80 per cent of Albertans don't have a pension. Eighty per cent of Albertans and probably 80 per cent of Canadians don't have a pension to rely on, so when the markets go up and down or when the interest rates go up and down, they adjust their lifestyle and just try to get by the best that they can because that's what they have. [interjections] I'm hoping the member across would be willing to listen because I listened quietly to him.

We have a lot of people in the province that don't have a pension plan, and they work and get by. We've heard that maybe sometime in the future, maybe if things go terribly wrong, there may be a small reduction in a pension or they may have to change some of the increases to a smaller amount.

But I want to tell you, Mr. Speaker, the thing that really piqued me was when the member opposite said that the government is protecting itself from liability. The government is only a representative of the taxpayers of this province. We're not protecting ourselves. I have nothing to protect myself from. We have 4 million people out there, most of whom don't have pensions, that are going to be picking up all of the liability for all of these pensions if anything changes, and this seems to be just okay with people across the floor. I'm surprised by one group across the floor, that they're so quickly willing to throw the taxpayers of this province under the bus.

So you can talk about some pensioned people who might see a small reduction at some time. I'm talking about 4 million people that don't have pensions that all of you want to throw under the bus, and I'm a little disturbed by that. I want to ask the member: how can you so quickly and so easily throw the taxpayers under the bus to try to protect something? We want to make sure people pay their fair share and get a pension for it. You seem to want to have the taxpayers pick up anything and all that's left over. You want to willy-nilly have them pay whatever has to be. Don't forget that as an employer in this plan the government will still have an equal liability with the employees in that plan. We'll still have a responsibility to work with them to make sure that that pension is there, but we aren't throwing the entire population, every taxpayer in this province, under the bus. Can you tell me why you're willing to throw them under the bus?

Mr. Mason: I'm absolutely not advocating throwing the taxpayers under the bus. What I am saying is that the government is laying the groundwork for a potential failure of this plan, and they know it, so they want to make sure that they have no liabilities at all with respect to this plan. That's what I'm saying. What I'm saying, really, is that the government is not protecting the pensions of its own employees. It's reducing their pensions, it's reducing the COLA amount, and it's going to reduce the ability of the pension boards to manage the plans and to keep them out of trouble. Ultimately, it's going to convert these plans from a defined benefit to a targeted benefit plan, and that's the government's objective.

The government also has not talked about the other piece that I think we need to talk about, and that is: what are they planning to do with the level of government employment in this province? Are they planning to privatize more of the government services and reduce the number of people that are available to support this plan, and is that one of the reasons why this legislation is here? I think, Mr. Speaker, that's a question that needs to be asked because we know that this government tries to privatize things wherever it can.

It's privatizing all of the lab services in the Edmonton area right now despite promising to protect public health care in the province. We know that it has downloaded most of the social services onto private and not-for-profit agencies. We know that the former Premier ran on that in her platform because we actually downloaded her website, and we know what she promised, and we know what the Conservative Party promised to do the last election, and that was part and parcel of their campaign promises.

I think there are a lot of issues that need to be explored, and that's one of the points that I wanted to make, not that I think that the taxpayers should be thrown under the bus or be on the hook for whatever goes wrong but that the government is increasing their chances that something will go wrong, and one of the things that it's doing is to protect itself in case this plan fails altogether, Mr. Speaker.

Thank you.

The Deputy Speaker: Thank you, hon. member.

There are three seconds left. By the time you get up, hon. member, the time will already have expired, and it has.

I'll recognize the Member for Airdrie, followed by Edmonton-Calder.

Mr. Anderson: Well, I am happy to continue to express my opposition and the Wildrose opposition to Bill 9 and certainly support this motion by the NDP opposition with regard to referring this to committee.

Mr. Speaker, let us not lose sight of who this affects. We're not talking about rich executives in office towers, people making $300,000, $400,000, $500,000 a year with huge severance packages. That's not who we're talking about here. We're talking about front-line workers. We're talking about police officers. We're talking about sheriffs and guards. We're talking about nurses. We're talking about social workers and janitors cleaning the crud off hospital floors.

That's the type of people that we're talking about here, civil servants, front-line workers that are not making huge amounts of money. They're making $60,000, $50,000, $40,000, $70,000 a year. Probably both people in the family, if it's a couple, are working, working hard for their kids, trying to put them through university, trying to pay the mortgage on the house, going on a small, one- or two-week vacation every year to somewhere decent. These are the type of people we're talking about here. We're not talking about high rollers, as we've seen in the executive offices of AHS and, of course, in the Premier's office and other places in this government. That's not who we're talking about here.

We're talking about pensioners and people who are about to take in pensions who are making pensions of roughly $1,200, $1,400 a month. Could you survive on $1,200 or $1,400 a month, Mr. Speaker? I know that I'd sure have trouble with that. Now, of course, clearly they know that they've paid into CPP. [interjection] Okay. Someone over there says: oh, they have their CPP. So they're making $2,200 a month. Could we all survive on $2,200 a month? Is that a lot of money? I don't think so. Twenty-two hundred dollars a month pays my mortgage, electricity, gas, and maybe a couple hundred bucks of groceries for my kids' never-ending appetite. This is not a lot of money we're talking about here.

Now, I want to be very clear who this is affecting. It's not just affecting those workers. It's affecting their spouses. It's affecting their kids. It's affecting their extended families to certain degrees. A lot of these folks take care of their grandmothers or their parents and their grandparents, and when money gets tight, they can't take care of them as well anymore. This affects a lot of people. I would say that by some estimates you're talking about 500,000 voters, certainly 200,000 to 300,000 voters. You're certainly talking about that.

9:50

You know, it just amazes me that this PC Party, this PC government, would be so ill-informed and arrogant that they would make these changes in spite of all the people that this is going to affect and not think that there are going to be massive ramifications for those people that are injured, and frankly it will have massive political ramifications. I've heard it said by members over there: "Well, we want to get this passed real quick. We want to get this passed real, real quick because we don't want to put this in the next leader's lap." You don't think this is going to be in the next leader's lap? You think people are going to have collective amnesia in Alberta? All 4 million people are just going to all of a sudden forget about this type of reckless governance? They're not, Mr. Speaker.

Now, I want to be absolutely clear about the Wildrose position on this. We released a statement, of course, on April 17, when we learned about Bill 9. It says as follows. This is the following statement on the Public Sector Pension Plans Amendment Act, which threatens existing public pension benefits for hard-working Albertans across the province.

As usual, the PC government's standard operating procedure on labour relations issues is that of bullying instead of [conducting] good faith negotiations.

Wildrose has long supported the view that contracts and agreements must be respected. That includes the pension arrangements promised to current public sector workers and pensioners who chose their careers in the public sector based, at least in part, on the promise of the current public pension arrangement.

Although we feel some reforms to the current system may be needed to ensure the long term sustainability of public pensions, we believe that any such changes need to be negotiated openly and respectfully with union leadership, and that any substantial changes should only be applied to workers who have yet to be hired, rather than those already employed or retired.

Wildrose is committed to repealing Bill 9 if elected in 2016, along with Bills 45 and 46 which also unjustly ignore the legal rights of our public-sector employees.

[interjection] I know the Member for Edmonton-Gold Bar is upset about this whole situation, and I know that people in his riding who take their pensions are going to be real happy with his support of this bill. I'm sorry you feel a little bit sore about that. You know, it's sad. It's going to cost you a lot of votes, a lot of support, a lot of embarrassing moments for you for sure, but that's no reason to heckle in this House. You should just sit and listen and learn something.

Now, there are several principles that Wildrose believes in with regard to public pension changes if there are going to be changes. First of all, any changes absolutely must be negotiated in good faith. You cannot poison the well with our public-sector workers by acting like bullies. Bill 45, Bill 46, Bill 9: all these bills have one thing in common. The government couldn't get the job done at the negotiating table. They failed. They failed, failed, failed.

Because they failed, instead of doing what's right and getting back to the negotiating table or going to an arbitrator or a mediator, et cetera, instead of doing that, they said: "No. We're just going to use the hammer that we have as the majority government here. Despite what we said in the election to these public-sector workers and all the promises we made of being reasonable, et cetera, et cetera, et cetera, despite all that, we're just going to bring the hammer, and we're going to get our way no matter what." That's what they said. They said: "We're not going to negotiate. We don't have to negotiate. We're the government. People will vote for us no matter what we do." That's the attitude. So they pass these things, and they bring these things forward without proper consultation, without any proper negotiation with our public-sector unions.

We believe very strongly that any changes to public-sector pensions need to be negotiated in good faith with the people that are affected, and that, of course, means union leadership. I don't care if you're from the left, the right, the middle, up, down. It doesn't matter. That's just integrity. That's just integrity, Mr. Speaker. It's governing with integrity in good faith. You don't have to agree with someone on the ideological spectrum to have a good-faith negotiation with them. You don't. You can have disagreements on things, and you can still sit down as friends at the negotiating table, as fellow Albertans that want to see good public services for the people of Alberta, and hammer out a deal that makes sense for all people involved, all stakeholders involved. This has not been done here.

The second point and the second principle is that any changes to the public pension plan, if they are negotiated, need to be grandfathered. They need to be grandfathered in and only apply to future hires and not existing hires, and it's very simple, the reason why this should be so. When somebody signs up for a career in social work, nursing, policing, whatever, they do so, and they say: look, I'm going to take a little bit less up front as a public-sector worker than I could make if I went and worked in the oil and gas sector or in business, et cetera, et cetera. They say: I'm going to take a little less up front, and I'm going to do so because (a) I love public service and (b) I'm going to have a nice secure pension at the end. Not a huge pension, not some extravagant thing like we talked about with AHS and so forth, but a pension, something that they can count on for their retirement, and they can budget their investments, they can budget their lives and plan their lives according to that set of circumstances, those expectations.

So for example, you know, a police officer. Highly stressful, stressful job. Social worker. Highly stressful job. They may say: "Okay. I'm going to work real hard for this period of time, and then I'm going to take early retirement, two or three or four years early. I'm going to do that because I'm going to be very stressed out after doing this for 30 years or 35 years or whatever. So I'm going to take early retirement, and that's going to be part of my plan. So I'm going to invest a little bit more up front. I'm going to save my pennies, save my dollars a little bit more up front so that I can take that early retirement and that early pension."

For the government to come along and say, "No. Sorry; I know you've been planning that, but too bad. We're going to pull the rug out from underneath you, and you're just going to have to make do" is not governing with integrity. That is not fair, Mr. Speaker. You can't pull the rug out from not only our existing pensioners but, specifically with this bill, existing workers that are already paying into the plan, and that includes younger workers, ones that have only been on the job five, 10 years. They still made a decision based on, essentially, an employment contract with the government, and that employment contract included the pension arrangement that they have had promised to them. So you don't pull the rug out.

Also, we have to look at some of the examples where grandfathering has worked. In Saskatchewan, for example, we had the NDP government at the time, in 1977, Allan Blakeney's NDP government. They made some pension changes to the public-sector plan. I'm not saying that that's needed here, but in that case they switched from a defined benefit to a defined contribution. That was the switch that was made, but what they did was that they grandfathered it. They said: okay; for everybody who's already paid into the system, they get the defined benefits that they were promised, and we're starting this new system with new hires.

Now, I'm not saying that we need that to make sure we have sustainability in our current pension plan, but the point is, the principle is, that it was grandfathered because the NDP at that time in Saskatchewan respected the rights of the people who had already paid into the plan and respected the decisions that they made with regard to their career, and that is to be respected. You can agree or disagree whether defined benefit, defined contribution, or targeted, pooled pension plans, whatever it is. Any changes made after they're negotiated should only apply to new workers that have not been hired yet.

We also have to make sure that when we're negotiating these new pension plans, if there are negotiations in this regard, we still have them at a point where our pension arrangements will attract new workers. That's important. It is tough to find good workers in Alberta right now because it's so competitive. People are snatching up our university students and all kinds of folks right away into the oil and gas sector, business sector, ag, science sectors, you know, biotech, and you just go on and on and on, environmental sciences. There are lots of great things going on in this province with regard to our workers. So it's extremely competitive. Have we made sure that this new pension arrangement is going to be able to still attract the people that we want into the public service? I don't know. The Auditor General says that that determination has not been studied. It was in his last recommendations that it be studied. I don't see any proof that it has been studied.

10:00

The fourth point is that we need to be very careful – and the Liberal leader noted this – to make sure that we don't try to save a couple of bucks here and then lose 20 bucks over there. When we cut people's pensions and when we cut what their retirement is going to be – you know what? – you don't want to retire people into poverty. You don't want to do that.

Now, I'm not saying that these changes are going to guarantee everyone is going to be retired into poverty. I'm not saying that. But, you know, when you're making $1,200 a month in your pension or $2,200 with CPP included, you're walking a fine line. Hopefully, there are other monies that you've saved. Maybe it's $3,000, whatever, that you're making every month. Inflation is going up, gas bills are going up, electricity bills are going up, rent is going up, the costs for a lot of food are going up, everything is going up, and we shouldn't be looking at decreasing the size of the pensions of our workers, especially the workers we're talking about here, these front-line workers making very modest wages and modest pensions.

We don't want to retire people into poverty. That will have long-term costs – health costs, social costs, other costs – that far outweigh the costs of the money saved by making these changes to the public-sector pension plan.

How much time do I have, Mr. Speaker?

The Deputy Speaker: Nine seconds.

Mr. Anderson: Nine seconds. Well, I look forward to taking any questions in that regard, but we need to stop Bill 9 in its tracks, Mr. Speaker.

The Deputy Speaker: Thank you, hon. member.

Standing Order 29(2)(a) is available. I recognize the Member for Edmonton-Highlands-Norwood.

Mr. Mason: Thanks very much, Mr. Speaker. I'm a little confused and a little bit curious because the hon. Member for Airdrie talked about a process by which existing plan members would be grandfathered, but earlier I heard his leader stand up and say that that proposal had been shot down at a policy meeting of the Wildrose Party. So what is your position?

Mr. Anderson: A very good question. Well, what happens in our party is that sometimes members will come forward with propositions, and, you know, they'll make policy presentations at the AGMs that we have. We have a very grassroots process. We have about a thousand members come to these things.

Some Hon. Members: How many?

Mr. Anderson: Whoa. That woke people up. They're sensitive. They're at 15 per cent in the polls right now. It's tough. They're battling for fourth place. It's a tough competition, so they're a little sensitive on that stuff.

Anyway, what happened is that somebody brought up a proposal at the last AGM and said: "You know what? I think we should do what Saskatchewan did. I think we should move from a defined benefit contribution plan in the public service to a defined contribution public plan." They gave their reasons for doing so. Well, they have that right. Everyone has that right.

What was the vote against that? The vote was about – I don't know – 80-20 against. It was overwhelmingly defeated. And guess what? It was defeated for the reasons I'm stating here. The fact of the matter is that, you know, we can be all ideological about what works, but one thing you learn in this job is that ideology is not all that it's cracked up to be. You have to do what makes sense, Mr. Speaker. You have to put ideology back there and just make decisions that are right for Albertans. I know the PCs don't understand that. For some reason they're so ideological: no matter what, they just hate unions. If you belong to a union, they won't listen to them. They say: "You belong to a union? You're a left-wing crazy." That's what they say, and they just won't listen.

Here in the Wildrose we have a much more moderate approach. We believe in listening to the cases of our union members and our front-line workers, taking their suggestions, and listening to them. Listening to them: that's the key. That's why we're not introducing Bill 45, Bill 46, and Bill 9. That's why we're not doing that. Instead of having an ideological solution to everything like our PC friends, we believe in common-sense solutions that actually serve the people of Alberta.

I know that the PC tactic and, to a lesser extent, the tactic of the NDP as well as the Libs is to try to paint other parties as extreme. They try to say: "Okay. You've got to put the Wildrose in this little box, the Liberals and the NDP, the socialists, over here, and we're the moderates." That's what the PC strategy has been for the last several years. But that's not how Albertans think, certainly not anymore. They want common-sense solutions. They want respect. They just want solutions to come forward that work for Albertans. An ideological hammer like Bill 9 is an ideological solution to a complex problem that is not going to help regular Albertans.

The Wildrose is not interested in that. I'm not interested in that. I'm interested in making good-faith negotiations with our public-sector workers and passing amendments and agreeing to contracts that are fair for our front-line workers and also, of course, fair for taxpayers. But that should be done in good faith at the negotiating table, not using some kind of bully pulpit to pass a piece of junk like Bill 9. That's what it is. [interjections] I know. Those are harsh words. Those are harsh words: piece of junk.

An Hon. Member: A piece of gum?

Mr. Anderson: A piece of gum. A piece of gum.

You know what? I have more to say about your question, hon. member. I think this member should be happy.

Mr. Mason: I'm ecstatic.

Mr. Anderson: When we first formed the Wildrose Party over here, this hon. member – he's been kind of like a sensei to me. He has been a sensei to me. He has taught me so much not only about House procedure but also about the struggle of every day, and I appreciate that very much, Mr. Speaker.

The Deputy Speaker: Thank you, hon. member.

Hon. members, I don't manage to hear every word that's said, but might I remind us all that we have some parliamentary traditions that we try to avoid certain words. I'll leave it at that.

I'll recognize the Member for Edmonton-Calder.

Mr. Eggen: Well, thank you, Mr. Speaker. I'm not sure exactly how to move past that. I know that we hit a certain distillation point of ideas and of rhetoric, and when I heard the hon. Member for Airdrie say that ideology is not all that it's cracked up to be, I think maybe we hit a high point for the evening.

I hate to move on after that, but certainly it's important for us to speak, I think, succinctly and critically on the motion to refer this particular bill. I think it's a great opportunity. We've heard so much already to the negative side of this pension issue that it's probably the most sensible thing to do. We've had independent members speaking out in favour of this amendment to refer. Opposition parties are united on that, too. So perhaps as a way by which we can defuse the tension that this pension is creating and will continue to create, all members should in fact support the hon. Member for Edmonton-Strathcona's motion to refer this particular bill at this time.

It took me a while to absorb the totality of what's happening with both Bill 9 and Bill 10, but I'm starting to get a sense of it. You know, initially I was confused because I do have a personal respect for the Finance minister, and he was so emphatically saying: "No, no, no. None of these things are true. It's just not happening that way." Then I started to realize that it's the process that they are changing here, and it's the process by which further change can happen in the future. While the Finance minister might be a person of honour and respect and has the best of intentions – right? – if he's creating this bill by which all the decision-making capacity moves to Executive Council and to the ministry on the pensions of hundreds of thousands of public service workers here in the province of Alberta, well, you know, that's just not good politics, nor is it a practical solution moving forward because, of course, everybody changes. You come and you go in these positions.

10:10

While the Finance minister is making these promises that everything will be fine, well, you know, we don't know who might be in the position a few months from now, a few weeks from now. You just simply can't in good faith move past that idea that: oh, well, we promised in Executive Council, behind closed doors, by ministerial authority that we will maintain the integrity of these pensions for now and for the future.

Plus, you know, this is essentially a labour bill. It comes along in a stream of labour legislation and proposed legislation that we've seen over these last few months. Do you know what? I think that regular working people, not just public-sector workers but regular working people in general, have had enough of being kicked around by this government, and this just looks like another good, fat kick by the PC government to the pants of regular working people. It's not just in regard to wages, it's not just in regard to working conditions, but now this is the retirement security, the security for the future, that everybody works for in some modest way, not just to have that money there to live a life of luxury but to live modestly and to live in dignity in retirement.

Mr. Speaker, it's the process that's changing here. It's the process that I'm most concerned about, this idea that we're shifting almost all risk and liability in this plan to the workers while shifting most of the decision-making powers to the minister or to the Lieutenant Governor in Council. I mean, how can you in good faith make that choice, the idea that you lose, that you absolve the risk and that the risk goes to the workers and that all of the decision-making process goes to the government? I mean, that in itself is an imbalance that would suggest that it's only reasonable that we take this reference to just take two steps back on this legislation here at this time.

If this bill passes, the minister could unilaterally set maximum contribution rates and the ratio to be paid by employers and employees through the plan and benefit reductions, including benefits accrued prior to January 1, 2016. All terms transitioning the plan from one plan to the other here are not in the best interests of the workers.

Also, this plan allows regulations to differentiate by employee class, thus opening the door to changing the 85 factor to a 90 factor or a 95 factor or whatever is decided by Executive Council or by the minister.

This bill reduces the liability to the Crown, the Minister, an employer or any member of a Board . . . and no action or proceeding may be brought against such a person or entity, for any losses, costs or damages arising directly or indirectly in respect of that reduction of benefit or increase in contributions.

So the absolution of risk by the Crown, the increase in responsibility onto the working contributors, and this very sort of fracturing of the very tenuous nature of what it means to have a pension in the first place.

Mr. Speaker, a pension is meant to be a long game. It's supposed to take place over a period of 30 or 40 or 50 years. When you start to change the rules by which that very long game is played, then it not only jeopardizes the pensions and the capacity to pay the pensions to people that have already retired, but it reduces the likelihood that the people who are paying into the pensions, so the younger workers, are going to get a reasonable benefit from their contributions when it's their turn to take that retirement package. It's a contract. It's a binding contract between generations, and it's not something that you can make decisions about based on things that are happening in a one- or two- or three-year period.

We've heard references about other places where pensions have collapsed. It's mostly because they've taken that trust from the other end, from the young end of the population that's entering into the pension, and made it not worth their while to make those contributions or to maybe move somewhere else with their pension contributions or maybe laid those people off so that they don't even have jobs while at the other end the people who are actually receiving those pensions then are exposed to a very rapidly depleting pool of resources that actually can pay out those pensions.

You know, while I see that the government has really stretched themselves on this – I think they've stretched their credibility on it – I think as well that it's important to call the duplicity of this bill, Bill 9, and Bill 10, too, and call it what it is. It's not just a change to pensions that makes it more difficult, makes it so that an employee has to work longer and pay more contributions and gets less of a result out of it as well, but it's an attack on the very sustainability of these pensions. Period.

I really think that my colleague's amendment is a reasonable one, and I think it's a great chance for us to take two steps back and perhaps clear the waters a little bit and make that consultation process real and substantial.

I mean, that's another part of this whole thing, too. By moving virtually all control of decision-making from the pension boards and from the workers themselves and from the unions that represent them to the ministry, this whole idea of consultation becomes a joke. If you're only consulting and then you bring the hammer down in a very short time period after, then that consultation is nothing but adding insult to injury from the process that's been changed so radically in the first place.

Mr. Speaker, certainly, I'm speaking emphatically in favour of this amendment. I thought I'd try something a little bit different here because, you know, here we are speaking on and on through the night. So I thought I'd give my version of the David Letterman top 10 reasons why we should not in fact be supporting Bill 9 and we should support this amendment to refer this bill in the first place. I confess, because this is a very sober and not particularly happy topic, that my top 10 list of reasons to not support this bill from Edmonton-Calder, not from David Letterman – I'm not going to use my own name; you have to follow the rules of the House – is a bit of a sober list, but I think it's instructive as well. Sometimes if you try to use a bit of a gimmick, then people are more likely to remember. I'm still a teacher at heart, so I want to put this not just into people's minds but into their hearts as well.

Here we go. In no particular order is my top 10 list of why we shouldn't be supporting Bill 9 and we should refer it, with my apologies to David Letterman. Remember that this isn't funny, okay?

Number 1. If a pension plan looks unstable or unlikely to pay a reasonable return, younger workers will be less likely to contribute and more likely to opt out or to cash out, so don't do that.

Number 2. You work hard, you pay into a pension, and someone tries to change the rules halfway through. What possible positive outcome could come of that?

Ms Blakeman: That's definitely not funny.

Mr. Eggen: Yeah. It's not funny at all.

Number 3. Bill 45 and Bill 46, the legislative hammer full down on public and private pensions. What's a regular worker to think?

Number 4. Bill 45 and Bill 46, a legislative hammer on the pensions. How is a regular worker supposed to vote?

Number 5. With absolute power to change pension laws, consultation is just having your arm twisted behind your back before they tell you what to do.

Number 6. The government divests itself from pension risk then tries to dictate the terms of your pension. If this was a marriage, a divorce couldn't be far away. That's kind of funny.

Number 7. This one is kind of good. I like this one. The myth about the aging population overwhelming our pensions is absolute nonsense. This PC government makes the baby boom out like it's a big surprise in 2014. Everyone else knew that it was coming nine months after the end of World War II.

10:20

Okay. Here's a lesson for you. Number 8. Pension 101: if you lay off or reduce your public service employees to part-time, the pension will dissolve like sugar in the pouring rain.

Number 9. Seventy per cent of LAPP and PSPP contributing members are women. The Canadian Centre for Policy Alternatives just today has determined that Calgary and Edmonton are the two most difficult cities for women in Canada. This pension attack will solidify our position – it's not a happy thing at all – for a long time to come.

Number 10. The real pension crisis in the province of Alberta is that the majority of Albertans do not have a plan for retirement at all. This minister should go back to the drawing board, go back to Ottawa, where he had a chance to do it in the first place, increase CPP, and build something that we all might be proud of so that we can have a pension for everybody in the future.

Thank you very much.

The Deputy Speaker: Standing Order 29(2)(a) is available. The hon. Member for Edmonton-Centre.

Ms Blakeman: Did we get through all 10 of David's top 10?

Mr. Eggen: Yeah.

Ms Blakeman: Oh. Okay. I'm sorry, Mr. Speaker.

The Deputy Speaker: Thank you.

I'll recognize the Member for Rimbey-Rocky Mountain House-Sundre.

Mr. Anglin: Thank you, Mr. Speaker. I rise in support of this going to our committee for the very reasons that the interim Minister of Municipal Affairs gave earlier. There's a lot of discussion going on in the debate on what is accurate, what's not accurate. If you believe that, then it only makes sense that we go to committee with this and iron out a lot of the detail and get down to the facts and negotiate in many ways what is actually happening here. What I'm hearing from the other side is that they don't want to do this.

The arguments I'm hearing from the government are that we should clarify all the comments that are being made and sort of sift through that which is not true and then get right down to the bare bones of what the true facts are and then deal with that issue. That's what the whole committee process is about.

I want to share a little story because there's been a lot of banter going back and forth. The leader of the Liberal opposition made some comments about the coming election. I had the opportunity today to attend the funeral of a very good friend, Mary Troitsky. She was 91 years old. She lived a long and good life, and right up to the very end she was quite clear in her thinking. Actually, I got lucky. I wish I had visited her more, but I visited her just a few days ago, just barely a week ago, and I sat down and had a chat with her. She was in a lot of pain, and she was refusing to take her drugs because she wanted to stay alert to talk to me. She wanted me to stay longer. It was a great conversation because Mary was very sharp when it comes to politics. She wanted to know what we were discussing up here at the Legislature because, as you can imagine – I think it happens in a lot of seniors' lodges – people ask us during question period. So Mary wanted to know about these different bills coming forward.

I talked to her briefly and mentioned all the things that were happening and the positions that I was planning on taking, the positions my caucus was taking, and some of the arguments that were being brought forward by the government members. Mary said a couple of things that caught my attention. She said that she didn't think dying would be so painful, but she said: "Joe, I will be watching you in the Legislature. I don't know if I'm going to be up there or down there, but I will be watching you." I said, "Mary, don't go down there because that's where the PCs are going after they pass this bill." Clearly, she understood. She chuckled. I know that might be insulting to some of the members across the way, but give me a little bit of latitude in the fact that it made this lady's day, one of her very last days.

What she understood was how unjust this bill is. When you look at some of the arguments being made that these unfunded liabilities can be dealt with in no other way, that is not a substantive argument in any way, shape, or form. There are lots of possible solutions that are being brought forward on how to deal with the unfunded liabilities. Where we have some real contradiction is when independent economists look at this and they differ on how this unfunded liability can be taken. There are some contradictions.

One of the ministers over there I think just brought it up. They were talking about the aging population. Now, they were talking about the aging population and its growth, but that contradicts the former Minister of Municipal Affairs dealing with the actuarial curves when we deal with seniors' housing. They don't match. Clearly, there's a contradiction there because if you look at Alberta housing authorities, dealing with seniors' housing, they show that curve tapering off in relation to our overall population. There are going to be more workers versus retirees, certainly, for our seniors' housing. Those are the contradictions we should be clearing up. We should actually be trying to figure out how best to deal with that and get some answers to the questions so we can bring the proper people forward.

Now, the other thing is this anti-union kind of attitude that has been pervasive. It's striking that we as the Wildrose Party are in agreement in principle, maybe not in the exact context but in principle, with the NDP. So you have the left wing and the right wing on the same side dealing with an issue. I will tell you that it takes progressive out of the whole concept on the other side and makes it regressive. It is out of touch, and it is symptomatic of a party that is not listening. When you hear what the unions have to say and what the people who are actual stakeholders in this have to say, it's that the employers and the employees were not consulted. What you're hearing is that the pension boards themselves are not in agreement with what this government is doing. Yet this government is going to railroad this bill forward anyway.

Now, I told you what Mary Troitsky said, but I will not tell you what her son said because that is not good for this House. The fact is that these people are not wealthy people by any stretch of the imagination. They're hard-working people, and they're symbolic of all the hard-working people that are the stakeholders in this process, and they have no ability to be part of this process. What's happening here is that we're not negotiating. That's what should have happened.

Now, the Wildrose position, as the members have heard – one of the things that is, I think, paramount about our position is that we think you can achieve reform of our pension system if you just sit down and negotiate in good faith. It's foreign to them. I understand that, having passed bills 45 and 46. But the fact is that negotiations have worked quite a long time, long before their 40-year reign on that side.

I don't discount what's happening over there because people do ask me: "Why are they doing this? Why is this government bringing this bill forward now in the framework that they're bringing it forward in?" We have some reports coming out very soon that could give us some valid information on what is actually happening here, but we're intending to pass this bill first, before those boards publish their information so that we can get a look at this. That doesn't make sense. That doesn't make sense. What is the rush? What is the rush?

Clearly, there are a lot of those answers that we just don't have a clear understanding of. When you look at the track record, when you look at what this government has done consistently, it has consistently passed laws where it does not consult. It has consistently passed laws in such a rapid way, shape, and form that we end up coming back to it in very short order to make amendments because we get things wrong. That's not logical, that's not prudent, and that's not practical, but it is the practice that this government has adopted and continues to adopt in addressing most every issue that now comes before it.

We just saw it with the homeowners' warranty act. I mean, we passed it not too long ago. Bang. We've got an amending act coming right away. Here we're coming up with something that is questionable, which will probably be tested in court like bills 45 and 46 were, and we'll be interested to see whether or not it survives. Clearly, that type of legal battle could be avoided if this government would only act in good faith and sit down and negotiate.

10:30

The mockery of acting in good faith I don't understand. I just don't understand it from that side. In principle what works in our system of governance is negotiation. We're going to pass another bill that gives ultimate authority to cabinet to make decisions arbitrarily. We've seen that with landowner rights. We're now going to see that with pensions. We saw that with union negotiations, or union non-negotiations. None of that makes sense. I don't understand how this government thinks that it can continue this behaviour and there won't be consequences.

I would disagree with the hon. Liberal leader. I don't think you should put this off and make it an election issue. I think you should railroad it through, and we'll make it an election issue, and we're going to. This isn't going to survive, I do not think, in the next election.

The fear factor . . .

An Hon. Member: Heard that before.

Mr. Anglin: You've heard it. That's right. You heard it before, and you survived.

But the fear factor that you created by fantasy has nothing to do with the reality of what you pass. That will come back eventually. It'll probably be interesting to see how the potential leadership candidates are going to deal with this issue, as they vie to buy votes. In the end, regardless of what leader is chosen, what new Premier is elected by the governing party, it will now be an election issue. Clearly, it will not go away.

People who have pensions or those people who have started to work and have agreed to work for this retirement package, which is the incentive, will have to make a decision, whether they have been reneged on or not. It's not really up to that side or this side to decide whether they've been reneged on. They will make that decision themselves, but it's a decision that I'm confident that, when people go to vote with their wallets, they will understand.

Now, the idea of the fearmongering, that it's going to break the system or it's going to saddle taxpayers, is an interesting argument based on one thing, that the returns are not going to be there, that the contributions are not going to be there. But when someone studies the history of how these programs work, there are cycles, and there have always been cycles. If the projections are true, depending on whose projections you take, there may still continue to be cycles. The government themselves have admitted that without doing anything, the time frame for dealing with this unfunded liability in a positive way – the only thing we're debating is in how many years it will be rectified, depending on whose argument you believe. With that in mind, it's hard to imagine that we cannot set the agenda for some sort of reconciliation of that liability if we sit down at the table and negotiate in good faith.

We don't need the bills. What we need is a government that acts in good faith and negotiates these pension and comes up with a solution that both parties can agree to as a positive step forward to bring reform forward. With the pensions boards themselves being opposed to what this government is doing, we're going to legislate instead of even having the pension boards onside. That is a clear indication that the government is acting too fast. It's a clear indication that the government is not acting in good faith, in my view.

They need to do better, and they can do better if they will only listen, but they don't listen. That's the problem with what's going on with negotiations. What they do is just dictate what they plan on doing regardless of whatever input is given. So if they hear contradictory input, they discount it. If they hear something they like, that's what they're going to go with. That doesn't make sense. That's not a good way to manage your government. That's not a good way to manage your finances. We're seeing it in the budget. I will tell you, Mr. Speaker, that right from the Speaker's chair itself on a point of order the other day the Speaker ruled and said: people have a different definition of what debt is and what debt is not. It's quite interesting because we're actually having that argument about the budget.

But we get into the same situation here, where people have a different definition of what is an unfunded liability and what is not and how it should be dealt with. I don't think we're in disagreement that we need to deal with the unfunded liability, and we need to deal with it in a constructive manner so that we fund that liability and not to the detriment of the taxpayers. To claim that we can't do that: I won't buy into that argument.

There are a lot of different ways we can handle that situation. When you look at some of the independent studies, the one in particular that the union has brought forward, one of the government's arguments is that the return that that study had projected was far too great. Well, it's interesting because when you listen to this government project some of the returns for their own funding as far as for growth and everything else, I'm not so sure we're too far off or who's exaggerating what. But we know that economists take their best shot at things, and they try to do what they can. The reality is that if that unfunded liability is now dropping . . .

The Deputy Speaker: Thank you, hon. member.

Standing Order 29(2)(a) is available. The Member for Strathmore-Brooks.

Mr. Hale: Yes, Mr. Speaker. The member was talking about the unfunded liability, and I'd just like to hear a few more of his comments on that.

The Deputy Speaker: The hon. Member for Rimbey-Rocky Mountain House-Sundre.

Mr. Anglin: Thank you, Mr. Speaker. It's a good question because that's really what this whole argument is about. As I understand it, why the government is bringing the bill forward is to deal with this one particular issue. I see the minister shaking his head no. It seems to have dominated the debate. But if the real reason the minister was bringing this forward is so the minister or the cabinet can have more power over this, that I would actually disagree with. I don't think they need more power over this.

Certainly, setting something like unilaterally being able to set the contribution rates is something that I think is actually quite dangerous. Contribution rates go up, and they go down, and rightfully so. It all depends on the state of the economy. It all depends on a number of factors dealing with the employment and how many workers versus how many retirees. It isn't something that you want government to do. It is really the flexibility of allowing the boards to do this.

Now, where I think we're disagreeing is that some of the information we're getting is that some of those liabilities are actually dropping. They're regressing now or digressing, depending on which argument and the side of the floor you're on. The government's argument that they're on a trajectory just to stay right out of control is not supported by every argument given, not just in the political debate but in the independent analyses that have been provided by different agencies that have looked at this.

Again, that's why this amendment is actually quite good. If we bring it to committee, we get now to bring the people in front of that committee who can actually provide more than a political input and provide that actuarial input that gives us hard numbers to work on so that we can get down to how best to approach this.

The other thing is that it's also a great way to actually negotiate with the stakeholders that are directly affected, those employers that are dealing with this and the employees. That is critical, and we're not doing that. Now, again, we get into this argument where the government may say: yes, we are. But we're hearing from the union, we're hearing from the stakeholders that, no, they're not. I submit to you, Mr. Speaker, that when one side on the negotiating table or the consultation table is saying, "You haven't consulted with me," I think that's a valid point. I think that's a valid point.

Even if you can't come to an agreement, you should be able to come to an agreement that you're being consulted, and we're not there yet. Maybe that should be the litmus test for this government, that maybe they'll never see eye to eye with the labour force, but they should at least have an agreement that they feel like they've been consulted. They don't have that feeling. They're not making that claim; they're making just the opposite one.

10:40

The whole issue of dealing with every stakeholder, every level of this argument of what should be done for pension reform, how it should be done, and how it should be implemented is something that should be taking place at the negotiating table, and it's not. So the best place, then, to bring this bill is to committee, as this amendment has proposed, and let's start the process and get these stakeholders there so that we can actually look at the particular issues that this government has and maybe some other possible solutions on how to deal with it.

I saw the minister shaking his head, but I will tell you that I've heard an awful lot lately about the unfunded liability and the way forward on how we're going to deal with retirement and deal with it in a very pragmatic and practical way so that people can have some sort of retirement that government itself, when it hires employees, has as an incentive. You know as well as most people here that there's a lot of misinformation out there about how well government employees get paid. Well, actually, it's not exactly true, particularly in Alberta. There's a lot of money to be made in the oil patch. But there is stability in government work, and there are some good benefits, and that's why people have chosen to go that route versus the private sector. They provide a good service for this government, doing what needs to be done in the governance of this province. There's all that balancing of having these benefits, and the retirement is part of that benefit. To change the rules midstream for some people is not in good faith.

The Deputy Speaker: Thank you, hon. member.

I'll recognize the Member for Calgary-Mountain View.

Dr. Swann: I think Calgary-Buffalo was next if I'm not mistaken, Mr. Speaker.

The Deputy Speaker: Okay. I had you on the list, but if you want to cede to Calgary-Buffalo, I'll recognize the Member for Calgary-Buffalo.

Mr. Hehr: Well, thank you very much, Mr. Speaker. It's a privilege to speak to the amendment forwarded by the hon. Member for Edmonton-Strathcona, that essentially wishes to send this bill to a standing committee to discuss it further, where we can assess the facts, where we can clear through all the rhetoric and ascertain what the government is or is not trying to do to this bill and call in some people who would have relevant information to present to the members on that committee, to really evaluate what is happening.

In my view what we have seen here in this bill is a continuation of this Progressive Conservative government's unprecedented attack on the working people of Alberta. We have seen that that has been their go-to plan since the election in 2012. We've seen them in the last session, in bills 45 and 46, and now in this session, in bills 9 and 10, essentially going after the working people of Alberta who work in our hospitals, who work in our schools, who work in this building, who are our civil servants, who assist the government in doing their jobs, a variety of people throughout this province, from social workers, from individuals who help us through our daily lives, that this government has chosen to go to war with, essentially.

[Mr. Casey in the chair]

It's something they did not signal that was coming in the last election. If we look, what the government really presented to the people of Alberta in the last election was that they were actually going to be progressive rather than conservative. What they were going to do was to value the workers of Alberta, value public-sector workers, and see predictable, sustainable funding go to these institutions that make our society run, like public education and health care and police and fire and EMS and our long-term care centres and the like. That's what we were led to believe the government was running on in the last election. That's why we're here at this stage and almost dumbfounded at what has transpired over the course of the last couple of years. No one saw this coming. I'm certain you didn't. You read your election platform. You didn't see anything in there about, you know, Bill 45, Bill 46, or bills 9 and 10. I know I didn't, and I know that you didn't or else you might have considered possibly not running. If you would have known this was in the cards, it would have contradicted exactly what you were bringing to your voters. That's why we're surprised that we're here today.

If we look at this bill, we have to remember that when pension plans exist, they are negotiated contracts between the employee and the employer, okay? They get together at the bargaining table, they establish what their wage is going to be, and they establish then how much they're going to contribute to their pensions plans. It's part of their compensation package that has been mutually agreed on. This is how it is.

What has been explained is that many people go into the public service for that benefit, the benefit that I'm going to trade off some earnings today for protection in the future. That's how it has been. That's how you are going about it with a defined benefit package, which has been what these workers were going to receive up until this time, until the introduction of this bill.

What we see will happen with this bill is that – and let's be clear. The reason the government seems to be going after these pension plans is because they're in a revenue problem. They have a revenue problem that is of their own making. Instead of reasonably going after progressive taxation or looking at corporate taxation or the like, we choose then to squeeze hard-working Albertans instead of asking millionaires and billionaires to pay a reasonable rate of tax. Let's be clear. This is all that is happening here. The government had a choice.

Let's remember that if the flat tax was such a brilliant idea, which allows these millionaires and billionaires to get off the hook from paying a reasonable rate, why hasn't any other province done it? Really, if it was such a boon to governments and the like, you'd think someone might have followed along. Nevertheless, instead of common sense, they are going to war with our public-sector unions, the people who provide the day-to-day services.

Like I said, you know, how pensions work is that when people retire, they can expect a reasonable, predictable amount of money that comes every month. That's what a defined benefit plan is. It allows people to live with a reasonable sense of dignity. What the government's changes are doing is moving it from a defined benefit plan into, essentially, a targeted benefit plan. And here's how the government is doing this. It is making a hard cap on contributions, so that means that employee contributions to the pension plans are capped as well as employer contributions are capped.

[The Deputy Speaker in the chair]

What happens as a result of this? Inevitably what happens is that something like the 2008 market crash will happen. Like it did in 2008, it wiped out the stock market. Pension plans primarily have investments in stock markets and other financial instruments that provide a financial return that you can then pay out in benefits to the people who are retired. That's how they work, okay? Most people should know that the market is not perfect. Inevitably the market breaks down like it did in 2008. You have downturns and dramatic downturns that can last for years. You know, I think the stock market came out of the '08 crash about three years later, but we've had crashes that have lasted for decades.

10:50

When you limit the hard cap on contributions that employees and employers can make, what the minister and the government are essentially doing is destining these plans to eventually be unworkable in some form and fashion at some time in their future. Because of this clause, the hard cap on contributions, these plans are destined to fail. That's why, in my view, it is unwise. The minister's great claim as to why he believes this needs to happen is that he needs to save the pensions for the future. That is what he has proclaimed to be doing this for. In his heart of hearts he doesn't want to do this. That's what he says. He says: I have to do it to save these pension plans.

Now, I take that message with a little bit of a grain of salt and look at it in the cold light of day. I look at their budgets and the other things, and I recognize it more as a talking point rather than actual reality. But if we look at what that will do, what they do when you make these hard caps to the contributions, when inevitably the financial instruments that pay pensions break down, the pension plan has no ability to raise revenue to pay benefits. They can't get more money from the people who are working. They can't get more money from the employer. And some of the people who are retired – guess what? – are 90 and 95 years old. They can't work, okay? They've been retired. So where do they get the money? They don't.

Say if this happens like in the 1929 market crash, which could happen again, guys, you know, where do they go to get this revenue when you put a hard cap on contributions? The argument is, well, we're just going to let the plans fail because the markets are – the government essentially, by putting this in, is saying that the market is always right. Yes, a lot of right wingers tend to believe that. But when we actually look at the brass tacks on how pension plans work, this is just lunacy. So we can see how this clause effectively destines the pension plan to be destroyed, in my view, at some point in time in the future. So you're not saving it. You're destining it to failure on some level or another. In that respect I don't think you can take the minister's words at face value, that he's doing this to save the pensions for the future, because in my view it essentially assures that they will be destroyed.

What happens then? You know, there was much conversation. I believe the hon. Member for Lethbridge-West made this point. Well, where do the liabilities go, you know, liabilities on all taxpayers and the like for these pension losses? Well, if we just sort of play this around a bit, what happens here? What I believe will essentially happen sometime in – I can't give a time. Let's say market breakdowns happen once every 25 years. The fundamental nature has a habit of wreaking havoc on pension plans and benefits. So what happens then?

Well, what happens then? My hope is that the government of the day, whoever that may be, will not turn its back on these people who were receiving pension benefits. When they find there are no pension benefits to be paid because there's no way to raise revenue from the workers or anything, my hope is that the government of the day will not turn their back on them. So those liabilities, essentially taking the care and the concern of seniors and people who live in this province who worked in our public services, who worked in our hospitals, who worked in our schools, who worked as social workers, who helped people get through the day in our society: the government of the day wouldn't turn their back on them. That's my hope. I don't think that the hon. Member for Lethbridge-West would want that to happen either.

The liabilities automatically flow back to the government in any event, okay? We saw that. There's a case in point where that exactly played out this summer in the flood. You'll remember that even though we didn't make the changes from the Groeneveld report, we saw the carnage that happened. The government really could have essentially said: "You know, we're not going to help those people who got flooded out. We're going to leave it to the market to figure it out. Really, we're Conservatives, so we believe in everyone pulling themselves up by their own bootstraps." They could have taken that principle. Instead, they recognized that, no, when we have 50,000 of our citizens whose lives have been dramatically upturned, we're going to go and step in and help out. Okay. That's a real-life example of what's going to happen.

If we look at how these pension plans work, what is essentially happening here is that they are fundamentally wrecking them going forward. In my view, it will not lead to a healthy public service. It will not lead to a reasonable retirement and the like. But if we look into more detail, just to sort of segue off that point into some of the other large global factors that I see happening out there in the world, I believe this government should be concerned about – in fact, all members of this Legislature should be concerned about this – our aging population and the fact that many people, more people than we've seen in the last 60 or 70 years, are going to reach retirement with very little ability to pay for their retirement essentially, to live or to . . .

The Deputy Speaker: Hon. members, Standing Order 29(2)(a) is available. The hon. Member for Edmonton-Centre.

Ms Blakeman: I just wonder if the member would be willing to complete that thought, to finish the section he was talking about.

The Deputy Speaker: The hon. Member for Calgary-Buffalo.

Mr. Hehr: Thank you very much, hon. Member for Edmonton-Centre, for allowing me to finish. That's very kind.

We're seeing seniors reaching their retirement years with virtually very little savings or ability to finance a 20-, 30-year retirement. Inevitably that is going to come back onto the government's shoulders. You know, we can say that we're as conservative as we want: no, they didn't save for their future; let them eat cake. But we're not going to do that. Do you know why, Mr. Speaker? Seniors vote, okay? Guess what? Hopefully, we have some dignity and we understand that life is hard and that we should understand that we have a duty to assist people. We're going to have government housing. We're going to have a seniors' benefit. Hopefully, the governing party will get onboard with having some actual CPP reform, that actually reflects the true cost of retirement.

The simple fact of the matter is that there's good reason why people are not retiring with as much income or don't have the ability to retire in the same fashion that people have for the last 60 or 70 years. Simply put, there's much research that exists out there – from Harvard, from Yale, and from other places – that the hard costs on the middle class since 1971 have dramatically increased. Simply put, day-to-day living – having kids, cars, going to jobs, and providing for your families – is more expensive than it was pre-1971. I know that seems counterintuitive. We think people are frivolously spending their money on restaurants, vacations, and the like, but there's some hard research that indicates the hard costs on the middle class, that it's more difficult today than it was 40 years ago. This is fact.

Accordingly, governments are going to have to get their heads around this and look at how they're going to provide seniors with a reasonable semblance of living, not only because it's the right thing to do but that – remember – seniors vote, right? Exactly. All parties are going to do this regardless of our ideology and the like, so we need to get a hold on that.

11:00

Another thing that bothers me about this is that here we are where many people who are working in our public sector happen to be women. Seventy per cent of the workers in our public services and the ones we're attacking are women. Women are more likely to retire into poverty than men, okay? This is fact. Given that women often enter the work world later because primarily they're doing the good work of bringing up the next generation for many years and doing other things to help our society, they don't have the ability to save as much money. Here are the people we're attacking: women who are working in our public service who are hopefully trying to have a decent retirement.

In any event, all this being said, the government is going to pay one way or another, and we should, but we should try to recognize that what we're doing to this pension plan, for all intents and purposes, is destroying it. In my view, it doesn't hold water that we're trying to save it. In my view, it eventually is going to come apart at the seams at some point in time due to some financial meltdown one way or another.

Those are my submissions, Mr. Speaker. I believe that's why we should take it to an all-party committee, so that we can ferret out what is real and what is not real and get to the true essence of why we're doing this at this time here in Alberta.

Thank you very much, Mr. Speaker.

The Deputy Speaker: Thank you.

Are there others? The hon. Minister of Finance and President of the Treasury Board.

Mr. Horner: Thank you, Mr. Speaker. I'm rising to speak on the amendment to refer this to the Standing Committee on Alberta's Economic Future. There's been a lot of discussion about: why are we doing this? Is there a hidden agenda for the government? There's no hidden agenda here.

I've had a lot of time to talk to the boards. I've had a lot of time to talk to pensions outside of our province. Frankly, there are very few pensions outside or even inside the province that are built or structured the way that these pensions are structured. They were structured and built in the '60s for a different type of employee and employment. They were structured when, you know, the mortality rates were different, when there was an ability to continue to keep new contributors coming into the plans even though you had people that were going into the retirement side and becoming noncontributors, if you will.

There's been lots of discussion about, you know, that there's been an independent actuarial report that claims that there's no reason to do anything. I said last night in this House that, frankly, leadership is not about doing nothing. Leadership is about making sure that you are keeping a plan that's sustainable for future employees. It's about ensuring that there is something there for the employees that are going to come behind the ones that are there today. It's also about ensuring that the plan that is there, the pension promise – and I'll say it again, Mr. Speaker. The pension promise isn't cost-of-living adjustments. The pension promise is not early retirement subsidy. The pension promise is the fact that regardless of what you've put into the plan, you will be getting a guaranteed amount for the rest of your life based on years of service and your last highest five years of pensionable earnings. That's the pension promise that 85 per cent of Albertans don't have.

I actually agree with the hon. members opposite that we do need to look at retirement planning for all Albertans. I note with interest that the federal government today is talking about introducing targeted pension plans for some of the private-sector corporations that they have. That's because there is a realization, Mr. Speaker, that we do need to help Canadians and Albertans plan for the future.

The hon. members across the way – and this is a bit of a sidebar, and I'll watch where my time is because I do have some other things I wanted to say. The hon. members opposite talked about that Alberta didn't want to do something with CPP last December. That's just simply not true, Mr. Speaker. In fact, all provinces – all provinces – agreed that we wanted to continue to talk about issues around CPP and that perhaps we could have some add-ons to CPP, that perhaps we could look at changes to CPP to make it more attractive because in Alberta we do view it as a way to attract. That's why we introduced pooled registered pension plans in this House. That's why we're going to proceed with that, because we actually do believe that there is an issue there for that other 85 per cent of the population.

I will also say, and I've said it in the House before, that when we started this process two years ago – and we did start it two years ago, in July 2012, with the plans – I remember very distinctly going into a meeting, a room with all of the pension boards, the four boards of which, as the Minister of Finance, I have the honour of being the trustee and the fiduciary duty, Mr. Speaker, to ensure their sustainability. I walked into the room thinking: "Boy, we've got this unfunded liability. It's growing. I think I agree with the Wildrose. It should be defined contribution, we should cut off new entrants, and all new entrants should come in through a different plan." That was what I thought.

After the last two years, Mr. Speaker, I've actually become a defined benefit plan proponent. I actually believe that there is a way to make defined benefit plans sustainable for our employees and, in fact, sustainable in other sections of our economy. But they have to be designed right. They have to be designed in such a way that the levers, all three levers, can be utilized by the plan sponsors. It shouldn't be the Minister of Finance that's the sponsor; it should be the people that are paying. I agree with that, too.

It also shouldn't be that it's just the contributions that are the only levers that the plan board has to manage that account because that's not fair to the workers. Every time that contribution rate goes up, it's money off their cheque. In the last 20 years they have had the ability to use other levers besides that, but they've never used any other levers. Only contribution rates have gone up. Today, as the Auditor General noted very clearly, we have some of the highest contribution rates in the country.

When we say a contribution cap, we are not going to unilaterally impose it on them. In fact, I met with all of the unions not too long ago. I know there are representatives in the gallery. We are going to have a consultation and a discussion paper on contribution rates. The paper is going to be out late tomorrow or early Friday this week. We're going to start that discussion as soon as we can get everybody together, and I am actually quite open to having a discussion about what that might be. Maybe it's a range like New Brunswick has. I found out that they went to a range. I'm perfectly open to having that conversation.

But the plans have to be able to have the ability to manage themselves using all the levers. One of the levers that the Teachers' Pension Plan in Ontario, one of the gold standards of defined benefit plans in the country . . .

An Hon. Member: Gold standard.

Mr. Horner: Yeah, gold standard. Go figure.

One of the things they've done is they've said to their plan members: if you want to maintain the pension promise that we have in the plan, we have got to make COLA conditional because if we can't afford to pay it, we can't dip into the plan's funds; we can't raise rates just because that's the thing to do. You have to have that flexibility. So that's what they've done just this year, as a matter of fact, Mr. Speaker. It's one of, probably, the best-funded plans that's out there, but they recognized that you've got to have that flexibility.

I know that in New Brunswick some of the plan members talk about: well, those plans all cratered. Why did they crater? Because governments did not take leadership when they should have to ensure that it wouldn't happen. B.C. took leadership on this file some years ago, and they've actually converted a lot of their plans to very similar things, that we've got on the table today. Saskatchewan, as the hon. member from the Wildrose suggested, went DC for everybody 35 years ago, when the unfunded liability was considerably smaller and was very easy to handle.

Mr. Speaker, there's a lot of misinformation that's actually out there today. And one of them is that this is going to harm the pension promise to retirees today. It is not. We are talking about guaranteeing all service up to 2015, and for anybody who is retired today, that guarantee holds. We talked about the fact that if service beyond 2015 is going to be part of the new one, we'll put the calculators out on the website for the LAPP, the PSPP, and the SFPP. We are closing out the management employees pension plan, but we're going to make sure that those who are in it get the benefits that they signed up for.

To suggest that, well, we'll just cancel everybody else when the new entrants come in: who's going to pay for the subsidized retirement and the COLA benefits of those that are in if you have no new contributors coming in? Who's going to pay that, Mr. Speaker? They haven't thought that out very well.

11:10

Mr. Speaker, I don't do this because I think that there's some, you know, huge number of votes that it's going to get me. The hon. members will find out very shortly about where I think I might head in my career. This has no bearing on it. I do this because it's the right thing to do. I do this because I do believe that a defined benefit plan is an attraction for the public service. There will be no other defined benefit plans out there. Most of them have already gone or will be going. The public sector is the place where these plans can thrive, and that's why we're going to create a situation where they can flourish.

In fact, Mr. Speaker, if the hon. members opposite are all correct about the returns that these plans will make and that things will be great and rosy in the future, then under the joint sponsorship they can make the decisions that they want to make about COLA, about early retirement, about contribution rates because the funding will be there for it. I honestly hope that that is the case.

But what if it's not and we've tied the hands so that only one lever is available? Then what? New Brunswick? The state of Maine? Holland? These are the places that did nothing until it was too late. We can't be that place for these people or for the thousands of public service employees that are counting on their pensions in the future. We can't be that place. We do need to take action. This is modest action. This is not the action that has been taken in other jurisdictions, where they've actually done what the Wildrose is talking about doing. This is not taking that drastic step to say: no more defined benefit, no more of those things. This is an honest attempt to actually preserve what they hold so dear, which is that pension promise. And for that I make no apologies because it is the right thing to do.

With that, Mr. Speaker, I would like to adjourn debate on this referral motion and take my seat.

The Deputy Speaker: The hon. Minister of Finance and President of Treasury Board has moved to adjourn debate on amendment RA1.

[Motion to adjourn debate carried]

Government Bills and Orders

Third Reading

(continued)

Bill 6

New Home Buyer Protection Amendment Act, 2014

[Adjourned debate April 17: Mr. Weadick]

The Deputy Speaker: Is there a speaker?

Hon. Members: Question.

[Motion carried; Bill 6 read a third time]

Bill 7

Tax Statutes Amendment Act, 2014

[Adjourned debate April 17: Mr. Horner]

The Deputy Speaker: The hon. Minister of Finance and President of Treasury Board.

Mr. Horner: Has it been moved, Mr. Speaker? It has? [interjections] I hear huge support, Mr. Speaker, so I'll just take my seat and call the vote.

[Motion carried; Bill 7 read a third time]

The Deputy Speaker: The hon. Deputy Government House Leader.

Mr. Denis: Thank you, Mr. Speaker. The Minister of Aboriginal Relations and I would like to jointly move that the House stand adjourned until 1:30 p.m. tomorrow.

[Motion carried; the Assembly adjourned at 11:14 p.m. to Thursday at 1:30 p.m.]

Table of Contents

Government Bills and Orders

Third Reading

Bill 8	Appropriation Act, 2014.....	633
	Division	638
Bill 6	New Home Buyer Protection Amendment Act, 2014.....	657
Bill 7	Tax Statutes Amendment Act, 2014.....	657

Second Reading

Bill 9	Public Sector Pension Plans Amendment Act, 2014	638
--------	---	-----

If your address is incorrect, please clip on the dotted line, make any changes, and return to the address listed below. To facilitate the update, please attach the last mailing label along with your account number.

Subscriptions
Legislative Assembly Office
1001 Legislature Annex
9718 – 107 Street
EDMONTON, AB T5K 1E4

Last mailing label:

Account # _____

New information:

Name:

Address:

Subscription information:

Annual subscriptions to the paper copy of Alberta Hansard (including annual index) are $127.50 including GST if mailed once a week or $94.92 including GST if picked up at the subscription address below or if mailed through the provincial government interdepartmental mail system. Bound volumes are $121.70 including GST if mailed. Cheques should be made payable to the Minister of Finance.

Price per issue is $0.75 including GST.

Online access to Alberta Hansard is available through the Internet at www.assembly.ab.ca

Subscription inquiries:

Subscriptions
Legislative Assembly Office
1001 Legislature Annex
9718 – 107 St.
EDMONTON, AB T5K 1E4
Telephone: 780.427.1302

Other inquiries:

Managing Editor
Alberta Hansard
1001 Legislature Annex
9718 – 107 St.
EDMONTON, AB T5K 1E4
Telephone: 780.427.1875

Province of Alberta

The 28th Legislature
Second Session

Alberta Hansard

Thursday, April 24, 2014

Issue 23a

The Honourable Gene Zwozdesky, Speaker

Legislative Assembly of Alberta The 28th Legislature

Second Session

Zwozdesky, Hon. Gene, Edmonton-Mill Creek (PC), Speaker
Rogers, George, Leduc-Beaumont (PC), Deputy Speaker and Chair of Committees
Jablonski, Mary Anne, Red Deer-North (PC), Deputy Chair of Committees

Allen, Mike, Fort McMurray-Wood Buffalo (Ind)
Amery, Moe, Calgary-East (PC)
Anderson, Rob, Airdrie (W),
 Official Opposition House Leader
Anglin, Joe, Rimbey-Rocky Mountain House-Sundre (W)
Barnes, Drew, Cypress-Medicine Hat (W)
Bhardwaj, Hon. Naresh, Edmonton-Ellerslie (PC)
Bhullar, Hon. Manmeet Singh, Calgary-Greenway (PC)
Bikman, Gary, Cardston-Taber-Warner (W)
Bilous, Deron, Edmonton-Beverly-Clareview (ND)
Blakeman, Laurie, Edmonton-Centre (AL),
 Liberal Opposition House Leader
Brown, Dr. Neil, QC, Calgary-Mackay-Nose Hill (PC)
Calahasen, Pearl, Lesser Slave Lake (PC)
Campbell, Hon. Robin, West Yellowhead (PC),
 Government House Leader
Cao, Wayne C.N., Calgary-Fort (PC)
Casey, Ron, Banff-Cochrane (PC)
Cusanelli, Christine, Calgary-Currie (PC)
Dallas, Hon. Cal, Red Deer-South (PC)
DeLong, Alana, Calgary-Bow (PC)
Denis, Hon. Jonathan, QC, Calgary-Acadia (PC),
 Deputy Government House Leader
Donovan, Ian, Little Bow (W)
Dorward, David C., Edmonton-Gold Bar (PC),
 Deputy Government Whip
Drysdale, Hon. Wayne, Grande Prairie-Wapiti (PC)
Eggen, David, Edmonton-Calder (ND),
 New Democrat Opposition Whip
Fawcett, Hon. Kyle, Calgary-Klein (PC)
Fenske, Jacquie, Fort Saskatchewan-Vegreville (PC)
Forsyth, Heather, Calgary-Fish Creek (W)
Fox, Rodney M., Lacombe-Ponoka (W)
Fraser, Hon. Rick, Calgary-South East (PC)
Fritz, Yvonne, Calgary-Cross (PC)
Goudreau, Hector G., Dunvegan-Central Peace-Notley (PC)
Griffiths, Hon. Doug, Battle River-Wainwright (PC)
Hale, Jason W., Strathmore-Brooks (W)
Hancock, Hon. Dave, QC, Edmonton-Whitemud (PC),
 Premier
Hehr, Kent, Calgary-Buffalo (AL)
Horne, Hon. Fred, Edmonton-Rutherford (PC)
Horner, Hon. Doug, Spruce Grove-St. Albert (PC)
Hughes, Ken, Calgary-West (PC)
Jansen, Hon. Sandra, Calgary-North West (PC)
Jeneroux, Matt, Edmonton-South West (PC)
Johnson, Hon. Jeff, Athabasca-Sturgeon-Redwater (PC)
Johnson, Linda, Calgary-Glenmore (PC)
Kang, Darshan S., Calgary-McCall (AL),
 Liberal Opposition Whip
Kennedy-Glans, Donna, QC, Calgary-Varsity (Ind)
Khan, Stephen, St. Albert (PC)
Klimchuk, Hon. Heather, Edmonton-Glenora (PC)
Kubinec, Maureen, Barrhead-Morinville-Westlock (PC)
Lemke, Ken, Stony Plain (PC)
Leskiw, Genia, Bonnyville-Cold Lake (PC)
Luan, Jason, Calgary-Hawkwood (PC)
Lukaszuk, Hon. Thomas A., Edmonton-Castle Downs (PC)
Mason, Brian, Edmonton-Highlands-Norwood (ND),
 Leader of the New Democrat Opposition
McAllister, Bruce, Chestermere-Rocky View (W)
McDonald, Everett, Grande Prairie-Smoky (PC)
McIver, Hon. Ric, Calgary-Hays (PC)
McQueen, Hon. Diana, Drayton Valley-Devon (PC)
Notley, Rachel, Edmonton-Strathcona (ND),
 New Democrat Opposition House Leader
Oberle, Hon. Frank, Peace River (PC),
 Deputy Government House Leader
Olesen, Cathy, Sherwood Park (PC)
Olson, Hon. Verlyn, QC, Wetaskiwin-Camrose (PC),
 Deputy Government House Leader
Pastoor, Bridget Brennan, Lethbridge-East (PC)
Pedersen, Blake, Medicine Hat (W)
Quadri, Sohail, Edmonton-Mill Woods (PC)
Quest, Hon. Dave, Strathcona-Sherwood Park (PC)
Redford, Alison M., QC, Calgary-Elbow (PC)
Rodney, Hon. Dave, Calgary-Lougheed (PC)
Rowe, Bruce, Olds-Didsbury-Three Hills (W)
Sandhu, Peter, Edmonton-Manning (PC)
Sarich, Janice, Edmonton-Decore (PC)
Saskiw, Shayne, Lac La Biche-St. Paul-Two Hills (W),
 Official Opposition Whip
Scott, Hon. Donald, QC, Fort McMurray-Conklin (PC)
Sherman, Dr. Raj, Edmonton-Meadowlark (AL),
 Leader of the Liberal Opposition
Smith, Danielle, Highwood (W),
 Leader of the Official Opposition
Starke, Hon. Dr. Richard, Vermilion-Lloydminster (PC)
Stier, Pat, Livingstone-Macleod (W)
Strankman, Rick, Drumheller-Stettler (W)
Swann, Dr. David, Calgary-Mountain View (AL)
Towle, Kerry, Innisfail-Sylvan Lake (W),
 Official Opposition Deputy Whip
VanderBurg, George, Whitecourt-Ste. Anne (PC),
 Government Whip
Weadick, Hon. Greg, Lethbridge-West (PC)
Webber, Len, Calgary-Foothills (Ind)
Wilson, Jeff, Calgary-Shaw (W),
 Official Opposition Deputy House Leader
Woo-Paw, Hon. Teresa, Calgary-Northern Hills (PC)
Xiao, David H., Edmonton-McClung (PC)
Young, Steve, Edmonton-Riverview (PC)

Party standings:

Progressive Conservative: 58 Wildrose: 17 Alberta Liberal: 5 New Democrat: 4 Independent: 3

Officers and Officials of the Legislative Assembly

W.J. David McNeil, Clerk	Stephanie LeBlanc, Parliamentary Counsel and Legal Research Officer	Philip Massolin, Manager of Research Services
Robert H. Reynolds, QC, Law Clerk/ Director of Interparliamentary Relations	Fiona Vance, Sessional Parliamentary Counsel	Brian G. Hodgson, Sergeant-at-Arms
Shannon Dean, Senior Parliamentary Counsel/Director of House Services	Nancy Robert, Research Officer	Chris Caughell, Assistant Sergeant-at-Arms
		Gordon H. Munk, Assistant Sergeant-at-Arms
		Janet Schwegel, Managing Editor of Alberta Hansard

Executive Council

Dave Hancock	Premier, President of Executive Council, Minister of Innovation and Advanced Education
Naresh Bhardwaj	Associate Minister – Services for Persons with Disabilities
Manmeet Singh Bhullar	Minister of Human Services
Robin Campbell	Minister of Environment and Sustainable Resource Development
Cal Dallas	Minister of International and Intergovernmental Relations
Jonathan Denis	Minister of Justice and Solicitor General
Wayne Drysdale	Minister of Transportation
Kyle Fawcett	Associate Minister – Recovery and Reconstruction for Southwest Alberta
Rick Fraser	Associate Minister – Public Safety Associate Minister – Recovery and Reconstruction for High River
Doug Griffiths	Minister of Service Alberta
Fred Horne	Minister of Health
Doug Horner	President of Treasury Board and Minister of Finance
Sandra Jansen	Associate Minister – Family and Community Safety
Jeff Johnson	Minister of Education, Ministerial Liaison to the Canadian Forces
Heather Klimchuk	Minister of Culture
Thomas Lukaszuk	Minister of Jobs, Skills, Training and Labour
Ric McIver	Minister of Infrastructure
Diana McQueen	Minister of Energy
Frank Oberle	Minister of Aboriginal Relations
Verlyn Olson	Minister of Agriculture and Rural Development
Dave Quest	Associate Minister – Seniors
Dave Rodney	Associate Minister – Wellness
Donald Scott	Associate Minister – Accountability, Transparency and Transformation
Richard Starke	Minister of Tourism, Parks and Recreation
Greg Weadick	Associate Minister – Recovery and Reconstruction for Southeast Alberta
Teresa Woo-Paw	Associate Minister – International and Intergovernmental Relations

STANDING AND SPECIAL COMMITTEES OF THE LEGISLATIVE ASSEMBLY OF ALBERTA

Standing Committee on Alberta's Economic Future

Chair: Mr. Amery
 Deputy Chair: Mr. Fox
 Dorward Pastoor
 Eggen Quadri
 Hehr Rogers
 Kubinec Rowe
 Lemke Sarich
 Luan Stier
 McDonald

Standing Committee on the Alberta Heritage Savings Trust Fund

Chair: Mr. Casey
 Deputy Chair: Mrs. Jablonski
 Amery Khan
 Barnes Sandhu
 Dorward Sherman
 Eggen

Select Special Ethics Commissioner Search Committee

Chair: Mr. Rogers
 Deputy Chair: Mr. Quadri
 Blakeman Leskiw
 Eggen McDonald
 Goudreau Saskiw
 Lemke

Standing Committee on Families and Communities

Chair: Ms Olesen
 Deputy Chair: Mrs. Forsyth
 Cusanelli McAllister
 DeLong Notley
 Fenske Pedersen
 Fritz Sandhu
 Jablonski Swann
 Jeneroux VanderBurg
 Leskiw

Standing Committee on Legislative Offices

Chair: Mr. Jeneroux
 Deputy Chair: Mr. McDonald
 Bikman Leskiw
 Blakeman Quadri
 Brown Wilson
 DeLong Young
 Eggen

Special Standing Committee on Members' Services

Chair: Mr. Zwozdesky
 Deputy Chair: Mr. VanderBurg
 Casey Mason
 Forsyth McDonald
 Fritz Sherman
 Johnson, L. Towle
 Kubinec

Standing Committee on Private Bills

Chair: Mr. Xiao
 Deputy Chair: Mrs. Leskiw
 Allen Notley
 Brown Olesen
 Cusanelli Rowe
 DeLong Stier
 Fenske Strankman
 Fritz Swann
 Jablonski

Standing Committee on Privileges and Elections, Standing Orders and Printing

Chair: Ms Kubinec
 Deputy Chair: Mr. Rogers
 Calahasen Pastoor
 Casey Pedersen
 Kang Saskiw
 Khan VanderBurg
 Luan Wilson
 Notley Young
 Olesen

Standing Committee on Public Accounts

Chair: Mr. Anderson
 Deputy Chair: Mr. Dorward
 Allen Khan
 Amery Luan
 Barnes Pastoor
 Bilous Sandhu
 Donovan Sarich
 Fenske Young
 Hehr

Standing Committee on Resource Stewardship

Chair: Mr. Khan
 Deputy Chair: Mr. Anglin
 Allen Goudreau
 Bikman Hale
 Bilous Johnson, L.
 Blakeman Webber
 Brown Xiao
 Calahasen Young
 Casey

Legislative Assembly of Alberta

1:30 p.m.

Thursday, April 24, 2014

[The Speaker in the chair]

Prayers

The Speaker: Hon. members, let us pray. As this week of work in the Assembly draws to a close, let us be mindful of the weekend of work that awaits us in our constituencies where we live. May our strength and resolve be fortified in that regard. And on this weekend, that ushers in the National Day of Mourning for injured workers, on April 28, let us pray for those workers who have been killed, injured, or disabled as a result of work-related incidents. Our thoughts are with their friends, their families, loved ones, colleagues, and workers. May all of our workforce return home safely and soundly at the end of each workday. Amen.

Please be seated.

Introduction of Guests

The Speaker: Hon. members, let us begin with school groups. The hon. Member for Lac La Biche-St. Paul-Two Hills, followed by Lacombe-Ponoka.

Mr. Saskiw: Thank you, Mr. Speaker. Once again I have a fantastic school visiting from my constituency, and today we have 45 students from the Ashmont school joining us. They are joined by some excellent teachers and group leaders. I'd ask that they rise and receive the traditional warm welcome of the Assembly.

The Speaker: The hon. Member for Lacombe-Ponoka.

Mr. Fox: Thank you, Mr. Speaker. It's my great honour to introduce to you and through you to all members of the Legislature 66 of the very best grade 6 students and teachers Alberta has to offer. They are here visiting us from the Iron Ridge junior campus in Blackfalds. I would now ask that these students and their teachers Mr. Bill Carter, Ms Jodi Vanderzwaag, Mrs. Cheryl Taylor, Mrs. Rochelle Miller, Miss Raeann McNaught, and Ms Amy Lasher please rise and receive the traditional warm welcome of this Assembly.

The Speaker: Are there other school groups?

Not yet. Okay. Let us move on then with Edmonton-South West, followed by Calgary-Shaw.

Mr. Jeneroux: Thank you, Mr. Speaker. I'm very pleased to introduce to you and through you to all members of the Assembly two very special guests, who are also both Queen's Diamond Jubilee recipients.

My first guest is Shayne Smith. Shayne is visiting our province and attending two schools in south Edmonton as a motivational speaker, bringing the message: there is no limit. Shayne has lived this message. When Shayne was four months old, he contracted a rare form of meningitis, which left him in a coma for 10 days. He then required amputations of both his legs, one hand, and half of each finger on the other hand and was given less than a 2 per cent chance to survive.

Since this he has shown nothing but determination and athletic ability. By the age of three he learned to swim. He learned to ride a horse and received special permission to play on the T-ball team. He also played sledge hockey and wheelchair basketball. Shayne has had several great accomplishments in his basketball career. In 2005 he was drafted as a player for the Canadian junior wheelchair basketball team and played at the world championships in England. In 2011 the team travelled to Japan, where they won gold. Now Shayne travels Canada, speaking to youth about there being no limits in what a person can do.

With Shayne is Daylin Breen, a constituent of Edmonton-South West but also a strong advocate for many community initiatives, for which he was honoured with his Queen's Diamond Jubilee medal. Both are wonderful men, and I would ask them to acknowledge the traditional warm welcome of the Assembly.

The Speaker: Thank you.

The hon. Member for Calgary-Shaw, followed by the Minister of Agriculture and Rural Development.

Mr. Wilson: Well, thank you, Mr. Speaker. It is a true pleasure to introduce to you and through you to all members of the Assembly three very important people in my world. I would like to start by introducing my wife, Sally. Many of you have had the opportunity and pleasure of meeting Sally, and for those of you who have, I'm sure you would all agree: definitely the better half.

With Sally is my mother-in-law, Ms Mervat Kharsa. Like every mother-in-law, Mr. Speaker, she is my visiting dignitary. Thank you for allowing her to sit in your gallery today. She immigrated to Canada from Egypt 39 years ago and has had a very successful career as a professional engineer here in Canada. This is her first time experiencing any Westminster system in action. She always puts our family first and is a huge support. Thank you for being here.

Now, with them is my son Jude. Jude has been looking forward to today for a very long time, not just simply because he loves this building and all of you fine people but because today is his fourth birthday. I appreciate your indulgence, Mr. Speaker. We all know how important it is to share birthdays. I thank both of you for taking the time to be here today to allow me to share in it. I would ask them all to please rise and receive the traditional warm welcome.

The Speaker: The Minister of Agriculture and Rural Development, followed by Fort McMurray-Wood Buffalo.

Mr. Olson: Thank you, Mr. Speaker. This is a tough act to follow, but it does make the point of how important one's family is. Many of us here, I know, probably spend more time with our staff and co-workers than we do with our family. It is my great pleasure today to introduce to you and through you to all members of the Assembly my staff in my office. They work very hard. They are professionals who are committed not only to agriculture but to all Albertans. One of the best things about them is that they make me laugh. They're great people, and they also keep me young. I'll just call their names, ask them to stand, and then we can acknowledge them once they've all stood: my chief of staff, Nick Harsulla, in the members' gallery; my correspondence assistant, Tracy Kully; my scheduler, Brittney Timperley; my press secretary – Julie, stand up – who says that she prefers to be called the agricultural spin doctor rather than a political animal; and my special assistant, Shannon McLaughlin. Colleagues, if you could please acknowledge them.

Thank you.

The Speaker: The hon. Member for Fort McMurray-Wood Buffalo, followed by the leader of the Liberal opposition.

Mr. Allen: Thank you, Mr. Speaker. Well, it's truly a pleasure to rise today and introduce to you and through you to all members of this Assembly a wonderful ambassador for the regional municipality of Wood Buffalo as well as a dear friend, Tracy McKinnon. Tracy is the current chair of the Fort McMurray Catholic school board, was the past co-chair of the child and family services authority in Fort McMurray, and she has just recently completed her term with the Wood Buffalo Health Advisory Council. As you can see, Tracy is a very active member of our community. She is here in Edmonton, along with the Alberta School Boards Association Advocacy Committee, promoting partners in education. I was pleased to attend their MLA reception last night promoting conversations between the Alberta school board zones 2 and 3 and the members of this Assembly. I'd ask that she now rise and receive the warmest welcome of this Assembly.

The Speaker: The hon. leader of the Liberal opposition, followed by Lac La Biche-St. Paul-Two Hills.

Dr. Sherman: Thank you, Mr. Speaker. It's my pleasure to rise and introduce to you and through you to all members of this Assembly Kathryn Doyle, a 14-year-old honour student who attends Lorne Akins school in St. Albert. She's here with her mother, Donna Doyle. On May 10 Kathryn will participate in an Olympian distance challenge, where swimmers can see how far they can swim in two hours. The money raised benefits diabetes research in Alberta. Last year she was a top fundraiser, raising over $1,700 and swimming eight kilometres. This year she wants to raise $4,000 and swim over nine and a half kilometres. I know she's written some of you, and I encourage all the MLAs to give her their support. In fact, I think she's already sent out a tweet, that I'll retweet out, and I'd encourage every other member to do that as well. I'd ask Kathryn and her mother to rise and receive the traditional warm welcome of the Assembly.

I'd also like to introduce you to Frank Klemen and his assistant Mary Egan. Frank is the president of Support to Individuals at Risk in Everyone's Neighbourhood Society, or SIRENS. SIRENS' mission is to improve the lives of youth at risk and the mentally ill suffering in the Edmonton area. They'll be leading the first-ever aboriginal parade through downtown Edmonton on June 20, 2015. They're always looking for volunteers and support, and I encourage members to check them out. Mary's Facebook page is Mary Egan. Together we can truly make a difference in the lives of people in our community. I'd ask Frank and Mary to rise and receive the traditional warm welcome of the Assembly.

1:40

Mr. Speaker, my last one is a very special introduction. Her name is Eva Bereti. Eva grew up in a residential school, where she was treated poorly. Having said that, she got an education, and she taught in the education system for 31 years, 28 of those years in the Catholic school system. She helped found Maskwacis school. She helped found a lunch program for aboriginal children in Catholic schools. She brought children and their parents to the Faculty Club to let them know what it's like to go to university in an education atmosphere. She has worked tirelessly to help improve the lives of vulnerable children and their families. She herself has given birth to four children, has eight grandchildren, and still has a lot more to do. I'd ask Eva to rise and receive the traditional warm welcome of the Assembly.

The Speaker: The hon. Member for Lac La Biche-St. Paul-Two Hills.

Mr. Saskiw: Thank you, Mr. Speaker. It is a great pleasure to introduce to you and through you to all members of the Assembly a constituent of mine, Dixie Dahlstedt from Ashmont. Dixie was born and raised in Edmonton and attended both the University of Alberta and the University of Manitoba, graduating with an honours degree in architecture. Dixie has worked on many projects familiar to all of us, served as a lecturer at Mount Royal college, and served on the board of Alberta Ballet, all before moving to New York, where she worked at one of the top three architectural firms in New York City before starting her own firm. She is an outstanding Albertan and has recently returned home. I'd ask that she rise and receive the traditional warm welcome of the Assembly.

The Speaker: Thank you.

Ministerial Statements

The Speaker: The hon. Minister of Jobs, Skills, Training and Labour for a ministerial statement.

National Day of Mourning

Mr. Lukaszuk: Thank you, Mr. Speaker. I rise today to recognize an important and very sombre day across our nation. That is April 28th, National Day of Mourning, the day that we remember and honour those lives that were lost or injured on the job. It also serves as a critical reminder to all of us to renew and reaffirm our commitment to improving health and safety in our workplaces. We must work vigilantly to prevent further workplace deaths, injuries, and diseases.

Each day in Alberta, Mr. Speaker, more than 2 million people go to work with the expectation of arriving home healthy and safe at the end of their shift. It brings to me great sadness to say that this isn't always the case. In 2013 188 of our workers did not make it home to their loved ones. The lives of 37 Alberta workers were lost as a result of motor vehicle accidents. An additional 52 Alberta workers never made it home to their families because of preventable work incidents, and a sobering 99 of our workers passed away last year as a result of occupational diseases due to past exposures. I offer my deepest condolences to the families, friends, and co-workers whose lives have been forever changed by these workplace injuries and fatalities.

National Day of Mourning reminds us all that despite these tragic events there is a community of support in our province, across the country, and around the world that can help guide us through this sadness. National Day of Mourning is also an important reminder of why we do what we do, why we must be relentless in our efforts to keep Alberta workplaces healthy and safe. While we pause to reflect on this one day of mourning, April 28, we must every day be vigilant in our effort to protect the living, to ensure that no more fathers, children, or spouses have to endure the pain of learning their loved ones won't be returning home.

There is not one incident, not one set of circumstances under which workplace death, injury, or disease can be dismissed or excused. The province continues to invest in health and safety and creating measures to prevent these unacceptable losses. We have recently graduated our first class of occupational health and safety peace officers, and every year more officers are taking proactive measures. I would like to thank our Minister of Justice for his help in that project.

In addition to our compliance activities we continue to invest directly in our occupational disease and injury prevention program. We fully understand that a majority of our workplace deaths from occupational disease are from past failures to understand the impacts of minerals, chemicals, and other substances.

On this day of mourning I hope all Albertans will take a moment to think of those who lost their lives on the job. Talk about it at your safety meetings and around the lunchroom table and again at home at the dinner table with your families. We all have a role to play in keeping our workplaces healthy and safe.

Thank you, Mr. Speaker.

The Speaker: The hon. Leader of the Official Opposition or someone on behalf of Cardston-Taber-Warner.

Mr. Bikman: Thank you, Mr. Speaker, and thank you, Minister, for speaking so compassionately in commemorating this day of mourning as we remember those injured and killed on the job. Our deepest sympathies go out to all who remember and mourn on a more personal level.

Those of us sitting here today work in a safe place. An accidental slip of the tongue may embarrass us, but we won't likely need first aid, just a little help getting our foot out of our mouth. However, many jobs do expose people to risks of injury and, sadly, even death. Years of experience, with lessons learned the hard way, have brought us to a point where job risks are being mitigated. Technology, education, and training are playing an important role. In conjunction with trade associations and stakeholder engagement effective safety programs are being developed and implemented. Some younger employees may not be used to following workplace rules and don't realize that safe procedures and practices have evolved over time and often at great cost and in injury to earlier workers. If we don't learn from our mistakes, we're destined to repeat them.

When I teach life skills and employability to trades students, I always emphasize the importance of learning all the rules and procedures and asking questions about any they don't understand or are having trouble learning. "Lloyd can't hitchhike anymore," I say to get their attention. When they ask what I mean, I explain that Lloyd had been taught and was clear on a procedure for safely removing the steel guide pins on the sides of the live roll at the back of an oil field trailer or bed truck. The swamper, a truck driver's helper, has to grasp the three- to four-centimetre pin with just the tip of his thumb and finger. That's so that if the load slips or slides while it's being winched on, he won't get hurt. Being in a hurry one day, Lloyd grabbed the pin with his thumb wrapped all the way around it just a moment before the load slid. It pinched his thumb, severing it. Preventable? Of course. Properly trained and aware of the risks? He was. So how did it happen? In a moment of haste Lloyd thought he'd be okay just this once. He wasn't.

We need constant vigilance, regular review, remedial training, watching out for each other, timely feedback, getting in the habit of always doing it right the first time, the safe way. We now have new OH and S inspectors, that were referred to, trained to enforce safety rules on the job sites – they need to – in a consistent and timely manner. Safety is everyone's responsibility. There must never be situations where pressure is allowed to compromise proven procedures for the sake of expediency. "Just this once" should never be uttered or allowed or even thought.

Workers and their families are depending on us as legislators to do our part to ensure all job sites are safe. I know it's the fondest wish of all of us here that Alberta workers will return home safely at the end of each day.

The Speaker: Hon. members, unanimous consent is likely to be asked for by Edmonton-Centre. Please proceed.

Ms Blakeman: Indeed, Mr. Speaker, I would ask my colleagues in the Assembly if they would be willing to grant unanimous consent to the leaders of the third party and the fourth party or their representatives to be able to respond to the minister's statement.

Thank you very much.

The Speaker: As you know, by the rules, hon. members, unanimous consent is required for others to participate. We have at least three requests at this stage from three separate entities. I'll ask one question. Does anybody object to granting unanimous consent for these other representatives to join in this discussion? If you do, please say so now.

[Unanimous consent granted]

The Speaker: Let us proceed with the hon. Member for Calgary-Mountain View, followed by Edmonton-Strathcona.

1:50

Dr. Swann: Thank you, Mr. Speaker. All workplace deaths are preventable. They arise from unsafe working conditions, lack of training, unsafe choices. Workplace deaths are a tragedy individually, in a family, and in a community. Alberta had 110 occupational deaths in 2007, roughly 9 deaths per 100,000 worker-year population. Last year there were 173 deaths on the job. The workplace fatality rate has declined in the last few years, according to WCB, but Alberta and B.C. still have among the highest in Canada, excluding the Northwest Territories. Alberta employs only 1.4 health and safety inspectors per 10,000 workers. The national average is 2 per 10,000 workers. Occupational health and safety prosecutions, already among the lowest in Canada, dropped to only a few last year despite 173 deaths on the job. Farm workers in Alberta died at a higher rate, 10 per 100,000, averaging 18 farm deaths per year over the last 20 years. Unacceptable, preventable tragedies.

It must be mentioned that this includes 25 major injuries per death at a huge health care cost, not borne by these corporations but by our public health system, according to the Alberta Centre for Injury Control & Research.

Deaths and disabling injuries among farm workers are particularly common and troubling in light of this government's deliberate exclusion of paid farm workers, even on the large factory farms – beef, chicken, hog, and dairy – from any oversight. It's shocking to most Alberta consumers to learn that the very people that provide our daily bread, potatoes, corn, and beef do not have the protection of occupational health and safety or workers' compensation. After a decade of denial and referral to committees this government refuses to give farm workers, including children, the right to and the benefit of what every other worker enjoys in the workplace in the 21st century: standard workplace protection, timely inspection, and diligent investigation of deaths or injuries.

Loss of life due to preventable work-related injury is a most fundamental responsibility for modern government. Only the first step is to ensure a well-educated workforce. Laws are essential where lives are at stake, including legislated standards and enforcement of those standards. Albertans, including children, deserve a higher level of investment in prevention in workplaces today.

This National Day of Mourning must be matched by action and investment in the evidence that leads to safer workplaces and safe workers. We can and we must do better on this recurring theme of neglect in Alberta today.

Thank you, Mr. Speaker.

The Speaker: The hon. Member for Edmonton-Strathcona, followed by Fort McMurray-Wood Buffalo.

Ms Notley: Thank you, Mr. Speaker. I'd first like to acknowledge the families and loved ones of those Albertans who have lost their lives this year, in particular the most recent Albertan to have lost his life at work, Shane Daye, who passed away this week. My condolences and those of my caucus go out to his family and to all families of workers who have died or been seriously injured on the job.

Mr. Speaker, I'd like to suggest that in Alberta the government's failure to protect workers from injury and death in the workplace has been tragically inadequate for years. Alberta has the worst occupational health and safety laws in the country. New rules that would allow occupational health and safety officers to issue tickets haven't resulted in a single fine. We have ridiculously low maximum penalties in Alberta for employers who put their workers at risk, and we're barely enforcing those. Just this month we learned that the number of safety breaches that the Crown prosecutes has dropped dramatically this year, with no adequate explanation. Finally, this PC government refuses to extend occupational health and safety protection to farm workers, resulting in hundreds of needless deaths and serious injuries.

Now, Mr. Speaker, where workers can't count on the government to help them keep safe, one would hope that the tools would be there for them to do that themselves. Unfortunately, Alberta is still the only province in the country which refuses to mandate joint worker-employer work-site health and safety committees. This mechanism works throughout the country to bring down workplace injuries but not here in Alberta because this government won't let it.

This year in particular, Mr. Speaker, the government's failure to work in good faith with its own unions' health and safety representatives resulted in correctional officers at the Remand Centre going on a wildcat strike over unsafe working conditions. The government's response: firing workers and bringing in the most antidemocratic legislation this province has seen in decades.

Mr. Speaker, if we are truly going to recognize the Albertans killed and injured at work, we owe it to them to do our job as legislators. That means extending occupational health and safety protection to farm workers, ensuring that we have enough officials to enforce workplace safety laws, providing a vehicle for workers to keep themselves safe, and listening to the concerns of those working people when they raise them. That and only that is how we honour the memories of the many workers who have been killed or seriously injured at work in the past year.

Thank you.

The Speaker: The hon. Member for Fort McMurray-Wood Buffalo.

Mr. Allen: Thank you, Mr. Speaker. I'd like to thank the hon. minister for his comments today on the upcoming day of mourning. With about 55 per cent of the citizens of Fort McMurray-Wood Buffalo being either directly or indirectly involved in the oil sands industry, our residents do have a strong focus on safety, both on the job site and in their everyday lives, yet accidents still occur.

In fact, this past Sunday our community received the devastating news that it had lost a loved one in a tragic workplace accident, Mr. Shane Daye. As with other accidents and deaths that occur in my area, we make a concerted effort to contact the companies and try and establish what can be done for the families as well as to prevent future incidents. I did take the opportunity to speak with a Suncor representative, and the company has been deeply troubled by this horrible event. Suncor espouses a strong culture of employee safety with their journey to zero policy. They express that workplace injuries are completely unacceptable, and they're doing everything in their ability to find out why this accident happened in order to prevent future injuries. I offer my sincerest condolences to the family as well as to our greater community for this shocking loss.

Mr. Speaker, we're all strongly impacted by this and other events, and on April 28, the day of mourning, we are reminded that everybody needs to be vigilant regarding safety in the workplace. It is imperative that everyone – workers, family members, industry, and government – recognize that we all have a role to play in protecting workers.

Thank you, Mr. Speaker.

The Speaker: Thank you.

Are there others?

If not, I beg your indulgence to allow me to revert briefly to Introduction of Guests to recognize a group of students who have travelled a long way to be here and have an equally long trip back to make it there before dark. Does anyone object to reverting to a brief intro?

[Unanimous consent granted]

Introduction of Guests

(continued)

The Speaker: Bonnyville-Cold Lake, please.

Mrs. Leskiw: Thank you, and thank you to the Assembly. It's a pleasure to introduce to you and through you to all members of this Assembly 26 fabulous students from my constituency of Bonnyville-Cold Lake. The school is St. Dominic in Cold Lake. It's a pleasure that they're here today. Their teacher is Mr. Benoit Côté, who happens to be the hon. Member from Dunvegan-Central Peace-Notley's son-in-law. I would ask all the students from St. Dom and the parents and the teachers to stand up – you can rise – and receive the traditional warm welcome of this Assembly.

The Speaker: Very briefly, the hon. Associate Minister – International and Intergovernmental Relations.

Ms Woo-Paw: Well, thank you very much, Mr. Speaker. It's my pleasure to introduce to you and through you Mr. Wei Liu, program administrator with University of Alberta International, which supports the global academic leadership development program. This exciting program, sponsored by the China Scholarship Council, selects administrators from universities across China to study at the U of A for three months and exposes them to Canadian university administration practices. Ninety university administrators from 35 universities have participated in this program since 2012. The scholarship council actually said that the U of A received the highest number of these participants in the world. We're joined today by Mr. Wei, who is also joined by Mr. Xiaobing Lin, interpreter and PhD student at the U of A. They are seated in the members' gallery, and I'd like to ask these two members to rise and receive the traditional warm welcome of the House.

2:00

Mr. Speaker, as you can see, I have one more introduction to make. Joining us today are also 38 senior administrators from a wide range of faculties such as medicine, economics, engineering, cultural studies, and resources and environment representing 21 universities across China. They're here, actually, to develop crosscultural understanding of education and to foster innovative new capacities. I'm going to ask you to stand as I mention the university: Fujian Agriculture and Forestry University; University of Electronic Science and Technology of China; Southwest Jiaotong University; Ocean University of China; Southeast University; Sichuan University; Central China Normal University; Shaanxi Normal University; Shanghai International Studies University; Anhui Agricultural University; Liaoning University; Zhejiang University; Central China Normal University; Lanzhou University, science and engineering; Guangxi University; Beijing University; Hunan University of Science and Technology; Harbin Normal University; Jilin University; Changchun University of Science and Technology; and No. 3 Military Medical University. Please give them the warm welcome of the House.

Oral Question Period

The Speaker: Let's jump straight in, please, starting with the official Leader of Her Majesty's Loyal Opposition.

Provincial Budget Documents

Ms Smith: Mr. Speaker, we have several of this government's former Finance ministers condemning the budget that was passed yesterday. Now the Auditor General has joined them. Yesterday he told the Public Accounts Committee, "It would be best for Albertans to have a budget presented before the start of the year, in the same way that the actual results will be presented." He made it clear that the budget currently does not follow basic accounting rules and that it should. Will the Premier order the Finance minister to take the advice of the Auditor General?

Mr. Horner: Well, Mr. Speaker, that isn't exactly what the Auditor General said yesterday. It's unfortunate that the opposition wants to put it in that context.

I want to be very clear that the Alberta government's financial statements follow public-sector accounting principles, and the consolidated surplus-deficit calculation that we do is the same consolidated surplus-deficit calculation the federal government uses and most other jurisdictions that follow public-sector accounting rules and principles.

Mr. Speaker, regardless of whether we use the consolidated constructed system, which the Auditor General likes, which is what we're building for the end of the year anyway, the numbers stay the same.

Ms Smith: Well, Mr. Speaker, it was exactly what the Auditor General said. That's why I quoted it.

Also yesterday the assistant deputy minister of Finance stated this. "The budget is a policy choice of government. A government of the day could choose to move to a budget that's based on a financial statements basis at some point in the future. That has not been the choice of [this] government." His point was clear. This government intentionally adopted this deceptive budget presentation. The Auditor General thinks the time wasted on interpreting the budget would be better spent on debating the government's fiscal policy. Why won't the government take the advice of the Auditor General?

Mr. Horner: Well, actually, I do agree with the Auditor General's assertion that this time that we're spending debating the format of what is a policy document does take away from the time that we could be spending talking about fiscal discipline and the fact that we are building Alberta. We're using the resources at hand to do exactly what Albertans have asked us to do. We are saving for the future, Mr. Speaker, we are building for tomorrow, and we are making sure that we are living in a fiscally responsible province, with the strongest balance sheet, according to Standard & Poor's, the credit-rating agency, of any jurisdiction in the country.

Ms Smith: Mr. Speaker, the Auditor General was blunt on this topic. The Finance minister would do well to read the Hansard on it. He was comfortable enough to go on the record and make his viewpoint known. This government isn't fooling him, and they certainly aren't fooling Albertans. Albertans know that they are running a multibillion dollar consolidated cash deficit and that by the time of the next election we will have $21 billion worth of debt. Why won't this government come clean with Albertans?

Mr. Horner: Well, you know, I would really appreciate it if the hon. Leader of the Opposition would come clean as well in the sense that she's talking about consolidated financial statements not in the way the public-sector accounting principles would apply but in the way that she would do her chequebook, Mr. Speaker. That's not the way $40 billion corporations manage themselves. It's not the way that the federal government manage themselves. To follow that logic, the federal government doesn't have a $2.9 billion deficit. They've got a hundred billion dollar deficit. I'm sure the Prime Minister would be pleased to understand that the Wildrose believes that they are lying about their financial situation, too.

The Speaker: Second main set of questions.

FOIP Request Process

Ms Smith: Well, Mr. Speaker, the Auditor General isn't the only independent officer this government is ignoring. They're also refusing to take the Information Commissioner's advice while shamelessly claiming that she endorses their political interference in the freedom of information process. As the CBC reported yesterday, PC political staff were involved in delaying the release of FOIP requests. Can the Premier please explain how the Health minister's press secretary could legitimately know in December that a FOIP document was going to be released in February?

Mr. Scott: Mr. Speaker, I'm very pleased to rise. As I've said previously, this government is delivering unprecedented transparency in Alberta. We're doing that not only through the gold standard expense disclosure policy and the gold standard salary disclosure policy; we are also doing a review of the FOIP Act.

Now, with respect to the issue that was raised by the hon. member, I understand a letter has been sent to the Privacy Commissioner, and that's the appropriate forum for that to be reviewed.

Ms Smith: I'll try again, Mr. Speaker. The CBC report clearly shows that the Health minister's communications staff was strategizing a political response to an embarrassing freedom of information request almost two months before it would be released. They also show that the minister's staff was made aware of who asked for it, a clear violation of the privacy laws. To the Premier: how can Albertans trust the information that comes out when his government's political operatives are intercepting it before it goes public?

The Speaker: The hon. Minister of Service Alberta.

Mr. Griffiths: Thank you very much, Mr. Speaker. According to the FOIP legislation – I hope the members across the way read it – it says that the head of the public body, which would be the minister in this case, has the authority for releasing the FOIP request. The head of the public body, in this case the minister, has the ability to delegate that authority to somebody else but has ultimate responsibility to review the material. There's also in the FOIP legislation the requirement that the third party whose information is going to be released be consulted, which is why Health had the opportunity to review it, and the minister delegated somebody to check it.

Ms Smith: Mr. Speaker, we were told that they should only review it five days in advance – this was two months in advance – and you're not supposed to know who requested the information. Both are in clear violation.

This government refuses to uphold basic tenets of transparency. Their interference in the freedom of information process just goes to show that there is no line too far for them to cross if it means protecting their political interests and saving their scandal-plagued party from further embarrassment. To the Premier. This is the legacy of the party that he's going to hand over to his new leader in September. What is he going to do to correct it?

Mr. Griffiths: Mr. Speaker, time and time again we have heard the members talk about vetting and about reviewing and about interfering, yet all we've seen so far is a minister who had the authority under the legislation to review what material was going to be released, which is, quite frankly, his obligation in the protection of people's privacy as well. It's his obligation to do so. That's all that happened. If they ever could demonstrate where any interference came, besides looking at the material to make sure that Albertans were protected, I'd like to see them table it.

The Speaker: Third and final main set of questions.

Ms Smith: Happy to, Minister.

Yesterday I was asked why an everyday Albertan should care about the government interfering in the freedom of information process. Well, let me tell you why. Several months ago the Alberta Federation of Labour put in a FOIP request for the government's calculations to justify their pension changes. The Finance department promised the information by March 10. That information is now 43 days late. In the next few days we are all expected to make decisions on this topic while the government is suppressing this information. To the Finance minister: what is going on in his department?

Mr. Griffiths: Mr. Speaker, it specifically lays out why requests can take longer than 30 days in the legislation under section 14. Some of those are when large volumes of data are being requested, when they have to be specially reviewed by a third party.

Mr. Speaker, it's important for everyone to understand that FOIP requests just in the last two years from elected officials, particularly across the way, have increased by almost 500 per cent. Our FOIP individuals who are working on this do it as quickly as they can, as efficiently, as effectively as possible, but given the volume of requests sometimes they do have to ask for extensions.

2:10

Ms Smith: Mr. Speaker, the Alberta Federation of Labour paid the $6,200 fee for the information, and they still aren't getting it. There's really only one conclusion as to why the government doesn't want this information out. They based their entire argument about the planned pension changes on the premise that the plans are unsustainable. What if that isn't true and these documents prove it? To the Finance minister: doesn't he realize that by delaying the release of this information, it makes it look like he's got something to hide?

Mr. Horner: Well, Mr. Speaker, as I understand it, at Public Accounts the other day the chair of Public Accounts, the hon. Member for Airdrie, heard the officials in my department talk about some thousand scenarios that they have run based on the different scenarios that you can operate with: the mortality rates, the discount rates, the contributions, all of those sorts of things. My understanding is that they are actively working on providing that information. But as the hon. Minister of Service Alberta has rightly pointed out, this is a fairly significant amount of data that we are putting together to ensure that the competitive . . .

The Speaker: Thank you.

Ms Smith: A simple solution, then, Mr. Speaker: slow the legislation down until you can table the reports.

It comes down to this, Mr. Speaker. The freedom of information process exists to prevent the government from suppressing and hiding damaging information about their mistakes. The process must work free of political interference, but in the last two days alone we've seen several examples that it doesn't. The AFL, the opposition parties, the Canadian Taxpayers Federation have all had their freedom requests interfered with. The credibility and the integrity of government information is at stake. What will the Premier do about it?

The Speaker: The hon. Minister of Service Alberta.

Mr. Griffiths: Thank you, Mr. Speaker. As I pointed out before, a near 500 per cent increase in the volume of FOIP requests from elected officials across the way has really got everyone bogged down trying to meet all the requests. That's what the delays are caused by.

If we want to talk about transparency, I would challenge the members across the way, if they're so embracing transparency, to release to the public on a website all of the requests they've made, all of the money they've asked to be waived so that taxpayers pay for their FOIP requests, what types of requests they've made, and let Albertans see that some members have requested very frivolous, expensive FOIP requests that waste time.

The Speaker: The hon. Member for Edmonton-Centre, followed by Edmonton-Highlands-Norwood.

Bitumen Extraction Resumption Approval

Ms Blakeman: Thanks very much, Mr. Speaker. An oil company has had repeated leaks of bitumen over a period of time from wells in the same area. All sites continue to leak uncontrolled every day, some contaminating groundwater. They don't know what is causing it, and neither does Alberta Environment. They don't know how to stop it, and neither does Alberta Environment. So let me get this straight. The Alberta regulator has allowed this company to restart, using the same process in the same place but a little further away and with a little less pressure. To the minister of the environment: why is the minister letting the department stand by while this company is allowed to perpetrate this insanity all over again?

The Speaker: Thank you.

The hon. Minister of Environment and Sustainable Resource Development.

Mr. Campbell: Well, thank you, Mr. Speaker. This would fall under the Alberta Energy Regulator. If the company has met the requirements of the Alberta Energy Regulator, they can continue to do business.

The Speaker: First supplemental.

Ms Blakeman: Thanks very much. Back to the same minister. Now, the company says that the problem is faulty well bores. Scientists say that there is a change in the geological formation and that as far back as 2001 more than 250 wells failed in that area due to geological shear stress generated by steaming operations, yet the government is going to allow the same company to continue steam pressure. Why won't the minister stop this resumption until the research is in and subject to peer and public review?

The Speaker: The hon. Minister of Energy.

Mrs. McQueen: Well, thank you, Mr. Speaker. The Alberta Energy Regulator's approval to resume steaming operations at the Primrose site has strings attached to it. These operations must be at least one kilometre from the restricted area and use lower injection volumes and have improved monitoring protocols. There are rules in place for this to happen.

Ms Blakeman: Oh, my. Well, the latest reports show this particular company had 33 high-risk enforcements, of which 12 are for persistent noncompliance, in just 18 months, but very few fines or noncompliance fees have been allocated, so I'd say that it was a pretty high-risk group to be allowing to reopen wells in an area that seems prone to leaks. Once again, what is the minister's tolerance threshold for noncompliance? For everyone else in the world it's three strikes and you're out.

The Speaker: The hon. minister of environment.

Mr. Campbell: Well, thank you, Mr. Speaker. We have taken our jobs very seriously when dealing with the company that the hon. member across the way is talking about. We have filed charges under the environmental protection act against this company. If they meet the requirements and they continue to do the work that has to be done in a responsible manner, we'll continue to let them operate.

The Speaker: The hon. leader of the ND opposition, followed by Calgary-Foothills.

Public Service Pension Plan Amendment Bill

Mr. Mason: Thank you very much, Mr. Speaker. This Conservative government's attacks on the pensions of Albertans are being pushed through without adequate consultation. The advice of pension boards, who are responsible for administering the pension plans, has been more or less ignored. In short, this government is riding roughshod over public employees, retirees, and experts alike. My question is to the Finance minister. Why don't you pause, consult with Albertans properly, and reconsider your present course of action?

Mr. Horner: Mr. Speaker, this sounds strangely like a motion that was introduced in the House last night on Bill 9, which we spoke to and on which I actually adjourned the debate last night. We have taken stock of what all of the pension boards have told us around the sustainability issue that they have. We've also listened to experts in the field, including the Auditor General and others from other jurisdictions, who have told us in no uncertain terms that to do nothing is the wrong thing to do, that we need to do something to ensure the long-term sustainability and viability of those pensions.

Mr. Mason: Well, do something, do anything, but why don't you talk to Albertans and give Albertans a voice in the decision before you make that decision. It's clear that opposition to Bill 9 is strong and widespread. Many expert voices have challenged the government's rationale for these changes. To the Finance minister: why won't you support the NDP efforts to refer Bill 9 to the Standing Committee on Alberta's Economic Future so MLAs can hear from experts and the public alike before voting on the bill?

Mr. Horner: Well, Mr. Speaker, I did speak to this last night, and I would encourage folks to read Hansard and my comments to that at about 11:05 last night. I would also say that there has been across the globe numerous experts talking about defined benefit pension plans. Eighty per cent of Albertans do not have a defined benefit plan, and as I said last night, that's a concern for this government. That's a concern for many governments in North America. That's why this government introduced pooled registered pension plans. That's why this government wants to talk about CPP with the federal government . . .

The Speaker: Thank you.

Final supplemental.

Mr. Mason: Thank you very much. Well, the minister forgets to mention that a previous Minister of Finance put an end to previous attempts to bring about pension reform for all Canadians. This government is complicit in that decision. It may have changed its mind now, but the fact of the matter is that this government derailed plans for adequate pensions for all Albertans. Albertans are trying to speak up on this issue, Mr. Minister, and the government is deaf. Why won't you withdraw Bill 9, consult with Albertans, and let your next leader decide the course of action for your party?

Mr. Horner: It's rather interesting, Mr. Speaker. This party says that I should listen to previous Finance ministers, and that party says that I shouldn't listen to previous Finance ministers. How about we listen to this Finance minister? One, we are concerned about all Albertans' retirement, and we are encouraging ways for Albertans to save for their retirement. Two, what we are doing for those employees of government, not for all Albertans because it doesn't apply to all Albertans, is protecting defined benefit pensions for the future, the past, and the present.

Emergency Turnarounds on Highways

Mr. Webber: Mr. Speaker, emergency professionals from across the province have expressed an issue concerning the lack of emergency turnarounds on our Alberta highways. I've been told that due to inefficient turnarounds on Alberta's highways and freeways emergency vehicles are often forced to make these direction changes on bridges and overpasses rather than on the roadway itself, and this has become a safety concern. To the Minister of Transportation: what is the current standard used in the design and construction of Alberta's roadways for emergency vehicles, and what would be the cost to increase these access points on existing roadways?

2:20

Mr. Drysdale: Well, Mr. Speaker, that's a pretty detailed question to answer in 30 seconds, but I'll give it a try. Emergency vehicles should always turn around under safe conditions. There are all kinds of different options for turning around. We do have crossroads in certain areas, but we can't put a turnaround every kilometre on our highways. It would just be way too expensive. Also, those intersections cause more accidents. If the member would like, he could come to my office, and I could give him a more detailed explanation.

Mr. Webber: Thank you, Minister. I'll do that.

To the same minister: given that the government is utilizing P3s for their new road construction, can you advise if there is a different standard used by these contractors than would be recommended by traffic standards Canada?

Mr. Drysdale: Mr. Speaker, I'm not sure if I follow that one. The only P3s we're building in road construction are the ring roads, and the design and standards are the same standards and design we use to build all of our roads in this province. I'm not sure what he's talking about.

Mr. Webber: To the same minister: given that several Alberta emergency services have indicated an inability to shorten their response times due to this issue, what is your department willing to do to change the existing roads?

Mr. Drysdale: Mr. Speaker, again I'm having trouble following that. We do have our standard intersections and off-ramps on these ring roads. Like I said, we can't put more intersections on our freeways because that creates another safety hazard that's probably far worse than the one the member is talking about.

The Speaker: Thank you.

The hon. Member for Calgary-Fish Creek, followed by Bonnyville-Cold Lake.

FOIP Request Process (continued)

Mrs. Forsyth: Thank you, Mr. Speaker. On August 9, 2012, the Wildrose submitted a FOIP request to AHS for the expenses of former health executives. These should have been returned within a few months, but instead AHS took at least six separate extensions. Six months later they were only partially released. Meanwhile political staff in the minister's office had full access to the records. The minister himself was briefed. He knew not only the contents of the FOIP but also who was requesting the records two full months before the records were made public. To the Minister of Health: were your political staff at all involved in requesting or ensuring the numerous extensions in releasing this information?

Mr. Griffiths: Mr. Speaker, under FOIP section 14(1) it says, "The head of a public body," meaning the minister or his designate, "may extend the time for responding to a request for up to 30 days . . . with the Commissioner's permission" for a list of extenuating circumstances like the applicant doesn't give enough detail, there isn't enough time, or it's a complex issue. These requests were granted with the permission of the commissioner. I don't see what the issue is here.

Mrs. Forsyth: Minister, there's an issue.

Given that records show that on at least three different occasions our FOIP requests identified the applicant either as an opposition party, an elected official, or a political source and given that at least on one of these occasions information was unnecessarily withheld by someone within Alberta Health, how can the minister expect anyone to believe that his office has not politicized the freedom of information process?

Mr. Griffiths: Mr. Speaker, the FOIP Act is very clear. FOIP requests cannot be politicized. Ministers have the responsibility to fulfill the requests for FOIP. They have the personal responsibility as the minister or they can delegate and designate someone else. The requests have been fulfilled. There's no other issue here.

Mrs. Forsyth: All right. Let's try this one. For the last three years we have requested and have received the AHS capital submission outlining their infrastructure needs and, more importantly, the risk of not approving these projects, yet when we made the exact same request this year, for the first time ever – ever – the risks of the nonapproval messaging was completely removed. To the minister of accountability: do ministers routinely withhold information for no other reason than being embarrassed by your government?

Mr. Scott: Mr. Speaker, as I've said, Alberta has an excellent record of responding to FOIP requests. Of the 4,200 FOIP requests in the last fiscal year, 90 per cent were responded to within 30 days, and 96 per cent were responded to within 60 days. We're conducting a review of the act to make it even better, and that work is ongoing.

The Speaker: The hon. Member for Bonnyville-Cold Lake, followed by Innisfail-Sylvan Lake.

Public Safety in Bonnyville-Cold Lake

Mrs. Leskiw: Thank you, Mr. Speaker. Municipal officials in my constituency have been contacting me about the reduction of RCMP officers in their communities. As many of you know, the Bonnyville-Cold Lake area is booming, with more people living in our communities, more people on our roads, and, unfortunately, more crime. To the Minister of Justice: why are policing levels being reduced in communities that I represent?

The Speaker: The hon. Minister of Justice.

Mr. Denis: Thank you very much, Mr. Speaker. Actually, I'm pleased to get that question from the Member for Bonnyville-Cold Lake. I can advise her that actually no RCMP positions have been reduced in her area. In fact, earlier this year we announced that we would be increasing the number of RCMP officers by 40. That's an investment of $5.9 million. Of course, that will be decided by the RCMP commanding officers in Edmonton. If this member would like me to connect her with the RCMP, as they do operate independently, I would be happy to do so. It's part of our common-sense, conservative justice policies.

Mrs. Leskiw: I'm pleased to hear that, Minister, and you can count on me connecting with you on that.

Given that communities in my constituency are growing and that we see more dangerous driving on our highways with people speeding, texting, and drinking and driving, when are you going to get tough on these offences?

The Speaker: The hon. minister.

Mr. Denis: Thank you very much, Mr. Speaker. I think each of the offences that she mentions is serious. I want to remind all members of this Assembly and anybody who happens to be watching that we have brought in stronger drunk-driving legislation, stronger distracted-driving legislation, which we are reviewing. As well, we also passed Motion 504 I believe it was last week for higher fines on traffic violations. I think we should look at that, but I do think that seizing vehicles for excessive speed is going too far.

The Speaker: Final supplemental.

Mrs. Leskiw: Thank you. My second supplementary question is to the Minister of Transportation. Do you have data to suggest that these new laws are making an impact?

Mr. Drysdale: Indeed they are, Mr. Speaker. In the year and a half since Alberta's distracted-driving legislation came into force, almost 50,000 people were convicted of distracted driving. Awareness of this legislation is high. A 2012 survey observed that fewer drivers are using cellphones while behind the wheel, a drop from 11.7 per cent in 2007 to 1.4 per cent in 2012. In the first six months of tougher sanctions on impaired drivers we saw a 46 per cent decrease in the number of alcohol-related fatalities compared to the five-year average.

FOIP Request Process (continued)

Mrs. Towle: Serious concerns have been raised regarding the integrity of the freedom of information process and political interference by this government. The associate minister of transparency has shown that he does not understand his own portfolio. He remains confused on FOIP legislation and has clearly not read section 40 of the FOIP Act. Does the minister not understand section 40 of the FOIP Act, which clearly states that the actions of the former Deputy Premier are not in compliance with this legislation?

The Speaker: The hon. associate minister.

Mr. Scott: Thanks, Mr. Speaker. As I said, there are remedies under the act if somebody has a concern about the act. That includes sections 53 and 65. I understand that steps have been taken in that regard.

One point that I do want to make about the FOIP Act, that I think is important for the opposition to understand, is that it does cost money to react to a FOIP request. In the last year the government of Alberta spent about $9.5 million responding to 4,200 access requests. Of the $9.5 million, after fee waivers only about $100,000 was recovered by the government of Alberta. It's important to make sure that we have the right balance, Mr. Speaker, between access and protecting privacy.

Mrs. Towle: Goldy, this is embarrassing.

Given that this associate minister doesn't even know his own FOIP legislation and given that there is less transparency and more political interference than ever, Mr. Speaker, the government is going into debt paying for a gold-standard, do-nothing ministry. Will this associate minister step down, dissolve his ministry, and be the first member of this PC government to actually save taxpayers some money?

2:30

Mr. Griffiths: Mr. Speaker, I have personally witnessed the minister of transparency work very diligently on many pieces of legislation like salary disclosure. He has spent over a year working on consultations on the FOIP review to make sure that the act continues to improve and remains the gold standard across the country. I will continue to support this minister and the work that he does for the benefit of Albertans, from one end of this province to the other.

Mrs. Towle: Mr. Speaker, everyone knows this was a made-up ministry.

Given that $260,000 could be used – here's a thought – buying dialysis machines for everyday Albertans so they don't have to travel for treatment, will this minister admit that he does nothing of value; step down; and stop wasting taxpayer dollars on himself, extra political staffers, car allowances, and all the other fun stuff that comes with his do-nothing ministry?

Mr. Griffiths: Mr. Speaker, the hypocrisy from the Wildrose opposition astounds me every single day. First, they say that we're not protecting people's privacy and releasing information enough, and then they say that the entire ministry is frivolous. Well, protecting privacy and releasing information are critically important. I wonder, with millions of dollars spent on FOIP requests and given the fact that we have almost a 500 per cent increase in FOIP requests coming from those opposition members, which wastes people's energy, how many dialysis machines their wild goose chases could have paid for.

Childhood Immunization

Mr. Hehr: Mr. Speaker, in the third quarter AHS reported that in southern Alberta 22 per cent of children were not vaccinated for measles, mumps, and rubella and that 42 per cent were not vaccinated against tetanus, whooping cough, and polio. Jurisdictions such as Ontario, New Brunswick, and Manitoba all require students to be vaccinated before they attend school. All 50 states require the same. To the Associate Minister of Wellness: will Alberta have children that attend our schools have their shots to protect themselves and our society from these life-threatening diseases?

The Speaker: The hon. associate minister.

Mr. Rodney: Thank you very much, Mr. Speaker. Thank you to the member for the question. This is obviously a very, very important issue, especially for those whose families are dealing with this right now. He may or may not know that we have 20 confirmed cases in Alberta: eight in Calgary, seven in central, and five in Edmonton. Directly related to the question, there's a new case of measles here in town, including an infant under 12 months old, and I just want to point this out. This highlights the importance of immunization as a means of protecting vulnerable Albertans, and I encourage all Albertans to go to Health Link for more information and to get immunized.

Mr. Hehr: Well, that answer and $1.64 gets me a cup of coffee at Tim Hortons, Mr. Speaker.

To the same minister. Many schools in this province do not even allow peanuts in their schools due to the deadly consequences that could arise. Well, the same can be true if a child has not been vaccinated. If a parent cannot send a child to school with a peanut, why can they send a kid that has not been vaccinated to school, potentially causing an outbreak and a risk to public health?

Mr. Rodney: As a matter of fact, Mr. Speaker, under the Public Health Act students and staff at schools or child care facilities who have been exposed to measles and are susceptible to measles are required to stay home. They are required to stay home for a period of five days after first exposure through 21 days after the last exposure to measles. I can give you more in the next answer.

Mr. Hehr: Well, that's fabulous. The minister is doing something after the fact. What I'm asking him is to do something, be proactive to protect our society.

Given that Ontario, Manitoba, New Brunswick, and all 50 states require vaccinations for kids to attend school, will this government follow the lead of these jurisdictions, who have implemented policies that have science, common sense, and reason behind them, to protect kids and protect our society?

Mr. Rodney: Everything that we do in health and wellness is science based and evidence based. We normally carry about 15,000 doses of MMR vaccine as a three-month supply, but we've ramped it up and currently have about 90,000 doses. Please visit pharmacists and doctors and others to check into this. It's widely accessible. The current routine childhood program includes two doses of MMR at 12 months and at kindergarten ages. An additional 3,000 Albertans were immunized with the MMR vaccine in January and February of this year alone.

Women's Issues

Mr. Bilous: Mr. Speaker, yesterday a national research report confirmed what many women in this province already know. Based on measures of health, pay, leadership, and education for women Calgary and Edmonton ranked third-last and last across the country. Women in these cities earned between $17,000 and $21,000 a year less than men. To the minister responsible for the status of women in Alberta – oh, right; we're the only province without one. To the jobs minister: why does your PC government do nothing while women's equality in Alberta lags further and further behind?

Ms Jansen: I'd like to thank the member for this question and perhaps point out the fact, Mr. Speaker, that I have women's issues in my portfolio. I'm not sure if you knew that. One of the things I think is important to mention is that preliminary work has been undertaken by this government in developing a women's equality and advancement framework. I'm not sure if you know about that, but we had made the announcement, and it's certainly out there. I would be delighted to give you all of the details.

Mr. Bilous: Well, that's fabulous, Mr. Speaker. I wonder how quickly that's closing the income gap.

Given that now we're fighting to keep Alberta pensions safe from this PC government and given that women make up 70 per cent of public pension plan members, will the Minister of Finance admit that his attacks on pensions are only going to roll back gender equality in this province further and further?

Mr. Horner: Absolutely not, Mr. Speaker. In fact, what this Finance minister will tell the hon. member is that what we are doing is protecting the future incomes of those women and men who are working in the public sector for the government of Alberta or in municipalities. If you do nothing, like other jurisdictions, New Brunswick and PEI, in the years past, then you will be facing a situation in the future where those individuals may actually see their pension promise reduced. That's exactly what we are trying to avoid by taking action today. That's leadership.

The Speaker: Final supplemental.

Mr. Bilous: Thank you, Mr. Speaker. A reduction of benefits is a decrease in pay there, Mr. Minister.

Given that addressing gender inequality isn't just about encouraging words or celebrating a day and given that this government has failed to deliver on things like full-day kindergarten and child care, that would remove barriers to full-time employment for women, back to the minister of jobs and employment: why hasn't your government done anything to reduce barriers to full-time employment for women?

Ms Jansen: Again, Mr. Speaker, I thank the member for the question. You know, we have vital work that we need to do in this province. This government has recognized that we need to do that work. The women's equality and advancement framework proposes focused actions against a number of themes: violence against women and girls, women's economic security and prosperity, women's leadership in the democratic process, women's health and well-being, and women's legal and educational rights. We're working on that now. It is a priority for us, and we are delighted to be able to do this.

The Speaker: The hon. Member for Cardston-Taber-Warner, followed by Edmonton-Mill Woods.

North West Upgrader Project

Mr. Bikman: Thank you, Mr. Speaker. We know that, like most governments, this out-of-touch PC one is no better at picking corporate winners than any of the others. Can you say world-class magnesium plant? Currently we have high hopes that the North West upgrader will be a home run, but we know its costs are spiralling. Originally budgeted at $5.7 billion, revised in December 2013 by over 50 per cent to $8.5 billion, it's behind schedule and over budget. Could the minister please advise us how much in total the government is on the hook for?

The Speaker: The hon. Minister of Finance.

2:40

Mr. Horner: Well, thank you, Mr. Speaker. Through the Alberta Petroleum Marketing Commission they have entered into a commercial agreement with, I believe, CNRL and North West Upgrading. The first original terms of that, I believe, were around $350 million, which APMC is financing with CNRL and North West Upgrading. The important piece here is that this is an upgrader that will produce diesel in the province of Alberta. As the hon. member knows, in his jurisdiction there are times when we're short diesel in this province. I think this is a very valuable investment by the people of Alberta and partners . . .

The Speaker: Thank you.

Mr. Bikman: No disagreement on the need for more diesel fuel, Mr. Minister.

Given that significant Alberta taxpayer resources have been committed to this project, would the minister tell us what requirements there are that specify that Alberta suppliers will be used wherever and whenever practical?

Mr. Horner: Well, Mr. Speaker, in the interest of ensuring that Alberta taxpayers get the best value, we are not going to place conditions on the construction that may not allow that to happen. I am certain that there are a number of suppliers and manufacturers in our province who are sharpening their pencils because of a very large, very important project happening right in our province. Certainly, we encourage local, and we want to see local, but we are a market-based economy, and we're a market-based government. I'm sure the hon. members opposite would agree.

Mr. Bikman: Given that Alberta has world-class steel fabricators, as you've mentioned, doing outstanding work, will the minister tell us why components easily built by manufacturers here in total cost-effectiveness have been outsourced to offshore companies, given that some components reportedly had to be reworked once they got here because things like pressure-weld quality was substandard?

Mr. Horner: Well, Mr. Speaker, I don't think government should be involved in the day-to-day business decisions of a corporation, nor do I think that the Wildrose – oh, no. I forgot. They no longer have ideology as of last night.

An Hon. Member: It's not what it's cracked up to be.

Mr. Horner: It's not what it's cracked up to be. That's what it was.

Mr. Speaker, we don't get involved in the day-to-day details of the bid process of a private corporation. We're watching our investment. We're making sure that that investment is secure through the financial management of that corporation. Obviously, if there is some good value to be had, I'm sure the corporation is going to go after that value.

The Speaker: The hon. Member for Edmonton-Mill Woods, followed by Calgary-Shaw.

Victims of Crime

Mr. Quadri: Thank you, Mr. Speaker. The federal government recently introduced a Victims Bill of Rights that seeks to transform the criminal justice system by creating at the federal level clear rights for victims of crime. This is good news for crime victims across the province but raises the question as to what Alberta is doing in this respect. My question is to the Minister of Justice and Solicitor General. Can you assure my constituents of Edmonton-Mill Woods and all Albertans that this government will protect the victims of crime in Alberta?

The Speaker: The hon. Minister of Justice.

Mr. Denis: Thank you very much, Mr. Speaker. I want to thank the Member for Edmonton-Mill Woods for that question. I want to assure this member and all members of this House that Alberta Justice always has the goal of putting victims first. I was very happy to see the federal government table this new Victims Bill of Rights on April 3, 2014. The rights of victims are at the forefront whenever we want to be dealing with any matters to do with the criminal justice system. To put it on the record, Alberta Justice supports the federal Victims Bill of Rights. I'm looking forward to working with the federal minister to implement this and see how we can improve the rights of victims.

The Speaker: First supplemental.

Mr. Quadri: Thank you, Mr. Speaker. To the same minister again: can the minister stand in the House and assure my constituents that steps were taken to ensure that the victims of crime in Alberta were represented while the federal government was drafting this legislation?

The Speaker: The hon. minister.

Mr. Denis: Thank you again, Mr. Speaker. There was quite a bit of consultation, particularly at our federal-provincial-territorial Justice ministers' meetings, on this particular topic. We have written the federal government many times dealing with the rights of victims, but the most important one that we've talked about is reducing the need for preliminary inquiries. This can get very technical, but in layperson's terms, this would limit the number of times that a victim has to face the accused and testify, something that I think is very important. It would also help resolve cases more quickly. So we will continue advancing this as part of our common-sense, conservative approach to justice.

The Speaker: Final supplemental.

Mr. Quadri: Thank you, Mr. Speaker. To the same minister again: how is this government moving to ensure that as many burdens as possible are removed for the victims of crime?

The Speaker: The hon. minister.

Mr. Denis: Thank you again, Mr. Speaker. This government introduced a victims of crime fund, where money from surcharges on fines is put into the fund for victims of crime. This year the Premier and I just announced $9.1 million worth of new funding for 41 community police-based programs. What does this mean? This helps Albertans affected by criminal acts, including domestic violence, elder abuse, assault, and sexual exploitation. Some have even called it the gold standard.

The Speaker: The hon. Member for Calgary-Shaw, followed by Edmonton-Riverview.

Disaster Recovery Program Administration

Mr. Wilson: Thank you, Mr. Speaker. Last month the Ministry of Municipal Affairs admitted that only $48 million in DRP spending has been approved by LandLink and received by Albertans attempting to rebuild after the flood. This week we learned that $87 million was spent on underutilized temporary shelters. Now, we understand that there was some need for temporary shelters, but this government doesn't seem to understand the disconnect between the dismissal of handing out millions of dollars in contracts while ensuring that everyday Albertans have to fight tooth and nail for any dollar from the DRP program. How can the minister justify nickel and diming everyday Albertans while blindly handing over millions in sole-sourced contracts?

The Speaker: The hon. associate minister.

Mr. Fraser: Thank you, Mr. Speaker. The hon. Member for Edmonton-Riverview, those folks in the Alberta Emergency Management Agency, and I understand that you have to front-load in an emergency. You have to make sure that there are enough supplies to meet the demand. Simply, there were a hundred thousand people affected by this flood, 15,000 homes affected, and we wanted to make sure that nobody was left out in the cold as we approached the winter months. It was appropriate planning. We did our best, and we continue to work hard.

Mr. Wilson: Mr. Speaker, during budget estimates it was revealed that LandLink has billed taxpayers over $18 million to nickel and dime Albertans most impacted by the flood. As of a few weeks ago those thousands of victims that the member just referred to have received a total of $48 million to help them rebuild. Again,

LandLink gets $18 million; everyday residents, $48 million. Can the minister help me understand this, please?

Mr. Fraser: Mr. Speaker, again, who's nickel and diming here? It's this member when he talks about the civil servants in the Alberta Emergency Management Agency. What I can tell you is that these people served in Afghanistan. They're former police officers. They're former paramedics. They're part of our Canadian military that head up that agency. It's just disrespectful that this member would come out and say that they're nickel and diming people in High River. I can tell you that right now the mayor in High River is very supportive of this government in terms of what we've done. He said that everything we've done is appropriate and that we've spent the money well for the taxpayers.

Mr. Wilson: Mr. Speaker, given that in estimates it was revealed that LandLink may be able to bill taxpayers upwards of another $13 million to close the outstanding 275 appeals from the flood and given that LandLink has been advised that their contract will not be renewed once these appeals are closed, how can the minister assure Albertans that the money will flow to the flood victims as opposed to the coffers of this private company?

Mr. Fraser: Mr. Speaker, again, we all recognize that this is the worst natural disaster in Canadian history. Ten months after this flood people are moving back into their homes. We've seen a decrease down to 300 people in these temporary neighbourhoods. That means the work that we're doing is actually in fact working. What I can tell you also is that all of this is applicable under the federal DRP. This money is coming back to Alberta through the federal government and their $2.8 million commitment to this province. I can tell you that everybody is working together. Ten months after the flood we're doing our best for Albertans. We're doing it with them, for them, and beside them.

The Speaker: The hon. Member for Edmonton-Riverview, followed by Rimbey-Rocky Mountain House-Sundre.

Government Data Security

Mr. Young: Thank you, Mr. Speaker. Rightfully, a lot of attention has been paid to the protection of government-managed information. In fact, this Legislature has implemented many pieces of legislation that have addressed it. However, the protection of information and data is only as secure as the system's weakest link, the protocols established, and the ready responses in place. We cannot simply legislatively protect the front door when our data and information are exposed at the back door. Risk must be managed and incidents responded to. To the Minister of Service Alberta: does Alberta have effective province-wide IT security measures in place?

The Speaker: Thank you.

Mr. Griffiths: Well, Mr. Speaker, I appreciate the question. I can attest that the Department of Service Alberta has a very vigorous set of information security management directives that set the minimum standards for all departments, yet every department still goes through and can raise those standards for any sort of nuances that they may require in order to make sure that they have protected data in their systems. But we never presume that we are perfect. We constantly are vigorous in making sure that we're updating those standards and are securing the data sets that are so critical to keep private within our departments.

Mr. Young: Given the 2011 world-wide RSA token recall due to the associate algorithms being compromised, has the province of Alberta recalled the compromised RSA tokens and continued to use two-factor authentication for access to provincial systems?

The Speaker: The hon. Minister of Service Alberta.

Mr. Griffiths: Well, thank you very much, Mr. Speaker. Our provider for those tokens, EMC, advised us about the security breach. My understanding is that they had advised us that they didn't have to recall any of those tokens. They, in fact, enhanced their security systems and gave us the same protocol so that we could enhance ours. We didn't need to recall those systems, and we continue to be vigilant.

2:50

The Speaker: Final supplemental.

Mr. Young: Thank you, Mr. Speaker. To the same minister: has a risk profile for systems been established, and have users, developers, system managers, contractors, or otherwise undergone required screening certifications through the established national RCMP standards for security clearances?

The Speaker: The hon. minister.

Mr. Griffiths: Thank you very much, Mr. Speaker. Well, I already mentioned our information security management directives that apply to all departments, but our security protocols that are in place in every department are very standard as well. So if it's a government employee that's going to be handling sensitive material, we have a security and background check for them, but any company that's doing work that's going to affect secure data or sensitive data or sensitive data systems also has to prove that they have gone through the same sort of security protocol check.

The Speaker: The hon. Member for Rimbey-Rocky Mountain House-Sundre, followed by Lesser Slave Lake.

Electricity Prices

Mr. Anglin: Thank you, Mr. Speaker. The Alberta Electric System Operator's announcement last week caused the electricity forward and futures market to spike immediately. Alberta consumers are now going to pay 30 to 40 per cent more as a result of this price spike. On Tuesday the minister said that prices have not gone up yet. Does this minister not understand how price spikes in the forward and futures markets are passed on to consumers, and can she explain this lack of understanding?

The Speaker: The hon. Minister of Energy.

Mrs. McQueen: Well, thank you, Mr. Speaker. What I said the other day was – and I'm glad to see the member has another question today and has negotiated that with his party – with regard to: in January we had some price increases, and then in February and March they had gone down, and in April, right now, it's at $7, and it's the lowest that it has been in months. That is exactly what I said the other day.

Mr. Anglin: Let's see if we can get you to actually answer a question.

Given that the Market Surveillance Administrator recently reported that economic withholding caused electricity prices to rise and given that the minister so far will not answer questions about economic withholding, can the minister explain to Albertans and to this Assembly what economic withholding is, and how does this benefit consumers?

The Speaker: The hon. minister.

Mrs. McQueen: Well, thank you, Mr. Speaker. If there are any issues with regard to any of the electricity system, the MSA has the opportunity, if there is any anticompetitive behaviour, to bring those forward and bring them over to the AUC. We have independent bodies to make sure that our consumers in Alberta are protected. If things are brought forward, that means that the independent bodies are doing the job and that the system is working.

Mr. Anglin: Can't sell it, can you?

Can the minister explain to consumers why their utility bills have gone up so fast, and can she assure them it won't get worse?

Mrs. McQueen: Mr. Speaker, I will say it again, and I will say it slower. We have seen that in January the prices were higher. In February and March and April now of this year, April being the lowest we've seen in months – if you don't like the fluctuations as Albertans, and we want to make sure the consumers are protected, we have plans in place so that they can have an amount, that they would know each month what that is. I'd be happy to answer that question over and over and over for the member until he actually gets it.

The Speaker: Thank you.

Hon. members, the time for question period has elapsed. We have considerable business to do under the Routine yet, and the Government House Leader's eye has caught my attention.

Mr. Campbell: Thank you, Mr. Speaker. I'd ask that we waive 7(7) and continue with the daily Routine past 3 o'clock.

The Speaker: The Government House Leader has asked for consent to proceed with this business of Routine until we complete it, which takes us past 3 o'clock probably. Does anybody object to that?

[Unanimous consent granted]

The Speaker: Let us proceed. We will go straight on with the next item.

Members' Statements

The Speaker: Let us begin with the hon. Member for Barrhead-Morinville-Westlock, followed by Calgary-Mountain View.

Canadian Search Dog Association

Ms Kubinec: Thank you, Mr. Speaker. Recently we celebrated National Volunteer Week across the country, and I'd like to take the opportunity to speak today about a wonderful organization that serves my constituency of Barrhead-Morinville-Westlock as well as the Edmonton and Alberta and Canada areas.

Recently I had the pleasure of meeting Chris Kaulbars and Soleil, a female German shepherd, when we attended an event in Legal. Chris and Soleil are members of the Canadian Search Dog Association and are based out of Edmonton. This Canadian Search Dog Association is a provincial nonprofit group of dedicated individuals who volunteer their time, energy, and resources to train search workers and search dogs to aid the RCMP in searches for lost or missing persons and/or evidence. They are ready to respond 24 hours a day.

Not only do their members spend hundreds of hours training for searches; they also volunteer their time and knowledge to assist others. Through a program called the adventure smart program they teach young people what to do to help themselves should they ever become lost in the woods.

At various events the public gets an opportunity to get up close and personal with these incredible dogs, and their handlers can answer questions and maybe even do demonstrations if the venues allow it. If schedules permit, dogs and their handlers may be able to visit schools, Scout groups, or organizations to talk about CSDA.

I'd like to use a particular quote from their website that sums up the organization perfectly. "We are volunteers. We do this for our communities, for the challenge and for the opportunity to put our training to good use for the benefit of others. We do this for the love of working with our dogs." There is no doubt that it can be fun, but a search is a real, life-and-death situation that demands a level of care, competence, and professionalism equal to that of a paid professional.

For anyone who would like more information about this wonderful volunteer organization or to donate, please visit www.canadiansearchdogs.com.

Thank you, Mr. Speaker.

The Speaker: Thank you.

The hon. Member for Calgary-Mountain View, followed by Edmonton-Mill Woods.

All-terrain Vehicle Safety

Dr. Swann: Thanks, Mr. Speaker. All-terrain vehicles are firing up across the province. This government likes to talk prevention but does not invest in prevention. Helmets prevent injuries, plain and simple. We expect another 20 all-terrain vehicle related deaths this year according to the Alberta Centre for Injury Control & Research. Sadly, the trend is increasing, not decreasing.

When a child turns 14, they can drive a car only with an adult present, but when a child can reach the handlebars of an ATV, there's nothing stopping them from driving it alone. Alberta and the Yukon are the only provinces in Canada that do not require wearing a helmet when using an ATV and do not limit a child on the basis of age from operating one alone. The Alberta Centre for Injury Control & Research cites that 41 per cent of all-terrain vehicle related deaths are caused by head injuries, and 80 per cent of those that died from a head injury were not wearing a helmet. Many of these deaths and the 781 ATV-related hospital admissions in 2008 could have been prevented.

Why is a helmet the law when operating a motorbike but not an all-terrain vehicle? Limiting children from operating these powerful machines is, Mr. Speaker, a no-brainer and strongly advocated by the Canadian Paediatric Society. This government in its own 2008 survey showed that 84 per cent of Albertans favour requiring helmets, but they have not moved on the issue. Twenty deaths per year and preventing 800 hospital visits a year should be a concern to a government whose hospital wait times and chronic overcapacity increase the risk and the cost to our public.

For this government it is time to establish helmet requirements and age restrictions for operating ATVs. Albertans have requested it. Experts and other provinces have supported this. Mr. Speaker, it's time for this government to get off its butt and focus on prevention and safety.

The Speaker: The hon. Member for Edmonton-Mill Woods, followed by Calgary-Currie.

World Meningitis Day

Mr. Quadri: Thank you, Mr. Speaker. Today I proudly wear my burgundy ribbon lapel pin in support of World Meningitis Day and the many Canadians such as Shayne who, as we heard in the introduction from the hon. Member for Edmonton-South West, have defeated the odds.

Meningitis is a rare, potentially serious infection caused by inflammation to the lining around the brain and the spinal cord. Bacterial meningitis is a risk to all of us, particularly children under the age of five and young adults. An estimated 1 out of 5 healthy teenagers and adults carry the bacteria that can cause meningitis without ever becoming ill, but for others infections can be much more serious. Symptoms can be similar to those of the flu, including fever, nausea, headaches, neck stiffness, sensitivity to light, drowsiness, and muscle and leg pain.

3:00

If not caught in time, Mr. Speaker, this disease can prove fatal within 24 to 48 hours. Immediate treatment is critical, which is why educating Albertans about the causes and symptoms of this disease is vital. Approximately 10 per cent of the individuals who contract the disease will die, and of those who survive, up to 1 in 5 suffer permanent disabilities such as hearing loss, neurological damage, and limb amputation. Meningitis is spread through close contact. The bacteria are spread through coughing, sneezing, kissing, and sharing eating utensils.

Mr. Speaker, on this day patient groups, health professionals, meningitis survivors, and families who are working to reduce the occurrence and impact of meningitis recognize World Meningitis Day. We hope to increase public awareness of meningitis and to promote better understanding of the disease.

The Speaker: Thank you, hon. member.

The hon. Member for Calgary-Currie, followed by Chestermere-Rocky View.

Educational Curriculum Redesign

Ms Cusanelli: Thank you, Mr. Speaker. Lately there has been much discussion about curriculum redesign. I've been listening with great interest to the views of my colleagues across the way who criticize our math rankings. I hear about all the math experts who say that we are failing on this file. They say: more focus on the basics.

So who are the true experts, Mr. Speaker? Teachers. Teachers know that teaching numeracy is not about standard algorithms. Teachers know and understand that pedagogical standards are more far reaching than that. Our teachers know that sometimes a child needs to see and feel by using math manipulatives while others are able to abstractly compute but need the expert in their classroom to identify and differentiate for that student to apply and synthesize what they've learned.

Where do we really stand? Did we fail our kids in Alberta by not providing the basics, as the critics believe? Well, the 2012 PISA results showed that 96 per cent of 15-year-old students succeeded at answering ability questions in math, basic facts. Fortunately, I have a great deal of my own expertise that I can rely on to talk about curriculum design, teaching methods, assessment, and more. Mr. Speaker, I'm not one to overlook a problem or pretend that things are lovely when they aren't, and I think our opposition is barking up the wrong tree. It would seem to me that if 96 per cent of our middle-school-aged students are showing success at answering the basic math questions on a PISA, then this is a pretty indisputable result.

Like I said, I'm not here to glaze over problems because I do believe there is work to do, but it isn't with rote memorization. That isn't what the data says to me. We need to prepare our students for a future in which they can evaluate by assessing theories, comparing ideas and outcomes, solving, and recommending. That is what we ought to be focusing our curriculum redesign on.

The Speaker: Thank you.

Mr. McAllister: From the member that advocated for no zeros, that was rich.

Hockey Marathon for Charity

Mr. McAllister: Mr. Speaker, what an honour it is for me to rise today and talk about the ultimate hockey game for charity, which is coming up in Chestermere. From May 4 through May 14 40 hockey players are going to attempt – and I'm sure they'll succeed – to set a new world record for the longest hockey game ever played. They do have some experience with this as well. It was many of these same players that set the current record of 246 hours just two years ago. Why are they doing it again, you ask? They are doing it for the kids. Last go-round they raised $1.7 million for the Alberta Children's hospital. A big portion of that went to kids with cancer. This year they plan on breaking the $2 million mark, and the proceeds will again go to the Alberta Children's hospital, the foundation for brain health. They will also help with flood relief in Alberta.

They have been training for months. Clearly, they have to. They play four-hour shifts, they take a break, and then they come back and play for four hours more. They will do that for 10-plus days. This is not just a physical challenge; it is very much a mental challenge, too.

The last time they did this, in fact, Mr. Speaker, one player with a broken foot hobbled to centre ice and spent his shift there, passing pucks so he could stay. Another needed dental work after getting a puck in the face. They can't leave the rink, though, so he got his stitches and, as they say in hockey terms, sucked it up until the end of the game. I could go on and on about their sacrifices. It's really impressive.

I also, though, Mr. Speaker, want to give a shout-out to the town of Chestermere for rolling out the welcome mat for these players and to everybody at the rec centre who is turning the arena into a home for everyone involved for 10-plus days. Eight hundred volunteers will come together to make this happen. It's extraordinary. I say to Alex Halat and every one of his hockey heroes and volunteers: good luck and Godspeed. I look forward to being there on May 4 for the kickoff and to congratulate them at the finale on the 14th.

Measles Immunization

Mr. Webber: Mr. Speaker, with the increased cases of measles being reported in the province, I think it might be time that Alberta Health reconsiders its position on mandatory vaccinations. Increasing numbers of families and individuals are moving to Alberta. Currently there is a mandatory reporting for infectious diseases such as measles or a requirement for up-to-date inoculations.

A small segment of the population doubts the value of preventative inoculations. This is a considerable risk, however, appreciating the impact of measles, its highly contagious nature, and the dangers imposed by a measles outbreak. I have heard from many of my constituents that it is time to consider mandatory vaccinations as has been emphasized by the medical officers of public health.

In order for a disease to mutate, it actually has to be transmitted to a host. The continuing reoccurrence of measles in our communities allows the opportunity for the disease to change. Potentially, the current vaccinations could lose their effectiveness due to the possibility of new strains developing. As well, the lives of citizens in Alberta that are particularly vulnerable to these types of infections are at risk each day. Unfortunately, it seems that for some the educational approach has not prevented this disease, and illnesses that should have been eradicated continue to occur. Some citizens are just not acknowledging the seriousness of the information shared with them.

Schools in Calgary have had to exclude students and teachers who have been exposed in order to lessen the risk of the latest measles cases. In fact, one high school has had to do so right at the important time of pre-exam work. The risks and the actual costs associated are completely unnecessary. Perhaps it's time to reassess this decision, and perhaps Alberta Health should do more than encourage and inform and actually require all students entering the Alberta educational system to be vaccinated. I would hate to hear of even one more incident of this completely preventable disease popping up here in Alberta.

The Speaker: Thank you.

Notices of Motions

The Speaker: The hon. Government House Leader.

Mr. Campbell: Thank you, Mr. Speaker. I rise today to give oral notice of the introduction of Bill 12, the Statutes Amendment Act, 2014, and Bill 13, the Condominium Property Amendment Act, 2014.

Tabling Returns and Reports

The Speaker: The hon. Member for Edmonton-Strathcona or someone on behalf of.

Mr. Bilous: Yes. Thank you very much, Mr. Speaker. On behalf of the Member for Edmonton-Strathcona I'd like to table 50 of over 4,000 postcards our office has received asking this PC government to restore consistent and reliable funding to postsecondary education in Alberta. The postcards, collected by the Non-Academic Staff Association at the University of Alberta, are clear evidence that the government is not listening to the demands of Albertans for a well-funded postsecondary system that is accessible and affordable for all.

Thank you, Mr. Speaker.

The Speaker: Thank you.

Are there others? The hon. Member for Edmonton-Centre.

Ms Blakeman: Thank you very much. Actually, I'm tabling on behalf of my colleague the Member for Calgary-Buffalo. I have two tablings that reference the questions that he asked today in question period. The first is the appropriate number of copies of a report dated June 12, 2012, and released by Alberta Health Services. It's entitled Vaccine Hesitancy in Alberta, and it was prepared by Dr. Judy MacDonald, medical officer of health, Alberta Health Services.

The second tabling is an act that appears in Ontario, which details how children are required to have immunization before they may attend the first day of school. The immunizations are the usual set that we've been discussing today, including, particularly, measles.

We also have from New Brunswick copies of a similar Department of Education and Early Childhood Development policy, which is about proof of immunization for children before they attend school.

Finally, there's an article produced by CBC Radio that references Ontario, New Brunswick, and Manitoba all requiring students to be vaccinated for diseases.

Thank you.

3:10

Tablings to the Clerk

The Clerk: I wish to advise the House that the following document has been deposited with the office of the Clerk: on behalf of the hon. Mr. Griffiths, Minister of Service Alberta, pursuant to the Vital Statistics Act the Alberta Vital Statistics annual review 2012.

The Speaker: Thank you.

Hon. members, I'll just revert quickly to a tabling that I have. I'm tabling today a memo from the Member for Red Deer-North requesting early consideration of her private member's bill, Bill 203, in Committee of the Whole on Monday, May 5.

Thank you.

We are at points of order, and I don't believe we had any today. Would I be correct? [interjection] I am correct? Okay. Thank you.

Let's move on, then.

Orders of the Day

Government Bills and Orders Second Reading

Bill 11

Child, Youth and Family Enhancement Amendment Act, 2014

[Adjourned debate April 23: Ms Jansen]

The Speaker: The hon. Member for Innisfail-Sylvan Lake had requested an opportunity to speak. We can come back to her.

Let's go on to Edmonton-Centre, then, shall we?

Ms Blakeman: I'd be delighted. Thanks very much for the opportunity to speak to Bill 11, the Child, Youth and Family Enhancement Amendment Act, 2014, in second reading. Now, I would like to commend the responsiveness of the previous and the current minister responsible for children's services. This is to a great degree flowing from a quite incredible series of articles that were produced by two of our major newspapers in Alberta that, with much data mining and the use of FOIPs, were able to put together a really clear and quite chilling picture of what was happening to children who were under the care of the state, of the government of Alberta. What they discovered was that most of us were not aware of – and some people would say that the government had deliberately obscured it – the number of children who had in fact died while in care. There was great public pressure upon the government to update and improve the system.

A couple of points in particular kept coming forward. One of them was the prohibition against the publication of the name of a child who had died while in care or the name of anyone connected with them. This, in fact, had caused a great deal of grief and difficulty for a number of people because they were actually being prohibited from publicly grieving for their deceased child because they couldn't name them. They couldn't put it on a tombstone. They couldn't have an article in the paper or an obituary that referenced that they were under the care and control of the government at the time.

It was really a bit of a throwback, or I suppose – I'm sorry – considering the secrecy of this government, a throw forward. They do like to keep things to themselves. There was a great deal of pressure on the previous minister and the current minister to make some adjustments.

What we see in this bill is the establishment of, I'm going to call it, an expert committee, and I believe we've already been introduced to several of the members who have been appointed to this. They're calling it a council. Chief Wilton Littlechild was here in the Assembly the other day and was introduced as being a member of that. Boy, that's bringing a lot of expertise to the table if that's the quality of people that are being appointed to this council. The idea is to look at the evolving nature of children in government care and how they're recorded and dealt with.

Now, of course, with my interest in activism and changing public policy but also in protection of personal information, I was most interested in the sections around the publication bans. When I first read this, I thought: what? You know how I scribble on the sides of the bills, and I've got scribbles on the sides saying: "Wait a minute. This is only allowing people to talk about living children. Deceased children had been taken out." But, no, in fact, if you go along, you see that they've dealt with that. Then I went back and read it even more and ended up coming away from it going: "What the blankety-blank is going on here? This is not what we were led to believe is going on."

I was sure, when I listened to the minister's press conferences and various releases and things, that that ban was lifted. That was the end impression that I got: the ban or the prohibition against publishing or using in a public way a child's name who died while under the care of government was going to be gone. As with many things with this government that are so frustrating to me, the answer is: sort of. And here's the sort-of part. What's actually being done here is that they have removed "deceased child" from the old prohibition, but what it says is that, in the opinion of the director, a director may publish or consent to the publication of the name or a photograph of a child or of the child's parent or guardian and other information . . . [if] the publication is in the child's best interest or necessary for the proper administration of justice.

Let me double-check that I, in fact, read that correctly. Yeah. In fact, I'm thinking: "Okay. Good."

The next section:

(b) A child who is 16 . . . or older may publish, or consent to the publication of, the child's name or photograph in a manner that reveals that the child has received intervention services.

Okay. Then we get into this:

(c) A Court may, on the application of
 (i) a child,
 (ii) a parent or guardian of a child, or
 (iii) any interested party, with leave of the Court, grant permission to the child, the parent or guardian or the interested party to publish or consent for the name and the photograph and various other things saying that the child has been receiving intervention if it's in the child's best interests or the public interest.

That's not a straight-ahead lifting of that prohibition. Once again we have these – how do I describe them? – kinds of defining words that are used, or let me call them apron strings or ties. You're never quite away from this. If someone, any one of those groups or those defined, decides that it's not in the best interests of the child, all of this goes away. Okay. Well, there are a lot of different arguments that can be made about whether it's in the best interests of the child – the child, I'm reminding you, is no longer with us; they are deceased – or in the public interest. Again, a lot of people can bring arguments forward about whether it is or is not in the best interests of the public to know this.

I'm finding that this great lifting of a prohibition about talking about a deceased child and their name, photograph, and things like this is not actually what I thought it was going to be, that there's a little more whittling away at the central part of this – or not.

It goes on and really allows an ex parte application to the court to have that ban in place. People think: "Oh. Well, that's okay. Anybody that wants to can go to the court, and the court is going to decide." Yes, they are, but the court is always going to decide based on what they're reading and in the context of the rest of the legislation. Is there evidence in this act that there's thinking behind it that children's names and photographs and identifying information and that of their families might be withheld? Well, yeah, when you're allowing them to go to court and have this taken out.

3:20

A director who works for the department, a family member, or with leave of the court any other person – a pretty wide definition; it has to be approved by the court but: any other person – that's involved here can make an ex parte application to the court. Now, ex parte is one part. It means that it's without the knowledge. I believe – and I don't have a legal background here; there are lots of lawyers; I'm sure they'll correct me – you don't have to notify the other people that are involved in this. You just go to court – you have no obligation to tell them what you're up to – and if you're granted this, you've got it; there's a ban.

I'm thinking: okay; well, that's not exactly a straight-ahead lifting of this prohibition. It actually allows a lot of different groups to get in here and get a ban put in place without anybody else knowing that that's what's going on. Okay. I'm not keen on this, but I think: "Well, keep looking, Laurie. Big pile of manure there. There's got to be a pony underneath it." No. In fact, it isn't.

We've heard a lot of talk recently about equality and inequality, and I am always very cautious, when we talk about access to courts and needing to be able to go to court, of the inequality that exists in our society, particularly for women and people coming from a lower income, in their ability to be comfortable with, be familiar with, and have the money to access court proceedings.

What am I looking at in this bill? Well, once again there is, whether the minister meant to or not, a bias in favour of the department or, with the court's permission, any other person that is named being able to go back to court, without telling anybody else, and get this ban put back in place. Who is the group of people that is least likely to be able to find out about this, fight it, and get to court? It's probably the family of the kids because if your child is in care, you are statistically more likely to be coming out of a particular socioeconomic group.

So is this the ban that people thought they were going to get? Is this the lifting of the ban that you could publicize and talk publicly about children that had died while in government care? No, it's not. Are people going to have equal access and equitable access to be able to get a ban put in place? No. For a family that wanted to be able to do this, any director in the program or anyone else where the court says that it's okay without anyone else knowing can go and get this ban put in place.

So there's no pony, Mr. Speaker, underneath all of this. There's no pony there. The ban is still, actually, quite easy to get put in place by just about anybody that's interested in doing it and, particularly, makes it an unequal access to, most likely, the direct family members of the child. That's not what I thought I was getting here, so I feel tricked. I'm not a lawyer, but I'm not unfamiliar with the law. I've worked a lot with administrative law, and, in fact, everything we do here is administrative law as we create legislation, so I'm feeling like this isn't what we were all told was going to be coming.

There are a number of other kinds of legal beagle stuff here about, you know, who has to be served with a copy and that kind of thing. But in my reading of that, that's what we're looking at around that ban, and that was one thing that I was particularly interested in.

Let me just reference something else here. You know, one of the things that I have talked a lot about in this particular session is the lack of access, particularly for people of very low economic status in Alberta, even as low as for people that are on full benefit programs; for example, AISH, the assured income for the severely handicapped, or Alberta Works or even people working full-time flat out on minimum wage. Actually, I think the people working on minimum wage would fall under the cut-off and therefore would be able to qualify for assistance from legal aid, but the person on AISH is too high, and they will not be able to get legal aid.

You start matching that lack of being able to get access to legal aid with the family that is trying to now perhaps get into court and put a ban in place, which the family could do, I admit, and it seemed to be the families who most wanted those bans against publication taken off. For the family of a child to get into court to try and fight this somehow, they're very unlikely to be able to access legal aid.

So this all starts to connect to each other. We have a law that is supposed to be changed to lift a ban, which it does, but it allows a lot of people to get the ban put back in place. For those people that would be most interested in trying to fight this, they are going to be very unlikely to be able to get legal help to be able to do it because they're quite likely to not be able to access legal aid given the cuts that we've had to legal aid in this province.

Mr. Denis: There have been no cuts.

Ms Blakeman: Well, the minister likes to say that there have been no cuts, but if you don't cut a program over a long period of time or several years in a row, inflation is going to do it for you, Mr. Speaker, and in the end you have less money. If I go into a store today and say, "Thank you; I'd like to buy my groceries with money that's actually valued from 2008," my money is not going to go as far. If I'm standing there with everything in the envelope that I used to get in 2008 and I'm standing there with it in 2014 at Safeway trying to dole it out of that envelope, it's not going to go as far, which has the same effect.

The Minister of Justice likes to argue semantics with me. I know he likes to do that. I swear to goodness that he goes home at night and has little semantic arguments with himself just to entertain himself. Because he uses it so much here, I know he's very keen on it.

The bottom line is: are people going to be able to get access to this? Will more people get access to more legal aid? No, they're not. [interjection] He's welcome to join the argument and claim that they will, but that's not what most of the legal community is telling me. But, you know, maybe he's got a different connection to them.

Let me just go back a bit here. The idea of the council: an excellent idea as a way of looking at the situation, being able to make sure that we are being welcoming and accepting of different kinds of families coming from different places that are, either long term or short term, struggling with their children to a point where they need government intervention.

You know, I have a very busy constituency office. I now have two caseworkers working in there, and we deal with some very complex, multilayered issues that my constituents are struggling with. One of the areas of casework that we do almost nothing with is children's services. If we get one or two cases a year, we all freak out because we can't remember who the contact is, and we have to dig through all of our contact books to find out who it is we're supposed to call in children's services. Why is that? Well, because the children in my community are overwhelmingly children that are coming as new immigrants or as new Canadians and living in the centre of the city while they get established, within a couple of years they move out, buy a house, or move into other areas, and they're gone from my community. Interestingly, we get almost no child welfare calls or cases from that community. They tend to work more as a village, and everyone pulls together and helps to raise the kids.

3:30

Frankly, the urban aboriginal people who live in my community: some of them do struggle. But I need to remind people that, overwhelmingly, urban aboriginal people are doing very well, thank you very much, and don't fit as much into that stereotype as people seem to think.

I don't have a lot of experience with child welfare, so that's telling you something. It's not always what we think it is, and I think it is important that as we work with things like the new council that's being put in place, we are conscious of people from different backgrounds and different cultures that are moving into this country and will become part of our history.

You know, there are many people in this room. There's a very strong Ukrainian background, people from Ukrainian backgrounds in here. There are some very outspoken Poles, a number of Scots in here. There are some backgrounds that we're quite familiar with, but we're not necessarily familiar with people from the Sudan or Somalia or Eritrea or Nigeria or any number of other places from which we are now receiving people that have been involved in war, in torture, and in trauma. We need to be aware of that because they are becoming part of the fabric of our life in Alberta, and we need to be able to understand how to work with those communities and perhaps even work with children that are victims of war and of torture and of trauma because they may well end up being children that are in government care or that need government assistance, and that's a whole other ball of wax than what we're used to.

Thank you very much, Mr. Speaker.

The Speaker: Thank you.

The hon. Member for Innisfail-Sylvan Lake.

Mrs. Towle: Thank you, Mr. Speaker. It's a privilege to rise and speak to Bill 11, the Child, Youth and Family Enhancement Amendment Act, 2014. Before we get started, I want to applaud the Minister of Human Services for going outside of the boundaries. From the time he took the ministry, he has really worked hard to propel this forward and has really worked hard to give the illusion and take some solid steps to have openness and transparency in this portfolio and actually do some of the things that have been missing for a significant period of time.

All that being said, I don't think we can look at this bill until we really understand why we're here in the first place. It's just this simple, Mr. Speaker. Four years ago a journalist asked a simple question: how many children in Alberta had died either while in foster care or after they had come to the attention of the child welfare system? She did this through FOIP.

The next few steps of that is where it becomes alarming for Albertans, and that's really why we're here today. When that journalist, Karen Kleiss, set out to find those answers, she discovered chaos and bureaucratic wrangling like none other she'd ever seen. Her fellow journalist Paula Simons wrote and I think sums it up quite well:

No one in the Alberta government would tell her. No one, it eventually emerged, could tell her. The government not only refused to release the data, citing its own sweeping confidentiality rules. It wasn't actually tracking the numbers.

What's interesting is that this secrecy and this hiding behind the confidentiality statements, quite frankly, made this journalist mad. So she took the matter to her boss at the paper, and they decided to go to court. For the next four years journalists and those papers, the Calgary Herald and the Edmonton Journal, had to fight this government to answer a single question about how many children had died in care or had died while in the child welfare system.

In 2013 they received a judgment that was victorious and said: yes, you should. It was only then that this journalist and her colleague Darcy Henton were able to actually access the government records. They came back to them heavily censored, and the documents confirmed what they actually thought was their worst suspicion, which is why they took this case to court. There were deaths, but also the deaths looked like they had been far worse than originally reported. It was interesting to these two journalists that the government didn't even know what was going on. As these two journalists first reported, "The Alberta government has dramatically under-reported the number of child welfare deaths over the past decade, undermining public accountability and thwarting efforts at prevention and reform."

The Calgary Herald and The Edmonton Journal published an in-depth series of articles detailing that a staggering 145 children had died in care since 1999, but this was triple the 56 deaths that were revealed by the government in annual reports. What's more interesting about that, Mr. Speaker, is that we all sat in this House last year when we listened to the Premier talk about how many deaths of children in care there were, and she supported the minister of that time, the current Premier, when he stood up on the floor on November 25, 2013, and said that 56 children had died in care, not 145 but 56. He also went on to say, "All incidents of serious injury or death are reported to the quality assurance council for investigation."

Unfortunately, that wasn't quite exactly accurate. The Calgary Herald and the Edmonton Journal articles reveal the huge chasm between what Albertans were being told and what was actually happening. We also know that those initial reports obtained after the four-year battle found that 150 children in government care died from January 1999 to June 2013. What was even more staggering, though, is that when the current Minister of Human Services took over this portfolio, the number jumped to 741 children and teens known to child welfare authorities, including those living with their families but still receiving some form of service, that had died in the same time frame.

Mr. Speaker, there's a fundamental problem when the government claims to Albertans that 56 children have died in care and in reality 741 of them had died during the same period. There's also a fundamental problem when the only way we can find out about that is that journalists have to start a four-year battle in court to find out information that everyday Albertans should know.

These numbers are appalling more so because we're talking about everyday Albertan children, shattered lives, and families wondering what happened to their children. We're talking about stories like a young mother who lost her child, then cleaned up her act. She then had to search for six years before discovering that her child had died as an infant.

I talked to that young mom's mother. She talked about her daughter's story. She talked about how her daughter was addicted, on drugs, on alcohol, completely gone off-path. She talked about how the child welfare system had come in and taken her child away. She talked about how shortly after that apprehension her daughter started to get clean, to clean up her act and become a good mom. And she talked about her daughter's six-year search for her daughter so that she could rebuild her family, so that she could at least say that she was sorry, so that she could at least write a letter to her and let her know why she had to be adopted out or in the system. She wanted to go back and rectify a terrible situation, and for six years that young girl was not even told that her daughter had died as an infant.

Mr. Speaker, that is shocking as a mom, as a dad, as a family member, as a caregiver, to not know for six years that the person that you had given over to the public system actually died within their first year of life. That is just unheard of in this province. But, unfortunately, it happened right here, and today we would not know anything about this if not for the work of the Calgary Herald and the Edmonton Journal.

I think we have to remember that we're not here because the government decided to do the right thing. While this bill is a good first step, it didn't come as a result of doing the right thing. It came as a result of a shaming. It came as a result of not actually telling the truth. It came as a result of appearing like information was being withheld, hidden, and secret. It naturally leads to questions like: what is the government trying to hide; why wouldn't they want to talk about that; how do you fix a system that's broken if you don't even have accurate data to figure it out?

3:40

The unfortunate problem is that they actually had the data. So, then, why wouldn't you release it in the first FOIP that came? We could have saved four years. There were children who died within those four years. We could have changed processes. We could have made the Child and Youth Advocate independent in 2010, not in 2012. We could have identified systemic issues in the process, in the system. We could have worked with our aboriginal communities to create better kinship care. We could have worked with our Somali communities to create better care for their children. We could have done something. Instead, this government's approach was to fight them in court.

The Edmonton Journal and the Calgary Herald articles started an avalanche of questions and concerns, and many of them are still unanswered today. I have no doubt that this minister is actually going to work hard to try and get those answers. I hope that his government and I hope that his cabinet and his colleagues will help him do that.

What we saw next in January was the round-table. I have to say, Mr. Speaker, that I attended the round-table, and it was a moving experience. I think it was a good step to have the round-table. I think it was a great step to have experts there. I think it was a fantastic step for the minister to admit that 741 children had died in care or under intervention services. I think it was a great step for the minister to be humble, for the minister to bring people together, and for the minister to listen to what he heard at that round-table. I think this bill for the most part does just that.

Several of the stories that we heard that day were of three young women who had been in care, which is where I'm going to go next with my concerns in this bill. They talked about the publication ban and how that ban affected their lives and how the current ban meant that they had no identity, how it prevented anyone from giving them an identity, how it prevented them from even talking about what was wrong with the system, how it could be fixed, and the fact that they had died.

I'll just read you a short segment from an Edmonton Journal article on February 3 that refers to these three young women.

The women's appearance at the Child Intervention Roundtable offered an unprecedented opportunity to hear how foster children feel about an Alberta law that makes it illegal to publish their names and photographs, even if they die while in care . . . The young women rejected the "in care" label and said they want to be treated just like anyone else.

Samantha went on to say:

How do you feel like a human being? How do you feel like a person, if . . . there's some publication ban saying that you don't exist, your story will not be shared, you will be forgotten? It's traumatizing.

Faven, who was 19, said that family should have the right to release information, but she wouldn't want the details of her own life made public. She used a nickname on the panel, not her real name.

She went on to say:

I personally wouldn't want my information released, and I wouldn't want people to think, "Oh, Faven died, and she was in (foster) care." I just don't like the fact that we have the labelling . . . A child dies. A child is a child, and I don't think there should be any restrictions or limitations if the child is in care, or not. I don't think that I see the whole separation.

Monique, who was 20, also said:

Children and youth living in foster care are the same as other Albertans, and shouldn't be labelled.

I grew up with other children and youth; if one of them had died while I was in care, and I couldn't speak about it, that would definitely change the way I healed.

She also said:

We live with children of all ages . . . as well as foster families. They have their own children, who are not in care. They cannot speak about us. I don't think that it's fair, that we have that label on us, and we live with people who do not have that label.

Mr. Speaker, there's no question that it's difficult to balance the rights of privacy and public interest. The current ban, that exists pre this bill, clearly went too far. However, I think this bill also goes too far the other way. I think that we need to take a moment and listen to why some of the media talk about why they need access to this.

Before I go there, I just want to tell you a story about when I was at the round-table. Most people understand the issue of Phoenix Sinclair. There was a young lady who was there representing the government of Manitoba, and she said that Phoenix needed a voice, and without the media being able to report about the tragic situation of Phoenix Sinclair, then there would be no way we could fix the system by actually being allowed to submit the photo and the name of the child who was so tragically abused and eventually killed by his mother. There would be no ability to fix the system, and it wouldn't have been real.

I think we also have to identify with why Paula Simons has raised concerns about the publication ban. She believes that this bill will give "the government extraordinary powers to cover up the deaths of children in care" by actually becoming the proxy who could apply for the ban. It could actually be the family member of the dead child. The band member, a grandparent, a sister, all of those could apply for an ex parte for a publication ban.

So could a third party, such as a First Nations band council. But while the ministry or band might have resources for such legal battles, parents, especially the sort who might typically be involved with the child welfare system, wouldn't likely have the resources to file an ex parte application. So while the act appears to empower parents, they're really at the mercy of the ministry and third-party actors.

I think we have to take that concern seriously.

She also goes on to say:

Under the proposed bill, a child's family, including siblings and grandparents, would be exempt from the ban, [even if they themselves requested the ban.] Family members could use social media sites . . . identifying the child and themselves. Mainstream media would still be bound by the ban, meaning that the public would only get to hear a narrow perspective . . .

Mr. Speaker, I am prepared to work with the minister, and I want to work with the minister, and I'm hoping that we can find a middle ground on how we reach the difference between privacy and public interest.

Thank you.

The Speaker: Thank you.

Hon. members, 29(2)(a) is now available.

Seeing no one, let us move on to Edmonton-Calder.

Mr. Eggen: Thank you, Mr. Speaker. I rise with great interest to speak here in second reading on Bill 11, the Child, Youth and Family Enhancement Amendment Act, 2014. Certainly, this bill was very warmly anticipated or very eagerly anticipated when we heard that the ministry was intending to release something here this spring. I think that so many different groups of the general public were also very interested in seeing some resolution in regard to clarifying how we receive information from the ministry and how we investigate deaths and incidents in this ministry as well.

Certainly, the minister himself characterizes Bill 11 as being part of a year-long process. I guess I would like to give both the ministry and the government in general the benefit of the doubt, to recognize that we are going to move forward on more issues around this issue. I guess there's lots of room for improvement from the previous circumstance, but I'm just starting to sort of look at this as the public would, from the outside working in. There are lots of details about how we report from the ministry here that perhaps we could clarify and somehow sharpen as well.

I think that, certainly, improving the publication opportunities for information from the ministry is good, but the details in Bill 11, as we see it, certainly still need work. I think that this does clarify an internal practice, an internal review, the death review committee, which is good as well. This will certainly help to improve the internal practice and quality within the ministry; however, Mr. Speaker, we just still don't see a clear provision for ensuring that fatalities or serious injury investigations will be published. I think that is at the heart of what people were looking for, and I just don't necessarily see that it's here at this point, still.

3:50

I mean, instead, as far as I can see, they will publish the recommendations from the internal review, but then the public still can't really assess the merits of recommendations without understanding the facts or the history upon which they are based. You need to see the whole picture, not just the recommendations.

Otherwise, it's like we are doing sort of a forensic detective process that can only lead to, perhaps, confusion and sometimes misinformation. As well, we're not quite entirely sure whether this act will be publishing the regular details on the status of recommendations. Certainly, this needs to happen on an ongoing basis, and it's not clear whether that is going to happen either.

The bill, as far as we can see, is still not reporting on fatalities on an as-they-occur basis. Instead, it's sort of piling up and reporting at the end of the year, right? That's what they were doing before, and as a result they only reported a fraction of fatalities and even went as far as to sort of make it confusing, saying that the numbers that were reported were reflective of all categories such as children in care, children with their own family but receiving supports that were known to the ministry, a child that was in care within the last two years, or a child that died of natural causes but could have also been related to neglect somehow.

Since 2008 we were not getting all of those categories in their totality, so that's why, when the Edmonton Journal did their FOIP and did their larger report – and thanks to them for doing that – we saw reports of so many more fatalities last fall, because before we were only getting partial statistics. I think that that's something that's glaringly obvious that we need to do. I think that through reporting on an as-it-occurs basis, reporting on incidents as they do occur, we might be able to reduce that confusion with this bill.

We as the Alberta New Democrats are looking for an advocate that has the resources to investigate all cases in all of those categories, as I pointed out, right? Last year, really, the Child and Youth Advocate only had the capacity to report about between 3 and 5 cases out of more than 20 that we can see that actually existed. Now the mandate has been expanded to include the deaths of children who were in care within the last two years, but still the commissioner is without sufficient resources to really pursue that as they should, as we learned from a review of both his resources and a report that he made to our committee.

It's important, I think, as well to recognize some of the inconsistencies or some of the confusions that the media is seeing with the ability to report. In my mind, if you are building a means by which you are going to release names of children that died in care and so forth, then it should be done in its totality and not have this sort of partial ban, where mainstream media seems to be still excluded from some cases, but then social media seems to be some way by which the information can leak out.

Also, sometimes you have unfortunate circumstances – I mean, all of this is dealing with unfortunate circumstances – you know, where some family members might be in dispute or not in communication with each other when there is information about a child that has been injured or died in care. You have to be able to apply the law equally and evenly even amongst different family members who might be in dispute in regard to what's happening to a child in that family.

I think that in principle, as I've come to always remind myself during second reading, this is a good idea – right? – to pursue the greater disclosure as recommended in Bill 11. However, I think that there are some inconsistencies here that we really do need to deal with before we consider passing this bill or supporting the bill, and I think that's a good chance for us to do this in the Legislature.

Again, I do commend the minister for bringing this forward. I understand that he is pursuing this as part of a process, a year-long process, and I'm glad that he is using the expertise and the reasonable debate that does take place here in the Legislature to ensure that we build a Child, Youth and Family Enhancement Act that everybody can be proud of and that can work for the majority of Albertans.

Thank you.

The Speaker: Hon. members, 29(2)(a) is available.

Seeing no one, are there other speakers? The hon. Member for Edmonton-Beverly-Clareview, then.

Mr. Bilous: Thank you very much, Mr. Speaker. I rise to speak to second reading of Bill 11, the Child, Youth and Family Enhancement Amendment Act, 2014. I'm just going to very briefly, for the benefit of all members and Albertans, go over what this act is proposing to amend.

First, it amends the Child, Youth and Family Enhancement Act, amends the publication ban to reverse the onus. Now, for example, a family member or interested party must apply for a court order if they do not want the name or a photograph of a deceased child or names and photos of family members and guardians to be published. Previous to this amendment act, Mr. Speaker, there was a blanket ban, an automatic ban, on identifying information of a deceased child who received services. There was a penalty of $10,000 or six months in jail. Now, the family member can apply to the court to have it lifted, but this is quite a costly endeavour.

This bill changes the quality assurance framework to add the ability of the minister to appoint a committee for quality assurance purposes and expands the requirements of the director to notify the council of death or injury of a child receiving services, where previously only if they were in care or guardianship at the time could that take place, Mr. Speaker. It expands the mandate of the council to monitor and evaluate strategies and standards with the minister.

Now, it doesn't change the openness of the quality assurance council reporting. The committee only needs to make reports to the minister – in a few moments I'll talk about the concerns that I have with that – as opposed to reporting to the public. The council still needs to make a publicly released report available to the minister in the case of an expert review panel investigation into a death or injury, but there's still no mandatory provision that it must be released publicly.

The second thing is the amendments to the Child and Youth Advocate Act. It changes the mandate of the Child and Youth Advocate to investigate death or injury that occurred within two years of receiving services. Now, previous to this act that we're discussing today, Mr. Speaker, there was only an investigation if a child was receiving services at the time of death or injury. Again, another point that I'll speak to a little bit later is that there is still no increased budget or reporting requirements, which is of great concern for myself and for the Alberta NDP.

Bill 11 is a small step, a tentative step, in the right direction, but again, for us, it doesn't go far enough to have the level of transparency that we want. Unfortunately, the bureaucracy that is in place, which has and can harm the system's ability to improve the lives of children, still exists even with this bill's amendments.

Now, like my colleague from Edmonton-Calder I would like to thank the Edmonton Journal and the Calgary Herald for the investigative work that they did and the pressure that they put on this government to finally release the full number of deaths of children involved in the child intervention system. I also want to add that the Member for Edmonton-Strathcona has been a tireless advocate for years on this subject and has been calling for the release of information, of these reports, so that we know. Anyway, we're slowly moving in the right direction, but at the same time when we look at the number of deaths of children in care for this year, the statistic is quite troubling and indicates that we have a lot more work to do.

4:00

Moving to the publication ban. I mean, this is a step to moving towards increased transparency. However, again, we're not quite there yet, Mr. Speaker. A mother of a child who died in care had this to say about the publication ban. "They have failed the child in the utmost way possible and now they are stealing their identity – the only thing they have left . . . It's bad enough to lose a child, but to have it covered up is just wrong and I won't stand for it."

You know, eliminating the automatic publication ban is a positive step. Again, this is long overdue. This is something that the government has been promising, to review the ban, for at least three years. We've spoken about other bills in this way, that again it's another example of knuckle dragging, but eventually you can drag a horse to water. It was put in legislation in 2004 without any consultation with the Privacy Commissioner.

Now, the current ban prevents us from learning how to prevent future deaths and injuries. It shields the government from this criticism, but it also punishes already grieving families who want to tell their story and to have some closure. Further, it dehumanizes these children, who have already been victimized, Mr. Speaker, although this bill moves in the right direction in that it removes the blanket ban and reverses the onus. So the general presumption now is that the media and family can discuss the deceased child and provide the public with information to help us understand.

The bill also wisely safeguards the ability of the courts to nonetheless restrict the publication of this information where necessary in the interests of the child. However, Mr. Speaker, the procedure to obtain these orders to restrict publication presents a number of problems that may reduce the effectiveness of this legislative change. The idea is that now a party must apply to the court for an order to restrict publication. This application is ex parte, meaning that it does not need to be done with any notice or any arguments from any other party. The parties who can apply include the family, any interested third party, or the government if they can argue that it's the wishes of the child or in the best interests of the child's surviving siblings.

In other words, Mr. Speaker, the government is still reserving the power to get publication bans without any need for notice to or input from any other party like the media or the child's family. Now, in order to have restrictions removed, the media or the other party would have to go through a possibly lengthy court process. You know, the Alberta NDP is also questioning how accessible this procedure is for families who may be rightfully seeking publication restrictions. As we know, court processes are not cheap even in an expedited process. It could create a situation where the government applies for an order contrary to the wishes of the family. At this point the family would have to use their own resources in order to engage the court to get the order lifted. There are other practical problems, including the fact that these orders only apply to those who serve them.

Mr. Speaker, we generally support the idea of the reverse onus. This information should be available to the public, but of course there need to be, obviously, exceptions for the best interest of the child and their family.

For some more effective publication rules we can look to some of the other jurisdictions within Canada, Mr. Speaker. Now, interestingly, only Nova Scotia and New Brunswick have bans similar to Alberta's. Quebec has one, but it actually doesn't enforce it. Ontario and P.E.I. have no restrictions. Saskatchewan and Manitoba allow for the publication of the name and information about the child if it comes from family. B.C. and Newfoundland and Labrador allow the publication of the name and information about the child if it comes from family or other sources. Even in other jurisdictions with looser restrictions families, though, can and do apply for bans in specific cases where it's necessary to protect the best interests of the surviving children.

In regard to the Child and Youth Advocate, Mr. Speaker, we're pleased to see an expanded investigative mandate. Again, this is something that the NDP has been calling for for years, and the Member for Edmonton-Strathcona has repeatedly called for investigations into the death of every child in care or receiving services. Now, interestingly, at the Legislative Offices Committee meeting on November 29, 2013, the NDP brought forward a motion to expand the budget of the Child and Youth Advocate so that these investigations can actually be done. Expanding the mandate is one thing, but if there aren't the resources there for the advocate to do their job, then they're not going to be able to do their job. Instead of acknowledging the budget gap and the effect it's having on the ability of the advocate to investigate and report publicly on the deaths – you can guess who voted this motion down. Of course, it was the PC Party.

Now, it seems that they're finally admitting that the advocate needs an expanded mandate so that we can ensure that we learn from all tragic incidents and learn how to prevent them from happening again, but we see in this bill that there are still certain aspects that are being left out, Mr. Speaker. Allowing the advocate to investigate the deaths or injury of children when the incident occurred within two years of a child receiving services will give us a much more comprehensive understanding of some of the systemic issues that give rise to these tragedies in the first place.

The advocate also serves an important role in providing justice and closure for children who have been injured or have died, certainly, but the office has another important objective of providing independent insight and analysis into the childhood intervention system to ensure that we can make the necessary improvements to prevent future deaths or injuries. In order to fulfill these objectives, the advocate needs to be empowered with adequate resources and mandate.

Now, expanding the mandate in this bill is a great first step, but again a great concern, that the Alberta NDP share, is that without a corresponding expansion in the advocate's resources, you know, this change in the legislation will not have the impact that the government is expecting it to have or that we all hope or desire it to have.

The advocate already confirmed that due to a lack of resources, he has no choice but to prioritize and filter the cases that get reported to his office. Interestingly, from 2012 to '13, Mr. Speaker, 20 cases were reported to the advocate and only four, or 20 per cent of them, proceeded to a full investigative review. The advocate has to differentiate responses to each case because he does not have the adequate resources, and there's no mandatory provision for investigative reviews. That's, again, something that the Alberta NDP has been calling for, that he needs the resources available in order to do his job.

Mr. Speaker, you know, as I said, this bill is a step, a very small step in the right direction. However, we'd like to see much more done in this area. So we will be putting forward amendments during Committee of the Whole, and I look forward to debate and, hopefully, some clarification from the minister.

With that, Mr. Speaker, I would move to adjourn debate.

[Motion to adjourn debate carried]

Mr. Olson: Mr. Speaker, I move that we adjourn to 1:30 p.m. on May 5.

[Motion carried; the Assembly adjourned at 4:09 p.m. to Monday, May 5, at 1:30 p.m.]

Bill Status Report for the 28th Legislature - 2nd Session (2014)

Activity to April 24, 2014

The Bill sponsor's name is in brackets following the Bill title. If it is a money Bill, ($) will appear between the title and the sponsor's name. Numbers following each Reading refer to Hansard pages where the text of debates is found; dates for each Reading are in brackets following the page numbers. Bills numbered 1 to 199 are Government Bills. Bills numbered 200 or higher are Private Members' Public Bills. Bills numbered with a "Pr" prefix are Private Bills.

*An asterisk beside a Bill number indicates an amendment was passed to that Bill; the Committee line shows the precise date of the amendment.

The date a Bill comes into force is indicated in square brackets after the date of Royal Assent. If a Bill comes into force "on proclamation," "with exceptions," or "on various dates," please contact Legislative Counsel, Alberta Justice, for details at (780) 427-2217. The chapter number assigned to the Bill is entered immediately following the date the Bill comes into force. SA indicates Statutes of Alberta; this is followed by the year in which it is included in the statutes, and its chapter number. Please note, Private Bills are not assigned chapter numbers until the conclusion of the Fall Sitings.

1 Savings Management Act ($) (Redford)

First Reading -- 4 (Mar. 3, 2014 aft., passed)

Second Reading -- 47-50 (Mar. 4, 2014 eve.), 84-85 (Mar. 5, 2014 aft.), 146-54 (Mar. 10, 2014 eve., passed)

Committee of the Whole -- 184-87 (Mar. 11, 2014 aft., passed)

Third Reading -- 217-18 (Mar. 12, 2014 aft.), 226-28 (Mar. 12, 2014 aft.), 231-34 (Mar. 12, 2014 eve., passed)

Royal Assent -- (Mar. 13, 2014 outside of House sitting) [Comes into force April 1, 2014; SA 2014 cS-2.5]

2 Appropriation (Supplementary Supply) Act, 2014 ($) (Horner)

First Reading -- 84 (Mar. 5, 2014 aft., passed)

Second Reading -- 143 (Mar. 10, 2014 eve.), 154-56 (Mar. 10, 2014 eve., passed)

Committee of the Whole -- 187-88 (Mar. 11, 2014 aft., passed)

Third Reading -- 218 (Mar. 12, 2014 aft.), 234 (Mar. 12, 2014 eve., passed)

Royal Assent -- (Mar. 13, 2014 outside of House sitting) [Comes into force March 13, 2014; SA 2014 c2]

3 Securities Amendment Act, 2014 (Horner)

First Reading -- 62 (Mar. 5, 2014 aft., passed)

Second Reading -- 143-45 (Mar. 10, 2014 eve., passed)

Committee of the Whole -- 187 (Mar. 11, 2014 aft., passed)

Third Reading -- 218 (Mar. 12, 2014 aft.), 234 (Mar. 12, 2014 eve., passed)

Royal Assent -- (Mar. 13, 2014 outside of House sitting) [Comes into force on proclamation; SA 2014 c3]

4 Estate Administration Act (Kubinec)

First Reading -- 62-63 (Mar. 5, 2014 aft., passed)

Second Reading -- 145-46 (Mar. 10, 2014 eve.), 184 (Mar. 11, 2014 aft.), 191-93 (Mar. 11, 2014 eve., passed)

Committee of the Whole -- 229 (Mar. 12, 2014 aft., passed)

Third Reading -- 250 (Mar. 13, 2014 aft.), 330 (Mar. 20, 2014 aft., passed)

Royal Assent -- (Apr. 24, 2014 outside of House sitting) [Comes into force on proclamation; SA 2014 cE-12.5]

5 Appropriation (Interim Supply) Act, 2014 ($) (Horner)

First Reading -- 119 (Mar. 10, 2014 aft., passed)

Second Reading -- 174 (Mar. 11, 2014 aft.), 188-90 (Mar. 11, 2014 aft., passed)

Committee of the Whole -- 218-20 (Mar. 12, 2014 aft.), 228-29 (Mar. 12, 2014 aft., passed)

Third Reading -- 230 (Mar. 12, 2014 aft., passed)

Royal Assent -- (Mar. 13, 2014 outside of House sitting) [Comes into force March 13, 2014; SA 2014 c1]

6 New Home Buyer Protection Amendment Act, 2014 (Minister of Municipal Affairs)

First Reading -- 300 (Mar. 18, 2014 aft., passed)

Second Reading -- 330-31 (Mar. 20, 2014 aft.), 417-21 (Apr. 10, 2014 aft., passed)

Committee of the Whole -- 493-503 (Apr. 16, 2014 aft., passed)

Third Reading -- 522-23 (Apr. 17, 2014 aft.), 657 (Apr. 23, 2014 eve., passed)

Royal Assent -- (Apr. 24, 2014 outside of House sitting) [Comes into force on proclamation; SA 2014 c5]

- 7 Tax Statutes Amendment Act, 2014 ($) (Horner)
First Reading -- 417 (Apr. 10, 2014 aft., passed)
Second Reading -- 488-93 (Apr. 16, 2014 aft., passed)
Committee of the Whole -- 503-4 (Apr. 16, 2014 aft., passed)
Third Reading -- 523 (Apr. 17, 2014 aft.), 657 (Apr. 23, 2014 eve., passed)
Royal Assent -- (Apr. 24, 2014 outside of House sitting) [Comes into force on various dates; SA 2014 c6]
- 8 Appropriation Act, 2014 ($) (Horner)
First Reading -- 488 (Apr. 16, 2014 aft., passed)
Second Reading -- 519-20 (Apr. 17, 2014 aft.), 523-27 (Apr. 17, 2014 aft., passed)
Committee of the Whole -- 559-62 (Apr. 22, 2014 aft.), 563-80 (Apr. 22, 2014 eve., passed)
Third Reading -- 610-23 (Apr. 23, 2014 aft.), 633-38 (Apr. 23, 2014 eve., passed on division)
Royal Assent -- (Apr. 24, 2014 outside of House sitting) [Comes into force April 24, 2014; SA 2014 c4]
- 9 Public Sector Pension Plans Amendment Act, 2014 (Horner)
First Reading -- 484 (Apr. 16, 2014 aft., passed)
Second Reading -- 520-21 (Apr. 17, 2014 aft.), 544-59 (Apr. 22, 2014 aft.), 625-31 (Apr. 23, 2014 aft.), 638-57 (Apr. 23, 2014 eve., adjourned on amendment)
- 10 Employment Pension (Private Sector) Plans Amendment Act, 2014 (Horner)
First Reading -- 484-85 (Apr. 16, 2014 aft., passed)
Second Reading -- 522 (Apr. 17, 2014 aft.), 559 (Apr. 22, 2014 aft.), 580-96 (Apr. 22, 2014 eve., passed on division)
- 11 Child, Youth and Family Enhancement Amendment Act, 2014 (Bhullar)
First Reading -- 541 (Apr. 22, 2014 aft., passed)
Second Reading -- 623-25 (Apr. 23, 2014 aft.), 673-79 (Apr. 24, 2014 aft., adjourned)
- 201 Agricultural Pests (Fusarium Head Blight) Amendment Act, 2014 (Kubinec)
First Reading -- 63 (Mar. 5, 2014 aft., passed)
Second Reading -- 123-34 (Mar. 10, 2014 aft., referred to Standing Committee on Resource Stewardship)
- 202 Independent Budget Officer Act (Forsyth)
First Reading -- 63 (Mar. 5, 2014 aft., passed)
Second Reading -- 264-79 (Mar. 17, 2014 aft., defeated on division)
- 203 Childhood Vision Assessment Act (Jablonski)
First Reading -- 249 (Mar. 13, 2014 aft., passed)
Second Reading -- 352-61 (Apr. 7, 2014 aft.), 444-50 (Apr. 14, 2014 aft., passed)
- 204 Freedom of Information and Protection of Privacy (MLA Public Interest Fee Waiver) Amendment Act, 2014 (Barnes)
First Reading -- 263-64 (Mar. 17, 2014 aft., passed)
Second Reading -- 450-52 (Apr. 14, 2014 aft., adjourned)
- 205 Animal Protection (Prevention of Animal Distress and Neglect) Amendment Act, 2014 (Webber)
First Reading -- 417 (Apr. 10, 2014 aft., passed)
- Pr1 Rosebud School of the Arts Amendment Act, 2014 (Hale)
First Reading -- 609 (Apr. 23, 2014 aft., passed)
- Pr2 Maskwachees Cultural College Amendment Act, 2014 (Calahasen)
First Reading -- 609 (Apr. 23, 2014 aft., passed)

Table of Contents

Prayers	659
Introduction of Guests	659, 662
Ministerial Statements
National Day of Mourning	660
Oral Question Period
Provincial Budget Documents	663
FOIP Request Process	663, 666, 667
Bitumen Extraction Resumption Approval	664
Public Service Pension Plan Amendment Bill	665
Emergency Turnarounds on Highways	665
Public Safety in Bonnyville-Cold Lake	666
Childhood Immunization	667
Women's Issues	668
North West Upgrader Project	668
Victims of Crime	669
Disaster Recovery Program Administration	669
Government Data Security	670
Electricity Prices	670
Members' Statements
Canadian Search Dog Association	671
All-terrain Vehicle Safety	671
World Meningitis Day	672
Educational Curriculum Redesign	672
Hockey Marathon for Charity	672
Measles Immunization	672
Notices of Motions	673
Tabling Returns and Reports	673
Tablings to the Clerk	673
Orders of the Day	673
Government Bills and Orders
Second Reading
Bill 11 Child, Youth and Family Enhancement Amendment Act, 2014	673

If your address is incorrect, please clip on the dotted line, make any changes, and return to the address listed below. To facilitate the update, please attach the last mailing label along with your account number.

Subscriptions
Legislative Assembly Office
1001 Legislature Annex
9718 – 107 Street
EDMONTON, AB T5K 1E4

Last mailing label:

Account # _____

New information:

Name:

Address:

Subscription information:

Annual subscriptions to the paper copy of Alberta Hansard (including annual index) are $127.50 including GST if mailed once a week or $94.92 including GST if picked up at the subscription address below or if mailed through the provincial government interdepartmental mail system. Bound volumes are $121.70 including GST if mailed. Cheques should be made payable to the Minister of Finance.

Price per issue is $0.75 including GST.

Online access to Alberta Hansard is available through the Internet at www.assembly.ab.ca

Subscription inquiries:

Subscriptions
Legislative Assembly Office
1001 Legislature Annex
9718 – 107 St.
EDMONTON, AB T5K 1E4
Telephone: 780.427.1302

Other inquiries:

Managing Editor
Alberta Hansard
1001 Legislature Annex
9718 – 107 St.
EDMONTON, AB T5K 1E4
Telephone: 780.427.1875

Province of Alberta

The 28th Legislature
Second Session

Alberta Hansard

Monday afternoon, May 5, 2014

Issue 24

The Honourable Gene Zwozdesky, Speaker

Legislative Assembly of Alberta The 28th Legislature

Second Session

Zwozdesky, Hon. Gene, Edmonton-Mill Creek (PC), Speaker
Rogers, George, Leduc-Beaumont (PC), Deputy Speaker and Chair of Committees
Kalagian-Jablonski, Mary Anne, Red Deer-North (PC), Deputy Chair of Committees

Allen, Mike, Fort McMurray-Wood Buffalo (Ind)
Amery, Moe, Calgary-East (PC)
Anderson, Rob, Airdrie (W),
 Official Opposition House Leader
Anglin, Joe, Rimbey-Rocky Mountain House-Sundre (W)
Barnes, Drew, Cypress-Medicine Hat (W)
Bhardwaj, Hon. Naresh, Edmonton-Ellerslie (PC)
Bhullar, Hon. Manmeet Singh, Calgary-Greenway (PC)
Bikman, Gary, Cardston-Taber-Warner (W)
Bilous, Deron, Edmonton-Beverly-Clareview (ND)
Blakeman, Laurie, Edmonton-Centre (AL),
 Liberal Opposition House Leader
Brown, Dr. Neil, QC, Calgary-Mackay-Nose Hill (PC)
Calahasen, Pearl, Lesser Slave Lake (PC)
Campbell, Hon. Robin, West Yellowhead (PC),
 Government House Leader
Cao, Wayne C.N., Calgary-Fort (PC)
Casey, Ron, Banff-Cochrane (PC)
Cusanelli, Christine, Calgary-Currie (PC)
Dallas, Hon. Cal, Red Deer-South (PC)
DeLong, Alana, Calgary-Bow (PC)
Denis, Hon. Jonathan, QC, Calgary-Acadia (PC),
 Deputy Government House Leader
Donovan, Ian, Little Bow (W)
Dorward, David C., Edmonton-Gold Bar (PC),
 Deputy Government Whip
Drysdale, Hon. Wayne, Grande Prairie-Wapiti (PC)
Eggen, David, Edmonton-Calder (ND),
 New Democrat Opposition Whip
Fawcett, Hon. Kyle, Calgary-Klein (PC)
Fenske, Jacquie, Fort Saskatchewan-Vegreville (PC)
Forsyth, Heather, Calgary-Fish Creek (W)
Fox, Rodney M., Lacombe-Ponoka (W)
Fraser, Hon. Rick, Calgary-South East (PC)
Fritz, Yvonne, Calgary-Cross (PC)
Goudreau, Hector G., Dunvegan-Central Peace-Notley (PC)
Griffiths, Hon. Doug, Battle River-Wainwright (PC)
Hale, Jason W., Strathmore-Brooks (W)
Hancock, Hon. Dave, QC, Edmonton-Whitemud (PC),
 Premier
Hehr, Kent, Calgary-Buffalo (AL)
Horne, Hon. Fred, Edmonton-Rutherford (PC)
Horner, Hon. Doug, Spruce Grove-St. Albert (PC)
Hughes, Ken, Calgary-West (PC)
Jansen, Hon. Sandra, Calgary-North West (PC)
Jeneroux, Matt, Edmonton-South West (PC)
Johnson, Hon. Jeff, Athabasca-Sturgeon-Redwater (PC)
Johnson, Linda, Calgary-Glenmore (PC)
Kang, Darshan S., Calgary-McCall (AL),
 Liberal Opposition Whip
Kennedy-Glans, Donna, QC, Calgary-Varsity (Ind)
Khan, Stephen, St. Albert (PC)
Klimchuk, Hon. Heather, Edmonton-Glenora (PC)
Kubinec, Maureen, Barrhead-Morinville-Westlock (PC)
Lemke, Ken, Stony Plain (PC)
Leskiw, Genia, Bonnyville-Cold Lake (PC)
Luan, Jason, Calgary-Hawkwood (PC)
Lukaszuk, Hon. Thomas A., Edmonton-Castle Downs (PC)
Mason, Brian, Edmonton-Highlands-Norwood (ND),
 Leader of the New Democrat Opposition
McAllister, Bruce, Chestermere-Rocky View (W)
McDonald, Everett, Grande Prairie-Smoky (PC)
McIver, Hon. Ric, Calgary-Hays (PC)
McQueen, Hon. Diana, Drayton Valley-Devon (PC)
Notley, Rachel, Edmonton-Strathcona (ND),
 New Democrat Opposition House Leader
Oberle, Hon. Frank, Peace River (PC),
 Deputy Government House Leader
Olesen, Cathy, Sherwood Park (PC)
Olson, Hon. Verlyn, QC, Wetaskiwin-Camrose (PC),
 Deputy Government House Leader
Pastoor, Bridget Brennan, Lethbridge-East (PC)
Pedersen, Blake, Medicine Hat (W)
Quadri, Sohail, Edmonton-Mill Woods (PC)
Quest, Hon. Dave, Strathcona-Sherwood Park (PC)
Redford, Alison M., QC, Calgary-Elbow (PC)
Rodney, Hon. Dave, Calgary-Lougheed (PC)
Rowe, Bruce, Olds-Didsbury-Three Hills (W)
Sandhu, Peter, Edmonton-Manning (PC)
Sarich, Janice, Edmonton-Decore (PC)
Saskiw, Shayne, Lac La Biche-St. Paul-Two Hills (W),
 Official Opposition Whip
Scott, Hon. Donald, QC, Fort McMurray-Conklin (PC)
Sherman, Dr. Raj, Edmonton-Meadowlark (AL),
 Leader of the Liberal Opposition
Smith, Danielle, Highwood (W),
 Leader of the Official Opposition
Starke, Hon. Dr. Richard, Vermilion-Lloydminster (PC)
Stier, Pat, Livingstone-Macleod (W)
Strankman, Rick, Drumheller-Stettler (W)
Swann, Dr. David, Calgary-Mountain View (AL)
Towle, Kerry, Innisfail-Sylvan Lake (W),
 Official Opposition Deputy Whip
VanderBurg, George, Whitecourt-Ste. Anne (PC),
 Government Whip
Weadick, Hon. Greg, Lethbridge-West (PC)
Webber, Len, Calgary-Foothills (Ind)
Wilson, Jeff, Calgary-Shaw (W),
 Official Opposition Deputy House Leader
Woo-Paw, Hon. Teresa, Calgary-Northern Hills (PC)
Xiao, David H., Edmonton-McClung (PC)
Young, Steve, Edmonton-Riverview (PC)

Party standings:

Progressive Conservative: 58 Wildrose: 17 Alberta Liberal: 5 New Democrat: 4 Independent: 3

Officers and Officials of the Legislative Assembly

W.J. David McNeil, Clerk	Stephanie LeBlanc, Parliamentary Counsel and Legal Research Officer	Philip Massolin, Manager of Research Services
Robert H. Reynolds, QC, Law Clerk/ Director of Interparliamentary Relations	Fiona Vance, Sessional Parliamentary Counsel	Brian G. Hodgson, Sergeant-at-Arms
Shannon Dean, Senior Parliamentary Counsel/Director of House Services	Nancy Robert, Research Officer	Chris Caughell, Assistant Sergeant-at-Arms
		Gordon H. Munk, Assistant Sergeant-at-Arms
		Janet Schwegel, Managing Editor of Alberta Hansard

Executive Council

Dave Hancock	Premier, President of Executive Council, Minister of Innovation and Advanced Education
Naresh Bhardwaj	Associate Minister – Services for Persons with Disabilities
Manmeet Singh Bhullar	Minister of Human Services
Robin Campbell	Minister of Environment and Sustainable Resource Development
Cal Dallas	Minister of International and Intergovernmental Relations
Jonathan Denis	Minister of Justice and Solicitor General
Wayne Drysdale	Minister of Transportation
Kyle Fawcett	Associate Minister – Recovery and Reconstruction for Southwest Alberta
Rick Fraser	Associate Minister – Public Safety Associate Minister – Recovery and Reconstruction for High River
Doug Griffiths	Minister of Service Alberta
Fred Horne	Minister of Health
Doug Horner	President of Treasury Board and Minister of Finance
Sandra Jansen	Associate Minister – Family and Community Safety
Jeff Johnson	Minister of Education, Ministerial Liaison to the Canadian Forces
Heather Klimchuk	Minister of Culture
Thomas Lukaszuk	Minister of Jobs, Skills, Training and Labour
Ric McIver	Minister of Infrastructure
Diana McQueen	Minister of Energy
Frank Oberle	Minister of Aboriginal Relations
Verlyn Olson	Minister of Agriculture and Rural Development
Dave Quest	Associate Minister – Seniors
Dave Rodney	Associate Minister – Wellness
Donald Scott	Associate Minister – Accountability, Transparency and Transformation
Richard Starke	Minister of Tourism, Parks and Recreation
Greg Weadick	Associate Minister – Recovery and Reconstruction for Southeast Alberta
Teresa Woo-Paw	Associate Minister – International and Intergovernmental Relations

STANDING AND SPECIAL COMMITTEES OF THE LEGISLATIVE ASSEMBLY OF ALBERTA

Standing Committee on Alberta's Economic Future

Chair: Mr. Amery
 Deputy Chair: Mr. Fox
 Dorward Pastoor
 Eggen Quadri
 Hehr Rogers
 Kubinec Rowe
 Lemke Sarich
 Luan Stier
 McDonald

Standing Committee on the Alberta Heritage Savings Trust Fund

Chair: Mr. Casey
 Deputy Chair: Mrs. Jablonski
 Amery Khan
 Barnes Sandhu
 Dorward Sherman
 Eggen

Select Special Ethics Commissioner Search Committee

Chair: Mr. Rogers
 Deputy Chair: Mr. Quadri
 Blakeman Leskiw
 Eggen McDonald
 Goudreau Saskiw
 Lemke

Standing Committee on Families and Communities

Chair: Ms Olesen
 Deputy Chair: Mrs. Forsyth
 Cusanelli McAllister
 DeLong Notley
 Fenske Pedersen
 Fritz Sandhu
 Jablonski Swann
 Jeneroux VanderBurg
 Leskiw

Standing Committee on Legislative Offices

Chair: Mr. Jeneroux
 Deputy Chair: Mr. McDonald
 Bikman Leskiw
 Blakeman Quadri
 Brown Wilson
 DeLong Young
 Eggen

Special Standing Committee on Members' Services

Chair: Mr. Zwozdesky
 Deputy Chair: Mr. VanderBurg
 Casey Mason
 Forsyth McDonald
 Fritz Sherman
 Johnson, L. Towle
 Kubinec

Standing Committee on Private Bills

Chair: Mr. Xiao
 Deputy Chair: Mrs. Leskiw
 Allen Notley
 Brown Olesen
 Cusanelli Rowe
 DeLong Stier
 Fenske Strankman
 Fritz Swann
 Jablonski

Standing Committee on Privileges and Elections, Standing Orders and Printing

Chair: Ms Kubinec
 Deputy Chair: Mr. Rogers
 Calahasen Pastoor
 Casey Pedersen
 Kang Saskiw
 Khan VanderBurg
 Luan Wilson
 Notley Young
 Olesen

Standing Committee on Public Accounts

Chair: Mr. Anderson
 Deputy Chair: Mr. Dorward
 Allen Khan
 Amery Luan
 Barnes Pastoor
 Bilous Sandhu
 Donovan Sarich
 Fenske Young
 Hehr

Standing Committee on Resource Stewardship

Chair: Mr. Khan
 Deputy Chair: Mr. Anglin
 Allen Goudreau
 Bikman Hale
 Bilous Johnson, L.
 Blakeman Webber
 Brown Xiao
 Calahasen Young
 Casey

Legislative Assembly of Alberta

1:30 p.m.

Monday, May 5, 2014

[The Speaker in the chair]

Prayers

The Speaker: Good afternoon, hon. members.

Let us pray. In a world that has known conflict throughout its history, let us pray for peace to prevail and for human rights to be recognized even where they are not so commonly known today. Let us pray that our province and our country continue to be examples to the world of what freedom is truly all about. Amen.

Please remain standing for the singing of our national anthem, led by Mr. Robert Clark.

Hon. Members:

O Canada, our home and native land!
True patriot love in all thy sons command.
With glowing hearts we see thee rise,
The True North strong and free!
From far and wide, O Canada,
We stand on guard for thee.
God keep our land glorious and free!
O Canada, we stand on guard for thee.
O Canada, we stand on guard for thee.

The Speaker: Thank you, all. Please be seated.

Introduction of Visitors

The Speaker: The hon. Minister of International and Intergovernmental Relations.

Mr. Dallas: Thank you, Mr. Speaker. I rise to introduce to you and through you to all members of this Assembly His Excellency Mr. Gian Lorenzo Cornado, ambassador of the Italian Republic. He is accompanied by Mr. Fabrizio Inserra, who is the consul general of the Italian Republic in Vancouver.

Mr. Speaker, this is the first official visit to Alberta for Ambassador Cornado since taking the post just over one year ago. However, it's not his first posting in Canada. From 1987 to 1992 he served as consular secretary in the Ottawa embassy and as the consul general in Montreal from 2000 to 2004. Ambassador Cornado has played and will continue to play a valuable role in strengthening the friendship between our jurisdictions.

Mr. Speaker, Alberta and Italy have a long-standing trade, investment, and cultural relationship. Italy is Alberta's fourth-largest export market in Europe, averaging $154 million per year. A large portion of that is wheat. Alberta imports from Italy more than $328 million per year of products, consisting mainly of wine, machinery, iron, and steel. There are approximately 88,000 Albertans of Italian descent, making it the 12th-largest ethnic group in the province. We will continue to work together to build on our ties so that both our jurisdictions can thrive today, tomorrow, and in the future.

I'd like now to ask Ambassador Cornado to rise and receive the traditional warm welcome of this Assembly.

The Speaker: Thank you.

Introduction of Guests

The Speaker: Let us begin with school groups, starting with the Minister of Health, followed by Sherwood Park.

Mr. Horne: Well, thank you very much, Mr. Speaker. I'm delighted to introduce to you and through you to all members an exceptional group of students from Westbrook elementary school in my constituency of Edmonton-Rutherford. Today we are joined by Mr. Shawn Nordstrom, the teacher, and three parent helpers: Mr. Shawn Sipma, Ms Karin Lefsrud, and Ms Mackenzie Linnen. This class is also attending School at the Legislature. They have some very interesting and challenging questions. I'd ask all of them, please, to stand and receive the traditional warm welcome of the Assembly.

The Speaker: The hon. Member for Sherwood Park, followed by the Minister of Tourism, Parks and Recreation.

Ms Olesen: Thank you, Mr. Speaker. I'm pleased to introduce to you and through you to the members of this Assembly 61 grade 6 students from Holy Spirit Catholic school along with their teachers and helpers Catrina Chapman, Jenna Bishop, Kathryn Knox, Paula Federwick, Leigh Ann O'Sullivan, Stephen Dallon, and Lesley MacAllister. I would ask the group from Holy Spirit Catholic school to please rise and receive the traditional warm welcome of this Assembly.

The Speaker: The hon. Minister of Tourism, Parks and Recreation.

Dr. Starke: Well, thank you, Mr. Speaker. It's my great pleasure to introduce to you and through you to all members of the Assembly 27 energetic young students from Viking school. Being from Viking school, they not only know what lefse and lutefisk is; they probably had it for breakfast. [interjections] Oh, yeah. The Norwegian section over there. They are accompanied by their teachers Mrs. Dianne Kolybaba and Mrs. Trudy Josephson as well as parent helper Mrs. Nancy Mizera. I had a chance to meet with these young people in the rotunda before our session. They are energetic and a fine example of students from my constituency. I'd ask that they rise and receive the warm welcome of the Assembly.

The Speaker: Thank you.

Are there other school groups?

Seeing none, let us move on with other important guests. Let us turn to Edmonton-Decore, followed by the Associate Minister – Seniors.

Mrs. Sarich: Thank you, Mr. Speaker. It's an honour and privilege for me to rise today to introduce to you and through you to all members of the Alberta Legislature eight representatives from the Armenian community here today for the Legislative Assembly of Alberta's inaugural commemoration ceremony recognizing the Armenian genocide of 1915.

Mr. Speaker, I'd like to thank you for your leadership in hosting the remembrance and for the leadership of the Premier of our great province and all colleagues and guests from the Armenian community. It is vital to acknowledge the importance of the Armenian genocide of 1915, where 99 years ago a heinous crime, a great tragedy against the Armenian people was committed and should never be forgotten.

Mr. Speaker, my guests are seated in the Speaker's gallery – and thank you very much for that privilege – and I would now ask them to please rise and remain standing as I mention their names. I would like to welcome this afternoon Mr. Shahin Soheili, director, Western Canada Armenian Holy Apostolic church of Canada; Archpriest Reverend Keghart Garabedian, pastor of St. Vartan Armenian Apostolic church of B.C.; Mrs. Mayda Beylerian, chair,

Church Council, Armenian Holy Apostolic church of Canada; Mr. Arsen Vaganyan, leader, Edmonton Armenian community; Dr. Edward Ohanjanians, leader, Red Deer Armenian community; Mr. Artak Grigoryan, former combat support platoon leader, Armenian peacekeeping brigade, and community member – we thank him for his service – Mr. Suren Vaganyan, community communications specialist; and Ms Sona Grigoryan, community treasurer.

I'd now ask the Assembly to please honour my guests by giving them the traditional welcome.

Thank you.

The Speaker: Welcome to all of you.

Let us move on to the Associate Minister – Seniors, followed by the Minister of Energy.

Mr. Quest: Well, thank you, Mr. Speaker. It gives me great pleasure to introduce to you and through you to all members of this Assembly Nicole Zens, a grade 6 home-school student from Sherwood Park who's studying local government. She's accompanied by her mother, Jody Zens. I had the opportunity earlier to briefly meet them. They had just done a tour, and it sounds like they're having a great day. They are seated in the members' gallery, and I ask that they now rise and receive the traditional warm welcome of the Assembly.

The Speaker: Thank you.

The hon. Minister of Energy, followed by the Acting Minister of Municipal Affairs.

Mrs. McQueen: Well, thank you, Mr. Speaker. It's a pleasure for me to rise to introduce to you and through you to all members of this Assembly and to welcome one of my spectacular councillors from the town of Devon and his family to the Legislature today. We have with us today Michael and Angela Laveck and their two wonderful children, Jadin and Daniel. I had the chance to meet with them in my office, and I'd like them to rise and receive the traditional warm welcome of this Assembly.

1:40

The Speaker: The Acting Minister of Municipal Affairs, followed by the Associate Minister – Accountability, Transparency and Transformation.

Mr. Weadick: Well, thank you, Mr. Speaker. It's a pleasure to rise today and introduce to you and through you to all members of the Assembly Ms Kelta Coomber. I met Kelta earlier today, and she is joining my office through the Alberta student ministerial internship program at the Legislature. Kelta just completed her degree in political science through the honours program and is pursuing a master's program this fall. I would ask Kelta to rise and receive the traditional warm welcome of the Assembly.

The Speaker: The Associate Minister – Accountability, Transparency and Transformation, followed by the Associate Minister of Wellness.

Mr. Scott: Thank you very much, Mr. Speaker. It's my honour and privilege to introduce to you and through you to all members of the Assembly a constituent of mine from Fort McMurray, Nicole Ardell. Nicole has come today to observe the proceedings of the Legislature and to watch as her petition is presented, with the aim of working with government to make improvements to the immunization process for children in Alberta schools. I would ask her to please rise and receive the traditional warm welcome of the Assembly.

The Speaker: The Associate Minister of Wellness.

Mr. Rodney: Thank you very much, Mr. Speaker. It's truly an honour to introduce an amazing and inspirational young Albertan who is really one of a kind. He was an MLA for a Day almost a decade ago, and he's had an amazing journey ever since, having travelled to 20 countries on five continents. He often asks: what's the adventure for today, boss? He's worked in my constituency office, my Annex office, our Wellness office, and on all of our campaigns, including as our fine manager. He has a very positive attitude, and his philosophy to always embrace new opportunities has served him well. He has no less than four offers for law school this fall. His family is very proud of him. Our family is very proud of him. I'm very pleased to introduce my good friend Mr. Joey Redman.

The Speaker: Thank you.

Are there others?

Seeing none, Minister of International and Intergovernmental Relations, I note that your additional guests will be arriving later. Thank you.

Members' Statements

The Speaker: Hon. members, we have two minutes each.

Armenian Genocide Anniversary

Mrs. Kalagian-Jablonski: Mr. Speaker, today is a very special day in the Alberta Legislature thanks to you and to my colleague and friend the MLA for Edmonton-Decore. Today we commemorated the 99th anniversary of the Armenian genocide. We have members and leaders of the Armenian community in Alberta as well as Archpriest Reverend Garabedian of St. Vartan Armenian Apostolic church in B.C. here today to commemorate this solemn occasion with us.

This is a very important occasion because we need to remember the historically correct past in order to promote healing, justice, and peace throughout the world. It is an important occasion because over 1.5 million Armenian men, women, and children were tortured and brutally murdered by a government that now uses political manipulation, retaliation, and financial incentive to continue to deny the Armenian genocide and to attempt to reshape the historical facts. Over 8 million Armenians have experienced a century of injustice due to the failure of the Turkish government to recognize the Armenian genocide while more than 35 countries around the world, including Canada, officially recognize the genocide.

Just as the Truth and Reconciliation Commission in Canada has recognized the pain and suffering caused to this very day by residential schools and is now the catalyst for healing, justice, and peace, so too must the Turkish government recognize their injustices of the past. I'm not here to condemn a government but to praise the people of Armenian and Turkish descent who are working together in solidarity for reconciliation and calling on their own government to recognize the genocide. By concentrating on the injury and injustice to the people of Armenia, we have almost forgotten the injury suffered by many Turkish people who opposed the torture and murder of their neighbours and friends.

Today, Mr. Speaker, I ask that everyone remember the lessons taught by my Armenian grandmother, Mariam Kalagian, that love is better than hate and that this world will only survive if we love one another. And if anyone should ask, "Who remembers the Armenians?" we can say, "We remember."

The Speaker: Thank you.

The hon. Member for Little Bow, followed by Stony Plain.

Nobleford

Mr. Donovan: Thank you, Mr. Speaker. Today I'm pleased to rise and tell you about a success story in the Little Bow riding. It's not of just one person or one company, but it's about an entire community, Nobleford. The village is just 20 kilometres north of Lethbridge, and if you ever have the opportunity, I'd ask you to please swing by and see what the village has to offer.

Now, you can understand and sense that in rural Alberta a lot of small towns seem to be rolling up and withering, so to speak, but Nobleford is the exact opposite, Mr. Speaker. They've gone from 600 people in 2006 to 1,300 people in the last census. Along with that, they also have the lowest taxes in Alberta. Can you imagine having a house that's worth $330,000 – that's the assessment on it – and only paying $1,000 for your taxes? It's not a bad idea. Some great things to have.

One of the other things, Mr. Speaker, is that I was happy to be invited on April 12 to their fire hall opening. It just goes to show you how well-connected local decision-making can be done correctly in rural Alberta. They built the fire hall. They're under budget. They'd saved enough money that they paid for over half of it before the building was even constructed, and they don't even have a loan on it. The beautiful part of that whole fire hall is that when you're there at the opening with the people from the area – the second fire chief's son is actually the chief official officer of the village, so it goes back to the ties, but also it's a young, vibrant community for people to move into. I think one of the beautiful things . . .

An Hon. Member: Do they build schools?

Mr. Donovan: Yes, they do have schools also. It's a great place to be.

Mr. Speaker, because of the leadership shown by the current council, Nobleford is becoming one of the most attractive places to live and do business. It's also encouraging to see so many young families move back to this village and raise their family in the atmosphere of rural Alberta, knowing their kids are going to be safe and can walk around town safely without any concerns.

Mr. Speaker, I'd also like to thank the current and previous council for their vision, that will allow them to have more success as they approach their centennial anniversary year in 2018. I'd just like to thank everybody. If you ever have the chance to go through, please stop and visit the village of Nobleford.

The Speaker: The hon. Member for Stony Plain, followed by Sherwood Park.

Temporary Foreign Worker Program Moratorium

Mr. Lemke: Thank you, Mr. Speaker. Alberta's economy is booming. I see help-wanted signs in shop windows and hear of industries around Alberta looking to fill vacant positions. It is only natural in an economy experiencing an economic upswing to see people coming from all over to take advantage of job opportunities, yet migration within Canada has not been sufficient to meet Alberta demands. Fortunately, Alberta businesses have been able to find some relief through the temporary foreign worker program. Temporary foreign workers, or TFWs, are able to work in Canada for up to four years. However, the federal government recently issued a moratorium on TFWs in the food services sector.

I know this is a concern to my constituents and to small businesses across the province. Mr. Speaker, how are restaurants across Alberta supposed to cope with this sudden change? If they do not have adequate staffing, they are unable to provide the customer service needed to generate profits. This may force them to close, resulting in the loss of jobs for Albertans also employed in these businesses.

It is my understanding that this moratorium is a result of employers abusing the system and hiring TFWs over Canadians, which is against the law. That being said, our labour market is unique in comparison to the rest of Canada. Our job vacancy rate has been the highest in Canada for the past three years, and our unemployment rate is consistently under 5 per cent, which indicates a balanced labour market. This means that if every employable person was working, we would still experience a labour shortage.

Mr. Speaker, Alberta needs temporary foreign workers to accommodate our growth now and into the future. I look forward to a speedy review of the program by the federal government so our food service industry can be assured of labour that will be available when they need it.

Thank you, Mr. Speaker.

The Speaker: Thank you.

Oral Question Period

The Speaker: Hon. members, a reminder that a maximum of 35 seconds is allowed for each question and each answer.

Let's start with Her Majesty's Loyal Opposition leader for her first main set of questions.

Trust in Government

Ms Smith: Mr. Speaker, last week the Premier stood in front of a roomful of well-heeled PC supporters and said that he was sorry. Now, we've been around long enough to know how rare a PC apology is, so I suppose he should be commended, but apologizing to your party for historically low approval ratings and actually apologizing to Albertans for mismanaging the province are two different things. So here's an opportunity for the Premier. Will he be accountable to all Albertans, not just his party faithful, and apologize on his government's behalf for breaking their trust?

1:50

Mr. Hancock: Mr. Speaker, each and every day I take seriously the responsibility of being Premier of this province, a responsibility that my caucus has asked me to take on, and I'm truly privileged to do so. As part of that responsibility we have to take very seriously the concerns of Albertans. We need their trust. We need to earn that trust each and every day, and I will strive every day that I'm in this office, as do all members of this government, to earn that trust, to treat Albertans with respect, and to treat their money with respect.

Ms Smith: You see how hard it is to say sorry, Mr. Speaker.

A month ago the Premier brushed aside criticism and refused to apologize for his party's past mistakes. Apologies have already been made, he told a Calgary newspaper. Now all of a sudden he's sorry. Albertans want to believe he's genuine, but the fact is that the Premier's apology came the day after a new research survey showed that the PC Party is about as popular as a May blizzard. To the Premier: how are Albertans to believe that his apology is anything but a cynical political move motivated by his party's unpopularity?

Mr. Hancock: Mr. Speaker, the Leader of the Opposition can interpret any way she wants. I'm not really too concerned about her view of the world. What I am concerned about is Albertans' view of the world and what Albertans want from their government and what Albertans deserve from their government, very, very concerned about ensuring that this government acts responsibly for Albertans and for Albertans' future. That's what we aim to do. I am very, very sorry that we've been distracted from that by our own actions, and we're taking every step we can to make sure that we do not do that again so that Albertans can be assured that we will do the best for their grandchildren.

Ms Smith: We're getting closer, Mr. Speaker.

The Premier's apology came at the PC Party's annual fundraiser in Edmonton. A video was shown to honour past PC Premiers: Peter Lougheed, Don Getty, Ralph Klein, and Ed Stelmach. Well, obviously, there was one missing. Between the video and the Premier's carefully scripted apology it's clear the PCs are attempting to expunge from the record the leadership of the Member for Calgary-Elbow. Does the Premier actually believe that his 43-year-old government's long list of failures is the sole responsibility of one person, who was in charge for 29 months?

Mr. Hancock: Mr. Speaker, in the 43 years that this particular party has had the privilege of serving Albertans, there have been many, many successes. In fact, there are many jurisdictions that have resources, but this is the jurisdiction that has led the world in environmental technology, in oil and gas extraction, in agriculture, and in so many places. Yes, there have been some things that we could do better, and we will do better on those things. But, no, every single leader of this party has provided a service to Albertans in their time, including my immediate predecessor.

The Speaker: Second main set of questions.

Electricity System

Ms Smith: Among the things that the PC government needs to apologize to Albertans for is the mess they have made of power transmission. Several years ago we began warning Albertans that if the government went ahead with Bill 50, ratepayers would be gouged. Last week we learned that AltaLink, the major beneficiary of the mistakes in Bill 50, has been sold for four times what it was worth 12 years ago. Now its owners have netted a $2.4 billion profit. Will the Premier apologize to Albertans who've been gouged on their power bills for the last decade?

Mrs. McQueen: Well, Mr. Speaker, what we'll say to Albertans is that we are proud of the investment climate that Alberta has, and it is a strong investment climate here in Alberta. With regard to this business we'll make sure that it goes through a federal process and through an AUC process to make sure that it is fair to Albertans.

Ms Smith: Mr. Speaker, we warned that Albertans would be stuck paying much more than necessary to build transmission lines we didn't need, because it's in the interest of transmission companies to overbuild. They get a guaranteed 9 per cent rate of return, and now we see that their special relationship with government has turned a 400 per cent profit in just 12 years. We warned that billions were at stake and that consumers would be gouged. Will the Premier apologize to Albertans for ignoring the experts and forcing through power lines that we don't need?

The Speaker: The hon. Minister of Energy.

Mrs. McQueen: Well, thank you, Mr. Speaker. I don't know how the hon. member can talk about that, because a deal hasn't even happened yet. It has a federal process to go through – and I'm sure she has faith in that process – and it has the process of the AUC. What is important to this government is that there is power there for Albertans when they need it and that it's affordable when they need it. That's exactly what we are doing.

Ms Smith: Mr. Speaker, we're talking about the government's decision to sole source these contracts and the impact it's having on power bills. That doesn't change regardless of who owns it.

Every Albertan who opens their power bill knows that transmission costs and other fees can sometimes be more than the actual cost of electricity. Transmission lines remain the regulated part of the electricity business and is the part that is the biggest mess. We warned Albertans that this government's power line policy was going to cost us billions, and it has. Will the Premier apologize to Albertans for gouging them on their power bills so that their friends at transmission companies could earn a sizeable . . .

The Speaker: Thank you.

The hon. Minister of Energy.

Mrs. McQueen: Thank you, Mr. Speaker. What this government is doing is making sure that when Albertans want to turn the lights on that the lights are there to turn on. We are building out for this province. With over 100,000 people coming to this province every year, we need to make sure that we have power for them to be able to turn on. That's responsible government. That is what we're doing. We're making sure the prices are affordable.

The Speaker: The third and final main set of questions.

Government Policies

Ms Smith: Mr. Speaker, so much to apologize for. Real apologies, though, require making amends. Let's take public-sector relations. This government has passed Bill 46, which was struck down by the courts. Bill 45, which is equally unconstitutional and insulting, is a complete affront to free speech. Bill 9, which would impact public-sector pensions, has been rejected by all the unions, the Alberta Association of Municipal Districts and Counties, the Alberta Urban Municipalities Association, and now the mayor of Calgary. If this government is serious about apologizing, will it also make amends by scrapping Bill 45 and halting Bill 9?

Mr. Hancock: Mr. Speaker, the Leader of the Opposition aspires to be a leader in this province but only wants to do the easy work. In fact, governing is actually quite difficult, and it's very complex. You do have to do things like pension reform. You do have to understand that you not only have an obligation to today's Albertans, but you have an obligation to tomorrow's Albertans. That is part and parcel of governing, that takes difficult work, and that takes complex discussions with all the stakeholders, not just to hear the yells but to get deep into the issues and to come to complex conclusions, and that's what this government is doing.

Ms Smith: Mr. Speaker, it shouldn't be hard to show basic respect for our front-line workers.

This government also needs to apologize and make amends in education and health. For months we've been saying that there is no chance that the government will hit any of its school-building targets. There just aren't any shovels in the ground. In Health this weekend they finally admitted that family care clinics were not the answer and that we wouldn't get 140 of them after all. Will the Premier apologize to Albertans and admit that there wasn't a single word of truth in his party's election platform?

Mr. Hancock: Mr. Speaker, again the Leader of the Opposition wants to deal with tactics and not outcomes. This government is interested in outcomes. When we're talking about family care clinics and primary care networks, what we're talking about is creating a platform so that Albertans can take care of their own health, being supported by teams of health care professionals who work together. Whether they do that within the confines of a family care clinic or supported by a primary care network matters not as long as they have the support services from the health care professionals that they need to manage their chronic conditions, to help them stay healthy.

Ms Smith: I cannot believe that they can't simply say: sorry.

Let's try one more, Mr. Speaker. We've pointed out over and over again that this government has an entitlement problem with the use of government planes. They've been made into personal taxis for vacations and fundraising events. If the apology were sincere, we would know what the ex-Premier was doing in Jasper during the flood; instead, they keep hiding the truth. If the Premier's apology were sincere, the government would make amends by selling the government air fleet. When can we expect the Premier to do that?

Mr. Hancock: Mr. Speaker, what I said to Albertans on Thursday was that this government and this Premier are very sorry that we have not made sure that the public understood what we were doing and why we were doing it, and that we wanted to make sure that every dollar that we spend on behalf of Albertans is spent well. We have allowed the issues around those things to become distractions from the real governing issues of how we create the right kind of place for our children and grandchildren. We will now make sure that every dollar spent is spent appropriately, that for flights that are taken, people understand what the value of those is and why we're doing it.

The Speaker: The hon. leader of the Liberal opposition.

Public Service Pension Legislation

Dr. Sherman: Thank you, Mr. Speaker. Bills 9 and 10 are the latest examples of this government's ready, fire, aim approach to legislation. On Friday Mayor Nenshi wrote to the Premier, saying that he and council "believe that the proposed changes will gravely impact The City of Calgary." It could have a "crippling effect [on the] labour force . . . operations and finances." He strongly urged the Premier and the government to table Bill 9 so that significant issues could be addressed before any changes to pension legislation. Premier, a simple question: will you kill Bill 9?

2:00

The Speaker: Hon. members, Bill 9 is up later for debate, as I understand, but go ahead if you wish, hon. Premier.

Mr. Hancock: Mr. Speaker, if the hon. member understood the parliamentary process, he'd know that once a bill is in the House, it's not in the hands of any member to kill the bill. The process of the House will proceed. Debate on Bill 9 will proceed. As we always do, we listen to Albertans, listen to the input we get, and determine the progress of the bill based on what needs to be done.

The Speaker: Thank you.

Dr. Sherman: Mr. Speaker, I'm just asking the Premier to show some leadership and make a commitment to do the right thing.

Two weeks ago I pointed out that the cost of recruiting and retaining workers will increase as higher wages are demanded to make up for less attractive public-sector pensions. On Friday Mayor Nenshi made the same point and said that it will increase the administrative costs to the city of Calgary. I bet lots of other municipalities, AUMA, and AAMD and C share the same concerns as the Alberta Liberals and Mayor Nenshi. Premier, how much will Bill 9 cost municipalities and the province . . .

The Speaker: The hon. Premier, again recognizing that this is on the Order Paper for later.

Mr. Hancock: Again, yes, Mr. Speaker, it is on the Order Paper today, and those are perfectly good questions for the member to raise in debate. But I will say this. The city of Calgary had an opportunity to participate in the discussion and the consultation around the issues of pension reform and did participate, but it didn't participate on the issues that came in this latest letter because the issues in the latest letter are more around the window dressing around the bill as opposed to the substantive issues in the bill. However, we will be taking into account the letter that we got. I'll be meeting with the Minister of Finance later, and we will discuss how those issues can be addressed.

Dr. Sherman: Mr. Speaker, they might have picked up the phone, but according to this letter this government obviously didn't listen to the city of Calgary.

I'll tell you one more thing about this Premier: he's a uniter, not a divider. He has united every union against bills 9 and 10. He has united the mayor of Calgary and city council against Bill 9. He has united every opposition party in the House against this government's attack on pensions. This government is now desperately fighting a multifront war, which will probably end badly for them. Premier, for the good of Alberta workers and municipal governments will you do the right thing and the smart thing and kill these bills?

Mr. Hancock: Mr. Speaker, I was almost sure that at the end of that sentence he was going to say: and resign. I'm so relieved.

Mr. Speaker, as I just indicated to the hon. member, once a bill is in the House, it belongs to the House, not to the government, and it is not in the hands of the government to kill a bill. We will proceed with the debate on the bill as it is on the Order Paper today, as you've so graciously pointed out several times already, and in the course of that debate, as the bill goes through the House, we'll determine what the appropriate way is to deal with the issues that people both in the opposition and the public raise.

The Speaker: Thank you.

The hon. leader of the ND opposition. [applause]

Mr. Mason: Well, thank you very much, Mr. Speaker, to all the hon. members. I love them all dearly; I just don't think they should be running the province.

Mr. Speaker, this week the mayor of Calgary sent the Premier a letter about Bill 9. The mayor outlined seven major problems with Bill 9, including making it harder for the city and other employers to attract and retain good employees. To the Premier: given the mayor's comments and those of so many others, concerned stakeholders and citizens, will you do the right thing and withdraw Bill 9?

The Speaker: Hon. Premier, you know that Bill 9 is on the Order Paper, but proceed as you wish.

Mr. Hancock: Thank you, Mr. Speaker. If I may, at the beginning could I say exactly the same to the hon. member? I do love him dearly, but I also don't want him running the province.

Again, it's not in the hands of government to withdraw a bill once it's committed to the House, so, no, we will not withdraw the bill. But the hon. member should realize that everybody had opportunity to have their input with respect to the pension reforms. There are important issues with respect to pension reform that need to be carried through. We do need to hear and listen to what people are saying about it to make sure we're doing the right thing, and we will.

The Speaker: First supplemental, hon. member.

Mr. Mason: Yes. Thank you very much, Mr. Speaker. Well, the government certainly does have the power to withdraw a bill. I think the Premier is not correct on that. But this evening we will be debating a motion from the NDP to refer the bill to the Standing Committee on Alberta's Economic Future for public hearings. Will the Premier and his government support that motion?

Mr. Hancock: Mr. Speaker, once again, the hon. member, who has been in this House I think almost as long as I have, ought to know that the process is that individual members get to vote in this House as to what happens. It would be entirely inappropriate for the Premier to stand up and say that the government will direct all of its members to vote in this particular way. Now, having said that, I also would question what the hon. member's intentions are. Does he want the bill withdrawn, killed, or defeated, or does he want it referred to committee?

The Speaker: This is one of the problems with getting into anticipation, so let's be careful here.

The hon. leader. Final question.

Mr. Mason: Thank you very much, Mr. Speaker. Well, we would like to have the bill killed. That's for sure. But in terms of a process certainly withdrawing the bill or referring it to a committee for public hearings at least gives the public a chance for the input that this government has denied them up until now. I want to put it to the Premier. If his party can't vote on the motion tonight and he can't get all of the members to vote for it, what are we paying your whip for?

Mr. Hancock: Well, the short answer is that he's not paying our whip.

But there is some dignity in this House, Mr. Speaker. Yes, we operate as a caucus. Yes, we get together to determine direction. Yes, we do listen to the public and to the feedback that we get as we plan the progress of bills. But we do not direct people in terms of how they vote, and we do not kill bills that are the property of the House. We do not withdraw bills that are the property of the House, so the options that would be available would be to leave a bill sitting on the Order Paper or to refer it to committee or to pass it. Those are the options available to the House, and I think we'll pursue one of those options.

The Speaker: Thank you.

Let's go on with question 6 without preamble to allow a maximum number of questions, starting with Calgary-Varsity, followed by Rimbey-Rocky Mountain House-Sundre.

Dementia and Mental Health Services

Ms Kennedy-Glans: Thank you, Mr. Speaker. Last spring I asked the Health minister a question about AHS and the patient-care-based funding formula that had withdrawn resources from people with Alzheimer's and other dementia and mental health issues. To the same minister. It's Mental Health Week, and it's a good time to check in again. Can you provide us an update on changes made to fix the funding formula for care centres to ensure that people with Alzheimer's and other dementia and other mental health issues are adequately resourced?

The Speaker: The hon. Minister of Health.

Mr. Horne: Thank you very much, Mr. Speaker. It is Mental Health Week, and I thank the hon. member for raising a question in that regard in question period today. We are involved now in a detailed review of both the policy for continuing care in Alberta and the funding formula that should be applied in order to achieve the outcomes we wish. For the group of Albertans that have dementia today, about 40,000 people across the province, they are being joined by about 8,000 of their fellow citizens each year who are being diagnosed with dementia. The funding formula must absolutely better reflect the demands that dementia poses for their care.

The Speaker: Thank you.

Ms Kennedy-Glans: Following on your participation in the U.K. Dementia Congress, what actions are under way by Alberta Health to develop a provincial dementia strategy? Specifically, are you working with the Alzheimer Society or other community organizations to start work on a provincial strategy?

Mr. Horne: Well, Mr. Speaker, both the Ministry of Health and Alberta Health Services are working with many, many stakeholders. There are two key areas of focus. The first, of course, is to delay the onset of dementia and other similar diseases as much as possible. The second is to support people who are living with dementia or Alzheimer's and their families, who are in many cases supporting them at home. I can tell you, for example, that we are in the midst of a three-year grant that's been provided to the Alzheimer Society of Alberta and Northwest Territories to implement first link, which connects people who are newly diagnosed with dementia and their families to information resources . . .

The Speaker: Thank you.

Ms Kennedy-Glans: This question is to the Associate Minister – Seniors. Given the growing percentage of residents in care centres with dementia and associated depression or mental health issues, what steps are you taking to ensure adequate resources are being provided for the care of this population, and can we be ensured that the latest design research is being applied to the development of new care centres for this population?

2:10

Mr. Quest: Well, Mr. Speaker, yes, we can. We've built 3,000 accommodation spaces in this province in the last three years, and we're adding 2,000 more in the next two years. Virtually all of these facilities will have dementia care spaces, and there will be more to accommodate the increasing numbers of people that are suffering from dementia in Alberta.

The Speaker: Thank you.

The hon. Member for Rimbey-Rocky Mountain House-Sundre, followed by Dunvegan-Central Peace-Notley.

Electricity System Regulation

Mr. Anglin: Thank you, Mr. Speaker. AltaLink began as an $850 million corporate entity that ratepayers of Alberta subsidized. AltaLink is now worth $3.2 billion because Albertans pay for all their assets. Given that ratepayers pay cost plus for all new transmission assets and they guarantee AltaLink an annual income of roughly 9 per cent based on these assets, can the minister please explain what incentive AltaLink has to keep costs down?

The Speaker: The hon. Minister of Energy.

Mrs. McQueen: Well, thank you, Mr. Speaker. That is why we have the AUC. The AUC really regulates to make sure that prices are fair with regard to impacts on rates. This particular deal will go, as I said, through the federal government process and will go through the AUC to consider whether the sale of AltaLink will impact rates. That's important for us to make sure that we have competitive rates and affordable rates for Albertans.

The Speaker: Thank you.

Mr. Anglin: I'm not talking rates. Listen now. Listen. Given that the price of electricity is less than 50 per cent of a utility bill and sometimes the cost of electricity is less than a third of a total bill and given that the real problems with consumers' bills are all those extra charges on the bill, now that Warren Buffett is buying AltaLink, will he be liable for some of these extra costs like transmission, or will consumers now subsidize one of the wealthiest men in the world?

The Speaker: The hon. minister.

Mrs. McQueen: Thank you, Mr. Speaker. As I said, it will go through a federal process. It will go through the AUC. As we build out transmission for an increasing population here in Alberta, for about every $1 billion that's spent, it is about an extra dollar to Albertans' utility bills. But making sure that costs are competitive and affordable for Albertans is first and foremost in this government's mind. That's why we have an MLA review committee doing work for us. They'll be coming forward to us to make sure that there are affordable rates for Alberta as we continue to build out a transmission system.

The Speaker: Thank you.

Mr. Anglin: That answer is why you won't be government after the next election.

Given that SNC-Lavalin is going to profit $2.4 billion thanks to Alberta's ratepayers and given that Alberta ratepayers will guarantee Warren Buffett, one of the wealthiest men in the world, an annual income of 9 per cent on all future transmission lines built, what's in this deal for Albertans, and who's looking after them?

The Speaker: The hon. Minister of Energy.

Mrs. McQueen: Well, thank you, Mr. Speaker. As I said, the AUC looks at all of these, and they look at every penny that is being charged to Albertans. They will make sure the rates are affordable and are fair to Albertans. That is why we have an arm's-length regulator to make sure that it's looking after Albertans and the costs to Albertans for electricity and for transmission in this province.

The Speaker: Thank you.

The hon. Member for Dunvegan-Central Peace-Notley, followed by Strathmore-Brooks.

Highway 744 Landslide Damage

Mr. Goudreau: Thank you, Mr. Speaker. Judah Hill slid in May last year, blocking highway 744. My constituents of Dunvegan-Central Peace-Notley use this route to get to Grimshaw and Peace River and back again. Although a temporary single-lane detour was established, travel through the area is neither safe nor reliable. My first question is to the Minister of Transportation. When can my constituents expect restored access through the Judah Hill landslide area on highway 744?

The Speaker: The hon. minister.

Mr. Drysdale: Thank you, Mr. Speaker, and thanks to the hon. member. He's always a strong advocate on behalf of his constituency. As I'm sure the hon. member knows very well, the Peace region is located in an active landslide region. Alberta Transportation has been managing landslides along 744 for many years, dating back to 1985. As of February 5 motorists have had access to one-lane alternating traffic on Judah Hill. Repairs on Judah Hill are expected to be completed and open to two-lane traffic by the end of August.

The Speaker: First supplemental.

Mr. Goudreau: Thank you, Mr. Speaker. To the same minister: what is the current status of the repairs to this important road, that my constituents rely on?

Mr. Drysdale: Mr. Speaker, the crews are currently working on installing two separate retaining walls on Judah Hill to help stabilize the hill and protect against future landslides. We know this area is unstable, so we'll try and mitigate for future damage. Contractors are also continuing to rebuild sections of 744 that slid away during the slide of May 18, 2013.

The Speaker: Final supplemental.

Mr. Goudreau: Thank you, Mr. Speaker. To the same minister: what is being done to prevent these landslides from occurring again? It seems that they're happening year after year.

Mr. Drysdale: Well, Mr. Speaker, as I mentioned, along with the measures that I just mentioned previously, Alberta Transportation has installed slide monitoring equipment; you know, a permanent structure to monitor slide activity in that area. This equipment is able to measure slide activity and provide some advanced insight into future potential slides. These steps along with our extensive geohazard risk assessment program, which monitors slides across Alberta, will help give us advance notice of possible slides in the future.

The Speaker: Thank you.

The hon. Member for Strathmore-Brooks, followed by Calgary-Mountain View.

AltaLink Sale Approval Process

Mr. Hale: Thank you, Mr. Speaker. Recently we learned that Warren Buffett's investment company, Berkshire Hathaway, is seeking to acquire the Alberta transmission company AltaLink, but the optics of this deal are giving some Albertans cause for concern. Berkshire Hathaway owns a major rail company that would be directly affected by the approval of the Keystone pipeline, and Mr. Buffett has major influence within the White House. Keystone delays have been characterized by Forbes magazine as a "Buffett bonanza." To the Minister of Energy: how will you ensure that this company has the best interests of Albertans in mind before it takes over one of our major utilities?

Mrs. McQueen: Well, Mr. Speaker, now, that's a good question. We continue to work to make sure that we're advocating for the Keystone pipeline. The Keystone pipeline and market access are very, very important to us. As I said earlier, the federal process will determine whether or not this sale goes through on the electricity side, but I can tell you that this government, this Premier, myself, our Minister of IIR, and other ministers are working very hard on market access to the United States, to the east, and to the west because that is job one for us.

Mr. Hale: Mr. Speaker, to the same minister: given that this major U.S. firm has its hands in many Alberta pots, from oil to rail, and ultimately must serve its investors first, is your government taking any concrete steps to ensure that this company supports the Keystone XL project and doesn't want to see it blocked, and if so, what are they?

The Speaker: The hon. minister.

Mrs. McQueen: Well, thank you, Mr. Speaker. What we do is that we talk to a lot of people. Last week I was just in Pittsburgh and in New York – and another member was in DC – talking about the advantage of Keystone XL not only just for Albertans, Canadians, but for United States workers as well. We do everything we can to make sure Americans are aware of that, to make sure that the decision-makers in America are aware of that, and we will continue to do that. That side always complains about us going and making sure we're telling the Alberta story, but we will never stop telling that story.

Mr. Hale: Well, Mr. Speaker, we never complain about advocating for Albertans. We just want more than talk; we want something done.

Given that Berkshire Hathaway has to ultimately serve its investors first and considering that pipeline delays benefit its rail investments, what action would this government take if it was found out that any officials from this company were actively trying to influence the White House away from approving Keystone?

The Speaker: The hon. Minister of International and Intergovernmental Relations.

Mr. Dallas: Well, thank you, Mr. Speaker. This line of questioning has sort of arrived in the wonderland area. The reality of this is that the investment proposal will receive Industry Canada review, a full review, as the Energy minister has indicated. It'll work through the AUC review process. Clearly, to try and draw a relationship between a proposed investment and Keystone advocacy goes beyond the purview of this Assembly.

The Speaker: The hon. Member for Calgary-Mountain View, followed by Edmonton-Beverly-Clareview.

Protection of Vulnerable Children

Dr. Swann: Thank you, Mr. Speaker. This PC government talks about putting children first, but the evidence doesn't support this. The child advocate this week highlighted negligence in relation to a newborn's death in a family with long-standing mental health and addiction problems. In addition, there's no sign this government will reduce, let alone eliminate, child poverty or address the high child and family poverty in relation to healthy development and learning or break the cycle of poverty. To the Minister of Human Services: how was Baby Annie's basic health and safety so neglected?

2:20

The Speaker: The hon. Minister of Human Services.

Mr. Bhullar: Thank you very much, Mr. Speaker. The advocate has come out with a report this morning. It's something that we will ensure that we review, and that's part of the reason why we have Bill 11 in front of the House today. I want to make it mandatory that when there's an advocate's report that comes out with specific recommendations, the government is obligated to respond and the quality assurance council is forced to move on those recommendations to make sure they're implemented so we can better protect Alberta's youth.

The Speaker: The hon. member. First supplemental.

Dr. Swann: Thank you, Mr. Speaker. To the same minister: what new resources have you targeted to First Nations families to avoid these kinds of struggles?

Mr. Bhullar: Mr. Speaker, there's a variety of different challenges that we face with many, many families from a variety of different backgrounds when it comes to the care of children. There can be issues of abuse, issues of neglect, and everything that falls in between. It requires a real holistic solution based on the individual's needs to be able to help the family. For example, they could be mandatory addictions treatment processes and parental training processes that really deal with each family individually.

Dr. Swann: I guess the answer is: nothing new for First Nations.

When will you stop avoiding accountability for progress on child poverty and provide progress indicators on child poverty so you can be accountable?

Mr. Bhullar: Mr. Speaker, as we've said many, many times before, the fact remains that we are committed to ensuring that Albertans all across this province have opportunities to succeed. There are many, many reasons why people want to live in Alberta, and one of them is because of our strong, robust economic system. Everybody in Alberta has an opportunity to succeed. Where people need individual supports, we provide them. For example, in the area of child care – I know the member opposite is always speaking about that – we're the province that has a child care subsidy for people making $50,000 or less.

The Speaker: Thank you, hon. minister.

Let's go on.

Task Force for Teaching Excellence Report

Mr. Bilous: Mr. Speaker, this PC government's whole legislative agenda has been to attack public-sector workers. This week it's our teachers. With the release of the Task Force for Teaching Excellence report this PC government is making teachers the scapegoat for problems they've created: chronic underfunding, larger class sizes, fewer resources and supports, and crumbling infrastructure. To the Minister of Education: blaming teachers, the very people whom you forced to make do with less every year?

Mr. Hancock: Mr. Speaker, that is a complete mischaracterization of the task force report. In fact, excellence in teaching is fundamental to any good education system. Alberta has one of the best education systems in the world; ergo, we have excellent teachers. But we need to be better. We need to look forward. So the task force identifies areas of teaching excellence, excellence in educational leadership, and excellence in assurance and suggests that we look at, collaboratively with other groups in the system, how we can do a better job.

Mr. Bilous: I suggest you start by looking at your broken promises.

Mr. Speaker, given that this government was elected on a promise of stable funding increases for our schools and given that, instead, it's been cuts, ballooning class sizes, and school closures, to the Minister of Education: 40-student math classes and closing neighbourhood schools, is that your idea of excellence in education?

Mr. Hancock: Mr. Speaker, excellence in education, as all the studies have shown, comes from how you can have a teacher who can inspire passion in the students to find what they're good at and to maximize their skills and abilities. That's excellence in teaching, and it can happen in any location. We strive to have great classrooms for our students. We're building 50 new schools and modernizing 70 other schools. That will be done. We are looking at how you can modernize the curriculum so that students can be prepared for tomorrow's problems. But at the root of it all it's excellence in teaching, and that's what the task force report is encouraging us to look at with all of our partners in the system.

The Speaker: Thank you.
Final supplemental.

Mr. Bilous: Thank you, Mr. Speaker. Class size affects excellence.

Given that the real solution to improving education is to ensure that classrooms are properly funded, low student-teacher ratios, and adequate supports for all students and given that attacks on teachers are a distraction from the real elephant in the room, will the Premier admit that what's really standing in the way of excellence in our schools is this PC government?

Mr. Hancock: You know, Mr. Speaker, the hon. member wants to talk about attacks on teachers. He's making it up, quite frankly. The task force report does not do that. The task force report outlines a number of key questions and makes some recommendations. The minister has indicated that those recommendations will be out there. The report will be out there. The groups, including the ATA, will be able to comment, will be able to participate, and then those comments will go to what's called TDPAC, which is a joint committee of the ATA and government appointees, in order to determine how we move forward in teaching excellence. That is fundamental work for the future of this province.

The Speaker: Thank you.

Protection of Vulnerable Children (continued)

Mrs. Towle: Baby Annie had traces of prescription drugs in her system and pneumonia caused by fecal contamination. Her mother was a known addict, and family violence was well documented. All six of her siblings were in government care, yet 17 hours after she was born, Baby Annie was sent home to her parents, and 14 days later Baby Annie was dead. What's shocking is that child services was involved with her parents for eight years, yet when Baby Annie was born, nobody thought that maybe it wasn't a good idea to send her home with these parents. To the Minister of Human Services: how do you explain yet another colossal systemic failure to protect two-week-old Baby Annie?

The Speaker: The hon. Minister of Human Services.

Mr. Bhullar: Thank you, Mr. Speaker. As I've said before, the report has come out, and we'll ensure that the government responds to every single one of the advocate's recommendations. The fact is that every child that passes away that is in contact with our system is a child too many. There is absolutely no question of that. This is a situation where we want to make sure that we are working very closely with other members of our government team to ensure that there's crossministry involvement with our children to better look after them.

Mrs. Towle: Given that issues of family violence and drug and alcohol abuse were well known and documented by child services and given that the Child, Youth and Family Enhancement Act prevented social workers from even conducting a safety plan prior to Baby Annie's birth, which could have identified ways to save her, Minister, if legislation is preventing safety plans which protect children just like Baby Annie, what is to say that another tragic death of a child won't happen again?

Mr. Bhullar: Mr. Speaker, those are some of the very questions that I'm asking right now myself. I think it's essential to see how we can work with families before there is a birth so that we can have the appropriate responses ready. There are, I'm told, some constitutional challenges that arise and have arisen in this area. The Supreme Court apparently has ruled in a few cases. Regardless of that, the question is: how can we ensure that we are better providing services to people on the front end so that we can help protect as many children as possible?

Mrs. Towle: I would be happy to work with the minister on how we remove that barrier.

Given that one of the recommendations coming out of the review of Baby Annie's death is that Alberta Health Services and children's intervention services should work together and develop a shared mandate for the well-being and safety of vulnerable children and given that this is the exact same recommendation that was made three years ago in the death of another young child, how many more children have to fall through the cracks and possibly die before the recommendations from three years ago are finally implemented?

Mr. Bhullar: Mr. Speaker, you'll find in the report that public health as well as Human Services did actually follow up with this particular family after the birth. They did have visits with the family as well. Regardless, it's a traumatic and very difficult situation that the child has passed away – there's no question of that – and we're going to look for every way possible to see how we can work together to ensure that children are looked after.

The Speaker: Thank you.

The hon. Member for Stony Plain, followed by Airdrie.

International Trade Strategy

Mr. Lemke: Thank you, Mr. Speaker. My question is to the Minister of International and Intergovernmental Relations. Can the hon. minister tell us: after the many government trips to Asia in the last year what tangible benefit do we actually have to show for that?

The Speaker: The hon. minister.

Mr. Dallas: Well, thanks, Mr. Speaker. Our strategy certainly is working in China and around the world. During one mission in Asia alone we connected 15 small and medium-sized enterprises and vetted those with high-quality investors in Beijing. We signed a letter of intent with Heilongjiang province on environmental and economic development co-operation, and we secured an exchange of petrochemical industry related visits and a commitment to solidify an MOU with Dalian, China.

2:30

The Speaker: First supplemental.

Mr. Lemke: Thank you, Mr. Speaker. To the same minister: how do you justify government-led missions to foreign countries like China when Alberta is already paying for a presence in these jurisdictions through its international office network?

Mr. Dallas: Well, Mr. Speaker, international missions provide opportunities to meet face to face with senior-level decision-makers and partners. It helps us to lay the groundwork for formal agreements that increase trade and investment and, of course, new areas of co-operation. Government-led missions also open doors for Alberta companies, and that provides them with opportunities for vital introductions, increasing visibility at international trade shows. Last year we actually facilitated more than 1,400 business introductions, resulting in 197 negotiations and follow-up meetings.

The Speaker: Thank you.

Final supplemental.

Mr. Lemke: Thank you, Mr. Speaker. To the same minister. Alberta's market access efforts appear to mainly happen overseas. Tell me: how is the minister helping ordinary Albertans do business in emerging markets?

Mr. Dallas: Well, Mr. Speaker, exactly that way. We include Alberta businesses from right across this province in these international missions. We partner with economic developers to make sure that both urban and rural communities are included, and that's why we created the Small Medium Enterprise Export Council. Those councils are made up of business leaders from right across the province, and it's their expertise and passion that gives us advice on accessing markets around the world.

Assisted Reproductive Technology Policy

Mr. Anderson: Mr. Speaker, for millions of Canadians and Albertans having children is an essential part of them living a fulfilling life, yet 8 to 16 per cent of Albertans are unable to have children due to infertility. In fact, over 12,000 Albertans are diagnosed with infertility every year. This means that in order to have a baby, a couple must often spend tens of thousands on assisted reproductive technologies to help them conceive. Many cannot afford these treatments. To the Health minister: will your government consider financially assisting couples trying to have a baby who are unable to without the aid of assisted reproductive technologies?

Mr. Horne: Well, Mr. Speaker, there are two provinces in Canada that have funded in vitro fertilization as part of their public health insurance program. One is Quebec, and more recently an announcement was made in Ontario about funding there connected with the most recent budget. We are looking at this technology in Alberta. I would agree with the hon. member that there are numerous couples in our province who are seeking and would benefit from assistance with this, but there are many serious questions to be asked beyond simply making the funding available.

Mr. Anderson: Mr. Speaker, the University of Alberta just released a 500-page report in February which studied, among other things, the cost of various government policies on assisted reproductive technologies and found that the current Quebec policy would actually save the Alberta government roughly $3 million a year, mostly by avoiding expensive and dangerous pregnancy-related complications for older women with infertility issues who delay having a baby until they can finally afford private treatments. Minister, have you read this report, and if not, will you do so?

Mr. Horne: Mr. Speaker, I'm most certainly aware of the report, and I've been briefed on parts of the report. I haven't read it in its entirety. I'm sure, as the hon. member realizes, that the introduction of such criteria carries with it many serious questions that would have to be answered such as the age of a woman who would be eligible or not eligible to receive in vitro fertilization, the number of embryos that would be implanted, and many, many other serious questions. We are looking at this, we will move forward based on the evidence, and we're certainly sympathetic to Albertans who are affected.

Mr. Anderson: That's good to hear, Mr. Speaker.

Given that Quebec as well as the U.K., Australia, New Zealand, the Scandinavian countries, and most other large European nations have had a great deal of success with implementing a responsible policy to aid couples with assisted reproductive technologies and given that these policies have boosted birth rates, enabled tens of thousands to achieve their dreams, and actually saved the government money in the process, will the minister agree to have his ministry craft a similar policy for the thousands of Albertans who would greatly benefit from it?

Mr. Horne: Well, Mr. Speaker, as much as I appreciate the hon. member's interest in this topic, the absolute last reason that we would introduce such a policy in this province would be to save money. I've mentioned some of the criteria that need to be considered. A number of the countries that the hon. member mentioned do not have exclusively publicly funded health care systems. They have private systems, parallel systems, where these services are offered. In fact, the opposite is true with respect to the number of embryos that are involved in the procedure. Those can also lead to multiple births, which carry some serious complications of their own.

The Speaker: Thank you.

The hon. Member for Barrhead-Morinville-Westlock, followed by Cypress-Medicine Hat.

Temporary Foreign Worker Program Moratorium

Ms Kubinec: Thank you, Mr. Speaker. This last week I had a meeting with a group of 10 businesspeople from my constituency of Barrhead-Morinville-Westlock, who expressed great concern regarding the recent federal government announcement of a moratorium on temporary foreign workers in the food service sector. My question is to the Minister of Jobs, Skills, Training and Labour. What can we as a provincial government do about this flawed federal action, in order to support our Alberta businesses and our valued temporary foreign workers program?

Mr. Lukaszuk: Well, Mr. Speaker, without a doubt, the actions taken by the federal government relative to TFWs will be devastating to Alberta's tourism industry and the Alberta hospitality and hotel and lodging industry. I do agree with the federal government that any and all jobs available in Canada ought to be made available to Canadians first, I agree that perpetrators and abusers of programs and TFWs ought to be dealt with harshly, but the majority of Alberta business owners have been using that program diligently, and the whole industry should not be punished.

The Speaker: First supplemental.

Ms Kubinec: Thank you, Mr. Speaker. To the same minister: given that I am not the only MLA to have heard the hue and cry from business leaders, is there anything that we can do to help these temporary foreign workers, who contribute not only to our workforce but to our society as well?

Mr. Lukaszuk: Well, twofold, Mr. Speaker. As elected officials we should be expressing the opinion of Albertans and Alberta business owners to our federal government and making sure that they not only review the program and make it more conducive to TFWs and to businesses and to Albertans but at the same time not punish the same industry.

Relative to TFWs, Mr. Speaker, these are not numbers. This is not just an acronym. These are human beings that came to Canada with aspirations, and we must treat them with the dignity and respect that we treat all other workers with.

The Speaker: Final supplemental.

Ms Kubinec: Thank you, Mr. Speaker. My final question, again to the same minister: can you give me some advice on what to tell my residents and my business leaders about how they can handle this flawed movement to get rid of temporary foreign workers?

Mr. Lukaszuk: Well, Mr. Speaker, every time you pull up to a restaurant or perhaps if you have a nanny, a lot of the important work that's being done that allows the rest of the economy to function often is done by temporary foreign workers. I met with hundreds of business owners over the last week, and I am satisfied that they are doing what they possibly can to attract local employees, but simply none are available, particularly in areas of the province where the market is extremely tight. We have to communicate to the federal government how important these workers are to our economy and at the same time work really hard to engage Canadians in that employment.

Sage Grouse Protection Order

Mr. Barnes: The sage grouse is a very important species in southern Alberta and needs to be protected. The federal government has issued a protection order that affects 42 townships, causing unnecessary hardship on the oil, gas, and ranching industries. I firmly believe that not only does the sage grouse need to be protected, but the protection should come from the provincial government. A more effective and grassroots protection order could be issued by the minister of environment, allowing the province to take matters into its own hands. Will the minister commit to leading rather than following?

Mr. Campbell: Well, Mr. Speaker, we have had discussions with various landowners down in the south. We've talked to the Western Stock Growers' Association. We've talked to the Alberta Beef Producers. We are right now talking to the federal government. We're going to be sitting down with the state of Montana and the province of Saskatchewan to see if we can come up with a joint plan for that area of the province to protect the sage grouse.

The Speaker: First supplemental.

Mr. Barnes: Thank you, Mr. Speaker. Given that some industry experts estimate the economic impacts of the federal protection order on the oil and gas industry to be $200 million over the next two to three years alone and $200 million more to the ranching industry over the next two to three decades, can the minister of environment understand just how important it is that the proper solution be established to avoid severely damaging southeastern Alberta's economy?

2:40

Mr. Campbell: Well, Mr. Speaker, I'm very aware of the concern the member might have, but let's make it very clear. The federal government put this order in place without giving the province any warning at all. I think we were told at 4 o'clock the day before they put the order in at 8 o'clock the next morning. If the member across the way has an issue with somebody, he should be talking to his federal MP.

Mr. Barnes: Provincial inactivity, Mr. Speaker.

Given the strong precedent for state-level sage grouse protection orders coming from 11 states in the United States, is the minister not sorry that he failed Albertans by refusing to protect Alberta's environment and implementing a suitable protection order for the sage grouse?

Mr. Campbell: Well, Mr. Speaker, as I said before, the last time this member asked a question, I believe in private landowners' rights, so when we talk to stakeholders about what we're going to do to protect the sage grouse, we have to take that into account. We were working with industry, the oil and gas industry, and private landowners to put land aside for the sage grouse. Unfortunately, as I said, that member's MP supported an environmental order to move forward, and we now have the situation we're in today.

The Speaker: Thank you.

Hon. members, the time for Oral Question Period has expired.

I do have a request to revert to Introduction of Guests.

[Unanimous consent granted]

Introduction of Guests

(continued)

The Speaker: The Minister of International and Intergovernmental Relations.

Mr. Dallas: Well, thank you, Mr. Speaker. On behalf of the hon. Minister of Education it's a pleasure to rise today to introduce to you and through you to the members of this Assembly one of his constituents, Mr. Dan Dennis, and four visitors from Belgium. Dan is the youth exchange co-ordinator for the Rotary Club of Athabasca and has been hosting Janne Franssens, a student from Belgium participating in the program. Janne arrived in Athabasca last August to participate in a one-year exchange through the Rotary Club of Athabasca. Janne's family is visiting her until May 9, and they are here today with us as well, including Dirk Franssens, Janne's dad; Erna Stevens, Janne's mother; and Jean Stevens, Janne's opa. During their time in our province they will be touring Athabasca, Edmonton, Jasper, and Banff and, without a doubt, will get to see why we are all so proud to be Albertans. It's my pleasure to have them here with us today, and I would ask that they please rise to receive the traditional warm welcome of this Assembly.

The Speaker: Thank you.

Members' Statements

(continued)

The Speaker: Let us resume Members' Statements, starting with Sherwood Park, followed by Whitecourt-St. Anne.

Mental Health Week

Ms Olesen: Thank you, Mr. Speaker. Many Albertans may be surprised to learn that 1 in 5 people will experience a mental illness in their lifetime while the other four will know someone whose life is touched by mental illness. Yet despite this impact on almost all of us there is still a stigma attached to mental illness and still not enough open and frank discussion about mental health in general. This needs to change, and that's what Mental Health Week is all about.

This is the Canadian Mental Health Association's 63rd annual Mental Health Week, and it is from May 5 to 11. The theme is about encouraging us all to be more honest about how we really feel. Too often people will say that they're feeling fine when they're really not. Mental Health Week this year also aims to draw our attention to young women's mental health and the fact that women experience mental health problems differently than men. In fact, according to the Canadian Mental Health Association women are 40 per cent more likely than men to develop mental illness.

Our goal is to reduce the prevalence of mental illness and addiction in our communities through health promotion and prevention activities and to provide quality treatment for those who need it. We also aim to increase public awareness and understanding of addiction and mental health problems and to remove the stigma around mental health.

To show our support for Mental Health Week and increased mental health awareness, government members today are wearing a special Mental Health Matters pin with a green ribbon. We're proud to stand with Albertans to create more conversation around mental health and to reduce the harmful stigma that prevents too many people from getting the help they need. Let's all do our part this week and throughout the year to raise awareness at home, at work, and in our communities.

Thank you, Mr. Speaker.

The Speaker: Thank you.

The hon. Member for Whitecourt-St. Anne, followed by Calgary-Mountain View.

Liberation of the Netherlands

Mr. VanderBurg: Well, thank you, Mr. Speaker. Today marks a very special anniversary for all members of the Alberta Legislature who have Dutch heritage. It marks the 69th anniversary of the liberation of the Netherlands by the Allied forces, and for the family of the Member for Calgary-North West and for mine it reminds us of our history and our heritage.

Through the winter of 1945 Canadian soldiers battled German forces throughout the Netherlands until May 5, 1945, when freedom was once again returned to the Dutch citizens, including members of my family, after five treacherous years of occupation during World War II. That's when very many of my family members were released from the work camps in Germany. As the tulips, gifted to Canada by the Netherlands, bloom in Ottawa every spring, it's a renewed reminder of the liberation and the sacrifice of 7,600 Canadians who gave their lives for freedom in the Netherlands.

Growing up as the son of a Dutch immigrant, I learned at a very early age the importance of today, May 5, and of 1945. My parents would proudly fly both the Dutch and the Canadian flags to remind the people of Whitecourt that the VanderBurg household had not forgotten. Mr. Speaker, the Dutch people both here in Canada and in the Netherlands have not forgotten this historic day and the Canadian soldiers who freed them. We're thankful for their sacrifice, and we will never forget them.

Thank you.

The Speaker: The hon. Member for Calgary-Mountain View.

Supports for Children

Dr. Swann: Thanks very much, Mr. Speaker. This PC government claims to put children first, but their track record says otherwise. This government has promised to eliminate childhood poverty within five years, yet they refuse to define poverty and duck accountability for no progress. We see that children are still 44 per cent of food bank recipients, the second highest in the country and growing annually. Where's the commitment to children with the growing deficit in child care? Government has known for a decade that in-migration goes with rapid development. They need to act now.

Basic strategies to reduce childhood poverty are lost on this government – full-day kindergarten, universal child care, a provincial tax benefit, and a breakfast program – basic changes made in other provinces that give children a head start in healthy development, break the cycle of poverty, and enable parents to participate in our economy. Hungry children cannot learn, be healthy, or meet their potential. No child in this province should ever start school without a good breakfast. High-risk families must be identified early, and supports, both material and psychological, must be provided to reduce the learning, emotional, and behavioural damage that predictably results. Prevention and early intervention in these families is well known to reduce suffering, improve societal functioning, and save government resources at a ratio of 7 dollars to 1.

Access for children to mental health services, long underfunded, continues to lose ground despite this government's late commitment of a 6 per cent funding increase this year. Rising school fees due to underfunding of our public education and busing fees are adding great stress to young families. An ideological resistance to reviewing our tax system, as the Alberta Liberals have been calling for for years, continues to compromise all of our future.

Inexplicably, this government also rejected other progressive actions such as promoting inclusivity through gay-straight alliances and reducing . . .

The Speaker: Thank you, hon. member.

Presenting Petitions

The Speaker: The hon. Member for Bonnyville-Cold Lake with a petition.

Mrs. Leskiw: Thank you, Mr. Speaker. Today I have a petition with over 260 signatures collected by Nicole Ardell from Fort McMurray, who's seated in the members' gallery, with the aim of improving the immunization process for children in Alberta schools.

Thank you, Mr. Speaker.

Introduction of Bills

The Speaker: The hon. Minister of Environment and Sustainable Resource Development.

Bill 12

Statutes Amendment Act, 2014

Mr. Campbell: Thank you, Mr. Speaker. I rise to request leave to introduce Bill 12, the Statutes Amendment Act, 2014.

This bill makes amendments to update several pieces of legislation, Mr. Speaker, to ensure that Albertans continue to be well served. Making these amendments and modernizations will also help ensure that Alberta's legislation is consistent and clear. This bill includes amendments to the Government Organization Act, the energy statutes act, the relationship statutes act, the Charitable Fund-raising Act, the Vital Statistics Act, the Societies Act, the Health Information Act, and the Regional Health Authorities Act. I look forward to getting into the specifics in more detail during second reading. I'll pass the requisite number of copies to the Clerk.

Thank you, Mr. Speaker.

The Speaker: Thank you.

[Motion carried; Bill 12 read a first time]

2:50 Tabling Returns and Reports

The Speaker: The hon. Member for Red Deer-North, followed by Edmonton-Calder.

Mrs. Jablonski: Thank you, Mr. Speaker. Today I have two tablings. The first one is from the Alberta Committee of Citizens with Disabilities, who state that on behalf of the . . . Committee . . . we wish to let you know that ACCD supports Bill 203, the Childhood Vision Assessment Act, which ensures that every child in Alberta receives a visual assessment. It is of great importance that a child has an eye [exam] at an early age from a licensed vision health professional as vision health is critical to a child's learning and future success.

My second tabling is from the Canadian National Institute for the Blind, letting us know that in the month of May we can recognize Vision Health Month in the Legislature and share some of the following information with our colleagues. Mr. Speaker, I just note that one of the points that they want us to share in this tabling is: "Many serious eye conditions have no symptoms and can only be detected through a comprehensive eye exam – even someone with 20/20 vision may be at risk."

I'm tabling those copies.

The Speaker: Thank you.

The hon. Member for Edmonton-Calder, followed by Calgary-Mountain View.

Mr. Eggen: Well, thanks, Mr. Speaker. I actually have two tablings here, the first being another 50 of the more than 4,000 postcards our offices have received asking this PC government to restore consistent, reliable funding to postsecondary education in Alberta, collected by the Non-Academic Staff Association at the University of Alberta.

I also have the appropriate number of copies of a letter that was written by the mayor of Calgary to the Premier, strongly urging to table Bill 9 or put it on ice, which just happens to be an amendment that's on this evening that the New Democrats did put forward a couple of weeks ago.

Thank you.

The Speaker: Hon. Member for Calgary-Mountain View, I understand you have several tablings.

Dr. Swann: Yes, I do. Thanks very much, Mr. Speaker. The first is a tabling of an article from the Edmonton Journal regarding the issue of family care clinics and the province not reaching its target.

The second is an article from the Calgary Herald reporting on a bioethicist's comment relating to his support for mandatory immunizations as a method of saving lives.

The final one relates to an Alberta Federation of Labour commissioned legal study of Bill 10 and a rejection of the fundamentals therein by Mr. Murray Gold and a brief by the Alberta Federation of Labour from May 2014 also condemning the bill.

Thank you.

The Speaker: Thank you.

Hon. Member for Cardston-Taber-Warner, did you have a tabling as well?

Mr. Bikman: I do. Thank you, Mr. Speaker. A couple of people have written to us about their concerns on the government's decision to open season on sandhill cranes. Jessie McKay wrote that her husband, Bill, was a lifetime naturalist and ornithologist who took these birds under his wing, so to speak, and observed, photographed, and documented their lifestyle, even followed their migratory patterns and journeys. She says that he would be devastated at this government's actions. Richard and Wendy Houle also wrote with similar concerns and sent a copy of the letter that they wrote to the ESRD minister. I have the requisite number of copies for those.

The Speaker: Thank you.

Are there others? The hon. Minister of Energy.

Mrs. McQueen: Well, thank you, Mr. Speaker. I'd like to table the appropriate number of copies on an earlier discussion we had in question period here, a question about Warren Buffett, which says, "I'd vote 'yes' on Keystone pipeline: Warren Buffett."

Thank you, Mr. Speaker.

The Speaker: Thank you.
Are there others?

Tablings to the Clerk

The Clerk: I wish to advise the House that the following documents were deposited with the office of the Clerk. On behalf of Ms Blakeman, hon. Member for Edmonton-Centre, a report entitled Childcare and School Vaccination Requirements, 2007-2008, prepared by the Centers for Disease Control and Prevention.

On behalf of the hon. Mr. Lukaszuk, Minister of Jobs, Skills, Training and Labour, pursuant to the Regulated Forestry Profession Act the College of Alberta Professional Forest Technologists 2013 Annual Report; pursuant to the Agrology Profession Act the Alberta Institute of Agrologists 68th annual general meeting report, April 1, 2014; pursuant to the Engineering and Geoscience Professions Act the Association of Professional Engineers and Geoscientists of Alberta annual report 2013.

The Speaker: Hon. members, there are no points of order today, so we can move on.

Orders of the Day

Public Bills and Orders Other than Government Bills and Orders Second Reading

Bill 204

Freedom of Information and Protection of Privacy (MLA Public Interest Fee Waiver) Amendment Act, 2014

[Debate adjourned April 14: Mr. Scott speaking]

The Speaker: The hon. associate minister.

Mr. Scott: Thank you, Mr. Speaker. Just to pick up where we left off approximately two weeks ago, we were debating Bill 204 and discussing the intricacies of it. One of the points that I made during that debate was that there is already a section in the current Freedom of Information and Protection of Privacy Act, section 93, that does provide for fee waivers when it's in the public interest.

Mr. Speaker, carrying on where we left off, the policies need to be crafted in a manner that allow them to be manageable and straightforward in both implementation and in practice. A great deal of work needs to be put into ensuring that there is as little grey area and as few loopholes as possible. I think we can see that Bill 204 does not meet this criteria. As the bill stands in its present form, there is far too much ambiguity. The consequence is that the bill's result would be the exact opposite of its intended goal.

If we are making changes to how FOIP works, then presumably we are attempting to enhance accountability and transparency. Given the substantial holes exhibited by Bill 204 in its present form, the bill in fact introduces far more confusion and makes the process that much more opaque than it should be. It does not do anyone any good if the mechanism for accountability is itself unaccountable. It escapes me how a structure that could see unused FOIPs traded and swapped could possibly be accountable and transparent. Where is the oversight? Where is the fairness?

It is because of these glaring problems that no other provincial jurisdiction in Canada allows MLAs or other publicly elected officials to receive fee waivers, let alone a yearly allotment of FOIP requests. It is very easy to see why this is the case, Mr. Speaker. Besides obstructing transparency, the proposal in Bill 204 is simply impractical, not to mention costly. Allowing four free FOIP requests per year per member would have a substantial impact on the growing volume and cost of FOIP requests for the government of Alberta. Here I thought that the members opposite wanted to cut costs. Evidently, I was mistaken.

Let's mention some numbers here. In the last fiscal year the government of Alberta spent approximately $9.5 million while responding to more than 4,200 access requests made under the FOIP Act. Of all those FOIP requests approximately $125,000 of fees were assessed to applicants. After fee waivers only approximately $100,000 was collected. Long story short, Mr. Speaker, that is a lot of money that must be spent by the government of Alberta to fulfill these requests.

We need to make sure that we are balancing getting information out and doing so in a responsible way to taxpayers. The fees amount to very little compared to the total cost. Bill 204 utterly fails to take this into account. Bill 204 would actually increase costs, as the numbers clearly indicate. The average current cost to process a general FOIP information request to the government of Alberta is approximately $8,000.

Members of the party opposite should be subject to the same merit-based qualifying process to request a fee waiver as are members of the general public and all other groups who may be making requests based on things that are in the public interest. Why would we encourage a model that places the interests of one group over the other?

Mr. Speaker, a comprehensive review of the FOIP Act is under way, one that involves extensive public consultations across the province. During the review all aspects of FOIP are being looked at, not just providing free FOIPs to MLAs. Needless to say, I cannot possibly support Bill 204 as the FOIP Act already permits fee waivers regarding information that is deemed in the public interest or if the applicant cannot afford to pay.

Thank you very much, Mr. Speaker.

The Speaker: Thank you.

Are there others? The hon. Member for Edmonton-Calder.

3:00

Mr. Eggen: Well, thank you, Mr. Speaker. This is my first opportunity to speak to Bill 204. I do thank the member for bringing it forward. I think it's a great opportunity for us to talk candidly about problems about accessing information here in the province of Alberta. The freedom of information legislation as it stands has the effect of resisting our capacity to get information that we need to do our jobs, to find the information that helps to clarify bills, to help to clarify policy, which is the job that we are given here as part of the opposition. This information, that should be rightfully available to the opposition in order to do our jobs properly, is systematically sort of cloaked in the legislation and the capacity of each ministry to withhold information.

What's happened, then, when we have the freedom of information act is that everything is pulled back so much that we have to try to cast the widest possible net in order to find and make a more specific request so that we can get the information that we need. That's why a lot of these freedom of information requests end up being very, very expensive. It's not as though we are making a frivolous request. Instead, we are trying to look through this concrete wall that's been created by each ministry and find those threads that we want to pull and somehow help to clarify the public interest. I think that the fee structure is in the way, but I think the lack of the spirit of openness is in the way as well.

I guess what I would like to see is for us to have an open discussion about the fee structure for FOIP requests, with the idea, if not of waiving part of the fees that are put onto these FOIP requests, then at least, perhaps, of reducing them or having a per caucus allotment that we can access as well. The problem, I guess, that I see – again, this is not to criticize the spirit of this bill brought forward by the Member for Cypress-Medicine Hat. I think just specifically that if you are handing out sort of these four free FOIPs, as the hon. member would suggest, then it would perhaps be better targeted if we just handed out a certain allotment of FOIP capacity to each of the opposition caucuses in general. I mean, I think that's what I would prefer to see. Certainly, the government side has the capacity to access that information anyway, so that's not a big deal. If we manage to hand it over by caucus, then it would allow our researchers and our members to do their jobs better and in a more focused manner, I suppose.

If we concentrated on making government more transparent and open in general through open-data initiatives or some other alternative means of data sharing, then I think that it would help to reduce FOIP requests, and I think that it would help a more honest, sort of less adversarial exchange of information like we have now. You know, we had the whole controversy here, Mr. Speaker, just before the constituency break about the possibility that FOIPs were being vetted or somehow looked at by the government side. I don't know what was really going on, but we could miss all of those controversies and misunderstandings by having more transparency and access through open-data systems for information in general, right?

I think we all watched the WikiLeaks phenomenon across the globe and other massive leaks of government information similar to the WikiLeaks. Those things only happen because there's that idea of a cloak of secrecy in the first place, that makes certain individuals want to push up against it. While some of that information might have been dangerous or inappropriate to have for public consumption, certainly when we're talking about the fee structure for the Ministry of Health in primary care networks, this is not top secret information that would somehow rank with submarine positions of the Americans or whatever. It's information that is quite mundane and run of the mill but very important for us in order to build the future of, say, community health initiatives, that we all need to have here in this province.

We as Alberta New Democrats would like to see that we have more open and transparent mechanisms available, that there is more provision for opposition parties to not be chasing down very, very expensive FOIP requests. I was looking at some of the ones we had recently. We had two requests to the Ministry of Education that came back with a combined total of more than $14,000 – right? – and these were quite specific, well tailored. We had a Human Services one talking about PDD programming and service delivery. It came back at $11,000. We had two FOIPs sent to Alberta Health in January that came back at $1,674 and $1,417 respectively and a third one at $2,578. This is just very specific information on serious incidents to do with fatalities within care facilities. You know, we weren't asking for the moon here or casting out, as people like to say, on a fishing expedition, but just very specific.

These all add up, Mr. Speaker. I think that for the sake of the public interest, for the sake of transparency and good governance that we do reduce these fee structures somehow. I guess the for-free sort of voucher idea that the member brought forward – as I said, it gives us, I think, a great opportunity to cast a light on how we need to reform this whole system. So for that I do very much appreciate his private member's bill being brought forward. I think that we all can learn and be edified from that.

Thank you very much.

The Speaker: Thank you.

The hon. Member for Calgary-McCall.

Mr. Kang: Thank you, Mr. Speaker. I'm also standing up in support of this Bill 204, Freedom of Information and Protection of Privacy (MLA Public Interest Fee Waiver) Amendment Act, 2014. I fully agree with the Member for Edmonton-Calder. You know, the associate minister of – IT and T, is it? I was away.

Mr. Donovan: AT and T.

Mr. Kang: AT and T. Sorry.

He claims to have the gold standard, you know, when it comes to transparency. What I heard from the Member for Edmonton-Calder is that it's costing thousands of dollars to have FOIPs done. This bill is in the right direction. It will make it easier to maybe do FOIP requests by the opposition MLAs. It will be easier to have the fees waived, but it will still risk being a months-long process, which we go through every day anyway.

Anecdotal experience from previous fee-waiver requests shows that public-interest waiver requests can take more than three months. If the public body denies it, appeals to the Information Commissioner can take months as well. Although our researcher hasn't encountered that, it is theoretically possible to pay large fees for assessment and then appeal it. Who knows if the appeal will be successful or not? You know, the $25 initial fee is very difficult to get waived, which buys only 150 dollars' worth of search time. I don't know what can be accomplished for 150 dollars' worth of search time. I don't know how far that will take us on the FOIP request.

3:10

In the experience of the Liberal researcher a public body either begins searches when they see our purchase order or when they see the Legislative Assembly cheque after rejecting our purchase order. FOIP officials that have no recent history with the Liberals are more likely to start searches only after receiving Legislative Assembly cheques. When search processing costs are estimated to be more than $150, requesters are responsible for the full amount. If a requester can't afford to pay the full amount, then there goes the request. If the processing is estimated to cost $149, the requester only pays $25. Again, I stress the point that I don't know how much 150 dollars' worth of search can buy to do the FOIP request.

Definitely we should have some better mechanisms, maybe, in place so the opposition could properly do its job. I don't know what that entails, why it costs so much to do a FOIP request. This bill is definitely a step in the right direction. Before I go any further, Mr. Speaker, I will be supporting this bill.

Thank you very much.

The Speaker: Thank you.

Are there others? The hon. Member for Cardston-Taber-Warner, followed by Banff-Cochrane.

Mr. Bikman: Thank you, Mr. Speaker. It's an honour to rise today and speak in favour of something so vital and critical to democracy and to good government. It's clear that in a situation like we have, in a unicameral governing body where the majority rules and where they clearly, contrary to what was said earlier, vote en bloc, because they are the majority, they can stifle the free distribution of information or the free discussion of bills like this. It's important that we're able to get the information that this would make available in a freer and easier way.

It helps MLAs do their jobs. We must remember that each of us represents a constituency, not a party, and we represent the constituents in our area or riding. It's our job to do the best that we can to keep them informed or to help them find answers to questions or issues that they raise with us. Bill 204, by allowing each MLA four public-interest fee waivers, would help us do that job. The job of the opposition, obviously, is to oppose legislation that we think is inadequate or heading in the wrong direction or is incomplete and to propose amendments that will make it stronger. Our job also, of course, is to expose error and corruption and waste, and of course many people are telling us that we're doing a good job of it. This will allow us to do a much better job of it.

We notice that it's always the catalyst that provokes change. It's like, you know, my grandson: I won't do it again, mommy, now that you caught me. But until you're caught, you show no inclination or no initiative to make this change on your own, which indicates questionable integrity, in fact a lack of it, in our opinion. Allowing this information to be more freely and readily available will allow us to do our job. If this government, in fact, votes against this legislation en bloc, then they are kind of making a mockery of their famous gold standard of transparency and accountability. [interjections] Yeah. Well, I'm here to say that it's pyrites, which you all know is fool's gold. Anybody who believes that this is real gold would be foolish if they claimed it or if they expected anybody else to believe it.

The costs that the government incurs . . .

An Hon. Member: The pyrites standard.

Mr. Bikman: That's right. The pyrites standard. We'll change that. I wish I'd have thought of that.

The public interest most commonly used by the opposition and the media – there are three main criteria in deciding if something is in the public interest:

Will the records [that are being sought, the information that will be gained] contribute to the public understanding of, or to debate on or a resolution of, a matter or issue that is of concern to the public or a sector of the public, or that would be, if the public knew about it?

Now, earlier today we had the Premier indicate that his apology was for not communicating better. He was sort of apologizing on behalf of Albertans for not understanding what the government was trying to communicate or say. So if you really listen to what he was saying, there was no apology at all. It was an indictment of Albertans for not getting it.

Well, the reason that you've been getting it is that we've been finding out what you've been doing all these years and exposing it. The job of the opposition, done properly, is to expose this kind of information that we obtain to the public by, in fact, having things publicized by the media, by the proceedings of question period or other actions that we take in this House being broadcast or reported on. While you don't value our opinions very much, you value the public's opinion a great deal, and when we expose the things that we've discovered through FOIP, what we're doing is exposing you to public opinion, and in the court of public opinion you consistently are found guilty. You change but only when you're exposed.

The second item of criteria. "Is the applicant motivated by commercial or other private interests or purposes, or by a concern on behalf of the public or a sector of the public?" Well, of course, MLAs are guided by the ethics that indicate that we are required to only seek information that is in the public interest, so by allowing MLAs access to four free FOIP requests, we're actually allowing the government to function at a higher level and in a more effective and cost-effective way. Correcting things that are wrong is far more costly than doing it right the first time. I think that all of us that have grown to the ages that would qualify us to be here, with the experiences of our lives, would know that. If you've got time to do it over again, you had time to do it right the first time. If the risk of exposure is greater, you're less likely to do things that you think might be hidden or swept under the carpet. It's our job to know what corners of the carpet the dust is under and which closets the skeletons are hiding in and where the dead bodies are.

The third thing is, "If the records are about the process or functioning of government, will they contribute to open, transparent and accountable government?" I think that's critical. That's absolutely critical, especially when the government has so successfully deluded the public for so many years. It was interesting during our first few months in this Chamber to notice the deer-in-the-headlights look of this government when it found itself being attacked in a credible way by true small "c" conservatives, a constituency that you'd abandoned. All of your guns were pointing to the left, a sort of political Maginot line, if you will, and you couldn't turn them back around. You had this "What's happening?" deer-in-the-headlights look. It was humorous, but it's made government better. It's made you better, whether you'd like to admit it or not, because you've been held accountable, and up till now nobody really had been able to do that.

We need to have this. This is a good bill. It's a good proposal, and if you're sincerely interested in helping our province be better governed, you will allow this bill to pass.

Thank you very much.

The Speaker: Thank you.

I have the hon. Member for Banff-Cochrane, followed by Barrhead-Morinville-Westlock.

Mr. Casey: Thank you, Mr. Speaker. I rise today to speak to Bill 204, the Freedom of Information and Protection of Privacy (MLA Public Interest Fee Waiver) Amendment Act, 2014, brought forward by the hon. Member for Cypress-Medicine Hat. This bill proposes to provide all Members of the Legislative Assembly with four annual complementary, or free, freedom of information and protection of privacy, or FOIP, requests. Of course, we know that they are anything but free.

Mr. Speaker, Bill 204 is not only bad politics; it's bad policy. A lot of time and money goes into administering every single FOIP request. On average it costs approximately $8,000. Multiply that by four and by 87 members, and you get to a grand total of $2.7 million that taxpayers could potentially be on the hook for at the end of the day. It is extremely unsettling that the party opposite finds it appropriate to use their position as MLAs to try to put into place legislation that would give them, for the lack of a better term, freebies, but that is exactly what Bill 204 proposes. Perhaps the correct term we are looking for here is "entitlement."

3:20

Mr. Speaker, do not get me wrong. I believe the FOIP process is a mechanism that definitely encourages transparency and accountability, and I appreciate all the hard work and effort that goes into producing FOIP requests. However, a FOIP request could also be used to pressure public bodies into releasing confidential and sensitive information. Let me point to an incident that occurred after the 2012 provincial election involving the county of Stettler. The county was accused of contravening the Election Finances and Contributions Disclosure Act by using staff time to promote a candidate running against the hon. Member for Drumheller-Stettler. Instead of first approaching the county of Stettler to request information in a diplomatic manner, the party opposite chose instead to send frivolous and nonspecific FOIP requests. In other words, instead of good old-fashioned communication and co-operation the party opposite declined to reach out to the county in a respectful and diplomatic manner.

Now, Mr. Speaker, how can the members across the aisle, who pride themselves on being focused at a grassroots level, use their status as MLAs to frivolously fish for nonspecific, general information that costs municipalities, public bodies, and taxpayers time and money?

In an article from the East Central Alberta Review that was published on March 6, 2014, Councillor James Nibourg also discussed the incident. The article stated, “FOIP requests are a double-edged sword” due to the sensitivity of the information being requested, one that often requires public bodies to engage in a balancing act. Nibourg also went on to state, “Good communication is the key to prevent these situations” from occurring. The article also noted that the county of Stettler reached out to the Official Opposition on several occasions. In another article, by the Stettler Independent, titled County Faces Election Alberta Inquiry, county Reeve Wayne Nixon stated that they even reached out to the Leader of the Official Opposition and did not receive a response.

Mr. Speaker, in January of this year Elections Alberta ruled that the county of Stettler did not violate financing bylaws in the 2012 election, vindicating representatives of the county. Nonetheless, officials were disappointed by the way the party opposite handled the situation. In January of this year the Stettler Independent ran an article focusing on Elections Alberta’s ruling, one in which the hon. Member for Lac La Biche-St. Paul-Two Hills was quoted as saying:

We’ve done many, many FOIP requests, and generally speaking, people are just forthcoming and provide the information. Most often, there’s nothing there, but when someone does fight it, that’s when we tend to think there may be something there.

Yes, I will table all the documents tomorrow in the House.

Now let me focus on the statement “Most often, there’s nothing there” because, Mr. Speaker, I believe this really does speak volumes when discussing Bill 204. If, as the hon. member alludes, there’s mostly nothing there with regard to the completed FOIP request, why go out of your way to malign the good reputations of elected officials and cost all taxpayers millions of dollars a year? Are we to believe that Bill 204, given the experience of the county of Stettler, brings more transparency and accountability? We are talking about governmental policy that could affect everyone in the province. Moreover, we are talking about a policy that would place undue cost on taxpayers and municipalities in particular.

Mr. Speaker, Bill 204 would contribute nothing to building a stronger Alberta. On the contrary, it would promote a divisive environment, foster a culture of distrust, and undermine the hard work of our public servants. Nothing positive comes about from witch hunts. FOIP requests not only take up public time, but they also draw on public money, money that the members opposite believe they are entitled to. Members of the public must pay the whole or a portion of the FOIP administration fees of their requests, so why create a two-tiered FOIP system that places the interests of MLAs over those that they are elected to serve? Again, this not only illustrates the lack of rationale behind Bill 204 but also the Official Opposition’s lack of understanding regarding good governance. Who’s to say that these complimentary FOIP requests would not be marred by partisan motivations or clouded by ideological bias having nothing to do with policy of the day or government matters or simply be used for personal attacks on the members?

We must protect the efficacy and integrity of the FOIP process, and I do not believe that this bill would result in either. I will not stand in support of this bill, and I encourage all of my hon. colleagues to do the same.

Thank you, Mr. Speaker.

The Speaker: Thank you.

Hon. members, this being a private member’s bill, 29(2)(a) is not available, for those of you who have written. Also, based on the one list I’ve received and the notes and other hand signals and so on I’ve just received, here is the speaking order for the remaining half-hour or so of the bill. I have Barrhead-Morinville-Westlock, followed by Olds-Didsbury-Three Hills, followed by Lesser Slave Lake, and then, if time permits, Rimbey-Rocky Mountain House-Sundre, the Associate Minister of Seniors, and Drumheller-Stettler.

Mr. Anderson: Mr. Speaker, point of clarification.

The Speaker: The hon. House leader for the Wildrose.

Point of Clarification

Mr. Anderson: According to section 13(2) – I just wanted a point of clarification from you – in this House when we’re doing private members’ business or bills in general, we usually rotate between opposition and government. In this case that wasn’t the case. Could that happen?

The Speaker: Thank you for asking. In fact, we have had two speakers from the Wildrose, including the sponsor, which you should include in your thing, and then I recognized the second one there. Now I’m recognizing two in a row over here, and then we’re alternating back and forth based on the order in which they were received. I go by the notes, and that’s why I have times written on all the notes, when they were received. I hope that clarifies that.

Let’s go. Barrhead-Morinville-Westlock.

Debate Continued

Ms Kubinec: Thank you. I rise today to speak to Bill 204, the Freedom of Information and Protection of Privacy (MLA Public Interest Fee Waiver) Amendment Act, 2014, brought forward by the hon. Member for Cypress-Medicine Hat. Bill 204 proposes to amend the Freedom of Information and Protection of Privacy Act, or FOIP Act, in order to waive FOIP fees for all Members of the Legislative Assembly.

Today I would like to focus my remarks on hard-working people, our many talented public-sector employees who contribute their skills to serving our province. These important people work on the front lines and behind the scenes, utilizing their expertise to ensure that programs run effectively and that Alberta remains at the forefront of public service. In addition to providing much-needed front-line services, there are a number of skilled independent officers that work to provide greater accountability and transparency in government. For instance, the Auditor

General is responsible for auditing every government of Alberta ministry and department, providing direction and oversight to the Standing Committee on Public Accounts. The office of the Information and Privacy Commissioner of Alberta, or OIPC, is also an independent office of the Legislature, that was established in 1995.

As proposed in Bill 204, the OIPC, which provides oversight for the Freedom of Information and Protection of Privacy Act, would also provide oversight of these four annual and complimentary FOIP requests. Currently, as the OIPC's 2012-2013 annual report states, the office employs a complement of 40 staff in two offices, one in Calgary and one in Edmonton. Over the course of 18 years the OIPC has become a caretaker of privacy in the province, aiding in the resolution of privacy complaints and concerns, conducting investigations, and releasing the office's findings.

Mr. Speaker, it is these vital, nonpartisan, and independent public-sector workers, both behind the scenes and on the front lines, who help to make our province the success it is. I am grateful to them, and I commend them for all their hard work. That is why I find it truly mind-boggling that the member opposite would implement the amendments that are proposed in Bill 204.

Wasn't it the Leader of the Official Opposition who called for the random elimination of at least 50 per cent of our province's public-sector managerial workers? Yes, you heard me correctly: 50 per cent of all managers. Some of us might have a hard time recalling this statement, so let me refresh your memories.

3:30

On February 20, 2013, Global Edmonton quoted the Leader of the Official Opposition as saying, "You'd need to cut management by 50 per cent if you're actually serious about reforming the way the public service works." Reforming the way the public sector works. Hmm. That's pretty rich coming from members across the aisle who cry foul when independent officers such as the Ethics Commissioner rule out of their favour.

In terms of coming up with the 50 per cent figure, one would question what research was cited as reference to such an arbitrary number. Does the party opposite have some kind of independent, nonpartisan evidence that supports this figure? Does the party opposite appreciate the high level of responsibility and pressure that managerial staff take on in these roles? Frankly, Mr. Speaker, it does not appear so.

How can the Leader of the Official Opposition propose to cut the public sector's managers by 50 per cent while another member proposes to increase the workloads of the public-sector workers, including managerial staff, with the allotment of four complimentary FOIP requests per year? Doesn't this proposition come across as a little contrary? One would think that common sense would prevail in these situations, but somehow common sense doesn't always prevail.

Mr. Speaker, the FOIP process can be an onerous one that involves drawing greatly on public reserves and resources, public time, and, of course, public money. High-level and highly sensitive information is involved, needing the expert authority of managerial government workers to deal with the given FOIP requests. If, as the Leader of the Opposition stated, managerial staff were to be cut by such a large margin and Bill 204 became law, how would a given public body be able to effectively aid in completing capably a given FOIP request, let alone the possibility of simultaneous requests?

I believe that this is not only a recipe for disaster but another example of the party opposite's poorly-thought-out policies. Call me a mind reader, but I can see the adverse effects this broad cut of public-sector managers would have on the timely services and programs our province currently offers, ones that people such as our seniors need and appreciate. Like a trickle-down effect, I could see how some of those who called for such a random cut complain when a public body's FOIP completion is taking too long and forget that it is our valuable public-sector employees who would be hard-pressed to complete the FOIP for a variety of reasons.

Now, it might be a long shot, but perhaps a junior public-sector worker might need to draw on the knowledge and skill of a more experienced colleague, or what if there just aren't enough people available to complete the requests in a timely manner, leading the given public body to have no other choice but to hire new employees to help process the FOIP requests? This, Mr. Speaker, is a reality that may come about with the amendments proposed in Bill 204. Given that the independent office of the Information and Privacy Commissioner has a current complement of 40 staff and if you take into account the potential amount of extra resources that would potentially need the oversight of the OIPC, there could be a need for the office to hire more staff to deal with the potentially large barrage of requests from MLAs.

Once again, does the party opposite really want to cut the public sector's managers by 50 per cent given this very real prospect, and does the party opposite really want to minimize the hard work that all of our public-sector workers, regardless of title, provide on a daily basis by making such sweeping comments to the media? Generalizations founded on arbitrary figures have no useful place in any objective analysis or constructive debate, but once again I'm not surprised and have come to expect this level of rhetoric.

I thank the hon. member for allowing me to be able to comment on all our hard-working public-sector employees, and I stand firmly against Bill 204. Thank you, Mr. Speaker.

The Speaker: Thank you.

Hon. members, just before Barrhead-Morinville-Westlock spoke, I indicated there would be about half an hour left. In actual fact, I thought we had a total of about an hour and five minutes, but we actually had 105 minutes in total at that point. So this debate can go on, if you wish, until approximately 4:40, which means we should be able to get in all the speakers on the list.

Let me move on hastily to Olds-Didsbury-Three Hills, followed by Lesser Slave Lake.

Mr. Rowe: Thank you, Mr. Speaker. It is with great pleasure that I rise to support my colleague and speak in favour of Bill 204, the Freedom of Information and Protection of Privacy (MLA Public Interest Fee Waiver) Amendment Act, 2014. This bill, proposed by the Member for Cypress-Medicine Hat, will allow four public interest fee waivers per year so MLAs can hold this government to account.

[The Deputy Speaker in the chair]

Over the past few years FOIPs have become the major source of information on how this government conducts its business. Despite having created a ministry to oversee and assure government accountability, transparency, and transformation, little has been done to make progress on any of these areas, so it is on the backs of opposition MLAs to find the truth and hold them to account.

Mr. Speaker, AT and T: I'll give them one out of three that they've gotten somewhat right. There's certainly not a whole lot of accountability, there isn't any transparency, as we've seen with the way they approach Bill 9, but I will give them transformation. They have transformed themselves into something. We're just not sure what, and I'm not sure that the members across the aisle from us are sure just what they are or what they represent now.

One of these methods is through FOIP. The Wildrose believes in open, transparent, and accountable government. Granting fee waivers to MLAs is a step towards a more open government. FOIP can be a costly process, which can reach totals in the thousands of dollars on any given issue. Despite an already existing clause that allows for fee waivers in the public interest, valid applications which meet the requirements are frequently denied.

Mr. Speaker, members in this Legislature are given limited budgets to manage our offices and ensure that we are able to effectively communicate with our constituents and Albertans. Cost cannot be an excuse to deny access to information. This bill will correct that and allow MLAs to pursue issues for their constituents that otherwise would have proven too costly.

The government wants the public to believe that this bill would result in frivolous applications and an increased cost burden on the public dime. I argue, Mr. Speaker, that even if costs increase, this is a small price to pay for increased public knowledge and democracy. However, I sincerely doubt this will make a noticeable impact on the budget given that backbenchers on the other side are unlikely to collect and expose any data on government waste or abuse. Both points mute this government's fearmongering.

The last comment I would like to make is a comparison between Alberta and our federal counterparts, where fees are not assessed by the government of Canada under access to information. In fact, all that is required is a $5 application fee. This is in sharp contrast to Alberta, which charges $25 per application and then any fees over $150 for records.

I will close with a couple of quotes, Mr. Speaker. Information is the lifeblood of democracy; without adequate access to key information about government policies and programs, citizens and parliamentarians cannot make informed decisions, and incompetent or corrupt governments can be hidden under a cloak of secrecy: that was by our Prime Minister, Stephen Harper.

I'll also quote:

- The right of access to information is precious. No government should ever oppose it or impede it on the basis that it is too expensive, too time consuming or only the "trouble-makers" use it.
- Accountable governments are better governments.

That was spoken by Frank Work, the former Alberta Privacy Commissioner.

Thank you, Mr. Speaker.

The Deputy Speaker: Thank you, hon. member.

I recognize the Member for Lesser Slave Lake.

Ms Calahasen: Thank you, Mr. Speaker. The purpose of Bill 204, the Freedom of Information and Protection of Privacy (MLA Public Interest Fee Waiver) Amendment Act, 2014, leaves me scratching my head. The intent is essentially to entitle elected officials to freebies, freebies that allow each and every MLA four free FOIP requests per year. I'm still scratching my head because the opposition have always been such strong proponents of no freebies for MLAs – it doesn't matter where they belong – and are always talking about how they could cost-save and make sure that we balance our budget. I'm still scratching. They seem to be losing that specific value which seems to be very important to us.

3:40

Between fiscal responsibility and gross hypocrisy vis-à-vis certain buzzwords such as "entitlement" and "bureaucracy" I really am at a loss as to where I should begin, Mr. Speaker. First, I would like to remind members in this House that responses to FOIP requests do not materialize out of thin air. I would like to think that the members opposite know this, but they do not seem to appreciate the full extent of resources, manpower, and tax dollars that are consumed in fulfilling these requests to the high standards we rightly expect. Completing FOIP requests can potentially cost thousands of dollars, not to mention the work hours that must be allocated. Entire warehouses of enormous filing cabinets bursting with documents must often be sifted through.

As the hon. Member for Lac La Biche-St. Paul-Two Hills has even said himself, it is often the case that nothing noteworthy comes of these requests anyway. So why Bill 204? It does not take a degree in economics to piece together that this is time and money that would be better spent on something that does yield results as opposed to contrived outrage, things such as to increase dollars for FCSS, to buy my hospital helipad or my road to Peerless/Trout Lake.

Given that the beneficiaries of four freebie FOIP requests would be MLAs, I simply cannot believe that this bill amounts to anything more than corporate welfare or, dare I say it, Mr. Speaker, entitlement. Curious indeed coming from the members opposite, who make a habit of sermonizing about entitlements for those who don't need it. I may not have a PhD in logic, but I know contradiction when I see it, and so do Alberta taxpayers. The members opposite should give more credit to Albertans. You can't complain about dollar spending and then start asking for free dollars for yourself. Albertans certainly can scratch their heads here, too.

The point that brings some concern to me is that partisanship may be playing a part in this request although I hope not. Not long ago the county of Stettler was unfairly targeted by what many would deem to be a witch hunt that borders on the McCarthy-esque. Rather than being approached as equals and as fellow nonpartisan officials of the people of Alberta, council members were subjected to an aggressive and confrontational assault on their integrity. Members opposite heavy-handedly resorted to FOIPing the information they wanted, convinced that political activities were being conducted on council time. For the members opposite, Mr. Speaker, council members may have had sympathies that lay with a party that is not the Official Opposition.

Obviously, we all need to stress that political activities should not be funded on the public's time, but predictably this was not the case at all in the county of Stettler. These are people of integrity who – surprise, surprise – were completely innocent of what their accuser tried to intimidate them for. I am sure these individuals would have gladly provided all of the information requested of them had they been approached in the spirit of goodwill and civility and probably at very little or no cost. Indeed, they have even been recorded as saying exactly this.

This indicates a very troubling pattern, Mr. Speaker. It represents a prioritization of partisan drama over public policy discussion. It represents a brand of lowest common denominator politics, and we should want no part of it. I believe it has no place in our province.

I fear that Bill 204 threatens to drag a style of crass partisanship into the realm of FOIP. I do not want that FOIP process politicized because it would undermine the very legitimacy of that process. FOIP should be fair, transparent, and accountable to all citizens of this province. In fact, Mr. Speaker, we should continue to have the gold standard but even more so, I would say, a platinum standard. When requests are being used in order to obtain politically expedient ammunition such as in the county of Stettler, that's a problem.

I am a strong supporter of getting information to those who need it. I am also a strong believer that FOIP can do this. As much as I love – or I should say: I like – the Member for Cypress-Medicine Hat and as much as I support FOIP for good reasons, not for witch hunts, I cannot in good conscience support Bill 204 because of the price attached to something like this for taxpayers and all Albertans and the fact that the dollars can be better used in projects I named earlier. I believe that we can do great things if we do it right.

Thank you, Mr. Speaker.

The Deputy Speaker: Thank you, hon. member.

I recognize the Member for Rimbey-Rocky Mountain House-Sundre.

Mr. Anglin: Thank you, Mr. Speaker. It's an amazing thing to hear the members of this PC government talk about saving money. My God. I like it. You should applaud yourselves. Unfortunately, the money that we receive to FOIP this government, that tries to keep information secret, goes right back into general revenue. I don't know how they come across with this waste of money. The fact is that we have real problems with our FOIP process, and it's a phony gold standard that even the government side of this House mocks when the member gets up and actually calls it a gold standard. It's pathetic. We rate as one of the worst provinces in all of Canada when dealing with FOIP. That's terrible. That's absolutely terrible. We come in at number 12. Holy cow. Can you imagine that? That's the gold standard they measure themselves by.

I will tell you in all seriousness, Mr. Speaker, that the town of Sundre, the doctors in Sundre who are trying to fund privately the helipad for the hospital down there have to FOIP the information because the government won't release the details so they can actually build the proper helipad. How insane. This would save the government money if they could only get the dimensions and the engineering drawings so they could actually fund it and build it with private funds. This government won't release the information so they can do it.

It's a good thing that these PC MLAs want to prevent FOIP from going through although the Member for Banff-Cochrane – I have no idea where he comes up with confidential or private information being released. That's the damned law in the first place. [interjections] I withdraw the word.

Now, dealing with the importance of FOIP, I mean, the whole idea of children dying while in the custody of this government would never have been revealed unless we went through an entire process of FOIPing this government.

I will tell you this, Member for Banff-Cochrane, who keeps pointing, and the member for – all of them. Whatever. The idea of taxpayers' dollars going to PC fundraisers is fundamentally wrong. That should never happen. That's what we discovered in FOIP. That's concrete, cogent evidence. That's not frivolous. That should be criminal, and people are getting away with it. They only started stopping that when we started exposing that. Taxpayers' dollars should not go to any party. They don't go to the NDP, they don't go to the Liberals, and they don't go to the Wildrose. Why should this PC Party get taxpayers' dollars because people are misusing their expense accounts? They shouldn't. So there you go.

Let's be real. They're embarrassed. They don't like FOIP. Otherwise, we would never have gotten to the bottom of the misspending on the use of government planes. I'm sorry, but that actually cost you a Premier. You don't like it, and I understand why you don't like it.

You don't like the fact that the people of this taxpaying province found out that you were building an apartment in an office building of the gold standard. That made them pretty upset. We would never have found out about it unless we FOIPed it. How could the cabinet have told us about it? They said that they didn't know. So we had to FOIP it to find out who knew. But this idea that every time we ask for information it costs thousands of dollars is bogus, and it's false. Sometimes we ask for one piece of information that only requires somebody to go to the filing cabinet and pull it out, information that should be in the public sphere to begin with, and this government does everything it tries to do to prevent that information from coming forward so they don't get embarrassed.

All we're asking for are two passes per MLA so that at least they can do some things. I tell you that from this bill that is proposed, we could go out into the public, and people who are doing FOIPs in the public can actually FOIP public information in the public interest without cost. This is information that should have been readily available in the first place, and this government has done everything to prevent it from going out there.

3:50

The arguments that this government party has been making, that somehow this is irresponsible or that it's a witch hunt – I'm sorry, but this FOIP has done one thing and one thing only. It has exposed this government for a tremendous amount of misspending. It has exposed this government for irresponsibility. I understand why they don't like it. They can vote against it, which they will, but the fact is that the public has a right to information, and that's all we're asking for when we file a FOIP. The information that we are asking for is information they are entitled by law to have. We're asking for nothing more than that. This whole idea that we're giving out confidential information: maybe somebody should read the FOIP Act before they make such statements or accuse some other members of being frivolous. There's no such thing as getting confidential information or any information that violates the FOIP Act. It's just not done.

But I will tell you this. When I actually had the chance to do a little bit of FOIP information, lo and behold, I stumbled upon that there were private investigators hired by this government to follow citizens around during a hearing process. [interjections] Oh, they don't like that one, Mr. Speaker. They don't like that one at all. Boy, did the government backtrack on that one and hide. That's what happens all the time. They do this.

This idea that it's frivolous – I will tell you what is just a tragedy. You can hide information, and then what happens is that it starts to, I think, snowball. I do not believe that any member on the other side intentionally wants to do harm or intentionally wants to violate the law or intentionally wants to be disrespectful of the taxpayers. The problem is that when there's no accountability, what you get is people going off the deep end, a government going off the deep end, doing things like hiring private investigators to follow citizens around in a hearing process, building apartments up in a renovated government building, using government planes for PC Party business, and then using taxpayers' dollars to fund a PC Party fundraiser. Those are all fundamentally wrong, and those we proved all through the FOIP process, yet these members here want to claim that that's somehow frivolous. Maybe they should claim that they think it's their right to do that. But it's not their right. That's why they're so low in the polls today. They don't particularly like that, and I can understand them being angry about that.

When we deal with these issues that are of significant impact on the public interest, things like the whole electricity issue, we can't get information unless we FOIP that information. The whole issue of the cost-monitoring committee: we would not have known that all these transmission lines, to the letter every one of them, have more than doubled in cost compared to the original estimates. Nobody has a track record that bad. How can that possibly be? Why can't they get the estimated costs even remotely correct? One or two should come out correct. Here we have to deal with information that took years to extract through the FOIP process, and we still have a government that has not reacted to the information to improve the situation. With this, how can that even be deemed frivolous when it can save not just millions but billions of dollars if we can only get the government to act?

We have this situation in many categories, whether it's health care, whether it's dealing with PDD, or whether it's dealing with the expenses from municipalities that would use taxpayers' dollars in a campaign to help one particular party. All of that is fundamentally wrong. When we expose this, it forces the government to act and deal with it. Otherwise, they get to play this game of denial, head in the sand: "We won't act on it. We don't have to act on it." It seems this government only acts when it's embarrassed.

What happens in the FOIP process? They take a Deputy Premier, who says: give us all that information before you release it, legal information that should be released, so they can vet it before they release it to the public so that they're not embarrassed.

We have a bill that's coming forward here. All it says is that we have a right to the FOIP process, and we're asking for two freebies, two passes, so that we don't have to spend taxpayers' dollars. [interjections] Now, let's talk about the freebies because I like the heckling that goes on. The money that we are allocated in this caucus that we apply to FOIPs goes right back into the general coffers, the general revenue, of this government. It goes nowhere else unless someone over there is willing to step up and say that you're putting it in your own pockets. I don't think so. It's going right into general revenue. It comes right out of tax dollars, comes over to this side, and goes right back to you.

We want the information you should have given to us in the first place. I don't understand where you're coming off on this: it's costing millions and millions of dollars. Sometimes we have to just go out and ask for one sheet of paper, as I stated earlier. That's all we're asking for, and it takes months to get it because this government does not want to release it. That's a tragedy. That is something that I think this government has to stop doing, and that can still occur even with this . . .

The Deputy Speaker: Thank you, hon. member. The time has expired.

There's no 29(2)(a).

I'll recognize the next speaker, the hon. Associate Minister of Seniors.

Mr. Quest: Well, thank you, Mr. Speaker. It's an honour today to speak to Bill 204, the Freedom of Information and Protection of Privacy (MLA Public Interest Fee Waiver) Amendment Act, 2014, brought forward by the hon. Member for Cypress-Medicine Hat. Bill 204 proposes to provide all Members of the Legislative Assembly with four freedom of information and protection of privacy, or FOIP, requests a year, to be overseen and approved by the Privacy Commissioner.

As my fellow hon. members have already mentioned, the FOIP Act was introduced in Alberta in 1994 following an extensive public consultation process by an all-party panel. The act we abide by today reflects the recommendations of the all-party panel as well as the input of Albertans. Mr. Speaker, this legislation is very much the cornerstone of an open, accessible, accountable government for the people of Alberta. Openness, accessibility, and accountability are three principles that this government prides itself on.

[Mrs. Jablonski in the chair]

In the last year the government of Alberta has made tremendous progress in the programs, services, and information provided to Albertans. We implemented whistle-blower protections and expense disclosure requirements, the most stringent in the country. We committed to the proactive and routine release of information through salary and severance disclosure policy. Madam Speaker, this policy, as the Member for Lesser Slave Lake said, is the platinum standard and the first in the country, I might add, that builds upon our province's history of open disclosure and current availability for MLAs, deputy ministers, and senior executives through each ministry's annual reports.

However, the sponsor of this bill is proposing to take advantage of and infringe upon the openness and transparency solely for partisan means. As it stands, the FOIP Act provides for a formal method of requesting information held by public bodies which is not available by other channels. These public bodies include the government of Alberta, school jurisdictions, municipalities, Métis settlements, postsecondary institutions, drainage districts, irrigation districts, public libraries, housing management bodies, police services, police commissions, and health care bodies.

Madam Speaker, today I'd like to highlight the five fundamental principles upon which this important act is based. These five fundamental principles, I would argue, will be compromised by the proposed Bill 204. The first principle on which the FOIP Act is based is to allow any person a right of access to the records in custody or control of a public body, subject only to limited and specific exceptions. This principle allows any person to access records, whether that be e-mails, correspondence, or government documents. The opposition, however, has often used this principle to benefit politically. If the opposition were really looking for valuable government information, wouldn't it be easier and less costly for them to just ask the ministers or their offices for that information? You just have to ask.

This fundamental principle is undermined by the opposition in their quest to mine out information for personal attacks against members of this government. Moreover, this abuse of taxpayer dollars for personal means is not something, certainly, that most of us can support. In the last fiscal year the government of Alberta noticed a significant increase in the volume of general requests received. There was a 463 per cent increase . . .

Mr. Rodney: How much?

Mr. Quest: . . . a 463 per cent increase, hon. minister, for general information from elected officials, 463 per cent up from the previous year, 2012-13.

Given that opposition MLAs are protected under the FOIP Act, it's safe to say that this increase may be due to the sheer volume of requests from opposition MLAs and not from members of government, the caucus, or the public. That would be just too much of a coincidence.

4:00

Madam Speaker, the second principle is founded to control the manner in which a public body may collect personal information from individuals, to control the use that the public body may make of that information, and further to control the disclosure by a public body of that information. Providing MLAs with the ability to conduct four free – and they're not free. They are at the taxpayers' expense. I know Rimbey-Rocky Mountain House-Sundre said that it goes right back into general revenue. Well, of course it doesn't. It goes into general revenue, but there's a significant expense. There are significant administrative costs to doing all this. So no, it just doesn't go out of one place and into another. Having spent 20 years in business, I fully understand the costs of doing business, and there's a significant cost to this service. It does not just go out of one pocket and come back into another. So having these four free – and nothing is free – FOIP requests annually would have substantial impacts on the growing volume and costs of FOIP requests to the government of Alberta.

The third principle upon which the act is based is to allow individuals the right of access to information about themselves which is held by a public body subject only to limited and specific exceptions. In the last fiscal year, Madam Speaker, the government of Alberta spent approximately $6 million on responses to over 4,200 access requests made under the FOIP Act. So that's $6 million that could have been used for a lot of other things. I think, for example, that maybe seniors' support in this case would have been probably a much better place for the $6 million rather than wasting it on higher administrative costs for all the people that may have had to have been hired to deal with this. So I think that would have been a much better use of the $6 million.

The member alleges that filling out FOIP requests is part of doing their work as an elected official, a Member of the Legislative Assembly. During the introduction of Bill 204 he said, "I was amazed to discover after being first elected that the costs and waiting times for reimbursement for doing our work were actually slowing us down." Interesting. Madam Speaker, as elected officials it's not our primary purpose to fill out information requests or dig up sensitive information for purely partisan purposes. Time spent completing these requests will surely detract from why we're all here, which is to serve Albertans and advocate on their behalf, not just for political motivations.

Madam Speaker, the fourth principle allows individuals the right of access to information about themselves which is held by a public body. If an MLA wishes to exercise this principle in order to find information about himself or herself using taxpayer funds via free information requests – and, again, they're not free – as proposed by Bill 204, this actually could even be construed as being unethical.

The fifth and final principle upon which the FOIP Act is based is to provide for independent review of decisions made by a public body under this legislation. Madam Speaker, Bill 204 would provide Members of the Legislative Assembly with four free – I hate using this word – freedom of information requests per year. They're not free. The $6 million is a direct cost to taxpayers. Six million dollars. Although this member alleges that many of their FOIPs are completed on behalf of Albertans, nonprofits, and organizations, FOIPs are used by their party for ideological purposes. These members have every opportunity to gather information on behalf of these organizations they claim to be advocating for by meeting with government officials to attain it.

Madam Speaker, I think this highlights the opposition's extreme lack of intergovernmental diplomacy. I would like to highlight how this amendment of the FOIP Act could only stand to benefit one small group of elected officials. I would argue that it is part of our job as legislators, elected officials, and advocates for our communities to bridge working relationships with our stakeholders and other public bodies and not FOIP them unnecessarily. Let us not forget that we are elected to serve Albertans, to engage in policy discussions that benefit all Albertans. This constant dredging of information for partisan purposes simply undermines the very integrity and principles of the FOIP process. It's not what it was set up for. As an elected official in this province I find it embarrassing that the opposition resorts to submitting frivolous FOIP requests, and that's become their primary legislative tool. We need to get back to business.

I also find it appalling that this party would seek to legislate special treatment for members of the Assembly. Why doesn't everybody get them for free? It's just a few million dollars. After all, if Bill 204 is calling for MLAs to receive free – and it's not free; $6 million to the taxpayer – information requests while the public would still be subject to assessment or being assessed full fees doesn't sound fair to me, Madam Speaker, coming from an opposition that preaches fairness on a day-to-day basis. I think it's rather contradictory.

This bill's interests are in direct conflict with the fundamental purpose and intention of the FOIP Act's basic principles. This government is committed to building a stronger Alberta for today and in the future, one that fosters an environment of openness, accountability, and transparency. Madam Speaker, let's just get back to the FOIP Act being what it was originally intended to be.

I will not be supporting this bill.

The Acting Speaker: Thank you, hon. member.

The Member for Drumheller-Stettler.

Mr. Strankman: Thanks, Madam Speaker. It's a pleasure to rise to speak to this, seeing that there's been some comment regarding my constituency by previous members. I have a prepared statement, and I'll read it and ad lib as I'm able to.

I want to start with comments about former Prime Minister Pierre Elliott Trudeau, who I believe was the worst Prime Minister in Alberta's history. The one thing he did good, though, was to bring in access to information, even though he was too chicken to apply it to his own badly run, deficit-laden government.

Speaking of badly run, deficit-laden governments, this PC government just recently was found to interfere in the freedom of information process by being part of a process months before freedom of information documents were released. There is no reason the politician should know about the files until they are about to go out. Adequately preparing for documents about to go out is acceptable. What isn't acceptable is being part of a document process and knowing months before the file becomes public just what leads to interference, which leads me to my colleague's private member's Bill 204.

What former Liberal staffers like our Justice minister do not understand is that when opposition members ask for information, they're not doing it frivolously, nor are they trying to waste money, as they would suggest we and the general public are doing to hold governments like that tired, inept government to account. When we ask for public records, as is our right, and the PC government ministers turn around and apply fees larger than our entire opposition research budget, we are prevented from doing our job of holding this government to account.

So to fix an undemocratic PC government problem, my colleague brought forward a very reasonable piece of legislation that would allow each MLA in this Legislature to make fee-waived freedom of information requests. To be precise, Madam Speaker, each MLA would have four fee-waived public information requests. These waivers would only take place when the MLA determines the fees are excessive and writes to the Privacy Commissioner to apply for that waiver. As long as the request is not frivolous, vexatious, or without merit, the waiver would apply. This is simple, reasonable, and, best of all, unlike this government, it is transparent. I fully expect this former Liberal staffer Justice minister and his band of antidemocratic PC ministers, including the minister accountable for accountability, transparency and transformation, to oppose anything that reflects this transparency.

Madam Speaker, you see, 250 years ago Sweden was the first country to adopt freedom of information, the idea being 250 years ago, then and now, that there can be no freedom of the press apart from free access to information, that any governing party such as the one represented by the hon. members opposite that would want to impede or restrict public access to information about government or government performance begs – and I publicly ask you in this Chamber – the question why. This is an issue of freedom of information legislation for our province. Rich in this tradition, this legislation has been brought to our province, to other provinces, to free nations, and to free societies all over the world.

4:10

Why are the members opposite lashing out at the legislative provisions that provide the press and individual Albertans with the very means necessary to ensure accountability? This is more of the PC attitude of entitlement we have all come to know and understand so well, Madam Speaker. What makes these members think that their government should be entitled to operate in secrecy? What scandals or embarrassing revelations are they hiding? Only people who have things to hide are sensitive. That would make these members cling to secrecy while lashing out at those in this Legislature who are calling for measures of accountability and transparency.

All the PCs are talking about right now is cost. The MLA for Banff-Cochrane talked about freebies. He talks about the costs and, therefore, advocates for hiding information. He talks about fishing, but that member just proves that those asking for information are not protected since he knows who made that request. The members for Banff-Cochrane and Lesser Slave Lake need to be completely aware of their parliamentary prerogative in this Chamber. They are protected by parliamentary prerogative in this Chamber, and they are not without, so they would be well advised of the exact wording of the legislation even to those that release the information, as was released in the county of Stettler, which may at one point be deemed to be illegal. These members have ensured that I will be writing to the Privacy Commissioner about their behaviour.

The Member for Banff-Cochrane should be ashamed of himself, and he should be ashamed that he is defending an undemocratic attitude. It is understandable because he is as much of a Liberal as the former Liberal staffer. He talks about witch hunts. This is ridiculous. We believe there is a cost to freedom and there is a need to show the corrupt attitude of members like the one from Banff-Cochrane and even possibly my friend from Lesser Slave Lake, my acquaintance, and the PC cronies.

Therefore, I would urge all members to vote for freedom and direct accountability within this Chamber and within the government of this province of Alberta. Thank you.

The Acting Speaker: Thank you.

The hon. Member for Dunvegan-Central Peace-Notley, followed by Little Bow.

Mr. Goudreau: Thank you, Madam Speaker. I rise today as well to speak to Bill 204, brought forward by the Member for Cypress-Medicine Hat. The bill is entitled the Freedom of Information and Protection of Privacy (MLA Public Interest Fee Waiver) Amendment Act, 2014, and is proposing that all members of the Legislative Assembly receive four free freedom of information and privacy, or FOIP, requests per year. These requests would be overseen by and approved by the Information and Privacy Commissioner.

Under section 93(1) of the FOIP Act public bodies can require applicants to pay for specified services, and even though the act's fee provisions prohibit public bodies from charging for all services, they do require applicants to provide a portion of the cost of providing information. However, there are exceptions to this rule.

[The Deputy Speaker in the chair]

Section 93(4) of the FOIP Act allows the head of a public body to excuse an applicant from paying all or a portion of the fee if the applicant is unable to pay. FOIP fees are not particularly burdensome and consist of a $25 dollar initial fee for a one-time request, a $50 initial fee for continuing requests, and fees in addition to the initial fee where the costs of processing requests for records exceed $150.

Given the current legislation and fees in place I don't see a need for Bill 204. However, I would like to spend a portion of my time detailing the history of the FOIP Act and how it protects privacy. The FOIP Act was introduced here in the Alberta Legislature in the spring of 1994 after extensive public consultation by an all-party panel. The act, which reflected the recommendations of the all-party panel and the input of Albertans, is seen as the cornerstone of an open, accessible, and accountable government for the people of Alberta. The act was amended in 1999 in response to a review by a select special committee of the Legislative Assembly, and a further review by a select special committee was completed in 2002 – and I was here, Mr. Speaker – which led to the amendment of the act in May of 2003.

In terms of privacy security the FOIP Act guarantees the protection of information privacy such as the right to exercise control over your own personal information by establishing rules for the collection, use, disclosure, and retention of personal information. The act also contains rules regarding the accuracy of personal information and gives individuals the right to request a correction to their personal information in the custody or control of a public body.

In part 1 of the act individuals are provided with a right of access to information, including information about themselves, from public bodies subject to limited and specific exemptions. One example of those exemptions, outlined in section 17, is the criteria to determine when the disclosure of personal information would be an unreasonable invasion of a third party's privacy.

Privacy is protected in the FOIP Act in several ways, including, one, giving individuals a right of access to their own personal information and the opportunity to request corrections to it; two, limiting a public body's use and disclosure of personal information to the purpose for which it was collected, a consistent purpose, another purpose with consent, or a purpose set out in the act; three, requiring public bodies to retain information used to make decisions affecting an individual for at least one year unless the public body and the individual agree otherwise, to allow adequate time for the individual to exercise their right of access or correction if they choose to; four, collecting personal information only as authorized by law; and, five, requiring public bodies to take reasonable security precautions against such risks as unauthorized access, collection, use, disclosure, or destruction.

The protection of privacy is similar in various jurisdictions across Canada as FOIP acts are common in every provincial jurisdiction.

Another similarity between provincial jurisdictions is the fact that none of them allow FOIP fee waivers for provincial politicians. I want to repeat that, Mr. Speaker. None of them allow FOIP fee waivers for provincial politicians. In Ontario, for example, section 57(4) states that

A head shall waive the payment of all or any part of an amount required to be paid . . . after considering . . .

(b) whether the payment will cause a financial hardship for the person.

Ontario does not waive fees for its MPPs, or Members of Provincial Parliament, unless the information will benefit public health and safety.

In Prince Edward Island the FOIP Act and its general regulations don't exempt members of their Legislative Assembly from waiving fees. Similar to Alberta and Ontario, the head of a public body in P.E.I. may excuse an applicant from paying part or all of a fee if the applicant cannot afford to pay or if the record relates to the public interest such as the environment or public health.

Again in British Columbia there's no provision that gives MLAs FOIP fee waivers or a given yearly allotment of FOIPs. Section 75(5) of the B.C. FOIP Act allows for fee waivers if the applicant cannot afford payment or if the record relates to matters of public interest.

Mr. Speaker, the fact that no other jurisdiction in Canada allows MLAs any free FOIP requests should help to illustrate to the Member for Cypress-Medicine Hat and his party that this bill is unnecessary. Given the way the Official Opposition has utilized their FOIP requests in the past, allowing them or any MLA four free requests is an avenue that I don't think we should be pursuing. The case, as was mentioned earlier – and again I'll repeat it – involves the county of Stettler receiving a FOIP request from the Wildrose Party because they thought that one of the county's administrative employees was violating the Elections Alberta laws. While the county of Stettler was vindicated by Elections Alberta in 2012, when the organization ruled that it did not violate financial bylaws, the incident illustrates that FOIPs could be used as a tool of some aggressiveness.

All levels of government should be treated as equals and, more importantly, with respect. Where there is a need for information, those involved should work to resolve this issue as diplomatically as possible.

4:20

I would like to thank the Member for Cypress-Medicine Hat for bringing forward Bill 204, but I cannot in good conscience support this proposal. As I mentioned earlier, no other jurisdiction in the country, whether it's Ontario, B.C., or Prince Edward Island, allows for FOIP fees to be waived for MLAs, and I don't believe Alberta should be the first to take such a plunge. Albertans need to be confident that their elected officials focus on policy issues that matter to them rather than perks such as free FOIP requests.

Every Albertan is expected to follow the necessary steps when requesting a FOIP, and that means paying the fee regardless of who you are. Mr. Speaker, Albertans don't like their politicians to be entitled, and Bill 204 is part of this entitlement. Albertans also expect their elected officials from the municipal and provincial levels of government to work together in a nonconfrontational manner.

I hope all members of this Assembly will rise today and join me in voting against Bill 204. Thank you, Mr. Speaker.

The Deputy Speaker: Thank you, hon. member.

I recognize the Member for Little Bow, followed by Fort Saskatchewan-Vegreville.

Mr. Donovan: Thank you, Mr. Speaker. It's been a very interesting conversation this afternoon. I'm rising to support Bill 204, Freedom of Information and Protection of Privacy (MLA Public Interest Fee Waiver) Amendment Act, 2014. I just want to go over some of the numbers that we went over today, that I've heard from some of the colleagues on the government side.

I get that talking points can always be great, and we're pretty creative with numbers as we need to be, but at $8,000, which I believe the Member for Banff-Cochrane said, for each one as an average cost to do a FOIP, if that's correct – could I get a nod? Could be. Anyhow, if you get four of them, that would be $32,000 per MLA. So if we all take our calculators and multiply that out, 87 times $32,000 is $2,784,000. But I believe the Associate Minister of Seniors, from Strathcona-Sherwood Park, says that all his members have to do is to ask the minister.

If you do that, then we could take some simple math off the big numbers. So we take the big number, which is $2.7 million, and take off all the members from the government side, that wouldn't have to ask for FOIPs. That takes you back to 17 in the Official Opposition, five in the Liberals, four in the NDP, and there are three there – where did they come from? Oh, yeah, from your side; they jumped ship. So there are three there. That works out to $800,000. So you can take the $2.7 million that we're using as a talking number, and you knock off of that one the $800,000. That's kind of what it's going to cost if you actually use the numbers.

I have a hard time believing it costs $8,000 to do a FOIP. I'm not a bookkeeper by any stretch of the imagination, and judging by the polls, neither are you guys.

I get the whole concept of how it goes, of how everybody is a little concerned about what comes up in the information and everything else, but I think that if we actually look at the bill, you can see that there are many nonprofits and citizens that can't afford the FOIP requests. Yet we're all taxpayers. We should be able to look into the information and find out: is it true, or is it not true?

Those are the challenges, I guess, that I have as an MLA. When you're asked to do something and you want to look into it and you want to get the facts, you should be able to ask through the freedom of information act. The government brought this bill in themselves in 1994, as the Member for Dunvegan-Central Peace-Notley brought up. It was brought on by this government in the mid-90s because it was something that was needed. So to say that we're going to waive the numbers for four per MLA I don't think is really that far out.

In all honesty, I mean, the number of $2.7 million that the Member for Banff-Cochrane brought up to use for a total number I think is fairly fictitious. I mean it sells great. Ooh, look at the big number there. But, really, at the end of the day, maximum, if we did use his numbers – and I'm not saying that they are correct or aren't, but I'm saying that they seem a little high – you'd be at $800,000.

Now, the point is about how the FOIPs have been working. My colleague from Innisfail-Sylvan Lake is going to probably bring up some points about kids in care and stuff like that and the ongoing fight that a lot of journalists had with the government to try to get the FOIP information. The point is that if we're not hiding anything, it shouldn't be that big of a deal to let the information out. I mean, it's a pretty simple process, I think. I don't see where the big backlash is against not-for-profits, stuff like that. MLAs should be trusted to work on behalf of their constituents, which I think all 87 of us in here do. I don't think there's a person in here that comes to work and doesn't plan to work for their constituents. I think we all come here with plans to do that. I think we should be able to get the information we need.

In all honesty, we talk about saving money, and I love the talking points of what it could buy: a helipad here, a dialysis machine there.

Mr. Rodney: You guys do that all the time.

Mr. Donovan: Hey, I agree, and I'm glad you're using our talking points now. It's great to have the Associate Minister of Wellness, from Calgary-Lougheed, start using our talking points. It's just nice to see that everybody is starting to listen in here a little bit.

The point is, though, that if we want to talk about saving money, I mean, it's pretty fictitious to say that we're going to save, you know, from $2.7 million to $800,000 and that that's going to be the tipping point that saves this province. Woo-hoo. You guys are lost on this one. I hate to tell you that the tipping point is when all the constituents, all the ratepayers in this province have sat there and seen the millions of dollars that have been blown into the wind. This is how you're going to save the government? Great job, you guys. I love it.

I guess the point that baffles me in the whole thing is that through FOIP probably a lot of the things that have cost – and not that I believe all of the polls, but so far it's cost one Premier their job in here. FOIP has put the information out there so that the public can see what actually goes on in here and where the money is being spent. We talk about saving money. The ministers – put up your hand if you're not a minister – are 50 per cent. I mean, really. To the Member for Calgary-Mackay-Nose Hill: I don't even know why they haven't put you in as a minister. You have so much to offer to them.

The point is that you have so many ministerial spots, and those all cost money to run when you're an associate minister or a minister. I found the sheet here from before the last election. We didn't have two rows of ministers coloured in the dark colours here.

You talk to people that used to be ministers or past MLAs. There used to be about three to four employees in a minister's office. Now, I believe – but don't quote me – that if you're an associate minister you only get two. Yes, that is correct for associate wellness and associate seniors, but the big boys and girls in the front row, that have minister jobs, have seven or eight assistants in there and spin doctors to help you guys figure out how some of the numbers work in here some days.

If you want to save some money, maybe tone down the size of the cabinet, and if you were one of the two people that didn't get a cabinet position, reassess what you did wrong. With your colleagues you flip a coin. Heads, you're a minister; tails, you're not. What happened? Why didn't you? Do you want to save some money? Tighten this up a little bit. Sorry. You know, there are some great members that sit on this side. Edmonton-South West, you are probably one of the best MLAs, and you even pondered coming over here full-time and hanging out with the table of three in the back.

If we want to save money, let's do that stuff, but if you really truly think that that's your talking point, how we're saving money on Bill 204, pull your head out, you guys. You're suffocating. I'm just challenging you out here. Let's tighten up where the money is. If you think this is what's going to sink you, the $800,000, if it possibly costs that – I'm still not quite sure those numbers from Banff-Cochrane are right, but I'm not here to argue the point with him. It's $8,000 a cheque, and there are four of them. That's $32,000. It's you think this is the $800,000 that's going to save your ship, keep paddling.

Thank you, Mr. Speaker.

The Deputy Speaker: Thank you, hon. member.

The hon. Member for Fort Saskatchewan-Vegreville.

Ms Fenske: Thank you, Mr. Speaker. I would like to just mention to the Member for Little Bow that an average doesn't mean that that's the cost of each and every individual one. If we look at the highest ones – and I'm sure that those would be the ones that would be referenced for the four free FOIPs – I think we could see a substantial difference in the amount.

Anyway, Mr. Speaker, I am honoured to rise today to speak to Bill 204, the Freedom of Information and Protection of Privacy (MLA Public Interest Fee Waiver) Amendment Act, 2014, which has been brought forward by the hon. Member for Cypress-Medicine Hat. The FOIP process can be a very important tool in ensuring transparency. I think we all agree. I would hope that the hon. member would look at some changes to his bill because without some fences around his request, I fear that the coffee shop talk that I've heard might actually have some legs and could possibly have happened and could possibly continue to take place. That is, I cannot imagine that members would FOIP themselves, let alone be allowed to charge that to taxpayers. I think you've got to have, as I said, some fences around what you're asking for.

4:30

The purpose of Bill 204 is to provide all Members of the Legislative Assembly with four free freedom of information and privacy, or FOIP, requests per year, which would be overseen and approved by the Information and Privacy Commissioner. Well, that would probably be, as I mentioned earlier, the FOIPs that are not the least costly but the most costly.

The FOIP Act provides a formal method of requesting information held by public bodies which is not available by other means. It cannot be used to replace research that is readily available, that just takes a little footwork and elbow grease to find out, another fence that needs to be built. The term "public body" refers to bodies such as the government of Alberta, school jurisdictions, municipalities, public libraries, Métis settlements, police services, and various others.

Alberta's FOIP Act, as said earlier, was introduced in the Alberta Legislature in the spring of 1994 following an extensive public consultation process by an all-party panel. The act, which reflected the recommendations of that all-party panel and the input of Albertans, is seen as the cornerstone of an open and accessible and accountable government for the people of Alberta. Mr. Speaker, the FOIP process currently in place is more than sufficient, fair, and appropriate, addressing the needs of all Albertans.

Frankly, if the members opposite don't think that their budget is large enough to accommodate what it is that they're working on, there is a process that we follow here, and that is to go through Members' Services with a budget request. That, to me, is fair for everyone.

Today, though, I will speak to the details of administering a FOIP, outlining how much time and effort are utilized throughout this particular process. Firstly, the FOIP Act provides individuals with the right to request access to information in the custody or control of public bodies while providing those public bodies with a framework by which they must conduct the collection, use, and disclosure of personal information. Administering FOIPs is no small task, nor is it an inexpensive one for the parties involved in gathering the needed and relevant information sources.

The process begins by submitting a FOIP request, that is received by the FOIP office, thereby giving the government 30 days to respond. In addition to providing access to records and information in response to FOIP requests, public bodies must provide access to information and records through two other processes, routine disclosure in response to inquiries and requests for information and active dissemination of information.

There are members in this Assembly that have been involved in municipal government. You know, we've heard today that there are municipalities that have been FOIPed. I think that when you've sat in municipal government and you've seen how hard some of those small administrative groups have to work to collect this information, it is no small task.

Mr. Speaker, routine disclosure and active dissemination of information will likely satisfy many of the information needs of the members of the public and is highly encouraged so that various FOIP requests can be avoided. Public bodies should bear in mind that the FOIP process is in addition to and does not replace existing procedures for access to information where that disclosure would not otherwise be prohibited by the FOIP Act. There are numerous advantages to using routine disclosure and active dissemination processes, one being that the public will be better served and more informed through the planned and targeted release of information. Making information available regarding routine inquiries and requests by the active dissemination of information can promote cost-effective management of public information resources.

All of this being said, the first step in processing a FOIP request is ensuring that all other available information channels and resources have been properly utilized before further action is taken to access information that may not be readily available to the requestee. Looking back at old records that are available should be the first step. This is very important, Mr. Speaker.

For intergovernmental diplomacy and ensuring that unnecessary costs are not incurred, further requests must be in writing and provide enough detail to enable the public body to identify the record. The applicant will usually use the official request form, that is readily available online, and will pay $25 for a one-time request or $50 for a continuing request. The request process is also tailored to fit the needs of people with disabilities or those who cannot speak fluent English. These individuals may submit oral requests, where the public body would then put the oral request into written form and provide the applicant with a copy.

It is stated within the FOIP guidelines and practices manual that public bodies should to the best of their ability assist these individuals seeking records to exercise their rights under regular procedures. The head of a public body must make every reasonable effort to assist applicants and to respond to each applicant openly, accurately, and completely. This is their duty, and it is our duty to ensure it is enforced. After the initial request is made, it will be determined whether the request is for access to general records or for the applicant's own personal information as well as whether or not the request is a continuing request. The request will be clarified with the applicant. A decision will be made regarding the transfer of the request, and acknowledgement will be sent to the applicant.

Clarifying the request may include assisting the applicant in defining the subject of the request, the specific kinds of records of interest, and the time period for which the records are being requested.

Transferring a request may also be possible if the applicant makes a request that would be more appropriately handled by another public body. This, Mr. Speaker, is determined by the FOIP office. It is expected that all public bodies will perform an adequate search for records, meaning that the search is timely and that every reasonable effort is administered.

Continuing requests refer to requests that are in effect and continue for a specified period of time of up to two years. This permits the applicants to continue to receive records concerning a particular subject or issue at regular intervals.

Thank you, Mr. Speaker.

The Deputy Speaker: Thank you, hon. member.

I recognize the Member for Innisfail-Sylvan Lake.

Mrs. Towle: Thank you, Mr. Speaker. It's my pleasure to rise and . . .

The Deputy Speaker: Hon. member, my apologies. It seems we have run out of time for debate on this item.

With that, under Standing Order 8(7)(a)(i) I would offer the sponsor of the motion, the Member for Cypress-Medicine Hat, to close debate on Bill 204.

Mr. Barnes: Thank you, Mr. Speaker. To all the MLAs and the ministers in the House today: I greatly appreciate your time and your input spent discussing my bill and my idea. I do want to talk, though, about a few of the misconceptions and a few of the fears and try to go in some direction to clear those up.

First of all, it was said a lot: members opposite. The bill wasn't intended just for the opposition. The bill wasn't intended just for the Wildrose. The bill was intended for all MLAs. The wish is that for not-for-profit societies, for the 4 million Albertans, that any one of them that from time to time is in a situation where they can't afford to be involved in the FOIP process or don't know the ins and outs could go to their MLA or any of the 87 MLAs and put forward their idea, put forward their need. The wish and the hope is about how much more involved this would make Albertans in our government, in our process, how much more information this would give us all to be involved and do the right thing. I believe and am told continually by Albertans and am told continually by people in Cypress-Medicine Hat that they want and will start to demand a greater part of our democratic process.

It was mentioned that, oh, there was no clarification on unused FOIPs or transferred FOIPs. Could they be transferred? Please don't read anything into that. Four free FOIPs per MLA per year. Use them or don't use them. You can't transfer them. You can't sell them. Bitcoin maybe.

The whole idea was to have Albertans, not-for-profits and people in need of help from the government, come to any one of the 87 of us, express their need, and express their concern. Hopefully, usually it would start with your local MLA, but this would give the opportunity for more information to come forward, for more Albertans to be involved. I mean, in a short, little bill you've got to put things in there, but you can't put everything in there. But if you believe that accountability makes people perform better and if you believe that accountability makes government better, I would ask you to support my bill.

4:40

MLAs are in a unique position. That's the next misconception I want to clear up. We are the number one gatekeeper. We are the number one protector of $44 billion a year, of 4 million Albertan taxpayers' money. We are expected to get value for this money as much as we can.

My bill had some ways that would go forward to make that happen. When an MLA asked for a free FOIP, the name would be published, and we would publish the respective public body. It would be open and transparent. It wouldn't be hidden.

Again, with the opportunity for any one of 4 million Albertans to come forward, for any one of the 40,000 to 50,000 people we each represent to come forward to do this, this is not a freebie for MLAs. This is an opportunity. This is an opportunity for Albertans to be engaged further in the political process. Of course, every four years we are a hundred per cent accountable to all of our constituents, to all Albertans. If an MLA abused this privilege, if an MLA abused this ability to help Albertans, obviously his opponent in the election could bring this forward and use this against him.

I kept hearing the word "frivolous," that MLAs could frivolously do this, that we could check ourselves, that we could waste money. To be clear, part of my bill is that the Privacy Commissioner decides if the waiver is to be approved. With the system that's there now, he's the one that decides if it is to be approved.

One of the other things we talked a lot about was the cost. When I talk to Albertans, more than the costs I hear about the time delays, the year and a half it takes to get things, the two years it takes to get things, the uncertainty of knowing if you're going to be able to prove that your request was in the public interest. Part of my bill would expedite this, would make it so that we could get Albertans the information they deserve. And they do deserve it. It's their taxpayer money. Let's not forget that.

I also heard that this is bad politics.

The Deputy Speaker: Thank you, hon. member. The time has elapsed for your concluding speech.

[The voice vote indicated that the motion for second reading lost]

[Several members rose calling for a division. The division bell was rung at 4:43 p.m.]

[Ten minutes having elapsed, the Assembly divided]

[The Deputy Speaker in the chair]

For the motion:

Anderson	Donovan	Rowe
Barnes	Eggen	Swann
Bikman	Kang	Towle
Brown	Pedersen

Against the motion:

Allen	Griffiths	Olesen
Amery	Horne	Olson
Bhullar	Hughes	Quadri
Calahasen	Jablonski	Quest
Campbell	Jansen	Redford
Casey	Jeneroux	Rodney
Cusanelli	Johnson, L.	Sandhu
Dallas	Khan	Sarich
Dorward	Kubinec	Scott
Drysdale	Lemke	Starke
Fawcett	Leskiw	VanderBurg
Fenske	Luan	Weadick
Fraser	McDonald	Woo-Paw
Fritz	McIver	Xiao
Goudreau	McQueen	Young

Totals: For – 11 Against – 45

[Motion for second reading of Bill 204 lost]

The Deputy Speaker: The hon. Government House Leader.

Mr. Campbell: Yes, Mr. Speaker. Being that there are only about three minutes to go, I would suggest that we call it 5 o'clock and go on to motions.

[Motion carried]

Motions Other than Government Motions

The Deputy Speaker: The hon. Member for Calgary-Mackay-Nose Hill on behalf of the Member for Calgary-Fort.

Public Reporting of Privacy Breaches

505. Dr. Brown moved on behalf of Mr. Cao:

Be it resolved that the Legislative Assembly urge the government to introduce amendments to the Health Information Act and other acts governing freedom of information and protection of privacy that would allow the Information and Privacy Commissioner to release information to relevant ministers' offices and affected parties when a data breach occurs.

Dr. Brown: Thank you, Mr. Speaker. My pleasure to rise today and to open the debate on Motion 505. I'm speaking to the motion on behalf of my colleague the hon. Member for Calgary-Fort, who believes that legislation pertaining to freedom of information and protection of privacy should be amended to ensure that the Information and Privacy Commissioner is able to take the appropriate steps whenever a privacy breach is disclosed.

As hon. members will realize, this motion is in response to an incident that occurred last September but wasn't made public until January of this year. Of course, I'm referring to the Medicentres family health care clinic data breach. On January 22, 2014, Medicentres family health care clinics publicly admitted that one of their laptop computers, containing the personal health information of 620,000 Albertans, had been stolen from an information technology consultant on September 26, 2013.

This information breach could potentially have impacted any individual who had visited a Medicentres clinic within the past two and a half years. To date this privacy breach is considered to be the largest in Alberta's history. Under the Personal Information Protection Act private companies must report to the commissioner any information breach that poses a significant harm to any individual, or the commissioner can compel a company to notify affected individuals.

However, health custodians such as Medicentres clinics are regulated by the Health Information Act, and the Health Information Act, which was passed by the Alberta Legislature in 1999 and came into effect on April 25, 2001, would govern. It provides individuals with the right to request access to health records in the possession of custodians while providing custodians a framework within which they much conduct the collection, use, and disclosure of health information. In the case of the Medicentres data breach, the organization voluntarily informed the Information and Privacy Commissioner's office about the breach and asked for recommendations on how to handle the situation, but it was never required to put any recommendations into practice as the Health Information Act does not force the offending organization to disclose information/privacy breaches.

5:00

Another issue with the Medicentres data breach was the fact that the Information and Privacy Commissioner was in possession of this information as of October 22, 2013, but was unable to inform the public. Her hands were tied. The commissioner stated that the Health Information Act prohibited her from informing the appropriate parties of the breach, including of even the most general information. Specifically, section 91(1) of the Health Information Act states:

The Commissioner and anyone acting for or under the direction of the Commissioner must not disclose any information obtained in performing their duties, powers and functions under this Act, except as provided in subsections (2) to (5) and section 50.1.

After Medicentres clinics publicly admitted the breach, the Minister of Health called on the Information and Privacy Commissioner's office to launch an investigation. Shortly after the Minister of Health made the request, the Information and Privacy Commissioner announced the commencement of a two-part investigation. The first part would examine the circumstances of the lost or stolen data, and the second part would focus on a broader review of how privacy violations in the health sector are reported. In relation to the second part of the investigation it should be noted that the office of the Information and Privacy Commissioner has been advocating for changes to the Health Information Act similar to the rules that are currently laid out in the Personal Information Protection Act, that would provide the office with the power to force health information custodians to report information breaches to their patients if there is a risk of harm from identity theft.

Mr. Speaker, it's incumbent upon this House to discuss sensible solutions to the largest data breach in Alberta history. We owe it to Albertans to ensure that the Information and Privacy Commissioner is able to swiftly notify affected individuals of data breaches, especially when it concerns health custodians who fall under the Health Information Act. We need to continue to find avenues to strengthen an already strong, independent officer of the Legislature. I believe that Motion 505 is one of those avenues.

To reiterate, the purpose of the motion is to ensure that various pieces of legislation pertaining to freedom of information and protection of privacy are amended to guarantee that the Information and Privacy Commissioner is notified of a privacy breach and that the commissioner is able to release that information to the relevant ministers' offices as well as the parties affected by the breach so that appropriate steps can be taken to protect them from harm.

I would urge all hon. members to support my colleague the hon. Member for Calgary-Fort's Motion 505. I look forward to further debate on the topic. Thank you, Mr. Speaker.

The Deputy Speaker: Thank you, hon. member.

The hon. Member for Innisfail-Sylvan Lake.

Mrs. Towle: Thank you, Mr. Speaker. It is my pleasure to rise and speak to Motion 505 and to also express my support of this motion. I rise today to speak in favour of Motion 505. It is a timely motion, considering recent privacy breaches that have occurred, that could be helpful in prompting legislation to amend the Health Information Act and correct potentially damaging breaches of privacy. I urge all members of the Assembly to support this common-sense motion.

An Hon. Member: Pardon?

Mrs. Towle: Motion 505 would "urge the Government to [amend] . . . the Health Information Act and other Acts governing freedom of information and protection of privacy" to allow the Privacy Commissioner "to release information to relevant Ministers' Offices and affected parties when a data breach occurs."

It's interesting that across the aisle they sound surprised that we would support this motion when in reality our party has supported many motions brought forward by private members of the opposite side, not to mention many government motions, many government amendments, and many government bills.

This motion in particular, Motion 505, is a common-sense motion that, if implemented in forthcoming legislation, would help to ease the hardships caused when a privacy breach occurs. We've seen how amendments to the Health Information Act are necessary. Recently, as the Member for Calgary-Mackay-Nose Hill had mentioned, a stolen laptop containing the files of 620,000 Albertans alerted us to this very fact. Due to the Health Information Act the Privacy Commissioner could not inform the government or the affected parties. That meant precious time was lost when Albertans could have been taking proactive measures to protect themselves. I believe at the time even the Minister of Health expressed concern over that delay.

Let's think about this for a moment. A stolen laptop victimized 620,000 Albertans and made them vulnerable, and legislation prevented the company from informing the victims. Something is clearly wrong with that picture. The victims and the Privacy Commissioner should be the first to be informed immediately after a breach has occurred. I'm happy to support such a motion like this, that would create an avenue to do just that. In the event of a privacy breach time is vital. It allows people to ensure that they are protected to the fullest extent possible. When Albertans are denied the knowledge that a breach has occurred, the potential damage and victimization intensifies.

The recent Medicentres breach isn't the only privacy breach that has occurred. A CBC investigation found several cases of privacy breaches of home-care clients last summer. In one case files were put on the roof of a car before a client manager drove off. Luckily, the confidential documents were returned by a good Samaritan. In another case a courier delivered confidential care plans to four home-care clients and left the unsealed packages in mailboxes. These kinds of breaches are more and more common than the massive Medicentres breach, but they are no less significant. Any breach of privacy information can be potentially damaging to whom it has occurred, yet under the Health Information Act none of these would have required the custodian of health information to report the breach to the commissioner or to those who have had their privacy breached.

Let's tackle this problem first by passing Motion 505 today, and then let's amend the legislation. It's time to take action to protect Albertans. They should be in the first thought for every action we do, especially in the event of privacy breaches. Albertans and the Privacy Commissioner need to be informed as the first order of business should a breach occur.

I look forward to listening to the comments from other members on this matter, and I urge all members in this House to support Motion 505. Thank you.

The Deputy Speaker: Thank you, hon. member.

I recognize the hon. Member for Calgary-Mountain View, followed by Calgary-Currie.

Dr. Swann: Well, thank you, Mr. Speaker. It's a pleasure for me also to rise and speak in support of Motion 505, the amendment of the Health Information Act for release of data-breach information. I'm sure – it has been well discussed, and certainly it's been in the public domain for a number of months – that this inappropriate failure to require the Information Commissioner to report breaches of security in the health system has been recognized. A fairly minor change, really, in the act is all that's needed to ensure that not only the individuals whose privacy has been breached but the minister himself get timely access and can start to redress any problems that might be associated with it. It's clearly the responsibility of the minister to be in possession of information such as this, that would compromise individual records, physicians, other health workers, and, potentially, testing results as well as treatment programs.

I don't think anybody who is thoughtful about the health care system and the importance of privacy would have any reservations about seeing this important knowledge come to the attention of the minister and be acted upon in a timely way, so there's no question that we also support this and look forward to its speedy passage in this House.

Thanks, Mr. Speaker.

The Deputy Speaker: Thank you, hon. member.

The hon. Member for Calgary-Currie.

Ms Cusanelli: Thank you, Mr. Speaker. It's a pleasure for me to rise today to speak to Motion 505, brought forth by my colleague from Calgary-Fort, urging that we amend the Health Information Act and other acts governing freedom of information and protection of privacy. As we've heard, the amendment we speak to today "would allow the Information and Privacy Commissioner to release information to relevant Ministers' Offices and affected parties [if] a data breach occurs," allowing for appropriate steps to be taken. The purpose of imposing such urgency on a matter of personal privacy is so that all Albertans are protected as well as able to take proactive action in addressing privacy breach issues.

Alberta Health was made aware of a privacy breach that impacted 620,000 Albertans after a laptop was stolen at the Medicentres family health care clinic last year. This motion strives to ensure that situations like this are dealt with in a timely manner and that appropriate bodies and impacted persons are informed of the breach as soon as possible so that immediate action can take place. For this to happen, the Privacy Commissioner must be given the authority to release information on privacy breaches to relevant ministries, their offices as well as affected parties.

5:10

Mr. Speaker, as it currently stands, the Health Information Act states in section 91(1):

The Commissioner and anyone acting for or under the direction of the Commissioner must not disclose any information obtained in performing their duties, powers and functions under this Act, except as provided in subsections (2) to (5) and section 50.1.

The Health Information Act provides Albertans with the right to request access to health records in custody or under control of custodians while providing custodians with a framework within which they must conduct the collection, use, and disclosure of health information.

Custodians, Mr. Speaker, are defined as follows: the ministers of the departments of Alberta Health and Wellness, a health service provider designated as a custodian under the health information amendment regulation, pharmacies, regional health authorities, provincial health boards, and nursing home operators. In addition to regulating information access, collection, use, and disclosure practices of custodians, the Health Information Act also covers the actions of affiliates. Affiliates include employees, volunteers, contractors, and agencies under contract to the custodian. Ultimately, custodians are responsible for the information collected, used, and disclosed by their affiliates.

The amendment proposed by Motion 505, as it relates to the Health Information Act, would ensure that when custodians inform the Information and Privacy Commissioner of any privacy breach that affects the public interest, that breach is released to the appropriate ministry offices as well as the parties directly affected by the breach. These amendments are critical for the purpose of allowing timely action in privacy breach situations that may occur in the future.

Mr. Speaker, the next topic I would like to discuss in relation to Motion 505 is the Alberta Personal Information Protection Act, or PIPA. The purpose of PIPA is to govern the means by which private-sector organizations handle personal information. Further, PIPA recognizes both the right of an individual to have his or her personal information protected and the need of organizations to collect, use, or disclose personal information for purposes that are reasonable. PIPA provides individuals the opportunity to request access to their own personal information and includes provisions regarding the correction and care of personal information by organizations.

Section 34.1 of PIPA states that private-sector organizations are required to notify the Information and Privacy Commissioner of breaches dealing with "the loss of or unauthorized access to or disclosure of the personal information" under their control. In cases where there is a significant harm to an individual as result of a breach, the Information and Privacy Commissioner may require organizations to notify impacted persons. Motion 505 would therefore align the Health Information Act with the Personal Information Protection Act, allowing the Privacy Commissioner to disclose any information obtained in performing their duties, including breaches of privacy, that should be disclosed to all affected persons so that appropriate action can be taken.

Mr. Speaker, I support Motion 505 as it aims to strengthen our legislation within the Alberta information act and related acts so that all Albertans are better served by it. I also encourage my hon. colleagues to support this motion.

Thank you.

The Deputy Speaker: Thank you, hon. member.

I'll recognize the Member for Barrhead-Morinville-Westlock.

Ms Kubinec: Thank you, Mr. Speaker. It is an honour for me to rise today to speak to Motion 505, proposed by the hon. Member for Calgary-Fort. This motion calls on the government to amend the Health Information Act as well as other acts that govern freedom of information and protection of privacy. The proposed amendments would allow the Information and Privacy Commissioner to release information to the appropriate departmental offices and any affected parties whenever a breach of data occurs. These amendments propose to facilitate a faster and more efficient means of appropriate data sharing when a breach of privacy occurs.

Before I proceed any further, I would like to take a brief moment to say that I applaud the hon. member for bringing this matter before the House today. Anything that we can do to protect the privacy and personal information of Albertans deserves our serious consideration, and it is clear that the hon. member is well aware of this. I do think that Motion 505 indicates a step in the right direction in this regard.

Now, as we move forward in discussing the intent of Motion 505, I think it would be helpful to consider briefly some of what has been done in other provinces along these lines. Specifically, I would like to take a look at the personal health information acts in Ontario and British Columbia. Ontario's health act sets out rules for the collection, use, and disclosure of personal health information. Those rules are applicable to every custodian of health information that operates in the province of Ontario, and that also applies to organizations and individuals that receive personal health information from their custodians.

The rules recognize the unique character of personal health information as being one of the most sensitive types of information to collect and store. To complicate matters, it is also a type of information that is frequently shared. This information is shared for a variety of reasons, Mr. Speaker, including for the purposes of medical care and treatment, health research, and logistics of managing a publicly funded health care system.

Ontario's legislation seeks to balance individuals' rights to privacy with the needs of those who provide health care services. There are certain limited exceptions, but generally speaking, the legislation requires that custodians of health information obtain consent before collecting or making use of personal information. It is important to note that all individuals retain the right to access this information. They may also request that a correction be made to the information. This is how matters currently stand in Ontario.

We can weigh this with what we currently find with our neighbours next door in British Columbia. B.C. also has a personal health information access and protection of privacy act that governs the use and disclosure of information. One important component of B.C.'s legislation specifies that the head of a public body must not establish a category of records that contains personal information unless that information would not constitute, if disclosed, an unreasonable invasion of the personal privacy of the individuals to whom the information pertains. Depending on circumstances, one can see how such measures could be useful in protecting the public interest and the well-being of individuals involved in handling and contributing to sensitive and private information.

The point of my remarks, Mr. Speaker, is to give a glimpse of what has been done. It goes to show that there are a variety of ways in which to protect privacy, and this brings us back to Motion 505, which takes into account what should happen when privacy is unfortunately breached. Obviously, this is an eventuality we work hard to avoid; nonetheless, it pays off to be prepared with measures in place in case the system fails.

Mr. Speaker, I am strongly in favour of maintaining this government's strong accountability measures, and I believe that Motion 505 indicates a further step forward in upholding our great track record. I am pleased to say that I stand in support of Motion 505, and I encourage all hon. members to do the same. I also want to reiterate my gratitude to the Member for Calgary-Fort for bringing this matter before the House today.

Thank you, Mr. Speaker.

The Deputy Speaker: Thank you, hon. member.

Are there other speakers to the motion?

Seeing none, I'll invite the Member for Calgary-Mackay-Nose Hill on behalf of the Member for Calgary-Fort to close debate.

Dr. Brown: Thank you very much, Mr. Speaker. On behalf of my colleague from Calgary-Fort I do appreciate the support of the members who have spoken on Motion 505, and I'd encourage all members of the House to support the motion.

Thank you.

The Deputy Speaker: Thank you, hon. member.

[Motion Other than Government Motion 505 carried unanimously]

The Deputy Speaker: Hon. Deputy Government House Leader, did I catch your eye?

Mr. Olson: You're very good, Mr. Speaker. Yes. I move that we adjourn now until 1:30 tomorrow.

The Deputy Speaker: Until 7:30 p.m., I believe I heard you say, hon. Deputy Government House Leader. Thank you.

Mr. Olson: Until 7:30 tonight. I missed that. I'm not on duty tonight.

The Deputy Speaker: Just to clarify, the hon. Deputy Government House Leader has moved that the House stand adjourned until 7:30 p.m.

[Motion carried; the Assembly adjourned at 5:20 p.m.]

Table of Contents

Prayers	681
Introduction of Visitors	681
Introduction of Guests	681, 692
Members' Statements
Armenian Genocide Anniversary	682
Nobleford	683
Temporary Foreign Worker Program Moratorium	683
Mental Health Week	692
Liberation of the Netherlands	692
Supports for Children	692
Oral Question Period
Trust in Government	683
Electricity System	684
Government Policies	684
Public Service Pension Legislation	685
Dementia and Mental Health Services	686
Electricity System Regulation	687
Highway 744 Landslide Damage	687
AltaLink Sale Approval Process	688
Protection of Vulnerable Children	688, 689
Task Force for Teaching Excellence Report	689
International Trade Strategy	690
Assisted Reproductive Technology Policy	690
Temporary Foreign Worker Program Moratorium	691
Sage Grouse Protection Order	691
Presenting Petitions	693
Introduction of Bills
Bill 12 Statutes Amendment Act, 2014	693
Tabling Returns and Reports	693
Tablings to the Clerk	694
Orders of the Day	694
Public Bills and Orders Other than Government Bills and Orders
Second Reading
Bill 204 Freedom of Information and Protection of Privacy (MLA Public Interest Fee Waiver) Amendment Act, 2014	694
Division	707
Motions Other than Government Motions
Public Reporting of Privacy Breaches	707

If your address is incorrect, please clip on the dotted line, make any changes, and return to the address listed below. To facilitate the update, please attach the last mailing label along with your account number.

Subscriptions
Legislative Assembly Office
1001 Legislature Annex
9718 – 107 Street
EDMONTON, AB T5K 1E4

Last mailing label:

Account # _____

New information:

Name:

Address:

Subscription information:

Annual subscriptions to the paper copy of Alberta Hansard (including annual index) are $127.50 including GST if mailed once a week or $94.92 including GST if picked up at the subscription address below or if mailed through the provincial government interdepartmental mail system. Bound volumes are $121.70 including GST if mailed. Cheques should be made payable to the Minister of Finance.

Price per issue is $0.75 including GST.

Online access to Alberta Hansard is available through the Internet at www.assembly.ab.ca

Subscription inquiries:

Subscriptions
Legislative Assembly Office
1001 Legislature Annex
9718 – 107 St.
EDMONTON, AB T5K 1E4
Telephone: 780.427.1302

Other inquiries:

Managing Editor
Alberta Hansard
1001 Legislature Annex
9718 – 107 St.
EDMONTON, AB T5K 1E4
Telephone: 780.427.1875

Province of Alberta

The 28th Legislature
Second Session

Alberta Hansard

Monday evening, May 5, 2014

Issue 25e

The Honourable Gene Zwozdesky, Speaker

Legislative Assembly of Alberta The 28th Legislature

Second Session

Zwozdesky, Hon. Gene, Edmonton-Mill Creek (PC), Speaker
Rogers, George, Leduc-Beaumont (PC), Deputy Speaker and Chair of Committees
Jablonski, Mary Anne, Red Deer-North (PC), Deputy Chair of Committees

Allen, Mike, Fort McMurray-Wood Buffalo (Ind)
Amery, Moe, Calgary-East (PC)
Anderson, Rob, Airdrie (W),
 Official Opposition House Leader
Anglin, Joe, Rimbey-Rocky Mountain House-Sundre (W)
Barnes, Drew, Cypress-Medicine Hat (W)
Bhardwaj, Hon. Naresh, Edmonton-Ellerslie (PC)
Bhullar, Hon. Manmeet Singh, Calgary-Greenway (PC)
Bikman, Gary, Cardston-Taber-Warner (W)
Bilous, Deron, Edmonton-Beverly-Clareview (ND)
Blakeman, Laurie, Edmonton-Centre (AL),
 Liberal Opposition House Leader
Brown, Dr. Neil, QC, Calgary-Mackay-Nose Hill (PC)
Calahasen, Pearl, Lesser Slave Lake (PC)
Campbell, Hon. Robin, West Yellowhead (PC),
 Government House Leader
Cao, Wayne C.N., Calgary-Fort (PC)
Casey, Ron, Banff-Cochrane (PC)
Cusanelli, Christine, Calgary-Currie (PC)
Dallas, Hon. Cal, Red Deer-South (PC)
DeLong, Alana, Calgary-Bow (PC)
Denis, Hon. Jonathan, QC, Calgary-Acadia (PC),
 Deputy Government House Leader
Donovan, Ian, Little Bow (W)
Dorward, David C., Edmonton-Gold Bar (PC),
 Deputy Government Whip
Drysdale, Hon. Wayne, Grande Prairie-Wapiti (PC)
Eggen, David, Edmonton-Calder (ND),
 New Democrat Opposition Whip
Fawcett, Hon. Kyle, Calgary-Klein (PC)
Fenske, Jacquie, Fort Saskatchewan-Vegreville (PC)
Forsyth, Heather, Calgary-Fish Creek (W)
Fox, Rodney M., Lacombe-Ponoka (W)
Fraser, Hon. Rick, Calgary-South East (PC)
Fritz, Yvonne, Calgary-Cross (PC)
Goudreau, Hector G., Dunvegan-Central Peace-Notley (PC)
Griffiths, Hon. Doug, Battle River-Wainwright (PC)
Hale, Jason W., Strathmore-Brooks (W)
Hancock, Hon. Dave, QC, Edmonton-Whitemud (PC),
 Premier
Hehr, Kent, Calgary-Buffalo (AL)
Horne, Hon. Fred, Edmonton-Rutherford (PC)
Horner, Hon. Doug, Spruce Grove-St. Albert (PC)
Hughes, Ken, Calgary-West (PC)
Jansen, Hon. Sandra, Calgary-North West (PC)
Jeneroux, Matt, Edmonton-South West (PC)
Johnson, Hon. Jeff, Athabasca-Sturgeon-Redwater (PC)
Johnson, Linda, Calgary-Glenmore (PC)
Kang, Darshan S., Calgary-McCall (AL),
 Liberal Opposition Whip
Kennedy-Glans, Donna, QC, Calgary-Varsity (Ind)
Khan, Stephen, St. Albert (PC)
Klimchuk, Hon. Heather, Edmonton-Glenora (PC)
Kubinec, Maureen, Barrhead-Morinville-Westlock (PC)
Lemke, Ken, Stony Plain (PC)
Leskiw, Genia, Bonnyville-Cold Lake (PC)
Luan, Jason, Calgary-Hawkwood (PC)
Lukaszuk, Hon. Thomas A., Edmonton-Castle Downs (PC)
Mason, Brian, Edmonton-Highlands-Norwood (ND),
 Leader of the New Democrat Opposition
McAllister, Bruce, Chestermere-Rocky View (W)
McDonald, Everett, Grande Prairie-Smoky (PC)
McIver, Hon. Ric, Calgary-Hays (PC)
McQueen, Hon. Diana, Drayton Valley-Devon (PC)
Notley, Rachel, Edmonton-Strathcona (ND),
 New Democrat Opposition House Leader
Oberle, Hon. Frank, Peace River (PC),
 Deputy Government House Leader
Olesen, Cathy, Sherwood Park (PC)
Olson, Hon. Verlyn, QC, Wetaskiwin-Camrose (PC),
 Deputy Government House Leader
Pastoor, Bridget Brennan, Lethbridge-East (PC)
Pedersen, Blake, Medicine Hat (W)
Quadri, Sohail, Edmonton-Mill Woods (PC)
Quest, Hon. Dave, Strathcona-Sherwood Park (PC)
Redford, Alison M., QC, Calgary-Elbow (PC)
Rodney, Hon. Dave, Calgary-Lougheed (PC)
Rowe, Bruce, Olds-Didsbury-Three Hills (W)
Sandhu, Peter, Edmonton-Manning (PC)
Sarich, Janice, Edmonton-Decore (PC)
Saskiw, Shayne, Lac La Biche-St. Paul-Two Hills (W),
 Official Opposition Whip
Scott, Hon. Donald, QC, Fort McMurray-Conklin (PC)
Sherman, Dr. Raj, Edmonton-Meadowlark (AL),
 Leader of the Liberal Opposition
Smith, Danielle, Highwood (W),
 Leader of the Official Opposition
Starke, Hon. Dr. Richard, Vermilion-Lloydminster (PC)
Stier, Pat, Livingstone-Macleod (W)
Strankman, Rick, Drumheller-Stettler (W)
Swann, Dr. David, Calgary-Mountain View (AL)
Towle, Kerry, Innisfail-Sylvan Lake (W),
 Official Opposition Deputy Whip
VanderBurg, George, Whitecourt-Ste. Anne (PC),
 Government Whip
Weadick, Hon. Greg, Lethbridge-West (PC)
Webber, Len, Calgary-Foothills (Ind)
Wilson, Jeff, Calgary-Shaw (W),
 Official Opposition Deputy House Leader
Woo-Paw, Hon. Teresa, Calgary-Northern Hills (PC)
Xiao, David H., Edmonton-McClung (PC)
Young, Steve, Edmonton-Riverview (PC)

Party standings:

Progressive Conservative: 58 Wildrose: 17 Alberta Liberal: 5 New Democrat: 4 Independent: 3

Officers and Officials of the Legislative Assembly

W.J. David McNeil, Clerk	Stephanie LeBlanc, Parliamentary Counsel and Legal Research Officer	Philip Massolin, Manager of Research Services
Robert H. Reynolds, QC, Law Clerk/ Director of Interparliamentary Relations	Fiona Vance, Sessional Parliamentary Counsel	Brian G. Hodgson, Sergeant-at-Arms
Shannon Dean, Senior Parliamentary Counsel/Director of House Services	Nancy Robert, Research Officer	Chris Caughell, Assistant Sergeant-at-Arms
		Gordon H. Munk, Assistant Sergeant-at-Arms
		Janet Schwegel, Managing Editor of Alberta Hansard

Executive Council

Dave Hancock	Premier, President of Executive Council, Minister of Innovation and Advanced Education
Naresh Bhardwaj	Associate Minister – Services for Persons with Disabilities
Manmeet Singh Bhullar	Minister of Human Services
Robin Campbell	Minister of Environment and Sustainable Resource Development
Cal Dallas	Minister of International and Intergovernmental Relations
Jonathan Denis	Minister of Justice and Solicitor General
Wayne Drysdale	Minister of Transportation
Kyle Fawcett	Associate Minister – Recovery and Reconstruction for Southwest Alberta
Rick Fraser	Associate Minister – Public Safety Associate Minister – Recovery and Reconstruction for High River
Doug Griffiths	Minister of Service Alberta
Fred Horne	Minister of Health
Doug Horner	President of Treasury Board and Minister of Finance
Sandra Jansen	Associate Minister – Family and Community Safety
Jeff Johnson	Minister of Education, Ministerial Liaison to the Canadian Forces
Heather Klimchuk	Minister of Culture
Thomas Lukaszuk	Minister of Jobs, Skills, Training and Labour
Ric McIver	Minister of Infrastructure
Diana McQueen	Minister of Energy
Frank Oberle	Minister of Aboriginal Relations
Verlyn Olson	Minister of Agriculture and Rural Development
Dave Quest	Associate Minister – Seniors
Dave Rodney	Associate Minister – Wellness
Donald Scott	Associate Minister – Accountability, Transparency and Transformation
Richard Starke	Minister of Tourism, Parks and Recreation
Greg Weadick	Associate Minister – Recovery and Reconstruction for Southeast Alberta
Teresa Woo-Paw	Associate Minister – International and Intergovernmental Relations

STANDING AND SPECIAL COMMITTEES OF THE LEGISLATIVE ASSEMBLY OF ALBERTA

Standing Committee on Alberta's Economic Future

Chair: Mr. Amery
 Deputy Chair: Mr. Fox
 Dorward Pastoor
 Eggen Quadri
 Hehr Rogers
 Kubinec Rowe
 Lemke Sarich
 Luan Stier
 McDonald

Standing Committee on the Alberta Heritage Savings Trust Fund

Chair: Mr. Casey
 Deputy Chair: Mrs. Jablonski
 Amery Khan
 Barnes Sandhu
 Dorward Sherman
 Eggen

Select Special Ethics Commissioner Search Committee

Chair: Mr. Rogers
 Deputy Chair: Mr. Quadri
 Blakeman Leskiw
 Eggen McDonald
 Goudreau Saskiw
 Lemke

Standing Committee on Families and Communities

Chair: Ms Olesen
 Deputy Chair: Mrs. Forsyth
 Cusanelli McAllister
 DeLong Notley
 Fenske Pedersen
 Fritz Sandhu
 Jablonski Swann
 Jeneroux VanderBurg
 Leskiw

Standing Committee on Legislative Offices

Chair: Mr. Jeneroux
 Deputy Chair: Mr. McDonald
 Bikman Leskiw
 Blakeman Quadri
 Brown Wilson
 DeLong Young
 Eggen

Special Standing Committee on Members' Services

Chair: Mr. Zwozdesky
 Deputy Chair: Mr. VanderBurg
 Casey Mason
 Forsyth McDonald
 Fritz Sherman
 Johnson, L. Towle
 Kubinec

Standing Committee on Private Bills

Chair: Mr. Xiao
 Deputy Chair: Mrs. Leskiw
 Allen Notley
 Brown Olesen
 Cusanelli Rowe
 DeLong Stier
 Fenske Strankman
 Fritz Swann
 Jablonski

Standing Committee on Privileges and Elections, Standing Orders and Printing

Chair: Ms Kubinec
 Deputy Chair: Mr. Rogers
 Calahasen Pastoor
 Casey Pedersen
 Kang Saskiw
 Khan VanderBurg
 Luan Wilson
 Notley Young
 Olesen

Standing Committee on Public Accounts

Chair: Mr. Anderson
 Deputy Chair: Mr. Dorward
 Allen Khan
 Amery Luan
 Barnes Pastoor
 Bilous Sandhu
 Donovan Sarich
 Fenske Young
 Hehr

Standing Committee on Resource Stewardship

Chair: Mr. Khan
 Deputy Chair: Mr. Anglin
 Allen Goudreau
 Bikman Hale
 Bilous Johnson, L.
 Blakeman Webber
 Brown Xiao
 Calahasen Young
 Casey

Legislative Assembly of Alberta

7:30 p.m.

Monday, May 5, 2014

[The Deputy Speaker in the chair]

Government Bills and Orders Second Reading

Bill 9

Public Sector Pension Plans Amendment Act, 2014

Ms Notley moved that the motion for second reading be amended to read that Bill 9, Public Sector Pension Plans Amendment Act, 2014, be not now read a second time but that it be referred to the Standing Committee on Alberta's Economic Future.

[Adjourned debate April 23: Mr. Horner]

The Deputy Speaker: I'll recognize the hon. President of Treasury Board and Minister of Finance.

Mr. Horner: Well, thank you, Mr. Speaker, and thanks to my colleagues. You know, there's been a good deal of discussion around referrals, et cetera, on this bill. There's also been a good deal of discussion that I've had with members on both sides of the table in terms of the pension boards. I think that when we are done with this referral – and I would urge members both opposite and on our side to actually vote this referral down in second reading and that we would move the bill through second reading so that we can deal with possibly other referral motions that may be coming forward after second reading – it's important that hon. members understand that there is an intention to work towards there, the concept that we have in terms of Bill 9.

I think that I ended my speech on this referral motion last by saying that we're doing the right thing. I still very firmly believe that, Mr. Speaker. I still very firmly believe that there is an agenda that we have set for public-sector pension sustainability, and I look forward to us working towards that throughout the summer and into the fall.

The Deputy Speaker: Thank you, Minister.
The hon. Member for Calgary-Shaw.

Mr. Wilson: Well, thank you, Mr. Speaker. What a pleasant change of heart. The tone has shifted somewhat from the last time that we were here talking about Bill 9, hasn't it?

An Hon. Member: Spring has sprung.

Mr. Wilson: Oh, it's spring. Is that what it is? Yes. It must be that fresh air, the beautiful weather that we've been having in Alberta that's changed the hearts and minds of those on the other side, Mr. Speaker.

You know, it's funny. I originally made these speaking notes at the time that this amendment was tabled, and my intent at that point in time was to support it. I appreciate the Minister of Finance suggesting that we will be moving this in Committee of the Whole. I believe that that is a positive step. Better late than never. It does allow the committees to do the work that they were originally intended for: to analyze a bill, to bring the public in, to have all parties engage in the debate around something so important as a bill like this, that has an impact on roughly 300,000 Albertans. It's incredibly important to them and should be to all Albertans. At the end of the day public-sector unions, public-sector employees, front-line workers across this province impact every single one of us with the work that they do, and we need to be mindful of that.

Now, I know that there have been a number of well-organized groups such as the AUMA and AAMD and C who have come out against this, and I hope that they are invited to partake in that committee process later on when it does happen – I'm assuming over this summer – and then this bill can come back, ideally in the fall, and we can have another fulsome debate here in this House as to what the committee finds.

You know, another positive to having this go to committee is that I believe it allows the . . .

Mr. Donovan: Relevance?

Mr. Wilson: It's going to be one of those nights, Mr. Speaker.

It allows the leadership that is impending in this province to play out and to have whomever becomes the next Premier of this province to also put their stamp on this as opposed to having it be something that they will be dealing with over the summer and possibly distracting from the important job of finding a new leader for this Progressive Conservative Party.

I also made notes a couple of weeks ago that the former associate minister suggested that consultations were done, and he did that in a very passionate way, which, as I have alluded to before in this House, is often the way in which he speaks. Unfortunately, it seems as though they weren't done well enough because Mayor Nenshi has suggested that he believes that the Ministry of Finance perhaps even misled the city of Calgary as to the intent of Bill 9.

All in all, Mr. Speaker, I will succumb to the Minister of Finance's suggestion that we do not support this specific amendment, and I will trust that there will be an amendment forthcoming in Committee of the Whole to send that to the appropriate committee to be studied further.

Thank you, Mr. Speaker.

The Deputy Speaker: Thank you, hon. member.

Are there other speakers? The hon. Member for Calgary-McCall.

Mr. Kang: Thank you, Mr. Speaker. My first day back, and I didn't know what I was doing, but I think I know maybe a little bit now about what I'm going to do. On Bill 9 I had lots of feedback, lots of e-mails, and I was going to, you know, read them all out and bring all the points. There's lots of opposition on Bill 9, and I'm glad that an agreement has been reached to send it down to the policy field committee for further study. We look forward to having all the consultation processes done properly so all the stakeholders have their say in it. This will save the government the humiliation of going back to the courts and all that. So we will do it right – probably this will be the first time we do it right – and I hope in the fall session we will be able to deal with it.

Thank you, Mr. Speaker.

The Deputy Speaker: Thank you, hon. member.

Are there other speakers on the amendment?

Hon. Members: Question.

The Deputy Speaker: Seeing none, we'll call the question on the amendment. For the record RA1, I believe, is the amendment we're dealing with. I'll call the question on the vote on amendment RA1.

[Motion on amendment to second reading of Bill 9 lost]

The Deputy Speaker: So we're now back to debate on second reading of the bill. The hon. Member for Calgary-McCall.

Mr. Kang: Okay. I move the following amendment under the name of my colleague, the Member for Calgary-Mountain View. Dr. Swann, to move that the motion . . .

The Deputy Speaker: Hon. member, just the name of the riding, please.

Mr. Kang: Sorry. The Member for Calgary-Mountain View to move that the motion for second reading of Bill 9, Public Sector Pension Plans Amendment Act, 2014, be amended by deleting all the words after "that" and substituting the following: "Bill 9, Public Sector Pension Plans Amendment Act, 2014, be not now read a second time but that it be read a second time this day six months hence."

Thank you, Mr. Speaker.

The Deputy Speaker: This is a hoist amendment?

Ms Blakeman: Yes, it is.

The Deputy Speaker: Okay. We need to have the amendment to the table. I guess once I've got a signal from the table that this amendment is in order, then we'll resume debate.

Hon. members, we have before us amendment H1, and we will begin debate on amendment H1. The hon. Member for Edmonton-Centre.

7:40

Ms Blakeman: Thanks very much, Mr. Speaker. I appreciate the opportunity to speak in second reading to the amendment for a hoist that has been proposed by my colleague from Calgary-Mountain View and brought forward by my colleague from Calgary-McCall. This has been a really interesting process, not the least because it's involved so many people in Alberta. I think we've all had a good amount of feedback from individuals that are in line to receive a pension, those that are receiving a pension, those that don't receive a pension, and employers.

I'm glad that the government has been calm enough to allow enough time for that feedback to start to flow. Sometimes there's a haste that makes some waste in the House here, and things are pushed through too fast, and people don't get an opportunity to understand what's going on and to be able to comment on it. This recent amendment is asking for a hoist, which sends it into the parliamentary netherworld for a period of six months. The assumption is that six months from now we're not sitting, so it sort of disappears forever. In fact, I think we will be sitting, and it would be able to be brought back that way.

We've heard from the Provincial Treasurer just a few moments ago, who indicated that, in fact, he would be willing to entertain sending Bill 9 to a policy field committee for further examination, which would allow for a public hearing process, my particular concern. I thank the Provincial Treasurer for that, and I thank the Government House Leader for carrying the message forward. This is of such importance to people.

I think one of the things that I have heard most often is: we are trying to plan. Having a bill in front of us that changes things while the game is on – and I don't mean to trivialize what I'm talking about here, but everybody understands that you don't change the rules of the game once you're playing the game. That's what's happened here. It talks about changing COLA allowances, that they wouldn't be a set amount, that it would be some targeted amount, which may or may not be applied depending on how much money was in the kitty. For people that are trying to plan ahead and figure out whether they can or should retire now, how much money they will need, do they need to go and take another job, do they need to work way past 65, do they need their spouse to work: it's hard to plan when that kind of uncertainty is now being put in front of you by the government about your public-sector pension plan, and in Bill 9 we are talking about public-sector pension plans.

We talked a little bit about poverty and poverty for people who are retired, poverty for seniors. One of my real concerns is that a very, very high percentage, a disproportionate percentage of people in poverty – and in this case I'll talk about seniors in poverty – are women. Eighty per cent of seniors living in poverty are women, and that to me is a really critical statistic. We already have an uneven track for women who are in the workforce. Taking time off to have children or raise children counts against them when you talk about pension earnings or pensionable earnings. They are more likely to be working in areas that are paying a wage, not a salary. They are more likely to be, as I said, with big gaps in their working career, so their Canada pension plan contributions would be less and earnings into a pension plan, a public-sector pension plan, would also be less.

So what did I see could be the outcome of a Bill 9? What I saw was more women in poverty. At one point we were talking about how the average pension was $12,000, and this was met with great hoots of derision from my hon. colleagues opposite. I thought, well, you know, maybe I'm wrong. That happens occasionally, not often but occasionally. So I went out and started to look around and ask around, read the tables. Yeah, in fact, a lot of people get about $12,000 as a pension, which isn't a lot of money. You know, it's a thousand bucks a month. Yes, at that low an income they're probably in for subsidized housing and maybe some other benefit programs, but is that really what we wanted to see for seniors in this province, for our public-sector workers, wanted to see them moving into retirement, their senior years, you know, looking forward to the food bank? I just don't think that's what anybody in this Legislative Assembly wanted to see.

I'm very glad that we're going to have an opportunity to send this to a policy field committee, and I really hope that the policy field committee takes it all seriously and spends the amount of time with it that needs to be taken so that all of the issues are understood. We've had a battle of statistics: your statistics versus my statistics. Mine say that we're not in such bad shape. Any deficit in the pension funds would be addressed within somewhere between nine and 12 years. That doesn't seem so bad. Other statistics that the government had said that we were in serious trouble and death defying and the sky is falling and all that kind of thing. So, you know, what are the real numbers? I'd like to know that and be able to dig a bit more with it.

The last point I want to raise here is that we are such an amazing province. We are such a wonderful place. We have so much opportunity here. It absolutely drives me wild when we are planning for things to get worse, and that's what Bill 9 does. We're planning for things to get worse, and we shouldn't be doing that in this province. We should be planning for things to get better, not to get worse.

When I look at the people that work in the public sector – and that's a very wide range of people, good people who come into public service to do that, to serve. You know, they want a reasonable wage, and with that came a reasonable pension. That was the deal. They got paid less all the way through their careers, but there was a pension and, as we know, not a grandiose pension.

Okay. We're considering taking that deal apart in Bill 9, and I think we have to be very cautious about that. But attached to that is: how do we then attract and retain the bright young people that we need to help us develop the public service of tomorrow? How do we attract and keep some of the very intelligent young people that work for us as pages? How do we keep them in the public sector? There are a number of other people, that I'm going to call under 40, that are now working around us at the Legislative Assembly and that we're very fortunate to have working for us. How do we keep them? How do we say to them, "This is a great job, it's worth while staying here to do the kind of work you do, and, look, you're going to come out of this at least not behind as compared to what would happen if you went into the private sector?"

I'm very concerned. Aside from all of the other issues of people that are in that pension track today or that are already retired, I'm looking forward into the future and going: what's the deal we're going to have with the civil servants of tomorrow to be able to retain them in public service jobs if we're saying, "Well, the pension is a little iffy, and we don't pay you, you know, all that great in the public service compared to the private sector, so come on down and work for us?" When there is such a world of opportunity open in front of them, that's not much of an incentive to come and work for us in the public service.

7:50

These are the people that back us up. They make us look good every day. They work in the departments. They work in other public-sector areas like, you know, in the parks, in SRD, in ambulance services, firefighters, police officers, teachers, nurses, people in the medical professions that are helping us. It's a lot of people that are working that make us look good and make our society move forward.

I think it's really important, and I'm very glad that the House leaders have been able to negotiate and that it's been met with some favourable response. You know, as much as we like to get in here and roll our sleeves up and fight, or at least I do, and how loath I would be to give up that opportunity to spend a couple of all-nighters in here with all of you because I know that there are some rookies that haven't done that yet and would be so excited to do it with me, as much as fun as all that is, if we can achieve those things and be able to take a step back, look at both Bill 9 and Bill 10 with a much more critical eye and have the involvement of the people who are affected by these changes – I hope you are going to be coming out to talk to us about what you think. I'm sorry; I'm pointing at some of the people in the gallery that I would say are under 40 that are going to come and tell us in the public hearings how they think the changes anticipated in Bill 9 and Bill 10 would affect their interest in staying in the public service. I'm willing to give up my all-nighters. You know, as disappointed as I am, I'm willing to give that up if we can achieve that more reasoned, tempered look at it, particularly allowing the people that are actually affected by the pensions to speak.

I know that – and I'm going to use the wrong word here: the board of directors, the people that are in charge of the plans and are political appointees.

An Hon. Member: The boards.

Ms Blakeman: The boards. Okay.

I know they were asked what they thought about Bill 9, but that's not the same as asking the people that are directly affected by Bill 9, and I think it's really important to do that when you are talking about their financial future. In this day and age I think the concept of the Freedom 55 commercials – anybody remember those? – is a bit of a laugh. I don't know many people, particularly in the public sector, that can afford to do that. I am much encouraged to believe that the government is going to be open to receiving information and new information and may be willing to change what they have and are bringing forward in Bill 9 and Bill 10.

You know, Bill 10 has sort of been the country cousin to Bill 9 here. I don't think that should be overlooked, and I certainly think that there's a great possibility that once pensions plans were affected by what was in Bill 9, they then would have been considered eligible under a number of the requirements under Bill 10 and would have been treated the same way. There a pension could be changed retroactively, which is tough. I know. I saw a few eyebrows going up here, going: "Really? Huh?" Yeah. So it's important that we look at both of those, not necessarily together but that we do have a look at both of them.

As I said, I'm really glad that I got a chance to speak. When I spoke before, I referenced the number of employees that work for our municipal governments and how much our cities would be affected, particularly our large cities, if a number of people decided: "Hey. Not much worth it. I don't gain anything by working any longer for the city of Edmonton or the city of Calgary, Grande Prairie, Red Deer, Medicine Hat, Lethbridge, Peace River, et cetera." I'm on my way and watching an exodus of 2,000 or 3,000 or more civic workers leaving those big centres, and these are the people that know how to do stuff. They know how it all works. They know that little trick. I'm going to use an engine analogy. You know, sometimes you go to start a two-cycle motor and it's just not happening for you, but you know that if you kind of work with the choke a little bit, it'll work for you. That's what we need.

Thank you very much, Mr. Speaker.

The Deputy Speaker: Thank you, hon. member.

Standing Order 29(2)(a) is available.

Seeing none, I'll recognize the next speaker, the Member for Edmonton-Highlands-Norwood.

Mr. Mason: Thank you very much, Mr. Speaker. Well, I was going to ask the hon. member to elaborate on her experiences with cutting the lawn with two-stroke lawn mowers, but I didn't.

Mr. Speaker, I'm happy to come and speak to this amendment to Bill 9. The motion, of course, is a hoist: that the bill "be not now read a second time but that it be read a second time . . . six months hence." It would have the effect, I think, of killing the legislation. That is certainly the desired effect from my point of view.

Today in question period the hon. Premier challenged me to say whether I wanted to kill the bill or refer it to committee. My answer was that I would prefer to kill the bill but that failing that, I thought that we should give Albertans a chance to have input into the bill and that, hopefully, the government would withdraw the bill at some point. That's still my view, Mr. Speaker, so that's why I'm going to be voting in favour of this. I've set out clearly my reasons for opposing Bill 9, and I think that a few major points bear repeating.

First of all, Mr. Speaker, there was not adequate consultation, especially with the people who are enrolled in the pension, who will receive it or who are receiving it now. That's a critical point.

If, in fact, there were some issues with respect to these pension plans, then I think we need to recognize that not only the government has an interest in making sure that the plans are solid and viable and will provide a good retirement income. Other employers such as the city of Calgary, for example, have that interest as well, as do the employees who are enrolled in the plan, the people receiving the pensions, the pension boards themselves, and the unions that represent the employees and negotiate on their behalf. All have an interest in making sure that these plans are viable and solid going forward, and therefore there's a good basis for negotiation, Mr. Speaker.

That's what I think needs to happen. I think that the government should not legislate until it has negotiated, and that hasn't happened. So I'm going to encourage members to support this and have the government go back and negotiate. Failing that, I accept that the government has made a commitment to refer this bill to the Standing Committee on Alberta's Economic Future for public hearings. Provided that those hearings are open enough and that the opportunity for members to make motions is broad enough within the committee, I think that that is a second-best solution, and I appreciate that the government has taken that position.

Nevertheless, I do believe that this bill will transform the existing defined benefit pension into potentially a target benefit pension. The cap on contributions is what leads me to believe that, Mr. Speaker. If the boards are unable to raise enough money because of the cap in order to set the plans on a solid footing, then they would have no choice but to reduce the benefits. That, in my view, is a target benefit plan, not a defined benefit plan, and that's why I've been saying that.

Mr. Speaker, I want to thank my colleagues in the other opposition parties. I believe that we've had excellent co-operation on this bill. I think that the government has shown that at this point in time, at least, it's prepared to make some compromises, and I think that's a good thing. I think that this Legislature and the opposition have proved their worth in this debate and in this fight, and it has shown that we can indeed influence the course of government policy. We can stand up on behalf of our constituents, fight for them, and get results. So I'm very proud of the work that we've all done together. I do thank the government for taking the position that it's now taken, that there should be public hearings on this bill.

That being said, Mr. Speaker, I will conclude my remarks and sit down. Thank you.

The Deputy Speaker: Thank you, hon. member.

Standing Order 29(2)(a) is available.

Seeing none, then the hon. President of Treasury Board and Minister of Finance.

8:00

Mr. Horner: Thank you, Mr. Speaker. I'm going to speak opposed to this hoist motion. Surprise, surprise. I'm going to do that because I'm going to fill the House in on a little bit of history that has happened in the last little while, and that is that we've have some very good discussions with the AUPE and Mr. Smith and a number of folks that have been in to see me, including some of the other unions and some of the other representatives. The hon. Member for Edmonton-Highlands-Norwood talks about the fact that he wants the Alberta public to see some of this debate, and I agree with him. I think that there are some very good abilities for us to do that if we are able to continue with Bill 9 and do the vote and then move to what might be – who knows? – a referral motion coming forward prior to going to Committee of the Whole, as the hon. member has mentioned.

In fact, that is part of the discussion that I've had with some members of the public-sector unions in terms of some of the discussions around the new relationship and building that relationship, rebuilding that trust. This is part of that. I'm looking forward to fulfilling some discussions that I had with Mr. Smith and moving forward with the discussion around preserving the defined benefit pension plan for our public-sector employees because at the crux of it, Mr. Speaker, all of this centres around the fact that what we are trying to do is preserve the pension promise. I'll say it again. I've said it in this House a number of times. To do nothing, to simply hoist the bill and say that everything's fine is not to fulfill the fiduciary duty that this House has and this government has to the employees of the public sector. To do nothing is to simply wait and see what is going to happen in the marketplaces and then to have all of the fears, frankly, that the opposition has put forward probably come true.

I would suggest to you, Mr. Speaker, that if at the end of the day the decision is that, "Well, we'll do nothing; we'll just wait and see," this government in the future is going to have to deal with some very serious issues much like what Alaska is dealing with today, much like what New Brunswick and the Maritimes have dealt with, much like many jurisdictions who are trying now to preserve what they can of the benefits that were offered to their employees.

Mr. Speaker, to hoist this bill at this stage is to stop the discussion, and I think that would be a very bad idea not only for this Legislature but also for those employees. So I would vote against and urge to vote against this hoist.

The Deputy Speaker: Thank you, hon. minister.

Standing Order 29(2)(a) is available.

Seeing none, I'll recognize the Member for Calgary-Mountain View.

Dr. Swann: Thank you very much, Mr. Speaker. It's a pleasure to rise and speak to this amendment to Bill 9. Obviously, my colleague from Calgary-McCall put this forward on my behalf, and it's a clear indication that it's the last step in a bill if you're going to try and get it discussed, get it consulted appropriately when nothing else has succeeded. We've asked for this in many different ways. In fact, I find it a bit disingenuous that the minister would say that he can't possibly accept a hoist because when it was suggested that it be referred to committee for consultation, that was rejected as well. If that isn't inconsistent, I don't know what is. We gave the option to this party to do the right thing, to refer it to committee, to open it up to broad consultation and really listen to the people who are going to have the impact of the bill, and they rejected that, so we have nothing left on this side except to call for a hoist. So for the minister to say that this is an inappropriate amendment because it doesn't allow for proper consultation I find a bit disingenuous.

Frankly, the assault on some of our most fragile individuals, whether they're retired now or about to retire, and the sense that they don't have any input, that they're just going to have to accept whatever comes down, is very difficult. They have not only created a lot of fear but offended a lot of well-meaning people who – by the way, hundreds of towns, villages, municipalities, health services, libraries. We're talking about almost half the voting public if it were the last election. We're talking about 300,000-plus people who are affected by something that they've had no input into and, especially after bills 45 and 46, a very strong sense that this government is all about its own agenda, its own plans for what's best for Albertans, and a population that has grown tired of this kind of arrogance, entitlement, even bullying.

I alluded to Bill 46, the Public Service Salary Restraint Act, which would have imposed a four-year wage settlement on AUPE members and was a clear violation of Charter rights to bargain collectively. I referred to Bill 45, the Public Sector Services Continuation Act, which also is an assault on free speech and freedom of association. There are some other bills that really smacked of bullying that I think this government is now recognizing are not sitting well with Albertans and are going to come back to haunt them in a year or two, whenever they choose to call the next election.

Bill 26, the Assurance for Students Act, made the modified framework agreement binding on all school boards, the Alberta Teachers' Association, the Alberta School Boards Association, the Crown, and the Minister of Education. It became law despite the fact that the Calgary board of education, Alberta's largest school board, with a hundred thousand students, twice voted to reject the deal.

Bill 22, the Aboriginal Consultation Levy Act: again, top-down decision-making, in which Treaty 8 and Treaty 6 vocally and in their presence here in the Legislature rejected this levy being placed without their full consultation and without recognizing that this would have impacts on their benefit agreements.

Bill 17, the Municipal Government Amendment Act, 2013, granting the minister the power to compel municipalities to find solutions to sustainability challenges, including the ability to dismiss entire municipal councils or their chief administrative officers if they failed to carry out the ministerial orders satisfactorily.

Bill 50, the Electric Statutes Amendment Act, is still coming back after five years, mandating the construction of billions of dollars worth of unnecessary large transmission lines over private land across Alberta.

Bill 44, the Human Rights, Citizenship and Multiculturalism Amendment Act, 2009. Five years ago section 9 amended section 11 of the Human Rights Act by requiring schools to provide notice to parents or guardians when subject matters concerning religion, sexuality, or sexual orientation are explicitly taught in class. Again, opposed by many school boards and thoughtful citizens and teachers.

Bill 19, the Land Assembly Project Area Act, granting the government the authority to freeze large tracts of private land for public purposes without full compensation or an appeal process.

Of course, the infamous Bill 11, the Health Care Protection Act, prohibiting against private hospitals, actually a ruse meant to open the door to more private health care in Alberta.

Mr. Speaker, it's no wonder that Albertans have become cynical about this government with so many examples of unilateral decisions, no recognition of the need for consultation with the various stakeholders or accommodation. I don't mean just going in and saying, "This is our plan; what do you think?" but actually going in and saying: "Here is a problem we all share. How shall we solve it?"

In this case the minister has identified some problems in unfunded liability, perhaps, with longer lived citizens and concerns about the sustainability of pensions. Fine. Why not take this to the people, have a robust and comprehensive consultation with the people who are actually going to live with the consequences, not only the boards but the individuals themselves and the stakeholders and the managers of these funds?

8:10

That clearly was not the case, and this government is now caving as they recognize that this simply is not going to fly anymore in Alberta. They're going to pay a huge price for this. In fact, this could still be the death knell for this party in the next election. I think there's a recognition of that and a recognition that the next leader does not want to live with the legacy of this consistently poor set of processes around bills which have not honoured democracy, have not honoured a respect for the public and for the citizens of Alberta, and have not even honoured some of the elected officials, city officials, and others who have an important stake and role in that.

As we heard earlier today from the mayor of Calgary, clearly they haven't thought through the vast unexpected impacts from these heavy-handed, top-down decisions. Process matters. How we go through change with people matters. The end result may be the same, but if you don't follow a fair and responsible and open and consultative and accommodating process, you end up where we are today. Suddenly the government realizes that it's gone too far, and half the voting public in Alberta is saying that we can no longer tolerate this kind of abuse of power.

This amendment, I think, Mr. Speaker, is the last opportunity at this reading, at least, for opposition to say: enough is enough. Pull this bill. We are going to be losers as part of this government and not only the pensioners themselves, who will continue to resist and be stressed and potentially have problems in their own financial management and their own families' impact, but it will also impact on all of us and especially our human services.

Mr. Kang: We'll all pay the price.

Dr. Swann: Every one of us will pay a price. That's right.

This is our last opportunity, and I think it's appropriate that this government acknowledge that they refused to accept a reasoned amendment and a referral to committee and that this is the last possible avenue for the opposition to say: "Stop. Hold off. Pause and take a second sober look." We don't have Senators here, so we're depending on you folks who have a majority in government to pause a bit and think about not only the impacts on family, some of your own employees, our future in Alberta in terms of recruiting and retaining people in the public sector, and sending a message of real respect and honour to the people who continue to serve us every day in this House, in our institutions, in our towns, municipalities, villages, libraries, all the different government services that we've come to appreciate. Let them know that we are now taking a sober second look and ensuring that everybody participates in what will be a very significant and, hopefully, a positive outcome at the end of the day when the process is followed in an honest and authentic way.

We'll certainly be supporting this, and I hope others will see the wisdom in lifting this bill from the table. Thank you, Mr. Speaker.

The Deputy Speaker: Thank you, hon. member.

Standing Order 29(2)(a) is available.

Seeing none, I'll recognize the Member for Calgary-Varsity.

Ms Kennedy-Glans: Thank you, Mr. Speaker. I have to say that I'm absolutely delighted by what I've observed over the last two weeks in this House. I've heard people speak to this bill with real passion and experience, and I've seen people listen. I'm very, very heartened by that approach to resolving this bill.

I'm going to speak against the amendment on the understanding that in the Committee of the Whole this bill will be referred to an all-party standing committee on economic futures, perhaps. But I want to talk a little more broadly about what might be considered in that all-party committee. Certainly, the issue of pensions, and I'm a big fan of looking into pensions. I think we have to be fiscally responsible, and we do have to figure out what we're going to do with all of our pension plans provincially and federally. What's happened in Ontario is really quite startling for most of us.

But while we're looking at the question of consultation, which I think is at the root of the issue that we're discussing here today, I think it would be very timely and appropriate for that all-party committee to actually look at consultation and how it's done, especially in an area as complex as pension policy. For example, electricity is a very, very complex area. How do you go out into the public space, work with stakeholders who have really specific knowledge of pensions, and then work with the broader public, who have a broader understanding? It's the two pieces: how you do consultation, and then how do you raise awareness and even the education of the public?

What I would recommend, Mr. Speaker, is that as we go forward with this, it's an opportunity to actually look at: what are wise practices in this province and beyond this province's borders for consultation with key stakeholders and the public in an area as complex as this? And then also: what are the wise practices for educating the public, and what are the reasonable outcomes? How much time should we be spending doing that work before we assume that the public has enough information to make decisions or the key stakeholders have enough information?

Trust is also the desired outcome of all of this. I think every speaker that's spoken to this particular bill has mentioned the failure of trust. There isn't trust here. It's a very, very sensitive issue because it affects people's security. I'm not sure we're going to get to trust right away in all cases. I think, you know, you can consult too much, and you don't make decisions. It's kind of the Goldilocks theory of consultation. What's too little? What's too much? What's just right? I think we have to look at what other examples work in other jurisdictions and right here and maybe even do some consultation road mapping and a policy framework so that we can look at that and talk to the public and key stakeholders about what's reasonable in situations like this.

I truly hope that the public does come to understand the importance of pension legislation for all of us and especially our children and grandchildren. The education piece of this is really, really essential.

Thanks, Mr. Speaker.

The Deputy Speaker: Thank you.

Standing Order 29(2)(a) is available.

Seeing none, I'll recognize the next speaker, the Member for Edmonton-Beverly-Clareview.

Mr. Bilous: Thank you, Mr. Speaker. I rise to speak in favour of this hoist motion, again, the logic behind it being that we don't speak to it for another six months, in which case this current bill as it's drafted will die, and we can start from scratch.

I find it interesting that, you know, the hon. President of Treasury Board spoke against this hoist motion so that we don't stop the discussion. I think there is adequate evidence to show that the discussion never really started with many of our public-sector workers, many of the unions, that have been very vocal over the last number of weeks. I know for a fact that there have been thousands of e-mails, phone calls, and letters received by members on all sides of this House from workers quite frustrated with this government, and rightly so. I mean, for a government that loves to talk about the word "consultation" and how they speak with folks, their actions don't seem to live up to their words. Although I could stand here and give numerous examples where consultation never took place even though it was asserted, I won't do that.

I just wanted to say, Mr. Speaker, that once again we're in a position where – should this bill get referred to committee in Committee of the Whole, I do see that as a positive step. But I do need to voice my frustration with the fact that once again it's another example of the government putting forward poor legislation then being stopped in its tracks by the public, by opposition parties and forced to go back to the table. If it was done with adequate consultation in the first place, then we wouldn't have to be here and constantly go in circles. We've seen examples of this from the amendment to the municipalities act, where, again, amendments that the Alberta NDP put forward were voted down originally, last year, and then an amendment to the bill came forward and – surprise, surprise – half of the changes in there were the exact amendments that we put forward.

You know, again, my frustration is with the actions of this government in again attacking public-sector workers. We see today that they've turned their sights onto teachers in this province. But, you know, many Albertans are quite frustrated with this government, and rightly so.

8:20

Again, I disagree with the President of Treasury Board saying that by not bringing forward this legislation, we're doing nothing. Years ago when the contribution rates went up, that was a way that several of these pension plans dealt with the downturn in 2008 and the fact that there was an unfunded liability portion. That has been aggressively paid back year over year, and again we are on track to fulfill that obligation. I appreciate the frustration that Albertans have, looking at this attack and the effect that this bill would have on working Albertans.

Again, it needs to be stressed that if we want to attract and retain quality workers in the public sector, what we offer needs to be at least somewhat comparable to the private sector; otherwise, we're not going to get these great workers and front-line staff. Again, looking at pensions as being a part of the contract or the agreement on how workers will be paid over the course of their lives, the decisions of many Albertans to join the public sector were made looking at wages, at benefits, and looking at pensions, so to make a change midgame goes beyond unfair and just is outright wrong, Mr. Speaker. That's been the voice of many working Albertans over the last few weeks and the last couple of months.

I do think it's worth noting that we've got mayors, councillors, and organizations, including the AAMDC and the AUMA, opposed to this, worried about the effects it's going to have on the workers that they depend on in order to make their municipalities work day in and day out, Mr. Speaker. These are real, valid concerns. I mean, we're talking about this bill being wrong in the fact that it's attacking our seniors. It's attacking workers who have devoted their lives to the public service and attacking as well and having negative impacts on different municipalities.

I do find it frustrating as well, Mr. Speaker, that the bulk of the people affected by the changes proposed in Bill 9 are women. I think we have a long way to go to reach equality in this province. This bill is 10 steps backwards. I do find it interesting, by the way, that if women were paid equally in this province, there would be a lot more money in the pension plans as we speak. The unfunded liability would be much lower. Two out of 3 of the PSPP members are women, and sadly they earn on average $10,000 a year less than men. When we look at the amount of contributions that would be made to the pension plan, that is significant. You know, I think, again, because women are about 70 per cent of public-sector plan members and they live longer and earn less, they'll exponentially be impacted by these changes in their senior years and be at much higher risk of being in poverty.

Again, the government is taking a short-sighted approach, making sweeping changes right now, where the impact is going to be that we are going to have more seniors living in poverty and relying on the system for assistance. You know, either we ensure that they can retire with dignity and have the dollars there for a retirement which is modest, Mr. Speaker – we're not talking about lavish pensions here – or we claw that back and force more people into poverty.

For those reasons, Mr. Speaker, I strongly urge all members of this House to vote in favour of this hoist. Let's encourage the government to sit down at the table with not just the board members but all of the different public-sector unions that are going to be affected, with the workers, the front-line folks, and have a real, true discussion about what we can do moving forward.

Thank you, Mr. Speaker.

The Deputy Speaker: Thank you, hon. member.

Standing Order 29(2)(a) is available.

Seeing none, I'll recognize the Member for Edmonton-Calder.

Mr. Eggen: Well, thank you, Mr. Speaker. I just wanted to say a couple of words. This has been a very interesting and educative process for, I think, all of us here in the House and outside, across the province, too. It's helped a lot of people that normally don't think about things that happen in the Legislature suddenly become much more interested in both the political process and, I think, the democratic process, too, because, of course, pensions are not just a way by which we can save for retirement, but they also provide a sense of security during the course of your working life, for both yourself and for your family and your loved ones to know that there's something there to look forward to. As has been said many times, these public-service pensions are very modest – it's not like we're talking about great riches; the average draw on them is $15,000 to $17,000 a year – but, as I say, it's that sense of security, knowing that there's something to look after one's future with, with other savings and with Canada pension and so forth as well.

I think it's important, again, to just review what's happened here very briefly, to help everyone to understand what a pension actually is and how a pension plan lives through its lifetime, not just in five or 10 or 15 years but more like 30 or 40 or even 60 years, as we go through different cycles of the population, as we have surges, as we saw through the baby boomers coming through and so forth. The survivability and the viability of a pension plan is not just something you can measure by taking a photograph or a snapshot at any one time. Rather, you have to look at that intergenerational aspect, which includes the vagaries, the ups and downs, of our economy and the changes in demographics over time as well.

I think, too, Mr. Speaker, we have to move to change and strengthen public and also private pension plans across this province and remind ourselves that a majority of Albertans do not have adequate savings for their retirement. Let's do something about that, too, while we start to talk about pensions in the public service. It's an opportunity for us to address this nagging question, this elephant in the room, that the majority of Albertans are not prepared for their retirement and saving adequately for their retirement.

I am a member of the Economic Future Committee, and I look forward to having further discussion on this. There are many, many intelligent people that have a vested interest in seeing positive changes and constructive changes. Certainly, I never doubted the sincerity and the intention, in many ways, of the Finance minister and President of the Treasury Board in talking about the necessity to change to ensure the viability of our pensions for the future. I think we might have had some misrepresentation or some confusion about how we might go about doing that but always in the spirit of democracy and in the spirit of practical solutions.

I think this choice to move to not pass this legislation at this time, to move it to further public discussion is very wise, very practical, and I applaud everyone who has contributed to that process. It's the way that our Legislature should work, it's a way by which we could reach out and engage the larger population, and it's a way by which we can, I think, make a more sincere plan that includes everyone, ensuring that we have a pension future for everybody in this province.

Thank you very much.

The Deputy Speaker: Standing Order 29(2)(a) is available.

Seeing none, are there other speakers on the amendment?

Seeing no other speakers, I'll call the question on the hoist amendment H1.

[Motion on amendment to second reading of Bill 9 lost]

The Deputy Speaker: I'll call the question on second reading.

[The voice vote indicated that the motion for second reading carried]

[Several members rose calling for a division. The division bell was rung at 8:30 p.m.]

[Ten minutes having elapsed, the Assembly divided]

[The Deputy Speaker in the chair]

For the motion:

Allen	Goudreau	Oberle
Amery	Griffiths	Olesen
Bhardwaj	Horner	Quadri
Bhullar	Hughes	Quest
Brown	Jansen	Rodney
Calahasen	Jeneroux	Sandhu
Campbell	Johnson, L.	Sarich
Cusanelli	Kennedy-Glans	Scott
Dallas	Klimchuk	Starke
Dorward	Kubinec	VanderBurg
Drysdale	Leskiw	Weadick
Fawcett	Luan	Woo-Paw
Fenske	McDonald	Xiao
Fritz	McQueen	Young

Against the motion:

Bilous	Kang	Strankman
Blakeman	Mason	Swann
Donovan	McAllister	Towle
Eggen	Pedersen	Wilson
Hale	Sherman

Totals: For – 42 Against – 14

[Motion carried; Bill 9 read a second time]

The Deputy Speaker: The hon. President of Treasury Board and Minister of Finance.

Mr. Horner: Thank you, Mr. Speaker. It obviously has been noted that there are some issues, some concerns perhaps, that require some additional discussion at a different level and through a different committee and through that process, as was mentioned earlier. Therefore, pursuant to Standing Order 78.1 I would move that Bill 9, Public Sector Pension Plans Amendment Act, 2014, be referred to the Standing Committee on Alberta's Economic Future, where it can receive additional comments, and then be brought back for follow-up discussion in the first sitting of the October session of the Legislature this year.

The Deputy Speaker: This motion is not debatable.

[Motion carried]

The Deputy Speaker: The hon. President of Treasury Board and Minister of Finance.

Mr. Horner: Thank you, Mr. Speaker. It has also been noted that there are some concerns that would require some additional discussion at a different level and through a different committee on Bill 10. Therefore, pursuant to Standing Order 78.1 I would move that Bill 10, Employment Pension (Private Sector) Plans Amendment Act, 2014, be referred to the Standing Committee on Alberta's Economic Future, where it can receive additional comments, and then be brought back for follow-up discussion in the first sitting of the October session of the Legislature.

The Deputy Speaker: Thank you.
This motion is also not debatable.

[Motion carried]

Bill 11
Child, Youth and Family Enhancement
Amendment Act, 2014

[Adjourned debate April 24: Mr. Bilous]

The Deputy Speaker: Hon. Member for Edmonton-Beverly-Clareview, you still have two minutes left to speak.

Mr. Bilous: Excellent. Thank you very much, Mr. Speaker. I will just give a summary of my position, you know, speaking to the fact that this amendment act is a step in the right direction, but there are still many questions that remain outstanding. I do look forward to debating this in Committee of the Whole and the amendments that I'm sure my colleague the hon. Member for Edmonton-Strathcona will bring forward.

Just to outline one of the concerns, reporting is still going to be internal, so there is discretion about the review process used. We haven't seen an increase in the budget in order to carry out these investigations, Mr. Speaker. Again, the concern is about the time allocation around the investigations only going back two years.

So I hope that the hon. minister will engage in robust conversation in Committee of the Whole on this bill and be open to amendments that we put forward. Thank you very much, Mr. Speaker.

The Deputy Speaker: Thank you.
The hon. Member for Calgary-Mountain View.

Dr. Swann: Thank you very much, Mr. Speaker. It's a pleasure to rise in second on Bill 11, Child, Youth and Family Enhancement Amendment Act, 2014. Yes, a very significant bill in terms of its potential impact for families and children in care. It follows, of course, by five months the joint Edmonton Journal-Calgary Herald investigation revealing that the province was dramatically underreporting the number of children who died in care and failing to monitor implementation of recommendations to prevent similar deaths.

There's no question that this is progress. I respect the minister for taking this boldly and decisively and opening up not only the questions of the elimination of the publication ban that was in place and reversing that decision but also the recognition that quality control, quality assurance in the ministry demands that there be more openness and accountability as well as protection for the workers, who are unfortunately exposed to the traumas of these unfortunate families every day and need to be clearly given the respect and the freedom and the protection to at least acknowledge tragedy, acknowledge where problems have occurred, and do whatever is possible to redress some of those circumstances that could be changed.

Let me say that lifting the publication ban will allow families to speak publicly while ensuring that they receive the respect and recognition that they deserve. The bill will also expand the Child and Youth Advocate's investigative powers to include not only the time during their care but two years after they leave care. Obviously, we have questions about what kind of resources the Child and Youth Advocate is going to have to do the job and do it fully.

It's also important to recognize that the minister is well aware that the stresses and strains on his ministry have created conditions in which many workers do not feel empowered, do not feel that they have the confidence or the leadership in some cases that they need from management and that if we do not address some of those internal management issues, relational issues, trust issues, it is going to be very difficult to change the quality of care and the accountability that all of us want to see in the interests of children and their families.

8:50

I'm also encouraged by some of the discussion both with the minister and in this House, that there is a recognition that this ministry has to start dealing upstream. They have to start dealing with root cause and preventive issues and early identification of risk and poverty and mental illness, addictions, the kinds of issues that we need to identify as early as possible. These were alluded to today in question period, where a child of 14 days died in a family that should have been identified as high risk from the outset.

It's also, I think, important to say that anyone associated with the child can apply for an ex parte ban on publication and that a judge would have to consider the best interests of the family and especially the siblings of the dead child and the known wishes, if there were any, of the deceased child. These are all indications that we're moving forward with a more humane, accountable, and effective child care ministry.

Internally the council for quality assurance already has the power to appoint an expert panel to review child deaths and make those reports public, but under this new bill the council could also appoint committees to study, assess, and evaluate the provision of intervention services. That's progress. In addition, the director of children's services has the option to conduct an internal review and will be required to publicly report the findings and recommendations from those internal reviews along with the responses and recommendations from the Child and Youth Advocate.

So, Mr. Speaker, I'm cautiously optimistic that this bill is going to move us to a very much more robust and constructive, hopefully, climate and culture, that are shifting in the ministry. I look forward to further debate.

Thank you.

The Deputy Speaker: Thank you, hon. member.
Standing Order 29(2)(a) is available.

Seeing none, I'll recognize the Member for Calgary-Shaw.

Mr. Wilson: Thank you, Mr. Speaker. It is a pleasure to rise today to speak to second reading of Bill 11. As the former Human Services critic for the Official Opposition this bill has a special place for me. Last fall we all lived through what has been dubbed the fatal care series, a deeply impactful one, I'm sure, on every member in this House. This is, you know, a welcomed response, and I commend the Minister of Human Services for taking these steps.

I know that there are some amendments that our caucus will be bringing forward. Hopefully, they will be, I guess, considered at least by the minister. But at the end of the day, Mr. Speaker, I think that the intent of Bill 11 is very strong. Even just today with the Child and Youth Advocate releasing another report of another death of a child in care, another tragic story, as they all are, you know, it's important that we in this House take every opportunity that we can to strengthen our child welfare system and ensure that we do everything we can to give the best quality of life to every child, whether they are in the foster system, recognizing that there are dozens if not hundreds and thousands of successful stories that happen every single day within that system. There are thousands of children that are in the system every single day, and we just need to make sure that we do our very best to protect them.

You know, it was an apt reminder today, when the Child and Youth Advocate released the report and dubbed the child's name as Baby Annie. One can hope that after this legislation is passed, we will be able to put a face to Baby Annie's name and every child's name who has tragically passed while in government care or having received services from the government, which is another very strong part of this bill. We're not just considering those who are currently receiving services, but if they have received services in the past, the Child and Youth Advocate will have the opportunity to investigate that death as well.

So there are some positive steps in this bill. It's welcomed. It's something that I'm happy to see and at this point most definitely happy to support, at second reading. I look forward to further discussions and debate as we move into Committee of the Whole.

Thank you, Mr. Speaker.

The Deputy Speaker: Thank you, hon. member.

Standing Order 29(2)(a) is available.

Before I acknowledge the next speaker, I'd like to acknowledge our MLA for a Day students, who have joined us in the gallery.

Are there other speakers? The hon. Member for Edmonton-Highlands-Norwood.

Mr. Mason: Thank you very much, Mr. Speaker. I am pleased to speak to Bill 11. I have a number of comments that I would like to make with respect to this bill. We think that the bill is a positive but tentative first step in the right direction. We don't believe, however, that it goes nearly far enough in tackling the secrecy and bureaucracy which ultimately harm our ability to improve the lives of children.

I want to congratulate the media, particularly the Edmonton Journal and the Calgary Herald, for their exhaustive feature which shone a light on this problem, something that we and others in this House have been trying to grapple with in this House for a long time. There was a lot of smoke, Mr. Speaker. It was difficult to cut through it.

I also want to commend my colleague the hon. Member for Edmonton-Strathcona for her long fight to get the children's advocate made an officer of the Legislature rather than simply an arm of the minister, as was previously the case. It shouldn't take that long to make these kinds of steps, and I'm pleased to see that the pace of change has picked up considerably under the new minister. I congratulate him but also want to indicate that we will be pushing for change beyond what he's offering at the time.

It took a four-year legal battle for the newspapers I mentioned to unveil that 175 children in care or receiving services had died between 1999 and 2013, and when the minister finally received the full number, about a month after the publication of those articles, it was a shocking 741. Mr. Speaker, that is far too many.

I want to address the question of publication bans. Changes to the publication bans are a step towards increased transparency, and I want to indicate that, you know, this has been a serious issue. Families want to be able to talk about their children whom they have lost and have been unable to do so. The government pretended for many years that that was to protect the child, but in actual fact, Mr. Speaker, we believe it was there to protect the government and to protect a flawed system. We think that that's a good step although long overdue. The government has been promising to review that ban for over three years with no action, so I'm glad to see that it does that.

I think the bill safeguards the ability of the courts to restrict the publication of this information where it's necessary for children, and that's something that we can agree with. But there are a lot of difficulties, a number of problems that could reduce the effectiveness of the change. Right now the idea is that a party must apply to the court for an order to restrict publication, and nobody has to be notified. The government is still preserving the power to get publication bans without any need for notice to any other party – for example, the media or the family – so we have a problem with that particular piece. In order to get the restrictions removed, the media or another party would have to go through a possibly lengthy court process. We don't think that that should be permitted, so this is an area where the bill doesn't go far enough, in our view. The government should not have that unrestricted power as well.

9:00

We like the idea of reverse onus. The information should be available to the public, but there need to be exceptions for the best interests of the child or the family. A number of other provinces have effective publication bans. Ontario and P.E.I. have no restrictions. Saskatchewan and Manitoba allow the publication of the name and information about the child if it comes from the family. B.C. and Newfoundland and Labrador allow for the publication of the name and information about the child if it comes from family or other sources. There are only a couple of other provinces, Nova Scotia and New Brunswick, that have the kind of ban that Alberta has traditionally had.

On another point, we're very pleased to see an expanded investigative mandate for the Child and Youth Advocate. The advocate can now investigate deaths that occur within two years of receiving services. That's an important change. The advocate will also have the ability to investigate an injury or death that occurred while the child was receiving a service under the Protection of Sexually Exploited Children Act or a service provided to children in the youth criminal justice system. These were previously excluded, so that's a good change, that we can support.

However, serious injuries can still only be investigated if they occur while a child is receiving services. I know my colleague for Edmonton-Strathcona has repeatedly called for investigations of the death of every child in care or receiving services. At the Legislative Offices Committee of November 29, 2013, we brought forward a motion to expand the budget of the Child and Youth Advocate so that these investigations could be done.

Mr. Speaker, here's the rub. The government provides the legal capacity for these investigations to be occurring but does not necessarily provide the resources to the Child and Youth Advocate in order to perform those. That is the question. We see this time and again from this government. They will legally set out something that is very good and positive and should be done but do not provide the resources to do it; for example, health and safety, environmental investigations, and so on. It's a common problem with this government, and the two need to go together.

We think that the advocate does have an important role in providing justice and closure for children who have been injured or died, but it has another important objective, to provide independent insight and analysis into the child intervention system to ensure that we can make necessary improvements to prevent future deaths or injuries. But, again, there need to be resources and a mandate, and expanding the investigative mandate is a good first step.

I just want to mention that the advocate has already confirmed that due to lack of resources he has no choice but to prioritize and filter the cases that get reported to his office. Mr. Speaker, this is, I think, an important thing to speak about. In 2012-13 20 cases were reported to the advocate. Only four proceeded to a full investigative review. The advocate must differentiate responses in each case because he doesn't have adequate resources, and there is no mandatory provision for investigative review.

Mr. Speaker, the advocate has to decide whether or not to conduct an initial assessment based solely on a snapshot provided by the Chief Medical Examiner and Human Services, which is about a page long. Even then, he must decide after the initial assessment whether or not to proceed with the investigation. He's not being provided with the information or resources he needs to make these decisions in all cases. We've raised this question as well with the children's advocate. The hon. Member for Edmonton-Strathcona asked him in the Legislative Offices Committee, and he admitted that if he had more resources, he could conduct a more fulsome review of a large number of cases.

Mr. Speaker, I think that this is something that I would really like the minister to address and which I think the Treasury Board should address: whether or not sufficient resources are being made available. If they are not, then they should be, and we shouldn't wait for the next budget to do that.

Those are some of my comments.

We are also concerned that there is no expansion of the mandate to include investigation of serious injuries that occurred within two years of receiving services. These can be just as important as deaths in terms of providing us with information about how to improve the system and identifying systemic issues that increase the risk for children.

There's still no change to make these investigations and reports mandatory. Reports and information are only made public when there's been a full investigative review. That means that in the 16 cases that did not proceed to a full investigation by the advocate last year, we have no public information on what happened to the children, what circumstances put them at risk in the first place, or how their case was dealt with within the child intervention system and the death or injury review process. Mr. Speaker, again, it all comes down to resources.

In terms of the quality assurance council and the review process and the reports, the bill expands the role of the quality assurance council. It also expands the ability of the council to review deaths or injuries of all children receiving intervention services. In addition to the expert review panels that the council can currently appoint to investigate deaths and injuries, there will also now be committees for other quality assurance activities. Mr. Speaker, hopefully, practically, this will provide additional analysis and evaluation of the system and how it's working so that we may further improve it, but there's not much clarity or guidance from the bill regarding what sort of activities these committees might undertake. We'd like to know who'd be responsible for adequately monitoring and tracking recommendations from both internal council reports and the Child and Youth Advocate public reports.

Mr. Speaker, these changes to the role and scope of the quality assurance council are good steps towards improving the child intervention system and identifying systemic issues. However, there are not many improvements to the secrecy and bureaucracy of the current review system. The reports of the committees will remain internal, and there is no provision for their public release, as there is for expert review panel reports. There's no change to the current public reporting requirements for the expert review panels, which leave it up to the discretion of the minister to direct if they will be publicly released or not. Those reports may contain many useful recommendations, and we believe that those recommendations should not be released at the discretion of the minister but just released.

I want to just indicate, Mr. Speaker, that there are some issues as well with the annual report. They will still include reporting on the exercise of the powers and the performance of the council. There are some improvements there.

Mr. Speaker, overall, the concerns are that there is still a relatively high degree of secrecy and confidentiality and discretion by the minister and the government with respect to many of the issues around children's services. We are also concerned that there is no recognition, or apparently no recognition, that adequate resources need to be applied to the officers, to the department, and to the children's advocate in order that they can carry out all of the important functions set out for them in this act.

Having said that, Mr. Speaker, this act is a significant improvement over the existing system, and I congratulate the minister for moving in the right direction. I hope we will see more in the future with regard to these changes. It has been something that the government should have dealt with many years ago, but it was more interested in protecting its own political hide than it was in the welfare of the children in its care. I don't think you can draw any other conclusion. I'm glad that that seems to be changing. I'm encouraged by that.

I'm happy to support this bill with my other caucus members. I know that my colleague from Edmonton-Strathcona will be here tomorrow to address the bill, and she'll probably have quite a bit more to say on the matter.

Thank you, Mr. Speaker, for that.

The Deputy Speaker: Thank you, hon. member.

Standing Order 29(2)(a) is available.

Seeing none, I'll look for the next speaker. No other speakers?

The hon. Government House Leader.

Mr. Campbell: Yes, Mr. Speaker. I move that we adjourn debate.

[Motion to adjourn debate carried]

The Deputy Speaker: The hon. Government House Leader.

Mr. Campbell: Yes, Mr. Speaker. Seeing that the future Stanley Cup champions, the L.A. Kings, are on TV right now, I move that we adjourn the House until 1:30 tomorrow afternoon.

[Motion carried; the Assembly adjourned at 9:10 p.m. to Tuesday at 1:30 p.m.]

Table of Contents

Government Bills and Orders

Second Reading

Bill 9	Public Sector Pension Plans Amendment Act, 2014	711
	Division	717
Bill 11	Child, Youth and Family Enhancement Amendment Act, 2014.....	718

If your address is incorrect, please clip on the dotted line, make any changes, and return to the address listed below. To facilitate the update, please attach the last mailing label along with your account number.

Subscriptions
Legislative Assembly Office
1001 Legislature Annex
9718 – 107 Street
EDMONTON, AB T5K 1E4

Last mailing label:

Account # _____

New information:

Name:

Address:

Subscription information:

Annual subscriptions to the paper copy of Alberta Hansard (including annual index) are $127.50 including GST if mailed once a week or $94.92 including GST if picked up at the subscription address below or if mailed through the provincial government interdepartmental mail system. Bound volumes are $121.70 including GST if mailed. Cheques should be made payable to the Minister of Finance.

Price per issue is $0.75 including GST.

Online access to Alberta Hansard is available through the Internet at www.assembly.ab.ca

Subscription inquiries:

Subscriptions
Legislative Assembly Office
1001 Legislature Annex
9718 – 107 St.
EDMONTON, AB T5K 1E4
Telephone: 780.427.1302

Other inquiries:

Managing Editor
Alberta Hansard
1001 Legislature Annex
9718 – 107 St.
EDMONTON, AB T5K 1E4
Telephone: 780.427.1875

Province of Alberta

The 28th Legislature
Second Session

Alberta Hansard

Tuesday afternoon, May 6, 2014

Issue 25a

The Honourable Gene Zwozdesky, Speaker

Legislative Assembly of Alberta The 28th Legislature

Second Session

Zwozdesky, Hon. Gene, Edmonton-Mill Creek (PC), Speaker
Rogers, George, Leduc-Beaumont (PC), Deputy Speaker and Chair of Committees
Jablonski, Mary Anne, Red Deer-North (PC), Deputy Chair of Committees

Allen, Mike, Fort McMurray-Wood Buffalo (Ind)
Amery, Moe, Calgary-East (PC)
Anderson, Rob, Airdrie (W),
 Official Opposition House Leader
Anglin, Joe, Rimbey-Rocky Mountain House-Sundre (W)
Barnes, Drew, Cypress-Medicine Hat (W)
Bhardwaj, Hon. Naresh, Edmonton-Ellerslie (PC)
Bhullar, Hon. Manmeet Singh, Calgary-Greenway (PC)
Bikman, Gary, Cardston-Taber-Warner (W)
Bilous, Deron, Edmonton-Beverly-Clareview (ND)
Blakeman, Laurie, Edmonton-Centre (AL),
 Liberal Opposition House Leader
Brown, Dr. Neil, QC, Calgary-Mackay-Nose Hill (PC)
Calahasen, Pearl, Lesser Slave Lake (PC)
Campbell, Hon. Robin, West Yellowhead (PC),
 Government House Leader
Cao, Wayne C.N., Calgary-Fort (PC)
Casey, Ron, Banff-Cochrane (PC)
Cusanelli, Christine, Calgary-Currie (PC)
Dallas, Hon. Cal, Red Deer-South (PC)
DeLong, Alana, Calgary-Bow (PC)
Denis, Hon. Jonathan, QC, Calgary-Acadia (PC),
 Deputy Government House Leader
Donovan, Ian, Little Bow (W)
Dorward, David C., Edmonton-Gold Bar (PC),
 Deputy Government Whip
Drysdale, Hon. Wayne, Grande Prairie-Wapiti (PC)
Eggen, David, Edmonton-Calder (ND),
 New Democrat Opposition Whip
Fawcett, Hon. Kyle, Calgary-Klein (PC)
Fenske, Jacquie, Fort Saskatchewan-Vegreville (PC)
Forsyth, Heather, Calgary-Fish Creek (W)
Fox, Rodney M., Lacombe-Ponoka (W)
Fraser, Hon. Rick, Calgary-South East (PC)
Fritz, Yvonne, Calgary-Cross (PC)
Goudreau, Hector G., Dunvegan-Central Peace-Notley (PC)
Griffiths, Hon. Doug, Battle River-Wainwright (PC)
Hale, Jason W., Strathmore-Brooks (W)
Hancock, Hon. Dave, QC, Edmonton-Whitemud (PC),
 Premier
Hehr, Kent, Calgary-Buffalo (AL)
Horne, Hon. Fred, Edmonton-Rutherford (PC)
Horner, Hon. Doug, Spruce Grove-St. Albert (PC)
Hughes, Ken, Calgary-West (PC)
Jansen, Hon. Sandra, Calgary-North West (PC)
Jeneroux, Matt, Edmonton-South West (PC)
Johnson, Hon. Jeff, Athabasca-Sturgeon-Redwater (PC)
Johnson, Linda, Calgary-Glenmore (PC)
Kang, Darshan S., Calgary-McCall (AL),
 Liberal Opposition Whip
Kennedy-Glans, Donna, QC, Calgary-Varsity (Ind)
Khan, Stephen, St. Albert (PC)
Klimchuk, Hon. Heather, Edmonton-Glenora (PC)
Kubinec, Maureen, Barrhead-Morinville-Westlock (PC)
Lemke, Ken, Stony Plain (PC)
Leskiw, Genia, Bonnyville-Cold Lake (PC)
Luan, Jason, Calgary-Hawkwood (PC)
Lukaszuk, Hon. Thomas A., Edmonton-Castle Downs (PC)
Mason, Brian, Edmonton-Highlands-Norwood (ND),
 Leader of the New Democrat Opposition
McAllister, Bruce, Chestermere-Rocky View (W)
McDonald, Everett, Grande Prairie-Smoky (PC)
McIver, Hon. Ric, Calgary-Hays (PC)
McQueen, Hon. Diana, Drayton Valley-Devon (PC)
Notley, Rachel, Edmonton-Strathcona (ND),
 New Democrat Opposition House Leader
Oberle, Hon. Frank, Peace River (PC),
 Deputy Government House Leader
Olesen, Cathy, Sherwood Park (PC)
Olson, Hon. Verlyn, QC, Wetaskiwin-Camrose (PC),
 Deputy Government House Leader
Pastoor, Bridget Brennan, Lethbridge-East (PC)
Pedersen, Blake, Medicine Hat (W)
Quadri, Sohail, Edmonton-Mill Woods (PC)
Quest, Hon. Dave, Strathcona-Sherwood Park (PC)
Redford, Alison M., QC, Calgary-Elbow (PC)
Rodney, Hon. Dave, Calgary-Lougheed (PC)
Rowe, Bruce, Olds-Didsbury-Three Hills (W)
Sandhu, Peter, Edmonton-Manning (PC)
Sarich, Janice, Edmonton-Decore (PC)
Saskiw, Shayne, Lac La Biche-St. Paul-Two Hills (W),
 Official Opposition Whip
Scott, Hon. Donald, QC, Fort McMurray-Conklin (PC)
Sherman, Dr. Raj, Edmonton-Meadowlark (AL),
 Leader of the Liberal Opposition
Smith, Danielle, Highwood (W),
 Leader of the Official Opposition
Starke, Hon. Dr. Richard, Vermilion-Lloydminster (PC)
Stier, Pat, Livingstone-Macleod (W)
Strankman, Rick, Drumheller-Stettler (W)
Swann, Dr. David, Calgary-Mountain View (AL)
Towle, Kerry, Innisfail-Sylvan Lake (W),
 Official Opposition Deputy Whip
VanderBurg, George, Whitecourt-Ste. Anne (PC),
 Government Whip
Weadick, Hon. Greg, Lethbridge-West (PC)
Webber, Len, Calgary-Foothills (Ind)
Wilson, Jeff, Calgary-Shaw (W),
 Official Opposition Deputy House Leader
Woo-Paw, Hon. Teresa, Calgary-Northern Hills (PC)
Xiao, David H., Edmonton-McClung (PC)
Young, Steve, Edmonton-Riverview (PC)

Party standings:

Progressive Conservative: 58 Wildrose: 17 Alberta Liberal: 5 New Democrat: 4 Independent: 3

Officers and Officials of the Legislative Assembly

W.J. David McNeil, Clerk	Stephanie LeBlanc, Parliamentary Counsel and Legal Research Officer	Philip Massolin, Manager of Research Services
Robert H. Reynolds, QC, Law Clerk/ Director of Interparliamentary Relations	Fiona Vance, Sessional Parliamentary Counsel	Brian G. Hodgson, Sergeant-at-Arms
Shannon Dean, Senior Parliamentary Counsel/Director of House Services	Nancy Robert, Research Officer	Chris Caughell, Assistant Sergeant-at-Arms
		Gordon H. Munk, Assistant Sergeant-at-Arms
		Janet Schwegel, Managing Editor of Alberta Hansard

Executive Council

Dave Hancock	Premier, President of Executive Council, Minister of Innovation and Advanced Education
Naresh Bhardwaj	Associate Minister – Services for Persons with Disabilities
Manmeet Singh Bhullar	Minister of Human Services
Robin Campbell	Minister of Environment and Sustainable Resource Development
Cal Dallas	Minister of International and Intergovernmental Relations
Jonathan Denis	Minister of Justice and Solicitor General
Wayne Drysdale	Minister of Transportation
Kyle Fawcett	Associate Minister – Recovery and Reconstruction for Southwest Alberta
Rick Fraser	Associate Minister – Public Safety Associate Minister – Recovery and Reconstruction for High River
Doug Griffiths	Minister of Service Alberta
Fred Horne	Minister of Health
Doug Horner	President of Treasury Board and Minister of Finance
Sandra Jansen	Associate Minister – Family and Community Safety
Jeff Johnson	Minister of Education, Ministerial Liaison to the Canadian Forces
Heather Klimchuk	Minister of Culture
Thomas Lukaszuk	Minister of Jobs, Skills, Training and Labour
Ric McIver	Minister of Infrastructure
Diana McQueen	Minister of Energy
Frank Oberle	Minister of Aboriginal Relations
Verlyn Olson	Minister of Agriculture and Rural Development
Dave Quest	Associate Minister – Seniors
Dave Rodney	Associate Minister – Wellness
Donald Scott	Associate Minister – Accountability, Transparency and Transformation
Richard Starke	Minister of Tourism, Parks and Recreation
Greg Weadick	Associate Minister – Recovery and Reconstruction for Southeast Alberta
Teresa Woo-Paw	Associate Minister – International and Intergovernmental Relations

STANDING AND SPECIAL COMMITTEES OF THE LEGISLATIVE ASSEMBLY OF ALBERTA

Standing Committee on Alberta's Economic Future

Chair: Mr. Amery
 Deputy Chair: Mr. Fox
 Dorward Pastoor
 Eggen Quadri
 Hehr Rogers
 Kubinec Rowe
 Lemke Sarich
 Luan Stier
 McDonald

Standing Committee on the Alberta Heritage Savings Trust Fund

Chair: Mr. Casey
 Deputy Chair: Mrs. Jablonski
 Amery Khan
 Barnes Sandhu
 Dorward Sherman
 Eggen

Select Special Ethics Commissioner Search Committee

Chair: Mr. Rogers
 Deputy Chair: Mr. Quadri
 Blakeman Leskiw
 Eggen McDonald
 Goudreau Saskiw
 Lemke

Standing Committee on Families and Communities

Chair: Ms Olesen
 Deputy Chair: Mrs. Forsyth
 Cusanelli McAllister
 DeLong Notley
 Fenske Pedersen
 Fritz Sandhu
 Jablonski Swann
 Jeneroux VanderBurg
 Leskiw

Standing Committee on Legislative Offices

Chair: Mr. Jeneroux
 Deputy Chair: Mr. McDonald
 Bikman Leskiw
 Blakeman Quadri
 Brown Wilson
 DeLong Young
 Eggen

Special Standing Committee on Members' Services

Chair: Mr. Zwozdesky
 Deputy Chair: Mr. VanderBurg
 Casey Mason
 Forsyth McDonald
 Fritz Sherman
 Johnson, L. Towle
 Kubinec

Standing Committee on Private Bills

Chair: Mr. Xiao
 Deputy Chair: Mrs. Leskiw
 Allen Notley
 Brown Olesen
 Cusanelli Rowe
 DeLong Stier
 Fenske Strankman
 Fritz Swann
 Jablonski

Standing Committee on Privileges and Elections, Standing Orders and Printing

Chair: Ms Kubinec
 Deputy Chair: Mr. Rogers
 Calahasen Pastoor
 Casey Pedersen
 Kang Saskiw
 Khan VanderBurg
 Luan Wilson
 Notley Young
 Olesen

Standing Committee on Public Accounts

Chair: Mr. Anderson
 Deputy Chair: Mr. Dorward
 Allen Khan
 Amery Luan
 Barnes Pastoor
 Bilous Sandhu
 Donovan Sarich
 Fenske Young
 Hehr

Standing Committee on Resource Stewardship

Chair: Mr. Khan
 Deputy Chair: Mr. Anglin
 Allen Goudreau
 Bikman Hale
 Bilous Johnson, L.
 Blakeman Webber
 Brown Xiao
 Calahasen Young
 Casey

Legislative Assembly of Alberta

1:30 p.m.

Tuesday, May 6, 2014

[The Speaker in the chair]

Prayers

The Speaker: Hon. members, let us pray. Each day we are blessed with the presence of youth in this Assembly. In praying for the health and happiness of the youth who are with us today, we are also praying for our great province, for it is theirs to inherit. We also pray for the members of the Royal Canadian Legion, who have guided so many of our youth along the way. Godspeed and God bless. Amen.

Please be seated.

Introduction of Guests

The Speaker: Hon. members, let us begin with school groups. I have the Minister of Jobs, Skills, Training and Labour, who may have a group to introduce. If he does, I would ask him to rise now and introduce his guests.

Mr. Lukaszuk: Well, thank you, Mr. Speaker. Today with us is a group of students from Edmonton-Castle Downs, namely from St. Timothy school, that has been touring our Legislature. From what I understand – at least, that was their indication to me – they have truly enjoyed this tour and are going to learn from us today in question period. They are accompanied by their teacher, Mrs. Laura Bodnarek. I would ask all the St. Timothy students to rise and receive the warm welcome of this Assembly.

Thank you, Mr. Speaker.

The Speaker: Are there other school groups?

If not, let us move on with other important guests. Hon. Member for Leduc-Beaumont, I believe you have two groups to introduce.

Mr. Rogers: Yes, Mr. Speaker. It's my pleasure to introduce to you and through you to all members of the Assembly six members of the Royal Canadian Legion who are here today as chaperones in your Mr. Speaker's MLA for a Day program. The overarching aim of the program's activities is to further develop interest and understanding of our parliamentary system amongst Alberta's youth. The Royal Canadian Legion Alberta-Northwest Territories Command is commended for their support and cosponsorship of this program. Seated in your gallery today is Mrs. Audrey Ferguson, district commander, Alberta-Northwest Territories Command and our head chaperone for this year. She is accompanied by the student chaperones from the Alberta-Northwest Territories Command of the Royal Canadian Legion: Mr. Dave Basham, Mr. Barry Remanda, Mr. Bill Fecteau, Ms Lee Ann Leaburn, and Ms Judy Mindach. I would now ask that they all rise and receive the warm traditional welcome of this Assembly.

The Speaker: Welcome and thank you.

Hon. member, your second set of introductions.

Mr. Rogers: Well, thank you, Mr. Speaker. I'm also very pleased to introduce to you and through you to all members of the Assembly 76 students from 47 constituencies, including two from my own constituency of Leduc-Beaumont, who are here today as participants in Mr. Speaker's MLA for a Day program. The participants arrived yesterday for a presentation on the role of an MLA, enjoyed dinner at the Royal Canadian Legion, and afterward took a tour of the Legislature. This morning they debated a resolution in the Assembly Chamber, which, I understand, was won by the opposition. They visited their members' offices, attended a session in the Chamber with you, and had lunch in the rotunda with their MLAs. Following Oral Question Period they will take part in a workshop on the electoral process. Our 76 shadow colleagues, tomorrow's leaders, are seated in the members' and the public galleries. I would ask that they rise and receive the warm traditional welcome of this Assembly.

The Speaker: Welcome and thank you to all our youth for being here and participating in MLA for a Day.

Let's move on to the Minister of International and Intergovernmental Relations, followed by the Minister of Culture.

Mr. Dallas: Well, thank you, Mr. Speaker. It's a pleasure to rise and introduce to you and through you to all members of the Assembly Margot Challborn, a ministerial intern in International and Intergovernmental Relations. Margot is a master of arts student in the department of political science at the University of Alberta. Margot completed her honours bachelor of arts in political science from Carleton University in Ottawa, Ontario. She plans to pursue a PhD and combine a career in teaching and public service. She's a wonderful addition to my office, and I ask her now to rise and receive the traditional warm welcome of this Assembly.

The Speaker: The hon. Minister of Culture, followed by St. Albert.

Mrs. Klimchuk: Thank you, Mr. Speaker. I'm pleased to rise today to introduce to you and through you to all members of the Assembly Ms Juliana Ho. Juliana has started in my office in the Alberta student ministerial internship program, and I'm so excited to have her join my team for the summer. She's bringing some wonderful experience, having completed her first year of law school at the University of Alberta, and she's also pursuing a master's degree in political science. I'd ask Juliana to please rise and receive the traditional warm welcome of the Assembly.

The Speaker: Thank you.

The hon. Member for St. Albert, followed by Calgary-Foothills.

Mr. Khan: Thank you so much, Mr. Speaker. I'm very, very proud today to introduce to you and through you to all members of the Assembly a remarkable young woman named Sydney Martin. Sydney has just completed her first year of education at the University of Alberta, and I have the privilege of having Sydney serve in my office in the constituency of St. Albert as the assistant to my constituency manager. Now, I've known Sydney since she was just a baby, and it's been remarkable to see her develop into the incredible, bright, intelligent, beautiful young woman that she is today. She is serving my constituency so very well. Sydney is sitting in the members' gallery, and I'd like her to rise and receive the warm traditional welcome of the Assembly.

Well, on that note, Mr. Speaker, this is a remarkably proud day for me because as other members have attested, there are some special young people here in the MLA for a Day program. One of those people is my son Mickey Khan. Mickey, I believe, is sitting in the members' gallery, if he can rise now. It has been an absolute thrill for me to introduce him to as many colleagues in the House as I possibly can. I've got about an inch in height on him and about a hundred pounds and very little else. He's a brilliant young man. I am so proud to call him my son, Mickey, I love you.

Thank you all for the very warm welcome.

The Speaker: The hon. Member for Calgary-Foothills, followed by Dunvegan-Central Peace-Notley.

Mr. Webber: Thank you, Mr. Speaker. I would like to introduce to you and through you to all members of the Assembly Alexandra Rabbite. Alexandra is a new addition to my LAO office, and she is a recent graduate of Mount Royal University in Calgary, with a degree in journalism. I was pleased to have her work in my constituency office over the past two years. She has graciously decided to move up to Edmonton to help me here in the Legislature. My only condition of employment up here is that she become a Calgary Flames hockey fan, and that could be difficult. Anyway, I'd ask that Alexandra please rise and accept the warm welcome of the Assembly.

The Speaker: The hon. Member for Dunvegan-Central Peace-Notley, followed by the Minister of Human Services.

Mr. Goudreau: Thank you, Mr. Speaker. It's my pleasure and honour to introduce to you and through you to all members of this Assembly two special visitors who work in my constituency of Dunvegan-Central Peace-Notley. They're in Edmonton to attend the land-use conference hosted by the University of Alberta, the Alberta Land Institute. Seated in the members' gallery are Ms Rhonda Clarke-Gauthier and Mr. Adam Norris. Amongst her many responsibilities Ms Clarke-Gauthier is the executive director of the Mighty Peace Watershed Alliance, and Mr. Norris is the coordinator of the Mighty Peace Watershed Alliance. He lives in the Grande Prairie-Smoky constituency. I would ask them to rise now and receive the warm traditional welcome of the Assembly.

1:40

The Speaker: The hon. Minister of Human Services.

Mr. Bhullar: Thank you very much, Mr. Speaker. It's a pleasure today to rise and introduce a great young man from Calgary who's had the opportunity to work in many different places around North America – and now the one box he had yet to check off was Edmonton and working in a minister's office – my summer intern, Mr. Sunny Kullar. Sunny, please rise and receive the warm welcome of the Assembly.

The Speaker: Hon. Associate Minister of International and Intergovernmental Relations, have your guests arrived yet? Not yet. Perhaps later.

Are there other introductions? The hon. Member for Chestermere-Rocky View.

Mr. McAllister: Mr. Speaker, thank you. I'm pleased today to rise and introduce to you and through you to members of the Legislature three courageous Albertans, and I would ask them to stand as I introduce them. First, Dr. Nhung Tran-Davies is a mother and family doctor from Calmar, Alberta. Dr. Tran-Davies immigrated to Canada at the age of five from Saigon, a refugee of the Vietnam War. Her father was killed; her mother raised six children. I'm pretty sure her dad would be mighty proud of how she has turned out. You see, Dr. Tran-Davies has the courage to stand for something and to stand up against something. She started a petition, that we'll table later in the House, calling for the government to go back to basics in math education and make mastering the fundamentals the primary goal. She may have started the fight by herself, but she's not alone. With her today in the gallery – I would ask them to rise – are Jerry Manegre and also Sharon Maclise, two members of Dr. Nhung's army of supporters, all fighting for our kids. I would let the government know that they are not going anywhere, nor are we. Could we please give them the traditional welcome of this Assembly?

The Speaker: Thank you.

Members' Statements

The Speaker: Hon. members, we have two minutes per member for this part of our program. Let's start with Bonnyville-Cold Lake and then Rimbey-Rocky Mountain House-Sundre.

Task Force for Teaching Excellence Report

Mrs. Leskiw: Thank you, Mr. Speaker. The world is changing at an unprecedented rate, and work is being done to ensure that education in Alberta and our students will keep pace. Teachers are one of the best resources for securing a bright future for our children. With this in mind, Alberta Education formed the Task Force for Teaching Excellence in the fall of 2013. The task force was given one goal, to ensure that for every child in every classroom there is an excellent teacher. As a parent and a former teacher of 36 years this is an issue that is near and dear to my heart.

I was pleased to attend the Task Force for Teaching Excellence Symposium yesterday, where the task force released a report containing 25 specific recommendations that explore new ways to support educators and ensure that every student benefits from an excellent teacher. The task force placed a high priority on consulting Albertans, including parents, students, teachers, and other stakeholders, and considered this feedback when deciding upon their recommendations. I understand that our hon. Minister of Education will now take time to reflect upon this report and conduct additional consultation before making a decision on these recommendations.

As outlined in the vision of Inspiring Education, we want our students to become engaged thinkers, ethical citizens, and entrepreneurial spirits. Teachers are a vital part of achieving that vision. Our government is working to ensure that our teachers remain among the world's best by being well supported, well trained, and well motivated.

I would like to thank everyone who participated in the work done by the Task Force for Teaching Excellence, from the task force members themselves to the thousands of Albertans who participated in their consultation process.

I hope that many Albertans will take the time to review the report, which has been posted on the Alberta Education website, and I look forward to . . .

The Speaker: Thank you.

The hon. Member for Rimbey-Rocky Mountain House-Sundre, followed by Edmonton-Manning.

AltaLink

Mr. Anglin: Thank you, Mr. Speaker. Alberta taxpayers are about to give billions of dollars to a private company by handing over Alberta's golden goose to one of wealthiest men in the world, and there's little Albertans can do about it. The current PC government set up the rules so that private companies can use public dollars free of charge.

SNC-Lavalin recently announced that they would be selling the golden goose known as AltaLink to Warren Buffett's Berkshire Hathaway. Mr. Buffett is one of the world's wealthiest men. In simple terms, AltaLink started as an $850 million company. Because they are a regulated monopoly, Albertans guarantee AltaLink an annual income of approximately 9 per cent. The public by law must pay for all of AltaLink's capital improvements. It is truly a corporate golden goose. Over the last 10 years Alberta ratepayers paid 100 per cent, billions, for new towers, poles, wires, and cables. This public investment increased AltaLink's value to $3.2 billion. You do the math, Mr. Speaker. The sale of AltaLink to Warren Buffett's Berkshire Hathaway is nothing more than a publicly funded subsidy that SNC-Lavalin reaped to the tune of a $2.35 billion profit.

What do Albertans get for their investment? The Fraser Institute just published a report yesterday confirming that Albertans pay some of the highest costs for electricity in North America. It's no wonder Mr. Buffett is considered one of the shrewdest investors in the world. This newly purchased golden goose has a guaranteed income of 9 per cent, and the public will pay 100 per cent to increase his investment to as much as $9 billion or $12 billion over the next four years. Mr. Buffett will truly enjoy his PC-created golden goose at every dinner, but it's the ratepayers of Alberta that got plucked.

The Speaker: The hon. Member for Edmonton-Manning.

Mental Health Services

Mr. Sandhu: Thank you, Mr. Speaker. This week is Mental Health Week, and we as Albertans are challenged to take care of our mental health. My constituents in Edmonton-Manning and I have serious concerns about the state of the mental health system. Through personal experience within the community I can speak personally regarding the deaths of five adults. Two weeks ago I attended the funeral of a 28-year-old man who committed suicide. He was ready to get married this summer in June. Had his parents tried to get help for him, they may have been unsuccessful as he was over 18. This young man may have been saved.

Our current mental health system prohibits guardians of adults with mental health issues from obtaining help for those people. Adults over 18, regardless of their state of mind, are required to come forward and ask for help themselves. Therefore, neither parents nor spouses have a way to assist them. Some of these young people commit suicide or harm others as they find it difficult to live in society.

A tragic example involves a good friend of mine who was a heavy-duty mechanic and later on became a taxi driver. He was a very happy and loving man who would give anything to help others. One evening in his cab he was beaten up. His injuries were so bad that he is now fully handicapped. The person who carried out the attack had been released from Alberta Hospital and ended up killing his sister-in-law the same night.

Mr. Speaker, I know this is an issue that many other MLAs are aware of. We can start by asking how we can make changes to support the families who look after loved ones with mental health needs.

Thank you, Mr. Speaker.

The Speaker: We have time to start one more. Hon. leader of the ND opposition, I understand you have a member's statement as well.

Government Policies

Mr. Mason: Thank you very much, Mr. Speaker. Ever since the 2012 election this PC government has attacked public employees, and it seems they want to blame it all on the former Premier, the Member for Calgary-Elbow. Now that they're so far down in the polls that they can't see up, they're trying to make nice, but they're backtracking on policies they spent months defending. One look at this PC government's record proves that while they may be trying to make nice now, it will not last.

First, the Minister of Justice and the former Deputy Premier mishandled complaints from correctional officers about workplace safety. Then when mishandled complaints boiled over into a wildcat strike, the government negotiated a return to work in exchange for a promise not to retaliate. They broke that promise. But the government didn't just retaliate against the correctional officers; they retaliated against all Alberta public-sector workers with bills 45 and 46. Bill 45 was an unprecedented attack on freedom of speech. Bill 46 short-circuited the arbitration process. We have the current Premier to thank for those two bills.

1:50

Not to be outdone, the Minister of Finance launched his own attack on Alberta public-sector pensions. While the government has put these changes on hold now, they'll continue to loom over the province while the PC Party chooses a new leader.

Then yesterday, just as the PCs were backtracking on that, the Education minister picked a fight with our teachers. Instead of focusing on reducing class sizes and shoring up our crumbling infrastructure, the minister's task force is suggesting that the real problem in our schools is that we don't have enough supervision over teachers, and they want to take away the right of teachers as a profession to police themselves.

All in all, Mr. Speaker, this PC government's agenda amounts to an attack on the people who teach our kids, who keep us healthy, and who build our province. They just can't blame it all on the previous Premier. A new leader won't fix it. It's just what Conservatives do.

Oral Question Period

The Speaker: Hon. members, you're reminded: 35 seconds maximum for each question, 35 seconds maximum for each answer.

Let's start with the Leader of Her Majesty's Loyal Opposition. First main set of questions.

Electricity Prices

Ms Smith: Thank you. Mr. Speaker, we have more issues the government needs to apologize for today. Every Albertan who opens a power bill has reason to be sorry that this government was re-elected. A Fraser Institute report shows that out of 119 North American cities Edmonton pays the second-highest power rates and Calgary pays the seventh-highest. Somehow in a province where we basically give our coal away to generators and where natural gas prices are close to historic lows, we have some of the highest power prices in North America. Will the Premier apologize to Albertans for messing up the electricity system and harming our economy?

The Speaker: The hon. Minister of Energy.

Mrs. McQueen: Well, thank you, Mr. Speaker. What the report fails to lay out are the legacy costs and the debt that those other jurisdictions have. We do not have subsidies in our electricity system here, and when you factor out the debt and the cheap hydroelectricity that some of the other provinces have and take advantage of, our prices are very competitive in this province.

Ms Smith: I think I heard the Energy minister say that debt is bad.

Mr. Speaker, the Fraser Institute report shows that only in Honolulu does it cost more for electricity than in Edmonton, and if you look outside, you'll see that it isn't Hawaii out there. High electricity prices impact the ability of our economy to attract new business. Having the most expensive electricity harms Albertans. Will the Premier apologize for the string of failed Energy ministers who have done nothing to address our broken electricity system?

The Speaker: The hon. minister.

Mrs. McQueen: Well, thank you, Mr. Speaker. In fact, if you look at how many people are moving to this province every single year because we have competitive taxes, we have a great economy, this is the place where people are coming to invest. Alberta is a great place to invest in and to live.

Ms Smith: That's what we want to make sure we retain, but we won't if we have these kinds of high power prices.

Yesterday we pointed out that the government's poor decisions will see one transmission company realize a $2.4 billion capital gain in just 12 years. The Energy minister dismissed our concerns and told us that she is "making sure the prices are affordable." Well, today we learned that our power prices are among the highest on the continent. Will the Premier actually do something about this, or will he and his government just continue to pretend that nothing is wrong?

Mr. Hancock: Mr. Speaker, what we've seen is the ultimate conversion. Now we have the Wildrose Party pretending to be the NDP. The fact of the matter is that this is a good place to do business, and some businesses make a profit, but what we are making sure of is that Alberta consumers have the electricity they need when they need it at a reasonable and affordable price. That is part of the economy that's created because of strong government policies. That's the kind of economy that's created the quality of life in this province, the quality of life that attracts those hundred thousand people every year that the hon. Minister of Energy was talking about.

The Speaker: Second main set of questions.

Ms Smith: Well, we all know the Member for Edmonton-Highlands-Norwood is our sensei, so it wouldn't be surprising that we have some areas of agreement.

Family Care Clinics

Ms Smith: When family care clinics were announced during the last election, Albertans were told that they were the solution to the primary health care crunch. They were such a great new idea that we'd get 140 of them. We weren't convinced, and we've been asking the government how they can possibly build all of these family care clinics without duplicating the work of the primary care networks. It turns out they can't, so we won't get 140 of them. Will the Premier apologize to Albertans for wasting their time and their money on this poorly thought out scheme?

Mr. Hancock: Mr. Speaker, what this government is proud to do is to look thoroughly at how we can achieve the outcomes that Albertans want, and those outcomes in primary care are health care professionals working together to support Albertans' desires to be healthy. That keeps Albertans out of the acute-care system. That helps them manage their chronic conditions. That helps them with the supports that they need to take responsibility for their own health. That is a good thing. That can be accomplished working through primary care networks. It can be accomplished working through family care clinics. The important part is the outcome for Albertans, and that's what we're achieving.

Ms Smith: Mr. Speaker, the Premier can pretend this isn't a full retreat on family care clinics, but it is.

Even in her resignation speech six weeks ago the Premier committed to 80 family care clinics. The Health minister was talking about 24 clinics not that long ago. Now it's only nine. But these clinics have been a failure. In Slave Lake the pilot project there has dramatically reduced the number of doctors that serve that community. Will the Premier apologize and order the Health minister to stop this bad idea?

Mr. Horne: Well, Mr. Speaker, the hon. Leader of the Opposition can continue her preoccupation with numbers and talk about institutions and providers. [interjections] What we will do is exactly what the Premier said. We will continue to focus on opening the front door of the health care system by investing in primary health care, by using the financial resources that we have to deliver services to Albertans right now. If she wants to continue with her academic debate, she's more than welcome to it. This government has delivered for Albertans.

The Speaker: Hon. members, before this goes any further, let's just keep the noise down to a dull roar so that members can hear. I'm getting signals that people are having trouble hearing each other, so let's pay them some respect as well.

Second supplemental.

Ms Smith: Well, Mr. Speaker, it's becoming obvious that they on the other side don't use numbers when they're trying to figure out policy, but I think they should start.

This government needs to give up on family care clinics and put its energy into improving and expanding primary care networks. This Premier should admit that family care clinics were nothing but an election stunt created by the Premier's campaign advisers, the same people, incidentally, who just might be the next Premier's campaign advisers. Will the Premier apologize for playing politics with our health care?

Mr. Hancock: Mr. Speaker, what I would say is that that hon. member is so delighted with the work that I am doing that she sent me a free membership card, and I had to return it today. [interjections] I had to send it back because I don't want to be a part of their party, whether it's free or not.

In fact, we are actually doing the work for Albertans that Albertans want to have done. We're working on primary care in a way in which every Albertan can have access to a primary care network, access to a doctor and a suite of health care professionals to help them in their time of need. That's what's good for Albertans. That's what Albertans want, so that's what we're delivering.

The Speaker: Okay. So we've had one outburst on the opposition side. We've had one on the government side. We're even.

Let's leave it there and move on, please, to the third main set of questions.

Disaster Recovery Program Administration

Ms Smith: Mr. Speaker, no Albertans deserve a more complete apology than those who have been completely let down by the government's handling of the disaster recovery program. The last Premier promised that everyone hit by the flood would be looked after. Well, the only people completely looked after have been this government's friends who landed sole-source contracts to spin the flood, to mismanage the DRP program, and to not repair people's homes. Will the Premier admit that these parts of the disaster recovery effort have been horribly mismanaged, and will he apologize to Albertans?

The Speaker: The hon. minister responsible for Municipal Affairs.

Mr. Weadick: Well, thank you, Mr. Speaker. It's a pleasure to rise today and talk about the good work we've done through the disaster relief program here in Alberta, how we've managed to deal with 90 per cent of 10,000 homes impacted, how we're working our way through small-business claims and trying to allow these people to get their businesses back on track. We care about these people. We don't politicize it. We're not trying to take advantage. We're simply trying to help, and we'll continue to do that.

Ms Smith: Not the case, Mr. Speaker. All over southern Alberta residents have been revictimized by the disaster recovery program. While one government MLA was studying flood mitigation in Palm Springs, homeowners in Britannia, Roxboro, Bowness, Exshaw, Bragg Creek, Redwood Meadows, Medicine Hat, the MD of Foothills, High River, and many other places were mistreated by the disaster recovery program. Thursday night I'll hold a town hall in Calgary-Elbow for these residents. When can they expect some help from the new disaster recovery program, or is there going to be another apology coming for the mess of that one, too?

2:00

The Speaker: The hon. associate minister responsible.

Mr. Weadick: Well, thank you, Mr. Speaker. I appreciate the member opposite naming some of those communities that we are working in and supporting citizens in Alberta. We have families and homes in each of those communities that have been rebuilt. We also continue to work with some people that are trying to make those tough decisions about how they rebuild, where they move forward from here. These are not easy times. We have almost 500 small-business files stuck in tax hold while they work through their tax issues. These are not simple answers. Others would like to try to make it look that way. We're here to help the people, not just to talk about it.

Ms Smith: Mr. Speaker, paying LandLink $18 million in fees to process $49 million worth of payments is not a success.

The environment minister recently declared, however, that we didn't make any mistakes last year in handling the flood. Albertans know better, and some even laughed out loud when they heard that the minister had said that. Maybe this line was given to him by Navigator, friends of Premiers past and future, who got lucrative sole-source contracts to supplement the spin efforts of the government's 200-odd communications staffers. Doesn't the Premier think he should at least apologize for that?

The Speaker: The hon. associate minister.

Mr. Weadick: Thank you, Mr. Speaker. I'd actually like to take this opportunity to thank LandLink for the work that they have done with us over the past year. This was a very small group that was not prepared for the largest flood that's ever happened, and they pulled together groups of people, tried to train them, and tried to help us.

The upside on this also is that the costs for LandLink are fully DRPable, Mr. Speaker. This does not cost the taxpayers of Alberta because it is a DRP cost. They're delivering on the ground as best they can in a very huge and unexpected situation.

The Speaker: The hon. Member for Edmonton-Meadowlark, the leader of the Liberal opposition.

Government Communications

Dr. Sherman: Thank you, Mr. Speaker. The current Premier has been around for many years, and he's been minister of almost every portfolio, many with problems. Until late last year he was Minister of Human Services. During his tenure he fought tooth and nail to avoid releasing the true number of children who died in government care. He insists that only 59 children died, but when the current minister took over, we learned the true number was a shocking 741, about one child dying every week in government care. To the Premier and former Minister of Human Services: why didn't you come clean about these tragic deaths when you had the chance, when you were minister?

Mr. Hancock: Mr. Speaker, very little of what the hon. member just said is true. In fact, we did make public the numbers of the children who died in care. The large number that he's talking about is the number of children who in some way were at some time associated with the system. That's still tragic. That's still something that we need to be concerned about. We didn't fight tooth and nail to hide those numbers. We published those numbers. We didn't fight tooth and nail to avoid giving information to the Journal. In fact, there was a process that they went through, the Privacy Commissioner process: asked for release, asked for interpretation. It took a little time. There was no court fight. There was no fight at all.

Dr. Sherman: Premier, stop spinning. That minister came clean; you didn't.

When the truth about deaths of children in care finally came out, this government went into damage control. An Alberta Liberal FOIP shows – yep, you guessed it – that Navigator Ltd., a who's who of Tory land, the folks that this Premier says have a unique talent, got an untendered $25,000 contract to write some news releases and organize a round-table. This is the same gentleman who has a unique talent for winning PC campaigns. To the Premier. You've got a well-financed Public Affairs Bureau. Why do you need to get these Tory insiders to repair your government's reputational challenges every time?

The Speaker: The hon. Minister of Human Services.

Mr. Bhullar: Thank you very much, Mr. Speaker. It took me about 27 days to fundamentally shift the ways in which this government shares information about children in the child intervention system. I did that through the Christmas period with my staff, without a press secretary, and, yes, with some outside help. The end result: we have a more transparent, more accountable system, that I promise we are going to work every single day to make better.

The Speaker: Final supplemental.

Dr. Sherman: Thank you, Mr. Speaker. It sure looks like this government is constantly funneling public money to political operatives: sole-source, untendered contracts. Let's review. The only declared PC leadership candidate has deep ties to Navigator's managing principal, Randy Dawson. Also, a couple of cabinet ministers, including one of them across the way, were quick to express support for another leadership candidate. So there's a good chance that we're going to see Navigator again at a leadership race or an election near you. Premier, don't you see that this is improper? When will you put a stop to giving public taxpayer money to political operatives in Tory land?

Mr. Hancock: Well, Mr. Speaker, that's a totally unfair and inappropriate characterization. The government does have a policy with respect to sole sourcing. You sole source when it's an urgent matter that needs specific talent or when there's a specific talent that you need that someone else doesn't have the same ability to deliver. Those are the two criteria under which contracts can be sole sourced. I expect that every member of government would adhere to those criteria and that if a contract is sole sourced, it's not a question of whether they're your friends or not; it's a question of whether the matter is urgent or whether there's a unique talent.

The Speaker: The hon. leader of the New Democrat opposition.

Electricity System

Mr. Mason: Thank you very much, Mr. Speaker. Last week we learned that Warren Buffett intends to purchase AltaLink, which operates about 85 per cent of the transmission lines in Alberta. Electricity transmission has become a lucrative business in Alberta thanks to this PC government's deregulation agenda. Mr. Buffett stands to double or triple his investment, and that will all be paid for by Alberta electricity consumers. My question is to the Premier. Will he stop this profiteering at the expense of Albertans and block the sale of AltaLink?

The Speaker: The hon. Minister of Energy.

Mrs. McQueen: Thank you, Mr. Speaker. We encourage development in this province, and there's a strong regulatory process in place. We have the federal process, and we have the regulator process. What's important is that the regulator makes sure that the costs for Albertans are fair, and if Albertans want to have input, if it's a public hearing, they'll have the opportunity to go before the regulator to be able to bring their concerns forward.

The Speaker: First supplemental.

Mr. Mason: Thanks very much, Mr. Speaker. Well, it's hard-working Albertans who've been paying for AltaLink's success, not corporate bigwigs. Each month Albertans pay transmission fees, that are set by the AUC in order to guarantee a rate of return for their corporate friends. Between 2011 and 2015 the transmission fees paid by Albertans will have doubled. Even the Fraser Institute, a Wildrose think tank, says that power prices in Alberta are too high. To the Premier: why don't you do your job and represent the interests of Albertans instead of corporate power prices, that are just going to bankrupt Albertans?

The Speaker: The hon. Minister of Energy.

Mrs. McQueen: Thank you, Mr. Speaker. Every day this government represents the interests of Albertans. We are making sure that as this province continues to grow, we have transmission and generation for Albertans to be able to turn on the lights. It is affordable in this province when you take out the hydro, when you take out the fact that there's not the debt. Alberta is very competitive, and that's why companies and people continue to come in droves to Alberta, because it's a great place to live, work, and raise our families.

Mr. Mason: Well, you know, I wish this Energy minister would spare us the rhetoric and the message boxes and actually talk turkey about what's going on in this province.

AltaLink could be worth $9 billion to $12 billion, up to four times more than what the deal is for, Mr. Speaker, as soon as they hook up the additional electricity lines. That's an unearned profit by Mr. Buffett that's going to come at the expense of electricity consumers. To the Premier, since we get nothing but rhetoric from the Energy minister: will your government block this windfall deal for one of the wealthiest men in the world and stop the gouging of Albertans by corporate highwaymen?

The Speaker: The hon. Minister of Energy.

Mrs. McQueen: Thank you, Mr. Speaker. As I've said, it's got a regulatory process for any of the transmission or generation, and all costs, down to the penny, must be justified by the companies to the AUC. The AUC won't allow companies to pad their pockets out of the expenses of Alberta ratepayers. They make sure of that. That's why it's an independent, arm's-length regulator.

The Speaker: Thank you.

It's just getting difficult to hear, folks. Please, let's just nail this down to a dull roar if we could. We won't eliminate the noise totally – I know that – but let's be respectful of the questions and the answers.

Let's go to Fort McMurray-Wood Buffalo. No preambles from here on, please.

In Vitro Fertilization Funding

Mr. Allen: Thank you, Mr. Speaker. One out of every 6 to 8 couples in this province will experience infertility. Fortunately, we have fertility clinics in Alberta. However, fertility clinics or services are costly and not funded by the provincial government. As a result, many couples choose to implant several embryos at one time in hopes of increasing their chances for a successful pregnancy. In many cases this can lead to significant costs and additional burdens on our health care system due to complications arising from multiple births. To the Minister of Health: why is the cost of treating subfertility with in vitro fertilization borne largely by patients rather than Alberta Health?

The Speaker: The hon. Minister of Health.

2:10

Mr. Horne: Well, thank you very much, Mr. Speaker. I'm not sure if the hon. member heard, but we actually had a question on this very topic yesterday, and I did answer the question, and I did explain. It was a very thorough question, if I may say so. I did explain to the hon. member yesterday, as I will explain today, that we are actually studying IVF under the Alberta health technologies decision-making process.

Mr. Speaker, this service is available in only two provinces in the country. There are many questions to be answered, but we are aware of the need of Albertans.

The Speaker: Thank you.

First supplemental.

Mr. Allen: Thank you. To the same minister: given that the University of Alberta produced a white paper in 2001 outlining the real costs and issues arising out of IVF and its lack of funding, what key elements would have to change to allow IVF to become a funded benefit?

Mr. Horne: Well, Mr. Speaker, as I said, again in answer to a very similar question yesterday, this is not a question of costs. This is a question of evaluating what is a very complicated technology, and if we were to fund it as part of the Alberta health care insurance plan, there are a number of ethical questions that would have to be answered as well. Those include the age at which a woman would be eligible to receive the treatment and the number of trials that would be permitted under the insured service. There are a number of questions that are not simple and that we will take the appropriate time to evaluate.

The Speaker: Final supplemental.

Mr. Allen: Thank you. Again to the same minister. Studies have suggested that to have a healthy child, some infertile couples may accept a 20 per cent risk of death and give up to 29 per cent of their income. Legislation mandates access to medically necessary services without financial barriers. Will the minister review the definition of medical necessity and consider inclusion of IVF?

Mr. Horne: Well, Mr. Speaker, the concept and definition of medically necessary services are set out, actually, by the Canada Health Act. It is a very simple and, some might argue, an outdated definition. It refers only to the provision of physician and hospital and some oral-dental services, but the question that we should all be asking is on how best to serve the needs of couples who face infertility in our society. We are looking, as I said, at the experience of Quebec and, more recently, Ontario. There are a number of complex questions to be answered, and we will have some results from that review in due course.

Educational System Reform

Mr. McAllister: Mr. Speaker, when it comes to public education in Alberta, this government is showing profound disrespect. It is ignoring parents and their concerns over declining math scores in their call to focus on the fundamentals, it is ignoring the advice of academic experts on the content that should be the primary focus, and yesterday the government doubled down on Inspiring Ed, using the Task Force for Teaching Excellence to threaten teachers, the minister giving himself the power to blacklist teachers if they don't teach the fuzzy math, the discovery approach, that they so like. When will the Minister of Education start listening to real Albertans?

Mr. Hancock: Mr. Speaker, that preamble is so wrong as to be offensive. That is not what the Minister of Education did yesterday. In fact, excellence in teaching is fundamental to an excellent education system. We have an excellent education system; ergo, we have excellent teaching. But we have to look to the future and continue to find ways to ensure that in every classroom for every child there is an excellent teacher as we go forward. That's what the Task Force for Teaching Excellence was about. That's not government policy. It's recommendations from a task force of experts that were asked to look into it. They've looked into it, they've reported, and there will be opportunity to discuss those recommendations.

Mr. McAllister: Looking to the future does not mean forgetting the past, Mr. Speaker.

Dr. Nhung Tran-Davies is here today. She has repeatedly asked for and been denied a meeting with the Minister of Education.

Given that last week the Premier apologized for not listening to Albertans – he apologized for taking them for granted – I ask the Minister of Education: will you turn the page, then? Given all the work that Dr. Nhung Tran-Davies has done and all the support she has from grassroots Albertans, I will bring her to your office after the business of the day. Do you care to meet with her, Minister?

Mrs. McQueen: Mr. Speaker, I would like the House and that hon. member to know that I had the opportunity to meet with Dr. Tran-Davies in my constituency office last week, and the question that she asked me was: would I be able to arrange a meeting for her with the minister? Right away the minister said: absolutely. So I look forward to seeing Dr. Tran-Davies' meeting with the minister when he is back.

Mr. McAllister: How many times do you have to be hit over the head before something finally sinks in?

To the Premier. Given that you said, "I apologize for losing touch with our grassroots, for not listening . . . the way that we should have; this behaviour is . . . not acceptable," are you prepared to listen to the doctor and 14,000-plus Albertans, or is it going to take a new Premier and a new Minister of Education to take on the file?

Mr. Hancock: Well, Mr. Speaker, one of the things the hon. member should know is that there's a significant difference between learning from the past and living in the past. I would suppose that the hon. member is an expert at the latter and wants to continue to do so.

The Minister of Education is listening to Albertans. He's had the Task Force for Teaching Excellence; it's been out listening to Albertans. There's a curriculum development process that is listening to Albertans. In fact, that's what this government does every day.

Temporary Foreign Worker Program

Mrs. Jablonski: Just like a number of members who have already raised this issue in the House, I've heard from many of my business leaders and members of the Red Deer Chamber of Commerce about their urgent concerns with the temporary foreign worker program. You've heard it before, but I'll say it again. Alberta has a unique labour market in comparison to the rest of Canada. I don't understand why the federal government thinks that one size fits all. This is an urgent matter. I've had small-business owners tell me that without the temporary foreign workers, they may have to shut their business down. To the Minister of Jobs, Skills, Training and Labour: does the federal government know that there is a labour shortage in Alberta, and what exactly are you doing to raise these urgent concerns with the federal minister?

Mr. Lukaszuk: Well, Mr. Speaker, it's very difficult to tell what the federal government does or doesn't know on this particular file, but I can tell you what we know. We do indeed know that there are sectors of this industry that are doing whatever they can in their capacity to attract and retain Canadians and, despite that, they are facing labour shortages and, as a result of that, are relying on TFWs. We also know that the TFW program was imperfect, was lending itself to abuse. We also know that if someone abuses the program, you should be dealing with the abusers and not the entire industry.

Mrs. Jablonski: To the same minister. Knowing that the temporary foreign worker program has some serious flaws, did the federal minister consult with you, and will you ask the federal minister if they will consider redesigning the program so that it can be a permanent foreign worker plan?

Mr. Lukaszuk: Mr. Speaker, I have to report to this Chamber that the minister has neither consulted nor communicated his decision to this government or to, I believe, any of our colleagues, counterparts, in the other provinces. I can advise the hon. Member for Red Deer-North – and I know that she’s a great advocate because she cosponsored a meeting with the Chamber of Commerce in Red Deer – that I have participated in a teleconference with all of my counterparts from coast to coast to coast, and we are all in agreement that the TFW program is now our number one Canadian priority, and it will be discussed at the upcoming federal-provincial-territorial meeting.

Mrs. Jablonski: Minister, you’ve already mentioned that there’s been abuse and exploitation of the program. What can Alberta do to help ensure that abuse and exploitation of the program will not happen?

Mr. Lukaszuk: Mr. Speaker, the Alberta government is more than willing to assist the federal government in this endeavour. We do agree with the federal government that all jobs in Canada are for Canadians first. We all have respect for employment standards departments throughout the country, who are willing to work with the government in not only reviewing the program, implementing an improved version of this program, but also making sure that we bring in compliance measures and assist the federal government in enforcing those compliance measures in individual provinces.

Continuity of Care for Children at Risk

Mrs. Towle: Yesterday the shocking report into the death of two-week-old Baby Annie was released. During her pregnancy Baby Annie’s mom was prescribed nearly 5,000 pills by 11 different doctors. The primary doctor was apparently unaware of her pregnancy and her obstetrician was initially unaware of her drug abuse. When the obstetrician finally discovered the prescription, she left a message for her primary doctor, a message that was never returned. The Health Quality Council report into the death of Greg Price identified these same types of breakdowns. To the Minister of Health: when can we expect a real plan to ensure that the similarities around the deaths of Baby Annie and Greg Price . . .

The Speaker: Thank you.

2:20

Mr. Horne: Well, Mr. Speaker, this would be my first opportunity to express my sympathy to the family for this very tragic death. I actually say that in this sense I agree with the hon. member in that she draws the correct analogy between the issues related to the prescribing and dispensing of drugs in this case and some of the issues that were raised in the continuity of care report prepared by the Health Quality Council. The fact is that health professions in this province have a responsibility, and they are regulated to share information. They are obliged to share information when treating the same patient. There was obviously a very serious breakdown in this case.

Mrs. Towle: Given that in 2011 an expert panel reviewing the death of another young child in government care called on Alberta Health Services and child services to collaborate on issues of at-risk children and given that yesterday’s report into the death of Baby Annie says, “The Ministry of Human Services has indicated that this recommendation has been accepted and completed. However, this approach was not evident in Annie’s case” – and clearly the minister agrees – can someone in the government explain to the House whether or not that recommendation has actually been implemented, and if it has, why the heck has it not actually been followed?

The Speaker: The hon. Minister of Human Services.

Mr. Bhullar: Thank you, Mr. Speaker. First of all, I’d like to say that one of the things that I’m looking to do with the passage of Bill 11 is ensure that all recommendations are tracked, the response from government is reported, and then the Health Quality Council will ensure that the recommendations and the actions are actually followed up on. That’s a change I am looking to make with the passage of this bill.

Further, in 2012 the AVIRT teams in Calgary and Edmonton were established, which are multidisciplinary teams between justice, health, and children’s services, to work with high-needs infants.

The Speaker: Thank you.

Mrs. Towle: Sadly, those recommendations were three years ago.

Given that Human Services and Alberta Health are two massive ministries and that three years ago another death of a child in care report tasked the ministries to work together in cases of at-risk children and given that three years later the Child and Youth Advocate has indicated that these past recommendations continue to be ignored, Ministers, clearly there’s a problem. How can you tell Albertans that all recommendations are being followed or have been implemented when there’s a 14-day-old baby who just finished dying and we still have not had your ministries figure this out?

Mr. Horne: Well, Mr. Speaker, I’d like to really caution this hon. member in making generalizations about this case or any other. The fact is that my ministry works very closely with the Ministry of Human Services in a number of areas that pertain to children at risk. But in the final analysis there can be no excuse for the failure of health care providers to exercise appropriate oversight over the prescribing and dispensing of medication, nor can they ignore the responsibility to share information about common patients to ensure that these sorts of situations are identified and acted upon before these sorts of tragic circumstances occur.

The Speaker: Thank you.

The hon. Member for Calgary-Mountain View, followed by Edmonton-Calder.

Support for Vulnerable Albertans

Dr. Swann: Thank you very much, Mr. Speaker. Alberta’s Social Policy Framework touts commitment to ensuring, quote, resources for success and well-being, end quote, yet children and vulnerable Albertans on meagre assistance in this high-cost province have no annual cost-of-living increase, are undermined by clawbacks of earned assets, and even social housing applicants are excluded if their pension fund exceeds $7,000. To the minister: do you not recognize that a registered disability pension plan or education savings plans clawback at $7,000 for people needing social housing is mean-spirited and contrary to your own policy framework?

The Speaker: Thank you.

Mr. Bhullar: Mr. Speaker, the member actually brings up a good point. This is something that I've had some discussions on very recently with members of the poverty action groups across Alberta, particularly in Calgary, and this is something that I've committed to them, that I will start to evaluate and see if there are some specific areas here that require some adjustments.

The Speaker: First supplemental.

Dr. Swann: Thank you, Mr. Speaker. Well, when will the minister index the meagre income received under AISH and Alberta Works for our most vulnerable Albertans, including children, and genuinely give them a hand up?

The Speaker: The hon. minister.

Mr. Bhullar: Thank you, Mr. Speaker. Well, our AISH payments are, in fact, the highest in the country. They went up over $400 recently. In addition, individuals are able to apply for and receive various other mechanisms for assistance as well. In Alberta when people need a hand up, when they need some assistance, it's there for them.

Dr. Swann: So I guess the cost-of-living increase is only reserved for members of the Legislature.

How can this minister argue that $933 a month for a single mother and child – $933 a month for a single mother and child – builds capacity for success and well-being?

Mr. Bhullar: Mr. Speaker, I didn't know the member opposite was receiving wage increases every year. We aren't, and it's better that way.

Regardless, Mr. Speaker, the point is that there's a variety of different systems and tools and programs in place to support vulnerable Albertans, and they'll be there in a balanced way to ensure that people are protected when they need it.

The Speaker: Thank you.

The hon. Member for Edmonton-Calder, followed by Rimbey-Rocky Mountain House-Sundre.

Primary Health Care Delivery

Mr. Eggen: Thank you, Mr. Speaker. Broken promises and wasting time and money. This PC government was elected on a plan to build 140 family care clinics, but last week the Minister of Health admitted that only 8 per cent of that promise will be fulfilled. Albertans don't want excuses; they want results. Will the Minister of Health please explain why he spent two years pumping out empty rhetoric about family care clinics? Was this just another cheap trick to get elected?

Mr. Horne: Mr. Speaker, what we did last week at an important announcement, that the hon. member was only too happy to attend, was unveil a very comprehensive primary health care strategy for Alberta that talked about the role of both family care clinics and primary care networks in delivering primary health care services to Albertans. That announcement included an additional $79 million investment as part of Budget 2014 to support services like same-day and next-day access to health care services for citizens of this province.

Mr. Eggen: Well, Mr. Speaker, given that instead of delivering on these promised family care clinics, this government doubled down on primary care networks, to the Minister of Health: why did you abandon the publicly owned family care model, which is a very, very good model, by the way, and hand it over to a private consortium of doctors?

Mr. Horne: Well, I'm not sure I understand the question. It sounded at the beginning like the hon. member was expressing preference for a family care clinic model over a primary care network. Whatever he may have been alluding to, what I can say is that our commitment is to use the financial resources that have been invested by Albertans in the budget of the Ministry of Health to deliver health care services to people that need them right now, and that's true, Mr. Speaker, whether it's a primary care network or a family care clinic or any one of a number of other innovative models that are out there in the health care system today.

Mr. Eggen: You know, that's very interesting, Mr. Speaker. Given that for more than two years we waited, with community health sitting in limbo, while 137 of the 140 family care clinics failed to materialize, can the minister account for all of the lost health care during this time: the measles epidemic, mental health, overcrowded emergency rooms, and much, much more?

Mr. Horne: Again, Mr. Speaker, I'm not sure I understand the point of the question. What I can tell the hon. member is that all of the things that he talked about continue to be funded and continue to be priorities for this government. Things as basic as vaccination against childhood diseases are, in fact, part of primary health care, as are the other things that he mentioned in his list. What would be very interesting is to hear the hon. member talk about the importance of primary health care, how we need to stop doing things in the hospital that we can and should do in the community and get behind the front-line health care professionals in Alberta who are doing exactly that.

The Speaker: The hon. Member for Rimbey-Rocky Mountain House-Sundre, followed by Edmonton-South West.

Electricity Prices

(continued)

Mr. Anglin: Thank you, Mr. Speaker. This government likes to boast about how well the Alberta electricity system is working. Unfortunately, Albertans don't buy their propaganda or spin. The Fraser Institute confirmed yesterday what Albertans already know: Albertans pay some of the highest costs for electricity in North America. To the minister: can you at least emulate your leader and give Albertans an insincere apology for this failure to deliver lower electricity utility bills?

The Speaker: The hon. Minister of Energy.

Mrs. McQueen: Well, thank you, Mr. Speaker. As I said – and perhaps he wasn't listening to his leader's questions because it sounds remotely the same. I'll give the same answer. When you take away the hydro piece and you look at the debt, Alberta is very competitive. Why do you think so many people are moving to Alberta and coming to invest in Alberta? It's because this is a great place to live, work, and do business.

2:30

Mr. Anglin: At least it was insincere.

Can the minister explain why she believes the market is working for Albertans when two independent, separate studies now confirm that out of 119 cities studied, only Honolulu pays more for electricity than Edmonton small businesses?

Mrs. McQueen: Well, Mr. Speaker, this is rewind, but that's okay, and I sincerely mean that so that you're not offended. [interjections] In Alberta private operators build and they invest in infrastructure. I would like to know if that hon. member and that hon. party would prefer that we re-regulate the system and not allow open and competitive markets in Alberta. This government believes in open and competitive markets, and our electricity prices are affordable in this province.

The Speaker: Thank you.
Let's try this again.

Mr. Anglin: That's so inaccurate that that's offensive to all Albertans.

Given that we are an energy-producing province and not an island in the Pacific that has to import just about everything – aloha – why should Albertans trust this government when the minister continues to claim that electricity costs are low when everyone can plainly see that the total cost of an electric utility bill has doubled over the years and that it continues to go up?

The Speaker: The hon. Minister of Energy.

Mrs. McQueen: Well, thank you, Mr. Speaker. Frankly, sincerely, I'd like you to know and the House to know and Albertans to know that over the past 10 years electricity prices in Alberta have actually been competitive with all other provinces that do not have access to cheap hydroelectricity. I wish we had cheap hydroelectricity in this province, but we don't. But we're competitive. We don't have the debt that those other provinces carry. [interjections] The reason people come to Alberta is because this is a great place to invest.

The Speaker: Just a little too much bantering across the bow from both sides there.

Let's go on to Edmonton-South West and see if we can be heard.

Postsecondary Education Funding

Mr. Jeneroux: Thank you, Mr. Speaker. Like many Albertans, I'm glad to see institutions of postsecondary education in this province receive a funding boost from last year's budget. Talking with those who attend or are employed by these institutions has shown me that these increases are enthusiastically welcomed, especially considering that this funding will assist the construction of new learning and research facilities. However, that's where the good news of my preamble ends. The fact remains that funding levels have not recovered to the point they were at prior to Budget 2013. My question is to the Premier. Can we still expect additional funding increases for Alberta postsecondary education? Assuming it's yes, what size of increases can . . .

The Speaker: Thank you.
The hon. Premier.

Mr. Hancock: Thank you, Mr. Speaker. Well, we just passed this year's budget last week or the week before, so we shouldn't get too excited about next year's yet, but I would say this. Postsecondary institutions across the province did the same thing that government did last year, and that is going through results-based budgeting processes, looking to make sure that they're spending their money in the most effective way to achieve the results for Albertans. This year we were able to add $32 million to those budgets to fund programs that institutions themselves said met student needs or met economic demand. That's what we need to do, and that's what we're working on with the postsecondaries, making sure that we're funding in a targeted way to deal with those programs that they think are important.

The Speaker: Thank you.
The hon. member. First supplemental.

Mr. Jeneroux: Thank you, Mr. Speaker. I'm always excited for the next budget day.

My next question is to the Premier. Given that there are employment incentives for young Albertans to forgo postsecondary education in favour of entering the workforce right away, what is being done with college and university administrations to encourage young Albertans to enrol and not just simply enter the workforce directly from high school?

The Speaker: The hon. Premier.

Mr. Hancock: Well, thank you, Mr. Speaker. There are a number of programs that we have under way, including dual-credit strategies, that we're working with the K to 12 system on so that students can experience postsecondary courses while they're still in high school and ease the transition. We also have the registered apprenticeship program, which helps to do the same thing. But we also go out actively with the Learning Clicks program, which helps students understand what kind of postsecondary programs are available to them and what the long-term benefits are, and an ambassadors program, which reaches about 22,000 students every year, encouraging them to understand the value, the benefit, and the opportunities of a postsecondary education.

The Speaker: Final supplemental.

Mr. Jeneroux: Thank you, Mr. Speaker. Given that it's Mental Health Week, as referenced earlier by the hon. Member for Edmonton-Manning, this question is to the Minister of Health. We have a lot of students who have benefited from the initial influx of mental health funding at postsecondary institutions; however, they could do just so much more if they had additional resources. Minister, what further is being done to promote and protect mental health amongst our student population?

Mr. Horne: Well, Mr. Speaker, we're doing a great deal, or I should say that the students themselves are doing a great deal. Currently we are providing grants of $3 million in total to the universities of Alberta, Calgary, and Lethbridge and another $1.5 million to the Alberta Students' Executive Council. I've had an opportunity, as I think the hon. member has, to learn what students in Alberta postsecondary institutions have done with this money in terms of supporting direct treatment, peer support, and raising awareness about this very important issue. This is money well invested, and we'll look to do what we can to enhance it.

The Speaker: Thank you.
The hon. Member for Cardston-Taber-Warner, followed by Calgary-Glenmore.

Construction Labour Legislation Review

Mr. Bikman: Thank you, Mr. Speaker. In 2011 John Hope and Dwayne Chomyn were asked to study and report on construction labour relations in Alberta. Several specific, critical areas were suggested for analysis and inclusion. The study or report was prepared and presented to the minister but never released. Will this PC government's claim of gold-standard transparency actually materialize in the form of the Hope-Chomyn report being shared with all MLAs and the public, or is it really just iron pyrites?

Mr. Lukaszuk: Mr. Speaker, indeed, both lawyers, Mr. Chomyn and Mr. Hope, have provided legal advice to the minister, advising the minister that a review of the labour code needs to happen. Mr. Andy Sims, a well-respected lawyer, has conducted a review. His report has been released. Government has adopted all of Mr. Sims' recommendations. I know that this fall negotiations are beginning to happen with building trades and owners, and we are ready to proceed as long as the caucus is ready to proceed with this matter through legislation.

The Speaker: First supplemental.

Mr. Bikman: Thank you, Mr. Speaker. Given that the minister asked Hope and Chomyn for a labour diagnosis, which he clearly didn't like, then asked for a second opinion, which he's had for five months and only released last week, how can the MLAs and the public and the parties directly involved with construction and labour in Alberta have confidence in the latest report? Why the haste or the announced haste, anyway, to propose legislation without a full review and further involvement from all the stakeholders?

Mr. Lukaszuk: Well, Mr. Speaker, it is rather interesting that this member knows what's in the report that wasn't released but has no clue what's in the report that was released. The report that was released gives very clear recommendations to our government. A lengthy consultation took place with Merit Contractors, with CLAC, with owners, with building trades. Six recommendations, following four years of recommendations, have been given. Government has adopted those recommendations, and we're ready to proceed on this particular file.

The Speaker: Final supplemental.

Mr. Bikman: Thank you, Mr. Speaker. Given that Alberta has had significant construction labour peace for the past 20 years, which many believe is largely due to the competition for skilled trades and crafts and the various unions and associations that provide them, doesn't the minister realize that it would be prudent to take the time to fully engage all of the stakeholders, as they're all clamouring to do and have announced this week in press releases and so on, seeking first to understand and then to be understood so that a synergistic bill could be prepared and presented to the Legislature?

Mr. Lukaszuk: Mr. Speaker, all stakeholders have been consulted on this matter for over four years right now. They have had ample opportunity to provide valuable input. Mr. Sims has worked with all stakeholders diligently. He has produced six recommendations. We have reviewed them as government. We have adopted those recommendations. Legislation is in the process of being drafted, and subject to this Chamber and particularly to caucus as well we're ready to go ahead on this file.

The Speaker: Thank you.

The hon. Member for Calgary-Glenmore, followed by Little Bow.

2:40

Innovation System

Ms L. Johnson: Thank you, Mr. Speaker. We as a province have a long history of innovation, from the Alberta Research Council to the Alberta Innovates companies, and last week the Premier agreed to the establishment of an innovation council. Can the Premier advise the research and business community how this next creation will improve and increase innovation development in Alberta?

The Speaker: The hon. Premier.

Mr. Hancock: Thank you, Mr. Speaker. We've had a very good year, actually, in terms of working together with the innovation ecosystem in this province to try to create better synergies and better opportunities. We had, out of the Emerson report, a recommendation for an applied research institute. The expert panel then was set up and studied it and consulted with the stakeholders. Just this last week we had a very important forum with stakeholders in the innovation community, where we talked about what the policy going forward needs to be and what the operational strategies need to be, and we'll be very near a report on that within the month.

The Speaker: Thank you.

Ms L. Johnson: Thank you, Premier. For those risk takers, inventors, and researchers throughout Alberta how will the capital forum mentioned in last week's event increase opportunities for commercialization of their discoveries?

Mr. Hancock: Well, Mr. Speaker, absolutely, one of the things that's important to Alberta innovation is how innovators can access patient capital; in essence, early-stage capital, prototype capital, venture capital, all types of capital for patient capital, as it's described. We have had very successful ventures into that area with Alberta Enterprise Corporation, the AVAC, and others in which we've been able to provide funds for funds and to fund opportunities, nine new venture capital operations in this province, so a number of different ways. But there is much, much more work to do, and we're very actively working with the community to do it.

The Speaker: Thank you.

Final supplemental.

Ms L. Johnson: Thank you. What is the expected time frame for the council and the forum to be established and operational?

The Speaker: The hon. Premier.

Mr. Hancock: Thank you, Mr. Speaker. We indicated to the forum that we would like to have all of the structure put in place within the next month. We'll be bringing it through government for approval. The hon. member mentioned announcing the innovation council. We're not quite there yet. We actually talked about creating an innovation council. We'll bring it through for approval. We hope to have it in place by the end of June and operational by the end of the summer.

The Speaker: Hon. members, the time for question period has expired.

Could we have unanimous consent to revert briefly to Introduction of Guests?

[Unanimous consent granted]

Introduction of Guests

(continued)

The Speaker: The hon. Associate Minister – International and Intergovernmental Relations.

Ms Woo-Paw: Thank you, Mr. Speaker. It's my pleasure to introduce to you and through you the winners of the Think Globally Art Contest, whose submissions will be included in the coffee-table book Alberta through the eyes of our youth, which will be showcased in our international offices and given as a gift to visiting dignitaries. This morning on behalf of the Minister of Education I had the chance to help launch the book and meet with these talented K to 12 students from across the province and view their artistic submissions, that allow them to reflect on Alberta and promote its vibrant and diverse qualities to the rest of the world.

Joining us today are four students and their families. I ask that they please rise and remain standing as I call out their names: Estelle Osi, winner, grade 2 to 3 category, and her family; Emmy Wyatt, winner, grade 7 to 9 category, and family; Rebecca Jabbour, winner, grade 10 to 12 category, and her mother; and Gloria Tse, honourable mention, grade 10 to 12 category, and family. I would also like to recognize those with winning and honourable mention submissions unable to join us today: Mackenzie Chamzuk, Nova Land, Michelle Mo, Kenna McIntosh, Megan McLeod, Yuyang Yan. The students are seated in the members' gallery, and I ask my colleagues to please give them the warm welcome of the House.

The Speaker: Thank you.

Members' Statements

(continued)

The Speaker: Let us resume with members' statements, starting with the Calgary-Hawwood, followed by Cypress-Medicine Hat.

Skilled Labour Shortage

Mr. Luan: Thank you, Mr. Speaker. Labour shortages in Alberta have been increasingly recognized as a challenge to sustaining our continued economic boom. What has made it even worse was that last year in Alberta 11,000 Albertans dropped out of high school. In addition, about 65 per cent of those aged 18 to 24 were not enrolled in university, college, or trade and technical institutions. Clearly, there is some gap between the demand and the supply of skilled labour in Alberta.

A recent report by the Canadian Chamber of Commerce, entitled Upskilling the Workforce: Employer-Sponsored Training and Resolving the Skills Gap, suggests that government should become proactively involved, either directly or indirectly supporting employers to provide training to upgrade essential skills. The report further identified that the government needs to provide incentives for first-time employers such as those in the retail trade to invest in employer training, embed literacy and essential skills into professional requirements and training programs, and facilitate partnerships to help develop literacy and essential skills for employees.

Mr. Speaker, I'd like to call upon hon. members of this House to join me to urge the government of Alberta to develop a comprehensive provincial solution to meet the needs of labour shortages in Alberta. This can be done by incorporating the many recommendations mentioned already and by expanding some of the existing programs that work such as dual credit and off-campus education. Addressing future labour shortages will ensure that Alberta is able to maintain its competitive advantage to grow and prosper.

Thank you, Mr. Speaker.

The Speaker: Thank you.

Family Caregivers

Mr. Barnes: Mr. Speaker, this week is national Family Caregiver Week, a special week to acknowledge the tremendous work done by family caregivers. Today I would like to join with the Caregiver Coalition of Southeast Alberta and the constituents of Medicine Hat and Cypress-Medicine Hat in recognizing the outstanding contributions of family caregivers to the quality of life for so many Albertans.

For many people the hard work they do caring for loved ones is second nature, and they do not see themselves as so-called caregivers. This is a week to recognize their important contributions caring for our most vulnerable. The kind of care being provided ranges from the everyday to the unique. Many of these tasks are so important, yet we seldom think about them until the help is needed. These tasks include providing transportation, housework, outdoor chores, helping with medical treatments, and providing personal care. Many times family members make personal and financial sacrifices in order to care for their loved ones.

In the Portrait of Caregivers, 2012, by Statistics Canada nearly half of Canadians over 15 are shown to have provided care to a family member or friend with a long-term health condition, disability, or aging needs. The report identified age-related needs as the single most common problem requiring help from caregivers. This was followed by cancer, cardiovascular disease, mental illness, and Alzheimer's disease. Overall, caregivers spend a median of three hours each week providing care for a disabled family member or a friend.

Mr. Speaker, our family caregivers are so important. They are the first line of defence for many Albertans, and the work they do is critical to the overall patient care and comfort of our most vulnerable. Please join me in thanking our family caregivers and the Caregiver Coalition of Southeast Alberta.

The Speaker: Thank you.

Presenting Reports by Standing and Special Committees

The Speaker: Hon. Member for Edmonton-McClung, I believe you have a special report you wish to present at this time.

Mr. Xiao: Yes. Thank you, Mr. Speaker. As the chair of the Standing Committee on Private Bills I would like to report that the Standing Committee on Private Bills has had certain bills under consideration and wishes to report as follows. The committee recommends that Bill Pr. 1, the Rosebud School of the Arts Amendment Act, 2014, proceed in this Assembly and that Bill Pr. 2, the Maskwachees Cultural College Amendment Act, 2014, proceed in the Assembly.

I request the concurrence of the Assembly in these recommendations.

The Speaker: Hon. members, you've heard the request. Does the Assembly concur in the report? If you do, please say aye.

Hon. Members: Aye.

The Speaker: Those opposed should say no.

Accordingly, it's unanimously carried and so ordered.

Introduction of Bills

The Speaker: The hon. Member for Sherwood Park with a bill.

Bill 13
Condominium Property Amendment Act, 2014

Ms Olesen: Thank you, Mr. Speaker. I rise to introduce Bill 13, the Condominium Property Amendment Act, 2014.

Alberta's growth over the last decade has also resulted in growth in the condominium industry, with more homebuyers choosing to live, work, and invest in condominiums. Condominiums play an increasingly important role in meeting Alberta's housing needs and are a preferred option for many first-time homebuyers and retirees. There are thousands of condominium corporations located throughout Alberta. Approximately 20 per cent of homes sold in Alberta are now condominium units. In Edmonton and Calgary condominium sales account for 1 in every 3 homes sold. The Condominium Property Act establishes the framework for the development, sale, and governance of all types of condominiums, including residential, commercial, and mixed-use projects. It sets out rules of operation and obligations of developers, buyers, owners, and the elected boards.

2:50

This bill is a direct result of the extensive consultation commenced in 2013. It reflects the considerable feedback we have received from a wide range of stakeholders, including but not limited to developers, condo owners, board members, condo managers, and legal experts. Consultations involved town hall style meetings in Edmonton and Calgary, an online questionnaire that generated thousands of responses, and further targeted discussions with expert groups of stakeholders. This bill also incorporates a number of valuable insights and recommendations reflecting Service Alberta's dialogue with legal experts in the condominium industry.

There was a clear message from this cross-section of stakeholders that the current act needs to be modernized to keep pace with the diverse and growing condominium sector. It includes amendments to protect consumers, supports responsible self-governance of condominiums, and facilitates efficient resolution of disputes. Specific examples of amendments include improved transparency and accountability for boards and developers, an enhanced inspection and enforcement section, rules respecting the regulation of condominium managers, and the creation of a new tribunal whose focus will be to hear and settle a variety of condominium disputes. As this legislation deals with an area that is constantly evolving, this bill also updates and clarifies some of the provisions in the act to best reflect common industry practices and terminology.

This bill is a significant step forward to ensuring that Alberta's condominium legislation is modernized and works effectively for the many Albertans it impacts every day. Thank you.

The Speaker: Thank you, hon. member.

[Motion carried; Bill 13 read a first time]

Mr. Olson: Mr. Speaker, I move that Bill 13, the Condominium Property Amendment Act, 2014, be moved onto the Order Paper under Government Bills and Orders.

[Motion carried]

Tabling Returns and Reports

The Speaker: The hon. Associate Minister of Wellness, followed by Edmonton-Highlands-Norwood.

Mr. Rodney: Thank you, Mr. Speaker. I am pleased to present and table five copies of the 2012 annual report of the College of Dental Technologists of Alberta. Highlights include ministry comments on the new standards of practice and code of ethics, on the college administering theory and practical exams for the new college applicants, and establishing mandatory participation in a continuing competency program.

I am also pleased to table five copies of the 2013 annual report of the College of Registered Psychiatric Nurses of Alberta. Highlights include approval of the bachelor of psychiatric nursing program at Grant MacEwan University, which will allow registered psychiatric nurses to take their postdiploma program in Alberta. The college is also working with Canadian psychiatric nursing regulatory bodies to develop national standards for psychiatric nursing education programs.

Thank you, Mr. Speaker.

The Speaker: Thank you.

The hon. leader for the New Democrat opposition or someone on behalf of.

Mr. Bilous: Thank you, Mr. Speaker. I have two tablings on behalf of the hon. Member for Edmonton-Highlands-Norwood. The first is 1,514 signatures on a petition gathered by the Alberta labour coalition on pensions. The petition asks the Legislative Assembly to pass legislation that will ensure that any changes to the LAPP or PSPP are the result of negotiations between government and affected employees.

My second tabling, Mr. Speaker, is 50 of over 4,000 postcards our office has received asking this PC government to restore consistent and reliable funding to postsecondary education in Alberta. The postcards collected by the Non-Academic Staff Association at the U of A are clear evidence that the government is not listening to the demands of Albertans for a well-funded postsecondary system that is both accessible and affordable for all.

Thank you, Mr. Speaker.

The Speaker: Thank you.

I have Calgary-Mountain View with five items, followed by Fort McMurray-Wood Buffalo, followed by Banff-Cochrane, followed by Highwood, Airdrie, Innisfail-Sylvan Lake.

Dr. Swann: Thank you very much, Mr. Speaker. I'm tabling in reference to the leader's questions today the FOIP request on untendered Navigator contracts and a job description for employees of the Public Affairs Bureau; also tabling the public statement by the Canadian National Institute for the Blind recognizing Vision Health Month; and three different documents relating to the Sims report on the labour code review, including one from PCL, another from the International Association of Bridge, Structural, Ornamental and Reinforcing Iron Workers, and from the Merit Contractors Association.

Thank you very much, Mr. Speaker.

The Speaker: Thank you.

Let's go on to Fort McMurray-Wood Buffalo, followed by Banff-Cochrane.

Mr. Allen: Thank you, Mr. Speaker. I'm rising to table the requisite number of copies of a report prepared by Edward G. Hughes and Mita Giacomini from McMaster University titled Funding In Vitro Fertilization Treatment for Persistent Subfertility: the Pain and the Politics. This report's objective was to consider the arguments for and against funding for in vitro fertilization and explore potential avenues for policy change.

The Speaker: Thank you.

Hon. Government House Leader, you have caught my attention.

Mr. Campbell: Yes, Mr. Speaker. I'm just wondering if we could waive I believe it's section 7(7) and continue with the business of the day past 3 o'clock.

The Speaker: Hon. members, this requires your unanimous consent.

[Unanimous consent granted]

The Speaker: Let us continue. Fort McMurray-Wood Buffalo, you were finished? Thank you.

Let's go on to Banff-Cochrane, followed by the Leader of the Official Opposition.

Mr. Casey: Thank you, Mr. Speaker. I will table the articles referenced yesterday on the debate on Bill 204, one from the East Central Alberta Review and two from the Stettler Independent.

Thank you.

The Speaker: Let's go on. The Leader of Her Majesty's Loyal Opposition, followed by Airdrie.

Ms Smith: Thank you, Mr. Speaker. I'm pleased to submit the requisite number of copies of a class project done by the very smart grade 6 students of Senator Riley school. What it is is a number of letters, petitions, and informational presentations about the issues the students are concerned about. It won't surprise you that some of the issues are cyberbullying, women's hockey, animal cruelty, and an issue that might be of some interest to the Wellness associate minister. A number of the students in my riding are concerned about the sale of vapour cigarettes to minors. I gather that those vapour cigarettes, even though they don't contain nicotine, can be sold to students of any age. Some of the kids are coming to school with these cigarettes, and they wanted to let us know and let the minister know that they were concerned about it. I will give five copies of all of these presentations and hope everyone has a chance to look at it.

Thank you.

The Speaker: Thank you.

Mr. Anderson: Mr. Speaker, I have two tablings. The first is an e-mail from a gentleman named Richard Wiebe asking why Alberta is the only jurisdiction in Canada not permitted to trade in currency without special exempt status on our exchanges. He wants the minister to review this decision and to reverse it. That's the first one.

The second tabling I have is an e-mail from a Miss Trudy Pool, who is concerned that the Alberta Insurance Council may be considering altering its qualification exam for life insurance agents from the one currently used by almost every Canadian province to one used and regulated out of Quebec, which she feels will result in fewer agents being qualified to work here. She'd like the Alberta Insurance Council to stay with the current exam that we have now.

The Speaker: The hon. Member for Innisfail-Sylvan Lake, followed by Chestermere-Rocky View.

Mrs. Towle: Thank you, Mr. Speaker. I'm presenting a tabling today from the Canadian Somali community in Alberta, and they are asking that Canadian Somali children currently under an adoption order be kept within their own cultural families. They ask that the Minister of Human Services demand that action be taken by intervening in the adoption order to the non-Somali family. They ask that he make sure that the service providers respect the cultural and faith perspectives of the family, in this case the Islamic faith and the Somali culture. He also asks that the Minister of Human Services require CFSA directors to involve a designated person from the community in planning a placement for a Canadian Somali child in the need of care. There are over 70 signatures on this, and they will be presenting a tabling each day.

The Speaker: Thank you.

The hon. Member for Chestermere-Rocky View.

3:00

Mr. McAllister: Thank you, Mr. Speaker. Our pages are getting a bit of a workout today, and it's about to continue. I would like to make two tablings also. The first, with the requisite number of copies, has 14,179 signatures, the majority of which are Albertan, put together by Dr. Nhung Tran-Davies. They are Albertans and Canadians that are concerned with the direction of the math curriculum, and they would like to see the basics returned as the fundamental teaching tool and the multiple strategies used as an option when students struggle with the fundamentals. There are 14,179 signatures.

The Speaker: Did you have a second tabling?

Mr. McAllister: I do, if you'll indulge me, Mr. Speaker.

The Speaker: Please proceed.

Mr. McAllister: The second tabling is the comments on this petition put together by Dr. Nhung Tran-Davies. These are comments from everyday Albertans, from teachers, from university professors, from engineers, from doctors, from just about everybody you could name. They are not living in the Stone Age. They are genuinely concerned with the direction of Alberta education. I would encourage every member to read these comments and figure out what's going on in our schools.

The Speaker: Thank you.

Are there others? The hon. Member for Edmonton-Centre.

Ms Blakeman: Thank you so much. I have four tablings. The first two are copies of the proposed amendments that had been put together by my colleagues and I. The first section is the amendments we were proposing for Bill 9, the Public Sector Pension Plans Amendment Act, 2014, which is now going to a committee.

The second set of amendments were those we were proposing, mostly from the Member for Calgary-Mountain View and myself, to Bill 10, the Employment Pension (Private Sector) Plans Amendment Act, 2014.

Then I have a report that I'm tabling, from my constituency office in the fabulous constituency of Edmonton-Centre, to the Assembly on various letters received from constituents and others around the incentives for pharmaceutical purchases. They make note. One person says, "I am on a very limited income, this helps a great deal." Others: "The people you are hurting are the ones that need help the most." Another: "No different than places that give out free parking or other perks." That's that report. I think I heard from 18 people there.

Finally, a very good letter from Sheena Neilson, writing to me, her MLA, with the other side of that particular issue, in which she supports the banning of loyalty rewards for a medication purchase and gives a number of examples where she has seen that result in an unsatisfactory or harmful application.

Thank you.

The Speaker: Thank you.

Tablings to the Clerk

The Clerk: I wish to advise the House that the following document was deposited with the Office of the Clerk: on behalf of the hon. Mr. McIver, Minister of Infrastructure, a memorandum dated May 5, 2014, from Marcia Nelson, deputy minister, Infrastructure, to the hon. Mr. McIver, Minister of Infrastructure, regarding construction on the 11th floor of the Edmonton federal building.

The Speaker: Thank you.

Hon. members, there are no points of order, so we can go straight onward with the business of the day.

Orders of the Day

Government Bills and Orders Second Reading

Bill 12 Statutes Amendment Act, 2014

The Speaker: The hon. Government House Leader.

Mr. Campbell: Thank you, Mr. Speaker. I'm pleased today to rise and move second reading of Bill 12, the Statutes Amendment Act, 2014. Bill 12 amends several pieces of legislation. I'll provide some details on these changes.

Amendments to the Government Organization Act include living up to our commitment to ensure that the dispute mechanism for both the agreements on internal trade and New West Partnership trade are respected. All parties involved with these agreements – the federal, provincial, and territorial governments – have agreed to these changes and are implementing them. Failure to enact these changes will put Alberta in breach of its obligations under the agreement on internal trade and the New West Partnership trade agreement.

The amendments to schedule 9 of the Government Organization Act will clarify roles at Alberta Justice and Solicitor General and ensure the accuracy of the act. One amendment allows for the separation of the roles of Deputy Minister of Justice and Deputy Attorney General. The other amendment updates the Government Organization Act to correct a historical error and ensures the functions of Attorney General and Solicitor General are properly reflected in the act.

[The Deputy Speaker in the chair]

The roles of Deputy Minister of Justice and Deputy Attorney General are being separated because the Minister of Justice and Solicitor General acts as the Attorney General of Alberta, and as such he requires legal advice on criminal and civil matters and such on a regular basis. Separating the functions of the Deputy Attorney General from the position of deputy minister allows for a lawyer to fill the role of the Deputy Attorney General while a person without formal legal training is able to act as deputy minister. Under these circumstances a well-qualified individual can administer Alberta Justice and Solicitor General as deputy minister, and a person with a legal background can look after the legal needs of the ministry as Deputy Attorney General.

The historical error being corrected is in reference, in the act, to the role the Solicitor General played in England. Historically, the duties of the Solicitor General in England included advising the Crown and cabinet on legal matters. When the government of Alberta established the department of Solicitor General in 1973, the Solicitor General was assigned the duties attached to the office of the Solicitor General in England. This was likely done in error as here in Alberta the Solicitor General's duties relate to matters of public security and corrections rather than to a legal officer's. This amendment puts responsibility for legal matters back in the hands of the Attorney General, where it belongs.

Bill 12 will also make amendments to the Mines and Minerals Act. It will also update some sections of the Freehold Mineral Rights Tax Act to be consistent with these proposed amendments. The Mines and Minerals Act governs the management and disposition of rights in the Crown-owned subsurface lands and minerals, including the levying and collecting of bonuses, rentals, and royalties. The Freehold Mineral Rights Tax Act governs the collection of tax from freehold mineral rights holders on an annual basis. The bulk of the amendments to the Mines and Minerals Act relates to the audit and assurance processes for ensuring that the correct royalties under the act are assessed. This will ensure that the Crown royalties levied are appropriate and will increase efficiencies for both government and industry by clarifying administrative processes. The proposed changes are administrative and revenue neutral. They do not impact royalty rates or allowable cost deductions.

Bill 12 will also amend two health statutes. This act sets out six proposed amendments, three to the Health Information Act and three to the Regional Health Authorities Act. The Health Information Act governs the collection, use, disclosure, and protection of health information. As you know, a recent privacy breach occurred involving a lost or stolen laptop that included unencrypted health information. About 620,000 Albertans were placed at an unknown level of risk when they were not notified for nearly four months after the breach. The proposed amendments will address this situation by strengthening the Health Information Act.

The first proposed amendment will make it mandatory to notify the Information and Privacy Commissioner, the minister, and the affected individual when a breach creates a risk of harm to an individual as a result of this breach. This notification must come as soon as practicable. The regulation-making authority for the Lieutenant Governor in Council will be expanded to set out the factors that must be considered in the determination of harm and the requirements for notification. An exception would be established to the notification requirement if providing notice to an affected individual would be expected to compromise that person's physical or mental health. In that case, the custodian of the health information must inform the Information and Privacy Commissioner of the reasons why notice isn't being provided. The commissioner may then by order require the custodian to provide a notice that contains the information specified in the order, in the form, manner, and within the time specified in the order.

The second proposed amendment to the Health Information Act will authorize the Information and Privacy Commissioner to disclose to the Minister of Health any information that is necessary for the minister to exercise the powers or carry out the duties or functions of the minister in respect of any matter under the minister's administration. An amendment is also proposed to authorize the commissioner to disclose information to any person where disclosure is in the public interest or required to protect the privacy, health, or safety of an individual.

The third proposed amendment to the Health Information Act will expand its offence provisions. For example, the amendment will make it an offence for failing to notify the commissioner or minister of a privacy breach when notification is required, failing to provide notice to an affected individual where notification is required, or failing to take reasonable steps to protect against the threat or hazard to the security or integrity of health information or of loss of health information. These offences will be punishable by a significant fine, starting at $2,000 for individuals and $200,000 for corporate and other entities.

3:10

The Statutes Amendment Act, 2014, also proposes three amendments to the Regional Health Authorities Act. This act provides authority for the establishment and administration of health regions in the province. The first proposed amendment will ensure that the exclusion of liability provision in the act also applies to the official administrator of Alberta Health Services, just as it did to the former AHS board of directors. The Alberta Health Services official administrator is responsible for all of the duties of the regional health authority and has the power and authority of the regional health authority. The legislative change will help protect the official administrator from legal action when acting in good faith while carrying out the position's duties.

The second proposed amendment will provide authority for the Minister of Health to issue a directive to Alberta Health Services to disestablish and wind up the affairs of the community health councils, also known as health advisory councils. If the minister chooses to exercise his discretion, the amendment requires the minister to establish a replacement body or council that will act in an advisory capacity to the minister as to the provision of health services in the province or part of it. The change will allow government to move towards establishing other councils similar to the family and community engagement councils established by the Minister of Human Services.

The third proposed amendment requires Alberta Health Services to submit its annual budget to the Minister of Health for approval. The minister also will have the authority to give directions to AHS with respect to the form and content of the budget, the time by which the budget must be submitted and any other information that must be submitted.

Together these six amendments to the health statutes provide greater protection for Albertans' health information and more oversight for AHS budgets.

If passed, changes to the relationships statutes act would update Alberta legislation to be in line with federal legislation. Since July 2005, when the federal Civil Marriage Act came into force, same-sex couples have had the legal right to marry in Alberta. The proposed changes will replace or delete outdated language and provisions in Alberta legislation that no longer reflect the current law. The proposed amendments would ensure that the language used in the Alberta statutes is consistent with the law as it is interpreted and applied in practice. This is simply part of evergreening legislation, which is part of the normal legislative process. The proposed legislation would not change any legal rights or obligation, nor does it endorse any particular definition of marriage.

Changes to the Vital Statistics Act will allow changes to the requirement for individuals to amend their sex indicator on birth records and birth certificates in a manner which is seen as less discriminatory. Service Alberta has been actively monitoring changes in other jurisdictions and collaborating with the Vital Statistics Council for Canada on this issue. The proposed amendments will authorize the creation of regulations to allow a change of sex identifiers on birth records or certificates. While the regulations are being revised, requests for a change of sex on a birth certificate from transgendered individuals will be addressed on a case-by-case basis to accommodate those individuals who have not had sex reassignment surgery. This change shows our government's commitment to addressing this issue while allowing time for consultation and analysis to ensure that we are getting it right.

Amendments to the Charitable Fund-raising Act will remove requirements for all charitable organizations to prepare audited financial statements. These charitable organizations will now be required to prepare financial information returns signed by two directors. These changes will result in significant savings to many charitable organizations. These amendments will be particularly beneficial to charitable organizations, like postsecondary institutions, that are already required to prepare a different set of audited financial statements under other legislation. I know organizations in my constituency of West Yellowhead will be in support of this change.

Amendments to the Societies Act will allow nonprofit organizations incorporated outside of Alberta to apply for continuance into Alberta. Alberta nonprofits will be permitted to apply for continuance to other jurisdictions and permit such continuances. These amendments provide a simple and efficient approach to allow nonprofits to change the jurisdiction in which they are incorporated. Without the option of continuance nonprofits are required to reincorporate a new organization in a new jurisdiction, transfer all assets to the new organization, and then dissolve their current organization. These amendments were requested by the Muttart Foundation and are supported by the Alberta Law Reform Institute.

I look forward to hearing others speak to Bill 12. I look for all societies to support these amendments for the benefit of all Albertans. Thank you, Mr. Speaker.

The Deputy Speaker: Thank you, hon. minister.

I recognize the hon. Leader of the Official Opposition.

Ms Smith: Thank you, Mr. Speaker. It's an honour to be able to speak to Bill 12, the Statutes Amendment Act, 2014, this afternoon. I'm going to keep my remarks brief, but there are a couple of important related amendments in this bill that I think the government should be congratulated for bringing forward.

The first are the planned changes to the Marriage Act and related changes to the Adult Interdependent Relationships Act, Dower Act, Fatality Inquiries Act, Law of Property Act, Metis Settlements Act, and 14 other pieces of legislation that will use neutral terms to refer to parents and spouses. They are symbolic changes that will have no real impact on the law as it is practised. It already is the law. But the symbol of equality before the law is a powerful one and one that should receive the support of this Legislature.

Next year will mark the 10th anniversary of same-sex marriage becoming legal in Canada. It was a hard-fought battle for fairness and equality under the law and one that I personally have always supported. As I've said, the changes we're debating today have no legal consequence for same-sex couples in Alberta. The federal law supersedes our own and already allows gay and lesbian couples to marry, but the fact is that we still have language on the books that does not reflect the federal law or the shift in public attitudes that we've seen in the last decade.

Back in 2005 an Ipsos-Reid poll found that a majority of Albertans, 56 per cent, opposed same-sex marriage. An October 2011 poll conducted by Lethbridge College found that those opposed had declined to just 28 per cent. According to that poll 72 per cent of Albertans approved of same-sex marriage. That poll was taken three years ago, and I'd be surprised if that number isn't even higher today. In short, these changes reflect the federal law and majority public sentiment. It does not interfere with the right of individuals to practise their faith in their own way subject to the tenets of their beliefs. For these reasons I will support it.

The second major change is along the same vein, the amendments to the Vital Statistics Act that remove the onerous process for transgendered individuals to have their birth certificates changed. Once a person has made the decision to seek out this procedure, the process to make it official on government-issued identification should be as barrier free as possible, and I'm happy to see that the amendments of this bill will accomplish that.

Together, these two major amendments are an important show of respect to Alberta's LGBTQ community. The Wildrose believes that we should continually strive for full equality for all Albertans. This will be an ongoing effort, but these amendments are a step in the right direction. I thank the government for its leadership in bringing them forward. I'm pleased to support them, and I will urge my colleagues to do the same.

With that, Mr. Speaker, I move to adjourn debate.

[Motion to adjourn debate carried]

Private Bills Second Reading

Bill Pr. 1

Rosebud School of the Arts Amendment Act, 2014

The Deputy Speaker: The hon. Member for Strathmore-Brooks.

Mr. Hale: Thank you, Mr. Speaker. It is my honour to rise and move second reading of Bill Pr. 1, Rosebud School of the Arts Amendment Act.

As the chair of the Private Bills Committee mentioned, they met this morning, and Dr. Lyle Oberg and Mr. Colin Jackson, who are members of the board of directors for this school, both presented to the committee.

As I stated when I introduced the bill, this is a very special place in Alberta that many members on both sides have had the opportunity to visit. It's something that was started many, many years ago by a very forward-thinking and exceptional man, LaVerne Erickson, who started the school and the theatre in Rosebud. It has since grown immensely, and it's become a very, very hot spot in my constituency and in southern Alberta.

Basically, in this bill what they are doing is that they are updating certain definitions. They're changing from a board of directors to a board of governors, with their qualifications and numbers. They're changing the school's fiscal year-end. They are updating certain definitions within this bill. There are several wording changes to be consistent with the school's mandate.

3:20

One of the interesting facts about this theatre and school in Rosebud was mentioned this morning, that 35,000 to 40,000 tickets a year are sold to view the plays that are put on, and many of the actors and actresses in these plays are from the school. It's exceptional for the small hamlet of Rosebud to have grown around this school. There are many, many businesses that came into the area because of this school. I would urge anybody who hasn't been there to please take the time and stop by. You will be so greatly impressed that you'll want to visit it again.

The act that it's amending was originally passed in 1988, so there just needed to be some changes to bring it up to speed with today's world. I would strongly recommend that my colleagues in the House support this.

Thank you.

The Deputy Speaker: Thank you, hon. member.

Are there other speakers?

Seeing none, I'll call the question.

[Motion carried; Bill Pr. 1 read a second time]

Bill Pr. 2

Maskwachees Cultural College Amendment Act, 2014

The Deputy Speaker: The hon. Member for Stony Plain on behalf of the Member for Lesser Slave Lake.

Mr. Lemke: Thank you, Mr. Speaker. I'm pleased to rise today to move second reading of Bill Pr. 2, Maskwachees Cultural College Amendment Act, 2014.

This bill has been recommended by the Standing Committee on Private Bills, and I would encourage all members to support it.

The Deputy Speaker: Thank you, hon. member.

Are there other speakers?

Seeing none, we'll call the question.

[Motion carried; Bill Pr. 2 read a second time]

Government Bills and Orders

Second Reading

(continued)

Bill 11

Child, Youth and Family Enhancement Amendment Act, 2014

[Adjourned debate May 5: Mr. Campbell]

The Deputy Speaker: The hon. Member for Edmonton-Strathcona.

Ms Notley: Thank you. I'm glad to be able to rise and speak briefly on Bill 11 in second reading, and I appreciate the opportunity to do it today. I was just in the process of trying to send a note off to one of our researchers to talk about some potential amendments to this bill, but I guess we'll have to wait till I talk about it in second reading first.

I want to begin by saying, you know, that I do believe that this bill reflects an intent on the part of the minister to bring about genuine improvement within his ministry and within certain components of how his ministry has been operating, and I think that should be noted. It's a complex area with complicated issues, and the answers are not always black and white, and I think that all of us who care very deeply about this area of government services understand that.

This bill appears to basically do three things. It deals with the long-discussed and very controversial publication ban, it attempts to inject some quality assurance procedures into the legislation, and it expands the mandate of the children's advocate slightly.

Of course, we all know that this initiative is coming on the heels of a great deal of public concern around how the system is working as a result, primarily, of the investigatory work of the media about what was actually happening within this ministry and the degree to which this information was being shared openly with the public. Ultimately, when that information finally did come out – and I must say that I disagree with the comments made by the Premier earlier today in question period. It is clear to me on the record that the government spent a great deal of time attempting to impede the release of that information, contrary to what the Premier said, and that, in fact, the media, I think, had to devote significant resources to get that information pried out of the hands of this government.

Of course, that's frustrating because, you know, not all of us have those kinds of resources. Quite honestly, it's frustrating, generally speaking, that this kind of access to information has to be part of such a big campaign to get disclosure about what's happening within our government.

I think we can agree that we all want the same things on this file. We have some differences of opinion in terms of how to get there, obviously. I mean, for instance, our party believes that you can't separate the issue of child protection and child safety from the issues of economic inequality and poverty. Obviously, on issues like that, we have a very significant difference from this government in that we would like to do something to ameliorate economic inequality and poverty whereas this government tends to be sort of dragged kicking and screaming to that particular table. However, that being said, I think that when we get to the mechanics around the fatalities and serious injuries of children in care, we are often looking to achieve the same thing. It's unfortunate that so much of it has to be and had to have been in the past shrouded in secrecy.

One of the points that I like to make at every opportunity is that, in fact, since I was first elected in 2008 and having been involved with this kind of work in a different jurisdiction, I knew right away that there was a category of children that were not in the custody of the ministry per se but who were known to the ministry. Right back in 2008 I would ask this government whether the numbers we were getting included all those children who were known to the ministry, all those children who had come into contact with the ministry through some mechanism even though they weren't in the custody of the ministry. I was assured repeatedly by a series of ministers that I was getting all the information. I'm not sure if those ministers were being poorly informed by the senior staff that they had working for them at the time or what exactly was going on, but certainly I will say that I was highly frustrated this fall when those horrible numbers came out after I had been asking that question repeatedly to the minister ever since I'd been elected.

That being said, we have a new minister, and that information has come out, and one of the things that comes from that is the issue of whether or not we should expand the mandate of the children's advocate to ensure that he has the authority to investigate fatalities and serious injuries requiring hospitalization of children who have been within the care of the ministry or receiving services from the ministry for I believe it might be just the previous 12 months. Of course, one of the things we would want to see is that it be expanded to be the previous 24 months. It's good that we are now ensuring that the children's advocate can in fact deal with that other very large and significant group of children, who come into contact with the ministry but are not in the custody of the ministry and who subsequently suffer from tragic circumstances.

As I've said before as well, however, to really ensure that we are all working on this very important topic and very important goal together, we need more transparency. In my view, we cannot get more transparency unless we take the officer of the Legislature, the independent children's advocate, and give that officer, that person, who by definition is independent and transparent, the direction to provide a thorough investigation for every incident. Unfortunately, what's happening right now, Mr. Speaker, is that that officer and that office is only able to do a fraction of the investigations that it should do. We still have the vast majority of fatalities and/or serious injuries requiring hospitalization remaining shrouded in secrecy in this province. In my view, that is not going to help all of us work together towards what I think probably is a shared objective, which is the reduction in the number of these kinds of tragedies.

In our view, one way to make this bill better is to in fact ensure that investigations are done transparently and independently and openly so that we can have the kinds of conversations we need to in the public sphere to ensure that the public understands and is committed to the initiatives that are necessary to reduce the number of these kinds of fatalities. What we have instead is an enhanced quality assurance provision within the ministry. Now, I'm not opposed to that at all.

3:30

I think it's clear from the report that was released by the children's advocate just yesterday that we have, obviously, a long record in this province and through the work of this government of making recommendations and then just not following through on them. So we have a pile of recommendations the height of the ceiling, all of which, if they were actually implemented, would probably result in huge reductions in the number of fatalities and other serious injuries that are experienced by the most vulnerable citizens of our province. Yet they are not implemented. They instead just pile up, and they kind of overlap on each other. They pile up, and they overlap again, and they pile up. Some people start an initiative here, and another person starts an initiative there, but it's not actually implemented.

So here we are. We get a report, and once again, you know – I mean, for the recommendations all they have to really do is cut and paste at this point because it's like they've been there for years, and they haven't been implemented, and here we are. To some extent the internal quality assurance measures that the minister is attempting to inject into the ministry through the legislation may bring about some discipline internally with respect to moving forward on those recommendations.

I happen to think that it is probably the case as well that there are resource issues involved. You know, I've worked as a representative of people who work on the front line, and policies and procedures are great things, but every time you add a policy and procedure, you've also added more work to the task at hand. It may well be that that work and that task is better completed as a result of that policy and procedure, but you need to acknowledge that it's taking more time. Oftentimes we just think we can write new rules and more rules and more rules but still have the same 10 people doing the same job.

Now, the other thing that's not dealt with in this act, of course, is the ethos which appears in the social policy framework, that this government, I think, is still somewhat attached to although you never know because there's lots of stuff that's produced and then, you know, added to the pile. It was two years ago; it could've been totally rewritten. But because it's still there, no one has actually rejected it.

One of the difficulties with the social policy framework is that it advocates for what I characterized as increased fragmentation, increased decentralization, increased delegation. So at the very time that we are seeing a systemic inability of the system to talk to itself and ensure that everybody is getting the information that they need and that they're taking the steps that they need to take, meanwhile we've got an overarching policy plan which will further fragment the work that is being done, contract it out to more nonprofits and in some cases to for-profits and in some cases to volunteers. Then we'll wonder why that for-profit and that not-for-profit and that volunteer over there didn't talk to each other to share information about how to provide the safest and most rewarding environment for a particular child at risk. We should be moving away from that model, not running towards it.

This act I appreciate doesn't speak to that. But the attempts at streamlining and injecting best practice standards into the work that is done, that you see in this legislation, will be confounded by the policy objectives of this government that are articulated in the social policy framework unless somebody takes note that we're actually headed in two separate directions right now and that one of them is bound to fail. That's a problem that needs to be understood when you consider this piece of legislation.

The final thing that is addressed in this legislation – and the minister and I were just talking about it – is the issue of the publication ban. I appreciate that the minister is attempting to take a run at fixing a problem, a problem that's existed for a long time, a problem that has been unique in Alberta in terms of hiding the names of children who are the victims of fatalities and banning their family from speaking publicly about that experience. I do understand that it's not a black-and-white situation. There is a balancing act to be had. Oftentimes there are siblings who remain in care. Oftentimes the family itself doesn't have a consensus about how public they want an issue to be.

I think that as a starting point we need to ensure that children in care are respected and given the same rights and that their story is respected as much and told as much as the story of a child who is not in care. If we imagine that we had a child who somehow through accident or intention or neglect or through a series of tragic circumstances passed away, how would we want our child's story to be told? We want to ensure that we don't inadvertently create a different standard for a child that is in care that inadvertently systemically discriminates against that child and that child's story and the important telling of that story. If we don't talk about it, then we can't work to improve the situation.

I think that removing the publication ban or modifying the publication ban helps in that way. I am concerned that the system that the minister is proposing to put in place for implementing the amended publication ban may develop its own problems. With the ex parte application and the gross inequity in terms of access to justice that most people in Alberta experience, I'm a little worried that the actual implementation and the practice of the system that's included in this legislation may result in sort of a two-tiered level of access to a decision-maker on the issue of whether this child's story is told or not told.

I think, frankly, I'd like to see more discussion around this. I actually do believe, Mr. Speaker, that everyone is coming to the table with the best intentions on this issue, but I'm just not convinced that we've necessarily found the right answer. You'll be shocked to know that I don't actually think I have the right answer yet. It's rare that I'll admit that, but I'm not entirely clear what the right answer is. I think we need to have some discussions on it because I'm a little concerned that with the way the act is written right now, we may see some problems.

Thank you, Mr. Speaker.

The Deputy Speaker: Thank you, hon. member.

Standing Order 29(2)(a) is available. I'll recognize the Member for Edmonton-Beverly-Clareview.

Mr. Bilous: Thank you very much, Mr. Speaker. I'm sure all members were enjoying the thorough analysis that the Member for Edmonton-Strathcona was giving on Bill 11, so I was just wondering if she had any thoughts to add to what she's already shared and if she does have ideas on ways to improve this current legislation.

The Deputy Speaker: Let's ask her. The Member for Edmonton-Strathcona.

Ms Notley: Well, thank you, Mr. Speaker. You know, I think that it is really important that we not get ourselves into a situation where, for instance, we find a year from now that the ministry has in fact made an ex parte application in the case of every fatality. At this point it's not clear to me from the language in the legislation that we're going to be able to prevent that.

Now, one of the things that we were talking about when the minister and I were chatting is this whole issue of whether or not, in fact, because that section and the process for the ex parte application are in many cases subject to regulation, there might be some value to potentially amending this legislation to require the regulations to be developed after there's been discussion in an all-party committee to ensure that, really, every different scenario is worked through.

We all come to the table with an idea in our heads about the scenario we're trying to avoid, but there are always so many differing scenarios, differing objectives, differing agendas, so it's really important to talk through the many different scenarios that can be impacted by this legislation to make sure that we don't inadvertently bring in a system that will bring about an unintended consequence. So we are going to be looking into whether or not that might be an amendment that we can bring, that would allow for a more thorough discussion that allows for all different circumstances and achieving the kind of objective that we want for both these children and their families.

3:40

That's a general idea that I have, Mr. Speaker. Otherwise, I appreciate the opportunity to speak to this. I do think we are moving in the right direction. I think we need to make a few improvements. We'll be introducing two or three amendments, and we'll see where those end up. Of course, the big thing for me, again, is that the whole system needs to rest on a foundation of unequivocal trust in an independent, transparent oversight system, and we need to improve that vehicle in this province. It's started along the right path, but I think we can do better and put more faith into the role of the children's advocate, more resources, and a broader scope so that we can build on that foundation of independence and transparency when it comes to overseeing circumstances that we'd rather not ever have to look at but need to if we're going to prevent them in the future.

Thank you, Mr. Speaker.

The Deputy Speaker: Thank you.

There's still time under 29(2)(a).

Seeing none, I'll recognize the next speaker. The hon. Minister of Human Services to close debate.

Mr. Bhullar: Thank you very much, Mr. Speaker. Just a couple of remarks before I close the debate. You know, this legislation, I feel, is meant to promote a few different pieces for strengthening the child intervention system. First of all, it's accountability and transparency. As the discussion in the last couple of days has noted, many, many recommendations come forth. What this law will do is require government to respond to those recommendations and then have the quality council actually follow up to see if recommendations have been acted upon. I think that's a very important step that needs to be done.

Further, Mr. Speaker, the system functions and deals with thousands and thousands of children on a given day. I think it's absolutely essential that the quality of the system itself, the quality of the services we provide be assessed, and I'm proud that the quality council will actually have a role in creating some quality assurance metrics that are measured so that we can ensure continuous improvement.

The internal reviews, Mr. Speaker, that are now going to be required I think are going to help create another mechanism for strong and robust change management processes. The annual reports that the director is going to be required to produce include numbers and statistics as well as numbers of serious injuries, serious incidents, and deaths and the recommendations and findings of the internal reviews that the director does.

Mr. Speaker, obviously, we've made changes to the publication ban, which I think is something that we heard very loudly about from a variety of different places, and, lastly, expanded the advocate's role to allow for the advocate to be able to investigate the death of a child who was not in care but may have been in care at any time in the previous two years before the child's death.

I think that these are all very strong changes that we've put forth in a very short period of time. As I've said very, very clearly from day one, perfection is an endless pursuit. We're far from it, but what we need to do is commit to progress and progressing on a regular and continuous basis. That's why, Mr. Speaker, I'll be the first one to say that this legislation is not the be-all, end-all, but this legislation is a very strong step towards greater progress, and it's embedding within the system more mechanisms and tools to allow for greater progress on a regular basis.

With that, I move to close debate.

The Deputy Speaker: Thank you.

[Motion carried; Bill 11 read a second time]

Bill 12
Statutes Amendment Act, 2014

(continued)

[Adjourned debate May 6: Ms Smith]

The Deputy Speaker: The hon. Member for Edmonton-Centre.

Ms Blakeman: Thanks very much, Mr. Speaker. I'm glad that I'm able to get an opportunity to speak to Bill 12 in second reading.

I'm just going to do a little bit of context first. We used to have a process called miscellaneous statutes in the Alberta Assembly. It required negotiation or consultation with opposition members, and there was a veto power that was involved so that if there was something that the opposition didn't like, then it was pulled from the miscellaneous statutes. But the other end of the deal was that there was no debate on it. I've noticed that we haven't seen miscellaneous statutes bills in the last two sittings we've had, but now we have this new animal. It walks like a miscellaneous statutes amendment act, talks like a miscellaneous statutes amendment act, but it's not called that. So, one, we don't get to pull things we don't like, but two, we get to debate to our heart's content.

Now, I will note that this bill was, I think, brought in yesterday, we had a briefing earlier this morning, and now we're debating it. This is not an inconsequential series of bills. The statutes part of it is that this bill is making changes to 14 different acts.

Now, another little historical moment here. We used to have such a thing where if there were more than two bills being amended in one bill, it was called an omnibus bill. And guess what? You got more debate time to talk about it because it's more complex. You're talking about the effect of more bills. That particular parliamentary process was eliminated during one of the many opportunities of government to cut debate time short, particularly debate time for members of the opposition. So in the same amount of time that I can debate, you know, a one-page bill, I now have to debate a 40-page bill that is amending 14 different acts, and they're quite different. That's the little historical vignette section.

Now, let me talk about what I like first, and then I'll talk about what I don't like. I'm really very happy and relieved and on behalf of a number of my constituents in the fabulous constituency of Edmonton-Centre grateful to see the movement under vital statistics to recognize the unique situation of individuals who are transgendered and to get rid of the old requirement that essentially required that somebody show up with their hospital surgery reports, which aren't easy to get, by the way. It's not as though when you check out of a hospital, they hand you a little detailed list of everything that happened to you.

What happened here was that someone who was partway through or fully through a gender change or gender transformation and wanted to get a new birth certificate, a new identification that said that they were now a different gender, was required to show up at vital statistics proving that they have gone completely through all of the surgeries. Now, depending on which way you're going here, you're going to learn a lot more than you wanted to, Mr. Speaker, but some of these operations are about seven operations for going one way and about 13 operations for going the other way. This is no small amount of surgery that's involved here, and it's supposed to take place over a long period of time.

Expecting that somebody is going to exist in this sort of identification limbo over an extended period of time and then be able to collect all the proof to turn up at vital statistics and say, "Okay; I can prove now that I am this other gender" made it nigh on impossible and was really unfair. I am very, very glad to see that what we now have in place is that on a case-by-case basis the birth certificates and marriage certificates will be reissued with the different gender on them.

3:50

A little bit of a quibble here in that there is no appeal process. So if for some reason the registrar is in a bad mood or whatever – you never know why these things happen – and doesn't grant the change in identification, there is no appeal process that's been built into this to allow someone to take it to a different level and ask for an explanation or to ask for it to be reviewed. But I am very glad to see it.

Just to put this in context, for any of us that have ever gone in, you know, to get your birth certificate renewed, just imagine if you went in there and somebody said: "Okay. Yeah, that's good. Just drop your shorts there and pull up your blouse just so we can verify which gender you are because that's how it's going to go on the birth certificate." Yes. I know. Eyebrows are raising across the Assembly. But that is essentially what we were requiring people who were transgendered to do in order to get identification, and that is completely beyond the pale. So very good on that one, gold stars even, except for the fact that there is no appeal process there.

The one other thing that's really important is the granting of drivers' licences because that, of course, is a really integral piece of identification that's used very frequently, and that one hasn't quite been resolved yet and is handled, I think, by a slightly different area. If I could just give you a little shove over there on the other side to deal with the issue of changing the genders on drivers' licences, that would be a big help.

You know, Mr. Speaker, I think the very worst day I've ever had in this Assembly in the 17-plus years that I have served as an MLA was an afternoon in the early 2000s on which the microphone system had gone down and we had individual, old-fashioned microphones on our desk. We spent the entire afternoon debating the new Family Law Act, and I spent the whole afternoon bringing forward amendment after amendment after amendment that were going through all the sections of this new Family Law Act and trying to change the language from the specific language that was used – mother, father, husband, wife – to parent and spouse. I was voted down every single time for three hours. It was brutal. Nobody else helped me. Everybody else had a great long chat, moved around, had a good old time in here, and I, with a barely working microphone, plugged my way through it was like 20 or 40 different amendments to try and do the right thing.

Here we are more than 10 years later, and the government has finally done the right thing in recognizing that a parent is a parent is a parent, whether that parent is a man, whether that parent is a woman, whether that parent is a transgendered individual. They're a parent. They parent a child. That's what we should be recognizing, that for someone who is in a long-term, committed, steady, financial, involved relationship with another person, a spouse is a spouse is a spouse, and that is the way the language should be used. That's what we should have been doing 10 years ago, but, no, the government would not allow that to happen. They wouldn't recognize the work that I was trying to do, which would have saved them a lot of time and money over the 10 or more years. I think it was maybe 2002 or 2003 that I was doing this.

Nonetheless, we've now had the gender language straightened out in the Dower Act, the fatalities act, the Law of Property Act, the Marriage Act, and the Metis Settlements Act.

There was one other point on the fatalities act, but – I'm sorry – I'm just not remembering it off the top of my head. Anyway, thank you. Well, I don't really want to thank you, to be perfectly honest, because that was just such a gruelling day. It was hard to be the only person that was willing to do that. It was a brutal day. So I'm very glad to see the back of that one.

Now, I'm sorry that I can't remember the particular additional point around the fatalities act, but let me go back now to the stuff that I'm not quite as thrilled about. The first thing is the number of regulations that are in this bill. Increasingly we have these I used to call them shell bills; you know, like the shell game, where you move the peanut or the walnut underneath the turned-over shells and say: where is the peanut? But that's just not a good description. I think it's now the empty-box legislation. There's a name for it, there are sides for it, but when you open it up, there's nothing in the legislation that actually tells you what's supposed to be happening, and legislation should tell you the what: "What are we trying to do here? What's the big picture? What are the principles?" Then the regulations tell you the how, the small detail. But what the government has been doing in a lock-step march for the entire time I've been elected is to move the what into the regulations. So all you get are these very vague sentences about, "And the minister can make regulations to . . ." and then there are pages and pages and pages of what the minister can make regulations on.

Well, so what? Why do we care? Well, we care because it's not transparent. Regulations do not come back before the Assembly. We do not get to debate them. Nobody from the public or stakeholder groups or any elected member of this Assembly gets to comment on them until they pop out the other end by way of the Internet or the websites and are published in the Alberta Gazette. That's it. It's just done. That is a lot of the meat of what is actually in bills these days. It's not written in this. It's written in the regs, and that's wrong because it isn't transparent. It's done off the books. It's unaccountable. We can't tell what was done. It's very hard for anybody, even elected members, to locate the regulations after the fact. It is an opaque process, and it is wrong, wrong, wrong on so many levels that I don't have the time to describe it. The government insists on doing this. I think they think they're being clever. Really, it is just a huge disservice to the people of Alberta.

In this bill we have the word "regulations" mentioned 40 times in 32 pages or 40 times across amendments that are being made to 14 different bills. You're starting to get a sense of how much is being dropped underneath what's happening and into these regulations, where it is very hard to find out what's going on. That's the first thing that I want to express great, great concern about.

I want to talk about charitable status. Now, this is an area that I know very well. I came out of that sector. I worked there for half my career, 17 years as an actor and an administrator of arts and not-for-profit organizations and now 17 years in the Assembly. I still know this sector pretty well. What's being done here is removing the words "audited financial statements."

So not-for-profits and charities have to show how they're spending money because they're spending money on behalf of the public. That's why you have a board of directors, to make sure they're there doing the right thing, and the money has to be transparent because they're getting a tax break in a lot of cases or special deals on property taxes or something because they are a not-for-profit or a charity. By the way, in the Charitable Fundraising Act it does not reference the Canada Revenue Agency's definition of charitable. It does not reference it at all. So be careful not to be misled by the word "charity" that is being used in this statute bill because it doesn't mean a charity with meaning under the CRA. It just means a group that's raising money for a good purpose. Let me put it that way.

So this is taking out the requirement for audits, and I think that's a mistake because they're also raising the limit. It used to be anything over $25,000. Now it's anything over $250,000, to which in a briefing this morning I said, "So you mean that United Way doesn't have to do a financial statement under this?" They said, "No, I don't think so; it says: over $250,000." And I thought: "I don't think that's what we're supposed to be doing here. I don't think that's a good idea."

It may be that an organization will be required in other circumstances to . . . [Ms Blakeman's speaking time expired]

4:00

The Deputy Speaker: Thank you, hon. member.

Standing Order 29(2)(a) is available. The hon. Member for Edmonton-Beverly-Clareview.

Mr. Bilous: Thank you, Mr. Speaker. Unfortunately, the Member for Edmonton-Centre was interrupted by the time, and I wish to hear the rest of her thought there.

The Deputy Speaker: The hon. Member for Edmonton-Centre.

Ms Blakeman: Thank you. There is no "charitable" meaning under the Canadian revenue association. There's been no limit given. I would expect it to be a limit of, you know, something reasonable: a million dollars, $3 million, $5 million. But unlimited?

You can have what's called a review. I'll tell you that for a lot of organizations that are small or tiny or even mid-sized – I mean, I ran a million dollar theatre company. A million dollars a year. Our audit – and we got half of it donated – still cost me $8,000 cash. That's a lot of money.

You know, getting an official audit done is very expensive. It was a huge relief, I know, to a lot of not-for-profits to be able to do what's called a review. You got two volunteers from the public – they could be on your board but not the treasurer – who would go through and check to make sure that there was nothing funny going on and that things more or less seemed to add up and everything seemed to be recorded. They could sign off on it, and that was accepted to be as good as a fully audited financial statement. That is a very, very valuable thing to many groups. But I would tend to say that that should be a valuable thing for groups under a certain amount of money and that anyone over a certain amount of money should be doing a fully audited statement. I'm really struggling with this.

Of course, what I still continue to forget is that the charitable world is now out there slugging it out with the big guys. We're not talking about Boys and Girls Clubs and 4-Hs and a couple of little theatre companies and a wacky little art gallery and a soccer club. We're talking about those same groups competing with universities for fundraising, competing with hospitals for fundraising, competing with K to 12 schools for fundraising. You know, get your elbows up because this is a tough place to fight now.

I think we have to be very careful. A big part of this is the public's trust that what these charities are doing is above board. I'll tell you, having worked there – oh, my goodness – most of them are above board and work really hard, with very, very dedicated volunteers to assist them and very dedicated staff. But we do get some that get scammed. More and more what we're reading in the paper – and we all go, “Oh, no,” when we read it – is that, you know, treasurer of X skating club absconds with their entire kitty: a hundred thousand dollars gone. Well, why did the person steal the money? Gambling. Addicted to gambling, they used the money. Well, that should have been caught in some kind of a review or an audit. That should have been caught so that they weren't able to do it over an extended period of time. This is why you look at those kinds of amounts. That's a concern that I have in what I'm seeing in Bill 12.

I haven't had enough time to actually go through and compare in context a lot of the other things that I'm seeing. Some of them are pretty obvious. I don't know what's going on with the freehold minerals. I wonder if this harkens back to when the Auditor General pointed out several times to the government that they actually could not verify if they were collecting enough royalties because they couldn't verify what the companies were telling them they had actually produced. This, it seems to me, is going to make that process a little clearer so that the government can be assured that they are collecting royalties on exactly what has come out of the ground instead of some sort of loosey-goosey guesstimate. That's our money, and we need it.

I look forward to Committee of the Whole on this bill so I can have a bit more time to be able to have a look at the other sections of it and maybe bring forward some amendments. For that, I will ask in advance for the forgiveness of our ever-steady Parliamentary Counsel.

Thank you very much, Mr. Speaker.

The Deputy Speaker: Thank you.

There are still a few seconds left on 29(2)(a).

Seeing none, I'll recognize the next speaker, the hon. Member for Edmonton-Beverly-Clareview.

Mr. Bilous: Thank you very much, Mr. Speaker. It's my pleasure to rise and speak to Bill 12, the Statutes Amendment Act, 2014, which I find really fascinating. In my short two years here in the Legislature there have been very few omnibus bills, which I am thankful for because they deal with such a large amount of amendments and different statutes. I actually count that this amends 16 different acts. It is quite significant and challenging to try and go through and digest a bill of this magnitude within just a short couple of days, but I would like to go through it. There are some positive aspects to this bill, in my opinion. There are some questions that I have and some challenges as well.

You know, the first section that I'd like to talk about has to do with the Marriage Act. There's going to be a concurrent theme with some of my comments. Something that we've seen actually in the last couple of weeks is that when this current government takes a step in the right direction, it's because they are dragged by the public and often by the opposition to a more common-sense position or a position that they should have had to begin with. The concurrent theme: just yesterday when the government decided to put the ice on bills 9 and 10, that was definitely because they were dragged kicking and screaming by hundreds of thousands of Albertans and many opposition members to that position.

When we look at the Marriage Act and changes that specifically refer to gender in marriage and partnerships, you know, I applaud the PC government for joining the rest of the country in the 21st century as far as making these changes. We've been waiting patiently for some time. I believe Alberta is one of the last jurisdictions to make these changes, and again it's not the first time that we're the last province to get with the program. The changes made to the Marriage Act include the complete repeal of the current preamble, which specifically refers to the idea of marriage between opposite genders and its purity. No new preamble is being inserted, which I think is probably the best way to go. Again, this should have been done a long time ago.

I think it's worth mentioning, though, Mr. Speaker, that these changes are positive and a positive step, but my gut feeling is that the government was dragged to this position. Let's not forget that the decision made by many of the PC caucus members to vote with the Wildrose against Motion 503 resulted in a considerable amount of public backlash. This vote was merely a couple of weeks ago. I don't know if that was what precipitated the government to make these amendments.

You know, we've been advocating for these changes for years and years along with the Member for Edmonton-Centre, as she recently shared with members of this House. Marriage equity is something that we strongly believe in. I don't know if it's a combination of public shaming. I'm not sure if it's the fact that the government is failing in the polls after making some brutal attacks on our public-sector workers, the labour sector, public-sector pensions. I don't know if this is a desperate attempt to patch a leaky ship or what they're doing. Regardless, we welcome the fact that these changes are finally being introduced.

Under the Health Information Act, a lot is left to regulations, which makes me a little nervous, Mr. Speaker. That's one of the concerns that I have. The change as far as making sure that when breaches occur within the Health Information Act, those who are impacted are going to be made aware is something that seems common sense. Again, it should have probably been brought in a long time ago, but that's a positive step. As well, providing information to the Privacy Commissioner and the minister is important as they need to be aware of weaknesses on a systemic level so that if changes are needed, they can be brought in.

4:10

Previously, as many members probably know, the release of public notification that private data had been breached was forbidden under the Health Information Act. We were one of the few provinces that didn't mandate disclosure of a breach of health information to those affected, which I think was an oversight from day one. I think that's a step in the right direction, again keeping in mind, Mr. Speaker, that prevention is always the best route to go as opposed to dealing with complications or data breaches. We would like to see a focus on investing and empowering the Information and Privacy Commissioner to ensure that compliance is occurring before a breach, not afterwards. Again, you know, chasing after is like closing the doors to the barn after the horses are out. The Privacy Commissioner's office needs to have the resources to make sure that they can stay on top of that.

As far as vital statistics and birth certificate changes, this is something that I think was a long time coming. A recent court ruling that a woman's Charter rights were violated when she was denied a new birth certificate that accurately reflected her gender switch made the changes to this act inevitable. I can't give too much credit to the government because, really, they were forced to do this by the courts, as opposed to leading by example, once again dragging their heels.

The change to vital statistics, birth certificate changes, is going to be again based on regulations that have yet to be developed. This is a concern. I mean, we want to make sure that the regulations make obtaining new identification records as easy as possible. So I think it's important to note that proof of surgery or gender cannot be included in regulations for obtaining a change of gender in identification, obviously, as this allows for unnecessary discrimination.

Moving to the Regional Health Authorities Act, another concern that I have, Mr. Speaker, is that the government is opening the door for the elimination of health advisory councils and possibly replacing them with unidentified bodies. Now, health advisory councils have been a good tool for raising and recording concerns that Albertans have, so this does allow that Albertans have a say in the standard of care that they receive. Changes to this piece of legislation allow for the minister to review the annual budget of the AHS as well as give directions regarding the form and content of this budget.

Regarding the Societies Act, the idea of continuance in the abilities for societies founded outside of Alberta to incorporate within provincial borders, at the moment societies must disband, move their operations and finances to Alberta if they want to move between provincial jurisdictions and incorporate here. Now this change is supposedly going to encourage the set-up of more societies within the province of Alberta. This is something that was actively encouraged and lobbied for by the Muttart Foundation and the Alberta law institute.

As far as the change to the Government Organization Act, this is a change to who is eligible to hold deputy posts and enacted by the delegation powers that are given from the Justice department. I mean, this change ensures that the position of Deputy Attorney General is held by someone with proper qualities and expectations, which I think is a positive thing, Mr. Speaker.

When we look at mineral rights, again, I haven't had an opportunity to thoroughly go through this, so we'll continue to look at this section of the act.

My only concern is that we may be rushing through this without a proper analysis, especially when we look at mineral rights.

As far as the charities act, again, the current legislation mandates that charities file an audited financial statement with the province. Alberta is, as many members probably know, one of the only provinces who require the filing of a separate provincial statement. These changes will affect charities raising over $250,000 a year. Instead, a financial information return will be signed between two board directors. You know, there are questions and concerns around how this is going to affect smaller charities within the province or those who aren't capable of raising up to $250,000.

I think it's important to note as well, Mr. Speaker, that if we wanted to make amendments that would benefit smaller charities, then we should look at the gambling hours within the province. There are many not-for-profits and smaller charities that are quite concerned with how they're going to find volunteers to staff, say, casinos, which for many organizations is their major fundraiser every two years. If we want to look at helping smaller charities, then I think that the hours of casinos, that have recently changed, is actually going in the opposite direction as far as helping smaller charities.

With that, Mr. Speaker, I will conclude. Again, there are some positive changes in this amendment act but, again, concerns when we have so many different acts affected within one bill. It means that there is very little time to thoroughly go through this and to have a completely fulsome discussion. With that, I look forward to hearing from other members of the House and discussion and debate in Committee of the Whole.

Thank you, Mr. Speaker.

The Deputy Speaker: Thank you, hon. member.

Standing Order 29(2)(a) is available.

Seeing none, are there other speakers? The hon. Member for Edmonton-Strathcona.

Ms Notley: Yes. Well, I know that it's trying people's patience for us to get up and speak to this, you know, but here's the thing. This bill has – where is that darn bill? I've got it in here somewhere.

Mr. Bilous: Did you find it?

Ms Notley: Yeah, I did. It's 33 pages long. As previous speakers have pointed out, it amends between 13 and 16 pieces of legislation, and we were briefed on this bill this morning. I have to say that this is not the kind of thing that we typically expect to have going through in a miscellaneous statutes amendment act because there really is a lot here. Typically you would want to have a chance to review this in a fulsome way before you say: "Yeah. Okay. This is just almost meaningless administrative stuff that has no substantive policy change included in it." Rather, these are sort of consequential amendments as a result of other pieces of legislation, and it won't change how we do things. That's how we can get away with throwing everything together and then dumping a 33-page bill onto the opposition at 11:30 this morning and then expecting us to be able to come in here on the basis of good faith and vote it all through without really questioning it or analyzing it.

I have to say that I'm very frustrated by this process because this is not the way we're supposed to do miscellaneous statutes amendment acts, nor are we supposed to do any piece of legislation with this little notice. We are entirely relying on the comprehensiveness and the straightforwardness and the transparency of the briefing that we received today. We'd love to be able to do that all the time, but when we were debating Bill 10, in the course of that we discovered – I mean, that was a piece of legislation amending pensions, and one of the things people said to us was: "Well, you know, it's not really that big of a change. The big changes were really made when we brought out the piece of legislation that this bill amends a couple of years ago.” Then we looked through what it was that we were told about that bill back then, and it was like: “Oh, this is a minor little change, inconsequential amendments as a result of TILMA. Don’t worry about it. There’s nothing substantive in that.” It was only once we rolled up our sleeves and started reading through that that we realized that bill fundamentally changed the private-sector pension structure in the province.

4:20

The fact of the matter is that the government doesn’t actually have a superawesome record, Mr. Speaker, of being entirely forthright in terms of what we hear about in these briefings. Sometimes we get great briefings; sometimes we do not. So it’s our due diligence that we need to exercise to review this stuff on our own and make sure that the bill does what the government says that it’s doing. But it’s a little hard to review a 33-page bill when we get a briefing at 11:30 today and we’re in question period at 1:30. And we’re expected to debate and vote on it immediately following question period.

I have to say that this is kind of inappropriate, this whole thing. You know, there was lots of time to bring this forward. It could have been introduced before the break. We’ve had two breaks. It could have been introduced before either one of those breaks so we’d have had the time to look through it and feel confident that we were voting on what we’re being told we’re voting on. On that basis alone I can’t support this because I simply haven’t had enough time to review it in the detail that I think I should review it before I vote one way or the other. That’s all there is to it. I have a responsibility to my constituents, and quite frankly, I cannot dispense this responsibility in a way that I can be proud of in the 45 minutes that I’ve had to scan through this.

That being said, what does the bill do? Well, the Member for Edmonton-Centre has talked at some length about the changes to the Charitable Fund-raising Act and the observations she had with respect to what those changes meant. We see changes to the Freehold Mineral Rights Tax Act which allow the government more time to assess and reassess the tax that a person may owe, I guess, for an audit. That is going from four years to five and a half years. I’m not exactly sure where that five and a half years came from. I’m not sure what the rationale of that is. I would love to be able to consult.

Ms Blakeman: Isn’t that weird?

Ms Notley: It’s kind of odd. It’s like we’re almost sort of dealing with one particular case here or something. That’s what I’m wondering about. But no one’s really telling us that. I’d love to be able to talk to the stakeholders, the freehold mineral rights owners, but again, this was given to me today at 11:30, and the government seems to think that it’s appropriate to ask us to vote on this today. You know, I don’t know what to say about that. I honestly don’t think we have time to track those people down that quickly.

The Government Organization Act talks about separating the role of the Deputy Attorney General and the Deputy Minister of Justice. That does not seem like a particularly difficult thing. That seems to be a structure that we see in other provinces. I’m all right with that one.

I’m a little worried about the changes to the definition of the awards that arise as a result of trade disputes under TILMA because, of course, anything that happens under TILMA is worrisome because it’s all about this government handing over governance authority to other jurisdictions and ultimately to multijurisdictional corporations that have certain rights under these trade agreements and then expanding their ability to assert their rights over that of the citizens and the elected democratic governments of the provinces in which they do business. I’d like to know a little bit more about why we had to change the definition of awards. I’d like to know what awards were not securable through the filing of a Queen’s Bench certificate. I’d like to know what problem it is that we’re trying to fix through this change in definition. Yet I didn’t get that explanation, so I’m certainly hoping that when he closes debate, the minister will give me an answer to that question. What is the problem that we’re fixing with the change to the definition of awards under the Government Organization Act?

Then we go into the Health Information Act. Well, with that one I think we know what problem that’s trying to fix. It’s mostly trying to fix the embarrassing – I don’t know exactly who it was embarrassing for, but certainly the Health minister didn’t seem to know about some fairly major disclosures of personal health information. Then, if I recall correctly, he tried not so indirectly to blame the Privacy Commissioner, only to discover that the Privacy Commissioner was following the law and not actually able to disclose the information to the minister . . .

Ms Blakeman: They publicly dissed her.

Ms Notley: . . . and then, as the Member for Edmonton-Centre said, publicly dissed the privacy officer, which was quite inappropriate. So this is actually, I suppose, the appropriate response to that situation in that we changed the legislation so that the minister can be informed. You might want to accompany that with an apology to the Privacy Commissioner for suggesting that somehow she wasn’t doing her job by following the legislation to which she is subject. Anyway, that is that.

Then we have a change to the Interpretation Act. Again, this adds an additional clause to the powers in the name of office section that allows the minister to delegate authority to someone acting on their behalf. Again, I just want to know: what problem are we fixing here? What’s the problem that we’re fixing? Why do we need to do this? A simple explanation would help us figure out whether this was something we should support or not support. Or are there other consequences to it?

The Mines and Minerals Act. Now, that one, you know, worries me because what we’re doing here is that we’re giving additional regulation-making powers to the government, and this is about how the government charges royalties for our greatest resource, royalties that I would argue we have (a) not been collecting adequately for years and (b) have not set high enough even if we could collect them adequately. In either case, what this does is give more regulatory authority to the government, maybe to collect more, maybe to give more to their friends. I don’t know.

Again, it’s absolutely impossible for me to wade through the changes that are being made here in relation to the Mines and Minerals Act and the energy statutes amendment act to figure out what it is that they are giving themselves the authority to do here, and I, quite frankly, would like a briefing on what exactly this is going to do. I would like the government, the Minister of Energy to come in here and explain to me what it is that these changes are going to allow them to do that can’t be done now and what other consequences may arise as a result of these changes. This is how we function in this House. You give a briefing to the Assembly. You don’t dump a 30-page piece of legislation on them and give them two hours to review it. We’re told: “Oh. It’s just administrative changes.” That’s not good enough. There is presumably a reason for it, and presumably someone ought to be able to give us the explanation for that change.

The Regional Health Authorities Act. It gives the Health minister the power to approve the AHS budget every year. I'm just curious. I thought the minister already did approve the AHS budget every year. Maybe not. I'm not sure. The AHS was just doing their own budget without the minister approving it? That's interesting. Well, in that sense I'm not unhappy with this because I think that I would like for there to be more accountability and more control over AHS. I think that's a fairly standard message that we have given to the government. I find it interesting that the minister has not in the past had the ability to have a yea or nay over that budget. Interesting.

It then, of course, brings into question why it is that AHS is a separate body that has the authority to pay its staff – I don't know – 180 per cent, 200 per cent more than people who work directly for the public service. So if the minister is approving the budget, which is not an unreasonable thing, it begs the question that the leader of the NDP caucus has raised in the past: why is AHS a separate body altogether? Anyway.

The Vital Statistics Act. Now, the Member for Edmonton-Centre has done a good job of describing why it is that we needed to get moving on this and that it is long overdue and a good thing, so we're all in favour of that. That's all I have to say on it. It's good. Yay.

4:30

The Adult Interdependent Relationships Act, the Dower Act, the Fatality Inquiries Act, the Law of Property Act, the Marriage Act, the Metis Settlements Act all seem to be related to changing gender references and the definition of spouse, so those are good things. Those are fairly easy to figure out what's going on there. Of course, we're quite happy to see those changes being made and support those completely. That's my review at this point.

I have some outstanding questions, as I've outlined. I remain unhappy about the amount of time that we've been given to review this given its length and its depth. I'm certainly hoping that we can get more information on what is happening with respect to the Freehold Mineral Rights Tax Act, the Government Organization Act, and the Mines and Minerals Act. I think those are the main ones that I am most curious about.

Thank you very much, Mr. Speaker.

The Deputy Speaker: Thank you, hon. member.

Standing Order 29(2)(a) is available.

Seeing none, I'll recognize the hon. Minister of Health.

Mr. Horne: Thank you very much, Mr. Speaker. I'll be very brief. I just wanted to respond in second reading to a point raised by the hon. Member for Edmonton-Strathcona with respect to an amendment to the Regional Health Authorities Act, that is proposed as part of Bill 12, and that is with respect to the budget of Alberta Health Services. First of all, thank you to the hon. member for her expression of support for the amendment.

The reason the amendment is required is that under the current Regional Health Authorities Act, Mr. Speaker, there is provision for the minister to approve the health plan that's developed by the health authority but not the budget that is associated with the health plan, that provides the resources to deliver that. The current process is for the government in its estimates to provide, in the case of this ministry, for Alberta Health Services an overall allocation. Since we have moved to the single health authority for the province, of course, the number involved in that total budget has increased dramatically. Today's budget for Alberta Health Services stands at about $13 billion. So the intent of the amendment is to provide for, first of all, greater accountability for an expenditure of that magnitude, to allow the minister to look at the resources that are associated with the health plan, and to help him provide some opportunity to ask questions and some oversight to ensure that those financial resources can deliver on that plan.

The second reason for the amendment is something that I alluded to in estimates in Budget 2014 very recently, and that is that we are working with Alberta Health Services to change the structure of the budget. We are today, much as we were in the mid-1990s, providing a global budget to Alberta Health Services to deliver care. Many members on all sides of this House have expressed concern about the processes, or lack of processes, in place to make sure that the funding is actually going to the programs and services for which it's intended and that it's delivering on those outcomes.

If we were to take mental health, Mr. Speaker, as one example of an area where we might want to ensure that the funding that's allocated for mental health actually goes there, one of the things that this amendment will allow us to do is to work with AHS to develop an envelope-type approach to their funding. Services such as mental health and continuing care would be set out – and, again, we have yet to complete this work – or potentially could be set out as budgets within the total budget of AHS. That would allow us to track those dollars to ensure that they go to the areas that they're intended for and that they're not taken up in other, larger areas of the budget such as acute care, which is a huge part of the Alberta Health Services budget. So that's the rationale for this particular amendment.

I thank the hon. member for her support of it, and I hope others in the House will express similar support. Thank you.

The Deputy Speaker: Thank you, hon. minister.

Standing Order 29(2)(a) is available.

Seeing none, I'll look for the next speaker.

Seeing none, I'll invite the hon. Minister of ESRD to close debate.

Mr. Campbell: Agreed. I'll close debate, Mr. Speaker.

[Motion carried; Bill 12 read a second time]

Government Bills and Orders Committee of the Whole

[Mr. Rogers in the chair]

The Chair: Hon. members, I'll call the Committee of the Whole to order.

Bill 11 Child, Youth and Family Enhancement Amendment Act, 2014

The Chair: I'll recognize the hon. Minister of Human Services.

Mr. Bhullar: Thank you very much, Mr. Chairman. I would like to propose an additional amendment that will further increase transparency and accountability in the child intervention system. This particular amendment will require, quite simply, that the responses from fatality inquiries as they relate to Human Services also need to be posted and, therefore, tracked as we are doing with the Child and Youth Advocate's recommendations. Recommendations coming out of fatality inquiries also need to be tracked and the responses need to be made public, and then the quality council will be following up on those as well. This is simply to add fatality inquiries to this. Then it allows for a regulation-making authority to add more specific reports if needed.

The reason I'm doing that now, Mr. Chairman, is because the Fatality Inquiries Act is being reviewed, and there's potential for a pediatric death review committee to be established. So if there are ever recommendations that come out of either of these two changes, I would like those recommendations as they relate to the child intervention system to also be tracked. I would also like us to have to respond to them and then for the quality council to check on the completion of them.

Thank you, Mr. Chairman.

The Chair: The hon. minister has put amendment A1 on the floor. I'm just waiting to make sure that everyone has a copy of amendment A1.

I think we're just about there. I'll recognize the hon. Member for Innisfail-Sylvan Lake.

Mrs. Towle: Thank you, Mr. Chair. First of all, I want to start off with saying that it is really refreshing to see a minister actually proceed with exactly what he said he was going to do in January and start the process for more openness and transparency. The reality of it is that every single person in this House wants children in care to be well cared for. I don't think any of us want to experience what we saw last year, when the previous minister appeared not to be fully transparent on how many children had died in care. I don't think any of us really want another process where it appears that people have to fight in the courts to actually get the information that every single Albertan should know.

I have seen this amendment ahead of time, and once again I would also like to thank the minister for engaging with the opposition and trying to find ways to work with us to find areas of agreement. I hope he's as agreeable when I present my amendments, but I look forward to that conversation, too. I appreciate this amendment, and I think that anything we can do as legislators to make the system appear to be and actually be more transparent is a good first step.

One of the things we did hear at the round-table – and I'm sure my colleagues from the other two parties will comment as well – was the idea that it needs to be broader, that there needs to be a real effort to make sure that anybody who is engaging with those who deal with children in care should be held to the same standards and that those areas should be talking.

I'm pleased to support this amendment. Thank you, Minister, for bringing it forward. I am pleased to see that this extends to the Fatality Inquiries Act.

Thank you.

4:40

The Chair: Thank you.

Are there other speakers to the amendment?

Seeing none, we'll call the question.

[Motion on amendment A1 carried]

The Chair: Now, speaking to the bill, the hon. Member for Innisfail-Sylvan Lake.

Mrs. Towle: Okay. So I have an amendment here as well. I'll give you the first part, and I'll just wait a moment.

The Chair: We'll just pause for a moment, please.

Hon. members, this will be referred to as amendment A2.

I think you can proceed, hon. Member for Innisfail-Sylvan Lake.

Mrs. Towle: Thank you, Mr. Chair. I see this amendment more as a qualifying factor that makes it so that those people who are having input into the process actually have some expertise or some knowledge in the area of which they speak.

Right now under section 8 in proposed section 105.771(2) we would like to add a subsection (c), which says: "an individual with demonstrable expertise in child intervention." One of the things that we feel very strongly about is the person that has input into the system or feedback into the system over and above the other two areas. Right now it is

(a) an individual employed in the public service of the Province, or

(b) an individual to whom the director has delegated authority under section 121(3).

But there should be a third factor in there that basically says that the person should have some sort of expertise in child intervention. This adds clarity to the system. This adds a qualifying factor that says that there is somebody on the team who has that kind of expertise. Then the report mechanism has just a little bit more teeth to it.

I look forward to all the members of this House supporting this amendment, and I'll leave it at that. Thank you.

The Chair: On amendment A2, I'll recognize the Member for Edmonton-Centre.

Ms Blakeman: Okay. So, Member, what you're suggesting, then, is that a director can in writing designate individuals to review incidents that have given rise to serious injury of a child who was receiving intervention services or another incident that was serious. The person must be employed in the public service of the province or be someone that the director has delegated authority to or someone with demonstrable expertise in child intervention. Okay. How is that person different from the one that is designated in subsection (a), which is an individual employed in the public service? I guess you're assuming here that someone that's employed in the public service doesn't necessarily have child intervention skills. Okay. Is this language that's being used language that is commonly found in the act?

Mrs. Towle: It's not commonly found in the act but common amongst those who work in the system.

Ms Blakeman: Okay. It's not found in the act, but it is commonly used by people that are working in the system. Hmm. Okay. I'm certainly willing to support that. It seems like a reasonable thing to do, to have someone that knows what they're doing. Great. Thanks.

The Chair: Thank you.

Are there others to speak on the amendment? The hon. Minister of Human Services.

Mr. Bhullar: Thank you, Mr. Chair. I appreciate the member's motivation in doing this. There's one challenge that I see with it, and that's that in some particular cases, in some types of reviews, you may want somebody with expertise in a different field conducting that review. For example, if there is an issue with medications, we may want a doctor, perhaps, or somebody with extensive experience heading up that review, and the same can be true for a variety of other challenges; for example, mental health challenges and the like. For that reason, although I appreciate what the member is trying to get at here, I don't think that limiting it to that will accomplish what we're seeking. I therefore oppose the amendment.

The Chair: Hon. Member for Edmonton-Strathcona, did you rise?

Ms Notley: I did. I guess the concern that I have – and I understand the objective that the member is trying to achieve. However, it appears to me that what we're doing is that we are adding "or" at the end of clause (b) and adding

(c) an individual with demonstrable expertise in child intervention

as opposed to:

(a) an individual employed . . . or

(b) an individual to whom the director has delegated . . .

Presumably, it would be adding "and" at the end of clause (b) and then

(c) an individual with demonstrable expertise . . .

I'm not sure why we would allow for there to be a public-sector employee who perhaps up to now has been, you know, working in oil and gas suddenly reviewing these files or why we would have somebody being delegated by the government who doesn't actually have expertise in these areas and then having someone who has expertise being one option of three options, which is the way it reads right now in your amendment.

I like your objective because what you want to do is make sure that this person has some kind of demonstrable expertise in child intervention, but I would think that that would be the case regardless and that you would want that to be a criteria if they are a public-sector employee or if they are a delegate. In the way it's written right now, it almost implies that the first two categories might not be someone with a demonstrable expertise in child protection. So that would be why I would have some concerns about it. Maybe you could answer my question. Perhaps I'm interpreting it incorrectly or reading it incorrectly, or maybe you have a different objective.

The Chair: Thank you, hon. member.

The hon. Member for Innisfail-Sylvan Lake.

Mrs. Towle: Thank you, Mr. Chair. I appreciate the comments from Edmonton-Strathcona and also the comments from the minister.

I actually was worried that perhaps the first two criteria could be somebody with no demonstrable expertise in child intervention. I know it would not be the intention of any ministry or any government official to put someone on there who maybe doesn't know the full scope, so that's why I didn't put it on as an "or." I put it on as a "must." They have to have "an individual with demonstrable expertise in child intervention." So I struck out the "or" and put it in there as "an individual with demonstrable expertise in child intervention." Everybody is shaking their head no at me, so I apologize.

Mr. Wilson: That's not how it reads.

Mrs. Towle: Okay. Fair enough. It's possible that I misinterpreted that, so I'll actually withdraw the amendment.

The Chair: Well, we'll probably have to vote on it. We'll just vote on it, hon. member.

I recognize the hon. Minister of Aboriginal Relations.

4:50

Mr. Oberle: Yeah. Mr. Chair, I'm a little bit confused on the intent of the amendment. If it is that at every step of the way we provide compassionate and caring and experienced and knowledgeable people, I recognize the intent, but it's an odd application of that in this clause, which might require that you would want, for example, to appoint a justice to review. You might want to do that given the circumstances of a particular case. Finding a justice who had experience in child intervention might be a tall order, but if there were legal matters involved, a justice might be well suited for the position.

I get the intent that at every step of the way the children in the system and their best interests are always looked out for by people who have experience and who are caring and compassionate, all of those things, but in this particular case I can envision a case where you'd want a justice, for example, to be appointed to review. You're not appointing somebody to intervene; you're appointing somebody to review. It could be a legal matter.

That's all I have to say, Mr. Chair.

The Chair: Thank you, hon. minister.

Hon. Member for Calgary-Shaw, did you wish to speak?

Mr. Wilson: Yes. Thank you, Mr. Chair. Just in addressing the concerns the Minister of Human Services brought up with regard to this amendment, I think that it allows for what you were referring to because it doesn't actually say "and" in the amendment. By adding (c), it wouldn't be: and requires demonstrable experience in the child intervention system. It's an "or." It just gives you a third option of an individual that could be designated as someone to review. I'm wondering if perhaps you could comment on that.

The Chair: The hon. Member for Edmonton-Centre.

Ms Blakeman: Yeah. I think we're getting a bit wrapped up in this one, because it's specifically general and generally specific. It's really saying that there's going to be a review, talks about that, and says that a director may, not "must," in writing, designate individuals. It does not name the number. It could be any number that the director wishes to put in place. It describes what they're supposed to be doing in an incident where there's a serious injury and then talks about: a designated individual must be in the public service or the director's delegated authority under section 121(3) or someone with direct child intervention.

The justice that the minister was talking about can easily be accomplished under 2(b). The individual that was being discussed by the minister of aboriginal affairs, you know, might be the person that's described under subsection (a). So none of these have to be the same person. They can all have different skills that they're bringing to the table. There is enough leeway there to solve having a diverse gathering of people under those designations. I think that if we take just a step back, we're still okay here.

Then the third section: "A designated individual must provide the director with a report of the designated individual's findings and recommendations, if any, arising from a review." You could have one or all of them or, I suppose, none of them doing the review. I think we're actually okay there.

The Chair: Are there others? The hon. Member for Edmonton-Strathcona.

Ms Notley: Yeah. Well, I think that ultimately one can go either way because in the way it's written, it doesn't preclude this person having demonstrable experience or expertise, nor does it require it. You know, it can adjust to the situation. Of course, the point that I would simply make is that this fabulous little internal review process continues to be internal and never sees the light of day, which, to go back to my central theme, is why on its own this doesn't deal with the larger issue around independence and transparency although it may assist somewhat in internal best-practice management. But we continue to have a problem with that independence and that transparency.

That being said, the intent of the amendment is certainly a reasonable one, so we're happy to support it.

The Chair: Thank you.

Are there other speakers?

Seeing none, I'll call the question on amendment A2.

[Motion on amendment A2 lost]

The Chair: We're back to the bill. The hon. Member for Innisfail-Sylvan Lake.

Mrs. Towle: Thank you, Mr. Chair. I do apologize. This is my first bill, so if I'm nervous – and I am nervous; I will admit that. I'm incredibly nervous, actually. It's such an important bill, and I can understand the passion of getting it right, so I apologize if I'm not always as articulate as I should be.

My second amendment is here, and I'll just pause for a moment while it gets distributed.

The Chair: We'll refer to this one as A3, hon. members.

You may proceed, hon. Member for Innisfail-Sylvan Lake.

Mrs. Towle: Thank you, Mr. Chair. This amendment moves that in section 8 in the proposed section 105.771(3) we would add in "and the director must make the report public within 3 months" after subsection (1). Right now subsection (3) says, "A designated individual must provide the director with a report of the designated individual's findings and recommendations, if any, arising from a review under subsection (1)," which right now refers to an annual report. We would like to see the reports actually given quarterly rather than annually. We believe that this provides for more openness and transparency.

It also allows for anybody wanting to find out more information with regard to any of the reports or the recommendations to be able to do it in a three-month batch versus a year batch. If there are any issues or recommendations to maybe be followed up on or that need to be questioned or that they need to be held accountable on, it makes sure that that information is public a lot sooner and gives a clear motivation of appearing to be open and transparent.

We heard very clearly from people who are involved in the child care intervention system. A lot of them have expressed that sometimes by the time the information gets to them, a year later sometimes is too late to make changes. By providing the reports and the recommendations quarterly, it would allow the government to act sooner and also allow all of us on the other side to help them with that process and also bring to light systemic issues in a faster motion than what we've seen in the past.

I would appreciate the support of this House in having those reports reported on every three months rather than annually.

The Chair: Thank you.

Okay. I'll recognize the Member for Edmonton-Strathcona.

Ms Notley: Well, thank you very much. I thank the Member for Innisfail-Sylvan Lake for bringing forward this amendment. I think this really, in many respects, highlights one of the points that our caucus has been making about the problems in this bill already, that although this may provide a bit of infrastructure for increased best practice within the ministry, it has not, as far as I can tell, ever been the intention of the government that the reports that are referred to in section 8 ever be made public. They're intended to be internal reports for internal practice review improvements, but they are not intended to be made public.

Moreover, quite honestly, even if they were made public, well, then what we would have done is that we would have created a parallel situation where we've now got reports and investigations being done by people who report to and through the minister at the same time that we've got an independent children's advocate, who we made an independent officer of the Legislature for the sole purpose of ensuring that they didn't have their investigations controlled by the minister's office. So then we end up with a parallel process.

5:00

This really gets to, as I said, the heart of our concern with this bill in that we've still not fixed the fact that only a small, small fraction of these fatalities or serious incidents or injuries are ever thoroughly investigated by someone who is (a) independent and (b) going to publicly report on the outcome of that investigation. We've got this lovely piece of legislation, but we will continue to be in this situation where roughly 20 per cent of fatalities are ever publicly reported on. In my view, that's not getting to what it is we need to do to truly develop the social and community consensus to make the changes that need to be made to prevent these kinds of injuries and fatalities in the future. That is why we think that, by all means, have these internal processes but understand them for what they are. They're internal processes designed to be best-practice promoters inside the ministry, but no one ever expects for them to be made public.

If your concern is about enhancing public accountability, transparency, social consensus, community consensus, then we need to go to a different platform. That is why our caucus has been saying that that platform has to be the children's advocate's office. Not only is that public, but it's also independent. It's really important that those two things go hand in hand, not just that the report is made public but that the report is written by someone who is truly independent.

Some members in the House may know this, but others may not because it was really fully discussed and clarified in the meeting of the Legislative Offices Committee last November when we talked about what it is the children's advocate is currently able to do. At that time we went over the numbers with him, and he told us that in 2012-2013 there were 20 cases that were reported to him and only four of those proceeded to a full investigative review. He indicated that based on his resources, what he has to do is that when a report is sent to him, he needs to come up with what he referred to as a differentiated response. In my view, that's sort of another way of saying triage. He went through, and he triaged and screened the cases to decide which ones of those would go to what he referred to as an initial assessment mode. He did that triage on the basis of a one-page document that was provided by the Chief Medical Examiner.

Just for the people that are following this debate, in the November 29, 2013, Hansard for the Leg. Offices Committee you'll find that discussion. He said that basically he gets a snapshot, a one-page document, from the Chief Medical Examiner, and then based on that, he triages and says: maybe in this case I'm going to do an initial assessment. Now, that initial assessment itself is not a full-blown investigation. He just gets a staff person to make a few more inquiries. After he's got the initial assessment, then he goes on to decide which one of those will be an investigation. In 2012-13, as I said, 4 of 20 were investigated.

The fact of the matter is that our position is that he is not being provided with adequate information up front to make that decision, nor is he being provided adequate resources to do all the investigations that we think he should do. That's why our position has been all along that he should just do all investigations at least for a two- or three-year period, and at that point perhaps we can review whether that continues to be necessary.

That's where it should happen because that's the person we fought so hard to get in place, who is independent, who does not report to the minister, who does not report through the PAO, who does not have professional and political communications staff from the Premier's office massaging the timing and the process of the report release and/or content. That's why we needed to have it separate. That's where I think those kinds of reports should occur and those kinds of investigations should occur.

Right now 4 out of 20 ain't good enough. Four out of 20 is just not enough. What we've just done is that we've expanded his mandate, which is good news, but what that means now is that instead of 20, he's probably going to have 40. So then the question is: how does he decide which ones to investigate?

Ms Blakeman: That's limited by budget.

Ms Notley: The issue is both limited by budget as well as being limited by the nature of the information that he gets presented to him for his screening process. Although he is funded as a Leg. Offices person, he is governed by an act, one of which we are in the process of amending through this piece of legislation. We could amend this piece of legislation so that when it amends his legislation, which it's already doing, it tells him he has to do every report. Then the Leg. Offices Committee is compelled to give him the resources for him to fulfill his obligations under the statute. Anyway, that is our position all along.

All that being said, I absolutely respect and support the objectives that I think the Member for Innisfail-Sylvan Lake is trying to achieve through her amendment. My concern is that what she's trying to do, really, with all the greatest of intentions – she's taking a broken old car and kind of putting a new tire on it. In fact, we actually have a Cadillac over here, and if we just put gas in it, that'd probably be the best way to go instead of trying to fix this little tricycle over here. This remains the tricycle in this rather tortured analogy because it's not independent. It is still someone that works for the ministry.

That being said – and I've said this in second reading – absolutely, internally the ministry needs to clarify and solidify its own internal processes so that it meets its own goals and standards. It's not necessarily the case that you always do that by statute, but that's what appears to be happening here, and perhaps in this ministry that's necessary. I'm not opposed to this as an internal practice improvement strategy. It's just not the thing that's going to get us to the other piece, which is so necessary, which is independence and transparency. I hope that made some sense.

The Chair: Thank you, hon. member.

Are there others?

Seeing none, I'll call the question on amendment A3.

[Motion on amendment A3 lost]

The Chair: We're back to the bill. The hon. Member for Innisfail-Sylvan Lake.

Mrs. Towle: Thank you, Mr. Chairman. My next amendment has to do with section 16. I'll just wait until it's passed out.

The Chair: Okay. For the record, hon. members, this will be amendment A4.

Please proceed, hon. member.

Mrs. Towle: Thank you, Mr. Chairman. I'm pleased to rise and talk about amendment A4, where I would like to suggest that there be an amendment in section 16 in the proposed section 126.3(2) by striking out "ex parte." The current legislation says:

... may make an ex parte application in accordance with the regulations to the Court for an order that no person shall publish, in a manner that reveals that the deceased child received intervention services, the name or a photograph of the deceased child, of any parent or guardian of the deceased child or of any other individual identified in the order.

I completely understand the intent of this. The intent is to protect families who do not want to have their loved one's name or photo or anything like that made public and that they should have the ability to go to the courts and do that and not have to have a battle. I can share that same concern. However, my concern with this part of the legislation is that what we heard very clearly when all of this sort of went to the round-tables in January . . .

5:10

The Chair: Hon. members, if you could keep the side conversations down just a wee bit, it'd be much appreciated. Thank you.

Please proceed, hon. member.

Mrs. Towle: What we heard at the round-tables in January and, in particular, from the three young women who spoke – they talked about needing to have an identity, that they needed to have their voices heard and who they were known. There were a lot of conflicting statements in what they had to say. Two of the three girls wanted their names to be known in the event of their death, and even though they were children in care, they didn't want a publication ban. But the third child said that it should be up to her, and if she chose not to do that, then absolutely she shouldn't have to do that.

The problem with when you do it ex parte, the way that this is done, is that legislation is deciding ahead of time that only one part of the unit can go and do the ban. For example, a family member could go and say on behalf of a sibling of the deceased child: I don't want to do this. They can do it behind closed doors with a judge, and they can do it without anyone else ever knowing that they've done it until whatever time they want to release that information. I can understand, and I'm sympathetic to wanting to protect a sibling that has passed away.

Alternatively, though, what we also have is that you could have a situation where an outside member – in the same part of that it says that "a director" could make application, a "family member" could make application, or "with leave of the Court, any other person." So there could be a situation where, let's just say, there's a community that for whatever reason did not want the information that a child had died in their community, not to protect the family but just because they did not want the general public to know that a child had died or why, and they wanted a publication ban. They could actually make application to the court, with the family never knowing.

The family might never know that they have gone to court and created a publication ban. This leaves the family in a situation where the family doesn't know there's a publication ban, and the family or the siblings may actually want the public to know why or how their family member died. Because they never knew about the application for the ban in the first place because it was held ex parte, they never had the opportunity to say to the judge exactly why they would consider having a say in why the judge should consider why the ban shouldn't be granted.

What we're saying here is that there's obviously a role that the media would like to see as well so that they know when a ban is being applied for. My concern with the way it's set up right now is that not only may the media or the public interest not be met because nobody knows the ban is happening, but there is an additional concern that the family member who the ban is actually applying to – their extended family may not even know what's happening. They may want their information public, or it could be the expressed wishes of the person who has died.

For example, if I have a child in care and that child passes away but has expressed wishes to me that they want their name to be known, an ex parte application says that the Member for Lac La Biche-St. Paul-Two Hills could, of his own doing and for whatever reasons he may want to do that, go to the court and apply without my ever knowing and without my family ever knowing. He could apply to the court, get a publication ban, and you essentially revictimize the person who has died even though the child in care who has died has made it very, very clear that their wishes are to have their name known. So this is extremely concerning.

I totally understand the minister's idea in that by creating an ex parte environment, it puts less stress. The family might be grieving, and they may not want to go in there and give their case. What I'm suggesting with this amendment is: let's let the judge decide. Let's make sure that we're being fair on all levels and not just taking one side that actually could damage the family as much as it could damage the media or any other interested party. A judge will be fair, and a judge will decide what is in the best interest of the child's wishes. There's an opportunity for somebody who's impartial to say to them: "I understand why you want this. I understand the wishes of your child. Therefore, I will grant the ban," or "I will not grant the ban." But they will know all sides of the story.

In doing that, it's really, really important because we're not only protecting the child, who may want their wishes known, or the family, but we're also giving the appearance of being fair, open, and transparent, which is really, really important. This is a serious concern to families of children in care who want their information to be public, and I would suggest to everyone in here that there's additionally a serious area of concern that ex parte proceedings take away, sometimes, those freedoms that we enjoy every single day. I would hate to see a family member who wants their child's story to be told be sideswiped by an uninterested party, who's only doing it for gain or for protection or for whatever reason. I would hate to see that happen.

I would like to see the amendment be approved, that we take out the ex parte. The application process can still remain the same, but let's put it to the fairness of a judge and the court and allow an open and transparent process and not only protect the rights of the family as it pertains to when they want to make the application but also as it pertains to when they want to make their information public but other factors force them to not be able to. I would appreciate your support on amendment A4.

The Chair: Hon. minister, did you wish to speak to amendment A4?

Mr. Bhullar: Sure. Mr. Chair, I think that doing what the member says would put us in a position where, quite frankly, you could have a six-month process to hear something like this. If you have an order that has to be granted by application, then you're essentially saying that you have to have a trial almost. The way it is right now, a judge has the ability to make this decision based on two things, the best interests of any child receiving intervention services who's a sibling of the deceased child or the known wishes of the deceased child. I think that it's fairly confined.

I think that anyone other than a family member or a guardian that would want to bring forward an application would have to get leave from the court, first of all, prove a relation, a connection somehow or another, to the deceased child or to the family. For that reason, I think this would sort of serve the opposite purpose of what we're trying to achieve here. What we're trying to achieve is to say: "Let's open this up. Let's allow for publication." In those rare cases where it's in the best interests of surviving children, where they want a publication ban, that process needs to be able to take place sooner rather than later. That's why I'm against this amendment.

Ms Blakeman: This is where I wish I had a law degree because we're getting in kind of deep and specific on this. I'm wondering why the minister would think that it would take us an additional amount of time to do that.

I'm quite uneasy, and when I read the legislation, this was the part that leapt out at me first and the fastest, the fact that there could be – and it was now being enshrined in legislation – and ex parte application, which I have real problems with because it always means that it's not an open process. You know, only one party is going forward, and there's no legal obligation to notify other parties. If I'm misunderstanding this, I'm sure one of the many lawyers in here will leap to their feet and correct me. But only one person knows what's going on here, and that, to me, goes against the grain of what we're trying to achieve here. We're trying to have as open and as transparent a process as possible. We've got a situation where a child who's received intervention services has died. We can have a director, a family member, or, with leave of the court, any other person, which covers quite a bit, come and make an ex parte application. I think that should be taken out.

5:20

If we take it out, it says that with leave of the court any other person can make an application in accordance with the regulations for an order that no person shall publish, blah, blah, blah. The next section is that the court may grant an order applied for if they're satisfied it's appropriate for the best interests of the child who is a sibling or is the known wishes of the child. I don't see why all of that needs to be done ex parte. I'm not sure that the ex parte actually makes this a longer legal process.

So if any of the legal beagle minds that are here in the House could please get up and explain to me why this would make it a longer process, I'd love to hear it because I don't think that's necessarily true, and I'm quite uneasy about having the ex parte in here. I would further like to hear the minister talk about why he chose to make it ex parte. I'm throwing that one out there.

I have a legal beagle mind here, Mr. Chairperson, that legal beagle mind.

Ms Redford: I think that before I start, I have to say that the last time I stood in this House and answered a question related to Justice, I was probably sitting one row up, so I have the same perspective on the House.

But in trying to answer the question, I think that what I hear from the minister and from members on the opposite side is about trying to get the best and most thorough public and transparent process for this. My reading of the legislation, only my reading, would be that what that allows for is permission for an ex parte application to be made as opposed to only an ex parte application to be made.

My only perspective would be – and I'm sure other lawyers in the House might have an opinion on this – that when a lawyer goes on behalf of any of those named and interested people to court to make an application on an ex parte basis, one of the first things that a judge does is to look at the legislation to determine, based on that criteria, whether or not it makes sense and will very often first ask the question of whether this should be an ex parte application and, in many cases, will say to a counsel bringing this forward on behalf of a party that in this case it shouldn't be an ex parte application.

So from my perspective it's not a restrictive clause that simply says that only an ex parte application will be made, but what it does say is that it's permissive, that an ex parte application can be made, which is different. Then in a public court – because all of these applications would be public unless counsel argued to a judge that they wouldn't be – they would then be able to make that application and would not be excluded from making that application.

Quite frankly, in practical terms, in some of the work that I've seen, I think that the intention in this is to put in place a system where you don't have people that are perhaps trying to play games with a really awful situation start going to court and saying: "Well, Mr. Justice, Madam Justice, you can't make an ex parte application. We want to be there." And then that does turn it into, through sort of legal procedure and court process, a process that may not be in the best interests of the child.

So it's more permissive than restrictive. That would be my reading of it. I don't know if the minister wants to comment.

The Chair: Thank you, hon. member.

Mrs. Towle: Thank you to the Member for Calgary-Elbow for providing some clarification. It's my understanding as well that it is "may," and you're absolutely right.

Here's my concern, though. Even if it is "may," taking out ex parte doesn't add six months to the process. The application can still be made, and the judge could take the criteria of any other person. So any other person could be somebody who has a public interest, somebody who could be working not in the best interest of the child and could go in and may make an ex parte application. The family of the deceased child may not ever know that that person made application under that provision, and that is where I become concerned.

I completely understand your interpretation of it. I think that it's logical, and I think that you're absolutely right in the sense that it's meant to make the system simpler, but by creating the ex parte, it still means that the family member may never be notified when that person makes an ex parte application, that their wishes might be gone against.

The minister also mentioned that one of the criteria is the best interest and the known wishes of the child. If it's an ex parte application and the person making the ex parte application never knew the known wishes of the child, it is possible that the ban could be approved never knowing the wishes of the child because there's no avenue to actually bring in a third-party person to say: what are the known wishes of the child?

I understand where you're going with it. I guess what I'm saying is that there is a possibility. I'll maybe put it into a different narrative, an example. Let's just say that there were a number of incidents in one community and those families in that community wanted the names of the family members to go public. However, a leader in that community decided: "Well, I'm going to apply for an ex parte application, which I may do under this provision. I don't have to do it. It's not the only provision, but I may do that because, in my opinion, it's in the best interests of the community to actually have a ban and not actually bring this information forward." That person going to the ex parte application may not know the best wishes of the child, may not know the known wishes of the child, and therefore could be working against the very child of the family they were intending to try and protect.

I understand, too, and I agree that the judge would likely say: should this ex parte application happen or not happen? But you can create a lot of friction. If the judge doesn't know all of the factors in why an ex parte application is being applied for versus not applied for, there is a possibility that the judge may not know the known wishes of the child or the best interests of the family, and an application could be granted that totally goes against everything we're trying to achieve here.

With that, I'm open to hearing your comments. I wonder if there's any room for a difference in your opinion, but that's where I'm coming from.

Thank you.

Mr. Oberle: Just a couple of quick comments here, Mr. Chair. Let's just go back to the clause. As the Member for Calgary-Elbow pointed out, it's permissive. It allows. It doesn't require an ex parte; it allows for it.

So if you go to the next clause:

- (3) The Court may grant an order . . . if the Court is satisfied that the order would be appropriate, having regard to
- (a) the best interests of any child . . . and
 - (b) the known wishes of the . . . child.

Obviously, the court is not going to grant anybody that comes off the street any order under this process because it's not going to be aligned with the best interests of the child. This is not available to somebody who's trolling for whatever reason. However, once granted, if an application is granted, it must be served. Right? So everybody is going to know about it. Once served, if you go to clause 4, it's never binding on a family member ever, and any person who has been served can make an application to have the order set aside. All these processes are in place.

So it's permissive, as the Member for Calgary-Elbow pointed out. It permits the ex parte application but restricts it to a careful set of circumstances, again all focused around the best interests of the child. I think 4(a) is particularly important here. It's never binding on a family member, granted or not.

Thank you, Mr. Chair.

Mr. Bhullar: Mr. Chair, some of the reasoning behind allowing for such a process is that things happen very rapidly. I met with a mother whose child had in fact passed away while in the system, and the mother told me stories about how people were trying to get information, pictures, et cetera, right while she was sort of at the hospital. If that mom says, "You know what? My child's story needs to be restricted," you need the ability to go and make this happen pretty quickly. It's that interest of protecting people's privacy when they want it to be that has me committed to this process. You know, this is a significant change in our law. This is a very significant change. As we were discussing earlier and as others have discussed, this is going to require some balance, and I think it does that.

5:30

Where that mom, whose child has just passed away, may need to get access to a decision pretty quickly, she has that ability using an ex parte process. She doesn't have to serve a series of people. When a stranger off the street wants to come in and ask for a publication ban, it's very clear in the legislation that there are two criteria, the known wishes as well as the best interests of other siblings receiving child intervention services. The court is not about to make a decision saying: I know nothing about X, but let me grant this order to Stranger Joe off the street. I understand what you're saying. I think we can come up with a multitude, dozens and dozens, of different scenarios here that can play in each direction, but I think that this finds the best balanced solution for us to move forward right now.

The Chair: The hon. Member for Edmonton-Strathcona.

Ms Notley: Yes. Well, as I've been saying to several people that I'm discussing this with, I struggle a bit with this section because you can come up with a scenario on either side where some form of injustice might occur, which is sort of why in some ways I'd like a chance for us to have a longer and more thorough discussion about it and how to set up some protections for some of those scenarios.

One question I have. So when it's ex parte – let's say that you've got a child who's in care that is a victim of a fatality. I don't know the stats, Minister, but I would expect that at least 50 per cent of them have siblings in care. At least. I suspect you could probably give us that information. Probably at least 50 per cent, maybe more. Half of those kids have siblings in care. The way this is written right now is that that means, then, that the ministry goes off to court ex parte, makes the application on the basis of the fact that there are younger siblings in care. The question is: if it's ex parte, does anyone in the family get notice? I know we often think that the fight is between the ministry and the media, but on a day-to-day basis it's often other members of the family, or it could be. If it's ex parte, does it mean that the family gets notice? That's my first question. How do you define if anybody in the family gets notice? Who gets notice? That's a question I have. Or does ex parte mean that, no, it's the ministry just basically saying: "We know there are four other siblings in care. We're going. We're doing an ex parte. We're not engaging with the family at all on this?"

If that's the case, then what if the family has evidence about clause 2, the known wishes of the deceased child? How does the judge even consider that? Does the judge then actually have a hearing and bring in and compel witnesses? I don't think they do in an ex parte hearing. The question becomes: well, how do we know what the known wishes are? You've got two criteria there. The very people that can give evidence on criterion 2 are by definition often not getting notice of the hearing. I'm not saying that the government is doing this intentionally or with any malicious thought, but what I can see is that probably at least half of the kids in question here will have siblings in care, so it would be almost a pro forma policy that you would do the ex parte thing. Then we've talked previously about the fact: how many of those families are able to navigate an ex parte or non ex parte application? I'm not sure which.

I actually have a genuine question. Is the family given notice when that happens, and if not, how do we deal with the fact that they may have evidence on one of the two criteria that you're asking the judge to consider? I just think you may be also legislatively building in a conundrum there that the judge will struggle with. "You've got ex parte. You want me to consider this evidence. I don't know how to consider this evidence. It may be ex parte, but now I actually have to start subpoenaing witnesses because I need to satisfy myself about this evidence." What's that process look like?

Then, of course, the other piece of it is that an order doesn't bind the family member, but it does bind the family member from pursuing the publication of the information. As I said before, that means that that family member then has to go back into court. I'd always talked about the reverse onus. This is kind of a reverse onus because it's ex parte. We've talked about how legally equipped the ministry is relative to many of the families they work with, that reverse onus when it's ex parte is not really a reverse onus because nobody is giving evidence from the other side. So that's a concern. When you have a reverse onus, presumably someone is on the other side arguing the other side. That's what I was trying to get at when I talked about the reverse onus process.

I appreciate what you're saying about the time limits. I know that the minute you get two parties to a legal dispute, you've got a time issue, and I know that sometimes you have to deal with these very quickly. I'm not saying that I've got the answer, once again, but I am saying that there are some concerns there that you're not really doing a reverse onus. You are asking the judge to consider evidence that you're not letting him have before him through the process that you're setting up.

A couple of observations there. Certainly, if you have information to provide us about what the role of the family is, that would be helpful.

The Chair: The hon. Member for Edmonton-Centre, please.

Ms Blakeman: Thank you. While the minister is looking things up, part of what I'm starting to wonder – what I'm not starting to wonder is why I have never been the critic for this portfolio. That I'm not wondering about. That's pretty clear to me right now. But I sort of have, aside from the rule of 500, a rule of 3 to 5 per cent. I'm wondering if the minister has numbers because we could be coming up with all kinds of scenarios that, yes, might possibly happen, but, you know, is this 1 child in 5,000? Is it appropriate to turn the world upside down for that? I'm just wondering how often this kind of thing is likely to be needed. You must have thought about that if you've put it in the legislation. I am a little concerned now that we're digging so deep that I'm wondering if we're changing the world for half a per cent. I mean, that might be valid. Sometimes you do that. But I am starting to wonder that. So if I could just add that little request for information onto my colleague . . .

Ms Notley: You're asking about the ex parte and how long does a session last?

Ms Blakeman: Yeah, yeah. I do take the point that was made – I think it was Calgary-Elbow – that sometimes families can be awful to each other, particularly awful. Like, nobody is more insulting to you than your little brother, right? So sometimes families can be their own worst enemies, and they might be a big part of the problem with ex parte and trying to get in on things that they shouldn't be in on. Yeah. That's what my question is around generally. I'm kind of undecided about how I'm going to vote on this. I actually had included it in an amendment I was going to do, and now I've taken it out. So if you're able to answer that or if anybody is, I'd appreciate it.

The Chair: The hon. Minister of Human Services.

Mr. Bhullar: Thank you, Mr. Chair. You know, a lot of the questions I'm hearing and concerns I'm hearing seek very simple solutions. The fact is that when you look at who alone a family member is and how many different people can have touched a child's life, it can be incredibly complex in this particular area. I mean, if we want to start talking about who you need to serve before you do an application, a child could have been in care since birth – we have children that are in care since birth – and that child could have such significant medical issues because mom was addicted to crack. These are stories you hear. As a result, that particular child may not have a great life expectancy.

5:40

So in that particular case, you know, if there are other siblings involved, how do you determine who you need to inform? How do you determine who needs to be there at the application? That's the challenge with this. But the fact is that for those who don't want their child's picture published, they need to be able to make an application in a short period of time. That's the issue here. What I heard very loud and clear at the round-table and since then is: treat us as you treat others. But if there is a child whose family is incredibly diverse and you have one person out of 10 who says, "Yes, I want to publish the picture" and you have nine others that say, "No; who are you going to serve for an application that's not ex parte?", how are you going to allow that process to happen before there is actual publication?

You know, we're looking at cases here where there is a death. The Member for Edmonton-Centre is asking for numbers. The numbers are far too much still. If you have five or 10 a year, that's five or 10 too many. If you have 15 or 20, that's still far too many. With respect to the number of children that pass away that have siblings in the system, I don't have a number handy, but a large proportion, I would say 30 to 40 per cent of kids who are in care, have other siblings in care. That's a rough number, 30 to 40 per cent.

So with that, Mr. Chair, I think I understand some of the questions coming forth, but we cannot anticipate for every eventuality with this particular piece, and I would rather side on the ability of a family to be able to bring forth a quick order before there is publication if that is their wish.

The Chair: Are there other speakers to the amendment?

Seeing none, I'll call the question on amendment A4.

[Motion on amendment A4 lost]

The Chair: We will go back to the bill.

Speaking on the bill, the hon. Member for Edmonton-Centre.

Ms Blakeman: Thanks. As I mentioned, I also have an amendment that I will pass to someone.

The Chair: This will be A5.

Ms Blakeman: A5?

The Chair: A5.

Ms Blakeman: Oh, wait a minute. I just sent you the wrong one, didn't I? Yeah. Sorry; can I get that back?

The Chair: Would you, please? Thank you.

Ms Blakeman: Sorry, Mr. Chair. Momentary brain freeze.

An Hon. Member: Momentary?

Ms Blakeman: Yeah. It's momentary. I'm having a bad day here. You just don't want to be getting me even crankier than I am because you wouldn't believe how long I can talk when I'm really cranky.

Sorry; that was my fault. I had an amendment that I had actually tried to change and got excited at that moment and leapt up and gave the old amendment, so there may or may not be a new one coming. What I was attempting to do is to add to the same section we're talking about. This will just make the poor minister . . .

The Chair: Hon. Member, you're just speaking? You don't have an amendment right now?

Ms Blakeman: No, not at this second, but, you know, I'm ever hopeful.

The Chair: Thank you. Hope springs eternal.

Ms Blakeman: But what I would like to do if I had an amendment would be that under that same section we've been talking about, which is on page 9 of the bill if you like the paper bill, otherwise it's under section 16 of the bill, which is amending section 126.3, and this comes in (3), so that we're in the same section – we're talking about the same thing. If a child receiving services has died,

- (a) a director,
- (b) a family member, or
- (c) with leave of the Court, any other person

[can] make an ex parte application . . . that no person [can] publish, [in any way] . . . the deceased [child's information].

Although, the court does have to take into consideration:

- (a) the best interests of [the] child . . . who is a sibling . . . and
- (b) the known wishes of the deceased child.

At this point I would then insert two clauses, one of which would say that the proceedings under the previous section would be closed to the general public but open to representatives of the press, radio, and television unless the court on an application is satisfied that such representatives being there would be manifestly harmful. Yeah, it's closing it to the public, but it would allow the media to be there. The media in many cases act as a watchdog on behalf of all of us. You know, they don't always need to publish, but they do need to, I think, be there to witness what's going on.

The second part of an amendment that I would do if I had an amendment, which I may well have today if things are looking up for me, would be to say that no report of a proceeding can disclose the names of any of the people that are involved in the proceeding as a witness, as a party, or disclose the identity of any such person. This is taking everything a step further than others have gone, but it is taken directly from the legislation that is in Manitoba. I basically just lifted those sections because I was quite persuaded, when I heard of it, that this was another way of ensuring a double check or an extra layer of transparency. So it does inject the electronic and other media into this situation, but it can also have them taken out, you know, if there's an application. It leaves it up to the judge and gives them the flexibility. They can't report and identify who's in the room.

Oh, my goodness. Thank you so much. It's my lucky day, Mr. Chairperson. I am going to send . . .

The Chair: An amendment.

Ms Blakeman: . . . an amendment to the table.

The Chair: Wonderful. It would become A5, hon. member.

Ms Blakeman: It would be A5, actually. Thank you.

The Chair: It would be A5, absolutely.

Ms Blakeman: My thanks to all of the amazing people that help us MLAs try and get things done, which includes all the people at the table and the pages. I'll just pause for a moment and let you actually get your hands on this amendment so that you can see what I'm up to.

The Chair: I'm sure you could start, hon. member.

Ms Blakeman: Thanks. Well, that's just encouraging, that everyone is paying such close attention.

As I was saying, these two clauses would be – I don't think you say "injected"; that's probably not the right language – placed . . .

An Hon. Member: Inserted.

Ms Blakeman: Inserted. Thank you.

. . . inserted almost at the end of this whole section about trying to get a publication ban in place, who can be there, whether it's ex parte, what decisions the judges can make, taking into consideration the siblings of a child who's died while in care, and the known wishes of the child. Then I'm trying to insert under there that the proceedings would be closed to the general public but shall be open to representatives of the press, radio and television unless the court is satisfied that the presence of such representatives would be manifestly harmful to any person involved in the proceedings.

There's an out clause, but it says that otherwise the media are going to be in the room. If the judge is satisfied that's a problem, they can boot them.

Then, no report of that proceeding, of that ex parte application, can disclose the name of any of the people that are involved there. So you get away from, you know, describing family members or who's the representative of the department or any of that. Those names are all taken out of it. But it does allow the media to be in the room as an additional witness, and they would know, based on the outcome of that particular decision if it gets to that point, whether in fact there is a ban on the publication of the name of the child or not.

5:50

As I said, I took this from the Manitoba legislation pretty much word for word. That's what they use. I'm satisfied that it works in another jurisdiction, a jurisdiction that's fairly similar to ours in makeup and in diversity and number of kids in care.

I'd ask people to support this. I think it's a pretty good idea. I look forward to the discussion from everyone else. I do move amendment A5.

The Chair: Thank you, hon. member.

We have amendment A5 on the floor. Might I ask, hon. members, that you keep your side conversations a little lighter, please? Thank you.

Anyone else to speak to the amendment? The hon. Member for Innisfail-Sylvan Lake.

Mrs. Towle: Thank you, Mr. Chair. I'm happy to rise and speak in support of this motion. I think it's important that we look to other provinces and see what their legislation has done. As the member from the fabulous constituency of Edmonton-Centre has said, this is directly taken from the Manitoba legislation. I'm happy to see it put in here today.

This essentially says that it will be closed to the general public at the beginning, but it can be open to all representatives. It's not held ex parte. It leaves the ability for the judge to decide what is manifestly harmful to the person in the proceedings. It creates an open and transparent process. It allows for the judge to be the key objective person to decide who should and should not be there. It also allows the media to hear the context in which the argument is being made for the ban to happen, and should the ban be granted, they cannot report on it. It might go a long way – and I think it would go a long way – to educating a lot of people about what that process looks like, the process for how people make the decision to grant or go through an application for a ban.

It also says, "No report of a proceeding under subsection (2) shall disclose the name of any person involved in the proceedings as a party or a witness or disclose any information likely to identify any such person." That's really important because it allows for an open, transparent, fair process. It additionally goes on to say that the judge, who's objective and fair, will be the determining factor. Then over and above that it allows the people who are there, who are arguing for the ban or against the ban, to understand the whole picture as to why the person is making the application but also the impact of why the ban should or should not be covered.

I think it goes a long way. This is definitely a different way to do things, and I think the minister would be really moving us forward if he had the opportunity to support this amendment. Thank you.

The Chair: Other speakers to the amendment?

Seeing none, I'll call the question.

[Motion on amendment A5 lost]

The Chair: We're back to the bill.

Ms Notley: I guess I'm just sort of speaking generally because I don't have my amendments back, so I will just speak in the hope that we can reconvene in committee tomorrow afternoon.

We've had an interesting discussion and we will continue to have an interesting discussion about the issue of how we deal with a publication ban. Having discussions with the minister about maybe a different approach to it, where – it seems to me that just through the discussions that we've had already, we've had a lot of different scenarios that have been put forward. There may be some issues there with how this will ultimately be implemented. There are ways that we can deal with that. Obviously, the regulations are the mechanism through which the publication ban process and the ex parte process will be implemented, so perhaps there's an opportunity to allow for a process where we would have some form of all-party discussion before implementing the regulations, that would circumscribe the process through which the ex parte applications were made. That might be a way to go. I think that that's an important thing to consider, and we're certainly looking into that.

One of the other issues, as I said before, that I think we need to deal with in order to ensure that we really get the best out of this bill is to do a better job of outlining the responsibilities of the children's advocate. One of the things that happened when we first brought in the children's advocate legislation was that we lost the quarterly reports. It used to be that the children's advocate had to provide a quarterly report of who was contacting him, including mandatory notifications, and those had to be done every three months. They were given to the minister, and then the advocate also had to release them.

That provided information that was important because the mandatory notices are the notices under the act that, you know, teachers, doctors, neighbours, and people like that have to provide to the ministry where they think that there is a child that may be at risk. We used to get those every three months, and it was worth while to sort of see what the state of the world was. It was also good, I think, in terms of having people understand what it was that folks within the system were dealing with and trying to juggle and to manage. So when the children's advocate act was passed, making the advocate an officer of the Legislature, one of the casualties of that process was the quarterly reporting. So I'm hoping that we'll be able to have some consideration later about reinjecting that into the mandate of the children's advocate.

We will be talking about that because I think that, again, we're continuing to move towards – in my view, the more we have an open, healthy discussion about the issues that face these vulnerable children, the more we're prepared as a society to do what's necessary to try and do right by those vulnerable children and their families. If you keep it quiet, everybody can just pretend everything is fine and just look the other way. If we have an open, healthy discussion about the many complex challenges which these children and their families face, not necessarily in an individualized, name-and-picture kind of way but just in a more generalized way, then I think we're in a better place to be able to, as I say, build that community consensus for the actions that need to be taken to really make a major difference.

That's why, in my mind, it's always about enhancing transparency, enhancing the opportunity for community discussion, and, of course, ensuring that we do that in the most independent of ways.

Yes. We seem to be there.

Ms Blakeman: What about upstream things?

Ms Notley: Upstream things?

Ms Blakeman: Before we get to this point.

Ms Notley: Well, of course, we know and we've talked before about the fact that we're doing all of this discussion – and that's great – but at the end of the day, what we really need to be doing is moving forward on that unfortunate promise, that was ignored the minute it was . . .

The Chair: I hesitate to interrupt the Member for Edmonton-Strathcona, but it is 6 o'clock, and the committee will stand adjourned until 7:30 p.m.

[The committee adjourned at 6 p.m.]

Table of Contents

Prayers	721
Introduction of Guests	721, 731
Members' Statements
Task Force for Teaching Excellence Report	722
AltaLink 722
Mental Health Services	723
Government Policies	723
Skilled Labour Shortage	732
Family Caregivers	732
Oral Question Period
Electricity Prices	723, 729
Family Care Clinics	724
Disaster Recovery Program Administration	724
Government Communications	725
Electricity System	726
In Vitro Fertilization Funding	726
Educational System Reform	727
Temporary Foreign Worker Program	727
Continuity of Care for Children at Risk	728
Support for Vulnerable Albertans	728
Primary Health Care Delivery	729
Postsecondary Education Funding	730
Construction Labour Legislation Review	730
Innovation System	731
Presenting Reports by Standing and Special Committees	732
Introduction of Bills
Bill 13 Condominium Property Amendment Act, 2014	733
Tabling Returns and Reports	733
Tablings to the Clerk	735
Orders of the Day	735
Government Bills and Orders
Second Reading
Bill 12 Statutes Amendment Act, 2014	735
Private Bills
Second Reading
Bill Pr. 1 Rosebud School of the Arts Amendment Act, 2014	737
Bill Pr. 2 Maskwachees Cultural College Amendment Act, 2014	737
Government Bills and Orders
Second Reading
Bill 11 Child, Youth and Family Enhancement Amendment Act, 2014	737
Bill 12 Statutes Amendment Act, 2014	740
Government Bills and Orders
Committee of the Whole
Bill 11 Child, Youth and Family Enhancement Amendment Act, 2014	745

If your address is incorrect, please clip on the dotted line, make any changes, and return to the address listed below. To facilitate the update, please attach the last mailing label along with your account number.

Subscriptions
Legislative Assembly Office
1001 Legislature Annex
9718 – 107 Street
EDMONTON, AB T5K 1E4

Last mailing label:

Account # _____

New information:

Name:

Address:

Subscription information:

Annual subscriptions to the paper copy of Alberta Hansard (including annual index) are $127.50 including GST if mailed once a week or $94.92 including GST if picked up at the subscription address below or if mailed through the provincial government interdepartmental mail system. Bound volumes are $121.70 including GST if mailed. Cheques should be made payable to the Minister of Finance.

Price per issue is $0.75 including GST.

Online access to Alberta Hansard is available through the Internet at www.assembly.ab.ca

Subscription inquiries:

Subscriptions
Legislative Assembly Office
1001 Legislature Annex
9718 – 107 St.
EDMONTON, AB T5K 1E4
Telephone: 780.427.1302

Other inquiries:

Managing Editor
Alberta Hansard
1001 Legislature Annex
9718 – 107 St.
EDMONTON, AB T5K 1E4
Telephone: 780.427.1875

Province of Alberta

The 28th Legislature
Second Session

Alberta Hansard

Tuesday evening, May 6, 2014

Issue 26e

The Honourable Gene Zwozdesky, Speaker

Legislative Assembly of Alberta The 28th Legislature

Second Session

Zwozdesky, Hon. Gene, Edmonton-Mill Creek (PC), Speaker
Rogers, George, Leduc-Beaumont (PC), Deputy Speaker and Chair of Committees
Jablonski, Mary Anne, Red Deer-North (PC), Deputy Chair of Committees

Allen, Mike, Fort McMurray-Wood Buffalo (Ind)
Amery, Moe, Calgary-East (PC)
Anderson, Rob, Airdrie (W),
Official Opposition House Leader
Anglin, Joe, Rimbey-Rocky Mountain House-Sundre (W)
Barnes, Drew, Cypress-Medicine Hat (W)
Bhardwaj, Hon. Naresh, Edmonton-Ellerslie (PC)
Bhullar, Hon. Manmeet Singh, Calgary-Greenway (PC)
Bikman, Gary, Cardston-Taber-Warner (W)
Bilous, Deron, Edmonton-Beverly-Clareview (ND)
Blakeman, Laurie, Edmonton-Centre (AL),
Liberal Opposition House Leader
Brown, Dr. Neil, QC, Calgary-Mackay-Nose Hill (PC)
Calahasen, Pearl, Lesser Slave Lake (PC)
Campbell, Hon. Robin, West Yellowhead (PC),
Government House Leader
Cao, Wayne C.N., Calgary-Fort (PC)
Casey, Ron, Banff-Cochrane (PC)
Cusanelli, Christine, Calgary-Currie (PC)
Dallas, Hon. Cal, Red Deer-South (PC)
DeLong, Alana, Calgary-Bow (PC)
Denis, Hon. Jonathan, QC, Calgary-Acadia (PC),
Deputy Government House Leader
Donovan, Ian, Little Bow (W)
Dorward, David C., Edmonton-Gold Bar (PC),
Deputy Government Whip
Drysdale, Hon. Wayne, Grande Prairie-Wapiti (PC)
Eggen, David, Edmonton-Calder (ND),
New Democrat Opposition Whip
Fawcett, Hon. Kyle, Calgary-Klein (PC)
Fenske, Jacquie, Fort Saskatchewan-Vegreville (PC)
Forsyth, Heather, Calgary-Fish Creek (W)
Fox, Rodney M., Lacombe-Ponoka (W)
Fraser, Hon. Rick, Calgary-South East (PC)
Fritz, Yvonne, Calgary-Cross (PC)
Goudreau, Hector G., Dunvegan-Central Peace-Notley (PC)
Griffiths, Hon. Doug, Battle River-Wainwright (PC)
Hale, Jason W., Strathmore-Brooks (W)
Hancock, Hon. Dave, QC, Edmonton-Whitemud (PC),
Premier
Hehr, Kent, Calgary-Buffalo (AL)
Horne, Hon. Fred, Edmonton-Rutherford (PC)
Horner, Hon. Doug, Spruce Grove-St. Albert (PC)
Hughes, Ken, Calgary-West (PC)
Jansen, Hon. Sandra, Calgary-North West (PC)
Jeneroux, Matt, Edmonton-South West (PC)
Johnson, Hon. Jeff, Athabasca-Sturgeon-Redwater (PC)
Johnson, Linda, Calgary-Glenmore (PC)
Kang, Darshan S., Calgary-McCall (AL),
Liberal Opposition Whip
Kennedy-Glans, Donna, QC, Calgary-Varsity (Ind)
Khan, Stephen, St. Albert (PC)
Klimchuk, Hon. Heather, Edmonton-Glenora (PC)
Kubinec, Maureen, Barrhead-Morinville-Westlock (PC)
Lemke, Ken, Stony Plain (PC)
Leskiw, Genia, Bonnyville-Cold Lake (PC)
Luan, Jason, Calgary-Hawkwood (PC)
Lukaszuk, Hon. Thomas A., Edmonton-Castle Downs (PC)
Mason, Brian, Edmonton-Highlands-Norwood (ND),
Leader of the New Democrat Opposition
McAllister, Bruce, Chestermere-Rocky View (W)
McDonald, Everett, Grande Prairie-Smoky (PC)
McIver, Hon. Ric, Calgary-Hays (PC)
McQueen, Hon. Diana, Drayton Valley-Devon (PC)
Notley, Rachel, Edmonton-Strathcona (ND),
New Democrat Opposition House Leader
Oberle, Hon. Frank, Peace River (PC),
Deputy Government House Leader
Olesen, Cathy, Sherwood Park (PC)
Olson, Hon. Verlyn, QC, Wetaskiwin-Camrose (PC),
Deputy Government House Leader
Pastoor, Bridget Brennan, Lethbridge-East (PC)
Pedersen, Blake, Medicine Hat (W)
Quadri, Sohail, Edmonton-Mill Woods (PC)
Quest, Hon. Dave, Strathcona-Sherwood Park (PC)
Redford, Alison M., QC, Calgary-Elbow (PC)
Rodney, Hon. Dave, Calgary-Lougheed (PC)
Rowe, Bruce, Olds-Didsbury-Three Hills (W)
Sandhu, Peter, Edmonton-Manning (PC)
Sarich, Janice, Edmonton-Decore (PC)
Saskiw, Shayne, Lac La Biche-St. Paul-Two Hills (W),
Official Opposition Whip
Scott, Hon. Donald, QC, Fort McMurray-Conklin (PC)
Sherman, Dr. Raj, Edmonton-Meadowlark (AL),
Leader of the Liberal Opposition
Smith, Danielle, Highwood (W),
Leader of the Official Opposition
Starke, Hon. Dr. Richard, Vermilion-Lloydminster (PC)
Stier, Pat, Livingstone-Macleod (W)
Strankman, Rick, Drumheller-Stettler (W)
Swann, Dr. David, Calgary-Mountain View (AL)
Towle, Kerry, Innisfail-Sylvan Lake (W),
Official Opposition Deputy Whip
VanderBurg, George, Whitecourt-Ste. Anne (PC),
Government Whip
Weadick, Hon. Greg, Lethbridge-West (PC)
Webber, Len, Calgary-Foothills (Ind)
Wilson, Jeff, Calgary-Shaw (W),
Official Opposition Deputy House Leader
Woo-Paw, Hon. Teresa, Calgary-Northern Hills (PC)
Xiao, David H., Edmonton-McClung (PC)
Young, Steve, Edmonton-Riverview (PC)

Party standings:

Progressive Conservative: 58 Wildrose: 17 Alberta Liberal: 5 New Democrat: 4 Independent: 3

Officers and Officials of the Legislative Assembly

W.J. David McNeil, Clerk	Stephanie LeBlanc, Parliamentary Counsel and Legal Research Officer	Philip Massolin, Manager of Research Services
Robert H. Reynolds, QC, Law Clerk/ Director of Interparliamentary Relations	Fiona Vance, Sessional Parliamentary Counsel	Brian G. Hodgson, Sergeant-at-Arms
Shannon Dean, Senior Parliamentary Counsel/Director of House Services	Nancy Robert, Research Officer	Chris Caughell, Assistant Sergeant-at-Arms
		Gordon H. Munk, Assistant Sergeant-at-Arms
		Janet Schwegel, Managing Editor of Alberta Hansard

Executive Council

Dave Hancock	Premier, President of Executive Council, Minister of Innovation and Advanced Education
Naresh Bhardwaj	Associate Minister – Services for Persons with Disabilities
Manmeet Singh Bhullar	Minister of Human Services
Robin Campbell	Minister of Environment and Sustainable Resource Development
Cal Dallas	Minister of International and Intergovernmental Relations
Jonathan Denis	Minister of Justice and Solicitor General
Wayne Drysdale	Minister of Transportation
Kyle Fawcett	Associate Minister – Recovery and Reconstruction for Southwest Alberta
Rick Fraser	Associate Minister – Public Safety Associate Minister – Recovery and Reconstruction for High River
Doug Griffiths	Minister of Service Alberta
Fred Horne	Minister of Health
Doug Horner	President of Treasury Board and Minister of Finance
Sandra Jansen	Associate Minister – Family and Community Safety
Jeff Johnson	Minister of Education, Ministerial Liaison to the Canadian Forces
Heather Klimchuk	Minister of Culture
Thomas Lukaszuk	Minister of Jobs, Skills, Training and Labour
Ric McIver	Minister of Infrastructure
Diana McQueen	Minister of Energy
Frank Oberle	Minister of Aboriginal Relations
Verlyn Olson	Minister of Agriculture and Rural Development
Dave Quest	Associate Minister – Seniors
Dave Rodney	Associate Minister – Wellness
Donald Scott	Associate Minister – Accountability, Transparency and Transformation
Richard Starke	Minister of Tourism, Parks and Recreation
Greg Weadick	Associate Minister – Recovery and Reconstruction for Southeast Alberta
Teresa Woo-Paw	Associate Minister – International and Intergovernmental Relations

STANDING AND SPECIAL COMMITTEES OF THE LEGISLATIVE ASSEMBLY OF ALBERTA

Standing Committee on Alberta's Economic Future

Chair: Mr. Amery

Deputy Chair: Mr. Fox

Dorward	Pastoor
Eggen	Quadri
Hehr	Rogers
Kubinec	Rowe
Lemke	Sarich
Luan	Stier
McDonald

Standing Committee on the Alberta Heritage Savings Trust Fund

Chair: Mr. Casey

Deputy Chair: Mrs. Jablonski

Amery	Khan
Barnes	Sandhu
Dorward	Sherman
Eggen

Select Special Ethics Commissioner Search Committee

Chair: Mr. Rogers

Deputy Chair: Mr. Quadri

Blakeman	Leskiw
Eggen	McDonald
Goudreau	Saskiw
Lemke

Standing Committee on Families and Communities

Chair: Ms Olesen

Deputy Chair: Mrs. Forsyth

Cusanelli	McAllister
DeLong	Notley
Fenske	Pedersen
Fritz	Sandhu
Jablonski	Swann
Jeneroux	VanderBurg
Leskiw

Standing Committee on Legislative Offices

Chair: Mr. Jeneroux

Deputy Chair: Mr. McDonald

Bikman	Leskiw
Blakeman	Quadri
Brown	Wilson
DeLong	Young
Eggen

Special Standing Committee on Members' Services

Chair: Mr. Zwozdesky

Deputy Chair: Mr. VanderBurg

Casey	Mason
Forsyth	McDonald
Fritz	Sherman
Johnson, L.	Towle
Kubinec

Standing Committee on Private Bills

Chair: Mr. Xiao

Deputy Chair: Mrs. Leskiw

Allen	Notley
Brown	Olesen
Cusanelli	Rowe
DeLong	Stier
Fenske	Strankman
Fritz	Swann
Jablonski

Standing Committee on Privileges and Elections, Standing Orders and Printing

Chair: Ms Kubinec

Deputy Chair: Mr. Rogers

Calahasen	Pastoor
Casey	Pedersen
Kang	Saskiw
Khan	VanderBurg
Luan	Wilson
Notley	Young
Olesen

Standing Committee on Public Accounts

Chair: Mr. Anderson

Deputy Chair: Mr. Dorward

Allen	Khan
Amery	Luan
Barnes	Pastoor
Bilous	Sandhu
Donovan	Sarich
Fenske	Young
Hehr

Standing Committee on Resource Stewardship

Chair: Mr. Khan

Deputy Chair: Mr. Anglin

Allen	Goudreau
Bikman	Hale
Bilous	Johnson, L.
Blakeman	Webber
Brown	Xiao
Calahasen	Young
Casey

Legislative Assembly of Alberta

7:30 p.m.

Tuesday, May 6, 2014

Government Bills and Orders
Committee of the Whole

[Mr. Rogers in the chair]

The Chair: Hon. members, please be seated. We'll call the Committee of the Whole back to order.

Bill 11
Child, Youth and Family Enhancement
Amendment Act, 2014

The Chair: I don't believe we have an amendment on the floor. We're on the bill.

I'll recognize the Member for Innisfail-Sylvan Lake.

Mrs. Towle: Thank you, Mr. Chair. The other side of the House will be pleased to know that this is my last amendment, so I'll wait for it to be passed out.

The Chair: Hon. members, we'll call this amendment A6.
Hon. member, you may proceed.

Mrs. Towle: Thank you, Mr. Chair. I'm pleased to rise tonight to speak to amendment A6. Amendment A6 is asking that an amendment be done to section 16 in the proposed section 126.3(3) by striking out "and" at the end of clause (a) and by adding "and" at the end of clause (b) and adding the following:

(c) the public interest in the administration of justice.

So what this actually means is that – right now under section 3, under the publication ban section,

(3) The Court may grant an order applied for under subsection

(2) if the Court is satisfied that the order would be appropriate, having regard to . . .

This goes back to when we were talking about the best interests of the child, the best known wishes of the child in that. Right now it says:

(a) the best interests of any child receiving intervention services who is a sibling of the deceased child, and

(b) the known wishes of the deceased child.

I'm asking that we amend it to include "the public interest in the administration of justice."

The reason for this amendment is that, yes, we need to know the best wishes of the family and any siblings. We also need to be aware of the known wishes of the deceased child, but there could be a public interest argument to be made, that the judge could consider, that might actually either be considered as much as or as a part of the discussion when they're considering the order.

This could happen for a multitude of reasons. Especially in an ex parte application, which we've already discussed here, there might be the opportunity for the judge to say, "No. That is not enough. We need to consider the public interest as a whole" and in doing that to order the ban or not grant the order for the ban on that. This would allow for other parties to attend the ex parte should they be notified of it or should they be given the opportunity, but it also broadens the scope under which the judge can make a decision to grant or ban the order. The judge has some discretion to look at the community, the culture, the province, and the whole factors that affect whether he or she is going to grant an order applied for under the subsection.

I would hope that the members in this House would be able to support this amendment, and I look forward to hearing the arguments.

The Chair: The hon. Minister of Human Services.

Mr. Bhullar: Thank you very much, Mr. Chair. This is something that I feel that I can support. The public interest is something that the courts always consider. By having it in the legislation, I think it does us no harm, and it further solidifies the fact that each case needs to be looked at within the broader perspective of the public interest as well. So it's something that I do support.

The Chair: Other speakers to the amendment? The hon. Member for Edmonton-Calder.

Mr. Eggen: Yes. Thank you, Mr. Chair, and thanks so much for this amendment. I think this was something that was identified in the last 10 days or so by a number of different bodies, including the media, in regard to the disclosure of information. I'm very happy to see that there is some, again, co-operation across the aisle. This is becoming a trend, somewhat disturbing but in a good way. I appreciate the essence of this amendment. I think the Alberta New Democrats were actually working on something like this as well, so certainly I can support this amendment. Let's get it done.

The Chair: The hon. Member for Calgary-McCall.

Mr. Kang: Thank you, Mr. Chair. I also want to congratulate the minister, you know, for accepting the amendment. Whenever the minister talks anywhere, he talks about the public interest, the public good. In the interest of the public I think it's good to accept this amendment. This will only strengthen the bill. I congratulate the minister for accepting the amendment.

Thank you, Mr. Chair.

The Chair: Thank you.

Are there other speakers to the amendment?

Seeing none, I'll call the question on amendment A6.

[The voice vote indicated that the motion on amendment A6 lost]

[Several members rose calling for a division. The division bell was rung at 7:36 p.m.]

[Ten minutes having elapsed, the committee divided]

[Mr. Rogers in the chair]

For the motion:

Amery	Eggen	Kang
Anderson	Fawcett	Kubinec
Barnes	Fenske	Lemke
Bhardwaj	Fox	Leskiw
Bhullar	Fraser	Oberle
Bikman	Fritz	Redford
Brown	Goudreau	Rodney
Calahasen	Griffiths	Rowe
Campbell	Hale	Sandhu
Casey	Horne	Scott
Cusanelli	Hughes	Towle
Dallas	Jansen	Weadick
Dorward	Jeneroux	Woo-Paw
Drysdale	Johnson, L.

Totals: For – 41 Against – 0

[Motion on amendment A6 carried unanimously]

The Chair: We're back to the bill, then, hon. members. Other speakers?

Seeing none, the hon. Government House Leader.

Mr. Campbell: Mr. Chair, I move that we adjourn debate and that when the committee rises, we report progress.

[Motion carried]

Bill 12
Statutes Amendment Act, 2014

The Chair: The committee has under consideration Bill 12, the Statutes Amendment Act, 2014. Speaking to the bill? Question?

Hon. Members: Question.

[The clauses of Bill 12 agreed to]

[Title and preamble agreed to]

The Chair: Shall the bill be reported? Are you agreed?

Hon. Members: Agreed.

The Chair: Opposed? That is carried.

Private Bills
Committee of the Whole

Bill Pr. 1
Rosebud School of the Arts Amendment Act, 2014

The Chair: The hon. member for Strathmore-Brooks.

Mr. Hale: Thank you, Mr. Chair. I'm proud to stand in Committee of the Whole on Bill Pr. 1, Rosebud School of the Arts Amendment Act, 2014. I'd just like to mention that it went through committee, and no amendments were suggested in committee. I believe we have no amendments. So I'd like to call the question.

7:50

The Chair: Are you ready for the question on Bill Pr. 1? Agreed?

Hon. Members: Agreed.

[The clauses of Bill Pr. 1 agreed to]

[Title and preamble agreed to]

The Chair: Shall the bill be reported? Are you agreed?

Hon. Members: Agreed.

The Chair: Opposed? That is carried.

Bill Pr. 2
Maskwachees Cultural College Amendment Act, 2014

The Chair: The hon. Member for Lesser Slave Lake.

Ms Calahasen: Thank you, Mr. Chairman. I do not believe there are any other comments to be made, so I move that the question be put.

The Chair: Thank you.

Are you ready for the question on Bill Pr. 2? Agreed?

Hon. Members: Agreed.

[The clauses of Bill Pr. 2 agreed to]

[Title and preamble agreed to]

The Chair: Shall the bill be reported? Are you agreed?

Hon. Members: Agreed.

The Chair: Opposed? That is carried.

The hon. Government House Leader.

Mr. Campbell: Yes, Mr. Chair. I'd ask for unanimous consent that we do third reading of Pr. 1 and Pr. 2.

The Chair: We have to rise and report. So you move that the committee rise and report?

Mr. Campbell: Okay. Rise and report first.

[Motion carried]

[The Deputy Speaker in the chair]

The Deputy Speaker: The hon. Member for Edmonton-South West.

Mr. Jeneroux: Yes. Thank you, Mr. Speaker. The Committee of the Whole has had under consideration certain bills. The committee reports the following bills: Bill 12, Bill Pr. 1, Bill Pr. 2. The committee reports progress on the following bill: Bill 11. I wish to table copies of all amendments considered by the Committee of the Whole on this date for the official records of the Assembly.

The Deputy Speaker: Thank you, hon. member.

Does the Assembly concur in this report?

Hon. Members: Concur.

The Deputy Speaker: Opposed? So ordered.

The hon. Government House Leader.

Mr. Campbell: Yes. Mr. Speaker, I'd ask for the unanimous consent of the House that we deal with third reading of Pr. 1 and Pr. 2.

[Unanimous consent granted]

Private Bills
Third Reading

Bill Pr. 1
Rosebud School of the Arts Amendment Act, 2014

Mr. Hale: I would like to move third reading of Pr. 1.

[Motion carried unanimously; Bill Pr. 1 read a third time]

Bill Pr. 2
Maskwachees Cultural College Amendment Act, 2014

Ms Calahasen: Mr. Speaker, I'd move Bill Pr. 2 for third reading.

[Motion carried unanimously; Bill Pr. 2 read a third time]

Mr. Campbell: Mr. Speaker, I'm a little confused, but that's not abnormal. We've reported Bill 11, the Child, Youth and Family Enhancement Amendment Act, 2014, right? Progress?

The Deputy Speaker: That's correct.

Mr. Campbell: On Bill 12 we've passed Committee of the Whole? Okay. I guess we'll go to third reading on Bill 12. I need unanimous consent. We won't finish. If there are some speakers tonight that want to speak to it, we'll run off some speakers, and then we'll finish it tomorrow so that people who aren't here have a chance to speak to third reading.

The Deputy Speaker: Hon. members, Standing Order 77 requires unanimous consent for two readings of a bill on the same sitting day.

[Unanimous consent granted]

Government Bills and Orders Third Reading

Bill 12 Statutes Amendment Act, 2014

The Deputy Speaker: The hon. Minister of Environment and Sustainable Resource Development.

Mr. Campbell: Well, thank you, Mr. Speaker. I'll be very brief. You know, I thank the Assembly for going through Committee of the Whole so quickly. I think that the amendments that we've brought forward are important amendments. I think that they meet the needs of everyday Albertans, and I would be quite anxious to hear other people's thoughts on third reading, and then I'll move third reading of Bill 12, Statutes Amendment Act, 2014.

The Deputy Speaker: Thank you.

Are there other speakers? The hon. Member for Edmonton-Calder.

Mr. Eggen: Well, thanks, Mr. Speaker, and I appreciate the opportunity to have a few words on Bill 12, Statutes Amendment Act, 2014. I guess that because this is such a collection of legislation, it required some attention here in the spring session. It moves everywhere from charitable fundraising to freehold minerals and the Societies Act and so forth. In sum, certainly, the Alberta New Democrats do support this bill.

I just have a couple of comments, though. First and foremost, always a word of caution in regard to building omnibus bills, okay? We've seen this as a trend in the States and now in the federal government, and I just really want to make sure we always have caution, that we don't build these giant bills that are just unwieldy, and it's difficult to sort out the good from the bad. Now, in this case these are statutes that are mostly innocuous, but, please, we're always on guard to ensure that we don't fall into that bad habit of building these giant omnibus bills that just clog up the legislative process and undermine it as well.

The two areas that I am most interested in in regard to this bill are, first, the section on the Health Information Act and then the section on regional health authorities as well. The information on the Health Information Act, I think, is very timely and important. We're getting this trend where more confidential information is being undermined or lost through electronic records. We had the case of that laptop being stolen from a medicentre. That's one of a long list of incidents like that, and we know that it will carry on until we make substantive changes to the way we handle electronic information.

8:00

This change to the Health Information Act is more of a response or a reaction after something has been stolen. I just want to once again reiterate the importance for us to unify our electronic health records and build a standard procedure that is followed by everyone regardless of whether it's a private or a nonprofit or a public entity dealing with health care. It's very important right now, and I think,

Mr. Speaker, it's a reflection and another caution that as we contract out more of our health system, our public health system, to private contractors, it exposes essential personal information to more and more hands that could potentially not treat it properly or even deal with it for nefarious purposes.

That's certainly an issue. Prevention is worth a pound of cure. But as we saw with the stolen laptop, you know, the lack of notification to the Health minister and other authorities in a timely manner frustrated all of us. I appreciated the Health minister's quick action and, actually, very firm action to precipitate some change in things. We just weren't being notified properly, he wasn't being notified properly, and I think we kind of shook that tree, and something better will happen in the future.

As I say, the prevention side is very important, the importance of a unified electronic health record protocol across the way to ensure that we have encryption at the very highest level all along the way. You know, once that happened, I checked with my own doctor at the Superstore, and he showed me his system. It was very good. It was entirely encrypted. But that was just on his own initiative. It wasn't because he was being told by AHS or by the government to do that. So the quicker we standardize encryption and protection, the better off we're all going to be.

Then the other area of this Bill 12 that I just wanted to make a quick comment on is in regard to changing the authority or increasing the authority of the Ministry and the Minister of Health on Alberta Health Services. Once again, I certainly do support this idea. I think it's time to call the long-standing experiment of Alberta Health Services what it was, which was a buffer by which government could impose health policy, and then if it didn't work out, they could blame a third party, which is Alberta Health Services. Clearly, it hasn't been working. It's been a very cumbersome and long and difficult journey since 2008.

I do not, Mr. Speaker, want to impose another upheaval in our health service. I think the workers have had enough of that kind of thing, of this continuous revolution of policy and so forth. Over time I think it's important for us to dissolve Alberta Health Services, to put more control back to the people on the ground who actually deliver public health care in this province, and to put the ultimate responsibility for both finance and global policy back in the ministry and in this Chamber, where it belongs. I can see that this might be a step in that direction. Over the fullness of time we need to make sure that we do that.

I think that the failed experiment of Alberta Health Services has served no practical purpose, really, except for a few things in regard to perhaps the centralization of certain services, the savings that were realized through the capacity to purchase on a provincial level, and so forth. In regard to the other levels of bureaucracy and the confusion that it's created, I think that it's time to call that.

With those comments, Mr. Speaker, thank you very much.

The Deputy Speaker: Are there others to speak to the bill?

Mr. Anderson: Mr. Speaker, I'd like to move that we adjourn debate on Bill 12.

[Motion to adjourn debate carried]

The Deputy Speaker: The hon. Government House Leader.

Mr. Campbell: Yes, Mr. Speaker. We'll adjourn the evening until 1:30 tomorrow afternoon.

[Motion carried; the Assembly adjourned at 8:05 p.m. to Wednesday at 1:30 p.m.]

Table of Contents

Government Bills and Orders

Committee of the Whole

Bill 11 Child, Youth and Family Enhancement Amendment Act, 2014..... 757

Division 757

Bill 12 Statutes Amendment Act, 2014 758

Third Reading

Bill 12 Statutes Amendment Act, 2014 759

Private Bills

Committee of the Whole

Bill Pr. 1 Rosebud School of the Arts Amendment Act, 2014..... 758

Bill Pr. 2 Maskwachees Cultural College Amendment Act, 2014 758

Third Reading

Bill Pr. 1 Rosebud School of the Arts Amendment Act, 2014..... 758

Bill Pr. 2 Maskwachees Cultural College Amendment Act, 2014 758

If your address is incorrect, please clip on the dotted line, make any changes, and return to the address listed below. To facilitate the update, please attach the last mailing label along with your account number.

Subscriptions
Legislative Assembly Office
1001 Legislature Annex
9718 – 107 Street
EDMONTON, AB T5K 1E4

Last mailing label:

Account # _____

New information:

Name:

Address:

Subscription information:

Annual subscriptions to the paper copy of Alberta Hansard (including annual index) are $127.50 including GST if mailed once a week or $94.92 including GST if picked up at the subscription address below or if mailed through the provincial government interdepartmental mail system. Bound volumes are $121.70 including GST if mailed. Cheques should be made payable to the Minister of Finance.

Price per issue is $0.75 including GST.

Online access to Alberta Hansard is available through the Internet at www.assembly.ab.ca

Subscription inquiries:

Subscriptions
Legislative Assembly Office
1001 Legislature Annex
9718 – 107 St.
EDMONTON, AB T5K 1E4
Telephone: 780.427.1302

Other inquiries:

Managing Editor
Alberta Hansard
1001 Legislature Annex
9718 – 107 St.
EDMONTON, AB T5K 1E4
Telephone: 780.427.1875

Province of Alberta

The 28th Legislature
Second Session

Alberta Hansard

Wednesday afternoon, May 7, 2014

Issue 26a

The Honourable Gene Zwozdesky, Speaker

Legislative Assembly of Alberta The 28th Legislature

Second Session

Zwozdesky, Hon. Gene, Edmonton-Mill Creek (PC), Speaker
Rogers, George, Leduc-Beaumont (PC), Deputy Speaker and Chair of Committees
Jablonski, Mary Anne, Red Deer-North (PC), Deputy Chair of Committees

Allen, Mike, Fort McMurray-Wood Buffalo (Ind)
Amery, Moe, Calgary-East (PC)
Anderson, Rob, Airdrie (W),
 Official Opposition House Leader
Anglin, Joe, Rimbey-Rocky Mountain House-Sundre (W)
Barnes, Drew, Cypress-Medicine Hat (W)
Bhardwaj, Hon. Naresh, Edmonton-Ellerslie (PC)
Bhullar, Hon. Manmeet Singh, Calgary-Greenway (PC)
Bikman, Gary, Cardston-Taber-Warner (W)
Bilous, Deron, Edmonton-Beverly-Clareview (ND)
Blakeman, Laurie, Edmonton-Centre (AL),
 Liberal Opposition House Leader
Brown, Dr. Neil, QC, Calgary-Mackay-Nose Hill (PC)
Calahasen, Pearl, Lesser Slave Lake (PC)
Campbell, Hon. Robin, West Yellowhead (PC),
 Government House Leader
Cao, Wayne C.N., Calgary-Fort (PC)
Casey, Ron, Banff-Cochrane (PC)
Cusanelli, Christine, Calgary-Currie (PC)
Dallas, Hon. Cal, Red Deer-South (PC)
DeLong, Alana, Calgary-Bow (PC)
Denis, Hon. Jonathan, QC, Calgary-Acadia (PC),
 Deputy Government House Leader
Donovan, Ian, Little Bow (W)
Dorward, David C., Edmonton-Gold Bar (PC),
 Deputy Government Whip
Drysdale, Hon. Wayne, Grande Prairie-Wapiti (PC)
Eggen, David, Edmonton-Calder (ND),
 New Democrat Opposition Whip
Fawcett, Hon. Kyle, Calgary-Klein (PC)
Fenske, Jacquie, Fort Saskatchewan-Vegreville (PC)
Forsyth, Heather, Calgary-Fish Creek (W)
Fox, Rodney M., Lacombe-Ponoka (W)
Fraser, Hon. Rick, Calgary-South East (PC)
Fritz, Yvonne, Calgary-Cross (PC)
Goudreau, Hector G., Dunvegan-Central Peace-Notley (PC)
Griffiths, Hon. Doug, Battle River-Wainwright (PC)
Hale, Jason W., Strathmore-Brooks (W)
Hancock, Hon. Dave, QC, Edmonton-Whitemud (PC),
 Premier
Hehr, Kent, Calgary-Buffalo (AL)
Horne, Hon. Fred, Edmonton-Rutherford (PC)
Horner, Hon. Doug, Spruce Grove-St. Albert (PC)
Hughes, Ken, Calgary-West (PC)
Jansen, Hon. Sandra, Calgary-North West (PC)
Jeneroux, Matt, Edmonton-South West (PC)
Johnson, Hon. Jeff, Athabasca-Sturgeon-Redwater (PC)
Johnson, Linda, Calgary-Glenmore (PC)
Kang, Darshan S., Calgary-McCall (AL),
 Liberal Opposition Whip
Kennedy-Glans, Donna, QC, Calgary-Varsity (Ind)
Khan, Stephen, St. Albert (PC)
Klimchuk, Hon. Heather, Edmonton-Glenora (PC)
Kubinec, Maureen, Barrhead-Morinville-Westlock (PC)
Lemke, Ken, Stony Plain (PC)
Leskiw, Genia, Bonnyville-Cold Lake (PC)
Luan, Jason, Calgary-Hawkwood (PC)
Lukaszuk, Hon. Thomas A., Edmonton-Castle Downs (PC)
Mason, Brian, Edmonton-Highlands-Norwood (ND),
 Leader of the New Democrat Opposition
McAllister, Bruce, Chestermere-Rocky View (W)
McDonald, Everett, Grande Prairie-Smoky (PC)
McIver, Ric, Calgary-Hays (PC)
McQueen, Hon. Diana, Drayton Valley-Devon (PC)
Notley, Rachel, Edmonton-Strathcona (ND),
 New Democrat Opposition House Leader
Oberle, Hon. Frank, Peace River (PC),
 Deputy Government House Leader
Olesen, Cathy, Sherwood Park (PC)
Olson, Hon. Verlyn, QC, Wetaskiwin-Camrose (PC),
 Deputy Government House Leader
Pastoor, Bridget Brennan, Lethbridge-East (PC)
Pedersen, Blake, Medicine Hat (W)
Quadri, Sohail, Edmonton-Mill Woods (PC)
Quest, Hon. Dave, Strathcona-Sherwood Park (PC)
Redford, Alison M., QC, Calgary-Elbow (PC)
Rodney, Hon. Dave, Calgary-Lougheed (PC)
Rowe, Bruce, Olds-Didsbury-Three Hills (W)
Sandhu, Peter, Edmonton-Manning (PC)
Sarich, Janice, Edmonton-Decore (PC)
Saskiw, Shayne, Lac La Biche-St. Paul-Two Hills (W),
 Official Opposition Whip
Scott, Hon. Donald, QC, Fort McMurray-Conklin (PC)
Sherman, Dr. Raj, Edmonton-Meadowlark (AL),
 Leader of the Liberal Opposition
Smith, Danielle, Highwood (W),
 Leader of the Official Opposition
Starke, Hon. Dr. Richard, Vermilion-Lloydminster (PC)
Stier, Pat, Livingstone-Macleod (W)
Strankman, Rick, Drumheller-Stettler (W)
Swann, Dr. David, Calgary-Mountain View (AL)
Towle, Kerry, Innisfail-Sylvan Lake (W),
 Official Opposition Deputy Whip
VanderBurg, George, Whitecourt-Ste. Anne (PC),
 Government Whip
Weadick, Hon. Greg, Lethbridge-West (PC)
Webber, Len, Calgary-Foothills (Ind)
Wilson, Jeff, Calgary-Shaw (W),
 Official Opposition Deputy House Leader
Woo-Paw, Hon. Teresa, Calgary-Northern Hills (PC)
Xiao, David H., Edmonton-McClung (PC)
Young, Steve, Edmonton-Riverview (PC)

Party standings:

Progressive Conservative: 58 Wildrose: 17 Alberta Liberal: 5 New Democrat: 4 Independent: 3

Officers and Officials of the Legislative Assembly

W.J. David McNeil, Clerk	Stephanie LeBlanc, Parliamentary Counsel and Legal Research Officer	Philip Massolin, Manager of Research Services
Robert H. Reynolds, QC, Law Clerk/ Director of Interparliamentary Relations	Fiona Vance, Sessional Parliamentary Counsel	Brian G. Hodgson, Sergeant-at-Arms
Shannon Dean, Senior Parliamentary Counsel/Director of House Services	Nancy Robert, Research Officer	Chris Caughell, Assistant Sergeant-at-Arms
		Gordon H. Munk, Assistant Sergeant-at-Arms
		Janet Schwegel, Managing Editor of Alberta Hansard

Executive Council

Dave Hancock	Premier, President of Executive Council, Minister of Innovation and Advanced Education
Naresh Bhardwaj	Associate Minister – Services for Persons with Disabilities
Manmeet Singh Bhullar	Minister of Human Services
Robin Campbell	Minister of Environment and Sustainable Resource Development
Cal Dallas	Minister of International and Intergovernmental Relations
Jonathan Denis	Minister of Justice and Solicitor General
Wayne Drysdale	Minister of Transportation
Kyle Fawcett	Associate Minister – Recovery and Reconstruction for Southwest Alberta
Rick Fraser	Associate Minister – Public Safety Associate Minister – Recovery and Reconstruction for High River
Doug Griffiths	Minister of Service Alberta
Fred Horne	Minister of Health
Doug Horner	President of Treasury Board and Minister of Finance
Sandra Jansen	Associate Minister – Family and Community Safety
Jeff Johnson	Minister of Education, Ministerial Liaison to the Canadian Forces
Heather Klimchuk	Minister of Culture
Thomas Lukaszuk	Minister of Jobs, Skills, Training and Labour
Diana McQueen	Minister of Energy
Frank Oberle	Minister of Aboriginal Relations
Verlyn Olson	Minister of Agriculture and Rural Development
Dave Quest	Associate Minister – Seniors
Dave Rodney	Associate Minister – Wellness
Donald Scott	Associate Minister – Accountability, Transparency and Transformation
Richard Starke	Minister of Tourism, Parks and Recreation
Greg Weadick	Associate Minister – Recovery and Reconstruction for Southeast Alberta
Teresa Woo-Paw	Associate Minister – International and Intergovernmental Relations

STANDING AND SPECIAL COMMITTEES OF THE LEGISLATIVE ASSEMBLY OF ALBERTA

Standing Committee on Alberta's Economic Future

Chair: Mr. Amery
 Deputy Chair: Mr. Fox
 Eggen Pastoor
 Hehr Quadri
 Kennedy-Glans Rogers
 Kubinec Rowe
 Lemke Sarich
 Luan Stier
 McDonald

Standing Committee on the Alberta Heritage Savings Trust Fund

Chair: Mr. Casey
 Deputy Chair: Mrs. Jablonski
 Amery Khan
 Barnes Redford
 Dorward Sherman
 Eggen

Select Special Ethics Commissioner Search Committee

Chair: Mr. Rogers
 Deputy Chair: Mr. Quadri
 Blakeman Leskiw
 Eggen McDonald
 Goudreau Saskiw
 Lemke

Standing Committee on Families and Communities

Chair: Ms Olesen
 Deputy Chair: Mr. Pedersen
 Cusanelli Leskiw
 DeLong McAllister
 Fenske Notley
 Fox Sandhu
 Fritz Swann
 Jablonski Webber
 Jeneroux

Standing Committee on Legislative Offices

Chair: Mr. Jeneroux
 Deputy Chair: Mr. McDonald
 Bikman Leskiw
 Blakeman Quadri
 Brown Wilson
 DeLong Young
 Eggen

Special Standing Committee on Members' Services

Chair: Mr. Zwozdesky
 Deputy Chair: Mr. VanderBurg
 Casey Mason
 Forsyth McDonald
 Fritz Sherman
 Johnson, L. Towle
 Kubinec

Standing Committee on Private Bills

Chair: Mr. Xiao
 Deputy Chair: Mrs. Leskiw
 Allen Notley
 Brown Olesen
 Cusanelli Rowe
 DeLong Stier
 Fenske Strankman
 Fritz Swann
 Jablonski

Standing Committee on Privileges and Elections, Standing Orders and Printing

Chair: Ms Kubinec
 Deputy Chair: Mr. Rogers
 Calahasen Pastoor
 Casey Pedersen
 Kang Saskiw
 Khan VanderBurg
 Luan Wilson
 Notley Young
 Olesen

Standing Committee on Public Accounts

Chair: Mr. Anderson
 Deputy Chair: Mr. Dorward
 Allen Khan
 Amery Luan
 Barnes Pastoor
 Bilous Sandhu
 Donovan Sarich
 Hehr Young
 Jeneroux

Standing Committee on Resource Stewardship

Chair: Mr. Khan
 Deputy Chair: Mr. Hale
 Allen Cao
 Anglin Casey
 Bikman Goudreau
 Bilous Johnson, L.
 Blakeman Xiao
 Brown Young
 Calahasen

Legislative Assembly of Alberta

1:30 p.m.

Wednesday, May 7, 2014

[The Speaker in the chair]

Hon. Members: Congratulations, Mr. Speaker. [applause]

The Speaker: Thank you, hon. members, and my grandson Joshua Thomas thanks you.

Prayers

The Speaker: Now let us pray. In doing so, let us turn our attention to life itself, not only to our own lives but to the lives of those with whom we interact daily and others whom we represent as part of our elected duty in this Assembly. Through this prayer let us strengthen our resolve to help improve the lives of all. Amen.

Please be seated.

Introduction of Visitors

The Speaker: The hon. Minister of International and Intergovernmental Relations.

Mr. Dallas: Thank you, Mr. Speaker. I rise to introduce to you and through you to the members of this Assembly His Excellency Dr. Tuncay Babali, who is the ambassador of the Republic of Turkey. His Excellency is accompanied by Mr. Ali Riza Güney, who is the consul general of Turkey in Toronto, and Mr. Süleyman Candemir, Turkish commercial counsellor at the consulate general of Turkey in Toronto.

Alberta and the Republic of Turkey benefit from a strong trade and investment relationship. Ambassador Babali's visit is a great opportunity for us to explore new areas of co-operation in a variety of sectors, particularly in the areas of responsible energy development and agriculture. We are confident that the future will bring tremendous opportunities for our continued collaboration in trade and investment but also for cultural exchanges and other mutually beneficial partnerships.

Our esteemed guests are seated in the Speaker's gallery, and I'd now ask that they rise and receive the traditional warm welcome of this Assembly.

The Speaker: Thank you.

Introduction of Guests

The Speaker: Let us begin with school groups, starting with Barrhead-Morinville-Westlock, followed by Drumheller-Stettler.

Ms Kubinec: Thank you, Mr. Speaker. It is my pleasure today to introduce to you and through you to all members of the Assembly a group of young individuals from my constituency of Barrhead-Morinville-Westlock. Accompanied by some parents and teachers from one of my favourite schools, the Barrhead elementary school, is a group of remarkable and bright young students. Our teachers today are Mr. Brent Wierenga, Mr. Dale Erickson, Mr. Laurin Lamothe, Miss Chrissie Epp, Miss Muriel Laffitte along with teacher aides Rita Van Roodselaar, who is a friend, Denise Degner, and Anita Sloat. We have helper Miss Jazmin Chilito.

Mr. Speaker, I would also like to take the opportunity to introduce a very special young lady to the group, Olivia Walker. Olivia, could you stand? She is here today to visit the Legislature, and I am so proud to introduce her. She is the granddaughter of my constituency manager, Audrey Neuman. Oddly enough to my colleagues and myself, she has taken an interest in politics and may one day aspire to be a politician.

On that note, Mr. Speaker, I would ask all the students to rise and receive the warm welcome of this Assembly.

The Speaker: The hon. Member for Drumheller-Stettler.

Mr. Strankman: Thank you, Mr. Speaker. I would like to introduce to this august Legislature St. Anthony's school from my diverse constituency of Drumheller-Stettler. They are here today under the charge of Ms Michelle Fournier, who is also accompanied by eight local parents and 26 of the best and brightest students from St. Anthony's school in Drumheller. I would like them to please rise and accept the warm traditional welcome of this Alberta Chamber.

The Speaker: Are there other school groups?

If not, let us move on with other important guests, starting with the Associate Minister of Wellness.

Mr. Rodney: Thank you very much, Mr. Speaker. It is an honour to introduce Alberta's chief medical officer of health, Dr. James Talbot. Dr. Talbot attended the medical school at the University of Toronto in 1981 and had the wisdom to return to this great province just 10 years later. Dr. Talbot is an exceptional ambassador for the medical profession, with the distinct privilege of protecting the health of Albertans whom he has never even met. He does great work, and I encourage all members to read his recent letter to the editor commemorating Immunization Awareness Week. Jim is an invaluable advocate for wellness and an active member of his community, volunteering the precious little spare time he has to coach hockey and soccer. Dr. Talbot and I launched Canada's only comprehensive strategic approach to wellness recently, and together we will be kicking off a wellness engagement and action plan soon. We are incredibly fortunate to have Dr. Talbot serving the people of Alberta. I would ask that he now please rise and receive the traditional welcome of this Assembly.

Thanks again, Mr. Speaker. It's my pleasure to introduce an intrepid young Albertan, Brian Senio, who began his career in government as a caucus researcher in 2012 after receiving his undergraduate degree in political economy at Concordia University College of Alberta. Last year he became the special assistant to the Health minister and hon. Member for Edmonton-Rutherford, and this past December he became my executive assistant. Born and raised in Edmonton, Brian is a very proud Albertan, who brings a blue-collar work ethic to the office every day. He's embraced an active lifestyle since his childhood, growing up playing football and hockey. He's also an avid outdoorsman, who likes to fish and camp every weekend he can during the summer. He's the ultimate team player, and I'm very happy to have him as my right-hand man in Wellness. I would ask all members of the Assembly to join me now in giving Brian the traditional warm welcome of this Assembly.

Thank you, Mr. Speaker.

The Speaker: The hon. leader of the ND opposition.

Mr. Mason: Thank you very much, Mr. Speaker. Today I'd like to introduce to you the most important person in my life, my wife, Kärin Olson. [applause] I think they have some appreciation for what she has to put up with. She's the mother of our two grown boys and grandmother to our young grandson, she's a professor of nursing at the University of Alberta, and she has always supported me in my career. She has knocked on thousands of doors in nine campaigns, and she believed enough in me to let me quit my job as a transit operator in order to run for Edmonton city council. She took a real chance, but it paid off. I couldn't have done what I have without her. I would ask her to please rise and receive the traditional warm welcome of the Assembly. [Standing ovation]

The Speaker: Thank you.

Welcome, and thank you for sharing.

The hon. Minister of Health, followed by the Minister of Agriculture and Rural Development.

Mr. Horne: Thank you very much, Mr. Speaker. It's my pleasure to introduce to you and through you today to all members of the Assembly Dr. Barry Bultz, president of the International Psycho-Oncology Society, and Dan Brennan, who sits on the board of the society. They are both seated in the members' gallery.

Dr. Bultz and Mr. Brennan are here today to mark mental health awareness week and, as well, to draw attention to the work of the International Psycho-Oncology Society. The society is committed to integrating the practice of psycho-oncology into mainstream cancer care and creating international awareness of a made-in-Alberta innovation called the sixth vital sign. This is a tool used to measure the emotional distress of cancer patients. To date, 75 influential societies and organizations around the world have endorsed emotional distress as the sixth vital sign after temperature, pulse, blood pressure, respiratory rate, and pain. As we are all much too aware, Mr. Speaker, cancer takes the lives of many Albertans. It's a significant emotional and financial burden for them and for our province.

I'm very proud to have both gentlemen in the House today. I'd ask them to rise and receive our traditional warm welcome.

1:40

The Speaker: Thank you.

The hon. Minister of Agriculture and Rural Development, followed by the leader of the Liberal opposition.

Mr. Olson: Thank you, Mr. Speaker. It's my pleasure to introduce to you and to all members of the Assembly today Kourtney Pratt, who is just joining my office now, with the student ministerial intern program here at the Legislature. I'm particularly proud of this recent acquisition of Kourtney because she is from my constituency. She grew up in Camrose. She attended the University of Calgary and has a degree, interestingly, in political science and dance. Maybe she can teach me some moves. I don't know. She's already had some very interesting experiences in her young career. She has been an intern with a public consultation organization in Toronto, and she's also been an intern at the embassy of Canada in Washington, DC. She's going to be attending law school in the fall. She's seated in the public gallery, and I'd ask that she rise and receive the traditional warm welcome of the Assembly.

The Speaker: The hon. leader of the Liberal opposition, followed by the Minister of Jobs, Skills, Training and Labour.

Dr. Sherman: Thank you, Mr. Speaker. I have two introductions. It's my pleasure to introduce to you and through you to all members of this Assembly Lori Feist. Lori owns Seanaa Services Ltd., a company which helps other companies fill vacancies for skilled labour. She finds the right person for the right job and, in doing so, helps keep our economy running and improves the lives of Albertans who want meaningful employment. Lori does this admirably. She's a member of the West Edmonton Business Association and lives in my constituency of Edmonton-Meadowlark. I would ask Lori to rise and receive the traditional warm welcome of the Assembly.

Thank you, Mr. Speaker. It's also my pleasure to introduce to you and through you to all members of this Assembly another constituent, Hector Marois, who is accompanied by his lovely wife, Jean, and their family. Last week Hector received the Governor General's caring Canadian award. Hector has volunteered over 15,000 hours over 26 years for unit 9Y, a short-term palliative care unit at the Covenant Health Edmonton General continuing care centre. He helps distribute breakfast trays and feeds patients who are suffering. He takes on the orientation of newly arrived families and patients. He helps educate them as to the services available to them, and at Christmas he and his lovely wife, Jean, are Mr. and Mrs. Claus to the whole hospital. In the summer he takes a two-week break to serve as a volunteer director at a camp for senior citizens. Hector is an amazing man and a model for all of us. I would ask Hector, his wife, Jean, and all of his family to rise and receive the traditional warm welcome of the Assembly.

Mr. Lukaszuk: Well, Mr. Speaker, all members of this House know that this week is North American Occupational Safety and Health Week, and it is my pleasure to introduce to you and through you to all members of this Assembly an occupational health and safety team working to make Alberta workplaces safe and healthy for all of us. With us today, sitting in the galleries, are Ann Laing, Emma Boyd, Stephanie Morrison, Lewinda Knowles, Habiba Mohamad, Celia Chiang, Lisa Ross-Rodriguez, Gene Ozon, Matthew Rogerson, and from MacEwan University's public relations program, working right now in the ministry for her practicum, Allison Bignell. I would ask them all to rise and receive the warm welcome of our Assembly.

The Speaker: The hon. Minister of Energy, followed by the Minister of Justice and Solicitor General.

Eight more introductions, so let's keep it moving, folks.

Mrs. McQueen: Well, thank you, Mr. Speaker. It is indeed a pleasure to introduce to you and through you to all members of the Assembly my intern, Eric Wagner, who is joining us here this summer. Eric is enrolled at the University of Calgary in the bachelor of commerce program. I'm really looking forward to Eric joining our team in the office. I'd ask Eric to rise and receive the traditional warm welcome of this Assembly.

The Speaker: The Minister of Justice, followed by Rimbey-Rocky Mountain House-Sundre.

Mr. Denis: Thank you very much, Mr. Speaker. It's a pleasure to introduce to you and through you to all members of this Assembly two people who I'm pleased to know, Chelsea Hawrelak, originally from Camrose, now from Edmonton, as well as Sergeant Vickey Hulm. This week marks Missing Persons Week, and Chelsea is a victims support worker with the Kare unit, an investigational unit with the RCMP that focuses on the deaths of high-risk missing persons from all parts of Alberta and the Territories. Sergeant Hulm is the sergeant for missing persons within Kare. The Kare unit investigates all leads and assists in the capture and prosecution of the people responsible for these crimes. Chelsea has been nominated to receive a community justice award for community mobilization thanks to her dedicated efforts. She also works with the Kare proactive team to register sex workers and their involvement in high-risk lifestyles. Additionally, she works closely with the Institute for the Advancement of Aboriginal Women, the Centre to End All Sexual Exploitation, and Métis child and family services.

I had the opportunity to meet with both of them earlier today to talk about the important work the Kare unit does for missing persons and the support that they provide to all victims. I'd ask them both to please rise and receive the traditional warm welcome of this Assembly.

The Speaker: The hon. Member for Rimbey-Rocky Mountain House-Sundre, followed by Edmonton-Highlands-Norwood. Your guests are not here?

Let's go on with Lacombe-Ponoka, then.

Mr. Fox: Thank you, Mr. Speaker. It is my honour to introduce to you and through you to all members of this Assembly Ann Craft. Ann is a well-respected and very successful real estate agent in central Alberta who has been practising her craft for 19 years and is very proficient at her craft, hence her name. She is here today for answers to why sour crude produced water was allowed to be delivered to her property instead of potable water. Ann, please rise and receive the traditional warm welcome of this Assembly.

The Speaker: The hon. Member for Edmonton-Highlands-Norwood, followed by the Minister of Service Alberta.

Mr. Mason: Thank you very much, Mr. Speaker. I have an additional introduction of two individuals seated in the public gallery, my principal secretary, Adrienne King, and my executive assistant, Amy Lambe. Their good humour and lots of patience and strong organizational backgrounds have managed to keep me mostly on task and focused most of the time. I appreciate very much the work that they have done for me in the last year or two. I would like the Assembly to recognize them. If they'd please stand and receive the traditional welcome.

The Speaker: Thank you.

The hon. Minister of Service Alberta, followed by Innisfail-Sylvan Lake.

Mr. Griffiths: Thank you, Mr. Speaker. I would like to introduce to you and through you to members of this Assembly Stephen Vincent. Stephen is joining our office through the summer internship program. In just the few days he's been here, I can tell that he's a huge asset to our office. Now, Steve is just beginning his poli-sci degree, but he has a long career as a musician, even playing with rock legend Jon Bon Jovi. On a more personal note, though, I'd like to thank Steve because he played at the fundraising event in 2011 for the Slave Lake disaster, and he did a great job helping to raise funds.

He's accompanied by Kathleen Range, who is my press secretary, Mr. Speaker, who was there through the floods last summer, that devastated so many people in so many communities. She was there every moment, sacrificing her family time in order to help Albertans. Like so many public servants, she continued to sacrifice and serve Albertans, especially in their time of need. On behalf of Albertans I'd like to thank you for that, Kathleen.

I'd ask both of them to rise and receive the traditional warm welcome of this Assembly.

The Speaker: The hon. Member for Innisfail-Sylvan Lake, followed by Airdrie and Edmonton-Beverly-Clareview.

Mrs. Towle: Thank you, Mr. Speaker. It's a pleasure to rise and introduce to you and through you to all Members of the Legislative Assembly Ms Huguette Hébert, her daughter Anita Rudichuk, and Shauna McHarg. All three of these people represent families who've been banned from facilities while they advocate for their loved ones in continuing care and long-term care. They're here today hoping to get a meeting with the Minister of Health and the Associate Minister of Seniors. They're hoping to bring awareness to a serious issue facing many Alberta families.

1:50

The Speaker: Thank you.

Mr. Anderson: Mr. Speaker, it's my great pleasure to rise today on behalf of my dear friend the Member for Calgary-Fish Creek and her wonderful husband, Gord. Gord is a long-time member of the Calgary Millennium Rotary Club. Calgary Millennium does an incredible job of impacting lives in the community, and today I have the pleasure of introducing one of those lives that has been impacted. Doris Weidling is a youth exchange student from Hamburg, Germany. She arrived in Canada last August and will head home later this summer. During her exchange she has visited many great locations around Alberta. She is an accomplished seamstress. She is very excited to participate in her school graduation, and at that grad she will unveil a dress that she has made by herself. She is a true ambassador of goodwill and the Rotary spirit. All of this would not be possible without the dedication of Rotarians, and to them I say thank you. Today Doris is joined by Rotarian Heather Anderson Cortis, who some of you may remember from her years of service on staff here at the Assembly. I'd ask that they both rise and receive the traditional warm welcome of this Assembly.

The Speaker: The hon. Member for Edmonton-Beverly-Clareview.

Mr. Bilous: Well, thank you, Mr. Speaker. It's my pleasure to rise today to introduce to you and through you to all members of the Assembly my guests, Keith Purdy and Richard Kennedy. Keith and Richard are here today to observe the long-overdue amendments being made to the Marriage Act of Alberta. They both have a long history of fighting for marriage equality in this province. In early 2000 Keith and Richard were part of the human rights campaign to have same-sex couples declared families in the eyes of the health care system. During the Klein years they fought in co-operation with Egale Canada against the use of the notwithstanding clause, and only 30 days after the law changed, they married in 2005. I'd now ask Keith and Richard to rise and receive the traditional warm welcome of the Assembly.

The Speaker: Thank you.

That concludes the list I have, but if there are others, let's tidy them up right now as well. No more introductions?

Tribute to the Hon. Brian Mason Leader of the New Democratic Opposition

The Speaker: Hon. members, you'll notice by the clock that I have taken some liberties today with the schedule. In fact, this section would be reserved for ministerial statements. There are no ministerial statements today. However, based on precedent in this House, this would be the appropriate time for us to do something else that is rather unique and very special. As you know, notice has been requested so that at this time we might pay tribute from each of the caucuses, and perhaps others who might wish to join in, to one member who is retiring as an hon. leader of a particular caucus and a particular party in this Assembly.

The hon. Member for Edmonton-Highlands-Norwood has announced that he is resigning as leader of the New Democrat opposition effective October 19, 2014. That means that when the House normally is scheduled to convene, which would be the last Monday of October, he would return not as the leader. So this may be one of his final days as leader, and the House has indicated a desire to rise and pay tribute to him.

Before doing so, I would like to personally say thank you for 10 – dare I say it? – outstanding years of service on behalf of your constituents, hon. member. Thank you for the passion and the humour that you have brought. I wish as Speaker I could have allowed more of it to surface. However, we'll see how that goes.

Let us begin our brief tributes. Let me call upon the hon. Premier of our province to begin.

Mr. Hancock: Well, Mr. Speaker, I must say that it's with a great deal of pleasure that we honour not only the service of the Member for Edmonton-Highlands-Norwood as a member of the House but particularly today as the leader of the New Democrat opposition. As well, it's with a great deal of pleasure that he's announced his retirement because he is a very effective leader in this House, and he has served very, very well. Now, of course, I'm being facetious when I say that we should celebrate his retirement from that position because in essence it makes the House work really well when you have good leadership on all sides. I would say that the service of the hon. member has been such that he has helped this House work really well during his term of leadership.

One of the things that the hon. member, I think, understands better than many is that you can have disagreement with respect to policy, you can have intensity in your discussion, but you can do it in a very respectful, most of the time, and intense way, and you can still be friends in doing it. I would like to say – and I hope he nods when I say it – that I have had the privilege of being his friend since our university days. People have heard the stories about how he got cheap rent in our fraternity house. Always one looking for a bargain.

I must say that we have over the years had the opportunity to spar on public policy issues and on strategies and process. I used to tease him about being a Communist, and he used to react appropriately. He said nasty things about me as well, but we always did it in good humour. I think I can recall in university, when we ran campaigns or at least worked on campaigns, him campaigning in favour of the National Union of Students and me leading the campaign against the National Union of Students at the University of Alberta campus. That privilege of being on the opposite side of intense and important debates has been extant ever since.

The hon. member has brought wit and humour to debate. He has been able to take the intensity of debate and soften it with a good jab, a good comment, something that brings a little levity to it, and that has always enhanced our debates. So, Mr. Speaker, it's with a great deal of privilege that I have the opportunity on behalf of our caucus to say thank you to the Member for Edmonton-Highlands-Norwood for the service that he has provided to Albertans and to this House.

I would be remiss if I didn't also say thank you to Karin. I think the reaction of the House was evident in terms of that we know just exactly how much she has put up with over the years. I'm not so sure that for some of those doors she was knocking on that she wasn't actually looking for him to try to drag him home. I'm not sure that she would agree that he actually improved their quality of life by getting a job in politics as opposed to what he could have earned in his previous job.

Nonetheless, the whole family – because family is important in this job, and all of us in this House know what a sacrifice it is for our families. We choose to put ourselves in the public eye, and sometimes that's not as pleasant as it might be, but it's our families who wear it. It's our families who feel it. It's our families who hurt when the arrows are cast, and they don't often get the good parts of it, the satisfaction of knowing when we've moved something, when we've accomplished something. But they do get the comments. They do read the papers. They do hear the “slings and arrows of outrageous fortune.” I do think that in saying thank you to the hon. Member for Edmonton-Highlands-Norwood for the contribution he's made, it is quite appropriate to acknowledge and say thank you to his whole family – his wife and his two sons and his extended family – because a commitment from a leader is a commitment from the whole family. It's a commitment which makes this province better and has made this province better.

I guess the only sad note is that he will still be bringing his humour to the debates in the House; he will still be annoying us with his persistent comments. But on the positive side he will still be adding to the quality of debate, the quality of public policy in this province, and the quality of life in this province.

The Speaker: The hon. Leader of Her Majesty's Loyal Opposition.

Ms Smith: Thank you, Mr. Speaker. I'm tremendously honoured to stand up on behalf of the Official Opposition this afternoon to honour my friend and colleague from Edmonton-Highlands-Norwood. Just to give you an idea of how well liked he is on our side, I had to arm-wrestle the Member for Airdrie and the Member for Innisfail-Sylvan Lake for the privilege of giving this speech today.

Mr. Speaker, the member's service to his party, his constituents, and his province has been truly exemplary. His leadership was always a reminder to me that politics is about people, standing up for people who otherwise wouldn't have a voice. He can leave his position as leader of the NDP knowing that his hard work, his courage, and his tireless advocacy has made a real difference in the lives of many Albertans, and I know he will take great pride in that.

Travelling the province with a person has a way of forging a bond, Mr. Speaker, and that's exactly what he and I did last fall. Throughout September and October we debated each other at postsecondary campuses around the province. There were no holds barred. I talked about climate change and poverty, he talked about oil sands development and lowering taxes, and I loved every minute of it. The response we got was tremendous, to the point that we had to add debates at the request of other campuses and actually had to turn down some other requests because we were just too busy. During our debates I got to see what has endeared him to Albertans over the course of his distinguished career: a depth of knowledge, quick humour, and an unwavering commitment to his principles and his constituents.

2:00

Oftentimes I'd get strategic with him, and I'd grill him about being too hard on us. I tried to reason with him that by attacking us too hard, it simply drives more votes to the Progressive Conservatives. His reply was always the same: if you're wrong on something, you're going to hear it from me.

The member was also something of a mentor – some might say a sergeant; others might say a sensei – for my colleagues new to the cut and thrust of being the opposition in the Legislature. I would be remiss if I didn't thank him on behalf of the members for Airdrie and Calgary-Fish Creek for his assistance and support on their decision to cross the floor to the opposition benches. As new opposition MLAs I know that they valued his perspective and his advice on adjusting to their new roles.

Mr. Speaker, I'm sad the hon. member will no longer lead the NDP, I'm sad I won't see him on the campaign trail, but I am incredibly grateful for the time that he has graciously given me and for the friendship we have developed.

From all your supporters in the Wildrose Official Opposition, all the best, Brian.

The Speaker: On behalf of the Alberta Liberal caucus, the hon. Member for Calgary-Mountain View.

Dr. Swann: Thank you very much, Mr. Speaker. On behalf of the Alberta Liberal caucus it is a pleasure to rise to recognize and honour the departure from leadership of my eminent colleague of nine years from Edmonton-Highlands-Norwood. Though still a young man at 60, he's a man of no little wisdom, as I've discovered sitting just to the right of him in the Legislature. He has a broad and deep knowledge of both progressive public policy and the human psyche, and he continues to champion the interests of working people.

I liked this man so much that I tried as Leader of the Official Opposition to work with him. He spurned me, and we are still friends. Known by many in the House as the fastest lip in the Leg., he has distinguished himself beyond his satirical quips as a substantive and effective critic of government hyperbole and hypocrisy. Nor is he averse to colourful shots across the bow, as the hon. Speaker frequently chides us all for. His oft-repeated quip after opening prayer in the House is, "God save the government," a distinguishing feature, as is his unapologetic adherence to his party principles and positions.

To be fair, Brian has also occasionally stepped beyond his comfort zone to co-operate with the Alberta Liberals on common goals. Not only is he effective in debate and repartee in question period; much to my envy, he was an early adopter of the new technology, now old, called Facebook and Twitter. No doubt he's now into the nether reaches of Tumblr, Snapchat, and Vine, whatever they are.

For 25 years he has represented the people of Edmonton either at the city or provincial level and has gained the respect of colleagues across the political spectrum, his faithful constituents, and possibly even some from the union movement. Political rivalries aside, this is a man of principle, deeply committed to social justice. He has made and I have no doubt will continue to make extraordinary contributions to the public interest long term. It has been my privilege along with my Liberal colleagues to work with and learn from his leadership.

On behalf of this caucus our best wishes, Brian, in your next roles, and may your voice and values continue to sting those who do not hold fast to the long-term public interest of this great province and its people.

Thank you, Mr. Speaker.

The Speaker: Thank you, hon. members.

Noting the time, I've received notes from the members for Calgary-Varsity, Fort McMurray-Wood Buffalo, and Calgary-Foothills, who wish to extend their particular kudos to you in writing to you personally, sir. They will be doing that immediately.

In the meantime let us conclude this round, unless there's anyone else with a burning passion to speak, by inviting the hon. leader of the . . .

Mr. Mason: Point of order.

The Speaker: In conclusion, as I was saying, I would now invite the hon. leader of the New Democratic opposition to make his comments in response.

Mr. Mason: Thank you very much. I apologize, Mr. Speaker. I thought you were moving right on to question period.

I did want to thank all members of the House and yourself as well as our table officers and the pages for a wonderful association, which is going to continue for at least a couple of years. It has been an honour and a privilege to serve as leader of Alberta's NDP and to make so many wonderful friendships across the aisle. I'd like to thank my caucus as well for their wonderful support.

Now, when I left city council to run for this position as an MLA, some of the most enthusiastic backers were my opponents on city council. The mayor was so excited that I was going on to provincial politics, and I get a little sense of that from the Premier as well.

I would like to thank the Premier. We have had a long friendship, going back to our university days, Mr. Speaker. I remember the frat house that I boarded in. You know, I was considerably less moderate in my university days than I am today, I might say, as probably were the Premier and some of his cohorts. But I was invited to move in, and I did because it was affordable for me. Then I discovered, to my horror, that it was the Tory frat on campus and that I was the after-dinner entertainment. It certainly helped prepare me for this place as well. I would like to thank the Premier, and I'm very pleased that he has the opportunity to be the Premier even if it is just for a few months. I think that that is a wonderful opportunity for him, and I congratulate him very much on that and thank him for his kind words.

Now, the Leader of Her Majesty's Official Opposition has, as she said, become a good friend, and we did, I think, enjoy ourselves immensely on the eight debates that we had around the province at different campuses. Not to be immodest, but of the eight, I managed to win five, one was a draw, and she won two. So if anyone would like some tips on debating the Leader of the Opposition in the next election, you know, for a fee we could talk about it. She's been a very effective leader.

I did enjoy helping some of the people who crossed the floor to the opposition, who had been cabinet ministers, to survive without servants. They had to do everything for themselves. I know it was quite a shock, but they seem to have adjusted very well.

To the hon. Member for Calgary-Mountain View: I appreciate very much your words as well. I think that with respect to your offer to co-operate, it was more like a merger or a joining of some kind, so it's nothing personal, as you know. But I am pleased that our working relationship with the Liberals has improved considerably . . .

Dr. Swann: Since I left.

Mr. Mason: Well, you're not trying to take us over anymore.

Mr. Speaker, I know that the hon. member is a man of great principle, and that was evident in his public statements and actions before he ever got into politics. I did go and see him, before he ran as an MLA, to try and persuade him to run in the New Democratic Party, and unfortunately Kevin Taft had beaten me to his house by about two weeks. I regret that, but I appreciate very much the chance that we've had to work together, and we'll continue.

Mr. Speaker, I'm going to be around for at least two more years as an MLA if the government sticks to its law on election timing.

We don't know. I'll have lots of opportunities to interact with people and to continue my friendship and my work on behalf of my constituents. I want to thank the entire House for this day. I do very much appreciate it. [Standing ovation]

2:10

The Speaker: Thank you.

Thank you, all, for participating. I'd just bring to your attention that another hon. member of this House, who was the leader of the government caucus, will be recognized at a mutually agreeable time in the not-too-distant future, just so that you're aware. Thank you for the notes regarding that particular question.

Let us move on.

Oral Question Period

The Speaker: You are reminded that you have 35 seconds for a question and 35 seconds for an answer.

Let us start with the first official question from the Leader of Her Majesty's Loyal Opposition.

Premier's Office Expense Oversight

Ms Smith: Mr. Speaker, today in Public Accounts we were treated to quite a spectacle. The Deputy Minister of Executive Council was reporting on the processes for overseeing expenses in the Premier's department. It turns out there aren't any. This deputy minister is the top bureaucrat in government, the head of the committee of all deputy ministers, and the top adviser to the Premier. Basically, he told us that the rules don't apply to the Premier's office. He certainly wasn't going to be the one to tell the Premier that a suggested course of action might break the rules. Does the Premier believe this is how the province should be run?

Mr. Hancock: Mr. Speaker, I think the Premier is the head of that particular office and needs to be responsible for the expenses that are incurred in that particular office, just as a minister is responsible for the expenses that are incurred in a minister's office. The Deputy Minister of Executive Council is, in essence, the head civil servant and is not responsible for the minister's expenses or the Premier's expenses in that particular office. Having said that, I think, you know, it's not particularly appropriate for me to comment on what may have been said at a committee meeting this morning that I was not at and have not been privy to.

Ms Smith: Mr. Speaker, we asked the deputy minister about hiring and severance policies for senior people both within his department and across the government. There is no willingness to enforce rules or set a high standard from the top. What is clear is that the top bureaucrats aren't going to cross the Premier and the cabinet when they break the rules on all sorts of issues like hiring staff, travelling first class, or building a sky palace. Why is it that this Premier and this government won't even follow the rules that they themselves created?

Mr. Hancock: This Premier and this government very definitely will follow the rules that they've created. This Premier and this government are looking at the whole issue of severance policy and salaries, and we will be examining that and coming out with a very definite severance policy and salary policy with respect to political staff. We have already referred and the previous Premier referred the issue of expense policy to the Auditor General to review our travel and expense policy, using the Premier's office as an example with respect to how you investigate it. So we are looking at ensuring how we can do a better job of adhering to the policies and making sure that we have the right policies.

Ms Smith: Mr. Speaker, we know that government and cabinet rules weren't followed when it came to hiring the Premier's chief of staff and communications advisers. They weren't followed when it came to booking first-class flights for the Premier and ministers or for using government airplanes. They certainly weren't followed when the last Premier ordered new furniture on the same day that the Finance minister said that we should all tighten our belts. Will the Premier at least admit that he owes Albertans many, many, many more apologies?

Mr. Hancock: Mr. Speaker, last Thursday I made a speech to about 1,300 Albertans and through them to every Albertan, at which time I said that we will do a much, much better job of adhering to the policies and processes that we have in place and reviewing them to make sure that we have the right policies and processes in place. It's absolutely important for Albertans, as we look forward to try and develop the policies, to try and do the things that are necessary to create a place for our grandchildren, and to have the kind of Alberta that we want with the quality of life that we want, the kind of quality of life that's attracting thousands of people to this province, that we take care of the things that help build and maintain the trust that we need to . . .

The Speaker: Thank you.

Second main set of questions.

Government Communications

Ms Smith: Yesterday I referred to a company called Navigator in two of my questions. Now, Navigator is a friend of the governing party and of Premiers past, present, and future. They're currently running the presumptive leadership campaign of Jim Prentice. They ran the last Premier's election campaign. Yesterday this Premier said that Navigator got a rich, untendered, sole-sourced flood contract because of unique skills. To the Premier: what unique skills did Navigator bring to the government that weren't available among the 200-odd very highly paid communication specialists that they already employ?

Mr. Hancock: Mr. Speaker, as is her wont, the hon. member chooses one half of the answer rather than the other half. What I said is that when you sole source under government policy, it's either because of an emergency situation or unique skills. The flood, of course, was an emergency situation, which anybody ought to have been able to determine. In an emergency situation, where you need to get all hands on deck and assemble your team of people immediately, you go to people that you know and you trust who have a reputation for doing the job. I wasn't part of sole sourcing that contract, but I presume that those were the types of things that went into that kind of a decision at that time.

Ms Smith: Mr. Speaker, they have 200 people working in their communications department. What is their job?

The former Infrastructure minister just said today that he wouldn't hire anyone who works on his campaign if he becomes Premier. What a great idea because Navigator never seems to have trouble landing contracts to give advice to this government. Senior political staffers move back and forth between Navigator, the government, and the PC Party all the time, but when you peruse the list of government employees, you find communications advisers, policy advisers, and executive advisers. Why does this government have to keep hiring Navigator?

Mr. Hancock: Mr. Speaker, as particular ministers or ministries address issues of importance to Albertans, I would believe that they would seek out the people that they need to do the best job possible. In an emergency situation sometimes you don't have the luxury of putting out an RFP and having a three-month process. So you might go to people that have a reputation in the area for issues management, have the skill sets and are known to have the skill sets, have a reputation in the community, and you might hire them in an emergent situation. I would assume that that's the circumstance under which Navigator was hired with respect to response to the floods.

Ms Smith: Great to have friends in high places, Mr. Speaker.

Yesterday the Human Services minister credited Navigator with helping him put together his children at risk symposium, although members of the media commented about how poorly run that event was. The Human Services ministry has 25 communications people. They have dozens of people with "policy" or "adviser" in their title. They even had someone whose title was: team lead for organizational storytelling. With all of these advisers, spinners, and storytellers why do they keep hiring Navigator?

Mr. Hancock: Well, Mr. Speaker, Human Services, I know from experience, is a very large department with a lot of issues at hand, a lot of issues to be taken care of on a day-to-day basis, a lot of communication actually that has to be done. When you talk about communications people in a department, they're not all sitting around waiting for another event to happen. They are actually engaged on a day-to-day basis in making sure that Albertans have the information that they need to live their lives, to access government programs, to do what is necessary as a result of the circumstances that they find themselves in. There are a lot of people employed by this government to serve Albertans, and sometimes you need a few more.

The Speaker: Thank you.

Third and final set of questions. The hon. leader.

Disaster Recovery Program Administration

Ms Smith: Mr. Speaker, yesterday I asked some questions about the disaster recovery program, and the Acting Minister of Municipal Affairs made some startling comments. He said that LandLink had done a good job. Now, I can tell you that there are thousands of Albertans whose eyebrows went up when he said that. He is the minister responsible for the disaster recovery program. He has to know that Albertans are despairing at the conduct of LandLink. Does he really believe that they've done a good job?

The Speaker: The hon. minister responsible for Municipal Affairs.

Mr. Weadick: Well, thank you, Mr. Speaker. As you know, last June the largest event that ever hit Canada happened, and we were all overwhelmed. So was LandLink. They had a small staff to help us through disaster relief, and they helped us to staff up to deal with this. They did the very best that they could under some very trying situations. We moved very quickly to support people in this province, and LandLink has helped. It hasn't all been smooth, but we've all worked together to meet the needs of Albertans.

2:20

Ms Smith: While the Acting Minister of Municipal Affairs was shockingly singing the praises of LandLink, he also admitted, and he just did again, that they weren't ready for a major flood. Mr. Speaker, LandLink has had the contract for managing disaster relief programs since 1995. The fact that they had no plan for a major flood is nothing to make excuses about. LandLink has received millions and millions for mismanaging disaster programs, at least $18 million in this event so far. If they weren't responsible for having a plan on how to handle a major crisis, who was responsible?

The Speaker: The hon. associate minister.

Mr. Weadick: Well, thank you, Mr. Speaker. We have a very talented group at the Alberta Emergency Management Agency that does work not only with LandLink but with our municipalities and our communities in any disaster. Whether it's the Slave Lake fires or whether it's a flood, we move and work with our municipalities, with our other partners. LandLink was a part of that process that helped us to deliver those DRP processes during those events, small floods, small events. We've never had anything like this in the past. It was a huge undertaking, with 10,000 homes impacted, and we've done a great job with it.

Ms Smith: Mr. Speaker, these comments are particularly concerning because they appear to suggest a change in attitude on the part of government towards LandLink. The last Municipal Affairs minister made it clear in his answer that LandLink's days were numbered. Yesterday this minister crowed that they could just stick the federal government with the bill for LandLink's mismanagement. Will the minister commit that LandLink will never be given another contract to manage future disaster recovery programs?

The Speaker: The hon. associate minister.

Mr. Weadick: Thank you, Mr. Speaker. We've said in this House many times that LandLink has been extended for one year to complete the files on this process. We've already started a new process to look at how we're going to deal with disasters in the future, how we're going to man up for them, what the process is going to be, who might provide support for us. We're working through that process as we speak.

The Speaker: The hon. leader of the Alberta Liberal opposition.

Task Force for Teaching Excellence Report

Dr. Sherman: Thank you, Mr. Speaker. It's Education Week. Despite chronic underfunding and overcrowded classrooms, Alberta has one of the best education systems in the world thanks to our outstanding and dedicated teachers. In fact, the ATA is viewed as one of the pre-eminent educational organizations in the world. Yet if implemented, the recommendations from the Task Force for Teaching Excellence would divide and threaten to break up the ATA if it doesn't submit to the Education minister's demands. To the Premier: are you going to let your minister get away with bullying teachers, principals, and the Alberta Teachers' Association?

Mr. Hancock: Well, Mr. Speaker, first and foremost, the minister is not doing any of those things, and neither does the report do what the hon. member said. In fact, if we adopted all of the recommendations of the report, we would not be breaking up the ATA into a union and a professional organization. The report specifically says that we should accommodate the outcomes that are desired under the report without doing that. It only adds surplusage to say that if you can't do it without doing that, then you should go on to do it. The outcomes of the layout and the process to get there distinctly suggest that it's better to do it with the ATA as the professional organization and the union.

The Speaker: Thank you.

First supplemental. The hon. leader.

Dr. Sherman: Mr. Speaker, thank you. The Premier has just proven my point: if you don't listen, we're going to bully you.

The government has set up a task force which it claims is arm's length and free from political interference, yet every single member of the task force is directly appointed by the minister, and just to make sure they get the results that they want, they have appointed four PC MLAs to keep watch, not a single rep from the ATA. To the Premier: how can a board hand-picked by the PCs and overseen by the PCs possibly be free of interference from the PCs?

Mr. Hancock: Mr. Speaker, the hon. member does not understand governance. The fact of the matter is that the task force has given its report, and the minister has indicated that the report is now out for public discussion. We have not adopted the recommendations of the report. When the public input comes back from the associations that he's talked about and others, it will go to the TDPAC, which is a committee that's set up between the ATA and government to talk about teacher professional development. So it is a process that's independent of the minister, independent of government. It has made its report, with items for important discussion for the public, and that's what's going to happen now.

Dr. Sherman: Premier, recommendation 25 says that if the ATA doesn't play ball, they're going to divide and conquer the ATA.

Mr. Speaker, the real problems in our public education system are too few teachers, too few supports for the teachers we do have, and too few schools. It seems to me that this government and this report are forgetting the most basic fact. A chronically underfunded school system with overcrowded classrooms is not optimal. Premier, instead of attacking your teachers, why don't you support them for a change by providing adequate, sustainable, predictable . . .

The Speaker: Thank you.

The hon. Premier.

Mr. Hancock: Thank you, Mr. Speaker. Well, I think I have a pretty good reputation for not attacking teachers and for supporting teachers. I also have a very good reputation for understanding that we have to put our children first, and that means making sure that we have excellent teachers for every student. Excellence in teaching is fundamental to a good education system. We have excellent teachers, and that's why we have a good education system. Any government worth its salt should be looking forward and saying: how do we continue to maintain, build, and grow excellence in the system, and how do we deal with those chronic problems that you have in any system? That's what the task force report is about.

The Speaker: Thank you.

The hon. leader of the ND opposition.

Health Care Budget Oversight

Mr. Mason: Thank you very much, Mr. Speaker. This government has presented legislation that will give the Minister of Health the authority to approve Alberta Health Services' $12 billion budget. Some might find this an improvement over the board of AHS doing it, but it overlooks a fundamental democratic principle. Since the Magna Carta generations have fought and sometimes died to ensure that the people's elected representatives have control over taxation and government budgets. To the Premier: do you believe in the right of the Assembly to approve the government's budget, including the Health budget, and if so, why are you giving this power to your Health minister?

Mr. Hancock: Mr. Speaker, that must be another one of those humour moments that we were just talking about.

Obviously, the Legislative Assembly approves the Health budget, as it does every budget of government. Obviously, the Legislative Assembly has oversight on the spending of the public's money. Within the Health budget, which is allocated by this Assembly, the Minister of Health works under the prescribed lines that have been approved. One of those lines is the budget for Alberta Health Services, and it's the minister's job to have oversight on that budget after it's been approved by the government.

The Speaker: First supplemental. The hon. member.

Mr. Mason: Thanks very much, Mr. Speaker. Well, it is a joke, and here's the punch line. The budget of AHS is a quarter of this government's entire budget, yet the budget for AHS that we see in this Assembly is only six lines. Six numbers, Minister, for $12 billion. Albertans expect their elected representatives to scrutinize government budgets and expenditures, but this government has done an end run around democracy. To the Premier: will you pull Bill 12 and introduce legislation that will ensure the Assembly's oversight of the $12 billion Health Services budget, and if not, why not?

Mr. Hancock: Mr. Speaker, Bill 12 does nothing to change the oversight of this Legislature on the spending of public money, nothing whatsoever. What it does do is give the minister more direct oversight on the grants that have been provided to Alberta Health Services with respect to how they allocate those resources within Alberta Health Services. That is not a change from the oversight of this Legislature or the Treasury Board, for that matter, with respect to public funds. In fact, I'm surprised by the hon. member's questions. I understand that two members of his caucus voted for this just yesterday.

The Speaker: Final supplemental.

Mr. Mason: Thanks very much, Mr. Speaker. We'll have more to say about it later.

This is to the Health minister. Home-care workers at Artspace co-op are being paid poverty-level wages with no benefits. They're mostly new Canadians, all women, and are going on strike today. Their employer says that they do not receive enough provincial funding to provide a raise or benefits. Will the Minister of Health agree to review the contract with the Artspace home-care board, Supports for Artspace Independent Living, to ensure that they do have enough funds to provide their workers with a living wage?

Mr. Horne: Mr. Speaker, I would certainly agree with the hon. member that we need to make sure that home-care workers in this province are paid fair wages and do have working conditions that enable them to do what they want to do, which is care for Albertans who require it. I am not going to comment on this specific set of negotiations. Obviously, I don't want to pre-empt those negotiations, nor will I interfere with them. But I will certainly tell the hon. member that we're monitoring this situation closely. We recognize the very difficult and valuable work that home-care workers do, and we trust that this will be resolved very quickly.

The Speaker: Thank you.

No more preambles, please, to supplementals. Let's start with Chestermere-Rocky View, followed by Stony Plain.

2:30 Educational Curriculum Redesign

Mr. McAllister: Mr. Speaker, thank you. The Task Force for Teaching Excellence has recommended a more formalized approach to teacher evaluation and accountability. The Wildrose has always been and will always be in favour of transparency and accountability. However, we also know that the PC curriculum rewrite toward discovery learning is being met with harsh criticism from many, many teachers. To the Education minister: how can we be assured that these new accountability methods aren't just your heavy-handed way of intimidating teachers into accepting your misguided project in our classrooms?

The Speaker: The hon. Premier.

Mr. Hancock: Thank you, Mr. Speaker. What the hon. member doesn't seem to want to understand is that it's outcomes that are important, that curricular standards set what children need to learn and what is expected at certain levels during the education process, and that teachers have responsibility for the pedagogy, ensuring that each student learns in the way that that student can learn best and is excited about coming to school and excited about completing. The assessment of a teacher with respect to their ability would and should be done on the basis of how they engage their students in the learning process. That's the importance of excellence in education. That's what excellence in teaching is all about.

The Speaker: Thank you.

Mr. McAllister: Mr. Speaker, I would agree that outcomes are important in government also, and that's why we need a new one.

Albertans expect teachers, like everybody else, to be accountable, but this government shouldn't be forcing it's heavy-handed approach on them. Premier, will you admit that this task force is nothing more than a way for your centralized-planning government to force teachers to do what you and your educators want? Isn't it just a way to threaten teachers into teaching discovery learning as you want them to?

Mr. Hancock: You know, Mr. Speaker, there's an old saying when you're a hammer, everything is a nail. This guy appears to be a bit of a hammer on this because he doesn't seem to understand. He doesn't seem to understand the difference between curriculum and teaching pedagogy. He doesn't seem to understand what it takes to keep children excited about coming to school. He doesn't seem to understand that Alberta is not a place like China, where they do 16 hours of homework in math alone in order to achieve the outcomes that they have. He doesn't understand that we have different ways of teaching different students because students have different ways of learning.

Mr. McAllister: What I and thousands of Albertans understand is that the Premier is not the sharpest tool in the shed.

Mr. Speaker, given that parents, students, and academic experts are all speaking about the turmoil that this government is causing our kids in the classroom, given that many teachers are speaking out against Inspiring Education and discovery learning, doesn't the Premier see how disrespectful it is to teachers to force them to toe the line instead of just letting them do what they do best, teach our kids?

Mr. Hancock: Mr. Speaker, this hon. member has a really confused idea of the world because no one is forcing teachers to do anything. The task force is not talking about forcing teachers to do something. The task force is talking about some of the essential issues – teacher excellence, excellence in education leadership, and assurance – and if there's one thing that the opposition should understand, it's that you do have to have an appropriate assurance model to give people faith and trust in the system. Teachers are very important. We trust teachers. We think teachers are doing a great job in this province, but you do need to address the issues of competence and . . .

The Speaker: Thank you.

The hon. Member for Stony Plain, followed by Innisfail-Sylvan Lake.

Grizzly Bear Conservation

Mr. Lemke: Thank you, Mr. Speaker. Alberta's bears are awakening from hibernation, and many Albertans and visitors will be hoping to get a glimpse of these majestic and important animals. However, as iconic as our bears are, we often hear stories of them being poached or killed illegally. In fact, more grizzlies were illegally killed in 2013 than in previous years. To the Minister of Environment and Sustainable Resource Development: what is being done to protect these bears from being killed illegally?

The Speaker: The hon. Minister for Environment and Sustainable Resource Development.

Mr. Campbell: Well, thank you, Mr. Speaker. We are aware that the grizzly bear mortality for this year is higher than it has been in previous years, and we know that the majority of the deaths are human-caused, so we are working with stakeholders. We're working with industry. We're looking at reducing some of the footprint, some of the roadways that we know allow people into certain areas of the province where there's grizzly habitat. We are making sure that we have significant fines in place, and we have a 24-hour report a poacher line so that people can report any problems they're finding or seeing with grizzly bears in the province.

The Speaker: First supplemental.

Mr. Lemke: Thank you. The grizzly bear recovery plan lapsed more than a year ago. What can Albertans expect to see in an updated, effective plan to protect this threatened species in the future?

Mr. Campbell: Well, Mr. Speaker, again, within Budget 2014 we've committed more than $1 million towards grizzly bear conservation and management programs. My department is working with stakeholders right now on a new grizzly bear recovery plan. We hope to have that out later this summer, and we will make sure that all stakeholders have a chance to comment on the draft plan. We will continue with the plan we have in place until that new plan becomes effective.

The Speaker: Final supplemental.

Mr. Lemke: Thank you, Mr. Speaker. My second supplemental was answered.

The Speaker: Thank you.

Let's move on to Innisfail-Sylvan Lake, followed by Fort Saskatchewan-Vegreville.

Care Facility Restrictions on Family Member Visits

Mrs. Towle: Thank you, Mr. Speaker. The decision to seek placement for a loved one is often one of the most difficult times for a family. Knowing that your loved one can no longer manage day-to-day tasks like getting dressed, cleaning, or making dinner is painful. I know this personally. You hope the help they need is available in a care facility. Families are comforted knowing that they can see and visit family even though they've found a new home, yet the stories of Shauna McHarg and Huguette Hébert are troubling. After questioning the care of their loved ones, both have been banned from visiting their families in care facilities, and they're not the only ones. To the Associate Minister – Seniors: why are facilities allowed to punish and ban family members who question care without any explanation?

Mr. Quest: Mr. Speaker, the most important consideration in these matters is the safety and the well-being of the residents in these facilities and their staff, who work with them, and this includes ensuring that they're protected from any aggressive or inappropriate behaviour. I'm not that familiar with this case, but we do need to make sure that the well-being of the residents and the staff is paramount.

Mrs. Towle: It's surprising that he's not that familiar. It's been in the media for the last two years.

Given that it has now been two years since Shauna McHarg has seen her father and that the restrictions on visiting her mother are now in place, all with no explanation from Covenant Health – she filed a FOIP; she went to the Privacy Commissioner to find out and even the Ombudsman, and all agreed she was treated unfairly and should know – and given that Shauna has also reached out to the Seniors' Advocate, who replied to her last week, saying, "Sorry; I have no mandate to assist you with this situation," will the Associate Minister – Seniors step in and order Covenant Health to allow Shauna permanent . . .

The Speaker: Thank you.

Mr. Quest: Well, again, Mr. Speaker, I think the member's guest may have been better served if I had known that the guests were actually going to be here today. This is the first that I've heard of it. I certainly would be willing to try and take the opportunity to have a short discussion about the matter and become more familiar with it.

I do want to make the point that these cases are extremely rare, and there are a number of different options that families have with respect to signing behaviour agreements and so on. They can also, again, take the appropriate channels.

Mrs. Towle: She's actually asked your ministry, the Minister of Health. She asked the Seniors' Advocate to arrange the meeting. The hon. member from the Liberals actually introduced her.

Given that Shauna has done everything right – she appealed the ban internally; no response. She did a FOIP to find out why she was banned; no response. She went to the Privacy Commissioner, who ordered Covenant Health to tell her why she was banned; still nothing. Given that she even went to the Ombudsman, who told her that she was being treated unfairly, when are you going to do something and help a family who's advocating for their loved one?

Mr. Horne: Mr. Speaker, as the hon. Associate Minister – Seniors said, we certainly have empathy for any family that is in this situation. We cannot pretend to know all of the detailed circumstances of this particular case or others. In fact, I understand that although these cases are very rare, at least one of them is currently before the courts, and I don't know if this particular case is in fact before the courts.

What I will undertake to do, Mr. Speaker, is to go back again and look at the findings that were referenced by the hon. member. I certainly support the notion that anyone who is going to face such restrictions should know the reasons why, and those should be provided by . . .

The Speaker: Thank you.

The hon. Member for Fort Saskatchewan-Vegreville, followed by Edmonton-Centre.

Workforce Employment Services

Ms Fenske: Thank you, Mr. Guedo Speaker. During this year's budget estimates committee debate the hon. Minister of Jobs, Skills, Training and Labour announced that there would be a new student job program to replace the STEP grant, which you won't be needing for a few years yet, that many postsecondary students in Alberta had previously benefited from. My question is to the hon. minister. Given that students across Alberta are eager to hear of concrete details about this potentially exciting program, when and what can we expect from this initiative?

2:40

Mr. Lukaszuk: Well, Mr. Speaker, let me be the first one to congratulate you on your grandson.

Mr. Speaker, indeed, we do know that young people require assistance with finding employment that is relevant to their education, be it in the polytechnics or universities or colleges. I am working right now with CAUS, the Council of Alberta University Students, which is working with our department in a process of designing a new program. The STEP program was previously with Human Services. Now we're in the process of designing a new one out of this ministry.

The Speaker: First supplemental.

Ms Fenske: Thank you. To the same minister: until that program comes out, what other supports are in place to offset the elimination of the STEP program?

Mr. Lukaszuk: Well, Mr. Speaker, we do have the Alberta Works offices throughout the province. There are 59 of them, I believe, that do assist all Albertans with locating employment. As we know, one thing for certain is that there is no shortage of employment in this province at all. We have the career information hotline. We have the Alberta information services website as well, that exists in this province.

What we are looking at is not only creating a program that links Albertans to jobs – that's rather easy – but to jobs that are meaningful to their educational paths.

The Speaker: Final supplemental.

Ms Fenske: Thank you, Mr. Speaker. My final question is to the hon. minister of Municipal Affairs. Given that many municipalities have relied on operational MSI funding and the STEP program in the past to operate playgrounds and seniors' programming, what can be done to make up this shortfall?

The Speaker: The hon. minister.

Mr. Weadick: Well, thank you, Mr. Speaker. We have heard as we travelled around the province that, especially, smaller communities are challenged with some of these reductions. The MSI operational was really important. We've heard that it supports libraries and others, so we're going to continue to work with our smaller municipalities to look at what options there might be. In the short term there are programs through Culture, like CFEP and CIP, that can help some organizations. Funding in smaller communities is critically important, and we'll continue to work with our municipalities on it.

The Speaker: The hon. Member for Edmonton-Centre, followed by Edmonton-Strathcona.

Development Hearing Participation

Ms Blakeman: Thanks very much, Mr. Speaker. The government is once again disallowing input and advice from NGO groups, like Pembina and the Alberta Wilderness Association, plus the First Nations and others on development hearings. A judge threw out the last decision because the government categorized Pembina and other NGOs as unco-operative environmentalists and instructed staff to scrutinize their applications more critically and bar them from the hearings. This is exactly what outsiders see as a deliberate disregard for environmental concerns. To the minister of the environment: why is the government repeating the same action with the same reasoning?

The Speaker: The hon. minister responsible for the environment.

Mr. Campbell: Well, thank you, Mr. Speaker. All three of the organizations, the groups that the member across the way has talked, about are valuable leaders and do bring great insight in many conversations about protecting our environment. I know that this group is interested in development decisions, but having an interest in a matter is not the same as being directly affected by that matter. The process at hand is focused on considering the concerns of those who would be directly affected, and they don't meet the criteria.

Ms Blakeman: Well, okay. Mr. Speaker, what information would be so dangerous, so damaging to economic growth, so detrimental to all-out, never-ending, uncontrolled development that it can't even be spoken at a hearing? Aren't hearings formed to hear from all sources?

Mr. Campbell: Well, Mr. Speaker, again, we don't run the hearing. We have a quasi-judicial board that runs those hearings.

I can say to you, Mr. Speaker, that following the judicial review we had our department address the issue raised by conducting a second and very thorough review of the statement of concern, and the review independently reached the same conclusion.

Ms Blakeman: Again to the same minister: will the minister overturn this decision to bar the opinion of people they disagree with? If he won't listen, these folks will be driven into the waiting and welcoming arms of a U.S. Senate committee.

Mr. Campbell: Mr. Speaker, again, we have a quasi-judicial board that is tasked with listening to these hearings and making decisions on who's in front of them. I'm not about to interfere with that process.

The Speaker: The hon. Member for Edmonton-Strathcona, followed by Medicine Hat.

Statutes Amendment Act, 2014

Ms Notley: Thank you, Mr. Speaker. A week ago this PC government apologized to party members for its failure to listen to the grassroots. Yesterday they backtracked again, this time on pension rollbacks, because they failed to listen to Albertans. It's clear that they still don't get it because now they plan to ram through an omnibus bill without written briefings to Assembly members and without listening to Albertans. To the Premier: how can you expect MLAs to do the job Albertans expect when you hide changes to 16 pieces of legislation until four hours before debate begins?

Mr. Campbell: Well, Mr. Speaker, I categorically disagree with the member. I can tell you that the member raised one concern with me. I believe it was with the minerals amendment act. I can tell you that the minister briefed the party on April 22, so three weeks ago. I can say that we sat down and talked with the members, and I answered questions. I again answered questions in the House. We feel that these are just administrative changes, and we're quite happy with Bill 12, and we'll move forward.

The Speaker: Thank you.

Ms Notley: Well, Mr. Speaker, they're not administrative changes. Given that the Privacy Commissioner has specifically stated that she hasn't had enough time to fully review the part of the bill that applies to her job and given that she's already raised preliminary concerns about whether you've gotten it right, to the Premier: Albertans don't want their elected representatives to work over them; they want them to work with them. Why is your government preventing that yet again?

Mr. Campbell: Well, Mr. Speaker, again, I read the clips this morning from the Privacy Commissioner, and I can say that the Privacy Commissioner's comments were actually quite positive as to the changes we're making in the health records act, especially. I have no qualms about where we're moving forward, and I'm happy to sit down with any Albertan and discuss the merits of Bill 12.

Ms Notley: Well, you're reading the press release as quickly as you're reading your bill because you missed the key points. Given that transgendered advocates are saying that they were not consulted and that they are against giving this cabinet carte blanche over when and how they can have their gender acknowledged by this government and given that this matter hardly amounts to a small administrative amendment, why won't the Premier school his House leader about the difference between a miscellaneous statutes amendment act and an omnibus bill and then do the right thing and just pull Bill 12?

Ms Jansen: Mr. Speaker, I am happy to talk about the pieces of this omnibus bill that I helped champion and, certainly, am very proud to have had constant and ongoing discussions with the LGBTQ community on this. I think what we're doing completely represents their care and concerns. I'm very happy to be able to witness what we're going to see this afternoon. Those relationships are built around mutual respect, inclusion, and acceptance. They are ongoing, and I'm very happy that in my ministry initiative I'll be dealing with them on an ongoing basis.

The Speaker: Thank you.

The hon. Member for Medicine Hat, followed by St. Albert.

Calgary Film Studio

Mr. Pedersen: Thank you, Mr. Speaker, and congratulations. After a number of years with PC promises made and PC promises broken, the Calgary film studio finally got a green light. While this is a positive step and we know that the film industry is encouraged by this, what we have heard is that in this case there are accusations that there may have been sharing of inside information and rigging of this bid. Can the minister please confirm that her proposal was created with a level playing field in mind for all bidders and that no single bidder was given preferential treatment or insider information?

The Speaker: The hon. Minister of Culture.

Mrs. Klimchuk: Well, thank you, Mr. Speaker. The Calgary film studio is indeed a great development for Calgary and for Alberta and for economic diversification. We received seven RFPs for this film studio. It went through the proper process, and I'm proud to say that the film studio is going to be built.

Mr. Pedersen: Mr. Speaker, given that there were a number of groups involved in the latest RFP process, as the minister stated, and given that the minister specifically identified the heavy financial involvement of government to be detrimental to the previous project, can the minister explain why she chose the Calgary Economic Development proposal instead of others promoted by the private sector?

The Speaker: The hon. minister.

Mrs. Klimchuk: Well, thank you, Mr. Speaker. The original proposal had an ask of about $16 million from the government, so the proposal of the $5 million that went in was a very prudent way to proceed. At the end of the day, it's a partnership with the city of Calgary, with Calgary Economic Development authority, and a partnership with William F. White from Toronto as the lead tenant.

Mr. Pedersen: Mr. Speaker, given that there were multiple bidders for the Calgary film studio, can the minister confirm that the Calgary Economic Development proposal she chose will have the capacity to grow and meet the future needs of industry, and will the minister clear the air and make all proposals public to show Albertans that this was a fair and equal process?

The Speaker: The hon. minister.

Mrs. Klimchuk: Well, thank you, Mr. Speaker. Indeed, the Calgary film studio will be leading here in Alberta. We know that there are lots of film, television, and digital media coming right here to Alberta. At the end of the day, we know this project is the right fit, and it will be a great fit for Calgary, and I look forward to even more film studios being built in Alberta.

2:50

The Speaker: Thank you.

Hon. Clerk, if you could just stop the clock momentarily. I'm looking at the clock of the day, and I'm looking at the clock for question period, realizing that we may well go beyond 3 o'clock just to finish question period. Government House Leader, if you wish to put a request forward, we'd be happy to hear it.

Mr. Campbell: Yes, Mr. Speaker. I'd like to ask that we extend the daily Routine past 3 o'clock.

The Speaker: Thank you.

Hon. members, unanimous consent has been asked for to extend our time for the Routine beyond 3 o'clock, which likely will be necessary.

[Unanimous consent granted]

The Speaker: Let us get started again with both clocks, starting with St. Albert, followed by Olds-Didsbury-Three Hills.

Mr. Khan: Mr. Speaker, my warmest congratulations to you and your family on the birth of your grandson.

The Speaker: Thank you.

Loyalty Program Prohibition for Prescription Drugs

Mr. Khan: Mr. Speaker, based on decisions by the Alberta College of Pharmacists, as of May 1 Albertans who belong to loyalty and reward programs no longer have the opportunity to collect points when making purchases at their pharmacy. New rules related to these inducements ban pharmacists from offering incentives for prescriptions or other professional services. These changes have drawn opposition from several pharmacy chains and consumer groups. Some have characterized the college's arguments as alarmist, overblown, and disrespectful to pharmacy customers. I've heard this message from an overwhelming number of my constituents. My question is to the Minister of Health. Many Albertans spend thousands of dollars at their pharmacy each year and have . . .

The Speaker: Thank you, hon. member. I regret your 35 seconds have elapsed, and we must go to the answer.

Mr. Horne: Well, thank you very much, Mr. Speaker. I certainly heard enough to understand the question the hon. member is asking. The short answer to the question is: no, the government will not be stepping into this issue. As I previously outlined, the law delegates the right to set standards of practice to regulated health professions in Alberta, of which the College of Pharmacists is one. It delegates the same authorities to other professions with respect to, as I said, standards of practice. These are medical or professional practice matters. They are not political matters, and it is the college and not the Legislature that sets these standards.

Mr. Khan: Mr. Speaker, consumers have noted that they are more than capable of making their own choices. Outlining this type of decision should be left to Albertans and not the College of Pharmacists. To the same minister: will the government reconsider and have a conversation with the college about this decision?

Mr. Horne: Well, Mr. Speaker, I've certainly had discussions with the college prior to them reaching this decision. They have laid out the case for me and, I think, for all Albertans about why they think this is an issue that is important to quality of care and patient safety and is also a matter of professional ethics, so we will respect the college's right to make these decisions under the legislation that delegates this authority to them.

The Speaker: Thank you.
Final supplemental.

Mr. Khan: Thank you, Mr. Speaker. To the same minister: stakeholders pointed to studies indicating that patients see the value in loyalty programs where these incentives have potential to encourage positive health behaviour, including obtaining immunizations, health screening services, and improving medical adherence. Minister, are you willing to actively determine whether these dissolved programs truly outweigh the benefits of having them available to patients?

Mr. Horne: Well, Mr. Speaker, with the greatest respect I'll remind the hon. member that this is not a consumer issue. This is an issue of health care, and it is within the purview . . .

An Hon. Member: It is a consumer issue.

Mr. Horne: It is not a consumer issue. It is within the purview of the College of Pharmacists to make this decision. The reason that patients are loyal to their pharmacists is the same reason that patients are loyal to their physicians and nurse practitioners and other health professionals. It is because of the trust that patients place in them. It is because of the ability of professionals to prescribe and deliver services that they are trained and regulated to deliver. Mr. Speaker, that is what . . .

The Speaker: Thank you.
The hon. Member for Olds-Didsbury-Three Hills, followed by Sherwood Park.

Lyme Disease Testing

Mr. Rowe: Thank you, Mr. Speaker. Back in March I asked a question on Lyme disease, where I addressed the chronic lack of support Alberta Health Services provides to Albertans with this serious disease. Lyme disease is a tick-borne disease and, when left untreated, has serious long-term health effects. Albertans have been contacting my office in desperate need for support, testing, and treatment. Will the Minister of Health apologize to Albertans for failing to ensure they have access to testing and proper treatment?

Mr. Horne: Well, Mr. Speaker, I thank the hon. member for the question. I know a number of colleagues on all sides of the House have been contacted by constituents about testing for Lyme disease. I can tell the hon. member the same thing that I told him the last time I answered the question. The testing for Lyme disease in this province is consistent with best practices and clinical evidence that's available globally. I recognize that Albertans who may feel they have been bitten by ticks are concerned about Lyme disease. My best advice is to contact their physician or other health professional and receive . . .

The Speaker: Thank you.
First supplemental.

Mr. Rowe: Thank you, Mr. Speaker. Given the amount of e-mails and phone calls I have received from my constituents and Albertans all across Alberta, it has become evident that some health care professionals are refusing to test for Lyme, and this government is forcing Albertans to pay out of pocket and travel out of country for very costly treatments. To the same minister: what progress has been made on this file since my last question, and will you today commit to meeting with myself and concerned families and patients?

The Speaker: The hon. minister.

Mr. Horne: Well, thank you very much, Mr. Speaker. I would certainly be very surprised if any Albertan could say that they were refused testing for Lyme disease in this province. There are tests that are delivered in the United States, tests that actually, I'm advised by the chief medical officer, do not adhere to the same standards and do not rely on the same clinical evidence that Canadian tests provide. I know that some patients have requested to receive the American testing, but I've been assured by the chief medical officer that the tests that we deliver in Alberta are consistent with current clinical evidence and best practice.

The Speaker: Thank you.
Final supplemental.

Mr. Rowe: Thank you, Mr. Speaker. I can refute those comments because I have testimony from patients right here that have been refused.

Given that this is clearly an issue affecting many Albertans and given that other governments, both federal and provincial, are already considering legislation to develop broad-based strategies to deal with this problem, when can we expect this government to follow suit and develop a made-in-Alberta solution that ensures we are doing what we can for people suffering with this terrible, debilitating disease?

Mr. Horne: Well, Mr. Speaker, I'm not sure if the hon. member wants to talk about the testing for Lyme disease or the treatment of Lyme disease. If he has information that suggests that anyone in this province has been denied tests for Lyme disease, that are funded in our province under the Alberta health care insurance plan, I'd be very happy to receive his files and to talk to him about those instances. But I repeat that we make decisions in Alberta about the health services we offer based on the current and best clinical evidence that's available. I take advice from the chief medical officer in this respect, and I am very assured that Albertans have access, as I said, to the current and best tests.

The Speaker: Thank you.
The hon. Member for Sherwood Park, followed by Lacombe-Ponoka.

Dialysis Service for Strathcona County Residents

Ms Olesen: Thank you, Mr. Speaker. The Strathcona hospital is set to open May 21. Sherwood Park has been waiting a long time for this. It is a leading-edge facility, and it includes a 24/7 emergency department. However, not all the services my constituents need are in place in this hospital. The lack of a dialysis unit in Sherwood Park requires residents from Sherwood Park and the surrounding areas to travel to the University of Alberta, Royal Alexandra, or Grey Nuns hospitals. To the Minister of Health: my constituents want to know why the Strathcona county hospital doesn't have a dialysis unit.

Mr. Horne: Well, Mr. Speaker, I'm very glad that the hon. member appreciates the excellence in health care that will be offered to her constituents as a result of the $130 million facility that was opened in the area last week. With respect to dialysis needs this was taken into account in the planning for the new facility. While I certainly appreciate that people would like the service to be as convenient as possible, I know the hon. member would understand that many of her constituents and the residents in this area are very close to services in Edmonton that provide these services, much closer to home than in other areas of the province.

The Speaker: Thank you.
First supplemental.

Ms Olesen: Thank you. To the same minister: given that the lack of an additional dialysis unit in Sherwood Park makes receiving treatment more difficult for many vulnerable Alberta people, will you implement this vital service?

Mr. Horne: Well, Mr. Speaker, the demand for dialysis services is rising across the province. Increasingly, we are meeting these needs through home dialysis, but we actually have fellow Albertans in northern and rural areas of the province that are having a much more difficult time accessing dialysis services than any of us would like to have.

With all due respect to the hon. member, the facility that opened last week is a state-of-the-art facility and includes many services that you would not find in other parts of the province, and they are also located very close to dialysis . . .

3:00

The Speaker: Thank you.
Final supplemental.

Ms Olesen: Thank you. To the same minister: given that this directly affects many of my constituents on a daily basis, what can we expect for a timeline on this decision?

Mr. Horne: Mr. Speaker, we have no decision under consideration at the moment to establish a dialysis unit at the Strathcona county hospital. What we have is a unique facility, unique in Alberta and in Canada, that, as the hon. member herself mentioned, offers 24/7 emergency services, 27 treatment beds, a CT scanner, mental health and addiction services, a full-service lab, and many, many other services under one roof, that would, in fact, I believe, be the envy of any community across Canada. We'll continue to work to monitor the needs of the community as time goes forward, but we believe we have built the facility that meets . . .

The Speaker: Thank you.

The hon. Member for Lacombe-Ponoka, followed by Innisfail-Sylvan Lake.

Drinking Water Contamination Complaint

Mr. Fox: Thank you, Mr. Speaker. Ann Craft is a constituent of mine who's been involved in a two-and-a-half-year fight with this government over the contamination of her drinking water due to oil activity close to her property. She has written dozens of letters, made dozens of phone calls, and has had no satisfaction from this government. This is about property rights and this government's lack of action to protect them. To the minister of sustainable resource development: why, after two and a half years and dozens of letters and phone calls, has this government continued to fail my constituent?

The Speaker: The hon. Government House Leader.

Mr. Campbell: Well, thank you, Mr. Speaker. It's the first I've heard of this, but I am prepared to say this to the member. If he gives me the name and the address and the phone number of the constituent, I will personally give them a call, and we will sit down and see what the issues are, and if we can resolve them, we will.

Mr. Fox: Thank you, Minister.

Given that the enforcement of environmental concerns resulting from the activity of the energy industry are now under the purview of the Alberta Energy Regulator, will the Minister of Energy order the AER to investigate and rectify the unacceptable conditions on Ann Craft's property?

The Speaker: The hon. Minister of Energy.

Mrs. McQueen: Well, thank you, Mr. Speaker. As the hon. Minister of ESRD just said, I am also not aware of this incident, but I'd be happy to find out the information from the hon. member, if he'd like to share that with us, and to look at the situation.

The Speaker: Final supplemental.

Mr. Fox: Thank you very much, Mr. Speaker. It's evident that the mail hasn't been read in a couple of these ministries.

Given that the government has allowed Ann's calls and letters to go unanswered for two and a half years and given this issue of property rights, environmental protection, and, quite frankly, a serious public health concern, do the ministers understand why Albertans have completely lost confidence in you, your government, and in the new Alberta Energy Regulator?

Mr. Campbell: Mr. Speaker, I take great offence to the member opposite saying that we don't return letters or answer phone calls. The people in our department are very conscious about the environment, and they're very conscious about the work they do. I will say to you that if a letter was written or if a phone call was made, I would say that those phone calls would be returned. Let me say that we don't always agree with the people on the other end of the phone. The answer might be no, so that person may not be happy. But I will commit personally that I will deal with this issue, and I will talk to that constituent. We'll come to a resolve on the issue.

The Speaker: Thank you.

That concludes our time for question period.

Members' Statements

The Speaker: You have two minutes each for the statements.

Hunger in Alberta

Ms Smith: Mr. Speaker, it's world Hunger Awareness Week in Canada, and while there's not a member in this Assembly who wouldn't agree that we are all fortunate to live in this province, Alberta is not immune from the scourge of hunger. According to the Alberta Food Bank Network Association about 53,000 Albertans turned to their local food bank for assistance every month in 2012. That's roughly equivalent to the population of Grande Prairie. What's even more alarming is the fact that 44 per cent of them, nearly half, were children, which is considerably higher than the national average of 36 per cent. These numbers are too high.

Hunger isn't always in your face and out in the open. It can strike even the hardest working individuals and families, and it can strike without warning. My hometown of High River knows this all too well. In the aftermath of last year's floods thousands of my fellow residents, who had never experienced the pain and uncertainty of not having enough to eat, suddenly found themselves dependent on the local food bank. Even today, 11 months after the fact, the High River Salvation Army food bank is still in a crunch. In March food bank worker Lynn Spencer said this: in the two and a half years I've been working here, I've never seen the shelves this bare of necessities for our food hampers.

Food banks are often the first access point for Albertans in need and the avenue to identify those in need of a helping hand. I'd like to thank them for the work that they do in helping our most vulnerable in our communities in their hours of need.

Today my colleagues from Innisfail-Sylvan Lake, Medicine Hat, Cypress-Medicine Hat, and Cardston-Taber-Warner have joined me in going without food for the day in order to raise awareness for hunger. I thank them for the support of this important cause. We hope to gain a small understanding of what thousands of Albertans go through every single day.

Mr. Speaker, Alberta is a place of tremendous opportunity for so many, but occasionally people fall through the cracks. Let this week be a reminder to us all that hunger is a real problem, even in Alberta. Please contribute to your local food bank.

Thank you.

The Speaker: Thank you.

The hon. Member for Edmonton-Beverly-Clareview, followed by Calgary-Hawkwood.

School Fees

Mr. Bilous: Thank you, Mr. Speaker. Alberta families are finding themselves more and more stretched each month when they sit down at the kitchen table with their budget. On top of paying some of the highest rates in the country for housing, food, and utilities, now this government is also expecting Albertans to pick up an ever-increasing part of the tab for their children's education.

The Calgary board of education is struggling with their annual budget. Shortfalls in funding from the government year after year have left them with only bad options. Hard-working families are now faced with increases of up to 53 per cent for some fees. Busing, instructional supplies, and noon hour supervision fees are all increasing, which adds up to several hundred dollars per child for Alberta families.

For one Calgary family already pinching pennies, this means fees of $1,280 next year, nearly double last year and 4 per cent of their annual family budget. Calgary is not unique. School boards across the province are struggling to find ways to continue to provide top-notch education with little support or commitment from this PC government. Funding on a per-student basis has been decreasing province-wide for four years.

In Edmonton busing and supervision fees can already add up to $500 per student, and the board may be forced to increase these in June. In Rocky View transportation fees increased by over 25 per cent last year, and now families are faced with another 20 per cent this year. Thanks to this government's misplaced priorities and short-sightedness more and more costs for important public services are being downloaded onto hard-working Albertans.

Mr. Speaker, with family budgets being stretched further and further each month, now this government is leaving behind the hundreds of thousands of Alberta families who have trusted in public education to ensure successful futures for their children.

Thank you, Mr. Speaker.

The Speaker: The hon. Member for Calgary-Hawkwood, followed by Leduc-Beaumont.

Robert Thirsk High School Opening

Mr. Luan: Thank you, Mr. Speaker. Last week I proudly attended the grand opening of Robert Thirsk high school along with the former Minister of Infrastructure and school trustees and Dr. Robert Thirsk himself, the well-known Canadian astronaut whom the school was named after.

This is the newest high school in my constituency of Calgary-Hawkwood. It is a big milestone following years of hard work by many stakeholders and the government. The school, which is located in the community of Arbour Lake, has a capacity of 1,500 students and accommodates students from seven surrounding neighbourhoods.

Inspired by Dr. Thirsk, the school believes that the words "personalizing," "connecting," and "thriving" are the living descriptors of the work the school community does, which helps create a vibrant learning environment. Students are active and vocal in learning and participate in various student-led initiatives.

Within eight months of opening, they have already achieved many accolades. They won the city of Calgary championship in junior football. They launched their inaugural FIRST robotics team and hosted the third annual international student leadership summit.

Through advanced technologies and dynamic facilities students have the opportunity to explore their abilities and recognize their full potential. As Dr. Thirsk stated, the sky isn't the limit for those bright minds.

Mr. Speaker, as the area MLA I am so encouraged by the potential demonstrated by those youngsters, so thrilled by the joy expressed by their parents and schoolteachers, and so thankful for the contributions made by our government, which have made a significant difference in my community. This is what we are elected for: to build Alberta.

Thank you.

The Speaker: Thank you.

The hon. Member for Leduc-Beaumont, followed by Banff-Cochrane.

3:10 Dingman Discovery Well Centennial

Mr. Rogers: Thank you, Mr. Speaker. Albertans can take pride in the rich history of our great province. That storied history speaks of this land's first people, Alberta's First Nations, whose culture reflects the beauty of the landscape that is at the heart of age-old traditions and customs. It speaks of our early settlers, who came to this land to till the soil and plant the seeds of a new life for themselves and a future for those to come.

And it speaks of the wildcatters, the dreamers, and the derrick hands who were willing to risk all they had on little more than a gut feeling, on a belief that down below the fertile topsoil lay the promise of even greater riches that would fuel that drive into the future, that would build the success of an entirely new industry and the prosperity of a province still in its infancy.

Mr. Speaker, a deep rumble preceded the gush of oil and gas that spewed forth from Dingman 1 in Turner Valley that Thursday in May, 1914. It was followed by the roar of cheers from those present and those who crowded the streets of Calgary upon learning the news. The echoes of that celebration, of the excitement and optimism, resonate today as 100 years later we mark this important anniversary and its ongoing impact on the social, cultural, and economic life of Alberta.

Mr. Speaker, the Dingman discovery of May 14, 1914 was the discovery of Alberta's first commercial oil field. That discovery led to the development of the Turner Valley gas plant, the first commercial natural gas processing facility west of Ontario, now both a provincially and federally recognized historic site. More importantly, that discovery touched off a flurry of scientific, technological, cultural, and social exploration.

Mr. Speaker, 100 years have passed since that momentous day in Turner Valley, but not even time can temper the optimism, the determination, the spirit of that day. We have learned a great deal, and the industry that those early pioneers established has grown and continues to grow. Their dreams have become the dreams of all those who have made Alberta the fastest growing province in Canada.

The centennial celebrations being held on May 14, 2014, at the historic Turner Valley gas plant are . . .

The Speaker: Thank you.

The hon. Member for Banff-Cochrane, followed by Lacombe-Ponoka.

Emergency Preparedness

Mr. Casey: Thank you, Mr. Speaker, and congratulations on your grandson. I also have a new granddaughter, that was born last Saturday, Nicola Marie, so we're in good company.

I'm pleased today to rise and recognize Emergency Preparedness Week, an event that takes place in communities across Canada to remind us of the importance of planning and preparation. Planning ahead can significantly reduce the impact of an emergency or a disaster and help the recovery process begin. It takes only a few simple actions to reduce the effects of a disaster.

At the individual level, Mr. Speaker, Albertans are encouraged to have enough food, water, and supplies on hand to survive on their own for 72 hours. They should have one emergency kit in their vehicle and another that they can grab at a moment's notice in case they must leave home quickly.

At the provincial level we are taking action as well, Mr. Speaker, to ensure Albertans are informed when a disaster or an emergency is threatening their community. Alberta emergency alert is the public warning system that alerts Albertans to emergencies over the radio, television, and Internet, and now Android users can download a free mobile app that delivers alerts based on a user's location. I encourage Albertans to sign up to receive alerts so they can have information in real time about impending emergencies or disasters. This initiative is another important partnership between the government of Alberta, local authorities, and broadcasters, where everyone works to communicate life-saving alerts more effectively to Albertans.

We all have a role to play in keeping our communities safe. By working together, we can help ensure the safety of Albertans when disasters threaten our communities. Visit emergencyalert.alberta.ca to learn more.

Thank you.

The Speaker: Thank you, and thank you for your kind comments about grandchildren, including mine.

The hon. Member for Lacombe-Ponoka.

Lacombe

Mr. Fox: Thank you very much, Mr. Speaker. Today I would like to take a brief moment to talk about one of Canada's greatest places, Lacombe. Just last month Lacombe's Main Street was dedicated as one of Canada's greatest places by the Canadian Institute of Planners.

Our region has deep agricultural roots and a rich history that defines Lacombe's identity to this very day. In Lacombe we wear our love of that history on our sleeves. It's evident when you stroll through our historic downtown. You see it in buildings like the flatiron building, the many murals painted in the downtown core, and the artifacts spread between the Flatiron Museum, the blacksmith museum, and the Michener House museum.

In 1883 Edward Barnett settled the area before the arrival of the railroad. In a little over a decade the little community grew from just a stopping house into a hamlet and soon into a village. By 1902 this bustling little village had a very busy commercial centre and a prominent Main Street. In 1904 the flatiron building became the most prominent landmark on Main Street.

In 1906 a devastating fire burned through Main Street, destroying most of the buildings in the downtown though the flatiron did survive. In the wake of the rebuilding, the Lacombe town council decreed that all frame buildings be brick veneered and that all new structures be of brick construction, and our beautiful downtown was reborn.

I encourage you all to visit Lacombe to enjoy one of our many festivals like the Encore festival, showcasing artwork, poetry, pottery, and photography. Take in Lacombe Days, our annual summer bash, and stop by the Lacombe Culture and Harvest Festival, or maybe you'll decide to capture the charm of the holiday season at our Light Up the Night Festival. Just be sure that while you're here, you check out our Main Street and learn the history behind it at the I Love Main Street exhibit at the Flatiron Museum, so carefully preserved by the passionate people of the Lacombe & District Historical Society.

Mr. Speaker, I know that all members will claim their community as the greatest place in Canada, but in Lacombe, with its Main Street, we actually have an award to back that up.

Thank you.

Presenting Reports by Standing and Special Committees

The Speaker: The hon. Member for Leduc-Beaumont.

Mr. Rogers: Thank you, Mr. Speaker. As chair of the Select Special Ethics Commissioner Search Committee it is my honour to table our report, which unanimously recommends the appointment of the hon. Marguerite Trussler, QC, as the next Ethics Commissioner for the province of Alberta for a five-year term commencing May 26, 2014.

Now that our committee's mandate is complete, I'd like to quickly thank all of my committee colleagues for their dedication throughout the search process and acknowledge the valuable support provided to the committee by the staff in corporate human resources and the Legislative Assembly Office. I have five copies of the report.

Notices of Motions

The Speaker: The hon. Government House Leader.

Mr. Campbell: Thank you, Mr. Speaker. I rise today to give oral notice of Government Motion 14.

Be it resolved that the Legislative Assembly concur in the report of the Select Special Ethics Commissioner Search Committee and recommend to the Lieutenant Governor in Council that the hon. Marguerite Trussler, QC, be appointed Ethics Commissioner for the province of Alberta for a five-year term commencing May 26, 2014.

Tabling Returns and Reports

The Speaker: We have a number of these today. Let us move as quickly as we can through them, please, starting with Edmonton-Beverly-Clareview, followed by Olds-Didsbury-Three Hills.

Mr. Bilous: Thank you, Mr. Speaker. I would like to table 50 of over 4,000 postcards our office has received asking this PC government to restore consistent and reliable funding to post-secondary education in Alberta. The postcards, collected by the Non-Academic Staff Association at the U of A, are clear evidence the government is not listening to the demands of Albertans for a well-funded postsecondary system that is both accessible and affordable for all.

Thank you, Mr. Speaker.

The Speaker: Thank you.

The hon. Member for Olds-Didsbury-Three Hills, followed by Edmonton-Centre.

Mr. Rowe: Thank you, Mr. Speaker. I rise today to table the appropriate number of copies of eight different letters written by my constituents and Albertans that are struggling with Lyme disease. They highlight how our current system leaves many Albertans jumping hurdles as they seek help and answers for their illness. We're only tabling eight today because I wanted to do that before this session ends. There will be many more in the fall.

Thank you.

The Speaker: Thank you.

Hon. Member for Edmonton-Centre, I understand you have several, so proceed with the first.

Ms Blakeman: I do. Thank you very much, Mr. Speaker. I have a long list. On behalf of my colleague the Member for Edmonton-Meadowlark and leader of the Liberal opposition I'd like to table a copy of a news release by the Alberta Teachers' Association in which they talk about the FOIP that they have done, hoping that disclosure of other research activities and findings will determine the extent to which the task force on education used a broad and balanced approach to make recommendations.

3:20

All of the next series relates to the questions that I asked today. The first tabling, obtained from the Edmonton courthouse, is the government approvals policy from Alberta Environment, environmental management division, in particular setting out that any organization that has a portion of its members living in the geographic vicinity of the activity will be considered directly affected.

The next related tablings, then, also from the Edmonton courthouse, are rejection letters from when the oil sands coalition was rejected for the first time for its stand on the hearing on the Southern Pacific Resource Corporation's McKay thermal project. There is a second letter of rejection on that same project. As a result, Mr. Speaker, no NGOs were heard on that application on the STP McKay thermal project, phase 2.

We have the judge's ruling from the Court of Queen's Bench on the last time and on that particular rejection, which I will note says:

In my view the entire process in this case is so tainted by the "Briefing Note" that . . . I need only refer to the applicants' contention that the Director breached the principles of natural justice [et cetera].

I've given you that one.

Then we have a copy of, in fact, the tainted briefing note, which was used by the judge in rejecting what he was doing.

Then we have a very strange – sorry for the editorial statement – press release from the minister in October 2013 for some reason engaging in NDP bashing, including the federal NDPs. I have no idea why they would engage in that, but they did.

Also from the Edmonton courthouse are templates that the government uses to arbitrarily reject or accept applicants for intervenor status. We have the template for that, which was used repeatedly and is quite recognizable.

Also from the courthouse are four letters that are requesting additional information in order to allow intervenor status, followed by three letters that reject individuals for intervenor status although they have provided all the information that was requested.

Thank you.

The Speaker: Thank you.

The hon. Member for Cardston-Taber-Warner, followed by Calgary-Shaw.

Mr. Bikman: Thank you, Mr. Speaker. A constituent of mine in Taber, Alberta, Judy Jensen – she's a very caring daughter – has expressed some concerns about the care that her parents are receiving in a facility, Linden View, in Taber. I have the requisite number of copies outlining some of her concerns, that I would like to table today.

Thank you.

The Speaker: Thank you.

The hon. Member for Calgary-Shaw.

Mr. Wilson: Thank you, Mr. Speaker. I would like to table today the requisite number of copies of a letter from Mrs. Patricia Lovitt from Bridlewood in Calgary. She's been on a wait-list for shoulder replacement surgery for over two years. She compares this to elder abuse. In the letter she makes some comments on the disconnect between the long wait times and some of the obscene salaries of health executives and compels this PC government to refocus their efforts on our health care system.

Thank you.

Tablings to the Clerk

The Clerk: I wish to advise the House that the following document was deposited with the office of the Clerk: on behalf of the hon. Mr. Griffiths, Minister of Service Alberta, the report dated June 2013 entitled Condominium Property Act Review: Consultation Analysis Report.

The Speaker: Thank you.

Statement by the Speaker

Page Recognition

The Speaker: Hon. members, we are near the end of the Routine. There are no points of order today. However, there is an important piece of business that we're going to take a few minutes to address, and that is the recognition of our pages, who serve us daily in this House. There might be a few more outside; I'm just going to ask them to come in here.

I am in receipt of a letter dated May 7, 2014, addressed to me and to all Members of the Legislative Assembly, from the retiring pages. It reads as follows:

Mr. Speaker,

The end of Session signifies something different for everyone. Although many of you are excited to return to your families and constituents, for the Pages this is a bittersweet time. The end of Session is accompanied by the realization that for some of us our time on the Chamber floor has come to an end. We would like to express our sincere appreciation for the incredible opportunity we have had to serve the Legislative Assembly of Alberta.

There are countless people who have made this into such an unforgettable experience. We would like to thank the Sergeant-at-Arms for teaching us the meaning of leadership; the Table Officers for their sense of humor and grace under pressure; the staff in 315 and 412 for their constant support and words of wisdom; and the Security Staff for showing us that it's important to find a job you look forward to, with people you enjoy working with. As well we wish to extend our gratitude to the Members of the Legislative Assembly, without whom, our role in the Chamber would not exist. From them we have gained a lot of useful knowledge: practical implementation of democracy to their preference of temperature and ice cube ratio of their water. And we would like to thank you Mr. Speaker. When you took office you encouraged all Members to develop a Credo to guide their work. As Pages we took this to heart, and would like to thank you for your role in developing our motto: [C for] constant vigilance, [R for] rapid delivery, [E for] extraordinary teamwork, [D for] diligence, and [O for] opportunity of a lifetime.

As we reflect on our experiences at the Legislature, we recognize how fortunate we are to have had the "best seat in the house" to witness history in the making, along with previous generations of Alberta Pages. A 1913 Edmonton Journal article describes the Pages as "bright streaks of mischief", and we are honored to join the ranks of Pages whose laughter has echoed under the dome.

For many of us, walking into the Chamber on our first day here felt like walking into a newspaper headline, and we feel extremely privileged to have played even a small role in that story. Through every point of order, amendment, and late night standing division, our time here has been unforgettable. The generosity and hard work of all the Members in this Assembly has shown us the type of leaders we would like to become and the future we hope to aspire to. For many of us this has truly been more than a job, it has been our second home. It has been a great honor and privilege to serve on the floor of the Assembly and for that we would like to say a sincere thank you for this incredible experience.

Yours sincerely,

Helen Cashman, Tierra Stokes, Laura Bryan, Chantelle Bryce, Alyssa Edgerton, Stephanie Nedoshytko, Ben Thronson.

Hon. members, let us thank these wonderful pages with our applause. [Standing ovation]

Hon. pages, words cannot express our thanks, nor can any particular gift, but my deputy is going to try to do both right now.

The hon. Member for Leduc-Beaumont and Deputy Speaker.

Mr. Rogers: Well, thank you, Mr. Speaker. I'm sure I can't do justice to the wonderful letter that you shared with us that was written by these very, very bright young people, and I mean that sincerely. I certainly wish you well in your future endeavours.

Mr. Speaker and hon. members, it is with regret that we say goodbye to seven of these hard-working pages at the end of this session. They are Helen Cashman, our head page; Tierra Stokes, our training and development page; Alyssa Edgerton; Ben Thronson; Chantelle Bryce; Laura Bryan; and Stephanie Nedoshytko. Helen, Alyssa, Ben, Chantelle, and Stephanie are retiring as they have now completed their first year of university. Tierra and Laura are both going away for university this autumn.

I ask you to join me in recognizing the efforts of our diligent pages, who daily show patience – and a lot of patience, Mr. Speaker – and understanding of our many demands. They carry out their tasks with attention to duty, including some very, very late nights of work with us.

3:30

On behalf of all members each departing page is given a framed print of the Legislative Assembly as a token of our appreciation. These gifts are from the personal contribution of every member of our Assembly. Along with the gifts are our best wishes. We are honoured to have our pages work with us in the Legislature to serve Albertans. I ask our Deputy Chair of Committees to hand a gift to our head page, Helen Cashman, who is representing all the retiring pages. Helen, in turn, will present each of the rest of the retiring pages with their gifts from us later.

Thank you, Mr. Speaker, and thank you to our pages.

The Speaker: Thank you, all, and thank you for participating and for the wonderful tributes that have been given to you all. We wish you everything the best in your future careers, and we hope that the memories you have made here will come back to you often and that they will be as wonderful for you as they will be for all of us. God bless you all, and good luck to you.

That concludes our Routine. I believe we can move on.

Orders of the Day

Government Motions

Committee Membership Changes

13. Mr. Campbell moved:
Be it resolved that the following changes to:
 - (a) the Standing Committee on Families and Communities be approved: that Mr. Webber replace Mr. VanderBurg, that Mr. Pedersen replace Mrs. Forsyth as deputy chair, that Mr. Fox replace Mrs. Forsyth.
 - (b) the Standing Committee on Alberta's Economic Future be approved: that Ms Kennedy-Glans replace Mr. Dorward.
 - (c) the Standing Committee on Resource Stewardship be approved: that Mr. Cao replace Mr. Webber, that Mr. Hale replace Mr. Anglin as deputy chair.
 - (d) the Standing Committee on Public Accounts be approved: that Mr. Jeneroux replace Ms Fenske.
 - (e) the Standing Committee on the Alberta Heritage Savings Trust Fund be approved: that Ms Redford replace Mr. Sandhu.

The Speaker: Thank you.

Are there any other speakers to this motion?
If not, are you ready for the question?

Hon. Members: Question.

[Government Motion 13 carried]

The Speaker: The Hon. Government House Leader.

Mr. Campbell: Yes, Mr. Speaker. I'd like to request unanimous consent to waive Standing Order 39(1) so that we can proceed with the debate on Government Motion 14.

The Speaker: Thank you.

Hon. members, unanimous consent has been requested in order to deal with Government Motion 14.

[Unanimous consent granted]

Ethics Commissioner Appointment

14. Mr. Campbell moved:

Be it resolved that the Legislative Assembly concur in the report of the Select Special Ethics Commissioner Search Committee and recommend to the Lieutenant Governor in Council that the hon. Marguerite Trussler, Q.C., be appointed Ethics Commissioner for the province of Alberta for a five-year term commencing May 26, 2014.

The Speaker: Are there any speakers to this motion?

Seeing none, are you ready for the question?

Hon. Members: Question.

[Government Motion 14 carried unanimously]

Government Bills and Orders Committee of the Whole

[Mr. Rogers in the chair]

The Chair: Hon. members, I'd like to call the Committee of the Whole to order.

Bill 11

Child, Youth and Family Enhancement Amendment Act, 2014

The Chair: I'll recognize the first speaker, the hon. Member for Edmonton-Strathcona.

Ms Notley: Thank you very much, Mr. Chair. Yes. I'm pleased to be able to rise again in Committee of the Whole on Bill 11, having spoken to it a few times yesterday, and now am pleased to move an amendment to Bill 11.

Ms Blakeman: Amendment?

Ms Notley: An amendment.

So what I am going to do is . . .

The Chair: If you'd just pause for a moment, hon. member, and circulate the amendment to the table as well. I'll be back to you in just a few moments.

This will be amendment A7, hon. members.

Hon. Member for Edmonton-Strathcona, you may proceed.

Ms Notley: Thank you very much, Mr. Chair. This amendment is as follows. I'm moving that Bill 11, Child, Youth and Family Enhancement Amendment Act, 2014, be amended by adding the following after section 17. In 17.1 the following is added after section 131:

131.1 For the purposes of section 131(1)(d.1), no regulation shall be made prior to being considered by an all-party committee of the Legislative Assembly.

The point around this motion goes back to the conversation we had at some length yesterday, where members from all parties were struggling with how to deal with the application of the publication ban, when it would be used, who would get access to it, who it would apply to, all those kinds of things. What this is an attempt to do is to ensure that all members of the Assembly can discuss appropriate regulations that would constrain and/or circumscribe the rules around the publication ban's use by the government. So it provides an opportunity for there to be public, open discussion and committee discussion to consider all the interesting possible scenarios that we needed to prepare for.

I think this is an opportunity to find a collective win on this particular issue and for all parties who have an interest in this issue as well as all members of this Assembly to participate in trying to come up with the best application of the rule around when fatalities are published.

I urge members of this Assembly to support this amendment. Thank you.

The Chair: The hon. Government House Leader.

Mr. Campbell: Thank you, Mr. Chair. On behalf of the Minister of Human Services, we are happy to accept this amendment.

The Chair: Hon. members, should we call the question on the amendment?

Hon. Members: Question.

[Motion on amendment A7 carried]

The Chair: Are there other speakers?

Ms Notley: I do have another amendment here. I'm sorry, but you knew it was coming. I'm pretty sure you're not going to vote for it, so I really feel the need to explain why that's not a good decision. I'm going to do that. I'm going to just hand that over to you guys, and you can distribute it. Let me know when I can speak again.

The Chair: I certainly will, hon. member. Did you send me the original?

3:40

Ms Notley: I did, I think. Let me just check. I did.

The Chair: Hon. members, if an original turns up on your desk, I'd ask to trade it with you, to the chair, please. We seem to have misplaced the original.

Hon. member, you may proceed, but I'm still waiting for the original. This will be A8.

Ms Notley: Thank you, Mr. Chair. This amendment is one that ought not to surprise people who have been closely following this debate, because I have telegraphed my belief that this is what we need to do even before we got into discussion on the bill, even when the minister first started talking about some of the changes he wanted to make.

What this amendment does is that it amends the Child, Youth and Family Enhancement Amendment Act, 2014, and it also amends through that the Child and Youth Advocate Act. In essence, even though it's very long, all it's really doing is injecting the word "may" into every subclause so that there was the ability to exceed one subclause from the "may," and that is subclause (d), which I've added, and subclause (d) says that the children's advocate "must."

What we're asking that this Assembly direct that the children's advocate must do is investigate systemic issues arising from

- (i) a serious injury to or the death of a child who at the time of the injury or death was receiving a designated service referred to in sections 1(e)(i) . . .

carrying on. The other one:

- (ii) the serious injury to or death of a child who at any time during the 2-year period immediately preceding the serious injury or death received a designated service.

What this does is that it builds on the expansion of the mandate to the children's advocate in that we understand that the act already allows the advocate to go back two years to look at serious injuries or deaths that occurred in the previous two years. It incorporates that, but it also mandates that the advocate actually engage in an investigation in each of those cases.

Now, we have a general sense of what it is we are looking at here in the numbers, because we're able to go back to what those numbers have been over the last 10 or 15 years, and we're probably looking potentially at a number on an annual basis somewhere around 30 investigations a year. So it's not an overwhelming number.

What it does do is that it gets back to that foundational principle that I have been repeating over and over and over again since I was first elected in 2008, which is that when we review what happened in these circumstances, the review must, first, be independent and, second, must be transparent. We cannot have a plethora of internal reviews with hand-picked expert committees from this place and that place and this mandate and that mandate, where the reports almost always end up staying internal and where nobody acts on them and the public is unaware of what's going on.

We tried to deal with this issue in the Leg. Offices Committee back in December. Rather than directing that the children's advocate do more investigations, what we would do is simply increase his resources so that he had the resources to do an adequate number of investigations. As you may know, Mr. Chair, the fact of the matter is that in the last completed year for which we have information, 2012-2013, there were roughly 20 files that were sent to him by the ministry, and only four investigations took place. He explained to us in fairly good detail how that happened. Basically, what is sent to him is a one-page document from the medical examiner's office, and based on that, he has to make a decision whether or not to designate more resources to doing a more detailed investigation of what happened. Whether the public ever becomes aware in general of the systemic issues that surround a child's death only happens based on a one-page sheet from the medical examiner's office. In my view, that is not adequate.

We had a very dramatic situation here last fall when suddenly these numbers starting pouring out of the Edmonton Journal and then subsequently pouring out of the government. You know, we went from 10 fatalities a year to suddenly talking about hundreds and hundreds of fatalities. Then we heard: oh, well, it was all natural deaths, so we don't need to worry about it. Then we learned that, no, a lot of these actually involved very serious systemic issues of neglect, which, coincidentally, are the same issues that the children's advocate has been talking about for many years but not in really specific terms because we didn't have the specific information upon which to have that specific discussion.

This is about actually injecting clarity, transparency, and independence into what's going on so that we can make the best, most reasoned, thoughtful, well-informed decisions about how to stop that from going on in the future. As much as I said yesterday that the minister's additional review programs that he's got in this act will probably serve to improve best practices within the ministry context – and there's certainly nothing bad about that; quite the opposite, it's probably good – it would not do anything to increase the independence and the transparency of the oversight of the system as a whole. This amendment is geared to that objective.

I ask members of the Assembly to accept this amendment so that we can actually demonstrate that we have the most independent and transparent system for review possible. I think that would serve the interests of all Albertans, certainly those very vulnerable Albertans who are the subject of these kinds of considerations.

Thank you.

The Chair: Are there other speakers? The hon. Member for Edmonton-Centre.

Ms Blakeman: Thanks very much, Mr. Chairman. I'm inclined to support this amendment but maybe not for the same reason specifically as the sponsoring member. I'm inclined to support it because of the transparency that it offers. As I move through my constituency and go to other events and listen to people, as I read and research election issues about why the number of voters that we have participating is declining and why we can't capture a younger voting demographic, I keep hearing the same thing over and over again, and that is: "We want to be more involved. We want to be closer to the decision-making process. We want to have a better understanding of how government is doing things."

My first reaction to that was: "Oh, for heaven's sake, there are lots of opportunities. There are policy conventions that are offered by every political party. There are lots of different ways to get involved." But the more I listen, the more I come to understand that it's more than that. I don't know that it's specifically about decision-making. I think it's about understanding the process. When decisions come out, for example, from an independent legislative officer like the children's advocate, people go: "Why would they make that decision? Why was that done? Why was that choice made?"

[Mrs. Jablonski in the chair]

We've had such a building of secrecy, partly to make us look important. If you're the one hoarding the information, you're the king or the queen. I mean, you know it all. Nobody can challenge you, right? Nobody can say, "You should have done it differently," or, "You're wrong." But what's happened to us is that that hoarding of information, those walls that have been built to not allow people to watch us make decisions and understand what influences decisions: that has actually made people feel disconnected from what's going on. I think they want to be able to tell, to know. The reaction that I always get from politicians is: "Oh, my God, no. We don't want the public to actually be scrutinizing what we're doing because, you know, they won't understand; they won't have the background. They'll get involved, it'll be vexatious, and it'll just draw the whole thing out to no real purpose." I disagree.

3:50

My experience has been that when you give people that information, they do take the time to read it and understand it, and for the most part that's it. They go away saying: "Okay. I understand why they made that decision, and I agree or I disagree." But away they go. I haven't seen or experienced, you know, a huge number of interfering, vexatious issues being raised around that.

I'll give you a very small example. I have always published the budget broken down into about 20 categories for my constituency office. I publish it every year in my annual report. I just thought: well, they're paying for it; they should see it, right? That just seemed obvious to me. I have always put along with that that anyone that wants to come in and actually scrutinize it line by line is more than welcome to do so. We just request that they make an appointment because we would have to have someone sitting there with them on the computer just for the privacy of the other things that are going on in the office at the time.

You know, no one has ever taken me up on that. I think it's because they don't need to. They can see how much money we got. They can see how we spent it. I have had a few people phone and say: well, why was this so high or that so low? I've been able to explain it, and that's good. So I've had the opposite reaction. People have not, you know, peppered my office with phone calls demanding to know much more detail. Rather, it's given them enough information that they've left me alone. I think that's what we need more of across all of our processes.

Every time I'm sitting on an act review committee or a policy field committee or anything like that that's doing work, I always put a motion up as early in the proceedings as possible to say that, you know, all of the documents that we use to make decisions should be posted, must be posted to the website so the public can understand how we reached a decision. If people are not willing to have their documents posted, then I say – and so far I've had agreement from my committee colleagues – that we will not use the document. I really believe that people should be able to go on that website, read what we read, and understand how we came to a decision based on that material. If we're reading secret stuff, that nobody else gets to see, then we've got a problem.

What's being anticipated here in the motion put forward by Edmonton-Strathcona is that this information is made much more readily available, and I agree with that. I mean, I've just gone through a number of examples of why I think it's important but particularly around children who are injured or die while in the care or under intervention services from the government. One of the most intimate and vulnerable acts that the public turns over to the government is: please look after our children. If for some reason a family is not able to look after their children, to hand your child over to the government is the ultimate gesture of trust, and we should be able to reinforce that trust, we the public, we the media, we anybody that wants to understand the details of what went wrong in a situation. How the government and the children's advocate decided to work their way out of it is important information, and I think it should be valued as that. I have great trust that the public will not abuse that. For that reason I support the amendment that has been brought forward by the Member for Edmonton-Strathcona.

Thank you very much for allowing me the opportunity to comment on this in Committee of the Whole for Bill 11, the Child, Youth and Family Enhancement Amendment Act. I do believe that what is included in this amendment could lead us to a better understanding and, you know, ultimately, maybe better education and fewer kids that end up in the custody and care of the government.

Thank you.

The Deputy Chair: Thank you, hon. member.

The hon. Member for Edmonton-Beverly-Clareview.

Mr. Bilous: Thank you, Madam Chair. It's my honour to rise and speak in favour of this amendment. I mean, I'll keep my comments brief, but I think it's important that all members of the Assembly understand what this amendment is proposing.

First of all, it's separating the different functions of the advocate or giving him or her the ability to not have to choose between one or all of the subsections, giving the advocate more freedom to be able to do a combination of things: may communicate and visit with the child; on their own initiative assist in appealing or reviewing a decision. It's talking about participating in processes where decisions are made. I think that this amendment from the onset, Madam Chair, is quite a reasonable amendment, but the point that I think is specifically very important within the amendment is under (d): the advocate "must investigate systemic issues arising from . . . a serious injury to or the death of a child" while in care or who was in care within the previous two-year period.

I think that that's very important, and this amendment does strengthen the bill, which, again, is obviously the goal of the Assembly when we're in committee. So I strongly urge that all members accept this amendment so that we can strengthen the role and the abilities of the advocate even more.

Thank you, Madam Chair.

The Deputy Chair: Thank you hon. member.

Are there any other speakers to amendment A8?

Seeing none, I'll call the question on the amendment.

[Motion on amendment A8 lost]

The Deputy Chair: Are there any other speakers on Bill 11 in Committee of the Whole?

Seeing none, are you ready for the question?

Hon. Members: Question.

[The remaining clauses of Bill 11 agreed to]

[Title and preamble agreed to]

The Deputy Chair: Shall the bill be reported? Are you agreed?

Hon. Members: Agreed.

The Deputy Chair: Opposed? That's carried.

Mr. Campbell: I move we rise and report Bill 11.

[Motion carried]

[Mrs. Jablonski in the chair]

The Acting Speaker: The hon. Member for Edmonton-South West.

Mr. Jeneroux: Thank you, Madam Speaker. The Committee of the Whole has under consideration a certain bill. The Committee reports the following bill with some amendments: Bill 11. Madam Speaker, I wish to table copies of all amendments considered by the Committee of the Whole on this date for the official records of the Assembly.

The Acting Speaker: Thank you.

Do all members concur with the report?

Hon. Members: Concur.

The Acting Speaker: Opposed? That's carried.

4:00 Government Bills and Orders
 Third Reading

Bill 12
 Statutes Amendment Act, 2014

[Adjourned debate May 6: Mr. Anderson]

The Acting Speaker: Are there any members who wish to speak?
The hon. Member for Edmonton-Beverly-Clareview.

Mr. Bilous: Thank you very much, Madam Speaker. I think I'm behooved to speak to this omnibus bill. You know, I have some initial comments before I get into the bill. Again, this isn't the first time that I've gotten up in this House and spoken to the breakneck speed with which this PC government rams through legislation. I find it sad and actually a misnomer that this bill is merely housekeeping. When we are amending over 16 different acts with one piece of legislation – and some parts of this are significantly changing acts – it's dishonest to call this a housekeeping bill. I've heard stories in the past that when there were two or more acts being amended, they would actually be separated out into separate pieces of legislation and not just thrown in as one massive bill without agreement from all parties.

You know, part of where some of my comments yesterday were coming from was that I was assured by the government that changes were going to be relatively minor and that there were some positive steps or positive amendments within this bill. But it's clear, upon further reading of this bill and interpreting it, that this simply isn't true.

Madam Speaker, it's worth mentioning that the purpose of having a Westminster system, or a multiparty system, is to ensure that there are different perspectives and points of view represented in the House. In order for the opposition to do our job, we need time to be able to go through a bill, read it, interpret it, look at how we can improve it, come up with different ways of improving it, and then submit amendments, which all takes time.

I mean, we appreciate the hard work that the table officers do in taking our amendments and then putting them into proper form. But when we rush through pieces of legislation such as this bill – the fact that we're already on third reading, Madam Speaker, is actually not doing the bill nor Albertans any justice. Again, you know, we don't live in a one-party state, although some who have been born in the last 43 years may think so. The purpose, again, of having an opposition is for us to be able to debate. I would argue that when we rush through legislation, we're unable to do our job, and we are doing a disservice to Albertans.

I can also comment that despite the fact that the government has been cautioned by various opposition members or encouraged to accept amendments on various bills, in my short two years being a member in this House, Madam Speaker, there have been several bills that have come back to be amended because, again, the government rushed through the bill in the first place, despite the amendments and opposition calls to slow down the process and to seriously consider some of the amendments put forward by the opposition parties.

My concern is, first of all, the speed with which we're moving this through but also all of the different acts that it affects and the fact that we could be here, well, this fall, back in the House amending some of the pieces of this bill.

So I'll move through this fairly briefly. Regarding the Health Information Act the OIPC just saw these changes on Monday – and today is only Wednesday if I'm not mistaken – so they're still reviewing them. First of all, that highlights one of the flaws with what we're doing here. I mean, legislation should be developed and passed through consultation, review, analysis with stakeholders. Again, there have been numerous examples where there have been claims that groups have been consulted, yet when opposition parties – and I would go so far as to say that when approached by all three opposition parties, that's not what we're hearing as far as different groups having true dialogue and input into a bill.

You know, one of the problems with this one piece is that we as MLAs represent thousands of constituents and their voices, and we need time to consult with the people that we're representing. With this time frame, obviously, none of that is possible.

The section regarding health information refers to what comprises a small section of the bill within the expertise, though, of the office of the Privacy Commissioner. As the Member for Edmonton-Strathcona has pointed out, they haven't been able to fully review the changes yet. There are some concerns with the language, with how it's written.

Regarding the vital statistics birth certificate changes I want to point out what I think Jan Buterman of the Trans Equality Society of Alberta said, and I quote: the problem with regulations is they can be changed on a whim; they don't have to be brought into the Legislature, so it can be quite secret; my impression was that this was going to be quite thoughtful, and this doesn't exhibit any of that. End quote. I think that points to a very large problem with this bill and with this section when we're talking about vital statistics and birth certificate changes.

You know, when we're making these kinds of changes, they should be happening through legislation, where there is time to debate and where there's an opportunity to debate. Any time a bill passes through this House allowing ministers to make regulations which are going to greatly affect people, that's a real cause for concern, Madam Speaker. First of all, this government should not be rushing through legislation that impacts Albertans in a very personal manner. We should be sitting in this House debating pieces of legislation until we get it right. There shouldn't be any rush.

The other issue, quite frankly, is that gender is not something that should be left to the whim of the cabinet to decide behind closed doors, without consultation and without assurances of proper consultation. I would imagine that there are several members of this House that are quite surprised to learn that these types of decisions will be made behind closed doors and through regulation, not through legislation.

I'm going to move to the Government Organization Act. The amendment changes the definition of a court award in reference to trade agreements that can be defined under registration, which is troubling, Madam Speaker, because it turns the definition into something flexible or pliable, that can be construed or misconstrued. That's dependent on the cabinet of the day and their feelings toward how they want to apply this piece of the act. For example, one of the concerns is: what if there's a PC-friendly company that has an important case to go before the courts? Why should the standards be able to be changed quickly or modified in favour of a company or – let's flip that around – to work against a company that maybe is not in the government's favour?

You know, under this piece within this omnibus bill, Madam Speaker, regulations don't provide the same weight as legislation. As well, regulations aren't discussed and debated in this House, which is a real cause for concern.

As far as the Mines and Minerals Act the changes have been sold as extending the period for auditing royalties – that is true; they do that – but it actually appears to be a rewrite of the royalty audit legislation in general. It's concerning that in rewriting how royalty audits are governed, again the government has left incredible amounts up to regulation. You know, at least the Alberta NDP caucus has been asking the government to put it into legislation and not leave it up to regulation.

4:10

Within this example, again, you know, regulations are more flexible. They can be decided by the minister. They can be changed by cabinet. They're not subject to the full legislative process. As well, Madam Speaker, that opens up our audit system to the possibility in the future that if a specific royalty case is coming up and there's lobbying from the company about to be audited, suddenly the regulations are changed in such a way as to either provide more wiggle room to the company or to protect them. Again, that's cause for grave concern.

I mean, any time we leave something of this magnitude up to an individual minister or cabinet for their decision, which is made behind closed doors – we don't know what kind of influence they may succumb to or are put under – this causes real concern. Again, you know, the purpose of this Assembly is to have open and honest debate. When we leave things to the cabinet of the day, regardless of which party is in government, I will add, there is real cause for concern because that, in fact, Madam Speaker, threatens the very fabric of democracy.

For those reasons, I will not be supporting the Statutes Amendment Act, 2014, and I strongly urge the government to do likewise. Let's send this bill back to the drawing board. Let's pull out these pieces. Again, when we're making changes to over 16 acts, that is significant. There is nothing housekeeping about that. Let's break them out into individual bills. Let's have the proper time to debate it in this House and to engage members. Let's ensure that members of the community and organizations and representatives have the time to provide feedback and are consulted during the process, not after the fact, Madam Speaker. Consultation doesn't mean you change the rules to a game, and then you say: "So what you do think about the rules? Well, right. They're already changed." That's going about it in the wrong way.

We still have time in this House, albeit this bill has passed through Committee of the Whole, to the great frustration of myself, my colleague from Edmonton-Strathcona, and my colleagues from the Alberta NDP. We still have an opportunity to not push this bill through and to break out the different pieces into separate pieces of legislation and give them the proper time that they require.

Thank you, Madam Speaker.

The Acting Speaker: Thank you, hon. member.

We have 29(2)(a).

Seeing no one interested in 29(2)(a), we will move to the hon. Member for Calgary-Mountain View.

Dr. Swann: Well, thanks very much, Madam Speaker. It's my first opportunity to rise to speak to Bill 12, the Statutes Amendment Act, 2014. As my colleague from Edmonton-Centre has said so eloquently, this borrows a page from their federal cousins, who know a lot about omnibus bills and, clearly, are trying to ram a whole bunch of unrelated issues while at the same time clouding the fact that, especially in Health, which I spent a lot of time looking at, there's a disconnect between what the minister is now taking over as a responsibility and what the Legislature actually learns from budget debates, which happen to exclude Alberta Health Services.

Here we are in the Legislature on the one hand holding the minister accountable for a budget of which we only hear roughly a third. That to me is the most egregious part of this kind of an attempt to centralize power around health services without acknowledging that while the minister does take responsibility for the health care system ultimately, we now have an Alberta Health Services that spends two-thirds of the budget without actually having any ability in the Legislature to review the details of that extensive budget and ensure that Albertans are getting value, that the health care system indicators are there, that we have reports indicating improvements in quality, access, and cost-effectiveness, which is our fundamental role.

This omnibus approach to so many issues leaves me cold. One can give credit to adopting the gender-neutral language and harmonizing the Adult Interdependent Relationships Act with the federal Civil Marriage Act and codifying civil marriage as the law, which codifies civil marriage as the lawful union of two persons to the exclusion of all others. That's basic, and one can appreciate that finally, in the 21st century, we're getting there.

Ramming all of these issues – vital statistics; freehold mineral rights; government organization; charitable fundraising; the Societies Act; the Regional Health Authorities Act, including community health councils; the Health Information Act amendments requiring disclosure of a compromise of personal data, that we supported – but combining that with amendments related to allowing the commissioner to disclose information, amendments related to not disclosing information in the role of the commissioner and amendments related to the role of the Crown prosecutor, amendments related to regulations is a dog's breakfast, if I may use that analogy, with, of course, very little opportunity for us to consult with affected parties, very little opportunity to research this in the depth that it would justify.

It leaves us struggling a bit to want to support some of the good aspects of it while rejecting some of the duplicity that's here, as I say, with respect especially to the lack of accountability in health care and the centralization of control and, I would argue, the politicization now of our health care system. The man at the top is determining not only the health and wellness side of the system, the administration of the system, but now the leadership of the system – the vision, the principles, the planning, and policies – and is now also overseeing the budget and day-to-day operations.

Again, this not only raises questions about what the motives are here and how this is going to improve quality, access, and affordability, but it raises questions about how much more reactivity and instability we're going to create when political problems arise in the health care system, when crises arise, and the minister is drawn in again to make changes, reactions to problem areas that don't serve the longer term interests but serve short-term political interests. It's difficult to follow.

Some aspects of the administrative changes here and the language changes I believe are positive, but I cannot support especially the issues and cloudiness around the Regional Health Authorities Act and even the community health councils, for which it's not clear who is accountable in terms of how their advice at the community health councils gets translated into any kind of positive changes in the health care system. Why, indeed, Madam Speaker, would we have community health councils if their advice can be ignored, if regional differences and regional challenges and regional needs all have to go through the minister's office and there is this, I guess, political sensitivity around a lot of the changes that may be requested at the local level?

We need to shift much more of the decision-making and monitoring and accountability to regional levels so that we can get a timely response: appropriate listening to front-line workers, assessment of quality at the interface with patient care. Also, the community health councils deserve to have a fair hearing when they are sincerely and respectfully presenting local and regional conditions that need to be addressed.

I will not be supporting this omnibus bill and would strongly suggest that although it's too late to sever these things, we should be trying to address some of these key issues in a different way. Thank you, Madam Speaker.

4:20

The Acting Speaker: Thank you, hon. member.

Standing Order 29(2)(a). Are there any members wishing to speak?

Seeing none, are there any other members that wish to speak to Bill 12 in third reading? The hon. Member for Edmonton-Strathcona.

Ms Notley: Thank you. Well, I'm pleased to be able to rise to speak to this bill. I feel like I have so much more to offer to this debate now, a full 24 hours after speaking to it the first time and a full 28 hours after having our staff get a briefing on the majority of the bill.

As I've stated before and as I talked about in question period, Madam Speaker, I am very concerned about the process of this bill, the fact that this government has characterized it as being minor administrative changes. In fact, what we've got are 16 acts which are being amended, many of which are substantive, with little or no opportunity for the opposition to engage in a thorough review. I will say that I'm deeply frustrated by that.

As I said earlier today, it seems like this government really hasn't learned their lesson. I mean, it's been the apology road show for the last two weeks, Madam Speaker, with your folks having to constantly try and make up for the fact that they've been railroading over the wishes of Albertans on a number of different files. You'd think they would have listened or maybe taken some of that to heart, but the very same day that one of those step downs is going on, we introduce this piece of legislation and think that we can railroad it through in two days. You know, this is a sign of a government that has a problem. It's maybe admitted that it's got a problem, but, like with Rob Ford, we don't exactly know where they are right now. Are they in treatment? I'm not so sure. That's what we're dealing with.

Ms Blakeman: That's mean.

Ms Notley: Well, I know it's mean, but then I'm kind of little frustrated, too.

You know, the leopard is not changing its spots. Let me just talk about this a little bit, but before I do, I'd like to make sure that I have the time to move my amendment before I run out of time to speak because I have a tendency to go on without realizing it.

I would like to move an amendment to this piece of legislation.

The Acting Speaker: Hon. member, we'll just pause while we have that amendment distributed throughout the House. Can we have the original copies brought to the table, please?

Hon. member, you may proceed.

Ms Notley: Thank you very much, Madam Speaker. This amendment simply states that the motion for third reading of Bill 12, Statutes Amendment Act, 2014, be amended by deleting all the words after "that" and substituting the following: "Bill 12, Statutes Amendment Act, 2014, be not now read a third time but that it be read a third time this day six months hence."

The reason for this, of course, as I've stated, is that this piece of legislation has far too much substance jammed into it, and we've gotten nowhere near enough of a briefing. We've not had enough time to analyze this piece of legislation, and it is simply moving too quickly. Even in the 24 hours since people got a sense of what it includes and up to now, we've seen notable feedback from the public. Frankly, were it to go back to its sort of apologetic little self and find its inner politician that wants to get re-elected again, they would admit that probably it would be a better idea to stop and consult a little bit on some of these things.

What do we have going on here? Well, the first one, that I'll start with, relates to the Mines and Minerals Act and the freehold minerals act. Now, I have commented in question period and also outside of question period that we didn't get written briefings on this piece of legislation. As it turns out – and I must correct the record – it does appear as though some effort was made to give our office a written briefing on these two of the 16 amendments about a week and a half ago, two weeks ago. [interjection] I'm told that your office got one, as did the Wildrose office get one. We didn't get one because there was a communication misstep. I should acknowledge that that's what the minister is telling me is true, so I'm sure that it is the case.

Just as a result of working through this miscommunication, just about an hour ago I did get a copy of the written brief that we would have gotten a week and a half ago. I need to point out, however, that the difficulty with that written brief is that although it helps to focus and it's an absolutely necessary part of the process of ensuring that opposition members understand what a matter is about, there is no question that that has to be paired with an actual examination of the legislation itself when you finally see it. Of course, the legislation was only introduced on Monday, so basically we had to put the two together.

I have to say that with this particular ministry in the past I have been briefed by or gotten documents from this particular ministry that say: oh, this is just about regulatory efficiency and making things move more efficiently and faster, because we're all about growing business, yada, yada, yada. Then when you actually get the piece of legislation in front of you and you dig down, you find out that they've changed the rules so that – wait for it – the minister's office doesn't have to interfere with whether Pembina gets to be at a hearing anymore. We've now given that direct statutory authority to the review panel to ensure that they never have to let Pembina and others like them participate in environmental review hearings.

The point is that you need to actually look at what the government is saying that the legislation is about, because that's important, but you also still need to go back and look at the legislation and compare it to what was there before. That's a process that typically takes more than 24 hours, particularly when you're looking at 16 pieces of legislation. That is my concern. I appreciate that we did have an offer of a written briefing about a week and a half ago, I assume, but still we needed to see the legislation first, so we're still rushing.

On that issue as well, I'm also a little concerned because what we're doing is giving this minister and the government the ability to make regulations around salt caverns, which I have now had just a couple of moments to do a bit of research on, and I understand that that is where we are storing liquid natural gas.

Apparently, in Alberta we store over half of the liquid natural gas for the whole country in salt caverns. Also, apparently, Madam Speaker, this has actually proven to be quite a safety and environmental hazard in other jurisdictions. In my view, this is not an administrative matter. This is actually something that continues the long progress that we've made in this province towards just doing everything we can for the oil and gas industry without ever talking to the public about what the implications of that are to their clean air, clean land, and clean water; for instance, the fact that we have fracking happening all over the place and that we've never actually talked to the public about what the limits might want to be on that vis-à-vis urban development or its impact on groundwater or all those other things. This is not meaningless. That's what I have to say about that piece.

Now, let's talk about some of the other changes in there, Alberta Health Services. Now, it is correct that yesterday I said: well, gee whiz, you know, I guess that giving the minister the chance to have some oversight over the Alberta Health Services budget is a step forward. Who knew that he didn't have a yea or nay on that? As the leader of our caucus quite articulately pointed out today in question period, what would be even better would be if the Legislature had oversight of that budget and that rather than being allowed to only debate six envelopes in a $14 billion budget, we in fact were able to look at that budget in the same way that we were able to look at any other budget that comes before this Legislative Assembly. That is actually a substantive and important piece of public policy that we should be discussing.

It is not administrivia, Madam Speaker, and for this government to suggest it is administrivia is profoundly disrespectful not only to the members of this Assembly but also to every single Albertan who depends upon our health care system, which I think is just about everybody. So that's the problem with that.

4:30

Now, the Health Information Act. The Government House Leader got up in question period today and said: oh, well, I read a press release from the Privacy Commissioner, and she's just okely-dokely with this. As I said at the time, I think that's an example of what happens when you try to read a press release in two minutes or you try to read a bill in 24 hours. You miss stuff. Just to be clear, the Privacy Commissioner did not say that she was okely-dokely with these changes. She actually pointed to two particular sections, and she said: "You know what? I think you might not be getting it right here. I have some concerns about a couple of different sections of what you're doing." She also said: this is my preliminary review because to review – I've only seen the legislation for the last 24 hours – I probably need a bit more time.

This person works day in, day out with this piece of legislation, and that's how she responds, yet somehow on behalf of the people of Alberta we're supposed to come in here and be able to analyze not only that change to that act but changes to 15 other acts in a 24-hour period and do it well and responsibly on behalf of the people we represent. Well, Madam Speaker, that is disrespectful to those people we represent, and it is ridiculous to expect that that can happen here. This is happening because this government is embracing the Harperesque approach to governance, which is: just jam it all in, as much as you can, and try to avoid any kind of legislative transparency, oversight, debate, wisdom, any of that, as much as possible. So that's the problem with that.

Then the other issue that we also have identified, of course, again, is the feedback from advocates within the transgendered community. Now, we had minister here who – I don't know. She's the minister of things we want to talk about on any given day. I'm not exactly sure what her actual associate ministry title is. But the fact of the matter is that she sort of got up and suggested that: "Oh. We've consulted with everybody in the LGBTQ community, and they all love the way we are approaching the changes to gender identification on birth certificates." Well, in fact, they haven't.

In fact, a leader in that community, who is unquestionably a leader – does he speak for everybody? No. But does he speak for many people? Absolutely. That leader has said unequivocally that (a) he was never consulted, (b) his organization was never consulted, (c) he disagrees with the model the government is pursuing, the whole idea that the cabinet will come up with the rules around how he can prove his gender to the government. As I said before, you know, there are great folks over there, but that is not a group of people that I want deciding about how or when or if I identify my gender. It's just not the way it should work.

They are saying that what they should have in legislation is an unequivocal right to swear an oath: this is my gender, full stop at the end. It puts the decision with the citizen, with the person. That's what they're saying, and that should be in the legislation. That's a fundamentally different model than: well, you know, we'll all sit around quietly behind closed doors, and we'll come up with the rules and the hoops that you have to jump through.

Again, Madam Speaker, that is not administrivia. That impacts seriously and significantly the lives of many Albertans, and we're just sliding it through like it's no big deal. That's what happens when you are sloppy and when you are rushed and when you are basically trying to sprint out of this building as fast as possible to deal with political issues within your somewhat stressed political organization, which is what's going on with these government members. It's bad governance, it's bad for the people of Alberta, it's disrespectful to the members of this Assembly, and it should be rejected in its entirety. These issues should all just come back, first of all, with an adequate amount of consultation with the people who are affected; secondly, with an adequate amount of time for members of this Assembly to engage in an informed discussion about what these things mean; and, thirdly, separately so that each issue can be given the attention it deserves.

I urge members of this Assembly to support this motion and agree that this bill should be not now read but instead should be read this day six months hence.

Thank you, Madam Speaker.

The Acting Speaker: Thank you, hon. member.

Just because I didn't introduce this amendment, this amendment will be known as amendment HA. It's a hoist amendment.

We have 29(2)(a) if anybody would like to use 29(2)(a).

Seeing none, are there any other speakers who wish to speak to this amendment? The hon. Member for Edmonton-Centre.

Ms Blakeman: Thanks very much, Madam Speaker. I'm not sure that we need to do a hoist on this. I think the purpose of the member was to draw attention to what was happening here increasingly, and for that I appreciate it. I don't think I really want to have to deal with this again in six months. I think the situation she's trying to draw attention to is well made. I kind of skimmed the whole topic when I was first talking about this.

I have to say, Madam Speaker, that there have been some changes that are really hard for me and maybe all members of the opposition – I don't know – to deal with. I don't know whether it gets attributed to the faster speed of communication, with electronic and digital communications, with instant messaging, the thing on the phone – you'd think I don't do this stuff all the time.

An Hon. Member: Texting.

Ms Blakeman: Texting. Thank you. With texting, with e-mails, with Twitter, with Facebook. Maybe that's why I don't know.

I'll tell you what's happening increasingly to me and to my caucus. There is this demand from government for instant turnaround. I'm increasingly getting e-mails, well meaning, by the way – it's a nice offer, and I'm glad to have it; let me say that – from aids, executive assistants that are saying: "Okay. The briefing will be held at this time at this place. Please respond to us by 4 o'clock." I look at the timing on the e-mail, and it was sent at, like, 1:52. I thought: "Okay. So two hours to respond to this e-mail." Well, interestingly, at 1:52 I'm in the House, and I'm not supposed to be reading e-mails. I'm not supposed to read those e-mails until about 3 o'clock. Generally, I tend to be on duty a lot. I'm dealing with what's in front of me in the session, so I'm not always hooked up to that electronic media and aware of all these messages that have come in to me. No, I'm not responding by 4 o'clock. I'm not trying to be difficult; I just didn't know there was a message there.

There is this sort of, you know, "Get with it, pick it up, let's go," that I can't keep up with. I mean, I know you guys don't much care that we have less staff than you do and we do much more of the duties ourselves, but that is what happens. So for me to be able to (a) have enough time to go back and keep checking to see if there's been a request for a meeting – I'm sorry; it's not a request for a meeting. It's: the meeting will be held at this time. We used to have a much more genial relationship, in which it was: "We'd like to have a meeting. When is everyone available?" Now it's: "The meeting will be at this time at this date. If you can't make it, drop dead." They don't actually say that, but it's pretty brusque. Let me put it that way: pretty brusque. So there's that timing thing and the expectation that, one, we will always be available to read messaging and, two, that we are available with sort of less than 24 hours' notice to go and do this.

Now, the point of starting the briefings was actually an agreement between the now Premier, when he was Government House Leader, and myself, and that was because we were getting legislation that was being introduced – at that point the bills were introduced before question period. It was not unheard of – it was actually fairly routine – for the government to then be putting the bills on the floor that afternoon. So we had no idea what was in the bill. We didn't have time to read it, to do any research. The stress levels were enormous. The staff were running around back at the Annex trying to figure out, you know, how to help us.

4:40

They got a lot of debate from me that started out with me picking up the bill and just figuring out how I was going to work my way through 20 minutes in order to stall long enough for someone to come up with some real information back at the Annex and run it over here and give it to one of my colleagues.

For some reason the then Government House Leader was not appreciative of my 20 minutes of careful questioning of the bill. So there was an agreement that the government ministers would make an attempt to brief the opposition members in advance so that that kind of, well, stalling, which was what I was having to do until we could get information, would not need to happen. That's what this came from. But, interestingly, that process of accommodation of two sides and working together has now devolved into this finger-snapping, "Get on with it, toots," kind of command. I do appreciate the offer, but the timelines are very difficult to adhere to and to work with.

The second part of this is that yesterday I spoke about how miscellaneous statutes had disappeared and now the government was doing just statutes amendment acts because the animal, the entity, known as miscellaneous statutes required a negotiation with the Official Opposition – but it's intended in consultation with all opposition members – and there was an ability to veto, to pull out any act that was being changed in miscellaneous statutes. Clearly, the government didn't want to use that particular process anymore, so they've just dropped the "miscellaneous" off the front, and now they have a statutes amendment act, and now it's subject to full debate and hoisting motions.

The problem for us is that to have this on notice on a Thursday, tabled before the House for first reading on a Monday, a briefing at 11:30 on Tuesday, and an expectation that I'm going to be debating this fulsomely and with a good amount of careful thought put into it by Tuesday afternoon is simply an impossibility. It is not that there is any one thing that I adamantly disagree with in this statutes amendment act per se. It's just the whole process that is troubling for me. I like to come in here well prepared. I like to know what I'm talking about. I like to know what you're talking about, and I want to do a good job in here. That's what I'm paid to do, and I'm responsible back to my constituents to be doing that good job, and I can't do that good job under these kinds of timelines.

Am I willing to support a hoist from the Member for Edmonton-Strathcona? Yes, in that I'm trying to help drive the point forward. I know that government is in a big hurry and that they don't want to spend any time in here and all of the other stuff that goes wrong for them. You know, with respect, I don't care. I want to do a good job, and I can't do a good job. I do actually get the real bill, and I sit down, and I go through it. I actually compare the whole section, not just the little bit that they give you in a bill that kind of shows you – I look at the whole bill and the context of the sections that it's in so that I actually understand where this is coming from and what the context is.

I can't do that with 16 bills. It just isn't possible in the time that I was given to do that in, so I'm kind of flailing. You know, I was saying, "Well, the freehold mines and minerals: maybe it's this, or maybe it's that; I don't know." Even, you know, when the Government House Leader was quite put out and said, "You know, come on; I did this briefing, and you guys could have asked me any questions," I had no questions to ask because I had not been able to read my way through the bill at that point.

I went into a briefing not having read the bill, not because I didn't want to, but we were busy. We all are here. So I was even flailing around, kind of going, "Okay," and he's talking about this act and that act, and I'm flipping back and forth on the pages trying to find it while he's talking about it. Did I have questions for him? No, because I hadn't even read the bill. Not that he didn't give us the opportunity, but given the timelines involved, no, I didn't have any questions because I didn't have time to formulate those questions with good research that supported them.

In the end, I have to go back to the very sage advice that I was given by a predecessor named Nick Taylor, who was a former leader of the Alberta Liberal Party, who said in his inimitable way: "If you are not 100 per cent behind a bill, don't vote for it. If you don't understand what they're proposing, don't vote for it; vote no." So in this case, although there are things that I really am excited about like the gender neutral language that I've been trying so hard to get – and I'm even excited about the transgender changes. I take the point that it's still under regulations, but, you know, guys, it's hard to drag this government over that line into new concepts, and I'm happy just to have dragged them a little bit over the line. Sometimes I don't get everything that I want.

Sometimes it's a glass half full. In this case, I'm going to take the glass half full.

There are other things that I really don't know, and as a result of not knowing whether it's okay or not and being able to know that because I did the research for it, I'm going to have to vote no to the whole bill, and that really burns me. That really frustrates me. I know that the government has a honking huge majority – well, congratulations – but this is still a democracy, and it does still operate on the principle of alternative points of view and accountability and transparency and, frankly, time. We don't sit in this Assembly very much. Sitting at night isn't always going to give us the extra time to be able to comply with what we're being asked to do by the next day.

I hope there is a better understanding on the other side now of some of the time pressures that have sort of morphed into your daily way of working. I don't know how it got there because it wasn't always there. But the expectations are certainly there now, and it's made it much more difficult – I'll speak for myself – for me to do a good job on this side, and that's really important to me.

So, no, I won't be supporting the bill, and that's why, because I don't understand and know what's in it, and I didn't have time to do it.

The Acting Speaker: Thank you, hon. member.
Standing Order 29(2)(a).

Seeing none, are there any other members who wish to speak on amendment HA?

Seeing none, I'll call the question.

[Motion on amendment to third reading of Bill 12 lost]

[Motion carried; Bill 12 read a third time]

Bill 11
Child, Youth and Family Enhancement
Amendment Act, 2014

Mr. Campbell: Madam Speaker, I'll move third reading of Bill 11.

The Acting Speaker: Are there any members who wish to speak to this bill?

Seeing none, I'll call the question.

[Motion carried; Bill 11 read a third time]

Mr. Campbell: Madam Speaker, I move that we adjourn the House until 1:30 tomorrow afternoon.

[Motion carried; the Assembly adjourned at 4:50 p.m. to Thursday at 1:30 p.m.]

Table of Contents

Prayers	761
Introduction of Visitors	761
Introduction of Guests	761
Tribute to the Hon. Brian Mason, Leader of the New Democratic Opposition.....	763
Oral Question Period
Premier’s Office Expense Oversight	766
Government Communications.....	766
Disaster Recovery Program Administration	767
Task Force for Teaching Excellence Report.....	767
Health Care Budget Oversight.....	768
Educational Curriculum Redesign	769
Grizzly Bear Conservation	769
Care Facility Restrictions on Family Member Visits.....	770
Workforce Employment Services.....	770
Development Hearing Participation.....	771
Statutes Amendment Act, 2014	771
Calgary Film Studio	772
Loyalty Program Prohibition for Prescription Drugs.....	772
Lyme Disease Testing	773
Dialysis Service for Strathcona County Residents.....	773
Drinking Water Contamination Complaint.....	774
Members’ Statements
Hunger in Alberta	774
School Fees	775
Robert Thirsk High School Opening	775
Dingman Discovery Well Centennial	775
Emergency Preparedness.....	776
Lacombe	776
Presenting Reports by Standing and Special Committees	776
Notices of Motions	776
Tabling Returns and Reports	777
Tablings to the Clerk	777
Statement by the Speaker
Page Recognition.....	777
Orders of the Day	778
Government Motions
Committee Membership Changes.....	778
Ethics Commissioner Appointment.....	779
Government Bills and Orders
Committee of the Whole.....	779
Bill 11 Child, Youth and Family Enhancement Amendment Act, 2014.....	779
Third Reading.....	782
Bill 12 Statutes Amendment Act, 2014	782
Bill 11 Child, Youth and Family Enhancement Amendment Act, 2014.....	787

If your address is incorrect, please clip on the dotted line, make any changes, and return to the address listed below. To facilitate the update, please attach the last mailing label along with your account number.

Subscriptions
Legislative Assembly Office
1001 Legislature Annex
9718 – 107 Street
EDMONTON, AB T5K 1E4

Last mailing label:

Account # _____

New information:

Name:

Address:

Subscription information:

Annual subscriptions to the paper copy of Alberta Hansard (including annual index) are $127.50 including GST if mailed once a week or $94.92 including GST if picked up at the subscription address below or if mailed through the provincial government interdepartmental mail system. Bound volumes are $121.70 including GST if mailed. Cheques should be made payable to the Minister of Finance.

Price per issue is $0.75 including GST.

Online access to Alberta Hansard is available through the Internet at www.assembly.ab.ca

Subscription inquiries:

Subscriptions
Legislative Assembly Office
1001 Legislature Annex
9718 – 107 St.
EDMONTON, AB T5K 1E4
Telephone: 780.427.1302

Other inquiries:

Managing Editor
Alberta Hansard
1001 Legislature Annex
9718 – 107 St.
EDMONTON, AB T5K 1E4
Telephone: 780.427.1875

Province of Alberta

The 28th Legislature
Second Session

Alberta Hansard

Thursday, May 8, 2014

Issue 27

The Honourable Gene Zwozdesky, Speaker

Legislative Assembly of Alberta The 28th Legislature

Second Session

Zwozdesky, Hon. Gene, Edmonton-Mill Creek (PC), Speaker
Rogers, George, Leduc-Beaumont (PC), Deputy Speaker and Chair of Committees
Jablonski, Mary Anne, Red Deer-North (PC), Deputy Chair of Committees

Allen, Mike, Fort McMurray-Wood Buffalo (Ind)
Amery, Moe, Calgary-East (PC)
Anderson, Rob, Airdrie (W),
Official Opposition House Leader
Anglin, Joe, Rimbey-Rocky Mountain House-Sundre (W)
Barnes, Drew, Cypress-Medicine Hat (W)
Bhardwaj, Hon. Naresh, Edmonton-Ellerslie (PC)
Bhullar, Hon. Manmeet Singh, Calgary-Greenway (PC)
Bikman, Gary, Cardston-Taber-Warner (W)
Bilous, Deron, Edmonton-Beverly-Clareview (ND)
Blakeman, Laurie, Edmonton-Centre (AL),
Liberal Opposition House Leader
Brown, Dr. Neil, QC, Calgary-Mackay-Nose Hill (PC)
Calahasen, Pearl, Lesser Slave Lake (PC)
Campbell, Hon. Robin, West Yellowhead (PC),
Government House Leader
Cao, Wayne C.N., Calgary-Fort (PC)
Casey, Ron, Banff-Cochrane (PC)
Cusanelli, Christine, Calgary-Currie (PC)
Dallas, Hon. Cal, Red Deer-South (PC)
DeLong, Alana, Calgary-Bow (PC)
Denis, Hon. Jonathan, QC, Calgary-Acadia (PC),
Deputy Government House Leader
Donovan, Ian, Little Bow (W)
Dorward, David C., Edmonton-Gold Bar (PC),
Deputy Government Whip
Drysdale, Hon. Wayne, Grande Prairie-Wapiti (PC)
Eggen, David, Edmonton-Calder (ND),
New Democrat Opposition Whip
Fawcett, Hon. Kyle, Calgary-Klein (PC)
Fenske, Jacquie, Fort Saskatchewan-Vegreville (PC)
Forsyth, Heather, Calgary-Fish Creek (W)
Fox, Rodney M., Lacombe-Ponoka (W)
Fraser, Hon. Rick, Calgary-South East (PC)
Fritz, Yvonne, Calgary-Cross (PC)
Goudreau, Hector G., Dunvegan-Central Peace-Notley (PC)
Griffiths, Hon. Doug, Battle River-Wainwright (PC)
Hale, Jason W., Strathmore-Brooks (W)
Hancock, Hon. Dave, QC, Edmonton-Whitemud (PC),
Premier
Hehr, Kent, Calgary-Buffalo (AL)
Horne, Hon. Fred, Edmonton-Rutherford (PC)
Horner, Hon. Doug, Spruce Grove-St. Albert (PC)
Hughes, Ken, Calgary-West (PC)
Jansen, Hon. Sandra, Calgary-North West (PC)
Jeneroux, Matt, Edmonton-South West (PC)
Johnson, Hon. Jeff, Athabasca-Sturgeon-Redwater (PC)
Johnson, Linda, Calgary-Glenmore (PC)
Kang, Darshan S., Calgary-McCall (AL),
Liberal Opposition Whip
Kennedy-Glans, Donna, QC, Calgary-Varsity (Ind)
Khan, Stephen, St. Albert (PC)
Klimchuk, Hon. Heather, Edmonton-Glenora (PC)
Kubinec, Maureen, Barrhead-Morinville-Westlock (PC)
Lemke, Ken, Stony Plain (PC)
Leskiw, Genia, Bonnyville-Cold Lake (PC)
Luan, Jason, Calgary-Hawkwood (PC)
Lukaszuk, Hon. Thomas A., Edmonton-Castle Downs (PC)
Mason, Brian, Edmonton-Highlands-Norwood (ND),
Leader of the New Democrat Opposition
McAllister, Bruce, Chestermere-Rocky View (W)
McDonald, Everett, Grande Prairie-Smoky (PC)
McIver, Ric, Calgary-Hays (PC)
McQueen, Hon. Diana, Drayton Valley-Devon (PC)
Notley, Rachel, Edmonton-Strathcona (ND),
New Democrat Opposition House Leader
Oberle, Hon. Frank, Peace River (PC),
Deputy Government House Leader
Olesen, Cathy, Sherwood Park (PC)
Olson, Hon. Verlyn, QC, Wetaskiwin-Camrose (PC),
Deputy Government House Leader
Pastoor, Bridget Brennan, Lethbridge-East (PC)
Pedersen, Blake, Medicine Hat (W)
Quadri, Sohail, Edmonton-Mill Woods (PC)
Quest, Hon. Dave, Strathcona-Sherwood Park (PC)
Redford, Alison M., QC, Calgary-Elbow (PC)
Rodney, Hon. Dave, Calgary-Lougheed (PC)
Rowe, Bruce, Olds-Didsbury-Three Hills (W)
Sandhu, Peter, Edmonton-Manning (PC)
Sarich, Janice, Edmonton-Decore (PC)
Saskiw, Shayne, Lac La Biche-St. Paul-Two Hills (W),
Official Opposition Whip
Scott, Hon. Donald, QC, Fort McMurray-Conklin (PC)
Sherman, Dr. Raj, Edmonton-Meadowlark (AL),
Leader of the Liberal Opposition
Smith, Danielle, Highwood (W),
Leader of the Official Opposition
Starke, Hon. Dr. Richard, Vermilion-Lloydminster (PC)
Stier, Pat, Livingstone-Macleod (W)
Strankman, Rick, Drumheller-Stettler (W)
Swann, Dr. David, Calgary-Mountain View (AL)
Towle, Kerry, Innisfail-Sylvan Lake (W),
Official Opposition Deputy Whip
VanderBurg, George, Whitecourt-Ste. Anne (PC),
Government Whip
Weadick, Hon. Greg, Lethbridge-West (PC)
Webber, Len, Calgary-Foothills (Ind)
Wilson, Jeff, Calgary-Shaw (W),
Official Opposition Deputy House Leader
Woo-Paw, Hon. Teresa, Calgary-Northern Hills (PC)
Xiao, David H., Edmonton-McClung (PC)
Young, Steve, Edmonton-Riverview (PC)

Party standings:

Progressive Conservative: 58 Wildrose: 17 Alberta Liberal: 5 New Democrat: 4 Independent: 3

Officers and Officials of the Legislative Assembly

W.J. David McNeil, Clerk	Stephanie LeBlanc, Parliamentary Counsel and Legal Research Officer	Philip Massolin, Manager of Research Services
Robert H. Reynolds, QC, Law Clerk/ Director of Interparliamentary Relations	Fiona Vance, Sessional Parliamentary Counsel	Brian G. Hodgson, Sergeant-at-Arms
Shannon Dean, Senior Parliamentary Counsel/Director of House Services	Nancy Robert, Research Officer	Chris Caughell, Assistant Sergeant-at-Arms
		Gordon H. Munk, Assistant Sergeant-at-Arms
		Janet Schwegel, Managing Editor of Alberta Hansard

Executive Council

Dave Hancock	Premier, President of Executive Council, Minister of Innovation and Advanced Education
Naresh Bhardwaj	Associate Minister – Services for Persons with Disabilities
Manmeet Singh Bhullar	Minister of Human Services
Robin Campbell	Minister of Environment and Sustainable Resource Development
Cal Dallas	Minister of International and Intergovernmental Relations
Jonathan Denis	Minister of Justice and Solicitor General
Wayne Drysdale	Minister of Transportation
Kyle Fawcett	Associate Minister – Recovery and Reconstruction for Southwest Alberta
Rick Fraser	Associate Minister – Public Safety Associate Minister – Recovery and Reconstruction for High River
Doug Griffiths	Minister of Service Alberta
Fred Horne	Minister of Health
Doug Horner	President of Treasury Board and Minister of Finance
Sandra Jansen	Associate Minister – Family and Community Safety
Jeff Johnson	Minister of Education, Ministerial Liaison to the Canadian Forces
Heather Klimchuk	Minister of Culture
Thomas Lukaszuk	Minister of Jobs, Skills, Training and Labour
Diana McQueen	Minister of Energy
Frank Oberle	Minister of Aboriginal Relations
Verlyn Olson	Minister of Agriculture and Rural Development
Dave Quest	Associate Minister – Seniors
Dave Rodney	Associate Minister – Wellness
Donald Scott	Associate Minister – Accountability, Transparency and Transformation
Richard Starke	Minister of Tourism, Parks and Recreation
Greg Weadick	Associate Minister – Recovery and Reconstruction for Southeast Alberta
Teresa Woo-Paw	Associate Minister – International and Intergovernmental Relations

STANDING AND SPECIAL COMMITTEES OF THE LEGISLATIVE ASSEMBLY OF ALBERTA

Standing Committee on Alberta's Economic Future

Chair: Mr. Amery

Deputy Chair: Mr. Fox

Eggen	Pastoor
Hehr	Quadri
Kennedy-Glans	Rogers
Kubinec	Rowe
Lemke	Sarich
Luan	Stier
McDonald

Standing Committee on the Alberta Heritage Savings Trust Fund

Chair: Mr. Casey

Deputy Chair: Mrs. Jablonski

Amery	Khan
Barnes	Redford
Dorward	Sherman
Eggen

Standing Committee on Families and Communities

Chair: Ms Olesen

Deputy Chair: Mr. Pedersen

Cusanelli	Leskiw
DeLong	McAllister
Fenske	Notley
Fox	Sandhu
Fritz	Swann
Jablonski	Webber
Jeneroux

Standing Committee on Legislative Offices

Chair: Mr. Jeneroux

Deputy Chair: Mr. McDonald

Bikman	Leskiw
Blakeman	Quadri
Brown	Wilson
DeLong	Young
Eggen

Special Standing Committee on Members' Services

Chair: Mr. Zwozdesky

Deputy Chair: Mr. VanderBurg

Casey	Mason
Forsyth	McDonald
Fritz	Sherman
Johnson, L.	Towle
Kubinec

Standing Committee on Private Bills

Chair: Mr. Xiao

Deputy Chair: Mrs. Leskiw

Allen	Notley
Brown	Olesen
Cusanelli	Rowe
DeLong	Stier
Fenske	Strankman
Fritz	Swann
Jablonski

Standing Committee on Privileges and Elections, Standing Orders and Printing

Chair: Ms Kubinec

Deputy Chair: Mr. Rogers

Calahasen	Pastoor
Casey	Pedersen
Kang	Saskiw
Khan	VanderBurg
Luan	Wilson
Notley	Young
Olesen

Standing Committee on Public Accounts

Chair: Mr. Anderson

Deputy Chair: Mr. Dorward

Allen	Khan
Amery	Luan
Barnes	Pastoor
Bilous	Sandhu
Donovan	Sarich
Hehr	Young
Jeneroux

Standing Committee on Resource Stewardship

Chair: Mr. Khan

Deputy Chair: Mr. Hale

Allen	Cao
Anglin	Casey
Bikman	Goudreau
Bilous	Johnson, L.
Blakeman	Xiao
Brown	Young
Calahasen

Legislative Assembly of Alberta

1:30 p.m.

Thursday, May 8, 2014

[The Speaker in the chair]

Prayers

The Speaker: Hon. members, on the eve of our country's National Day of Honour let us stand together to pray for and give thanks to the brave men and women of the Canadian armed forces who participated in the Afghanistan mission. Let us remember the fallen and the families and friends left behind to mourn. Let us pray for the wounded and the injured, who bear the physical and mental burdens of service. And let us add our voices to those of all Canadians on May 9 in expressing our deepest gratitude to all those who have served and to those who are still serving in our armed forces. Amen.

Please be seated.

Introduction of Guests

The Speaker: Let us begin with school groups, starting with the Minister of Environment and Sustainable Resource Development.

Mr. Campbell: Well, thank you, Mr. Speaker. It's a pleasure to rise in the House today and introduce to you and through you over 50 grade 6 students, teachers, and parents from Summitview school in Grande Cache. These students will be among the first to enjoy a modernized high school in Grande Cache, that I announced just a couple of months ago as part of our investment into education under the building Alberta plan. I hope that these future leaders enjoy their visit this afternoon. I'd ask that they receive the traditional warm welcome of the Assembly.

The Speaker: The hon. Member for Edmonton-Riverview, followed by Stony Plain.

Mr. Young: Thank you, Mr. Speaker. It is my pleasure to rise and introduce to you and through you to all members of the Assembly 26 students from Windsor Park school. They're accompanied by their teacher, Ms Lyster, and parent helpers Ileana Stvelkov and Donna Moorgen. I had the opportunity to talk to these students. Not only are they from a very recognized and well-established school, but these kids are really smart. They asked me for my autograph, which surprised me. Usually my signature has been on a speeding ticket in the past. This is much better. I'd ask that they rise and receive the traditional warm welcome of the Assembly.

The Speaker: The hon. Member for Stony Plain.

Mr. Lemke: Thank you, Mr. Speaker. It's my pleasure to rise and introduce to you and through you to all members of this Assembly 17 bright young grade 6 students from St. Matthew Lutheran school from my constituency of Stony Plain. The students are accompanied by their teacher, Gary Skoye, and parent volunteers Mark Smith, Angela Goertz, and Michele Kleijnen. I would now ask that they please rise and receive the traditional warm welcome of this Assembly.

The Speaker: Are there other school groups?

If not, let us move on with other important guests, starting with the Associate Minister – Services for Persons with Disabilities.

Mr. Bhardwaj: Thank you very much, Mr. Speaker. For several years the Legislative Assembly has supported the Edmonton Regional Heritage Fair, held every spring, providing an opportunity for students from schools in the surrounding areas to present projects celebrating Canada's heritage. In 2007 the Legislative Assembly Office initiated an award to recognize participants who demonstrate outstanding achievement in celebrating an aspect of Canadian parliamentary democracy, governance, or political history, with a specific focus on Alberta.

It's now my pleasure to introduce this year's award winner, Hari Abhimanyu, a grade 7 student from Dan Knott school and my constituent, who created an excellent presentation on Emily Murphy because he wanted to research someone who changed the perspective of Canada's federal government to what it is today, an interesting and relevant topic, indeed, Mr. Speaker. Accompanying Hari today are his parents, Mrs. Pichammai Meiappan and, of course, Mr. Muthiah Vinaitheerthan, and Mrs. Suzanne Sparling, his social studies teacher from Dan Knott. I'd ask my guests to please rise and receive the traditional warm welcome.

The Speaker: Welcome and congratulations.

The hon. Premier.

Mr. Hancock: Yes, Mr. Speaker. I'd like to introduce to you and through you to all members of the Assembly Katelyn Penstone, a recent political science graduate from MacEwan University who will be working as an intern this summer with my communications and correspondence units. It's clear that Katelyn is a bright, capable young Albertan with a strong sense of citizenship. She has already infused the communications and correspondence team with her energy, positive attitude, and willingness to assist everyone around her. We're happy and fortunate to have her onboard. I'm sure there will be no shortage of work as we continue to engage and inform Albertans about the building Alberta plan. I'd ask Katelyn to rise and receive the traditional warm welcome of the Assembly.

Mrs. Sarich: Mr. Speaker, it's an honour and privilege for me to rise today to introduce to you and through you to all Members of the Legislative Assembly eight representatives from Glengarry school, part of Edmonton public schools, here at the Legislature in recognition of their 50th anniversary and the grand opening of the Hassan Seifeddine Literacy Learning Centre, which was celebrated in the fall of 2013. My guests are seated in the members' gallery, and I would ask them to please rise as I mention their names. I would like to welcome this afternoon Mr. Jim Scott, principal; Mr. Hassan Seifeddine, assistant principal and namesake of the Hassan Seifeddine Literacy Learning Centre; Mr. Patrick Reilly, curriculum co-ordinator; Mr. Abdallah Fares, school council member. Also, representing the grade 6 student leadership with pride are the following four students: Noah Fares, Raeesa Kudoos, Bisan Ibrahim, and Ibrahim Araji. I would now ask that the Assembly please honour my guests with the traditional warm welcome.

Thank you.

The Speaker: The hon. Minister of Service Alberta, followed by Edmonton-Beverly-Clareview.

Mr. Griffiths: Thank you very much, Mr. Speaker. I have two introductions today. First, I'm pleased to introduce to you and through you to all members of this Assembly on behalf of the Minister of Jobs, Skills, Training and Labour a summer intern that will be working in his office. Her name is Caitlin Bullerkist. She's also studying political science at the University of Alberta and aspires to go to law school, which are some pretty high ambitions. I believe Caitlin is sitting in the members' gallery. I'd ask her to rise and please receive the traditional warm welcome of this Assembly.

Thank you, Mr. Speaker. For my second introduction again it's my pleasure to introduce to you and through you to members of this Assembly someone who is well known to many of us. Roberto Noce is a former Edmonton city councillor, a former candidate for mayor in this city as well, and has been a member of numerous boards and associations with the city of Edmonton. Among his many accomplishments Roberto has been invaluable in his contributions to our condo act review process. He's a lawyer, active member of his community, and author of dozens of publications on the intricacies of condo ownership. Roberto is in the members' gallery. I'd ask him to rise and receive the traditional warm welcome and a thank you on behalf of the House.

The Speaker: The hon. Member for Edmonton-Beverly-Clareview, followed by the Minister of Health.

Mr. Bilous: Thank you very much, Mr. Speaker. Today it's my pleasure to rise and introduce to you and through you to all members of the Assembly Ella Schepens, a high school student whose attempts to establish a gay-straight alliance were denied by her school. Ella wanted to establish a GSA in her school to provide an inclusive space for all students. Ella and many Albertans are very disappointed that administrators can deny GSAs. Ella is accompanied by her father, Jim Schepens, and her mother, Mary Anne Bilko. I would now ask Ella, Jim, and Mary Anne to rise and receive the traditional warm welcome of the Assembly.

The Speaker: The hon. Minister of Health, followed by Olds-Didsbury-Three Hills.

Mr. Horne: Thank you, Mr. Speaker. I have two introductions today. First, I'd like to take the opportunity to introduce to you and through you to members of the Assembly Isaac Caverhill-Godkewitsch. I have the distinct pleasure of having Isaac work in my office this summer through the Alberta student ministerial internship program. Isaac has a very interesting and broad background, including a master's of global governance degree and extensive experience in public policy and research. This includes work with the Department of Foreign Affairs and the United Nations. I would ask that Isaac please rise and receive our traditional warm welcome.

Thank you, Mr. Speaker. As you know, this is the last day that we will have the opportunity to recognize Mental Health Week. In that vein, it's my pleasure today to introduce to you and through you two of Alberta's most influential and most respected advocates in the area of mental health. First, I'd like to introduce Mr. Tom Shand, who will be very familiar to many members. Tom served for many years with the Canadian Mental Health Association. He's currently the chair of the Alberta Alliance on Mental Illness and Mental Health and also a member of the Lieutenant Governor's Circle on Mental Health and Addiction.

1:40

Mr. Shand is accompanied today by Dr. Austin Mardon, who is well known to many in this House as well. Austin is known for receiving, among other honours, the Order of Canada in 2006 and was one of the first people that I met in my career that had the courage to stand up and talk about his personal experience living with mental illness. Austin and Catherine, his wife, have established the Catherine and Austin Mardon schizophrenia award and endowed scholarship at the University of Alberta for either a person with schizophrenia or a close family member.

Mr. Speaker, on behalf of the House and on behalf of Albertans I invite both gentlemen to stand and receive our warm thanks and deepest respect for their contributions.

The Speaker: The hon. Member for Olds-Didsbury-Three Hills, followed by St. Albert.

Mr. Rowe: Thank you, Mr. Speaker. It is my great pleasure to rise today to introduce to you and through you to all members of this Legislature a group of volunteers from the fabulous Three Hills area whose church operates a program which brings students from Nebraska, Kansas, and Oklahoma to volunteer here in Edmonton at the U of A hospital and the Cross Cancer Institute. As I call their names, I would ask them to please rise: Murray and Marguerite Baerg, Joni Kuepfer, Kaitlyn Wiebe, Brooke Unruh, and Danielle Loewen. All members of the House, please join me in giving our traditional warm welcome to our guests.

The Speaker: The hon. Member for St. Albert, followed by the Associate Minister – International and Intergovernmental Relations.

Mr. Khan: Thank you, Mr. Speaker. It is my pleasure to introduce to you and through you Mr. Michael Lam. Michael is here today on behalf of Edmonton Economic Development to promote an exciting and landmark event that's being organized in our city. Named Host Edmonton, this three-day event will be Edmonton's first culinary festival and conference. This conference will connect hospitality professionals and home kitchen masters with local and international experts in food, drink, and services. Over two dozen nationally and internationally acclaimed food and hospitality celebrities will also be participating. Michael hopes you will all come out to support this important event, taking place between May 22 and 24 at the Shaw Conference Centre, and eat, drink, and think as we support Edmonton's thriving hospitality industry. Mr. Lam is seated in the members' gallery, and I'd ask that he please rise and receive the warm traditional welcome of this Assembly.

The Speaker: The hon. Associate Minister – International and Intergovernmental Relations, followed by Edmonton-McClung.

Ms Woo-Paw: Well, thank you, Mr. Speaker. It's my pleasure to introduce to you and through you Sharon Compton, professor and director of the dental hygiene program at the University of Alberta. Sharon has led health research on oral health for seniors and has also led two Alberta Health Services funded projects. After travelling to South Korea last year, inspired and accompanied by a colleague of hers of Korean descent, Sharon hosted a visiting Korean scholar, Dr. Kim, for six months. Dr. Kim had a chance to immerse herself in the U of A's curriculum and is now an advocate not only for the university's excellent program but for our province as a whole, based on her very positive experience here. This is a great example of the many diverse and varied ways in which our province can build and strengthen international ties. Sharon is seated in the members' gallery, and I'd ask her to please rise and receive the warm welcome of this House.

The Speaker: The hon. Member for Edmonton-McClung, followed by the Associate Minister – Seniors.

Mr. Xiao: Thank you, Mr. Speaker. I'm pleased to introduce to you and through you to the members of this Assembly a group of nine home-schooled students and their chaperones: Rebekka Burt, Dina Gerwing, Carrie Kastelen, and Connie Kennedy. I'd ask the students and their chaperones to rise and receive the traditional warm welcome of this House.

Thank you.

The Speaker: The hon. Associate Minister – Seniors, followed by the Minister of Tourism, Parks and Recreation.

Mr. Quest: Thank you, Mr. Speaker. It's a pleasure to rise and introduce to you and through you to all members of this Assembly my executive assistant, Remo Padovani. He has provided me great support both in the office and as we travel around the province. I actually inherited Remo from the former Associate Minister of Seniors, and I very much appreciate his knowledge and his wisdom. Remo is soon going to be taking on some new challenges in this building, but it is, truly, always a pleasure working with you, Remo. It's been great. He's seated in the members' gallery, and I'd ask him to rise and receive the warm welcome of this Assembly.

The Speaker: The hon. Minister of Tourism, Parks and Recreation, followed by Edmonton-Gold Bar.

Dr. Starke: Well, thank you, Mr. Speaker. On behalf of my colleague the hon. Minister of Education it's my pleasure to rise today and introduce to you and through you to all members of the Assembly Jessica Ross. Jessica is a recent graduate of the bachelor of education program at the University of Alberta, and she has been a substitute teacher with the Edmonton public school board for the past year. She will be interning with the Education department for the duration of this summer, and given her background I know that she will be a tremendous asset to that office. I would now ask Jessica to please rise and receive the traditional warm welcome of the Assembly.

The Speaker: The hon. Member for Edmonton-Gold Bar.

Mr. Dorward: Thank you, Mr. Speaker, for this last-minute introduction. A good friend of mine is in the members' gallery, Mr. Jerry "ZoomJer" Aulenbach, Mr. Bacon Realtor. A good friend of mine and the entire family, Jerry is a wonderful supporter of the things that happen in Alberta. He's always talking about Alberta across the country. I'd just like to have him stand and have the acknowledgement of the MLAs.

Thank you.

Members' Statements

The Speaker: Hon. members, we have two minutes per statement.

Glengarry School 50th Anniversary and Grand Opening of Hassan Seifeddine Literacy Learning Centre

Mrs. Sarich: Mr. Speaker, a school is more than bricks and mortar. It's the sum of its entire people, which includes administration, teachers, staff, students, parents, and community. It is my honour to rise to recognize and celebrate 50 years of outstanding innovative education as delivered by all those from the past and present at Glengarry school, which is part of Edmonton public schools' rich history.

In 1963 Glengarry school was built as a community school and in 1983 embarked upon a new venture with the inauguration of the Arabic bilingual program, which today proudly serves over 630 students. Glengarry school has an active and thriving school council, which partners with administration and teachers in an effort to achieve high-quality classroom teaching conditions and learning opportunities for all students.

Building on their firm belief in the power of partnerships and collaboration between school and community, Glengarry school maintains historic and positive relationships with the Canadian Arab Friendship Association of Edmonton, the World Lebanese Cultural Union, the community at large, and business partners and supporters.

Mr. Speaker, Glengarry school can be defined by their legacy of dedication to school and student accomplishments, and in support of this goal and learning innovation the Hassan Seifeddine Literacy Learning Centre was established. The centre incorporates new and emerging technologies with proven resources and approaches to meet and advance the learning needs of students, staff, and the community at large. The Hassan Seifeddine Literacy Learning Centre's namesake is a dedicated advocate, supporter, builder, and leader at Glengarry school, known for his work on delivering bilingual programming locally, nationally, and internationally.

Mr. Speaker, 50 years is a very special anniversary. On behalf of all Albertans and in the Alberta spirit, congratulations to Glengarry school administration, teachers, staff, students, parents, and community. Best wishes in the coming year, God bless, and thank you.

The Speaker: The hon. leader of the Alberta Liberal opposition.

Government Policies

Dr. Sherman: Thank you, Mr. Speaker. There's a social contract between the government and the people. Albertans honour this contract every day when they go to work to help build this great province and when they pay their taxes. The government's side of the contract is essentially this: deliver basic public services and make society better while at the same time getting the people the best value for their money and balancing the books and not saddling the next generation with debt.

1:50

Well, Mr. Speaker, this government has not been respecting the people and their contract with the people. Its policies have led to the downfall of one Premier during this session and caused the current Premier to apologize profusely at his party's recent $500-per-plate fundraiser.

The betrayal of trust, Mr. Speaker, is too much for Albertans to bear any longer. It's too much for parents to bear when they've done their part but can't find affordable child care near home. It's too much for seniors to bear that after building this great province, they have to fight this government to get a drug plan that works for them. It's too much for public-sector workers to bear when this government undermines their Charter rights, threatens their pensions, and refuses to negotiate with them. It's too much for the sick to bear because our health care system can't provide timely access to the care they need when they need it, and it's too much for taxpayers to bear when their money is being wasted and they're going into debt.

Mr. Speaker, Albertans want more. They want more than a broken promise and underfunded public services and debt despite our province's great wealth and economy. It's time for Alberta to have not just a strong economy but also a strong society. Alberta Liberals will deliver on that promise to educate our children, care for our sick and elderly, get the schools that we need for our kids, get the roads and bridges, fund our municipalities, balance the books, and put money in the bank.

Mr. Speaker, it's time to build a strong economy and a strong society based on Liberal values and Alberta values, and it's time to deliver.

Thank you, Mr. Speaker.

Oral Question Period

The Speaker: Hon. members, you're reminded that no question ought exceed 35 seconds, and no answer ought go beyond 35 seconds either.

Let's start with the Leader of Her Majesty's Loyal Opposition and question 1.

Federal Funding Programs

Ms Smith: Mr. Speaker, yesterday the Infrastructure minister stepped down. Now, we welcome lots of people getting into the race to be the last PC Premier – the more the merrier – but there is still work to do. This government has continuously done a poor job of applying for federal infrastructure dollars. Well, here we go again. The previous Infrastructure minister was in charge of finalizing the agreement with Ottawa so that Alberta municipalities could access the building Canada fund, but now he's gone. With the construction season having already begun, can someone assure us that this ball is not going to be dropped?

Mr. Hancock: Well, Mr. Speaker, let me first assure the hon. member that many teams have never made it to the finals when they've tried to get past the first game too quickly. I wouldn't assume that the next PC leader will be the last.

I will assure the hon. member that this government will be working very hard to ensure that Albertans have the opportunity to take advantage of the building Canada fund, that we work with the federal government to get the right projects in place for the right reasons at the right time to help continue with the building Alberta plan.

Ms Smith: Mr. Speaker, I wish I could trust that were true.

Alberta municipalities are entitled to this federal funding, but to get it, they have to rely on the province to finalize an agreement. Now, in his haste to launch his leadership campaign, it appears the Member for Calgary-Hays didn't get around to doing it. His only other competitor in the race, the former Municipal Affairs minister, also dragged his feet when it came to accessing the federal gas tax fund. Why is this government so incompetent when it comes to leveraging our federal government's much-needed and readily available support?

Mr. Hancock: Mr. Speaker, I think history will show that for each of these federal funds we have worked very closely with the federal government to ensure that the funds work well for Albertans, that we utilize the funds in appropriate ways, and that we have the appropriate agreements in place to mesh with our spending priorities on behalf of Albertans, and that's what we will do in this particular case.

Ms Smith: Mr. Speaker, but they haven't done that, and it doesn't end there. This government also didn't avail itself of the matching flood mitigation grants in 2012, and the previous, previous Municipal Affairs minister took six months to ask for an advance on the $3 billion Ottawa pledged to help with last year's floods. The PCs' negligence is a constant source of frustration not only for Albertans but also for our hard-working MPs, who are rightly proud of the incredible support that the Harper government gives this province. Will the new Infrastructure minister commit that this time around he won't once again drop the ball?

Mr. Horner: Well, Mr. Speaker, a lot of what the hon. member just said was not true, and it's unfortunate to categorize the discussions that we're having with the federal government as dragging. In fact, this Premier took it upon himself to meet the new Finance minister at the very earliest opportunity. He and I met with Minister Oliver not that long after he was appointed after the tragic loss of Minister Flaherty. We talked about the flood mitigation money, and we thanked them, actually, for the speed with which they have advanced money that they have never done before because of the lobbying efforts of this government and these ministers.

The Speaker: Thank you.

Second main set of questions.

Ms Smith: Finance minister, you didn't ask for the money until December 16, and we know it.

Federal Building Redevelopment Project Management

Ms Smith: Mr. Speaker, it turns out Alberta taxpayers paid at least $173,000 to not build the former Premier's so-called sky palace. Now, I find that a little odd because usually the cost of not building something is zero. The former Infrastructure minister tabled the documents we asked for on his way out the door to declare for PC leader, apparently to clear the air on how ridiculous this project was and how it came to be, but more questions than ever remain. Who started it? Who stopped it? How did it get so far along? To the new Infrastructure minister: can you help us out with this?

Mr. Drysdale: Mr. Speaker, this is a heritage building in the downtown Edmonton area that we're proud to be restoring for this city. This project has existed since 2008. This is the third Premier and the sixth Infrastructure minister to work on that project. I knew of a private space for the Premier in there, and the former Premier's office dealt directly with the architect for the design there. No residential space is being built there now or in the future.

Ms Smith: To be clear, Mr. Speaker, the sky palace isn't part of our heritage.

The new Infrastructure minister, who also happens to be the old Infrastructure minister and the same Infrastructure minister who was on the job when the sky palace scheme was hatched, claims he cancelled the project. The other former Infrastructure minister, now a PC leadership contender, is also claiming that he spiked it. The fact is that $173,000 was wasted. Everyone is trying to take the credit, but no one wants to take the blame. To the Infrastructure minister: why can't they get their stories straight?

Mr. Hancock: Mr. Speaker, the reality is that this hon. member can try and dress it up any way she wants with respect to a sky palace. There's never been a sky palace. There's never been a sky palace. There was a contemplation of a hotel option. That was ruled out as a bad idea a long time ago. It hasn't been built; it won't be built. The building is a heritage building that Albertans will be proud of. It will house hundreds of civil servants, it will house a few legislators, and it will be a place where government can do business with the world.

Speaker's Ruling Interrupting a Member

The Speaker: Hon. members, we've had a couple of outbursts during a private member's statement from the government members, and I heard a few outbursts now during an answer the Premier was trying to give. Show a little respect for each other. I'd like to hear the answers, and I'm sure you would, too. I'd also like to hear the questions.

Let's hear the final supplemental from the hon. Leader of the Opposition.

Federal Building Redevelopment Project Management (continued)

Ms Smith: Mr. Speaker, the fact is that it's $173,000 that's been wasted. The sky palace has become the ultimate symbol of this current PC era. It encompasses everything that this party and this government have become: duplicitous, entitled, secretive, wasteful, and completely out of touch with the priorities of everyday Albertans. It is no wonder they are falling all over themselves to try and put it all behind them, but try as they might, Albertans are not going to forgive and forget. To the Premier. On his last QP as Premier he's apologized for so much already. Will he apologize for this?

Mr. Hancock: Mr. Speaker, I will apologize for what's happened with respect to the federal building because it's an old building. The project management could have been done better, absolutely. As we learned along the way and have done better, we've been able to make sure that some changes that are asked for are not made, including the hundred thousand dollar change that the Official Opposition wanted to the offices being built in the federal building for their offices. [interjections]

The Speaker: Order. [interjections] Order, please. [interjections] Order, please.

Hon. Member for Airdrie, were you rising on a point of order?

Mr. Anderson: They were lying again, Mr. Speaker.

The Speaker: The point of order has been noted at 1:59:45, and it will be dealt with at the usual time.

Are both sides ready to carry on? [interjections] Good. Let us move on, then.

Third and final main set of questions. The hon. leader.

Premier's Term of Office

Ms Smith: Well, Mr. Speaker, I'd like to take a moment to talk about the Premier if I may. As I mentioned, it is his last day in the Assembly as Premier, and whether or not he drew the short straw in caucus, I guess we'll never know. But I do want to say that he's done the province and his party a service by agreeing to shoulder this load until a new Premier is chosen. It couldn't be easy, but as always he has served with dignity and class. To the Premier: when we are hanging his portrait in the Legislature halls, what is his legacy going to be?

2:00

Mr. Hancock: Mr. Speaker, I've never been one to worry about my legacy. People will think of me as they will. I'm amazed that so many people are concerned about portraits. I think it may be more appropriate, if at all, to have a postage stamp or an asterisk.

Ms Smith: Well, Mr. Speaker, as everyone knows, the PCs are closing the Legislature doors this afternoon so they can hit the campaign trail to elect a new leader. They're so desperate to get out of here that they actually voted in favour of a few opposition amendments yesterday. But I know that this Premier is a master of the legislative process, and he respects the role of MLAs in making good laws, so I can't imagine he's all that thrilled at forcing through omnibus bills so his colleagues can stampede toward the exit. To the Premier: why is he allowing debate to be shut down just so his party can go and pick its last Premier?

Mr. Hancock: Mr. Speaker, as I understand it, the House adjourned debate about 4:30 or 5 yesterday afternoon. There was plenty more time for people to speak if they had wanted to speak. I understand it adjourned at 8 o'clock or so on Tuesday evening, again much more time available for people to speak if they wanted to speak. I think the hon. member protests too much. I think they probably want to get out of here a lot more than we do because they're seeing how the table is turning, they're seeing how this government is taking charge, and they're seeing how Albertans are responding to the good work that this government is doing.

Ms Smith: Yes, Mr. Speaker, the Premier is right. We'd hate to have another few weeks of question period.

We are about to embark on a long summer recess that will have MLAs out of the Legislature until the end of October. Now, depending on who succeeds as Premier, it could be a year before we're back. It's sad, Mr. Speaker, that the business of governing will once again take a back seat to the government's internal leadership battles. To the Premier: will he be able to make any headway whatsoever on balancing the budget, eliminating wasteful spending, or fixing health care this summer while the rest of his colleagues are busy trying to save their party?

Mr. Hancock: Well, Mr. Speaker, I thank the hon. member, first of all, for her very kind comments in her first preamble and then for this question because it allows me to assure Albertans that this government is on the job. This government is doing the work that Albertans elected us to do. Albertans can count on us to build the schools we said we'd build, to continue the work to ensure that primary care is there for Albertans when they need it through family care clinics and primary care networks, and to do all those other things that governance requires. The world is moving quickly. Alberta is not standing still. We're not waiting for a new leader. We're continuing to do the work we were elected to do.

The Speaker: The hon. leader of the Alberta Liberal opposition.

Personal Information Collection by Members

Dr. Sherman: Thank you, Mr. Speaker. I'd like to thank the Premier for serving, and in my last question to the Premier in his term I'm going to give him a tough one. There's been a lot of talk around here lately about the importance of protecting privacy. Today we continue on that theme. Back in 2010 in a PowerPoint presentation a minister of the Crown instructed PC MLAs on how to use government resources to collect the personal information of Albertans for partisan purposes. That person is now Justice minister. To the Premier: how do you justify this abuse of government resources for partisan campaign purposes?

Mr. Hancock: Well, there's one thing that we have in common, Mr. Speaker. I haven't a clue what he's talking about, and neither does he.

Dr. Sherman: Mr. Speaker, let me enlighten this member. When Albertans come into contact with their PC MLAs, they don't expect their personal information to end up in a PC Party database for use at election time. I highly doubt they would give consent. Well, that's what happens when the PCs never let a voter get away, according to this PowerPoint presentation made to PC caucus in 2010. To the Premier: why does your government so flagrantly disrespect privacy rights while using government resources for partisan campaign purposes?

Mr. Hancock: Mr. Speaker, one thing I know about Albertans is that when they talk to their legislators, they want to know that we listen and that we care. One of the ways that they can know that we listen and care is when we respond to them about the issues they've raised with us. In order to be able to respond to somebody about issues that they've raised with you, you need to keep track of what those issues are so that when a bill comes up, for example, on that topic, you might be able to send a letter or an e-mail or perhaps even a phone call to the individual who contacted you and say: you talked to me about this; I'd like to get back to you on it. I presume that that's what we're talking about in this circumstance.

Dr. Sherman: Mr. Speaker, the Premier is right. We do collect information to communicate, but we don't collect information with taxpayer dollars and disclose it to the political party for campaign purposes, as it shows on this PowerPoint. This government has no respect for the fact that there is supposed to be a separation between the government of Alberta and the PC Party of Alberta. In their minds, the government is nothing but a subsidiary of the PC Party. It's this sense of entitlement that led the current Minister of Justice to counsel PC MLAs on the dark art of using government resources to compile lists for use in the 2012 election. Premier, when will this government finally stop using what belongs to the public for their PC purposes?

Mr. Hancock: Mr. Speaker, I can assure this hon. member and all Albertans that this government, this caucus, respects the law, respects the private information of Albertans, and does not use private information that's collected for public purposes for private purposes. That would be against the law. We wouldn't do that.

The Speaker: The hon. Member for Edmonton-Strathcona.

Federal Building Redevelopment Project Management (continued)

Ms Notley: Thank you, Mr. Speaker. When it comes to the wasted $175,000 on the sky palace, there seems to be an impressive case of amnesia on the part of the entire cabinet. We've heard two directly contradictory stories, and now a senior public servant has been dragged into the PC Party's sad little version of Game of Thrones. Meanwhile accountability to Albertans is lost. To the Premier: how can Albertans trust a cabinet that can't even keep its story straight for a session of a mere 27 days?

Mr. Hancock: Mr. Speaker, the fixation of this hon. member and others in opposition is not a fixation that Albertans have. Albertans have very clearly understood what has happened with respect to the federal building. They very clearly understood that mistakes were made. They very clearly understand that there is no residential component being built in the federal building. They very clearly understand that the federal building is a heritage building that will be very useful as a cornerstone of the capital area here in Edmonton, that it will be a signature building for civil servants, for a few MLAs, and for government. It's a very important part of our future as it is of our heritage.

The Speaker: Thank you.
First supplemental.

Ms Notley: Well, thank you, Mr. Speaker. You know what? Calling it a hotel or calling it an apartment: it means nothing. It was always planned as a luxurious hideaway for the former Premier until it wasn't. To the Premier. Albertans have had enough of these conflicting tales from self-interested politicians. One of your members of cabinet or caucus is not giving us the correct information. Why won't you tell us which one that is?

Mr. Hancock: Mr. Speaker, just because the hon. member says that it's so doesn't make it so. There's never been a luxurious accommodation. There is not accommodation. There will not be accommodation. There was a plan at one point in time to consider whether it might be appropriate to have some overnight space. That was killed as a bad idea. That was a bad idea. We're not going to build it.

Ms Notley: Well, Mr. Speaker, the timing of this outrageous project's cancellation is important because taxpayers are on the hook for almost $200,000 because of it. One claims he cancelled it in 2012; one claims he cancelled it in 2014. If we assume that both are correct, why exactly, Mr. Premier, should Albertans trust a government that has to cancel a project over and over and over again? Should they believe you're incompetent or not believe you at all?

The Speaker: The hon. Premier.

Mr. Hancock: Thank you, Mr. Speaker. Finally, a decent question. You know, we have made mistakes, and we're fixing those mistakes. One of those mistakes is having better controls on a project like this, that is a very complex project, that involves the removal of blue asbestos, renovations of an old building, and very high costs for some of the planning processes. We can do better on that for Albertans, and we will do better on that for Albertans.

The Speaker: Hon. members, we've lost some valuable time due to some outbursts, so I would ask you to look at your preambles and please curtail them, cut them out so we can get through the list here. I have at least 18 members wanting to ask questions.

Let's start now with Calgary-Foothills, followed by Chestermere-Rocky View.

Union Dues Regulation

Mr. Webber: Thank you, Mr. Speaker. In the 2012 provincial election the PC Party promised Albertans that they would introduce a paycheque protection, transparency, and freedom to choose act, which would make union dues more transparent and would allow union members "the ability to 'opt-out' of the proportion of . . . dues . . . unrelated to collective bargaining and grievance administration." That was taken directly out of the party platform in the 2012 election. My question is to the Premier. When will this government introduce this legislation, which was promised to Albertans in the last election?

2:10

Mr. Hancock: Never.

Mr. Webber: Again to the Premier: given that the issue of limiting union dues for political causes and causes not directly related to improving workplace conditions is highly popular with Albertans, will the Premier commit to bringing this legislation forward to give Albertans what they want?

Mr. Hancock: I'm not sure what the hon. member did not understand about my first answer.

Mr. Webber: To the Premier: will the Premier commit to making union dues transparent before the next election?

Mr. Hancock: Mr. Speaker, Alberta has a long history of labour peace in the building trades and other areas. We have a significant amount of work that happens in this province, and there's a great deal of competitiveness in that. There is plenty of work for both union members and nonunion members. This is not a big issue for anybody except a very small group of people on the contracting side. It's not a big issue for Albertans. We should do as little as possible to disrupt the very, very strong construction environment we have, which is only held back right now by the costs involved, which escalate if we do anything to disrupt the projects.

Student Assessment

Mr. McAllister: Mr. Speaker, today we learned that the Calgary board of education is following provincial direction and ditching letter grades and percentages for students in favour of four achievement levels, including "not meeting expectations." It's the same thing that the province pushed on the Battle River school division. Parents, students, and teachers fought back and said: "No. Thank you." To the Premier. The world does not hand out jobs like your government hands out associate ministries. Why do you think these value achievement levels are better for our kids than percentages and letter grades?

Mr. Hancock: Once again the hon. member is fundamentally wrong in his assumptions. The provincial government has not been telling any school board how to do assessment. In fact, assessment practices are a matter of teachers' pedagogy. Teachers and school boards decide how they're going to do assessments in their schools and in their districts. That is not something that is driven by Inspiring Education or by provincial education policy whatsoever. It's something for teachers in the classroom, working with their principals in their schools, working with their school districts and the parents.

Mr. McAllister: Well, Mr. Speaker, given that when this issue was front and centre in Battle River, the former superintendent said that he was just following the philosophy and the direction of Inspiring Education – in other words, the boards are making these changes because the province says that they have to – when are you going to start listening to parents and teachers, who know this isn't good for our kids, and stop listening to your edubabbling educrats? Or do you just not care what parents and teachers think?

Mr. Hancock: I think what I heard in there was about babbling because that's what it was.

Mr. Speaker, how a superintendent might interpret the Inspiring Education report and use it to defend what he or she might be doing with respect to a school board: they have to be responsible for that. I can tell you from intimate knowledge of the Inspiring Education process that Inspiring Education was developed through a thorough consultation across this province with educators and with parents and with members of the community, not by educrats or whatever the hon. member wants to label them. By the way, he shouldn't diminish . . .

The Speaker: Thank you.
Final supplemental.

Mr. McAllister: Thank you, Mr. Speaker. I would give the Premier and his Education minister an F for their handling of the education file.

Given that parents are overwhelmingly opposed to these report card changes and that across Alberta they are saying that enough is enough, will you do what the Wildrose would do, Premier, and mandate that report cards in this province include a percentage or letter grade for students in junior high and high school, or will you continue to say one thing and do another, just as you have been since the last election?

Mr. Hancock: Mr. Speaker, it's become increasingly apparent that there is no limit to the extent to which this hon. member and that hon. party will go to try and find the disaffected across the province and gather them into a group and try and build it into a strong enough group to get elected. It's not going to work. What they need to do is to look at education in an appropriate way in terms of all of the issues around education; have a positive public policy discussion, as we have had over the last five years in this province; come to appropriate conclusions for the future of our children and grandchildren; and make sure our teachers are well equipped to be in the classrooms with our students to make sure that they can maximize their passion and potential.

The Speaker: Thank you.

The hon. Member for Edmonton-Gold Bar, followed by Innisfail-Sylvan Lake.

Edmonton Sporting Event Hosting Capabilities

Mr. Dorward: Thank you, Mr. Speaker. I would like to talk about sport and wellness. The Saville Community Sports Centre, formerly known as the GO Community Centre, was the recipient of a grant from the major community facilities enhancement program. This fiscally sustainable building, that today benefits thousands of children, youths, and adults, would not have been built without the grant. To the Minister of Culture: when will the government reinstate these grants so that project organizers can apply for assistance for large-scale projects all across our great province?

The Speaker: The hon. Minister of Culture.

Mrs. Klimchuk: Well, thank you, Mr. Speaker. The major community facilities program was a great program, about $280 million, and it finished in 2009-10. As a member of Treasury Board I constantly advocate for more funding for these projects as they continue to build Alberta. We know the value they have for building community and supporting community. In the meantime Budget 2014 has $66 million in grants that will be available to the nonprofit voluntary sector and $38 million to the community facility enhancement program. But I will continue to advocate for another program of that magnitude.

Mr. Dorward: To the Minister of Tourism, Parks and Recreation: what can the province do to support municipalities in securing championship events at the high school, college, and professional levels as even I field questions from local, national, and indeed international sports organizations about the capacity of Edmonton and other places in the province to be sports host cities?

The Speaker: The hon. Minister of Tourism, Parks and Recreation.

Dr. Starke: Well, thank you, Mr. Speaker. I'd like to thank the member for his ongoing and persistent advocacy in this area. Alberta has a strong track record of hosting major events, going back to the 1978 Commonwealth Games and the '88 Olympics in Calgary to the 2001 world track and field games, and we continue that legacy by providing municipalities and bid committees with strong support whenever they have the option or the opportunity to host a major athletic event, whether it's a small event or a World Cup event or an Olympic trial. We have various numbers of programs to do this, and we're one of the best host areas anywhere in the world for that sort of thing.

The Speaker: Thank you.

Mr. Dorward: I'm glad to hear about the Commonwealth Games because my third question is: what kind of support can the province offer the city of Edmonton during their bid process for the 2022 Commonwealth Games?

Dr. Starke: Well, Mr. Speaker, the Commonwealth Games that were hosted in 1978 in Edmonton were certainly a watershed event for the history of this city, and the opportunity to host once again in 2022 is one that the bid committee for the city of Edmonton is working very hard on. We are co-operating with that bid committee to put together as much information as possible to make it a successful bid. As far as the actual support for the games themselves, this is the kind of initiative that was envisioned by my hon. colleague the Minister of Finance when we introduced Bill 1 and the Alberta future fund, something that can then provide support for these sorts of initiatives.

The Speaker: Thank you.

Care Facility Restrictions on Family Member Visits

Mrs. Towle: Yesterday I asked this government why it refuses to intervene when family members have been unfairly banned from visiting loved ones in continuing care. The Health minister said that he can't intervene because the case of Shauna McHarg is before the courts. As the minister knows, the only issue before the courts is a simple request for documents through FOIP. When that process wraps up, the ban will still be in place. This is not about FOIP. This is about allowing Shauna to see her mom on Mother's Day and her father on Father's Day. To the Health minister: now that you formally control Alberta Health Services, will you step in immediately and ensure Shauna can see her parents?

Mr. Horne: Mr. Speaker, it may be that the hon. member thinks that she is in a position to judge the circumstances of a particular case, and she may even believe that if she were in my position, it would be appropriate for her to intervene in an issue that is very specifically in the domain of patient care and management of risk in health care settings. I am not going to pretend to understand the circumstances of this particular case. My responsibility, and I would think the hon. member should agree, is to make sure that the appropriate processes are in place to allow people to raise concerns, to allow them to appeal decisions with which they may not agree, including to the Ombudsman, and to have recourse to the courts . . .

The Speaker: Thank you.

2:20

Mrs. Towle: Your appropriate processes have taken her three years.

Given that I asked the Associate Minister – Seniors about Shauna McHarg being banned from visiting her parents in continuing care and he said, "I'm not that familiar with this case . . . this is the first that I've heard of it" and given that I have copies of an e-mail, which I will table, that Shauna sent to her MLA in 2011 describing her ordeal and given that that MLA just so happens to be this very same Seniors minister, does any of this ring a bell, and will you now step in to help your former constituent battle this three-year, great process that the current minister is asking for?

Mr. Quest: Well, Mr. Speaker, I think you'll understand that an e-mail that was sent to my office three years ago may not be top of mind, so no, I'm not familiar with this particular case. I understand it is today before the courts, so I can't comment too much further. But what I can tell you is that there are a number of avenues that can be taken for people that find themselves in a position where their visits are restricted. Those include Alberta Health Services patient relations and speaking with management at the particular facility. What I can also tell you is that the protection of the staff and the residents in those is paramount.

Mrs. Towle: The associate minister knows that this is not about safety, and you need to stop hiding behind the courts.

Minister, are you really telling families with loved ones in continuing care that if they end up banned from a facility for speaking out and advocating for their loved one – not for safety reasons; for advocating – this isn't your concern and the only thing these families can do is get a lawyer? Do you really find that acceptable?

Mr. Quest: Well, Mr. Speaker, once again – I have said it a number of times now – I'm not familiar with this particular case or all the ins and outs, and I wouldn't pretend to be. I'm sure it's rather complex. There have obviously been many discussions, and many different avenues have been explored, and decisions have been made that I certainly wouldn't have the details on. Again, I am absolutely confident that there are appropriate processes in place, an appeal process and discussions that can happen, to ensure that people at least get the opportunity to visit. It may be somewhat restricted, and I think we have to understand why.

The Speaker: Thank you.

The hon. Member for Edmonton-Centre, followed by Edmonton-Beverly-Clareview.

Environmental Hearing Participation

Ms Blakeman: Thanks very much, Mr. Speaker. With the passage of the responsible energy act, who was allowed to speak at oil sands development hearings changed radically to a definition that narrows it to only those "directly and adversely affected," which, for all intents and purposes, means that no coalition, no First Nation, no NGO will ever be able to present to a hearing on any issue contrary to what the oil sands developer wants. To the minister of environment: how is it democratic, fair, or ethical for a government to use its majority to legislate hearings structured so no environmental issues can or will be raised?

The Speaker: The hon. minister responsible for the environment.

Mr. Campbell: Well, thank you, Mr. Speaker. Let me start off by saying that the member opposite's preamble was incorrect. All First Nations have a chance to be at any hearing. They have the ability through their treaty rights, and they have the ability through traditional land use if they are directly affected in any environmental hearings that are going on in this province. I can say to you that if you are directly affected, you're allowed to attend those hearings. Those groups might not be able to attend as a coalition, but as individuals or individual organizations they might meet that criteria.

Ms Blakeman: No, they don't have standing.

Back to – well, we'll see who answers. Given that the last Energy minister stated that they were in the process of changing all that for people with different perspectives to bring their case forward and the current Energy minister said that she's opened all the doors and the new regulator will be transparent and open so every voice can be heard, if intervenors don't live across the road, they're sunk. To either minister that would like to answer: do you really think that the whole environment exists just in the property across the road from the development site, static, that the air doesn't move, the rivers don't flow, or emissions don't seep through the soil?

Mr. Campbell: Again, Mr. Speaker, I would suggest that we have a very good hearing process in the province of Alberta. I say to you that this government is committed to making sure that we look after the environment. The world's eyes are on us. As we continue to extract natural resources and look after our forest industry, we understand that we have to have a very good environmental assessment program in place, and I have full confidence in our quasi-judicial boards that they do a very good job looking after the environment for all Albertans.

Ms Blakeman: With respect, that's hokey.

Back to the minister of the environment. Given that in the Kirby expansion project proposed by CNRL nine parties wanted to be heard, including seven First Nations, an environmental coalition, and one individual, and not one of them was granted status, so no one was able to question or present concerns about the effect of this project on water, on wildlife, on climate change, on tailings ponds, on CO₂ emissions, nothing, how does the minister go to international conferences with a straight face knowing that anyone can look at this process and recognize it . . .

The Speaker: Thank you.

Mr. Campbell: Well, Mr. Speaker, I can say with great confidence that Alberta has the strongest regulatory policies in place for the environment as we move forward. I have no problem talking, whether it's in Canada or to international audiences. We have a very good record on the environment and will continue to have a very good record on the environment for all Albertans moving forward.

The Speaker: Thank you.

Education Funding

Mr. Bilous: Mr. Speaker, once again this government has shown, this time through a task force of appointees and PC MLAs, that they don't understand the complexities and challenges in today's classrooms. No teacher can be at their best in a class with 40 students or a class with diverse needs but little to no support. To the Premier: why won't you admit what every parent, teacher, and child already knows, that class size and class makeup determines the quality of education we provide our children?

Mr. Hancock: Mr. Speaker, that would not conform with the research that's been done across the world with respect to what actually makes excellence in education. Class size is important, and the demographic makeup of a classroom, including the abilities and skills of children in that classroom, is important. But what really makes a difference is excellence in teaching. All of us who have been in a classroom know that an excellent teacher can handle a class of 40 students in the right circumstances, but in other circumstances a class of 10 students might not be appropriate. But excellence in teaching is always appropriate to the success of our students.

Mr. Bilous: That's baloney, Mr. Premier.

Mr. Speaker, given that this government was elected on a promise of predictable, sustainable funding for our schools, all the way from to kindergarten to grade 12, and given that after two budgets from this PC government our schools have been left to deal with freezes and cuts, which means fewer supports for students and bigger classes, will the Premier accept that to have excellent classrooms, you need to have excellent funding and that the first problem this government should address is the broken promises?

Mr. Hancock: Mr. Speaker, what this hon. member should know, having been in the Legislature and having had the opportunity to peruse the budget, is that the per capita funding for students has not been cut. It is in fact there, and it's demand driven. We fund every single student in this province. Those funds go to school boards, and they have the ability to allocate those dollars to the classroom. We have good funding for students in this province and for the education system in this province. We have a strong education system. We have a strong curriculum, we're going to make it stronger, and we have excellent teachers. That's why the world is coming to Alberta to see how we're doing education.

Mr. Bilous: And that's why we have classes with 30-plus, 40-plus students.

Mr. Speaker, given that teachers want to be supportive, inclusive leaders in the classroom and given that this government has cut the resources they need to play that role, will the Premier explain how suggesting that teachers need to improve without providing them the resources to do so can be seen as anything other than blaming them for this government's failures?

Mr. Hancock: Mr. Speaker, we have not cut resources for students in the classroom. In fact, we have maintained those resources, and school boards can allocate those resources appropriately to determine how many students need to be in classrooms and how much support they need around. The hon. member should realize from his question that it's not just about the teacher in the classroom but also about the supports for the teacher in the school and for the students in the school that create a successful education system. Again we come back to excellence in teaching being foundational. Excellence in teaching means ensuring that teachers get a good start in the profession, that they continue their professional development, and that they're supported when they are in trouble.

The Speaker: Thank you.

The hon. Member for Medicine Hat, followed by Grande Prairie-Smoky.

University Executive Compensation

Mr. Pedersen: Thank you, Mr. Speaker. Albertans were pleased to see the former advanced education minister and now jobs minister undertake a review of postsecondary executive pay and perks. In many instances these packages are way out of line and well in excess of what public-sector employees should be paid by taxpayers, with some cases over $1 million. However, the Premier and current advanced education minister has cancelled that review. Does the Premier disagree with the jobs minister and actually believe that taxpayers should be on the hook for these unrestrained and exorbitant compensation packages for university executives?

2:30

Mr. Hancock: What I believe, Mr. Speaker, and what government policy is is that we actually ask members of the community to form boards, and we have board-governed institutions. Those boards have a distinct responsibility with respect to how they hire their chief executive officer, how they get the talent they need to achieve the success that they believe is important for those institutions, how those institutions work together with Campus Alberta to get the best value for money. One of the most significant aspects of their role as board governor is to determine the appropriate level of compensation for the appropriate qualifications of the appropriate person that they want to hire.

The Speaker: First supplemental.

Mr. Pedersen: Thank you, Mr. Speaker. Given what we've seen transpire in the Premier's office with regard to salaries, severances, and perks, Albertans have become justifiably concerned with how much money they pay to civil servants across the board. Does the Premier really believe that his department as a steward of Alberta taxpayers' dollars has absolutely no role in ensuring that compensation for executives is kept at reasonable levels?

Mr. Hancock: A bit rich, Mr. Speaker, coming from a party who was just a few weeks ago saying that we should be settling things with AUPE and that we should never legislate, we should pay extra, we should be doing everything, and then they come back and say: no; you should actually tell everybody. In fact, I heard even today somebody hollering from across the way about centralization, yet they want everything centralized in government. We have community members on boards making appropriate decisions with respect to how to allocate the resources within the institution. Yes, we're concerned about how that works across the spectrum, and we have those discussions, but we don't interfere with their decisions.

Mr. Pedersen: Mr. Speaker, unfortunately, this Premier is not setting the gold standard.

Given that the government loves to say that it needs to dole out these perks to attract top-level talent but given that the president of the Banff Centre, whose expense report includes Hilton hotel stays and $40 dollar steaks, abruptly left his post last month in spite of these rich compensation packages, how can the Premier honestly justify that these very generous salaries and perks are necessary to attract and retain the top talent?

Mr. Hancock: The answer is in his question, Mr. Speaker. While he goes on slugging people about their expenses without giving any particular context or any way for anybody to assert where he's coming from with respect to that, he then goes on to indicate that we've lost a top-notch educator, who is moving back to be with his family in Toronto, who is going away for other reasons. I don't know. Maybe if we paid him more, he'd have stayed. I don't know. But the fact of the matter is that to get top talent, you have to look through the world, you have to determine what your goals and aspirations are, and then you have a board who determines and negotiates with that talent the compensation that they need to have to be . . .

The Speaker: Thank you.

The hon. Member for Grande Prairie-Smoky, followed by Strathmore-Brooks.

All-terrain Vehicles

Mr. McDonald: Thank you, Mr. Speaker. Trespassing by ATVs and side-by-sides continues to be a tremendous problem in my constituency of Grande Prairie-Smoky not only for the property damage but also for the safety and the trespassing rights that we have as landowners. My question is to the Minister of Tourism, Parks and Recreation. What is your department doing to add more trails in the systems in Alberta to prevent some of this damage?

The Speaker: The hon. Minister of Tourism, Parks and Recreation.

Dr. Starke: Well, thank you, Mr. Speaker. I'd like to thank the hon. member for this important question because it highlights two aspects of my portfolio, one being Active Alberta and the active recreation that trails provide as well as the tourism strategy, in which this is an important component. We're working very actively in collaboration with ESRD, with the various stakeholder groups, both motorized and nonmotorized, who are interested in trail development and trail maintenance. We have a system of trails in the province already that we're seeking to maintain and develop a better status of, and, of course, these groups are also interested in providing new trails to users. This is important work. It is ongoing and something that we're endeavouring to expand in consultation with these various groups.

Mr. McDonald: Okay. Well, thank you, Mr. Minister. Will you be doing anything to educate these riders as to where they can ride these units?

Dr. Starke: Well, Mr. Speaker, in point of fact, we are, and for a number of years along with the departments of Education, Justice and Solicitor General, and ESRD we have worked with the Alberta Off-Highway Vehicle Association to provide the ride with respect program. That program not only teaches safe operation of off-highway vehicles but, indeed, also safety equipment that's required and also stresses very much getting proper permissions for private land use and also the appropriate use when ATVs are being used on Crown lands, which, in fact, is the majority of it. So we're already involved in a program that is doing the kind of education this member is asking about.

The Speaker: Thank you.

Supplemental.

Mr. McDonald: Yeah. Thank you, hon. minister. My final supplemental is to the Minister of Service Alberta. Will your department be adding any levies to the ATV licences to help compensate for some of these damages resulting from ATVs?

The Speaker: The hon. Minister of Service Alberta.

Mr. Griffiths: Well, thank you very much, Mr. Speaker. Alberta's Traffic Safety Act states fairly clearly that off-highway vehicles aren't allowed on private property without the owner's permission, and most ATV owners across the province are incredibly respectful. Right now the fee for a licence is $45. I don't think we're contemplating at all – in fact, I assure you we're not contemplating at all adding on any extra tax, that everyone would have to pay, to compensate for a very small group of people who disrespect the rules. We'll continue to support the minister to my right on education programs to prevent that damage.

The Speaker: Thank you.

The hon. Member for Strathmore-Brooks, followed by Edmonton-Manning.

Freehold Mineral Rights Legislation Consultation

Mr. Hale: Thank you, Mr. Speaker. This weekend I had the privilege of attending the Freehold Owners Association's AGM. This is a group which represents over 30,000 individuals. For the past 15 years this association has unsuccessfully been trying to work with the government to make meaningful changes to the legislation to protect the rights of the individuals. Now we find out that no one from the association was contacted for input on the changes to the Freehold Mineral Rights Tax Act, which directly affects their stakeholders. Can the minister explain why this group wasn't consulted with?

The Speaker: The hon. Minister of Energy.

Mrs. McQueen: Thank you, Mr. Speaker. Certainly, if the member is talking about the piece of legislation in the bill that we had passed yesterday, I personally spoke with the freeholders' association myself, not only just on the phone but also in my office just a week ago. If there's something that the member is hearing differently, I'd love to sit down and talk to him. I made the point of not only my staff talking to them but me personally doing that because I fully respect the freeholders' association.

The Speaker: Thank you.

First supplemental.

Mr. Hale: Well, thank you, Mr. Speaker. Given that I have communications from the president of the association and another board member stating that they only heard of the changes after I contacted them and given this government's claim to have consulted with stakeholders on this matter and others, to the Minister of Energy: just whom did you consult with in that association?

The Speaker: The hon. minister.

Mrs. McQueen: Well, thank you, Mr. Speaker. I consulted with the president and with Else, and there was another person there with us as well. I made sure, personally, that my staff talked to them and that they were okay. I also personally made sure that I met with them before they had their meeting so that before the legislation was here in the House, from talking to me personally they knew about it and they were okay with it. They confirmed to me in my office that, yes, indeed, they were.

Mr. Hale: They have told me, Mr. Speaker, that they knew nothing of the mineral tax changes that were coming.

Given the government's recent string of apologies, resignations, and other embarrassing gaffes and that this government has still been pushing ahead with their agenda, will the minister once again take the Wildrose's advice and apologize to the key stakeholders they have ignored and come back to the table to make real, meaningful changes to the Freehold Mineral Rights Tax Act working with the freehold association?

The Speaker: The hon. minister.

Mrs. McQueen: Well, thank you, Mr. Speaker. I will continue to do what I have been doing, having my staff work with them, and then when my staff does that, I personally follow up with them. I fully support the freeholders. They do great work in our province. I will always talk to them myself when we have changes to the legislation because I have respect for them. If that member is hearing something differently, I can't help what he's hearing. Maybe he's hearing wrong. I personally have talked with them myself in my office.

The Speaker: The hon. Member for Edmonton-Manning, followed by Innisfail-Sylvan Lake.

Mental Health Service Procurement for Adults

Mr. Sandhu: Thank you, Mr. Speaker. On Tuesday I gave a member's statement outlining concerns that I and my constituents in Edmonton-Manning have regarding our mental health care system. In particular, parents or guardians of adult children with mental health issues are restricted from seeking help for them. Regardless of the adult children's state of mind they are required to come forward and ask for help themselves. My question is to the Minister of Health. Are there policies in place or being considered to assist guardians seeking treatment for their adult children with mental health issues?

The Speaker: The hon. minister.

Mr. Horne: Well, thank you very much, Mr. Speaker. I thank the hon. member for the question and his significant contribution to Mental Health Week in Alberta by virtue of this question and his member's statement earlier this week. Indeed, mental health issues can be very difficult for families and guardians, and I appreciate that all Albertans want to know how they can best help someone in need, particularly a family member. The Mental Health Act contains options for a parent or guardian to work through the legal system to request that a person be taken to a mental health facility to have their mental health status examined by physicians. In most cases this is a straightforward process, but in some cases . . .

2:40

The Speaker: Thank you.

Mr. Sandhu: To the same minister: what you are saying is not enough. The legal process is very lengthy and complicated. Patients give up before they get the help that they need. What steps are you taking now to change the process?

The Speaker: The hon. minister.

Mr. Horne: Well, thank you very much, Mr. Speaker. The situations that we hear about in our day-to-day work as MLAs can be heart-wrenching, but of course we have to achieve a balance between observing the rights of the individuals in question, who may be suffering from mental illness, and our desire, our heartfelt desire, to provide help when they need it and reach out to them at the earliest opportunity. Our government and our health care partners are committed to suicide prevention, prevention efforts, and other programs, as the hon. member will know. The introduction of community treatment orders a few years ago . . .

The Speaker: Thank you.

Mr. Sandhu: Again to the same minister: is there a way to make the process less complicated so that Albertans have easier access to help?

Mr. Horne: Well, Mr. Speaker, we're always looking for ways to make the process easier. The hon. member's question, of course, refers to a situation wherein family members or parents or guardians are so concerned that they actually have to seek help, quite often in a very difficult situation. The more important issue, in my view, is what we are doing to prevent mental illness, how we are using the resources that we have to get them to people when they need them and when they are receptive to receiving the help.

The Speaker: Thank you, hon. members. The time for Oral Question Period has expired.

Members' Statements

(continued)

The Speaker: You have two minutes each. Let's start with Edmonton-Decore, followed by Edmonton-Meadowlark. Oh, I'm sorry. They have already gone. My apologies. It's Grande Prairie-Smoky, followed by Edmonton-McClung.

Thank you.

Great Kids Awards 2014

Mr. McDonald: Thank you, Mr. Speaker. Whenever we think of leaders, we often think of adults. However, we must also think of Alberta's youth. Each year thousands of children and youth do great things at home, at school, and in their communities, and they deserve to be recognized for their exceptional achievements. That's why today I'm pleased to celebrate the Great Kids awards and all the young leaders across Alberta. For the 14th year the province recently presented the Great Kids awards to 16 children and youth for their outstanding determination, generosity, and compassion. While these award winners are between the ages of five and 18, they all lead by example through their selflessness, kindness, and courage.

One example, Mr. Speaker, is an award winner from my constituency of Grande Prairie-Smoky, 16-year-old April Wyant. April is an optimistic, self-motivated young lady. She has had a childhood full of challenges and eventually was living on the streets. One day April decided to change her life, and she stopped using drugs and alcohol and enrolled back in school. Since then she has been an honour student every year and has earned several academic awards and is known as a leader in her classroom. I'm very proud of her for overcoming the odds and making a better life for herself.

As a government we support the success of these and all Alberta's youths. The Great Kids award is one way that we are investing in families and communities to build Alberta, but the youth themselves are the real winners in the future of this province. Mr. Speaker, today I encourage everyone to join our government in celebrating the award winners and nominees of the Great Kids awards.

The Speaker: Thank you.

The hon. Member for Edmonton-McClung, followed by Medicine Hat.

National Day of Honour

Mr. Xiao: Thank you, Mr. Speaker. This Friday, May 9, has been designated as the National Day of Honour in recognition and commemoration of Canada's military mission in Afghanistan. Like all Canadians, Albertans saw our men and women of the armed forces go off to Afghanistan 12 years ago with a mixture of pride and sadness, pride because Canada was joining an international effort to address a threat to our nation and to our closest allies, sadness because we knew that military operations cannot happen without lives being affected. At the very least it meant upheaval for military families, that there would be many households missing a family member for a period of months if not years. Even then, no matter how optimistic we might have been, we realized the likelihood that some brave Canadians would not be coming home at all, that Canada, too, would have to pay the age-old price of war.

Twelve years later we are humbled by the efforts of our troops to bring peace and stability to Afghanistan. War teaches no easy lessons, Mr. Speaker. We are eternally grateful to the men and women who have endured those difficult truths. A thank you hardly seems enough. But we have to accept that for those Canadian individuals and families who have lived through their portion of the conflicts, a thank you must be the starting point.

Mr. Speaker, this past March, at the conclusion of Canada's mission in Afghanistan, we announced free admission for Canada's military personnel and their families to Alberta's provincial museums, historic sites, and interpretive centres. All they need to do is to show their CFOne card to enjoy free, unlimited regular admission from now on. It's a small gesture, one that we hope will convey our thanks to . . .

The Speaker: Thank you, hon. member. I'm so sorry to interrupt. Your time has expired. I realize how sensitive the topic is, but I'm bound to enforce the rules.

Let's go on with Medicine Hat, please.

Innovation in Alberta

Mr. Pedersen: Thank you, Mr. Speaker. We know that Albertans have an entrepreneurial spirit, and the best and the brightest people in the world call Alberta home. We don't let anything stand in the way, not even government. This isn't only in research and business but also in the arts, nonprofits, and people in general. Albertans have developed SAGD for oil sands development. There is work going on in nanotechnology, and we've seen success stories in health, with Cold-FX coming from Alberta, and in rural development, with the rural Alberta development fund. While there are many good projects that have had government involvement, there are many more achievements that are just the simple result of grit and determination, entrepreneurship, and sometimes even just a little luck. They have had nothing to do with government.

This is what makes the PC government's approach to innovation so troubling. They think that government has the answers. They think that centralization is the way to go. They think that appointing a committee is going to solve all their problems. Then they appoint another committee and then a task force and then a panel, and then they write a report, and then there's a cabinet shuffle, and the whole thing starts all over again.

This is not to say that everything is awful. Congratulations on the new economic dashboard are deserved, and there has been a positive reception from innovators and the business community.

But there was troubling news a couple of weeks ago when the Premier admitted that his advisory panel never met, not once. We don't need to have more government, but we need to have accountability. We have to trust Albertans, and we have to believe in them. One thing to keep in mind with the success stories of today is that they are not because of government. The truth is that despite government sticking their hands into everything, Albertans are still succeeding.

It's time for this PC government to take a step back, get their house in order, and allow Alberta entrepreneurs and innovators to succeed. We know that they can, and we know that they will. The sky isn't falling, but you would have to be foolish to think that we can't do better with the more than $8 million invested yearly. Sometimes we can do better by having government do less.

Thank you, Mr. Speaker.

The Speaker: The hon. Member for Calgary-Foothills.

Animal Protection Legislation

Mr. Webber: Thank you, Mr. Speaker. It is with regret that I rise today to give the last member's statement of this session. The Premier decided that he doesn't want to deal with the necessary laws and regulations that govern Alberta. No surprise here. We have seen the current government killing Albertans' access to governance for a while now.

As I walk out of the opposition lounge, there's a photo hanging on the wall, dated 1912. The photo shows hon. members doing something that rarely happens nowadays. They are debating. They are together in a Chamber discussing the future of Alberta. Those individuals worked hard governing, not balancing media and backtracking on comments and promises.

One such lost piece of legislation was my Bill 205, the Animal Protection (Prevention of Animal Distress and Neglect) Amendment Act, 2014. I am fully aware that my current status as an independent member is the reason that this bill never saw a second reading. I also know that the Minister of Justice and Sol Gen has commented on it extensively. I know that my bill will be killed and is going to be killed and another government bill bearing a remarkable similarity will be introduced soon.

2:50

Despite the fact that I was made an MLA by my constituents, the government doesn't think I'm one of the cool guys anymore and has ensured that I cannot pass a bill which, if passed in the last couple of days, would have been effective in punishing the offender that caused me to draft the bill to begin with. He was very recently caught, but because of the political ridiculousness of the last year or so offenders such as this fellow will get a slap on the wrist. Closing down session effectively kills the voices of thousands of Albertans. I'm willing to bet that they are tired of this treatment.

This is what makes me a very sad man.

Presenting Petitions

The Speaker: The hon. Member for Bonnyville-Cold Lake.

Mrs. Leskiw: Thank you, Mr. Speaker. Today I have three petitions to present on behalf of the Member for Calgary-Currie, with over 1,500 signatures, that encourage the Parliament of Canada not to pass legislation that would legalize prostitution.

The Speaker: Thank you.

Tabling Returns and Reports

The Speaker: The hon. Member for Edmonton-Centre on behalf of.

Ms Blakeman: I have two sets on behalf of my colleague the Member for Edmonton-Meadowlark and leader of the Liberal opposition. I have the appropriate number of copies of a PowerPoint presentation that was made to the PC caucus which talks about collecting data, sending out surveys, always uploading information of the people to the database, and then later on it talks about using that same database as your best get-out-the-vote resource. Yup, pretty interesting stuff.

May I continue with my own tablings? Thank you very much, Mr. Speaker. I think I have three or maybe four. The first one is backing up my quotes from the previous Energy minister that were given during my question, suggesting that people with different perspectives would be allowed to bring their case forward to the hearings for new oil and gas developments.

The second is a copy of a letter that went back to the Oilsands Environmental Coalition which lists five different criteria that they would have to meet in order to be allowed into the hearing, which, frankly, is very difficult to meet unless you live across the road.

My final tabling is a copy of the Alberta Energy Regulator rejection which lists the statements of concerns that were filed – and I'm glad that the minister of environment is still here – by Chipewyan Prairie Dene First Nation, Chard Métis Society and Chard Métis Dene, Whitefish (Goodfish) Lake First Nation, Beaver Lake Cree Nation, Kehewin Cree Nation, Cold Lake First Nations, and Fort McMurray First Nation, all of which were denied the ability to speak at the hearing.

Thank you.

The Speaker: Thank you.

Let's move on to Innisfail-Sylvan Lake.

Mrs. Towle: Thank you. I have in my hand a tabling that I'll put to the Legislature today from Shauna McHarg, dated April 26, 2011, where she is e-mailing the hon. Member for Strathcona-Sherwood Park. She goes through in very in-depth detail exactly what her concerns are with regard to the banning, talks about the process, the ombudsman, and all of the processes she's been through. She even talks about the multitude of Health ministers that she went through, including when you were Health minister, Mr. Speaker, and the ongoing process and the ongoing fight of over four years to resolve the banning situation.

Tablings to the Clerk

The Clerk: I wish to advise the House that the following documents were deposited with the office of the Clerk: on behalf of the hon. Mr. Lukaszuk, Minister of Jobs, Skills, Training and Labour, a letter dated May 7, 2014, from Robert Blakeman, business manager, International Association of Bridge, Structural, Ornamental and Reinforcing Iron Workers local 720, to hon. Mr. Lukaszuk, Minister of Jobs, Skills, Training and Labour, regarding the Sims report; a letter dated May 6, 2014, from John Desrosiers, business manager, Construction and General Workers' Union local 92, to hon. Mr. Lukaszuk, Minister of Jobs, Skills, Training and Labour, regarding the Sims report; a letter dated May 5, 2014, from Ian Robb, president/administrator of Unite Here local 47, president of Northern Alberta Building Trades Council, chair of Building Trades of Alberta camp committee, to hon. Mr. Lukaszuk, Minister of Jobs, Skills, Training and Labour, regarding the Sims report; a letter dated May 6, 2014, from Wade Logan, business manager, International Association of Heat and Frost Insulators and Allied Workers local 110, to hon. Mr. Lukaszuk, Minister of Jobs, Skills, Training and Labour, regarding the Sims report; a letter dated May 6, 2014, from Bruce Moffatt, business manager and CEO, International Union of Operating Engineers locals 955, 955B, and 955C, to hon. Mr. Lukaszuk, Minister of Jobs, Skills, Training and Labour, regarding the Sims report; a letter dated May 6, 2014, from Brett McKenzie, executive director, General Presidents' Maintenance Committee for Canada, to hon. Mr. Lukaszuk, Minister of Jobs, Skills, Training and Labour, regarding the process concerning the Alberta construction labour legislation review; and a letter dated May 6, 2014, from John Tackaberry, business manager, International Union of Painters and Allied Trades local 177, to hon. Mr. Lukaszuk, Minister of Jobs, Skills, Training and Labour, regarding the Sims report.

The Speaker: Thank you.

Hon. members, there was a point of order raised by Airdrie just before 2 o'clock, but the hon. Member for Airdrie has since withdrawn that point of order. So we have none to deal with.

Mr. Campbell: Well, Mr. Speaker, it's my privilege to advise the House that the government business for the spring sitting has now been completed. Therefore, pursuant to Government Motion 9 the Assembly stands adjourned.

The Speaker: Government Motion 9 simply says that we're going to be adjourned until October 27 of 2014, so that is so ordered.

We are done. Congratulations.

[The Assembly adjourned at 2:57 p.m. pursuant to Government Motion 9]

Bill Status Report for the 28th Legislature - 2nd Session (2014)

Activity to May 08, 2014

The Bill sponsor's name is in brackets following the Bill title. If it is a money Bill, ($) will appear between the title and the sponsor's name. Numbers following each Reading refer to Hansard pages where the text of debates is found; dates for each Reading are in brackets following the page numbers. Bills numbered 1 to 199 are Government Bills. Bills numbered 200 or higher are Private Members' Public Bills. Bills numbered with a "Pr" prefix are Private Bills.

*An asterisk beside a Bill number indicates an amendment was passed to that Bill; the Committee line shows the precise date of the amendment.

The date a Bill comes into force is indicated in square brackets after the date of Royal Assent. If a Bill comes into force "on proclamation," "with exceptions," or "on various dates," please contact Legislative Counsel, Alberta Justice, for details at (780) 427-2217. The chapter number assigned to the Bill is entered immediately following the date the Bill comes into force. SA indicates Statutes of Alberta; this is followed by the year in which it is included in the statutes, and its chapter number. Please note, Private Bills are not assigned chapter numbers until the conclusion of the Fall Sitings.

1 Savings Management Act ($) (Redford)

First Reading -- 4 (Mar. 3, 2014 aft., passed)

Second Reading -- 47-50 (Mar. 4, 2014 eve.), 84-85 (Mar. 5, 2014 aft.), 146-54 (Mar. 10, 2014 eve., passed)

Committee of the Whole -- 184-87 (Mar. 11, 2014 aft., passed)

Third Reading -- 217-18 (Mar. 12, 2014 aft.), 226-28 (Mar. 12, 2014 aft.), 231-34 (Mar. 12, 2014 eve., passed)

Royal Assent -- (Mar. 13, 2014 outside of House sitting) [Comes into force April 1, 2014; SA 2014 cS-2.5]

2 Appropriation (Supplementary Supply) Act, 2014 ($) (Horner)

First Reading -- 84 (Mar. 5, 2014 aft., passed)

Second Reading -- 143 (Mar. 10, 2014 eve.), 154-56 (Mar. 10, 2014 eve., passed)

Committee of the Whole -- 187-88 (Mar. 11, 2014 aft., passed)

Third Reading -- 218 (Mar. 12, 2014 aft.), 234 (Mar. 12, 2014 eve., passed)

Royal Assent -- (Mar. 13, 2014 outside of House sitting) [Comes into force March 13, 2014; SA 2014 c2]

3 Securities Amendment Act, 2014 (Horner)

First Reading -- 62 (Mar. 5, 2014 aft., passed)

Second Reading -- 143-45 (Mar. 10, 2014 eve., passed)

Committee of the Whole -- 187 (Mar. 11, 2014 aft., passed)

Third Reading -- 218 (Mar. 12, 2014 aft.), 234 (Mar. 12, 2014 eve., passed)

Royal Assent -- (Mar. 13, 2014 outside of House sitting) [Comes into force on proclamation; SA 2014 c3]

4 Estate Administration Act (Kubinec)

First Reading -- 62-63 (Mar. 5, 2014 aft., passed)

Second Reading -- 145-46 (Mar. 10, 2014 eve.), 184 (Mar. 11, 2014 aft.), 191-93 (Mar. 11, 2014 eve., passed)

Committee of the Whole -- 229 (Mar. 12, 2014 aft., passed)

Third Reading -- 250 (Mar. 13, 2014 aft.), 330 (Mar. 20, 2014 aft., passed)

Royal Assent -- (Apr. 24, 2014 outside of House sitting) [Comes into force on proclamation; SA 2014 cE-12.5]

5 Appropriation (Interim Supply) Act, 2014 ($) (Horner)

First Reading -- 119 (Mar. 10, 2014 aft., passed)

Second Reading -- 174 (Mar. 11, 2014 aft.), 188-90 (Mar. 11, 2014 aft., passed)

Committee of the Whole -- 218-20 (Mar. 12, 2014 aft.), 228-29 (Mar. 12, 2014 aft., passed)

Third Reading -- 230 (Mar. 12, 2014 aft., passed)

Royal Assent -- (Mar. 13, 2014 outside of House sitting) [Comes into force March 13, 2014; SA 2014 c1]

6 New Home Buyer Protection Amendment Act, 2014 (Minister of Municipal Affairs)

First Reading -- 300 (Mar. 18, 2014 aft., passed)

Second Reading -- 330-31 (Mar. 20, 2014 aft.), 417-21 (Apr. 10, 2014 aft., passed)

Committee of the Whole -- 493-503 (Apr. 16, 2014 aft., passed)

Third Reading -- 522-23 (Apr. 17, 2014 aft.), 657 (Apr. 23, 2014 eve., passed)

Royal Assent -- (Apr. 24, 2014 outside of House sitting) [Comes into force on proclamation; SA 2014 c5]

- 7 Tax Statutes Amendment Act, 2014 ($) (Horner)
First Reading -- 417 (Apr. 10, 2014 aft., passed)
Second Reading -- 488-93 (Apr. 16, 2014 aft., passed)
Committee of the Whole -- 503-4 (Apr. 16, 2014 aft., passed)
Third Reading -- 523 (Apr. 17, 2014 aft.), 657 (Apr. 23, 2014 eve., passed)
Royal Assent -- (Apr. 24, 2014 outside of House sitting) [Comes into force on various dates; SA 2014 c6]
- 8 Appropriation Act, 2014 ($) (Horner)
First Reading -- 488 (Apr. 16, 2014 aft., passed)
Second Reading -- 519-20 (Apr. 17, 2014 aft.), 523-27 (Apr. 17, 2014 aft., passed)
Committee of the Whole -- 559-62 (Apr. 22, 2014 aft.), 563-80 (Apr. 22, 2014 eve., passed)
Third Reading -- 610-23 (Apr. 23, 2014 aft.), 633-38 (Apr. 23, 2014 eve., passed on division)
Royal Assent -- (Apr. 24, 2014 outside of House sitting) [Comes into force April 24, 2014; SA 2014 c4]
- 9 Public Sector Pension Plans Amendment Act, 2014 (Horner)
First Reading -- 484 (Apr. 16, 2014 aft., passed)
Second Reading -- 520-21 (Apr. 17, 2014 aft.), 544-59 (Apr. 22, 2014 aft.), 625-31 (Apr. 23, 2014 aft.), 638-57 (Apr. 23, 2014 eve.), 711-17 (May 5, 2014 eve., passed), 717-18 (May 5, 2014 eve., referred to Standing Committee on Alberta's Economic Future)
- 10 Employment Pension (Private Sector) Plans Amendment Act, 2014 (Horner)
First Reading -- 484-85 (Apr. 16, 2014 aft., passed)
Second Reading -- 522 (Apr. 17, 2014 aft.), 559 (Apr. 22, 2014 aft.), 580-96 (Apr. 22, 2014 eve., passed on division), (May 5, 2014 eve., referred to Standing Committee on Alberta's Economic Future)
- 11* Child, Youth and Family Enhancement Amendment Act, 2014 (Bhullar)
First Reading -- 541 (Apr. 22, 2014 aft., passed)
Second Reading -- 623-25 (Apr. 23, 2014 aft.), 673-79 (Apr. 24, 2014 aft.), 718-20 (May 5, 2014 eve.), 737-40 (May 6, 2014 aft., passed)
Committee of the Whole -- 745-55 (May 6, 2014 aft.), 757-58 (May 6, 2014 eve.), 779-82 (May 7, 2014 aft., passed)
Third Reading -- 787 (May 7, 2014 aft., passed)
- 12 Statutes Amendment Act, 2014 (Campbell)
First Reading -- 693 (May 5, 2014 aft., passed)
Second Reading -- 735-37 (May 6, 2014 aft.), 740-45 (May 6, 2014 aft., passed)
Committee of the Whole -- 758 (May 6, 2014 eve., passed)
Third Reading -- 759 (May 6, 2014 eve.), 782-87 (May 7, 2014 aft., passed)
- 13 Condominium Property Amendment Act, 2014 (Olesen)
First Reading -- (May 6, 2014 aft., passed)
- 201 Agricultural Pests (Fusarium Head Blight) Amendment Act, 2014 (Kubinec)
First Reading -- 63 (Mar. 5, 2014 aft., passed)
Second Reading -- 123-34 (Mar. 10, 2014 aft., referred to Standing Committee on Resource Stewardship)
- 202 Independent Budget Officer Act (Forsyth)
First Reading -- 63 (Mar. 5, 2014 aft., passed)
Second Reading -- 264-79 (Mar. 17, 2014 aft., defeated on division)
- 203 Childhood Vision Assessment Act (Jablonski)
First Reading -- 249 (Mar. 13, 2014 aft., passed)
Second Reading -- 352-61 (Apr. 7, 2014 aft.), 444-50 (Apr. 14, 2014 aft., passed)
- 204 Freedom of Information and Protection of Privacy (MLA Public Interest Fee Waiver) Amendment Act, 2014 (Barnes)
First Reading -- 263-64 (Mar. 17, 2014 aft., passed)
Second Reading -- 450-52 (Apr. 14, 2014 aft.), 694-707 (May 5, 2014 aft., defeated on division)
- 205 Animal Protection (Prevention of Animal Distress and Neglect) Amendment Act, 2014 (Webber)
First Reading -- 417 (Apr. 10, 2014 aft., passed)

Pr1 Rosebud School of the Arts Amendment Act, 2014 (Hale)

First Reading -- 609 (Apr. 23, 2014 aft., passed)

Second Reading -- 737 (May 6, 2014 aft., passed)

Committee of the Whole -- 758 (May 6, 2014 eve., passed)

Third Reading -- 758 (May 6, 2014 eve., passed)

Pr2 Maskwachees Cultural College Amendment Act, 2014 (Calahasen)

First Reading -- 609 (Apr. 23, 2014 aft., passed)

Second Reading -- 737 (May 6, 2014 aft., passed)

Committee of the Whole -- 758 (May 6, 2014 eve., passed)

Third Reading -- 758-59 (May 6, 2014 eve., passed)

Table of Contents

Prayers	789
Introduction of Guests	789
Members' Statements
Glengarry School 50th Anniversary and Grand Opening of Hassan Seifeddine Literacy Learning Centre.....	791
Government Policies	791
Great Kids Awards 2014	800
National Day of Honour	800
Innovation in Alberta.....	800
Animal Protection Legislation.....	801
Oral Question Period
Federal Funding Programs.....	792
Federal Building Redevelopment Project Management.....	792, 793, 794
Premier's Term of Office	793
Personal Information Collection by Members	793
Union Dues Regulation	794
Student Assessment.....	795
Edmonton Sporting Event Hosting Capabilities	795
Care Facility Restrictions on Family Member Visits.....	796
Environmental Hearing Participation	796
Education Funding.....	797
University Executive Compensation	798
All-terrain Vehicles	798
Freehold Mineral Rights Legislation Consultation.....	799
Mental Health Service Procurement for Adults.....	799
Presenting Petitions	801
Tabling Returns and Reports	801
Tablings to the Clerk	801

If your address is incorrect, please clip on the dotted line, make any changes, and return to the address listed below. To facilitate the update, please attach the last mailing label along with your account number.

Subscriptions
Legislative Assembly Office
1001 Legislature Annex
9718 – 107 Street
EDMONTON, AB T5K 1E4

Last mailing label:

Account # _____

New information:

Name:

Address:

Subscription information:

Annual subscriptions to the paper copy of Alberta Hansard (including annual index) are $127.50 including GST if mailed once a week or $94.92 including GST if picked up at the subscription address below or if mailed through the provincial government interdepartmental mail system. Bound volumes are $121.70 including GST if mailed. Cheques should be made payable to the Minister of Finance.

Price per issue is $0.75 including GST.

Online access to Alberta Hansard is available through the Internet at www.assembly.ab.ca

Subscription inquiries:

Subscriptions
Legislative Assembly Office
1001 Legislature Annex
9718 – 107 St.
EDMONTON, AB T5K 1E4
Telephone: 780.427.1302

Other inquiries:

Managing Editor
Alberta Hansard
1001 Legislature Annex
9718 – 107 St.
EDMONTON, AB T5K 1E4
Telephone: 780.427.1875

Alberta Hansard 2014 (28th Legislature, Second Session) Index

The table below is a list to date of Alberta Hansard issue numbers, dates, and page ranges, with links to the text document. The index itself starts following in the table. Use the search capabilities of Adobe Acrobat to search the index and find the topic you are interested in; note the page number(s) associated with it. Then click on the page number range in the table below to open the issue.

NOTE: Tabled documents, indicated in the index as (tabled), are listed in the Sessional Papers for this session.

Alberta Hansard page and issue number information (28th Leg. / 2nd Sess. 2014)

Issue No.	Date	Pages
1 (Speech from the Throne).....	March 3 aft.	1-5
2.....	March 4 aft.	7-42
3.....	March 4 eve.	43-50
3.....	March 5 aft.	51-86
4 (Budget Address).....	March 6 aft.	87-106
5.....	March 10 aft.	107-142
6.....	March 10 eve.	143-160
6.....	March 11 aft.	161-190
7.....	March 11 eve.	191-198
7.....	March 12 aft.	199-230
8.....	March 12 eve.	231-236
8.....	March 13 aft.	237-250
9.....	March 17 aft.	251-288
10.....	March 18 aft.	289-302
11.....	March 19 aft.	303-316
12.....	March 20 aft.	317-332
[Constituency weeks]
13.....	April 7 aft.	333-368
14.....	April 8 aft.	369-384
15.....	April 9 aft.	385-404
16.....	April 10 aft.	405-422
17.....	April 14 aft.	423-458
18.....	April 15 aft.	459-472
19.....	April 16 aft.	473-504
20.....	April 17 aft.	505-528
21.....	April 22 aft.	529-562
22.....	April 22 eve.	563-596
22.....	April 23 aft.	597-632
23.....	April 23 eve.	633-658
23.....	April 24 aft.	659-680
[Constituency week]
24.....	May 5 aft.	681-710
25.....	May 5 eve.	711-720
25.....	May 6 aft.	721-756
26.....	May 6 eve.	757-760
26.....	May 7 aft.	761-788
27.....	May 8 aft.	789-802
..... Spring sitting: 27 days, 8 evenings

Main Estimates 2014-15

The main estimates (budget) for 2015 are being considered in the legislative policy committees. Below is a list of ministries and the schedule of debate. Links to transcripts are provided as they become available. Executive Council estimates are scheduled for two hours; ministry debates are scheduled for three hours.

Ministry	Committee	Meeting Date
Executive Council	Alberta's Economic Future	March 20 morning
Aboriginal Relations	Resource Stewardship	March 17 evening
Agriculture and Rural Development	Alberta's Economic Future	March 18 afternoon
Culture	Families and Communities	April 15 evening
Education	Families and Communities	April 8 evening
Energy	Resource Stewardship	April 9 evening
Environment and Sustainable Resource Development	Resource Stewardship	March 18 afternoon
Health	Families and Communities	March 19 afternoon
Human Services	Families and Communities	April 9 afternoon
Infrastructure	Alberta's Economic Future	March 19 evening
Innovation and Advanced Education	Alberta's Economic Future	April 8 afternoon
International and Intergovernmental Relations	Alberta's Economic Future	April 15 afternoon
Jobs, Skills, Training and Labour	Alberta's Economic Future	April 14 evening
Justice and Solicitor General	Families and Communities	April 15 afternoon
Municipal Affairs	Resource Stewardship	April 8 afternoon
Service Alberta	Families and Communities	March 18 evening
Tourism, Parks and Recreation	Alberta's Economic Future	April 9 afternoon
Transportation	Resource Stewardship	April 7 evening
Treasury Board and Finance	Resource Stewardship	March 19 afternoon

- 3P
See Public-private partnerships (P3s)
- 4-H clubs
 Premier's award winner Michelle Hoover, members' statements on ... McDonald 262–63
- 10-10 plan
See Municipalities – Finance: Official Opposition position, 10-10 plan
- 20-year strategic plan
See Strategic plan, provincial: 20-year plan
- 50/70 program (plan to build 50 and modernize 70 schools)
See Schools – Construction
- AAMDC
See Alberta Association of Municipal Districts and Counties; Municipalities
- ABC
See Government agencies, boards, and commissions
- Abdurahman, Muriel Ross
See Members of the Legislative Assembly: Former MLA Muriel Ross Abdurahman, memorial tribute
- Aboriginal children
 Adoption and foster care, kinship placements See Kinship care
 Programs and services ... Speech from the Throne 3
- Aboriginal children – Education
 Memorandum of understanding, progress on (Written Question 12: accepted as amended) ... Johnson, J. 441; Swann 441
 Provincial strategy ... Calahasen 395; Johnson, J. 395
- Aboriginal children – Protective services
See Children – Protective services
- Aboriginal colleges – Law and legislation
See Maskawachees Cultural College Amendment Act, 2014
- Aboriginal Consultation Levy Act (Bill 22, 2013)
 General remarks ... Bilous 548; Swann 715
- Aboriginal peoples
 Family supports ... Bhullar 688; Swann 688
 Programs and services ... Horner 106; Mason 337; Sherman 337
 Programs and services, federal/provincial jurisdiction ... Swann 235
- Aboriginal peoples – Claims
 Land claims ... Smith 64; Speech from the Throne 3
- Aboriginal peoples – Consultation
 General remarks ... Smith 64; Speech from the Throne 3
- Aboriginal peoples – History
 Interpretive programs See Writing-on-Stone provincial park
- Aboriginal peoples – Housing
 Disaster recovery program funding ... Bilous 82; Oberle 82
- Aboriginal peoples' residential school experiences
See Truth and Reconciliation Commission
- Aboriginal Relations ministry
See Ministry of Aboriginal Relations
- Aboriginal women – Violence against
 Murders and disappearances ... Allen 338–39, 428, 534; Denis 534; Oberle 428, 534
 Murders and disappearances, members' statements on ... Calahasen 608–9
- Aboriginal youth probation services
See Probation: Services for aboriginal youth
- Abuse of animals – Law and legislation
See Animal Protection (Prevention of Animal Distress and Neglect) Amendment Act, 2014 (Bill 205)
- Abuse of children in residential schools
See Truth and Reconciliation Commission
- Access to information law
See Freedom of Information and Protection of Privacy Act (FOIP Act)
- Access to the Future Act amendments (proposed)
See Savings Management Act (Bill 1)
- Access to the future fund
 Unfreezing of fund ... Horner 104
- Accountability, Transparency and Transformation, associate minister for See Ministry of Service Alberta: Associate Minister, Accountability, Transparency and Transformation
- ACH
See Alberta Children's hospital
- ACP
See Alberta College of Pharmacists
- Acute health care system
See Health care; specific hospitals
- Acute health care system – Capacity issues
See Hospitals – Capacity issues
- Acute health care system – Emergency services – Capacity issues
See Hospitals – Emergency services – Capacity issues
- Acute health care system – Strathmore
See Strathmore community hospital
- Addiction – Treatment
 Funding ... Eggen 305; Sherman 181
- Addiction and mental health strategy
 [See also Mental health]
 Report by Cam Wild ... Forsyth 37
- Adjournment of the Legislature
See Legislative Assembly of Alberta – Adjournment
- Administration of Estates Act amendments (proposed)
See Estate Administration Act (Bill 4)
- Adolescent psychiatric care
See Children – Mental health services
- Adoption
 Provincial policy ... Bhullar 323; Calahasen 322–23
- Adoption, kinship-based
See Kinship care
- Adult Interdependent Relationships Act
 Gender references [See also Statutes Amendment Act, 2014 (Bill 12)]; Notley 745
 Harmonization with federal legislation ... Swann 783
- Advanced education
See Postsecondary education
- Advanced education – Admissions (enrolment)
See Postsecondary educational institutions – Admissions (enrolment)
- Advanced education – Finance
See Postsecondary educational institutions – Finance
- Advanced education ministry
See Ministry of Innovation and Advanced Education
- Advanced technology
See Research and development
- Advisory Council on Alberta-Ukraine Relations
 General remarks ... Redford 9
- Advocate, Child and Youth
See Child and Youth Advocate

- AED (Automated external defibrillators)
See Defibrillators
- AEDA
See Alberta Economic Development Authority
- AEMERA
See Alberta Environmental Monitoring, Evaluation and Reporting Agency
- AER
See Alberta Energy Regulator
- AFF
See Access to the future fund
- Affordable housing – Edson
 Habitat for Humanity project ... Speech from the Throne 2
- Afghanistan, Canadian Forces mission
See Canadian Forces: End of mission in Afghanistan, members' statements on
- AFL
See Alberta Federation of Labour
- AFRRCS (Alberta First Responder Radio Communications System)
See Emergency services (first responders): Radio communications system (AFRRCS)
- Agencies, boards, and commissions, government
See Government agencies, boards, and commissions
- Aging population
See Seniors
- Agreement on internal trade, governing legislation
See Statutes Amendment Act, 2014 (Bill 12)
- Agricultural credit
 Advance payment program ... Olson 539; Rogers 539
- Agricultural exports
See Farm produce – Export
- Agricultural Pests (Fusarium Head Blight) Amendment Act, 2014 (Bill 201)
 First reading ... Kubinec 63
 Second reading ... Barnes 128–29; Casey 125–26; Donovan 124–25; Fenske 132; Hale 130–31; Jansen 131–32; Jeneroux 129–30; Khan 127–28; Kubinec 123–24; Strankman 126–27
 Second reading, motion to refer bill to Standing Committee on Resource Stewardship (referral amendment) (Fenske: carried) ... Blakeman 134; Campbell 134; Donovan 133–34; Fenske 132
- Agricultural products – Export
See Farm produce – Export
- Agriculture
 Provincial programs ... Donovan 27
 Provincial programs, advance payment See Agricultural credit
- Agriculture – Research
 Fusarium graminearum studies ... Khan 129
 General remarks ... Jansen 131–32
 Genetics research ... Johnson, L. 540
- Agriculture – Research – Finance
See Agriculture and food innovation fund
- Agriculture – Safety measures
 Canadian Agricultural Safety Week, members' statements on ... Casey 163
- Agriculture and food innovation fund
 Funding, transfer from Alberta heritage savings trust fund ... Horner 217; Swann 186
 General remarks ... Anderson 49; Donovan 29; Hancock 148; Horner 47, 48, 105; Redford 5; Speech from the Throne 3
- Agriculture and food innovation fund (continued)
 Governing legislation See Savings Management Act (Bill 1)
- Agriculture and Rural Development ministry
See Ministry of Agriculture and Rural Development
- Agriculture Literacy Week
 Members' statements ... Kubinec 62
- Agrium Western Event Centre
 Members' statements ... Fritz 434
- AHCIP
 Physiotherapy coverage for seniors See Seniors: Physiotherapy services
- AHF
See Airdrie Health Foundation
- AHFSER (Alberta Heritage Foundation for Science and Engineering Research)
See Alberta ingenuity fund
- AHR (assisted human reproduction)
See Human reproductive technology: In vitro fertilization
- AHS
See Alberta Health Services (authority)
- AHSTF
See Alberta heritage savings trust fund
- AHSTF, Standing Committee on
See Committee on the Alberta Heritage Savings Trust Fund, Standing
- AI – Bio Solutions
See Alberta Innovates – Bio Solutions
- Airdrie (city) health care
See Health care – Airdrie
- Airdrie (constituency)
 Member's personal and family history ... Anderson 284
- Airdrie Health Foundation
 Members' statements ... Anderson 531
- Airplanes, government
See Government airplanes
- Airports
 Open skies policy ... Speech from the Throne 3
- Airports – Edmonton
See Edmonton International Airport
- AISH
See Assured income for the severely handicapped
- Áísínai'pi
See Writing-on-Stone provincial park
- AIT, governing legislation
See Statutes Amendment Act, 2014 (Bill 12)
- Alberta – History
 Edmonton history See Edmonton – History
 Energy history See Energy industries – History
 Klein administration ... Fawcett 617–18; Forsyth 35, 264; Fox 277; Hehr 224; Horner 233, 272
 Lacombe history See Lacombe: Members' statements
 Legislative history ... Speaker, The 4
 Lougheed administration, endowment establishment ... Horner 233; Mason 637–38
 Lougheed administration, oil sands development ... Swann 235–36
 Residential school history See Truth and Reconciliation Commission
 Women's rights See Famous Five
- Alberta – Population
 Population growth ... Donovan 619; Fawcett 618; Horner 102, 103; Speech from the Throne 2

- Alberta Association of Municipal Districts and Counties
 General remarks ... Speech from the Throne 2
 Meetings with Transportation minister ... Donovan 260;
Drysdale 260
- Alberta Association of Optometrists
 Recommendations on Bill 203 See Childhood Vision Assessment Act (Bill 203): Amendments proposed by the Alberta Association of Optometrists
- Alberta Children's hospital
 Neonatal intensive care unit ... Speech from the Throne 2
- Alberta College of Pharmacists
 Standards of practice re loyalty/reward programs ...
Horne 606–7; Xiao 606
- Alberta Corporate Tax Act
 Proposed amendments See Tax Statutes Amendment Act, 2014 (Bill 7)
- Alberta Economic Development Authority
 Members' statements ... Dorward 319
- Alberta Energy Regulator
 Approval of bitumen extraction near leaks ... Blakeman 664–65; Campbell 665; McQueen 665
 Funding ... Anderson 68; Horner 69; Hughes 74;
Notley 74
 General remarks ... Speech from the Throne 2
 Review process ... Wilson 31
 Sanctions imposed for pipeline spills ... Blakeman 95;
Campbell 95
 Staff, full-time equivalents ... Smith 178
 Start-up costs, funding from supplementary supply ...
Dallas 143
- Alberta Environmental Monitoring, Evaluation and Reporting Agency
 Chairman of the board appointment ... Blakeman 509;
Campbell 509
 Funding ... Horner 106
- Alberta Environmental Monitoring Board
 Funding ... Horner 106
 General remarks ... Speech from the Throne 2
- Alberta Federation of Labour
 Information request under FOIP to Ministry of Finance ...
Griffiths 664; Smith 664
 Response to Bill 9, Public Sector Pension Plans
 Amendment Act, 2014 ... Smith 639–40
- Alberta Fusarium Action Committee
 General remarks ... Donovan 133; Jeneroux 129–30
- Alberta future fund
 Fund utilization ... Horner 217, 308–9; Kennedy-Glans 308–9, 567; Notley 226–27
 General remarks ... Anderson 49; Eggen 184; Hancock 148; Horner 47, 48, 105
 Governing legislation See Savings Management Act (Bill 1)
- Alberta government offices
 International offices ... Mason 220
 International offices, funding for ... Bilous 578
 International offices, members' statements on ... DeLong 470
- Alberta Hansard
 Remarks off the record ... Anderson 348; Speaker, The 348, 351
 Remarks off the record, point of order on ... Anderson 351; Campbell 351; McIver 351; Speaker, The 351
- Alberta health care insurance plan
 Physiotherapy coverage for seniors See Seniors: Physiotherapy services
- Alberta Health Services (authority)
 Administration costs ... Horne 306; Smith 177, 306
 Appearance before Public Accounts Committee (proposed) ... Anderson 464; Forsyth 464
 Appearance before Public Accounts Committee (proposed), Speaker's statement on questions to a committee chair ... Speaker, The 469
 Auditor General audits ... Hancock 463; Sherman 463
 Centralization of services ... Forsyth 374–75; Horne 371–72, 374–75; Smith 371–72
 Communications budget ... Forsyth 375; Horne 372–73, 375; Smith 372
 Computer purchases ... Smith 67
 Consulting contracts ... Anderson 375; Forsyth 374–75, 391–92, 411, 511; Hancock 511; Horne 371–72, 374–75, 376, 391–92, 393, 411; Smith 371–72; Towle 393; Wilson 623
 Consulting contracts, Auditor General review ... Forsyth 464; Hancock 461–62, 464, 476; Smith 461–62, 476
 Consulting contracts, sole-source ... Forsyth 464, 479; Hancock 461–62, 464, 475–76, 479; Smith 461–62, 475–76
 Consulting contracts, sole-source, members' statements on ... Smith 475
 Consulting contracts for former executives ... Forsyth 391–92, 411–12; Hancock 388, 475–76; Horne 387, 391–92, 411–12; Smith 387–88, 475–76
 Consulting contracts for former executives, members' statements on ... Smith 396
 Executive compensation ... Horne 292; Smith 292
 Official administrator, exclusion of liability ... Campbell 736
 Official Opposition caucus information requests under FOIP to See Ministry of Health: Information requests under FOIP from
- Alberta Health Services (authority) service delivery
See Health care
- Alberta Heritage Foundation for Science and Engineering Research
See Alberta ingenuity fund
- Alberta heritage fund for medical research
 General remarks ... Anderson 49; Hancock 147; Horner 48
 Research funded ... Eggen 233; Horner 233
- Alberta heritage savings trust fund
 Additions to fund ... Anderson 50
 Comparison to Norwegian fund ... Anderson 50; Swann 189
 Estimated value of fund if 30 per cent of nonrenewable resource revenue had been transferred since 1976 (Written Question 7: defeated) ... Hehr 438–39; Horner 438–39
 Fund utilization ... Anderson 49; Bilous 151; Brown 153–54; Eggen 232–33; Fawcett 148–49; Hehr 85, 154, 222–23; Horner 48, 217, 234; Redford 4–5; Swann 186, 232
 Fund utilization, Official Opposition position on ... Smith 177
 Net income of fund ... Horner 48
 Review of fund (Motion Other than Government Motion 519, 2012) ... Fawcett 148–49
 Transfer to scholarship fund ... Horner 48
 Value of fund ... Hancock 148; Horner 105
- Alberta Heritage Scholarship Act amendments (proposed)
See Savings Management Act (Bill 1)
- Alberta heritage scholarship fund
 Enhancement for skilled trades promotion ... Horner 47–48

Alberta heritage scholarship fund (continued)

- Fund utilization ... Swann 186
- General remarks ... Allen 157; Anderson 49; Hancock 147, 148; Horner 105, 233; Redford 5; Speech from the Throne 3
- Governing legislation See Savings Management Act (Bill 1)

Alberta Human Rights Act

- Application in schools ... Hehr 344, 362; Johnson, J. 344–45
- Court interpretations and decisions ... Denis 282; Notley 283
- Parental rights provisions ... Blakeman 194
- Repeal of section 3(1)(b) (Motion Other than Government Motion 502: defeated) ... Anderson 284; Bilous 286–87; Blakeman 286; Denis 281–82; McIver 286; Notley 282–83; Oberle 286; Saskiw 280–81, 287; Sherman 283–84; Woo-Paw 285
- Repeal of section 3(1)(b) (Motion Other than Government Motion 502: defeated), division ... 287
- Repeal of section 3(1)(b) (Motion Other than Government Motion 502: defeated), opposition to ... Bilous 286–87
- Section 3 complaints (discrimination re publications and notices) ... Denis 281–82; Notley 282–83
- Section 3(1)(b), Premier Redford's remarks on ... Saskiw 280; Sherman 284

Alberta Human Rights Commission

- Complaints received ... Denis 281–82
- Mandate ... Blakeman 286; Woo-Paw 285

Alberta ingenuity fund

- General remarks ... Hancock 147; Horner 233

Alberta Innovates – Bio Solutions

- Research activities ... Jansen 131–32

Alberta institute for research and commercialization (proposed)

- General remarks ... Speech from the Throne 3

Alberta Law Reform Institute

- Recommendations on estate legislation ... Notley 192–93

Alberta lottery fund

- See Lottery fund*

Alberta Medical Association

- See Physicians*

Alberta Personal Income Tax Act

- Proposed amendments ... Dallas 488

Alberta Petroleum Marketing Commission

- General remarks ... Speech from the Throne 2
- North West upgrading project participation See Bitumen – Upgrading: North West project cost

Alberta Registries

- See Registry services*

Alberta Regulations

- Cervid farming See Cervid farming – Regulation
- Energy industries See Electric power – Regulation; Energy industries – Regulation
- Financial regulations See Securities – Regulation
- Financial regulations, law and legislation See Securities Amendment Act, 2014 (Bill 3)
- Legislative amendments See Statutes Amendment Act, 2014 (Bill 12): Regulatory provisions

Alberta Research and Innovation Authority

- See Alberta Innovates – Bio Solutions*

Alberta Securities Commission

- [See also Securities – Regulation; Securities Amendment Act, 2014 (Bill 3)]

Alberta Securities Commission (continued)

- Oversight of derivatives market ... Anderson 144; Dallas 143; Horner 218

Alberta seniors' benefit program

- See Seniors: Benefit program*

Alberta Treasury Branches Act

- Amendments proposed to change gender references See Statutes Amendment Act, 2014 (Bill 12)

Alberta Union of Provincial Employees

- Contract negotiations See Public service: Collective agreements, negotiations
- Meetings with Finance minister on Bill 9 ... Horner 714

Alberta Urban Municipalities Association

- General remarks ... Speech from the Throne 2

Alberta Utilities Commission

- Mandate See Electric power – Regulation
- Oversight role ... Anglin 41
- Response to report on TransAlta electric power economic withholding/market manipulation ... Anglin 15–16, 41, 56, 112–13; Kennedy-Glans 14, 15–16, 56, 112–13; Lemke 14
- Review of proposed sale of AltaLink See AltaLink: Purchase bid by Berkshire Hathaway Inc., approval process

Alberta Works

- Caseloads (Written Questions 28: accepted) ... Swann 437
- Client benefits ... Hehr 223

Alberta Youth Secretariat

- Youth engagement think tank, members' statements on ... Jeneroux 100

Alberta's Economic Future, Standing Committee on See Committee on Alberta's Economic Future, StandingAlcoholic addiction – Treatment

- See Addiction – Treatment*

Alcoholic beverage industry

- See Brewing industry; Distilling industry*

ALERT program

- See Organized crime: Initiatives against, ALERT program funding*

All-terrain vehicles

- Driver education ... Griffiths 799; McDonald 798; Starke 798
- Licenses ... Griffiths 799; McDonald 798
- Safety, members' statements on ... Swann 671
- Trail development and maintenance ... McDonald 798; Starke 798

ALRI

- See Alberta Law Reform Institute*

AltaLink

- Income on transmission lines ... Anglin 687; McQueen 687
- Members' statements ... Anglin 722–23
- Purchase bid by Berkshire Hathaway Inc. ... Anglin 687, 722–23; Dallas 688; Mason 726; McQueen 684, 687, 726; Smith 684
- Purchase bid by Berkshire Hathaway Inc., approval process ... Hale 688; McQueen 688

Alternative energy sources

- See Renewable energy sources*

Alzheimer Society of Alberta and Northwest Territories

- 3-year grant ... Horne 686

- Alzheimer's disease
Fundraising, Face Off hockey tournament, members' statements on ... Young 507
- AMA (Alberta Medical Association)
See Physicians
- Ambulances
See Emergency medical services (ambulances, etc.)
- Animal Protection (Prevention of Animal Distress and Neglect) Amendment Act, 2014 (Bill 205)
First reading ... Webber 417
Members' statements ... Webber 801
- Animals
Deer and elk farming See Cervid farming – Regulation
Wildlife See Bighorn sheep; Caribou; Grizzly bear
- Annexation of land
See Municipalities: Land annexation process
- Anthony Henday Drive
Completion ... Horner 103; Speech from the Throne 2
Northeast portion, completion ... Drysdale 327; Olesen 327
Public-private partnership (P3) construction ... Drysdale 327; Olesen 327
- Anticipation
See Orders of the Day (procedure): Questions in anticipation
- Apartment houses – Construction
Home warranty program coverage See New Home Buyer Protection Amendment Act, 2014 (Bill 6)
- Apprenticeship training
Journeyman certificates, delays in ... Hancock 244; Olesen 243–44
Scholarships ... Hancock 244; Olesen 244; Speech from the Throne 3
- Appropriation Act, 2014 (Bill 8)
First reading ... Dallas 488; Horner 488
Second reading ... Anderson 523–25; Blakeman 527; Eggen 525–27; Horner 519–20
Committee ... Bilous 561–62, 573–78; Blakeman 559–61; Eggen 567–69, 575–76; Hehr 565–66, 571–72; Kennedy-Glans 566–67; Mason 578–80; Notley 563–65, 570–71; Swann 569–70, 573
Third reading ... Bilous 621; Blakeman 614–15; Donovan 618–19; Eggen 615–16; Fawcett 616–18; Hehr 634–36; Horner 610–12; Lukaszuk 638; Mason 636–38; Notley 619–22; Smith 633–34; Towle 612–14; Wilson 622–23
Third reading, division ... 638
Royal Assent ... 24 April 2014 (outside of House sitting)
- Appropriation (Interim Supply) Act, 2014 (Bill 5)
First reading ... Horner 119
Second reading ... Anderson 174; Denis 190; Eggen 189–90; Horner 174; Swann 188–89
Committee ... Bilous 228–29; Notley 219–20; Saskiw 218–19
Third reading ... Horner 230
Royal Assent ... 13 March 2014 (outside of House sitting)
- Appropriation (Supplementary Supply) Act, 2014 (Bill 2)
First reading ... Horner 84
Second reading ... Bilous 155–56; Dallas 143; Hehr 154–55
Committee ... Eggen 187–88
Third reading ... Deputy Speaker 234; Horner 218
Royal Assent ... 13 March 2014 (outside of House sitting)
- Aquifers – Monitoring
See Hydraulic fracturing: Groundwater monitoring
- Arabic language instruction
See Schools – Edmonton: Glengarry school 50th anniversary and opening of Hassan Seifeddine Literacy Learning Centre
- ARD
See Ministry of Agriculture and Rural Development
- Arenas – Sylvan Lake
Kraft Hockeyville award, members' statements on ... Towle 381
- Arendz, Mark
See Paralympic Winter Games: Alberta medallists, members' statements on
- ARIA (Alberta Research and Innovation Authority)
See Alberta Innovates – Bio Solutions
- Armed Forces, Canadian
See Canadian Forces
- Armenia
Genocide, members' statements on ... Jablonski 483; Kalagian-Jablonski 682
- Artificial insemination
See Human reproductive technology: In vitro fertilization
- Arts and culture
Funding ... Blakeman 195; Notley 195
Industry sustainability ... Blakeman 614
- Arts and culture – Calgary
See Film and television industry – Calgary
- Arts and culture – Edmonton
General remarks ... Blakeman 194
- Arts and culture – Lacombe
See Lacombe: Members' statements
- Arts and culture – Rosebud
See Rosebud School of the Arts Amendment Act, 2014 (Bill Pr. 1)
- Arts and culture – Ukraine
See Ukraine
- Artspace Independent Living, employee wages
See Home-care services – Edmonton: Artspace Independent Living employee wages
- ASC
See Alberta Securities Commission
- Assisted human reproduction
See Human reproductive technology
- Association of Municipal Districts and Counties
See Alberta Association of Municipal Districts and Counties; Municipalities
- Association of Optometrists, Alberta
Recommendations on Bill 203 See Childhood Vision Assessment Act (Bill 203): Amendments proposed by the Alberta Association of Optometrists
- Assurance for Students Act (Bill 26, 2013)
General remarks ... Swann 715
- Assured income for the severely handicapped
Application and appeal wait times ... Bhullar 431; Towle 431
Client benefits ... Bhullar 729; Swann 729
Client eligibility for legal aid ... Denis 377; Notley 377
Funding ... Bhardwaj 78; Hehr 77–78
Wait times, members' statements on ... Allen 416
- ATB Financial – Law and legislation
Amendments proposed to change gender references See Statutes Amendment Act, 2014 (Bill 12)

- ATCO Electric Ltd.
Response in January 2014 northern Alberta windstorm ... Goudreau 163
- Athabasca dialysis service
See Kidney dialysis – Athabasca
- Athabasca River
Water quality ... Blakeman 258; Campbell 258
- ATS (air transportation service)
See Government airplanes
- Attorney General
Definition of functions ... Campbell 735
- Attorney General ministry
See Ministry of Justice and Solicitor General
- ATVs
See All-terrain vehicles
- AUC
See Alberta Utilities Commission
- Auditor General
Audit committee ... Horner 266
Audits, Alberta Health Services See Alberta Health Services (authority): Auditor General audits
Audits, Alberta Health Services consulting contracts See Alberta Health Services (authority): Consulting contracts, Auditor General review
Audits, government airplane usage policy See Government airplanes: Usage policy, Auditor General review
Mandate ... Blakeman 267; Horner 265–66; Smith 177
Remarks on budget documents ... Anderson 604; Blakeman 614–15; Horner 604, 663; Notley 619–20; Smith 633, 663
- Auditor General's office
Funding ... Anderson 525
Main estimates 2014-2015 See Legislative offices: Estimates of supply 2014-2015 vote
- AUMA
See Alberta Urban Municipalities Association
- AUPE
See Alberta Union of Provincial Employees
- AUPE contract negotiations
See Public service: Collective agreements, negotiations
- Auxiliary hospitals
See Long-term care facilities (nursing homes/auxiliary hospitals)
- Avalanches
Emergency prevention and response ... Pastoor 346; Starke 346
- Baby Annie, death of
See Children – Protective services: Death of newborn
- Balzac – Roads
See Highway 2: Balzac overpass
- Banff Centre
General remarks ... Casey 397
Partnership with University of Alberta See Peter Lougheed Leadership Institute
- Barberio, Ryan
See Office of the Premier: Former staff member's government employment
- Basil
Fusarium presence ... Jansen 131
- Bassano continuing care centre
Members' statements ... Hale 262
- Bates, Michelle, Jeff, and Lane
See Airdrie Health Foundation
- Bears
See Grizzly bear
- Beef – Export – United States
Mandatory country of origin labelling ... Donovan 28; Smith 65; Speech from the Throne 2
- Beet farming
See Sugar beet industry
- Bentley – Roads
See Highway 12: Bypass at Bentley
- Berkshire Hathaway Inc.
AltaLink purchase bid See AltaLink
- Bethany Care Society
Retiring president and CEO Greer Black, members' statements on ... Fritz 263
- Bethany Didsbury care centre
See Long-term care facilities (nursing homes/auxiliary hospitals) – Didsbury
- Beverly centennial
See Edmonton – History: Beverly centennial, members' statements on
- Bighorn sheep
Management plan ... Brown 392; Campbell 392
- Bills, government (procedure)
Bill 8, Appropriation Act, 2014, division at third reading ... 638
Bill 9, Public Sector Pension Plans Amendment Act, 2014, division at second reading ... 717
Bill 9, Public Sector Pension Plans Amendment Act, 2014, referral to Standing Committee on Alberta's Economic Future (Horner: carried) ... 717–18
Bill 9, Public Sector Pension Plans Amendment Act, 2014, referral to Standing Committee on Alberta's Economic Future, motion on (Horner: carried) ... 717–18
Bill 10, Employment Pension (Private Sector) Plans Amendment Act, 2014, division at second reading ... 596
Bill 10, Employment Pension (Private Sector) Plans Amendment Act, 2014, referral to Standing Committee on Alberta's Economic Future, motion on (Horner: carried) ... 718
Bill 11, Child, Youth and Family Enhancement Amendment Act, 2014, committee amendment A6 (Towle: carried unanimously), division ... 757
Bill 12, Statutes Amendment Act, 2014, request to proceed to third reading (unanimous consent granted) ... 758–59
Consideration of amendments ... Bilous 782
Miscellaneous statutes amendment acts ... Blakeman 740, 785–86
Omnibus bills/statute amendment acts ... Bilous 782; Blakeman 740; Eggen 759; Jansen 772; Notley 771; Swann 783
Opposition and public input and feedback ... Barnes 47
Speaking order ... Speaker, The 612
- Bills, government (current session)
Information about any of the following bills may be found by looking under the title of the bill.
Bill 1 Savings Management Act (Bill 1)
Bill 2 Appropriation (Supplementary Supply) Act, 2014 (Bill 2)
Bill 3 Securities Amendment Act, 2014 (Bill 3)
Bill 4 Estate Administration Act (Bill 4)
Bill 5 Appropriation (Interim Supply) Act, 2014 (Bill 5)
Bill 6 New Home Buyer Protection Amendment Act, 2014 (Bill 6)
Bill 7 Tax Statutes Amendment Act, 2014 (Bill 7)
Bill 8 Appropriation Act, 2014 (Bill 8)

Bills, government (current session) (continued)

- Bill 9 Public Sector Pension Plans Amendment Act, 2014 (Bill 9)
- Bill 10 Employment Pension (Private Sector) Plans Amendment Act, 2014 (Bill 10)
- Bill 11 Child, Youth and Family Enhancement Amendment Act, 2014 (Bill 11)
- Bill 12 Statutes Amendment Act, 2014 (Bill 12)
- Bill 13 Condominium Property Amendment Act, 2014 (Bill 13)

Bills, government (previous session, 2012-2014)

Information about any of the following bills may be found by looking under the title of the bill.

- Bill 17 Municipal Government Amendment Act, 2013 (Bill 17, 2013)
- Bill 22 Aboriginal Consultation Levy Act (Bill 22, 2013)
- Bill 26 Assurance for Students Act (Bill 26, 2013)
- Bill 45 Public Sector Services Continuation Act (Bill 45, 2013)
- Bill 46 Public Service Salary Restraint Act (Bill 46, 2013)

Bills, government (previous session, 2009)

Information about any of the following bills may be found by looking under the title of the bill.

- Bill 19 Land Assembly Project Area Act (Bill 19, 2009)
- Bill 44 Human Rights, Citizenship and Multiculturalism Amendment Act, 2009 (Bill 44, 2009)
- Bill 50 Electric Statutes Amendment Act (Bill 50, 2009)

Bills, government (previous session, 2000)

Information about any of the following bills may be found by looking under the title of the bill.

- Bill 11 Health Care Protection Act (Bill 11, 2000)

Bills, private (procedure)

- Bills Pr. 1 and Pr. 2, request for unanimous consent for third reading immediately following Committee of the Whole (granted) ... Campbell 758

Bills, private (current session)

Information about any of the following bills may be found by looking under the title of the bill.

- Pr. 1 Rosebud School of the Arts Amendment Act, 2014 (Bill Pr. 1)
- Pr. 2 Maskawachees Cultural College Amendment Act, 2014 (Bill Pr. 2)

Bills, private members' public (procedure)

- Bill 201, Agricultural Pests (Fusarium Head Blight) Amendment Act, 2014 (Bill 201), amendment to refer to Standing Committee on Resource Stewardship (carried) ... 132-34
- Bill 202, Independent Budget Officer Act, division on second reading ... 279
- Bill 204, Freedom of Information and Protection of Privacy (MLA Public Interest Fee Waiver) Amendment Act, 2014 (Bill 204), second reading division ... 707
- Rotation of speakers, clarification on ... Anderson 697; Speaker, The 697

Bills, private members' public (current session)

Information about any of the following bills may be found by looking under the title of the bill.

- Bill 201 Agricultural Pests (Fusarium Head Blight) Amendment Act, 2014 (Bill 201)
- Bill 202 Independent Budget Officer Act (Bill 202)
- Bill 203 Childhood Vision Assessment Act (Bill 203)
- Bill 204 Freedom of Information and Protection of Privacy (MLA Public Interest Fee Waiver) Amendment Act, 2014 (Bill 204)
- Bill 205 Animal Protection (Prevention of Animal Distress and Neglect) Amendment Act, 2014 (Bill 205)

Bills, private members' public (previous session, 2012-2014)

- Bill 207, Human Tissue and Organ Donation Amendment Act, 2013 See Organ and tissue donation; Organ and tissue transplantation

Biogénie

See Business enterprises – Sherwood Park

Birds

See Sage grouse

Bisexual persons

See Gay, lesbian, bisexual, or transgender persons

Bitumen – Royalties

Bitumen royalty in kind (BRIK) program ... Mason 220

Bitumen – Upgrading

New Democratic opposition position ... Mason 38
North West project cost ... Bikman 668-69; Horner 668-69
Provincial strategy ... Bilous 156; Sherman 33

Bitumen development

See Oil sands development

Bitumen development – Environmental aspects

See Oil sands development – Environmental aspects

Black, Greer

See Bethany Care Society

Blackfalds – Schools – Construction

See Schools – Construction – Blackfalds

Boards, government

See Government agencies, boards, and commissions

Boards of education

See School boards

Bonds

International sales ... Horner 325; Luan 325

Bonnyville – Choirs

See Choirs – Bonnyville

Bonnyville-Cold Lake (constituency) – Infrastructure

See Capital projects – Bonnyville-Cold Lake (constituency)

Bonnyville-Cold Lake (constituency) – Labour force planning

See Labour force planning – Bonnyville-Cold Lake (constituency)

Bonnyville-Cold Lake (constituency) – Police

See Royal Canadian Mounted Police – Bonnyville-Cold Lake (constituency)

Borrowing, government

See Capital projects: Infrastructure financing

Bow River boat launch closure

See Emergency services (first responders) – Strathmore: Search and rescue river access

Boyle – Health care

See Health care – Boyle

Bragg Creek – Water management

See Water management – Bragg Creek

Brewing industry

Craft breweries, members' statements on ... Hehr 263
Tax rates for small brewers, documents on proposed amendments to (Motion for a Return 5: defeated) ... Hehr 443-44; Horner 444

Bridges

Heavy load bridges ... Drysdale 432; Fenske 432

Bridges – Maintenance and repair

Cost to municipalities ... Donovan 378; Drysdale 378; Weadick 378
Funding ... Donovan 260; Drysdale 260

Bridges – Maintenance and repair (continued)

Long-term maintenance ... Bilous 574

Members' statements ... Donovan 328

Bridges – Watino

Smoky River bridge demolition ... Campbell 261;
Goudreau 261

British Columbia – Pipelines

See Pipelines – Construction: Framework agreement with British Columbia

British Columbia – Property tax

See Property tax – British Columbia

British Columbia-Alberta-Saskatchewan trade agreement

Governing legislation See Statutes Amendment Act, 2014 (Bill 12)

Brownfield remediation

See Reclamation of land

Budget

Advance briefing participants ... Notley 268

Opposition access to information ... Wilson 273–74

Budget 2013-2014

Budget cuts ... Bilous 151

General remarks ... Eggen 43; Horner 102, 105; Mason 39; Sherman 179–80; Wilson 31, 38

Budget 2014-2015

Advertising ... Horner 426–27; Smith 426

Budget cuts ... Eggen 43; Wilson 623

Budget documents, financial reporting methods ...
Anderson 428–29, 604; Blakeman 614–15; Eggen 615; Fawcett 617–18; Horner 429, 604, 663; Notley 619–20; Smith 663

Budget documents, financial reporting methods, Auditor General's remarks on ... Anderson 604; Blakeman 614–15; Horner 604, 663; Notley 619–20; Smith 633–34, 663

Budget preparation ... Hancock 320; Horner 320; Smith 320

Enactment under legislation See Appropriation Act, 2014 (Bill 8)

Official Opposition position ... Smith 177–78

Former Finance ministers' response ... Smith 633

General remarks ... Fox 277; Smith 66–67

Main and Legislative offices estimates 2014–2015 reported and voted ... 486–88

Members' statements ... Leskiw 253; Quadri 263

Operational funding ... Horner 105

Operational surplus ... Anderson 182; Horner 102–3, 109–10; Smith 67, 109–10, 176–77

Public consultation ... Mason 221

Public consultation, online prebudget survey results (Motion for a Return 1: defeated) ... Hehr 443; Horner 443

Budget Address

Address presented (Government Motion 11) ... Horner 102–6

Addresses in reply ... Allen 224–26; Hehr 222–23; Mason 220–22; Sherman 179–81; Smith 174–79

Addresses in reply, questions and comments ...
Anderson 182–83; Hehr 224; Mason 222; Notley 222; Sherman 181–82; Swann 181; Wilson 223–24

Budget lock-up

See Budget: Advance briefing participants

Budget officer (proposed)

Other jurisdictions ... Bikman 276; Forsyth 265; Hale 279; Hehr 278; Horner 266; Notley 269; Sherman 271; Wilson 274

Budget officer (proposed) – Law and legislation

See Independent Budget Officer Act (Bill 202)

Budget officer, federal

See Parliamentary Budget Officer

Budget process

3-year cycle ... Eggen 567; Kennedy-Glans 566

2014-2015 budget See Budget 2014-2015: Budget preparation

Balanced/deficit budgets ... Anderson 69, 70, 182; Eggen 575–76; Fawcett 617–18; Forsyth 35; Horner 69, 610; Mason 39; Saskiw 34; Sherman 34–35; Towle 613; Wilson 38

Interim estimates See Interim supply estimates

Results-based budgeting ... Anderson 68–69; Eggen 575; Forsyth 36; Horner 105, 106; Kennedy-Glans 567; Sherman 180; Smith 66, 178; Speech from the Throne 2, 3

Supplementary supply, government use of ... Allen 75; Anderson 68–69, 70; Horner 69

Zero-based budgeting ... Smith 177, 634

Buffett, Warren E.

Berkshire Hathaway's purchase bid on AltaLink See AltaLink: Purchase bid by Berkshire Hathaway Inc.

Builders' Lien Act

See Housing – Construction: Builders' liens

Building Alberta plan

[See also Government policies]

Advertising ... Anglin 39; Barnes 311–12; Eggen 567; Forsyth 35; McIver 312; Smith 66; Wilson 622

General remarks ... Barnes 46, 47; Drysdale 47; Horner 103; Drysdale 47; Kubinec 27; Mason 221; Quadri 57; Sherman 35; Speech from the Throne 1–3; Wilson 30, 35

Promotional jackets ... Hancock 427; Smith 427

Bullying – Prevention

Gay, lesbian, and transgender students ... Hehr 349

General remarks ... Fenske 16; Hancock 374; Jansen 16; Johnson, J. 16, 374; Mason 374

Policies on gay-straight alliances, legislation on (proposed) See Gay-straight alliances in schools: School board policies, legislation on (Motion Other than Government Motion 503: defeated)

School initiatives ... Johnson, J. 410; Mason 410

Buses

See Public transit; Schoolchildren – Transportation

Bush fires

See Wildfires

Business Corporations Act amendments, gender reference changes

See Statutes Amendment Act, 2014 (Bill 12)

Business enterprises

Programs and services ... Anderson 525; Eggen 526; Smith 177

Successful organizations ... Young 407

Business enterprises – Sherwood Park

Environmental technology, members' statements on ...
Olesen 248

Business enterprises – Taxation

Comparison with other jurisdictions ... Scott 138

Provincial strategy ... Bilous 562; Mason 491–92

Small-business taxes ... Bilous 575

Tax on dividends paid from small-business income ...
Dallas 488

Taxation on returns from qualifying environmental trusts See Environmental trusts: Tax regime

Business enterprises – Taxation – Law and legislation*See Tax Statutes Amendment Act, 2014 (Bill 7)Business enterprises, smallSee Small businessBusiness plan, provincialPlan tabled ... Horner 101–2Cabinet ministersSee Executive CouncilCabinet ministers, statements bySee Ministerial Statements (current session)CAFSee Canadian ForcesCalgaryCity charter (proposed) *See Cities and towns: Civic charters*Deaths of postsecondary students *See Postsecondary students – Calgary*Event facilities See Agrium Western Event Centre
Former city councillor Sue Higgins, memorial tribute, members' statements on ... Johnson, L. 397Mayor's letter on proposed changes to public service pensions ... Hancock 685, 686; Mason 685; Sherman 685West Springs community ... DeLong 239Calgary – Public transitSee Public transit – CalgaryCalgary – Women's sheltersSee Sonshine CentreCalgary board of educationCapital plan ... Bilous 158, 297, 577; Johnson, J. 297Calgary Chamber of CommerceRemarks on provincial budget office ... Horner 266Calgary film studioSee Film and television industry – CalgaryCalgary-Fish Creek (constituency)Member's decision to leave PC Party, members' statements on ... Forsyth 290Calgary International AirportOpen skies policy promotion ... Speech from the Throne 3Calgary public school boardSee Calgary board of educationCalgary South Health CampusCost increases ... Wilson 274Calgary Stampede, new venueSee Agrium Western Event CentreCalgary universitySee University of CalgaryCampus AlbertaDistance education mandate ... Speech from the Throne 3Canada – HistoryMulroney administration ... Hehr 45Residential school history *See Truth and Reconciliation CommissionCanada pension planChanges to benefits ... Blakeman 550Enhancement (proposed) ... Bilous 585; Eggen 44; Mason 38, Notley 581Canada-United States relationsSee International tradeCanadian Agricultural Safety WeekSee Agriculture – Safety measures: Canadian Agricultural Safety WeekCanadian Charter of Rights and FreedomsApplication in schools ... Hehr 344, 362; Johnson, J. 344–45Canadian ForcesEnd of mission in Afghanistan, members' statements on ... Cusanelli 201End of mission in Afghanistan, members' statements on the National Day of Honour ... Xiao 800Canadian Forces – RegimentsSee Princess Patricia's Canadian Light InfantryCanadian Institute of PlannersAward to Lacombe main street ... Fox 776Canadian National Railway CompanyRemoval of bridge on Smoky River *See Bridges – Watino: Smoky River bridge demolitionCanadian Natural Resources LimitedBitumen upgrading project *See Bitumen – Upgrading: North West project cost*Primrose lease, resumption of bitumen extraction *See Alberta Energy Regulator: Approval of bitumen extraction near leaksCanadian Search Dog AssociationMembers' statements ... Kubinec 671Canadian Wheat BoardMarketing of Fusarium-infected grain ... Strankman 126–27Canamex highway constructionSee Road construction: North-south trade corridorCancerDaffodil Month awareness event, members' statements on ... VanderBurg 516Incidence rates for leukemia, lymphoma, and lung cancer (Written Question 9: accepted as amended) ... Rodney 440–41; Swann 440–41Toupee for a Day awareness event, members' statements on ... Johnson, L. 61Cancer – Fort ChipewyanIncidence reports ... Horne 390–91, 393; Mason 390–91; Swann 393Cancer – PatientsSupports, fundraising for, members' statements on ... Dorward 162; Goudreau 599Cancer – PreventionGeneral remarks ... Dorward 248; Horne 248; Luan 58; Rodney 58Cancer – ResearchFundraising, members' statements on ... Dorward 162; Goudreau 599Cancer – TreatmentLung cancer patient wait times ... Fox 433; Hancock 433; Horne 393; McIver 433; Quest 433; Swann 393Regional services ... Dorward 248; Horne 248Treatment side effects *See LymphedemaCapital planGeneral remarks ... Horner 103; Notley 564; Swann 570Long-term planning ... Bilous 574–75Members' statements ... Casey 305Official Opposition position ... Anderson 50, 269; Barnes 46; Smith 65, 177, 178Remarks in throne speech ... Smith 65; Wilson 31Capital projectsBuilding contracts, penalties for delays ... Horne 326; Pedersen 326Cost efficiencies ... Donovan 618–19Federal funding programs, access to ... Hancock 792; Smith 792

Capital projects (continued)

- Funding ... Horner 610
- Funding from supplementary supply ... Horner 2
- Government buildings See Federal Public Building
- Infrastructure financing, borrowing ... Allen 157; Anderson 524; Bikman 276; Fawcett 617–18; Horner 69, 103–4, 109–10, 266–67, 312–13, 610–12; Kennedy-Glans 566; Lemke 312–13; Mason 221; Smith 66–67, 109–10, 175, 634; Towle 612
- Infrastructure financing, members' statements on ... Anderson 118
- Infrastructure financing, public-private partnership (P3) construction ... Notley 620; Wilson 622
- Infrastructure maintenance and repair ... Forsyth 294–95; McIver 294–95
- Long-term maintenance ... Bilous 574–75, 577; Mason 578–79; Notley 620
- Project prioritization ... Anglin 275–76; Barnes 326, 414; Donovan 29; Drysdale 326–27; McIver 414; Smith 178–79
- Project scheduling ... Smith 65
- Value for money ... Donovan 29
- Capital projects – Bonnyville-Cold Lake (constituency)
 - Project prioritization ... Leskiw 313–14; McQueen 313–14
- Capital projects – Sherwood Park
 - See* Courthouses – Sherwood Park
- Carbon capture and storage
 - Provincial strategy ... Eggen 527
- Carbon dioxide emissions
 - See* Greenhouse gas emissions
- Carbon levy
 - Provincial strategy ... Swann 235
- Cardston health centre
 - New facility, timeline on ... Bikman 259; Horne 259
- Career development ministry
 - See* Ministry of Jobs, Skills, Training and Labour
- Caregivers
 - Members' statements ... Barnes 732
- Caribou
 - Conservation ... Campbell 376; VanderBurg 376
 - Conservation, federal initiatives ... Campbell 376; VanderBurg 376
- Carillion Canada
 - See* Roads – Maintenance and repair: Contractor selection and evaluation criteria
- Carmangay – Health care facilities
 - See* Continuing/extended care facilities – Carmangay
- Casinos
 - Hours of operation ... Bilous 743
- CCS
 - See* Carbon capture and storage
- CEMA
 - See* Cumulative Environmental Monitoring Association
- Cemeteries Act
 - General remarks ... Kubinec 146
- Centre High school
 - See* Schools – Edmonton: Central Edmonton school
- CEO (Chief Electoral Officer), main estimates of supply
 - See* Legislative offices: Estimates of supply 2014-2015 vote
- Cervid farming – Regulation
 - General remarks ... Blakeman 323–24; Campbell 324; Olson 323–24

CFS

See Chronic fatigue syndrome

CFSAs (Child and family services authorities), dissolution

See Family and community engagement councils

Chamber (Legislative Assembly)

Electronic device use, Speaker's procedural letter on ... Speaker, The 475

Electronic device use, Speaker's statements on ... Speaker, The 469

Charitable Fund-raising Act

Amendments proposed re audited financial statement requirements [See also Statutes Amendment Act, 2014 (Bill 12)]; Bilous 743; Campbell 736

Definition of "charity" ... Blakeman 741–42

Charitable sector

See Nonprofit organizations

Charter of Rights and Freedoms, Canadian

See Canadian Charter of Rights and Freedoms

Charters, municipal

See Cities and towns: Civic charters

Chief Electoral Officer's office

Main estimates 2014-2015 See Legislative offices: Estimates of supply 2014-2015 vote

Child, Youth and Family Enhancement Amendment Act, 2014 (Bill 11)

First reading ... Bhullar 541

Second reading ... Bhullar 739–40; Bilous 678–79, 718, 739; Blakeman 673–675; Eggen 677–78; Hancock 623; Jansen 623–25; Mason 719–20; Notley 737–39; Swann 718; Towle 675–77; Wilson 718–19

Committee ... Bhullar 745–46, 750, 751–53, 757; Bilous 781; Blakeman 746, 747, 750, 752–54, 780–81; Campbell 779; Eggen 757; Kang 757; Notley 747–49, 752, 754–55, 779–80; Oberle 747, 751; Redford 750–51; Towle 746–51, 754, 757; Wilson 747

Committee amendment A1 (information disclosed on fatality and serious injury investigations, recommendations and responses; publication ban applications) (Bhullar: carried) ... Bhullar 745–46; Towle 746

Committee amendment A2 (expert review panel membership) (Towle: defeated) ... Bhullar 746; Blakeman 746, 747; Notley 747–48; Oberle 747; Towle 746, 747; Wilson 747

Committee amendment A3 (publication of reports) (Towle: defeated) ... Notley 748–49; Towle 748

Committee amendment A4 (ex parte applications for publication bans) (Towle: defeated) ... Bhullar 750, 751–53; Blakeman 750, 752; Notley 752; Oberle 751; Redford 750–51; Towle 749–50, 751

Committee amendment A5 (publication ban request hearings closed to public, open to media) (Blakeman: defeated) ... Blakeman 753–54; Towle 754

Committee amendment A6 (publication ban requests, public interest consideration) (Towle: carried unanimously) ... Bhullar 757; Eggen 757; Kang 757; Towle 757

Committee amendment A6 (publication ban requests, public interest consideration) (Towle: carried unanimously), division ... 757

Committee amendment A7 (regulations to be considered by all-party committee) (Notley: carried) ... Campbell 779; Notley 779

Child, Youth and Family Enhancement Amendment Act, 2014 (Bill 11) (continued)

Committee amendment A8 (investigations of deaths and serious injuries to children receiving designated services at time of incident or within two years previously) (Notley: defeated) ... Bilous 781; Blakeman 780–81; Notley 779–80
 Third reading ... Campbell 787
 Royal Assent ... 14 May 2014 (outside of House sitting)
 Support for bill ... Jansen 624–25

Child and family services authorities

Dissolution See Family and community engagement councils

Child and Family Services Council for Quality Assurance

Mandate ... Jansen 624

Child and Youth Advocate

Appearance before Legislative Offices Committee ... Notley 748–49

Investigations See Children – Protective services: Deaths and injuries, investigations

Investigations, review of death of newborn (Baby Annie) See Children – Protective services: Death of newborn (Baby Annie), Child and Youth Advocate review

Reporting schedule ... Notley 754–55

Child and Youth Advocate's office

Budget 2014-2015 See Legislative offices:

Estimates of supply 2014-2015 vote

Funding for investigations ... Notley 749

Independence of office ... Wilson 274

Child care

See Daycare

Child poverty

Cost of elimination and funding allocation (Written Question 22: accepted) ... Swann 436

Government definition (Written Question 19: accepted) ... Swann 436

Plan to end ... Bhullar 114–15, 241; Bilous 159; Eggen 605; Hancock 308, 605–6; Hehr 223; Mason 221, 308, 579; Notley 74, 114–15, 196, 219, 564, 621; Sherman 33; Swann 241, 573, 692–93

Plan to end, performance measures ... Bhullar 688; Swann 688

Plan to end, performance measures (Written Question 21: accepted) ... Swann 436

Statistics as of January 1, 2014 (Written Question 20: accepted) ... Swann 436

Child psychiatric care

See Children – Mental health services

Childhood Vision Assessment Act (Bill 203)

First reading ... Jablonski 249

Second reading ... Anglin 444; Bilous 445–46; Blakeman 354–55; Eggen 355–56; Fenske 448–49; Forsyth 353–54; Hehr 446–47; Jablonski 352–53, 449–50; Johnson, J. 356–57; Johnson, L. 359–60; Kubinec 444–45; McAllister 358–59; Scott 447–48; Starke 357–58; Swann 357; Towle 360–61

Amendments proposed by the Alberta Association of Optometrists ... Forsyth 353; Jablonski 352–53

General remarks ... Jablonski 314–15

Children

[See also Families]

Deaths on farms ... Swann 239

Great Kids Awards 2014, members' statements on ... McDonald 800

Inheritances, law and legislation See Estate Administration Act (Bill 4)

Children (continued)

Programs and services ... Horner 104

Programs and services, children at risk ... Notley 737–38

Programs and services, members' statements on ... Swann 692–93

Programs and services, partnerships with the private sector ... Speech from the Throne 3

Programs and services, private-sector involvement ... Speech from the Throne 3

Children – Immunization

See Immunization

Children – Mental health services

Provincial strategy ... Speech from the Throne 3

Children – Protective services

Child intervention system, 5-point plan ... Jansen 624

Children and youth in care ... Speech from the Throne 3

Continuity of care ... Bhullar 728; Horne 728; Towle 728

Council for quality assurance (proposed) ... Bhullar 739–40

Death of newborn (Baby Annie) ... Bhullar 689–90; Horne 728; Towle 689, 728; Wilson 719

Death of newborn (Baby Annie), Child and Youth Advocate review ... Bhullar 688, 689–90; Swann 688; Towle 689

Deaths and injuries, communications consulting contracts re ... Bhullar 725; Hancock 726; Sherman 725–26

Deaths and injuries, investigations ... Bhullar 389; Bilous 678, 679; Eggen 678; Jansen 624; Mason 719–20; Notley 749; Smith 389; Swann 718; Wilson 718–19

Deaths and injuries, investigations, legislative provisions See Child, Youth and Family Enhancement Amendment Act, 2014 (Bill 11)

Deaths and injuries, journalists' requests for information under FOIP on ... Towle 676

Deaths and injuries, public information on ... Blakeman 196; Hancock 725; Mason 719; Notley 737–38; Sherman 725–26

Deaths and injuries, publication ban on names ... Bilous 678–79; Blakeman 673–75; Eggen 677–78; Jansen 624; Mason 719; Notley 739; Towle 676–77

Deaths and injuries, publication ban on names, ex parte applications ... Notley 739; Swann 718

Funding for intervention services ... Horner 104

Round-table on child care ... Barnes 47; Speech from the Throne 3; Towle 676–77, 746

Children with special needs – Education

General remarks ... Bilous 81, 158; Johnson, J. 81

Children's hospital, Calgary

See Alberta Children's hospital

Children's services authorities, dissolution

See Family and community engagement councils

Chile – Earthquakes

See Earthquakes – Chile

China – Energy industries

See Sino-Canadian Oil and Gas Symposium

China – International trade

See Energy resources – Export – China; International trade – China

Chinese language instruction

See Education – Curricula: Chinese bilingual education in Edmonton, members' statements on

Choirs – Bonnyville

Lil Bodnar and the Tune-Agers, members' statements on ... Leskiw 530–31

Tune-Agers, singing of O Canada ... Speaker, The 529

- Christenson Group of Companies
See Business enterprises – Sherwood Park
- Christian schools
See Private schools: Funding
- Chronic diseases – Prevention
See Health promotion
- Chronic diseases – Treatment
See Kidney dialysis
- Chronic fatigue syndrome
Members' statements ... Khan 516–17
Patient supports ... Khan 482–83; Rodney 482–83
- CIA amendments
See Conflicts of Interest Act amendments
- CIP
See Community infrastructure program
- Cities and towns
Civic charters ... Smith 65; Speech from the Throne 2; Wilson 31
Civic charters, framework agreement ... Dorward 259; Hughes 259
Civic charters, progress on (Written Question 1: accepted) ... Blakeman 436
Land annexation process See Municipalities: Land annexation process
Oil and gas drilling in See Energy industries: Drilling in urban areas
- Civil Marriage Act (federal)
Application to same-sex couples ... Campbell 736
Harmonization with provincial legislation ... Swann 783
- Civil mediation services
Funding ... Blakeman 207; Denis 207
- Civil service
See Public service
- Civil service – Pensions
See Public service – Pensions
- Clarification by the Speaker or Chair
See Points of clarification
- Clark, Robert
Singing of O Canada in the Assembly See O Canada: Sung by Robert Clark
- Class size (elementary and secondary schools)
General remarks ... Bilous 158, 797; Eggen 568; Hancock 797; Hehr 261; Johnson, J. 261–62
- Clayton, Jill
See Information and Privacy Commissioner
- CLEA (combined low-expenditure tax assessment)
See Property tax: Linear property assessment
- Clearflow Enviro Systems Group Inc.
See Business enterprises – Sherwood Park
- Climate change
Provincial strategy ... Swann 235
- Closure of schools
See Schools: Closures
- CNOOC Limited, Alberta trade with
See International trade – China
- CNR, removal of Smoky River bridge
See Bridges – Watino: Smoky River bridge demolition
- CNRL
Bitumen upgrading project See Bitumen – Upgrading: North West project cost
Primrose lease, resumption of bitumen extraction See Alberta Energy Regulator: Approval of bitumen extraction near leaks
- CO₂ emissions
See Greenhouse gas emissions
- Coalhurst – Roads
See Highway 3: Coalhurst intersection
- Cogeneration of electric power and heat
General remarks ... Kennedy-Glans 510; McQueen 510
- Cold Lake – Labour force planning
See Labour force planning – Bonnyville-Cold Lake (constituency)
- Cold Lake – Water quality
See Water quality – Cold Lake
- College of Pharmacists, Alberta
See Alberta College of Pharmacists
- Colleges – Admissions (enrolment)
See Postsecondary educational institutions – Admissions (enrolment)
- Colleges – Finance
See Postsecondary educational institutions – Finance
- Commissions, government
See Government agencies, boards, and commissions
- Committee of Supply (government expenditures)
Main and Legislative offices estimates 2014-2015 reported and voted ... 486–88
Motion to resolve into (Government Motion 3: carried) ... Campbell 25
Procedure ... Deputy Chair 485–86
Supplementary supply estimates 2012-2013, no. 2, considered for 6 hours on March 5, 2014 (Government Motion 6: carried) ... Horner 25
Supplementary supply estimates 2013-2014, no. 2, debate See Supplementary supply estimates 2013-2014, no. 2
Supplementary supply estimates 2013-2014, no. 2, referred to (Government Motion 5: carried) ... Horner 25
Supplementary supply estimates 2013-2014, no. 2, vote ... 82–84
Supplementary supply estimates 2014, no. 2, procedure ... Deputy Chair 68
- Committee of the Whole Assembly
Resolution into (Government Motion 2: carried) ... Campbell 25
- Committee on Alberta's Economic Future, Standing
Bill 9, Public Sector Pension Plans Amendment Act, 2014, referral to committee, motion on (Horner: carried) ... Horner 717–18
Bill 10, Employment Pension (Private Sector) Plans Amendment Act, 2014, referral to committee, motion on (Horner: carried) ... Horner 718
Committee membership changes (Government Motion 8: carried) ... Campbell 26
Committee membership changes (Government Motion 13: carried) ... Campbell 778–79
Committee size reduced to 15 from 18 and mandate changed to reflect changes in ministries; changes to standing orders re estimates consideration (Government Motion 7: carried) ... Campbell 25–26
Report of 2014-2015 estimates debate and amendments, Executive Council; ministries of Agriculture and Rural Development; Infrastructure; Innovation and Advanced Education; International and Intergovernmental Relations; Jobs, Skills, Training and Labour; Tourism, Parks and Recreation ... Amery 486
- Committee on Families and Communities, Standing
Committee membership and chair changes (Government Motion 8: carried) ... Campbell 26

Committee on Families and Communities, Standing
(continued)

- Committee membership and deputy chair changes (Government Motion 13: carried) ... Campbell 778–79
- Committee size reduced to 15 from 18; changes to standing orders re estimates consideration (Government Motion 7: carried) ... Campbell 25–26
- Report of 2014-2015 estimates debate and amendments, ministries of Culture, Education, Health, Human Services, Justice and Solicitor General, Service Alberta ... Olesen 486
- Report on Irlen Syndrome Testing Act, recommendations ... Johnson, J. 356

Committee on Legislative Offices, Standing

- Child and Youth Advocate appearance See Child and Youth Advocate: Appearance before Legislative Offices Committee
- Committee membership and chair changes (Government Motion 8: carried) ... Campbell 26
- Committee membership determined by Assembly, resolution debatable and amendable (Government Motion 7: carried) ... Campbell 25–26

Committee on Members' Services, Special Standing

- Committee membership and deputy chair changes (Government Motion 8: carried) ... Campbell 26

Committee on Private Bills, Standing

- Committee membership and deputy chair change (Government Motion 8: carried) ... Leskiw 26
- Committee size reduced to 15 from 18; membership determined by Assembly, resolution debatable and amendable (Government Motion 7: carried) ... Campbell 25–26
- Reports presented on bills Pr. 1 and Pr. 2, compliance with standing orders ... Xiao 541
- Reports presented on bills Pr. 1 and Pr. 2, recommendation that bills proceed and concurrence requested ... Xiao 732

Committee on Privileges and Elections, Standing Orders and Printing, Standing

- Committee membership and chair changes (Government Motion 8: carried) ... Campbell 26
- Committee size reduced to 15 from 18; membership determined by Assembly, resolution debatable and amendable (Government Motion 7: carried) ... Campbell 25–26
- MLA compensation repayments ... Redford 12; Sherman 12

Committee on Public Accounts, Standing

- Alberta Health Services appearance (proposed) ... Anderson 464; Forsyth 464
- Committee membership changes (Government Motion 8: carried) ... Campbell 26
- Committee membership changes (Government Motion 13: carried) ... Campbell 778–79
- Committee size reduced to 15 from 18; membership determined by Assembly, resolution debatable and amendable (Government Motion 7: carried) ... Campbell 25–26
- Mandate ... Horner 265

Committee on Resource Stewardship, Standing

- Bill 201 referral for further review See Agricultural Pests (Fusarium Head Blight) Amendment Act, 2014 (Bill 201): Second reading, motion to refer bill to Resource Stewardship committee (referral amendment) (Fenske: carried)
- Committee membership and chair changes (Government Motion 8: carried) ... Campbell 26

Committee on Resource Stewardship, Standing
(continued)

- Committee membership changes (Government Motion 13: carried) ... Campbell 778–79
- Committee size reduced to 15 from 18; changes to standing orders re estimates consideration (Government Motion 7: carried) ... Campbell 25–26
- Report of 2014-2015 estimates debate and amendments, ministries of Aboriginal Relations, Energy, Health, Environment and Sustainable Resource Development, Municipal Affairs, Transportation, Treasury Board and Finance ... Khan 486
- Report on monetization of natural gas presented ... Khan 119

Committee on the Alberta Heritage Savings Trust Fund, Standing

- Committee membership and chair changes (Government Motion 8: carried) ... Campbell 26
- Committee membership changes (Government Motion 13: carried) ... Campbell 778–79
- Committee membership determined by Assembly, resolution debatable and amendable (Government Motion 7: carried) ... Campbell 25–26

Committees of the Legislative Assembly

- Standing and special committee membership changes (Government Motion 8: carried) ... Campbell 26
- Standing committee size reduced to 15 from 18: Private Bills; Privileges and Elections, Standing Orders and Printing; Public Accounts (Government Motion 7: carried) ... Campbell 25–26

Commonwealth Day

- Message from the Queen, Speaker's statement on ... Speaker, The 107

Commonwealth Games

- Edmonton bid See Edmonton: 2022 Commonwealth Games bid
- General remarks ... Speaker, The 107

Communities and Families, Standing Committee on See Committee on Families and Communities, Standing

Community development

- Provincial strategy ... Speech from the Throne 1

Community health councils

- Dissolution ... Bilous 743; Campbell 736; Swann 783–84

Community infrastructure program

- General remarks ... Dorward 795–96; Klimchuk 795–96

Community support services

- See Family and community support services*

Community supports ministry

- See Ministry of Human Services*

Companies Act amendments

- Gender reference changes See Statutes Amendment Act, 2014 (Bill 12)

Comprehensive regional infrastructure sustainability plan (CRISP)

- General remarks ... Allen 157
- Recommendations ... Leskiw 313–14; McQueen 313–14

Conception – Technological innovation

- See Human reproductive technology*

Condominium Property Amendment Act, 2014 (Bill 13)

- First reading ... Olesen 733

Condominiums – Construction

- Home warranty program See New Home Buyer Protection Amendment Act, 2014 (Bill 6)

- Conflict of interest commissioner search committee
See Ethics Commissioner Search Committee, Select Special
- Conflicts of Interest Act amendments
 Gender reference changes See Statutes Amendment Act, 2014 (Bill 12)
- Conservation of the environment
See Environmental protection
- Conservative Party of Alberta
See Progressive Conservative Party of Alberta
- Consort – Health care
See Health care – Consort
- Construction industry
 Labour legislation review ... Bikman 730–31; Lukaszuk 731
- Consultants
See Contract services
- Consumer affairs ministry
See Ministry of Service Alberta
- Continuing/extended care facilities
 Access ... Lemke 116–17; Quest 116–17
 Utilization strategy ... Forsyth 36
- Continuing/extended care facilities – Bassano
See Bassano continuing care centre
- Continuing/extended care facilities – Carmangay
 Little Bow centre closure ... Donovan 28
- Contract services
 Alberta Health Services use See Alberta Health Services (authority): Consulting contracts
 Calgary film studio RFP See Film and television industry – Calgary: Film studio, contract award process
 Communications re deaths and injuries of children See Children – Protective services: Deaths and injuries, communications consulting contracts re
 Disaster recovery See Floods – Southern Alberta: Communications contracts; LandLink Consulting Ltd.
 Highway maintenance and repair See Roads – Maintenance and repair
 Public-private partnerships, performance measures on ... Eggen 232; Swann 231
 Sole-source contracts ... Hancock 463, 726, 766–67; Sherman 463, 725–26; Smith 470, 724–25, 766–67; Weadick 725
- Cooperative Act amendments
 Gender reference changes See Statutes Amendment Act, 2014 (Bill 12)
- Corn – Diseases and pests
See Grain – Diseases and pests
- Coroner’s inquiries – Law and legislation
See Fatality Inquiries Act
- Corporations
See Business enterprises
- Correctional institutions
 Health services ... Horne 78
- Cost of living
 General remarks ... Notley 195–96
- Counties, annexation of land
See Municipalities: Land annexation process
- Courthouses – Sherwood Park
 Capital plan ... Denis 604; Olesen 604
- Courts
 Authority to issue grants for estate administration ... Kubinec 146
 Self-represented litigants and defendants ... Blakeman 207; Denis 207
- Covenant Health
 Care facility administration See Long-term care facilities (nursing homes/auxiliary hospitals): Restrictions on family members’ visits
- CPP
See Canada pension plan
- CPSB (Calgary public school board)
See Calgary board of education
- Craft, Ann
See Water quality – Lacombe-Ponoka (constituency)
- Credit Union Act amendments
 Gender reference changes See Statutes Amendment Act, 2014 (Bill 12)
- Crime victims
 Resource centre See Integrated Threat and Risk Assessment Centre
- Crimea
 Russian action See Ukraine: Russian action, members’ statements on
- Criminal Code (federal)
 Freedom of speech provisions ... Denis 282; Notley 283; Saskiw 280
 Hate crime threshold criteria ... Woo-Paw 285
 Impaired driving provisions ... Denis 296; Jablonski 296
- CRISP
See Comprehensive regional infrastructure sustainability plan (CRISP)
- CrossIron Mills roads
See Highway 2: Balzac overpass
- Crown lands ministry
See Ministry of Environment and Sustainable Resource Development
- Crude, synthetic – Royalties
See Bitumen – Royalties
- Crude, synthetic – Upgrading
See Bitumen – Upgrading
- Cultural industries
See Arts and culture
- Cultural industries – Calgary
See Film and television industry – Calgary
- Cultural industries – Finance
See Social innovation fund
- Culture ministry
See Ministry of Culture
- Cumulative Environmental Monitoring Association
 Funding ... Blakeman 258; Campbell 258
- Curricula
See Education – Curricula
- CWB
See Canadian Wheat Board
- CYA
See Child and Youth Advocate
- Cyberbullying – Prevention
See Bullying – Prevention
- Daffodil Month
See Cancer: Daffodil Month awareness event
- Data portal
See Open-data portal

Daycare

- Affordability ... Eggen 44; Hehr 223
 Funding ... Hehr 566; Horner 104; Notley 565;
Sherman 181
 Licensed child care programs and approved family day homes, statistics on spaces (Written Question 4: accepted) ... Swann 436
 Members' statements ... Jeneroux 407
 Provincial strategy ... Bhullar 465; Jeneroux 464–65;
Notley 621

Daye, Shane, death of

- See Oil sands development: Worker fatalities

Deaths, employment-related

- See Oil sands development: Worker fatalities

Deaths, investigations and inquiries – Law and legislation

- See Fatality Inquiries Act

Deaths, of children

- See Children – Protective services: Deaths and injuries; Children: Death of newborn; Children: deaths on farms

Deaths, traffic-related

- See Highway 63: Traffic fatalities

Debts, private

- Student debt See Student financial aid (postsecondary students)

Debts, provincial

- Borrowing for capital spending See Capital projects
 Cap on borrowing ... Horner 610–11
 Debt related to public utilities ... Anglin 543; Denis
 543; Hehr 536; McQueen 536
 Debt-servicing costs ... Smith 634; Wilson 623
 Debt-servicing limit, calculation for 2013–2014 (Written Question 8: defeated) ... Hehr 439–40; Horner 439–40
 Former Finance ministers' remarks ... Anderson 429;
Horner 429
 General remarks ... Barnes 46–47; Donovan 29;
Hancock 320; Horner 109; Notley 620; Saskiw
 218–19; Smith 67, 109, 177, 320; Swann 235; Towle
 612–13
 Macdonald-Laurier Institute report ... Anderson 182–83
 Premier Redford's remarks on ... Smith 176
 Repayment ... Horner 104; Smith 175–76

Deer farming – Regulation

- See Cervid farming – Regulation

Defibrillators

- Automated external defibrillators, Project Brock awareness campaign, members' statements on ...
Goudreau 407

Deficit Elimination Act

- General remarks ... Forsyth 264

Dementia

- Patient care, funding for ... Horne 686; Kennedy-Glans
 686
 Provincial strategy ... Horne 686; Kennedy-Glans 686

Democracy

- Westminster parliamentary system ... Bilous 782

Dept. of ... (government department)

- See Ministry of ...

Deputy ministers, legislative provisions

- See Government Organization Act

Deputy ministers of International and Intergovernmental Relations

- See Ministry of International and Intergovernmental Relations: Ministry organizational structure

Derivatives (securities) – Law and legislation

- See Securities Amendment Act, 2014 (Bill 3)

Developmentally disabled

- See Persons with developmental disabilities

Devolution of Real Property Act

- Amendments See Estate Administration Act (Bill 4)

Didsbury – Long-term care facilities (nursing homes/auxiliary hospitals)

- See Long-term care facilities (nursing homes/auxiliary hospitals) – Didsbury

Diesel production

- See Bitumen – Upgrading: North West project cost

Dignitaries, introduction of

- See Introduction of Visitors (visiting dignitaries)

Dingman discovery well centennial

- See Energy industries – History: Dingman discovery well centennial

Disaster insurance

- Research studies and proposals (Motion for a Return 3: accepted) ... Hehr 442

Disaster preparedness

- See Emergency management

Disaster recovery program – Calgary

- See Floods – Calgary: Disaster recovery program

Disaster recovery program – Fort McMurray-Wood Buffalo

- See Floods – Fort McMurray-Wood Buffalo (constituency): Disaster recovery program

Disaster recovery program – High River

- See Floods – High River: Disaster recovery program

Disaster recovery program – Southern Alberta

- See Floods – Southern Alberta: Disaster recovery program

Discrimination – Law and legislation

- See Alberta Human Rights Act; Criminal Code (federal)

Diseases and medical conditions

- See specific diseases

Distance education

- General remarks ... Smith 65; Speech from the Throne 3

Distilling industry

- Documents on proposed amendments to Spirit
 distillation rules (Motion for a Return 6: defeated) ...
Hehr 444

Divisions (recorded votes)

- Bill 8, Appropriation Act, 2014 (Bill 8), third reading ...
 638
 Bill 9, Public Sector Pension Plans Amendment Act,
 2014, second reading ... 717
 Bill 10, Employment Pension (Private Sector) Plans
 Amendment Act, 2014 second reading ... 596
 Bill 11, Child, Youth and Family Enhancement
 Amendment Act, 2014, committee amendment A6
 (Towle: carried unanimously) ... 757
 Bill 202, Independent Budget Officer Act, second reading ... 279
 Bill 204, Freedom of Information and Protection of Privacy
 (MLA Public Interest Fee Waiver) Amendment Act,
 2014 (Bill 204), second reading ... 707
 Motion Other than Government Motion 501, combined low-expenditure assessments ... 141
 Motion Other than Government Motion 502, repeal of Alberta Human Rights Act section 3(1)(b) ... 287
 School board policies on gay-straight alliances, legislation on (Motion Other than Government Motion 503: defeated) ... 368

- Doctors
See Physicians
- Doctors – Education
See Physicians – Education
- Doctors – Rural areas
See Physicians – Rural areas
- Dogs – Newell county
 Thefts, members' statements on ... Hale 609
- Domestic violence
 Emergency housing for women, members' statements on ... Cusanelli 347–48
 GPS monitoring of offenders ... Denis 344, 389; Saskiw 344; Smith 389
 Reduction strategies, research funding See Social innovation fund
 Resource centres See Integrated Threat and Risk Assessment Centre
- Domestic violence – Calgary
 Programs and services See Sonshine Centre
- Donation of organs and tissue
See Organ and tissue donation
- Douglas Environmental
See Business enterprises – Sherwood Park
- Dower Act amendments
 Gender reference changes [See also Statutes Amendment Act, 2014 (Bill 12)]; Notley 745
- Drinking and driving
See Impaired driving
- Drivers' licences
 Provisions for gender change ... Blakeman 740–41
- Driving under the influence of alcohol or drugs
See Impaired driving
- Drug addiction – Treatment
See Addiction – Treatment
- Drugs, prescription
 Benefit programs, funding from supplementary supply ... Dallas 143
 Comprehensive coverage ... Eggen 95; Horne 59–60, 95; Jablonski 59–60
 Cost to consumer ... Eggen 95; Horne 95
 Loyalty/reward program participation, Alberta College of Pharmacists' change to standards of practice ... Horne 606–7, 772–73; Khan 772–73; Xiao 606
 Pharmaceutical information network ... Horne 379; Young 379
 Provincial plans ... Horne 75; Notley 75
 Supplemental health benefits ... Horner 104
- Drunk driving
See Impaired driving
- Dump sites
See Waste management
- Early childhood education
 Full-day kindergarten ... Bilous 157–58, 577; Hancock 308; Mason 220, 308; Notley 564
 Full-day kindergarten, cost of (Written Question 3: defeated) ... Hehr 438; Johnson, J. 438
 Full-day kindergarten, Premier's office announcement on ... Notley 621
 Funding ... Bilous 80–81; Johnson, J. 80–81
 Provincial strategy ... Sherman 181
- Early intervention (health care)
See Health promotion
- Earthquakes – Chile
 Members' statements ... Quadri 349
- Ecology
See Environmental protection
- Economic development
 Approval process, participation in hearings ... Blakeman 771; Campbell 771
 Diversification ... Horner 106
 Innovation, members' statements on ... Pedersen 800–801
 Innovation, research and development initiatives See Research and development: Innovation initiatives
 Provincial strategy ... Sherman 32
- Economic development – Environmental aspects
 Approval process, participation in hearings ... Blakeman 771; Campbell 771
- Economic Development Authority, Alberta
See Alberta Economic Development Authority
- Economy
 2008 global downturn ... Anglin 144; Hehr 145; Horner 218; Smith 176
 Economic indicators ... Horner 102
 Job creation ... Bilous 156
- ECSB
See Edmonton Catholic school board
- Edmonton
 2022 Commonwealth Games bid ... Dorward 796; Starke 796
 City charter (proposed) See Cities and towns: Civic charters
 Elevate report on community sustainability ... Dorward 429; Johnson, J. 429; Weadick 429
- Edmonton – Health care
See Health care – Edmonton
- Edmonton – History
 Beverly centennial, members' statements on ... Bilous 598–99
 Legislature Building See Legislature Building: History
- Edmonton – Hospitals
See Misericordia community hospital
- Edmonton – Public transit
See Public transit – Edmonton
- Edmonton – Schools
See Schools – Edmonton
- Edmonton Catholic school board
 Capital plan ... Sherman 180
 Community schools in mature neighbourhoods ... Bilous 296–97; Johnson, J. 297
- Edmonton-Centre (constituency)
 Overview ... Blakeman 193–94
- Edmonton International Airport
 Icelandair inaugural flight ... Speech from the Throne 3
 Open skies policy promotion ... Speech from the Throne 3
- Edmonton-Meadowlark (constituency)
 Member's personal and family history ... Saskiw 287; Sherman 283–84
- Edmonton public school board
 Capital plan ... Bilous 158
- Edmonton Ski Club
 Members' statements ... Dorward 396
- Edmonton-Whitemud (constituency)
 Speaker's welcome of member as Premier See Office of the Premier: Speaker's welcome to new Premier
- Edson – Affordable housing
See Affordable housing – Edson

Education

- Members' statements ... Bilous 396; Johnson, L. 210
- New Democratic opposition position ... Mason 38
- Parental choice ... Johnson, J. 356–57
- Provincial strategy ... Barnes 47; Kubinec 27; Sherman 33; Smith 65
- Public system ... Mason 38
- Special-needs education See Children with special needs – Education
- Task force reports See Task Force for Teaching Excellence

Education – Curricula

- Aboriginal content ... Allen 338; Hancock 336; Mason 337; Webber 338
- Arabic bilingual education See Schools – Edmonton: Glengarry school 50th anniversary and opening of Hassan Seifeddine Literacy Learning Centre
- Chinese bilingual education in Edmonton, members' statements on ... Sarich 599
- Curriculum redesign ... Bilous 169, 207, 396; Fenske 168; Goudreau 309–10; Hancock 769; Jeneroux 344; Johnson, J. 13, 168, 169, 207–8, 242, 309–10, 344, 430; McAllister 13, 242, 430, 727, 769; McQueen 727; Speech from the Throne 3
- Curriculum redesign, members' statements on ... Kubinec 314; McAllister 162, 460–61
- English as a second language, student statistics (Written Question 15: accepted) ... Hehr 436
- English as a second language, years of funding ... Hehr 572; Swann 573
- Life skills component ... Bikman 415; Johnson, J. 415
- Mathematics curriculum ... Hancock 322; Johnson, J. 13, 57, 91, 164–65, 292–93, 430; McAllister 13, 57, 164–65, 322, 430; Redford 91; Smith 66, 90–91, 292–93
- Mathematics curriculum, point of order on debate ... Anderson 173; Oberle 173; Speaker, The 173
- Mathematics curriculum redesign ... Hancock 606; McAllister 460–61, 606
- Mathematics curriculum redesign, members' statements on ... Cusanelli 672

Education – Finance

- Funding ... Bilous 229, 797; Hancock 797; Hehr 222–23, 571–72; Horner 104; Notley 219; Redford 255; Sherman 33, 180, 255
- Funding from supplementary supply ... Dallas 143
- Funding through taxation See Property tax – Education levy
- Liberal opposition position ... Sherman 33, 181
- School fees See School fees (elementary and secondary)

Education – Rural areas

- General remarks ... Donovan 29

Education, postsecondary

- See Postsecondary education*

Education, preschool

- See Early childhood education*

Education Act

- Debate on human rights provisions ... Notley 282–83
- Inclusive education provisions ... Blakeman 364–65; Hancock 374; Hehr 361; Johnson, J. 362, 363; Mason 374

Education Act amendments

- Gender reference changes See Statutes Amendment Act, 2014 (Bill 12)

Education at a distance

- See Distance education*

Education levy

- See Property tax – Education levy*

Education ministry

- See Ministry of Education*

Educators

- See Teachers*

Edwards, Henrietta Muir

- See Famous Five*

Elections, provincial

- 2012 election, members' statements on ... Smith 598
- 2012 election campaign ... Hehr 653–54; Notley 196
- Member for Lesser Slave Lake's 25th anniversary of election, Speaker's statement on ... Speaker, The 317
- Members' 2nd anniversary of election, Speaker's statement on ... Speaker, The 608
- Members' 6th anniversary of election ... Speaker, The 4
- Member's 12th anniversary of election, Speaker's statement on ... Speaker, The 369
- Members' 13th anniversary of election ... Speaker, The 199
- Members' 17th anniversary of election, Speaker's statement on ... Speaker, The 161

Elections Alberta, main estimates of supply

- See Legislative offices: Estimates of supply 2014-2015 vote*

Electric power

- Cogeneration ... See Cogeneration of electric power and heat
- Renewable sources ... Kennedy-Glans 510; McQueen 510

Electric power – British Columbia

- B.C. Hydro purchase of Alberta electric power ... Anglin 246; McQueen 246

Electric power – Northern Alberta

- Power outage during January 2014 windstorm See Windstorms – Northern Alberta

Electric power – Prices

- Comparison with other jurisdictions ... Anglin 723, 729–30; Eggen 43; Hancock 724; McQueen 723–24, 729–30; Smith 723–24
- Consumer protection ... Barnes 47; Kennedy-Glans 166; Mason 166
- Consumer protection, matters sub judice ... Denis 166; Speaker, The 166
- Fluctuations ... Anglin 537, 670–71; Hehr 536; McQueen 536, 537, 670–71
- Fluctuations, point of order on debate ... Anglin 543; Denis 543; Speaker, The 543
- Wholesale price guarantees ... Anglin 246; McQueen 246

Electric power – Regulation

- New Democratic opposition position ... Eggen 43; Mason 38
- Oversight of consumer costs ... Anglin 687; McQueen 687

Electric power – Retail sales

- Corporations' economic withholding/market manipulation ... Anglin 112–13, 246, 670–71; Hehr 14–15, 58, 168–69, 536; Kennedy-Glans 14–15, 58, 112–13, 168–69; McQueen 246, 536, 670–71; Redford 91; Smith 91
- Corporations' economic withholding/market manipulation, investigation by Market Surveillance Administrator ... Anglin 15–16, 24, 56; Hehr 14–15, 58; Kennedy-Glans 14–16, 56, 58, 166; Lemke 14; Mason 166; Redford 91; Smith 91
- Corporations' economic withholding/market manipulation, investigation by RCMP re criminal charges (proposed) ... Anglin 16, 56; Kennedy-Glans 16, 56

Electric power – Retail sales (continued)

Corporations' economic withholding/market manipulation, investigation by RCMP re criminal charges (proposed), point of order on debate ... Anglin 24; Denis 23–24; Speaker, The 24–25

Corporations' economic withholding/market manipulation, point of privilege raised on debate (intimidation) ... Anderson 172–73; Kennedy-Glans 212; Mason 173, 211–12; Speaker, The 172–73, 211

Corporations' economic withholding/market manipulation, point of privilege raised on debate (intimidation), Speaker's ruling ... Speaker, The 212

Fees ... McQueen 684; Smith 684

Fees, cost of power line construction ... Anglin 687; Mason 726; McQueen 687, 726

Fixed-rate plans ... Hehr 536; McQueen 536

Electric power lines

[See also AltaLink]

Planned shutdown re connection of new HVDC line ... Anglin 537; McQueen 537

Planned shutdown re connection of new HVDC line, point of order on debate ... Denis 544; Speaker, The 544; Wilson 543

Electric power lines – Construction

Costs ... Wilson 274

Incentives to build ... McQueen 684; Smith 684

Electric Statutes Amendment Act (Bill 50, 2009)

General remarks ... Swann 715

Electronic devices

Use in Chamber See Chamber (Legislative Assembly): Electronic device use

Elementary education

See Education

Elizabeth II, Queen

See Commonwealth Day: Message from the Queen, Speaker's statement on; Royal visits

Elizabeth II highway

See Highway 2

Elk farming – Regulation

See Cervid farming – Regulation

Elk hunting

Licence allocation ... Campbell 96–97; Goudreau 96

Elk populations – Northern Alberta

General remarks ... Campbell 96–97; Goudreau 96; Olson 96

Emergency management

Preparedness, members' statements on ... Casey 776

Emergency medical services (ambulances, etc.)

Dispatch services ... Horne 96; Pedersen 96

Interfacility transfer units ... Horne 170; Stier 170

Emergency medical services (ambulances, etc.) – Rural areas

Dispatch service ... Fraser 171; Stier 171

Emergency medical services (hospitals) – Capacity issues

See Hospitals – Emergency services – Capacity issues

Emergency services (first responders)

Access issues See Roads: Emergency turnarounds on highways

Radio communications system (AFRRCS) ... Denis 60–61; Young 60–61

Search dogs See Canadian Search Dog Association

Emergency services (first responders) – Strathmore

Search and rescue river access ... Drysdale 298; Hale 298; Starke 298–99

Emergency social services

See Children – Protective services

Emergency social services – Rural areas

See Homelessness – Rural areas

Emerson report

See Research and development: Innovation initiatives

Employment

Life skills education and training ... Bikman 415;

Johnson, J. 415; Lukaszuk 415

Opportunities for women ... Bilous 668; Jansen 668

Employment and immigration ministry

See Ministry of Human Services; Ministry of Jobs, Skills, Training and Labour

Employment Pension (Private Sector) PlansAmendment Act, 2014 (Bill 10)

First reading ... Dallas 484–85; Horner 484–85

Second reading ... Anderson 559; Bilous 582, 584–86; Hehr 582–84; Horner 522, 583, 584; Mason 585–89; Notley 580–82; Swann 586–87

Second reading, point of order (speaking order) ... Acting Speaker, The 584; Mason 584

Second reading, motion to not now read (reasoned amendment) (Mason: defeated) ... Bilous 595–96; Dorward 590; Eggen 589, 592–94; Hehr 594–95; Horner 589–91; Mason 588–89; Notley 591–93

Second reading, division ... 596

Motion under Standing Order 78.1 to refer bill to Standing Committee on Alberta's Economic Future (Horner: carried) ... Horner 718

Plan conversion provisions ... Eggen 592–93; Hehr 583–84, 594–95; Horner 590; Notley 580–81, 591, 593; Swann 586–87

Progress through the Assembly ... Hancock 685; Sherman 685

Employment standards

Officers, statistics on (Written Question 26: accepted) ... Hehr 437

EMS services

See Emergency medical services (ambulances, etc.)

Endowment fund for postsecondary education

See Access to the future fund

Energy efficiency

Public awareness ... Campbell 411; Kennedy-Glans 411

Energy industries

Corporate participation in curriculum development ... Bilous 169, 207; Johnson, J. 169, 207–8

Drilling in urban areas ... Bilous 258; Hehr 311–12; McQueen 258–59, 311; Notley 311

Labour force planning See Labour force planning

Market development ... Horner 106

Market diversification ... Speech from the Throne 3

National energy strategy ... Barnes 46

Sage grouse protection order impacts See Sage grouse: Protection order (federal)

Start-up costs ... Lukaszuk 638; Mason 638

Value-added products, promotion of ... Fenske 432; Hancock 432

Energy industries – China

See Sino-Canadian Oil and Gas Symposium

Energy industries – Environmental aspects

Enforcement re environmental damage ... Anglin 40

Provincial liabilities ... Swann 569–70

Provincial strategy ... Horner 106

Public perception ... Campbell 603; McQueen 603–4; Sherman 180–81; VanderBurg 603

- Energy industries – History
Dingman discovery well centennial, members' statements on ... Rogers 775–76
- Energy industries – Lethbridge
Urban drilling, petition presented on ... Brown 328
- Energy industries – Natural gas
See Gas
- Energy industries – Regulation
Greenhouse gas emissions ... Campbell 411; Kennedy-Glans 411
- Energy ministry
See Ministry of Energy
- Energy resources – Export
Market development ... Speech from the Throne 1–2
Market development, funding from supplementary supply ... Dallas 143
- Energy resources – Export – China
Provincial agreement ... Speech from the Throne 2; Wilson 65
- Energy Statutes Amendment Act, 2009
Amendments proposed See Statutes Amendment Act, 2014 (Bill 12)
- Engineering Research, Alberta Heritage Foundation for Science and See Alberta ingenuity fund
- EnGlobe Corp.
See Business enterprises – Sherwood Park
- Enterprise and advanced education ministry (former ministry)
See Ministry of Innovation and Advanced Education
- Environment and economic development
See Economic development – Environmental aspects
- Environment and Sustainable Resource Development ministry
See Ministry of Environment and Sustainable Resource Development
- Environmental emergency planning
See Emergency management
- Environmental Monitoring Board, Alberta
See Alberta Environmental Monitoring Board
- Environmental protection
New Democratic opposition position ... Mason 38
Provincial strategy ... Anglin 39; Notley 197–98, 219; Sherman 32; Swann 492–93, 570
- Environmental Protection and Enhancement Act
Legal challenges ... Denis 245; Notley 244–45
- Environmental scientists
Members' statements on Dr. David Schindler ... Brown 118
- Environmental trusts
Governing legislation ... Blakeman 491; Horner 523; Mason 491; Oberle 491
Provisions for bankruptcy ... Blakeman 489; Dallas 503
Tax regime ... Anderson 488; Blakeman 488–89, 490; Dallas 488, 503; Mason 491–92; Swann 492
Tax regime, qualification criteria ... Dallas 493, 503–4; Swann 492
- EPEA
See Environmental Protection and Enhancement Act
- EPSB
See Edmonton public school board
- ESRD
See Ministry of Environment and Sustainable Resource Development
- Estate Administration Act (Bill 4)
First reading ... Kubinec 62
Second reading ... Blakeman 191–92; Kubinec 145–46, 193; Notley 192–93; Saskiw 184
Committee ... Chair 229–30
Third reading ... Blakeman 329–30; Kubinec 250, 329, 330
Royal Assent ... 24 April 2014 (outside of House sitting)
International grant provisions ... Saskiw 184
Public input ... Kubinec 329
- Estimates of supply, main (procedure)
Budget Address (Government Motion 11) ... Horner 102–6
Budget officer role (proposed) See Budget officer (proposed); Independent Budget Officer Act (Bill 202)
Consideration in legislative policy committees, changes to standing orders re (Government Motion 7: carried) ... Campbell 25–26
Debate and vote procedure ... Blakeman 267, 527
Debate time ... Blakeman 268
Documents tabled ... Horner 101–2
Transmittal ... Horner 101; Speaker, The 101
- Ethell, Col. (Ret'd) Donald S.
See Lieutenant Governor of Alberta
- Ethics Commissioner
Recommendation of the hon. Marguerite Trussler, QC, to be appointed for five-year term commencing May 26, 2014, concurrence in (Government Motion 14: carried unanimously) ... Campbell 779
Recommendation of the hon. Marguerite Trussler, QC, to be appointed for five-year term commencing May 26, 2014 (Government Motion 14: carried unanimously), request for waiver of Standing Order 39(1), requirement of notice (unanimous consent granted) ... Campbell 779
- Ethics Commissioner's office
Main estimates 2014-2015 See Legislative offices: Estimates of supply 2014-2015 vote
- Ethics Commissioner Search Committee, Select Special
Recommendation of the hon. Marguerite Trussler, QC, to be appointed for five-year term commencing May 26, 2014, concurrence in (Government Motion 14: carried unanimously) ... Campbell 779
Report presented recommending the hon. Marguerite Trussler, QC, as next Ethics Commissioner ... Rogers 776
- Evening sittings of the Assembly
See Legislative Assembly of Alberta: Evening sittings
- Examination of students
See Student testing (elementary and secondary students)
- Executive Council
Note: Main estimates 2014-2015 were debated in the Standing Committee on Alberta's Economic Future: <http://www.assembly.ab.ca/committees/abeconomicfuture/index.html>
Budget 2014-2015 ... Blakeman 561; Hancock 111; Sherman 111
Deputy minister's role ... Hancock 766; Smith 766
Main estimates 2014-2015, amendment A2 (operational budget) (Mason: defeated) ... Mason 486
Main estimates 2014-2015, Standing Committee on Alberta's Economic Future report on review of proposed estimates and business plan presented ... Amery 486

Executive Council (continued)

- Main estimates 2014-2015, Standing Committee on Alberta's Economic Future report on review of proposed estimates and business plan, tabling of amendments introduced ... Amery 486
- Main estimates 2014-2015 vote ... 487
- Ministers' collection of information on FOIP requests See Freedom of Information and Protection of Privacy Act (FOIP Act): Information request process
- Premier's office See Office of the Premier
- Supplementary supply estimates 2013-2014, no. 2, debate ... Horner 68
- Supplementary supply estimates 2013-2014, no. 2, transfer from operational to capital expense, vote ... 83
- Travel expenses See Government airplanes: Usage policy; Travel at public expense

Exhibits used by members

- See* Legislative Assembly of Alberta: Exhibits (props) use by members

Extended care facilities

- See* Continuing/extended care facilities

Extractive industries

- See* Energy industries

Extractive industries – Law and legislation

- See* Mines and Minerals Act

Eye care

- See* Vision care

Eye See ... Eye Learn program

- General remarks ... Eggen 356; Fenske 448; Jablonski 352; Johnson, J. 356; Johnson, L. 359; Kubinec 444–45, 449; Scott 447

Eyeglasses

- Cost ... Eggen 355–56

Face Off hockey tournament

- See* Alzheimer's disease: Fundraising, Face Off hockey tournament, members' statements on

Fallen Four

- See* Royal Canadian Mounted Police: Fallen Four tribute, members' statements on

Families

- [See also Children]
- Intervention system, legislation on See Child, Youth and Family Enhancement Amendment Act, 2014 (Bill 11)
- Programs and services ... Speech from the Throne 2; Swann 692–93
- Provincial strategy ... Speech from the Throne 1–2

Families and Communities, Standing Committee on

- See* Committee on Families and Communities, Standing

Family and community engagement councils

- Establishment, net financial result (Written Question 27: accepted) ... Swann 437

Family and community support services

- Funding ... Bhullar 467; Notley 466–67
- Members' statements ... Brown 461

Family care clinics

- Funding ... Horne 78
- General remarks ... Calahasen 118–19; Eggen 729; Forsyth 36; Hancock 724; Horne 54–55, 724, 729; Horner 103, 104; Smith 54–55, 724; Speech from the Throne 2; Towle 20; Wilson 30
- Pilot projects ... Forsyth 13–14; Horne 14
- Provincial strategy ... Hancock 685; Smith 684–85

Family caregivers

- See* Caregivers

Family Law Act

- Definitions of mother/father, husband/wife in ... Blakeman 194

Family services authorities, dissolution

- See* Family and community engagement councils

Family shelters – Calgary

- See* Sonshine Centre

Family violence

- See* Domestic violence

Famous Five

- Speaker's statement ... Speaker, The 471

Farm fatalities

- See* Children: Deaths on farms

Farm produce

- Genetically modified crops ... Donovan 125
- Sugar production See Sugar beet industry

Farm produce – Diseases and pests

- See* Fusarium graminearum; Grain – Diseases and pests

Farm produce – Diseases and pests – Law and legislation

- See* Agricultural Pests (Fusarium Head Blight) Amendment Act, 2014 (Bill 201)

Farm produce – Diseases and pests – Management

- See* Fusarium head blight – Management

Farm produce – Export

- Market development ... Donovan 27
- Rail transportation needs ... Drysdale 170; Kubinec 170

Farm produce – Export – India

- [See also International trade – India]
- Trade agreements with Meghalaya and Punjab states ... Speech from the Throne 2

Farm workers

- Labour protection ... Lukaszuk 244; Olson 244; Swann 244
- Labour protection, members' statements on ... Swann 239

Farming

- See* Agriculture

FASD

- See* Fetal alcohol spectrum disorder

Fatality Inquiries Act

- Amendments proposed [See also Statutes Amendment Act, 2014 (Bill 12)]; Bhullar 746

FCSS

- See* Family and community support services

Federal budget officer

- See* Parliamentary Budget Officer

Federal conservation initiatives

- See* Caribou: Conservation, federal initiatives; Sage grouse: Protection order (federal)

Federal grant programs

- See* Capital projects: Federal funding programs; Flood damage mitigation: Federal funding grants; Floods – Fort McMurray-Wood Buffalo (constituency): Disaster recovery program, federal funding; Municipalities – Finance: Federal grant funding

Federal health transfer

- See* Health care – Finance: Funding, federal health transfer

- Federal jurisdiction on Aboriginal issues
See Aboriginal peoples: Programs and services, federal/provincial jurisdiction
- Federal law and legislation
See Civil Marriage Act (federal); Criminal Code (federal); Income Tax Act (federal); Victims Bill of Rights (federal)
- Federal politicians
See Flaherty, Jim (former Member of Parliament and federal cabinet minister)
- Federal-provincial-territorial initiatives
See Labour force planning: Federal-provincial co-operation
- Federal Public Building
 Redevelopment project ... Horne 392; Smith 177; Towle 392; Wilson 274
 Redevelopment project, members' statements on ... Barnes 348
 Redevelopment project, residential suite proposal ... Anderson 343; Bilous 345; Hancock 343, 345, 794; Mason 579; McIver 340, 343, 345; Notley 794; Smith 339–40
 Redevelopment project, residential suite proposal, cost of ... Drysdale 792; Hancock 792–93; Smith 792–93
 Redevelopment project change orders ... McIver 388; Smith 388
 Redevelopment project change orders, point of order on debate ... Anderson 402; Denis 402–3; Speaker, The 403
 Redevelopment project cost ... Barnes 115; Drysdale 115
- Feed grains, Fusarium presence in
See Fusarium graminearum
- Fees, user
 Education fees See School fees (elementary and secondary)
 FOIP requests, waiver for MLAs (proposed) See Freedom of Information and Protection of Privacy (MLA Public Interest Fee Waiver) Amendment Act, 2014 (Bill 204)
 Postsecondary fees See Tuition and fees, postsecondary: Noninstructional fees
 Registry fees See Registry services
 Utility fees See Electric power – Retail sales: Fees
- Fetal alcohol spectrum disorder
 Conferences ... Hancock 147
- FHB – Management
See Fusarium head blight – Management
- Film and television industry – Calgary
 Film studio ... Blakeman 195; Speech from the Throne 2
 Film studio, contract award process ... Klimchuk 772; Pedersen 772
- Finance ministry
See Ministry of Treasury Board and Finance
- Financial aid, postsecondary students
See Student financial aid (postsecondary students)
- Financial institutions
 Banking regulations ... Hehr 145
 Governance, comparison with other jurisdictions ... Hehr 145
- Financial securities – Regulation
See Securities Amendment Act, 2014 (Bill 3)
- Fires
See Wildfires
- First Nations
See Aboriginal peoples
- First Nations children
See Aboriginal children
- First Nations children – Education
See Aboriginal children – Education
- First Nations children – Protective services
See Children – Protective services
- First Nations colleges – Law and legislation
See Maskawachees Cultural College Amendment Act, 2014
- First Nations residential school experiences
See Truth and Reconciliation Commission
- Fiscal Management Act
 Debt-servicing limit provisions See Debts, provincial: Debt-servicing limit, calculation for 2013-2014 (Written Question 8: defeated)
 General remarks ... Fox 278; Hehr 278
- Fiscal plan, provincial
 Update... Horner 25
- Fiscal policy
 Direct vs. grant funding ... Bilous 151
 Endowment fund use ... Bilous 151–52; Eggen 232, Horner 610
 General remarks ... Eggen 525–26; Hehr 72, 84–85; Horner 519–20; Speech from the Throne 1
 Government savings ... Bikman 276; Hancock 147; Horner 105, 234; Mason 580; Smith 634; Towle 612; Wilson 622
 Government spending ... Bilous 561–62; Blakeman 490–91, 614–15; Donovan 705; Hehr 223–24, 634–35; Mason 53, 221, 490; Redford 255; Sherman 180, 255, 791–92; Smith 65; Towle 557–58, 612–14; Wilson 223–24
 Government spending, oversight of ... Smith 177, 634
 New Democratic position ... Mason 37
 Official Opposition position ... Anderson 49–50
- Fiscal policy – Law and legislation
See Savings Management Act (Bill 1)
- Fisheries ministry
See Ministry of Environment and Sustainable Resource Development
- Flag lowering at Legislature Building
See Legislature Building: Flag, lowering in tribute to Canadian Forces
- Flagship bill, government
See Savings Management Act (Bill 1)
- Flaherty, Jim (former Member of Parliament and federal cabinet minister)
 Memorial tribute ... Hancock 408; Sherman 409; Smith 406; Young 407
 State funeral, Speaker's statement on ... Speaker, The 473
- Flood damage mitigation
 Erosion control program ... Casey 246–47; Hughes 247
 Federal funding grants ... Horner 792; Smith 792
 Funding ... Bilous 81–82; Drysdale 81; Hughes 82; Smith 179
 General remarks ... Anglin 31–32, 37, 40, 70; Bilous 155, 578; Campbell 531–32; Forsyth 37; Hughes 71; Smith 65, 531–32; Speech from the Throne 2; Wilson 31–32
 Groeneveld report recommendations ... Hehr 155
 Municipal requests for provincial assistance, 2015–2013 (Written Question 36: accepted) ... Blakeman 437
 Preparation for spring flooding ... Casey 246–47; Hehr 154–55; Hughes 247
 Provincial advisory panel report (Motion for a Return 2: accepted) ... Blakeman 442

Flood damage mitigation – Calgary

Funding ... Smith 179
 General remarks ... Wilson 32
 Southwest ring road ... Drysdale 98; Johnson, L. 98

Flood damage mitigation – Fort McMurray-WoodBuffalo (constituency)

Costs ... Allen 157
 General remarks ... Allen 226

Flood damage mitigation – High River

Funding ... Smith 179
 Members' statements ... Smith 406, 470

Flood damage mitigation – Southern Alberta

General remarks ... Donovan 28

Flood damage mitigation – Sundre

General remarks ... Anglin 70–71; Hughes 71

Flood insurance

National program (proposed) ... Hehr 72, 155
 Research studies and proposals (Motion for a Return 3: accepted) ... Hehr 442

Floodplains

Development restrictions See Freehold lands: Flood hazard caveats on land titles
 Mapping ... Hughes 169–70, 321; Smith 65, 169–70, 321, 406

Floods

Advisory and warning system ... Campbell 409; Casey 247; Hughes 247; Smith 409
 Disaster Recovery Committee membership (Written Question 32: accepted) ... Blakeman 437

Floods – Calgary

Disaster recovery program claims, buyouts ... Hughes 307; Smith 307
 Disaster recovery program contract See LandLink Consulting Ltd.
 Homeowner insurance coverage ... Hehr 155
 Member's personal experience ... Forsyth 37

Floods – Damage prevention

See Flood damage mitigation

Floods – Fort McMurray-Wood Buffalo (constituency)

Disaster recovery program ... Allen 75–76, 225; Hughes 76
 Disaster recovery program, federal funding ... Allen 76; Hughes 76–77

Floods – High River

Disaster recovery, members' statements on ... Smith 406, 470
 Disaster recovery program claims ... Hughes 203, 205, 293; Smith 203, 293; Wilson 205
 Firearm collection by emergency responders ... Denis 538; Saskiw 538
 Firearm collection by emergency responders, point of order on debate ... Denis 544; Speaker, The 544; Wilson 544
 Flood-related buyouts in Beachwood Estates ... Hughes 320–21; Smith 320–21
 Temporary communities ... Johnson, L. 537–38; Weadick 538

Floods – Southern Alberta

Agricultural land, payments for damage to ... Donovan 432; Weadick 432–33
 Communications contracts ... Blakeman 321; Hancock 293–94, 341, 373–74, 463, 766–67; Hughes 307–8, 321; Sherman 293–94, 307, 341, 373–74, 463; Smith 766–67
 Disaster recovery program, administration costs ... Hughes 293; Smith 293

Floods – Southern Alberta (continued)

Disaster recovery program, funding for [See also Supplementary supply estimates 2013–2014; Supplementary supply estimates 2013–2014, no. 2; Horner 104
 Disaster recovery program, funding for First Nations ... Bilous 156
 Disaster recovery program claims [See also LandLink Consulting Ltd.]; Campbell 515; DeLong 515; Hughes 170, 202–3, 205, 240–41, 254–55, 293; Smith 170, 202–3, 240–41, 254–55, 293; Weadick 515; Wilson 204–5
 Disaster recovery program claims, conditions on See Freehold lands: Flood hazard caveats on land titles
 Disaster recovery program claims, processing time and average compensation, statistics for 2013 floods (Written Question 37: accepted) ... Blakeman 437
 Disaster recovery program claims, statistics for 2013 (Written Question 33: accepted) ... Blakeman 437
 Disaster recovery program claims, statistics on appeals for 2010 (Written Question 34: accepted) ... Blakeman 437
 Disaster recovery program claims, statistics on outstanding claims for 2010 floods (Written Question 38: accepted) ... Blakeman 437
 Disaster recovery program claims, statistics on requests for review for 2013 (Written Question 35: accepted) ... Blakeman 437
 Disaster recovery program claims, wording of notice on titles (Written Question 31: accepted) ... Blakeman 437
 Disaster recovery program contracts ... Fraser 669–70; Hughes 170; Smith 170, 724–25; Weadick 725; Wilson 669–70
 General remarks ... Speech from the Throne 1–2
 Notice given to municipalities in June 2013 floods (Written Question 23: accepted) ... Blakeman 436
 Preparation for June 2013 floods ... Campbell 531–32; Smith 531–32
 Temporary communities ... Johnson, L. 537–38; Weadick 538

FMA

See Fiscal Management Act

FOIP Act

See Freedom of Information and Protection of Privacy Act (FOIP Act)

Food banks

General remarks ... Smith 774

Food innovation endowment

See Agriculture and food innovation fund

Food production

See Agriculture; Farm produce

Food safety – Regulation

General remarks ... Donovan 29

Food service industry

Temporary foreign worker program use See Temporary foreign workers

Foreign investments

See International investment

Foreign offices, Albertan

See Alberta government offices: International offices

Foreign trade

See International trade

Forest fires

See Wildfires

- Forest products – Export
Market development ... Speech from the Throne 3
- Forestry ministry
See Ministry of Environment and Sustainable Resource Development
- Fort Chipewyan – Health issues
See Cancer – Fort Chipewyan
- Fort McMurray
Parsons Creek development ... Allen 225
Urban development subregion designation ... Allen 225
- Fort McMurray – Flood damage mitigation
See Flood damage mitigation – Fort McMurray-Wood Buffalo (constituency)
- Fort McMurray – Floods
See Floods – Fort McMurray-Wood Buffalo (constituency)
- Fort McMurray – Roads
See Roads – Fort McMurray
- Fort McMurray – Schools
See Schools – Fort McMurray
- Fort McMurray-Wood Buffalo (constituency)
Infrastructure needs ... Allen 225
Overview ... Allen 224–25
- Fort Saskatchewan-Vegreville (constituency) – Police
See Royal Canadian Mounted Police – Fort Saskatchewan-Vegreville (constituency): Members’ statements
- Foster care
Programs and services ... Horner 104
- Foster care, kinship based
See Kinship care
- 4-H clubs
See 4-H clubs
- Fracking (engineering)
See Hydraulic fracturing
- Francophone celebrations
See Rendez-vous de la Francophonie, Les
- Free trade
See International trade; Interprovincial/territorial trade
- Freedom of Information and Protection of Privacy Act (FOIP Act)
Comparison with other jurisdictions ... Goudreau 703–4
Information request fees ... Casey 696–97; Donovan 704–5; Eggen 694–95; Fenske 705; Goudreau 703; Quest 702; Scott 667, 694; Strankman 702–3; Towle 667
Information request fees, comparison with other jurisdictions ... Rowe 699
Information request fees, waivers See Freedom of Information and Protection of Privacy (MLA Public Interest Fee Waiver) Amendment Act, 2014 (Bill 204)
Information request process ... Blakeman 605; Fenske 705–6; Forsyth 666; Griffiths 535, 664, 666, 667; Hancock 509, 532–33, 599–600, 602, 605; Horne 600; Horner 664; Lukaszuk 532–33, 534–35, 602, 607; Mason 602; Saskiw 534–35; Scott 605, 607, 663, 666, 667; Smith 509, 532–33, 599–600, 663–64; Towle 607, 667
Information request process, former Deputy Premier’s memo on ... Blakeman 605; Griffiths 535; Hancock 532, 599–600, 605; Lukaszuk 534–35, 542, 602; Mason 602; Saskiw 534–35; Scott 605; Smith 532, 599–600; Speaker, The 542–43; Wilson 542
- Freedom of Information and Protection of Privacy Act (FOIP Act) (continued)
Information request process, point of order on debate ... Denis 542; Lukaszuk 542; Speaker, The 542–43; Wilson 542
Information requests by Liberal caucus See Liberal opposition: FOIP requests
Overview ... Fenske 705–6; Goudreau 703–4; Quest 701–2
- Freedom of Information and Protection of Privacy (MLA Public Interest Fee Waiver) Amendment Act, 2014 (Bill 204)
First reading ... Barnes 264
Second reading ... Anglin 700–701; Barnes 450–51, 706–7; Bikman 695–96; Calahasen 699–700; Casey 696–97; Donovan 704–5; Eggen 694–95; Fenske 705–6; Goudreau 703–4; Kang 695; Kubinec 697–98; Quest 701–2; Rowe 698–99; Scott 451–52, 694; Strankman 702–3
Second reading, point of clarification on debate (speaking order) ... Anderson 697; Speaker, The 697
Second reading, division ... 707
- Freedom of speech
Alberta Human Rights Act provisions See Alberta Human Rights Act
General remarks ... Oberle 286
- Freedom of speech – Law and legislation
See Alberta Human Rights Act; Criminal Code (federal)
- Freehold lands
Caveats on land titles for rental use designation ... Weadick 493–94
Flood hazard caveats on land titles, number of safety code officers trained to evaluate home flood-proofing re (Written Question 24: accepted) ... Blakeman 436–37
Flood hazard caveats on land titles, wording of notice (Written Question 31: accepted) ... Blakeman 437
- Freehold Mineral Rights Tax Act
Amendments proposed re tax assessment and reassessment [See also Statutes Amendment Act, 2014 (Bill 12)]; Campbell 735; Notley 744, 745
Amendments proposed re tax assessment and reassessment, consultation with Freehold Owners Association on ... Hale 799; McQueen 799
- French remarks in Legislature
See Legislative Assembly of Alberta: French remarks
- French-speaking community celebrations
See Rendez-vous de la Francophonie, Les
- Funeral Services Act
General remarks ... Kubinec 146
- Fusarium Action Committee, Alberta
See Alberta Fusarium Action Committee
- Fusarium graminearum
Presence in feed grain ... Hale 130
- Fusarium head blight – Law and legislation
See Agricultural Pests (Fusarium Head Blight) Amendment Act, 2014 (Bill 201)
- Fusarium head blight – Management
Comparison with other jurisdictions ... Barnes 128–29; Casey 125–26; Khan 127–28
Fusarium-resistant seed strains ... Jansen 131
- Future fund, access to the
See Access to the future fund
- Future fund, Alberta
See Alberta Future Fund

- Galleries of the Legislative Assembly, reference to See Oral Question Period (procedure): Referring to the galleries
- Galloway, Wade
See Lethbridge: Death of councillor Wade Galloway
- Gambling addiction – Treatment
See Addiction – Treatment
- Gaming (computer games)
 Industry development ... Blakeman 560
- Gaming (gambling)
 Revenue for nonprofit organizations ... Eggen 576
- Gas
 Liquefied natural gas regulations See Liquefied natural gas – Regulation
 Review of monetization of natural gas, report presented by the Standing Committee on Resource Stewardship ... Khan 119
- Gas – Prices
 Increase in ... Anglin 394; McQueen 394–95
- Gas emissions, greenhouse
See Greenhouse gas emissions
- Gay, lesbian, bisexual, or transgender persons
 Discrimination against in school codes of conduct See Schools: Codes of conduct
 Discrimination against, Lund vs. Boisson court case ... Denis 281–82; Notley 282–83
 Gender references in legislation See Statutes Amendment Act, 2014 (Bill 12); Vital Statistics Act
 Protection of rights ... Hehr 512; Jansen 512
 Same-sex marriage See Same-sex marriage
 Same-sex marriage, legislative provisions See Marriage Act amendments
 Social acceptance ... Blakeman 194
 Supports for students [See also Gay-straight alliances in schools]; Bilous 393–94; Hancock 374, 389–90; Hehr 344–45, 430; Johnson, J. 344–45, 374, 390, 394, 431; Mason 374; Sherman 389–90
 Supports for students, members' statements on ... Hehr 349
 Supports for students, point of order on debate ... Anderson 398–99; Denis 399, 401; Hehr 399–400; Oberle 399–400; Sherman 400; Speaker, The 399–401
 Transgender people, experiences with pre-employment physical testing ... Blakeman 194
- Gay-straight alliances in schools
 [See also Gay, lesbian, bisexual, or transgender persons: Supports for students]
 General remarks ... Blakeman 194; Swann 693
 School board policies, legislation on (Motion Other than Government Motion 503: defeated) ... Blakeman 365–66; Dorward 367; Eggen 364–65; Hehr 361–62, 367–68; Jansen 366–67; Johnson, J. 362–63; McAllister 363–64; Sherman 367
 School board policies, legislation on (Motion Other than Government Motion 503: defeated), division ... 368
 Student requests for ... Bilous 393–94; Hehr 349, 512; Jansen 512; Johnson, J. 374, 390, 394, 410; Mason 374, 410; Sherman 389–90
- General revenue fund
 Main estimates See Estimates of supply, main (procedure)
 Supplementary estimates See Supplementary supply estimates 2013-2014, no. 2
- Genetics – Research
 Members' statements ... Johnson, L. 540
- Genome Alberta
 General remarks ... Johnson, L. 540
- George V, King
See Royal visits
- Gift Lake – Schools
See Schools – Construction – Gift Lake
- Glasses, prescription
See Eyeglasses
- GLBTQ community
See Gay, lesbian, bisexual, or transgender persons
- Global warming
See Climate change
- GMO
See Farm produce: Genetically modified crops
- God Save the Queen
 Sung by Robert Clark ... Speaker, The 4
- Good Shepherd elementary school
See Schools – Edmonton
- Government
 Effectiveness, impact of Progressive Conservative Party leadership campaign ... Hancock 793; Smith 793
 Public consultation, review of procedure (proposed) ... Kennedy-Glans 715–16
 Public trust in ... Anderson 524–25; Hancock 683–84; Smith 683–84
 Role of ... Swann 569, 573
 Size and mandate ... Barnes 46
- Government accountability
 Collection and disclosure of information ... Quest 701–2
 Financial reporting ... Anglin 275; Barnes 46–47; Blakeman 267; Eggen 184–85; Fox 277–78; Hale 278–79; Hehr 222, 278, 439–40; Horner 69–70, 439–40; Notley 268; Sherman 179–80; Smith 174–75, 176–77; Towle 272
 General remarks ... Anglin 41; Forsyth 35, 36; Smith 67, 598; Wilson 30, 31, 40–41
 MLAs' role ... Barnes 706–7
 Openness and transparency ... Barnes 47; Eggen 695; Kubinec 697–98; Rowe 698–99
 Publication of public service salaries See Public service: Publication of executive salaries (sunshine list)
- Government agencies, boards, and commissions
 Executive travel expenses ... Smith 240; Starke 240
- Government airplanes
 [See also Travel at public expense]
 Cabinet travel to Grande Prairie fundraising event ... Anderson 214; Denis 213–14; Drysdale 202, 214, 239; Hancock 202, 240; Horne 201–2, 214–15, 240; Horner 203, 204; Mason 204; Notley 214; Sherman 203; Smith 201, 239–40; Speaker, The 215; Wilson 212–13
 Cabinet travel to Grande Prairie fundraising event, clarification ... Horner 216; Saskiw 216; Speaker, The 216
 Comparison to charter or commercial flights ... Horner 463; Smith 463
 Ministers' travel to Edmonton ... Horner 254; Smith 254; Starke 254
 Usage policy ... Drysdale 202; Eggen 99; Fox 200; Hancock 99, 202, 203, 425, 462–63, 685, 766; Horne 201; Horner 54, 92, 163–64, 201, 203, 204, 254, 426, 462–63; Jansen 426; Mason 92, 204; Redford 54, 90; Sherman 180, 203; Smith 54, 90, 163–64, 179, 201–2, 254, 425–26, 462–63, 685, 766; Starke 254
 Usage policy, Auditor General review ... Hancock 56; Horner 54, 426; Mason 55–56; Redford 54, 55, 56, 165; Sherman 165; Smith 54, 426
 Usage policy, other jurisdictions ... Horner 426; Smith 426

Government airplanes (continued)

- Usage policy, point of order on debate ... Horner 216;
Saskiw 216; Speaker, The 216
 Usage policy, point of privilege raised on debate
 (misleading the House) ... Anderson 214; Denis 213–
 14; Drysdale 214; Horne 214–15; Notley 214;
Speaker, The 215; Wilson 212–13
 Use of multiple planes ... Horner 165; Redford 165–66;
Sherman 165

Government bills

See Bills, government (current session)

Government borrowing

See Capital projects: Infrastructure financing

Government caucus

- Member's departure, Associate Minister of Family and Community Safety's remarks on ... Hancock 253–54;
Smith 253–54
 Members' Statements and Oral Question Period rotation,
 Speaker's statement on ... Speaker, The 10

Government communications

- Budget ... Anderson 375; Hancock 372; Horne 372–
 73; Mclver 375; Smith 372
 Consulting contracts ... Hancock 372; Smith 372
 Program announcements ... Blakeman 267
 Staffing ... Notley 564

Government contracts

See Contract services

Government culture

- General remarks ... Hancock 342; Mason 342
 Members' statements ... Fox 200; Strankman 425

Government data portal

See Open-data portal

Government debt, provincial

See Debts, provincial

Government departments

See Public service; specific ministries under Ministry of ...

Government grant programs

[See also specific programs]

- Eligibility criteria ... Hale 345–46; Klimchuk 345–46;
McQueen 356
 Endowment fund use ... Anderson 49
 Financial reporting ... Anderson 182, 269; Saskiw 218–19
 History of endowments ... Horner 233
 Use for social programs ... Eggen 232

Government motions

See Motions (current session)

Government Organization Act

Amendments proposed See Statutes Amendment Act, 2014 (Bill 12)

- Amendments proposed re definition of court awards re
 trade agreements ... Bilous 782
 Amendments proposed re Deputy Attorney General and Deputy Minister of Justice roles under act ... Notley
 744, 745

Government policies

[See also Building Alberta plan]

- General remarks ... Hancock 342; Mason 342
 Implementation ... Blakeman 267; Eggen 605; Hancock
 294, 308, 319–20, 605–6; Mason 255–56, 294, 308;
Redford 255–56; Smith 319–20
 Implementation, point of order on debate ... Bilous 316;
Campbell 316; Speaker, The 316
 Long-term vision ... Swann 188–89
 Members' statements ... Anglin 371; Bikman 315;
Mason 53, 723; Notley 291; Sherman 791–92

Government policies (continued)

- Performance measures ... Mason 255–56; Redford 255–
 56; Sherman 255
 Program funding cuts ... Wilson 623

Government savings

See Fiscal policy

Government services

- Information security management ... Griffiths 670;
Horne 540; Sandhu 540; Young 670
 Information workers, security clearance ... Griffiths
 670; Young 670
 Privatization ... Mason 647
 Provincial strategy ... Swann 570

Government services ministry

See Ministry of Service Alberta

Government travel, meal, and hosting expenses

See Information and Privacy Commissioner: Report on government travel, meal, and hospitality expense policy, information on (Written Question 5: accepted); Travel at public expense

GPS systems

See Domestic violence: GPS monitoring of offenders

Grain – Diseases and pests

- Crop damage by elk ... Campbell 96; Goudreau 96;
Olson 96
 Fusarium See Fusarium graminearum; Fusarium head blight –Management
 Fusarium, legislation See Agricultural Pests (Fusarium Head Blight) Amendment Act, 2014 (Bill 201)

Grain – Transportation

- Rail transportation ... Speech from the Throne 2
 Rail transportation, members' statements on ... Lemke
 19
 Rail transportation backlog ... Donovan 27, 29;
Drysdale 170; Kubinec 170; McDonald 97; Olson
 97–98, 170, 539; Rogers 538–39; Smith 65; Speech from the Throne 2
 Rail transportation backlog, members' statements on ...
Lemke 19
 Rail transportation backlog, members' statements on,
 use of Alberta heritage savings trust fund to purchase
 rail cars ... Horner 48
 Road ban exemption ... Drysdale 375; Olson 375;
Pastoor 375

Grain as feed, Fusarium presence in

See Fusarium graminearum

Grande Prairie Regional College

Nursing program ... Speech from the Throne 2

Grandin school

See Schools – Edmonton: Central Edmonton schools

Grant MacEwan University

See MacEwan University

Grant programs, government

See Government grant programs

Grassland preservation

Provincial strategy ... Brown 115; Campbell 115–16

Great Kids Awards

See Children: Great Kids Awards 2014, members' statements on Greater sage grouse

See Sage grouse

Greenhouse effect

See Climate change

Greenhouse gas emissions

- Comparison with other jurisdictions ... Swann 235
- Reduction strategies ... Sherman 33
- Reduction strategies, carbon dioxide ... Campbell 411; Kennedy-Glans 411; McQueen 411

Grimshaw – Roads

- See Highway 744

Grizzly bear

- Conservation ... Campbell 769–70; Lemke 769–70

Groundwater monitoring

- See Hydraulic fracturing: Groundwater monitoring

Grouse protection

- See Sage grouse: Protection order (federal)

GSAs in schools

- See Gay-straight alliances in schools

Guests, Introduction of

- See Introduction of Guests (school groups, individuals)

Habitat for Humanity

- Edson project See Affordable housing – Edson

Handibuses – Rural areas

- See Public transit – Rural areas

Handicapped, assured income for the severely

- See Assured income for the severely handicapped

Handicapped persons

- See Persons with disabilities

Hassan Seifeddine Literacy Learning Centre

- See Schools – Edmonton: Glengarry School 50th anniversary and opening of Hassan Seifeddine Literacy Learning Centre

Hate crimes – Law and legislation

- See Criminal Code (federal)

Hazard preparedness

- See Emergency management

Health advisory councils

- See Community health councils

Health authority, single

- See Alberta Health Services (authority)

Health care

- Continuity of care ... Bhullar 728; Forsyth 261; Horne 261, 728; Towle 728
- Governance, New Democratic opposition position ... Mason 38
- Performance measures ... Forsyth 36; Hancock 600; Horne 600; Sherman 34; Smith 600
- Performance measures, publicly available reports ... Forsyth 602–3; Horne 602–3
- Primary care See Primary care (medicine)
- Private service delivery, data security issues ... Eggen 759
- Public service delivery ... Mason 38

Health care – Administration

- See Alberta Health Services (authority)

Health care – Airdrie

- Private foundations See Airdrie Health Foundation
- Urgent health care services, petition presented on ... Anderson 541

Health care – Boyle

- Access ... Forsyth 294; Horne 294

Health care – Capacity issues

- Performance measures ... Horne 409–10; Sherman 409–10
- Provincial strategy ... Forsyth 37; Smith 65; Wilson 36–37
- Wait times ... Amery 607–8; Barnes 47; Hancock 467; Horne 607–8; Rowe 467

Health care – Children

- See Alberta Children’s hospital

Health care – Consort

- Acute care ... Horne 539; Strankman 539
- Acute care, members’ statements on ... Strankman 62

Health care – Edmonton

- Performance measures ... Horne 600; Smith 600

Health care – Finance

- Administration costs See Alberta Health Services (authority): Administration costs
- Base operating grant ... Horner 104
- Budget allocation by envelope ... Horne 745
- Budget approval process ... Campbell 736
- Budget documentation ... Hancock 768; Mason 768
- Budget oversight by ministry ... Eggen 759; Hancock 463, 768; Mason 768; Notley 785; Sherman 463
- Funding ... Blakeman 561; Eggen 575; Horne 410; Horner 104; Sherman 180, 409
- Funding, federal health transfer ... Bilous 158; Notley 196, 564, 570–71; Smith 174–75
- Funding for front-line services ... Smith 634
- Funding from supplementary supply ... Eggen 187

Health care – Red Deer

- Renal dialysis See Kidney dialysis – Red Deer

Health care – Rural areas

- Renal dialysis See Kidney dialysis: Mobile service

Health care – Slave Lake

- Access ... Forsyth 13–14; Horne 14, 54; Smith 54
- Family care clinic ... Forsyth 36; Smith 65
- Members’ statements ... Calahasen 119–20; Towle 20

Health care – Sundre

- Helipad specifications, request for information on ... Anglin 700

Health care, primary

- See Primary care (medicine)

Health care clinics, family

- See Family care clinics

Health care insurance plan, Alberta

- Physiotherapy coverage for seniors See Seniors: Physiotherapy services

Health care networks, primary

- See Primary care networks

Health Care Protection Act (Bill 11, 2000)

- General remarks ... Swann 715

Health councils, community

- See Community health councils

Health facilities

- [See also specific facilities]
- Funding ... Horner 103
- Infrastructure needs ... Forsyth 294; McIver 294
- Projected use ... Speech from the Throne 2

Health facilities – Calgary

- See Alberta Children’s hospital

Health facilities – Edmonton

- See Kaye Edmonton Clinic

Health facilities – Maintenance and repair

- Funding ... McIver 427; Sherman 427
- Infrastructure needs ... Forsyth 294; McIver 294

Health facilities – Okotoks

- See Okotoks health and wellness centre

Health Information Act

- Amendments proposed re breaches of information [See also Statutes Amendment Act, 2014 (Bill 12)]; Bilous 742–43; Campbell 735–36; Eggen 759; Notley 744, 785

Health Information Act (continued)

- Comparison with other jurisdictions ... Kubinec 709–10
- Definition of custodians of information ... Cusanelli 709
- Information governed by, reporting of breaches in See Information and Privacy Commissioner: Release of information on data breaches (Motion Other than Government Motion 505: carried)

Health ministry

See Ministry of Health

Health plan, Alberta

Physiotherapy coverage for seniors See Seniors: Physiotherapy services

Health promotion

- Neonatal screening ... Speech from the Throne 3
- Partnerships with the private sector ... Speech from the Throne 2–3
- Prevention and community health, Liberal opposition position on ... Sherman 181; Swann 181
- Provincial wellness strategy ... Horne 323; Horner 104; Luan 57–58; Rodney 58; Speech from the Throne 2–3; Wilson 323
- Provincial wellness strategy, members' statements on ... Luan 291

Health Quality Council of Alberta

Recommendations on continuity of care ... Forsyth 261; Horne 261

Health Services, Alberta

See Alberta Health Services (authority)

Health services personnel

Front-line workers, members' statements on ... Forsyth 541

Heavy oil (synthetic crude) – Environmental aspects

See Oil sands development – Environmental aspects

Heavy oil (synthetic crude) – Royalties

See Bitumen – Royalties

Heavy oil (synthetic crude) development

See Oil sands development

Hébert, Huguette

See Long-term care facilities (nursing homes/auxiliary hospitals): Restrictions on family members' visits

Henday Drive

See Anthony Henday Drive

Heritage Christian Academy

Student code of conduct ... Hehr 345; Johnson, J. 345

Heritage Foundation for Science and Engineering Research

See Alberta ingenuity fund

Heritage savings trust fund

See Alberta heritage savings trust fund

Heritage scholarship fund

See Alberta heritage scholarship fund

HIA

See Health Information Act

Higgins, Sue

See Calgary: Former city councillor Sue Higgins, memorial tribute, members' statements on

High school education

See Education

Highlands junior high school

See Schools – Edmonton

Highway 2

Balzac overpass ... Drysdale 299–300; McAllister 299–300

Highway 3

Coalhurst intersection ... Donovan 468, 619; Drysdale 468–69

Members' statements ... Stier 100

Highway 12

Bypass at Bentley ... Anglin 39

Highway 15

Capital plan ... Smith 178–79

Highway 19

Twinning ... Drysdale 206–7; Rogers 206

Highway 22X

See Ring roads – Calgary: Southwest portion

Highway 23

Intersection with highway 519 ... Donovan 619

Highway 24

Boat launch closure See Emergency services (first responders) – Strathmore: Search and rescue river access

Highway 28

Twinning, timeline on ... Drysdale 314; Leskiw 314

Highway 55

Twinning, timeline on ... Drysdale 314; Leskiw 314

Highway 61

Enhancements, timeline on ... Barnes 326; Drysdale 326–27

Highway 63

Capital plan ... Kennedy-Glans 566–67

Safety ... Allen 112, 458; Denis 112

Traffic fatalities ... Allen 452

Twinning ... Allen 156–57, 225; Horner 103; Smith 65; Speech from the Throne 2; Wilson 30–31

Highway 519

See Highway 23: Intersection with highway 519

Highway 566

See Highway 2: Balzac overpass

Highway 744

Landslide damage ... Drysdale 687; Goudreau 687

Highway 881

Enhancements, timeline on ... Allen 256; Drysdale 256

Twinning, timeline on ... Drysdale 314; Leskiw 314

Highway construction

See Road construction

Highway construction – Finance

See Road construction – Finance

Highway maintenance

See Roads – Maintenance and repair

Highway safety

See Traffic safety

Highwood Junction

See Floods – High River: Temporary communities

History

See Alberta – History; Canada – History

Hockey

Charity fundraising games, members' statements on ... McAllister 672; Young 507

Hockey arena – Sylvan Lake

See Arenas – Sylvan Lake

Hogs – Diseases and pests

See Pigs – Diseases and pests

Holland

See World War II: Liberation of the Netherlands, members' statements on

Home-care services

Funding ... DeLong 163; Forsyth 36
 Private service delivery ... Bilous 158; Notley 197;
Sherman 33
 Service provision by family and friends See Caregivers
 Technology use ... Speech from the Throne 2
 Wait times ... Amery 415–16; Horne 416

Home-care services – Edmonton

Artspace Independent Living employee wages ... Horne
 768–69; Mason 768

Home heating

See Gas

Home heating – Prices

See Electric power – Prices

Home heating – Retail sales

See Electric power – Retail sales

Homeless persons

Emergency housing for women ... Cusanelli 347–48

Homelessness – Rural areas

Members' statements ... Fenske 371

Hong, Lawrence

See Postsecondary students – Calgary: Deaths, members' statements on

Hoover, Michelle

See 4-H clubs: Premier's award winner Michelle Hoover

Hope-Chomyn report

See Construction industry: Labour legislation review

Hospitals – Calgary

See Alberta Children's hospital; South Health Campus

Hospitals – Capacity issues

Emergency services See Hospitals – Emergency services – Capacity issues
 General remarks ... Eggen 44; Forsyth 541

Hospitals – Cardston

See Cardston health centre

Hospitals – Edmonton

See Misericordia community hospital

Hospitals – Emergency services – Capacity issues

Wait times ... Amery 607–8; Eggen 568; Horne 607–8

Hospitals – Sherwood Park

See Strathcona community hospital

Hospitals – Strathmore

See Strathmore community hospital

Hospitals – Wainwright

See Wainwright health centre

Hospitals, auxiliary

See Long-term care facilities (nursing homes/auxiliary hospitals)

Hourihan, Peter, office

See Ombudsman's office

Housing

Home inspectors for resale properties, complaints against (Written Question 17: accepted) ... Kang 436
 Home inspectors for resale properties, licence revocations (Written Question 18: accepted) ... Kang 436
 Home inspectors for resale properties, statistics on (Written Question 16: accepted) ... Kang 436
 Property value increases, mitigation strategy See Property tax – Education levy: Mitigation formula termination

Housing – Construction

Builders' liens ... Griffiths 347; Quadri 347
 Definition of "new home" ... Weadick 494

Housing – Construction (continued)

Home warranty program See New Home Buyer Protection Amendment Act, 2014 (Bill 6)
 Multiple family dwellings, owner caveats on rental use designation on land titles ... Weadick 493–94

Housing, affordable – Edson

See Affordable housing – Edson

Housing, rental

See Rental housing

HQCA

See Health Quality Council of Alberta

Human reproductive technology

Funding ... Anderson 690; Horne 690
 In vitro fertilization, provincial strategy on funding ...
Allen 726–27; Horne 726–27

Human Rights, Citizenship and Multiculturalism Amendment Act, 2009 (Bill 44, 2009)

General remarks ... Eggen 364–65; Swann 715

Human Rights Act

See Alberta Human Rights Act

Human Rights Commission

See Alberta Human Rights Commission

Human Services ministry

See Ministry of Human Services

Human Tissue and Organ Donation Amendment Act, 2013 (Bill 207)

Implementation See Organ and tissue donation

Human tissue donation

See Organ and tissue donation

Humanitarian aid

See Philippines, The; Ukraine

Hunger

Members' statements ... Smith 774–75

Hunter, Josh

See Postsecondary students – Calgary: Deaths, members' statements on

Hunting of elk

See Elk hunting

Hydraulic fracturing

Groundwater monitoring ... Swann 493

I-TRAC

See Integrated Threat and Risk Assessment Centre

IBO (independent budget officer)

See Budget officer (proposed)

IBO Act

See Independent Budget Officer Act (Bill 202)

Icelandair flights from Edmonton International Airport

See Edmonton International Airport: Icelandair inaugural flight

Ignite – Ideas for Post-Secondary Education (report)

Recommendations ... Xiao 380

IIR

See Ministry of International and Intergovernmental Relations

Illiteracy – Educational curricula

See Education – Curricula: Curriculum redesign

Immigrant workers, temporary

See Temporary foreign workers

Immigrants

Internationally trained physicians See Physicians: Internationally trained, accreditation process for Support services ... Blakeman 675

Immigration ministry

See Ministry of Human Services

Immunization

- Measles immunization, members' statements on ...
Webber 672–73
- Petition presented ... Leskiw 693
- Provincial strategy for children ... Hehr 667–68; Rodney 667–68

Impaired driving

- Deaths, members' statements on Jonathon David Wood ...
Jablonski 53
- Legislative penalties ... Denis 667; Drysdale 667;
Leskiw 666–67
- Repeat offenders, penalties for ... Denis 296; Jablonski 296
- Repeat offenders, penalties for, point of order on debate ...
Oberle 301; Saskiw 301; Speaker, The 301–2

Imperial Sovereign Court of the Wild Rose

- Introduction in the Assembly ... Blakeman 194

In vitro fertilization

- See Human reproductive technology: In vitro fertilization

Income support program

- Client benefits ... Bhullar 729; Swann 729
- Client benefits, income- and asset-based deductions ...
Bhullar 729; Swann 728–29
- Comparison with other jurisdictions ... Bilous 153; Hehr 153, 223
- Drug coverage ... Notley 570
- Funding ... Horner 104; Notley 73–74, 564

Income tax, corporate

- See Business enterprises – Taxation

Income tax, personal

- Proposed changes See Alberta Personal Income Tax Act: Proposed amendments

Income Tax Act (federal)

- General remarks ... Dallas 488

Independent Budget Officer Act (Bill 202)

- First reading ... Forsyth 63
- Second reading ... Anderson 269–70; Anglin 274–76;
Barnes 279; Bikman 276; Blakeman 267–68;
Forsyth 264–65, 279; Fox 276–78; Hale 278–79;
Hehr 278; Horner 265–67; Notley 268–69; Sherman 270–71; Towle 271–73; Wilson 273–274
- Second reading, division ... 279
- Debate participants ... Forsyth 279

Independent members

- Oral Question Period and Members' Statements rotation,
Speaker's statement on ... Speaker, The 10
- Oral Question Period rotation change, Speaker's statements on ... Speaker, The 291, 305–6

India – International trade

- See Farm produce – Export – India; International trade – India

Indigenous children

- See Aboriginal children

Indigenous children – Education

- See Aboriginal children – Education

Indigenous children – Protective services

- See Children – Protective services

Indigenous peoples

- See Aboriginal peoples

Indigenous peoples' residential school experiences

- See Truth and Reconciliation Commission

Indigenous women – Violence against

- See Aboriginal women – Violence against

Indigenous youth probation services

- See Probation: Services for aboriginal youth

Industrial and Commercial Bank of China

- See International trade – China

Industrial property tax

- Combined low-expenditure tax assessment (CLEA) See Property tax: Linear property assessment

Industrial safety

- See Workplace health and safety

Infants

- Vision screening ... Johnson, L. 359–60

Infertility treatment, human

- See Human reproductive technology

Information, personal

- See Personal information

Information access

- FOIP request procedure See Freedom of Information and Protection of Privacy Act (FOIP Act): Information request process

Information access – Law and legislation

- See Freedom of Information and Protection of Privacy (MLA Public Interest Fee Waiver) Amendment Act, 2014 (Bill 204)

Information access and privacy legislation, health information

- See Health Information Act

Information access and privacy legislation, private-sector

- See Personal Information Protection Act

Information access and privacy legislation, public-sector

- See Freedom of Information and Protection of Privacy Act (FOIP Act)

Information access and privacy legislation, re custodians of information

- See Health Information Act

Information and Privacy Commissioner

- Disclosure of information to Minister of Health ...
Campbell 735; Notley 744
- Mandate on compliance with data privacy ... Bilous 743
- Release of information on data breaches (Motion Other than Government Motion 505: carried) ... Brown 707–8, 710; Cao 707; Cusanelli 709; Kubinec 709–10; Swann 708–9; Towle 708
- Report on government travel, meal, and hospitality expense policy, information on (Written Question 5: accepted) ... Kang 436
- Response to Bill 12, Statutes Amendment Act, 2014 ...
Bilous 782; Campbell 771; Jansen 772; Notley 771, 785

Information and Privacy Commissioner's office

- Main estimates 2014–2015 See Legislative offices: Estimates of supply 2014–2015 vote
- Staff processing of FOIP requests, funding for ...
Kubinec 697–98

Information management

- See Government services: Information security management

Information management services (government ministry)

- See Ministry of Service Alberta

Information portal

- See Open-data portal

Infrastructure – Edmonton

- Major facilities See Sports – Edmonton: Capacity for hosting major events

- Infrastructure – Rural areas
 Statistics ... Stier 139
- Infrastructure construction and maintenance planning
See Capital plan
- Infrastructure construction and maintenance projects
See Capital projects
- Infrastructure grants
See Community infrastructure program; Government grant programs
- Infrastructure ministry
See Ministry of Infrastructure
- Infrastructure sustainability plan, comprehensive regional
See Comprehensive regional infrastructure sustainability plan (CRISP)
- Ingenuity fund
See Alberta ingenuity fund
- Inheritances
 Minors' interests ... Blakeman 330
- Inner City high school
 Funding ... Bilous 81
- Innovation
See Economic development; Research and development
- Innovation and Advanced Education ministry
See Ministry of Innovation and Advanced Education
- Innovation council (proposed)
See Research and development: Innovation initiatives
- Inquests – Law and legislation
See Fatality Inquiries Act
- Insect pests – Control
See Pine beetles – Control
- Inspiring Education (report)
 Recommendations [See also Task Force for Teaching Excellence]; Goudreau 310; Hancock 795; Johnson, J. 242, 310; McAllister 242, 795
- Insurance Act amendments
 Gender reference changes See Statutes Amendment Act, 2014 (Bill 12)
- Integrated Threat and Risk Assessment Centre
 General remarks ... Speech from the Throne 3
- Intellectually disabled
See Persons with developmental disabilities
- Interim supply estimates
 2014 interim estimates See Appropriation (Interim Supply) Act, 2014 (Bill 5)
 Government use of ... Anderson 174; Blakeman 267–68; Eggen 190
- International and Intergovernmental Relations ministry
See Ministry of International and Intergovernmental Relations
- International investment
 Direct investment rules ... Speech from the Throne 3
 Provincial strategy ... Horner 325; Luan 325; Woo-Paw 325
- International relations – Ukraine
See Ukraine
- International relief programs
See Philippines, The; Ukraine
- International trade
 Market development ... Horner 106; Kubinec 27; McDonald 28
 Market development, provincial strategy on emerging markets ... Dallas 690; Lemke 690
- International trade (continued)
 Provincial strategy, performance measures ... Barnes 46
 Rail transportation needs ... Drysdale 170; Kubinec 170; Olson 170
- International trade – Asia
 Chief assistant deputy minister's role ... Fox 313; Woo-Paw 313
- International trade – China
 Energy resources See Energy resources – Export – China
 Provincial strategy ... Speech from the Throne 2
 Trade missions, effectiveness of ... Dallas 690; Lemke 690
- International trade – India
 Agricultural produce See Farm produce – Export – India
 Members' statements ... Sandhu 328
- International trade – United States
See Beef – Export – United States
- Internet – Rural areas
 Final mile strategy ... Smith 65; Speech from the Throne 2
- Interpretation Act
 Amendments proposed (“husband or wife of a married person” substituted with “spouse of a married person”) See Statutes Amendment Act, 2014 (Bill 12)
- Interprovincial/territorial trade
 Agreement on internal trade, governing legislation See Statutes Amendment Act, 2014 (Bill 12)
 Free trade zone (proposed) ... Smith 66; Speech from the Throne 3
 Market development ... Kubinec 27; McDonald 28
- Introduction of Guests (procedure)
 Brevity ... Speaker, The 87
- Introduction of Guests (school groups, individuals)
 ... Allen 304, 659–60; Anderson 304, 405, 530, 763; Anglin 89, 339, 529; Barnes 200, 304; Bhardwaj 161, 199, 279–80, 303, 460, 789; Bhullar 87–88, 459, 529–30, 722; Bikman 304, 405; Bilous 161, 598, 763, 790; Blakeman 51, 199, 280, 289, 303, 334, 405, 474; Brown 108; Calahasen 317; Campbell 335, 387, 789; Dallas 692, 721; DeLong 237–38; Denis 51, 88, 304, 386, 474, 762–63; Dorward 109, 200, 252–53, 304, 334, 406, 473, 791; Drysdale 237, 305, 423; Eggen 7, 8, 51–52, 108, 109, 200, 253, 290, 304, 334, 474; Fawcett 51, 52, 318; Fenske 252; Forsyth 89, 474; Fox 87, 238, 252, 335, 369, 423–24, 530, 597, 659, 763; Fraser 51, 199; Goudreau 473, 722; Griffiths 8, 90, 763, 789–90; Hale 88, 608; Hancock 108, 251–52, 327, 334, 597, 789; Hehr 237, 335, 406; Horne 108, 303, 681, 762, 790; Horner 7, 87; Hughes 7–8, 161, 598; Jablonski 52, 88, 237, 335, 352; Jeneroux 405, 529, 530, 659; Johnson, J. 200, 238, 423; Johnson, L. 51, 253, 386; Kennedy-Glans 89; Khan 89, 289, 505, 721, 790; Klimchuk 107–8, 237, 300, 721; Kubinec 90, 109, 505, 761; Lemke 189, 318, 789; Leskiw 7, 8, 529, 662; Luan 88, 424; Lukaszuk 424, 721, 762; Mason 200, 251, 334, 387, 761–62, 763; McAllister 162, 238, 722; McDonald 597; McIver 89, 469–70; McQueen 318, 369, 459, 682, 762; Notley 8, 51, 238, 252, 303, 387, 405, 530; Oberle 161–62, 380; Olesen 238, 681; Olson 659, 762; Pedersen 90, 238, 304, 318, 369–70; Quadri 289, 335, 387, 460, 473, 529, 597; Quest 474, 598, 682, 791; Redford 251; Rodney 161, 252, 289–90, 335, 424, 474, 506, 682, 761; Rogers 8, 52, 109, 369, 386, 424, 473–74, 721; Rowe 790; Sandhu 370, 460; Sarich 88, 237, 529, 597–98, 681–82, 789;

Introduction of Guests (school groups, individuals)(continued)

... Saskiw 89, 303, 317, 505, 659, 660; Scott 89, 682; Sherman 8, 90, 108, 252, 289, 303–4, 318, 335, 386, 406, 459, 660, 762; Smith 253, 304, 369, 386, 530; Speaker, The 317, 474; Starke 369, 423, 506, 681, 791; Stier 405; Strankman 387, 761; Swann 238, 506; Towle 303, 505, 763; Weadick 317–18, 682; Webber 722; Wilson 318, 506, 659; Woo-Paw 88, 90, 252, 370, 597, 662–63, 732, 790; Xiao 7, 790–91; Young 52, 318, 459, 473, 789

Introduction of Visitors (visiting dignitaries)

Ambassador and consul general of Italy ... Dallas 681
 Ambassador of Thailand and minister-counsellor from Royal Thai Embassy, Ottawa ... Dallas 334
 Ambassador of Turkey and party ... Dallas 761
 Champion speed skater ... Starke 459
 Consul general of France and spouse ... Dallas 385–86
 Consul general of the Philippines and diplomatic party ... Dallas 107
 Family of former EmployAbilities executive director ... Hancock 385
 Family of former MLA Muriel Ross Abdurahman ... Speaker, The 7
 First Nations and Métis community leaders ... Hancock 333
 Former Member for Athabasca-Lac La Biche, Athabasca-Wabasca, Athabasca-Redwater ... Johnson, J. 161
 Former Member for Bonnyville-Cold Lake ... Leskiw 289
 Former Member for Calgary-West and cabinet minister, federal Conservative nominee for Calgary Signal Hill ... Hughes 505
 Former Member for Cypress and Cypress-Red Cliff ... Barnes 289
 Member of Parliament for Edmonton-Leduc ... Hancock 87
 Member of Parliament for Edmonton-St. Albert ... Anderson 251
 Member of Parliament for Vancouver Centre and assistant ... Sherman 289
 Member of Parliament for Westlock-St. Paul ... Saskiw 303
 Prime Minister of Iceland, spouse, and diplomatic party ... Redford 87
 Princess Patricia's Canadian Light Infantry representatives ... Sarich 505
 Representatives from four Canadian Forces troops that served in Afghanistan ... Johnson, J. 199
 Representatives from the House of Assembly and the Legislative Council of Western Australia ... Jablonski 423
 Representatives from the South Alberta Light Horse and the Princess Patricia Canadian Light Infantry regiments ... Speaker, The 385
 Royal Commonwealth Society, Edmonton branch, members ... Rogers 107

Invasive species, aquatic*See MusselsInvestment fund, AlbertaSee Alberta heritage savings trust fundInvestments – Law and legislationSee Securities Amendment Act, 2014 (Bill 3)Investments, foreignSee International investmentIrrigation Districts Act amendmentsGender reference changes See Statutes Amendment Act, 2014 (Bill 12)IVF (in vitro fertilization)See Human reproductive technology: In vitro fertilizationJasperPremier Redford's travel to See Office of the Premier: Premier Redford's travel to JasperJob opportunitiesSee Economy; EmploymentJobs, ministry ofSee Ministry of Jobs, Skills, Training and LabourJohn A. McDougall schoolSee Schools – Edmonton: Central Edmonton schoolsJourneyman certificatesSee Apprenticeship training: Journeyman certificatesJudah Hill landslideSee Highway 744: Landslide damageJunior kindergartenSee Early childhood educationJustice and Solicitor General ministrySee Ministry of Justice and Solicitor GeneralJustice systemElectronic monitoring of offenders See Domestic violence: GPS monitoring of offendersProbation services See ProbationProvincial strategy ... Blakeman 413; Denis 413Traffic court reform initiative ... Blakeman 413; Denis 243, 412; Quadri 242–43; Saskiw 412Kaulbars, ChrisSee Canadian Search Dog AssociationKaye Edmonton ClinicFunding ... Horne 78; Horner 104Keep a Roof over Their HeadsSee Domestic violence: Emergency housing for women, members' statements onKeyano CollegeGeneral remarks ... Allen 157Kidney dialysisMobile service ... Horne 117; Saskiw 117Kidney dialysis – AthabascaAccess to services ... Horne 408; Johnson, J. 408; Smith 408Kidney dialysis – Red DeerAccess to services ... Horne 392–93; Towle 392–93Kidney dialysis – Strathcona countyAccess to services ... Horne 773–74; Olesen 773–74KindergartenSee Early childhood educationKinship careAdoptions See AdoptionChild placement process ... Bhullar 323, 466;Calahasen 323; Johnson, L. 465–66Foster care See Foster careProvincial strategy ... Bhullar 323; Calahasen 322–23Knowledge, advancedSee Postsecondary educationKnowledge industriesSee Research and developmentLaboratories – LethbridgeNew training laboratories ... Speech from the Throne 2Laboratories, medicalSee Medical laboratories*

Labour force planning

- Federal-provincial co-operation ... Speech from the Throne 3
- General remarks ... DeLong 113; Horner 106; Lukaszuk 113
- Skilled labour supply ... DeLong 113; Kubinec 27; Lukaszuk 113; McDonald 28
- Skilled labour supply, members' statements on ... Luan 732

Labour force planning – Bonnyville-Cold Lake (constituency)

- Provincial strategy ... Leskiw 94; Lukaszuk 94–95

Labour ministry

- See Ministry of Jobs, Skills, Training and Labour

Labour supply, temporary

- See Temporary foreign workers

Labour unions

- Members' dues, legislative and regulatory provisions for ... Hancock 794–95; Webber 794–95

Lac La Biche

- Transfer of 20 townships from Wood Buffalo ... Allen 226

Lacombe

- Members' statements ... Fox 776

Lacombe water quality

- See Water quality – Lacombe-Ponoka (constituency)

Land Assembly Project Area Act (Bill 19, 2009)

- General remarks ... Swann 715

Land reclamation

- See Reclamation of land

Landfill sites

- See Waste management

LandLink Consulting Ltd.

- [See also Floods – Calgary: Disaster recovery program claims; Floods – Southern Alberta: Disaster recovery program claims]
- Contract commencement date (Written Question 40: accepted) ... Blakeman 438
- Disaster relief contract ... Fraser 669–70; Hughes 170, 202–3; Smith 170, 202–3, 767; Weadick 767; Wilson 669–70
- Performance review (Motion for a Return 8: accepted) ... Blakeman 443
- President's and managing partner's former positions in government (Written Question 41: accepted) ... Blakeman 438
- Transitional contract ... Hughes 255; Smith 255

Lands ministry

- See Ministry of Environment and Sustainable Resource Development

Landslides – Northern Alberta

- See Highway 744: Landslide damage

LAPP (local authorities pension plan)

- See Local authorities pension plan; Public service – Pensions

Law libraries

- See Libraries: Law libraries

Law of Property Act

- Amendments proposed See Statutes Amendment Act, 2014 (Bill 12)

Law Reform Institute, Alberta

- See Alberta Law Reform Institute

Lawyers, access to

- See Legal aid

LEAF

- See Women's equality: Members' statements

Learning – Curricula

- See Education – Curricula

Learning at a distance

- See Distance education

Learning Clicks program

- See Postsecondary educational institutions – Admissions (enrolment): Promotion to secondary students, Learning Clicks program

Learning ministry

- See Ministry of Education; Ministry of Innovation and Advanced Education

Leduc (county)

- Potential impact of local growth pressures on See Municipalities: Land annexation process

Legal aid

- Eligibility criteria ... Blakeman 207, 296, 675; Denis 207, 296
- Funding ... Blakeman 207, 296, 376–77; Denis 207, 296, 376–77; Notley 377, 563

Legislation

- Amendments re gender-neutral language See Statutes Amendment Act, 2014 (Bill 12)

Legislative Assembly of Alberta

- Decorum ... Blakeman 121; Speaker, The 120–23; Wilson 121
- Decorum, Speaker's rulings on ... Speaker, The 56, 57, 111, 115, 116, 206, 310, 312, 320, 341–42
- Electronic device use in Chamber, Speaker's procedural letter on ... Speaker, The 475
- Electronic device use in Chamber, Speaker's statements on ... Speaker, The 469
- Evening sittings (Government Motion 4: carried) ... Campbell 25
- Exhibits (props) use by members ... Speaker, The 168
- French remarks ... Goudreau 18; Klimchuk 107–8; Rogers 109
- Mr. Speaker's MLA for a Day program, Speaker's statements on ... Speaker, The 329, 485
- Parliamentary language ... Barnes 46; Campbell 21–22; Denis 46, 216; Deputy Speaker 46; Notley 21; Speaker, The 16, 182, 216–17, 414; Wilson 21–22, 216
- Procedures, Speaker's letter to members on ... Notley 122; Speaker, The 120–21
- Rotation of speakers, Speaker's statements on ... Speaker, The 10
- Ukrainian remarks ... Fox 300; Sarich 99; Speaker, The 300

Legislative Assembly of Alberta – Adjournment

- Adjournment of spring 2014 sitting pursuant to Standing Order 3(9) (Government Motion 9: carried) ... Campbell 26
- Adjournment of spring 2014 sitting pursuant to Government Motion 9 ... Campbell 802
- Standing Order 3 modification to allow for spring sitting to extend beyond first Thursday in June (Government Motion 10: carried) ... Campbell 26

Legislative Offices

- [See also Auditor General; Child and Youth Advocate; Ethics Commissioner; Information and Privacy Commissioner]
- Estimates of supply 2014-2015 vote ... 487
- Office budgets ... Blakeman 559–60

Legislative Offices, Standing Committee on

- See Committee on Legislative Offices, Standing

Legislative policy committees

- Committee memberships and chair changes (Government Motion 8: carried) ... Campbell 26

Legislative policy committees (continued)

Committee size reduced to 15 from 18 and mandates changed to reflect changes in ministries; changes to standing orders re main estimates consideration (Government Motion 7: carried) ... Campbell 25–26

Specific committees See Committee on Alberta's Economic Future, Standing; Committee on Families and Communities, Standing; Committee on Resource Stewardship, Standing

Legislature Building

Famous Five exhibit, Speaker's statement on ... Speaker, The 471

Flag, lowering in tribute to Canadian Forces ... Cusanelli 201

History ... Speaker, The 4

Repairs to domes ... Speaker, The 4

Lesbians

See Gay, lesbian, bisexual, or transgender persons

Lesser Slave Lake (constituency)

Member's 25th anniversary of election, Speaker's statement on ... Speaker, The 317

Member's personal and family history ... Calahasen 338

Lester B. Pearson high school

Hosting of provincial wrestling championships See Wrestling

Lethbridge

Death of councillor Wade Galloway ... Pastoor 346

Lethbridge – Training facilities

See Laboratories – Lethbridge

Leukemia incidence rate

See Cancer: Incidence rates for leukemia, lymphoma, and lung cancer (Written Question 9: accepted as amended)

LGBTQ community

See Gay, lesbian, bisexual, or transgender persons

Liberal opposition

FOIP requests ... Blakeman 480, 605; Hancock 477, 480, 605; Scott 480, 605; Sherman 477

Members' Statements and Oral Question Period rotation, Speaker's statement on ... Speaker, The 10

Policies See under specific topics

Libraries

Law libraries, funding ... Blakeman 207; Denis 207

Libraries – Southern Alberta

Marigold library system funding ... Brown 479; Weadick 479–80

Licensed practical nurses

See Nurses

Lieutenant Governor of Alberta

Entrance ... Lieutenant Governor of Alberta 1; Speaker, The 1

Life leases

See Rental housing: Life leases

Linear property tax

See Property tax: Linear property assessment

Liquefied natural gas – Regulation

Storage in salt caverns ... Notley 784–85

Liquor industry

See Distilling industry

Literacy – Curricula

See Education – Curricula: Curriculum redesign

Little Bow continuing care centre

See Continuing/extended care facilities – Carmangay

Livestock industry

Deer and elk farming See Cervid farming – Regulation

LNG – Regulation

See Liquefied natural gas – Regulation

Loan and Trust Corporations Act amendments

Gender reference changes See Statutes Amendment Act, 2014 (Bill 12)

Loans, student

See Student financial aid (postsecondary students)

Local Authorities Election Act amendments

Gender reference changes See Statutes Amendment Act, 2014 (Bill 12)

Local authorities pension plan

[See also Public service – Pensions]

General remarks ... Smith 640

Local transit

See Public transit

Logging

See Forest products – Export

Long-term care facilities (nursing homes/auxiliary hospitals)

Access ... Eggen 44; Forsyth 36; Lemke 116–17; Quest 116–17; Sherman 33

Accommodation of couples ... Quest 478–79; Webber 478–79

Care standards ... Blakeman 197; Notley 197

Client placement policy ... Smith 67

Fire safety ... Eggen 512–13; Quest 513; Weadick 513

Food quality ... Anglin 40

Funding ... Anglin 40

Funding for residents with dementia and/or mental health issues ... Horne 686; Kennedy-Glans 686; Quest 686

Restrictions on family members' visits ... Horne 770, 796; Quest 770, 796; Towle 770, 796

Sexual assaults on residents ... Horne 243; Towle 243

Long-term care facilities (nursing homes/auxiliary hospitals) – Construction

Designs to accommodate residents with dementia and/or mental health issues ... Kennedy-Glans 686; Quest 686

Long-term care facilities (nursing homes/auxiliary hospitals) – Didsbury

Spaces ... Hancock 467; Rowe 467

Long-term care facilities (nursing homes/auxiliary hospitals) – Fort McMurray

New facility ... Allen 157, 226; Quest 309; Towle 309

New facility, members' statements on ... Towle 305

Long-term care facilities (nursing homes/auxiliary hospitals) – Medicine Hat

New facility, timeline on ... Horne 325–26; Pedersen 325–26

Long-term care facilities (nursing homes/auxiliary hospitals) – Three Hills

Spaces ... Hancock 467; Rowe 467

Lord, Jonathan Joseph

See Members of the Legislative Assembly: Former MLA Jonathan Joseph Lord, memorial tribute

Lottery fund

Fund utilization ... Eggen 576

Lougheed leadership institute

See Peter Lougheed Leadership Institute

LPNs

See Nurses

LRT, Edmonton

See Public transit – Edmonton

- Lund vs. Boisson
See Gay, lesbian, bisexual, or transgender persons: Discrimination against, Lund vs. Boisson court case
- Lung cancer incidence rate
See Cancer: Incidence rates for leukemia, lymphoma, and lung cancer (Written Question 9: accepted as amended)
- Lyme disease
 Access to testing ... Horne 98, 773; Rowe 98, 773
 Members' statements ... Rowe 171–72
 Treatment ... Horne 773; Rowe 773
- Lymphedema
 National Lymphedema Awareness Day, members' statements on ... Goudreau 101
- Lymphoma incidence rate
See Cancer: Incidence rates for leukemia, lymphoma, and lung cancer (Written Question 9: accepted as amended)
- MacEwan University
 Members' statements ... Quadri 209–10
- Major community facilities program
 Program termination ... Dorward 795–96; Klimchuk 795–96
- Malting industry
See Brewing industry
- Management employees pension plan
See Public service – Pensions
- Mandarin language instruction
See Education – Curricula: Chinese bilingual education in Edmonton, members' statements on
- Mandatory Reporting of Child Pornography Act
 Proclamation, timeline on ... Denis 61; Forsyth 61; Jansen 61
 Proclamation, timeline on, point of order on debate ... Denis 64; Forsyth 63–64; Speaker, The 64
- Mandela, Nelson
 Premier Redford's attendance at funeral See Office of the Premier: Premier Redford's travel to South Africa
- Manitoba Plant Pest and Disease Act
See Plant Pest and Diseases Act (Manitoba)
- Marigold library system
See Libraries – Southern Alberta
- Market Surveillance Administrator (electric power market)
 Investigation into corporations' economic withholding/market manipulation of prices See Electric power – Retail sales: Corporations' economic withholding/market manipulation, investigation by Market Surveillance Administrator
- Marriage Act amendments
 Gender reference changes [See also Statutes Amendment Act, 2014 (Bill 12)]; Bilous 742; Campbell 736; Notley 745; Smith 736–37
- Maskawachees Cultural College Amendment Act, 2014
 Petition presented ... Xiao 484
 Standing Committee on Private Bills report ... Xiao 541
- Maskawachees Cultural College Amendment Act, 2014 (Bill Pr. 2)
 First reading ... Calahasen 609
 Second reading ... Lemke 737
 Committee ... Calahasen 758
 Third reading, request for immediately following Committee of the Whole (unanimous consent granted) ... Campbell 758
- Maskawachees Cultural College Amendment Act, 2014 (Bill Pr. 2) (continued)
 Third reading ... Calahasen 758
 Royal Assent ... 14 May 2014 (outside of House sitting)
 Standing Committee on Private Bills recommendation that bill proceed, report presented and concurrence requested ... Xiao 732
- Maskwacis Cultural College
 Governing legislation See Maskawachees Cultural College Amendment Act, 2014
- Mathematics instruction
See Education – Curricula
- Mayerthorpe shooting incident
See Royal Canadian Mounted Police: Fallen Four tribute, members' statements on
- Mayor of Calgary
 Letter on public service pensions See Calgary: Mayor's letter on proposed changes to public service pensions
- McClung, Nellie
See Famous Five
- McHarg, Shauna
See Long-term care facilities (nursing homes/auxiliary hospitals): Restrictions on family members' visits
- McKeever, Brian
See Paralympic Winter Games: Alberta medallists, members' statements on
- McKinney, Louise
See Famous Five
- MCOOL
See Beef – Export – United States: Mandatory country of origin labelling
- Measles
 Immunization See Immunization
 Outbreak response ... Hehr 667–68; Rodney 668
- Meat-processing industry – Regulation
 General remarks ... Donovan 29
- Mediation services, civil
See Civil mediation services
- Medical Association, Alberta
See Physicians
- Medical care system
See Health care
- Medical care system – Finance
See Health care – Finance
- Medical facilities
See Health facilities
- Medical laboratories
 Service contracts ... Horne 241–42; Mason 241–42
- Medication
See Drugs, prescription
- Miccentres family health care clinics
 Data breach ... Brown 707; Campbell 735
- Medicine Hat
 Infrastructure funding support from Forty Mile county ... Barnes 140
- Members of the Legislative Assembly
 Birthday commemorations ... Speaker, The 30, 516, 540
 Compensation ... Smith 66, 177; Speech from the Throne 2
 Compensation, freezing of ... Speech from the Throne 2
 Election anniversaries See Elections, provincial
 Former MLA Jonathan Joseph Lord, memorial tribute ... Speaker, The 333

Members of the Legislative Assembly (continued)

- Former MLA Muriel Ross Abdurahman, memorial tribute ... Speaker, The 7
- Information collection See Personal information: Collection by members
- Information requests, waiver of fees (proposed) See Freedom of Information and Protection of Privacy (MLA Public Interest Fee Waiver) Amendment Act, 2014 (Bill 204)
- Interrupting a member ... Speaker, The 54–55, 310, 325, 463, 603
- Interrupting a member, second supplemental question disallowed in Oral Question Period, point of clarification on ... Blakeman 121, 123; Brown 122; Notley 122; Speaker, The 120–23; Wilson 121
- Interrupting a member, Speaker's rulings on ... Speaker, The 309, 389, 413, 477–78, 508, 793
- Interrupting a member, Speaker's rulings on, point of clarification requested ... Anderson 413
- Interrupting a member, Speaker's statements on ... Speaker, The 306
- Naming by the Speaker ... Blakeman 123; Speaker, The 120, 121, 123
- Parliamentary privilege ... Kennedy-Glans 212; Mason 211–12; Speaker, The 212
- Penalization for actions of another member ... Blakeman 121, 123; Brown 122; Notley 122; Speaker, The 122, 123; Wilson 121–22
- Reference in Assembly to absence, point of order on ... Bilous 316; Campbell 316; Speaker, The 316

Members' Services, Special Standing Committee on See Committee on Members' Services, Special Standing*Members' Statements (procedure)

- 30-second wait before commencement ... Speaker, The 540
- Interruptions ... Speaker, The 395
- Interruptions, Speaker's rulings on ... Speaker, The 396
- Interruptions, Speaker's statements on ... Speaker, The 351
- Length, Speaker's statements on ... Speaker, The 351, 370–71
- Rotation of statements, Speaker's statements on ... Speaker, The 10, 291

Members' Statements (current session)

- 4-H Premier's award winner ... McDonald 262–63
- Acute health care in Consort ... Strankman 62
- Agriculture Literacy Week ... Kubinec 62
- Agrium Western Event Centre ... Fritz 434
- Airdrie Health Foundation ... Anderson 531
- AISH wait times ... Allen 416
- Alberta Economic Development Authority ... Dorward 319
- Alberta Health Services consulting contracts ... Smith 396
- Alberta Health Services sole-source contracts ... Smith 475
- Alberta international offices ... DeLong 470
- All-terrain vehicle safety ... Swann 671
- AltaLink ... Anglin 722–23
- Alzheimer's Face Off hockey tournament ... Young 507
- Animal protection legislation ... Webber 801
- Armenian genocide ... Jablonski 483
- Armenian genocide anniversary ... Kalagian-Jablonski 682
- Bassano continuing care centre ... Hale 262
- Battle of Vimy Ridge ... Wilson 397
- Beverly centennial ... Bilous 598–99
- Bridges in rural areas ... Donovan 328
- Budget 2014 ... Leskiw 253
- Canadian Agricultural Safety Week ... Casey 163
- Canadian mission in Afghanistan ... Cusanelli 201

Members' Statements (current session) (continued)

- Canadian Search Dog Association ... Kubinec 671
- Cancer awareness ... VanderBurg 516
- Cancer awareness initiatives in Wanham ... Goudreau 599
- Cancer charities fundraising ... Dorward 162
- Chinese bilingual education in Edmonton ... Sarich 599
- Chronic fatigue syndrome ... Khan 516–17
- Craft breweries ... Hehr 263
- Dr. David Schindler ... Brown 118
- Daycare ... Jeneroux 407
- Deaths of Calgary students ... Kennedy-Glans 483–84
- Dingman discovery well centennial ... Rogers 775–76
- Dog theft in Newell County ... Hale 609
- Earthquake in Chile ... Quadri 349
- Edmonton Ski Club ... Dorward 396
- Education system ... Bilous 396; Johnson, L. 210
- Educational curriculum redesign ... Cusanelli 672; Kubinec 314; McAllister 162, 460–61
- Emergency housing for women ... Cusanelli 347–48
- Emergency preparedness ... Casey 776
- Events in Ukraine ... Leskiw 100
- Fallen Four in memoriam ... VanderBurg 19–20
- Family and community support services ... Brown 461
- Family caregivers ... Barnes 732
- Family resource centre in St. Albert ... Khan 290–91
- Farm worker labour protection ... Swann 239
- Federal building redevelopment plan ... Barnes 348
- Flood recovery and mitigation in High River ... Smith 406, 470
- Fort Saskatchewan-Vegreville police services ... Fenske 19
- Genetics research ... Johnson, L. 540
- Glengarry school 50th anniversary and opening of Hassan Seifeddine Literacy Learning Centre ... Sarich 791
- Government and Official Opposition policies ... Anglin 371
- Government culture ... Fox 200; Strankman 425
- Government policies ... Bikman 315; Mason 53, 723; Notley 291; Sherman 791–72
- Grain rail transportation backlog ... Lemke 19
- Great Kids awards 2014 ... McDonald 800
- GreenTRIP funding ... Olesen 540–41
- Greer Black ... Fritz 263
- Health and wellness framework ... Luan 291
- Health care professionals ... Forsyth 541
- Highway 3 ... Stier 100
- Highway construction and maintenance ... Stier 484
- Hockey marathon for charity ... McAllister 672
- Hunger in Alberta ... Smith 774–75
- Infrastructure funding ... Casey 305
- Innovation in Alberta ... Pedersen 800–801
- Invasive mussel species ... Pastoor 531
- Jonathon David Wood ... Jablonski 53
- Lacombe ... Fox 776
- LGBTQ student supports ... Hehr 349
- Liberation of the Netherlands ... VanderBurg 692
- Lil Bodnar and the Bonnyville Tune-Agers ... Leskiw 530–31
- Long-term care in Fort McMurray ... Towle 305
- Lyme disease ... Rowe 171–72
- MacEwan University ... Quadri 209–10
- Marlin Styner ... Jablonski 238–39
- Measles immunization ... Webber 672–73
- Member's decision to leave political party ... Forsyth 290
- Mental health services ... Eggen 305; Kubinec 425; Sandhu 723
- Mental Health Week ... Olesen 692

Members' Statements (current session) (continued)

Municipal funding ... Wilson 18–19
 Murdered and missing aboriginal women ... Calahasen 608–9
 National Day of Honour ... Xiao 800
 National Lymphedema Awareness Day ... Goudreau 101
 Nobleford ... Donovan 683
 Northern Alberta windstorm ... Goudreau 163
 Northern leaders' summit ... Leskiw 327–28
 Open postsecondary educational resources ... Xiao 380
 Paralympic Winter Games ... Rogers 119
 Paralympic Winter Games medallists ... Casey 249
 PDD supports intensity scale assessments ... Towle 516
 Peace Wapiti school division ... McDonald 483
 Peter Lougheed Leadership Institute ... Casey 397
 Pipeline development ... Johnson, L. 117–18
 Postsecondary education funding ... Pedersen 210
 Premier Redford's travel expense repayment ... Saskiw 248–49
 Premier Redford's travel to South Africa ... Smith 52
 Princess Patricia's Canadian Light Infantry centennial ... Sarich 506
 Project Brock ... Goudreau 407
 Provincial borrowing ... Anderson 118
 Provincial election anniversary ... Smith 598
 Provincial fiscal policies ... Quadri 263
 Provincial wrestling championships ... Fritz 470
 Public service ... Sherman 319
 Public service pensions ... Eggen 200–201; Mason 475; Sherman 434
 Red Deer College athletics achievements ... Jablonski 348
 Les Rendez-vous de la Francophonie ... Goudreau 18
 Robert Thirsk high school opening ... Luan 775
 Rural homelessness ... Fenske 371
 Russian intervention in Ukraine ... Fox 300
 Rwandan genocide ... Dorward 406
 School construction needs ... DeLong 239
 School fees ... Bilous 775
 Seniors' supports ... DeLong 162–63
 Sherwood Park environmental technology enterprises ... Olesen 248
 Sino-Canadian oil and gas symposium ... Luan 424–25
 Skilled labour shortage ... Luan 732
 Slave Lake family care clinic ... Calahasen 118–19
 Slave Lake health services ... Towle 20
 Sonshine Emergency Shelter ... Cusanelli 380–81
 Successful teams ... Young 407
 Sue Higgins ... Johnson, L. 397
 Supports for children ... Swann 692–93
 Sylvan Lake Hockeyville 2014 award ... Towle 381
 Taras Shevchenko 200th anniversary ... Sarich 99
 Task Force for Teaching Excellence report ... Leskiw 722
 Tax policy ... Blakeman 119
 Temporary foreign worker program moratorium ... Lemke 683
 Toupee for a Day ... Johnson, L. 61
 Trade with India ... Sandhu 328
 Ukrainian Cultural Heritage Village ... Fenske 434
 University of Calgary ... Brown 290
 Vaisakhi ... Sandhu 460
 Vision assessments for schoolchildren ... Jablonski 314–15
 Volunteers ... Johnson, L. 349
 Women's equality rights ... Blakeman 506–7
 Women's issues ... Blakeman 99–100
 World Meningitis Day ... Quadri 672
 Writing-on-Stone park internship program ... Calahasen 380
 Youth engagement think tank ... Jeneroux 100

Meningitis

World Meningitis Day, members' statements on ... Quadri 672

Mental health

Mental Health Week, members' statements on ... Olesen 692

Provincial strategy See Addiction and mental health strategy

Mental health services

Adults' service procurement ... Horne 799–800; Sandhu 799–800

Early intervention ... Swann 573

Funding ... Notley 571

General remarks ... Sherman 181

Members' statements ... Eggen 305; Kubinec 425; Sandhu 723

Performance measures ... Notley 196

Services for postsecondary students ... Horne 730; Jeneroux 730

Mental health services – Children

See Children – Mental health services

Mental health services – Youth

See Youth – Mental health services

Mental health strategy

See Addiction and mental health strategy

MEPP (management employees pension plan)

See Public service – Pensions

Métis

Programs and services ... Horner 106

Metis Settlements Act amendments

Gender reference changes [See also Statutes Amendment Act, 2014 (Bill 12)]; Notley 745

MGA

See Municipal Government Act

Michener Centre

Facility closure ... Notley 571

Mill rates (education funding)

See Property tax – Education levy

Mines and Minerals Act

Amendments proposed, regulatory provisions [See also Statutes Amendment Act, 2014 (Bill 12)]; Campbell 735; Notley 744–45

Minimum wage

See Wages – Minimum wage

Ministerial Statements (procedure)

Time limits, Speaker's statements on ... Speaker, The 351, 370–71

Ministerial Statements (current session)

Events in Ukraine ... Redford 8–9

Events in Ukraine, responses ... Mason 9–10; Sherman 9; Smith 9

National Day of Mourning ... Lukaszuk 660–61

National Day of Mourning, responses ... Allen 662; Bikman 661; Notley 662; Swann 661

Truth and Reconciliation Commission national event, ministerial statement on ... Hancock 336

Truth and Reconciliation Commission national event, ministerial statement on, responses ... Allen 338–39; Calahasen 338; Mason 337; Sherman 337; Smith 336–37; Webber 337–38

Ministry of Aboriginal Relations

Note: Main estimates 2014-2015 were debated in the Standing Committee on Resource Stewardship. See <http://www.assembly.ab.ca/committees/resourcestewardship/index.html>

Ministry of Aboriginal Relations (continued)

- Budget 2014-2015 ... Blakeman 560
- Main estimates 2014-2015, Standing Committee on Resource Stewardship report on review of proposed estimates and business plan presented ... Khan 486
- Main estimates 2014-2015 vote ... 487
- Supplementary supply estimates 2013-2014, no. 2, debate ... Allen 76; Horner 68; Oberle 76
- Supplementary supply estimates 2013-2014, no. 2, operational funding, debate ... Bilous 82; Oberle 82
- Supplementary supply estimates 2013-2014, no. 2, operational funding, vote ... 82

Ministry of Agriculture and Rural Development

Note: Main estimates 2014-2015 were debated in the Standing Committee on Resource Stewardship. See <http://www.assembly.ab.ca/committees/resourcestewardship/index.html>

- Budget 2014-2015 ... Blakeman 560
- Main estimates 2014-2015, Standing Committee on Alberta's Economic Future report on review of proposed estimates and business plan presented ... Amery 486
- Main estimates 2014-2015 vote ... 487

Ministry of Culture

Note: Main estimates 2014-2015 were debated in the Standing Committee on Families and Communities: <http://www.assembly.ab.ca/committees/familiesandcommunities/index.html>

- Budget 2014-2015 ... Blakeman 560
- Main estimates 2014-2015, Standing Committee on Families and Communities report on review of proposed estimates and business plan presented ... Olesen 486
- Main estimates 2014-2015 vote ... 487
- Supplementary supply estimates 2013-2014, no. 2, debate ... Horner 68
- Supplementary supply estimates 2013-2014, no. 2, operational and capital funding, debate ... Bilous 82; Klimchuk 82
- Supplementary supply estimates 2013-2014, no. 2, operational and capital funding, vote ... 82

Ministry of Education

Note: Main estimates 2014-2015 were debated in the Standing Committee on Families and Communities: <http://www.assembly.ab.ca/committees/familiesandcommunities/index.html>

- Budget 2014-2015 ... Blakeman 560
- Departmental staff, full-time equivalents ... Smith 178
- Funding ... Johnson, J. 111; Smith 111
- Funding from supplementary supply ... Eggen 187
- Main estimates 2014-2015, Standing Committee on Families and Communities report on review of proposed estimates and business plan presented ... Olesen 486
- Main estimates 2014-2015 vote ... 487
- Minister's meeting with stakeholders on curriculum redesign (proposed) ... Hancock 727; McAllister 727; McQueen 727
- Operational funding ... Horner 104
- Supplementary supply estimates 2013-2014, no. 2, debate ... Anderson 69; Bilous 80-81; Hehr 72; Horner 68, 70; Johnson, J. 72, 80-81
- Supplementary supply estimates 2013-2014, no. 2, operational and capital funding, vote ... 82
- Supplementary supply estimates 2013-2014, no. 2, transfer to operational expense of Municipal Affairs, vote ... 83

Ministry of Energy

Note: Main estimates 2014-2015 were debated in the Standing Committee on Resource Stewardship: <http://www.assembly.ab.ca/committees/resourcestewardship/index.html>

- Funding ... Smith 178
- Funding from supplementary supply ... Eggen 187
- Main estimates 2014-2015, amendment A1 (associate minister's office budget) (Mason: defeated) ... Mason 486
- Main estimates 2014-2015, Standing Committee on Resource Stewardship report on review of proposed estimates and business plan presented ... Khan 486
- Main estimates 2014-2015, Standing Committee on Resource Stewardship report on review of proposed estimates and business plan, tabling of amendments introduced ... Khan 486
- Main estimates 2014-2015 vote ... 487
- Minister's meetings with industry ... McQueen 388-89; Smith 373, 388
- Minister's meetings with industry, point of order on debate ... Anderson 382, 383, 384; Blakeman 382-83; Campbell 382, 383; Speaker, The 383-84
- Minister's meetings with industry, point of order on debate, clarification ... Speaker, The 384
- Supplementary supply estimates 2013-2014, no. 2, debate ... Anderson 68-69; Horner 68, 69-70; Hughes 74; Notley 74
- Supplementary supply estimates 2013-2014, no. 2, operational funding, vote ... 83

Ministry of Environment and Sustainable Resource Development

Note: Main estimates 2014-2015 were debated in the Standing Committee on Resource Stewardship: <http://www.assembly.ab.ca/committees/resourcestewardship/index.html>

- Budget 2014-2015 ... Blakeman 560-61
- Departmental flood mitigation project approval ... Casey 247; Hughes 247
- Departmental staff, full-time equivalents ... Smith 178
- Main estimates 2014-2015, Standing Committee on Resource Stewardship report on review of proposed estimates and business plan presented ... Khan 486
- Main estimates 2014-2015 vote ... 487
- Operational funding ... Horner 106
- Supplementary supply estimates 2013-2014, no. 2, debate ... Allen 76; Anglin 70-71; Horner 68; Hughes 71, 76-77
- Supplementary supply estimates 2013-2014, no. 2, operational and capital funding, debate ... Bilous 81-82; Hughes 82
- Supplementary supply estimates 2013-2014, no. 2, operational and capital funding, vote ... 83

Ministry of Executive Council

See Executive Council

Ministry of Health

Note: Main estimates 2014-2015 were debated in the Standing Committee on Families and Communities: <http://www.assembly.ab.ca/committees/familiesandcommunities/index.html>

- Budget 2014-2015 ... Blakeman 561
- Funding from supplementary supply ... Eggen 187
- Information requests under FOIP from ... Forsyth 602-3, 666; Griffiths 664, 666; Hancock 602; Horne 600, 602-3; Mason 602; Scott 663; Smith 600, 663
- Main estimates 2014-2015, amendment A3 (associate minister's office budget) (Eggen: defeated) ... Eggen 486

Ministry of Health (continued)

- Main estimates 2014-2015, Standing Committee on Families and Communities report on review of proposed estimates and business plan presented ... Olesen 486
- Main estimates 2014-2015, Standing Committee on Families and Communities report on review of proposed estimates and business plan, tabling of amendments introduced ... Olesen 486
- Main estimates 2014-2015 vote ... 487
- Operational funding ... Horner 104
- Supplementary supply estimates 2013-2014, no. 2, debate ... Horne 75, 78-79; Horner 68; Notley 75, 78-79
- Supplementary supply estimates 2013-2014, no. 2, operational funding, operational funding, vote ... 83

Ministry of Human Services

- Note: Main estimates 2014-2015 were debated in the Standing Committee on Families and Communities: <http://www.assembly.ab.ca/committees/familiesandcommunities/index.html>*
- Associate Minister of Family and Community Safety's remarks to news media ... Hancock 253-54; Jansen 324-25; Rowe 324-25; Smith 253-54
- Associate Minister of Family and Community Safety's travel with daughter ... Jansen 426; Smith 426
- Budget 2014-2015 ... Sherman 111
- Funding ... Blakeman 561; Hancock 111
- Main estimates 2014-2015, amendment A4 (associate minister's office budget) (Notley: defeated) ... Notley 486
- Main estimates 2014-2015, Standing Committee on Families and Communities report on review of proposed estimates and business plan presented ... Olesen 486
- Main estimates 2014-2015, Standing Committee on Families and Communities report on review of proposed estimates and business plan, tabling of amendments introduced ... Olesen 486
- Main estimates 2014-2015 vote ... 487
- Minister's announcement of procedural changes for children in care ... Bhullar 389; Smith 389
- Minister's announcement of procedural changes for children in care, point of order on debate ... Anderson 398-99; Denis 399, 401; Hehr 399-400; Oberle 399-400; Sherman 400; Speaker, The 399-401
- Operational funding ... Horner 104
- Services for vulnerable persons ... Notley 621-22
- Supplementary supply estimates 2013-2014, no. 2, debate ... Allen 76; Bhardwaj 74, 77-78; Hehr 77-78; Horner 68, 70; Notley 73-74; Oberle 74
- Supplementary supply estimates 2013-2014, no. 2, operational and capital funding; financial transactions, vote ... 83

Ministry of Infrastructure

- Note: Main estimates 2014-2015 were debated in the Standing Committee on Alberta's Economic Future: <http://www.assembly.ab.ca/committees/abeconomicfuture/index.html>*
- Funding ... Smith 178
- Main estimates 2014-2015, Standing Committee on Alberta's Economic Future report on review of proposed estimates and business plan presented ... Amery 486
- Main estimates 2014-2015 vote ... 487
- Minister's meetings with industry ... Anderson 375; McIver 373, 375; Smith 373
- Minister's meetings with industry, point of clarification on Speaker's intervention ... Speaker, The 384

Ministry of Infrastructure (continued)

- Minister's meetings with industry, point of order on debate ... Anderson 382, 383, 384; Blakeman 382-83; Campbell 382, 383; Speaker, The 383-84
- Supplementary supply estimates 2013-2014, no. 2, debate ... Horner 68
- Supplementary supply estimates 2013-2014, no. 2, operational funding, vote ... 83

Ministry of Innovation and Advanced Education

- Note: Main estimates 2014-2015 were debated in the Standing Committee on Alberta's Economic Future: <http://www.assembly.ab.ca/committees/abeconomicfuture/index.html>*
- Budget 2014-2015 ... Blakeman 561
- Funding from supplementary supply ... Eggen 187-88
- Main estimates 2014-2015, Standing Committee on Alberta's Economic Future report on review of proposed estimates and business plan presented ... Amery 486
- Main estimates 2014-2015 vote ... 487
- Operational funding ... Horner 104
- Supplementary supply estimates 2013-2014, no. 2, debate ... Notley 73; Oberle 74
- Supplementary supply estimates 2013-2014, no. 2, operational and capital funding, vote ... 83

Ministry of International and Intergovernmental Relations

- Note: Main estimates 2014-2015 were debated in the Standing Committee on Alberta's Economic Future: <http://www.assembly.ab.ca/committees/abeconomicfuture/index.html>*
- Budget 2014-2015 ... Blakeman 561
- Hiring of former Premier's office staff member ... Fox 205-6; Hancock 206
- Main estimates 2014-2015, amendment A5 (associate minister's office budget) (Mason: defeated) ... Mason 486
- Main estimates 2014-2015, Standing Committee on Alberta's Economic Future report on review of proposed estimates and business plan presented ... Amery 486
- Main estimates 2014-2015, Standing Committee on Alberta's Economic Future report on review of proposed estimates and business plan, tabling of amendments introduced ... Amery 486
- Main estimates 2014-2015 vote ... 487
- Minister's use of government airplanes ... Horner 254; Smith 254
- Ministry organizational structure ... Fox 313; Hancock 313; Woo-Paw 313

Ministry of Jobs, Skills, Training and Labour

- Note: Main estimates 2014-2015 were debated in the Standing Committee on Alberta's Economic Future: <http://www.assembly.ab.ca/committees/abeconomicfuture/index.html>*
- Funding ... Smith 178
- Main estimates 2014-2015, Standing Committee on Alberta's Economic Future report on review of proposed estimates and business plan presented ... Amery 486
- Main estimates 2014-2015 vote ... 487

Ministry of Justice and Solicitor General

- Note: Main estimates 2014-2015 were debated in the Standing Committee on Families and Communities: <http://www.assembly.ab.ca/committees/familiesandcommunities/index.html>*

Ministry of Justice (continued)

- Main estimates 2014-2015, Standing Committee on Families and Communities report on review of proposed estimates and business plan presented ... Olesen 486
- Main estimates 2014-2015 vote ... 487
- Minister's decision on GPS monitoring of domestic violence offenders ... Denis 389; Smith 389
- Minister's decision on GPS monitoring of domestic violence offenders, point of order on debate ... Anderson 401; Denis 401; Oberle 401-2; Speaker, The 402
- Minister's personal and family history ... Denis 281
- Roles of Solicitor General, Attorney General, Deputy Attorney General, and Deputy Minister in administration of Government Organization Act See Statutes Amendment Act, 2014 (Bill 12)

Ministry of Municipal Affairs

- Note: Main estimates 2014-2015 were debated in the Standing Committee on Resource Stewardship: <http://www.assembly.ab.ca/committees/resourcestewardship/index.html>*
- Associate ministers ... Blakeman 561
- Main estimates 2014-2015, amendment A6 (associate minister's office budget) (Bilous: defeated) ... Bilous 486-87
- Main estimates 2014-2015, Standing Committee on Resource Stewardship report on review of proposed estimates and business plan presented ... Khan 486
- Main estimates 2014-2015, Standing Committee on Resource Stewardship report on review of proposed estimates and business plan, tabling of amendments introduced ... Khan 486
- Main estimates 2014-2015 vote ... 487
- New minister, change in Bill 6 sponsorship to reflect, Speaker's statement on ... Speaker, The 395
- Supplementary supply estimates 2013-2014, no. 2, debate ... Allen 76; Anglin 70-71; Hehr 72; Horner 68; Hughes 71, 76-77
- Supplementary supply estimates 2013-2014, no. 2, operational and capital funding, vote ... 83
- Supplementary supply estimates 2013-2014, no. 2, transfer from operational to capital expense, vote ... 84
- Supplementary supply estimates 2013-2014, no. 2, transfer to operational expense from Education operational, vote ... 83
- Supplementary supply estimates 2013-2014, no. 2, transfer to operational expense from Transportation capital, vote ... 83

Ministry of Service Alberta

- Note: Main estimates 2014-2015 were debated in the Standing Committee on Families and Communities: <http://www.assembly.ab.ca/committees/familiesandcommunities/index.html>*
- Associate Minister, Accountability, Transparency and Transformation ... Griffiths 667; Scott 667; Towle 667
- Departmental staff, full-time equivalents ... Smith 178
- Information security management standards ... Griffiths 670; Young 670
- Main estimates 2014-2015, amendment A7 (associate minister's office budget) (Eggen: defeated) ... Eggen 487
- Main estimates 2014-2015, Standing Committee on Families and Communities report on review of proposed estimates and business plan presented ... Olesen 486

Ministry of Service Alberta (continued)

- Main estimates 2014-2015, Standing Committee on Families and Communities report on review of proposed estimates and business plan, tabling of amendments introduced ... Olesen 486
- Main estimates 2014-2015 vote ... 487
- Supplementary supply estimates 2013-2014, no. 2, debate ... Horner 68
- Supplementary supply estimates 2013-2014, no. 2, operational and capital funding, vote ... 83

Ministry of Tourism, Parks and Recreation

- Note: Main estimates 2014-2015 were debated in the Standing Committee on Alberta's Economic Future: <http://www.assembly.ab.ca/committees/abeconomicfuture/index.html>*
- Associate deputy minister position ... Starke 346; Strankman 346
- Budget 2014-2015 ... Blakeman 560
- Main estimates 2014-2015, Standing Committee on Alberta's Economic Future report on review of proposed estimates and business plan presented ... Amery 486
- Main estimates 2014-2015 vote ... 487
- Minister's use of government airplanes ... Smith 254; Starke 254
- Supplementary supply estimates 2013-2014, no. 2, debate ... Horner 68
- Supplementary supply estimates 2013-2014, no. 2, operational and capital funding, vote ... 83

Ministry of Transportation

- Note: Main estimates 2014-2015 were debated in the Standing Committee on Resource Stewardship: <http://www.assembly.ab.ca/committees/resourcestewardship/index.html>*
- Main estimates 2014-2015, Standing Committee on Resource Stewardship report on review of proposed estimates and business plan presented ... Khan 486
- Main estimates 2014-2015 vote ... 487
- Supplementary supply estimates 2013-2014, no. 2, debate ... Bilous 81; Drysdale 81; Horner 68
- Supplementary supply estimates 2013-2014, no. 2, operational funding and financial transactions, vote ... 83
- Supplementary supply estimates 2013-2014, no. 2, transfer from capital vote to operation vote of Municipal Affairs ... Bilous 81; Drysdale 81
- Supplementary supply estimates 2013-2014, no. 2, transfer from capital vote to operation vote of Municipal Affairs, vote ... 83; Bilous 81

Ministry of Treasury Board and Finance

- Note: Main estimates 2014-2015 were debated in the Standing Committee on Resource Stewardship: <http://www.assembly.ab.ca/committees/resourcestewardship/index.html>*
- Alberta Federation of Labour request for information under FOIP from ... Griffiths 664; Smith 664
- Assistant deputy minister's remarks on budget documents ... Horner 663; Smith 663
- Finance division, budget 2014-2015 ... Blakeman 561
- Main estimates 2014-2015, Standing Committee on Resource Stewardship report on review of proposed estimates and business plan presented ... Khan 486
- Main estimates 2014-2015 vote ... 487

Minors' Property Act amendments

See Estate Administration Act (Bill 4)

Misericordia community hospital

Capital needs ... Bilous 578; Eggen 111–12, 413–14; Forsyth 256–57; Horne 111–12, 256–57, 410, 413–14; Mason 222; Notley 222; Sherman 410
Replacement, timeline on ... Hancock 427; McIver 427; Sherman 427

Missions, trade

See International trade: Trade missions

MLA for a Day, Mr. Speaker's

See Speaker: Mr. Speaker's MLA for a Day program

MLAs

See Members of the Legislative Assembly

MMR (measles, mumps, and rubella) vaccine

See Immunization

Motions Other than Government Motions

See Motions (current session)

Motions (procedure)

No. 14, request for waiver of Standing Order 39(1), requirement of notice (unanimous consent granted) ... 779
No. 501, linear property assessments, division ... 141
No. 502, repeal of Alberta Human Rights Act section 3(1)(b), division ... 287
No. 503, legislation on school supports policies on inclusiveness, division ... 368
Debatable motions, amendments to standing orders (Government Motion 7: carried) ... Campbell 25–26
Request that House continue past adjournment hour to complete debate ... Anderson 285; Denis 285; Speaker, The 285, 286

Motions (current session)

Note: Motions numbered 1-499 are government motions; those numbered 501 and higher are private members' motions

No. 1, consideration of throne speech on March 4, 2014 (carried) ... 5
No. 2, Assembly resolution into Committee of the Whole (carried) ... 25
No. 3, Assembly resolution into Committee of Supply (carried) ... 25
No. 4, evening sittings of the Assembly (carried) ... 25
No. 5, referral of Lieutenant Governor's message, supplementary supply estimates 2013-2014 (no. 2), and all connected matters referred to Committee of Supply (carried) ... 25
No. 6, Committee of Supply consideration of 2013-2014 supplementary supply estimates no. 2 for general revenue fund for 6 hours on March 5 (carried) ... 25
No. 7, amendments to standing orders (committee membership, consideration of main estimates) (carried) ... 25–26
No. 8, committee membership changes (Alberta Heritage Savings Trust Fund; Legislative Offices; Private Bills; Privileges and Elections, Standing Orders and Printing; Public Accounts; Members' Services; Alberta's Economic Future, Families and Communities; Resource Stewardship) (carried) ... 26
No. 9, adjournment of spring sitting pursuant to Standing Order 3(9) (carried) ... 26
No. 10, Standing Order 3 modification to allow for spring sitting to extend beyond the first Thursday in June (carried) ... 26
No. 11, Budget Address ... 102–6, 174–83, 220–26
No. 12, address in reply to Speech from the Throne engrossed and presented to the Lieutenant Governor (carried) ... 331

Motions (current session) (continued)

No. 13, committee membership changes (standing committees on Families and Communities, Alberta's Economic Future, Resource Stewardship, Public Accounts, Alberta Heritage Savings Trust Fund) (carried) ... 778–79
No. 14, Ethics Commissioner appointment (carried unanimously) ... 779
No. 501, linear property assessments (defeated) ... 134–41
No. 502, Alberta Human Rights Act, repeal of section 3(1)(b) (defeated) ... 284–87
No. 503, legislation on school board policies on inclusiveness (defeated) ... 361–68
No. 504, Traffic Safety Act amendment re speeding penalties (carried) ... 452–58
No. 505, public reporting of privacy breaches (carried) ... 707–10
Bill 9, Public Sector Pension Plans Amendment Act, 2014, referral to Standing Committee on Alberta's Economic Future (carried) ... 717–18
Bill 10, Employment Pension (Private Sector) Plans Amendment Act, 2014, referral to Standing Committee on Alberta's Economic Future (carried) ... 718
Speech from the Throne, motion on ... 27–41, 43–47, 64–67, 156–59, 193–98, 234–36, 331

Motions (previous session, 2012)

No. 519 See Alberta heritage savings trust fund: Review of fund (Motion Other than Government Motion 519, 2012); Sustainability fund: Review of fund (Motion Other than Government Motion 519, 2012)

Motions for returns (current session)

M1, survey for Budget 2014 priorities (Hehr: defeated) ... 443
M2, flood mitigation measures (Blakeman: accepted) ... 442
M3, flood/disaster insurance studies (Hehr: accepted) ... 442
M4, online portal for registry services (Kang: accepted) ... 443
M5, proposals to amend tax rates for small brewers (Hehr: defeated) ... 443–44
M6, proposals to amend spirit distillation rules (Hehr/Swann: defeated) ... 444
M7, Task Force for Teaching Excellence participant criteria (Hehr: accepted) ... 442
M8, LandLink Consulting performance review (Blakeman: accepted) ... 443

Motions Other than Government Motions

See Motions (current session)

Motor vehicle licences

See Drivers' licences

Motor vehicles

Off-road vehicles See All-terrain vehicles

Movie industry – Calgary

See Film and television industry – Calgary

MSA

Investigation into corporations' economic withholding/market manipulation of prices See Electric power – Retail sales: Corporations' economic withholding/market manipulation, investigation by Market Surveillance Administrator

MSI

See Municipal sustainability initiative

- Multiculturalism
General remarks ... Sherman 284
- Mumps, immunization against
See Immunization
- Municipal Affairs ministry
See Ministry of Municipal Affairs
- Municipal charters
See Cities and towns: Civic charters
- Municipal Districts and Counties, Alberta Association of See Alberta Association of Municipal Districts and Counties
- Municipal Government Act
Review ... Casey 514; Speech from the Throne 2; Weadick 514
- Municipal Government Act amendments
2013 amendment act See Municipal Government Amendment Act, 2013 (Bill 17, 2013)
Gender reference changes See Statutes Amendment Act, 2014 (Bill 12)
- Municipal Government Amendment Act, 2013 (Bill 17, 2013)
General remarks ... Swann 715
- Municipal sustainability initiative
Funding ... Anglin 40; Blakeman 141; Horner 103; Lemke 137; Leskiw 253; Stier 139; Wilson 136
Funding for public transportation ... Hughes 57; Quadri 57
Funding from supplementary supply ... Rowe 32; Wilson 32
Provincial strategy ... Speech from the Throne 2
- Municipalities
Fusarium management policies ... Donovan 124–25
Land annexation process ... Rogers 414–15; Weadick 415
Land classified as flood prone (Written Question 10: accepted) ... Blakeman 436
Relations with provincial government, Official Opposition position ... Smith 65
- Municipalities – Finance
Bridge repair costs See Bridges – Maintenance and repair: Cost to municipalities
Federal grant funding, access to ... Hancock 792; Smith 792
Flood recovery erosion control funding ... Casey 246–47; Hughes 247
Funding ... Allen 76; Barnes 47; Bilous 158; Leskiw 253; Wilson 622
Funding models, members' statements on ... Wilson 18–19
Grant programs [See also Municipal sustainability initiative]; Bikman 140
Infrastructure funding ... Allen 225; Blakeman 140–41; Hughes 171; Xiao 171
Linear property assessment See Property tax: Linear property assessment
Official Opposition position, 10-10 plan ... Rowe 139; Smith 178; Stier 139; Wilson 18–19, 136
Property tax revenue See Property tax
Student hiring, support for ... Fenske 771; Weadick 771
- Murphy, Emily
See Famous Five
- Museums and heritage sites
Funding ... Bilous 82; Klimchuk 82
- Museums and heritage sites – Lamont county
See Ukrainian Cultural Heritage Village
- Mussels
Invasive species ... Campbell 535; Pastoor 535
Invasive species, members' statements on ... Pastoor 531
- Mycotoxin of Fusarium
See Fusarium graminearum
- National Day of Honour
See Canadian Forces: End of mission in Afghanistan, members' statements on the National Day of Honour
- National Day of Mourning
See Workplace health and safety
- National Day of Remembrance of the Battle of Vimy Ridge
See World War II
- National Lymphedema Awareness Day
See Lymphedema: National Lymphedema Awareness Day
- Native children
See Aboriginal children
- Native land claims
See Aboriginal peoples – Claims
- Native people
See Aboriginal peoples
- Native people – Consultation
See Aboriginal peoples – Consultation
- Native women – Violence against
See Aboriginal women – Violence against
- Natural gas – Prices
See Gas – Prices
- Navigator Ltd. (public relations firm)
Sole-source communications contracts for Southern Alberta floods See Floods – Southern Alberta: Communications contracts
Sole-source communications contract on deaths of children in care See Children – Protective services: Deaths and injuries, communications consulting contracts re
- Neonatal intensive care
See Alberta Children's hospital: Neonatal intensive care unit
- Neonatal screening
See Health promotion: Neonatal screening
- Netherlands, the
See World War II: Liberation of the Netherlands, members' statements on
- New Democratic opposition
Information requests under FOIP ... Eggen 695
Members' Statements and Oral Question Period rotation, Speaker's statement on ... Speaker, The 10
Policies See under specific topics
Tribute to leader Brian Mason ... Hancock 764; Smith 764–65; Speaker, The 763–64, 765, 766; Swann 765
Tribute to leader Brian Mason, response ... Mason 765–66
- New Home Buyer Protection Amendment Act, 2014 (Bill 6)
First reading ... Campbell 300
Second reading ... Anglin 419; Bilous 419–21; Blakeman 417–19; Weadick 330–31, 421; Wilson 421
Committee ... Anglin 494–95, 497–501; Blakeman 500–501; Fox 495–96; Mason 501–3; Strankman 496; Weadick 493–94, 496–99, 502
Committee amendment A1 (registration fee exemption for new homes for personal use) (Anglin: defeated) ... Anglin 494–95, 497; Fox 495–96; Strankman 496; Weadick 496–97
Committee amendment A2 (limitation on registration fee for new homes for personal use) (Anglin: defeated) ... Anglin 497–500, 501; Blakeman 500–501; Weadick 498–99

New Home Buyer Protection Amendment Act, 2014(Bill 6) (continued)

- Committee amendment A3 (coverage on materials and labour, building envelope) (Mason: defeated) ... Mason 501–3; Weadick 502
- Third reading ... Deputy Chair 657; Weadick 522–23
- Royal Assent ... 24 April 2014 (outside of House sitting)
- Change of sponsorship, Speaker's statement on ... Speaker, The 395
- Provisions for administrative penalties ... Weadick 494
- Provisions for apartment building owners ... Blakeman 418; Weadick 493–94
- Provisions for appeals ... Weadick 494
- Provisions for homeowner-builders ... Anglin 419, 494, 495, 499, 501; Blakeman 500–501; Weadick 523; Wilson 421

New West Partnership

Agreement on trade, governing legislation See Statutes Amendment Act, 2014 (Bill 12)

Newell county – Crime

See Dogs – Newell county: Thefts

NICUs

See Alberta Children's hospital: Neonatal intensive care unit

Nobleford

Members' statements ... Donovan 683

Nobleford – Roads

See Highway 23: Intersection with highway 519

Nonprofit organizations

[See also Volunteers]

- Audit requirements ... Blakeman 741–42
- Entrepreneurial activities ... Eggen 186–87; Swann 185–86, 231
- Human service provision, employee compensation ... Notley 571
- Research fund See Social innovation fund
- Successful organizations ... Young 407

Nonprofit organizations – Law and legislation

[See Charitable Fund-raising Act]

Nonrenewable resource revenue

See Revenue: Nonrenewable resource revenue

North West Upgrading Inc.

See Bitumen – Upgrading: North West project cost

Northern leaders summit

Members' statements... Leskiw 327–28

Norway

Investment fund See Alberta heritage savings trust fund: Comparison to Norwegian fund

Tax policy See Tax policy – Norway

Notices of motions (procedure)

Request for waiver of Standing Order 39(1), requirement of notice, for Assembly to debate

Government Motion 14 (unanimous consent granted) ... Campbell 779

Notices of motions (current session)

Note: Notices are not indexed but are included in Votes and Proceedings, under Assembly Documents and Records; the actual motions are included in the index.

See <http://www.assembly.ab.ca>

Nova Scotia – Taxation

See Property tax – Nova Scotia

NPOs

See Nonprofit organizations

Numeracy – Curricula

See Education – Curricula: Curriculum redesign

Nurses

Member's personal experience ... Fox 630

Nurses – Education

See Grande Prairie Regional College

Nursing homes

See Long-term care facilities (nursing homes/auxiliary hospitals)

Nuthall, Teresa

Fundraising initiatives See Wanham: Fundraising initiatives for cancer, members' statements on

NWP

Governing legislation See Statutes Amendment Act, 2014 (Bill 12)

O Canada

Sung by Robert Clark ... Speaker, The 1

Sung by Robert Clark, to be regular leader of national anthem in Assembly ... Speaker, The 107

Sung by the Bonnyville Tune-Agers ... Speaker, The 529

Occupational health and safety

See Workplace health and safety

Farm safety See Agriculture – Safety measures: Canadian Agricultural Safety Week

Office of the Premier

Caucus support for Premier ... Mason 255; Redford 255

Communications expenses ... Hancock 111; Sherman 111

Expenses, oversight of ... Hancock 766; Smith 766

Former staff member's government employment ... Fox 205–6; Hancock 206

Funding ... Eggen 527; Hancock 111; Mason 220; Sherman 111, 180; Smith 178

Hosting expenses ... Hancock 111; Sherman 111

Premier Hancock's apology at party fundraising event ... Bikman 696; Hancock 683–84; Sherman 791; Smith 683–84

Premier Hancock's term of office ... Hancock 793; Smith 793

Premier Redford's public service ... Mason 321; Sherman 319; Smith 319

Premier Redford's relationship with Executive Council ... Fox 200

Premier Redford's security service ... Denis 92; Mason 92

Premier Redford's trade mission to India ... Sandhu 328

Premier Redford's travel expenses ... Eggen 99; Hancock 99; Horner 53; Mason 92; Redford 53–54, 90, 92; Smith 53–54, 90

Premier Redford's travel to Jasper ... Hancock 425, 462–63, 476–77, 508; Horner 426; Smith 425–26, 462–63, 476–77, 508

Premier Redford's travel to Jasper, point of order on debate ... Anderson 517–18; Blakeman 518; Olson 518; Speaker, The 518–19

Premier Redford's travel to South Africa ... Anderson 11; Donovan 29; Mason 12; Redford 10–12, 53–54, 55, 90; Sherman 11–12, 55; Smith 10–11, 53, 66, 90

Premier Redford's travel to South Africa, members' statements on ... Smith 52

Premier Redford's travel to South Africa, repayment (proposed) ... Anderson 11; Hancock 111, 203; Horner 203; Redford 11–12, 53–55, 166; Sherman 11–12, 55, 111, 165, 203; Smith 10–11, 53

Premier Redford's travel to South Africa, repayment, members' statements on ... Saskiw 248–49

Premier Redford's travel with family, repayment ... Mason 55; Redford 55–56

Speaker's welcome to new Premier, Speaker's statement on ... Hancock 333; Speaker, The 333

Office of the Premier (continued)

Staff severance payments ... Donovan 619; Hancock 321–22, 339; Mason 321–22; Smith 339

Officers of the Legislative Assembly

See Auditor General; Child and Youth Advocate; Ethics Commissioner; Information and Privacy Commissioner; Legislative offices Budget officer (proposed) See Independent Budget Officer Act (Bill 202)

Official Opposition

10-10 plan See Municipalities – Finance
Information requests under FOIP ... Anglin 700–701
Members' Statements and Oral Question Period rotation, Speaker's statements on ... Speaker, The 10
Policies See under specific topics
Policies, members' statements on ... Anglin 371

Oil and gas industries

See Energy industries

Oil sands – Upgrading

See Bitumen – Upgrading

Oil sands development

Economic significance ... Allen 156–57, 224–25
Foreign workers See Temporary foreign workers
Infrastructure needs ... Allen 157
Worker fatalities ... Allen 662; Notley 662

Oil sands development – Environmental aspects

Emissions reduction strategies ... Swann 235–36
Environmental impact assessment hearings, participation in ... Blakeman 796–97; Campbell 796–97
Extraction resumption following leaks See Alberta Energy Regulator: Approval of bitumen extraction near leaks
Monitoring ... Blakeman 258; Campbell 258
Regulation compliance and enforcement ... Blakeman 664–65; Campbell 665; McQueen 665

Oil sands royalties

See Bitumen – Royalties

OIPC's office

See Information and Privacy Commissioner's office

Okotoks – Water management

See Water management – Okotoks

Okotoks health and wellness centre

Parking access ... Rodney 482; Smith 482

Oliver school

See Schools – Edmonton: Central Edmonton schools

Ombudsman's office

Main estimates 2014-2015 See Legislative offices: Estimates of supply 2014-2015 vote

Open-data portal

Statistics (Written Question 29: accepted) ... Kang 437

Opposition, Official

See Official Opposition

Optometrists, Alberta Association of

Recommendations on Bill 203 See Childhood Vision Assessment Act (Bill 203): Amendments proposed by the Alberta Association of Optometrists

OQP procedure

See Oral Question Period (procedure)

OQP topics

See Oral Question Period (current session topics)

Oral Question Period (procedure)

[See also Points of order (current session)]

Brevity (35-second rule) ... Speaker, The 306, 516, 531
Indirect remarks ... Speaker, The 216–17
Interruptions ... Speaker, The 463

Oral Question Period (procedure) (continued)

Interruptions, Speaker's rulings on ... Speaker, The 793
Interruptions, Speaker's statements on ... Speaker, The 306, 608
Preambles to supplementary questions, Speaker's statements on ... Speaker, The 469, 608
Questions asking for legal opinions ... Speaker, The 345
Questions in anticipation ... Speaker, The 13, 345
Questions in anticipation, point of order on ... Blakeman 22–23; Campbell 22; Speaker, The 23; Wilson 23
Questions on internal party matters ... Speaker, The 375, 428
Questions on internal party matters, point of clarification on ... Speaker, The 384
Questions on internal party matters, points of order on debate ... Anderson 401; Denis 401; Oberle 401–2; Speaker, The 402
Questions on internal party matters, Speaker's rulings on ... Speaker, The 203, 204, 340, 389
Questions on items previously decided, Speaker's rulings on ... Speaker, The 394
Questions referring to persons in the galleries, Speaker's rulings on ... Speaker, The 165
Questions that seek opinions ... Speaker, The 110
Questions to committee chairs, Speaker's statements on ... Speaker, The 469
Repetition of questions, Speaker's rulings on ... Speaker, The 390
Rotation of questions, Speaker's statements on ... Speaker, The 10, 291, 305–6
Rules and practices ... Speaker, The 253
Rules and practices, Speaker's statements on ... Speaker, The 469
Supplemental question denied because of lack of decorum in Assembly ... Notley 122; Speaker, The 115, 116, 122
Supplemental question denied because of lack of decorum in Assembly, point of clarification on ... Blakeman 121, 123; Brown 122; Notley 122; Speaker, The 120–23; Wilson 121
Timing of speakers, Speaker's statements on ... Speaker, The 306

Oral Question Period (current session topics)

Abuse of seniors in care ... Horne 243; Towle 243
Acute health care in Consort ... Horne 539; Strankman 539
AISH wait times ... Bhullar 431; Towle 431
Alberta Energy Regulator investigations ... Blakeman 95; Campbell 95
Alberta future fund ... Horner 308–9; Kennedy-Glans 308–9
Alberta Health Services administration costs ... Horne 306; Smith 306
Alberta Health Services consulting contracts ... Forsyth 374–75, 391–92, 411, 511; Hancock 388, 511; Horne 371–72, 374–75, 387, 391–92, 411–12; Smith 371–72, 387–88
Alberta Health Services executive compensation ... Horne 292; Smith 292
Alberta Health Services sole-source contracts ... Anderson 464; Forsyth 464, 479; Hancock 461–62, 464, 475–76, 479; Smith 461–62, 475–76
ALERT program funding ... Fraser 514–15; Hale 514; Olson 514
All-terrain vehicles ... Griffiths 799; McDonald 798; Starke 798
AltaLink sale approval process ... Dallas 688; Hale 688; McQueen 688

Oral Question Period (current session topics) (continued)

Anthony Henday Drive northeast portion ... Drysdale 327; Olesen 327
 Assisted reproductive technology policy ... Anderson 690; Horne 690
 Associate Minister of Family and Community Safety ... Hancock 253–54; Redford 254; Smith 253–54
 Associate Minister of Family and Community Safety's remarks ... Jansen 324–25; Rowe 324–25
 Athabasca River water quality ... Blakeman 258; Campbell 258
 Avalanche safety ... Pastoor 346; Starke 346
 Bighorn sheep harvest ... Brown 392; Campbell 392
 Bitumen extraction resumption approval ... Blakeman 664–65; Campbell 665; McQueen 665
 Bonnyville-Cold Lake infrastructure funding ... Drysdale 314; Leskiw 313–14; McQueen 313
 Bridge maintenance and repair ... Donovan 260, 378; Drysdale 260, 378; Olson 260; Weadick 378
 Budget 2014 ... Hancock 320; Horner 320; Smith 320
 Builders' liens ... Griffiths 347; Quadri 347
 Building Alberta plan advertising ... Barnes 311–12; McIver 312
 Bullying prevention ... Fenske 16; Jansen 16; Johnson, J. 16
 Cabinet air travel expenses ... Horner 165; Redford 165–66; Sherman 165
 Cabinet travel expense policy ... Hancock 56; Mason 55–56; Redford 55–56; Sherman 55
 Cabinet travel to Grand Prairie ... Drysdale 239; Hancock 240; Horne 240; Smith 239–40
 Calgary aging in place initiative ... Luan 481–82; Quest 481–82
 Calgary film studio ... Klimchuk 772; Pedersen 772
 Calgary school infrastructure ... Bilous 296–97; Johnson, J. 297
 Calgary southwest ring road ... Drysdale 98, 245; Johnson, L. 98; Wilson 245
 Calgary southwest ring road contract ... Drysdale 379; Wilson 379
 Calgary southwest ring road cost ... Drysdale 295–96; Horner 295; Stier 295–96
 Cancer incidence and treatment ... Horne 393; Swann 393
 Cancer prevention and treatment ... Dorward 248; Horne 248
 Carbon conservation ... Campbell 376; VanderBurg 376
 Carbon emissions reductions ... Campbell 411; Kennedy-Glans 411; McQueen 411
 Cardston hospital renovation ... Bikman 259; Horne 259
 Care facility restrictions on family member visits ... Horne 770, 796; Quest 770, 796; Towle 770, 796
 Child poverty ... Bhullar 241; Swann 241
 Child poverty reduction strategy ... Bhullar 114–15; Notley 114–15
 Childhood immunization ... Hehr 667–68; Rodney 667–68
 Chronic fatigue syndrome ... Khan 482–83; Rodney 482–83
 Construction labour legislation review ... Bikman 730–31; Lukaszuk 731
 Continuity in health care ... Forsyth 261; Horne 261
 Continuity of care for children at risk ... Bhullar 728; Horne 728; Towle 728
 Daycare ... Bhullar 465; Jeneroux 464–65
 Dementia and mental health services ... Horne 686; Kennedy-Glans 686; Quest 686
 Development hearing participation ... Blakeman 771; Campbell 771

Oral Question Period (current session topics) (continued)

Dialysis service for Strathcona County residents ... Horne 773–74; Olesen 773–74
 Disaster recovery program administration ... Fraser 669–70; Hughes 293; Smith 293, 724–25, 767; Weadick 725, 767; Wilson 669–70
 Disaster recovery program claims ... Campbell 515; DeLong 515; Hughes 202–3, 205, 240–41, 254–55, 307; Smith 202–3, 240–41, 254–55, 307; Weadick 515; Wilson 204–5
 Domestic violence offender monitoring ... Denis 344; Saskiw 344
 Drilling in urban areas ... Bilous 258; Hehr 310–11; McQueen 258–59, 311; Notley 311
 Drinking water contamination complaint ... Campbell 774; Fox 774; McQueen 774
 Edmonton sporting event hosting capabilities ... Dorward 795–96; Klimchuk 795; Starke 796
 Edmonton's Elevate report ... Dorward 429; Johnson, J. 429; Weadick 429
 Education funding ... Bilous 797; Hancock 797
 Education initiatives ... Jeneroux 343–44; Johnson, J. 344; McIver 343–44
 Education performance measures ... Hehr 261–62; Johnson, J. 261–62; McIver 262
 Education property tax ... Allen 342–43; Weadick 342–43
 Educational curriculum redesign ... Bilous 169, 207; Fenske 168; Goudreau 309–10; Hancock 606, 769; Johnson, J. 168–69, 207–8, 242, 309–10, 430; McAllister 242, 310, 430, 606, 769
 Educational system reform ... Hancock 727; McAllister 727; McQueen 727
 Electricity generation from renewable sources ... Kennedy-Glans 510; McQueen 510
 Electricity market investigation ... Anglin 15–16, 56; Hehr 14–15; Kennedy-Glans 14–16, 56; Lemke 14
 Electricity prices ... Anglin 670–71, 729–30; Hancock 724; Hehr 536; McQueen 536, 670–71, 723–24, 729–30; Smith 723–24
 Electricity pricing ... Anglin 112–13, 246; Denis 166; Hehr 58, 168–69; Kennedy-Glans 58, 112–13, 166, 168–69; Mason 166; McQueen 246; Redford 91; Smith 91
 Electricity system ... Mason 726; McQueen 684, 726; Smith 684
 Electricity system regulation ... Anglin 687; McQueen 687
 Elk population in northern Alberta ... Campbell 96–97; Goudreau 96; Olson 96
 Emergency medical dispatch services ... Horne 96; Pedersen 96
 Emergency turnarounds on highways ... Drysdale 666; Webber 665–66
 Environmental Agency Appointment ... Blakeman 509; Campbell 509
 Environmental hearing participation ... Blakeman 796–97; Campbell 796–97
 Family and community support services ... Bhullar 467; Notley 466–67
 Family care clinics ... Hancock 724; Horne 54–55, 724; Smith 54–55, 724
 Farm worker labour protection ... Lukaszuk 244; Olson 244; Swann 244
 Federal building redevelopment plan ... Anderson 343; Bilous 345; Hancock 343, 345; McIver 340, 343, 345, 388; Smith 339–40, 388
 Federal building redevelopment project management ... Drysdale 792; Hancock 792–94; Notley 794; Smith 792–93

Oral Question Period (current session topics) (continued)

Federal funding programs ... Hancock 792; Horner 792; Smith 792
 Fire safety in seniors' facilities ... Eggen 512–13; Quest 513; Weadick 513
 Firearm collection during High River flooding ... Denis 538; Saskiw 538
 First responder communication system ... Denis 60–61; Young 60–61
 Flood advisory and warning system ... Campbell 409; Smith 409
 Flood recovery and mitigation ... Hughes 169–70; Smith 169–70
 Flood recovery communications contracts ... Blakeman 321; Hancock 293–94, 341, 373–74; Hughes 307–8, 321; Sherman 293–94, 307, 341, 373–74
 Flood-related buyouts in High River ... Hughes 320–21; Smith 320–21
 Flood-related temporary housing ... Johnson, L. 537–38; Weadick 538
 FOIP request process ... Blakeman 480, 605; Forsyth 666; Griffiths 535, 664, 666–67; Hancock 477, 480, 509, 532–33, 599–600, 602, 605; Horne 600; Horner 664; Lukaszuk 532–33, 534–35, 602, 607; Mason 602; Saskiw 534–35; Scott 480, 605, 607, 663, 666–67; Sherman 477; Smith 509, 532–33, 599–600, 663–64; Towle 607, 667
 Fort Chipewyan cancer incidence ... Horne 390–91; Mason 390–91
 Freehold mineral rights legislation consultation ... Hale 799; McQueen 799
 Gas prices ... Anglin 394; McQueen 394–95
 Gift Lake school ... Calahasen 395; Johnson, J. 395; McIver 395
 Government advertising ... Hancock 427; Horner 426–27; Smith 426–27
 Government airplane usage ... Drysdale 202; Hancock 202–3, 425, 462–63; Horne 164, 201; Horner 163–64, 201, 203–4, 254, 426, 463; Jansen 426; Mason 204; Sherman 203; Smith 163–64, 201–2, 254, 425–26, 462–63; Starke 254
 Government communications ... Bhullar 725; Hancock 725–26, 766–67; Sherman 725–26; Smith 766–67
 Government communications budget ... Hancock 372; Horne 372–73; Smith 372–73
 Government data security ... Griffiths 670; Young 670
 Government effectiveness ... Hancock 308, 319–20; Mason 255–56, 308; Redford 255–56; Smith 319–20
 Government policies ... Eggen 605; Hancock 342, 605–6, 684–85; Mason 12, 342; Redford 12, 255; Sherman 255; Smith 684–85
 Government spending ... Anderson 375–76; Hancock 463; Horne 376; McIver 375; Sherman 463
 Government work plan ... Hancock 294; Mason 294
 Grain rail transportation backlog ... Drysdale 170; Kubinec 170; McDonald 97; Olson 97–98, 170, 539; Rogers 538–39
 Grizzly bear conservation ... Campbell 769–70; Lemke 769–70
 Health care budget oversight ... Hancock 768; Horne 768–69; Mason 768
 Health care performance indicators ... Horne 409–10; Sherman 409–10
 Health care performance measures ... Hancock 600; Horne 600; Smith 600
 Health care spending ... Horne 392–93; Towle 392–93
 Health care system ... Hancock 467; Rowe 467

Oral Question Period (current session topics) (continued)

Health care system information reporting ... Forsyth 602–3; Horne 602–3
 Health care wait times ... Amery 607–8; Horne 607–8
 Health facilities in Strathmore ... Hale 97; Horne 97
 Health facilities infrastructure ... Hancock 427; McIver 427; Sherman 427
 Health services in Slave Lake ... Forsyth 13–14; Horne 14
 Highway 3 intersection at Coalhurst ... Donovan 468; Drysdale 468–69
 Highway 19 twinning ... Drysdale 206–7; Rogers 206
 Highway 61 ... Barnes 326; Drysdale 326–27
 Highway 63 safety ... Allen 112; Denis 112
 Highway 744 landslide damage ... Drysdale 687; Goudreau 687
 Highway 881 ... Allen 256; Drysdale 256
 Highway maintenance ... Drysdale 468; McDonald 468
 Highway maintenance and rehabilitation ... Drysdale 295; Kubinec 295
 Highway maintenance contracts ... Campbell 480; Dallas 480; Stier 480
 Home care ... Amery 415–16; Horne 416
 In vitro fertilization funding ... Allen 726–27; Horne 726–27
 Infrastructure funding ... Barnes 115; Drysdale 115; McIver 115
 Infrastructure maintenance and repair ... Forsyth 294–95; Horne 294–95; McIver 294
 Infrastructure planning and maintenance ... Barnes 414; McIver 414
 Innovation system ... Hancock 731; Johnson, L. 731
 International and Intergovernmental Relations ministry ... Fox 313; Hancock 313; Woo-Paw 313
 International investment ... Horner 325; Luan 325; Woo-Paw 325
 International trade strategy ... Dallas 690; Lemke 690
 Invasive mussel species ... Campbell 535; Pastoor 535
 Keystone XL pipeline project ... Campbell 603; Hancock 603; McQueen 603–4; VanderBurg 603
 Kinship care ... Bhullar 323, 466; Calahasen 322–23; Denis 466; Johnson, L. 465–66
 Labour shortage in Bonnyville-Cold Lake ... Leskiw 94; Lukaszuk 94–95
 Land annexation process ... Rogers 414–15; Weadick 415
 Legal aid ... Blakeman 296; Denis 296
 Legal aid funding ... Blakeman 376–77; Denis 376–77; Notley 377
 Legal challenges to provincial legislation ... Denis 245; Notley 244–45
 Legal services for low-income Albertans ... Blakeman 207; Denis 207
 LGBTQ rights ... Hehr 512; Jansen 512
 LGBTQ student supports ... Bilous 393–94; Hancock 374; Hehr 344–45; Johnson, J. 344–45, 374, 390, 394; Mason 374; Sherman 389–90
 Life skills education and training ... Bikman 415; Johnson, J. 415; Lukaszuk 415
 Livestock industry regulations ... Blakeman 323–24; Campbell 324; Olson 323–24
 Long-term care beds ... Horne 325–26; Pedersen 325–26
 Long-term care in Fort McMurray ... McIver 309; Quest 309; Scott 309; Towle 309
 Loyalty program prohibition for prescription drugs ... Horne 606–7, 772–73; Khan 772–73; Xiao 606
 Lung cancer diagnosis and treatment ... Fox 433; Hancock 433; McIver 433; Quest 433
 Lyme disease ... Horne 98, 773; Rowe 98, 773

Oral Question Period (current session topics) (continued)

- Marigold library system funding ... Brown 479;
Weadick 479–80
- Mathematics curriculum ... Hancock 322; Johnson, J. 13, 57, 91, 164–65, 292–93; McAllister 13, 57, 164–65, 322; Redford 91; Smith 90–91, 292–93
- Medical laboratory services contract ... Horne 241–42; Mason 241–42
- Medicine Hat landfill fire ... Barnes 17–18; Campbell 18
- Mental health service procurement for adults ... Horne 799–800; Sandhu 799–800
- Ministers' activities ... Bhullar 389; Denis 389; McQueen 388–89; Smith 388–89
- Ministers' meeting with industry ... McIver 373; Smith 373
- Misericordia community hospital ... Eggen 111–12, 413–14; Forsyth 256–57; Horne 111–12, 256–57, 413–14; McIver 256
- Missing and murdered aboriginal women ... Allen 428, 534; Denis 534; Oberle 428, 534
- Mobile dialysis service ... Horne 117; Saskiw 117
- Municipal charters ... Dorward 259; Hughes 259
- Municipal funding ... Hughes 171; Xiao 171
- Municipal Government Act review ... Casey 514; Weadick 514
- Native grassland conservation ... Brown 115; Campbell 115–16
- North-south trade corridor ... Drysdale 326; McDonald 326
- North West upgrader project ... Bikman 668–69; Horner 668–69
- Okotoks Health and Wellness Centre parking ... Rodney 482; Smith 482
- Organ and tissue donation ... Horne 391; Webber 391
- Organ donor registry ... Horne 540; Sandhu 539–40
- Parenting resources in St. Albert ... Bhullar 298; Khan 298
- PDD supports intensity scale ... Bhardwaj 481, 536; Towle 481, 535–36
- PDD supports intensity scale assessments ... Bhardwaj 512; Towle 512
- Pembina Institute funding ... Hale 345–46, 377; Klimchuk 345–46; McQueen 346, 377–78
- Penalties for drinking and driving ... Denis 296; Jablonski 296
- Personal information collection by members ... Hancock 793–94; Sherman 793–94
- Pharmaceutical information network ... Horne 379; Young 379
- Physiotherapy services for seniors ... Fritz 17; Horne 17
- Planned transmission line shutdown ... Anglin 537; McQueen 537
- Political party leadership campaign financing ... Hancock 428; Mason 428
- Postsecondary education affordability ... Amery 208–9; Hancock 208–9
- Postsecondary education funding ... Hancock 730; Horne 730; Jeneroux 730
- Postsecondary noninstructional student fees ... Hancock 297–98; Pedersen 297
- Premier Redford's former staff member's employment ... Fox 205–6; Hancock 206
- Premier Redford's office budget ... Hancock 111; Sherman 111
- Premier Redford's travel expenses ... Denis 92; Eggen 99; Hancock 99; Horner 53–54, 92; Mason 92; Redford 53–54, 90, 92; Smith 53–54, 90

Oral Question Period (current session topics) (continued)

- Premier Redford's travel to Jasper ... Hancock 476–77, 508; Smith 476–77, 508
- Premier Redford's travel to South Africa ... Anderson 11; Redford 10–12; Sherman 11–12; Smith 10–11
- Premier's office expense oversight ... Hancock 766; Smith 766
- Premier's term of office ... Hancock 793; Smith 793
- Prescription drug coverage ... Horne 59–60; Jablonski 59–60
- Primary health care ... Horne 323; Horner 323; Wilson 323
- Primary health care delivery ... Eggen 729; Horne 729
- Probation services for aboriginal youth ... Denis 306–7; Smith 306
- Progressive Conservative Party trust account ... Denis 409; Hancock 340–41, 408; Smith 340–41, 408–9
- Promotion of Alberta's energy industry ... Drysdale 432; Fenske 432; Hancock 432
- Protection of persons in care ... Bhardwaj 258; Horne 257; Towle 257–58
- Protection of vulnerable children ... Bhullar 688, 689–90; Swann 688; Towle 689
- Provincial borrowing ... Horner 109–10; Smith 109–10
- Provincial budget ... Anderson 428–29; Hancock 110; Horner 429; Hughes 110; Johnson, J. 111; Smith 110–11
- Provincial budget documents ... Anderson 604; Horner 604, 663; Smith 663
- Provincial debt ... Horner 312–13; Lemke 312–13
- Provincial diploma examinations ... Hancock 469; Kubinec 469
- Provincial fiscal policies ... Dorward 13; Horner 13
- Public body executive travel expenses ... Scott 240; Smith 240; Starke 240
- Public safety in Bonnyville-Cold Lake ... Denis 666–67; Drysdale 667; Leskiw 666–67
- Public safety legislation ... Denis 61; Forsyth 61; Jansen 61
- Public service compensation ... Hancock 92; Horner 92; Redford 92; Swann 91–92
- Public service pension legislation ... Hancock 685–86; Mason 685–86; Sherman 685
- Public service pension plan amendment bill ... Horner 665; Mason 665
- Public service pensions ... Dallas 378, 480; Eggen 324; Fenske 93; Hancock 466, 480, 533–34, 601–2; Horner 15, 93, 299, 324, 463–64, 466, 507–8, 510, 533, 536–37, 601; Johnson, L. 299; Mason 463–64, 480, 509–10, 533–34; Notley 15, 536–37; Sherman 533, 601–2; Smith 507–8, 601; Swann 466; Xiao 378
- Public transit funding ... Cusanelli 205; Drysdale 57, 167; Horner 167, 205; Hughes 56–57, 167–68, 205; Jeneroux 167; Quadri 56–57; Wilson 167–68
- Queen Elizabeth II highway overpass at Balzac ... Drysdale 299–300; McAllister 299–300
- Regional dialysis service ... Horne 408; Johnson, J. 408; Smith 408
- Road ban exemption for grain transportation ... Drysdale 375; Olson 375; Pastoor 375
- Rural emergency medical services ... Fraser 171; Horne 170; Stier 170–71
- Rural flood damage payments ... Donovan 432; Weadick 432–33
- Rural seniors' transportation needs ... Donovan 60; Quest 60

Oral Question Period (current session topics) (continued)

Sage grouse protection order ... Barnes 247, 691;
Campbell 247–48, 691
 School codes of conduct ... Bilous 431; Hehr 430;
Johnson, J. 430–31
 School construction ... Hehr 114; McAllister 113–14;
McIver 113–14, 208; Towle 208
 School construction and modernization ... Barnes 465;
Hancock 465; McIver 465
 School construction in Blackfalds ... Fox 16–17; McIver
 16–17
 School construction in Calgary ... Johnson, J. 94;
McAllister 94; McIver 94
 School growth pressures in Calgary ... DeLong 257;
Johnson, J. 257; McIver 257
 School infrastructure priorities ... Bilous 480–81;
Hancock 481
 Seniors' drug coverage ... Eggen 95; Horne 95
 Seniors' housing for couples ... Quest 478–79; Webber
 478–79
 Seniors' lodges ... Jablonski 511; Weadick 511–12
 Services for seniors ... Lemke 116–17; Quest 116–17
 Severance payments to Premier Redford's office staff ...
Hancock 321–22, 339; Mason 321–22; Smith 339
 Sherwood Park provincial courthouse ... Denis 604;
Olesen 604
 Skilled trades journeyman certification ... Hancock 244;
Olesen 243–44
 Small-business regulations ... Bikman 59; Hancock 59
 Smoky River bridge removal ... Campbell 261;
Goudreau 261
 Social innovation fund ... Bilous 58–59; Hancock 59;
Horner 58
 Spring flood mitigation ... Casey 246–47; Hughes 247
 Spring flood preparedness ... Campbell 531–32; Smith
 531–32
 Statutes Amendment Act, 2014 ... Campbell 771;
Jansen 772; Notley 771
 Strathcona community hospital ... Barnes 513; Horne
 412; McIver 513; Olesen 412
 Strathmore search and rescue river access ... Drysdale
 298; Hale 298; Starke 298–99
 Student assessment ... Hancock 795; McAllister 795
 Student employment supports ... Fritz 433; Lukaszuk 433
 Student gay-straight alliance requests ... Johnson, J.
 410; Mason 410
 Support for vulnerable Albertans ... Bhullar 729; Swann
 728–29
 Task Force for Teaching Excellence report ... Bilous
 689; Hancock 689, 767–68; Sherman 767–68
 Temporary foreign worker program ... Jablonski 727–
 28; Lukaszuk 727–28
 Temporary foreign worker program moratorium ...
Kubinec 691; Lukaszuk 691
 Tow truck driver safety ... Drysdale 260; Fenske 260
 Traffic court reform initiative ... Blakeman 413; Denis
 243, 412–13; Quadri 242–43; Saskiw 412
 Transportation infrastructure priorities ... Drysdale 515–
 16; Stier 515
 Travel Alberta executive expenses ... Starke 116, 166–67,
 209, 346–47; Strankman 116, 166–67, 209, 346–47
 Trust in government ... Hancock 683–84; Smith 683–84
 Union dues regulation ... Hancock 794–95; Webber
 794–95
 University executive compensation ... Hancock 798;
Pedersen 798
 Victims of crime ... Denis 669; Quadri 669
 Wellness initiatives ... Luan 57–58; Rodney 58

Oral Question Period (current session topics) (continued)

Whistle-blower protection for physicians ... Forsyth 93;
Scott 93
 Women's issues ... Bilous 668; Horner 668; Jansen 668
 Workforce employment services ... Fenske 770–71;
Lukaszuk 770; Weadick 771
 Workforce planning ... DeLong 113; Horner 113;
Lukaszuk 113
 Youth emergency services ... Bhullar 245–46; Khan
 245–46
Order Paper
 Revisions, Speaker's statements on ... Speaker, The 395
Orders of the Day (procedure)
 Questions in anticipation ... Speaker, The 13, 345
 Questions in anticipation, point of order on ... Blakeman
 22–23; Campbell 22; Speaker, The 23; Wilson 23
Organ and tissue donation
 Donor registry ... Horne 391, 540; Sandhu 539–40;
Webber 391
 Funding for tissue and blood services ... Horner 104
Organ and tissue transplantation
 Oversight of services ... Horne 391; Webber 391
Organized crime
 Initiatives against, ALERT program funding ... Fraser
 514–15; Hale 514; Olson 514
OTCs (over-the-counter derivatives)
 Governing legislation See Securities Amendment Act,
2014 (Bill 3)
PAB
See Public Affairs Bureau
Pages (Legislative Assembly)
 Recognition, Speaker's statements on ... Rogers 778;
Speaker, The 777–78
Paralympic Winter Games
 Alberta medallists, members' statements on ... Casey 249
 Members' statements ... Rogers 119
Parent link centres
 General remarks ... Bhullar 298; Khan 298
Parents
 Programs and services ... Speech from the Throne 3
Parks, provincial – Southern Alberta
 [See also Writing-on-Stone provincial park]
 Reconstruction planning ... Hale 298; Starke 298–99
Parks, recreation, and tourism ministry
See Ministry of Tourism, Parks and Recreation
Parlby, Irene
See Famous Five
Parliamentary Budget Officer
 General remarks ... Wilson 274
Parsons Creek health facility (proposed)
See Long-term care facilities (nursing homes/auxiliary hospitals) – Fort McMurray Parties, political
See Political parties
PBO (provincial budget officer)
See Budget officer (proposed)
PBO (provincial budget officer) – Law and legislation
See Independent Budget Officer Act (Bill 202)
PBO, federal
See Parliamentary Budget Officer
PCN
See Primary care networks
PDD
See Persons with developmental disabilities

Peace officers

See Workplace health and safety: Occupational health and safety peace officers

Peace River – Roads

See Highway 744

Peace Wapiti school division

Members' statements ... McDonald 483

Pediatric psychiatric care

See Children – Mental health services

Pembina Institute

Funding ... Hale 345–46, 377; Klimchuk 345–46; McQueen 346, 377–78

Pension plan, Canada

See Canada pension plan

Pension plan, local authorities

See Local authorities pension plan; Public service – Pensions

Pensions

Collective agreements ... Bilous 595–96; Eggen 593–94; Notley 581

Economic impacts ... Hehr 582–83

History ... Blakeman 549–51

Joint sponsorship ... Anderson 559; Notley 626–27

Plan types (defined benefit, defined contribution, targeted benefit) ... Anderson 559; Bilous 582, 585–86; Mason 585–87; Notley 580–81, 582

Targeted benefit plans, proposed legislative provisions for See Employment Pension (Private Sector) Plans Amendment Act, 2014 (Bill 10)

Pensions – Public service

See Public service – Pensions

Perras, Kaitlin

See Postsecondary students – Calgary: Deaths, members' statements on

Personal information

Collection by members ... Hancock 793–94; Sherman 793–94

Personal Information Protection Act

Information government by, reporting of breaches in

See Information and Privacy Commissioner: Release of information on data breaches (Motion Other than Government Motion 505: carried)

Provisions for notification of information breaches ... Cusanelli 709

Persons in care

Abuse investigations ... Bhardwaj 258; Horne 257; Towle 257–58

Persons with developmental disabilities

PDD community boards, replacement of See Family and community engagement councils

Programs and services ... Bhardwaj 74, 77–78; Hehr 77–78; Notley 73, 571

Programs and services, funding ... Bilous 575; Horner 104; Notley 219–20, 565

Programs and services, funding from supplementary supply ... Dallas 143

Supports intensity scale ... Bhardwaj 481, 536; Towle 481, 535–36

Supports intensity scale assessments ... Bhardwaj 512; Notley 571; Towle 512

Supports intensity scale assessments, members' statements on ... Towle 516

Persons with disabilities

Athletic competitions See Paralympic Winter Games
Members' statements on Marlin Styner ... Jablonski 238–39

Programs and services ... Sherman 181

Pest Control Act (Saskatchewan)

General remarks ... Khan 127

Peter Lougheed Leadership Institute

Members' statements ... Casey 397

University of Alberta-Banff Centre project ... Horner 105; Speech from the Throne 3

Petitions presented (current session)

Note: Petitions that do not meet the requirements for submission as petitions can be tabled. They may be found on the Assembly website under Assembly Documents and Records, House Records, Sessional Papers. See <http://www.assembly.ab.ca>

Airdrie urgent health care services ... Anderson 541

Childhood immunization ... Leskiw 693

Oil and gas drilling in the Lethbridge area ... Brown 328

Petroleum Marketing Commission, Alberta

See Alberta Petroleum Marketing Commission

Pharmaceuticals

See Drugs, prescription

Pharmacists, Alberta College of

See Alberta College of Pharmacists

Philip, Prince

See Royal visits

Philippines, The

Disaster relief, funding for ... Bilous 82; Klimchuk 82

Physician Compensation Committee

Mandate ... Horne 79; Notley 79

Physicians

Compensation ... Horner 104

Compensation, fee for service ... Horne 79; Notley 79

Internationally trained, accreditation process for ... Amery 608; Horne 608

Services agreement, funding ... Horne 79; Notley 78–79

Services agreement, funding from supplementary supply ... Dallas 143

Whistle-blower protection ... Forsyth 93; Scott 93

Physicians – Education

Family and community medicine, promotion of ... Horne 323; Wilson 323

Medical student development program ... Horner 104

Physicians – Rural areas

Recruitment and retention ... Donovan 29–30

Physicians – Slave Lake

Recruitment and retention ... Forsyth 13–14; Horne 14, 54–55; Smith 54–55; Towle 20

Physiotherapy

Seniors' services See Seniors: Physiotherapy services

Pigs – Diseases and pests

Porcine epidemic diarrhea virus ... Kubinec 123

PIN

See Drugs, prescription: Pharmaceutical information network

Pine beetles – Control

Funding from supplementary supply ... Dallas 143

PIPA

See Personal Information Protection Act

Pipelines

Training facility ... Speech from the Throne 3

Pipelines – Construction

- Enbridge line 9B reversal ... Johnson, L. 117
 Framework agreement with British Columbia ... Speech from the Throne 2; Wilson 31
 Funding of organizations in opposition to ... Hale 345–46; Klimchuk 345–46; McQueen 346
 Keystone XL pipeline project ... Johnson, L. 117–18; Speech from the Throne 3; Swann 235
 Keystone XL pipeline project, opposition to ... Dallas 688; Hale 688; McQueen 688
 Keystone XL pipeline project delay ... Campbell 603; Hancock 603; McQueen 603–4; VanderBurg 603
 Liberal opposition position ... Sherman 33
 Members' statements ... Johnson, L. 117–18
 TransCanada Energy East pipeline project ... Johnson, L. 117

Pipelines – Environmental aspects

- Barriers to expansion ... Anglin 39
 Land reclamation, training facility ... Speech from the Throne 3
 Plains Midstream 2012 spill ... Blakeman 95; Campbell 95
 Spills, leaks, and ruptures, 2009–2013 (Written Question 6: accepted) ... Blakeman 436

Plant Pest and Diseases Act (Manitoba)

- General remarks ... Khan 128

Poems

- Cancer fundraising ... Dorward 162

Poets – Ukraine

- See Ukraine: Arts and culture, Taras Shevchenko's 200th anniversary

Points of clarification (current session)

- Maintaining order in the Assembly/interrupting a member, second supplemental question disallowed in Oral Question Period ... Blakeman 121, 123; Brown 122; Notley 122; Speaker, The 120–23; Wilson 121
 Questions on internal party matters, Speaker's intervention on ... Speaker, The 384

Points of privilege

- See Privilege (current session)

Points of order (current session)

- [See also Oral Question Period (procedure); Speaker – Rulings]
 Allegations against a member or members ... Anderson 382, 383, 384, 398–99; Blakeman 382–83; Campbell 382, 383; Denis 399, 401; Hehr 399–400; Oberle 399–400; Sherman 400; Speaker, The 383–84, 399–401
 Anticipation ... Blakeman 22–23; Campbell 23; Speaker, The 23; Wilson 23
 Clarification ... Denis 544; Speaker, The 544; Wilson 543
 Factual accuracy ... Anderson 173, 402, 517–18; Anglin 24, 543; Blakeman 518; Campbell 101, 435; Denis 23–24, 64, 402–3, 542, 543, 544; Forsyth 63–64; Hehr 435; Lukaszuk 542; Oberle 173, 301; Olson 518; Saskiw 301; Speaker, The 25, 64, 101, 173, 301–2, 403, 435, 518–19, 542–43, 544; Wilson 101, 542, 544
 Imputing motives ... Anderson 401; Denis 401; Oberle 401–2; Speaker, The 402
 Inflammatory language ... Anderson 272; Horner 272; Rodney 272; Speaker, The 272–73
 Member's withdrawal of remarks ... Speaker, The 101
 Parliamentary language ... Barnes 46; Campbell 21–22; Denis 46, 216; Deputy Speaker 46; Notley 21; Speaker, The 22, 216–17; Wilson 21–22, 216

Points of order (current session) (continued)

- Questions on internal party matters ... Anderson 401; Denis 401; Oberle 401–2; Speaker, The 402
 Referring to nonmembers, clarification ... Horner 216; Saskiw 216; Speaker, The 216
 Referring to the absence of members ... Bilous 316; Campbell 316; Speaker, The 316
 Remarks off the record ... Anderson 351; Campbell 351; McIver 351; Speaker, The 351

Police

- See Royal Canadian Mounted Police

Policies of government

- See Government policies

Political parties

- [See also Liberal opposition; New Democratic opposition; Official Opposition; Progressive Conservative Party of Alberta]
 Leadership campaigns, legislative provisions on donations ... Hancock 428; Mason 428
 Leadership campaigns, legislative provisions on donations, questions on internal party matters ... Speaker, The 428
 Leadership candidates, resignation from ministerial positions ... Anderson 383; Campbell 383
 Questions about activity ... Speaker, The 375
 Questions about activity, point of clarification on ... Speaker, The 384
 Questions about activity, Speaker's rulings on ... Speaker, The 203, 204, 340, 389

Ponoka water quality

- See Water quality – Lacombe-Ponoka (constituency)

Pornography, mandatory reporting – Law and legislation

- See Mandatory Reporting of Child Pornography Act

Portraits in Legislature Building

- See Legislature Building: History

Postsecondary education

- Digital textbooks ... Amery 209; Hancock 209
 Energy industries See Pipelines: Training facility
 New Democratic opposition position ... Mason 38
 Open educational resources, members' statements on ... Xiao 380
 Provincial strategy ... Speech from the Throne 3

Postsecondary education, distance

- See Distance education

Postsecondary educational institutions

- See Banff Centre; Grande Prairie Regional College; Keyano College; MacEwan University; Red Deer College; University of Alberta; University of Calgary

Postsecondary educational institutions – Aboriginal colleges – Law and legislation

- See Maskawachees Cultural College Amendment Act, 2014

Postsecondary educational institutions – Admissions (enrolment)

- Access ... Oberle 74; Sherman 180
 Access, academic upgrading ... Notley 196
 Access, affordability [See also Tuition and fees, postsecondary: Noninstructional fees]; Amery 208–9; Eggen 44; Hancock 208–9; Pedersen 210
 Access, rural issues ... Notley 621
 Participation rate ... Hehr 223
 Promotion to secondary students, Learning Clicks program ... Hancock 730; Jeneroux 730

Postsecondary educational institutions – Finance

- Executive compensation ... Hancock 798; Pedersen 798
- Funding ... Eggen 526; Hancock 730; Hehr 223; Horner 104; Jeneroux 730; Mason 220; Notley 73, 196–97, 219, 564–65; Oberle 74; Sherman 180
- Funding, Liberal opposition position ... Sherman 33–34
- Funding from supplementary supply ... Dallas 143; Eggen 187–88
- Members' statements ... Pedersen 210

Postsecondary students

- Employment supports ... Fritz 433; Lukaszuk 433
- Mental health services See Mental health services: Services for postsecondary students

Postsecondary students – Calgary

- Deaths ... Smith 461
- Deaths, members' statements on ... Kennedy-Glans 483–84

Potatoes

- Fusarium presence ... Donovan 124

Poverty

- Cost of ... Anderson 649; Notley 570
- General remarks ... Sherman 643–45
- Impact on women ... Bilous 716–17; Blakeman 99, 712
- Reduction strategies ... Bhullar 114–15; Hancock 147–48; Mason 221; Notley 114–15; Swann 573
- Reduction strategies, research funding See Social innovation fund

Power, electrical – Retail sales

- See* Electric power – Retail sales

PPCLI

- See* Princess Patricia's Canadian Light Infantry

Practical nurses

- See* Nurses

Prairie Christian Academy

- See* Schools – Three Hills

Prekindergarten programs

- See* Early childhood education

Premier's Office

- See* Office of the Premier

Preschool programs

- See* Early childhood education

Prescription drugs

- See* Drugs, prescription

Preventive medicine

- See* Health promotion

Preventive social service program

- See* Family and community support services

Primary care (medicine)

- Capacity issues ... Horne 323; Wilson 323
- General remarks ... Eggen 729; Hancock 724; Horne 724, 729; Smith 724

Primary care networks

- Funding ... Horne 78
- General remarks ... Amery 607; Horne 79–80, 607–8; Horner 104

Primary health care

- See* Primary care (medicine)

Princess Patricia's Canadian Light Infantry

- Centennial, members' statements on ... Sarich 506

Privacy Act

- See* Freedom of Information and Protection of Privacy Act (FOIP Act)

Privacy Commissioner

- See* Information and Privacy Commissioner

Privacy Commissioner's office

- See* Information and Privacy Commissioner's office

Privacy services (government ministry)

- See* Ministry of Service Alberta

Private Bills, Standing Committee on

- See* Committee on Private Bills, Standing

Private members' motions

- See* Motions (current session)

Private schools

- Funding ... Bilous 80–81; Hehr 72; Johnson, J. 72, 80–81

Privilege (current session)

- Intimidation (Associate Minister of Electricity and Renewable Energy's remarks on Alberta Energy Regulator mandate) (not proceeded with) ... Anderson 172–73; Kennedy-Glans 212; Mason 173, 211–12; Speaker, The 172–73, 211, 212
- Misleading the House (use of government airplanes) (not proceeded with) ... Anderson 214; Denis 213–14; Drysdale 214; Horne 214–15; Notley 214; Wilson 212–13
- Misleading the House (use of government airplanes) (not proceeded with), Speaker's statement ... Speaker, The 215

Privileges and Elections, Standing Orders and Printing, Standing Committee on

- See* Committee on Privileges and Elections, Standing Orders and Printing, Standing

Probation

- Services for aboriginal youth ... Denis 306–7; Smith 306

Progressive Conservative Party of Alberta

- 2012 election platform ... Eggen 616; Hehr 44–45; Notley 291
- Grande Prairie fundraiser, October 25, 2012, travel to See Government airplanes: Cabinet travel to Grande Prairie fundraising event
- Member's decision to leave, members' statements on ... Forsyth 290
- Trust account ... Denis 409; Hancock 340–41, 408; Smith 340, 408

Project Brock

- See* Defibrillators

Property tax

- Deferral program for seniors See Seniors – Housing: Property tax deferral program
- Industrial assessments ... Rowe 139
- Linear property assessment ... Allen 76; Blakeman 119
- Linear property assessment, distribution of revenue (Motion Other than Government Motion 501: defeated) ... Barnes 140; Bikman 139–40; Blakeman 134–35, 140–41; Casey 135–36; Lemke 136–37; Rowe 139; Scott 138–39; Sherman 137–38; Stier 139; Wilson 136
- Linear property assessment, distribution of revenue (Motion Other than Government Motion 501: defeated), division ... 141
- Municipalities with highest rates, statistics on (Written Question 2: accepted) ... Blakeman 436
- Types of assessments ... Lemke 137; Scott 138

Property tax – British Columbia

- Review ... Scott 138

Property tax – Education levy

- Increases ... Allen 225
- Mitigation formula termination ... Allen 342–43; Weadick 342–43

- Property tax – Education levy – Fort McMurray
Rates ... Allen 225–26
- Property tax – Nova Scotia
Review ... Scott 138
- Props, use in the Assembly
See Legislative Assembly of Alberta: Exhibits (props) use by members
- Protection of Privacy Act
See Freedom of Information and Protection of Privacy Act (FOIP Act)
- Provincial debt
See Debts, provincial
- Provincial elections
See Elections, provincial
- Provincial parks – Southern Alberta
See Parks, provincial – Southern Alberta
- PSPP (public service pension plan)
See Public service – Pensions
- Psychiatric services
See Mental health services
- Psychiatric services – Children
See Children – Mental health services
- Public Accounts, Standing Committee on See Committee on Public Accounts, Standing
- Public Affairs Bureau
Funding ... Smith 177
Mandate ... Hancock 294; Sherman 294
- Public education
See Education
- Public education – Curricula
See Education – Curricula
- Public education – Finance
See Education – Finance
- Public interest
Definition ... Bikman 696
- Public Interest Disclosure (Whistleblower Protection) Act
General remarks ... Forsyth 93; Scott 93
- Public lands ministry
See Ministry of Environment and Sustainable Resource Development
- Public-private partnerships (P3s)
Anthony Henday Drive See Anthony Henday Drive: Public-private partnership (P3) construction
Calgary ring road See Ring roads – Calgary: Southwest portion public-private partnership (P3) construction (proposed)
Capital plan See Capital projects: Infrastructure financing, public-private partnership (P3) construction
Provincial strategy ... Kennedy-Glans 566–67
Road construction projects See Road construction – Finance: Southwest portion public-private partnership (P3)
School construction projects See Schools – Construction: Public-private partnerships (P3)
Social innovation/entrepreneurship See Social innovation/entrepreneurship: Public-private partnerships (P3s)
- Public safety
Legislation ... Denis 61; Forsyth 61
Provincial strategy ... Horner 105
- Public Sector Pension Plans Amendment Act, 2014 (Bill 9)
First reading ... Dallas 484; Horner 484
Second reading ... Anderson 544–46; Bilous 547–49, 551; Blakeman 549–51; Forsyth 551–54; Hale 549; Hehr 546–47; Horner 520–21, 553–54; Mason 556–57; Sherman 554–56; Towle 557–59
Second reading, motion to refer bill to Standing Committee on Alberta’s Economic Future (referral amendment RA1) (Notley: defeated) ... Anderson 647–49; Anglin 651–53; Bilous 626, 627–29; Blakeman 630–31, 655; Eggen 649–51; Fawcett 627, 641; Fox 629–30; Hale 653; Hehr 653–55; Horner 655–57, 711; Kang 711; Kennedy-Glans 642–43; Mason 645–46, 649; Notley 625–27, 629; Sherman 643–45; Smith 638–42; Swann 644; Weadick 646–47; Wilson 641, 711
Second reading, motion to not now read (6-month hoist amendment H1) (Kang: defeated) ... Bilous 716–17; Blakeman 712–13; Eggen 717; Horner 714; Kang 712; Kennedy-Glans 715–16; Mason 713–14; Swann 712, 714–15
Second reading, division ... 717
Motion under Standing Order 78.1 to refer bill to Standing Committee on Alberta’s Economic Future (Horner: carried) ... Horner 717–18
Alberta Federation of Labour response ... Smith 639–40
Letter from unions and employee associations ... Forsyth 552–53, 554
Moratorium on benefit improvements ... Notley 626
Overview ... Horner 520–21
Progress through the Assembly ... Hancock 684, 685–86; Mason 685–86; Sherman 685; Smith 684
Provisions for different employer classes ... Eggen 650–51
Public consultation (proposed) ... Bilous 548, 627–28; Fawcett 627; Horner 665; Mason 645, 665; Notley 626
Regulatory provisions ... Bilous 628
Scope of application ... Hale 549
- Public Sector Services Continuation Act (Bill 45, 2013)
General remarks ... Hancock 342; Mason 37–38, 342, 723; Sherman 34; Swann 714–15
Public response to bill ... Hancock 684; Smith 684
- Public service
Collective agreements ... Bilous 584–85; Mason 37–38, 588; Notley 219, 591–92; Sherman 34, 319; Smith 639
Collective agreements, negotiations ... Hancock 110; Mason 12; Redford 12; Smith 110
Collective agreements, negotiations, point of order on debate ... Campbell 21–22; Notley 21; Speaker, The 22; Wilson 21–22
Compensation ... Horner 105; Mason 579; Smith 177, 179
Description ... Anderson 525; Bilous 550–51; Blakeman 630–31
Executive expense policy ... Starke 166–67; Strankman 166–67
Government departments, funding for ... Donovan 705
Government departments, management positions, statistics on (Written Question 30: accepted) ... Hehr 437
Government departments, organizational structure ... Barnes 279
Government departments, restructuring ... Smith 177
Labour relations with government ... Mason 723
Management positions, reduction, Official Opposition leader’s remarks on ... Kubinec 698
Members’ statements ... Sherman 319

Public service (continued)

Publication of executive salaries (sunshine list) ... Scott 240; Smith 179, 240
 Wage freeze ... Mason 221
 Work conditions ... Sherman 181; Smith 179

Public service – Pensions

Comparison with other jurisdictions ... Anderson 545, 648; Forsyth 554; Horner 520, 554, 590–91, 656–57; Mason 556–57
 Contribution rates ... Anglin 653; Smith 639
 Contribution rates, cap on ... Bilous 548, 628; Hehr 547, 654; Horner 521, 656
 General remarks ... Dallas 378, 478; Eggen 44, 324, 605; Fenske 93; Hancock 478, 533–34, 601–2, 605–6; Horner 15, 92, 93, 299, 324, 463–64, 507–8, 510, 601; Johnson, L. 299; Mason 12, 37–38, 221, 463–64, 478, 533–34, 723; Notley 15; Redford 12; Sherman 319, 601–2; Smith 66, 507–8, 601; Swann 92; Xiao 378
 Governance ... Horner 521
 Joint sponsorship (proposed) ... Horner 553; Notley 625, 627
 Managers' plan ... Bilous 629; Smith 639
 Members' statements ... Eggen 200–201; Mason 475; Sherman 434
 Membership statistics (Written Question 11: accepted) ... Hehr 436
 Official Opposition position ... Anderson 647–49; Anglin 651–52; Mason 649; Smith 641–42; Wilson 641
 Proposed changes See Public Sector Pension Plans Amendment Act, 2014 (Bill 9)
 Proposed changes, impact on women ... Bilous 629, 668; Horner 668; Sherman 555–56
 Provincial liabilities ... Fawcett 641; Hehr 654–55; Horner 655–56; Smith 641
 Survivor benefits ... Blakeman 549–50
 Sustainability ... Anderson 545–46; Anglin 651–52; Bilous 547–48; Eggen 650–51; Horner 466, 533, 536–37, 584, 664; Kennedy-Glans 642–43; Mason 509–10, 645–47; Notley 536–37; Sherman 533, 643, 644; Smith 664; Swann 466; Weadick 646–47
 Unfunded liabilities ... Anderson 545–46; Anglin 652–53; Dallas 378; Fox 630; Mason 556; Sherman 554–55; Smith 639; Xiao 378

Public Service Salary Restraint Act (Bill 46, 2013)

General remarks ... Hancock 342; Mason 37–38, 342, 723; Sherman 34; Swann 714
 Implementation ... Smith 66
 Legal challenge ... Denis 245; Hancock 92; Notley 244–45; Redford 92; Swann 91
 Legal challenge, discussion in the Assembly ... Denis 92; Speaker, The 92

Public transit

General remarks ... Speech from the Throne 2
 GreenTRIP incentives program ... Cusanelli 205; Drysdale 167; Horner 167, 205; Hughes 57, 171; Jeneroux 167; McDonald 28; Quadri 57; Speech from the Throne 2; Xiao 171
 GreenTRIP incentives program, funding ... Horner 103
 GreenTRIP incentives program, members' statements on ... Olesen 540–41
 Liberal opposition position ... Sherman 34
 Provincial strategy ... Hughes 56–57; Quadri 56–57

Public transit – Calgary

GreenTRIP funding ... Cusanelli 205; Horner 205
 LRT expansion ... Hughes 110; Smith 110
 LRT expansion, funding ... Sherman 137–38

Public transit – Edmonton

LRT expansion ... Drysdale 57, 167; Horner 167; Hughes 56–57, 110, 167–68; Jeneroux 167; Quadri 56–57, 210; Smith 110; Wilson 167–68
 LRT expansion, funding ... Sherman 137–38; Smith 178, 179

Public transit – Rural areas

Seniors' needs ... Donovan 28, 60; Quest 60

Public transit – Sherwood Park

Bethel transit terminal ... Olesen 540

Public transportation services

See Ministry of Transportation

Public utilities

Costs to consumers ... Barnes 47

Public utilities – Prices

Comparison with other jurisdictions ... Eggen 43

Public works

See Capital projects

Public works, supply and services ministry

See Ministry of Infrastructure

QE II highway

See Highway 2

Queer community

See Gay, lesbian, bisexual, or transgender persons

QETs (qualifying environmental trusts)

See Environmental trusts

Quagga mussels

See Mussels

Qualifying environmental trusts

See Environmental trusts

Queen Elizabeth II highway

See Highway 2

Queen's message

See Commonwealth Day: Message from the Queen, Speaker's statement on

Question Period

See Oral Question Period (procedure); Oral Question Period (current session topics)

Racism – Law and legislation

See Alberta Human Rights Act

Racism – Law and legislation

Legislation, federal See Criminal Code (federal)

Railroads – Grain transportation

See Grain – Transportation

Ranching industry

Impact of sage grouse protection order on See Sage grouse: Protection order (federal)

Rathwell, Zackariah

See Postsecondary students – Calgary: Deaths, members' statements on

RCMP

See Royal Canadian Mounted Police

Reclamation of land

Corporate funding methods See Environmental trusts: Tax regime

Downstream oil and gas industry ... Dallas 503; Swann 492

Payment by corporations ... Dallas 503; Swann 492–93

Recorded votes

See Divisions (recorded votes)

Records management services (government ministry)

See Ministry of Service Alberta

Recreation, tourism, and parks ministry
See Ministry of Tourism, Parks and Recreation

Red Deer

Impaired driving deaths See Impaired driving: Deaths, members' statements on Jonathon David Wood

Red Deer College

Athletic achievements, members' statements on ...
Jablonski 348

Red Tape Reduction Task Force (2012)

Recommendations ... Bikman 59; Hancock 59

Redcliff Family Leisure Centre

Infrastructure funding support from Forty Mile county ...
Barnes 140

Refugees

See Immigrants

Regional children's services

See Family and community engagement councils

Regional Health Authorities Act

Amendments proposed re dissolution of community health councils See Community health councils
 Amendments proposed re ministerial oversight of health care budget [See also Statutes Amendment Act, 2014 (Bill 12)]; Bilous 743; Campbell 735–36; Eggen 759; Horne 745; Notley 745

Regional health authority, single/province-wide

See Alberta Health Services (authority)

Regional infrastructure sustainability plan, comprehensive

See Comprehensive regional infrastructure sustainability plan (CRISP)

Registered nurses

See Nurses

Registered nurses – Education

See Grande Prairie Regional College

Registry services

Online portal implementation, documents on (Motion for a Return 4: defeated) ... Griffiths 443; Kang 443; Swann 443

Relationship statutes amendments

See Statutes Amendment Act, 2014 (Bill 12)

Religious schools

See Private schools

Religious tolerance

General remarks ... Bikman 315

Renal replacement therapy

See Kidney dialysis

Rendez-vous de la Francophonie, Les

Members' statements ... Goudreau 18

Renewable energy sources

Alternative and renewable energy framework ...
Kennedy-Glans 411; Mason 38; McQueen 411; Smith 66; Speech from the Throne 3; Swann 235
 Market development ... Anclin 41

Rental housing

Caveats on land titles See Freehold lands: Caveats on land titles for rental use designation

Life leases ... Blakeman 418

Rental rates ... Eggen 43

Rental housing – Law and legislation

See New Home Buyer Protection Amendment Act, 2014 (Bill 6): Provisions for apartment building owners

Reports presented by standing and special committees

Special Select Ethics Commissioner Search Committee report recommending the hon. Marguerite Trussler, QC, as the next Ethics Commissioner ... Rogers 776

Standing Committee on Private Bills, recommendation that bills Pr. 1 and Pr. 2 proceed, request for concurrence ... Xiao 732

Standing Committee on Private Bills report, bills Pr. 1 and Pr. 2 ... Xiao 541

Standing Committee on Resource Stewardship, review of monetization of natural gas ... Khan 119

Research and commercialization institute (proposed)

See Alberta institute for research and commercialization (proposed)

Research and development

Innovation initiatives ... Hancock 731; Johnson, L. 731

Provincial strategy [See also Alberta institute for research and commercialization (proposed)];
Kubinec 27; McDonald 28

Research and technology authority

See Alberta Innovates – Bio Solutions

Resler, Glen L., office main estimates of supply

See Legislative Offices: Estimates of supply 2014-2015 vote

Resolutions, debatable

See Motions (current session)

Resolutions, procedure

See Motions (procedure)

Resource development ministry

See Ministry of Energy

Resource development ministry, sustainable

See Ministry of Environment and Sustainable Resource Development

Resource Stewardship, Standing Committee on

See Committee on Resource Stewardship, Standing

Restorative justice commission

See Truth and Reconciliation Commission

Revenue

Fluctuations ... Swann 236, 570

Forecasts ... Anderson 182–83; Hehr 45–46; Smith 174–76

Increase in ... Anderson 68, 182; Horner 69, 110; Mason 220–21; Smith 109–10, 175

Nonrenewable resource revenue ... Blakeman 614; Eggen 567–69, 575, 616; Hehr 72, 224, 634–35; Horner 103; Mason 579, 636–38

Sources [See also Tax policy]; Bilous 229; Hehr 565–66, 635; Mason 222; Notley 220; Sherman 180–81
 Tax revenue ... Horner 102–3

Ring roads – Calgary

Completion ... Speech from the Throne 2

Southwest portion ... Drysdale 98, 245; Horner 103; Johnson, L. 98; Wilson 245

Southwest portion contract ... Drysdale 379; Wilson 379

Southwest portion cost ... Anderson 270; Barnes 115; Drysdale 115, 295–96; Horner 295; Stier 295–96; Wilson 274

Southwest portion interchanges ... Drysdale 245; Wilson 245

Southwest portion public-private partnership (P3) construction (proposed) ... Drysdale 295–96, 379; Stier 295–96; Wilson 379

Ring roads – Edmonton

See Anthony Henday Drive

- River floodplains
See Floodplains
- RNs
See Nurses
- RNs – Education
See Grande Prairie Regional College
- Road construction
North-south trade corridor, timeline on ... Drysdale 326;
McDonald 326
Provincial strategy ... Speech from the Throne 2
- Road construction (government ministry)
See Ministry of Transportation
- Road construction – Calgary
See Ring roads – Calgary
- Road construction – Edmonton
Ring road See Anthony Henday Drive
- Road construction – Finance
Funding ... Horner 103
Funding, members' statements on ... Stier 484
Public-private partnership (P3) construction ... Drysdale 666; Webber 666
- Road construction – Grande Prairie
See Road construction: North-south trade corridor
- Road safety
See Traffic safety
- Road safety, winter
See Roads – Maintenance and repair: Winter salting and sanding, funding for
- Roads
[See also specific roads and highways]
Emergency turnarounds on highways ... Drysdale 666;
Webber 665–66
- Roads – Balzac
See Highway 2: Balzac overpass
- Roads – Bentley
See Highway 12: Bypass at Bentley
- Roads – Coalhurst
See Highway 3: Coalhurst interchange
- Roads – Construction
Project prioritization ... Drysdale 515–16; Stier 515
- Roads – Edmonton
Name changes in honour of royal visits ... Speaker, The 4
- Roads – Fort McMurray
Flood damage ... Allen 76
- Roads – Grimshaw
See Highway 744
- Roads – Maintenance and repair
Contractor selection and evaluation criteria ... Campbell 480; Dallas 480; Stier 480
Funding, members' statements on ... Stier 484
Funding for rehabilitation ... Drysdale 295; Kubinec 295
Highway preservation, funding for ... Bilous 81;
Drysdale 81
Highway preservation, funding from supplementary supply ... Dallas 143
Highway rehabilitation, project prioritization ...
Drysdale 295; Kubinec 295
Highway repainting ... Drysdale 468; McDonald 468
Project prioritization ... Drysdale 515–16; Stier 515
Provincial strategy ... Drysdale 468; Horner 103;
McDonald 468; Speech from the Throne 2
Seasonal road bans, exemptions See Grain – Transportation: Road ban exemption
- Roads – Maintenance and repair (continued)
Winter salting and sanding, funding for ... Bilous 81;
Drysdale 81
- Roads – Nobleford
See Highway 23: Intersection with highway 519
- Roads – Peace River
See Highway 744
- Roads – Ring roads
See Anthony Henday Drive; Ring roads – Calgary
- Roads – Rural areas
Delineator traffic post and signpost replacement ...
Drysdale 468; McDonald 468
- Robert Thirsk high school
See Schools – Construction – Calgary: Robert Thirsk high school opening
- Rosebud School of the Arts Amendment Act, 2014
Petition presented ... Xiao 484
- Rosebud School of the Arts Amendment Act, 2014 (Bill Pr. 1)
First reading ... Hale 609
Second reading ... Hale 737
Committee ... Hale 758
Third reading, request for immediately following Committee of the Whole (unanimous consent granted)
... Campbell 758
Third reading ... Hale 758
Royal Assent ... 14 May 2014 (outside of House sitting)
Standing Committee on Private Bills recommendation that bill proceed, report presented and concurrence requested ... Xiao 732
Standing Committee on Private Bills report ... Xiao 541
- Royal Canadian Artillery Band
General remarks ... Speaker, The 1
- Royal Canadian Mounted Police
Fallen Four tribute, members' statements on ...
VanderBurg 19–20
Provincial contract, 2014-2015 funding ... Horner 105
- Royal Canadian Mounted Police – Bonnyville-Cold Lake (constituency)
Service provision ... Denis 666; Leskiw 666
- Royal Canadian Mounted Police – Fort Saskatchewan-Vegreville (constituency)
Members' statements ... Fenske 19
- Royal visits
King George VI and Queen Consort Elizabeth, first visit of a reigning monarch, 75th anniversary ... Speaker, The 4
Queen Elizabeth II and Prince Phillip ... Speaker, The 4
- Royalties on bitumen
See Bitumen – Royalties
- Royalty structure (energy resources)
Comparison with other jurisdictions ... Lukaszuk 638;
Mason 637–38; Notley 563; Swann 236
Provincial strategy ... Bilous 154, 562; Eggen 187;
Hehr 635–36; Mason 636–37; Sherman 34
- Rubella, immunization against
See Immunization
- Rulings by the Speaker, Deputy Speaker, or Acting Speaker
See Speaker – Rulings
- Rural communities
Business and industry, research funding See
Agriculture and food innovation fund
Government services ... Barnes 47
Sustainability ... Donovan 29–30
Use of linear property tax revenue ... Casey 135–37

- Rural communities – Homelessness
See Homelessness – Rural areas
- Rural communities – Libraries
See Libraries – Southern Alberta
- Rural communities – Roads
See Roads – Rural areas
- Rural Development ministry
See Ministry of Agriculture and Rural Development
- Rural infrastructure
See Infrastructure – Rural areas
- Rural Internet service
See Internet – Rural areas
- Rural physicians
See Physicians – Rural areas
- Rural transportation
See Public transit – Rural areas
- Russia
See Ukraine: Russian action, members' statements on
- Rwanda
 Genocide, members' statements on ... Dorward 406
- Saddlebrook temporary community
See Floods – High River: Temporary communities
- Safety, workplace
See Agriculture – Safety measures: Canadian Agricultural Safety Week; Workplace health and safety
- Sage grouse
 Protection order (federal) ... Anglin 47; Barnes 46, 47, 247, 691; Campbell 247–48, 691
- Saher, Merwan
See Auditor General
- St. Albert – Youth services
See Youth – St. Albert
- St. Albert Family Resource Centre
 Members' statements ... Khan 290–91
 Services provided ... Bhullar 298; Khan 298
- St. Catherine school
See Schools – Edmonton: Central Edmonton schools
- St. George's Day
 General remarks ... Speaker, The 608
- St. Joseph high school
See Schools – Edmonton: Central Edmonton schools
- St. Paul – Schools
See Schools – St. Paul
- Same-sex marriage
 General remarks ... Smith 736–37
- Saskatchewan-Alberta-British Columbia trade agreement (New West Partnership)
 Governing legislation See Statutes Amendment Act, 2014 (Bill 12)
- Saskatchewan Pest Control Act
See Pest Control Act (Saskatchewan)
- Savings Management Act (Bill 1)
 First reading ... Redford 4–5
 Second reading ... Anderson 49–50; Bilous 151–53, 154; Brown 153–54; Fawcett 148–51; Hancock 146–48, 150; Hehr 84–85, 151, 153–54; Horner 47–48
 Committee ... Eggen 184–87; Swann 185–86
 Third reading ... Eggen 232–33; Horner 217–18, 233–34; Notley 226–28; Swann 231–32
 Royal Assent ... 13 March 2014 (outside of House sitting)
 Anticipation of debate ... Speaker, The 13
- Savings Management Act (Bill 1) (continued)
 Anticipation of debate, point of order ... Blakeman 22–23; Campbell 23; Speaker, The 23; Wilson 23
 General remarks ... Dorward 13; Horner 13, 105; Speech from the Throne 3
- Savings policy, government
See Fiscal policy: Government savings
- Schindler, Dr. David
See Environmental scientists
- Scholarship fund
See Alberta heritage scholarship fund
- School Act
 Amendments proposed See Statutes Amendment Act, 2014 (Bill 12)
 Inclusive education provisions ... Hancock 374; Jansen 366; Mason 374
- School boards
 Administration of school construction ... Barnes 465; McIver 465
 Mandate on bullying prevention ... Fenske 16; Johnson, J. 16
 Policies on gay-straight alliances, legislation on (proposed) See Gay-straight alliances in schools: School board policies, legislation on (Motion Other than Government Motion 503: defeated)
- School class size
See Class size (elementary and secondary schools)
- School fees (elementary and secondary)
 Amounts collected ... Sherman 180
 Members' statements ... Bilous 775
- School groups, introduction of
See Introduction of Guests (school groups, individuals)
- School tax
See Property tax – Education levy
- School violence
 Reduction strategies, research on See Social innovation fund
 Resources See Integrated Threat and Risk Assessment Centre
- Schoolchildren
 Health and well-being See Vision care: Vision assessments for schoolchildren
 Vision assessments, bills and statutes on See Childhood Vision Assessment Act (Bill 203)
- Schoolchildren – Transportation
 School bus costs per student, 2012-2013 and 2013-2014 (Written Question 14: accepted as amended) ... Hehr 442; Johnson, J. 442
- Schools
 Closures ... Bilous 158, 574, 576; Mason 578
 Codes of conduct ... Bilous 431; Hehr 430; Johnson, J. 430–31
 Codes of conduct, point of order on debate ... Campbell 435; Hehr 435; Speaker, The 435
 Community use ... Eggen 232; Redford 255; Sherman 255
 Gay-straight alliances in See Gay-straight alliances in schools
 Playgrounds ... Bilous 576–77
 Public health clinics in (proposed) ... Sherman 33
 Supports for gay, lesbian, bisexual, or transgender students See Gay, lesbian, bisexual, or transgender persons: Supports for students
 Sustainability in mature communities ... Bilous 481; Dorward 429; Hancock 481; Johnson, J. 429

Schools – Construction

Funding from supplementary supply ... Eggen 187
 Members' statements ... DeLong 239
 Modernizations ... Bilous 80; Hehr 72; Horner 103;
Johnson, J. 72, 80; McDonald 28; Speech from the Throne 2; Wilson 30
 Modernizations, funding for ... Hehr 114; McAllister 113–14
 Modernizations, timeline on ... Barnes 465; Bilous 577; Forsyth 36; Hancock 465, 685; McIver 465; Smith 66, 684–85; Wilson 622
 New schools ... Bilous 80, 156; Fox 16–17; Hehr 72, 262; Horner 103; Jeneroux 343–44; Johnson, J. 72, 80, 94, 344; McAllister 94; McDonald 28; McIver 16–17, 94, 262, 343–44; Sherman 32–33; Speech from the Throne 2; Wilson 30
 New schools, cost ... Wilson 274
 New schools, funding for ... Hehr 114; McAllister 113–14; McIver 113–14
 New schools, Liberal opposition position on ... Sherman 33
 New schools, point of order on debate ... Campbell 101; Speaker, The 101; Wilson 101
 New schools, timeline on ... Anglin 39–40; Barnes 465; Bilous 577; Forsyth 36; Hancock 465, 685; Hehr 45–46, 223, 572; Mason 221; McAllister 113–14; McIver 113–14, 208, 465; Smith 66, 179, 684–85; Towle 208; Wilson 622
 Portable classroom availability ... Bilous 577; DeLong 257; Johnson, J. 257
 Prioritization ... Bilous 480–81; Hancock 481
 Public-private partnerships (P3) ... Bilous 80, 156, 577; Johnson, J. 80; Mason 38

Schools – Construction – Blackfalds

New school, timeline on ... Fox 16–17; McIver 16–17; Smith 66

Schools – Construction – Calgary

Flood-related construction ... Hehr 72; Johnson, J. 72
 Growth pressures ... DeLong 257; Johnson, J. 257
 Infrastructure needs ... Bilous 297; Johnson, J. 297
 New school construction ... DeLong 239; Johnson, J. 94; McAllister 94; McIver 94
 New school construction, point of order on debate ... Campbell 101; Speaker, The 101; Wilson 101
 Robert Thirsk high school opening, members' statements on ... Luan 775

Schools – Construction – Gift Lake

Timeline on new school ... Calahasen 395; Johnson, J. 395; McIver 395

Schools – Curricula

See Education – Curricula

Schools – Edmonton

Central Edmonton schools ... Blakeman 193–94
 Decision-making on closures and construction ... Bilous 480–81; Hancock 481
 Glengarry school 50th anniversary and Hassan Seifeddine Literacy Learning Centre, members' statements on ... Sarich 791
 Good Shepherd elementary school capital needs ... Barnes 414; McIver 414
 Growth pressures ... Jeneroux 343–44; Johnson, J. 344; McIver 343–44
 Highlands junior high school capital needs ... Mason 579
 Nonprofit organizations See Inner City high school
 School closures ... Bilous 296–97; Johnson, J. 297

Schools – Fort McMurray

Capacity issues ... Bilous 577–78
 Modernizations ... Allen 225
 New schools ... Allen 225

Schools – St. Paul

Vehicle crash, members' travel to ... Horner 201, 204; Wilson 213
 Vehicle crash, members' travel to, clarification ... Horner 216; Saskiw 216; Speaker, The 216

Schools – Teepee Creek

General remarks ... McDonald 483

Schools – Three Hills

Prairie Christian Academy, staff code of conduct ... Hehr 430; Johnson, J. 430–31
 Prairie Christian Academy, staff code of conduct, point of order on debate ... Campbell 435; Hehr 435; Speaker, The 435

Schools, private

See Private schools

Science, research and technology authority

See Alberta Innovates – Bio Solutions

Science and Engineering Research, Alberta Heritage Foundation for

See Alberta ingenuity fund

Science and technology

Research and development See Research and development

Science and technology commercialization institute (proposed)

See Alberta institute for research and commercialization (proposed)

Search Dog Association, Canadian

See Canadian Search Dog Association

Secondary education

See Education

Securities – Regulation

National regulator (proposed) ... Eggen 234

Securities Amendment Act, 2014 (Bill 3)

First reading ... Horner 62
 Second reading ... Anderson 144; Anglin 144–45; Dallas 143–44; Hehr 145
 Committee ... Chair 187
 Third reading ... Eggen 234; Horner 218
 Royal Assent ... 13 March 2014 (outside of House sitting)

Securities Commission

See Alberta Securities Commission

Security planning

See Emergency management

Segura, Jordan

See Postsecondary students – Calgary: Deaths, members' statements on

Seniors

Aging in place strategy ... Donovan 28; Sherman 34; Speech from the Throne 2
 Benefit program ... Bilous 158–59; Horner 104
 Benefit program, drug coverage ... Eggen 95, 526; Horne 59–60, 75, 95; Horner 104; Jablonski 59–60; Mason 220; Notley 75, 570
 Benefit program, income supplement ... Lemke 117; Quest 117
 Elder abuse strategy ... Horne 243; Towle 243
 Physiotherapy services ... Fritz 17; Horne 17

Seniors (continued)

Programs and services ... Eggen 44; Forsyth 36-37;
Sherman 180, 181; Wilson 36-37
 Supports for, members' statements on ... DeLong 162-63

Seniors – Calgary

Aging in place initiative ... Luan 481-82; Quest 481-82

Seniors – Housing

Access ... Lemke 116; Quest 116-17
 Accommodation of couples ... Quest 478-79; Webber 478-79
 Fire safety ... Eggen 512-13; Quest 513; Weadick 513
 Lodges See Supportive living accommodations
 Long-term maintenance ... Bilous 574-75
 Property tax deferral program ... DeLong 163

Seniors – Housing – Strathmore

New care home ... Speech from the Throne 2

Seniors – Rural areas

Transportation needs ... Donovan 60; Quest 60

Seniors Advocate

Mandate ... Quest 770; Towle 770

Seniors' choirs – Bonnyville

See Choirs – Bonnyville: Lil Bodnar and the Tune-Agers, members' statements on; O Canada: Sung by the Bonnyville Tune-Agers

Seniors ministry

See Ministry of Human Services

SepTech Solutions Canada Inc.

See Business enterprises – Sherwood Park

Service Alberta ministry

See Ministry of Service Alberta

Service animals

Legislation ... Denis 61; Forsyth 61

Sex abuse of children in residential schools

See Truth and Reconciliation Commission

Sex addiction – Treatment

See Addiction – Treatment

Sexual assault

Prevention strategies ... Blakeman 99
 Resources See Integrated Threat and Risk Assessment Centre

Sexual minorities

See Gay, lesbian, bisexual, or transgender persons

SFPP (special forces pension plan)

See Public service – Pensions

SHC

See South Health Campus

Sheep, bighorn

See Bighorn sheep

Shelters, women's – Calgary

See Sonshine Centre

Sherwood Park – Business and industry

See Business enterprises – Sherwood Park

Sherwood Park (constituency) – Hospitals

See Strathcona community hospital

Sherwood Park – Infrastructure

See Courthouses – Sherwood Park

Sherwood Park – Public transit

See Public transit – Sherwood Park

Sherwood Park & District Chamber of Commerce

Environmental technology industry promotion See Business enterprises – Sherwood Park

Shevchenko, Taras

See Ukraine: Arts and culture, Taras Shevchenko's 200th anniversary

Sikh community celebrations

See Vaisakhi

Sims report

See Construction industry: Labour legislation review

Sino-Canadian Oil and Gas Symposium

Members' statements ... Luan 424-25

SIS

See Persons with developmental disabilities: Supports intensity scale

Ski Club, Edmonton

See Edmonton Ski Club

Skill development ministry

See Ministry of Jobs, Skills, Training and Labour

Skilled trades training

See Apprenticeship training

Slave Lake – Health care

See Health care – Slave Lake; Physicians – Slave Lake

Small business

Programs and services ... Bilous 575; Eggen 43;
Speech from the Throne 2
 Regulatory framework impacts ... Bikman 59; Hancock 59; Sherman 33; Smith 65
 Research See Social innovation fund

Smoky River

Abandoned railway bridge demolition See Bridges – Watino: Smoky River bridge demolition

Social innovation/entrepreneurship

General remarks ... Fawcett 149-51; Hehr 151
 Public-private partnerships (P3s) ... Bilous 152; Fawcett 150

Social innovation fund

[See also Savings Management Act (Bill 1)]
 Funding, transfer from Alberta heritage savings trust fund ... Horner 217; Swann 186
 Funding through bonds (proposed) ... Bilous 58-59, 151-52; Blakeman 614; Eggen 184-85, 186-87, 232; Hancock 59; Horner 58, 217; Mason 221; Notley 227-28; Swann 185-86, 231
 General remarks ... Anderson 49; Hancock 147-48; Hehr 85; Horner 47, 48, 105; Kubinec 27; Redford 5; Speech from the Throne 3
 Purpose of fund ... Horner 233-34; Notley 227

Social policy framework

General remarks ... Blakeman 561; Kubinec 27; McDonald 28
 Reliance on nonprofit organizations ... Notley 738-39

Social services ministry

See Ministry of Human Services

Societies Act

Amendments proposed re nonprofit organizations' incorporated outside Alberta applications for a continuance in Alberta [See also Statutes Amendment Act, 2014 (Bill 12)]; Bilous 742, 743

Solar energy

See Renewable energy sources

Solicitor General

Definition of functions ... Campbell 735

Solicitor General ministry

See Ministry of Justice and Solicitor General

Sonshine Centre

Members' statements ... Cusanelli 380-81

South Africa, Premier Redford's travel to See Office of the Premier: Premier Redford's travel to South Africa

South Health Campus

Funding ... Horne 78; Horner 104

South Saskatchewan region plan (land-use framework)

Implementation ... Barnes 46

South Saskatchewan Regional Advisory Council recommendations on native grassland conservation ... Brown 115; Campbell 115–16

Southern Alberta children's hospital

See Alberta Children's hospital

Southern Alberta floods

See Floods – Southern Alberta

Southern Alberta libraries

See Libraries – Southern Alberta

Southern Alberta parks

See Parks, provincial – Southern Alberta

Speaker

Birth of grandson ... Fenske 770; Khan 772; Lukaszuk 770; Speaker, The 761

Mandate re language and content of debate ... Speaker, The 215

Meetings with caucuses and independent members ... Speaker, The 395

Mr. Speaker's MLA for a Day program, Speaker's statements on ... Speaker, The 329, 416, 485

Procedural letter to members ... Speaker, The 475

Speaker – Rulings

Decorum ... Speaker, The 56, 57, 111, 115, 116, 206, 310, 312, 320, 341–42

Interrupting a member or members ... Speaker, The 309, 389, 413, 477–78, 508, 793

Interrupting a member, point of clarification requested ... Anderson 413

Interrupting members' statements ... Speaker, The 396

Items previously decided ... Speaker, The 394

Point of privilege raised, intimidation (Associate Minister of Electricity and Renewable Energy's remarks on Alberta Energy Regulator mandate) (not proceeded with) ... Speaker, The 212

Point of privilege raised, misleading the House (use of government airplanes) (not proceeded with) ... Speaker, The 215

Questions on internal party matters ... Speaker, The 203, 204, 340, 389

Referring to the galleries ... Speaker, The 165

Repetition ... Speaker, The 390

Speaker – Statements

2nd anniversary of election ... Speaker, The 608

12th anniversary of elected member ... Speaker, The 369

13th election anniversary of elected members ... Speaker, The 199

17th anniversary of elected members ... Speaker, The 161

25th election anniversary of the Member for Lesser Slave Lake ... Speaker, The 317

Commonwealth Day message from the Queen ... Speaker, The 107

Electronic device use in the Chamber ... Speaker, The 469

Famous Five exhibit ... Speaker, The 471

Former MLA Jonathan Joseph Lord, memorial tribute ... Speaker, The 333

Interrupting a member ... Speaker, The 306

Mr. Speaker's MLA for a Day program ... Speaker, The 329, 416, 485

National Day of Remembrance of the Battle of Vimy Ridge ... Speaker, The 385

Speaker – Statements (continued)

Oral Question Period, preambles to supplementary questions ... Speaker, The 469

Oral Question Period, questions to committee chairs ... Speaker, The 469

Oral Question Period and Members' Statements speaker rotation ... Speaker, The 10, 291

Oral Question Period practices ... Speaker, The 305–6, 608

Oral Question Period rotation ... Speaker, The 305–6

Oral Question Period rules ... Speaker, The 469

Oral Question Period timing of questions and responses ... Speaker, The 306

Order Paper revisions ... Speaker, The 395

Page recognition ... Rogers 778; Speaker, The 777–78

Speaking times ... Speaker, The 351, 370–71

Standing order amendments (Government Motion 7) ... Speaker, The 51

State funeral for the hon. Jim Flaherty ... Speaker, The 473

Welcome to the Premier ... Speaker, The 333

Special forces pension plan

See Public service – Pensions

Special needs, persons with

See Children with special needs – Education; Persons with developmental disabilities; Persons with disabilities

Special standing committees of the Legislative Assembly

See Committees of the Legislative Assembly

Species, invasive

See Mussels

Speech from the Throne

Address given ... Lieutenant Governor 1–3

Address tabled ... Speaker, The 4

Addresses in reply (moved and seconded) ... Kubinec 27; McDonald 27–28

Addresses in reply ... Allen 156–57; Anglin 39–40; Barnes 46–47; Bilous 157–59; Blakeman 193–94; Donovan 27, 28–30; Eggen 43–44; Forsyth 35–36; Hehr 44–46; Mason 37–38; Notley 195–97; Sherman 32–34; Smith 64–67; Swann 234–36; Wilson 30–31

Addresses in reply (questions and comments) ... Anglin 31–32, 37, 41, 47; Barnes 47; Blakeman 195, 197; Forsyth 37; Mason 39; Notley 195, 197–98; Rowe 32; Saskiw 34; Sherman 34–35; Wilson 32, 35, 36–37, 38, 40–41

Addresses in reply (motion carried) ... 331

Address in reply engrossed and presented to Lieutenant Governor (Government Motion 12: carried) ... 331

Comparison to 2012 speech ... Smith 67

Motion to consider on March 4, 2014 (Government Motion 1: carried) ... Redford 5

Preparation procedure ... Smith 64–65

Spending policy, government

See Fiscal policy

Sports

See Hockey; Wrestling

Sports – Edmonton

Capacity for hosting major events ... Dorward 795–96; Starke 796

Standing Committee on Families and Communities

See Committee on Families and Communities, Standing

Standing committees of the Legislative Assembly

See Committees of the Legislative Assembly

Standing Orders

- Amendments re committee size, mandate, meetings, procedures for main estimates consideration (Government Motion 7: carried) ... Campbell 25–26
- Amendments re committee size, mandate, meetings, procedures for main estimates consideration (Government Motion 7: carried), Speaker's statement on ... Speaker, The 51
- SO 23(3), anticipation See Points of order (current session): Anticipation
- SO 39(1), request for waiver for Assembly to debate Government Motion 14 (unanimous consent granted) ... Campbell 779
- SO 77, more than one reading of a bill on the same day ... Speaker, The 759

Standing Orders and Printing, Standing Committee on See Committee on Privileges and Elections, Standing Orders and Printing, Standing*Statements by the Speaker, Deputy Speaker, or Acting Speaker

See Speaker – Statements

Statutes Amendment Act, 2014 (Bill 12)

- First reading ... Campbell 693
- Second reading ... Bilous 741, 742–43; Blakeman 740–42; Campbell 735–36; Horne 745; Notley 743–45; Smith 736–37
- Committee ... Chair 758
- Third reading, request to proceed to (unanimous consent granted) ... Campbell 758–59
- Third reading ... Bilous 782–83; Blakeman 785–87; Campbell 759; Eggen 759; Notley 784–85; Swann 783–84
- Third reading, motion to not now read (6-month hoist amendment HA) (Notley: defeated) ... Blakeman 785–87; Notley 784–85
- Royal Assent ... 14 May 2014 (outside of House sitting)
- Consultation with LGBTQ community ... Jansen 772; Notley 771, 785
- General remarks ... Hancock 793; Smith 793
- Members' briefing on ... Blakeman 785–87; Campbell 771; Notley 743–44, 771
- Regulatory provisions ... Bilous 742, 782–83; Blakeman 741

STEP (student employment program)

See Summer temporary employment program (STEP)

Stettler (county)

Information request on activity during 2012 provincial election ... Calahasen 699; Casey 697

Stoney Trail

See Ring roads – Calgary

Strategic plan, provincial

20-year plan ... Hancock 147

Plan tabled ... Horner 101–2

Strathcona community hospital

Services provided ... Barnes 513; Horne 412, 773–74; McIver 513; Olesen 412, 773–74

Strathcona county – Hemodialysis service

See Kidney dialysis – Strathcona county

Strathmore – Emergency services

See Emergency services (first responders) – Strathmore

Strathmore – Seniors' housing

See Seniors – Housing – Strathmore

Strathmore community hospital

Redevelopment plan ... Hale 97; Horne 97

Student employment (secondary and postsecondary students)

[See also Postsecondary students: Employment supports; Summer temporary employment program (STEP)]

Programs and services ... Fenske 770–71; Lukaszuk 770–71; Weadick 771

Student financial aid (postsecondary students)

Funding ... Amery 208–9; Hancock 208–9

Scholarships ... Speech from the Throne 3

Student testing (elementary and secondary students)

Changes to report cards ... Hancock 795; McAllister 795

High school diploma exams ... Hancock 469; Kubinec 469

Styner, Marlin

See Persons with disabilities: Members' statements on Marlin Styner

Sub judice matters

Discussion in the Assembly ... Denis 92, 166; Speaker, The 92, 166

Success

Successful teams, members' statements on ... Young 407

Sugar beet industry

Market development ... Donovan 29

Summer temporary employment program (STEP)

Program termination ... Fritz 433; Lukaszuk 433

Suncor

Worker fatalities See Oil sands development: Worker fatalities

Sundre – Flood mitigation

See Flood damage mitigation – Sundre

Sundre – Health care

See Health care – Sundre

Supplementary supply estimates (procedure)

Members' receipt of documents ... Notley 73

Supplementary supply estimates 2013-2014

General remarks ... Anderson 68

Supplementary supply estimates 2013-2014, no. 2

Estimates debated ... Allen 75–76; Anderson 68–69; Anglin 70–71; Bhardwaj 74, 77–78; Bilous 75, 80–82; Drysdale 81; Hehr 72, 77–78; Horne 75, 78–80; Horner 68–70; Hughes 71, 74, 76–77, 81–82; Johnson, J. 72, 80–81; Klimchuk 82; Notley 73–74, 75, 78–79; Oberle 74, 76, 82

Vote ... 82–84

Considered for 6 hours on March 5, 2014 (Government Motion 6: carried) ... Horner 25

Estimates referred to Committee of Supply (Government Motion 5: carried) ... Horner 25

Expenses not flood-related ... Anderson 68–69; Eggen 187

Flood-related expenses ... Allen 75–76; Anderson 69;

Anglin 70; Dallas 143; Hehr 72; Horner 69;

Hughes 71, 76–77; Oberle 76

Transmittal ... Horner 25; Speaker, The 25

Supplementary supply estimates 2013-2014, no. 2 – Law and legislation

See Appropriation (Supplementary Supply) Act, 2014 (Bill 2)

Supportive living accommodations

Seniors' lodges ... Jablonski 511; Weadick 511–12

Supports intensity scale (SIS)

See Persons with developmental disabilities: Supports intensity scale

Surgery procedures

Wait times ... Horne 409; Sherman 409

Surgery procedures – Cancer*See* Cancer – Treatment*Surgery procedures – OrthopaedicsScreening process ... Horne 79–80Sustainability fundFund utilization ... Smith 175–76Review of fund (Motion Other than Government Motion 519, 2012) ... Fawcett 148–49Sustainable economic developmentSee* Economic development – Environmental aspects*Sustainable Resource Development ministrySee* Ministry of Environment and Sustainable Resource Development*Swine – Diseases and pestsSee* Pigs – Diseases and pests*Sylvan Lake – ArenasSee* Arenas – Sylvan Lake*Synthetic crude – RoyaltiesSee* Bitumen – Royalties*Synthetic crude – UpgradingSee* Bitumen – Upgrading*Synthetic crude developmentSee* Oil sands development*Synthetic crude development – Environmental aspectsSee* Oil sands development – Environmental aspects*Tabling Returns and Reports (current session)Note: Tablings for the session are available on the Legislative Assembly of Alberta website under Assembly Documents and Records. See <http://www.assembly.ab.ca>TAPCAL trustSee* Progressive Conservative Party of Alberta: Trust account*Tar sands – UpgradingSee* Bitumen – Upgrading*Tar sands developmentSee* Oil sands development*Tar sands development – Environmental aspectsSee* Oil sands development – Environmental aspects*Tar sands development – RoyaltiesSee* Bitumen – Royalties*Targeted violenceResource centres See Integrated Threat and Risk Assessment Centre*Task Force for Teaching Excellence[See also Inspiring Education (report)]*2014 report ... Bilous 689; Hancock 689; Mason 7232014 report, members' statements on ... Leskiw 7222014 report, recommendations ... Hancock 727, 767–68, 769; McAllister 727, 769; Sherman 767–68Participant criteria (Motion for a Return 7: accepted) ... Hehr 442Tax on propertyComparison with other jurisdictions ... Scott 138Deferral program for seniors See Seniors – Housing: Property tax deferral programLinear property assessment See Property tax: Linear property assessment; Property tax: Linear property assessment (combined low-expenditure tax assessment)*Tax policyComparison to other jurisdictions ... Hehr 224Credits for children's sports and physical activity ... Horner 323; Wilson 323Tax policy (continued)Flat tax rate ... Bilous 562; Blakeman 489; Eggen 568, 569, 615–16; Hehr 565, 654; Notley 563–64; Sherman 180, 181Liberal opposition position ... Sherman 34–35Members' statements ... Blakeman 119New Democratic opposition position ... Mason 37, 53Provincial strategy ... Bilous 154, 229; Blakeman 489–91; Brown 154; Fawcett 617; Hehr 45–46, 154, 572; Horner 610; Mason 490, 492, 579; Smith 64–65QET tax credit See Environmental trustsReturns from qualifying environmental trusts See Environmental trusts: Tax regime*Tax policy – NorwayGeneral remarks ... Lukaszuk 638; Mason 637Tax revenueSee* Revenue*Tax Statutes Amendment Act, 2014 (Bill 7)First reading ... Campbell 417; Horner 417Second reading ... Anderson 488; Blakeman 488–91; Dallas 488, 493; Horner 488; Mason 490, 491–92; Oberle 491; Swann 492–93Committee ... Dallas 503–4Third reading ... Horner 523, 657

Royal Assent ... 24 April 2014 (outside of House sitting)

Taxation, municipalDeferral program for seniors See Seniors – Housing: Property tax deferral programLinear property assessment See Property tax: Linear property assessment*Taylor, Dr. LorneSee* Alberta Environmental Monitoring, Evaluation and Reporting Agency: Chairman of the board appointment*TeachersStatistics for public and separate schools, 2012–2013 and 2013–2014 (Written Question 13: accepted as amended) ... Hehr 441–42; Johnson, J. 442Task force reports See Task Force for Teaching Excellence*Technology authoritySee* Alberta Innovates – Bio Solutions*Technology commercialization institute (proposed)See* Alberta institute for research and commercialization (proposed)Teepee Creek – SchoolsSee Schools – Teepee Creek*Temporary foreign workersMoratorium on food service industry permits ... Jablonski 727–28; Kubinec 691; Lukaszuk 691, 727–28Moratorium on food service industry permits, members' statements on ... Lemke 683Program abuses and misuses ... Jablonski 727–28; Lukaszuk 727–28Testing of studentsSee* Student testing (elementary and secondary students)Textbooks, openSee Postsecondary education: Open educational resources, members' statements on*TFWSee* Temporary foreign workers*Thistle Rink, EdmontonSee* Legislature Building: History

- Three Hills – Long-term care facilities (nursing homes/auxiliary hospitals)
See Long-term care facilities (nursing homes/auxiliary hospitals) – Three Hills
- Throne Speech
See Speech from the Throne
- Tick-borne diseases
See Lyme disease
- Timber harvesting
See Forest products – Export
- Tissue donation
See Organ and tissue donation
- Toupee for a Day
See Cancer: Toupee for a Day awareness event, members' statements on
- Tourism
 Market development [See also Travel Alberta]; Speech from the Throne 3
- Tourism, Parks and Recreation ministry
See Ministry of Tourism, Parks and Recreation
- Tow truck driver safety
See Traffic safety: Tow truck driver safety
- Toxins in grains
See Agricultural Pests (Fusarium Head Blight) Amendment Act, 2014 (Bill 201)
- TPR
See Ministry of Tourism, Parks and Recreation
- Trade
 Domestic agreements, awards following from disputes ... Notley 744
 International trade See International trade
- Trade unions
See Labour unions
- Tradespeople
 Associate Minister of Family and Community Safety's remarks ... Jansen 324–25; Rowe 324–25
- Tradespeople – Supply
See Labour force planning
- Tradespeople – Training
See Apprenticeship training
- Traffic court
See Justice system
- Traffic safety
 Emergency turnarounds See Roads: Emergency turnarounds on highways
 Highway 63 See Highway 63
 Penalties for drunk and distracted driving ... Denis 667; Drysdale 667; Leskiw 666–67
 Penalties for speeding, motion to amend Traffic Safety Act provisions (Motion Other than Government Motion 504: carried) ... Allen 452–53, 458; Bilous 454–55; Denis 453–54; Drysdale 456–57; Scott 457–58; Stier 454; Swann 456; Webber 455–56
 Penalties for speeding, other jurisdictions ... Allen 453; Bilous 455; Denis 453; Scott 457–58
 Tow truck driver safety ... Drysdale 260; Fenske 260
- Traffic safety – Rural areas
See Roads – Rural areas: Delineator traffic post and signpost replacement
- Traffic Safety Act
 Review ... Drysdale 457
- Training, apprenticeship
See Apprenticeship training
- TransAlta Corporation
 Investigation into anticompetitive behaviour See Electric power – Retail sales
- Transformation, accountability, and transparency, associate minister for
See Ministry of Service Alberta: Associate Minister, Accountability, Transparency and Transformation
- Transgender people
See Gay, lesbian, bisexual, or transgender persons
- Transit services
See Public transit
- Transparency, transformation, and accountability, associate minister for
See Ministry of Service Alberta: Associate Minister, Accountability, Transparency and Transformation
- Transportation ministry
See Ministry of Transportation
- Travel Alberta
 [See also Tourism]
 Executive expenses ... Smith 240; Starke 116, 166–67, 209, 240, 346–47; Strankman 116, 166–67, 209, 346–47
- Travel at public expense
 Associate Minister of Family and Community See Ministry of Human Services: Associate Minister of Family and Community Safety's travel with daughter
 Cabinet expense policy ... Fox 200; Hancock 56; Mason 55–56; Redford 55; Sherman 33, 55
 Expense policy ... Horner 54; Mason 12, 53; Redford 11, 12; Smith 11, 54
 Government agency, board, and commission executives See Government agencies, boards, and commissions: Executive travel expenses
 Government airplane use See Government airplanes
 Government caucus members' travel to Grande Prairie See Government airplanes: Cabinet travel to Grande Prairie fundraising event
 Information and Privacy Commissioner's report, request for information on See Information and Privacy Commissioner: Report on government travel, meal, and hospitality expense policy, information on (Written Question 5: accepted)
 Members' travel to vehicle crash at school in St. Paul See Schools – St. Paul: Vehicle crash, members' travel to
 Official Opposition position ... Smith 177
 Premier's travel See Office of the Premier
 Travel Alberta CEO expenses See Travel Alberta: Executive expenses
- Treasury Branches Act, Alberta
 Amendments proposed to change gender references See Statutes Amendment Act, 2014 (Bill 12)
- Treasury ministry (financial management and planning)
See Ministry of Treasury Board and Finance
- Trucking industry
 Access roads See Bridges: Heavy load bridges
 Traffic safety on highway 63 ... Allen 112; Denis 112
- Trussler, Marguerite, QC
See Ethics Commissioner
- Truth and Reconciliation Commission
 Members' speaking time ... Speaker, The 370
 National event ... Speaker, The 339
 National event, ministerial statement on ... Hancock 336

Truth and Reconciliation Commission (continued)

National event, ministerial statement on, responses ...
Allen 338–39; Calahasen 338; Mason 337; Sherman 337; Smith 336–37; Webber 337–38

Tuition and fees, postsecondary

Noninstructional fees [See also Postsecondary educational institutions – Admissions (enrolment): Access, affordability]; Amery 209; Hancock 209, 297–98; Pedersen 210, 297; Sherman 180

Turner Valley – History

See Energy industries – History

Tuxedo rental by Travel Alberta CEO

See Travel Alberta: Executive expenses

Typhoon Haiyan

See Philippines, The

U of A

See University of Alberta

U of A partnership with Banff Centre

See Peter Lougheed Leadership Institute

U of C

See University of Calgary

UDSR

See Fort McMurray: Urban development subregion designation

Ukraine

Arts and culture, Taras Shevchenko 200th anniversary, members' statements on ... Sarich 99
 Members' statements ... Leskiw 100
 Ministerial statement ... Redford 8–9
 Ministerial statement, responses ... Mason 9–10; Sherman 9; Smith 9
 Russian action, members' statements on ... Fox 300

Ukrainian Cultural Heritage Village

40th anniversary, members' statements on ... Fenske 434

Ukrainian remarks in Legislature

See Legislative Assembly of Alberta: Ukrainian remarks

Underground water – Monitoring

See Hydraulic fracturing: Groundwater monitoring

Unions

See Labour unions

University of Alberta

Athletic achievements ... Young 407
 Capital funding ... Smith 179
 Funding, impact of cuts ... Notley 197
 Infrastructure funding ... Notley 570
 Partnership with Banff Centre See Peter Lougheed Leadership Institute

University of Calgary

Members' statements ... Brown 290

Urban affairs ministry

See Ministry of Municipal Affairs

Urban development subregions

See Fort McMurray: Urban development subregion designation

Urban Municipalities Association

See Alberta Urban Municipalities Association

Urban planning

See Cities and towns

User fees

Education See School fees (elementary and secondary)

User fees (continued)

FOIP requests, waiver for MLAs (proposed) See Freedom of Information and Protection of Privacy (MLA Public Interest Fee Waiver) Amendment Act, 2014 (Bill 204)

Postsecondary fees See Tuition and fees, postsecondary: Noninstructional fees
 Registry service fees See Registry services

Utilities

See Public utilities

Utilities Commission, Alberta

See Alberta Utilities Commission

Utilities ministry

See Ministry of Energy

Vaccination

See Immunization

Vaisakhi

Members' statements ... Sandhu 460

Vegreville – Police

See Royal Canadian Mounted Police – Fort Saskatchewan-Vegreville (constituency)

Vehicle licences

See Drivers' licences

Vehicle safety

See Traffic safety

Vehicles, all-terrain

See All-terrain vehicles

Victims Bill of Rights (federal)

General remarks ... Denis 669; Quadri 669

Victims of crime

Resource centres See Integrated Threat and Risk Assessment Centre

Victims of domestic violence

See Domestic violence

Victims of violence

Reduction strategies, research on See Social innovation fund

Resources See Integrated Threat and Risk Assessment Centre

Victoria Cross

General remarks ... Speaker, The 4

Victoria school of the arts

See Schools – Edmonton: Central Edmonton schools

Vimy Ridge

See World War II

Violence, domestic

See Domestic violence

Vision care

Low-vision clinics ... Johnson, J. 356
 Screening framework, preschool children ... Johnson, L. 359–60
 Vision assessments for schoolchildren, bills and statutes on See Childhood Vision Assessment Act (Bill 203)
 Vision assessments for schoolchildren, members' statements on ... Jablonski 314–15
 Vision assessments for schoolchildren, other jurisdictions ... Scott 448

Visitors, introduction of

See Introduction of Visitors (visiting dignitaries)

Vital Statistics Act

Amendments proposed re sex indicator requirements on birth records [See also Statutes Amendment Act, 2014 (Bill 12)]; Bilous 743, 782; Blakeman 740; Campbell 736; Notley 745; Smith 736–37

- Volunteers
[See also Nonprofit organizations]
Members' statements ... Johnson, L. 349
- Vulnerable persons, services for
See Ministry of Human Services
- Wages – Home-care workers
See Home-care services – Edmonton: Artspace Independent Living employee wages
- Wages – Minimum wage
Comparison with other jurisdictions ... Eggen 43–44
- Wages – Women
Comparison to men ... Bilous 668; Jansen 668
- Wainwright health centre
Condition of facility ... Forsyth 295; Horne 295
- Wanham
Fundraising initiatives for cancer, members' statements on ... Goudreau 599
- Waste management
Private landfill sites, oversight of ... Barnes 18; Campbell 18
- Waste management – Medicine Hat
Westar Landfill fire ... Barnes 17–18; Campbell 18
- Water, underground – Monitoring
See Hydraulic fracturing: Groundwater monitoring
- Water Act
Legal challenges ... Denis 245; Notley 244–45
- Water for life
Program funding ... Smith 178
- Water management – Bragg Creek
Water/waste-water system, funding for ... Drysdale 81
- Water management – Okotoks
Licences ... Smith 178
- Water ministry
See Ministry of Environment and Sustainable Resource Development
- Water quality – Athabasca River
See Athabasca River: Water quality
- Water quality – Cold Lake
Treatment facilities ... Drysdale 314; Leskiw 314
- Water quality – Lacombe-Ponoka (constituency)
Drinking water contamination, complaint by Ann Craft on ... Campbell 774; Fox 774; McQueen 774
- Watino – Bridges
See Bridges – Watino
- Wellness initiatives
See Health promotion
- Wellness ministry Health and
See Ministry of Health
- West Springs community, Calgary
See Calgary: West Springs community
- Westar Landfill
See Waste management – Medicine Hat
- Westminster system of democracy
See Democracy: Westminster parliamentary system
- Wheat – Diseases and pests
See Grain – Diseases and pests
- Wheat Board
See Canadian Wheat Board
- Whitcourt-St. Anne (constituency) – Police
See Royal Canadian Mounted Police: Fallen Four tribute, members' statements on
- Whitnack, Pam
See Alberta Health Services (authority): Consulting contracts for former executives
- Wildfires
Response, funding from supplementary supply ... Dallas 143
- Wildfires – Medicine Hat
See Waste management – Medicine Hat: Westar Landfill fire
- Wildfires – Slave Lake
Disaster recovery program, outstanding claims, statistics for the 2011 fire (Written Question 39: accepted) ... Blakeman 437–38
- Wildlife
See Bighorn sheep; Caribou; Grizzly bear
- Wildlife ministry
See Ministry of Environment and Sustainable Resource Development
- Wildlife populations – Northern Alberta
See Elk populations – Northern Alberta
- Wildrose opposition
See Official Opposition
- Windstorms – Northern Alberta
Members' statements ... Goudreau 163
- Women
Crimes against See Aboriginal women – Violence against: Murdered and missing women
International Women's Day, members' statements on ... Blakeman 99–100
- Women's equality
Economic security ... Bilous 668; Horner 668; Jansen 668
Income equality See Wages – Women
Members' statements ... Blakeman 506–7
- Women's Legal Education and Action Fund
See Women's equality: Members' statements
- Women's shelters – Calgary
See Sonshine Centre
- Wood, Jonathon David
See Impaired driving: Deaths, members' statements on Jonathon David Wood
- Wood Buffalo (municipality)
Infrastructure funding ... Allen 76
Transfer of 20 townships to Lac La Biche ... Allen 226
- Wood Buffalo (municipality) – Flood damage mitigation
See Flood damage mitigation – Fort McMurray-Wood Buffalo (constituency)
- Wood Buffalo (municipality) – Floods
See Floods – Fort McMurray-Wood Buffalo (constituency)
- Woodland caribou
See Caribou
- Work plan, government
See Government policies: Implementation
- Workforce planning
See Labour force planning
- Workplace conditions
See Employment standards
- Workplace health and safety
Farm safety See Agriculture – Safety measures: Canadian Agricultural Safety Week
National Day of Mourning, ministerial statement on ... Lukaszuk 660–61

Workplace health and safety (continued)

National Day of Mourning, ministerial statement on, responses ... Allen 662; Bikman 661; Notley 662; Swann 661

Occupational health and safety officers, statistics on (Written Question 25: accepted) ... Hehr 437

Occupational health and safety peace officers ... Lukaszuk 660

Oil sands worker deaths and injuries See Oil sands development: Worker fatalities

Workplace violence

Prevention strategies, research on See Social innovation fund

Resources See Integrated Threat and Risk Assessment Centre

World Meningitis Day

See Meningitis

World War II

Battle of Vimy Ridge, members' statements on ... Wilson 397

Liberation of the Netherlands, members' statements on ... VanderBurg 692

National Day of Remembrance of the Battle of Vimy Ridge, Speaker's statement on ... Speaker, The 385

Wrestling

Alberta Schools' Athletic Association championships, members' statements on ... Fritz 470

Writing-on-Stone provincial park

Interpretation internship program, members' statements on ... Calahasen 380

Written Questions (current session)

Note: Responses to written questions are listed under Tabling Returns and Reports. See http://www.assembly.ab.ca

Q1, big-city charter ... 436

Q2, property tax rates ... 436

Q3, full-day kindergarten costs ... 438

Q4, child care spaces ... 436

Q5, travel, meal, and hospitality expense policy ... 436

Q6, oil and gas pipeline spills ... 436

Q7, heritage savings trust fund ... 438–39

Q8, debt-servicing limit ... 439–40

Q9, cancer incidence rates ... 440–41

Q10, municipal flood-prone lands ... 436

Q11, public-sector pension plans ... 436

Q12, First Nations education ... 441

Q13, school teacher staffing ... 441–42

Q14, school bus transportation costs ... 442

Q15, English as a second language students ... 436

Q16, home inspectors for resale properties ... 436

Q17, home inspectors for resale properties ... 436

Q18, home inspector licence revocation ... 436

Q19, children living in poverty ... 436

Q20, children living in poverty ... 436

Q21, children escaping from poverty ... 436

Written Questions (current session) (continued)

Q22, elimination of child poverty ... 436

Q23, municipal flood notices ... 436

Q24, evaluation of flood-proofed houses ... 436–37

Q25, occupational health and safety officers ... 437

Q26, employment standards officers ... 437

Q27, family and community engagement councils ... 437

Q28, Alberta Works caseloads ... 437

Q29, open data portal visits ... 437

Q30, government management positions ... 437

Q31, disaster recovery compensation notice ... 437

Q32, disaster recovery committee ... 437

Q33, disaster recovery program, 2013 ... 437

Q34, 38, disaster recovery program, 2010 ... 437

Q35, disaster recovery program, 2013 ... 437

Q36, municipal requests for flood protection assistance ... 437

Q37, disaster recovery program, 2013 ... 437

Q38, disaster recovery program, 2010 ... 437

Q39, disaster recovery program, 2011 ... 437–38

Q40, 41, LandLink Consulting Ltd. ... 438

Wynart, April

See Children: Great Kids awards 2014

Young adults

Support services, extension to age 24 ... Speech from the Throne 3

Support services, private-sector involvement ... Speech from the Throne 3

Youth

Emergency services ... Bhullar 245–46; Khan 245–46

Intervention system, legislation on See Child, Youth and Family Enhancement Amendment Act, 2014 (Bill 11)

Programs and services, partnerships with the private sector ... Speech from the Throne 3

Youth – Mental health services

Provincial strategy ... Speech from the Throne 3

Youth – St. Albert

Emergency services ... Bhullar 245–46; Khan 245–46

Youth, aboriginal, probation services

See Probation: Services for aboriginal youth

Youth Advocate

See Child and Youth Advocate

Youth engagement

See Alberta Youth Secretariat

Youth Services ministry

See Ministry of Human Services

YWCA

Winter emergency response program See Domestic violence: Emergency housing for women, members' statements on

Zebra mussels

See Mussels

Allen, Mike (Ind., Fort McMurray-Wood Buffalo)

- Aboriginal women – Violence against
 - Murders and disappearances ... 338–39, 428, 534
- Alberta heritage scholarship fund
 - General remarks ... 157
- Assured income for the severely handicapped
 - Wait times, members' statements on ... 416
- Budget Address
 - Addresses in reply ... 224–26
- Budget process
 - Supplementary supply, government use of ... 75
- Capital plan
 - Infrastructure financing, borrowing ... 157
- Comprehensive regional infrastructure sustainability plan (CRISP)
 - General remarks ... 157
- Education – Curricula
 - Aboriginal content ... 338
- Flood damage mitigation – Fort McMurray-Wood Buffalo (constituency)
 - Costs ... 157
 - General remarks ... 226
- Floods – Fort McMurray-Wood Buffalo (constituency)
 - Disaster recovery program ... 75–76, 225
 - Disaster recovery program, federal funding ... 76
- Fort McMurray
 - Parsons Creek development ... 225
 - Urban development subregion designation ... 156
- Fort McMurray-Wood Buffalo (constituency)
 - Infrastructure needs ... 225
 - Overview ... 224–25
- Highway 63
 - Safety ... 112, 458
 - Traffic fatalities ... 452
 - Twinning ... 156–57, 225
- Highway 881
 - Enhancements, timeline on ... 256
- Human reproductive technology
 - In vitro fertilization, provincial strategy on funding ... 726–27
- Introduction of Guests (school groups, individuals)
 - ... 304, 659–60
- Keyano College
 - General remarks ... 157
- Lac La Biche
 - Transfer of 20 townships from Wood Buffalo ... 226
- Long-term care facilities (nursing homes/auxiliary hospitals) – Fort McMurray
 - New facility ... 157, 226
- Members' Statements (current session)
 - AISH wait times ... 416
- Ministerial Statements (current session)
 - National Day of Mourning, responses ... 662
 - Truth and Reconciliation Commission national event, ministerial statement on, responses ... 338–39
- Ministry of Aboriginal Relations
 - Supplementary supply estimates 2013-2014, no. 2, debate ... 76
- Ministry of Environment and Sustainable Resource Development
 - Supplementary supply estimates 2013-2014, no. 2, debate ... 76
- Ministry of Human Services
 - Supplementary supply estimates 2013-2014, no. 2, debate ... 76
- Ministry of Municipal Affairs
 - Supplementary supply estimates 2013-2014, no. 2, debate ... 76

Allen, Mike (Ind., Fort McMurray-Wood Buffalo)(continued)

- Municipalities – Finance
 - Funding ... 76
 - Infrastructure funding ... 225
 - Oil sands development
 - Economic significance ... 156–57, 224–25
 - Infrastructure needs ... 157
 - Worker fatalities ... 662
 - Oral Question Period (current session topics)
 - Education property tax ... 342–43
 - Highway 63 safety ... 112
 - Highway 881 ... 256
 - Missing and murdered aboriginal women ... 428, 534
 - In vitro fertilization funding ... 726–27
 - Property tax
 - Linear property assessment ... 76
 - Property tax – Education levy
 - Increases ... 225
 - Mitigation formula termination ... 342–43
 - Property tax – Education levy – Fort McMurray
 - Rates ... 225–26
 - Roads – Fort McMurray
 - Flood damage ... 76
 - Schools – Fort McMurray
 - Modernizations ... 225
 - New schools ... 225
 - Speech from the Throne
 - Addresses in reply ... 156–57
 - Supplementary supply estimates 2013-2014, no. 2
 - Estimates debated ... 75–76
 - Flood-related expenses ... 75–76
 - Traffic safety
 - Penalties for speeding, motion to amend Traffic Safety Act provisions (Motion Other than Government Motion 504: carried) ... 452–53, 458
 - Penalties for speeding, other jurisdictions ... 453
 - Trucking industry
 - Traffic safety on highway 63 ... 112
 - Truth and Reconciliation Commission
 - National event, ministerial statement on, responses ... 338–39
 - Wood Buffalo (municipality)
 - Infrastructure funding ... 76
 - Transfer of 20 townships to Lac La Biche ... 226
 - Workplace health and safety
 - National Day of Mourning, ministerial statement on, responses ... 662
- Amery, Moe (PC, Calgary-East)
- Committee on Alberta's Economic Future, Standing
 - Report of 2014-2015 estimates debate and amendments, Executive Council; ministries of Agriculture and Rural Development; Infrastructure; Innovation and Advanced Education; International and Intergovernmental Relations; Jobs, Skills, Training and Labour; Tourism, Parks and Recreation ... 486
 - Executive Council
 - Main estimates 2014-2015, Standing Committee on Alberta's Economic Future report on review of proposed estimates and business plan, tabling of amendments introduced ... 486
 - Main estimates 2014-2015, Standing Committee on Alberta's Economic Future report on review of proposed estimates and business plan presented ... 486
 - Health care – Capacity issues
 - Wait times ... 607–8

Amery, Moe (PC, Calgary-East) (continued)

- Home-care services
 - Wait times ... 415–16
- Hospitals – Emergency services – Capacity issues
 - Wait times ... 607–8
- Ministry of Agriculture and Rural Development
 - Main estimates 2014-2015, Standing Committee on Alberta's Economic Future report on review of proposed estimates and business plan presented ... 486
- Ministry of Infrastructure
 - Main estimates 2014-2015, Standing Committee on Alberta's Economic Future report on review of proposed estimates and business plan presented ... 486
- Ministry of Innovation and Advanced Education
 - Main estimates 2014-2015, Standing Committee on Alberta's Economic Future report on review of proposed estimates and business plan presented ... 486
- Ministry of International and Intergovernmental Relations
 - Main estimates 2014-2015, Standing Committee on Alberta's Economic Future report on review of proposed estimates and business plan, tabling of amendments introduced ... 486
 - Main estimates 2014-2015, Standing Committee on Alberta's Economic Future report on review of proposed estimates and business plan presented ... 486
- Ministry of Jobs, Skills, Training and Labour
 - Main estimates 2014-2015, Standing Committee on Alberta's Economic Future report on review of proposed estimates and business plan presented ... 486
- Ministry of Tourism, Parks and Recreation
 - Main estimates 2014-2015, Standing Committee on Alberta's Economic Future report on review of proposed estimates and business plan presented ... 486
- Oral Question Period (current session topics)
 - Health care wait times ... 607–8
 - Home care ... 415–16
 - Postsecondary education affordability ... 208–9
- Physicians
 - Internationally trained, accreditation process for ... 608
- Postsecondary education
 - Digital textbooks ... 209
- Postsecondary educational institutions – Admissions (enrolment)
 - Access, affordability ... 208–9
- Primary care networks
 - General remarks ... 607
- Student financial aid (postsecondary students)
 - Funding ... 208–9
- Tuition and fees, postsecondary
 - Noninstructional fees ... 209

Anderson, Rob (W, Airdrie)

- Agriculture and food innovation fund
 - General remarks ... 49
- Airdrie (constituency)
 - Member's personal and family history ... 284
- Airdrie Health Foundation
 - Members' statements ... 531
- Alberta Energy Regulator
 - Funding ... 68
- Alberta future fund
 - General remarks ... 49

Anderson, Rob (W, Airdrie) (continued)Alberta Hansard

- Remarks off the record ... 348
- Remarks off the record, point of order on ... 351
- Alberta Health Services (authority)
 - Appearance before Public Accounts Committee (proposed) ... 464
 - Consulting contracts ... 375
- Alberta heritage fund for medical research
 - General remarks ... 49
- Alberta heritage savings trust fund
 - Additions to fund ... 50
 - Comparison to Norwegian fund ... 50
 - Fund utilization ... 49
- Alberta heritage scholarship fund
 - General remarks ... 49
- Alberta Human Rights Act
 - Repeal of section 3(1)(b) (Motion Other than Government Motion 502: defeated) ... 284
- Alberta Securities Commission
 - Oversight of derivatives market ... 144
- Appropriation Act, 2014 (Bill 8)
 - Second reading ... 523–25
- Appropriation (Interim Supply) Act, 2014 (Bill 5)
 - Second reading ... 174
- Auditor General
 - Remarks on budget documents ... 604
- Auditor General's office
 - Funding ... 525
- Bills, private members' public (procedure)
 - Rotation of speakers, clarification on ... 697
- Budget 2014-2015
 - Budget documents, financial reporting methods ... 428–29, 604
 - Budget documents, financial reporting methods, Auditor General's remarks on ... 604
 - Operational surplus ... 182
- Budget Address
 - Addresses in reply, questions and comments ... 182–83
- Budget process
 - Balanced/deficit budgets ... 69, 70, 182
 - Results-based budgeting ... 68–69
 - Supplementary supply, government use of ... 68–69, 70
- Business enterprises
 - Programs and services ... 525
- Capital plan
 - Infrastructure financing, members' statements on ... 118
 - Official Opposition position ... 50, 269
- Committee on Public Accounts, Standing
 - Alberta Health Services appearance (proposed) ... 464
- Debts, provincial
 - Former Finance ministers' remarks ... 429
 - Macdonald-Laurier Institute report ... 182–83
- Education – Curricula
 - Mathematics curriculum, point of order on debate ... 173
- Electric power – Retail sales
 - Corporations' economic withholding/market manipulation, point of privilege raised on debate (intimidation) ... 172–73
- Employment Pension (Private Sector) Plans Amendment Act, 2014 (Bill 10)
 - Second reading ... 559
- Environmental trusts
 - Tax regime ... 488
- Federal Public Building
 - Redevelopment project, residential suite proposal ... 343

Anderson, Rob (W, Airdrie) (continued)

- Federal Public Building (continued)
 - Redevelopment project change orders, point of order on debate ... 402
- Fiscal policy
 - Official Opposition position ... 49–50
- Freedom of Information and Protection of Privacy (MLA Public Interest Fee Waiver) Amendment Act, 2014 (Bill 204)
 - Second reading, point of clarification on debate (speaking order) ... 697
- Gay, lesbian, bisexual, or transgender persons
 - Supports for students, point of order on debate ... 398–99
- Government
 - Public trust in ... 524–25
- Government airplanes
 - Cabinet travel to Grande Prairie fundraising event ... 214
 - Usage policy, point of privilege raised on debate (misleading the House) ... 214
- Government communications
 - Budget ... 375
- Government grant programs
 - Endowment fund use ... 49
 - Financial reporting ... 182, 269
- Health care – Airdrie
 - Urgent health care services, petition presented on ... 541
- Human reproductive technology
 - Funding ... 690
- Independent Budget Officer Act (Bill 202)
 - Second reading ... 269–70
- Interim supply estimates
 - Government use of ... 174
- Introduction of Guests (school groups, individuals) ... 304, 405, 530, 763
- Introduction of Visitors (visiting dignitaries)
 - Member of Parliament for Edmonton-St. Albert ... 251
- Members of the Legislative Assembly
 - Interrupting a member, Speaker's rulings on, point of clarification requested ... 413
- Members' Statements (current session)
 - Airdrie Health Foundation ... 531
 - Provincial borrowing ... 118
- Ministry of Education
 - Supplementary supply estimates 2013-2014, no. 2, debate ... 69
- Ministry of Energy
 - Minister's meetings with industry, point of order on debate ... 382, 383, 384
 - Supplementary supply estimates 2013-2014, no. 2, debate ... 68–69
- Ministry of Human Services
 - Minister's announcement of procedural changes for children in care, point of order on debate ... 398–99
- Ministry of Infrastructure
 - Minister's meetings with industry ... 375
 - Minister's meetings with industry, point of order on debate ... 382, 383, 384
- Ministry of Justice and Solicitor General
 - Minister's decision on GPS monitoring of domestic violence offenders, point of order on debate ... 401
- Motions (procedure)
 - Request that House continue past adjournment hour to complete debate ... 285
- Office of the Premier
 - Premier Redford's travel to Jasper, point of order on debate ... 517–18

Anderson, Rob (W, Airdrie) (continued)

- Office of the Premier (continued)
 - Premier Redford's travel to South Africa ... 11
 - Premier Redford's travel to South Africa, repayment (proposed) ... 11
- Oral Question Period (procedure)
 - Questions on internal party matters, points of order on debate ... 401
- Oral Question Period (current session topics)
 - Alberta Health Services sole-source contracts ... 464
 - Assisted reproductive technology policy ... 690
 - Federal building redevelopment plan ... 343
 - Government spending ... 375–76
 - Premier Redford's travel to South Africa ... 11
 - Provincial budget ... 428–29
 - Provincial budget documents ... 604
- Pensions
 - Joint sponsorship ... 559
 - Plan types (defined benefit, defined contribution, targeted benefit) ... 559
- Petitions presented (current session)
 - Airdrie urgent health care services ... 541
- Points of order (current session)
 - Allegations against a member or members ... 382, 383, 384, 398–99
 - Factual accuracy ... 173, 402, 517–18
 - Imputing motives ... 401
 - Inflammatory language ... 272
 - Questions on internal party matters ... 401
 - Remarks off the record ... 351
- Political parties
 - Leadership candidates, resignation from ministerial positions ... 383
- Poverty
 - Cost of ... 649
- Privilege (current session)
 - Intimidation (Associate Minister of Electricity and Renewable Energy's remarks on Alberta Energy Regulator mandate) (not proceeded with) ... 172–73
 - Misleading the House (use of government airplanes) (not proceeded with) ... 214
- Public Sector Pension Plans Amendment Act, 2014 (Bill 9)
 - Second reading ... 544–46
 - Second reading, motion to refer bill to Standing Committee on Alberta's Economic Future (referral amendment RA1) (Notley: defeated) ... 647–49
- Public service
 - Description ... 525
- Public service – Pensions
 - Comparison with other jurisdictions ... 545
 - Official Opposition position ... 647–49
 - Sustainability ... 545–46
 - Unfunded liabilities ... 545–46
- Revenue
 - Forecasts ... 182–83
 - Increase in ... 68, 182
- Ring roads – Calgary
 - Southwest portion cost ... 270
- Savings Management Act (Bill 1)
 - Second reading ... 49–50
- Securities Amendment Act, 2014 (Bill 3)
 - Second reading ... 144
- Social innovation fund
 - General remarks ... 49
- Speaker – Rulings
 - Interrupting a member, point of clarification requested ... 413
- Supplementary supply estimates 2013-2014
 - General remarks ... 68

Anderson, Rob (W, Airdrie) (continued)

- Supplementary supply estimates 2013-2014, no. 2
 - Estimates debated ... 68–69
 - Expenses not flood-related ... 68–69
 - Flood-related expenses ... 69
- Tax Statutes Amendment Act, 2014 (Bill 7)
 - Second reading ... 488

Anglin, Joe (W, Rimbey-Rocky Mountain House-Sundre)

- Alberta Utilities Commission
 - Oversight role ... 41
 - Response to report on TransAlta electric power economic withholding/market manipulation ... 15–16, 41, 56, 112–13
- AltaLink
 - Income on transmission lines ... 687
 - Members' statements ... 722–23
 - Purchase bid by Berkshire Hathaway Inc. ... 687, 722–23
- Building Alberta plan
 - Advertising ... 39
- Capital plan
 - Project prioritization ... 275–76
- Childhood Vision Assessment Act (Bill 203)
 - Second reading ... 444
- Debts, provincial
 - Debt related to public utilities ... 543
- Economy
 - 2008 global downturn ... 144
- Electric power – British Columbia
 - B.C. Hydro purchase of Alberta electric power ... 246
- Electric power – Prices
 - Comparison with other jurisdictions ... 723, 729–30
 - Fluctuations ... 537, 670–71
 - Fluctuations, point of order on debate ... 543
 - Wholesale price guarantees ... 246
- Electric power – Regulation
 - Oversight of consumer costs ... 687
- Electric power – Retail sales
 - Corporations' economic withholding/market manipulation ... 112–13, 246, 670–71
 - Corporations' economic withholding/market manipulation, investigation by Market Surveillance Administrator ... 15–16, 24, 56
 - Corporations' economic withholding/market manipulation, investigation by RCMP re criminal charges (proposed) ... 16, 56
 - Corporations' economic withholding/market manipulation, investigation by RCMP re criminal charges (proposed), point of order on debate ... 24
 - Fees, cost of power line construction ... 687
- Electric power lines
 - Planned shutdown re connection of new HVDC line ... 537
- Energy industries – Environmental aspects
 - Enforcement re environmental damage ... 40
- Environmental protection
 - Provincial strategy ... 39
- Flood damage mitigation
 - General remarks ... 31–32, 37, 40, 70
- Flood damage mitigation – Sundre
 - General remarks ... 70–71
- Freedom of Information and Protection of Privacy (MLA Public Interest Fee Waiver) Amendment Act, 2014 (Bill 204)
 - Second reading ... 700–701
- Gas – Prices
 - Increase in ... 394

Anglin, Joe (W, Rimbey-Rocky Mountain House-Sundre) (continued)

- Government accountability
 - Financial reporting ... 275
 - General remarks ... 41
- Government policies
 - Members' statements ... 371
- Health care – Sundre
 - Helipad specifications, request for information on ... 700
- Highway 12
 - Bypass at Bentley ... 39
- Independent Budget Officer Act (Bill 202)
 - Second reading ... 274–76
- Introduction of Guests (school groups, individuals) ... 89, 339, 529
- Long-term care facilities (nursing homes/auxiliary hospitals)
 - Food quality ... 40
 - Funding ... 40
- Members' Statements (current session)
 - AltaLink ... 722–23
 - Government and Official Opposition policies ... 371
- Ministry of Environment and Sustainable Resource Development
 - Supplementary supply estimates 2013-2014, no. 2, debate ... 70–71
- Ministry of Municipal Affairs
 - Supplementary supply estimates 2013-2014, no. 2, debate ... 70–71
- Municipal sustainability initiative
 - Funding ... 40
- New Home Buyer Protection Amendment Act, 2014 (Bill 6)
 - Second reading ... 419
 - Committee ... 494–95, 497–501
 - Committee amendment A1 (registration fee exemption for new homes for personal use) (Anglin: defeated) ... 494–95, 497
 - Committee amendment A2 (limitation on registration fee for new homes for personal use) (Anglin: defeated) ... 497–500, 501
 - Provisions for homeowner-builders ... 419, 494, 495, 499, 501
- Official Opposition
 - Information requests under FOIP ... 700–701
 - Policies, members' statements on ... 371
- Oral Question Period (current session topics)
 - Electricity market investigation ... 15–16, 56
 - Electricity prices ... 670–71, 729–30
 - Electricity pricing ... 112–13, 246
 - Electricity system regulation ... 687
 - Gas prices ... 394
 - Planned transmission line shutdown ... 537
- Pipelines – Environmental aspects
 - Barriers to expansion ... 39
- Points of order (current session)
 - Factual accuracy ... 24, 543
- Public Sector Pension Plans Amendment Act, 2014 (Bill 9)
 - Second reading, motion to refer bill to Standing Committee on Alberta's Economic Future (referral amendment RA1) (Notley: defeated) ... 651–53
- Public service – Pensions
 - Contribution rates ... 653
 - Official Opposition position ... 651–52
 - Sustainability ... 651–52
 - Unfunded liabilities ... 652–53

Anglin, Joe (W, Rimbey-Rocky Mountain House-Sundre) (continued)

- Renewable energy sources
 - Market development ... 41
- Sage grouse
 - Protection order (federal) ... 47
- Schools – Construction
 - New schools, timeline on ... 39–40
- Securities Amendment Act, 2014 (Bill 3)
 - Second reading ... 144–45
- Speech from the Throne
 - Addresses in reply ... 39–40
 - Addresses in reply (questions and comments) ... 31–32, 37, 41, 47
- Supplementary supply estimates 2013–2014, no. 2
 - Estimates debated ... 70–71
 - Flood-related expenses ... 70

Barnes, Drew (W, Cypress-Medicine Hat)

- Agricultural Pests (Fusarium Head Blight) Amendment Act, 2014 (Bill 201)
 - Second reading ... 128–29
- Bills, government (procedure)
 - Opposition and public input and feedback ... 47
- Building Alberta plan
 - Advertising ... 311–12
 - General remarks ... 46, 47
- Capital plan
 - Official Opposition position ... 46
 - Project prioritization ... 326, 414
- Caregivers
 - Members' statements ... 732
- Children – Protective services
 - Round-table on child care ... 47
- Debts, provincial
 - General remarks ... 46–47
- Education
 - Provincial strategy ... 47
- Electric power – Prices
 - Consumer protection ... 47
- Energy industries
 - National energy strategy ... 46
- Federal Public Building
 - Redevelopment project, members' statements on ... 348
 - Redevelopment project cost ... 115
- Freedom of Information and Protection of Privacy (MLA Public Interest Fee Waiver) Amendment Act, 2014 (Bill 204)
 - First reading ... 264
 - Second reading ... 450–51, 706–7
- Fusarium head blight – Management
 - Comparison with other jurisdictions ... 128–29
- Government
 - Size and mandate ... 46
- Government accountability
 - Financial reporting ... 46–47
 - MLAs' role ... 706–7
 - Openness and transparency ... 47
- Health care – Capacity issues
 - Wait times ... 47
- Highway 61
 - Enhancements, timeline on ... 326
- Independent Budget Officer Act (Bill 202)
 - Second reading ... 279
- International trade
 - Provincial strategy, performance measures ... 46
- Introduction of Guests (school groups, individuals) ... 200, 304

Barnes, Drew (W, Cypress-Medicine Hat) (continued)

- Introduction of Visitors (visiting dignitaries)
 - Former Member for Cypress and Cypress-Red Cliff ... 289
 - Legislative Assembly of Alberta
 - Parliamentary language ... 46
 - Medicine Hat
 - Infrastructure funding support from Forty Mile county ... 140
 - Members' Statements (current session)
 - Family caregivers ... 732
 - Federal building redevelopment plan ... 348
 - Municipalities – Finance
 - Funding ... 47
 - Oral Question Period (current session topics)
 - Building Alberta plan advertising ... 311–12
 - Highway 61 ... 326
 - Infrastructure funding ... 115
 - Infrastructure planning and maintenance ... 414
 - Medicine Hat landfill fire ... 17–18
 - Sage grouse protection order ... 247, 691
 - School construction and modernization ... 465
 - Strathcona community hospital ... 513
 - Points of order (current session)
 - Parliamentary language ... 46
 - Property tax
 - Linear property assessment, distribution of revenue (Motion Other than Government Motion 501: defeated) ... 140
 - Public service
 - Government departments, organizational structure ... 279
 - Public utilities
 - Costs to consumers ... 47
 - Redcliff Family Leisure Centre
 - Infrastructure funding support from Forty Mile county ... 140
 - Ring roads – Calgary
 - Southwest portion cost ... 115
 - Rural communities
 - Government services ... 47
 - Sage grouse
 - Protection order (federal) ... 46, 47, 247, 691
 - School boards
 - Administration of school construction ... 465
 - Schools – Construction
 - Modernizations, timeline on ... 465
 - New schools, timeline on ... 465
 - Schools – Edmonton
 - Good Shepherd elementary school capital needs ... 414
 - South Saskatchewan region plan (land-use framework)
 - Implementation ... 46
 - Speech from the Throne
 - Addresses in reply ... 46–47
 - Addresses in reply (questions and comments) ... 47
 - Strathcona community hospital
 - Services provided ... 513
 - Waste management
 - Private landfill sites, oversight of ... 18
 - Waste management – Medicine Hat
 - Westar Landfill fire ... 17–18
- Bhardwaj, Naresh (PC, Edmonton-Ellerslie; Associate Minister – Services for Persons with Disabilities)
- Assured income for the severely handicapped
 - Funding ... 78
 - Introduction of Guests (school groups, individuals) ... 161, 199, 279–80, 303, 460, 789

Bhardwaj, Naresh (PC, Edmonton-Ellerslie; Associate Minister – Services for Persons with Disabilities)(continued)

- Ministry of Human Services
 - Supplementary supply estimates 2013-2014, no. 2, debate ... 74, 77-78
- Oral Question Period (current session topics)
 - PDD supports intensity scale ... 481, 536
 - PDD supports intensity scale assessments ... 512
 - Protection of persons in care ... 258
- Persons in care
 - Abuse investigations ... 258
- Persons with developmental disabilities
 - Programs and services ... 74, 77-78
 - Supports intensity scale ... 481, 536
 - Supports intensity scale assessments ... 512
- Supplementary supply estimates 2013-2014, no. 2
 - Estimates debated ... 74, 77-78

Bhullar, Manmeet Singh (PC, Calgary-Greenway; Minister of Human Services)

- Aboriginal peoples
 - Family supports ... 688
- Adoption
 - Provincial policy ... 323
- Assured income for the severely handicapped
 - Application and appeal wait times ... 431
 - Client benefits ... 729
- Child, Youth and Family Enhancement Amendment Act, 2014 (Bill 11)
 - First reading ... 541
 - Second reading ... 739-40
 - Committee ... 745-46, 750, 751-53, 757
 - Committee amendment A1 (information disclosed on fatality and serious injury investigations, recommendations and responses; publication ban applications) (Bhullar: carried) ... 745-46
 - Committee amendment A2 (expert review panel membership) (Towle: defeated) ... 746
 - Committee amendment A4 (ex parte applications for publication bans) (Towle: defeated) ... 750, 751-53
 - Committee amendment A6 (publication ban requests, public interest consideration) (Towle: carried unanimously) ... 757
- Child poverty
 - Plan to end ... 114-15, 241
 - Plan to end, performance measures ... 688
- Children – Protective services
 - Continuity of care ... 728
 - Council for quality assurance (proposed) ... 739-40
 - Death of newborn (Baby Annie) ... 689-90
 - Death of newborn (Baby Annie), Child and Youth Advocate review ... 688, 689-90
 - Deaths and injuries, communications consulting contracts re ... 725
 - Deaths and injuries, investigations ... 389
- Daycare
 - Provincial strategy ... 465
- Family and community support services
 - Funding ... 467
- Fatality Inquiries Act
 - Amendments proposed ... 746
- Health care
 - Continuity of care ... 728
- Income support program
 - Client benefits ... 729
 - Client benefits, income- and asset-based deductions ... 729
- Introduction of Guests (school groups, individuals) ... 87-88, 459, 529-30, 722

Bhullar, Manmeet Singh (PC, Calgary-Greenway; Minister of Human Services) (continued)

- Kinship care
 - Child placement process ... 323, 466
 - Provincial strategy ... 323
 - Ministry of Human Services
 - Minister's announcement of procedural changes for children in care ... 389
 - Oral Question Period (current session topics)
 - AISH wait times ... 431
 - Child poverty ... 241
 - Child poverty reduction strategy ... 114-15
 - Continuity of care for children at risk ... 728
 - Daycare ... 465
 - Family and community support services ... 467
 - Government communications ... 725
 - Kinship care ... 323, 466
 - Ministers' activities ... 389
 - Parenting resources in St. Albert ... 298
 - Protection of vulnerable children ... 688, 689-90
 - Support for vulnerable Albertans ... 729
 - Youth emergency services ... 245-46
 - Parent link centres
 - General remarks ... 298
 - Poverty
 - Reduction strategies ... 114-15
 - St. Albert Family Resource Centre
 - Services provided ... 298
 - Youth
 - Emergency services ... 245-46
 - Youth – St. Albert
 - Emergency services ... 245-46
- Bikman, Gary (W, Cardston-Taber-Warner)
- Bitumen – Upgrading
 - North West project cost ... 668-69
 - Budget officer (proposed)
 - Other jurisdictions ... 276
 - Capital plan
 - Infrastructure financing, borrowing ... 276
 - Cardston health centre
 - New facility, timeline on ... 259
 - Construction industry
 - Labour legislation review ... 730-31
 - Education – Curricula
 - Life skills component ... 415
 - Employment
 - Life skills education and training ... 415
 - Fiscal policy
 - Government savings ... 276
 - Freedom of Information and Protection of Privacy (MLA Public Interest Fee Waiver) Amendment Act, 2014 (Bill 204)
 - Second reading ... 695-96
 - Government policies
 - Members' statements ... 315
 - Independent Budget Officer Act (Bill 202)
 - Second reading ... 276
 - Introduction of Guests (school groups, individuals) ... 304, 405
 - Members' Statements (current session)
 - Government policies ... 315
 - Ministerial Statements (current session)
 - National Day of Mourning, responses ... 661
 - Municipalities – Finance
 - Grant programs ... 140
 - Office of the Premier
 - Premier Hancock's apology at party fundraising event ... 696

Bikman, Gary (W, Cardston-Taber-Warner)(continued)

- Oral Question Period (current session topics)
 - Cardston hospital renovation ... 259
 - Construction labour legislation review ... 730–31
 - Life skills education and training ... 415
 - North West upgrader project ... 668–69
 - Small-business regulations ... 59
- Property tax
 - Linear property assessment, distribution of revenue (Motion Other than Government Motion 501: defeated) ... 139–40
- Public interest
 - Definition ... 696
- Red Tape Reduction Task Force (2012)
 - Recommendations ... 59
- Religious tolerance
 - General remarks ... 315
- Small business
 - Regulatory framework impacts ... 59
- Workplace health and safety
 - National Day of Mourning, ministerial statement on, responses ... 661

Bilous, Deron (ND, Edmonton-Beverly-Clareview)

Aboriginal Consultation Levy Act (Bill 22, 2013)

- General remarks ... 548
- Aboriginal peoples – Housing
 - Disaster recovery program funding ... 82
- Alberta government offices
 - International offices, funding for ... 578
- Alberta heritage savings trust fund
 - Fund utilization ... 151
- Alberta Human Rights Act
 - Repeal of section 3(1)(b) (Motion Other than Government Motion 502: defeated) ... 286–87
 - Repeal of section 3(1)(b) (Motion Other than Government Motion 502: defeated), opposition to ... 286–87
- Appropriation Act, 2014 (Bill 8)
 - Committee ... 561–62, 573–78
 - Third reading ... 621
- Appropriation (Interim Supply) Act, 2014 (Bill 5)
 - Committee ... 228–29
- Appropriation (Supplementary Supply) Act, 2014 (Bill 2)
 - Second reading ... 155–56
- Bills, government (procedure)
 - Consideration of amendments ... 782
 - Omnibus bills/statute amendment acts ... 782
- Bitumen – Upgrading
 - Provincial strategy ... 156
- Bridges – Maintenance and repair
 - Long-term maintenance ... 574
- Budget 2013-2014
 - Budget cuts ... 151
- Business enterprises – Taxation
 - Provincial strategy ... 562
 - Small-business taxes ... 575
- Calgary board of education
 - Capital plan ... 158, 297, 577
- Canada pension plan
 - Enhanced benefits (proposed) ... 585
- Capital plan
 - Long-term planning ... 574–75
- Capital projects
 - Long-term maintenance ... 574–75, 577
- Casinos
 - Hours of operation ... 743

Bilous, Deron (ND, Edmonton-Beverly-Clareview)(continued)

- Charitable Fund-raising Act
 - Amendments proposed re audited financial statement requirements ... 743
- Child, Youth and Family Enhancement Amendment Act, 2014 (Bill 11)
 - Second reading ... 678–79, 718, 739
 - Committee ... 781
 - Committee amendment A8 (investigations of deaths and serious injuries to children receiving designated services at time of incident or within two years previously) (Notley: defeated) ... 781
- Child and Youth Advocate
 - Investigations ... 679
- Child poverty
 - Plan to end ... 159
- Childhood Vision Assessment Act (Bill 203)
 - Second reading ... 445–46
- Children – Protective services
 - Deaths and injuries, investigations ... 678
 - Deaths and injuries, publication ban on names ... 678–79
- Children with special needs – Education
 - General remarks ... 81, 158
- Class size (elementary and secondary schools)
 - General remarks ... 158, 797
- Community health councils
 - Dissolution ... 743
- Democracy
 - Westminster parliamentary system ... 782
- Early childhood education
 - Full-day kindergarten ... 157–58, 577
 - Funding ... 80–81
- Economy
 - Job creation ... 156
- Edmonton – History
 - Beverly centennial, members' statements on ... 598–99
- Edmonton Catholic school board
 - Community schools in mature neighbourhoods ... 296–97
- Edmonton public school board
 - Capital plan ... 158
- Education
 - Members' statements ... 396
- Education – Curricula
 - Curriculum redesign ... 169, 207, 396
- Education – Finance
 - Funding ... 229, 797
- Employment
 - Opportunities for women ... 668
- Employment Pension (Private Sector) Plans Amendment Act, 2014 (Bill 10)
 - Second reading ... 582, 584–86
 - Second reading, motion to not now read (reasoned amendment) (Mason: defeated) ... 595–96
- Energy industries
 - Corporate participation in curriculum development ... 169, 207
 - Drilling in urban areas ... 258
- Federal Public Building
 - Redevelopment project, residential suite proposal ... 345
- Fiscal policy
 - Direct vs. grant funding ... 151
 - Endowment fund use ... 151–52
 - Government spending ... 561–62

Bilous, Deron (ND, Edmonton-Beverly-Clareview)(continued)

- Flood damage mitigation
 - Funding ... 81–82
 - General remarks ... 155, 578
- Floods – Southern Alberta
 - Disaster recovery program, funding for First Nations ... 156
- Gay, lesbian, bisexual, or transgender persons
 - Supports for students ... 393–94
- Gay-straight alliances in schools
 - Student requests for ... 393–94
- Government Organization Act
 - Amendments proposed re definition of court awards re trade agreements ... 782
- Government policies
 - Implementation, point of order on debate ... 316
- Health care – Finance
 - Funding, federal health transfer ... 158
- Health Information Act
 - Amendments proposed re breaches of information ... 742–43
- Home-care services
 - Private service delivery ... 158
- Income support program
 - Comparison with other jurisdictions ... 153
- Information and Privacy Commissioner
 - Mandate on compliance with data privacy ... 743
 - Response to Bill 12, Statutes Amendment Act, 2014 ... 782
- Inner City high school
 - Funding ... 81
- Introduction of Guests (school groups, individuals) ... 161, 598, 763, 790
- Marriage Act amendments
 - Gender reference changes ... 742
- Members of the Legislative Assembly
 - Reference in Assembly to absence, point of order on ... 316
- Members' Statements (current session)
 - Beverly centennial ... 598–99
 - Education system ... 396
 - School fees ... 775
- Ministry of Aboriginal Relations
 - Supplementary supply estimates 2013-2014, no. 2, operational funding, debate ... 82
- Ministry of Culture
 - Supplementary supply estimates 2013-2014, no. 2, operational and capital funding, debate ... 82
- Ministry of Education
 - Supplementary supply estimates 2013-2014, no. 2, debate ... 80–81
- Ministry of Environment and Sustainable Resource Development
 - Supplementary supply estimates 2013-2014, no. 2, operational and capital funding, debate ... 81–82
- Ministry of Municipal Affairs
 - Main estimates 2014-2015, amendment A6 (associate minister's office budget) (Bilous: defeated) ... 486–87
- Ministry of Transportation
 - Supplementary supply estimates 2013-2014, no. 2, debate ... 81
 - Supplementary supply estimates 2013-2014, no. 2, transfer from capital vote to operation vote of Municipal Affairs ... 81
 - Supplementary supply estimates 2013-2014, no. 2, transfer from capital vote to operation vote of Municipal Affairs, vote ... 81

Bilous, Deron (ND, Edmonton-Beverly-Clareview)(continued)

- Misericordia community hospital
 - Capital needs ... 578
- Municipalities – Finance
 - Funding ... 158
- Museums and heritage sites
 - Funding ... 82
- New Home Buyer Protection Amendment Act, 2014 (Bill 6)
 - Second reading ... 419–21
- Oral Question Period (current session topics)
 - Calgary school infrastructure ... 296–97
 - Drilling in urban areas ... 258
 - Education funding ... 797
 - Educational curriculum redesign ... 169, 207
 - Federal building redevelopment plan ... 345
 - LGBTQ student supports ... 393–94
 - School codes of conduct ... 431
 - School infrastructure priorities ... 480–81
 - Social innovation fund ... 58–59
 - Task Force for Teaching Excellence report ... 689
 - Women's issues ... 668
- Pensions
 - Collective agreements... 582, 595–96
 - Plan types (defined benefit, defined contribution, targeted benefit) ... 582, 585–86
- Persons with developmental disabilities
 - Programs and services, funding ... 575
- Philippines, The
 - Disaster relief, funding for ... 82
- Points of order (current session)
 - Referring to the absence of members ... 316
- Poverty
 - Impact on women ... 716–17
- Private schools
 - Funding ... 80–81
- Public Sector Pension Plans Amendment Act, 2014 (Bill 9)
 - Second reading ... 547–49, 551
 - Second reading, motion to refer bill to Standing Committee on Alberta's Economic Future (referral amendment RA1) (Notley: defeated) ... 626, 627–29
 - Second reading, motion to not now read (6-month hoist amendment H1) (Kang: defeated) ... 716–17
 - Public consultation (proposed) ... 548, 627–28
 - Regulatory provisions ... 628
- Public service
 - Collective agreements...584–85
 - Description ...550–51
- Public service – Pensions
 - Contribution rates, cap on ... 548, 628
 - Managers' plan ... 629
 - Proposed changes, impact on women ... 668
 - Sustainability ... 547–48
- Regional Health Authorities Act
 - Amendments proposed re ministerial oversight of health care budget ... 743
- Revenue
 - Sources ... 229
- Roads – Maintenance and repair
 - Highway preservation, funding for ... 81
 - Winter salting and sanding, funding for ... 81
- Royalty structure (energy resources)
 - Provincial strategy ... 154, 562
- Savings Management Act (Bill 1)
 - Second reading ... 151–53, 154
- School fees (elementary and secondary)
 - Members' statements ... 775

Bilous, Deron (ND, Edmonton-Beverly-Clareview)(continued)

- Schools
 - Closures ... 158, 574, 576
 - Codes of conduct ... 431
 - Playgrounds ... 576–77
 - Sustainability in mature communities ... 481
- Schools – Construction
 - Modernizations ... 80
 - Modernizations, timeline on ... 577
 - New schools ... 80, 156
 - New schools, timeline on ... 577
 - Portable classroom availability ... 577
 - Prioritization ... 480–81
 - Public-private partnerships (P3) ... 80, 156, 577
- Schools – Construction – Calgary
 - Infrastructure needs ... 297
- Schools – Edmonton
 - Decision-making on closures and construction ... 480–81
 - School closures ... 296–97
- Schools – Fort McMurray
 - Capacity issues ... 577–78
- Seniors
 - Benefit program ... 158–59
- Seniors – Housing
 - Long-term maintenance ... 574–75
- Small business
 - Programs and services ... 575
- Social innovation/entrepreneurship
 - Public-private partnerships (P3s) ... 152
- Social innovation fund
 - Funding through bonds (proposed) ... 58–59, 151–52
- Societies Act
 - Amendments proposed re nonprofit organizations' incorporated outside Alberta applications for a continuance in Alberta ... 742, 743
- Speech from the Throne
 - Addresses in reply ... 157–59
- Statutes Amendment Act, 2014 (Bill 12)
 - Second reading ... 741, 742–43
 - Third reading ... 782–83
 - Regulatory provisions ... 742, 782–83
- Supplementary supply estimates 2013-2014, no. 2
 - Estimates debated ... 75, 80–82
- Task Force for Teaching Excellence
 - 2014 report ... 689
- Tax policy
 - Flat tax rate ... 562
 - Provincial strategy ... 154, 229
- Traffic safety
 - Penalties for speeding, motion to amend Traffic Safety Act provisions (Motion Other than Government Motion 504: carried) ... 454–55
 - Penalties for speeding, other jurisdictions ... 455
- Vital Statistics Act
 - Amendments proposed re sex indicator requirements on birth records ... 743, 782
- Wages – Women
 - Comparison to men ... 668
- Women's equality
 - Economic security ... 668

Blakeman, Laurie (AL, Edmonton-Centre)

- Agricultural Pests (Fusarium Head Blight) Amendment Act, 2014 (Bill 201)
 - Second reading, motion to refer bill to Standing Committee on Resource Stewardship (referral amendment) (Fenske: carried) ... 134

Blakeman, Laurie (AL, Edmonton-Centre) (continued)

- Alberta Energy Regulator
 - Approval of bitumen extraction near leaks ... 664–65
 - Sanctions imposed for pipeline spills ... 95
- Alberta Environmental Monitoring, Evaluation and Reporting Agency
 - Chairman of the board appointment ... 509
- Alberta Human Rights Act
 - Parental rights provisions ... 194
 - Repeal of section 3(1)(b) (Motion Other than Government Motion 502: defeated) ... 286
- Alberta Human Rights Commission
 - Mandate ... 286
- Appropriation Act, 2014 (Bill 8)
 - Second reading ... 527
 - Committee ... 559–61
 - Third reading ... 614–15
- Arts and culture
 - Funding ... 195
 - Industry sustainability ... 614
- Arts and culture – Edmonton
 - General remarks ... 194
- Athabasca River
 - Water quality ... 258
- Auditor General
 - Mandate ... 267
 - Remarks on budget documents ... 614–15
- Bills, government (procedure)
 - Miscellaneous statutes amendment acts ... 740, 785–86
 - Omnibus bills/statute amendment acts ... 740
- Budget 2014-2015
 - Budget documents, financial reporting methods ... 614–15
 - Budget documents, financial reporting methods, Auditor General's remarks on ... 614–15
- Canada pension plan
 - Changes to benefits ... 550
- Cervid farming – Regulation
 - General remarks ... 323–24
- Charitable Fund-raising Act
 - Definition of “charity” ... 741–42
- Child, Youth and Family Enhancement Amendment Act, 2014 (Bill 11)
 - Second reading ... 673–675
 - Committee ... 746, 747, 750, 752–54, 780–81
 - Committee amendment A2 (expert review panel membership) (Towle: defeated) ... 746, 747
 - Committee amendment A4 (ex parte applications for publication bans) (Towle: defeated) ... 750, 752
 - Committee amendment A5 (publication ban request hearings closed to public, open to media) (Blakeman: defeated) ... 753–54
 - Committee amendment A8 (investigations of deaths and serious injuries to children receiving designated services at time of incident or within two years previously) (Notley: defeated) ... 780–81
- Childhood Vision Assessment Act (Bill 203)
 - Second reading ... 354–55
- Children – Protective services
 - Deaths and injuries, public information on ... 196
 - Deaths and injuries, publication ban on names ... 673–75
- Cities and towns
 - Civic charters, progress on (Written Question 1: accepted) ... 436
- Civil mediation services
 - Funding ... 207
- Courts
 - Self-represented litigants and defendants ... 207

Blakeman, Laurie (AL, Edmonton-Centre) (continued)

- Cumulative Environmental Monitoring Association
 - Funding ... 258
- Drivers' licences
 - Provisions for gender change ... 740–41
- Economic development
 - Approval process, participation in hearings ... 771
- Economic development – Environmental aspects
 - Approval process, participation in hearings ... 771
- Edmonton-Centre (constituency)
 - Overview ... 193–94
- Education Act
 - Inclusive education provisions ... 364–65
- Environmental trusts
 - Governing legislation ... 491
 - Provisions for bankruptcy ... 489
 - Tax regime ... 488–89, 490
- Estate Administration Act (Bill 4)
 - Second reading ... 191–92
 - Third reading ... 329–30
- Estimates of supply, main (procedure)
 - Debate and vote procedure ... 267, 527
 - Debate time ... 268
- Executive Council
 - Budget 2014-2015 ... 561
- Family Law Act
 - Definitions of mother/father, husband/wife in ... 194
- Film and television industry – Calgary
 - Film studio ... 195
- Fiscal policy
 - Government spending ... 490–91, 614–15
- Flood damage mitigation
 - Municipal requests for provincial assistance, 2015-2013 (Written Question 36: accepted) ... 437
 - Provincial advisory panel report (Motion for a Return 2: accepted) ... 442
- Floods
 - Disaster Recovery Committee membership (Written Question 32: accepted) ... 437
- Floods – Southern Alberta
 - Communications contracts ... 321
 - Disaster recovery program claims, processing time and average compensation, statistics for 2013 floods (Written Question 37: accepted) ... 437
 - Disaster recovery program claims, statistics for 2013 (Written Question 33: accepted) ... 437
 - Disaster recovery program claims, statistics on appeals for 2010 (Written Question 34: accepted) ... 437
 - Disaster recovery program claims, statistics on outstanding claims for 2010 floods (Written Question 38: accepted) ... 437
 - Disaster recovery program claims, statistics on requests for review for 2013 (Written Question 35: accepted) ... 437
 - Disaster recovery program claims, wording of notice on titles (Written Question 31: accepted) ... 437
 - Notice given to municipalities in June 2013 floods (Written Question 23: accepted) ... 436
- Freedom of Information and Protection of Privacy Act (FOIP Act)
 - Information request process ... 605
 - Information request process, former Deputy Premier's memo on ... 605
 - Information requests by Liberal caucus ... 480
- Freehold lands
 - Flood hazard caveats on land titles, number of safety code officers trained to evaluate home flood-proofing re (Written Question 24: accepted) ... 436–37

Blakeman, Laurie (AL, Edmonton-Centre) (continued)

- Freehold lands (continued)
 - Flood hazard caveats on land titles, wording of notice (Written Question 31: accepted) ... 437
- Gaming (computer games)
 - Industry development ... 560
- Gay, lesbian, bisexual, or transgender persons
 - Social acceptance ... 194
 - Transgender people, experiences with pre-employment physical testing ... 194
- Gay-straight alliances in schools
 - General remarks ... 194
 - School board policies, legislation on (Motion Other than Government Motion 503: defeated) ... 365–66
- Government accountability
 - Financial reporting ... 267
- Government communications
 - Program announcements ... 267
- Government policies
 - Implementation ... 267
- Health care – Finance
 - Funding ... 561
- Immigrants
 - Support services ... 675
- Imperial Sovereign Court of the Wild Rose
 - Introduction in the Assembly ... 194
- Independent Budget Officer Act (Bill 202)
 - Second reading ... 267–68
- Inheritances
 - Minors' interests ... 330
- Interim supply estimates
 - Government use of ... 267–68
- Introduction of Guests (school groups, individuals) ... 51, 199, 280, 289, 303, 334, 405, 474
- Justice system
 - Provincial strategy ... 413
 - Traffic court reform initiative ... 413
- LandLink Consulting Ltd.
 - Contract commencement date (Written Question 40: accepted) ... 438
 - Performance review (Motion for a Return 8: accepted) ... 443
 - President's and managing partner's former positions in government (Written Question 41: accepted) ... 438
- Legal aid
 - Eligibility criteria ... 207, 296, 675
 - Funding ... 207, 296, 376–77
- Legislative Assembly of Alberta
 - Decorum ... 121
- Legislative offices
 - Office budgets ... 559–60
- Liberal opposition
 - FOIP requests ... 480, 605
- Libraries
 - Law libraries, funding ... 207
- Long-term care facilities (nursing homes/auxiliary hospitals)
 - Care standards ... 197
- Members of the Legislative Assembly
 - Interrupting a member, second supplemental question disallowed in Oral Question Period, point of clarification on ... 121, 123
 - Naming by the Speaker ... 123
 - Penalization for actions of another member ... 121, 123
- Members' Statements (current session)
 - Tax policy ... 119
 - Women's equality rights ... 506–7
 - Women's issues ... 99–100

Blakeman, Laurie (AL, Edmonton-Centre) (continued)

- Ministry of Aboriginal Relations
 - Budget 2014-2015 ... 560
- Ministry of Agriculture and Rural Development
 - Budget 2014-2015 ... 560
- Ministry of Culture
 - Budget 2014-2015 ... 560
- Ministry of Education
 - Budget 2014-2015 ... 560
- Ministry of Energy
 - Minister's meetings with industry, point of order on debate ... 382-83
- Ministry of Environment and Sustainable Resource Development
 - Budget 2014-2015 ... 560-61
- Ministry of Health
 - Budget 2014-2015 ... 561
- Ministry of Human Services
 - Funding ... 561
- Ministry of Infrastructure
 - Minister's meetings with industry, point of order on debate ... 382-83
- Ministry of Innovation and Advanced Education
 - Budget 2014-2015 ... 561
- Ministry of International and Intergovernmental Relations
 - Budget 2014-2015 ... 561
- Ministry of Municipal Affairs
 - Associate ministers ... 561
- Ministry of Tourism, Parks and Recreation
 - Budget 2014-2015 ... 560
- Ministry of Treasury Board and Finance
 - Finance division, budget 2014-2015 ... 561
- Municipal sustainability initiative
 - Funding ... 141
- Municipalities
 - Land classified as flood prone (Written Question 10: accepted) ... 436
- Municipalities – Finance
 - Infrastructure funding ... 140-41
- New Home Buyer Protection Amendment Act, 2014 (Bill 6)
 - Second reading ... 417-19
 - Committee ... 500-501
 - Committee amendment A2 (limitation on registration fee for new homes for personal use) (Anglin: defeated) ... 500-501
 - Provisions for apartment building owners ... 418, 500-501
- Nonprofit organizations
 - Audit requirements ... 741-42
- Office of the Premier
 - Premier Redford's travel to Jasper, point of order on debate ... 518
- Oil sands development – Environmental aspects
 - Environmental impact assessment hearings, participation in ... 796-97
 - Monitoring ... 258
 - Regulation compliance and enforcement ... 664-65
- Oral Question Period (procedure)
 - Questions in anticipation, point of order on ... 22-23
 - Supplemental question denied because of lack of decorum in Assembly, point of clarification on ... 121, 123
- Oral Question Period (current session topics)
 - Alberta Energy Regulator investigations ... 95
 - Athabasca River water quality ... 258
 - Bitumen extraction resumption approval ... 664-65
 - Development hearing participation ... 771

Blakeman, Laurie (AL, Edmonton-Centre) (continued)

- Oral Question Period (current session topics) (continued)
 - Environmental Agency Appointment ... 509
 - Environmental hearing participation ... 796-97
 - Flood recovery communications contracts ... 321
 - FOIP request process ... 480, 605
 - Legal aid ... 296
 - Legal aid funding ... 376-77
 - Legal services for low-income Albertans ... 207
 - Livestock industry regulations ... 323-24
 - Traffic court reform initiative ... 413
- Orders of the Day (procedure)
 - Questions in anticipation, point of order on ... 22-23
- Pensions
 - History ... 549-51
- Pipelines – Environmental aspects
 - Plains Midstream 2012 spill ... 95
 - Spills, leaks, and ruptures, 2009-2013 (Written Question 6: accepted) ... 436
- Points of clarification (current session)
 - Maintaining order in the Assembly/interrupting a member, second supplemental question disallowed in Oral Question Period ... 121, 123
- Points of order (current session)
 - Allegations against a member or members ... 382-83
 - Anticipation ... 22-23
 - Factual accuracy ... 518
- Poverty
 - Impact on women ... 99, 712
- Property tax
 - Linear property assessment ... 119
 - Linear property assessment, distribution of revenue (Motion Other than Government Motion 501: defeated) ... 134-35, 140-41
 - Municipalities with highest rates, statistics on (Written Question 2: accepted) ... 436
- Public Sector Pension Plans Amendment Act, 2014 (Bill 9)
 - Second reading ... 549-51
 - Second reading, motion to refer bill to Standing Committee on Alberta's Economic Future (referral amendment RA1) (Notley: defeated) ... 630-31, 655
 - Second reading, motion to not now read (6-month hoist amendment H1) (Kang: defeated) ... 712-13
- Public service
 - Description ... 630-31
- Public service – Pensions
 - Survivor benefits ... 549-50
- Rental housing
 - Life leases ... 418
- Revenue
 - Nonrenewable resource revenue ... 614
- Savings Management Act (Bill 1)
 - Anticipation of debate, point of order ... 22-23
- Schools – Edmonton
 - General remarks ... 193-94
- Sexual assault
 - Prevention strategies ... 99
- Social innovation fund
 - Funding through bonds (proposed) ... 614
- Social policy framework
 - General remarks ... 561
- Speech from the Throne
 - Addresses in reply ... 193-94
 - Addresses in reply (questions and comments) ... 195, 197
- Statutes Amendment Act, 2014 (Bill 12)
 - Second reading ... 740-42
 - Third reading ... 785-87

Blakeman, Laurie (AL, Edmonton-Centre) (continued)

- Statutes Amendment Act, 2014 (Bill 12) (continued)
 - Third reading, motion to not now read (6-month hoist amendment HA) (Notley: defeated) ... 785–87
 - Members' briefing on ... 785–87
 - Regulatory provisions ... 741
- Tax policy
 - Flat tax rate ... 489
 - Members' statements ... 119
 - Provincial strategy ... 489–91
- Tax Statutes Amendment Act, 2014 (Bill 7)
 - Second reading ... 488–91
- Vital Statistics Act
 - Amendments proposed re sex indicator requirements on birth records ... 740
- Wildfires – Slave Lake
 - Disaster recovery program, outstanding claims, statistics for the 2011 fire (Written Question 39: accepted) ... 437–38
- Women
 - International Women's Day, members' statements on ... 99–100
- Women's equality
 - Members' statements ... 506–7
- Brown, Dr. Neil, QC (PC, Calgary-Mackay-Nose Hill)
 - Alberta heritage savings trust fund
 - Fund utilization ... 153–54
 - Bighorn sheep
 - Management plan ... 392
 - Energy industries – Lethbridge
 - Urban drilling, petition presented on ... 328
 - Environmental scientists
 - Members' statements on Dr. David Schindler ... 118
 - Family and community support services
 - Members' statements ... 461
 - Grassland preservation
 - Provincial strategy ... 115
 - Information and Privacy Commissioner
 - Release of information on data breaches (Motion Other than Government Motion 505: carried) ... 707–8, 710
 - Introduction of Guests (school groups, individuals) ... 108
 - Libraries – Southern Alberta
 - Marigold library system funding ... 479
 - Medicentres family health care clinics
 - Data breach ... 707
 - Members of the Legislative Assembly
 - Interrupting a member, second supplemental question disallowed in Oral Question Period, point of clarification on ... 122
 - Penalization for actions of another member ... 122
 - Members' Statements (current session)
 - Dr. David Schindler ... 118
 - Family and community support services ... 461
 - University of Calgary ... 290
 - Oral Question Period (procedure)
 - Supplemental question denied because of lack of decorum in Assembly, point of clarification on ... 122
 - Oral Question Period (current session topics)
 - Bighorn sheep harvest ... 392
 - Marigold library system funding ... 479
 - Native grassland conservation ... 115
 - Petitions presented (current session)
 - Oil and gas drilling in the Lethbridge area ... 328

Brown, Dr. Neil, QC (PC, Calgary-Mackay-Nose Hill) (continued)

- Points of clarification (current session)
 - Maintaining order in the Assembly/interrupting a member, second supplemental question disallowed in Oral Question Period ... 122
- Savings Management Act (Bill 1)
 - Second reading ... 153–54
- South Saskatchewan region plan (land-use framework)
 - South Saskatchewan Regional Advisory Council recommendations on native grassland conservation ... 115
- Tax policy
 - Provincial strategy ... 154
- University of Calgary
 - Members' statements ... 290
- Calahasen, Pearl (PC, Lesser Slave Lake)
 - Aboriginal children – Education
 - Provincial strategy ... 395
 - Aboriginal women – Violence against
 - Murders and disappearances, members' statements on ... 608–9
 - Adoption
 - Provincial policy ... 322–23
 - Family care clinics
 - General remarks ... 118–19
 - Freedom of Information and Protection of Privacy (MLA Public Interest Fee Waiver) Amendment Act, 2014 (Bill 204)
 - Second reading ... 699–700
 - Health care – Slave Lake
 - Members' statements ... 119–20
 - Introduction of Guests (school groups, individuals) ... 317
 - Kinship care
 - Child placement process ... 323
 - Provincial strategy ... 322–23
 - Lesser Slave Lake (constituency)
 - Member's personal and family history ... 338
 - Maskawachees Cultural College Amendment Act, 2014 (Bill Pr. 2)
 - First reading ... 609
 - Committee ... 758
 - Third reading ... 758
 - Members' Statements (current session)
 - Murdered and missing aboriginal women ... 608–9
 - Slave Lake family care clinic ... 118–19
 - Writing-on-Stone park internship program ... 380
 - Ministerial Statements (current session)
 - Truth and Reconciliation Commission national event, ministerial statement on, responses ... 338
 - Oral Question Period (current session topics)
 - Gift Lake school ... 395
 - Kinship care ... 322–23
 - Schools – Construction – Gift Lake
 - Timeline on new school ... 395
 - Stettler (county)
 - Information request on activity during 2012 provincial election ... 699
 - Truth and Reconciliation Commission
 - National event, ministerial statement on, responses ... 338
 - Writing-on-Stone provincial park
 - Interpretation internship program, members' statements on ... 380

Campbell, Robin (PC, West Yellowhead; Minister of Environment and Sustainable Resource Development)
 Agricultural Pests (Fusarium Head Blight) Amendment Act, 2014 (Bill 201)
 Second reading, motion to refer bill to Standing Committee on Resource Stewardship (referral amendment) (Fenske: carried) ... 134
 Alberta Energy Regulator
 Approval of bitumen extraction near leaks ... 665
 Sanctions imposed for pipeline spills ... 95
 Alberta Environmental Monitoring, Evaluation and Reporting Agency
 Chairman of the board appointment ... 509
Alberta Hansard
 Remarks off the record, point of order on ... 351
 Alberta Health Services (authority)
 Official administrator, exclusion of liability ... 736
 Athabasca River
 Water quality ... 258
 Attorney General
 Definition of functions ... 735
 Bighorn sheep
 Management plan ... 392
 Bills, private (procedure)
 Bills Pr. 1 and Pr. 2, request for unanimous consent for third reading immediately following Committee of the Whole (granted) ... 758
 Bridges – Watino
 Smoky River bridge demolition ... 261
 Caribou
 Conservation ... 376
 Conservation, federal initiatives ... 376
 Cervid farming – Regulation
 General remarks ... 324
 Charitable Fund-raising Act
 Amendments proposed re audited financial statement requirements ... 736
 Child, Youth and Family Enhancement Amendment Act, 2014 (Bill 11)
 Committee ... 779
 Committee amendment A7 (regulations to be considered by all-party committee) (Notley: carried) ... 779
 Third reading ... 787
 Civil Marriage Act (federal)
 Application to same-sex couples ... 736
 Committee of Supply (government expenditures)
 Motion to resolve into (Government Motion 3: carried) ... 25
 Committee of the Whole Assembly
 Resolution into (Government Motion 2: carried) ... 25
 Committee on Alberta's Economic Future, Standing
 Committee membership changes (Government Motion 8: carried) ... 26
 Committee membership changes (Government Motion 13: carried) ... 778–79
 Committee size reduced to 15 from 18 and mandate changed to reflect changes in ministries; changes to standing orders re estimates consideration (Government Motion 7: carried) ... 25–26
 Committee on Families and Communities, Standing
 Committee membership and chair changes (Government Motion 8: carried) ... 26
 Committee membership and deputy chair changes (Government Motion 13: carried) ... 778–79
 Committee size reduced to 15 from 18; changes to standing orders re estimates consideration (Government Motion 7: carried) ... 25–26

Campbell, Robin (PC, West Yellowhead; Minister of Environment and Sustainable Resource Development)
(continued)
 Committee on Legislative Offices, Standing
 Committee membership and chair changes (Government Motion 8: carried) ... 26
 Committee on Legislative Offices, Standing (continued)
 Committee membership determined by Assembly, resolution debatable and amendable (Government Motion 7: carried) ... 25–26
 Committee on Members' Services, Special Standing
 Committee membership and deputy chair changes (Government Motion 8: carried) ... 26
 Committee on Private Bills, Standing
 Committee size reduced to 15 from 18; membership determined by Assembly, resolution debatable and amendable (Government Motion 7: carried) ... 25–26
 Committee on Privileges and Elections, Standing Orders and Printing, Standing
 Committee membership and chair changes (Government Motion 8: carried) ... 26
 Committee size reduced to 15 from 18; membership determined by Assembly, resolution debatable and amendable (Government Motion 7: carried) ... 25–26
 Committee on Public Accounts, Standing
 Committee membership changes (Government Motion 8: carried) ... 26
 Committee membership changes (Government Motion 13: carried) ... 778–79
 Committee size reduced to 15 from 18; membership determined by Assembly, resolution debatable and amendable (Government Motion 7: carried) ... 25–26
 Committee on Resource Stewardship, Standing
 Committee membership and chair changes (Government Motion 8: carried) ... 26
 Committee membership changes (Government Motion 13: carried) ... 778–79
 Committee size reduced to 15 from 18; changes to standing orders re estimates consideration (Government Motion 7: carried) ... 25–26
 Committee on the Alberta Heritage Savings Trust Fund, Standing
 Committee membership and chair changes (Government Motion 8: carried) ... 26
 Committee membership changes (Government Motion 13: carried) ... 778–79
 Committee membership determined by Assembly, resolution debatable and amendable (Government Motion 7: carried) ... 25–26
 Committees of the Legislative Assembly
 Standing and special committee membership changes (Government Motion 8: carried) ... 26
 Standing committee size reduced to 15 from 18: Private Bills; Privileges and Elections, Standing Orders and Printing; Public Accounts (Government Motion 7: carried) ... 25–26
 Community health councils
 Dissolution ... 736
 Cumulative Environmental Monitoring Association
 Funding ... 258
 Economic development
 Approval process, participation in hearings ... 771
 Economic development – Environmental aspects
 Approval process, participation in hearings ... 771
 Elk hunting
 Licence allocation ... 96–97
 Elk populations – Northern Alberta
 General remarks ... 96–97

Campbell, Robin (PC, West Yellowhead; Minister of Environment and Sustainable Resource Development)

(continued)

- Energy efficiency
 - Public awareness ... 411
- Energy industries – Environmental aspects
 - Public perception ... 603
- Energy industries – Regulation
 - Greenhouse gas emissions ... 411
- Estimates of supply, main (procedure)
 - Consideration in legislative policy committees, changes to standing orders re (Government Motion 7: carried) ... 25–26
- Ethics Commissioner
 - Recommendation of the hon. Marguerite Trussler, QC, to be appointed for five-year term commencing May 26, 2014, concurrence in (Government Motion 14: carried unanimously) ... 779
 - Recommendation of the hon. Marguerite Trussler, QC, to be appointed for five-year term commencing May 26, 2014 (Government Motion 14: carried unanimously), request for waiver of Standing Order 39(1), requirement of notice (unanimous consent granted) ... 779
- Ethics Commissioner Search Committee, Select Special Recommendation of the hon. Marguerite Trussler, QC, to be appointed for five-year term commencing May 26, 2014, concurrence in (Government Motion 14: carried unanimously) ... 779
- Flood damage mitigation
 - General remarks ... 531–32
- Floods
 - Advisory and warning system ... 409
- Floods – Southern Alberta
 - Disaster recovery program claims ... 515
 - Preparation for June 2013 floods ... 531–32
- Freehold Mineral Rights Tax Act
 - Amendments proposed re tax assessment and reassessment ... 735
- Government policies
 - Implementation, point of order on debate ... 316
- Grain – Diseases and pests
 - Crop damage by elk ... 96
- Grassland preservation
 - Provincial strategy ... 115–16
- Greenhouse gas emissions
 - Reduction strategies, carbon dioxide ... 411
- Grizzly bear
 - Conservation ... 769–70
- Health care – Finance
 - Budget approval process ... 736
- Health Information Act
 - Amendments proposed re breaches of information ... 735–36
- Information and Privacy Commissioner
 - Disclosure of information to Minister of Health ... 735
 - Response to Bill 12, Statutes Amendment Act, 2014 ... 771
- Introduction of Guests (school groups, individuals) ... 335, 387, 789
- Legislative Assembly of Alberta
 - Evening sittings (Government Motion 4: carried) ... 25
 - Parliamentary language ... 21–22
- Legislative Assembly of Alberta – Adjournment
 - Adjournment of spring 2014 sitting pursuant to Standing Order 3(9) (Government Motion 9: carried) ... 26

Campbell, Robin (PC, West Yellowhead; Minister of Environment and Sustainable Resource Development)

(continued)

- Legislative Assembly of Alberta – Adjournment
 - (continued)*
 - Adjournment of spring 2014 sitting pursuant to Government Motion 9 ... 802
 - Standing Order 3 modification to allow for spring sitting to extend beyond first Thursday in June (Government Motion 10: carried) ... 26
- Legislative policy committees
 - Committee memberships and chair changes (Government Motion 8: carried) ... 26
 - Committee size reduced to 15 from 18 and mandates changed to reflect changes in ministries; changes to standing orders re main estimates consideration (Government Motion 7: carried) ... 25–26
- Marriage Act amendments
 - Gender reference changes ... 736
- Maskawachees Cultural College Amendment Act, 2014 (Bill Pr. 2)
 - Third reading, request for immediately following Committee of the Whole (unanimous consent granted) ... 758
- Medicentres family health care clinics
 - Data breach ... 735
- Members of the Legislative Assembly
 - Reference in Assembly to absence, point of order on ... 316
- Mines and Minerals Act
 - Amendments proposed, regulatory provisions ... 735
- Ministry of Energy
 - Minister's meetings with industry, point of order on debate ... 382, 383
- Ministry of Infrastructure
 - Minister's meetings with industry, point of order on debate ... 382, 383
- Motions (procedure)
 - Debatable motions, amendments to standing orders (Government Motion 7: carried) ... 25–26
- Mussels
 - Invasive species ... 535
- New Home Buyer Protection Amendment Act, 2014 (Bill 6)
 - First reading ... 300
- Notices of motions (procedure)
 - Request for waiver of Standing Order 39(1), requirement of notice, for Assembly to debate Government Motion 14 (unanimous consent granted) ... 779
- Oil sands development – Environmental aspects
 - Environmental impact assessment hearings, participation in ... 796–97
 - Monitoring ... 258
 - Regulation compliance and enforcement ... 665
- Oral Question Period (procedure)
 - Questions in anticipation, point of order on ... 22
- Oral Question Period (current session topics)
 - Alberta Energy Regulator investigations ... 95
 - Athabasca River water quality ... 258
 - Bighorn sheep harvest ... 392
 - Bitumen extraction resumption approval ... 665
 - Carbon conservation ... 376
 - Carbon emissions reductions ... 411
 - Development hearing participation ... 771
 - Disaster recovery program claims ... 515
 - Drinking water contamination complaint ... 774
 - Elk population in northern Alberta ... 96–97

Campbell, Robin (PC, West Yellowhead; Minister of Environment and Sustainable Resource Development)

(continued)

- Oral Question Period (current session topics) (continued)
 - Environmental Agency Appointment ... 509
 - Environmental hearing participation ... 796–97
 - Flood advisory and warning system ... 409
 - Grizzly bear conservation ... 769–70
 - Highway maintenance contracts ... 480
 - Invasive mussel species ... 535
 - Keystone XL pipeline project ... 603
 - Livestock industry regulations ... 324
 - Medicine Hat landfill fire ... 18
 - Native grassland conservation ... 115–16
 - Sage grouse protection order ... 247–48, 691
 - Smoky River bridge removal ... 261
 - Spring flood preparedness ... 531–32
 - Statutes Amendment Act, 2014 ... 771
- Orders of the Day (procedure)
 - Questions in anticipation, point of order on ... 22
- Pipelines – Construction
 - Keystone XL pipeline project delay ... 603
- Pipelines – Environmental aspects
 - Plains Midstream 2012 spill ... 95
- Points of order (current session)
 - Allegations against a member or members ... 382, 383
 - Anticipation ... 23
 - Factual accuracy ... 101, 435
 - Parliamentary language ... 21–22
 - Referring to the absence of members ... 316
 - Remarks off the record ... 351
- Political parties
 - Leadership candidates, resignation from ministerial positions ... 383
- Public service
 - Collective agreements, negotiations, point of order on debate ... 21–22
- Regional Health Authorities Act
 - Amendments proposed re ministerial oversight of health care budget ... 735–36
- Roads – Maintenance and repair
 - Contractor selection and evaluation criteria ... 480
- Rosebud School of the Arts Amendment Act, 2014 (Bill Pr. 1)
 - Third reading, request for immediately following Committee of the Whole (unanimous consent granted) ... 758
- Sage grouse
 - Protection order (federal) ... 247–48, 691
- Savings Management Act (Bill 1)
 - Anticipation of debate, point of order ... 23
- Schools
 - Codes of conduct, point of order on debate ... 435
- Schools – Construction
 - New schools, point of order on debate ... 101
- Schools – Construction – Calgary
 - New school construction, point of order on debate ... 101
- Schools – Three Hills
 - Prairie Christian Academy, staff code of conduct, point of order on debate ... 435
- Solicitor General
 - Definition of functions ... 735
- South Saskatchewan region plan (land-use framework)
 - South Saskatchewan Regional Advisory Council recommendations on native grassland conservation ... 115–16

Campbell, Robin (PC, West Yellowhead; Minister of Environment and Sustainable Resource Development)

(continued)

- Standing Orders
 - Amendments re committee size, mandate, meetings, procedures for main estimates consideration (Government Motion 7: carried) ... 25–26
 - SO 39(1), request for waiver for Assembly to debate Government Motion 14 (unanimous consent granted) ... 779
- Statutes Amendment Act, 2014 (Bill 12)
 - First reading ... 693
 - Second reading ... 735–36
 - Third reading, request to proceed to (unanimous consent granted) ... 758–59
 - Third reading ... 759
 - Members' briefing on ... 771
- Tax Statutes Amendment Act, 2014 (Bill 7)
 - First reading ... 417
- Vital Statistics Act
 - Amendments proposed re sex indicator requirements on birth records ... 736
- Waste management
 - Private landfill sites, oversight of ... 18
- Waste management – Medicine Hat
 - Westar Landfill fire ... 18
- Water quality – Lacombe-Ponoka (constituency)
 - Drinking water contamination, complaint by Ann Craft on ... 774
- Cao, Wayne C.N. (PC, Calgary-Fort)
 - Information and Privacy Commissioner
 - Release of information on data breaches (Motion Other than Government Motion 505: carried) ... 707
- Casey, Ron (PC, Banff-Cochrane)
 - Agricultural Pests (Fusarium Head Blight) Amendment Act, 2014 (Bill 201)
 - Second reading ... 125–26
 - Agriculture – Safety measures
 - Canadian Agricultural Safety Week, members' statements on ... 163
 - Banff Centre
 - General remarks ... 397
 - Capital plan
 - Members' statements ... 305
 - Emergency management
 - Preparedness, members' statements on ... 776
 - Flood damage mitigation
 - Erosion control program ... 246–47
 - Preparation for spring flooding ... 246–47
 - Floods
 - Advisory and warning system ... 247
 - Freedom of Information and Protection of Privacy Act (FOIP Act)
 - Information request fees ... 696–97
 - Freedom of Information and Protection of Privacy (MLA Public Interest Fee Waiver) Amendment Act, 2014 (Bill 204)
 - Second reading ... 696–97
 - Fusarium head blight – Management
 - Comparison with other jurisdictions ... 125–26
 - Members' Statements (current session)
 - Canadian Agricultural Safety Week ... 163
 - Emergency preparedness ... 776
 - Infrastructure funding ... 305
 - Paralympic Winter Games medallists ... 249
 - Peter Lougheed Leadership Institute ... 397

Casey, Ron (PC, Banff-Cochrane) (continued)

- Ministry of Environment and Sustainable Resource Development
 - Departmental flood mitigation project approval ... 247
- Municipal Government Act
 - Review ... 514
- Municipalities – Finance
 - Flood recovery erosion control funding ... 246–47
- Oral Question Period (current session topics)
 - Municipal Government Act review ... 514
 - Spring flood mitigation ... 246–47
- Paralympic Winter Games
 - Alberta medallists, members' statements on ... 249
- Peter Lougheed Leadership Institute
 - Members' statements ... 397
- Property tax
 - Linear property assessment, distribution of revenue (Motion Other than Government Motion 501: defeated) ... 135–36
- Rural communities
 - Use of linear property tax revenue ... 135–37
- Stettler (county)
 - Information request on activity during 2012 provincial election ... 697
- Chair of Committees (Rogers, George)
 - Estate Administration Act (Bill 4)
 - Committee ... 229–30
 - Securities Amendment Act, 2014 (Bill 3)
 - Committee ... 187
 - Statutes Amendment Act, 2014 (Bill 12)
 - Committee ... 758
- Cusanelli, Christine (PC, Calgary-Currie)
 - Canadian Forces
 - End of mission in Afghanistan, members' statements on ... 201
 - Domestic violence
 - Emergency housing for women, members' statements on ... 347–48
 - Education – Curricula
 - Mathematics curriculum redesign, members' statements on ... 672
 - Health Information Act
 - Definition of custodians of information ... 709
 - Homeless persons
 - Emergency housing for women ... 347–48
 - Information and Privacy Commissioner
 - Release of information on data breaches (Motion Other than Government Motion 505: carried) ... 709
 - Legislature Building
 - Flag, lowering in tribute to Canadian Forces ... 201
 - Members' Statements (current session)
 - Canadian mission in Afghanistan ... 201
 - Educational curriculum redesign ... 672
 - Emergency housing for women ... 347–48
 - Sonshine Emergency Shelter ... 380–81
 - Oral Question Period (current session topics)
 - Public transit funding ... 205
 - Personal Information Protection Act
 - Provisions for notification of information breaches ... 709
 - Public transit
 - GreenTRIP incentives program ... 205
 - Public transit – Calgary
 - GreenTRIP funding ... 205
 - Sonshine Centre
 - Members' statements ... 380–81

Dallas, Cal (PC, Red Deer-South; Minister of International and Intergovernmental Relations)

- Alberta Energy Regulator
 - Start-up costs, funding from supplementary supply ... 143
- Alberta Personal Income Tax Act
 - Proposed amendments ... 488
- Alberta Securities Commission
 - Oversight of derivatives market ... 143
- AltaLink
 - Purchase bid by Berkshire Hathaway Inc. ... 688
- Appropriation Act, 2014 (Bill 8)
 - First reading ... 488
- Appropriation (Supplementary Supply) Act, 2014 (Bill 2)
 - Second reading ... 143
- Business enterprises – Taxation
 - Tax on dividends paid from small-business income ... 488
- Drugs, prescription
 - Benefit programs, funding from supplementary supply ... 143
- Education – Finance
 - Funding from supplementary supply ... 143
- Employment Pension (Private Sector) Plans Amendment Act, 2014 (Bill 10)
 - First reading ... 484–85
- Energy resources – Export
 - Market development, funding from supplementary supply ... 143
- Environmental trusts
 - Provisions for bankruptcy ... 503
 - Tax regime ... 488, 503
 - Tax regime, qualification criteria ... 493, 503–4
- Income Tax Act (federal)
 - General remarks ... 488
- International trade
 - Market development, provincial strategy on emerging markets ... 690
- International trade – China
 - Trade missions, effectiveness of ... 690
- Introduction of Guests (school groups, individuals) ... 692, 721
- Introduction of Visitors (visiting dignitaries)
 - Ambassador and consul general of Italy ... 681
 - Ambassador of Thailand and minister-counsellor from Royal Thai Embassy, Ottawa ... 334
 - Ambassador of Turkey and party ... 761
 - Consul general of France and spouse ... 385–86
 - Consul general of the Philippines and diplomatic party ... 107
- Oral Question Period (current session topics)
 - AltaLink sale approval process ... 688
 - Highway maintenance contracts ... 480
 - International trade strategy ... 690
 - Public service pensions ... 378, 480
- Persons with developmental disabilities
 - Programs and services, funding from supplementary supply ... 143
- Physicians
 - Services agreement, funding from supplementary supply ... 143
- Pine beetles – Control
 - Funding from supplementary supply ... 143
- Pipelines – Construction
 - Keystone XL pipeline project, opposition to ... 688
- Postsecondary educational institutions – Finance
 - Funding from supplementary supply ... 143
- Public Sector Pension Plans Amendment Act, 2014 (Bill 9)
 - First reading ... 484

Dallas, Cal (PC, Red Deer-South; Minister of International and Intergovernmental Relations)(continued)

- Public service – Pensions
 - General remarks ... 378, 478
 - Unfunded liabilities ... 378
- Reclamation of land
 - Downstream oil and gas industry ... 503
 - Payment by corporations ... 503
- Roads – Maintenance and repair
 - Contractor selection and evaluation criteria ... 480
 - Highway preservation, funding from supplementary supply ... 143
- Securities Amendment Act, 2014 (Bill 3)
 - Second reading ... 143–44
- Supplementary supply estimates 2013-2014, no. 2
 - Flood-related expenses ... 143
- Tax Statutes Amendment Act, 2014 (Bill 7)
 - Second reading ... 488, 493
 - Committee ... 503–4
- Wildfires
 - Response, funding from supplementary supply ... 143

DeLong, Alana (PC, Calgary-Bow)

- Alberta government offices
 - International offices, members' statements on ... 470
- Calgary
 - West Springs community ... 239
- Floods – Southern Alberta
 - Disaster recovery program claims ... 515
- Home-care services
 - Funding ... 163
- Introduction of Guests (school groups, individuals) ... 237–38
- Labour force planning
 - General remarks ... 113
 - Skilled labour supply ... 113
- Members' Statements (current session)
 - Alberta international offices ... 470
 - School construction needs ... 239
 - Seniors' supports ... 162–63
- Oral Question Period (current session topics)
 - Disaster recovery program claims ... 515
 - School growth pressures in Calgary ... 257
 - Workforce planning ... 113
- Schools – Construction
 - Members' statements ... 239
 - Portable classroom availability ... 257
- Schools – Construction – Calgary
 - Growth pressures ... 257
 - New school construction ... 239
- Seniors
 - Supports for, members' statements on ... 162–63
- Seniors – Housing
 - Property tax deferral program ... 163

Denis, Jonathan, QC (PC, Calgary-Acadia; Minister of Justice and Solicitor General)

- Aboriginal women – Violence against
 - Murders and disappearances ... 534
- Alberta Human Rights Act
 - Court interpretations and decisions ... 282
 - Repeal of section 3(1)(b) (Motion Other than Government Motion 502: defeated) ... 281–82
 - Section 3 complaints (discrimination re publications and notices) ... 281–82
- Alberta Human Rights Commission
 - Complaints received ... 281–82
- Appropriation (Interim Supply) Act, 2014 (Bill 5)
 - Second reading ... 190

Denis, Jonathan, QC (PC, Calgary-Acadia; Minister of Justice and Solicitor General) (continued)

- Assured income for the severely handicapped
 - Client eligibility for legal aid ... 377
- Civil mediation services
 - Funding ... 207
- Courthouses – Sherwood Park
 - Capital plan ... 604
- Courts
 - Self-represented litigants and defendants ... 207
- Criminal Code (federal)
 - Freedom of speech provisions ... 282
 - Impaired driving provisions ... 296
- Debts, provincial
 - Debt related to public utilities ... 543
- Domestic violence
 - GPS monitoring of offenders ... 344, 389
- Electric power – Prices
 - Consumer protection, matters sub judice ... 166
 - Fluctuations, point of order on debate ... 543
- Electric power – Retail sales
 - Corporations' economic withholding/market manipulation, investigation by RCMP re criminal charges (proposed), point of order on debate ... 23–24
- Electric power lines
 - Planned shutdown re connection of new HVDC line, point of order on debate ... 544
- Emergency services (first responders)
 - Radio communications system (AFRRCS) ... 60–61
- Environmental Protection and Enhancement Act
 - Legal challenges ... 245
- Federal Public Building
 - Redevelopment project change orders, point of order on debate ... 402–3
- Floods – High River
 - Firearm collection by emergency responders ... 538
 - Firearm collection by emergency responders, point of order on debate ... 544
- Freedom of Information and Protection of Privacy Act (FOIP Act)
 - Information request process, point of order on debate ... 542
- Gay, lesbian, bisexual, or transgender persons
 - Discrimination against, Lund vs. Boisson court case ... 281–82
 - Supports for students, point of order on debate ... 399, 401
- Government airplanes
 - Cabinet travel to Grande Prairie fundraising event ... 213–14
 - Usage policy, point of privilege raised on debate (misleading the House) ... 213–14
- Highway 63
 - Safety ... 112
- Impaired driving
 - Legislative penalties ... 667
 - Repeat offenders, penalties for ... 296
- Introduction of Guests (school groups, individuals) ... 51, 88, 304, 386, 474, 762–63
- Justice system
 - Provincial strategy ... 413
 - Traffic court reform initiative ... 243, 412
- Legal aid
 - Eligibility criteria ... 207, 296
 - Funding ... 207, 296, 376–77
- Legislative Assembly of Alberta
 - Parliamentary language ... 46, 216

Denis, Jonathan, QC (PC, Calgary-Acadia; Minister of Justice and Solicitor General) (continued)

- Libraries
 - Law libraries, funding ... 207
- Mandatory Reporting of Child Pornography Act
 - Proclamation, timeline on ... 61
 - Proclamation, timeline on, point of order on debate ... 64
- Ministry of Human Services
 - Minister's announcement of procedural changes for children in care, point of order on debate ... 399, 401
- Ministry of Justice and Solicitor General
 - Minister's decision on GPS monitoring of domestic violence offenders ... 389
 - Minister's decision on GPS monitoring of domestic violence offenders, point of order on debate ... 401
 - Minister's personal and family history ... 281
- Motions (procedure)
 - Request that House continue past adjournment hour to complete debate ... 285
- Office of the Premier
 - Premier Redford's security service ... 92
- Oral Question Period (procedure)
 - Questions on internal party matters, points of order on debate ... 401
- Oral Question Period (current session topics)
 - Domestic violence offender monitoring ... 344
 - Electricity pricing ... 166
 - Firearm collection during High River flooding ... 538
 - First responder communication system ... 60–61
 - Highway 63 safety ... 112
 - Kinship care ... 466
 - Legal aid ... 296
 - Legal aid funding ... 376–77
 - Legal challenges to provincial legislation ... 245
 - Legal services for low-income Albertans ... 207
 - Ministers' activities ... 389
 - Missing and murdered aboriginal women ... 534
 - Penalties for drinking and driving ... 296
 - Premier Redford's travel expenses ... 92
 - Probation services for aboriginal youth ... 306–7
 - Progressive Conservative Party trust account ... 409
 - Public safety in Bonnyville-Cold Lake ... 666–67
 - Public safety legislation ... 61
 - Sherwood Park provincial courthouse ... 604
 - Traffic court reform initiative ... 243, 412–13
 - Victims of crime ... 669
- Points of order (current session)
 - Allegations against a member or members ... 399, 401
 - Clarification ... 544
 - Factual accuracy ... 23–24, 64, 402–3, 542, 543, 544
 - Imputing motives ... 401
 - Parliamentary language ... 46, 216
 - Questions on internal party matters ... 401
- Privilege (current session)
 - Misleading the House (use of government airplanes) (not proceeded with) ... 213–14
- Probation
 - Services for aboriginal youth ... 306–7
 - Trust account ... 409
- Public safety
 - Legislation ... 61
- Public Service Salary Restraint Act (Bill 46, 2013)
 - Legal challenge ... 245
 - Legal challenge, discussion in the Assembly ... 92
- Royal Canadian Mounted Police – Bonnyville-Cold Lake (constituency)
 - Service provision ... 666

Denis, Jonathan, QC (PC, Calgary-Acadia; Minister of Justice and Solicitor General) (continued)

- Service animals
 - Legislation ... 61
- Sub justice matters
 - Discussion in the Assembly ... 92, 166
- Traffic safety
 - Penalties for drunk and distracted driving ... 667
 - Penalties for speeding, motion to amend Traffic Safety Act provisions (Motion Other than Government Motion 504: carried) ... 453–54
 - Penalties for speeding, other jurisdictions ... 453
- Trucking industry
 - Traffic safety on highway 63 ... 112
- Victims Bill of Rights (federal)
 - General remarks ... 669
- Water Act
 - Legal challenges ... 245
- Deputy Chair of Committees (Jablonski, Mary Anne)
 - Committee of Supply (government expenditures)
 - Procedure ... 485–86
 - Supplementary supply estimates 2014, no. 2, procedure ... 68
 - New Home Buyer Protection Amendment Act, 2014 (Bill 6)
 - Third reading ... 657
- Deputy Speaker (Rogers, George)
 - Appropriation (Supplementary Supply) Act, 2014 (Bill 2)
 - Third reading ... 234
 - Legislative Assembly of Alberta
 - Parliamentary language ... 46
 - Points of order (current session)
 - Parliamentary language ... 46
- Donovan, Ian (W, Little Bow)
 - Agricultural Pests (Fusarium Head Blight) Amendment Act, 2014 (Bill 201)
 - Second reading ... 124–25
 - Second reading, motion to refer bill to Standing Committee on Resource Stewardship (referral amendment) (Fenske: carried) ... 133–34
 - Agriculture
 - Provincial programs ... 27
 - Agriculture and food innovation fund
 - General remarks ... 29
 - Alberta – Population
 - Population growth ... 619
 - Alberta Association of Municipal Districts and Counties
 - Meetings with Transportation minister ... 620
 - Alberta Fusarium Action Committee
 - General remarks ... 133
 - Appropriation Act, 2014 (Bill 8)
 - Third reading ... 618–19
 - Beef – Export – United States
 - Mandatory country of origin labelling ... 28
 - Bridges – Maintenance and repair
 - Cost to municipalities ... 378
 - Funding ... 260
 - Members' statements ... 328
 - Capital plan
 - Cost efficiencies ... 618–19
 - Project prioritization ... 29
 - Value for money ... 29
 - Continuing/extended care facilities – Carmangay
 - Little Bow centre closure ... 28
 - Debts, provincial
 - General remarks ... 29
 - Education – Rural areas
 - General remarks ... 29

Donovan, Ian (W, Little Bow) (continued)

- Farm produce
 - Genetically modified crops ... 125
- Farm produce – Export
 - Market development ... 27
- Fiscal policy
 - Government spending ... 705
- Flood damage mitigation – Southern Alberta
 - General remarks ... 28
- Floods – Southern Alberta
 - Agricultural land, payments for damage to ... 432
- Food safety – Regulation
 - General remarks ... 29
- Freedom of Information and Protection of Privacy Act (FOIP Act)
 - Information request fees ... 704–5
- Freedom of Information and Protection of Privacy (MLA Public Interest Fee Waiver) Amendment Act, 2014 (Bill 204)
 - Second reading ... 704–5
- Grain – Transportation
 - Rail transportation backlog ... 27, 29
- Highway 3
 - Coalhurst intersection ... 468, 619
- Highway 23
 - Intersection with highway 519 ... 619
- Meat-processing industry – Regulation
 - General remarks ... 29
- Members' Statements (current session)
 - Bridges in rural areas ... 328
 - Nobleford ... 683
- Municipalities
 - Fusarium management policies ... 124–125
- Nobleford
 - Members' statements ... 683
- Office of the Premier
 - Premier Redford's travel to South Africa ... 29
 - Staff severance payments ... 619
- Oral Question Period (current session topics)
 - Bridge maintenance and repair ... 260, 378
 - Highway 3 intersection at Coalhurst ... 468
 - Rural flood damage payments ... 432
 - Rural seniors' transportation needs ... 60
- Physicians – Rural areas
 - Recruitment and retention ... 29–30
- Potatoes
 - Fusarium presence ... 124
- Public service
 - Government departments, funding for ... 705
- Public transit – Rural areas
 - Seniors' needs ... 28, 60
- Rural communities
 - Sustainability ... 29–30
- Seniors
 - Aging in place strategy ... 28
- Seniors – Rural areas
 - Transportation needs ... 60
- Speech from the Throne
 - Addresses in reply ... 27, 28–30
- Sugar beet industry
 - Market development ... 29

Dorward, David C. (PC, Edmonton-Gold Bar)

- Alberta Economic Development Authority
 - Members' statements ... 319
- Cancer – Patients
 - Supports, fundraising for, members' statements on ... 162
- Cancer – Prevention
 - General remarks ... 248

Dorward, David C. (PC, Edmonton-Gold Bar) (continued)

- Cancer – Research
 - Fundraising, members' statements on ... 162
- Cancer – Treatment
 - Regional services ... 248
- Cities and towns
 - Civic charters, framework agreement ... 259
- Community infrastructure program
 - General remarks ... 795–96
- Edmonton
 - 2022 Commonwealth Games bid ... 796
 - Elevate report on community sustainability ... 429
- Edmonton Ski Club
 - Members' statements ... 396
- Employment Pension (Private Sector) Plans Amendment Act, 2014 (Bill 10)
 - Second reading, motion to not now read (reasoned amendment) (Mason: defeated) ... 590
- Gay-straight alliances in schools
 - School board policies, legislation on (Motion Other than Government Motion 503: defeated) ... 367
- Introduction of Guests (school groups, individuals) ... 109, 200, 252–53, 304, 334, 406, 473, 791
- Major community facilities program
 - Program termination ... 795–96
- Members' Statements (current session)
 - Alberta Economic Development Authority ... 319
 - Cancer charities fundraising ... 162
 - Edmonton Ski Club ... 396
 - Rwandan genocide ... 406
- Oral Question Period (current session topics)
 - Cancer prevention and treatment ... 248
 - Edmonton sporting event hosting capabilities ... 795–96
 - Edmonton's Elevate report ... 429
 - Municipal charters ... 259
 - Provincial fiscal policies ... 13
- Poems
 - Cancer fundraising ... 162
- Rwanda
 - Genocide, members' statements on ... 406
- Savings Management Act (Bill 1)
 - General remarks ... 13
- Schools
 - Sustainability in mature communities ... 429
- Sports – Edmonton
 - Capacity for hosting major events ... 795–96
- Drysdale, Wayne (PC, Grande Prairie-Wapiti; Minister of Transportation)
 - Alberta Association of Municipal Districts and Counties
 - Meetings with Transportation minister ... 620
 - Anthony Henday Drive
 - Northeast portion, completion ... 327
 - Public-private partnership (P3) construction ... 327
 - Bridges
 - Heavy load bridges ... 432
 - Bridges – Maintenance and repair
 - Cost to municipalities ... 378
 - Funding ... 260
 - Building Alberta plan
 - General remarks ... 57
 - Capital plan
 - Project prioritization ... 326–27
 - Emergency services (first responders) – Strathmore
 - Search and rescue river access ... 298
 - Farm produce – Export
 - Rail transportation needs ... 170

Drysdale, Wayne (PC, Grande Prairie-Wapiti; Minister of Transportation) (continued)

- Federal Public Building
 - Redevelopment project, residential suite proposal, cost of ... 792
 - Redevelopment project cost ... 115
- Flood damage mitigation
 - Funding ... 81
- Flood damage mitigation – Calgary
 - Southwest ring road ... 98
- Government airplanes
 - Cabinet travel to Grande Prairie fundraising event ... 202, 214, 239
 - Usage policy ... 202
 - Usage policy, point of privilege raised on debate (misleading the House) ... 214
- Grain – Transportation
 - Rail transportation backlog ... 170
 - Road ban exemption ... 375
- Highway 2
 - Balzac overpass ... 299–300
- Highway 3
 - Coalhurst intersection ... 468–69
- Highway 19
 - Twinning ... 206–7
- Highway 28
 - Twinning, timeline on ... 314
- Highway 55
 - Twinning, timeline on ... 314
- Highway 61
 - Enhancements, timeline on ... 326–27
- Highway 744
 - Landslide damage ... 687
- Highway 881
 - Enhancements, timeline on ... 256
 - Twinning, timeline on ... 314
- Impaired driving
 - Legislative penalties ... 667
- International trade
 - Rail transportation needs ... 170
- Introduction of Guests (school groups, individuals) ... 237, 305, 423
- Ministry of Transportation
 - Supplementary supply estimates 2013-2014, no. 2, debate ... 81
 - Supplementary supply estimates 2013-2014, no. 2, transfer from capital vote to operation vote of Municipal Affairs ... 81
- Oral Question Period (current session topics)
 - Anthony Henday Drive northeast portion ... 327
 - Bonnyville-Cold Lake infrastructure funding ... 314
 - Bridge maintenance and repair ... 260, 378
 - Cabinet travel to Grand Prairie ... 239
 - Calgary southwest ring road ... 98, 245
 - Calgary southwest ring road contract ... 379
 - Calgary southwest ring road cost ... 295–96
 - Emergency turnarounds on highways ... 666
 - Federal building redevelopment project management ... 792
 - Government airplane usage ... 202
 - Grain rail transportation backlog ... 170
 - Highway 3 intersection at Coalhurst ... 468–69
 - Highway 19 twinning ... 206–7
 - Highway 61 ... 326–27
 - Highway 744 landslide damage ... 687
 - Highway 881 ... 256
 - Highway maintenance ... 468
 - Highway maintenance and rehabilitation ... 295

Drysdale, Wayne (PC, Grande Prairie-Wapiti; Minister of Transportation) (continued)

- Oral Question Period (current session topics) (continued)
 - Infrastructure funding ... 115
 - North-south trade corridor ... 326
 - Promotion of Alberta's energy industry ... 432
 - Public safety in Bonnyville-Cold Lake ... 667
 - Public transit funding ... 57, 167
 - Queen Elizabeth II highway overpass at Balzac ... 299–300
 - Road ban exemption for grain transportation ... 375
 - Strathmore search and rescue river access ... 298
 - Tow truck driver safety ... 260
 - Transportation infrastructure priorities ... 515–16
- Privilege (current session)
 - Misleading the House (use of government airplanes) (not proceeded with) ... 214
- Public transit
 - GreenTRIP incentives program ... 167
- Public transit – Edmonton
 - LRT expansion ... 57, 167
- Ring roads – Calgary
 - Southwest portion ... 98, 245
 - Southwest portion contract ... 379
 - Southwest portion cost ... 115, 295–96
 - Southwest portion interchanges ... 245
 - Southwest portion public-private partnership (P3) construction (proposed) ... 295–96, 379
- Road construction
 - North-south trade corridor, timeline on ... 326
- Road construction – Finance
 - Public-private partnership (P3) construction ... 666
- Roads
 - Emergency turnarounds on highways ... 666
- Roads – Construction
 - Project prioritization ... 515–16
- Roads – Maintenance and repair
 - Funding for rehabilitation ... 295
 - Highway preservation, funding for ... 81
 - Highway rehabilitation, project prioritization ... 295
 - Highway repainting ... 468
 - Project prioritization ... 515–16
 - Provincial strategy ... 468
 - Winter salting and sanding, funding for ... 81
- Roads – Rural areas
 - Delineator traffic post and signpost replacement ... 468
- Supplementary supply estimates 2013-2014, no. 2
 - Estimates debated ... 81
- Traffic safety
 - Penalties for drunk and distracted driving ... 667
 - Penalties for speeding, motion to amend Traffic Safety Act provisions (Motion Other than Government Motion 504: carried) ... 456–57
 - Tow truck driver safety ... 260
- Traffic Safety Act
 - Review ... 457
- Water management – Bragg Creek
 - Water/waste-water system, funding for ... 81
- Water quality – Cold Lake
 - Treatment facilities ... 314
- Eggen, David (ND, Edmonton-Calder)
 - Addiction – Treatment
 - Funding ... 305
 - Alberta future fund
 - General remarks ... 184
 - Alberta heritage fund for medical research
 - Research funded ... 233
 - Alberta heritage savings trust fund
 - Fund utilization ... 232–33

Eggen, David (ND, Edmonton-Calder) (continued)

- Appropriation Act, 2014 (Bill 8)
 - Second reading ... 525–27
 - Committee ... 567–69, 575–76
 - Third reading ... 615–16
- Appropriation (Interim Supply) Act, 2014 (Bill 5)
 - Second reading ... 189–90
- Appropriation (Supplementary Supply) Act, 2014 (Bill 2)
 - Committee ... 187–88
- Bills, government (procedure)
 - Omnibus bills/statute amendment acts ... 759
- Budget 2013-2014
 - General remarks ... 43
- Budget 2014-2015
 - Budget cuts ... 43
 - Budget documents, financial reporting methods ... 615
- Budget process
 - 3-year cycle ... 567
 - Balanced/deficit budgets ... 575–76
 - Results-based budgeting ... 575
- Building Alberta plan
 - Advertising ... 567
- Business enterprises
 - Programs and services ... 526
- Canada pension plan
 - Enhancement (proposed) ... 44
- Carbon capture and storage
 - Provincial strategy... 527
- Child, Youth and Family Enhancement Amendment Act, 2014 (Bill 11)
 - Second reading ... 677–78
 - Committee ... 757
 - Committee amendment A6 (publication ban requests, public interest consideration) (Towle: carried unanimously) ... 757
- Child and Youth Advocate
 - Investigations ... 678
- Child poverty
 - Plan to end ... 605
- Childhood Vision Assessment Act (Bill 203)
 - Second reading ... 355–56
- Children – Protective services
 - Deaths and injuries, publication ban on names ... 677–78
- Class size (elementary and secondary schools)
 - General remarks ... 568
- Contract services
 - Public-private partnerships, performance measures on ... 232
- Daycare
 - Affordability ... 44
- Drugs, prescription
 - Comprehensive coverage ... 95
 - Cost to consumer ... 95
- Electric power – Prices
 - Comparison with other jurisdictions ... 43
- Electric power – Regulation
 - New Democratic opposition position ... 43
- Employment Pension (Private Sector) Plans Amendment Act, 2014 (Bill 10)
 - Second reading, motion to not now read (reasoned amendment) (Mason: defeated) ... 589, 592–94
 - Plan conversion provisions ... 592–93
- Eye See ... Eye Learn
 - General remarks ... 356
- Eyeglasses
 - Cost ... 355–56

Eggen, David (ND, Edmonton-Calder) (continued)

- Family care clinics
 - General remarks ... 729
- Fiscal policy
 - Endowment fund use ... 232
 - General remarks ... 525–26
- Freedom of Information and Protection of Privacy Act (FOIP Act)
 - Information request fees ... 694–95
- Freedom of Information and Protection of Privacy (MLA Public Interest Fee Waiver) Amendment Act, 2014 (Bill 204)
 - Second reading ... 694–95
- Gaming (gambling)
 - Revenue for nonprofit organizations ... 576
- Gay-straight alliances in schools
 - School board policies, legislation on (Motion Other than Government Motion 503: defeated) ... 364–65
- Government accountability
 - Financial reporting ... 184–85
 - Openness and transparency ... 695
- Government airplanes
 - Usage policy ... 99
- Government grant programs
 - Use for social programs ... 232
- Government policies
 - Implementation ... 605
- Health care
 - Private service delivery, data security issues ... 759
- Health care – Finance
 - Budget oversight by ministry ... 759
 - Funding ... 575
 - Funding from supplementary supply ... 187
- Health Information Act
 - Amendments proposed re breaches of information ... 759
- Hospitals – Capacity issues
 - General remarks ... 44
- Hospitals – Emergency services – Capacity issues
 - Wait times ... 568
- Human Rights, Citizenship and Multiculturalism Amendment Act, 2009 (Bill 44, 2009)
 - General remarks ... 364–65
- Interim supply estimates
 - Government use of ... 190
- Introduction of Guests (school groups, individuals) ... 7, 8, 51–52, 108, 109, 200, 253, 290, 304, 334, 474
- Long-term care facilities (nursing homes/auxiliary hospitals)
 - Access ... 44
 - Fire safety ... 512–13
- Lottery fund
 - Fund utilization ... 576
- Members' Statements (current session)
 - Mental health services ... 305
 - Public service pensions ... 200–201
- Mental health services
 - Members' statements ... 305
- Ministry of Education
 - Funding from supplementary supply ... 187
- Ministry of Energy
 - Funding from supplementary supply ... 187
- Ministry of Health
 - Funding from supplementary supply ... 187
 - Main estimates 2014-2015, amendment A3 (associate minister's office budget) (Eggen: defeated) ... 486

Eggen, David (ND, Edmonton-Calder) (continued)

- Ministry of Innovation and Advanced Education
 - Funding from supplementary supply ... 187–88
- Ministry of Service Alberta
 - Main estimates 2014-2015, amendment A7 (associate minister's office budget) (Eggen: defeated) ... 487
- Misericordia community hospital
 - Capital needs ... 111–12, 413–14
- New Democratic opposition
 - Information requests under FOIP ... 695
- Nonprofit organizations
 - Entrepreneurial activities ... 186–87
- Office of the Premier
 - Funding ... 527
 - Premier Redford's travel expenses ... 99
- Oral Question Period (current session topics)
 - Fire safety in seniors' facilities ... 512–13
 - Government policies ... 605
 - Misericordia community hospital ... 111–12, 413–14
 - Premier Redford's travel expenses ... 99
 - Primary health care delivery ... 729
 - Public service pensions ... 324
 - Seniors' drug coverage ... 95
- Pensions
 - Collective agreements... 593–94
- Postsecondary educational institutions – Admissions (enrolment)
 - Access, affordability ... 44
- Postsecondary educational institutions – Finance
 - Funding ... 526
 - Funding from supplementary supply ... 187–88
- Primary care (medicine)
 - General remarks ... 729
- Progressive Conservative Party of Alberta
 - 2012 election platform ... 616
- Public Sector Pension Plans Amendment Act, 2014 (Bill 9)
 - Second reading, motion to refer bill to Standing Committee on Alberta's Economic Future (referral amendment RA1) (Notley: defeated) ... 649–51
 - Second reading, motion to not now read (6-month hoist amendment H1) (Kang: defeated) ... 717
 - Provisions for different employer classes ... 650–51
- Public service – Pensions
 - General remarks ... 44, 324, 605
 - Members' statements ... 200–201
 - Sustainability ... 650–51
- Public utilities – Prices
 - Comparison with other jurisdictions ... 43
- Regional Health Authorities Act
 - Amendments proposed re ministerial oversight of health care budget ... 759
- Rental housing
 - Rental rates ... 43
- Revenue
 - Nonrenewable resource revenue ... 567–69, 575, 616
- Royalty structure (energy resources)
 - Provincial strategy ... 187
- Savings Management Act (Bill 1)
 - Committee ... 184–87
 - Third reading ... 232–33
- Schools
 - Community use ... 232
- Schools – Construction
 - Funding from supplementary supply ... 187
- Securities – Regulation
 - National regulator (proposed) ... 234

Eggen, David (ND, Edmonton-Calder) (continued)

- Securities Amendment Act, 2014 (Bill 3)
 - Third reading ... 234
- Seniors
 - Benefit program, drug coverage ... 95, 526
 - Programs and services ... 44
- Seniors – Housing
 - Fire safety ... 512–13
- Small business
 - Programs and services ... 43
- Social innovation fund
 - Funding through bonds (proposed) ... 184–85, 186–87, 232
- Speech from the Throne
 - Addresses in reply ... 43–44
- Statutes Amendment Act, 2014 (Bill 12)
 - Third reading ... 759
- Supplementary supply estimates 2013-2014, no. 2
 - Expenses not flood-related ... 187
- Tax policy
 - Flat tax rate ... 568, 569, 615–16
- Wages – Minimum wage
 - Comparison with other jurisdictions ... 43–44
- Fawcett, Kyle (PC, Calgary-Klein; Associate Minister – Recovery and Reconstruction for Southwest Alberta)
 - Alberta – History
 - Population growth ... 617–18
 - Alberta – Population
 - Population growth ... 618
 - Alberta heritage savings trust fund
 - Fund utilization ... 148–49
 - Review of fund (Motion Other than Government Motion 519, 2012) ... 148–49
 - Appropriation Act, 2014 (Bill 8)
 - Third reading ... 616–18
 - Budget 2014-2015
 - Budget documents, financial reporting methods ... 617–18
 - Budget process
 - Balanced/deficit budgets ... 617–18
 - Capital plan
 - Infrastructure financing, borrowing ... 617–18
 - Introduction of Guests (school groups, individuals) ... 51, 52, 318
 - Public Sector Pension Plans Amendment Act, 2014 (Bill 9)
 - Second reading, motion to refer bill to Standing Committee on Alberta's Economic Future (referral amendment RA1) (Notley: defeated) ... 627, 641
 - Public consultation (proposed) ... 627
 - Public service – Pensions
 - Provincial liabilities ... 641
 - Savings Management Act (Bill 1)
 - Second reading ... 148–51
 - Social innovation/entrepreneurship
 - General remarks ... 149–51
 - Public-private partnerships (P3s) ... 150
 - Sustainability fund
 - Review of fund (Motion Other than Government Motion 519, 2012) ... 148–49
 - Tax policy
 - Provincial strategy ... 617
- Fenske, Jacquie (PC, Fort Saskatchewan-Vegreville)
 - Agricultural Pests (Fusarium Head Blight) Amendment Act, 2014 (Bill 201)
 - Second reading ... 132
 - Second reading, motion to refer bill to Standing Committee on Resource Stewardship (referral amendment) (Fenske: carried) ... 132

Fenske, Jacquie (PC, Fort Saskatchewan-Vegreville)(continued)

- Bridges
 - Heavy load bridges ... 432
- Bullying – Prevention
 - General remarks ... 16
- Childhood Vision Assessment Act (Bill 203)
 - Second reading ... 448–49
- Education – Curricula
 - Curriculum redesign ... 168
- Energy industries
 - Value-added products, promotion of ... 432
- Eye See ... Eye Learn program
 - General remarks ... 448
- Freedom of Information and Protection of Privacy Act (FOIP Act)
 - Information request fees ... 705
 - Information request process ... 705–6
 - Overview ... 705–6
- Freedom of Information and Protection of Privacy (MLA Public Interest Fee Waiver) Amendment Act, 2014 (Bill 204)
 - Second reading ... 705–6
- Homelessness – Rural areas
 - Members' statements ... 371
- Introduction of Guests (school groups, individuals) ... 252
- Members' Statements (current session)
 - Fort Saskatchewan-Vegreville police services ... 19
 - Rural homelessness ... 371
 - Ukrainian Cultural Heritage Village ... 434
- Municipalities – Finance
 - Student hiring, support for ... 771
- Oral Question Period (current session topics)
 - Bullying prevention ... 16
 - Educational curriculum redesign ... 168
 - Promotion of Alberta's energy industry ... 432
 - Public service pensions ... 93
 - Tow truck driver safety ... 260
 - Workforce employment services ... 770–71
- Public service – Pensions
 - General remarks ... 93
- Royal Canadian Mounted Police – Fort Saskatchewan-Vegreville (constituency)
 - Members' statements ... 19
- School boards
 - Mandate on bullying prevention ... 16
- Speaker
 - Birth of grandson ... 770
- Student employment (secondary and postsecondary students)
 - Programs and services ... 770–71
- Traffic safety
 - Tow truck driver safety ... 260
- Ukrainian Cultural Heritage Village
 - 40th anniversary, members' statements on ... 434

Forsyth, Heather (W, Calgary-Fish Creek)

- Addiction and mental health strategy
 - Report by Cam Wild ... 37
- Alberta – History
 - Klein administration ... 35, 264
- Alberta Health Services (authority)
 - Appearance before Public Accounts Committee (proposed) ... 464
 - Centralization of services ... 374–75
 - Communications budget ... 375
 - Consulting contracts ... 374–75, 391–92, 411, 511
 - Consulting contracts, Auditor General review ... 464

Forsyth, Heather (W, Calgary-Fish Creek) (continued)

- Alberta Health Services (authority)
 - Consulting contracts, sole-source ... 464, 479
 - Consulting contracts for former executives ... 391–92, 411–12
- Budget officer (proposed)
 - Other jurisdictions ... 265
- Budget process
 - Balanced/deficit budgets ... 35
 - Results-based budgeting ... 36
- Building Alberta plan
 - Advertising ... 35
- Calgary-Fish Creek (constituency)
 - Member's decision to leave PC Party, members' statements on ... 290
- Capital projects
 - Infrastructure maintenance and repair ... 294–95
- Childhood Vision Assessment Act (Bill 203)
 - Second reading ... 353–54
 - Amendments proposed by the Alberta Association of Optometrists ... 353
- Committee on Public Accounts, Standing
 - Alberta Health Services appearance (proposed) ... 464
- Continuing/extended care facilities
 - Utilization strategy ... 36
- Deficit Elimination Act
 - General remarks ... 264
- Family care clinics
 - General remarks ... 36
 - Pilot projects ... 13–14
- Flood damage mitigation
 - General remarks ... 37
- Floods – Calgary
 - Member's personal experience ... 37
- Freedom of Information and Protection of Privacy Act (FOIP Act)
 - Information request process ... 666
- Government accountability
 - General remarks ... 35, 36
- Health care
 - Continuity of care ... 261
 - Performance measures ... 36
 - Performance measures, publicly available reports ... 602–3
- Health care – Boyle
 - Access ... 294
- Health care – Capacity issues
 - Provincial strategy ... 37
- Health care – Slave Lake
 - Access ... 13–14
 - Family care clinic ... 36
- Health facilities – Maintenance and repair
 - Infrastructure needs ... 294
- Health Quality Council of Alberta
 - Recommendations on continuity of care ... 261
- Health services personnel
 - Front-line workers, members' statements on ... 541
- Home-care services
 - Funding ... 36
- Hospitals – Capacity issues
 - General remarks ... 541
- Independent Budget Officer Act (Bill 202)
 - First reading ... 63
 - Second reading ... 264–65, 279
 - Debate participants ... 279
- Introduction of Guests (school groups, individuals) ... 89, 474

Forsyth, Heather (W, Calgary-Fish Creek) (continued)

- Long-term care facilities (nursing homes/auxiliary hospitals)
 - Access ... 36
- Mandatory Reporting of Child Pornography Act
 - Proclamation, timeline on ... 61
 - Proclamation, timeline on, point of order on debate ... 63–64
- Members' Statements (current session)
 - Health care professionals ... 541
 - Member's decision to leave political party ... 290
- Ministry of Health
 - Information requests under FOIP from ... 602–3, 666
- Misericordia community hospital
 - Capital needs ... 256–57
- Oral Question Period (current session topics)
 - Alberta Health Services consulting contracts ... 374–75, 391–92, 411, 511
 - Alberta Health Services sole-source contracts ... 464, 479
 - Continuity in health care ... 261
 - FOIP request process ... 666
 - Health care system information reporting ... 602–3
 - Health services in Slave Lake ... 13–14
 - Infrastructure maintenance and repair ... 294–95
 - Misericordia community hospital ... 256–57
 - Public safety legislation ... 61
 - Whistle-blower protection for physicians ... 93
- Physicians
 - Whistle-blower protection ... 93
- Physicians – Slave Lake
 - Recruitment and retention ... 13–14
- Points of order (current session)
 - Factual accuracy ... 63–64
- Progressive Conservative Party of Alberta
 - Member's decision to leave, members' statements on ... 290
- Public Interest Disclosure (Whistleblower Protection) Act
 - General remarks ... 93
- Public safety
 - Legislation ... 61
- Public Sector Pension Plans Amendment Act, 2014 (Bill 9)
 - Second reading ... 551–54
 - Letter from unions and employee associations ... 552–53, 554
- Public service – Pensions
 - Comparison with other jurisdictions ... 554
- Schools – Construction
 - Modernizations, timeline on ... 36
 - New schools, timeline on ... 36
- Seniors
 - Programs and services ... 36–37
- Service animals
 - Legislation ... 61
- Speech from the Throne
 - Addresses in reply ... 35–36
 - Addresses in reply (questions and comments) ... 37
- Wainwright health centre
 - Condition of facility ... 295

Fox, Rodney M. (W, Lacombe-Ponoka)

- Alberta – History
 - Klein administration ... 277
- Budget 2014-2015
 - General remarks ... 277
- Canadian Institute of Planners
 - Award to Lacombe main street ... 776
- Cancer – Treatment
 - Lung cancer patient wait times ... 433

Fox, Rodney M. (W, Lacombe-Ponoka) (continued)

- Fiscal Management Act
 - General remarks ... 278
- Government accountability
 - Financial reporting ... 277–78
- Government airplanes
 - Usage policy ... 200
- Government culture
 - Members' statements ... 200
- Independent Budget Officer Act (Bill 202)
 - Second reading ... 276–78
- International trade – Asia
 - Chief assistant deputy minister's role ... 313
- Introduction of Guests (school groups, individuals)
 - ... 87, 238, 252, 335, 369, 423–24, 530, 597, 659, 763
- Lacombe
 - Members' statements ... 776
- Legislative Assembly of Alberta
 - Ukrainian remarks ... 300
- Members' Statements (current session)
 - Government culture ... 200
 - Lacombe ... 776
 - Russian intervention in Ukraine ... 300
- Ministry of International and Intergovernmental Relations
 - Hiring of former Premier's office staff member ... 205–6
 - Ministry organizational structure ... 313
- New Home Buyer Protection Amendment Act, 2014 (Bill 6)
 - Committee ... 495–96
 - Committee amendment A1 (registration fee exemption for new homes for personal use) (Anglin: defeated) ... 495–96
- Nurses
 - Member's personal experience ... 630
- Office of the Premier
 - Former staff member's government employment ... 205–6
 - Premier Redford's relationship with Executive Council ... 200
- Oral Question Period (current session topics)
 - Drinking water contamination complaint ... 774
 - International and Intergovernmental Relations ministry ... 313
 - Lung cancer diagnosis and treatment ... 433
 - Premier Redford's former staff member's employment ... 205–6
 - School construction in Blackfalds ... 16–17
- Public Sector Pension Plans Amendment Act, 2014 (Bill 9)
 - Second reading, motion to refer bill to Standing Committee on Alberta's Economic Future (referral amendment RA1) (Notley: defeated) ... 629–30
- Public service – Pensions
 - Unfunded liabilities ... 630
- Schools – Construction
 - New schools ... 16–17
- Schools – Construction – Blackfalds
 - New school, timeline on ... 16–17
- Travel at public expense
 - Cabinet expense policy ... 200
- Ukraine
 - Russian action, members' statements on ... 300
- Water quality – Lacombe-Ponoka (constituency)
 - Drinking water contamination, complaint by Ann Craft on ... 774

Fraser, Rick (PC, Calgary-South East; Associate Minister of Public Safety; Associate Minister – Recovery and Reconstruction for High River)

- Emergency medical services (ambulances, etc.) – Rural areas
 - Dispatch service ... 171
- Floods – Southern Alberta
 - Disaster recovery program contracts ... 669–70
- Introduction of Guests (school groups, individuals) ... 51, 199
- LandLink Consulting Ltd.
 - Disaster relief contract ... 669–70
- Oral Question Period (current session topics)
 - ALERT program funding ... 514–15
 - Disaster recovery program administration ... 669–70
 - Rural emergency medical services ... 171
- Organized crime
 - Initiatives against, ALERT program funding ... 514–15

Fritz, Yvonne (PC, Calgary-Cross)

- Agrium Western Event Centre
 - Members' statements ... 434
- Bethany Care Society
 - Retiring president and CEO Greer Black, members' statements on ... 263
- Members' Statements (current session)
 - Agrium Western Event Centre ... 434
 - Greer Black ... 263
 - Provincial wrestling championships ... 470
- Oral Question Period (current session topics)
 - Physiotherapy services for seniors ... 17
 - Student employment supports ... 433
- Postsecondary students
 - Employment supports ... 433
- Seniors
 - Physiotherapy services ... 17
- Summer temporary employment program (STEP)
 - Program termination ... 433
- Wrestling
 - Alberta Schools' Athletic Association championships, members' statements on ... 470

Goudreau, Hector G. (PC, Dunvegan-Central Peace-Notley)

- ATCO Electric Ltd.
 - Response in January 2014 northern Alberta windstorm ... 163
- Bridges – Watino
 - Smoky River bridge demolition ... 261
- Cancer – Patients
 - Supports, fundraising for, members' statements on ... 599
- Cancer – Research
 - Fundraising, members' statements on ... 599
- Defibrillators
 - Automated external defibrillators, Project Brock awareness campaign, members' statements on ... 407
- Education – Curricula
 - Curriculum redesign ... 309–10
- Elk hunting
 - Licence allocation ... 96
- Elk populations – Northern Alberta
 - General remarks ... 96
- Freedom of Information and Protection of Privacy Act (FOIP Act)
 - Comparison with other jurisdictions ... 703–4
 - Information request fees ... 703
 - Overview ... 703–4

Goudreau, Hector G. (PC, Dunvegan-Central Peace-Notley) (continued)

- Freedom of Information and Protection of Privacy (MLA Public Interest Fee Waiver) Amendment Act, 2014 (Bill 204)
 - Second reading ... 703–4
 - Grain – Diseases and pests
 - Crop damage by elk ... 96
 - Highway 744
 - Landslide damage ... 687
 - Inspiring Education (report)
 - Recommendations ... 310
 - Introduction of Guests (school groups, individuals) ... 473, 722
 - Legislative Assembly of Alberta
 - French remarks ... 18
 - Lymphedema
 - National Lymphedema Awareness Day, members' statements on ... 101
 - Members' Statements (current session)
 - Cancer awareness initiatives in Wanham ... 599
 - National Lymphedema Awareness Day ... 101
 - Northern Alberta windstorm ... 163
 - Project Brock ... 407
 - Les Rendez-vous de la Francophonie ... 18
 - Oral Question Period (current session topics)
 - Educational curriculum redesign ... 309–10
 - Elk population in northern Alberta ... 96
 - Highway 744 landslide damage ... 687
 - Smoky River bridge removal ... 261
 - Rendez-vous de la Francophonie, Les
 - Members' statements ... 18
 - Wanham
 - Fundraising initiatives for cancer, members' statements on ... 599
 - Windstorms – Northern Alberta
 - Members' statements ... 163
- Griffiths, Doug (PC, Battle River-Wainwright; Minister of Service Alberta)
- Alberta Federation of Labour
 - Information request under FOIP to Ministry of Finance ... 664
 - All-terrain vehicles
 - Driver education ... 799
 - Licenses ... 799
 - Freedom of Information and Protection of Privacy Act (FOIP Act)
 - Information request process ... 535, 664, 666, 667
 - Information request process, former Deputy Premier's memo on ... 535
 - Government services
 - Information security management ... 670
 - Information workers, security clearance ... 670
 - Housing – Construction
 - Builders' liens ... 347
 - Introduction of Guests (school groups, individuals) ... 8, 90, 763, 789–90
 - Ministry of Health
 - Information requests under FOIP from ... 664, 666
 - Ministry of Service Alberta
 - Associate Minister, Accountability, Transparency and Transformation ... 667
 - Information security management standards ... 670
 - Ministry of Treasury Board and Finance
 - Alberta Federation of Labour request for information under FOIP from ... 664

Griffiths, Doug (PC, Battle River-Wainwright; Minister of Service Alberta) (continued)

Oral Question Period (current session topics)

- All-terrain vehicles ... 799
- Builders' liens ... 347
- FOIP request process ... 535, 664, 666–67
- Government data security ... 670

Registry services

- Online portal implementation, documents on (Motion for a Return 4: defeated) ... 443

Hale, Jason W. (W, Strathmore-Brooks)

Agricultural Pests (Fusarium Head Blight) Amendment Act, 2014 (Bill 201)

- Second reading ... 130–31

AltaLink

- Purchase bid by Berkshire Hathaway Inc., approval process ... 688

Bassano continuing care centre

- Members' statements ... 262

Budget officer (proposed)

- Other jurisdictions ... 279

Dogs – Newell county

- Thefts, members' statements on ... 609

Emergency services (first responders) – Strathmore

- Search and rescue river access ... 298

Freehold Mineral Rights Tax Act

- Amendments proposed re tax assessment and reassessment, consultation with Freehold Owners Association on ... 799

Fusarium graminearum

- Presence in feed grain ... 130

Government accountability

- Financial reporting ... 278–79

Government grant programs

- Eligibility criteria ... 345–46

Independent Budget Officer Act (Bill 202)

- Second reading ... 278–79

Introduction of Guests (school groups, individuals) ... 88, 608

Members' Statements (current session)

- Bassano continuing care centre ... 262
- Dog theft in Newell County ... 609

Oral Question Period (current session topics)

- ALERT program funding ... 514
- AltaLink sale approval process ... 688

Freehold mineral rights legislation consultation ... 799

- Health facilities in Strathmore ... 97
- Pembina Institute funding ... 345–46, 377
- Strathmore search and rescue river access ... 298

Organized crime

- Initiatives against, ALERT program funding ... 514

Parks, provincial – Southern Alberta

- Reconstruction planning ... 298

Pembina Institute

- Funding ... 345–46, 377

Pipelines – Construction

- Funding of organizations in opposition to ... 345–46
- Keystone XL pipeline project, opposition to ... 688

Public Sector Pension Plans Amendment Act, 2014 (Bill 9)

- Second reading ... 549
- Second reading, motion to refer bill to Standing Committee on Alberta's Economic Future (referral amendment RA1) (Notley: defeated) ... 653
- Scope of application ... 549

Rosebud School of the Arts Amendment Act, 2014 (Bill Pr. 1)

- First reading ... 609
- Second reading ... 737

Hale, Jason W. (W, Strathmore-Brooks) (continued)

Rosebud School of the Arts Amendment Act, 2014 (Bill Pr. 1) (continued)

- Committee ... 758
- Third reading ... 758

Strathmore community hospital

- Redevelopment plan ... 97

Hancock, Dave, QC (PC, Edmonton-Whitemud; Minister of Innovation and Advanced Education; Premier effective March 23, 2014)

Agriculture and food innovation fund

- General remarks ... 148

Alberta future fund

- General remarks ... 148

Alberta Health Services (authority)

- Auditor General audits ... 463
- Consulting contracts ... 511
- Consulting contracts, Auditor General review ... 461–62, 464, 476

- Consulting contracts, sole-source ... 461–62, 464, 475–76, 479

- Consulting contracts for former executives ... 388, 475–76

Alberta heritage fund for medical research

- General remarks ... 147

Alberta heritage savings trust fund

- Value of fund ... 148

Alberta heritage scholarship fund

- General remarks ... 147, 148

Alberta ingenuity fund

- General remarks ... 147

Apprenticeship training

- Journeyman certificates, delays in ... 244
- Scholarships ... 244

Budget 2014-2015

- Budget preparation ... 320

Building Alberta plan

- Promotional jackets ... 427

Bullying – Prevention

- General remarks ... 374

Calgary

- Mayor's letter on proposed changes to public service pensions ... 685, 686

Cancer – Treatment

- Lung cancer patient wait times ... 433

Capital projects

- Federal funding programs, access to ... 792

Child, Youth and Family Enhancement Amendment Act, 2014 (Bill 11)

- Second reading ... 623

Child poverty

- Plan to end ... 308, 605–6

Children – Protective services

- Deaths and injuries, communications consulting contracts re ... 726

- Deaths and injuries, public information on ... 725

Class size (elementary and secondary schools)

- General remarks ... 797

Contract services

- Sole-source contracts ... 463, 726, 766–67

Debts, provincial

- General remarks ... 320

Early childhood education

- Full-day kindergarten ... 308

Education – Curricula

- Aboriginal content ... 336
- Curriculum redesign ... 769
- Mathematics curriculum ... 322
- Mathematics curriculum redesign ... 606

Hancock, Dave, QC (PC, Edmonton-Whitemud;
Minister of Innovation and Advanced Education;
Premier effective March 23, 2014) (continued)

Education – Finance
Funding ... 797

Education Act
Inclusive education provisions ... 374

Electric power – Prices
Comparison with other jurisdictions ... 724

Employment Pension (Private Sector) Plans Amendment Act, 2014 (Bill 10)
Progress through the Assembly ... 685

Energy industries
Value-added products, promotion of ... 432

Executive Council
Budget 2014-2015 ... 111
Deputy minister's role ... 766

Family care clinics
General remarks ... 724
Provincial strategy on ... 685

Federal Public Building
Redevelopment project, residential suite proposal ... 343, 345, 794
Redevelopment project, residential suite proposal, cost of ... 792–93

Fetal alcohol spectrum disorder
Conferences ... 147

Fiscal policy
Government savings ... 147

Flaherty, Jim (former Member of Parliament and federal cabinet minister)
Memorial tribute ... 408

Floods – Southern Alberta
Communications contracts ... 293–94, 341, 373–74, 463, 766–67

Freedom of Information and Protection of Privacy Act (FOIP Act)
Information request process ... 509, 532–33, 599–600, 602, 605
Information request process, former Deputy Premier's memo on ... 532, 599–600, 605
Information requests by Liberal caucus ... 477, 480

Gay, lesbian, bisexual, or transgender persons
Supports for students ... 374, 389–90

Government
Effectiveness, impact of Progressive Conservative Party leadership campaign ... 793
Public trust in ... 683–84

Government airplanes
Cabinet travel to Grande Prairie fundraising event ... 202, 240
Usage policy ... 99, 202, 203, 425, 462–63, 685, 766
Usage policy, Auditor General review ... 56

Government caucus
Member's departure, Associate Minister of Family and Community Safety's remarks on ... 253–54

Government communications
Budget ... 372
Consulting contracts ... 372

Government culture
General remarks ... 342

Government policies
General remarks ... 342
Implementation ... 294, 308, 319–20, 605–6

Health care
Performance measures ... 600

Health care – Capacity issues
Wait times ... 467

Hancock, Dave, QC (PC, Edmonton-Whitemud;
Minister of Innovation and Advanced Education;
Premier effective March 23, 2014) (continued)

Health care – Finance
Budget documentation ... 768
Budget oversight by ministry ... 463, 768

Inspiring Education (report)
Recommendations ... 795

Introduction of Guests (school groups, individuals) ... 108, 251–52, 327, 334, 597, 789

Introduction of Visitors (visiting dignitaries)
Family of former EmployAbilities executive director ... 385
First Nations and Métis community leaders ... 333
Member of Parliament for Edmonton-Leduc ... 87

Labour unions
Members' dues, legislative and regulatory provisions for ... 794–95

Liberal opposition
FOIP requests ... 477, 480, 605

Long-term care facilities (nursing homes/auxiliary hospitals) – Didsbury
Spaces ... 467

Long-term care facilities (nursing homes/auxiliary hospitals) – Three Hills
Spaces ... 467

Ministerial Statements (current session)
Truth and Reconciliation Commission national event, ministerial statement on ... 336

Ministry of Education
Minister's meeting with stakeholders on curriculum redesign (proposed) ... 727

Ministry of Health
Information requests under FOIP from ... 602

Ministry of Human Services
Associate Minister of Family and Community Safety's remarks to news media ... 253–54
Funding ... 111

Ministry of International and Intergovernmental Relations
Hiring of former Premier's office staff member ... 206
Ministry organizational structure ... 313

Misericordia community hospital
Replacement, timeline on ... 427

Municipalities – Finance
Federal grant funding, access to ... 792

New Democratic opposition
Tribute to leader Brian Mason ... 764

Office of the Premier
Communications expenses ... 111
Expenses, oversight of ... 766
Former staff member's government employment ... 206
Funding ... 111
Hosting expenses ... 111
Premier Hancock's apology at party fundraising event ... 683–84
Premier Hancock's term of office ... 793
Premier Redford's travel expenses ... 99
Premier Redford's travel to Jasper ... 425, 462–63, 476–77, 508
Premier Redford's travel to South Africa, repayment (proposed) ... 111, 203
Speaker's welcome to new Premier, Speaker's statement on ... 333
Staff severance payments ... 321–22, 339

Oral Question Period (current session topics)
Alberta Health Services consulting contracts ... 388, 511

Hancock, Dave, QC (PC, Edmonton-Whitemud;
Minister of Innovation and Advanced Education;
Premier effective March 23, 2014) (continued)

Oral Question Period (current session topics) (continued)
 Alberta Health Services sole-source contracts ...
 461–62, 464, 475–76, 479
 Associate Minister of Family and Community Safety
 ... 253–54
 Budget 2014 ... 320
 Cabinet travel expense policy ... 56
 Cabinet travel to Grand Prairie ... 240
 Education funding ... 797
 Educational curriculum redesign ... 606, 769
 Educational system reform ... 727
 Electricity prices ... 724
 Family care clinics ... 724
 Federal building redevelopment plan ... 343, 345
 Federal building redevelopment project management
 ... 792–94
 Federal funding programs ... 792
 Flood recovery communications contracts ... 293–94,
 341, 373–74
 FOIP request process ... 477, 480, 509, 532–33, 599–
 600, 602, 605
 Government advertising ... 427
 Government airplane usage ... 202–3, 425, 462–63
 Government communications ... 725–26, 766–67
 Government communications budget ... 372
 Government effectiveness ... 308, 319–20
 Government policies ... 342, 605–6, 684–85
 Government spending ... 463
 Government work plan ... 294
 Health care budget oversight ... 768
 Health care performance measures ... 600
 Health care system ... 467
 Health facilities infrastructure ... 427
 Innovation system ... 731
 International and Intergovernmental Relations ministry ... 313
 Keystone XL pipeline project ... 603
 LGBTQ student supports ... 374
 Lung cancer diagnosis and treatment ... 433
 Mathematics curriculum ... 322
 Personal information collection by members ... 793–94
 Political party leadership campaign financing ... 428
 Postsecondary education affordability ... 208–9
 Postsecondary education funding ... 730
 Postsecondary noninstructional student fees ... 297–98
 Premier Redford's former staff member's
 employment ... 206
 Premier Redford's office budget ... 111
 Premier Redford's travel expenses ... 99
 Premier Redford's travel to Jasper ... 476–77, 508
 Premier's office expense oversight ... 766
 Premier's term of office ... 793
 Progressive Conservative Party trust account ... 340–
 41, 408
 Promotion of Alberta's energy industry ... 432
 Provincial budget ... 110
 Provincial diploma examinations ... 469
 Public service compensation ... 92
 Public service pension legislation ... 685–86
 Public service pensions ... 466, 480, 533–34, 601–2
 School construction and modernization ... 465
 School infrastructure priorities ... 481
 Severance payments to Premier Redford's office staff ... 321–22, 339
 Skilled trades journeyman certification ... 244
 Small-business regulations ... 59

Hancock, Dave, QC (PC, Edmonton-Whitemud;
Minister of Innovation and Advanced Education;
Premier effective March 23, 2014) (continued)

Oral Question Period (current session topics) (continued)
 Social innovation fund ... 59
 Student assessment ... 795
 Task Force for Teaching Excellence report ... 689,
 767–68
 Trust in government ... 683–84
 Union dues regulation ... 794–95
 University executive compensation ... 798
 Personal information
 Collection by members ... 793–94
 Pipelines – Construction
 Keystone XL pipeline project delay ... 603
 Political parties
 Leadership campaigns, legislative provisions on donations ... 428
 Postsecondary education
 Digital textbooks ... 209
 Postsecondary educational institutions – Admissions
 (enrolment)
 Access, affordability ... 208–9
 Promotion to secondary students, Learning Clicks program ... 730
 Postsecondary educational institutions – Finance
 Executive compensation ... 798
 Funding ... 730
 Poverty
 Reduction strategies ... 147–48
 Primary care (medicine)
 General remarks ... 724
 Progressive Conservative Party of Alberta
 Trust account ... 340–41, 408
 Public Affairs Bureau
 Mandate ... 294
 Public Sector Pension Plans Amendment Act, 2014 (Bill 9)
 Progress through the Assembly ... 684, 685–86
 Public Sector Services Continuation Act (Bill 45, 2013)
 General remarks ... 342
 Public response to bill ... 684
 Public service
 Collective agreements, negotiations ... 110
 Public service – Pensions
 General remarks ... 478, 533–34, 601–2, 605–6
 Public Service Salary Restraint Act (Bill 46, 2013)
 General remarks ... 342
 Legal challenge ... 92
 Red Tape Reduction Task Force (2012)
 Recommendations ... 59
 Research and development
 Innovation initiatives ... 731
 Savings Management Act (Bill 1)
 Second reading ... 146–48, 150
 School Act
 Inclusive education provisions ... 374
 Schools
 Sustainability in mature communities ... 481
 Schools – Construction
 Modernizations, timeline on ... 465, 685
 New schools, timeline on ... 465, 685
 Prioritization ... 481
 Schools – Edmonton
 Decision-making on closures and construction ... 481
 Small business
 Regulatory framework impacts ... 59
 Social innovation fund
 Funding through bonds (proposed) ... 59
 General remarks ... 147–48

Hancock, Dave, QC (PC, Edmonton-Whitemud; Minister of Innovation and Advanced Education; Premier effective March 23, 2014) (continued)

- Statutes Amendment Act, 2014 (Bill 12)
 - General remarks ... 793
- Strategic plan, provincial
 - 20-year plan ... 147
- Student financial aid (postsecondary students)
 - Funding ... 208–9
- Student testing (elementary and secondary students)
 - Changes to report cards ... 795
 - High school diploma exams ... 469
- Task Force for Teaching Excellence
 - 2014 report ... 689
 - 2014 report, recommendations ... 727, 767–68, 769
- Travel at public expense
 - Cabinet expense policy ... 56
- Truth and Reconciliation Commission
 - National event, ministerial statement on ... 336
- Tuition and fees, postsecondary
 - Noninstructional fees ... 209, 297–98

Hehr, Kent (AL, Calgary-Buffalo)

- Alberta – History
 - Klein administration ... 224
- Alberta heritage savings trust fund
 - Estimated value of fund if 30 per cent of nonrenewable resource revenue had been transferred since 1976 (Written Question 7: defeated) ... 438–39
 - Fund utilization ... 85, 154, 222–23
- Alberta Human Rights Act
 - Application in schools ... 344, 362
- Alberta Works
 - Client benefits ... 223
- Appropriation Act, 2014 (Bill 8)
 - Committee ... 565–66, 571–72
 - Third reading ... 634–36
- Appropriation (Supplementary Supply) Act, 2014 (Bill 2)
 - Second reading ... 154–55
- Assured income for the severely handicapped
 - Funding ... 77–78
- Brewing industry
 - Craft breweries, members' statements on ... 263
 - Tax rates for small brewers, documents on proposed amendments to (Motion for a Return 5: defeated) ... 443–44
- Budget 2014-2015
 - Public consultation, online prebudget survey results (Motion for a Return 1: defeated) ... 443
- Budget Address
 - Addresses in reply ... 222–23
 - Addresses in reply, questions and comments ... 224
- Budget officer (proposed)
 - Other jurisdictions ... 278
- Bullying – Prevention
 - Gay, lesbian, and transgender students ... 349
- Canada – History
 - Mulroney administration ... 45
- Canadian Charter of Rights and Freedoms
 - Application in schools ... 344, 362
- Child poverty
 - Plan to end ... 223
- Childhood Vision Assessment Act (Bill 203)
 - Second reading ... 446–47
- Class size (elementary and secondary schools)
 - General remarks ... 261

Hehr, Kent (AL, Calgary-Buffalo) (continued)

- Daycare
 - Affordability ... 223
 - Funding ... 566
- Debts, provincial
 - Debt related to public utilities ... 536
 - Debt-servicing limit, calculation for 2013-2014 (Written Question 8: defeated) ... 439–40
- Disaster insurance
 - Research studies and proposals (Motion for a Return 3: accepted) ... 442
- Distilling industry
 - Documents on proposed amendments to Spirit distillation rules (Motion for a Return 6: defeated) ... 444
- Early childhood education
 - Full-day kindergarten, cost of (Written Question 3: defeated) ... 438
- Economy
 - 2008 global downturn ... 145
- Education – Curricula
 - English as a second language, student statistics (Written Question 15: accepted) ... 436
 - English as a second language, years of funding ... 572
- Education – Finance
 - Funding ... 222–23, 571–72
- Education Act
 - Inclusive education provisions ... 361
- Elections, provincial
 - 2012 election campaign ... 653–54
- Electric power – Prices
 - Fluctuations ... 536
- Electric power – Retail sales
 - Corporations' economic withholding/market manipulation ... 14–15, 58, 168–69, 536
 - Corporations' economic withholding/market manipulation, investigation by Market Surveillance Administrator ... 14–15, 58
 - Fixed-rate plans ... 536
- Employment Pension (Private Sector) Plans Amendment Act, 2014 (Bill 10)
 - Second reading ... 582–84
 - Second reading, motion to not now read (reasoned amendment) (Mason: defeated) ... 594–95
 - Plan conversion provisions ... 583–84, 594–95
- Employment standards
 - Officers, statistics on (Written Question 26: accepted) ... 437
- Energy industries
 - Drilling in urban areas ... 311–12
- Financial institutions
 - Banking regulations ... 145
 - Governance, comparison with other jurisdictions ... 145
- Fiscal Management Act
 - General remarks ... 278
- Fiscal policy
 - General remarks ... 72, 84–85
 - Government spending ... 223–24, 634–35
- Flood damage mitigation
 - Groeneveld report recommendations ... 155
 - Preparation for spring flooding ... 154–55
- Flood insurance
 - National program (proposed) ... 72, 155
 - Research studies and proposals (Motion for a Return 3: accepted) ... 442
- Floods – Calgary
 - Homeowner insurance coverage ... 155

Hehr, Kent (AL, Calgary-Buffalo) (continued)

- Gay, lesbian, bisexual, or transgender persons
 - Protection of rights ... 512
 - Supports for students ... 344–45, 430
 - Supports for students, members' statements on ... 349
 - Supports for students, point of order on debate ... 399–400
- Gay-straight alliances in schools
 - School board policies, legislation on (Motion Other than Government Motion 503: defeated) ... 361–62, 367–68
 - Student requests for ... 349, 512
- Government accountability
 - Financial reporting ... 222, 278, 439–40
- Heritage Christian Academy
 - Student code of conduct ... 345
- Immunization
 - Provincial strategy for children ... 667–68
- Income support program
 - Comparison with other jurisdictions ... 153, 223
- Independent Budget Officer Act (Bill 202)
 - Second reading ... 278
- Introduction of Guests (school groups, individuals) ... 237, 335, 406
- Measles
 - Outbreak response ... 667–68
- Members' Statements (current session)
 - Craft breweries ... 263
 - LGBTQ student supports ... 349
- Ministry of Education
 - Supplementary supply estimates 2013-2014, no. 2, debate ... 72
- Ministry of Human Services
 - Minister's announcement of procedural changes for children in care, point of order on debate ... 399–400
 - Supplementary supply estimates 2013-2014, no. 2, debate ... 77–78
- Ministry of Municipal Affairs
 - Supplementary supply estimates 2013-2014, no. 2, debate ... 72
- Oral Question Period (current session topics)
 - Childhood immunization ... 667–68
 - Drilling in urban areas ... 310–11
 - Education performance measures ... 261–62
 - Electricity market investigation ... 14–15
 - Electricity prices ... 536
 - Electricity pricing ... 58, 168–69
 - LGBTQ rights ... 512
 - LGBTQ student supports ... 344–45
 - School codes of conduct ... 430
 - School construction ... 114
- Pensions
 - Economic impacts ... 582–83
- Persons with developmental disabilities
 - Programs and services ... 77–78
- Points of order (current session)
 - Allegations against a member or members ... 399–400
 - Factual accuracy ... 435
- Postsecondary educational institutions – Admissions (enrolment)
 - Participation rate ... 223
- Postsecondary educational institutions – Finance
 - Funding ... 223
- Private schools
 - Funding ... 72
- Progressive Conservative Party of Alberta
 - 2012 election platform ... 44–45

Hehr, Kent (AL, Calgary-Buffalo) (continued)

- Public Sector Pension Plans Amendment Act, 2014 (Bill 9)
 - Second reading ... 546–47
 - Second reading, motion to refer bill to Standing Committee on Alberta's Economic Future (referral amendment RA1) (Notley: defeated) ... 653–55
- Public service
 - Government departments, management positions, statistics on (Written Question 30: accepted) ... 437
- Public service – Pensions
 - Contribution rates, cap on ... 547, 654
 - Membership statistics (Written Question 11: accepted) ... 436
 - Provincial liabilities ... 654–55
- Revenue
 - Forecasts ... 45–46
 - Nonrenewable resource revenue ... 72, 224, 634–35
 - Sources ... 565–66, 635
- Royalty structure (energy resources)
 - Provincial strategy ... 635–36
- Savings Management Act (Bill 1)
 - Second reading ... 84–85, 151, 153–54
- Schoolchildren – Transportation
 - School bus costs per student, 2012-2013 and 2013-2014 (Written Question 14: accepted as amended) ... 442
- Schools
 - Codes of conduct ... 430
 - Codes of conduct, point of order on debate ... 435
- Schools – Construction
 - Modernizations ... 72
 - Modernizations, funding for ... 114
 - New schools ... 72, 262
 - New schools, funding for ... 114
 - New schools, timeline on ... 45–46, 223, 572
- Schools – Construction – Calgary
 - Flood-related construction ... 72
- Schools – Three Hills
 - Prairie Christian Academy, staff code of conduct ... 430
 - Prairie Christian Academy, staff code of conduct, point of order on debate ... 435
- Securities Amendment Act, 2014 (Bill 3)
 - Second reading ... 145
- Social innovation/entrepreneurship
 - General remarks ... 151
- Social innovation fund
 - General remarks ... 85
- Speech from the Throne
 - Addresses in reply ... 44–46
- Supplementary supply estimates 2013-2014, no. 2
 - Estimates debated ... 72, 77–78
 - Flood-related expenses ... 72
- Task Force for Teaching Excellence
 - Participant criteria (Motion for a Return 7: accepted) ... 442
- Tax policy
 - Comparison to other jurisdictions ... 224
 - Flat tax rate ... 565, 654
 - Provincial strategy ... 45–46, 154, 572
- Teachers
 - Statistics for public and separate schools, 2012-2013 and 2013-2014 (Written Question 13: accepted as amended) ... 441–42
- Workplace health and safety
 - Occupational health and safety officers, statistics on (Written Question 25: accepted) ... 437

Horne, Fred (PC, Edmonton-Rutherford; Minister of Health)

- Alberta College of Pharmacists
 - Standards of practice re loyalty/reward programs ... 606–7
- Alberta Health Services (authority)
 - Administration costs ... 306
 - Centralization of services ... 371–72, 374–75
 - Communications budget ... 372–73, 375
 - Consulting contracts ... 371–72, 374–75, 376, 391–92, 393, 411
 - Consulting contracts for former executives ... 387, 391–92, 411–12
 - Executive compensation ... 292
- Alzheimer Society of Alberta and Northwest Territories
 - 3-year grant ... 686
- Cancer – Fort Chipewyan
 - Incidence reports ... 390–91, 393
- Cancer – Prevention
 - General remarks ... 248
- Cancer – Treatment
 - Lung cancer patient wait times ... 393
 - Regional services ... 248
- Capital projects
 - Building contracts, penalties for delays ... 326
- Cardston health centre
 - New facility, timeline on ... 259
- Children – Protective services
 - Continuity of care ... 728
 - Death of newborn (Baby Annie) ... 728
- Correctional institutions
 - Health services ... 78
- Dementia
 - Patient care, funding for ... 686
 - Provincial strategy ... 686
- Drugs, prescription
 - Comprehensive coverage ... 59–60, 95
 - Cost to consumer ... 95
 - Loyalty/reward program participation, Alberta
 - College of Pharmacists' change to standards of practice ... 606–7, 772–73
 - Pharmaceutical information network ... 379
 - Provincial plans ... 75
- Emergency medical services (ambulances, etc.)
 - Dispatch services ... 96
 - Interfacility transfer units ... 170
- Family care clinics
 - Funding ... 78
 - General remarks ... 54–55, 724, 729
 - Pilot projects ... 14
- Federal Public Building
 - Redevelopment project ... 392
- Freedom of Information and Protection of Privacy Act (FOIP Act)
 - Information request process ... 600
- Government airplanes
 - Cabinet travel to Grande Prairie fundraising event ... 201–2, 214–15, 240
 - Usage policy ... 201
 - Usage policy, point of privilege raised on debate (misleading the House) ... 214–15
- Government communications
 - Budget ... 372–73
- Government services
 - Information security management, organ and tissue donor registry ... 540

Horne, Fred (PC, Edmonton-Rutherford; Minister of Health) (continued)

- Health care
 - Continuity of care ... 261, 728
 - Performance measures ... 600
 - Performance measures, publicly available reports ... 602–3
- Health care – Boyle
 - Access ... 294
- Health care – Capacity issues
 - Performance measures ... 409–10
 - Wait times ... 607–8
- Health care – Consort
 - Acute care ... 539
- Health care – Edmonton
 - Performance measures ... 600
- Health care – Finance
 - Budget allocation by envelope ... 745
 - Funding ... 410
- Health care – Slave Lake
 - Access ... 14, 54
- Health promotion
 - Provincial wellness strategy ... 323
- Health Quality Council of Alberta
 - Recommendations on continuity of care ... 261
- Home-care services
 - Wait times ... 416
- Home-care services – Edmonton
 - Artspace Independent Living employee wages ... 768–69
- Hospitals – Emergency services – Capacity issues
 - Wait times ... 607–8
- Human reproductive technology
 - Funding ... 690
 - In vitro fertilization, provincial strategy on funding ... 726–27
- Introduction of Guests (school groups, individuals)
 - ... 108, 303, 681, 762, 790
- Kaye Edmonton Clinic
 - Funding ... 78
- Kidney dialysis
 - Mobile service ... 117
- Kidney dialysis – Athabasca
 - Access to services ... 408
- Kidney dialysis – Red Deer
 - Access to services ... 392–93
- Kidney dialysis – Strathcona county
 - Access to services ... 773–74
- Long-term care facilities (nursing homes/auxiliary hospitals)
 - Funding for residents with dementia and/or mental health issues ... 686
 - Restrictions on family members' visits ... 770, 796
 - Sexual assaults on residents ... 243
- Long-term care facilities (nursing homes/auxiliary hospitals) – Medicine Hat
 - New facility, timeline on ... 325–26
- Lyme disease
 - Access to testing ... 98, 773
 - Treatment ... 773
- Medical laboratories
 - Service contracts ... 241–42
- Mental health services
 - Adults' service procurement ... 799–800
 - Services for postsecondary students ... 730

Horne, Fred (PC, Edmonton-Rutherford; Minister of Health) (continued)

Ministry of Health

Information requests under FOIP from ... 600, 602–3
 Supplementary supply estimates 2013-2014, no. 2,
 debate ... 75, 78–79

Misericordia community hospital

Capital needs ... 111–12, 256–57, 410, 413–14

Oral Question Period (current session topics)

Abuse of seniors in care ... 243
 Acute health care in Consort ... 539
 Alberta Health Services administration costs ... 306
 Alberta Health Services consulting contracts ... 371–
 72, 374–75, 387, 391–92, 411–12
 Alberta Health Services executive compensation ... 292
 Assisted reproductive technology policy ... 690
 Cabinet travel to Grand Prairie ... 240
 Cancer incidence and treatment ... 393
 Cancer prevention and treatment ... 248
 Cardston hospital renovation ... 259
 Care facility restrictions on family member visits ...
 770, 796
 Continuity in health care ... 261
 Continuity of care for children at risk ... 728
 Dementia and mental health services ... 686
 Dialysis service for Strathcona County residents ...
 773–74
 Emergency medical dispatch services ... 96
 Family care clinics ... 54–55, 724
 FOIP request process ... 600
 Fort Chipewyan cancer incidence ... 390–91
 Government airplane usage ... 164, 201
 Government communications budget ... 372–73
 Government spending ... 376
 Health care budget oversight ... 768–69
 Health care performance indicators ... 409–10
 Health care performance measures ... 600
 Health care spending ... 392–93
 Health care system information reporting ... 602–3
 Health care wait times ... 607–8
 Health facilities in Strathmore ... 97
 Health services in Slave Lake ... 14
 Home care ... 416
 Infrastructure maintenance and repair ... 294–95
 Long-term care beds ... 325–26
 Loyalty program prohibition for prescription drugs
 ... 606–7, 772–73
 Lyme disease ... 98, 773
 Medical laboratory services contract ... 241–42
 Mental health service procurement for adults ... 799–
 800
 Misericordia community hospital ... 111–12, 256–
 57, 413–14
 Mobile dialysis service ... 117
 Organ and tissue donation ... 391
 Organ donor registry ... 540
 Pharmaceutical information network ... 379
 Physiotherapy services for seniors ... 17
 Postsecondary education funding ... 730
 Prescription drug coverage ... 59–60
 Primary health care ... 323
 Primary health care delivery ... 729
 Protection of persons in care ... 257
 Regional dialysis service ... 408
 Rural emergency medical services ... 170
 Seniors' drug coverage ... 95
 Strathcona community hospital ... 412
 In vitro fertilization funding ... 726–27

Horne, Fred (PC, Edmonton-Rutherford; Minister of Health) (continued)

Organ and tissue donation

Donor registry ... 391, 540

Organ and tissue transplantation

Oversight of services ... 391

Persons in care

Abuse investigations ... 257

Physician Compensation Committee

Mandate ... 79

Physicians

Compensation, fee for service ... 79

Internationally trained, accreditation process for ...
 608

Services agreement, funding ... 79

Physicians – Education

Family and community medicine, promotion of ...
 323

Physicians – Slave Lake

Recruitment and retention ... 14, 54–55

Primary care (medicine)

Capacity issues ... 323

General remarks ... 724, 729

Primary care networks

Funding ... 78

General remarks ... 79–80, 607–8

Privilege (current session)

Misleading the House (use of government airplanes)
 (not proceeded with) ... 214–15

Regional Health Authorities Act

Amendments proposed re ministerial oversight of health care budget ... 745

Seniors

Benefit program, drug coverage ... 59–60, 75, 95

Elder abuse strategy ... 243

Physiotherapy services ... 17

South Health Campus

Funding ... 78

Statutes Amendment Act, 2014 (Bill 12)

Second reading ... 745

Strathcona community hospital

Services provided ... 412, 773–74

Strathmore community hospital

Redevelopment plan ... 97

Supplementary supply estimates 2013-2014, no. 2

Estimates debated ... 75, 78–80

Surgery procedures

Wait times ... 409

Surgery procedures – Orthopaedics

Screening process ... 79–80

Wainwright health centre

Condition of facility ... 295

Horner, Doug (PC, Spruce Grove-St. Albert; President of Treasury Board and Minister of Finance)

Aboriginal peoples

Programs and services ... 106

Access to the future fund

Unfreezing of fund ... 104

Agriculture and food innovation fund

Funding, transfer from Alberta heritage savings trust fund ... 217

General remarks ... 47, 48, 105

Alberta – History

Klein administration ... 233, 272

Lougheed administration, endowment establishment
 ... 233

Alberta – Population

Population growth ... 102, 103

Horner, Doug (PC, Spruce Grove-St. Albert; President of Treasury Board and Minister of Finance) (continued)

- Alberta Energy Regulator
 - Funding ... 69
- Alberta Environmental Monitoring, Evaluation and Reporting Agency
 - Funding ... 106
- Alberta Environmental Monitoring Board
 - Funding ... 106
- Alberta future fund
 - Fund utilization ... 217, 308–9
 - General remarks ... 47, 48, 105
- Alberta heritage fund for medical research
 - General remarks ... 48
 - Research funded ... 233
- Alberta heritage savings trust fund
 - Estimated value of fund if 30 per cent of nonrenewable resource revenue had been transferred since 1976 (Written Question 7: defeated) ... 438–39
 - Fund utilization ... 48, 217, 234
 - Net income of fund ... 48
 - Transfer to scholarship fund ... 48
 - Value of fund ... 105
- Alberta heritage scholarship fund
 - Enhancement for skilled trades promotion ... 47–48
 - General remarks ... 105, 233
- Alberta ingenuity fund
 - General remarks ... 233
- Alberta Securities Commission
 - Oversight of derivatives market ... 218
- Alberta Union of Provincial Employees
 - Meetings with Finance minister on Bill 9 ... 714
- Anthony Henday Drive
 - Completion ... 103
- Appropriation Act, 2014 (Bill 8)
 - First reading ... 488
 - Second reading ... 519–20
 - Third reading ... 610–12
- Appropriation (Interim Supply) Act, 2014 (Bill 5)
 - First reading ... 119
 - Second reading ... 174
 - Third reading ... 230
- Appropriation (Supplementary Supply) Act, 2014 (Bill 2)
 - First reading ... 84
 - Third reading ... 218
- Auditor General
 - Audit committee ... 266
 - Mandate ... 265–66
 - Remarks on budget documents ... 604, 663
- Bitumen – Upgrading
 - North West project cost ... 668–69
- Bonds
 - International sales ... 325
- Brewing industry
 - Tax rates for small brewers, documents on proposed amendments to (Motion for a Return 5: defeated) ... 444
- Budget 2013-2014
 - General remarks ... 102, 105
- Budget 2014-2015
 - Advertising ... 426–27
 - Budget documents, financial reporting methods ... 429, 604, 663
 - Budget documents, financial reporting methods, Auditor General's remarks on ... 604, 663
 - Budget preparation ... 320
 - Operational funding ... 105

Horner, Doug (PC, Spruce Grove-St. Albert; President of Treasury Board and Minister of Finance) (continued)

- Budget 2014-2015 (continued)
 - Operational surplus ... 102–3, 109–10
 - Public consultation, online prebudget survey results (Motion for a Return 1: defeated) ... 443
- Budget Address
 - Address presented (Government Motion 11) ... 102–6
- Budget officer (proposed)
 - Other jurisdictions ... 266
- Budget process
 - Balanced/deficit budgets ... 69, 610
 - Results-based budgeting ... 105, 106
 - Supplementary supply, government use of ... 69
- Building Alberta plan
 - General remarks ... 103
- Business plan, provincial
 - Plan tabled ... 101–2
- Calgary Chamber of Commerce
 - Remarks on provincial budget office ... 266
- Capital plan
 - Funding ... 610
 - Funding from supplementary supply ... 2
 - General remarks ... 103
 - Infrastructure financing, borrowing ... 69, 103–4, 109–10, 266–67, 312–13, 610–12
- Children
 - Programs and services ... 104
- Children – Protective services
 - Funding for intervention services ... 104
- Committee of Supply (government expenditures)
 - Supplementary supply estimates 2012-2013, no. 2, considered for 6 hours on March 5, 2014 (Government Motion 6: carried) ... 25
 - Supplementary supply estimates 2013-2014, no. 2, referred to (Government Motion 5: carried) ... 25
- Committee on Alberta's Economic Future, Standing Bill 9, Public Sector Pension Plans Amendment Act, 2014, referral to committee, motion on (Horner: carried) ... 717–18
- Bill 10, Employment Pension (Private Sector) Plans Amendment Act, 2014, referral to committee, motion on (Horner: carried) ... 718
- Committee on Public Accounts, Standing Mandate ... 265
- Daycare
 - Funding ... 104
- Debts, provincial
 - Cap on borrowing ... 610–11
 - Debt-servicing limit, calculation for 2013-2014 (Written Question 8: defeated) ... 439–40
 - Former Finance ministers' remarks ... 429
 - General remarks ... 109
 - Repayment ... 104
- Drugs, prescription
 - Supplemental health benefits ... 104
- Economic development
 - Diversification ... 106
- Economy
 - 2008 global downturn ... 218
 - Economic indicators ... 102
- Education – Finance
 - Funding ... 104
- Employment Pension (Private Sector) Plans Amendment Act, 2014 (Bill 10)
 - First reading ... 484–85
 - Second reading ... 522, 583, 584
 - Second reading, motion to not now read (reasoned amendment) (Mason: defeated) ... 589–91

Horner, Doug (PC, Spruce Grove-St. Albert; President of Treasury Board and Minister of Finance) (continued)
 Employment Pension (Private Sector) Plans Amendment Act, 2014 (Bill 10) (continued)
 Motion under Standing Order 78.1 to refer bill to Standing Committee on Alberta's Economic Future (Horner: carried) ... 718
 Plan conversion provisions ... 590
 Energy industries
 Market development ... 106
 Energy industries – Environmental aspects
 Provincial strategy ... 106
 Environmental trusts
 Governing legislation ... 106
 Estimates of supply, main (procedure)
 Budget Address (Government Motion 11) ... 102–6
 Documents tabled ... 101–2
 Transmittal ... 101
 Executive Council
 Supplementary supply estimates 2013-2014, no. 2, debate ... 68
 Family care clinics
 General remarks ... 103, 104
 Fiscal plan, provincial
 Update ... 25
 Fiscal policy
 Endowment fund use ... 610
 General remarks ... 519–20
 Government savings ... 105, 234
 Flood damage mitigation
 Federal funding grants ... 792
 Floods – Southern Alberta
 Disaster recovery program, funding for ... 104
 Foster care
 Programs and services ... 104
 Freedom of Information and Protection of Privacy Act (FOIP Act)
 Information request process ... 664
 Government accountability
 Financial reporting ... 69–70, 439–40
 Government airplanes
 Cabinet travel to Grande Prairie fundraising event ... 203, 204
 Cabinet travel to Grande Prairie fundraising event, clarification ... 216
 Comparison to charter or commercial flights ... 463
 Ministers' travel to Edmonton ... 254
 Usage policy ... 54, 92, 163–64, 201, 203, 204, 254, 426, 462–63
 Usage policy, Auditor General review ... 54, 426
 Usage policy, other jurisdictions ... 426
 Usage policy, point of order on debate ... 216
 Use of multiple planes ... 165
 Government grant programs
 History of endowments ... 233
 Grain – Transportation
 Rail transportation backlog, members' statements on, use of Alberta heritage savings trust fund to purchase rail cars ... 48
 Health care – Finance
 Base operating grant ... 104
 Funding ... 104
 Health facilities
 Funding ... 103
 Health promotion
 Provincial wellness strategy ... 104
 Highway 63
 Twinning ... 103

Horner, Doug (PC, Spruce Grove-St. Albert; President of Treasury Board and Minister of Finance) (continued)
 Income support program
 Funding ... 104
 Independent Budget Officer Act (Bill 202)
 Second reading ... 265–67
 International investment
 Provincial strategy ... 325
 International trade
 Market development ... 106
 Introduction of Guests (school groups, individuals) ... 7, 87
 Kaye Edmonton Clinic
 Funding ... 104
 Labour force planning
 General remarks ... 106
 Métis
 Programs and services ... 106
 Ministry of Aboriginal Relations
 Supplementary supply estimates 2013-2014, no. 2, debate ... 68
 Ministry of Culture
 Supplementary supply estimates 2013-2014, no. 2, debate ... 68
 Ministry of Education
 Operational funding ... 104
 Supplementary supply estimates 2013-2014, no. 2, debate ... 68, 70
 Ministry of Energy
 Supplementary supply estimates 2013-2014, no. 2, debate ... 68, 69–70
 Ministry of Environment and Sustainable Resource Development
 Operational funding ... 106
 Supplementary supply estimates 2013-2014, no. 2, debate ... 68
 Ministry of Health
 Operational funding ... 104
 Supplementary supply estimates 2013-2014, no. 2, debate ... 68
 Ministry of Human Services
 Operational funding ... 104
 Supplementary supply estimates 2013-2014, no. 2, debate ... 68, 70
 Ministry of Infrastructure
 Supplementary supply estimates 2013-2014, no. 2, debate ... 68
 Ministry of Innovation and Advanced Education
 Operational funding ... 104
 Ministry of International and Intergovernmental Relations
 Minister's use of government airplanes ... 254
 Ministry of Municipal Affairs
 Supplementary supply estimates 2013-2014, no. 2, debate ... 68
 Ministry of Service Alberta
 Supplementary supply estimates 2013-2014, no. 2, debate ... 68
 Ministry of Tourism, Parks and Recreation
 Supplementary supply estimates 2013-2014, no. 2, debate ... 68
 Ministry of Transportation
 Supplementary supply estimates 2013-2014, no. 2, debate ... 68
 Ministry of Treasury Board and Finance
 Assistant deputy minister's remarks on budget documents ... 663
 Municipal sustainability initiative
 Funding ... 103

Horner, Doug (PC, Spruce Grove-St. Albert; President of Treasury Board and Minister of Finance) (continued)
 Office of the Premier
 Premier Redford's travel expenses ... 53
 Premier Redford's travel to Jasper ... 426
 Premier Redford's travel to South Africa, repayment (proposed) ... 203
 Oral Question Period (current session topics)
 Alberta future fund ... 308–9
 Budget 2014 ... 320
 Cabinet air travel expenses ... 165
 Calgary southwest ring road cost ... 295
 Federal funding programs ... 792
 FOIP request process ... 664
 Government advertising ... 426–27
 Government airplane usage ... 163–64, 201, 203–4, 254, 426, 463
 International investment ... 325
 North West upgrader project ... 668–69
 Premier Redford's travel expenses ... 53–54, 92
 Primary health care ... 323
 Provincial borrowing ... 109–10
 Provincial budget ... 429
 Provincial budget documents ... 604, 663
 Provincial debt ... 312–13
 Provincial fiscal policies ... 13
 Public service compensation ... 92
 Public service pension plan amendment bill ... 665
 Public service pensions ... 15, 93, 299, 324, 463–64, 466, 507–8, 510, 533, 536–37, 601
 Public transit funding ... 167, 205
 Social innovation fund ... 58
 Women's issues ... 668
 Workforce planning ... 113
 Organ and tissue donation
 Funding for tissue and blood services ... 104
 Persons with developmental disabilities
 Programs and services, funding ... 104
 Peter Lougheed Leadership Institute
 University of Alberta-Banff Centre project ... 105
 Physicians
 Compensation ... 104
 Physicians – Education
 Medical student development program ... 104
 Points of order (current session)
 Inflammatory language ... 272
 Referring to nonmembers, clarification ... 216
 Postsecondary educational institutions – Finance
 Funding ... 104
 Primary care networks
 General remarks ... 104
 Public safety
 Provincial strategy ... 105
 Public Sector Pension Plans Amendment Act, 2014 (Bill 9)
 First reading ... 484
 Second reading ... 520–21, 553–54
 Second reading, motion to refer bill to Standing Committee on Alberta's Economic Future (referral amendment RA1) (Notley: defeated) ... 655–57, 711
 Second reading, motion to not now read (6-month hoist amendment H1) (Kang: defeated) ... 714
 Motion under Standing Order 78.1 to refer bill to Standing Committee on Alberta's Economic Future (Horner: carried) ... 717–18
 Overview ... 520–21
 Public consultation (proposed) ... 665
 Public service
 Compensation ... 105

Horner, Doug (PC, Spruce Grove-St. Albert; President of Treasury Board and Minister of Finance) (continued)
 Public service – Pensions
 Comparison with other jurisdictions ... 520, 554, 590–91, 656–57
 Contribution rates, cap on ... 521, 656
 General remarks ... 15, 92, 93, 299, 324, 463–64, 507–8, 510, 601
 Governance ... 521
 Joint sponsorship (proposed) ... 553
 Proposed changes, impact on women ... 668
 Provincial liabilities ... 655–56
 Sustainability ... 446, 533, 536–37, 664, 584
 Public transit
 GreenTRIP incentives program ... 167, 205
 GreenTRIP incentives program, funding ... 103
 Public transit – Calgary
 GreenTRIP funding ... 205
 Public transit – Edmonton
 LRT expansion ... 167
 Revenue
 Increase in ... 69, 110
 Nonrenewable resource revenue ... 103
 Tax revenue ... 102–3
 Ring roads – Calgary
 Southwest portion ... 103
 Southwest portion cost ... 295
 Road construction – Finance
 Funding ... 103
 Roads – Maintenance and repair
 Provincial strategy ... 103
 Royal Canadian Mounted Police
 Provincial contract, 2014–2015 funding ... 105
 Savings Management Act (Bill 1)
 Second reading ... 47–48
 Third reading ... 217–18, 233–34
 General remarks ... 13, 105
 Schools – Construction
 Modernizations ... 103
 New schools ... 103
 Schools – St. Paul
 Vehicle crash, members' travel to ... 201, 204
 Vehicle crash, members' travel to, clarification ... 216
 Securities Amendment Act, 2014 (Bill 3)
 First reading ... 62
 Third reading ... 218
 Seniors
 Benefit program ... 104
 Benefit program, drug coverage ... 104
 Social innovation fund
 Funding, transfer from Alberta heritage savings trust fund ... 217
 Funding through bonds (proposed) ... 58, 217
 General remarks ... 47, 48, 105
 Purpose of fund ... 233–34
 South Health Campus
 Funding ... 104
 Strategic plan, provincial
 Plan tabled ... 101–2
 Supplementary supply estimates 2013–2014, no. 2
 Estimates debated ... 68–70
 Considered for 6 hours on March 5, 2014 (Government Motion 6: carried) ... 25
 Estimates referred to Committee of Supply (Government Motion 5: carried) ... 25
 Flood-related expenses ... 69
 Transmittal ... 25

Horner, Doug (PC, Spruce Grove-St. Albert; President of Treasury Board and Minister of Finance) (continued)

- Tax policy
 - Credits for children's sports and physical activity ... 323
 - Provincial strategy ... 610
- Tax Statutes Amendment Act, 2014 (Bill 7)
 - First reading ... 417
 - Second reading ... 488
 - Third reading ... 523, 657
- Travel at public expense
 - Expense policy ... 54
- Women's equality
 - Economic security ... 668

Hughes, Ken (PC, Calgary-West; Minister of Municipal Affairs to April 7, 2014)

- Alberta Energy Regulator
 - Funding ... 74
- Cities and towns
 - Civic charters, framework agreement ... 259
- Flood damage mitigation
 - Erosion control program ... 247
 - Funding ... 82
 - General remarks ... 71
 - Preparation for spring flooding ... 247
- Flood damage mitigation – Sundre
 - General remarks ... 71
- Floodplains
 - Mapping ... 169–70, 321
- Floods
 - Advisory and warning system ... 247
- Floods – Calgary
 - Disaster recovery program claims, buyouts ... 307
- Floods – Fort McMurray-Wood Buffalo (constituency)
 - Disaster recovery program ... 76
 - Disaster recovery program, federal funding ... 76–77
- Floods – High River
 - Disaster recovery program claims ... 203, 205, 293
 - Flood-related buyouts in Beachwood Estates ... 320–21
- Floods – Southern Alberta
 - Communications contracts ... 307–8, 321
 - Disaster recovery program, administration costs ... 293
 - Disaster recovery program claims ... 170, 202–3, 205, 240–41, 254–55, 293
 - Disaster recovery program contracts ... 170
- Introduction of Guests (school groups, individuals) ... 7–8, 161, 598
- Introduction of Visitors (visiting dignitaries)
 - Former Member for Calgary-West and cabinet minister, federal Conservative nominee for Calgary Signal Hill ... 505
- LandLink Consulting Ltd.
 - Disaster relief contract ... 170, 202–3
 - Transitional contract ... 255
- Ministry of Energy
 - Supplementary supply estimates 2013-2014, no. 2, debate ... 74
- Ministry of Environment and Sustainable Resource Development
 - Departmental flood mitigation project approval ... 247
 - Supplementary supply estimates 2013-2014, no. 2, debate ... 71, 76–77
 - Supplementary supply estimates 2013-2014, no. 2, operational and capital funding, debate ... 82
- Ministry of Municipal Affairs
 - Supplementary supply estimates 2013-2014, no. 2, debate ... 71, 76–77

Hughes, Ken (PC, Calgary-West; Minister of Municipal Affairs to April 7, 2014) (continued)

- Municipal sustainability initiative
 - Funding for public transportation ... 57
 - Municipalities – Finance
 - Flood recovery erosion control funding ... 247
 - Infrastructure funding ... 171
 - Oral Question Period (current session topics)
 - Disaster recovery program administration ... 293
 - Disaster recovery program claims ... 202–3, 205, 240–41, 254–55, 307
 - Flood recovery and mitigation ... 169–70
 - Flood recovery communications contracts ... 307–8, 321
 - Flood-related buyouts in High River ... 320–21
 - Municipal charters ... 259
 - Municipal funding ... 171
 - Provincial budget ... 110
 - Public transit funding ... 56–57, 167–68, 205
 - Spring flood mitigation ... 247
 - Public transit
 - GreenTRIP incentives program ... 57, 171
 - Provincial strategy ... 56–57
 - Public transit – Calgary
 - LRT expansion ... 110
 - Public transit – Edmonton
 - LRT expansion ... 56–57, 110, 167–68
 - Supplementary supply estimates 2013-2014, no. 2
 - Estimates debated ... 71, 74, 76–77, 81–82
 - Flood-related expenses ... 71, 76–77
- Jablonski, Mary Anne (PC, Red Deer-North)
See also Deputy Chair of Committees (Jablonski, Mary Anne)
- Armenia
 - Genocide, members' statements on ... 483, 682
 - Childhood Vision Assessment Act (Bill 203)
 - First reading ... 249
 - Second reading ... 352–53, 449–50
 - Amendments proposed by the Alberta Association of Optometrists ... 352–53
 - General remarks ... 314–15
 - Criminal Code (federal)
 - Impaired driving provisions ... 296
 - Drugs, prescription
 - Comprehensive coverage ... 59–60
 - Eye See ... Eye Learn
 - General remarks ... 352
 - Impaired driving
 - Deaths, members' statements on Jonathon David Wood ... 53
 - Repeat offenders, penalties for ... 296
 - Introduction of Guests (school groups, individuals) ... 52, 88, 237, 335, 352
 - Introduction of Visitors (visiting dignitaries)
 - Representatives from the House of Assembly and the Legislative Council of Western Australia ... 423
 - Members' Statements (current session)
 - Armenian genocide ... 483
 - Armenian genocide anniversary ... 682
 - Jonathon David Wood ... 53
 - Marlin Styner ... 238–39
 - Red Deer College athletics achievements ... 348
 - Vision assessments for schoolchildren ... 314–15
 - Oral Question Period (current session topics)
 - Penalties for drinking and driving ... 296
 - Prescription drug coverage ... 59–60
 - Seniors' lodges ... 511
 - Temporary foreign worker program ... 727–28

Jablonski, Mary Anne (PC, Red Deer-North) (continued)

- Persons with disabilities
 - Members' statements on Marlin Styner ... 238–39
- Red Deer College
 - Athletic achievements, members' statements on ... 348
- Seniors
 - Benefit program, drug coverage ... 59–60
- Supportive living accommodations
 - Seniors' lodges ... 511
- Temporary foreign workers
 - Moratorium on food service industry permits ... 727–28
 - Program abuses and misuses ... 727–28
- Vision care
 - Vision assessments for schoolchildren, members' statements on ... 314–15

Jansen, Sandra (PC, Calgary-North West; Associate Minister – Family and Community Safety)

- Agricultural Pests (Fusarium Head Blight) Amendment Act, 2014 (Bill 201)
 - Second reading ... 131–32
- Agriculture – Research
 - General remarks ... 131–32
- Alberta Innovates – Bio Solutions
 - Research activities ... 131–32
- Basil
 - Fusarium presence ... 131
- Bills, government (procedure)
 - Omnibus bills/statute amendment acts ... 772
- Bullying – Prevention
 - General remarks ... 16
- Child, Youth and Family Enhancement Amendment Act, 2014 (Bill 11)
 - Second reading ... 623–25
 - Support for bill ... 624–25
- Child and Family Services Council for Quality Assurance
 - Mandate ... 624
- Child and Youth Advocate
 - Investigations ... 624
- Children – Protective services
 - Child intervention system, 5-point plan ... 624
 - Deaths and injuries, investigation of ... 624
 - Deaths and injuries, publication ban on names ... 624
- Employment
 - Opportunities for women ... 668
- Fusarium head blight – Management
 - Fusarium-resistant seed strains ... 131
- Gay, lesbian, bisexual, or transgender persons
 - Protection of rights ... 512
- Gay-straight alliances in schools
 - School board policies, legislation on (Motion Other than Government Motion 503: defeated) ... 366–67
 - Student requests for ... 512
- Government airplanes
 - Usage policy ... 426
- Information and Privacy Commissioner
 - Response to Bill 12, Statutes Amendment Act, 2014 ... 772
- Mandatory Reporting of Child Pornography Act
 - Proclamation, timeline on ... 61
- Ministry of Human Services
 - Associate Minister of Family and Community Safety's remarks to news media ... 324–25
 - Associate Minister of Family and Community Safety's travel with daughter ... 426
- Oral Question Period (current session topics)
 - Associate Minister of Family and Community Safety's remarks ... 324–25

Jansen, Sandra (PC, Calgary-North West; Associate Minister – Family and Community Safety) (continued)

- Oral Question Period (current session topics) (continued)
 - Bullying prevention ... 16
 - Government airplane usage ... 426
 - LGBTQ rights ... 512
 - Public safety legislation ... 61
 - Statutes Amendment Act, 2014 ... 772
 - Women's issues ... 668
- School Act
 - Inclusive education provisions ... 366
- Statutes Amendment Act, 2014 (Bill 12)
 - Consultation with LGBTQ community ... 772
- Tradespeople
 - Associate Minister of Family and Community Safety's remarks ... 324–25
- Wages – Women
 - Comparison to men ... 668
- Women's equality
 - Economic security ... 668

Jeneroux, Matt (PC, Edmonton-South West)

- Agricultural Pests (Fusarium Head Blight) Amendment Act, 2014 (Bill 201)
 - Second reading ... 129–30
- Alberta Fusarium Action Committee
 - General remarks ... 129–30
- Alberta Youth Secretariat
 - Youth engagement think tank, members' statements on ... 100
- Daycare
 - Members' statements ... 407
 - Provincial strategy ... 464–65
- Education – Curricula
 - Curriculum redesign ... 344
- Introduction of Guests (school groups, individuals) ... 405, 529, 530, 659
- Members' Statements (current session)
 - Daycare ... 407
 - Youth engagement think tank ... 100
- Mental health services
 - Services for postsecondary students ... 730
- Oral Question Period (current session topics)
 - Daycare ... 464–65
 - Education initiatives ... 343–44
 - Postsecondary education funding ... 730
 - Public transit funding ... 167
- Postsecondary educational institutions – Admissions (enrolment)
 - Promotion to secondary students, Learning Clicks program ... 730
- Postsecondary educational institutions – Finance
 - Funding ... 730
- Public transit
 - GreenTRIP incentives program ... 167
- Public transit – Edmonton
 - LRT expansion ... 167
- Schools – Construction
 - New schools ... 343–44
- Schools – Edmonton
 - Growth pressures ... 343–44

Johnson, Jeff (PC, Athabasca-Sturgeon-Redwater; Minister of Education)

- Aboriginal children – Education
 - Memorandum of understanding, progress on (Written Question 12: accepted as amended) ... 441
 - Provincial strategy ... 395
- Alberta Human Rights Act
 - Application in schools ... 344–45

Johnson, Jeff (PC, Athabasca-Sturgeon-Redwater; Minister of Education) (continued)

- Bullying – Prevention
 - General remarks ... 16, 374
 - School initiatives ... 410
- Calgary board of education
 - Capital plan ... 297
- Canadian Charter of Rights and Freedoms
 - Application in schools ... 344–45
- Childhood Vision Assessment Act (Bill 203)
 - Second reading ... 356–57
- Children with special needs – Education
 - General remarks ... 81
- Class size (elementary and secondary schools)
 - General remarks ... 261–62
- Committee on Families and Communities, Standing
 - Report on Irlen Syndrome Testing Act, recommendations ... 356
- Early childhood education
 - Full-day kindergarten, cost of (Written Question 3: defeated) ... 438
 - Funding ... 80–81
- Edmonton
 - Elevate report on community sustainability ... 429
- Edmonton Catholic school board
 - Community schools in mature neighbourhoods ... 297
- Education
 - Parental choice ... 356–57
- Education – Curricula
 - Curriculum redesign ... 13, 168, 169, 207–8, 242, 309–10, 344, 430
 - Life skills component ... 415
 - Mathematics curriculum ... 13, 57, 91, 164–65, 292–93, 430
- Education Act
 - Inclusive education provisions ... 362, 363
- Employment
 - Life skills education and training ... 415
- Energy industries
 - Corporate participation in curriculum development ... 169, 207–8
- Eye See ... Eye Learn
 - General remarks ... 356
- Gay, lesbian, bisexual, or transgender persons
 - Supports for students ... 344–45, 374, 390, 394, 431
- Gay-straight alliances in schools
 - School board policies, legislation on (Motion Other than Government Motion 503: defeated) ... 362–63
 - Student requests for ... 374, 390, 394, 410
- Heritage Christian Academy
 - Student code of conduct ... 345
- Inspiring Education (report)
 - Recommendations ... 242, 310
- Introduction of Guests (school groups, individuals) ... 200, 238, 423
- Introduction of Visitors (visiting dignitaries)
 - Former Member for Athabasca-Lac La Biche, Athabasca-Wabasca, Athabasca-Redwater ... 161
 - Representatives from four Canadian Forces troops that served in Afghanistan ... 199
- Kidney dialysis – Athabasca
 - Access to services ... 408
- Ministry of Education
 - Funding ... 111
 - Supplementary supply estimates 2013-2014, no. 2, debate ... 72, 80–81

Johnson, Jeff (PC, Athabasca-Sturgeon-Redwater; Minister of Education) (continued)

- Oral Question Period (current session topics)
 - Bullying prevention ... 16
 - Calgary school infrastructure ... 297
 - Edmonton's Elevate report ... 429
 - Education initiatives ... 344
 - Education performance measures ... 261–62
 - Educational curriculum redesign ... 168–69, 207–8, 242, 309–10, 430
 - Gift Lake school ... 395
 - LGBTQ student supports ... 344–45, 374, 390, 394
 - Life skills education and training ... 415
 - Mathematics curriculum ... 13, 57, 91, 164–65, 292–93
 - Provincial budget ... 111
 - Regional dialysis service ... 408
 - School codes of conduct ... 430–31
 - School construction in Calgary ... 94
 - School growth pressures in Calgary ... 257
 - Student gay-straight alliance requests ... 410
 - Private schools
 - Funding ... 72, 80–81
 - School boards
 - Mandate on bullying prevention ... 16
 - Schoolchildren – Transportation
 - School bus costs per student, 2012-2013 and 2013-2014 (Written Question 14: accepted as amended) ... 442
 - Schools
 - Codes of conduct ... 430–31
 - Sustainability in mature communities ... 429
 - Schools – Construction
 - Modernizations ... 72, 80
 - New schools ... 72, 80, 94, 344
 - Portable classroom availability ... 257
 - Public-private partnerships (P3) ... 80
 - Schools – Construction – Calgary
 - Flood-related construction ... 72
 - Growth pressures ... 257
 - Infrastructure needs ... 297
 - New school construction ... 94
 - Schools – Construction – Gift Lake
 - Timeline on new school ... 395
 - Schools – Edmonton
 - Growth pressures ... 344
 - School closures ... 297
 - Schools – Three Hills
 - Prairie Christian Academy, staff code of conduct ... 430–31
 - Supplementary supply estimates 2013-2014, no. 2
 - Estimates debated ... 72, 80–81
 - Teachers
 - Statistics for public and separate schools, 2012-2013 and 2013-2014 (Written Question 13: accepted as amended) ... 442
 - Vision care
 - Low-vision clinics... 356
- Johnson, Linda (PC, Calgary-Glenmore)
- Agriculture – Research
 - Genetics research ... 540
 - Calgary
 - Former city councillor Sue Higgins, memorial tribute, members' statements on ... 397
 - Cancer
 - Toupee for a Day awareness event, members' statements on ... 61

Johnson, Linda (PC, Calgary-Glenmore) (continued)

- Childhood Vision Assessment Act (Bill 203)
 - Second reading ... 359–60
- Education
 - Members' statements ... 210
- Eye See ... Eye Learn
 - General remarks ... 359
- Flood damage mitigation – Calgary
 - Southwest ring road ... 98
- Floods – High River
 - Temporary communities ... 537–38
- Floods – Southern Alberta
 - Temporary communities ... 537–38
- Genetics – Research
 - Members' statements ... 540
- Genome Alberta
 - General remarks ... 540
- Infants
 - Vision screening ... 359–60
- Introduction of Guests (school groups, individuals)
 - ... 51, 253, 386
- Kinship care
 - Child placement process ... 465–66
- Members' Statements (current session)
 - Education system ... 210
 - Genetics research ... 540
 - Pipeline development ... 117–18
 - Sue Higgins ... 397
 - Toupee for a Day ... 61
 - Volunteers ... 349
- Oral Question Period (current session topics)
 - Calgary southwest ring road ... 98
 - Flood-related temporary housing ... 537–38
 - Innovation system ... 731
 - Kinship care ... 465–66
 - Public service pensions ... 299
- Pipelines – Construction
 - Enbridge line 9B reversal ... 117
 - Keystone XL pipeline project ... 117–18
 - Members' statements ... 117–18
 - TransCanada Energy East pipeline project ... 117
- Public service – Pensions
 - General remarks ... 299
- Research and development
 - Innovation initiatives ... 731
- Ring roads – Calgary
 - Southwest portion ... 98
- Vision care
 - Screening framework, preschool children ... 359–60
- Volunteers
 - Members' statements ... 349

Kalagian-Jablonski, Mary Anne

See Jablonski, Mary Anne (PC, Red Deer-North)

Kang, Darshan S. (AL, Calgary-McCall)

- Child, Youth and Family Enhancement Amendment Act, 2014 (Bill 11)
 - Committee ... 757
 - Committee amendment A6 (publication ban requests, public interest consideration) (Towle: carried unanimously) ... 757
- Freedom of Information and Protection of Privacy (MLA Public Interest Fee Waiver) Amendment Act, 2014 (Bill 204)
 - Second reading ... 695
- Housing
 - Home inspectors for resale properties, complaints against (Written Question 17: accepted) ... 436

Kang, Darshan S. (AL, Calgary-McCall) (continued)

- Housing (continued)
 - Home inspectors for resale properties, licence revocations (Written Question 18: accepted) ... 436
 - Home inspectors for resale properties, statistics on (Written Question 16: accepted) ... 436
- Information and Privacy Commissioner
 - Report on government travel, meal, and hospitality expense policy, information on (Written Question 5: accepted) ... 436
- Open-data portal
 - Statistics (Written Question 29: accepted) ... 437
- Public Sector Pension Plans Amendment Act, 2014 (Bill 9)
 - Second reading, motion to refer bill to Standing Committee on Alberta's Economic Future (referral amendment RA1) (Notley: defeated) ... 711
 - Second reading, motion to not now read (6-month hoist amendment H1) (Kang: defeated) ... 712
- Registry services
 - Online portal implementation, documents on (Motion for a Return 4: defeated) ... 443
- Kennedy-Glans, Donna, QC (Ind. effective March 17, 2014; previously PC; Calgary-Varsity; Associate Minister – Electricity and Renewable Energy to March 17, 2014)
 - Alberta future fund
 - Fund utilization ... 308–9, 567
 - Alberta Utilities Commission
 - Response to report on TransAlta electric power economic withholding/market manipulation ... 14, 15–16, 56, 112–13
 - Appropriation Act, 2014 (Bill 8)
 - Committee ... 566–67
 - Budget process
 - 3-year cycle ... 566
 - Results-based budgeting ... 567
 - Cogeneration of electric power and heat
 - General remarks ... 510
 - Debts, provincial
 - Borrowing for capital spending ... 566
 - Dementia
 - Patient care, funding for ... 686
 - Provincial strategy ... 686
 - Electric power
 - Renewable sources ... 510
 - Electric power – Prices
 - Consumer protection ... 166
 - Electric power – Retail sales
 - Corporations' economic withholding/market manipulation ... 14–15, 58, 112–13, 168–69
 - Corporations' economic withholding/market manipulation, investigation by Market Surveillance Administrator ... 14–16, 56, 58, 166
 - Corporations' economic withholding/market manipulation, investigation by RCMP re criminal charges (proposed) ... 16, 56
 - Corporations' economic withholding/market manipulation, point of privilege raised on debate (intimidation) ... 212
 - Energy efficiency
 - Public awareness ... 411
 - Energy industries – Regulation
 - Greenhouse gas emissions ... 411
 - Government
 - Public consultation, review of procedure (proposed) ... 715–16

Kennedy-Glans, Donna, QC (Ind. effective March 17, 2014; previously PC; Calgary-Varsity; Associate Minister – Electricity and Renewable Energy to March 17, 2014) (continued)

- Greenhouse gas emissions
 - Reduction strategies, carbon dioxide ... 411
- Highway 63
 - Capital plan ... 566–67
- Introduction of Guests (school groups, individuals) ... 89
- Long-term care facilities (nursing homes/auxiliary hospitals)
 - Funding for residents with dementia and/or mental health issues ... 686
- Long-term care facilities (nursing homes/auxiliary hospitals) – Construction
 - Designs to accommodate residents with dementia and/or mental health issues ... 686
- Members of the Legislative Assembly
 - Parliamentary privilege ... 212
- Members' Statements (current session)
 - Deaths of Calgary students ... 483–84
- Oral Question Period (current session topics)
 - Alberta future fund ... 308–9
 - Carbon emissions reductions ... 411
 - Dementia and mental health services ... 686
 - Electricity generation from renewable sources ... 510
 - Electricity market investigation ... 14–16, 56
 - Electricity pricing ... 58, 112–13, 166, 168–69
- Postsecondary students – Calgary
 - Deaths, members' statements on ... 483–84
- Privilege (current session)
 - Intimidation (Associate Minister of Electricity and Renewable Energy's remarks on Alberta Energy Regulator mandate) (not proceeded with) ... 212
- Public-private partnerships (P3s)
 - Provincial strategy ... 566–67
- Public Sector Pension Plans Amendment Act, 2014 (Bill 9)
 - Second reading, motion to refer bill to Standing Committee on Alberta's Economic Future (referral amendment RA1) (Notley: defeated) ... 642–43
 - Second reading, motion to not now read (6-month hoist amendment H1) (Kang: defeated) ... 715–16
- Public service – Pensions
 - Sustainability ... 642–43
- Renewable energy sources
 - Alternative and renewable energy framework ... 411

Khan, Stephen (PC, St. Albert)

- Agricultural Pests (Fusarium Head Blight) Amendment Act, 2014 (Bill 201)
 - Second reading ... 127–28
- Agriculture – Research
 - Fusarium graminearum studies ... 129
- Chronic fatigue syndrome
 - Members' statements ... 516–17
 - Patient supports ... 482–83
- Committee on Resource Stewardship, Standing
 - Report of 2014-2015 estimates debate and amendments, ministries of Aboriginal Relations, Energy, Health, Environment and Sustainable Resource Development, Municipal Affairs, Transportation, Treasury Board and Finance ... 486
 - Report on monetization of natural gas presented ... 119
- Drugs, prescription
 - Loyalty/reward program participation, Alberta College of Pharmacists' change to standards of practice ... 772–73

Khan, Stephen (PC, St. Albert) (continued)

- Fusarium head blight – Management
 - Fusarium graminearum management, comparison with other jurisdictions ... 127–28
- Gas
 - Review of monetization of natural gas, report presented by the Standing Committee on Resource Stewardship ... 119
- Introduction of Guests (school groups, individuals) ... 89, 289, 505, 721, 790
- Members' Statements (current session)
 - Chronic fatigue syndrome ... 516–17
 - Family resource centre in St. Albert ... 290–91
- Ministry of Aboriginal Relations
 - Main estimates 2014-2015, Standing Committee on Resource Stewardship report on review of proposed estimates and business plan presented ... 486
- Ministry of Energy
 - Main estimates 2014-2015, Standing Committee on Resource Stewardship report on review of proposed estimates and business plan, tabling of amendments introduced ... 486
 - Main estimates 2014-2015, Standing Committee on Resource Stewardship report on review of proposed estimates and business plan presented ... 486
- Ministry of Environment and Sustainable Resource Development
 - Main estimates 2014-2015, Standing Committee on Resource Stewardship report on review of proposed estimates and business plan presented ... 486
- Ministry of Municipal Affairs
 - Main estimates 2014-2015, Standing Committee on Resource Stewardship report on review of proposed estimates and business plan, tabling of amendments introduced ... 486
 - Main estimates 2014-2015, Standing Committee on Resource Stewardship report on review of proposed estimates and business plan presented ... 486
- Ministry of Transportation
 - Main estimates 2014-2015, Standing Committee on Resource Stewardship report on review of proposed estimates and business plan presented ... 486
- Ministry of Treasury Board and Finance
 - Main estimates 2014-2015, Standing Committee on Resource Stewardship report on review of proposed estimates and business plan presented ... 486
- Oral Question Period (current session topics)
 - Chronic fatigue syndrome ... 482–83
 - Loyalty program prohibition for prescription drugs ... 772–73
 - Parenting resources in St. Albert ... 298
 - Youth emergency services ... 245–46
- Parent link centres
 - General remarks ... 298
- Pest Control Act (Saskatchewan)
 - General remarks ... 127
- Plant Pest and Diseases Act (Manitoba)
 - General remarks ... 128
- Reports presented by standing and special committees
 - Standing Committee on Resource Stewardship, review of monetization of natural gas ... 119
- St. Albert Family Resource Centre
 - Members' statements ... 290–91
 - Services provided ... 298
- Speaker
 - Birth of grandson ... 772
- Youth
 - Emergency services ... 245–46

Khan, Stephen (PC, St. Albert) (continued)

Youth – St. Albert

Emergency services ... 245–46

Klimchuk, Heather (PC, Edmonton-Glenora; Minister of Culture)

Community infrastructure program

General remarks ... 795–96

Film and television industry – Calgary

Film studio, contract award process ... 772

Government grant programs

Eligibility criteria ... 345–46

Introduction of Guests (school groups, individuals) ... 107–8, 237, 300, 721

Legislative Assembly of Alberta

French remarks ... 107–8

Major community facilities program

Program termination ... 795–96

Ministry of Culture

Supplementary supply estimates 2013-2014, no. 2, operational and capital funding, debate ... 82

Museums and heritage sites

Funding ... 82

Oral Question Period (current session topics)

Calgary film studio ... 772

Edmonton sporting event hosting capabilities ... 795

Pembina Institute funding ... 345–46

Pembina Institute

Funding ... 345–46

Philippines, The

Disaster relief, funding for ... 82

Pipelines – Construction

Funding of organizations in opposition to ... 345–46

Supplementary supply estimates 2013-2014, no. 2

Estimates debated ... 82

Kubinec, Maureen (PC, Barrhead-Morinville-Westlock)

Agricultural Pests (Fusarium Head Blight) Amendment Act, 2014 (Bill 201)

First reading ... 63

Second reading ... 123–24

Agriculture Literacy Week

Members' statements ... 62

Building Alberta plan

General remarks ... 27

Canadian Search Dog Association

Members' statements ... 671

Cemeteries Act

General remarks ... 146

Childhood Vision Assessment Act (Bill 203)

Second reading ... 444–45

Courts

Authority to issue grants for estate administration ... 146

Education

Provincial strategy ... 27

Education – Curricula

Curriculum redesign, members' statements on ... 314

Estate Administration Act (Bill 4)

First reading ... 62

Second reading ... 145–46, 193

Third reading ... 250, 329, 330

Public input ... 329

Eye See ... Eye Learn program

General remarks ... 444–45, 449

Farm produce – Export

Rail transportation needs ... 170

Freedom of Information and Protection of Privacy (MLA Public Interest Fee Waiver) Amendment Act, 2014 (Bill 204)

Second reading ... 697–98

Kubinec, Maureen (PC, Barrhead-Morinville-Westlock) (continued)

Funeral Services Act

General remarks ... 146

Government accountability

Openness and transparency ... 697–98

Grain – Transportation

Rail transportation backlog ... 170

Health Information Act

Comparison with other jurisdictions ... 709–10

Information and Privacy Commissioner

Release of information on data breaches (Motion Other than Government Motion 505: carried) ... 709–10

Information and Privacy Commissioner's office

Staff processing of FOIP requests, funding for ... 697–98

International trade

Market development ... 27

Rail transportation needs ... 170

Interprovincial/territorial trade

Market development ... 27

Introduction of Guests (school groups, individuals)

... 90, 109, 505, 761

Labour force planning

Skilled labour supply ... 27

Members' Statements (current session)

Agriculture Literacy Week ... 62

Canadian Search Dog Association ... 671

Educational curriculum redesign ... 314

Mental health services ... 425

Mental health services

Members' statements ... 425

Oral Question Period (current session topics)

Grain rail transportation backlog ... 170

Highway maintenance and rehabilitation ... 295

Provincial diploma examinations ... 469

Temporary foreign worker program moratorium ... 691

Pigs – Diseases and pests

Porcine epidemic diarrhea virus ... 123

Public service

Management positions, reduction, Official

Opposition leader's remarks on ... 698

Research and development

Provincial strategy ... 27

Roads – Maintenance and repair

Funding for rehabilitation ... 295

Highway rehabilitation, project prioritization ... 295

Social innovation fund

General remarks ... 27

Social policy framework

General remarks ... 27

Speech from the Throne

Addresses in reply (moved and seconded) ... 27

Student testing (elementary and secondary students)

High school diploma exams ... 469

Temporary foreign workers

Moratorium on food service industry permits ... 691

Lemke, Ken (PC, Stony Plain)

Alberta Utilities Commission

Response to report on TransAlta electric power economic withholding/market manipulation ... 14

Capital plan

Infrastructure financing, borrowing ... 312–13

Continuing/extended care facilities

Access ... 116–17

Lemke, Ken (PC, Stony Plain) (continued)

- Electric power – Retail sales
 - Corporations' economic withholding/market manipulation, investigation by Market Surveillance Administrator ... 14
- Grain – Transportation
 - Rail transportation, members' statements on ... 19
 - Rail transportation backlog, members' statements on ... 19
- Grizzly bear
 - Conservation ... 769–70
- International trade
 - Market development, provincial strategy on emerging markets ... 690
- International trade – China
 - Trade missions, effectiveness of ... 690
- Introduction of Guests (school groups, individuals) ... 189, 318, 789
- Long-term care facilities (nursing homes/auxiliary hospitals)
 - Access ... 116–17
- Maskawachees Cultural College Amendment Act, 2014 (Bill Pr. 2)
 - Second reading ... 737
- Members' Statements (current session)
 - Grain rail transportation backlog ... 19
 - Temporary foreign worker program moratorium ... 683
- Municipal sustainability initiative
 - Funding ... 137
- Oral Question Period (current session topics)
 - Electricity market investigation ... 14
 - Grizzly bear conservation ... 769–70
 - International trade strategy ... 690
 - Provincial debt ... 312–13
 - Services for seniors ... 116–17
- Property tax
 - Linear property assessment, distribution of revenue (Motion Other than Government Motion 501: defeated) ... 136–37
 - Types of assessments ... 137
- Seniors
 - Benefit program, income supplement ... 117
- Seniors – Housing
 - Access ... 116
- Temporary foreign workers
 - Moratorium on food service industry permits, members' statements on ... 683

Leskiw, Genia (PC, Bonnyville-Cold Lake)

- Budget 2014-2015
 - Members' statements ... 253
- Capital projects – Bonnyville-Cold Lake (constituency)
 - Project prioritization ... 313–14
- Choirs – Bonnyville
 - Lil Bodnar and the Tune-Agers, members' statements on ... 530–31
- Committee on Private Bills, Standing
 - Committee membership and deputy chair change (Government Motion 8: carried) ... 26
- Comprehensive regional infrastructure sustainability plan (CRISP)
 - Recommendations ... 313–14
- Highway 28
 - Twinning, timeline on ... 314
- Highway 55
 - Twinning, timeline on ... 314
- Highway 881
 - Twinning, timeline on ... 314

Leskiw, Genia (PC, Bonnyville-Cold Lake) (continued)

- Immunization
 - Petition presented ... 693
- Impaired driving
 - Legislative penalties ... 666–67
- Introduction of Guests (school groups, individuals) ... 7, 8, 529, 662
- Introduction of Visitors (visiting dignitaries)
 - Former Member for Bonnyville-Cold Lake ... 289
- Labour force planning – Bonnyville-Cold Lake (constituency)
 - Provincial strategy ... 94
- Members' Statements (current session)
 - Budget 2014 ... 253
 - Events in Ukraine ... 100
 - Lil Bodnar and the Bonnyville Tune-Agers ... 530–31
 - Northern leaders' summit ... 327–28
 - Task Force for Teaching Excellence report ... 722
- Municipal sustainability initiative
 - Funding ... 253
- Municipalities – Finance
 - Funding ... 253
- Northern leaders summit
 - Members' statements ... 327–28
- Oral Question Period (current session topics)
 - Bonnyville-Cold Lake infrastructure funding ... 313–14
 - Labour shortage in Bonnyville-Cold Lake ... 94
 - Public safety in Bonnyville-Cold Lake ... 666–67
- Petitions presented (current session)
 - Childhood immunization ... 693
- Royal Canadian Mounted Police – Bonnyville-Cold Lake (constituency)
 - Service provision ... 666
- Task Force for Teaching Excellence
 - 2014 report, members' statements on ... 722
- Traffic safety
 - Penalties for drunk and distracted driving ... 666–67
- Ukraine
 - Members' statements ... 100
- Water quality – Cold Lake
 - Treatment facilities ... 314

Lieutenant Governor of Alberta

- Speech from the Throne
 - Address given ... 1–3
 - Address given, topics See Speech from the Throne

Luan, Jason (PC, Calgary-Hawkwood)

- Bonds
 - International sales ... 325
- Cancer – Prevention
 - General remarks ... 58
- Health promotion
 - Provincial wellness strategy ... 57–58
 - Provincial wellness strategy, members' statements on ... 291
- International investment
 - Provincial strategy ... 325
- Introduction of Guests (school groups, individuals) ... 88, 424
- Labour force planning
 - Skilled labour supply, members' statements on ... 732
- Members' Statements (current session)
 - Health and wellness framework ... 291
 - Robert Thirsk high school opening ... 775
 - Sino-Canadian oil and gas symposium ... 424–25
 - Skilled labour shortage ... 732

Luan, Jason (PC, Calgary-Hawkwood) (continued)

- Oral Question Period (current session topics)
 - Calgary aging in place initiative ... 481–82
 - International investment ... 325
 - Wellness initiatives ... 57–58
 - Schools – Construction – Calgary
 - Robert Thirsk high school opening, members' statements on ... 775
 - Seniors – Calgary
 - Aging in place initiative ... 481–82
 - Sino-Canadian Oil and Gas Symposium
 - Members' statements ... 424–25
- Lukaszuk, Thomas A. (PC, Edmonton-Castle Downs; Minister of Jobs, Skills, Training and Labour)
- Appropriation Act, 2014 (Bill 8)
 - Third reading ... 638
 - Construction industry
 - Labour legislation review ... 731
 - Employment
 - Life skills education and training ... 415
 - Energy industries
 - Start-up costs ... 638
 - Farm workers
 - Labour protection ... 244
 - Freedom of Information and Protection of Privacy Act (FOIP Act)
 - Information request process ... 532–33, 534–35, 602, 607
 - Information request process, former Deputy Premier's memo on ... 534–35, 542, 602
 - Information request process, point of order on debate ... 542
 - Introduction of Guests (school groups, individuals) ... 424, 721, 762
 - Labour force planning
 - General remarks ... 113
 - Skilled labour supply ... 113
 - Labour force planning – Bonnyville-Cold Lake (constituency)
 - Provincial strategy ... 94–95
 - Ministerial Statements (current session)
 - National Day of Mourning ... 660–61
 - Oral Question Period (current session topics)
 - Construction labour legislation review ... 731
 - Farm worker labour protection ... 244
 - FOIP request process ... 532–33, 534–35, 602, 607
 - Labour shortage in Bonnyville-Cold Lake ... 94–95
 - Life skills education and training ... 415
 - Student employment supports ... 433
 - Temporary foreign worker program ... 727–28
 - Temporary foreign worker program moratorium ... 691
 - Workforce employment services ... 770
 - Workforce planning ... 113
 - Points of order (current session)
 - Factual accuracy ... 542
 - Postsecondary students
 - Employment supports ... 433
 - Royalty structure (energy resources)
 - Comparison with other jurisdictions ... 638
 - Speaker
 - Birth of grandson ... 770
 - Student employment (secondary and postsecondary students)
 - Programs and services ... 770–71
 - Summer temporary employment program (STEP)
 - Program termination ... 433
 - Tax policy – Norway
 - General remarks ... 638

Lukaszuk, Thomas A. (PC, Edmonton-Castle Downs; Minister of Jobs, Skills, Training and Labour) (continued)

- Temporary foreign workers
 - Moratorium on food service industry permits ... 691, 727–28
 - Program abuses and misuses ... 727–28
 - Workplace health and safety
 - National Day of Mourning, ministerial statement on ... 660–61
 - Occupational health and safety peace officers ... 660
- Mason, Brian (ND, Edmonton-Highlands-Norwood)
- Alberta – History
 - Lougheed administration, endowment establishment ... 637–38
 - Aboriginal peoples
 - Programs and services ... 337
 - Alberta government offices
 - International offices ... 220
 - AltaLink
 - Purchase bid by Berkshire Hathaway Inc. ... 726
 - Appropriation Act, 2014 (Bill 8)
 - Committee ... 578–80
 - Third reading ... 636–38
 - Bitumen – Royalties
 - Bitumen royalty in kind (BRIK) program ... 220
 - Bitumen – Upgrading
 - New Democratic opposition position ... 38
 - Budget 2013-2014
 - General remarks ... 39
 - Budget 2014-2015
 - Public consultation ... 221
 - Budget Address
 - Addresses in reply ... 220–22
 - Addresses in reply, questions and comments ... 222
 - Budget process
 - Balanced/deficit budgets ... 39
 - Building Alberta plan
 - General remarks ... 221
 - Bullying – Prevention
 - General remarks ... 374
 - School initiatives ... 410
 - Business enterprises – Taxation
 - Provincial strategy ... 491–92
 - Calgary
 - Mayor's letter on proposed changes to public service pensions ... 685
 - Canada pension plan
 - Enhancement (proposed) ... 38
 - Cancer – Fort Chipewyan
 - Incidence reports ... 390–91
 - Capital plan
 - Infrastructure financing, borrowing ... 221
 - Capital projects
 - Long-term maintenance ... 578–79
 - Child, Youth and Family Enhancement Amendment Act, 2014 (Bill 11)
 - Second reading ... 719–20
 - Child and Youth Advocate
 - Investigations ... 719–20
 - Child poverty
 - Plan to end ... 221, 308, 579
 - Children – Protective services
 - Deaths and injuries, investigations ... 719–20
 - Deaths and injuries, public information on ... 719
 - Deaths and injuries, publication ban on names ... 719
 - Early childhood education
 - Full-day kindergarten ... 220, 308

Mason, Brian (ND, Edmonton-Highlands-Norwood)(continued)

- Education
 - New Democratic opposition position ... 38
 - Public system ... 38
- Education – Curricula
 - Aboriginal content ... 337
- Education Act
 - Inclusive education provisions ... 374
- Electric power – Prices
 - Consumer protection ... 166
- Electric power – Regulation
 - New Democratic opposition position ... 38
- Electric power – Retail sales
 - Corporations' economic withholding/market manipulation, investigation by Market Surveillance Administrator ... 166
 - Corporations' economic withholding/market manipulation, point of privilege raised on debate (intimidation) ... 173, 211–12
 - Fees, cost of power line construction ... 726
- Employment Pension (Private Sector) Plans Amendment Act, 2014 (Bill 10)
 - Second reading ... 585–89
 - Second reading, point of order (speaking order) ... 584
 - Second reading, motion to not now read (reasoned amendment) (Mason: defeated) ... 588–89
- Energy industries
 - Start-up costs ... 638
- Environmental protection
 - New Democratic opposition position ... 38
- Environmental trusts
 - Governing legislation ... 491
 - Tax regime ... 491–92
- Executive Council
 - Main estimates 2014-2015, amendment A2 (operational budget) (Mason: defeated) ... 486
- Federal Public Building
 - Redevelopment project, residential suite proposal ... 579
- Fiscal policy
 - Government savings ... 580
 - Government spending ... 53, 221, 490
 - New Democratic position ... 37
- Freedom of Information and Protection of Privacy Act (FOIP Act)
 - Information request process ... 602
 - Information request process, former Deputy Premier's memo on ... 602
- Gay, lesbian, bisexual, or transgender persons
 - Supports for students ... 374
- Gay-straight alliances in schools
 - Student requests for ... 374, 410
- Government airplanes
 - Cabinet travel to Grande Prairie fundraising event ... 204
 - Usage policy ... 92, 204
 - Usage policy, Auditor General review ... 55–56
- Government culture
 - General remarks ... 342
- Government policies
 - General remarks ... 342
 - Implementation ... 255–56, 294, 308
 - Members' statements ... 53, 723
 - Performance measures ... 255–56
- Government services
 - Privatization ... 647

Mason, Brian (ND, Edmonton-Highlands-Norwood)(continued)

- Health care
 - Governance, New Democratic opposition position ... 38
 - Public service delivery ... 38
- Health care – Finance
 - Budget documentation ... 768
 - Budget oversight by ministry ... 768
- Home-care services – Edmonton
 - Artspace Independent Living employee wages ... 768
- Introduction of Guests (school groups, individuals) ... 200, 251, 334, 387, 761–62, 763
- Medical laboratories
 - Service contracts ... 241–42
- Members of the Legislative Assembly
 - Parliamentary privilege ... 211–12
- Members' Statements (current session)
 - Government policies ... 53, 723
 - Public service pensions ... 475
- Ministerial Statements (current session)
 - Events in Ukraine, responses ... 9–10
 - Truth and Reconciliation Commission national event, ministerial statement on, responses ... 337
- Ministry of Energy
 - Main estimates 2014-2015, amendment A1 (associate minister's office budget) (Mason: defeated) ... 486
- Ministry of Health
 - Information requests under FOIP from ... 602
- Ministry of International and Intergovernmental Relations
 - Main estimates 2014-2015, amendment A5 (associate minister's office budget) (Mason: defeated) ... 486
- Misericordia community hospital
 - Capital needs ... 222
- New Democratic opposition
 - Tribute to leader Brian Mason, response ... 765–66
- New Home Buyer Protection Amendment Act, 2014 (Bill 6)
 - Committee ... 501–3
 - Committee amendment A3 (coverage on materials and labour, building envelope) (Mason: defeated) ... 501–3
- Office of the Premier
 - Caucus support for Premier ... 255
 - Funding ... 220
 - Premier Redford's public service ... 321
 - Premier Redford's security service ... 92
 - Premier Redford's travel expenses ... 92
 - Premier Redford's travel to South Africa ... 12
 - Premier Redford's travel with family, repayment ... 55
 - Staff severance payments ... 321–22
- Oral Question Period (current session topics)
 - Cabinet travel expense policy ... 55–56
 - Electricity pricing ... 166
 - Electricity system ... 726
 - FOIP request process ... 602
 - Fort Chipewyan cancer incidence ... 390–91
 - Government airplane usage ... 204
 - Government effectiveness ... 255–56, 308
 - Government policies ... 12, 342
 - Government work plan ... 294
 - Health care budget oversight ... 768
 - LGBTQ student supports ... 374
 - Medical laboratory services contract ... 241–42
 - Political party leadership campaign financing ... 428

Mason, Brian (ND, Edmonton-Highlands-Norwood)(continued)

- Oral Question Period (current session topics) (continued)
 - Premier Redford's travel expenses ... 92
 - Public service pension legislation ... 685–86
 - Public service pension plan amendment bill ... 665
 - Public service pensions ... 463–64, 480, 509–10, 533–34
 - Severance payments to Premier Redford's office staff ... 321–22
 - Student gay-straight alliance requests ... 410
- Pensions
 - Plan types (defined benefit, defined contribution, targeted benefit)... 585–87
- Political parties
 - Leadership campaigns, legislative provisions on donations ... 428
- Postsecondary education
 - New Democratic opposition position ... 38
- Postsecondary educational institutions – Finance
 - Funding ... 220
- Poverty
 - Reduction strategies ... 221
- Privilege (current session)
 - Intimidation (Associate Minister of Electricity and Renewable Energy's remarks on Alberta Energy Regulator mandate) (not proceeded with) ... 173, 211–12
- Public Sector Pension Plans Amendment Act, 2014 (Bill 9)
 - Second reading ... 556–57
 - Second reading, motion to refer bill to Standing Committee on Alberta's Economic Future (referral amendment RA1) (Notley: defeated) ... 645–46, 649
 - Second reading, motion to not now read (6-month hoist amendment H1) (Kang: defeated) ... 713–14
 - Progress through the Assembly ... 685–86
 - Public consultation (proposed) ... 645, 665
- Public Sector Services Continuation Act (Bill 45, 2013)
 - General remarks ... 37-38, 342, 723
- Public service
 - Collective agreements ... 37–38, 588
 - Collective agreements, negotiations ... 12
 - Compensation ... 579
 - Labour relations with government ... 723
 - Wage freeze ... 221
- Public service – Pensions
 - Comparison with other jurisdictions ... 556–57
 - General remarks ... 12, 37–38, 221, 463–64, 478, 533–34, 723
 - Members' statements ... 475
 - Official Opposition position ... 649
 - Sustainability ... 509–10, 645–47
 - Unfunded liabilities ... 556
- Public Service Salary Restraint Act (Bill 46, 2013)
 - General remarks ... 37-38, 342, 723
- Renewable energy sources
 - Alternative and renewable energy framework ... 38
- Revenue
 - Increase in ... 220–21
 - Nonrenewable resource revenue ... 579, 636–38
 - Sources ... 222
- Royalty structure (energy resources)
 - Comparison with other jurisdictions ... 637–38
 - Provincial strategy ... 636–37
- School Act
 - Inclusive education provisions ... 374
- Schools
 - Closures ... 578

Mason, Brian (ND, Edmonton-Highlands-Norwood)(continued)

- Schools – Construction
 - New schools, timeline on ... 221
 - Public-private partnerships (P3) ... 38
- Schools – Edmonton
 - Highlands junior high school capital needs ... 579
- Seniors
 - Benefit program, drug coverage ... 220
- Social innovation fund
 - Funding through bonds (proposed) ... 221
- Speech from the Throne
 - Addresses in reply ... 37–38
 - Addresses in reply (questions and comments) ... 39
- Task Force for Teaching Excellence
 - 2014 report ... 723
- Tax policy
 - New Democratic opposition position ... 37, 53
 - Provincial strategy ... 490, 492, 579
- Tax policy – Norway
 - General remarks ... 637
- Tax Statutes Amendment Act, 2014 (Bill 7)
 - Second reading ... 490, 491–92
- Travel at public expense
 - Cabinet expense policy ... 55–56
 - Expense policy ... 12, 53
- Truth and Reconciliation Commission
 - National event, ministerial statement on, responses ... 337
- Ukraine
 - Ministerial statement, responses ... 9–10
- McAllister, Bruce (W, Chestermere-Rocky View)
 - Childhood Vision Assessment Act (Bill 203)
 - Second reading ... 358–59
 - Education – Curricula
 - Curriculum redesign ... 13, 242, 430, 727, 769
 - Curriculum redesign, members' statements on ... 162, 460–61
 - Mathematics curriculum ... 13, 57, 164–65, 322, 430
 - Mathematics curriculum redesign ... 460–61, 606
 - Gay-straight alliances in schools
 - School board policies, legislation on (Motion Other than Government Motion 503: defeated) ... 363–64
 - Highway 2
 - Balzac overpass ... 299–300
 - Hockey
 - Charity fundraising games, members' statements on ... 672
 - Inspiring Education (report)
 - Recommendations ... 242, 795
 - Introduction of Guests (school groups, individuals)
 - ... 162, 238, 722
 - Members' Statements (current session)
 - Educational curriculum redesign ... 162, 460–61
 - Hockey marathon for charity ... 672
 - Ministry of Education
 - Minister's meeting with stakeholders on curriculum redesign (proposed) ... 727
 - Oral Question Period (current session topics)
 - Educational curriculum redesign ... 242, 310, 430, 606, 769
 - Educational system reform ... 727
 - Mathematics curriculum ... 13, 57, 164–65, 322
 - Queen Elizabeth II highway overpass at Balzac ... 299–300
 - School construction ... 113–14
 - School construction in Calgary ... 94
 - Student assessment ... 795

McAllister, Bruce (W, Chestermere-Rocky View)(continued)

- Schools – Construction
 - Modernizations, funding for ... 113–14
 - New schools ... 94
 - New schools, funding for ... 113–14
 - New schools, timeline on ... 113–14
- Schools – Construction – Calgary
 - New school construction ... 94
- Student testing (elementary and secondary students)
 - Changes to report cards ... 795
- Task Force for Teaching Excellence
 - 2014 report, recommendations ... 727, 769
- McDonald, Everett (PC, Grande Prairie-Smoky)
 - 4-H clubs
 - Premier's award winner Michelle Hoover, members' statements on ... 262–63
 - All-terrain vehicles
 - Driver education ... 798
 - Licenses ... 798
 - Trail development and maintenance ... 798
 - Children
 - Great Kids Awards 2014, members' statements on ... 800
 - Grain – Transportation
 - Rail transportation backlog ... 97
 - International trade
 - Market development ... 28
 - Interprovincial/territorial trade
 - Market development ... 28
 - Introduction of Guests (school groups, individuals) ... 597
 - Labour force planning
 - Skilled labour supply ... 28
 - Members' Statements (current session)
 - 4-H Premier's award winner ... 262–63
 - Great Kids awards 2014 ... 800
 - Peace Wapiti school division ... 483
 - Oral Question Period (current session topics)
 - All-terrain vehicles ... 798
 - Grain rail transportation backlog ... 97
 - Highway maintenance ... 468
 - North-south trade corridor ... 326
 - Peace Wapiti school division
 - Members' statements ... 483
 - Public transit
 - GreenTRIP incentives program ... 28
 - Research and development
 - Provincial strategy ... 28
 - Road construction
 - North-south trade corridor, timeline on ... 326
 - Roads – Maintenance and repair
 - Highway repainting ... 468
 - Provincial strategy ... 468
 - Roads – Rural areas
 - Delineator traffic post and signpost replacement ... 468
 - Schools – Construction
 - Modernizations ... 28
 - New schools ... 28
 - Schools – Teepee Creek
 - General remarks ... 483
 - Social policy framework
 - General remarks ... 28
 - Speech from the Throne
 - Addresses in reply (moved and seconded) ... 27–28

McIver, Ric (PC, Calgary-Hays; Minister of Infrastructure to May 6, 2014)Alberta Hansard

- Remarks off the record, point of order on ... 351
- Alberta Human Rights Act
 - Repeal of section 3(1)(b) (Motion Other than Government Motion 502: defeated) ... 286
- Building Alberta plan
 - Advertising ... 312
- Cancer – Treatment
 - Lung cancer patient wait times ... 433
- Capital plan
 - Project prioritization ... 414
- Capital projects
 - Infrastructure maintenance and repair ... 294–95
- Federal Public Building
 - Redevelopment project, residential suite proposal ... 340, 343, 345
 - Redevelopment project change orders ... 388
- Government communications
 - Budget ... 375
- Health facilities – Maintenance and repair
 - Funding ... 427
 - Infrastructure needs ... 294
- Introduction of Guests (school groups, individuals) ... 89, 469–70
- Ministry of Infrastructure
 - Minister's meetings with industry ... 373, 375
- Misericordia community hospital
 - Replacement, timeline on ... 427
- Oral Question Period (current session topics)
 - Building Alberta plan advertising ... 312
 - Education initiatives ... 343–44
 - Education performance measures ... 262
 - Federal building redevelopment plan ... 340, 343, 345, 388
 - Gift Lake school ... 395
 - Government spending ... 375
 - Health facilities infrastructure ... 427
 - Infrastructure funding ... 115
 - Infrastructure maintenance and repair ... 294
 - Infrastructure planning and maintenance ... 414
 - Long-term care in Fort McMurray ... 309
 - Lung cancer diagnosis and treatment ... 433
 - Ministers' meeting with industry ... 373
 - Misericordia community hospital ... 256
 - School construction ... 113–14, 208
 - School construction and modernization ... 465
 - School construction in Blackfalds ... 16–17
 - School construction in Calgary ... 94
 - School growth pressures in Calgary ... 257
 - Strathcona community hospital ... 513
- Points of order (current session)
 - Remarks off the record ... 351
- School boards
 - Administration of school construction ... 465
- Schools – Construction
 - Modernizations, timeline on ... 465
 - New schools ... 16–17, 94, 262, 343–44
 - New schools, funding for ... 113–14
 - New schools, timeline on ... 113–14, 208, 465
- Schools – Construction – Blackfalds
 - New school, timeline on ... 16–17
- Schools – Construction – Calgary
 - New school construction ... 94
- Schools – Construction – Gift Lake
 - Timeline on new school ... 395

McIver, Ric (PC, Calgary-Hays; Minister of Infrastructure to May 6, 2014) (continued)

- Schools – Edmonton
 - Good Shepherd elementary school capital needs ... 414
 - Growth pressures ... 343–44
- Strathcona community hospital
 - Services provided ... 513

McQueen, Diana (PC, Drayton Valley-Devon; Minister of Energy)

- Alberta Energy Regulator
 - Approval of bitumen extraction near leaks ... 665
- AltaLink
 - Income on transmission lines ... 687
 - Purchase bid by Berkshire Hathaway Inc. ... 684, 687, 726
 - Purchase bid by Berkshire Hathaway Inc., approval process ... 688
- Capital projects – Bonnyville-Cold Lake (constituency)
 - Project prioritization ... 313–14
- Cogeneration of electric power and heat
 - General remarks ... 510
- Comprehensive regional infrastructure sustainability plan (CRISP)
 - Recommendations ... 313–14
- Debts, provincial
 - Debt related to public utilities ... 536
- Education – Curricula
 - Curriculum redesign ... 727
- Electric power
 - Renewable sources ... 510
- Electric power – British Columbia
 - B.C. Hydro purchase of Alberta electric power ... 246
- Electric power – Prices
 - Comparison with other jurisdictions ... 723–24, 729–30
 - Fluctuations ... 536, 537, 670–71
 - Wholesale price guarantees ... 246
- Electric power – Regulation
 - Oversight of consumer costs ... 687
- Electric power – Retail sales
 - Corporations' economic withholding/market manipulation ... 246, 536, 670–71
 - Fees ... 684
 - Fees, cost of power line construction ... 687, 726
 - Fixed-rate plans ... 536
- Electric power lines
 - Planned shutdown re connection of new HVDC line ... 537
- Electric power lines – Construction
 - Incentives to build ... 684
- Energy industries
 - Drilling in urban areas ... 258–59, 311
- Energy industries – Environmental aspects
 - Public perception ... 603–4
- Freehold Mineral Rights Tax Act
 - Amendments proposed re tax assessment and reassessment, consultation with Freehold Owners Association on ... 799
- Gas – Prices
 - Increase in ... 394–95
- Government grant programs
 - Eligibility criteria ... 356
- Greenhouse gas emissions
 - Reduction strategies, carbon dioxide ... 411
- Introduction of Guests (school groups, individuals) ... 318, 369, 459, 682, 762

McQueen, Diana (PC, Drayton Valley-Devon; Minister of Energy) (continued)

- Ministry of Education
 - Minister's meeting with stakeholders on curriculum redesign (proposed) ... 727
 - Ministry of Energy
 - Minister's meetings with industry ... 388–89
 - Oil sands development – Environmental aspects
 - Regulation compliance and enforcement ... 665
 - Oral Question Period (current session topics)
 - AltaLink sale approval process ... 688
 - Bitumen extraction resumption approval ... 665
 - Bonnyville-Cold Lake infrastructure funding ... 313
 - Carbon emissions reductions ... 411
 - Drilling in urban areas ... 258–59, 311
 - Drinking water contamination complaint ... 774
 - Educational system reform ... 727
 - Electricity generation from renewable sources ... 510
 - Electricity prices ... 536, 670–71, 723–24, 729–30
 - Electricity pricing ... 246
 - Electricity system ... 684, 726
 - Electricity system regulation ... 687
 - Freehold mineral rights legislation consultation ... 799
 - Gas prices ... 394–95
 - Keystone XL pipeline project ... 603–4
 - Ministers' activities ... 388–89
 - Pembina Institute funding ... 346, 377–78
 - Planned transmission line shutdown ... 537
 - Pembina Institute
 - Funding ... 346, 377–78
 - Pipelines – Construction
 - Funding of organizations in opposition to ... 346
 - Keystone XL pipeline project, opposition to ... 688
 - Keystone XL pipeline project delay ... 603–4
 - Renewable energy sources
 - Alternative and renewable energy framework ... 411
 - Water quality – Lacombe-Ponoka (constituency)
 - Drinking water contamination, complaint by Ann Craft on ... 774
- Notley, Rachel (ND, Edmonton-Strathcona)
- Adult Interdependent Relationships Act
 - Gender references ... 745
 - Alberta Energy Regulator
 - Funding ... 74
 - Alberta future fund
 - Fund utilization ... 226–27
 - Alberta Human Rights Act
 - Court interpretations and decisions ... 283
 - Repeal of section 3(1)(b) (Motion Other than Government Motion 502: defeated) ... 282–83
 - Section 3 complaints (discrimination re publications and notices) ... 282–83
 - Alberta Law Reform Institute
 - Recommendations on estate legislation ... 192–93
 - Appropriation Act, 2014 (Bill 8)
 - Committee ... 563–65, 570–71
 - Third reading ... 619–22
 - Appropriation (Interim Supply) Act, 2014 (Bill 5)
 - Committee ... 219–20
 - Arts and culture
 - Funding ... 195
 - Assured income for the severely handicapped
 - Client eligibility for legal aid ... 377
 - Auditor General
 - Remarks on budget documents ... 619–20
 - Bills, government (procedure)
 - Omnibus bills/statute amendment acts ... 771

Notley, Rachel (ND, Edmonton-Strathcona) (continued)

- Budget
 - Advance briefing participants ... 268
- Budget 2014-2015
 - Budget documents, financial reporting methods ... 619-20
 - Budget documents, financial reporting methods, Auditor General's remarks on ... 619-20
- Budget Address
 - Addresses in reply, questions and comments ... 222
- Budget officer (proposed)
 - Other jurisdictions ... 269
- Canada pension plan
 - Enhanced benefits (proposed) ... 581
- Capital plan
 - General remarks ... 564
 - Infrastructure financing, public-private partnership (P3) construction ... 620
- Capital projects
 - Long-term maintenance ... 620
- Child, Youth and Family Enhancement Amendment Act, 2014 (Bill 11)
 - Second reading ... 737-39
 - Committee ... 747-49, 752, 754-55, 779-80
 - Committee amendment A2 (expert review panel membership) (Towle: defeated) ... 747-48
 - Committee amendment A3 (publication of reports) (Towle: defeated) ... 748-49
 - Committee amendment A4 (ex parte applications for publication bans) (Towle: defeated) ... 752
 - Committee amendment A7 (regulations to be considered by all-party committee) (Notley: carried) ... 779
 - Committee amendment A8 (investigations of deaths and serious injuries to children receiving designated services at time of incident or within two years previously) (Notley: defeated) ... 779-80
- Child and Youth Advocate
 - Appearance before Legislative Offices Committee ... 748-49
 - Investigations ... 749
 - Reporting schedule ... 754-55
- Child and Youth Advocate's office
 - Funding for investigations ... 749
- Child poverty
 - Plan to end ... 74, 114-15, 196, 219, 564, 621
- Children
 - Programs and services, children at risk ... 737-38
- Children – Protective services
 - Deaths and injuries, public information on ... 737-38
 - Deaths and injuries, publication ban on names ... 739
 - Deaths and injuries, publication ban on names, ex parte applications ... 739
- Cost of living
 - General remarks ... 195-96
- Criminal Code (federal)
 - Freedom of speech provisions ... 283
- Daycare
 - Funding ... 565
 - Provincial strategy ... 621
- Debts, provincial
 - General remarks ... 620
- Dower Act amendments
 - Gender reference changes ... 745
- Drugs, prescription
 - Provincial plans ... 75

Notley, Rachel (ND, Edmonton-Strathcona) (continued)

- Early childhood education
 - Full-day kindergarten ... 564
 - Full-day kindergarten, Premier's office announcement on ... 621
- Education – Finance
 - Funding ... 219
- Education Act
 - Debate on human rights provisions ... 282-83
- Elections, provincial
 - 2012 election campaign ... 196
- Employment Pension (Private Sector) Plans Amendment Act, 2014 (Bill 10)
 - Second reading ... 580-82
 - Second reading, motion to not now read (reasoned amendment) (Mason: defeated) ... 591-93
 - Plan conversion provisions ... 580-81, 591, 593
- Energy industries
 - Drilling in urban areas ... 311
- Environmental protection
 - Provincial strategy ... 197-98, 219
- Environmental Protection and Enhancement Act
 - Legal challenges ... 244-45
- Estate Administration Act (Bill 4)
 - Second reading ... 192-93
- Family and community support services
 - Funding ... 466-67
- Federal Public Building
 - Redevelopment project, residential suite proposal ... 794
- Freehold Mineral Rights Tax Act
 - Amendments proposed re tax assessment and reassessment ... 744, 745
- Gay, lesbian, bisexual, or transgender persons
 - Discrimination against, Lund vs. Boisson court case ... 282-83
- Government accountability
 - Financial reporting ... 268
- Government airplanes
 - Cabinet travel to Grande Prairie fundraising event ... 214
 - Usage policy, point of privilege raised on debate (misleading the House) ... 214
- Government communications
 - Staffing ... 564
- Government Organization Act
 - Amendments proposed re Deputy Attorney General and Deputy Minister of Justice roles under act ... 744, 745
- Government policies
 - Members' statements ... 291
- Health care – Finance
 - Budget oversight by ministry ... 785
 - Funding, federal health transfer ... 196, 564, 570-71
- Health Information Act
 - Amendments proposed re breaches of information ... 744, 785
- Home-care services
 - Private service delivery ... 197
- Income support program
 - Drug coverage ... 570
 - Funding ... 73-74, 564
- Independent Budget Officer Act (Bill 202)
 - Second reading ... 268-69
- Information and Privacy Commissioner
 - Disclosure of information to Minister of Health ... 744
 - Response to Bill 12, Statutes Amendment Act, 2014 ... 771, 785

Notley, Rachel (ND, Edmonton-Strathcona) (continued)

- Introduction of Guests (school groups, individuals) ... 8, 51, 238, 252, 303, 387, 405, 530
- Legal aid
 - Funding ... 377, 563
- Legislative Assembly of Alberta
 - Parliamentary language ... 21
 - Procedures, Speaker's letter to members on ... 122
- Liquefied natural gas – Regulation
 - Storage in salt caverns ... 784–85
- Long-term care facilities (nursing homes/auxiliary hospitals)
 - Care standards ... 197
- Marriage Act amendments
 - Gender reference changes ... 745
- Members of the Legislative Assembly
 - Interrupting a member, second supplemental question disallowed in Oral Question Period, point of clarification on ... 122
 - Penalization for actions of another member ... 122
- Members' Statements (current session)
 - Government policies ... 291
- Mental health services
 - Funding ... 571
 - Performance measures ... 196
- Metis Settlements Act amendments
 - Gender reference changes ... 745
- Michener Centre
 - Facility closure ... 571
- Mines and Minerals Act
 - Amendments proposed, regulatory provisions ... 744–45
- Ministerial Statements (current session)
 - National Day of Mourning, responses ... 662
- Ministry of Energy
 - Supplementary supply estimates 2013-2014, no. 2, debate ... 74
- Ministry of Health
 - Supplementary supply estimates 2013-2014, no. 2, debate ... 75, 78–79
- Ministry of Human Services
 - Main estimates 2014-2015, amendment A4 (associate minister's office budget) (Notley: defeated) ... 486
 - Services for vulnerable persons ... 621–22
 - Supplementary supply estimates 2013-2014, no. 2, debate ... 73–74
- Ministry of Innovation and Advanced Education
 - Supplementary supply estimates 2013-2014, no. 2, debate ... 73
- Misericordia community hospital
 - Capital needs ... 222
- Nonprofit organizations
 - Human service provision, employee compensation ... 571
- Oil sands development
 - Worker fatalities ... 662
- Oral Question Period (procedure)
 - Supplemental question denied because of lack of decorum in Assembly ... 122
 - Supplemental question denied because of lack of decorum in Assembly, point of clarification on ... 122
- Oral Question Period (current session topics)
 - Child poverty reduction strategy ... 114–15
 - Drilling in urban areas ... 311
 - Family and community support services ... 466–67

Notley, Rachel (ND, Edmonton-Strathcona) (continued)

- Oral Question Period (current session topics) (continued)
 - Federal building redevelopment project management ... 794
 - Legal aid funding ... 377
 - Legal challenges to provincial legislation ... 244–45
 - Public service pensions ... 15, 536–37
 - Statutes Amendment Act, 2014 ... 771
- Pensions
 - Collective agreements... 581
 - Joint sponsorship ... 626–27
 - Plan types (defined benefit, defined contribution, targeted benefit)... 580–81, 582
- Persons with developmental disabilities
 - Programs and services ... 73, 571
 - Programs and services, funding ... 219–20, 565
 - Supports intensity scale assessments ... 571
- Physician Compensation Committee
 - Mandate ... 79
- Physicians
 - Compensation, fee for service ... 79
 - Services agreement, funding ... 78–79
- Points of clarification (current session)
 - Maintaining order in the Assembly/interrupting a member, second supplemental question disallowed in Oral Question Period ... 122
- Points of order (current session)
 - Parliamentary language ... 21
- Postsecondary educational institutions – Admissions (enrolment)
 - Access, academic upgrading ... 196
 - Access, rural issues ... 621
- Postsecondary educational institutions – Finance
 - Funding ... 73, 196–97, 219, 564–65
- Poverty
 - Cost of ... 570
 - Reduction strategies ... 114–15
- Privilege (current session)
 - Misleading the House (use of government airplanes) (not proceeded with) ... 214
- Progressive Conservative Party of Alberta
 - 2012 election platform ... 291
- Public Sector Pension Plans Amendment Act, 2014 (Bill 9)
 - Second reading, motion to refer bill to Standing Committee on Alberta's Economic Future (referral amendment RA1) (Notley: defeated) ... 625–27, 629
 - Moratorium on benefit improvements ... 626
 - Public consultation (proposed) ... 626
- Public service
 - Collective agreements ... 219, 591–92
 - Collective agreements, negotiations, point of order on debate ... 21
- Public service – Pensions
 - General remarks ... 15
 - Joint sponsorship (proposed) ... 625, 627
 - Sustainability ... 536–37
- Public Service Salary Restraint Act (Bill 46, 2013)
 - Legal challenge ... 244–45
- Regional Health Authorities Act
 - Amendments proposed re ministerial oversight of health care budget ... 745
- Revenue
 - Sources ... 220
- Royalty structure (energy resources)
 - Comparison with other jurisdictions ... 563
- Savings Management Act (Bill 1)
 - Third reading ... 226–28

Notley, Rachel (ND, Edmonton-Strathcona) (continued)

- Seniors
 - Benefit program, drug coverage ... 75, 570
- Social innovation fund
 - Funding through bonds (proposed) ... 227–28
 - Purpose of fund ... 227
- Social policy framework
 - Reliance on nonprofit organizations ... 738–39
- Speech from the Throne
 - Addresses in reply ... 195–97
 - Addresses in reply (questions and comments) ... 195, 197–98
- Statutes Amendment Act, 2014 (Bill 12)
 - Second reading ... 743–45
 - Third reading ... 784–85
 - Third reading, motion to not now read (6-month hoist amendment HA) (Notley: defeated) ... 784–85
 - Consultation with LGBTQ community ... 771, 785
 - Members' briefing on ... 743–44, 771
- Supplementary supply estimates (procedure)
 - Members' receipt of documents ... 73
- Supplementary supply estimates 2013-2014, no. 2
 - Estimates debated ... 73–74, 75, 78–79
- Tax policy
 - Flat tax rate ... 563–64
- Trade
 - Domestic agreements, awards following from disputes ... 744
- University of Alberta
 - Funding, impact of cuts ... 197
 - Infrastructure funding ... 570
- Vital Statistics Act
 - Amendments proposed re sex indicator requirements on birth records ... 745
- Water Act
 - Legal challenges ... 244–45
- Workplace health and safety
 - National Day of Mourning, ministerial statement on, responses ... 662

Oberle, Frank (PC, Peace River; Minister of Aboriginal Relations)

- Aboriginal peoples – Housing
 - Disaster recovery program funding ... 82
- Aboriginal women – Violence against
 - Murders and disappearances ... 428, 534
- Alberta Human Rights Act
 - Repeal of section 3(1)(b) (Motion Other than Government Motion 502: defeated) ... 286
- Child, Youth and Family Enhancement Amendment Act, 2014 (Bill 11)
 - Committee ... 747, 751
 - Committee amendment A2 (expert review panel membership) (Towle: defeated) ... 747
 - Committee amendment A4 (ex parte applications for publication bans) (Towle: defeated) ... 751
- Education – Curricula
 - Mathematics curriculum, point of order on debate ... 173
- Environmental trusts
 - Governing legislation ... 491
- Freedom of speech
 - General remarks ... 286
- Gay, lesbian, bisexual, or transgender persons
 - Supports for students, point of order on debate ... 399–400
- Impaired driving
 - Repeat offenders, penalties for, point of order on debate ... 301

Oberle, Frank (PC, Peace River; Minister of Aboriginal Relations) (continued)

- Introduction of Guests (school groups, individuals) ... 161–62, 380
- Ministry of Aboriginal Relations
 - Supplementary supply estimates 2013-2014, no. 2, debate ... 76
 - Supplementary supply estimates 2013-2014, no. 2, operational funding, debate ... 82
- Ministry of Human Services
 - Minister's announcement of procedural changes for children in care, point of order on debate ... 399–400
 - Supplementary supply estimates 2013-2014, no. 2, debate ... 74
- Ministry of Innovation and Advanced Education
 - Supplementary supply estimates 2013-2014, no. 2, debate ... 74
- Ministry of Justice and Solicitor General
 - Minister's decision on GPS monitoring of domestic violence offenders, point of order on debate ... 401–2
- Oral Question Period (procedure)
 - Questions on internal party matters, points of order on debate ... 401–2
- Oral Question Period (current session topics)
 - Missing and murdered aboriginal women ... 428, 534
- Points of order (current session)
 - Allegations against a member or members ... 399–400
 - Factual accuracy ... 173, 301
 - Imputing motives ... 401–2
 - Questions on internal party matters ... 401–2
- Postsecondary educational institutions – Admissions (enrolment)
 - Access ... 74
- Postsecondary educational institutions – Finance
 - Funding ... 74
- Supplementary supply estimates 2013-2014, no. 2
 - Estimates debated ... 74, 76, 82
 - Flood-related expenses ... 76
- Tax Statutes Amendment Act, 2014 (Bill 7)
 - Second reading ... 491

Olesen, Cathy (PC, Sherwood Park)

- Anthony Henday Drive
 - Northeast portion, completion ... 327
 - Public-private partnership (P3) construction ... 327
- Apprenticeship training
 - Journeyman certificates, delays in ... 243–44
 - Scholarships ... 244
- Business enterprises – Sherwood Park
 - Environmental technology, members' statements on ... 248
- Committee on Families and Communities, Standing Report of 2014-2015 estimates debate and amendments, ministries of Culture, Education, Health, Human Services, Justice and Solicitor General, Service Alberta ... 486
- Condominium Property Amendment Act, 2014 (Bill 13)
 - First reading ... 733
- Courthouses – Sherwood Park
 - Capital plan ... 604
- Introduction of Guests (school groups, individuals) ... 238, 681
- Kidney dialysis – Strathcona county
 - Access to services ... 773–74
- Members' Statements (current session)
 - GreenTRIP funding ... 540–41
 - Mental Health Week ... 692

Olesen, Cathy (PC, Sherwood Park) (continued)

- Members' Statements (current session) (continued)
 - Sherwood Park environmental technology enterprises ... 248
 - Mental health
 - Mental Health Week, members' statements on ... 692
 - Ministry of Culture
 - Main estimates 2014-2015, Standing Committee on Families and Communities report on review of proposed estimates and business plan presented ... 486
 - Ministry of Education
 - Main estimates 2014-2015, Standing Committee on Families and Communities report on review of proposed estimates and business plan presented ... 486
 - Ministry of Health
 - Main estimates 2014-2015, Standing Committee on Families and Communities report on review of proposed estimates and business plan, tabling of amendments introduced ... 486
 - Main estimates 2014-2015, Standing Committee on Families and Communities report on review of proposed estimates and business plan presented ... 486
 - Ministry of Human Services
 - Main estimates 2014-2015, Standing Committee on Families and Communities report on review of proposed estimates and business plan, tabling of amendments introduced ... 486
 - Main estimates 2014-2015, Standing Committee on Families and Communities report on review of proposed estimates and business plan presented ... 486
 - Ministry of Justice and Solicitor General
 - Main estimates 2014-2015, Standing Committee on Families and Communities report on review of proposed estimates and business plan presented ... 486
 - Ministry of Service Alberta
 - Main estimates 2014-2015, Standing Committee on Families and Communities report on review of proposed estimates and business plan, tabling of amendments introduced ... 486
 - Main estimates 2014-2015, Standing Committee on Families and Communities report on review of proposed estimates and business plan presented ... 486
 - Oral Question Period (current session topics)
 - Anthony Henday Drive northeast portion ... 327
 - Dialysis service for Strathcona County residents ... 773-74
 - Sherwood Park provincial courthouse ... 604
 - Skilled trades journeyman certification ... 243-44
 - Strathcona community hospital ... 412
 - Public transit
 - GreenTRIP incentives program, members' statements on ... 540-41
 - Public transit – Sherwood Park
 - Bethel transit terminal ... 540
 - Strathcona community hospital
 - Services provided ... 412, 773-74
- Olson, Verlyn, QC (PC, Wetaskiwin-Camrose; Minister of Agriculture and Rural Development)
- Agricultural credit
 - Advance payment program ... 539
 - Cervid farming – Regulation
 - General remarks ... 323-24

Olson, Verlyn, QC (PC, Wetaskiwin-Camrose; Minister of Agriculture and Rural Development) (continued)

- Elk populations – Northern Alberta
 - General remarks ... 96
 - Farm workers
 - Labour protection ... 244
 - Grain – Diseases and pests
 - Crop damage by elk ... 96
 - Grain – Transportation
 - Rail transportation backlog ... 97-98, 170, 539
 - Road ban exemption ... 375
 - International trade
 - Rail transportation needs ... 170
 - Introduction of Guests (school groups, individuals) ... 659, 762
 - Office of the Premier
 - Premier Redford's travel to Jasper, point of order on debate ... 518
 - Oral Question Period (current session topics)
 - ALERT program funding ... 514
 - Bridge maintenance and repair ... 260
 - Elk population in northern Alberta ... 96
 - Farm worker labour protection ... 244
 - Grain rail transportation backlog ... 97-98, 170, 539
 - Livestock industry regulations ... 323-24
 - Road ban exemption for grain transportation ... 375
 - Organized crime
 - Initiatives against, ALERT program funding ... 514
 - Points of order (current session)
 - Factual accuracy ... 518
- Pastoor, Bridget Brennan (PC, Lethbridge-East)
- Avalanches
 - Emergency prevention and response ... 346
 - Grain – Transportation
 - Road ban exemption ... 375
 - Lethbridge
 - Death of councillor Wade Galloway ... 346
 - Members' Statements (current session)
 - Invasive mussel species ... 531
 - Mussels
 - Invasive species ... 535
 - Invasive species, members' statements on ... 531
 - Oral Question Period (current session topics)
 - Avalanche safety ... 346
 - Invasive mussel species ... 535
 - Road ban exemption for grain transportation ... 375
- Pedersen, Blake (W, Medicine Hat)
- Capital projects
 - Building contracts, penalties for delays ... 326
 - Economic development
 - Innovation, members' statements on ... 800-801
 - Emergency medical services (ambulances, etc.)
 - Dispatch services ... 96
 - Film and television industry – Calgary
 - Film studio, contract award process ... 772
 - Introduction of Guests (school groups, individuals) ... 90, 238, 304, 318, 369-70
 - Long-term care facilities (nursing homes/auxiliary hospitals) – Medicine Hat
 - New facility, timeline on ... 325-26
 - Members' Statements (current session)
 - Innovation in Alberta ... 800-801
 - Postsecondary education funding ... 210
 - Oral Question Period (current session topics)
 - Calgary film studio ... 772
 - Emergency medical dispatch services ... 96
 - Long-term care beds ... 325-26
 - Postsecondary noninstructional student fees ... 297
 - University executive compensation ... 798

Pedersen, Blake (W, Medicine Hat) (continued)

- Postsecondary educational institutions – Admissions (enrolment)
 - Access, affordability ... 210
- Postsecondary educational institutions – Finance
 - Executive compensation ... 798
 - Members' statements ... 210
- Tuition and fees, postsecondary
 - Noninstructional fees ... 210, 297

Quadri, Sohail (PC, Edmonton-Mill Woods)

- Budget 2014-2015
 - Members' statements ... 263
- Building Alberta plan
 - General remarks ... 57
- Earthquakes – Chile
 - Members' statements ... 349
- Housing – Construction
 - Builders' liens ... 347
- Introduction of Guests (school groups, individuals) ... 289, 335, 387, 460, 473, 529, 597
- Justice system
 - Traffic court reform initiative ... 242-43
- MacEwan University
 - Members' statements ... 209-10
- Members' Statements (current session)
 - Earthquake in Chile ... 349
 - MacEwan University ... 209-10
 - Provincial fiscal policies ... 263
 - World Meningitis Day ... 672
- Meningitis
 - World Meningitis Day, members' statements on ... 672
- Municipal sustainability initiative
 - Funding for public transportation ... 57
- Oral Question Period (current session topics)
 - Builders' liens ... 347
 - Public transit funding ... 56-57
 - Traffic court reform initiative ... 242-43
 - Victims of crime ... 669
- Public transit
 - GreenTRIP incentives program ... 57
 - Provincial strategy ... 56-57
- Public transit – Edmonton
 - LRT expansion ... 56-57, 210
- Victims Bill of Rights (federal)
 - General remarks ... 669

Quest, Dave (PC, Strathcona-Sherwood Park; Associate Minister – Seniors)

- Cancer – Treatment
 - Lung cancer patient wait times ... 433
- Continuing/extended care facilities
 - Access ... 116-17
- Freedom of Information and Protection of Privacy Act (FOIP Act)
 - Information request fees ... 702
 - Overview ... 701-2
- Freedom of Information and Protection of Privacy (MLA Public Interest Fee Waiver) Amendment Act, 2014 (Bill 204)
 - Second reading ... 701-2
- Government accountability
 - Collection and disclosure of information ... 701-2
- Introduction of Guests (school groups, individuals) ... 474, 598, 682, 791
- Long-term care facilities (nursing homes/auxiliary hospitals)
 - Access ... 116-17
 - Accommodation of couples ... 478-79
 - Fire safety ... 513

Quest, Dave (PC, Strathcona-Sherwood Park; Associate Minister – Seniors) (continued)

- Long-term care facilities (nursing homes/auxiliary hospitals) (continued)
 - Funding for residents with dementia and/or mental health issues ... 686
 - Restrictions on family members' visits ... 770, 796
- Long-term care facilities (nursing homes/auxiliary hospitals) – Construction
 - Designs to accommodate residents with dementia and/or mental health issues ... 686
- Long-term care facilities (nursing homes/auxiliary hospitals) – Fort McMurray
 - New facility ... 309
- Oral Question Period (current session topics)
 - Calgary aging in place initiative ... 481-82
 - Care facility restrictions on family member visits ... 770, 796
 - Dementia and mental health services ... 686
 - Fire safety in seniors' facilities ... 513
 - Long-term care in Fort McMurray ... 309
 - Lung cancer diagnosis and treatment ... 433
 - Rural seniors' transportation needs ... 60
 - Seniors' housing for couples ... 478-79
 - Services for seniors ... 116-17
- Public transit – Rural areas
 - Seniors' needs ... 60
- Seniors
 - Benefit program, income supplement ... 117
- Seniors – Calgary
 - Aging in place initiative ... 481-82
- Seniors – Housing
 - Access ... 116-17
 - Accommodation of couples ... 478-79
 - Fire safety ... 513
- Seniors – Rural areas
 - Transportation needs ... 60
- Seniors Advocate
 - Mandate ... 770

Redford, Alison M., QC (PC, Calgary-Elbow; Premier to March 23, 2014)

- Advisory Council on Alberta-Ukraine Relations
 - General remarks ... 9
- Agriculture and food innovation fund
 - General remarks ... 5
- Alberta heritage savings trust fund
 - Fund utilization ... 4-5
- Alberta heritage scholarship fund
 - General remarks ... 5
- Child, Youth and Family Enhancement Amendment Act, 2014 (Bill 11)
 - Committee ... 750-51
 - Committee amendment A4 (ex parte applications for publication bans) (Towle: defeated) ... 750-51
- Committee on Privileges and Elections, Standing Orders and Printing, Standing
 - MLA compensation repayments ... 12
- Education – Curricula
 - Mathematics curriculum ... 91
- Education – Finance
 - Funding ... 255
- Electric power – Retail sales
 - Corporations' economic withholding/market manipulation ... 91
 - Corporations' economic withholding/market manipulation, investigation by Market Surveillance Administrator ... 91

Redford, Alison M., QC (PC, Calgary-Elbow; Premier to March 23, 2014) (continued)

- Fiscal policy
 - Government spending ... 255
- Government airplanes
 - Usage policy ... 54, 90
 - Usage policy, Auditor General review ... 54, 55, 56, 165
 - Use of multiple planes ... 165–66
- Government policies
 - Implementation ... 255–56
 - Performance measures ... 255–56
- Introduction of Guests (school groups, individuals) ... 251
- Introduction of Visitors (visiting dignitaries)
 - Prime Minister of Iceland, spouse, and diplomatic party ... 87
- Ministerial Statements (current session)
 - Events in Ukraine ... 8–9
- Office of the Premier
 - Caucus support for Premier ... 255
 - Premier Redford's travel expenses ... 53–54, 90, 92
 - Premier Redford's travel to South Africa ... 10–12, 53–54, 55, 90
 - Premier Redford's travel to South Africa, repayment (proposed) ... 11–12, 53–55, 166
 - Premier Redford's travel with family, repayment ... 55–56
- Oral Question Period (current session topics)
 - Associate Minister of Family and Community Safety ... 254
 - Cabinet air travel expenses ... 165–66
 - Cabinet travel expense policy ... 55–56
 - Electricity pricing ... 91
 - Government effectiveness ... 255–56
 - Government policies ... 12, 255
 - Mathematics curriculum ... 91
 - Premier Redford's travel expenses ... 53–54, 90, 92
 - Premier Redford's travel to South Africa ... 10–12
 - Public service compensation ... 92
- Public service
 - Collective agreements, negotiations ... 12
- Public service – Pensions
 - General remarks ... 12
- Public Service Salary Restraint Act (Bill 46, 2013)
 - Legal challenge ... 92
- Savings Management Act (Bill 1)
 - First reading ... 4–5
- Schools
 - Community use ... 255
- Social innovation fund
 - General remarks ... 5
- Speech from the Throne
 - Motion to consider on March 4, 2014 (Government Motion 1: carried) ... 5
- Travel at public expense
 - Cabinet expense policy ... 55
 - Expense policy ... 11, 12
- Ukraine
 - Ministerial statement ... 8–9

Rodney, Dave (PC, Calgary-Lougheed; Associate Minister – Wellness)

- Cancer
 - Incidence rates for leukemia, lymphoma, and lung cancer (Written Question 9: accepted as amended) ... 440–41
- Cancer – Prevention
 - General remarks ... 58

Rodney, Dave (PC, Calgary-Lougheed; Associate Minister – Wellness) (continued)

- Chronic fatigue syndrome
 - Patient supports ... 482–83
- Health promotion
 - Provincial wellness strategy ... 58
- Immunization
 - Provincial strategy for children ... 667–68
- Introduction of Guests (school groups, individuals) ... 161, 252, 289–90, 335, 424, 474, 506, 682, 761
- Measles
 - Outbreak response ... 668
- Okotoks health and wellness centre
 - Parking access ... 482
- Oral Question Period (current session topics)
 - Childhood immunization ... 667–68
 - Chronic fatigue syndrome ... 482–83
 - Okotoks Health and Wellness Centre parking ... 482
 - Wellness initiatives ... 58
- Points of order (current session)
 - Inflammatory language ... 272
- Rogers, George (PC, Leduc-Beaumont)
See also Deputy Speaker (Rogers, George)
- Agricultural credit
 - Advance payment program ... 539
- Energy industries – History
 - Dingman discovery well centennial, members' statements on ... 775–76
- Ethics Commissioner Search Committee, Select Special Report presented recommending the hon. Marguerite Trussler, QC, as next Ethics Commissioner ... 776
- Grain – Transportation
 - Rail transportation backlog ... 538–39
- Highway 19
 - Twinning ... 206
- Introduction of Guests (school groups, individuals) ... 8, 52, 109, 369, 386, 424, 473–74, 721
- Introduction of Visitors (visiting dignitaries)
 - Royal Commonwealth Society, Edmonton branch, members ... 107
- Legislative Assembly of Alberta
 - French remarks ... 109
- Members' Statements (current session)
 - Dingman discovery well centennial ... 775–76
 - Paralympic Winter Games ... 119
- Municipalities
 - Land annexation process ... 414–15
- Oral Question Period (current session topics)
 - Grain rail transportation backlog ... 538–39
 - Highway 19 twinning ... 206
 - Land annexation process ... 414–15
- Pages (Legislative Assembly)
 - Recognition, Speaker's statements on ... 778
- Paralympic Winter Games
 - Members' statements ... 119
- Reports presented by standing and special committees
 - Special Select Ethics Commissioner Search Committee report recommending the hon. Marguerite Trussler, QC, as the next Ethics Commissioner ... 776
- Speaker – Statements
 - Page recognition ... 778

Rowe, Bruce (W, Olds-Didsbury-Three Hills)

- Freedom of Information and Protection of Privacy Act (FOIP Act)
 - Information request fees, comparison with other jurisdictions ... 699

Rowe, Bruce (W, Olds-Didsbury-Three Hills)(continued)

- Freedom of Information and Protection of Privacy (MLA Public Interest Fee Waiver) Amendment Act, 2014 (Bill 204)
 - Second reading ... 698–99
 - Government accountability
 - Openness and transparency ... 698–99
 - Health care – Capacity issues
 - Wait times ... 467
 - Introduction of Guests (school groups, individuals) ... 790
 - Long-term care facilities (nursing homes/auxiliary hospitals) – Didsbury
 - Spaces ... 467
 - Long-term care facilities (nursing homes/auxiliary hospitals) – Three Hills
 - Spaces ... 467
 - Lyme disease
 - Access to testing ... 98, 773
 - Members' statements ... 171–72
 - Treatment ... 773
 - Members' Statements (current session)
 - Lyme disease ... 171–72
 - Ministry of Human Services
 - Associate Minister of Family and Community Safety's remarks to news media ... 324–25
 - Municipal sustainability initiative
 - Funding from supplementary supply ... 32
 - Municipalities – Finance
 - Official Opposition position, 10-10 plan ... 139
 - Oral Question Period (current session topics)
 - Associate Minister of Family and Community Safety's remarks ... 324–25
 - Health care system ... 467
 - Lyme disease ... 98, 773
 - Property tax
 - Industrial assessments ... 139
 - Linear property assessment, distribution of revenue (Motion Other than Government Motion 501: defeated) ... 139
 - Speech from the Throne
 - Addresses in reply (questions and comments) ... 32
 - Tradespeople
 - Associate Minister of Family and Community Safety's remarks ... 324–25
- Sandhu, Peter (PC, Edmonton-Manning)
- Government services
 - Information security management, organ and tissue donor registry ... 540
 - International trade – India
 - Members' statements ... 328
 - Introduction of Guests (school groups, individuals) ... 370, 460
 - Members' Statements (current session)
 - Mental health services ... 723
 - Trade with India ... 328
 - Vaisakhi ... 460
 - Mental health services
 - Adults' service procurement ... 799–800
 - Members' statements ... 723
 - Office of the Premier
 - Premier Redford's trade mission to India ... 328
 - Oral Question Period (current session topics)
 - Mental health service procurement for adults ... 799–800
 - Organ donor registry ... 539–40

Sandhu, Peter (PC, Edmonton-Manning) (continued)

- Organ and tissue donation
 - Donor registry ... 539–40
 - Vaisakhi
 - Members' statements ... 460
- Sarich, Janice (PC, Edmonton-Decore)
- Education – Curricula
 - Chinese bilingual education in Edmonton, members' statements on ... 599
 - Introduction of Guests (school groups, individuals) ... 88, 237, 529, 597–98, 681–82, 789
 - Introduction of Visitors (visiting dignitaries)
 - Princess Patricia's Canadian Light Infantry representatives ... 505
 - Legislative Assembly of Alberta
 - Ukrainian remarks ... 99
 - Members' Statements (current session)
 - Chinese bilingual education in Edmonton ... 599
 - Glengarry school 50th anniversary and opening of Hassan Seifeddine Literacy Learning Centre ... 791
 - Princess Patricia's Canadian Light Infantry centennial ... 506
 - Taras Shevchenko 200th anniversary ... 99
 - Princess Patricia's Canadian Light Infantry Centennial, members' statements on ... 506
 - Schools – Edmonton
 - Glengarry school 50th anniversary and Hassan Seifeddine Literacy Learning Centre, members' statements on ... 791
 - Ukraine
 - Arts and culture, Taras Shevchenko 200th anniversary, members' statements on ... 99
- Saskiw, Shayne (W, Lac La Biche-St. Paul-Two Hills)
- Alberta Human Rights Act
 - Repeal of section 3(1)(b) (Motion Other than Government Motion 502: defeated) ... 280–81, 287
 - Section 3(1)(b), Premier Redford's remarks on ... 280
 - Appropriation (Interim Supply) Act, 2014 (Bill 5)
 - Committee ... 218–19
 - Budget process
 - Balanced/deficit budgets ... 34
 - Criminal Code (federal)
 - Freedom of speech provisions ... 280
 - Debts, provincial
 - General remarks ... 218–19
 - Domestic violence
 - GPS monitoring of offenders ... 344
 - Edmonton-Meadowlark (constituency)
 - Member's personal and family history ... 287
 - Estate Administration Act (Bill 4)
 - Second reading ... 184
 - International grant provisions ... 184
 - Floods – High River
 - Firearm collection by emergency responders ... 538
 - Freedom of Information and Protection of Privacy Act (FOIP Act)
 - Information request process ... 534–35
 - Information request process, former Deputy Premier's memo on ... 534–35
 - Government airplanes
 - Cabinet travel to Grande Prairie fundraising event, clarification ... 216
 - Usage policy, point of order on debate ... 216
 - Government grant programs
 - Financial reporting ... 218–19

Saskiw, Shayne (W, Lac La Biche-St. Paul-Two Hills)(continued)

- Impaired driving
 - Repeat offenders, penalties for, point of order on debate ... 301
- Introduction of Guests (school groups, individuals) ... 89, 303, 317, 505, 659, 660
- Introduction of Visitors (visiting dignitaries)
 - Member of Parliament for Westlock-St. Paul ... 303
- Justice system
 - Traffic court reform initiative ... 412
- Kidney dialysis
 - Mobile service ... 117
- Members' Statements (current session)
 - Premier Redford's travel expense repayment ... 248-49
- Office of the Premier
 - Premier Redford's travel to South Africa, repayment, members' statements on ... 248-49
- Oral Question Period (current session topics)
 - Domestic violence offender monitoring ... 344
 - Firearm collection during High River flooding ... 538
 - FOIP request process ... 534-35
 - Mobile dialysis service ... 117
 - Traffic court reform initiative ... 412
- Points of order (current session)
 - Factual accuracy ... 301
 - Referring to nonmembers, clarification ... 216
- Schools – St. Paul
 - Vehicle crash, members' travel to, clarification ... 216
- Speech from the Throne
 - Addresses in reply (questions and comments) ... 34

Scott, Donald, QC (PC, Fort McMurray-Conklin; Associate Minister – Accountability, Transparency and Transformation)

- Business enterprises – Taxation
 - Comparison with other jurisdictions ... 138
- Childhood Vision Assessment Act (Bill 203)
 - Second reading ... 447-48
- Eye See ... Eye Learn program
 - General remarks ... 447
- Freedom of Information and Protection of Privacy Act (FOIP Act)
 - Information request fees ... 667, 694
 - Information request process ... 605, 607, 663, 666, 667
 - Information request process, former Deputy Premier's memo on ... 605
 - Information requests by Liberal caucus ... 480
- Freedom of Information and Protection of Privacy (MLA Public Interest Fee Waiver) Amendment Act, 2014 (Bill 204)
 - Second reading ... 451-52, 694
- Introduction of Guests (school groups, individuals) ... 89, 682
- Liberal opposition
 - FOIP requests ... 480, 605
- Ministry of Health
 - Information requests under FOIP from ... 663
- Ministry of Service Alberta
 - Associate Minister, Accountability, Transparency and Transformation ... 667
- Oral Question Period (current session topics)
 - FOIP request process ... 480, 605, 607, 663, 666-67
 - Long-term care in Fort McMurray ... 309
 - Public body executive travel expenses ... 240
 - Whistle-blower protection for physicians ... 93

Scott, Donald, QC (PC, Fort McMurray-Conklin; Associate Minister – Accountability, Transparency and Transformation) (continued)

- Physicians
 - Whistle-blower protection ... 93
- Property tax
 - Linear property assessment, distribution of revenue (Motion Other than Government Motion 501: defeated) ... 138-39
 - Types of assessments ... 138
- Property tax – British Columbia
 - Review ... 138
- Property tax – Nova Scotia
 - Review ... 138
- Public Interest Disclosure (Whistleblower Protection) Act
 - General remarks ... 93
- Public service
 - Publication of executive salaries (sunshine list) ... 240
- Tax on property
 - Comparison with other jurisdictions ... 138
- Traffic safety
 - Penalties for speeding, motion to amend Traffic Safety Act provisions (Motion Other than Government Motion 504: carried) ... 457-58
 - Penalties for speeding, other jurisdictions ... 457-58
- Vision care
 - Vision assessments for schoolchildren, other jurisdictions ... 448

Sherman, Dr. Raj (AL, Edmonton-Meadowlark)

- Aboriginal peoples
 - Programs and services ... 337
- Addiction – Treatment
 - Funding ... 181
- Alberta Health Services (authority)
 - Auditor General audits ... 463
- Alberta Human Rights Act
 - Repeal of section 3(1)(b) (Motion Other than Government Motion 502: defeated) ... 283-84
 - Section 3(1)(b), Premier Redford's remarks on ... 284
- Bitumen – Upgrading
 - Provincial strategy ... 33
- Budget 2013-2014
 - General remarks ... 179-80
- Budget Address
 - Addresses in reply ... 179-81
 - Addresses in reply, questions and comments ... 181-82
- Budget officer (proposed)
 - Other jurisdictions ... 271
- Budget process
 - Balanced/deficit budgets ... 34-35
 - Results-based budgeting ... 180
- Building Alberta plan
 - General remarks ... 35
- Calgary
 - Mayor's letter on proposed changes to public service pensions ... 685
- Child poverty
 - Plan to end ... 33
- Children – Protective services
 - Deaths and injuries, communications consulting contracts re ... 725-26
 - Deaths and injuries, public information on ... 725-26
- Committee on Privileges and Elections, Standing Orders and Printing, Standing
 - MLA compensation repayments ... 12

Sherman, Dr. Raj (AL, Edmonton-Meadowlark)(continued)

- Contract services
 - Sole-source contracts ... 463, 725–26
- Daycare
 - Funding ... 181
- Early childhood education
 - Provincial strategy ... 181
- Economic development
 - Provincial strategy ... 32
- Edmonton Catholic school board
 - Capital plan ... 180
- Edmonton-Meadowlark (constituency)
 - Member's personal and family history ... 283–84
- Education
 - Provincial strategy ... 33
- Education – Finance
 - Funding ... 33, 180, 255
 - Liberal opposition position ... 33, 181
- Employment Pension (Private Sector) Plans Amendment Act, 2014 (Bill 10)
 - Progress through the Assembly ... 685
- Energy industries – Environmental aspects
 - Public perception ... 180–81
- Environmental protection
 - Provincial strategy ... 32
- Executive Council
 - Budget 2014-2015 ... 111
 - Travel expenses ... 33
- Fiscal policy
 - Government spending ... 180, 255, 791–92
- Flaherty, Jim (former Member of Parliament and federal cabinet minister)
 - Memorial tribute ... 409
- Floods – Southern Alberta
 - Communications contracts ... 293–94, 307, 341, 373–74, 463
- Freedom of Information and Protection of Privacy Act (FOIP Act)
 - Information requests by Liberal caucus ... 477
- Gay, lesbian, bisexual, or transgender persons
 - Supports for students ... 389–90
 - Supports for students, point of order on debate ... 400
- Gay-straight alliances in schools
 - School board policies, legislation on (Motion Other than Government Motion 503: defeated) ... 367
 - Student requests for ... 389–90
- Government accountability
 - Financial reporting ... 179–80
- Government airplanes
 - Cabinet travel to Grande Prairie fundraising event ... 203
 - Usage policy ... 180, 203
 - Usage policy, Auditor General review ... 165
 - Use of multiple planes ... 165
- Government policies
 - Members' statements ... 791–92
 - Performance measures ... 255
- Greenhouse gas emissions
 - Reduction strategies ... 33
- Health care
 - Performance measures ... 34
- Health care – Capacity issues
 - Performance measures ... 409–10
- Health care – Finance
 - Budget oversight by ministry ... 463
 - Funding ... 180, 409

Sherman, Dr. Raj (AL, Edmonton-Meadowlark)(continued)

- Health facilities – Maintenance and repair
 - Funding ... 427
- Health promotion
 - Prevention and community health, Liberal opposition position on ... 181
- Home-care services
 - Private service delivery ... 33
- Independent Budget Officer Act (Bill 202)
 - Second reading ... 270–71
- Introduction of Guests (school groups, individuals) ... 8, 90, 108, 252, 289, 303–4, 318, 335, 386, 406, 459, 660, 762
- Introduction of Visitors (visiting dignitaries)
 - Member of Parliament for Vancouver Centre and assistant ... 289
- Liberal opposition
 - FOIP requests ... 477
- Long-term care facilities (nursing homes/auxiliary hospitals)
 - Access ... 33
- Members' Statements (current session)
 - Government policies ... 791–72
 - Public service ... 319
 - Public service pensions ... 434
- Mental health services
 - General remarks ... 181
- Ministerial Statements (current session)
 - Events in Ukraine, responses ... 9
 - Truth and Reconciliation Commission national event, ministerial statement on, responses ... 337
- Ministry of Human Services
 - Budget 2014-2015 ... 111
 - Minister's announcement of procedural changes for children in care, point of order on debate ... 400
- Misericordia community hospital
 - Capital needs ... 410
 - Replacement, timeline on ... 427
- Multiculturalism
 - General remarks ... 284
- Office of the Premier
 - Communications expenses ... 111
 - Funding ... 111, 180
 - Hosting expenses ... 111
 - Premier Hancock's apology at party fundraising event ... 791
 - Premier Redford's public service ... 319
 - Premier Redford's travel to South Africa ... 11–12, 55
 - Premier Redford's travel to South Africa, repayment (proposed) ... 11–12, 55, 111, 165, 203
- Oral Question Period (current session topics)
 - Cabinet air travel expenses ... 165
 - Cabinet travel expense policy ... 55
 - Flood recovery communications contracts ... 293–94, 307, 341, 373–74
 - FOIP request process ... 477
 - Government airplane usage ... 203
 - Government communications ... 725–26
 - Government policies ... 255
 - Government spending ... 463
 - Health care performance indicators ... 409–10
 - Health facilities infrastructure ... 427
 - LGBTQ student supports ... 389–90
 - Personal information collection by members ... 793–94
 - Premier Redford's office budget ... 111

Sherman, Dr. Raj (AL, Edmonton-Meadowlark)(continued)

- Oral Question Period (current session topics) (continued)
 - Premier Redford's travel to South Africa ... 11–12
 - Public service pension legislation ... 685
 - Public service pensions ... 533, 601–2
 - Task Force for Teaching Excellence report ... 767–68
- Personal information
 - Collection by members ... 793–94
- Persons with disabilities
 - Programs and services ... 181
- Pipelines – Construction
 - Liberal opposition position ... 33
- Points of order (current session)
 - Allegations against a member or members ... 400
- Postsecondary educational institutions – Admissions (enrolment)
 - Access ... 180
- Postsecondary educational institutions – Finance
 - Funding ... 180
 - Funding, Liberal opposition position ... 33–34
- Poverty
 - General remarks ... 643–45
- Property tax
 - Linear property assessment, distribution of revenue (Motion Other than Government Motion 501: defeated) ... 137–38
- Public Affairs Bureau
 - Mandate ... 294
- Public Sector Pension Plans Amendment Act, 2014 (Bill 9)
 - Second reading ... 554–56
 - Second reading, motion to refer bill to Standing Committee on Alberta's Economic Future (referral amendment RA1) (Notley: defeated) ... 643–45
 - Progress through the Assembly ... 685
- Public Sector Services Continuation Act (Bill 45, 2013)
 - General remarks ... 684
- Public service
 - Collective agreements ... 34, 319
 - Members' statements ... 319
 - Work conditions ... 181
- Public service – Pensions
 - General remarks ... 319, 601–2
 - Members' statements ... 434
 - Proposed changes, impact on women ... 555–56
 - Sustainability ... 533, 643, 644
 - Unfunded liabilities ... 554–55
- Public Service Salary Restraint Act (Bill 46, 2013)
 - General remarks ... 34
- Public transit
 - Liberal opposition position ... 34
- Public transit – Calgary
 - LRT expansion, funding ... 137–38
- Public transit – Edmonton
 - LRT expansion, funding ... 137–38
- Revenue
 - Sources ... 180–81
- Royalty structure (energy resources)
 - Provincial strategy ... 34
- School fees (elementary and secondary)
 - Amounts collected ... 180
- Schools
 - Community use ... 255
 - Public health clinics in (proposed) ... 33
- Schools – Construction
 - New schools ... 32–33
 - New schools, Liberal opposition position on ... 33

Sherman, Dr. Raj (AL, Edmonton-Meadowlark)(continued)

- Seniors
 - Aging in place strategy ... 34
 - Programs and services ... 180, 181
- Small business
 - Regulatory framework impacts ... 33
- Speech from the Throne
 - Addresses in reply ... 32–34
 - Addresses in reply (questions and comments) ... 34–35
- Surgery procedures
 - Wait times ... 409
- Task Force for Teaching Excellence
 - 2014 report, recommendations ... 767–68
- Tax policy
 - Flat tax rate ... 180, 181
 - Liberal opposition position ... 34–35
- Travel at public expense
 - Cabinet expense policy ... 55
- Truth and Reconciliation Commission
 - National event, ministerial statement on, responses ... 337
- Tuition and fees, postsecondary
 - Noninstructional fees ... 180
- Ukraine
 - Ministerial statement, responses ... 9
- Smith, Danielle (W, Highwood)
 - Aboriginal peoples – Claims
 - Land claims ... 64
 - Aboriginal peoples – Consultation
 - General remarks ... 64
 - Alberta Energy Regulator
 - Staff, full-time equivalents ... 178
 - Alberta Federation of Labour
 - Information request under FOIP to Ministry of Finance ... 664
 - Response to Bill 9, Public Sector Pension Plans Amendment Act, 2014 ... 639–40
 - Alberta Health Services (authority)
 - Administration costs ... 177, 306
 - Centralization of services ... 371–72
 - Communications budget ... 372
 - Computer purchases ... 67
 - Consulting contracts ... 371–72
 - Consulting contracts, Auditor General review ... 461–62, 476
 - Consulting contracts, sole-source ... 461–62, 475–76
 - Consulting contracts, sole-source, members' statements on ... 475
 - Consulting contracts for former executives ... 387–88, 475–76
 - Consulting contracts for former executives, members' statements on ... 396
 - Executive compensation ... 292
 - Alberta heritage savings trust fund
 - Fund utilization, Official Opposition position on ... 177
 - AltaLink
 - Purchase bid by Berkshire Hathaway Inc. ... 684
 - Appropriation Act, 2014 (Bill 8)
 - Third reading ... 633–34
 - Auditor General
 - Mandate ... 177
 - Remarks on budget documents ... 633, 663
 - Beef – Export – United States
 - Mandatory country of origin labelling ... 65

Smith, Danielle (W, Highwood) (continued)

- Budget 2014-2015
 - Advertising ... 426
 - Budget documents, financial reporting methods ... 663
 - Budget documents, financial reporting methods, Auditor General's remarks on ... 633, 663
 - Budget preparation ... 320
 - Former Finance ministers' response ... 633
 - General remarks ... 66-67
 - Official Opposition position ... 177-78
 - Operational surplus ... 67, 109-10, 176-77
- Budget Address
 - Addresses in reply ... 174-79
- Budget process
 - Results-based budgeting ... 66, 178
 - Zero-based budgeting ... 177, 634
- Building Alberta plan
 - Advertising ... 66
 - Promotional jackets ... 427
- Business enterprises
 - Programs and services ... 177
- Capital plan
 - Infrastructure financing, borrowing ... 66-67, 109-10, 175, 634
 - Official Opposition position ... 65, 177, 178
 - Project prioritization ... 178-79
 - Remarks in throne speech ... 65
- Capital projects
 - Federal funding programs, access to ... 792
 - Project scheduling ... 65
- Children – Protective services
 - Deaths and injuries, investigations ... 389
- Cities and towns
 - Civic charters ... 65
- Contract services
 - Sole-source contracts ... 470, 724-25, 766-67
- Debts, provincial
 - Debt-servicing costs ... 634
 - General remarks ... 67, 109, 177, 320
 - Premier Redford's remarks on ... 176
 - Repayment ... 175-76
- Distance education
 - General remarks ... 65
- Domestic violence
 - GPS monitoring of offenders ... 389
- Economy
 - 2008 global downturn ... 176
- Education
 - Provincial strategy ... 65
- Education – Curricula
 - Mathematics curriculum ... 66, 90-91, 292-93
- Elections, provincial
 - 2012 election, members' statements on ... 598
- Electric power – Prices
 - Comparison with other jurisdictions ... 723-24
- Electric power – Retail sales
 - Corporations' economic withholding/market manipulation ... 91
 - Corporations' economic withholding/market manipulation, investigation by Market Surveillance Administrator ... 91
 - Fees ... 684
- Electric power lines – Construction
 - Incentives to build ... 684
- Executive Council
 - Deputy minister's role ... 766

Smith, Danielle (W, Highwood) (continued)

- Family care clinics
 - General remarks ... 54-55, 724
 - Provincial strategy on ... 684-85
- Federal Public Building
 - Redevelopment project ... 177
 - Redevelopment project, residential suite proposal ... 339-40
 - Redevelopment project, residential suite proposal, cost of ... 792-93
 - Redevelopment project change orders ... 388
- Fiscal policy
 - Government savings ... 634
 - Government spending ... 65
 - Government spending, oversight of ... 177, 634
- Flaherty, Jim (former Member of Parliament and federal cabinet minister)
 - Memorial tribute ... 406
- Flood damage mitigation
 - Federal funding grants ... 792
 - Funding ... 179
 - General remarks ... 65, 531-32
- Flood damage mitigation – Calgary
 - Funding ... 179
- Flood damage mitigation – High River
 - Funding ... 179
 - Members' statements ... 406, 470
- Floodplains
 - Mapping ... 65, 169-70, 321, 406
- Floods
 - Advisory and warning system ... 409
- Floods – Calgary
 - Disaster recovery program claims, buyouts ... 307
- Floods – High River
 - Disaster recovery, members' statements on ... 406, 470
 - Disaster recovery program claims ... 203, 293
 - Flood-related buyouts in Beachwood Estates ... 320-21
- Floods – Southern Alberta
 - Communications contracts ... 766-67
 - Disaster recovery program, administration costs ... 293
 - Disaster recovery program claims ... 170, 202-3, 240-41, 254-55, 293
 - Disaster recovery program contracts ... 170, 724-25
 - Preparation for June 2013 floods ... 531-32
- Food banks
 - General remarks ... 774
- Freedom of Information and Protection of Privacy Act (FOIP Act)
 - Information request process ... 509, 532-33, 599-600, 663-64
 - Information request process, former Deputy Premier's memo on ... 532, 599-600
- Government
 - Effectiveness, impact of Progressive Conservative Party leadership campaign ... 793
 - Public trust in ... 683-84
- Government accountability
 - Financial reporting ... 174-75, 176-77
 - General remarks ... 67, 598
- Government agencies, boards, and commissions
 - Executive travel expenses ... 240
- Government airplanes
 - Cabinet travel to Grande Prairie fundraising event ... 201, 239-40
 - Comparison to charter or commercial flights ... 463

Smith, Danielle (W, Highwood) (continued)

- Government airplanes (continued)
 - Ministers' travel to Edmonton ... 254
 - Usage policy ... 54, 90, 163–64, 179, 201–2, 254, 425–26, 462–63, 685, 766
 - Usage policy, Auditor General review ... 54, 426
 - Usage policy, other jurisdictions ... 426
- Government caucus
 - Member's departure, Associate Minister of Family and Community Safety's remarks on ... 253–54
- Government communications
 - Budget ... 372
 - Consulting contracts ... 372
- Government policies
 - Implementation ... 319–20
- Grain – Transportation
 - Rail transportation backlog ... 65
- Health care
 - Performance measures ... 600
- Health care – Capacity issues
 - Provincial strategy ... 65
- Health care – Edmonton
 - Performance measures ... 600
- Health care – Finance
 - Funding, federal health transfer ... 174–75
 - Funding for front-line services ... 634
- Health care – Slave Lake
 - Access ... 54
 - Family care clinic ... 65
- Highway 15
 - Capital plan ... 178–79
- Highway 63
 - Twinning ... 65
- Hunger
 - Members' statements ... 774–75
- Internet – Rural areas
 - Final mile strategy ... 65
- Interprovincial/territorial trade
 - Free trade zone (proposed) ... 66
- Introduction of Guests (school groups, individuals) ... 253, 304, 369, 386, 530
- Kidney dialysis – Athabasca
 - Access to services ... 408
- LandLink Consulting Ltd.
 - Disaster relief contract ... 170, 202–3, 767
 - Transitional contract ... 255
- Local authorities pension plan
 - General remarks ... 640
- Long-term care facilities (nursing homes/auxiliary hospitals)
 - Client placement policy ... 67
- Marriage Act amendments
 - Gender reference changes ... 736–37
- Members of the Legislative Assembly
 - Compensation ... 66, 177
- Members' Statements (current session)
 - Alberta Health Services consulting contracts ... 396
 - Alberta Health Services sole-source contracts ... 475
 - Flood recovery and mitigation in High River ... 406, 470
 - Hunger in Alberta ... 774–75
 - Premier Redford's travel to South Africa ... 52
 - Provincial election anniversary ... 598
- Ministerial Statements (current session)
 - Events in Ukraine, responses ... 9
 - Truth and Reconciliation Commission national event, ministerial statement on, responses ... 336–37

Smith, Danielle (W, Highwood) (continued)

- Ministry of Education
 - Departmental staff, full-time equivalents ... 178
 - Funding ... 111
- Ministry of Energy
 - Funding ... 178
 - Minister's meetings with industry ... 373, 388
- Ministry of Environment and Sustainable Resource Development
 - Departmental staff, full-time equivalents ... 178
- Ministry of Health
 - Information requests under FOIP from ... 600, 663
- Ministry of Human Services
 - Associate Minister of Family and Community Safety's remarks to news media ... 253–54
 - Associate Minister of Family and Community Safety's travel with daughter ... 426
 - Minister's announcement of procedural changes for children in care ... 389
- Ministry of Infrastructure
 - Funding ... 178
 - Minister's meetings with industry ... 373
- Ministry of International and Intergovernmental Relations
 - Minister's use of government airplanes ... 254
- Ministry of Jobs, Skills, Training and Labour
 - Funding ... 178
- Ministry of Justice and Solicitor General
 - Minister's decision on GPS monitoring of domestic violence offenders ... 389
- Ministry of Service Alberta
 - Departmental staff, full-time equivalents ... 178
- Ministry of Tourism, Parks and Recreation
 - Minister's use of government airplanes ... 254
- Ministry of Treasury Board and Finance
 - Alberta Federation of Labour request for information under FOIP from ... 664
 - Assistant deputy minister's remarks on budget documents ... 663
- Municipalities
 - Relations with provincial government, Official Opposition position ... 65
- Municipalities – Finance
 - Federal grant funding, access to ... 792
 - Official Opposition position, 10-10 plan ... 178
- New Democratic opposition
 - Tribute to leader Brian Mason ... 764–65
- Office of the Premier
 - Expenses, oversight of ... 766
 - Funding ... 178
 - Premier Hancock's apology at party fundraising event ... 683–84
 - Premier Hancock's term of office ... 793
 - Premier Redford's public service ... 319
 - Premier Redford's travel expenses ... 53–54, 90
 - Premier Redford's travel to Jasper ... 425–26, 462–63, 476–77, 508
 - Premier Redford's travel to South Africa ... 10–11, 53, 66, 90
 - Premier Redford's travel to South Africa, members' statements on ... 52
 - Premier Redford's travel to South Africa, repayment (proposed) ... 10–11, 53
 - Staff severance payments ... 339
- Okotoks health and wellness centre
 - Parking access ... 482

Smith, Danielle (W, Highwood) (continued)

- Oral Question Period (current session topics)
 - Alberta Health Services administration costs ... 306
 - Alberta Health Services consulting contracts ... 371–72, 387–88
 - Alberta Health Services executive compensation ... 292
 - Alberta Health Services sole-source contracts ... 461–62, 475–76
 - Associate Minister of Family and Community Safety ... 253–54
 - Budget 2014 ... 320
 - Cabinet travel to Grand Prairie ... 239–40
 - Disaster recovery program administration ... 293, 724–25, 767
 - Disaster recovery program claims ... 202–3, 240–41, 254–55, 307
 - Electricity prices ... 723–24
 - Electricity pricing ... 91
 - Electricity system ... 684
 - Family care clinics ... 54–55, 724
 - Federal building redevelopment plan ... 339–40, 388
 - Federal building redevelopment project management ... 792–93
 - Federal funding programs ... 792
 - Flood advisory and warning system ... 409
 - Flood recovery and mitigation ... 169–70
 - Flood-related buyouts in High River ... 320–21
 - FOIP request process ... 509, 532–33, 599–600, 663–64
 - Government advertising ... 426–27
 - Government airplane usage ... 163–64, 201–2, 254, 425–26, 462–63
 - Government communications ... 766–67
 - Government communications budget ... 372–73
 - Government effectiveness ... 319–20
 - Government policies ... 684–85
 - Health care performance measures ... 600
 - Mathematics curriculum ... 90–91, 292–93
 - Ministers' activities ... 388–89
 - Ministers' meeting with industry ... 373
 - Okotoks Health and Wellness Centre parking ... 482
 - Premier Redford's travel expenses ... 53–54, 90
 - Premier Redford's travel to Jasper ... 476–77, 508
 - Premier Redford's travel to South Africa ... 10–11
 - Premier's office expense oversight ... 766
 - Premier's term of office ... 793
 - Probation services for aboriginal youth ... 306
 - Progressive Conservative Party trust account ... 340–41, 408–9
 - Provincial borrowing ... 109–10
 - Provincial budget ... 110–11
 - Provincial budget documents ... 663
 - Public body executive travel expenses ... 240
 - Public service pensions ... 507–8, 601
 - Regional dialysis service ... 408
 - Severance payments to Premier Redford's office staff ... 339
 - Spring flood preparedness ... 531–32
 - Trust in government ... 683–84
- Physicians – Slave Lake
 - Recruitment and retention ... 54–55
- Postsecondary students – Calgary
 - Deaths ... 461
- Primary care (medicine)
 - General remarks ... 724
- Probation
 - Services for aboriginal youth ... 306

Smith, Danielle (W, Highwood) (continued)

- Progressive Conservative Party of Alberta
 - Trust account ... 340, 408
- Public Affairs Bureau
 - Funding ... 177
- Public Sector Pension Plans Amendment Act, 2014 (Bill 9)
 - Second reading, motion to refer bill to Standing Committee on Alberta's Economic Future (referral amendment RA1) (Notley: defeated) ... 638–42
 - Alberta Federation of Labour response ... 639–40
 - Progress through the Assembly ... 684
- Public Sector Services Continuation Act (Bill 45, 2013)
 - Public response to bill ... 684
- Public service
 - Collective agreements, negotiations ... 110
 - Compensation ... 177, 179
 - Government departments, restructuring ... 177
 - Publication of executive salaries (sunshine list) ... 179, 240
 - Work conditions ... 179
- Public service – Pensions
 - Contribution rates ... 639
 - General remarks ... 66, 507–8, 601
 - Managers' plan ... 639
 - Official Opposition position ... 641–42
 - Provincial liabilities ... 641
 - Sustainability ... 664
 - Unfunded liabilities ... 639
- Public Service Salary Restraint Act (Bill 46, 2013)
 - Implementation ... 66
- Public transit – Calgary
 - LRT expansion ... 110
- Public transit – Edmonton
 - LRT expansion ... 110
 - LRT expansion, funding ... 178, 179
- Renewable energy sources
 - Alternative and renewable energy framework ... 66
- Revenue
 - Forecasts ... 174–76
 - Increase in ... 109–10, 175
- Same-sex marriage
 - General remarks ... 736–37
- Schools – Construction
 - Modernizations, timeline on ... 66, 684–85
 - New schools, timeline on ... 66, 179, 684–85
- Schools – Construction – Blackfalds
 - New school, timeline on ... 66
- Small business
 - Regulatory framework impacts ... 65
- Speech from the Throne
 - Addresses in reply ... 64–67
 - Comparison to 2012 speech ... 67
 - Preparation procedure ... 64–65
- Statutes Amendment Act, 2014 (Bill 12)
 - Second reading ... 736–37
 - General remarks ... 793
- Sustainability fund
 - Fund utilization ... 175–76
- Tax policy
 - Provincial strategy ... 64–65
- Travel Alberta
 - Executive expenses ... 240
- Travel at public expense
 - Expense policy ... 11, 54
 - Official Opposition position ... 177
- Truth and Reconciliation Commission
 - National event, ministerial statement on, responses ... 336–37

Smith, Danielle (W, Highwood) (continued)

- Ukraine
 - Ministerial statement, responses ... 9
- University of Alberta
 - Capital funding ... 179
- Vital Statistics Act
 - Amendments proposed re sex indicator requirements on birth records ... 736–37
- Water for life
 - Program funding... 178
- Water management – Okotoks
 - Licences ... 178

Speaker, The (Zwozdesky, Gene)

- Alberta – History
 - Legislative history ... 4
- Alberta Hansard*
 - Remarks off the record ... 348, 351
 - Remarks off the record, point of order on ... 351
- Alberta Health Services (authority)
 - Appearance before Public Accounts Committee (proposed), Speaker's statement on questions to a committee chair ... 469
- Bills, government (procedure)
 - Speaking order ... 612
- Bills, private members' public (procedure)
 - Rotation of speakers, clarification on ... 697
- Chamber (Legislative Assembly)
 - Electronic device use, Speaker's procedural letter on ... 475
 - Electronic device use, Speaker's statements on ... 469
- Choirs – Bonnyville
 - Tune-Agers, singing of O Canada ... 529
- Commonwealth Day
 - Message from the Queen, Speaker's statement on ... 107
- Commonwealth Games
 - General remarks ... 107
- Education – Curricula
 - Mathematics curriculum, point of order on debate ... 173
- Elections, provincial
 - Member for Lesser Slave Lake's 25th anniversary of election, Speaker's statement on ... 317
 - Members' 2nd anniversary of election, Speaker's statement on ... 608
 - Members' 6th anniversary of election ... 4
 - Member's 12th anniversary of election, Speaker's statement on ... 369
 - Members' 13th anniversary of election ... 199
 - Members' 17th anniversary of election, Speaker's statement on ... 161
- Electric power – Prices
 - Consumer protection, matters sub judice ... 166
 - Fluctuations, point of order on debate ... 543
- Electric power – Retail sales
 - Corporations' economic withholding/market manipulation, investigation by RCMP re criminal charges (proposed), point of order on debate ... 24–25
 - Corporations' economic withholding/market manipulation, point of privilege raised on debate (intimidation) ... 172–73, 211
 - Corporations' economic withholding/market manipulation, point of privilege raised on debate (intimidation), Speaker's ruling ... 212

Speaker, The (Zwozdesky, Gene) (continued)

- Electric power lines
 - Planned shutdown re connection of new HVDC line, point of order on debate ... 544
- Estimates of supply, main (procedure)
 - Transmittal ... 101
- Famous Five
 - Speaker's statement ... 471
- Federal Public Building
 - Redevelopment project change orders, point of order on debate ... 403
- Flaherty, Jim (former Member of Parliament and federal cabinet minister)
 - State funeral, Speaker's statement on ... 473
- Floods – High River
 - Firearm collection by emergency responders, point of order on debate ... 544
- Freedom of Information and Protection of Privacy Act (FOIP Act)
 - Information request process, former Deputy Premier's memo on ... 542–43
 - Information request process, point of order on debate ... 542–43
- Freedom of Information and Protection of Privacy (MLA Public Interest Fee Waiver) Amendment Act, 2014 (Bill 204)
 - Second reading, point of clarification on debate (speaking order) ... 697
- Gay, lesbian, bisexual, or transgender persons
 - Supports for students, point of order on debate ... 399–401
- God Save the Queen
 - Sung by Robert Clark ... 4
- Government airplanes
 - Cabinet travel to Grande Prairie fundraising event ... 215
 - Cabinet travel to Grande Prairie fundraising event, clarification ... 216
 - Usage policy, point of order on debate ... 216
 - Usage policy, point of privilege raised on debate (misleading the House) ... 215
- Government caucus
 - Members' Statements and Oral Question Period rotation, Speaker's statement on ... 10
- Government policies
 - Implementation, point of order on debate ... 316
- Impaired driving
 - Repeat offenders, penalties for, point of order on debate ... 301–2
- Independent members
 - Oral Question Period and Members' Statements rotation, Speaker's statement on ... 10
 - Oral Question Period rotation change, Speaker's statements on ... 291, 305–6
- Introduction of Guests (procedure)
 - Brevity ... 87
- Introduction of Guests (school groups, individuals)
 - ... 317, 474
- Introduction of Visitors (visiting dignitaries)
 - Family of former MLA Muriel Ross Abdurahman ... 7
 - Representatives from the South Alberta Light Horse and the Princess Patricia Canadian Light Infantry regiments ... 385
- Legislative Assembly of Alberta
 - Decorum ... 120–23
 - Decorum, Speaker's rulings on ... 56, 57, 111, 115, 116, 206, 310, 312, 320, 341–42

Speaker, The (Zwozdesky, Gene) (continued)

- Legislative Assembly of Alberta (continued)
 - Electronic device use in Chamber, Speaker's procedural letter on ... 475
 - Electronic device use in Chamber, Speaker's statements on ... 469
 - Exhibits (props) use by members ... 168
 - Mr. Speaker's MLA for a Day program, Speaker's statements on ... 329, 485
 - Parliamentary language ... 16, 182, 216–17, 414
 - Procedures, Speaker's letter to members on ... 120–21
 - Rotation of speakers, Speaker's statements on ... 10
 - Ukrainian remarks ... 300
- Legislature Building
 - Famous Five exhibit, Speaker's statement on ... 471
 - History ... 4
 - Repairs to domes ... 4
- Lesser Slave Lake (constituency)
 - Member's 25th anniversary of election, Speaker's statement on ... 317
- Liberal opposition
 - Members' Statements and Oral Question Period rotation, Speaker's statement on ... 10
- Lieutenant Governor of Alberta
 - Entrance ... 1
- Mandatory Reporting of Child Pornography Act
 - Proclamation, timeline on, point of order on debate ... 64
- Members of the Legislative Assembly
 - Birthday commemorations ... 30, 516, 540
 - Former MLA Jonathan Joseph Lord, memorial tribute ... 333
 - Former MLA Muriel Ross Abdurahman, memorial tribute ... 7
 - Interrupting a member ... 54–55, 310, 325, 463, 603
 - Interrupting a member, second supplemental question disallowed in Oral Question Period, point of clarification on ... 120–23
 - Interrupting a member, Speaker's rulings on ... 309, 389, 413, 477–78, 508, 793
 - Interrupting a member, Speaker's statements on ... 306
 - Naming by the Speaker ... 120, 121, 123
 - Parliamentary privilege ... 212
 - Penalization for actions of another member ... 122, 123
 - Reference in Assembly to absence, point of order on ... 316
- Members' Statements (procedure)
 - 30-second wait before commencement ... 540
 - Interruptions ... 395
 - Interruptions, Speaker's rulings on ... 396
 - Interruptions, Speaker's statements on ... 351
 - Length, Speaker's statements on ... 351, 370–71
 - Rotation of statements, Speaker's statements on ... 10, 291
- Ministerial Statements (procedure)
 - Time limits, Speaker's statements on ... 351, 370–71
- Ministry of Energy
 - Minister's meetings with industry, point of order on debate ... 383–84
 - Minister's meetings with industry, point of order on debate, clarification ... 384
- Ministry of Human Services
 - Minister's announcement of procedural changes for children in care, point of order on debate ... 399–401

Speaker, The (Zwozdesky, Gene) (continued)

- Ministry of Infrastructure
 - Minister's meetings with industry, point of clarification on Speaker's intervention ... 384
 - Minister's meetings with industry, point of order on debate ... 383–84
- Ministry of Justice and Solicitor General
 - Minister's decision on GPS monitoring of domestic violence offenders, point of order on debate ... 402
- Ministry of Municipal Affairs
 - New minister, change in Bill 6 sponsorship to reflect, Speaker's statement on ... 395
- Motions (procedure)
 - Request that House continue past adjournment hour to complete debate ... 285, 286
- New Democratic opposition
 - Members' Statements and Oral Question Period rotation, Speaker's statement on ... 10
 - Tribute to leader Brian Mason ... 763–64, 765, 766
- New Home Buyer Protection Amendment Act, 2014 (Bill 6)
 - Change of sponsorship, Speaker's statement on ... 395
- O Canada*
 - Sung by Robert Clark ... 1
 - Sung by Robert Clark, to be regular leader of national anthem in Assembly ... 107
 - Sung by the Bonnyville Tune-Agers ... 529
- Office of the Premier
 - Premier Redford's travel to Jasper, point of order on debate ... 518–19
 - Speaker's welcome to new Premier, Speaker's statement on ... 333
- Official Opposition
 - Members' Statements and Oral Question Period rotation, Speaker's statements on ... 10
- Oral Question Period (procedure)
 - Brevity (35-second rule) ... 306, 516, 531
 - Indirect remarks ... 216–17
 - Interruptions ... 463
 - Interruptions, Speaker's statements on ... 306, 608
 - Interruptions, Speaker's rulings on ... 793
 - Preambles to supplementary questions, Speaker's statements on ... 469, 608
 - Questions asking for legal opinions ... 345
 - Questions in anticipation ... 13, 345
 - Questions in anticipation, point of order on ... 23
 - Questions on internal party matters ... 375, 428
 - Questions on internal party matters, point of clarification on ... 384
 - Questions on internal party matters, points of order on debate ... 402
 - Questions on internal party matters, Speaker's rulings on ... 203, 204, 340, 389
 - Questions on items previously decided, Speaker's rulings on ... 394
 - Questions referring to persons in the galleries, Speaker's rulings on ... 165
 - Questions that seek opinions ... 110
 - Questions to committee chairs, Speaker's statements on ... 469
 - Repetition of questions, Speaker's rulings on ... 390
 - Rotation of questions, Speaker's statements on ... 10, 291, 305–6
 - Rules and practices ... 253
 - Rules and practices, Speaker's statements on ... 469

Speaker, The (Zwozdesky, Gene) (continued)

- Oral Question Period (procedure) (continued)
 - Supplemental question denied because of lack of decorum in Assembly ... 115, 116, 122
 - Supplemental question denied because of lack of decorum in Assembly, point of clarification on ... 120–23
 - Timing of speakers, Speaker's statements on ... 306
- Order Paper
 - Revisions, Speaker's statements on ... 395
- Orders of the Day (procedure)
 - Questions in anticipation ... 13, 345
 - Questions in anticipation, point of order on ... 23
- Pages (Legislative Assembly)
 - Recognition, Speaker's statements on ... 777–78
- Points of clarification (current session)
 - Maintaining order in the Assembly/interrupting a member, second supplemental question disallowed in Oral Question Period ... 120–23
 - Questions on internal party matters, Speaker's intervention on ... 384
- Points of order (current session)
 - Allegations against a member or members ... 383–84, 399–401
 - Anticipation ... 23
 - Clarification ... 544
 - Factual accuracy ... 25, 64, 101, 173, 301–2, 403, 435, 518–19, 542–43, 544
 - Imputing motives ... 402
 - Inflammatory language ... 272–73
 - Member's withdrawal of remarks ... 101
 - Parliamentary language ... 22, 216–17
 - Questions on internal party matters ... 402
 - Referring to nonmembers, clarification ... 216
 - Referring to the absence of members ... 316
 - Remarks off the record ... 351
- Political parties
 - Leadership campaigns, legislative provisions on donations, questions on internal party matters ... 428
 - Questions about activity ... 375
 - Questions about activity, point of clarification on ... 384
 - Questions about activity, Speaker's rulings on ... 203, 204, 340, 389
- Privilege (current session)
 - Intimidation (Associate Minister of Electricity and Renewable Energy's remarks on Alberta Energy Regulator mandate) (not proceeded with) ... 172–73, 211, 212
 - Misleading the House (use of government airplanes) (not proceeded with), Speaker's statement ... 215
- Public service
 - Collective agreements, negotiations, point of order on debate ... 22
- Public Service Salary Restraint Act (Bill 46, 2013)
 - Legal challenge, discussion in the Assembly ... 92
- Roads – Edmonton
 - Name changes in honour of royal visits ... 4
- Royal Canadian Artillery Band
 - General remarks ... 1
- Royal visits
 - King George VI and Queen Consort Elizabeth, first visit of a reigning monarch, 75th anniversary ... 4
 - Queen Elizabeth II and Prince Phillip ... 4
- St. George's Day
 - General remarks ... 608

Speaker, The (Zwozdesky, Gene) (continued)

- Savings Management Act (Bill 1)
 - Anticipation of debate ... 13
 - Anticipation of debate, point of order ... 23
- Schools
 - Codes of conduct, point of order on debate ... 435
- Schools – Construction
 - New schools, point of order on debate ... 101
- Schools – Construction – Calgary
 - New school construction, point of order on debate ... 101
- Schools – St. Paul
 - Vehicle crash, members' travel to, clarification ... 216
- Schools – Three Hills
 - Prairie Christian Academy, staff code of conduct, point of order on debate ... 435
- Speaker
 - Birth of grandson ... 761
 - Mandate re language and content of debate ... 215
 - Meetings with caucuses and independent members ... 395
 - Mr. Speaker's MLA for a Day program, Speaker's statements on ... 329, 416, 485
 - Procedural letter to members ... 475
- Speaker – Rulings
 - Decorum ... 56, 57, 111, 115, 116, 206, 310, 312, 320, 341–42
 - Interrupting a member or members ... 309, 389, 413, 477–78, 508, 793
 - Interrupting members' statements ... 396
 - Items previously decided ... 394
 - Point of privilege raised, intimidation (Associate Minister of Electricity and Renewable Energy's remarks on Alberta Energy Regulator mandate) (not proceeded with) ... 215
 - Point of privilege raised, misleading the House (use of government airplanes) (not proceeded with) ... 215
 - Questions on internal party matters ... 203, 204, 340, 389
 - Referring to the galleries ... 165
 - Repetition ... 390
- Speaker – Statements
 - 2nd anniversary of election ... 608
 - 12th anniversary of elected member ... 369
 - 13th election anniversary of elected members ... 199
 - 17th anniversary of elected members ... 161
 - 25th election anniversary of the Member for Lesser Slave Lake ... 317
 - Commonwealth Day message from the Queen ... 107
 - Electronic device use in the Chamber ... 469
 - Famous Five exhibit ... 471
 - Former MLA Jonathan Joseph Lord, memorial tribute ... 333
 - Interrupting a member ... 306
 - Mr. Speaker's MLA for a Day program ... 329, 416, 485
 - National Day of Remembrance of the Battle of Vimy Ridge ... 385
 - Oral Question Period, preambles to supplementary questions ... 469
 - Oral Question Period, questions to committee chairs ... 469
 - Oral Question Period and Members' Statements speaker rotation ... 10, 291
 - Oral Question Period practices ... 305–6, 608
 - Oral Question Period rotation ... 305–6

Speaker, The (Zwozdesky, Gene) (continued)

- Speaker – Statements (continued)
 - Oral Question Period rules ... 469
 - Oral Question Period timing of questions and responses ... 306
 - Order Paper revisions ... 395
 - Page recognition ... 777–78
 - Speaking times ... 351, 370–71
 - Standing order amendments (Government Motion 7) ... 51
 - State funeral for the hon. Jim Flaherty ... 473
 - Welcome to the Premier ... 333
- Speech from the Throne
 - Address tabled ... 4
- Standing Orders
 - Amendments re committee size, mandate, meetings, procedures for main estimates consideration (Government Motion 7: carried), Speaker's statement on ... 51
 - SO 77, more than one reading of a bill on the same day ... 759
- Sub judice matters
 - Discussion in the Assembly ... 92, 166
- Supplementary supply estimates 2013-2014, no. 2
 - Transmittal ... 25
- Truth and Reconciliation Commission
 - Members' speaking time... 370
 - National event ... 339
- Victoria Cross
 - General remarks ... 4
- World War II
 - National Day of Remembrance of the Battle of Vimy Ridge, Speaker's statement on ... 385

Speech from the Throne

- Aboriginal children
 - Programs and services ... 3
- Aboriginal peoples – Claims
 - Land claims ... 3
- Aboriginal peoples – Consultation
 - General remarks ... 3
- Affordable housing – Edson
 - Habitat for Humanity project ... 2
- Agriculture and food innovation fund
 - General remarks ... 3
- Airports
 - Open skies policy ... 3
- Alberta – Population
 - Population growth ... 2
- Alberta Association of Municipal Districts and Counties
 - General remarks ... 2
- Alberta Children's hospital
 - Neonatal intensive care unit ... 2
- Alberta Energy Regulator
 - General remarks ... 2
- Alberta Environmental Monitoring Board
 - General remarks ... 2
- Alberta heritage scholarship fund
 - General remarks ... 3
- Alberta institute for research and commercialization (proposed)
 - General remarks ... 3
- Alberta Petroleum Marketing Commission
 - General remarks ... 2
- Alberta Urban Municipalities Association
 - General remarks ... 2
- Anthony Henday Drive
 - Completion ... 2

Speech from the Throne (continued)

- Apprenticeship training
 - Scholarships ... 3
- Beef – Export – United States
 - Mandatory country of origin labelling ... 2
- Budget process
 - Results-based budgeting ... 2, 3
- Building Alberta plan
 - General remarks ... 1–3
- Calgary International Airport
 - Open skies policy promotion ... 3
- Campus Alberta
 - Distance education mandate ... 3
- Children
 - Programs and services, partnerships with the private sector ... 3
 - Support services, private-sector involvement ... 3
- Children – Mental health services
 - Provincial strategy ... 3
- Children – Protective services
 - Children and youth in care ... 3
 - Round-table on child care ... 3
- Cities and towns
 - Civic charters ... 2
- Community development
 - Provincial strategy ... 1
- Distance education
 - General remarks ... 3
- Edmonton International Airport
 - Icelandair inaugural flight ... 3
 - Open skies policy promotion ... 3
- Education – Curricula
 - Curriculum redesign ... 3
- Energy industries
 - Market diversification ... 3
- Energy resources – Export
 - Market development ... 1–2
- Energy resources – Export – China
 - Provincial agreement ... 2
- Families
 - Programs and services ... 2
 - Provincial strategy ... 1–2
- Family care clinics
 - General remarks ... 2
- Farm produce – Export – India
 - Trade agreements with Meghalaya and Punjab states ... 2
- Film and television industry – Calgary
 - Film studio ... 2
- Fiscal policy
 - General remarks ... 1
- Flood damage mitigation
 - General remarks ... 2
- Floods – Southern Alberta
 - General remarks ... 1–2
- Forest products – Export
 - Market development ... 3
- Grain – Transportation
 - Rail transportation ... 2
 - Rail transportation backlog ... 2
- Grande Prairie Regional College
 - Nursing program ... 2
- Health facilities
 - Projected use ... 2
- Health promotion
 - Neonatal screening ... 3
 - Partnerships with the private sector ... 2–3
 - Provincial wellness strategy ... 2–3

Speech from the Throne (continued)

- Highway 63
 - Twinning ... 2
- Home-care services
 - Technology use ... 2
- Integrated Threat and Risk Assessment Centre
 - General remarks ... 3
- International investment
 - Direct investment rules ... 3
- International trade – China
 - Provincial strategy ... 2
- Internet – Rural areas
 - Final mile strategy ... 2
- Interprovincial/territorial trade
 - Free trade zone (proposed) ... 3
- Laboratories – Lethbridge
 - New training laboratories ... 2
- Labour force planning
 - Federal-provincial co-operation ... 3
- Members of the Legislative Assembly
 - Compensation ... 2
 - Compensation, freezing of ... 2
- Municipal Government Act
 - Review ... 2
- Municipal sustainability initiative
 - Provincial strategy ... 2
- Parents
 - Programs and services ... 3
- Peter Loughheed Leadership Institute
 - University of Alberta-Banff Centre project ... 3
- Pipelines
 - Training facility ... 3
- Pipelines – Construction
 - Framework agreement with British Columbia ... 2
 - Keystone XL pipeline project ... 3
- Pipelines – Environmental aspects
 - Land reclamation, training facility ... 3
- Postsecondary education
 - Provincial strategy ... 3
- Public transit
 - General remarks ... 2
 - GreenTRIP incentives program ... 2
- Renewable energy sources
 - Alternative and renewable energy framework ... 3
- Ring roads – Calgary
 - Completion ... 2
- Road construction
 - Provincial strategy ... 2
- Roads – Maintenance and repair
 - Provincial strategy ... 2
- Savings Management Act (Bill 1)
 - General remarks ... 3
- Schools – Construction
 - Modernizations ... 2
 - New schools ... 2
- Seniors
 - Aging in place strategy ... 2
- Seniors – Housing – Strathmore
 - New care home ... 2
- Small business
 - Programs and services ... 2
- Social innovation fund
 - General remarks ... 3
- Student financial aid (postsecondary students)
 - Scholarships ... 3
- Tourism
 - Market development ... 3

Speech from the Throne (continued)

- Young adults
 - Support services, extension to age 24 ... 3
 - Support services, private-sector involvement ... 3
- Youth
 - Programs and services, partnerships with the private sector ... 3
- Youth – Mental health services
 - Provincial strategy ... 3
- Starke, Dr. Richard (PC, Vermilion-Lloydminster; Minister of Tourism, Parks and Recreation)
 - All-terrain vehicles
 - Driver education ... 798
 - Trail development and maintenance ... 798
 - Avalanches
 - Emergency prevention and response ... 346
 - Childhood Vision Assessment Act (Bill 203)
 - Second reading ... 357–58
 - Edmonton
 - 2022 Commonwealth Games bid ... 796
 - Emergency services (first responders) – Strathmore
 - Search and rescue river access ... 298–99
 - Government agencies, boards, and commissions
 - Executive travel expenses ... 240
 - Government airplanes
 - Ministers' travel to Edmonton ... 254
 - Usage policy ... 254
 - Introduction of Guests (school groups, individuals)
 - ... 369, 423, 506, 681, 791
 - Introduction of Visitors (visiting dignitaries)
 - Champion speed skater ... 459
 - Ministry of Tourism, Parks and Recreation
 - Associate deputy minister position ... 346
 - Minister's use of government airplanes ... 254
 - Oral Question Period (current session topics)
 - All-terrain vehicles ... 798
 - Avalanche safety ... 346
 - Edmonton sporting event hosting capabilities ... 796
 - Government airplane usage ... 254
 - Public body executive travel expenses ... 240
 - Strathmore search and rescue river access ... 298–99
 - Travel Alberta executive expenses ... 116, 166–67, 209, 346–47
 - Parks, provincial – Southern Alberta
 - Reconstruction planning ... 298–99
 - Public service
 - Executive expense policy ... 166–67
 - Sports – Edmonton
 - Capacity for hosting major events ... 796
 - Travel Alberta
 - Executive expenses ... 116, 166–67, 209, 240, 346–47
- Stier, Pat (W, Livingstone-Macleod)
 - Emergency medical services (ambulances, etc.)
 - Interfacility transfer units ... 170
 - Emergency medical services (ambulances, etc.) – Rural areas
 - Dispatch service ... 171
 - Highway 3
 - Members' statements ... 100
 - Infrastructure – Rural areas
 - Statistics ... 139
 - Introduction of Guests (school groups, individuals)
 - ... 405
 - Members' Statements (current session)
 - Highway 3 ... 100
 - Highway construction and maintenance ... 484

Stier, Pat (W, Livingstone-Macleod) (continued)

- Municipal sustainability initiative
 - Funding ... 139
 - Municipalities – Finance
 - Official Opposition position, 10-10 plan ... 139
 - Oral Question Period (current session topics)
 - Calgary southwest ring road cost ... 295–96
 - Highway maintenance contracts ... 480
 - Rural emergency medical services ... 170–71
 - Transportation infrastructure priorities ... 515
 - Property tax
 - Linear property assessment, distribution of revenue (Motion Other than Government Motion 501: defeated) ... 139
 - Ring roads – Calgary
 - Southwest portion cost ... 295–96
 - Southwest portion public-private partnership (P3) construction (proposed) ... 295–96
 - Road construction – Finance
 - Funding, members' statements on ... 484
 - Roads – Construction
 - Project prioritization ... 515
 - Roads – Maintenance and repair
 - Contractor selection and evaluation criteria ... 480
 - Funding, members' statements on ... 484
 - Project prioritization ... 515
 - Traffic safety
 - Penalties for speeding, motion to amend Traffic Safety Act provisions (Motion Other than Government Motion 504: carried) ... 454
- Strankman, Rick (W, Drumheller-Stettler)
- Agricultural Pests (Fusarium Head Blight) Amendment Act, 2014 (Bill 201)
 - Second reading ... 126–27
 - Canadian Wheat Board
 - Marketing of Fusarium-infected grain ... 126–27
 - Freedom of Information and Protection of Privacy Act (FOIP Act)
 - Information request fees ... 702–3
 - Freedom of Information and Protection of Privacy (MLA Public Interest Fee Waiver) Amendment Act, 2014 (Bill 204)
 - Second reading ... 702–3
 - Government culture
 - Members' statements ... 425
 - Health care – Consort
 - Acute care ... 539
 - Acute care, members' statements on ... 62
 - Introduction of Guests (school groups, individuals) ... 387, 761
 - Members' Statements (current session)
 - Acute health care in Consort ... 62
 - Government culture ... 425
 - Ministry of Tourism, Parks and Recreation
 - Associate deputy minister position ... 346
 - New Home Buyer Protection Amendment Act, 2014 (Bill 6)
 - Committee ... 496
 - Committee amendment A1 (registration fee exemption for new homes for personal use) (Anglin: defeated) ... 496
 - Oral Question Period (current session topics)
 - Acute health care in Consort ... 539
 - Travel Alberta executive expenses ... 116, 166–67, 209, 346–47
 - Public service
 - Executive expense policy ... 166–67
 - Travel Alberta
 - Executive expenses ... 116, 166–67, 209, 346–47

Swann, Dr. David (AL, Calgary-Mountain View)

- Aboriginal children – Education
 - Memorandum of understanding, progress on (Written Question 12: accepted as amended) ... 441
- Aboriginal Consultation Levy Act (Bill 22, 2013)
 - General remarks ... 715
- Aboriginal peoples
 - Family supports ... 688
 - Programs and services, federal/provincial jurisdiction ... 235
- Adult Interdependent Relationships Act
 - Harmonization with federal legislation ... 783
- Agriculture and food innovation fund
 - Funding, transfer from Alberta heritage savings trust fund ... 186
- Alberta – History
 - Lougheed administration, oil sands development ... 235–36
- Alberta heritage savings trust fund
 - Comparison to Norwegian fund ... 189
 - Fund utilization ... 186, 232
- Alberta heritage scholarship fund
 - Fund utilization ... 186
- Alberta Works
 - Caseloads (Written Questions 28: accepted) ... 437
- All-terrain vehicles
 - Safety, members' statements on ... 671
- Appropriation Act, 2014 (Bill 8)
 - Committee ... 569–70, 573
- Appropriation (Interim Supply) Act, 2014 (Bill 5)
 - Second reading ... 188–89
- Assurance for Students Act (Bill 26, 2013)
 - General remarks ... 715
- Assured income for the severely handicapped
 - Client benefits ... 729
- Bills, government (procedure)
 - Omnibus bills/statute amendment acts ... 783
- Budget Address
 - Addresses in reply, questions and comments ... 181
- Cancer
 - Incidence rates for leukemia, lymphoma, and lung cancer (Written Question 9: accepted as amended) ... 440–41
- Cancer – Fort Chipewyan
 - Incidence reports ... 393
- Cancer – Treatment
 - Lung cancer patient wait times ... 393
- Capital plan
 - General remarks ... 570
- Carbon levy
 - Provincial strategy ... 235
- Child, Youth and Family Enhancement Amendment Act, 2014 (Bill 11)
 - Second reading ... 718
- Child poverty
 - Cost of elimination and funding allocation (Written Question 22: accepted) ... 436
 - Government definition (Written Question 19: accepted) ... 436
 - Plan to end ... 241, 573, 692–93
 - Plan to end, performance measures ... 688
 - Plan to end, performance measures (Written Question 21: accepted) ... 436
 - Statistics as of January 1, 2014 (Written Question 20: accepted) ... 436
- Childhood Vision Assessment Act (Bill 203)
 - Second reading ... 357

Swann, Dr. David (AL, Calgary-Mountain View)(continued)

- Children
 - Deaths on farms ... 239
 - Programs and services, members' statements on ... 692–93
- Children – Protective services
 - Death of newborn (Baby Annie), Child and Youth Advocate review ... 688
 - Deaths and injuries, investigation of ... 718
 - Deaths and injuries, publication ban on names, ex parte applications ... 718
- Civil Marriage Act
 - Harmonization with provincial legislation ... 783
- Climate change
 - Provincial strategy ... 235
- Community health councils
 - Dissolution ... 783–84
- Contract services
 - Public-private partnerships, performance measures on ... 231
- Daycare
 - Licensed child care programs and approved family day homes, statistics on spaces (Written Question 4: accepted) ... 436
- Debts, provincial
 - General remarks ... 235
- Education – Curricula
 - English as a second language, years of funding ... 573
- Electric Statutes Amendment Act (Bill 50, 2009)
 - General remarks ... 715
- Employment Pension (Private Sector) Plans Amendment Act, 2014 (Bill 10)
 - Second reading ... 586–87
 - Plan conversion provisions ... 586–87
- Energy industries – Environmental aspects
 - Provincial liabilities ... 569–70
- Environmental protection
 - Provincial strategy ... 492–93, 570
- Environmental trusts
 - Tax regime ... 492
 - Tax regime, qualification criteria ... 492
- Families
 - Programs and services ... 692–93
- Family and community engagement councils
 - Establishment, net financial result (Written Question 27: accepted) ... 437
- Farm workers
 - Labour protection ... 244
 - Labour protection, members' statements on ... 239
- Gay-straight alliances in schools
 - General remarks ... 693
- Government
 - Role of ... 569, 573
- Government policies
 - Long-term vision ... 188–89
- Government services
 - Provincial strategy ... 750
- Greenhouse gas emissions
 - Comparison with other jurisdictions ... 235
- Health Care Protection Act (Bill 11, 2000)
 - General remarks ... 715
- Health promotion
 - Prevention and community health, Liberal opposition position on ... 181

Swann, Dr. David (AL, Calgary-Mountain View)(continued)

- Human Rights, Citizenship and Multiculturalism Amendment Act, 2009 (Bill 44, 2009)
 - General remarks ... 715
- Hydraulic fracturing
 - Groundwater monitoring ... 493
- Income support program
 - Client benefits ... 729
 - Client benefits, income- and asset-based deductions ... 728–29
- Information and Privacy Commissioner
 - Release of information on data breaches (Motion Other than Government Motion 505: carried) ... 708–9
- Introduction of Guests (school groups, individuals) ... 238, 506
- Land Assembly Project Area Act (Bill 19, 2009)
 - General remarks ... 715
- Members' Statements (current session)
 - All-terrain vehicle safety ... 671
 - Farm worker labour protection ... 239
 - Supports for children ... 692–93
- Mental health services
 - Early intervention ... 573
- Ministerial Statements (current session)
 - National Day of Mourning, responses ... 661
- Municipal Government Amendment Act, 2013 (Bill 17, 2013)
 - General remarks ... 715
- New Democratic opposition
 - Tribute to leader Brian Mason ... 765
- Nonprofit organizations
 - Entrepreneurial activities ... 185–86, 231
- Oil sands development – Environmental aspects
 - Emissions reduction strategies ... 235–36
- Oral Question Period (current session topics)
 - Cancer incidence and treatment ... 393
 - Child poverty ... 241
 - Farm worker labour protection ... 244
 - Protection of vulnerable children ... 688
 - Public service compensation ... 91–92
 - Public service pensions ... 466
 - Support for vulnerable Albertans ... 728–29
- Pipelines – Construction
 - Keystone XL pipeline project ... 235
- Poverty
 - Reduction strategies ... 573
- Public Sector Pension Plans Amendment Act, 2014 (Bill 9)
 - Second reading, motion to refer bill to Standing Committee on Alberta's Economic Future (referral amendment RA1) (Notley: defeated) ... 644
 - Second reading, motion to not now read (6-month hoist amendment H1) (Kang: defeated) ... 712, 714–15
- Public Sector Services Continuation Act (Bill 45, 2013)
 - General remarks ... 714–15
- Public service – Pensions
 - General remarks ... 92
 - Sustainability ... 466
- Public Service Salary Restraint Act (Bill 46, 2013)
 - General remarks ... 714
 - Legal challenge ... 91
- Reclamation of land
 - Downstream oil and gas industry ... 492
 - Payment by corporations ... 492–93

Swann, Dr. David (AL, Calgary-Mountain View)(continued)

- Registry services
 - Online portal implementation, documents on (Motion for a Return 4: defeated) ... 443
- Renewable energy sources
 - Alternative and renewable energy framework ... 235
- Revenue
 - Fluctuations ... 236, 570
- Royalty structure (energy resources)
 - Comparison with other jurisdictions ... 236
- Savings Management Act (Bill 1)
 - Committee ... 185–86
 - Third reading ... 231–32
- Social innovation fund
 - Funding, transfer from Alberta heritage savings trust fund ... 186
 - Funding through bonds (proposed) ... 185–86, 231
- Speech from the Throne
 - Addresses in reply ... 234–36
- Statutes Amendment Act, 2014 (Bill 12)
 - Third reading ... 783–84
- Tax Statutes Amendment Act, 2014 (Bill 7)
 - Second reading ... 492–93
- Traffic safety
 - Penalties for speeding, motion to amend Traffic Safety Act provisions (Motion Other than Government Motion 504: carried) ... 456
- Workplace health and safety
 - National Day of Mourning, ministerial statement on, responses ... 661

Towle, Kerry (W, Innisfail-Sylvan Lake)

- Alberta Health Services (authority)
 - Consulting contracts ... 393
- Appropriation Act, 2014 (Bill 8)
 - Third reading ... 612–14
- Arenas – Sylvan Lake
 - Kraft Hockeyville award, members' statements on ... 381
- Assured income for the severely handicapped
 - Application and appeal wait times ... 431
- Budget process
 - Balanced/deficit budgets ... 613
- Capital plan
 - Infrastructure financing, borrowing ... 612
- Child, Youth and Family Enhancement Amendment Act, 2014 (Bill 11)
 - Second reading ... 675–77
 - Committee ... 746–51, 754, 757
 - Committee amendment A1 (information disclosed on fatality and serious injury investigations, recommendations and responses; publication ban applications) (Bhullar: carried) ... 746
 - Committee amendment A2 (expert review panel membership) (Towle: defeated) ... 746, 747
 - Committee amendment A3 (publication of reports) (Towle: defeated) ... 748
 - Committee amendment A4 (ex parte applications for publication bans) (Towle: defeated) ... 749–50, 751
 - Committee amendment A5 (publication ban request hearings closed to public, open to media) (Blakeman: defeated) ... 754
 - Committee amendment A6 (publication ban requests, public interest consideration) (Towle: carried unanimously) ... 757
- Childhood Vision Assessment Act (Bill 203)
 - Second reading ... 360–61

Towle, Kerry (W, Innisfail-Sylvan Lake) (continued)

- Children – Protective services
 - Continuity of care ... 728
 - Death of newborn (Baby Annie) ... 689, 728
 - Death of newborn (Baby Annie), Child and Youth Advocate review ... 689
 - Deaths and injuries, journalists' requests for information under FOIP on ... 676
 - Deaths and injuries, publication ban on names ... 676–77
 - Round-table on child care ... 646, 676–77
- Debts, provincial
 - General remarks ... 612–13
- Family care clinics
 - General remarks ... 20
- Federal Public Building
 - Redevelopment project ... 392
- Fiscal policy
 - Government savings ... 612
 - Government spending ... 557–58, 612–14
- Freedom of Information and Protection of Privacy Act (FOIP Act)
 - Information request fees ... 667
 - Information request process ... 607, 667
- Government accountability
 - Financial reporting ... 272
- Health care
 - Continuity of care ... 728
- Health care – Slave Lake
 - Members' statements ... 20
- Independent Budget Officer Act (Bill 202)
 - Second reading ... 271–73
- Information and Privacy Commissioner
 - Release of information on data breaches (Motion Other than Government Motion 505: carried) ... 708
- Introduction of Guests (school groups, individuals) ... 303, 505, 763
- Kidney dialysis – Red Deer
 - Access to services ... 392–93
- Long-term care facilities (nursing homes/auxiliary hospitals)
 - Restrictions on family members' visits ... 770, 796
 - Sexual assaults on residents ... 243
- Long-term care facilities (nursing homes/auxiliary hospitals) – Fort McMurray
 - New facility ... 309
 - New facility, members' statements on ... 305
- Members' Statements (current session)
 - Long-term care in Fort McMurray ... 305
 - PDD supports intensity scale assessments ... 516
 - Slave Lake health services ... 20
 - Sylvan Lake Hockeyville 2014 award ... 381
- Ministry of Service Alberta
 - Associate Minister, Accountability, Transparency and Transformation ... 667
- Oral Question Period (current session topics)
 - Abuse of seniors in care ... 243
 - AISH wait times ... 431
 - Care facility restrictions on family member visits ... 770, 796
 - Continuity of care for children at risk ... 728
 - FOIP request process ... 607, 667
 - Health care spending ... 392–93
 - Long-term care in Fort McMurray ... 309
 - PDD supports intensity scale ... 481, 535–36
 - PDD supports intensity scale assessments ... 512
 - Protection of persons in care ... 257–58

Towle, Kerry (W, Innisfail-Sylvan Lake) (continued)

- Oral Question Period (current session topics) (continued)
 - Protection of vulnerable children ... 689
 - School construction ... 208
- Persons in care
 - Abuse investigations ... 257–58
- Persons with developmental disabilities
 - Supports intensity scale ... 481, 535–36
 - Supports intensity scale assessments ... 512
 - Supports intensity scale assessments, members' statements on ... 516
- Physicians – Slave Lake
 - Recruitment and retention ... 20
- Public Sector Pension Plans Amendment Act, 2014 (Bill 9)
 - Second reading ... 557–59
- Schools – Construction
 - New schools, timeline on ... 208
- Seniors
 - Elder abuse strategy ... 243
- Seniors Advocate
 - Mandate ... 770

VanderBurg, George (PC, Whitecourt-St. Anne)

- Cancer
 - Daffodil Month awareness event, members' statements on ... 516
- Caribou
 - Conservation ... 376
 - Conservation, federal initiatives ... 376
- Energy industries – Environmental aspects
 - Public perception ... 603
- Members' Statements (current session)
 - Cancer awareness ... 516
 - Fallen Four in memoriam ... 19–20
 - Liberation of the Netherlands ... 692
- Oral Question Period (current session topics)
 - Carbon conservation ... 376
 - Keystone XL pipeline project ... 603
- Pipelines – Construction
 - Keystone XL pipeline project delay ... 603
- Royal Canadian Mounted Police
 - Fallen Four tribute, members' statements on ... 19–20
- World War II
 - Liberation of the Netherlands, members' statements on ... 692

Weadick, Greg (PC, Lethbridge-West; Associate Minister – Recovery and Reconstruction for Southeast Alberta; Acting Minister of Municipal Affairs effective April 8, 2014)

- Bridges – Maintenance and repair
 - Cost to municipalities ... 378
- Contract services
 - Sole-source contracts ... 725
- Edmonton
 - Elevate report on community sustainability ... 429
- Floods – High River
 - Temporary communities ... 538
- Floods – Southern Alberta
 - Agricultural land, payments for damage to ... 432–33
 - Disaster recovery program claims ... 515
 - Disaster recovery program contracts ... 725
 - Temporary communities ... 538
- Freehold lands
 - Caveats on land titles for rental use designation ... 493–94
- Housing – Construction
 - Definition of “new home” ... 494
 - Multiple family dwellings, owner caveats on rental use designation on land titles ... 493–94

Weadick, Greg (PC, Lethbridge-West; Associate Minister – Recovery and Reconstruction for Southeast Alberta; Acting Minister of Municipal Affairs effective April 8, 2014) (continued)

- Introduction of Guests (school groups, individuals) ... 317–18, 682
- LandLink Consulting Ltd.
 - Disaster relief contract ... 767
- Libraries – Southern Alberta
 - Marigold library system funding ... 479–80
- Long-term care facilities (nursing homes/auxiliary hospitals)
 - Fire safety ... 513
- Municipal Government Act
 - Review ... 514
- Municipalities
 - Land annexation process ... 415
- Municipalities – Finance
 - Student hiring, support for ... 771
- New Home Buyer Protection Amendment Act, 2014 (Bill 6)
 - Second reading ... 330–31, 421
 - Committee ... 493–94, 496–99, 502
 - Committee amendment A1 (registration fee exemption for new homes for personal use) (Anclin: defeated) ... 496–97
 - Committee amendment A2 (limitation on registration fee for new homes for personal use) (Anclin: defeated) ... 498–99
 - Committee amendment A3 (coverage on materials and labour, building envelope) (Mason: defeated) ... 502
 - Third reading ... 522–23
 - Provisions for administrative penalties ... 494
 - Provisions for apartment building owners ... 493–94
 - Provisions for appeals ... 494
 - Provisions for homeowner-builders ... 523
- Oral Question Period (current session topics)
 - Bridge maintenance and repair ... 378
 - Disaster recovery program administration ... 725, 767
 - Disaster recovery program claims ... 515
 - Edmonton's Elevate report ... 429
 - Education property tax ... 342–43
 - Fire safety in seniors' facilities ... 513
 - Flood-related temporary housing ... 538
 - Land annexation process ... 415
 - Marigold library system funding ... 479–80
 - Municipal Government Act review ... 514
 - Rural flood damage payments ... 432–33
 - Seniors' lodges ... 511–12
 - Workforce employment services ... 771
- Property tax – Education levy
 - Mitigation formula termination ... 342–43
- Public Sector Pension Plans Amendment Act, 2014 (Bill 9)
 - Second reading, motion to refer bill to Standing Committee on Alberta's Economic Future (referral amendment RA1) (Notley: defeated) ... 646–47
- Public service – Pensions
 - Sustainability ... 646–47
- Seniors – Housing
 - Fire safety ... 513
- Student employment (secondary and postsecondary students)
 - Programs and services ... 771
- Supportive living accommodations
 - Seniors' lodges ... 511–12

Webber, Len (Ind. effective March 17, 2014; previously PC; Calgary-Foothills)

- Animal Protection (Prevention of Animal Distress and Neglect) Amendment Act, 2014 (Bill 205)
 - First reading ... 417
 - Members' statements ... 801
- Education – Curricula
 - Aboriginal content ... 338
- Immunization
 - Measles immunization, members' statements on ... 672–73
- Introduction of Guests (school groups, individuals) ... 722
- Labour unions
 - Members' dues, legislative and regulatory provisions for ... 794–95
- Long-term care facilities (nursing homes/auxiliary hospitals)
 - Accommodation of couples ... 478–79
- Members' Statements (current session)
 - Animal protection legislation ... 801
 - Measles immunization ... 672–73
- Ministerial Statements (current session)
 - Truth and Reconciliation Commission national event, ministerial statement on, responses ... 337–38
- Oral Question Period (current session topics)
 - Emergency turnarounds on highways ... 665–66
 - Organ and tissue donation ... 391
 - Seniors' housing for couples ... 478–79
 - Union dues regulation ... 794–95
- Organ and tissue donation
 - Donor registry ... 391
- Organ and tissue transplantation
 - Oversight of services ... 391
- Road construction – Finance
 - Public-private partnership (P3) construction ... 666
- Roads
 - Emergency turnarounds on highways ... 665–66
- Seniors – Housing
 - Accommodation of couples ... 478–79
- Traffic safety
 - Penalties for speeding, motion to amend Traffic Safety Act provisions (Motion Other than Government Motion 504: carried) ... 455–56
- Truth and Reconciliation Commission
 - National event, ministerial statement on, responses ... 337–38

Wilson, Jeff (W, Calgary-Shaw)

- Alberta Energy Regulator
 - Review process ... 31
- Alberta Health Services (authority)
 - Consulting contracts ... 623
- Appropriation Act, 2014 (Bill 8)
 - Third reading ... 622–23
- Budget
 - Opposition access to information ... 273–74
- Budget 2013-2014
 - General remarks ... 31, 38
- Budget 2014-2015
 - Budget cuts ... 623
- Budget Address
 - Addresses in reply, questions and comments ... 223–24
- Budget officer (proposed)
 - Other jurisdictions ... 274
- Budget process
 - Balanced/deficit budgets ... 38

Wilson, Jeff (W, Calgary-Shaw) (continued)

- Building Alberta plan
 - Advertising ... 622
 - General remarks ... 30, 35
- Calgary South Health Campus
 - Cost increases ... 274
- Capital plan
 - Infrastructure financing, public-private partnership (P3) construction ... 622
 - Remarks in throne speech ... 31
- Child, Youth and Family Enhancement Amendment Act, 2014 (Bill 11)
 - Second reading ... 718–19
 - Committee ... 747
 - Committee amendment A2 (expert review panel membership) (Towle: defeated) ... 747
- Child and Youth Advocate's office
 - Independence of office ... 274
- Children – Protective services
 - Death of newborn (Baby Annie) ... 719
 - Deaths and injuries, investigations ... 718–19
- Cities and towns
 - Civic charters ... 31
- Debts, provincial
 - Debt-servicing costs ... 623
- Electric power lines
 - Planned shutdown re connection of new HVDC line, point of order on debate ... 543
- Electric power lines – Construction
 - Costs ... 274
- Energy resources – Export – China
 - Provincial agreement ... 65
- Family care clinics
 - General remarks ... 30
- Federal Public Building
 - Redevelopment project ... 274
- Fiscal policy
 - Government savings ... 622
 - Government spending ... 223–24
- Flood damage mitigation
 - General remarks ... 31–32
- Flood damage mitigation – Calgary
 - General remarks ... 32
- Floods – High River
 - Disaster recovery program claims ... 205
 - Firearm collection by emergency responders, point of order on debate ... 544
- Floods – Southern Alberta
 - Disaster recovery program claims ... 204–5
 - Disaster recovery program contracts ... 669–70
- Freedom of Information and Protection of Privacy Act (FOIP Act)
 - Information request process, former Deputy Premier's memo on ... 542
 - Information request process, point of order on debate ... 542
- Government accountability
 - General remarks ... 30, 31, 40–41
- Government airplanes
 - Cabinet travel to Grande Prairie fundraising event ... 212–13
 - Usage policy, point of privilege raised on debate (misleading the House) ... 212–13
- Government policies
 - Program funding cuts ... 623
- Health care – Capacity issues
 - Provincial strategy ... 36–37

Wilson, Jeff (W, Calgary-Shaw) (continued)

- Health promotion
 - Provincial wellness strategy ... 323
- Highway 63
 - Twinning ... 30–31
- Independent Budget Officer Act (Bill 202)
 - Second reading ... 273–274
- Introduction of Guests (school groups, individuals)
 - ... 318, 506, 659
- LandLink Consulting Ltd.
 - Disaster relief contract ... 669–70
- Legislative Assembly of Alberta
 - Decorum ... 121
 - Parliamentary language ... 21–22, 216
- Members of the Legislative Assembly
 - Interrupting a member, second supplemental question disallowed in Oral Question Period, point of clarification on ... 121
 - Penalization for actions of another member ... 121–22
- Members' Statements (current session)
 - Battle of Vimy Ridge ... 397
 - Municipal funding ... 18–19
- Municipal sustainability initiative
 - Funding ... 136
 - Funding from supplementary supply ... 32
- Municipalities – Finance
 - Funding ... 622
 - Funding models, members' statements on ... 18–19
 - Official Opposition position, 10-10 plan ... 18–19, 136
- New Home Buyer Protection Amendment Act, 2014 (Bill 6)
 - Second reading ... 421
 - Provisions for homeowner-builders ... 421
- Oral Question Period (procedure)
 - Questions in anticipation, point of order on ... 23
 - Supplemental question denied because of lack of decorum in Assembly, point of clarification on ... 121
- Oral Question Period (current session topics)
 - Calgary southwest ring road ... 245
 - Calgary southwest ring road contract ... 379
 - Disaster recovery program administration ... 669–70
 - Disaster recovery program claims ... 204–5
 - Primary health care ... 323
 - Public transit funding ... 167–68
- Orders of the Day (procedure)
 - Questions in anticipation, point of order on ... 23
- Parliamentary Budget Officer
 - General remarks ... 274
- Physicians – Education
 - Family and community medicine, promotion of ... 323
- Pipelines – Construction
 - Framework agreement with British Columbia ... 31
- Points of clarification (current session)
 - Maintaining order in the Assembly/interrupting a member, second supplemental question disallowed in Oral Question Period ... 121
- Points of order (current session)
 - Anticipation ... 23
 - Clarification ... 543
 - Factual accuracy ... 101, 542, 544
 - Parliamentary language ... 21–22, 216
- Primary care (medicine)
 - Capacity issues ... 323
- Privilege (current session)
 - Misleading the House (use of government airplanes) (not proceeded with) ... 212–13

Wilson, Jeff (W, Calgary-Shaw) (continued)

- Property tax
 - Linear property assessment, distribution of revenue (Motion Other than Government Motion 501: defeated) ... 136
 - Public Sector Pension Plans Amendment Act, 2014 (Bill 9)
 - Second reading, motion to refer bill to Standing Committee on Alberta's Economic Future (referral amendment RA1) (Notley: defeated) ... 641, 711
 - Public service
 - Collective agreements, negotiations, point of order on debate ... 21–22
 - Public service – Pensions
 - Official Opposition position... 641
 - Public transit – Edmonton
 - LRT expansion ... 167–68
 - Ring roads – Calgary
 - Southwest portion ... 245
 - Southwest portion contract ... 379
 - Southwest portion cost ... 274
 - Southwest portion interchanges ... 245
 - Southwest portion public-private partnership (P3) construction (proposed) ... 379
 - Savings Management Act (Bill 1)
 - Anticipation of debate, point of order ... 23
 - Schools – Construction
 - Modernizations ... 30
 - Modernizations, timeline on ... 622
 - New schools ... 30
 - New schools, cost ... 274
 - New schools, point of order on debate ... 101
 - New schools, timeline on ... 622
 - Schools – Construction – Calgary
 - New school construction, point of order on debate ... 101
 - Schools – St. Paul
 - Vehicle crash, members' travel to ... 213
 - Seniors
 - Programs and services ... 36–37
 - Speech from the Throne
 - Addresses in reply ... 30–31
 - Addresses in reply (questions and comments) ... 32, 35, 36–37, 38, 40–41
 - Tax policy
 - Credits for children's sports and physical activity ... 323
 - World War II
 - Battle of Vimy Ridge, members' statements on ... 397
- Woo-Paw, Teresa (PC, Calgary-Northern Hills; Associate Minister – International and Intergovernmental Relations)
- Alberta Human Rights Act
 - Repeal of section 3(1)(b) (Motion Other than Government Motion 502: defeated) ... 285
 - Alberta Human Rights Commission
 - Mandate ... 285
 - Criminal Code (federal)
 - Hate crime threshold criteria ... 285
 - International investment
 - Provincial strategy ... 325
 - International trade – Asia
 - Chief assistant deputy minister's role ... 313
 - Introduction of Guests (school groups, individuals)
 - ... 88, 90, 252, 370, 597, 662–63, 732, 790
 - Ministry of International and Intergovernmental Relations
 - Ministry organizational structure ... 313

Woo-Paw, Teresa (PC, Calgary-Northern Hills; Associate Minister – International and Intergovernmental Relations) (continued)

Oral Question Period (current session topics)
International and Intergovernmental Relations ministry ... 313
International investment ... 325

Xiao, David H. (PC, Edmonton-McClung)

Alberta College of Pharmacists
Standards of practice re loyalty/reward programs ... 606
Canadian Forces
End of mission in Afghanistan, members' statements on the National Day of Honour ... 800
Committee on Private Bills, Standing
Reports presented on bills Pr. 1 and Pr. 2 ... 541
Reports presented on bills Pr. 1 and Pr. 2, recommendation that bills proceed and concurrence requested ... 732
Drugs, prescription
Loyalty/reward program participation, Alberta College of Pharmacists' change to standards of practice ... 606
Ignite – Ideas for Post-Secondary Education (report)
Recommendations ... 380
Introduction of Guests (school groups, individuals) ... 7, 790–91
Maskawachees Cultural College Amendment Act, 2014
Petition presented ... 484
Standing Committee on Private Bills report ... 541
Maskawachees Cultural College Amendment Act, 2014 (Bill Pr. 2)
Standing Committee on Private Bills
recommendation that bill proceed, report presented and concurrence requested ... 732
Members' Statements (current session)
National Day of Honour ... 800
Open postsecondary educational resources ... 380
Municipalities – Finance
Infrastructure funding ... 171
Oral Question Period (current session topics)
Loyalty program prohibition for prescription drugs ... 606
Municipal funding ... 171
Public service pensions ... 378
Postsecondary education
Open educational resources, members' statements on ... 380
Public service – Pensions
General remarks ... 378
Unfunded liabilities ... 378
Public transit
GreenTRIP incentives program ... 171

Xiao, David H. (PC, Edmonton-McClung) (continued)

Reports presented by standing and special committees
Standing Committee on Private Bills,
recommendation that bills Pr. 1 and Pr. 2 proceed, request for concurrence ... 732
Standing Committee on Private Bills report, bills Pr. 1 and Pr. 2 ... 541
Rosebud School of the Arts Amendment Act, 2014
Petition presented ... 484
Rosebud School of the Arts Amendment Act, 2014 (Bill Pr. 1)
Standing Committee on Private Bills
recommendation that bill proceed, report presented and concurrence requested ... 732
Standing Committee on Private Bills report ... 541

Young, Steve (PC, Edmonton-Riverview)

Alzheimer's disease
Fundraising, Face Off hockey tournament, members' statements on ... 507
Business enterprises
Successful organizations ... 407
Drugs, prescription
Pharmaceutical information network ... 379
Emergency services (first responders)
Radio communications system (AFRRCS) ... 60–61
Flaherty, Jim (former Member of Parliament and federal cabinet minister)
Memorial tribute ... 407
Government services
Information security management ... 670
Information workers, security clearance ... 670
Hockey
Charity fundraising games, members' statements on ... 507
Introduction of Guests (school groups, individuals) ... 52, 318, 459, 473, 789
Members' Statements (current session)
Alzheimer's Face Off hockey tournament ... 507
Successful teams ... 407
Ministry of Service Alberta
Information security management standards ... 670
Nonprofit organizations
Successful organizations ... 407
Oral Question Period (current session topics)
First responder communication system ... 60–61
Government data security ... 670
Pharmaceutical information network ... 379
Success
Successful teams, members' statements on ... 407
University of Alberta
Athletic achievements ... 407

Zwozdesky, Gene

See Speaker, The (Zwozdesky, Gene)