Mr. Chase: There was no impugning that the hon. Member for Edmonton-Centre, who is very capable of not only looking after herself but looking after the entire Liberal caucus, would need to be rescued. The rescuing was for the hon. Member for Livingstone-Macleod upon request, and therefore I am standing.

The Deputy Chair: Hon. member, the chair will rule that this is merely a point of clarification on your part, then.

Mr. Chase: Thank you. I appreciate that assistance.

The Deputy Chair: It's of interest that a member from your own caucus is calling a point of order on you, perhaps a bit tongue in cheek. Nonetheless, I think it's a point of clarification more than a point of order. Proceed now with the main debate.

Mr. Chase: Thank you. I would never want it suggested that my assistance was required for any member, especially the Member for Edmonton-Centre, who has considerably more experience and knowledge based on her numerous terms in this House than myself.

Debate Continued

Mr. Chase: The hon. member, in putting forward amendment A3, was trying to make the best of a worse situation. While she and I very much disagree with the notion of Bill 44, the hon. Member for Edmonton-Centre was saying: "At least, if you're going to deal with this, put it in the right place. It doesn't deal with human rights; it deals with education in the classroom."

Personally, the section that I would like to see bolded and, potentially, the only section that I would like to see remaining within this area is section 3. This was what the hon. Member for Edmonton-Centre referred to as the Hail Mary pass. It says:

This section does not apply to incidental or indirect references to religion, religious themes, human sexuality or sexual orientation in a course, program of study, instruction or exercises or in the use of instructional materials.

For example, if a person were to say, "Holy cow, pistil-packing flower stamen, you seem rather bent," then that would not constitute an appearance before the human rights tribunal because it just arose in an incidental manner.

12:30

Now, certain topics – and I've spoken to one earlier – such as sex education, which is part of the curriculum, which is referred to in 16.1(1), are very clearly defined. Letters go home, parents are consulted, and so on.

I'm not sure whether it'd be required that – as I mentioned before, in grade 7 world religions is part of the social studies program – all parents receive a copy of the syllabus indicating that at some point in the year a discussion of world religions will take place so that the parent can then exclude their child from that discussion.

With regard to sexual orientation, I'm not aware, at least not while I was teaching, of any specific courses, whether in science or in health with regard to phys ed, that dealt specifically with sexual orientation, but if there were sections that were in the prescribed curriculum dealing with sexual orientation, it would be relatively easy to inform the parents that those discussions would be taking place.

I'm not sure that section (3), however, whether you want to call it a Hail Mary pass or a get-out-of-human-rights-tribunal jail free pass, would cover a teacher if a student in an impromptu fashion got caught up in a side discussion.

I'd be interested, when the hon. members of the government caucus apply the flame-thrower to A3, whether they will suggest that section (3) comes under Bill 44 or in the Education Act, Bill 2, where it should be placed, whether that does provide sufficient protection to either a teacher who allowed a discussion of an impromptu nature to go, or whether, in fact, a parent or a child, a student, could bring forward a charge of prejudice against another student who brought up the topic in the first place.

This is why this whole human rights/Bill 44 is the subject of such confusion and why the hon. Member for Edmonton-Centre, who needs no rescuing or help, has indicated that Bill 44 should basically just be toasted, and she referred to a potential Biblical location where that toasting could take place. I think Norwegians refer to it as Hades. In our standard English understanding we talk about hell, whether that's a geographic location where certain members of this astute Assembly may find themselves burning at some point in the future remains to be seen. [interjection] I think the Member for Livingston-Macleod may have the fire starter in case hell freezes over during the debate on A3.

I appreciate the hon. Member for Edmonton-Centre bringing forth this correction, attempting to save the Alberta government the embarrassment of a misplaced clause and thereby correcting it through amendment A3. What I would offer to this House in the way of a trade-off or a deal would be that if the hon. members opposite accept amendment A3, I will go home, and they will be able to go home a little bit sooner as a result. If for no other reason than to send me packing, I would suggest that you support amendment A3.

Thank you, Mr. Chair, for this opportunity to discuss a number of hot geographic places and the need for sending people and bills there.

The Deputy Chair: Thank you, hon. member.

Are there any other speakers to amendment A3? The hon. Member for Edmonton-Centre.

Ms Blakeman: Well, I was just suggesting that if I stopped talking, would everybody like to vote for it?

Mr. Hinman: Show of hands.

Ms Blakeman: Let me try that.

Once again, I'd just wish to urge my colleagues in the Assembly to . . .

An Hon. Member: Question.

Ms Blakeman: Yes. I will call the question immediately, as long as you quit bugging me, and the more you bug me, the longer I'll talk. You should have known that by now.

Once again, I'll just urge my colleagues to do the right and appropriate thing and approve this amendment. I know that the minister is right here. He can just give you the thumbs-up signal – so can the Government House Leader – and allow us to do the right thing with this bill, or I will hound you forever about this. In your dreams 10 years from now – you're out of politics – a little voice will come in your head from Laurie Blakeman going: you should have done this, and here are all the reasons why. You just don't want that happening. You just don't want that happening. Not that I'm threatening you, but that's what'll happen.

I'll call the question, Mr. Chairman.

The Deputy Chair: Thank you.

I see no other speakers, and the question has been called.

[Motion on amendment A3 lost]

The Deputy Chair: We are now back to the main debate at Committee of the Whole on Bill 2. Edmonton-Centre, please proceed.

Ms Blakeman: Thank you very much, Mr. Chairman. At this time, always in, of course, immense concern for my colleagues here that you get enough movement in your legs so that you don't have that thing that causes a stroke – thank you so much – there's another amendment being handed out. That amendment, which would now be amendment A4, is changing an exact definition under the interpretation section, which is section 1(1). We're striking out section (d), which is the bullying section, and replacing it with this wording:

(d) "bullying" means repeated and hostile or demeaning behaviour by an individual in the school community where the behaviour is intended by the individual to cause harm, fear or distress to another individual in the school community, including psychological harm or harm to that individual's reputation.

What we have currently in here is that the definition – sorry to repeat this, but what's of most importance here is that it just talks about behaviour by a student, where the behaviour is intended by the student to cause harm, fear or distress to another individual in the school community, including psychological harm or harm to the individual's reputation.

So it's all based on an individual. It doesn't recognize that it is possible that this can happen by more than one. This amendment is intended to capture and prohibit, as much as the previous one did, bullying behaviour by any individual in the school community.

It's bringing in both the possibility of staff bullying students and also workplace bullying. That's a key point to me, that in fact we don't have that under the Human Rights Act, unlike the fact that under the Human Rights Act we have an entirely inappropriate clause which truly belongs in the Education Act. That little voice is going to come back in your heads forever.

12:40

It is one of the issues that we have not successfully captured in education or in other places, which is understanding that bullying can happen on all levels and between levels. It isn't just bullying of a student by a student or by a group of students to a group of students, but it can be from teachers or staff or even janitors. I remember one janitor we had in our elementary school, and he bullied. He bullied students. He just scared the bejesus out of them. I don't know whether we didn't know that we could complain to other teachers or to the principal that that's what was going on, or maybe they felt that they didn't have any way of controlling that behaviour or any right to say anything to the individual, but this wouldn't allow that situation to happen. It would recognize that anywhere in that school community bullying between anybody and anybody is not accepted.

What you've got right now is that you only deal with students, yet in the rest of the Education Act you do talk about your expectation about how boards behave. You talk about your expectation about teachers. You talk about responsibilities and codes of conduct from expected different members of the school community, but nowhere in there do you recognize that one group could be bullying another, and I think it's important that we do that.

One of the consistent complaints that I've had while I've been the critic for human rights has been that we don't cover workplace bullying. I think it's the area that the Human Rights Commission gets the most complaints about that they can't deal with because, again, they don't have anything in their act which allows them to do anything with it, in the same way that the act used to not protect people's sexual orientation.

Bill 44 opened it up to protect that and at the same time took it away by allowing us to discriminate against them in schools. But, essentially, that is a missing piece in our human rights code. This does allow us to at least take a step forward in the school community and go: "No. We understand that it can happen between any group of people in that school community, and we want it stopped. We want it clear." You know, if somebody wanted to take this to a higher authority, they would be able to, but otherwise we're only talking student to student. So what happens between staff and teachers or the principal and the janitor or anybody else is currently not covered.

Dr. Swann: Lunch room supervision.

Ms Blakeman: Lunch room supervisor, yes, in the school community. Well, that would be interesting, and that's where it needs the interpretation, right? I can remember parents phoning my mother . . .

An Hon. Member: This is a white flag. Call the question.

Ms Blakeman: Oh, excellent. I'm so glad to hear that. Now, why couldn't he have done that before? [interjections]

The Deputy Chair: Hon. members, the Member for Edmonton-Centre does have the floor, and the chair was enjoying listening to her. Please proceed.

Ms Blakeman: I don't want you to enjoy me. I want you to be convinced by me. I'm here arguing a point. I try to be entertaining, I try not to bore you, but the point is that I'm supposed to be convincing you of something. So, you know, try it. Okay.

All right. I will take a leap of faith.

Dr. Swann: I've got to speak to this. Absolutely.

Ms Blakeman: If I let my colleague speak, does that mean you're withdrawing it?

Some Hon. Members: That's right.

Ms Blakeman: Okay. It's a risk we'll take.

Anyway, thank you very much for considering this. I think I have managed to convince some of you, and I appreciate that understanding because bullying is a big deal right now, and we're all coming to terms with that. We as legislators could do the right thing and protect some people.

Thank you very much.

The Deputy Chair: Thank you.

The hon. Minister of Education is next.

Ms Blakeman: Holy.

Mr. Lukaszuk: Not holy, just honourable. Not holy.

Thank you, Mr. Chairman. It is a quarter to 1 o'clock, and even though some of those who may be following us or perhaps reading the Hansard tomorrow may think that we had a lot of fun over here – and we did. We're laughing and trying not to enjoy each other as the hon. Member for Edmonton-Centre reminded us. But the topic that she actually raises is a serious one, and it requires some serious consideration.

As a matter of fact, one of the things that I pride myself on – and I know that the Member for Edmonton-Centre shares with me very strong feelings about it – is the importance of eradicating bullying in any possible way we can as adults. We owe it to our children, we owe it to our society, and we owe it to the future of our province. We know that bullying has a variety of faces. It occurs in many different ways, for many different reasons.

I have actually had an opportunity today with the Minister of Human Services to meet with a large group of young people at Government House. One of the groups is focusing on eradicating bullying. They gave us just a quick overview of the different kinds of bullying there are. Kids can be bullied for a number of reasons. It could be about a child's weight. It could be about a child's ethnicity. It could be about hair colour. It could be homophobic. There are a number of reasons, and the fact is that none of it can be tolerated in our public schools.

So any amendment that further strengthens that and then widens the scope of bullying should be adopted to make the bill even stronger, sending a strong message to our schools and our young people and anyone involved that we definitely must do what we can to eradicate bullying.

I would recommend that all members of this House support this amendment. Thank you.

The Deputy Chair: Thank you.

Mr. Hinman: I will just be brief because I think that that is universal. We all understand. We've all seen bullying. We realize the problems that it causes.

Again, I appreciate that the Member for Edmonton-Centre in her due diligence picks things out that were missed. Again, talking about law, when you start the list, in the government's form it says "by a student." Thereby, that's all it is, just a student, and we know that that isn't the only thing. So this amendment, which I will support, is inclusive to anybody that's in the school community.

I appreciate her due diligence in spotting that and making this bill better. That's what we do and why we stay here into the wee hours of night, to make sure that if we can, we make an improvement. This is a very important one because we don't want any bullying anywhere in the school community.

It's an excellent amendment, and I appreciate her finding that and bringing that amendment forward.

The Deputy Chair: Thank you.

The chair would be pleased to recognize the hon. Member for Calgary-Mountain View.

Dr. Swann: Thank you very much, Mr. Chairman. I won't be long either, but I think it's a critically important amendment that all members of the House should support.

I had a personal experience. My son was bullied by a teacher for over two years, because she ended up being his teacher for a couple of years. It was very difficult for us, first, to identify it and then to get it addressed at the school board level and, finally, to get him out of the class and into a more constructive area. So it's critically important to me that we not focus solely on student bullying, bullying of peers. As the Member for Edmonton-Centre has said, it can come from any staff person. It can come from any parent who has some kind of a role in the school. It can come from after-hours activities, whether it occurs in a sports or a musical event after and outside the school jurisdiction in some way or, at least, off the grounds of the school.

[Dr. Brown in the chair]

I've heard from a few parents already about the school act, that that was an oversight, that they seriously wanted to see that addressed, so I'm very pleased to hear the minister say that there is a strong basis for expanding the circle of potential abusers and ensuring that we be inclusive in our language and not simply refer to just peers or students.

I enjoin all members of the House to support this amendment. It will speak favourably of our work tonight. It will speak favourably of a bipartisan or nonpartisan approach to common sense and to the best interests of our children and our schools and our communities.

Thank you, Mr. Chair.

12:50

The Acting Chair: The chair recognizes the hon. Member for Edmonton-Mill Creek.

Mr. Zwozdesky: Thank you. I, too, will be brief, but it's incumbent upon me to say a few words of support for this motion because I am the MLA for a constituent that you will have seen and heard from on many occasions. Her name is Betty Wedman. She lost her son to a bullying incident. He felt it necessary to commit suicide. In the discussions that I've had – and I've had many – with Mrs. Wedman, she has indicated her support, in slightly different words but, nonetheless, for a motion like this to be brought forward at some point.

We know what the tragedies of bullying can be. Some of us have seen it, and some of us may have even lived it. But to hear Betty Wedman tell her story is something else entirely and something entirely different than perhaps some of the other accounts you will have heard.

Bullying is in the act, and I want to thank the hon. Minister of Education and the previous Minister of Education as well for having supported the inclusion of bullying in a formal sense in this act.

With that, I just want to put it on the record, hon. Chair, that I fully support this amendment in its current form.

The Acting Chair: The hon. Member for Calgary-Varsity.

Mr. Chase: Thank you. And I want to briefly thank the Member for Edmonton-Mill Creek for bringing up the circumstance of Betty Wedman, who approached me when I was first a critic for children and youth services. She told me the story of how her son's bully followed him from school to school. Her son had tried to avoid this particular individual by changing high schools. Then, unfortunately, it turned out that the person who had done the bullying followed him to his new high school, and eventually the culmination of the previous bullying that he had received resulted in him taking his own life.

[Mr. Zwozdesky in the chair]

Mr. Chair, it's extremely important to note that Alberta has the highest suicide rate in the nation, and bullying is frequently what leads to that terrible choice where an individual can no longer tolerate the conditions under which they have been placed.

I appreciate very much that this government has recognized that the definition of a bully has to be extended beyond a student. From a personal experience of having being bullied in grade 8, it does cause you to withdraw into yourself to a large extent. In grade 8, for example, I was fairly close to six feet and probably weighed about 160 pounds, and I considered myself capable of defending myself. On a one-on-one, and in some cases a one-on-two or a one-on-three, I was able to do that. But when an entire grade 8 class decided to initiate me at recess, which was the circumstance in Richmond Hill in Toronto, it had a very negative impact on me.

In terms of a positive impact, I believe I was a better teacher because I was aware of the conditions of bullying around me with students. I chose to teach in a certain manner that did not put students at a disadvantage. I also found that coaching wrestling for 25 years gave a number of students a sense of self and a sense that they could defend themselves. As a result, I am very grateful that members of all parties here tonight support amendment A3.

An Hon. Member: A4.

Mr. Chase: A4. Thank you very much. At five minutes to 1 I lost track of the numeration.

Thank you very much, Mr. Chair, and I look forward to the question being called.

The Deputy Chair: Thank you.

The hon. Member for Airdrie-Chestermere.

Mr. Anderson: Thank you, Mr. Chair. As the Wildrose Education critic I wanted to make sure to quickly get it on the record here that I support the amendment. It's a very thoughtful amendment from the Member for Edmonton-Centre.

As the Education minister said earlier and as other members have said, this is a very sensitive and important area that we need to address. There are so many kids that are bullied, and there are things that happen to them that are just things that adults, I don't think, unless they've been involved in bullying when they were young, can understand. Unfortunately, with some children there's just not a filter, and lot of times, for whatever reason – sometimes it's just a product of their environment; sometimes it's just a product of the way that they act – they feel the need to lash out and attack and bully others that are vulnerable in order to feel special about themselves or to validate themselves.

It's done for many different reasons, and it can vary from day to day, but we need to do whatever we can to make sure that it's identified as quickly as possible, that we try to bring a resolution to it in a way that not only helps the person who's been bullied but also helps the individual who's doing the bullying to understand what they're doing and understand the consequences of what they're doing so that they don't do it again. If it persists in any way, shape, or form, it's imperative that the needs of the child being bullied are taken into account first and foremost. If that means removing the individual that's bullying from the school setting, that's what it means.

Growing up and seeing it, seeing others and being bullied and so forth, I think it was almost acceptable 10 to 15 years ago in the eyes of some people. I think it was almost like: hmm, that's just the way kids are; that's just the way it is. That has led to some very tragic consequences and suicides and premature dropouts and all kinds of heartache for parents and so forth.

I think that this is very important. I also think it underlines, again, what the Wildrose has talked about earlier, and that is the rights of parents to be able to remove their children from situations where the schools do not in some cases satisfy the parents with regard to a bullying issue. In that case parents desperately need the right to be able to remove their children to another setting.

Hopefully, through this act and, hopefully, through the amendments and, hopefully, through a change of culture that won't be necessary as much, and we can put a halt to bullying in the public system or in any system so that it doesn't come to a point where someone needs to be removed from the school because of bullying or because of being bullied.

I support the new definition here by the member and thank her for bringing it forward.

The Deputy Chair: Thank you.

Seeing no other speakers, I hear the question having been called.

[Motion on amendment A4 carried unanimously]

The Deputy Chair: Thank you, hon. members.

We are back to Committee of the Whole on Bill 2.

Ms Blakeman: Thanks very much, Mr. Chair. All right. Another amendment here. [interjections] Hey, you guys are welcome to spring to your feet at any time and call an end to the evening. [interjection] Okay. Happy to help. Thank you very much.

Once again, thank you to the security people that are assisting us tonight. And while I'm thinking about it, thank you to the Hansard staff, that have to hang in here as long as we hang in here.

1:00

Mr. Hancock: And record every word.

Ms Blakeman: And they have to record every word, so thank you for that.

Dr. Swann: And a few words that they never heard before.

Ms Blakeman: And a few new ones.

The Deputy Chair: Hon. members, we have before us amendment A5.

Ms Blakeman: You do. You have amendment A5.

The Deputy Chair: Proceed, please.

Ms Blakeman: Okay. Concentrate on this one because it makes a number of references here. In section 27(1)(d), which appears on page 35, what we're trying to do is make sure that both charter schools and private schools are included in all of part 3, which is the responsibilities and dispute resolution. What happens right now is that they're exempted. As I said, if we're going to have that list and we're going to say that charter schools are accommodated, then they're going to get accommodated like everybody else, and ditto for private schools.

It is unacceptable, particularly when there is public funding going to this – just another little bugbear of mine. You know, I'm a powerful woman, but I'm afraid I cannot quite defeat all of the votes of the men across from me. I think it's important that these considerations are placed upon people with charter schools and . . . [interjections] Can you just let him go out to the lounge and have a break? You have enough people here, Mr. Whip. Couldn't you let him go? Then quit poking him. Just let him sleep.

Section 27 is the application to charter schools. It basically says:

The following provisions and any regulations made under them apply to a charter school and its operation, and a reference in those provisions or those regulations to a board or a trustee is deemed to include a reference to the operator of a charter school or a member of the governing body of the operator of a charter school, as the case may be.

This says: okay; everything that's going to come under this applies to a charter school. Good. All right.

It names a number of sections, and then we get to (d), which appears on page 35, which is the responsibilities and dispute resolution section. It says, "Part 3 except sections 33(1)(k) and 34." Okay. Big mystery here. What's 33(1)(k) that it would be so amazing that it would exclude charter schools from its application? Well, 33(1)(k) says:

develop and implement a code of conduct that applies to trustees of the board, including definitions of breaches and sanctions, in accordance with principles set out by the Minister by order.

Well, why on earth wouldn't you include charter schools in that? [interjection] Okay. Well, you guys are going to have an opportunity to get up and explain this one. What I'm being told from across the floor is that it is excluding charter schools because they don't have trustees on a board.

Mr. Hancock: But not as defined by the act.

Ms Blakeman: But not as defined by the act. But they do have people that are in charge of them, and I don't see why they'd be excluded. The government is going to have to prove to me how charter schools still have to develop and implement a code of conduct that applies to definitions of breaches and sanctions in accordance with the principles set out by the minister by order. So go ahead and prove that to me.

You know, once again, if you guys are going to do this stuff and you're going to create that list, if you're going to separate out and allow charter schools, then you need to be specifically including and applying everything that applies to a public school, that applies to a charter school, and that applies to a private school. Once again, I do not believe private schools should receive public funding. Just so I'm on the record.

Section 34 is the trustee responsibilities, which the government will now argue, because a charter school doesn't have trustees in particular because they don't have a school board, are exempted from the responsibility to

- (a) fulfil the responsibilities of the board as set out in section 33,
- (b) be present and participate in meetings . . . and committees . . .
- (c) comply with the board's code of conduct, and
- (d) engage parents, students and the community on matters related to education.

I don't see why they have to be excluded from that.

Then it goes on. The second section under this amendment, section (b), is specific to private schools. Once again, it's saying in section 30(1)(d), which is on application of the act to private schools:

- 30(1) The following provisions and any regulations made under them apply to a registered or accredited private school and its operation, and a reference in those provisions or those regulations to a board or a trustee is deemed to include a reference to the person responsible for the operation of a private school or a member of the governing body of the operator of a private school, as the case may be.

Then 30(1)(d), which again is in part 3, sections 31 and 32 and division 7.

Section 31 is the student responsibilities, which I think you guys have already been through. Surely, I don't have to read this into the record. We've already talked about student responsibilities.

- A student, as a partner in education, has the responsibility to
 - (a) attend school regularly and punctually,
 - (b) be ready to learn and actively engage in . . .

Mr. Hancock: It's all good.

Ms Blakeman: You've read it? I'm sure you have, but I don't know that the rest of your colleagues have. I did hear somebody talking about it earlier in the day, which is why I thought it might have been read into the record.

It's allowing that to be struck out, and it's allowing section 32, which is parent responsibilities, and part 7, the education professions and occupations section – I don't even know if I can find it fast enough because I didn't mark the page number down. [interjection] Page 130? Thank you. Thank you very much for the assistance I'm getting from the previous Minister of Education, the current Minister of Human Services. It strikes out those exemptions and applies all of part 3 toward the private schools.

That's my argument. If you're going to be empowering and including private schools and charter schools under this act, you should be having all requirements, codes of conduct, responsibilities of people in charge, whether you call them a trustee or an owner or whatever else you want to call them. I don't think any of these people should be exempted from the requirements that have been put upon the public schools. There's just no reason to exempt them.

I'm asking for support. I'm getting a lot of giggling and yawning from the other side, but I still assume you're hanging in there with me. I would like to see this amendment passed.

I'd like to officially move amendment A5. Thank you.

The Deputy Chair: Thank you very much.

Are there any other speakers to amendment A5?

Seeing none, are you ready for the question, then?

Hon. Members: Question.

[Motion on amendment A5 lost]

The Deputy Chair: The hon. Government House Leader.

1:10

Mr. Hancock: Thank you, Mr. Chairman. I move that the committee rise and report progress and beg leave to sit again.

[Motion carried]

[Mr. Zwodzesky in the chair]

The Acting Speaker: The hon. Member for Edmonton-Calder.

Mr. Elniski: Thank you, Mr. Speaker. The Committee of the Whole has had under consideration a certain bill. The committee reports progress on the following bill: Bill 2. I wish to table copies of all amendments considered by the Committee of the Whole on this date for the official records of the Assembly.

The Acting Speaker: Thank you, hon. Member for Edmonton-Calder.

Does the Assembly concur in the report?

Hon. Members: Concur.

The Acting Speaker: Those opposed? Accordingly, so ordered.

The hon. Government House Leader.

Mr. Hancock: Thank you, Mr. Speaker. In light of the hour and the progress I move that we adjourn until 1:30 p.m.

[Motion carried; the Assembly adjourned at 1:12 a.m. on Thursday to 1:30 p.m.]

Table of Contents

Government Bills and Orders
Committee of the Whole
Bill 2 Education Act..... 537
Division 543

If your address is incorrect, please clip on the dotted line, make any changes, and return to the address listed below. To facilitate the update, please attach the last mailing label along with your account number.

Subscriptions
Legislative Assembly Office
1001 Legislature Annex
9718 – 107 Street
EDMONTON, AB T5K 1E4

.....

Last mailing label:

Account # _____

New information:

Name:

Address:

.....

Subscription information:

Annual subscriptions to the paper copy of Alberta Hansard (including annual index) are $127.50 including GST if mailed once a week or $94.92 including GST if picked up at the subscription address below or if mailed through the provincial government interdepartmental mail system. Bound volumes are $121.70 including GST if mailed. Cheques should be made payable to the Minister of Finance.

Price per issue is $0.75 including GST.

Online access to Alberta Hansard is available through the Internet at www.assembly.ab.ca

Subscription inquiries:

Subscriptions
Legislative Assembly Office
1001 Legislature Annex
9718 – 107 St.
EDMONTON, AB T5K 1E4
Telephone: 780.427.1302

Other inquiries:

Managing Editor
Alberta Hansard
1001 Legislature Annex
9718 – 107 St.
EDMONTON, AB T5K 1E4
Telephone: 780.427.1875

Province of Alberta

The 27th Legislature
Fifth Session

Alberta Hansard

Thursday, March 15, 2012

Issue 18a

The Honourable Kenneth R. Kowalski, Speaker

Legislative Assembly of Alberta
The 27th Legislature

Fifth Session

Kowalski, Hon. Ken, Barrhead-Morinville-Westlock, Speaker
Cao, Wayne C.N., Calgary-Fort, Deputy Speaker and Chair of Committees
Zwozdesky, Gene, Edmonton-Mill Creek, Deputy Chair of Committees

Ady, Cindy, Calgary-Shaw (PC)
Allred, Ken, St. Albert (PC)
Amery, Moe, Calgary-East (PC)
Anderson, Rob, Airdrie-Chestermere (W),
Wildrose Opposition House Leader
Benito, Carl, Edmonton-Mill Woods (PC)
Berger, Hon. Evan, Livingstone-Macleod (PC)
Bhardwaj, Naresh, Edmonton-Ellerslie (PC)
Bhullar, Hon. Manmeet Singh, Calgary-Montrose (PC)
Blackett, Lindsay, Calgary-North West (PC)
Blakeman, Laurie, Edmonton-Centre (AL),
Official Opposition Deputy Leader,
Official Opposition House Leader
Boutilier, Guy C., Fort McMurray-Wood Buffalo (W)
Brown, Dr. Neil, QC, Calgary-Nose Hill (PC)
Calahasen, Pearl, Lesser Slave Lake (PC)
Campbell, Robin, West Yellowhead (PC),
Government Whip
Chase, Harry B., Calgary-Varsity (AL)
Dallas, Hon. Cal, Red Deer-South (PC)
Danyluk, Hon. Ray, Lac La Biche-St. Paul (PC)
DeLong, Alana, Calgary-Bow (PC)
Denis, Hon. Jonathan, QC, Calgary-Egmont (PC),
Deputy Government House Leader
Doerksen, Arno, Strathmore-Brooks (PC)
Drysedale, Wayne, Grande Prairie-Wapiti (PC),
Deputy Government Whip
Elniski, Doug, Edmonton-Calder (PC)
Evans, Iris, Sherwood Park (PC)
Fawcett, Kyle, Calgary-North Hill (PC)
Forsyth, Heather, Calgary-Fish Creek (W),
Wildrose Opposition Whip
Fritz, Yvonne, Calgary-Cross (PC)
Goudreau, Hector G., Dunvegan-Central Peace (PC)
Griffiths, Hon. Doug, Battle River-Wainwright (PC)
Groeneveld, George, Highwood (PC)
Hancock, Hon. Dave, QC, Edmonton-Whitemud (PC),
Government House Leader
Hayden, Hon. Jack, Drumheller-Stettler (PC)
Hehr, Kent, Calgary-Buffalo (AL)
Hinman, Paul, Calgary-Glenmore (W),
Wildrose Opposition Deputy Leader
Horne, Hon. Fred, Edmonton-Rutherford (PC),
Deputy Government House Leader
Horner, Hon. Doug, Spruce Grove-Sturgeon-St. Albert (PC)
Jablonski, Mary Anne, Red Deer-North (PC)
Jacobs, Broyce, Cardston-Taber-Warner (PC)
Johnson, Hon. Jeff, Athabasca-Redwater (PC)
Johnston, Art, Calgary-Hays (PC)

Kang, Darshan S., Calgary-McCall (AL),
Official Opposition Whip
Klimchuk, Hon. Heather, Edmonton-Glenora (PC)
Knight, Mel, Grande Prairie-Smoky (PC)
Leskiw, Genia, Bonnyville-Cold Lake (PC)
Liepert, Hon. Ron, Calgary-West (PC)
Lindsay, Fred, Stony Plain (PC)
Lukaszuk, Hon. Thomas A., Edmonton-Castle Downs (PC)
Lund, Ty, Rocky Mountain House (PC)
MacDonald, Hugh, Edmonton-Gold Bar (AL)
Marz, Richard, Olds-Didsbury-Three Hills (PC)
Mason, Brian, Edmonton-Highlands-Norwood (ND),
Leader of the ND Opposition
McFarland, Barry, Little Bow (PC)
McQueen, Hon. Diana, Drayton Valley-Calmar (PC)
Mitzel, Len, Cypress-Medicine Hat (PC)
Morton, Hon. F.L., Foothills-Rocky View (PC)
Notley, Rachel, Edmonton-Strathcona (ND),
ND Opposition House Leader
Oberle, Hon. Frank, Peace River (PC)
Olson, Hon. Verlyn, QC, Wetaskiwin-Camrose (PC),
Deputy Government House Leader
Ouellette, Luke, Innisfail-Sylvan Lake (PC)
Pastoor, Bridget Brennan, Lethbridge-East (PC)
Prins, Ray, Lacombe-Ponoka (PC)
Quest, Dave, Strathcona (PC)
Redford, Hon. Alison M., QC, Calgary-Elbow (PC),
Premier
Renner, Rob, Medicine Hat (PC)
Rodney, Dave, Calgary-Lougheed (PC)
Rogers, George, Leduc-Beaumont-Devon (PC)
Sandhu, Peter, Edmonton-Manning (PC)
Sarich, Janice, Edmonton-Decore (PC)
Sherman, Dr. Raj, Edmonton-Meadowlark (AL),
Leader of the Official Opposition
Snelgrove, Lloyd, Vermilion-Lloydminster (Ind)
Stelmach, Ed, Fort Saskatchewan-Vegreville (PC)
Swann, Dr. David, Calgary-Mountain View (AL)
Taft, Dr. Kevin, Edmonton-Riverview (AL),
Official Opposition Deputy Whip
Tarchuk, Janis, Banff-Cochrane (PC)
Taylor, Dave, Calgary-Currie (AB)
VanderBurg, Hon. George, Whitecourt-Ste. Anne (PC)
Vandermeer, Tony, Edmonton-Beverly-Clareview (PC)
Weadick, Hon. Greg, Lethbridge-West (PC),
Deputy Government House Leader
Webber, Len, Calgary-Foothills (PC)
Woo-Paw, Teresa, Calgary-Mackay (PC)
Xiao, David H., Edmonton-McClung (PC)

Party standings:

Progressive Conservative: 67 Alberta Liberal: 8 Wildrose: 4 New Democrat: 2 Alberta: 1 Independent: 1

Officers and Officials of the Legislative Assembly

W.J. David McNeil, Clerk	Stephanie LeBlanc, Parliamentary Counsel & Legal Research Officer	Chris Caughell, Assistant Sergeant-at-Arms
Robert H. Reynolds, QC, Law Clerk/ Director of Interparliamentary Relations	Philip Massolin, Committee Research Co-ordinator	Gordon H. Munk, Assistant Sergeant-at-Arms
Shannon Dean, Senior Parliamentary Counsel/Director of House Services	Brian G. Hodgson, Sergeant-at-Arms	Liz Sim, Managing Editor of Alberta Hansard

Executive Council

Alison Redford	Premier, President of Executive Council, Chair of Agenda and Priorities Committee
Doug Horner	Deputy Premier, President of Treasury Board and Enterprise
Dave Hancock	Minister of Human Services
Ted Morton	Minister of Energy
Verlyn Olson	Minister of Justice and Attorney General
Fred Horne	Minister of Health and Wellness
Ron Liepert	Minister of Finance
Thomas Lukaszuk	Minister of Education, Political Minister for Edmonton
Diana McQueen	Minister of Environment and Water
Jonathan Denis	Solicitor General and Minister of Public Security
Cal Dallas	Minister of Intergovernmental, International and Aboriginal Relations, Political Minister for Central Alberta
Evan Berger	Minister of Agriculture and Rural Development, Political Minister for Southern Alberta
Frank Oberle	Minister of Sustainable Resource Development
George VanderBurg	Minister of Seniors
Ray Danyluk	Minister of Transportation
Jeff Johnson	Minister of Infrastructure, Political Minister for Northern Alberta
Doug Griffiths	Minister of Municipal Affairs
Greg Weadick	Minister of Advanced Education and Technology
Jack Hayden	Minister of Tourism, Parks and Recreation
Heather Klimchuk	Minister of Culture and Community Services
Manmeet Singh Bhullar	Minister of Service Alberta, Political Minister for Calgary

Parliamentary Assistants

Naresh Bhardwaj	Health and Wellness
Alana DeLong	Seniors
Arno Doerksen	Human Services
Kyle Fawcett	Treasury Board and Enterprise
Art Johnston	Executive Council
Barry McFarland	Agriculture and Rural Development
Len Mitzel	Transportation
Dave Rodney	Health and Wellness
David Xiao	Energy

STANDING AND SPECIAL COMMITTEES OF THE LEGISLATIVE ASSEMBLY OF ALBERTA

Standing Committee on the Alberta Heritage Savings Trust Fund

Chair: Ms Tarchuk
Deputy Chair: Mr. Elniski

Anderson
DeLong
Groeneveld
Johnston
MacDonald
Quest
Taft

Standing Committee on Community Development

Chair: Mrs. Jablonski
Deputy Chair: Mr. Chase

Amery
Blakeman
Boutilier
Calahasen
Goudreau
Groeneveld
Lindsay
Snelgrove
Taylor
Vandermeer

Standing Committee on Education

Chair: Ms Pastoor
Deputy Chair: Mr. Hehr

Anderson
Benito
Brown
Cao
Chase
Leskiw
Marz
Notley
Sarich
Tarchuk

Standing Committee on Energy

Chair: Mrs. Ady
Deputy Chair: Ms Blakeman

Hehr
Hinman
Jacobs
Johnston
Lund
Mason
McFarland
Ouellette
Webber
Xiao

Standing Committee on Finance

Chair: Mr. Renner
Deputy Chair: Mr. Kang

Allred
Anderson
Drysdale
Fawcett
Knight
Mitzel
Prins
Sandhu
Taft
Taylor

Standing Committee on Legislative Offices

Chair: Mr. Blackett
Deputy Chair: Mr. Lund

Blakeman
Brown
Evans
Hinman
Lindsay
MacDonald
Marz
Notley
Ouellette
Quest

Special Standing Committee on Members' Services

Chair: Mr. Kowalski
Deputy Chair: Mr. Campbell

Amery
Anderson
Elniski
Evans
Hehr
Knight
Leskiw
MacDonald
Mason
Rogers

Standing Committee on Private Bills

Chair: Dr. Brown
Deputy Chair: Ms Woo-Paw

Allred	Kang
Benito	Knight
Boutilier	Lindsay
Calahasen	McFarland
Doerksen	Sandhu
Drysdale	Sarich
Evans	Snelgrove
Groeneveld	Swann
Hinman	Xiao
Jacobs

Standing Committee on Privileges and Elections, Standing Orders and Printing

Chair: Mr. Prins
Deputy Chair: Mr. Snelgrove

Amery	Mitzel
Boutilier	Notley
Calahasen	Pastoor
DeLong	Quest
Doerksen	Stelmach
Forsyth	Swann
Jacobs	Tarchuk
Knight	Taylor
Leskiw	Zwozdesky
McFarland

Standing Committee on Public Accounts

Chair: Mr. MacDonald
Deputy Chair: Mr. Goudreau

Allred	Kang
Benito	Mason
Calahasen	Rodney
Chase	Sandhu
Elniski	Vandermeer
Fawcett	Woo-Paw
Forsyth	Xiao
Groeneveld

Standing Committee on Public Health and Safety

Chair: Mrs. Fritz
Deputy Chair: Dr. Taft

Bhardwaj
Blakett
DeLong
Doerksen
Forsyth
Notley
Rodney
Rogers
Swann
Woo-Paw

Legislative Assembly of Alberta

1:30 p.m.

Thursday, March 15, 2012

[The Speaker in the chair]

Prayers

The Speaker: Good afternoon and welcome.

Let us pray. As we conclude this week's deliberations and return to our constituencies, we pray that we will be renewed and strengthened in our commitment to better serve our constituency and all Albertans. Amen.

Please be seated.

Introduction of Guests

The Speaker: Hon. Member for Edmonton-Centre, do you have an introduction?

Ms Blakeman: I do, Mr. Speaker.

The Speaker: Proceed.

Ms Blakeman: You could tell how excited I was when you called upon me, I know.

Once again I am very proud to introduce to you and through you to all members of the Assembly members of the Imperial Sovereign Court of the Wild Rose. Now, you know that everything good happens in the fabulous constituency of Edmonton-Centre, except for what happens in Edmonton-Calder. I'm very pleased that the court holds so many activities in my fabulous constituency of Edmonton-Centre. I'm going to do a member's statement later, but I would like to introduce them and have them rise when I mention their names so that you can see them in all their glory. We have two board members with us today from the court, Kari Sorensen and Michelle Pederson. Imperial Grand Duke XXXVI, Yeust Bobb, I believe is here; indeed, he is. Imperial Grand Duchess XXXVI, Clara T, is coming; Imperial Crown Prince XXXVI, Stiffy Steele; His Majesty Emperor XXXV, L.J. Steele – hi, L.J. – and Her Majesty Empress XXXIII and Empress Regent XXXVI, Marni Gras.

Please join me in welcoming these wonderful people to our Assembly.

The Speaker: The hon. Minister of Justice and Attorney General.

Mr. Olson: Thank you, Mr. Speaker. It's a pleasure today to introduce to you and through to all members of the Assembly a group of parents and students from the Wetaskiwin and Camrose home-schools. This bright young group of students and their parents are here today to see the Legislature Building and to take in the history of the building and also, of course, to observe question period. I know they're going to have wonderful time here. I'm a little bit nervous, though, because they've told me they're coming up to have a look at my office afterward, so as we speak my staff is scrambling to clean it up. They are seated here in the gallery, and I'd ask that they all rise and receive the traditional warm welcome of the Assembly.

The Speaker: The hon. Minister of Tourism, Parks and Recreation.

Mr. Hayden: Thank you very much, Mr. Speaker. It's indeed a pleasure for me today to introduce to you and, of course, through you to all members of the Assembly a group of very bright young individuals who have travelled here today. One of the students told me they left really early, at about 6 o'clock, and travelled here from Morrin, Alberta, which, of course, is in my constituency of Drumheller-Stettler. Today we have with us 18 grade 6 students from the Morrin school. They're seated in the members' gallery, and they're accompanied by their teacher and parent helpers. I had an opportunity to chat with them today, and I also had an opportunity to be at their school last week as we looked at the modernization that's taking place. Today as I chatted with them, they had unbelievable questions, I dare speculate maybe the best that I will have had heard today. I'd now ask them all to please rise and receive the warm welcome of the Assembly.

The Speaker: The hon. Member for Edmonton-Ellerslie.

Mr. Bhardwaj: Thank you very much, Mr. Speaker. I have two introductions today. First off, I would like to introduce to you and through you four residents of my constituency of Edmonton-Ellerslie. Prior to question period I met with Tracey Marshall Craig, Kathy Murphy, and her two young children, Ava and Finn Murphy. Tracey is the chair of the Summerside playground subcommittee, and Cathy is also a member of the subcommittee. These two women have worked tirelessly on the Summerside playground project. As you well know, lots of work goes on in new communities in developing playgrounds. At this time I would ask my guests to please rise and receive the traditional warm welcome of the Assembly.

Thank you very much, Mr. Speaker. My second introduction today is a group of students from Ellerslie campus, elementary and junior high school. These bright young students are here today to observe the proceedings of the House, and it is my pleasure to have them here. Joining them are Mr. Blair Faulkner, Mrs. Farhat Naqvi, Miss Amanda Pearce, and Mrs. Angela Sawula. At this time I would ask all of my guests to please rise and receive the traditional warm welcome of the Assembly.

The Speaker: The hon. Member for Edmonton-McClung.

Mr. Xiao: Thank you, Mr. Speaker. I am so pleased to rise today to introduce to you and through you to members of the Assembly a group of very bright, very intelligent students from Talmud Torah School accompanied by their teacher, Ms Sherry Helland. I had the opportunity to have a brief chat with them. They really enjoyed the tour. Now I would like to ask them to please rise and receive the traditional warm welcome of this House.

The Speaker: The hon. Minister of Human Services.

Mr. Hancock: Thank you, Mr. Speaker. Each year I have the honour and privilege of introducing to you and through you to all members of the Assembly Rotary exchange students. This year is no exception. Accompanying my guests today is Jack Clements, a long-time constituent of mine and a good friend. Jack is a member of the Edmonton downtown Rotary club and has served with this Rotary club and our community for many years. Accompanying Jack are three exceptional Rotary exchange students.

Anna-Marie Robertson from Edmonton will be an exchange student to the Netherlands during the 2012-13 year. She's an only child with a single-parent mom and has a keen interest in international affairs and conflict resolution. She's very excited to be an ambassador for Edmonton and about all the learning to come. While she does not envy our MLA job, she does acknowledge its importance and is here today to learn more about the work that we do.

Saskia Dietrich comes from a little town close to Berlin, Germany. She has indicated that to go on this exchange was the best decision that she has ever made. She has met many people and made many friends and experienced many cultures. Her mother is a physical therapist and her dad is an engineer, and neither have been to Canada. Saskia indicated that the only thing that she misses is German chocolate.

Noora Savolainen comes from Raisio, Finland. She started figure skating when she was four years old and loves to watch hockey. Her father is an ice hockey coach for her brother's team. Mr. Speaker, I was able to show her the picture of Gretzky and me in my office after Gretzky's last game in Edmonton. She is also a lover of music, and she wants to learn more about our language and culture and share her Finnish culture and customs with us. Spending a year in Canada has allowed her to improve her English and make many friends.

Mr. Speaker, these are truly amazing students with many special talents. May Saskia and Noora have a rich and rewarding Alberta experience, and may Anna-Marie experience all there is to experience in the Netherlands and come back to Edmonton enriched and rewarded. My guests are in the members' gallery. I'd ask them to rise and be rewarded with the traditional warm welcome.

The Speaker: The hon. Member for St. Albert.

Mr. Allred: Thank you, Mr. Speaker. It's my privilege today to rise and introduce to you and through you to the rest of the Assembly a very good friend of mine and successor as the Progressive Conservative candidate for St. Albert, Steven Kahn. He is a long-time resident of St. Albert. He is very involved in the community and has participated in almost every sport you could imagine. He's managed a family software business with over 70 employees and has markets across Canada and, actually, internationally. Please welcome the next MLA for St. Albert, Steven Kahn. Please stand.

The Speaker: The hon. Member for Calgary-Mackay.

1:40

Ms Woo-Paw: Thank you very much, Mr. Speaker. It is my great pleasure to introduce to you and through you to all members of the House six members from the Little Red River board of education. They are in Edmonton for their conference, so I have invited them to come tour the Legislature, attend question period, and have a short visit with the Minister of Education. They are seated in the members' gallery. Please stand as I call your names: Mr. Dennis Laboucan, chairperson of the board; Marylou Grande, board member, Fox Lake; Alvina D'Or and Karen Tallcree, board members of Garden River; Tina Seeseequon, local board chairperson of John D'Or Prairie; and my friend of over 20 years, Mr. David Yu, who immigrated to Alberta, Canada, in the '80s from China. He received his master of education here in Alberta and has worked on various reserves and is currently the director of education for the Little Red River Cree Nation. I would like to ask the members of the House to extend their warmest welcome to our guests.

Ms Notley: Today I'm very pleased to introduce to you and through you to this Assembly a group of guests from the Battle River-Wainwright constituency. My guests are part of a group of about 30 landowners representing an organization called Concerned Neighbours in Partnership that wants to give people in their area a voice on ATCO's east Alberta transmission line. Together they collected hundreds of signatures from fellow Albertans who are concerned about property and landowner rights, a petition which we'll be tabling today. I would now like to ask my guests to rise as I call their names: Deb Kirk, John Kirk, Marilyn Matthiessen, Midge Lambert, Bill Leithead, Marion Leithead, Denise Miller, and Dale Kroetsch. I would now ask the Assembly to join me in offering them the traditional welcome.

The Speaker: The Leader of the Official Opposition.

Dr. Sherman: Thank you, Mr. Speaker. It's my pleasure to introduce to you and through you to this Assembly a very distinguished guest sitting in your gallery. He's the Hon. Jim Karygiannis, Member of Parliament for Scarborough-Agincourt in Ontario. He has served his constituents in the House of Commons since 1988 and currently acts as the Liberal Party critic for multiculturalism. Joining him is his assistant, Mr. Nikolaos Mantas.

Mr. Karygiannis is a strong advocate for social justice and human rights. He's rallied MPs to condemn acts of barbarism perpetrated against religious and cultural minorities all around the world. He's also well travelled, having served as an official election observer in Pakistan and several other countries. Mr. Karygiannis is often quoted as saying that RACE stands for respecting our neighbours, accepting our differences, celebrating our rich diversity, and embracing our heritage. Mr. Speaker, this is something that we do every day as MLAs in this House to make Alberta a welcoming place. Mr. Karygiannis, welcome. A great Canadian. I'd ask him and Mr. Mantas to rise to please receive the traditional warm welcome of this Assembly.

Thank you.

Members' Statements

The Speaker: The hon. Member for Lethbridge-East.

Health Care System Accomplishments

Ms Pastoor: Thank you, Mr. Speaker. In this Assembly time is spent discussing the complex issues facing our public health care system. The work of building the health system is never done, particularly in improving the access to care. Action is being taken, and I'd like to highlight some of the recent accomplishments.

There are advancements in improving access to health care services right across the province. Forty primary care networks operate each day to serve Albertans' primary health care needs. Additional funding will be invested this year in primary care networks, and three family care client pilot projects will be rolled out later this month. Our seniors will receive expanded home-care services, more adult day programs, and a province-wide, 24-hour telephone helpline run by registered nurses.

Each year there are a thousand new continuing care spaces, to expand our system by 5,300 spaces by 2014-15. Mental health services and addictions services are being expanded, with more counselling and psychology services programs in our schools and a $15 million renovation to Alberta Hospital Edmonton. That is good news.

Research and innovation procedures are saving lives and speeding recovery for thousands of patients every day. Heart failure patients are now being seen within two weeks after referral through the Mazankowski and the CK Hui Heart Centre, lung cancer patients have faster access to treatment through rapid access clinics, and the provincial stroke strategy means more Albertans are getting timely access to urgent stroke treatment. Insulin-dependent diabetics will have more coverage for supplies that they need to monitor their blood glucose. Albertans can be proud of the health care system.

The Speaker: The hon. Member for Edmonton-Centre. [interjection] Edmonton-Centre.

Imperial Sovereign Court of the Wild Rose

Ms Blakeman: Thanks very much, Mr. Speaker. Today I was able to welcome and introduce a number of guests from the Imperial Sovereign Court of the Wild Rose, part of the imperial court system of drag queens and kings which exists across Canada, the U.S., and Mexico.

Mr. Speaker, I've been honoured for several years to introduce the reigning court to this Assembly. I do this because I am very proud of my drag queens and kings for their style, elegance, and skills. I also do it because I want people to know of the important charitable work these courts do across the continent.

These courts take their protocol seriously. Few events I attend these days are truly formal or black tie never mind white tie, but these guys and gals take their long, carefully followed series of ceremonies and requirements, and they more than meet the dress code.

Now, each upper house of newly elected empresses and emperors is expected to travel to visit other cities in Canada, and that means new frocks, new shoes, new accessories, and hair. The higher the hair, the closer to God.

It's a tremendous personal commitment. This year, their 36th, no one could make that commitment of time and money so, according to protocol, the previous three empresses and emperors were asked to serve as regents, and today we have one of the three regent empresses, Marni Gras, with us in the gallery.

As a joint decision the regents are focusing their fundraising efforts on youth in their community this year, which includes the flyreel youth leadership camp, a new camp the court created with HIV Edmonton for children with HIV and their families called the Millicent's Red Diamond camp, and they support safe place initiatives in Alberta schools and antibullying campaigns and projects. And by a safe place they mean for all children, not just those of the GLBT community.

The immense heart and generosity of the International Sovereign Court of the Wild Rose and their empresses and emperors is a great credit.

The Speaker: The hon. Member for Lacombe-Ponoka.

Property Rights

Mr. Prins: Thank you, Mr. Speaker. I am pleased to rise and thank Albertans for their valuable input into an important matter, property rights. This past January several hon. members took part in a province-wide initiative to gather feedback from Albertans. The goal was to find grassroots solutions to the property rights concerns that Albertans have raised.

In February the government released a document that outlined what we heard along with the solutions provided to the Property Rights Task Force from Albertans and the government's response to these recommendations. The viewpoints provided by Albertans were consistent and can be broken into four overarching themes.

First, Albertans told us that they must be actively consulted about decisions that affect them. Albertans also told us that they need to be assured that they have access to courts, and Albertans expect appropriate compensation. Most importantly, they asked for an advocate to help them navigate through the process.

I'm very pleased to say that we have responded to Albertans with Bill 6, the Property Rights Advocate Act. The property rights advocate, under the Ministry of Justice and Attorney General, will provide independent and impartial information to landowners and will work to ensure property rights continue to be protected.

It's very clear Albertans expect government to protect their property rights and to ensure their core values are represented when decisions are made in the public interest. I'm very proud that under our Premier's direction we're using the comments and solutions provided to us by Albertans to make improvements that will benefit all landowners.

Thank you.

Oral Question Period

The Speaker: First Official Opposition main question. The hon. Leader of the Official Opposition.

Long-term Care for Seniors

Dr. Sherman: Thank you, Mr. Speaker. A week ago I met with family members of Tatiana Marchak, yet another senior who suffered severe neglect due to this government's failure to adequately fund staff and resources and monitor seniors' care facilities. On Friday evening January 10 Tatiana fell and hit her head. Her face was very badly bruised. Despite her obvious need for medical care emergency medical services was never called, and she died in a bed at St. Michaels a few days later. Given the overwhelming evidence even from the Health Quality Council to this government and to the Premier: why are you intentionally neglecting our seniors?

1:50

Mr. Horne: Mr. Speaker, this government extends our deepest condolences to the family of the lady to whom the hon. member refers.

What I must tell you, Mr. Speaker, is that I have checked into this case, and based on the information I have received, I have determined that this lady was under the care of a physician at the time of her death, that all of the appropriate procedures with respect to care assessments, case conferences, and compliance with standards were appropriately dealt with throughout the case.

What I must say to you, Mr. Speaker, and, I think, on behalf of many members of this House: this hon. member was a parliamentary assistant to the minister of health at the time of this incident. What did he not report that incident at . . .

The Speaker: The hon. leader.

Dr. Sherman: Mr. Speaker, the gloves are coming off. I was the parliamentary assistant, and I said to this government and Premier: I've lost faith and trust. They're failing our seniors.

To the minister: do you understand that by intentionally starving our public long-term care facilities of funding, a policy, Minister, that you implemented, that you were in charge of, that that minister administered – you've been starving these facilities and failing to monitor seniors' facilities – this government is responsible for abject humanitarian failure.

Mr. Horne: Mr. Speaker, the question that should be asked by all members of this House is: if this hon. member had knowledge of this event at the time that it occurred in January of 2010, why did he not report it under the Protection for Persons in Care Act? If he chose not to report it, why does he raise it along with very graphic and inappropriate pictures in the media on the eve of an election? Why is that?

Dr. Sherman: Mr. Speaker, for once you're actually going to get a real, honest answer to a question, and the opposition will answer it. I actually just found out about this last week. I didn't know about this.

Mr. Speaker, to the Premier: given that the severe neglect of seniors such as Audry Chudyk and Grace Denyer has been dismissed by this minister and this Premier as unfortunate incidents, are you just going to look at this picture of Tatiana Marchak and say that this is just another unfortunate incident? The family wants this story told.

The Speaker: The hon. Deputy Premier.

Mr. Horner: Thank you, Mr. Speaker. That was a disgraceful political play. He talks about dignity for seniors yet releases a picture of a senior who is obviously lying dead in a bed. I think that Albertans will look at that and judge for themselves.

The Speaker: Second Official Opposition main question. The hon. Leader of the Official Opposition.

Dr. Sherman: Mr. Speaker, the family wanted that released so it never happens to any senior again.

Alberta First Nations Energy Centre

Dr. Sherman: Let's move on. The multibillion-dollar First Nation upgrader was so attractive to Chinese and Indian state oil companies and state banks that they would have competed for an equity stake if this government had not killed the project. PwC's study for the government of Canada confirmed the economic viability of the project. Senior Alberta Energy officials said that it would have paid the government itself $20 billion over and above royalties. Equally important, the project would have meant . . .

The Speaker: The hon. minister. [interjection] The hon. minister. [interjection] Hold on. Hold on. There's a time factor in questions and answers. I've recognized the hon. minister.

Do you wish to proceed or not?

Mr. Horner: Well, Mr. Speaker, I'm not sure what the question was.

The Speaker: The hon. leader.

Dr. Sherman: Thank you, Mr. Speaker. To the Minister of Energy: India, China, PricewaterhouseCoopers, your own officials from the federal government, the indigenous peoples, and British Columbians say that this is a good project. They say one thing; the boys in the backroom say another. Do you even have an inkling of how deeply offended Alberta's First Nation treaty chiefs are at the Premier's and your arrogance in dealing with them and rejecting this project? Who is right?

Dr. Morton: Mr. Speaker, there was no arrogance at all in dealing with the First Nations. We met with them. We knew it wasn't good news. We told them that we deemed the risk too high to proceed. Albertans should understand – the Leader of the Opposition obviously doesn't want to understand – we want more upgrading. We have hundreds of thousands of BRIK barrels, but we're not going to commit to projects that are not economically viable and put the Alberta taxpayers at risk.

Dr. Sherman: Mr. Speaker, let me get this right. Given that others in the world want to invest money here, create better jobs, especially for the indigenous peoples, and they have buy-in from everybody, a no-brainer, does the minister or the Premier have any explanation as to why they were so insulting to the First Nation chiefs in rejecting something that just made sense?

Mr. Dallas: Mr. Speaker, that is the most ridiculous mischaracterization of the way that these discussions were handled that one could imagine. Right from the time that the Premier asked me to handle this ministry, I met twice with the Assembly of Treaty Chiefs. We've had a protocol meeting. The Premier and I have met with the grand chiefs. The meeting that the member refers to was done most sincerely and as directly as possibly could be done. The reality is that if this project is viable . . .

The Speaker: Third Official Opposition main question. The hon. Member for Edmonton-Centre.

Ms Blakeman: Thanks very much, Mr. Speaker. When the Premier and the Minister of Energy kicked the First Nations upgrader project into the gutter, it was at the conditional commitment agreement stage. This stage involves zero risk to the province. The agreement required the First Nations to spend about $200 million further developing the proposal. It also required the project in the end to be nearly three times as profitable to the Alberta government than the North West upgrader, which the province has already approved. To the Premier: why the higher standard for this project?

Mr. Horner: Well, Mr. Speaker, they're comparing apples and oranges a bit here. The North West upgrader and this project are two totally different projects. They're at two totally different stages. The hon. member earlier had referenced how this project, they felt, was very, very viable. We hope that given the market, given the status of where the logistics of getting product to market are, projects will proceed. They don't necessarily need to have government intervention. We get projects unsolicited to us on a regular basis. Our job is to . . .

The Speaker: The hon. member, please. [interjection] The hon. member, please.

Ms Blakeman: Thanks very much, Mr. Speaker. Back to the Premier: would this project have been approved if it had the backing of three Calgary-based oil companies instead of three First Nations companies?

Dr. Morton: Mr. Speaker, for the, I think, third time in less than two weeks I'll repeat that it was strictly a business decision. We want more upgrading in this province. We have hundreds of thousands of BRIK barrels, but we cannot make commitments that are economically unsustainable. It's a risk to the Alberta taxpayer, and it's not one that we could accept and be responsible.

Ms Blakeman: Economically unsustainable. Hmm. I'm just curious. Back to the Premier again: is this, then, just a matter of the First Nations not contributing enough to the PC leadership campaigns given that MEG Energy gave $65,000 to the five who declared their contributions, and the CNRL and Mr. Allan Markin ponied up $135,000, combined, to the four of them?

Mr. Horner: Well, Mr. Speaker, Albertans across this province take part in the democratic process. We encourage that, in fact, and we ask that all Albertans would do that. Both the Liberals and the Wildrose have received contributions from the same players in this particular enterprise, so obviously that's not an issue. We don't worry about whether they've contributed to any party. What we do is that we make a decision based on the value for all taxpayers in the province, all taxpayers.

The Speaker: The hon. Member for Fort McMurray-Wood Buffalo.

Municipal Taxation

Mr. Boutilier: Thank you very much, Mr. Speaker. Last week the Premier was on radio with taxpayer-funded campaign ads promising no tax hikes. We now find out that one of her promises has come crashing down. Taxes are indeed on the rise. For instance, the city of Calgary's most recent report confirms a 7.2 per cent hike in the province's share of education property taxes, amounting to higher taxes for families. To the Premier: how can you look Albertans square in the eye and tell them you aren't raising taxes when, in fact, you are?

Mr. Horner: Mr. Speaker, it's very simple for me to do that because this is a very simple matter. We have not raised taxes, and we have not raised taxes in this budget. We have frozen the rates on properties. The assessment has gone up because there's more property being built in this province. There are more values being done. The rate of taxes in this province has not gone up. It has not gone up in this budget, and it's not going up next year either.

The Speaker: The hon. member, please.

Mr. Boutilier: Thank you, Mr. Speaker. Again to the Premier: given that Calgary isn't the only city in Alberta reporting provincial tax hikes, given that Edmonton, Vermilion, and my community of Fort McMurray among others have higher provincial taxes this year, would she consider putting together an Excel spreadsheet so that she can let us know how much her broken promise on taxes will cost us all?

2:00

Mr. Griffiths: Mr. Speaker, I've answered this question before. I've clearly laid out and it's clear in the budget that in 2011 the tax rates were the same as in 2012: $2.70 per $1,000 of assessment for residential and farmland property and $3.97 per $1,000 of assessment for nonresidential property.

Mr. Speaker, the amount of income tax collected and the amount of business tax collected in this province has gone up; the rates have not gone up. Alberta is the most prosperous place to be on Earth. People are making money, and I highly doubt they would like to see that go down.

Mr. Boutilier: Mr. Speaker, given that non answer, clearly, families' taxes are going up. Another broken promise.

Again to the Premier. Given that on page 100 of the fiscal plan of 2012 it says that "education property taxes will be frozen," what do you have to tell the thousands of Alberta families who are now going to be forking over more taxes to the government because you've broken your promise?

Mr. Horner: Well, Mr. Speaker, the hon. member obviously wasn't listening or cares not to hear the truth. The fact of the matter is that the province of Alberta is experiencing growth. We're experiencing economic activity that Albertans are enjoying and taking advantage of. Because we didn't raise the 10 per cent flat rate, our personal income taxes are still going up. They can't figure it out; the average Albertan can.

The Speaker: The hon. Member for Edmonton-Strathcona.

Long-term Care for Seniors

(continued)

Ms Notley: Thank you, Mr. Speaker. Under this government's watch Alberta seniors' care system has descended into profound disarray. The number of heart-wrenching stories describing seniors suffering from lack of care in our ERs, in our long-term care, in assisted living, and in their homes is overwhelming. The Conservative government's response is to let seniors and their families fend for themselves. My question is to the Premier: will she acknowledge that the seniors' care system right now is facing a crisis?

Mr. VanderBurg: Well, you know, Mr. Speaker, it's really interesting. When you get out there with severely normal Albertans and you get into cases where there are long-term care facilities, supportive living, lodges, and foundations, our seniors are very, very happy.

Listen. I want to make sure everybody knows this number. I've said it a few times, but obviously we haven't heard it: 1.888.357.9339. This is the reporting line for abuse. Failure to report abuse is against the law.

Ms Notley: Mr. Speaker, this government is so out of touch. Given that this government's plan for the crisis is more undependable private care and higher costs for seniors and their families and given that a senior has just been evicted from a private care home when her family refused to tolerate price gouging, will the Premier acknowledge that her plan to lift the fee cap will only cause more hardship and commit today that she will retain the fee cap now, 12 months from now, and for a minimum of the next four years?

Mr. VanderBurg: I've said very, very clearly in the Assembly that the cap is not going anywhere; it's staying. Until this Assembly, the whole Assembly, and until Albertans north to south and east to west have had a debate over the next 12 months, that's what will happen. This cap is staying where it is.

Ms Notley: So what I hear, Mr. Speaker, is that there is no commitment for the next four years and that the long-term care cap is going to go.

Now, given that we've tabled in this Legislature for years hundreds, if not thousands, of testimonials from the front line on short-staffing in seniors' care facilities and given that so many seniors are suffering from this crisis in staffing every day, why won't this Premier take meaningful action to protect our seniors and commit to legislated staffing ratios and clear standards of care in our seniors' care homes?

Mr. VanderBurg: Well, once again, Mr. Speaker, we have clear accommodation standards and clear inspections. We have publicly paid for health care in our seniors' facilities – publicly paid for health care – and we're going to remain doing that.

The Speaker: The hon. Member for Calgary-Currie, followed by the hon. Member for Calgary-Mackay.

Rent Regulation

Mr. Taylor: Thank you, Mr. Speaker. A constituent contacted me the other day to say that she had received notice from her landlord that he was increasing her rent by 34 per cent, from $1,255 a month to $1,682. Understandably, she's going to have to move. Hers is not an isolated case. With talk of a looming labour shortage, the high price of oil, and a strong economy I'm wondering if this is the first sign of a rerun of 2005, when similar circumstances resulted in a housing crisis and skyrocketing rental prices. To the Premier: given that the attitude in the last housing crisis was that it was morally okay to charge what the market would bear no matter . . .

The Speaker: The hon. minister.

Mr. Hancock: Well, thank you, Mr. Speaker. There is a market for housing, and the government has wanted to make sure that there's a wide variety of affordable housing available for Albertans. But in the private housing market prices can change. What we are seeing in Alberta is an improvement in the economy, in fact a considerable improvement in the economy, one of the best places in the country to live and work. We reacted when there were problems with housing prices previously, and we will certainly look at this situation to see whether there's any government . . .

The Speaker: The hon. member, please.

Mr. Taylor: Mr. Speaker, we certainly have not seen a 34 per cent increase in economic activity or in the growth of this economy in the last year.

Given that renters are not protected against landlords gouging them on the rent, will the government commit to implementing a yearly cap to prevent rent gouging?

Mr. Bhullar: Mr. Speaker, on this side of the House we believe in a free economy. Now, we have taken action to protect renters. Rents can only go up once per year. We will not apologize for the prosperity of this province and the prosperity that Albertans enjoy.

Mr. Taylor: Well, again to the Premier: given that it's no more fun being homeless in a booming economy than it is in a broken economy and given this early warning sign of another potential spike in rents, how will she act to ensure that protections are in place before renters are facing another widespread affordable housing crisis?

Mr. Bhullar: Mr. Speaker, let me be clear. Rents can only be increased once per year. Secondly, they must provide a three-month notice to renters.

Now, we on this side of the House have added many more affordable housing units, more than any other province in this country, and we're proud of that. On this side of the House we've made sure that Alberta enjoys the most robust economy of any province in this country, and again we're proud of that.

Provincial Economic Strategy

Ms Woo-Paw: Mr. Speaker, business leaders in my constituency and, indeed, across Alberta have identified potential labour shortages as a key obstacle to economic growth. I understand the Deputy Premier recently went to Ottawa to discuss this issue with our federal colleagues. I'm interested in knowing more about what was accomplished.

The Speaker: The hon. minister.

Mr. Horner: Well, thank you, Mr. Speaker. Indeed, I just returned very early this morning from Ottawa. We had some very, very productive meetings with Minister Kenney and Minister Finley around not only the immigration file but also the needs of our industry. We had industry representatives that went with me.

As you may know and as many in this House know, there's an alliance of 19 industry associations that have come together in Alberta because of the urgency of this matter. I'm very, very pleased to say . . .

The Speaker: The hon. member, please.

Ms Woo-Paw: Okay. Labour is not the only factor that affects our economic prosperity. Quality infrastructure is also essential to supporting economic growth. Did your discussions also address that key issue?

Mr. Horner: Indeed, Mr. Speaker. I had the opportunity to meet with the President of the Treasury Board, with Minister Ambrose, and Minister MacKay. We did have a discussion around not only some of the areas where they've done something similar to our Bill 2, around capital planning, but also the building Canada fund, which we believe was very successful. We felt that the model that we started from has some areas we can grow to. I believe that the federal government is in tune with the infrastructure needs of Alberta, and we look forward to working with them in the future.

Ms Woo-Paw: Alberta's future economic growth will also depend on attracting more business and investment to the province. How can the federal government support our efforts to maintain Alberta's position as a leader in attracting investments?

Mr. Horner: Well, Mr. Speaker, again, we had some very interesting discussions around the key factor that will limit our growth, and that is the labour shortage that we're experiencing not only in our province but in a number of provinces in the country. Indeed, there are some things that could happen in eastern Canada that would start to use up some of the employment categories there, but also there are a number of employment categories in the United States. I believe we're going to have a very successful campaign with the ministers in the federal government on bringing skilled workers up from the United States.

Funding for Private Schools

Mr. Hehr: Choice in education is a United States-style code phrase for funding private schools. The Wildrose has signalled that they will adopt a money-follows-the-child philosophy that will fund these institutions. As the minister is aware, this practice led to a fundamental breakdown in the United States' educational system. To the Minister of Education: given recent developments has your government now gone all in and decided to adopt the Wildrose position that would lead to 100 per cent funding of private schools?

2:10

Mr. Lukaszuk: As a minister of children's education I fear any idea that comes from the Wildrose relative to education. I can assure you, Mr. Speaker, that we will continue the heritage of excellence in education in this province, and we will continue improving education in this province. We will allow the Wildrose to scare the children and their parents on what would happen if they were ever to be in government.

Mr. Hehr: To the same minister. Given that you already fund private schools to the tune of $192 million, have you now permanently committed the taxpayer to fully subsidize these institutions?

Mr. Lukaszuk: Mr. Speaker, what we are doing is making sure that parents have choice. Parents are voting with their feet. They can choose to send children to Catholic schools or public schools, charter schools or private schools, or they can offer educational programs at home. Parents get to choose. Because of the fact that these parents actually pay education taxes on their property taxation, it only makes sense that they also benefit from those taxes they pay. So up to 70 per cent – not paying for any additional fees or infrastructure – we are subsidizing the education of their children.

Mr. Hehr: Mr. Speaker, to the same minister: why has this minister sold out the public education system to right-wing groups without consulting with the general public or your educational partners?

Mr. Lukaszuk: Mr. Speaker, public education is something that Albertans are very proud of, and the majority of children in this province attend public schools. As a matter of fact, with the exception of private schools, all schools are funded publicly through the taxpayers of Alberta. Albertans are proud of investing in education, and we will continue investing in education. Now, what the other party chooses to do with education and how they would dismantle public education . . .

The Speaker: The hon. Member for Calgary-Bow, followed by the hon. Member for Calgary-Mountain View.

Bullying

Ms DeLong: Thank you, Mr. Speaker. A soon-to-be-released documentary about bullying is causing controversy due to the fact that youth in the U.S. will not be able to view the film because of its restricted rating. The film called Bully was given an R rating because of its detailed depictions of bullying and coarse language. One teen activist in the U.S. has collected over 200,000 signatures on a petition that she presented to the Motion Picture Association of America to change the film's rating so that young people, whom the film is targeting, will be able to see it. My first question is to the Minister of Culture and Community Services.

The Speaker: The hon. minister, please.

Mrs. Klimchuk: Thank you, Mr. Speaker. Youth in our province will certainly be able to see the film because it has been given a PG rating. B.C., Ontario, and Manitoba have given it the same rating. While there is certainly coarse language and scenes that may be unsettling to audiences, the whole issue of bullying cannot be glossed over. It's an important conversation that teachers, students, and parents need to have. As well, with the PG rating parents can make informed decisions with their children before heading to the theatre.

The Speaker: The hon. member.

Ms DeLong: Thank you. The second question is to the Minister of Human Services. What is this government doing to prevent bullying and to protect its victims?

Mr. Hancock: Mr. Speaker, it must be perfectly clear to this House and to Albertans that bullying in any form is unacceptable and can have a long-term impact, in fact, even a fatal impact on students and others. That's why education and public awareness of the issue are so important. Human Services co-leads an initiative with Education. We work closely with communities, parents, and teachers to create awareness. We have a 24-hour bullying helpline, 1.888.456.2323. I would say that in addition to the movie that was referenced in the first question, Albertans should be aware that our very own Glen Huser wrote a book about bullying called Stitches.

The Speaker: The hon. member, please.

Ms DeLong: Thank you very much. My final supplemental, but I consider it most important, is to the Minister of Education. What measures are in place to identify and protect victims of bullying in our schools? Our parents and our schools want to know.

Mr. Lukaszuk: Well, Mr. Speaker, bullying is not acceptable anywhere, anyhow, for any reason. This Education Act, that we are hoping to pass in this Legislature if members of the opposition allow us to pass it, will probably be one of the most effective education acts in Canada that addresses bullying. We need to eradicate bullying. We need to send a strong message that bullying will not be accepted in Alberta schools.

The Speaker: The hon. Member for Calgary-Mountain View, followed by the hon. Member for Leduc-Beaumont-Devon.

Sexual Assault Services

Dr. Swann: Thank you very much, Mr. Speaker. National data shows that a shocking 60 per cent of Alberta women will experience sexual assault after the age of 16, and that happens to be 50 per cent higher than the national average. Sexual assault is underreported across the country, and support systems in Alberta for survivors are hit and miss across the province, with serious underfunding. The government of Alberta provides only $1.6 million through Human Services to nine sexual assault centres, averaging less than $200,000 per centre, totally inadequate and resulting in inconsistent service.

The Speaker: The hon. minister, please.

Mr. Hancock: Thank you, Mr. Speaker. There is a very serious commitment to this very significant issue. In fact, violence against women is a very important subject for this government. Over the past 10 years we've had a crossministry task force on this. There's been considerable progress made. Some would suggest that one of the reasons the statistics are higher in Alberta is because of a higher level of awareness and a higher level of reporting. But that is not good enough. We have to do more. It's a very serious issue, and we take it very seriously.

Dr. Swann: Mr. Speaker, Calgary, Edmonton, Lloydminster, Grande Prairie, and Fort McMurray have four- to six-month waiting lists for counselling for women who have been sexually assaulted. How can that be acceptable in Alberta? What are you doing about that?

Mr. Hancock: Well, indeed, it's not acceptable in Alberta. It's not acceptable anywhere. It would be very, very good for us to be able to have services for people exactly at the time that they present and they need them. For that to happen, we need to have the personnel in place, we need to have the resources in place, and we need to have the caring and compassionate and collaborative social agency in the community in place. We're working on that through a provincial agency. We fund about $1.7 million to that agency. That provides services through local agencies . . .

The Speaker: The hon. member, please.

Dr. Swann: Clearly, Mr. Speaker, the minister must see that that's totally inadequate for the women and families affected.

Why is the health department not involved in this and sharing in the commitment, when over half of the women in Alberta have been affected by this terrible travesty?

The Speaker: The hon. minister.

Mr. Horne: Well, thank you, Mr. Speaker. There is a joint approach. The Minister of Human Services and I together are working very closely on this issue. With respect to the Lloydminster situation, as an example, my ministry has provided as an interim solution a $365,000 grant for 2012-13 to go to the Alberta Association of Sexual Assault Centres. This will provide two full-time counsellors and one clinical supervisor in the Lloydminster sexual assault centre. It is a mobile centre. It will serve Bonnyville and Cold Lake.

The Speaker: The hon. Member for Leduc-Beaumont-Devon, followed by the hon. Member for Calgary-Fish Creek.

Long-term Care Accommodation Standards

Mr. Rogers: Thank you, Mr. Speaker. With an aging population bulging the ranks of our seniors, it is vital that the utmost quality of care is provided to our most vulnerable seniors. Any suggestion that this standard is not being met in any facility is alarming. My questions are to the Minister of Health and Wellness. Are there standards that must be adhered to in all continuing care facilities to ensure the safety and quality of care for residents, and if so, why does it seem that some people are falling through the cracks?

Mr. Horne: Well, Mr. Speaker, there most certainly are. The continuing care health services standards apply to any facility in Alberta where publicly funded health services are provided. Alberta Health Services is responsible for ensuring compliance with the standards. My ministry is responsible for oversight of Alberta Health Services and ensuring appropriate accountability within legislation, very strong legislation and very strong provincial standards.

The Speaker: The hon. member.

Mr. Rogers: Thank you, Mr. Speaker. Again to the same minister: is there enough money being invested into continuing care to ensure resident safety and the highest quality of care?

Mr. Horne: Mr. Speaker, again the answer is yes. Very significant financial investments are put into continuing care every single year, both in the form of money for capital expansion, for building a thousand new spaces a year, and in improving safety and quality throughout the system. Alberta Health Services spends approximately $1.5 billion annually on continuing care, including home care.

The Speaker: The hon. member.

Mr. Rogers: Thank you, Mr. Speaker. My final supplemental to the same minister. Some Albertans are saying that the government needs to step up and make improvements to the continuing care system for Alberta's seniors. How are we doing?

2:20

Mr. Horne: Well, Mr. Speaker, we are always looking for ways to improve the level of service that's offered across the province. I think that, without any acknowledgement of some of the generalizations that are often made in this House with respect to quality of care, it's safe to say that we are always looking for ways to improve. We are looking most particularly to make sure that the level of health care offered in any setting is appropriate to the needs of that resident. And where it cannot be done in such a way, we work with families, we work with health care workers to ensure that the patient can be moved to a setting where those health needs can be met.

The Speaker: The hon. Member for Calgary-Fish Creek, followed by the hon. Member for Calgary-McCall.

Long-term Care Serious Incidents

Mrs. Forsyth: Yes. Thank you, Mr. Speaker. In December we heard the tragic story of a 35-year-old disabled man dying after being scalded in a bath at a group home where he lived. The Seniors minister and this government's reaction was slow and lacked the transparency that many seniors and their families were demanding. Yesterday in Public Accounts the deputy minister said that there had been 22 incidents in the past year of serious injuries or death in seniors' accommodations in group homes. Why haven't we heard of this alarmingly high number before? What went wrong in these group homes, and what is being done to protect our people?

Mr. VanderBurg: Well, Mr. Speaker, any serious injury is one too many. I will admit that there were five serious injuries and there was one death in that 22. But, as I say, one is not acceptable. We have great staff, and we have great care. Things happen.

The Speaker: The hon. member.

Mrs. Forsyth: Thank you, Mr. Speaker. Instead of avoiding this issue, can the Seniors minister give us some real answers and explain to Albertans what these incidents were and what the government is doing to make sure they don't happen again?

Mr. VanderBurg: I can tell you exactly, Mr. Speaker. The one death was due to a fall. The fall was serious, and the person died. That's something that happened. It was very unfortunate for that person, that family, and the place where they lived. The other serious injuries were, I would expect, other falls, but I can get back to the member with further details.

Mrs. Forsyth: Minister, these are year-old stats, 2010-2011.

Given that all Albertans want full transparency, to know that they can feel safe to send their loved ones to facilities under government care, why has this government been keeping these numbers away from the public?

Mr. VanderBurg: We have a very transparent and open process with our inspections and our accommodations. It's on the website. You can check any facility, Mr. Speaker. You can see when they've been inspected, what the issues are where. We're not hiding anything. [interjection]

The Speaker: Some people might include in the definition of bullying those who yell at others.

The hon. Member for Calgary-McCall, followed by the hon. Member for Lacombe-Ponoka.

School Infrastructure Funding

Mr. Kang: Thank you, Mr. Speaker. On Tuesday I asked about the Department of Education's ability to use schools as community hubs and, therefore, keep more of them open. The minister said school boards have to make hard choices, but I think they would have to make fewer hard choices if their buildings could be used for other community purposes. To the Minister of Education: will he consider changing the school funding formula so that schools in mature neighbourhoods can stay open?

Mr. Lukaszuk: Mr. Speaker, our primary consideration is the quality of education that children receive in that school. As long as the number of children in the school is adequate for teachers and principals to satisfy themselves that they can still run a viable program and for parents to be satisfied with the viability of the program, the school should remain open. We can look at bringing in other allied services like daycares, before and after school centres, boys and girls clubs and YMCAs. But education is the vital point that needs to be considered.

The Speaker: The hon. member.

Mr. Kang: Thank you, Mr. Speaker. To the same minister again: given that many mature neighbourhoods have a high proportion of immigrants and poor families, can the minister see that keeping schools open is a matter of social justice, not just a calculation of how many students are using the schools?

Mr. Lukaszuk: Mr. Speaker, let me reiterate. The primary consideration is the quality of education of children in the school no matter who the children are. All children are equal in our education, and they all deserve an equally high level of education. If the numbers warrant that a school stay open and if we can bring in additional wraparound services, particularly for immigrant communities, refugee communities, that is the right thing to do. But at the end of the day we have to have the high quality of education, which is reflected in the number of children that attend that school.

Mr. Kang: Mr. Speaker, I'm not saying we should compromise the quality of education.

To the minister again. The city of Edmonton recently announced plans to collaborate with different organizations, including school boards, to revitalize the older neighborhoods, but this minister said that community development is not his job. Can the minister tell us how many more schools are going to be closed because he has such a narrow focus for school buildings?

Mr. Lukaszuk: Well, since this member brought up this example, Mr. Speaker, Edmonton public school board right now has in excess of 40,000 empty seats, actually enough to accommodate the entire Edmonton Catholic school board and still have space left over. Indeed, those trustees have some difficult decisions to make, but all of their decisions have to be made primarily on what is best for children relative to the quality of education offered in the schools, not redevelopment of our neighbourhood or any other municipal considerations.

The Speaker: The hon. Member for Lacombe-Ponoka, followed by the hon. Member for Calgary-Buffalo.

NOVA Chemicals Corporation Expansion

Mr. Prins: Well, thank you, Mr. Speaker. Last week in my constituency of Lacombe-Ponoka a large petrochemical company, NOVA Chemicals, announced that they are planning to spend up to $900 million to increase polyethylene production at their Joffre plant in Lacombe county. My first question is to the Minister of Energy. What policies does this government have to encourage or facilitate this type of investment?

Dr. Morton: Mr. Speaker, I'd like to begin by acknowledging the good work that this member has done on the Alberta Competitiveness Council as co-chair of the petrochemical team. Their work has contributed to a program called the incremental ethane extraction program, which has created the additional supply of ethane which has made possible this good-news story of a $900 million expansion at the NOVA plant in Joffre.

The Speaker: The hon. member.

Mr. Prins: Thank you, Mr. Speaker. To the same minister: can he explain how this program was used for the Joffre plant expansion?

The Speaker: The hon. minister.

Dr. Morton: Thank you, Mr. Speaker. I'd be happy to. NOVA and its partner, Williams, have come up with a new way of extracting ethane from the off-gas at the operators in Fort McMurray. They extract this off-gas and then transport it by pipeline down to Joffre, 17,000 barrels a day. Without this, those off-gases would either go into the environment as pollution or be burned just as feed stock, so it's a great value-added story for Alberta.

The Speaker: The hon. member.

Mr. Prins: Thank you, Mr. Speaker. My last question is for the President of Treasury Board and Enterprise. The enhancement of the incremental ethane extraction program was just one of the actions recommended by the Alberta Competitiveness Council. Can you tell me what else the government is doing to increase Alberta's competitiveness and to support economic opportunities in the petrochemical industry and other sectors of the economy?

The Speaker: The hon. minister.

Mr. Horner: Well, thank you, Mr. Speaker. The Alberta Competitiveness Council is an important partnership between industry and government and has done a lot of good work identifying how we can take steps to improve our competitiveness. I, too, echo the Minister of Energy's comments about the MLAs that have been on these task forces with industry.

In the May 2011 report the council had 18 recommendations, priority actions to enhance our competitiveness in petrochemicals, chemicals, manufacturing, grains and oilseeds, and financial services. I'm pleased to report that we are making progress on all of these fronts, and next week we will be announcing . . .

The Speaker: The hon. Member for Calgary-Buffalo, followed by the hon. Member for Edmonton-Manning.

Provincial Tax Policy

Mr. Hehr: This government says that after the election it will look at all revenue sources. Code word for taxes. I don't think that's right, Mr. Speaker. With an election looming, it's time to discuss this with Albertans now, but like Kim Campbell this Premier seems to think elections are no time to talk policy. To the President of the Treasury Board: does his government understand that our tax and revenue policies have led this government to spending virtually all of Alberta's resource revenues over the course of the last 25 years?

Mr. Horner: Well, Mr. Speaker, as I understand it, this hon. member has been asking the same question in this House a number of times, and I would encourage him to review Hansard for those answers. But I would say this. The tax policy of this government has allowed for the only jurisdiction in probably the western hemisphere that is experiencing the kind of growth, economic opportunity that we have in this province and no new taxes.

Mr. Hehr: To the same minister: given that this government's revenue policies are erratic, unsustainable, and we are mortgaging the future instead of saving for it, why won't the government repeal the flat tax, that sees a million-dollar-a-year executive pay the same rate as a $40,000-a-year secretary?

2:30

Mr. Horner: Well, Mr. Speaker, I hardly think that a 10 per cent flat tax is erratic. I think, actually, it's very predictable, and it's something that Albertans and many coming to Alberta look to and say: that's why we're here. I hardly think that having no provincial sales tax is erratic. It's zero. People come to this province because of it. I hardly think that having the only jurisdiction in Canada where we are creating way more jobs than we have people for is erratic. It's a great opportunity. People come here because it's opportunity.

Mr. Hehr: To the same minister. Unlike Kim Campbell, I believe an election is the time to discuss real issues. Given that this government concedes it must eventually raise taxes, why not follow the Alberta Liberal lead, show some guts and integrity, and have the discussion before the next election, not after?

Mr. Horner: Well, Mr. Speaker, the hon. Leader of the Official Opposition has certainly shown where the integrity is today, and it's not over there. We have not said that we're going to raise taxes. We have not said that we're going to change the budget that we have today, that we're going to pass in this House, I hope, in the very near future.

We could talk about how we do our capital plan, how we are going to leverage our assets. We're going to talk about the savings plan that we have for Albertans. We're going to talk about the operational reserve that we have, Mr. Speaker. We're going to talk about the fact that we have an operational surplus today and a cash deficit. We can do more, and we will.

The Speaker: The hon. Member for Edmonton-Manning, followed by the hon. Member for Edmonton-Riverview.

Anthony Henday Drive

Mr. Sandhu: Thank you, Mr. Speaker. Anthony Henday Drive has been a massive project for the province so far. However, this project is not done, and my constituents are wondering when it will be finished. My first question is to the Minister of Transportation. How is the northeast leg of the Anthony Henday Drive progressing?

Mr. Danyluk: Well, Mr. Speaker, I can tell the hon. member that we are well on our way to completing the largest project ever delivered in the province of Alberta. This is a public-private partnership. We called for bids, and three bids have been submitted. We're very close to making the selection, and we'll announce that in May. This is very exciting because construction of this last leg will start this summer.

The Speaker: The hon. member, please.

Mr. Sandhu: Thank you, Mr. Speaker. My first supplemental question is also to the Minister of Transportation. When can we expect the Anthony Henday to be fully completed?

Mr. Danyluk: Mr. Speaker, I can say that it's anticipated that the project will be completed in the early part of 2016. There are going to be nine kilometres of new roadway and 18 kilometres of improvement. This new project is going to benefit not only the citizens but, of course, industry. We are a commodity-based province.

The Speaker: The hon. member, please. [interjection] The hon. member. [interjection] Hon. member, you don't have another question? I called you three times.

Mr. Sandhu: Mr. Speaker, no further questions.

The Speaker: You're fine? Okay.

The hon. Member for Edmonton-Riverview, followed by the hon. Member for Red Deer-North.

Postsecondary Institution Spending Accountability

Dr. Taft: Thanks, Mr. Speaker. When it comes to academic freedom, this government must keep its hands off Alberta's universities and colleges, but when it comes to proper management controls, it has to ensure each institution is doing its job. The Auditor General's report this week makes clear that several of these institutions are failing this test badly. To the minister of advanced education. This government claims it wants world-leading postsecondary institutions, but after reading the AG's report, I must ask him: is this his definition of world leading?

The Speaker: The hon. minister.

Mr. Weadick: Well, thank you, Mr. Speaker. Yes, we have world-leading institutions that are delivering top-quality programs across the province. The AG did bring to light some concerns around finances in some of our institutions, and we take those recommendations very, very seriously, as do our institutions. We've made it very clear to our institutions that they must correct these financial issues that they have, and in fact we've set up some processes to support them as they move forward to correct some of these things.

The Speaker: The hon. member, please.

Dr. Taft: Thanks, Mr. Speaker. Given that these recommendations have been made in some cases for several years, it's pretty slow action.

To the same minister: what is his department doing to improve its accountability controls over postsecondary institutions before there is an expensive and embarrassing problem?

The Speaker: The hon. minister.

Mr. Weadick: Thank you, Mr. Speaker. After seeing these recommendations, we have set about creating a whole new training program for audit committee members within our boards of governors that operate our postsecondaries.

Beyond that, we've also created a team that will be called the audit support team. They can go into all of our postsecondaries, look at the Auditor General's recommendations, support our institutions as they move forward in correcting those, and also look at other issues that may create challenges for institutions around IT and financial.

Thank you.

Dr. Taft: To the same minister: given the damaging censure this week imposed on three universities in Ontario for improper safeguards over corporate funding of university programs, when will his department start working to tighten controls over corporate and other influence on postsecondary programs, funding, and research?

The Speaker: The hon. minister.

Mr. Weadick: Thank you, Mr. Speaker. Yes, Alberta is a very collaborative place, and we do have a lot of relationships between business and postsecondaries as they work to solve the problems of the world. We're very proud of those relationships, but we also stand behind our institutions being fully at arm's length, operating with full academic freedom, with the ability to do the projects that they value and see as important to Albertans.

Critical Electricity Transmission Lines

Mrs. Jablonski: Mr. Speaker, a number of my constituents in Red Deer have talked to me about transmission lines in Alberta. Last month the government accepted the findings of the Critical Transmission Review Committee. Can the Minister of Energy explain the government's rationale for proceeding with this massive infrastructure project? Do we really need two lines instead of one?

The Speaker: The hon. minister.

Dr. Morton: Thank you, Mr. Speaker. The answer is, yes, we do, and the answer is because of the dramatic growth. Since the last time the north-south backbone of our system was strengthened, 40 years ago, we've doubled in size, from under 2 million to almost 4 million. Since the need for reinforcement of the north-south grid, which is the backbone between Edmonton and Calgary – 85 per cent of Albertans live up and down the highway 2 corridor – was first identified in 2002, another 700,000 people have moved to Alberta. By the time we get the first line built, by 2015 or 2016, we're looking at another 200,000 people.

The Speaker: The hon. member, please.

Mrs. Jablonski: Thank you. Some of my constituents have also talked to me about the availability of natural gas in the Calgary region. Will the Minister of Energy explain why we can't see more generation closer to Calgary? Would that not reduce the need for two transmission lines?

Dr. Morton: Mr. Speaker, it's an excellent question, and my constituents have asked me the same question. The answer is this. We're going to see lots more gas generation closer to Calgary. Enmax is building a plant at Shepard, TransAlta may build one at High River, but we're also going to see lots more gas transmission in the north on brownfield sites where existing coal plants are. There are all sorts of advantages there. You have existing sites, connections, community acceptance, but most important of all the brownfield sites in the north have water licences. Water licences are very, very hard to get in southern Alberta.

Mrs. Jablonski: Mr. Speaker, my next question is also to the Minister of Energy. Won't this cost too much, and what's the point of building a world-class system that we can't afford? It's all because my constituents are afraid of having to pay too much money.

Dr. Morton: Mr. Speaker, another very good question and a question that I get from my constituents as well. The answer here is fairly simple. These two lines are going to cost around $3 billion to build, but because they're intended to last, to serve Albertans for the next 40 years, we are proposing and we are undertaking to extend the financing, the repayment of this, over the next 40 years, not front-end loaded on the users for this first decade. The Premier has made a commitment, and I've made the commitment. We want to do what's right not just for the next couple of years but what's right for the next couple of decades. Spreading out the costs like that will protect consumers, commercial and residential, for the next decade.

The Speaker: Hon. members, we've expended the time allocated today for question-and-answer period. Eighteen members were recognized, with 106 questions and responses.

2:40

Statement by the Speaker

Anniversary of the First Session of the Legislative Assembly

The Speaker: Before we continue, I'd just like to draw to your attention the significance of this day in the history of the province of Alberta. One hundred and six years ago today, on March 15, 1906, some 4,000 people attended the opening of the First Session of the First Legislature in the history of the province of Alberta. This occurred at the Thistle rink here in Edmonton. As its first item of business the new Legislative Assembly elected Charles Wellington Fisher as its first Speaker. Fisher's nomination came through a nomination by Premier Alexander C. Rutherford, which was seconded by Charles W. Cross, the Attorney General and Member for Edson.

Premier Rutherford's speech at the opening of the First Legislature explained that the House would be "laying the foundations of empire in this new land" – I want you to listen very carefully – and he called to mind the significance of the role of the Speaker in this endeavour.

Members' Statements

(continued)

The Speaker: The hon. Member for Calgary-Fort.

World Consumer Rights Day

Mr. Cao: Well, thank you, Mr. Speaker. Today is World Consumer Rights Day. Fifty years ago President John F. Kennedy outlined his vision for consumer rights. "Consumers, by definition, include us all," he said in his speech. In commemoration of that speech government and consumer organizations around the world recognize March 15 as World Consumer Rights Day each year.

Here in Alberta we know that a fair marketplace encourages consumer confidence and that consumer confidence is vital to the healthy and vibrant free-enterprise economy of our province. This is why the Alberta government has strong consumer protection laws and works hard to enforce them. Last year alone the Service Alberta ministry investigated more than 800 consumer complaints and recovered nearly $1 million on behalf of consumers. The courts gave offenders nearly $131,000 in fines and in some cases jail time.

But enforcement is only part of protecting consumers. Consumer education is a basic right, and the Service Alberta ministry has resources to keep consumers wise on the problems out there. People who are aware of their rights and responsibilities and who know how to spot warning signs are in a better position to avoid scams and dishonest businesspeople. When consumers have concerns, they can call the consumer contact centre at 1.877.427.4088. The centre assisted more than 275,000 Albertans last year alone with information, referrals, and help in filing formal complaints. So while World Consumer Rights Day is being celebrated around the world, we promote consumer rights and awareness right here in Alberta that help us all.

Thank you.

The Speaker: The hon. Member for Calgary-North Hill.

Social Enterprise

Mr. Fawcett: Thank you very much, Mr. Speaker. It's an honour to rise today to talk about the need for a social innovation agenda here in this province, one where there is an important role for social enterprise in this agenda. Social enterprises are organizations that sell goods or provide services in the market for the purpose of creating a blended return on investment, both financial and social. Their profits are returned to the business or to a social purpose rather than maximizing profits for shareholders. Broadly speaking, they're privately owned ventures that have a strong blended financial and socially responsible return on investment.

Benefits to communities and society include stimulating economic revitalization, reducing poverty, creating employment opportunities and experience, reducing crime, addressing environmental issues, providing accessible health care, building social capital, enhancing cultural capital, integrating immigrants, and providing basic services to underserved communities.

But the most important benefit, Mr. Speaker, is facilitating social innovation. Social innovation usually happens between the profit, not-for-profit, and public service sectors, and it happens when perspectives of these three sectors collide to spark new ways of thinking.

Mr. Speaker, in the Manning Centre for Building Democracy's special briefing on big society and social responsibility this past June, Nicholas Gafuik, who is a good friend of mine from university, indicated that civically engaged communities are essential for better social outcomes and that government alone is just not enough. That's why I brought forward Motion 507 on the Order Paper under private members' business, where I suggest the government undertake a review of current social entrepreneurship in Alberta in order to aid the development of a platform that will encourage co-operation within and among the public, private, and not-for-profit sectors relating to social enterprise.

Thank you very much, Mr. Speaker.

The Speaker: The hon. Member for Edmonton-Strathcona.

Long-term Care for Seniors

Ms Notley: Thank you, Mr. Speaker. There are far too many seniors in Alberta not getting the help they need because of a government that has not acted. This failure is reflected in at least four ways.

First, in the long-term care centres we do have, there are no staff-to-patient ratios. As government funding falls short or profit margins are prioritized, staff are cut, they burn out, and patient care is deeply compromised. We've shared countless reports of seniors being left in their own waste for hours, falling while unattended, or being fed in bed, where they are left to linger for days, yet this government has not acted.

Secondly, this government broke its promise to build new long-term care. Instead, long-term care spaces have disappeared. Long-term care provides the greatest level of medical care. Studies show that patients in long-term care end up in hospital much less than those who rely on lower care assisted living, yet the Tories repeatedly stick to their mantra, one that defies the evidence of all experts, that assisted living spaces with standards that are a moving target can somehow provide the care that is required by our most vulnerable seniors, so this government has not acted.

The government brags about funding new spaces in assisted living, yet after three years they cannot tell us what level of care is provided in those spaces. The minister of health had the audacity to suggest that the horrible experience of the Denyer family at a private assisted living centre happened because the centre misrepresented the level of care they provided. But if this government can't tell us what level of care their assisted living spaces provide, how do they expect vulnerable seniors and their families to be able to decipher the standards? So when it comes to protecting families and seniors from exploitive centres, this government has not acted.

Now, if that isn't all bad enough, this Premier proposes to lift the fee cap on long-term care although they refuse to come clean with Albertans on that until after the election. If this plan goes forward, exorbitant fee structures will be used for patient cherry-picking and as a tool for intimidating seniors and their families who don't behave. The Tories need to commit to keeping the fee cap, not for 12 months but indefinitely.

Once again, this government has not acted, and all Albertans, Mr. Speaker, will pay the price.

The Speaker: The hon. Member for Calgary-Mackay.

Goodwill Industries of Alberta

Ms Woo-Paw: Thank you, Mr. Speaker. Goodwill Industries of Alberta is a not-for-profit agency that provides training and job opportunities for Albertans with disabilities and other barriers to employment. In Calgary Goodwill partners with persons with developmental disability funding agencies such as the Calgary Progressive Lifestyles Foundation, Columbia College, and Prospect Human Services. Donated goods and clothing are collected and sold in their retail stores to support employment programs for Albertans with employment challenges.

On March 9 the Minister of Seniors attended the grand opening of Goodwill Industries' new Chinook store in Calgary, and what a great celebration it was. Everyone who attended was given a T-shirt to wear that says One Man's V-neck Is Another Man's Future. This is such an appropriate slogan because it uniquely tells the story of Goodwill Industries, the items they collect and sell and the people they employ.

We all know that having a job means much more than just a paycheque. It gives us a sense of pride, a way to connect with our community, meet new people, and learn new skills. Employers who hire people with disabilities have learned that these individuals have plenty of valuable skills to contribute to their workplaces. Unfortunately, there are still attitudes out there in the job market that can make finding meaningful work a challenge for people with disabilities. That's why we need employers like Goodwill, who are willing to give Albertans with disabilities a chance to show us what they can do, and they can do a lot.

In 2011 Goodwill employed 34 PDD clients at four locations in Calgary. Goodwill has contributed $6 million to the Calgary economy and saved over 4 million kilograms of used clothing and household goods from going into our landfills.

Mr. Speaker, Goodwill is an outstanding example for businesses in all of our communities to follow. Thank you very much.

Notices of Motions

The Speaker: The hon. Minister of Advanced Education and Technology.

Mr. Weadick: Thank you, Mr. Speaker. I rise pursuant to Standing Order 34(3.1) to advise the House that on Monday, March 19, 2012, Written Question 2 will be accepted, and Written Question 1 will be dealt with. Also on Monday, March 19, 2012, Motion for a Return 3 will be accepted, and motions for returns 1, 2, and 4 will be dealt with.

Thank you.

2:50

Introduction of Bills

The Speaker: The hon. Member for Strathcona.

Bill 205 Scrap Metal Dealers and Recyclers Identification Act

Mr. Quest: Thank you, Mr. Speaker. I request leave to introduce a bill being the Scrap Metal Dealers and Recyclers Identification Act.

Mr. Speaker, this bill addresses a serious problem that exists across the province today. In the first 11 months of 2011 there was over $1.5 million worth of copper wire stolen in Edmonton and Calgary alone. These thefts are only profitable because there's a market for the metal. My bill's goal is to close a large part of that market. My bill will permit the province to require that scrap metal dealers and recyclers keep a record of those they buy their metal from in order to facilitate catching sellers of stolen goods. I look forward to debating this bill soon with all hon. members.

Thank you, Mr. Speaker.

[Motion carried; Bill 205 read a first time]

The Speaker: The hon. Member for Edmonton-Centre on behalf of the hon. Member for Calgary-Buffer.

Bill 209 Homeowner Protection Act

Ms Blakeman: Thank you very much, Mr. Speaker. Indeed, I am very honoured to be able to rise on behalf of my colleague the Member for Calgary-Buffer to introduce Bill 209, the Homeowner Protection Act.

Now, this bill is modelled on the B.C. legislation. The purpose of it is to strengthen consumer protection for buyers of new homes, to improve the quality of residential construction, and to support research and education respecting residential construction in Alberta. It establishes a homeowner protection office and requires residential builders to be licensed by the homeowner protection office. Residential builders can lose their licences if they contravene the act.

Home warranty insurance will now be mandatory on all new homes and must provide coverage as follows: three years on defects in materials and labour, five years on defects in the building envelope, and 10 years on structural defects. Monetary penalties may be imposed on anyone who contravenes the act.

It also establishes a public registry of residential builders which lists their current licence as well as any suspensions or monetary penalties that have been imposed. If a homeowner is required to leave their home for a period of more than a month, 30 days, on account of needed repairs, the bill requires the home warranty insurance provider to cover any property taxes or utility fees during this period.

There are a number of other sections to it which I won't go into. I look forward to the opportunity to participate in the debate of this bill.

At this point, on behalf of the Member for Calgary-Buffer I move first reading. Thank you.

[Motion carried; Bill 209 read a first time]

Tabling Returns and Reports

The Speaker: The hon. Member for Edmonton-Strathcona, then Calgary-Varsity, then Edmonton-Centre.

Ms Notley: Thank you, Mr. Speaker. I'd like to table the appropriate number of copies of a petition signed by 293 Albertans and collected by Concerned Neighbours in Partnership. The petition reads:

We, the undersigned residents of Alberta, petition the Legislative Assembly of Alberta to pass legislation to repeal the Land Assembly Project Area Act . . . and its amending Bill 23 . . . the Alberta Land Stewardship Act . . . and its amending Bill 10 . . . the Electric Statutes Amendment Act . . . and Carbon Capture and Storage Bill . . . thereby restoring property and democratic rights of Alberta landowners.

Thank you.

The Speaker: The hon. Member for Calgary-Varsity.

Mr. Chase: Thank you, Mr. Speaker. I'm tabling a further 20 letters out of the hundreds I've received from the following individuals who are concerned about the proposed logging in the west Bragg Creek area and who are requesting a complete facilitated and accessible public consultation: Shawn Bond, James Penman, Linda Torinski, Jane Snider, Daryl Gingras, Darlene Barrett, Jennifer VanZwam, Sheila More, Carol Ann Schmaltz, Lynn Gallen, Rod Burns, Deborah Klein, Keith Tanner, James and Paula Bildfell, Tammi Kozub, Peter and Linda Cruttenden, Giles Parker, and Matt Dymant.

Thank you, Mr. Speaker.

The Speaker: The hon. Member for Edmonton-Centre.

Ms Blakeman: Thank you very much, Mr. Speaker. I'd like to make some tablings on behalf of the Leader of the Official Opposition of some documents that were referenced in the leader's questions of Tuesday, March 13. These are fact sheets provided by the Parkland Institute on research dealing with the aging population, for-profit delivery of long-term care, the Alberta Health Quality Council report, and a number of other fact sheets on care for seniors in our province.

Thank you, Mr. Speaker.

The Speaker: Are there others? The hon. Member for Edmonton-Calder on tablings.

Mr. Elniski: Yes. Thank you, Mr. Speaker. I'd like to table the appropriate number of copies of an e-mail I received today from

Mrs. Marion McIlwraith, the assistant principal at M.E. LaZerte school, thanking for the little bit of a member's statement we did last week on Thom Elniski. In it she states:

While Doug was speaking three of the Wild rose members were chatting quite loudly. I felt bad for Nicola, Thom's [widow] . . . They are definitely disrespectful and not good role models for the students who were watching. I hope I have it right that it was the Wild rose party, they were sitting on the far right side facing us.

I have assured her that it was.

Thank you.

The Speaker: Hon. members, the chair wishes to table the appropriate number of copies of a letter received today from the hon. Member for Strathcona's constituency with respect to private members' business.

I also indicated yesterday that I would make some comment today with respect to the letter that I'd received on Wednesday of this week requesting that a certain order of business be advanced. I indicated that members might want to refer to Hansard going back in the past.

Statement by the Speaker

Private Members' Public Bills

The Speaker: I'll be rather brief here today because much of this is indicated previously in the Assembly. We dealt with it on November 27, 2001; December 1, 2003; May 8, 2006; November 23, 2009. I indicated then that the processes guiding us here in the Assembly is Speaker Schumacher's ruling of February 11, 1997, when he outlined a procedure for early consideration of bills. Point 3 was that if a member wants early consideration of his or her bill, they must write to the Speaker prior to the opening of the Assembly on the sitting day before the bill is to be considered. This certainly was done this week, when the Official Opposition House Leader wrote yesterday requesting early consideration on behalf of the leader of the caucus, and the letter was tabled yesterday as well.

Point 4 in the 1997 ruling is:

When a member requests that his or her Bill be considered before its due date, the Bill will be called after debate has concluded on the private member's public Bill that is then before the House or Committee of the Whole, assuming that no other Bills have reached their due dates.

In this case no other bills until a few minutes ago were even identified for being considered as the Member for Strathcona has just introduced his bill. So according to the practice and precedents which this Assembly has relied upon since 1997, Bill 203 will be the first order of business on Monday, March 19, 2012, after Orders of the Day are called. Once again the chair hopes that the next Legislature will review this issue.

As for Monday the chair notes that there may be time to have the Member for Strathcona move his bill for second reading if Committee of the Whole does not go the two-hour extension. Looking back for the length of the debate on this bill earlier this week, it did not reach two hours, in fact. One would suspect – and it seems to be almost unanimous consent of the Assembly, so one could almost think in one's head that the amount of time that would be utilized in committee on Monday would not be anywhere near that two-hour time frame, which, hopefully, will allow the hon. Member for Strathcona to stand and move his bill for second reading as well.

Of course, once again, the bill will be taken up and can be taken up when the Assembly reconvenes on April 2 following the constituency week break.

Tablings to the Clerk

The Clerk: I wish to advise the House that the following document was deposited with the office of the Clerk. On behalf of the hon. Mr. Bhullar, Minister of Service Alberta, response to questions raised by Mr. Kang, hon. Member for Calgary-McCall, and Ms Notley, hon. Member for Edmonton-Strathcona, on February 15, 2012, Department of Service Alberta main estimates debate.

Projected Government Business

The Speaker: Official Opposition House Leader, you go first.

Ms Blakeman: Thank you very much, Mr. Speaker. According to Standing Order 7(6) I would now ask the Deputy Government House Leader to please share with us the projected government House business for the week beginning the evening of Monday, the 19th of March, or perhaps the afternoon of Tuesday, the 20th of March.

Thank you.

The Speaker: The hon. Deputy Government House Leader.

Mr. Weadick: Thank you. Our projected government business for the week of March 19 will be second reading, Committee of the Whole, and third reading on Bill 7, the Appropriation Act, 2012. We'll be projecting Committee of the Whole and third reading on Bill 4, Bill 2, Bill 5, and Bill 6.

Thank you.

3:00

Ms Blakeman: Sorry. Excuse me. Could we get an expansion of that? We usually get when this is going to happen so that we're able to schedule to have the correct people on. You've told me what you're doing but not when. If you would be able to share that with me, perhaps a paper version a little later, that would help.

The Speaker: Well, let's do it now because we're in the Assembly, and all members have the right to know.

Ms Blakeman: Yes, sir. I agree.

Mr. Weadick: I would be happy to share a paper version with all of the members here later today.

The Speaker: Okay. So, hon. minister, that's to all desks, all members. There is some courtesy that's required in all of this.

Mr. Weadick: Yes.

Orders of the Day

Government Bills and Orders Second Reading

Bill 7 Appropriation Act, 2012

The Speaker: The hon. Deputy Premier and President of the Treasury Board and Enterprise.

Mr. Horner: Well, thank you, Mr. Speaker. It's my pleasure to rise today to move second reading of Bill 7, the Appropriation Act, 2012.

The act will provide funding authority to the offices of the Legislative Assembly and the government for the 2012-13 fiscal year. The schedule to the act provides amounts that were presented in greater detail in the 2012-13 government and Legislative Assembly estimates tabled on February 9, 2012, and then subsequently debated in Committee of Supply and policy field committees over the past many days.

Through Budget 2012 the government of Alberta is following through on its commitment to Albertans by responsibly investing in programs that support Albertans' quality of life without raising taxes and positioning the province to balance the budget by 2013-14. Seventy-five per cent of this budget is focused on the core programs of health, education, and human services. It provides Albertans with better access to health care and support for our growing seniors population while ensuring a better quality of life for the vulnerable and continuing to build the best education system in Canada.

It delivers on the Premier's commitment to invest in family care clinics, enhance AISH benefits, strengthen child care subsidies, and provide stable funding for education, postsecondary, and municipalities to improve their planning. Budget 2012 is the start of what we want to accomplish on behalf of Albertans and lays the foundation for what we are striving to achieve over the next 10 years.

I ask all Members of the Legislative Assembly to support this bill. Thank you, Mr. Speaker.

The Speaker: The hon. Member for Edmonton-Gold Bar on the debate.

Mr. MacDonald: Yes. Thank you very much, Mr. Speaker. Certainly, the hon. member is correct. There was quite a discussion on this budget through the committee process or whatever you want to call it these days. It was a process that many opposition members found quite frustrating. There were certainly many questions asked but very few direct answers.

I think that whenever we discuss any budget of this government, we have to be cautious. Budgets change here frequently. In this Appropriation Act we are certainly giving ourselves significant room to manoeuvre. The President of the Treasury Board and Enterprise may transfer money around. That's understandable. There are limits, and there have been limits set, but there's always a way around that. One only has to wait until the quarterly updates to see.

I had a discussion in budget debates regarding the estimates and the amount that is requested through this appropriation bill. I was never, never satisfied with the answers I received from the President of the Treasury Board and Enterprise whenever I brought this up. If hon. members look at the budget estimates, there is an actual amount in each and every department for 2010-11, there is a budget amount for 2011-12 and a forecast amount for 2011-12, and the estimates for the year 2012-13. One could go through each and every department, and I did with some departments. After I had this discussion with the Treasury Board president and his officials at committee, I thought I would reread what the minister had referred me to and have a second look.

The minister suggested that the changes that I was talking about in the actuals, in the audited financial statements from the annual reports from 2010-11 – the departments had been reorganized in October when the new Premier took over, and that is the reason why those amounts from the annual report would have changed.

The hon. minister directed me to page iii of the budget estimates. I challenged him then and I'm going to challenge the government now over the government reorganization and how there could be differences in the government estimates and how they would reflect differently in the annual report for 2010-11 of the government of Alberta, in Budget 2011, tabled on February 24, 2011, and in the third-quarter fiscal update, released on February 9, 2012.

Now, again, to be specific, there's no mention of any of the ministry's annual reports in this adjustment, if one wants to call it that. The principal changes to the government budget lines, or the estimates, the changes that are in amounts of $1 million or more, are apparently mentioned in these three documents. You can go down the list. You have Human Services; we know where that came from. We have the Ministry of Intergovernmental, International and Aboriginal Relations. I must say that I had an event at a francophone community here the other day, and they were so disappointed that the Francophone Secretariat had been moved to the Ministry of Intergovernmental, International and Aboriginal Relations. They couldn't understand why that happened, and I had to admit to them, Mr. Speaker, that neither could I.

Now, the Ministry of Municipal Affairs, the Ministry of Infrastructure, the Ministry of Executive Council, the Ministry of Finance, the Ministry of Solicitor General and Public Security, and the Ministry of Treasury Board and Enterprise: these are the ones, according to the budget estimates, where there were significant organizational changes. So maybe there could be some budget changes.

Specifically with Alberta Health, in Bill 7 here there is a request for $15.8 billion in expenses and an additional $77 million in capital investment. This is what is requested through Bill 7 for the department of health. Now, the department of health is not on this list, but whenever you compare the budget estimates for the department of health with the annual report for 2010-11 – and I remind you that this is an audited annual report from the office of the Auditor General – I would like answers from the government, and I feel that these are reasonable questions.

When I look at this request for $15.8 billion and then I look at the actual amount for Health and Wellness, which my research indicates was not changed whatsoever with the government reorganization in October of last year – so there were no changes in that – there's no explanation from the government on why the annual report indicates that in the communications budget of Health and Wellness $1,701,000 was spent. But in this budget document, the actual is $400,000 more. Strategic corporate support: again a different number, a number that's greater than what's anticipated in the budget estimates for that year. This goes on and on and on, and I would just like an explanation from someone on the government side as to why these numbers are different.

3:10

The President of the Treasury Board tried to explain, but I really don't believe, Mr. Speaker, that he understood. He pretended that he did and that it was my interpretation of this, but it's clear in here that there's a different set of numbers. These are actuals from 2010-11. I have the annual report before me. There's one that is so far out that I think the government should do some research on this and respond back to the Assembly here on Monday. I just need an explanation.

Now, I'm looking in government estimates, element 6.2, immunization support. In 2010-11 the actual in here that was spent was $10,067,000, but if you look at the annual report for the same year, that was released last summer while the Progressive Conservative leadership race was on, you will see where immunization support for operating expense and equipment/inventory purchases was essentially a hundred million dollars. That's a big difference. That's a 2010-11 actual, $110 million, and this is an audited financial statement from the office of the Auditor General. Yet we have this big difference from what is listed in the estimates, and that total goes through to Bill 7, a hundred million dollars versus $10 million. [interjection] Yes. I looked at this.

I also looked at a couple of other departments, including the other support programs amount in the actuals for Health and Wellness for 2010-11 in the estimates. It's stated here that the actual amount spent was $13.1 million, but when I look at the annual report, the audited annual report, for other support programs it's $37 million. So that's again a significant difference. It's close to $24 million. What's going on here? When I look at other support programs under the same spending element, they're the same. Out-of-province health care services, $107 million. It's the same; it balances. Why are some numbers the same and some numbers different?

Before we go any further, I would certainly point out one-time operating funding, half a billion dollars. So you would think that maybe that changed. But we see, Mr. Speaker, where it did not. That would be an example of one expense that was standard or consistent, but other support programs were not. Continuing care initiatives were the same. Health services provided in correctional facilities: $26 million is what's stated in the annual report.

Before we go any further with this budget, I really think the government owes taxpayers and the Official Opposition an explanation as to why in two different government financial reports we have two different sets of numbers. I may be wrong here, but I thought that once an annual report was audited and it was published, if there was a change to the actual number, there would be an adjustment noted. Now, I would really appreciate an explanation on Monday or whenever we get back into debate on this. I would really appreciate an explanation to that.

I would also like a further explanation – and there's a lot of money here in rent supplement programs. I'm not saying that they are a bad thing, but I would like to know more before I vote on this bill. The rent supplement program along with associated revenue from federal transfers is now administered by the Alberta Social Housing Corporation out of its statutory appropriations. This program had previously been reported as part of the expense supply vote of the Department of Municipal Affairs. Both the corporation's and the department's comparable amounts have been restated accordingly, and that's explained here. The question I would have is: in the future are we going to have to go to the Alberta Social Housing Corporation to see how much of a rent supplement there is and where it is going or, essentially, which landlords are getting the supplement? How is that program going to be administered?

Ms Blakeman: It's gone, isn't it?

Mr. MacDonald: Well, this is what I don't understand about this note in the estimates. It's gone into Alberta Social Housing Corporation, and how does an opposition person or an interested citizen or a taxpayer figure out how much money is being spent and where? Is it inside the budget documents, or is it outside? I guess that's the question, hon. members.

Before I conclude, Mr. Speaker, I also have some questions about the AISH program which I never had an opportunity to get on the record during debate and also questions regarding PDD funding. I think that in light of the time I'd better do the PDD funding first.

Certainly, there are individuals, particularly parents of PDD clients, who are quite concerned about the inspection process of their home or the facility that is now being set up. I think it's being set up for the 1st of April. They're quite worried about, essentially, whether they're going to pass the inspection or not.

I find it quite interesting that this group is now being inspected on a regular basis when for other groups that we have thought should have been inspected for years, there doesn't seem to be any change on the part of the government to make sure that, for instance, let's say, nursing homes are inspected in a routine fashion and that the inspections occur at random times. They don't phone in advance and say, "I'm coming to Stony Plain on Thursday of next week" so that it gives the operator time to get everything all polished and organized. Random inspections have a purpose. The results of the inspection: make them public.

Speaking of public, in Public Accounts yesterday – and I haven't had a chance yet to check it out – it was implied by Alberta Seniors that all of the inspection reports from all facility inspections are available online. I'm looking forward over the weekend to having a look to see if I can find those inspection reports.

Ms Notley: You won't find much in them.

Mr. MacDonald: I won't find much in them. Will I be disappointed?

Ms Notley: You'll be a little disappointed at the specifics.

3:20

Mr. MacDonald: Okay. I don't want to pick on anyone here, but I was at a Hardisty nursing home the other day, and one of the children of a resident, a fellow that, I would assume, was well over 40, asked me about the inspection reports and where he could find them. I hope I didn't mislead him. I told him: well, I don't know that they're publicly available. I told him that they should be and that they should be right there on the bulletin board for you to look at, but they weren't there.

I hear that now in this budget year PDD folks are going to have to open their homes to an inspector and have the inspector look around. Maybe it's a good thing; maybe it's not. Whenever I hear from the PDD folks, they think it's an overreaction. They could be right because so many of these individuals and so many of these families are doing as much as they can so that other people can live in dignity and respect. I think we should always respect that, Mr. Speaker.

In conclusion with Bill 7, I can give the government members many examples of numbers that are totally different from the annual report when we're comparing our budget actuals in 2010-11 to what we're requesting this year in the budget estimates. I will sit down and work with the government members if they can provide me with an explanation as to why these numbers were changed with some amounts and not changed with others. We're not talking $1,000 or $500,000 here. In one case in the health budget we're talking in excess of $100 million. I think taxpayers are owed an explanation before we vote on this budget.

Thank you very much.

The Speaker: The hon. Member for Edmonton-Strathcona, followed by the hon. Member for Airdrie-Chestermere, followed by the hon. Member for Edmonton-Riverview.

Ms Notley: Thank you, Mr. Speaker. It's a pleasure to rise to speak on Bill 7 in second reading. This is, of course, a very important bill. This is the bill which will ultimately result in the approval of the budget that this government has put forward, the first budget put forward by our new Premier and one which, at one point, I think the Premier and her staff had believed would circumscribe the political platform of the campaign that they hope to successfully launch. I think that in many people's eyes the decision to stay here to pass this budget is being seriously reconsidered in terms of its overarching wisdom. Nonetheless, we are here, and we are looking at this budget.

[Mr. Zwozdesky in the chair]

I have to say that it's interesting that this is a budget that the Premier would have decided to bet her government's political future on because it's not exactly a budget that I would describe, in the words of the Premier's well-known campaign manager, as bold. Really, it's a budget that I would describe as being the kind of thing where you're really frantically cleaning up because you've got a bunch of people that have suddenly announced they're coming over to your house and you forgot that you'd actually invited them. So rather than actually doing a proper cleaning, you're sort of sweeping stuff under the rug and hoping that nobody notices. That's sort of the sense that I get when I read through this budget and as I participated in the debates that we had over the course of the last five weeks.

Now, as someone who has spent a lot of time engaging in budget debate, who believes that budget debate is really a fundamental role of legislators, I need to put it on the record that I think it was an extremely antidemocratic, untransparent decision on the part of the Premier and those whom she directs to have three ministries have their budget debate on the same day. It's ridiculous as it is that we only have, you know, three hours to debate budgets that are up to $14 billion, $15 billion, but that, in addition, we had those budget debates happening at the same time as other ministries' budget debates was remarkably rushed and untransparent. It really undermined the quality of the oversight that could be given to the government's decision in this regard.

Generally speaking, we're looking at a budget that, I would suggest, is based on assumptions and presumptions which are highly optimistic in some cases, that probably are not terribly evidence based, that try to gloss over some of the significant policy challenges that this government has by sort of issuing a press release, attaching a couple of million dollars to it, and hoping that no one notices that they haven't really addressed the challenge and hoping that people will just give them one more turn, and that way they will make the hard decisions after the election. This is very much a mañana, mañana budget. This is: let's just sort of, you know, sneak this under, and then we'll have an election, and then we'll make the hard decisions, but we really don't want to have the conversation about the fundamental fiscal challenges that exist in this province.

Let me just start in a few areas. I guess the first thing that is really important to the NDP caucus – and we say this in pretty much every budget debate, but it's worth reminding people – is that a report of the parliamentary financial officer a couple of years ago did a 25-year review of all of the governments in Canada, federal and provincial, and went through that review and concluded that the governments most likely to balance their budget in Canada were NDP governments. Who knew? But, indeed, it was true. That's even taking into account the incredibly ineffective attempt at balancing the budget that we saw in Ontario under the now federal Liberal Leader, Bob Rae. The NDP even took responsibility for that failure in that set of statistics but still came out ahead as the government most likely to balance the budget.

One of the ways that happens, Mr. Speaker, is that we take a realistic view of our revenue situation, and we balance it in a way that meets the interests of the greatest number of citizens, not corporations who have their head offices in some city outside of this country, not the top 2 per cent of the most wealthy but the greatest number of citizens.

We think that there are three things that we could do that would generate more revenue so that we could actually have a realistic conversation about some of the policy challenges we have as well as a realistic conversation about places that need to be changed or reduced. The fact of the matter is that, you know, the general rate for corporate income tax in Alberta – and this is something that our party was the only one to vote against consistently as the government was reducing the rate of corporate income tax – is 10 per cent. The average of the 10 provinces is 12.3 per cent. No other province has a rate of less than 10 per cent. Given that Alberta has no sales tax, we already offer a significant tax advantage, so corporate taxes could be increased moderately while maintaining Alberta's competitive tax position, and in so doing, we could increase revenue.

Personal income taxes. Because of Alberta's flat tax upper-income Albertans pay the same 10 per cent as everyone else who has taxable income. No other province comes close to the 10 per cent rate that we apply for upper-income earners. Ontario's top marginal rate is 11.16 per cent – that's the closest – but upper-income earners in Ontario also pay a surtax on top of that. Newfoundland and Labrador are the next lowest, at a 13.3 per cent tax rate for their upper-income earners. So, easily, Alberta could increase just by one or two points what it is we are having our upper-income earners pay and still remain the most competitive province in the country. In so doing, we could increase the revenue coming into this province to deal with some of the unresolved and unaddressed and ignored issues that this government has not dealt with over so long.

The other thing, of course, that we talk about in our caucus is the fact that this government essentially capitulated to the oil and gas industry. They knew that the majority of Albertans wanted to see a fair royalty structure. Their own experts recommended that we needed to have a fair royalty structure. The Auditor General said that we needed to have a fair royalty structure. This government ran on creating a fair royalty structure, and then their friends in the oil and gas industry got angry and started threatening them and created another party, and then, you know, all heck broke loose.

Needless to say, we've not moved forward anywhere on that, and we are selling our resources for a song at the expense of our environment, at the expense of our children, at the expense of our future. It's the most horrendously negligent management of one of the richest resources in the world that I've ever seen, Mr. Speaker. The fact that this budget doesn't deal with that is just one of the many concerns we have about it.

3:30

Now, when you look at the expenditure side of the coin, Mr. Speaker, there are a few areas where we have concerns. Generally speaking, there were some good areas. I want to give the government credit for the change that they made to the AISH system. It's been long coming. I know that the minister is very conscious of the fact that the cheques go out March 26, which may also happen to be the day the Premier decides to drop the writ, and that's a little bit coincidental.

I certainly hope that going forward we will not have to rely on an election cycle to see some of our most vulnerable Albertans receive an income that would keep them within sight, at least, of the poverty line. Of course, they're unfortunately on the wrong side of the poverty line in Alberta, but if we can at least sort of keep them moving forward somewhat, that would be a good thing.

It's good that we've put money into AISH. The concern that I have is that there are a vast number of Albertans who don't qualify for AISH. In the income support itself, the ministry recognizes that there is a vast group of Albertans who they deem as having barriers to full employment as a result of chronic illness, permanent illness, or permanent disability, yet those people aren't eligible for AISH. They live on an amount of money which is about – I don't know. I know that if that person has two children, as a single parent they receive something like $1,100 a month. That's shameful in a province that claims to be as rich as ours, Mr. Speaker.

Advanced Education. Everybody is the first to sing the praises of advanced education and talk about how our future will be built on that. Unfortunately, this government is not the first to dedicate adequate resources to it. The ministry's total budget has once again decreased and this time by more than 2 per cent. I appreciate that some of that is capital expenditure, but there's a reason for why that capital expenditure was there.

They've been touting their three-year funding commitment, but it's no big celebration if we're spending three years telling people: "Guess what? We're going to pay you this amount. You can count on not getting enough for the next three years." That's not at all what we need. There are a multiplicity of areas within the advanced education system that are not receiving adequate support and where the quality of education and the accessibility of education in our province are deteriorating and going down. Here we are on the eve of another boom – at least that's what everyone says – and we're walking away from our advanced education system.

Education, K to 12. A critical, important issue. It's an issue that matters a great deal to me. Again, the same argument. In fact, it's even worse than it is with advanced education. This ministry and this Premier celebrated themselves repeatedly because they actually gave back the money that they took out six months ago, and somehow that was supposed to represent a change. Again, promising a three-year predictable cycle of funding, when it's very clear that the predictable cycle of funding is grossly inadequate, is not a victory. It doesn't help that we know that for the next three years we're not going to have enough money.

This budget assumes that salary increases for teachers will only be 1 per cent. Given what we know – that we're talking about a boom, that we know what the cost of living is, that MLAs here expect to receive 4 or 5 per cent – I have no idea why it is that we would budget on a 1 per cent increase for teachers. Clearly, we're going to shortchange it. So we're not dealing with that properly.

We once again continue to be one of the only provinces in the country that does not fund school lunch programs across the board for high-needs students. Our students pay for that, our children pay for that, and our educational outcomes reflect that.

We once again have failed to fund full-day kindergarten. A promise made, but it hasn't been done. I do not accept, Mr. Speaker, that it's something that we can't do or we can't start working on now. We do have the capital infrastructure to facilitate full-day kindergarten in a number of communities across the province. It is not necessary to put off rolling out that process to next year. We could have started that work in some communities this year, but we didn't want to do it because we didn't want to deal with the fact that it would cost more, and we didn't want to put that into the budget's bottom line.

Special needs. This year the province gave back some money in terms of special needs, and they put in, I think, about a 20 per cent increase or something. But once you take into account population increase and inflation over the last three and a half years, where special-needs funding has been frozen, effectively all this government did was make up for what they've not been paying for the last four years with special-needs funding.

We have a special-needs education crisis in our education system. The plans that the government has in terms of restructuring it around action on inclusion, frankly, I think are flawed. If you are going to introduce that plan, it actually involves a significant investment up front, and that's not planned for, which means that the action on inclusion is going to be an utter disaster. Our special-needs children will pay the price, and the government knows that.

Capital expenditure. We're not investing enough in building new schools, in maintaining our old schools, and in doing it in a transparent fashion so that it's not subject to political gamesmanship.

Health. It's very possible that we don't need to increase funding in health that much, other than, you know, inflation and population, because it's so poorly managed right now. The problem is that this budget doesn't deal with that. This budget refuses to deal with the chronic shortage of long-term care beds. This budget pays only lip service to the desperate need for more home-care services, and this budget again pays only lip service to mental health services. By failing to invest in that, we are going to put greater cost pressures onto the most expensive part of our system, which is our acute-care system. It's this inaction which is jeopardizing our health care system.

I still believe that the plans that we saw two or three years ago, talking about different mechanisms of allowing for a privatization fee, are still being discussed over there, and I'm concerned about that. [Ms Notley's speaking time expired] That's all I can say at this point, Mr. Speaker.

The Acting Speaker: Thank you very much, hon. member.

Standing Order 29(2)(a) is available for any questions or comments regarding the previous speech. The hon. Member for Edmonton-Riverview.

Dr. Taft: On 29(2)(a), Mr. Speaker. I was on the edge of my seat listening to the member's comments, and I'm wondering if she has more to say?

Ms Notley: Well, I do appreciate that from the member because there were just a couple of points left that I did want to mention.

We still at the end of the day in this province need a child care strategy that actually addresses the growing child care needs of Alberta's young families, and that's not found in this budget. In fact, this budget is yet another example of what this government loves to do. It likes to put just little pittances of money into something and then put almost as much money into the press conference to try to create an impression of having done something. In fact, our subsidy system means that even our lowest income parents are still spending $400, $500, $600 a month on child care if they can afford it, which they can't. The majority of Alberta's families are still paying $1,200, $1,300 a month for child care, and that's if they can find it. So we're not dealing with that problem, and I think that's a real concern.

The other issue is that we're not anywhere in this budget seeing any plan to deal with the huge challenge faced by all Alberta consumers when it comes to our out-of-control electricity costs. There is no mechanism in this government to deal with the gouging of Alberta's consumers and business owners arising as a result of this government's ill-informed plan to embark upon deregulation. It's not there. It's unpredictable. I constantly have people talk to me on the street about how they can't afford this government's mistakes. There's nothing in this budget that is indicating any plan on the part of this government to fix its mistake in that regard.

I think that kind of wraps up our primary concerns with this budget. I'm sure there'll be more that are raised over the course of debate. But I appreciate the time.

Thank you, Mr. Speaker.

The Acting Speaker: Thank you.

Anyone else under 29(2)(a)?

If not, we'll move on with the main motion on Bill 7. The chair will recognize Airdrie-Chestermere, followed by Edmonton-Riverview.

3:40

Mr. Anderson: Thank you, Mr. Speaker. Well, here we are at the end of a few weeks of budget consultations and estimates and nice treats during estimates and late night discussions in committee. We're here talking about the final budget.

I first want to go on the record, as others have done, and say how disappointed I am in the lack of democracy and transparency that this House uses in debating and passing budgets. To have 20 minutes, as a member of the third party, to go over a department's budget, some of which are massive budgets – Education, Health, Seniors, many others – 20 minutes to do that . . .

Dr. Taft: You have to share that with the minister.

Mr. Anderson: That's right. Twenty minutes to ask questions, in which the ministers generally take at least half, if not more than half, of that 20 minutes to answer, often not answering it – it just shows how little the folks over there think about this whole process, and it really is something. I can tell you and make a promise that, whoever the government is next time, the Wildrose will support any action that will improve this process, that will give opposition parties the time that they need and private members of the governing party the time that they need to go over line by line, if they'd like to, the different things in the budget to make sure that it is what Albertans want and to get feedback. This government has just been in power so long that it just wouldn't have crossed their minds, I don't think, that that is not democratic. It isn't democratic, and it's wrong.

Of course, this Premier, who talked all about change and transparency, has been as autocratic and untransparent and undemocratic as any of her predecessors if not more. It's a shameful display, and she's paying for it politically right now as is her caucus. I can't tell you how excited we are, Mr. Speaker, here in the Wildrose, to get this election going. We are pumped. We are absolutely pumped. [interjections] I notice that some of the more yippy ones are the ones that aren't running again, likely because they weren't going to win.

Anyway, we're prepared to go to the people of Alberta and, if elected, bring in a budget process next year that is going to be the absolute example in this country of how to pass a budget and how to pass a budget transparently, with input from the opposition and an opportunity for all Albertans' representatives to be able to put feedback into the process instead of just a few select backroom boys and folks around the Premier.

With that, of course, regarding the budget itself: complete train wreck. As the National Post said: Alberta's first NDP budget. Absolutely. This is Alberta's first NDP Premier. It is absolutely a travesty.

Ms Blakeman: We'd balance it.

Mr. Anderson: Well, you know what? You're right. You're right, hon. member.

I've got to say that the Manitoba NDP, in particular, is by far more fiscally conservative, more fiscally responsible, than this so-called Conservative government. By far. The numbers back it up in every single way. This government is incapable of budgeting, and then when you call them on it and say, "You are spending too much," what do they do? Just like typical left-wing socialists they stand up and they say: "Oh, you want to cut everybody's programs. You want to throw people out on the street. You don't want Tommy to have any schools." It makes you want to throw up after a while.

It's just incredible that a government that claims that it is conservative, that it is actually conservative, is the opposite of it in every way. They're not conservative. They're not. Forget that label. They're just not fiscally responsible. Period. That's the problem, and that's why they are having so much trouble, and that's why this budget backfired. People looked at it, and they said: "You know what? This is getting to be a joke. We're at $105-a-barrel oil, and we can't balance a budget? We can't balance a budget at $105-a-barrel oil. Really?" What a joke. What if oil goes down to $80? Oh, $80 a barrel. Imagine. That could never happen. No. If it did, we'd have a hole so large in our budget that you could drive the hon. Member for Edmonton-Highlands-Norwood's former bus right through the hole in that budget. It's just crazy. You can't budget like this. You can't budget for $105 a barrel oil and still run a $3.1 billion cash shortfall, an $800 million or thereabouts accounting deficit. It's absolutely unthinkable for any kind of government that says it's fiscally conservative.

I know that there are enough fiscal conservatives – I think there are – over there that are disgusted with it as well, but for some reason they don't stand up and say anything about it. They just get along, you know, go along to get along. They don't stand up for their constituents who are telling them to stop spending like drunken sailors.

What would we do differently? They say: "What would you do differently? You would obviously make sure that all the homeless people were thrown out on the street, and you would make sure that all the seniors would be kicked out of all their senior homes, wouldn't you?" That's right. Just like the typical socialist left-wing argument. That's what they say. That's the argument that has Greece bankrupt. That's the argument that has Spain bankrupt, the United Kingdom bankrupt, that has France nearing bankruptcy, the United States on the edge of bankruptcy. Because they act like a bunch of left-wing socialists. They don't know how to say no. They say yes to everything.

You have to in government prioritize just like regular families have to prioritize. You cannot run budget deficits. You cannot call yourself a fiscal conservative like the Member for Edmonton-Calder and act like a socialist. That's what he is. He's a left-wing socialist. He calls himself a conservative. [interjection] But you're not a left-wing socialist, are you? I'd probably trust you. I'd probably trust you with the budget far more than that member.

Ms Blakeman: I can actually balance it.

Mr. Anderson: Absolutely. I'm sure you would. At least you're truthful with where you want to go with taxes. I give you that.

This budget is a travesty, Mr. Speaker. Why do they repeat the same mistakes? Did you not see what happened to Kim Campbell in 1993? Did you not see that? Did you miss that part of history when you had an out-of-control, fiscally irresponsible joke of a Conservative Party, being the federal PCs, run around and say, "Look how conservative we are," and run massive, massive deficits, raise taxes, raise the institute of the GST without cutting any income taxes, doing anything like that. Just a joke. You can't even call them a Conservative Party.

They go in there, and they get absolutely destroyed, especially in this province. Well, they got destroyed everywhere in 1993, actually, but swept out from this province, the Conservative heartland, so to speak, because they couldn't balance the budget. They replaced their leader with a nice shiny new leader, and – guess what? – she acted in the same way as the former Prime Minister had. Guess what? Same thing here, if not worse.

This Premier is more fiscally irresponsible by far than her predecessor was, and that's saying something because the predecessor wasn't that fiscally responsible. The mere fact that folks over there can honestly say that they have any kind of fiscal credentials is absurd. They don't. A monkey could balance this budget – a monkey could balance this budget – and these guys can't do it. It is absolutely ridiculous.

I wanted to wake people up. It's Thursday, you know. I just wanted it a little bit more lively here. We've got to get through another hour at least.

It is ridiculous. What would the Wildrose Party do differently? Well, the Wildrose Party would do a lot of things differently. Guess what? We think we're going to get a chance to do it differently in about five weeks' time starting. We're looking forward to it. I can't wait. And you know what? The first thing we're going to do is cut some of the absolutely wasteful, disgusting spending by this government.

First thing we're going to do is roll back cabinet salaries by 30 per cent. Then we're going to merge all of the MLA salaries into one, and we're going to roll them back. All the ways we pay MLAs, we're going to roll that into one, and then we're going to roll that back by 5 per cent. We're going to slash by 70 per cent the severance packages, these gold-plated jokes of severance packages that are out there, that are an offence, an absolute offence to the people of Alberta. This government voted a hundred per cent against my bill to reduce them by 70 per cent. We're going to do that as soon as we get back into this Legislature.

3:50

We're going to cut the carbon capture and storage program – $2 billion gone. We are not going to waste a cent more of taxpayers' money on that kind of stupidity, that kind of just absolute corporate welfare at its absolute worst and absolute most ineffective.

We're going to make sure that . . .

Ms Notley: Is there effective corporate welfare?

Mr. Anderson: There is not effective corporate welfare. You're absolutely right. There is not effective corporate welfare. Thank you for pointing that out. See, you're more fiscally responsible than the folks over there. [interjection] What are we going to do?

Let's talk about health care. We're going to make sure that before we build any new facilities in this province, we have the staff to actually run those facilities. We're not going to just have empty buildings.

Today in the Calgary Herald, the Calgary south campus hospital – guess what? – delayed another eight months because they don't have the staff. They don't have the staff. They never planned for the staff. They don't have it in the budget to even pay for the staff, and it's because they don't have a clue how to run a popsicle stand. They couldn't run a lemonade stand if their life depended on it because they would somehow find a way to bankrupt it. They would drink all the lemonade, give it to all their friends and say: "Why can we not afford to replenish the lemonade stand? I don't understand it. Where did the money go? I want to buy more lemonade, and I can't. Oh, no. What am I going to do? I'm going to borrow some money, so I can buy more lemonade for my lemonade stand." I mean these guys just have no clue. It is just really something else.

What are we going to do on infrastructure? They say: "Oh, you're not going to have any infrastructure. Wildrose won't build anything. We'll just sit there." No. We're going to have one of the most robust building programs in the country, higher than B.C., higher than Quebec, higher than Ontario per person. We're going to beat all of those folks, as we said in our alternative budget, but we're not going to spend so much money that we bankrupt our children over it. We can wait an extra 12 months for some of these projects. We don't have to have everything now because that's what fiscally responsible people and fiscally responsible businesspeople do. They make sure that they don't spend more than they take in. That's what they do.

That's what this government, this PC government, this PC Party that I used to belong to under Ralph Klein and ran for in 2008 when the Member for Fort Saskatchewan-Vegreville made a promise that he would never run a deficit, that he would never run a deficit in 2008. The promise that we campaigned on as a party was broken every single year over the last four years by him and by his successor. That is a broken promise, and it was unacceptable. You could maybe make an excuse for one year, when the bottom fell out of the market. Maybe in that one year there would have been a need to access the sustainability fund and run that one deficit. But five straight deficits is unconscionable, especially over the last two years when we have been coming out of recession and, frankly, coming out of recession very well because of the high price of oil.

That's what the Wildrose will do. We will continue to build infrastructure on a priority basis. We're not going to be putting up new $350 million MLA offices. Of course, the damage is already done there. We've already got this building there. Like we couldn't survive in what we have now. As if that was a priority for Albertans while we have a school shortage.

We would make sure that we put the dollars that we did budget for infrastructure into projects that really mattered like highway 63 to Fort McMurray, so we can grease the economic engine of Canada and make sure that we don't have people dying on the roads going up there, and make sure our large trucks can get their equipment up there instead of waiting and dilly-dallying and just doing projects that absolutely are nothing more than make-work projects. Case in point: $350 million new MLA offices. That has nothing to do with the people working on the offices. Put them to work doing something else. Put them to work building a school. Why on earth $350 million for new MLA offices? Just ridiculous.

Why couldn't we do with the Royal Alberta Museum that we have for a few extra years? Why did we need a brand spanking $300 million new one? Why? Because this government can't prioritize. They don't know what the difference is between needs and wants. That's why they failed, and that's why they're going to be replaced in four weeks from now, Mr. Speaker.

The Acting Speaker: Thank you, hon. member.

Section 29(2)(a) is now available. The hon. Member for Lethbridge-East.

Ms Pastoor: Thank you. I think that some of the hon. members' comments are, you know, probably legitimate. Maybe we could put some things off. But every time the wind blows or it rains, the water comes into my office and floods part of my old office. Maybe we should be working in those sorts of conditions.

An Hon. Member: Plant flowers in there.

Ms Pastoor: I can grow flowers. What a fine idea. Maybe I could grow that flower that has those five little green things.

Well, the other thing is, if the member is talking about a school, maybe we can turn the Leg. Annex into a school and bus the kids in. What do you think of those ideas?

Mr. Anderson: Well, schools are good. I'm a little confused. It almost sounded to me like the hon. member was justifying the $350 million spent on new MLA offices because she has some flooding. You see, that's the thing.

You know, there's a great story about a group of individuals. They're working at an engineering firm. They noticed that one of the doors on a bathroom stall wouldn't close. They kept trying to jam it in there, and they couldn't do it. So they got all the engineers in there, and they said: "We're going to have to move the whole wall. Then we're going to have to shift the roof because it's one of those hanging stalls. Then we'll be able to close the door." It would cost hundreds of thousands of dollars to do, and that's what they were going to go do. Pretty soon, after hearing this back and forth between all the engineers, the janitor came in, took off the piece from the door that was causing the problem, shaved it down, stuck it on, clicked it, shut it, and it worked, not a cost to the taxpayer. That's called the one-inch solution instead of the $350 million solution.

Instead of replacing the whole building because there are a few drafts and a little bit of flooding, perhaps we can actually do some repairs to the office to make sure that the water doesn't come into your office. Wouldn't that be something?

The Wildrose is always going to look first to the one-inch solution, not the $350 million new MLA office solution. That's the biggest difference, I think, between the mentality on that side, which is: whatever people ask for, whatever we want, we are going to pay for it now, and anybody who stands in our way, we're going to call them greedy, awful, little people that want to throw people out on the street. That's all we've gotten from these folks.

It's incredible every budget we go through. We've seen that the Liberal Party usually sends out a prebudget outline of suggestions that they have for the budget, and every year I am amazed at how more fiscally responsible their budget outline is than the folks on that side – I don't understand it – with the exception of this last year. I was worried about the tax increase, but they're going to do that anyway just after the election. You were just honest about it, I think. That's the difference.

These folks just have completely lost their way on the finances. They don't know how to make tough decisions. They don't know how to say no. They can't even say no to themselves. They can't even say no to themselves so much so that they gave themselves a 30 per cent increase in their salaries and a 34 per cent increase to their Premier's salary.

They have this ridiculous MLA pay scheme, where you have all these committees. Let's be clear why they have these committees, these no-work committees that we're talking about. Let's be clear what these are. These have been put in place so that the Premier can hold a hammer over top of the heads of MLAs. That's why it exists. The Premier cannot dock pay. The Premier cannot dock anyone's salary, but if an MLA gets out of line, as the Member for Calgary-Fish Creek did right after the last election when she went after the former Premier as being not well liked in Calgary – guess what? – they didn't give her any committees. Oh, it was punishment for what she said during the election. They docked $3,000 a month off her pay.

Now, they couldn't do that if it was one salary, you see, but they gave the salary based on committee pay so that the Premier, if someone gets out of line, boom, just puts the thumb down to make sure that they know full well that the Premier doesn't appreciate that. That's why it was set up that way.

That's why we have all kinds of different government committees over there. There are so many different government committees over there that you lose track. Obviously, there are the standard cabinet policy committees. Those are a little more transparent. But all these other ones? Incredible.

4:00

The Acting Speaker: Thank you, hon. member.

The hon. Member for Edmonton-Riverview is next, followed by Fort McMurray-Wood Buffalo.

Dr. Taft: Thanks, Mr. Speaker. I'm going to take a somewhat different approach than the previous member. I'm just going to move on from that. I'd like to talk about the opportunities that we have in Alberta and how I would like to see a different kind of budget and a different approach to a budget.

I want to start from the fact – and I've said this many times in this Assembly and elsewhere – that Alberta is by most measures the richest place on Earth. Of course, we have in this great province a small population. We think of Edmonton and Calgary as big cities, but they're not, really, by world standards. You can put all of Alberta's population together, and it's about half of greater Toronto. It's like metro Seattle.

We have this huge province, a small population, and in addition, you know, to all the wonderful other assets we have here and the fact that geopolitically we're next to the biggest market, the richest country in the history of humanity, we have, depending on how you measure it, the second- or third-largest energy reserves in the world. If you take those energy reserves and divide them by the number of people who live here, we are incredibly wealthy, unbelievably wealthy.

I was actually looking at the corporate filings of Imperial Oil recently, and in their filings they value their energy reserves, what they have still in the ground – they haven't developed it all – undeveloped reserves, at about $12.60 a barrel. Well, if we just took Alberta's oil reserves, that we own as the people of this province, and valued them at $5 a barrel, there is over $800 billion we'd be carrying on the books just at $5 a barrel. That's more than 20 times the total amount of this budget.

This is by any measure an incredibly wealthy place, and we need to understand that because that puts a real responsibility on us. Too much money tends to make people stupid, and I sometimes think that we're all guilty of that when it comes to managing this province's wealth. This government I've taken to task – and I will continue to take them to task – for ending up in a situation in 2012, with this budget, where having governed the richest place on Earth for 40 years, our heritage fund is worth less than the year it was established once you adjust for inflation. Some $240 billion in nonrenewable resource revenues is gone.

We're running deficits, and despite the claims of the Wildrose Alliance members we're not spending like drunken sailors, which I think is probably unfair to sailors. We have to do better than what's being done in this budget. I will remind the Member for Airdrie-Chestermere that he talked about bankrupting our children's future by running deficits. Well, there's more than one way to bankrupt our children's future. Another way is to not educate them sufficiently or to not provide sufficient public services. I think there's a threat to bankrupting our children's future when we let thousands of them go to school hungry every day and we don't do anything about it.

Anyway, I want to address the issue of government spending in the context of the unbelievable wealth that we have here. We are told over and over, as we just heard – and, you know, it's about choice here – from the Wildrose Alliance and have heard from this government and many others that this government is spending a huge, huge amount, leading the country and so on. Well, Mr. Speaker, if you take those numbers and cut away all the spin and you adjust for inflation and you adjust for the fact that our population is growing so rapidly, in most areas we're spending well within the range of what's normal for Canadian provinces.

We're a little bit high on health care. We're not the highest. Believe it or not, Newfoundland spends more. It depends on the measurement you use, actually. By some measures we're the lowest in the country.

On education we're pretty much about where you'd expect to be. There was a ridiculous publication that came out of the University of Calgary's School of Public Policy – it was published in the Calgary Herald a couple of months ago – arguing that Alberta's education system should be cut 40 per cent in spending, and it would then equal Ontario. Well, it was drivel. It was ridiculous. It should have been an embarrassment to the University of Calgary that that came out of there. In fact, when you do a proper accounting of Alberta's spending on education, it's about what they spend in B.C. or Saskatchewan or other provinces.

The trend is not a skyrocketing trend. Over the last 20 years, once you adjust for inflation and population growth, health care spending in Alberta has climbed, I think, about 1.7 per cent a year on average. Spending on schools is virtually unchanged compared to 20 years ago. In fact, spending on human services in general has been very flat for the 20 years while the economy has grown in real terms by 70 per cent.

Infrastructure spending is wildly erratic in this province. In fact, too much spending is erratic in this province. From '94 until about 2004 we were spending at the bottom of the country on infrastructure. We all are paying the price for that now: roads that are potholed, buildings like the Legislature Annex and any number of schools and university buildings that leak and cost way too much to maintain.

It's no surprise that the Member for Fort Saskatchewan-Vegreville, when he was Premier, ramped up infrastructure spending. We had to. Even with the increase in infrastructure spending, Mr. Speaker, many of our roads, around half of our roads, in Alberta are going to continue to be in fair to poor driving condition. It's a fact of life that we have to spend money to maintain a modern economy.

I think – and we might overlap a bit with the Wildrose on this and more so probably with the New Democrats – we don't need to spend a whole lot more. An awful lot of the challenges in Alberta come down to fumbling management, particularly in health care. I want to drive this home again. In 21 years – I've kept track – there have been 13 different deputy ministers of health. How ridiculous is that? Thirteen different CEOs of the biggest government department in 20 years: well, no wonder there's chaos. And how many reorganizations?

I'm witnessing, through my family's experience right now, some of the terrible experiences that that disruption in health care has delivered. It's not that we need to spend a lot more; we need to spend smarter. We need to manage it better.

We also – and this is so fundamental for me – need to build up our heritage fund, and that's not happening in here. It's not happening in this budget. How can we live in the richest place in the world and have so little saved and be running deficits? It's terrible management.

The questions that come to my mind, Mr. Speaker. We have such a huge economy – gross domestic product per capita in Alberta is the largest in the world, way beyond not just the rest of Canada but the United States and Europe – yet we have no savings, and we're spending more or less what they're spending in B.C. or Saskatchewan or Ontario. Where's the money going?

Well, some of it is going to individuals, Mr. Speaker. On average Albertans as individuals are wealthier than other Canadians. We're among the wealthiest people on average in the world. That average is very deceptive. The city of Calgary according to both Stats Canada and, of all places, the TD Bank not only has the highest percentage of high-income people of any major city in Canada; it's got the highest percentage of low-income people. That average disguises the most unequal distribution of income in Canada, and not enough in this budget is addressing that.

There are higher personal incomes in Alberta, but they're not nearly what you would expect for such a rich place. What you find when you look at the data from Stats Canada and you really dig into it is that government spending has stayed pretty flat over the last 20 years. Personal incomes are up some, but it's profits collected by corporations that have really soared in this province and are scooping up far and away the largest portion of Alberta's growth.

4:10

I want to put a figure out there that I can back up with very good economic work and that, in fact, I've written about in conjunction with a couple of economists. For the five years 2004, 2005, 2006, 2007, and 2008, that boom, the Alberta economy on average generated profits, not revenues but profits, of a billion dollars a week every week. That's stunning. That's way beyond any rates in the rest of Canada, way beyond any rates in the United States, way beyond what's normal anywhere else.

What it tells me, Mr. Speaker, is that we are leaving too much on the table. We are giving away our wealth. We're not spending it on inordinate public services. We're not saving it in the heritage fund. We are letting it flow out through our fingers – and we are the owners of this resource – into the hands of shareholders, increasing numbers of whom are in Shanghai or London or on Wall Street or Bay Street.

That's why the Alberta Liberals have called for things like an increase in the corporate tax rate. Our corporate tax rate in Alberta is so far below what's normal in the United States or the rest of Canada or Europe that it's ridiculous, and that is how we are bankrupting our children's future, from the perspective that I take and that the Alberta Liberals take. We're giving our children's future away. We're not bankrupting it by spending too much on schools or hospitals. We're bankrupting our children's future by giving it away to corporations.

Everything I say here I can back up with the best data, unlike some of the ridiculous comments we heard earlier about $350 million being spent on MLAs' offices. That's a stupid statement, if I may say so. We all know, including the person who made it, that that building holds far more than MLAs. The MLA offices take up a tiny corner of that cost.

Everything that I've said I can back up, Mr. Speaker, and I lay the challenge to the members of this Assembly to rethink how we as an Assembly are managing the unbelievable opportunity we have. This is one of the last chances I'll have to address this Legislature, so I want to drive that message forward, that we need to do a better job.

I'll see if anybody wants to engage me under 29(2)(a). Thank you, Mr. Speaker.

The Acting Speaker: Thank you.

Hon. members, 29(2)(a) is available.

Mr. Anderson: Under 29(2)(a) I have a question. I guess I'm confused, and I'm trying to understand. It would make sense that the folks over there would side with the Liberal Party on this. The $350 million new building – and I agree; it's not all going to be MLAs in there. I agree. There'll be other office workers, other government civil servants, and so forth. Probably a lot of the folks that are in the Annex now, I would imagine, will be moved over there. We have a nice, flashy new outdoor hockey rink and wonderful underground parking and all these tunnels and everything else. Just an honest question: how on earth is a $350 million new building a priority right now when we have a massive deficit, we have a huge school shortage across the province, and we are building hospitals that have no staff in them.

The south campus hospital, for example. A letter just went out today saying that it's been delayed eight months after just being announced when they were doing that cabinet tour. They said that it was going to be mid this year. Well, it's eight months now. They've moved it back again. All of these things are happening because we don't have enough staff and so forth, yet we have money to redevelop the federal building. How is that a priority? I don't understand it.

The Acting Speaker: Hon. Member for Edmonton-Riverview, you have about 30 seconds until we have the guillotine vote.

Dr. Taft: All right. Thank you, Mr. Speaker. That's a legitimate question. I mean, I appreciate engaging in an honest debate here. The issues around the mismanagement of the health care system and the fact that hospitals are getting built when we can't staff them is unacceptable. There was a laughable period last June, I think it was, a particular week in which in the same week the then Premier announced hundreds of millions of dollars for new schools, and 500 teachers were getting laid off. So those are issues of bad management. There's no question about that.

The Acting Speaker: Sorry, hon. member. I do regret having to interrupt the hon. member, but in accordance with Standing Order 64(3) the chair is required to now put the question to the House on the appropriation bill on the Order Paper for second reading.

[The voice vote indicated that the motion for second reading carried]

[Several members rose calling for a division. The division bell was rung at 4:16 p.m.]

[Ten minutes having elapsed, the Assembly divided]

[Mr. Zwozdesky in the chair]

For the motion:

Allred	Fritz	Lindsay
Amery	Goudreau	Morton
Bhardwaj	Griffiths	Olson
Bhullar	Groeneveld	Rogers
Campbell	Hayden	Sarich
DeLong	Horner	VanderBurg
Drysdale	Jablonski	Vandermeer
Elniski	Klimchuk

Against the motion:

Anderson	Boutilier	Taft
Blakeman	Notley

Totals:	For – 23	Against – 5
---------	----------	-------------

[Motion carried; Bill 7 read a second time]

Mr. Olson: Mr. Speaker, I move that we adjourn until 1:30 p.m. on Monday, March 19.

[Motion carried; the Assembly adjourned at 4:29 p.m. to Monday at 1:30 p.m.]

Bill Status Report for the 27th Legislature - 5th Session (2012)

Activity to March 15, 2012

The Bill sponsor's name is in brackets following the Bill title. If it is a money Bill, ($) will appear between the title and the sponsor's name. Numbers following each Reading refer to Hansard pages where the text of debates is found; dates for each Reading are in brackets following the page numbers. Bills numbered 200 or higher are Private Members' Public Bills. Bills with lower numbers are Government Bills. Bills numbered Pr1, etc., are Private Bills.

*An asterisk beside a Bill number indicates an amendment was passed to that Bill; the Committee line shows the precise date of the amendment.

The date a Bill comes into force is indicated in square brackets after the date of Royal Assent. If it comes into force "on proclamation," "with exceptions," or "on various dates," please contact Legislative Counsel for details at (780) 427-2217. The chapter number assigned to the Bill is entered immediately following the date the Bill comes into force. SA indicates Statutes of Alberta; this is followed by the year in which it is included in the statutes, and its chapter number. Please note, Private Bills are not assigned a chapter number until the conclusion of the fall sittings.

1 Results-based Budgeting Act (Redford)

First Reading -- 4 (Feb. 7 aft., passed)

Second Reading -- 31-38 (Feb. 8 aft.), 125-34 (Feb. 13 eve., passed)

Committee of the Whole -- 124-34 (Feb. 14 aft.), 160-61 (Feb. 15 aft., passed)

Third Reading -- 164-65 (Feb. 15 aft., passed)

Royal Assent -- (Mar. 5 outside of House sitting) [Comes into force March 5, 2012; SA 2012 cR-17.5]

2* Education Act (Lukaszuk)

First Reading -- 115 (Feb. 14 aft., passed)

Second Reading -- 152-59 (Feb. 15 aft.), 187-88 (Feb. 16 aft.), 182-85 (Feb. 16 aft.), 256-57 (Feb. 22 aft.), 405-11 (Mar. 8 aft., passed)

Committee of the Whole -- 500-01 (Mar. 13 eve.), 515-35 (Mar. 14 aft.), (Mar. 14 eve., adjourned, amendments passed)

3 Appropriation (Supplementary Supply) Act, 2012 ($) (Horner)

First Reading -- 115 (Feb. 14 aft., passed)

Second Reading -- 150-52 (Feb. 15 aft.), 161 (Feb. 15 aft., passed)

Committee of the Whole -- 185-86 (Feb. 16 aft., passed)

Third Reading -- 251-56 (Feb. 22 aft., passed)

Royal Assent -- (Mar. 5 outside of House sitting) [Comes into force March 5, 2012; SA 2012 c1]

4 St. Albert and Sturgeon Valley School Districts Establishment Act (Lukaszuk)

First Reading -- 236 (Feb. 22 aft., passed)

Second Reading -- 403-04 (Mar. 8 aft.), 480-88 (Mar. 13 eve., passed)

5 Seniors' Property Tax Deferral Act (Jablonski)

First Reading -- 298 (Mar. 5 aft., passed)

Second Reading -- 403 (Mar. 8 aft.), 488-94 (Mar. 13 eve., passed)

6 Property Rights Advocate Act (McQueen)

First Reading -- 236 (Feb. 22 aft., passed)

Second Reading -- 404-05 (Mar. 8 aft.), 494-500 (Mar. 13 eve., passed)

7 Appropriation Act, 2012 ($) (Horner)

First Reading -- 513 (Mar. 14 aft., passed)

Second Reading -- 586-95 (Mar. 15 aft., passed on division)

201 Alberta Bill of Rights (Property Rights Protection) Amendment Act, 2012 (Hinman)

First Reading -- 69 (Feb. 13 aft., passed)

Second Reading -- 299-311 (Mar. 5 aft., defeated on division)

203 Tobacco Reduction (Protection of Children in Vehicles) Amendment Act, 2012 (Sherman)

First Reading -- 69 (Feb. 13 aft., passed)

Second Reading -- 427-36 (Mar. 12 aft., passed on division)

204 Land Statutes (Abolition of Adverse Possession) Amendment Act, 2012 (Allred)

First Reading -- 357 (Mar. 7 aft., passed)

Second Reading -- 436-38 (Mar. 12 aft., passed)

205 Scrap Metal Dealers and Recyclers Identification Act (Quest)

First Reading -- 585 (Mar. 15 aft., passed)

209 Homeowner Protection Act (Hehr)

First Reading -- 585 (Mar. 15 aft., passed)

210 Early Childhood Learning and Child Care Act (Taylor)

First Reading -- 513-14 (Mar. 14 aft., passed)

Table of Contents

Prayers	573
Introduction of Guests	573
Members' Statements
Health Care System Accomplishments.....	574
Imperial Sovereign Court of the Wild Rose	575
Property Rights.....	575
World Consumer Rights Day.....	583
Social Enterprise.....	584
Long-term Care for Seniors.....	584
Goodwill Industries of Alberta	584
Oral Question Period
Long-term Care for Seniors.....	575, 577
Alberta First Nations Energy Centre	576
Municipal Taxation	577
Rent Regulation.....	577
Provincial Economic Strategy	578
Funding for Private Schools	578
Bullying	579
Sexual Assault Services.....	579
Long-term Care Accommodation Standards	580
Long-term Care Serious Incidents	580
School Infrastructure Funding.....	580
NOVA Chemicals Corporation Expansion.....	581
Provincial Tax Policy	581
Anthony Henday Drive.....	582
Postsecondary Institution Spending Accountability	582
Critical Electricity Transmission Lines	583
Statement by the Speaker
Anniversary of the First Session of the Legislative Assembly	583
Private Members' Public Bills.....	586
Notices of Motions	585
Introduction of Bills
Bill 205 Scrap Metal Dealers and Recyclers Identification Act	585
Bill 209 Homeowner Protection Act	585
Tabling Returns and Reports	585
Tablings to the Clerk	586
Projected Government Business	586
Orders of the Day	586
Government Bills and Orders
Second Reading
Bill 7 Appropriation Act, 2012.....	586
Division	595

If your address is incorrect, please clip on the dotted line, make any changes, and return to the address listed below. To facilitate the update, please attach the last mailing label along with your account number.

Subscriptions
Legislative Assembly Office
1001 Legislature Annex
9718 – 107 Street
EDMONTON, AB T5K 1E4

.....

Last mailing label:

Account # _____

New information:

Name:

Address:

.....

Subscription information:

Annual subscriptions to the paper copy of Alberta Hansard (including annual index) are $127.50 including GST if mailed once a week or $94.92 including GST if picked up at the subscription address below or if mailed through the provincial government interdepartmental mail system. Bound volumes are $121.70 including GST if mailed. Cheques should be made payable to the Minister of Finance.

Price per issue is $0.75 including GST.

Online access to Alberta Hansard is available through the Internet at www.assembly.ab.ca

Subscription inquiries:

Subscriptions
Legislative Assembly Office
1001 Legislature Annex
9718 – 107 St.
EDMONTON, AB T5K 1E4
Telephone: 780.427.1302

Other inquiries:

Managing Editor
Alberta Hansard
1001 Legislature Annex
9718 – 107 St.
EDMONTON, AB T5K 1E4
Telephone: 780.427.1875

Province of Alberta

The 27th Legislature
Fifth Session

Alberta Hansard

Monday afternoon, March 19, 2012

Issue 19

The Honourable Kenneth R. Kowalski, Speaker

Legislative Assembly of Alberta
The 27th Legislature

Fifth Session

Kowalski, Hon. Ken, Barrhead-Morinville-Westlock, Speaker
Cao, Wayne C.N., Calgary-Fort, Deputy Speaker and Chair of Committees
Zwozdesky, Gene, Edmonton-Mill Creek, Deputy Chair of Committees

Ady, Cindy, Calgary-Shaw (PC)
Allred, Ken, St. Albert (PC)
Amery, Moe, Calgary-East (PC)
Anderson, Rob, Airdrie-Chestermere (W),
Wildrose Opposition House Leader
Benito, Carl, Edmonton-Mill Woods (PC)
Berger, Hon. Evan, Livingstone-Macleod (PC)
Bhardwaj, Naresh, Edmonton-Ellerslie (PC)
Bhullar, Hon. Manmeet Singh, Calgary-Montrose (PC)
Blackett, Lindsay, Calgary-North West (PC)
Blakeman, Laurie, Edmonton-Centre (AL),
Official Opposition Deputy Leader,
Official Opposition House Leader
Boutilier, Guy C., Fort McMurray-Wood Buffalo (W)
Brown, Dr. Neil, QC, Calgary-Nose Hill (PC)
Calahasen, Pearl, Lesser Slave Lake (PC)
Campbell, Robin, West Yellowhead (PC),
Government Whip
Chase, Harry B., Calgary-Varsity (AL)
Dallas, Hon. Cal, Red Deer-South (PC)
Danyluk, Hon. Ray, Lac La Biche-St. Paul (PC)
DeLong, Alana, Calgary-Bow (PC)
Denis, Hon. Jonathan, QC, Calgary-Egmont (PC),
Deputy Government House Leader
Doerksen, Arno, Strathmore-Brooks (PC)
Drysedale, Wayne, Grande Prairie-Wapiti (PC),
Deputy Government Whip
Elniski, Doug, Edmonton-Calder (PC)
Evans, Iris, Sherwood Park (PC)
Fawcett, Kyle, Calgary-North Hill (PC)
Forsyth, Heather, Calgary-Fish Creek (W),
Wildrose Opposition Whip
Fritz, Yvonne, Calgary-Cross (PC)
Goudreau, Hector G., Dunvegan-Central Peace (PC)
Griffiths, Hon. Doug, Battle River-Wainwright (PC)
Groeneveld, George, Highwood (PC)
Hancock, Hon. Dave, QC, Edmonton-Whitemud (PC),
Government House Leader
Hayden, Hon. Jack, Drumheller-Stettler (PC)
Hehr, Kent, Calgary-Buffalo (AL)
Hinman, Paul, Calgary-Glenmore (W),
Wildrose Opposition Deputy Leader
Horne, Hon. Fred, Edmonton-Rutherford (PC),
Deputy Government House Leader
Horner, Hon. Doug, Spruce Grove-Sturgeon-St. Albert (PC)
Jablonski, Mary Anne, Red Deer-North (PC)
Jacobs, Broyce, Cardston-Taber-Warner (PC)
Johnson, Hon. Jeff, Athabasca-Redwater (PC)

Johnston, Art, Calgary-Hays (PC)
Kang, Darshan S., Calgary-McCall (AL),
Official Opposition Whip
Klimchuk, Hon. Heather, Edmonton-Glenora (PC)
Knight, Mel, Grande Prairie-Smoky (PC)
Leskiw, Genia, Bonnyville-Cold Lake (PC)
Liepert, Hon. Ron, Calgary-West (PC)
Lindsay, Fred, Stony Plain (PC)
Lukaszuk, Hon. Thomas A., Edmonton-Castle Downs (PC)
Lund, Ty, Rocky Mountain House (PC)
MacDonald, Hugh, Edmonton-Gold Bar (AL)
Mason, Brian, Edmonton-Highlands-Norwood (ND),
Leader of the ND Opposition
McFarland, Barry, Little Bow (PC)
McQueen, Hon. Diana, Drayton Valley-Calmar (PC)
Mitzel, Len, Cypress-Medicine Hat (PC)
Morton, Hon. F.L., Foothills-Rocky View (PC)
Notley, Rachel, Edmonton-Strathcona (ND),
ND Opposition House Leader
Oberle, Hon. Frank, Peace River (PC)
Olson, Hon. Verlyn, QC, Wetaskiwin-Camrose (PC),
Deputy Government House Leader
Ouellette, Luke, Innisfail-Sylvan Lake (PC)
Pastoor, Bridget Brennan, Lethbridge-East (PC)
Prins, Ray, Lacombe-Ponoka (PC)
Quest, Dave, Strathcona (PC)
Redford, Hon. Alison M., QC, Calgary-Elbow (PC),
Premier
Renner, Rob, Medicine Hat (PC)
Rodney, Dave, Calgary-Lougheed (PC)
Rogers, George, Leduc-Beaumont-Devon (PC)
Sandhu, Peter, Edmonton-Manning (PC)
Sarich, Janice, Edmonton-Decore (PC)
Sherman, Dr. Raj, Edmonton-Meadowlark (AL),
Leader of the Official Opposition
Snelgrove, Lloyd, Vermilion-Lloydminster (Ind)
Stelmach, Ed, Fort Saskatchewan-Vegreville (PC)
Swann, Dr. David, Calgary-Mountain View (AL)
Taft, Dr. Kevin, Edmonton-Riverview (AL),
Official Opposition Deputy Whip
Tarchuk, Janis, Banff-Cochrane (PC)
Taylor, Dave, Calgary-Currie (AB)
VanderBurg, Hon. George, Whitecourt-Ste. Anne (PC)
Vandermeer, Tony, Edmonton-Beverly-Clareview (PC)
Weadick, Hon. Greg, Lethbridge-West (PC),
Deputy Government House Leader
Webber, Len, Calgary-Foothills (PC)
Woo-Paw, Teresa, Calgary-Mackay (PC)
Xiao, David H., Edmonton-McClung (PC)

Party standings:

Progressive Conservative: 66 Alberta Liberal: 8 Wildrose: 4 New Democrat: 2 Alberta: 1 Independent: 1 Vacant: 1

Officers and Officials of the Legislative Assembly

W.J. David McNeil, Clerk	Stephanie LeBlanc, Parliamentary Counsel & Legal Research Officer	Chris Caughell, Assistant Sergeant-at-Arms
Robert H. Reynolds, QC, Law Clerk/ Director of Interparliamentary Relations	Philip Massolin, Committee Research Co-ordinator	Gordon H. Munk, Assistant Sergeant-at-Arms
Shannon Dean, Senior Parliamentary Counsel/Director of House Services	Brian G. Hodgson, Sergeant-at-Arms	Liz Sim, Managing Editor of Alberta Hansard

Executive Council

Alison Redford	Premier, President of Executive Council, Chair of Agenda and Priorities Committee
Doug Horner	Deputy Premier, President of Treasury Board and Enterprise
Dave Hancock	Minister of Human Services
Ted Morton	Minister of Energy
Verlyn Olson	Minister of Justice and Attorney General
Fred Horne	Minister of Health and Wellness
Ron Liepert	Minister of Finance
Thomas Lukaszuk	Minister of Education, Political Minister for Edmonton
Diana McQueen	Minister of Environment and Water
Jonathan Denis	Solicitor General and Minister of Public Security
Cal Dallas	Minister of Intergovernmental, International and Aboriginal Relations, Political Minister for Central Alberta
Evan Berger	Minister of Agriculture and Rural Development, Political Minister for Southern Alberta
Frank Oberle	Minister of Sustainable Resource Development
George VanderBurg	Minister of Seniors
Ray Danyluk	Minister of Transportation
Jeff Johnson	Minister of Infrastructure, Political Minister for Northern Alberta
Doug Griffiths	Minister of Municipal Affairs
Greg Weadick	Minister of Advanced Education and Technology
Jack Hayden	Minister of Tourism, Parks and Recreation
Heather Klimchuk	Minister of Culture and Community Services
Manmeet Singh Bhullar	Minister of Service Alberta, Political Minister for Calgary

Parliamentary Assistants

Naresh Bhardwaj	Health and Wellness
Alana DeLong	Seniors
Arno Doerksen	Human Services
Kyle Fawcett	Treasury Board and Enterprise
Art Johnston	Executive Council
Barry McFarland	Agriculture and Rural Development
Len Mitzel	Transportation
Dave Rodney	Health and Wellness
David Xiao	Energy

STANDING AND SPECIAL COMMITTEES OF THE LEGISLATIVE ASSEMBLY OF ALBERTA

Standing Committee on the Alberta Heritage Savings Trust Fund

Chair: Ms Tarchuk
Deputy Chair: Mr. Elniski

Anderson
DeLong
Groeneveld
Johnston
MacDonald
Quest
Taft

Standing Committee on Community Development

Chair: Mrs. Jablonski
Deputy Chair: Mr. Chase

Amery
Blakeman
Boutilier
Calahasen
Goudreau
Groeneveld
Lindsay
Snelgrove
Taylor
Vandermeer

Standing Committee on Education

Chair: Ms Pastoor
Deputy Chair: Mr. Hehr

Anderson
Benito
Brown
Cao
Chase
Leskiw
Notley
Sarich
Tarchuk
Vacant

Standing Committee on Energy

Chair: Mrs. Ady
Deputy Chair: Ms Blakeman

Hehr
Hinman
Jacobs
Johnston
Lund
Mason
McFarland
Ouellette
Webber
Xiao

Standing Committee on Finance

Chair: Mr. Renner
Deputy Chair: Mr. Kang

Allred
Anderson
Drysdale
Fawcett
Knight
Mitzel
Prins
Sandhu
Taft
Taylor

Standing Committee on Legislative Offices

Chair: Mr. Blackett
Deputy Chair: Mr. Lund

Blakeman
Brown
Evans
Hinman
Lindsay
MacDonald
Notley
Ouellette
Quest
Vacant

Special Standing Committee on Members' Services

Chair: Mr. Kowalski
Deputy Chair: Mr. Campbell

Amery
Anderson
Elniski
Evans
Hehr
Knight
Leskiw
MacDonald
Mason
Rogers

Standing Committee on Private Bills

Chair: Dr. Brown
Deputy Chair: Ms Woo-Paw

Allred	Kang
Benito	Knight
Boutilier	Lindsay
Calahasen	McFarland
Doerksen	Sandhu
Drysdale	Sarich
Evans	Snelgrove
Groeneveld	Swann
Hinman	Xiao
Jacobs

Standing Committee on Privileges and Elections, Standing Orders and Printing

Chair: Mr. Prins
Deputy Chair: Mr. Snelgrove

Amery	Mitzel
Boutilier	Notley
Calahasen	Pastoor
DeLong	Quest
Doerksen	Stelmach
Forsyth	Swann
Jacobs	Tarchuk
Knight	Taylor
Leskiw	Zwozdesky
McFarland

Standing Committee on Public Accounts

Chair: Mr. MacDonald
Deputy Chair: Mr. Goudreau

Allred	Kang
Benito	Mason
Calahasen	Rodney
Chase	Sandhu
Elniski	Vandermeer
Fawcett	Woo-Paw
Forsyth	Xiao
Groeneveld

Standing Committee on Public Health and Safety

Chair: Mrs. Fritz
Deputy Chair: Dr. Taft

Bhardwaj
Blakett
DeLong
Doerksen
Forsyth
Notley
Rodney
Rogers
Swann
Woo-Paw

Legislative Assembly of Alberta

1:30 p.m.

Monday, March 19, 2012

[The Speaker in the chair]

Prayers

The Speaker: Good afternoon. Welcome back.

Let us pray. At the beginning of this week we ask for renewed strength in the awareness of our duty and privilege as members of the Legislature. We ask for the protection of this Assembly and also the province we are elected to serve. Amen.

Ladies and gentlemen and hon. members, we'll now be participating in the singing of our national anthem. We'll be led today by Mr. Paul Lorieau, and I'd invite all to participate in the language of one's choice.

Hon. Members:

O Canada, our home and native land!
True patriot love in all thy sons command.
With glowing hearts we see thee rise,
The True North strong and free!
From far and wide, O Canada,
We stand on guard for thee.
God keep our land glorious and free!
O Canada, we stand on guard for thee.
O Canada, we stand on guard for thee.

The Speaker: Please be seated.

Introduction of Guests

The Speaker: The hon. Minister of Human Services.

Mr. Hancock: Thank you, Mr. Speaker. It is a pleasure for me to rise today and introduce to you and through you to all members of the Assembly a bright and enthusiastic group of 35 grade 6 students from Westbrook elementary school. Westbrook elementary school is located in my constituency, but as of the anticipated drop of the writ it will move to Edmonton-Rutherford and be in the constituency of the Member for Edmonton-Rutherford. Accompanying these students are their teacher, Arlene Walker, and parent helper, Najat Tarrabain. They're here this week at the School at the Legislature. They're seated in the members' gallery, and I'd ask them to please rise and receive the traditional warm welcome of the Assembly.

Mr. Speaker, it's also a pleasure for me to rise and introduce to you and through you to members of the Assembly another bright, enthusiastic group of 29 grade 6 students from Brander Gardens elementary school, also located in my constituency of Edmonton-Whitemud. Accompanying the students is their teacher, Natalie Gago-Esteves. I must say that Ms Esteves has brought classrooms to this Legislature every year, I think, certainly in the last four or five years, and has certainly been a regular. She's accompanied by Erin Regan. They're seated in both the members' and the public galleries, and I'd ask them to please rise and receive the traditional warm welcome of this Assembly.

The Speaker: The hon. Member for Lacombe-Ponoka.

Mr. Prins: Thank you, Mr. Speaker. It's my pleasure to rise before you in this Assembly to introduce to you and everyone else a group of students and visitors from the Lacombe outreach school. There are 21 students and four adults. The adults are Mr. Darcy Blum, Ms Donna Benson, Ms Travis Mills, and Mr. Keith Godlonton. I hope that they have had a nice day here and enjoyed their visit. I would ask them to rise and receive the warm welcome of this Assembly.

The Speaker: The hon. Member for Edmonton-Gold Bar.

Mr. MacDonald: Yes. Thank you very much, Mr. Speaker. It's a pleasure to rise and introduce to you and through you to all hon. Members of this Legislative Assembly another delegation from the Suzuki charter school in the constituency of Edmonton-Gold Bar. We have 39 visitors this afternoon, and they're led by teachers Miss Shannon Eremenko and Mrs. Ashlee Carl. Suzuki charter school is a very fine school in Edmonton-Gold Bar, and they put on many concert recitals throughout the city, including in the Legislative Assembly here at Christmastime, of course. I would urge all hon. members, if they do have a chance, to please go to their spring recital at the Winspear. It's an exceptional concert. They're in the public gallery, and I would now ask the delegation to please rise and receive the traditional warm welcome of this Assembly.

Thank you.

The Speaker: Hon. Member for Calgary-Varsity, do you have a special guest today?

Mr. Chase: A very special guest. Thank you, Mr. Speaker. I would like to reintroduce to you and through you to all members of the Assembly my extremely loving, supportive, and, as members of this House will appreciate, patient wife of 43 years. Heather, please stand and receive the recognition.

The Speaker: The hon. Deputy Premier.

Mr. Horner: Thank you, Mr. Speaker. It's an honour to introduce to you and through you to all members of the Assembly four teaching professionals from Red Deer. While attending the St. Albert food bank annual auction last year, Mr. Laurie Stamp bid on a special tour of the Legislature, and I'm pleased that he was the highest bidder. He couldn't be here with us today and has graciously asked four teachers from St. Thomas Aquinas Catholic school in Red Deer to join us. They are Christa Smereka, Crystal Mason, Angela McLean, and Landon Stamp. Christa is a student teacher studying at the University of Alberta, Crystal is a grade 8 social studies teacher with 10 years' teaching experience, Angela is a grade 7 social studies teacher with five years' teaching experience, and Landon is a grade 6 social studies teacher with one year of teaching experience and was raised in St. Albert. I had a great opportunity to have lunch with these four fine individuals who are teaching Alberta's youth. They are seated in the members' gallery this afternoon. I would ask that they rise and that the Assembly give them the warmest of welcomes.

The Speaker: The hon. Minister of Advanced Education and Technology.

Mr. Weadick: Thank you, Mr. Speaker. Indeed, it's an honour for me today to introduce to you a very special group of students. These are students from the Council of Alberta University Students, or CAUS for short. CAUS represents the interests of over 70,000 of Alberta's university students from across the province. I meet with them on a regular basis to discuss issues and concerns that they might have. The group hosted a reception a little bit earlier this morning and had the opportunity to meet with some of our MLAs and have a discussion around some of the topics that they think are extremely important. I'll be meeting with this group a little later in the week. I'd like to ask them to rise as I introduce them: from Lethbridge Mr. Zack Moline, Farid

Iskandar, Matt McMillan, Petros Kusmu, Andrew McIntyre, Armin Escher, Hardave Birk, Duncan Wojtaszek, Rory Tighe, Dylan Jones, Andrew Williams, Julia Adolf, and Raphael Jacob. If we could give them the warm welcome of this Assembly.

The Speaker: The hon. Member for Medicine Hat.

Mr. Renner: Thank you, Mr. Speaker. As you know, behind every successful MLA is a strong support system at the constituency level. The key to that support system is the constituency office. Today I am very proud to introduce the person who has masterfully handled every constituency file that came across my desk for the past 14 years. As a matter of fact, I strongly suspect that when I leave office this spring, more people will miss her than will miss me. I'm proud to introduce to you and through you to all members of the Assembly Mrs. Allyson Sadden, constituency manager extraordinaire. She's accompanied today by her son Brooks, who is visiting the capital city for the first time. It may be of interest to you that Allyson and Brooks are the granddaughter and great-grandson of Canada's oldest citizen, Mrs. Cora Hansen, who celebrated her 113th birthday with the Premier and the Minister of Seniors last week. I would ask that they stand and be recognized by all members of the House.

1:40

The Speaker: The hon. Member for Innisfail-Sylvan Lake.

Mr. Ouellette: Thank you, Mr. Speaker. It gives me great pleasure to stand today and introduce to you and through you to all members of this Assembly a good friend of mine from Taber, Alberta, in the wonderful riding of the Member for Cardston-Taber-Warner. Back in my days in the oil patch I used to work with this gentleman. He has quite a large excavation company in Vauxhall, Alberta, and did hundreds of hours of work on the Academy of Baseball to help get that to fruition in Vauxhall, and everybody knows how successful that's been. After question period I plan on giving him a small tour of the Legislature. I'd ask him to stand and get a welcome from all of us here today. His name is Mr. Bob Miller.

The Speaker: Thank you.

The hon. Member for Calgary-Foothills.

Mr. Webber: Thank you, Mr. Speaker. I would like to introduce to you and through you to all members of the Assembly a wonderful family that I met with today in my office. They came up from Calgary to attend the rally at noon hour regarding Bill 2. We've got up in the audience here in the members' gallery Brad Osborne, Linda Osborne, and their son Kieran Osborne. I'd like them, please, to stand, which they're doing, and to accept the warm welcome of the Assembly.

The Speaker: The hon. Member for Lesser Slave Lake.

Ms Calahasen: Thank you very much, Mr. Speaker. I am pleased to introduce to you and through you to the members of this Assembly the Bergen family. They're home-schoolers from beautiful Kinuso. These family members are strong advocates for home-schooling, and I have appreciated their passion and advice that I've received on Bill 2. They know that they have a lot of life left in them, and I know that they teach their kids really well. We've met many times in the past to discuss this. They drove many miles to be here today. They are seated in the members' gallery, and I'd ask Patricia and Gary Bergen and their three very bright children, Angelina, Luke, and Teneille, to rise and receive the traditional warm welcome of this Assembly.

The Speaker: The hon. Member for Edmonton-Calder.

Mr. Elniski: Thank you, Mr. Speaker. It's a pleasure to rise today to introduce to you and through you to all members of the Assembly a group of people seated in the public gallery: Mr. Ted Boldt from the Kipnes Centre for Veterans; Mr. Emmett and Ms Terri Crossman, his son-in-law and daughter; Joanne Charchuk from the Norwood extended care centre; Pearl Rachinski from the Norwood extended care centre; Linda Ruggles, recreational therapist and bus driver extraordinaire; Elvira Mellott, the licensed practical nurse; and Bernadette DeSantis. I would ask them all to rise and receive the traditional warm greeting of the Assembly.

The Speaker: The hon. Member for Leduc-Beaumont-Devon.

Mr. Rogers: Thank you, Mr. Speaker. I'd like to introduce to you and through you to all members of this Assembly a group of constituents of mine that have come to the Legislature today to express their concerns and their interest in the debate on Bill 2, the Education Act. I don't believe they're here as yet, but I would like to acknowledge them for the record and ask that the members acknowledge them. They are Arlene Travnik and her children Joshua and Levi, from Leduc, and Connie Stollery and her children Amy, Derek, and Allyson, from the hamlet of Armena. I would ask that the members acknowledge their attendance here today.

Thank you.

The Speaker: Are there others? The hon. Member for Edmonton-Manning.

Mr. Sandhu: Thank you, Mr. Speaker. It's a pleasure to introduce to you and through you to all members of the Assembly a group of 32 future leaders in our province from one of my new schools, Dr. Donald Massey, in my constituency of Edmonton-Manning. They all enjoyed their visit here. The students are accompanied by their three teachers and one parent helper. I believe they're all sitting in the public gallery. I would ask them to please rise and receive the traditional warm welcome of this Assembly.

Members' Statements

The Speaker: The hon. Member for Edmonton-Calder.

Tribute to Long-term Care Residents

Mr. Elniski: Thank you, Mr. Speaker. They say that adversity is the mother of strength. I'm pleased today to celebrate with you a group of remarkable people who have taken adversity and proven that it can be a strength. Mrs. Pearl Rachinski is a 56-year-old mother of four, a former marathon runner, who suffered a traumatic car accident but who now continues to live her life thanks to the great care she receives at CapitalCare Norwood.

Joanne Charchuk, age 72, is legally blind but participates every year in the five-K walk for the brave by walking behind her wheelchair. She, too, lives at CapitalCare Norwood. She was the inspiration for me to have my business cards printed in Braille.

Ted Boldt is 89 years old. Ted is a veteran of both WWII and the Korean conflict. Ted resides at the Kipnes Centre for Veterans. We know each other quite well as Ted is a leader in the community and very active within the facility.

Each of these people, Mr. Speaker, last week participated in the Rick Hansen relays in Edmonton, Spruce Grove, and Stony Plain. Pearl, Joanne, and Ted are just three examples of people whose circumstances require that they live in long-term care. They live meaningful, purposeful lives with the support of the many caring and hard-working staff who look after them every day.

It is time, Mr. Speaker, to stop talking about beds when we talk about care. To accuse someone of being a bed blocker is a gross injustice that ignores the reality that life is more than a bed. Too often I have heard members talk of beds much in the same tone as is used to describe storage or parking, and frankly it is time for that to end. It is time to remember that no matter what limitations may be imposed by age, injury, or disease, people need more than beds; they need dignity and self-respect.

My guests today have limitations but none so much that they cannot make the best of what life has given them. As the MLA for both Norwood and Kipnes I want to thank their staff for their tireless efforts in ensuring the care and the utmost quality and promotion of the residents' self-respect that goes so far beyond beds and goes into making a life.

Thank you, Mr. Speaker.

The Speaker: The hon. Member for Calgary-Varsity.

Retrospective by the Member for Calgary-Varsity

Mr. Chase: Thank you. This being my last member's statement, as opposed to my last will and testament, I have a number of individuals I'd like to thank for the support they have given me not only in the last eight years as the elected Member of the Legislative Assembly for Calgary-Varsity but for many years of my life. I want to first acknowledge my father, Bryce Chase, who will turn 89 this year, for his unfaltering support and the service example he sets for me.

I want to thank my incredibly loving and patient wife of 43 years, Heather. Members of this House who have had to put up with me for only the past eight years can certainly empathize with and attest to Heather's fortitude.

I want to recognize the strength and loyalty of our daughter, Christina, who together with my wife, Heather, co-chaired our three campaigns and served as my first constituency executive assistant: boss.

I'm grateful for Vivek, Christina's loving husband and the wonderful father of our two terrific grandsons, Kiran and Rohan Warrior.

I want to recognize the tremendous work ethic and backup provided by my other constituency office boss, Linda Pushor, whose dedication extended well beyond the 9 to 4, Monday through Friday operational hours of our constituency office; and Debbie Puppato, who over the last year diligently supported both Linda's and my efforts.

I want to thank my caucus colleagues.

I want to especially thank the constituents of Calgary-Varsity, who looked beyond the trappings of party politics to choose an individual who they thought would best represent their values. My proudest democratic moment came on election day March 2008 when Calgary-Varsity constituents defied the provincial apathy that saw only 41.6 per cent of eligible Albertans bothering to cast a vote. Calgary-Varsity had the highest voter turnout in the city and among the highest in the province. Apathy is democracy's worst enemy. Hopefully, Calgary-Varsity's exemplary participation will become the provincial norm in the upcoming election.

It has been my honour and privilege to serve Calgary-Varsity.

Oral Question Period

The Speaker: First Official Opposition main question. The hon. Leader of the Official Opposition.

Postsecondary Education Costs

Dr. Sherman: Thank you, Mr. Speaker. Premier, welcome back. Societies that outeducate us today will outperform us tomorrow. The education of Albertans will determine the future prosperity of our province. In Alberta we have Canada's highest high school noncompletion rate and lowest postsecondary participation rate. This is because Alberta has the nation's highest tuition fees, highest noninstructional fees, a form of backdoor tuition that allows institutions to skirt government rules and tuition increases. To the Premier: will you please stop gouging our students and cap tuition and noninstructional fees charged by our institutions?

1:50

Ms Redford: Mr. Speaker, we have a fantastic education system in this province, whether it's infrastructure, whether it's programming, whether it's support for students, and I've very proud of that. It's going to mean the future of our province. Tuition is actually capped.

Dr. Sherman: Mr. Speaker, yes, we have a great education system if you can afford to go there.

Given that the Premier just said that we've capped tuition – Premier, I was referring to noninstructional fees as well – and given that capping these fees would only be a good start, would you follow the Alberta Liberal lead and create a postsecondary endowment fund to reduce and eventually eliminate tuition by 2025, starting with a $250 reduction in tuition and fees today?

Ms Redford: Mr. Speaker, as the hon. minister of advanced education has said, we have a very good working relationship with a lot of postsecondary students' organizations in this province. One of the things that I know I've certainly heard from them is that while it's important for the provincial government to invest in postsecondary education, which we do to a dramatic extent, it's also important for students to make a commitment to that. So as we manage that and balance which part students need to pay and which part institutions of government need to pay, we'll continue that dialogue with students.

The Speaker: The hon. leader.

Dr. Sherman: Thank you, Mr. Speaker. This is why I'm asking these questions, because of our students, who are sitting up above, the young who are going to go to university and the ones who are in university and colleges right now. Given that the extraordinarily high cost of living and of tuition is burdening our students with a crushing debt load in addition to nonrepayable grants, will you follow the Alberta Liberal lead and encourage students to stay and work in Alberta by forgiving 5 per cent of their student loans, or $1,000 of debt, each year that a student stays and works in Alberta?

Ms Redford: Well, Mr. Speaker, one of the very exciting things about Alberta right now is that not only are students staying in Alberta; there are more people coming to Alberta because of the economy, and that's a very good thing. We believe that one of the ways that it's most possible to attract people to continue to come and to stay is to make sure that we're creating a knowledge-based economy, that we're continuing to invest in postsecondary education, and that we're creating business and opportunities so that people can be gainfully employed.

The Speaker: Second Official Opposition main question. The hon. Leader of the Official Opposition.

Alleged Intimidation of Physicians

Dr. Sherman: Speaking of knowledge, Mr. Speaker, on Friday five physician representatives of Alberta's 7,200 doctors stood up to this current government and accused them of stonewalling the inconvenient truth of physician intimidation. They also spoke up about the intimidation of nurses, all front-line health care workers, teachers, and municipal officials, that echoed the AMA's demand to hold a public inquiry into physician intimidation. To the Premier: will you stop the slick lawyer talk and do what you promised and do what Albertans and the doctors expect and call a real public inquiry into physician intimidation?

Ms Redford: Mr. Speaker, first of all, I did exactly what I promised. We have an independent judicial inquiry with respect to queue-jumping, and I will say that over and over again.

Secondly, I was disappointed to see the comments by the doctors on Friday. Whether they may speculate on other professions or other career tracks, Mr. Speaker, I think that it's more appropriate for us to keep the conversation with respect to doctors. We've said that we understand and accept the fact that there are issues to deal with in Alberta Health Services with respect to doctor intimidation. We want to work with the college of physicians, with Alberta Health Services, and with the AMA to fix health care so that that doesn't happen.

Dr. Sherman: Mr. Speaker, given that this Premier just delivered us smoke and mirrors – Premier, you promised; Albertans expect it. Will you show the real-life leadership that Albertans deserve and admit that you blundered, you flip-flopped, and you broke your promise by keeping the issue of doctor intimidation out of the public health inquiry?

Ms Redford: Mr. Speaker, I made the commitment on June 13. We introduced the legislation in the fall. We have an independent judicial inquiry. I kept my promise.

The Speaker: The hon. leader.

Dr. Sherman: Thank you, Mr. Speaker. The Premier made the commitment and broke it the day after she got elected.

Given that the health minister's own Health Quality Council of Alberta's report clearly states that there's "a culture of fear [and] intimidation" and "bureaucratic and political interference" and a "blurring of lines" of authority, Premier, as an educated and intelligent person would you not agree that it would make sense to identify those who created the unjust culture and remove them from the system?

Ms Redford: Mr. Speaker, I think it's quite interesting that the hon. member will selectively quote from the report. There was another reference in that report, and what it said was that while there was doctor intimidation identified, it was not appropriate to have a judicial inquiry, that what we had to do was fix health care. And that is what we are doing.

The Speaker: Third Official Opposition main question. The hon. Leader of the Official Opposition.

Dr. Sherman: Mr. Speaker, the Premier is ducking and jiving, so let's move on.

AIMCo Investments

Dr. Sherman: Five years ago Leo de Bever, the man entrusted with managing $70 billion worth of Alberta's heritage, pension, and other funds, kicked off an investment for his Australian employers and eventually lost them half a billion dollars. A subsequent legal investigation showed that the investment in a discounted life insurance policy, a death fund, was very poorly researched and rushed through without treasury approval. Now Mr. de Bever has quietly asked the Premier to allow AIMCo to start borrowing money in order to raise its rate of return. Why is this man . . .

The Speaker: The hon. minister.

Mr. Liepert: Mr. Speaker, I happen to have in front of me, I guess, sort of a news release from the hon. Leader of the Opposition making some accusations about the government giving AIMCo the authority to borrow funds. I can't for the life of me figure out where he's getting this information from, but I suspect what he is doing is confusing it with an order in council that we passed which allowed us to increase the cap on the amount of money we borrow for the Alberta Municipal Financing Corporation and the Agriculture Financial Services Corporation. I think he's linking the two together, so I'm not quite sure what information he's referring to.

The Speaker: The hon. leader.

Dr. Sherman: Thank you, Mr. Speaker. Just so Albertans are sure of what's happening with their hard-earned money and their pension funds, to the Premier: what controls are in place to ensure that Alberta's heritage fund and the pension funds, that thousands of people rely on for stability, will not be invested in schemes like death funds?

Mr. Liepert: Mr. Speaker, the legislation has established that AIMCo clearly answers all of the questions that were just raised. I'm not going to repeat the legislation, but as the hon. member would know, we have a board, that is highly respected, that oversees the operations of AIMCo. We have international management that runs the investment arm of AIMCo. I've got great confidence. All of the investments are vetted through this Legislature, so I don't think there's any reason to be concerned.

The Speaker: The hon. leader.

Dr. Sherman: Thank you, Mr. Speaker. Given that AIMCo's CEO wants you to let him borrow money to invest in an attempt to increase AIMCo's returns, Premier, will you just admit that this is wrong, irresponsible, and risky and just say no?

Mr. Liepert: Well, Mr. Speaker, this particular member must be having conversations that I'm not aware of because I have a conversation quite regularly with the CEO of AIMCo, and that issue of borrowing money has never come up. So I just have to believe that this is another one of these situations where the member is throwing out an unfounded allegation in this Legislature.

The Speaker: The hon. Member for Calgary-Fish Creek.

Alleged Intimidation of Physicians (continued)

Mrs. Forsyth: Thank you, Mr. Speaker. Over the weekend the medical staff association spoke of the need for an inquiry into physician intimidation. Dr. Maybaum said that this issue has simply been brushed aside as an inconvenient truth on the eve of an election, and he's called for a tsunami of change. How does the health minister then respond? He follows the Premier's lead and shrugs the issue off as being overly politicized. Is the Premier just going to keep ignoring our doctors and throwing them aside, or is she going to do the right thing and finally call a full, judge-led public inquiry into the bullying of our doctors?

Ms Redford: Mr. Speaker, the Health Quality Council report has been very clear in identifying the fact that we have these issues. That's the reason this hon. member can stand up in the House every day and make these suggestions. We are not denying the fact that we need to do work to resolve issues in the health care system. We think it's important for the government, Alberta Health Services, the college, and the AMA to come together constructively to do just that. [interjections]

Mrs. Forsyth: Premier, what you need to do is step up to the plate and do the right thing.

Given that an extensive culture of fear and intimidation exists throughout this government and given that the AMA, the MSA, and Albertans are screaming for an inquiry into physician intimidation, when is the Premier going to admit that the terms of reference for her inquiry are completely backwards and that it ignores the most important issues impacting our health care system?

2:00

Ms Redford: Mr. Speaker, the day that we announced the judicial inquiry with respect to queue-jumping, the discussion started with respect to why it didn't include doctor intimidation. My first response was because our commitment was to have a judicial inquiry with respect to queue-jumping, and as I have said over and over again in this House, the reason you need to have an inquiry is if you are trying to determine the facts. [interjections] We accept the facts, and we're going to fix health care in partnership with doctors.

Speaker's Ruling Decorum

The Speaker: I heard a number of words that were echoed there during that last exchange, and I would remind members that there is always a place for civility and decorum in the Legislative Assembly of the province of Alberta. This is not a place where we should expect anything less. If an hon. member believes strongly in what he or she is saying, they may always rise on a point of privilege and deal with such a matter.

Alleged Intimidation of Physicians (continued)

Mrs. Forsyth: Premier, the facts are that you're doing what you want to do, not what Albertans want.

Given that Dr. Maybaum said that what physicians and health care workers want is some sort of truth, an acknowledgement of what's happened, and a steadfast desire that we are going to change, how can the Premier possibly think that not calling an inquiry into physician intimidation is moving forward?

Ms Redford: Mr. Speaker, Dr. Maybaum said a number of things that are important in terms of what we need to do in order to fix health care, and we're looking forward to working with physicians to fix the system, but to presume that the only way to fix the system is to call an independent judicial inquiry, which will do nothing more than delay the process and not allow us to get on with fixing health care, doesn't make sense.

The Speaker: The hon. Member for Edmonton-Highlands-Norwood.

Mr. Mason: Thank you very much, Mr. Speaker. This Premier is the master of delaying tactics.

Electricity Exports

Mr. Mason: Two power companies, Direct Energy and Capital Power from Edmonton, have applied for approval for a massive export of electricity to the United States equivalent to two-thirds of Alberta's total consumption. Most of this electricity would potentially come from Alberta and would tie us into the western U.S. grid and market. To the Premier: does the government of Alberta support this application or not, and if not, will it take measures to prevent the mass export of Alberta power to the United States?

Mr. Liepert: Mr. Speaker, I'll answer that question. You know, we had the same kind of question I think it was a year or two ago by, I think, probably the same member or sidekick over there relative to another company that filed an application with the National Energy Board. This is a process that companies have the right to go through. It has absolutely nothing to do with exporting power. As this hon. member knows, Alberta is a net importer of power, not a net exporter, and it's only going to get worse as we move forward unless we get these transmission lines built.

The Speaker: The hon. member.

Mr. Mason: Thank you very much, Mr. Speaker. Given that the minister is completely wrong and that this is specifically an application for a massive export of electricity largely from Alberta to the United States, I will ask the question: has the government done any analysis regarding the export of this power on Alberta electricity prices in the future, and if so, what are the results, and if not, why not?

Mr. Liepert: Well, Mr. Speaker, the analysis that we've done is not this kind of bogeyman analysis but analysis of what are going to be the requirements of Alberta. With this economic growth that we're experiencing and will likely continue to experience over the next decade, it's going to be a question of: where do we get the power to fuel this economic growth? That's why the whole issue around transmission is so critical to us maintaining our industrial base. We will, I am sure, be requiring more power generation in the future, not less.

The Speaker: The hon. member.

Mr. Mason: Thank you very much, Mr. Speaker. Well, given that I specifically asked twice about the government's position relative to massive exports of power from Alberta to the United States and that twice the minister has absolutely avoided answering the question, my question to the minister and to the Premier, in fact, is: what is it that you're hiding over there?

Mr. Liepert: Well, Mr. Speaker, we're not hiding anything. That's what I tried to answer in the first couple of questions. Alberta has an economy that is the envy of the world. We also have a situation where much of our generation is threatened because we're heavily coal based. We're going to have to be searching wherever we can for the generation of power in this province. We're going to have to move it around. Whether it's cogeneration at the oil sands or wind in southern Alberta, we have to move it to where it's required, so the least likelihood that there will be any export of power.

Noninstructional Postsecondary Tuition Fees

Dr. Taft: Mr. Speaker, the minister of advanced education has brought in so-called best practices for postsecondary institutions to follow before they charge mandatory noninstructional fees to students, but frankly students are disappointed and angry with these. Since it is students who are forced to pay these fees, why didn't the minister protect the interests of the students and require student approval of mandatory noninstructional fees?

The Speaker: The hon. minister.

Mr. Weadick: Well, thank you, Mr. Speaker. Yes, mandatory noninstructional fees are an important issue, and we continue to work with our postsecondaries to find a solution. Each of our postsecondaries is a little bit different, and they're looking for policies that would work within their institutions. I have a number of copies of the best practices here. This is what we've suggested that they do.

- All mandatory non-instructional fees need to be clearly identified . . .
- Each institutional mandatory non-instructional fee is to fund specific identifiable services for the students.

Dr. Taft: That was a pretty empty answer, Mr. Speaker, so let's try another one. Given that the so-called best practices accepted by the minister will allow universities to start charging students extra for services that are already provided, why didn't the minister require that these new extra fees cover new extra services?

The Speaker: The hon. minister.

Mr. Weadick: Thank you, Mr. Speaker. What I just read says exactly that, that these fees will cover exactly that, services directly provided to students, clear and open and transparent so that students know what they're going to be paying for, know what the fees are for, have an opportunity for input into those fees as they meet with the boards of governors and are met with to determine what those fees should look like.

The Speaker: The hon. member.

Dr. Taft: Well, thanks, Mr. Speaker. Given that the minister in his earlier answer conceded that these best practices are really just suggestions, if he believes that they actually are best practices, then why doesn't he make them mandatory, or is he not interested in his institutions delivering best practices?

The Speaker: The hon. minister.

Mr. Weadick: Well, thank you, Mr. Speaker. I'll file the copies of the best practices with the House because I am reading from them. We have actually said that all of our institutions must have these best practices placed into policies by the end of March for our review so that we can ensure that they have these best practices as part of the policy around their institutions and how they'll handle all fees.

The Speaker: The hon. Member for Edmonton-Beverly-Clareview, followed by the hon. Member for Calgary-Varsity.

Home-schooling

Mr. Vandermeer: Thank you, Mr. Speaker. Many of my constituents are parents who choose to educate their children at home, making a conscious decision to do so. They are making the right choice for their family. My question is to the Minister of Education. Will this minister and this government uphold the freedoms and liberties of parents who decide to home educate their children?

Mr. Lukaszuk: Well, it's a good question, Mr. Speaker. There is a reason why my family moved to this country and this province, including myself, and it is to enjoy the rights that we get to enjoy in this province. There is also a reason why I feel so strongly about choices in education, because not only am I the Minister of Education, but I'm also a parent of a school-age child. There is nothing more important to me and, I imagine, all members of this House than giving parents the choice and the ability to teach what they want, when they want, and where they want without any interference from government.

Mr. Vandermeer: Mr. Speaker, my second question is to the same minister. Given that parental and family choice on topics such as religion or human sexuality is absolutely fundamental, can this minister assure all parents that in the context of religious or ethical education children are the responsibility of their parents, not the provincial government or you, the Minister of Education?

Mr. Lukaszuk: Mr. Speaker, I have a hard time parenting my own two children; I would not want to parent anybody else's children. The fact is that, yes, parents have the paramount responsibility of teaching religion, of teaching morality, and of teaching cultural values. That has always been the practice in this province and will always continue to be the practice in this province.

2:10

Mr. Vandermeer: Back to the same minister. Allow me to ask this question bluntly and without equivocation. Is there any intention at all to change any aspect of parental choice in this province? Yes or no?

Mr. Lukaszuk: No, not whatsoever.

The Speaker: The hon. Member for Calgary-Varsity, followed by the hon. Member for Edmonton-Ellerslie.

Long-term Care Accommodation Rates

Mr. Chase: Thank you, Mr. Speaker. After finding her sitting soiled, crying out in agony, her family transferred 80-year-old Grace Denyer from a public to a private continuing care facility, Tranquility Care Homes. From there she was evicted on February 21, her family unable to afford the extra $1,500 a month charged to her care for advanced Alzheimer's. To the Minister of Seniors: how is it that such facilities are able to increase their monthly fees by 43 per cent and without notice?

The Speaker: The hon. minister.

Mr. VanderBurg: Thank you, Mr. Speaker. All the facilities that we license and that we fund have a cap of $1,700 maximum. I'm not lifting that cap either.

Mr. Chase: Well, obviously, this organization ignored the cap, and you didn't enforce it.

Why has Tranquility Care Homes, a licensed group home, been allowed to advertise itself as being capable of providing long-term care services? Where is the regulation?

Mr. VanderBurg: Mr. Speaker, I did have a report from my staff that they were advertising – this is a private facility – as a long-term care facility. They are not, and they shouldn't be allowed to, and we are investigating this.

The Speaker: The hon. member.

Mr. Chase: Thank you. You might want to check out their advertisements.

How many more seniors must be evicted from the care they need before this government fully commits itself to properly resourcing publicly funded and publicly delivered long-term care?

Mr. VanderBurg: Well, I've made it very clear, Mr. Speaker, that whether it be a community, whether it be a foundation or a private facility, I'm willing to partner with whoever would like to provide the standards and accommodations and facilities for our seniors. I have some very, very clear marching orders from the Premier, and the Premier and all our caucus are adamant that we are going to form a thousand new spaces across this province each and every year over the next five years. I'll partner with the right people.

The Speaker: The hon. Member for Edmonton-Ellerslie, followed by the hon. Member for Calgary-Buffalo.

Noninstructional Postsecondary Tuition Fees (continued)

Mr. Bhardwaj: Thank you very much, Mr. Speaker. The Council of Alberta University Students has recently met with a number of MLAs. One of the topics they have been discussing is noninstructional fees. My fellow MLAs and I have been hearing these concerns from students about this government's approach to managing noninstructional fees for quite some time. My questions are to the Minister of Advanced Education and Technology. Does the government truly intend to keep its promise and make postsecondary a priority, and what action is being taken to address these students' concerns?

The Speaker: The hon. minister.

Mr. Weadick: Well, thank you, Mr. Speaker. This Premier and our government did promise to make postsecondary education a priority. We have listened to our students, and that's why I have required all of my postsecondary institutions to develop formal policies around noninstructional fees and formal policies around consultation with students. We also require that they present these policies to my department so that we can ensure that students' concerns are being met.

The Speaker: The hon. member.

Mr. Bhardwaj: Thank you very much, Mr. Speaker. My next question to the same minister. You had asked postsecondary institutions for their noninstructional fee policies, some of which the students don't fully agree with. Did all postsecondary institutions reply, and if so, what exactly were the responses to address students' specific concerns?

The Speaker: The hon. minister.

Mr. Weadick: Thank you, Mr. Speaker. We did receive policies from all of our public postsecondary institutions, and we found that the policies did vary quite a bit and that they were not good enough. We believe we can do better around these fees, so we've met with the presidents and board chairs of all of our institutions to discuss the best practices. We've compiled a review, and we're working with our institutions to ensure we have appropriate policies to deal with this issue.

The Speaker: The hon. member.

Mr. Bhardwaj: Thank you very much, Mr. Speaker. My final question to the same minister: when do postsecondary institutions intend to implement these policies so that our students can finally see some results?

The Speaker: The hon. minister.

Mr. Weadick: Thank you, Mr. Speaker. We have told our institutions that we expect revised policies from all of our institutions by the end of March so that these policies can be in place before the upcoming school year.

The Speaker: The hon. Member for Calgary-Buffalo, followed by the hon. Member for Calgary-East.

Education Funding

Mr. Hehr: Thank you, Mr. Speaker. The Education minister has made much ado about his recent budget, but the facts get in the way of his rhetoric. To the Minister of Education: how is it that there are 480 fewer teachers in Alberta schools right now than there were this time last year?

Mr. Lukaszuk: Mr. Speaker, the member well knows that the day-to-day operations of schools and school boards are done by trustees. I know that we are committed to our classroom sizes. As a matter of fact, we are batting below the recommended classroom size average. I know that there are pressures in some classes that are being addressed. But I also would like to remind this member that recently under the Premier's directive we have reinjected an additional $107 million, which now is replicated in the next three budgets, for hiring teachers.

Mr. Hehr: Well, given that your new budget reads like an insurance policy in that what the large print giveth, the small print taketh away, are you not well aware that your 1 per cent increase for teachers' salaries and classroom operations will lead to fewer teachers in the classroom next September?

Mr. Lukaszuk: Well, I know, Mr. Speaker, that the Liberal opposition is awaiting a big windfall of taxpayers' dollars because they want to tax some more, but let me tell you about the big print and the small print. This budget is increasing from $6.8 billion to $7.1 billion over the next three years, spending on average some $36 million per school day. If that is small print or blueprint and irrelevant, then I think they will have to tax more. We believe that we fund education very well compared to any other province in this country.

Mr. Hehr: I'd just like to ask the minister again what kind of fantasy world he was in when he crafted the budget, giving a 1 per cent raise to teachers' salaries. In order to make this budget, will the minister admit that either (a) the budget is wrong or that (b) he's going to have to keep teachers out on strike in order to make his budget a reality?

Mr. Lukaszuk: Well, Mr. Speaker, sometimes I do think that I live in a fantasy world when I'm being told by world-renowned organizations that we are in the top four education systems in the world. I also think that I sometimes live in a fantasy when I'm being told by parents that they get to exercise more choice than in any other province in Canada. I'm also being told that we fund education higher than any other province on a per student basis. This is a great fantasy. It's a fantasy for students. We will continue to be committed to our students and make sure that they get this kind of education.

The Speaker: The hon. Member for Calgary-East, followed by the hon. Member for Edmonton-Strathcona.

Education Property Taxes

Mr. Amery: Thank you, Mr. Speaker. Many of my constituents have expressed deep concern about the education property tax requisition for 2012-13. As a matter of fact, the Calgary city council is saying that they are forced to dip into a savings account to offset the province's take. Can the Minister of Municipal Affairs explain why the city of Calgary is required or forced to do that?

Mr. Griffiths: Mr. Speaker, the city is not required to do it, but I applaud them for it. Quite frankly, we lowered the education portion of property tax rates last year in anticipation of leaving $42 million in the hands of property taxpayers. The city chose not to pass that down and kept it. Now they're accessing the fund that they created with that money and passing it on to taxpayers. I think it's the right thing to do, and I applaud them for it.

The Speaker: The hon. member.

Mr. Amery: Thank you, Mr. Speaker. Can the minister explain to my constituents and to all Calgarians if the city of Calgary taxpayers pay more in education property taxes than the school boards receive?

Mr. Griffiths: No, Mr. Speaker. In fact, all of the education property taxes collected in the province only pay for 30 per cent of our education system. In Calgary, in particular, it's just over $600 million that's collected in education property taxes, and the two school boards in Calgary alone get close to $1.4 billion, so it's hardly half of the education system funding that the province provides.

The Speaker: The hon. member.

Mr. Amery: Thank you, Mr. Speaker. Again to the same minister: can the minister inform Albertans if the province is needing and collecting more money this year than last year from Albertans to pay for education?

Mr. Griffiths: Mr. Speaker, I've said many times in this House – and I'll say it again – that the property tax rates remain the same, unchanged from last year. The growth in the value of properties, the growth in the number of properties has generated more revenue, but every single dollar of that revenue goes to support the best education system in the world.

The Speaker: The hon. Member for Edmonton-Strathcona, followed by the hon. Member for Calgary-Mountain View.

2:20

School Capital Construction

Ms Notley: Thank you, Mr. Speaker. On Thursday the Minister of Education said that small schools will stay open as long as there are enough children to keep the program viable, but the Edmonton public school board has some, quote, tough decisions to make. In Edmonton public there are 76 schools that the province calls small schools, and of those, the ministry says that only 33 are small schools by necessity. To the minister: based on these numbers, is the minister of the view that 43 of the so-called small schools in Edmonton should be closed?

Mr. Lukaszuk: Mr. Speaker, well, yes, Edmonton public school board does have some difficult decisions to make because they have some 40,000 vacant seats, frankly, enough empty space to accommodate the entire Catholic school system in their empty classrooms. At the same time they have challenges because they have kids where they don't have schools, and they have schools where they don't have kids. But closures should only be considered when there aren't enough students to have a viable educational program. It's all about education. It's all about the kids in the classroom. As long as the program is viable and adequate, schools should remain open.

Ms Notley: Mr. Speaker, given that the Edmonton public school board just approved a capital plan that prioritizes a request for upgrades to six older schools followed by a request for two new schools and given that the minister has been heard to suggest that upgrading old schools is not cost-effective and that new schools are preferred, can the minister tell this House whether he will respect the request made by the local school board or whether he would rather have the older schools close in favour of newer ones?

Mr. Lukaszuk: Mr. Speaker, this is an ongoing dialogue between my office and that of school boards, and as long it focuses on what is best for the children in the classroom – that is the business we're in; we're in the business of educating our children and providing them with the best education possible – this dialogue will continue. If education can be delivered at the high level that we're accustomed to, there is no reason to close schools.

Ms Notley: Mr. Speaker, given that the minister has suggested that the school board would be provided with a new school for every three or four schools closed, is it the minister's intention to hold the children and their families hostage to the province's historical failure to fund school infrastructure by forcing school boards to close schools in the city centre to qualify for the new schools required as a result of predictable population growth?

Mr. Lukaszuk: Mr. Speaker, a needless use of very strong and inappropriate language. The fact is that we will continue collaborating with school boards, with parents, with teachers, making sure that they have the critical mass of students so that they can provide students with proper and adequate education. We will be looking at capacity of schools, we'll be looking at the number of children they have in the schools, and those decisions will be made on a per school basis, only using the criteria of quality of education.

The Speaker: The hon. Member for Calgary-Mountain View, followed by the hon. Member for Calgary-Mackay.

Primary Care Networks

Dr. Swann: Thank you, Mr. Speaker. Recently the minister of health unilaterally imposed a one-year payment on the province's doctors, including after nine years of no increase the equivalent of a cost-of-living increase for the primary care networks. On this they're supposed to expand their services to the public. He also talks about restoring a, quote, just culture, end quote, for staff working in the health system. Does the minister not see how hypocritical these sentiments are in light of his arbitrary actions?

Mr. Horne: Mr. Speaker, this is hardly a question of policy, but what I will tell the hon. member is that we have continued our negotiations with the Alberta Medical Association and Alberta Health Services on a new agreement. Those are progressing extremely well. I had the opportunity to speak to the Representative Forum of the AMA last Friday. We discussed many of these issues and others as well, and I'm hopeful that we will have something to further communicate in the near future.

Dr. Swann: Well, I'm surprised at the minister not seeing primary care networks as an issue of policy.

Adding further insult, Alberta Health Services is asking physicians to sign contracts allowing employers the right to dismissal without cause. How does this reflect a move to a more just culture?

Mr. Horne: Mr. Speaker, I have no idea what the hon. member is talking about with respect to his last statement.

If he is interested in our policy regarding primary health care, I can tell him, as I have told him before, that PCNs are a very, very important part of that future. We are in discussions with the AMA about how to further enhance and support the work of primary care networks across Alberta. There are over 40 in place today. There are 2.8 million Albertans who live in communities served by PCNs.

Dr. Swann: Exactly my point, Mr. Speaker. Why not strengthen them instead of giving them a cost-of-living increase?

Will the minister follow the Alberta Liberal policy and strengthen PCNs appropriately and ensure that all Albertans have access to a family doctor?

Mr. Horne: Mr. Speaker, this government will take its suggestions for how to improve primary care networks from our family doctors and the other professionals who work with them in teams on a day-to-day basis. As I think the hon. member well knows, there is much innovation that has been supported by government working in collaboration with our primary care networks, our doctors, the nurse practitioners, and other professionals. We have every intention of continuing to build on that in the future.

The Speaker: The hon. Member for Calgary-Mackay, followed by the hon. Member for Airdrie-Chestermere.

Education Consultation

Ms Woo-Paw: Thank you, Mr. Speaker. The delivery of education is top of mind for many Albertans. Parents play a critical role in a child's education. They are their child's first teacher and a key source of information about what is working and what is not working in the child's learning. My first question is to the Minister of Education. We talk a lot about parents as partners in education. How is the government engaging parents?

The Speaker: The hon. minister.

Mr. Lukaszuk: Thank you, Mr. Speaker. Actually, it's a good day to ask this question because today I will be having yet another teleconference forum with our parents. Last time we had one, over 1,000 parents called in to this town hall meeting on the telephone.

I also wanted to let you know, Mr. Speaker, that we will be formalizing the partnership between the minister's office and parents so that parents can not only contribute to policy development while the act is being reviewed but will be able to contribute to policy development on an ongoing basis from now on.

Ms Woo-Paw: My second question is to the same minister. It's great that we're providing passive information, but parents also expect a more active kind of communication with their government. How is the minister ensuring that this is happening?

Mr. Lukaszuk: Mr. Speaker, two things are already happening. One, I have committed to having ongoing town hall meetings via telephone with parents. As I said earlier, over 1,000 parents called in, and we're having great discussions. The benefit is that parents get to hear each other and discuss with me. Also, I have instituted a newsletter right now that reaches every school in every corner of the province, where parents now get to communicate directly with the minister's office. That is something that is unprecedented, and it actually generates very good debate and discussion, and some creative ideas are stemming from that.

Ms Woo-Paw: Given that we already have important organizations like the Alberta School Councils' Association, how does this new council differ?

Mr. Lukaszuk: Well, Mr. Speaker, this new council will have direct input on policy development in the minister's office, and we'll have continuous dialogue. It will be representative of parents from across the province, and it will enhance the dialogue between the parent community from all sectors of schooling in this province and the minister's office.

Alberta Human Rights Act

Mr. Anderson: Mr. Speaker, some of the worst human rights violations of free speech and freedom of religion in Canada over the past decade or so have been at the hands of the Alberta human rights tribunal under section 3 of the Human Rights Act. This Premier during the PC leadership told several media outlets that "section 3 of the Alberta Human Rights Act should be repealed." To the Premier: that's a pretty clear promise. Are you breaking yet another promise that you made in order to get elected PC leader?

Mr. Olson: Mr. Speaker, thank you to the member for the question. I will remind the member that in my mandate letter the Premier asked me to investigate whether we should repeal or amend section 3 of Human Rights Act. I've had responsibility for the Human Rights Act for about four or five months now. Work is under way to review not only section 3, but I want to have an understanding of how the Human Rights Commission is operating. I would just ask the hon. member to stay tuned. I'm working on it.

Mr. Anderson: She said that she would repeal section 3, not review it. It's called telling the truth.

Given the outpouring of opposition to Bill 2 by thousands of parents across this province who are very concerned that parts of Bill 2 trample on the paramount rights of parents over choices involving their children's education, why will you not now get rid of section 3 of the Alberta Human Rights Act and also amend Bill 2 to protect the human rights of Alberta's parents? Why will you not listen to their concerns?

Mr. Olson: Mr. Speaker, I would also point out to the hon. member and to all of my colleagues here that the Alberta Court of Appeal is currently considering section 3. As well, there is a case out of Saskatchewan before the Supreme Court of Canada on virtually the same language as is in section 3, and I would like to see what the Supreme Court of Canada has to say about this section.

Mr. Anderson: It's called leadership. Just repeal it.

Given that this Premier has broken her promise to call a public inquiry into doctor intimidation and to set a fixed election date and to stop the north-south power lines and to not raise taxes and given that now she is breaking her word on repealing section 3 of the Human Rights Act, is there any reason why any Albertan should trust her to keep her promise to protect free speech or to protect the human rights of parents? Start keeping your promises.

Mr. Horner: Mr. Speaker, it's unfortunate that the hon. member has trouble with the truth himself. This Premier has kept every one of the promises that she had made during the leadership race. This Premier has made an effort on all of those fronts, as we've just heard from the Minister of Justice. It's unfortunate that there would be that kind of misinformation presented in this House.

2:30 High-speed Internet Service for Rural Alberta

Mr. Ouellette: Mr. Speaker, given that the SuperNet has been around for a dozen years or so now, my constituents would like to know why it is taking this government so long to provide access to high-speed Internet service across the province. When will the remaining unserved rural communities finally get this essential service, which many in this province and around the world take for granted? To the Minister of Service Alberta.

The Speaker: The hon. minister.

Mr. Bhullar: Thank you very much, Mr. Speaker. We know this member is very passionate about everything high tech. We are delivering on Premier Redford's commitment to ensure that at least 98 per cent of Albertans have access to this vital service. This morning I announced that up to $900,000 will be made available to provide satellite Internet service to rural Alberta in low-density, remote areas. In addition, $9.5 million will be available to work with Internet service providers.

The Speaker: The hon. minister knows he made an error in his statement.

The hon. member, please.

Mr. Ouellette: Mr. Speaker, that's pretty good to hear.

I know that people in here are wondering why I don't just lean over my desk and ask the hon. minister the question. I have to tell you that this is very important to our constituents out in rural Alberta, and they need to hear these answers. Will the services delivered by the initiative cover the entire province or only parts of the province?

The Speaker: The hon. minister.

Mr. Bhullar: Thank you, Mr. Speaker. I'll let the member decide if he wants to try and lean over. I won't go any further with that.

This funding, Mr. Speaker, will cover a vast portion of Alberta. Of course, we'll still have some areas in the province that have issues, like infills where geography is a challenge. We will address those issues as well. We will look at all of that. That's part of the plan. It's been a four-step plan. In the last five months we've made a lot of progress, and we are going to make sure that all of Alberta is connected.

Mr. Ouellette: Well, Mr. Minister, are you going to be able to justify the cost, given that your program is connecting relatively very few rural households?

The Speaker: The hon. minister.

Mr. Bhullar: Thank you, Mr. Speaker. Every single one of our rural households is very important to us. They deserve high-speed Internet access. They deserve access to the world at their fingertips. That's what we are delivering on. We are leveraging and working with our private-sector partners to make sure that we get the best value for our dollars.

The Speaker: The hon. Member for Calgary-McCall, followed by the hon. Member for Calgary-Nose Hill.

Workforce Employment Services

Mr. Kang: Thank you, Mr. Speaker. The government recently announced amendments to the employment agency business licensing regulations, that are to come into effect on September 1. My questions are to the Minister of Service Alberta. Why is the government making it expressly illegal for employment agencies to intimidate or threaten individuals seeking work, but it won't do anything about its own intimidation of health care workers? Why the double standard?

The Speaker: The hon. minister.

Mr. Bhullar: Thank you, Mr. Speaker. I didn't know the hon. member across the way had a problem with me protecting people in east Calgary. These are people that deserve our protection. They are families that have put their dollars on the line to sponsor people to come over from places like India, the Philippines, and Vietnam, and we are acting to protect them. The hon. member should be consistent on what he says in this House and what he says back in northeast Calgary.

The Speaker: The hon. member.

Mr. Kang: Thank you, Mr. Speaker. I'm speaking about all Albertans. I'm not speaking about just a few temporary foreign workers. I'm speaking for all Albertans.

Given that the province's temporary foreign worker advisory office is supposed to advise foreign workers on their rights yet exploitation and misstatements have continued to be a problem, are these amendments an acknowledgement that the temporary foreign worker advisory office either isn't doing its job properly or the government is not doing enough to promote the services provided by that offices? To the minister again.

The Speaker: The hon. minister.

Mr. Bhullar: Thank you, Mr. Speaker. The fact is that Alberta has one of the most robust economies of any jurisdiction in Canada, in North America, and in the world, and we are a destination where people want to be. This is the land of opportunity. With that, we know that there have been some employment agencies that have acted in ways that do not represent the best of us. We're taking action to make sure we are prepared for the next boom, which is right around the corner because of this government's actions, and ensuring that nobody will be taken advantage of.

The Speaker: The hon. member.

Mr. Kang: Thank you, Mr. Speaker. To the minister again: given that the government has demonstrated its willingness to license all sorts of businesses, including employment agencies and home inspections for resale properties, why won't it adapt the most basic homeowner protection measure by requiring residential builders to be licensed as well?

Mr. Bhullar: Mr. Speaker, I'm continuously looking for more ways and new ways to protect Albertans. We have a wide variety of initiatives that we're working on today. For example, I'm the first minister in Canada to approach the federal government to say that we need more protection for cellphone consumers in Canada. We're leading the way. We always seek new ways to ensure that we protect Albertans, and I'll look at the member's considerations.

Restorative Justice

Dr. Brown: Mr. Speaker, Alberta remand centres and jails are filled to capacity while there seems to be more and more demand for mandatory minimum sentences. However, for many persons convicted of personal and property crimes, incarceration alone is not effective. It does little to hold offenders accountable for the wrong they're doing, and it does little to help victims heal. My question is for the Solicitor General and Minister of Public Security. What is your department doing to advance and support organizations that can deliver restorative justice and that can have a positive impact both on the victim and on the offender?

The Speaker: The hon. minister

Mr. Denis: Thank you very much, Mr. Speaker. After the last exchange I'm very happy to talk about restorative justice. Restorative justice is an important program throughout the province. It does provide assistance to victims first of all but also some positive aspects to offenders. Just this last Friday the Minister of Justice and Attorney General and I announced $351,000 of funding for this program in this province.

Dr. Brown: To the same minister: can he provide some specific instances where restorative justice works in the system?

Mr. Denis: Well, Mr. Speaker, I could talk for half an hour, but I'll do it for 45 seconds. I met with a gentleman named J.J. Beauchamp from the Innisfail Restorative Justice Society, and he informed me of a case where there were 120 graves knocked down in Innisfail. In particular, the offenders had to do research about the people whose names were on these gravestones and actually apologize to their families as a result of this.

Dr. Brown: My second supplemental is for the Minister of Justice and Attorney General. Can the minister advise how restorative justice programs work with the safe communities initiative and the justice system in general?

The Speaker: The hon. minister.

Mr. Olson: Well, thank you, Mr. Speaker. The safe communities initiative talks a lot about balance. As important as enforcement is, early intervention, prevention, and innovative approaches are also a big part of the safe communities initiative. Restorative justice is very consistent with that kind of an approach, and restorative justice organizations are really crucial in not only assisting victims of crime but also engaging with the perpetrators of those crimes to get them, maybe for the first time, to consider the impact of their actions.

The Speaker: The hon. Member for Edmonton-Centre.

Sand and Gravel Extraction Management

Ms Blakeman: Thanks very much, Mr. Speaker. Gravel is big business in Alberta, we think, but it's a bit tricky to know quite how big given this government's continuing failure to track it. The government has no real way to track what is being taken from the ground so has no clue about what kind of revenue is due. As we have seen with the oil and gas infrastructure, this government has no idea how much Albertans will be on the hook for in the reclamation of gravel sites in the future. To the Minister of Sustainable Resource Development: why is this government unwilling to ensure that Albertans are getting their fair share from this resource?

Mr. Oberle: I have to tell you, Mr. Speaker, that I disagree with absolutely everything the member said in her preamble. We are certainly very much interested in making sure that Albertans get their fair share of revenues from resource extraction.

The Speaker: The hon. member.

Ms Blakeman: Thanks again. Back to the same minister: when this ministry is allowing access to public lands for extraction of gravel, why does it continue to ignore its responsibility in regard to reclamation? You're not doing inspections, you're not collecting appropriate amounts for security, and you're not checking to see if reclamation is being done.

2:40

Mr. Oberle: Again, Mr. Speaker, I agree with absolutely nothing in that preamble. That's just simply not true.

Ms Blakeman: Well, it's a shame that the Auditor General – well, actually, it's a shame for the government. I'm glad that the Auditor General agrees with me, not the government. He has been raising these concerns for years, not a couple but many years. What steps has this minister taken to ensure that the free-for-all that is happening with gravel development doesn't continue for another day?

Mr. Oberle: Mr. Speaker, if the hon. member could point me to the part of the Auditor General's report that says that the government is not doing any measurement of gravel and no monitoring and has no idea what's happening out there, then I'd be happy to address it. But that's not, in fact, what the report says. We do work with the Auditor General, and there's always room for improvement, but this is a well-managed resource, and the province is looking after the resource.

The Speaker: Hon. members, 19 members today raised 57 questions, which led to 57 responses.

We'll continue with the Routine momentarily.

Members' Statements

(continued)

The Speaker: The hon. Member for Calgary-North Hill.

Results-based Budgeting

Mr. Fawcett: Thank you very much, Mr. Speaker. One of the most important elements of fiscal responsibility is identifying and achieving the outcomes that Albertans expect from their government. It's about ensuring that we're delivering the right programs and services the right way at the right time. That's why the Results-based Budgeting Act was the first piece of legislation introduced this year under the leadership of this Premier. The Results-based Budgeting Act demonstrates a new approach to governance in this province.

Just because something has always been done, it does not mean that it should continue forever. Results-based budgeting will ensure that the priorities of Albertans, not bureaucrats, will be paramount in determining where tax dollars are allocated, and it gives Albertans a fundamental role in contributing input into the allocation of their tax dollars. Additionally, Mr. Speaker, it reflects a pragmatic approach that today's public governance requires in order to adjust shifting priorities.

In a province where economic growth is double that expected in the entire country and where the employment growth is the highest in Canada, Albertans expect their government to respond to their ever-changing needs. This means examining existing programs to see if they are getting the results Albertans expected. It also means connecting people and their communities to services that they need in the most effective and efficient manner.

Results-based budgeting demonstrates the principled, fiscally conservative approach that Albertans have embraced in over 40 years of Progressive Conservative government, Mr. Speaker. This is a long-standing principle that doesn't change, and this is one that Albertans can count on under the leadership of this Premier.

Thank you very much, Mr. Speaker.

The Speaker: The hon. Member for Calgary-Mackay.

International Adult Learners' Week

Ms Woo-Paw: Thank you, Mr. Speaker. I rise today to tell you about International Adult Learners' Week, which is being celebrated throughout Canada beginning this week, from March 24 to April 1. Adult Learners' Week is an international initiative co-ordinated by the Canadian Commission for UNESCO, the United Nations Educational, Scientific, and Cultural Organization. Our common message this year is I'm Still Learning.

During Adult Learners' Week we celebrate the achievements of adult learners and encourage them to continue learning throughout their lives to develop the skills they need to achieve their goals. Mr. Speaker, across Alberta community learning organizations, postsecondary institutions, libraries, and other groups will mark the week by promoting adult learning in all its forms through seminars, workshops, learner readings and stories, and other events. It is clear from their commitment that these groups share this government's recognition of the importance of lifelong learning.

The government of Alberta supports a wide variety of learning opportunities throughout the province. Thanks to this support adult learners are able to learn and grow in their own communities to develop the knowledge and skills they need for success. It also means that these Albertans are able to realize their full potential and contribute to their families, their communities, and to the success of our province.

On behalf of this government and the citizens of Alberta I would like to thank all those volunteers and staff who support and deliver adult learning programs. Thanks to you Albertans across the province are still learning.

Thank you.

The Speaker: The hon. Member for Strathmore-Brooks.

Sagewood Seniors' Residence

Mr. Doerksen: Thank you, Mr. Speaker. On March 2 I was extremely pleased to attend the official opening and tour of Sagewood seniors' community with the Minister of Seniors in Strathmore. Sagewood is a beautiful facility and an example of a new era in accommodations that are being built throughout our province. There are 60 supportive living units and 40 independent living apartments currently filled in this facility, and a further $7.6 million has also been dedicated to build 70 more supportive living units as well as 30 more long-term care units.

This project and others like it will allow Albertans to stay close to family and friends and to live in a more comfortable, familiar setting. When I was there for the opening and the tour, I saw first-hand the difference that this facility is making and will continue to make in the lives of those who live there. There were many smiling faces, Mr. Speaker, at the grand opening and a lot of pride by residents with regard to the homes that they now live in.

Residents will receive top-quality care at Sagewood, which will enable them to live the fullest possible lives in a community setting. There is no doubt that our Premier and this government are fully committed to helping seniors and persons with disabilities increase and improve their quality of life.

Sagewood is an excellent example of how future long-term care and supportive living places will be built. This facility will serve the people of Strathmore and the county of Wheatland and area and our province for a long time and will make a lasting contribution to our society and our quality of life.

I acknowledge the strong commitment of the community to work together with the province of Alberta and our government to see this facility come to fruition. Thank you, Mr. Speaker.

The Speaker: The hon. Member for Edmonton-McClung.

Edmonton-McClung

Mr. Xiao: Thank you, Mr. Speaker. I rise this afternoon to speak about the wonderful constituency of Edmonton-McClung, that I have been so fortunate to represent for the last four years. Edmonton-McClung is named after Nellie McClung, one of the Famous Five in Alberta's history. Edmonton-McClung lies along the north and the west bank of the North Saskatchewan River south of Whitemud Drive and all the way to the city boundary in the west.

In 2011 the completed overpasses of Lessard Road, Callingwood Road, and Cameron Heights has made the everyday commute in and around Edmonton safer, more convenient, and more enjoyable.

Mr. Speaker, McClung is the best place to raise a family. It has 15 diverse schools, including two brand new schools, Sister Annata Brockman Catholic school and the Bessie Nichols public school in the Hamptons.

Edmonton-McClung is also home to the beautiful Lois Hole library and the Jamie Platz YMCA. We also include the Callingwood recreation centre, the new water spray park, and the Callingwood skateboarding park, our last urban recreational facility in McClung.

Mr. Speaker, through the amount of $620,000 in community initiatives program funding our diverse grassroots organizations in McClung have become more vibrant than ever before. Our community leagues and other community organizations have received $1.6 million from the community facility enhancement program to enhance and improve their facilities and playgrounds. Three child care facilities have received a total amount of more than $100,000 to create new child care spaces. Callingwood district park has received $1.3 million from the municipal sustainability initiative fund for redevelopment purposes. The safety and the security of our community has been tangibly improved through the work of the neighbourhood empowerment team in the Callingwood area.

The McClung family has a very high graduation rate. In the last four years alone 2,600 students graduated . . .

The Speaker: The hon. Member for Red Deer-North.

2:50

Emergency Preparedness

Mrs. Jablonski: Mr. Speaker, every year we mark Emergency Preparedness Week during the first full week of May, but no matter what time of the year, we never know when a disaster will strike. We all know that Alberta is no stranger to severe weather events like tornadoes, wildfires, and flooding.

While we can't prevent disasters like these, we can prepare for them. In fact, it's a proven fact that the more prepared we are, the safer Albertans and their families are from these tragic events. That's why it's important for Albertans to know the risks in their area and the most appropriate way to respond, to make a family emergency plan, and to create a 72-hour kit filled with nonperishable food items, water, medications, and important documents. Similarly, Albertans should have a ready-to-go kit in case they need to evacuate their home or work on short notice.

However, Mr. Speaker, no matter how prepared people are for a disaster, there will always be times when government will need to help people in their time of need. This has been especially true over the past two years, when we experienced extremely high numbers of disasters.

The Alberta government was and still is helping the people of the Slave Lake region recover from the horrific wildfire last spring. To date $289 million has been dedicated to the recovery efforts, and temporary housing was provided to all of the 300 displaced families.

We were there to help the people of southern Alberta deal with significant flooding in 2010. More than $43 million has been paid out to over 3,100 applicants, and 99.8 per cent of the residential claims have either received their first cheque or their files are complete and closed.

In fact, Mr. Speaker, in 2011 there were 13 disaster recovery programs around the province, for a total commitment of up to $212 million. It's plain to see that the Alberta government is committed to the people who need help while facing disasters. We've done all this while weathering a recession that crippled many economies in North America and around the world.

Tabling Returns and Reports

The Speaker: The hon. Member for Edmonton-Centre, then Calgary-Varsity, then Edmonton-Calder.

Ms Blakeman: Thank you very much, Mr. Speaker. I'm most honoured today to be able to present tablings on behalf of two of my colleagues. The first is a series of letters from Stephanie Parks, Lise Plamondin, Christine Duteau, Gordon Evans, Darlene Bloxham, Sandra Kimball, Betty Evans, Nancy Callihoo, and Brian Fisher. They are asking the government to institute the funding necessary for beds, staffing, and programming until the mentally ill are stable; to build a world-class facility for the severely mentally ill, including transition housing and staffing of occupational therapists and social workers; and to decriminalize the mentally ill and implement a mental health court. That's on behalf of my colleague for Calgary-Mountain View.

On behalf of the Leader of the Official Opposition I have a number of tablings from different media sources which have covered a story regarding AIMCo approaching the government to borrow additional funding. That's three of the tablings.

The final tabling is concerning Bill 203 and the various issues that the leader had raised on March 12, 2012, when, in fact, he was debating second reading of Bill 203. Any references he made are included in those tablings.

Thank you very much, Mr. Speaker.

The Speaker: The hon. Member for Calgary-Varsity.

Mr. Chase: Thank you, Mr. Speaker. I have two tablings. The first is an advertisement from Tranquility Care Homes Inc. from the health and fitness magazine, January 2012, where it states "Long Term Care for Seniors in a Residential Home" and "We accept Alzheimer's, Dementia and Wheelchair Patients. Respite and Semi-Palliative Care Available." That's to back up my concerns stated in question period today.

My second, Mr. Speaker, is a further 20 e-mails out of the hundreds I've received from the following individuals who are seeking the preservation of the Castle wilderness, all of whom believe clear-cutting will damage the ecology, watershed, wildlife, and natural species and must be prohibited at all costs: Carri Bedard, Cecily Mills, Hazel Holoboff, Barend Dronkers, David J. Brown, Sandy McAndrews, Ken Wood, Brent Gavey, Dr. Rosalyn McAuley, Stefanie Niawchuk, Eric Willis, Maryann Emery, Kevin and Anita Miller, Paul Falvo, Nancy Ingersoll, Robert and Pamela Porter, M. Judith Stockdale, Brenda Allan, George Payerle, and Jon LeBaron.

Thank you, Mr. Speaker.

The Speaker: The hon. Minister of Advanced Education and Technology.

Mr. Weadick: Thank you, Mr. Speaker. I rise to table the appropriate number of copies of the Student Consultation on Mandatory Non-instructional Fees Policy – Best Practices, which I referred to earlier in question period.

The Speaker: The hon. Member for Edmonton-Calder.

Mr. Elniski: Well, thank you, Mr. Speaker. I table the appropriate number of copies of a document that I had previously tabled on March 15. I'm a little bit embarrassed because, apparently, I did not provide you with the entire e-mail, sir, and for that I apologize. This document, as you may recall, was an e-mail from the assistant principal at M.E. LaZerte high school, Marion McIlwraith, where she expressed her dismay with respect to the behaviour of three members of the Wildrose opposition.

Thank you.

The Speaker: Hon. Minister of Agriculture and Rural Development, you indicated to me that you wanted to raise a point of order.

Point of Order Remarks Off the Record

Mr. Berger: Thank you, Mr. Speaker. I wish to raise a point of order today. At estimates for Agriculture and Rural Development on the evening of Monday, March 12, 2012, the hon. Member for Calgary-Glenmore said, and I quote: I did not say repeal. I quote the following exchange between the member and myself. Minister: "So there is that. We also have to be respectful of the fact that the very acts that you've spoken of repealing are what it takes to create water reservoirs . . ." Calgary-Glenmore: "I didn't say repeal." Minister: ". . . because we cannot supply or store that in the ether, or we wouldn't have the need for the other 50 reservoirs. That's one of the things, then, going forward. We have to have the ability to create that."

Mr. Speaker, while I'm glad the hon. member has seen the light and admitted that he would not repeal those acts, I believe that it needs to be corrected in Hansard. Although the comment is clear on the audio, Hansard left that comment off. Although all of his other interjections were left in Hansard, that one is left out.

I'd just like to clarify for the record that the Member for Calgary-Glenmore is in favour of those acts. Assuming that he is the deputy leader, all of the Wildrose also must be in favour.

Thank you, Mr. Speaker.

The Speaker: Well, that appears to be a point of clarification rather than a point of order. There would have been a more appropriate time for that.

Hon. Member for Fort McMurray-Wood Buffalo, did you have a point of order?

Point of Order Parliamentary Language

Mr. Boutilier: Yes. Thank you very much, Mr. Speaker. In the question period exchange this afternoon between the Member for Airdrie-Chestermere and the Deputy Premier in a response from the Deputy Premier I rose on a point of order under 23(h), (i), and (j). In the exchange the question was posed:

Given that this Premier has broken her promise to call a public inquiry into doctor intimidation and to set a fixed election date and to stop the north-south power lines and to not to raise taxes and [also] given now that she is breaking her word on repealing . . . 3 of the Human Rights Act, Premier, is there any reason why . . . Albertan should trust you to keep your promise to protect free speech . . . of parents?

Mr. Speaker, I draw to your attention that the response by the Deputy Premier was: "The hon. member has trouble with the truth . . ."

I only reference for your consideration, Mr. Speaker, finally, that this was personalized to a member of this House, and I draw attention to your ruling of April 27, 2009, when the Speaker ruled that twisting the truth warranted an apology from a member. This afternoon I would ask that the Deputy Premier, in fact, withdraw his comment.

Mr. Horner: Well, Mr. Speaker, it is my opinion that the hon. member has a little trouble with the truth. You know, he's making a lot of claims and accusations in this House on an almost daily basis. He's used a lot of language that many would consider to be unparliamentary throughout the week, and we probably could have called points of order and those sorts of things, but in the interests of ensuring that your Assembly operates in a most efficient manner, we've chosen not to do that.

You know, the hon. member says that we're raising taxes. Mr. Speaker, that's not the truth. So one would argue that even this hon. member is having a little difficulty with the truth. The truth is that there is not a tax increase in this budget.

3:00

Mr. Speaker, the hon. member says that the Premier didn't fulfill her commitment on a health care quality inquiry. In fact, there is a judicial inquiry that has been called based on what the Premier has asked the task force to do or the Health Quality Council to do. So, again, having a little difficulty with the truth.

They talked about the election date, that we would have fixed elections in the province of Alberta. Mr. Speaker, as the hon. member well knows, we are currently within that period of time, and there will be an election. Everybody in this Assembly knows it. Everyone in the province knows it. So, again, a little issue with the truth.

I find it interesting, Mr. Speaker, that this is almost like they're saying that we're not honouring the democratic traditions or we're not honouring democracy in our province. Our leader actually ran for a seat in this House when their leader had the opportunity to do so in a by-election and did not. I find it rather strange that there are a lot of these kind of hypocritical issues that are floating around from that particular party.

I didn't say that they were lying. I didn't say that they were calling out other members. I simply said, Mr. Speaker, that they had trouble with the truth, and I think I've proven that.

The Speaker: I think I've heard enough, with all honesty, to make a conclusion in this matter. This, obviously, was an opportunity for clarification.

Orders of the Day

Written Questions

[The Clerk read the following written question, which had been accepted]

Registered Apprenticeship Program Participation

Q2. Dr. Taft:

How many high school students per calendar year have participated in the registered apprenticeship program since its implementation?

The Speaker: The hon. Member for Edmonton-Riverview.

Registered Apprenticeship Program Cost

Q1. Dr. Taft asked that the following question be accepted.

What has been the cost per fiscal year of the registered apprenticeship program since its implementation?

Dr. Taft: Yes. I just need to get a point of clarification here. Written Question 1 has not been accepted or has been accepted? Not accepted. So I would move that Written Question 1 be accepted.

I will leave the response to the minister.

The Speaker: The hon. minister.

Mr. Weadick: Thank you, Mr. Speaker. We have heard the question. Costs for the RAP, registered apprenticeship program, are aggregated with our other costs for apprenticeship delivery. It simply wouldn't be possible to provide an accurate line item cost for the program. RAP apprentices, for example, register in exactly the same way as regular apprentices, so the costs are simply absorbed into the costs of the thousands of apprenticeship registrations we do each year. There are some promotional costs associated with the program, but again these are simply part of a broader cost of promoting apprenticeships as a first-rate career option for young people. It should be noted that the real promotion of this program takes place in classrooms and among our employer partners, who make this great program possible.

So, Mr. Speaker, I would move that we reject this question. Thank you.

The Speaker: The hon. Member for Edmonton-Riverview to close the debate.

Dr. Taft: Yes. I was actually surprised and disappointed with the response. It strikes me as surprising and worrying that a government has a program, a well-recognized program, for which it cannot give fiscal accounting. I think that speaks probably to the widespread issues of lax financial or fiscal control of this government.

[The Deputy Speaker in the chair]

I have to question the appropriateness of this, Mr. Speaker, because if we have something as specific as a registered apprenticeship program and the minister cannot give any accounting of what it costs, we should all be worried. Maybe my next written question would be: how many other programs does this minister have for which he cannot give any clear indication of the cost?

Frankly, I'm startled. I don't know how a minister can stand here and just rattle off that excuse. "I have a program, Mr. Speaker," he says, "but I don't know what it costs, and I'm not going to try to find out or tell anybody." Pretty disappointing. I think the Assembly should require this minister to go back and return with an answer. I bet they will, too; I can feel that.

Thank you, Mr. Speaker.

[Written Question 1 lost]

Motions for Returns

[The Clerk read the following motion for a return, which had been accepted]

Lawsuits against Alberta Health Services

M3. Dr. Swann:

A return showing a list of lawsuits in which Alberta Health Services is, as of March 31, 2011, named as a defendant, indicating the cause of action and amount in damages claimed.

The Deputy Speaker: The hon. Member for Edmonton-Riverview.

Postsecondary Institution Student Fees

M1. Dr. Taft moved that an order of the Assembly do issue for a return showing copies of all correspondence from August 1, 2011, to February 3, 2012, between the Minister of Advanced Education and Technology and the province's postsecondary institutions regarding development of and student input on fee payment policy.

Dr. Taft: Thank you, Mr. Speaker. Having made that motion for a return, I'm sure my friend the minister would agree that it's remarkably timely given that we had a number of representatives of student organizations in the Assembly just minutes ago. They may still be up there; I'm not sure.

Exactly on the issue of postsecondary institution fee payment policies, Mr. Speaker, we would like to have on the public record this correspondence because we think that it's very important. There are many, many, many tens of thousands of postsecondary students in Alberta who are required to pay a whole host of different kinds of fees, some of which are explained and some of which just seem to come out of the blue and may or may not be connected to any particular service.

The minister knows very well that these have been contentious concerns for students and for student organizations and that the student organizations have been working hard on this. Earlier today I met with representatives of, boy, if I did quick math in my head, maybe 77,000 postsecondary students, and believe me they were not happy. They felt they had not been heard.

I think that if we were to approve this motion, we could actually get a sense of what the nature of the discussion was and perhaps help the students or perhaps help the government in explaining its position and definitely help the public in understanding an issue that affects many of us to the tune, in total, of millions upon millions of dollars. It's just a matter of being open for the public record.

Thank you, Mr. Speaker.

The Deputy Speaker: The hon. minister of advanced education.

Mr. Weadick: Thank you, Mr. Speaker. We move to reject this motion at this time. We are right now in the middle of working with all of our institutions and our student groups on the area of noninstructional fees. As you're aware, it has come forward over the past few months. It was brought on or instigated by a couple of institutions bringing in some fees that were things that were not typically seen as fees. So we've been having discussions both with our institutions and with our student groups around how we manage this into the future.

Mr. Speaker, today I tabled the outcome of a lot of those discussions around the student consultation on mandatory noninstructional fees policies. We continue to work with our students and our institutions because there are also issues around fees charged by students through student unions. There are all kinds of fees that are both mandatory instructional and noninstructional.

3:10

This province is the final province in Canada that has a tuition fee cap. Mr. Speaker, we want to maintain that tuition fee cap, and we think it's very, very important to keep education cost-effective. We want the students to access the finest programs. Earlier today someone said that we have high fees, but we're in the middle of the pack as Canada goes for fees, and actually we're among the lowest in the country for graduate students, a thousand dollars below most graduate student programs.

We also want to keep the quality in our systems. We want the number one quality programs, Mr. Speaker, as well as being accessible and affordable. Because of that we also provide the most scholarships in the country, in fact, more than all of the provinces combined, to keep our education system affordable.

So, Mr. Speaker, as we move forward and work with our institutions, information will go back and forth as we try to develop these policies. We're in the middle of that. I will commit that when we complete the process with our institutions, we'll then make available information as it's available to all members to review. But as I said, right now we're right in the middle of that. I don't want anyone feeling unduly challenged as they work to negotiate and discuss how these policies may fit.

We think it's important that our students, as they sit on the boards of governors, working with our boards of governors to come through with these policies – Mr. Speaker, if the students want to disclose any of that information that's available that isn't confidential to any members, they are able to do that, but for the moment, as we work through these negotiations and try to come to these policies, we just want to ensure that we can keep them fair and open for the boards of governors and students to work together to find a solution to these noninstructional fees. So at this time releasing all of that information wouldn't be appropriate. We would ask that it not be released at this time, but we'll continue to work with all members in this House, all of our institutions, and all of our students.

Thank you.

The Deputy Speaker: The hon. Member for Edmonton-Riverview to close.

Dr. Taft: Yes, thank you. I appreciated the comments of the minister, but I obviously take issue with them. Among other things he said two or three times that the government is right in the middle of sorting this policy out, yet he's presented their best practices policy as if it's a done deal. So as far as it looks to anybody in the public, certainly to students or to me, they're not in the middle of anything; they're at the end of it. They've done it. They've issued their statement, and we're looking just for the background on it.

The minister also referred to the quality of postsecondary education in Alberta. I would venture to say that, in general, it's adequate, occasionally it's excellent, but by most measures Alberta's universities barely make the top ranks of Canadian universities. The University of Alberta consistently comes in, depending on your ranking, around number 5; U of C, maybe number 10. The quality of postsecondary education in this province is not what it ought to be. We're just trying to hold the government to account.

One of the issues with quality is accessibility, and we know increasingly that university education in particular is a privilege for higher income Albertans and that participation rates for lower income people or for First Nations or other populations is way too low. And one of the biggest issues, in fact, around accessibility is cost, which includes all these extra fees that are tagged on and can add many hundreds of dollars to tuition fees.

So once again I have to differ with the minister. Thank you.

[Motion for a Return 1 lost]

The Deputy Speaker: The hon. Member for Edmonton-Riverview.

Alberta Innovates and Pfizer Canada MOU

M2. Dr. Taft moved that an order of the Assembly do issue for a return showing a copy of the 2011 memorandum of understanding between Alberta Innovates: Health Solutions and Pfizer Canada Inc.

Dr. Taft: Thanks, Mr. Speaker. The reason I'm making this request is because we have here something that's part of a growing trend, which is a close relationship between drug companies and Alberta Innovates, which is the successor to the old Alberta Research Council, the Alberta Heritage Foundation for Medical Research, and a number of other organizations. The public has a right to know what's in these memoranda of understanding. Public money is at stake. A public institution's role is at stake. There is rapidly increasing concern about the corporatization of public research institutions, about their loss of independence, about the concern that, in fact, public research organizations and universities are increasingly simply the R and D department for drug companies or oil companies or other interests. That's a concern I hear a lot about.

Mr. Speaker, this kind of memorandum of understanding between a publicly funded, publicly administered public body and a drug company should be available to the public. The public has a right to know. If the government is hiding something, then alarm bells go off. There shouldn't be anything to hide in these deals. I can't imagine what legitimate concern the minister would have in hiding this memorandum unless it's, frankly, a tad on the unacceptable side. I would look forward to the minister accepting this motion.

Thank you.

The Deputy Speaker: The hon. Minister of Advanced Education and Technology.

Mr. Weadick: Thank you, Mr. Speaker. As the member opposite stated, we are seeing more and more interest from corporations working closely in research. As Alberta Innovates and Alberta work to solve the world's problems, we will see more of that as oil companies come to us to try to help them resolve issues in the tailings ponds or as we look to new drugs or new opportunities.

Mr. Speaker, we have a gentleman living in Alberta now, Dr. Michael Houghton, who's working at the University of Alberta. Dr. Houghton is actually the person that discovered hepatitis C and is now working on a vaccine for it. These are wonderful things happening right here in Alberta. They create unique opportunities for health, for a healthier province, for better opportunities for Albertans.

Mr. Speaker, they also create opportunities for commercialization, for those great jobs that we want our young people to have as they come out of university, as they go through their graduate studies. Also, these relationships with some of these companies – Johnson & Johnson, for example, has funded research chairs in universities – allow postsecondaries to bring in some of the brightest and best so that our young people, our graduate students, can work with and study with some of the world's finest researchers. So this is really, really important work, and it is truly a partnership.

Mr. Speaker, I'm here to ask and would like to move that the motion for a return be amended by adding "Advanced Education and Technology," after "memorandum of understanding between." Then it would read:

That an order of the Assembly do issue for a return showing a copy of the 2011 memorandum of understanding between Advanced Education and Technology, Alberta Innovates: Health Solutions, and Pfizer Canada Inc.

With that amendment, I would accept the motion and will supply a copy of the MOU for return. I'm proposing this because this does show that this truly is what the MOU is.

Mr. Speaker, this clearly is a relationship with Alberta Innovates, Alberta advanced education, and with Pfizer, so I wanted to make sure that it reflected the true nature of this MOU. Following discussion with the information and privacy office and legal counsel we concluded that disclosure of this MOU will not breach confidentiality of any of the parties.

As an open and transparent government we want to share these things with Albertans. We want to work with our opposition members, Mr. Speaker. We're happy to work with them and to share these wonderful agreements that provide great opportunities here in Alberta for both employment and jobs. This government has worked very hard over the past number of years in a tough economy to create employment, to keep jobs going, and these kinds of agreements can create those value-added jobs in our economy. We think it's critically important.

With that amendment, I would accept this motion for a return. Thank you.

3:20

The Deputy Speaker: The hon. Member for Edmonton-Riverview to close.

Dr. Taft: Yes. Thank you, Mr. Speaker. I appreciate the gesture from the minister, and I think that sounds like a perfectly reasonable amendment. I could certainly live with that.

Thank you, Mr. Speaker.

[Motion for a Return 2 as amended carried]

Dr. Swann: Mr. Speaker, I wonder if we could revert to introductions.

The Deputy Speaker: I've got a note here from the hon. member. May I have the agreement of the Assembly to revert briefly to Introduction of Guests?

[Unanimous consent granted]

Introduction of Guests (reversion)

The Deputy Speaker: The hon. member.

Dr. Swann: Thank you very much, Mr. Speaker. A great pleasure for me to introduce some folks in the public gallery who, at least some of them, are here to attend for Bill 203, the private member's bill on smoking in vehicles. They're also very eminent professionals who are working on advancing Alberta as a leader in prevention programs in Canada. They are part of the Alberta Policy Coalition for Chronic Disease Prevention and the Campaign for a Smoke-free Alberta. They include Laura Kemp, Les Hagen, and Shandy Reed. I would ask them all to stand, even if I haven't introduced you, so that we can include all of you. Welcome to the Legislature.

Motions for Returns (continued)

The Deputy Speaker: The hon. Member for Calgary-Mountain View on Motion for a Return 4.

Supportive Living Personal Care Facilities

M4. Dr. Swann moved that an order of the Assembly do issue for a return showing copies of all requests for proposals and all documents relating to requests for proposals issued by Alberta Health Services for supportive living personal care facilities throughout the province.

Dr. Swann: Thank you very much, Mr. Speaker. These have, obviously, a tremendous relevance today in our health care system, where seniors' care is the issue not only in terms of relieving pressure on emergency departments, relieving the pressure on acute-care hospitals but also in terms of standards and quality and affordability of care in our society.

This is a pretty central issue for all of us in the Legislature as we grapple with ensuring a good planning framework, a long-term commitment to quality, and dignified end-of-life or late-life issues. It relates to not only the numbers of long-term care or assisted living services that we have in the province but increasingly to concerns about how much public money is going into it and how much private money is going into it and to what the accountability is both on the public funds and on the private services in terms of maintaining standards, maintaining affordability, and ensuring that Albertans are served in the best way possible in their latter years.

Thank you, Mr. Speaker.

The Deputy Speaker: The hon. Minister of Health and Wellness.

Mr. Horne: Thank you very much, Mr. Speaker. Well, I appreciate the request for information from the hon. Member for Calgary-Mountain View. However, I am going to have to ask hon. members to reject the motion for a return. The reason – and I'll preface it with a simple explanation, I guess, of who does what with respect to requests for proposals for supportive living facilities – is that Alberta Health and Wellness has no requests for proposals or related documents issued by Alberta Health Services for supportive living facilities. Alberta Seniors is, in fact, the ministry responsible for working with AHS to co-ordinate and administrate supportive living capital grant programs. Alberta Health and Wellness is responsible for setting standards for health services provided in publicly funded supportive living facilities, and Alberta Seniors is responsible for accommodation standards for seniors regardless of any health services that may be provided.

Funding for capital to build supportive living accommodation is issued under a request for proposal or a request for grant by Alberta Seniors. Funding for health services from Alberta Health Services is considered part of this process, depending on the level of acuity of the clients that the operator is proposing to serve. Details on the funding provided by Alberta Health Services are provided as part of the request for grant process.

Mr. Speaker, with respect to this particular motion the administration of the request for proposals process for supportive living facilities for seniors is, in fact, a function of the Ministry of Seniors, not Alberta Health Services and not the Ministry of Health and Wellness. Alberta Health Services, with funding provided by the Ministry of Health and Wellness, does in fact negotiate with operators for contracts to provide health services within designated supportive living facilities across the province but, as I stated earlier, does not issue requests for proposals for the construction of those facilities.

Thank you.

The Deputy Speaker: The hon. Member for Calgary-Mountain View to close.

Dr. Swann: Thank you very much, Mr. Speaker. Thank you to the minister. An error on our part.

[Motion for a Return 4 lost]

Public Bills and Orders Other than Government Bills and Orders Committee of the Whole

[Mr. Cao in the chair]

The Chair: Hon. members, I would like to call the Committee of the Whole to order.

Bill 203 Tobacco Reduction (Protection of Children in Vehicles) Amendment Act, 2012

The Chair: Are there any comments, questions, amendments to be offered? The hon. Leader of the Official Opposition.

Dr. Sherman: Thank you, Mr. Chair. I'm pleased to open debate in Committee of the Whole on Bill 203, the Tobacco Reduction (Protection of Children in Vehicles) Amendment Act, 2012. We've had very good debate and discussion on this very important bill. As you know, this bill is really about the safety of our children. There's been a lot of good work in the Legislature and in the legislation about making tobacco reduction a priority. In fact, this is the real solution to fixing health care: let's not get sick in the first place. Tobacco use has been on the decrease because of a lot of this legislation.

This piece of legislation is so important because it involves our children. It was brought before the Legislature in 2008 as Bill 215 at the time, a private member's bill. Unfortunately, we ran out of time, and it dropped off the Order Paper before Christmas of 2008. There are municipalities and communities in Alberta that in 2008 took leadership roles in this country to ban tobacco smoking in vehicles when young people are present. Unfortunately, there are only two provinces that haven't passed this kind of bill, Alberta and Quebec.

Mr. Speaker, in light of the fact that we have an election coming very soon and that the bill has come back and that it was unanimously endorsed by all the members in the Legislature on second reading, I would hope and ask all of the hon. members today to unanimously consent to moving this bill into third reading and making it law before we convene for the election season. In light of all of the advocates and champions who have championed this legislation for years, that are present here today, Mr. Chair, I ask all members to unite to get this bill passed today, once and for all.

I thank everyone and thank you for the opportunity. I call the question.

3:30

The Chair: Any other hon. members wishing to speak? The hon. Member for Edmonton-McClung.

Mr. Xiao: Thank you, Mr. Chairman. I'm very honoured to stand today to participate in the Committee of the Whole debate on Bill 203, the Tobacco Reduction (Protection of Children in Vehicles) Amendment Act, 2012, proposed by the hon. Member for Edmonton-Meadowlark. Before I begin, I would like to thank my hon. colleague for bringing forth this important topic for discussion as it addresses a very important issue, and I would like to express my support for this bill.

Mr. Chairman, the health of our children is very important. Any piece of legislation that deals with this matter requires our full attention. That being said, I would like to dedicate my time here today to discussing specific sections of the bill in question. I will start by mentioning that Bill 203 intends to make it illegal to smoke in a car whenever a minor is present.

Section 3 of the Tobacco Reduction Act, the legislation that Bill 203 intends to amend, states that no person shall smoke

- (a) in a public place,
- (b) in a workplace,
- (c) in a public vehicle, or
- (d) within a prescribed distance from a doorway, window or air intake of a public place or workplace.

Section 3 of Bill 203 would amend the above portion by adding the following clause: "in a vehicle in which a minor is present." As I'm sure everyone is aware, a minor in this province is anyone under the age of 18.

Now, I completely agree that the government should be proactive and take certain precautions in situations where people cannot protect themselves, but I am sure that many people would also agree that there is a difference between children and teenagers, that are still legally defined as minors. For instance, young children in vehicles do not have the choice of removing themselves from a car and are often unaware of the dangers of second-hand smoke. In these situations the health of young children may be at serious risk, especially if the exposure is long term.

Conversely, some 17-year-olds are enrolled in universities, may be financially independent and live on their own. As such, they may feel they have the prerogative and the maturity to make their own decisions about who they choose to ride in a car with. My point, Mr. Chairman, is that the term "minor" encompasses a wide range of ages, from the very young to people who may be financially independent. Even in this province jurisdictions that have passed bylaws similar to Bill 203 have different or relevant ages that range from 16 to 18.

Another issue, Mr. Chairman, that I feel should also be addressed in this bill pertains to groups of minors that are smoking while in a car together. What would happen if there was a car full of 17-year-olds, and all of them were smoking? Who, if anyone, would receive the ticket? Moreover, what would happen if there were both adults and minors in the vehicles, and one of the minors was smoking? Who would get the ticket in this situation? There's no mention in the legislation about what would result if these scenarios occurred. This is not to say that I condone smoking in vehicles in any way, but that clarification with respect to the relevant age group may be needed.

The addition of the clause "in a vehicle in which a minor is present" also raises other questions. As I mentioned previously, protecting our children from the harm of second-hand smoke is an important goal and one that should not be taken lightly. However, Mr. Chair, if this legislation intends to protect children, then it should also include other vulnerable populations as well. Certain groups, much like young children, may not have a choice in their exposure to tobacco smoke while riding in cars. For example, those with a cognitive and a physical disability often depend on other people for transportation. Many individuals that suffer from these unfortunate disorders may also be unaware of the dangers of tobacco smoke. Some may also have compromised immune systems, making vehicles filled with tobacco smoke especially harmful.

Our province thus far has addressed this issue of second-hand smoke through programs that promote education and public awareness. Many of these programs fall under the Alberta tobacco reduction strategy and advocate against second-hand smoke around all populations regardless of age or demographic.

Mr. Chairman, section 2(2) of the Tobacco Reduction Act currently states: "this Act does not apply to a building, structure or vehicle, or a part of a building or structure, that is used as a private residence." Section 2 of Bill 203 would amend the above portion by striking out "structure or vehicle" and substituting "or structure." The amended section would then state the following: "this Act does not apply to a building or structure, or part of a building or structure, that is used as a private residence." What this means is that the Tobacco Reduction Act would apply to all private vehicles, which may include motorhomes that are used as a primary residence. I believe that preventing people from smoking in cars with children present is an honourable goal, but extending this limitation to a primary residence may potentially lead to other issues.

Mr. Chairman, I'm simply concerned about the perception of excessive intrusion into the lives of private citizens. For some a motorhome is a primary residence, so would they still be excluded from the Tobacco Reduction Act if Bill 203 is passed? This is another important question which I believe should be considered before any further action is taken with respect to this bill.

With that, I would like to conclude my statements regarding Bill 203. I would once again like to thank the hon. Member for Edmonton-Meadowlark for bringing this important issue up for debate. Thank you, Mr. Chair.

The Chair: Are there any others? The hon. Member for Edmonton-Mill Woods and then the hon. Member for Cypress-Medicine Hat.

3:40

Mr. Benito: Thank you, Mr. Chairman. It is an honour for me to rise today in this Assembly to speak in Committee of the Whole on Bill 203, the Tobacco Reduction (Protection of Children in Vehicles) Amendment Act, 2012, brought forward by the hon. Member for Edmonton-Meadowlark. The hon. member brings a valuable medical perspective on issues of health to this House, and I would like to thank him for bringing this bill forward as it gives us an opportunity to raise awareness of the dangers of tobacco use.

Mr. Chairman, Bill 203 proposes adding a new tool to the tobacco reduction tool kit. Section 1 of Bill 203 states: “The Tobacco Reduction Act is amended by this Act.”

Bill 203 would also alter section 3 of the Tobacco Reduction Act, which lists numerous places where smoking is banned. The first part of section 3 reads: “Subject to section 5, no person shall smoke,” and from there it goes on to list those places where one may not smoke. The rest of section 3 of the act reads:

- (a) in a public place,
- (b) in a workplace,
- (c) in a public vehicle, or
- (d) within a prescribed distance from a doorway, window or air intake of a public place or workplace.

Bill 203 would amend section 3. Section 3 is amended out by striking out “or” at the end of clause (c) and by adding the following after clause (c):

- (c.1) in a vehicle in which a minor is present.

Mr. Chairman, the health effects of smoking have been known for years, and on average smokers tend to have shorter lifespans than nonsmokers. As well, individuals exposed to second-hand smoke are also subject to negative health effects.

It wasn’t so long ago that public spaces such as malls and food courts would have had only a handful of nonsmoking tables, but as awareness has grown, our society has changed to reflect our increasing concern about the risks of smoking. The generation of young people in colleges and universities today has seen significant change over their lives with regard to smoking. Most 20-year-olds can likely remember as children going to restaurants with their parents where other patrons could light up relatively freely. Just a few years later smoking is no longer permitted, even in bars and nightclubs. In fact, sometimes it’s easy to forget just how much things have changed in a relatively short time. Bill 203 and its provision that bans smoking “in a vehicle in which a minor is present” could be that next step forward.

This overall societal transformation has been possible due to both cultural shifts and government initiatives. Mr. Chairman, from time to time the government leads and public attitudes play catch-up, and at other times it is the government catching up to public opinion. We can see this change over time in the statistics. The Youth Smoking Survey conducted by Health Canada helped us determine whether tobacco reduction efforts are impacting young people’s choices. This is important as smoking trends among youth are seen as a leading indicator for adult smoking since many habits formed in youth are carried into adulthood. Among those aged 15 to 19 the percentage of smokers in Alberta was 26 per cent in 1999, well below the national average at the time. By 2010 the percentage of youth aged 15 to 19 in Alberta that smoked fell by one-third compared to 1999, a major decrease.

Additionally, for the population as a whole smoking prevalence has dropped to 19 per cent in 2010 from 26 per cent in 1999 according to Health Canada’s Canadian Tobacco Use Monitoring Survey. Through these surveys we can see how changes among youth are leading the way in smoking reduction.

The question that is often asked is: are we doing enough? Before jumping into action, we must ask a second question: what can we do that will be most effective? Bill 203, the Tobacco Reduction Amendment Act, adds the words “in a vehicle in which a minor is present.” I ask: are these words an effective way forward with respect to protecting our children from the adverse effect of second-hand tobacco smoke? In order to implement a successful tobacco reduction policy, we must look at many factors not only on an individual level but on a policy level as well. We must also be cognizant of developing a suite of policies that work well together.

Other proven effective forms of tobacco control are those that include social pressures to change habits. These include education, advertising such as health warnings, restricting advertising by tobacco companies, and restricting smoking in workplaces, restaurants, bars, and schools. Additionally, higher prices for cigarettes help to deter experimental smoking. These and other actions listed earlier help make up Alberta’s tobacco reduction strategy.

Mr. Chairman, the actions that our government has taken have already greatly reduced the exposure children have to second-hand smoke, far below what the level was a generation ago. I’m happy to say that these measures along with enforcement against illegal tobacco sales to minors have led to the reduction of tobacco use among the youth of our province. To continue the downward trend of tobacco use and second-hand smoke exposure in our society, we must continue to continually update our integrated tobacco reduction policy.

Bill 203, which would ban smoking in a vehicle in which a minor is present, could be an effective part of the overall strategy. I would like again to thank the hon. member for bringing it forward.

Thank you, Mr. Chairman.

The Chair: I have a list of speakers here, so I’ll just follow it. The hon. Member for Cypress-Medicine Hat.

Mr. Mittel: Thank you, Mr. Chairman. I’m pleased to rise today in Committee of the Whole and share my comments on Bill 203, the Tobacco Reduction (Protection of Children in Vehicles) Amendment Act, 2012, brought forward by the hon. Member for Edmonton-Meadowlark. Before I begin, I’d like to thank the hon. Member for Edmonton-Meadowlark for all the hard work he has put into the drafting of this piece of legislation. I acknowledge that the protection of children’s health is and should be a priority of this government and all MLAs in this House. This is why I believe Bill 203 should be supported.

Mr. Chairman, I believe Bill 203 targets two main issues. First, it focuses on raising awareness of the negative effect of second-hand smoke. Second, it specifically targets adults who smoke in vehicles while minors are present. It is this second point that is subject to debate here today in Committee of the Whole. The amendments to this bill provide an excellent opportunity to rethink attitudes and approaches surrounding a couple of very important issues; that is, the dangers of tobacco use and the safety of Alberta children.

I used to smoke some 25 years ago. I do recall that when I did smoke, I did not and could not smell that tobacco smoke. When I was a child, my mom and dad both smoked, so it seemed natural that I would as well. I did smoke for many years. It got to a point that I guess I kind of disliked that smoker’s cough that I had. In fact, Mr. Chair, I think what broke this terrible addiction I had was when I developed a very painful bronchial cough. Without thinking, I finished my normal coughing, lit a smoke, and began coughing all over again, and it hurt. At that moment I told my wife: “That’s it. I will never smoke again.” And I haven’t. Perhaps I’m lucky to have broken it this way.

Some time later I noticed how bad cigarette smoke smelled. I could smell it in homes and vehicles. It makes you wonder, when this smoke can permeate upholstery and headliners of vehicles, what it must be doing to children and children's lungs when they're subject to this smoke. I don't believe that any of this is done on purpose. The addiction is so strong that mothers and fathers and families and friends of these children cannot stop. As I said, the addiction may be so strong that they may not want to stop.

With that, Mr. Chairman, I'd like to focus the majority of my comments today on the amendments in Bill 203 and how I think it's a good piece of legislation. For the record section 2(2) is amended by striking out "structure or vehicle" and substituting "or structure." Section 3 is amended by striking out "or" at the end of clause (c) and adding the following after clause (c): "(c.1) in a vehicle in which a minor is present."

3:50

Perhaps most notable, Mr. Chairman, is that the Tobacco Reduction Act itself is amended by this act. I feel that the proposed amendments to the original Tobacco Reduction Act will strengthen the overall intent of Bill 203. It's no secret that our province's Tobacco Reduction Act already ranks among the most comprehensive and protective pieces of legislation in the country, and I feel that Bill 203 only furthers it.

Currently 4 out of 5 Albertans claim to not use any tobacco. There are more ex-smokers than current smokers, but 1 in 5 still does. Mr. Chairman, I believe it's imperative that those Albertans who do still use tobacco do not do so in the presence of children, especially when in a vehicle. Having children exposed to the very real dangers of second-hand smoke is amplified when riding in a vehicle. Quite simply, there's nowhere for the child to hide in a vehicle when an adult is smoking there. Bill 203 in section 3 clearly indicates that smoking in a vehicle in which a minor is present should be illegal. I believe this to be the case as well.

Mr. Chairman, I feel that the goal of Bill 203 is a commendable one. Bill 203 seeks to address the serious matter of smoking in a vehicle with minors present. But it is also important to raise awareness of this issue and to amend the Tobacco Reduction Act itself.

Again I'd like to thank the hon. Member for Edmonton-Meadowlark for the hard work that went into drafting Bill 203. I'd like to inform him that I'm strongly supporting this bill.

Thank you.

The Chair: Hon. Minister of Health and Wellness, do you wish to speak on the bill?

Mr. Horne: Yes. Thank you very much, Mr. Chair. I'm pleased to join others in debate in Committee of the Whole on this bill. As other hon. members have indicated, the issue of exposure of children to second-hand smoke within vehicles is an issue that we take seriously as a government. In fact, it reminds me of the comprehensiveness of the current Alberta tobacco reduction strategy, which is under review at the moment and expected to be announced in a renewed form in the next few months.

We've made significant reductions in tobacco use rates over the last 10 years, but tobacco use rates are still unacceptably high in our province. Our focus and this bill would support that it needs to be on youth, young adults, and at-risk populations to ensure that Albertans receive appropriate protection from the harms of tobacco.

A renewed strategy is being developed in collaboration with government stakeholders, including some of those observing this debate in the House today, Mr. Chair: Alberta Health Services, nongovernmental organizations, and other tobacco control stakeholders. We hope to have a renewed strategy to guide tobacco reduction efforts for another 10-year period; namely, 2012 to 2022. As with the current strategy the new strategy is evidence-based. It is aligned with components of other strategies and frameworks. One in particular that I would like to draw the committee's attention to is our new addictions and mental health strategy as well as the World Health Organization's framework convention on tobacco control, which I know has been referred to in previous debates in this House with respect to tobacco reduction.

Mr. Chair, I think that while we can certainly and I can certainly support the tenets of the bill that's before us today, I guess the broader question for government is whether we proceed with simply single initiatives aimed at reducing tobacco, in particular tobacco use and exposure to second-hand smoke in a particular area, or whether we continue with the very successful tradition we've seen in the last 10 years of developing a very broad strategy that addresses not only tobacco use among youth and exposure to second-hand smoke among youth but other issues.

As we have seen in previous legislation passed in this Assembly, Alberta has led the country in innovative ways to provide additional incentives for people not to smoke. That includes the banning of the sale of tobacco in pharmacies, that we saw in legislation a few years ago. It includes limiting exposure to second-hand smoke outside public buildings and a number of other strategies that have proven themselves to be quite successful.

In addition, Mr. Chair, I think it's important that any legislation that's passed in this House or any strategy that is considered and brought forward by government be evidence based, contain information from research studies and other documents that need to be referenced in order that these initiatives can be justified to Albertans and in order that we can garner the requisite support from the public for any particular strategy that we might choose to advance.

Mr. Chair, I guess the other thing that I wanted to draw to the attention of the House is the work of a committee – I believe some of the members are represented here today in the gallery – that has worked diligently over the last little while to promote tobacco reduction across Alberta. The provincial advisory committee on tobacco, or PACT, the acronym that is used to refer to the committee, has been providing recommendations to government to update the current tobacco reduction strategy. It includes the issue that is addressed by the bill that's before the committee at the moment, but it also includes many other strategies and many other representatives from different government ministries, professional associations, and not-for-profit groups. Health and Wellness and Alberta Health Services co-chair this committee.

A subcommittee of PACT, with representation from Alberta Finance, Solicitor General and Public Security, the Lung Association, the Canadian Cancer Society, and Alberta Health Services, is also working diligently on the revised and comprehensive strategy. So, Mr. Chair, it's clear that many organizations in the community and many ministries in this government have been involved in trying to address the issue of tobacco use and exposure to second-hand smoke in a comprehensive way.

While I certainly applaud the initiative of the hon. member in bringing this bill forward and while it is certainly an initiative that is actively under consideration as part of our renewed tobacco reduction strategy, it is but one initiative that needs to be considered. So in the context of this debate I would hope that other hon. members would agree with me that, in fact, the comprehensive approach, the long-term approach, the approach that involves the integration of the efforts of many across government and in the community to address tobacco use in the long term is the direction that we need to pursue if we are truly going to achieve specific outcomes not only for this generation of Albertans but for generations to come.

With that, Mr. Chair, I would again reiterate my appreciation to the hon. member for bringing this forward. I would hope that the debate for the remainder of the afternoon could perhaps reference some of the other strategies that need to be considered as part of a comprehensive approach to this problem. I think that in doing so, we can demonstrate to Albertans that we are taking action not simply with single initiatives at random points in time but that we are in fact offering them a very connected, very integrated approach to this issue, that could well include the initiative that is proposed by the bill this afternoon.

Thank you, Mr. Chair.

The Chair: Hon. Member for Grande Prairie-Smoky, do you wish to join the debate?

Mr. Knight: Thank you very much, Mr. Chairman. Smoking: this is a topic that I actually know a little bit about for a change. My first recollection of smoking goes back some time. My father worked on the Northern Alberta Railways, and in those days, of course, it was the main transportation route from Edmonton up into the Peace Country and ended in Dawson Creek. My dad was a station agent in McLennan. Well, actually, he started in Beaverlodge, one of the stations along the way.

My first recollection of people smoking – and I was quite young at that point in time, probably three or four years old, something like that, five maybe. When you went into the station, there was a lot of activity going on around the station at that point in time. They didn't still burn coal; they burned bunker fuel. It had a particular odour to it, and the odour of the oil and the engines and all of that kind of thing was pretty prevalent around the premises. They had hardwood floors in the stations in those days, and they were oiled. The oil that they used had a particular odour to it, and you could smell it. I can smell it as I'm standing here today. Actually, I think it's George.

4:00

Mr. Groeneveld: It stunk.

Mr. Knight: Yeah.

Anyway, there was a particular odour to the oil. Mixed with that, most of the people that worked in the station smoked, including my father as the agent, the other people that worked there in communications. Of course, the telegraph station and all that was there. The odour of cigarette or tobacco pipe some of them smoked and of the other oil and so on left a lasting impression, and actually, I have to tell you, Mr. Chairman, it was comforting. In those days nobody really realized that tobacco smoke or any of these odours were, you know, particularly harmful to anybody.

The second thing was that we moved. My father took up a job, actually, on the rail. So he was, I think, called an express messenger or something, moved from the station, anyway, onto the rail. I can recall when we would ride in the baggage car, in the express car, on the railroad. This again is pretty clear in my memory. We'd get on there at 4 o'clock in the morning, and the first thing we'd do, Mr. Chairman, is fold down a little cot that was attached to the wall on the side of the car, crawl up on there, and the old man would cover us with an army blanket, one of those wool army blankets.

The train is kind of chugging along – right? – and you know what? The next thing you'd actually remember: wake up about 8 or 9 o'clock, my dad would have a pot of coffee on a little stove that used charcoal briquettes. He'd have his coffee on there. He had cooked a couple slices of bacon and some eggs. You'd wake up to this beautiful smell of toast that's cooked over a fire and coffee, but the old man was having coffee and smoking a cigarette. Again, it was the kind of thing where the world was right as long as this was going along. The train was chugging along, and it clunked along the railroad not very fast. You know, you just felt like there's some comfort to this whole thing, and the world was doing what it was supposed to do as the train kind of trundled along.

Of course, smoking and cigarettes were just around. I had an older brother. He was two years older than me. At about the age of 11 he decided that, you know, if it's good for all the rest of those people, it's probably good for me. So he started smoking but on the sly. Tobacco was not that hard to come by. We got a little bit of an allowance for doing our chores and so on. He would figure out a way to save up a bit and get himself a little Vogue package of tobacco. Well, my dad found out that he was smoking, so he was going to put a stop to this. Kids should not have been exposed to tobacco, but nobody knew about that. But kids should certainly not be smoking at that age.

What he did – and I can recall this, sitting outside on the steps in a little house in McLennan – is he goes downtown and buys a can of Vogue tobacco and half a dozen packs of papers – right? – and he starts rolling cigarettes and making my brother smoke them. I was there while he did the whole can, the whole can of tobacco. The only one that got sick was the old man because it cost him a lot of money. Anyway, that didn't work. Obviously, it didn't work. He tried to stop it, but it didn't work. Then on top of that he thought: okay, I'll fix this. He gets an old King Eddie cigar, and gives him that. That didn't work either.

Then I come to myself and my experience with tobacco, not just smoking but tobacco generally speaking. I started smoking when I was 16. It was just the thing to do. We were all doing it. Everybody that I hung around with smoked, so I took up smoking. I went to work at the age of 19 driving a truck. I actually went to work at 17, but that's another story. I started driving a truck when I was 19 years old, and I can tell you as sure as I'm standing here, Mr. Chairman, that at 19 years old I did not have a pocket in my clothing that didn't have some sort of tobacco stuck in it. I smoked a pipe, Old Port Colts cigars – Colts they were called – and cigarettes all at the same time. I'd drive a truck and have a pipe going. That would go out, so I'd grab a cigarette. It was normal, I have to tell you. Not very brilliant, but normal.

Mr. Groeneveld: Are you sure this was normal?

Mr. Knight: Normal. Absolutely normal, my friend.

At 21 years old I went to work in a gas plant, and you couldn't smoke. Well, you can imagine what kind of situation I was in. It seemed to me like we were living on tobacco and coffee, that was about the size of it. I go to work in a place where I can't smoke, so I thought: "Well, that's okay. I'll quit." You know, we tried smoking at coffee time, but I quit. What I did instead of just quitting, period, is I thought: well, if I can't smoke, the next best thing is why don't we try a little chewing tobacco, right? So I actually chewed tobacco for two years, and my wife didn't even know it. I was that good at it or that bad at it, whatever way. Nobody knew. Anyway, that went on for a while.

Then I went out on my own and started a business. Then when we were working in the field, it also became taboo. People started to smarten up: this stuff's not good for you. There was no smoking in any of our facilities or around any of the offices or stuff like that. What we did then is that we took a little page out of the professional baseball players' book. You chew a little bit of bubble gum – right? – get a nice little wad of bubble gum going, and then you take your Beech-Nut, or whatever kind of tobacco you like, and you make a bubble out of the bubble gum, put the tobacco inside that, and you chew that. It'll last all afternoon. You know, great fun. We thought we were okay. It wasn't hurting anybody, and what the hell? At the same time I had, you know, the odd cigar.

I've got to tell you that when my grandchildren started to come along, I got to thinking, "You know, there's so much evidence out there now that this is not really the way a person should conduct themselves," so I decided that I would stop. But being a guy that doesn't want his grandchildren to think he's a quitter, I didn't quit. I just still have the odd cigar. I don't want to be a quitter, but I canned the rest of it. I probably never will stop doing that. [interjection] I know the good doctor over there has got something to say about how bad a person I am, but he can say that later.

Anyway, what I learned over that period of time was actually that tobacco probably killed my old man at the ripe old age of 63. You know, there was that and the health effects.

More than that I think, Mr. Chairman, is this business of the damage and danger in second-hand smoke. I have to tell you that none of us in here, including me, would ever expose our loved ones – like your wife, children, in my case grandchildren and now great-grandchildren – to a hazard like that. It's unconscionable that you would do it. So I stopped, and I think that anybody that's, you know, a rational, reasonable thinking person would take the same direction. You can find places to smoke that don't bother people.

Anyway, I think that that's what should happen. However, Mr. Chairman . . .

The Chair: Hon. member, the 10 minutes allocated to you have completed.

Hon. Minister of Culture and Community Services, you wish to join in, right?

Mrs. Klimchuk: Thank you, Chair. It's a privilege today to speak on Bill 203, the Tobacco Reduction (Protection of Children in Vehicles) Amendment Act, 2012. I just want to say that as a parent to me it's very sad that we have to consider passing legislation. Nonetheless, today is a very important conversation.

I also want to acknowledge the role of Les Hagen – he was introduced earlier – for the excellent work he does and continues to do. I met him a few years ago in my constituency office. We had a great conversation about the work that goes on and how much more work we have to do.

We all know that in Alberta, as the Minister of Health and Wellness indicated, we have one of the best tobacco reduction acts in Canada. We also know that the strategy began in 2002 and, as the minister said, it's going to be renewed. We know that the ATRS has made significant progress in addressing tobacco use and second-hand smoke, and it's extremely cost-effective, resulting in a long-term cost avoidance to our economy of about $465 million in the first three years.

4:10

Four out of five Albertans do not use tobacco, and there are more ex-smokers than current smokers, so that's the good news. The number of nonsmoking Canadians who report being exposed to cigarette smoke in a private vehicle has also fallen about 25 per cent between 2003 and 2009. We also know that between 2001 and 2006 there was a reduction of more than 50 per cent in the portion of youth exposed to second-hand smoke in their homes. We also know that the incredible mass media campaigns have enhanced public awareness of smoking, especially Barb Tarbox and the campaign that was very effective among youth.

I want to talk about some of the root causes. The sad part is that if children do not know better and they are exposed to smoke in their home, then when they are exposed to smoking in a vehicle it becomes severely normal to them. It's just part of their life, their daily lives. It's everywhere they go. The question is: how do we assist those parents with this terrible addiction, the ones who really want to quit but perhaps need counselling support and other tools to succeed? I've had family members who have successfully quit and others who have not, so I have ultimate respect for those who try to quit.

I know that growing up, some of the travelling in cars to Saskatchewan with my family and being around grandparents that smoked. They smoked in the house, and that's what I grew up with. That's just the way it was. But now as a mother and as a parent I remember making my 80-year-old aunt smoke outside on the back step when I had my first home.

So those are very important to me. I'm also concerned about the prevalence of smoking in our youth and in our junior highs. That's something that I think we need to address as well.

The other thing I want to talk about is enforcement. We all know right now with Bill 26, the distracted driving act that was passed – even when I'm driving right now, I see people on their phones. So we know that distracted driving, people still aren't buying totally into it. When I look at a piece of legislation like this, I worry about enforcement. I worry about the pressure that it puts on our police services, on all the good work they're doing. Also, how do you actually enforce it, and how do you catch someone, say, if an adult is smoking in the car and the child is 17 as well? We know that there are all those questions that need to be asked. Again, having this conversation is really important.

We also know that legislation that we've had banning smoking in certain areas has been very powerful, and that's a good thing. Again, going back to the police monitoring and enforcing such behaviour which may divert their attention away from other areas, we know that Albertans are doing the right thing already by not smoking in their vehicles. That is getting better.

What we also need to know is whether the proposed change is intended to apply to only adults or adults and minors, as I said before. I think the option of prohibiting smoking in a vehicle when minors are present is something that we're already looking at as well. I know that we're certainly not there all the way. As well, we know that this particular bill is consistent with recommendations from health organizations such as the Canadian Cancer Society and the Canadian Medical Association.

I guess, for me, if we can deal with the issue of enforcement, work with the police and work with the people who are doing that, then I think that this would be good. I guess as a parent and as a mother I would support this piece of legislation. I think it's, again, unfortunate that we have to have it, that we have to actually pass a law. When you see people in their cars with young children, you want to do something, but you know you can't.

I appreciate being able to talk on this item. Member, I just want to conclude by saying that there are so many issues out there that government needs to be a leader on. I think we are a leader in many areas on this. Unfortunately, I think this is a conversation we have to have. I will be supporting this bill.

Thank you.

The Chair: The hon. Member for Edmonton-Riverview.

Dr. Taft: Yes. Thank you, Mr. Chairman. I'd just like to rise to draw to the attention of the Assembly and our guests that we have a chance here, people, to pass this. If we work together and collaborate, in the next 45 minutes we could actually go through committee, we could give unanimous consent, go through third, have a vote, and pass this. Otherwise, this is going to die on the Order Paper.

I have to be honest, having listened to speech after speech after speech, which I rarely hear from the government side, I suspect that the strategy here actually is to look good while sabotaging the bill. I would challenge you to prove me wrong by calling the vote in committee, giving unanimous consent for third, passing this, and showing the respect that our guests deserve for, as many of you noted, having worked so hard on this.

Those are my comments. Let's get on with this. Thank you.

The Chair: The hon. Minister of Human Services.

Mr. Hancock: Thank you, Mr. Chairman. I want to start by saying that the concept that's outlined in this bill is entirely consistent, in my view, with the Tobacco Reduction Act that we were fortunate to bring forward when I was minister of health and with the good work that was done by previous ministers of health, the Member for Sherwood Park and the member, I think, then from Nose Creek, Gary Mar.

A lot of very significant work has happened over time on tobacco reduction strategies in the province. This bill would take it one step further. But, Mr. Chairman, I think the important piece about legislation is making sure that legislation works together and comprehensively. I didn't have the privilege of hearing the whole speech from the minister of health, but I know that I've had discussions with him very recently with respect to a tobacco reduction strategy, and I know that there is a comprehensive look at a tobacco reduction strategy to see what we can do next in the area of encouraging young Albertans in particular to not start smoking and encouraging those who have started to stop smoking.

I know that in a tobacco reduction strategy, one of the things that actually does work is making the opportunity to smoke inconvenient. That's a very important piece of a strategy. That's why in many cases not just the protection of people from second-hand smoke but the opportunity for people to take a second thought about whether they actually want to do it anymore is a very important part of any tobacco reduction strategy. That's why 15 metres away from doorways is not just so that people don't have to walk through the smoke; it's to create a modest amount of inconvenience, which will allow people to have that second thought about whether they want to quit or not. Those are important pieces in the equation.

I had the occasion very recently, within the last couple of months, to meet with a group of people in my office about a tobacco reduction strategy. I was quite amazed at the types of products that are now being sold, the design of those products, and, in fact, the question of whether those products are being designed specifically to attract children. Quite frankly, I was appalled at some of the products that were there. I think the concept of having this further tobacco reduction strategy review is an extremely important one.

In bringing forward pieces of legislation, there's a real approach that needs to be taken. The approach needs to be one that's very solid and well thought out because you are interfering with the way people handle themselves and the way people live their lives. If you do things on a one-off basis without thinking about what effect you're going to have on the public, you can end up with a backlash to it rather than the normal course that Albertans take, which is a respect for the law and following the law, which I think is the truth.

You can see that through time. When seat belt legislation came in, for example, there was an incredible discussion around the province about whether or not people should be forced to wear their seat belts. But once the law was passed, there was quite good adoption of that law. That's because Albertans by and large are law-abiding people. But in order to get people to abide by the law rather than push back on it – we see some of the push-back on the .05 legislation that we debated before Christmas, for example – if you want to actually have not just a comprehensive law but comprehensive public understanding and adoption of the law and a willingness to follow the law, you have to actually do it in an appropriate and cohesive way.

That's why I think that while the concept of this bill is a very important one and one that I endorse and support and would like to see happen, I would like to see it happen in a way that is focused on the protection of children and focused on not just second-hand tobacco smoke in cars but also on the way in which we deal with some of these tobacco products and the sale of tobacco, which appears, at least to me and I think to the people who are talking to me about it with the little can of products that they brought to my office, to be clearly – I mean, flavoured small cigarillos, bubble gum cigarettes. These are products which in my view are tailored to encourage kids to smoke and to start smoking, and I think we need to deal with that.

4:20

There are a number of things. I think that comprehensive strategy is important. I think that we need to deal with this in a comprehensive way. Mr. Chairman, one of the concerns I have and I should mention about private members' bills overall is that often they're drafted with a good concept in mind, but they're not drafted in a way that fits with an overall strategy or fits, in fact, with the language of bills. I always encourage private members on both sides of the House to have bills come into effect on proclamation. This bill, under section 4, comes into force on January 1, 2013. While that is a significant amount of time to put the necessary regulations and enforcement procedures in place, it isn't, in my view, enough time to put the rest of the strategy together and to bring it all into effect at a time when you can have a concerted, focused strategy on a number of issues and really build the public support for this, which is really important for its success.

Mr. Chairman, I would like to move an amendment. I think you have it at the table. I'll wait for it to be distributed.

The Chair: We shall now pause for a moment for the pages to distribute the amendment.

Hon. minister, you may proceed now.

Mr. Hancock: Thank you, Mr. Chairman. The amendment that I would move – and I understand you have it at the table. I presume that you will want to label it A1.

The Chair: Yes. It is now known as amendment A1.

Mr. Hancock: Thank you. I'd move that Bill 203 be amended in section 4 by striking out "January 1, 2013" and substituting "Proclamation." Again, a very simple change, but a change which will make it possible, when this bill is passed, to ensure that it aligns with the rest of the work on a tobacco reduction strategy, on the sale of tobacco to young people, and, indeed, in my view, even on location of tobacco sales.

I was absolutely astounded, when I was Minister of Health, when we brought in the tobacco reduction strategy amendment act. I think that's what it was called. I had to meet with a number of groups that were opposed to the bill, retail organizations, an example. Now, some of them I had some sympathy for: you know, pharmacists in rural Alberta who were concerned that they wouldn't be able to sell tobacco in their stores, and if the pharmacy was in a grocery store and they were the only one in the location, they would lose customers, in essence. I took a pretty hard line on that, and many of my colleagues were upset about that hard line. But I did take a hard line on that and said: "No. It's inconsistent for pharmacies, which are health facilities, in essence – they're supposed to be in the promotion of health – to sell products which are detrimental to health."

But we also had representation from small store owners, from the convenience store owners. I was absolutely astounded to discover that there were placement payments being made to convenience store owners to place product. We dealt with some of that when we got rid of the power walls. That was an important piece. I don't have any independent evidence of this, but I was told by people who had been receiving the payments that they got paid more if they were located close to schools than if they were further away from schools. That's the type of thing which really caused me a great deal of concern.

Now, that act, in my view, has been quite successful. Those amendments were successful, and they were successful because they weren't brought in in a one-off piece. In fact, as I said, they had been started by Gary Mar when he was minister of health. The Member for Sherwood Park was minister of health, and she did some work on the tobacco reduction strategy. I happened to be the beneficiary of a lot of that work in being able to bring it forward at a time when we could make it acceptable to a cross-section of the public right across the province. That, as I said earlier in my remarks, is extremely important because a law that doesn't have public acceptance is very difficult to enforce, and you get push-back on it. This is too important to do on an ad hoc basis. This is something that must be done comprehensively.

I move the amendment, Mr. Chairman, because I think it's important that the act come into force on proclamation so that the act can be aligned with the other work that's currently being done on a tobacco reduction strategy. It's not something that needs to be slowed down. It's something that needs to be done, actually, this year, and it needs to be done as soon as it can be done. But it needs to be done in an appropriate way, and that's a way which allows not just the passing of the act but looking at those other pieces that I think are absolutely important to this process and designing an appropriate public relations strategy so that it can be moved quickly into the public and build that confidence level in the public.

The Chair: The hon. Leader of the Official Opposition on amendment A1.

Dr. Sherman: Thank you, Mr. Chair. I appreciate the comments from the hon. Member for Edmonton-Whitemud. In an ideal world we wish this bill was already in place. In the interests of co-operation and compromise I support the amendment so we can pass this bill. I encourage all members to pass this bill today.

Thank you.

The Chair: Any other hon. member on amendment A1?

Seeing none, the chair shall now call the question.

[Motion on amendment A1 carried]

The Chair: The hon. Member for Edmonton-Riverview.

Dr. Taft: Yes. I need a little procedural guidance here. We might want to have a recorded vote on this, but it would be a shame to spend 10 minutes on the division, so could I move a one-minute bell? If it comes to that, we can have a bell that's just for one minute. I make that motion.

Thank you.

The Chair: All right.

Mr. Hancock: I am often a proponent of one-minute bells, but what we normally would try to do is make sure that people were aware of it. So the first bell would normally be 10 minutes and then subsequent bells one minute. It would be difficult to have a one-minute bell when none of our colleagues would be aware of the fact that it had been reduced to one minute.

The Chair: The hon. Member for Edmonton-Riverview has a motion to reduce the first bell to one minute.

Dr. Taft: Yes, that's my desire.

The Chair: The first division is one minute between bells, right?

Dr. Taft: That's what I'm calling for.

The Chair: Okay.

[Unanimous consent denied]

The Chair: We'll get back to the bill. The hon. Member for Strathcona.

Mr. Quest: On the bill. Thank you, Mr. Chairman. I'm glad we've had the opportunity to have some good discussion on this. I know there are those who want to rush this through, but I think part of democracy is the importance of participation, the importance of thorough debate. We've seen hours and hours of that in this Chamber from both sides. I think it's important.

It is an honour for me to rise today and participate in Committee of the Whole on Bill 203, the Tobacco Reduction (Protection of Children in Vehicles) Amendment Act, 2012, brought forward by the hon. Member for Edmonton-Meadowlark. Thank you for doing that. I really enjoyed some of the stories here this afternoon.

4:30

I just thought of even my father, who was a doctor of veterinary medicine, who was a smoker in the '60s, when I was a little kid. I remember driving around in the tiny enclosed space of his Corvair, which was probably a second mistake, buying that car. Anyway, it was just normal, like the Member for Grande Prairie-Smoky was saying, in those days. But things have changed, and this is a serious health issue. Bill 203 would amend the Tobacco Reduction Act to make smoking in a vehicle carrying anyone under the age of 18 illegal, and I think that's a pretty good idea. The intent of this legislation is of course to protect children from the health risks associated with second-hand smoke in these enclosed spaces.

Section 2.2 of the Tobacco Reduction Act currently states, "This Act does not apply to a building, structure or vehicle, or a part of a building or structure, that is used as a private residence." Section 2 of Bill 203 would amend the above portion by striking out "structure or vehicle" and substituting "or structure." This amendment section would then state the following: "This Act does not apply to a building or structure, or a part of a building or structure, that is used as a private residence." Now, what this means is that the Tobacco Reduction Act would apply to all private vehicles, which, by my logic, may include motorhomes. Sometimes those are used as a primary residence. This is why we need to have some fairly thorough discussion on this because these things often come up after. They need to be caught before we pass legislation, not after.

I believe that preventing people from smoking in cars with children present is an honourable goal, but extending this limitation to a primary residence may create some challenges if, again, that is the interpretation. Mr. Chairman, I'm just concerned about the perception of excessive intrusion into the lives of private citizens. This is always the balance. We often hear criticism about creating nanny states when we get into these. We expect people to be responsible but not in all cases.

Personal vehicles are not the same as public transit, and they're not public places. Nonetheless, this legislation would impose restrictions on the activities that private citizens would engage in in these vehicles. A number of governments have already made it illegal to smoke in a private vehicle when a child is present. That's good. However, they've also understood that it may be inappropriate to insert themselves into the private spaces of a residence, especially a primary residence. As such, this is something that needs to be clarified. Would the bill make it illegal to smoke in a motorhome, and if so, what if that motorhome is a primary residence?

Mr. Chairman, section 3 of the Tobacco Reduction Act, the legislation that Bill 203 intends to amend, states that

no person shall smoke

- (a) in a public place,
- (b) in a workplace,
- (c) in a public vehicle, or
- (d) within a prescribed distance from a doorway, window or air intake of a public place or workplace.

Section 3 of Bill 203 would also amend the above portion by adding the following clause: "in a vehicle in which a minor is present."

The question that should be asked, Mr. Chairman, is whether a motorhome is defined as a structure or a vehicle. This distinction is very important as it determines whether people that own motorhomes and use them as a primary residence can smoke in their motorhome when children are present. I'm not condoning smoking in motorhomes – many studies demonstrate the harmful effects of second-hand smoke in general – but it certainly is a question that should be addressed before any further action takes place with respect to this bill. I find it difficult to believe there would be any contention over limiting a child's exposure to second-hand smoke.

My concern, Mr. Chairman, is with the larger impact this legislation may have on Albertans' individual rights. Again, there is a lot of sensitivity to the personal rights of Albertans. They're very independent people, and we support and understand that, take pride in it, as a matter of fact.

Mr. Chairman, I have a bit of a concern with this bill in that as it's written, it could be – could be – the beginning of a long list of intrusions into the private space of individuals. As I mentioned before, Bill 203 speaks to preventing smoking in private vehicles if people are under the age of 18. This is understandable in many ways. Young children don't have the ability to make a choice to avoid second-hand smoke in vehicles, and many are unaware of the dangers of second-hand smoke.

However, children may not be the only ones that are in need of this protection. As mentioned previously, Bill 203 would add the clause "in a vehicle in which a minor is present" to the Tobacco Reduction Act. Bill 203 intends to protect children from second-hand smoke in cars because they're vulnerable, but it does lead to the question: do we also need to pass legislation to protect other vulnerable populations as well?

Many of these groups, like children, may not have the ability to avoid situations where the driver is smoking. I hardly consider myself vulnerable, but we've all been stuck in cabs, in foreign countries in some cases, where a driver is smoking. Nobody wants to be in that situation, vulnerable or not. As such, in the future new bills may be introduced to make it illegal to smoke in a vehicle carrying the elderly or the disabled. As a result, we could continue down a long road of inserting ourselves into Albertans' private lives.

Mr. Chairman, this government has established a number of laws and programs to reduce or prohibit smoking in public places. Most of these programs fall under the Alberta tobacco reduction strategy. These comprehensive initiatives work to protect all Albertans from the dangers of second-hand smoke and have also been changing social attitudes around smoking, and I think this continues to happen. It is less and less prevalent as we look around.

In 10 years we've seen a massive decrease in the number of young people picking up smoking, and many long-time smokers have found the strength and support that they need to quit. These initiatives do not require the government to infringe upon an individual's personal rights within their private domain, yet they've had significant results in reducing tobacco use and, thus, overall exposure to second-hand smoke. Legislation may further decrease the amount of second-hand smoke that some children are exposed to, but I think it's important that we discuss all aspects of an issue before this bill is passed.

With that, Mr. Chairman, I'd like to conclude my statements on Bill 203. I really am still undecided. There have been some fabulous arguments made in favour of this bill this afternoon, on the concept and the spirit of the bill, absolutely, but have we really covered off everything and some of the pitfalls and some of the difficulties we may run into, some of the people that aren't included with the passing of this bill? I look forward to hearing from any other hon. colleagues during the rest of this debate so that we can decide where to go with this.

Thank you, Mr. Chairman.

The Chair: On my list here I have the hon. Member for Calgary-Nose Hill.

Dr. Brown: Thank you, Mr. Chairman. I would like to make a few comments of a personal nature as to where I'm coming from on the particular issue. I see this particular measure, this piece of legislation, as being somewhat of a natural progression from where we've been in the social history of tobacco use and how we as a society have influenced attitudes and how we have progressively come up with more and more regulations.

I know that when I was a young boy many years ago, tobacco smoking was seen as somewhat glamorous. It was seen as a way to show that you were mature, that you were an adult, and so on. I know that a lot of my peers at the time took up smoking, and many of them still smoke to this day. Some of them, in fact, are no longer around because of the fact that they smoked.

We all know that tobacco smoking, when you first encounter it, is a rather unpleasant experience. Nobody ever says that they enjoyed their first cigarette or their first few cigarettes because they usually have some nausea or are sick and turn green and maybe even become sick to the stomach. But despite the fact that it's unpleasant at first, there is something that causes people to continue doing it, and I would suggest that a lot of it is peer pressure. A lot of it is the desire, as I said, to be seen to be part of a group or to be seen to be more mature, more glamorous, or whatever.

4:40

I think that even to this day there are other influences. As we've become more and more knowledgeable about the detrimental effects of smoke and we put these horrible images on tobacco packages which would be enough to scare anybody, from the fact that those things are on there, in fact, maybe those people that are defying the knowledge that it's harmful and defying the fact that these ugly images are on there are showing in some way that they don't care, that they're brave, that they're big, that they're adult. "I don't give a damn about what other people say. I'm my own person." In a way, it may actually have a negative effect on some of those young people.

I just want to relate my own family history with respect to smoking. My father smoked very heavily throughout almost all of his life. From the age of about 15, when he joined the Calgary Highlanders militia regiment, he began to smoke. Everybody did it in the militia, in the army in those days, young or not.

I recall as a young boy my father smoking in the vehicle. When I was as young as five or six or seven years old, we used to go goose hunting. We would leave at 3 o'clock in the morning from our home out in Midnapore, a part of Calgary now, and head out to where we were going. I can always remember my father smoking in the vehicle. To me, it was quite overwhelming. Whenever I would ask my father to roll down the window a little bit, you'd think that I was really putting him out. He could not understand how this boy sitting next to him could be offended or in any way find some distaste in the fact that there was all this smoke inside the vehicle. But I can tell you that I didn't like it then, and I don't like it now.

I remember also those trips into the goose hunting country around Gem, Alberta. I would sleep upstairs in one of these abandoned farmhouses that we used to stay in with the permission of the owners. My father would sleep downstairs. I can tell you that on more than one occasion I would wake up in the middle of the night with the strong smell of smoke drifting up the stairs to the upper chamber of these houses. My father was so addicted to tobacco at that point that he had to wake up in the middle of the night to have a cigarette. He used to smoke those old Export 'A', and then later he switched to Rothmans, both of which were very high in tar and nicotine and all of those bad chemicals, which we know are very detrimental to one's health.

As my father progressed through his years, he began to cough more and more. Then we noticed that my father was having increasing difficulty with respect to climbing up stairs and going up a hill or whatever. My father was always an avid outdoorsman. He was a great fisherman and hunter. He loved camping in the outdoors. All of those pursuits that I learned as a young person were what my father enjoyed. But I can tell you that as he got to middle age, into his 40s and his early 50s, he no longer was able to do those types of things because his lung capacity was slowly being eroded. As his children we used to get on dad's case a lot about stopping smoking because the coughing, we could see, was progressively worsening.

My mother was also a smoker from an early age, but my mother could see what was happening to my father, and she made an example by quitting. She just quit cold turkey. My dad could not quit. My dad was terribly addicted to the tobacco, and the effects of that, we could see, were happening. On many, many occasions he tried to quit with the help of things like Nicorette and everything, but he just couldn't do it.

The hon. Member for Grande Prairie-Smoky had indicated that his father died at the age of 63 years because of smoking. My dad died at the age of 66 years because of smoking.

I believe that what we are proposing in this bill I am fully in favour of. As the hon. Member for Strathcona has mentioned, however, there are some who will say that we are drawing a line here with respect to personal rights, that a man's home is his castle and that, similarly, a car should be a private place, where he can do whatever he wants. But here is how I would rationalize this bill. We draw the line when we talk about minors because the behaviour of parents should not be allowed to cause detriment to minors. We look at other analogous types of legislation, and we can look at the helmet laws, where we are talking about bicycles. We don't force adults to wear helmets but we do children, and that is because children cannot always make rational decisions for themselves.

It's the same thing as when the Wildrose was talking about, you know, the parental rights over education. We have to have the right for children to be educated in the basics, and parents should not have paramount rights over them.

I am very much in favour of the bill that the hon. member has brought before us. I think it's a natural progression in things like hiding tobacco, prohibiting smoking in public places, prohibiting the sale in stores that have pharmacies and so on. It's just one more step, and I think it should proceed.

The Chair: Any other hon. member?

Seeing none, the chair shall now call the questions on the bill.

[The remaining clauses of Bill 203 agreed to]

[Title and preamble agreed to]

The Chair: Shall the bill be reported? Are you agreed?

Hon. Members: Agreed.

The Chair: Opposed? Carried.

The hon. Government House Leader.

Mr. Hancock: I would move that the committee rise and report Bill 203.

[Motion carried]

[The Deputy Speaker in the chair]

Dr. Brown: Mr. Speaker, the Committee of the Whole has had under consideration a certain bill. The committee reports the following bill with some amendments: Bill 203. I wish to table copies of all amendments considered by Committee of the Whole on this date for the official records of the Assembly.

The Deputy Speaker: Having heard the report, does the Assembly concur?

Hon. Members: Concur.

The Deputy Speaker: Opposed? So ordered.

The hon. Member for Edmonton-Riverview.

Dr. Taft: Thank you, Mr. Speaker. That's encouraging. We are down to short moments here. I would ask, as I believe it's necessary, for unanimous consent of the Assembly to move to third reading of the bill under consideration.

Thank you.

[Unanimous consent granted]

4:50 Public Bills and Orders Other than
Government Bills and Orders
Third Reading

Bill 203
Tobacco Reduction (Protection of Children in Vehicles)
Amendment Act, 2012

The Deputy Speaker: The hon. Leader of the Official Opposition.

Dr. Sherman: Thank you, Mr. Speaker. It's my pleasure to rise today to move third reading of Bill 203, the Tobacco Reduction (Protection of Children in Vehicles) Amendment Act, 2012.

I'd like to thank all the members of the Assembly who have spoken to the bill. I thank everybody for their support.

Mr. Speaker, I ask for the question on the bill.

The Deputy Speaker: Any hon. members wish to speak on the bill at third reading?

Seeing none, the chair shall now put the question.

[Motion carried; Bill 203 read a third time]

Public Bills and Orders Other than
Government Bills and Orders
Second Reading

Bill 205
Scrap Metal Dealers and Recyclers
Identification Act

The Deputy Speaker: The hon. Member for Strathcona.

Mr. Quest: Thank you, Mr. Speaker. I'll speak, albeit fairly briefly today, to open debate on Bill 205, the Scrap Metal Dealers and Recyclers Identification Act.

We're proposing this bill because we do have a serious problem today in our province, which is the theft of scrap metal just because of its value, and it's becoming all too common. This theft not only deprives the victim of the replacement cost of the metal, but it potentially creates unsafe conditions for the public and workers. Attempts to steal scrap metal can lead to power outages, injury, and death if the thefts are attempted from, say, live electricity infrastructure, and this has happened. Loss of metal on construction sites can seriously delay work, creating costs that outweigh the value of the metal itself.

Mr. Speaker, I believe this bill would help stem the tide of scrap metal theft in our province. It is a serious problem. According to the Edmonton Police Service in the first 11 months of 2011 stolen copper alone accounted for close to $1 million in theft and about $100,000 in associated damages. The Calgary Police Service in the first 10 months of 2011 reported $645,000 worth of copper stolen and $88,000 in associated damages. It keeps growing, and it keeps growing, again, because of the value of these metals, copper specifically. There are hundreds of thousands of dollars stolen in copper spools.

The problem, Mr. Speaker, is that today these thieves can take the stolen metal to a scrap metal dealer or recycling-related business and sell it for cash. We need to make it harder for scrap metal thieves to operate in Alberta, and that's the objective of this bill. Without a ready market for illegally obtained scrap metal in Alberta, the ability for many criminals to profit from scrap metal theft would be greatly diminished. Again, with these ever-increasing prices, the profit margin – well, it's all profit – just keeps growing and growing.

The Scrap Metal Dealers and Recyclers Identification Act, if it's brought into force, would have all scrap metal dealers be required to ensure that the seller of scrap metal provides proof of identity and to record information about the transaction as set out by regulations and keep the records for one year and would inform the seller of scrap metal that the recorded information may be provided to law enforcement. In addition to these basic requirements, for all transactions scrap metal dealers would be required to report purchases above a certain weight to law enforcement agencies.

Now, some have argued that this should be left to municipalities, but it's too much of a patchwork, Mr. Speaker. They have a bylaw in Calgary, but it doesn't apply, of course, once you're outside the municipality of Calgary, so the illegal scrap metal just leaves the jurisdiction. A province-wide system would prevent this.

Bill 205, the Scrap Metal Dealers and Recyclers Identification Act, would also protect scrap metal dealers from legal action due to disclosures of information collected under the act for the purposes of the act, protection that the municipal bylaws don't currently provide.

Mr. Speaker, Bill 205 would be an important tool for fighting this crime and a tool for law enforcement by both reducing the burden on law enforcement and making it harder for sellers of scrap metal to find a ready market.

The requirements for scrap metal dealers and purchasers in this bill are not onerous. As a matter of fact, most large- and medium-sized scrap dealers would not need to change their practices because they do it already.

Among the outcomes of this legislation is that it would crack down on fly-by-night scrap metal businesses that cater to scrap metal thieves. The legislation provides for serious fines both for individuals and the corporations that do not keep records. Individuals could also face jail time.

I'd like my colleagues to note that this bill does have the support of law enforcement. The Alberta Association of Chiefs of Police passed a resolution in support of this bill, and through that, the RCMP has also indicated its support. Also, the Edmonton Police Commission has called for regulations surrounding the presentation of ID by scrap metal sellers and the recording of information of buyers, as is already done in Calgary.

Mr. Speaker, I would ask that all hon. members, as the debate goes on today or in the future, consider supporting what I think is a very important bill leading to, I would think, the significant reduction in the theft of scrap metal in our province.

Thank you, Mr. Speaker.

The Deputy Speaker: The hon. Member for Calgary-Mountain View on the bill.

Dr. Swann: Thank you very much, Mr. Speaker, and thanks to the member for this opportunity to speak to the Scrap Metal Dealers and Recyclers Identification Act. On the face of it, it looks very sensible to ensure that we understand the source and the validity of individuals and the materials they bring forward. Obviously, it shouldn't be too much to expect in a transaction that we understand the identity of people and information respecting the transaction as a basis for legitimacy, for accountability, and for safety in some cases if damage occurs as a result of a transaction.

I guess the only concern I might raise for the record is that whenever we're talking about gathering data on individuals, one wants to know with some assuredness what's going to happen to that data: how secure it is, who gets access to it, what it can be used for, and who can also have access to that data.

With those reservations I guess I'd like to hear a little bit of clarification around whether that's been thought through and, on one level, that we be assured as legislators that we're not adding to the burden or to the access to private information that may in fact come back to bite the individuals or us, especially when we're talking about significant fines and penalties under this act.

If the member has anything further to add on that, that would be helpful.

The Deputy Speaker: Any other hon. member? The hon. Member for Edmonton-Decore on the bill.

Mrs. Sarich: Yes. Thank you, Mr. Speaker. I'm pleased to rise to discuss Bill 205, the Scrap Metal Dealers and Recyclers Identification Act, introduced by the hon. Member for Strathcona. Bill 205 seeks to add a new tool to our arsenal for preventing scrap metal theft, which, with the increasing price of many metals, has become an issue in a number of jurisdictions across the province.

The bill would do so by requiring scrap metal dealers and recyclers to record scrap metal sales and to identify the seller. This information, Mr. Speaker, would then be made available to authorities, who could use the information for investigations.

In addition, Bill 205 would enable peace officers to perform a search or to seize materials held by a scrap metal dealer if it is relevant to a specific investigation, and that would perhaps be helpful.

Mr. Speaker, I know the hon. member has championed this issue for a number of years, and I'm very pleased that he has maintained his particular commitment to this very important area of concern. As legislators it is our responsibility to respond to issues that we have seen within our communities, and this member has been excellent in advocating for his constituents in this regard.

Mr. Speaker, although we know that theft is a criminal offence under the Criminal Code of Canada, because of the rising prices of metals like copper, scrap metal theft has been increasing in jurisdictions across Canada and around the world. Since about 2003 global metal prices have been rising.

I would encourage members to support this direction. Thank you.

5:00 Motions Other than Government Motions

The Deputy Speaker: The hon. Member for Edmonton-McClung on Motion 504. [interjections]

Mr. Xiao: Thank you, Mr. Speaker. I was actually sick and took some medicine, so I just had a nap, unfortunately, but I stayed to open the debate on Motion 504.

Fines for Minor Offences

504. Mr. Xiao moved:

Be it resolved that the Legislative Assembly urge the government to explore options for reducing the number of arrest warrants issued and offenders incarcerated for the repeated nonpayment of fines for minor provincial and municipal bylaw offences, with the goal of increasing the efficiency of the criminal justice system and reducing the cost to taxpayers of sanctioning minor offences.

Mr. Xiao: Mr. Speaker, I'm bringing forward this motion because I believe that our government has the ability to come up with creative new ways of reducing warrants and costs by finding additional methods of dealing with minor offences.

I had the opportunity, Mr. Speaker, to visit the Edmonton Remand Centre a few months ago, and I learned about some of the issues that officers face there. One thing that really struck me was the cost of incarceration. To hold an offender in the remand centre costs our government and taxpayers over $125 per day. And when a person is arrested, they must be given any necessary medical treatment, including dental treatment, free of charge, which only adds to the cost.

This information surprised me, so I began to do some research about how many outstanding warrants we have in our province. What I found was that in 2007 alone Alberta had 200,000 outstanding warrants. In response to this information our government established the Fugitive Apprehension Sheriff Support Team, also known as FASST. This team tracks, investigates, and arrests criminals who are wanted on outstanding warrants in Alberta and have previously evaded capture. I believe that establishing this team was an important step and one that has kept our streets safer. However, Mr. Speaker, only 8,000 of these outstanding warrants, or 4 per cent, were for serious or violent crimes. What this means is that in 2007 there were approximately 192,000 outstanding arrest warrants for nonserious, nonviolent crimes in Alberta.

While I was at the Edmonton Remand Centre – I think it was with the Solicitor General; you know, we visited that facility together – I learned that some inmates had been arrested on warrants for repeatedly not paying fines for things like jaywalking, littering, and failure to pay transit fees. Although I agree that there need to be consequences for these types of infractions, when approximately 96 per cent of Alberta's outstanding warrants are for nonserious crimes, you can imagine, Mr. Speaker, how these cases might tie up our police resources and make it more difficult to get the serious offenders off the streets. According to the FASST website fugitive apprehension is a specialized investigative skill and capturing these individuals requires a lot of time and police resources.

In addition, Mr. Speaker, for some individuals incarceration does not act as a deterrent. In these cases the costs of housing, feeding, and treating offenders for two or three days in our remand centres may not be money well spent. Motion 504 urges the government to explore other options for penalizing individuals for whom a two- or three-day jail sentence is not a deterrent. In particular, I believe we must focus on finding new ways to penalize offenders who have no means to pay tickets in the first place and to ensure that we are effectively diverting mentally ill offenders away from remand centres and, when necessary, getting them the treatment that they need. While our province already has criminal diversion programs in place to help people suffering from mental illness to avoid the criminal justice system, some homeless and mentally ill Albertans are still making their way into our remand centres.

Mr. Speaker, spending about $125 a day to hold an offender in custody for not paying their jaywalking or littering ticket is not an efficient use of tax dollars and our resources, particularly when the offender in question has no means of paying their fine, which is the case for many. I believe that there must be a better way and a more cost-effective way to deter criminals and to break cycles of criminality in Alberta, at least for certain offenders.

The Alberta government has a history of demonstrating leadership and innovation in coming up with new policies to save taxpayers' money and improve the efficiency of our programs and services. In fact, Mr. Speaker, the ministries of Justice and Attorney General and the Solicitor General and Public Security have already started doing more work to reduce the number of warrants in Alberta through their joint outstanding warrant review process initiative.

Mr. Speaker, I believe that now is a great time for us to envision new opportunities for our justice system. As such, I strongly urge all my hon. colleagues to stand in support of Motion 504, and I urge our government to continue their important work in reducing outstanding warrants using innovative means. With that, I will conclude my comments. I look forward to listening to the debate.

Thank you.

5:10

The Deputy Speaker: Any other hon. member? The hon. Member for Calgary-Nose Hill.

Dr. Brown: Thank you very much, Mr. Speaker, and thanks to my hon. colleague for his motion. I would like to make a few comments on it. I know that the intention of the hon. Member for Edmonton-McClung is to have an exploration of certain avenues that might reduce the number of arrest warrants that are issued. Particularly, I think he's concerned about some of the people that may be in temporary holding facilities like the remand centre when they are awaiting an appearance in court on fairly minor provincial and municipal bylaw offences.

I would certainly see where he's coming from on that issue. It's a laudable objective. Nobody wants to see people spending their weekend behind bars because they've got a couple of outstanding parking tickets or some other minor thing. I would suggest to the hon. member that if he investigates that situation further, he'll find that that is not really something that happens on a regular basis. In fact, I find it very difficult to believe that anybody is spending time in jail if they've only got a couple of outstanding parking tickets or anything of a minor nature.

What I would believe, however, is that people who are repeated scofflaws and maybe have $10,000 or $20,000 worth of outstanding fines and have completely thumbed their nose at the justice system might be apprehended as a final resort, as a very last resort, in order to get them to come to accept the consequences of their behaviour, because we can't have people out there that are parking in handicapped stalls or parking in a fire zone or parking willy-nilly on the streets and maybe impeding traffic. They have to come home and pay the piper at some point, and for those people that are refusing to do that, we have to have some ultimate sanction. So I would not say that there has to be a blanket prohibition on putting somebody under arrest because of those circumstances.

I understand where the hon. member is coming from. He wants to increase the efficiency of the criminal justice system, and he wants to perhaps save money. But I wouldn't say that you're saving any money because if somebody's got a whole raft of unpaid fines, it's in the interests of us to collect those fines and to make sure that people know that there are ultimate consequences to their behaviour.

The crux of his motion, as I understand it, is that he wants to tailor it towards different groups of individuals and to expand and strengthen some of the options that we have for various types of offences.

Mr. Speaker, in 2007 the Fugitive Apprehension Sheriff Support Team, or FASST, was established, and it has since that time been the body responsible for handling outstanding arrest warrants. Now, when that body was established, it's worth noting that there were more than 200,000 outstanding warrants. That is a staggering number, and of that number, 8,000 of them were actually for serious or violent crimes. I know that's not the intention. But, still, when you take 8,000 away from 200,000, you've got 192,000 outstanding warrants.

So we need a process, and we need to facilitate handling those warrants. We can't have people out there, as I said, that are just ignoring facing the consequences of the law. I mean, a law is only effective if the sanctions that are imposed by that law can be enforced, and if you have no way to apprehend somebody and make them face the consequences or the sanctions imposed by that law, then law and order breaks down ultimately.

Laws are there for a reason. We try not to impose laws which restrict people's freedoms unless we have a justification for them, and that's why we have things like laws against speeding. We know that speeding is dangerous. It's possibly even more dangerous than drinking and driving. Those people that are out there speeding are causing major accidents, injuries, and deaths.

That's why we need the laws that allow people to be arrested if they ignore the consequences of being served with summonses and there's no other way to get them involved in the justice system. We've got to have those sanctions. I do have some very serious reservations about where we're going with this. I understand the objective, but I do have some reservations about that.

Going back to the issue of the FASST teams, that I mentioned, and the 200,000 outstanding warrants at the time of the establishment, the bulk of those warrants, Mr. Speaker, were for those very things that the hon. member is talking about. They were for repeated nonpayment of fines for minor provincial offences. Those would be things like road offences and municipal bylaw offences. It would be my contention that the FASST teams that we have in Calgary and Edmonton are doing very good work to keep our communities safe by arresting these offenders who have managed time and again to just flaunt the law and have evaded arrest.

Those teams consist of five sheriffs, and they've undergone very extensive training. They target criminals across the whole breadth of our province. While they have proven effective at reducing the number of serious criminals that are out there on the street, there's a lot of work still to be done. Particularly, what we haven't done yet is have adequate focus on those outstanding warrants that are for minor offences. There are still a whole lot of them out there.

I understand where the hon. member is coming from. I can say without hesitation that there are some good ideas in there and that there are some ideas that we may want to work towards, some innovative solutions to the challenges of those outstanding warrants. Quite frankly, I don't know how we would do it if we didn't just go out there and ultimately arrest people. How else are you going to bring the offenders to justice?

I think, also, there's a scope here to examine potential policy and some legislative changes, and that would minimize the accumulation of outstanding warrants. In other words, we'd get on top of this issue earlier. We don't wait until they have $10,000 or $15,000 or $20,000 in outstanding fines before we go out and try and search for them. This is something that requires resources.

I know, Mr. Speaker, that Alberta Justice has been looking at ways that we might adjust sentencing options so that the sentencing bears a better relationship to the seriousness of the offence. There are, however, a significant number of offences that have the potential to lead to incarceration. Those procedures that govern provincial and municipal offences are set out in the Provincial Offences Procedure Act, and they fall out of parts 2 and 3 of that act.

Part 2 offences are what I think the hon. member is directing his motion at today. Those are the ones that could be penalized by the issuance of a warrant and possible incarceration. Those would include the violation of a number of acts, provincial offences, things like the Blind Persons' Rights Act, the Dangerous Goods Transportation and Handling Act, Forests Act, Fuel Tax Act, Fisheries (Alberta) Act, Gaming and Liquor Act, Insurance Act, and the Livestock Identification and Brand Inspection Act.

Thank you, Mr. Speaker.

5:20

The Deputy Speaker: The hon. Member for Edmonton-Beverly-Clareview.

Mr. Vandermeer: Thank you, Mr. Speaker. It's a privilege for me to rise today to speak on Motion 504, brought forward by the hon. Member for Edmonton-McClung. This motion urges the government to explore options for reducing the number of arrest warrants issued and offenders incarcerated in cases of repeated nonpayment of fines for minor provincial or municipal bylaw offences. I would like to thank the hon. member for his interest in this issue.

This motion examines how government resources and manpower are deployed to deal with frequent violators of minor provincial and municipal laws. The expectation with deterrents such as fines is that offenders will pay their fines and be less likely to reoffend in the future. However, there is a segment of frequent repeat offenders that continues to be undeterred by the accumulation of fines, which often results in outstanding arrest warrants, and the justice system spends time and money in attempting to punish that segment of offenders. Mr. Speaker, the intent of this motion would be to encourage a discussion about reducing these costs to taxpayers by exploring other options for deterrence.

It is important to know that the vast majority of arrest warrants issued in any given year are actually for minor offences. In the case of the minor offences an arrest warrant is issued, specifically when the offender has not paid his or her fines. Examples of these minor offences include jaywalking, littering, and not paying for transit fares. A variety of factors contribute to the issue of people not paying their fines. For example, if a person is unemployed, homeless, or struggling with mental illness, they may be less likely to gather the necessary financial resources to pay their fines. As well, these factors could also be contributing to the reason they are committing these offences in the first place.

Mr. Speaker, I'd like to talk about what measures other jurisdictions have taken to combat the same problem. This issue of outstanding warrants is certainly a complex one, which requires more study to determine some potential solutions. In fact, many other jurisdictions have carried out comprehensive reviews of this issue. As it turns out, though, very few of these reviews have suggested ways to reduce the overall numbers of warrants. They have generally focused on the enforcement of the warrant, apprehending the individual, and, hopefully, collecting the fine.

In other jurisdictions like New Zealand the government implemented a tracking system meant to identify serious fine defaulters as they attempt to enter or leave the country. Likewise, many of the solutions proposed by other jurisdictions have not fully addressed and improved the way to deal with repeat offenders. In 2004 Scotland put together a working group on outstanding warrants. At the time over 72 per cent of the country's outstanding warrants were for nonpayment of fines. The working group was given the task of reviewing systems for communication of information related to outstanding warrants with the goal of making improvements to the efficiency of the justice system. In the final report the group noted that an obvious problem was police resources being diverted to deal with outstanding warrants for nonpayment of fines. The committee concluded that fine enforcement procedures should be redesigned in order to free up the police officers for higher priority tasks. As well, the committee recommended improving information-sharing processes to process arrest warrants more quickly.

On that note, Mr. Speaker, Alberta Justice and the Solicitor General are currently leading a working group on an outstanding warrant review process. This group was tasked with recommending solutions for clearing up the current backlog of outstanding warrants and with changing the various systems and processes to prevent so many warrants from being created in the first place. This is a collaborative effort between the two ministries to address an issue from multiple angles.

Mr. Speaker, it is my belief that the objective of Motion 504 would align with the vital work currently being carried out by the outstanding warrant review process working group. Clearing up the backlog of outstanding warrants is an important step in the right direction. However, in examining the process and systems in place, it might also be useful for the working group to explore other approaches towards reducing warrants for repeat offenders of minor offences.

Mr. Speaker, I know that it is supremely important that we continue to support the justice system in its work of making society safer for all. In the meantime I look forward to hearing what my fellow members have to say.

Thank you, Mr. Speaker.

The Deputy Speaker: Any other hon. member?

Seeing none, the chair shall now recognize the hon. Member for Edmonton-McClung to close the debate.

Mr. Xiao: Thank you, Mr. Speaker. I'm pleased to rise once again to offer some closing remarks on Motion 504. The purpose of this motion is to urge the government to explore options for reducing the number of warrants issued and the persons incarcerated for minor offences. It is important that our policies, initiatives, and programs are as effective as possible and that our government makes the best use of taxpayers' dollars.

Alberta is a truly innovative and forward-thinking province, and I believe that it is possible for us to devise new ways of penalizing people who commit minor regulatory and bylaw offences in order to reduce our outstanding warrants. As I said in my opening speech, it is important that the programs are tailored to specific individuals.

Alberta Health Services has a diversion program to help people with mental illness to stay out of the criminal justice system, and the Solicitor General and Public Security also have programs to help youth and first-time offenders avoid criminal records.

Mr. Speaker, this motion urges our government to continue exploring additional options for dealing with offenders who have refused to pay fines for minor offences in order to ensure that our financial, police, and judicial resources are freed up to deal with the more serious offences. Alberta Justice and the Solicitor General and Public Security are already doing important work in reducing warrants in our province, particularly when they are issued for nonserious infractions, but I think more needs to be done. I support these efforts, and I look forward to seeing new initiatives in the future that will increase the efficiency of the judicial system.

Mr. Speaker, I would like to thank hon. members for the thoughtful debate today, and I urge all of my colleagues to vote in support of this motion. Thank you.

[Motion Other than Government Motion 504 lost]

The Deputy Speaker: The hon. Deputy Government House Leader.

Mr. Weadick: Well, thank you, Mr. Speaker. In view of the great work done earlier on Bill 203, working together with members opposite, and getting some discussion in on Bill 205, and now having Motion 504 completed, I would move that we call it 6 o'clock and that we adjourn until 7:30 tonight.

[Motion carried; the Assembly adjourned at 5:30 p.m.]

Table of Contents

Prayers	597
Introduction of Guests	597, 613
Members' Statements
Tribute to Long-term Care Residents	598
Retrospective by the Member for Calgary-Varsity	599
Results-based Budgeting	607
International Adult Learners' Week	608
Sagewood Seniors' Residence	608
Edmonton-McClung	608
Emergency Preparedness	609
Oral Question Period
Postsecondary Education Costs	599
Alleged Intimidation of Physicians	600, 601
AIMCo Investments	600
Electricity Exports	601
Noninstructional Postsecondary Tuition Fees	602, 603
Home-schooling	602
Long-term Care Accommodation Rates	602
Education Funding	603
Education Property Taxes	604
School Capital Construction	604
Primary Care Networks	604
Education Consultation	605
Alberta Human Rights Act	605
High-speed Internet Service for Rural Alberta	606
Workforce Employment Services	606
Restorative Justice	607
Sand and Gravel Extraction Management	607
Tabling Returns and Reports	609
Orders of the Day	610
Written Questions
Registered Apprenticeship Program Participation	610
Registered Apprenticeship Program Cost	610
Motions for Returns
Lawsuits against Alberta Health Services	611
Postsecondary Institution Student Fees	611
Alberta Innovates and Pfizer Canada MOU	612
Supportive Living Personal Care Facilities	613
Public Bills and Orders Other than Government Bills and Orders
Committee of the Whole
Bill 203 Tobacco Reduction (Protection of Children in Vehicles) Amendment Act, 2012	613
Third Reading
Bill 203 Tobacco Reduction (Protection of Children in Vehicles) Amendment Act, 2012	623
Second Reading
Bill 205 Scrap Metal Dealers and Recyclers Identification Act	623
Motions Other than Government Motions
Fines for Minor Offences	624

If your address is incorrect, please clip on the dotted line, make any changes, and return to the address listed below. To facilitate the update, please attach the last mailing label along with your account number.

Subscriptions
Legislative Assembly Office
1001 Legislature Annex
9718 – 107 Street
EDMONTON, AB T5K 1E4

.....

Last mailing label:

Account # _____

New information:

Name:

Address:

.....

Subscription information:

Annual subscriptions to the paper copy of Alberta Hansard (including annual index) are $127.50 including GST if mailed once a week or $94.92 including GST if picked up at the subscription address below or if mailed through the provincial government interdepartmental mail system. Bound volumes are $121.70 including GST if mailed. Cheques should be made payable to the Minister of Finance.

Price per issue is $0.75 including GST.

Online access to Alberta Hansard is available through the Internet at www.assembly.ab.ca

Subscription inquiries:

Subscriptions
Legislative Assembly Office
1001 Legislature Annex
9718 – 107 St.
EDMONTON, AB T5K 1E4
Telephone: 780.427.1302

Other inquiries:

Managing Editor
Alberta Hansard
1001 Legislature Annex
9718 – 107 St.
EDMONTON, AB T5K 1E4
Telephone: 780.427.1875

Province of Alberta

The 27th Legislature
Fifth Session

Alberta Hansard

Monday evening, March 19, 2012

Issue 20e

The Honourable Kenneth R. Kowalski, Speaker

Legislative Assembly of Alberta
The 27th Legislature

Fifth Session

Kowalski, Hon. Ken, Barrhead-Morinville-Westlock, Speaker
Cao, Wayne C.N., Calgary-Fort, Deputy Speaker and Chair of Committees
Zwozdesky, Gene, Edmonton-Mill Creek, Deputy Chair of Committees

Ady, Cindy, Calgary-Shaw (PC)
Allred, Ken, St. Albert (PC)
Amery, Moe, Calgary-East (PC)
Anderson, Rob, Airdrie-Chestermere (W),
Wildrose Opposition House Leader
Benito, Carl, Edmonton-Mill Woods (PC)
Berger, Hon. Evan, Livingstone-Macleod (PC)
Bhardwaj, Naresh, Edmonton-Ellerslie (PC)
Bhullar, Hon. Manmeet Singh, Calgary-Montrose (PC)
Blackett, Lindsay, Calgary-North West (PC)
Blakeman, Laurie, Edmonton-Centre (AL),
Official Opposition Deputy Leader,
Official Opposition House Leader
Boutilier, Guy C., Fort McMurray-Wood Buffalo (W)
Brown, Dr. Neil, QC, Calgary-Nose Hill (PC)
Calahasen, Pearl, Lesser Slave Lake (PC)
Campbell, Robin, West Yellowhead (PC),
Government Whip
Chase, Harry B., Calgary-Varsity (AL)
Dallas, Hon. Cal, Red Deer-South (PC)
Danyluk, Hon. Ray, Lac La Biche-St. Paul (PC)
DeLong, Alana, Calgary-Bow (PC)
Denis, Hon. Jonathan, QC, Calgary-Egmont (PC),
Deputy Government House Leader
Doerksen, Arno, Strathmore-Brooks (PC)
Drysedale, Wayne, Grande Prairie-Wapiti (PC),
Deputy Government Whip
Elniski, Doug, Edmonton-Calder (PC)
Evans, Iris, Sherwood Park (PC)
Fawcett, Kyle, Calgary-North Hill (PC)
Forsyth, Heather, Calgary-Fish Creek (W),
Wildrose Opposition Whip
Fritz, Yvonne, Calgary-Cross (PC)
Goudreau, Hector G., Dunvegan-Central Peace (PC)
Griffiths, Hon. Doug, Battle River-Wainwright (PC)
Groeneveld, George, Highwood (PC)
Hancock, Hon. Dave, QC, Edmonton-Whitemud (PC),
Government House Leader
Hayden, Hon. Jack, Drumheller-Stettler (PC)
Hehr, Kent, Calgary-Buffalo (AL)
Hinman, Paul, Calgary-Glenmore (W),
Wildrose Opposition Deputy Leader
Horne, Hon. Fred, Edmonton-Rutherford (PC),
Deputy Government House Leader
Horner, Hon. Doug, Spruce Grove-Sturgeon-St. Albert (PC)
Jablonski, Mary Anne, Red Deer-North (PC)
Jacobs, Broyce, Cardston-Taber-Warner (PC)
Johnson, Hon. Jeff, Athabasca-Redwater (PC)

Johnston, Art, Calgary-Hays (PC)
Kang, Darshan S., Calgary-McCall (AL),
Official Opposition Whip
Klimchuk, Hon. Heather, Edmonton-Glenora (PC)
Knight, Mel, Grande Prairie-Smoky (PC)
Leskiw, Genia, Bonnyville-Cold Lake (PC)
Liepert, Hon. Ron, Calgary-West (PC)
Lindsay, Fred, Stony Plain (PC)
Lukaszuk, Hon. Thomas A., Edmonton-Castle Downs (PC)
Lund, Ty, Rocky Mountain House (PC)
MacDonald, Hugh, Edmonton-Gold Bar (AL)
Mason, Brian, Edmonton-Highlands-Norwood (ND),
Leader of the ND Opposition
McFarland, Barry, Little Bow (PC)
McQueen, Hon. Diana, Drayton Valley-Calmar (PC)
Mitzel, Len, Cypress-Medicine Hat (PC)
Morton, Hon. F.L., Foothills-Rocky View (PC)
Notley, Rachel, Edmonton-Strathcona (ND),
ND Opposition House Leader
Oberle, Hon. Frank, Peace River (PC)
Olson, Hon. Verlyn, QC, Wetaskiwin-Camrose (PC),
Deputy Government House Leader
Ouellette, Luke, Innisfail-Sylvan Lake (PC)
Pastoor, Bridget Brennan, Lethbridge-East (PC)
Prins, Ray, Lacombe-Ponoka (PC)
Quest, Dave, Strathcona (PC)
Redford, Hon. Alison M., QC, Calgary-Elbow (PC),
Premier
Renner, Rob, Medicine Hat (PC)
Rodney, Dave, Calgary-Lougheed (PC)
Rogers, George, Leduc-Beaumont-Devon (PC)
Sandhu, Peter, Edmonton-Manning (PC)
Sarich, Janice, Edmonton-Decore (PC)
Sherman, Dr. Raj, Edmonton-Meadowlark (AL),
Leader of the Official Opposition
Snelgrove, Lloyd, Vermilion-Lloydminster (Ind)
Stelmach, Ed, Fort Saskatchewan-Vegreville (PC)
Swann, Dr. David, Calgary-Mountain View (AL)
Taft, Dr. Kevin, Edmonton-Riverview (AL),
Official Opposition Deputy Whip
Tarchuk, Janis, Banff-Cochrane (PC)
Taylor, Dave, Calgary-Currie (AB)
VanderBurg, Hon. George, Whitecourt-Ste. Anne (PC)
Vandermeer, Tony, Edmonton-Beverly-Clareview (PC)
Weadick, Hon. Greg, Lethbridge-West (PC),
Deputy Government House Leader
Webber, Len, Calgary-Foothills (PC)
Woo-Paw, Teresa, Calgary-Mackay (PC)
Xiao, David H., Edmonton-McClung (PC)

Party standings:

Progressive Conservative: 66 Alberta Liberal: 8 Wildrose: 4 New Democrat: 2 Alberta: 1 Independent: 1 Vacant: 1

Officers and Officials of the Legislative Assembly

W.J. David McNeil, Clerk	Stephanie LeBlanc, Parliamentary Counsel & Legal Research Officer	Chris Caughell, Assistant Sergeant-at-Arms
Robert H. Reynolds, QC, Law Clerk/ Director of Interparliamentary Relations	Philip Massolin, Committee Research Co-ordinator	Gordon H. Munk, Assistant Sergeant-at-Arms
Shannon Dean, Senior Parliamentary Counsel/Director of House Services	Brian G. Hodgson, Sergeant-at-Arms	Liz Sim, Managing Editor of Alberta Hansard

Executive Council

Alison Redford	Premier, President of Executive Council, Chair of Agenda and Priorities Committee
Doug Horner	Deputy Premier, President of Treasury Board and Enterprise
Dave Hancock	Minister of Human Services
Ted Morton	Minister of Energy
Verlyn Olson	Minister of Justice and Attorney General
Fred Horne	Minister of Health and Wellness
Ron Liepert	Minister of Finance
Thomas Lukaszuk	Minister of Education, Political Minister for Edmonton
Diana McQueen	Minister of Environment and Water
Jonathan Denis	Solicitor General and Minister of Public Security
Cal Dallas	Minister of Intergovernmental, International and Aboriginal Relations, Political Minister for Central Alberta
Evan Berger	Minister of Agriculture and Rural Development, Political Minister for Southern Alberta
Frank Oberle	Minister of Sustainable Resource Development
George VanderBurg	Minister of Seniors
Ray Danyluk	Minister of Transportation
Jeff Johnson	Minister of Infrastructure, Political Minister for Northern Alberta
Doug Griffiths	Minister of Municipal Affairs
Greg Weadick	Minister of Advanced Education and Technology
Jack Hayden	Minister of Tourism, Parks and Recreation
Heather Klimchuk	Minister of Culture and Community Services
Manmeet Singh Bhullar	Minister of Service Alberta, Political Minister for Calgary

Parliamentary Assistants

Naresh Bhardwaj	Health and Wellness
Alana DeLong	Seniors
Arno Doerksen	Human Services
Kyle Fawcett	Treasury Board and Enterprise
Art Johnston	Executive Council
Barry McFarland	Agriculture and Rural Development
Len Mitzel	Transportation
Dave Rodney	Health and Wellness
David Xiao	Energy

STANDING AND SPECIAL COMMITTEES OF THE LEGISLATIVE ASSEMBLY OF ALBERTA

Standing Committee on the Alberta Heritage Savings Trust Fund

Chair: Ms Tarchuk
Deputy Chair: Mr. Elniski

Anderson
DeLong
Groeneveld
Johnston
MacDonald
Quest
Taft

Standing Committee on Community Development

Chair: Mrs. Jablonski
Deputy Chair: Mr. Chase

Amery
Blakeman
Boutilier
Calahasen
Goudreau
Groeneveld
Lindsay
Snelgrove
Taylor
Vandermeer

Standing Committee on Education

Chair: Ms Pastoor
Deputy Chair: Mr. Hehr

Anderson
Benito
Brown
Cao
Chase
Leskiw
Notley
Sarich
Tarchuk
Vacant

Standing Committee on Energy

Chair: Mrs. Ady
Deputy Chair: Ms Blakeman

Hehr
Hinman
Jacobs
Johnston
Lund
Mason
McFarland
Ouellette
Webber
Xiao

Standing Committee on Finance

Chair: Mr. Renner
Deputy Chair: Mr. Kang

Allred
Anderson
Drysdale
Fawcett
Knight
Mitzel
Prins
Sandhu
Taft
Taylor

Standing Committee on Legislative Offices

Chair: Mr. Blackett
Deputy Chair: Mr. Lund

Blakeman
Brown
Evans
Hinman
Lindsay
MacDonald
Notley
Ouellette
Quest
Vacant

Special Standing Committee on Members' Services

Chair: Mr. Kowalski
Deputy Chair: Mr. Campbell

Amery
Anderson
Elniski
Evans
Hehr
Knight
Leskiw
MacDonald
Mason
Rogers

Standing Committee on Private Bills

Chair: Dr. Brown
Deputy Chair: Ms Woo-Paw

Allred	Kang
Benito	Knight
Boutilier	Lindsay
Calahasen	McFarland
Doerksen	Sandhu
Drysdale	Sarich
Evans	Snelgrove
Groeneveld	Swann
Hinman	Xiao
Jacobs

Standing Committee on Privileges and Elections, Standing Orders and Printing

Chair: Mr. Prins
Deputy Chair: Mr. Snelgrove

Amery	Mitzel
Boutilier	Notley
Calahasen	Pastoor
DeLong	Quest
Doerksen	Stelmach
Forsyth	Swann
Jacobs	Tarchuk
Knight	Taylor
Leskiw	Zwozdesky
McFarland

Standing Committee on Public Accounts

Chair: Mr. MacDonald
Deputy Chair: Mr. Goudreau

Allred	Kang
Benito	Mason
Calahasen	Rodney
Chase	Sandhu
Elniski	Vandermeer
Fawcett	Woo-Paw
Forsyth	Xiao
Groeneveld

Standing Committee on Public Health and Safety

Chair: Mrs. Fritz
Deputy Chair: Dr. Taft

Bhardwaj
Blakett
DeLong
Doerksen
Forsyth
Notley
Rodney
Rogers
Swann
Woo-Paw

Legislative Assembly of Alberta

7:30 p.m.

Monday, March 19, 2012

[The Deputy Speaker in the chair]

The Deputy Speaker: Please be seated.

Government Bills and Orders Committee of the Whole

[Mr. Cao in the chair]

The Chair: The chair would like to call the committee to order.

Bill 7 Appropriation Act, 2012

The Chair: Any comments or questions? The hon. Member for Edmonton-Centre.

Ms Blakeman: Thank you very much, Mr. Chairman. I'm pleased to be able to get an opportunity to speak to the Appropriation Act. The process that we have now for debating in Committee of Supply and in the policy field committees means that I don't get a chance to look at the whole bill very much anymore or to hear about the debate going on in the ministries that I'm not the critic responsible for, so this is really my first opportunity to give some general comments on what I see happening in the province.

You know, I just want to loop back here, Mr. Chairman, and talk a little bit about the process that we have for budget debate overall. I have to say, not to put too fine a point on it, that it sucks. It really is not serving us very well. It's not serving the opposition well, it's certainly not serving the government backbenchers very well, and I hope that following the next election somebody over there will be willing to negotiate with me to make this a more productive, accountable, and transparent process.

In many ways this is the most information that I get. Essentially, it's the listing of every ministry, the expense, which is operating money and any capital money they plan on spending. But, honestly, when you look at the budget books, as I have over the last 16 budgets that I've done, there's less and less and less information available in every single budget, so I spend most of my time going: "Okay. Well, what's under this vote? Can you break it out for me and tell me what programs you're actually funding under this and how many FTEs you've assigned to it? What exactly are you paying for?" You can't tell from the budget documents anymore. There are no descriptors to it.

Really, the worst example of this is that under the Health and Wellness budget there's one line that says: Alberta Health Services. It's whatever it is now, $19 billion. One line: that's it. There's no descriptor. It doesn't tell us what it breaks down to. It doesn't tell us how much we spend in each hospital or for doctors or anything. Everything that goes to AHS: that's what it is. No sane human being can hold the government accountable when you get a one-line vote and everything that Alberta Health Services does is under that and there's no breakdown. When I started, you used to get a breakdown of four or five or six subvotes under any given vote. Now it's just the vote. You get five votes, and that's it; ferret it out yourself.

Really, I'm not able anymore to try and hold the government accountable on its choices on given things because I spend all of my time just trying to find out what those choices were. I don't think that's productive, and I certainly don't think it's being accountable to the citizens, who, in my opinion, should be able to pick up a budget document and read it and understand it. That's accountable, and that's not what we've got.

The second part of this is the actual process itself. That is where the government is now choosing certain ministries it debates here in the House, so you can have your assistants on the floor and that sort of thing. Then in the evening you're in a policy field committee in a committee room over in the Annex. It's harder to get the staff around. There's not much room in the back for the public to come in and watch. You're all kind of squished together in this room that just gets hotter and less pleasant as the night goes on.

Frankly, I feel really bad for the government members that are appointed to these policy field committees because they're obliged to sit there and, essentially, twiddle their thumbs for three hours. Honestly, it's about as big a waste of manpower as I've seen for my colleagues in the Legislative Assembly. I don't see how this is moving anything forward. Like, they're obliged to be there. They have to be there to keep the side up or whatever it is they're doing. They get an opportunity to ask questions at the end of the three-hour period if there's enough time, and one of them might get on the list and be able to participate. I'm sorry; why did we have all these people sitting in a room for three hours?

I know that because I'm Official Opposition, we have the first opportunity to ask questions. With respect to some of my colleagues, I'll tell you that if I was a minister who had to answer the same darn question the third time from the third party that appears in front of me, my hair would catch on fire. That's not fair, and it's not a good use of time. The process, not to put too fine a word on it, sucks, and we really need to fix it. It's not a good use of anybody's time. It completely wastes the backbenchers' time.

It doesn't give opposition enough time. I mean, honestly, an hour for the Official Opposition, 60 minutes to share with the minister? If you've got a talkative minister, you're going to get the short end of that 60 minutes, believe me. All you're doing is trying to find out what this actually covers. So not a good use of time. That's part of my observation about the budget process in its entirety, which culminates in the appropriation bill, Bill 7, which we have in front of us.

I think the second thing that I'm interested in is revenue, and you really don't see revenue in the Appropriation Act. It just talks about expenses because it comes through the President of Treasury Board and Enterprise. I mean, it talks about: money will be taken from the general revenue fund. That's in section 1. It will pay for certain things for the Legislative Assembly, and from the general fund it will pay for charges of the public service. It will pay for capital and infrastructure, nonbudgetary, transfers from the lottery fund, et cetera, et cetera, and on it goes.

But we really don't talk about revenue. We try – although, I would argue, we fail – to talk about the expenses, but we really don't discuss government revenue at all, and I think we should. I think we need to have a conversation – and by that I mean a provincial conversation – about where government revenue comes from and about: do we have the appropriate mix of where the government is currently getting its revenue?

My friend here, Mr. Finance, the Member for Edmonton-Gold Bar, has just handed me . . .

Mr. MacDonald: The fiscal plan of this year.

Ms Blakeman: . . . the fiscal plan of this year. Here's how it breaks down. Personal income tax is 53.8 per cent of the money that the government then turns around and spends. Fifty-three point eight per cent. Let's round that up and call it 54 per cent. Other taxes are a little over 3 per cent. Education property taxes are 10 per cent.

Now, let me just go off on a little tangent here because this bugs me. A while back – I think it was actually under Stockwell Day, who was Treasurer at the time – the government took over collecting the education property tax, or, rather, it made the cities, the municipalities collect the tax for them and give it back to them. This was a big change because we used to have school boards requisition how much money they needed. They would have to go out and face their public and say: we need to requisition X number of million dollars.

Mr. MacDonald: How much is corporate tax?

7:40

Ms Blakeman: I'll get there. Be calm. Be calm.

They would face their public. They would argue out why they needed to requisition that amount of money. Well, the province stepped in and said: "It's not fair. We've got some schools that are poorer and some schools that are richer. We're going to collect it all for you, and we're going to redivvy it. We're going to do" – what's that word you guys hate? – "wealth redistribution." That's what they did.

Mr. MacDonald: Reprofiled.

Ms Blakeman: Reprofiled.

People still believe that that education property tax comes in and then is redistributed. It isn't. Look at the chart. For those of you following along at home, this is page 150. It says "Tax Plan," and it's from the fiscal plan for this year. It's 10 per cent, as I said, education property tax. It's collected, goes into general revenue, the big pie here, and they spend it on whatever the heck they want. It doesn't go back out to schools. It's not collected and kept somewhere special. It's right there. It's a big pie.

Corporate income tax, for those that are following along with me over here, is 22 per cent. Less than half of the personal income tax, corporate income tax is at 22.3 per cent. Tobacco tax, everybody's favourite: 5.6 per cent. Well, that hardly seems worth it, does it? Fuel tax, which just burns everybody, is less than the tobacco tax. For those of you that are prone to getting exercised about this, the fuel tax is 4.9 per cent, so almost 5 per cent, but tobacco tax is 5.6 per cent.

That's how taxes we collect breaks down, but that's not where the rest of the revenue comes from. We have income tax. We have corporate tax. We have royalties. But every single day of the government operations, paying for government programs and services, they subsidize – let me put it another way. We are short. In this province of plenty we are short by 23 per cent. Where does that 23 per cent come from? A deafening silence on the other side. It comes from oil and gas that came out of the ground yesterday. Our royalties, that are ours for everybody in this province and everybody that was in this province and everyone to come to this province, are subsidizing what we spent today by 23 per cent. There is something really wrong with that.

Now, whether you want to look at this as that we're going to run out of something – and there are fairly good numbers that you can look up if you want to look them up on how many years' worth of conventional oil we've got and how many years' worth of conventional gas. Then you can work in shale gas. I'm missing something here. There's another word I'm missing, deep gas or something. Then there are the oil sands. But that money that is from selling off our resource: we are spending it every single day. So it's either going to run out, or more likely people are going to stop buying it from us. We're not talking tomorrow. We're not talking 10 or 15 years. We're talking, you know, 25 years.

The pages that are here with us tonight: they're going to notice this one. I will hopefully be happily frolicking away in some seniors' place somewhere. You guys are going to face this one. What are you going to do? We will no longer be the place of plenty. We will have spent all of that stuff, and we will have spent it providing stuff all the way along. How sensible is that?

Honestly, that's like living on the family farm, and when you get a little short on groceries, you open the cupboard – no, not a lot there anymore – and you think: okay; no problem. You put a for-sale sign up, and you sell off another acre in the back 40. Okay. Eventually you have sold off all of those acres to buy groceries, and now you have no farm left except for the home acreage. You're sitting on that, the pantry is bare again, and you've sold off everything else. That's exactly what we're doing in this province. To me, this is not so much a burning issue of expenses. Yes, I'm concerned about that, yes, I think we should be responsible about it, and yes, I think we spend too much in some places and too little in others, but really it's about the revenue for me. It's about the fact that we are saving nothing, a big old fat zero, out of those nonrenewable resources. We're saving none of it for the future. We're spending all of it now.

The heritage fund. Well, people say to me: when the heck is it going to rain? Their lives have already gone through a lot of thunderstorms and ice showers and all kinds of other things. They thought the heritage fund should have been spent long ago to help them with whatever problems they had or to help with our own economy. It's just become a joke.

Then they look at the money that we're not saving from the rest of the stuff. This province has so much potential. It has so much opportunity. This is the richest place on Earth, and we're not respectful of that. We're not respectful of the gift that we've been given, and we don't manage it respectfully. There's so much we could do with it.

We could have a postsecondary fund that we could be adding to and at a certain point turn around and say: we will pay for your first degree or your first college diploma or your first apprenticeship; we will pay for it. If we want to say that this is our gift to the rest of the country, you know, if people move away from Alberta and Saskatchewan gets the benefit of an engineering degree from Alberta: "Great. There you go. We're sharing with you." That's one way to do it. Or we invest in new technology and creativity or we find a cure for cancer or we find a cure for the common cold: share it; there you go. That's what we did with our wealth. We did share it, and everybody had an advantage.

Right now we can't do any of those things. Honestly, we have overcrowded classrooms. Seriously? In this province? You know, we have teachers and health aides that are going on strike for 1 and 2 per cent increases. Seriously? In this province with so much? That's not to say that we should spend every dime we've got. Don't jump up and misunderstand me that way. What I'm saying is that we have so much, yet we are spending it every day and not saving any of it. I think that's irresponsible. I think that if those pages are right PO'd with us, they have every right to be. I know that you guys wouldn't ever crack a smile or do anything that you're not supposed to do. You're very good, excellent pages, very well trained. But, honestly, you should be going after us with something.

I think we need to seriously look at raising taxes, and I will say that out loud. I think we should. I think we should seriously look at rebalancing and reviewing where our revenue comes from. I have talked for some time about having a citizens' initiative where we would have representatives from each riding come together and spend some time with experts and talk about what they think we should do with revenue, where they think it should come from, how much of it should come from this, how much of it should come from that. Then we'll look at a new scheme for how we collect revenue, and then we can get on to the expenses.

I know this is an ideology, and I know I'm not going to change the ideology of the Conservatives.

Mr. Hinman: Oh, don't give up. Keep going.

Ms Blakeman: I'm being egged on by my colleague from the Wildrose. I'm not going to change his ideology either. But thank you for the encouragement.

I really think we need to look at things more as how we're going to invest in them and less as an expense. We have lots of opportunity for investment. Education is always an investment. It's never a waste of time. Investing in education, investing in postsecondary education, investing in arts and culture: big payback, like $8 to $11 for every dollar that you spend, and it makes it more pleasant.

When I've been able to go out and visit other famous cities in the world, you know, there are little pocket parks that are a block big, and every one of them has an amazing piece of art on it that relates to something that happened there at some point. It's commissioned art. It's just amazing to walk through there. Do we have that? Well, we have a 1 per cent rule from the city of Edmonton, God bless them. They put up 1 per cent of every infrastructure project. Then we spend months slugging it in the newspaper, and after a couple of years everyone decides they really love it. I'm waiting for the couple of years when everybody finally loves the Talus. Right now we're just going through the months and months of slugging it: how could we have spent so much money on it? Oh, for heaven's sake. Grow up.

Anyway, my time is running short here, and I'm sure that's cheering many people here.

I was talking about investment in arts and education and creative thinking. You know, even if we want to solve some of the issues that are provoking us and pestering us with the oil sands and with our constant lack of success in balancing oil and gas production and exploration and development with the environment, that takes creative thinking. The more you train people, the more likely you are to have some smart brains out there that are going to solve some of these problems.

7:50

I was door-knocking and talking to a guy that's a biologist, and he's going to graduate and go up to Fort McMurray and work on organisms that eat tailings pond sand or something and algae in lake water that kills fish. You go: "Wow. Cool. Okay. That's what you should be doing." You need that kind of creativity to start to apply things both as cross-disciplinary but also to the world that we live in.

I find the way we approach budgeting very odd, and I would like to see . . . [interjection] Yeah. It's just strange.

I'm going to run out of time here, so I'll say thanks for the opportunity. If I can get up again, maybe I will. You know, I haven't talked about things like municipal partnerships and a lot of things we've been talking about for a long, long time and just never seem to be able to get to resolve when we look at budgets. I really think this budget process just does not work for us any longer. It's certainly not accountable. It's definitely not transparent. It's just a whole bunch of people's waste of time while they sit there and do nothing, and I don't think that's fair to them.

Thanks very much, Mr. Chairman.

The Chair: The hon. Member for Airdrie-Chestermere.

Mr. Anderson: Thank you, Mr. Chair. It's great to be able to rise and speak one last time to the budget. I guess maybe we'll have one more crack at it here in third reading. It is amazing to me. It's like we have to learn lessons the hard way over and over and over again.

You know, we have countries all over the Earth right now struggling, overwhelmingly struggling with massive, crushing debt. If you look at Greece, if you look at Spain, the United Kingdom, France, Italy, Portugal, if you look at all these countries, the biggest example being our neighbours to the south, the United States, of course, if you look at what they're going through right now, certainly in Europe – the devaluation of their currencies, civil unrest, economic upheaval, and so forth – it's like we're watching it on TV, kind of like we watch a movie where it's really interesting and we're aware of it, but it's just on TV, and that couldn't possibly happen here. That's something that happens in other places.

The problem is that all those countries once said the same thing. The United States, certainly, not too many years ago was saying the same thing. This can't happen in the United States; that's stuff that happens in, you know, places like Europe and Africa and the Middle East or Japan with the many years of stagnant growth that they've had now, well over a decade. We never think it's going to come to roost here, but we should know better.

If you look at our history, the history of Alberta is riddled with economic cycles, is riddled with situations where we go from boom to bust almost overnight. In fact, for a very short period of time we saw a very sharp bust, for about three quarters in 2008. It was very short. It was deep, but it was short, and then we were back up. If you look at the 1980s during the national energy program with Mr. Trudeau, if you look at the early '90s, when oil was worth so little and we were having trouble during the Getty years, and then even in the early Ralph Klein years, when we were having trouble making ends meet, things can change so fast when you're so reliant on the price of a commodity.

What we've done in this budget and in previous budgets is that we made our province reliant on about $110 oil if we want to balance the budget. That's what we've done in this budget. You know, you can't blame it on any one year, and you can't blame it on any one person because it's been going on for so long. In some ways the previous Premier was kind of left holding the bag for some of the excessive spending habits of his predecessor, Ralph Klein, during his last few years in office. Then it went on. Now, of course, the current Premier has ramped that up even more than her predecessor.

It just amazes me that at $105 a barrel for oil we can sit here and be debating a budget that has us $3 billion in the hole, roughly an $800 million accounting deficit and a $3 billion cash deficit at $105 a barrel. It's like Russian roulette with our kids' future. What would happen if oil were to go down to, say – oh, I don't know – $70 or $75 a barrel, just $75? That's really low, isn't it? Not really. It would be total chaos. Our budget deficit would be getting close to the $10 billion mark. We would have to make sacrifices and do things that would not be fun, that would hurt people, that would hurt our kids' education, that would hurt our seniors' health care, that would do very bad things, that would certainly take money out of people's pockets because we would be left with very few choices at that point other than to significantly raise taxes or some combination of significantly raising taxes and slashing programs that people rely on.

At the end of the day there is only so much waste in government. There is a lot to cut, but if you're running a $10 billion deficit at, say, $75 a barrel for oil, then you're going to be in a situation where, unfortunately, you're going to need to cut more than just some wasteful programs. You're going to have to be cutting human resources and things like that and a lot of it. That is not something that Albertans want, and it's not something that they deserve.

How can we live in this province at the kind of levels of oil and gas prices that we've seen, specifically oil prices, over the last little while and have a heritage fund that is now worth less today, when adjusted for inflation, than it was when Peter Lougheed first established it in 1976? How is that possible? How? Where did the money go? Where did it all go?

Ms Blakeman: Good question. That much money: our streets should be paved with gold.

Mr. Anderson: You would think so.

Mr. Hinman: Gold is too expensive now.

Mr. Anderson: That's right.

The point is that there is just no reason for it. There is no reason why we should have a heritage fund that is worth whatever it is today, $15 billion or thereabouts when adjusted for inflation, which is less than what it was worth when Peter Lougheed established it. There is no reason for that. There is no reason why our sustainability fund, which was once $16 billion, should now be almost wiped out, going down to roughly $3 billion or $4 billion this year, somewhere in there. There's just no reason for it. There's no way that this government in good conscience can justify it without major self-deception.

It's funny. Even in the last two years there was a little bit of a glimmer of hope, I will say, under the prior Premier because he had managed to slow down the rate of spending somewhat on the program spending side. It had slowed down to below the rate of inflation plus population growth. Now, they were still spending like crazy on the infrastructure side. That's fine. We've had debates in this House on whether that's the way to go. That's fine; we can have those debates. But at least on the program side we had slowed it down a little bit. Program spending, as you know, is not something you can just stretch out over an extra year and a half like you can infrastructure spending. Program spending is kind of there to stay with a few exceptions. It's very difficult to slow it down.

8:00

What does this new Premier do, this new Premier who was going to be so much more fiscally responsible than the previous Premier? Oh, we've got to be fiscally responsible, she said during the leadership. This kind of overspending has just gotten out of control, she said. I'm a fiscal conservative, she said. We're going to balance the budget during a debate; she said she would balance the budget in this very next budget. That's what she said in the PC leadership debate. That was her promise. People glaze over that now and say: "Oh, she couldn't have possibly meant that. She obviously meant 2013."

People forget that one of the reasons for certain folks over there bringing down the last Premier was because he was going to break his goal of getting the budget balanced by 2012, and it was going to probably take him an extra year. Oh, my God. It was just chaos. We can't have that, said the Minister of Energy. We can't have that, said the current Premier, former Minister of Justice. "You said 2012. You said we'd balance in 2012. You're taking it out to 2013. That's just awful." So they found a way. They stuck in the knife, got rid of the last Premier in whatever games were played.

Guess what? They did the exact same thing that that previous Premier said he would have to do. Well, I've got to give the previous Premier credit. At least he was honest about it. At least he wasn't lying to the people of Alberta and saying: "Oh, we've got to change leadership because this Premier has the audacity to say he's going to take it to 2013. Well, we fiscal conservatives could have balanced the budget."

What do they do? Did they balance the budget by 2012? No. In fact, amazingly – amazingly – they found a way to not only not balance, but they increased spending whereas the previous administration had at least gotten that part under control. They decided to greatly increase program spending by well, well over the rate of inflation plus population growth and wipe out a lot of the efficiencies and so forth that were at least slowing down the rate of that very difficult piece, which is very difficult to slow down.

Now, I guess it just amazes me, the hypocrisy of that. I would rather be someone that – you know, for example, the Liberals. They want to have a progressive income tax, and they put that in their platform in plain sight for everyone to see. I don't agree with it. I think it's wrong headed. They know that. We have debates over it. But at least they're truthful. At least they say: this is how we're going to balance the budget; we're going to raise taxes. Of course, we would argue that that's going to bring down revenues over time. They'll say: "No, it won't. There's room. It wouldn't affect economic output. We would just raise more government revenues." Fine. Okay. That's a debate.

But then this government can't be truthful. It's not that they can't be truthful; they're not being truthful. Certainly, this Premier is not being truthful. She said that she'd balance it by 2012. That was the reason to get rid of the last Premier, because he wouldn't do that. Then she says: "Oops. Sorry. I guess we can't do it by 2012. We're going to have to move it to 2013." At $105 per barrel oil. I'd be willing to bet that possibly the previous Premier may have been able to balance the budget this year because I think he would have found a way to do it with prices going up to $105 a barrel oil. It's amazing. Here I am extolling, you know, someone who I, obviously, had some severe disagreements with. The fact of the matter is that he was more fiscally responsible by far than this current Premier, by far.

Ms Blakeman: Better the devil you know.

Mr. Anderson: Better the devil you know sometimes, right? Not that he was a devil. Not that he was a devil.

That's the problem here. This budget has absolutely no fiscal responsibility in it. It's an exceptionally irresponsible document, and it's a hypocritical document because it's a document that she campaigned that she would not introduce. Then she got elected and not only did exactly what the previous Premier said he was going to do but actually exceeded him with regard to the fiscal irresponsibility in increasing program spending at 7 per cent this year. Incredible.

So what would the Wildrose do differently? We're going to have an election here pretty quickly. There are a couple of other things, too. Let's talk about taxes in this budget. It's amazing to me that this government can sit there over and over and say: there are no tax increases in this budget. Well, guess what? First of all, that's not true. First of all, there was a tax increase last year under – again I'm defending the previous Premier. They did not allow taxes to go up: the municipal taxes, the education portion of the property taxes. The reason they did that is because they essentially froze or even decreased a little bit their take of overall property taxes taken from the city so that the education portion of the property tax for the provincial government was, actually, essentially frozen. Unfortunately, the municipalities, a lot of them, decided to take that room anyway and just jacked up their overall tax rate and kept those monies, so it didn't turn into a tax decrease.

This year that's not what they did. They increased by about 7 per cent the total take that they're going to take for property taxes. Because of that, everyone's property taxes in the province are going to be going up substantially more than they were last year. That's what's happening. So there were tax increases absolutely, for sure. They say: oh, well, we're not going to raise taxes this budget. They spent a whole bunch of government money saying this.

Ms Blakeman: That isn't government money.

Mr. Anderson: Sorry. Sorry. Sorry. Taxpayer money. Thank you, hon. member. You're bang on.

... taxpayer money to get out the message that they're not raising taxes in this budget, like that's something that you need to spend government money on doing. They do raise taxes, property taxes, and they don't say anything about the years after this pre-election budget. Well, that's the whole point. That's what people are worried about. Are you going to raise taxes? Well, the Premier says: oh, well, I will commit – I love this – that if we are in surplus, we will not raise taxes for three years. In other words, we won't raise taxes for three years if we're in surplus. We may raise them on the fourth year of a mandate, but certainly not these next three years if we're in surplus.

All right. So what if we're not in surplus? What if oil only gets to 80 bucks a barrel or 85 bucks a barrel? Say there's a major problem economically in the United States – I know it's hard to believe that there would be a major economic problem in the United States and Europe; that sure couldn't happen – and demand goes down. Let's say that things in the Middle East kind of cool off for a little bit. You know, we're feeling okay about things over there, and the price of oil drops another 10 bucks on that. Pretty soon oil is at only $80, which historically, of course, is a very high price. It's at $80, and all of a sudden we're not in surplus as projected by this government.

What happens then? Well, I guess, according to the Premier's nonpledge about raising taxes, it's very clear that she has left some wiggle room. If that is the case, they reserve the right, if we're not in surplus, to raise taxes on the people of Alberta. They want to go to an election without saying that. That is untruthful, and that is what is not laid out in this budget although the Minister of Finance in the budget speech did say that we need to have a discussion, and that will include taxes. He didn't say he was going to increase taxes in the budget speech, of course, but he said that we need to review the whole financial fiscal framework, including taxes. So we said: "Okay. Well, that's great. I'm all for that. Let's review the fiscal framework, but can you please commit not to increase taxes while we do that, so we don't use this fiscal framework review as a chance to shaft the people of Alberta?"

Nope. They won't do that. They won't take that pledge. Everything is on the table. Taxes are on the table, as the current Minister of Finance is quoted as saying to Rick Bell at the Calgary Sun in several articles. If that's the case, we in the Wildrose would like to know what the plans are for taxation and if a tax increase is still on the table. We'd like them to confirm that for us and for the people of Alberta. The Wildrose Party is very clear. Under no circumstances, barring the end-of-the-world scenario, would we increase taxes on the people of Alberta.

8:10

Ms Blakeman: If the Liberals won, for example.

Mr. Anderson: That would be an end-of-the-world scenario if the Liberals won. Exactly. That would be an end-of-the-world scenario. Then we could talk about raising taxes. We wouldn't have much of a choice, though, at that point.

Anyway, that's where we stand on taxes. No tax hikes, period.

Now, what would the Wildrose do on the spending side? Well, on the program spending side we would continue to do what the former Premier had done and keep program spending increases down to at or below the rate of inflation plus population growth for the foreseeable future until we get back into economic health long term, and we would try to keep it at that cap even going forward, especially on the program spending side, at least until we got kind of back down to the normal Canadian average or at least the average of the other four major provinces. That's a pretty reasonable position to take. That's what we would do, cap at inflation plus population growth, program spending in particular, but overall government spending for sure. That's what we'd do.

On the infrastructure side we would have a robust infrastructure building program, but it would be the same level per capita as B.C.'s, Ontario's, and Quebec's, which means we would have to spread the current infrastructure building program over an additional year, which would bring our overall infrastructure spending to about the average, a little above average, of the other three major Canadian provinces: B.C., Ontario, and Quebec.

That's a very reasonable position to take, in my view. That's the Wildrose plan going forward.

The Chair: Hon. Member for Edmonton-Gold Bar, do you wish to join in?

Mr. MacDonald: Yes, I do. I appreciate the opportunity. I listened with interest to hon. members talk about Bill 7, specifically this government's fiscal management skill or their technique or their lack thereof. I certainly would agree with the hon. members. You know, so many people ask me: "Where did all the money go? We were generating so much resource revenue. Where did it all go?"

Certainly, there was a discussion earlier here this evening regarding Alberta's revenue sources. I would remind all hon. members that we're looking at a revenue of over $40 billion. Now, 23 per cent of this revenue is surprisingly coming from personal income tax, 11 per cent from corporate income taxes. The hon. Member for Edmonton-Riverview certainly has some sound ideas on that. Other tax revenue is 10 per cent. Resource revenue is 29 per cent.

The largest source of revenue for the entire budget is resource revenue, and that's why hon. members are so correct whenever they mention that we have to be careful here. What would happen under a scenario where the price of oil would slip below $100 a barrel and maybe go down as low as $70 or maybe even lower? We only have to look at the sensitivities that are built into the budget to realize quite quickly that there wouldn't be enough money to go around.

The next question would be: would there be enough money left in the stability fund to help us work through this difficult time? I would have to say no. The stability fund is being drained quite quickly, and with the election and the promises around the election, it's going to be depleted.

The hon. Member for Calgary-Mountain View, who sits beside me, mentioned to me in question period today that it was only 2 o'clock, yet the government had already made five spending announcements, five. Five spending announcements.

Mr. Hinman: That was all?

Mr. MacDonald: The hon. Member for Calgary-Glenmore says: that was all? Absolutely. This is a government that gets very, very generous with taxpayers' money the closer and closer you get to an election.

Ms Blakeman: Yeah. They do them on big cardboard cheques.

Mr. MacDonald: Now, I haven't seen any cardboard cheques lately, but the Minister of Culture and Community Services was over in the fine constituency of Edmonton-Gold Bar the other day at an event to reopen a community pool that had received substantial amounts of money from the Alberta sustainability initiative. But the local member: I wasn't invited. I had people there, and they were very disappointed that the person that they had chosen democratically to elect them and represent them at such events was not invited. In fact, they brought it to my attention, and again I said: the closer you get to an election, the less likely that you're going to see me on an official invite.

Ms Blakeman: But isn't that disrespectful to those people?

Mr. MacDonald: Well, they thought it was very disrespectful, and I think they brought it up with some of the Progressive Conservative glitterati that were in attendance. But I'm not going to be accused of, you know, digressing from Bill 7 because I do have some things that I would like to say regarding this bill and this government's fiscal record.

Bill 7, if I'm doing my math correctly, indicates and requests certain amounts of money, but we have to also compare Bill 7 to the fiscal plan and what the requests are going to be one, two, and three years into the future. The revenue that I described earlier: it is anticipated by this government that it is to grow by an average of over 8 per cent over the next three fiscal years, and of course this is going to be the result of surging returns in the resource sector and generally buoyant economic activity as a result of this surge.

Ms Blakeman: Did you say boom?

Mr. MacDonald: I don't like the word "boom." I like the words "very busy." Alberta is not booming, but it is very, very busy.

Ms Blakeman: Is that surging?

Mr. MacDonald: You could say that's surging, yes, but we have to be very, very careful, and we have to heed the words of the hon. Member for Airdrie-Chestermere, among others, that things could go wrong quickly, and things could go wrong if the price of oil changes.

Now, when you compare the price of west Texas intermediate in the mid-continent market of America to the price of Brent North Sea crude oil, you see that there is quite a range. Sometimes it can be as high as $20, or it can settle into the $15 range, but that's how much more North Sea crude is worth than west Texas intermediate. There is a warning to us there. America is now becoming more and more energy self-sufficient as a result of shale gas, as a result of the Bakken field, that mostly lies under North Dakota, south of the American-Canadian border.

Saskatchewan and Manitoba are also enjoying a piece of the economic action, and that's a good thing to see. However, we have to be careful of economic conditions. We have to consider the premium that's on the barrel of oil right now because of political uncertainty in the Middle East. Things could change quite quickly, so we should be very, very careful of how we spend money.

That gets me, Mr. Chairman, to some of the questions I asked earlier, and I'm still waiting for an answer from the government. I asked these questions on Thursday. I thought I would get an answer. I looked in Hansard. If an answer was provided, I haven't seen it. I certainly wanted to know why there were changes in the health budget from the 2010-11 year and the actual numbers that were audited and presented in the annual report and the same actual number that was reflected in the government's estimates. Totally different.

8:20

In one case in one government line item from Alberta Health and Wellness there was a $100 million difference. No one on that side of the House has provided an answer to me. I think my questions were reasonable, and they were responsible, and that they merit a response, but I haven't heard yet. So I would certainly like the government, before we go too far with this bill, to provide an answer. I know I directed those questions to the President of the Treasury Board in budget estimates, but I really don't think the gentleman understood. I was disappointed, but I don't think he understood, so I gave it another chance here on Thursday afternoon, Mr. Chairman, and I'm still awaiting an answer. I think a formal answer in writing under the Minister of Finance's letterhead would be the proper way to deal with this request. It's a lot of money, and there are other discrepancies or other changes in those line items where I think, respectfully, we should receive an answer.

Now, when you compare not only the annual report and the actuals from the year 2010-11 for each respective ministry and what the comparable is in the budget – and I haven't done advanced education. I think I might, if I have a chance tonight, have a look at advanced education, particularly after what the Auditor General had to say about some of the institutions that are under that ministry in his small but mighty report that was released last week. It was a small but mighty report. I see so many members have forgotten all about it already.

Ms Blakeman: No, no. It's right there.

Mr. MacDonald: Yes, it is.

Not only when you compare those financial documents, the annual reports, to the budget estimates but also when you compare the Appropriation Act, 2012, Bill 7 this year, to the Appropriation Act, 2011, last year, which I believe was called Bill 17 – last year we had an Appropriation Act called Bill 17, and the hon. Member for Edmonton-Centre may remember the name of the bill, or perhaps the hon. Member for Vermilion-Lloydminster would remember the name of it, but I had to go to the library and look it up – there are some interesting changes which, again, are reflective of this government's spending habits.

Now, whenever we look at transfers, whether we're talking about lottery fund transfers – and, hopefully, we're going to see some changes in the AGLC and how that works, how we pull in so much money from VLTs and slot machines and don't tell the players just exactly how much the government is grabbing out of their pockets and purses. Hopefully, after the next election we're going to see some changes, and this government is going to tell the players the truth as to how much they are taking from those pockets and those purses.

Ms Blakeman: We'll call that the MacDonald amendment.

Mr. MacDonald: You can call that whatever you want.

This notion that you're just taking 8 per cent is, to say the least, deceptive. The take, if you do cash-in, cash-out figures, is 30 per cent for VLTs, and that is unacceptable for the government to have a pamphlet in the VLT parlour or in the casino indicating that the government's take over how many spins is 8 per cent when it is known that it is 30 per cent, and it's known that this government changed the accounting process in the year 2000 to hide that. Why, hon. members, would you hide that? Well, you felt guilty because of the plebiscites that were going on in 36 different communities across this province.

Ms Blakeman: Guilty? They don't feel guilty.

Mr. MacDonald: They feel guilt, and they feel remorse.

Ms Blakeman: No. They were worried about losing their slot machines.

Mr. MacDonald: Well, I know they're worried about losing their slot machines and the revenue.

This gets back to what the hon. Member for Airdrie-Chestermere was talking about, how taxes don't go up. Taxes certainly do, and this is an example of taxes going up because this is no different than a tax, in my view. Slot machine revenue has gone from $24 million to I think it's over $800 million anticipated in this fiscal year. I could be wrong. If an hon. member would have a look at that, I would appreciate it, but I think it's around $800 million.

Now, getting specifically away from the lottery fund transfer in this bill to the general transfers, or the transfers under section 6, it is interesting to note that "the Minister of Infrastructure may, for the purpose described in subsection (4), transfer an amount, not to exceed $28 500 000, from the Expense vote administered by that Minister." I thought I would look and see. What did the Minister of Infrastructure transfer last year? Last year in Bill 17, when the hon. Member for Vermilion-Lloydminster was in charge, there was $65 million transferred in the Appropriation Act. My question to the government would be this. If it was $65 million last year, why is it in this department that the transfer is $36.5 million less?

Now, Mr. Chairman, also under this transfer "the Minister of Transportation may, for the purpose described in subsection (6), transfer an amount, not to exceed $58 000 000, from the Capital Investment vote administered by that Minister," and it goes on. Last year the Minister of Transportation had $75 million to transfer, so I think the question that we should ask is: has there been a transfer of political power? We're talking about a transfer of money, a transfer of political power as we get closer and closer to the election, and where did that transfer go?

Well, oddly enough, if we read on in the transfers,

6(9) The President of the Treasury Board and Enterprise may . . .

We had a discussion in budget estimates about this, and the President of the Treasury Board and Enterprise was irritable, to say the least, I thought.

. . . for the purpose described in subsection (10), transfer an amount, not to exceed $100 000 000, from the Expense vote administered by the President of the Treasury Board and Enterprise

- (a) to the Expense vote administered by any other Minister, or
- (b) to the Capital Investment vote administered by any Minister.

So the Treasury Board president has got $100 million. Last year the former President of the Treasury Board, who is currently sitting in the Assembly, had $19 million, so there is an increase here of $81 million.

There is an election looming. Some say tomorrow. Some say Wednesday. Some say next Monday. Who knows? There were five announcements in the forenoon today. How many good-news announcements will we see in the next few days, and where will that money come from? The Deputy Premier through the office of the Treasury Board and Enterprise is the minister sitting on the cash. There is an $81 million difference between last year and this year.

So I don't know how this would work. I asked for a detailed list of these projects and where they would be, and I was given, not even politely, Mr. Chairman, the political brush-off. I don't think taxpayers would appreciate that, particularly whenever they stop and they think and they look at the fiscal record of this government, this Progressive Conservative government: $11 billion racked up in deficits over a four-year period.

Ms Blakeman: Sorry. Was that a Liberal government that did that?

Mr. MacDonald: No. No, it certainly wasn't.

I would encourage people to have a look at the Globe and Mail over the weekend. They had a really nice article in the op-ed page talking about the myth of Conservative governments and fiscal management. [interjection] Yes, they did.

Ms Blakeman: In print.

8:30

Mr. MacDonald: In print. It was there. I don't know how many people are going to have an opportunity to read it, but I certainly hope they do before they cast their ballots in the next election.

As you can see, Mr. Chairman, when we look at Bill 7 and we compare the amount of money that is in the till, in the office of the President of the Treasury Board, to what was there last year, we've got to make sure that that money is spent wisely and that it's not spent specifically just on the re-election schemes and promises of this government.

Now, in the time that I have left, I would like to mention that in 2008, when there was an election, there was no discussion whatsoever of firing the nine regional health boards and creating the one superboard. There was no discussion of that. But immediately after the election what happened? We created this bureaucratic monster that has driven up health care costs by at least $4 billion. Have we seen an improvement in service? No, we have not.

We have every right to question the expenditures of this government as we are on the eve of an election. What they say and promise during an election campaign certainly is not true once the election is over and the ballots are counted and people take their seats in this Assembly.

Thank you.

Mr. Weadick: I would move that we adjourn debate on Bill 7.

[Motion to adjourn debate carried]

Bill 4

St. Albert and Sturgeon Valley School Districts Establishment Act

The Chair: Any members wish to comment or question? The hon. Member for Edmonton-Centre.

Ms Blakeman: Thanks very much, Mr. Chairman. I've been thinking about this bill a lot. You know that I walk mostly. Actually, I've currently got a bad knee, which is why I sort of wince every time I stand up here.

Mr. MacDonald: Was that a hockey injury?

Ms Blakeman: No, it wasn't. So I'm trying to walk slowly and carefully these days.

You know, I come from the theatre. It strikes me that we've got a bit of a three-act play happening with what's going on with the St. Albert and Sturgeon Valley School Districts Establishment Act.

Let me go back a bit. In reference to Bill 2, the Education Act, I've been talking about the Constitution a lot, and I've actually got copies of it with me. In the Constitution they're very careful to outline that there are a couple of things that are guaranteed, that are rights under the Constitution. One of them is the right to be educated, that you've got a right to education in one of these two religions, Catholic and Protestant. Then it says that whichever one is the minority, you've got a right to be educated in that minority religion. It's very clear that you're going to get either/or. One is going to be the majority; one is going to be the minority. You are guaranteed the protection and the right to get your education under those two.

The Constitution is very flexible and a living document in some ways, unfortunately not around this, and it's causing us some problems. For example, when they talk about the division of powers between the federal government and the provinces, they divvy that up. They list everything: mines and minerals and blah, blah, blah. There's a great long list of who gets what. Then at the end they were smart enough that there's a catch phrase that says: and anything we haven't thought of or that comes up in the future will be federal responsibility.

Good thinking because, in fact, that's what has happened. In case any of you have ever wondered why the CRTC is federal, that's why. All of the telecommunication was something that they had not thought of. It's basically an expansion of the old telegraph, but it was new. It was something that they hadn't thought of. It wasn't specifically divvied up between the province and the federal government, and therefore it defaults to the federal government, and that's why they're in charge of it. So there's a really good example of building flexibility and future knowledge into the Constitution. Unfortunately, they didn't do it with religious instruction.

So we're back to having Protestant or Catholic. One of them is going to be the public school board, and one of them is going to be the separate school board. Now, we have a really interesting situation, and we've always been kind of proud of it. You know, it's a bit of a Trivial Pursuit question. What is the only minority school board in the province? That would surprise you. Of course, it's that in St. Albert the public school board is the Catholic school board, and everywhere else the Catholic school division is the separate school board.

Just let me underline here that it's all public education. It's all funded through taxes. It's public education. When I talk about separate, it doesn't mean private; it's all public. It's just the language that they used.

So that's just gone along for years and years with – there's actually an official name for it now – the Greater St. Albert Catholic regional division. Okay. That's the public school board. As I talked about, there's a majority and a minority, and there is an expectation that everyone will be accommodated given reasonable numbers.

Now, I don't know what the heck was going on in this minister's brain when he came up with this, but honestly he has created a Jacobean tragedy.

Mr. MacDonald: Jacobean?

Ms Blakeman: Oh, yeah. Jacobean tragedy is just amazing. Really, a lot of them are sort of revenge tragedies, which I hope does not happen to this. I really don't. I'm not saying that I wish it would happen in any way shape or form, but, you know, there is always something that happens in the first act, and somebody is terribly wronged, probably killed, probably with buckets of blood and downstage. These guys really went for big blood and eye gouging and all kinds of stuff.

The first act is the Greater St. Albert public school board, which is the Catholic school, not accommodating the secular students in Morinville. Greater St. Albert Catholic does cover that area. It wouldn't accommodate the secular students in Morinville. Okay. Not fair game there, but they stuck to their guns. No, they absolutely wouldn't. It's a Catholic school. It permeates everything they do. They're not going to give over classrooms and take the crosses off. No way.

Okay. In the second act you get Sturgeon, which is a neighbouring school and has nothing to do with either of these. Sturgeon, being a good neighbour – and we're in the second act of the play now – offers a solution to the conflict that developed in the first act. This gets a bit tricky because Sturgeon doesn't have any jurisdiction. They don't own any schools. They don't really have any way to do what they said that they wanted to do here. They were just trying to be helpful. They're kind of the Good Samaritan here. They did offer to do all this stuff, but they can't, really, because they can't actually accommodate those students.

Then in the third act we get into what we have here, which is truly a tragedy in that now we have the minority division – I've got to get all the names of everybody right because I'm afraid I'm going to insult someone if I somehow don't get it right – which is the minority school board, which would be the Protestant school board in St. Albert. But they do not encompass Morinville, which is part of the problem here, because it's where everybody is situated and what kind of religion they're teaching.

8:40

How do I describe this? There are the three acts for you. We've had the conflict develop in the first act. In the second act the neighbour tries to help, doesn't really help the situation. In the third act the minister pops up with a brilliant idea. Now, if this was a Jacobean tragedy, they would have some wonderful new poison, and they were going to kill this guy to hurt this guy, who would then kill somebody else. It all gets very involved and convoluted, which is why, of course, it made me think of a Jacobean tragedy when I looked at what the heck was happening in Morinville and the poor people out in Morinville trying to get their choice of secular instruction.

So now we have a situation where you have a minority school board who has offered to help – and now we're talking about the St. Albert one – and they've now been sort of arbitrarily changed in their status, but they've lost the protected status that they really wanted to hang on to. I think they came into the negotiations saying, "We want to help, but the one thing we don't want to lose is our protected status as a minority religious school board in this area," and anybody would say that.

We're very good in Canada about writing constitutional and Charter protection to say: the majority cannot stomp on the minorities. We will always write something in so the minorities have a way of protecting themselves, whether that gives them access to a voice to be able to say that something is wrong or it protects their right to study in a given religion or in one of two languages, English and French. It's always in there, and there are certain rights that are given to the minorities, and those are precious, let me tell you. I've done a lot of work on minority rights, and you don't want to lose those because that is what gives you some power to be able to look after yourself and look after your people.

Now we're in the third act. We've got this minority school board. It's agreed to help, but it doesn't want to lose its protected status, and what does the minister do? Takes away the protected status, makes them do something they weren't formulated to do. I'm just thinking: how on earth did we get here? That's how you feel when you've watched one of these tragedies, trust me. Anybody up there ever watched one of these? Somebody is laughing and smiling. They're just incredibly convoluted. Every single person gets killed, and there are buckets of blood, and you can't figure out what the problem was.

Well, the problem is much more obvious here. I'm not picking on the Catholic school board in this case because I have a very good relationship with the Edmonton Catholic school board, and frankly I have a lot of admiration for the work that they've done. They have managed not to close their inner-city schools, that serve my constituents so well. I've always felt that in many ways they were able to deal with diversity better than our public system has. I love going into my Catholic schools, and I really think they are very child centred. I always go to their awards, and I really have a lot of respect for what they do.

Having said that, what is going on in St. Albert is wrong. The Greater St. Albert Catholic public school board should have been able to do something for those students in Morinville, and they just flat out wouldn't. I don't know why the minister has protected them and didn't turn around and say: yes, you will, and we will work this out this way. I have no idea why he didn't, but frankly, by caving for the second time in a short period of time – he also caved on the School Act – he's created this huge problem. Frankly, I think it will be a constitutional problem. I believe that somewhere down the road if the separate school board in St. Albert, which is the Protestant school board, wants to, they have a dandy constitutional fight, and they will win it. Meanwhile they will all have to spend taxpayer dollars – your dollars, my dollars – to be able to take this to court and fight it. But in many ways they should because they're right. What the government has done is wrong and bad and has created a three-act tragedy.

You know, when my caucus first looked at this, they said: "Yeah, no problem. Let's go for this. We're going to support this bill." But the more I look at this, the more I look at the constitutional stuff that is being tromped on here and misunderstood and not applied, the angrier I get. There is a reason why those rules are in place and why they've lasted for us so long. You can't just stand up and go: "Well, look at me. Aren't I special? I'm the new Minister of Education, and I have the power to change all of this." No, you don't. Well, you do, but you're going to make everything such a mess, and it'll all end up being undone by the courts, so how did that move us any further forward?

We've spent a lot of money, and in the meantime there are still children who are not going to be educated in their choice of religion or nonreligion in that area. That's what's really wrong. Those kids won't be able to do grade 6 again. Yes, you can not – what's it called when you move them up? They go on to the next grade?

Mr. Anderson: Accelerate.

Ms Blakeman: No. When they . . .

Mr. MacDonald: Graduate.

Ms Blakeman: Graduate. They won't graduate.

Of course, I'm not talking about that. I'm talking about the fact that, you know, there are no do overs. They're going to graduate out of grade 6 or grade 4 or grade 10, and they're going to move on. They don't get to come back here by the time we solve this problem 10 years from now and do over in the choice of religion or nonreligion that they wanted. That always bugs me. It's really unfair to those kids, and it's sloppy legislation, which, as you know, really bugs me.

You know, we've got lots of brainpower in here. We've got a tremendous amount of brainpower behind the various closed doors here of good people that are working for us. There is a way to do this right, and that is not what we have in Bill 4.

So I'll wait and see if there can be some kind of stupendous amendment to this bill that would make it right, and then I would be able to support it. But the way it's sitting right now, it's wrong. It's wrong on a constitutional basis. It's going to be wrong on a legal basis in the courts. You know, it's very clear both in the Constitution and the Alberta School Act that you've got a minority Protestant or a Catholic opportunity or choice here.

What has been created is some sort of – oh, I was trying to keep my analogies in the same ballpark, but I don't think I'm going to manage that – three-headed Hydra, and it's just a mess. It could be much better. It just looked like such an innocuous little bill, didn't it? I mean, it's a tiny little bill. Look. That's it. It's six pages long, a teeny little thing. You'd think: "Oh, well, there's nothing. It can't be anything." Oh, seven pages; I'm sorry. "Nothing bad in that." I mean, look at it, a teeny bit. Yeah. Well, there it is. All the disaster, all the three-act opera, aria, Jacobean tragedy that I talked about is in this act. You know, you can't fool Mother Nature, and you can't fool around with the Constitution, and that's what's happening here.

Thanks.

The Chair: Any other hon. member? The hon. Member for Edmonton-Strathcona.

Ms Notley: This is on Bill 2?

Ms Blakeman: Bill 4.

Ms Notley: Oh, I'm sorry.

The Chair: So you are not speaking on Bill 4, right?
Any other hon. member?

Seeing none, the chair shall now call the question.

[The clauses of Bill 4 agreed to]

[Title and preamble agreed to]

The Chair: Shall the bill be reported? Are you agreed?

Hon. Members: Agreed.

The Chair: Opposed? Carried.

8:50

Bill 5

Seniors' Property Tax Deferral Act

The Chair: The hon. Member for Edmonton-Centre.

Ms Blakeman: Thanks very much, Mr. Chairman. This bill, Bill 5, the Seniors' Property Tax Deferral Act, you know, is a great idea. My thanks to the – actually, I think this was a private member's bill that was brought forward by the now Minister of Seniors, previously a private member, and it passed. No. Not by you? It's got your name on it. You're shaking your head. Okay. It's now being brought forward by the Member for Red Deer-North.

Okay. I represent a downtown area, but I still have a lot of seniors that still own their own homes. I'll tell you, when I was door-knocking yesterday, three women over 90 were still in their own homes, vigorous as all get-out. Man, oh man, you wouldn't want to cross them. So there are lots of seniors that are still living in their own homes.

I have to say that I'm always really frustrated with the market value assessment method or protocol for municipalities to assess the value of the homes, and then the mill rate is applied against that value. It was supposed to be based on a market assessment, so whatever has sold recently in your area that's more or less the same as your house, that's how everybody is going to get pegged. In my district, which has had property values that have just gone way up, like even more than an oil boom, and then a little bit down and a little bit up, everybody is praying for a house to sell for a bad price so that their market value assessment will come down, and they'll end up paying less tax.

Where we have seen market value assessments really, really not work, be very bad, is with seniors. The three women that I door-knocked on the other day, all in their 90s, have all lived in the same homes since they were built in the Hudson Bay Reserve in the 1950s. You can imagine that, you know, they had a mortgage on that house. They've long since paid the mortgage off, but those gals are now paying a tax base that is developed on a house that is being valued at – I'm going to guess wildly here, so don't hold me to this – probably in the $750,000 range, which is meaningless to the lady who lives there because she's not going to sell it. She's not going to take that money and put it somewhere. She's going to live there. Boy, those three are going to live there – they are not going into long-term care, I can promise you that – but they are paying taxes on a house that's now been valued at $750,000.

The ones that really get jammed up by the market value assessment are seniors that have lived in the same home for a very long period of time, and there's no way to help them. There's no way to adjust that system. There's no flexibility in it to adjust it for seniors. It's very frustrating.

This bill actually does do something for that, thank you very much, because it allows seniors to defer the property tax assessed against their home until the home is sold. Now, that may be sold by them if they do end up going into care, or it may be sold as part of their estate, and it would come out of the estate before the estate was divvied up with whomever. That completely alleviates the problem I just described, where seniors were being stuck with a fairly modest income.

These widows, you know, are not living in a grand place. As grand as the fabulous constituency of Edmonton-Centre is, these are not river-view lots. They're not next door to Daryl Katz. They're in Queen Mary Park, which is a very nice neighbourhood: old trees, very well cared for, some beautiful lawns. These houses are not spectacularly placed, but you do end up with these seniors paying some spectacular property taxes just because their homes have increased so much in value. This bill would actually work for them. Thank you to whoever thought it up and actually carried through the implementation of it because I know you guys have good ideas sometimes, but you don't always get them onto the floor. One, thank you for the good idea. Two, thank you for getting it onto the floor. I will definitely support this bill.

Interestingly enough, I mentioned this bill to every senior that I spoke to, and none of them are going to take you up on the offer because – I know – they felt they were okay. They were grateful that it was going to be there if they really needed it, but as long as they were okay, they wouldn't draw upon it. But it was there if they were going to need it. Fair enough. It's not saying you have to take advantage of this, but it's there, and if you want to do that, okay, go ahead and do it.

You know, I give you guys a hard time a lot, but frankly you deserve it. I am fair. I am fair to you, and when you really, really deserve it, I really, really give it to you. But this is good stuff, and you have, you know, clearly gone over it and thought your way through it. Maybe you based it on some other legislation you'd already seen working in another province. You've done a really nice job on drafting this. I'm very happy to support it. I'm very happy to give you a pat on your little heads when you do something right. Good on you. Thank you very much. I appreciate that. That's good work.

Mr. Snelgrove: I want to take a completely different tack on this bill because it used to be quite clear over there that if the Liberals and the NDP liked it, we knew you were on the wrong track, and that still stands true to this day.

You know, Abraham Lincoln once said that you should do for no man what they can do for themselves. It's a little interesting when the government says that they're trying to be financially responsible rather than fix a problem. If the problem is that we don't have it right in our support for our seniors, fix that. There are probably a dozen programs right now, Mr. Chairman, to support seniors.

There's nobody in here that thinks that we should look after them any more than me, but building a bigger bureaucracy to spend money to solve a problem that isn't dealing with the problem at all isn't the right answer. The seniors in many cases are our strongest allies when we push back against municipal tax increases, so let's take that out of the picture and let the municipal people do what they want.

Without fail over the 11 years I have not had a senior come in and ask for this. I've had hundreds in the last month come in and say: we can't pay our power bill. What's the government response to that? Go get a contract. Suck it up, Princess. It's not our fault. Well, yeah, it is. If you're going to look at supports, don't cherry-pick an opportunistic: well, we'll help them out with municipal taxes.

Let's fix the problem. Let's look at the programs we have now. We'll put in a furnace, we'll put shingles on. We've got hundreds and hundreds of people all over Alberta now looking at ways to support the seniors. Clean it up. Fix it up. If it's a guaranteed minimum wage for our seniors, do it.

I read these bills that say: "Guess what? We'll put these regulations out, and we're sure you people will just jump up and take it." Well, the seniors I know aren't going to sign anything until they see the fine print. The simple fact is that if you want to, right now you can go to a bank, you can take a reverse mortgage, and you can do whatever you darn well please. You can do that, and it doesn't cost the taxpayers a darn cent.

Now, you own your own bank. You have the Treasury Branches. If you wanted to run a program through them, you could. Oh, wait. They do. So you're either going to subsidize it with administrative dollars, or you're going to pay them less interest or charge them more interest than they can do in the marketplace right now. We've got, I would guess, probably a dozen financial institutions in Alberta that are willing to run a reverse mortgage program right now. They're market competitive, they're tested, and the people that want to use them can use them.

9:00

You know, one of the benefits of not running again is that you can actually tell people the truth. You don't have to worry about it. Do you think anybody believes that the government can run this cheaper than the banks? No, they can't. Because we are risk adverse, and we also have to follow the letter of the law, the Auditor General, with all due respect to my friend from Edmonton-Gold Bar. So every one of these loans in that department is going to be on our books. You're going to have caveats or references against the title for everyone who wants to do this.

You know, down the road, when mom or dad pass away and the kids are all sitting and waiting for the money from the house and they find out that the good old government came in a few years ago and loaned mom and dad money and they're taking theirs first, oh, they're going to be mad. And you know who they're going to blame? You. And that's fine.

The other part is that I don't question the motive one bit. We've had this discussion for years over there about how nice that would be. But we're living on borrowed money. We can't even run what we have now very well. So we're going to create another one? If this was so good, take two out and put one in.

It isn't and shouldn't be taken as: oh, you're not concerned about seniors. I am concerned. I think that seniors are a lot smarter than we want to give them credit for. They know that there's no such thing as a free meal. They know that you pay for everything you get or somebody pays. While they appreciate the help that they get – I go back to the old saying: I'm from the government, and I'm here to help. That doesn't go over that well with them.

A huge majority have an independence that they've worked hard for. The simple fact is that while there are a lot of seniors in financial difficulty, there are a great number of seniors who are going to be part of the biggest wealth transfer in our country's history. Here we are, trying to suggest that: well, if we just give them a little help with their municipal taxes, they can stay in their homes longer.

I can tell you that if you took the money this program is going to cost and co-ordinated home care and aids to daily living with the whole gamut of services that we provide for seniors, you would get a lot more seniors living in their houses. If you took the money that you're going to spend administering this program and put it into improvements in their homes to make their bedrooms comfortable and able for them to grow old and actually pass away in, you would get a lot more bang for your buck. And you would be treating people with respect, and you'd let them make choices. It's that simple.

I'm not going to belabour this. I didn't support this when it was brought up three years ago. I don't support it now. I think you have to respect people more than: let's go out and out-goody them at election time. Put numbers on it – I know you haven't – and then let people decide: would that be better spent actually helping, doing something that other businesses don't do, doing something that the banks or finance companies can't do?

End of story.

The Chair: The hon. Member for Lethbridge-East.

Ms Pastoor: Yes. Thank you, Mr. Chair. I really, really could not let that go by.

Mr. Hinman: Which side are you speaking from right now?

Ms Pastoor: It doesn't matter what side I'm on. I speak the same.

Mr. Hinman: I'll know in a minute.

Ms Pastoor: You will know in a minute.

The Chair: The hon. member has the floor. Speak through the chair.

Ms Pastoor: My mother was a senior. Along came the NDP government in Manitoba, and they offered to fix her roof. She could do it on her own, so she said no. The people that had come through the war and the Depression were used to standing on their own two feet and didn't know how to accept help. And she didn't need it. My mother owned the company that my father ran, and she was fairly well off.

I'm not talking about seniors like my mother. I am talking about the seniors that were immigrants after the war, that came over here and worked three jobs to put their kids through university, and now they're in these little tiny homes. They're women. The majority are over 85. They're all living in their own homes, and they live from bill to bill. They don't live; they exist. This little extra bit of money might give them that little bit of being able to go out.

Now, for a lot of these women – mainly they're women although there are some men – often their families are not in the same city. The widows or the men that are lucky enough to have their families in the same city: if they're good families, they'll look after their parents.

Because of my experience in long-term care I know what elder abuse looks like. I know what the breed looks like, when somebody might come and say: "Sonny, I'm going to take some of the money that I can get by doing this program that the government is offering, and I'll be able to have something extra. I will be able to pay. Home care is only going to go so far. Household help is only going to go so far. This little bit of extra money may give me the chance to have that extra help that I need."

Or, in fact, when they're that age, it takes forever to do the laundry and all those sorts of things, and as long as they can, they will do it. Who's going to pay for the handibus? Who's going to pay for the taxi? They don't have those kinds of dollars. They're undereducated. They've worked their tails off to pay off their house. They worked their tails off to get their kids through university. Should the kids help them? Absolutely. Of course, they should. But there are a lot of kids that don't live near and actually see how their parents are struggling along.

I think this is a fabulous bill. It's the people who really need it, the people who will be able to live instead of just exist. As I say, I am not worried about the seniors who are lucky enough to be like my mother. Years ahead of when my mother knew that she was going to have to move into a nursing home, she had already made her personal directive long before it was ever called that. I'm the oldest of six, and only two of us lived with her in Winnipeg.

What she had on that contract with her lawyer was that my brother and my sister were her guardians and also power of attorney. What she had written in there was that every single cent would be accounted for, and every six months the rest of us did receive an accounting, almost down to the penny, of what they had spent on my mother because my mother knew that eventually that money would go to us. She was a woman far ahead of her time. But then the other question is: why did we as six kids not even question it? I'm not sure whether my mother put the fear of God in us as kids, but we didn't even question it. This is what she wanted; that's what she got.

But there are many, many seniors who are persuaded to sell their house because they can't afford electricity, which is a very, very good example of what seniors are facing. They're persuaded to sell their house. "Oh, you'll be fine, Ma. We're going to put you in this great big, beautiful place. They're going to take you out. They're going to give you dinner. Oh, my, everything is going to be wonderful." Well, you know what? They end up there, and even then they don't have enough money for all the little extras, and heaven knows where the kids have gone. It happens a lot.

One of the things that I think is very important – I'm going a bit off on a tangent here, but it is about the seniors that I try to protect – is that they have to feel that they still have their independence, that they sort of don't know they're being looked after. It's no different than letting a three-year-old run loose. You know exactly what they're doing, but the three-year-old thinks they've got all the freedom in the world. It's those kinds of things that add to the respect of allowing someone to live with dignity and, certainly, die with dignity. Not all seniors are lucky enough to pass away from old age, where they just sort of fade away. More often than not, people will die of cancer or some other ailment where, in fact, they do need medical care.

9:10

So this isn't about the ones that can look after themselves. These are the ones that have paid the price after the war to build this country up, who worked hard to make sure that their kids did well. If they can get an extra buck or two so that they can hire the handibus and go out with a few of the gals, even if they're 90, for a cup of tea or whatever they'd like to do, then so be it. I think it's wonderful. And you know what? If the kids don't get the money at the end of it, too bad. That's when I would say: suck it up, Princess.

Thank you.

The Chair: The hon. Member for Edmonton-Strathcona.

Ms Notley: Well, thank you, Mr. Chair. It's a pleasure to be able to rise and speak on this bill. I certainly found the points made by the Member for Vermilion-Lloydminster very compelling and interesting. I hadn't considered all of the points that he'd raised.

He raised some very good points. One of them, of course, was the question of what actual budgeting has been done in association with this act. What is the cost that is attached to this initiative? I think that's something that the government does owe members of this House some explanation of so that we can evaluate the general cost-effectiveness of it.

I mean, this bill came forward with a lot of fanfare. When we first looked at it in our caucus, we thought: "Well, you know, it can't hurt. It's not really the best way forward. It doesn't really deal with the most important issues that are out there, and it probably doesn't do it in the best way, but it doesn't seem to be sort of a negative thing. So, you know, we're not going to make a big deal out of it." But there are some interesting points that have been raised, and since then I've also had a few questions of my own.

When you take this bill and this process and you accompany it with what is a very possible outcome 12 months from now, where the government restructures how it deals with long-term care and it takes the cap off long-term care and it says to families, "You need to pay what the market will bear for long-term care; we'll subsidize you if you don't have enough; you'll get the benefit of the cap if you are truly a low-income senior in need, but otherwise you need to pay what the market will bear," then the question becomes, "Well, okay; is it going to work the same way as it works with income support programs right now?" which, of course, require you to exhaust most of your assets before you become eligible for the subsidy in question.

Then we have a situation where we have seniors who need long-term care and the market is telling them that it's going to cost them $4,000 a month to get that long-term care and the government is saying: well, we'll subsidize $2,300 of that if you are without assets. Meanwhile these people have signed over their house on the assumption that the government's going to get it back at a certain point. Do we now get into a situation where they have to pay back the government first? Do they sell their house? Are they not allowed to sell their house? Do they become eligible for this so-called subsidy that the government says is going to save seniors from what is otherwise a great deal of exploitation under the expected new long-term care regime, where the cap is eliminated?

I'm trying to figure out how this will work in conjunction with that because I think that's really an important question. I mean, I think probably the best answer is that the government says and makes a commitment: we will not remove the cap on long-term care fees. But the government has been very, very clear that it's not going to make that commitment. It's been very, very clear that it's putting that difficult discussion off until after the election. And it's been very, very clear that seniors are not entitled to an answer on that very important question before the election. But this bill has implications for that, and we should get some answers from the government about how they see this initiative linking up with that initiative should it go ahead, which I have to assume the odds are in favour of since these folks are prepared to pay the political cost of being unable to assure seniors that they can count on an affordable future in long-term care in this province.

The other thing about this bill that, you know, is a bit frustrating from our perspective is that it is one of those kinds of bills that gets a lot of fanfare and a lot of self-congratulatory back-patting. It is – and I don't know if the Member for Vermilion-Lloydminster actually said this, but this is what I took from what he said – very nicely timed in relation to the election. It creates an impression of offering something up, offering up a goody to people who might be looking out for that. It does do that, but really, although it looks good, the question is: well, what are the alternatives?

There have been some good points made about what the alternatives are. The alternatives would be actually funding the kind of retrofits to homes that would allow people to receive increasing levels of care in their home as they need it. That actually expands the life of the home as the place for the senior to live. This doesn't do anything to expand the life of the home as the place for the senior to live. It enhances the affordability ever so slightly, but it doesn't actually expand the life of the home in terms of, you know, whether the doors are wide enough and whether you can get in and out of the home and whether there's room for someone to assist you in the bathroom and all those kinds of things that you need to actually do to expand the life of the home. That, to me, would be a better approach to assisting our seniors.

I think it's helpful as well to look a little bit at the history of this. You know, seniors used to receive financial support to pay property taxes. Beginning in the 1960s the provincial government covered the education portion of seniors' property taxes. In 1972 seniors received additional support from the property tax reduction program, which provided a maximum rebate of a thousand dollars on the portion of property taxes not related to education. We had that, too. Then before 1994 the province also provided rental support for seniors who were paying rent. Renters over 65 could receive up to $1,200 a year regardless of income, and those living in subsidized accommodations could qualify for up to $600. These were all ways that were being used before the arrival of then Premier Klein into the Legislature. These were all being used as ways to keep seniors in their homes.

Then along came Premier Klein, and he argued that all Albertans had to make sacrifices to help pay off the deficit. Then they were told: well, you know, we'll come back to you; once we've all worked together on this issue, we'll give you back what we've taken away. Of course, they never really did do that. Instead, we've seen corporate taxes cut several percentage points since that time. We've seen a flat tax put in place, and we've seen incredible giveaways to the oil and gas industry, but we've never actually gone back to seniors to give them back what they gave up, in many cases willingly, for the objective of getting rid of the deficit in the mid-90s.

So then we have this. What this really is is just asking seniors to pay later. Really, in some respects we're taking this issue off the table so that this hardship is not so obvious. In many cases we're asking families, really, to pay for it. We're saying that if we can get the seniors to stop having this overt hardship that they have to deal with, that they come to us about repeatedly and that's reported in the media, and if we can find a way for them to pay for it in the future – really, it's their families, who would otherwise have been receiving that property in the future, who are actually paying the cost that the seniors can't afford.

Given that this is being done in a context where the government is expecting families to take a greater role in caring for their aging parents and grandparents and aunts and uncles and given that the seniors plan by this government envisions a greater role being played by families, greater caregiving being provided by families, and a sort of downloading of that responsibility from government to families, this really is just another piece in that puzzle if you look at it in the larger context of asking families to have less of those sets of assets that their parents would otherwise have passed on to them available. They are paying that now to make sure that their parents can afford to stay in their houses. Maybe that's a fair wealth transfer between parents and children, but we do need to see it for what it is, and it's a continuation of asking citizens to pay more for receiving less after having taken some very major programs away from them in the 1990s.

9:20

In that context, you know, it's not quite as much good news as the government there would want us to believe. In that context we're kind of throwing them a bone in a public, identifiable way and hoping that people sort of pick it up that way. But in the larger context of where this government's programs are going for seniors and how they anticipate shifting the wealth and how they anticipate having seniors pay more for their services and having families pay more for services and having families do more in lieu of services, this is just really not a surprising continuation of the same trend.

I'm also, as I said, rather interested in the arguments offered by the Member for Vermilion-Lloydminster. In fact, I'd like someone from that side to tell me what this program offers that can't be gotten for the same price within the current system, you know, outside of government.

Let me just say that I'm all for government. I'm a New Democrat, right? We just always want to build government. Quite honestly, from a practical point of view are there already programs out there that can be accessed that ultimately would be as affordable or even more affordable than this one? Are we just buying this so that government can say that they're doing something for seniors?

I want to make sure that we're buying something that's of value to seniors. I don't want to be buying something that's just giving the government a press release opportunity and a self-congratulatory opportunity. So I really need to hear more about what this program offers that isn't available in the private sector at this point. Then I also need to know why we're not hearing instead about the kinds of grants to, as I said, change the life of a senior's home rather than simply this small section of affordability of a senior's home.

So those are my comments at this point. I'm still deliberating on what we'll actually do with this bill, whether we'll vote for or against it. I think it's not quite as simple as it seems, and I think we have a reasonable expectation of getting some answers to some of these questions. I would hope that we would receive those before the members opposite expect us to make a decision on whether or not to support it.

Thank you.

The Chair: The hon. Member for Edmonton-Centre.

Ms Blakeman: Thanks very much, Mr. Chairman. Every now and then in this Assembly something magical happens; it's called debate and engagement of members. It's really an amazing thing when it does happen. Well, it's magical because it happens so infrequently, but really it's just intelligent debate.

There have been a couple of things put on the table that have made me think of some other things that I know are happening right now, so I'm going to join this debate, this exchange of ideas that is currently going on. I really encourage members of the government opposite to engage in this as well.

One of the points that I've raised – it was pooh-poohed pretty quickly by the Minister of Municipal Affairs, but it's important – is that I started to get a flurry of letters and phone calls in my constituency from both low-income seniors, low-income Albertans, and a few small businesses that two federal programs had been handed over to the province. The province took them, shook the hand, took the money, said that they would continue these programs, and then didn't. One is a subsection of the other: the RRAP program, which is the residential rehabilitation assistance program, and HASI, which is the handicapped accessible something something.

They were two grant programs which allowed low-income individuals – so they were income tested, in one case seniors only, the HASI one; in the RRAP program it was everybody – to apply for funds to be able to modify their home. The HASI program was to modify their home very specifically for mobility barriers, so to take away those mobility barriers, which would be things like installing grab bars beside the toilet and in the bathtub and maybe in the hallways, possibly that hanging triangle thing that you use to get out of bed if you need that kind of thing, modified showers and tubs so that you don't have to step over that high tub siding. You know, it wasn't a huge amount of money; it wasn't spectacular. It wouldn't jump out with bells and whistles attached to it, but it was certainly meaningful to the low-income seniors and individuals who were able to apply for it.

The RRAP program was more about making sure you could stay in your house because you kept up the maintenance on your house: new furnaces, especially energy-efficient ones, eaves-troughing so you weren't leaking all the rain down and eroding your foundation, maybe new roofing, that kind of thing. You know, it wasn't about painting the house. It was about structural protection.

Both of these programs no longer exist. The feds handed them over to the province just recently. It was last fall. The province took the money and, as we now know from the Minister of Municipal Affairs, has not put any money into either of these programs, RRAP or HASI.

They have instead transferred the money to affordable housing. That's when I went: huh? You took money that was specifically to keep people in their homes, to let them adapt their homes so that they could stay in them, and gave it to an entirely different group of people? What? I could understand if you took money from one section and gave it to another section and it was still assisting the same people. But to take it away from people that are trying to adapt their homes to stay in them, which the government tells me repeatedly is their goal and is a money saver, to take that money completely out of that sector, leave all of those low-income people to fend for themselves in their falling-down houses and give the money to build affordable housing, which is also necessary – I'm not going to say it isn't. But – huh? – how does that work?

So, you know, I'm listening to how we are spending money on seniors and what is the most efficient way to spend money on seniors to help them. The Member for Vermilion-Lloydminster is right. We end up making a lot of decisions in here without all the facts, and all the time we're talking about evidence-based decision-making. Oh, I can hear my own voice: evidence-based decision-making and scientifically based blah, blah, blah. We didn't ask for results-based budgeting.

Here we're doing it again. I have no idea whether this is actually a reasonable program. It wasn't budgeted. Nobody talked about it during the budget debate. Nobody gave us numbers attached to how much it would take to administer this. Having just read through it while the others were talking, I've gone through it again.

Mr. MacDonald: You should stand corrected. I think there's $1.6 million there in the estimates.

Ms Blakeman: Oh, my God. I might have to stand corrected twice in the same night. I hate that. Okay. So where is it?

Mr. MacDonald: In estimates.

Ms Blakeman: Yes. Department of Seniors estimates.

Mr. MacDonald: Go down there.

Ms Blakeman: Seniors benefits, tax deferral, aids to daily living, community supports, public guardian . . .

Mr. MacDonald: No.

Ms Blakeman: Put your finger on it or mark it or something.

Mr. MacDonald: This one.

Ms Blakeman: Okay. He's going to hand it back to me, and I can tell you what budget line it actually comes out of. He tells me I'm wrong twice. Oh, I am wrong.

Seniors' property tax deferral: $1,623,000 for the 2012-13 year. Can that program be done for that kind of money? I looked at that and went: "Huh? One point six million dollars?" I hate to be at the point where I'm actually going, "That's pocket fluff," but I'm at the point where I'm going: that's pocket fluff. When you're dealing with – what are we at now? – a $37 billion dollar budget, $1.6 million to administer this program? Now, clearly, they're not expecting a lot of loans to come in, but the administration alone has got to be that much money.

9:30

All right. We got a bit more information than we did before.

The estimate. Oh, here we go, $35.8 billion. You know, you guys, when I started, the budget we passed in 1997 was $17 billion. It's double that now. Wow. Yikes.

There's $1.6 million in here for that, and that just strikes me as not enough money to actually run this. Now I want to hear from people that can actually defend this amount of money. What's it supposed to cover? When I do look at things like seniors' lodge assistance and supportive living, that's $41.7 million. The affordable supportive living initiative is $25 million. Support for seniors is $4 million. This just doesn't jive anymore.

Member for Red Deer-North, maybe you can get up and give us a bit more information because now I really don't know which way I'm going to vote. It's not as though my one little vote is going to pass or not pass this bill, but there have been a number of really interesting questions raised recently. Now my question is: how much of that $1.6 million is going to administration, will that be the standard administration amount, and how much of it is actually the deferral? Where do we actually find the deferral, the loans that are going to be taken out by the government and given to – however it's phrased in this bill. They actually do transfer it.

(3) The amount of qualifying property taxes paid under subsection (2) constitutes a property tax deferral loan made by the Crown in right of Alberta to the eligible property owner.

(4) The amount of the property tax deferral loan under subsection (3), together with interest, is a debt owing by the eligible property owner.

Okay. Where is it actually telling us where that money is?

Mr. Kang: Laurie, is it going to take $1.5 million just to set up?

Ms Blakeman: Oh, the $1.5 million is what it sets – oh, my Lord.

Mr. MacDonald: That's just administration.

Ms Blakeman: Okay. Now I really do want to know. How much is it actually going to cost on an annual basis to administer this program? If it's $1.6 million to set it up, how much is the annual administration of it, and how much do they actually expect to see in, one presumes here, forgone revenue? And let me remind you all that forgone revenue is the same as an expense because it's money that you would have had in and you would have spent on stuff, but you don't have it because you've essentially given it to this other program. I want to know the money that goes with this now.

I still don't like the market value assessment. I'd still like to see that fixed. I still think it impacts seniors that are living in older homes much more than those that are in newer homes. I'm really wondering if this program is really as viable as I first thought, so I'm looking forward to having the member – she must be on her computer. She's nodding at me, so she's likely been on her e-mail and gotten some kinds of answers back. I'm looking forward to her engagement in this debate, which is an exchange of ideas and opinions. I'm so excited at 25 to 10.

Thanks. I look forward to this.

The Chair: The hon. Member for Edmonton-Gold Bar. Oh, sorry; I didn't see on this side. The hon. Member for Red Deer-North.

Mrs. Jablonski: Mr. Chair, I'll wait for the Member for Edmonton-Gold Bar, and then I'll answer his questions at the same time if he'd like to speak.

Mr. MacDonald: No. She can go ahead.

The Chair: The hon. Member for Red Deer-North, then.

Mrs. Jablonski: Thank you, Mr. Chair. Bill 5, the Seniors' Property Tax Deferral Act, is a very exciting bill. We've been asked some questions about the costs, and we've been asked some questions about: why is it different from other programs that are already on the free-market system?

This is an important bill because we know that the one thing seniors want more than anything else in the world as they grow older is to be able to remain in their homes for as long as possible. We have a number of really good programs already that help our seniors out with that. We have the education property tax credit for one thing, that freezes the education portion of their property tax. We also have aids to daily living. If they need to have ramps or supports in their home as they grow older and are a little more frail, they can apply to our aids to daily living program.

With the number of seniors' programs we have, we try as much as possible to make it easier for a senior to stay in their own home. The reason why this program is so good is because it's another option for our seniors who might want to stay in their own home but might just be a little short of some money come the end of the month. I don't know what the taxes are for different areas and whatnot, but let's say that the average municipal property tax in Red Deer was $3,600 or something like that. If a senior deferred that, they'd have an extra $300 a month to go towards whatever it is that they might want that to go towards. This program is going to be designed so that there is a low interest rate. Seniors will not be discouraged by that interest rate, that's for sure. It will be available to all seniors.

A lot of the seniors have told me that with some of our seniors' benefits they have a threshold that seniors must meet. This program doesn't have a threshold, but you must have 25 per cent equity in your home. The regulations have not been put into place yet, but these are the thoughts going towards this.

In the end, we believe that after this program is set up and is running, the interest rate itself will help recoup the cost of the administration so that it won't cost us a whole lot of money for this program. There will be no expectation as in a home equity line of credit, for example. With a home equity line of credit a lot of people are expected to pay at least the monthly interest rate on it in most cases. There will be no payments expected on this program except for when the ownership of the home or the property changes hands. That can happen when the senior is frail and needs to go into assisted living. If they sell their home, then they have to pay the deferral, the program that they used from the provincial government, or if they pass away, then, of course, as the Member for Edmonton-Centre said, it would come from the estate. So we would recoup our costs in those ways.

It would be a good program for seniors who just want to bridge that gap and different in that they won't have to pay a monthly payment of just the interest, for example.

There will not be an income test, I believe, on this. You just have to meet the requirements, which is a certain amount of equity in your home.

For those reasons, Mr. Chair, I believe that this is an excellent program for our seniors. We know that this program is already running in a couple of other provinces; in B.C., for example. Not every senior will choose to use this program, but it will be a good tool for the seniors that just need that little bit extra each month to bridge the gap so that they can live a better life.

For these reasons I think this is an excellent program, and I hope that people would see fit to support this bill.

The Chair: The hon. Member for Edmonton-Gold Bar.

Mr. MacDonald: Yes. Thank you very much, Mr. Chairman. Certainly, this is an interesting legislative initiative, the Seniors' Property Tax Deferral Act. It has been suggested and discussed in the past. There are many different ways of looking at this. We look at the education property tax, and we look at perhaps also what British Columbia has done there in exempting seniors from the education portion of their property taxes so that they can live independently in their own homes for as long as possible and have a few dollars in their pockets.

9:40

We all know costs are going up for everything from insurance to utility costs, certainly power bills – and I'm going to get to that in a minute – but this legislative idea certainly would help seniors who own their own homes pay their property taxes through a home equity loan. The program would be available from the 2013 tax year, helping seniors free up funds by deferring all or part of their property tax until they sell their home. It really sounds like a very good idea, but I think we need to pay heed to the advice we had during the course of this evening's debate from the hon. Member for Vermilion-Lloydminster.

We look at the budget estimates. There is a long list of programs available through the Department of Seniors. There are many, many that are noteworthy, and we should be appreciative of the programs that are listed here. We've got the Alberta seniors' benefit. We've got seniors' dental and optical assistance, special-needs assistance, the school property tax deferral, which is estimated to be $1.6 million. I was astonished that there are no real numbers affixed to this, and you would think there would be. I know that whenever we were costing out prior to the last election what it would mean, exactly, to the bottom line of this province if we were to eliminate the portion of the education property tax paid by seniors, we did the math on that. In hindsight it certainly would have worked, particularly whenever we see the dramatic increase in power bills which has occurred. So there are a lot of good programs already available for seniors.

Certainly, we need to build more affordable, accessible, and safe housing. The public sector can do that. There were musings going on here over the weekend from the Minister of Education, who seems to wander from issue to issue. The minister was talking about, potentially, the borrowing of money. In the past this government used to borrow money from within the heritage savings trust fund and build accessible, affordable, safe seniors' housing in the public interest. Now, of course, we see that with this current regime there is a tendency to just grant the money to the private sector and have them build such a facility, but we know that many, many seniors can't afford to live in those facilities. They have limited income, and of course in some cases the rents in these places are substantial.

The first thing I think we need to do to help our seniors out, particularly those who are living independently in their own homes, is to make sure their utilities are affordable. I'm meeting with a lot of seniors, and the first thing that they bring up after this government's less than stellar record on administering health care is their power bill. A senior the other night showed me the power bill for her well-kept two-bedroom house. The sidewalks were free of any ice. It was a nice, comfortable home, very well kept. Her power bill for the last month was $220. She said: "How could this be? I wasn't anticipating that my power bill would be this high." Then she reminded me of a town hall meeting I had hosted 10 years ago – 10 years ago – warning about electricity deregulation and the consequences of it.

Now, the hon. Member for Vermilion-Lloydminster is absolutely right. Perhaps this is where we should go. I'm not saying that this bill is something that should be rejected. What I'm saying is: let's fix one of the major problems not only for seniors but for other residential customers or consumers of electricity, businesses as well. Let's fix the power system so that once again we have affordable electricity.

The first thing we have to do is get this idea out of the government's head that electricity is a commodity. It's not; it's an essential service. I've said it many times in this House, and for the benefit of the members who are listening I will say this: wheat is a commodity, gold is a commodity, sugar is a commodity, gasoline is a commodity, oil is a commodity because you can produce it and store it, but you can't store electricity in large amounts. You can certainly store a modest amount in a battery, for instance, but you can't generate 400 megawatts of electricity and store it somewhere until it's needed at peak time, at 5 o'clock in the evening. You just can't do that. It's an essential service, so the system has to be in a constant state of supply and demand.

Now, what has happened to this system, this system where there is supposedly so much competition, that's never been subsidized? Well, I sit here and I hear repeatedly from the Minister of Energy that the system has never been subsidized, but when the assets were sold off in 2000, hundreds of millions of dollars were used to subsidize the price of power. That fact is conveniently omitted from the talking points of the Minister of Energy whenever he stands up to try to defend this in this House. Totally false. Hundreds of millions of dollars in subsidies.

While we're talking about subsidies, when we look at the development that has occurred in our power system in the north, there has been, certainly, a lot of development. A lot of industrial cogeneration facilities have been built. They've been built in Fort McMurray, where the consumers of electricity are subsidizing those enterprises by paying all of the costs, the complete costs, of the transmission expansion or the transmission upgrades.

Now, my research indicates that in January 2003 – and this is why seniors are so upset with this government, because they have figured it out – in Fort McMurray there was less than 1,000 megawatts of electricity being shifted onto the provincial grid. Since that time there has been a 500-kV line from Wabamun to northeast Fort McMurray requested. The cost estimate of this line is $1.6 billion. If this was to be shared equally between generators and the homeowner in Ottewell, that means they would each pay 50 per cent, but that's not the case. It's all been shifted onto the homeowners, the commercial consumers of electricity, and other industrial users. That is a subsidy. That's a subsidy for the big generators.

Now, when we look at what has happened in Fort McMurray since 2003, we see that the megawatt capacity has gone from less than a thousand megawatts to over 1,600 megawatts. That construction has been subsidized through the royalty structure because the powerhouse that's located in the bitumen production facility can be built over capacity and those construction costs can be deducted from the royalties. That's a subsidy.

We also have generous fuel gas subsidies in the Fort McMurray region.

Those are two reasons why this minister is not accurate, is completely offside regarding this suggestion that there's no subsidization of electricity generation in this province. Just completely offside.

9:50

Now, when we look at what's happened and why seniors are so upset when they see their power bill going so high, Mr. Chairman, we only have to look at one of the government's own reports to see what a folly – what a folly – this is. I had to show this to a senior the other day. This is a document prepared for the Alberta Market Surveillance Administrator. There are those people on this side of the House that think that the Market Surveillance Administrator has to have some teeth, some very sharp teeth. We've been saying this for a number of years. This document warns us that there is a substantial concentration in offer control by Alberta suppliers for electricity.

This is why the hon. member is absolutely correct. The first thing we should do for seniors is lower their power bills, and this is a government that refuses to do it, that tries to get by on some false ideology.

The concentration in offer control by Alberta power suppliers. We have six of the largest suppliers accounting for 76 per cent of the electricity that's offered into the system for sale and the top four suppliers accounting for almost 60 per cent of that control. The top four. Oddly enough, TransCanada has 19 per cent of the offer control. That was last year. TransAlta has 16 per cent of the offer control. I think TransAlta is the organization that gave five of the six Tory leadership candidates a reported $50,000 in donations. TransAlta is followed by Enmax, with 14 per cent of the offer control, and then we have Capital Power, which nudges out ATCO with 10.6 per cent of the offer control.

Again, we should be very careful when we say that electricity deregulation has been a success because 12 years into this experiment we find that essentially the same suppliers are doing the same thing, but they're making a lot more money. In fact, I was reading in the newspaper, and it was brought up by this constituent, about the profits they were making. How can they not make a profit with the so-called market that's been set up? That's the first thing that we need to do.

Now, when we look at the generation mix and how much it's changed in this province, we can see that right now 45 per cent of electricity is generated by coal, 41 per cent by natural gas, 7 per cent by hydro, 5 per cent by wind, and the remaining 2 per cent from other sources. Maybe we're going to go to an increase . . .

An Hon. Member: What per cent was gas?

Mr. MacDonald: Natural gas is at 41 per cent, and if the price of natural gas stays at the price it is right now, I think you're going to find more baseload generation stations being built to run on natural gas.

However, should we separate the industrial load from the commercial and residential load, that would be one thing we could do to go back to a sensible sort of system for providing electricity to seniors and to commercial users. The behind-the-fence generators like the ones in Fort McMurray where we have subsidized the construction of their facilities: leave them alone.

The Chair: Hon. member, this is about seniors' property tax.

Mr. MacDonald: Yes. It is about seniors' property taxes. You bet it is, Mr. Chairman. That's why the first thing we should do if we're going to look after the financial interests of seniors before we defer their property taxes is to reduce their power bills. That's essentially what I'm saying.

Now, there are those that would say: oh, no; seniors can pay these costs. They can't. Electricity costs in this province, because of this government's policy, have become unaffordable. Now, do we have to defer property taxes so that people can pay their power bills? Unfortunately, it's getting to that, Mr. Chairman. If we were to have a public policy that would avoid that situation, then let's reduce electricity costs. I'm giving another good idea to this government, and I think they should consider this first before this seniors' property tax deferral idea.

Let's separate it. I think 79 per cent, hon. members, of power consumed here in the province is for industrial purposes, and 21 per cent is used by either residential users or shopping centres or small businesses. They're the ones that are complaining, not only the seniors. The senior that I had the discussion with was quite aware of what happened in the middle of January, that whenever we had a cold snap, the price of power spiked. It went right up to the maximum allowed, the cap, which is $999. I asked a question about this in the Assembly the other day, and I was left with the impression, unfortunately, that the minister didn't even know what the cap was. I'm not sure. I couldn't really tell, Mr. Chairman, but the seniors watching on the cable network could tell, and they could tell that this is a government that's not interested in reducing their power bills.

This bill may be a very good public relations exercise leading into the election, but until we get the financial details on what precisely this is going to cost, I would heed hon. members about this legislative initiative. It's an important one, it may be a very good one, but let's get all the details on the floor of the Assembly before we make the decision.

In conclusion, certainly, Mr. Chairman, I would urge this government to come up with a sensible plan, and if they want to borrow the one that we have been proposing, be our guests. We need a sensible plan to reduce electricity costs not only for seniors but for residential users of electricity in this province and small businesses. Please don't forget that $220 a month for someone living independently in their own home is a power bill that is far too high, and the idea, as the hon. member said earlier, that "Oh, just sign a contract; lock yourself in over a long period of time at a high price; that's the solution," is not the solution. The solution is to reduce our power bills. Make it so that seniors living in their own homes have a higher disposable income at the end of the month after they pay their necessary bills and their costs.

Thank you.

The Chair: Are there any other hon. members wishing to speak on the bill?

Seeing none, the chair shall now put the question.

[The clauses of Bill 5 agreed to]

[Title and preamble agreed to]

The Chair: Shall the bill be reported?

Hon. Members: Agreed.

The Chair: Opposed? Carried.

Our committee will continue on.

10:00

Bill 6 Property Rights Advocate Act

The Chair: Does any hon. member have comments or questions on the bill? The hon. Member for Calgary-Glenmore on the bill.

Mr. Hinman: Yes. Thank you, Mr. Chairman. It's a privilege to stand up and debate Bill 6, the property rights bill. I've spoken at length to this. Again, this is one of the problems that we're facing with this government. When it comes to constitutional law and the laws they want to pass, they seem to miss the foundational properties and the foundation of law that actually entrenches the rights.

One of the things that has been a major dilemma for many people is the constitutional rights protecting the life, the freedoms, and the property of the individual. This government has spoken at length, saying, "Don't worry, you can trust us; we'll never take your property without proper consultation; we'll never take your property without proper compensation; and we'll always give you access to the courts," and it just isn't so.

What they're saying in the amendment that they're looking at here is on actual property rights, but when it comes to licences and mineral leases and other areas, those aren't covered in this bill. It's a concern for all of those, especially for those people that are investing and bidding, whether it's a grazing lease, a water licence, or a mineral lease. These are all areas that this government is failing to protect. To tell the entrepreneur and the businessman, "Oh, no; we're going to put it in law" – well, write it down.

Today in the rally out on the legislative steps we had a lawyer that, again, spoke of the importance not of the intent but of what's actually in the legislation. So if we look at Bill 6 – and, again, I wasn't as prepared as quickly as I wanted to be; I didn't realize that we were jumping to that one at this point – where it's talking about the Property Rights Advocate Act, it is not going to cover those areas that are essential to so much of the business that goes on in our province, and those areas are of concern.

I remember having one young geologist in my office late last fall, and he said: Paul, I put two years of sweat equity into my mineral lease. He went to SRD – he's up in northeastern Alberta – and said, you know: am I going to have this lease? At that point there were lots of discussions about the lower Athabasca regional plan and what area it was going to encompass and lots of denial by this government, saying that they were not going to extinguish any rights or leases. "No, no, no. You have nothing to fear. Nothing to fear. We're going to respect the rule of law here. We'll respect your leases."

But when it came out, there were 22 oil and gas leases that got extinguished. I don't know. I haven't heard to date what the compensation is on those 22 leases. Last fall we asked the minister many times: "What is it going to cost? Tell us what the dealings are that you're doing with these companies. What's the actual cost of extinguishing these leases?" To date, as is par for the course, we haven't heard a word, and I doubt very much that we will hear anything.

This one young individual, who had spent two summers up there and had done a lot of sweat equity and a lot of research – and, again, we don't have a lot of mining in the province in Alberta – went out and he actually staked out his lease. It was only $600 for his lease but two years' worth of work. So this government comes in and says, "We're going to extinguish this lease; oh, we see that it was $600," and they compensate him. How do you call that fair compensation? How do you call that access to the courts?

This isn't property according to this government and according to Bill 6, the Property Rights Advocate Act. But the advocate – what? – he's going to go and charm this individual and tell him: "Well, it's okay. You know, you're young. You can start over again. Don't feel too bad. It's for the better. It's for the big picture. It's nothing personal."

[Mr. Zwodzesky in the chair]

Mr. Chair, the problem with this government and the legislation that it continues to pass is that it doesn't actually protect the citizens. It doesn't actually protect business. It just seems to protect their ideas, that they know best and that nobody should stand in their way. This is wrong. This bill shouldn't pass. We're going to have one more bill to add on that we're going to have to repeal, in my opinion. All we need to do is entrench property rights.

To talk on the other side of that, what is an advocate, and why do we need an advocate? An advocate, in my opinion, is usually someone that you need to employ because you can't advocate for yourself. We have a children's advocate. A child cannot advocate for itself. It doesn't have legal status. So we need the Child and Youth Advocate to advocate for these individuals.

We have a Farmers' Advocate, that has been kind of silent. I haven't heard a lot of controversial problems with the Farmers' Advocate.

But why do we need an advocate in a free and democratic society?

Mr. MacDonald: You need one for children.

Mr. Hinman: But those are people who can't speak for themselves.

Perhaps for the disabled or for other ones that need to be protected, that's where you have an advocate. The whole idea of a Property Rights Advocate Act is insulting to those people who actually own property because it's not protected. They're saying: well, you know, the government is going to hire this individual, who's going to – I don't know – make you feel good after they've taken away your property, confiscated the lease, or extinguished the lease.

We have here again from the Random House dictionary – oh, my goodness; I have to get my glasses on for this one – to plead in favour of or urge publicity; a person who espouses a cause by argument; a person who pleads for or on behalf of another. I think I was fairly accurate. You know, an advocate is looking out for someone who needs help. Are we living in a province where we actually need an advocate for property owners? I personally find that offensive.

Because of what we were just talking about earlier on the previous bills, how much is it going to cost us? Is that cost in the budget? I can't say that I remember that line item as to what it's going to cost for the Property Rights Advocate Act. Once again here's a government that seems to continue to have one more program, one more idea that can expand government, and they can say: oh, this is going to solve the problems that we're facing with all of the other bills that we've passed that don't protect those rights.

Mr. Chairman, I cannot understand why this government would bring in such a Band-Aid piece of legislation when, in fact, I brought one forward earlier this year, Bill 201, the Alberta Bill of Rights (Property Rights Protection) Amendment Act, 2012. This, I would say, is the antibiotic to cure the deficit, the problem, the attack on property rights. It was a very simple bill that I brought forward as a private member. The government members seemed to say: oh, we don't need to do that; property rights are protected. Well, if they're protected, why did you bring forward Bill 6, then, and say, "We're going to get an advocate in place to help you"?

To go back to Bill 201, the Alberta Bill of Rights (Property Rights Protection) Amendment Act, 2012:

Her Majesty, by and with the advice and consent of the Legislative Assembly of Alberta, enacts as follows . . .

1 The Alberta Bill of Rights is amended by this Act.

2 The following is added after section 1:

Protection of property rights

1.1 For greater certainty, the right to enjoyment of property and the right not to be deprived thereof except by due process of law under this Act shall be construed such that where a law of Alberta authorizes the Crown to acquire property owned by a person other than the Crown, that person is entitled to the following:

- (a) full, fair and timely compensation; and
- (b) right of recourse to the courts to determine the compensation payable.

Very simple. Very concise. Very easy to follow and realize that all we need to do is respect property rights.

10:10

Because we have a problem with bills 19, 24, 36, and 50, that have offended property owners here in the province, this government says that we're going to get an advocate? What we need is law. We need legislation that actually . . .

Mr. MacDonald: A new government is what you need.

Mr. Hinman: The Member for Edmonton-Gold Bar: I am going to truly miss the wisdom, the knowledge, and the experience that he has after this next election because he's not running again, so we know he will not be in here. His experience is phenomenal, and he hit the nail on the head. What we need is a new government. We need a new government that actually respects the property that people in Alberta own.

We want to continue attracting investment here so that we can continue to prosper, so that jobs are able to do it. You know, it's interesting as a segue, I guess, talking about the rule of law and dealing in good faith. I'm very, very disappointed again with this government not answering questions about the Alberta First Nations Energy Centre and what has gone on there. Here they are dealing in good faith for two years, as one of the parameters for us to bring in investment here, and there were 13 conditions that they were given. They've met all of those conditions, yet this government all of a sudden jerks this off the table and says: "You know what? We're not going to deal."

What this has to do with is the fact that they don't respect the rule of law. What are we going to have, a business advocate for businesses that try to go into negotiations with this government only to have the rug pulled out from under them and hear, "Well, it's too much of a risk for Alberta taxpayers"? These are the types of shenanigans that are going on, Mr. Chair, that cause real concern for investment here in the province.

I can't help but keep going back to this young geologist who was putting in his life, sweat, and equity for two years up in northeastern Alberta only to have LARP come out and say: "We're taking away your mineral leases. Here's your $600 back." He says: "Whoa, whoa, whoa. I've put all this work into there." They say: "Oh, no. That doesn't matter." That's the type of individual that needs recourse to the courts. He can come forward. He can show his hours. He can show the drilling. He can show all the work that he did and say: "No. You're going to extinguish my lease right here? This is what it's going to cost you, then." The government and the minister can say: "No. We're not going to do that."

Currently, right now, with what we've got, he has no other recourse. The minister is not going to say: well, you know, you should actually go to the courts. The minister could say that, but he's not going to because that's going to cost the government more money. The minister is looking out for the government and all the other taxpayers. They don't want to look bad and say: oh, we shouldn't have extinguished these rights; we've got $45,000 worth of costs that we're going to have to pay back to this individual if we go to the courts.

Again, why won't this government come clean and tell us what they negotiated for those 22 oil and gas leases that they extinguished with the lower Athabasca regional plan? It's a real concern, Mr. Chair, that we don't have the answers to these things. We need to know what it's costing. This government seems to be notorious, in my opinion, for bulldozing ahead, not thinking of what will and won't happen. I believe it was – gosh, I've forgotten now which lake it was where they allowed the leases to be purchased, and then they stopped those individuals.

If this government doesn't do its due diligence on its mineral leases, on water licences, on grazing leases, whatever it is, it comes back to haunt the taxpayers. Worse, it's tough on those individuals who put faith in this government, who believe in the rule of law, and it's going to be wiped out from underneath them. It's just wrong. You need to have the recourse to the courts. You need to have full compensation. You need to have a timely process where these individuals can't be strung out. I know of people that have been waiting for 10 or 15 years, where their land has been frozen in what I would call an unethical way and they're left hanging there.

Mr. Chair, this bill is wrong. It shouldn't be passed. There's no value here other than the fact of this government desiring to grow the size of government and saying: "Oh, don't worry. We'll get an advocate here to look after you so that we can explain to you why you have to eat your profits or eat what you have put into this business, because we're looking out for the general best interests of Albertans."

With that, I'll let someone else discuss Bill 6. Thank you very much.

The Deputy Chair: Thank you very much.

Bill 7
Appropriation Act, 2012
(continued)

The Deputy Chair: Before I recognize the hon. Member for Edmonton-Centre, I regret that I must first abide by Standing Order 64(4), and I must put the question. Does the committee approve the following bill, Bill 7, Appropriation Act, 2012?

[Motion carried]

The Deputy Chair: Hon. members, pursuant to Standing Order 64(4) the committee must now immediately rise and report.

[Mr. Zwozdesky in the chair]

The Acting Speaker: The hon. Member for Dunvegan-Central Peace.

Mr. Goudreau: Thank you, Mr. Speaker. The Committee of the Whole has had under consideration certain bills. The committee reports the following bills: Bill 4, Bill 5, Bill 7. The committee reports progress on the following bill: Bill 6.

Thank you.

The Acting Speaker: Thank you.

Hon. members, does the Assembly concur in the report? If it does, please say aye.

Hon. Members: Aye.

The Acting Speaker: Any opposed, please say no. So ordered.

Government Bills and Orders
Committee of the Whole

[Mr. Zwozdesky in the chair]

Bill 6
Property Rights Advocate Act
(continued)

The Deputy Chair: Hon. Member for Edmonton-Centre, please proceed.

Ms Blakeman: Thank you very much. I actually wasn't going to comment on Bill 6, but you know how fussy I get about people throwing around the word "rights." I have the right to do this; I have the right to do that. Tell me where in the Constitution there is a property right.

Mr. Hinman: There isn't.

Ms Blakeman: Right. Correct. There is no property right in the Constitution. And one of the wonderful things about Canadians is that we do not see the owning and enjoyment of property as a right, unlike our . . .

Mr. Anderson: Heart attack. Heart attack. I'm sorry.

Ms Blakeman: Okay. The Member for Airdrie-Chestermere is having a heart attack, with a great deal of passion in his portrayal. I appreciate that.

But you did know that, right? You did know that there is no property right in the Constitution? Please tell me. [interjection]

The Deputy Chair: Hon. members, through the chair, please. I'm interested to hear what you have to say. Truly.

Mr. Anderson: Trudeau wasn't big into property rights.

Ms Blakeman: And this gets blamed on Trudeau? Oh, my God.

I mean, one of the wonderful differences between Canadians and Americans is that we do not have a right to own and enjoy property. You wonder why they are so – and this is not personal; trust me – nutty about litigation, and they are constantly suing each other, and everybody is suing everybody else. It's around 9 times out of 10 that somebody grew a tree, and now they can't enjoy the sun shining through their window; therefore, they can't enjoy their property anymore. It's ridiculous.

We have certain rights and freedoms. You in the gallery are going to get it from me again. Here we go. You have fundamental freedoms, right? You all have fundamental freedoms. What are those fundamental freedoms? They are as follows.

Mr. Hinman: Conscience and religion.

Ms Blakeman: Very good.

(a) freedom of conscience and religion;

Anybody else?

(b) freedom of thought, belief, opinion and expression, including freedom of the press and other media of communication;

(c) freedom of peaceful assembly; and

(d) freedom of association.

That, my friends, is it. Those are your freedoms. That's in the Constitution. Those are it.

Mr. Anderson: Who wrote that Charter of Rights and Freedoms?

Ms Blakeman: Canadians did.

Mr. Anderson: Was he named Pierre Trudeau?

Ms Blakeman: They were Canadian.

10:20

The Deputy Chair: Hon. members, please. Let's not engage in that informal debate. Let's keep it through the chair in respect of the fine tradition that we have. Thank you very much.

Ms Blakeman: You can talk right underneath me, and Hansard will still get my comments.

Now we're going to talk about rights, which are so important to everybody. What are the rights that we have under the Constitution? One more time. We have democratic rights.

3. Every citizen . . .

Not every person but every citizen.

. . . of Canada has the right to vote in an election of members of the House of Commons or of a legislative assembly and to be qualified for membership therein.

That would be us here at 19 minutes after 10. That is a democratic right.

It goes on about democratic rights, that they can't continue for longer than five years from when they come in and that if there's a war, they can go for longer and that Parliament and Legislature have to meet once every 12 months. I know you guys really love Texas and that you'd like to meet once every two years, whether you needed it or not, but our Constitution says that you have a right, the citizens have a right, for us to sit once every 12 months.

Now, we have mobility rights, which is also a wonderful thing about the Canadian Constitution. We have a mobility right, which essentially says that you can move around Canada and will receive the same treatment. Every citizen, not everybody.

(1) Every citizen of Canada has the right to enter, remain in and leave Canada.

These are not rights that are shared by some of our fellow human beings in Africa and some other places currently.

(2) Every citizen of Canada and every person who has the status of a permanent resident of Canada has the right

What's a citizen? What's a person? You need to know those things because that's how the right is being assigned here.

(a) to move to and take up residence in any province; and
So you're allowed to cross the border and live anywhere you want.

(b) to pursue the gaining of a livelihood in any province.

To pursue the gaining of a livelihood in any province. It doesn't guarantee you a job; it just says that you can pursue it.

(3) The rights specified in subsection (2) are subject to

(a) any laws or practices . . . in force in a province other than those that discriminate among persons primarily on the basis of province of present or previous residence; and

That applies to what came before.

(b) any laws providing for reasonable residency requirements as a qualification for the receipt of publicly provided . . . services.

So welfare, AISH, seniors' benefits, et cetera. The previous two subsections do not preclude any law, program or activity that has as its object the amelioration in a province of conditions of individuals in that province who are socially or economically disadvantaged . . .

Et cetera, et cetera. Those are the mobility rights.

Now we have – anybody? – legal rights. Everyone has the right to three: life, liberty, and security of the person. Good. No property. Life, liberty, and security of the person. Person. Not citizen, person. Everybody who's here gets that.

7. Everyone has the right to life, liberty and security of the person and the right not to be deprived [of that] except in accordance with the principles of fundamental justice.

You talk about a different kind of justice. I can never remember what it's called. Natural law. There we go.

8. Everyone has the right to be secure against unreasonable search or seizure.

Very important for young people. Please know that one. Please know your laws when you go out on a date at night. You have the right to be secure against unreasonable search and seizure. Aha. I can see you thinking about that one. You're going to tuck that one away, aren't you? Okay.

9. Everyone has the right not to be arbitrarily detained or imprisoned.

Right? That's important. You guys need to know that when you go out. Please read your Constitution. It's not hard. It's not very long. The language is really easy.

10. Everyone has the right on arrest or detention

(a) to be informed promptly of the reasons . . .

So they can't just pick you up and then wait a couple of days until they tell you why. They're supposed to tell you why right away, and you have a right to say to them: "Why are you picking me up? What am I being charged with?" If you're not being charged with anything, you guys need to know this stuff. So you have a right to be promptly informed.

(b) to retain and instruct counsel without delay . . .

(c) to have the validity of the detention determined by way of a habeas corpus . . .

And then any person charged with an offence, and it goes through a long list of things. I hope you guys are never charged with an offence, but you should know the section anyway. Read it on your own.

12. Everyone has the right not to be subjected to any cruel or unusual treatment or punishment.

Stephen Harper should read that one more often.

13. A witness who testifies in any proceedings has the right not to have any incriminating evidence so given used to incriminate that witness . . .

Et cetera, et cetera. Then there are language protections.

Then we have equality rights. Very important.

15(1) Every individual is equal before and under the law and has the right to the equal protection and equal benefit of the law without discrimination and, in particular, without discrimination based on race, national or ethnic origin, colour, religion, sex, age or mental or physical disability.

And now read in: sexual orientation. This doesn't preclude the right to ameliorate any of the conditions of disadvantage.

Last one: official languages of Canada. That is the whole thing about being educated and being able to get services in either of those languages.

Then the minority language education rights. That would be the francophone stuff, right? Are you guys francophone students? No? Yes, we are. There we go. That's where it comes from.

Mr. Hinman: What about political rights?

Ms Blakeman: That was in the beginning. Freedom of thought, belief, opinion, and expression.

Mr. Hinman: What about section 21?

Ms Blakeman: That is:

21. Nothing in sections 16 to 20 abrogates or derogates from any right, privilege or obligation with respect to the English and French languages, or either of them, that exists or is continued by virtue of any other provision of the Constitution of Canada.

Is that the one you were thinking of?

Mr. Hinman: Twenty-one and 22.

Ms Blakeman: I just read 21.

22. Nothing in section 16 to 20 abrogates or derogates from any legal or customary right or privilege acquired or enjoyed either before or after the coming into force of this Charter with respect to any language that is not English or French.

You don't like that one either? Okay.

Minority language educational rights. We just talked about that.

Enforcement and general and application of the Charter, and then you're pretty much at the end of it. So those are the rights. Nowhere in here did you hear me read "property."

My hon. colleagues beside me would like to change the Constitution, and I invite them to do that. It requires two-thirds of the provinces at the time and a certain percentage – oh, this would actually be in here if I went to look for it – of the population, but it can't include Ontario and Quebec together. It means that you can't have the two big provinces gang up and change everything across the country. You can have one of them onboard but not two of them onboard, okay? I welcome you to go ahead and cut loose, and while you're at it, we'd like to try and fix the Senate.

Mr. Hinman: One step at a time. First we fix the property rights.

Ms Blakeman: Don't talk to me about property rights.

If the government feels that they need to get into the middle of this one – and, frankly, this bill is one of those annoying little things that this government does to me every now and then, because we would not be here if this government hadn't gone through misguided, missing, stupid, and a number of other adjectives for that long trailing of bills that included 19, 36, 24, 50. What a mess. I mean, honestly.

Now we have to come back and try and give people this weak protection – not a right, not a freedom, but this weak protection – because the government passed all of these other bills that were incredibly misguided in order to serve who, the people? No. In order to serve – who the heck was it? – TransAlta. It was the big electrical companies, ultimately, who were going to gain from all of this, not the people. AltaLink and ATCO. Oh, blessed ATCO, right? AltaLink and ATCO. I mean, truly, those are companies; they're not people.

Now we get thrown a bone, the Property Rights Advocate Act. I wasn't even going to get into this because, frankly, it's not worth the time, but you make me crazy. You say "rights," and it's not a right. You're going to get that lecture, which you just got.

Mr. Hinman: I got that as a lecture?

Ms Blakeman: Yes. You got it as a lecture.

Thank you very much, everybody, for hanging in there with me. I appreciate it. I hope the rest of you learned something. Property is not a right in Canada.

Thank you.

10:30

The Deputy Chair: Thank you.

Mr. Anderson: Sadly, the hon. Member for Edmonton-Centre is technically correct.

Ms Blakeman: She is one hundred per cent right.

Mr. Anderson: No, no, not one hundred per cent right. Technically correct.

For any free and open society to have any kind of long-term viability, there has to be protection of property rights. There has to be respect for property rights. Now, they may not be enshrined in the Charter at this time. However, through our laws we do protect property rights. It's not in the Charter, but we do create property rights. There are fascinating courses of law on property rights throughout the Commonwealth. They are established in common law. They are established all throughout jurisprudence. Property rights do exist. They are not in the Charter of Rights and Freedoms yet, but they do exist, absolutely.

Ms Blakeman: As part of the Constitution?

Mr. Anderson: As part of the Constitution – you're right – they are not there. However, property rights do absolutely exist, and they exist by law at a more basic level, at common law. They're so fundamental. They're so woven throughout our history and throughout the history of free societies that the common law is full of different definitions: how they're arrived at, how they're extinguished, how they are transferred, how people infringe on people's property rights or take them away without permission and so forth. It's everywhere. So to say that there are no property rights – I'm just not there yet, but maybe with some convincing I could be brought there.

I will say this, though. There is a universal declaration of human rights, put together by the United Nations, and under article 17(1) of that universal declaration of human rights it says, "Everyone has the right to own property alone as well as in association with others." Subsection (2) says, "No one shall be arbitrarily deprived of his property." That is certainly not the genesis of property rights, certainly not the origin of property rights, but even the United Nations saw fit to include property rights in their universal declaration.

There is quite an interesting history lesson about property rights. Now, I was referring to Pierre Trudeau earlier, and I was giving him a hard time. Really, he's not entirely to blame for the fact that property rights aren't in the Charter. Actually, he advocated quite strongly for property rights to be in the Constitution of Canada for years. Unfortunately, there were some provinces, Alberta not being one of them, that were very worried about including property rights in the Charter. If you go through the history of how the Charter came into being, actually, Trudeau was not the villain. Now, I would say that he should have stood up and said, "No, damn it; we've got to get property rights in there," but he didn't. That said, he was never really opposed to the idea at all.

There's a great history on this. I'll recite – I'm going back to law school days on this – a great note by David Johansen, law and government division, October 1991, called Property Rights and the Constitution, and it's a very, very good history. I urge everyone to read it. It's very sad because, really, property rights should be part of our Constitution and would have been if we had listened to – even Pierre Trudeau understood the absolute necessity of property rights for a free and functioning democracy to exist.

If you do not have property rights, if you can have your property rights arbitrarily taken away – what separates democracy and freedom and free peoples from tyranny and socialism, totalitarianism, essentially is the fact that you can have a dictator in totalitarian dictatorships. They can come. They can take those property rights with no compensation. They just take them. They are theirs. It's their divine right to take it. They can have what they want. They take what they want.

Then there are those societies which say no to property rights, in fact starting with the Magna Carta, starting way back then, even those nobles back then. I mean, wars have been fought over this stuff, early, going back, back, even before there were democratic rights. Even before there were any kind of real civil liberties, certainly before any civil liberties that the common man could enjoy, property rights were kind of the first rights to show themselves and to be respected. The king actually had to respect certain property rights in order to maintain his position, or else he would have been removed by some of the noblemen in his kingdom.

I think it's a very important thing. We've got to find ways to protect property rights even further than we do now. They are rights. What the Wildrose proposes that we do – and I know our leader, Danielle Smith, is very committed to property rights; she's been a property rights advocate for several years – is pass an amendment to the Bill of Rights to enshrine property rights in the Bill of Rights, to strengthen the property rights further that are already in the Alberta Bill of Rights, and also to start a national movement, a national campaign to fulfill Pierre Trudeau's dream and finally enshrine property rights in the Constitution of Canada, almost certainly in the Charter of Rights and Freedoms. You know what? I think that getting to where we need to accomplish that is very, very doable.

Honestly, who cannot agree with the fact that somebody has a right to his or her property and should not be denied that right arbitrarily without due compensation or access to the courts, just arbitrarily have the property taken away? I don't think any of my friends – I'm not going to speak for the NDP and the Liberals. I'm sure they agree with that. I'm sure they do. I'm going to give them the benefit of the doubt.

When people get passionate about property rights, it's very simply because it is such a foundational tenet. I mean, could you imagine trying to run any kind of a free-market system without property rights, without respect for property rights and rule of law? It would be impossible. You couldn't do it. How could you do it? How could you transfer property? How could you sell? How could you buy? How could you do any of that? Property rights and the enforcement of property rights are absolutely essential to any free and functioning society and any democratic society.

This is why the people of Alberta over the last several years, especially in rural Alberta, have been so concerned about this government's consistent, steady erosion of property rights. They never mean to; I always find it fascinating. They say: we're not taking anyone's property away. Well, great, but why would you put laws in place that would allow future governments to trample on people's property rights, to seize licences arbitrarily without guarantee of proper compensation and without guarantee of access to the courts? Why? Why do that? It's just not worth it.

People were angry, and they voiced their opinions and attended town halls. Thousands of Albertans across the province did this. They're still angry about it. The government responded. After calling us all liars and calling us all fearmongers and all that stuff, which is kind of standard operating procedure for this group, after calling us all these names and calling Keith Wilson all these names and so forth, then they decided they were going to make some amendments. They said: "Well, even though they're full of garbage, those barbarian, wild-eyed Alliance guys, although they're just barbarians and this Keith Wilson is just a lying lawyer, we're going to change the bills anyway. We're going to alter Bill 36 to take away some of the most draconian provisions in there like the ability to essentially extinguish land titles," which, technically, was in the bill if you read it. That's been taken out, thank goodness. It's been specifically exempted under the Land Titles Act. It's been specifically exempted from the provisions of Bill 36 that allow for the extinguishment of property rights. However, that's after calling us liars and fearmongers for a while.

10:40

That's where they did make those changes to improve the bill. It's still not perfect. They can still extinguish mineral leases without recourse to the courts and without guaranteed fair compensation, and there are others.

In Bill 19 they did get a little less intrusive than it was before, added some more recourse to the courts, provisions and so forth.

Bill 50 they did nothing on. Bill 50 is just an absolute joke of a bill. I can't wait to be in a position where we're able to shine some light on how that bill came into being and why we are still going forward with this unnecessary overbuild. Maybe one day we'll be in a position where we can find that out through a proper inquiry into it. So there's Bill 50.

Then Bill 24: what a random bill that was. The government just decides: oh, we're going to own everyone's pore space, starting now. Yippee. As any first-year law student knows, you know, basic property: when you own title, you own everything to the centre of the Earth and as far as the eye can see going up unless there's something else on the title that takes that away like a mineral lease or a mineral right or something like that.

To just take people's property rights, even though it seems: "Oh, it's pore space. Why is pore space important? No one cares about their pore space." That's not the point. The point is that it's their property. That's what they own. They own it. It's a property right. Why would you just arbitrarily take it away? It doesn't matter what it is. If it's pore space today, maybe it's the dirt next. Maybe it's the bedrock next. Who knows what it is? You just don't take people's property rights away arbitrarily. That's the problem with Bill 24. It's just totally arbitrary and a slippery slope. You start with that, and who knows what it is after that? You've created a precedent.

This is exactly why we need a constitutional amendment, probably put into the Charter of Rights and Freedoms, to entrench property rights and make sure that the government cannot pass bills like Bill 24. I'm sure that if we did have that in the Charter, somebody would challenge Bill 24 as completely unconstitutional, and frankly I believe they would easily win that argument because what went on there was completely arbitrary.

That's why I'm passionate about property rights. I think it is important. You know, you learn things at this job. I think we all do, of course, as we study things and as we get to know different issues. Property rights are certainly something that I think – starting out in this Legislature a few years ago, although I had the basic idea of what property rights were and why they were important and had studied them and all that sort of thing, I was quite naive. Let's just say that I used to believe the just-trust-me line a lot more than I do now.

You know, you learn about it, and I think we have to do a much better job of making sure that when we pass anything to do with property rights, when we pass bills regarding property rights, regardless of whether it's matrimonial property rights, whether it's physical property rights, whatever the property rights are, we do due diligence, that we're not just trusting the government lawyers or the government civil servants, that we're actually putting those bills out there, that we're having a robust discussion, a long discussion about it, that we're getting into the nooks and crannies, making sure that when we pass any property rights bill, it's a bill that Albertans can be proud of and can be comfortable with because it respects their fundamental rights to their property and not to be deprived thereof without just compensation and recourse to the courts.

Do I support this bill? Yes, I do. I know the Member for Calgary-Glenmore disagrees. He doesn't want to support it. That's fine. I understand his reasoning; it's very compelling. I can see his point, but I would rather have a property rights advocate than not.

I think that, unfortunately, the current government, certainly, and possibly future governments have a tendency sometimes to act in a way like we've seen with this government over the last several years, where they've in some cases extinguished mineral leases arbitrarily to put in place their lower Athabasca regional plan and so forth, and I'm sure that they will continue to do so. We're worried about water rights; that's another one we worry about. It's just hard to imagine that every government from here on out is going to just have clean hands on respect for property rights.

So I think it's a good thing to have a property rights advocate that can at least sound the alarm, certainly help individuals who feel that they've had their property rights infringed upon, but also be in a position to possibly put up the red flags where maybe there's something we're not seeing as politicians in this House. They can bring that to our attention through their different reports and raising the alarm on a few things. I think it's worth while because so many of these things seem to go undetected until they're already passed. We won't always have the Member for Calgary-Glenmore. He might not always be in the Legislature for all time immemorial to raise the red flag and warn us of possible infringements to our property rights.

I support this, and I support a constitutional amendment to add property rights because, to me, property rights are as fundamental as any right protected under the Charter of Rights and Freedoms. I'm not saying more important, but I'm saying as important as all of those other rights. It's the only one that I can think of that is missing.

Remember, we talked about parental rights last time and how important those are. Now, of course, to me, the Supreme Court has already said that that is included in the Charter. It's just not specifically stated. Parental rights to decide what's in the best interest of their child, certainly with regard to their education and in other matters, health matters and so forth, are actually a part of the Charter as it exists today. I forget which right it's put under, but I read the decision the other day, and it's already considered part of the Charter of Rights.

Property rights, however, are not, as the Member for Edmonton-Centre said. We need to put it in there, and I know that a Wildrose government led by Danielle Smith would certainly be willing to do so.

Thank you, Mr. Chair.

The Deputy Chair: Thank you, hon. member.

The chair has the Member for Edmonton-Gold Bar, followed by the Minister of Agriculture and Rural Development.

Mr. MacDonald: Yes. Thank you very much. The Property Rights Advocate Act is . . .

Mr. Campbell: We're not talking about a little lot in Gold-Bar.

Mr. MacDonald: Hon. member, there are lots of big properties there; yes, there are. You're welcome to buy one if you'd like.

Bill 6, Mr. Chairman, is a bill that supposedly creates an advocate's office to assist Albertans who have concerns regarding impacts to their property rights, specifically expropriation or some form of compensation. Now, we all heard through the fall of the MLA task force that was around quietly meeting with supposed stakeholders to see if there could be a political solution to the problem that this government had particularly in rural areas and particularly with people who pay power bills. A political solution was needed.

Of course, we had legislation, which was discussed at length in this term of the Assembly. We had Bill 36, the Alberta Land Stewardship Act; Bill 50, the Electric Statutes Amendment Act, 2009; and Bill 19, the Land Assembly Project Area Act. We had the Carbon Capture and Storage Statutes Amendment Act, 2010, Bill 24, which was certainly, in my view, a property grab. I certainly had a different view than many others regarding Bill 24. Certainly, the other three pieces of legislation I had my suspicions right from the start about. Others thought: well, maybe the government is right.

10:50

When we look at this bill to create a Property Rights Advocate Act, this bill is a direct result of the political problems the government has encountered. It's almost a year to the day – and some hon. members to my left were present in the Eckville Community Centre. That was quite an evening in the history of this province. I was pleased that I had an opportunity to be a witness to history, Mr. Chairman.

There were 600 or 700 people in attendance. There was no real count taken. If you had told them at the meeting, when you were going back for a black coffee or a doughnut, that a year later the government would be introducing a Property Rights Advocate Act, that we would be creating an advocate's office to assist Albertans who have concerns regarding impacts on their property rights, the citizens in the Eckville hall would have just turned to you and suggested: well, maybe we should repeal the bills; maybe we don't need these bills.

Mr. Chairman, I think you had to be there. There were certainly some government members there. There was the member who is now the Minister of Human Services. There was the hon. Member for St. Albert. There was the hon. Minister of Municipal Affairs. The former Transportation minister was certainly there. Of course, in the debate was the current Minister of Agriculture, who is the Member for – I can never remember; it's in the southwest.

An Hon. Member: Livingstone-Macleod.

Mr. MacDonald: Livingstone-Macleod, yes.

The hon. Member for Livingstone-Macleod was part of the panel, as was the current Minister of Energy. They were gamely trying to defend this legislative proposal, if I could call it that, Mr. Chairman, but the citizens in attendance were not buying it, and they were not buying it for good reason. It is unnecessary; it is needless.

What did this government do? It went ahead anyway. After it had a political problem, how are we going to fix this? "We're going to strike a committee. We're going to meet, and we're going to supposedly meet with stakeholders." But it's all controlled, it's all filtered, and we get a bill like this.

I was watching with interest the newspaper reports of this Property Rights Task Force. There wasn't that much I could find written about it. The final report is an interesting read, but again – and I can't stress this enough, Mr. Chairman – if you were to tell the citizens in the Eckville hall that they needed an advocate, well, I think they've got one in Keith Wilson, and I don't think he's going to cost as much as this. In fact, I've been at a couple of Mr. Wilson's meetings, and they're self funded.

Mr. Anderson: He should be the advocate.

Mr. MacDonald: Well, I believe the gentleman did work for the Farmers' Advocate, and he may have been in charge of it at one time. He may have put the odd nickel in the jukebox, and his efforts weren't appreciated, so he wasn't invited back. Certainly, this is a government that would need to take his advice.

I don't want to go through the public accounts and see all the legal firms that have been hired and at what cost to consult them on these legal matters. They could just look at Mr. Wilson's website and get a lot of legal advice for a modest amount of time and very, very little money.

Now, we're looking at the office. [interjection] There's a fiscal conservative in the back row muttering something, and I'm afraid I couldn't hear it.

Mr. Hinman: Then why did you call him fiscal?

Mr. MacDonald: That was a joke.

Now, this office will help not only individuals determine the appropriate resolution mechanisms through which they can have their property rights issues resolved but will also assist expropriating authorities, or persons, or entities. We're going to have a review of complaints. The advocate will provide a report on complaints. The report shall be considered by the board or court when determining any costs payable in cases where the advocate determines the expropriation or compensation was inconsistent with legislation.

This bill, as I understand it, will not expand the scope of who is able to access the courts or independent tribunals to determine fair and full compensation. In section 2, I note, Mr. Chairman, where a person has the right to compensation as a result of an expropriation or compensable taking, will they also have recourse to courts or independent tribunals? I would think that this is a mechanism outside, for instance, if a property owner has two or three electrical transmission towers on their property, the fees around that.

Now, I don't think I can support this bill because this bill is just another way to allow this very, very tired government another way to put off fixing the problem that they've created. We have gone through in detail earlier this evening the problem that they created with four pieces of legislation earlier in this term.

If we look at this, right off the bat, of course, this bill is designed to signal – it's a public relations exercise, and public relations are so important to this government, Mr. Chairman. When you look at the government's website, the ministries are listed. But what's listed above the ministries? The Public Affairs Bureau. The ministries are listed A through T for Treasury Board. Of course, above that is the Public Affairs Bureau, and whenever you look at the government's website, that is a clear indication where this government's priorities lie. It's with public relations. It's with spin. This bill is simply about spin because of past problems. Now, whenever we look at the masters of public relations on the other side, we have to recognize that this bill is not going to fix the previous problems, that have been outlined by Mr. Wilson in his dozens of town hall meetings. Citizens are not sure that this government is interested in defending their property rights.

Hon. members, you only had to come to Eckville hall. People came from as far away as Vauxhall in the south. They came from Athabasca in the north. They came from over by Lloydminster. They drove all the way down on Easter Thursday night to Eckville to hear this debate. If anyone ever thought that democracy was dead in Alberta, they should have been at that meeting. Democracy is vital in this province. People care about what goes on in this Assembly, and they're willing to stand up and object whenever they think that what this government does is wrong. They certainly did about a year ago tonight.

I can understand where the hon. Member for Edmonton-Centre is coming from. Property rights – who has them, who doesn't, and what the government does – is an important issue. But if we vote against this bill or we vote for this bill, it is still the government's decisions that have been made in the past that we must consider.

11:00

Earlier this evening in the Legislative Offices Committee we looked at creating a budget for a children's advocate. After hearing year after year, session after session about problems with children in the care of this government, the children's advocate is welcome. It's needed. It's been called for by many people across the province.

But this advocate's office, I really feel, is not necessary. I believe that in the agriculture estimates we have a requisition for the Farmers' Advocate office. I'm just going to look it up for those who are interested. Perhaps we could look at expanding that office. There are a number of things that we could do. Perhaps there are staff that are still there that are very diligent like Mr. Keith Wilson. They could defend the interests of property owners, particularly rural property owners, who feel offended that this government is so cavalier. This is a government that can shift authority or shift discretion away from the public to the cabinet. The cabinet will have authority to make decisions, and the cabinet will be benevolent. It'll be like some sort of Chinese committee in the Communist government that you dare not question because they, of course, have the values of the people first and foremost in their minds. But we know that that will not be true.

Now, Mr. Chairman, I know the Farmers' Advocate office is in here somewhere, and I know it's funded. I'm going to have to do my research on my own time.

As a result of the four bills that we passed earlier in this term, the government's public relations have taken a major hit. This bill is simply a fix before the election so that all the government members across the way can say: we listened, we heard from you, and we have fixed the problem. But this is another issue which this government has dealt with so poorly that the public, the voters no longer trust you. They do not believe you when you say that you will defend their property rights.

The biggest issue that people had with the other four pieces of legislation that I talked about is, again, the immense power that has been placed in the hands of the cabinet. The cabinet can make decisions regarding people's land, their property, and these decisions, of course, are made behind closed doors without any public input or without the public even being aware of what's going on.

Now, the Expropriation Act and its powers are certainly not new – we know that – but this government's arrogance led us to believe that it was acceptable to make decisions regarding people's property rights behind closed doors. I think you have broken a trust that you had for a number of years with the fine citizens of this province. This idea that you're going to listen and that this bill is the solution: I don't believe that. Many other people do not believe that either.

Now, we've had this Property Rights Task Force, that I talked about, led by, ironically, the hon. Member for Drayton Valley-Calmar. I would say that at the Eckville hall 20 per cent of the people in attendance were from that neighbourhood, and they were not very happy. So what does this government do? "We'll get the hon. member to lead this task force, and perhaps we can quiet down the citizens who are asking valid questions because they have outstanding concerns from past practices of this government." Now, three major themes originated from this task force listening finally, or pretending to listen, because the election was getting real close.

The initial consultations on Bill 19, Bill 36, Bill 50, Bill 10, which I forgot – it was, I believe, the repair bill, the first repair bill – and then Bill 24 were inadequate. I think this whole thing should be scrapped, and it should be an election issue. Run on your record. I think that if you went to a public forum, people would dig into their pockets and get a few dollars and perhaps pool that money so that you could all get hearing aids on that side of the House because you certainly haven't been in these last four years listening to the citizens.

Now, there's an imbalance of power, in my view. Property owners and users do not have the resources to ensure that their rights are not infringed upon by government or industry. AltaLink has pretty deep pockets. EPCOR has deep pockets. TransAlta has deep pockets. The resource sector has very, very deep pockets. Of course, the government has lawyers employed in the Justice department, and then you can farm out or contract out the best legal talent in the province at the taxpayers' expense. But with property rights? No. They go to a public forum, and they get sound legal advice from Keith Wilson. But that's not enough. They sometimes have to hire some people to defend their property rights.

Now, compensation for intrusions on land or property rights, which, Albertans acknowledge, may be inevitable in some instances: it's inadequate. The formulas are outdated. We all know that, but what does this government do? Nothing. Absolutely nothing. The government's response to the report included the following commitments moving forward, of which one is this bill that we're dealing with here and the office of the advocate.

Thank you.

The Deputy Chair: Thank you very much, hon. Member for Edmonton-Gold Bar.

We'll proceed now to the Minister of Agriculture and Rural Development, followed by the hon. Member for Calgary-Glenmore. Hon. minister, please proceed.

Mr. Berger: Thank you, Mr. Chairman. It's a pleasure to rise this evening and speak to Bill 6, the Property Rights Advocate Act. I went throughout the province on the Property Rights Task Force, and there was one thing that was common. There was a need for planning. Everyone recognized that. There were an assortment of different comments. There were the repeal-the-bills comments. There were comments around: what is a property right, and how do you define it? Lots of people asked: "How do we define it? Who can define it exactly?"

That was an interesting comment. It came from a rancher who is fourth generation, and he was asking how that could be. He also realized there were public goods that had taken place on his property and some that he was in benefit of as an irrigation farmer. So as we moved through there, we looked at it. The comments were consistent along with the need for someone to help them through a process if there were issues coming forward. Of course, it centred around the three Cs – consultation, compensation, and access to the courts – and the ability for someone to help them navigate through that. That's where the property rights advocate was born. There is the ideal office for that operation to take place.

I was happy to hear the Member for Airdrie-Chestermere get up and speak in support of that although I do question how much that may be thought out from the fact that on May 13, 2009, he spoke in great support of the Alberta Land Stewardship Act and had many good comments.

Mr. MacDonald: I didn't.

11:10

Mr. Berger: Excuse me, hon. member. I was speaking to the chair. Thank you for the interjection.

This is directly from that speech.

Land-use planning in the form of municipal zoning has always existed for subdividing land, and this will not be affected either by this legislation.

It speaks to planning. The member understands planning, and he understands the need for it.

It goes on to say:

Municipalities will retain their authority for municipal development plans, area structure plans, land-use bylaws, and making decisions on subdivisions and development standards.

All very good comments, Mr. Chair.

The lawyer that they keep speaking of, strangely enough, put out a paper a few years back. I was on municipal council at the time, and quite often there would be cases where this gentleman would be representing an operator, quite often to the extent of maybe tramping on the next-door neighbour's property rights. He wrote a paper, The Impact of AOPA (Agricultural Operation Practices Act) on Dairy Farm Expansion. A lot of good comments in there. But we've heard quite often through hon. members about how we're going to step on municipal planning. Mr. Chair, as the Member for Airdrie-Chestermere said in that very eloquent speech on May 13, 2009, that isn't the intent.

But I'll read something out of The Impact of AOPA on Dairy Farm Expansion. This was something that that lawyer spoken of earlier not only worked on; he produced this paper. He said in there:

The provincial government has encouraged municipalities to designate areas where the municipality does not want CFO developments or expansions to occur. However, the government was mindful that depending on the composition of a municipal council, some municipalities may go too far and try to block large regions from having further CFO development. In order to address this, AOPA gives the NRCB the legal authority to override a municipal exclusion zone.

This means that if you find yourself in an area of your municipality that has been designated as a CFO exclusion zone, it does not mean that there can be no CFOs. There may be an opportunity to persuade the Board that your location is a proper and safe location for a CFO. Of course, these are delicate and sensitive matters. Proper advice and assistance should be sought in order to increase your chances of success.

When I read through that from a municipal councillor perspective, Mr. Chair, I'd look at it and I'd say: well, what he's saying there is that we'll go over the will of the municipal council. They may have identified an area that slopes down towards a river or maybe for one reason or another is protected, maybe because of the next-door neighbour. A perfect example is that someone may have an export permit for purebred animals and not need runoff from something else that may ruin their chances or actually cause them to lose their export permit. So there may have been zones in municipalities where it was looked as that it wasn't fit for that. Maybe it drained into a water basin. All of those different things tell me that not every piece of property is fit for every use.

There are further comments in there.

- If there is media attention and misinformation in the media about your project, communicate with the media to get your side of the story and the correct information into the media.

Maybe that's something that we have missed as a government on these different acts because we're not talking about bills; we're talking about land use. We're talking about the ability to continue to move forward in this province and make sure everyone is treated fairly in doing that while we progress.

I'd like to get back for a second, though, to the comment of the hon. Member for Airdrie-Chestermere.

At first glance much of this legislation may be interpreted as a regression on property rights, but it would be a very large mistake to think so as this bill, in my view, does the exact opposite. It strengthens landowner rights.

I think that not only is that a good comment, but further to that, with the ability through the property rights advocate's office, we can make this even better.

I would like to go back to comments that the hon. Member for Calgary-Glenmore has made. Last fall when we were in here speaking about I think it was something in SRD, the Member for Calgary-Glenmore made the comment – and he was right – that we do it better in Alberta than anywhere else. I think he was speaking on water and that type of thing. He supported the need for a plan and then went on to question why we're not storing more water rather than letting it flow through.

Those are great questions. He asked that same question just recently at the estimates for Alberta Agriculture. Mr. Chair, to do that and store more water – and Alberta can store more water. We have the ability to allow 50 per cent of the water to flow through to Saskatchewan and keep 50 per cent. Currently we're allowing 70 per cent to flow through. But you need the acts in place to allow for the purchase of that land to build those reservoirs.

Mr. Chair, southern Alberta is very dependent upon water storage. There are two natural lakes south, basically, of Calgary or on that line, those being Pakowki Lake and Waterton Lakes. The other 50 water bodies in southern Alberta are man-made, and I would submit that most of them were built on private land. There has to be a way, there has to be an act to allow for that purchase, for that agreement to be reached between those. Currently we have one that's under an EIA in eastern Alberta. That specific one would be 60 per cent built on public land, and 40 per cent of it would be on private land, but it benefits all those landowners as well as those people downstream in the towns and villages that would be able to access water from that.

Obviously, between these different acts there are abilities to deal with landowners, leaseholders and acquire this through fair compensation and make sure that we have the consultation in place. That was a big part of the land area assembly act, the consultation process that it needed to go through. But somehow there has to be the ability to continue to move this province forward.

As the member has said, we should be storing more of that water. Mr. Chair, we will at some point be able to sit down and have that discussion. If there are questions, the property rights advocate could be utilized by the party who is looking at selling their land or being affected by that project and say: "Okay. We're willing to do that, but here is what we're looking at. How do we walk through the process?"

Land, of course, is unlike any other property in many different ways. Real estate is unlike any other asset on a number of grounds: "Every parcel is unique; it is fixed in place; it is finite in quantity; it will outlast any of its possessors; and it is necessary for virtually every human activity." That's pretty profound. We all know that we are here for a time frame, but we don't outlive our property.

Mr. Hinman: Where's the quote from?

Mr. Berger: That's from Donovan Rypkema.

Mr. Hinman: Thank you.

Mr. Berger: You're welcome. You should read the whole thing. I can give you a copy of it if you'd be interested.

As was said earlier, to go back to that Hansard of May 13, 2009, and the comments from the Member for Airdrie-Chestermere, this combined with those other acts. He was speaking on the Land Stewardship Act. "The act protects property rights. Landowners will be compensated for any loss in market value based on principles under the Expropriation Act." That was always there. We've put even more strength into it, as the member said, through Bill 10 and the amendments that were in there.

You know, there was another comment further in there. "If the only way to protect the land is to impose a conservation directive, then the value of the land will be appraised, any impact assessed, and landowners will be compensated for any loss in market value." The member understood that, but the property rights advocate will even go further. There is the opportunity to have that discussion, be sure that it's being well addressed. If not, the property rights advocate will walk the landowner through the whole process.

11:20

Another question that I had was around the comment: you own from the centre of the Earth to the heavens above. I'm a third generation farmer, rancher, and I hope the next generation will continue, one of them at least. Mr. Chair, I have yet to get a payment from an airplane flying above because, obviously, I don't think they realize where my property line is. If this was to be taken seriously, what is being said over there, how do we collect from that? Are we going to add it onto airfares?

Mr. Chair, the carbon capture that they were speaking of, Bill 24. The regulations state: anything that's deeper than one kilometre. In my 30-some years of being an agriculture producer, I have never farmed that deep. I've never utilized anything that deep. I would assume that I would break all my machinery. When you look at this and you talk about rescinding and extinguishing and all these pieces of the puzzle that were mentioned, I'd like someone to name those, first off.

I'd also like to give an example of competing statutory consents. Mr. Chair, at the bottom of that statutory consent stack are your carbon-based fuels, in the middle range may be known aquifers, and up above that may be a portion of leased land. Let's take, for example, speaking of this, the Alberta Land Stewardship Act enacting a regional plan. I'll use the South Saskatchewan regional plan because at Stavely we have a huge aquifer that in 2005 or '06 was drilled through and lost to the top side. That aquifer puts out 300 gallons a minute, 15 feet through a three-inch pipe with no pump, a phenomenal water source. The regional advisory council came back with the comments in their advice that no known aquifers shall be drilled directly through for any carbon-based recovery below that aquifer. Once we know it's there, don't drill through it.

In that example I was talking about, I was on municipal council at the time, and all the locals were saying: where they're clearing an area there, they're going to drill right through the Stavely aquifer; don't let them do that. Well, Mr. Chair, the ERCB was above the local municipality and, as was stated by the legal comments that I was speaking of earlier, the NRCB was above the municipality. All the old boys in the coffee shop would say: you drill through there, you're going to lose it to the top side. Well, there wasn't much we could do, but the South Saskatchewan Regional Advisory Council points out: don't ever drill through those and risk them.

On that Stavely aquifer are multitudes of statutory consents for water use for farms, for feedlots. You name it, they're there. Now we've got these three competing uses: the top, the middle, and the bottom. Company X comes to drill now under the Land Stewardship Act, and that's a known aquifer. Under section 11 you have the ability to amend. "Company X, move over there 200 yards and drill down. We will not risk that water supply. We want to amend your statutory consent. Move over, drill down, go under it, but don't touch the water." Company X says: "Great. Well, we're on our way.” If company X says no, we have the availability of negotiation. “Company X, we’ll give you X amount of dollars. You go over there, drill down, come under without threatening that water supply.”

This whole thing goes on to say: what happens if you drill through that and lose it to the bottom side? It took seven tankers pumping steadily and three Cats pushing up dirt and cement trucks to fill it when it blew off to the top side. But that was locatable, so they won that battle.

The last step in that process would be: “Company X, you don’t want to negotiate this. You don’t want to move over here. I’m sorry. We’ll have to rescind that permit because you cannot drill directly through that and put all those other statutory consents at risk.”

Mr. Chair, I believe that’s the common-sense approach that Albertans want to see. That’s exactly why we’re looking at planning. I think the future depends on this planning. In the next 15 years six countries will produce more food than they consume. In the last 40 years 50 per cent of the arable land per capita in Canada has been lost. Canada is third in the world for arable land per capita, and Alberta sits very well within Canada on that arable land.

Land-use planning is not something to be taken lightly. It’s not something to be spreading malicious rumours and all sorts of innuendo about. It’s something that we need to look at in a grown-up way, have the discussion with Albertans, with landowners, and plan for the future of this province to make it even bigger, better, and more profitable.

Thank you very much for your time, Mr. Chair.

The Deputy Chair: Thank you, hon. member.

The hon. Member for Calgary-Glenmore is next.

Mr. Hinman: Well, thank you, Mr. Chair. We’ve had some interesting discussion going back and forth, and I guess I’d like to comment a little bit on the hon. minister of agriculture from Livingstone-Macleod. I guess my first comment would have to be on when he talks about these 50 wonderful water bodies that we’ve created in southern Alberta. Obviously, they must have just been created in the last two years because before that we didn’t have any bills to expropriate land the way he’s discussing this. All of these actually happened long before any of these bills came forward, and now one’s in the perplexing situation: “How could that have possibly been? These bills are vital. Otherwise, we’re not going to be able to expropriate any land for the public good in order to create another water reservoir.”

The arguments, to me, are extremely shallow and not well thought out. I can’t help but think that some of the members on that side have actually taken a leap of faith off the Niagara Falls, but I don’t know of anybody who’s survived that yet. I don’t think this government is going to survive the public outrage that has been continuing for two years when they go to the polls in rural Alberta if they continue and pass these bills. Why won’t they just listen, repeal the bills, and go from there?

I remember – I think it was in the fall of 2008 – when the hon. member was down in Aden, way down in southern Alberta, a long ways from anywhere. The ranchers there were as enraged as they were in Eckville two and a half, three years later. This government continues to go around, continues to tell Albertans, continues to tell landowners: don’t worry; trust us.

I remember two years ago, I think it was, when our past Premier was talking to the AAMD and C, talking passionately about his history, where he came from, proud of it and rightfully so. His final words to the people in rural Alberta were: as long as I’m the Premier, you have nothing to fear. He’s no longer the Premier, so now the question is: how much do we have to fear? We have a lot, in my opinion. The reason why that’s real is that if there was no fear, why would we have Bill 6? We’re going to give you a property rights advocate because there’s fear out there.

It’s really interesting, Mr. Chair. If we look at this wonderful report, the Report of the Property Rights Task Force, Engagement with Albertans, then you start to read what came back, and I just shake my head. After all they heard, the number of times that they’ve just been pelted for bringing this stuff forward, they say: well, no problem; we’ll give you the three Cs – consultation, compensation, and the courts – but now we’re also going to give you an advocate, with an A.

I just want to read some of the comments in the government’s own report from their property rights task force. On page 14: “What are your issues or concerns with respect to property rights in Alberta?” That’s what they’re asking. “Theme: Failure of the Consultation Process” and then a quote. They don’t ever say who spoke at these meetings, but there are some jewels of quotes in this book that they’ve published.

Mr. MacDonald: Let’s hear some.

Mr. Hinman: Well, here’s the first one. “We thought we knew what we owned . . . Now it’s all in doubt.”

Again, they’re referring to Bill 36. “Planning needs to happen” – we heard the hon. minister talk about that – “but the approach has been totally wrong.” Okay. They did say that planning needs to happen, but was the approach right? No. This individual says that it’s totally wrong. Not partially, not a little bit, but totally wrong.

Mr. Anderson: They didn’t communicate well enough. That was the problem.

Mr. Hinman: I think communication is always a two-way process.

Here is the next question: “Did the MLA’s even read this legislation?” Mr. Chair, these are right out of the government’s published Property Rights Task Force report on what they had to say.

11:30

Here’s a great one. I use this one all the time, so I have to do it. “Central planning hasn’t worked for other countries and it won’t work here.” Hmm. “You’re ramming through these power lines,” again, the subject of Bill 50. “The property rights of freehold mineral owners are completely ignored.” I just talked about that in my previous discussion that I had here. [interjection] Oh, yes, fearmongering.

I mean, it’s just disappointing to hear the stories of the individuals who have been impacted by this, and they can say: oh, it’s not a big deal. Well, I tell you that if you’re that individual that’s put two years of sweat equity into something and then they say that it’s not a big deal – give me a break.

“This whole regional planning thing seems rushed.” Again, we hear that we can’t do anything. I just find it amazing with the stats we just heard, and I always enjoy learning those things – only two natural lakes. I must say that I’ve been down to Waterton Lake. It’s a wonderful place, often a little bit windy but a wonderful place, and I do like the coolness there. It’s nice to climb up on the Bear’s Hump. It’s a quick little 20-minute romp, and you look down there and just think, “Wow, this is gorgeous; this is beautiful,” and it’s great that it’s a park, an international park that’s been protected for a long time. “This whole regional planning thing seems rushed.”

Ms Blakeman: So the government can't expropriate it?

Mr. Hinman: They already own it. Who are they going to expropriate it from? The Americans?

"It feels like our way of life is under attack." That is not a good quote to be able to report back on. "We've been stewards of the land for decades – don't ignore that." Again, you'd think that they were – I don't know – someone landing from outer space and not having any respect for our land. The minister just mentioned that he's the third generation. I think they have a little bit of integrity and ability to look after their property. We've been stewards of this land for decades. Don't ignore it.

Government needs to get serious with industry.

Serious concerns were raised about the ways industrial practices are impacting Albertans' property rights. The strongest comments were made in relation to abandoned energy infrastructure, such as wellheads and pipelines.

Many people expressed the opinion that industry and government have grown "too close." The Government of Alberta seems unwilling to enforce higher expectations on industry.

Then we get to the next theme, compensation, another one of their big Cs. I must say, Mr. Chair, that if we're talking education, you as an educator know that a C grade isn't very good, but this government is fixated on Cs, three Cs. Great. Barely a pass. I don't know if that would get you into a lot of the university courses now. Because it's so hard time to get in there, if you have a C, you're out. I would say that with this government it's being generous to give them a C on this. "Compensation is inadequate."

"Compensation was already unfair, and we believe this legislation has made it worse." That is not a good report to the government. "To me, the way government took the pore space amounts to theft." I think this is unparliamentary: theft. Wow. Bill 24. "To me, the way the government took pore space amounts to theft." "We feel like serfs on the land," again an individual referring to Bill 19, the Land Assembly Project Area Act, which the minister was just commenting on.

Land is being abused.

As people expressed frustration that energy companies do not fully remove equipment when an energy site is no longer in use. Many well heads remain standing on the land. Even in cases where a well head has been removed, other parts of the well will remain in the ground.

I think this is an area that they are addressing, and kudos to them for that.

The next theme: imbalance of power, access to redress and recourse. "Access to the courts is a fundamental right . . ."

Hon. member, is that proper?

Ms Blakeman: Yes.

Mr. Hinman: Good. We've got agreement.

" . . . and it can't be taken away." It's in our Constitution. It's a fundamental right, access to the courts. This is why we've gone through so many amendments and new bills and Bill 10. Why? Because they denied access to the courts. Yes, now they've put it for property. Again, the hon. Member for Edmonton-Centre is going to say that property shouldn't be a right.

That's the one thing that they've done in their Bill 10. For property rights they've given back that access to the courts. But when it comes to leases, when it comes to minerals, when it comes to water licences, those are all still decisions of the minister to say: "Well, you're right. I'm not treating you fairly. Why don't you go to the courts?" Well, if he knows that he's wrong or she knows that she's wrong, why would you have them go through all that expense?

The member also talked about how down in the States they're somewhat litigious. I don't think it's because they have property rights. I think it's their spirit. They have a higher spirit of competition, and they sometimes raise things to a new level. We certainly see that when it comes to spending. They know how to spend like nobody else.

Ms Blakeman: And you want that here?

Mr. Hinman: No, I don't.

I actually think it reduces some of that. What good law does is provide clarity, and then we can say that there's nothing to argue over. Again, if we're talking property rights, how many times do we have fights because the fence isn't in the right place? Not very often. They go out and survey and put it in the right spot, and everybody agrees. We know where the line in the sand is, where the fence is. We can differentiate that. So it's important.

To get back to the report here, "We need proper, independent regulatory bodies." The Energy Resources Conservation Board "has lost credibility in the eyes of landowners and Albertans. Many commented that the ERCB stopped being an independent regulatory body a long time ago, and that it is now regarded as a promoter and facilitator of industry." That's very, very sad. Again, they've done a lot of great work in the past. I have to ask the question – this seems like health care – how much political meddling has been going on that they've lost their credibility? A true, true concern. We need to improve that going forward. "There's a real imbalance of power."

We'll go to the next theme.

What ideas or advice would you like to share with the Task Force as it develops recommendations for the Government of Alberta?

Theme: Fix the consultation. Work with Albertans.

"There should be meaningful consultation before [any underlying] decisions get made.

This government is notorious for somehow coming up with a hare-brained idea. Or, worse, they have a problem, and rather than fixing it, "Let's ram through some legislation, and we'll be saved."

Again, the Member for Edmonton-Centre talked about Bill 4 today and the conundrum. I mean, she understands the technicality of legislation. She's been doing this for years. She goes through it. She looks at the minutia, and she looks at the big picture, and she says: you're creating a bigger problem. I love it when she says: don't make me have to say I told you so again. She points it out. So what? That's a real problem when you have somebody point things out and you still see them do it. To me, that's a two-year-old. For a two-year-old you point out: don't put your hand on the stove; you'll get burned. Fortunately, as parents and as adults we can grab them and stop them from doing it. But here, when she points something out, they just roll their eyes. They say: oh, the painfulness of listening to this. After we've been exhausted through the time, they vote it through.

Twice today, Mr. Chair, she had to be corrected. I would love to see the stats on how many times she's come back and said, "I told you so," when the bills have come back.

I want to think of one myself that I argued on, the new royalty framework. It's not a problem. I spoke about it, spoke on it, rallied against it. There were – what? – six amendments that they put through the new royalty framework before they finally threw up their hands in exhaustion and said: we'd better go back to where we were.

11:40

Again, as the member was talking about earlier – I can't remember; she said it a little bit differently than I do. I like quoting Bastiat on what is seen and what is not seen. That means that we see what we spend money on, but then we can never see what we could have spent it on after it's been spent and it's gone. You lose that whole perspective in that, "Well, no; we see what we spent the money on." I can't remember how you eloquently mentioned it earlier today.

This is a problem. What is not seen with Bill 6 is the fact that we just need property rights. Why do we see this advocacy coming forward, saying that this is going to solve all of the problems? This solves nothing. This is going to cost us more money. It's going to cause us more frustration, and for what? It's just one of those gimmicks that they're putting out there, saying: trust us and re-elect us. I have to say, Mr. Chair, that sometimes I sit here and I think that maybe we shouldn't even bother debating these bills. We should put in three or four minutes and say that this is wrong, say why it's wrong, sit down, and let the government pass these bills. The problem is that when we pass bills that are wrong and aren't in the public's interest and aren't actually protecting society and all of these things, it's very hard to come back. Often we continue to live in this situation, and it just hampers us going forward.

I've never been one to tie myself to a tree, but I've admired those people that have gone out and have camped in a tree or tied themselves to a tree to protect it. They know that if this is a 200-year old tree and it's cut down, it doesn't matter how much debate you have afterwards. It's gone. It's gone, not to be brought back. I kind of feel like I need to tie myself to two bills here as we come to these dying days of this legislation.

The biggest one, no question in my mind, is Bill 2, the fact that this government wants to ram that through and say that parents don't have the right to make the final decision, that the government knows best. This bill, the advocacy one: it's just to stop them from putting a Band-Aid on. We've already lost that property right, and they're just trying to reinforce it and tell everybody: "Don't worry. We'll hold your hand and walk you through this to explain why this has happened to you."

I've talked to people that have actually lost their land for a reservoir that's being built, and they understand. It's an emotional thing, especially when you've got someone who has been there for five generations and we decide to build a dam. I don't know how many people remember the debates and all of the protests that went on for the Oldman River dam. I believe the hon. chair was around and participated in that. We saw the fighting that went on over that, saying that we can't allow this to built, that it's going to destroy southern Alberta, that it's going to ruin the fishing, all of those things that that debate went forward on. But we finally built it.

Mr. Chair, that was a long, long time before Bill 19, Bill 24, Bill 36, Bill 50, Bill 10, and this Bill 6, and somehow we were able to build it. All of the discussion on the Oldman River dam was in 1992, 1993, long before any of these bills, and government has always understood that.

Let's just quickly summarize the Expropriation Act because that is what we've dealt with since Canada was first formed in 1867. We understand that there's public good. Unfortunately, people are hurt by that. In my area, Calgary-Glenmore, 17 homes were expropriated in order to widen Glenmore Trail. Those families lost their homes. They went through a process. They were fairly compensated. Those who didn't feel they were could go to the courts. It's paramount that we have those things entrenched in there.

I can't remember which group it is. I'm going to say the World Bank. They rate countries on how they respect the rule of law and property rights. They say that those who adhere to the rule of law and property rights are the most prosperous, the most peaceful, and the most beneficial for the people. Why do we want to go backwards, to a third-world country, and say: "You know what? Government, the Premier, and cabinet are good enough. They're going to protect our property for us. They're going to protect the future. They're going to do central planning. They're going to tell us what's best in southern Alberta, northern Alberta, or central Alberta." It's bogus. It's wrong. This bill shouldn't be passed, and I'm going to keep speaking against it even though the government probably isn't going to do anything about it. I can't let it pass in its current state. It's nothing but a Band-Aid, and Band-Aids fall off. We haven't fixed anything.

Thank you, Mr. Chair.

The Deputy Chair: Thank you.

The hon. minister of agriculture, followed by the hon. Member for Edmonton-Gold Bar.

Mr. Berger: Thank you, Mr. Chair. I would just like to clarify a couple of points that were made. The member made some good points. In some cases it reminded me of watching a hockey game with a soccer game on the radio. I didn't know quite where we were at times, but there were some good, valid points in between. He spoke extensively about the Oldman dam. [interjection] Thank you for the courtesy that I gave you.

Anyway, he spoke of the Oldman dam and of the building of that. The requirement for land to do that would be a place where with Bill 6, the Property Rights Advocate Act, we'd be able to walk through that whole process with people. He's right. There were hurt feelings. There were people that were upset. But, Mr. Chairman, if we go back to his comments around, "How did we do these water projects?" he also said the other night that we haven't done a water project since the Oldman dam. I would correct him on that. We've done the Pine Coulee reservoir and the Twin Valley reservoir since then, so we have built two.

But in 2002 there was a court case settled between the province and the Nilssons. It was a case that had been brewing since I think 1974 – you can get the exact facts on that – where the restricted development act was ruled not to be usable for these projects. There had to be another act developed, so there was reason.

With that, I will cede to the hon. member that between 2002 and now there haven't been any of those projects done or taken up because there wasn't an act. It was ruled against utilizing that act. So that paints the need for that, and maybe that was missing. Once again, a property rights advocate could walk people through that whole process if that was needed.

Mr. Chair, I want to go back to irrigation for a moment. Irrigation on 5 per cent of the land base in Alberta produces 20 per cent of the product. It's an incredible, incredible asset. But I would ask anyone in this House to find me an irrigation canal that follows a road allowance. They don't. They split up quarters and they split up landscapes because they follow topography. They follow geography; they follow elevation. As was mentioned, the property rights advocate would help if there was an irrigation canal needed. The property rights advocate would be the guy working on behalf of the landowner if they couldn't reach a settlement. I'd say that when we work on a storage facility, it's a large tract of land taken out, but I'll also say that there is a lot of land that's needed when you build a canal. Canals, highways, and public good are what bring us our industry and make us profitable and make us a great place to live.

Further on there was discussion around water rights and this type of thing. Mr. Chair, between Alberta Agriculture and Alberta Environment we invest heavily every year in continuing to rehabilitate our irrigation systems in southern Alberta to advance our technologies, to continue to make sure that we have that ability for those operators. There is no intent of changing anything in that regard whatsoever, and I know this hon. member knows that himself. There are no water rights being changed. If anything, we've increased irrigable acres by the very frugal use of water and new technologies for application. I think we've gone up – I can't remember the exact numbers – about 20 to 25 per cent on the same amount of water, so we've granted that many more licences. It's going in the opposite direction as was mentioned.

If we look again at the Alberta Land Stewardship Act and at the operation of the property rights advocate – and I'm thinking that this would be one that he'd be thrilled with – the South Saskatchewan Regional Advisory Council, aside from saying to everyone that in the plan of the South Saskatchewan there should be no drilling through known aquifers and no chance of losing water, also looked at the seven major areas that are recharge areas for our aquifers in southern Alberta.

11:50

They go on to mention that they're not only the areas that supply the water to the aquifers; they also speak to the point that the majority of those areas are lease lands, public lands operated by private individuals. They go on to say that it's a marvellous carbon sink, it's a water recharge area, and the best use for that land is the use that it has had for over a hundred years. They say that that should be extended. Extend the tenures on this because that's exactly what we need.

Well, Mr. Chair, that's the opposite of what we've been hearing from these people all along. "Well, they're going to take this back." No, sir, the property rights advocate would jump up and say: "This is the best thing that ever happened to you. They want to extend your tenure." Wow. What enforces that? That same act that says: this plan shall overrule the ERCB. If they say we can drill through here, the ERCB has to look at the plan. The plan says: no, you can't drill through a known aquifer. The plan says: no, you can't tear up this grassland because the best use for it is what it's doing right now. It's protecting a water supply. It's a carbon sink, and it's providing pasture and wildlife habitat. Wow. It's public land, and that's the way it should be looked after, the way it has been looked after. Let's extend the tenure, and let's keep that going.

Let's talk about one other comment that was made there. I'll just go back to the comment around property rights and logging. I love this one. This one is great because we're on both sides of the issue again. Mr. Chair, in my area, where the Oldman reservoir exists, where the Castle logging exists, where there's plenty of opposition and comments around it quite often, back in 1878 a fellow by the name of Senator McLaren was granted the logging rights to that area. He logged and he logged and he logged: Beaver Mines, Pincher Creek, Twin Butte, probably Lundbreck, not over to Coleman because they had their own, Cowley, many of those areas. The houses and the buildings were built from what was cut right there locally. So that right was out there at that time.

At the same time Canada was looking at western Canada as a coal bank. There were many subsurface rights given out that were actually stronger than the surface rights. If you look into the old mines and minerals act of 1878 or 1879, if your house happened to be on top of where a coal mine was, they had the ability to knock your house down to get to their coal. The west was looked at as a resource bank, a coal bank.

Let's go back to the logging. In 1966 a company called Revelstoke Lumber got the rights to log in that area, got the rights, bought the rights. I think it was 1980 when Revelstoke Lumber went under, and those rights were purchased by a company called Atlas Lumber. Atlas Lumber would have loved the property rights advocate because he'd have protected them by saying: you have a right here to cut a tree because you purchased that.

By what we're being told over here, section 11, where you have to actually rescind or negotiate that, shouldn't be there, so we're just going to tell these guys – Atlas went broke after the Lost Creek fire of 2003; 22,000 hectares were burned in that fire. Now we're talking about over three years and logging a mere 800 hectares. This is a big crime. Nobody has everybody looked at the Crowsnest Pass since the Lost Creek fire. Wrong, my friends. Everybody has driven through there and looked at it.

Well, we've got this small logging area, and now we can sit over here and we can go, "I'll just take that away." They shouldn't be. I'd hang on a tree so they couldn't do that. Well, that's a right. Do you want the ability to negotiate it? The property rights advocate should be stepping in to say: "Well, you know what? We have the ability under the Land Stewardship Act, section 11, to amend. We'll give you a different area, negotiate. If you don't want the different area, we'll pay you to go to a different area or to rescind."

This member said: "Take it back. Take it away from them." Well, Mr. Chair, there has to be proper legal process. I would say that this member is looking at that as going: "Well, it's laissez-faire. Do what you want. Get it done, but don't step on a property right. Or do you even have a property right?"

Mr. Chair, highest and best use does not mean the most profitable use imaginable. Think about that for a while because it says it all. Just because you own it – and I think this member would agree – doesn't mean you can do anything with it. You would have hog slaughter plants right next door to your house in Calgary-Glenmore because it might be a great place to set it down because there's water access. There are all these things. There is land use. There is zoning. There are reasons for all these things because value of property is not borne completely within the property; it's borne by the surroundings as well. It's location, location, location. It's not kitchen, kitchen, kitchen.

We have to remember that we are all affected by land use, and we have to look at someone like the property rights advocate. If someone wants to say, "No, that area for logging is now off limits," great. How do we deal with that? Let's deal with it in a manner that's fair to all. We have the property rights advocate. We have the acts on the floor that would say: here's a process to follow.

Mr. Chair, like I said earlier, you can't just throw these things out as if they're split second, that they're going to fix everything, and we'll just do it like this. Well, what are the ramifications of like this? That hasn't been thought through. It's just a comment. It's just a quick fix. Albertans expect and want more, and that's what we're giving them: a property rights advocate that can walk through the process, whether you're in gas and oil. That member spoke about that pipes and this and that were left. Okay. The property rights advocate can work through that as well. Everything that we're speaking of can be addressed by having an advocate.

Many, many people in the comments that he's not reading said: "How do we walk through the process? We don't have a lawyer. We don't have this. We want access to someone who can help us." The property rights advocate fits that bill.

You know, we're looking at it as: well, we don't need this. Don't we? Do you want to go back? We don't want any planning? I don't think Albertans expect that. I think the balances that he spoke of we need to respect, and we need to have the ability to work through those.

Mr. Chair, with that, I hope I answered his original question. Thank you for your time this evening.

The Deputy Chair: Thank you.

Hon. members, I have the Member for Edmonton-Gold Bar next if he wishes to proceed. Are there any other speakers? Followed by Calgary-Glenmore. Please, the hon. Member for Edmonton-Gold Bar.

Mr. MacDonald: Yes. Thank you very much. I listened with interest to the last couple of speakers, and that gave me an opportunity to look through the Agriculture and Rural Development budget estimates. I see where last year – and I checked it on the Internet, and it's an accurate number from 2010-11 – the Farmers' Advocate actually spent $860,000. Now, that's a lot more than was forecast, and the estimate for this year, I'm pleased to report to the Assembly, Mr. Chairman, is close to $1 million. It's $993,000. That's an increase. There seems to be a lot of activity at the office of the Farmers' Advocate.

When we have this office already up and running, the annual report for that office, just to see precisely what is going on there, seems to be difficult for this hon. member to find.

It's also difficult to find, oddly enough, the financial statements for each ministry on the government website. I don't know what they're trying to hide. I don't know why they don't want citizens to see them, but they make them really hard to find.

When we compare this bill and the need for the property rights advocate and the office of the Farmers' Advocate, I don't understand why they couldn't be one and the same.

Mr. Anderson: Oh, come on. Give me a break.

Mr. MacDonald: Oh, come on. Now, give me a break.

Well, the Alberta Surface Rights Group. I wonder who they are, and I wonder if they have any members down around High River. I'd bet there's the odd member of this group in High River. [interjection] And you think they're all voting for Danielle Smith? Well, I could see why, with the skepticism that's displayed from hon. members across the way.

Now, I'm looking, Mr. Chairman, at the Alberta Surface Rights Group. [interjections]

12:00

The Deputy Chair: The chair wishes to remind everyone that it's Edmonton-Gold Bar who has the floor at the moment.

Mr. MacDonald: They ask the question, "Do we need a property rights advocate?" [interjections]

Chair's Ruling Decorum

The Deputy Chair: Perhaps some people didn't hear. I said that the hon. Member for Edmonton-Gold Bar has the floor. As much as I appreciate the levity at midnight, let's observe the parliamentary procedures here.

Please proceed.

Mr. MacDonald: And if they continue, you're going to have to blow your whistle really hard and put them in the penalty box.

The Deputy Chair: I might have to do that.

Debate Continued

Mr. MacDonald: Now, the question is asked by the Alberta Surface Rights Group: do we need a property rights advocate, a property rights advocate office? This is a question that was asked by them hardly a month ago.

They go on to say, correctly, that last week the Alberta government announced it was going to establish a "Property Rights Advocate Office". The purpose of this office was very vague, citing a one stop shop for information on property rights and advice on how to best deal with violations to your property rights! Not much other information...

They go on to say,

... just this meaningless drivel.

Those are their words, Mr. Chairman.

Whenever we look at the set-up we already have and what is going on in the office of the Farmers' Advocate, there are a lot of things, but we have no way of checking up other than following some of the links to seismic water-well testing guidelines, the Energy Resources Conservation Board, the Alberta Utilities Commission, Sustainable Resource Development, the Surface Rights Board, Alberta Environment, Synergy Alberta, Alberta Rural Crime Watch, the Freehold Owners Association, surface rights groups, and the Agricultural Operation Practices Act. These are some of the links from the office of the Farmers' Advocate. But, again, you click on their annual report, the 37th one, and it doesn't come up.

Now, the Alberta Surface Rights Group, when they're discussing this bill, propose the following questions to the hon. Premier. "How much is this office going to cost the taxpayer?" That is one of their questions. Will it be in the millions or tens of millions of dollars? I don't think it would be – at least, I hope not – but with the past history of spending by this government, maybe it will be a $10 million office. There's no shortage of money for public relations to try to solve a political problem, and this is what this bill is trying to do.

"How many lawyers need to be hired?" Again – and we talked about this earlier, Mr. Chairman – "will it be farmed out to the government's favourite crony law firms?" I don't know who they are, but whenever the hon. member gets to speak, I may look and see which law firms donated to which candidates in the recently concluded Progressive Conservative leadership campaign.

"How plush of an office" will be needed? How many people will work in here? I know how many people work in the Farmers' Advocate office. They seem to be listed here, and there are at least six or seven, maybe more. The Alberta Surface Rights Group is asking for the total price tag of this bill and what this office will cost, and I think that's a valid, valid question.

[Dr. Brown in the chair]

Now, they go on to say: "Apparently the Justice department will be running the show." That's very interesting because we know that the Justice department – and we know who used to be the previous Justice minister, Mr. Chairman – is responsible for the drafting of the legislation, all the legislation that's now going to be sort of promoted through this office.

Now, the Surface Rights Group also questions, "Will the actual people who own the property have any say in who is appointed" property rights advocate? That's interesting. That's another very valid question. I've been proposing in this Assembly that there be in the library the list of agencies, boards, and commissions where people are appointed to them by the government. Included in that list would be the following: how long the appointment lasts; if it is vacant or, if not vacant, when it will become vacant; and the compensation level. So any interested person who is perhaps not a glitterati PC Party member could maybe make an application and hope that they would be appointed to that agency, board, or commission.

The federal government. You can go to the library at the House of Commons. There's a book there, and you can check out all the appointments to the agencies, boards, and commissions, what they're paid, when the term expires, and if you're interested, you can apply. The same should apply in this province. If it applied in this province and it was not done in secret, then the Alberta Surface Rights Group perhaps wouldn't have a point when they ask the question, "Will the actual people who own the property have any say in who is appointed?" They go on to suggest here that this will be a patronage appointment to reward some glitterati PC Party member. I hope it would never get to that, but I don't have any confidence that it would not.

They go on to suggest that we could have someone like the former Premier, the hon. Member for Fort Saskatchewan-Vegreville, or the current Member for Calgary-West, who is retiring. Calgary-West: that would be an interesting gentleman to have, if this bill is to become law, as the first property rights advocate. I would like to go to a meeting that he would be chairing as property rights advocate. It certainly would be interesting, and I think the hon. Member for Edmonton-Centre would agree with me. If the sheriffs were there in large numbers, there would be probably a good reason for their presence.

This is another good question from the Alberta Surface Rights Group. "How is this new office any different than the Farmers' Advocate Office, which already supposedly gives out information on property rights and advice on how to deal with violations to your property rights?" I would like an explanation from the hon. members across the way regarding this because, again, I think we're duplicating efforts here. We're creating an office needlessly when there's one already in existence. We may have to tweak the budget, hire a few more people, but I think it would be cheaper in the long run, and it would work out just as well.

I can understand why people say this, particularly if you go to a surface rights meeting or you meet with a group of freeholders. We have to restore confidence in the Farmers' Advocate office. I can see why some people, particularly in rural Alberta, view it as nothing more than an oil company cheerleader office, as it's been described.

Again, the Alberta Surface Rights Group questions: why would the property rights advocate office be any different than what they have labelled the Farmers' Advocate office?

There's a duplication here, but I'm not going to bore the Assembly with a reminder of what I said previously on this, Mr. Chairman.

Ms Blakeman: Thank you.

Mr. MacDonald: You're welcome. You're very welcome.

But be mindful that this is a public relations bill to try to get this government through a very difficult time in the lead-up to the provincial election, which is coming up. All the PC candidates across the province can say: "We listened to you. We had this commission. We listened, and this is the result. We're going to set up a property rights advocate office."

Ms Blakeman: Do you think people actually asked for that?

12:10

Mr. MacDonald: I can't find anywhere where this property rights advocate office was requested.

Ms Blakeman: But how did they listen to people if no one asked for it?

Mr. MacDonald: Well, they have selective hearing, and they have vivid imaginations. The vivid imagination can be very useful at times.

Now, the Property Rights Task Force claims that there was a great groundswell of people asking for the property rights advocate at recent open-house meetings. Some people claim that they attended more than one meeting, and they never heard a word uttered about anyone requesting a property rights advocate.

I said earlier that in a lot of the meetings I attended, a lot of people stood up and admired Keith Wilson for his grasp of the issue and for his legal interpretations of some of the stunts that this government has attempted in the last couple of years. But no one has said that we need to spend a couple of million dollars creating an office and have a political appointee chair this office and quietly promote Bill 19, Bill 36, Bill 50, and Bill 10, carbon capture and storage, and the property rights changes that were made in that bill.

Now, the Alberta Surface Rights Group, many of whom attended these meetings: what they did here and what I heard in Eckville about a year ago was a call to repeal the land theft bills, as they call them, and to a lesser extent the call for a property rights protection act. That would be interesting, and I would suggest the government get the hon. Member for Calgary-Glenmore's view and the hon. Member for Airdrie-Chestermere's view on the drafting of a property rights protection act. That would be an interesting dialogue to listen to, Mr. Chairman.

The Alberta Surface Rights Group suggests that the bill that we're discussing here this evening "is little more than pre-election window dressing, designed to confuse the more gullible among us." That's a direct quote, Mr. Chairman, and I'm going to repeat it because it certainly is, in my view, true. "This announcement of a Property Rights Advocate is little more than pre-election window dressing, designed to confuse the more gullible among us." They go on to say and to warn that this is a lot of money that is being spent in the creation of "a phony bureaucracy that will in fact be totally useless!"

Now, the last question that they ask is this, Mr. Chairman. "When will [the hon. Premier] stop spending money on foolish deals like this, in an attempt to divert and deceive, rather than actually try to solve the problems her government has created?"

Of course, we all know that the Justice department and the Justice minister review each and every piece of legislation, so the current Premier would have been involved in the drafting of Bill 19, Bill 36, Bill 50, and the repair bill, which was Bill 10, and the property rights which were removed whenever we changed it with the carbon capture and storage bill. Someone described that bill as the largest property theft in the history of this province. It was a lawyer who described it to me in those terms.

Certainly, Mr. Chairman, Bill 6, the Property Rights Advocate Act, in my view, is not needed. It is totally unnecessary. I realize, as do Albertans, why the government is attempting this at this time.

I'm going to be busy during the election, and I'm not going to get an opportunity, I'm disappointed to say, to travel through much of the province, but I can be confident that many government members are going to stand up and claim that this bill is an answer to all the problems that they have created through flawed legislation in this term. This idea that this government is finally engaging with Albertans and listening and that this bill is a result of that is a work of fiction. There's no doubt about that.

I can just see from the list of committee members that the current Minister of Agriculture and Rural Development was vice-chair. Other members included the Minister of Justice and Attorney General; the Minister of Infrastructure; the Minister of Intergovernmental, International and Aboriginal Relations; the Minister of Sustainable Resource Development, from up in Peace River; the MLA for Lacombe-Ponoka – I wonder if he got paid to sit on this committee – the hon. Member for Edmonton-Calder; and the hon. Member for Strathmore-Brooks. That was a sizable task force.

They claim they met with 1,100 Albertans in 10 communities and heard from more than 300 others online. They heard from people by telephone and by e-mail. They conclude by saying that this was a listening exercise. This task force had over 1,400 Albertans participating in this listening exercise. That about sums it up. It was an exercise, just like the bill that has resulted from this listening exercise is a public relations exercise with no consequence to the taxpayers.

Mr. Hinman: Exercise is supposed to be good for you.

Mr. MacDonald: Exercise is supposed to be good for you, hon. member, yes.

Mr. Chairman, certainly, I don't think we need this property rights advocate. I agree with the authors of this letter. It's a creation of the government to get rid of a political problem.

The Acting Chair: The hon. Member for Calgary-Glenmore.

Mr. Hinman: Thank you, Mr. Chair. It's always interesting in these debates to go through some of the points that are brought up, and I guess I want to refer to a couple from the ag minister. He made a few comments. I have to say that he started off by talking about canals and that these canals don't have rights-of-way, which they absolutely don't. But these canals already exist.

I don't think there'd be anything more exciting than if the minister of agriculture knows of a new major reservoir. I know there have been a couple of smaller ones – he's talked about Pine Coulee – but those aren't major reservoirs like the Oldman River dam and the one that we need up at, I guess, the start, at the tributaries of the Belly and the Milk rivers in that area, that would actually back up into the U.S.

For most farmers that I know of, if the government were to start a new irrigation project and say, "We're going to put a canal through here to deliver water to your land," I'd be very interested to see how many of those individuals are fighting. When water is delivered, I think, the average price quadruples. I'd have to verify that. It's been a few years, but it seems like it goes up quite a bit. I think they'd be quite excited to be able to have a canal come through.

What's even more interesting is that the minister talked about all the rehabilitation that the irrigation districts are going through in southern Alberta and the precision. I wouldn't say that they're being frugal with their water. I would actually say that the precision in delivering that water is phenomenal, with drip irrigation and whatnot, so that we reduce the evaporation and the problems associated with that. Along with that, though, a lot of the rehabilitation that has been going on there, Mr. Chair, has been to go to pipelines, and canals are not the preferred way to go. But it is kind of interesting because when Alberta agriculture funded a rehabilitation project – and we've funded many, many canal rehabilitations – all of a sudden it's taken out of the cycle.

12:20

I think it's a 20-year life span. They may have upgraded a canal 15 years ago, and now with the new technology and the price and the things they're doing with pipelines, they can't actually move forward with some great water conservation without the minister or the government actually saying: "You know what? We're going to allow this rehabilitation to come forward early" because, again, of the rules and regulations that they've set up there.

[Mr. Zwodzesky in the chair]

His comments about Revelstoke and Atlas and that group were interesting, but again I wasn't quite sure. I guess it goes two ways because you lost me on what you're trying to discuss on those leases and those rights. I think it's critical that those people who own a lease or, you know, have that right to harvest those trees are protected. Like you say, in the past, to my experience, they've always been able to negotiate and to do, whether it's land swaps, whether it's acreage swaps for forestry and logging. I think that those industries are always amiable. The fear, though, is that if they don't have access to the courts, the government can actually come in and take these leases or logging rights and not necessarily compensate them fairly. That, Mr. Chair, is where the fear is.

That's the problem, that this is subject to the minister, not subject to the rule of law. Sorry for the pun here, but it just doesn't hold water to say: don't worry about it. They want to be able to hold the water. They want to have some security. Again, as I was speaking about earlier this evening, that security by the World Bank is really: how well do we respect the rule of law? When I say that, I don't mean: what kind of draconian laws can the government pass, and therefore we have to follow them. We're talking about the rule of law, which protects the life, the liberty, and the property of those individuals.

I guess I want to go back to respecting contracts. I talked a little bit earlier, you know, about Alberta First Nations Energy Centre and how they've got partners that have come in. They've spent the equivalent of probably $20 million on a class 3 engineering report to show the viability of their project. They had two ministers come in and talk to them. The first one said that it's not economically viable. Then the next minister comes in and says: "Well, you know what? You didn't get a good enough deal for your people, so we're not going to allow this to go forward." So there was total discord on those two fronts in not knowing what's going to happen there.

It goes back to when you have a contract, when you have, you know, 13 conditions to that contract that you need to fulfill, yet when you do that, then the government or the minister or the Premier all of a sudden seems to think they have a new idea, and that's pulled out from under them. That's a real concern.

What I'm trying to get back to here, in relating to this Bill 6, is that it just isn't good enough to have an advocate to be able to go for industry or for property owners or for a farmer and say: well, we've got an advocate that we'll send down to you, and he'll hold your hand and walk you through to explain why we're doing what we're doing to you and why you might not be getting full compensation or why you can't go to the courts. It's just wrong, Mr. Chair, that we've brought forward this property rights advocate in response to the report of the Property Rights Task Force.

The hon. Member for Edmonton-Gold Bar has gone through his letter there and the numerous problems that exist in looking for an advocacy. Again, when you look at the fact that we're running – and again, I'm very disappointed I wasn't able to debate the appropriation this evening. Again, closure came in at the appointed hour. It's always nice how the government can move from one bill, when you think you're going to be able to speak to it, pull it off the table. The time allotted runs out, and then they bring back something else.

The problem that we have here that Albertans are facing is that we don't have rule of law. What we have are arbitrary decisions that can be made at the ministerial or cabinet level, and we're told that that's where it's at.

It's also interesting that the agriculture minister talked about central planning. That's one of the problems with all of this. I was kind of amazed that he would even go that route because I would have thought that as a former reeve of that area he and his elected people would know far better what's really needed in that area. He gave some good examples of how the ERCB was wanting to drill through water aquifers and that they couldn't stop it. Now he's saying: well, with the land use we can actually legislate that. I don't understand why we couldn't legislate and protect aquifers and just have a water protection act, which I know this government is working hard on in looking at how we're going to protect watersheds and waterways and all of those things. Yet we get this omnibus bill, almost, to say: well, an advocate is going to cover this.

Again, they scoffed over there when the hon. Member for Edmonton-Gold Bar said: well, you know, couldn't it be part of the Farmers' Advocate? There was an uproar. "Oh, no, no, no." Well, I think there's going to be a bigger uproar on whether or not we even need an advocate. Why do we need an advocate? Because they're not protected by the rule of law. For the life of me I don't understand why they won't back up and listen to Albertans. They've been going around for three years. I don't know of a single meeting where they could have left feeling good and saying: I think we've got it right. I mean, there was just fury in the room. "Why are you doing this to us?"

To go to Bill 6 and talk about the property rights advocate, in the theme he was saying that we need to have central planning. I just don't know of anywhere in the world where central planning has worked and why we'd want to bring it here to Alberta and all of a sudden think that for some reason elected people in Alberta . . .

Mr. Berger: Point of order.

The Deputy Chair: The hon. Minister of Agriculture and Rural Development is rising on a point of order.

Point of Order Relevance

Mr. Berger: Yeah. First off, relevance.

The Deputy Chair: Which citation are you citing? From Beauchesne?

Mr. Berger: Okay. I'll accept that. Is there any relevance we're going to get to? The comment is, though, that I never did say anything about central planning.

Ms Blakeman: Citation?

Mr. Berger: Well, I'll have to dig one out.

The Deputy Chair: The citation number, hon. member?

Mr. Berger: Go on. My comment is on the record.

The Deputy Chair: Standing Order 23(h), (i), (j)?

Mr. Berger: Standing Order 23(h), (i), (j) will work.

The Deputy Chair: I'm sorry. I hear somebody shouting Beauchesne 459. Would that be the one?

Ms Blakeman: If you want to use the rules, get to know them.

Mr. Berger: I was in a hurry.

The Deputy Chair: Hon. member, 459 Beauchesne for relevance?

Mr. Berger: Yes, 459.

The Deputy Chair: Okay. Proceed.

Mr. Berger: My comment is that I never mentioned central planning whatsoever in anything I said, so I'd just like to correct that for the record. That was never a comment I made.

Mr. Hinman: I will be more than thrilled to show him in Hansard that he did use the words "central planning" earlier this evening. Hansard will verify that tomorrow for him. I understand that often we get up and we start talking, and we use words that aren't quite articulated in the way we want.

The Deputy Chair: This is a point of clarification, then. We'll await that clarification. Thank you.

Hon. member, proceed, then.

Debate Continued

Mr. Hinman: Thank you. Perhaps even the chair could have verified it. I know he's listening intently. The one person that I'm always impressed with is watching that.

To go back to central planning and the dilemma that it causes, you have the government, which are just elected representatives, which are usually disconnected from another area, yet they have some passionate, burning desire in their heart, whether it's to build a trail or to build a waterway or to build a park or to protect a lake. Who knows what their passion is and why they're there? But he has absolutely no connection to the people in that area and what they might want to do.

12:30

You know, we had some problems with our regional planning going back, but we shouldn't have thrown the baby out with the bathwater. We needed to do some tweaking. Down in southern Alberta the Oldman River planning commission did a pretty good job. People would go there. They had the different counties, the different MDs that went, and they brought their debates. They were local, and their local people talked to them, and when they passed something, it changed.

It's kind of interesting. In Springbank, just west of Calgary, back in the '90s the people that were elected on the board there put a moratorium on and said: "There are not going to be any more acreages that are coming out in this area. We're going to have a moratorium. We're going to protect our land." I was kind of naive then, thinking: "Oh, gosh. A moratorium is in place. That'll never change."

It's funny. As different individuals started to retire, they realized: oh, I've got to sell this for farmland when I could, in fact, sell it fivefold for a development or acreage? Lo and behold, the next time an election came along, there was a new group of local people on there, and they're allowing development again. Those landowners made a lot of money because once again acreages were allowed and the moratorium was lifted. We can argue from central government, saying: "Oh my goodness. They had no right to do that. We need to protect that." Again, there are lots of interesting things that are coming forward on how to compensate different areas from development and to hopefully be able to keep it in that area.

The point that I want to make, Mr. Chair, is that central government just doesn't work. Everything that this government has been passing, whether it's for health care and the superboard, whether it's for the education portion on the taxes, whether it's for ambulance service around the province, whether it's for land use: they're centralizing. They're saying: "You know what? If we just bring it in closer into the government, into cabinet, into the Premier's office, we'll be able to solve all of our problems." In fact, we're just exacerbating those problems, the contentions and the fighting and the worry that's going on.

Don't fall off your chair there, hon. member for High River. You won't be there much longer, so you can enjoy. High-five. Keep it up. You're doing great there. Enjoy your retirement.

It's interesting to watch, Mr. Chair, the reaction from this government as they go headlong into an election with such bogus bandages as Bill 6, saying: "Oh, we listened. We've got an advocate for you now. You can count on us. You can trust us. This guy is awesome." As the hon. Member for Edmonton-Gold Bar brought up, how much does it cost us? What's going to be the cost and the size of this?

My goodness, when you look at how many cabinet tours have gone around in the last two and a half years since Bill 19 first came out, boy, oh boy, that was a lot of advocacy work that's gone on. How many dollars have been spent?

The bottom line is, I was saying, that I don't know of a single meeting where these guys could have walked away and said: "Wow, we finally got it right. Everybody here was encouraged that we got it right, and they're supporting us. Now we can go back with this amendment, and rural Albertans that have been coming out in droves will be pleased and say: 'The government is listening. They finally see the light, and they're going to protect us.' We're going to go back to the rule of law, where we understand the Expropriation Act and what we can and cannot do." [interjections]

There are too many people wanting to throw a few questions at me. I apologize, Mr. Chair. They often have good ones, and sometimes it actually – what would I say? – speeds up the process, but we're not looking for speed this evening. We're looking for content, and we're looking for clarity, and we're looking for an A-plus, not three Cs. An A-plus would be for this government to say: "You know what? I think we've debated this enough tonight. Let's all go home and think about it." What they need to do is to protect Albertans and adjourn debate and move on.

Instead, what they want to do is that they want this to pass. In good conscience, I can't allow that to happen. If we're going to keep going on here, I'll keep on going because I think that there are some fundamental freedoms and rights that need to be fought for and some that should be fundamental freedoms and rights that aren't fought for.

I'm going to give a little lesson that I received some years ago. Here in Alberta, Fortis et Liber, strong and free . . .

An Hon. Member: Leeber.

Mr. Hinman: Some people like to say leeber, but I like to go back to the old Latin term, liber. I think that I'd even sit down if the hon. members over there could tell me what liber means in Latin and go with that, especially the Education minister. Maybe if he listens, he might get educated a little bit here tonight on what liber is.

In Latin liber is actually the inner bark of the tree. Then you say: what does that have to do with anything? Actually, the inner bark of the tree is what the first people creating law and ownership used to write down their titles on. So liber, as in do you have any liber to show me that, means: where is your paper to show me that you own that? They owned property. They owned slaves. It was a liber. That was the root word for library, libro in Spanish, and all of that. It was the paper, the ownership, that you owned it on. It was critical for whether or not you could establish in law and have it written on that inner bark of the tree. It became a book.

If you go down to land titles, they have all of the papers there. That's the purpose. The bottom line is that this government is jeopardizing the strong and free society that we have. Why? Because they don't have respect for rule of law. They don't want to have a book, a book of rules, a book of property that they have to respect.

What they want to be able to do is to say: hey, we've got this new fabulous idea. Good heavens. It could be here in the fabulous constituency of Edmonton-Centre, in which our committee works tonight, that we were once again welcomed to. I always appreciate the warm welcome. She always welcomes everybody here in the Legislature.

It's rule of law. That's what it is. It's about what's written down there. Again, with the rule of law the most important thing is that when the rule of law is clear, people can predict and know what they need to do. When it comes to property rights, the rule of law and, again, our surveying, we actually know. We can go out there, and we can find the survey pegs for – gosh, what was that? – the old Dominion surveyors. They came across Canada. I mean, those guys were remarkable. There's nothing neater than being out on your horse on the prairie and you come along to a place where they've dug four holes a hundred years ago, and you know that in the middle of that, if you dig down a foot, you'll find the steel peg that they put in there a hundred years ago.

The other interesting thing about that is that they did that because they wanted to make road allowances. One of the things that's a primary concern of government is to have your transportation and utility corridors scoped out, placed out so that people can do that. This government has failed dramatically when it comes to transportation and utility corridors. They want to bulldoze ahead and not worry about boxing themselves in.

In southern Alberta, in Calgary, we still don't have a ring road because this government has failed to see the importance of respecting the rule of law, respecting those people who have that property, going through a proper and fair and equitable way of obtaining that. They keep forgetting that we need to do this, and then we get caught on the short side and say: oh, what are we going to do for a ring road? Then we look at some ridiculous solutions that this government has come up with on going under, going over, going around rather than doing the right thing of planning a little bit ahead of time.

12:40

The Deputy Chair: Thank you, hon. member.

I don't believe there are any other speakers. Is the committee ready for the question?

Hon. Members: Question.

[The clauses of Bill 6 agreed to]

[Title and preamble agreed to]

The Deputy Chair: Shall the bill be reported? Are you agreed?

Hon. Members: Agreed.

The Deputy Chair: Those opposed? That, too, is carried.

The hon. Deputy Government House Leader.

Mr. Weadick: I'd move that we now rise and report progress on Bill 6.

[Motion carried]

[Mr. Zwozdesky in the chair]

The Acting Speaker: The hon. Member for Strathcona.

Mr. Quest: Thank you, Mr. Speaker. The Committee of the Whole has had under consideration a certain bill. The committee reports the following bill: Bill 6.

The Acting Speaker: Does the Assembly concur in the report?

Hon. Members: Concur.

The Acting Speaker: Are there some opposed? No. So ordered, then.

Mr. Weadick: In light of the hour and the work that we've gotten done tonight, I would move that we adjourn until today at 1:30.

[Motion carried; the Assembly adjourned at 12:42 a.m. on Tuesday to 1:30 p.m.]

Table of Contents

Government Bills and Orders
Committee of the Whole

Bill 7	Appropriation Act, 2012.....	627, 645
Bill 4	St. Albert and Sturgeon Valley School Districts Establishment Act	633
Bill 5	Seniors' Property Tax Deferral Act.....	635
Bill 6	Property Rights Advocate Act.....	643, 645

If your address is incorrect, please clip on the dotted line, make any changes, and return to the address listed below. To facilitate the update, please attach the last mailing label along with your account number.

Subscriptions
Legislative Assembly Office
1001 Legislature Annex
9718 – 107 Street
EDMONTON, AB T5K 1E4

.....

Last mailing label:

Account # _____

New information:

Name:

Address:

.....

Subscription information:

Annual subscriptions to the paper copy of Alberta Hansard (including annual index) are $127.50 including GST if mailed once a week or $94.92 including GST if picked up at the subscription address below or if mailed through the provincial government interdepartmental mail system. Bound volumes are $121.70 including GST if mailed. Cheques should be made payable to the Minister of Finance.

Price per issue is $0.75 including GST.

Online access to Alberta Hansard is available through the Internet at www.assembly.ab.ca

Subscription inquiries:

Subscriptions
Legislative Assembly Office
1001 Legislature Annex
9718 – 107 St.
EDMONTON, AB T5K 1E4
Telephone: 780.427.1302

Other inquiries:

Managing Editor
Alberta Hansard
1001 Legislature Annex
9718 – 107 St.
EDMONTON, AB T5K 1E4
Telephone: 780.427.1875

Province of Alberta

The 27th Legislature
Fifth Session

Alberta Hansard

Tuesday afternoon, March 20, 2012

Issue 20a

The Honourable Kenneth R. Kowalski, Speaker

Legislative Assembly of Alberta
The 27th Legislature

Fifth Session

Kowalski, Hon. Ken, Barrhead-Morinville-Westlock, Speaker
Cao, Wayne C.N., Calgary-Fort, Deputy Speaker and Chair of Committees
Zwozdesky, Gene, Edmonton-Mill Creek, Deputy Chair of Committees

Ady, Cindy, Calgary-Shaw (PC)
Allred, Ken, St. Albert (PC)
Amery, Moe, Calgary-East (PC)
Anderson, Rob, Airdrie-Chestermere (W),
Wildrose Opposition House Leader
Benito, Carl, Edmonton-Mill Woods (PC)
Berger, Hon. Evan, Livingstone-Macleod (PC)
Bhardwaj, Naresh, Edmonton-Ellerslie (PC)
Bhullar, Hon. Manmeet Singh, Calgary-Montrose (PC)
Blackett, Lindsay, Calgary-North West (PC)
Blakeman, Laurie, Edmonton-Centre (AL),
Official Opposition Deputy Leader,
Official Opposition House Leader
Boutilier, Guy C., Fort McMurray-Wood Buffalo (W)
Brown, Dr. Neil, QC, Calgary-Nose Hill (PC)
Calahasen, Pearl, Lesser Slave Lake (PC)
Campbell, Robin, West Yellowhead (PC),
Government Whip
Chase, Harry B., Calgary-Varsity (AL)
Dallas, Hon. Cal, Red Deer-South (PC)
Danyluk, Hon. Ray, Lac La Biche-St. Paul (PC)
DeLong, Alana, Calgary-Bow (PC)
Denis, Hon. Jonathan, QC, Calgary-Egmont (PC),
Deputy Government House Leader
Doerksen, Arno, Strathmore-Brooks (PC)
Drysedale, Wayne, Grande Prairie-Wapiti (PC),
Deputy Government Whip
Elniski, Doug, Edmonton-Calder (PC)
Evans, Iris, Sherwood Park (PC)
Fawcett, Kyle, Calgary-North Hill (PC)
Forsyth, Heather, Calgary-Fish Creek (W),
Wildrose Opposition Whip
Fritz, Yvonne, Calgary-Cross (PC)
Goudreau, Hector G., Dunvegan-Central Peace (PC)
Griffiths, Hon. Doug, Battle River-Wainwright (PC)
Groeneveld, George, Highwood (PC)
Hancock, Hon. Dave, QC, Edmonton-Whitemud (PC),
Government House Leader
Hayden, Hon. Jack, Drumheller-Stettler (PC)
Hehr, Kent, Calgary-Buffalo (AL)
Hinman, Paul, Calgary-Glenmore (W),
Wildrose Opposition Deputy Leader
Horne, Hon. Fred, Edmonton-Rutherford (PC),
Deputy Government House Leader
Horner, Hon. Doug, Spruce Grove-Sturgeon-St. Albert (PC)
Jablonski, Mary Anne, Red Deer-North (PC)
Jacobs, Broyce, Cardston-Taber-Warner (PC)
Johnson, Hon. Jeff, Athabasca-Redwater (PC)

Johnston, Art, Calgary-Hays (PC)
Kang, Darshan S., Calgary-McCall (AL),
Official Opposition Whip
Klimchuk, Hon. Heather, Edmonton-Glenora (PC)
Knight, Mel, Grande Prairie-Smoky (PC)
Leskiw, Genia, Bonnyville-Cold Lake (PC)
Liepert, Hon. Ron, Calgary-West (PC)
Lindsay, Fred, Stony Plain (PC)
Lukaszuk, Hon. Thomas A., Edmonton-Castle Downs (PC)
Lund, Ty, Rocky Mountain House (PC)
MacDonald, Hugh, Edmonton-Gold Bar (AL)
Mason, Brian, Edmonton-Highlands-Norwood (ND),
Leader of the ND Opposition
McFarland, Barry, Little Bow (PC)
McQueen, Hon. Diana, Drayton Valley-Calmar (PC)
Mitzel, Len, Cypress-Medicine Hat (PC)
Morton, Hon. F.L., Foothills-Rocky View (PC)
Notley, Rachel, Edmonton-Strathcona (ND),
ND Opposition House Leader
Oberle, Hon. Frank, Peace River (PC)
Olson, Hon. Verlyn, QC, Wetaskiwin-Camrose (PC),
Deputy Government House Leader
Ouellette, Luke, Innisfail-Sylvan Lake (PC)
Pastoor, Bridget Brennan, Lethbridge-East (PC)
Prins, Ray, Lacombe-Ponoka (PC)
Quest, Dave, Strathcona (PC)
Redford, Hon. Alison M., QC, Calgary-Elbow (PC),
Premier
Renner, Rob, Medicine Hat (PC)
Rodney, Dave, Calgary-Lougheed (PC)
Rogers, George, Leduc-Beaumont-Devon (PC)
Sandhu, Peter, Edmonton-Manning (PC)
Sarich, Janice, Edmonton-Decore (PC)
Sherman, Dr. Raj, Edmonton-Meadowlark (AL),
Leader of the Official Opposition
Snelgrove, Lloyd, Vermilion-Lloydminster (Ind)
Stelmach, Ed, Fort Saskatchewan-Vegreville (PC)
Swann, Dr. David, Calgary-Mountain View (AL)
Taft, Dr. Kevin, Edmonton-Riverview (AL),
Official Opposition Deputy Whip
Tarchuk, Janis, Banff-Cochrane (PC)
Taylor, Dave, Calgary-Currie (AB)
VanderBurg, Hon. George, Whitecourt-Ste. Anne (PC)
Vandermeer, Tony, Edmonton-Beverly-Clareview (PC)
Weadick, Hon. Greg, Lethbridge-West (PC),
Deputy Government House Leader
Webber, Len, Calgary-Foothills (PC)
Woo-Paw, Teresa, Calgary-Mackay (PC)
Xiao, David H., Edmonton-McClung (PC)

Party standings:

Progressive Conservative: 66 Alberta Liberal: 8 Wildrose: 4 New Democrat: 2 Alberta: 1 Independent: 1 Vacant: 1

Officers and Officials of the Legislative Assembly

W.J. David McNeil, Clerk	Stephanie LeBlanc, Parliamentary Counsel & Legal Research Officer	Chris Caughell, Assistant Sergeant-at-Arms
Robert H. Reynolds, QC, Law Clerk/ Director of Interparliamentary Relations	Philip Massolin, Committee Research Co-ordinator	Gordon H. Munk, Assistant Sergeant-at-Arms
Shannon Dean, Senior Parliamentary Counsel/Director of House Services	Brian G. Hodgson, Sergeant-at-Arms	Liz Sim, Managing Editor of Alberta Hansard

Executive Council

Alison Redford	Premier, President of Executive Council, Chair of Agenda and Priorities Committee
Doug Horner	Deputy Premier, President of Treasury Board and Enterprise
Dave Hancock	Minister of Human Services
Ted Morton	Minister of Energy
Verlyn Olson	Minister of Justice and Attorney General
Fred Horne	Minister of Health and Wellness
Ron Liepert	Minister of Finance
Thomas Lukaszuk	Minister of Education, Political Minister for Edmonton
Diana McQueen	Minister of Environment and Water
Jonathan Denis	Solicitor General and Minister of Public Security
Cal Dallas	Minister of Intergovernmental, International and Aboriginal Relations, Political Minister for Central Alberta
Evan Berger	Minister of Agriculture and Rural Development, Political Minister for Southern Alberta
Frank Oberle	Minister of Sustainable Resource Development
George VanderBurg	Minister of Seniors
Ray Danyluk	Minister of Transportation
Jeff Johnson	Minister of Infrastructure, Political Minister for Northern Alberta
Doug Griffiths	Minister of Municipal Affairs
Greg Weadick	Minister of Advanced Education and Technology
Jack Hayden	Minister of Tourism, Parks and Recreation
Heather Klimchuk	Minister of Culture and Community Services
Manmeet Singh Bhullar	Minister of Service Alberta, Political Minister for Calgary

Parliamentary Assistants

Naresh Bhardwaj	Health and Wellness
Alana DeLong	Seniors
Arno Doerksen	Human Services
Kyle Fawcett	Treasury Board and Enterprise
Art Johnston	Executive Council
Barry McFarland	Agriculture and Rural Development
Len Mitzel	Transportation
Dave Rodney	Health and Wellness
David Xiao	Energy

STANDING AND SPECIAL COMMITTEES OF THE LEGISLATIVE ASSEMBLY OF ALBERTA

Standing Committee on the Alberta Heritage Savings Trust Fund

Chair: Ms Tarchuk
Deputy Chair: Mr. Elniski

Anderson
DeLong
Groeneveld
Johnston
MacDonald
Quest
Taft

Standing Committee on Community Development

Chair: Mrs. Jablonski
Deputy Chair: Mr. Chase

Amery
Blakeman
Boutilier
Calahasen
Goudreau
Groeneveld
Lindsay
Snelgrove
Taylor
Vandermeer

Standing Committee on Education

Chair: Ms Pastoor
Deputy Chair: Mr. Hehr

Anderson
Benito
Brown
Cao
Chase
Leskiw
Notley
Sarich
Tarchuk
Vacant

Standing Committee on Energy

Chair: Mrs. Ady
Deputy Chair: Ms Blakeman

Hehr
Hinman
Jacobs
Johnston
Lund
Mason
McFarland
Ouellette
Webber
Xiao

Standing Committee on Finance

Chair: Mr. Renner
Deputy Chair: Mr. Kang

Allred
Anderson
Drysdale
Fawcett
Knight
Mitzel
Prins
Sandhu
Taft
Taylor

Standing Committee on Legislative Offices

Chair: Mr. Blackett
Deputy Chair: Mr. Lund

Blakeman
Brown
Evans
Hinman
Lindsay
MacDonald
Notley
Ouellette
Quest
Vacant

Special Standing Committee on Members' Services

Chair: Mr. Kowalski
Deputy Chair: Mr. Campbell

Amery
Anderson
Elniski
Evans
Hehr
Knight
Leskiw
MacDonald
Mason
Rogers

Standing Committee on Private Bills

Chair: Dr. Brown
Deputy Chair: Ms Woo-Paw

Allred	Kang
Benito	Knight
Boutilier	Lindsay
Calahasen	McFarland
Doerksen	Sandhu
Drysdale	Sarich
Evans	Snelgrove
Groeneveld	Swann
Hinman	Xiao
Jacobs

Standing Committee on Privileges and Elections, Standing Orders and Printing

Chair: Mr. Prins
Deputy Chair: Mr. Snelgrove

Amery	Mitzel
Boutilier	Notley
Calahasen	Pastoor
DeLong	Quest
Doerksen	Stelmach
Forsyth	Swann
Jacobs	Tarchuk
Knight	Taylor
Leskiw	Zwozdesky
McFarland

Standing Committee on Public Accounts

Chair: Mr. MacDonald
Deputy Chair: Mr. Goudreau

Allred	Kang
Benito	Mason
Calahasen	Rodney
Chase	Sandhu
Elniski	Vandermeer
Fawcett	Woo-Paw
Forsyth	Xiao
Groeneveld

Standing Committee on Public Health and Safety

Chair: Mrs. Fritz
Deputy Chair: Dr. Taft

Bhardwaj
Blackett
DeLong
Doerksen
Forsyth
Notley
Rodney
Rogers
Swann
Woo-Paw

Legislative Assembly of Alberta

1:30 p.m.

Tuesday, March 20, 2012

[The Deputy Speaker in the chair]

Prayers

The Deputy Speaker: Hon. members, we have a prayer to say today.

Let us pray. Guide us so that we may use the privilege given us as elected Members of the Legislative Assembly. Give us the strength to labour diligently, the courage to think and to speak with clarity and conviction and without prejudice or pride. Amen. Please be seated.

Introduction of Guests

The Deputy Speaker: The hon. Member for Edmonton-Mill Creek.

Mr. Zwozdesky: Thank you very much, Mr. Speaker. It's a great pleasure for me today to introduce to you and through you to all members here some very outstanding students and teachers from a school in my riding of Mill Creek called Blessed Kateri. We have 41 visitors in total. They are joined by their teachers and group leaders Mr. Dan Meunier and Mrs. Anna Primiani. I would ask them all to now rise and receive the wonderful ovation of welcome from our House and all its members. Thank you for coming.

The Deputy Speaker: The hon. Minister of Education.

Mr. Lukaszuk: Thank you, Mr. Speaker. In view of the fact that a rather historic agreement was signed today between First Nations and Northland school division relevant to bringing education to our aboriginal children at the level that we want all of our children to receive, there are a number of leaders who have actually worked really hard for the last few months to allow this to happen. I would like to introduce them. With us today are Chief James Alook from Peerless Trout First Nation, Chief Eddie Tallman from Whitefish Lake First Nation, and Chief William Whitehead from Woodland Cree First Nation. These three chiefs definitely have made children their priority, and I know we will see the fruit of this partnership very soon.

With them today are a dedicated group of individuals who also have been involved in this agreement: Colin Kelly, the official trustee of the Northland school division; Al Rollins, CEO; Billy Joe Laboucan, education director; Donna Barrett, superintendent; and Linda Pelly, director of FNMI services branch.

I would like them all to rise today and accept the warm welcome of this Assembly. Thank you.

The Deputy Speaker: Do you have a second one, hon. minister?

Mr. Lukaszuk: Mr. Speaker, yes. I also have a group of parents who are administering home-schooling programming to their children. They're with the Home School Christian Fellowship. With us today we have a number of parents with their children representing the Home School Christian Fellowship. I would like them all to rise and identify themselves and receive the warm welcome of this Assembly. If they're not here, they're probably touring this magnificent building, and they will be with us a little bit later on today.

The Deputy Speaker: Hon. Minister of Service Alberta, do you have an introduction?

Mr. Bhullar: Yes, Mr. Speaker, I do. You look very fine overseeing question period. Thank you, sir.

Mr. Speaker, it's my privilege to introduce some members of the hard-working team at Service Alberta. I have Summer Ammar, Dee Carrier, Yvette Chau, Darrelle Cabinet, Margo Meyers, and Sheri Simmonds here in the gallery today. I would ask that they rise and receive the traditional warm welcome of this Assembly. It's a privilege for me to serve as their minister. I'm very proud to work with these fine individuals. Thank you for being here. I ask that all members give them the warm welcome of our Assembly.

The Deputy Speaker: The hon. Member for Edmonton-Calder.

Mr. Elniski: Well, thank you, Mr. Speaker. It's my pleasure to introduce to you and through you today a group of 35 visitors from the Yellowhead Tribal College who are seated in the members' gallery. Yellowhead Tribal College is a fixture in the constituency of Edmonton-Calder, and you will unlikely ever find a group of people with a stronger desire to succeed. With the group today is their group leader, Linda Anderson. I would ask them all to rise and receive the traditional warm greeting of the Assembly. There they are.

Members' Statements

The Deputy Speaker: The hon. Member for Edmonton-McClung.

International Marketing

Mr. Xiao: Thank you, Mr. Speaker. Access to international markets is essential to increasing the competitiveness of our agriculture industry. Alberta's agriculture and agrifood sector depends on exports, which were worth about $7 billion in 2010. We are working closely with the federal government, industry leaders, and other provinces to ensure that Alberta's producers and exporters have access to markets to trade their products around the world.

Mr. Speaker, India, China, and Japan are all priority markets for our province, and we have made significant progress in negotiations with all of these countries. India represents a market of more than 1 billion people, and it's one of the world's fastest growing and most important economies.

We also made a breakthrough in market access for beef this year. In January South Korea was the last major market to open its doors to Canadian beef. Before the market closed in 2003, South Korea was our fourth-largest export market, and as of February for the first time since 2003 Canadian processors are able to resume exporting beef tallow to China, a market worth approximately $50 million per year. As we move forward, Mr. Speaker, we must ensure that Alberta's agriculture and agrifood products maintain a competitive edge over countries such as the United States, New Zealand, Australia, and Brazil.

Mr. Speaker, within the next 10 to 15 years Canada will be one of only a handful of countries producing more food than they consume. Our goal is to make Alberta the preferred agricultural supplier throughout the world.

Thank you, Mr. Speaker.

The Deputy Speaker: The hon. Member for Airdrie-Chestermere, followed by the hon. Member for Medicine Hat.

Integrity in Government

Mr. Anderson: Mr. Speaker, last night the Minister of Education held a telephone town hall with parents and school board trustees across the province. At one point a constituent of mine asked a question concerning why Airdrie hadn't received the two portables our local school board had asked for to cope with the immense overcrowding in our city schools. The Education minister answered as follows: "You know what? I'm really itching to say it, so I will, even though I know I shouldn't, but the first thing you can do is, actually, in Airdrie call your MLA and ask him not to oppose me in the Legislature" on alternative infrastructure funding methods, meaning debt.

Mr. Speaker, this minister is an embarrassment to the office that he holds. How dare you tell my constituents, parents in my community, in the city that I love and have lived in and called home for 20 years, that they can get the school spaces that we desperately need only when their MLA stops advocating for them in the House?

Mr. Speaker, new evidence of the PC culture of corruption are discovered almost every day now, whether it's the Premier's broken promise and cover-up in health care, the Gary Mar fundraiser, the dozens of investigations by Elections Alberta into illegal donations to the PC Party, billions in unneeded power lines with no competitive bidding, the Member for Dunvegan-Central Peace's threatening letter to his school board, the fact that no PC MLAs will return money earned on their no-meet committees, and now this, the Education minister threatening parents that they won't get the school spaces they need unless their democratically elected MLAs shut up in question period.

Now the minister laughs. He laughed.

Well, guess what? I won't be shutting up anytime soon. I'll be advocating for the people of Airdrie loudly as long as they have me as their representative.

Bad news for you, Minister. You and your party will not be able to bully and intimidate Albertans when they are in the ballot booth in about a month. This will stop, and it's Albertans who will stop it. The time of this PC government is thankfully about to come to a merciful end.

The Deputy Speaker: The hon. Member for Medicine Hat, followed by the hon. Member for Calgary-Nose Hill.

1:40 Retrospective by the Member for Medicine Hat

Mr. Renner: Well, thank you, Mr. Speaker. Today I'm rising to address this Assembly for what could be my last time. Like you, Mr. Speaker, I will not be seeking re-election this spring. The decision not to seek a sixth term was almost as difficult as the one I made over 19 years ago to seek a first term. I can only hope that this second decision will provide a fraction of the opportunities for personal growth and learning that I have experienced as a Member of the Legislative Assembly of Alberta.

When I entered public life, I committed to honour and respect the people of Medicine Hat, my family, and my colleagues. But, Mr. Speaker, respect is something that must apply equally to our supporters and critics alike. As I prepare to leave this place, I do so knowing that I have kept that commitment. I have learned that every story has two sides and that every decision has consequences and that sometimes the right decision is not necessarily the most popular decision.

I will have fond memories of the time I spent in this place. I truly believe that members of this Assembly have collectively made Alberta a better place. I'm proud of the role that I was able to play along the way.

Mr. Speaker, I want to thank the people of Medicine Hat for having the confidence in me over five elections, elections that could not have been successful without great campaign managers, financial supporters, and amazing volunteers. I want to thank the dozens of people who supported me between elections at fundraising and party events; in particular, the members of my constituency board, who year in and year out have been my strongest supporters and, when necessary, some of my most vocal critics.

Finally, Mr. Speaker, I want to thank my family. They have been there for me whenever I needed them to share my successes, to cheer me up when I was down, and occasionally to give me a much-needed reality check.

Mr. Speaker, I extend to you and members of the House my very best wishes in wherever your future leads you.

Thank you very much.

The Deputy Speaker: Well, the chair also wants to wish you all the best. For the years that I've known you as a member of the Assembly, you are a great MLA.

State of the Health Care System

Dr. Brown: Mr. Speaker, Alberta has an excellent health care system, one of the finest in North America or the world. However, there is no health care system in existence that does not face significant challenges. Several factors contribute to these challenges. Our population has grown by roughly 700,000 people since 2001, an increase of over 22 per cent. Albertans are living longer and requiring more health care as they age. The costs of technology, health procedures, and drugs have also escalated rapidly. Our challenges include wait times for emergency care and some types of surgeries that are too long. We need more access to long-term care in order to free up acute-care beds. We need more home care to help elderly people stay in their homes longer.

These issues are not going to be solved overnight; however, we are making steady progress. Our province dedicated $3,860 per person to health care in 2011-12, the highest amount of any Canadian province. Funding for health care is increasing by 7.9 per cent this year. We're making major investments in new acute-care beds. We're investing in primary care networks, urgent care centres, family care clinics, mental health services, and enhanced rehabilitation programs.

Alberta continues to support internationally recognized health research, which is bringing leading-edge clinical treatment to Albertans and to others around the world. We have the best outcomes in the country for treating patients with heart attack and stroke. We have world-class programs in diabetes, cancer treatment, colitis, epilepsy, neonatal intensive care, and many other specialties.

Our government is investing $25 million in home-care initiatives to keep Albertans in their homes longer. The role of pharmacists is being expanded to allow Albertans another way of obtaining the care they need.

Mr. Speaker, our government will continue working to keep Alberta's health care system among the finest in the world.

The Deputy Speaker: The hon. Member for Red Deer-North, followed by the hon. Member for Edmonton-Riverview.

Armenian Genocide

Mrs. Jablonski: Thank you, Mr. Speaker. On April 24 of every year Armenians all over the world commemorate the great tragedy of the Armenian genocide because it was on that day in 1915 when 300 Armenian leaders, writers, thinkers, and professionals in present-day Constantinople were rounded up, deported, and killed.

I commemorate this day each year in memory of my grandparents, who went through this horror in their young lives. I also commemorate the day in honour of all the people – men, women, and children – who have been tortured, who have suffered, and who have died in the massacres of people in the past during the Jewish Holocaust and the Ukrainian Holodomor and people that continue to be tortured around the world in Syria, Rwanda, Sarajevo, Herzegovina.

Mr. Speaker, my question to this Assembly and to the world is: when will this stop? When will we stand up and put a stop to the massacre of people around the world? You know, the only reason that my grandparents survived and the reason I'm here today is because they were loved by the very people that were killing the other Armenians. They were taken into a home, and they were protected and raised so that they could come to America and raise their family. My grandmother and my grandfather survived this genocide because of a Turkish family that raised them with love.

Mr. Speaker, I would say to you that the answer to my question is love and that it has to be great love from the people of the world. Our world can only survive these periods of terror because of just and kind people who have a great capacity to love one another.

My point today to this Assembly is that we must always remember. We must always remember what we talk about in this Assembly all of the time, which is the Jewish Holocaust and the Ukrainian Holodomor, and I raise the Armenian genocide as well. These kinds of torture go on today. We must stand and say: we remember, and no more.

The Deputy Speaker: The hon. Member for Edmonton-Riverview.

Right to Vote

Dr. Taft: Thanks, Mr. Speaker. As Alberta will soon be in an election, it's worth reflecting on how important voting is. Even in Canada voting as we know it is surprisingly recent. Obtaining the vote took centuries of struggle in courts, streets, markets, and meeting halls. At least 20 people were killed in election-related violence in the first half of the 19th century in this country. Among those prohibited from voting have been women, men without land, the poor, Jews, Catholics, Sikhs, Hindus, Chinese, and Canada's aboriginal people.

Earning the right to vote has taken such a long fight because at every step of the way there are those who are opposed to democracy. They felt they knew better than the people or were superior or entitled or that democracy threatened them. The recent robocall scandal suggests those forces have not been vanquished and perhaps never will be.

Canada's courts have often been called on to defend the right to vote. One ruling said:

All forms of democratic government are founded upon the right to vote. Without that right, democracy cannot exist. The marking of a ballot is the mark of distinction of citizens of a democracy. It is a proud badge of freedom . . . every care should be taken to guard against disenfranchisement.

Elsewhere, J.P. Boyer wrote:

Drawing two short lines to form an "X" is the simplest act imaginable. Yet the right to so mark a ballot is as profound as [it] is simple. Such marks, systematically compiled, are transformed by our beliefs and our laws into the most eloquent voice the people have.

Mr. Speaker, may every campaign genuinely respect the right to vote so that the eloquent voice of the people will be heard.

Thank you.

1:50

Oral Question Period

The Deputy Speaker: The hon. Leader of the Official Opposition. First question.

Health Care System

Dr. Sherman: Thank you, Mr. Speaker. What good is universal health care if it's universally inaccessible? It's a well-known fact that agonizingly long waits for essential surgeries, emergency care, and 911 calls are due in large part to our seniors being warehoused in acute-care beds because of grossly underfunded and understaffed publicly delivered home care and long-term care. To the Premier. Your plan includes a paltry $25 million for home care, 30 long-term care beds, and 500 private beds. Why do you persist in supporting a failed seniors' policy which continues to leave our health care system in crisis?

Ms Redford: Mr. Speaker, we've had a record of expanding the number of long-term care beds in this province over the past four years, and that's something that matters because we have to ensure that seniors have choice with respect to continuing care in facilities where they can choose to live and receive publicly funded health care.

Dr. Sherman: Mr. Speaker, given that I'd like to correct the Premier – we actually have fewer long-term care beds today than we had four years ago – and given that the biggest problem is that too many Albertans don't have a family doctor and that only 30 per cent of our medical school graduates are choosing to become one because of this PC government's focus on intimidating doctors, fiddling about with pilot projects, and throwing a few measly bucks at primary care networks on the eve of an election, to the Premier: will you finally admit you don't understand health care? If you don't understand it, you don't know how to fix it.

Ms Redford: Mr. Speaker, we have right now in this province a tremendous partnership with health care professionals in building a model called family care clinics. Family care clinics are what Albertans want, Mr. Speaker, because what they're doing is that they're providing access for families to people who can be health practitioners and provide them with the access and the information that they need and the health care that they need. Family care clinics will include doctors, licensed practical nurses, and other health practitioners who can provide support to moms and dads who want to make sure that they can get access for their kids not in an emergency room at 11 o'clock at night but in their own community.

Dr. Sherman: Mr. Speaker, I'm not sure which planet this Premier has been flying to lately.

Given that we've had wildcat strikes and we've had health professionals running ads in the newspapers about the intimidation of leaders and given that you always talk about publicly funded health care but you never talk about publicly delivered health care, Premier, will you please follow the Alberta Liberal lead and commit to investing $500 million to delivering world-class home care, long-term care, and primary care led by family doctors?

Ms Redford: These suggestions are not new ideas. This is what we are doing in the government of Alberta today, Mr. Speaker. We are investing in home care. The budget, that is before this House to be passed this week, has increased the number of continuing care spaces, it's increased family care clinic funding, and it's ensured that there are additional resources for home care.

Everything must be about access, and we will continue to work with health care professionals across this province on improving the health care system for everyone.

The Deputy Speaker: The hon. Leader of the Official Opposition. Second main question.

Dr. Sherman: Thank you, Mr. Speaker. An inadequate answer to a serious problem.

Education Funding

Dr. Sherman: A well-funded education system is the foundation and backbone of our society. In Alberta we have a baby boom and high immigration, which will result in 100,000 more kids in 10 years. We need more teachers and more support for those teachers, and the schools in which they work need to be adequately maintained. Today we have 600 fewer teachers than two years ago. To the Premier. You talk about sustainable, predictable funding, but your three-year plan of 1 per cent/2 per cent/2 per cent fails to keep up with inflation and population growth. Why won't you provide sustainable and adequate funding for public education?

Ms Redford: Mr. Speaker, this government is proud of what we've done to support public education in this province, and I'll start by talking about the $107 million that went back into classrooms in October, when I became the Premier of this province. Our future is public education, and as opposed to the hon. member, who seems to think this is a great problem that we're going to have another hundred thousand students in the schools, I see it as an opportunity. We'll invest in teachers, we'll invest in infrastructure, and we'll continue to grow this province.

Dr. Sherman: Mr. Speaker, not only has the Premier been skipping out on the Legislature; she skipped out on the last two debates.

To the Premier: given that choice within the publicly delivered education system is a good thing, yet the PCs are funding private schools on a level never seen before, even following the Wildrose's lead in enshrining the word "choice," code for privatization, into legislation, why are you bent on starving our public school system in favour of private, American-style education?

Ms Redford: Mr. Speaker, the great thing about Alberta – and it's what we respect – is parents' right to choose how to educate their children. We have a wide range of opportunities, from home-schooling to charter schools to private schools to public schools to separate schools in this province. We support all of them. It's entirely possible to do that, and we'll continue to do that.

The Deputy Speaker: The hon. member.

Dr. Sherman: Thank you, Mr. Speaker. Given that the Premier is following the Wildrose's lead on privatizing education and given that you've starved the public education system to such an extent that working families are getting nickelled and dimed with school fees and that parents who can't afford these fees are being hounded by collection agencies, to the Premier: will you stop this despicable practice and follow the Alberta Liberal lead by providing public schools with adequate funding and cancel school fees altogether?

Ms Redford: Mr. Speaker, what we have in this province are options for parents to decide how to educate their children. We have a strong public school system that we as a government are committed to because we believe that it's the future of this province. We also believe it's important for parents to have choice with respect to which schools their children are going to, which programs they might be a part of. Certainly, some of them do involve fees, but those are partly the parents' choices in terms of how we do this. That is key to what happens to the future of education in this province, and that is to give parents the option with respect to how to educate their children.

The Deputy Speaker: Hon. member, you still have your third Official Opposition question.

Dr. Sherman: Thank you, Mr. Speaker. Madam Premier, thank you for being honest about wanting to privatize education.

Provincial Budget

Dr. Sherman: Mr. Speaker, oil is at a hundred bucks a barrel and Albertans are working harder than ever, yet working families are getting nickelled and dimed to pay school fees, our postsecondary students are getting nickelled and dimed for tuition and fees, and seniors are getting nickelled and dimed for home care and long-term care. Not only do we have a social deficit; we also have a fiscal deficit. The real elephant in the room is that on top of wasteful government spending, we have a revenue problem. Why does the Premier refuse to show courage and admit that we need to bring in a fair tax that would see the richest Albertans and large corporations bear their fair share?

Ms Redford: Mr. Speaker, we're going to pass a budget this week that has no tax increases and no new taxes. We've continued to invest in public education, in public health care, in infrastructure. We've taken care of the most vulnerable people in this province, and we've done it well within a responsible fiscal framework. We are proud of that, and we will proudly not follow the lead of the hon. member's party.

Dr. Sherman: Mr. Speaker, many of the vulnerable are kids and their families and postsecondary students.

Given that a former Canadian Prime Minister once said that an election campaign is a terrible time to talk about policy and it appears that this Premier is following that Prime Minister's lead, to the Premier: why don't you trust Albertans enough to actually engage them in an honest and meaningful conversation instead of trying to spin out of every important issue?

Ms Redford: Mr. Speaker, I'll tell you that I think that when we get into this election, one of the best things we're going to do is talk about policy because this is a government that has put a plan on the table with respect to a throne speech, a budget, and legislation that's going to allow us to set a path for the future of the province. I'm looking forward to any other political party that might actually want to talk about policy in this election.

The Deputy Speaker: Question 3. Go ahead, hon. member.

Dr. Sherman: Thank you, Mr. Speaker. Premier, really simple: given that oil is at a hundred bucks a barrel and you're not getting our young people the education that they deserve and Albertans the health care that they deserve, when are you going to get it to them, and when are you going to balance the budget? Premier, when are you going to balance the budget and get the public services we need?

Ms Redford: Mr. Speaker, I am really looking forward to what we're going to be able to talk about in the next couple of months in this province. There's a budget that we've put forward, that we're proud of in this House, that's allowed us to do everything the hon. member has just asked us to do with respect to education, with respect to health care, with respect to infrastructure. We're balancing the budget next year, and that's in our budget.

2:00 School Council Teleconference Remarks

Mr. Anderson: Mr. Speaker, last night, when asked by a constituent of mine why Airdrie hadn't received desperately needed portables, the Education minister answered, "You know what? I'm really itching to say it, so I will, even though I shouldn't, but the first thing you can do, actually, in Airdrie is to call your MLA and ask him not to oppose me in the Legislature" on infrastructure funding. I've got to say, Premier, that the arrogance and stupidity of this minister's comment are breathtaking. Will you immediately fire this minister for his inappropriate and bullying comments? Or is this kind of conduct in line with your Alberta values?

Ms Redford: Mr. Speaker, I understand that it was a very good discussion last night with respect to infrastructure. That's an important discussion for us to be having right now in this province because when this hon. member's party suggested a $2 billion cut to infrastructure, you've got to know that that's going to impact schools and that's going to impact hospitals. I think what the Minister of Education said was entirely appropriate. We've got to have discussions with respect to infrastructure. If you cut the infrastructure budget, you are going to cut schools, and we won't do that.

Mr. Anderson: What a spineless answer, Premier.

Premier, you happily accepted the resignation from your former chair of the Cabinet Policy Committee on Community Development, the Member for Dunvegan-Central Peace, who implied that one of his school boards would be wise to stop publicly advocating for school improvement so vocally. So why will you now not fire your Education minister for blatantly threatening Alberta parents that they won't get the portables they need until their MLA stops opposing him in question period? Why the obvious double standard? Fire this minister. Show some leadership.

Ms Redford: Mr. Speaker, what I understand my minister said was that it was important for us to talk about alternative financing models and it was important for us to invest in infrastructure. If we do those things, we will be able to build those schools. That's an important policy discussion. It's certainly within his purview to make those comments. That's exactly the choice that Albertans are going to have to make in the next couple of months.

Mr. Anderson: Somebody should introduce this Premier to the truth because she can't seem to find it anywhere.

Premier, I'm going to ask you this one more time, and if you say no, this is all that Albertans need to know about your commitment to change and transparency. Will you commit today that you will immediately direct the Education ministry to publicly publish a full list of all requested new schools and upgrades from school boards across Alberta, starting in order from highest provincial priority to lowest priority, as well as the objective criteria used to arrive at that order of priority so that all Albertans can be confident that you are not handing out new schools and upgrades based on politics.

Ms Redford: Mr. Speaker, what we have in this province is a capital plan that sets priorities for communities and schools across this province. Those are based on the best interests of children.

There is absolutely no reason that any MLA in this House cannot advocate on behalf of the communities that they represent. Part of that advocacy is to decide how we're going to pay for these. I know that this hon. member comes from a party that is always concerned about fiscal responsibility. I would say that what our minister did last night is that he introduced some very important issues with respect to reductions in infrastructure spending that would actually impact the construction of new schools. We don't agree with them.

The Deputy Speaker: The hon. Member for Edmonton-Highlands-Norwood, followed by the hon. Member for Vermilion-Lloydminster.

Pre-election Commitments

Mr. Mason: Thank you very much, Mr. Speaker. The Premier has arranged the timing of the review of MLA salaries so that no decision will be made until after the election. How typical. She's become a master at delay and diversion, the pinnacle of procrastination for political purposes. From health care inquiries to power rates this Premier's stall tactics are becoming a cliché. My question is to the Premier. Why has the Premier engineered this scheme to make sure that voters won't know what compensation their MLAs are going to get until after the election?

Ms Redford: Mr. Speaker, this very Legislative Assembly has requested, because we urged them to do it, an independent report with respect to MLA salary. I emphasize the word "independent." I'll tell you that it's an appropriate method to determine what the compensation should be for all MLAs in this House. We stand behind that.

I took action on that on November 30, within 60 days of becoming the leader of our party and the Premier of this province. I would suggest that any report that is going to be prepared independently by someone as eminent as a retired judge of the Supreme Court of Canada will be released when that person believes that it should be.

The Deputy Speaker: The hon. member.

Mr. Mason: Thank you very much, Mr. Speaker. Given that this Premier in yet another attempt to divert attention from a difficult issue has asked for an ethics review of Gary Mar's fundraising activities, yet it appears that little progress has been made, will the Premier commit to making a decision on Mr. Mar's future before the election?

Ms Redford: Mr. Speaker, these questions are quite interesting because what I'm hearing from the opposition, whether we're talking about MLA pay or this issue, what he is urging me to do is to step into the middle of a process that is independently regulated at the moment. We know that right now there is a review going on that is independent with respect to an employment contract in relation to that person. Once that review is completed, we will have the results, and proper steps will be taken. But until that is done, we will respect due process, and we will respect the independence of the process.

The Deputy Speaker: The hon. member.

Mr. Mason: Thank you very much, Mr. Speaker. Given that this Premier set up those processes with the explicit purpose of delaying issues until after the election, I find that very hard to take.

Given that the Premier has promised her developer friends that the cap on long-term care will be lifted so that they can make a bigger profit from seniors and their families and given that the Minister of Seniors now says that a decision on the fees will not be announced until after the election, will the Premier come clean with Alberta seniors and their families and tell them before the election just how much they can expect to be hosed by our private health care partners?

Ms Redford: Mr. Speaker, this hon. member has suggested something that is absolutely not the case. There has been no discussion or commitment of any kind with respect to removing the cap on seniors' accommodation. Our minister has made that clear. We are going to do what we need to do to ensure that we have a viable and transparent and real dialogue with Albertans about what the future of continuing care will be. What this hon. member has said is absolutely not the case.

The Deputy Speaker: The hon. Member for Vermilion-Lloydminster, followed by the hon. Member for Calgary-Mountain View.

Century Farm and Ranch Award

Mr. Snelgrove: Thank you, Mr. Speaker. Many years ago the Alberta government introduced a program to recognize our centennial farm families, families that had stayed on their homestead for over a hundred years. It's an incredibly important program, and it's very much appreciated by those pioneers. There are other institutions in Alberta that have contributed a great deal to the farm industry in Alberta. Several of them are reaching or going to attain their hundred-year status also, those being Olds, Fairview, and Lakeland College in Vermilion-Lloydminster. So my question today will be to the minister of agriculture. Would he consider adjusting or maybe amending the program so that these institutions who don't quite qualify under the current criteria would be eligible to receive the same recognition from the province as our farm families?

The Deputy Speaker: The hon. Minister of Agriculture and Rural Development.

Mr. Berger: Thank you, Mr. Speaker. I'd like to thank that hon. member not only for his question but for his years of service to his constituency and to our province.

Mr. Speaker, I'm pleased to say that that hon. member brought this forward to me as a question, and I've been working on that. I'd like to announce here today that we have instituted a program similar to the Century farm award, and as they hit their 100th anniversary, we will be awarding those three agricultural colleges bronze plaques commemorating that event.

The Deputy Speaker: The hon. member.

Mr. Snelgrove: Thank you. Thank you, Mr. Minister. The Lakeland College demonstration farm actually achieved its hundred years last year.

From the sound in here today I think you would appreciate that there may be an election called soon, so my question to the minister would be: how soon can we proceed with the paperwork and the process required to purchase and present these plaques?

The Deputy Speaker: The hon. minister.

Mr. Berger: Thank you again, Mr. Speaker. We have instituted the program, so this year we will present the plaque to Lakeland College. Next year the Olds College will celebrate its 100th anniversary.

I want to congratulate all of these colleges for their production of thousands of good agricultural producers across our province. These are the people that provide the food for Albertans and millions of other people around the world on a daily basis.

2:10

Mr. Snelgrove: Mr. Speaker, as we had the opportunity and the privilege to present these plaques, we heard some incredible stories from these pioneers. My next supplemental to the minister would be: would he consider making available to MLAs or people in his department the opportunity to film and record some of these stories so they can take their rightful place in the archives of Alberta?

Mr. Berger: Mr. Speaker, that's a wonderful suggestion. I think it's something that we need to do, and I would make that part of the presentation, that we have those stories put on the record and kept in archives as well.

Thank you to the member.

The Deputy Speaker: The hon. Member for Calgary-Mountain View, followed by the hon. Member for Bonnyville-Cold Lake.

Edith Cavell Continuing Care Centre Collective Bargaining

Dr. Swann: Thank you, Mr. Speaker. My questions are for the Human Services minister. For the third time in a year this government has flexed its muscles and intervened in a legitimate bargaining process between workers who feed and care for our seniors and a private seniors' care operator, the Lethbridge Edith Cavell Care Centre. Despite these centres receiving public dollars to allow staff salaries equal to those at Alberta Health, the employer has refused to give salaries equal to those in Alberta Health Services. Surely dissatisfied staff and frequent turnovers do not serve seniors' interests. Why is the minister repeatedly disrespecting the bargaining process and the nursing and support staff?

Mr. Hancock: Mr. Speaker, always in life there are value choices that people have to make. In this particular circumstance I choose to stand on the side of the people who will be harmed by labour action. The evidence is clear that moving frail seniors is not in their best interests, and if there's not a good plan in place to take care of those seniors in the event of strike action, that's exactly what a dispute inquiry board is intended for.

Dr. Swann: Well, Mr. Speaker, is the minister aware of such a wage disparity between employees in this institution and Alberta Health Services?

Mr. Hancock: Mr. Speaker, it's neither appropriate nor my role to interfere with the collective bargaining process in terms of how they come to their wages, only to ensure that third parties are not inappropriately affected. By putting in place a dispute inquiry board, the parties get to continue to discuss the wage levels and then reach a contract. That process will continue and, hopefully, will reach an appropriate conclusion negotiated between the two parties. In the meantime I refuse to allow frail and elderly seniors to be affected by the labour dispute.

Dr. Swann: New workers come in during strikes, Mr. Speaker.

Coming just before an election call, this clearly shows that this government will do anything to hide uncomfortable issues. How many more can we expect of these ham-fisted interventions in established labour processes?

Mr. Hancock: The hon. member can expect no ham-fisted interventions because there haven't been and there will not be ham-fisted interventions. The type of intervention we have is looking very carefully at the situation to determine whether third parties will be inappropriately affected, where their lives would be at risk, where their health would be at risk. That's what we do, and that's why there are appropriate processes like dispute inquiry boards to be put in place. I'm not aware at the moment of any other circumstances where a strike vote is imminent or has been taken, but one has to look at each situation on its own merits to determine whether innocent third parties will be harmed or affected before a decision of that nature can be made.

The Deputy Speaker: The hon. Member for Bonnyville-Cold Lake, followed by the hon. Member for Calgary-Buffalo.

Productivity Alberta

Mrs. Leskiw: Thank you, Mr. Speaker. Alberta businesses are an important part of the continued growth of our economy. My first question is to the President of Treasury Board and Enterprise. What is the government doing to help our businesses become more competitive and efficient?

The Deputy Speaker: The hon. minister.

Mr. Horner: Well, thank you, Mr. Speaker. Yesterday morning I was involved in a joint federal-provincial announcement at Tyco Thermal Controls regarding Productivity Alberta. Productivity Alberta is a not-for-profit corporation that works closely with businesses to help them increase efficiency and to help promote investment and attraction and best practices in our province.

In response to the recommendations that were made by the Alberta Competitiveness Council, the government of Alberta – I announced this yesterday – is providing $7.3 million to support the work of Productivity Alberta over the next three years. As well, our federal colleagues contributed $3 million through Western Economic Diversification because they believe in it, too.

Mrs. Leskiw: Mr. Speaker, my next question is to the same minister. Can you elaborate on the work that Productivity Alberta does? [interjections]

Mr. Horner: Mr. Speaker, I know the hon. members from the Wildrose Alliance don't like productivity, but we're going to work on it.

Mr. Speaker, Productivity Alberta's board includes senior leaders from Alberta's most innovative production companies such as Tyco. They work with industries throughout Alberta to assess their business practices, to explore ways that they can become more effective and efficient and profitable and productive. Those advisers work one-on-one with the companies to see where they might be able to add some value into what they're doing and help link businesspeople with the information and the resources. That's improving energy efficiency. That's improving a number of areas in their business.

Mrs. Leskiw: My last question is to the same minister. Funding is one thing, but concrete results are another. You say that they are making a difference. Can you give specific examples of Productivity Alberta's success?

Mr. Horner: Well, Mr. Speaker, let me tell you about McLevin Industries. McLevin is based in Red Deer. It's a family-run steel fabrication business, and many of their business practices were done manually and were very time consuming. After working with Productivity Alberta, what they've been able to achieve is a new software system. They've been able to improve their inventory tracking, their production on the floor.

Mr. Speaker, when you have productive small enterprises, you're going to attract more investment. You're going to build more economy. You're going to create a bigger pie. That's how this province is going to grow, by us helping small businesses be profitable.

The Deputy Speaker: The hon. Member for Calgary-Buffalo, followed by the hon. Member for Edmonton-Ellerslie.

Home-schooling

Mr. Hehr: Thank you, Mr. Speaker. Nothing a society does is more important than educating its children, but this government is caving in to a very noisy minority who would like to see Alberta's education system fragmented into tiny bits and have the taxpayer cover the costs. To the Minister of Education: given the direction the government is going with public education, what is to prevent the public funding of a school of Scientology or Druids or a school for witches and Wiccans?

Mr. Lukaszuk: Well, Mr. Speaker, I won't engage in that kind of dialogue because people in Alberta, Albertans, make choices on the education of their children, and I would never compare any parent who is choosing to home-school their child to being involved in witchcraft or whatever the member may be suggesting. Let me tell you one thing that is important. We have a piece of legislation on this floor that will be amazing for more than 600,000 children in this province, that will unleash 21st century education, that will curb bullying, and the list goes on and on. It would be a shame to not pass this legislation for the benefit of our kids.

Mr. Hehr: Given that yesterday the minister stated that there is nothing more important to him than giving parents "choice and the ability to teach what they want, when they want, and where they want without any interference from government," is the minister comfortable with parents teaching that homosexuality is a sin or that evolution is not real?

Mr. Lukaszuk: Mr. Speaker, I do find it somewhat troubling that the member would actually go on record and suggest that parents are into witchcraft at home or teaching kids some horrible things. As a matter of fact, as a parent I'll tell you that when I come home . . . [interjections] Mr. Speaker, I would appreciate the courtesy of being able to answer the question.

The Deputy Speaker: The minister has the floor.

The hon. member.

Mr. Hehr: I'd like to ask the minister directly about his apparent lapses or his delving into teachings at home. Is the minister comfortable with parents teaching at home, when they're teaching the education curriculum, teaching things like homosexuality being a sin or that evolution is not real?

Mr. Lukaszuk: Please, listen to the answer. I am comfortable with the fact that parents have the right of teaching their children and passing on their family values, their religious beliefs, and their morality. This is what we do as parents. Whether my daughter comes from a public school or whether she stays at home all day long, I still take responsibility for teaching her what is right and what is wrong, so that aspect has nothing to do with home-schooling. That is what we all as parents have the primary right to do, and we continue doing that.

The Deputy Speaker: The hon. Member for Edmonton-Ellerslie, followed by the hon. Member for Edmonton-Centre.

2:20

Provincial Tax Policy

Mr. Bhardwaj: Thank you very much, Mr. Speaker. My questions are to the Minister of Finance. Albertans enjoy the lowest overall tax regime among all provinces. However, my constituents are concerned whether the upcoming fiscal framework review will include an increase in taxes.

Mr. Liepert: Well, Mr. Speaker, I think it's understandable why this hon. member's constituents might be a little confused because we do have a party out there that's advocating for higher taxes, and they advocate in this House on a regular basis. We also have another group of individuals that sort of masquerades as a party that is spreading rumours out there that there's going to be a tax increase. So I'm not surprised that his constituents are confused. But Budget 2012 clearly states that there are no new taxes this year, next year, or the year after.

The Deputy Speaker: The hon. member.

Mr. Bhardwaj: Thank you very much, Mr. Speaker. My next question is to the same minister. Some are arguing that raising taxes would be a quick way to produce additional revenues for the province. Is the minister considering raising taxes in some areas to increase government revenue?

Mr. Liepert: Mr. Speaker, as I said earlier, I know that there is one party – and then, of course, there's another party way over there with a couple of members – that advocated that we increase royalties a few years ago. A number of Albertans were also asking that. We did that, and it didn't work very well, so what we need to do is focus on creating a bigger economic pie instead of trying to find different ways to carve up the existing pie.

The Deputy Speaker: The hon. member.

Mr. Bhardwaj: Thank you, Mr. Speaker. My final supplemental is regarding taxation on Alberta businesses. To the same minister. Other provinces are lowering their tax regime for businesses so that their rate is below Alberta's. What is Alberta's response to their efforts?

Mr. Liepert: Mr. Speaker, this is not a race to the bottom to see who can have the lowest tax regime. What it is, really, is to ensure that there's a fair tax regime that . . . [interjections]

The Deputy Speaker: The minister has the floor.

Mr. Liepert: You're darn right I do, Mr. Speaker.

This is ensuring that we have a fair tax system that encourages investment. Let me give you a figure that just happened to be released today by the Royal Bank of Canada. This shows that we have the right taxation system, Mr. Speaker, because last year, 2011, 99,000 jobs were created in Alberta, more than half – more than half – of what was created in all of Canada.

The Deputy Speaker: The hon. Member for Edmonton-Centre, followed by the hon. Member for Lesser Slave Lake.

Caribou Habitat Protection

Ms Blakeman: Thanks very much, Mr. Speaker. Recently I asked why this government took first place as the single biggest killer of bears in the province. Now I have to ask why it is fighting for the title of the single biggest killer of wolves. Instead of doing what every expert knows needs to be done to save the caribou, which is to protect its habitat, this government employs the antiquated policy of murdering wolves to slow the caribou population decline. To the Minister of SRD: why does the minister consider the slaughter of wolves and bears an acceptable option when it is clear that habitat destruction is the problem?

Mr. Oberle: Mr. Speaker, first of all, we've spoken about the very unfortunate killing of bears, and I want to make sure that Albertans understand that that has absolutely nothing whatsoever to do with caribou. The unfortunate interaction of bears and humans and the interests of protecting public safety is what caused the unfortunate shooting of bears last year. As the hon. member knows, I've already asked for a review of the policy governing camp allocation and how much my department monitors camps to make sure it can't happen again.

The Deputy Speaker: The hon. member.

Ms Blakeman: Thanks very much. Well, the minister knows that culls are a short-term Band-Aid solution which doesn't address the fact that the caribou have nowhere to go and nowhere to live. How is this government going to address the real problem, that the caribou are being pushed out by development?

Mr. Oberle: Mr. Speaker, actually, I would agree with the hon. member that the culling, or the control, of wolves is a short-term solution and not likely to be successful in the long term. But given the current circumstance of my being unable to plunk new habitat on the landscape, the wolf program will be an effective short-term solution, and it will only be used as a short-term solution.

Ms Blakeman: Well, back to the same minister. I'm not hearing a long-term solution, which has to be working with the oil and gas sector to make sure that there are corridors to allow the caribou to move about and find a new habitat. All I hear is that you won't use the cull unless you have to. What are you actually doing to fix this problem long term, Mr. Minister?

Mr. Oberle: Mr. Speaker, the member hasn't been around for the last few years, apparently, to listen to things like the land-use strategy, which sets aside new protected areas for caribou, talks about connectivity on the landscape. More to come.

I don't know why that member insists on this American style of questioning, but it's not fruitful.

The Deputy Speaker: The hon. Member for Lesser Slave Lake, followed by the hon. Member for Calgary-Glenmore.

First Nations Education

Ms Calahasen: Thank you, Mr. Speaker. One of the components of the Minister of Education's 10-point plan includes supporting First Nations education. More often than not, First Nations schools operate in isolation without the necessary educational supports that are available to provincially funded schools. This has affected the learning environment and ultimately the achievement of First Nations students. First Nations students are Albertans, and they should receive the same top-notch education as other Albertans. My question is to the Minister of Education. What in the world are you doing to change this situation to ensure that First Nations students get a top-notch education?

Mr. Lukaszuk: Mr. Speaker, the hon. member is definitely right, frankly. Not only in Alberta but throughout our entire dominion what has been done in however good faith for the last 150 years simply has not worked. Our aboriginal population deserves the education that we all expect our children to receive in Canada and particularly in Alberta. That is why today in the gallery we have a group of leaders, education leaders, both chiefs of local First Nations and educators who are willing to look outside the proverbial box and start delivering education to aboriginal kids in a way that is collaborative and will yield results.

Ms Calahasen: To the same minister, then: how soon will these supports become available to the First Nations schools in that area, especially in the constituency of Lesser Slave Lake?

Mr. Lukaszuk: Mr. Speaker, starting now. These leaders that I referred to have signed an agreement right now. As a matter of fact, our federal minister of aboriginal affairs, Minister Duncan, and I are willing and are interested in assisting in making sure that this collaboration and this agreement is a successful one. We will be lending our educational resources; the federal government will be lending their federal aboriginal relations resources. We know we have a group of aboriginal and education leaders who are all in collaboration and will make sure that we turn this agreement into a success.

Ms Calahasen: Mr. Speaker, given the fact that agreements like this are so important, no matter what happens, to ensure that aboriginal students get the same kind of education as other Albertans, to the minister again: with this type of agreement how is it going to impact other First Nations communities in this province?

Mr. Lukaszuk: I certainly hope that First Nations and other colleagues in provincial governments and elsewhere are looking at this model. This is, indeed, innovative, and it shows that when you have three orders of government together with a school board working together and making children, and children only, their priority, good things can happen. There is no reason why aboriginal children cannot benefit from the same educational and economic benefit that we expect the rest of our children in Canada to benefit from.

The Deputy Speaker: The hon. Member for Calgary-Glenmore, followed by the hon. Member for Calgary McCall.

School Council Teleconference Remarks (continued)

Mr. Hinman: Thank you, Mr. Speaker. The bullying, the intimidation, the cover-ups, and the culture of corruption continues to expose itself every day. Billions handed out for untendered power lines experts say we don't need. Doctors have been bullied and intimidated. Grimshaw was told to keep quiet if they wanted school repairs. Now, today, we have a Minister of Education who has been really itching to tell the parents in Airdrie that the best way to get the desperately needed school portables is to have an MLA who doesn't oppose him. Really. This culture of corruption continues day in and day out. Now, when will this Premier show some real-life leadership and ask this minister to retire?

The Deputy Speaker: The hon. President of Treasury Board.

Mr. Horner: Thank you, Mr. Speaker. The Premier has answered this question already in the House. I would just add that the MLA in question has obviously been very opposed to us looking at alternative financing for things like schools and like hospitals and other things. Their party has already said that they're going to take $2 billion out of their phantom budget. That would mean that there would be no schools, no hospitals built in some areas around the province.

Mr. Hinman: That's absolutely offensive. This is about school portables, not on running government debt.

Is the Minister of Education going to hide behind the complicit Premier, who continues to deny to Albertans that a rampant culture of bullying and economic intimidation exists, or is he actually going to do the honourable thing and follow the example of the hon. Member for Dunvegan-Central Peace and hand in his resignation today? Now. Stand up, and hand it in now.

2:30

Mr. Lukaszuk: Mr. Speaker, I can assure you of one thing that I will do. I will stop telling the truth about them if they stop telling the lies about me.

Mr. Hinman: And this guy talks about bullying. He's an embarrassment to the whole school system.

Given the importance of leading by example for our children, especially when it comes to bullying, and given that this minister accepted the broadened definition of bullying to not just students but to everyone included in the school system and given that this minister refuses to do the honourable thing and hand in his resignation for his disgusting and unacceptable comments, Madam Premier, fire this bullying minister today.

Mr. Lukaszuk: Mr. Speaker, just listen to the language and look at the demeanour, and that tells you everything. It is unfortunate that an elected member of this Legislature cannot talk with parents or Albertans, actually musing about different ways of building schools and delivering schools today for kids that actually need them today and not later. Look at how upset it makes them. Look at what foul language we have to listen to simply by introducing an innovative idea.

Mr. Speaker, I won't stop doing that. I will continue doing that, and I will make sure that it comes to fruition so that our kids get the schools today that they need today.

The Deputy Speaker: The hon. Member for Calgary-McCall, followed by the hon. Member for Calgary-North Hill.

Trucking Safety Regulations

Mr. Kang: Thank you, Mr. Speaker. Last year Alberta Transportation introduced a commercial driver's abstract to include information on drivers' nonmoving safety violations like badly secured loads and mechanical problems. Now I'm hearing complaints from truck drivers that the system is unfair because it punishes the drivers for the owners' mistakes. To the Minister of Transportation: why do safety violations that are not the drivers' fault, such as broken safety belts, show up on the drivers' commercial abstracts and not on the company's record?

The Deputy Speaker: The hon. Minister of Transportation.

Mr. Danyluk: Thank you very much, Mr. Speaker. I think I need to make it very clear that the safety of our highways is the primary focus and direction of our ministry, whether it's building roads, whether it's looking at the traffic counts and seeing how much traffic is on the highways, whether it's distracted driving, whether it's impaired driving, or whether it's the safety of the vehicles or trucks that individuals drive. It is about the safety of our roads, and it is about the safety of the equipment that is on our roads. We will continue to do that. We have looked at many different, innovative ways of how we can work with companies to ensure that companies self-police the fleets that they have. It is working very well.

Mr. Kang: Well, Mr. Speaker, if it's working very well, then drivers would not be complaining to us here.

To the minister again: given that a U.S. investigation recently found that thousands of freighting companies were breaking the rules by forcing drivers to be on the road for longer hours, what is your department doing to make sure that companies are following safe practices?

Mr. Danyluk: Mr. Speaker, the hon. member does make a point. When we look at the length of time that drivers are allowed to be on the road in Alberta and on a national basis, the national basis allows drivers to be on the road for an accumulated amount of 13 hours. In Alberta we have 14 hours. We try to accommodate the oil patch, and we try to accommodate the individuals that are driving in our area, but at the same time we very much have to look at the safety for the rest of the people that are on the roads.

The Deputy Speaker: The hon. member.

Mr. Kang: Thank you, Mr. Speaker. To the same minister again: given that Albertans travelling on highways want to know trucking companies' safety records, will your department consider posting company safety records online like AHS posts restaurant health inspections?

Mr. Danyluk: You know, Mr. Speaker, I'm not exactly sure of the extent of the comments of the hon. member, but he definitely got my attention, and I'd be willing to talk to him about it because I'm not exactly sure where he's going.

Mr. Speaker, I do want to say to you that the trucking industry and the Alberta Motor Transport Association work very hard to ensure the safety of other people on the roads and the safety of their drivers. Anything that we can do to encourage that safety, anything that we can do to enhance safety inspections for vehicles, that would address problems before they happen, and to do testing, we're going to do. So I would very gladly meet with the hon. member.

The Deputy Speaker: The hon. Member for Calgary-North Hill, followed by the hon. Member for Calgary-Varsity.

Student Finance System

Mr. Fawcett: Thank you very much, Mr. Speaker. We all know that when you have a prosperous and booming economy like we do here in this province, there are a number of challenges that go with it. Certainly, meeting our skilled labour shortages is one of them. My questions are to the Minister of Advanced Education and Technology. We put a lot of effort into getting students into our universities, making sure that they can afford them, building the appropriate spaces, but what are we doing to make sure that when they've completed, they stay and work here in Alberta?

The Deputy Speaker: The hon. Minister of Advanced Education and Technology.

Mr. Weadick: Thank you, Mr. Speaker. That is a good question. It is a challenge as we see that we're going to have some labour shortages across the province, so keeping our brightest and best here is so critically important. First off, to attract students here, we have one of the finest postsecondary systems and great student supports and also consistent three-year funding for our postsecondaries, which provides the kind of stabilities that students want to see. The other thing is that we have some of the best communities to live in and some of the best workplaces to work in in the country, so this attracts and keeps students in the province. We're also working to ensure that students have the specific kind of training that they need.

The Deputy Speaker: The hon. member.

Mr. Fawcett: Thank you very much, Mr. Speaker. I've heard a number of students indicate over the last little bit that a number of students are leaving because other jurisdictions are providing attractive incentive programs. My first supplemental to the same minister: what is he doing about this? You know, grants are fine, but what else can be done to make sure that they stay here?

The Deputy Speaker: The hon. minister.

Mr. Weadick: Thank you, Mr. Speaker. We have made some significant changes to our student finance programs. We've made it easier for students to get involved by removing parental requirements. We've created a flat contribution of $1,500 in lieu of earnings. No longer do students have to spend their RRSPs prior to getting an education. We've created a new and unique program, which is our retention grants, which will allow us to give students that stay in this province in selected fields grants for staying here that will help pay off their loans.

The Deputy Speaker: The hon. member.

Mr. Fawcett: Thank you very much, Mr. Speaker. My final supplemental is to the same minister. We know that the future of our economy is a knowledge-based economy, so what is the minister doing to attract more graduate students here to this province?

Mr. Weadick: Well, Mr. Speaker, actually, attracting the brightest and best graduate students is one of those challenges that we do face, and we're working very closely with all of our universities to try to attract the brightest and best grad students. You may not know it, but Alberta has some of the lowest graduate student tuitions in this country. They are significantly lower than other provinces. We just recently changed our student finance so that graduate students that are studying part-time can access student finance so that they can gain the necessary funding they need to be able to come here and work. We also are looking at jobs and opportunities for graduate students to work and gain experience while they're here.

The Deputy Speaker: The hon. Member for Calgary-Varsity, followed by the hon. Member for Strathcona.

Water Management

Mr. Chase: Thank you, Mr. Speaker. For years this sorry government has rejected the scientific, evidence-based, peer-reviewed research of Alberta's leading water quality expert, Dr. David Schindler. Schindler, who has chastised the province over its water mismanagement from the Athabasca in the north to the Oldman in the south has recently been exonerated and embraced in the hypocritical hope that his credibility would make up for this government's lack thereof. To the Premier: having finally recognized Schindler's credentials, why aren't you immediately implementing his water protection strategies?

Dr. Morton: Mr. Speaker, the Minister of Environment and Water has met with Dr. Schindler and is discussing the best way to proceed to respond to the comments he's made and, in fact, does have a monitoring program under review.

Mr. Chase: It's actually time to stop monitoring and to start fixing.

Why, despite Schindler's warnings, are you allowing over half of the Castle's meagre forest to be uprooted, damaging the watershed on which all downstream users from Beaver Mines to Lethbridge and all the way to Medicine Hat are dependent?

2:40

The Deputy Speaker: The hon. Minister of Sustainable Resource Development.

Mr. Oberle: Mr. Speaker, thank you. The situation in the Castle is, in fact, that we not only incorporated the watersheds in the planning of the harvest there, but we've been monitoring, and they show that the watersheds are, in fact, extremely healthy. The modelling that we've done, projecting harvesting forward, by an independent body at the University of Alberta has actually predicted that there will be absolutely no measurable effect on the watershed.

The Deputy Speaker: The hon. member.

Mr. Chase: Thank you. Again to the Minister of SRD: given the moratorium on issuing water licences in our southern watershed, will you table the studies which indicate that clear-cutting in the Castle and Bragg Creek areas is economically and environmentally sustainable with negligible negative impact on the rapidly approaching 2 million adversely affected southern citizens of this province? Show us the evidence. Table it.

Mr. Oberle: Mr. Speaker, that hon. member clearly wants to revisit the land-use question in this province. At the moment the Castle harvesting and, in fact, all of our forest harvesting is the result of a decision taken by previous governments. We have the land-use decision open right now in the South Saskatchewan, and then there will be the North Saskatchewan, and then there will be the upper Athabasca, and then there will be the upper Peace. All of those land-use decisions are open for revisiting, so I invite those hon. members to participate.

I would point out that if they wish to indulge in their dastardly plan to tax corporations, first you have to have corporations.

The Deputy Speaker: Hon. members, before we go further, I just want to recognize some news here. The hon. Member for Rocky Mountain House and the hon. Member for Lesser Slave Lake are celebrating their 23rd year in the Assembly today.

There were two points of order raised during question period, so I will deal with those after.

Notices of Motions

The Deputy Speaker: The hon. Member for Airdrie-Chestermere.

Mr. Anderson: Thank you, Mr. Speaker. Pursuant to Standing Order 15 I would like to circulate a copy of a motion for a point of privilege at this time. I'll let it circulate first, and then I'll read it into the record.

Tabling Returns and Reports

The Deputy Speaker: The hon. Minister of Culture and Community Services.

Mrs. Klimchuk: Thank you, Mr. Speaker. Today I'm tabling five copies of correspondence to the MLAs for Edmonton-Centre, Edmonton-Strathcona, and Calgary-Fish Creek as well as the written responses to questions from consideration of the main estimates for the Ministry of Culture and Community Services that took place on the evening of February 22, 2012.

The Deputy Speaker: Hon. Member for Edmonton-Strathcona, do you have some tablings?

Ms. Notley: Yes. Thank you, Mr. Speaker. I have several tablings, actually. I have the appropriate number of copies of a letter from Wanda Ziober of Sherwood Park. She writes: "Thank you for your concern in our energy bills. Please find mine as it has doubled." Her February 2012 bill for electricity was $503.50.

I also have the appropriate number of copies of a bill and an e-mail from Cindy and Gilles Sergerie of Okotoks. They said that they have "hopes that something can be done about this burden placed on the residents of Alberta." Their January 2012 bill was $593.47.

I have a note from Corey Myer of Chestermere, who sent us an e-mail where he said, "Pretty soon we might as well get out the candles and sit in the dark." His bill for January 2012 was $505.14.

I have the appropriate number of copies of an e-mail and a power bill from Jim and Sharon Bleaney of Calgary. Jim wrote: "I . . . truly believe deregulation has done nothing for the majority of us . . . it was designed for 20% of the customers who purchase 80% of the power." Their electricity charges for February 2012 were $206.42.

Ben Biro of Athabasca sent his EPCOR bill for January 2012 in the amount of $446.41, and I'm tabling the appropriate number of copies of his letter, which says: "I feel sorry for those on fixed incomes. This for me has been devastating."

Mike Shkrobot's bill for February 2012 was $1,066.87. I have the appropriate number of copies of that.

I have the appropriate number of copies of a bill from Andrew Spisak of Edmonton. He had an EPCOR bill for January 2012 in the amount of $439.80.

I have a bill and a note from Walter Kostyniuk of Wabamun, who's a senior citizen who's unable to pay his power bills in full now. His electricity charges for January 2012 were $199.30.

Reuben Coleman of Athabasca sent us a bill from February 2012 in the amount of $178.55.

Marvin Sereadiak of Edmonton sent us his EPCOR bill for February 2012. His electricity alone in that month cost him $160.72.

Leighton Thompson of Calgary sent us his bill for January 2012 where his electricity charges were $206.59.

Edwin Matthews of Forty Mile county sent us his February 2012 bill in the amount of $924.12.

We also received an EPCOR bill from S. Erhardt of Edmonton, whose electricity energy costs for February 2012 were $173.54.

Lawrence Berland of Lac La Biche sent us his North Parkland Power bill from January 2012, and the total was $342.81.

Kevin Nutt of Pickardville sent us his January 2012 bill in the amount of $662.95.

I'll leave it at that for the moment, Mr. Speaker.

The Deputy Speaker: The hon. Member for Calgary-Mountain View.

Dr. Swann: Thanks, Mr. Speaker. I'm going to table from 10 individuals, with the appropriate number of copies, who are very concerned about the lack of treatment, lack of resources for those with mental illness due to cutbacks in beds, staffing, funding, and resources for appropriate programming and community housing, placing everyone at risk, from front-end workers such as police and mental health workers to the community at large, and, more importantly, violating the Charter of Rights for the mentally ill by warehousing them in prison systems without proper treatment.

The Deputy Speaker: Hon. member, please, briefly with the tabling.

Dr. Swann: Thank you.

The Deputy Speaker: Hon. Member for Fort McMurray-Wood Buffalo, you wish to table?

Mr. Boutilier: Thank you very much, Mr. Speaker. I have a letter from an Albertan from Daysland, Deb Kirk. Deb is with the Concerned Neighbours in Partnership. Of course, they are very concerned relative to the issue of property landowner rights and democratic rights that they believe have clearly not been represented by this government. They're asking for the repeal of Bill 19; as well as Bill 23, the amending portion; the Alberta Land Stewardship Act; and its amending Bill 10; as well as the Electric Statutes Amendment Act, Bill 50; and also the carbon capture and storage bill, Bill 24. She is submitting these names – and I might add that there are 387 – for restoring property and democratic rights of Alberta landowners.

The Deputy Speaker: The hon. Member for Calgary-Varsity.

Mr. Chase: Thank you, Mr. Speaker. I am tabling a further 20 letters, out of the hundreds I've received, from the following individuals who are concerned about the proposed logging in the west Bragg Creek area. They are requesting a complete, facilitated, and accessible public consultation: Sol Castro, Peter Baltais, Dr. David Rival, Scott Diehl and family, Cody Mitchell, Raemie Brown, Nancy Brophy, Colette Novicki, Kevin Griffiths, Mike McKinney, Daryl Ann Dorosz, Sarah Robison, Carole Richards, Peta Stuart, Kendall Selk, Craig Adolph, Trace Dyfolt, Sherman Mah, Jackie Boyd, and Steven John Dueck.

Thank you, Mr. Speaker.

Tablings to the Clerk

The Clerk: I wish to advise the House that the following documents were deposited with the office of the Clerk. On behalf of the hon. Mr. Liepert, Minister of Finance, pursuant to the provincial judges and masters in chambers registered and unregistered pension plans regulation Provincial Judges and Masters in Chambers Registered and Unregistered Pension Plans annual report for the year ended March 31, 2011.

Pursuant to the Members of the Legislative Assembly Pension

Plan Act the Members of the Legislative Assembly Pension Plan annual report for the year ended March 31, 2011.

The Deputy Speaker: Hon. members, may we revert briefly to Introduction of Guests?

[Unanimous consent granted]

2:50

Introduction of Guests

(continued)

The Deputy Speaker: The hon. Minister of Health and Wellness.

Mr. Horne: Thank you very much, Mr. Speaker, and thank you to my colleagues. I'm very pleased and very proud to introduce to you and through you today to all members six individuals who work in the health policy and service standards division of Alberta Health and Wellness. This group plays a very important role in all areas of planning for our health care system, and their skills and leadership and expertise contribute significantly to strengthening policy capacity within my ministry. Here with us today are Afiba Aku, Shaughnessy Fulawka, Tamara Kulyk, Claire Neeland, Chrissy Searle, and Richard Thorne. I'd ask them to please rise and receive a very warm welcome from the Assembly.

The Deputy Speaker: The hon. Leader of the Official Opposition.

Dr. Sherman: Thank you, Mr. Speaker. I have two introductions. One is a group of three truly amazing women: one who gave birth to me, one who puts up with me, and one who gave birth to the woman who puts up with me. Santosh Sherman is my mother of 46 years. She came to this country as a young immigrant woman with three children. She was pregnant. She has worked hard, tirelessly, to feed me and my brothers, to give us hope, to encourage us when our spirits were dashed. Interestingly enough, she actually sewed the uniforms for the Edmonton Oilers when we were the city of champions. I'd like my mother to rise and receive the traditional warm welcome of the Assembly. This is also the first anniversary of our father's passing, when God took our father. Thank you, Mom.

I would also like to introduce you to Sharon McCrary, who is my life partner, who has helped me go through the past few years. You know, we've had good times and bad times here in the Legislature. At the end of the day she is the rock and the foundation of my life to help me serve Albertans. Sharon, thank you so much for everything that you do for me so that I can serve Albertans. Another truly amazing woman is Rita McCrary. Rita is Sharon's mother. Rita, I thank you so much for raising such a wonderful daughter. I couldn't do what I do without her. Thank you to all three of these fabulous woman. Please give them the traditional warm welcome of the Assembly.

Mr. Speaker, I also met a wonderful woman in the lobby of the Legislature. Her name is Margaret Saunter. Margaret is an advocate for seniors, and she's been fighting for better care for our seniors. Please give Margaret the traditional warm welcome of the Assembly as well.

Thank you.

The Deputy Speaker: We have two points of order raised by the Government House Leader. Point of order number one.

Point of Order

Referring to the Absence of Members

Mr. Hancock: Thank you, Mr. Speaker. During question period today – I think it was in the second set of questions, if I remember correctly – the Leader of the Opposition referred in his question to the absence of the Premier, basically a process that has been ongoing over the last few days. I think it appropriate under Beauchesne's 481(c) to remind the hon. member that referring to the presence or absence of a member in this House is not parliamentary.

There's a reason for that. It's not simply that we don't want to tell on each other. It's because we acknowledge the fact that as MLAs, as cabinet ministers, as the Premier we work very hard and we have lots of different duties. We engage in committee work, we travel the province, we meet with people, and it's not always possible for everybody to be in their chair at every moment of the day.

The Premier has acquitted herself remarkably since her election as leader of our party and since she was sworn in as Premier of this province, and it's entirely unseemly for these continuing references to absence. I would ask you to remind hon. members that under 481(c) of Beauchesne's referring to the presence or absence of a member is inappropriate.

Now, there are appropriate times when you can refer to the absence of a member, Mr. Speaker. The leader of the Wildrose Alliance had an opportunity to run for election, chose not to, and is therefore not in this House. That's an appropriate time to refer to absence.

But with respect to members of the House we are elected to serve in this House. We're called to be here when the Legislature is in session, but it's also understood that there are times when members are absent, and it's unparliamentary to refer to their absence.

The Deputy Speaker: The hon. Member for Edmonton-Centre on the point of order.

Ms Blakeman: Yes, Mr. Speaker, on the point of order. Thank you very much to the Government House Leader. Yes, indeed, he has given the correct citation under 481(c) referring to the presence or absence of specific members. But as I go through a number of other citations, the House of Commons, page 614, for starters, it is intended to be the observation of the presence or absence of members currently, not whether they were here last week or three months ago. It's meant to be the current absence because, as the Government House Leader has said, they could be out of the room at this moment for any given reason, including some rather embarrassing personal ones, and that's just not fair. We don't know why they're not here.

More to the point here, Mr. Speaker, is that the leader was extemporizing off of the questions that he had in front of him and was referring specifically to the absence of the leader of the government in education debates, which took place in Calgary in the middle of February and in Edmonton on March 17 and 12. She, in fact, ended up being the only leader of a political party that did not participate in those educational forums, and that is what he was referring to.

We do not have the benefit of the Blues – I don't; I don't think the Government House Leader does either – but if it sounded like he was referring to a current presence or absence, then I would respectfully withdraw those comments. Clearly, that's not what he intended. He wanted to specifically address the absence of the Premier at the debates, of which there have now been three opportunities for her to appear and to debate the education policy, which is of such interest to everyone in Alberta right now and, as the Premier says, of such interest to her. It was very puzzling as to why she forewent any opportunity to have attended these three different debates. She was in fact invited to participate in them.

Thank you very much, Mr. Speaker.

The Deputy Speaker: On the point of order, the hon. Member for Calgary-Glenmore.

Mr. Hinman: I have to stand up because generally this House leader tries to articulate, and I don't know whether it was because I was engaged in two conversations, but if I heard him correctly, he was trying to say, you know, where we can and can't talk about someone missing.

To bring up the leader of the Wildrose and say that she failed to run to be in this House is ridiculous. Maybe the Blues will later show, but that's what I thought he said. It's just remarkable how he's complaining about someone else talking about his leader, and then he turns around and, with hypocrisy, starts talking about other ones. I'm just amazed.

The Deputy Speaker: Any others?

The chair shall now make a ruling here. It's a relevant citation from the House leader, House of Commons Procedure and Practice, page 614: "Allusions to the presence or absence of a Member . . . are unacceptable." The same principle is stated in Beauchesne 481(c).

I heard the House leader of the Official Opposition mention something like: withdraw the comment if that's the case. I think that it has been clarified that we should never ever in this House call a member by name or allude to the member's absence.

Hon. member, let's do the second point of order.

3:00

Point of Order Parliamentary Language

Mr. Hancock: Thank you, Mr. Speaker. Again, earlier today in question period, this time during questions being raised by the Member for Airdrie-Chestermere, he used the language, if I caught it correctly – and I believe I'm quoting him – "introduce this Premier to the truth." Increasingly we have had a deterioration of the language of the House. We've started spiralling down in this House. I've been reluctant to raise points of order because it really just gives people another opportunity to vent themselves and doesn't have much of a useful purpose, but there are times when you actually have to intercede. The citation that I'd be referring to would start with 485(1) of Beauchesne's, and I also would refer to the Speaker's memo to us of January 27, 2012.

We have a fairly high calling here. Eighty-three members are elected to represent and serve the people of Alberta at any given time. That number will be increasing to 87, but it's still a very modest number of Albertans who have the privilege of serving this House. Part of the privilege of serving this House is the responsibility that goes with it to encourage public discourse, to bring people into the debate on public policy, to raise the level of discussion about what kind of a province we want to have, where we want to go, what kind of a place we want to leave for our children and grandchildren.

One of the things that has been one of the pieces that I have desperately wanted to achieve while I'm here is the raising, not the lowering but the raising, of the public appreciation for the role of elected representatives.

Mr. Hehr: You talked about Danielle Smith not running for election, and now you go on that rant.

Mr. Hancock: The hon. member says that I talked about Danielle Smith not running for election and that then I go on that rant. There is nothing wrong with pointing out . . . [interjections]

The Deputy Speaker: The hon. member has the floor.

Mr. Hancock: Mr. Speaker, there is nothing wrong with having a public debate and pointing out salient truths. One doesn't have to do it in a mean-spirited, nasty way. One doesn't have to profess to be Christian and then be un-Christian in their actions. One should carry their deportment in an appropriate way at all times. If we want the public to respect the work that we do as legislators, then we should be standing up for what we do as legislators, and we should be using parliamentary language.

Now, to get to the point, Mr. Speaker, "introduce this Premier to the truth" is no different than suggesting that she's lying. It's no different than using any one of these terms that have been ruled unparliamentary in the past – "it's the Premier that is not telling us the truth," "never tell the truth" – all of that twisting of language around truth and lies.

Mr. Speaker, we can do better than this. We can have honest discourse and disagreement. We can have fulsome disagreement on public policy without degrading the debate to the level where we're calling each other liars, using terms like "corruption," and bringing the level of discourse down to where nobody will want to participate.

The Deputy Speaker: The hon. Member for Airdrie-Chestermere on the point of order.

Mr. Anderson: Well, that was a stirring, stirring speech by the House leader. Unfortunately, as he correctly pointed out, what I said is that I would like to introduce the Premier to the truth on a matter. Now, I would like to introduce the Premier to the truth on what I think should be done in education. I should like to introduce her to the truth on what I think we should be doing with democracy. To somehow say that introducing the Premier to the truth is using unparliamentary language is absurd. What are we doing in here if it's not to introduce each other to each other's viewpoints on things and our different solutions for problems and so forth?

In the current situation we had some horrible remarks given by this Minister of Education to parents in Airdrie, threatening them – that's what it was, threatening them – specifically saying that if you want your two portables a little quicker, you go talk to your MLA and tell him not to give me any pressure in the House over different infrastructure funding models. This person here, who's the minister, has the audacity to say that, to threaten parents in my constituency and then turn it around . . .

The Deputy Speaker: Hon. member, on the point of order.

Mr. Anderson: Oh, absolutely.

I'm asking the Premier here to – I'm trying to introduce her to that truth. I'm not even talking about the Premier; I'm talking about this minister. I'm trying to introduce to her the truth about this minister, who has been threatening parents in my constituency. If that's not the point of question period, to ask her for her comments and her answers to what her minister and what members of her government are doing, then why do we even have question period? Obviously, I can introduce this Premier to the truth on this matter if I feel it's appropriate. It's within my right as an elected member of this Assembly.

Obviously, we would all like to raise the level of discourse. We would like over here, for example, Mr. Speaker, to actually get answers to the questions that we ask. We would actually like some answers. I asked three direct questions today of the Premier and got exactly zero answers, not the answers I wanted. I just didn't get an answer. She didn't even answer the question.

Again, I'm trying to introduce the Premier to the truth about this minister. How that can be spun to say that I was calling her a liar or something like that is a figment of this House leader's imagination.

The Deputy Speaker: Well, the chair heard both sides of the argument. There is a lot of clarification in there. I would just want to make all members aware that it is inappropriate to accuse another member of falsehoods, and that interpretation or hinting or whatever, directly or indirectly, should not be. It is inappropriate. Probably you well know, relevant to the citation, Standing Order 23(h), (i), and (j), unparliamentary language; House of Commons Procedure and Practice, pages 618 to 620; and Beauchesne's, paragraphs 485 to 492.

Now, as I heard all of that debate on the point of order, I just want to emphasize again that all of our members should be reminded that their language should be temperate, should be consistent with the long-standing tradition of respecting the House and the integrity of all of us. So tone down the wordings. Thank you.

The other matter that we have to deal with is a Standing Order 15 motion. The hon. Member for Airdrie-Chestermere.

Privilege

Obstructing a Member in Performance of Duty

Mr. Anderson: Thank you, Mr. Speaker. The motion in question is that pursuant to Standing Order 15 be it resolved that the ordinary business of the Legislative Assembly be adjourned to discuss a point of privilege; namely, that [the Minister of Education's] comments last night, March 19, on a conference call to educators to the effect that if the people of Airdrie want the school space they need, they should get their MLA to quit opposing the Education minister on the question of infrastructure in the House constitute a breach of privilege.

First, I'd like to lay out the facts, most of which are not in dispute because there is an audioclip, located on the Ministry of Education's website, where you can clearly hear what the Minister of Education said on the conference call – so this is not in dispute – in an answer to a question.

The minister was having a telephone conference call with educators, school board trustees, parent council members, and, I'm assuming, others across the province of Alberta last night. During the course of this call, after the minister's remarks, apparently there was an opportunity for some questions and answers from the audience listening. In Airdrie they were at a building, and around a telephone there were the following people. There was the president of the Airdrie Council of School Councils, Mr. Steve Goodall. There was the chair of the Nose Creek elementary school parent council, Mr. Gerry Papararo, and there were many others. There were several of our school trustees from Rocky View school division there and so forth.

Mr. Papararo, who, again, is the Nose Creek elementary parent council chair, asked a question into the conference call. It was simply this. He asked: Minister, we've had roughly 30 – he gave a number, whatever it was – portables announced by the Ministry of Education to be sent out to different areas of the province to deal with school overcrowding; in Airdrie the Rocky View school board requested two for Airdrie.

3:10

The Deputy Speaker: Hon. member, let's go back to the motion that constitutes the breach of privilege that you brought up.

Mr. Anderson: With due respect, I have to give this background or else you can't explain what happened, so I will do so. I will hasten my explanation, but you have to understand what happened in order to understand what the motion is about and how it interfered with me in the House, with my work as a member in this House.

He asked the question to the minister, saying: why did Airdrie not get these two portables that we asked for for our well-documented overcrowding of schools; because we didn't get these, is there anything we can do in order to speed up the process of getting these portables or getting these portables at all and, of course, getting our new schools? That is the question that Mr. Papararo asked, essentially. The exact quote can be taken from the minister's audio on the website.

Now, in response – and this is the exact quote – the Minister of Education said:

You know what? I'm really itching to say it, so I will, even though I know I shouldn't, but the first thing you can do is, actually, in Airdrie . . .

The first thing you can do in Airdrie in order to get your portables, in order to get your schools, because that's what the question was about.

. . . call your MLA and ask him not to oppose me in the Legislature every day on considering new ways for funding infrastructure.

Now, he went on after that. There were more questions from other people, and he answered them, apparently. About an hour later Mr. Papararo asked again: did you mean, when you said earlier – were you actually saying that if our MLA continues to speak out about this, we're not going to get our schools?

Mr. Lukaszuk: Read what he said.

Mr. Anderson: He wanted to clarify the comments. Let's put it that way. He wanted to clarify the comments.

Mr. Lukaszuk: Why don't you read the transcripts?

Mr. Anderson: I did read them. You know what? You should be so embarrassed at yourself right now; you should just shut your yap.

The Deputy Speaker: You have the floor. Speak through the chair. You have the floor. Explain through the chair.

Mr. Anderson: Incredible. Just absolutely unbelievable. This guy is just unbelievable.

The Deputy Speaker: Explain through the chair.

Mr. Anderson: Anyway, he can table the transcripts himself. You know, he's gotten so wound up here.

The Deputy Speaker: Explain through the chair.

Mr. Anderson: Okay.

Mr. Speaker, what happened is that after this occurred, he clarified and backtracked and tried to explain his comments: no, that's not at all what I meant; I hold Airdrie up as an example, et cetera, et cetera, et cetera. He backtracked about an hour later when asked again about it. Okay? We will give him that, that he did backtrack.

Mr. Hinman: His preamble said that he shouldn't say it.

Mr. Anderson: That's right.

As to the motion, in section 69 of Beauchesne's it says the following:

It is very important . . . to indicate that something can be inflammatory, can be disagreeable, can even be offensive, but it may not be a question of privilege unless the comment actually impinges upon the ability of Members of Parliament to do their job properly.

Now, it is very clear that this minister said in his comments – or it's certainly an interpretation of what he said by the person asking the question. Certainly, to that person it is very clear that one interpretation, a very clear interpretation of what he said, is that because I have been advocating in this House about the need for additional schools in Airdrie and because I have been constantly going at this . . . [interjection]

The Deputy Speaker: Hon. member, address the chair.

Mr. Anderson: How about the hon. member over there? Could I continue on? The House leader, the former Education minister, seems to want to get in on this, so I'm just checking.

Mr. Speaker, the fact of the matter is that it's a very clear interpretation of that, and you can see it from all of the different – just look at the e-mails, the Twitter comments, the blog comments. Just go through it all. Many people have interpreted that comment to mean that one of the reasons Airdrie did not receive those portables is because their MLA is in this House advocating very strongly for new schools and is opposed to going into debt in order to finance new schools – okay? – is because of my political position, because I'm arguing that, no, we shouldn't go into debt to fund new schools, we should pay as we go, we should pay for what we can afford, we should pay for only what we need and, you know, not for just politics and throwing money around like drunken sailors, only build what we need, because that's my position, because that's what my position is.

And I agree. You can have a different position. That's all right. That's okay. But the implication of that statement was that because I have that position and I've been speaking in this House about that position, the people of Airdrie are being penalized with a lack of portables and schools.

That's what the implication clearly, clearly was. And it was made very clear by the fact that he said, "You know what? I'm . . . itching to say it." He's itching to say it, itching to say it. "So I will, even though I know I shouldn't." He shouldn't do this. So he knew full well what he was saying. He knew full well what he was saying. He had a lapse. He forgot. He's, like: darn. Maybe he wasn't thinking the call was recorded. Maybe he was trying to be extra smart or something or clever.

The Education minister is laughing as he usually does. Minister, it's incredible. It's okay. He'll be very lonely over here in a couple of months.

The fact of the matter is that this individual said these things and has caused major feelings of intimidation in these members, who contacted me subsequent and who couldn't believe what they had heard. They thought that they were being threatened, saying: if your MLA continues to advocate, you're not getting your schools or your portables. That was the implication.

If you go to House of Commons Procedure and Practice, page 108, under Freedom from Obstruction, Interference, Intimidation and Molestation, it says, "Speakers have consistently upheld the right of the House to the services of its Members free from intimidation, obstruction and interference." It's a pretty basic principle.

Section 75 of Beauchesne's concerns the freedom of speech, that I believe is so important to members in this Chamber, which I would think surely includes, above all, the freedom to speak up for your constituents, the freedom to advocate for them and the needs of their children. That's important, that freedom of speech that we all enjoy here. It states in section 75, "The privilege of freedom of speech is both the least questioned and the most fundamental right of the Member of Parliament on the floor of the House and in committee." "The most fundamental right" is what it says. Well, I feel, clearly, like I am no longer free to speak on these matters because it may affect my community's ability to obtain the schools and the portables they need.

The Education minister is still laughing, by the way.

Section 92 of Beauchesne's states, "A valid claim of privilege in respect to interference with a Member must relate to the Member's parliamentary duties and not to the work the Member does in relation to that Member's constituency." Let's read: "A valid claim of privilege in respect to interference with a Member must relate to the Member's parliamentary duties" – okay? – "and not to the work the Member does in relation to that Member's constituency." One of the parliamentary duties that we have certainly of the opposition members, is to come into this House and to ask questions of the government. That is one of our duties. That is a duty that we have. And if we are being punished or if the communities we represent are being punished because of questions we are asking in this House, that is a clear breach of privilege.

Section 99 of Beauchesne's elaborates on this issue of threats, saying that "direct threats which attempt to influence Members' actions in this House are undoubtedly breaches of privilege." Section 99. I'll say it again. "Direct threats which attempt to influence Members' actions in the House are undoubtedly breaches of privilege."

3:20

I'm asking you, Mr. Speaker, if that's the case – I'll tell you right now: I do feel threatened. Now, how I choose to respond to that threat and that intimidation is certainly up to me, and I will do so in a way that I feel is best, and this is one of the ways I'm doing that. But make no mistake about it. I do feel threatened. I do feel that my constituency right now – because, clearly, you can't trust this minister. If this is what he's saying on a conference call, can you imagine what he's saying behind closed doors? Can you imagine? Well, we have an idea because in a moment of weakness when he kind of . . .

Mr. Hinman: No. Arrogance.

Mr. Anderson: Arrogance or whatever you want to say.

He said, I know this is wrong. I know I shouldn't be saying this. But if you want schools, you'd better tell your MLA to shut up. Okay?

Mr. Hinman: Just like Grimshaw.

Mr. Anderson: Just like Grimshaw except – you know what? – no, it's worse. This is the Minister of Education. The language used by the Member for Dunvegan-Central Peace was not as harsh as the language used by that minister, not even close.

The Education minister is laughing still.

Section 93 of Beauchesne's goes on further. It's very unambiguous. Section 93, page 25, of Beauchesne's.

Mrs. Forsyth: This is when you zip it.

Mr. Anderson: He doesn't understand that. He's embarrassed, and he'll be paying a political price soon, I'm sure.

It states that "it is generally accepted that any threat, or attempt to influence the vote of, or actions of a Member, is breach of privilege." It is generally accepted that any threat or attempt to influence the vote of or actions of a member is a breach of privilege. Mr. Speaker, this is an attempt. He was, essentially, telling . . . Look, this is a breach of privilege. I need to finish. I'm almost done, but I need to get through this, Mr. Speaker, so I ask for your patience.

In that comment it is very clear if you look at the actual transcript. "You know what? I'm really itching to say it, so I will, even though I know I shouldn't, but the first thing you can do is, actually, in Airdrie call your MLA and ask him not to oppose me in the Legislature."

The Deputy Speaker: Hon. member . . .

Mr. Anderson: Now, Mr. Speaker, telling me that I cannot speak in the Legislature is appalling. It is interfering with my rights of free speech. So in conclusion – okay?

An Hon. Member: He's got to be timed out here.

Mr. Anderson: That's good. You'll be leaving soon, hon. member, and we'll all be better for it.

The Deputy Speaker: Hon. member, address the chair.

Mr. Anderson: Pending the finding of the Speaker that this is a prima facie case of privilege, I seek to move that the matter of privilege concerning the Minister of Education's comments about the advocacy for myself be referred to the Standing Committee on Privileges and Elections, Standing Orders and Printing. This committee in question could use a little bit of work, so why don't we refer this matter to that committee . . .

The Deputy Speaker: Hon. member, you have used . . .

Mr. Anderson: . . . and actually get a fair hearing about this matter so that I don't feel interfered with?

Thank you, Mr. Speaker.

The Deputy Speaker: I just want to remind the hon. member that I think you have used over 10 minutes on the point. Have you concluded, hon. Member for Airdrie-Chestermere?

Mr. Anderson: Yes, I have.

The Deputy Speaker: You have. Okay.

The hon. Member for Edmonton-Centre on this point.

Ms Blakeman: Yes. Thank you very much, Mr. Speaker. A point of privilege is a serious moment for this House as we consider whether behaviors that have been taken or chosen somehow impede the ability of any member to fulfill their duties in this House is serious.

My observations on what is before us is that there are three parts of it: intimidation, freedom of speech, and coaching constituents to be angry with their elected official because they are doing their job. They all culminate, in my belief, in a serious breach of privilege.

I just want to check a few things for you, I hope as assistance, Mr. Speaker. In looking at the definition of intimidate, we have: to force into or deter from some action by inducing fear. The comments from the Minister of Education in a broadcast, I believe, were meant to direct constituents, to influence the behaviour, and it was based on fear. They are trying to get something. They are told they can't get it unless they make their member stop a certain course of action.

There are a number of places where that is brought up and spoken very harshly of. In Maingot he directly talks about that. Any form of intimidation or act of violence of a person for or on account of his behaviour could amount to contempt. It is intended that none of us be threatened in trying to go about our duties. For opposition members – and this is my interest in this case – part of our job is to oppose the government, to criticize them, to bring things up, to advocate on behalf of our constituents. To have any member exposed to intimidation or threats, especially by a cabinet minister, is very serious.

When I look at the ability and how important freedom of speech is – and in this case, Mr. Speaker, it is the freedom of the Member for Airdrie-Chestermere to advocate on behalf of his constituents, to bring up in this House, hopefully with tempered language, his desire to have certain things done for his constituents. That's his job. His ability to have that freedom of speech is very critical, and to have it blunted or dimmed or for him to have to feel that he needs to take a step back in his pursuit of that because his constituents or himself have been intimidated or threatened is unacceptable to any of us in this House, I would hope, particularly to members of the opposition.

The freedom of speech is written a number of times. It's in the House of Commons 2009 edition:

... a fundamental right without which they would be hampered in the performance of their duties. It permits them to speak in the House without inhibition, to refer to any matter or express any opinion as they see fit, to say what they feel needs to be said in the furtherance of the national interest and the aspirations of their constituents.

That is right on point, Mr. Speaker, and for anyone to attempt to influence through threat or intimidation the constituents to then threaten or intimate the member directly or indirectly or to do it directly or indirectly to the member should be unacceptable to this House. I ask that, in fact, the member do find that there is a prima facie case of privilege here.

Thank you.

The Deputy Speaker: The hon. Minister of Education.

Mr. Lukaszuk: I'll let the opposition member speak first.

The Deputy Speaker: The hon. Member for Edmonton-Strathcona, then.

Ms Notley: Thank you, Mr. Speaker, and thank you to the member for allowing me to rise on this issue. I will be brief. I simply as House leader for the NDP caucus would like to rise and provide my support to the submissions that have been made by the Member for Airdrie-Chestermere as well as the Member for Edmonton-Centre. Simply put, the ability of members to advocate within the rules of parliamentary conduct for their constituents is a fundamental component to the work that we do within this Legislature. Any efforts to interfere with that, any effort that is attached to the influence of government, in particular, is a threat to that privilege, which is profound and meaningful.

In this particular case the member in question actually utilized the resources of government in order to deliver a message to citizens of the province, who would then presumably interfere with the Member for Airdrie-Chestermere's ability to communicate and express himself in the way he felt best within this Assembly. The fact that government resources were used in delivering that message, that that message was delivered in a telephone town hall funded by the Ministry of Education that included the constituents of the Member for Airdrie-Chestermere, is disturbing to me, Mr. Speaker, and I think that it leads us to a very slippery slope that will significantly undermine the work of MLAs, all elected members in this Assembly, and the independence with which we do that work.

So I would ask you to consider that there is a prima facie case here and that the matter be referred to the appropriate privileges and other things committee for further consideration. Thank you.

3:30

The Deputy Speaker: Hon. minister, do you wish to respond?

Mr. Lukaszuk: Well, thank you, Mr. Speaker. Indeed, not only do I want to, but I feel compelled to speak to this matter.

I would agree with the members of the Liberal and NDP opposition that no member at any point in time should ever feel inhibited from being able to carry out his or her duties in this House. That is the fundamental principle of this House.

However, Mr. Speaker, if one was to hear only what the Member for Airdrie-Chestermere had to say and assume that that was all that was said and take this in exclusion, perhaps – perhaps – one would even agree with the Member for Airdrie-Chestermere. But I have to tell you, Mr. Speaker, that this member this time around is taking a great deal of poetic licence with what he is presenting to this House. As a matter of fact, I don't know if one could rise on a point of order on a point of privilege, but he's been attributing a lot of things to me that simply haven't happened.

Let's put this all in context and see what happened. Then we'll allow the Members of this Legislature to decide what happened. This goes a little bit further back because as you know, Mr. Speaker, just a couple of weeks ago I was on behalf of the Department of Education defending estimates, the budget, for the Alberta Legislature while the member was asking for portables and mentioning infrastructure. We went back and forth, back and forth, on infrastructure. I will quote from Alberta Hansard of that debate on March 6, 2012, roughly at around 5:45 p.m. I said to the member:

I will ask this member, referring to the Member for Airdrie-Chestermere, and actually his entire party to be a little bit more open minded and co-operative on the issue of how we fund schools because there's a great deal of opposition coming from that corner of the Chamber on anything that resembles debt or debt financing.

The fact, Mr. Chairman, is that we need to look collaboratively at new ways of funding schools.

So, I actually said that on the record, that I'm looking forward to him being more open minded and more collaborative with myself and my ministry so that we can look at ways of building more schools for areas that require schools. To which the member responded:

Well, I'm always looking for innovative ways to build new schools, but I'll tell you that I do not feel that debt is innovative. There are lots of ways to do things without mortgaging people's futures, and it's called reprioritizing. How many schools would that new MLA office across the way build, for example?

Then he goes on, saying:

Anyway, I'm glad that he's passionate about building new schools. That's good. But we should never sacrifice the needs of the here and now on the backs of future taxpayers. I just disagree fundamentally with that. I think you prioritize.

Then he goes on to say in the next paragraph:

I have to explain this all the time to the House leader, referring to the Solicitor General.

He never understands, clearly saying that he does this all the time, and he argues with the minister all the time.

He says: do I have a mortgage? The difference is that after I pay the mortgage, I have a house that's worth something, that I can sell on the market if I need to. You can't sell a bridge, can you? Can you sell a bridge? No, you can't. So it's a big difference, a huge difference from a mortgage. It's just debt. In fact, the bridge actually costs more money to maintain as we go forward. Anyway, we're getting off track. I have this discussion with the House leader all the time. It's totally different.

As you know, Mr. Speaker, there is a history of this member standing up in the House and objecting to this government looking at any possible way of financing schools – and it also is relevant to portables – other than paying cash up front.

Well, let me take you, Mr. Speaker, to the telephone conversation in question. I should maybe give you a little bit of background. I have these conversations every month and a half or so with parents from across the province. Anybody can dial in; anybody can say whatever they want. They all hear each other. It's free of charge, and it's open to all parents. Frankly, media call in, and I'm sure – maybe MLAs do. I don't know if they do. Only parents ask questions, and I try to answer as many as I can. We have a frank discussion on the telephone.

So yesterday at 4:38 p.m. a parent – I'm not sure what the parent's name was because I don't remember. We have all the conversations, by the way, recorded. It is me who records those conversations, and then I post them on the Alberta Education website for everyone to hear. If any member would like to hear the audio, it's there right now. Transcripts are also available so everybody can read them.

A parent says, "We're just curious about . . ." Sorry. I will be tabling, Mr. Speaker, all these relevant comments. Just bear with me for a second if you will. A parent said that a school division [in] Airdrie asked for eight portables, which we really needed to get us through to 2014, and they were denied . . . we know 40 new portables were approved but none for RVS. How do we go about getting the infrastructure and the capacity, interim or permanent, for our constantly growing community?

Then I said to that:

You know what? I'm really itching to say it, so I will, even though I know I shouldn't.

The reason I said "even though I shouldn't" is because I usually like to keep my answers – and you look at all the tapes – to factual questions and answers. But this was asking for advice, so I'm giving him advice.

The first thing you can do is, actually, in Airdrie call your MLA and ask him not to oppose me in the Legislature every day on considering new ways for funding infrastructure.

That is exactly what I have been referring to earlier.

That really is the problem.

In this province and in every province in Canada we are building schools up front, cash. And it doesn't matter how rich your provincial government may be; there are only so many schools that you can build using this cash up front model. And, frankly, I see nothing wrong with looking at alternative models, where you amortize the cost of new schools over 20, 30 years [and you can build] for kids right now.

I know in Airdrie you probably need five . . . schools to accommodate your current population and growth . . . [for] the next few years. But the way to achieve that: we will have to look at alternative financial models and not be bound by ideology.

But . . . in Airdrie-Chestermere . . . the Rocky View school division is receiving two portables for Prince of Peace Lutheran school, Muriel Clayton middle school is receiving two, George McDougall high school is receiving two, and Rainbow Creek elementary school is receiving two . . . So you are receiving eight portables in total for your catchment area.

Then the conversation went on, and the parent went back online as well, and nota bene, Mr. Chairman, no parent has been offended by the comments, and the conversation carried on for about an hour. Later the parent says:

We're just curious about the comments you made earlier regarding Rob Anderson and the constant bantering back and forth. We're curious: how does that affect parents in our community and our needs for extra schools?

To which I responded:

You know what? Not at all. I'm actually using your city and your area as a flagship. Every time I get asked a question about needing schools I always mention Airdrie, Fort McMurray, and Grande Prairie. Those three [areas] are prime examples of where schools are badly needed. You know, we are all grown up, and yes we [are] politicians [and we] pick on each other from time to time and we have definite differences, in this case ideological differences on how schools should be built, but at the end of the day as a minister and as a parent I can never lose focus of the fact that this is all about kids and kids only, and kids need schools.

Sorry, but I have to use the member's name.

I know that Mr. Anderson also believes that kids need schools, but we just have a different view on how those schools should be built. I know for a fact that paying for schools cash up front has proven itself to be a failed model. That is why we are where we are. It simply doesn't allow any province to build enough schools.

Mr. Speaker, as a matter of fact, I gave credit to the Member for Airdrie-Chestermere, saying that he agrees with me that we need to build more schools. I'm the first one to acknowledge that Airdrie and, actually, another Wildrose riding, Fort McMurray, and the third one, Grande Prairie, are the three flagships that need schools. Frankly, Airdrie probably needs about five schools right now, and the Member for Airdrie-Chestermere agrees on that. I agree on that.

3:40

The last time I was there, I had a gym full of parents and almost got a standing ovation from parents when saying, "We need to look at any way possible to get you schools right now." That member's constituents actually are attending school right now in Legion halls and in church basements and the list goes on and on, which to me is unacceptable and, I imagine, to every member of this Legislature is unacceptable.

So all I was saying is that we agree on that, but where we differ is on the ideology. I believe we need to amortize the cost of schools over a period of time; he believes we have to pay for schools cash up front. I believe that the only way to build a lot of schools is to do it my way, and I believe that if we were to do it his way, we would be digging ourselves deeper and deeper into the backlog of infrastructure. That's so the parents know.

What I told the parents is: maybe you should be calling your MLA and have him change his mind so he works collaboratively with us and the Chamber on finding new, innovative ways for funding schools. If that in any way impedes this member's performance in the Chamber, I find it unusual. If having to dialogue with his own constituents or having his constituents call him at his office impedes his ability to perform in this Chamber, I find that unacceptable.

Frankly, you know, it's quite interesting because that particular political party has been asking not only my constituents but individuals from all over Alberta and the United States to call my office and twitter my accounts on issues relevant to the Education Act, and I don't feel that my performance is impeded. As a matter of fact, it informs me further.

So, Mr. Speaker, this is a silly season. It's pre-election time. I realize that any angle is a good angle at this point in time. I have never heard more vile verbiage in this Chamber.

I suggest to you that this was a very appropriate comment to make, and I have said that comment on the record many times before, and I didn't see anything inappropriate before. As a matter of fact, I complimented the member for being a good advocate for his constituents because he's asking for additional schools.

I'll end with that.

The Deputy Speaker: All right. Hon. Government House Leader, do you wish to join in?

Mr. Hancock: Very briefly, Mr. Speaker. The question before us is whether what we've heard in detail from both sides of the House now is a question of privilege. A question of privilege, as the hon. House leader of the Official Opposition indicated, has to be something which impedes a member's ability to do his or her job.

In fact, what we've heard from both sides of the House, essentially, is somebody suggesting to a constituent that they should talk to their member. There is no way that one can characterize asking a constituent to talk to their member, even if you're asking them to talk to their member to change their mind about something, as impeding that member's ability to do their job. In fact, it's enhancing the member's ability to do his job. It's saying: "Look. We need to find new ways to do things. Your member is talking about cutting the budget, and the Wildrose has talked incessantly about how we should spend less on capital. Well, the problem and the discussion that we've had back and forth over time, over the last two years, is that if you do that, it's going to take longer to get things built if we do it the traditional way."

The member very clearly is talking to Albertans, as is our job, to encourage Albertans to talk with their members, which is what we do every day, and encourage those members to think about the impact of the positions they're taking. That's political discourse. We need to have more of it, not less of it.

The Deputy Speaker: Hon. members, the chair has heard elaboration on the matter. We have spent close to an hour on this, and there is the business of the day to deal with. So the chair will consider the matter and rule at a later date.

Orders of the Day

Government Bills and Orders

Third Reading

Bill 7

Appropriation Act, 2012

The Deputy Speaker: The hon. Minister of Finance.

Mr. Liepert: Well, thank you, Mr. Speaker. On behalf of the Deputy Premier and the President of Treasury Board and Enterprise it is my privilege to rise today and move third reading of Bill 7, the Appropriation Act, 2012.

Over the course of the past few weeks both inside this Assembly and outside the Assembly there has been credible discussion about Budget 2012. It has gone through thorough debate in this House, and I would say some less than truthful statements have been made outside this House. There have been allegations leading up to this particular budget that it would include tax increases. Of course, that was proven to be wrong. The same group of individuals who said that tax increases were going to be coming in the budget but were proven wrong are now trying to allege that there are tax increases in this budget. Of course, anyone who reads this budget and can understand any sort of financial accounting can read that there are no tax increases in this particular budget. So again there is wrong information being spread out there. I'm glad that we've had the opportunity to fully debate this particular document in this House.

[Mr. Zwodzesky in the chair]

This budget, by the final passing of third reading, will ensure that we meet those commitments that the Premier has made. We are also ensuring that we're going to have a health care system that is appropriately funded, and we'll continue to deliver a health care system that, despite the protestations of some of the members of the opposition, is highly respected in this province, Mr. Speaker. Yes, we have some people who may have certain agendas that they are pursuing out there in the public. That's fine; we'll deal with that. But we have committed funding to Alberta Health Services as part of our five-year funding agreement, a 6 per cent increase in funding this year. In addition to that, the overall budget of Alberta Health and the minister of health is 7.9 per cent. That goes a long way to ensuring that we're going to be able to start to finally move to family care clinics.

I know the minister of health has talked a lot about this. A period of time ago this government attempted to have the primary care networks deliver team-based care in this province, and it hasn't worked as well as it should. There continues to be resistance by certain health professionals to ensuring that the patient comes first despite a lot of rhetoric that we might hear out there, and what we're going to do with the family care clinics, Mr. Speaker, is ensure that the patient comes first. This budget will allow the funding for I think it's three pilot projects in this budget year, and then, hopefully, we're into a number of permanent family care clinics as we move on.

Of course, we've just had a lengthy debate under this so-called point of privilege, which I know that the Speaker will consider very carefully, but we've also more than adequately funded the Education budget for this province. In addition to that, we've got a significant capital program, which is going to be seeing not only more roads but more schools and health care facilities built under budget 2012-13.

Probably core to this particular budget, Mr. Speaker, is the fact that it's entitled Investing in People. If you look at what this budget does in the way of increasing the funding for AISH recipients, that's going to kick in fully at $400 a month on April 1, so it's important that we get this budget passed through this Assembly today. That will make a huge difference in the lives of many Albertans. I think I heard the Minister of Seniors talking this morning about some 46,000 Albertans who rely on payments from the assured income for the handicapped program. This is going to make a huge difference for them.

In addition that, Mr. Speaker, we have addressed a number of the areas that low-income seniors consistently are struggling with. There are enhancements there. There are also enhancements for young families whose children are in daycare, where both parents are working. Those are going to be increased significantly.

This really is a budget, Mr. Speaker, that does deal with the human issues. I'm confident that it's a budget that reflects what the President of Treasury Board and myself in our travels across the province last fall heard from Albertans, where they want us to focus on health and education, and they want to ensure that our critical infrastructure is maintained and improved. Despite what you may hear from some of the individuals who masquerade as a party over there, Mr. Speaker, they do not want us to cut back on our critical infrastructure spending.

3:50

You know, it's one thing to stand up and play politics with numbers, Mr. Speaker, but when you play politics with numbers, sooner or later you actually have to delve into what is the impact of those numbers. It's just wonderful for certain people to stand up both inside this House and outside the House and talk about cutting $2 billion out of the infrastructure program and then, on the other hand, turn around and have a point of privilege in this House and say, "Well, that didn't mean me and my constituency; I should have the ability to advocate for my constituents," and when speaking in front of another audience will stand up there and say, "This government spends too much on infrastructure." Well, Mr. Speaker, you can't have it both ways. This budget lays out a fair plan. It's a responsible budget.

I guess the final point that I would like to make in asking for the support of the House on third reading of this bill is the fact that we've managed to not only deliver a budget this year that has a small deficit, which is covered off, we need to point out, by the sustainability fund, but we've also introduced a budget that has a three-year business plan that shows our budget being more than balanced next year. In fact, it's projecting a budgetary surplus of about a billion dollars.

You know, if we continue to see the strong economic performance of our province, if we continue to see oil prices in the range of where they are today, I think we're going to see much better results, and it could be even in this current fiscal year. It could definitely be in the fiscal year that this budget covers and probably even in years out.

For individuals in the opposition to go out there and use terms like that we're using fantasy numbers for our budget is irresponsible, Mr. Speaker. This budget is based on firm data. It's not our data. It's the data of international forecasters when it comes to the price of oil. It's the data directly from industry when it comes to the production levels of their oil sands plants. It's firm data from the Finance department, who are now seeing that because of the high oil prices many of these projects that have chosen to invest in Alberta are now going to be reaching the postpayout, where the royalty scheme will now kick in much earlier than we had anticipated.

This is an incredibly good-news budget, Mr. Speaker. It's one that I was proud to introduce. It's one that I know all members have supported and I believe a large majority of Albertans have supported. I would ask that we pass third reading of this particular budget so we can get on to implementing the various measures that are contained within this budget.

With that, Mr. Speaker, I move third reading.

The Acting Speaker: Thank you.

The hon. Member for Airdrie-Chestermere will postpone, so we'll go ahead with the hon. Member for Calgary-Varsity, then.

Mr. Chase: Thank you very much, Mr. Speaker. There are three problems with this budget: what is contained within it, what isn't contained, and then the process through which the budget was built and debated.

For the past seven budgets that I have been a representative of Calgary-Varsity, the problem has been that the average amount of time the Official Opposition gets to debate a particular budget is in the area of three sets of 10 minutes, which they can take or share in a 20-minute session with the hon. government ministers. If there is an opportunity towards the end of the three-hour session, during which millions of dollars are being discussed every minute, then there's the possibility of a portion of another 10 minutes. So the maximum amount of time an Official Opposition member gets to debate the budget, all being well, is 40 minutes. When we're discussing multibillion-dollar budgets such as Education, such as health care, that amount of time is not sufficient.

With the rushed session that we're experiencing, the answers to the questions that were not able to be answered on the spot during those evenings will not be provided to the members prior to an election and, therefore, will not be available to the public to judge the value of the budget or the debate on the budget. That's been disconcerting for me, Mr. Speaker, for the last seven years. We are asked to debate budgets of, I believe, over $30 billion this time around, and each successive budget has actually increased. We're into our fifth deficit budget over a five-year period.

What the Liberal Party has been saying is that at some point with our budgeting we have to be more realistic and not rely on projections, no matter how detailed they are, from industry. What this province has continued to do is rely on nonrenewable resource revenue, revenue that, once spent, is never returned, instead of having a progressive tax system, that is embraced by all other provinces.

Now, the business of nonrenewable oil and gas counts as a major factor in our budget decisions, but this government's dependency on that sole source of revenue, seconded only by what we get from slots, VLTs, and lotteries, puts the whole sustainability of any kind of future projecting and planning in a very roller coaster circumstance.

The Liberal opposition has said that we need sustainability. We need a long-term commitment, and that's why we've proposed – I won't go through the various parts of the Liberal proposal. We've said that 10 per cent of Albertans are not contributing their fair share and that, in addition, large corporations should be paying an extra 2 per cent for the privilege of making such profits in this province.

The hon. Member for Edmonton-Riverview in his book Follow the Money, which is still number one on the bestseller nonfiction list, detailed the amount of money that this government fails to collect. At no point in this government's existence – and the Auditor General has pointed it out – has this government, regardless of what the royalty rate was, ever collected that entire amount, and this continues to be a problem.

Now, the hon. Minister of Finance is correct in terms of a number of the oil sands companies finally coming to the point where they have to pay the full royalty. A number of the organizations have been very creative, for example with the Firebag project, when they tried to suggest this was just a continuation of an old project as opposed to a brand new project and, therefore, should not be subject to higher royalty rates. Well, at some point and very soon – historically, it's there – we will be receiving more money from those projects, but we haven't got it yet. So what we do in the meantime is extremely important in our budget planning.

Now, I want to look at a couple of budgets, in particular health. It's not a matter so much of the amount of the money; it's the way that money is directed. In the Liberal caucus we believe we can get a better bang for our buck by addressing more appropriate seniors' care. That's, for example, publicly funded, publicly delivered long-term care as opposed to assisted living, where studies from epidemiologists of the U of A and the U of C have indicated that there is twice the likelihood of individuals in assisted living ending up in acute-care hospital beds, which does not make sense because the level of care in assisted living is inappropriate. But this budget does not deal with that inappropriate level of funding.

The Premier has not committed, since making the statement in her leadership campaign, that she would not remove the cap on long-term care. Now, as reassuring as it is for the hon. Minister of Seniors to say that he has no such plans or no such, put it in quotations, immediate plans, the Premier not clarifying as to at what point that cap might be lifted provides no assurance for seniors or their families that they're not going to be further gouged in their long-term care settings.

4:00

In terms of looking after seniors: a very small amount, 30 beds, I believe, in Strathmore for long-term care as opposed to numerous beds in assisted living, that does not deliver the depth and quality of care that is required.

Another concern is the very small amount of budget being spent on home care. Home care, keeping a person at home, is about one-tenth or less than the cost of them taking up space in an acute-care bed and then backing up the whole emergency system.

We've talked about the importance of primary care networks, which, contrary to the Minister of Finance's statements, have been embraced not only by Albertans but by front-line physicians and do a very good job of delivering 24-hour care. Now, the Premier came up with this community care clinic, which basically conflicts with the primary care network, and it hasn't been clearly defined how these community care clinics would be different than primary clinics. Primary clinics offer a wide variety of services, not just simply a doctor or a nurse within those facilities.

The fact that we have approximately 60 less beds and an increase in our population of close to a million is very troublesome because this government has continued to talk about providing sufficient long-term care beds to release the pressure on the acute-care bed system.

In education and in health care this government has not bargained in good faith with the front-line service providers, whether they're the doctors, the nurses, the orderlies, or whether they're the teachers, the support staff, the caretakers. This government in its budget imposed a settlement, which – you will see when it comes due at the end of August – will be opposed across this province by teachers who have not yet been forced under the thumb of this government to be called an essential service and, therefore, denied the right to strike. But I'm assuming that that is probably in the works because that's the threat that has been used before.

This budget, again on the theme of education, has not dealt with the $3 billion plus infrastructure repair backlog in schools, the average age of which is now 50 years. There's nothing in this budget that deals with that infrastructure backlog. The minister has talked about creative financing. He's put out on the eve of an election the idea that we need 400 new schools. Mr. Speaker, the reason we need 400 new schools is because we haven't maintained the old ones. This government has been in power for the last 41 years and has not provided that maintenance in its series of budgets.

Also in education, the unfunded liability, that is controversial depending on which party you belong to, has not been addressed. If it isn't addressed in a progressive manner, that unfunded liability will rise to $40 billion. The government is very loose with what it considers to be debt and deficit. It doesn't take into account the school infrastructure deficit as a liability. It doesn't take into account the unfunded liability. It talks about potentially putting us further in debt, but good debt, through AIMCo borrowing to finance these much-needed and touted on the eve of an election 400 new schools that we require.

Now, Mr. Speaker, for a budget to be believable, it also, as I began, has to be sustainable. Clearly, everything in this world from a financial standpoint would have to come together. The government, instead of relying on the information from oil sands companies, would have to do its own calculations of flow rates to get the money that's actually owed to them. That has yet to be achieved, and the Auditor General has pointed out that major failure.

Mr. Speaker, I and the members of my caucus cannot support a budget that is not sustainable, that relies on rosy nonrenewable projections. When we have a glut right now of gas and we have a glut of conventional oil, which lowers our price below that of the world per barrel price or the gas measurement price, instead of doing things in a sustainable fashion, we're getting it out of the ground so fast that we're not getting the best price for it, and we're doing a lot of damage to the environment by doing it.

As for bitumen this government's plan, if the Obama administration can work through it, is to send it down the Keystone in its raw state to be refined, and then we'll buy it back at a much more expensive price. The hon. individuals from the Wildrose have clearly pointed out alternatives such as having it processed east of us in a Canadian circumstance and then supplying our own eastern markets. This is something the Liberals have agreed with; it's something the NDP have agreed on: keeping our jobs here in Canada, keeping our jobs in Alberta.

There is no balance in this budget. It's a wing-and-a-prayer budget. Mr. Speaker, we'll have an opportunity to talk about some of the fallacies of the funding associated with the passing of this Education Act and the cost that may spring into effect with regard to the human rights tribunal. That's a whole other topic which I'll save for the debate on Bill 2.

This is one of the most unrealistic budgets to be produced so far. [interjection] If anything goes wrong whatsoever in the financing, the government has no fallback position, at least not one that has been clarified. If the hon. Member for Calgary-Nose Hill has the backup plan, I would be glad to hear it from him or any other astute members who I respect in this Assembly.

Thank you, hon. Speaker, for allowing me to point out just a few of the shortcomings of this rose-coloured-glasses budget.

The Acting Speaker: Thank you very much.

The next speaker is Calgary-Glenmore, followed by Fort McMurray-Wood Buffalo, followed by Calgary-Buffalo, followed by Edmonton-Strathcona. Did I see Calgary-Currie rise, wanting to get on the list as well?

Standing Order 29(2)(a) will be available after this speaker and for subsequent speakers thereafter.

Please proceed.

Mr. Hinman: Well, thank you, Mr. Speaker. It is an honour and a privilege to rise today to speak about the most important bill here, the appropriation bill, and the billions of dollars that this government is spending for this next year in the province. When it comes to budgets and decisions on budgets, there are not too many people that I know who don't struggle on a monthly basis on how they're going to spend their money and where they're going to spend their money. There are those who are lucky enough that they actually try to put a plan in place where maybe they can go on a holiday, and they save, you know, for a year to get money in place to do that.

Mr. Speaker, I have to say that I'm concerned with having to continue hearing the rhetoric that has come from the government side towards the Wildrose, saying: "Oh, we're going to stop everything. We're going to cancel schools. We're going to shut hospitals." They go on and on. They don't seem to realize that their budget is more than just health care or just education or the fact that their infrastructure budget – they've hit this idea that they need to do it all now.

4:10

I'm most astounded with the Education minister who now says that we need 400 new schools. In the point of privilege earlier today he brought this forward. He made the comments – where did I put that? – that we need to go ahead with these. He said that we used these three communities for his flagship discussion, and that Grande Prairie, Fort McMurray, and Airdrie need these schools badly. But they put out 40 of these add-ons, and not one of them went to Airdrie this year. Yet he says that these are our flagship areas.

This is exactly, Mr. Speaker, what I'm talking about in prioritizing. If they actually had some integrity and showed the people of Alberta a full list, "Here are our top three," I would assume with what the Minister of Education said today that his three flagship cities that need it the most are Fort McMurray, Grande Prairie, and Airdrie. We'd have that list, and here they would be: one, two, three. How many schools? He said five are needed for Airdrie. He didn't say how many for Fort McMurray or Grande Prairie. It only makes sense that they would be at the top of the list after what he said. Yet they don't do it.

This is the problem. This government has failed – and they've failed miserably on it – when it comes to prioritizing their spending. We have spoken out against a new federal building upgrade that sat dormant for 20 years. It isn't a panic that we need to have that now, ahead of schools or ahead of a ring road or ahead of a hospital that needs to be opened or that needs to be manned with people to work.

Yet this government continues to say: "Oh, if we're going to have any cuts, it's going to be on schools. It's going to be, you know, on workers and front-line teachers." This government is the one, Mr. Speaker, that has prioritized and always politicized these things. They go for where there's the most – what would I say? – acute pain and fear amongst the people, and say, "If we're going to cut $200 million out of our budget, that means it would have to be our schools," when, in fact, that would be one of the last things that needs to be cut in the budget.

This is the problem with this government in the last four budgets. Even today they're talking about the need to come up with new, innovative ways of financing. Well, they've been pretty innovative in sucking $16 billion out of our sustainability fund, saying that we need to build these things. How do they say that we've been balancing the budget but that now we need to be innovative and start to borrow? What they're saying is that we've spent all of our savings – they've been sucked dry – so now we need to be innovative on how we go into debt because we have no more savings to pull out, you know, between $3 billion to $5 billion a year. So it's very concerning, Mr. Speaker, that this government would go and make these fearmongering noises to the public, that: oh, if the Wildrose got in, we wouldn't have any of these things.

It's also interesting today. I wanted to stand and do a point of order, and I don't take them lightly, either. The Premier got up today in question period – and it's always nice when once in a while she'll pop up to answer rather than deferring them. It's very disappointing that she won't answer them often, and she defers them off to ministers instead. But she got up and said that there are, I believe – I should have gotten the Blues on it – no tax increases. There are no new taxes. I think she made two statements on that. Well, tax increases. If you're the one who is having to pay and if your home tax last year was $2,200 and this year it's $2,350, how can you possibly say that there are no more taxes, that there is no increase in taxes? There is.

Seniors on fixed incomes are having a major hit on them because of what this government does. They froze the mill rate – I think it was on page 100 or page 98 – at 2.7 per cent per thousand dollars. Municipal governments: when they go in to balance the books and there is no tax increase, if they have re-evaluated and reassessed the houses and, say, a $400,000 house is now $412,000 or $410,000, they actually readjust the mill rate now. Instead of maybe 2.7 per cent, it's 2.5 per cent so that it's balanced out.

Then from that balanced position, they'll actually say, "You know, we have a shortfall of $100 million in our budget, so we're going to have to increase the mill rate 3 per cent," and then they're going to grab that money because there's an increase. The municipal governments have said across this province what their increase is in taxes. It's going to go up 3 and a half per cent, 6 per cent, depending on which community they come from. Yet this government, who's supposed to be overseeing, and the minister of urban and municipal affairs, who's overseeing all of that, have the audacity to tell those individuals that are running balanced budgets or showing an increase in their taxes: "Oh, we're not increasing the taxes. We're just increasing what's coming in." Then they tried to use this idea that: "Oh, it's just the new homes that are coming online. Oh, it's just the growth." No. That isn't where it is.

Again, then they'll refer back to corporate tax and personal tax and say: oh, it's going up, too. Yes, but if you're making $50,000 a year and you get a raise and now you're making $55,000 a year, of course personal tax is going to go up, but the income to those individuals also went up. You can't go back and re-evaluate and say: oh, they're still getting $50,000, but we're going to take another 3 per cent out of these individuals. This is the type of slick talk that comes from this Premier and this Minister of Finance to tell Albertans that, "Oh, no, no, no, there are no increases in taxes; everything is frozen; you don't need to worry," when, in fact, they do.

What we've been trying to say is that there are some things that you need to do. There is a principled way of going forward. You would think that we had just formed a new province here and that we're going to have to go out and borrow money to build a new corporation. We're not a new province. We're over a hundred years old. We have some incredible buildings like this one. I don't know what the maintenance is in here, but I'm sure it's pretty steep. You know, these historic buildings – and this is a beautiful one – aren't cheap. But you put all of that into the budget, and you know what those costs are, and when you're doing it properly, there are not a lot of surprises.

You still have a contingency fund for those emergencies. I mean, we have it here in the province. Whether there are forest fires or pine beetles or flooding, there are always unexpected things that come up, and you need to have a contingency plan for that. Even families tell you: save 10 per cent, and have those savings so that if an emergency shows up, you can deal with that.

It's extremely difficult for those families, though, that are living paycheque to paycheque to do that, yet this government is doing less than paycheque to paycheque. They've been sucking out of our sustainability fund for five years. It's just an oxymoron to say that this is a sustainability fund because what they've been pulling it out for isn't sustainable.

Program growth: my colleague from Airdrie-Chestermere spoke about that yesterday, I believe, that programs, once they're initiated, are hard to cut back. They go forward. This government doesn't even look at such things through attrition. It's always growth.

We passed a bill yesterday for a land advocate. That's a new program. It's new expenses. Do we need it? Is it going to be worth while? Those are the questions that we in the Wildrose are asking, Mr. Speaker, and we don't get any answers. We just get the fearmongering that we're going to shut down or not build schools, that we're not going to build ring roads, and there's nothing further from the truth.

What we've put out – and we've shown what we're going to do. The first and most important thing is to cap how much it's going to increase by. What should we cap it by? The rate of inflation plus population growth. This government has failed miserably, going back the last 10 years, I believe, probably 15 years, I think to 2001. Had they capped that growth at inflation plus population, we would have a massive surplus this year plus the last three years, but they failed to do it because they don't cap their spending.

I think I've spoken before that when I was very young and newly married, I went to a finance seminar, and the individual there spoke about the importance of balancing your budget. He said that everybody, even in this audience – I think there were over 400 people there. It was a big room, I would say twice this size, and it was full, with chairs all the way through this auditorium. They were speaking about that. He said: you need to balance your budget. He said that in human nature we have this trait where as soon as we think we're going to get some more money, that we're going to have a raise or income coming in, we'll spend it before we get it.

4:20

He said: "If I could tell you one bit of advice. However you're living today, whatever happens to you, don't change the way you're living for another year." He was referring, of course, to getting a raise or a new job or extra income. He said: "Continue living the way you are for one year before you adapt to that new income you've received. If you inherited something, don't do anything for a year."

That's what you need to do. Have that discipline. When oil royalties have gone up, when personal or corporate tax have gone up, don't immediately run out and say: "Oh, we've got to start a new program. We've got to get this spent." That's the wrong thing to do.

The example that he gave, for those people who are followers of celebrities, was Ivana Trump. She'd just gone through her separation from Donald. He was talking about: everybody has their needs, their way of life. My memory is a little bit foggy on this, but my memory was that she needed $5,000 a week just to maintain her house. There were flowers. There was hairdressing. He went through this long list of things that she had been doing for years, and she needed that. I think she had a hairdresser come in every morning to do her hair. She had fresh flowers brought in and put out throughout her house. For her, these were all needs.

This is the problem when we get into programs. We start those, and all of a sudden we need those. It's important that you prioritize, and that's what the Wildrose is all about. You prioritize by capping that growth. We had $800 million that we could prioritize to front-line workers. I believe it was 1,400 nurses. I think it was 1,200 teachers, a thousand seniors' caregivers and attendants. There were 300 more policemen.

That's what the Wildrose would do, prioritize. We would build ring roads, we would build schools, and we would build hospitals first, not museums, not capture CO₂ and stuff it in a black hole in the ground and think it's not going to come back to haunt us. This government has more programs that have been debunked, starting with Swan Hills, the magnesium plant in High River, the ethanol production, CO₂. There's a long list, Mr. Speaker, of just bogus ideas where someone over there in the government thought: "Oh, isn't this going to be wonderful? Let's prioritize our spending."

Again, for the federal building and to go ahead right now with other things, whether it's museums or sports or recreation facilities, we need the basic fundamentals, all the things that we can and that we should do. We need our education. We need hospitals. We need to have the infrastructure that is critical, the ring roads for the congestion that we're dealing with. We need to balance a budget. We need to be fiscally responsible. We could be if that was our desire. It's not the desire.

The announcements that they've made in the last three weeks aren't as bad as the last election, but it's wrong. Laws should be passed so that they can't make pre-election promises in spending. They're doing it, and this is more debt that isn't paid for. Just like with her promise on the $107 million, that we'll take it out of in-year savings, she failed to do that. This Premier and this cabinet and this government don't have any desire to balance the budget. They think it's their own money to spend on other people, to buy votes. It's wrong.

The Wildrose would give the people of Alberta a much better budget, that shows a bright future that we could all work toward and enjoy. Thank you, Mr. Speaker.

The Acting Speaker: Thank you.

Section 29(2)(a) is available should anyone wish to question or comment on the previous speech. The hon. Member for Calgary-McCall.

Mr. Kang: Thank you, Mr. Speaker. The hon. Member for Calgary-Glenmore talked about building more hospitals. I want to ask him: will they be private hospitals or publicly funded, publicly delivered hospitals?

Mr. Hinman: Well, you know, it's always interesting when we get those questions. Of course, there's always the ideology.

I don't know at this point we need more hospitals. We need the hospitals that we have opened, and we need the workers to fill them. What the Wildrose is absolutely committed to here in the province is that we have a publicly funded health care system, but we are not concerned about whether that's a public or a private facility.

When I go to my family doctor, it's in a private facility, yet it's publicly funded. I don't pull my wallet out to go see my doctor at his private office. Many people seem to cross those lines over, thinking: oh, my goodness, if it's privately run, we're in trouble. The Wildrose and the people of Alberta that we've heard from are all about wanting a publicly run health care system.

What they want in there is choice. What they want in there is some competition, not just the government appointing and saying: oh, you will get to do all of this in the province. We end up paying a premium price for often a poor product. But if there's more than one facility and we were to actually say, "You know, we're going to pay $12,000 for hips" and then another facility says, "Oh, we can come in and give an RFP, a request for proposal, to do that" – that is what we had going in Calgary.

What happened there was shameful in that we had a provider that was the best in the world. People were coming to see. The incidence of infection and postoperative incidents were the lowest; their time getting out of there was fantastic. This was a world-leading facility. This government, with its ideology, said, "Oh, we're going to shut that place down, and we're going to push it over into the hospital there." That was wrong, in our opinion.

We have many, many experts here in the province that would love to provide better service, but the province and the superboard say: no, we're not going to allow that. I remember that in the by-election the superboard had just made the decision that we didn't need the GreenLight laser down at the Rockyview and that they were going to pull that out. Why? Because they'd said that they didn't need it. This is the type of thing that we're talking about, with the government making central decisions and saying: oh, this is what this area needs; this is what this one needs. The administration and the doctors in the Rockyview very much said, "No, we need this here; we should have it here," and they started to look elsewhere to see: how do we fund it to get it?

Lethbridge. We can go back to the incidents there, the first area in the province to say: "You know what? We can't send all of our people to Calgary to get an MRI done. There's a six-month to a one-year wait. We need one here in Lethbridge." They had to raise the money to get it. You can go out to Taber, again with doctors there raising money for equipment that central decision-makers say you cannot have.

This fallacy or this fear that a private facility can't provide public service isn't the case. We're all excited about having the best: the best price, the best quality, the best time available for people to get in and get treated quickly and not have to wait for six months or nine months because this government has set up a system that causes a backlog that is unacceptable and causes pain for those people who can't get in there.

I do remember meeting a schoolteacher who had to quit working for six months because they hadn't replaced her knee and she could no longer stand on it. The pain was too much. Those are the types of stories. I've heard about knees. I've heard about shoulders. I've heard about hips. I've gone door-knocking and run into these people, and they've all waited too long. Why? Because we've created this monopoly and this centrally driven government that has said: the way we control the price is that we control the flow. It hasn't worked.

We need that option there, where private facilities can look at it and say: "You know what? We can provide it better." They'd put that bid in to the provincial government, to Alberta Health Services, and we'd set up a system where it doesn't matter whether it's a private or a public facility. What matters is that they're accredited, that they're good, and that they provide a great service for the people of Alberta so that we're not waiting so long and don't have such a hefty health care bill.

We pay more per capita here in Alberta, I believe, than any other province, and we need to do better. We can do better, and we'll focus that on front-line service.

The Acting Speaker: Thank you.

The time has expired for 29(2)(a), so we'll move on to the next speaker, which is Fort McMurray-Wood Buffalo, followed by Calgary-Buffalo.

Mr. Boutilier: Thank you very much, Mr. Speaker, and thank you, members, for listening intently to my comments. For fear of being redundant, I'd just like to include that I have made comments earlier in this House relative to the budget, and at one point I reviewed the budget. But after reviewing it, I have come to the conclusion that I certainly cannot support this budget.

In doing so, I speak not only as an MLA but as a father of a four-year-old. I believe that all of us in Alberta have to run our homes, our households. We cannot be spending more than we take in. The fact that this budget is in fact going to be running for the fourth or fifth year in a row a deficit: I think that is not the way Albertans run their households. Therefore, in speaking with Albertans and my constituents in the good communities of Fort McMurray-Wood Buffalo, the constituency, the message I've received from them is that I cannot support this budget.

4:30

I would just like to take a few moments, Mr. Speaker, to draw to your attention what my concern is. As you know, Alberta is spending per capita more than any other province in Canada. Clearly, in the idea of spending money, one assumes that: oh, well, we must be getting the best value. What I am most concerned with is the fact that for the amount of money that is being spent in Alberta, we are not getting the best value. I think each of us in our household as a consumer goes and shops and always looks for the best value. We look over here; we look over there. We look at the product and the quality before we make a decision. So one of the reasons I cannot support this budget is that I do not accept the value that we're getting for what is being spent.

Even more so I cannot accept the priority of this government. The Minister of Education and the Minister of Finance at one point indicated in numerous discussions on this budget that – the Minister of Finance, who is responsible for this budget and who delivered his address to the Assembly, provided a question to me saying: well, how many schools do you think we could have built if we hadn't done the $350 million federal building? At the time the Minister of Education and the Minister of Finance were indicating: how many schools could we have built?

Well, the average cost of a school is between $20 million to $30 million to $40 million, depending upon the number of students that we have in growing communities such as Fort McMurray-Wood Buffalo. In my judgment, one of the things I would have liked to have seen happen is this: that more schools would have been built by the Minister of Finance and the Minister of Education in Fort McMurray rather than wasting hard-earned tax dollars on a $350 million restoration of the federal building. Not to say that it's not important, but this is not the right time to be doing it.

Mr. Speaker, I want to say that we welcome the federal building restoration but at an appropriate time. In light of the deficits that are being run and the fact that $350 million of Albertans' hard-earned tax dollars is being wasted on this building, I can say without any fear of contradiction that the offices that MLAs have in the Leg. Annex are quite satisfactory. It's no different than in your home. In your home you can't always go ahead and do the renovation that you want. Not everyone gets to get the granite or whatever. I don't have granite in my home on the countertops in the kitchen. Maybe people do, and good for them, but that's a choice that they make. My point is, though, that this government's priority to spend $350 million could have potentially built 15 to 20 more schools.

I'll conclude with one other comment. It is a comment to the Minister of Finance, who at one point was the minister of health. Not only do I talk about building more schools; I also talk to the Minister of Transportation about twinning highway 63. The fact is that there has been no twinning over the last four years and that they've only twinned 16 kilometres of highway, when in actual fact we are the economic engine feeding Alberta with billions of dollars in revenue, but we are not getting our fair share back.

Mr. Speaker, what I would like to conclude with is this. To the Minister of Finance: how dare he provide a budget where he has ignored the senior citizens that built this province. The Minister of Finance, who was once the minister of health, discontinued a long-term care centre in Fort McMurray before the last election. As of this point in time, over four years later, where they've had now five announcements, they have still not even broken ground.

How dare a Minister of Finance be willing to spend $350 million on MLA offices with over a hundred thousand people, our seniors, and almost 65 of them at our Northern Lights hospital in acute-care beds, which are really like jail cells, and we are still waiting for our first long-term care facility. I think it's shameful, and just on that principle alone I believe it says that this government has got its priorities wrong.

So no twinning. I haven't seen it in four years in terms of what's going on in the budget. The Minister of Transportation in estimates the other night indicated they're not going to plan on doing any twinning till 2013. I might say for the record that the Minister of Transportation said: oh, well, the mayor was happy in Fort McMurray. I talked to the mayor. In speaking to her, she is quite clearly not happy. What the Minister of Transportation said in budget estimates was not accurate. I took the time to speak directly to the mayor on that point, and she assured me that she is not happy with what is taking place and the lack of work that is going on with highway 63.

Finally, Mr. Speaker, the Minister of Finance, the former wrecking ball of the ministry of health, who said no to the seniors, who built this province, about a long-term care facility – now we are four years later, and still we have not seen a shovel go into the ground for our seniors, who built this province. Some of our seniors have passed away in acute-care beds, and that is shameful in terms of what they have contributed to building our province.

I will not as the Member for Fort McMurray-Wood Buffalo be supporting this budget and the lack of leadership by this Minister of Finance. Thank you, Mr. Speaker.

The Acting Speaker: Thank you, hon. member.

Section 29(2)(a) is available. The hon. Member for Edmonton-Highlands-Norwood.

Mr. Mason: Thank you very much, Mr. Speaker. To the hon. member: I wonder if he could elaborate on the question of providing seniors' care. We know that the government is proposing to have various forms of seniors' care built by the private sector, and in light of your colleagues' previous comments with respect to that matter, I would like you to elaborate a little bit on what sort of position you have relative to whether or not this seniors' care could be delivered in the government model with the private developers and how you feel that would be accomplished, what some of the economics are.

We know that the Premier hotly denied today the assertion that they had announced an intention to lift the cap on long-term care. Quite frankly, I think that those statements were absolutely false. During her campaign for the leadership of the PC Party she talked about lifting the cap on the seniors' care, and most recently her Seniors minister talked about having a discussion after the election about lifting the cap. There's no question in my mind that the price of having private developers being involved in construction of seniors' care is, in fact, the requirement for them to make a profit, and that's natural. That's what they want to do. But in order to accomplish that, lifting the cap will allow them to charge much higher fees to seniors and their families.

If you have a better way of delivering private health care than the government, I would sure be all ears, hon. member.

The Acting Speaker: The hon. member to respond.

Mr. Boutilier: Yeah. Thank you very much. A very good question, and I'm glad the Member for Edmonton-Highlands-Norwood has asked that question because I was fighting over two and a half years ago for seniors as they were in acute-care beds in Fort McMurray's Northern Lights hospital, if you can imagine, the only city in all of Alberta that does not have a continuing care long-term care facility after this very government had committed to one in the 2008 election. Here we are – and you may ask me today – but still to this point in time they have not even broken ground. What they have done is that they've had five or six press announcements. I think they should stop killing trees because, really, the press announcement is not worth the paper it is actually written on.

Getting back to the idea of this Premier and her broken promise, where she talked about lifting the caps, that is very concerning to me. Mr. Speaker, I do want to say that in speaking to my seniors in Fort McMurray-Wood Buffalo, they also are equally concerned because lifting a cap means that our seniors, the very seniors who have built this province – and I believe an important value that I stand by today, my job, is to represent them. My job is to bring their voice to this Legislature. I did that, and what did this tired and old government do after 41 years?

Mr. Mason: They kicked you out unceremoniously.

Mr. Boutilier: They kicked me out. Why did they kick me out? They kicked me out without going to their caucus because that's how arrogant they were at the time. But they're not quite as arrogant today – okay? – apparently because they've been listening to Albertans and what has been going on in Alberta. Clearly, Albertans are not pleased with their performance.

I am named after a senior citizen, my grandfather, who lived a very good life. I'm very proud of him and proud to stand here today because of the fact that we treat seniors with respect. I told this PC Premier and caucus that I could not look a senior citizen in the eye, someone who at the time was 101 years old, when the minister of health at the time basically said that she's going to have to wait four or five years. Four or five more years, and at the time she was 101 years old, in an acute-care bed.

4:40

Mr. Speaker, let me conclude on that very good question that I thank the member for. I do not support what the Premier of Alberta has said about lifting the cap because it means the vulnerable, our seniors, who built this province, could be jeopardized once again. You know who can deliver the best care for our seniors? Clearly, it is their families, and I thank every Alberta family who has been supporting their loved ones. But when it comes to a point in time when they are in their home and they have to be moved to a long-term care facility, we need to provide them with the absolute necessary care so that we show them and demonstrate to them the respect that they deserve, that this government has not shown them.

The Acting Speaker: Thank you, hon. member.

The hon. Member for Calgary-Buffalo on Bill 7, the Appropriation Act, 2012.

Mr. Hehr: Well, thank you very much, Mr. Speaker, for recognizing me to speak on the Appropriation Act. I'm going to try to give my comments in a global sense, as it sort of directs where we've been as a province over the course of the last 25 years, and what I will try to see is what we should try to do over the next 25 years. I'll use this moment of discussing budgets and our adding to budgets at this time and use this time to try and outline a bit of a plan for where we have been and where we should be going.

If you look at the Alberta situation as it's been since approximately 1987, we have brought in some $225 billion in petroleum resource revenue. This is a largesse that almost any jurisdiction in North America and, I would hazard to guess, any jurisdiction in the world would have found to be a bounty of great abundance, which, by all accounts, it has been. But it's important to note what we've done with that unbelievable bounty. It's true that we've put up some hospitals, we've built some roads, we've built some schools and some other things, which, I guess, can be called legitimate government expenses. That is fine, but at the end of the day we have to look at whether this revenue source, which we have used to pay the day's bills, should be used to do that going forward.

I think, actually, that this downturn in the economy, this recession, this almost – I don't like to even use the word "recession." This is not really a recession; it's almost a fundamental breakdown of the market system by the way banks and finance companies and the like have set things up. It has caused us here in 2012 or may cause us to have a much better understanding of what Alberta may be like without oil and gas than we did in 2008. I don't think anyone in 2008 could have foreseen where the Alberta economy, the world economy was going to be over the course of these last four years. I think this lesson in time, if we do take it as a lesson in time, points us to what Alberta could be like without oil and gas revenues.

Like I say, over that 25-year-period from 1987 to 2012 we have spent every last dime of fossil fuel resources that has come in. Largely, we have very little left, if anything. You know, the sustainability fund is virtually drained. As the hon. Member for Calgary-Varsity pointed out, if you really add up the ledger on deficits for school infrastructure, on teachers' pension liabilities and the like, in my view this province would be considered in debt in cash due and owing. That's despite this largesse of one-time fossil fuel resources that we've enjoyed. I think we have to do a better job of planning for the long run here in this province. But, you know, as John Maynard Keynes said, "In the long run, we are all dead," so it's difficult to do that. I recognize that the pressures of the day dictate that sometimes that's difficult, but I think that given what we know and where we've been these last four years, we can do that.

I might introduce something here that may actually be a conservative principle going forward. I don't find it conservative at all, what we've been doing to this point in time, which has been to spend every last drop of fossil fuel resource that's coming to the public purse on paying today's bills. I don't think that it's conservative to have lowered taxes to such an extent that we used fossil fuel resources to lower taxes. Okay? I don't think that's conservative at all. I think that that's almost taking advantage of the fact that we live on 25 per cent of the world's oil resources and saying that it's our God-given right to blow it all on one generation. I don't believe that's conservative.

I think our future budgeting should look more like: what we use today, society should in fact pay for. Okay? Let's have that discussion with the electorate. What we use today as a society we should in fact pay for. With that principle you get a budget, and you factor that out. With this budget I think we're spending $11 billion in nonrenewable resources paying today's bills. You'd say to society: "Well, we bring in $30 billion worth of revenue. In order for you to pay for the services that you use, we're going to cut $11 billion from those services." I'm, by all means, not advocating for that, but that would be a legitimate starting place, to say: where do we cut? Then you legitimately ask people: "Do you want to cut teachers? Do you want to cut nurses? Do you want to cut hospital staff? Do you not want us to build roads? Do you not want us to do all this stuff?" Then they have to ask themselves whether they truly want to pay for the services; i.e., taxation. That's what it is.

We have to understand here that sometimes governments are involved to deliver services to society in a more efficient manner than individuals can do for themselves. It's a trite example, but imagine, Mr. Speaker, if we all went out and built our own roads. Can you imagine us all building a road to the Legislature, all building a road to our school? This isn't a very decent way for society to organize itself. So there are certain things that government can do. I would say that in the main those are public health care and public education. In my view, clearly those are appropriate expenditures for government to be involved in to help with the organization of society or the creation at least of equality of opportunity, a place where rich and poor can develop their lives, strive to build their lives in the manner they see fit.

Back to my point on this budget, have that conversation with Albertans about what, actually, government services provide and have them legitimately pay for them. Or if you wanted, then say: "You want to do it yourself? Let's cut from that position that doesn't cut into the fossil fuel resources side of things, or let's add to that position without spending the fossil fuel resources." Okay? That would be a legitimate, open, honest debate of whether you're in favour of cutting services, like someone on the alleged right-wing side of the spectrum would want, or adding to services, like someone on the alleged left-wing side of services would want.

4:50

What we've done here is simply thrown these fossil fuel resources into the mix and considered that it's ours to blow. We've tried to trumpet around that we are being fiscally conservative by keeping taxes low, but we're not. We're just being fiscally irresponsible, which is more to the point. We're being fiscally irresponsible to future generations, to Alberta's future, and to really doing pragmatically what would be correct and fair to the people of Alberta both now and into our future. So if we're going to have that debate with people, let's not confuse it with our fossil fuel resources. Then you can have a legitimate debate about what role government has in your society and what it doesn't.

What this government does is try to claim to be conservative by keeping taxes low while all the while blasting through fossil fuel resources. Really, it's taking the cop-out position, and that, in my view, has to stop. If you want to have this discussion with people, have it in an open and transparent fashion.

Let's point to the example of Norway. Okay? Norway, as you well know, has a fund set up of $600 billion, maybe even $700 billion. What they have done, then, is considered fossil fuel resources one of those things we set aside, and we discuss with the citizenry what we're going to pay for today and what we're not going to pay for today. This money is set aside because it's not our right to blow it in one generation. That, to me, is a legitimate position.

I believe in all objectivity that if someone from around the world or if someone from Mars, let's say, came down and looked at the way Norway did it over the last 25 years and the way Alberta did it and objectively looked as to who did it right, there's only one answer they can come to. There's only one sane answer you can come to. It was Norway. Okay? So let's try and get to that legitimate debate with people about what we use, what the role of government is, and let's have that starting point with our people, not fudge it by blasting through oil and gas revenues. That's why I was encouraged to hear in the throne speech that we will be looking at all revenue sources.

Now, I realize it's election time, and we have to take positions. If this government is back – and by all accounts that might be a difficult thing to say; right now it's not clear whether they will be back – I hope that is a position they honestly take. I believe honestly that Albertans will appreciate the fact that we're giving some view to the long run, our future prosperity.

Guess what? Say if we even draw a dot. I always go back to this. People say people are moving here for the low taxes. Well, I'll tell you what. Out of about the last 60 people I've asked why they moved here, they moved here for a job. Actually, in fact, the next person I meet who says they've moved here for the low taxes will be the first person. Okay? I simply don't run into them.

We must remember that, you know, oftentimes it's accidents of geography; i.e., us living in the Pembina basin, which has a lot of geological basis that allows us to have this oil and gas wealth, is the reason for our prosperity. I know the old joke is: well, the Tories put the oil in the ground. But I've been here almost 42 years, and my dad's been here 69 years, and he rightfully tells me that it was the Social Credit who put it in the ground anyway. So let's give credit where credit is due, if we're really trying to be cute with it. Let's remember that our economy runs principally on accidents of geography.

If we could consider some of the things I've said in here, maybe it holds some validity on how we should do future budgeting and how we should really talk about the future best interests of this province. Maybe I've said something of relevance, or maybe I haven't, but I've tried.

Thank you, Mr. Speaker. I look forward to other people's thoughts on the matter.

The Acting Speaker: Thank you, hon. member.

Section 29(2)(a) is available for five minutes of questioning or commenting. The hon. Member for Calgary-Varsity.

Mr. Chase: Yes. Possibly, Mr. Speaker, I already know the answer for what I'm about to ask. It may be a rhetorical question, but if you could comment briefly on the importance of both a public education system and a public health care system that is public, not only publicly funded but publicly delivered, publicly administered, how that is important in the budgeting process to make sure that we have the most appropriate funding for both public education and public health care.

Mr. Hehr: Clearly, I hope you'd start with the principles outlined before. We bring in $30 billion in federal transfers, some revenues from user fees, another $12 billion from personal and corporate taxation. Hopefully, you would build a budget with what the government of the day does to provide public health care and publicly delivered health care, because I believe in the main that that is the most reasonable approach given our geography, our history, and actually getting results from the health care system as well as simply funding a public education system.

If I could comment on the role of government in public education, I believe their only role under the Constitution is to provide funding for public schools, our separate schools. Our francophone schools outside of that constitutional responsibility the government has made an accommodation for.

In fact, I believe a splinter society doesn't add value to it and doesn't move your society forward in an egalitarian way that recognizes equality of opportunity. That's what the education system is there for, to recognize equality of opportunity. Your education should not be based upon the wealth of your parents or, actually, frankly, the religion of your parents. If you want that you can pay for it yourself.

In the main, in returning those two things to a budget, whether it was a Liberal government, a Conservative government, a New Democrat government or a Wildrose government, I hope they would go back to that base principle of trying to at least give out what our oil and gas resources are, and say: no, these we don't touch.

We're able to in Alberta have corporations that because of our accidents of geography, i.e. living on 25 per cent of the world's oil resources, are able to make large profits. Accordingly, they should be asked to pay for some of those things that we do today. Their employees use it, the owners use it, all of that stuff. We should have corporations pay a little more, and I think in the Liberal platform we struck a reasonable start on that, like 2 per cent more.

I also think it's insane that we've adopted a flat-tax system here in Alberta, a system that sees a person making a million dollars a year pay the same rate of tax as the person making $30,000 a year. [interjection] Still, if we look at it, we're the only jurisdiction in North America that has this type of taxation system. You know, being the only person doing it is not always a good thing. You might have to question why governments haven't followed this lead if it's been such a panacea, if it's been such a real value for us. It hasn't been a real value for us. It's allowed us to snow through all of this resource revenue at once.

I heard an hon. member say: well, they paid more tax. But I'm looking at society in general. Has it been that you want to go to this taxation principle to then snow through all these fossil fuel resources? Well, that is a government choice, but I don't believe it serves society well in either the short term or the long term. In the short term, because you can never tell what your resource revenue is going to be from year to year, it doesn't allow for predictable and sustainable funding. In the long term it doesn't allow us to save and protect future generations. He's just putting off the day when the oil and gas is gone, and then those people will be forced to pay a 50 per cent tax rate if they want to keep up the services we have today.

5:00

The Acting Speaker: Thank you very much, hon. member.

The chair is pleased to recognize the hon. Member for Edmonton-Highlands-Norwood on Bill 7, the Appropriation Act, 2012.

Mr. Mason: Thank you very much, Mr. Speaker. It's a pleasure to rise and speak to Bill 7, the Appropriation Act, 2012, which is predominately a bill about this coming budget. It appropriates the funds to meet the budget estimates for the 2012-13 year.

Mr. Speaker, today in question period I posed a number of questions to the Premier relating to her habit or tactic of postponing difficult decisions until after the election to create reviews that are supposedly independent, which may or may not have fixed terms of reference and times that they're going to be coming back to us, in order to dispose of difficult questions that might cause the Progressive Conservative Party some trouble in the election. And I said during that debate that this has become such a common tactic employed by the Premier that it's almost a cliché: of course, that's what she's going to do.

She stood up and said, "Well, you know, I can't interfere with the process that we have here," as if the process was something set by someone other than her and set for some purpose other than to create some distance from a difficult issue and sufficient delay to get it past the election. We've seen this with the so-called public inquiry into health care, which is not on any of the matters that were promised. There's a review on electricity prices. There's a review on MLA compensation. There's a review on whether or not the cap for long-term care fees is going to be lifted. The list goes on and on.

Mr. Speaker, I was trying to characterize this budget, and it occurred to me as I was thinking about it that this budget does exactly what the Premier has been doing with every other difficult issue. At first, it was a surprising sort of budget to be tabled by a Conservative government because there was a little more spending on things like education and health care, some of the things that the Conservatives traditionally cut between elections.

We knew it was going to be an election budget – we knew that – but if you really examine it, Mr. Speaker, you'll find that this increase in funding, which is intended to be popular as the Conservative Party goes to face the people, is a bit of a sleight of hand, that, in fact, what they've done here is not sustainable and it is not realistic. The chickens will come home to roost, but the government has carefully arranged things so that they will come home to roost, they hope, after they are safely re-elected.

The assumptions in this budget are, quite simply, so optimistic that you might consider that it is just a hope and a prayer. The fiscal plan, for example, forecasts nominal GDP growth at 7.7 per cent next year, Mr. Speaker. That's a phenomenal rate of growth. They're predicting that personal income tax revenue is going to increase by 9.3 per cent, but at the same time they're only predicting that the population will grow by 2 per cent in the same period of time. They are expecting corporate income tax to go up by 11 and a half per cent, so an additional $500 million and an additional $800 million for personal income tax.

Quite frankly, Mr. Speaker, it goes beyond optimistic. It really looks to me that they have put deliberately overly optimistic figures in terms of the economic growth that they're predicting in this province. Now, that might happen. You know, I've heard the government ads that are being run at taxpayers' expense: the boom is back and good times are returning to the province. They really are something that the Progressive Conservative Party should be paying for, but we're all paying for the government's very upbeat message as they head towards an election. I would suggest that they are misusing taxpayers' funds.

They are trying to create the impression that all of the spending that's included in this budget is going to be sustainable or achievable, and I think that that is really stretching it. It's possible, but the chances of significantly less growth are there as well. So they're gambling. Of course, if they lose, then we all lose. But they plan to be safely re-elected by that point, Mr. Speaker, and then have another three years or so to figure out what to do to dig the province out of the hole that they've put us in.

Now, one of the things that I think is important is that this government is continuing to provide significant expenditures for program expenditures. There's no question about it, Mr. Speaker. Whether it's spent wisely or not is another question, but we all know that Alberta spends more, for example, on health care per capita than any other province. They're doing that at the same time as they're continuing along with the tax cuts for the wealthy and the corporations that they promised and delivered on years ago. This government has in the last 10 years cut corporate taxes from 16 per cent to about 10 per cent. That's about a one-third or slightly more than one-third cut in corporate taxes that's taken place in that time. Also, they imposed a flat tax on personal income, which provides a very, very handsome tax reduction for the very wealthiest amongst us.

That's their priority, and those are the things that they've really done. There's no indication that they're going to change that, nor is there any indication that they're going to change the fact that we have some of the lowest royalties in the entire world on our natural resources, particularly on our oil. They did this, Mr. Speaker, at a time when gas prices were very high and the government was getting enormous amounts of revenue from natural gas royalties. Now, as we all know, the shale gas finds in B.C. and in the United States and so on have depressed gas prices, and they're going to stay depressed for the foreseeable future, so the revenue has dropped.

That brings us to why we're running a deficit in the province. It's not because the government is overspending on social programs, but it is because it has become too dependent on nonrenewable resource revenue to fund programs. Right now, Mr. Speaker, about 30 per cent of our program spending is funded by nonrenewable resource revenue, and that became necessary because of the tax cuts that the government has created.

When you look at the budget, Mr. Speaker, there are many aspects of it that I think are seriously deficient. But the main point that I want to make is that they have basically brought forward a budget that is not realistic, that overestimates the revenue, that paints a really rosy picture, that's designed to get them re-elected, and we will all pay the piper sometime down the road. They're doing that, I think, in a very deliberate and very cynical way. I think that's the main point.

5:10

There are a number of problems with how the government is approaching different questions. Of course, long-term care is one of them. We have a serious shortage of long-term care. The government tries not to even talk about long-term care. They talk about continuing care and they talk about assisted living and so on and that they are planning to have this delivered by the private sector. So the private sector has told the government, you know, that: "If you want us to invest our capital in your assisted living facilities, we're going to have to make some money from it. We're going to have to make a profit. That's the business we're in." That is, in fact, a requirement if you're going to go to the private sector for anything.

So they've said that one of the things you're going to have to do is take the cap off of long-term care fees. The Premier said today that allegations that the government was planning to do that were completely false, that my question was full of things that just simply weren't true. But actually, Mr. Speaker, if you go back to her campaign promises, when she sought the leadership, she talked about removing the cap on long-term care. Her own minister of health talked just the other day about having a discussion with Albertans after the election.

Ms Notley: Her Minister of Seniors.

Mr. Mason: I'm sorry. The Minister of Seniors said that.

There's no question in my mind that the government is intending to do this, but they are simply going to defer the decision until after the election. I don't know if anyone else sees a pattern here, Mr. Speaker, but I certainly do see a pattern.

The Conservatives are running as if they were Liberals or New Democrats in this election. But when you really scratch the shiny new paint job, Mr. Speaker, you see the same old Tory blue underneath because this budget, if you analyze it, leads back to the same old Tory policies once the election is over. We're going to see more costs loaded onto people, onto families for health care, for seniors' care, for electricity.

The Premier has claimed that they've stabilized electricity prices. In fact, there are ads that I've seen on the Internet and other places saying that the government has brought in a program to stabilize electricity prices. Nothing could be further from the truth, Mr. Speaker. What they've done is that they've frozen some of the intermediary fees, the ancillary fees, that are the most stable part of our power price, and they've stabilized them at the highest price they've been in 10 years. They've done a big favour to those companies because they've frozen those fees at a very, very high level. So those companies are guaranteed lots of revenue from those fees. What they haven't done is done anything about the cost of actual electricity, which remains extremely volatile, which remains very high, unstable. They've done nothing. The government's claim and its use of taxpayers' money to claim that they've stabilized electricity prices is absolutely false.

Mr. Speaker, there are many other issues related to this budget, but because this bill is about appropriation, I've tried to focus primarily on the revenue side and the overly optimistic estimates that the government has provided in order to justify a budget that not only combines tax reductions or very low taxes for the very wealthiest and their friends in the corporate sector, who fund their election campaigns, but at the same time provides some increases to program spending.

It's not an honest budget, Mr. Speaker. It is a sleight of hand. It is, in fact, the very, very embodiment of this Premier's philosophy, which is to stall for time, to put off difficult decisions until after the government is safely re-elected. It is my sincere hope that the people of Alberta will see through this budget, will see through the Progressive Conservative Party and throw this government out, as it should, when the election is called within a few days.

Thank you very much, Mr. Speaker.

The Acting Speaker: Thank you.

Hon. members, section 29(2)(a) is available. The hon. Member for Calgary-Varsity under 29(2)(a).

Mr. Chase: Thank you. I'll repeat the question that I put to the hon. Member for Calgary-Buffalo. Your opinion with regard to the budgeting for publicly funded, publicly administered, publicly delivered health care and education: do you feel this budget addresses those concerns or that it's tending toward privatization or other methods of delivery of services at public expense?

The Acting Speaker: The hon. member to respond.

Mr. Mason: Yes. Thank you very much, Mr. Speaker. I will just note that it's the New Democratic Party that has been over the long run the most consistent supporter of publicly funded and publicly delivered education and health care, and we're very proud of that. We haven't wavered. We don't say one thing in one election and something else in another. I think you could probably also say that, although they're a young party, of the Wildrose, that they are fairly consistent in wanting more private health care. The government also wants more private health care, but they don't say so at election time. They do it afterwards, and, you know, I've had enough experience to realize that that's the case. In the 2004 election I challenged Ralph Klein in the leaders' debate that he had a secret plan for privatizing health care, which he hotly denied. A few months later we had the third way, which was two-tiered private health care.

The same thing happened when the last Premier was in the debate in the campaign in 2008. He had said absolutely nothing about the government's plans for changing health care, but as soon as he was re-elected, he appointed the health minister of the day, who was, as we've said, a one-man wrecking crew in the health system. He closed beds, and he shut down hospitals, and he laid off nurses. He created a corporate model of health care to be delivered here, which the government has still not gotten rid of.

There's lots of evidence that this government deliberately hides its plans for private health care before elections and then implements them after. I believe they're doing it again because, of course, we do have that caucus document, that was presented to the PC caucus by the current minister of health, that talked about more private delivery, more private insurance, doctors operating in both the public and the private systems at the same time. That's where they're going again, Mr. Speaker. At least the Wildrose is honest about their plans, and I think that that really speaks volumes. There is no question in my mind that this budget doesn't meet fundamental tests in terms of protecting public health care, and by that I mean publicly delivered health care, not just publicly funded, and education.

Just on that point, I wanted to just, you know, talk a little bit about what this government does and what it means when they say: public health care. They clarify, if pressed, that they mean publicly funded health care, that they're committed to publicly funded health care, but what that means is that they want to use taxpayers' money to subsidize the private profits of their corporate friends as they deliver, whether it's a drug company or an insurance company or private health care, a private hospital or a private clinic. That's what they mean. Sure, it's publicly funded, but what it actually is is taxpayers' money supporting private profit in health care. All of the evidence shows clearly that publicly delivered health care provides the best outcomes at the lowest price, so if you want to control costs for the taxpayer, a publicly funded and publicly delivered system is far and away the best option. That's something we've been consistent about, Mr. Speaker. It's not just this election.

The same for education. The government likes to talk about choice in education. They like to talk about private schools, home-schooling, and so on, but we're committed to strengthening the public school system and making it stronger.

Thank you.

5:20

The Acting Speaker: Thank you.

Hon. members, the Government House Leader wishes to speak. We'll try to maintain a reasonable rotation list here. For some answers to some of the questions posed, I will recognize the Government House Leader, and then we'll go to Calgary-Currie and wrap up with Airdrie-Chestermere.

Mr. Hancock: Thank you, Mr. Speaker. I've been sitting here patiently listening all afternoon to some of the comments on the Appropriation Act. I have to say that I live in an almost entirely different world than the other speakers. I live in an optimistic world. I live in a place where people care about their province and the future of their children and their grandchildren. Investing in people was a priority for the constituents in Edmonton-Whitemud, recognizing that there are two ways to build our province for the future. One is investing in infrastructure, which this government has consistently done, and the other is investing in people so that they have the knowledge, skills, and ability to be able to take advantage of the opportunities that exist here in this province.

That's what Budget 2012 was about: investing in people and ensuring that we have the kind of society, the kind of place where Albertans can live in dignity, where if they have issues or barriers to success, problems to overcome, as a society we come together to help, not to do it for them, not to take away their independence but to help where help is needed, so that every Albertan has access to those opportunities. That's what Budget 2012 speaks to.

Budget 2012 speaks to that sense of the place that we're in now, which is the envy of virtually every place in the world at the moment, certainly of every place in North America in terms of the economic opportunity and the quality of life: the ability to live in a community that has clean air, clean water, a big blue sky; the things that are rich about our community, the ability to go for a walk in the river valley in Edmonton or to go to the new Art Gallery of Alberta or to go to a football game or a hockey game, if that's your idea of culture, or to go to a symphony.

I had the privilege, Mr. Speaker, a number of years ago of heading a process to develop a 20-year strategic plan, and we talked about unleashing innovation and leading and learning so that we could compete in a global marketplace and ensure that Alberta was the best place to live, work, and raise our families. In fact, that's what we're achieving. We're well on track for that 20-year strategic plan, understanding that oil and gas and carbon resources are fundamental to our economy today with agriculture, forestry, which is a carbon resource as well, and people and tourism.

When I hear people talking about Budget 2012 the way that we've heard this afternoon, I'm thinking that that doesn't describe the people I've talked with in Edmonton-Whitemud or across Edmonton or across the province, for that matter. That doesn't relate to their sense of hope and optimism in the province for themselves, for their children, for their families.

I heard the hon. Member for Edmonton-Highlands-Norwood talking about projections and not being realistic in the projections. The hon. member should know and understand, because it's been discussed before – or he could read it in the estimates and the business plan – that the way we project revenue now is the same as we projected revenue before. Nobody is making up new numbers. You basically look at: what's the price of oil going to be? Nobody actually knows what the price of oil is going to be. You look at the best prognosticators in the world, you take all of their advice, you take an average of what they're talking about, you look at some private prognosticators because we have access to good information as well from private companies, and then you take something that's slightly lower than their average in order to be more conservative about the prognostication, the same process as has been used in the past.

When you take a look at the volumes, you don't make up the volumes. You go and ask the people who are in production how much they're going to produce, and you base your projection of revenue based on price and volume. Both of those are numbers that are not made up; they're numbers that come.

When people talk about optimistic projections, indeed they are optimistic. They're optimistic because the prognosticators around the world, the best people in the field, are very optimistic about where the price of oil is going to be. They're not that optimistic about where the price of gas is going to be, but at least they're putting out their figures as to what they believe it'll be. We know with some degree of certainty, barring a disaster, what the volumes are going to be.

So the projections are not made up. The projections are a process that's used every year to determine what revenues we might be able to achieve from royalties based on those numbers.

In terms of balancing the budget, again, I've spoken to many, many people in my constituency and in Edmonton and, indeed, across the province about what their priority is. Do they want to balance the budget this year at all costs? Well, the answer has been a resounding no. They don't want government to cut back on health, they don't want government to reduce the funding to education, and they certainly don't want to decrease the investment in people services, in human services. In fact, there's been a lot of sentiment expressed, a lot of very, very good comments from across the province, about the increase, for example, of $400 to AISH recipients, a promise that was made by the Premier and a promise that we kept in this budget, a very important statement about people living in dignity.

Albertans are not cruel people; they're not inhumane people. They don't want to balance the budget at all costs. They want to know that there is a plan and a process by which we will be able to live within our means. They want to know that we're using the contingency fund appropriately, that we know where we're going, and that we are being very prudent with the resources so that we get value for money. Indeed, I've talked, again, with a number of people who think that Bill 1, the value review process for budgeting, is a very important process because what it says is that we want to have certain programs to ensure that Albertans are helped when they need help, that we want to have education and health care, but we want to know that the money that's being spent is being spent prudently and achieving the results. So the Results-based Budgeting Act is a very important piece of legislation to highlight that that's exactly where we're going.

The projections are not outlandish. They're not off base. They're done in a prudent manner. They may be wrong – and, heaven knows, they've been wrong before – but that's because they have to be based on numbers that nobody can actually ascertain until they look in their rear-view mirror, and we will do that eventually. But for now we're projecting the revenues in exactly the same way as we've projected revenues before, and it's an appropriate way to do it.

We're planning for programming for Albertans in a manner which allows us to look at each program and say, "Are we getting value for money, and are we achieving the results that Albertans want?" We'll continue to do that.

Then we come to the capital budget. Some of our friends here think that the way to balance a budget is to not spend so much money on capital. Of course, at the same time they say: but spend the money in capital in my riding because my kids are more important than your kids. That's just untenable, Mr. Speaker.

We have a province that has had significant growth spurts. One of the growth spurts was in the '70s, and a lot of buildings were built in the '70s. A lot of schools were built in the '70s. Fifty per cent of our school buildings are now more than 40 years of age. There's a lot of work to be done. There's been a lot of maintenance work done on them over the years, but there's a lot of work to be done to modernize those school buildings that we still need and to build new in areas of growth like Edmonton-Whitemud.

In Edmonton-Whitemud there have been eight new schools built in the period of time that I've represented that constituency. I think that's the highest number of schools in the province. They're not being built because of me; they're being built because we've had phenomenal growth. Of the four new schools that were opened not this last fall but the fall before, all of them are looking for additional modulars to be attached to those schools, all of them are well over capacity, and all of them are looking for answers in terms of how they can deal with the children that they have coming to those schools and how they can find the right places for them.

To suggest that we should take our capital budget and stretch it out over a few more years so as to balance the budget as opposed to investing the capital now and amortizing it over a period of its useful life is, in my view, wrong headed. We need to invest now in the roads that help to create the economy. We need to invest now in the schools which help to invest in people and create the opportunities for our citizens. We need to do that now, and we are doing it now, and it happens to have been a very good policy to do it over the past few years, when there was a slowdown in the economy, when prices went down a little bit, and when people needed jobs. It was a good investment then, but it's still a good investment now to build those schools when we need them and not to take the advice of the Wildrose Party, which suggests to stretch the capital funding out.

5:30

Now, they suggest: well, you could actually just prioritize your funding. They would have Albertans believe that the $350 million, which they seem to have spent about 150 times in the last two years on different things, that is budgeted for the federal building could have just been saved. Well, a building like the federal building costs money when it's sitting empty, and that's not very good value for money, so one has to make some tough decisions sometimes. Are you going to invest in that building, or are you going to dispose of that building? What are you going to do with it? Are you just going to have costs thrown away every year? So very prudent decisions are made, but that's not money that's spent every year in the budget. That's money that's spent over the build of the project.

So you can't spend that $350 million every year like the Wildrose would want us to do or $2 billion for carbon capture and storage or $2 billion for GreenTRIP. They would have us just redirect all that money. Well, I've got news for them. There isn't $2 billion in this year's budget for carbon capture and storage or for GreenTRIP. That's money for projects which are deemed to be important, and the money is budgeted for those projects over a much longer period of time. In fact, it's similar to what they are suggesting, that we have to spread some of the things out a little bit longer. Well, news to them: we did that.

The reality is that this budget is a very important budget for Albertans. It's about investing in people. It's about ensuring that we have that balance between building the right kind of infrastructure for the right reasons and in the right places to ensure that we support the growth of the economy – the new people who are coming here, the baby boom that we've had here – and that we can support the infrastructure that we need in health, for example. It's not just the new buildings like the Calgary hospital or the Edmonton clinic, which are going to be very important as we move forward not just to service the health needs of Albertans but to find the new knowledge we need to be able to do it better – those are important investments – but it's also investing in people so that we have the people capacity to do the work, whether it's research work or whether it's nursing or whether it's doctors or whether it's otherwise delivering those services to Albertans.

So quite apart from what we've heard over the course of this afternoon about the doom and gloom of the budget or the bad projections or the failure to invest properly, Mr. Speaker, I would suggest to this House that this is a very good budget for Albertans. It's the budget that Albertans asked for and want. It's the budget which maintains and builds on the programs that they want for their children, for their parents when they need it, in health or in education, that builds the infrastructure we need, and, hopefully, one that we can build on so that places like Edmonton-Whitemud, that right now has 74,000 residents, which is the largest constituency in the province until the writ is dropped and growing every day, can build the infrastructure we need so that we can invest in people in the way that we need to ensure that they can contribute back to our province in the strongest possible way.

That's the kind of Alberta that people want. That's the kind of Alberta that Edmonton-Whitemud constituents are telling me about. It has nothing to do with the type of Alberta that the members of the opposition seem to be living in.

The Acting Speaker: Thank you.

Hon. members, 29(2)(a) is available. Calgary-Varsity, proceed.

Mr. Chase: Thank you very much. I like to be a positive person as well and make judgments based on reality and also have a degree of faith and hope for the best, but what no member of the government has indicated is the contingency, or fallback, plan. Now, we've seen circumstances within recent memory, for example, of the manipulation of the power market, where TransAlta Utilities suffered a very small fine but made almost 3 and a half million dollars. There appears to be, because I haven't heard it, and I look forward to hearing it, no backup plan.

Right now this province is still dependent for over 80 per cent of its power production on coal-fired generation, an archaic form of power generation with many negative side effects. But what happens if, because of the aging of this power infrastructure, we have repeats, that we've seen before, of three coal-fired generation plants shutting down at the same time? Surprisingly, the cost of electricity goes sailing through the roof, and we have to import it from B.C. at a considerable higher price, yet the power generators benefit from that inflated price. So there's no large motivation for them to get these monolithic coal-fired plants back in gear.

We are repeatedly, with our weather and our climate change circumstance, seeing 100-year anomaly flooding examples occurring year after year. With the climate warming, we saw this past summer the terrific fire that consumed the larger portion of Slave Lake. Previously, in 2003, we saw the Lost Creek fire, that was very devastating.

The government does not seem to be concerned about the effects of climate change and water on its practice of clear-cutting. They're clear-cutting in the southern watershed, in the Castle-Crown region. They're clear-cutting in Bragg Creek. Those clear-cutting costs are not reflected in this budget, and that's a concern I have because the residents down south, as I mentioned in my question today, from Beaver Mines east – Beaver Mines being the closest community affected by the clear-cutting – are all going to see significant increases in their water filtration costs because of the erosion that will take place. Again, the government has refused to show documentation that would prove to the contrary.

For the 1.3 million individuals living in Calgary and then add on close to another .2 million in the vicinity that are dependent on both the Bow and Elbow rivers, when you clear-cut in the Bragg Creek area and the silt runs into the river because it's no longer being held by the roots of the trees, which are no longer there, then there are considerably greater costs in the filtration process, which is not taken into account in this budget.

The minister mentioned with pride that we're not just oil and gas. We're also agriculture. We're also forestry. But if we continue to have forestry practices that are not sustainable, that actually take away from the budget as opposed to contributing to it, then we're going to be in trouble. Again, the government hasn't accounted for that. They're blissfully believing that clear-cutting is still a sustainable practice. It has been abandoned in B.C. It was never practised in Europe. It's been abandoned in the majority of southern States. There are costs associated with this failure to look at long-term sustainability.

Now, we are, as I mentioned earlier . . .

The Acting Speaker: Thank you, hon. member.

The chair is pleased to recognize the hon. Member for Calgary-Currie, followed by Airdrie-Chestermere, and then Vermilion-Lloydminster in that order.

Mr. Anderson: How much time . . .

The Acting Speaker: Calgary-Currie has the floor first.

Mr. Taylor: Thank you. Don't worry, Airdrie-Chestermere, you are going to get a chance to speak. If we do this right, we may even be able to vote on this before 6 o'clock because I'm not going to take a great long period of time. Lord knows, a lot of speakers so far this afternoon have.

You know, there's much on both sides of this House that I agree with in the debate that's gone on so far. I personally don't think this is that bad of a budget. I would quibble with what the Human Services minister says in that this is a very important budget for Albertans. When you're spending $40 billion a year, every budget is very important for Albertans, not just the budgets that precede an election call.

Despite what I like or don't like about this budget – and many of those points have been covered already, Mr. Speaker – there is one very clear and specific reason why I will be voting against the Appropriation Act today, and that is because of the process that's involved in going through the estimates of the budget.

5:40

I can put it very simply and very succinctly. The amounts that we're being expected to vote on for Tourism, Parks and Recreation: expense, $158,214,000; capital investment, $13,582,000; non-budgetary disbursements, $400,000. You know what? That works out to about $170 million to $175 million, and we spent three hours debating the estimates of the Ministry of Tourism, Parks and Recreation.

The amounts for Health and Wellness: expenses, $15,894,912,000; capital investments, $77,226,000. We're basically talking about $16 billion in Health and Wellness, the ministry responsible for the issue that repeatedly shows up as the issue that is most important to the people of Alberta, most concerning to the people of Alberta. How much time did we spend? How much time did we have to debate the estimates of the Department of Health and Wellness? Let's see. Three hours. Three hours for $175 million; three hours for $16 billion. That is a fundamentally flawed process.

This Legislature could do so much more, could do so much better: the 83 people who sit in here until the call of the election. I am confident the 87 people who will sit in here when the 28th Legislative Assembly of the province of Alberta is convened following the election will have a great deal to contribute if only they'll be allowed to contribute. If they're allowed to work in a bipartisan or multipartisan fashion to drill down into some of these numbers and really have parliamentary-style budget hearings that allow us all to get to the facts of the matter and amend and suggest changes and so on and so forth, we will come up with better budgets.

I'm not saying that this is a bad budget. In fact, the very first time I talked about it in this House, I said that it wasn't a bad budget and that there was much about it that I agreed with. I'm a little suspicious of those sunshine-and-lollipops projections for the next two fiscal years after we get through this one coming up, but for this fiscal year there is a lot in this budget that I can support.

But why I cannot support this budget – and this is not to deny our hard-working civil servants a paycheque; this is not to deny people on AISH their payments; this is not to deny people who deserve to have schools their schools; this is not to deny health care to anybody, whether they've been intimidated or not – is because the process is flawed. We have $16 billion at stake in one department, $40 billion at stake overall give or take, and we spend so little time going through the details of that. The process is flawed. I will be voting against Bill 7.

Thank you, Mr. Speaker.

The Acting Speaker: Thank you.

Section 29(2)(a) is available.

If not, we'll proceed with the hon. Member for Airdrie-Chestermere's comments.

Mr. Anderson: And then who is after me, Mr. Speaker? Is he here? Okay. Good.

Well, I won't take the full time – I think there is one other that wants to speak to this – but I do want to say that, obviously, I'm opposed to this budget. There are parts of it that I agree with. For example, I agree that the education build, the new school build that's outlined in the Education budget, is a priority area for Alberta. In fact, I'd like to see more resources taken from other areas of the budget and put into the Education portion of the budget, particularly in the area of new schools and upgrades and so forth.

However, there is so much significant waste that it's appalling. I've outlined that, you know, many times throughout this budget debate. I just want to say again that we have to start looking at this budget from a different perspective than we have previously. We cannot continue this game of saying that we can either have a balanced budget or we can have schools, that we can have a balanced budget or we can have new hospitals and so forth.

That is so beyond shallow of an argument. It really drives any logical thinking human being nuts because it's just absolutely not the case. You can balance the budget, and you can have the schools and health facilities that you need, but you have to be able to prioritize. You have to be able to say no to certain special-interest groups. You have to be able to say no to padding your own pockets with regard to salaries and benefits and so forth. You have to be able to say no to some things.

You know, as someone who considers himself a fiscal conservative, I was hoping, when I joined the PC Party in 2007 – well, I joined them before that but ran for them in 2007 as someone who thought he was joining a fiscally conservative party. We cannot continue in this way because fiscal conservatives don't say: one or the other. They say: we can do both. We can build what we need with what we bring in, and we will make do with that. That means putting other things off.

I hope that that mentality over time will change going into the next budget. I definitely believe and hope that it will be a Wildrose caucus that presents that next budget, to show how that's done.

Mr. Speaker, although we agree with some of the things in this budget, we do not agree with the overall idea of running yet another deficit at $105-a-barrel oil. We think it's irresponsible. We think the projections are irresponsible. We think it's a disservice to future generations. So we will not be supporting it.

We would also add that the comments earlier that there was no tax increase in this budget are not accurate. There was a tax increase. Last year's budget: there was no tax increase in that budget. This year there was. There was a property tax increase in this budget.

As the Herald editorial said today, it was another broken promise by this Premier. She raised property taxes, and she didn't have to, especially since she said that she wouldn't, and to disguise it as anything else is just not the case. Calgarians and Edmontonians and Albertans from east to west in this province are going to receive higher taxes because of their decision on this.

With that, we will not be supporting this budget because of the deficit and the tax increases and several other problems in it. Thank you, Mr. Speaker.

The Acting Speaker: Thank you, hon. member.

Section 29(2)(a) is available.

Seeing no one, I would be pleased to recognize the hon. Member for Vermilion-Lloydminster.

Mr. Snelgrove: Thank you, Mr. Speaker. Just a few comments on the budget, probably from what we would call the 50,000-foot view as opposed to individual issues. I guess the concern that I have is that the world financial markets have looked at us for quite some time now and said: "You are growing. You are spending too fast. You are in waters that are unsustainable, and it causes us concern."

I had the privilege of meeting with some of the moderating people last year, and they said: "It's not what you're spending right now, but you're building into your budget money that can't possibly continue to grow at that rate. You have to make some tough choices." Common sense, Mr. Speaker, would say that we can't be spending this much more than other provinces, yet we're not getting significantly different results.

I will give an example that I know future governments will probably deal with. What about the Education minister? I know he's very passionate about looking for money to build more schools and then is saying: but we have 40,000 empty seats in Edmonton public. I just got back from Jamaica. They run two shifts in their schools. Maybe that won't work here; maybe it will. Schools that are now empty 180 days a year could be used far more effectively. We have population centres now that can support it, in the bigger centres. Maybe it's four semesters. Maybe it's six. Maybe it's 12. And the hours of instruction per subject: put that all on the table. You won't get there if you don't say: "No. Hold it. We've got to fix some things here."

5:50

I can appreciate the work that many of the departments have done over the past few years to bring change. Industry gives us examples every day of industries that have been forced to change, and they come out of it stronger. We shouldn't be any different in government when we're challenged with making changes to our health care and our education.

I can tell you that one thing Albertans have is courage to work with you. If they know what you're trying to do, they'll work with you. They want us to make decisions. We have far more information in here than the average person on the street will ever know, and they don't want to know. They want to trust us to see the information, to make good, sound judgment calls based on our party policies or our values, and then go forward. Quite honestly, most would rather that we didn't have to spend so much time in front of them, I think.

The point that I'm trying to make is that you could use whatever projections you want. They aren't an issue with me. I always found it interesting, too, that the experts from Ontario and other large centres would come here and tell us how to save money, but I never heard what they were telling Ontario. I never heard what they were telling Quebec, who haven't got a prayer of saving money well into the next generation because of the debt they accumulated. I think that they think: "Well, they're lost causes. We might as well go to Alberta, where there's hope, and we'll tell them how to run their business. We didn't do that well here in Ontario." I'm kind of a show-me guy. If you've done a better job than Alberta, show us, and we can learn from it.

I also find interesting the people that say that we have to loosen our dependency on oil. That's a little bit like telling the farmers in Kansas that they shouldn't be counting on wheat. You know, you have to hunt where the ducks are. We're sitting on the largest pool of hydrocarbons in the world, and if we believe that the world is not going to use oil in the near future, then we better think about changing.

It's one of the tools we've got, one of the opportunities we've got as a province. Do we need to do it right? Absolutely. Could we be leaders in research and technology? Totally. Do we need to develop new markets? Yes. And we cannot forget about lumber or agriculture. That's all part of it. Somehow being lucky or being situated on top shouldn't come with an anchor that says that you have to change just because no one else has this.

It also does cause problems, Mr. Speaker, for our other provinces. When we provide contracts for people who work for us, whether it's nurses, teachers, doctors, or whatever, it forces other provinces to do the same or lose them, and they can't afford it. They don't have the resources we've got, and it does not make our position at the Council of the Federation very popular when we spend it because we can.

I can tell you that the Minister of Human Services has often said before that it's not how much we should spend on education. It's: what do we need to spend? It's not how much money we've got or whether we need to lead the world. My last son will be in grade 12 next year. I'll tell you that he doesn't leave home till about a quarter to 9, and he's back home at 20 after 3. He's taking grade 11 matriculation. That's not much of a day. I'm not sure that we are not getting too close to the problem, getting balled up in it, saying: well, the only solution is just to do more of what we were doing.

Mr. Speaker, I know it's not easy. I know the hon. minister was correct when he said that it's what people want. People want everything. I asked at a convention last year: who wanted more roads? They put their hands up. Who wanted more schools? They put their hands up. Who wanted better health care? They put their hands up. More money for municipalities? They put their hands up. Who wants to balance the budget? They all put their hands up.

They count on us in here to make the balanced judgment decisions that are in their best interests. I know it's not easy, and I know democracy isn't always pretty, but I think that they do expect more discipline. They do expect to be told no occasionally when it's put up against the other pressures they've got. So I know it's not easy.

I'm a very positive person on the future of Alberta. There's no other place I would want to live or do business or raise a family. But you have to back up and take an approach that says: we can afford to do this this year and next year. The 7 per cent increase this year is no different than compounding interest on a bad loan. That 7 per cent is built in. The $107 million in schools is $187 million this year and $245 million next year. You can say: "That's great. We'll spend everything we've got in education." But the taxpayers shouldn't be getting the education.

I'm simply saying that I know it's not easy. Thankfully, I'm not going to go and campaign for either side of this budget. But I will tell you that every dollar you build into your operating expenditures now, you have to pay for for a long, long time. I can tell you how hard it is to come back after and say: "Well, we've outgrown it. For whatever reason we don't quite have it." Then you have to start cutting it back down, and that is not as much fun as announcing new programs and new spending. It's not as much fun as trying to make everyone happy. Often, when we try to make everyone happy, we end up pleasing very few.

But I will say this. It's been an incredible experience to be involved in putting budgets together. I know that the Alberta government has some of the brightest, some of the hardest working people on the planet working in their departments, in Treasury Board, in Finance, and all the departments. I know that. I know they care very deeply about what they're trying to do, and they are trying to accomplish what Albertans want. I came in here not having a great deal of love for government. I have a lot more respect for it now and for the people that make the Alberta government work, including the members of this Assembly.

Mr. Speaker, I will close by saying good luck to the people that are going to be implementing this on a go-forward basis, good luck to those that are running again in, apparently, the election that's nearby, and all the best to those who don't.

To you, Mr. Speaker, have a good night.

The Acting Speaker: Thank you.

Hon. members, we have about four minutes left before the adjournment hour, but 29(2)(a) is available. The hon. Member for Calgary-McCall.

Mr. Kang: Thank you, Mr. Speaker. My questions are to the hon. member. If he was to bring in this budget, what would he have done differently than what's in this budget?

Mr. Snelgrove: I would have made it very clear that we're going to have to find more efficiencies within it. I think they're well on the way. I know the hon. Minister of Human Services has said that you can't cut back on infrastructure; I think they have. I think there needed to be a very strong commitment to that.

The other part that I think I would probably have done is come out and said: this is what we're doing, and these are the real costs. Not necessarily too rosy a projection, but I don't think that it really shows the actual costs of some of the program increases on a go-out basis. I look over into the third years of some of the budget, and I don't see the numbers over there.

It's a little bit hypothetical – of course, I'm not there – but I think the most important part is to be able to defend the money you spend on what you've spent it on, and Albertans will generally give you a pass on that as long as you're up front. I'm not questioning projections of revenue, but I don't believe that the expenditure increases and the savings they projected in some departments down the road are going to be achievable. I think many of the departments have been squeezed over the last three or four years down to where they are just about running – if you're going to maintain them as a department, you're going to have to pay them, or you're going to have to shut down programs there.

With all due respect to the Wildrose, the fat in many departments has been trimmed down to the point where you either need to shut it down or pay them, but there wasn't a heck of a lot of waste left last year.

The Acting Speaker: Thank you.

Anyone else? Calgary-Varsity?

Mr. Chase: Under 29(2)(a), please, yes. The hon. member commands respect because he's been in the position of creating a budget as a former President of the Treasury Board. He knows his stuff. He's commented on the quality of the civil servants who've worked so hard to do their best work. I think every member of this House appreciates the work they've done in terms of having, actually, so much money with which to come up with a budget.

My question has to do with your opinion on saving. You've talked about making hard, responsible, sustainable, long-term choices. I'd like to hear your opinion on the need to refurbish the sustainability account and also your opinions on saving a greater portion of our nonrenewables in the heritage trust fund, if that's possible, in your opinion.

Mr. Snelgrove: In the brief time I will say this. I believe that you should look at the chance to only use from your resource revenue what a sales tax would raise otherwise. I think that can be our guiding thing, which says: if we had a 7 per cent sales tax, like our other neighbouring provinces, instead of us coming up with it, it's coming out of oil. I believe you do have to replenish your sustainability fund, but you can't do both if you don't have the revenue. You have to set targets that say, "We are not going to spend past this point," and the decisions that will be made may be tough.

I also don't believe that saving just for the sake of saving is good. I've been in business. I still am in business. The best money I've used is money I've invested to make more money. The heritage fund is a good tool, but the infrastructure and the investment in our colleges, universities, schools, in my opinion, are still very worthwhile investments, and I consider them every bit as important as a saving strategy, as an investment strategy.

The Acting Speaker: Hon. members, I hesitate to rise and interrupt this wonderful debate. However, according to our standing orders it is now 6 p.m., and I must declare the Assembly adjourned until 7:30 this evening.

[The Assembly adjourned at 6 p.m.]

Table of Contents

Prayers	663
Introduction of Guests	663
Members' Statements
International Marketing	663
Integrity in Government	664
Retrospective by the Member for Medicine Hat	664
State of the Health Care System	664
Armenian Genocide	664
Right to Vote	665
Oral Question Period
Health Care System	665
Education Funding	666
Provincial Budget	666
School Council Teleconference Remarks	667, 671
Pre-election Commitments	667
Century Farm and Ranch Award	668
Edith Cavell Continuing Care Centre Collective Bargaining	668
Productivity Alberta	669
Home-schooling	669
Provincial Tax Policy	670
Caribou Habitat Protection	670
First Nations Education	670
Trucking Safety Regulations	671
Student Finance System	672
Water Management	673
Notices of Motions	673
Tabling Returns and Reports	673
Tablings to the Clerk	674
Introduction of Guests	674
Orders of the Day	681
Government Bills and Orders
Third Reading
Bill 7 Appropriation Act, 2012	681

If your address is incorrect, please clip on the dotted line, make any changes, and return to the address listed below. To facilitate the update, please attach the last mailing label along with your account number.

Subscriptions
Legislative Assembly Office
1001 Legislature Annex
9718 – 107 Street
EDMONTON, AB T5K 1E4

.....

Last mailing label:

Account # _____

New information:

Name:

Address:

.....

Subscription information:

Annual subscriptions to the paper copy of Alberta Hansard (including annual index) are $127.50 including GST if mailed once a week or $94.92 including GST if picked up at the subscription address below or if mailed through the provincial government interdepartmental mail system. Bound volumes are $121.70 including GST if mailed. Cheques should be made payable to the Minister of Finance.

Price per issue is $0.75 including GST.

Online access to Alberta Hansard is available through the Internet at www.assembly.ab.ca

Subscription inquiries:

Subscriptions
Legislative Assembly Office
1001 Legislature Annex
9718 – 107 St.
EDMONTON, AB T5K 1E4
Telephone: 780.427.1302

Other inquiries:

Managing Editor
Alberta Hansard
1001 Legislature Annex
9718 – 107 St.
EDMONTON, AB T5K 1E4
Telephone: 780.427.1875

Province of Alberta

The 27th Legislature
Fifth Session

Alberta Hansard

Tuesday evening, March 20, 2012

Issue 21e

The Honourable Kenneth R. Kowalski, Speaker

Legislative Assembly of Alberta
The 27th Legislature

Fifth Session

Kowalski, Hon. Ken, Barrhead-Morinville-Westlock, Speaker
Cao, Wayne C.N., Calgary-Fort, Deputy Speaker and Chair of Committees
Zwozdesky, Gene, Edmonton-Mill Creek, Deputy Chair of Committees

Ady, Cindy, Calgary-Shaw (PC)	Johnston, Art, Calgary-Hays (PC)
Allred, Ken, St. Albert (PC)	Kang, Darshan S., Calgary-McCall (AL), Official Opposition Whip
Amery, Moe, Calgary-East (PC)	Klimchuk, Hon. Heather, Edmonton-Glenora (PC)
Anderson, Rob, Airdrie-Chestermere (W), Wildrose Opposition House Leader	Knight, Mel, Grande Prairie-Smoky (PC)
Benito, Carl, Edmonton-Mill Woods (PC)	Leskiw, Genia, Bonnyville-Cold Lake (PC)
Berger, Hon. Evan, Livingstone-Macleod (PC)	Liepert, Hon. Ron, Calgary-West (PC)
Bhardwaj, Naresh, Edmonton-Ellerslie (PC)	Lindsay, Fred, Stony Plain (PC)
Bhullar, Hon. Manmeet Singh, Calgary-Montrose (PC)	Lukaszuk, Hon. Thomas A., Edmonton-Castle Downs (PC)
Blackett, Lindsay, Calgary-North West (PC)	Lund, Ty, Rocky Mountain House (PC)
Blakeman, Laurie, Edmonton-Centre (AL), Official Opposition Deputy Leader, Official Opposition House Leader	MacDonald, Hugh, Edmonton-Gold Bar (AL)
Boutilier, Guy C., Fort McMurray-Wood Buffalo (W)	Mason, Brian, Edmonton-Highlands-Norwood (ND), Leader of the ND Opposition
Brown, Dr. Neil, QC, Calgary-Nose Hill (PC)	McFarland, Barry, Little Bow (PC)
Calahasen, Pearl, Lesser Slave Lake (PC)	McQueen, Hon. Diana, Drayton Valley-Calmar (PC)
Campbell, Robin, West Yellowhead (PC), Government Whip	Mitzel, Len, Cypress-Medicine Hat (PC)
Chase, Harry B., Calgary-Varsity (AL)	Morton, Hon. F.L., Foothills-Rocky View (PC)
Dallas, Hon. Cal, Red Deer-South (PC)	Notley, Rachel, Edmonton-Strathcona (ND), ND Opposition House Leader
Danyluk, Hon. Ray, Lac La Biche-St. Paul (PC)	Oberle, Hon. Frank, Peace River (PC)
DeLong, Alana, Calgary-Bow (PC)	Olson, Hon. Verlyn, QC, Wetaskiwin-Camrose (PC), Deputy Government House Leader
Denis, Hon. Jonathan, QC, Calgary-Egmont (PC), Deputy Government House Leader	Ouellette, Luke, Innisfail-Sylvan Lake (PC)
Doerksen, Arno, Strathmore-Brooks (PC)	Pastoor, Bridget Brennan, Lethbridge-East (PC)
Drysdale, Wayne, Grande Prairie-Wapiti (PC), Deputy Government Whip	Prins, Ray, Lacombe-Ponoka (PC)
Elniski, Doug, Edmonton-Calder (PC)	Quest, Dave, Strathcona (PC)
Evans, Iris, Sherwood Park (PC)	Redford, Hon. Alison M., QC, Calgary-Elbow (PC), Premier
Fawcett, Kyle, Calgary-North Hill (PC)	Renner, Rob, Medicine Hat (PC)
Forsyth, Heather, Calgary-Fish Creek (W), Wildrose Opposition Whip	Rodney, Dave, Calgary-Lougheed (PC)
Fritz, Yvonne, Calgary-Cross (PC)	Rogers, George, Leduc-Beaumont-Devon (PC)
Goudreau, Hector G., Dunvegan-Central Peace (PC)	Sandhu, Peter, Edmonton-Manning (PC)
Griffiths, Hon. Doug, Battle River-Wainwright (PC)	Sarich, Janice, Edmonton-Decore (PC)
Groeneveld, George, Highwood (PC)	Sherman, Dr. Raj, Edmonton-Meadowlark (AL), Leader of the Official Opposition
Hancock, Hon. Dave, QC, Edmonton-Whitemud (PC), Government House Leader	Snelgrove, Lloyd, Vermilion-Lloydminster (Ind)
Hayden, Hon. Jack, Drumheller-Stettler (PC)	Stelmach, Ed, Fort Saskatchewan-Vegreville (PC)
Hehr, Kent, Calgary-Buffalo (AL)	Swann, Dr. David, Calgary-Mountain View (AL)
Hinman, Paul, Calgary-Glenmore (W), Wildrose Opposition Deputy Leader	Taft, Dr. Kevin, Edmonton-Riverview (AL), Official Opposition Deputy Whip
Horne, Hon. Fred, Edmonton-Rutherford (PC), Deputy Government House Leader	Tarchuk, Janis, Banff-Cochrane (PC)
Horner, Hon. Doug, Spruce Grove-Sturgeon-St. Albert (PC)	Taylor, Dave, Calgary-Currie (AB)
Jablonski, Mary Anne, Red Deer-North (PC)	VanderBurg, Hon. George, Whitecourt-Ste. Anne (PC)
Jacobs, Broyce, Cardston-Taber-Warner (PC)	Vandermeer, Tony, Edmonton-Beverly-Clareview (PC)
Johnson, Hon. Jeff, Athabasca-Redwater (PC)	Weadick, Hon. Greg, Lethbridge-West (PC), Deputy Government House Leader
	Webber, Len, Calgary-Foothills (PC)
	Woo-Paw, Teresa, Calgary-Mackay (PC)
	Xiao, David H., Edmonton-McClung (PC)

Party standings:

Progressive Conservative: 66 Alberta Liberal: 8 Wildrose: 4 New Democrat: 2 Alberta: 1 Independent: 1 Vacant: 1

Officers and Officials of the Legislative Assembly

W.J. David McNeil, Clerk	Stephanie LeBlanc, Parliamentary Counsel & Legal Research Officer	Chris Caughell, Assistant Sergeant-at-Arms
Robert H. Reynolds, QC, Law Clerk/ Director of Interparliamentary Relations	Philip Massolin, Committee Research Co-ordinator	Gordon H. Munk, Assistant Sergeant-at-Arms
Shannon Dean, Senior Parliamentary Counsel/Director of House Services	Brian G. Hodgson, Sergeant-at-Arms	Liz Sim, Managing Editor of Alberta Hansard

Executive Council

Alison Redford	Premier, President of Executive Council, Chair of Agenda and Priorities Committee
Doug Horner	Deputy Premier, President of Treasury Board and Enterprise
Dave Hancock	Minister of Human Services
Ted Morton	Minister of Energy
Verlyn Olson	Minister of Justice and Attorney General
Fred Horne	Minister of Health and Wellness
Ron Liepert	Minister of Finance
Thomas Lukaszuk	Minister of Education, Political Minister for Edmonton
Diana McQueen	Minister of Environment and Water
Jonathan Denis	Solicitor General and Minister of Public Security
Cal Dallas	Minister of Intergovernmental, International and Aboriginal Relations, Political Minister for Central Alberta
Evan Berger	Minister of Agriculture and Rural Development, Political Minister for Southern Alberta
Frank Oberle	Minister of Sustainable Resource Development
George VanderBurg	Minister of Seniors
Ray Danyluk	Minister of Transportation
Jeff Johnson	Minister of Infrastructure, Political Minister for Northern Alberta
Doug Griffiths	Minister of Municipal Affairs
Greg Weadick	Minister of Advanced Education and Technology
Jack Hayden	Minister of Tourism, Parks and Recreation
Heather Klimchuk	Minister of Culture and Community Services
Manmeet Singh Bhullar	Minister of Service Alberta, Political Minister for Calgary

Parliamentary Assistants

Naresh Bhardwaj	Health and Wellness
Alana DeLong	Seniors
Arno Doerksen	Human Services
Kyle Fawcett	Treasury Board and Enterprise
Art Johnston	Executive Council
Barry McFarland	Agriculture and Rural Development
Len Mitzel	Transportation
Dave Rodney	Health and Wellness
David Xiao	Energy

STANDING AND SPECIAL COMMITTEES OF THE LEGISLATIVE ASSEMBLY OF ALBERTA

Standing Committee on the Alberta Heritage Savings Trust Fund

Chair: Ms Tarchuk
Deputy Chair: Mr. Elniski

Anderson
DeLong
Groeneveld
Johnston
MacDonald
Quest
Taft

Standing Committee on Community Development

Chair: Mrs. Jablonski
Deputy Chair: Mr. Chase

Amery
Blakeman
Boutilier
Calahasen
Goudreau
Groeneveld
Lindsay
Snelgrove
Taylor
Vandermeer

Standing Committee on Education

Chair: Ms Pastoor
Deputy Chair: Mr. Hehr

Anderson
Benito
Brown
Cao
Chase
Leskiw
Notley
Sarich
Tarchuk
Vacant

Standing Committee on Energy

Chair: Mrs. Ady
Deputy Chair: Ms Blakeman

Hehr
Hinman
Jacobs
Johnston
Lund
Mason
McFarland
Ouellette
Webber
Xiao

Standing Committee on Finance

Chair: Mr. Renner
Deputy Chair: Mr. Kang

Allred
Anderson
Drysdale
Fawcett
Knight
Mitzel
Prins
Sandhu
Taft
Taylor

Standing Committee on Legislative Offices

Chair: Mr. Blackett
Deputy Chair: Mr. Lund

Blakeman
Brown
Evans
Hinman
Lindsay
MacDonald
Notley
Ouellette
Quest
Vacant

Special Standing Committee on Members' Services

Chair: Mr. Kowalski
Deputy Chair: Mr. Campbell

Amery
Anderson
Elniski
Evans
Hehr
Knight
Leskiw
MacDonald
Mason
Rogers

Standing Committee on Private Bills

Chair: Dr. Brown
Deputy Chair: Ms Woo-Paw

Allred	Kang
Benito	Knight
Boutilier	Lindsay
Calahasen	McFarland
Doerksen	Sandhu
Drysdale	Sarich
Evans	Snelgrove
Groeneveld	Swann
Hinman	Xiao
Jacobs

Standing Committee on Privileges and Elections, Standing Orders and Printing

Chair: Mr. Prins
Deputy Chair: Mr. Snelgrove

Amery	Mitzel
Boutilier	Notley
Calahasen	Pastoor
DeLong	Quest
Doerksen	Stelmach
Forsyth	Swann
Jacobs	Tarchuk
Knight	Taylor
Leskiw	Zwozdesky
McFarland

Standing Committee on Public Accounts

Chair: Mr. MacDonald
Deputy Chair: Mr. Goudreau

Allred	Kang
Benito	Mason
Calahasen	Rodney
Chase	Sandhu
Elniski	Vandermeer
Fawcett	Woo-Paw
Forsyth	Xiao
Groeneveld

Standing Committee on Public Health and Safety

Chair: Mrs. Fritz
Deputy Chair: Dr. Taft

Bhardwaj
Blakett
DeLong
Doerksen
Forsyth
Notley
Rodney
Rogers
Swann
Woo-Paw

Legislative Assembly of Alberta

7:30 p.m.

Tuesday, March 20, 2012

[Mr. Zwozdesky in the chair]

The Acting Speaker: Please be seated.

Government Bills and Orders

Third Reading

Bill 4

St. Albert and Sturgeon Valley School Districts Establishment Act

The Acting Speaker: The hon. Government House Leader.

Mr. Hancock: Thank you, Mr. Speaker. I'm pleased to move Bill 4, the St. Albert and Sturgeon Valley School Districts Establishment Act, on behalf of the Minister of Education.

It's one of those pieces of legislation that has a special purpose. It's brought forward to deal with a specific circumstance in the province. It's a unique circumstance in the province, but it is one that needs to be dealt with, so I would encourage all members to pass this bill tonight so that we can get on with the necessary reorganization in the St. Albert-Morinville area.

Essentially – it doesn't need repeating, Mr. Speaker – I just want to say that in the area of Morinville and Legal we have this historical anomaly where the public board is the Greater St. Albert Catholic board. In accordance with sort of the modern parlance, Catholic education talks about permeation. In other words, Catholic values permeate everything they do in the school. The Greater St. Albert Catholic board, although it's a public board, has been very reluctant to provide a secular option for students in Morinville and Legal.

Of course, everyone has a right to choose an education. If they wish to choose a non faith-based education, what we would consider to be in the normal parlance a public education, they have the right to do that. This has been a particularly difficult issue in that area because, I think it's safe to say, the vast majority of people served by the Greater St. Albert Catholic public school board are quite happy with the education that they get, whether they're Catholic or not. A majority of the parents and students in the area would like to see the status quo, but there are people in that area who have the right to a secular education.

The only way that it can be provided in the long term – there was a short-term solution whereby Greater St. Albert Catholic contracted with Sturgeon to provide secular education in Morinville, but of course in the long run parents also have the right to vote for their school trustees. Because the secular program is being offered under contract by the Greater St. Albert public school board – Sturgeon is offering it, but they're offering it pursuant to a contract – one could say: well, you are voting for the trustees that represent you. But, in fact, people would like to have a much more direct connection with their school board, with the school that's delivering the program, so what's needed here is to establish that area as a public board. This act will do that by adding it to the Sturgeon public school board.

Then, of course, you have the issue that you have the Greater St. Albert board operating in the area, and it's disestablished as the public board but then gets established as a minority faith board and therefore can then continue to operate in that same jurisdiction but now as a minority faith board, which is, in fact, the way in which it's been operating. With this solution you can satisfy the parents and the students who want to continue with Greater St.

Albert Catholic regardless of their faith. You can provide a secular option through the Sturgeon composite as the new public board. The Minister of Education will have to of course deal with the issues of how you actually deal with where the schools are located, et cetera, but that's an operational issue which will have to come very shortly. It is necessary to pass this act now so that they can get on with ensuring that it's all operational by September 1.

The other issue that we've heard in the House, of course, is that if Greater St. Albert Catholic is the minority faith board, what happens to St. Albert Protestant? St. Albert Protestant is currently the minority faith board within the city limits of St. Albert. The act also provides for St. Albert Protestant to become the public board within the confines of the city limits of St. Albert. In this way we can regularize the school delivery process in that area, ensure that there is a public option, that there is a minority faith option, that everything can move along, and that the students in Morinville and Legal can have access to the secular education option that their parents desire for them.

None of this is easy. It does involve disruption for people, but this is the best solution available to solve the problem in that area. As I say, it's a local problem. It's a one-purpose act, really, and I think it's time that we deal with it and move on and allow the Department of Education to work with the school boards involved to ensure that all of the operational pieces are in place for our students. Of course, fundamentally, what's important about all of this is to make sure that students have a good education and an opportunity for a good education and to make sure that that's in place for them for September 1.

Thank you, Mr. Speaker.

The Acting Speaker: Thank you.

The hon. Member for Edmonton-Riverview.

Dr. Taft: Thank you, Mr. Speaker. This is a surprisingly complicated and divisive issue. On the surface of it it seems pretty straightforward, but there are very strongly felt positions on both sides, pro and con. Those have bubbled up in our caucus, and it was interesting to watch them become public in the government caucus as well.

I must comment, with great respect, on the speech given by the government member for St. Albert, a very well-expressed, well-thought-out speech that I heard about a week ago, in which he stood in opposition to his own government on this. I was impressed with the nature of his arguments. I was equally impressed by the guts of a government member to stand up and so strongly and pointedly and extensively speak in opposition to a government bill. I am glad that the government allowed that, not that they would have been able to stop him. I would like to see more of that debate, where members of this Assembly follow their own conscience and their own constituents rather than what's laid down by their leadership.

I am just going to make two other comments. My strong sense is that this has probably been quite traumatic for the community in Morinville and in and around Morinville. These kinds of disputes tend to pit neighbour against neighbour, family against family, friends against friends, and that's very unfortunate, but my bet is that that has happened.

I would urge the minister or the MLAs for the area or any of us, if we have the opportunity, to try to work somehow to reconcile those differences. We're talking about things that are very, very important to people: their religion, their children, and their community. It doesn't get much more basic than that. I think some recognition that this has probably torn the fabric of that community and that there might be some special way to help heal that would be important.

The last point I'll make, which might be a gesture towards moving forward, would be that this issue, as I've understood it, will ultimately require a new school building in Morinville or in the area, and I would urge this government to move quickly to provide that facility, if it is needed, because of the particular strains that this issue will be causing in that community. If the need for a new building is an outcome of this issue, then let's get on with that. Let's not force this wound to fester; let's try to heal it. I would certainly support the government in taking that kind of a step.

With those comments, I believe that's it for me. Thank you, Mr. Speaker.

The Acting Speaker: Thank you.

[Motion carried; Bill 4 read a third time]

7:40

Bill 5

Seniors' Property Tax Deferral Act

The Acting Speaker: The hon. Member for Red Deer-North.

Mrs. Jablonski: Thank you, Mr. Speaker. I rise today for third reading of Bill 5, the Seniors' Property Tax Deferral Act.

I'm so pleased to see this important piece of legislation going forward. I'm also pleased to be able to thank all members who have taken time in this House to speak to the bill and the Minister of Seniors, who was very adamant in having this bill come forward and be debated.

There were many thoughtful questions raised, and I can assure the members that this government is giving all of them consideration as we review the best options for this program and as we work to develop regulations over the summer and fall. Some questions arose related to the interest rate, specifically how it would be set, and suggestions that it be set at a level so as not to burden our seniors. We are committed to a lower interest rate for this program. In addition, this interest rate will most definitely not be set arbitrarily, as one member thought that it might.

Income and means testing were inquired about by a few members. Our desire is for this program to be available to all senior homeowners. As such, eligibility will not be related to income levels or assets. Again, I would like to reiterate that many of these details will be thoroughly thought out as we develop the regulations.

Lastly, I would like to address a concern that came up more than once regarding home equity for eligible seniors. This is an insightful concern, and I'm very pleased with the depth of thought that other members have given to this bill. A minimum level of home equity will definitely be worked into the regulations.

It is not the intention of the program to put any seniors in difficult financial situations. Indeed, the intent is the exact opposite. This program is designed to give seniors additional assistance by freeing up funds. Senior homeowners will have the ability to defer a portion or all of their property taxes and can then use the extra cash for other priorities. But we don't want seniors to be borrowing money they don't need or they don't have. As many members pointed out, there are seniors who have equity in their home that they can use to their advantage, and we want to help them do that.

Other provinces have similar programs – B.C. and Ontario as well as New Brunswick and the Yukon – but I would caution members not to compare Alberta's program too closely to those programs. The program will be designed to meet the needs of seniors in Alberta. In some jurisdictions municipalities administer their version of a seniors' property tax deferral program, but municipalities here in Alberta have asked us not to add to administrative burdens through the introduction of this program, and we have listened. Government will take responsibility for managing this program and will communicate with municipalities to ensure the most efficient delivery of the program.

I would like to sincerely thank all members again for taking the time to speak to this bill, and thank you to the many members who support this bill and who support a seniors' property tax deferral program. It's just one more option we can provide to our seniors to help them to continue living independently in their own homes in their own communities with the dignity and respect they deserve.

Like the hon. Member for Whitecourt-St. Anne I, too, have heard from many seniors requesting this type of program. I thank the Member for Whitecourt-St. Anne for being the inspiration behind this bill. It makes me very proud now to be a witness to this government listening and delivering on the needs of our seniors, who built this amazing province.

I look forward to working on the development of the regulations for the seniors' property tax deferral program this summer and fall. Thank you.

The Acting Speaker: Thank you, hon. member.

Are there any other speakers? The hon. Member for Calgary-Mountain View.

Dr. Swann: Thank you very much, Mr. Speaker. A pleasure to speak to Bill 5, the tax deferral bill, which I think most of us feel will be welcome in the current context of market value assessments being such a burden for, especially, the inner city but in many cases suburbs as well, where seniors have seen their property values rise tremendously over the last decade and in some cases constrain their ability to live in a healthy way with the rapid rise in their property taxes.

In the main I think this is an excellent approach to delaying the tremendous costs that are accruing for those on a fixed income, and a small fixed income. I think it's a plus that it's flexible, that it's based not on means testing so much as individual choice and preference, and that means it can be customized to meet the needs of the individual or family and their potential future. Certainly, there are questions around what might happen with the bequeathal of a home to a child, a spouse. The ultimate decision, I guess, is going to have to be made as a family on the basis of what kind of accruing cost and interest is going to have to be met at some point in time. Again, that leaves a lot of onus on the individuals and their families to sort out the short- and long-term implications of a growing debt, I guess you might say.

We're on the record as disagreeing with the current market value assessment, and we hope that this will be another incentive. I mean, this is a stopgap for dealing with the tremendous burden that the market value assessment has placed on especially inner-city homes when a lot of the outlying homes have had a much more onerous cost on local government services and the servicing costs associated with their building. We think there has got to be a more equitable way of sharing the costs of urban development. It seems to me, at least, that there has been not enough thinking going into the whole notion of market value assessment, based on the kind of inflationary changes and local real estate values that don't necessarily reflect the true value of a home or, indeed, don't reflect, as I believe, the true value of some of the suburban and marginal homes in the outskirts.

At the same time that I can support this notion of taking pressure off especially people on a fixed income and seniors, I do have to register again my concern that the market value assessment approach is not serving the majority of inner-city people and is creating, I think, a tremendous burden on many who want to stay in their homes but are now paying much more significantly. When this bill passes – and I say when it passes because every bill that this government brings forward it chooses to pass; it has the numbers to do that – it means that people will be deferring that for an indefinite period and still at the end of the day paying a tremendous amount that may be difficult, depending on the circumstances.

With those few comments, Mr. Speaker, I'll take my seat.

The Acting Speaker: Thank you.

Are there any other members who wish to speak? The hon. Member for Lethbridge-East.

Ms Pastoor: Yes. Thank you, Mr. Speaker. Firstly, I'd like to acknowledge the hard work that's been done over the last number of years by the Member for Red Deer-North. This has been a passion of hers as seniors have been a passion of mine. Certainly, when I was on the other side of the table we worked closely together because this is an issue that is passionate to both of us, so I just wanted to thank her for the work that she's done on this very important bill.

One of things it does is give seniors choice, the choice to be able to stay at home. To me it's even more important because it will allow those that are on such tight incomes to be able to have some extra money to be able to live and not just exist from pay cheque to pay cheque.

I've spoken on this before, so I'll be brief. I do believe it's very important. It opens up a whole new way of seniors being able to be independent and to actually make some of their own decisions and not having to go to the bank. I think that this is going to be a much easier way of doing it.

I know we heard about creating huge bureaucracies. I don't believe that's necessary. I think we've got a perfectly good Seniors ministry right now, and I'm sure that they can work that through in some fashion. I'm not expecting it to be a huge take-up, but for those that do take it up, it will be more than beneficial to them. So I'm certainly pleased to be able to support this bill.

Thank you.

7:50

The Acting Speaker: I have the Government House Leader, who rose just moments ago, followed by the Member for Calgary-Nose Hill. First, Standing Order 29(2)(a) is available. Is there anybody under 29(2)(a)?

Hon. Government House Leader, please proceed.

Mr. Hancock: Thank you, Mr. Speaker. I am delighted just to add a few words to the debate on Bill 5, the Seniors' Property Tax Deferral Act. This is one of those bills which makes it worth while to keep coming back and to continue to participate, and I say that because this has been something that I have been pushing and sponsoring and advocating for for many years.

In my riding of Edmonton-Whitemud we have some strange anomalies. It is the highest income, highest education riding in the province, or it was at one time. I couldn't verify that it is still today, but at one time it was the highest education, highest income riding in the province. It also has some neighbourhoods that have some very nice houses, and I have to admit that some of the neighbourhoods I'm talking about I ceded to Edmonton-Riverview a few redistributions ago.

A community like Grandview, for example, that was in Edmonton-Whitemud, is now in Edmonton-Riverview, is where people bought their houses in the early '60s, they raised their families in their houses, and they wanted to stay in their houses as they grew older. The houses had significant value; therefore, their tax bills were quite high. The houses were also getting older; therefore, the cost of upkeep was high. For many people it forced a decision that they didn't particularly want to make, a decision that they had to move when they would just as soon have stayed, lived their lives out in the house where they raised their families and the place they called home.

That's not limited to Grandview. That's a number of different communities in my constituency, where you have people who have worked hard all their lives, who have invested in their homes and their families, and who, in fact, have a lot of their net worth tied up in their houses. They've perhaps paid their mortgages off, but they're what I would called living on the margin. Costs of living have been going up. The pension is not going up, or the income is not going up. Sometimes they have investments that they were earning interest on, and of course we know what's happened with the interest rate now.

People who are good, hard-working, prudent people find themselves in the position of having to make very difficult choices about their living – which bill do we pay? – because of the costs. Sometimes we have, as we did this winter, an almost inexplicable spike in the electricity rates; for example, when a power plant goes down on an unplanned basis, and the price goes up. The cost of heating for some of those houses can be very high in the winter. So the cost of staying in your home becomes an issue.

Ever since my first election, actually, I've been a very strong proponent of this type of act. For various reasons over the years I have a number of memos from a number of different Finance ministers over the years which explain why this is something we cannot do, and I put them in my file. We continued to advocate, and I know that others in this House did as well. The Minister of Seniors, for example, had brought this forward as a private member's bill, I think, several times. Others have been advocating for it.

This is a very prudent piece of legislation. It's not about giving people something for nothing. It's about setting up a system where a senior can use the equity in their home to stay in their home. They can pay their taxes using their equity in the house.

I mean, at some point it would be interesting if we could go further and say that we could help them with some necessary renovations to help the building envelope or those sorts of things, but I'm actually quite excited about where it goes now because we do have a lot of people who have built up the equity in their home, who've paid off their mortgages, who've lived prudently, who've raised their families, and who want nothing more than to be able to stay in their neighbourhood with their friends, tend to their gardens, go on the odd holiday.

The cost of living has increased. I mean, we celebrate the strong economy in this province and the fact that it's coming back better than anywhere else. That overall is a very good thing, but it can be a challenge for somebody who retired on a fixed income or somebody who retired expecting a certain set of circumstances with respect to the interest rates and is facing a different set of circumstances because that's changed on them.

I don't want to belabour the point. It's a relatively straightforward bill. I do want to say for the citizens of Edmonton-Whitemud that I would encourage you to vote in favour of the bill, to pass it tonight so that we can get this in place for next year's tax season so that these people, who are in essence living on the margin and others if it makes sense for them, can have the benefit of borrowing at a government rate against the equity in their homes in order to be able to stay in their own homes for as long as possible. That's what this really allows. It really enables that option for many seniors who live in my area.

For that, I thank the hon. Member for Red Deer-North for bringing the bill forward, I thank government for making it a government bill, and I would thank members of the House for passing this this evening and making it possible.

The Acting Speaker: Thank you.

Hon. members, 29(2)(a) is available.

Seeing no one, I'll call on the hon. Member for Calgary-Nose Hill to speak next.

Dr. Brown: Thank you very much, Mr. Speaker. It's my pleasure to rise in support of the Seniors' Property Tax Deferral Act, Bill 5. Much of what I wanted to say has already been said by my colleagues, but I would like to mention a couple of things.

We have had in Alberta a property tax freeze for the provincial portion of property taxes since 2004, and I think it's worth stating on the record because I've found in my years of service as an MLA that a lot of seniors are not aware of the fact. They may not have been in a lower income bracket where they felt inclined to apply for the Alberta seniors' benefit, but you do have to make an application in order to get your name on that list, initially at least, and then every year it automatically happens that your provincial portion, which is the education portion of the property tax, has been frozen since 2004 for anybody from the age of 65 and older.

Now, I think Bill 5 is taking the next logical step here. We're not just freezing our portion of the taxes, but we are enabling seniors to access some additional cash flow by allowing them to defer all of their property taxes, both the provincial portion and the municipal portion.

As my friend the hon. Government House Leader has said, it's something that doesn't have to cost a lot of money to the provincial government. It need not cost any money, really, if it was somewhere near the market rates for interest that was charged. With interest rates the way they are right now, it would not cost a lot of money to the seniors in order to access that additional cash flow. As the hon. Member for Lethbridge-East has said, quite often that additional cash flow can make a big difference to a senior who's living on a fixed income, perhaps a pension or a spousal pension. Being able to access that additional money which they would otherwise pay towards property taxes can make a significant difference in their lifestyle.

Another thing I would like to point out, Mr. Speaker, is that this will particularly be a benefit to those people who are living in our larger centres, places like Calgary and Edmonton, who are living in older neighbourhoods which have become quite desirable over many, many years. People who are living in the inner city have been there since the 1950s, a lot of them, and they've seen their property values skyrocket because it's a desirable place to be, has good access to the downtown and to the places of work.

Through no fault of their own they have been subsidizing a lot of the growth of our large urban centres, a lot of the new areas and the infrastructure that happens: the overpasses, the hospitals, the water treatment plants, the sewage treatment plants. All of those types of things get piled upon the property tax, and unfortunately the people in these established neighbourhoods, particularly the seniors, are often paying the price. So this will have a very significant impact on many of my constituents that live in Huntington Hills and in Beddington and in Thorncliffe.

I applaud the hon. Member for Red Deer-North for bringing this bill forward. Also, the Minister of Seniors, I know, has been a great proponent of it. I urge all my fellow MLAs to get behind this bill and to pass it.

8:00

The Acting Speaker: Thank you.

Standing Order 29(2)(a) is available.

Seeing no one, I will call on the hon. Member for Leduc-Beaumont-Devon.

Mr. Rogers: Thank you, Mr. Speaker. I'd just like to take this opportunity to make a few brief comments on this bill, the Seniors' Property Tax Deferral Act, and thank the hon. Member for Red Deer-North for her efforts in shepherding it this far. I also want to acknowledge the Minister of Seniors, the hon. Member for Whitecourt-Ste. Anne, for his tenacity over the years in raising this in our caucus among many government members. Actually, this has been championed by many government members over the years.

Mr. Speaker, from my own personal experience going back to my earlier years as someone who worked in the finance department of a municipality and knowing the tax system and the growth of assessment and the strength of our economy, I remember reading a story some years ago about I believe it was West Vancouver, where seniors living in that part of B.C. had owned these very modest properties that they were still living in after 30, 40, 50 years. Because of the growth in the value of those properties, through no fault of their own, they now found themselves in a position where, frankly, they had a tough time paying their taxes, and some of them were in jeopardy of losing their homes. I think that is probably why the province of British Columbia some time ago brought in a similar bill.

Certainly, with the strength of the economy and the growth of real estate in our province I know that this will be a very welcome addition to the tools that our seniors will have available to make their lives just that much easier. Just to mention, Mr. Speaker, for anyone that would think that this is a gift, this is not a gift. This is an opportunity for seniors to defer this value on their taxes. This will be paid at some point in the future.

I just can't say how much I appreciate that we're at a point where we're finally going to bring this measure forward and give some welcome relief to our seniors. I, too, Mr. Speaker, would encourage all hon. members in this Assembly to support this very worthwhile bill.

Thank you very much.

The Acting Speaker: Thank you very much, hon. Member for Leduc-Beaumont-Devon.

Standing Order 29(2)(a) is available if anyone wishes to question the previous speaker.

Seeing no one, is there anyone else who wishes to speak at third reading to the Seniors' Property Tax Deferral Act? The hon. Minister of Tourism, Parks and Recreation.

Mr. Hayden: Very quickly, Mr. Speaker, I'd like to congratulate the hon. member on this bill and also add my name in support. Anything that we can do to add an opportunity for people to retire with grace and dignity and comfort is something that I support, and I encourage all members to support this bill.

The Acting Speaker: Thank you.

Standing Order 29(2)(a) is available again.

Seeing no one, are there any other speakers at third reading?

The hon. Member for Red Deer-North to close debate.

Mrs. Jablonski: Thank you, Mr. Speaker. We all know that many of our homes over the past few years have escalated in value, and that means that for some the taxes have gone up. In order for our seniors to be able to stay in the homes that they may have built and that they love and, possibly, raised their families in, this bill will give them that opportunity. For that reason and for another reason, to help them get through the month if they have a gap in their income and their needs, this is another tool. This tool will help in that area, too. For those reasons I'm very pleased to have been able to bring this bill, in partnership with the Minister of Seniors, to the floor.

I'm thanking all the members again for supporting this bill and urge all to support it. Thank you.

The Acting Speaker: Thank you.

[Motion carried unanimously; Bill 5 read a third time]

Bill 6 Property Rights Advocate Act

The Acting Speaker: The hon. Member for Bonnyville-Cold Lake.

Mrs. Leskiw: Thank you very much, Mr. Speaker. It is indeed a pleasure to rise and move third reading of Bill 6, the Property Rights Advocate Act.

On behalf of my colleague the Minister of Environment and Water I would like to thank this House for the support shown for this bill and what it's designed to accomplish. We truly appreciate the input from Albertans all across this province who took the time to speak to the government about issues near and dear to their hearts.

Through second reading and Committee of the Whole we better examined what this act could achieve for Alberta. We discussed the importance of property rights, the importance of listening to Albertans, the need to ensure that we are addressing consultation, compensation, and access to the courts and the need to establish an advocate to assist Alberta landlords. Bill 6 will build landlords' confidence through the advocate, a source of independent information and assistance to all landlords in Alberta.

The next step is passing Bill 6 so we can establish the property rights advocate office. Thank you, Mr. Speaker.

The Acting Speaker: With that, can I assume that you are moving third reading on behalf of the minister? Would you like to just comment?

Mrs. Leskiw: Yes. On behalf of the minister I'd like to move third reading.

The Acting Speaker: Thank you very much.

Are there other speakers to Bill 6? The hon. Member for Edmonton-Riverview.

Dr. Taft: Thanks, Mr. Speaker. Bill 6 is one of those bills that strikes me as a kind of window dressing piece of legislation. It's harmless. It may even be a little bit helpful. I'm not sure it's ever going to really change anything, and I'm not sure it's actually intended to. What it is, essentially, is some political damage control that the government has brought in because of self-inflicted injury largely stemming from, if you trace the roots back far enough, the misguided move, in my view, to a deregulated electricity system.

Some Hon. Members: Hear, hear.

Dr. Taft: I have at least a couple of people supporting me on that view.

The great rise of concern over property rights in Alberta has largely been because of the efforts or the push to build enormous electrical transmission lines at great lengths around the province. These are transmission lines of a scale that's unprecedented so far in Alberta. The towers are 20 storeys high, one after the other. If you imagine owning a farm or living in a town or something and you've had an open view of the landscape, of the prairie, or of the sky and now there's going to be this array of 20-storey-tall transmission towers from one end of the horizon to the other, you can see why people are unhappy. It affects property values, it affects quality of life, and so on.

The way that government has rather clumsily implemented all of this has fuelled people's fears that they've had no opportunity to step forward and protect their property, that, in fact, if worst comes to worst, the government will seize their property and so on. I have no doubt, Mr. Speaker, that there's been a lot of misinformation spread around these issues, but perception becomes reality in politics, as we sometimes learn.

I just want to make the point that if we had not gone to electricity deregulation, we wouldn't need such extensive transmission lines. Under the regulated system there were monopolies. They were regulated monopolies, and they worked incredibly well. The same companies who did the generation also owned the transmission and distribution lines and did the retailing and everything else. When they brought forward a plan for generation, they only required transmission that was necessary for that generation. No more. They didn't have to overbuild anything. They would seek approval. They were required to finance 50 per cent of the transmission lines, and we didn't end up with these great big brouhahas.

8:10

Under a deregulated system the whole transmission structure of Alberta has to be massively overbuilt because there's no connection, no co-ordination and planning between generation and transmission. The transmission lines have to be built so that they can accommodate generation almost anywhere along the route. As a result, you need far more capacity. The other problem that this government imposed on this system is that it removed all responsibility for financing the cost of building transmission lines from the electric companies, so there's absolutely no incentive on the transmission companies to curtail their ambitions for construction.

Finally, the New Democrat caucus brought this up, I think, yesterday. The Liberals have brought it up repeatedly over the years. I've actually seen the maps. I've got a copy of the map in my Annex office, Mr. Speaker, of a proposal – this is a map out of the United States – for a massive transmission line running straight from northeastern Alberta, right through Alberta, right down to the western U.S. and ultimately California. Again, there's every reasonable perception that Alberta's about to get into the electricity export business in a really big way, hence the demand for these transmission lines.

Mr. Knight: Kevin, you know that Northern Lights tried it about six years ago.

Dr. Taft: I urge the Member for Grande Prairie-Smoky to stand up and jump into the debate. I'll send him a copy of the map tomorrow. The Member for Lethbridge-East has seen it, actually. Anyway, all of this is background.

Because of these fumbblings by the government of the electrical system we created a huge backlash, and part of that backlash was around property rights. So what we have now is a Property Rights Advocate Act, which is, as I said earlier, political damage control.

The act proposes to establish an advocate that will field questions and provide information and so on to the public around the topic of property rights. But, really, it's mostly public relations. It seems harmless. It probably is harmless. As I said, it might even be a little bit helpful. It's going to cost some money, not a huge amount, I hope. Ultimately I think it's essentially an exercise in damage control. If we'd had better management of the electrical system and had avoided the debacle of deregulation, we wouldn't be needing this piece of legislation, Mr. Speaker.

Those are my comments on it, and I'll leave it at that. Thank you.

The Acting Speaker: Thank you.

The hon. Member for Edmonton-Highlands-Norwood.

Mr. Mason: Thank you very much, Mr. Speaker. Well, I would like to join the debate on Bill 6, the Property Rights Advocate Act. I will echo the view of the hon. member for Edmonton . . .

Dr. Taft: Edmonton-Riverview. After all these years you still don't know?

Mr. Mason: I'm going to miss you. Yeah, I will.

I'll go maybe a little bit further and say that this bill would not have been necessary and should not be necessary if the government had not shown its contempt for the rights of landowners in the province of Alberta through the introduction of a number of pieces of legislation. It has been backing up and backing up and backing up on this issue ever since because it created a fine, fine political mess, basically attacking the rights of its own political base in rural Alberta, the people that have voted PC over and over, year after year. Then this government just showed what a heavy hand it had and what little respect it had for their rights and for the democratic rights of all Albertans.

Naturally, there's been a reaction. When three bills were introduced – Bill 19, the Land Assembly Project Area Act; Bill 36, the Alberta Land Stewardship Act; and Bill 50, the Electric Statutes Amendment Act – the NDP stood up and fought each one of those bills, not because everything in each of those bills was wrong but because they contained an overriding power, unchecked, over the rights of individual citizens, and it was wrong.

Mr. Speaker, if you go back and look at what the government was trying to do at that time, I think you'll understand why exactly people became convinced that this government didn't respect their rights. Bill 19 was not a bad act in many respects – the government obviously has to assemble land – but the provisions that it contained that allowed it without due process to essentially sterilize for great periods of time people's land and not allow them to develop or use it without compensation or without defined compensation and without due process were, frankly, completely unacceptable.

Similarly, Bill 36, the Alberta Land Stewardship Act, had some important directions. We support the principle of a land-use framework, but we oppose the provisions of the act which concentrated decisions regarding land-use plans in cabinet. So it's the centralization in this particular case over land-use planning, Mr. Speaker, that gave the problem.

Perhaps the most serious and egregious piece of legislation of that ill-starred trio was Bill 50, the Electric Statutes Amendment Act. The hon. Member for Edmonton-Riverview has identified the relationship between this particular piece of legislation and electricity deregulation, which requires massive transmission capacity to support a market-based approach to generation, perhaps one of the most misguided actions of this government in its history, and has now forced the government to go ahead with a transmission infrastructure which is massively overbuilt and far more than a regulated system would require for the reasons the hon. member outlined.

In order to get this all through in record time, the government, of course, subverted its own intentions to keep transmission as a regulated requirement and did away with the regulatory oversight. In that way, Mr. Speaker, they were able to push through transmission – very, very expensive transmission – without proper process and oversight. That is the third, I think, and final bill. Of course, it has the right under Bill 50 to push through transmission infrastructure regardless of the wishes of the people who may be in its path.

So the government has created a problem. It has created a fear and a concern, legitimate to a large degree, on the part of landowners in this province that it can't be trusted to protect their rights. In order to try and pacify those people, it's creating this advocate, somebody to keep an eye on the government because the government can't keep an eye on itself. The government just can't resist exerting its authority and its power over the citizens of this province, so they've set up this bill to set up the advocate.

Now, the hon. member has also said that, you know, it might help a little bit, but it's pretty neutral. I have a better idea, Mr. Speaker. Instead of passing Bill 6, the Property Rights Advocate Act, why don't we repeal Bill 19, repeal Bill 36, and repeal Bill 50? Then we won't need Bill 6. We'll have four fewer bills.

8:20

I think, Mr. Speaker, that this government has forever damaged its own reputation. Conservatives, at least in theory, are supposed to be people who believe in property rights. It's not that social democrats or Liberals don't, but it's always been my thought that, you know, Conservatives were really concerned about property and property rights, yet the opposite seems to be the case. I don't understand it.

I thought it was very odd that it was the NDP that was standing up and fighting for the property rights of rural conservative Albertans and not the Conservative Party. It was a very odd kind of situation. But I'm proud of what we did at that time to challenge these bills. Had the government listened to the arguments we made, it would have saved itself a whole lot of trouble and we wouldn't have to be voting tonight on Bill 6.

Thank you, Mr. Speaker.

The Acting Speaker: Thank you very much.

Hon. members, 29(2)(a) is now available.

Seeing no one, is there anyone else who wishes to speak at third reading on Bill 6?

If not, does the hon. Member for Bonnyville-Cold Lake wish to close debate?

Mrs. Leskiw: I want to thank the hon. members for their comments on third reading. As we discussed, it's the importance of property rights, the importance of listening to Albertans, and ensuring that what we heard is addressed: consultation, compensation, and access to the courts.

I call for the vote on this bill.

The Acting Speaker: Thank you.

[Motion carried; Bill 6 read a third time]

Bill 7
Appropriation Act, 2012

[Debate adjourned March 20]

The Acting Speaker: The hon. Member for Edmonton – oh, sorry – Calgary-Mountain View.

Dr. Swann: Thank you, Mr. Speaker. I am coming from Edmonton tonight, but I do represent Calgary.

Dr. Taft: The Oilers won, 5 to 2.

Dr. Swann: The Oilers won 5 to 2, I'm hearing, so good news for Edmonton.

Ms Pastoor: Where is Canada in the curling?

Dr. Swann: I can't comment on other sports at this time.

The Acting Speaker: Tie it in with Bill 7. Proceed, please.

Dr. Swann: I'll focus my attention on Bill 7, the Appropriation Act, 2012. Well, Mr. Speaker, it's difficult to support a budget that once again provides no stability, no plan to save, and no decision to stop living off of the resources belonging to our children, some of whom are in the gallery today, to hear about a budget that really plans to continue the status quo of living off the resources that we've been so wonderfully blessed with.

We're living on a wing and prayer, I would say, that the oil prices, the resource prices will continue to be high and that we will have this one-third of our budget sustained so that we won't have to cut the budgets for education, health care, our most vulnerable people, since we haven't had the guts to charge Albertans today what it requires to pay for the services today.

We're living off the backs of our children, nonrenewable resource revenues. We've heard it said many times even by members in this government: we have to stop selling off the topsoil; we have to stop living off of a nonrenewable resource and start saving. How many years have we been hearing this? Yet once again we have a budget that has the same agenda. It's really staggering that a Premier would promise to do things differently and come forward with a budget that continues to reinforce a structural deficit year after year which hopes that the prices of this commodity will increase and that in some way, magically, we will leave our children and our grandchildren as stable and as resource rich and as environmentally protected a province as we inherited, which is now far from the truth.

It's clear that we need leadership in this province. Something like the leadership in Norway would be welcome, Mr. Speaker. As we've heard, past ministers have gone to Norway and have in some ways appreciated and celebrated what they saw in Norway, where in half the duration that we've had, they have accumulated $500 billion in their savings, managed to protect their citizens with stable resources and taxes and maintain programs, have some of the best health indicators in the world, ensure that street people are properly dealt with, people with disabilities are well cared for, have among some of the lowest psychiatric and social problems in the world.

We don't seem to be able to make the change to that kind of thinking, that kind of leadership, where we actually draw upon the resources that each of us earns in taxes. Tax is not a bad word. It is something that, actually, modern governments that really think about the long term and think about the well-being, the stability of their society would do well to acknowledge. We still wait, two decades on now, for that kind of leadership in this province.

Environmental stewardship goes with the leadership in Norway and profoundly offers the future to their children and their grandchildren by ensuring that the resource revenue is saved and they meet, internationally, among the highest standards in the world in terms of their limited ability to grow. They recognize limits. That, Mr. Speaker, has to be the foundation of good financial planning.

I would have thought that people who call themselves fiscal conservatives would acknowledge and embrace that concept, that we have to live within our means. We cannot borrow from the future and expect to get respect, expect to have stability, sustainability, and honour our commitment to both our environment and to future generations. This is a government that has snubbed its nose at climate change for decades and only in the last few years has said, as I quote the former environment minister: climate change is real in the last few years, and we must be serious about addressing it.

This goes hand in hand, I think, with a government that wants to live for today and assume that our wonderful wealth of resources will go on forever and that those who are most struggling in our society – and the very foundation of our prosperity is really education. We hear the words on the other side. We just don't see the actions to back up the words, to say: "We are going to fund our education system. We are going to provide full-day preschool so that we enrich the lives of our most vulnerable kids. We are going to ensure that all families have fair and equitable access to the best possible education, that our postsecondary students are going to get the best possible opportunities to both get in and succeed at school by helping them with lower tuition fees and incentives to give them success in their work, psychological help if they need it, extra learning skills if they lack them." It's willingness to truly match our words with real investment, which is what it is.

We also, I think somewhat predictably, suffer in Alberta from some of the highest rates of social problems, family violence, depression, addictions, and a not very enviable, I would say, infant mortality rate. It may be that our high-class health care system, with the most expensive and high-tech medicine, can save lives and prolong life, but we have almost no meaningful investment in prevention and early intervention, that would save not only lives over the longer term but would also ensure that our future generations don't struggle as we are now with obesity and diabetes and high blood pressure, a lot of preventable issues that to me reflect a budget that doesn't get it, a government that doesn't get it, about thinking longer term and planning for the long-term future.

8:30

Taxes create a just, stable, and community-centred society where we share the gifts and we all benefit. The government's primary job, in my view, is to ensure that we create stability, social supports for people who need them, and an equitable society which helps people reach their maximum potential both in terms of their personal skills, attitudes, and values and also in their ability to contribute back to the public purse. It's a very short-term notion, a very narrow notion, that doesn't see the importance of a stable tax base to help us create a more equitable, healthy, and prosperous society in the end.

With stable funding we could ensure all of this. But, again, this government doesn't see that as its role. It sees its role as a banker, trying to minimize costs, trying to maximize short-term profits and to ensure that we actually expand only the areas where we have the greatest strengths instead of developing our weaknesses and areas that will be potentially and likely already are eroding the very fabric of this society and eroding our prosperity. It's only that this government doesn't measure the impacts of high rates of homelessness and family violence that I've talked about.

We have, on the other hand, on this side of the House a strong commitment to the social fabric and to the community values that built this province. We believe in honest and upfront commitment through a taxation system that is fair and equitable and ensures stability for some of these essential services. We definitely want to see that those in our midst who need it are cared for. We also want to ensure that we are building on the future of a knowledge-based economy, not a resource-based economy, that we're building on new energy forms and diversifying our energy mix, that we're building on the highest standards of environmental protection in the world. Why shouldn't we expect that here, where we have the greatest minds and opportunities for science and the financial wherewithal to not only establish the best standards but to monitor and enforce those best standards? This is all part of the economy.

I see a very narrow focus in this Legislature, often on dollars as opposed to the broader range of resources – human resources, natural resources, and the knowledge resources – that actually contribute to an economy that we not only can be proud of but one that will sustain us into the future.

We still, unfortunately, have a budget roughly 30 per cent dependent on fossil fuels and, therefore, remain vulnerable to world prices. We cannot assume year after year after year that we are going to be able to draw on these nonrenewable resources.

As the Member for Edmonton-Riverview has so eloquently expressed in his book Follow the Money, we have now left so much on the table for these corporations that we are in the position of, again, tremendous weakness in terms of our ability to fund basic services that should be there for everyone. Seniors' care has been compromised. Child care is being compromised, with many people unable to get access to child care. Our most disabled struggled to have enough income until this year, when there was a generous increase in their monthly stipend. Until this year there were very, very straitened circumstances for our disabled. All of this because the government wants to take the largest pride in having the lowest tax structure in our history and in our country at great cost, as I say, to social and environmental standards.

We have, as I've indicated, on this side of the House clearly stated that what a responsible government will do is ensure that we tax appropriately to ensure that these services and supports are available and that standards are kept and met. It's one thing to have standards and then to not actually monitor those standards and enforce standards, which is why we now have a black eye internationally around our oil sector.

Postsecondary investments have not kept pace with what's really needed if we're serious about diversifying our economy and developing new technology, a knowledge-based economy around petrochemicals, around biotechnology, around information technology and new energies. As I've said, I don't see in this budget a strong commitment to a kind of a sustainable future that would allow us to move in that direction. On this side of the House we're pushing for those important investments.

Mr. Speaker, as you can tell, I won't be supporting this budget. I have to say that it's more of the same old same old from a government that touts itself as fiscal conservatives. I don't see the conservative here. I don't see the longer term thinking. I don't see a commitment to a new way of financial planning that would support the kind of values that I think Albertans want to see. We continue to look for leadership in this province, and I will be voting against this budget.

The Acting Speaker: Thank you.

Hon. members, Standing Order 29(2)(a) is available to question on the previous speech or make comments on it. The hon. Member for Calgary-Glenmore.

Mr. Hinman: I'm just wondering. The hon. member talked about all of the tax dollars that are being left on the table. I have to apologize that I haven't read all of your plans, but how high do you feel these taxes should go in order to get the best value for, I guess, industry's work here in the province? Where should tax levels be moved to, personal and corporate?

The Acting Speaker: The hon. Member for Calgary-Mountain View to respond.

Dr. Swann: Well, thank you. Thank you for that question. I guess in brief what we want to see is an assessment of what our expenses are, what our essential services are, and that our taxes reflect what we are going to guarantee to provide in this province for people and for an environmental protection system that actually will make us proud to leave this next generation what we have.

We've talked about that for individuals earning over a hundred thousand dollars, we would move to a 2 per cent increase on their income tax and a graduated scale up to 3 or 4 per cent after $200,000 and over $300,000. That would be more of a progressive tax in those areas. We've also talked about a 2 per cent increase in corporate tax for large corporations.

What that means to me is that we are simply alerting our population that we do not intend to ignore the elephant in the room, that taxes form the basis of a stable, functioning society. If we are not prepared to at least provide stable funding for health care, education, supports for people with disabilities, and ensure that we have something there for emergencies, then we are not acting as a responsible government.

Mr. Hinman: That's definitely an interesting perspective. I guess my question is that as the Liberals would point out that we're not being taxed enough, is there an ideal percentage? With corporate you say 2 per cent this year. Is it going to be 20 per cent in five years? Have you done any economic studies for where you feel that you can tax corporations? What I see very much is that as soon as we tax a corporation, they turn around and charge the people, and their profits come back. So is there a limit to where you feel, you know, corporate tax and personal tax should be? It's fine to start the incremental, but once you do that – and we've got a $3.1 billion deficit here in our budget this year that continues to grow – how do you determine that? Is there an ideal tax rate that you're looking at for corporations and personal income tax that you want to get to?

The Acting Speaker: The hon. member.

Dr. Swann: Thanks, Mr. Speaker. Well, first of all, we have to look at our expenses. I think all of us on the opposition side of the House have recognized quite large numbers of expenses that we would like to see trimmed down. We have a bloated government that should be smaller. We have too many MLAs in the House. We have an experimental science, that's still evolving, in carbon capture and storage that has got way too much of the lion's share of our investment in climate change mitigation. So there are a number of areas where there is waste and there is inefficient spending, and that has to be addressed.

8:40

Quite apart from that, I don't have a target in mind for taxation. What I've said is what I stand by. What are the basic levels of services that we intend to provide to all Albertans on an equitable basis, and what does that look like in terms of tax? The Member for Edmonton-Riverview's book Follow the Money indicates that we are leaving over twice as much on the table for the biggest corporations, many of them from outside the country, as all of the rest of the provinces in the country, which is about 12 per cent of GDP. As I recall, 10 to 12 per cent of GDP is in corporate profits. It's billions.

What we're saying is: let's look at that. Why are we so out of sync with the rest of the country in terms of how much corporate profit we're willing to give, when we have serious needs within this province and an unstable economic resource base for our essential services?

The Acting Speaker: Anyone else under 29(2)(a)?

Seeing no one, I'll recognize the hon. Member for Edmonton-Riverview to go next.

Dr. Taft: Thanks, Mr. Speaker. I appreciate the comments from the Member for Calgary-Mountain View. Before I go further, I have spoken at some length on the budget, on the Appropriation Act, when it was in committee.

I just want to say that I really appreciate that there are members of the public here and just give them a quick primer of what's going on here. We've already in about an hour moved a number of bills through third reading, which means they have become law, short of the government later on proclaiming them. You are about to witness tonight, I expect, something you probably won't see all that often, which is a decision to spend $39.4 billion, which is certainly more than I will ever dream of spending. We are in the last stage of discussion on the debate on the budget bill, which covers the expenditure of $39.4 billion. Really, there has been quite a lot of extensive debate, so it's winding down. You can probably feel that winding down occurring here. I just thought that might be of interest to you to see what's going on.

I wanted to get a couple of things on the record. What would it be, Mr. Speaker? Five or six weeks or something that the budget has been working its way through procedure? In that time news develops and factors develop, and one that's continued to develop, which I've raised here occasionally, is the dramatic shift in the supply of oil in North America. I've raised this in the Assembly before, that the very same technologies that brought a huge increase in the supply of natural gas and, therefore, a massive drop in the price of natural gas are also playing out in oil. The reason that's of such importance to the budget of Alberta is that a very significant portion – I can't pull it off the top of my head – of the Alberta government's budget depends on royalties from oil and gas. When those prices of oil and gas drop, the royalties drop and this provincial government is in trouble.

Mr. Speaker, this budget forecasts the price of oil staying quite firm and, in fact, forecasts significant increases in royalties from bitumen in particular. But what I've seen in recent weeks has actually caused me to be increasingly skeptical that that's going to play out. I'm thinking that perhaps just on Saturday there was an extensive article on this huge surge of oil production in the United States such that the United States is rapidly reducing the amount of oil that it imports. Lo and behold, the largest export of oil to the U.S. is not Saudi Arabia or Venezuela; it's Canada, essentially Alberta.

In fact, the term is getting floated around that the central plains region of the United States is becoming so productive – many of us will have heard of the Bakken oil field, for example, in North Dakota and other ones – that it's getting nicknamed Saudi America and that the day may arise when the United States actually becomes a net exporter of oil. That has massive implications for Alberta.

In fact, this article just the other day was saying that it may well be a good thing that the Keystone pipeline did not get approved because if the Keystone pipeline gets built, it means we're just going to be tied into shipping our oil into a market that's flooded, and we'll be forced to take a terribly discounted price for our product. The suggestion was – and there's some merit to this – that the real priority for Alberta and Canada should be a pipeline to the west coast or perhaps a pipeline running east-west right across Canada.

My point here is that I'm concerned this budget is based on the smoke and mirrors that often blind governments in the lead-up to an election. The smoke and mirrors are the price of oil. I think there's a very real risk that the price of oil is going to drop, that royalties, therefore, will drop, and that this budget will not be viable, Mr. Speaker.

The Member for Calgary-Glenmore asked about taxes. It's very clear from the government's documents that Alberta's taxes could be raised I think it's $10.7 billion more and still be tied with the next lowest province as having the lowest tax rates in Canada. It makes no sense, when we're running deficits, when we're curtailing programs, when we're jacking up tuition fees, and when we're draining the heritage fund, to be leaving $11 billion a year on the table, a significant portion of which leaves Alberta. It goes to investors on Wall Street or in Houston or London or Shanghai. It makes no sense. We own this resource. We should get the best price possible for it. If we did that, the fiscal challenges of this province would be immediately resolved.

I want to make one other point. This is not particularly a position of the Liberal caucus, but it's certainly my reading of the literature that tax rates, while they're easy political targets, are vastly overrated in terms of their economic impact. Taxes are the price of civilization. If you want to go to a low-tax jurisdiction, I say: "Go to Somalia. Go to Haiti. Go to Afghanistan. That's what happens when you don't have a functioning tax system." On the other hand, if you go to, let's say, New York City, Mr. Speaker, an exciting place to go, one of the absolute capitals of global capitalism, you know what? Taxes in New York City are way higher than in Edmonton or Calgary. But I can't think of a single corporate headquarters that's relocated from New York City to Edmonton or Calgary. It's because tax rates are not particularly high on the list of factors that corporations take into consideration when they decide where to locate.

Alberta should have competitive taxes, but there's no point in being in a race to the bottom because we just bankrupt our future when we do that.

With those comments, Mr. Speaker, I will inform the Assembly that, like the Member for Calgary-Mountain View, I can't support this budget. I don't think it's terribly credible. I think it's misguided on several fundamental aspects, and really I'd like them to start all over again on it.

Thank you.

The Acting Speaker: Thank you.

Hon. members, 29(2)(a) is available. The hon. Member for Calgary-Glenmore.

Mr. Hinman: Yeah. To the hon. member. I don't have the numbers with me right here, but I believe that corporate tax at this point – is it $4.5 billion that the province brings in in revenue right now? If you're talking about $10.1 billion left on the table, I assume that was corporate tax.

Dr. Taft: That's all taxes.

Mr. Hinman: Okay. Well, I didn't understand that. Again, to do that Liberal simple math, 2 per cent isn't going to produce $10.1 billion. If you could clarify where your goal is to capture that $10.1 billion, I would appreciate that.

8:50

The Acting Speaker: The hon. member to respond?

Dr. Taft: Sure, Mr. Speaker. The $10.7 billion, actually, this year and the $11 billion last year are the sum totals according to the government's own records – you've been in the Assembly when you've heard the Treasurer give his speech – that taxes in Alberta could be raised and still be tied with the next-lowest province, which, I believe, is B.C., for its tax take. That includes sales tax. We are not advocating a sales tax. That includes personal income tax. It includes corporate tax and so on.

There's a whole mix here of ways to increase revenues. The Member for Calgary-Mountain View made it clear that we're the only party, the only caucus that's come forward and actually said that we need to return to a progressive income tax, which every other province has and I think every single state in the United States has. [interjection] No? Okay. Well, most do, anyway. I'm not sure which one doesn't.

An Hon. Member: Utah.

Dr. Taft: Okay. Utah, then. There may be one state that has a flat tax.

In any case, we would return to a progressive income tax, as the Member for Calgary-Mountain View has pointed out, and to a higher rate of corporate income tax.

With the kinds of silliness that are under our current tax system because our corporate taxes here are lower than in the United States – combined federal and provincial corporate taxes are significantly lower in Alberta than they are in the United States – when an American-owned company working in Alberta earns income here and doesn't pay the same level of tax as they would in the United States, when those profits are repatriated to the parent corporation in the United States, the difference in tax is collected by the U.S. government, collected by Washington. We give a tax break to Imperial Oil, and those profits flow through to Exxon. They are really collected by Washington. For Conoco-Phillips and all the many, many American companies operating in Alberta, when they pay lower taxes here than in the U.S., the U.S. law is very clear. The difference will be collected by Washington.

When we're draining our heritage fund, when we're jacking up tuition fees, when we're running deficits and giving a tax break to Washington, I think that makes no sense, Mr. Speaker, and I for one as an Albertan would like to see that brought to an end.

The Acting Speaker: Thank you.

Anyone else under section 29(2)(a)?

If not, are there any other speakers at third reading to Bill 7?

Is there somebody closing debate here on behalf of the Deputy Premier and President of the Treasury Board?

Hon. Members: Question.

The Acting Speaker: If not, the question has been called.

[The voice vote indicated that the motion for third reading carried]

[Several members rose calling for a division. The division bell was rung at 8:53 p.m.]

[Ten minutes having elapsed, the Assembly divided]

[Mr. Zwozdesky in the chair]

For the motion:

Amery	Groeneveld	Lukaszuk
Benito	Hancock	Pastoor
Berger	Hayden	Rodney
Brown	Horne	Rogers
Denis	Jablonski	Sarich
Drysdale	Johnston	Tarchuk
Fawcett	Klimchuk	Vandermeer
Goudreau	Leskiw

Against the motion:

Anderson	Hinman	Swann
Boutilier	Mason	Taft
Forsyth

Totals: For – 23 Against – 7

[Motion carried; Bill 7 read a third time]

Government Bills and Orders Committee of the Whole

[Mr. Zwozdesky in the chair]

Bill 2 Education Act

The Deputy Chair: Are there any speakers at this time? The hon. Member for Airdrie-Chestermere on Bill 2.

Mr. Anderson: Yes, on Bill 2. Thank you, Mr. Chair. I'm grateful to have this opportunity to talk about Bill 2 and to debate Bill 2, the Education Act.

Dr. Brown: Some new observations.

Mr. Anderson: A few observations. [interjections]

Chair's Ruling Decorum

The Deputy Chair: Hon. members, I wonder if we could start this part of the debate in the proper form with observance of decorum of the House. That would be just wonderful. The hon. Member for Airdrie-Chestermere has been recognized, and he actually has the floor, so he should be the only one speaking. Others who have conversations to carry on: I invite you carry them on in the coffee room.

Please proceed, hon. member.

Mr. Anderson: Exactly. When that hon. member heckles me, it throws me off. I'm not used to it. He doesn't do it very much.

Debate Continued

Mr. Anderson: Anyway, I'm grateful to have the opportunity to speak to Bill 2, the Education Act. Particularly, I think tonight's debate is going to focus primarily on the issue of parental rights in education. I had the opportunity yesterday to witness and participate in a rally on the steps of the Legislature. The Minister of Education was there. The Member for Calgary-North West was there. Calgary-Glenmore was there. I was there, and also the Member for Calgary-Mackay was there. The Member for Fort McMurray-Wood Buffalo, and of course Danielle Smith, the leader of the Wildrose, were all there in attendance. Were you there, too? Calgary-Fish Creek was there, too, I guess.

Mrs. Forsyth: Freezing our butts off.

Mr. Anderson: It was very cold. It was a very cold day, but it was made warm by the spirit and passion of the over 2,000 protesters, Albertans. I don't even want to call them protesters. Albertans.

An Hon. Member: It was not that big.

Mr. Anderson: It was well over 2,000. They kept a count because, you see, it wasn't actually just home-schoolers, hon. member. There were lots of Catholic parents and Catholic students. There were some Catholic trustees there from the Catholic school boards. There were lots of independent, faith-based schools there. There were, obviously, lots of home-schooling families there. There were even a few signs, I noticed, that said that they were public school students against Bill 2. So it was a very diverse group.

9:10

There were also different backgrounds. There were some from different faith backgrounds. There was, obviously, a large contingent there with a Christian background, but there were also some, I noticed interviewed on the news, who were holding signs as well that were not of that background and were just there protesting against Bill 2 and its infringement on parental rights. These were just self-described libertarians. They weren't there for any other reason but that they had students in home-school, and they didn't appreciate Bill 2 and what it did with parental rights.

The first one we went to, which was about a week before that, the Minister of Education came as well to that, and a week or two before that. The paper said about 350, 400; it was much larger than that. It was probably close to 600, 700. But this last go-round was a huge, huge audience, certainly well over 2,000. They actually signed people in as they came in order to verify that because sometimes the media doesn't really give credit where credit is due on the size of these crowds. In fact, many of the reporters that were there remarked that it was the largest rally they had been to at the Legislature. Now, granted, I'm not sure that some of those reporters were there in 1993. There were some big crowds back then. But it was certainly a large crowd and a boisterous crowd yet a very respectful crowd. They were passionate to be there, and I thought they were very respectful.

I do give credit to the Minister of Education, who did show up and speak. It wasn't a very warm reception for him, but he did speak, and you have to give one credit for standing and facing people that disagree with him on issues.

What was this group passionate about? Well, I had the opportunity to ask them. I said: who here loves liberty? And the crowd very clearly made the point that they were there. They were a crowd that loved the concept of liberty, of freedom of speech, freedom of assembly, freedom of religion, freedom of conscience: all these freedoms that we take for granted sometimes in our society. These folks were very passionate about it, and they cheered at even the mention of those freedoms. They were so excited about it. These were patriots that were there, Canadian patriots and Alberta patriots, people that care so deeply about this province and this country and about the freedoms that they enjoy in this province and this country. That was very evident in the group there.

It's important that we don't minimize those folks throughout this debate. These were Albertans that were there of their own free will, standing there in rather cold temperatures for about an hour or a little more than an hour. So some of the members here were mentioning earlier that maybe the crowds weren't that big. That's a real disservice to the passion and devotion of these folks. Lots of questions from all kinds of members on all sides are just passionate. I know there are going to be a lot of speeches here tonight from these folks here.

Why were they there? Bill 2 has some good things in it. There's no doubt about that, and I've noted them. I like the extensions of the charter schools, allowing charter schools to be more permanent fixtures. Allowing more of them, I hope. These are things that we very much support.

People often forget this. Charter schools are public schools. They're publicly funded. There's no tuition. They're open enrolment. In other words, you have to get on a waiting list and wait your turn in order. You have to agree to the charter, obviously. If the charter is, you know, science or whatever, you have to agree that you're going to be okay with taking that charter on or having your child go to that charter. If it's more behavioural, like you're going to wear a uniform or something like that, you have to sign on to agree to that because some charter schools like to have structure, and they think children learn better in a structured environment and so forth. But they are public schools. We do very much appreciate these charter schools because they provide a very good piece of choice and competition in our schooling system, in our Alberta education system. So there are things in Bill 2 that we do agree with, and that's just one of several.

But there are some very severe problems. We saw this earlier on in debate on Bill 2 when we brought forth amendments to enshrine in the preamble the idea that the rights of parents are paramount when deciding the educational choices for their children and what kind of education their children are going to receive. We put a subamendment on the floor to a government amendment to make sure that that was clear.

It's not good enough to just say that someone has a right. See, there are rights to lots of things. There are lots of rights out there. Some are fundamental rights. Some are just rights that are given to us because the government gives us permission; for example, the right to drive. Well, that right to drive exists because the government sets rules, parameters, licences, and so forth, and you have a right to drive unless you break the rules. Then you get your licence taken away. You get tickets, et cetera, et cetera, et cetera. So there are lots of rights out there.

There are also lots of competing rights out there, and we see this in the courts all the time when you get into constitutional issues, where you have competing Charter rights, where you have to find that balance between, say, the freedom of equality and the freedom of religion or the freedom of speech and the freedom of assembly. There are all kinds of competing rights, and the courts have to find a way to balance those rights.

In just saying, as the government has put forward in one of their amendments, that parents have a right to decide what the educational choices will be for their children and so forth, in and of itself, especially being in the preamble where it's really of no force and effect, it's not really binding in any way. It's kind of just window dressing. That's why we brought a subamendment to say: "No, no. When it comes to competing rights, parents have the paramount right and responsibility over deciding what education they will have their children given and taught." That is something that we felt passionate about, and we brought in amendments on that.

Now, amazingly, the government refused to pass that amendment. They wanted to just give a right. They wanted to recognize a right, but they didn't want to give parents a paramount right. They weren't comfortable with that, so they voted against it for several reasons.

Then the next day in the Calgary Herald it was quoted that, in fact, with the amendment that they had passed the night before – and I heard this on a radio talk show as well – they had given parents a paramount right to choose the education for their children, which was exactly what they voted against the night before. They voted against that exact language, yet they were out the next day saying: well, we passed an amendment that makes it so that parents are recognized as having paramount rights over their child's education. Not true. They voted against that. It was a standing vote on the record of voting against that exact language, so it was very disingenuous.

Again, I give credit, you know, to the Liberals and the NDP. They certainly voted against our amendment as well, but at least they were truthful about it. They said, "Yeah, we voted against it; this is why, and we're proud of that" whereas the PCs voted against it and then went to the media the next day saying: "We voted for it. In fact, it was our idea." In fact, it wasn't their idea in the first place, and they voted against it. So this is the kind of disingenuous behaviour that is becoming commonplace with this government.

We're going to have to discuss the paramountcy of parental rights, and we will. We've got an amendment to that effect. However, before we get to that amendment, there is another amendment – and we're going to talk about that right away here – and that revolves around section 16 of this bill, Bill 2. This is a real sticking point because this is really what the rally was about.

9:20

Section 16 says:

All courses or programs of study offered and instructional materials used in a school must reflect the diverse nature and heritage of society in Alberta, promote understanding and respect for others and honour and respect the Canadian Charter of Rights and Freedoms and the Alberta Human Rights Act.

Well, that sounds great, doesn't it? The only problem is those last six words. You see the signs in the audience: just change six words. And what were those six words that they were talking about? If the folks up in the gallery could speak, which they're not allowed to, I bet you they could repeat those words verbatim, but I'll repeat them for you. The last six words: "and the Alberta Human Rights Act."

Over the last decade or so there has been no larger violator of human rights in the province of Alberta than the human rights tribunal in the name of this Human Rights Act, no greater infringer on freedom of religion, freedom of expression, free speech, freedom of conscience. This Alberta human right tribunal is one of the most widely criticized, one of the most roundly criticized, by folks from right across the spectrum, as being, frankly, completely out of touch with the realities of the Charter of Rights and Freedoms and so forth. It has been a travesty. We'll go through some of those examples.

For people that are home-schoolers and private schoolers and Catholic schoolers, this really is a problem for them because it mandates, essentially, that all course or programs, instructional materials, et cetera, have to reflect, et cetera, et cetera, et cetera, the values taught in the Human Rights Act. As interpreted by whom? Lots of good stuff in the Human Rights Act, but who's interpreting the Human Rights Act? A lot of folks have severe problems with that for many reasons. It's not just one issue, one thing. It's a whole range of issues from, like I said, free speech to freedom of religion, freedom of conscience, et cetera.

Mr. Chair, without further ado, I'm going to introduce an amendment to Bill 2, section 16.

The Deputy Chair: Hon. member, if you would please provide those to the page, as I see you are doing, and retain one copy for yourself. As it's being distributed, if you wish to read it into the record, that will move things along.

Mr. Anderson: Sure. I move that Bill 2, the Education Act, be amended by striking out section 16 and substituting the following:

Respect

16 Education programs offered and instructional materials used in schools must not promote or foster doctrines of racial or ethnic superiority or persecution, religious intolerance or persecution, social change through violent action or disobedience of laws.

The Deputy Chair: Thank you very much, hon. member. I'm assuming everybody has a copy now. Not yet? Okay. We'll just give them a couple of seconds more here.

All right. Hon. member, if you wish to proceed with this amendment, which will be numbered A6.

Mr. Anderson: This amendment: what does it do? Well, it changes, as I said, section 16, strikes out the entirety of section 16, and replaces it with something else. You will recognize the language here because it's the language of the current parallel section that's in the old act, the second subsection from it:

3(1) All education programs offered and instructional materials used in schools . . .

(2) . . . must not promote or foster doctrines of racial or ethnic superiority or persecution, religious intolerance or persecution, social change through violent action or disobedience of laws.

Mr. Chair, there's this old adage, and it's such a good piece of advice, especially for this government over the last several years when you think of the royalty framework, when you think of property rights, when you think of the whole swath of issues that have just absolutely brought this government to the brink, to where they may not be the government again after 41 years. Here's the adage, the useful advice that someone should have told somebody four or five years ago: if it ain't broke, don't fix it. If it ain't broke, don't fix it.

The School Act in this area was not broken. It was fine. It was a good balance. The language used here:

3(1) All education programs offered and instructional materials used in schools . . .

(2) . . . must not promote or foster doctrines of racial or ethnic superiority or persecution, religious intolerance or persecution, social change through violent action or disobedience of laws.

We have used this for years and years and years and years, and it has been very successful in promoting diversity and respect.

What does the government do? They take this obscure section in the act, which no one was complaining about – it was fine – and they have decided that they are going to change it. What do they do?

All courses or programs of study offered and instructional materials used in a school must reflect the diverse nature and heritage of society in Alberta, promote understanding and respect for others and honour and respect the Canadian Charter of Rights and Freedoms and the Alberta Human Rights Act.

People are very worried about those last six words. Now, I would be open to any kind of subamendment or other amendments that other members might bring with regard to just getting rid of those last six words, but I take a more kind of common-sense approach. Why fix something that wasn't broken? What's the point? Why do it?

[Mr. Cao in the chair]

What are people concerned about? Well, they're concerned about a few things. In section 29, I believe it is, of the same act we look at private schools. Some of them are faith-based schools. Most of them are nonprofit. We have a great faith-based school in our constituency. It's a different faith from my own, but it's a phenomenal – phenomenal – faith-based school.

The Chair: Your 20 minutes are up, hon. member.

The hon. Member for Calgary-Fish Creek on amendment A6.

Mrs. Forsyth: Thank you, Mr. Chair. I am grateful to talk about something that is important to me and many Albertans, and that's the importance of parents. It may seem obvious that parents are important to Albertans, but that's why I stand here today discussing amendment A6.

It's not clear to me and concerned parents about the place of parents in our education system. Traditionally we have always respected the fact that the most important and influential educators of children are their parents. It seems unquestionable to me, but that is why we've seen hundreds of families protesting at the Legislature. You know what, Mr. Chair? Someone is questioning their authority over their children.

Parents are the greatest source of stability in a child's life. Mom and dad are like water and sunshine to a growing plant. When there is plenty, the plant thrives, and it grows like an unstoppable force. Cut off the plant from the water and sunshine, and you get something that not only ceases to grow, but it withers away.

Parents that home-school their kids are showing a supreme commitment to their kids. These parents are upset with the preamble of the Education Act because it interferes in what they can teach their children. The preamble speaks to how important parents are, but you know what, Mr. Chair? It seems like lip service. When it comes to people's children, they do not respect lip service. They respect action. But that failed, so we're now trying with this amendment.

9:30

The amendment proposed by the Member for Airdrie-Chestermere, A6, was important on its own but especially in light of section 16 because section 16 puts the lessons of home-schooling parents – Christian parents, Catholic parents, parents in general – at the mercy of the human rights tribunals. The amendment does make the situation clearer, that parents are the ultimate authority in a child's life, especially when it comes to their education. It is clear that it is a parent's right to teach morality, beliefs, and their sense of right and wrong.

Quite frankly, Mr. Chairman, I'm confused. A parent that home-schools or takes time to find a specific school for the kid proves to me how much they care. So why are we undermining devoted parents? As the minister of children and youth services I spent a lot of time consulting those with addictions. The last thing you ever want to do is undermine people that care. Section 16 undermines the authority of parents, and it undermines the authority of people that care.

Something that my parents taught me was to keep things simple. All too often these days government keeps creating more and more laws and more and more regulations and checklists that bog us down and complicate things. Now, I've heard in this House how out of date the old School Act was. It seems like the government is throwing the baby out with the bathwater.

There was a lot of good legislation in the old act, and there's no question that there's a lot of good legislation in the new act. I can refer to several pieces in the new act, and I like to remind the government that the bullying section that they have in the old act was actually my bullying bill, that they have now incorporated into the new act. At the time that I brought the bullying bill forward, many members of the government defeated it and spoke against it in this Legislature.

Parents that home-school or send their kids to independent schools are worried about the new diversity language in the new Education Act. The old language was clear: don't promote racial or ethnic superiority or persecution or religious intolerance or social change through violent action or disobedience of laws. As long as parents met these guidelines, they were free to teach their children as they saw fit. You know what? We didn't have any problems.

The new language scares parents because it drags in the Human Rights Commission. Quite frankly, the behaviour of the Human Rights Commission in this province and across Canada has been discredited. It has been used to censor people's freedom of speech that has offended some people. No hatred promoted, just opinions that have ruffled feathers, and no one ever was hurt physically, but people were dragged through the commissions, which aren't even real courts of law. To me, Mr. Chair, these issues clearly show a difference between the government and my caucus on education and parents.

Mr. Chair, I believe in the grassroots, that the people are where we draw our power and where we draw our guidance. Parents are the foundation of education, and Albertans are the foundation of what makes this great province. I don't think that there is that belief on the other side of the House. I believe that the belief is that the governing party and the government in general are the driving forces in this province.

Top-down ordering is how this government operates. If they get it wrong, then they consult. I wonder: what consultation was done with home-schoolers? What consultation was done with the Christian parents? What consultation was done with the Catholic parents? Was the consultation done with a few choice friends that nod their heads when the minister asks them questions? [interjections] You know, Mr. Chair, I love it – I love it – when we're debating a piece of legislation and . . .

The Chair: Hon. members, the hon. Member for Calgary-Fish Creek has the floor, and the procedure is to address the chair.

Mrs. Forsyth: The Minister of Education has the opportunity to stand up and speak in the Legislature. What the Minister of Education is doing is showing how disrespectful he is to the parents in this province, and quite frankly he's not showing a lot of leadership to the children in this province.

I do want for a moment to recognize the importance of teachers in Alberta. They work day in and day out to make sure that our kids have a great education. Alberta is the envy of the world in large part because of the wonderful teachers we have, but we cannot forget that parents are the moral compass. Morality comes from the home to the school, not the other way around. I hope that this government sees the light on this issue. We need to support the great parents that we have in this province, and they can't be taken for granted. We cannot assume. We all know what happens when we assume.

I urge the House to recognize the essential nature of mom and dad and the growth of their children and their education. We need to recognize that parents are paramount in educating their children.

I can't recall, to be honest with you, as a sitting member of this Legislature for a long time, quite frankly, the last time that I received so many e-mails, so many phone calls, so many letters in regard to an issue. I think the Member for Airdrie-Chestermere brought it up as we spent many hours speaking in the Legislature. I think both of us have come to the conclusion that the last time that happened was with the royalty. We at that time received, I'm sure as you did, Mr. Chair, as a member of the government hundreds of letters. I have received letters, e-mails, phone calls, and I want to read one of those in the House if I can.

This letter was actually written to the Solicitor General and the Member for Airdrie-Chestermere. I know we can't read names, but I'm going to read this as per the letter, verbatim.

[Dear] Jonathan.

I am aware that the Education Minister has thrown a little "bone" to the people of Alberta, assuming that making a small change in the wording of the preamble of the bill will make everything "all better." We all know that the preamble is only words, an introduction, and has absolutely no legal force. The words of the bill itself are what is law. Regardless of what the Premier says to the media, or what any other Alberta PC politician states when you say it will be fine and not to worry, once the bill passes . . . it must be enforced. If the Alberta Government does not enforce it, as the Education Minister stated 2 weeks ago at a rally at the Alberta Legislature, then the Alberta Government in fact will be breaking the law! Can you please explain to me Jonathan what plan the Alberta Government has in place to manage/monitor all people of Alberta to ensure they are not breaking the law?

The reference to the Alberta Human Rights Act has absolutely no business in the Education Act. To my knowledge, no other Canadian province or American state makes such references in their Education Acts. It is my opinion the Premier of Alberta has enshrined it in this new bill as she is a Human Rights lawyer and feels it is her "right" as "the boss" to push her . . . personal agenda that will negatively affect the people of Alberta for decades to come. For this I am deeply saddened not only for my children or future grandchildren but for all citizens of Alberta. Why not remove 6 simple words from Section 16 of this bill? These 6 simple words are ". . . And the Alberta Human Rights Act . . ." Why is the Alberta Provincial Government digging its heels on such a simple solution?

Now, Mr. Chair, I know my time is limited, so I'm not sure how much time I have left.

The Chair: More than eight minutes.

9:40

Mrs. Forsyth: Eight minutes. Okay.

The Alberta Human Rights Commission and its tribunals have a proven Alberta history to be intolerant of Christians who speak according to their faith. It (the Alberta Human Rights Commission) is in itself a direct attack on all faiths because the beliefs of [all faiths] are different than those of the Alberta Human Rights Commission. Therefore, there's no protection whatsoever for homeschoolers or any faith based school with this new act – no religious freedom. It is also my belief Jonathan that as a lawyer yourself, and as the Solicitor General of Alberta, (and our MLA) that you would already know all of this.

The Chair: Hon. member, I just want to remind you that you cannot refer to hon. members by name directly or indirectly.

Mrs. Forsyth: All right. I'm sorry. I was going from a ruling that went on this afternoon in regard to the Minister of Education referring to the Member for Airdrie-Chestermere.

Mr. Anderson: What's good for the goose, right?

Mrs. Forsyth: What's good for the goose, Mr. Chair, is good for the gander. If you're going to be ruling that I cannot use someone's name, then I think you should have made the same ruling this afternoon when someone was quoting directly from . . .

The Chair: Hon. member, continue with the bill. You should not challenge the chair.

Mrs. Forsyth: I'm not challenging the chair, Mr. Chair. I'm trying to get clarification.

The Chair: Please, carry on with the bill.

Mrs. Forsyth:

I am here to plead with you [Solicitor General and Member for Calgary-Egmont or wherever you're from] to go against your party and vote no to the changes that have been proposed to date with the New Education Act. I know there is only one more reading of this bill and if it is not voted down, it will pass. If it passes then parental rights will have been taken away by the state and people of all faiths will no longer have freedom. Alberta's current motto of Strong and Free will need to be changed to something like Weak and Controlled. If this happens then we no longer live in a democracy in Alberta as the state now has the control. I can think of several countries I could effectively compare us to, none of which I . . . would care to live in!

Then it goes on to say to the Member for Calgary-Egmont:

You have stated to me in several emails and telephone conversations that you yourself are a Christian. You have also indicated that you have teachers in your family as well as homeschoolers. If this is the case then you must, in all good conscience, vote no to this Bill. How can you begin to look your family in the eye, tell them you are voting yes to this bill, and convince them it is best for everyone? If this bill passes, are you personally prepared to deal with the repercussions for your future children or grandchildren? Is this the legacy you want to leave in Alberta's history books once your political career is over?

As I have mentioned to you on several occasions, I am praying . . . for the . . . Provincial Government leaders to do what is right and just, for all citizens of Alberta, and for all of you to remember the . . . roots this province was built on.

Thank you [Member for Calgary-Egmont], for your time.

Sincerely,

and it's signed off.

Mr. Chair, that's just one of many. I could go on and on and on and read into the record e-mails we've gotten. I just want to read another one. Can I say Heather, or do I say the Member for Calgary-Fish Creek?

My husband, Ken asked me to forward to you [a] copy of a letter he sent to the Calgary Herald last evening. Whether it gets published or not, it reflects our very strong concern with the anti-religion, anti-family values intent of part of this legislation. Bringing the Human Rights Commission to police/enforce this act is bizarre, irrational and dangerous. It is a direct threat to silence and intimidate well meaning parents and schools who may object to what is being forced down children's throats by agenda driven bureaucrats and politicians. The costs and inherent unfairness of the [Human Rights Commission] process are enough to discourage all but the independently wealthy.

Then it goes on in the letter in regard to what my constituent wrote to the Calgary Herald. Mr. Chair, it goes on and on and on.

We've received a media release from the Alberta Catholic School Trustees' Association questioning Bill 2, the Education Act. There are just too many to even go through. I finally, quite frankly, have quit putting things in my binder because my binder is getting too heavy for me to carry because of all of the correspondence that we've had.

I'm going to end by saying this. When we started speaking on Bill 2, the Education minister made a comment in the Legislature – and it's in the records of Hansard – that: why would we as the Wildrose Party bring forward an amendment in regard to the preamble when we had 16 months of consultation? What I found absolutely mind boggling and hilarious was that we had been dealing with an amendment, A1, that the minister had tabled in the Legislature only a couple of days after he had tabled the legislation in regard to the preamble, and he's criticizing the Wildrose for bringing amendment A2 in regard to the preamble. He was quite forceful in his criticism to the Wildrose about all of the consultation that he had done.

Well, Mr. Chair, it's amazing to me, if the minister has done so much darned consultation on this bill, why we are hearing from the Catholic school parents, the Christian school parents, the home-schooler parents, the charter school parents, and parents in general that are very, very concerned in regard to where this Education Act is going in regard to the preamble and section 16.

With that, Mr. Chair, on behalf of the constituents of Calgary-Fish Creek and on behalf of the parents that at 10 to 10 are still sitting very patiently in the gallery listening to what's going on, thank you. We appreciate your time, we appreciate your dedication, and more importantly, we appreciate you as parents.

The Chair: The hon. Minister of Education.

Mr. Lukaszuk: Thank you, Mr. Chairman. It's a pleasure to rise and speak to the amendment. I, too, together with the Member for Calgary-Fish Creek, would like to thank the parents – and there are some young ones as well, children – who are in the gallery. That is good. It definitely shows ongoing commitment. Also, it's a good part of home-schooling being in the Legislature and seeing what happens, really, in democracy and how bills become laws.

Mr. Chairman, a couple of points just in response to the comments made by the hon. Member for Calgary-Fish Creek. The member is correct. When I stood up in the House and I indicated, "Why is it that the Wildrose opposition raises concerns now and not earlier," she is right that on that particular amendment they didn't have an opportunity to raise it earlier because it was just a freshly tabled amendment on the floor of the Legislature, so they couldn't possibly have had the time to research it and to raise issues with it.

Maybe I didn't make myself clear enough, so I will now for certain. What I meant to say is that I meant on this bill overall. My predecessor, who is now the Minister of Human Services, who was then the Minister of Education, properly tabled this bill on the floor of this Legislature – help me with the time – some 18 months ago, about a year and a half ago.

The minister was quite well known at that time for having a very robust consultation. There was Inspiring Education and transforming education, and there was consultation on the bill, and then the bill was tabled in the Legislature for all members of this Chamber to review. I certainly hope that every member reads every bill because if they don't, I hope that they don't debate the bills they haven't read. So I assume that every member of this Chamber has read Bill 18. I certainly know that all stakeholders, school board associations, and others have read Bill 18.

9:50

A new opportunity came. There was a switch in cabinet. As a new minister I wanted to satisfy myself because I firmly believe that the Education Act is one of the most principled pieces of legislation that a province could ever pass. It truly is a piece of legislation that shapes the future of this province. It's about kids and how we educate them and how they will be leading this province into the future. So I thought that perhaps it was an opportune time to take a bill, a draft bill, and give it back to Albertans outside of this Chamber and say: read it again and tell me if anything is missing in the bill, if anything should be added or changed or omitted so that when we retable that bill in the Legislature, we know that we did our homework. The last School Act was passed in 1988. It lasted us over 20 years. Odds are that this bill will be in power for some 20 years. I just want to make sure that I get it right.

We ended up having town hall consultation meetings and not by invitation; anybody could attend. We ended up having telephone conference meetings; literally over a thousand parents called in. We ended up having a mail campaign; we received thousands of letters. And then, if that wasn't enough, I sent a letter to every single child in every classroom in Alberta asking them, with teachers and parents, to write me back and tell me what they would like to see in this legislation to make sure we covered all bases. By the way, I have received over 7,000 written or drawn responses from children from all over the province, and there are some real golden nuggets in that.

It was to the point where – and I'm not sure from what political affiliations – I was actually criticized on the record for over-consulting on this bill. There are political accusations that I'm using this for electoral purposes and that we're having I believe it's a dog and pony show is the term being used. You know: "Stop shopping this bill around. You're consulting it to death. It's costing people money." There were questions in the House asking how much money it cost to consult the bill so much. I can pull Hansard. There was a concern that I'm actually . . .

Mr. Hinman: Good question. How much?

Mr. Lukaszuk: Well, there you go. There is the question: how much did I spend on consultation? Because apparently we spent too much money on consulting on this bill.

Mr. Hinman: I didn't say too much; I said how much.

Mr. Lukaszuk: I don't know, hon. Member for Calgary-Glenmore. I will find out how much it cost.

Consulting on the education bill is the right thing to do. Throughout this entire process, for 18 months, as this bill was consulted with everybody, not one letter, not one memo, not one visit to the office, not one communication of any sort, neither to my predecessor nor to myself, from that particular caucus on this bill. No criticism or no constructive suggestions on what should be changed or how to amend this bill. Nothing. So as far as I'm concerned, the bill has met the standards of that particular caucus. That is why, hon. member, I was so shocked to find out that at the final line – it was in second reading – all of a sudden we have a whole array of amendments. Where were they before? It could have been done, but where were they before?

Mr. Chairman, the picture will be painted that the whole world is against this bill, and I can tell you that it is not. This bill is for roughly 600,000 children in our classrooms. This bill is probably the most innovative piece of education legislation that this country will have seen ever. It is a very progressive bill. It deals with bullying. It allows kids to earn credits in universities while in high school. It gives extra powers to parents so they can sit on parent councils. It formalizes students' unions and associations so that they can direct the minister on future policy changes. The list goes on and on and on.

Bullying, frankly, to me personally is one of the most important ones because it's something we need to eradicate throughout school boards.

Mr. Hinman: You use it best.

Mr. Lukaszuk: Hon. Member for Calgary-Glenmore, I won't even honour your comments with a response.

Mr. Hinman: You have no honour, so that's okay.

Mr. Lukaszuk: Mr. Chairman, I should call a point of order at this man suggesting that I have no honour, but I will just ignore him, and I will carry on.

Mr. Hinman: You're disgusting.

Mr. Lukaszuk: And that I'm disgusting. But I will also ignore that as well.

The Chair: Hon. member, the minister has the floor.

Mr. Lukaszuk: This is the kind of rhetoric that we've been dealing with, Mr. Chairman, in this Legislature for the last few days, so don't even worry. It doesn't faze me. That's how they want to conduct themselves on Hansard, on the record.

Point of Order Inflammatory Language

Mr. Hinman: I'll give a point of order under 23(h), (i), (j). He's saying things that are inflammatory, that aren't correct, and he's trying to cause disruption of the Assembly with the things that he's saying. He's the one who's starting it. If he wants to talk the truth, speak the truth. But for him to get up and say that we haven't given anything when this bill didn't come out – Bill 2 is not Bill 18, and because they had Bill 18 around for 18 months doesn't mean that they went around for 18 months on Bill 2. It just came forward here. How long ago, Minister? Let's put some facts on the table. You're being disruptive; you're being misleading. You should call him to a point of order.

The Chair: Hon. member, point of clarification.

Mr. Lukaszuk: I didn't hear a citation. It's odd. You know, the member calls me . . . [interjection] I'm speaking to a bill, Mr. Chairman. I'm trying to focus. The member calls me awful names in the meantime, and somehow I'm causing a disturbance? Let it be. I want to focus on this. This is more important.

The Chair: Hon. minister, the member is upset about that point of order. Continue on with the bill.

Mr. Lukaszuk: That's fine.

Debate Continued

Mr. Lukaszuk: It should be mentioned, Mr. Chairman, that bills 18 and 2 are one and the same. It's the same bill reintroduced. The only reason that the number changed, as you well know, is that every time we reintroduce a bill, it loses its placement order, and it just simply receives a different number. It's the same bill with a different number on the cover. But that's fine if they want to argue that.

I want to tell you, Mr. Chairman, what other Albertans say about this bill. The Alberta School Councils' Association is an association that conglomerates the majority of our independent

Christian schools. I want to read a letter to you signed by Marilyn Sheptycki, president of this council, addressed to myself, that says:

Dear Minister Lukaszuk,

I am writing to you in support of Bill 2, the Education Act.

Over the past three years, Albertans have had many opportunities to engage in discussions on shaping the future of education in our province. Bill 2 captures and distills those many conversations and reflects the thoughts and ideas of all who participated in the consultations.

Bill 2 represents the legislative framework Albertans believe is needed, to not only maintain our province's world class education system, but to provide even greater opportunities for student learning.

The Alberta School Councils' Association encourages all Members of the Legislative Assembly to view Bill 2 as a good, solid piece of legislation, one which reflects the collective wisdom of Albertans. It will serve all the students of Alberta well today, and in the future.

Sincerely

Marilyn Sheptycki, President

The Alberta School Boards Association, Mr. Chairman, a body that represents many, many, many school boards and hundreds of thousands of students in our schools, put out a media availability, and it says:

ASBA Urges Passage of Bill 2 Education Act

Bill 2 Education Act is a good piece of legislation that should be passed before the Legislative Assembly adjourns, says ASBA Vice-President Cheryl Smith.

"For two years, the government engaged in extensive consultation with all education partners including parents about how education in this province should go forward. We believe the Act should be passed because it reflects this input and replaces legislation that no longer meets our needs," said Smith.

And then there's contact information for the Alberta School Boards Association.

Mr. Chairman, the Public School Boards' Association also put out a news release saying:

The Public School Boards' Association of Alberta . . . was pleased to see Bill 2 introduced in February 2012. We were the first Association to ask for the following provisions:

- Natural Person Powers, Establishment of Separate School Districts, Trustee Eligibility and Inclusiveness as a Core Value.
- We are very pleased to see those provisions within Bill 2.

They go on to say what a good piece of legislation, how reflective, it is. Then it says:

The PSBAA is the only Association in Alberta that advocates exclusively for the interests of Boards offering a Public School Education and the students attending Alberta's Public Schools. When our Association speaks, we represent the voices of over 228,000 children attending Public Schools.

Mr. Chairman, if that's not enough, I will read you a letter from the Alberta Teachers' Association that, again, calls for "inclusive comprehensive public education." In their statement and press release – I won't read it because it's actually quite lengthy – they are asking for immediate passage of Bill 2 because it is good for all children in the province of Alberta.

Mr. Chairman, I don't question why the members do what they do, and I definitely have a great deal of respect for parents who fear that in some way their educational choices and their ability to teach or not teach certain concepts may be compromised. I have satisfied myself not only through analyzing the legislation but actually outsourcing it to individuals much brighter than me in the matters of law that there is nothing in the act that in any way will affect parents who choose to home-school their children or, frankly, any type of religious education.

10:00

As I said, Mr. Chairman, it's rather ironic. As I was speaking with somebody earlier today, I said that I have a pretty boring routine every morning. First thing in the morning I drop off my older daughter at a Catholic school, where I sit on a parent council, and then I drop off my younger three-year-old daughter at a daycare in a Catholic convent, in a nunnery, where she's taken care of by Catholic nuns. I don't know how many members in this Chamber actually have the opportunity of engaging where religion blends with education. That is a choice that I'm making, and I'll tell you, I would be furious if somebody was to tell me that I cannot exercise both of those options because they're very important to me and to my family.

Also, when my children come home from school, I teach them what is right and what is wrong. Every parent does that in the province of Alberta. My wife and I tell them what we believe is right, what is a sin, what isn't a sin, what is wrong, how to treat your neighbour, how to play with other kids, what is morally acceptable, and what isn't. That is not the role of teachers. That is not the role of the education system. That is not the role of strangers.

Teachers, as well intentioned as they are, are trained to teach curriculum. They're not trained to teach morality. They may tell kids how to engage with each other in school and what's the proper behaviour and code of conduct, but they're not there to teach morality. That is something that comes from the home, and that has been understood in this province for over a hundred years now. That is something that will remain.

I don't think that there's a member on any side of this House that would argue with the fact that what a parent believes is right for a child the parent has the right to teach. There is no role for state, for government, for legislation, for commissions, for quasi-judicial bodies, or for anybody to step into our house. Even if somebody disagrees – because, frankly, it is very possible that I may be disagreeing with what my neighbour is teaching his or her kids relevant to what is right and what is wrong, but that's none of my business. That's their castle, and they get to make the rules. They get to teach their kids what is appropriate for their family values, cultural values, religious values, and the list goes on and on.

Mr. Chairman, I regret that some feel threatened. It's an awful feeling to honestly believe that you may lose something that you hold so dearly. I feel terrible that I'm somehow perceived de facto as an instrument of bringing that fear upon that group. I'm not sure what it is that I can say to reassure this group that it isn't the case.

The fact is that it's rather disingenuous to say that if I was to remove references to certain pieces of legislation, then that legislation wouldn't apply. We all know in this Chamber that there are such pieces of legislation that are known as overarching pieces of legislation, whether we make references to them or not. They do apply to formalized schooling, but our homes and our teaching of children are exempt from that. As parents even in formalized schooling, if we choose to exempt children from certain courses, we can.

Let's not all think that we all have the same values. As a matter of fact, Mr. Chairman, in my riding there is a small group, a small pocket of residents, who come from a non-Christian religious background who strongly feel that their children should not be exposed to music, any kind of music. You know, in regular schools learning your ABCs usually is done through music. That's part of the pedagogy of teaching children. That's how children often learn. Well, this particular group of individuals strongly feels that music is something that neither children nor adults should be exposed to, and our schools accommodate that.

We respect choices, not only choices that are based on Christianity and many of the common values that most of us share, but we accommodate the choices of other faiths, of other religions because we are a pluralistic society and that's what we do. So parents get to remove those children from classes where they are exposed to music or teachers accommodate, where they can, because that's what Alberta education is based on. It's based on choice.

That is why – and sometimes we're criticized by others – we offer this wide array of choice: private school, public school, charter school, Catholic school, or home educational program. There's also a reason, Mr. Chairman, why we made a deliberate effort in the act to refer to others as schools, but we refer to educational programs as programs because we know that home is not a school. None of the regulations that pertain to school buildings pertain to homes, nor should they.

We also acknowledge the fact that when you're home-schooling a child, there is no regimented schedule. Kids don't wake up at home in the morning, jump out of their pyjamas, and study from 9 o'clock till 3 o'clock, and then the rest is family time. Kids learn from the moment that they wake up to the moment that they go to sleep. When the family travels in a family van to pick up groceries, they use that trip as part of education. That's part of home education.

So it is obvious that if one even tried to implement any type of legislation, it would be impossible because how would you ever know whether the child is actually learning right now or whether this is part of family discussion, like you are having with your children and I am having with my children at home when we're not home-schooling?

Mr. Chairman, I wanted to reassure not only those here in the gallery that it is unfortunate that this matter has been elevated to the status that it has, that emotions and fears have been elicited. It is sad because I know for a fact in my heart that if and when this bill passes, home-schooling families will wake up the next morning, and life will be just the same. They will be teaching them what they always have. They will choose not to teach them what they always have. Sins will remain sins, not-sins will remain not-sins, and the government of Alberta will keep its paws far away from anybody's home.

Mr. Chairman, I thank you for this time. I hope that we will be able to engage in a debate that is fact based, not emotion based, and that we will manage to keep the decorum of this House at the level that we're enjoying, actually, right now.

Thank you.

The Chair: The hon. Member for Edmonton-Riverview on amendment A6.

Dr. Taft: On the amendment, yes. Thank you, Mr. Chairman. It's an interesting discussion. I've been looking at the amendment.

I must reflect, though, a little bit on the comments from the minister that we just heard at some length. I will say that it takes some doing as a member of the opposition to feel sympathy for the position of the minister, but I've got to be honest, Member for Calgary-Glenmore. I heard the minister speaking calmly, trying to address the issues. I didn't think your calling a point of order was at all appropriate, if I may get that on the record. It just seemed – I don't where it came from, but it concerns me.

I also want to say, Mr. Chairman, that I may have been one of those who said, or at least thought, that perhaps the government was almost overconsulting in developing this act. I certainly thought and I may have said that the consultation that went into the Education Act was a model that I'd like to see more government legislation follow.

Very often we get bills dropped on us. Gee, last fall we got the one on driving under an alcohol influence of .05. We get lots of bills dropped on us very, very suddenly. Last fall I think there were three bills pushed through in two weeks. So having a piece of legislation brought to the floor of the Assembly after being developed and then tabled and left after first reading for broad reaction for I think it is 18 months is extraordinary. There has been ample, ample opportunity for people to give their reaction, so for this to be coming up at the very last minute is a little bit of a surprise.

Nonetheless, that kind of thing happens, and it's been an interesting debate. These are genuine, heartfelt issues on all sides, including our side. You know, I've got two adult kids, and I like to think that they've turned out pretty well. But I understand from our perspective, you know, the old saying that it takes a village to raise a child. I hear a tremendous amount about the supreme rights, or some phrase like that, of parents with their children. I don't think it's supreme but overarching or paramount, and I have mixed feelings about that.

10:10

I happen to know that there are many parents who are not competent and who do a terrible job of raising their children. Our society, sadly, is filled with abusive families. We recognize as a society that there are times when the rights of a parent are not paramount and should not be paramount, when we have to intervene, for example, to protect children.

In much less extreme cases there are all kinds of examples where at least I, speaking for myself, am quite comfortable with my children learning from other people and that other people, whether they're schoolteachers or principals or neighbours or aunts and uncles or religious figures or whoever, have rights. I don't regard my children as chattels. I don't regard them as something I own. I regard them as citizens in a free and open society, who right from the day they're born benefit from a very broad and rich learning environment from which they'll learn their morality and they'll learn right and wrong. I just think that's good.

So we have different views – different views. There's no question about that. You know, we're not going to change each other on that. Fair enough.

I have noted in this amendment a couple of things. The amendment has the effect of removing reference to the Canadian Charter of Rights and Freedoms as well as to the Alberta Human Rights Act. The Member for Airdrie-Chestermere and others who have spoken in favour of the amendment have specifically expressed concern about the reference in Bill 2 to the Alberta Human Rights Act. I haven't heard any reference of similar concern to the Charter of Rights and Freedoms.

So I'm not sure if I should understand that those are in the same category or not because the amendment deletes references to both. [interjection] Okay. I'm getting an indication from the Member for Calgary-Glenmore. I'm going to infer here that the reference to the Charter of Rights and Freedoms is less of a concern than the reference to the Alberta Human Rights Act. I'm getting a nodding of agreement from Calgary-Glenmore on that.

I don't understand enough to know why the difference. I don't understand what it is, so maybe one of them can explain it to me. I mean, I know they're two completely different pieces of legislation. I actually happen to have a copy of the Alberta Human Rights Act here. If you're concerned about the Human Rights Act, why are you not also concerned about the Charter of Rights and Freedoms? I'd like to understand that. Secondly – I have to be honest – I just don't understand and I haven't heard why you're so concerned about the Alberta Human Rights Act. I just don't understand what the fear is.

Perhaps I'll sit down and let one of those members explain it to me. Thank you.

Mr. Hinman: Well, I've sat in here and listened intently and with great interest to the discussion that's gone on. I find it interesting that there's so much misunderstanding. For me there's not too much to be misunderstood. It's quite clear what the government is trying to achieve with those points.

I guess I'll start off. The hon. Member for Edmonton-Riverview couldn't understand the point of order. If you look at (h), "makes allegations against another Member," he mentioned the Wildrose and made all types of allegations towards us that were wrong, saying that we hadn't done anything, we hadn't been proactive, and why are we all of a sudden doing it now? Absolutely not correct. Imputing false motives.

The Chair: Hon. member, the chair has already addressed that point, so please carry on.

Mr. Hinman: Well, you allowed him to ask the question, so I was answering his questions. He didn't understand your point, my point, so I had to clarify it for him. Neither one of us was able to articulate it in a way that he could understand.

The Chair: All right. Go on with the amendment.

Mr. Hinman: Okay. The Charter of Rights and Freedoms is very different from the Human Rights Commission. It's appointed. There's no rule of law. They make their own arbitrary decisions. They can proscribe their decisions. There's no place to appeal. It's very, very different from the Charter of Rights and Freedoms. I can't even personally understand how you could even think the two are correlated. They're not.

This whole bill in its current state is a major point for people of faith who want to do things at home. The minister says: "Oh, I'm not going to go into their homes. I'm not going to intrude." Well, he won't need to. He's handing it over to the Human Rights Commission. They are the ones that are proactive, and there are community activists who have an agenda, that want to force that on other Albertans. Albertans have paid a high price for that. They've lost their freedom of speech, freedom of religion, freedom of congregation because the human rights activists, the community activists, who don't agree and who have zero tolerance, though they preach tolerance, have abused the system.

It's a kangaroo court at kindest. It's caused all kinds of problems, Mr. Chair, and that's why there was a rally out here with 2,000-plus people. Again, the government says that we shouldn't ever be quoting from the papers. How many members in here received e-mails, like I did, but didn't have the courtesy to go out and see the rally? Yet they'd make comments, saying: oh, I think there are only 300 people. It's insulting to the people of Alberta that we make those types of comments right here in this House when the people got together right on the Legislature steps. Yet we don't even realize it's going on. Talk about living under the dome in a bubble. Wow. And then we wonder why the people are upset and don't think that this is in their best interest.

Again, putting words in the mouths of others, when did I ever say: too much? When someone asks how much, does that mean you can't buy something? If you go in, Mr. Chair, and you ask someone how much, are they insulted? "Oh, how dare you ask how much?" I think that people have a right to know before they buy or when something has happened. What is wrong with asking how much? They immediately take it to decide that they're so against it. Very, very different, and they always jump to some pretty pathetic conclusions.

It was interesting that when my hon. colleague was talking in depth about the Human Rights Commission and whatnot, the Member for Edmonton-Whitemud's words were: mindless babble. Mindless babble. Because of her concerns and sharing what she's heard about the Human Rights Commission from Albertans. To me, that's exciting and causes some problems. Then he used the great word, that this is pathetic. I use that word a lot. I do think that what we're doing in here is truly pathetic, so I understand.

We should have the freedom of speech, but it can get people somewhat excited when they're talking about something that they're very concerned about and very passionate about. What the problem is and why we've brought this amendment forward, Mr. Chair . . .

Dr. Taft: Paul, can I ask a question, then?

Mr. Hinman: Sure. You bet. I'll go all night to discuss this. If you're asking questions, I'll be answering and be pleased to.

There are two main issues here in the purpose of this amendment coming forward. One is the question of parental rights. The hon. Member for Edmonton-Riverview has said many times over the years that I've been in here that he believes it takes a village to raise a child. I do not believe that. I believe a family can raise a child. You don't have to be in a village before you're successful at raising a child. There's great strength and value to be living in a great village, but it doesn't take a village to raise a child.

Sometimes there are people in our community – again, the Minister of Education brought up an excellent example of a group of individuals who are very concerned and obviously feel that music is bad and that we shouldn't be exposed to it. Who am I or who is anybody in this Legislature to say that that is wrong?

Dr. Taft: Nobody said that.

Mr. Hinman: Nobody did. I said: who are we to say that it's wrong? I didn't say that we shouldn't say that. Again, you're jumping to conclusions, negative attitudes.

I think that there are many, many experts, Mr. Chair, who have shown that music is a great enhancer of a person's ability. Should we as a state, then, pass a law and say, "Well, we've got the scientific proof to show that a child's development is improved if, in fact, they're exposed to music"? Should we attack this group because their belief is that they shouldn't? It's a really good example of where we can show the science, yet we can say that this shouldn't be. This is what's wrong if we want to impose law or legislation on someone saying: "No. We know better. The state knows better. Therefore, you must do it."

10:20

The number one issue here is parental rights. Do they exist, or do they not? I would argue that parental rights do exist – I have a strong belief in that – but I would also agree with the Member for Edmonton-Riverview that we actually have a Criminal Code and that if parents are negligent or causing harm to those children, then it is our duty to step in and to take those. But, my goodness, I don't want to be the person to be making that decision even on such simple things as music. Maybe that's why I'm so challenged, because I don't listen to very much music. My mother tried to teach it to me, and the music teacher said that she was wasting her money, that I had two left feet and was trying to play soccer. Well,

I don't have a lot of music talent, and I'm the first to admit it. I have tried a few times, though, and whatnot, but I can't even carry a tune in a bucket. It escapes me. So there you go.

Parental rights: it is paramount that we have them right in the legislation. If this government is so astute and has done so much consulting and all of those other things and says that they don't want to step in the way of parents, that they can teach the morals, the beliefs, the values to their children, then simply put it in the bill so that it's clarified. Unless, of course, they have an agenda, that they really do want to supersede the parent with their curriculum and what they want to teach so that down the road they can implement that.

I don't, Mr. Chair, for the life of me understand. If, in fact, they believe in parental rights, if they have said at different times that they are paramount, why don't we simply correct the bill? We corrected it very simply the other day where it says that students shouldn't bully, and it was unanimous. We all agreed that nobody should bully. Not even the Minister of Education, the top dog in education, should be allowed to bully. Everyone is saying, "Oh, nobody wants to interfere with parents," but will we put that in legislation? No. It's nothing but talk, cheap talk, and that's why people don't trust. It's because you say one thing, but you won't write it down.

I've done it many times myself, done a deal with a handshake. But, boy, I tell you that when one group breaks that deal, it's not very good. I have been burned a couple of times by saying that I'll deal on a handshake. So what do we have? Contract law. We write it down, and we're specific. Then we can go back and say: "Oh, you know what? I can't believe that. Three years later – this is amazing – I didn't think that that's what we agreed on. I'm sure glad we wrote it down." I've had that experience myself as well.

It's critical, Mr. Chair, that it's written down that parents either do or don't have paramount rights over the decisions for their children. It's not written in here; it's not clear. It's very easy for this government to accept an amendment, which they didn't, to clarify that. Therefore, you have to take the side that they don't want it. They say it, but they don't want it, and they're being silver-tongued salesmen saying: don't worry about it.

The other one, though, that's in here that causes a problem is, I want to call it, curriculum. You read section 16 in its current existence and the way it is: "All courses or programs of study offered and instructional materials used in a school must reflect the diverse nature and heritage of society in Alberta." Some people have some concern with that, and I want to respect those people. I think the law and the legislation should respect those people because they're a little bit nervous on what the diverse nature is that the government wants to have in their programs and courses.

I'm going to use another example because it's been brought up today by some of the members in your caucus. There are faith-based people that like to teach out of the Bible. Let's start with the first book, that all the controversy and the discussion is about. Oh, my goodness, if we read the creation of the world in Genesis, it doesn't disturb me. Other people are horrified: "The world couldn't have been created in six days. It's all false. We can't allow our children to know this stuff." Again, I think that's where we can teach and say, "Well, you know, it's not literal," and you can go on from there. But other people might want to teach that, no, this is literal because that's what they believe. Do we need to be paranoid and say: no, you can't do it. Do we need the Human Rights Commission to come in? I think that one of your members today tended to that feeling: oh, my goodness, it's the worst thing in the world for someone to teach that to their children. Well, they're going to teach it whether they're home-schooling or on the weekends and go there.

It's interesting, though, when you have here "reflect the diverse nature," and I just think we need to respect that diverse nature and allow people to teach their beliefs and values to their children and not have this Human Rights Commission hanging over their head, that has a bad record of pouncing in on people and saying: that's not right.

The rally was about six words, and those six words are the last ones in section 16: "and the Alberta Human Rights Act."

Dr. Taft: Can I ask my question?

Mr. Hinman: Oh, you want me to sit down for your question? Sure. I'll sit down.

Mr. Hancock: This is going to go on for another 20 minutes, and I won't get a chance to adjourn. I don't know about you, but I've had enough.

Mr. Hinman: There again, Mr. Chair, we're having a little side-bar discussion.

The Chair: The hon. Member for Calgary-Glenmore has the floor.

Mr. Hinman: The Member for Edmonton-Whitemud has made it very clear that he's had enough, and he wants to adjourn. I guess the discussion is going to be over tonight. Again, I'm going to use his words because I agree with him on this: that's pathetic. Here we are discussing a very important bill, and he wants to adjourn and go. Again, for what reason?

The question, then, is on parental rights and curriculum.

Dr. Taft: Why do you want to delete reference to the Charter of Rights and Freedoms?

Mr. Hinman: I don't.

Dr. Taft: But the amendment does that.

Mr. Anderson: I can explain that.

Mr. Hinman: Yeah. He'll go over that.

I think that what we have is better. The question that's being asked is: why do we want to eliminate the Charter of Rights and Freedoms and why is it in there? Again, what we want to go back to is, we think, better. If someone would just put in a period at the end of "Charter of Rights and Freedoms," we'll be happy, and I'll be bringing an amendment forward tomorrow, probably, to do that one.

The point that's in here is a problem. The wording has changed. There is a big difference between these two. We want to go back to what was in the Education Act because there that's more about teaching. I want to go back to curriculum.

One of the questions that was brought up yesterday – and it's too bad that all of the members weren't there to listen to the speeches at that rally. There were some excellent speeches given on the purpose of education and what they wanted to do.

Education programs offered and instructional materials used in schools must not promote or foster doctrines of racial or ethnic superiority or persecution, religious intolerance or persecution, social change through violent action or disobedience of laws.

So this is a very different tone. What we used to have was to teach about tolerance and that we can't teach hate or bigotry, any of those things. But with this new one, in my personal opinion and that of many Albertans I'm being surrounded by, we're going to have this wonderful new curriculum that we're going to be able to teach, and we can get to the point down the years where we'll enforce that curriculum, and that's what needs to be taught.

But, for me, as I look back on education now, we had this old thing that's called reading . . .

Mr. Rodney: Can we get out of here? I've had enough.

Mr. Hinman: The hon. Member for Calgary-Lougheed wants to get out of here. Is the government whip here? Could he answer that for him so that we don't have to be interrupted by him? You're free to go home, I'm sure. Is the whip telling you?

Mr. Rodney: I wasn't talking to you, Paul.

Mr. Hinman: Well, I can hear you, so why don't you go out and talk in the coffee shop?

The Chair: Hon. member, keep the process going. Speak through the chair and on amendment A6.

Mr. Hinman: Well, I'd be happy to, but sometimes I can't help but answer their silly questions. I stopped to do that.

The question is about curriculum whereas education, especially for home-schooling – I've gone to a few of their conferences, and it's quite amazing to listen to them talk about the importance of inspiring children. I guess I want to say that in home-schooling children are wired to learn. They love to learn. It's fun watching them as they're growing up when they're young: their enthusiasm, their desire to touch everything and to look at everything.

10:30

They get into school, and we start to try to teach them to read and to do writing and to do arithmetic. That's the real question: what is the purpose of education? Do we have a curriculum – the minister referred to that two or three times, a curriculum – or do we want to teach them the abilities to learn so that they can actually read and understand, so they can actually write and put things down, so they can do math?

A concern that some of the parents have that have talked to me is that they don't agree with the curriculum, but they very much want their children to be able to read, and then they can look at things and judge for themselves. There is a difference, Mr. Chair, between teaching children so that they have the reading, the writing, the arithmetic, and those skills to be out in this world and being exposed to a curriculum that some parents don't feel comfortable with.

Let me perfectly clear, Mr. Chair, that all of my children went through public schools. I personally don't have any fears of my children going through there, but it's about individual fears. It's about individuals' beliefs and their desires to do what they think is best for their children, and I think that this legislation as we have it and section 16 is very, very concerning to me in that we're actually trying to take those other ones that have other values and bring them in and say: this is wrong.

Like I say, the music one is music to my ears. Here it is that you can argue that this is right or wrong, so where does the state come in and say: no, music is important, and we need to teach that. [interjection] Not yet. But who's to say the experts won't come in and say that these parents are harming their children by not allowing them to be exposed to music? That's what this is all about. Do we have respect for parental rights and are they paramount, or is it, in fact, that they don't have them, and the state has that decision on what's best for the child? Is it about curriculum or enabling them to learn and to be able to read and to write and to do those things? That's what all of this is about, Mr. Chair.

With that, I'll allow the government to not have to endure any more pain than they're obviously in, sitting in here listening to this, because I get the feeling that the Government House Leader is going to get up and adjourn the debate.

The Chair: The hon. Government House Leader.

Mr. Hancock: Yes, Mr. Chairman. After a few remarks, I would be most happy to oblige the hon. member, but I do want to say a few things first.

Over the last four years there has been an incredible discussion about education in this province. Inspiring Education was a phenomenal opportunity for a generative dialogue with Albertans about what education we need to have, what an educated Albertan looks like 20 years from now, what we need to do to be able to inspire each and every child to find their passion to learn, to maximize their potential?

I've often said, as I speak to graduation classes at the University of Alberta, which I try to do every year, that God has given each and every one of us talent and ability, and it's our duty, it's our obligation to maximize our personal potential so that we can contribute back in a maximum possible way. That's my particular philosophy, and I don't mind sharing it with those that will listen and even sometimes with those who don't. That's freedom of speech.

We have the opportunity to make a difference, we have an opportunity to maximize our God-given talents, and we have an obligation, in my view, to do that.

If the hon. member had been paying attention at all over the last three years, he would understand that it's not about curriculum at all. It's that every child is an individual, and every child has their own learning style and ability. Each child is unique, and each child needs to be inspired in their own way.

The richness of the education system that's going forward, which will be empowered by Bill 2, is that opportunity to be able to design education with the specific child in mind. That will mean that some people will choose for their child home education. That choice could be honestly made for any number of reasons. It may be for religious purposes, but it may be because the child has some barriers to success and they want to focus more on those barriers to success in a home area. It may be because the family travels a lot and they want to be with their children, so they want to take their children with them as they travel, whether it's for work or otherwise. There are all sorts of reasons, and it's not up to us to determine the legitimacy of those reasons.

What is up to us as a government and as a Legislature is to ensure that there are rich educational opportunities for every child in this province regardless of their abilities or their disabilities, regardless of where they come from, regardless of who they live with. This government is committed to that, and that's what Bill 2 speaks to. Bill 2 doesn't speak to government coming into the homes of people and doing something dastardly to their children or telling people that they can't speak to their children about their values.

People, particularly the hon. Member for Calgary-Glenmore, should understand where section 16 of the act originally came from. Ron Ghitter, who was a member of this House, had a task force on Tolerance and Understanding many years ago, and that task force was, unfortunately, a necessary process of the development of this province in understanding who we are as a people. Out of that, there was an understanding that as part of our education system we needed to make sure that our educational materials and our programs and our curriculum, the programs of study and the structural materials, needed to reflect the diversity of the province, needed to reflect our heritage, needed in fact to reflect tolerance and understanding.

Now, I don't particularly like the word "tolerance." I think tolerance means putting up with people, and I think we should be embracing people. We should be embracing the differences that we have in this province and the fact that it's a very cosmopolitan place.

So we shouldn't be trying to scare people about the Human Rights Commission.

An Hon. Member: How can you embrace it when you have two things that disagree with each other, then?

Mr. Hancock: It's simply a matter of saying: in instructional materials and programs. Now, there's nothing to say that a home-schooler needs to use a particular set of instructional materials and programs. In fact, there are many diverse ways in which home-schoolers deal with instructional materials and programs.

The Chair: Hon. member?

Mr. Hinman: The good House leader often brings this up, and I just have to ask: is this on the amendment?

Mr. Hancock: Yes.

Mr. Hinman: Yes? Thank you. I couldn't see the . . .

Mr. Hancock: I mentioned section 16 a number of times, Mr. Chairman.

The Chair: Hon. member, the hon. minister has the floor. Don't interrupt the hon. member. Talk through the chair.

Continue on.

Mr. Hancock: I don't understand even the point because I mentioned section 16 and brought it right back to 16 and the roots of section 16, so I'm not sure what the hon. member's point is.

However, I do find it very interesting that other members of that hon. member's caucus in previous years worked very hard to ensure that parental choice was enshrined in the Alberta Human Rights Act. So the very people who are now saying the Human Rights Act takes away people's rights and is one of the worst things we have are the people that a few years ago under Bill 44 in this House wanted the Alberta Human Rights Act to protect the ability of people to choose to take their children out of religious instruction or out of instruction with respect to sexual orientation.

Mr. Anderson: What does that have to do with it?

Mr. Hancock: It has to do with the fact that you're trying to . . . [interjections] The hon. Member for Airdrie-Chestermere is very confused tonight. He can't understand that it's entirely inconsistent for him on one hand to denigrate the Human Rights Commission and the Human Rights Act and denigrate their purpose and on the other hand to insist that something be put into it in order to protect potential choice. [interjections]

The fact of the matter is that there is parental choice in this province. It's a choice that this government supports, a wide range of educational choices, and parents are paramount with respect to the education of their child.

Now, the hon. members will immediately start yapping, as they are, about the fact that they had an amendment which could put paramountcy in. Unfortunately, they are very confused in their drafting, so the piece that they brought forward relative to paramountcy confused the issue as to whether parents have the paramount choice of how their children are educated and where or paramountcy once they've chosen that. Obviously, once you've put your child into a public school, you cannot have paramountcy for parents. The parents can't come into that school on a day-to-day basis and tell the teachers and the principals exactly how the school is going to be operated. That would create anarchy. That would create anarchy. So paramountcy is important, but you don't need to write any more of it into the act to make it real. We have rights, and until those rights are taken away, those rights exist.

I have children, and I have the right to educate those children. I have the right to instill in those children my personal values and to raise them as my children with the beliefs that I believe in, and they have the right to challenge those beliefs. They ought to have an education which allows them to challenge those beliefs so that we can have a proper dialogue and they can understand the basis of those beliefs. But if they're my children – and they're not my chattels; I agree with you hon. member – it is my right in my home to instill my values, my cultural heritage, my religion in those children until they get to the level where they can challenge those beliefs and they can strike out on their own, and it is my obligation to make sure that they have an education which will enable them to perfect, to improve, to maximize their personal potential so they can contribute back to the community and give back in a way that I believe God intended all of us to do.

10:40

I find it really amazing that after all the consultation on this act, all the generative dialogue on this act, all of the discussions, including many, many opportunities that have been had to assure people who are doing home-schooling that there's nothing in this act which is going to change their ability to home-school their children in the way that they want to home-school them, these hon. members at the last minute want to raise these types of amendments.

You know, the hon. Member for Calgary-Glenmore was making some derisive remarks about being tired and wanting to adjourn debate. It has been a long day, and we worked very hard. Notwithstanding what others might want to say about it, MLAs work very hard. They were here last night until, I think, 1:30. Quite frankly, I think it's time for people to go home and reflect and come back fresh tomorrow with a new perspective on this bill.

I would move that we adjourn debate.

[Motion to adjourn debate carried]

Mr. Hancock: Mr. Chairman, I move that the committee rise and report progress on Bill 2.

[Motion carried]

[The Deputy Speaker in the chair]

The Deputy Speaker: The hon. Member for Leduc-Beaumont-Devon.

Mr. Rogers: Thank you, Mr. Speaker. The Committee of the Whole has had under consideration a certain bill. The committee reports progress on the following bill: Bill 2. I wish to table copies of all amendments considered by the Committee of the Whole on this date for the official records of the Assembly.

The Deputy Speaker: Having heard the report by the hon. Member for Leduc-Beaumont-Devon, those in favour, please say aye.

Hon. Members: Aye.

The Deputy Speaker: Opposed? So ordered.

The hon. Government House Leader.

Mr. Hancock: Thank you, Mr. Speaker. I'd move that we adjourn to 1:30 p.m. tomorrow.

[Motion carried; the Assembly adjourned at 10:44 p.m. to Wednesday at 1:30 p.m.]

Table of Contents

Government Bills and Orders

Third Reading
Bill 4	St. Albert and Sturgeon Valley School Districts Establishment Act 697
Bill 5	Seniors' Property Tax Deferral Act..... 698
Bill 6	Property Rights Advocate Act..... 701
Bill 7	Appropriation Act, 2012..... 703
Division 706
Committee of the Whole
Bill 2	Education Act..... 706

If your address is incorrect, please clip on the dotted line, make any changes, and return to the address listed below. To facilitate the update, please attach the last mailing label along with your account number.

Subscriptions
Legislative Assembly Office
1001 Legislature Annex
9718 – 107 Street
EDMONTON, AB T5K 1E4

.....

Last mailing label:

Account # _____

New information:

Name:

Address:

.....

Subscription information:

Annual subscriptions to the paper copy of Alberta Hansard (including annual index) are $127.50 including GST if mailed once a week or $94.92 including GST if picked up at the subscription address below or if mailed through the provincial government interdepartmental mail system. Bound volumes are $121.70 including GST if mailed. Cheques should be made payable to the Minister of Finance.

Price per issue is $0.75 including GST.

Online access to Alberta Hansard is available through the Internet at www.assembly.ab.ca

Subscription inquiries:

Subscriptions
Legislative Assembly Office
1001 Legislature Annex
9718 – 107 St.
EDMONTON, AB T5K 1E4
Telephone: 780.427.1302

Other inquiries:

Managing Editor
Alberta Hansard
1001 Legislature Annex
9718 – 107 St.
EDMONTON, AB T5K 1E4
Telephone: 780.427.1875

Province of Alberta

The 27th Legislature
Fifth Session

Alberta Hansard

Wednesday afternoon, March 21, 2012

Issue 21a

The Honourable Kenneth R. Kowalski, Speaker

Legislative Assembly of Alberta The 27th Legislature

Fifth Session

Kowalski, Hon. Ken, Barrhead-Morinville-Westlock, Speaker
Cao, Wayne C.N., Calgary-Fort, Deputy Speaker and Chair of Committees
Zwozdesky, Gene, Edmonton-Mill Creek, Deputy Chair of Committees

Ady, Cindy, Calgary-Shaw (PC)
Allred, Ken, St. Albert (PC)
Amery, Moe, Calgary-East (PC)
Anderson, Rob, Airdrie-Chestermere (W),
Wildrose Opposition House Leader
Benito, Carl, Edmonton-Mill Woods (PC)
Berger, Hon. Evan, Livingstone-Macleod (PC)
Bhardwaj, Naresh, Edmonton-Ellerslie (PC)
Bhullar, Hon. Manmeet Singh, Calgary-Montrose (PC)
Blackett, Lindsay, Calgary-North West (PC)
Blakeman, Laurie, Edmonton-Centre (AL),
Official Opposition Deputy Leader,
Official Opposition House Leader
Boutilier, Guy C., Fort McMurray-Wood Buffalo (W)
Brown, Dr. Neil, QC, Calgary-Nose Hill (PC)
Calahasen, Pearl, Lesser Slave Lake (PC)
Campbell, Robin, West Yellowhead (PC),
Government Whip
Chase, Harry B., Calgary-Varsity (AL)
Dallas, Hon. Cal, Red Deer-South (PC)
Danyluk, Hon. Ray, Lac La Biche-St. Paul (PC)
DeLong, Alana, Calgary-Bow (PC)
Denis, Hon. Jonathan, QC, Calgary-Egmont (PC),
Deputy Government House Leader
Doerksen, Arno, Strathmore-Brooks (PC)
Drysedale, Wayne, Grande Prairie-Wapiti (PC),
Deputy Government Whip
Elniski, Doug, Edmonton-Calder (PC)
Evans, Iris, Sherwood Park (PC)
Fawcett, Kyle, Calgary-North Hill (PC)
Forsyth, Heather, Calgary-Fish Creek (W),
Wildrose Opposition Whip
Fritz, Yvonne, Calgary-Cross (PC)
Goudreau, Hector G., Dunvegan-Central Peace (PC)
Griffiths, Hon. Doug, Battle River-Wainwright (PC)
Groeneveld, George, Highwood (PC)
Hancock, Hon. Dave, QC, Edmonton-Whitemud (PC),
Government House Leader
Hayden, Hon. Jack, Drumheller-Stettler (PC)
Hehr, Kent, Calgary-Buffalo (AL)
Hinman, Paul, Calgary-Glenmore (W),
Wildrose Opposition Deputy Leader
Horne, Hon. Fred, Edmonton-Rutherford (PC),
Deputy Government House Leader
Horner, Hon. Doug, Spruce Grove-Sturgeon-St. Albert (PC)
Jablonski, Mary Anne, Red Deer-North (PC)
Jacobs, Broyce, Cardston-Taber-Warner (PC)
Johnson, Hon. Jeff, Athabasca-Redwater (PC)

Johnston, Art, Calgary-Hays (PC)
Kang, Darshan S., Calgary-McCall (AL),
Official Opposition Whip
Klimchuk, Hon. Heather, Edmonton-Glenora (PC)
Knight, Mel, Grande Prairie-Smoky (PC)
Leskiw, Genia, Bonnyville-Cold Lake (PC)
Liepert, Hon. Ron, Calgary-West (PC)
Lindsay, Fred, Stony Plain (PC)
Lukaszuk, Hon. Thomas A., Edmonton-Castle Downs (PC)
Lund, Ty, Rocky Mountain House (PC)
MacDonald, Hugh, Edmonton-Gold Bar (AL)
Mason, Brian, Edmonton-Highlands-Norwood (ND),
Leader of the ND Opposition
McFarland, Barry, Little Bow (PC)
McQueen, Hon. Diana, Drayton Valley-Calmar (PC)
Mitzel, Len, Cypress-Medicine Hat (PC)
Morton, Hon. F.L., Foothills-Rocky View (PC)
Notley, Rachel, Edmonton-Strathcona (ND),
ND Opposition House Leader
Oberle, Hon. Frank, Peace River (PC)
Olson, Hon. Verlyn, QC, Wetaskiwin-Camrose (PC),
Deputy Government House Leader
Ouellette, Luke, Innisfail-Sylvan Lake (PC)
Pastoor, Bridget Brennan, Lethbridge-East (PC)
Prins, Ray, Lacombe-Ponoka (PC)
Quest, Dave, Strathcona (PC)
Redford, Hon. Alison M., QC, Calgary-Elbow (PC),
Premier
Renner, Rob, Medicine Hat (PC)
Rodney, Dave, Calgary-Lougheed (PC)
Rogers, George, Leduc-Beaumont-Devon (PC)
Sandhu, Peter, Edmonton-Manning (PC)
Sarich, Janice, Edmonton-Decore (PC)
Sherman, Dr. Raj, Edmonton-Meadowlark (AL),
Leader of the Official Opposition
Snelgrove, Lloyd, Vermilion-Lloydminster (Ind)
Stelmach, Ed, Fort Saskatchewan-Vegreville (PC)
Swann, Dr. David, Calgary-Mountain View (AL)
Taft, Dr. Kevin, Edmonton-Riverview (AL),
Official Opposition Deputy Whip
Tarchuk, Janis, Banff-Cochrane (PC)
Taylor, Dave, Calgary-Currie (AB)
VanderBurg, Hon. George, Whitecourt-Ste. Anne (PC)
Vandermeer, Tony, Edmonton-Beverly-Clareview (PC)
Weadick, Hon. Greg, Lethbridge-West (PC),
Deputy Government House Leader
Webber, Len, Calgary-Foothills (PC)
Woo-Paw, Teresa, Calgary-Mackay (PC)
Xiao, David H., Edmonton-McClung (PC)

Party standings:

Progressive Conservative: 66 Alberta Liberal: 8 Wildrose: 4 New Democrat: 2 Alberta: 1 Independent: 1 Vacant: 1

Officers and Officials of the Legislative Assembly

W.J. David McNeil, Clerk	Stephanie LeBlanc, Parliamentary Counsel & Legal Research Officer	Chris Caughell, Assistant Sergeant-at-Arms
Robert H. Reynolds, QC, Law Clerk/ Director of Interparliamentary Relations	Philip Massolin, Committee Research Co-ordinator	Gordon H. Munk, Assistant Sergeant-at-Arms
Shannon Dean, Senior Parliamentary Counsel/Director of House Services	Brian G. Hodgson, Sergeant-at-Arms	Liz Sim, Managing Editor of Alberta Hansard

Executive Council

Alison Redford	Premier, President of Executive Council, Chair of Agenda and Priorities Committee
Doug Horner	Deputy Premier, President of Treasury Board and Enterprise
Dave Hancock	Minister of Human Services
Ted Morton	Minister of Energy
Verlyn Olson	Minister of Justice and Attorney General
Fred Horne	Minister of Health and Wellness
Ron Liepert	Minister of Finance
Thomas Lukaszuk	Minister of Education, Political Minister for Edmonton
Diana McQueen	Minister of Environment and Water
Jonathan Denis	Solicitor General and Minister of Public Security
Cal Dallas	Minister of Intergovernmental, International and Aboriginal Relations, Political Minister for Central Alberta
Evan Berger	Minister of Agriculture and Rural Development, Political Minister for Southern Alberta
Frank Oberle	Minister of Sustainable Resource Development
George VanderBurg	Minister of Seniors
Ray Danyluk	Minister of Transportation
Jeff Johnson	Minister of Infrastructure, Political Minister for Northern Alberta
Doug Griffiths	Minister of Municipal Affairs
Greg Weadick	Minister of Advanced Education and Technology
Jack Hayden	Minister of Tourism, Parks and Recreation
Heather Klimchuk	Minister of Culture and Community Services
Manmeet Singh Bhullar	Minister of Service Alberta, Political Minister for Calgary

Parliamentary Assistants

Naresh Bhardwaj	Health and Wellness
Alana DeLong	Seniors
Arno Doerksen	Human Services
Kyle Fawcett	Treasury Board and Enterprise
Art Johnston	Executive Council
Barry McFarland	Agriculture and Rural Development
Len Mitzel	Transportation
Dave Rodney	Health and Wellness
David Xiao	Energy

STANDING AND SPECIAL COMMITTEES OF THE LEGISLATIVE ASSEMBLY OF ALBERTA

Standing Committee on the Alberta Heritage Savings Trust Fund

Chair: Ms Tarchuk
Deputy Chair: Mr. Elniski

Anderson
DeLong
Groeneveld
Johnston
MacDonald
Quest
Taft

Standing Committee on Community Development

Chair: Mrs. Jablonski
Deputy Chair: Mr. Chase

Amery
Blakeman
Boutilier
Calahasen
Goudreau
Groeneveld
Lindsay
Snelgrove
Taylor
Vandermeer

Standing Committee on Education

Chair: Ms Pastoor
Deputy Chair: Mr. Hehr

Anderson
Benito
Brown
Cao
Chase
Leskiw
Notley
Sarich
Tarchuk
Vacant

Standing Committee on Energy

Chair: Mrs. Ady
Deputy Chair: Ms Blakeman

Hehr
Hinman
Jacobs
Johnston
Lund
Mason
McFarland
Ouellette
Webber
Xiao

Standing Committee on Finance

Chair: Mr. Renner
Deputy Chair: Mr. Kang

Allred
Anderson
Drysdale
Fawcett
Knight
Mitzel
Prins
Sandhu
Taft
Taylor

Standing Committee on Legislative Offices

Chair: Mr. Blackett
Deputy Chair: Mr. Lund

Blakeman
Brown
Evans
Hinman
Lindsay
MacDonald
Notley
Ouellette
Quest
Vacant

Special Standing Committee on Members' Services

Chair: Mr. Kowalski
Deputy Chair: Mr. Campbell

Amery
Anderson
Elniski
Evans
Hehr
Knight
Leskiw
MacDonald
Mason
Rogers

Standing Committee on Private Bills

Chair: Dr. Brown
Deputy Chair: Ms Woo-Paw

Allred	Kang
Benito	Knight
Boutilier	Lindsay
Calahasen	McFarland
Doerksen	Sandhu
Drysdale	Sarich
Evans	Snelgrove
Groeneveld	Swann
Hinman	Xiao
Jacobs

Standing Committee on Privileges and Elections, Standing Orders and Printing

Chair: Mr. Prins
Deputy Chair: Mr. Snelgrove

Amery	Mitzel
Boutilier	Notley
Calahasen	Pastoor
DeLong	Quest
Doerksen	Stelmach
Forsyth	Swann
Jacobs	Tarchuk
Knight	Taylor
Leskiw	Zwozdesky
McFarland

Standing Committee on Public Accounts

Chair: Mr. MacDonald
Deputy Chair: Mr. Goudreau

Allred	Kang
Benito	Mason
Calahasen	Rodney
Chase	Sandhu
Elniski	Vandermeer
Fawcett	Woo-Paw
Forsyth	Xiao
Groeneveld

Standing Committee on Public Health and Safety

Chair: Mrs. Fritz
Deputy Chair: Dr. Taft

Bhardwaj
Blackett
DeLong
Doerksen
Forsyth
Notley
Rodney
Rogers
Swann
Woo-Paw

Legislative Assembly of Alberta

1:30 p.m.

Wednesday, March 21, 2012

[The Speaker in the chair]

Prayers

The Speaker: Good afternoon and welcome. I would ask all hon. members and those in the galleries to remain standing after the prayer so that we may pay tribute to a former colleague who has passed away.

Let us pray. Renew us with Your strength. Focus us in our deliberations. Challenge us in our service to the people of this great province. Amen.

Mr. George Topolnisky
August 13, 1919, to March 19, 2012

The Speaker: Mr. George Topolnisky, former Member of the Legislative Assembly, passed away on March 19, 2012. Mr. Topolnisky served as a member of this Assembly from August 30, 1971, to May 7, 1986. During his years of service he represented the constituency of Redwater-Andrew for the Progressive Conservative Party.

Mr. Topolnisky served as minister without portfolio from September 10, 1971, to April 2, 1975, as well as minister responsible for rural development. He served on a number of committees, including the standing committees on Private Bills; Private Bills, Standing Orders and Printing; Public Accounts; Public Affairs; Public Affairs, Agriculture and Education; and as chair of Law and Regulations. He was also the chair of the Select Special Committee on Recreational and Commercial Fishing Industries in Alberta and served on the Special Committee of the Legislature on Professions and Occupations.

With our admiration and respect there is gratitude to members of his family who shared the burdens of public office. Our prayers are with them. In a moment of silent prayer I ask you to remember the hon. member, George Topolnisky, as you may have known him. Rest eternal grant unto him, O Lord, and let light perpetual shine upon him. Amen.

Please be seated.

Introduction of Guests

The Speaker: The hon. Deputy Premier.

Mr. Horner: Thank you, Mr. Speaker. It is indeed a pleasure for me to rise on behalf of the member from the constituency of Stony Plain and introduce to you and through you to all Members of the Legislative Assembly a superb group of students from Duffield school. They are joined today by parent helpers Mrs. Priscilla Spratt, Mrs. Shonia Tarr, Ms Laura Peaire, Mr. Duane Drews as well as their teachers, Mr. Christopher Giauque and Mrs. Cindy Charleson. This group is seated in the public gallery this afternoon to observe question period, and I would ask them to now rise and receive the traditional warm welcome of this Assembly.

The Speaker: The hon. Minister of Finance.

Mr. Liepert: Thank you, Mr. Speaker. I have two introductions this afternoon if I could, please. First off, we're privileged to have a group of students from John Hopkins School of Advanced International Studies based out of Washington, DC, visiting Alberta this week. I had an opportunity to meet with these students over the lunch hour, and we could have used several hours to answer all the questions they had. I'd like to introduce them and ask them to stand as I recognize them and to remain standing to receive the recognition from the Assembly. We have with us today Jeannette Lee, Elena Chobanova, James Stranko, Martin Ross, Gorav Chaudhry, Clarke Lind, Bree Bang-Jensen, Rania Papageorgiou. Their leader is Dr. Charles Doran. They're joined by someone who is relatively familiar to many members of this House, Paul Yeung of the Royal Bank. I'd ask members to please recognize them and welcome them to Alberta.

It's also my pleasure today on behalf of the hon. Member for Calgary-Shaw to introduce to you and through you an enthusiastic group of some 36 elementary students from Trinity Christian school in Calgary. The hon. Member for Calgary-Shaw told me that this is the 11th year that this school has made the journey to Edmonton to visit the Legislature. That's every year that she has been in office, Mr. Speaker. Their teacher, Ms Cheryl Barnard, along with 20 parents have joined them today to learn about what happens inside the Legislature. I'd ask that they all rise and receive the warm welcome of this Assembly.

The Speaker: The hon. Minister of Infrastructure.

Mr. Johnson: Thank you, Mr. Speaker. It's an honour to introduce to you and through you to members of this Assembly approximately 30 students and their teacher and parent helpers from Guthrie school, which is a school that lies right on our military base here at Edmonton Garrison. All of these children have parents in the military, and some are in Afghanistan as we speak, so we thank them for that. These grade 6 students are accompanied by their teacher, Colleen Tremblay; her assistants, Becky Williams and Danny Hagen; and volunteers David Samson and Kerry Boivin. I'd ask them to please rise and receive the traditional warm welcome of this Assembly.

The Speaker: The hon. Minister of Advanced Education and Technology.

Mr. Weadick: Thank you, Mr. Speaker. It's my great pleasure today to rise and introduce to you and through you to all members of this Assembly a truly outstanding Albertan, Dr. Lorne Babiuk, who earlier today was named a recipient of one of the world's most prestigious international awards for research and medical science. He's the winner of the 2012 Gairdner award. Dr. Babiuk is the only Canadian among seven international recipients of the Gairdner award this year, and he is only the second winner in the history of the province of Alberta.

He's being honoured for his research and leadership in infectious diseases and developing vaccines for human and veterinary use. Dr. Babiuk is currently the vice-president of research at the University of Alberta, where he helped establish the Li Ka Shing Institute of Virology and the Helmholtz Alberta initiative. Dr. Babiuk is a leading researcher in infectious diseases, particularly zoonotic diseases, those that pass from animals to humans, and is acclaimed for his work in vaccine development. He has said that vaccines are one of the most effective ways to improve people's quality of life while reducing rates of sickness and death. I don't think anyone could argue with that. He should be very proud for doing something that directly helps not only his fellow Albertans but people around the world. We are certainly proud of him, and we are proud to count him among Alberta's amazing research community. Dr. Babiuk is seated in the members' gallery. Please join me in congratulating him for his excellent research.

The Speaker: The hon. Member for Calgary-North West.

Mr. Blackett: Thank you, Mr. Speaker. It's a pleasure to introduce to you and through you to this Legislature Rolly Ashdown, who is the reeve and councillor for division 4. He's actually a constituent of the MLA for Foothills-Rocky View, our Minister of Energy. I happened to run into Rolly at the AAMD and C luncheon, and we were chatting about politics and the upcoming events. He said that he would like to come down to the Legislature this afternoon to see the proceedings, and I said that I would love to have the pleasure of introducing him to this House. I'd ask him to rise and receive the warm welcome of this Legislature.

The Speaker: The hon. Member for St. Albert.

Mr. Allred: Thank you very much, Mr. Speaker. I am pleased to rise today and introduce a gentleman that's certainly no stranger to yourself, I know, and to many other members of the Assembly. I'd like to take the opportunity and have the privilege to introduce him to you and through you to the rest of the Assembly. Mr. Charles Rees is a constituent of mine and a very strong supporter of this government. He is a businessman and an entrepreneur that specializes in promotional gift items. I'd ask him to stand, please, and receive the traditional warm welcome of the Assembly.

Thank you.

1:40

The Speaker: The hon. Member for Calgary-Hays.

Mr. Johnston: Thank you, Mr. Speaker. It is my pleasure to introduce to you and through you to all members of this Assembly four guests that I had the pleasure of meeting with today. They should all be up in the members' gallery, and I would ask them to stand as I speak their names: Mr. Len Rhodes, the president and CEO of the Edmonton Eskimo Football Club; Mr. Les Mabbott, chairman and managing director of LPI Corp.; Mrs. Shamsah Panjwani, branch manager, National Bank of Canada, Commerce Place branch, Edmonton; and last but not least my brother David Johnston. He recently transferred here from Saint John, New Brunswick, and he's a financial planner with the National Bank of Canada here in Edmonton. I'd like you to give them the warm traditional welcome.

The Speaker: The hon. Leader of the Official Opposition.

Dr. Sherman: Thank you, Mr. Speaker. It's my pleasure to introduce to you and through you to members of this Assembly Mrs. Veronika Lewinske. Mrs. Lewinske is a young woman with an inspiring story of what can be accomplished in just under a year in Alberta. In 2007 she left Moldova with her husband and moved to Alberta. Last year she discovered the Microbusiness Training Centre in Edmonton and enrolled in its self-employment program. It allowed her to start her own business and import a little piece of home to share with Albertans, Moldovan wines. Mrs. Lewinske is thankful to be in Canada because of the treatment her two-year-old son can receive. He suffers from cystic fibrosis. The treatment our health professionals are able to give her son is extremely hard to come by in her homeland. I welcome Mrs. Lewinske to her new homeland and ask her to rise and receive the traditional warm welcome of the Assembly.

Ministerial Statements

The Speaker: The hon. Minister of Justice and Attorney General.

International Day for the Elimination of Racial Discrimination

Mr. Olson: Thank you, Mr. Speaker. As everyone in this House can attest, Alberta's diversity is its strength. We are lucky to live in a province alive with the customs and traditions of many unique and vibrant cultures, where all citizens feel a sense of belonging and pride, from our aboriginal communities to the newly arrived Canadians who now call Alberta home.

Unfortunately, despite this rich diversity racial discrimination does still exist. That's why it's vital that we all take the time to recognize the International Day for the Elimination of Racial Discrimination.

On March 21, 1960, police opened fire on a group of peaceful protestors at a demonstration against the apartheid pass laws in Sharpeville, South Africa. Sixty-nine peaceful protestors were gunned down for standing up for what they believed in that day. It was a horrific loss of life and one not soon forgiven around the world. Six years later the United Nations declared March 21 the International Day for the Elimination of Racial Discrimination.

From this tragedy comes an annual reminder for all of us about the effects that racism can have around the world. Unfortunately, 52 years from the original tragedy it's still a reminder that we need today. The International Day for the Elimination of Racial Discrimination is a moment to honour the memory of those whose lives were stolen in Sharpeville. It's an opportunity for all to join the fight against racism, and it reminds us of the negative power of racism and the responsibility each of us has to foster equality and fairness for all.

Looking around the Chamber today, I see a broad spectrum of races represented, but if I had to guess, most of us have never had to feel the sting of a racist comment or a deliberately discriminatory act. Those in this House who have know the frustration felt by thousands of Albertans who experience ignorance and intolerance on a regular basis and know just how important dialogue, understanding, and tolerance are to ending racial discrimination. These aren't just values we need to learn ourselves; these are values that we need to teach our children, our grandchildren, and our nieces and nephews.

Today in communities across Alberta we are doing just that. Events are being held around the province encouraging Albertans to take an active role in eliminating all forms of racial discrimination.

The importance of this goal is reflected in our province's human rights legislation, the Alberta Human Rights Act, which recognizes the equality of all persons as a fundamental principle and a matter of public policy.

The Alberta Human Rights Commission helps support these goals through its twofold mandate; that is, to foster equality and to reduce discrimination. The commission has championed initiatives such as the Canadian Coalition of Municipalities Against Racism and Discrimination. This international UNESCO initiative encourages municipalities to make a public commitment to a plan of action to counter racism and discrimination.

I'm pleased to let you know, Mr. Speaker, that there are 13 municipalities that have joined the coalition in Alberta, the most that have joined in any of the western provinces. With the commission's support, community-based projects are helping to reduce and counter racism and make our communities more welcoming and inclusive. Where needed, the commission also works with Albertans directly in resolving and settling complaints of racism and discrimination.

It's up to each and every one of us to promote fairness and speak out against racial and other forms of discrimination. The International Day for the Elimination of Racial Discrimination is a great place to start our efforts, efforts that should carry on throughout the year. By welcoming and sharing our diverse cultures, we are enhancing the richness of life in Alberta and ensuring that everyone can participate, free from discrimination.

Thank you.

The Speaker: On behalf of the Official Opposition the hon. Member for Edmonton-Gold Bar.

Mr. MacDonald: Thank you, Mr. Speaker. Though it's sometimes tough to admit it in supposedly enlightened Canada, racial discrimination remains a threat to our culture, economy, and way of life. Western society has come a long way in the last 100 years. It wasn't so very long ago that our literature, politics, and daily life took it for granted that there was a racial hierarchy, and society's laws and mores reflected those attitudes, with many opportunities denied anyone who didn't belong to the privileged class. These days such outright discrimination is frowned upon by virtually everyone but a tiny lunatic fringe. But that doesn't mean the battle against racism is over. Far from it. Prejudice remains. It can be seen in the poor health and economic outcomes of our First Nations people and their way higher than average rates of homelessness, poverty, and incarceration. It can be seen on the websites of hate groups and chain e-mails circulating racist jokes or outright lies about immigrants.

As elected officials there are steps we can take to fight racial discrimination. First and foremost, we can and should lead by example by speaking out against racism. I think the hon. members of all caucuses in this Assembly do an excellent job of that. We can also improve government policy to better integrate immigrants into Alberta's economy and society. Recognition of foreign credentials remains an important issue in Alberta. For example, it's a barrier to hundreds of well-qualified professionals that could be helping our public and private sectors. We have a shortage of physicians in this province, for example, that could be alleviated if we did a better job of recognizing the credentials of our immigrants. We could and should increase ESL funding at work and school along with settlement funding.

Perhaps most important of all, we must stop the fragmentation of our public school system into private and charter schools catering to all kinds of different religious and ethnic groups. Public schools, in which children of all races, religions, cultures, and socioeconomic status learn and play together, are the single greatest force against racial discrimination. It can be pretty tough to change the mind of a racist adult, but children have no inherent prejudices, and they'll never learn them if they grow up in the environment of diversity and acceptance fostered by public schools.

Thank you.

The Speaker: Hon. members, at least one member has risen. I believe the intent would be to request approval to participate. Under our conventions, in order for additional members to participate, the question of unanimous consent has to be dealt with. So I will ask the question: is any member opposed to allowing additional members to participate in the response to the ministerial statement? If so, say no.

[Unanimous consent granted]

The Speaker: The hon. Member for Airdrie-Chestermere, followed by the hon. Member for Edmonton-Strathcona, followed by the hon. Member for Calgary-Currie.

1:50

Mr. Anderson: Thank you, Mr. Speaker, and thank you to the members opposite. I'd like to echo on behalf of the Wildrose caucus the comments by this minister recognizing the International Day for the Elimination of Racial Discrimination. In doing so, I'd like to quote a favourite passage from Dr. Martin Luther King during his I Have a Dream speech that he gave in Washington. It's one of the most touching pieces that I've ever seen. Every time you watch the speech, your spine tingles because it was such a visionary and wonderful speech. This was a visionary and wonderful man.

I have a dream that one day this nation will rise up and live out the true meaning of its creed: "We hold these truths to be self-evident, that all men are created equal."

I have a dream that one day on the red hills of Georgia, the sons of former slaves and the sons of former slave owners will be able to sit down together at the table of brotherhood.

I have a dream that one day even the state of Mississippi, a state sweltering with the heat of injustice, sweltering with the heat of oppression, will be transformed into an oasis of freedom and justice.

I have a dream that my four little children will one day live in a nation where they will not be judged by the color of their skin but by the content of their character.

I have a dream today.

Mr. Speaker, let's all do our part in this Legislature to make sure that one day Dr. King's visionary dream becomes a reality. Thank you.

The Speaker: The hon. Member for Edmonton-Strathcona.

Ms Notley: Thank you, Mr. Speaker. This annual day on the calendar reminds us that there is work to do every day to end racism. News of public events such as a white power rally that may take place this weekend in Edmonton are dramatic reminders. More deeply, the evidence of the pervasive persistence of structural and systemic racism is not difficult to find.

The Human Rights Commission, which should provide leadership in these things, continues to be limited because of what it cannot do such as initiate its own investigations without a complaint. Much of what is happening is in informal situations that do not lead to formal complaints but do add to stress and fear for many people in our communities.

The proof of racism is in such things as the overrepresentation of indigenous people in prisons and children in government care. It is in the overrepresentation of racialized populations in low-income groups.

One of the best tools for creating equality is education. We need effective programs, not just superficial marketing gimmicks. We move in the wrong direction when we do not adequately fund our public schools or make it easier to avoid these issues in classrooms. We need education in workplaces as well, especially with employers, on a continuing basis.

This old government introduced much-needed human rights legislation 40 years ago. Today the lack of resources has marginalized this to little more than a rhetorical issue. Laws that say that there will be no discrimination are only as good as the enforcement of violations.

Fortunately, others in the province are energetic in the practical work to see racism eliminated in Alberta. The many members of Alberta's Urban Municipalities Association that have become part of the Coalition of Municipalities Against Racism and Discrimination deserve recognition. The Racism Free Edmonton program is supported by thousands of individual citizens. Alberta human rights champions such as Professor Gerald Gall, who died a few days ago, are an inspiration to all of us.

As we renew our commitments to work to end racism, we must also express thanks to groups such as the Centre for Race and Culture, the John Humphrey centre for human rights, and the Sheldon M. Chumir Foundation for Ethics in Leadership that are doing exemplary work to eliminate racial discrimination in our province.

We must make Alberta a home where racism is eliminated. We need to remember that our human rights code prohibits discrimination on grounds that go beyond racism. As the T-shirts of the people at a rally on the steps of this Legislature Building today said: everyone should expect respect.

Thank you.

The Speaker: The hon. Member for Calgary-Currie.

Mr. Taylor: Thank you very much, Mr. Speaker. I will be brief. As the representative of the Alberta caucus and the fifth party in this House it's difficult to stand in response to the ministerial statement and all the excellent responses thus far and not be repetitive. Rather than echo the comments thus far, all of which have been exemplary, I'll simply agree with their statements that any and every step to eliminate racial discrimination in this province, in this nation of ours, and abroad is a good step.

With that said, it's great that today we can recognize the International Day to Eliminate Racial Discrimination. I think all of us in this House can agree that we are abhorrently opposed to racial discrimination in any capacity. But while it's important to recognize the need to eliminate it today, I'm forced to wonder why every day is not International Day for the Elimination of Racial Discrimination. This should be something that we as MLAs and we as individuals and all citizens of Alberta strive towards 365 days a year. Recognizing it one day out of the year is simply not enough.

While we must never forget Sharpeville, it is my hope that someday we do not need to celebrate the International Day for the Elimination of Racial Discrimination as it will truly have become a thing of the past. Until then we have a commitment to treat every day like today.

Thank you.

Statement by the Speaker

Tablets and Other Electronic Devices in the Chamber

The Speaker: Hon. members, on January 27, 2012, I wrote a letter to all Members of the Legislative Assembly, and I'd like to just quote one paragraph.

On a trial basis for the spring sitting and in recognition of the environmental impact of reducing paper use, I am allowing Members to use their tablets and PDAs during Oral Question Period only as virtual reading devices and not for sending or receiving messages. This will require Members to switch their tablets and PDAs to "Airplane Mode" and to ensure that all sounds are muted during OQP.

Well, this morning I received contact from several members who basically said that several other members have violated that. In a matter of just a couple of minutes of research, I see that their complaints were absolutely correct. Members in different caucuses have been doing this.

An Hon. Member: It's a shame.

The Speaker: I think it is.

We had a great discussion about the use of tablets and PDAs. We accepted the recommendation of the members to basically use them, and then members take it upon themselves to violate it. So I won't name them today, and we'll see what happens. Obviously, there has to be some element of trust and decorum, a very minimal element that should be expected.

Oral Question Period

The Speaker: First Official Opposition main question. The hon. Leader of the Official Opposition.

MLA Remuneration

Dr. Sherman: Thank you, Mr. Speaker. Yesterday the government whip announced that PC MLAs on the no-meet committee would pay back $5,000 each, saying it's the right thing to do. This current government clearly has no sense of right and wrong. It says no to a true public inquiry, no to lower power bills, no to Albertans who are demanding PC MLAs pay back all the money they took for doing nothing. How can the Premier say that her government's response to yet another scandal is anything more than smoke and mirrors?

Mr. Horner: Mr. Speaker, I would hardly classify the MLA pay package that was passed by the Members' Services Committee of this House as scandalous. What I would say is this. This Premier campaigned on change and within the first 60 days of coming into office as Premier asked the Speaker of the House to commission an independent inquiry into MLA salaries. That independent inquiry will be bringing back a report to the Speaker, I'm told, sometime in the next few weeks. That was point number one.

Point number two, Mr. Speaker, was that . . .

The Speaker: Maybe we'll get that in the second question. The hon. leader.

Dr. Sherman: Thank you, Mr. Speaker. Given that the Premier had previously stated that she would not be ordering her MLAs to pay back what they took, why has the Premier flip-flopped yet again? Who is really driving her campaign bus?

Mr. Horner: Mr. Speaker, the Premier did not order individual MLAs to pay back anything. Our caucus has agreed to return funds received by members of that all-party Standing Committee on Privileges and Elections, Standing Orders and Printing, and that is from when the Premier took office. That's the fourth point of the response.

Let me continue with the second point of the response. No member of this caucus is receiving any committee pay as we speak, Mr. Speaker, because the Premier has suspended all committee pay.

The Speaker: The hon. leader.

Dr. Sherman: Thank you, Mr. Speaker. Given that this is the same Premier and same cabinet and caucus that put these rules in and that when the heat is on this Premier has a history of dealing with this scandal and other scandals by making a token gesture and sending the issue off to panels and committees to be delayed until after the election, how can anyone trust this Premier and this government to do the right thing once the heat is off? Make them give it all back right now.

Mr. Horner: Well, Mr. Speaker, the third point of what this Premier has already done is that we initiated, through the Members' Services Committee yesterday, a motion to, for the fourth year in a row, make sure that MLA salaries rise by zero per cent. I would also suggest that we're being very open and honest about what we're doing. We're not trying to play games with this. This is an Assembly package of salaries. We anticipate an independent review. That's what we're expecting.

The Speaker: Second Official Opposition main question. The hon. Leader of the Official Opposition.

Dr. Sherman: Thank you, Mr. Speaker. He's right. These aren't games. It's a slap in the face of Albertans.

2:00 Long-term Care Serious Incidents

Dr. Sherman: Here's another slap. Today the Calgary Herald reports more than 1,000 confirmed cases of abuse against our seniors and other vulnerable Albertans under care in provincial facilities. Many families have come forward to tell their stories of loved ones routinely being left in their own feces, suffering from sores and, in some cases, being left alone to die. But in this House the Premier has dismissed these as unfortunate and isolated incidents. What does the Premier have to say now? Are these 1,000 cases just more unfortunate and isolated incidents?

Mr. Horner: Mr. Speaker, there are on any given day thousands of qualified health care professionals working diligently in this province to provide care for those who are in need. You cannot characterize some unfortunate circumstances as blanketed to all of those health care professionals, and we will not do that.

Dr. Sherman: Mr. Speaker, 1,000 incidents. Given that the sheer volume of complaints makes it clear that this issue is not isolated – it's actually rampant – will the Premier finally admit that her government's policy of starving public, not-for-profit facilities has resulted in an abject humanitarian failure?

Mr. Horner: Mr. Speaker, I will not categorize the health care system or the care system in this province as a failure. I will characterize it as some of the best in the land. This hon. member actually stood up today and talked about some of the best care in the land, in the world, which is attracting people to our province. It continues to do so. Are there problems? Yes, there are problems in our system. We are working with those health care professionals to deal with those problems and to make the system better.

Dr. Sherman: Mr. Speaker, it is the best in the land when the staff are resourced with enough staff and finances. Given that Albertans are clamouring for action instead of more empty promises and slick lawyer talk, will the Premier finally say yes to adequate funding and adequate staffing and adequate monitoring of seniors' care facilities for our parents and grandparents?

Mr. Horner: Mr. Speaker, first of all, I wouldn't characterize the legal profession as being slick. I'm not a lawyer, so I'm not speaking as a lawyer or like a lawyer. I would put that on the record first.

The second piece I would say is that we just passed a budget in this House that is going to do exactly that. It is going to resource the type of facilities, the type of premium health care facilities, that Albertans are expecting from this government, and that's exactly what we're going to do.

The Speaker: Third Official Opposition main question. The hon. Leader of the Official Opposition.

Donations to Political Parties

Dr. Sherman: Thank you, Mr. Speaker. Not only has another handful of postsecondary institutions illegally donated to the PC Party; they did so explicitly to get the ear of this government. So far 50 cases of illegal donations to the PCs are being investigated by the Chief Electoral Officer. Clearly, this government doesn't know the difference between right and wrong let alone the difference between legal and illegal. To the Premier: can the Premier tell Albertans why postsecondary institutions, municipal officials, and school boards believe that they need to donate to this PC Party to have their voices heard?

Mr. Horner: Mr. Speaker, they don't need to donate to any political party to have their voices heard. We have said time and time again in this House that the rules are the rules. We expect our postsecondary institutions to follow those rules. We expect the municipalities to follow those rules. I would point out that it isn't just our party that solicits donations from all sorts of organizations, but a number of others do as well.

Dr. Sherman: Mr. Speaker, given that this is coming from a member who received donations from the Bahamas and given that this government doesn't grasp that it is illegal to exchange government time and favours for donations to the PC Party and given that returning the money after you've been caught does not negate the fact that it was illegal, what is the Premier going to do to stop this culture of corruption?

Mr. Horner: Mr. Speaker, coming from an hon. member who won't even tell us how much he makes as a doctor in this House is a little bit incredulous. But let me tell you this. Other people have bank accounts all over the globe. Where they write it from is immaterial.

I want to go back to what I said about other members in this House, other parties soliciting donations. I have another e-mail here from a member of this House that says: "Hi. Hope this finds you well. Just wanted to quickly let you know that there are only about 75 tickets remaining to the dinner with Wildrose Party leader Danielle Smith and myself."

The Speaker: The hon. leader, please.

Dr. Sherman: Mr. Speaker, that's quite rich coming from a party that has top-up funds for their leaders.

Given that this government created a system where backdoor access is given to people with strong relationships to the PC Party and is openly rewarding institutions for illegal financial donations with access to government, how can any Albertan trust this corrupt government to be in power for one extra day?

Mr. Horner: Mr. Speaker, this hon. member loves to make accusations with no truth to them. This hon. member loves to talk about things that, frankly, are not true, as in the party top-ups. He has absolutely no idea, and that's painfully evident to most people.

Let me come back to the MLA for Airdrie-Chestermere's e-mail to the Athabasca University soliciting donations. All of the postsecondary institutions that have been referenced, to my understanding, either have repaid the money or those institutions have also done strengthening to their policies and procedures . . .

The Speaker: Okay. We're going to move on. For all my imagination I can't see anything in the last three questions that has anything to do with the Oral Question Period.

The hon. Member for Fort McMurray-Wood Buffalo.

Fixed Election Dates

Mr. Boutilier: Thank you very much, Mr. Speaker. Spring is here, and in the spirit of hope I'm going to give this Premier a last chance to come clean on the question Albertans expected to know months ago. The Premier promised a fixed election date, a date all Albertans could circle on their calendar, but she's broken that promise because nobody knows except her and her closest PC buddies. But today is a new season, and I'm filled with optimism. To the Premier: will you right here, right now be up front with all Albertans and tell us the day of the provincial election?

Mr. Horner: Mr. Speaker, the provincial election will be held before May 31.

The Speaker: The hon. member.

Mr. Boutilier: Thank you, Mr. Speaker. Based on that non answer and given that the whole objective of a fixed election date was to level the playing field to everyone and given that the Premier speaks about the value of fairness and the value of being open and transparent, why will this Premier refuse to adhere to these important Alberta values in telling all Albertans the exact day today?

Mr. Horner: Well, Mr. Speaker, I think I just told him when the election is going to be. I would suggest that the hon. member get prepared and goes and talks to some of his constituents. I think they miss him.

The Speaker: The hon. member.

Mr. Boutilier: Thank you, Mr. Speaker. That's going to go over big. I can see that the Deputy Premier isn't in a very springtime mood, so I guess the only question left to ask that really is to the spirit of the Premier, from what I observe here today, is: why is she so afraid of being up front with Albertans with her secret election date?

Mr. Horner: Mr. Speaker, I don't think there's anybody in this province today that doesn't know that the election is coming, and the actions that we've seen across the floor would certainly indicate that we are in silly season.

The Speaker: The hon. Member for Edmonton-Strathcona.

Donations to Political Parties (continued)

Ms Notley: Thank you, Mr. Speaker. Between 2007 and 2010 Grande Prairie Regional College illegally purchased tickets for board members to a Conservative fundraiser. Now, on December 15, 2011, this Premier's cabinet reappointed three people who sat on the board of the college at the time these illegal donations were made. My question is to the Premier, in the words of her mentor, Mr. Mulroney. Premier, you had an option to say no, and instead you chose to say yes to the old attitudes and the old ways of your party with these reappointments. Why?

Mr. Horner: Well, Mr. Speaker, perhaps the minister of advanced education might want to supplement this, but as I understand it, any political donations that have been found to be illegal or have been received in not following the rules have been returned, and that would be for any party in this Legislature.

Ms Notley: Well, Mr. Speaker, given that the Premier chose to say yes to patronage and reappointed three board members suspected of illegal donations to that party and given that, if I may say so, that's not good enough for Albertans, will this Premier apologize for reappointing people who oversaw illegal donations to her party?

2:10

Mr. Horner: Mr. Speaker, I had the privilege and honour of serving the people of Alberta as the minister of advanced education some time ago, and I can tell you that the number of people that volunteer their time to sit as the governing boards of our postsecondary institutions are of the highest calibre and of the highest ethical standard. I don't agree with this hon. member.

Ms Notley: Well, given that this government appoints the boards of major postsecondary institutions throughout Alberta and given that this government is well known for appointing Conservative donors and operatives to these sorts of posts, why won't this government admit that it's created a patronage ring that's fed money back into Conservative coffers from public institutions for years?

Mr. Horner: Mr. Speaker, again, I will not stand in this House and allow disparaging remarks to be made about the character, the ethics, or the moral values of people who have volunteered their time to serve this province on the boards of governance of our postsecondary institutions, which, I might add, are the best campuses in the country, perhaps even the world.

The Speaker: The hon. Member for Calgary-Mountain View, followed by the hon. Member for Calgary-Foothills.

Physician Services Agreement in Principle

Dr. Swann: Thank you, Mr. Speaker. My questions are for the minister of health. Today the minister announced an agreement in principle with the troublesome Alberta Medical Association on the eve of an election. After the Premier and minister betrayed all health workers by reversing their decision to hold a public inquiry into intimidation, the minister further insulted physicians by imposing a one-year wage scheme, which has now been withdrawn, now a clear and desperate attempt to buy their silence. To the minister: why was Alberta Health Services not party to this agreement?

Mr. Horner: Mr. Speaker, the agreement that we have with the physicians is one that has been negotiated for more than a year. Currently we're past that year period of time. We are very pleased that we have been able to come to an agreement in principle. This is an agreement in principle. We believe, on this side of the House, that this is working together with those health care professionals in the system to help us fix what is wrong in the system and move forward. We think this is a good deal for Albertans and for the doctors.

Dr. Swann: Alberta Health Services is also asking physicians to sign contracts that include dismissal without cause. Is this going to improve relations with their employer?

Mr. Horner: Mr. Speaker, the hon. minister of health and the president of the AMA had a very effective news conference this morning, I believe. I think what they talked about is that the relationships between the physicians, AHS, and this government are very good and that we're going to work on how we can better the system, the publicly funded system of health care in this province.

Dr. Swann: Mr. Speaker, Alberta Health Services announced that their quarterly report is being delayed by the minister till May or June. Why are you postponing this required reporting till after the election?

Mr. Horner: Mr. Speaker, I would have to take that one under advisement because I'm not aware of what the reasons would be around that. Certainly, we would be able to provide that answer, I'm sure, in the forthcoming days, weeks.

The Speaker: The hon. Member for Calgary-Foothills, followed by the hon. Member for Calgary-Buffalo.

AIMCo Investment in Viterra Inc.

Mr. Webber: Thank you, Mr. Speaker. There are many news reports out there today about AIMCo's involvement in the Viterra deal, and it is my understanding that AIMCo is a large shareholder in Viterra. Could the Minister of Finance confirm this and advise this House to what extent AIMCo is involved?

Mr. Liepert: Mr. Speaker, the member is correct that this was a major transaction that occurred. I'm not in a position to talk about what the impacts are of the purchase by Glencore International out of Switzerland relative to the agricultural aspects of the deal. It does include Agrium, which is based out of Calgary, and the Richardson grain company out of Winnipeg, and it was approximately a $6 billion deal. AIMCo is a shareholder of about 17 per cent of Viterra stocks.

Mr. Webber: To the same minister, then. I do recall that last year AIMCo did question the abilities of the Viterra board of directors and the board's commitment to seek shareholder input. Now, did that have any bearing on this sale?

Mr. Liepert: Well, it's hard to tell, Mr. Speaker, whether it had any bearing or not. It's probably unlikely because it was November of last year that AIMCo questioned the, I guess, abilities of the board of directors of Viterra around taking shareholder input. In response AIMCo was given one board member, so it's unlikely that having one board member would have significantly influenced the deal.

Mr. Webber: To the same minister again, then. This is a large deal, Minister, reportedly $6 billion. Is that right, $6 billion? Could the minister explain to this Assembly, if the deal goes through, what Albertans stand to gain through AIMCo's investment in Viterra?

Mr. Liepert: That's correct, Mr. Speaker. The reported transaction was $6.1 billion. As I said, AIMCo holds about 17 per cent of the shares in Viterra. Those shares were purchased several years ago at approximately $8 per share. The closing deal was $16.25 per share. I'm told that the projected net gain on behalf of AIMCo on behalf of Albertans is going to be in the range of about $400 million.

Home-schooling

Mr. Hehr: In Alberta we have programs of study guidelines that establish a curriculum that every student, regardless of how they are educated or where they are educated, is required to follow. To the Minister of Education: given that the minister stated that there is nothing more important to him than giving parents choice to teach what they want, when they want, and where they want, is the minister saying that home-schoolers no longer have to follow the curriculum?

Mr. Lukaszuk: No, Mr. Speaker, I didn't say that. The programs of study guideline is just that. It's a guideline that gives educators, no matter in what setting, the guideline on what children should be covering by way of the course of study. But that doesn't mean that they have to adhere to the Alberta curriculum. The Alberta curriculum is a very well-put-together package of materials that children cover. The guideline is a guideline that could be interpreted by parents or other educators and used with supplemental programs of study.

Mr. Hehr: Well, to the same minister: will the minister continue to uphold the Alberta curriculum, which teaches evolution, the Holocaust, climate change, and racial and sexual orientation tolerance?

Mr. Lukaszuk: Mr. Speaker, the member knows the answers very well, but I will definitely address them. In our schools run by boards and in our public education system all the schools adhere to the Alberta curriculum, which teaches exactly what the member indicated. However, parents in this province, not only in schools but also in home-schooling, have the choice of exempting their children from certain programs of study. We support parental choice. In a home-schooling setting parents have to adhere to the guidelines of what ought to be taught, but they do it within their own needs.

Mr. Hehr: So now just to be clear, Mr. Minister, will home-schoolers no longer have to follow the Alberta curriculum when they are teaching at home? Just to be clear.

Mr. Lukaszuk: Well, that member is clear, and I'm sure he knows the answer to the question. Alberta home-schoolers do not have to cover the Alberta curriculum, but they do have to cover the recommendations of what ought to be taught. Those are just recommendations, and they're open to interpretation. The fact is that Alberta home-schoolers can develop their own programs of study. If there are any aspects of the Alberta curriculum that they feel are not meeting their personal values or religious beliefs, they can exempt their children from having to learn those subject matters.

The Speaker: The hon. Member for Bonnyville-Cold Lake, followed by the hon. Member for Calgary-Buffalo.

Affordable Housing

Mrs. Leskiw: Thank you, Mr. Speaker. I know that rent supplements are helping to keep a roof over the heads of many Albertans. Many of my constituents in Bonnyville-Cold Lake have expressed their concerns about the need for more affordable housing, which is why the ongoing talk about wait-lists for these supplements is so concerning. Could the Minister of Municipal Affairs explain why we continue to have wait-lists for this important housing support?

Mr. Griffiths: Well, Mr. Speaker, Alberta is not alone in its challenges to provide housing for low-income Albertans, but we do a great job, and we meet the challenge head on. We work with households and our local housing authorities to provide rent supplement supports to 12,000 households every month. We have a couple of hundred households that move back to paying full rent supports to the private sector every single month. Then from those that are on the waiting list, we help those most in need. Not everyone on the list is in critical need. We focus on critical needs.

2:20

Mrs. Leskiw: To the same minister. For those who are not deemed most in need and first in line for support based on the assessment, what is being done to help address the growing need for housing support for those who are waiting for help?

Mr. Griffiths: Well, Mr. Speaker, rent supplements are just one type of support that we provide to those that are in need. We provide stable homes through 26,000 government-owned homes, which range from seniors' single-unit dwellings to multiunit dwellings to community dwellings. Through our capital funding partnerships we have created 12,000 housing units in this province to help make sure that those who are in need have housing available to them.

Mrs. Leskiw: I can appreciate that funding for more than 12,000 affordable housing units is a significant investment, but given existing wait-lists can the minister explain how any of that can possibly alleviate current and growing needs?

Mr. Griffiths: Well, Mr. Speaker, when the commitment was first made to build those 12,000 housing units back in 2007, it was a $1.15 billion investment. We had 4,000 units built up front, and we had another 4,000 come on line. Even though the money is committed, we still have 8,000 units yet to be built. On top of that, in this budget and for the next three years we have $40 million going to build more affordable housing plus the investment of $260 million in the rejuvenation of the 26,000 housing units in this province. That's the best investment anywhere in Canada. [interjections]

The Speaker: I'm going to recognize a member, and I'm going to ask all other members to listen to the response. Let's just try it to see how it works.

Collection of School Fees

Mr. Hehr: Mr. Speaker, I was appalled this week to learn that for decades school boards across this province have had the right to send collection agencies after parents for not paying their school fees. To the Minister of Education: why has your department allowed school boards to take this type of action against parents who are just able to keep their heads above water?

Mr. Lukaszuk: Mr. Speaker, the Minister of Education doesn't allow or disallow. The boards are actually composed of locally elected trustees. It's the parents that actually form the boards by electing the trustees. Duly elected officials, being trustees, make local decisions. The parents, I imagine, must be supportive of it because those are the trustees that have been elected by them.

Mr. Hehr: Mr. Speaker, as the minister knows full well, he's in charge of Alberta Education. Will he stop this practice immediately and, in fact, eliminate school fees altogether in Alberta schools?

Mr. Lukaszuk: Mr. Speaker, I have a feeling that this member wants to go a little bit further than that because when you take his last couple of dozen questions from question periods, he probably wants me to eliminate school boards. That's where he is heading. We're not going to go there. Locally elected officials make local decisions, and they report to their electorate, the parents of that particular region. [interjections]

The Speaker: Hon. member, I'm still going to recognize you, but, boy, my plea didn't last very long, did it?

Mr. Hehr: Actually, Mr. Speaker, I will ask the minister directly what I'd like him to do: eliminate school fees and stop sending collection agencies after parents who can't afford to pay them.

Mr. Lukaszuk: Mr. Speaker, this government and this ministry send no collection agencies after anybody. Those collection agencies, if indeed they're being sent, are being sent by local school boards. Let's get this straight.

Let's also get another thing straight. I have already indicated I will be reviewing the structure of fees, and we will be making a determination in this province on what fees are and what fees aren't appropriate.

The Speaker: The hon. Member for Strathcona, followed by the hon. Member for Edmonton-Strathcona.

Fort Saskatchewan Community Hospital

Mr. Quest: Thank you, Mr. Speaker. The people of Fort Saskatchewan in northern Strathcona county are pleased that we were able to have a ceremony marking the transfer of the Fort Saskatchewan community hospital from Alberta Infrastructure to Alberta Health Services. To the Minister of Infrastructure: when will the new hospital open for families in these regions?

Mr. Johnson: Mr. Speaker, this is a great-news story, the Fort Saskatchewan hospital. I was on the site on Friday with the Minister of Health and Wellness and the local MLA for Fort Saskatchewan-Vegreville, and we handed over the keys for the hospital, which is now complete, to Alberta Health Services. It's a beautiful facility; we toured it. Alberta Health Services will be stocking supplies in there, training staff, and it'll be open to patients next month.

The Speaker: The hon. member.

Mr. Quest: Thank you, Mr. Speaker. My second question is for the Minister of Infrastructure again. We know this is a local hospital in Fort Saskatchewan, but what need does this hospital fill in the greater Edmonton capital region, and what other hospitals are in progress right now?

Mr. Johnson: Mr. Speaker, this hospital is a good-news story not just for Fort Saskatchewan but the entire area and will serve all the communities on the edge of the Industrial Heartland, which have seen some great growth. The new hospital is about triple the size of the old one. If you were in the old building, you knew for years that they desperately needed a new one. It's another piece of the government's plan to give Albertans effective and accessible health services close to home. It's just one of about 30 projects, worth about $4 billion, that we have on the go, including High Prairie, Grande Prairie, Calgary, and Sherwood Park.

Mr. Quest: My final question to the Infrastructure minister, Mr. Speaker. This hospital will be a legacy into our future. What positive impacts has the actual construction of this building already had during this recent global recession?

Mr. Johnson: Mr. Speaker, it is a legacy, and so is the overall investment we're making in infrastructure, especially coming through a time when the global recession affected jobs. One of the great things we've been able to get out of that is to keep people working in this province. At its peak 150 skilled labourers were working on this job in particular. But the approximately $6 billion, $7 billion we're spending a year is keeping about 70,000 Albertans working, getting us excellent prices in the marketplace. We're doing that infrastructure at a time when we need that foundation for our economy going forward.

The Speaker: The hon. Member for Edmonton-Strathcona, followed by the hon. Member for Edmonton-Centre.

Long-term Care Accommodation Rates

Ms Notley: Thank you, Mr. Speaker. Yesterday the Premier said, "There has been no discussion or commitment of any kind with respect to removing the cap on seniors' accommodation." However, in her leadership campaign platform she stated that she would incentivize private developers to build long-term care beds by, quote, removing the cap on housing costs for seniors at continuing care centres. End quote. To the Premier: will you correct the record and admit to Albertans that you ran on a platform of removing the cap from seniors' long-term care?

Mr. Horner: Mr. Speaker, I think the Premier was quite clear with her answer yesterday, and I think that should stand in Hansard. I also believe that the hon. Minister of Seniors has also been very clear that there is a process that would be followed if there was ever a time to go there. I think the Premier was pretty clear with her answer yesterday.

Ms Notley: Mr. Speaker, in fact, the Premier was very unclear. This Premier has broken many promises, and I think this is one that Albertans actually want her to break.

Given that the Minister of Seniors is on the record saying that over the last four months he has been reviewing the benefits and the impacts of removing the cap and he said that he will not remove it until there has been a debate over the next 12 months, will the Premier apologize for providing incorrect information to this House yesterday and either guarantee that the long-term care fee cap will not be removed in the next four years or come clean . . .

The Speaker: The hon. Deputy Premier.

Mr. Horner: Mr. Speaker, I would encourage this hon. member and all Albertans to check Hansard yesterday as I know many people use that as a resource to verify what some hon. members think they may have said or some hon. members think someone else may have said. Certainly, I'm not sure that I could understand from that question whether she was for removing the caps or not for removing the caps, but I think the question and answer in yesterday's Hansard would clarify it for her.

Ms Notley: Mr. Speaker, the Premier put it in her document, her platform, and the Minister of Seniors has talked about it.

Given the disturbing number of incidents of abuse in our seniors' care homes and given that the satisfaction with the quality of care is shown to be less in private facilities than in centres that are publicly run, will the Premier back off her plan to incent more private-sector involvement through seniors' pocketbooks by removing the cap and instead commit to building much-needed affordable, quality, publicly run long-term care centres?

Mr. Horner: Mr. Speaker, yesterday the Premier was again very clear. We are going to build the appropriate care for seniors in this province so that they can retire and live in dignity, so that they can have the respect and care that they need in this province. The Minister of Seniors and the Premier are on record as saying that that's what this government will do. In fact, the budget that we passed last night in this Assembly is going to do exactly that.

The Speaker: The hon. Member for Edmonton-Centre, followed by the hon. Member for Lesser Slave Lake.

Residential Construction Standards

Ms Blakeman: Thank you very much, Mr. Speaker. We keep hearing that the government will eventually introduce new homeowner protection measures. My questions are to the Minister of Municipal Affairs. Can the minister explain how the set of proposals that he has been going on about forever would have actually helped the owners and renters of Penhorwood building in Fort McMurray, Bella Vista in Calgary, Rosedale Court here in Edmonton, and Bellavera Green building in Leduc?

Mr. Griffiths: Mr. Speaker, I've been very clear that when the new home warranty is introduced, the entire purpose of it is not to make sure that people just have coverage but, rather, to increase the quality of the building that's done in this province. In every other jurisdiction we've researched, that's been the case, and that will be the case when we introduce our new home warranty legislation.

2:30

The Speaker: The hon. member.

Ms Blakeman: Thanks very much, Mr. Speaker. Well, back to the same minister: could the minister please tell this Assembly how his mandatory home warranty program for Alberta stacks up against the Alberta Liberal plan to cover three years on defects in materials and labour, five years on defects in the building envelope, and 10 years on structural defects?

Mr. Griffiths: Mr. Speaker, I believe I'd be breaking this House's conventions if I pre-empted that by describing exactly what the legislation would say, but I can tell the member that we have consulted with industry, which they failed to do, and ours will only create a marginal cost, less than half a per cent on the average house, while their projections, from what I can see, could cost the average homeowner thousands and prevent them from even buying a new house. That's why we did the consultations, to get it right.

Ms Blakeman: Have you been stalking me that you know who I meet with or don't meet with?

Back to the same minister. It took a massive leaky condo disaster in B.C. to get legislation put in place in 1997. Now, Alberta has had four large projects with various code violations and repairs needed, so how many more failures will this government accept and allow before we get some action out of it?

Mr. Griffiths: Mr. Speaker, I can assure this member that I have no idea what she does when she leaves this House, and I don't care.

We have worked very hard over the last couple of years to go through a process where we consult with all the stakeholders so that we can get some meaningful legislation, but I'll tell you what. It is already against the law in this province to build buildings that don't meet the building code standards. That would happen regardless of any home warranty. It's against the law, Mr. Speaker.

The Speaker: I hope there's absolute clarification. There was a suggestion made there about stalking going on, and I hope there was an absolute, clear denial of such occurring.

The hon. Member for Lesser Slave Lake, followed by the hon. Member for Calgary-Glenmore.

Electricity Prices

Ms Calahasen: Thank you, Mr. Speaker. Power prices have gone up, and this government has little to show for it except a freeze on our power bills, so help me explain to my constituents, Mr. Minister of Energy. These constituents want predictable bills at fair prices, so what's going on?

The Speaker: The hon. minister.

Dr. Morton: Thank you, Mr. Speaker. As I've said before, Alberta prices are fair, and they are competitive. They've averaged 8 cents a kilowatt hour over the last five years, which is competitive with jurisdictions that don't have large hydro, like us. They were higher in January and February, but I'm happy to report that in March the regulated rate option is back down to 8 cents, and we've appointed a committee to review that variable rate option to reduce volatility in cost.

Ms Calahasen: Well, the minister has spoken about public debt held by other provinces with the utilities, so to the same minister: can you explain what that has to do with my constituents, who are trying to manage high power bills?

Dr. Morton: A very good question, Mr. Speaker. In Alberta you only pay once for electricity on your monthly bills. What we see in other provinces like Ontario with Crown-owned utilities is billions of dollars of debt, actually $62 billion in Ontario. So in Ontario they're not only paying their monthly bills, but then in their yearly taxes a portion of their taxes is going to retire that debt. Let's be very clear. In Alberta you only pay once. In Ontario they're paying twice.

Ms Calahasen: Then my last question goes to the same minister. How can you assure this House, especially my constituents, that the cost of a new upgraded electricity grid ultimately paid for by consumers will be a benefit to all consumers?

Dr. Morton: Mr. Speaker, our goal in electricity is twofold. We want to make sure the electricity is there when you need it, when you hit the switch and, secondly, that it's affordable. In terms of need the size of this province has doubled since we last reinforced the north-south grid. Transmission is a bit like life insurance. When you realize you need it, it's too late. Alberta is not going to be too late on the electricity file. In terms of cost we're going to keep costs down by ensuring that the payment for this four-decade infrastructure is spread out over four decades and is not front-end loaded on today's users.

The Speaker: The hon. Member for Calgary-Fish Creek, followed by the hon. Member for Dunvegan-Central Peace.

Long-term Care Serious Incidents (continued)

Mrs. Forsyth: Thank you, Mr. Speaker. It's shocking to hear about the large number of cases of elderly and disabled abuse that is occurring in our own government. Over a thousand cases of abuse since 2005 were discovered after a FOIP request, and how does the Seniors minister respond? He claims responsibility for asking them to call in their complaints. What the heck did they do before he told them to call? This isn't the answer that Albertans want or expect. They want accountability, and they want transparency. Why does the Seniors minister keep hiding these numbers from the public?

Mr. Horner: Mr. Speaker, it is mandatory under the Protection for Persons in Care Act that all of these cases would be reported. All of them are taken seriously, and my understanding is that where appropriate, investigations and actions are taken.

Mrs. Forsyth: Given that last year the Premier promised to enact whistleblower legislation that would increase accountability throughout government, including our group homes, can the Seniors minister explain why this promise was broken, or is it not a priority for government?

Mr. Horner: Actually, Mr. Speaker, as the minister responsible for corporate human resources, we are in fact reviewing our process and reviewing the steps that can be taken by employees should they desire to report something that they feel is inappropriate. We will be looking at that as the season moves forward and look forward to perhaps bringing legislation in the near future.

Mrs. Forsyth: Given that your government has manipulated the long-term care bed numbers and given that you are on record for saying that there were 22 fatal accidents or injuries last year in group homes but now you're saying there were only five, can the minister get his own facts straight and give us the real answers?

Mr. Horner: Well, Mr. Speaker, I'm sure the Minister of Seniors will be keen to review the Hansard of that question because the preamble is obviously wrong. I do not believe that anyone has manipulated any figures in this House. If the hon. member believes that to be true, there is a process, which she's very well aware of, given her many, many years of service in this Assembly, around a point of privilege, and she should call one if she believes it.

The Speaker: The hon. Member for Dunvegan-Central Peace, followed by the hon. Member for Calgary-McCall.

Agriculture Financial Services Corporation

Mr. Goudreau: Thank you, Mr. Speaker. Alberta farm producers make incredible investments and take great risk to ensure that Albertans, Canadians, and those around the world have access to safe, high-quality food. For them to accomplish this, they often need help to grow and manage their operations and to continue to be competitive in the global market. My question is to the Minister of Agriculture and Rural Development. Could he tell us what he's doing to support these important Alberta producers?

The Speaker: The hon. minister.

Mr. Berger: Thank you, Mr. Speaker. Agriculture Financial Services Corporation offers the most comprehensive and innovative lending and risk management programs in Canada. Demand for these loans has grown to nearly $500 million per annum, and I'm proud to say that on Monday we announced a new revolving loan program for agricultural producers and the agriculture industry.

Mr. Goudreau: Mr. Speaker, my second question is to the same minister. You've just announced a revolving loan program. What is the difference between this program and the traditional term loan programs that you've had?

The Speaker: The hon. minister.

Mr. Berger: Thank you, Mr. Speaker. The difference is that this was developed with client and industry input. The revolving loan program offers competitive rates that can be set for one, two, or three years. Clients control when they wish to access the funds. They can reborrow the funds for operating that they've already paid back. They have the control to make this work for their specific operation. It's a very valuable tool.

The Speaker: The hon. member.

Mr. Goudreau: Thank you, Mr. Speaker. My final question is again to the Minister of Agriculture and Rural Development. Besides these loans, what other services can our producers expect from Agriculture Financial Services Corporation this year?

Mr. Berger: Mr. Speaker, through current and legacy programs that AFSC has been offering since 1972, we've been working with commercial and agribusinesses to meet their needs. AFSC not only continues to provide agriculture insurance, agriculture stability, income stability, and financial services; it also supports the development and expansion of agriculture. Alberta has the best risk management programs available in Canada, which is perfectly matched with the best producers in Canada, right here in Alberta.

The Speaker: The hon. Member for Calgary-McCall, followed by the hon. Member for Leduc-Beaumont-Devon.

2:40

School Capital Construction

Mr. Kang: Thank you, Mr. Speaker. A new P3 school in the west end of Edmonton is already grossly overcrowded, but its contract with its private maintenance company doesn't allow any new portables. This means students will now have to be bused to other schools. Parents are baffled as to why the school can't add only four extra portables to an existing school to meet demand. To the Minister of Infrastructure: how can the minister justify entering into a contract with a P3 operator that doesn't allow extra portables to be added when needed?

Mr. Johnson: Mr. Speaker, I need to clarify the issue that we've got at this school in particular. I sympathize with the parents and the students, and we want to provide the best possible environment we can for every student. The P3s are a procurement option. They're not the design and the management, necessarily, of the building in terms of the capacity. We were asked to build a building to a capacity of 600 students. That area has grown. The capacity now is 700. That's what the need is, 750. That's the real problem.

The Speaker: The hon. member, please.

Mr. Kang: Thank you, Mr. Speaker. To the same minister again: assuming that a contract that doesn't allow for a simple, cheap, and needed addition to a school is another supposed P3 cost saving, can the minister tell us how much will be saved by having to unnecessarily bus children to other neighbourhoods every day for years on end?

Mr. Johnson: Mr. Speaker, let me just elaborate on the previous answer. When we're asked to build a school, the core can only have a capacity for so many kids. The administrative area, the libraries, the washrooms, all those kinds of things can only have so many children. We can add modulars onto schools, but once the core is full, we can't add more modulars because the core can't take more kids. Those are fire code issues and other things that need to be considered.

The Speaker: The hon. member.

Mr. Kang: Thank you, Mr. Speaker. To the same minister again: given that Alberta Liberals have been pointing out P3 failures across Canada over a decade, will the minister admit that P3s are too restrictive and expensive over the long term and commit to the public construction of public schools?

Mr. Johnson: Mr. Speaker, it's the same answer we've had in this House before, sir. P3s are not right for every community, for every school, but one thing they have been able to do is deliver a lot more schools a lot less expensively and faster and with certainty on the cost for maintenance so that that school has a warranty for 30 years. That's good news for students. That's good 33news for Alberta.

The Speaker: The hon. Member for Leduc-Beaumont-Devon, followed by the hon. Member for Edmonton-Gold Bar.

Community Spirit Program

Mr. Rogers: Thank you, Mr. Speaker. The nonprofit sector provides valuable support to Alberta's communities. Government can't go it alone. However, our nonprofit and charitable organizations have struggled due to the slow recovery of our economy and with the ever-rising costs to deliver programs and services and people not finding the time to fit volunteering into their busy lives. To the Minister of Culture and Community Services: what is the minister doing to help this vital sector?

The Speaker: The hon. minister.

Mrs. Klimchuk: Thank you, Mr. Speaker. This is an area that's very near and dear to my heart. We know the vital role that nonprofit, voluntary groups play across Alberta. In fact, Statistics Canada has released preliminary results from a survey on volunteerism, which reaffirms that Albertans are leaders when giving to volunteerism. We've had an increase in the volunteer sector of about 7 per cent. That's not to say that there aren't challenges, but it's a conversation we're having, which began at the Culture Forum 2012.

The Speaker: The hon. member.

Mr. Rogers: Thank you, Mr. Speaker. Again to the same minister. Madam Minister, your ministry offers the community spirit program. Is this program really making a difference?

The Speaker: The hon. minister.

Mrs. Klimchuk: Thank you, Mr. Speaker. This program is indeed having an impact, and we continue to receive great feedback. A survey of the nonprofit and voluntary sector groups that have applied to it have approximately a 95 per cent rate of support for this. Over the past three years more than 5,000 grant recipients have shared about $52.9 million.

The Speaker: The hon. member.

Mr. Rogers: Thank you, Mr. Speaker. Again to the same minister: Madam Minister, it sounds like this program has been oversubscribed, and if so, what are you doing to alleviate this?

The Speaker: The hon. minister.

Mrs. Klimchuk: Thank you, Mr. Speaker. We know this program is becoming much more well known. In 2008-09 there were 1,592 applications; in '11-12 there were about 2,170. That is an increase of 27 per cent. We know there is much more conversation about this program, but the beauty of this program is that the dollars get back to some of the smaller groups versus some of the larger groups.

The Speaker: The hon. Member for Edmonton-Gold Bar.

Electricity Prices

(continued)

Mr. MacDonald: Thank you, Mr. Speaker. A former Conservative Party member who is totally disgusted with this government's electricity deregulation policy provided to me – and I really appreciate it – the issue brief that the government is planning on using to try to get through this next election, defending their public policy on electricity. One of the responses in this document indicates, and I quote: consumers have options; sometimes consumers in other provinces do not. Given that a member of a rural community . . .

The Speaker: The hon. minister, please. [interjection] The hon. minister, please.

Dr. Morton: Mr. Speaker, we're actually quite proud of the fact that in Alberta electricity consumers do have choices. You can have the variable rate. You can go and get your equal payments based on 12 months, or you can get a fixed rate from 11 different providers. I think Albertans value that choice, and we're proud that we offer it.

Mr. MacDonald: Given that yesterday – and I quote to the hon. Minister of Energy – a couple running a small family farm said that it's getting to the point where both parents have to go to work, and one of the reasons is to pay the power bills, is that a good option for consumers in rural Alberta because of your failed electricity deregulation policy?

Dr. Morton: Mr. Speaker, we're very aware of the hardships from the high electricity prices charged in January and February. That's why we've appointed a committee to review it. That's why we've frozen the ancillary charges right now. I'm happy to report – and this hon. member knows it well – that the average price, the price for the variable rate for March, is back down to about 8 cents, which has been the five-year average.

The Speaker: The hon. member.

Mr. MacDonald: Thank you. Again to the same minister, Mr. Speaker: how can the Minister of Energy prance around the province on behalf of the government of Alberta and say that there are no subsidies ever given in this province on deregulation when in the year 2000 $1.5 billion was provided in subsidies?

Dr. Morton: Mr. Speaker, it's been a long time since I pranced around the province, and I wasn't here in 2000, but in case I don't get another opportunity, I'd like to say goodbye to the hon. Member for Edmonton-Gold Bar and thank him for the many good conversations and exchanges we've had over the years.

The Speaker: Hon. members, 19 hon. members were recognized today. There were 114 questions and responses.

We're now going to continue the Routine, and we're going to come up against the 3 o'clock rule. We're going to continue now with Members' Statements.

Members' Statements

Villa Marie Continuing Care Centre

Mrs. Jablonski: Mr. Speaker, who would have thought that 300 years ago the actions of 19-year-old Marie Louise Trichet, who dedicated her life to nursing the sick, giving food to the poor, and managing a hospital in a small French village, would have a huge impact on the lives of the people of Red Deer, Alberta? Who would have thought that a hundred years ago when Sister Marie Agathe came to Red Deer to educate the children, she too would have a huge impact on our central Alberta community?

Well, 300 years ago Marie Louise Trichet founded the Daughters of Wisdom, a congregation of Catholic nuns established for the teaching of children and the care of the poor. Over a hundred years ago Sister Marie Agathe and the Daughters of Wisdom founded the Red Deer regional Catholic school system and Our Lady of the Rosary hospital in Castor.

Today, 300 years after Blessed Marie Louise founded the Daughters of Wisdom and a hundred years after Sister Marie Agathe arrived in central Alberta, Covenant Health is honouring their memory and their great works by naming Red Deer's new 100-unit continuing care centre Villa Marie. Covenant Health in partnership with Alberta Seniors, Alberta Health and Wellness, and Alberta Health Services will start the construction of Villa Marie in April this year. Villa Marie will be one of two demonstration sites that will provide a continuum of care in one location from basic supportive living to long-term care, allowing our seniors to age in place as their health needs change.

Villa Marie is part of the government's commitment to build 1,000 seniors' assisted living units each year. Mr. Speaker, I'm proud of the government's commitment to our seniors, and I'm proud of Villa Marie, our new seniors' care centre in Red Deer, that will carry on the 300-year-old mission of caring for others with dignity and love, with fidelity and tender compassion. Congratulations to Covenant Health. We look forward to the day that Villa Marie opens.

Mr. Speaker, I wonder if any of us will be remembered 300 years from now.

The Speaker: The hon. Member for Calgary-Fish Creek.

2:50

Integrity in Government

Mrs. Forsyth: Thank you, Mr. Speaker. Soon in this province Albertans will be heading to the polls, and we'll be able to see democracy in action. The word "democracy" itself means government by the people and for the people, not what the Premier thinks is best for the people. People wanted a fixed election date, and the Premier promised one, to be set in March 2012, back in September, when she was trying to get votes. Instead, she backpedalled, and today we're still trying to guess when the election will be.

Last year the Premier promised new whistle-blower legislation to encourage government workers to speak out about waste, fraud, or abuse in government. Well, here we are today with no legislation and no answers to the waste, fraud, and abuse in government.

On health care people expected and wanted a health inquiry that included investigating the intimidation of doctors. The Premier even said that an inquiry would have to include doctor intimidation and alluded to it more than once over the past several months. Instead, she broke yet another promise and is asking doctors and our other health professionals to take a back seat by ignoring the will of the people.

Is this what the Premier calls real-life leadership? I can tell you one thing for certain, Mr. Speaker. Albertans aren't interested in that type of leadership, leadership that doesn't listen to the people and breaks promises, leadership that says one thing but means another. Instead of building on a province that prides itself on being strong and free, the Premier is looking increasingly weak and controlling. We're starting to hear across the province that people feel this Premier can no longer be trusted because she no longer trusts the will of the people. She has forgotten that it is the people that are in charge and not the PC Party. Soon it will be time for the people to choose and no longer for the Premier to choose for the people.

The Speaker: The hon. Member for Grande Prairie-Wapiti, followed by the hon. Member for Highwood.

Alberta Association of Municipal Districts and Counties

Mr. Drysdale: Thank you, Mr. Speaker. The Alberta Association of Municipal Districts and Counties, or AAMD and C, is an independent association comprised of Alberta's 69 counties and municipal districts. Since 1909 the AAMD and C has assisted rural municipalities in achieving strong and effective local government through advocacy, communication, education, and the provision of business services. They are a forward-thinking association made up of elected rural councils working to represent the interests of rural Albertans and to meet the diverse and changing needs of its membership.

The AAMD and C works hard to raise awareness of the particular challenges and opportunities available to rural municipalities. The government of Alberta and, in particular, ministries like Municipal Affairs, Service Alberta, Agriculture and Rural Development, and others have worked with them on issues as far ranging as pest management, weed control, utility services, and the development and funding of high-speed Internet access for our rural communities.

I was recently made aware that the rural municipalities retain 90 per cent of the land mass that is home to the resources and industries that form the backbone of Alberta's economy. However, rural municipalities are also responsible for 97 per cent of municipal roads and 90 per cent of municipal bridges. That is a lot of infrastructure and services to deliver to these small but hard-working communities throughout our province, with essential needs that the AAMD and C tirelessly advocates for the betterment of their communities.

In Alberta we're proud that our province got its start from a foundation based on a rural way of life in a land of great opportunity. These municipal districts and counties truly blend heritage with innovation and industry, and our government will continue to work together with AAMD and C to enhance and support their efforts in the delivery and provision of infrastructure services.

Highwood Constituency

Mr. Groeneveld: Mr. Speaker, in my time representing Highwood, which contains the great municipalities of Longview, High River, Okotoks, and the MD of Foothills, our government has invested in the future of our communities by building infrastructure and supporting innovation. We have also invested in making our school system the best in the world for our children, we have invested in health care to make sure the system is there for all when they need it, and we have invested in creating safer communities through not only policing but through progressive programs.

Mr. Speaker, we are proud of these investments. A great example is the town of Okotoks. Our contribution there has grown from $8.6 million to $23 million in 2010. Our partnership with municipalities has paid real dividends. Stable, predictable funding is what is needed to be able to continue building important infrastructure. Our mayors, reeves, and councils have told us this, and we have delivered. Our government works hard every day to help build Highwood communities so that they are able to provide the services we need. Our government's policies have delivered for Highwood. I am proud of what our government's vision has done for Highwood.

Make no mistake, Mr. Speaker; Highwood is and, if I have my way, always will be Tory blue. I can see why the leader of another party would be tempted to parachute into the most progressive and fastest growing constituency in Alberta. But we in Highwood are a tight group, and we look after our own. In the past 76 years all our MLAs are or have been long-time residents of Highwood. The current PC candidate is no different, having lived in High River-Okotoks for 20 years. He knows the issues. His opening line is not: I've been told. I can tell you that the people in Highwood understand that cut and slash, repeal, repeal, repeal is not the answer.

In Highwood we like to live in the best constituency in the best province in the best country in North America. Mr. Speaker, we will keep Highwood blue. To the constituents of Highwood: thank you.

The Speaker: The hon. Member for Rocky Mountain House.

Rural Integrated Community Clerkship for Physicians

Mr. Lund: Thank you, Mr. Speaker. I'm pleased to rise today to highlight the success of the Alberta faculties of medicine rural integrated community clerkship. Dr. Doug Myhre and Dr. Jill Konkin oversee the rural ICC program as it integrates medical students into rural settings to provide a unique learning experience that cannot be duplicated in the cities.

This presents an innovative approach to educating physicians by placing them with experienced rural family physicians for nine months of their third year of medical school at the U of A and the final year at the U of C. The goal of the program is to produce high-quality physicians with a good understanding and holistic approach to an undifferentiated patient. At the same time students participating in this program developed a deeper understanding and appreciation for rural life in general and through this understanding are more likely to return to this setting to practice.

Rocky Mountain House and Sundre are two of the 19 rural communities that host these bright young students for the faculty in Calgary. I would like to take this opportunity to thank the doctors who take on the extra work of being the mentors for these students.

There are 19 communities across the province involved between the two faculties. Our medical schools are active in rural medical education. The rural exposure is a valuable learning experience that cannot be duplicated in the cities. Students are given more exposure to delivering babies, treating wounds, stitching, and counselling those who are terminally ill or who have lost a family member.

Rural ICC is an efficient and effective program that builds on Campus Alberta. Students participate in online learning sessions to support what they learn in their communities. This program started five years ago in Sundre.

The Speaker: The hon. Member for Vermilion-Lloydminster.

Brenda Lee

Mr. Snelgrove: Thank you, Mr. Speaker. Today I want to recognize someone who has been a very good friend of mine, who has been probably the most important person in my political career for the last 11 years. Her name is Brenda Lee, and she started working in the constituency office out in Vermilion 11 years ago and then came to Edmonton about six years ago.

She's an incredible individual who never asked anyone to do what she wasn't prepared to do herself. As you work with people that get to understand each other, sometimes it's said that they know what you're thinking. Well, Mr. Speaker, not only was she able to end the sentences I started; she could read my mind, and sometimes that's quite an interesting event in itself. More importantly, she could read my writing, which is quite an art in itself.

Brenda was never concerned about getting credit for getting things done. She was about getting it done. She treated the people that she worked with with respect, compassion, and understanding. She learned who to talk to in government. More importantly, she learned who to listen to in our constituency. She looked after their concerns, and I can't tell you the hundreds of times I was stopped on the street and thanked for something that I had nothing to do with but that the office had looked after.

Mr. Speaker, it is about relationships. In our office she took everyone under her wing. She wanted them to be all that they could be. She made people better, and it made her proud when they moved on to better positions within government and bettered their lives. She was also concerned about the other things in their lives and, whether it was babies or boyfriends or baseball or birthdays, she had a genuine concern about their lives after government and remains concerned about them today.

3:00

Mr. Speaker, whether I've had success or failure in government, it cannot be said that I have not had the best support possible. Missy Lee was simply the best, and to her husband, my friend Ed, who gave her so kindly for these 11 years, I want to say thank you, too.

I wish her all the very best in what she continues to do, and I can tell you that the people of Alberta have been well served by what she has done over the last 11 years.

Thank you.

The Speaker: Under Standing Order 7(7) I must now advise the Assembly that it is 3 o'clock.

Mr. Hancock: Perhaps the House would agree to unanimous consent to continue the Routine.

The Speaker: Such a request needs unanimous consent. Is anyone opposed to the Routine being concluded? If so, say no.

[Unanimous consent granted]

Tabling Returns and Reports

The Speaker: The hon. Member for Calgary-Glenmore.

Mr. Hinman: Thank you, Mr. Speaker. I have some petitions – but they didn't qualify, so they're tablings – from four more companies that are very concerned with the Alberta government and Industry Canada audit for funding CCI Wireless. The parameters of the goal of the Alberta government were to ensure that areas that were not receiving broadband Internet would. This company has received $30 million in order to put up towers in rural Alberta, but they're putting out aggressive advertisements saying that they'll buy back the other ones. They're concerned . . .

The Speaker: This is tablings.

Mr. Hinman: Yup. So I'll table these four more companies: SIS Systems, First Nations Technical Services Advisory Group, Whitecourt Communications, and Leon's Cat Service in Mayerthorpe.

Thank you.

The Speaker: The hon. Deputy Premier.

Mr. Horner: Thank you, Mr. Speaker. Earlier today in question period I made reference to an e-mail exchange from the hon. Member for Airdrie-Chestermere, requesting that the executive from the Athabasca University purchase tickets to the Wildrose Party Danielle Smith dinner, February 29, 2012, so just very recently. It talks about how the reception . . .

The Speaker: Okay. We're dealing with tablings.

Mr. Horner: I have the requisite five copies.

The Speaker: Thank you.

The hon. Minister of Education. [interjections]

Mr. Lukaszuk: I just couldn't believe what I'm hearing from the Deputy Premier.

The Speaker: Okay. Then somebody else.

Go, go, go.

Mr. Lukaszuk: Mr. Speaker, I'd like to table a number of letters in support of the passage of Bill 2. One is from the Alberta School Councils' Association, saying that this is a very solid piece of legislation that needs to be passed.

Another one is a media availability release by ASBA, urging the passage of Bill 2, the Education Act.

Another one is from the Public School Boards' Association of Alberta, their release as well.

The last one is from the Alberta Teachers' Association, urging all members of this Assembly to work collaboratively and pass the bill.

Thank you.

Mr. Hehr: Well, my first tabling is for the Leader of the Official Opposition. It's regarding his question in question period, and it's an article from the CBC where Alberta colleges and universities made illegal donations to the Tories. I have the requisite number of copies here.

I also have some tablings in regard to my question regarding the practice of families being chased down by bill collectors regarding unpaid school fees. I have reports from the Wetaskiwin regional public schools, Buffalo Trail public schools, Grande Yellowhead public school division, Elk Island public schools, and Parkland school division, all of which outline that practice, which has been in play for 10 years in this province.

The Speaker: The hon. Member for Calgary-Varsity.

Mr. Chase: Thank you, Mr. Speaker. I'm tabling a further 20 e-mails, out of the hundreds I've received, from the following individuals who are seeking the preservation of the Castle wilderness and who believe that clear-cutting will damage the ecology, watershed, wildlife, and natural species and must be prohibited at all costs: Katherine Massam, Carl French, Maggie McBride, Sondra Oppedisano, Marc Barrette, William Prouten, Eric Burr, Peter J. Gauthier, Nicholas Read, Andrew Furlong, John Mynott, Randall White, Christine McLaughlin, Beth Ross, Lynn Shauinger, Mary Kelly, Alex O'Neil, Wendy Dionne, Cate May Burton, and Richard Clemens.

Thank you, Mr. Speaker.

The Speaker: The hon. Member for Edmonton-Gold Bar.

Mr. MacDonald: Yes. Thank you very much, Mr. Speaker. I have two tablings today. The first series of tablings is the order in council that was discussed at the Members' Services Committee yesterday. This order in council rescinds Order in Council 240/2008 and Order in Council 606/2009, and they are regarding cabinet policy committees.

The second tabling that I have is some more information on the AIMCo Christmas party. This is the fourth annual magical holiday extravaganza, and I would urge all hon. members to have a squint through this.

Thank you.

The Speaker: The hon. Member for Edmonton-Strathcona.

Ms Notley: Thank you, Mr. Speaker. I have five tablings today. First, we have a bill from Wanda Webster of Stettler. For January 2012 her electricity energy charges were $730.72.

My second tabling is from Patricia Withers of Calgary, who also sent in her Enmax bill from January 2012, where her charges were $298.12.

My third is from Irene Froese of Camrose county. She had an electricity bill in the amount of $338 in February 2012.

Finally, my fourth is from Andre Gelineau of Berwyn, who had electricity charges in January 2012 in the amount of $203.91.

In addition, Mr. Speaker, I would like to table a compilation and the appropriate number of copies of 180 additional electricity bills, including 18 e-mails and 17 letters.

Thank you.

Tablings to the Clerk

The Clerk: I wish to advise the House that the following documents were deposited with the office of the Clerk. On behalf of the hon. Mr. VanderBurg, Minister of Seniors, responses to questions raised by Mr. Chase, hon. Member for Calgary-Varsity, Mrs. Forsyth, hon. Member for Calgary-Fish Creek, and Ms Notley, hon. Member for Edmonton-Strathcona, on February 21, 2012, Department of Seniors main estimates debate.

On behalf of the hon. Mr. Denis, Solicitor General and Minister of Public Security, responses to questions raised by Mr. MacDonald, hon. Member for Edmonton-Gold Bar, and Mrs. Forsyth, hon. Member for Calgary-Fish Creek, on March 5, 2012, Department of Solicitor General and Public Security main estimates debate.

On behalf of the hon. Dr. Morton, Minister of Energy, responses to questions raised by Mr. Hehr, hon. Member for Calgary-Buffalo, Mr. Mason, hon. Member for Edmonton-Highlands-Norwood, and Mr. Hinman, hon. Member for Calgary-Glenmore, on February 22, 2012, Department of Energy main estimates debate.

The Speaker: Hon. members, yesterday the hon. Deputy Speaker was in the chair when a purported question of privilege was raised in the Assembly and a debate ensued with it. I am going to remove myself from the chair at this point in time and invite the hon.

Deputy Speaker to come forward and provide his ruling on this matter.

[The Deputy Speaker in the chair]

Privilege

Obstructing a Member in Performance of Duty

The Deputy Speaker: Well, as the Speaker said, yesterday afternoon while I chaired the Assembly, there was a question of privilege raised. I allowed several members representing each party to bring their points forward on the subject matter. I listened to those points attentively and at length. Today as the chair I am prepared to rule on the purported question of privilege raised by the hon. Member for Airdrie-Chestermere yesterday, March 20, 2012.

To put it briefly, the purported question of privilege is that the hon. Minister of Education interfered with the member's ability to perform his duties or interfered with his ability to perform his parliamentary work by making certain comments during a telephone conference with people other than the member on March 19, 2012.

The hon. Member for Airdrie-Chestermere provided notice to the Speaker's office at 11:22 yesterday morning before he raised the matter in the Assembly, so the requirements of Standing Order 15(2) were met.

3:10

The hon. member raising the purported question of privilege read in the Assembly yesterday the exchange that the hon. minister had with an individual in a March 19 teleconference, as found on page 677 of Alberta Hansard. The minister's statement was:

You know what? I'm really itching to say it, so I will, even though I know I shouldn't, but the first thing you can do is, actually, in Airdrie call your MLA and ask him not to oppose me in the Legislature every day on considering new ways for funding infrastructure because, you know, that really is the problem.

In his comments the hon. Minister of Education referred to a later part of the conversation with the same person. The minister indicated, at page 680 of the March 20 Alberta Hansard, that the parent asked how the minister's relationship with the Member for Airdrie-Chestermere affected parents in the community and the need for extra schools, to which the minister responded: "Not at all."

In his argument yesterday the hon. Member for Airdrie-Chestermere cited the House of Commons Procedure and Practice, 2nd edition, page 108, where it states: "Speakers have consistently upheld the right of the House to the services of its Members free from intimidation, obstruction and interference." Speakers of the Canadian House of Commons have said in this regard that it is necessary to review the effect the incident or event had on the member's ability to fulfill his or her parliamentary responsibilities. As stated on page 111 of the same book: "If, in the Speaker's view, the Member was not obstructed in the performance of his or her parliamentary duties and functions, then a prima facie breach of privilege cannot be found." Page 109 of the same text states: "While frequently noting that Members raising such matters have legitimate grievances, Speakers have consistently concluded that Members have not been prevented from carrying out their parliamentary duties."

Hon. members may also wish to refer to a December 13, 2011, ruling by the Speaker of the Canadian House of Commons concerning possible interference in a member's duties by an organized telephone campaign survey concerning an impending by-election that was not actually planned. This ruling is found at pages 4396 to 4398 of the Commons Debates for that day. Speaker Scheer quoted his predecessor in finding that there was no prima facie question of privilege. In this regard he quoted Speaker Fraser at page 4397, who stated:

Past precedents are highly restrictive . . . and generally require that clear evidence of obstruction or interference with a Member in the exercise of his or her duty be demonstrated in order to form the basis for a claim of a breach of privilege.

In this case in our Assembly, strictly on the context of parliamentary work of our members, the chair cannot see how the minister's comments would constitute a clear threat to the member performing his parliamentary duties so as to constitute intimidation or molestation. The minister never indicated that the constituency would be deprived of funding should the member continue asking questions. The chair does not even find that there was a threat made and, certainly, no threat to the member.

Accordingly, the chair finds that the member's ability to fulfill his parliamentary duties has not been interfered with and, therefore, there is no prima facie question of privilege. That concludes this matter.

Orders of the Day Government Bills and Orders Committee of the Whole

[Mr. Cao in the chair]

The Chair: The chair shall now call the committee to order.

Bill 2 Education Act

The Chair: The committee will continue on amendment A6 of Bill 2, the Education Act. The hon. Member for Edmonton-Strathcona.

Ms Notley: Okay. I just wanted a chance to get up on this briefly. I'm not going to belabour this point because I think this discussion has been worked through at some length. However, when I saw this particular amendment, I needed an opportunity to rise and to articulate my concern with this amendment and what I think may be being attempted through this amendment.

What this amendment proposes to do is to amend section 16 of the Education Act and to remove from it reference to the Charter and reference to the human rights code. It's been my view all along or my suspicion, I guess – either/or – that really what was going on with the use of the references to the Charter and to the human rights code in section 16 was that it was an ease of drafting, for lack of a better term, by the people that wrote the legislation. In particular, rather than enumerating the particular grounds through which everyone believes they should have access to equal treatment, we would just make it simpler, and we would reference the principles of the Charter and reference the principles of the human rights code, and then the idea is that we would honour and respect them.

It doesn't mean that suddenly the Charter and all its various and sundry processes and enforcement mechanisms would suddenly fall into the Education Act because, of course, the provincial piece of legislation has no ability to amend a federal constitutional statute. It also doesn't mean that the human rights code would suddenly be amended by virtue of a different piece of legislation simply because it says that we're going to honour and respect it.

Rather, they were simply trying to incorporate all those principles which are reflected in those two very important and worthwhile documents.

The amendment that's being provided here is to very much limit the principles that are otherwise included in those two documents, the Charter and the human rights code. So this amendment would suggest that, of course, we would have education programs offered and instructional materials used in schools that would do the following: they would not promote racial or ethnic superiority or persecution – well, that's great – they wouldn't promote religious intolerance or persecution, and they wouldn't promote social change through violent action or disobedience of laws.

What, of course, is excluded from that is promotion of, say, superiority on the basis of gender. We don't include in that the protection from education that would promote superiority on the basis of sexual orientation. We don't include in that the notion that we would ensure that our kids understood that people should be free from persecution on the basis of someone's view of superiority on the basis of disability.

There are some serious grounds, some serious concepts included in the human rights code and the Charter which ought to be included as something that we would honour and respect in our Education Act, which are included in the current version of the act, which are not included in this section. It's quite a significant attempt to exclude a number of very important issues. I have some concerns about that, Mr. Chairman, and I'm not quite sure why the member, who's typically, you know, fairly able to read the legislation, would want to exclude all those other important grounds from being honoured and respected in the course of administering the Education Act.

3:20

Now, I'd like to read a couple of comments that were sent to me, Mr. Chairman, by a constituent of mine. I hope that you'll allow me the opportunity to do that. It's a letter, and it's a rather long letter. I'm going to try and take the principle excerpts from it. Sort of a little ways into it, it commences with:

The Canadian Charter of Rights and Freedoms is enforceable against the government only. Any argument that a vague statement in a provincial piece of legislation (to "honour & respect the Canadian Charter of Rights and Freedoms") would alter this is ridiculous. Both the Meech Lake and Charlottetown accords attempted to amend the Charter and were unsuccessful. This is because the formula for amending it is very difficult to meet. No province, even if it stated it outright, would be able to change the Charter. Therefore, the Charter of Rights and Freedoms is only used to protect individuals from the actions of the government – not the other way around! The Charter of Rights and Freedoms protects individuals' freedom of expression, freedom of religion and equality rights (to name a few). I don't have a problem teaching these basic & fundamental values to my children. As well, despite these homeschoolers' complaints about the Charter, ironically, if any school board interfered with a homeschooling parent's freedom of religion, that same parent could make a complaint for protection under the Charter.

The Alberta Human Rights Act protects individuals from discrimination during employment (both while employed and when looking for a job), discrimination when obtaining goods and services (like sitting down to a meal in a restaurant), discrimination when trying to find a place to live, and from discriminatory signs and posters. I believe that all human beings have a right to be free from discrimination and I have no problem including these values in our home. My daughter, Aisling, is reading "Claudette Colvin: Twice Toward Justice", a book about a black teenager in the southern United States who fought for the right to sit at the front of the bus . . . At no time has the government proposed amending the Human Rights Act to include more instances than [those] outlined above. To suggest that the Education Act can somehow change another piece of legislation by a vague statement is again, ridiculous.

The letter goes on, Mr. Chairman, to say:

Frankly, I can see no further powers given by this section. In fact, I think school boards have always had the power to interfere with parents homeschooling their children and they still have these rights. I do not see anything new [here]. If a parent is teaching a child racism and hatred, I don't have a problem with a school board intervening.

Finally, she concludes:

We should not blindly believe what they are saying is true just because they push it under the banner of "Homeschoolers' Rights." I, for one, am embarrassed by the reaction of some homeschoolers to object to abiding by the basic and fundamental rights and freedoms that are the foundation of our democracy and what make Canada a decent place to live.

Mr. Chairman, this letter came to me from a constituent, Jacqueline Devlin, who has a law degree, is a legal studies professor, is a home-schooler, and is, in fact, the president of the Home-based Learning Society of Alberta.

She really very much wanted me to read this letter because she wanted people to understand that the positions that have been advocated and the interpretations around the Education Act are not ones that are widely held by the majority of the home-schooling community and that, in fact, most home-schoolers are quite concerned that people would suggest that they would object to teaching the principles found in our human rights code and in our Charter of Rights and Freedoms to their children because they see those as two fundamental documents which outline values that all Canadians believe in and that we find as a source of commonality while at the same time respecting diversity of opinion and beliefs. We know that there are some very fundamental beliefs that we share.

I really felt that it was important to put that on the record so that people understand that there is diversity, indeed, within the home-schooling community, and there's a diversity of opinion on this act. There's also a strong diversity of opinion about the alleged implications of the language in this act. Quite frankly, I've found a lot of the discussion around this up to now to be somewhat surreal and, really, a bit ridiculous because, certainly, my view from the very beginning was exactly like that of Ms Devlin's.

You cannot use a provincial education act to change another act without stating so specifically. Both the human rights code and the Charter of Rights have very specific applications and specific implications, and you can't change that without changing them. All this act does is that it says that we're going to honour and respect the following concepts, the following ideas. The statement "honour and respect" is simply a statement. It is not an enforcement mechanism. It is not a criteria upon which somebody comes in and scoops your kids away from you and forces them to go into school. It's nothing like that. It's simply a motherhood statement, and it's a motherhood statement that was made with reference to two documents that presumably the vast majority of Canadians automatically hold to be true and care about and believe that it's almost a given that we would want these to govern the way we conduct ourselves day in and day out. I think that's an important point to make.

On the amendment itself, as I've said, the very act of replacing the language that is in there now, the reference to the code, the reference to the Charter with the much, much, much more limited grounds that are proposed cause me some concern because there are very significant – significant – grounds upon which people need to be treated equally that are not included in the listing that is provided in this amendment. I think that their absence speaks volumes. We should be very concerned about that. Under no circumstances would I ever see supporting an amendment that would replace the statement that we should honour and respect the principles included in our human rights code and our Canadian Charter of Rights and Freedoms and replace that with a much, much more limited set of principles that are included in this amendment.

On behalf of the NDP caucus we will not be supporting this amendment. We do otherwise support the inclusion and maintenance of section 16 in the act as it currently reads.

Thank you, Mr. Chairman.

The Chair: The hon. Member for Calgary-Varsity.

Mr. Chase: Thank you very much for this opportunity to discuss amendment A6 that deals with section 16. I'll just read it into the record for those of us who have just seen it for the first time. My hon. colleague from Airdrie-Chestermere moves that Bill 2, the Education Act, be amended by striking out section 16 and substituting the following:

Respect

16 Education programs offered and instructional materials used in schools must not promote or foster doctrines of racial or ethnic superiority or persecution, religious intolerance or persecution, social change through violent action or disobedience of laws.

I very much appreciate what the hon. Member for Edmonton-Strathcona said with regard to the number of potentially allowable persecution situations such as the persecution of transgendered individuals. Also, the limitation in schools: we heard today in question period and previously in statements that the Education minister has said that parents have the right to teach whatever, whenever, regardless of the Alberta curriculum. This respect limits the notion of respect to just the school circumstance.

In other words, even though it's a selected few areas that schools must not promote or foster, it doesn't suggest that these are universal values. In other words, is it acceptable, then, to "promote or foster doctrines of racial or ethnic superiority or persecution, religious intolerance or persecution, social change through violent action or disobedience of laws" at home? Is this a parent's right to bring up a little Aryan, for example, that has no respect for other individuals' beliefs?

I respect parental rights, Mr. Chair, but when I listened to Global News covering the rally that was held on the steps of this Legislature and a child being interviewed expressing fear that she was going to be ripped out of her home and forced into a public school education system, it brought back the whole concern of residential schools. I sure hope we've learned our lesson about going after a minority group – in this case it was First Nations – possibly with the best of intentions but unfortunately with heavy religious overtones, trying to force them into a larger perspective.

3:30

Now, for home-schoolers I hope that we learned our lesson about going after minorities and trying to force them to conform, actually sending out police forces to capture their children and force them into residential schools, where for a great extent cultural genocide was the order of the day. Their braids were cut. There was an attempt to turn them into little white kids. If home-schoolers in 2012 believe that the government or the public system or the police forces are going to kick down their doors and instruct what they are to teach and potentially how they are to interpret other pieces of literature such as the Bible, the Quran, or any other document that they hold dear, then that's a bigger worry than what either Bill 2, the Education Act, or this very limiting amendment addresses.

This amendment would suggest to me that while schools are not to promote or foster, there's nothing in it that says that schools can't tolerate it. They may not initiate the discussion of bullying on the basis of superiority, or they may not have written doctrines that foster one group being superior to another, but there is an expectation, particularly in the public schools, I would suggest, that automatically would, based on higher forms of legislation, as the hon. Member for Edmonton-Strathcona pointed out, whether it's the United Nations universal declaration of human rights, whether it's our Charter of Rights, or our provincial Charter. So to try and best those well-established universal principles by a short addition such as amendment A6, which limits the type of persecution that is tolerable and talks about it only in a school setting, doesn't achieve the needs that I see in terms of protecting human rights.

Now, where I'm concerned, too – and it's funny. I think it was the hon. Minister of Education or a government individual who said that if so many groups are opposed to this legislation, then we probably got it right. Well, I don't believe in the worst-of-averaging principles. Home-schoolers are afraid that their rights are going to be interrupted, interfered with. How that would happen, I'm not sure. As far as I know, we haven't reached the George Orwellian state of 1984, where we have children tattle on their parents as to what they're being taught and then the parents are subsequently arrested.

I realize that we have cameras that indicate traffic flows and so on. But as far as I'm aware, parents shouldn't have to worry about that light pole out in front of their house having a camera that not only peers into their house to determine what they're teaching but records their comments. I mean, if we're at that state of paranoia, as I've argued earlier on, then these little amendments aren't going to give parents the security they need to feel the rights of freedom of assembly, the freedom of religion, the freedom of expression. It's those fears that have to be dealt with.

Then, Mr. Chair, on the other end of this are fears that I've expressed, having been a public school teacher for 34 years, that a student might pop up in the midst of an impromptu discussion and cause that discussion to come to a rather quick halt because it had to do with sexual orientation, sexual education, or it could potentially be interpreted as having a religious overtone.

Now, Mr. Chair, these are potentially two opposite extremes, but because there is worry from the public school system and there is worry from the home-schoolers, neither of these groups' concerns, no matter whether it's the minority of home-schoolers or the majority of public school parents and students, have been effectively addressed within Bill 2, the Education Act.

The hon. Member for Edmonton-Centre pointed out the confusion associated with Bill 44 and trying to overlap a bill that talked about human rights and including it in the Education Act. She offered an amendment that would have at least attempted to clarify what forms of discrimination were intolerable and, in the last clause, the business about impromptu discussions being exempt. But at the heart of these matters, whether it's from a public school perspective or from a home-school perspective, is concern over human rights tribunals. As long as human rights tribunals with quasi-judicial powers exist, in theory to protect and uphold human rights, then the individuals who are most worried about having their human rights encroached upon are going to continue to have a concern. The proper place for human rights to be upheld and promoted beyond a doubt is in the public school system, but it's the courts that should be enforcing it, not quasi-judicial human rights tribunals. This is at the heart of the matter that is causing such concern and cannot be resolved within the Education Act.

Thank you, Mr. Chair, for allowing me to participate in the debate over amendment A6, which in itself is limited in the type of bullying that is not being promoted or fostered, limited in the location of the type of prejudicial activities that are not being allowed or promoted. Attempting to rewrite the Charter of Rights and to create a little précis, or summary, in the form of A6 has obviously failed, and I think you will see that in this House it fails as well.

The Chair: The hon. Member for Airdrie-Chestermere.

Mr. Anderson: Thank you very much, Mr. Chair. I look forward to the discussion today. I want to say up front that it is the intention of the Wildrose caucus today to see this bill passed in Committee of the Whole and to vote on these amendments and others and, hopefully, tonight pass third reading of the Education Act. There are a lot of very good things in this act, a lot of fantastic improvements with regard to bullying but also with regard to charter schools and other very good issues that are dealt with in this act.

I'm going to on behalf of our caucus give a few remarks on this amendment, and then, hopefully, we can move on quickly. We have another amendment that I'd speak to briefly, and I know that there's another member here with another couple of amendments. But I hope that the hon. members across the way will support us in making sure that this bill has passed Committee of the Whole today and third reading tonight so that we can get this act into force and effect.

3:40

Now, of course, there are several issues and problems with this act. That's why we're bringing amendments. A Wildrose government, if elected after the next election, will ensure that these amendments or ones that essentially do the exact same thing will be brought forward immediately upon taking office if that is the case. But we see no reason to delay further the good parts of this bill, which are, you know, 95 per cent or 99 per cent of it, which is good. So let's pass this, and then we can come back after, and should the people of Alberta give some different folks an opportunity to govern this province, then that is our commitment to the people of Alberta.

There have been some interesting things said. You know, one of the things I had an opportunity to do, obviously, was to go to law school. I was a baby lawyer when I became an MLA. I had only practised for about a year, actually, so it was an interesting experience. It was a very interesting experience also in law school. I think I was just a pretty average student, but one subject that I absolutely loved was constitutional law. In fact, the one and only academic highlight of my career in law school was that I was able to receive the Merv Leitch scholarship for having the top grade in the University of Alberta constitutional class. That was something I worked very hard for. The reason that I did is because of a passion that I feel for the Charter of Rights and Freedoms and for those liberties and protections that are afforded there. I loved it. I loved talking about it. I loved researching it, debating it. It's a fascinating document, you know.

Although I don't agree with every interpretation of everything that's ever been said by the Supreme Court on the subject, I found that the vast majority of their rulings have strengthened the Charter, with a few exceptions. So I'm a huge fan of the Charter of Rights and Freedoms, and I think every Albertan should be a huge fan of that document and, of course, also the Alberta Bill of Rights, which is essentially, you know, not as supreme as the Charter of Rights and Freedoms, but it's the same ideas that are a part of it.

Now, we must be very careful not to get things confused here. The Charter of Rights and Freedoms and the Alberta Bill of Rights are fantastic documents that we in the Wildrose and I'm sure everyone in this House completely support and are happier there. As has been mentioned, many of our rights are in there and are protected. Parental rights, for example, are in the Human Rights Act, something that I had a small hand in helping out with to make sure that they got in there a couple of years ago. So it's something that I very much support, a lot of what's in that act; in fact, most of what's in that act.

I'll talk about section 3 a little bit. I don't support section 3 of the Human Rights Act – of course, that's been debated hotly – because I think it's an infringement on free speech, but that's debatable and so forth. But the body of the document, most of the document, I'm in complete agreement with and want to see those rights completely upheld.

The problem that we have over here on this side of the House is not with the Charter of Rights and, certainly, not with the Alberta Bill of Rights. The problem we have over here is with how portions of the Alberta Bill of Rights have been interpreted by the Alberta human rights tribunals and how they have been adjudicated, how issues of human rights have been adjudicated in these human rights tribunals. That is the issue that we have, not the Bill of Rights, not the Charter of Rights, but how certain things have been interpreted by the human rights tribunals.

As the Member for Edmonton-Strathcona has said earlier, every document that we pass as a government is subject to scrutiny under the Charter of Rights. It's already under scrutiny. But that's not what this act says. Let's review what this act says.

Ms Notley: The human rights tribunal has no jurisdiction in this.

Mr. Anderson: I said the Charter of Rights. [interjection] She's very distracting sometimes, that member.

In Bill 2 there are a couple of provisions. Obviously, there's section 16, which we're talking about here, which says:

All courses or programs of study offered and instructional materials used in a school must reflect the diverse nature and heritage of society in Alberta, promote understanding and respect for others and honour and respect the Canadian Charter of Rights and Freedoms and the Alberta Human Rights Act.

There are some interpretations of certain clauses in the Alberta Human Rights Act and in the Charter that are not universally accepted. I know that's amazing to think, but some interpretations have not been universally accepted by all Canadians. There are Canadians out there that have differences and disagreements with some of the rulings that the Supreme Court and human rights tribunals, especially, have found on interpreting some of these rights. That's normal in a democracy, and it's okay. In fact, even the Supreme Court believes that's normal, and they protect it.

I've said numerous times that under the protections of free speech and freedom of religion, they allow for that and they accept it as part of what they're doing. They know that there are different views about how they've ruled on certain things. That doesn't take away from the binding force of the law, of course, when they make a ruling on interpreting a Charter right. But the members of the Supreme Court would be the very first people in line to say that they would never think to impress upon other individuals their interpretation of the Charter of Rights and Freedoms. Other people are able to disagree with them and think and feel in opposition to what they've said and so forth. And some people do. I wouldn't say a majority do, but some people do with certain interpretations of the Charter, and certainly the tribunals under the Alberta Human Rights Act have varying opinions. And that's okay. That's been stated on the other side. Everyone knows that.

Here lies the problem. In this act it says under section 16 that all courses or programs of study offered and these materials, et cetera, must reflect the nature and promote understanding and respect for these two documents. This is the fear. I'm expressing the fear of parents. They fear that there are people out there in the educational fields that will use this as a way to impose their way of thinking or impose a certain agenda on them, something that goes against their faith, something that goes against their beliefs. That's the fear. That's what they fear.

We can all stand here and say: oh, you've got nothing to fear. I don't necessarily fear that myself, but I'm not speaking for myself right now. I'm speaking for thousands of Albertans that are scared about this. We did not bring these concerns up in the Wildrose. We didn't. We were reading the act and we just, kind of: that looks good. But thousands of Albertans across the province wrote, e-mailed, phoned, and they said, "You know, we have a real concern here," so we started looking into it. And you know what? There is a way to interpret this in the way that they fear. I'm not saying that the government ever will, but there is a way to interpret it.

Mr. Chair, how much time do I have left, 10 minutes?

In section 29 under private schools – for example, we have a great private school, AKCS. It's the Airdrie Koinonia Christian school, a great private school. It's a nonprofit private school. Parents make tremendous sacrifices to keep their kids in that school because they believe in a faith-based education.

In section 29 it says:

(4) The Minister may cancel or suspend the registration or accreditation of a private school . . . including AKCS,

(d) if the person responsible for the operation of the private school permits courses, programs of study or instructional materials that do not comply with section 16.

Okay. So what if in a Catholic school or in a private school or in a home-schooling setting there is a parent or a teacher that gives a faith-based or, say, Biblical interpretation of a subject that the Supreme Court or the human rights tribunals have found a different interpretation of, and they say: "We disagree with that interpretation completely; we believe that our faith, what we believe, is the right way," and they teach that to their kids? There is a fear by them that this act could be used, that you could have some overzealous individual with an agenda say: "You know what? You guys in that school can't teach that. You can't teach your faith. You can't teach the morals that you want to permeate the curriculum" or whatever it is. "You can't do that because that doesn't conform with what the Supreme Court has said in X decision or the human rights tribunal has said in Y decision." That's the fear.

3:50

Am I saying that the Minister of Education has any feeling that he wants to do that? No, I'm not. But this is kind of like with landowners. These parents feel scared that down the road this could be used as a sword rather than its intent, which I think is more of a shield. It could be used as a sword to force individuals to teach things that they do not believe, that are bona fide religious beliefs. I think that that is a reasonable fear to have because when you read it, it does sound like that's a possibility.

Do we and do these parents, mind you, support the Charter of Rights and Freedoms, these parents that are writing, these thousands of parents, 2,000 protesting and many thousands more writing? Do they not believe in the Charter of Rights and Freedoms? Do they not believe in the Bill of Rights for Alberta? Of course they do. They feel passionately about it. In fact, they're saying: "Look, protect our freedom of speech and conscience and religion. Protect that." I think that that's a reasonable thing for them to do. They love their rights under the Charter. They love their rights protected under the Bill of Rights. What they're scared of is that these sections will be used as a sword to bring interpretations that they don't agree with on the Charter and on the Bill of Rights into their homes, into their faith-based education systems, and so forth.

We just had an example today. The Grande Prairie Catholic board is going to be protesting Bill 2 on these grounds. So it's not just home-schoolers. It's Catholic boards, and it's certainly independent schools, not all independent schools, but there are many, many, many independent schools that do not want this section passed.

With regard quickly to the – people say, "What is the problem with these human rights tribunals; why do you want section 3 taken out of the Human Rights Act," and so forth. People get confused. They see it on its surface, and they say: "Well, that makes sense. Nobody wants discrimination." Of course nobody wants discrimination. But the problem is that when you don't word things properly and you open them up to broad interpretations, pretty soon that turns into a real problem if you get some activist individual that tries to use that language to make it broader than what it was intended to be. That's been the problem with the human rights tribunals.

I'm going to quote very quickly from the Calgary Herald, Marco Navarro-Genie. This is from the Calgary Herald, March 16.

It isn't only that [the Premier] would be trampling parental rights in pursuit of . . . votes. The crucial issue is that the act subordinates education to the soft totalitarianism of the Alberta Human Rights Commission.

It is difficult to imagine a greater public policy fiasco and a state branch in greater disrepute than human rights commissions. Human rights are essential, but their enforcement by commissions has an appalling record of violating religious liberty, censoring the press and abusing fundamental legal rights of Canadians. Numerous legal malformations afflict the commissions. They lack definition of the terms they use to prosecute citizens; they offer no presumption of innocence; they don't require their investigators to behave ethically and legally; they don't prohibit third-party accusations; they welcome double jeopardy; they don't require speedy procedures; they grant no right to cross-examine accusers; and they provide no procedural safe guards regarding the collection of evidence, entrapment, hearsay and self-incrimination.

While these afflictions alone should be enough to shut human rights commissions down, some people find them politically useful.

That's the problem. These human rights commissions have been used to make interpretations of human rights law that are unconscionable. How can you haul up Bishop Fred Henry and investigate him and rack up tens of thousands in legal bills because he had the audacity to give a sermon to his congregates on Biblical teachings of marriage? Are you kidding me? What do you expect a bishop in the Catholic church to teach? I'm not Catholic. What do you expect him to teach? Of course, he's going to teach the Biblical interpretation. That's his job. That's what he believes in. The Human Rights Commission persecutes this man? Tens of thousands of dollars in legal bills defending him in a kangaroo court? That's the problem, and that's what people are scared of.

We've made our point in the Wildrose, I think, on this issue. We've heard from the Liberals. We've heard from the NDP. We've heard from the PCs. We're more than happy to move on on this. There are four parties in here that could form the government. If we are so lucky to be given that mandate, a Wildrose government would immediately alter the Education Act to protect those fundamental freedoms: freedom of religion and so forth, freedom of conscience and speech. We would do that immediately. But I don't think there's any purpose in debating it longer from our end. We've made ourselves clear.

With that, I hope we can get to calling the question, moving on, and passing a bill that is 99 per cent good. Thank you, Mr. Chair.

The Chair: Any other hon. member on amendment A6?

Seeing none, the chair shall now call the question.

[Motion on amendment A6 lost]

The Chair: We shall go back to the bill. The hon. Member for Edmonton-Strathcona.

Ms Notley: Thank you. It's a pleasure to be able to rise and speak to the Education Act as a whole. A few general comments that I'd like to make and then a couple of specific issues that I'd like to see us address if at all possible. There are certainly some positive things within the bill, which I suspect will go forward and pass this evening. There are some things, however, that I would have liked to have seen that are not fully addressed that I'd just simply like to point out.

First of all, there's good language in here around the issue of bullying. Certainly, the improvement that was made as a result of the amendment that was passed a couple of days ago makes that language even better, so that's good. The concern that I have around the bullying language is that, you know, as with the point that we made earlier today about the elimination of racism, it's all fine to make laws, but you need to provide adequate resources to enforce them.

One of the concerns that I have around this bullying language in the act – well, I don't have a concern; it's good. It's good that it's in the act. But one of the concerns that I hear about from families in the school system as well as with teachers is that the real meat and potatoes around ensuring that we can eliminate and discourage and distract and otherwise refocus kids in the schools away from bullying activity, the real issue there is ensuring that we have adequate resources in our schools to do that work.

If parents are being asked to volunteer their time to oversee what's going on in the school ground during recess and lunch hour, then we cannot expect them to really be able to necessarily always engage in the best practices around keeping children active so that they don't engage in bullying behaviour. In some schools, depending on the nature of the student population, bullying may be more or less likely, and based on the nature of the student population, strategies around preventing bullying will be more or less complex.

They will need additional resources, whether it be additional activities run and managed by teachers and other staff or whether it be just simply oversight. To say that we're going to take care of bullying by putting this principle into the act but then not following it up with adequate resources – adequate teaching resources, adequate staffing resources – it really is another one of these things that the government is famous for: grand statements of intent that lack the adequate resources to follow it up.

That's the little bit of the warning that I would attach to this part of the act. Good intentions, good language, but if we do not provide our teachers and our school staff with the resources to really follow it up and to do the work that's necessary, then it will end up being meaningless.

4:00

Another concern that we have is that the act doesn't deal specifically with school fees. Instead, what we're asked to do is simply wait until after the election. Of course, there's a list as long as my arm, Mr. Chairman, of the number of things that we need to wait for to be addressed by this government after the election, and this is yet one more of those items.

The minister promises us that we'll review school fees. Well, that's great, but there's really no indication of where that's going to end up. All that we know in the meantime is that school fees are growing, and some families can't keep up with them, and children suffer as a result. The equity of our public school system starts to be jeopardized. There ought to be stronger language about that issue in this legislation.

As well, we would have liked to have seen the government move immediately on the issue of full-day kindergarten. We've heard the explanation from the Education minister about the ability to have kindergarten in the building capacity that we have right now. It may well be that in some cases it's not possible immediately, but there's nothing to stop us from phasing it in in those communities that do have the capacity. We heard the minister talk about how the Edmonton public school board has enough capacity to fit the whole Catholic school board inside it – I think that was the language – so clearly in Edmonton, for instance, there is the space. Why are we not perhaps moving forward in September in the places that do have the space? It's not happening, and it's not guaranteed in the act.

School lunches, again, probably not something you'd find in the act but critically important. It would have been nice to have seen some statement in the act as to the understanding that our kids come to school with different resources at their disposal and that in a public education system it's our obligation to ensure that when they sit down at their desk to learn that day, they're all given the same capacity to learn. Just like with the school fees, that is not the case.

One of the big issues that we have spent a lot of time talking about in this Legislature is the issue of public dollars going to private schools. I want to be clear that the NDP is not in support of public dollars going to private schools. I just don't think that that is an appropriate use of our resources.

Now, I would say that what we need to do is phase it out. We shouldn't sever it immediately. We need to phase it out. I do believe that there are some private schools that are receiving public funding that offer special-needs programs and that parents do in some cases struggle mightily to pay the fees for those particular programs. They want to do the best for their kids, and they know that with what's been happening with special-needs funding in our public system, their kids are not going to get the education they need in the public system.

What I would like to see us do is phase it out, phase out public funding of private schools, but make sure that as we're doing that, we are providing the adequate support within the public system, particularly for our special-needs kids. I know that that is a growing area now, private school attendance, because we are not holding up the ball on that issue in our public system as well as we should be, and responsibility for that comes immediately to rest at the government's feet because it's a funding issue.

Finally, there are a couple of changes in this act that we will be proposing amendments on. One of the changes is that the process around closing schools has been amended to essentially ensure that it happens with less oversight and more frequently. It involves the government trying to distance itself from that process because they know that it's an incredibly disruptive and upsetting process for communities across our province. What they want to do is just download all responsibility onto the school boards, but I don't think that should be allowed.

The fact of the matter is that every time a school closes, 85 per cent of the factors that go into that decision for a school to close are factors that are controlled by this provincial government, and they arise as a result of decisions and choices made by this provincial government. Whether we're talking Municipal Affairs, Infrastructure, or Education and whether we're talking about the rights and responsibilities of other levels of government, the provincial government ultimately is the primary decision-maker, so they must retain primary responsibility. We're not happy with the proposal here to download that and make it easier for school boards to react to government decisions that way.

Finally, there's an issue with respect to charter schools, Mr. Chairman. We have some serious concerns around charter schools.

I'm wondering: could you tell me how much time I have left at this point?

The Chair: You have 12 minutes.

Ms Notley: I think what I'm going to do at this point is propose an amendment to Bill 2 that relates to the issue of charter schools, and then I will talk a little bit about some of my concerns in that regard. I'll just sit down for a moment while the amendment is distributed.

The Chair: Yes. We will pause for the distribution of the amendment.

Hon. members, the amendment shall be known as amendment A7.

Hon. member, please continue.

Ms Notley: Thank you, Mr. Chairman. The amendment that I'm proposing is as follows, that Bill 2, the Education Act, be amended by adding the following after section 24(1). It would read as follows:

(1.1) An application may be made to the Minister only if the board of the district or division in which the school is to be established refuses to establish an alternative program under section 19 as requested by the board, person, society or company.

What this amendment is proposing to do is to ensure that this bill retains in it what is often referred to as the right of first refusal by school boards when we're looking at the establishment of charter schools.

Let me just talk a little bit, first of all, about some of the concerns that we have around charter schools, Mr. Chairman. In theory the idea around charter schools was that they were going to be a very unique program that was offered in very limited circumstances to provide education that was innovative and offered up sort of a research/pilot project kind of scenario, and where that research and that pilot project ended up with positive results, the theory was that those teaching methods would be or could be incorporated into the public school system.

What this act does through a variety of different strategies is that it broadens the application and the existence of charter schools. Now, in general, while this principle or this theory around charter schools is potentially laudable, there are concerns around charter schools, Mr. Chairman, that we have seen in other jurisdictions.

First of all, public schools are accountable to the public through their elected school boards, so it's a very open, democratic, transparent process. Any member of the public can attend the vast majority of school board meetings and all that kind of stuff. Charter schools don't have these kinds of boards, so they don't have the same structure of public accountability, yet they are a hundred per cent funded by public dollars. That is a concern.

One of the other things that's going on in this act, that we may not get a chance to address, is simply that charter schools currently have a limited period of time that they can exist without the minister having to extend it. What they're going to do is that they're going to offer these charter schools greater permanence through this new act. My question would be: why do we need to offer them greater permanence? If they're worth while, if it's working, why would we not in fact even give it back to the public or separate school board?

Another issue with charter schools that makes you question whether it's necessary for them to proliferate all over the place is the question: well, if they are supposed to be centres of research and school improvement, why is it that we've just cut the Alberta initiative for school improvement fund by $40 million? On one hand we've pulled back a whole bunch of school improvement funds from the public system, and on the other hand we're going to allow for more charter schools to be set up without consultation with the public school system that will then get public funding.

You know, we're shifting the way we engage in research and innovation, and we're making it less accountable to the public either through the decisions that the provincial government makes or through the school board. That really makes no sense to me.

4:10

With charter schools, since their teachers are not members of the ATA and because the ATA plays a role as a professional body and as a professional compliance body, there are concerns around the professional standards and the policing of professional standards, for lack of a better term, of teachers that work in charter schools. Not to say that there aren't many dedicated teachers working in the charter school system – I would never want to say that – but there's a reason why we have professional associations, with the various mechanisms that are attached to them, and the fact that these teachers are not associated with that should give one some cause for concern.

A 2009 study of charter schools shows that their students on average will perform slightly less successfully than students in public schools.

Then we have the issues around the exclusivity of charter schools. Charter schools receive a hundred per cent of funding, but charter schools tend to have lower numbers of children with special needs and lower numbers of ESL children.

Again, given this background why do we want to massively increase the number of charter schools in our province? It fragments and Americanizes our public school system. In our view, one way to avoid this and to at least keep some ever-so-remote connection to what was the original purpose behind charter schools, when people told us that we ought to give them some consideration, is that we need to keep the role of the charter school connected and linked up to the public school system. This is why the NDP is proposing this amendment, to ensure that the public school boards continue to have the right of first refusal before a charter school is approved by the minister. In that way we ensure the greatest consistency in terms of our overall educational objectives and the overall educational planning that we're engaging in. That's what this would achieve.

We would also ensure that we don't get into a situation where charter schools begin to compete with public schools. That's what we've seen happen in the U.S. There's been a grand proliferation of charter schools. Not only do we lose the consistency of educational objectives and policy and planning, but we actually find that they start to confound each other as they compete with each other for really minor, not-well-thought-out reasons, and there can be a broad variety of them.

We should not be disconnecting the establishment of charter schools from the public school system's ability to exercise a right of first refusal. There can be cases, there may be cases in some situations where public school boards seem to be saying no to charter schools in a way that does not seem to be justifiable, and in those cases the charter school might be appropriate, but you always need to give the public school system the right of first refusal. At the end of the day the public school system is what we are basing the vast majority of the educational resources and investments that we are making as a government into education on. We value our public school system. We value our elected school boards. We value their democracy. We value their accountability. We value their equality. We value their equity. Why would we undercut it by having a proliferation of charter schools? It makes no sense.

I urge members of this Legislature to vote in favour of this amendment so that we reconnect the establishment of charter schools to the rights of school boards to have right of first refusal before a charter school can be established.

Thank you, Mr. Chairman.

The Chair: The hon. minister.

Mr. Denis: Yes. I just wanted to get a few words in on the hon. member's speech on Bill 2, particularly on the amendment that she would have to 24(1) with (1.1), specifically about charter schools. Now, I believe the cornerstone of education in this province is the aspect of choice. Parents, obviously, have the paramount right over their children. There are many different types of children, and as such there also are many different types of education. We have public schools, we have private schools, we have charter schools, we have home-schoolers, and the list goes on. I'm sure I've missed many, but the point is brought.

In my riding there is a charter school, Foundations for the Future Charter Academy. I have attended it many times, and I'm very happy with their particular level of education. They have music programs. They have contextual programs. They have a program every year in which I have had the privilege of participating every November 11 or recently theretofore where they bring veterans in from the local Legion. I'm very impressed with the quality of education there.

I would say to all members of this Assembly that we cannot and should not ever prefer one form of education or another. There are many different types of children, many different types of education, and that is the cornerstone as to why our system is, in fact, so successful.

In dealing with this amendment dealing with charter schools, I don't think charter schools are a bad thing. I don't think charter schools are anything to be feared. Apparently, neither do parents because the wait-lists for some of these charter schools are so significant. If it was a one-size-fits-all approach that, in fact, worked, well, what I would say to members of this Assembly, Mr. Chair, is that then you wouldn't have a wait-list for these particular charter schools.

I think that we are leading the country if not the whole western world in dealing with education. Specifically, as charter schools have seen, they have been an excellent addition to this whole program. I would say to every member here: when you're voting for this amendment, we have to tread very carefully because the charter school experiment here has succeeded. The Minister of Education has mentioned to me many times his proposal, which I fully support, to allow for a 15-year charter. I think that we have a good thing going here. We probably should not tinker with it that significantly.

Those are just my brief comments on this amendment, Mr. Chair. Thank you.

The Chair: Thank you, Minister of Public Security.

The hon. Member for Calgary-Varsity first.

Mr. Chase: Yes. Thank you very much. I do want to point out what this amendment is offering. The hon. Member for Edmonton-Strathcona, who put forward amendment A7, is talking about the first right of refusal. Now, the hon. Solicitor General talked about treading very carefully. What this amendment recognizes is that possibly all needs aren't necessarily being met, and in those cases where they're not being met, then the various groups could ask to have a charter created.

There is a tremendous difference, for example, historically in the Edmonton public and the Edmonton separate school boards and in the Calgary public board of education, that I had my 34 years of teaching experience with. Edmonton public, not necessarily at the beginning but I would suggest certainly in the '70s, recognized that parents were looking for different types of emphases within their schools. Edmonton was probably a leader in the nation for having a variety of schools: schools for the arts, science schools, and so on. So Edmonton public created those niche schools that parents were willing to pay the extra transportation cost to attend.

Now, Calgary was late into the race, and because it was late into the race, there were a number of organizations that did not feel that their specific emphases or needs were being met, and therefore we see a much greater proliferation of charter schools in Calgary. To a significant extent, despite the hon. Solicitor General's comments about waiting lists, which are accurate within the charter school circumstance, Calgary public schools has almost in a reverse osmosis process created a number of niche-type schools to provide parents with those choices.

4:20

One of the niches that I'm most proud of and I've been connected with, most frequently through Remembrance Day, November 11, ceremonies, is Juno Beach Academy. Now, Juno Beach Academy is a full public school that emphasizes the proud military history of the Canadian forces. Those young men and women do a phenomenal job of recognizing their backgrounds in teaching, recognizing the discipline, recognizing the standing up for democratic rights, especially on November 11. Of course, it's not limited to that day, but I have never been to a better organized school assembly, including a number of ones that I've organized myself at a variety of junior highs I've attended, than is put on by the Juno Beach Academy. So Calgary, as I say, is sort of catching up with the niche markets.

There is always a danger of repetition in following members such as the hon. Member for Edmonton-Strathcona, but when the points being made are such that they require echoing, require emphasizing then I hope hon. members of this Assembly will permit me a degree of emphasizing or repetition.

The hon. member talked about rights not only of the students attending the various schools but also of teachers' rights. In the charter schools teachers cannot be full members of the Alberta Teachers' Association and be covered in those charter schools to the extent that they are covered in either the public, the separate, or the francophone school systems, where they have full membership rights. Therefore, organizations that have previously been mentioned by the hon. Solicitor General: I have had individual teachers come to my constituency office and talk about circumstances where their contracts were not renewed for some very questionable reasons. They went through the Alberta Teachers' Association. The discriminatory practices were noted, but the ATA was only able to provide legal counsel to a certain degree because of the fact that they weren't full members of the organization.

Now, as the hon. Member for Edmonton-Strathcona pointed out, charter schools can get away with exclusionary practices. They can exclude individuals based on their IQ. They can exclude individuals based on their language proficiency in English. They can exclude students for ethnic reasons. They can exclude children for religious reasons. Yet the government of Alberta allows these exclusionary schools to receive the 100 per cent funding, per-pupil grant funding, that established public education schools receive. They do it under what I would call the guise of choice. The idea that we would allow schools to discriminate in the negative sense of the word and then pay them the full per-pupil fee to discriminate is not acceptable to me in this province.

As the hon. Member for Edmonton-Strathcona pointed out, if the public system is reaching out and capturing the various needs required, then it's a kind of self-fulfilling prophecy that these charter schools won't gain a footing. But just because every individual who thinks that they have an alternative in mind and proposes a school that reflects that particular alternative and then receives funding with parents only being members of the board – there's no election process; there's no public accountability – get the full funding, then I have a tremendous difficulty with it.

Part of that difficulty, Mr. Chair, comes from the fragmenting of the public system. The public system is held to a higher standard of expectation in terms of academic performances, in terms of inclusionary practices, including special-needs students, English as a second language students. Then what happens is that choice becomes a two-tiered, preferential school system, and the public system's expectations are not equal with the public schools' rights. Their rights are undermined by these exclusionary school practices.

The public system in Calgary, the Calgary board of education did not want to get into fragmenting based on narrow interpretations of religious practices. As a result, the public school system in Calgary would not permit a couple of religious schools to operate in the umbrella of a public school system as a charter school. As a result, what happened was that the Chinook division, that was as much looking for the funding as it was for offering an alternative, has the trusteeship of a couple of geographically based Calgary schools. That's just another example of what happens when the main system has difficulties with exclusionary practices. Those students who receive a hundred per cent of the funding but do not have to follow the same practices of a public system now get the out of being under the Chinook school board.

We have a number of schools that are charter schools. They get the full benefit of the hundred per cent per-pupil grant, and then they're allowed on top of that to charge extra school fees, whether they be school fees or tuition fees. That is tolerated, again, under the guise of choice by this government. If people wish to have alternatives, then I believe they should pay for them.

The parents, when they indicate which school system they support, have their taxes go either to the public or to the separate school. I believe there's obviously a provision for parents whose children go to the francophone system, which is basically the French version of a public school system. I don't have problems with that. But when they get the full funding of per-pupil grants, and then they're permitted to exclude, and then they're permitted to charge fees on top of what a public system would receive, then I have a problem.

People say that mathematically my argument is flawed because if these children, for example, in the private school system were to attend the public school system, then instead of the 75 per cent per-pupil grant, they would be receiving a hundred per cent student grant funding. While that makes sense mathematically, it doesn't make sense in terms of providing a universal education system where all values are recognized and the size of your wallet doesn't determine the size of your class. That has to be taken into account. However, that is not a part of A7, and I certainly don't want to be called on relevance with regard to this amendment.

4:30

I'll conclude, Mr. Chair, by indicating that I believe in the primacy of the public school system. I believe that the same expectations in terms of the rules under which a school is conducted should be applied universally and that charter schools should not be able to have separate charters that basically exclude and discriminate and yet receive the full funding.

I thank the hon. Member for Edmonton-Strathcona for allowing that choice, if it's not provided somehow within a local area, to apply for a charter, but I want to emphasize that the public system historically has reached out, has not put in filters or barriers, and every time an alternative is made easier, with less expectation than a public system, then the public system is eroded.

Thank you, Mr. Chair, for this opportunity to speak on A7, which I will be supporting and which I believe would make the Education Act, Bill 2, more acceptable to a much larger number of individuals.

The Chair: The hon. Minister of Finance on amendment A7.

Mr. Liepert: Thank you, Mr. Chair. There are – I don't know – four or five former ministers of Education sitting in this House. I can't help but believe that each one of them would like to stand up and speak after listening to that particular member. There were so many inaccuracies in what he just said that I'm going to try and address a couple of them, and then I think probably the current minister or one of the former ministers would be happy to continue to ensure that the facts are straight.

As I said, I had the opportunity to be a Minister of Education for a short period of time, and one of things that I was the most proud of was the fact that we had one of the most outstanding education systems in the world, and we continue to have one of the most outstanding education systems. I fundamentally believe the reason that is today is because of the policies that have been in place for, well, several decades now, Mr. Chairman.

I know that this particular member has probably reminded us in this House in the course of his seven and a half years of being elected I'd guess well over a hundred times about his 30-some years as a teacher.

Mr. Chase: Thirty-four.

Mr. Liepert: Thirty-four. That's the number. I was thinking it was 39, but I didn't want to give him too much credit or too much pensionable time. He's reminded us about his 34 years. I often, when I hear that, wonder whether that particular member is standing in this House advocating for education or whether he's advocating for the environment that he taught in for 34 years – I feel that because of the restrictions around our public education system and the role that the ATA plays in the delivery of education – or who he's exactly advocating for, Mr. Chairman.

One of the reasons why this province has such a successful and great education system is because we have allowed choice, and we have encouraged things like the charter school system, which, by the way, is a fully funded part of the public school system and does not discriminate as that member tries to leave that impression on the floor of this House, Mr. Chairman. If, in fact, a student qualifies within the charter of that school, that school must accept that student. So he is wrong. He is leaving the wrong impression when it comes charter schools. He is purposely trying to, I would say – and I don't want to use an unparliamentary term – leave the wrong impression. He's trying to leave the impression that charter schools are private schools, and that's not the right impression to be left on the floor of this House.

You know, at the time I was the minister, I gave an address at the charter schools annual convention, and it still resonates today. I said: the experiment is over. The changes that the Minister of Education has brought forward relative to the 15-year charters demonstrate that this government has recognized that the experiment of charter schools is over. They are a fundamental part of our education system.

I want to listen to the debate, Mr. Chairman, because I'm having difficulty with whether to support this amendment or not. The availability of the charter school has forced the public school system to do things better, but they don't and aren't always going to do everything. I've seen examples in Calgary where the public school system, in order to avoid having a charter school come into the public school system, will try its best to ensure that they deliver that service. It's not always easy to deliver the service. I think in many cases a charter service should be delivered by a charter school, not by the bureaucratic public school system. If we pass this amendment, I see situations where a public school board, unable to deliver what the charter school could deliver as well as the charter school could, will simply say, "Yes, we can deliver that," and will try and will deliver an inferior product.

As my colleague the Solicitor General pointed out, there's a reason why there's a lineup to get into charter schools. It's not, as this member tried to say, because they can discriminate, because they can do this, because they can do that. Charter schools are fully funded. He knows that. But he continues to try and leave the impression that that's not the case, Mr. Chairman.

I'm really a little bit reluctant to give the public school system, the one that has the largely union-dominated teachers' union within the public school system, Mr. Chairman – ensure that we don't have the ability to have charter schools operate within our system.

I would like to also make a few comments because I don't have the opportunity to answer the questions that our good friend the Minister of Education has to answer from our equally good friend from Calgary-Buffalo. I know the Member for Edmonton-Strathcona has the same view because their parties are very, very similar in philosophical beliefs and in attacks and a spend kind of approach to public policy.

You know, the private schools play a very important role in the education system as well. Yes, there is a role for a private school system. This member keeps asking the question: why do we partially fund private schools? Well, I'll tell you that one of the reasons we fund private schools is because it saves the system money. If all of these private schools were to shut their doors tomorrow, the total cost to this government because those children would have to be educated in the public system would be in the hundreds of millions of dollars. That has to go on the record, Mr. Chairman.

I am really not sure that I can support this particular amendment. I know that it's part of what the Member for Edmonton-Strathcona believes. I think her background was as legal counsel for – I can't remember – the ATA or the UNA or one of the unions, Mr. Chairman. Of course, she has some real personal interest in this. I'm interested in hearing the debate. I would like to ensure that we give every educational opportunity in this province. I don't think we should have to give somebody who is maybe not having the best interests of the children at heart the right to veto the approval of a charter school. In this province we have a limit to the number of charters that can be issued. Why can't we say that if it's within the limit, why does it need the approval of the public or the separate school board?

I think we need to think that one through, Mr. Chairman. I will take my seat and try and be convinced otherwise.

4:40

The Chair: The hon. Member for Calgary-Buffalo first.

Mr. Hehr: Well, it's always a privilege to get up and speak in this House. It is always interesting when we have differences of opinion, and that's a good thing, Mr. Chairman, because when we all think alike, no one thinks very much. I'll address this amendment, and then, hopefully, I'll address some of the comments made by the hon. Finance minister and possibly add a few comments of my own if I could.

I guess it's evident from question period and some of my comments that I am concerned about the fracturing of the education system. I don't find it particularly helpful if we have segmented groups or pockets of our population attending a multitude of different schools. If you look at, I believe, the experience of other jurisdictions who see a tremendous amount of fracturing in their education system, this has proven to be detrimental to the overall goals of societal advancement, of teaching in the main the electorate's children. In the vast majority you want to get them as well educated as you can as best you can, which is what the government should try to do.

I also like the fact that in this amendment that the hon. member has put forward, we are trying to enable the public school boards to address the sort of issues that parents may want addressed within the public system. It gives school boards the opportunity to work with a group of parents to see whether this choice can be accommodated because in many cases, in fact, my view is that a public education system that is properly funded, properly structured can provide practically all kinds of choice under the sun. If that were the case, then there would be no need for a private or a charter school. In fact, a public school system could and should and does offer choice.

I do also take some disagreement with some of the comments made. It seems like an awful lot of credit to the success of the Alberta education system as a result of charter and private schools, when, in fact, in the overarching main this credit has to go to our public education system as well as its partners, the teachers, and, yes, the Alberta Teachers' Association. I will remind the hon.

Minister of Finance that 95 per cent of our students attend these institutions and that in large part they're taught by ATA, or union, teachers that provide the bulk of results to, I guess, organizations that evaluate our student body. I think the overarching success of our students as a result of these testing procedures has to be attributed to both our students and our teachers in the public system. It's a misnomer to credit this to a choice system as alleged by the hon. Minister of Finance. I think that has to be clear on the record.

I also find his argument somewhat specious that there isn't going to be a cost savings as a result of private schools shutting down. To believe the hon. minister's supposition, one has to believe that all of the students who currently go to private schools would upon the government ceasing to fund these organizations return to the public system. If you look at that, that is simply not the case. That's not believable in almost any circumstance that you see out there. I'll point out the example, off the top of my head, of Strathcona-Tweedsmuir. The average income for parents sending their child to that school is $374,000. Okay? At $374,000 are they going to have no impetus in keeping their private school going and trotting along as usual and continuing to go forward? So to trot that out as an actual argument is, I think, ludicrous at best.

Furthermore, you know, just because a person is a taxpayer does not entitle your every whim and fancy to be funded. Let's take this case. If a person goes down to the United States and wishes to get medical care, we do not fund that choice to operate outside of our public parameters. That is their choice. This is government accommodation. Okay?

Besides that, the Supreme Court has stated in Adler that because you opt out of the public education system, there is no corresponding right or relationship to the government then sponsoring your select program. So I think the arguments given on cost savings by the hon. minister are specious at best and suspect. Besides, as the current hon. Minister of Education duly noted – and I respect him deeply for this – education is an investment. We should always look at it as an investment and not as a cost, like the hon. Minister of Finance has just done. Trotting out the argument “because it saves money,” if that were a valid case, simply makes no sense in the context of education. Education is an investment by our society, so trotting out an argument on cost savings in regard to that is simply ludicrous at best.

I would like to congratulate the Alberta Teachers' Association, our public teachers, and our public students for providing 95 per cent of the results to have us recognized as an excellent school system. I appreciate them for doing so and recognize them as the largest contributors to this success.

Turning back to the exact amendment, I believe that this is a good amendment. I believe it allows the public school system and our locally elected officials to try and accommodate unique student opportunities that may be out there if they can fit within that system. It keeps people within the public system, which I believe serves the greatest good for our society going forward, and it doesn't fracture our population unnecessarily on the basis of wealth or other arbitrary features that have really, in my view, not a lot of need for government support in the first place.

I thank you for the opportunity to speak on this bill, and I will be supporting the amendment. Thank you.

The Chair: The hon. Minister of Education.

Mr. Lukaszuk: Well, thank you, Mr. Chairman. A pleasure listening to both sides of the dialogue, one furthered by our Minister of Finance and then both members from the Liberal opposition. I have to tell you that as I'm listening to these debates, what we are discussing is something that has existed in this province for dozens of years. This amendment, that the Member for Edmonton-Strathcona brought forward, actually has the exact wording of the previous School Act from 1988, so actually adopting this amendment would mean no change. The status quo from the School Act of 1988 would prevail.

4:50

As I hear these debates, it often seems that we are debating something new, something unconventional, something that's never happened, and something that can cause a lot of hardship to either one side or another. I'm noticing one thing as we continue doing this. I'm hearing from more and more stakeholders in the province saying: "Well, wait a minute. What is it that you're doing? Are you introducing something new? We're concerned around here." The fact is that it becomes abundantly obvious that those who should know this bill verbatim, it appears, may not have read it because, judging from the correspondence and the quantity of it that I'm getting from those who actually should be tasking themselves with knowing what's in this bill and were actually a part of drafting this bill, now they're surprised.

I have to tell you that when I hear the Minister of Finance raising concerns and then the members bringing in information that in some cases, when I speak about the Member for Calgary-Varsity, is nonfactual, I can just hear the printers in my office printing out letters from Albertans saying: "Oh, my God. Now, you're trying something new, something I didn't know about."

Let me speak to this amendment more directly. As all members should know in this House, in the old education act it was agreed that in order for a group of parents to file an application to the Minister of Education's office for a charter, their idea or proposed program had to be dismissed by a local resident public school. So the process looked like this. A group of parents would decide that they want a certain specialized program. That could be focused on a heritage language, it could be focused on arts, it could be focused on culture, it could be focused on science, or it could be focused on mathematics, any aspect of academia. The list goes on and on.

Under the 1988 current legislation, the School Act, that group of parents would have to approach a local school board and say: "There are enough of us to form a program. We would like you to accommodate us and have that program within the public school, be it Catholic or nondenominational." That school board was then given the opportunity and reasonable time to review the proposal to look at the demographics, look at the number of children, look at the viability of the program, look at the costs associated, whatever the case may be, and the board was given an opportunity to decide whether they want to encapsulate that program within the provision of public education in that school board or not. If the school board said yes, then that meant they would develop a local program, often with assistance from Alberta Education if required, and then they would retain the staff that was required to instruct that particular program, with the expertise that the program required, and life would go on. Children would receive that type of education in a public setting.

A good example, Mr. Chairman, would be certain language programs in both Edmonton and Calgary, for example, that I'm very familiar with, where a number of parents approached a school board and said: "We would like you to offer 30 per cent of curriculum instruction in a given language. Could you accommodate us? There are enough children in this town that we can actually keep your school filled, and maybe some other cultural aspects could be implemented into the curriculum." The school board approves it. Recently I attended a 30-year anniversary with the Edmonton public school board of the Arabic program in Edmonton, that is enjoying great success in a number of schools within the Edmonton public school board.

Now, if the decision of the Edmonton public school board or any other school board, for that matter, was, "No; we don't see value in this program" or "We don't have the resources to offer the program" or "We don't see that you have enough students to make the program viable" or "We don't have the expertise within our staffing component to be able to develop and instruct that program" – the list may go on and on – then that school board would provide a letter of rejection and say that, no, they are not interested in accommodating your particular request. That letter of rejection would trigger, would allow that group of parents, if they choose to – they don't have to do it – to apply to the Minister of Education and ask for a charter.

Now, the department would also look at the viability of the program, whether they have a business case to run that charter. We look at facilities and other aspects of it. But if, indeed, it turns out to be a viable program and as a stand-alone program it can exist, a charter would be issued to that school.

Mr. Chairman, I have to thank the Member for Edmonton-Strathcona. We spent some time discussing this, and this amendment brings us back to the way things were when they seemed to work very well. We didn't have issues. School boards always were given the first opportunity of refusal. They always had the ability to provide a program within their own means. Where they didn't, parents successfully have been granted charters.

At the end of the day it's a small number of charter schools that we have, and they have a limited number of students that they can accommodate within a charter. We have recently, as you know, Mr. Chairman, actually expanded their ability relative to their permanence because they used to have to reapply every five years and convince the minister's office that, indeed, it still is a viable program. Now they will only have to do this once every 15 years. We have also allowed them to grow into space because some charters simply allowed fewer students in the charter than the school building would actually accommodate, so we allowed them to grow into the space. Some charter schools actually have quite extensive waiting lists. They tend to be popular among some parents in certain programs.

Now, if we were to adopt this bill, we would revert to 1988. We would allow parents to formulate charters but only – only – if they were refused by a local resident public school, giving public schools the first right of refusal. Why do we do that? I know that some parents in the charter schools now might be saying: "Oh, my gosh. Our right and ability to formulate charters will somehow be diminished." No. It'll be exactly the same as it was. But it is important for us, for Albertans, who are big supporters of public education, to give public school boards the first right of refusal and to support public education that way and allow school boards, elected school board trustees, to have the ability to implement a program.

Mr. Chairman, I want to reassure all those who are listening to our debate right now and are prospectively typing up letters saying, "Please do not (a) open the season on charter schools or (b) get rid of charter schools" that none of that is happening.

This debate on this particular amendment is only about the fact that the Member for Edmonton-Strathcona wishes to preserve the status quo relative to charter schools. She wants charter schools to exist in the format that they have, where public school boards are given the first right of refusal. I strongly support adopting this particular amendment and voting in favour of it and passing it.

Thank you very much.

The Chair: The hon. President of the Treasury Board.

Mr. Horner: Thank you, Mr. Chairman. I rise because it's one of the first opportunities that I've had to speak on the bill and also that I have had a lot of discussions with my constituents over this bill. As I see it, this is the first time I've seen this amendment.

Mr. Chairman, I want to start off by saying that I'm a big supporter of the public school system – I went to a public school; my kids went to a public school – but I'm also a big supporter of the charter system, the private system, and the choice that we have within our system for parents to make that choice. I was very pleased with the change in the amendment to the preamble that recognizes that parents have a right to choose the religious and ethical traditions in which their children are raised;

That's very important to me.

that a child's education begins in the home;

That is very important to me.

that parents play a foundational role in the moral and spiritual formation of their children;

I think it goes without saying.

and that these principles are reflected in the commitment of the Government of Alberta to provide parents with choice in education, including public schools, separate schools, Francophone schools, charter schools, private schools and home education programs.

I'm going to make a few comments, and I'd ask the hon. member that if she has an opportunity to respond, perhaps with answers, it may change the way I'm going to vote on the amendment.

I actually have before me the old act, which in section 31(2) says, "An application may be made to the Minister only if the board of the district or division in which the school is to be established refuses to establish an alternative program under section 21." Your amendment basically mirrors that, I believe, more or less. It was there, obviously, for a purpose before. It was there to ensure that we weren't doing a lot of duplication, as has been brought up in the House already. It was there to ensure that our funding mechanisms are fair to all taxpayers and to all concerned.

Then I read what is in the current act, which is:

- (1) A board, person, society or company may apply to the Minister for the establishment of a charter school.
- (2) An application must be in the form and contain the information prescribed by the regulations.

I see that in the old act. Again, 31(3) is:

An application must be in the form and contain the information prescribed by the regulations.

5:00

Then there's section 32, which talks a lot about that the school should have

- (a) . . . significant support from the community in which it is to be located,
- (b) the program to be offered by the school will potentially improve the learning of students as it is measured . . .
- (c) the program to be offered by the school is not already being offered.

I'm actually thinking, Mr. Chairman, about a number of places where I know of schools that, perhaps, might be on a military base: very, very focused on the families of our military personnel serving overseas. You know, there's a special situation for children of our military personnel because they do move around a fair bit. They are almost a family unto themselves in terms of the support network for the families when their moms and dads are away and overseas. I think it does work very well.

As we saw today, actually, I think, in the Assembly, we had members of military families from one of the schools on the base here. Now, that school is in the public system, but again it's centred around what they're doing on the base. That's a good thing. I think, Mr. Chairman, that there may be charter school opportunities down the road that are centred around those kinds of issues.

I understand what the hon. member is talking about when she says that, you know, the public sector or the public vision must get first right of refusal, if you will. I understand what the hon. minister was talking about in terms of trying to find that balance. In truth, in much of the legislation that we do, we're always trying to find the balance that best serves Albertans across the board. In this case we're talking about the application of charter schools. We're talking about the balance of parents being able to choose to go there and, then, also to establish that charter.

I guess to the hon. member's position on this, when I look at sections 31 and 32 of the old act and the conditions that were around that and I look at the conditions under 25(1) in the new act, "The minister may issue a charter," which are fairly significant, you know, in terms of what the charter schools can do and how they're going to have to operate, there are a lot of conditions there. I'm kind of wondering if that doesn't already do what the hon. member is trying to accomplish by way of the conditions that are in the act as opposed to saying that the application much be first approved by the board, actually, as opposed to being approved through these conditions that the minister sets out.

I would hope that the hon. member would be able to clarify that for me. As I said, Mr. Chairman, it may actually lead to my looking at where my vote might go on this particular amendment. With that, I'll take my seat.

The Chair: The hon. Member for Edmonton-Mill Creek.

Mr. Zwozdesky: Thank you very much, Mr. Chairman. I rise to speak probably in favour of this particular amendment brought forward by the hon. Member for Edmonton-Strathcona, which would amend section 24(1) of the act that we're debating, the Education Act. I do this because in studying the section in question, it talks about charter schools, and it says:

Application to establish charter school

24(1) A board, person, society or company may apply to the Minister for the establishment of a charter school.

The amendment would actually add another small section right after that, and it would read as the amendment reads:

(1.1) An application may be made to the Minister only if the board of the district or division in which the school is to be established refuses to establish an alternative program under section 19 as requested by the board, person, society or company.

As I read this amendment – I hope I'm on the right amendment, Mr. Chair. Yes?

The Chair: Yes.

Mr. Zwozdesky: This is it? It's got a number, A7?

The Chair: Yes.

Mr. Zwozdesky: Thank you.

As I read this particular amendment, I have to first of all make it clear as to what an alternative program really is because I sense from some of the comments made by one or two members that they may not be as up to speed on what the alternative programs are.

Now, alternative programs are, actually, specially designed, specially created programs that give students an opportunity to excel in one particular area. In other words, it channels their interest into an area which they might feel passionate about or which they might have some expertise in or perhaps they're just curious about, and it gives them a chance to just hone in on that. There are hockey programs. There are numerous other sports programs. There might be fine arts programs that help students to develop those particular talents.

We also have other programs that focus on languages. We have bilingual programs that give students a skill which helps them grow not only within that particular language group but as citizens of the world. It gives them a unique opportunity. In Edmonton, for example, we have Ukrainian bilingual programs. We have German bilingual programs. We have Japanese bilingual programs. We have some Spanish programs. In my riding, for example, we have Chinese in two languages, and so on. It's remarkable to me that these language programs, which are language schools, are all one form or another of alternative programming.

Think where we would be if we hadn't started to introduce those. Those points came about as a result of innovation that drove the system toward exploring other ways of delivering education or other ways of expanding a child's educational opportunities. This year, for example, the Chinese community is proudly celebrating the 30th anniversary. I think the Ukrainian community will soon be celebrating the 40th or so anniversary of those programs. So we have some of those types of programs that have come about. I mean, there are other programs. I believe there's the Logos program, the Cogito program. There are religious programs. There are a number of things.

What drives me to make these comments, Mr. Chairman, with relation to this amendment is that there are a number of different people living in our province that have different points of view who need a chance to express those views and to have them taught to their children. This is at no expense whatsoever to the public system or the Catholic system. As everyone here knows, I'm a strong supporter of our public system. In fact, when I was Minister of Education, I presided over some important innovations that we as a government and as a caucus had brought in. People will remember the Alberta Commission on Learning report. There were a lot of items in that report that talked very specifically about innovative new approaches to teaching and learning.

Charter schools are, of course, one of those success stories. Today we have a number of these charter schools, and all of them are performing very, very well. That is why you see lineups to get into them. But that's not at the expense of the public or the Catholic system, as some members here would allege.

You have to understand why charter schools were created in the first place. They were created to fill a perceived void, which is now proven, in the system in one case and, on the other hand, to allow for innovative, creative, new ways of teaching to occur and, hence, of learning to occur as well. That's why this particular section that's being amended goes on to describe here that charter schools focus on new and different learning styles. You have to have a place where they can be brought to bear, but they only come into action if the public system doesn't already offer them.

In fact, when charter schools first came about, they came about so as to help drive innovation in the public system, and that's why this amendment is of great interest to me. We know that there are great ideas that have come about from charter schools, some of which, Mr. Chairman, may well have already been adopted and incorporated into the public system, some of which maybe are still being studied.

The charter schools are one of our great success stories in this province and, again I stress, not at the expense of any other system because we pride ourselves in the options that we have. Those options that we have, Mr. Chairman, which is what the charter schools are all part of, have driven us to great fame on the national scene as well as on the international scene. How else would you know it to prove itself other than to look at the results of our education system in Alberta?

Let's be darn proud that in 2010 Alberta's grade 8 students achieved the highest marks in Canada in science, the second-highest marks in reading, and the third-highest marks in mathematics. In 2009 our students were second in the world, Mr. Chair, in reading and in scientific literacy, and eighth in the world in mathematical literacy. They were motivated to achieve that because we weren't afraid to look at innovative, creative new ways of delivering education.

5:10

You have to thank the teachers who were behind all of this. The teachers have done an outstanding job. During my tour of the province while being Minister of Education, I held well over 1,000 meetings with school boards, with teachers, and with parent groups, and I can tell you that they appreciate the options and the choices that we provide. It doesn't matter if it's charter schools or public school boards or Catholic boards or home-schooling or alternative school programs or immersion schools or whatever they might have been called. There is great innovation happening on many, many fronts.

The final couple of things that I just wanted to mention here with this amendment – one part that particularly appeals to me is that the applications for charter schools must follow a guideline, and that guideline, as the amendment says, suggests that only after an alternative program has been reviewed and, perhaps, not endorsed by a public system can a charter be granted. I think that's a good rule. It's a good rule because it allows the public system to still have a look at some of these ideas, but it doesn't curtail innovation, creativity to come forward. I'm quite supportive of what I see here on first blush.

The other part of allowing this particular type of amendment to succeed goes to the area of the rights and privileges that we enjoy as Albertans to make choices with and for our children. I get frustrated sometimes when I hear some members championing the rights and privileges that we ought to have in this province, and then when we present an opportunity for some of them to be exercised, they seem to speak against them. Well, you can't have it both ways, Mr. Chair.

I am of the opinion that we have a free society here and that charter schools have a very important role to play in that, but it should never be interpreted as being in competition with or against public education. That's simply not true. We as a government are providing the largest amount of money ever for public education in the history of this province, in total about $6.8 billion this year. When you couple that with a guaranteed funding scenario of three years where better planning and predictable planning can occur, you can see already that there will be even greater improvements to come.

Why else would we be attracting people from all over the world who are coming here to study our particular education system? We have a uniform curriculum that people can use, choose, adapt, or suit as a guideline for their own learning purposes. We have the greatest number and variety of choices in the programming, including charter schools, which is what this amendment is all about, and it includes some of the most creative teachers in the world right here in our province. We should be darn proud of that.

So I have no problem supporting this particular amendment that the Member for Edmonton-Strathcona has brought forward because I think it helps move us in the right direction while providing the safeties that perhaps others might be looking for.

With that, Mr. Chair, unless I hear something to the contrary, I will be able to support this particular amendment. Thank you.

The Chair: The hon. Member for Calgary-North West.

Mr. Blackett: Thank you, Mr. Speaker. It's a pleasure for me to stand today and talk to this amendment. I know a lot has been said. A lot of the comments I agree with; some I disagree with. The most important thing for me is the fact that we're talking about children.

We're talking about their education. We're talking about their future. We're not talking about numbers. We're not talking about a statistic. We're talking about young lives and the training of those young minds to be our future leaders, our future teachers, our future geophysicists, our future engineers, our future farmers, all the future leaders, the people who are going to run our businesses, keep our communities, and make sure that we have a better quality of life. Hopefully, 20 years down the road when we're going to need all those other services, they're able to take care of us and provide some of those.

This isn't about, as is mentioned repeatedly, a choice of one versus another. I happen to have two children in the Catholic school system in Calgary, and they're in a French immersion program. But often, as their mother and I have discussions, we look at different choices, and we're blessed, and part of the reason we were attracted to come to Alberta 12 years ago was because you have choice. Part of that choice was fostered by the creation of charter schools.

I remember living in Ontario and reading probably 15 years ago that there was a charter school that actually ran 12 months of the year. They actually utilized that building 12 months of the year in three different semesters. Students took their vacations at different intervals of the year, but they ran it year-round. I thought to myself: wow, what a unique way to get value for money, by utilizing that building that you have to pay for for 12 months anyway, operating and using it year-round. That's innovation. That's a fantastic idea. The more and more I read about them, the more and more I got attracted to that idea, and I realized that Alberta was the place that created them.

Alberta is known for innovation. Alberta is known to be a leader. We're known also for our education system, which is second to none in the western world. Part of that is the choice we have, whether you want to have public education, whether you want to have a Catholic education, if you want to have a charter school, if you want to home-school, if you want to have private school.

I really do take issue with the Member for Calgary-Buffalo, who decided to start taking a shot at a group of people, those students from Strathcona-Tweedsmuir, and discriminate against them, that just because their parents happen to be hard-working people who have been successful, somehow they should be denigrated and shouldn't be given the same opportunities as everybody else. We don't care what their income level is. We don't care which part of the province they live in. Every child in this province has the right to an education in the K to 12 system, and we as a government and we as a society have the duty to make sure that we give them that.

In this amendment I like the fact that we're going to preserve the ability for the school boards to have that right of first refusal. They may decide they want to create another entity that's similar to what the charter school has, but they have a constriction on the amount of finances they have. Our Calgary board of education, for instance: a billion-dollar budget. It seems like a lot of money, but that is in a city where our population is continuously growing. They have to always focus on the core competency and be able to maintain the level of education for the students that they have. They may not have the wherewithal to be able to try to teach some other things such as a different sports program, whether it's hockey or gymnastics or golf or whatever that is. They may not have the wherewithal to have a particular type of language training program, whether it's French immersion or Spanish immersion or whether it's Cantonese or German or Mandarin. They may be an arts immersion program or a science school, and they maybe want to have that in a certain quadrant of the city because it makes more sense.

Because they have the choice, if parents, those same people who ultimately we allow and we support and who should make the decision on their children's education, decide that they want a particular program and if that school board is not able to provide that, they should be able to establish a charter school. Because of that choice and because of where we live, they are able to do that. We have some of the smartest people being created because of the great work of our teachers, the great work of our staff at our different schools, because of the principals and the whole organization – the school boards, the parent councils – that supports them to make them what they are, and we need to continue to do that.

Not only is it important that we look at this choice and this ability because it's what helps us with our students and those kids, that are ultimately important for the future of this province and ourselves, but it's important because of the context of what that does for our ability to attract those people. Yes, we create geophysicists, and, yes, we create surgeons. We create nurses, and we create bricklayers and all those other things, but because we live in the booming province that Alberta is and we're going to be short some 114,000 jobs, we've got to attract people to our province.

5:20

We've got to attract people in a multitude of disciplines, and when those hard-working, high-income people, those people that have great talents and specific talents, those $374,000-a-year people that we'd love to have here and that every other jurisdiction in the world would love to have in their jurisdiction decide to come, well – guess what? – they come with a family. They want to know that what they're going to get in Alberta is going to be second to none. They want to know that they don't have to give up anything when they move here for the benefit of their family. They want to know that they're going to provide their children with the best possible education, the best possible chance at life, and be in an economy, in a place where they're going to get a job and be able to move forward and support their own family.

I can tell you that I know from the people at Imperial Oil, when they were looking at moving their headquarters from Toronto to Calgary, they looked and they realized that the salary is going to stay the same, and that wasn't the driver. The drivers were: am I going to have to give up my theatre tickets, and am I going to give up my hockey tickets? I dare say that the Calgary Flames are a bit better hockey team than the Toronto Maple Leafs, but I digress. The other part is that they didn't want to have to forgo the education. From the private school that they gave up in Toronto, were they going to have to take a step back and go for something substandard here in Alberta? They didn't. What they realized was that not only were they as good, but in many cases they were better. The choices that they had were incredible, all the different choices that have been mentioned, and I don't have to list them again.

But it is imperative for us to be a leader, to maintain our stature, to maintain our standard of living. Not only do we invest in education, but we let the world know that we believe in education and that we believe in choice. Charter schools have helped our public education system become more innovative. Competition sometimes does that. They're providing spaces that our public schools couldn't necessarily provide.

You know, if we build 50 more public schools in Calgary alone and if we build another 10 in Edmonton, we would fill them quickly. We don't have that ability today. We're forced to look at being more innovative, and I believe our charter schools have helped us do that immensely.

I would support this amendment. I would support the great principle that we have here in Alberta of not only being first but also promoting choice and having the charter schools, which allow our whole education system, our publicly funded education system, which is second to none in the world, to continue to be great. It's not important that we do that just now for 2012. It's as important to have that in 2022, 2032, and for years to come to maintain our status as one of the greatest places to live in the world.

Thank you.

The Chair: The hon. Minister of Tourism, Parks and Recreation.

Mr. Hayden: Thank you very much, Mr. Chairman. To the hon. member: I would like to support you. I would like some clarification, though, from you on your amendment. I base this on my experience with the public system as a former trustee and a former school board chair.

I believe the public system offers a wonderful option. In the amendment I see that we're talking about the opportunity to give the public system an opportunity to offer, if I read this correctly, what parents, the society, or the group are coming forward with as a proposal, giving the public system the opportunity to offer that.

I have to say, though, Mr. Chairman, that because of my experience in the business – on school boards and as a school board chair – the determination of whether that full offering is going to be there or not is the area where I do have some reservation. Coming from the community that I come from, this amendment actually adds another area because the public system has been so supportive of my family and my children. It was able to respond in a remote and rural community to their needs. But as I've watched the systems develop and charter systems develop, I've seen opportunities put out there for students that haven't been available in other instances.

I've seen people, Mr. Chair, for the charter option being very much in favour of what we're offering in this province by curriculum, and I'll give an example. The Northwest Territories have adopted the curriculum of Alberta. Why have they done that? They've done that because we always rate within the top five in the world for our education system and most recently in the top three. When they've had the selection of all other curriculums across the entire nation, they've picked up ours.

To add to that, I know of a student that is now thinking and considering with their family to actually relocate in Alberta because of an opportunity that is available in a charter environment that will meet the needs of this student, meet not just the needs but meet the interests, and take it that extra step and take it beyond where the public system now offers programs.

I go back to the amendment and the clarification that I need. The thing that concerns me a little bit is that between the offering in the public system, that's available in two schools in our province, and what the charter school offers, there are some differences. This family is going to have to make a decision whether that charter option is the one that is actually going to be the best for that student.

There are some expense implications also because of the location of the school and the different costs for them to attend and the advantages that the charter option has. I think that what my concern is and what I'm going to need an answer on is: who makes the determination that the offering of a public system is what that group wants? In effect, does it go far enough? Does it meet for those students and that family or that group what their expectation is? Does it meet what they believe is possible for them to go forward with and put together in a program that is going to offer the kinds of things that they require?

Mr. Chairman, I think that we've got a great deal to be proud of in this province. I don't think it would have been possible for us to have achieved the type of excellence that we have in Alberta for our students had it not been for the fact that there are choices out there. While I believe that public schools have responded wonderfully to most of those situations, I think the charter school operations that are taking place in the province right now are positive proof that we can step outside of that.

I also think, Mr. Chair, that the things that we teach now and the opportunities that are there for students are there all over the world. We're in an enlightened society now. People are very mobile, especially professionals. There's availability of work all over the world for these people. If we do not offer the options that they request and require, they can easily go shopping at the airport. That is the suggestion that I make. You can go to the airport, climb on a plane, and get anything you want in the world, including a variety of educational opportunities. It's important that we don't limit those opportunities for the citizens of this province. It's those opportunities that have made our provincial system as strong as it has been. That competitive edge has never hurt in anything, really.

What I would like to ask the hon. member – when they get an opportunity, if they can respond – is if they have an idea, when a group comes forward and says, "This is what we want to offer," how far the public system will have to go in offering that before we would refuse a charter the opportunity to do that.

With those concerns, I'm supportive. I want to support the amendment, but I want to hear who's going to be the judge and jury on whether the public system is actually going to offer what these people are trying to accomplish. Maybe the member could clarify that. I do want to support the member on their amendment.

The Chair: The hon. Member for Calgary-Bow.

Ms DeLong: Thank you very much, Mr. Chair. I did rise last week and talked a little bit about public education and how incredibly successful our public education is in the world. The last couple of speeches have been essentially about that issue and how it's through competition that the public system has really outdone itself and become better and better every year, and our children are the ones who have really been benefiting from this.

5:30

Regarding this particular amendment around charter schools, it does bring to mind the situation that the public board is in in terms of one of their biggest advantages, which charter schools have not really caught onto yet, and that is that the public system has schools in many neighbourhoods.

I think that sometimes they just look at it as: "Oh, well. You know, we've got all these schools in all these communities." Sometimes those schools are not full. Those schools are not full because of all of this competition, all of these charter schools and private schools out there and the special programs that they themselves have set up.

They are sometimes not realizing the gems that they do have when it comes to having a neighbourhood school. When they have a neighbourhood school, they have an opportunity to bring those parents in as a community, to use that neighbourhood school as a community resource, and to really become part of the community.

I know that some of my schools have been doing an excellent job of this. Bowness high provides all of these services to the surrounding businesses. They are actually a valuable technology centre for the whole community. They provide services to the businesses. They teach seniors how to use computers. So they are very much becoming an integrated part of the community.

Yeah, this is wonderful for the community, but it's also wonderful for the students. They start feeling really connected. They feel a part of the community. They feel that they are a valuable resource to the community, and so their sense of abilities and their sense of who they are become much stronger.

This is one of the strengths that, you know, what we call the public system has that they should be possibly taking more advantage of. At some point I expect that there is going to be someone who comes along and says: "Okay. I am a special charter that is for the local neighbourhood school. I am a special kind of charter that really fits right deep down into a community, and I'm going to start taking that on."

I think that at that point the public system is going to really realize the gems that they do have in all of these community schools and realize another strength that they can bring to the public school system in Alberta.

When it comes to this amendment, I'm hoping that this is going to be one of the things that really wakes them up to one of their strengths so that our schools really become a much more integrated part of our communities.

Thank you very much.

The Chair: The hon. Member for Calgary-Varsity.

Mr. Chase: Thank you. I find this a very bizarre circumstance, the government filibustering to potentially prevent their own bill from getting out of committee and into third and quickly being passed.

Mr. Hancock: Point of order.

Point of Order

Allegations against Members

Mr. Hancock: Under 23(h), (i), and (j), making allegations, the hon. member would suggest that members of this Assembly do not have the right to debate a bill and amendments before the House. Bill 2, the Education Act, is one of the most important bills, in my humble opinion, that this House might ever be able to address. Education of our children is extremely important.

An amendment has come forward to this bill to deal with charter schools. The hon. member knows even from his own comments earlier on in debate on this section that charter schools are fairly controversial even with members of this Legislature on any side of the House and particularly in our caucus. These are not easy decisions that are made. These are decisions that are debated long and hard before we come forward with a bill.

An amendment has been brought forward. It's an amendment which strikes a chord because it's one of the key pieces of the establishment of a charter school. Do they have to get a refusal first from the local school board or not? That is a critical piece of the debate. For this hon. member to suggest that in order to pass this amendment quickly, members on this side of the House who have expressed viewpoints on this issue shouldn't get those views expressed on the record before we vote on it is absolutely untenable. It's absolutely untenable that he would suggest that anybody is filibustering, when people have every right to speak on an amendment, particularly one which triggers such a response in his own city, as he should well know.

The Chair: Hon. member, I heard the point of order, and I heard the statement from the Member for Calgary-Varsity that created the point of order, so I don't need to linger on this. Basically, I think you probably just continue, withdraw that imputing of the other hon. members here dragging on the bill, and so on. Just carry on.

Mr. Chase: By all means, if I impugned negativity, if I suggested in any way a halting of the democratic process, please, I apologize to all members of this House, and in my apology I call the question on the amendment unless, of course, there are other individuals at 25 minutes to 6, long after this amendment was first introduced, who wish to debate the importance of this amendment.

Thank you.

Debate Continued

The Chair: Get on with the amendment.

Mr. Chase: It's in the government's hands as they see fit.

The Chair: Thank you.

The Minister of Advanced Education and Technology on the amendment.

Mr. Weadick: Thank you, Mr. Speaker. After that discussion that we had, I will be very, very brief on this one. I was interested to see this because, oddly enough, in the early 1990s I had the privilege of going through this exact process, Mr. Chairman. In Lethbridge we had a lot of youth that didn't have the kind of services that we really needed, and we found youth on the street and not completing school. So we got together as a community group, and I had the privilege of working with a group and founding the Lethbridge Youth Foundation and 5th on 5th Youth Services. As part of that the project did work readiness and young parenting and work experience, youth employment, all those kinds of things. We also had an alternative education program within that and 2,500 young people per year would go through this centre.

When we tried to start our alternative education program, we went through exactly the process of trying to determine: can we work with our local school district? Can we get a charter? Mr. Chairman, these were the rules of the day, and so we put together an approach to school district No. 51. We approached them with our idea around an alternative school. We met with them, and it took some work because the school districts, of course, were concerned about the cost of alternative programs. Ultimately we worked with them, and they determined that if we could provide an alternative program working with them that didn't cost the district money, taking it away from other programming, they would be willing to work with us. We worked with school district No. 51. We came up with a project they supported, and we had a wonderful relationship.

It worked through this process. Ultimately the school district did take on the alternative program, and this did work to help us. Having that relationship with the school district was very positive because they brought resources. They provided superintendency to us and some financial management support. Mr. Chairman, having your school district as part of your group can be incredibly helpful, especially in providing an education program. We managed that together for many, many years. Ultimately they moved the program to another location where they were able to manage it, but we still maintained an alternative program for hard-to-serve youth in Lethbridge.

5:40

Mr. Chairman, you know, this amendment, I think, does speak well to the partnership and the relationship with school districts in alternative programs. I'm sure there are opportunities or times where the only choice will be a charter school, but I think that if the district can offer it, that is the best option. I think that if we can work with community organizations in a relationship, if we can have community groups and schools working together, isn't that the best way to teach our kids?

From my perspective, Mr. Chairman, this is actually a positive amendment, and I'm happy to support it as well. I will be supporting this amendment.

The Chair: Any other hon. member wishing to speak on amendment A7?

Seeing none, the chair shall now call the question.

[Motion on amendment A7 carried]

The Chair: Back to the bill.

The hon. Government House Leader.

Mr. Hancock: Thank you, Mr. Chairman. In light of the hour I'd like to move that we rise to report progress and beg leave to sit again.

[Motion carried]

[The Deputy Speaker in the chair]

The Deputy Speaker: The hon. Member for Leduc-Beaumont-Devon.

Mr. Rogers: Thank you, Mr. Speaker. The Committee of the Whole has had under consideration a certain bill. The committee reports progress on the following bill: Bill 2. I wish to table copies of all amendments considered by the Committee of the Whole on this date for the official records of the Assembly.

The Deputy Speaker: Does the Assembly concur in the report?

Hon. Members: Concur.

The Deputy Speaker: Opposed? So ordered.

The Government House Leader.

Mr. Hancock: Thank you, Mr. Speaker. I would move that the Assembly adjourn until 1:30 p.m. tomorrow.

[Motion carried; the Assembly adjourned at 5:43 p.m. to Thursday at 1:30 p.m.]

Table of Contents

Prayers	719
In Memoriam
Mr. George Topolnisky, August 13, 1919, to March 19, 2012	719
Introduction of Guests	719
Ministerial Statements
International Day for the Elimination of Racial Discrimination	720
Statement by the Speaker
Tablets and Other Electronic Devices in the Chamber	722
Oral Question Period
MLA Remuneration.....	722
Long-term Care Serious Incidents	723, 728
Donations to Political Parties.....	723, 724
Fixed Election Dates.....	724
Physician Services Agreement in Principle	724
AIMCo Investment in Viterro Inc.....	725
Home-schooling	725
Affordable Housing.....	725
Collection of School Fees.....	726
Fort Saskatchewan Community Hospital.....	726
Long-term Care Accommodation Rates	727
Residential Construction Standards.....	727
Electricity Prices.....	728, 730
Agriculture Financial Services Corporation	728
School Capital Construction.....	729
Community Spirit Program	729
Members' Statements
Villa Marie Continuing Care Centre.....	730
Integrity in Government	730
Alberta Association of Municipal Districts and Counties.....	731
Highwood Constituency	731
Rural Integrated Community Clerkship for Physicians	731
Brenda Lee	732
Tabling Returns and Reports	732
Tablings to the Clerk	733
Orders of the Day	734
Government Bills and Orders
Committee of the Whole
Bill 2 Education Act.....	734

If your address is incorrect, please clip on the dotted line, make any changes, and return to the address listed below. To facilitate the update, please attach the last mailing label along with your account number.

Subscriptions
Legislative Assembly Office
1001 Legislature Annex
9718 – 107 Street
EDMONTON, AB T5K 1E4

.....

Last mailing label:

Account # _____

New information:

Name:

Address:

.....

Subscription information:

Annual subscriptions to the paper copy of Alberta Hansard (including annual index) are $127.50 including GST if mailed once a week or $94.92 including GST if picked up at the subscription address below or if mailed through the provincial government interdepartmental mail system. Bound volumes are $121.70 including GST if mailed. Cheques should be made payable to the Minister of Finance.

Price per issue is $0.75 including GST.

Online access to Alberta Hansard is available through the Internet at www.assembly.ab.ca

Subscription inquiries:

Subscriptions
Legislative Assembly Office
1001 Legislature Annex
9718 – 107 St.
EDMONTON, AB T5K 1E4
Telephone: 780.427.1302

Other inquiries:

Managing Editor
Alberta Hansard
1001 Legislature Annex
9718 – 107 St.
EDMONTON, AB T5K 1E4
Telephone: 780.427.1875

Province of Alberta

The 27th Legislature
Fifth Session

Alberta Hansard

Thursday, March 22, 2012

Issue 22

The Honourable Kenneth R. Kowalski, Speaker

Legislative Assembly of Alberta The 27th Legislature

Fifth Session

Kowalski, Hon. Ken, Barrhead-Morinville-Westlock, Speaker
Cao, Wayne C.N., Calgary-Fort, Deputy Speaker and Chair of Committees
Zwozdesky, Gene, Edmonton-Mill Creek, Deputy Chair of Committees

Ady, Cindy, Calgary-Shaw (PC)
Allred, Ken, St. Albert (PC)
Amery, Moe, Calgary-East (PC)
Anderson, Rob, Airdrie-Chestermere (W),
Wildrose Opposition House Leader
Benito, Carl, Edmonton-Mill Woods (PC)
Berger, Hon. Evan, Livingstone-Macleod (PC)
Bhardwaj, Naresh, Edmonton-Ellerslie (PC)
Bhullar, Hon. Manmeet Singh, Calgary-Montrose (PC)
Blackett, Lindsay, Calgary-North West (PC)
Blakeman, Laurie, Edmonton-Centre (AL),
Official Opposition Deputy Leader,
Official Opposition House Leader
Boutilier, Guy C., Fort McMurray-Wood Buffalo (W)
Brown, Dr. Neil, QC, Calgary-Nose Hill (PC)
Calahasen, Pearl, Lesser Slave Lake (PC)
Campbell, Robin, West Yellowhead (PC),
Government Whip
Chase, Harry B., Calgary-Varsity (AL)
Dallas, Hon. Cal, Red Deer-South (PC)
Danyluk, Hon. Ray, Lac La Biche-St. Paul (PC)
DeLong, Alana, Calgary-Bow (PC)
Denis, Hon. Jonathan, QC, Calgary-Egmont (PC),
Deputy Government House Leader
Doerksen, Arno, Strathmore-Brooks (PC)
Drysedale, Wayne, Grande Prairie-Wapiti (PC),
Deputy Government Whip
Elniski, Doug, Edmonton-Calder (PC)
Evans, Iris, Sherwood Park (PC)
Fawcett, Kyle, Calgary-North Hill (PC)
Forsyth, Heather, Calgary-Fish Creek (W),
Wildrose Opposition Whip
Fritz, Yvonne, Calgary-Cross (PC)
Goudreau, Hector G., Dunvegan-Central Peace (PC)
Griffiths, Hon. Doug, Battle River-Wainwright (PC)
Groeneveld, George, Highwood (PC)
Hancock, Hon. Dave, QC, Edmonton-Whitemud (PC),
Government House Leader
Hayden, Hon. Jack, Drumheller-Stettler (PC)
Hehr, Kent, Calgary-Buffalo (AL)
Hinman, Paul, Calgary-Glenmore (W),
Wildrose Opposition Deputy Leader
Horne, Hon. Fred, Edmonton-Rutherford (PC),
Deputy Government House Leader
Horner, Hon. Doug, Spruce Grove-Sturgeon-St. Albert (PC)
Jablonski, Mary Anne, Red Deer-North (PC)
Jacobs, Broyce, Cardston-Taber-Warner (PC)
Johnson, Hon. Jeff, Athabasca-Redwater (PC)

Johnston, Art, Calgary-Hays (PC)
Kang, Darshan S., Calgary-McCall (AL),
Official Opposition Whip
Klimchuk, Hon. Heather, Edmonton-Glenora (PC)
Knight, Mel, Grande Prairie-Smoky (PC)
Leskiw, Genia, Bonnyville-Cold Lake (PC)
Liepert, Hon. Ron, Calgary-West (PC)
Lindsay, Fred, Stony Plain (PC)
Lukaszuk, Hon. Thomas A., Edmonton-Castle Downs (PC)
Lund, Ty, Rocky Mountain House (PC)
MacDonald, Hugh, Edmonton-Gold Bar (AL)
Mason, Brian, Edmonton-Highlands-Norwood (ND),
Leader of the ND Opposition
McFarland, Barry, Little Bow (PC)
McQueen, Hon. Diana, Drayton Valley-Calmar (PC)
Mitzel, Len, Cypress-Medicine Hat (PC)
Morton, Hon. F.L., Foothills-Rocky View (PC)
Notley, Rachel, Edmonton-Strathcona (ND),
ND Opposition House Leader
Oberle, Hon. Frank, Peace River (PC)
Olson, Hon. Verlyn, QC, Wetaskiwin-Camrose (PC),
Deputy Government House Leader
Ouellette, Luke, Innisfail-Sylvan Lake (PC)
Pastoor, Bridget Brennan, Lethbridge-East (PC)
Prins, Ray, Lacombe-Ponoka (PC)
Quest, Dave, Strathcona (PC)
Redford, Hon. Alison M., QC, Calgary-Elbow (PC),
Premier
Renner, Rob, Medicine Hat (PC)
Rodney, Dave, Calgary-Lougheed (PC)
Rogers, George, Leduc-Beaumont-Devon (PC)
Sandhu, Peter, Edmonton-Manning (PC)
Sarich, Janice, Edmonton-Decore (PC)
Sherman, Dr. Raj, Edmonton-Meadowlark (AL),
Leader of the Official Opposition
Snelgrove, Lloyd, Vermilion-Lloydminster (Ind)
Stelmach, Ed, Fort Saskatchewan-Vegreville (PC)
Swann, Dr. David, Calgary-Mountain View (AL)
Taft, Dr. Kevin, Edmonton-Riverview (AL),
Official Opposition Deputy Whip
Tarchuk, Janis, Banff-Cochrane (PC)
Taylor, Dave, Calgary-Currie (AB)
VanderBurg, Hon. George, Whitecourt-Ste. Anne (PC)
Vandermeer, Tony, Edmonton-Beverly-Clareview (PC)
Weadick, Hon. Greg, Lethbridge-West (PC),
Deputy Government House Leader
Webber, Len, Calgary-Foothills (PC)
Woo-Paw, Teresa, Calgary-Mackay (PC)
Xiao, David H., Edmonton-McClung (PC)

Party standings:

Progressive Conservative: 66 Alberta Liberal: 8 Wildrose: 4 New Democrat: 2 Alberta: 1 Independent: 1 Vacant: 1

Officers and Officials of the Legislative Assembly

W.J. David McNeil, Clerk	Stephanie LeBlanc, Parliamentary Counsel & Legal Research Officer	Chris Caughell, Assistant Sergeant-at-Arms
Robert H. Reynolds, QC, Law Clerk/ Director of Interparliamentary Relations	Philip Massolin, Committee Research Co-ordinator	Gordon H. Munk, Assistant Sergeant-at-Arms
Shannon Dean, Senior Parliamentary Counsel/Director of House Services	Brian G. Hodgson, Sergeant-at-Arms	Liz Sim, Managing Editor of Alberta Hansard

Executive Council

Alison Redford	Premier, President of Executive Council, Chair of Agenda and Priorities Committee
Doug Horner	Deputy Premier, President of Treasury Board and Enterprise
Dave Hancock	Minister of Human Services
Ted Morton	Minister of Energy
Verlyn Olson	Minister of Justice and Attorney General
Fred Horne	Minister of Health and Wellness
Ron Liepert	Minister of Finance
Thomas Lukaszuk	Minister of Education, Political Minister for Edmonton
Diana McQueen	Minister of Environment and Water
Jonathan Denis	Solicitor General and Minister of Public Security
Cal Dallas	Minister of Intergovernmental, International and Aboriginal Relations, Political Minister for Central Alberta
Evan Berger	Minister of Agriculture and Rural Development, Political Minister for Southern Alberta
Frank Oberle	Minister of Sustainable Resource Development
George VanderBurg	Minister of Seniors
Ray Danyluk	Minister of Transportation
Jeff Johnson	Minister of Infrastructure, Political Minister for Northern Alberta
Doug Griffiths	Minister of Municipal Affairs
Greg Weadick	Minister of Advanced Education and Technology
Jack Hayden	Minister of Tourism, Parks and Recreation
Heather Klimchuk	Minister of Culture and Community Services
Manmeet Singh Bhullar	Minister of Service Alberta, Political Minister for Calgary

Parliamentary Assistants

Naresh Bhardwaj	Health and Wellness
Alana DeLong	Seniors
Arno Doerksen	Human Services
Kyle Fawcett	Treasury Board and Enterprise
Art Johnston	Executive Council
Barry McFarland	Agriculture and Rural Development
Len Mitzel	Transportation
Dave Rodney	Health and Wellness
David Xiao	Energy

STANDING AND SPECIAL COMMITTEES OF THE LEGISLATIVE ASSEMBLY OF ALBERTA

Standing Committee on the Alberta Heritage Savings Trust Fund

Chair: Ms Tarchuk
Deputy Chair: Mr. Elniski

Anderson
DeLong
Groeneveld
Johnston
MacDonald
Quest
Taft

Standing Committee on Community Development

Chair: Mrs. Jablonski
Deputy Chair: Mr. Chase

Amery
Blakeman
Boutilier
Calahasen
Goudreau
Groeneveld
Lindsay
Snelgrove
Taylor
Vandermeer

Standing Committee on Education

Chair: Ms Pastoor
Deputy Chair: Mr. Hehr

Anderson
Benito
Brown
Cao
Chase
Leskiw
Notley
Sarich
Tarchuk
Vacant

Standing Committee on Energy

Chair: Mrs. Ady
Deputy Chair: Ms Blakeman

Hehr
Hinman
Jacobs
Johnston
Lund
Mason
McFarland
Ouellette
Webber
Xiao

Standing Committee on Finance

Chair: Mr. Renner
Deputy Chair: Mr. Kang

Allred
Anderson
Drysdale
Fawcett
Knight
Mitzel
Prins
Sandhu
Taft
Taylor

Standing Committee on Legislative Offices

Chair: Mr. Blackett
Deputy Chair: Mr. Lund

Blakeman
Brown
Evans
Hinman
Lindsay
MacDonald
Notley
Ouellette
Quest
Vacant

Special Standing Committee on Members' Services

Chair: Mr. Kowalski
Deputy Chair: Mr. Campbell

Amery
Anderson
Elniski
Evans
Hehr
Knight
Leskiw
MacDonald
Mason
Rogers

Standing Committee on Private Bills

Chair: Dr. Brown
Deputy Chair: Ms Woo-Paw

Allred	Kang
Benito	Knight
Boutilier	Lindsay
Calahasen	McFarland
Doerksen	Sandhu
Drysdale	Sarich
Evans	Snelgrove
Groeneveld	Swann
Hinman	Xiao
Jacobs

Standing Committee on Privileges and Elections, Standing Orders and Printing

Chair: Mr. Prins
Deputy Chair: Mr. Snelgrove

Amery	Mitzel
Boutilier	Notley
Calahasen	Pastoor
DeLong	Quest
Doerksen	Stelmach
Forsyth	Swann
Jacobs	Tarchuk
Knight	Taylor
Leskiw	Zwozdesky
McFarland

Standing Committee on Public Accounts

Chair: Mr. MacDonald
Deputy Chair: Mr. Goudreau

Allred	Kang
Benito	Mason
Calahasen	Rodney
Chase	Sandhu
Elniski	Vandermeer
Fawcett	Woo-Paw
Forsyth	Xiao
Groeneveld

Standing Committee on Public Health and Safety

Chair: Mrs. Fritz
Deputy Chair: Dr. Taft

Bhardwaj
Blakett
DeLong
Doerksen
Forsyth
Notley
Rodney
Rogers
Swann
Woo-Paw

Legislative Assembly of Alberta

1:30 p.m.

Thursday, March 22, 2012

[The Speaker in the chair] [applause]

Prayers

The Speaker: Good afternoon.

Let us pray. As we conclude for this week our work in this Assembly, we renew our energies with thanks so that we may continue our work with the people in the constituencies we represent. Amen.

Please be seated.

Introduction of Visitors

The Speaker: In the Speaker's gallery today are some people special to me that I would like to introduce to you: first of all, my wife, Kristina; my son, Michael; and my daughter-in-law, Robyn; and, from 26 years in my office, Beverly; Jocelyn, who's been with me for 10 years; Audrey, who is back at the office; and Danielle.

Introduction of Guests

The Speaker: The hon. Minister of Environment and Water.

Mrs. McQueen: Thank you, Mr. Speaker. It's a pleasure to rise today to introduce to you and through you to all Members of this Legislative Assembly some outstanding grade 6 students from St. Anthony school in my community of Drayton Valley. They're joined by their teachers, Mr. Leggo and Mrs. Haggerty, and also by Mrs. Sherri Gow and Samantha Williams. It's such an honour to have you students here today. They joined me in my office earlier, and we had a nice picture together. I would ask you all to please rise and receive the traditional warm welcome of this Assembly.

The Speaker: The hon. Minister of Intergovernmental, International and Aboriginal Relations.

Mr. Dallas: Thank you, Mr. Speaker. It's my pleasure to introduce to you and through you a group from Westpark middle school in my constituency. These students are part of a bright, enthusiastic class here to tour the Legislature and participate in a mock Legislature and observe the members of the House. I hope this visit has been a beneficial learning experience for these young citizens as they learn more about the political traditions and processes of the Legislative Assembly of Alberta. The guests are seated in the members' gallery. I would like to invite them to please rise and receive the traditional warm welcome of the Assembly.

The Speaker: The hon. Minister of Transportation.

Mr. Danyluk: Thank you very much, Mr. Speaker. I would like to introduce to you and through you to members of this Assembly two grade 6 classes from Glen Avon school in St. Paul. Fifty-two students made the two-and-a-half-hour trip to come to the Legislature. They are known as the Panthers, and they're very proud of their school and very proud of their community. They are here with the help of their bus drivers, Don and Christine Kriaski; teacher aides Debbie Rak, Val Gadowski, and Melissa Laurie; and teachers Shane Boyko, Karen Kendel, and Linda O'Neill, who, I must add, is celebrating her birthday today with her students. They are seated in the members' gallery, and I would ask that everyone give them the traditional warm welcome. I'd ask them to stand, please.

The Speaker: The hon. the Premier.

Ms Redford: Thank you very much, Mr. Speaker. It's my pleasure today to rise and introduce to you and through you to all hon. Members of this Legislative Assembly a group of students from the University of Alberta and Grant MacEwan Progressive Conservative associations: from the University of Alberta a very good friend of mine from Calgary, Aaron Pollock, who is the president of the group; Daniel Rose; Andrea Stempien; Shannon McLaughlin; Katarina Duke; and Steven Kwasny; and from Grant MacEwan Arundee Sandhu and Max Yuan. They are wonderful, passionate Albertans. They are seated in the public gallery, and I would ask them to rise and receive the warm welcome.

The Speaker: The hon. Minister of Municipal Affairs.

Mr. Griffiths: Thank you, Mr. Speaker. It gives me great pleasure today to rise to introduce to you and through you to members of this Assembly a Public Affairs Bureau intern, Aura Juarez. Aura came here from Nicaragua with her family in 1988, settling in Medicine Hat for 18 years. After graduating from Mount Royal University's public relations program in 2010, she moved to Edmonton to pursue her desire to work within government. She currently works as a public affairs officer in our ministry's branch. She expressed a keen interest in the Municipal Affairs portfolio. I'm honoured that she's part of the team, and all of the people in our department have been very thankful to have Aura work with them over this time period. She's seated in the members' gallery, and I'd ask her to rise and receive the traditional warm welcome of this Assembly.

The Speaker: The hon. Member for Grande Prairie-Wapiti.

Mr. Drysdale: Thank you, Mr. Speaker. Today it is my pleasure to introduce to you and through to all members of this Legislature my constituents Dick and Joanne Barendregt. They have been home-educating parents for 25 years and have nine children and seven grandchildren and more on the way. I also believe they were former constituents of yours, hard-working constituents. They are seated in the members' gallery, and I'd ask them to please stand and receive the traditional warm welcome of this Assembly.

Ministerial Statements

The Speaker: The hon. the Premier.

Tribute to the Member for Barrhead-Morinville-Westlock

Ms Redford: Thank you, Mr. Speaker. I rise today to thank the hon. Member for Barrhead-Morinville-Westlock for his many years of outstanding service to Albertans. The hon. member was first elected to this Assembly in 1979 and has held many positions during a distinguished career in the public service. These positions have included five different cabinet portfolios as well as chair and member of many standing and government committees. He was also Deputy Premier from 1992 to 1994, and he has served as Speaker of the Legislative Assembly since 1997.

I have the privilege to be the fifth Premier who has served this province during the time that he has been a member of this Assembly, and I am so happy to have had that opportunity. I remember as a teenager with a group of PC Youth of Alberta students meeting the hon. member. He had overseen a number of portfolios at that time, and I welcomed the chance to talk with him and learn from him, as I do today.

He was always incredibly supportive, helpful, and generous with his time, never hesitating to offer me the wealth of his accumulated knowledge or encouragement, and I don't believe that my experience was unique. I speak for many in this Assembly who have had the privilege of serving with the hon. member when I say that he has always been willing to share his expertise and perspective with us, much to our benefit. He has unfailingly treated every member of this Assembly with fairness and respect.

His passion for the parliamentary system is also well known. He initiated The Centennial Series, highlighting democracy in Alberta from 1905 to 2006, and he initiated the School at the Legislature program, inviting students from across this province to come to the capital for a week of democracy, meeting their MLAs one-on-one and participating in mock parliaments, as well as the MLA for a Day program for high school students.

1:40

Mr. Speaker, you have served with exemplary grace and dignity, providing outstanding and effective service to your constituents. In your role as Speaker you have brought an incredible breadth of knowledge to the Assembly and applied it in the service of the people of this province for 33 years. Your focus and support through the Legislative Assembly Office has ensured that members are provided with the most efficient and modern array of services that they need to perform their duties.

Your legacy is unique, something that we will treasure and draw on in the future. More than just about anyone else, you helped to prepare our province for the 21st century even as you played a pivotal role in defending and preserving Alberta's way of life, and this Assembly will be the poorer for your absence.

I am tremendously proud that I have had the opportunity to serve alongside you. You will be truly missed. I wish you a happy retirement with your family and all the best in the years ahead. After your long and faithful service to Alberta, you deserve no less. [Standing ovation]

Dr. Sherman: Mr. Speaker, allow me to echo the congratulations and warm thoughts of the Premier.

My House leader has reminded me that when you and Grant Mitchell were the House leaders of government and Official Opposition caucuses, you worked together to change the standing orders so that MLAs would enjoy the freedom to deliver private members' statements. Today any MLA can stand in front of the House for two minutes and speak without fear of retribution on any subject he or she pleases, a great step forward for freedom of speech in the Legislature and for personal expression. I know that all MLAs in this House appreciate this bold initiative, and that's because of you, Mr. Speaker.

I'd also like to remind the Assembly of the Speaker's obvious care for the grounds and his efforts to forge a stronger bond between the Alberta Legislature and the community and the citizens that we serve and with citizens and leaders beyond our borders. Every day and every Canada Day our Speaker opens up this Chamber to all visitors, a rare privilege amongst parliamentary democracies. For that, thank you.

Nor should we ignore the fact that the Speaker is beloved by the people of his home constituency, who have elected and re-elected him to office since 1979. This is an impressive track record for any public servant and a measure of the esteem in which the people of Barrhead-Morinville-Westlock hold the Speaker.

Mr. Speaker, you're a courageous man. In the early days of democracy the men and women in your position often found themselves on the wrong end of an executioner's axe. We the Official Opposition are pleased that you displayed such courage in taking this position since 1979 and shall escape this Assembly with your head firmly affixed on your broad shoulders. As you have led all the members of this Assembly, you've been a teacher to all of us, you have been a peacemaker, and, Mr. Speaker, personally, you've been a confidante. When as an MLA I had questions and concerns or I needed someone to talk to or sometimes even a little hug, you've been there.

Mr. Speaker, thank you so much for what you and your family have done to serve this great province and this great Legislature to improve the democracy of Alberta. Thank you, and God bless you in your retirement. [applause]

The Speaker: I have received several notes that there may be additional members who would like to participate, so I ask this question with great trepidation. It needs a unanimous response from the Assembly. Does any member oppose additional members wanting to participate? If so, say no.

[Unanimous consent granted]

The Speaker: The hon. Member for Fort McMurray-Wood Buffalo.

Mr. Boutillier: Well, thank you very much, Mr. Speaker. When you said trepidation, I know that that was not aimed at me at all.

Indeed, what a pleasure it is to stand as an opposition member with the Wildrose caucus and say to you, with your former profession as a teacher, that there have clearly been many teachable moments in this Assembly. I know that all political parties thank you for those teachable moments. Truly, that teacher that is in you, in your DNA, you have shared with all Albertans in this Assembly. You are truly a great parliamentarian. That no one will ever, ever dispute.

But, most importantly, my observation has been this. I had the honour as a minister of the Crown to speak in your constituency many years ago – and it was an honour for me to speak about you – and what I observed that night in your constituency of Barrhead-Morinville-Westlock was an incredible respect for your bosses, which is something that you have never forgotten, that the people of Alberta are your boss and the people in your constituency have been and always will be your boss. I sincerely say that you have never forgotten that teachable moment, and I think it's something all of us will never forget.

Now, I will say, with a bit of humour, that Winston Churchill once said that if everyone was thinking the same, then no one would be thinking. I do know that sometimes you and I might not have been thinking on the same wavelength, but I do want to let you know that I have the utmost respect for your intellect in those teachable moments.

My father was a teacher. You have reminded me of my father on many occasions with your sternness. I do remember as a schoolchild occasionally being in the corner, and I thank you for never having put me in the corner.

That being the case, Mr. Speaker, I sincerely say that we wish you and your wonderful family the very best in this, your well-earned retirement. God bless you and your family. [applause]

The Speaker: The hon. Member for Edmonton-Strathcona.

Ms Notley: Well, thank you, Mr. Speaker. Like a cat with nine lives, the Speaker has effectively persuaded the electors of his constituency to send him here nine times since the 1979 by-election. For 15 years of that time he has presided in this Chamber, providing us with unique interpretations of the British parliamentary democratic tradition, interpretations that have distinguished our province.

Now, during those years we've frequently been on the receiving end of the elocutionary style he perfected as a model of the schoolmaster during his years as a teacher at Barrhead high school. With colourful gesture and expression he has assisted us to understand the value of attending to his tutelage. He's admonished us for our juvenile immaturity in some cases, and he's advised us to remember the importance of being models of correct social behaviour. That being said, he's also tolerated our peccadilloes during these years, as schoolmasters traditionally do, and in his absence I'll say that it was mostly the peccadilloes of the Member for Edmonton-Highlands-Norwood.

He has put up with the knitting of sweaters, the visit of rubber duckies, napkins for speaking notes, and a singing member's statement. After spending more than a few moments instructing us on the rules of a talking stick, about how he had it and it was his and no one else was to talk when he had it, I was proud to be able to create an interrupting stick and to present him with a copy of the original, that we quietly advised we would hold on to. There was a grimace, but I can report that I still have the original, and I'm sure the Speaker will agree that he has tolerated a greater than average reliance on its use by our caucus.

Now, I can imagine that there have been many times when he has wished he was back coaching a championship Reach for the Top team and not trying to oversee the deliberations of the rambunctious residents of this House. Perhaps at times, sitting at the front of the House, he's even let his mind wander to fond memories of the golf course in his Barrhead-Morinville-Westlock part of the world. The question now is: when he's out on the golf course, will he enjoy fond memories of the theatrics and occasional good work accomplished here in this House? We hope so.

During his years of service, which are only slightly less than the median age of Albertans, 36 years, he has served in a wide range of positions, including several in cabinet. Over this period he has served with at least two generations of some families, including mine. Indeed, although it seems like I've been here forever, I realized today that the Speaker served longer with my father than with me.

1:50

So I join with colleagues here to say on behalf of the NDP opposition, that he so much likes to call the NDs, thank you for your service to Albertans over the last three and a half decades and please receive sincere congratulations and best wishes from the Member for Edmonton-Highlands-Norwood and myself.

Thank you. [applause]

The Speaker: The hon. Member for Vermilion-Lloydminster.

Mr. Snelgrove: Thank you, Mr. Speaker. I have been asked by a former colleague of ours, Mr. Richard Marz, the long-time MLA for Olds-Didsbury-Three Hills, to read a poem he wrote for you.

Back in '79 when he came to the dome
And said I'll call this my home
For the next 30 years or more
It would be hard to conclude
What this battle-scarred Dude
Would accomplish in that three-score

You can love him or hate him
But don't underrate him
'Cause his heart is loaded with fire

Many have tried but couldn't get by
His spirit, dedication and desire

I'm proud to call him my friend
Though it's hard to comprehend
When it all comes to an end
As we round the next bend
The retirement of the Legend –
“Kowalski”

On a personal note, Mr. Speaker, your common sense and your political intuition are greater than the sum of all the other people I've met. And I want to take a little different tack. Your representation of Alberta on the international stage and the national stage, both visiting and receiving guests to our fine province, has made us all proud. You and your staff have done an incredible job of not only receiving people but preparing all of us that travel on our government's behalf, and I think Albertans are very proud of the fact that we look professional, you act professional, and we present a very strong and wonderful province to them. I do have to lament that apparently your new neighbour down south may cause you to reflect for the good old days in the Leg., but I certainly hope not.

All the best, Mr. Speaker. [applause]

The Speaker: Hon. members, thank you very, very much. I very much appreciate this. I feel very, very humbled.

When I walked into this building on August 1, 1974, it was not in a capacity as an elected person, and when you go back to 1974, that's 38 years that I have been associated with this place. There may be remains of mine to be parked in this Assembly someplace in the future. I won't tell you where, but my spirit and my heart will always be here.

This is a wonderful democracy in the province of Alberta, and I want to thank all of the men and women, current and in the past, that I've had the privilege of working with. Alberta is very well served by its elected representatives. Albertans should be very, very proud of the quality of the people who have come to this Assembly, who are in this Assembly. Albertans should take, take with great interest and care, that despite what you may see in a clip here and a clip there, the civility and the decorum of this Assembly is second to none in the country of Canada. Albertans should expect that, and Albertans have it. So I want you to be very proud of who you are. I want to thank you very much for the support that you've given me and the comments today.

Madam Premier, from the young girl that you were a few years ago, younger girl that you were a few years ago, to the Member for Fort McMurray-Wood Buffalo, putting me in the same category as his father, that truly is a wide spectrum of respect and support. To you, Madam Premier, thank you very much for those very, very kind words. To you, Leader of the Official Opposition, thank you very much for your kind words. To the Member for Fort McMurray-Wood Buffalo, who I've known a long time, thank you for the kind words. To the imaginative comments and very kind words from the hon. Member for Edmonton-Strathcona, thank you. To my neighbour, my new neighbour in the south, the hon. Member for Vermilion-Lloydminster, thank you very much for your kind words, and to Mr. Marz as well.

To all of you, enough is enough. We've got a Routine to deal with. Thank you so much and the best of luck to all of you, always, always, always. [Standing ovation]

Oral Question Period

The Speaker: First Official Opposition main question. The hon. Leader of the Official Opposition.

Long-term Care for Seniors

Dr. Sherman: Thank you, Mr. Speaker. It was reported today that AHS plans to cut 150 spaces with around-the-clock nursing, despite all the solutions we've offered to this government. Dr. Paul Parks says that he's baffled. He asks how we can eliminate bottlenecks in our hospitals with this move. He's afraid that we're on the cusp of yet another ER crisis, a crisis that leads to the cancellation of surgeries, longer wait times, more idle ambulances, and Albertans suffering needlessly. To the Premier. Premier, are you serious? Do you actually know what you're doing to our health care system?

Mr. Horne: Mr. Speaker, the government has no knowledge of the statement that the hon. member has made; therefore, I'm not in a position to reply. If he'd care to proffer the information to us, I'd be happy to get back to him.

Dr. Sherman: Mr. Speaker, it's a well-known fact that we have fewer long-term care spaces today than we had a few years ago. Given that Bruce West, the executive director of the Alberta Continuing Care Association, says that the government seems determined to push seniors with complex needs into less expensive supportive living spaces, which may not have adequate levels of care, to the Premier: why won't you listen to the people who know more about the health care system than elected people do, and stop this madness?

Ms Redford: Mr. Speaker, I think that now I understand the hon. member's first question. It's with respect to a story that was reported in Calgary with respect to the reduction of long-term care beds, which is simply not true, and Alberta Health Services will be correcting that information today.

Just to set the record straight, Mr. Speaker, last year Alberta Health Services set a goal to increase the number of home-care clients by 3,000 by March 2012, and to date 4,400 new clients have been added. The reason that's important is because that is listening to Albertans. What Alberta's seniors have said to us is that they want to be able to stay in their own homes for longer than they've been able to in the past. We are investing in that because that's what Alberta's seniors want.

Dr. Sherman: Mr. Speaker, here is a fact: on PC letterhead the government promised 600 long-term care beds and 200 replacement beds. They built a long-term care facility with over 150 beds, and closed it. Given that Dr. Paul Parks, an ER doctor, and Bruce West, an expert in seniors' care, are both concerned that our vulnerable seniors will end up in acute-care beds because they don't get the care they need, to the Premier: do you understand that you are endangering the lives and safety of Albertans? Do you even care, Premier?

Ms Redford: Mr. Speaker, at this point in time I think there are an awful lot of people who are pretending to be experts in health care. I'll tell you what we know and what we've said to Albertans and what Albertans have said to us is that we can deliver health care in a way that gives Albertans choice, whether it's families or whether it's seniors. What we know is that Albertans have said that they want to have choice with respect to how they live and where they live, and we are providing the continuing care spaces with publicly funded health care to ensure that they have that choice.

The Speaker: Second Official Opposition main question. The hon. Leader of the Official Opposition.

Dr. Sherman: Mr. Speaker, emergency doctors and front-line staff make no apologies for being experts in health care.

Alberta Health Services Third-quarter Report

Dr. Sherman: Mr. Speaker, something stinks. The performance dashboard section of AHS's second-quarter report from December 2011 is abysmal. Heart bypass surgery wait times: fail. Hip and knee surgery wait times: fail. Radiation therapy access: fail. Placing our vulnerable in continuing care: fail. Physician and staff engagement: fail. Emergency wait times: fail. Now we hear that the third-quarter report is being delayed until May or June. To the Premier: why the cover-up?

Ms Redford: Well, this is the hon. member's interpretation of that quarterly report. What we've always said is that we will continue to strive to improve health care in this province. That is happening. There are some measures we are meeting, and there are some we need to work on, and we'll be completely honest with Albertans. But, Mr. Speaker, this Alberta health care system is not failing.

Dr. Sherman: Mr. Speaker, I'm a simple man. Green means good; yellow means not so good; red means fail. These were all red. Given that Cathy Roozen and her husband together donated $27,000 to your leadership campaign and in return you rewarded her with the position of AHS board chair, to the Premier: do you honestly believe that you can delay the report until after the election and not have the integrity of AHS and your integrity called into question?

Ms Redford: Mr. Speaker, you know what? I'm going to say right now that we believe in transparency in this government. It was certainly information that was brought to the minister's attention with respect to this report. We are committed to ensuring that Albertans understand what's going on in the health care system. We will certainly ensure that that report is provided because we want Albertans to know what's going on. I would actually ask the hon. member to refer to the colour of his own tie.

2:00

Dr. Sherman: Mr. Speaker, given that the Premier's idea of transparency is receiving a big donation for her leadership campaign and rewarding that donation – there are three things in the world you can't hide: the sun, the moon, and the truth – Premier, why do you persist in trying to hide the truth about this government's abysmal failure on health care? Show us the report.

Ms Redford: Mr. Speaker, the question has been asked; the question has been answered.

I'll ask the minister of health to supplement this answer. He might have more information.

Mr. Horne: Well, Mr. Speaker, the third-quarter report for Alberta Health Services has not even been presented to me yet. I believe that Albertans expect me as their Minister of Health and Wellness to understand, to review, the data contained in the report, to talk about opportunities in the budget that was passed in the House this week, to apply new resources to improve performance in areas that are of concern, as well as celebrate our success.

The Speaker: Third Official Opposition main question. The hon. Leader of the Official Opposition.

Collection of School Fees

Dr. Sherman: Mr. Speaker, let's try something different. The government's fudge-it budget promises unsustainable, inadequate underfunding of our public education system. School boards across the province have been forced to charge working families school fees, a regressive tax. A report in the Calgary Beacon mentions yet another school district which sends collection agencies after parents who can't afford to pay. To the Premier: why does your government allow school boards to sic collection agencies on working families for something that's supposed to be free, public education? Premier, why?

Ms Redford: Mr. Speaker, we have a fantastic education system in this province that we should all be proud of as Albertans. We have hard-working families and teachers that are making sure that our kids are getting educated well. We will always ensure that parents have choice. One of the choices that parents get to make is with respect to certain activities that they may want their children to be part of which are not included in our standard curriculum. It's entirely appropriate, if parents make those choices and they do choose to supplement, that they have the ability to do that. If they choose to make those agreements, then we expect them to honour the agreements.

Dr. Sherman: Mr. Speaker, the Premier is correct. We do have fantastic parents, teachers, and students. It's the government I'm talking about.

Given that Alberta children are not permitted to attend graduation ceremonies or purchase grad photos or a yearbook if their families can't afford these school fees, to the Premier: why does your PC government insist on wrecking graduation, the most important day in the lives of our young people, with collection agencies? Why, Premier?

Mr. Lukaszuk: Well, Mr. Speaker, here is a member who will blow out a candle just to prove that it's dark. One of the four best education systems in the world – fabulous parent satisfaction, kids performing better than children in most of the world and definitely outperforming any other Canadians, the most choice that any province offers in education – and this member will just find the negatives.

The fact of the matter is that our budget is growing from $6.8 billion to $7.1 billion. We are spending roughly $35 million per school day. Mr. Speaker, this is a world-class education system.

Dr. Sherman: Mr. Speaker, I make no apologies for telling the truth and giving the facts, the facts that we have amongst the highest school noncompletion rates in the country and the lowest postsecondary participation rate in the country because of this government's failed policies. Given that our children are our greatest resource and our future, to the Premier: will you commit to doing the right thing? Will you say no to sending collection agencies to hound hard-working parents and say yes to ending school fees? Say yes, Premier. That's all you've got to do.

Ms Redford: Mr. Speaker, there was a pretty wonderful day in the province this week, and that was the day that this House passed the budget that provided sustainable funding for public education across this province on a three-year cycle. What that allows is for school boards to make the long-term decisions that they need to make to continue providing the highest quality of public education to children in this province so that they can continue to excel. That is something that we are very proud of as a government and will continue to support.

The Speaker: The hon. Member for Calgary-Glenmore.

Municipal Funding

Mr. Hinman: Thank you, Mr. Speaker. Yesterday the Premier, in typical fearmongering fashion, with no regard for the facts, told the AAMD and C that the Wildrose was cutting funding to municipalities. If she had bothered to read our policy, she would have seen with our 10-10 municipal funding plan that it not only increases funding to municipalities but also removes the restrictive conditions this government places on the funds for their own political agendas. To the Premier: were you again being misinformed by those you picked to surround yourself with about the Wildrose municipal funding plan?

Ms Redford: Mr. Speaker, I read with great interest the fiscal plan that was put forward by this party, and what I see in that plan is a $400 million reduction in transfers to municipalities. That's a fact. When you decide that you're going to cut infrastructure down to $4 billion, you're going to cut infrastructure. It's not just infrastructure spending that you cut; it's infrastructure. That's schools, and that's hospitals, and that impacts municipalities, and we'll stand behind that.

Mr. Hinman: It's typical of this Premier. She only reads the first line, and she always misreads it.

Again to the Premier: is this the kind of campaign rhetoric Albertans can expect from you and your party given the distortion of the facts and the misinformation you declare about the Wildrose given that we've already seen it with your ridiculous statement about our municipal funding, our funding for front-line workers, and our priority for building the schools we need? Premier, are you so out of touch with the facts or are you so . . . *

Ms Redford: You know, Mr. Speaker, what Albertans are going to be able to expect from this Premier and our party in this election . . .

Mr. Hinman: Point of order.

Ms Redford: . . . is a vibrant discussion on policy, a vibrant discussion on defining what the future of this province will be that will not be based on fearmongering. There are other parties that do that. We're going to talk about what Alberta can be in the future, why we have faith and optimism in our children and in our families. That's going to be an exciting campaign.

The Speaker: The hon. Member for Calgary-Glenmore has the floor.

Mr. Hinman: I'd like my full 35 seconds if she had any respect.

Given the confusion and, according to you, the clear misunderstanding by Albertans as to where you stood on the judicial inquiry on intimidation of our health care providers and where you stood on stopping the overbuild of our power lines and what a fixed election date means to you versus Albertans, it's no wonder Albertans believe that their word is their bond, and they ask: is your bond any better than a Bre-X bond?

Ms Redford: Mr. Speaker, I'm certainly glad I waited for the full 35 seconds.

I'll tell you, Mr. Speaker, we are very clear on what an independent judicial inquiry looks like, and we called one. We promised to fix election periods, and we did. We have kept every commitment that we have made in this Legislature and outside of this Legislature. We are transparent, we are honest, and we can't wait to get to the polls.

*See page 763, right column, paragraph 14

The Speaker: The hon. Member for Edmonton-Strathcona.

Long-term Care for Seniors

(continued)

Ms Notley: Thank you, Mr. Speaker. Albertans have come to expect delay tactics from a Conservative government mired in scandal on the eve of an election. Perhaps the most disturbing is the Premier's tactic of deliberately withholding the most recent Alberta Health Services performance report, which is now due but will also not be released until after the election. Will this Premier stop gaming the system for political purposes, release this report, and take responsibility for her government's failed health care record?

Mr. Horne: Mr. Speaker, there is no delay tactic here. Alberta Health Services has yet to present the final version of the Q3 report to me. Our plan, which would be a responsible plan of a responsible government, is to sit down and discuss with them those results, highlight the areas we want to target for specific improvement, and then apply new resources that are available to the budget to do just that. That is what a reasonable, prudent government, knowledgeable about effective health care system performance, would do. That's what we're going to do.

Ms Notley: Well, Mr. Speaker, that's what a scared government would do on the eve of an election.

Now, given that this government hasn't increased long-term care since 2004, amounting to a 20 per cent cut in long-term care, while 473 people are currently occupying hospital beds waiting for care and given that this is one of the primary reasons for wait times in ER, why won't the Premier admit that freezing long-term care beds is not the way to solve the problems in our hospitals and come clean about the latest performance measures that AHS is withholding from the public?

Ms Redford: Mr. Speaker, there's been no freezing of long-term care beds. The fact that these sorts of suggestions are made, quote, on the eve of an election does not surprise me at all. This is a government that is committed to continuing care, to supporting families in their homes, to ensuring that we can have publicly funded health care for seniors who can have accommodation choices and are going to be able to live where they want to live. This is exactly the commitment that we did make, we have made, and we'll continue to make.

2:10

Ms Notley: Well, Mr. Speaker, I'd suggest that the Premier should read AHS's reports because those show a freeze.

Given that experts agree that replacing long-term care beds with supportive living beds will not meet the complex medical needs of our elderly and may in fact cause them to end up back in hospital more frequently and given that stats around ER wait times have not improved as a result of this failed strategy, will this Premier tell Albertans why she won't build new long-term care beds instead of waiting for her private developer funders to build inadequate supportive living?

Ms Redford: Mr. Speaker, what we are going to ensure that Alberta seniors have is an array of options. There are Alberta seniors that want to have choice with respect to where to live, and they want that accommodation to be supported by a publicly funded health care system. What we are talking about, what continuing care means is to give Albertans the option of being able to choose where they live with a cap maintained – so no fearmongering anymore about that – and to ensure that there are public health care dollars that are appropriate to the level of care needed for every Alberta senior.

The Speaker: The hon. Member for Red Deer-North, followed by the hon. Member for Calgary-Buffalo.

Assured Income for the Severely Handicapped

Mrs. Jablonski: Thank you, Mr. Speaker. I've met many people throughout the province who receive AISH, assured income for the severely handicapped. They anxiously awaited Budget 2012. As part of Budget 2012 this government delivered on the Premier's promise to increase the AISH monthly benefit by $400 per month and double the employment income exemptions. Many of the AISH clients in my constituency have been asking when they can expect to see the $400 increase. My question to the Premier: will the cheques be delivered on time and soon?

Ms Redford: Mr. Speaker, it was a wonderful day in this province this week when this budget passed this House. What this budget did was it increased AISH recipients' benefits by $400 a month effective April 1. The members on this side of the House supported that budget and supported that increase and are proud to have done it.

Mrs. Jablonski: Mr. Speaker, I just have one supplemental question for the Premier. Will AISH clients living in long-term care also receive the $400 per month increase in benefits?

Ms Redford: Mr. Speaker, there are no qualifications to this. This is a commitment that I made as leader, it's a commitment we made as a government, and we passed it in the budget.

The Speaker: The hon. Member for Calgary-Buffalo, followed by the hon. Member for Strathcona.

Mr. Hehr: Mr. Speaker, I'd like to say what a true honour it has been to serve with both you and every single member in this honourable House over the course of the last four years.

Home-schooling

Mr. Hehr: Mr. Speaker, I also believe that home-schooling is a valid accommodation made by governments to provide unique learning environments for some of our children. That being said, I'm highly concerned that this minister is walking away from his responsibility to ensure that every child in Alberta has the skills they need to succeed. To the Minister of Education: why are home-schoolers explicitly exempted from the requirement to write standardized exams that apply to all other Alberta students?

Mr. Lukaszuk: Well, actually, I thank you for that pitch, a slow one. I'll try to get it out of the park. The reason, Mr. Speaker, is that every parent in the province of Alberta can exempt their child from writing a provincial achievement test. Why should it be any different for home-schooling parents? It's perhaps one of the best kept secrets, but parents do have the option to exempt their children from writing PATs in grade 3, 6, and 9.

Mr. Hehr: Are you telling me that all home-schoolers are regularly checked on their progress by this government to ensure that they're learning the curriculum and getting the skills that they need?

Mr. Lukaszuk: Mr. Speaker, home-schooling parents are affiliated with a liaison from Alberta Education, and it is made certain that they follow the suggested teaching/learning plan for their children, but they can pick the resources that they utilize for implementing that plan at their own volition. They are affiliated with Alberta Education, and there is a parameter of what children have to be taught. But like any other parents they have the option to exempt their children from PATs.

Mr. Hehr: I'm just highly worried about these children's future and their ability to succeed. Does the minister feel comfortable with his current parameters and his checking and following up on the curriculum and whether they're learning in a proper, due, and responsible manner?

Mr. Lukaszuk: I know that this member is worried because I listened to the Rutherford Show today, and he's worried that these parents may be teaching these children about the Holocaust not taking place and many other scary things. I know Albertans are different. I know Albertans will teach their kids the right things. I know Albertans want their kids to succeed and be competitive in this economy. They're simply having a choice, and they're exercising their choice. They're choosing to teach their kids at home, and there's nothing wrong with that.

The Speaker: The hon. Member for Strathcona, followed by the hon. Member for Edmonton-Centre.

Seniors' Property Tax Deferral

Mr. Quest: Thank you, Mr. Speaker. The Seniors' Property Tax Deferral Act has received royal assent, and as a government member and as an Albertan I still have some questions as to the benefit of this type of program. My first question is to the Premier. What is the seniors' property tax deferral program going to do to help Albertans in their senior years that many of our other programs aren't doing already?

Ms Redford: Well, Mr. Speaker, this government is committed to ensuring that seniors have as much flexibility with respect to the choices in their life as possible. The Seniors' Property Deferral Act will allow seniors to defer their property taxes, which, of course, will allow them more options with respect to their household expenses.

We know that seniors who are active and vibrant and living in our communities do best when they have the support to be able to live in their homes. They are our friends, they are our neighbours, they are our family, and we're very proud of this program, Mr. Speaker.

The Speaker: The hon. member.

Mr. Quest: Thank you, Mr. Speaker. My first supplemental also to the Premier: what about low-income seniors who already face debts? We have many of these. I fear this program may encourage some seniors to accrue even more debt.

Ms Redford: Mr. Speaker, this is not going to be a program that we are going to simply launch without proper information and education. There will be an application process for this. The reason we want that is to ensure that people are making the right decisions and are not incurring debt. We know that many people who are living in their own homes and have invested well can make strong and proper decisions with respect to the way that they can supplement their income, and this is another option for those people. But as part of the work that we do in government, we'll be continuing to support public education campaigns that are going to allow seniors to make those choices and have flexibility in their own lives.

The Speaker: The hon. member.

Mr. Quest: Thank you, Mr. Speaker. My second supplemental is also to the Premier. How is the interest rate going to be set?

Ms Redford: Well, Mr. Speaker, this program is designed to help senior homeowners to be more independent and take advantage of the increase in their home's value. I can assure you that the interest rate for the loan will be responsibly balanced so as not to be a deterrent for seniors. Plus, seniors who do take advantage of the program will only need to pay back the loan when they sell their home. We're doing our best to help seniors keep more of their own cash in their wallets.

The Speaker: The hon. Member for Edmonton-Centre, followed by the hon. Member for Edmonton-Mill Creek.

Sand and Gravel Extraction Management

Ms Blakeman: Thank you very much, Mr. Speaker. Most people don't know the term "alluvial aquifer," but Albertans do know how vital groundwater is to every aspect of our lives, from industry to agricultural irrigation to drinking water. Alluvial aquifers are a central piece of this system, and they are our cleaners and our filters. They are also a source of gravel. Our groundwater is at risk by allowing gravel mining in aquifers across the province. To the minister of environment: why isn't the minister protecting these groundwater aquifers?

The Speaker: The hon. minister.

Mrs. McQueen: Well, thank you, Mr. Speaker, and thank you to the member for the question. Quite frankly, I've said it in the House before, and I'll say it again today. We're doing an excellent job in making sure that we are protecting the environment and water. We're doing groundwater mapping throughout this province. We've mapped from Edmonton to Calgary. We'll be mapping in the southern district beyond that, and within three to five years this entire province will have groundwater mapping completed.

Ms Blakeman: Mapping isn't protecting alluvial aquifers.

Back to the same minister: when gravel mining is known to cause channel instability and erosion in rivers and can seriously lower water tables over time, why won't the minister face the fact that gravel has far more value in our river basins than dug out of them?

The Speaker: The hon. minister.

Mrs. McQueen: Well, thank you, Mr. Speaker. Quite frankly, gravel is something that we use as a resource in this province. When we take it out of the rivers and it renews itself, it's an important resource that we have. We use it for many different things in the province.

We do, though, have rules and regulations for when the extraction of gravel is happening. Those rules and regulations must take place. Quite frankly, our department monitors and evaluates that very well, the compliance, that that happens.

Ms Blakeman: No, Minister, gravel does not renew itself. Given that once the damage is done, no amount of reclamation will ever restore our riverbeds and aquifers, at what point will this minister choose protection of our water and say “no more” to gravel mining on our rivers?

2:20

The Speaker: The hon. minister.

Mrs. McQueen: Thank you, Mr. Speaker. Quite frankly, as I said, we have very strong regulations with regard to gravel mining within this province. We make sure that we do that. We continually monitor that. We make sure that regulations are in place. We will extract gravel in this province, but we will always do it in a very environmental and responsible manner.

The Speaker: The hon. Member for Edmonton-Mill Creek, followed by the hon. Member for Airdrie-Chestermere.

School Capital Construction

Mr. Zwozdesky: Thank you, Mr. Speaker. Congratulations on your retirement, and our sincere thank you to you.

Alberta's population is growing rapidly. In fact, the southeast corner of Edmonton is one the fastest-growing areas in Alberta. Thousands of new families have moved into this area, including the Meadows and Silver Berry, and they need a new school. My questions are to the Premier. What can you and our government do to ensure that schools are in fact being built or will be built in high-growth areas like Silver Berry and the Meadows?

Ms Redford: Well, Mr. Speaker, it's very exciting to be able to talk about education. Budget 2012 has helped us to ensure that we can provide sustainable funding with respect to infrastructure and education programming for students. Mr. Speaker, currently there are 76 new schools and major renovations in various stages of planning, design, and construction in Alberta. We are looking ahead. We know that there need to be new schools in this province, and they're being built.

Mr. Zwozdesky: Thank you, Madam Premier. My constituents will be pleased to know that.

Students in my area and elsewhere are sitting in school buses for very long periods of time, and they want to know what you and our government are doing to address this very important situation for our kids.

Ms Redford: Well, Mr. Speaker, the Minister of Education is working very hard on this. As part of our plan for education we are conducting two transportation trials now that are aimed at reducing bus ride times and enhancing the educational opportunities that students can have while they are travelling.

There's no doubt that we need to take a look at every route every year to ensure that kids aren't using time ineffectively on buses. Through co-operative transportation funding to school boards we are looking at getting fewer buses following each other through neighbourhoods and shorter rides for children on buses. Our education system is recognized as one of the best in the world, but we have to make sure kids get to it, Mr. Speaker.

The Speaker: The hon. member.

Mr. Zwozdesky: Thank you very much. Madam Premier, what additional support can you and our government provide to those children who have so-called extra needs or perhaps special needs? This is an extremely important issue for my residents in the Silver Berry, Meadows, and other areas.

Ms Redford: Mr. Speaker, it's the future of our society to ensure that all kids are able to learn and to excel to the best of their ability. This budget took a first step towards implementing a new funding model that supports inclusive practices in schools around this province. This funding model ensures that every school board has the flexibility to support in the classrooms the needs for each child as defined by the family. Funding will be used to provide the supports and services that parents and teachers have told us they need for learners. Together we are making sure that we are preparing our children not just for today but for tomorrow.

The Speaker: The hon. Member for Calgary-McCall, followed by the hon. Member for Grande Prairie-Wapiti.

Residential Construction Standards

Mr. Kang: Thank you, Mr. Speaker. I still have the note you sent me when I asked my first question. The note said: job well done. Although my legs were shaking, that was a great encouragement for me. Thank you very much, and congratulations on your retirement.

Coming back to business, the review of the Condominium Property Act has been ongoing for some time now. Last fall the review was supposed to allow for input from condo owners and renters as well. That didn't happen. To the Minister of Service Alberta: when will the minister consult these owners and renters whose lives are directly impacted by the legislation?

The Speaker: The hon. minister.

Mr. Bhullar: Thank you very much, Mr. Speaker. Allow me to take a moment to say thank you very much. I still have the note you sent me after my maiden speech. If I recall, it said that that was one of the best speeches you had heard in this Assembly in all your years of being here. [interjection] It's not a form letter, sir. It's appropriate for me at this point to also mention the fact that you, sir, were elected to this Assembly one year before God sent me onto this Earth. Thank you very much.

To the member, thank you very much for your question. He's perhaps one of the most likable fellows in this Assembly. Sir, when we move forth with the next phase of consultation, you'll be sure to be on the list. We will consult with all Albertans. We've composed, essentially, a white paper with industry experts, and the next phase is to consult with residents.

The Speaker: The hon. member.

Mr. Kang: Thank you, Mr. Speaker. To the minister again: when will condo owners get legislation that will protect them from disasters such as the Penhorwood complex in Fort Mac and Bellavera Green in Leduc?

The Speaker: The hon. minister.

Mr. Bhullar: Thank you very much, Mr. Speaker. I would invite the member to bring forth a motion to extend this period in the Legislative Assembly for a few more weeks, and perhaps we could do it now.

In all seriousness, the issues that the member brought forth with respect to Fort McMurray and Leduc are issues that involve structural components of the building, which are dealt with through Municipal Affairs. The issues that are dealt with through Service Alberta's legislation are issues relating to condo board governance.

The Speaker: The hon. member.

Mr. Kang: Thank you, Mr. Speaker. I think we are open to that offer any time for a couple more weeks.

To the minister again. I'm not seeing the government walk the talk. What is the government doing that will actually strengthen consumer protection for condo owners?

The Speaker: The hon. minister.

Mr. Bhullar: Thank you, Mr. Speaker. The fact is that we brought forth a group of industry experts, people representing every single stakeholder that has something to do with condo board governance. They've composed a paper, a white paper essentially, and the next phase is to go out and consult with the public on that paper. This will be happening in short order, I would hope within this particular year. I can assure the member that we're taking steps to ensure that condo owners are always protected. We were the first jurisdiction to have condo legislation, and I'm proud of that fact.

The Speaker: The hon. Member for Airdrie-Chestermere.

Election Act Reports

Mr. Anderson: Thank you, Mr. Speaker. Today Elections Alberta announced it found at least 15 separate instances of illegal donations to political parties, with more ongoing. We can confirm that our party or CAs were not contacted, to my knowledge. We asked the CEO if he could share the details, but he can't. Why? Well, accordingly to the CEO, because of a law that this Premier passed as Justice minister that prohibits the Chief Electoral Officer from disclosing the findings of these illegal donations and these investigations. Why did you pass that law while you were Justice minister?

Ms Redford: Mr. Speaker, we have an Election Act in this province that was passed by this Legislature, that was vigorously debated in this Legislature, and ensured, most importantly, something this hon. member does not understand: the independence of officers of this Legislature.

We need to ensure that the Chief Electoral Officer has the ability to do the investigations that that office feels necessary. The amendments to the Election Act that were put forward in this House last time around were amendments that were recommended by the Chief Electoral Officer.

Mr. Anderson: Let me get this straight. Just confirm it for me. You passed a law, that until you were Justice minister was not the case, that bans the Chief Electoral Officer from disclosing the findings of investigations into illegal donations when they're found, illegal donations by political parties, probably by your political party. Why would you do that? Does that not look like a cover-up to you?

Ms Redford: He's making a suggestion and drawing a conclusion that is entirely inappropriate. First of all, there has been no suggestion today, as he stated in his preamble, that he can come to any conclusion with respect to what the Chief Electoral Officer is investigating at the moment. What we know the Chief Electoral Officer is continuing to do is to do his work independently and to ensure that he is able to make appropriate recommendations to prosecutors.

That election legislation, Mr. Speaker, allows the Chief Electoral Officer to do his work, to make recommendations to a prosecutor where appropriate, and where there are offences committed – and I reject the innuendo from this member that any have actually been committed – it will actually allow for an appropriate independent prosecution.

Mr. Anderson: Someone is sure protesting.

I'll give you this challenge, then, Madam Premier. If you're so confident in how squeaky clean your party is on this matter, will you please commit today to allow the Chief Electoral Officer, through legislation if necessary, to be able, when illegal donations are found, to publish those findings and actually show Albertans that you're not part of this cover-up? It looks like you are at the centre of this cover-up.

Ms Redford: Mr. Speaker, the Chief Electoral Officer had the opportunity to bring forward recommendations with respect to the Election Act. That is what the Chief Electoral Officer did the last time we reviewed the act.

If this is a suggestion that this member would like to make and he somehow feels that he is an expert on the Election Act and has a better understanding as to how to administer elections in Alberta, then I would suggest that he introduce legislation.

The Speaker: The hon. Member for Grande Prairie-Wapiti, followed by the hon. Member for Edmonton-Gold Bar.

2:30

Landowner Property Rights

Mr. Drysdale: Thank you, Mr. Speaker. Property rights are very important to my constituents. They want to know that the government is going to respect their rights and follow through on the feedback the Property Rights Task Force received. My question is to the Premier. Is this government going to be respecting those rights and use the feedback going forward?

Ms Redford: Mr. Speaker, in 1972 Premier Lougheed introduced the Alberta Bill of Rights, which is enforced by a human rights commission, and it enshrined the security of property rights in this province. Now, 40 years on, this government, a Progressive Conservative government, is renewing that covenant with Albertans by passing new legislation that strengthens those protections and cannot be superseded. The feedback that we received was exactly why we passed the Property Rights Advocate Act. We have strengthened the ability of Albertans to have confidence in their property rights and provided resources to allow them to navigate the system if they have concerns.

The Speaker: The hon. member.

Mr. Drysdale: Thank you, Mr. Speaker. My first supplemental is also again to the Premier. What is the role of the property rights advocate?

Ms Redford: Mr. Speaker, the property rights advocate will be a one-stop source of impartial information on processes, compensation, and resolution mechanisms, including access to the courts. The advocate will be required to table an annual report on its office's business each year in this Legislature. Landowners told us that they wanted to be consulted, that they wanted to have these resources, and we put that in place.

The Speaker: The hon. member.

Mr. Drysdale: Thank you, Mr. Speaker. My final question is also to the Premier. What are the next steps that will be taken now that the advocate is in place?

Ms Redford: Mr. Speaker, we will be looking at how to improve engagement, reviewing all legislation associated with property rights in the province as well as the requirements for reclamation and remediation. Currently SRD is leading the review of the Expropriation Act and the Surface Rights Act, and that's going to be a good piece of public policy. We're looking forward to designing an engagement process that will meet the needs of Albertans and allow Albertans to express their concerns and issues with respect to this legislation.

The Speaker: The hon. Member for Edmonton-Gold Bar, followed by the hon. Member for Lesser Slave Lake.

Electricity Prices

Mr. MacDonald: Thank you, Mr. Speaker. My first question is to the Premier. Given that over 650 megawatts of additional generation has been constructed in the last eight years in and around Fort McMurray and that this megawatt power is eligible for very generous tax and royalty concessions, how can this government continue to state that there are no subsidies here in Alberta for the construction of new electricity generation stations?

Dr. Morton: Mr. Speaker, the type of cogeneration that the hon. member is speaking of is part of our clean energy strategy. You're getting double use, double duty, out of every hydrocarbon that is burned. Just in the same way that we encourage wind, we're encouraging cogeneration.

Mr. MacDonald: It's a subsidy, and this government knows it.

Again to the Premier: given that electricity deregulation has forced consumers to pay over $20 billion more than they should have paid on their power bills . . .

An Hon. Member: How do you figure that?

Mr. MacDonald: I've got it calculated, hon. member.

. . . how can this government claim that consumers benefit from electricity deregulation when over the course of the last 12 years they have paid an additional $20 billion on their power bills?

Dr. Morton: Mr. Speaker, I sort of bid farewell to the hon. member yesterday, but I'm glad he's back today. I'd look forward to seeing how he arrived at those numbers, I guess, outside of the Assembly.

I'll repeat what I've said before. Since we deregulated, there's been 6,600 megawatts of generation built here at a cost of $11 billion, and none of that is on the consumer. It's all private sector.

The Speaker: The hon. member.

Mr. MacDonald: Thank you, Mr. Speaker. Again to the Premier: if what the Minister of Energy has told us is true, how do you explain that $1.5 billion in subsidies, after deregulation was approved by this government, was given to consumers? That's a subsidy. That's not true.

Dr. Morton: Did the hon. member just say subsidies to consumers? I think he did. I think he misspoke.

I'm simply very happy to repeat probably for the last time in this session that the average price of electricity per megawatt hour for the last five years has been 8 cents. Lo and behold, what's the average for the month of March? It's 8.3 cents. We have a system that's working quite well, Mr. Speaker.

The Speaker: The hon. Member for Lesser Slave Lake, followed by the hon. Member for Calgary-Varsity.

Slave Lake Family Care Clinic

Ms Calahasen: Thank you, Mr. Speaker. One of the family care pilot projects announced today will be located in Slave Lake, to be opened on April 16. Great news for our region, which was so devastated by last spring's wildfires. People have been so worried about health services, especially after losing many of our long-time doctors. My question is to the Premier. How will this family care clinic help address the physician shortage in Slave Lake?

Ms Redford: Well, Mr. Speaker, it's an exciting day because the family care clinic model will provide people in Slave Lake with a home in the health care system. What's really interesting about Slave Lake is that it's a tremendously diverse community that, unfortunately, does not have a primary care network. So this is an important step as the community continues to rebuild after last year's devastating fire. What's really important about the family care clinic model is that it responds to the services that are needed in the community, and the bulk of the services will be provided and can be provided by a team of health professionals: some doctors, some nurse practitioners. It's what the community needs.

Ms Calahasen: Mr. Speaker, that's correct. Our community needs many of those things. It gives me great hope. Again to the Premier: given the fact that we need these services, what services will be offered at the Slave Lake family care clinic? This is real life in Slave Lake.

Ms Redford: Mr. Speaker, the family care clinic in Slave Lake is quite unique because it's going to be able to offer comprehensive primary care such as advice, diagnosis, and treatment, which will be provided by and will include an emphasis on wellness, which when I was last visiting the community was terribly important in terms of dealing with the impacts on families as a result of some of the issues last year. Family care clinics will be open, this one in particular, from 7 in the morning to 9 at night seven days a week. That makes a difference for families, for moms and dads. As I mentioned, since Slave Lake does not have a primary care network, it will be the first time that they'll have an interdisciplinary team of people in their community.

Ms Calahasen: Thank you, Madam Premier. We all know that the Slave Lake region has unique needs and serves many northern and aboriginal communities. Could you please again tell the people of my constituency how the unique needs of our communities will be met through the new family care clinic?

Ms Redford: Mr. Speaker, before the family care clinic was established, there was a great deal of consultation that was undertaken with the community. There will be an emphasis on health promotion, chronic disease management, screening, disease and injury prevention, family planning and pregnancy counselling. This clinic is proximate to what we now see at the hospital so that there will be an opportunity for convenient exchange of services and supports. Having the ability to drop in for unscheduled appointments matters to people in Slave Lake. They're going to have that opportunity in family care clinics. This is a priority area of focus, particularly with respect to supporting the aboriginal population in Slave Lake.

The Speaker: The hon. Member for Calgary-Varsity, followed by the hon. Member for Calgary-Foothills.

Long-term Care Serious Incidents

Mr. Chase: Thank you, Mr. Speaker. For all of us concerned for the well-being of seniors and other vulnerable Albertans in this province's care facilities, the front page of yesterday's Calgary Herald was truly chilling. Over the past seven years, since Auditor General Fred Dunn released his scathing long-term care report, there have been more than 1,000 confirmed cases of abuse in such facilities, including 160 cases of bodily harm. To the Minister of Seniors: as horrifying as these figures are, are they just the tip of the iceberg? How many incidents of suspected abuse go unreported by family members out of fear that a loved one may suffer retaliation?

The Speaker: The hon. minister.

Mr. VanderBurg: Thank you, Mr. Speaker. I mean, it's hard to estimate what's unreported; I only have what's reported. Over the last seven years there have been, actually, 700 cases. Two years ago we had an updated act. Since then there have been about 80 per year reported. Of all the cases, less than 2 per cent are deemed criminal, and we immediately go right to the authorities for help.

2:40

Mr. Chase: According to the paper the average number of reportings was 500 per year. Quite a difference from 80.

Why doesn't the Protection for Persons in Care Act protect the anonymity of those reporting suspected cases of abuse in care facilities to ensure there is no retaliation?

Mr. VanderBurg: Mr. Speaker, there is absolutely no retaliation to anybody that makes a report of abuse. We all have an obligation, and I've said this very, very clearly. For anybody that suspects abuse, don't wait for the Legislature to open; pick up your phone, 1.888.357.9339. You have an obligation to report. It's the law.

The Speaker: The hon. member.

Mr. Chase: Thank you. And enforcing that law is extremely important.

Will this government commit to inspecting all long-term care facilities annually and to publishing the results in a timely fashion to protect vulnerable Albertans?

Mr. VanderBurg: Mr. Speaker, it's very clear in my mandate. We need to make sure that we set the standards in all our long-term care facilities, and we must do inspections annually.

The Speaker: The hon. Member for Calgary-Foothills, followed by the hon. Member for Edmonton-Ellerslie.

Provincial Tax Policy

Mr. Webber: Thank you. Mr. Speaker, it has been a true honour to serve with you in this Assembly.

Since the budget was first introduced, there has been a lot of talk that this government plans on raising taxes. Now that the budget has been passed, can the Premier explain what this government's intentions are with regard to taxes?

Ms Redford: Well, Mr. Speaker, as I've said all along, we're very proud of this budget. What this budget did was introduce no tax increases and no new taxes. Now Albertans can have confidence that that is the future. So no more of this pretending that something might happen. This budget is the budget of Alberta. It has set a strong fiscal framework. Let's not forget the title of this budget, Investing in People. That's what this government will do.

Mr. Webber: Again to the Premier. Your revenue projections are optimistic, to say the least. How confident are you that we will achieve the surplus position forecast in this budget?

Ms Redford: Mr. Speaker, it's been really interesting in the last couple of weeks to see the commentary with respect to projections in this budget. This is a responsible budget. Three major Canadian banks and their assessments praised Alberta for having the strongest economic outlook in the country. You'll know that in every budget that we table, we include the comparisons. We're firmly in the middle with respect to those projections. Our oil price forecast is actually slightly below the average of private forecasts, and based on those forecasts, we are confident we will achieve a surplus of – please listen – $5 billion by 2014.

Mr. Webber: Mr. Speaker, extensive polling to find out how our citizens are viewed by others in Canada showed there were considerable perceptions that Alberta was a conservative place and that compassion, open-mindedness, and tolerance were not always what they could or should be. To the Premier: does Budget 2012 support this view?

Ms Redford: Mr. Speaker, they were right about one thing: we are conservative. We are Progressive Conservative, and we are proud of it. I can tell you that Budget 2012 supports those sentiments. As I said, Budget 2012 is entitled Investing in People and is helping all Albertans reach their full potential and achieve their goals. Seventy-five per cent of this budget is being invested in people through core programs that provide Albertans with better access to health care, to education, and to the infrastructure that builds their communities. We are continuing to support vulnerable Albertans, and we're proud of it.

The Speaker: The hon. Member for Edmonton-Ellerslie.

Infrastructure Funding

Mr. Bhardwaj: Thank you very much, Mr. Speaker. My questions are to the Premier. Alberta has had one of the fastest growing economies and populations in North America, and our province is set to thrive in the years ahead. What is this government doing to ensure that communities have the room and the resources to help Alberta reach its full potential?

Ms Redford: Well, Mr. Speaker, we are investing in Albertans, and we are investing in Alberta. My goal is to ensure that this province continues to be the best place to live and to work and to plan for your family's future. That includes meeting Alberta's needs in their communities with high-quality, well-designed hospitals and clinics, with schools and postsecondary learning institutions, with seniors' facilities, and with other public buildings. We have strong and safe communities that also require adequate, predictable funding that this government is committed to. Unlike other parties, we will not balance this budget on the backs of municipalities.

The Speaker: The hon. member.

Mr. Bhardwaj: Thank you very much, Mr. Speaker. My next question, to the Premier again: how does Alberta compare to other jurisdictions when it comes to support for municipalities?

Ms Redford: One of the things that we're proud of on this side of the House is our investment in infrastructure. There are other political parties that think we invest too much in infrastructure. Mr. Speaker, we invest to municipalities $500 per person compared to a Canada-wide average of $192. We do that because we believe that every community in this province matters. We know we need to invest in infrastructure to not just ensure that rural communities are sustainable but that they grow because that's the future of Alberta.

The Speaker: The hon. member.

Mr. Bhardwaj: Thank you very much, Mr. Speaker. My final question, to the Premier again: Madam Premier, are you saying that this government will not slash funding to the municipalities for infrastructure?

Ms Redford: Mr. Speaker, this government is committed to continuing to support municipalities, to ensuring that we are putting funding in place that municipalities have asked for. You know, whether it's AUMA or AAMD and C, what we hear is that the municipal sustainability initiative matters to Albertans and that it matters to communities. We will continue to invest in infrastructure, and unlike other parties, we will not slash infrastructure spending.

The Speaker: Hon. members, 18 members participated today, 106 questions and responses, and I want you to know that I will never ever forget this last question period. [applause]

Members' Statements

The Speaker: The hon. Member for Edmonton-Strathcona.

New Democratic Party Election Choice

Ms Notley: Thank you, Mr. Speaker. It's four years since Albertans last elected people to make decisions that would deliver on the benefits of living in Alberta. Since then they have repeatedly disappointed. Some have been hurt; others are angry.

Alberta is prosperous in part because of diverse and gigantic natural resources, renewable and nonrenewable. That wealth belongs to all of us, not just to a few friends of the current government tied to corporate interests, wanting to make money for their owners instead of the people of Alberta. Government should make decisions to ensure prosperity benefits the real owners, the people of Alberta. Regardless of who sat in the Premier's chair, this government for four years has carried on the same old PC Party commitment to corporate friends.

Alberta is a prosperous place because of hard-working, innovative Albertans, but the government consistently ignores investments that will ensure life is safe, affordable, and healthy for them. Very low taxes for very wealthy people and low royalties on our bitumen have been this government's agenda. They have broken promises to build long-term care for seniors. They have underfunded education so that special needs and kindergarten have suffered, and school boards have been forced into difficult decisions to close neighbourhood schools. They've let costs for postsecondary education rise so that young people begin their working lives with tens of thousands of dollars of debt. They've ignored warnings from physicians about chaos in health care that is hurting ill Albertans.

This government has lost touch with the real lives and needs of ordinary Albertans. Worse, they have deliberately broken trust with them, Mr. Speaker. Their secret decisions have ensured that a minority of their good friends benefit from Alberta, but behind closed doors they remain deaf to the needs of the rest of us.

We are days from an election, and the NDP offers hope to those Albertans who dream of receiving their fair share of our province's great wealth finally. The NDP is a political choice that believes that the prosperity of Alberta belongs to all of us. The NDP has practical proposals that will let all Albertans know they can have affordable utilities, seniors living in dignity, and young people making a good start in a clean environment.

Mr. Speaker, we are proud that we'll be offering these progressive choices to Albertans in every corner of the province.

The Speaker: The hon. Leader of the Official Opposition.

Liberal Party Election Choice

Dr. Sherman: Thank you, Mr. Speaker. We live in the greatest province in the greatest country in the world. It is not hyperbole to say that Alberta is blessed: blessed with a superabundance of natural resources, blessed with the most beautiful scenery in the world, and blessed with a great people, its best resource.

There is one challenge, however, facing Albertans today, a government which says no whenever Albertans express their desire for better access to publicly delivered health care, education, seniors' care. Albertans desire balanced budgets and desire trust in their leaders and good government and real change.

2:50

This government needs to be stopped. It was once a source of solutions and goodness for this province, but before you leave this Legislature, Mr. Speaker, please take them with you. It is time to remove this government. When Albertans ask for an independent public inquiry into our broken health care system and to fix our health care, what do they say? They say yes. When Albertans ask for our seniors to be treated with dignity, the answer should be yes. When Albertans ask for an end to school fees and for postsecondary education to be more affordable, the answer should be yes. When Albertans ask for an end to insanely high power bills, it's a no-brainer that the correct answer should be yes. When Albertans ask for an end to bullying of doctors, health care workers, and municipal councillors, the correct answer is yes. When Albertans say, "Will you please stop wasting our hard-earned tax dollars?" – one more time – the answer is yes. The Alberta government is allergic to the word "yes," and this is why Albertans have so many problems.

Mr. Speaker, it is time to return the Alberta Liberals to the Legislature, like we did in 1906. To that I say yes.

Tabling Returns and Reports

The Speaker: The hon. Minister of Infrastructure.

Mr. Johnson: Yes. Mr. Speaker, I'd like to table the supplemental responses to Committee of Supply questions raised in Infrastructure's main estimates debate by the Member for Calgary-McCall and the Member for Calgary-Glenmore on March 6, 2012.

The Speaker: The hon. Member for Edmonton-Gold Bar.

Mr. MacDonald: Yes. Thank you very much, Mr. Speaker. You never ever did send me a note when I was first elected, and I'm so disappointed.

The Speaker: But I gave you a hug.

Mr. MacDonald: Not that I remember.

I have a tabling today which is a document that I received, and I'm grateful to have acquired it. It's from the PC Alberta Campaign College, that occurred in February, and it is the speaking notes and the responses and the backgrounders for the Alberta PC Party to try to defend electricity deregulation during the run-up to the election and, I can only assume, during the election. If you were to look for this in a library, Mr. Speaker, you'd have to go to the fiction section to find it.

Thank you.

The Speaker: The hon. Member for Edmonton-Centre.

Ms Blakeman: Thanks very much, Mr. Speaker. On behalf of my constituent Ms Wellsman I am tabling a letter in which she is putting out her concerns about the Alberta dental association and their fee schedule. The last fee schedule was in 1997, and she notes that this is of great concern in that the fees have increased. The dental plan administrators tend to use a newer fee, yet your insurers will only pay the older fee. Suggesting that people shop around for a competitive rate is just not possible in this day and age because there is no competitive rate, so she's asking for the necessary steps to be taken, that a dental association fee schedule be produced and maintained.

Thank you very much, Mr. Speaker.

The Speaker: The hon. Member for Calgary-Varsity.

Mr. Chase: Thank you. The hon. Speaker sent me several notes, primarily of the cautionary kind.

Mr. Speaker, my final tabling comes with a regret, that I have not had the sessional time to table hundreds of Albertans' letters expressing concerns over clear-cutting. However, the strategic placement of a single letter, X, on a ballot will end the clear-cutting practice.

I am tabling a further 20 letters, out of the hundreds I've received, from the following individuals, who are concerned about the proposed logging in the west Bragg Creek. They are requesting a complete, facilitated, and accessible public consultation: Sandy Westinghouse, Ada Casello, Greg Axelson, Esq., Jolayne Anderson, Laveryne Green, Mataya Allan, Erik Allan, Cheryl Cohen, Lorie D. Cooper, Jeremy and Chelsea Ciolli, Dr. Keith Allan, Angel Wilson, Christine McNalley, Sandy Lyndon, Simon Coward, Peggy Wedderburn, Lisa Walpole, David Blackwood, and Giles Parker.

Thank you, Mr. Speaker, for your time served.

The Speaker: Are there others? The hon. Leader of the Official Opposition.

Dr. Sherman: Thank you, Mr. Speaker. I'd like to table five copies of an article written by Christopher Walsh of the Calgary Beacon. The article refers to "Alberta school boards shaking down parents with collection agencies." I wish to table five copies of this.

Mr. Speaker, I would like to thank you for your time served.

The Speaker: The hon. Minister of Municipal Affairs.

Mr. Griffiths: Thank you, Mr. Speaker. I'm pleased to table with the Assembly today five copies of the Capital Region Board's 2011 annual report. I'd like to commend the board for its continued work in the implementation of the growth plan for the capital region. The plan is going to be an invaluable tool for the region as we move forward, and it's a great example of the collaborative work that many of Alberta's municipal leaders are undertaking to make their communities the best place in the world to live.

Thank you.

Tablings to the Clerk

The Clerk: I wish to advise the House that the following documents were deposited with the office of the Clerk. On behalf of the hon. Mr. Horne, Minister of Health and Wellness, pursuant to the Health Professions Act the Alberta College and Association of Chiropractors annual report to government 2010-11, the Alberta College of Occupational Therapists 2010-11 annual report, the Alberta College of Optometrists annual report to the government 2010, the College and Association of Respiratory Therapists of Alberta annual report 2011, the College of Alberta Dental Assistants annual report 2010-11, the College of Alberta Psychologists annual report 2010-11, the College of Dental Technologists of Alberta 2010 annual report, and the College of Registered Psychiatric Nurses of Alberta annual report 2011.

Projected Government Business

Ms Blakeman: Well, I'll be really interested to hear the answer to this. Under Standing Order 7(6) I'm going to ask the Government House Leader if he could share with us the projected government business for the week commencing April 2.

The Speaker: The hon. Government House Leader.

Mr. Hancock: Thank you, Mr. Speaker. I would suggest to the House that in the event that we're here on April 2, we will be discussing the Education Act, Bill 2, and such other acts as may be placed on the Order Paper.

The Speaker: Okay. We've got two points of order that arose during the question period. The first one was by the hon. Member for Airdrie-Chestermere, but I'll deal with the second one first, by the hon. Member for Calgary-Glenmore.

Point of Order Speaking Time

The Speaker: I do believe the hon. Member for Calgary-Glenmore is going to rise on a point of order and say that he was interrupted, that he did not have an opportunity to conclude his question before the Premier responded, and he's right. The Premier showed a lot of enthusiasm, jumped into the question before the hon. member had completed his full 35-second allotment. There seems to be a lot of enthusiasm these days around this place and a lot of energy, and that clearly is a rightful point of order. The Premier should be advised that she should wait for the full 35 seconds before she overzealously . . .

Mr. Hinman: Can I read the question in?

The Speaker: Yes, I will allow you to read the question, but we need not go on to a further answer. We already have one. Yes, address your full question to the Assembly.

Mr. Hinman: Thank you.* Yesterday the Premier, in typical PC fearmongering fashion, with no regard to the facts, told the AAMD and C that the Wildrose cut funding to municipalities. If she had bothered to read our policy, Mr. Speaker, she would have seen that our 10-10 municipal funding plan not only increases funding to municipalities but also removes the restrictive conditions this government places on funds for their own political agendas. To the Premier: were you again misinformed by those you picked to surround yourself with about the Wildrose municipal funding, or, even of more concern, are you knowingly misinforming Albertans for political gain?

*See page 755, right column, paragraph 5

The Speaker: Okay. Thank you.

The second one. Hon. Member for Airdrie-Chestermere, you rose on a point of order, something to do with a “That’s a fact” statement.

Mr. Anderson: Mr. Speaker, you know what? In the interests of just celebrating your time here, I’m just going to withdraw that point of order and thank you for putting up with one hon. member who certainly at times gets very emotional and gets revved up in this House. You’ve dealt very well with that, I feel, and very patiently with that, and for that I thank you very much. Good luck in your retirement. You’ve done an amazing job as MLA for your community.

3:00

The Speaker: Thank you very much. There is nothing wrong with enthusiasm.

The hon. Government House Leader.

Mr. Hancock: Thank you, Mr. Speaker. At this time I would ask unanimous consent of the House to suspend standing orders 3(1) and 4(2) to extend the afternoon sitting until 6 p.m. to allow for further debate on Bill 2.

The Speaker: This request put forward by the hon. Government House Leader will require unanimous consent. Our standing order rules clearly indicate that on Thursdays we rise at 4:30 p.m. As I understand it, the request being made is to go beyond 4:30 to 6 o’clock. Is that correct, hon. Government House Leader? So this will require unanimous consent of all members.

[Unanimous consent denied]

Orders of the Day

Government Bills and Orders Committee of the Whole

[Mr. Zwozdesky in the chair]

Bill 2 Education Act

The Deputy Chair: Hon. members, are there any speakers? The hon. Minister of Education, followed by the hon. Member for Edmonton-Centre.

Mr. Lukaszuk: Thank you, Mr. Speaker. I am pleased to rise today and table an amendment, which I believe you will number as A8. I know that pages and the Clerk have copies of the amendment to Bill 2, the Education Act. If you allow me, I will sit down for half a minute to allow for distribution of the amendment.

The Deputy Chair: Thank you very much, hon. member. We will keep a copy here, the original, which we have now, thank you. I would ask the other copies to be circulated.

Hon. minister, if you would rise and read the amendment into the record while it’s being circulated, that will speed things along.

Mr. Lukaszuk: Well, Mr. Speaker, as you are aware, we only have an hour and a half on the clock in order to deal with these amendments and the bill. Hopefully, we will have full co-operation of all members in this House to do so. If not, that means that the Education Act will die on the Order Paper, and we will not be able to proceed with it further. So there we go.

This amendment has several clauses, so I will read each separately and then provide the rationale.

The following is added after section 24, related to charter schools:

Restriction on operator

25.1 The operator of a charter school must restrict its purposes to the operation of that charter school.

This section ensures that the focus of the operator of the charter school is the students that it serves.

Section 29(4)(e) is amended by striking out “the financial administration of the school is unstable and places the learning environment of the students at risk” and substituting “the financial situation of the school places the learning environment of the students at risk,” so the word “unstable” is simply removed as it is an ambiguous word.

The Deputy Chair: Hon. minister, I hesitate to interrupt, but I thought in your opening comment you said section 24. Did you mean section 25?

Mr. Lukaszuk: The first one, Mr. Chair, was section 25, yes.

The Deputy Chair: My apologies. We’re actually having to number these, so this one that refers to or begins with “The following is added after section 25” has now been circulated, and it will be known as amendment A8.

Mr. Lukaszuk: That’s correct.

The Deputy Chair: So could I ask you to read that one into the record first as the pages complete circulating it?

Mr. Lukaszuk: Okay. This section would say:

25.1 The operator of a charter school must restrict its purposes to the operation of that charter school.

Is that fine, Mr. Chair?

The Deputy Chair: Carry on. The whole package will be known as A8.

Mr. Lukaszuk: That’s right. It is introduced as one, and it can be separated later.

Section 112 is amended by striking out subsection (1) and substituting the following:

Establishment of school division

112(1) The Minister may, by order, establish a school division

- (a) consisting of 2 or more separate school districts or separate school divisions established under this Act, or
- (b) consisting of 2 or more public school districts or public . . . divisions established under this Act.

This amendment allays concerns that section 112 as it currently is worded allows the minister to at his own discretion create a school division composed of both separate and public school districts or divisions, which is not the intention of this minister. It is supported by the Alberta Catholic School Trustees’ Association.

Section 135, Mr. Chair, is amended by striking out subsection (1)(a)(ii) and by striking out subsection (2)(a) and substituting the following:

- (a) is a Francophone,
- (a.1) is 18 years of age or older,
- (a.2) is a Canadian citizen,

- (a.3) has been a resident of Alberta for the 6 consecutive months immediately preceding nomination day and resides in the Francophone education region on election day.

This amendment removes the requirement for francophone school trustee candidates to have children in the francophone school system. This proposed amendment allows for better alignment with eligibility requirements for public and separate school systems while ensuring that minority language education rights, guaranteed under the Charter, are upheld. This amendment is supported by Fédération des Conseils Scolaires Francophones de l'Alberta, which represents the five Alberta francophone region authorities in the province.

Finally, Mr. Chairman, the last, section 192 is amended by striking out subsection (2). This amendment addresses concerns respecting the sharing of school spaces. Section 192(2) as it is currently worded would permit the minister to direct a separate school board to make space available to a public school board or vice versa. It is supported by the Alberta Catholic School Trustees' Association.

Mr. Chairman, I want to ensure that Bill 2 appropriately strikes a balance and addresses concerns that have been raised by many Albertans since the introduction of Bill 2 on this floor. Even more so, this is an important piece of legislation that will lay the foundation of education in our province for years to come. These amendments will help strengthen the legislation and address concerns expressed by stakeholders.

I stand today and I urge all members to vote in favour of these amendments and pass Bill 2 so it does not die on the Order Paper.

The Deputy Chair: Hon. members, there is limited time, so the chair will observe strict speaking order by those people who wish to speak. I'll keep a list, and we'll adhere to that rigidly.

Edmonton-Centre will go next, followed by Edmonton-Gold Bar.

Ms Blakeman: It's a point of order first, and then I'll speak.

The Deputy Chair: Please.

Point of Order Voting on Amendments

Ms Blakeman: The point of order is to request, as is the tradition of the House upon a request, that the multiple amendments put before us are voted separately. So we can debate them all at once, but they need to be voted separately.

The Deputy Chair: Thank you. We'll get the government member to respond.

Ms Blakeman: There's no response to that. They just do it.

The Deputy Chair: Please know that this is one amendment with five parts.

Ms Blakeman: Excuse me, Mr. Chair. The tradition of the House is not to ask permission.

The Deputy Chair: We'll ask the minister to clarify whether each part can be voted on individually.

The hon. minister on behalf.

Mr. Lukaszuk: I accept the authority of the member that this is the tradition of the House, and there is no objection whatsoever.

The Deputy Chair: So we have agreement on that. Thank you for raising it, hon. member.

Debate Continued

Ms Blakeman: Thank you very much. Now I am rising to speak to the amendment that's currently on the floor. This has been a vigorous debate with very high passion on all sides, which, frankly, I'm pleased to see. I know that conflict is often regarded as hostile, but in my world, which was the world of the theatre, you don't get a very good play unless you've got some conflict involved in it. I often find that you get a better . . .

Dr. Taft: What about comedy?

Ms Blakeman: Oh, yes. Comedy particularly has conflict. Just think of all those slamming doors and things not going right.

But conflict can also bring together many different minds trying to improve something. I had really hoped that that's what was going to happen with this education bill, and I still have hope that that will happen. It is no secret that I am passionate about public education. My parents were both teachers in the public system. They cannot stop teaching. Everything they do in their lives is about helping whoever is around them to learn something new. I once had a friend who asked my father to help him change the light in his car, and when he came back he said: you know, I just learned more about how my whole car works than I ever knew before, and that was by having your dad help me change one simple little light.

3:10

Education and the process of sharing education and those teachable moments in life are critically important to me, and I believe in public education so much. I really think it is the key to our future, that it's about our ability to create those knowledge-based economies, to move away from a resource-based economy, to make the best use that we can out of innovation and research and development. Yes, that requires oil sands and oil and gas, but it also requires brainpower, and that is nurtured by education.

I want every Alberta child to get the best possible K to 12 education that is possible, and that's why I've been so passionate about what we've had before us.

Now, I've spent a lot of time talking about rights and freedoms, and it's just a particular bee in my bonnet, if you'd like to put it that way, or perhaps you could see it as another passion of mine. We tend to throw around rights and freedoms very casually in North America and particularly in Canada. I'm trying to get people to understand that the freedoms and the rights that we do enjoy today are precious and that somebody thought long and hard and worked and negotiated with others to come to a point where we had a document that set those out for us.

That document, the Constitution, which includes the Charter, is a very important document to us. It guarantees those freedoms. It guarantees those rights. So I get right PO'd when people start throwing around the term "right." "I've got a right to out tonight, Mom and Dad. I've got a right to do this as the employee. I've got a right to have my housing paid for." No, you don't. Know what your rights are, and we'd all be a better society. So I'm always going to take issue when somebody starts to throw that around, and I've had the opportunity to talk about it quite a bit.

One of the things that we've seen in play during this discussion is the government underlining and enshrining what it sees as choices to parents in ways to educate their children. I would really prefer that we could educate all children inside of the public system. I really believe in that. I wonder why we have come to the point . . . [interjection] I'm getting lipped off there by the Energy minister. I'm sure that if he's got time, he's going to get up, but my time is precious. With all due respect, Minister, direct your heckling somewhere else so I can get through this.

I wish that those options did not have to be written outside of the public system. I really would prefer that it's all... [interjection] There he goes again.

I really would prefer that it all happens inside of a public system. [interjection]

The Deputy Chair: I hate to interrupt the hon. member. Please, we have precious little time here, and I would ask that everybody cede the floor, as required, to the hon. Member for Edmonton-Centre. Please, let's keep the interjections to a minimum here. Thank you.

Ms Blakeman: Thanks. That's fine, Mr. Chair.

The government has been very careful to allow charter schools outside of the public system, private schools outside of the public system, and home-schooling outside of the private system. In Edmonton our charter schools are all inside of the public school system, and no one has shown me that that system isn't working as well as I think it does. I have a charter school as one of my schools, and it works really well. I'm very happy with it, and I wish everyone else would have followed that model. Wherever Mike Strembitsky is today, we owe him a deep vote of gratitude.

But other people didn't follow that system, and we have a situation where, you know, groups have approached the Calgary school board and asked to be a charter school under their system and were refused. What did we think was going to happen? Well, they're going to go on their own and say: "The act entitles us. We're going to create a charter school outside of the public system." Well, public system, I hope you're happy with the results because now what we've got is charter schools increasingly going outside of the public system. Again, I wish it didn't happen, but I understand why it is.

Home-schooling. You know, why would somebody want to home-school? Well, I know why they'd want to home-school. I've got a couple of people in my life, and I know why they home-school. I'm not going to talk about their personal choices here.

One of the things that I received a certain amount of feedback on was when I said that home-schooled children should have the same outcomes as children in the public system. I was taken to task by some people who said: "Really? There are studies out there that show that home-schooled children actually attain a better outcome than if they were in a public school."

Actually, from my experience with the people in my life I know that to be true. I think that if you've got, you know, an intelligent, well-educated parent who's going to spend that time with the kids and they get a lot of attention and they get taken out to the art gallery and the science centre and the ballet and taken through the fire station and all kinds of other life-learning situations, yeah, they will end up with a better all-around education than a child is going to get in an overcrowded classroom, which is what they're dealing with today. But there are also examples of home-schooled children who are simply left – their parents go off to work – and examples of home-schooled children who can't get into university or postsecondary because they don't know how to read.

My frustration with home-schooling is not about why people choose to home-school or how they home-school. My frustration is: are we going to end up with kids that are going to be able to move forward with our province at the end of this? For those that are able to come out of home-schooling on top of it, excellent. But for those that are not: what the heck are we going to do with them? How did we as legislators fail those kids? And we failed them; there's no two ways about it as far as I'm concerned.

I think we have a responsibility there to ensure that all home-schooled kids are going to end up at some level or above, and I'm perfectly willing to take above that level. But I don't feel it is appropriate for us to walk away from those kids that are not able to get to that level because they didn't have a good home-schooling experience. So I feel that in some case we've left those kids. I don't know how many there are in this province, but I've heard enough stories now to know that they certainly exist. I've heard as many of those stories as I've heard stories of kids that did very well under home-schooling. The fact that we don't test those kids at all I think is a huge failing of the system. I think we should be testing those kids. That, to me, is a failing of this act.

Now, am I willing to go with the act the way it is? You know what? It's better than where we were. There were a number of things that we needed to do to bring it into the 21st century. There were a number of things that the trustees and the school boards asked for that have been incorporated into this act. That is a good thing. I'm glad it's there.

I am deeply troubled by the inclusion of the preamble that was a government amendment and was added in. It troubles me deeply for the same reason. Lots of parents, most parents, are good parents. They do their best for their kids. But where they don't do their best for the kids, who is supposed to look after the children that don't get the best benefit of that? It's us. It's the state. It's the government services that come in. Where we leave children that don't get the full benefit, we have failed them, and that is my problem with what's happened with that preamble. Saying that parents can do whatever they want and they're the ultimate decider and the ultimate provider, everything that was in that particular preamble, I think for most parents that's fine. But those children that we fail: what are we going to do for them? We just let them go. We just say: "Oh, well. Too bad. Couldn't catch that one." I struggle with that.

By the government feeling that it needed to put that preamble in there despite all the other preambles that were in this act, the government, I think, caved to a group of very able lobbyists who wanted a particular change in there. They caved to them. They didn't need to. This was a good act. It had a lot of good stuff in it. Like, no act is perfect, but you do get into that argument about: is the glass half full, or is the glass half empty? Up until that amendment this glass was half full for me, and I would have gone there, but I am deeply troubled by what we end up with and how we fail those children who are left by putting that preamble in place. As I say, for most people it's not a problem; it's not a difference. But for those kids we fail, we've truly failed them. We've walked away and said: not our problem. Yet it will come to us.

3:20

This is all part of the amendments that we're looking at. The amendments that have been provided by the government have come out as more people got a chance to read through the act. The first amendment, amendment A1, is essentially saying that, you know, General Motors can't start a school and educate children to be General Motors robots. That's what it is about. It says that, you know, they're only supposed to be a charter school. They're not supposed to be going beyond that and creating ice cream makers for Baskin Robbins. There are systems in the world that do stream children very early into a particular outcome. We don't. This is to make sure that we're not using children for things beyond education.

The section talking about unstable funding: at this point in my lack-of-sleep giddiness it struck me as a little funny. To be perfectly reasonable about it, what is "unstable"? It's not a measurable amount. Are you unstable if you have a debt? Not always. Are you unstable if, you know, you've got zero-based budgeting? Sometimes. So what is an unstable financial situation? It gives no information here. There's nothing to mark this by to be able to say that, yes, this is unstable or, no, it's not. I think it's appropriate that the language is taken out and we just talk about the fact that it places the students' learning environment at risk. Fair enough.

The blending of the Protestant and the Catholic school boards: I know this is really important. I really struggle with this one. Essentially, the act had morphed in these sections, and it did allow that they could be forced to do this by the minister if the minister so chose. There's a section later on where the minister could force them to blend the use of their school spaces or their schools. Both of those are adapted to make sure that they can't unless the school boards both agree and say, you know: yes, the Catholic board and, yes, the Protestant board agree that in this position we're going to come together. I think we have an example of that in St. Paul where they came to the minister and said: please do this; we ask you to. [interjection] Okay. Fair enough. I hear somebody clapping, so that must be right.

The same thing with the blended use of schools, at the very minimum of the central spaces like the library and the gymnasium. I have such respect for the Catholic school board, but I sure wish you guys could figure out a way to work this one. You are really, really straining resources and making it particularly difficult in situations. I don't think anybody takes your faith away from you. But man, oh man, when you stand tight and say that you absolutely cannot use this space, this has created hardship in some areas. It created hardship for those Morinville people, and it will create hardship in other places. I just wish you would be a bit more flexible. The rest of us have to be flexible. If I could put in a plea to all of you, please be more flexible on this one. I think you can still hang on to the icons of your faith even though you're sharing a school gymnasium.

But I see what you've asked the minister to do, and he's done it. I'm not wild about it. I don't have a brass band waiting outside to cheer on this one. I'm pretty clear, you guys. I'm struggling with that one.

The amendment for the francophone is a good amendment. To say that you couldn't be a trustee of a francophone school because you didn't have a child in the system takes away anybody who doesn't have children for whatever reason, and that could be a real punishment. What if you wanted to have children and couldn't but you were faithfully, you know, bringing all you could and volunteering in a francophone school? You cannot run to be a school board trustee? That's cruel, and there's no reason for it. It's prejudice against someone because of their ability to bear children or not bear children. Get off it. This is the 21st century. Sorry; that sounded meaner than I meant it. But you know what I mean.

So that's actually a good amendment, to say that, no, you don't have to have a child in the system, but you do have to adhere to the other requirements that are there, that you are a Canadian citizen over 18 and that you're a francophone. That's perfectly reasonable. But to say that you have to have a kid in the system, no. That takes all of the retired people, you know, out of the mix, the pool of people you could draw from. It's not a very large pool to begin with in Alberta, so I think we need to make the best of what we've got. So that was a perfectly acceptable amendment to me.

The blending of the school boards and the sharing of the space I'm struggling with, you know, but the rest of these amendments I think are fine.

So are we better off with this act than without it? Yes. Am I over the moon about everything that's in here? No. Am I struggling with how some children will be left unprotected and unidentified as needing help in schooling? Yes, because that will follow them the rest of their lives. You know, who does that fall back on in a much more expensive way? Society and the state.

I think we should have been more aggressive in the beginning in trying to accommodate people inside the public system, which is where we used to do it. I think we could still do it again, but because we didn't set the system up in a consistent way previously, it's now too fractured. It's too fractured to be able to draw everyone back in. So we're not going to be able to put those charter schools in the Calgary area under the public school board. They're not; they were created outside of it. That's what it is. We've got to move on and deal with the fact that you now have them inside the system in Edmonton and outside the system in Calgary. What are you going to do? You're going to try and give some consistency there.

I would really like to see a cap on the number of charter schools that there are in the province just so that everybody doesn't decide they don't like the way this or that is handled in a public education system and runs out and starts their own charter school. That really does not help us bring a diverse and respective and well-educated society to fruition. It doesn't. It just allows everybody to have their own little area that they fight to defend. It doesn't help us work together as a province to be as amazing and creative and well-educated as I know we could be. We will have to compete globally, and we're already falling behind. You know, India and China are way ahead of us and are moving in a direction so fast that we would have to run very fast right now to catch up to them. So the education and the ability of Albertans to move together in the same direction is very important.

The other thing about education, to me, is that it's the ultimate leveller. You can be a kid that comes from a poor family, from a family of colour. You could have a disability. You could be almost anything, and when you come into a public education system, you get an education. You work hard. You do well. You've got good teachers. You are going to come out on top. You can be a PhD. You can be a scientist. You can be a rocket scientist. You can be anything you want to be because education will get you there. It is the ultimate key to doing whatever you want to do with your life. It doesn't matter where you came from. If you can get into a public education system and it serves you well, it is the key to your future and to whatever you want to do. That's why I believe it has such amazing potential for us.

Back to where I started. We do have rights to educate children in certain ways – Catholic and Protestant, English and French – and to protect the minorities in both of those areas. The government has seen fit over the years to make accommodations to allow the option – I'm using the government language – of charter schools and of home-schooling. Those options still exist. I wish that we had been able to serve those people well enough in the public system that we didn't have them going outside of the public system, but that hasn't happened.

I think that there are some things where we need to be careful to be testing children, to be monitoring them and evaluating them all the way along. We don't do that, and I think that is where we can be failing children.

Thank you very much, Mr. Chairman.

The Deputy Chair: Thank you, hon. member.

The hon. Member for Edmonton-Gold Bar, followed by the hon. Member for Airdrie-Chestermere, followed by the hon.

Member for Calgary-Glenmore, barring any short questions that may be directed straight to the minister should he wish to respond.

Mr. MacDonald: Yes. Thank you very much, Mr. Chairman. Certainly, I look at this amendment, and I look forward to it being divided into five separate amendments. That being said, I'm quite surprised that we would need amendments at this time from the government after the extensive consultation process that was done not only by this minister under this version of the Education Act but also with the previous Minister of Education. I think it was bill 16.

An Hon. Member: Bill 18.

Mr. MacDonald: Bill 18. I stand corrected. Thank you for that.

I certainly had considerable interest from constituents with the original Bill 18, from various groups, whether they were school trustees, whether they were home-schoolers, whether they were parents of children in the public or separate system or in the charter school system.

3:30

Certainly, I look at the first amendment here, the restriction on operator, and we're adding this after section 25. There is quite a list of rules or laws that charter schools will have to follow in the application of the act to charter schools. We have also, before that, an application to establish a charter school. But we're going to add after section 25: "The operator of a charter school must restrict its purposes to the operation of that charter school." My question, and hopefully we can get it answered in the course of debate: is this not the case now, Mr. Chairman?

I'm looking at last year's annual report for the Ministry of Education. There's $65.8 million being spent for charter schools, and when we look at infrastructure and other initiatives, that ministry total jumps by another $11 million, so in total there is $76.6 million being spent on charter schools all over the province. Certainly, there's Westmount Charter School Society, Valhalla, Suzuki, New Horizons, Mother Earth's Children's Charter School, Foundations for the Future Charter Academy, the Centre for Academic and Personal Excellence Institute, Calgary Science School, Calgary Girls' School Society, Calgary Arts Academy Society, the Boyle Street Education Centre, the Aurora school, and Almadina school society. All told, 30 per cent of the money that was allocated is going to one charter, and that's Foundations for the Future Charter Academy. So they received $25.7 million, or one-third, essentially, of the total allocation.

There has been a growth in charter schools. The public and the separate school system are going to have to be careful because if they continue to close good public schools in central neighbourhoods of both Edmonton and Calgary, then there's going to be more and more of a demand created or an interest in charter schools by parents. I can't fault or blame parents for looking at alternatives whenever good public schools are being closed. The parents, and I would certainly agree with them, feel that there's no valid reason for that.

With this amendment I would really like to know, during the course of debate, if there are examples of where an operator of a charter school has been violating the licence or the permit to operate as is suggested in this amendment. I certainly hope that's not the case. I know the Auditor General had, a number of years ago, a lot of questions and a lot of suggestions for the boards of charter schools because some charter schools, of course, had difficulty providing in a timely fashion accurate audited financial statements. As far as I know, that situation has been corrected.

Certainly, we need to keep a diligent eye on how the $76 million that we are providing, Mr. Chairman, through the tax system to charter schools is being used and that it is being used correctly. It is my view that it certainly has been spent where it is budgeted, and that's fine.

I had a discussion, Mr. Chairman, with a constituent about the difference between private schools and charter schools. This was a couple who have their children in Holyrood elementary. I'm sure that the hon. member is very familiar with that school. That's a very good school. It has a long list of graduates who have gone on to bigger and better things. Yes. I took this question and I thought about it for a minute. I picked up not this annual report but the one from the previous year, and I explained to the public school parents that the details on how a charter school spends its money, that has been provided to it through the tax system, are publicly available. Not only are charter schools included in the schedule to financial statements in the annual report, but certainly you could in five minutes, for instance, go onto the Internet and find the previous financial statements for schools such as the Suzuki school of music. No problem. You would find that if you were interested as a taxpayer.

But whenever we look at private school funding, that's not the same. These public school parents, both of them also taxpayers through their personal income tax and their education property tax, were contributing to the provincial treasury, and of course that's where we get the money to fund schools. Now, I showed these parents, Mr. Chairman, the accredited private school support. If we go back a number of years – let's say we go back five years – we spent $134 million on accredited private school support. That was for both the private schools and the private operators. Interestingly enough, that was overspent by 5 and a half million dollars. If we move forward to now, you can see where, of course, that has gone up. That's one of the problems that in the discussion of this bill people have issues with: this government's enthusiastic support for the funding of private schools, that now has gone up from $134 million to over $177 million.

That certainly is interesting, Mr. Chairman, because that offended the constituents who had come to see me to discuss the original format of this bill, Bill 18. They thought as taxpayers that this wasn't fair because there wasn't accountability.

Now, I could perhaps entertain accepting this bill and this amendment as it's written if there was some accountability towards private school operators. There is not, in my view, any accountability. They just get the money and that's it. They don't have to spell out, for instance, like the public school boards or the separate school boards do, how the money is spent and why. It may be of interest, but it certainly won't be in my time here. Maybe the current Minister of Energy will be chairman of Public Accounts after the next election. He could invite some of these private school operators to Public Accounts, and they could explain in detail how this sum of $177 million is spent.

3:40

If the hon. Minister of Education was to not so much put restrictions on operators but put guidelines or recommendations on how private schools operate, instead of just picking on charter schools, then one would be more likely to support this amendment as presented.

Now, amendment B, Mr. Chairman, the second amendment, where section 29 is to be amended by striking out "the financial administration of the school is unstable and places the learning environment of the students at risk." This is regarding, oddly enough, private schools. I don't know why the word "unstable" was used in the first place, but it is interesting to note that, obviously, some people somewhere found that insensitive or inappropriate and wanted it changed. As a result of that, we see the substitution of “the financial situation of the school places the learning environment of the students at risk.”

I guess that’s not nearly as offensive, but I still don’t understand why we can’t have it mandated that there be good, sound financial reporting from private schools, and I certainly don’t consider this section to adequately address what taxpayers want and need from private schools. The budget for private schools continues to go up and up and up, but there doesn’t seem to be an improvement in the accountability.

Certainly, the minister has had time to think about this. I’m sure there was a consultation process with these private school providers or marketers whenever the consultation process was going on. I don’t know if it was separate or whether it was together with the public relations exercise that happened up at the Northlands Expo Centre. It could have been. Maybe not, but certainly the minister can clarify that to the Assembly.

I am also interested in talking about amendment C, the proposed amendment of section 112. Section 112 is the creation, alteration, and dissolution of school divisions. Now, one would almost say that the Minister of Education is caving in to the Alberta Party. That’s the political party that seems to think that we don’t need separate boards and we don’t need public boards; we can consolidate them all into one. I would certainly disagree with that.

The hon. Minister of Transportation certainly knows the Constitution and, certainly, would recognize that separate school rights go back to the British North America Act, the northwest ordinance of, I believe, 1896 – I could stand corrected; it could be 1898 – and also the Alberta Act of 1905, which enshrined separate school rights.

I think we have to be respectful of the Catholic community and make sure that these rights continue. Some political parties may think that we can consolidate all these school boards, but I for one don’t think so. They make the argument that we’ll have fewer administration costs and we’ll have more efficiencies. Well, that argument was made by the Member for Calgary-West when he fired the nine regional health authorities and created the one health board right after the 2008 election. There was no talk of that. There was no political chat during the election of firing the regional health authorities and starting one superboard. We know what has happened with that. We can look at the budget of Health and Wellness. We can look at the budget of Alberta Health Services, and we can see that it’s gone up and up and up. We haven’t seen an improvement in service. We can’t even control our costs. So this is a caution that I would make when we are looking at amendment A8, section C here, which is the establishment of the school divisions, where the Minister may, by order, establish a school division

- (a) consisting of 2 or more separate school districts or separate school divisions established under this Act, or
- (b) consisting of 2 or more public school districts or public school divisions established under this Act.

I would encourage all hon. members to reflect on what possibly could go on here. I don’t think it’s in the interests of local government. If there is a study that the Department of Education has on how all this will work, how it will save money and improve our education system, provide it, table it, make it public so that separate school supporters can see it and public school supporters can see it. I’m sure there are reports in there, but this government doesn’t have the political nerve to make them public.

I would caution hon. members that before we contemplate consolidating separate or public school boards, two or more, we remember the lessons from Alberta Health Services, where all the promises were made. There was no public discussion. There was no cost-benefit analysis done, whether internally or externally by high-priced outside consultants. Nothing was done, and we see what has been created. So let’s be very, very careful about this. I know the minister is trying to clarify some things in section 112, but I don’t think this is the way to do it.

Now, certainly, section D is also of interest, and that has been discussed in the Gold Bar community. There was an individual who was contemplating running for the school board there, the francophone board, and this may satisfy them. This is an amendment, I think, that one could support.

The last amendment, section 192, by striking out that subsection – I have to find it here, Mr. Chairman. I looked at this with interest as the hon. Member for Edmonton-Centre was speaking. I’m curious about the origins of this. This would be the deletion of 192(2). “When, in the opinion of the Minister, space is available in a school building, the Minister may direct the board operating the school building to make that space available to another board.” Well, certainly, that seems to be going on now. I think the deletion of this is a good thing.

Thank you.

The Deputy Chair: Thank you, hon. member.

The chair recognizes the Member for Airdrie-Chestermere.

3:50

Mr. Anderson: Thank you, Mr. Chair. You know, I have to be honest. I’m just going over right now in a rush with our researchers this amendment. There’s a lot of information here, a lot of material here. I’ve got to say that I am amazed. Yesterday or the day before – I forget when it was – we were debating, obviously, Wildrose amendments on this. The Education minister at that time berated us for not bringing our amendments forward sooner so that he could take a look at them, so that he could evaluate them, whether they should be added. He said:

No criticism or no constructive suggestions [meaning to us] on what should be changed or how to amend this bill. Nothing. So as far as I’m concerned, the bill has met the standards of that particular caucus. That is why, hon. member, I was so shocked to find out that at the final line – it was in second reading – all of a sudden we have a whole array of amendments. Where were they before? It could have been done, but where were they before?

So here we are half an hour before the Legislature closes for probably an election call, and the minister brings four amendments and just expects us to pass these four amendments. Sorry. Five? There are five amendments.

The Deputy Chair: Five parts under one amendment, each to be voted separately.

Mr. Anderson: That’s right.

I just don’t understand this. Mr. Chair, we are on the record in Hansard for yesterday. We had finished all of the Wildrose amendments. There were two of them. We had finished them. The government had voted against them. We said that we supported the 99 per cent of Bill 2 that was there. Some very good things were in there: more local autonomy for school boards, raising the dropout age – you can go up and down; there were tons of good stuff – allowing charter schools to go forward with their charters for longer periods of time and giving them a more stable, predictable existence, all of these very good things.

We had, obviously, two problems with it, specifically section 16, specifically the preamble. It didn’t protect parental rights as well as we would have liked. But we gave an olive branch to this government, and we said that we would be willing to pass this bill, that we would pass this bill. We sat down in our chairs, and we didn't speak again for the entire day and then watched in bemusement as nine members of the government got up one after the other and filibustered their own bill. Then to our complete amazement . . .

Mr. MacDonald: No session.

Mr. Anderson: Exactly. That's right. At the very end of it the House leader gets up and says that we're not going to have an evening session. Total shock. We were trying to figure out what's going on. We thought the bill was going to pass. We put out a press release saying that we support Bill 2. We're behind it minus section 16, the section 16 that we've been advocating to get out and replace, and we've had a long discussion about that. We said: "Besides that, we agree with the rest of the bill. Let's get it through."

Then the government comes back. After a couple of morning appointments I get into the office at noon today, and there are five new amendments sitting on my desk from the Education minister. No explanation. I heard that he did attempt to come earlier in the morning. I wasn't there. It's too bad we couldn't have met then. I think he came at about 10 or 11 – I don't know the exact time – and left these amendments with us at noon.

We have had exactly four hours to take four or five substantive amendments and research them and go back to our constituents and talk to them and ask them what they think about it, ask the stakeholders at the Catholic school boards, at the independent schools association, the home-schoolers, the public school boards, all of these folks. We had no chance to consult with them at all, and we're supposed to just trust the government that these amendments are good for the people of Alberta – "Just trust us" – when they sat there and berated us for a week when we brought our own amendments forward, saying: "How dare you guys? Why on earth would you bring these amendments now when you had so long before to bring those amendments?"

So we got through it. We voted on it, and we sat down in our chairs and didn't say another word. In fact, if the government had come and said, "You know what?" – now everything is up in the air. We've gotten calls from several organizations that are still studying this because we did ask: what do you guys think about these amendments? They're like: we haven't had a chance to look at them.

Now we're in a position where this government is asking us to participate and condone their sausage-making. We're not interested in the sausage-making. We're interested in a good bill. We're very interested in a good bill. We're glad the government has consulted on this. We're glad the former Minister of Education consulted on it. We're glad the current Minister of Education consulted on it. We're very happy about this. It's good. Consultation is good. Consultation with the Legislative Assembly is also good, I think.

We come here with this bill, and we give two amendments. Two amendments: that's it. Two small-in-words amendments, and they're apparently the end of the world and don't get passed. But we respect this Legislature's time enough to say: okay; let's vote on this now. Then the government filibusters their own bill and cancels the evening session and then comes back the next day and says: "Guess what? Surprise. Not only do we want to pass Bill 2, so take you up on your offer of last night, but we also want to introduce five new amendments. We know we berated you for bringing last-minute amendments a week ago, but we're going bring last-hour, last-second amendments, and we expect you to pass them." If not, my guess is that they're going to go run around saying: "Oh, the Wildrose doesn't love education. Oh, look at this. They're trying to play politics with our kids."

What an embarrassment. We've talked with the Alberta School Boards Association about this, the independent school association. We've talked with dozens of trustees about this bill. They like parts of it, but they have concerns as well about certain parts of it and would like it to be improved. But, generally speaking, it's good.

We were willing to say: "You know what? Let's have an election on this issue surrounding section 16. We'll pass this bill, and then we'll come back after the election, and if it's a Wildrose government, we'll make some changes in that regard. If it's a PC government, well, then, obviously the people didn't care enough about that issue, and the government gets their way on it." That's why we fight elections. We were willing to do that and still get the 99 per cent of this thing passed so that it didn't have to get delayed a month or whatever.

Now, unfortunately, Mr. Chair, I think that the government has put us in a position where we have absolutely no choice but to wait and ask them to wait until we can go back to the stakeholder groups and go over these amendments and get their feedback and ask.

Mr. Lukaszuk: The bill dies on the Order Paper.

Mr. Anderson: That's right. The Minister of Education is rightfully pointing out right now that if we don't pass this bill today, it will die on the Order Paper. Well, you should have thought of that last night when you cancelled the night sitting, when the Wildrose was completely prepared to go ahead and pass this bill in its present form and then come back after the election and amend section 16 to get that very poorly worded section out of there. That was the plan.

Now we've got five new amendments, that we've barely seen, regarding charter schools, something very important, regarding different authorities under school divisions. Good grief, our researchers haven't even done a brief on this yet, for crying out loud. It's just beyond belief that we're expected to just trust the government and pass these without even doing any kind of substantive briefing on it. We've had no time. We've had virtually no time to do this, and there's no way that I in good conscience as a legislator can sit here and say: "Oh, well, that's okay. We'll just trust the government." I made that mistake once. Did you know that, Mr. Chairman? I made a mistake like that once. It was regarding a land-use bill. It was called Bill 36. People quote that a lot in here when they get mad at me. They never let me forget about it, and I like that. I like that they don't.

4:00

It was a fantastic lesson. The lesson was: never ever trust. You know what? Never trust anybody with your own vote. I don't care if they're in your party or they're in an opposite party. Never trust that you are getting the full bill of goods. I learned that the hard way on Bill 36 because I did not do my due diligence. I did not go back to my stakeholders like I should have done and say: are you sure about this bill? I didn't even have a property rights lawyer look it over and say: is there anything in here I should be worried about and so forth? I just blindly followed. And guess what? That was a big mistake and one I very much regret. So I am not prepared as a legislator to come in here and do the exact same thing out of political expediency.

Now, what does this mean for the bill? Well, it means it will die on the Order Paper if the election is called. We don't know when the election will be called. The Premier was just quoted outside. They asked her: will you possibly be coming back after the constituency break; will you be resuming? She said maybe. The exact quote is – oh, shoot; I just got an e-mail, too. But she said that we might still do that. She hasn't decided. Okay? She said: when I drop the writ, you will know. You know, this is the person that promised fixed election dates during the leadership campaign.

Anyway, if that's the case and we're going to come back after, then all we're going to need, probably, is one or two more days max to get Bill 2 through. Maybe that's what the government should think about doing. Wait a couple more days. We'll go back for constituency week, hear out our constituents on this and other issues, and come back here for a couple of days. By then we will have had a week to go over the amendments. We will have had a week to go talk to stakeholders about those amendments and so forth. Then we can all come back here and finish off the debate and pass it.

Or, door 2, we can go to an election, and the Wildrose will be proposing that after the election we will be bringing forth this same Bill 2, the exact same as it's written, with a caveat that we're not sure about the five amendments. We'll have to do some research on that, as I said. But everything else will be essentially the same. Bring these five pieces and see if they're worth adding, and then take out section 16 of the act and replace it with what is there right now under the current act, that same section, because we think section 16 broadens the authority of school boards and the Ministry of Education to force parents to teach things that they don't believe in to their kids in home-school settings and threatens under section 29 of Bill 2. It could be used to take away the accreditation of faith-based schools or Catholic schools or any schools – section 29 deals with private schools, so that would be faith-based schools – that do not uphold the different rulings and interpretations of the Alberta human rights tribunals.

To me if you have a faith-based school that says, "No; we're going to teach our own interpretation of a certain moral issue," which certainly is their right under freedom of religion, there is something in the act that says that if they do that and that doesn't jibe with what the interpretation of human rights are by the suspect human rights tribunal that we have in this province, we are going to strip you of your rights. I'm not saying that's what the minister plans, but that is what the act allows for, and we can't agree with that.

Now, of course, we don't have a majority, Mr. Chairman, at all, as we're reminded every day. It's 67 – well, they're down to about 64 or 65 now, whatever it is – to 4, so we don't have that ability to stop the bill. We're going to have to eventually vote on Bill 2, and we agree with 99 per cent of the bill. But a Wildrose government, if we get in, will bring this exact bill forward with the changes to section 16 and the preamble as well to enshrine the rights of parents and make them paramount. That's what we are willing to do. That's what we've been willing to do the whole time, and I think it's important that that be on the record.

So that was the second door, Mr. Chair. We could wait for an election, come back, and if we have a Wildrose government, we pass it then.

Or, door 3, the PCs remain the government. Certainly, that could happen. Who knows? They've done it for 41 straight years. They could do it again. If they do it again, then they can bring their act and these amendments and everything forward, and they can call the Legislature back to pass it. You know, it won't take very long because it'll just be one bill on the Order Paper unless they want to add something else. So they'll have to reintroduce it. That's fine. They could have it done probably in a week. We're not talking about killing this bill for all time and eternity. We're talking about delaying it a month, though, possibly just a week if it means that we're coming back after a constituency break. If they're going to call an election, yes, this will be delayed at least a month, probably a month and a half, thereabouts, at the government's discretion.

Mr. Chair, the Wildrose does not control the government agenda in this House. Clearly, we have no power or authority to control it. We cannot bring this to a vote. We cannot invoke closure. We cannot do anything of the sort. I have spoken to this bill maybe three times through all of the different readings. That's it. It's not like we've been filibustering this bill at all. We brought a couple of amendments. We spoke for about an hour or two hours, maybe, on both of those amendments, and we've pretty much shut up other than that. It's not like we've been sitting here till all hours of the morning debating this bill. We thought that because of that good faith and the fact that 99 per cent of the bill was good, we were going to go forward with it, have an election, and then come back and take section 16 out if we were Wildrose, or the government could just leave it if they were still the government, the PCs.

Now we don't have that option, and we're not going to do it. We're not going to allow the government to I think mock, frankly, the proceedings in this House by bringing five substantive amendments – these aren't just little word changes; these are substantive amendments that affect the bill – and expect us to just roll over and play dead. That certainly is not what we're willing to do, Mr. Chair. We expect that this government will do the right thing at this point.

You know, we'd be certainly willing to adjourn debate on this issue and go home if people want to do that, because we've got nothing else, apparently, to do. [interjection] Never mind; because the hon. Member for Calgary-Glenmore wants to speak as well.

We will say this, too. We support the ability of the government to bring amendments in Committee of the Whole. We have no problem with that at all. We think that's what Committee of the Whole is partially for as well as opposition amendments, but you can't give us an hour and a half to debate five amendments and say that you've done your due diligence or expect us to go back to our constituents and say, "Yes, we've done our due diligence," because that would be an out-and-out lie because we just got these. We're not going to do that.

Mr. Chair, I hope that we can all come back, do our due diligence on these five amendments, have an election, probably, talk a little bit about section 16 issues as well, and come back and pass a bill that works for all Albertans when we return to this House.

Thank you, Mr. Chair.

The Deputy Chair: Thank you.

The hon. Member for Calgary-Glenmore.

Mr. Hinman: Thank you, Mr. Chair. I am grateful that I have this opportunity here to get up and address the amendment. Is it amendment A8 or A9? Where are we at? I didn't get it written down.

Anyway, Mr. Chair, there are a few things I want to clarify first before I get into the details of the amendment, and I think it's very important that we do this. I want to start off by quoting from Hansard from Tuesday evening, the Minister of Education.

... "Why is it that the Wildrose opposition raises concerns now and not earlier," she is right that on that particular amendment they didn't have an opportunity to raise it earlier because it was just a freshly tabled amendment on the floor of the Legislature, so they couldn't possibly have had the time to research it and to raise issues with it.

4:10

Then a little bit further down he goes on to say:

... not one visit to the office, not one communication of any sort, neither to my predecessor nor to myself, from that particular caucus on this bill. No criticism or no constructive suggestions on what should be changed or how to amend this bill. Nothing. So as far as I am concerned, the bill has met the standards of that particular caucus. That is why, hon. member, I was so shocked to find out that at the final line – it was [only] in second reading – all of a sudden we have a whole array of amendments.

A whole array of amendments. Two.

Where were they before? It could have been done, but where were they before?

Then I want to quote a little bit further down because this is the part that for me is particularly insulting to Albertans. The minister says:

That's fine.

It should be mentioned, Mr. Chairman, that bills 18 and 2 are one and the same. It's the same bill reintroduced. The only reason that the number changed, as you well know, is that every time we reintroduce a bill, it loses its placement order, and it just simply receives a different number. It's the same bill with a different number on the cover. But that's fine if they want to argue that.

Mr. Chair, that's the whole reason we can't trust these amendments coming in. They're saying: "That's the way it is. That's fine. Just trust us." They're not the same bills. Bill 18 and Bill 2 are not the same bills.

It's just a simple little word that they changed in this big, thick document. How many pages is it that we have here? We have 186 pages. One concern that many parents and many people and I myself have spoken on is that it's not just "parents"; they've inserted the words "informed parents." Thereby, I see an expert being able to come in and say: well, that parent has made that choice, but they're not informed, and we can change that. Even if that was the only change in this bill, for this minister to get up and say that it's the same bill is wrong. It's categorically wrong.

I can go through 22 other changes that I've got just in the first, I think, 20 pages. All of those tabs, Mr. Chair, are changes that are made from Bill 18 to Bill 2, yet this deceptive government and minister want to say that they're the exact same bills. They're absolutely, categorically not the same bills.

Again, I was in the office this morning when he came over. He wouldn't leave his amendments.

An Hon. Member: Oh. He came over.

Mr. Hinman: Oh, yes. He came over in a rush with these amendments. But he wouldn't leave them for even myself or our head researcher to be able to see. He took them back. I came out and said: well, where are they? He said: oh, he wouldn't leave them with me. This person won't even share them. They had them yesterday. How many times have we received things from this government that say, "Draft only"? They can say: draft only. They could have told us yesterday afternoon that they had, all of a sudden, this great need for an amendment. They berated us. They berated myself, saying how after 18 months – again, that was categorically wrong because Bill 2 just came in in February or whatever. It hasn't even been two months, yet he said: it's 18 months that you haven't done anything.

This bill is basically very good. It's very exciting for many people. But there are a few problems in here. After all of the arguments that he's had, Mr. Chair, at the last minute he brings in five amendments to this bill and says that we've got to get them passed this afternoon.

Even more importantly – again maybe this is fate; this is what we all needed – the Premier knew this problem was going to happen. That's why she could never declare that the 26th of March was going to be the fixed election date. So now they have a legitimate out to come back on April 2, which, again, they haven't said yes or no to. The Premier says: oh, you'll know when I drop the writ. Isn't that nice? She tells us how it's important for Albertans to know when the writ is going to be. I still have seniors that want to go away on vacation, and they don't know. I mean, it's just wrong.

Mr. Chair, what we have here are five amendments. I must say that I finally did get briefed. Also, to think that at noon today we had nothing else on our plates, that we could all of a sudden just: let's not have question period. Let's not have anything else we need to deal with so that we can look at this for four hours. Let's give ourselves time to actually contact and verify. I mean, how many times have these people, this government, said one thing, and then when you go to verify it, it isn't so? It just isn't so. Yet they say: trust me. My goodness, I wouldn't trust a rattlesnake for fear that it's going to bite me. Why? Because it behaves that way. The behaviour, the past behaviour, of this government is indicative of why we can't trust them.

Ms Blakeman: A scorpion and a mouse.

Mr. Hinman: Yes.

Time and time again we find out that it isn't there. Again, I'm so disappointed because the process of bringing this forward in such short order is wrong. They know it; they've talked about it. They thought that what we were doing in bringing in amendments was wrong, yet here is their bill. Eighteen months. It's supposedly to them the same bill, but here is another change they want to make. What's really sad, Mr. Chair, is that this is purely playing politics. They think they're going to be cute and go out there and say: "Oh, Alberta doesn't have Bill 2 because of the Wildrose. They filibustered."

My good colleague from Airdrie-Chestermere talked yesterday about how they filibustered. We said: "You know what? You guys have the majority. We're ready to concede that we can't stop you on this. We know that section 16 is wrong, we know the preamble is wrong, but we'll go to the people, and we'll have an election. We can fix it after that if, in fact, that's what the people want." That's what the democratic process is about, and this government was saying that that's what they wanted to do. They were satisfied, and then all of a sudden there's this holy inspiration that has come across that we've got to get this in here and make an amendment.

It's comical, Mr. Chair. It's comical that this same minister can flip-flop. Well, that whole government seems to be able to flip-flop. They're definitely not fish because they're out of water and they're still alive, but we'll see how many are five weeks from now. They adapted very well, very quickly.

To go through here, again, it's very disappointing that they're playing politics. They want stability. They could have debated this. We could have gone forward. There's no reason not to.

There are two real reasons why this bill shouldn't pass, and that's because of parental rights and because of the fact that those parents want section 16. They want to go back to make sure that all people are respected, not a list. As my hon. colleague from Edmonton-Centre loves to get at – I totally agree with her – when you're in law and in legislation, once you start a list, that's a list of exclusion. We want all people to be protected equally under the law, not a certain group, and we certainly don't want them subject to the Human Rights Act.

Ms Blakeman: Yes, we do.

Mr. Hinman: No. We need to fix that if we want to be subject to it.

Mr. Anderson: The legislation is already subject to it.

Mr. Hinman: Well, no, no. I mean that as Albertans you don't want to be subject to an act.

The Deputy Chair: Hon. members, the debate and discussion is through the chair and relevant to the five amendment sections under one amendment, A8, please.

Mr. Hinman: Let's go through a few of those amendments and look at them and see how the government could possibly, after all this consultation and stuff, be in a situation where they're desperate and need to in an hour and a half pass this very important bill, which mostly is good.

The first one: "The operator of a charter school must restrict its purposes to the operation of that charter school." Now, what could that possibly mean? Why did we need to change that? What it is, from what briefing I've gotten – but I want to go and verify that it is – is that right now it's a set of parents who come together and say: "You know what? We're not meeting the needs of our child, and we think that we need to set up this special charter school so that our children can get that special education they want." Maybe it's something to do with music and is not offered in the other schools. Maybe it's to do with . . .

Ms Blakeman: Muslim schools.

Mr. Hinman: Yeah, religious needs and wanting to start their own.

There are many reasons why parents might want to come together and say, "We need a charter school because we think this is in the best interests of our children" and go there. My understanding – and it seems plausible – is that the reason we need to change that is so that we don't have someone like a developer go and start a new area and as part of that development say, "I'm going to start a charter school." He could then draw people to a community or be able to set one up and say, "You know what; this community is going to sell" because he's using a charter school for that. I think all of us in here would agree that that's not right. We want parents to come together, not some business using the act to be able to say: we're going to start a charter school to get an area to go together.

On just a short, brief look at this for less than an hour I would say that, well, maybe that is good, but once again I want to go home. I want to do some consultation. I want to hear if it's okay.

4:20

The next one. Section 29(4)(e) is amended by striking out "the financial administration of the school is unstable and places the learning environment of the students at risk" and substituting "the financial situation of the school places the learning environment of the students at risk." Again, I think that this is a credible change, but why after all this time and all this consultation did we just get it this afternoon that this is what needs to be changed? If, in fact, they were pontificating how perfect this legislation was, that they've done all the consultation, it's hard to understand why it's brought forward in such last-minute debate and needing to go through.

Amendment C. Section 112 is amended by striking out subsection (1) and substituting the following:

Establishment of school division

112(1) The Minister may, by order, establish a school division

- (a) consisting of 2 or more separate school districts or separate school divisions established under this Act, or
- (b) consisting of 2 or more public school districts or public school divisions established under this Act.

Why do we need to change that all of a sudden?

Let's turn to 112 and read what was in there before and see how the government could possibly – possibly – have missed this and need to make an amendment. When we turn to section 112, we read: "The Minister may, by order, establish a school division consisting of any number of public school districts, separate school districts and school divisions established under this Act."

When it's pointed out, again it becomes quite obvious to me. I see that they're worried here because the written law is arbitrary enough that what they're afraid of – actually, the minister tried, and they've never used their authority before. It says in here that "the Minister may, by order" do this. They've always gone to these different schools and said, "Could we use part of this for a private school?" and negotiated, and it was always a good-will deal, but now what they're saying is that it's not going to be by order to, more importantly, "establish a school division consisting of any number of public school districts, separate school districts and school divisions."

What they're doing is that they're separating those because there's a concern that perhaps with a Catholic school board the minister would come in and say: "You know what? You need to take this wing out of there, and it becomes a public one." The minister could just order that. What they're clarifying here, their intent, is: "Okay. We'll take a charter school or a public school or a Catholic one, and we could combine them, but we won't force the three to come together."

Again, I think this looks like another credible one, but I'm sorry, Mr. Chair; I want the time to go back. I want to consult. One thing that's always amazing to me in my life is that just when you think you understand something, somebody brings in a new detail, and I say: "Wow. I never thought of that. That came out of left field, but you know what? It's right."

We've accepted some amendments. The most important one that we accepted in this one is that only students are subject to bullying, yet somehow we missed all of that. An amendment came forward to say, "No, no. It should be everybody. Everybody should be subject to bullying." We amended it unanimously, which is the way it should be.

It's always exciting in here when we have unanimous consent. I could go back and talk about the different ones where we've had unanimous consent, and all of them were exciting, where we came together, where we saw the need. So here we are with an amendment saying that we need to do that.

Mr. Chair, this is wrong. We shouldn't rush the process. We need to have the time to go back to consult, and I'm excited to think that the Premier has not called an election, that we can come back on April 2, that we can go through this properly. If she wants to put children first, let's come back April 2, let's pass this bill, let's make the proper amendments, and then go to election.

But I think she's only concerned about her party, their skin and their power, and they're going to run off and call an election here, which they wouldn't fix. They wouldn't even have the generosity to tell Albertans: this is when we want to go to our election. I have seniors that are upset. They've got planned vacations. They wanted to be here but couldn't because this Premier wouldn't keep her word and say that the fixed election date is the 26th of March or that the fixed election date is the 2nd of May.

That's what we should be looking at, Mr. Chair. We shouldn't be rushing through some of these amendments. We have two more amendments there. Again, it would be great to be back here. I look forward to being back on April 2 to debate this, and we'll . . .

The Deputy Chair: Thank you, hon. member. I hesitate to interrupt, but as we all know, pursuant to Standing Order 4(3) I am compelled to interrupt the proceedings and call on the committee to now rise and report.

[Mr. Zwozdesky in the chair]

The Acting Speaker: The hon. Member for Edmonton-Calder.

Mr. Elniski: Thank you, Mr. Speaker. The Committee of the Whole has had under consideration a certain bill. The committee reports progress on Bill 2. I wish to table copies of all amendments considered by the Committee of the Whole on this date for the official records of the Assembly.

Thank you.

The Acting Speaker: Thank you, hon. member.

Does the Assembly concur in the report? If you do, please say aye.

Hon. Members: Aye.

The Acting Speaker: Those opposed, please say no. Accordingly the report is accepted.

Mr. Hancock: Mr. Speaker, I would move that the Assembly adjourn until 1:30 p.m. on April 2.

[Motion carried; the Assembly adjourned at 4:26 p.m.]

Bill Status Report for the 27th Legislature - 5th Session (2012)

Activity to March 22, 2012

The Bill sponsor's name is in brackets following the Bill title. If it is a money Bill, ($) will appear between the title and the sponsor's name. Numbers following each Reading refer to Hansard pages where the text of debates is found; dates for each Reading are in brackets following the page numbers. Bills numbered 200 or higher are Private Members' Public Bills. Bills with lower numbers are Government Bills. Bills numbered Pr1, etc., are Private Bills.

*An asterisk beside a Bill number indicates an amendment was passed to that Bill; the Committee line shows the precise date of the amendment.

The date a Bill comes into force is indicated in square brackets after the date of Royal Assent. If it comes into force "on proclamation," "with exceptions," or "on various dates," please contact Legislative Counsel for details at (780) 427-2217. The chapter number assigned to the Bill is entered immediately following the date the Bill comes into force. SA indicates Statutes of Alberta; this is followed by the year in which it is included in the statutes, and its chapter number. Please note, Private Bills are not assigned a chapter number until the conclusion of the fall sittings.

1 Results-based Budgeting Act (Redford)

First Reading -- 4 (Feb. 7 aft., passed)

Second Reading -- 31-38 (Feb. 8 aft.), 125-34 (Feb. 13 eve., passed)

Committee of the Whole -- 124-34 (Feb. 14 aft.), 160-61 (Feb. 15 aft., passed)

Third Reading -- 164-65 (Feb. 15 aft., passed)

Royal Assent -- (Mar. 5 outside of House sitting) [Comes into force March 5, 2012; SA 2012 cR-17.5]

2* Education Act (Lukaszuk)

First Reading -- 115 (Feb. 14 aft., passed)

Second Reading -- 152-59 (Feb. 15 aft.), 187-88 (Feb. 16 aft.), 182-85 (Feb. 16 aft.), 256-57 (Feb. 22 aft.), 405-11 (Mar. 8 aft., passed)

Committee of the Whole -- 500-01 (Mar. 13 eve.), 515-35 (Mar. 14 aft.), 537-71 (Mar. 14 eve., amendments passed), 706-18 (Mar. 20 eve.), 734-50 (Mar. 21 aft., amendment passed), 764-74 (Mar. 22 aft., adjourned, amendment introduced)

3 Appropriation (Supplementary Supply) Act, 2012 ($) (Horner)

First Reading -- 115 (Feb. 14 aft., passed)

Second Reading -- 150-52 (Feb. 15 aft.), 161 (Feb. 15 aft., passed)

Committee of the Whole -- 185-86 (Feb. 16 aft., passed)

Third Reading -- 251-56 (Feb. 22 aft., passed)

Royal Assent -- (Mar. 5 outside of House sitting) [Comes into force March 5, 2012; SA 2012 c1]

4 St. Albert and Sturgeon Valley School Districts Establishment Act (Lukaszuk)

First Reading -- 236 (Feb. 22 aft., passed)

Second Reading -- 403-04 (Mar. 8 aft.), 480-88 (Mar. 13 eve., passed)

Committee of the Whole -- 633-35 (Mar. 19 eve., passed)

Third Reading -- 697-98 (Mar. 20 eve., passed)

Royal Assent -- (Mar. 21 outside of House sitting) [Comes into force on proclamation; SA 2012 cS-1.5]

5 Seniors' Property Tax Deferral Act (Jablonski)

First Reading -- 298 (Mar. 5 aft., passed)

Second Reading -- 403 (Mar. 8 aft.), 488-94 (Mar. 13 eve., passed)

Committee of the Whole -- 635-43 (Mar. 19 eve., passed)

Third Reading -- 698-701 (Mar. 20 eve., passed)

Royal Assent -- (Mar. 21 outside of House sitting) [Comes into force on proclamation; SA 2012 cS-7.2]

6 Property Rights Advocate Act (McQueen)

First Reading -- 236 (Feb. 22 aft., passed)

Second Reading -- 404-05 (Mar. 8 aft.), 494-500 (Mar. 13 eve., passed)

Committee of the Whole -- 643-45 (Mar. 19 eve.), 645-62 (Mar. 19 eve., passed)

Third Reading -- 701-02 (Mar. 20 eve., passed)

Royal Assent -- (Mar. 21 outside of House sitting) [Comes into force on proclamation; SA 2012 cP-26.5]

- 7 Appropriation Act, 2012 ($) (Horner)
First Reading -- 513 (Mar. 14 aft., passed)
Second Reading -- 586-95 (Mar. 15 aft., passed on division)
Committee of the Whole -- 627-33 (Mar. 19 eve., passed)
Third Reading -- 681-96 (Mar. 20 aft.), 703-06 (Mar. 20 eve., passed on division)
Royal Assent -- (Mar. 21 outside of House sitting) [Comes into force March 21, 2012; SA 2012 c3]
- 201 Alberta Bill of Rights (Property Rights Protection) Amendment Act, 2012 (Hinman)
First Reading -- 69 (Feb. 13 aft., passed)
Second Reading -- 299-311 (Mar. 5 aft., defeated on division)
- 203* Tobacco Reduction (Protection of Children in Vehicles) Amendment Act, 2012 (Sherman)
First Reading -- 69 (Feb. 13 aft., passed)
Second Reading -- 427-36 (Mar. 12 aft., passed on division)
Committee of the Whole -- 613-22 (Mar. 19 aft., passed with amendments)
Third Reading -- 623 (Mar. 19 aft., passed)
Royal Assent -- (Mar. 21 outside of House sitting)
- 204 Land Statutes (Abolition of Adverse Possession) Amendment Act, 2012 (Allred)
First Reading -- 357 (Mar. 7 aft., passed)
Second Reading -- 436-38 (Mar. 12 aft., passed)
- 205 Scrap Metal Dealers and Recyclers Identification Act (Quest)
First Reading -- 585 (Mar. 15 aft., passed)
Second Reading -- 623-24 (Mar. 19 aft., adjourned)
- 209 Homeowner Protection Act (Hehr)
First Reading -- 585 (Mar. 15 aft., passed)
- 210 Early Childhood Learning and Child Care Act (Taylor)
First Reading -- 513-14 (Mar. 14 aft., passed)

Table of Contents

Prayers	751
Introduction of Visitors	751
Introduction of Guests	751
Ministerial Statements
Tribute to the Member for Barrhead-Morinville-Westlock	751
Oral Question Period
Long-term Care for Seniors	754, 756
Alberta Health Services Third-quarter Report	754
Collection of School Fees	754
Municipal Funding	755
Assured Income for the Severely Handicapped	756
Home-schooling	756
Seniors' Property Tax Deferral	757
Sand and Gravel Extraction Management	757
School Capital Construction	758
Residential Construction Standards	758
Election Act Reports	759
Landowner Property Rights	759
Electricity Prices	760
Slave Lake Family Care Clinic	760
Long-term Care Serious Incidents	761
Provincial Tax Policy	761
Infrastructure Funding	761
Members' Statements
New Democratic Party Election Choice	762
Liberal Party Election Choice	762
Tabling Returns and Reports	762
Tablings to the Clerk	763
Projected Government Business	763
Orders of the Day	764
Government Bills and Orders
Committee of the Whole
Bill 2 Education Act	764

If your address is incorrect, please clip on the dotted line, make any changes, and return to the address listed below. To facilitate the update, please attach the last mailing label along with your account number.

Subscriptions
Legislative Assembly Office
1001 Legislature Annex
9718 – 107 Street
EDMONTON, AB T5K 1E4

.....

Last mailing label:

Account # _____

New information:

Name:

Address:

.....

Subscription information:

Annual subscriptions to the paper copy of Alberta Hansard (including annual index) are $127.50 including GST if mailed once a week or $94.92 including GST if picked up at the subscription address below or if mailed through the provincial government interdepartmental mail system. Bound volumes are $121.70 including GST if mailed. Cheques should be made payable to the Minister of Finance.

Price per issue is $0.75 including GST.

Online access to Alberta Hansard is available through the Internet at www.assembly.ab.ca

Subscription inquiries:

Subscriptions
Legislative Assembly Office
1001 Legislature Annex
9718 – 107 St.
EDMONTON, AB T5K 1E4
Telephone: 780.427.1302

Other inquiries:

Managing Editor
Alberta Hansard
1001 Legislature Annex
9718 – 107 St.
EDMONTON, AB T5K 1E4
Telephone: 780.427.1875

2012 Alberta Hansard (27th Legislature, Fifth Session) Index

The table below is a list to date of Alberta Hansard issue numbers, dates, and page ranges, with links to the text document. The index itself starts following the table. Use the search capabilities of Adobe Acrobat to search the index and find the topic you are interested in; note the page number(s) associated with it. Then click on the page number range in the table below to open the issue.

NOTE: For the fiscal year 2013-13 main estimates for each department are dealt with either in policy field committees (PFCs) or in Committee of Supply. The indexes for the main estimates considered in PFCs are therefore not incorporated into the Hansard index but will be included with the separate proceedings for each policy field committee.

Alberta Hansard page and issue number information (27th Leg. / 5th Sess. 2012)

Issue No.	Date	Pages
1 (Speech from the Throne)	Feb. 7 aft.	1-4
2	Feb. 8 aft.	5-38
3 (Budget Address)	Feb. 9 aft.	39-56
4	Feb. 13 aft.	57-78
5	Feb. 13 eve.	79-101
5	Feb. 14 aft.	103-136
6	Feb. 15 aft.	137-166
7	Feb. 16 aft.	167-188
8 (Dept. of Finance budget)	Feb. 21 aft.	189-223
9 (Executive Council budget)	Feb. 22 aft.	225-257
10	Feb. 23 aft.	259-283
[Constituency week]
11	March 5 aft.	285-315
12 (Dept. of Education budget)	March 6 aft.	317-354
13 (Dept. of Health and Wellness budget)	March 7 aft.	355-388
14	March 8 aft.	389-411
15	March 12 aft.	413-441
16 (Dept. of Human Services budget)	March 13 aft.	443-478
17 (Vote on main estimates 2012-13)	March 13 eve.	479-501
17	March 14 aft.	503-535
18	March 14 eve.	537-571
18	March 15 aft.	573-595
19	March 19 aft.	597-626
20	March 19 eve.	627-662
20	March 20 aft.	663-696
21	March 20 eve.	697-718
21	March 21 aft.	719-750
22	March 22 aft.	751-774
..... Spring sitting: 22 days, 5 evenings

(Continued)

ESTIMATES CONSIDERED IN COMMITTEE OF SUPPLY (Fifth Session, 2012)

Supplementary Supply Date and Hansard issue

2011-12 No. 2

February 13. eve.

Main Estimates

Finance
Executive Council
Education
Health and Wellness
Human Services
Main estimates votes

Date and Hansard issue

February 21 aft.
February 22 aft.
March 6 aft.
March 7 aft.
March 13 aft.
March 13 eve.

MAIN ESTIMATES CONSIDERED IN POLICY FIELD COMMITTEES (Fiscal year 2012-13)

Department	Policy Field Committee	Date
Advanced Education and Technology	Education	March 6 eve.
Agriculture and Rural Development	Energy	March 12 eve.
Culture and Community Services	Community Development	February 22 eve.
Energy	Energy	February 22 eve.
Environment and Water	Energy	March 7 eve.
Infrastructure	Finance	March 6 eve.
Intergovernmental, International and Aboriginal Relations	Energy	February 14 eve.
Justice and Attorney General	Public Health and Safety	February 14 eve.
Municipal Affairs	Community Development	February 15 eve.
Seniors	Public Health and Safety	February 21 eve.
Service Alberta	Finance	February 15 eve.
Solicitor General and Public Security	Public Health and Safety	March 5 eve.
Sustainable Resource Development	Energy	February 21 eve.
Tourism, Parks and Recreation	Community Development	March 5 eve.
Transportation	Finance	March 12 eve.
Treasury Board and Enterprise	Finance	March 7 eve.

AAADAC

See Alberta Alcohol and Drug Abuse Commission

AAMDC

See Alberta Association of Municipal Districts and Counties

ABC

See Government agencies, boards, and commissions

Aboriginal Affairs and Northern Development, Dept. of

See Dept. of Aboriginal Affairs and Northern Development Canada

Aboriginal children

Programs and services ... Hancock 475

Aboriginal children – Education

Federal-provincial-First Nations co-operation ...
Calahasen 670–71; Lukaszuk 64, 671; Woo-Paw 64
Memorandums of understanding ... Dallas 12; Hehr 12
Programs and services ... Chase 30; Dallas 12; Hehr
12; Lukaszuk 12, 153, 330; Speech from the Throne
2; Taft 155

Aboriginal children – Protective services

Deaths and serious incidents ... Chase 30–31

Aboriginal peoples

Awards received See Film and television industry:
American Indian Film Festival awards, member's statement on

Missing women ... Blakeman 402

Missing women, member's statement on ... Calahasen
391

Programs and services ... Chase 397; Dallas 397;
Hancock 46, 457; Rodney 24; Woo-Paw 425;
Zwozdesky 46

Wellness strategy ... Horne 371

Workforce strategy ... Chase 396–97; Dallas 397;
Hancock 397, 478

Aboriginal peoples – Economic development

Aboriginal woman entrepreneur award ... Quest 297

Energy industry See Alberta First Nations Energy Centre

First Nations development fund ... Chase 396–97;
Dallas 397; Griffiths 89–90; Hancock 397; Hinman
255; MacDonald 90

Rewarding partnership awards See Cold Lake First Nation: Primco Dene business development, member's statement on

Aboriginal relations department

See Dept. of Intergovernmental, International and Aboriginal Relations

Abuse

See Bullying; Child abuse; Domestic abuse

ACAD (Alberta College of Art and Design)

See Postsecondary educational institutions – Finance:
Auditor General's recommendations on financial controls

Accountants, labour mobility of

See Agreement on internal trade

ACSW

See Alberta College of Social Workers

Action on Homelessness, Alberta Secretariat for

See Alberta Secretariat for Action on Homelessness

Action to End Poverty in Alberta

See Poverty: Financial costs

Acute health care system

See Health care system

Addiction

See Gaming (gambling): Problem gambling;
Substance abuse and addiction

Adult education

See International Adult Learners' Week

Adult guardianship

See Public guardian

Advanced education

See Postsecondary education; Postsecondary educational institutions

Advanced Education and Technology, Dept. of

See Dept. of Advanced Education and Technology

Advanced technology

See Research and development

Advocacy groups

See Lobbyists: Interest groups

Advocate, Child and Youth

See Child and Youth Advocate, office of the

Advocate, Farmers'

See Farmers' Advocate

AEDA

See Alberta Economic Development Authority

AEMA (Alberta Emergency Management Agency)

See Wildfires – Slave Lake: Recovery program, funding from supplementary supply

AESO

See Alberta Electric System Operator

AET

See Dept. of Advanced Education and Technology

AEUB

See Alberta Energy and Utilities Board

AFA

See Alberta Foundation for the Arts

Affordable housing

[See also Social housing; Supportive living accommodations, affordable]

Access to housing ... Griffiths 725–26; Horne 373;
Leskiw 725–26

Funding ... Blakeman 509; Griffiths 509

Repairs and maintenance ... Griffiths 143; Leskiw 143;
VanderBurg 143

AFNEC

See Alberta First Nations Energy Centre

AFSC

See Agriculture Financial Services Corporation

Agencies, boards, and commissions, government

See Government agencies, boards, and commissions

Aggregates mining

See Sand and gravel mining

Aging population

See Seniors

AGLC

See Alberta Gaming and Liquor Commission

Agreement on internal trade

Impact on government contracts ... Calahasen 323;
Griffiths 323

Licensing of certified general accountants, Manitoba challenge to Ontario practices ... Dallas 235;
Hancock 235; Jablonski 235

Agricultural exports

See Farm produce – Exports

Agriculture

Centennial farm families See Family farms
 Provincial investments See Alberta Investment Management Corporation: Investment in Viterra
 Provincial strategy ... Speech from the Throne 3
 Research and development [See also Crop Diversification Centre South; University of Alberta. Faculty of Agriculture]; Berger 397; Doerksen 397

Agriculture and Rural Development, Dept. of

See Dept. of Agriculture and Rural Development

Agriculture Financial Services Corporation

Borrowing of money ... Liepert 600; Sherman 600
 Loan and risk management programs ... Berger 728–29; Goudreau 728–29

AHCIP

See Alberta health care insurance plan

AHFMR

See Alberta Heritage Foundation for Medical Research

AHRF

See Alberta Historical Resources Foundation

AHS

See Alberta Health Services (authority)

AHSB

See Alberta Health Services Board

AHSTF

See Alberta heritage savings trust fund

AIMCo

See Alberta Investment Management Corporation

Air quality

See Greenhouse gas emissions

Airdrie – Schools

See Schools – Construction: Project scheduling

Airdrie, Education minister's remarks on school spaces

See Schools – Construction – Airdrie: Alternative financing models, minister's remarks during teleconference

Airdrie, Finance minister's remarks at council meeting

See Dept. of Finance: Minister's remarks at Airdrie council meeting

AISH

See Assured income for the severely handicapped

AISI

See Alberta initiative for school improvement

AIT

See Agreement on internal trade

Alberta – History

[See also Black History Month; Catholic Women's League, Edmonton diocese; Legislative Assembly of Alberta: Anniversary of the First Session]
 Archival preservation of pioneer farming family stories (proposed) ... Berger 668; Snelgrove 668
 General remarks ... Speech from the Throne 1–2, 3
 John Ware ... Hinman 25
 Leduc No. 1 oil well ... Rogers 138; Taft 163
 Magrath history ... Jacobs 426
 Red Deer history ... Jablonski 730

Alberta – Population, life expectancy

See Health and wellness: Health indicators

Alberta, University of

See University of Alberta

Alberta Act (1905)

Separate school provisions ... Allred 483–84; Hancock 486–87; Mason 484

Alberta Alcohol and Drug Abuse Commission

Programs for problem gamblers ... Liepert 203; MacDonald 203

Alberta Association of Municipal Districts and Counties

Members' statements ... Drysdale 731
 Premier's address to meeting ... Hinman 755; Redford 755
 Relations with provincial government ... Griffiths 142; Redford 142; Taylor 142

Alberta Bill of Rights

Former Premier Peter Lougheed's remarks ... Forsyth 302–3; Hinman 300; Rogers 304–5
 Landowner rights provisions ... Doerksen 307; Hehr 304; Hinman 311; Jablonski 308–9; Olson 301–2; Ouellette 303; Rogers 304–5; Swann 307–8

Alberta Bill of Rights (Property Rights Protection) Amendment Act, 2012 (Bill 201)

First reading ... Hinman 69
 Second reading ... Anderson 305–6; Doerksen 306–7; Elniski 310; Forsyth 302–3; Hehr 303–4; Hinman 299–300, 310–11; Jablonski 308–9; Knight 309–10; Olson 301–2; Ouellette 303; Rogers 304–5; Swann 307–8; Taft 300–301
 Second reading, division ... 311
 General remarks ... Hinman 644

Alberta Blue Cross Benefits Corporation

[See also Seniors' benefit program: Drug benefits]
 Business awards ... Quest 297

Alberta Cancer Foundation

See Health and wellness: Breast health awareness

Alberta Chamber of Resources awards

See Cold Lake First Nation: Primco Dene business development, member's statement on; Watson, Peter

Alberta College of Art and Design

See Postsecondary educational institutions – Finance: Auditor General's recommendations on financial controls

Alberta College of Physicians & Surgeons

[See also Patient advocacy by physicians: Allegations of intimidation, events regarding Mr. Horne and Dr. Sherman]
 General remarks ... Mason 273

Alberta College of Social Workers

Partnership with government ... Pastoor 298

Alberta Companies Act

Not-for-profit organization incorporation provisions (part 9 companies) ... Blakeman 295; Liepert 295

Alberta Competitiveness Council

General remarks ... Horner 669; Leskiw 669

Alberta Economic Development Authority

General remarks ... Johnson 11

Alberta Electric System Operator

Mandate [See also Electric power lines – Construction]; Fawcett 364; Hinman 107; McFarland 44; Morton 44, 107, 364

Alberta Emergency Management Agency

See Wildfires – Slave Lake: Recovery program, funding from supplementary supply

Alberta Energy and Utilities Board

Agreement on transmission line expansion and upgrade ... Liepert 205; MacDonald 205
 Private investigators hired for Rimbey public meeting ... Swann 308

Alberta First Nations Energy Centre

Provincial strategy ... Blakeman 576; Dallas 416, 506, 576; Hehr 416–17, 448; Hinman 392–93, 659; Horner 393, 576–77; Morton 393, 448, 506, 576; Redford 416–17, 448; Sherman 506, 576

Alberta Foster Parent Association

General remarks ... Hancock 456

Alberta Foundation for the Arts

Grants program ... Goudreau 440

Alberta Gaming and Liquor Commission

Accounting methods ... Horner 144; MacDonald 144
Accounting methods, Auditor General's recommendations on ... Liepert 172, 327; MacDonald 172, 326–27
Administration ... Liepert 202
Exemption from Lobbyists Act ... MacDonald 67; Olson 67
Problem gambling management ... Horner 67, 113; Liepert 202; MacDonald 67, 112–13; Olson 67

Alberta Gaming Research Institute

Research project ... MacDonald 202–3

Alberta Gazette

Information published ... Horner 395; Liepert 395; MacDonald 395

Alberta government offices, international

See International offices

Alberta Grandparents Association

Petition on grandparents' rights ... Chase 328

Alberta Hansard

40th anniversary, Speaker's statement on ... Speaker, The 389
Recording of remarks off record, point of order on ... Berger 609–10; Speaker, The 610

Alberta Health Act

Proclamation ... Forsyth 364; Horne 364
Public consultations ... Fawcett 388

Alberta health care insurance plan

Client benefits ... Horne 293; Vandermeer 293
Supplemental benefits ... Horne 368

Alberta Health Services (authority)

Acting chair's donations to PC leadership campaign See Progressive Conservative Party of Alberta: Donations to leadership candidates
Brain injury partnerships ... Evans 68
Centralization of services ... Allred 109; Horne 109, 370; MacDonald 206; Notley 229; Redford 229; Swann 369
Centralization of services, Health Quality Council report comments on ... Forsyth 267; Horne 264, 267–68; MacDonald 267–68; Mason 261, 263–64, 273–74; Redford 262–64; Sherman 262
Governance ... Taylor 381
Lawsuits against (Motion for a Return M3/12: accepted) ... Swann 611
Local health advisory councils ... Horne 386–87
Senior executives ... Forsyth 105
Third-quarter report ... Horne 754, 756; Horner 725; Notley 756; Redford 754; Sherman 754; Swann 725

Alberta Health Services (authority) – Finance

See Health care system – Finance

Alberta Health Services Board

Relation to Dept. of Health and Wellness ... Forsyth 376; Horne 370, 377–78; Swann 369

Alberta Heritage Foundation for Medical Research

Discontinuation of endowment fund ... Horne 375; Swann 375

Alberta heritage savings trust fund

History of fund ... Speech from the Throne 2
Provincial strategy ... Blakeman 72; Chase 696; Fawcett 22; Hinman 26; Liepert 202, 216, 600; Redford 59; Sherman 59, 600; Snelgrove 696; Taylor 216
Value of fund ... Anderson 212, 221; Hehr 15; Liepert 209, 221, 424; MacDonald 208–9; Taft 424

Alberta Historical Resources Foundation

Grants program ... Goudreau 440

Alberta Hospital Edmonton

Capacity ... Horne 293, 509; Sandhu 508; Vandermeer 293
Forensic patients, physician advocacy re (Dr. Peter Rodd) ... Anderson 451; Forsyth 447; Horne 451; Redford 447
Members' statements ... Sandhu 328

Alberta Human Rights Act

[See also Education Act (Bill 2): Committee, amendment A6]

General remarks ... Boutilier 519; DeLong 556; Olson 720; Woo-Paw 551
Implementation ... Morton 546–47
Review of act ... Anderson 605–6; Olson 605–6

Alberta Human Rights Commission

Mandate ... Notley 721; Olson 720

Alberta in Canada

Budgetary impacts ... Liepert 216; Taylor 216
Federal-provincial relations ... Rodney 23; Sarich 135; Speech from the Throne 3
Federal-provincial-territorial meeting of Justice ministers ... Denis 48; Woo-Paw 48
Interprovincial relations [See also New West Partnership]; Johnston 290–91; Redford 240, 242, 291

Alberta initiative for school improvement

Funding ... Hehr 334; Lukaszuk 334–35

Alberta Innovates

Funding ... Taft 66; Weadick 66

Alberta Innovates: Energy and Environment Solutions

See Sendall, Kathleen

Alberta Innovates: Health Solutions

Memorandum of understanding with Pfizer Canada (Motion for a Return M2/12: defeated) ... Taft 612; Weadick 612

Alberta Innovates: Technology Futures

Research on energy conservation ... Fawcett 363; Morton 363–64

Alberta Investment Management Corporation

Borrowing money, constraints on ... Liepert 600
Christmas party ... MacDonald 209
Investment in Viterra ... Liepert 725; Webber 725
Investment performance ... Liepert 202, 209, 600; MacDonald 209; Sherman 600
Investment strategies ... Hinman 28

Alberta Land Stewardship Act

[See also Land-use framework]

General remarks ... Anderson 305–6; Hehr 304; Hinman 192–93, 300, 310–11; Mason 702; Redford 193; Swann 308
Land trust provisions ... Blakeman 266; Oberle 266
Landowner compensation provisions ... Rogers 305
Member for Airdrie-Chestermere's 2009 remarks ... Berger 651–52

Alberta Liberal Party

[See also Opposition caucuses]

Election choice, member's statement on ... Sherman 762

Alberta Liberal Party *(continued)*Fiscal policy ... Sherman 116–18Platform 2012 ... Swann 161–62Alberta lottery fundSee Lottery fundAlberta Medical Association[See also Physicians]*Emergency section president's remarks on health care system ... Forsyth 278, 279; Redford 192; Sherman 192Negotiations on physician master agreement *SeePhysicians: Services agreementNewspaper advertisement on health care system judicial inquiry ... Hinman 325; Horne 320, 321–22, 358; Horner 325; Liepert 392; Mason 321–22; Sherman 358, 392; Snelgrove 357; Swann 320Participation in family care clinic advisory board ... Horne 327Position on health care inquiry ... Swann 368–69Alberta multimedia development fundGrants program ... Blakeman 397–98; Goudreau 440; Klimchuk 398Alberta Municipal Financing CorporationBorrowing of money for ... Liepert 600; Sherman 600Alberta Museum, RoyalSee Royal Alberta MuseumAlberta Newsprint CompanySee Corporations: Closures during electric power price increasesAlberta Order of Excellence CouncilFunding ... Redford 238Alberta PartyFiscal policy ... Taylor 120–22Alberta Regulatory Review SecretariatSee Regulatory Review SecretariatAlberta Research and Innovation AuthoritySee Alberta Innovates; Fritzler, Dr. MarvinAlberta Research CouncilSee Alberta Innovates: Technology FuturesAlberta School ActSeparate school provisions ... Allred 483Alberta school alternative procurement programSee Schools – Construction: Public-private partnerships (P3) (ASAP initiative)Alberta School Councils' AssociationSupport for Bill 2, Education Act ... Lukaszuk 712Alberta school foundation fundValue of fund ... Lukaszuk 329Alberta Secretariat for Action on HomelessnessMandate ... Hancock 470–72; Kang 469–71Alberta Social Housing CorporationSee Affordable housing; Social housingAlberta Summer Games (Lethbridge 2012)General remarks ... Lindsay 69Alberta SuperNetUse in schools ... Lukaszuk 331Alberta Supports[See also specific programs]*Programs and services ... Chase 13, 30–31, 47; Hancock 46; Liepert 54, 206, 222; Redford 105; Sherman 105; VanderBurg 13, 47; Zwozdesky 46Programs and services, contracted agencies ... Hancock 456Telephone line, seniors' use of ... VanderBurg 13Alberta sustainability fundReview of fund ... Fawcett 22Utilization of fund ... Brown 75; Chase 74–75, 696; Hinman 684; Liepert 55, 206, 207–08; MacDonald 206, 207–08; Redford 59; Sherman 59; Snelgrove 696Value of fund ... Anderson 94, 212; Liepert 207–8; MacDonald 207–8Alberta Teachers' Association[See also Teachers]*Poll on special-needs education ... Notley 411Response to Bill 2, Education Act ... Lukaszuk 712; Mason 405Alberta Treasury BranchesSee Treasury BranchesAlberta Union of Provincial EmployeesBinding arbitration ... Liepert 212–13; Mason 213Alberta Urban Municipalities AssociationBreakfast meetings ... Griffiths 176, 320; Hinman 176; Sherman 320Relations with provincial government ... Forsyth 141; Griffiths 108, 142, 176, 320, 358; Hinman 138–39, 176; Mason 289; Redford 139–42, 287, 289; Rogers 108; Sherman 139–40, 287, 320, 358; Taylor 142Alberta Utilities CommissionMandate ... Fawcett 364; Hinman 27, 107; Morton 107, 364Alberta Vulnerable Infant Response TeamGeneral remarks ... Hancock 459Alberta Winter Games (Stony Plain 2012)Members' statements ... Lindsay 68–69Alberta Works employment programMember's statement ... Doerksen 200Services provided ... Cao 323–24; Hancock 324; Lukaszuk 46; Taft 46Support worker deployment ... Blakeman 198; Hancock 198; Horne 198AlcoholLiquor control and licensing *See Alberta Gaming and Liquor Commission*Sale of alcohol ... Blakeman 72Use as fuel See Bioenergy industryAlcohol and Drug Abuse CommissionSee Alberta Alcohol and Drug Abuse CommissionAlex Community Health CentreSee Health care system – Calgary: Alex youth health busALSASee Alberta Land Stewardship ActAlzheimer SocietySee Brain Health Symposium 2012AMASee Alberta Medical AssociationAmber Valley – HistorySee Black History MonthAmbulancesSee Emergency medical servicesAmbulatory learning centre, health sciencesSee Edmonton Clinic Health AcademyAMDFSee Alberta multimedia development fundAmerican Indian Film Festival awardsSee Film and television industry: American Indian Film Festival awards, member's statement on

Anderson, J.C. (Jack)

See Olds College: Donation to by J.C. (Jack)

AndersonAnthony Henday Drive

Project status ... Danyluk 582; Liepert 55; Sandhu 582

Appeals Commission (workers' compensation)

Annual report ... Hancock 88; MacDonald 88; Notley 88

General remarks ... Hancock 87, 88; MacDonald 88

Apprenticeship training

Provincial strategy ... Weadick 423; Woo-Paw 423

Registered apprenticeship program cost (Written Question 1/12: defeated) ... Taft 610–11; Weadick 610

Registered apprenticeship program participation (Written Question 2/12: accepted) ... Taft 610

Registered apprenticeships, statistics on ... Liepert 54

Appropriation Act, 2012 (Bill 7)

First reading ... Liepert 513

Second reading ... Anderson 591–92, 593, 595; Horner 587; MacDonald 587–88; Notley 588–91; Pastoor 592–93; Taft 590, 593–95

Second reading, division ... 595

Committee ... Anderson 629–31; Blakeman 627–29; MacDonald 631–33

Committee, motion to approve (carried) ... Deputy Chair 645

Third reading ... Anderson 694; Boutilier 686–87; Chase 682–83, 689, 691, 693, 696; Hancock 691–93; Hehr 687–89; Hinman 683–86, 704, 705–6; Horner 681; Kang 685, 696; Liepert 681–82; Mason 687, 689–91; Snelgrove 695–96; Swann 703–5; Taft 705–6; Taylor 694

Third reading, division ... 706

Royal Assent ... Lieutenant Governor of Alberta March 21, 2012 (outside of House sitting)

Appropriation (Supplementary Supply) Act, 2012 (Bill 3)

First reading ... Horner 115

Second reading ... Deputy Speaker 161; Horner 150; Swann 150–51; Taft 151–52

Committee ... MacDonald 185–86

Third reading ... Anderson 252–54; Hancock 251; Hehr 251–52; Hinman 254–56

Royal Assent ... Lieutenant Governor of Alberta March 5, 2012 (outside of House sitting)

Aquifers

See Water management

Arabic language

See Education – Curricula; Legislative Assembly of Alberta: Arabic remarks

Arctic Winter Games 2012

Member's statement ... Drysdale 425

ARD

See Dept. of Agriculture and Rural Development

ARIA (Alberta Research and Innovation Authority)

See Alberta Innovates

Armenia

Anniversary of genocide, member's statement on ... Jablonski 664–65

Arrest warrants, motion to reduce

See Law enforcement: Minor offences, motion to reduce arrest warrants re (Motion Other than Government Motion 504: defeated)

Arts, Alberta Foundation for

See Alberta Foundation for the Arts

Arts and culture

[See also Culture Forum 2012]

Provincial strategy ... Blakeman 629; Mason 30;

Sherman 245; Speech from the Throne 3

Tax incentives for cultural endeavours, Motion Other than Government Motion 503 (Benito: defeated) ... Benito 438–39, 441; DeLong 440–41; Fawcett 439; Goudreau 439–40; McFarland 440

Arts and culture – Calgary

See cSPACE projects

ASAP (Alberta schools alternative procurement) program

See Schools – Construction: Public-private partnerships (P3) (ASAP initiative)

ASB (Alberta seniors' benefit)

See Seniors' benefit program

ASCA

See Alberta School Councils' Association

ASHC (Alberta Social Housing Corporation)

See Affordable housing; Social Housing

ASLI

See Supportive living accommodations, affordable: Affordable supportive living initiative

Assisted living accommodations

Private facilities ... Horne 386; Taft 385–86

Statistics ... Forsyth 376

Association of Municipal Districts and Counties

See Alberta Association of Municipal Districts and Counties

Association of Registered Nurses of Alberta

See College and Association of Registered Nurses of Alberta

Association of the Professional Engineers, Geologists and Geophysicists of Alberta

See Sendall, Kathleen

Assured income for the severely handicapped

Client benefits ... Anderson 86, 93; Chase 13, 31, 510; Hehr 35; Hinman 255; Horne 510; Jablonski 756; Liepert 54; Redford 244–45, 756; VanderBurg 13, 86

Client benefits, health-related ... Chase 361;

VanderBurg 361

Client benefits, institutional residents ... Chase 361, 510; Horne 510; VanderBurg 361

Funding ... Notley 589–90

Funding from supplementary supply ... Anderson 86; Hehr 84, 86; Horner 150; MacDonald 85–86; Notley 84–85; Swann 150; VanderBurg 84–86

Member's statement ... Amery 426

Rent protection for clients ... Chase 510; Horne 510

ATA

See Alberta Teachers' Association

ATB Financial

See Treasury Branches

ATCO Group

See Progressive Conservative Party of Alberta: Donations to leadership candidates

Athabasca – Finance

See Lottery fund: Allocation of funds

Athabasca bridge

See Highway 63: Improvements

Athletic events

See Alberta Winter Games (Stony Plain 2012); Arctic Winter Games 2012; Commonwealth Games (Edmonton 1978); Curling; Hockey

Attorney General

See Dept. of Justice and Attorney General

AUC

See Alberta Utilities Commission

Auditor General – Recommendations

General remarks ... MacDonald 92

Long-term care facilities ... Chase 31

Reporting of gaming revenue ... Liepert 327;
MacDonald 326–27

Reporting of resource revenues ... Chase 33

Auditor General, office of the

Main estimates 2012-13, concurrence in committee report, division ... 480

AUMA

See Alberta Urban Municipalities Association

AUPE

See Alberta Union of Provincial Employees

Automobiles

See Motor vehicles; Traffic safety

Auxiliary hospitals

See Long-term care facilities (nursing homes/auxiliary hospitals)

BBaker Cancer Centre

See Tom Baker Cancer Centre

Barrhead-Morinville-Westlock (constituency), retirement of member and current Speaker

See Ministerial Statements: Tribute to Member for Barrhead-Morinville-Westlock; Speaker

Battered children

See Child abuse

Bears

Education program (BearSmart) ... Lund 513; Oberle 513

Grizzly bear population counts ... Lund 513; Oberle 513

Protection of dens ... Blakeman 42; Oberle 42

Shooting of bears near work camps ... Blakeman 234;
Oberle 234–35

Beaumont – Schools

See Schools – Construction: Project scheduling

Bellavera Green condominiums and apartments

See Housing – Leduc

Bill of Rights

See Alberta Bill of Rights

Bills (procedure)

First reading, Speaker's ruling on ... Speaker, The 115

Voting on amendments, point of order on ... Blakeman 765; Deputy Chair 765; Lukaszuk 765

Bills, government (procedure)

No. 2, Education Act, division at committee, amendment A1, subamendment SA1 ... 543–44

No. 7, Appropriation Act, 2012, division on second reading ... 595

No. 7, Appropriation Act, 2012, division on third reading ... 706

Bills, government (current session)

Information about any of the following bills may be found by looking under the title of the bill.

No. 1, Results-based Budgeting Act

No. 2, Education Act

No. 3, Appropriation (Supplementary Supply) Act, 2012

No. 4, St. Albert and Sturgeon Valley School Districts Establishment Act

No. 5, Seniors' Property Tax Deferral Act

Bills, government (current session) (continued)

No. 6, Property Rights Advocate Act

No. 7, Appropriation Act, 2012

Bills, government (previous sessions, 2009)

Information about any of the following bills may be found by looking under the title of the bill.

No. 6, Protection of Children Abusing Drugs Amendment Act, 2009

No. 19, Land Assembly Project Area Act

No. 36, Alberta Land Stewardship Act

No. 50, Electric Statutes Amendment Act, 2009

Bills, government (previous session, 2010)

Information about the following bill may be found by looking under the title of the bill.

No. 24, Carbon Capture and Storage Statutes Amendment Act, 2010

Bills, government (previous sessions, 2011)

Information about any of the following bills may be found by looking under the title of the bill.

No. 14, Wills and Succession Amendment Act, 2011

No. 26, Traffic Safety Amendment Act, 2011

Bills, private members' public (procedure)

No. 201, Alberta Bill of Rights (Property Rights Protection) Amendment Act, 2012, division on second reading ... 311

No. 203, Tobacco Reduction (Protection of Children in Vehicles) Amendment Act, 2012, division on second reading ... 436

Speaker's statement ... Speaker, The ... 514, 586

Bills, private members' public (current session)

Information about any of the following bills may be found by looking under the title of the bill.

No. 201, Alberta Bill of Rights (Property Rights Protection) Amendment Act, 2012

No. 203, Tobacco Reduction (Protection of Children in Vehicles) Amendment Act, 2012

No. 204, Land Statutes (Abolition of Adverse Possession) Amendment Act, 2012

No. 205, Scrap Metal Dealers and Recyclers Identification Act

No. 209, Homeowner Protection Act

No. 210, Early Childhood Learning and Child Care Act

Bills, private members' public (previous sessions, 2000)

Information about the following bill may be found by looking under the title of the bill.

No. 210, Traffic Safety Amendment Act, 2000

Bioenergy industry

Ethanol production ... Hinman 27, 28

Producer credit program ... Liepert 217

Bitumen – Export

[See also Pipelines – Construction]

Unprocessed bitumen ... Chase 33; Mason 29

Bitumen – Royalties

Forecasts ... Doerksen 449; Liepert 213, 449; Mason 213; Morton 450

Provincial strategy ... DeLong 76–77

Bitumen – Upgrading

Alberta industry ... Chase 683; Dallas 416; Hehr 416–17; Kang 136; Mason 29; Redford 416–17

First Nations projects See Alberta First Nations Energy Centre

North West Upgrading project ... Hehr 448; Morton 448

Bitumen development

See Oil sands development

Black bears

See Bears

Black History Month

Members' statements ... Rogers 15

Blood Services, Canadian

See Transplantation of organs, tissues, etc.

Boards, government

See Government agencies, boards, and commissions

Bonny Lodge

See Seniors – Housing – Bonnyville

Bonnyville – Health care system

See Health care system – Bonnyville

Bonnyville – Schools

See Schools – Bonnyville

Bonnyville – Social services

See Sexual assault centres: Counselling services

Bow Island – Health care system

See Health facilities: Infrastructure funding

Bow Valley College

Expansion ... Liepert 54

Brain Health Symposium 2012

Members' statements ... Evans 68

Breast health awareness campaigns

See Health and wellness: Breast health awareness

Breton – History

See Black History Month

Budget 2011-12, supplementary estimates

See Estimates of Supply (government expenditures); Supplementary estimates; specific departments

Budget Address

Government Motion 7 ... Liepert 52–56

Budget 2012-13

Estimates See Estimates of Supply (government expenditures); specific departments

Government advertisements ... Boutilier 321; Horner 321; Liepert 358–59, 391–92; Sherman 358–59, 391–92

Motion to approve (Government Motion 7) ... Anderson 118–20; Sherman 116–18; Snelgrove 124; Swann 122–23; Taylor 120–22

Motion to approve (Government Motion 7), questions and comments ... Swann 118

Oral Question period questions, Speaker's remarks on ... Speaker, The 71

Oral Question period questions, Speaker's statement on ... Speaker, The 67

Overview ... Redford 237–38, 245

Wage and salary allocations ... Liepert 212; Mason 212

Budget debate (procedure)

[See specific departments for budget debates]

General remarks ... Chair 237; Deputy Chair 203

Ministers' response to questions ... Blakeman 19

Schedule of debate ... Blakeman 19; Hancock 20–21; Notley 20

Speaking order ... Anderson 219; Deputy Chair 219

Speaking order, point of order on ... Acting Speaker, The (Mr. Zwozdesky) 122; Forsyth 122; Hancock 122

Budget documents

Financial reporting ... Blakeman 627; MacDonald 587–88, 632

Fiscal plan ... Liepert 52

Government strategic plan and ministry business plans ... Horner 52

Level of detail provided ... Blakeman 18; Hinman 19–20; Redford 239; Sherman 239

Ministry business plans ... Liepert 202–3, 207; MacDonald 207

Budget process

3-year review cycle See Results-based budgeting below under this heading

Balanced/deficit budgets ... Anderson 93–94, 220–21, 246–47, 252–53; Hinman 26, 48, 99, 254–56, 685; Liepert 48, 54, 206–7, 220–21; MacDonald 205–7; Mason 29; Notley 589; Redford 247, 666–67; Sherman 116, 239, 245, 666

Budgetary surpluses ... MacDonald 185

Finance minister and Treasury Board president round-table discussions ... Horner 32

General remarks ... Blakeman 18–19; Liepert 56; MacDonald 203

Results-based budgeting [See also Results-based Budgeting Act (Bill 1)]; Anderson 37–38; Boutilier 35–36; Denis 164–65; Fawcett 22; Hehr 33–34; Hinman 19, 26, 28; Horner 32; Liepert 53, 174, 207; MacDonald 207; Redford 246; Rodney 23; Speech from the Throne 2; Swann 122–25, 160–61; Vandermeer 174

Results-based budgeting, members' statements on ... Fawcett 607–8

Revenue/cost forecasts used ... Anderson 119, 210, 249–50, 254; Blakeman 72; Chase 222, 683; Doerksen 449; Fawcett 147–48; Hancock 691–92; Liepert 202, 210, 212–15, 218, 222–23, 449, 682; MacDonald 217–18; Mason 212–13, 214, 690, 691; Morton 147–48, 450; Redford 59, 250, 761; Sherman 59; Taft 705; Taylor 120–21, 215; Webber 761

Revenue/cost forecasts used, Auditor General's recommendations re ... Chase 683

Use of supplementary supply ... Anderson 254; Chase 32–33; Hehr 251–52; Hinman 254; Swann 150–51

Value reviews ... Horner 61–62; Redford 62; Snelgrove 61–62

Zero-based budgeting ... Anderson 38; Boutilier 35–36; Hinman 99–100; Notley 98–99

Building Canada fund (federal program)

Project funding ... Danyluk 79

Bullying

Gender identity/sexual orientation as a factor ... Mason 406

Legislation [See also Education Act (Bill 2)]; Forsyth 256; Woo-Paw 185

Motion pictures about [See also Film and television industry]; DeLong 579; Klimchuk 579

Prevention strategies ... DeLong 579; Hancock 579; Lukaszuk 579; Notley 410

Public vs. private school incidence ... Hehr 232–33; Lukaszuk 232–33

Social media use See Safer Internet Day

Burn prevention

See Long-term care facilities (nursing homes/auxiliary hospitals); Safety equipment

Businesses

See Corporations

Businesses – Taxation

See Corporations – Taxation

Bust a Move breast health awareness campaign

See Health and wellness: Breast health awareness

Button, Gordon

See Ombudsman, office of the

Bylaw enforcement

See Law enforcement: Minor offences, motion to reduce arrest warrants re (Motion Other than Government Motion 504: defeated)

CCabinet ministers

See Executive Council; Ministerial Statements

Cabinet Policy Committee on Community Development

Resignation of chair ... Redford 287; Sherman 287

Calendar of special events

February 2012 ... Speaker, The 149

March 2012 ... Speaker, The 366–67

Calgary – Crime prevention

See Medical examiners – Calgary: Review of criminal files

Calgary – Health care system

See Continuing/extended care facilities – Calgary;

Health care system – Calgary; Hospitals –

Construction – Calgary; Mental health services –

Calgary

Calgary – Property tax

See Property tax – Education levy – Calgary

Calgary – Schools

See Schools – Calgary; Schools – Construction:

Project scheduling; Schools – Construction –

Calgary

Calgary – Social services

See Sexual assault centres: Counselling services;

Substance abuse and addiction – Calgary

Calgary – Transportation

See Public transportation – Calgary; Ring roads –

Calgary; Road construction – Calgary

Calgary, city charter

See Cities and towns: City charters (proposed)

Calgary Arts Development

See cSPACE projects

Calgary Children's hospital

Cabinet ministers' visit ... Lukaszuk 282

Calgary-Currie (constituency)

Tribute to staff, member's statement on ... Taylor 190

Calgary Flames hockey club

See Kennedy, Sheldon

Calgary Foundation

See cSPACE projects

Calgary-Hays (constituency)

Reflections of retiring member, member's statement on ... Johnston 504

Calgary Homeless Foundation

See Homelessness – Calgary

Calgary Lab Services

Review of pathology services ... Horne 194; Olson 194; Swann 194

Calgary Opera

See Sendall, Kathleen

Calgary public school board

Deferred maintenance ... Hehr 338

Calgary-Varsity (constituency)

Member's retrospective, member's statement on ... Chase 599

Calgary-West (constituency)

General remarks ... Liepert 52

Leadership contest ... Redford 287; Sherman 287

Campgrounds, provincial

Online reservation system ... Hayden 234; Zwozdesky 234

Campsie – History

See Black History Month

Campus Alberta, international scholars program

See Hotchkiss, Harley

Camrose – Finance

See Lottery fund: Allocation of funds

Canada – History

See Black History Month

Canada Health Act

Health professional compensation provisions ... Mason 378

Canada-United States relations

See International trade

Canadian Agricultural Safety Association campaigns

See Farm safety

Canadian Arab Friendship Association

General remarks ... Sarich 59

Canadian Blood Services

See Transplantation of organs, tissues, etc.

Canadian Charter of Rights and Freedoms

[See also Education Act (Bill 2): Committee, amendment A6]

General remarks ... Hehr 551; Hinman 529; Woo-Paw 551

Religious freedom provisions ... Allred 539; Hinman

551; MacDonald 530–31; Morton 546–47

Sexual orientation provisions ... Blakeman 565

Canadian Coalition of Municipalities Against Racism and Discrimination

General remarks ... Olson 720

Canadian Constitution

See Constitution of Canada

Canadian Forces veterans

See Veterans

Canadian Institute for Health Information

Report on private health care delivery ... Horne 385;

Taft 384–85

Canadian Taxpayers Association, Teddy awards

See Committee on Privileges and Elections, Standing

Orders and Printing, Standing: Compensation to members; Members of the Legislative Assembly:

Compensation

Canadian Wheat Board

End of monopoly ... Chase 31; Speech from the Throne 3

Cancer

Prevention See Health and wellness

Survival rates ... Sherman 276

Cancer – Diagnosis and treatment

[See also Diagnostic imaging]

Drug shortage ... Horne 360–61; Woo-Paw 360–61

Funding ... Horne 368

Wait times ... Forsyth 376; Horne 277, 278; Mason 273, 379

Cancer – Diagnosis and treatment – Red Deer

Treatment centre ... Liepert 54

Capital investment

See Dept. of Municipal Affairs: Transfer from capital investment to, supplementary estimates 2011–12, No. 2

Capital Power

See Electric power – Export: Licence applications

Capital projects

[See also Municipal sustainability initiative]

Determination of specifications ... Johnson 194;

Snelgrove 193–94

Economic impacts ... Johnson 726–27; Quest 726

Capital projects (continued)

Financial reporting ... Anderson 220–21; Liepert 220–21
Funding ... Anderson 212; Fawcett 22; Liepert 54, 212

Carbon capture and storage

Provincial strategy ... Anderson 220, 592; Hinman 26, 28; Liepert 217, 220

Carbon Capture and Storage Statutes Amendment Act, 2010 (Bill 24)

General remarks ... Anderson 305–6; Forsyth 302; Hehr 304; Hinman 192–93, 300; Redford 193

Cardston – Emergency management

See Emergency management – Cardston (county)

Cardston – Waste management

See Wildlife: Carcass composting facility, Cardston county

Care workers

Safety issues See Persons with developmental disabilities: Caregiver deaths and serious incidents
Wages, government-private sector differential ... Chase 47; VanderBurg 47

Caribou

Habitat protection ... Blakeman 670; Oberle 670

CARNA

See College and Association of Registered Nurses of Alberta

Casinos

See Gaming (gambling)

Castle-Crown wilderness area

[See also Forest industries – Castle-Crown area]
Biological significance ... Notley 46; Oberle 46–47
Management plan ... Chase 145–46; Oberle 145–46
Maps of wildlife den locations ... Blakeman 42; Oberle 42

Catholic Women's League, Edmonton diocese centennial, member's statement on ... Sarich 6–7

CAUS

See Council of Alberta University Students

CBS (Canadian Blood Services)

See Transplantation of organs, tissues, etc.

CCS

See Carbon capture and storage

Centre for Race and Culture

General remarks ... Notley 722

CETA (comprehensive economic and trade agreement)

See International trade – European Union

CFEP

See Community facility enhancement program

CGAs (certified general accountants), labour mobility of

See Agreement on internal trade

CHA

See Canada Health Act

Chair – Rulings

[See also Points of order; Speaker – Rulings]
Addressing questions through the chair ... Deputy Chair 207

Decorum ... Anderson 706; Deputy Chair 349, 657, 706; MacDonald 657

Relevance ... Deputy Chair 207, 208, 221–22, 465; Hancock 465; MacDonald 208

Charter schools

Administration ... Blakeman 410, 517, 532
Provincial strategy [See also Education Act (Bill 2): Committee, amendment A7]; Amery 422; Anderson 707; Hehr 346; Lukaszuk 346, 422; Mason 405, 406; Notley 409–10; Swann 154

Charter schools (continued)

Restrictions [See also Education Act (Bill 2): Committee, amendment A8]; Amery 199, 421–22; Lukaszuk 199–200, 421–22

Chestermere – Schools

See Schools – Construction: Project scheduling

CHF (Calgary Homeless Foundation)

See Homelessness – Calgary

Chicago Council on Global Affairs, Premier's meeting with representatives

See Office of the Premier: Premier's travel re energy industry

Chief Electoral Officer, office of the

Funding from supplementary supply ... Hinman 255
Investigations ... Anderson 759; Olson 294–95; Redford 759; Taft 294–95
Main estimates 2012-13, concurrence in committee report, division ... 480
Recommendations ... MacDonald 92
Supplementary estimates 2011-12, No. 2, debate ... Denis 79; Hancock 89; Taft 89
Supplementary estimates 2011-12, No. 2, vote ... Chair 90

Chief Mountain landfill site

See Wildlife: Carcass composting facility

Child abuse

Online exploitation [See also Safer Internet Day]; Denis 48; Woo-Paw 48

Child and Family Services Council for Quality Assurance

General remarks ... Hancock 456–57

Child and Youth Advocate, office of the

Main estimates 2012-13, concurrence in committee report, division ... 480

Child care centres

See Daycare centres

Child poverty

General remarks ... Blakeman 45; Hancock 45
Nutrition programs ... Lukaszuk 45–46; Swann 154, 463; Taft 45–46, 155

Child welfare

Legislation [See also Tobacco Reduction (Protection of Children in Vehicles) Amendment Act, 2012 (Bill 203)]; Hinman 436
Performance measures, member's request for information ... Notley 474
Programs and services ... Hancock 459–61, 474; Notley 474; Swann 458–60

Children

Employment as farm workers ... Hancock 110; Swann 109–10

Mental health and addictions services ... Horne 293, 371–72; Vandermeer 293

Children – Protective services

Advancing futures bursaries ... Boutilier 466
Deaths and serious incidents [See also Funeral industry: Provincial contracts]; Chase 30–31; Notley 473–74
Guardianship orders, member's request for information on ... Notley 474
Programs and services ... Hancock 456

Children with disabilities

Family supports ... Hancock 456, 466
GPS tracking device use, member's statement on ... Chase 51
Parenting programs ... Allred 366; Hancock 366

Children with disabilities – Education*See Special-needs educationChildren's charities – Red DeerRonald McDonald House, member's statement on ...
*Jablonski 69Christian schoolsSee Private schoolsChronic disease managementSee Health care system – Delivery models: Primary care networksCIHISee Canadian Institute for Health InformationCIPSee Community initiatives programCities and towns[See also Municipalities]*Access to daycare ... *Hancock 458; Swann 457*City charters (proposed) ... *Griffiths 320; Sherman 25*Inner-city revitalization ... *Kang 580–81; Lukaszuk 581*Inner-city revitalization, member's statement on ...
*Fawcett 114Clayton, JillSee Information and Privacy Commissioner, office of theClear-cuttingSee Forest industriesClimate changeProvincial strategy ... *Chase 693; Swann 162CoalCoal gasification ... *Redford 240*Use in electric power generation *See Electric power plants: Coal-fired facilitiesCoding of children with special needsSee Special-needs education: Funding modelCogenerationSee Electric power: CogenerationCold Lake – Social servicesSee Sexual assault centres: Counselling servicesCold Lake First NationPrimco Dene business development, member's statement on ... *Leskiw 68College and Association of Registered Nurses of AlbertaParticipation in family care clinic advisory board ...
*Horne 327Commissions, governmentSee Government agencies, boards, and commissionsCommittee of SupplyMotion to resolve into (Government Motion 3: carried) ...
*Hancock 18*Supplementary estimates 2011-12, No. 2, referred to (Government Motion 4: carried) ... *Horner 52; Speaker, The 52*Supplementary estimates 2011-12, No. 2, to be considered for one day (Government Motion 5: carried) ... *Horner 52*Supplementary estimates, No. 2, considered on February 13, 2012 (Government Motion 8: carried) ... *Hancock 21Committee of the Whole AssemblyMotion to resolve into (Government Motion 2: accepted) ...
*Hancock 17Committee on Community Development, StandingReport on consideration of main estimates and business plan, 2012-13, for depts. of Culture and Community Services; Municipal Affairs; and Tourism, Parks and Recreation ... *Chase 479Committee on the Economy, Standing (former policy field committee)Recommendations on poverty reduction strategy ...
*Hancock 9; Taylor 9Committee on Education, StandingReport on review of main estimates and business plan, 2012-13, for Dept. of Advanced Education and Technology ... *Pastoor 479Committee on Energy, StandingMembership changes (Government Motion 9: carried) ...
*Hancock 21*Report on consideration of main estimates and business plan, 2012-13, for depts. of Agriculture and Rural Development; Energy; Environment and Water; Intergovernmental, International and Aboriginal Relations; and Sustainable Resource Development ...
*Blakeman 479Committee on Finance, StandingReport on consideration of main estimates and business plan, 2012-13, for depts. of Infrastructure, Service Alberta, Transportation, and Treasury Board and Enterprise ... *Renner 479Committee on Legislative Offices, StandingReview of legislative officers' budgets ... *Hancock 89Committee on Members' Services, Special StandingConsideration of Legislative Assembly Offices main estimates, 2012-13 ... *Chair 479Committee on Privileges and Elections, Standing*Orders and Printing, StandingCompensation to members ... Hehr 362; Horner 362
Members' return of payment for ... *Horner 722; Sherman 722Committee on Public Accounts, StandingHealth Quality Council appearance ... *Forsyth 278Committee on Public Health and Safety, StandingMembership changes (Government Motion 9: carried) ...
*Hancock 21*Report on consideration of main estimates and business plan, 2012-13, for depts. of Justice and Attorney General, Seniors, and Solicitor General and Public Security ... *Taft 479Committees of the Legislative AssemblyPayments to members ... *Horner 722; Sherman 722Commonwealth Games (Edmonton 1978)Royal visit ... *Speaker, The 4Communications technologySee Information and communications technologyCommunity Development, Cabinet Policy Committee onSee Cabinet Policy Committee on Community DevelopmentCommunity Development, Standing Committee onSee Committee on Community Development, StandingCommunity facility enhancement programEdmonton-McClung projects ... Xiao 608
Funding allocations ... *Liepert 205; MacDonald 205Community initiatives programEligibility criteria ... *Blakeman 260Community services departmentSee Dept. of Culture and Community ServicesCommunity spirit programFund distribution ... *Klimchuk 729–30; Rogers 729Community Sustainability Task ForceProvincial funding ... Blakeman 17

Competitiveness, economic[See also Productivity Alberta]Provincial strategy ... Rodney 23; Speech from the Throne 2, 3Competitiveness CouncilSee Alberta Competitiveness Council*Comprehensive economic and trade agreementSee International trade – European Union*Condominium Act (Ontario)Reserve fund study criteria ... Rodney 314–15Condominium Property ActHomeowner protection ... Hinman 312; Quest 312; Rodney 314; Weadick 313Review of act ... Bhullar 758–59; Kang 758–59Condominium Property Act (Saskatchewan)Reserve fund study criteria ... Rodney 315Condominiums[See also Housing]Reserve funds, standards for assessment studies, Motion
Other than Government Motion 502 (Quest: carried)
... Hehr 313–14; Hinman 312–13; Quest 311–12, 315; Rodney 314–15; Weadick 313Condominiums – Nova ScotiaRegulations ... Rodney 315Conflict of interest commissionerSee Ethics Commissioner, office of the*Connecting the Dots reportSee Aboriginal peoples: Workforce strategy*Conservation of the environmentSee Environmental protection*Conservative caucusSee Government caucus*Conservative PartySee Progressive Conservative Party of Alberta*Constitution of CanadaApplication to Bill 2, Education Act ... Blakeman 406–8Rights and freedoms ... Blakeman 516, 634, 645–47; Hinman 654Sexual orientation provisions ... Blakeman 516, 517, 646Construction industry[See also Capital projects; Housing – Construction]Employment of veterans in See Veterans: Career and employment servicesProtection for builders ... Blakeman 291; Griffiths 291Workplace health and safety ... Hancock 476Consumer protectionSee Electric power – Prices; World Consumer Rights Day*Continuing care strategyAlberta Continuing Care Association executive director's remarks ... Redford 754; Sherman 754Continuum of care ... Horne 386, 508; Jablonski 403; Swann 508Demonstration projects ... Horne 277, 756; Jablonski 730General remarks ... Chase 265; Notley 756; Redford 265, 665–66, 756; Sherman 665; VanderBurg 265Continuing/extended care facilitiesCapital funding ... Horne 193, 416; Mason 193; Redford 193, 416; Sherman 416Extra service charges (for baths, etc.) ... Forsyth 64–65; VanderBurg 65Levels and standards of care ... Horne 232, 508; Notley 232, 281, 577; Swann 508; VanderBurg 232, 577Continuing/extended care facilities (continued)Wait times ... Horne 170, 175–76; Sherman 170; Taylor 382; Webber 175–76Continuing/extended care facilities – CalgaryDemonstration project ... Horne 386Continuing/extended care facilities – LethbridgeEdith Cavell centre collective bargaining ... Hancock 668–69; Swann 668–69Continuing/extended care facilities – LloydminsterDr. Cooke centre ... Johnson 194; Snelgrove 194Continuing/extended care facilities – Red DeerVilla Marie demonstration project ... Horne 277, 386Villa Marie demonstration project, member's statement on ... Jablonski 730CorporationsAlberta business awards of distinction, member's statement on ... Quest 297Closures during electric power price increases ... Morton 41; Redford 41; Sherman 41Donations to PC leadership campaigns See Progressive Conservative Party of Alberta: Donations to leadership candidatesImpact of electric power prices ... MacDonald 91–92

Programs and services for businesses [See also

Productivity Alberta]; Hinman 27–28; Horner 32;Rodney 23; Speech from the Throne 3; Swann 28Research funding See Universities: Conflict of interest guidelinesResponse to economic uncertainty ... Liepert 218; MacDonald 218Social benefits of See Social enterprise*Corporations – Fort McMurrayBusiness awards ... Quest 297Corporations – Red DeerProductivity initiatives ... Horner 669; Leskiw 669Corporations – RegulationsReview of small-business regulations ... Redford 238Corporations – Taxation[See also Tax policy]Comparison with other jurisdictions ... Denis 73; Liepert 55–56New Democratic Party position ... Notley 76Provincial strategy ... Liepert 214; Mason 29, 214; Sherman 24Revenue to province ... Blakeman 72; Liepert 53, 218; MacDonald 218Tax credits ... Liepert 54, 203Correctional servicesFederal prisons ... Dallas 12; Hehr 12Funding from supplementary supply ... Denis 89; Hehr 89Cost of livingConsumer price index ... Olson 81(The) Cost of Poverty (report)See Poverty: Financial costs*Council of Alberta University StudentsMeetings with MLAs ... Bhardwaj 603; Weadick 603Court of Queen's BenchSee Masters in chambers*Courts, provincialSecurity levels ... Denis 89; Notley 89Covenant HealthSee Continuing care strategy: Demonstration projects; Edmonton General hospital

CPSB

See Calgary public school board

Creative industries

See Arts and culture; Culture Forum 2012; Film and television industry

Crime

[See also Law enforcement]

Federal legislation ... Mason 29

Missing aboriginal women See Aboriginal peoples: Missing women

Crime prevention

Anti-gang initiatives ... Speech from the Throne 3

Crime prevention – Edmonton

Ethnocultural community activity ... Woo-Paw 425

Critical transmission infrastructure (electric power)

See Electric power lines – Construction: North-south transmission line reinforcement

Critical Transmission Review Committee

See Electric power lines – Construction

Crop Diversification Centre South

Member's statement ... Doerksen 425–26

New greenhouse ... Berger 397; Doerksen 397

Crown lands

See Public lands

Crude, synthetic – Royalties

See Bitumen – Royalties

cSPACE projects

Member's statement ... Woo-Paw 357

Cultural industries

See Arts and culture; Film and television industry

Culture and Community Services, Dept. of

See Dept. of Culture and Community Services

Culture Forum 2012

Member's statement ... Woo-Paw 454

Culture policy (Spirit of Alberta)

General remarks ... Benito 438–39

Curling

Scotties Tournament of Hearts women's championship, member's statement on ... Jablonski 235

Curricula

See Education – Curricula

CWB

See Canadian Wheat Board

Cyberbullying

See Safer Internet Day

DDavis, Vern

Member's statement ... Zwozdesky 190

Daycare

Fees ... Hancock 473; Notley 469

Spaces available ... Hancock 86–87, 457–58, 473; Notley 472–73, 590; Swann 457

Subsidies ... Hancock 87, 456, 468; Notley 87, 467; Swann 457; Taft 87

Subsidies, funding from supplementary supply ... Hancock 86–87

Daycare centres

Accreditation ... Hancock 458, 459, 473; Notley 472; Swann 457

Employee credentials and standards ... Hancock 87; Swann 460; Taft 87

Staff retention ... Swann 457

Staff wages ... Hancock 87, 463; Swann 463; Taft 87

Debt

Federal debt ... Liepert 53

Provincial debt [See also Budget process]; Anderson 247, 253; Liepert 53, 54, 174, 202–3; Redford 192, 247; Sherman 192; Vandermeer 174

Student debt See Student financial aid

Denyer, Grace

See Tranquility Care Homes, Inc.: Eviction of resident

Dept. of Aboriginal Affairs and Northern Development Canada

Minister's meeting with Education minister ... Lukaszuk 12

Dept. of Advanced Education and Technology

Main estimates 2012-13, concurrence in committee report, division ... 480

Main estimates 2012-13, Standing Committee on Education report under Standing Order 59.01(7) ... Pastoor 479

Policy on consultation with students ... Bhardwaj 603; Weadick 603

Premier's mandate letter ... Brown 62; Weadick 62–63

Dept. of Agriculture and Rural Development

Funding ... Liepert 55

Main estimates 2012-13 debate, concurrence in committee report, division ... 480

Main estimates 2012-13 debate, Standing Committee on Energy report under Standing Order 59.01(7) ... Blakeman 479

Mandate ... McQueen 364

Dept. of Culture and Community Services

Main estimates 2012-13 debate, concurrence in committee report, division ... 480

Main estimates 2012-13, Standing Committee on Community Development report under Standing Order 59.01(7) ... Chase 479

Dept. of Education

Main estimates 2012-13 debate ... Anderson 339–42, 350–52; Boutilier 353; Hehr 331–39, 344–47; Lukaszuk 329–53; Notley 342–44, 347–50

Main estimates 2012-13 debate, concurrence in committee report, division ... 480

Main estimates 2012-13, procedure for debate ... Deputy Chair 329

Minister's remarks on Airdrie school infrastructure See Privilege: Obstructing a member in performance of duty; Schools – Construction – Airdrie

Program overview ... Lukaszuk 330

Dept. of Energy

Main estimates 2012-13 debate, concurrence in committee report, division ... 480

Main estimates 2012-13 debate, Standing Committee on Energy report under Standing Order 59.01(7) ... Blakeman 479

Mandate ... McQueen 364

Dept. of Environment and Water

Main estimates 2012-13 debate, concurrence in committee report, division ... 480

Main estimates 2012-13 debate, Standing Committee on Energy report under Standing Order 59.01(7) ... Blakeman 479

Mandate ... McQueen 364

Minister's meeting with environmental scientists ...

Chase 673; McQueen 511; Morton 673; Notley 511

Minister's meeting with federal Minister of Environment ... McQueen 14

Program eligibility criteria ... Blakeman 260

Dept. of Finance

Appearance before Public Accounts Committee ...
MacDonald 204
 Debt-servicing costs ... Liepert 202–3
 Fiscal planning and economic analysis ... Liepert 219;
MacDonald 219
 Main estimates 2012-13 debate ... Anderson 210–12,
 219–21; Chase 222; Liepert 202–23; MacDonald
 203–10, 217–19; Mason 212–15; Taylor 215–17
 Main estimates 2012-13 debate, concurrence in committee report, division ... 480
 Minister's provincial tour ... Liepert 53
 Minister's remarks at Airdrie council meeting ... Liepert
 358; Redford 228, 287; Sherman 228, 287, 358
 Technology, funding for ... Liepert 203

Dept. of Health and Wellness

Communications, funding for ... Forsyth 377
 Deputy ministers' and assistant deputy ministers' roles
 ... Redford 263; Swann 263
 Deputy minister's office, funding for ... Forsyth 377
 Financial reporting ... MacDonald 587–88, 632
 Main estimates 2012-13 debate ... Fawcett 387–88;
Forsyth 376–77; Horne 367–88; Mason 378–81;
Swann 368–69, 371–75; Taft 384–86; Taylor 381–
 82; Webber 383
 Main estimates 2012-13 debate, concurrence in
 committee report, division ... 480
 Main estimates 2012-13 debate, procedure for debate ...
Chair 367
 Mandate ... Horne 580; Notley 229; Redford 229;
Swann 580
 Ministerial accountability ... Mason 264; Redford 262,
 264; Sherman 262
 Minister's letter to physicians on one-year settlement ...
Horne 290; Swann 290
 Minister's office, funding for ... Forsyth 377
 Staff turnover ... Taft 384

Dept. of Human Services

Departmental restructuring ... Boutilier 476; Hancock
 476–77
 Financial reporting ... MacDonald 587
 Funding ... Hancock 474–75; Liepert 206
 Funding from supplementary supply ... Hehr 251;
Hinman 255
 Main estimates 2012-13 debate ... Boutilier 464–67,
 474–77; Hancock 455–78; Kang 469–72; Notley
 467–69, 472–74; Swann 457–64, 477
 Main estimates 2012-13 debate, concurrence in
 committee report, division ... 480
 Minister's communications with front-line staff ...
Boutilier 465–66; Hancock 465–66, 476–77
 Programs and services ... Boutilier 464–65; Hancock
 455–56, 460–61, 464–65; Redford 9; Swann 162,
 457, 460
 Programs and services, use of contracted agencies ...
Hancock 460, 463; Swann 460, 462–63
 Staff morale ... Hancock 460–61, 463–64; Swann 460,
 463
 Supplementary estimates 2011-12, No. 2, debate ...
Hancock 86–88; MacDonald 88; Notley 87–88;
Taft 87
 Supplementary estimates 2011-12, No. 2, vote ... Chair 90

Dept. of Infrastructure

Budgetary transfers ... MacDonald 633
 Main estimates 2012-13 debate, Standing Committee on
 Finance report under Standing Order 59.01(7) ...
Renner 479
 Main estimates 2012-13 debate, concurrence in
 committee report, division ... 480

Dept. of Intergovernmental, International and Aboriginal Relations

Financial reporting ... MacDonald 587
 Funding from supplementary supply ... Hinman 255
 Main estimates 2012-13 debate, concurrence in
 committee report, division ... 480
 Main estimates 2012-13 debate, Standing Committee on Energy report under Standing Order 59.01(7) ...
Blakeman 479
 Minister's meetings with Assembly of Treaty Chiefs re
 Alberta First Nations Energy Centre ... Dallas 576;
Sherman 576
 Supplementary estimates 2011-12, No. 2, debate ...
Griffiths 89–90; MacDonald 89–90
 Supplementary estimates 2011-12, No. 2, voted ...
Rogers 90

Dept. of Justice and Attorney General

Main estimates 2012-13 debate, concurrence in
 committee report, division ... 480
 Main estimates 2012-13 debate, Standing Committee on
 Public Health and Safety report under Standing Order
 59.01(7) ... Taft 479
 Supplementary estimates 2011-12, No. 2, debate ...
Anderson 81–82; Hehr 80–82; MacDonald 82;
Notley 82; Olson 80–82
 Supplementary estimates 2011-12, No. 2, vote ... Chair 90

Dept. of Municipal Affairs

Funding from supplementary supply ... Hinman 255
 Main estimates 2012-13 debate, concurrence in
 committee report, division ... 480
 Main estimates 2012-13 debate, Standing Committee on Community Development report under Standing
 Order 59.01(7) ... Chase 479
 Minister's relations with AUMA and AAMDC ...
Griffiths 142; Redford 140; Sherman 140; Taylor 142
 Supplementary estimates 2011-12, No. 2, debate ...
Griffiths 83–84; Hehr 83; Taft 83
 Supplementary estimates 2011-12, No. 2, vote ... Chair 90
 Transfer from capital investment to, supplementary estimates 2011-12, No. 2 ... Denis 79
 Transfer from capital investment to, supplementary estimates 2011-12, No. 2, vote ... Chair 90

Dept. of Seniors

Funding from supplementary supply ... Hinman 255
 Main estimates 2012-13 debate, concurrence in
 committee report, division ... 480
 Main estimates 2012-13 debate, Standing Committee on
 Public Health and Safety report under Standing Order
 59.01(7) ... Taft 479
 Minister's visit to Sagewood seniors' residence ...
Doerksen 608
 Supplementary estimates 2011-12, No. 2, debate ...
Anderson 86; Hehr 84, 86; MacDonald 85–86;
Notley 84–85; VanderBurg 84–86
 Supplementary estimates 2011-12, No. 2, vote ... Chair
 90; Rogers 91

Dept. of Service Alberta

Consumer protection services ... Cao 583–84
 Main estimates 2012-13 debate, concurrence in
 committee report, division ... 480
 Main estimates 2012-13 debate, Standing Committee on
 Finance report under Standing Order 59.01(7) ...
Renner 479

Dept. of Solicitor General and Public Security

Main estimates 2012-13 debate, concurrence in
 committee report, division ... 480

Dept. of Solicitor General and Public Security*(continued)*

Main estimates 2012-13 debate, Standing Committee on Public Health and Safety report under Standing Order 59.01(7) ... Taft 479

Money transferred to general revenue fund ... Denis 88; MacDonald 88

Staff wages and benefits ... Denis 88

Supplementary estimates 2011-12, No. 2, debate ... Denis 88-89; Hehr 89; Notley 89

Supplementary estimates 2011-12, No. 2, vote ... Chair 90

Dept. of Sustainable Resource Development

Main estimates 2012-13 debate, concurrence in committee report, division ... 480

Main estimates 2012-13 debate, Standing Committee on Energy report under Standing Order 59.01(7) ... Blakeman 479

Mandate ... Calahasen 323; Griffiths 323; McQueen 364

Program eligibility criteria ... Blakeman 260

Dept. of Tourism, Parks and Recreation

Main estimates 2012-13 debate, concurrence in committee report, division ... 480

Main estimates 2012-13 debate, Standing Committee on Community Development report under Standing Order 59.01(7) ... Chase 479

Staff wages and salaries, AUPE settlement impact ... Hayden 90; MacDonald 90

Supplementary estimates 2011-12, No. 2, debate ... Hayden 90; MacDonald 90

Supplementary estimates 2011-12, No. 2, vote ... Chair 90

Dept. of Transportation

Main estimates 2012-13 debate, concurrence in committee report, division ... 480

Main estimates 2012-13 debate, Standing Committee on Finance report under Standing Order 59.01(7) ... Renner 479

Supplementary estimates 2011-12, No. 2, debate ... Danyluk 79-80; Denis 79; Hehr 80; Taft 79

Supplementary estimates 2011-12, No. 2, vote ... Chair 90

Dept. of Treasury Board and Enterprise

Budgetary transfers ... MacDonald 633

Donations to minister during PC leadership campaign ... MacDonald 447; Redford 447

Main estimates 2012-13 debate, concurrence in committee report, division ... 480

Main estimates 2012-13 debate, Standing Committee on Finance report under Standing Order 59.01(7) ... Renner 479

Mandate ... Anderson 37; Horner 31; Liepert 204; MacDonald 204

Minister's provincial tour ... Liepert 53

Deputy Chair rulings and statements

See Chair – Rulings

Deputy Speaker rulings and statements

See Speaker – Rulings; Speaker – Statements

Diabetes

Prevention initiatives ... Horne 176-77; Quest 176

Self-management supports ... Horne 176; Quest 176

Diagnostic imaging

Magnetic resonance imaging ... Horne 387

Dignitaries, introduction of

See Introduction of Visitors (visiting dignitaries)

Disabilities, persons with

See Children with disabilities; Persons with disabilities

Disaster recovery

See Floods – Southern Alberta; Wildfires – Slave Lake

Distracted driving

See Traffic safety

DiverseCT Alberta

Municipal initiative ... Woo-Paw 425

Divisions (recorded votes)

Bill 2, Education Act, committee, amendment A1, subamendment SA1 ... 543-44

Bill 7, Appropriation Act, 2012, second reading ... 595

Bill 7, Appropriation Act, 2012, third reading ... 706

Bill 201, Alberta Bill of Rights (Property Rights Protection) Amendment Act, 2012, second reading ... 311

Bill 203, Tobacco Reduction (Protection of Children in Vehicles) Amendment Act, 2012, second reading ... 436

Emergency debate request under Standing Order 30 on hospital support staff work stoppage ... 182

Offices of the Legislative Assembly and government departments main estimates, 2012-13 ... 480

Doctors

See Physicians

Dollar, Canadian

Exchange rate ... Liepert 53

Domestic abuse

Publication of name changes re See Alberta Gazette
Shelter availability ... Chase 31

Donation of organs and tissue

See Transplantation of organs, tissues, etc.

Downey, Brian C. (former MLA)

See Members of the Legislative Assembly: Memorial tribute to Brian C. Downey, former MLA

Drinking and driving

See Impaired driving

Drug Abuse Commission

See Alberta Alcohol and Drug Abuse Commission

Drugs, illicit

See Substance abuse and addiction

Drugs, prescription

[See also Cancer – Diagnosis and treatment: Drug shortage]

Funding ... Horne 368

Generic drugs ... Forsyth 376; Horne 63, 375, 377; Jablonski 63

Seniors' benefits ... Amery 361; Horne 361

Dunvegan-Central Peace (constituency)

Member's resignation as chair of cabinet policy committee ... Redford 287; Sherman 287

EEarly childhood education

Funding ... Hehr 346; Lukaszuk 346

Kindergarten and junior kindergarten ... Chase 30; Hehr 322, 331-32; Johnson 420; Kang 420; Lukaszuk 322, 331-33, 334, 360; Mason 406; Notley 359-60, 410, 590; Swann 154

Special-needs programs ... Anderson 93, 156-57

Early Childhood Learning and Child Care Act (Bill 210)

First reading ... Taylor 513-14

East Edmonton health centre

Timeline on ... Horne 43, 141; Mason 43, 141

Urgent care facilities delay ... Horne 379, 380; Mason 378, 380-81

Eckville

See Freehold lands: Eckville public meeting on land legislation

Economic Development Authority, Alberta

See Alberta Economic Development Authority

Economy

Forecasts ... Redford 59; Sherman 59
General remarks ... Bhardwaj 761–62; Fawcett 21;
Liepert 53; Redford 761–62; Speech from the Throne 2
Knowledge economy ... Swann 162

Economy, Standing Committee on

See Committee on the Economy (former policy field committee)

Edmonton

[See also Cities and towns: City charters (proposed)]
Community Sustainability Task Force report ... Fawcett 114

Edmonton – Health care system

See Health and wellness – Edmonton; Health care system – Edmonton

Edmonton – Housing

See Seniors – Housing – Edmonton

Edmonton – Public security

See Crime prevention – Edmonton

Edmonton – Schools

See Schools – Construction: Project scheduling; Schools – Edmonton

Edmonton – Social services

See Sexual assault centres: Counselling services

Edmonton – Sports

See Hockey – Edmonton

Edmonton – Transportation

See Anthony Henday Drive; Public transportation – Edmonton

Edmonton and Area Land Trust

Casino licence application denial ... Blakeman 295;
Liepert 295
Member's statement ... Blakeman 260

Edmonton-Calder (constituency)

Cabinet tour visit, member's statement on ... Elniski 51

Edmonton City Centre Airport

Closure of, alternatives for medevac services ...
Drysdale 110; Horner 110

Edmonton Clinic Health Academy

Members' statements ... Bhardwaj 169

Edmonton clinic south

Funding ... Horne 367, 368
Operational funding ... Liepert 54

Edmonton General hospital

Long-term care ... Horne 193, 575–76; Horner 576;
Mason 193, 379; Redford 193, 288, 416; Sherman 288, 416, 575–76
Long-term care, Auditor General's recommendations on ... Chase 289; Horne 289–90, 319–20; Sherman 319; VanderBurg 289
Long-term care, incident involving Audry Chudyk ...
Chase 289; Horne 289–90; Redford 288; Sherman 288; VanderBurg 289

Edmonton-McClung (constituency)

Member's statement ... Xiao 608–9

Edmonton-Meadowlark (constituency), Alberta Medical Association investigation of member

See Patient advocacy by physicians: Allegations of intimidation, events regarding Mr. Horne and Dr. Sherman

Edmonton public school board

Capital plan ... Lukaszuk 341, 604; Notley 604
Report on school fees ... Mason 406
Student spaces ... Lukaszuk 332

Edson – Finance

See Lottery fund: Allocation of funds

Edson – Health care system

See Health facilities: Infrastructure funding

Education

Compulsory school attendance age ... Lukaszuk 153;
Swann 154; Woo-Paw 184
High school completion ... Chase 30; Lukaszuk 153;
Sherman 239; Woo-Paw 184
Parental choice [See also Charter schools; Education Act (Bill 2): Committee, amendment A1; Private schools]; Anderson 156–57; Boutilier 188; Hehr 158; Lukaszuk 152–54; Redford 666; Sherman 666
Performance measures ... Anderson 157
Provincial strategy ... Bhardwaj 112; Fawcett 21, 22;
Lukaszuk 112; Sherman 25
Public consultations ... Anderson 667; Hinman 671;
Horner 671; Jablonski 144; Lukaszuk 605, 671; Mason 406; Notley 408–9; Redford 667; Woo-Paw 605
Public consultations, member's statement on ... Leskiw 114
Public system ... Chase 689; Hehr 689; Mason 691
School support services ... Lukaszuk 343
Student residency criteria ... Lukaszuk 153; Swann 154
Transition to postsecondary education ... Brown 62;
Weadick 62–63

Education – Curricula

Arabic bilingual programs, member's statement on ...
Sarich 59
Children's' exemptions from specific classes ... Forsyth 257; Hehr 725; Leskiw 325; Lukaszuk 325, 725
Content re sexual orientation ... Blakeman 564–67;
Chase 537, 566–67; Mason 406
English as a second language ... Hehr 344–45; Lukaszuk 197–98, 330, 343, 345; McFarland 197–98; Notley 342
Religious instruction [See also Education Act (Bill 2): Committee, amendment A1]; Allred 538
Use in home-schooling See Home-schooling: Curriculum content

Education – Finance

[See also Dept. of Education: Main estimates 2012-13 debate; School fees (elementary and secondary)]
3-year funding cycle ... Hehr 62, 109, 333–34, 336–38;
Lukaszuk 62, 109, 333–34, 335–38; Notley 350;
Rodney 23; Sarich 135; Speech from the Throne 2
Additional funding for 2011-12 school year ... Hehr 333, 603; Hinman 255; Lukaszuk 333, 603–4
Funding ... Anderson 212; Blakeman 628–29; Chase 222; Liepert 206, 212, 222; Lukaszuk 330; Mason 29; Notley 590; Redford 666; Sherman 244, 245, 666; Taft 594
Funding for rural boards ... Chase 177; Lukaszuk 177, 330
Funding sources ... Hinman 255; Jablonski 113;
Lukaszuk 113
Per-student funding model ... Anderson 157
Voucher system ... Hehr 159, 347; Lukaszuk 347

Education – Governance

See School boards and districts

Education – Legal

See St. Albert and Sturgeon Valley School Districts Establishment Act

Education – Morinville

See St. Albert and Sturgeon Valley School Districts Establishment Act

Education – United States

Reports ... MacDonald 183

Education, Dept. of

See Dept. of Education

Education, postsecondary

See Postsecondary education

Education, preschool

See Early childhood education

Education, Standing Committee on

See Committee on Education, Standing

Education Act (Bill 2)

First reading ... Lukaszuk 115

Second reading ... Anderson 156–58; Blakeman 406–8, 410; Boutilier 184, 187–88; Forsyth 256–57; Hehr 158–59; Lukaszuk 152–54, 411; MacDonald 182–84, 408; Mason 405–6; Notley 408–11; Swann 154; Taft 154–56; Woo-Paw 184–85

Committee ... Allred 538–39; Anderson 517–18, 521–25, 532–34, 543, 547–48, 550, 554–55, 570, 706–9, 736–38, 769–71; Blackett 519, 747–48; Blakeman 515–18, 531–32, 563–68, 570–71, 765–67; Boutilier 519, 534–35; Brown 520–21; Chase 537–38, 544, 549–51, 556–59, 561–63, 566–67, 569–70, 735–36, 741–42, 749; DeLong 545, 555–56, 748–49; Denis 740–41; Forsyth 522–23, 542–43, 709–11; Hancock 560–61, 717–18; Hayden 748; Hehr 540–42, 544–45, 551, 553, 557–58, 561, 743; Hinman 528–30, 539–40, 551–53, 561, 569, 714–17, 771–74; Horner 745; Kang 522; Leskiw 553–54; Liepert 742–43; Lukaszuk 500–501, 526–28, 560, 562, 563, 568–69, 711–13, 743–44, 764–65; MacDonald 530–31, 768–69; Morton 545–49; Notley 519–20, 525–26, 734–35, 738–40; Pastoor 552; Renner 525; Rogers 548; Swann 559–60, 569; Taft 713–14; Weadick 749–50; Woo-Paw 551; Zwozdesky 569, 745–47

Committee, amendment A1 (addition to preamble on parental choice) (carried) ... Anderson 517–18, 547–48, 550, 554–55; Blakeman 515–17; Chase 544, 549–51, 556–57; DeLong 545, 555–56; Hehr 544–45, 551, 553; Hinman 551–53; Leskiw 553–54; Lukaszuk 500–501; Morton 545–49; Pastoor 552; Rogers 548; Woo-Paw 551

Committee, amendment A1, subamendment SA1 (insertion of phrase “paramount right and responsibility” of parents) (defeated) ... Allred 538–39; Anderson 518, 521–25, 532–34, 543; Blackett 519; Blakeman 518, 531–32; Boutilier 519, 534–35; Brown 520–21; Chase 537–38; Forsyth 522–23, 542–43; Hehr 540–42; Hinman 528–30, 539–40; Kang 522; Lukaszuk 526–28; MacDonald 530–31; Notley 519–20, 525–26; Renner 525

Committee, amendment A1, subamendment SA1, division ... 543–44

Committee, amendment A2 (elimination of tuition fees) (defeated) ... Blakeman 563–64; Chase 558–59, 561–63; Hancock 560–61; Hehr 557–58, 561; Hinman 561; Lukaszuk 560, 562, 563; Swann 559–60

Committee, amendment A3 (parental notice of instruction dealing with religion, sexuality, or sexual orientation) (defeated) ... Blakeman 564–67; Chase 566–67

Committee, amendment A4 (definition of bullying to include entire school community) (carried unanimously) ... Anderson 570; Blakeman 567–68; Chase 569–70; Hinman 569; Lukaszuk 568–69; Swann 569; Zwozdesky 569

Education Act (Bill 2) (continued)

Committee, amendment A5 (charter school provisions) (defeated) ... Blakeman 570–71

Committee, amendment A6 (replace section 16, diversity and respect) (defeated) ... Anderson 706–9, 736–38; Chase 735–36; Forsyth 709–11; Hancock 717–18; Hinman 714–17; Lukaszuk 711–13; Notley 734–35; Taft 713–14

Committee, amendment A7 (establishment of charter schools) (carried) ... Blackett 747–48; Chase 741–42, 749; DeLong 748–49; Denis 740–41; Hayden 748; Hehr 743; Horner 745; Liepert 742–43; Lukaszuk 743–44; Notley 738–40; Weadick 749–50; Zwozdesky 745–47

Committee, amendment A8 (charter school restrictions; registration/accreditation of private schools; school division creation; francophone school trustee candidate criteria; shared school spaces) (not voted) ... Anderson 769–71; Blakeman 765–67; Hinman 771–74; Lukaszuk 764–65; MacDonald 768–69

Ages of children included ... Forsyth 257

Antibullying provisions ... DeLong 579; Lukaszuk 152, 579

Charter school provisions ... Anderson 707

Curriculum provisions ... DeLong 232; Lukaszuk 232

Parental rights provisions ... Anderson 605–6, 706–8; Horner 605–6; Olson 605–6

Preamble ... Forsyth 256–57; Hehr 158; Taft 155

Education levy

See Property tax – Education levy

Educators

See Teachers

Eid Milad un-Nabi celebration

Member's statement ... Kang 200

Election Act

Review (proposed) ... Anderson 759; Olson 294–95; Redford 759; Taft 294–95

Election Finances and Contributions Disclosure Act

Limits on donations under ... MacDonald 447

Elections, provincial

Election 2012 date ... Boutilier 724; Horner 724

Fixed election date ... Chase 31

Fraud prevention ... Olson 294–95; Taft 294–95

Right to vote, member's statement on ... Taft 665

Voter turnout ... Sherman 245

Elections Alberta

See Chief Electoral Officer, office of the

Electric power

Balancing Pool mandate ... McFarland 44; Morton 44

Cogeneration ... MacDonald 760; Morton 760

Service disruptions ... Allred 29; Mason 30

Electric power – Export

Licence applications ... Liepert 601; Mason 601

Electric power – Prices

Comparison with other jurisdictions ... Boutilier 112; Calahasen 728; Mason 61, 107; Morton 41, 60, 61, 107, 112, 140, 146–47, 199, 228, 506–7, 728; Redford 105, 107–8; Sherman 41, 59–60, 105, 140, 228, 506–7; Taft 146, 199

Fixed-rate option ... MacDonald 92–93; VanderBurg 92

Provincial strategy ... Notley 590; Ouellette 265; Redford 265–66

Rates ... Allred 29–30; Calahasen 728; MacDonald 730, 760; Mason 9, 29, 30, 61, 690–91; McFarland 44; Morton 8, 9, 44, 61, 728, 730, 760; Ouellette 265–66; Redford 8, 9, 41, 192, 265–66; Sherman 7–8, 24, 192

Electric power – Prices (continued)

Regulated-rate option ... MacDonald 512–13; Mason 61; Morton 60, 61, 105, 512–13; Ouellette 265–66; Redford 105, 140, 228, 265–66; Sherman 105, 140, 228
 TransAlta price manipulation ... Mason 30; Morton 8, 41; Sherman 8, 24, 41
 Variable rate option ... Ouellette 265–66; Redford 265–66

Electric power – Quebec

General remarks ... Mason 107; Morton 107

Electric power – Regulations

Deregulation ... MacDonald 91–93; Mason 29; Morton 60, 146–47, 199; Redford 192; Sherman 24, 59–60, 192; Taft 146–47, 199, 701

Electric power – Retail sales

Demand-side management ... Fawcett 363–64; McQueen 364; Morton 363–64
 Industrial consumers ... Fawcett 364; Morton 41, 364; Redford 41; Sherman 41
 Rural consumers ... MacDonald 730; Morton 730

Electric power, coal-produced

See Electric power plants: Coal-fired facilities

Electric power lines – Construction

Approval process ... Redford 446; Sherman 446
 Critical Transmission Review Committee membership ... Morton 506–7; Sherman 506–7
 Critical Transmission Review Committee report ... Boutilier 112; Hinman 107; Morton 107, 112; Redford 106, 107; Sherman 106
 Heartland transmission project, proposed route ... Kang 269; Lukaszuk 269
 Impact on power prices ... Liepert 205; MacDonald 92, 205
 North-south transmission line reinforcement ... Anderson 495; Calahasen 728; Chase 497; Hinman 107, 499; Jablonski 583; Morton 583, 728; Redford 107; Taft 701–2
 Procurement process ... Hinman 107; Morton 107

Electric power plants

Coal-fired facilities ... Mason 30; Morton 195; Quest 195
 Plant locations ... Jablonski 583; Morton 583
 Scheduled maintenance ... McFarland 44; Morton 44

Electric Statutes Amendment Act, 2009 (Bill 50)

General remarks ... Anderson 305–6, 495–96; Chase 496; Forsyth 302; Hehr 304; Hinman 300; Mason 702; Morton 497

Public hearings See Alberta Energy and Utilities Board

Repeal of legislation (proposed) ... Hinman 107, 192–93; Redford 106, 107, 193; Sherman 106

Electric utilities

Corporate political donations ... MacDonald 512–13; Morton 513

Elevate report

See Edmonton: Community Sustainability Task Force report

Elizabeth II, Queen

Diamond Jubilee ... Hinman 25; Redford 238, 239; Speech from the Throne 1
 Diamond Jubilee, member's statement on ... Brown 68
 Diamond Jubilee, Speaker's statement on ... Speaker, The 4

Elniski, Thom

Member's statement ... Elniski 318
 Member's statement, e-mail re ... Elniski 585–86

Emblems of Canada

See National Flag of Canada Day

Emergency debates under Standing Order 30 (procedure)

Procedure for debate ... Speaker, The 273

Emergency debates under Standing Order 30 (current session)

Health Quality Council review report, request for debate (proceeded with) ... Blakeman 273; Hancock 272; Notley 272; Speaker, The 273

Health Quality Council review report, debate ... Blakeman 283; Forsyth 278–79; Hancock 279–80; Horne 276–78; Lukaszuk 281–83; Mason 273–74; Notley 280–81; Redford 274–75; Sherman 275–76

Work stoppages by hospital support staff, request for debate (not proceeded with) ... Hancock 181; Horne 179–80; Notley 181–82; Speaker, The 180, 182; Taft 179, 180

Work stoppages by hospital support staff, request for debate, division ... 182

Emergency management

Emergency preparedness, member's statement on ... Jablonski 609

Emergency management – Cardston (county)

Bylaw repeal ... Griffiths 511; Jacobs 511

Emergency Management Act

General remarks ... Griffiths 511; Jacobs 511

Emergency medical services (ambulances, etc.)

Centralization of services ... Allred 109; Horne 10, 109, 173; Quest 10; Swann 173

Funding ... Horne 368

Health Quality Council review ... Horne 372

Medevac services ... Boutilier 396; Horner 396

Wait times ... Horne 372; Swann 372

Emergency medical services (ambulances, etc.) – Edmonton

Medevac services ... Boutilier 396; Drysdale 110; Forsyth 278; Horner 110, 396

Wait times ... Horne 170, 173; Sherman 170; Swann 173

Emergency medical services (ambulances, etc.) – St. Albert

Centralization of services ... Allred 109; Horne 109

Emergency medical services (hospitals)

See Hospitals – Emergency services – Capacity issues

Emergency social services

See Children – Protective services; Homelessness

Employee-employer relations

See Labour Relations Board; Labour Relations Code

Employee-employer relations – Health care system

See Hospitals: Support staff labour negotiations;

Long-term care facilities: Labour disputes;

Nurses: Contract negotiations; Physicians:

Services agreement

Employee-employer relations – Lethbridge

See Continuing/extended care facilities – Lethbridge: Edith Cavell centre collective bargaining;

Employment

Entry-level positions ... Weadick 423; Woo-Paw 423

Job creation ... Bhardwaj 670; Johnson 726–27;

Liepert 53, 54, 670; Quest 726

Youth awards ... Quest 297

Employment and immigration agencies

Regulations ... Bhullar 395, 606; Kang 606; Quest 395

Employment standards

See Workplace health and safety

Energy, Dept. of

See Dept. of Energy

Energy, Standing Committee on

See Committee on Energy, Standing

Energy and Utilities Board

See Alberta Energy and Utilities Board

Energy industry

[See also Coal; Gas, natural; Oil sands development; Solar energy]

Drilling incentive program ... Mason 393; Morton 393

Extraction methods See Hydraulic fracturing

General remarks ... Liepert 217; Taylor 216–17

Imperial Oil research funding See Universities:

Conflict of interest guidelines

Land sales (leases) ... Liepert 219; MacDonald 186, 218–19

National strategy (proposed) ... Liepert 55; Mason 28; Speech from the Throne 3

Provincial strategy ... Fawcett 22; Liepert 53; Mitzel 290; Redford 290; Speech from the Throne 2–3

Energy industry – Environmental aspects

International perceptions ... Liepert 55; Ouellette 250

Sustainability initiatives ... Redford 251

Energy industry – History

Leduc No. 1 oil discovery, member's statement on ... Rogers 138

Energy products – Export

Market diversification, interjurisdictional co-operation on ... Fawcett 22; Speech from the Throne 3

Energy resources revenue

See Revenue

Engineering student competitions

See Western Engineering Competition (Calgary 2012)

English as a second language, instruction for Mennonite children

See Mennonites: Education of children from Mexico

Environment and Water, Dept. of

See Dept. of Environment and Water

Environmental protection

[See also Energy industry – Environmental aspects; Greenhouse gas emissions; Water quality]

Federal-provincial monitoring ... Fawcett 22–23

Kyoto protocol ... Mason 29

Provincial strategy ... Blakeman 13–14; Chase 31; Kang 136; Mason 30; McQueen 14; Swann 162; Taft 164

Environmental protection – Oil sands areas

See Oil sands development – Environmental aspects

EPSB

See Edmonton public school board

ESL (English as a second language)

See Education – Curricula: English as a second language

Estimates of Supply (government expenditures)

The following ministries' budgets were debated in the House and are included in this index: depts. of Education, Finance, Health and Wellness, and Human Services. The index preface includes a list of committee budget debates. Procedural items are listed below. See also Budget 2012-13; Supplementary estimates

Estimates of Supply (government expenditures)

(continued)

Main and Legislative Assembly Offices estimates 2012-13 transmitted to the Assembly ... Horner 52; Speaker, The 52

Main estimates 2012-13, motion to consider (Government Motion 6: carried) ... Blakeman 18–19; Hancock 18, 20–21; Hinman 19–20; Notley 20

Main estimates 2012-13, schedule of debate ... Blakeman 19; Hancock 20–21; Notley 20

Main estimates 2012-13, vote on, division ... 480

Ministry business plans ... Horner 52

Procedure on questioning ... Chase 682; Notley 342

Supplementary estimates 2011-12, No. 2, considered in Committee of Supply for one day (Government Motion 5: carried) ... Horner 52

Supplementary estimates 2011-12, No. 2, considered in Committee of Supply on February 13, 2012 (Government Motion 8: carried) ... Hancock 21

Supplementary estimates 2011-12, No. 2, referred to Committee of Supply (Government Motion 4: carried) ... Horner 52; Speaker, The 52

Supplementary estimates 2011-12, No. 2, transmitted to the Assembly ... Horner 52; Speaker, The 52

Supplementary estimates 2011-12, No. 2, vote ... Chair 90

Time allotted for debate ... Taylor 694

Ethane

Incremental ethane extraction program ... Morton 581; Prins 581

Ethanol

See Bioenergy industry

Ethics Commissioner, office of the

Investigations re international office representative in Hong Kong ... Anderson 505; Dallas 422; Hinman 422; Mason 417; Redford 415–16, 417–18; Sherman 415

Main estimates 2012-13, concurrence in committee report, division ... 480

Ethnocultural minority groups

See Multiculturalism

Examination of students

See Student testing

Executive Council

Compensation ... Anderson 254, 417; Boutilier 171; Hinman 26; Horner 171–72; Mason 171; Redford 417

Compensation for committee work ... MacDonald 418; Redford 418

Corporate communications [See also Public Affairs Bureau]; Redford 239–40, 242–43; Sherman 241

Corporate services ... Redford 239

Deputy minister [See also Watson, Peter]; Redford 238, 239

IT support ... Redford 239

Main estimates 2012-13 debate ... Anderson 245–50; Ouellette 250–51; Redford 237–51; Sherman 238–41, 243–45

Main estimates 2012-13 debate, concurrence in committee report, division ... 480

Main estimates 2012-13 debate, procedure ... Chair 237

Mandate ... Ouellette 250; Redford 238, 244–45; Sherman 238, 243–44

Ministers' provincial tour ... Anderson 38; Forsyth 12; Hinman 19, 26; Horner 12; Liepert 53; Lukaszuk 282; Sherman 116–17

Ministers' provincial tour, members' statements on ... Boutilier 16; Elniski 51

Executive Council (continued)

- Policy co-ordination office ... Redford 238, 239, 244–45; Sherman 243–44
- Premier's mandate letters to ministers ... Redford 238
- Response to any question posed in the Legislature, Speaker's remarks on ... Speaker, The 264

Expropriation Act

- Executive Council authority ... Anderson 306; Hinman 311
- Implementation ... Morton 499–500; Olson 302; Prins 405
- Review of act ... Doerksen 307; Drysdale 759; Redford 760

Extended care facilities

- See Continuing/extended care facilities*

Extendicare Eaux Claires long-term care complex

- See Long-term care facilities (nursing homes/auxiliary hospitals) – Edmonton*

FFair Trading Act

- Home inspection provisions ... Weadick 313

Fairview College

- See Family farms: Century farm and ranch awards*

Fallen Four

- See Royal Canadian Mounted Police: Memorial tribute to four officers killed near Mayerthorpe*

Families

- Programs and services ... Liepert 54; Sarich 135

Family farms

- Century farm and ranch awards ... Berger 668; Snelgrove 668

Family support for children with disabilities

- See Children with disabilities*

Farm produce – Exports

- Funding ... Liepert 55

Farm safety

- Deaths and serious incidents ... Hancock 44, 110, 462; Swann 44, 109–10, 462
- Safety initiatives ... Berger 422; Goudreau 422
- Worker exclusion from workplace legislation ... Chase 31; Hancock 44, 110, 462; Redford 43; Swann 43–44, 109–10, 462
- Worker transportation ... Danyluk 175, 421; Hancock 421; Kang 175; Swann 421

Farmers' Advocate

- Appointment of advocate ... Berger 509; Prins 509
- Funding ... MacDonald 657
- General remarks ... MacDonald 650

Farming

- See Agriculture*

Federal Public Building

- Redevelopment ... Anderson 593, 595; Boutilier 686–87; Hancock 692; Hinman 684, 685; Taft 595

Fetal alcohol spectrum disorder

- [See also Brain Health Symposium 2012]
- Treatment and services ... Boutilier 475; Hancock 475

Film and television industry

- [See also Alberta multimedia development fund]
- American Indian Film Festival awards, member's statement on ... Calahasen 261
- The Basketball Game* (NFB), member's statement on ... Sarich 296–97
- Bully*, movie rating ... DeLong 579; Klimchuk 579

Finance, Dept. of

- See Dept. of Finance*

Finance, Standing Committee on

- See Committee on Finance, Standing*

Financial aid, postsecondary students

- See Student financial aid*

Fire safety in rental properties

- See Housing – Rental housing: Health and safety standards*

FireSmart program

- See Wildfires – Prevention*

First Nations

- See Aboriginal peoples; specific First Nations*

First Nations casinos

- See Gaming (gambling): Revenue from First Nations casinos*

First Nations children

- See Aboriginal children*

Fiscal framework

- General remarks ... Anderson 60–61, 210–11; Boutilier 42–43; Fawcett 22; Liepert 42, 55, 202, 206–7, 209–11, 214–16, 217–18; MacDonald 206–9, 217–18; Mason 214; Redford 43, 60–61; Taft 163; Taylor 215–16

Fiscal policy

- 2011–12 fiscal plan ... Denis 79; Horner 52
- 2012–15 fiscal plan ... Chase 222; Deputy Chair 222
- Fiscal conservatism vs. progressivism ... Anderson 219–20; Hehr 252
- Liberal Party position ... Sherman 117–18
- Members' statements ... Hehr 15; Quest 356

Fiscal Responsibility Act

- Provisions for deficit budgets ... Liepert 207; MacDonald 207

Fiscal sustainability fund

- See Alberta sustainability fund*

Fisheries department

- See Dept. of Sustainable Resource Development*

Fjeldheim, Brian

- See Chief Electoral Officer*

Flag of Canada

- See National Flag of Canada Day*

Floods – Southern Alberta

- Recovery program ... Griffiths 420; Jablonski 609; Mitzel 420

FNDF

- See Aboriginal peoples – Economic development: First Nations development fund*

Food production

- See Agriculture*

Foothills (municipal district)

- See Highwood (constituency)*

Foreign offices, Albertan

- See International offices*

Foreign trade

- See International trade*

Foreign workers, temporary

- See Temporary foreign workers*

Forest fires – Control

- See Wildfires – Control*

Forest industries

- [See also Land-use framework: Industrial development in regions]

Forest industries (continued)

Clear-cutting practices ... Chase 31, 693
Electric power purchasing agreements ... VanderBurg 92

Forest industries – Bragg Creek area

Environmental issues ... Chase 673, 693; Oberle 673
Logging activities ... Chase 693; Oberle 393–94;
Taylor 393–94
Public consultations ... DeLong 66; Morton 673;
Oberle 66–67

Forest industries – Castle-Crown area

Environmental issues ... Chase 673, 693; Oberle 673;
Logging activities ... Blakeman 42; Chase 31, 106,
145–46; Notley 46–47; Oberle 42, 46–47, 106, 145–
46; Redford 106
Logging activities, member's statement on ... Chase 114

Forest products – Export

Funding ... Liepert 55

Forestry department

See Dept. of Sustainable Resource Development

Forests Act

Timber quota variances ... Oberle 394; Taylor 394

Fort McMurray

Land development strategy [See also Public lands – Fort McMurray area]; Johnson 364–65; Leskiw 364–65; Weadick 365
Memorandum of understanding on oil sands development ... Johnson 11; Leskiw 11
Provincial cabinet ministers' visit ... Boutilier 16

Fort McMurray – Finance

See Lottery fund: Allocation of funds

Fort McMurray – Health care system

See Long-term care facilities (nursing homes/auxiliary hospitals) – Fort McMurray

Fort McMurray – Schools

See Schools – Construction: Project scheduling

Fort McMurray – Social services

See Sexual assault centres: Counselling services

Fort McMurray – Transportation

See Oil sands development – Athabasca area: Transportation Coordinating Committee

Fort Saskatchewan community hospital

Opening of facility ... Johnson 726–27; Quest 726

Foster care

Member's request for information ... Notley 474
Programs and services ... Hancock 456

Foster care, kinship based

See Kinship care

Foster Parent Association, Alberta

See Alberta Foster Parent Association

Foundation for the Arts, Alberta

See Alberta Foundation for the Arts

FQD

See International trade – European Union: Fuel quality directive

Fracking of natural gas and oil

See Hydraulic fracturing

Francophone celebrations

See (Les) Rendez-vous de la Francophonie

Freedom, individual

See Alberta Bill of Rights; Canadian Charter of Rights and Freedoms

Freehold landsFreehold lands (continued)

Adverse possession (squatters' rights) See Land Statutes (Abolition of Adverse Possession) Amendment Act, 2012 (Bill 204)

Eckville public meeting on land legislation ...

MacDonald 649, 650

Land registration, Torrens system ... Allred 437

Landowner rights [See also Alberta Bill of Rights (Property Rights Protection) Amendment Act, 2012 (Bill 201); Property Rights Advocate Act (Bill 6)]; Anderson 647–49; Drysdale 759; Hinman 26–27, 192–93; Knight 309–10; MacDonald 91; Redford 193, 759–60; ; Rodney 23; Speech from the Throne 3
Landowner rights, member's statement on ... Prins 575
Landowner rights advocacy ... Hinman 26

Pore space ownership [See also Carbon Capture and Storage Statutes Amendment Act, 2010 (Bill 24)]; Knight 310

Freighting industry

See Trucking industry

French remarks in the Legislature

See Legislative Assembly of Alberta: French remarks

Fritzler, Dr. Marvin

Members' statements ... Bhardwaj 260–61

Fuel (gasoline and diesel)

Prices ... Lund 398; Morton 398

Fuel (gasoline and diesel) – Taxation

Comparison with other jurisdictions ... Denis 73

Funeral industry

Provincial contracts ... Blakeman 60; Hancock 60

GGaming (gambling)

Charitable model ... Horner 144

Commissions to VLT licence holders ... Liepert 327; MacDonald 327

Problem gambling ... Horner 67, 113, 143; Liepert 196, 203–4; MacDonald 67, 112–13, 143, 195–96, 203–4

Problem gambling, member's statement on ... MacDonald 227

Problem gambling, relevance to budget debate ... Deputy Chair 204; Liepert 204; MacDonald 204

Revenue (cash in and out) [See also Lottery fund]; Blakeman 72; Fawcett 22; Horner 67, 143–44; Liepert 172, 327; MacDonald 67, 143–44, 172, 227, 327, 632–33

Revenue (cash in and out), Auditor General's recommendations on reporting ... Liepert 327; MacDonald 326–27

Revenue from First Nations casinos ... Griffiths 89–90; MacDonald 90

Revenue from horse racing ... Liepert 205; MacDonald 205

Gaming and Liquor Commission

See Alberta Gaming and Liquor Commission

Gangs

See Crime prevention – Edmonton

Gas, natural

[See also Coal: Coal gasification]

Development strategy for unconventional sources ... Morton 195; Quest 195

Recovery methods See Hydraulic fracturing

Gas, natural – Prices

Fluctuations ... MacDonald 186

Impact on electric power prices ... MacDonald 92

Gas, natural – Royalties

Decline in revenue ... Liepert 53

Gas emissions, greenhouse

See Greenhouse gas emissions

Gasoline

See Fuel

Gay, lesbian, bisexual, and transgender persons

See Education Act (Bill 2): Committee, amendment A3; Imperial Sovereign Court of the Wild Rose; Sexual orientation/identity

General revenue fund

Transfers of unexpended funds to ... MacDonald 96, 633

Gifted education

See Special-needs education

Glenrose rehabilitation hospital

General remarks ... Speech from the Throne 1

Global positioning systems

Children with disabilities' use, member's statement on ... Chase 51

Global Visions Film Festival, funding for

See under Alberta multimedia development fund

Global warming

See Climate change

Golden Years Society

General remarks ... Boutilier 16

Goodwill Industries of Alberta

Member's statement ... Woo-Paw 584–85

Government

Members' statements ... Swann 177–78

Role of government ... Rodney 24

Government accountability

Financial reporting ... Blakeman 627; MacDonald 587–88, 632

Government agencies, boards, and commissions

3-year review cycle ... Allred 165

Government bills

See Bills, government (current session)

Government caucus

Budget surplus ... Redford 246

Caucus allowances ... Anderson 245–46; Redford 246

Meeting in Jasper ... Forsyth 12; Hinman 26; Horner 12; Redford 8; Sherman 8

Time allotted in budget debates ... Blakeman 19

Government contracts

[See also specific departments and services]

General remarks ... Blakeman 60; Denis 89; Hancock 60, 456, 460, 463; Notley 89; Swann 460–63

Slave Lake recovery program ... Calahasen 323; Dallas 323; Griffiths 323

Government integrity

Members' statements ... Anderson 664; Boutilier 356;

Chase 328; Forsyth 730–31; Hinman 445; Swann 504

Government Organization Act

Provisions for government spending ... MacDonald 97

Government programs and services

[See also specific programs]

Provincial strategy ... Hinman 684–85; Mason 689–90; Speech from the Throne 2–3

Review See Budget process: Results-based budgeting

Government savings

Comparison with other jurisdictions ... Blakeman 72;

Chase 74; Denis 74; Liepert 209; MacDonald 209

Members' statements ... Hehr 296

Government savings (continued)

Provincial strategy ... Hinman 26; Liepert 206, 215–16; MacDonald 206; Notley 76; Taft 151, 594; Taylor 215–16

Government spending

Comparison with other jurisdictions ... Anderson 211–12, 247, 249, 252, 253; Liepert 211–12; Redford 247; Swann 703–4

Provincial strategy ... Anderson 93, 212, 219–21, 245–47, 254, 591–93, 629–31; Blakeman 628–29; Boutilier 353; Chase 74; Forsyth 129; Hehr 34, 336; Hinman 25–28, 48; Horner 32; Liepert 48, 54–55, 206, 212–13, 219–22; Lukaszuk 336; MacDonald 97, 186, 206, 219, 631–32; Notley 76; Redford 247; Snelgrove 695–96; Taft 593–94

Public input on ... Hinman 132–34

Wildrose position ... Hinman 27; Swann 27

Government spending – Ontario

Don Drummond report ... Liepert 174; Vandermeer 174

Government vehicles

Funding ... Sherman 239

GPS devices

See Global positioning systems

Grande Cache – Finance

See Lottery fund: Allocation of funds

Grande Prairie – Health care system

See Health facilities: Infrastructure funding

Grande Prairie – Social services

See Sexual assault centres: Counselling services

Grande Prairie Regional College

See Postsecondary educational institutions:

Donations to PC Party

Grande Prairie-Smoky (constituency)

Member's departing thoughts, member's statement on ... Knight 319

Grandparents' rights

Petition re legislation ... Chase 328

Grant MacEwan University

See Postsecondary educational institutions – Finance: Auditor General's recommendations on financial controls

Gravel extraction

See Sand and gravel mining

Greenhouse effect

See Climate change

Greenhouse gas emissions

Reduction strategies ... Fawcett 364; McQueen 364

Greenhouses

Investment in technology ... Berger 397; Doerksen 397

Investment in technology, member's statement on ... Doerksen 425–26

GreenTRIP

See Public transportation

Grey Nuns hospital

Long-term care in ... Horne 505–6; Sherman 505–6

Grimshaw school

See Schools – Maintenance and repair – Grimshaw

Grizzly bears

See Bears

Groundwater

See Water management

Group homes

Deaths and serious incidents ... Chase 31, 47, 173; Forsyth 580; VanderBurg 47, 173–74, 580

Group homes (continued)

Whistle-blower legislation (proposed) ... Forsyth 728;
Horner 728

Guardianship

See Public guardian

Guests, Introduction of

See Introduction of Guests (school groups, individuals)

Guinness world record

See Hockey – Chestermere

Gun registry

General remarks ... Denis 197, 266–67; Mitzel 266;
Redford 266

HH1N1 influenza

See Immunization

Handicapped, assured income for the severely

See Assured income for the severely handicapped

Handicapped persons

See Persons with disabilities

Hanna – Finance

See Lottery fund: Allocation of funds

Hansen, Rick

See Man in Motion 25th anniversary relay; Rick Hansen Foundation

HASI (home adaptation for seniors independence) program

See Seniors – Housing: Home adaptation program

Health and wellness

[See also Tobacco Reduction (Protection of Children in Vehicles) Amendment Act, 2012 (Bill 203)]

Breast health awareness, member's statement on ...
Elniski 226

Health indicators ... Horne 371–72

Heart function clinics, member's statement on ... Rodney 399–400

Heart Month, member's statement on ... Rodney 104–5

Life expectancy ... Horne 382

Programs and services ... Hehr 35; Horne 371–72;
Swann 34–35, 371

World Kidney Day, member's statement on ... Leskiw 400

Health and wellness – Edmonton

Ethnocultural community supports ... Woo-Paw 425

Health and Wellness, Dept. of

See Dept. of Health and Wellness

Health authority, single

See Alberta Health Services (authority)

Health board, single

See Alberta Health Services Board

Health care insurance plan

See Alberta health care insurance plan

Health care system

Access to services ... Horne 277; Redford 665–66;
Sherman 665

Access to services, member's statement on ... Pastoor 574–75

Allegations of queue-jumping [See also Health care system – Health Quality Council preferential services inquiry (2012): Terms of reference];
Anderson 263; Forsyth 288; Redford 263, 288

Comparison with other jurisdictions ... Sherman 239

Diagnostic tests See Diagnostic imaging

Health care system (continued)

Governance [See also Alberta Health Services

(authority); Dept. of Health and Wellness]; Speech from the Throne 2

Level of debate in Legislature, member's statement on ... Snelgrove 357

Members' statements ... Brown 664; Forsyth 105

Policy development See Executive Council: Policy co-ordination office

Primary care ... Forsyth 376; Horne 368, 380, 383

Provincial strategy ... Fawcett 21, 388; Horne 388;

Redford 192; Sherman 25, 192, 271; Speech from the Throne 2

Public confidence ... Horne 275–76; Lukaszuk 281–82;
Notley 280–81; Swann 504

Public-private partnerships (P3) ... Mason 29

Quality assurance ... Horne 370; Swann 369

Rehabilitation care [See also Home care]; Blakeman 509; Griffiths 509; Horne 368, 419; Pastoor 419;
Speech from the Throne 1

Statistics ... Horne 382

Support service providers (cooks, housekeepers, etc.) ...
Horne 372

Task force, Health Quality Council report recommendation on ... Forsyth 279

Health care system – Bonnyville

Primary care networks, member's statement on ...
Leskiw 297

Health care system – Calgary

Alex youth health bus, member's statement on ... Cao 51

Health care system – Delivery models

Family care clinics ... Allred 327; Calahasen 760;

Fawcett 388; Forsyth 376; Horne 277, 327, 368,

374, 377, 383, 452; Liepert 54; Redford 140–41,

274, 288, 665–66, 760; Rodney 23; Sherman 288,

665; Speech from the Throne 2; Swann 140–41, 374–

75, 452; Taft 163; Taylor 381

General remarks ... Redford 274–75

Integration with community services ... Horne 382–83;
Taylor 381

Integration with community services, member's statement on ... Swann 67–68

Not-for-profit delivery model ... Horne 385

Primary care networks ... Allred 327; Elniski 142;

Fawcett 22, 388; Forsyth 377; Horne 43, 63, 142,

277, 327, 368, 373–74, 377–78, 383, 605; Liepert 54;

Mason 43, 378; Redford 140–41, 275; Rodney 23;

Speech from the Throne 2; Swann 63, 140–41, 373,

604–5

Primary care networks, delivery of psychology services
(proposed) ... Horne 293; Vandermeer 293

Private delivery model ... Hancock 179; Hinman 685–

86; Horne 171, 179–80, 385; Kang 685; Mason 29,

274, 691; Redford 274; Sherman 25, 171; Swann

369; Taft 179, 384–85

Urgent care centres ... Horne 45, 379, 380; Jablonski 45;
Mason 378, 380–81

Health care system – Edmonton

North Edmonton services ... Horne 43; Mason 43

Primary care networks ... Elniski 142; Horne 142

Primary care networks, member's statement on ...
Elniski 139

Health care system – Finance

[See also Dept. of Health and Wellness: Main estimates 2012-13 debate]

Administration costs ... Swann 369

Evidence-based decision-making ... Fawcett 388; Horne 387

Health care system – Finance (continued)

Financial reporting ... Blakeman 627
 Funding ... Anderson 592; Chase 222, 682–83, 689;
Hehr 689; Horne 382; Liepert 54, 206, 222;
MacDonald 206; Notley 590; Redford 11, 192;
Sherman 25, 117–18, 192; Speech from the Throne
 2; Swann 11; Taft 594; Taylor 381
 Increased costs ... Fawcett 387; Horne 387–88;
Sherman 244

Health care system – Health Quality Council preferential services inquiry (2012)

Alberta Medical Association response ... Forsyth 289;
Horne 358; Redford 289; Sherman 358
 General remarks ... Chase 31; Lukaszuk 282–83;
Mason 273; Redford 275
 Inclusion of physician advocacy and allegations of bullying
 (proposed) ... Horne 369–70; Swann 368–69
 Legislative provisions ... Anderson 263; Boutilier 233;
Forsyth 228–29; Horne 233–34, 264; Notley 229;
Redford 229, 263; Taylor 264
 Members' statements ... Anderson 318; Swann 400
 Premier's remarks to news media ... Anderson 263, 318;
Redford 263
 Terms of reference ... Forsyth 288–89; Hinman 325;
Horne 320, 321–22, 358, 360; Horner 321, 325, 392;
Mason 321–22; Redford 287–88, 288–89; Sherman
 278–88, 358; Swann 320–21, 360, 392
 Timeline ... Anderson 247–49, 263, 270; Redford 248–
 49, 263

Health care system – Health Quality Council review (2011)

Final report ... Boutilier 233; Campbell 268; Forsyth
 228–29, 267, 278; Horne 229, 233–34, 267–68;
MacDonald 267–68; Mason 273; Notley 229;
Redford 227–28, 229, 244, 263; Sherman 227–28,
 243–44; Swann 263
 Final report recommendations ... Boutilier 396; Forsyth
 278–79; Hancock 279–80; Hinman 325; Horne
 277–78, 369–70, 373, 377–78, 380, 382; Horner 321,
 325, 396; Mason 379; Notley 280–81; Redford 274,
 287–88; Sherman 275–76, 287–88; Swann 321;
Taylor 381
 General remarks ... Speech from the Throne 2
 Interim report ... Mason 273
 Members' statements ... Anderson 226–27; Forsyth
 191; Mason 261

Health care system – Rural areas

Access to services ... Horne 45; Jablonski 45

Health care system – Slave Lake

Family care clinic pilot ... Calahasen 760; Redford 760

Health committee

See Committee on Public Health and Safety, Standing

Health facilities

[See also Hospitals; specific health facilities]
 Infrastructure funding ... Johnson 726; Liepert 55;
Quest 726

Health Facilities Review Committee

Funding ... Forsyth 377
 Report on Calgary health care ... Swann 67

Health plan

See Alberta health care insurance plan

Health Quality Council of Alberta

2011 review of health care system See Health care system – Health Quality Council review (2011)

Health Quality Council of Alberta (continued)

H1N1 management review [See also Immunization];
Forsyth 278
 Medevac services review ... Boutilier 396; Drysdale
 110; Forsyth 278; Horner 110, 396
 Membership ... Hancock 507; Hinman 507
 Public Accounts Committee appearance ... Forsyth 278

Health Quality Council of Alberta Act

See Health care system – Health Quality Council preferential services inquiry (2012)

Health research

See Medical research

Health Resource Centre

Closure, cost to province of ... Mason 379

Health sciences ambulatory learning centre

See Edmonton Clinic Health Academy

Health Sciences Association of Alberta

Position on health care inquiry ... Swann 368–69

Health sciences professionals

[See also Nurses; Paramedics – Education; Physicians]

Allegations of bullying ... Forsyth 141; Redford 141
 Workforce planning ... Fawcett 388; Horne 372–73,
 388; Swann 372

Health sciences professionals – Wages

Funding ... Liepert 212–13; Mason 212–13

Health Services, Alberta

See Alberta Health Services (authority)

Health Services Board, Alberta

See Alberta Health Services Board

Heart health

See Health and wellness

Heavy oil (synthetic crude) sands development

See Oil sands development

Helmets to hardhats program

See Veterans: Career and employment services

Herb Jamieson Centre, support worker moved from

See Alberta Works employment program: Support worker deployment

Heritage Foundation for Medical Research

See Alberta Heritage Foundation for Medical Research

Heritage savings trust fund

See Alberta heritage savings trust fund

Heritage sector conferences

See Culture Forum 2012

High Prairie – Health care system

See Health facilities: Infrastructure funding; Hospitals – Construction – High Prairie

High River

See Highwood (constituency)

High school completion

See Education: High school completion

Highway 1

Petition presented re route ... Doerksen 16

Highway 28

Traffic safety ... Kang 64

Highway 63

Improvements ... Danyluk 64; Kang 64
 Twinning ... Boutilier 687; Danyluk 48–49, 64; Kang
 48–49, 63–64

Highway safety

See Traffic safety

Highwood (constituency)

Members' statements ... Groeneveld 731

Historical Resources Foundation

See Alberta Historical Resources Foundation

History

See Alberta – History; Black History Month

Hockey – Chestermere

Longest tournament, Guinness world record ...
Zwozdesky 190

Hockey – Edmonton

Quikcard Edmonton Minor Hockey Week ... Zwozdesky
190

Hockey – Red Deer

Hockey Alberta/Red Deer College partnership,
member's statement on ... Jablonski 503–4

Hockey players

See Kennedy, Sheldon

Home care

[See also Assisted living accommodations]

Access to services ... Sherman 276

Destination home (home care and rehabilitation program) ... Horne 419; Pastoor 419

Funding ... Chase 265, 683; Horne 380; Redford 265,
665–66, 754; Sherman 25, 665, 754; Taylor 382

Services provided ... Horne 368

Home inspection industry

See Condominiums: Reserve funds; Housing – Construction

Home-schooling

Accountability and transparency ... DeLong 232;
Lukaszuk 232

Curriculum content ... Anderson 554, 605–6; Blakeman
516–17; Hehr 669, 725; Horner 606; Lukaszuk 602,
669–70, 725; Notley 520, 734–35; Olson 605–6;
Renner 525; Vandermeer 602

Funding ... Hehr 669; Lukaszuk 669–70

Programs and services ... Blakeman 532; Boutilier 519;
DeLong 231–32; Leskiw 324–25; Lukaszuk 231–32,
325; MacDonald 530

Student assessment ... Blakeman 766; Hehr 756–57;
Lukaszuk 756–57

Homelessness

10-year plan to end ... Blakeman 44–45; Hancock 10,
44–45, 456, 470–72; Kang 469–72; Taylor 9–10

Housing First program ... Liepert 54

Members' statements ... Webber 169

Statistics ... Hancock 13; Woo-Paw 12–13

Homelessness – Calgary

10-year plan to end ... Hancock 472; Kang 471

Statistics ... Hancock 13; Woo-Paw 12–13

Homelessness, Alberta Secretariat for Action on

See Alberta Secretariat for Action on Homelessness

Homeowner Protection Act (Bill 209)

First reading ... Blakeman 585; Hehr 585

Hong Kong representative

See International offices – Hong Kong

Horse Racing Alberta

Agreement with province ... Liepert 205; MacDonald
205

Funding ... MacDonald 186

Horse-racing industry

Horse-racing and breeding renewal program ... Liepert
205; MacDonald 205

Hospitals

[See also Health facilities; specific hospitals]

Acute-care beds ... Forsyth 376; Horne 278, 373, 377,
380; Taylor 382

Clinical decision units ... Horne 380

Local decision-making ... Horne 386–87; Taft 386

Support staff labour negotiations ... Blakeman 229–30;

Hancock 174–75; Horne 169–70, 229–30; Horner

169–70, 171–72; Liepert 212–13; Mason 171, 213;

Notley 174–75; Redford 191; Sherman 169–70, 191;

Swann 177

Support staff labour negotiations, member's statement
on ... Mason 168

User statistics ... Horne 373, 382; Notley 281; Swann
372

Hospitals – Construction – Calgary

Funding ... Johnson 726; Quest 726

Hospitals – Construction – High Prairie

Functional plan ... Calahasen 198; Horne 198–99;

Johnson 198, 726; Quest 726

Funding ... Liepert 55

Hospitals – Emergency services – Capacity issues

Alternatives to See Health care system – Delivery models: Urgent care centres

Full capacity protocol ... Hancock 279–80; Horne 277

Health Quality Council report findings ... Blakeman

283; Horne 277; Mason 273

History of issues ... Forsyth 278–79; Sherman 275–76

Increase in number of visits ... Horne 10; Quest 10

Performance measures ... Horne 141–42; Mason 141;
Redford 141

Wait times ... Allred 109; Blakeman 283; Horne 109,

170–71, 175–76, 380; Mason 273, 379, 380–81;

Sherman 170–71; Webber 175–76

Hospitals, auxiliary

See Long-term care facilities (nursing homes/auxiliary hospitals)

Hotchkiss, Harley

Members' statements ... Rodney 235–36

Housing

[See also Condominium Property Act;
Condominiums]

Home inspection industry ... Weadick 313

Homeowner programs (proposed) ... Blakeman 291;
Griffiths 291

Housing – Construction

Construction and inspection standards ... Bhullar 758–59;

Blakeman 291, 324, 727; Griffiths 269, 291, 322, 324,

727; Kang 758–59; Rogers 268–69; Snelgrove 322

New home warranty program ... Blakeman 291, 324,
727; Griffiths 291, 324, 727

Provincial strategy ... Bhullar 607; Hehr 314; Kang
606–7

Housing – Fort McMurray

Penhorwood Place condominiums ... Griffiths 269, 322;
Rogers 269; Snelgrove 322

Housing – Leduc

Bellavera Green condominiums and apartments ...
Griffiths 269; Rogers 268–69

Housing – Rental housing

Consumer protection [See also Assured income for the severely handicapped: Rent protection for clients];

Bhullar 578; Hancock 578; Taylor 577–78

Health and safety standards ... Blakeman 324; Griffiths
324; Horne 110–11; Notley 110–11

Rent supplement program ... Griffiths 725–26; Leskiw
725–26; MacDonald 588

Housing – Residential care facilities

See Assisted living accommodations; Group homes; Long-term care facilities (nursing homes/auxiliary hospitals)

Housing – Slave Lake

Construction standards for new buildings ... Griffiths 83–84; Hehr 83; Taft 83

Housing, affordable

See Affordable housing

Housing secretariat

See Alberta Secretariat for Action on Homelessness

HQCA

See Health Quality Council of Alberta

HSAA

See Health Sciences Association of Alberta

Human Rights Act

Amendments ... Mason 406

Human Rights Commission

See Alberta Human Rights Commission

Human Services, Dept. of

See Dept. of Human Services

Human tissue donation

See Transplantation of organs, tissues, etc.

Hydraulic fracturing

General remarks ... Campbell 47; Morton 47

IICT

See Information and communications technology

IEEP

See Ethane: Incremental ethane extraction program

Illiteracy

See International Adult Learners' Week

Immigrant workers, temporary

See Temporary foreign workers

Immigrants

Attraction of U.S. skilled workers ... Horner 578; Woo-Paw 578

Employment opportunities See Employment: Entry-level positions

Programs and services ... Hancock 456; Woo-Paw 425

Recognition of international credentials ... Swann 162

Statistics ... Notley 88

Refugees ... Woo-Paw 425

Immigration

Federal regulations ... Dallas 399; Hancock 450–51, 477–78; Johnston 399; Rogers 450; Swann 477

Immigrate to Alberta (Internet portal), surplus funds ... Hancock 87

Provincial strategy ... Blackett 77; Blakeman 78; Brown 75; Chase 74; Denis 73; Hancock 326; Woo-Paw 326

Immunization

Financial reporting ... MacDonald 587–88

H1N1 influenza ... Forsyth 278; Horne 371

Programs ... Horne 371

Impaired driving

[See also Traffic Safety Amendment Act, 2011 (Bill 26)]

Coasters with message on legislation ... Anderson 196

Coasters with message on legislation, inadmissibility for use in Chamber ... Speaker, The 196

Coasters with message on legislation, point of order on ... Anderson 237; Hancock 237; Speaker, The 237

Impaired driving (continued)

Evidence on .05 blood alcohol limit ... Denis 448; Woo-Paw 448

Members' statements ... Pastoor 444–45

Imperial Sovereign Court of the Wild Rose

Members' statements ... Blakeman 575

Incentive for school improvement

See Alberta initiative for school improvement

Income support programs

[See also Assured income for the severely handicapped]

Client benefits ... Cao 324; Hancock 324, 468–69, 478; Liepert 54; Notley 467–69

Statistics ... Hancock 456

Supports for independence program ... Cao 324; Hancock 324; Hehr 86; MacDonald 85; Swann 463; VanderBurg 85–86

Income tax, corporate

See Corporations – Taxation

Income tax, provincial

[See also Tax policy]

Comparison with other jurisdictions ... Denis 73; Liepert 55–56

Personal exemptions ... Brown 75; Denis 73

Revenue to province ... Blakeman 72; Brown 75; Liepert 218; MacDonald 218

Tax credits ... Liepert 54

Incremental ethane extraction program

See Ethane

Independent members

See Speaker – Statements: Rotation of questions and members' statements

Independent schools

See Private schools

Independent System Operator

See Alberta Electric System Operator

Industrial safety

See Workplace health and safety

Information and communications technology

Knowledge economy ... Swann 162

Tablet and PDA use in Chamber, Speaker's statement on ... Speaker, The 722

Information and Privacy Commissioner, office of the

Main estimates 2012-13, concurrence in committee report, division ... 480

Information management services (government department)

See Dept. of Service Alberta

Infrastructure

[See also Capital projects; Road construction; Schools – Construction]

Federal-provincial discussions ... Horner 578; Woo-Paw 578

Funding ... Anderson 70–71; Bhardwaj 761–62; Fawcett 22; Hancock 71; Hehr 453; Hinman 27–28; Liepert 55, 453; Redford 761–62

Provincial strategy ... Anderson 592–93, 595; Johnson 194; MacDonald 631; Snelgrove 194; Taft 594

Infrastructure – Slave Lake

Construction standards for new building ... Griffiths 83; Taft 83

Infrastructure, Dept. of

See Dept. of Infrastructure

Inheritance legislation

See Wills and Succession Amendment Act, 2011 (Bill 14)

Initiative for school improvement

See Alberta initiative for school improvement

Inner-city revitalization

See Cities and towns: Inner-city revitalization

Innisfail Restorative Justice Society

See Justice system – Innisfail

Innisfail-Sylvan Lake (constituency) – Health care system

See Health care system – Rural areas: Access to service

Insect pests

See Pine beetles – Control

Inspiring Education

Public consultations ... Notley 408–9

Intergovernmental, International and Aboriginal Relations, Dept. of

See Dept. of Intergovernmental, International and Aboriginal Relations

International Adult Learners' Week

Members' statements ... Woo-Paw 608

International Day for the Elimination of Racial Discrimination

Ministerial statement ... Anderson 721; MacDonald 721; Notley 721–22; Olson 720–21; Taylor 722

International Mother Language Day

Members' statements ... Xiao 190–91

International offices

Advocacy role ... Redford 242–43

International offices – Hong Kong

Members' statements ... Anderson 504–5
Suspension of representative ... Anderson 512; Dallas 422, 507, 512; Hancock 507; Hinman 422, 507; MacDonald 447; Mason 417, 667–68; Redford 415–18, 447, 667; Sherman 415

International offices – United Kingdom

Advocacy role for energy industry ... Dallas 230; Quest 230; Redford 230, 250

International offices – Washington, D.C.

Advocacy role for energy industry ... Redford 250

International trade

Economic risks ... Liepert 208, 215–16; MacDonald 208; Taylor 215
Foreign delegations ... Cao 510; Dallas 510
Market development, member's statement on ... Xiao 663
Provincial strategy ... Liepert 55; Ouellette 250; Speech from the Throne 2

International trade – European Union

Fuel quality directive ... Dallas 230; Jablonski 264–65; Morton 265; Quest 230; Redford 230, 240, 264–65
Trade agreements ... Chase 33; Dallas 197; Kang 197

International Women's Day

Members' statements ... Tarchuk 390–91

International Women's Forum

See Sendall, Kathleen

Internet

[See also Alberta SuperNet; Safer Internet Day]
Rural access to high-speed service ... Bhullar 606; Ouellette 606
Service providers' data retention ... Denis 48; Woo-Paw 48

Introduction of Guests (school groups, individuals)

Allred 415, 444, 574, 720; Amery 367; Benito 104, 318, 414–15; Berger 5, 57, 189, 259, 415, 503; Bhardwaj 104, 226, 355, 573; Bhullar 137, 286, 663; Blackett 49, 720; Blakeman 58, 226, 259, 443, 573; Calahasen 296, 342, 598; Campbell 259; Cao 39; Chase 41, 58, 168, 597; Dallas 49, 57, 295–96, 317, 751; Danyluk 39, 226, 415, 751; Doerksen 40–41; Drysdale 518, 751; Elniski 41, 138, 167–68, 189, 225, 598, 663; Fawcett 6, 40; Forsyth 104, 295, 444; Griffiths 58, 389–90, 751; Groeneveld 50, 190; Hancock 57, 103, 167, 286, 390, 414, 573–74, 597; Hayden 39, 50, 573; Hehr 6, 503; Horne 50, 137, 443, 674; Horner 50, 285–86, 597, 719; Jablonski 50, 443, 503; Jacobs 259, 503; Johnson 50, 103, 137, 138, 444, 719; Johnston 40, 503, 720; Klimchuk 317, 355; Leskiw 40, 104, 137, 248; Liepert 39, 317, 443, 719; Lindsay 503; Lukaszuk 50, 103, 137, 167, 225–26, 503, 663; Lund 355; MacDonald 58, 597; Marz 51, 57, 355; Mason 5, 6, 40, 58, 104, 168, 189, 390; McQueen 41, 57, 355, 443–44, 751; Morton 58–59; Notley 6, 40, 104, 444, 574; Oberle 39, 138, 286; Olson 39, 167, 286, 389, 573; Ouellette 598; Pastoor 189; Prins 40, 57, 259, 295, 597; Quest 40, 259, 390; Redford 103, 259, 751; Renner 49, 598; Rodney 104, 390; Rogers 49, 148, 286, 598; Sandhu 317, 598; Sarich 5–6, 58, 167, 286–87, 317–18, 503; Sherman 6, 137–38, 574, 674, 720; Swann 40, 138, 613; Taft 225, 414; Tarchuk 50–51; VanderBurg 39, 436; Weadick 597–98, 719; Webber 49, 189, 598; Woo-Paw 429, 444, 574; Xiao 6, 49, 189, 573; Zwozdesky 5, 50, 189, 270, 295, 663

Introduction of Visitors (visiting dignitaries)

AAMDC representatives ... Griffiths 443
Brigadier-General and advocate for military families (husband and wife) ... Horner 137
Dignitaries from Lebanon ... Amery 389
Family and friends of the Member for Little Bow ... McFarland 285
Family of the late Brian C. Downey, former MLA ... Speaker, The 5
Family of the Speaker ... Speaker, The 751
Former Minister of Economic Development and Trade for Ontario and Pricewaterhouse Cooper manager ... Evans 443
Former MLA, president and chair of board of governors of Lethbridge College ... Pastoor 103
German ambassador and honorary consul ... Dallas 167
Member of Parliament for Edmonton-St. Albert ... Elniski 225
Rick Hansen Foundation staff and relay participants ... Weadick 414
Saskatchewan Minister of Social Services and guests ... Griffiths 225
Strathmore mayor and chief administrative officer ... McQueen 167

Investment Management Corporation, Alberta

See Alberta Investment Management Corporation

Irrigation

Provincial strategy ... Berger 655–56; Hinman 659

JJasper Park Lodge

See Government caucus: Meeting in Jasper

Job opportunities

See Alberta Works employment program; Employment

John Humphrey Centre for Peace and Human Rights

General remarks ... Notley 722

Judges, provincial

Compensation ... Anderson 81–82; Hehr 81–82; Horner 171–72; MacDonald 82; Mason 171; Notley 175; Olson 81, 82

Compensation, funding from supplementary supply ... Anderson 81–82, 254; Hehr 80–81; Hinman 255; MacDonald 82; Notley 82; Olson 80–82

Judicial Compensation Commission (2009)

General remarks ... Anderson 81–82; Notley 82; Olson 80–82

Justice and Attorney General, Dept. of

See Dept. of Justice and Attorney General

Justice system

[See also Correctional services]

Restorative justice program ... Brown 607; Denis 607

Justice system – Innisfail

Restorative justice programs ... Brown 607; Denis 607; Olson 607

KKanadier Mennonites

See Mennonites

Kennedy, Sheldon

Members' statements ... Groeneveld 16

Keyano College

Land trust ... Johnson 364–65; Leskiw 364–65; Weadick 365

Keystone XL pipeline

See Pipelines – Construction

Kidney health

See Health and wellness

Kindergarten

See Early childhood education

King, Dr. Martin Luther

I Have a Dream speech ... Anderson 721

Kinship care

Member's request for information ... Notley 474

KIP

See Postsecondary educational institutions – Finance: Knowledge infrastructure program

Knowledge, advanced

See Postsecondary education

Knowledge-based economy

See Information and communications technology

Knowledge industry

See Technology commercialization

Kyoto accord

See Environmental protection: Kyoto protocol

LLabour force planning

Building and educating tomorrow's workforce strategy ... Speech from the Throne 2

Federal-provincial discussions ... Horner 578; Woo-Paw 578

Input from business ... Hancock 450; Rogers 450

Recruitment and retention of skilled workers ... Bhardwaj 14–15; Brown 62; Dallas 399; Fawcett 22; Hancock 15, 326, 450–51, 478; Johnston 233, 399; Redford 242; Rodney 23; Rogers 450; Sherman 243; Swann 477; Weadick 62–63, 233; Woo-Paw 326

Labour force planning (continued)

Recruitment and retention of skilled workers, U.S. workers ... Mitzel 290; Redford 290

Skilled labour training programs ... Weadick 423; Woo-Paw 423

Labour legislation

See Workplace health and safety

Labour market agreement

Decrease in number of learners ... Hancock 87–88; Notley 87–88

Labour mobility

See Agreement on internal trade

Labour relations – Health care system

See Hospitals: Support staff labour negotiations;

Long-term care facilities: Labour disputes;

Nurses: Contract negotiations; Physicians:

Services agreement

Labour relations – Lethbridge

See Continuing/extended care facilities – Lethbridge: Edith Cavell centre collective bargaining

Labour Relations Board

Alberta Health Services application on hospital support staff labour negotiations ... Horne 169–70; Sherman 169

Labour Relations Code

Review of code ... Hancock 478; Swann 477

Lakeland College

See Family farms: Century farm and ranch awards

Lakeland Lodge and Housing Foundation

General remarks ... Leskiw 169

Land Assembly Project Area Act

General remarks ... Anderson 305–6; Forsyth 302; Hehr 304; Hinman 192–93, 300, 310; Mason 702; Redford 193

Land reclamation

See Sand and gravel mining: Extraction management; Wetlands: Reclamation projects

Land Statutes (Abolition of Adverse Possession)

Amendment Act, 2012 (Bill 204)

First reading ... Allred 357

Second reading ... Allred 436–38; Swann 438; VanderBurg 438

Land tenure

See Freehold lands

Land Titles Act

Amendments ... Allred 437

Land trusts

[See also Edmonton and Area Land Trust; Keyano College]

Eligibility for grant funding ... Blakeman 266, 295; Hayden 266; Liepert 295; Oberle 266

Land-use framework

General remarks ... Notley 20

Implementation ... Chase 673; Hinman 498; Oberle 673

Industrial development in regions ... Berger 656; Hinman 654–55, 659–61

Regional plans See Lower Athabasca regional plan; North Saskatchewan regional plan; South Saskatchewan regional plan

Land-use planning

Environmental aspects ... Swann 308

Lands department

See Dept. of Sustainable Resource Development

LARP

See Lower Athabasca regional plan

Law enforcement

Minor offences, motion to reduce arrest warrants re (Motion Other than Government Motion 504: defeated) ... Brown 625; Vandermeer 625–26; Xiao 624, 626

Law of Property Act

Provisions for improvements on land ... Allred 437

Learning

See Education; Postsecondary education

Learning department

See Dept. of Advanced Education and Technology; Dept. of Education

Leduc – Housing

See Housing – Leduc

Leduc No. 1 oil well

See Energy industry – History

Lee, Brenda

See Vermilion-Lloydminster (constituency): Staff, member's statement on Brenda Lee

Legislative Assembly of Alberta

27th Legislature, fourth and fifth sessions (2011, 2012), member's statement on ... Taylor 454–55
Anniversary of the First Session, Speaker's statement on ... Speaker, The 583
Arabic remarks ... Sarich 59
Debate broadcasting 40th anniversary, Speaker's statement on ... Speaker, The 389
Decorum, e-mail from high school assistant principal on ... Elniski 585–86
Decorum, Speaker's remarks ... Speaker, The 107, 509, 580
Evening sittings (Government Motion 8: carried) ... Hancock 21
French remarks ... Boutilier 37; Brown 356–57; Chase 37
Members' use of props, Speaker's remarks on ... Speaker, The 196
Royal visits ... Speaker, The 4

Legislative Assembly Office

Estimates 2012–13 transmitted to the Assembly ... Horner 52
Estimates 2012–13, concurrence in committee report, division ... 480

Legislative Assembly officers

See Auditor General; Chief Electoral Officer, office of the; Child and Youth Advocate, office of the; Ethics Commissioner, office of the; Information and Privacy Commissioner, office of the; Officers of the Legislative Assembly; Ombudsman, office of the Legislative Offices, Standing Committee on

See Committee on Legislative Offices, Standing

Lesbian, gay, bisexual, transgendered persons

See Education Act (Bill 2): Committee, amendment A3; Imperial Sovereign Court of the Wild Rose; Sexual orientation/identity

Lesser Slave River (municipal district)

See Wildfires – Slave Lake

Lethbridge – Finance

See Lottery fund: Allocation of funds

Lethbridge – Health care system

See Continuing/extended care facilities – Lethbridge

Liberal opposition

See Official Opposition

Liberal Party

See Alberta Liberal Party

Libraries

Members' statements ... Blackett 505

Licensed practical nurses

See Nurses

Lieutenant Governor of Alberta

Career ... Fawcett 21
Entrance into Legislative Assembly ... Speaker, The 1
Funding ... Redford 238, 239
General remarks ... Hinman 25
Main estimates 2012–13 transmitted to the Assembly ... Horner 52
Offices of the Legislative Assembly estimates 2012–13 transmitted to the Assembly ... Horner 52

Liquor

See Alcohol

Liquor commission

See Alberta Gaming and Liquor Commission

Literacy

See International Adult Learners' Week

Little Bow (constituency)

Member's 20th anniversary of election, Speaker's statement on ... Speaker, The 285
Member's political life and tribute to family and supporters, member's statement on ... McFarland 296

Lloydminster – Finance

See Lottery fund: Allocation of funds

Lloydminster – Health care system

See Continuing/extended care facilities – Lloydminster

Lloydminster – Social services

See Sexual assault centres: Counselling services

Loans, student

See Student financial aid

Lobbyists

Interest groups ... Griffiths 358; Liepert 358; Lukaszuk 358; Mason 289; Redford 287, 289; Sherman 287, 357–58

Lobbyists Act

See Alberta Gaming and Liquor Commission: Exemption from Lobbyists Act

Lodges

See Supportive living accommodations: Lodges

Logging

See Forest industries

Long gun control (federal)

See Gun registry

Long-term care facilities (nursing homes/auxiliary hospitals)

Auditor General's recommendations ... Chase 31; Horne 319–20; Sherman 319
Building codes and specifications ... Johnson 194; Snelgrove 193–94
Caregiver training and wages ... Chase 31
Costs to residents for additional services ... Forsyth 65; VanderBurg 65
Deaths and serious incidents ... Chase 31, 761; Forsyth 580, 728; Horne 319–20, 505–6, 575–76; Horner 576, 723, 728; Sherman 319, 505–6, 575, 723; VanderBurg 580, 761

Long-term care facilities (nursing homes/auxiliary hospitals) (continued)

- Funding ... Boutilier 686–87; Chase 265, 683; Horne 580; Horner 723; Mason 687; Notley 229; Redford 229, 265; Rogers 580; Sherman 723
- Labour disputes ... Hancock 421; Horne 421; Notley 420–21
- Levels of care ... Notley 232, 281; Redford 42; Sherman 41–42; VanderBurg 232
- Members' statements ... Elniski 598–99; Notley 584
- Private facilities ... Hancock 421; Horne 421, 446, 507–8; Horner 727; Mason 29, 507–8; Notley 420–21, 727; Redford 446; Sherman 446; VanderBurg 446
- Private facilities, eviction of residents from See Tranquility Care Homes Inc.
- Provincial strategy ... Chase 603; Horne 277; Mason 379, 381, 690; VanderBurg 603
- Residence fees ... Chase 31, 265, 602; Horner 727; Mason 668; Notley 577, 727; Redford 668; Swann 375; VanderBurg 265, 577, 602
- Safety equipment ... Chase 31
- Separation of couples ... Redford 42; Sherman 42
- Standards of care ... Forsyth 728; Horne 580; Horner 728; MacDonald 588; Notley 577; Rogers 580; VanderBurg 577
- Statistics ... Forsyth 376
- Wait-lists ... Chase 265; Forsyth 64–65; Horne 447–48, 508, 754; Mason 447–48; Notley 229, 756; Redford 229, 265, 288, 416, 448, 665–66, 754, 756; Sherman 276, 288, 416, 665, 754; Swann 508; VanderBurg 65

Long-term care facilities (nursing homes/auxiliary hospitals) – Edmonton

- [See also Edmonton General hospital]
- Extencicare Eaux Claires long-term care complex, member's statement on ... Sarich 168

Long-term care facilities (nursing homes/auxiliary hospitals) – Fort McMurray

- Funding ... Boutilier 187

Long View Systems

- See Persons with disabilities: Employer awards*

Longview

- See Highwood (constituency)*

Lottery commission

- See Alberta Gaming and Liquor Commission*

Lottery fund

- Administration ... MacDonald 632–33; Sherman 25
- Allocation of funds ... Liepert 204–5; MacDonald 204–5

Low-income housing

- See Affordable housing; Social housing*

Lower Athabasca regional plan (land-use framework)

- Industrial development in region ... Hinman 644–45
- Landowner rights impacts ... Hinman 310–11

MMagrath – History

- See Alberta – History: Magrath history*

Magrath – Parks

- See Parks, municipal – Magrath*

Main Estimates 2012-13

- See Budget 2012-13; Budget Address; Estimates of Supply (government expenditures)*

Man in Motion 25th anniversary relay

- Address to Assembly by Rick Hansen, Government Motion 11 (Hancock: carried) ... Blakeman 402–3; Hancock 402; Speaker, The 403

Man in Motion 25th anniversary relay (continued)

- Address to the Assembly by Rick Hansen ... Hansen 413–14; Speaker, The 413
- Members' statements ... Rodney 424

Mandatory Reporting of Child Pornography Act

- Proclamation of act ... Hinman 436

Mar, Gary

- See International offices – Hong Kong*

Market enhancement recovery funds, limits on

- See Labour Relations Code: Review of code*

Market Surveillance Administrator (electric power market)

- Role of ... Sherman 24

Masters in chambers

- Compensation ... MacDonald 82; Olson 82
- Compensation, funding from supplementary supply ... Hehr 80–81; Hinman 255; MacDonald 82; Notley 82; Olson 80–82

Matrimonial Property Act

- Amendments ... Allred 14; Olson 14

Mayerthorpe shooting of RCMP officers

- See Royal Canadian Mounted Police*

McCaig Institute for Bone and Joint Health

- See Fritzler, Dr. Marvin*

Medical Association, Alberta

- See Alberta Medical Association*

Medical care system

- See Health care system*

Medical examiners – Calgary

- [See also Calgary Lab Services: Review of pathology services]

- Review of criminal files ... Horne 194; Johnston 173; Olson 173, 194; Swann 194

Medical research

- [See also Fritzler, Dr. Marvin; Hotchkiss, Harley]

- Funding ... Horne 375; Liepert 54; Rodney 235–36; Swann 375
- Prion research ... Liepert 54
- Reorganization of services ... Horne 375–76
- Spinal cord injury research ... Quest 418; Rodney 424; Weadick 418

Medical research foundation

- See Alberta Heritage Foundation for Medical Research*

Medication

- See Drugs, prescription*

Medicine Hat (city) – Finance

- See Lottery fund: Allocation of funds*

Medicine Hat (city) – Health care system

- See Health facilities: Infrastructure funding*

Medicine Hat (constituency)

- Member's retrospective and tribute to family and supporters, member's statement on ... Renner 664

Members of the Legislative Assembly

- Ability to fulfill duties See Privilege: Obstructing a member in performance of duty
- Anniversaries of elections ... Deputy Speaker 673
- Anniversaries of elections, Speaker's statement on ... Speaker, The 389, 424
- Birthday commemorations ... Speaker, The 6, 138, 424
- Black members ... Rogers 15
- Compensation ... Anderson 359; Hinman 26; Horner 359, 722–23; Sherman 722–23; Swann 504

Members of the Legislative Assembly (continued)

- Compensation review ... Anderson 82, 359, 417; Hehr 362; Hinman 26; Horner 359, 362, 722; MacDonald 418; Mason 667–68; Redford 417, 418, 667
- Members' reflections on retirement See Calgary-Currie (constituency); Calgary-Hays (constituency); Calgary-Varsity (constituency); Grande Prairie-Smoky (constituency); Highwood (constituency); Little Bow (constituency); Medicine Hat (constituency); Speaker; Vermilion-Lloydminster (constituency)
- Memorial tribute to Brian C. Downey, former MLA ... Speaker, The 5
- Memorial tribute to George Topolnisky, former MLA ... Speaker, The 719

Members' Services, Special Standing Committee on See Committee on Members' Services, Special Standing*Members' Statements (procedure)

- Rotation, Speaker's statement on ... Speaker, The 7

Members' Statements (current session)

- Alberta Association of Municipal Districts and Counties ... Drysdale 731
- Alberta business awards of distinction ... Quest 297
- Alberta Hospital Edmonton ... Sandhu 328
- Alberta Winter Games 2012 ... Lindsay 68–69
- Alberta Works program ... Doerksen 200
- Alberta's representative in Asia ... Anderson 504–5
- Alex youth health bus ... Cao 51
- Alston Scout park ... Jacobs 426
- Arctic Winter Games 2012 ... Drysdale 425
- Armenian genocide ... Jablonski 664–65
- Assured income for the severely handicapped ... Amery 426
- Black History Month ... Rogers 15
- Bonnyville primary care network ... Leskiw 297
- Brain Health Symposium 2012 ... Evans 68
- Brenda Lee ... Snelgrove 732
- Bust a Move breast health awareness campaign ... Elniski 226
- Cabinet tour ... Boutilier 16
- Cabinet tour visit to Edmonton-Calder ... Elniski 51
- Castle-Crown wilderness area ... Chase 114
- Catholic Women's League, Edmonton Diocese, centennial ... Sarich 6–7
- Central Alberta Ronald McDonald House ... Jablonski 69
- Community Sustainability Task Force report ... Fawcett 114
- cSPACE Projects ... Woo-Paw 357
- Culture Forum 2012 ... Woo-Paw 454
- Departing thoughts from Grande Prairie-Smoky ... Knight 319
- Distracted driving ... Allred 261
- Donation to Olds College by Jack Anderson ... Marz 297
- Donations to leadership campaigns ... MacDonald 454
- Edmonton and Area Land Trust ... Blakeman 260
- Edmonton Clinic Health Academy ... Bhardwaj 169
- Edmonton-McClung ... Xiao 608–9
- Edmonton-Mill Woods Persons Case scholarship winners ... Zwozdesky 318–19
- Eid Milad un-Nabi celebration ... Kang 200
- Emergency preparedness ... Jablonski 609
- Ethnocultural inclusivity and integration ... Woo-Paw 425
- Extendicare Eaux Claires long-term care complex ... Sarich 168
- Fallen Four memorial ... Lindsay 227

Members' Statements (current session) (continued)

- Glengarry elementary school Arabic bilingual program silver jubilee ... Sarich 59
- Goodwill Industries of Alberta ... Woo-Paw 584–85
- GPS tracking devices for disabled children ... Chase 51
- Greenhouse research and production complex ... Doerksen 425–26
- Harley Hotchkiss ... Rodney 235–36
- Health care services in Alberta ... Forsyth 105
- Health care system accomplishments ... Pastoor 574–75
- Health Quality Council review ... Forsyth 191
- Health Quality Council review report ... Mason 261
- Heart function clinics ... Rodney 399–400
- Heart Month ... Rodney 104–5
- Helmets to hardhats program ... Elniski 16
- Highwood constituency ... Groeneveld 731
- Hockey Alberta/Red Deer College partnership ... Jablonski 503–4
- Homelessness initiatives ... Webber 169
- Impaired driving ... Pastoor 444–45
- Imperial Sovereign Court of the Wild Rose ... Blakeman 575
- Integration of community services with health care ... Swann 67–68
- Integrity in government ... Anderson 664; Boutilier 356; Chase 328; Forsyth 730–31; Swann 504
- Integrity in government leadership ... Hinman 445
- International Adult Learners' Week ... Woo-Paw 608
- International marketing ... Xiao 663
- International Mother Language Day ... Xiao 190–91
- International Women's Day ... Tarchuk 390–91
- Judicial inquiry into health services ... Anderson 318; Swann 400
- Kathleen Sendall ... Webber 400
- Labour negotiations with hospital support staff ... Mason 168
- Leduc No. 1 oil discovery ... Rogers 138
- Level of debate on health services ... Snelgrove 357
- Liberal Party election choice ... Sherman 762
- Library services ... Blackett 505
- A life in politics ... McFarland 296
- Long-term care for seniors ... Notley 584
- Loss of trust in the government ... Swann 177–78
- Dr. Marvin Fritzler ... Bhardwaj 260–61
- Member's tribute to family ... Snelgrove 148
- Municipal funding ... Hinman 138–39
- National Buyer/Seller Forum ... Rogers 445
- National Film Board of Canada world premiere ... Sarich 296–97
- National Flag of Canada Day ... Xiao 139
- National Social Work Week ... Pastoor 298
- New Democratic Party election choice ... Notley 762
- Oliver primary care network ... Elniski 139
- Organ and tissue donation ... Webber 259–60
- Our Children, Our Future education consultation ... Leskiw 114
- Patient advocacy by health professionals ... Anderson 226–27
- Peter Watson ... Campbell 260
- Primco Dene rewarding partnerships award ... Leskiw 68
- Problem gambling ... MacDonald 227
- Property rights ... Prins 575
- Provincial fiscal policy ... Hehr 15; Quest 356
- Queen Elizabeth II Diamond Jubilee ... Brown 68
- Random Acts of Kindness Week ... Pastoor 178
- REDress project for aboriginal women ... Calahasen 391
- Les Rendez-vous de la Francophonie ... Brown 356–57
- Results-based budgeting ... Fawcett 607–8

Members' Statements (current session) (continued)

- Retrospective by the Member for Calgary-Hays ...
Johnston 504
- Retrospective by the Member for Calgary-Varsity ...
Chase 599
- Retrospective by the Member for Medicine Hat ...
Renner 664
- Retrospective on the past year ... Taylor 454–55
- Rick Hansen 25th anniversary relay ... Rodney 424
- Right to vote ... Taft 665
- Roseanne Supernault ... Calahasen 261
- Rural integrated community clerkship for physicians ...
Lund 731
- Safer Internet Day ... Woo-Paw 148
- Sagewood seniors' residence ... Doerksen 608
- Saving for the future ... Hehr 296
- Scotties Tournament of Hearts ... Jablonski 235
- Second-hand smoke ... Sherman 424–25
- Seniors' benefit programs ... Brown 505
- Seniors' housing in Bonnyville ... Leskiw 168–69
- Sheldon Kennedy ... Groeneveld 16
- Social enterprise ... Fawcett 584
- Special Olympics Canada Winter Games ... Campbell
355–56
- State of the health care system ... Brown 664
- Thom Elniski ... Elniski 318
- Tribute to long-term care residents ... Elniski 598–99
- Tribute to staff ... Taylor 190
- Vern Davis ... Zwozdesky 190
- Villa Marie continuing care centre ... Jablonski 730
- Western Engineering Competition 2012 ... Johnston
113–14
- Women's equality ... Notley 391
- World Consumer Rights Day ... Cao 583–84
- World Kidney Day ... Leskiw 400

Mennonites

- Education of children from Mexico ... Lukaszuk 197–98; McFarland 197–98

Mental health services

- [See also Health care system – Delivery models: Integration with community services]
- Access to services ... Horne 293, 373, 509; Sandhu 508; Swann 67–68, 372; Vandermeer 293
- Diagnostic billing codes ... Blakeman 230–31; Horne 230–31
- Funding ... Forsyth 377; Hancock 475
- Provincial strategy ... Blakeman 198; Horne 198, 368; Notley 281; Redford 140–41; Swann 140–41
- Treatment beds ... Forsyth 376; Horne 377

Mental health services – Calgary

- [See also Safe Communities Resource Centre]
- Funding ... Horne 293; Liepert 54; Vandermeer 293
- Treatment beds ... Swann 373

Mental health strategy

- Member's request for information ... Forsyth 376

MERFs (market enhancement recovery funds), limits on

- See Labour Relations Code: Review of code

Métis

- [See also Aboriginal peoples]
- Provincial strategy ... Rodney 24

Métis children – Education

- [See also Aboriginal children – Education]
- General remarks ... Chase 30

MGA

- See Municipal Government Act

Michaëlle Jean Foundation

- See Sendall, Kathleen

Midwifery

- Certification of internationally trained midwives ...
Blakeman 422–23; Horne 423

Mill rates (education funding)

- See Property tax – Education levy

Mill Woods hospital

- See Grey Nuns hospital

Millard Health, contract with WCB

- See Workers' Compensation Board: Contracts with health services providers

Mines and mining

- See Coal; Sand and gravel mining

Minimum Housing and Health Standards

- See Housing – Rental housing: Health and safety standards

Ministerial Statements

- International Day for the Elimination of Racial Discrimination ... Anderson 721; MacDonald 721; Notley 721–22; Olson 720–21; Taylor 722
- Tribute to Member for Barrhead-Morinville-Westlock ...
Boutilier 752; Notley 752–53; Redford 751–52; Sherman 752; Snelgrove 753
- Tribute to Member for Barrhead-Morinville-Westlock, member's response ... Speaker, The 753

Ministers (provincial government)

- See Executive Council; Members of the Legislative Assembly

Minister's Advisory Committee on Health

- Recommendation re evidence-based decision-making ...
Horne 387

Minister's Student Advisory Council

- General remarks ... Lukaszuk 152

MLAs

- See Members of the Legislative Assembly

Molesting of children

- See Child abuse

Monarchy

- See Speaker: Remarks on Queen Elizabeth II's Diamond Jubilee

Motion pictures

- See Film and television industry

Motions (current session)

- Government motions are numbered sequentially starting with 1; motions other than government motions are numbered starting with 501*
- No. 1, Consideration of Speech from the Throne (Fawcett/Rodney) ... 21–31
- No. 2, Legislative Assembly resolution into Committee of the Whole (Hancock: carried) ... 17
- No. 3, Legislative Assembly resolution into Committee of Supply (Hancock: carried) ... 18
- No. 4, Supplementary supply estimates 2011-12 No. 2 referred to Committee of Supply (Horner: carried) ... 52
- No. 5, Supplementary supply estimates 2011-12, No. 2, to be considered in Committee of Supply for one day (Horner: carried) ... 52
- No. 6 Consideration of main estimates (Hancock: carried) ... 18–21
- No. 7, Budget Address (Liepert: carried) ... 52–56; 116–24
- No. 8, evening sittings of the Legislature (Hancock: carried) ... 21
- No. 9, committee membership changes (Hancock: carried) ... 21

Motions (current session) (continued)

- No. 10, address in reply to Speech from the Throne ... 24–31, 91–96, 134–36, 159–64, 348
- No. 11, Address to House by Mr. Rick Hansen (Hancock: carried) ... 402–3
- No. 501, Replacement of flat tax with progressive tax rate (Blakeman: defeated) ... 71–78
- No. 502, Condominium reserve fund studies (Quest: carried) ... 311–15
- No. 503, tax incentives for cultural endeavours (Benito: defeated) ... 438–41
- No. 504, fines for minor offences (Xiao: defeated) ... 624–26
- Appropriation Act, 2012, motion to approve ... 645
- Consideration of Speech from the Throne on February 8, 2012 (Redford: carried) 4

Motions for returns

Motions for returns and tabled responses to accepted motions are listed on the Legislative Assembly website (www.assembly.ab.ca) under Assembly Documents and Records. Motions for the current session are indexed here under specific subject headings.

Motions under Standing Order 30

See Emergency debates under Standing Order 30

Motor vehicles

[See also Registry services]

Commercial vehicle enforcement ... Denis 89; Notley 89

Smoking in vehicles See Tobacco Reduction (Protection of Children in Vehicles) Amendment Act, 2012

Movie industry

See Film and television industry

MRI

See Diagnostic imaging: Magnetic resonance imaging

MSA

See Market Surveillance Administrator (electric power market)

MSI

See Municipal sustainability initiative

Multiculturalism

[See also Culture Forum 2012; International Mother Language Day]

Inclusivity and integration, member's statement on ... Woo-Paw 425

Tax incentives for ethnocultural groups See Arts and culture: Tax incentives for cultural endeavours, Motion Other than Government Motion 503

Multimedia development fund

See Alberta multimedia development fund

Municipal Affairs, Dept. of

See Dept. of Municipal Affairs

Municipal Districts and Counties, Alberta Association of

See Alberta Association of Municipal Districts and Counties

Municipal Government Act

Review (proposed) ... Griffiths 108–9, 320; Rogers 108; Sherman 320

Municipal heritage fund (proposed)

General remarks ... Sherman 24–25

Municipal sustainability initiative

Funding ... Bhardwaj 761–62; Griffiths 320; Liepert 54; Redford 761–62; Sherman 320
Funding criteria ... Griffiths 108, 142, 176; Hinman 176; Rogers 108; Taylor 142
Review of program ... Speech from the Throne 3

Municipalities

Bylaw enforcement See Law enforcement: Minor offences, motion to reduce arrest warrants re (Motion Other than Government Motion 504: defeated)

Emergency management ... Griffiths 511; Jacobs 511

Relations with province ... Taylor 121

Municipalities – Finance

[See also Alberta Municipal Financing Corporation; Property tax]

Funding ... Bhardwaj 761–62; Redford 761–62; Rodney 23; Sherman 245; Speech from the Throne 2, 3

Members' statements ... Hinman 138–39

Wildrose Party strategy ... Hinman 755; Redford 755

Municipalities, urban

See Alberta Urban Municipalities Association; Cities and towns

Muslim religious observances

See Eid Milad un-Nabi celebration; Funeral industry

NNADC (Northern Alberta Development Council)

See Oil sands development – Athabasca area: Transportation Coordinating Committee

Namao air base

See Emergency medical services (ambulances, etc.) – Edmonton: Medevac services

National Buyer/Seller Forum

Members' statements ... Rogers 445

National energy strategy

See Energy industry: National strategy (proposed)

National Flag of Canada Day

Members' statements ... Xiao 139

National Social Work Week

General remarks ... Hancock 461

Members' statements ... Pastoor 298

Natural gas – Royalties

See Gas, natural – Royalties

Natural resources

Provincial ownership ... Taft 151

Network

See Health Resource Centre

Neuroscience research

See Hotchkiss, Harley

New Democratic Party

[See also Opposition caucuses]

Election choice, member's statement on ... Notley 762

Tax policy See Corporations – Taxation: New Democratic Party position

New West Partnership

Impact on government contract process ... Calahasen 323; Griffiths 323

Nonprofit, not-for-profit, voluntary, and charitable organizations

[See also Culture Forum 2012]

Cultural organizations ... Goudreau 440

Eligibility for casino licences ... Blakeman 295; Liepert 295

Funding See Community spirit program

Nonrenewable resource revenue

See Revenue

Norquest College

See Postsecondary educational institutions – Finance: Auditor General's recommendations on financial controls

North Saskatchewan regional plan (land-use framework)

Status of plan ... Chase 673; Oberle 673

Northern Alberta Development Council

See Oil sands development – Athabasca area: Transportation Coordinating Committee

Northern Alberta development strategy

General remarks ... Hinman 27; Speech from the Throne 3

Northern Gateway pipeline project

See Pipelines – Construction

Northern Lakes College

See Postsecondary educational institutions – Finance: Auditor General's recommendations on financial controls

Norway, government savings policy

See Government savings: Comparison with other jurisdictions

Nova Scotia, Black history

See Black History Month

Nurses

Accreditation of internationally trained nurses ... Swann 372

Contract negotiations ... Blakeman 229–30; Horne 229–30

Nurse practitioners ... Speech from the Throne 2

Scope of practice ... Horne 419; Pastoor 419; Speech from the Throne 2

Nursing homes

See Long-term care facilities (nursing homes/auxiliary hospitals)

Nutrition

Guidelines ... Horne 371

Healthy U food checker ... Horne 371

OObesity

National initiatives ... Horne 177

Oblates of Mary Immaculate

See Catholic Women's League, Edmonton diocese

Occupational health and safety

See Workplace health and safety

Office of the Premier

Funding ... Redford 239, 240; Sherman 239

Premier's appearance in online advertising ... Sherman 241

Premier's awards to business ... Quest 297

Premier's chief of staff's comments on AUMA ... Forsyth 141; Hinman 139; Redford 140, 141; Sherman 140, 243

Premier's input from public ... Fawcett 21

Premier's leadership ... Fawcett 23; Hinman 755; Redford 755; Rodney 23

Premier's mandate letters See Dept. of Advanced Education and Technology: Premier's mandate letter; Executive Council: Premier's mandate letters to ministers

Premier's meeting with Braemar school students ... Bhardwaj 172; Hancock 172

Premier's remarks on PC Party benefit plan trust ... MacDonald 10; Redford 10

Premiers' swearing-in ceremony costs (Mr. Stelmach and Ms. Redford) ... Horner 395; Liepert 395; MacDonald 395

Premier's travel re energy industry ... Mitzel 290; Ouellette 251; Redford 239–40, 242, 251, 290

Officers of the Legislative Assembly

[See also Auditor General; Chief Electoral Officer, office of the; Child and Youth Advocate, office of the; Ethics Commissioner, office of the; Information and Privacy Commissioner, office of the; Ombudsman, office of the]

Debate of estimates, traditions and practices on ... Hancock 89; Taft 89

Main estimates (expense and capital investment) 2012–13, committee agreement to and reporting of ... Chair 479–80

Main estimates 2012–13, concurrence in committee report, division ... 480

Main estimates (expense and capital investment) 2012–13, concurrence in committee report, division ... 480

Main estimates (expense and capital investment) 2012–13, procedure for ... Chair 479

Official Opposition

[See also Opposition caucuses]

Time allotted in budget debates ... Blakeman 19

Oil recovery methods

See Hydraulic fracturing

Oil sands development

Foreign workers See Temporary foreign workers

Partnerships ... Rogers 445

Provincial strategy ... Johnston 290–91; Kang 136; Mason 28–29; Mitzel 290; Redford 290–91; Speech from the Throne 2

Oil sands development – Athabasca area

Transportation Coordinating Committee ... Danyluk 12, 231; Johnson 11; Leskiw 11–12, 231

Oil sands development – Environmental aspects

Advocacy re ... Jablonski 264–65; Liepert 55, 215; Mason 28; Morton 265; Ouellette 250; Redford 239–40, 250–51, 264–65; Taylor 215

Canadian Oil Sands Innovation Alliance ... Ady 291–92; McQueen 292

Federal-provincial monitoring ... Blackett 452;

Blakeman 13–14, 108; Chase 673; Liepert 217;

Mason 28; McQueen 14, 108, 452, 510–11; Morton 673; Notley 510–11; Rodney 23; Speech from the Throne 3

Land reclamation See Wetlands

Research ... McQueen 195; Morton 195; Quest 195

Oil sands royalties

See Bitumen – Royalties

OIPC

See Information and Privacy Commissioner, office of the

Okotoks

See Highwood (constituency)

Oldman River

Dam construction ... Berger 655; Hinman 655

Olds College

[See also Family farms: Century farm and ranch awards; Postsecondary educational institutions – Finance: Auditor General's recommendations on financial controls]

Donation to by J.C. (Jack) Anderson, member's statement on ... Marz 297

Oliver primary care network

See Health care system – Edmonton: Primary care networks, member's statement on Ombudsman, office of the

Main estimates 2012–13, concurrence in committee report, division ... 480

Opposition, Official*See Official OppositionOpposition caucuses

Caucus allowances ... Anderson 245–46; Redford 246
 Critics' attendance at budget debates ... Notley 20
 Time allotted in budget debates ... Blakeman 19;
Hinman 19

Oral Question Period (procedure)

Executive Council member follow-up to questions ...
Speaker, The 177
 Preambles to second and third questions ... Speaker, The 180
 Questions about current legislation, Speaker's remarks
 on ... Speaker, The 144
 Questions about other jurisdictions, Speaker's remarks
 on ... Speaker, The 174
 Questions about the budget, Speaker's remarks on ...
Speaker, The 196
 Questions about the budget, Speaker's statement on ...
Speaker, The 67
 Questions re news media reports, Speaker's ruling on ...
Speaker, The 113
 Questions to government responded to by any member of Executive Council, Speaker's remarks on ...
Speaker, The 264
 Rotation of questions, Speaker's statement on ...
Speaker, The 7
 Speaking time, point of order on ... Hinman 763–64;
Speaker, The 763–64

Oral Question Period (current session topics)

A. Blair McPherson school ... Lukaszuk 453–54;
Zwozdesky 453–54
 Aboriginal education ... Dallas 12; Hehr 12; Lukaszuk
 12, 64; Woo-Paw 64
 Accommodation and health care for seniors ... Forsyth
 64–65; Redford 11, 42; Sherman 41–42; Swann 11;
VanderBurg 65
 Administration of elections ... Olson 294–95; Taft 294–
 95
 Advocacy for seniors ... Amery 13; VanderBurg 13
 Advocacy to government ... Griffiths 358; Liepert 358;
Lukaszuk 287, 358; Redford 287; Sherman 287,
 357–58
 Affordable housing ... Griffiths 725–26; Leskiw 725–26
 Agricultural research and development ... Berger 397;
Doerksen 397
 Agriculture Financial Services Corporation ... Berger
 728–29; Goudreau 728–29
 AIMCo investment in Viterra Inc. ... Liepert 725;
Webber 725
 AIMCo investments ... Liepert 600; Sherman 600
 Alberta First Nations Energy Centre ... Blakeman 576;
Dallas 506, 576; Hinman 392–93; Horner 393,
 576–77; Morton 393, 506, 576; Sherman 506, 576
 Alberta Health Services third-quarter report ... Horne
 754; Redford 754; Sherman 754
 Alberta Human Rights Act ... Anderson 605–6; Horner
 606; Olson 605–6
 Alberta multimedia development fund ... Blakeman
 397–98; Klimchuk 398
 Alberta schools alternative procurement program ...
Johnson 398–99; Kang 398–99
 Alberta Works program on-site support ... Blakeman
 198; Hancock 198; Horne 198
 Alberta's representative in Asia ... Anderson 512; Dallas
 422, 507, 512; Hancock 507; Hinman 422, 507;
Mason 417; Redford 415–18; Sherman 415

Oral Question Period (current session topics)(continued)

Alleged intimidation of physicians ... Anderson 451;
Forsyth 228–29, 447, 600–601; Horne 229, 451;
Redford 229, 447, 600–601; Sherman 600
 Ambulance services ... Horne 10; Quest 10
 Ambulance services in St. Albert ... Allred 109; Horne
 109
 Anthony Henday Drive ... Danyluk 582; Sandhu 582
 Assured income for the severely handicapped ... Chase
 13, 361, 510; Horne 510; Jablonski 756; Redford
 756; VanderBurg 13, 361
 Athabasca Oil Sands Area Transportation Coordinating Committee ... Danyluk 12; Johnson 11; Leskiw 11–12
 Bear management ... Lund 513; Oberle 513
 Bear management near work camps ... Blakeman 234;
Oberle 234–35
 Bitumen upgrading ... Dallas 416; Hehr 416–17, 448;
Morton 448; Redford 416–17, 448
 Blood alcohol driving sanctions ... Anderson 196–97;
Danyluk 197; Denis 196–97
 Bullying ... DeLong 579; Hancock 579; Klimchuk 579;
Lukaszuk 579
 Bullying in private schools ... Hehr 232–33; Lukaszuk
 232–33
 Canada-European Union trade negotiations ... Dallas
 197; Kang 197
 Canadian Oil Sands Innovation Alliance ... Ady 291–92;
McQueen 292
 Cancer drug shortage ... Horne 360–61; Woo-Paw
 360–61
 Caregivers for persons with developmental disabilities ...
Chase 173–74, 177; VanderBurg 173–74, 177
 Caribou habitat protection ... Blakeman 670; Oberle 670
 Castle-Crown wilderness area ... Blakeman 42; Chase
 106, 145–46; Notley 46–47; Oberle 42, 46–47, 106,
 145–46; Redford 106
 Century farm and ranch award ... Berger 668; Snelgrove
 668
 Charter schools ... Amery 199, 421–22; Lukaszuk 199–
 200, 421–22
 Childhood hunger ... Lukaszuk 45–46; Taft 45–46
 Comments at Airdrie council meeting ... Redford 228;
Sherman 228
 Community spirit program ... Klimchuk 729–30; Rogers
 729
 Conflict of interest guidelines for universities ... Taft
 363; Weadick 363
 Cost of Premier's swearing-in ceremony ... Horner 395;
Liepert 395; MacDonald 395
 Critical electricity transmission lines ... Jablonski 583;
Morton 583
 Critical Transmission Review Committee report ...
Hinman 107; Morton 107; Redford 106, 107;
Sherman 106
 Criticism of government ... Mason 289; Redford 289
 Diagnostic billing code for sexual orientation ...
Blakeman 230–31; Horne 230–31
 Disaster recovery program ... Griffiths 420; Mitzel 420
 Donations to leadership campaigns ... MacDonald 447;
Redford 446, 447; Sherman 445–46
 Donations to political parties ... Horner 723, 724;
Notley 724; Sherman 723
 Drilling stimulus program ... Mason 393; Morton 393
 Edith Cavell Continuing Care Centre collective bargaining ... Hancock 668–69; Swann 668–69
 Edmonton General continuing care incident ... Chase
 289; Horne 289–90; Redford 288; Sherman 288;
VanderBurg 289

Oral Question Period (current session topics)(continued)

Education 10-point plan ... Bhardwaj 112; Lukaszuk 112
 Education consultation ... Lukaszuk 605; Woo-Paw 605
 Education funding ... Hehr 62, 109, 268, 603; Lukaszuk 62, 109, 268, 603–4; Redford 666; Sherman 666
 Education legislation ... Jablonski 144
 Education of Mennonite children from Mexico ...
 Lukaszuk 197–98; McFarland 197–98
 Education property taxes ... Amery 604; Griffiths 113, 604; Jablonski 113; Lukaszuk 113
 Education services for teen parents ... Bhardwaj 172; Hancock 172; Lukaszuk 172–73
 Election Act reports ... Anderson 759; Redford 759
 Electricity exports ... Liepert 601; Mason 601
 Electricity prices ... Boutilier 112; Calahasen 728; Hancock 9; MacDonald 512–13, 730, 760; Mason 9, 61, 107; McFarland 44; Morton 8, 9, 41, 44, 60, 61, 105, 107, 112, 140, 146–47, 199, 228, 506–7, 512–13, 728, 730, 760; Ouellette 265–66; Redford 8, 9, 41, 105, 107–8, 140, 192, 228, 265–66; Sherman 7–8, 41, 59–60, 105, 140, 192, 228, 506–7; Taft 146–47, 199
 Emergency health services ... Horne 141–42, 170, 173; Horner 170; Mason 141; Redford 141; Sherman 170; Swann 173
 Emergency room wait times ... Horne 170–71, 175–76; Sherman 170–71; Webber 175–76
 Energy demand-side management ... Fawcett 363–64; McQueen 364; Morton 363–64
 Enhanced support for home care ... Horne 419; Pastoor 419
 Environmental monitoring ... Blackett 452; Blakeman 108; McQueen 108, 452
 Environmental monitoring of the oil sands ... McQueen 510–11; Notley 510–11
 Environmental protection ... Blakeman 13–14; McQueen 14
 European Union fuel quality directive ... Dallas 230; Jablonski 264–65; Morton 265; Quest 230; Redford 230, 264–65
 Evanston community transportation access ... Brown 452–53; Danyluk 453
 Expanded role for pharmacists ... Horne 63; Jablonski 63
 Family care clinics ... Allred 327; Horne 327, 452; Swann 452
 Farm safety ... Berger 422; Goudreau 422
 Farm worker exemptions from labour legislation ...
 Hancock 44, 110; Redford 43–44; Swann 43–44, 109–10
 Farm worker labour protection ... Danyluk 421; Hancock 421; Swann 421
 Farm worker safety standards ... Danyluk 175; Kang 175
 Farmers' Advocate of Alberta ... Berger 509; Prins 509
 First Nations economic development ... Chase 396–97; Dallas 397; Hancock 397
 First Nations education ... Calahasen 670–71; Lukaszuk 671
 Fixed election dates ... Boutilier 724; Horner 724
 Foreign delegations ... Cao 510; Dallas 510
 Fort Saskatchewan community hospital ... Johnson 726–27; Quest 726
 Full-day kindergarten programs ... Hehr 322; Lukaszuk 322, 360; Notley 359–60
 Funding for diabetes self-management supplies ... Horne 176–77; Quest 176
 Funding for private schools ... Hehr 195, 231, 292–93, 394–95, 578–79; Lukaszuk 195, 231, 292–93, 394–95, 578–79
 Gasoline and diesel prices ... Lund 398; Morton 398

Oral Question Period (current session topics)(continued)

General hospital long-term care centre ... Horne 193; Mason 193; Redford 193
 Government-owned infrastructure ... Johnson 194; Snelgrove 193–94
 Government relationship with the AUMA ... Forsyth 141; Griffiths 142; Redford 139–40, 141, 142; Sherman 139–40; Taylor 142
 Grimshaw Holy Family school ... Goudreau 146; Lukaszuk 146, 292, 362–63; Notley 292, 362–63
 Health care system ... Forsyth 267; Horne 267; Redford 263, 665–66; Sherman 665–66; Swann 263
 Health Quality Council review report ... Boutilier 233; Campbell 268; Horne 233–34, 268; Notley 229; Redford 227–28, 229; Sherman 227–28
 Health services for north Edmonton ... Horne 43; Mason 43
 Health services labour negotiations ... Blakeman 229–30; Horne 229–30; Redford 191; Sherman 191
 Health system reform ... Redford 192; Sherman 192
 Health system restructuring ... Horne 264, 267–68; MacDonald 267–68; Mason 263–64; Redford 262–64; Sherman 262
 Heartland electricity transmission project ... Kang 269; Lukaszuk 269
 High Prairie hospital construction ... Calahasen 198; Horne 198–99; Johnson 198
 High-speed Internet services for rural Alberta ... Bhullar 606; Ouellette 606
 Home-schooling ... DeLong 231–32; Hehr 669, 725, 756–57; Lukaszuk 231–32, 602, 669–70, 725, 756–57; Vandermeer 602
 Homelessness in Calgary ... Hancock 13; Woo-Paw 12–13
 Hydraulic fracturing practices ... Campbell 47; Morton 47
 Impact of oil sands development ... McQueen 195; Morton 195; Quest 195
 Impaired driving ... Danyluk 10–11, 449; Denis 448; Pastoor 10–11; Woo-Paw 448–49
 Impaired driving legislation ... Danyluk 365; Kang 365
 Infrastructure funding ... Bhardwaj 761–62; Redford 761–62
 Judicial inquiry into health services ... Forsyth 288–89; Hinman 325; Horne 320–22, 325, 358, 360; Horner 321, 325, 392; Mason 321–22; Redford 287–88, 288–89; Sherman 287–88, 358; Swann 320–21, 360, 392
 Keyano College land trust ... Johnson 364–65; Leskiw 364–65; Weadick 365
 Labour mobility barriers ... Dallas 235; Hancock 235; Jablonski 235
 Labour negotiations with hospital support staff ...
 Hancock 174–75; Horner 169–70, 171–72; Mason 171; Notley 174–75; Sherman 169–70
 Land conservation trusts ... Blakeman 266, 295; Hayden 266; Liepert 295; Oberle 266
 Landowner property rights ... Drysdale 759; Hinman 192–93; Redford 193, 759–60
 Logging in the Bragg Creek area ... DeLong 66; Oberle 66–67, 393–94; Taylor 393–94
 Long gun registry ... Denis 266–67; Mitzel 266; Redford 266
 Long-term and continuing care ... Chase 265; Horne 232; Notley 232; Redford 265; VanderBurg 232, 265
 Long-term care ... Chase 450, 602–3; Horne 319–20, 416, 446, 447–48, 505–6, 508, 575–76, 580, 754, 756; Horner 576, 727; Mason 447–48; Notley 577, 727, 756; Redford 416, 446, 448, 754, 756; Rogers 580; Sherman 319, 416, 446, 505–6, 575–76, 754; Swann 508; VanderBurg 446, 450, 577, 602–3

Oral Question Period (current session topics)(continued)

Long-term care serious incidents ... Chase 761; Forsyth 580, 728; Horner 723, 728; Sherman 723; VanderBurg 580, 761

Medevac services ... Boutilier 396; Horner 396

Medevac services at Namao Air Base ... Drysdale 110; Horner 110

Mental health and addiction services ... Horne 293; Vandermeer 293

Mental health services ... Redford 140–41; Swann 140–41

Midwifery services ... Blakeman 422–23; Horne 423

Minimum housing and health standards ... Horne 110–11; Notley 110–11

Minister of Health and Wellness ... Redford 262; Sherman 262

MLA remuneration ... Anderson 359, 417; Hehr 362; Horner 359, 362, 722–23; MacDonald 418; Redford 417, 418; Sherman 722–23

Municipal emergency management ... Griffiths 511; Jacobs 511

Municipal financing ... Griffiths 176, 320; Hinman 176, 755; Redford 755; Sherman 320

Municipal property tax relief ... Griffiths 322; Snelgrove 322

Municipal sustainability initiative funding ... Griffiths 108–9; Rogers 108

Municipal taxation ... Boutilier 577; Griffiths 577; Horner 577

New school construction in Calgary ... Brown 512; Lukaszuk 512

Noninstructional postsecondary tuition fees ... Bhardwaj 603; Taft 602; Weadick 602, 603

NOVA Chemicals Corporation expansion ... Horner 581; Morton 581; Prins 581

Oil Sands Transportation Coordinating Committee ... Danyluk 231; Leskiw 231

Online camping reservation system ... Hayden 234; Zwozdesky 234

Online exploitation of children ... Denis 48; Woo-Paw 48

Organ and tissue donations ... Horne 196; Webber 196

Parent link centres ... Allred 365–66; Hancock 365–66

Parental choice in Edmonton ... Leskiw 324–25; Lukaszuk 325

Patient advocacy by health professionals ... Horne 508–9; Sandhu 508

PC caucus meeting and cabinet tour ... Forsyth 12; Horner 12

PC caucus meeting in Jasper ... Redford 8; Sherman 8

PC Party benefit plan trust ... MacDonald 10; Redford 10

PDD administrative review ... Chase 325–26; VanderBurg 326

Pharmaceutical benefit for seniors ... Amery 361; Horne 361

Physician services agreement ... Horne 63, 290; Swann 63, 290

Physician services agreement in principle ... Horner 724–25; Swann 724–25

Postsecondary education costs ... Redford 599; Sherman 599

Postsecondary education funding ... Taft 66; Weadick 66

Postsecondary institution spending accountability ... Taft 582–83; Weadick 582–83

Poverty reduction ... Blakeman 44–45; Hancock 9–10, 44–45; Redford 9; Taylor 9–10

Pre-election commitments ... Mason 667–68; Redford 667–68

Oral Question Period (current session topics)(continued)

Primary care networks ... Elniski 142; Horne 142, 605; Swann 604–5

Private operation of continuing care centres ... Hancock 421; Horne 421; Notley 420–21

Private operation of long-term care facilities ... Horne 507–8; Mason 507–8

Problem gambling ... Liepert 196; MacDonald 195–96

Proclamation of health legislation ... Forsyth 364; Horne 364

Productivity Alberta ... Horner 669; Leskiw 669

Promotion of Alberta energy industry ... Mitzel 290; Redford 290

Promotion of Alberta oil sands ... Johnston 290–91; Redford 291

Property rights public consultation ... Drysdale 194–95; McQueen 194–95

Protection of job seekers ... Bhullar 395; Quest 395

Protection of vulnerable Albertans ... Chase 47; VanderBurg 47

Provincial budget ... Hinman 48; Horner 61–62; Liepert 48; Redford 7, 62, 666–67; Sherman 7, 666; Snelgrove 61–62

Provincial budget advertisement ... Liepert 358–59, 391–92; Sherman 358–59, 391–92

Provincial budget projections ... Fawcett 147–48; Morton 147–48

Provincial economic strategy ... Horner 578; Woo-Paw 578

Provincial fiscal framework ... Boutilier 42–43; Liepert 42; Redford 43

Provincial fiscal policies ... Redford 59; Sherman 59

Provincial spending ... Liepert 174; Vandermeer 174

Provincial tax policy ... Anderson 8–9, 60–61, 144; Bhardwaj 670; Boutilier 171, 321; Griffiths 144; Hehr 453, 511, 581–82; Horner 144, 171, 321, 581–82; Liepert 423–24, 453, 511, 670; Morton 144; Redford 8–9, 60–61, 761; Taft 423–24; Webber 761

Provincially controlled funeral services ... Blakeman 60; Hancock 60

Public health inquiry ... Anderson 263; Horne 264; Redford 263; Taylor 264

Rent regulation ... Bhullar 578; Hancock 578; Taylor 577–78

Residential construction standards ... Bhullar 758–59; Blakeman 291, 324, 727; Griffiths 269, 291, 324, 727; Kang 758–59; Rogers 268–69

Residential rehabilitation assistance ... Blakeman 509; Griffiths 509

Resource revenue projections ... Doerksen 449; Liepert 449; Morton 450

Restorative justice ... Brown 607; Denis 607; Olson 607

Revenue from problem gambling ... Horner 67, 113; MacDonald 67, 112–13; Olson 67

Revenue from VLTs and slot machines ... Horner 143–44; Liepert 172, 327; MacDonald 143–44, 172, 326–27

Review of medical examiner cases ... Horne 194; Johnston 173; Olson 173, 194; Swann 194

Safe communities initiative ... Calahasen 362; Olson 362

Safe Communities Resource Centre ... Fritz 294; Horne 294; Olson 294

Sale of Crown land in Fort McMurray ... Johnson 111–12; Leskiw 111

Oral Question Period (current session topics)(continued)

Sand and gravel extraction management ... Blakeman 607, 757–58; McQueen 757–58; Oberle 607

School board funding ... Anderson 293–94; Chase 177; Lukaszuk 177, 293–94

School capital construction ... Johnson 729; Kang 729; Lukaszuk 604; Notley 604; Redford 758; Zwozdesky 758

School council teleconference remarks ... Anderson 667; Hinman 671; Horner 671; Lukaszuk 671; Redford 667

School fees ... DeLong 394; Hehr 142–43; Lukaszuk 143, 394

School fees collection ... Hehr 726; Lukaszuk 726, 755; Redford 755; Sherman 754–55

School infrastructure funding ... Johnson 111, 145, 420, 449; Kang 111, 144–45, 419–20, 449, 580–81; Lukaszuk 145, 420, 449, 581

Seniors' property tax deferral ... Quest 757; Redford 757

Sexual assault services ... Hancock 579; Horne 580; Swann 579–80

Skilled labour shortage ... Bhardwaj 14–15; Dallas 399; Hancock 15, 326; Johnston 399; Woo-Paw 326

Skilled labour supply ... Hancock 450–51; Johnston 233; Rogers 450; Weadick 233

Skilled workforce training programs ... Weadick 423; Woo-Paw 423

Slave Lake disaster recovery contracts ... Calahasen 323; Dallas 323; Griffiths 323

Slave Lave family care clinic ... Calahasen 760; Redford 760

Social assistance programs ... Hancock 46; Zwozdesky 46

Social housing for seniors ... Griffiths 143; Leskiw 143; VanderBurg 143

South Calgary health campus ... Ady 145; Horne 145; Johnson 145

Spinal cord injury research ... Quest 418; Weadick 418

Student finance system ... Brown 62; Fawcett 672; Weadick 62–63, 672

Support for front-line social workers ... Hancock 396; Pastoor 395–96

Support for tourism ... Chase 65; Hayden 65

Teachers' salary negotiations ... Leskiw 65–66; Lukaszuk 65–66

Tobacco reduction strategy ... Horne 419; Sherman 418–19

Trades opportunities for armed forces veterans ... Allred 147; Weadick 147

Trucking safety regulations ... Danyluk 672; Kang 671–72

Twinning of highway 63 ... Danyluk 48–49, 64; Kang 48–49, 63–64

Urgent care services ... Horne 45; Jablonski 45

Water allocation ... Blakeman 451; McQueen 451–52

Water management ... Chase 673; Morton 673; Oberle 673

Westlawn Courts seniors' residence ... Griffiths 323; Horne 323; Sherman 323

Wills and succession legislation ... Allred 14; Olson 14

Workforce employment services ... Bhullar 606–7; Cao 323–24; Hancock 324; Kang 606–7

Order of Canada recipients*See Sendall, KathleenOrthotics

See Alberta health care insurance plan:
Supplemental benefits

Our Children, Our Future education consultation*See Education: Public consultationsOverseas offices, AlbertanSee International officesP*P3 (public-private partnership) constructionSee Schools – Construction: Public-private partnerships (P3) (ASAP initiative)PABSee Public Affairs BureauParamedics – Education

Bridging programs for emergency medical technicians ...
Horne 373

Parent councils*See Alberta School Councils' AssociationParenting

[See also Children with disabilities: Parenting programs]

Parent link centres ... Allred 365–66; Hancock 365–66

Parents' rights, legislation re [See also Education Act (Bill 2)]; Anderson 606; Horner 606

Teenaged mothers, programs and services for ...
Bhardwaj 172; Hancock 172, 456; Lukaszuk 172–73

Parks, municipal – Magrath

Alston Scout park, member's statement on ... Jacobs 426

Parks, national*See Waterton national parkParks, provincial[See also Campgrounds, provincial]

Embargo on logging ... Blakeman 42; Oberle 42

Provincial strategy ... Chase 65; Hayden 65

Parks and Recreation, Dept. of Tourism,*See Dept. of Tourism, Parks and RecreationParole, pilot projectsSee Safe Communities Resource CentrePathologists

See Calgary Lab Services; Calgary Lab Services: Review of pathology services; Medical examiners – Calgary; Tom Baker Cancer Centre

Patient advocacy by physicians

[See also Health care system – Health Quality Council review (2011); Health sciences professionals: Allegations of bullying]

Alberta Hospital Edmonton forensic patients ... Anderson 451; Forsyth 447; Horne 451; Redford 447

Allegations of intimidation ... Blakeman 283; Forsyth 278

Allegations of intimidation, events regarding Mr. Horne and Dr. Sherman (contact with Alberta Medical Association re Dr. Sherman's mental state) ... Mason 289; Redford 289; Sherman 276

Allegations of intimidation, Health Quality Council report findings ... Blakeman 283; Forsyth 228–29, 267, 288–89, 600–601; Hinman 325; Horne 229, 267, 277, 358; Horner 325, 392; Mason 261, 273–74; Notley 229; Redford 229, 287, 288–89, 600–601; Sherman 239, 276, 287, 358, 600; Swann 392

Allegations of intimidation, physicians' regional presidents' statement on ... Forsyth 600–601; Redford 600–601; Sherman 600

Allegations of intimidation, resources for affected physicians ... Horne 508; Sandhu 508

Members' statements ... Anderson 226–27

Patient capacity (health system)

See Hospitals: Acute-care beds

PATs

See Student testing: Provincial achievement tests

PC caucus

See Government caucus

PC Party

See Progressive Conservative Party of Alberta

PDAs (personal digital assistants)

Use in Chamber, Speaker's statement on ... Speaker, The 722

Peace officers

Number of sheriffs ... Denis 89; Hehr 89

Penhorwood Place condominiums and apartments

See Housing – Fort McMurray

Pension plans

Federal plans ... Mason 30

Provincial plan See Public service: Pension administration; Teachers: Pension plan

Persons with developmental disabilities

[See also Group homes: Deaths and serious incidents]

Administrative review ... Chase 325–26; VanderBurg 326

Board and Appeal Panel member qualifications, member's request for information on ... Chase 174, 177; VanderBurg 174, 177

Caregiver deaths and serious incidents ... Chase 173–74; VanderBurg 173–74

Inspection of accommodations ... MacDonald 588

Programs and services ... Hinman 255

Programs and services, funding from supplementary supply ... Anderson 86; Hehr 84, 86; Horner 150; MacDonald 85–86; Notley 84–85; Swann 150; VanderBurg 84–86

Persons with disabilities

[See also Continuing care strategy; Man in Motion 25th anniversary relay]

Caregiver funding, correspondence on ... Swann 116

Employer awards ... Quest 297

Employment opportunities See Goodwill Industries of Alberta

Employment supports See Income support programs

Programs and services ... Hehr 33, 34–35; Swann 34

Pest control

See Pine beetles – Control

Peter Lougheed hospital

Bed availability ... Swann 67

Petitions presented

Highway 1 route ... Doerksen 16

Legislation re grandparents' rights ... Chase 328

Request for Dept. of Environment and Foothills MD refusal of BFI Canada/Prairie Sky Resource Centre application for waste landfill site ... Groeneveld 69

Petrochemicals industry

Industry incentives ... Horner 581; Prins 581

NOVA Chemicals Corporation/Williams Feedstock

Supply partnership ... Morton 581; Prins 581

Pharmaceutical industry

See Alberta Innovates: Health Solutions, Memorandum of understanding with Pfizer Canada; Cancer – Diagnosis and treatment: Drug shortage; Drugs, prescription

Pharmacists

Scope of practice ... Horne 63, 368, 375, 380; Jablonski 63; Speech from the Throne 2

Pharmacists (continued)

Transition funding re lower generic drug prices ... Horne 63; Jablonski 63

Pharmacists – Rural areas

Programs and services for pharmacists ... Horne 63, 368; Jablonski 63

Physicians

[See also Alberta Medical Association; Patient advocacy by physicians]

Accreditation of internationally trained physicians ... Swann 372, 375

Compensation and development funding ... Forsyth 377; Horne 367–68, 377; Mason 378

Family physicians ... Horne 605; Lukaszuk 282;

Redford 665–66; Sherman 276, 665; Swann 605

Internal hotline ... Horne 63; Swann 63

Services agreement ... Blakeman 230; Forsyth 105, 377; Horne 63, 170, 230, 290, 320, 322, 377, 605; Horner 170, 724–25; Liepert 212–13; Mason 212–13, 321, 378; Sherman 170; Swann 63, 290, 320, 604–5, 724–25

Services agreement, Alberta Medical Association president's January letter to members on ... Horne 63; Swann 63

Services agreement, minister's letter to physicians on ... Horne 290; Swann 290

Physicians – Rural areas

Rural integrated community clerkship, member's statement on ... Lund 731

Pine beetles – Control

Castle-Crown and Bragg Creek areas ... Chase 31

Pipelines – Construction

Enbridge Northern Gateway project (proposed) ... Liepert 208; MacDonald 208; Redford 239–40, 251; Taft 164

TransCanada Keystone XL project ... Liepert 55; Redford 239–40, 251

TransCanada line, Cushing to Port Arthur ... Mitzel 290; Redford 290

PLC

See Parenting: Parent link centres

Points of order

Allegations against a member ... Chair 527, 749; Chase 749; Hancock 179, 749; Hinman 527; Horne 179–80; Lukaszuk 527; Speaker, The 180; Taft 179

Clarification (main estimates debate) ... Deputy Chair 331; Lukaszuk 331; Notley 331

Clarification (use of term “rescue”) ... Blakeman 566; Chase 566–67; Deputy Chair 566–67

Factual accuracy ... Deputy Chair 337; Hehr 337; Lukaszuk 337

Imputing motives ... Anderson 70–71, 237; Hancock 71, 237; Speaker, The 71, 237

Inflammatory language ... Chair 712; Hinman 712; Lukaszuk 712

Parliamentary language [See also Speaker – Statements: Parliamentary language]; Anderson 257, 676; Boutilier 610; Denis 257; Deputy Speaker 257, 676; Hancock 675–76; Hehr 675; Horner 610; Speaker, The 610

Referring to the absence of members ... Blakeman 675; Deputy Speaker 675; Hancock 674–75; Hinman 675

Relevance ... Berger 660; Blakeman 563–64, 660; Chair 244; Chase 558; Deputy Chair 558, 564, 660; Hancock 558, 563–64; Hinman 660; Ouellette 244; Sherman 244

Points of order (continued)

- Remarks off the record ... Berger 609–10; Speaker, The 610
- Speaking order in budget debate ... Acting Speaker, The (Mr. Zwozdesky) 122; Forsyth 122; Hancock 122
- Speaking time in Oral Question Period ... Hinman 763–64; Speaker, The 763–64
- Voting on amendments to bills ... Blakeman 765; Deputy Chair 765; Lukaszuk 765
- Withdrawal of point of order ... Anderson 764

Points of privilege

See Privilege

Police

[See also Law enforcement; Royal Canadian Mounted Police]

- Contract policing and policing oversight ... Denis 89; Notley 89

Political parties

- Chief Electoral Officer investigation of donations ... Anderson 759; Redford 759
- Funding of partisan activities ... Redford 8; Sherman 8

Population

- Increase ... Brown 75

Pore space (land), ownership of

See Carbon Capture and Storage Statutes Amendment Act, 2010 (Bill 24)

Postsecondary education

- [See also Apprenticeship training; Universities]
- Provincial strategy ... Lukaszuk 153; Rodney 23
- Retention of graduates ... Fawcett 672; Weadick 672
- Transition from high school ... Woo-Paw 184–85

Postsecondary education – Finance

- Cost to students ... Redford 599; Sherman 599

Postsecondary educational institutions

- [See also specific institutions]
- Donations to PC Party ... Horner 723, 724; Notley 724; Sherman 723
- Trade and technology institutes and colleges ... Speech from the Throne 2

Postsecondary educational institutions – Admissions (enrolment)

- Aboriginal students' participation rates ... Brown 62; Weadick 62–63
- Attraction and retention of students ... Fawcett 672; Weadick 672
- Participation rates ... Chase 30; Sherman 239
- Rural students' participation rates ... Brown 62; Weadick 62–63

Postsecondary educational institutions – Finance

- Auditor General's recommendations on financial controls ... Taft 582–83; Weadick 582–83
- Funding ... Blakeman 629; Liepert 54; Notley 590; Rodney 23; Speech from the Throne 2; Taft 66, 163; Weadick 66
- Knowledge infrastructure program (KIP) ... Taft 66; Weadick 66

Poverty

- [See also Child poverty]
- Financial costs ... Hehr 35; Redford 9; Swann 68; Taylor 9
- Reduction strategy [See also Social policy framework (proposed)]; Blakeman 44–45, 198; Hancock 9, 44–45, 198; Sarich 135; Taylor 9

Power, coal-produced

See Electric power plants: Coal-fired facilities

Power, electrical

See Electric power

Power plants, electric

See Electric power plants

Premier's Office

See Office of the Premier

Preschool programs

See Early childhood education

Prescription drugs

See Drugs, prescription

Prevention of Bullying Youth Committee

[See also Bullying]

- Members' statements ... Pastoor 178

Preventive medicine

See Health and wellness

Primco Dene LP

See Cold Lake First Nation

Privacy Commissioner

See Information and Privacy Commissioner, office of the

Privacy impact assessments

- Internet service provider retention of records ... Denis 48; Woo-Paw 48

Privacy services (government department)

See Dept. of Service Alberta

Private members' bills

See Bills, private members' public (current session)

Private schools

- American student enrolment ... Hehr 347
- Faith-based schools ... Hehr 669; Lukaszuk 669
- Funding ... Hehr 158–59, 195, 231, 292–93, 346–47, 394–95, 578–79, 669; Lukaszuk 195, 231, 292–93, 331, 346–47, 394–95, 578–79, 669; Redford 666; Sherman 666
- Legislative provisions ... Mason 405
- Registration/accreditation See Education Act (Bill 2): Committee, amendment A8
- Transparency and accountability ... Hehr 195, 231, 394–95; Lukaszuk 195, 231, 394–95

Privatization

- Provincial strategy ... Chase 691; Mason 29, 690–91

Privilege

- Obstructing a member in performance of duty [See also Schools – Construction – Airdrie: Alternative financing models, minister's remarks during teleconference]; Anderson 676–78; Blakeman 678–79; Deputy Speaker 733–34; Hancock 681; Lukaszuk 679–81; Notley 679

Privileges and Elections, Standing Orders and Printing, Committee on

See Committee on Privileges and Elections, Standing Orders and Printing, Standing

Probation, pilot projects

See Safe Communities Resource Centre

Productivity Alberta

- Programs and services ... Horner 669; Leskiw 669

Progressive Conservative Party of Alberta

- Benefit trust plan, tax credits re ... MacDonald 10; Redford 10
- Donations, investigation of ... Horner 723; Sherman 723
- Donations to leadership candidates ... MacDonald 447, 512–13; Morton 513; Redford 446, 447, 754; Sherman 445–46, 754

Progressive Conservative Party of Alberta (continued)

- Donations to leadership candidates, member's statement on ... MacDonald 454
- Donations to leadership candidates, questions disallowed ... Speaker, The 447
- Executive appointments ... Dallas 507; Hinman 507
- History of party ... Chase 30
- Use of campaign funds ... Swann 504

Property rights

- See Alberta Bill of Rights (Property Rights Protection) Amendment Act, 2012 (Bill 201); Freehold lands

Property rights advocate (proposed)

- Alberta Surface Rights Group response ... MacDonald 657–58
- General remarks ... Jablonski 309; Olson 302
- Mandate ... Drysdale 194–95, 759; MacDonald 650; McQueen 194–95; Redford 759

Property Rights Advocate Act (Bill 6)

- First reading ... McQueen 236
- Second reading ... Anderson 494–96, 497–98; Chase 496–97; Hinman 498–99; McQueen 404, 500; Morton 497, 499–500; Prins 404–5
- Committee ... Anderson 647–49; Berger 651–53, 655–57; Blakeman 645–47; Hinman 643–45, 653–55, 659–61; MacDonald 649–51, 657–59
- Third reading ... Leskiw 701, 702; Mason 702; Taft 701–2
- Royal Assent ... Lieutenant Governor of Alberta March 21, 2012 (outside of House sitting)
- General remarks ... Elniski 310; Hinman 311; Prins 575

Property Rights Task Force

- General remarks ... Berger 651; Doerksen 307; Jablonski 309; Speech from the Throne 3
- Membership ... Hancock 507; Hinman 507
- Public input ... Drysdale 194–95; Elniski 310; Hinman 192–93; McQueen 194–95; Olson 302; Redford 193
- Recommendations ... Drysdale 759; Hinman 653–55; MacDonald 649, 658–59; Prins 404–5; Redford 759

Property tax

- Exemptions (proposed) ... Griffiths 322; Snelgrove 322
- General remarks ... Anderson 630–31
- Revenue ... Anderson 694; Blakeman 72; Hinman 684

Property tax – Education levy

- Revenue to province ... Amery 604; Boutilier 577; Griffiths 577, 604; Horner 577
- Utilization of revenue ... Anderson 630–31; Blakeman 627–28

Property tax – Education levy – Calgary

- General remarks ... Amery 604; Griffiths 604

Property tax – Education levy – Red Deer

- News media reports ... Griffiths 113; Jablonski 113

Prosthetic devices

- See Alberta health care insurance plan: Supplemental benefits

Protection for Persons in Care Act

- Implementation ... Chase 761; Horne 575–76; Sherman 575; VanderBurg 761

Protection of Children Abusing Drugs Act

- Apprehension of children under ... Hancock 459

Protection of Children Abusing Drugs Amendment Act (Bill 6, 2009)

- Proclamation ... Hinman 436; Horne 293; Vandermeer 293

Protocol office

- Administration ... Redford 238

Provincial Advisory Committee on Tobacco

- General remarks ... Horne 616

Provincial campgrounds

- See Campgrounds, provincial

Provincial elections

- See Elections, provincial

Provincial income tax

- See Income tax, provincial

Provincial parks

- See Parks, provincial

Psychiatric and psychological services

- See Mental health services; Sexual assault centres: Counselling services

Public Accounts, Standing Committee on

- See Committee on Public Accounts, Standing

Public Affairs Bureau

- Advocacy role ... Redford 240, 242
- Funding ... Redford 238, 239, 242; Sherman 241, 245
- Performance measures ... Redford 244; Sherman 243–44
- Social media use ... Redford 242–43; Sherman 241

Public education

- See Education

Public guardian

- Advocacy role for persons with brain injuries ... Evans 68

Public health

- See Health and wellness; Immunization

Public Health Act

- Amendments (proposed) ... Horne 110–11; Notley 110–11

Public Health and Safety, Standing Committee on

- See Committee on Public Health and Safety, Standing

Public housing

- See Social housing

Public lands

- Revenue from lease sales [See also Energy industry: Land sales (leases)]; Liepert 218; MacDonald 218; Mason 213

Public lands – Fort McMurray area

- [See also Keyano College: Land trust]
- Release for sale ... Johnson 111; Leskiw 111

Public lands department

- See Dept. of Sustainable Resource Development

Public safety committee

- See Committee on Public Health and Safety, Standing

Public School Boards' Association

- Support for Bill 2, Education Act ... Lukaszuk 712

Public Security, Dept. of Solicitor General and

- See Dept. of Solicitor General and Public Security

Public service

- Deputy minister's salaries ... Notley 82; Olson 82
- Operational funding ... Horner 61–62; Redford 62; Snelgrove 61–62
- Pension administration ... Liepert 209–10, 212–13; MacDonald 209–10
- Pension administration, investment performance ... Liepert 600; Sherman 600
- Performance measures ... Snelgrove 124; Swann 122–23
- Wages and salaries ... Liepert 212; Mason 212

Public transportation

GreenTRIP incentives program ... Danyluk 79–80; Hehr 80; Hinman 27; Liepert 217; Taft 79
 GreenTRIP incentives program, funding from supplementary supply ... Horner 150

Public transportation – Calgary

GreenTRIP incentives program ... Danyluk 80

Public transportation – Edmonton

GreenTRIP incentives program ... Danyluk 79–80; Taft 79

Public transportation services

See Dept. of Transportation

Public works

See Capital projects

Pulp and paper industry – Whitecourt

Impact of electric power prices ... MacDonald 91

QQuestion Period

See Oral Question Period

Quikcard Edmonton Minor Hockey Week

See Davis, Vern

RRace discrimination

See International Day for the Elimination of Racial Discrimination

RAH

See Royal Alexandra hospital

RAM

See Royal Alberta Museum

Ranching

See Family farms: Century farm and ranch awards

Random Acts of Kindness Week

Members' statements ... Pastoor 178

RCMP

See Royal Canadian Mounted Police

Reclamation of land

See Sand and gravel mining: Extraction management

Records management services (government department)

See Dept. of Service Alberta

Recreation, Dept. of Tourism, Parks and

See Dept. of Tourism, Parks and Recreation

Recreation industries

See Culture Forum 2012; Parks, provincial; Tourism

Recreational trails – Bragg Creek area

Impact of logging on ... DeLong 66; Oberle 66–67

Red Deer – Children's charities

See Children's charities – Red Deer

Red Deer – Finance

See Lottery fund: Allocation of funds

Red Deer – Health care system

See Cancer – Diagnosis and treatment – Red Deer

Red Deer – History

See Alberta – History: Red Deer history

Red Deer College

See Hockey – Red Deer

REDress project

See Aboriginal peoples: Missing women

Refugees

See Immigrants

Regional health authority, single/province-wide

See Alberta Health Services (authority)

Registered nurses

See Nurses

Registered Nurses of Alberta, College and Association of

See College and Association of Registered Nurses of Alberta

Registry services

Licences and fees ... Blakeman 72

Regulatory Review Secretariat

Transfer to Executive Council ... Redford 238, 239, 241–42; Sherman 241

Religious beliefs, government services' allowance for

See Funeral industry: Provincial contracts

Religious schools

See Private schools

Rendez-vous de la Francophonie, Les

Members' statements ... Brown 356–57

Rent supplement program

See Housing

Reports presented by standing and special committees

Main estimates and business plan 2012-13, Standing Committee on Community Development reports under Standing Order 59.01(7): depts. of Culture and Community Services, Municipal Affairs, and Tourism, Parks and Recreation ... Chase 479

Main estimates and business plan 2012-13, Standing Committee on Education reports under Standing Order 59.01(7): Dept. of Advanced Education and Technology ... Pastoor 479

Main estimates and business plan 2012-13, Standing Committee on Energy reports under Standing Order 59.01(7): depts. of Agriculture and Rural Development, Energy, Environment and Water, Intergovernmental, International and Aboriginal Relations ... Blakeman 479

Main estimates and business plan 2012-13, Standing Committee on Finance reports under Standing Order 59.01(7): depts. of Infrastructure, Service Alberta, Transportation, and Treasury Board and Enterprise ... Renner 479

Main estimates and business plan 2012-13, Standing Committee on Public Health and Safety reports under Standing Order 59.01(7): depts. of Justice and Attorney General, Seniors, and Solicitor General and Public Security ... Taft 479

Public Accounts Committee ... MacDonald 270

Request for emergency debate

See Emergency debates under Standing Order 30

Research and development

[See also Alberta Innovates; Coal: Coal gasification; Corporations – Taxation: Tax credits; Medical research; Universities: Conflict of interest guidelines]

Agricultural research [See also Crop Diversification Centre South; University of Alberta. Faculty of Agriculture]; Berger 397; Doerksen 397

Facilities, funding for ... Liepert 54

Funding, Premier's remarks on ... Taft 66; Weadick 66

Provincial strategy ... Speech from the Throne 2

Recruitment and retention of professionals ... Hinman 27

Tax credits for scientific research ... Liepert 54

Resource development department

See Dept. of Energy

Resource development department, sustainable

See Dept. of Sustainable Resource Development

Resources, renewable

See Agriculture; Forest industries

Respect Group Inc.

See Kennedy, Sheldon

Results-based Budgeting Act (Bill 1)

First reading ... Redford 4

Second reading ... Anderson 37–38, 96; Boutillier 35–37; Chase 32–33, 37; Hehr 33–35; Hinman 99–101; Horner 31–32; MacDonald 96–97; Notley 97–99; Redford 31; Swann 34–35

Committee ... Forsyth 129–31; Hancock 127; Hehr 126–27, 131–32; Hinman 126–28, 132–34; Kang 128–29; Swann 124–26, 160–61

Committee, amendment A1 (mandatory 1-year review) (defeated) ... Hancock 127; Hehr 126–27; Hinman 126–28; Kang 128–29; Swann 125–26

Third reading ... Allred 165; Denis 164–65

Royal Assent ... Lieutenant Governor of Alberta March 5, 2012 (outside of House sitting)

Revenue

Fluctuations in revenue ... Chase 33; Hehr 34; Hinman 26; Liepert 53; MacDonald 186; Notley 76; Sherman 24

Forecasts ... Chase 74–75; Fawcett 147–48; Liepert 53, 202, 206, 207; MacDonald 207; Morton 147–48

Nonrenewable resource revenue [See also Budget process: Revenue/costs forecasts used; Energy industry]; Anderson 629–31; Blakeman 72; Chase 30; Doerksen 449; Hehr 15, 252, 687–88; Liepert 55–56, 207, 215, 449; MacDonald 207, 631–32; Mason 213; Sherman 239; Speech from the Throne 2; Swann 704; Taft 705; Taylor 215

Nonrenewable resource revenue, Auditor General's recommendations on reporting ... Chase 33

Sources of revenue [See also Gaming (gambling); Property tax; Tax policy]; Blakeman 72; Chase 682; Fawcett 22

Rick Hansen Foundation

[See also Man in Motion 25th anniversary relay]

Funding ... Quest 418; Weadick 418

Right of property

See Freehold lands

Ring roads – Calgary

Funding ... Liepert 55

Ring roads – Edmonton

See Anthony Henday Drive

Ringenoldus, Isabell

See Aboriginal peoples {--}<--> Economic development: Aboriginal woman entrepreneur award

Road construction

Funding ... Danyluk 64; Kang 63–64

Project scheduling ... Danyluk 48–49; Kang 48–49

Road construction – Calgary

Evanston community access roads ... Brown 452–53; Danyluk 453

Road safety

See Traffic safety

Roads

See specific highways

Robocall incident

See Elections, provincial: Fraud prevention

Rocky Mountain House (town) – Finance

See Lottery fund: Allocation of funds

Rocky Mountain House (town) – Health care system

See Physicians – Rural areas

Rockyview hospital

Psychiatric beds ... Swann 373

Royal Alberta Museum

Redevelopment ... Anderson 592; Liepert 55

Royal Alexandra hospital

Emergency services ... Horne 43, 141, 379; Mason 43, 141, 378

Suicide of patient ... Sherman 276

Royal Canadian Artillery Band

History of band ... Speaker, The 1

Royal Canadian Mounted Police

Memorial tribute to four officers killed near Mayerthorpe, member's statement on ... Lindsay 227

Royal Style and Titles Act

General remarks ... Speaker, The 4

Royal visits

See Legislative Assembly of Alberta: Royal visits

Royalties

See Bitumen – Royalties; Gas, natural – Royalties

Royalty structure (energy resources)

[See also Budget process: Revenue/costs forecasts used]

Provincial strategy ... Blakeman 72; DeLong 76–77; Liepert 213–14; Mason 213–14; Notley 589

Review (proposed) ... Notley 76

Use of corporate information as basis for, Auditor General remarks on ... Chase 33

RRAP (residential rehabilitation assistance program)

See Health care system: Rehabilitation care

RRO

See Electric power – Prices: Regulated-rate option

Rulings of the chair

See Chair – Rulings

Rulings of the Speaker

See Speaker – Rulings

Rural communities – Education

See Education – Finance: Funding for rural boards; Postsecondary educational institutions – Admissions (enrolment): Rural students' participation rates

Rural communities – Health care system

See Health care system – Rural areas; Pharmacists – Rural areas; Physicians – Rural areas

Rural communities – Public utilities

See Electric power – Retail sales: Rural consumers

Rural communities – Technology

See Internet: Rural access to high-speed service

Rural Development, Dept. of Agriculture and

See Dept. of Agriculture and Rural Development

Rural municipalities

See Alberta Association of Municipal Districts and Counties

SSafe communities initiative

Bridging funding ... Calahasen 362; Olson 362

Funding for community-based mental health and addictions services ... Horne 373

Pilot projects ... Calahasen 362; Olson 362

Relation to restorative justice program ... Brown 607; Olson 607

Safe Communities Resource Centre

Services provided ... Fritz 294; Olson 294

Safer Internet Day

Members' statements ... Woo-Paw 148

Safety

See Farm safety; Housing – Rental housing: Health and safety standards; Traffic safety; Workplace health and safety

Safety Codes Act

Amendments (proposed) ... Blakeman 324; Griffiths 324

Enforcement, training of safety codes officers ... Blakeman 324; Griffiths 324

Saher, Merwan

See Auditor General

St. Albert and Sturgeon Valley School DistrictsEstablishment Act (Bill 4)

First reading ... Lukaszuk 236

Second reading ... Allred 482–84; Anderson 484–85; Chase 484–87; Hancock 486–88; Hehr 481–82;

Hinman 486; Lukaszuk 403–4, 481, 488; Mason 484
Committee ... Blakeman 633–35

Third reading ... Hancock 697; Taft 697–98

Royal Assent ... Lieutenant Governor of Alberta March 21, 2012 (outside of House sitting)

St. Albert Protestant separate school division

Replacement of board ... Lukaszuk 403–4

St. Paul – Finance

See Lottery fund: Allocation of funds

SAIT

See Southern Alberta Institute of Technology

Sales tax

Provincial strategy ... Denis 73

Saline Creek, Fort McMurray

See Keyano College: Land trust

Sand and gravel mining

Extraction management ... Blakeman 607, 757–58; McQueen 757–58; Oberle 607

Sawridge First Nation

See Wildfires – Slave Lake

School Act

Curriculum provisions ... DeLong 232; Lukaszuk 232

General remarks ... Bhardwaj 112; Lukaszuk 112, 115; Morton 548–49; Renner 525

School boards and districts

[See also Education; St. Albert and Sturgeon Valley School Districts Establishment Act; specific boards]

Capital plans ... Anderson 340–41; Lukaszuk 339–40

Financial decision-making ... Blakeman 408, 628; Hehr 334–35; Lukaszuk 334–35; MacDonald 408

Francophone board trustees See Education Act (Bill 2): Committee, amendment A8

Natural person powers ... Lukaszuk 153; Notley 409; Swann 154

Publicly available information ... Hehr 331; Lukaszuk 330–31

Staff wages and salaries ... Chase 683

School councils association

See Alberta School Councils' Association

School divisions , creation of

See Education Act (Bill 2): Committee, amendment A8

School fees (elementary and secondary)

Local decision-making ... Hehr 142–43; Lukaszuk 143

School fees (elementary and secondary) (continued)

Provincial strategy ... Blakeman 563–64; Chase 558–59, 561–63; DeLong 394; Hancock 560–61; Hehr 268, 335, 557–58, 561; Hinman 561; Lukaszuk 268, 335, 394, 560, 563; Mason 29, 405–6; Notley 410; Redford 666; Sherman 24, 25, 666; Swann 154, 559–60; Taft 155–56

School board use of collection agencies ... Hehr 726; Lukaszuk 726, 756; Redford 756; Sherman 755–56

School groups, introduction of

See Introduction of Guests (school groups, individuals)

School improvement, Alberta initiative for

See Alberta initiative for school improvement

School tax

See Property tax – Education levy

Schoolchildren

Enforcement of attendance ... Forsyth 257

Schoolchildren – Transportation

Bus route planning ... Redford 758; Zwozdesky 758

Definition of walking distance ... Notley 409

Funding ... Liepert 54; Lukaszuk 346

Funding for rural boards ... Chase 177; Lukaszuk 177

Pilot projects on ride times and in-bus Wi-Fi ... Lukaszuk 330

Schools

Class size ... Hehr 159; Lukaszuk 346; Notley 76, 350

Community role ... Kang 580–81; Lukaszuk 580–81; Notley 409

Portable use ... Johnson 729; Kang 729; Lukaszuk 339–40

School closures ... Blakeman 408; Johnson 449; Kang 449, 580–81; Lukaszuk 449, 581, 604; MacDonald 183–84, 408; Notley 409, 604

Shared spaces See Education Act (Bill 2): Committee, amendment A8

Support services ... Notley 349

Technology use ... Lukaszuk 153, 331

Wraparound service provision (proposed) ... Lukaszuk 345–46

Schools – Bonnyville

Dr. Bernard Brosseau school students' participation in education consultation ... Leskiw 114

Schools – Calgary

Evanston community ... Brown 512; Lukaszuk 512

Health service provision ... Cao 51

Louise Dean school, supports for pregnant and parenting teens ... Hancock 456

Repurposing of schools See cSPACE projects

Schools – Construction

Funding ... Anderson 93–94; Liepert 54; Lukaszuk 331; Notley 590

Innovative designs ... Johnson 449; Kang 449

Long-term planning ... Hehr 345; Lukaszuk 345–46

Playground development ... Bhardwaj 112; Lukaszuk 112

Project scheduling ... Anderson 94; Chase 683; Hinman 684; MacDonald 94; Redford 758; Zwozdesky 758

Project scheduling, publication of production list ... Anderson 339–42, 350–52; Lukaszuk 339–42, 351–53

Provincial strategy ... Anderson 157; Johnson 420; Kang 145, 419–20; Lukaszuk 145, 338, 420

Public-private partnerships (P3) (ASAP initiative) ... Johnson 111, 398–99, 420, 729; Kang 111, 398–99, 419–20, 729; Lukaszuk 330

School board requests for funding ... Anderson 293–94, 667; Lukaszuk 293–94; Redford 667

Schools – Construction – Airdrie

Alternative financing models, minister's remarks during teleconference ... Anderson 667; Hinman 671; Horner 671; Lukaszuk 671; Redford 667

Schools – Construction – Calgary

New schools ... Brown 512; Lukaszuk 512

Schools – Construction – Edmonton

General remarks ... Hancock 692
Summerside school ... Bhardwaj 112; Lukaszuk 112

Schools – Construction – Lac La Biche

Innovative designs ... Johnson 449; Kang 449

Schools – Curricula

See Education – Curricula

Schools – Edmonton

A. Blair McPherson school needs ... Lukaszuk 453–54; Zwozdesky 453–54
Arabic bilingual programs, member's statement on ... Sarich 59
Braemar school, supports for pregnant and parenting teenagers ... Bhardwaj 172; Hancock 172, 456
General remarks ... Xiao 608
Overcrowding in schools ... Johnson 729; Kang 729
Role in inner city renewal ... Kang 580–81; Lukaszuk 581
School closures ... Lukaszuk 604; Notley 604

Schools – Fort McMurray

Capacity issues ... Lukaszuk 339–40; MacDonald 184
General remarks ... Boutilier 187–88

Schools – Maintenance and repair

Deferred maintenance ... Hehr 268, 338; Lukaszuk 268, 338; Mason 406
Funding ... Johnson 111; Kang 111; Lukaszuk 330–31; Notley 590
Local responsibility ... Johnson 145; Kang 144–45; Lukaszuk 145
Older schools ... Johnson 449; Kang 449
School board requests for funding ... Anderson 293; Lukaszuk 294
Unfunded liability ... Chase 683

Schools – Maintenance and repair – Grimshaw

Advocacy to government ... Griffiths 358; Lukaszuk 358, 362–63; Notley 362–63; Sherman 357–58
General remarks ... Goudreau 146; Hehr 338; Johnson 111; Kang 111; Lukaszuk 146, 287, 292, 338; Notley 292; Sherman 287
Letter from Mr. Goudreau to school board ... Anderson 293; Lukaszuk 292, 293; Mason 289; Notley 292; Redford 287, 289; Sherman 287

Schools – Sherwood Park

Proximity to Heartland electric power transmission lines route ... Kang 269; Lukaszuk 269

Schools, charter

See Charter schools

Schools, private

See Private schools

SCI

See Safe communities initiative

Science, research and technology authority

See Alberta Innovates

Science and technology

See Technology commercialization

Scotties Tournament of Hearts women's curling championship

See Curling

Scrap Metal Dealers and Recyclers Identification Act (Bill 205)

First reading ... Quest 585

Second reading ... Quest 623; Sarich 624; Swann 623–24

Secretariat for Action on Homelessness, Alberta

See Alberta Secretariat for Action on Homelessness

Sendall, Kathleen

Members' statements ... Webber 400

Seniors

Advocate (proposed) ... Amery 13; VanderBurg 13
Aging population policy framework ... Jablonski 403
Continuum of care See Continuing care strategy: Continuum of care
Financial issues ... Hancock 9; Mason 9
Health care ... Redford 11, 42; Sherman 42; Swann 11
Provincial strategy ... Swann 504

Seniors – Fort McMurray

Meeting with provincial cabinet ministers ... Boutilier 16

Seniors – Housing

[See also Long-term care facilities (nursing homes/auxiliary hospitals); Supportive living accommodations]
Home adaptation program ... Blakeman 509; Griffiths 509
Provincial strategy ... Redford 11; Swann 11
Public vs. private residences ... Redford 42; Sherman 41–42
Supports to remain in own homes ... Speech from the Throne 2–3

Seniors – Housing – Bonnyville

Members' statements ... Leskiw 168–69
Senior's 103rd birthday celebration ... VanderBurg 143
Upgrades and addition of units ... Griffiths 143; Leskiw 143; VanderBurg 143

Seniors – Housing – Edmonton

Edmonton-Calder constituency area housing ... Elniski 51
Westlawn Courts residence, bedbug infestation ... Horne 323; Sherman 323
Westlawn Courts residence, condition of ... Griffiths 323; Sherman 323

Seniors – Housing – Strathmore

Sagewood seniors' residence, member's statement on ... Doerksen 608

Seniors, Dept. of

See Dept. of Seniors

Seniors Advisory Council

Recommendations... VanderBurg 13

Seniors' benefit program

Chiropractic services ... Horne 368
Drug benefits ... Amery 361; Forsyth 376; Horne 361, 377, 379–80; Mason 379; Swann 375
General remarks ... Amery 13; Blakeman 509; Chase 265; Griffiths 509; Notley 20; Redford 265; Rodney 23; Sherman 25, 239; VanderBurg 13
Members' statements ... Brown 505

Seniors' Property Tax Deferral Act (Bill 5)

First reading ... Jablonski 298

Second reading ... Anderson 493–94; Boutilier 490; Chase 489–90; Forsyth 488–89; Hinman 491–94; Jablonski 403; Lukaszuk 492; Lund 492–93; Mason 490–91; Pastoor 491; Taft 488

Seniors' Property Tax Deferral Act (Bill 5) (continued)

- Committee ... Blakeman 635–36, 639–40; Jablonski 640–41; MacDonald 641–43; Notley 638–39; Pastoor 637–38; Snelgrove 636–37
- Third reading ... Brown 700; Hancock 699–700; Hayden 700; Jablonski 698, 701; Pastoor 699; Rogers 700; Swann 698–99
- Royal Assent ... Lieutenant Governor of Alberta March 21, 2012 (outside of House sitting)
- Determination of interest rate and home value ... Hinman 491–92, 494; Quest 757; Redford 757; Swann 698
- Eligibility criteria ... Anderson 493–94; Forsyth 489; Hinman 491–92; Jablonski 698
- Purpose of bill... Quest 757; Redford 757

Separate school districts

- Constitutional guarantees re ... MacDonald 184
- Establishment process ... Swann 154
- Funding ... Lukaszuk 329–30

Sequestration of carbon dioxide

- See Carbon capture and storage*

Service Alberta, Dept. of

- See Dept. of Service Alberta*

Sexual abuse

- See Child abuse*

Sexual abuse, advocacy re

- See Kennedy, Sheldon*

Sexual assault centres

- Counselling services ... Hancock 579; Horne 580; Swann 579–80

Sexual orientation/identity

- Bullying of individuals based on ... Mason 406
- Constitutional and legal protections [See also Canadian Charter of Rights and Freedoms]; Blakeman 516, 517, 565, 646
- Educational curricula See Education – Curricula: Content re sexual orientation; Education Act (Bill 2); Committee, amendment A3
- Use in medical diagnostic billing codes ... Blakeman 230–31; Horne 230–31

SFI (supports for independence program)

- See Income support programs*

Shale gas extraction

- See Hydraulic fracturing*

Sheldon M. Chumir Foundation for Ethics in Leadership

- General remarks ... Notley 722

Sheriffs

- See Peace officers*

Sherwood Park – Education

- See Schools – Sherwood Park*

Sherwood Park – Health care system

- See Health facilities: Infrastructure funding*

Slave Lake – Construction

- See Housing – Slave Lake; Infrastructure – Slave Lake*

Slave Lake – Health care system

- See Health care system – Slave Lake*

Slave Lake – Finance

- See Lottery fund: Allocation of funds*

Slave Lake – Wildfire

- See Wildfires – Slave Lake*

Slot machines

- See Gaming (gambling)*

Smoking

- See Tobacco Reduction (Protection of Children in Vehicles) Amendment Act, 2012; Tobacco use*

Social enterprise

- Members' statements ... Fawcett 584

Social housing

- [See also Affordable housing]

- Repair and maintenance ... Griffiths 143; Leskiw 143; VanderBurg 143

Social media

- See Public Affairs Bureau: Social media use; Safer Internet Day*

Social policy framework (proposed)

- General remarks ... Blakeman 44–45; Hancock 9–10, 44–45, 456, 461, 464; Swann 463; Taylor 9–10

Social security

- See Pension plans: Federal plans*

Social services

- See Alberta Supports; Health care system – Delivery models: Integration with community services*

Social services – Edmonton

- See Catholic Women's League, Edmonton diocese*

Social workers

- [See also National Social Work Week]

- Professional standards ... Swann 460

- Supports for ... Hancock 396; Pastoor 395–96

Solar energy

- Provincial strategy ... Taylor 217

Solicitor General and Public Security, Dept. of

- See Dept. of Solicitor General and Public Security*

South Calgary health centre

- Acute-care beds ... Horne 380

- Funding ... Horne 367, 368

- General remarks ... Ady 145; Horne 145; Johnson 145; Liepert 54

- Programs and services ... Liepert 54

- Psychiatric beds ... Swann 373

- Staffing ... Forsyth 376; Horne 372, 378; Swann 372

South Saskatchewan regional plan (land-use framework)

- Recommendations ... Notley 47; Oberle 47

- Status of plan ... Chase 673; Oberle 673

South Saskatchewan River basin

- Water licence transfers, publication of ... Blakeman 451; McQueen 451–52

Southern Alberta Institute of Technology

- Trades and technology complex ... Liepert 54

Speaker

- Final question period ... Speaker, The 762

- Retirement of current Speaker ... Anderson 764; Bhullar 758; Hehr 34, 756; Kang 758; Liepert 52; MacDonald 762–63; Speaker, The 762; Zwozdesky 758

Speaker – Rulings

- [See also Points of order]

- Decorum ... Speaker, The 601

- First reading of bills ... Speaker, The 115

- Questions about media reports ... Speaker, The 113

Speaker – Statements

- 40th anniversary of Alberta Hansard and broadcasting ... Speaker, The 389

- Anniversary of the First Session of the Legislative Assembly ... Speaker, The 583

- Calendar of special events, February 2012 ... Speaker, The 149

Speaker – Statements (continued)

- Calendar of special events, March 2012 ... Speaker, The 366–67
- Member for Little Bow 20th Anniversary of Election ... Speaker, The 285
- Members' anniversaries of election ... Deputy Speaker 673; Speaker, The 389, 424
- Oral Question Period questions about the budget ... Speaker, The 67
- Parliamentary language ... Speaker, The 201
- Queen Elizabeth II's Diamond Jubilee ... Speaker, The 4
- Private members' public bills ... Speaker, The 514, 586
- Rotation of questions and members' statements ... Speaker, The 7
- Tablets and other electronic devices in the Chamber ... Speaker, The 722

Special needs, persons with

- See Children with disabilities; Persons with developmental disabilities; Persons with disabilities*

Special-needs education

- Funding model ... Lukaszuk 330, 342–44, 348–50; Notley 343–44, 347–50; Redford 758; Zwozdesky 758
- Programs ... Anderson 93, 156–57; Blakeman 410; Boutilier 187; Liepert 54; Lukaszuk 342–43; Notley 343–44, 410–11, 590
- Programs for gifted children ... Lukaszuk 343

Special Olympics Canada Winter Games

- Members' statements ... Campbell 355–56

Speech from the Throne

- Address given ... Lieutenant Governor of Alberta 1–3
- Consideration on February 8, 2012, motion on (carried) ... Redford 4
- General remarks ... Redford 7; Sherman 7
- Motion to consider (Fawcett/Rodney) ... Fawcett 21–23; Rodney 23–24
- Motion to consider (Fawcett/Rodney), addresses in reply (Government Motion 10) ... Anderson 93–94; Chase 30–31; Forsyth 159–60; Hehr 95–96; Hinman 25–28; Kang 135–36; MacDonald 91–93; Mason 28–30; Sarich 134–35; Sherman 24–25; Swann 161–63; Taft 163–64
- Motion to consider (Fawcett/Rodney), addresses in reply (questions and comments) ... Allred 29–30; MacDonald 94; Mason 25; Swann 27–28; VanderBurg 92
- Motion to consider, addresses in reply (Government Motion 10) ... Hancock 348; Redford 348
- Overview ... Fawcett 21–22; Redford 237–38, 245
- Wording ... Forsyth 159–60; Taft 163, 164

Spinal cord injury research

- See Medical research*

Sports

- [See also Alberta Winter Games (Stony Plain 2012); Arctic Winter Games 2012; Commonwealth Games (Edmonton 1978); Curling; Hockey]
- Children's sports, funding for ... Sherman 245

Spray Lakes Sawmills

- See Forest industries – Bragg Creek area: Logging activities; Forest industries – Castle-Crown area*

Squatter rights

- See Land Statutes (Abolition of Adverse Possession) Amendment Act, 2012 (Bill 204)*

SRD

- See Dept. of Sustainable Resource Development*

Stabilization fund

- See Alberta sustainability fund*

Standing Orders

- [See also Emergency debates under Standing Order 30]
- Provisions for budget debates ... Hancock 20–21

Standing votes

- See Divisions (recorded votes) (current session)*

Stepping Stones Triple P parenting program

- See Children with disabilities: Parenting programs*

Strathmore

- See Highway 1: Petition presented re route*

Student financial aid (postsecondary students)

- Loan eligibility criteria ... Brown 62; Weadick 62–63
- Loan forgiveness (proposed) ... Redford 599; Sherman 599
- Persons Case scholarships ... Tarchuk 390
- Persons Case scholarships, member's statement on ... Zwozdesky 318–19
- Provincial strategy ... Fawcett 672; Sherman 245; Weadick 672

Student testing (elementary and secondary students)

- Provincial achievement tests ... Anderson 157; Mason 406
- Provincial achievement tests, student exemption from ... Blakeman 766; Hehr 756–57; Lukaszuk 756–57

Sturgeon school division

- See St. Albert and Sturgeon Valley School Districts Establishment Act*

Subsidized housing

- See Affordable housing; Social housing*

Substance abuse and addiction

- [See also Fetal alcohol spectrum disorder; Impaired driving]
- Dept. of Health and Wellness responsibility ... Liepert 203–4; MacDonald 203
- Funding ... Forsyth 377; Liepert 54
- General remarks ... Webber 169
- Programs and services ... Horne 368, 373
- Treatment beds ... Horne 377

Substance abuse and addiction – Calgary

- See Safe Communities Resource Centre*

Suicide

- Royal Alexandra hospital patient ... Sherman 276
- Underlying factors ... MacDonald 203

Sundre – Health care

- See Physicians – Rural areas*

Supernault, Roseanne

- See Film and television industry: American Indian Film Festival awards, member's statement on*

SuperNet

- See Alberta SuperNet*

Supplementary estimates

- Procedural items are under Estimates of Supply (government expenditures)*
- Supplementary estimates 2011–12, No. 2, debate ... Anderson 81–82, 86; Danyluk 79–80; Denis 79, 88–89; Griffiths 83–84, 89–90; Hancock 86–88, 89; Hayden 90; Hehr 80–84, 86, 89; MacDonald 82, 85–86, 88–90; Notley 82, 84–85, 87–89; Olson 80–82; Taft 79, 83, 87, 89; VanderBurg 84–86
- Use of See Budget process: Use of supplementary supply

Supportive living accommodations

- Lodges ... Forsyth 376
- Private vs. public facilities ... Chase 450; Horne 448; Mason 447–48; Redford 448; VanderBurg 450
- Requests for proposals and supporting documentation for (Motion for a Return M4/12: defeated) ... Horne 613; Swann 613
- Resident health, comparison to long-term care facilities ... Chase 450; Horne 447–48; Mason 447–48; Redford 448; VanderBurg 450
- Standards enforcement ... Chase 450; VanderBurg 450

Supportive living accommodations, affordable

- Affordable supportive living initiative ... Horne 386; Notley 84; VanderBurg 84
- Nonprofit lodges and long-term care ... Sherman 25

Supports for independence program

- See Income support programs

Supreme Court of Canada

- Decisions on compensation for provincial judges and masters in chambers See Judicial Compensation Commission (2009)
- Decisions on human rights ... Anderson 605–6; Olson 605–6

Surface Rights Act

- Review of act ... Doerksen 307; Drysdale 759; Redford 760

Surgery procedures

- Statistics ... Horne 382

Surgery procedures – Eye surgeries

- Cataract surgery, wait times for ... Mason 379

Surgery procedures – Joint surgeries

- Cost-benefit analysis ... Forsyth 376; Horne 377
- Wait times ... Forsyth 376; Mason 379

Surgery procedures – Thoracic surgery

- Departures of physicians (Dr. Tim Winton) ... Sherman 276

Sustainability fund

- See Alberta sustainability fund

Sustainable Resource Development, Dept. of

- See Dept. of Sustainable Resource Development

Sylvan Lake – Health care system

- See Health care system – Rural areas

Syngas

- See Coal: Coal gasification

Synthetic crude – Royalties

- See Bitumen – Royalties

TTabling Returns and Reports (procedure)

- Tablings are available on the Legislative Assembly website (<http://www.assembly.ab.ca>) under Assembly Documents and Records
- Repeated tabling of documents, Speaker's remarks on ... Speaker, The 271

Tar sands development

- See Oil sands development

Tax on income, provincial

- See Income tax, provincial

Tax on property

- See Property tax

Tax policy

- [See also Corporations – Taxation; Income tax, provincial; Property tax; Sales tax]
- Comparison with other jurisdictions ... Blackett 77–78; Blakeman 72; Denis 73

Tax policy (continued)

- Flat tax rate, replacement with progressive tax (Motion Other than Government Motion 501: defeated) ... Blackett 77–78; Blakeman 71–73, 78; Brown 75; Chase 74–75; DeLong 76–77; Denis 73–74; Notley 75–76
- Flat tax rate vs. progressive rate ... Chase 33, 74, 222; Denis 73–74; Hehr 34; Mason 29; Notley 75–76
- General remarks ... Anderson 8–9, 60–61, 93, 144, 210–11, 249–50, 630–31; Bhardwaj 670; Blakeman 72, 627–28; Boutilier 171, 321; Griffiths 144; Hehr 131, 296, 337–38, 453, 511, 581–82, 688–89; Hinman 26, 27, 684, 704–5; Horner 144, 171, 321, 581–82; Liepert 55–56, 206, 210–11, 214, 423–24, 453, 511, 670; Lukaszuk 337; Mason 214–15, 690–91; Morton 144; Notley 589; Redford 7, 8–9, 59, 60–61, 250, 666, 761; Sherman 7, 24, 59, 245, 666; Swann 150–51, 703–5; Taft 423–24, 594, 705; Webber 761
- Review ... Fawcett 22

Teachers

- Pension plan ... Lukaszuk 330

Teachers – Edmonton

- See Elniski, Thom

Teachers – Education

- Training in special-needs education ... Lukaszuk 349–50; Notley 349–50, 410–11

Teachers – Supply

- Number in education system ... Hehr 109, 268, 333–34, 603; Lukaszuk 109, 268, 333–34, 335, 603–4; Mason 406

Teachers – Wages

- Contract negotiations ... Hehr 62, 109, 338; Leskiw 65–66; Lukaszuk 62, 65–66, 109, 338–39; Notley 350
- Funding ... Hehr 338, 603; Liepert 212–13; Lukaszuk 330, 338–39, 603–4; Mason 212–13; Notley 350

Teachers' Association

- See Alberta Teachers' Association

Technology, Dept. of Advanced Education and

- See Dept. of Advanced Education and Technology

Technology commercialization

- [See also Alberta Innovates: Technology Futures; Research and development]
- Provincial strategy ... Speech from the Throne 3

Temporary foreign workers

- Programs and services ... Bhullar 606; Hancock 326; Kang 606; Woo-Paw 326

Terra Foundation

- See Parenting: Teenaged mothers, programs and services for; Schools – Edmonton: Braemar school

Testing of students

- See Student testing

Throne Speech

- See Speech from the Throne

Timber harvesting

- See Forest industries

Tissue donation

- See Transplantation of organs, tissues, etc.

Tobacco Reduction (Protection of Children in Vehicles) Amendment Act, 2012 (Bill 203)

- First reading ... Sherman 69
- Second reading ... Allred 433–35; Griffiths 429–30; Hinman 435–36; MacDonald 432–33; Mitzel 430–31; Notley 431–32; Oberle 432; Quest 433; Sherman 427–28, 436
- Second reading, division ... 436

Tobacco Reduction (Protection of Children in Vehicles) Amendment Act, 2012 (Bill 203) (continued)

Committee ... Benito 614–15; Brown 621–22; Hancock 619–20; Horne 616–17; Klimchuk 618; Knight 617–18; Mitzel 615–16; Quest 620–21; Sherman 613–14, 620; Taft 619, 620; Xiao 614
 Committee, amendment A1 (replace “January 1, 2013” with “Proclamation”) (carried) ... Hancock 619–20; Sherman 620
 Third reading ... Sherman 623
 Royal Assent ... Lieutenant Governor of Alberta March 21, 2012 (outside of House sitting)
 Members’ statements ... Sherman 424–25
 Public response ... Horne 419; Sherman 419
 Schedule for debate, letter from Member for Strathcona to Speaker on ... Speaker, The 586
 Schedule for debate, Speaker’s statement on ... Speaker, The 514, 586

Tobacco use

Legislated restrictions, other jurisdictions ... Quest 433
 Prevention programs ... Mitzel 430–31; Notley 431–32
 Reduction strategy ... Horne 376, 419; Quest 433; Sherman 418–19; Swann 375
 Revenue to province ... Blakeman 72

Tom Baker Cancer Centre

Departure of former pathology laboratory director (Dr. Tony Magliocco) ... Anderson 318; Forsyth 191, 278; Hinman 27

Topolnisky, George (former MLA)

See Members of the Legislative Assembly: Memorial tribute to George Topolnisky, former MLA

Tourism

Industry in Alberta ... Chase 65; Hayden 65; Ouellette 250

Tourism, Parks and Recreation, Dept. of

See Dept. of Tourism, Parks and Recreation

Towns

See Cities and towns

Trade

See International offices; International trade

Trade, investment, and labour mobility agreement (Alberta-British Columbia)

Impact on government contract process ... Calahasen 323; Griffiths 323

Trade shows

See National Buyer/Seller Forum

Trade unions

General remarks ... Hancock 477

Trades

Employment of veterans See Veterans: Career and employment services
 Workforce incentives ... Hancock 478

Tradespeople – Education

See Apprenticeship training

Tradespeople – Supply

See Labour force planning

Traffic safety

[See also Trucking industry: Safety regulations]
 Distracted driving, member’s statement on ... Allred 261
 Farm worker transportation ... Danyluk 175, 421; Hancock 421; Swann 421

Traffic Safety Amendment Act, 2011 (Bill 26)

Implementation ... Anderson 196–97; Danyluk 10–11, 197, 365; Denis 196–97; Kang 365; Pastoor 10–11
 Members’ statements ... Pastoor 444–45

Traffic Safety Amendment Act, 2011 (Bill 26)

(continued)

Sanctions for blood-alcohol levels of .05 to .08 ... Anderson 196–97; Danyluk 197; Denis 196–97; Griffiths 429
 Sanctions for repeat offenders ... Danyluk 449; Woo-Paw 448–49

Training, apprenticeship

See Apprenticeship training

Tranquility Care Homes Inc.

Advertisement as long-term care facility ... Chase 602; VanderBurg 602–3
 Eviction of resident ... Chase 602–3; Horne 505–6, 507–8; Mason 507–8; Sherman 505–6; VanderBurg 602–3

TransAlta

See Progressive Conservative Party of Alberta: Donations to leadership candidates

TransCanada PipeLines

See Pipelines – Construction

Transit services

See Public transportation

Transplantation of organs, tissues, etc.

[See also Health and wellness: World Kidney Day]

Organ and tissue donation, member’s statement on ... Webber 259–60
 Organ and tissue registry (proposed) ... Horne 196, 384; Webber 196, 383
 Statistics on transplantation ... Horne 384; Webber 383

Transportation, Dept. of

See Dept. of Transportation

Transportation, public

See Public transportation

Transportation Coordinating Committee

See Oil sands development – Athabasca area: Transportation Coordinating Committee

Travel Alberta

Funding by hotel industry ... Chase 65; Hayden 65

Travel at public expense

See Dept. of Treasury Board and Enterprise: Minister’s provincial tour; Executive Council: Ministers’ provincial tour; Government caucus: Meeting in Jasper; Office of the Premier: Premier’s travel re energy industry

Treasury Board and Enterprise

See Dept. of Treasury Board and Enterprise

Treasury Branches (ATB Financial)

Oversight of ... Liepert 202

Trucking industry

Company safety records ... Danyluk 672; Kang 672
 Safety regulations ... Danyluk 672; Kang 671–72

Trucks, pickup

See Motor vehicles

Tuition and fees, postsecondary

Correspondence between Minister of Advanced Education and Technology and postsecondary institutions on fee payment policy (Motion for a Return M1/12: defeated) ... Taft 611–12; Weadick 611
 Mandatory noninstructional fees ... Bhardwaj 603; Taft 602; Weadick 602–3
 Provincial strategy ... Mason 29; Redford 599; Sherman 245, 599

Twitter

See Public Affairs Bureau: Social media use; Safer Internet Day

UU of A

See University of Alberta

U of C, research and awards

See Coal: Coal gasification; Fritzler, Dr. Marvin; Universities: Conflict of interest guidelines; Western Engineering Competition (Calgary 2012)

UCA

See Utilities Consumer Advocate

Underground water, mapping of

See Water management: Groundwater mapping

United Kingdom – History

[See also Elizabeth II, Queen: Diamond Jubilee]
Descendants of King Alfred the Great ... Speaker, The 4

United Nations observances

See International Adult Learners' Week; International Day for the Elimination of Racial Discrimination; International Mother Language Day; International Women's Day

Universities

Attraction and retention of graduate students ... Fawcett 672; Weadick 672
Conflict of interest guidelines ... Taft 363; Weadick 363

University of Alberta

Energy research See Coal: Coal gasification
Health sciences research See Medical research
Land expropriation ... Taft 301
Student awards See Western Engineering Competition (Calgary 2012)

University of Alberta. Faculty of Agriculture

Kinsella and St. Albert facilities ... Liepert 54

University of Alberta. Faculty of Rehabilitation Medicine

General remarks ... Speech from the Throne 1

University of Alberta health sciences ambulatory learning centre

See Edmonton Clinic Health Academy

University of Calgary

Energy research See Coal: Coal gasification
Medical research See Fritzler, Dr. Marvin
Student awards See Western Engineering Competition (Calgary 2012)

University of Cape Breton, research at

See Coal: Coal gasification

Upper Athabasca regional plan (land-use framework)

See Land-use framework: Industrial development in regions

Upper Peace regional plan (land-use framework)

See Land-use framework: Industrial development in regions

Urban Municipalities Association

See Alberta Urban Municipalities Association

Urban planning

See Cities and towns

Utilities Board

See Alberta Energy and Utilities Board

Utilities Commission, Alberta

See Alberta Utilities Commission

Utilities Consumer Advocate

General remarks ... Mason 61; Morton 61; Redford 140; Sherman 140

Utilities department

See Dept. of Energy

VVaccination

See Immunization

Vehicles

See Motor vehicles; Registry services; Traffic safety

Vermilion-Lloydminster (constituency)

Member's family, member's statement on ... Snelgrove 148

Staff, member's statement on Brenda Lee ... Snelgrove 732

Veterans

Career and employment services ... Allred 147; Weadick 147

Career and employment services, member's statement on ... Elniski 16

Rehabilitation services ... Speech from the Throne 1

Vibrant Communities Calgary

See Poverty: Financial costs

Video lottery terminals

See Gaming (gambling)

Villa Caritas

Repurposing as psychogeriatric facility ... Mason 379
Utilization of facility ... Horne 193; Mason 193

Villa Marie continuing care centre

See Continuing/extended care facilities – Red Deer

Villa Ouimet

See Seniors – Housing – Bonnyville

Visitors, introduction of

See Introduction of Visitors (visiting dignitaries)

Viterra Inc.

See Alberta Investment Management Corporation: Investment in Viterra

VLTs (video lottery terminals)

See Gaming (gambling); Oral Question Period (current session topics): Revenue from VLTs and slot machines

Voters, voting, etc.

See Elections, provincial

Vulnerable children

See Child welfare

Vulnerable persons, supports for

See Alberta Supports

WWages

Average weekly earnings index ... Brown 75

Wages – Health sciences professionals

See Health sciences professionals – Wages; Physicians – Wages

Wages – Judges

See Judges, provincial: Compensation

Wages – Teachers

See Teachers – Wages

Wages – Women

See Women's equality

Waste management

See Petitions presented: Request for Dept. of Environment and Foothills MD refusal of BFI Canada/Prairie Sky Resource Centre application for waste landfill site

Waste management – Oil sands area

Best practices ... Blakeman 234; Oberle 234–35

Water dept.

See Dept. of Environment and Water

Water licences

Approval process ... Blakeman 451; McQueen 451–52
 Provincial strategy on export ... Dallas 197; Kang 197

Water management

Aquifer protection ... Berger 656; Blakeman 607, 757–58; Chase 31; Hinman 660; McQueen 757–58; Oberle 607
 Conservation ... Blakeman 451; McQueen 451–52
 Groundwater mapping ... Blakeman 757; McQueen 757
 Research ... Liepert 54
 Statutory consents for water use ... Berger 652–53; Hinman 653

Water quality

Hydraulic fracturing guidelines ... Campbell 47

Water quality – Oil sands area

Monitoring ... Chase 31; Mason 28

Waterton national park

General remarks ... Chase 31

Watson, Peter

Members' statements ... Campbell 260

WCB

See Workers' Compensation Board

Welfare

See Alberta Supports; Income support programs

Wellness, Dept. of Health and

See Dept. of Health and Wellness

Wellness initiatives

See Health and wellness

Western Engineering Competition (Calgary 2012)

Members' statements ... Johnston 113–14

Wetlands

Reclamation projects ... McQueen 511; Notley 511

Wheat Board

See Canadian Wheat Board

Wildfires – Control

Methods used ... Chase 31

Wildfires – Prevention

FireSmart program ... Calahasen 323; Griffiths 323

Wildfires – Slave Lake

Recovery program ... Blakeman 291, 324; Calahasen 323; Griffiths 291, 323, 324; Jablonski 609
 Recovery program, funding from supplementary supply ... Griffiths 83; Horner 150; MacDonald 185; Taft 83

Wildlife

See also Bears; Castle-Crown wilderness area: Maps of wildlife den locations
 Carcass composting facility, Cardston county ... Lund 513; Oberle 513

Wildlife department

See Dept. of Sustainable Resource Development

Wildrose Party

[See also Opposition caucuses]

Coasters with message on impaired driving legislation ... Anderson 196
 Coasters with message on impaired driving legislation, inadmissibility for use in Chamber ... Speaker, The 196
 Fiscal policy ... Anderson 119–20; Hinman 100, 755; Redford 755

Wildwood – History

See Black History Month

Wilkinson, Neil R.

See Ethics Commissioner, office of the

Wills and Succession Amendment Act, 2011 (Bill 14)

Implementation ... Allred 14; Olson 14
 Proclamation ... Allred 14; Olson 14

Wolves

Wolf culling ... Blakeman 670; Oberle 670

Women's equality

[See also Aboriginal peoples: Missing women; International Women's Day; Student financial aid: Persons Case scholarships]
 Members' statements ... Notley 391

Wood Buffalo (municipality)

See Oil sands development – Athabasca area

Woodland caribou

See Caribou

Workers' compensation

Appeals process See Appeals Commission (workers' compensation)

Workers' Compensation Board

[See also Farm safety: Worker exclusion from workplace legislation]

Complaints ... Hancock 461

Contracts with health services providers ... Swann 461

Executive remuneration ... Boutilier 466; Hancock 466

Funding from supplementary supply ... Hancock 87

Supports for injured workers ... Hancock 461–62; Swann 461

Workers, protection for

See Employment and immigration agencies: Regulations

Workforce planning

See Labour force planning

Workplace health and safety

[See also Farm safety]

Labour legislation, compliance with United Nations conventions ... Hancock 174–75; Notley 174–75

Programs and services ... Boutilier 475–76; Hancock 475, 476

Workplace standards ... Hancock 456

World Consumer Rights Day

Members' statements ... Cao 583–84

X, Y, ZYMCA

Location in Calgary south health campus ... Horne 378

Youth Advocate

See Child and Youth Advocate, office of the Youth employment

See Employment: Entry-level positions

Youville long-term care centre, St. Albert

Long-term care ... Horne 505–6; Sherman 505–6

Zero-based budgeting

See Budget process

Acting Speaker, The (Zwozdesky, Gene)

- Points of order
- Speaking order in budget debate ... 122

Ady, Cindy (PC, Calgary-Shaw)

- Oil sands development – Environmental aspects
- Canadian Oil Sands Innovation Alliance ... 291–92
- Oral Question Period (current session topics)
- Canadian Oil Sands Innovation Alliance ... 291–92
- South Calgary health campus ... 145
- South Calgary health centre
- General remarks ... 145

Allred, Ken (PC, St. Albert)

- Alberta Act (1905)
 - Separate school provisions ... 483–84
- Alberta Health Services (authority)
 - Centralization of services ... 109
- Alberta School Act
 - Separate school provisions ... 483
- Canadian Charter of Rights and Freedoms
 - Religious freedom provisions ... 539
- Children with disabilities
 - Parenting programs ... 366
- Education – Curricula
 - Religious instruction ... 538
- Education Act (Bill 2)
 - Committee, amendment A1, subamendment SA1 (insertion of phrase “paramount right and responsibility” of parents) (defeated) ... 538–39
- Electric power
 - Service disruptions ... 29
- Electric power – Prices
 - Rates ... 29–30
- Emergency medical services (ambulances, etc.)
 - Centralization of services ... 109
- Emergency medical services (ambulances, etc.) – St. Albert
 - Centralization of services ... 109
- Freehold lands
 - Land registration, Torrens system ... 437
- Government agencies, boards, and commissions
 - 3-year review cycle ... 165
- Health care system – Delivery models
 - Family care clinics ... 327
 - Primary care networks ... 327
- Hospitals – Emergency services – Capacity issues
 - Wait times ... 109
- Introduction of Guests (school groups, individuals) ... 415, 444, 574, 720
- Land Statutes (Abolition of Adverse Possession)
 - Amendment Act, 2012 (Bill 204)
 - First reading ... 357
 - Second reading ... 436–38
- Land Titles Act
 - Amendments ... 437
- Law of Property Act
 - Provisions for improvements on land ... 437
- Matrimonial Property Act
 - Amendments ... 14
- Members’ Statements (current session)
 - Distracted driving ... 261
- Oral Question Period (current session topics)
 - Ambulance services in St. Albert ... 109
 - Family care clinics ... 327
 - Parent link centres ... 365–66
 - Trades opportunities for armed forces veterans ... 147
 - Wills and succession legislation ... 14
- Parenting
 - Parent link centres ... 365–66

Allred, Ken (PC, St. Albert) (continued)

- Results-based Budgeting Act (Bill 1)
 - Third reading ... 165
- St. Albert and Sturgeon Valley School Districts Establishment Act (Bill 4)
 - Second reading ... 482–84
- Speech from the Throne
 - Motion to consider (Fawcett/Rodney), addresses in reply (questions and comments) ... 29–30
- Tobacco Reduction (Protection of Children in Vehicles) Amendment Act, 2012 (Bill 203)
 - Second reading ... 433–35
- Traffic safety
 - Distracted driving, member’s statement on ... 261
- Veterans
 - Career and employment services ... 147
- Wills and Succession Amendment Act, 2011 (Bill 14)
 - Implementation ... 14
 - Proclamation ... 14

Amery, Moe (PC, Calgary-East)

- Assured income for the severely handicapped
 - Member’s statement ... 426
- Charter schools
 - Provincial strategy ... 422
 - Restrictions ... 199, 421–22
- Drugs, prescription
 - Seniors’ benefits ... 361
- Introduction of Guests (school groups, individuals) ... 367
- Introduction of Visitors (visiting dignitaries)
 - Dignitaries from Lebanon ... 389
- Members’ Statements (current session)
 - Assured income for the severely handicapped ... 426
- Oral Question Period (current session topics)
 - Advocacy for seniors ... 13
 - Charter schools ... 199, 421–22
 - Education property taxes ... 604
 - Pharmaceutical benefit for seniors ... 361
- Property tax – Education levy
 - Revenue to province ... 604
- Property tax – Education levy – Calgary
 - General remarks ... 604
- Seniors
 - Advocate (proposed) ... 13
- Seniors’ benefit program
 - Drug benefits ... 361
 - General remarks ... 13

Anderson, Rob (W, Airdrie-Chestermere)

- Alberta Bill of Rights (Property Rights Protection) Amendment Act, 2012 (Bill 201)
 - Second reading ... 305–6
- Alberta heritage savings trust fund
 - Value of fund ... 212, 221
- Alberta Hospital Edmonton
 - Forensic patients, physician advocacy re (Dr. Peter Rodd) ... 451
- Alberta Human Rights Act
 - Review of act ... 605–6
- Alberta Land Stewardship Act
 - General remarks ... 305–6
- Alberta sustainability fund
 - Value of fund ... 94, 212
- Appropriation Act, 2012 (Bill 7)
 - Second reading ... 591–92, 593, 595
 - Committee ... 629–31
 - Third reading ... 694
- Appropriation (Supplementary Supply) Act, 2012 (Bill 3)
 - Third reading ... 252–54

Anderson, Rob (W, Airdrie-Chestermere) (continued)

- Assured income for the severely handicapped
 - Client benefits ... 86, 93
 - Funding from supplementary supply ... 86
- Budget 2012-13
 - Motion to approve (Government Motion 7) ... 118–20
- Budget debate (procedure)
 - Speaking order ... 219
- Budget process
 - Balanced/deficit budgets ... 93–94, 220–21, 246–47, 252–53
 - Results-based budgeting ... 37–38
 - Revenue/cost forecasts used ... 119, 210, 249–50, 254
 - Use of supplementary supply ... 254
 - Zero-based budgeting ... 38
- Capital projects
 - Financial reporting ... 220–21
 - Funding ... 212
- Carbon capture and storage
 - Provincial strategy ... 220, 592
- Carbon Capture and Storage Statutes Amendment Act, 2010 (Bill 24)
 - General remarks ... 305–6
- Chair – Rulings
 - Decorum ... 706
- Charter schools
 - Provincial strategy ... 707
- Chief Electoral Officer, office of the
 - Investigations ... 759
- Debt
 - Provincial debt ... 247, 253
- Dept. of Education
 - Main estimates 2012-13 debate ... 339–42, 350–52
- Dept. of Finance
 - Main estimates 2012-13 debate ... 210–12, 219–21
- Dept. of Justice and Attorney General
 - Supplementary estimates 2011-12, No. 2, debate ... 81–82
- Dept. of Seniors
 - Supplementary estimates 2011-12, No. 2, debate ... 86
- Dept. of Treasury Board and Enterprise
 - Mandate ... 37
- Early childhood education
 - Special-needs programs ... 93, 156–57
- Education
 - Performance measures ... 157
 - Parental choice ... 156–57
 - Public consultations ... 667
- Education – Finance
 - Funding ... 212
 - Per-student funding model ... 157
- Education Act (Bill 2)
 - Second reading ... 156–58
 - Committee, amendment A1 (addition to preamble on parental choice) (carried) ... 517–18, 547–48, 550, 554–55
 - Committee, amendment A1, subamendment SA1 (insertion of phrase “paramount right and responsibility” of parents) (defeated) ... 518, 521–25, 532–34, 543
 - Committee, amendment A4 (definition of bullying to include entire school community) (carried unanimously) ... 570
 - Committee, amendment A6 (replace section 16, diversity and respect) (defeated) ... 706–9, 736–38

Anderson, Rob (W, Airdrie-Chestermere) (continued)

- Education Act (Bill 2) (continued)
 - Committee, amendment A8 (charter school restrictions; registration/accreditation of private schools; school division creation; francophone school trustee candidate criteria; shared school spaces) (not voted) ... 769–71
 - Charter school provisions ... 707
 - Parental rights provisions ... 605–6, 706–8
- Election Act
 - Review of act (proposed) ... 759
- Electric power lines – Construction
 - North-south transmission line reinforcement ... 495
- Electric Statutes Amendment Act, 2009 (Bill 50)
 - General remarks ... 305–6, 495–96
- Ethics Commissioner, office of the
 - Investigations re international office representative in Hong Kong ... 505
- Executive Council
 - Compensation ... 254, 417
 - Main estimates 2012-13 debate ... 245–50
 - Ministers’ provincial tour ... 38
- Expropriation Act
 - Executive Council authority ... 306
- Federal Public Building
 - Redevelopment ... 593, 595
- Fiscal framework
 - General remarks ... 60–61, 210–11
- Fiscal policy
 - Fiscal conservatism vs. progressivism ... 219–20
- Freehold lands
 - Landowner rights ... 647–49
- Government caucus
 - Caucus allowances ... 245–46
- Government integrity
 - Members’ statements ... 664
- Government spending
 - Comparison with other jurisdictions ... 211–12, 247, 249, 252, 253
 - Provincial strategy ... 93, 212, 219–21, 245–47, 254, 591–93, 629–31
- Health care system
 - Allegations of queue-jumping ... 263
- Health care system – Finance
 - Funding ... 592
- Health care system – Health Quality Council
 - preferential services inquiry (2012)
 - Legislative provisions ... 263
 - Members’ statements ... 318
 - Premier’s remarks to news media ... 263, 318
 - Timeline ... 247–49, 263, 270
- Health care system – Health Quality Council review (2011)
 - Members’ statements ... 226–27
- Home-schooling
 - Curriculum content ... 554, 605–6
- Impaired driving
 - Coasters with message on legislation ... 196
 - Coasters with message on legislation, point of order on ... 237
- Infrastructure
 - Funding ... 70–71
 - Provincial strategy ... 592–93, 595
- International Day for the Elimination of Racial Discrimination
 - Ministerial statement ... 721

Anderson, Rob (W, Airdrie-Chestermere) (continued)

- International offices – Hong Kong
 - Members' statements ... 504–5
 - Suspension of representative ... 512
- Judges, provincial
 - Compensation ... 81–82
 - Compensation, funding from supplementary supply ... 81–82, 254
- Judicial Compensation Commission (2009)
 - General remarks ... 81–82
- King, Dr. Martin Luther
 - I Have a Dream speech ... 721
- Land Assembly Project Area Act
 - General remarks ... 305–6
- Members of the Legislative Assembly
 - Compensation ... 359
 - Compensation review ... 82, 359, 417
- Members' Statements (current session)
 - Alberta's representative in Asia ... 504–5
 - Integrity in government ... 664
 - Judicial inquiry into health services ... 318
 - Patient advocacy by health professionals ... 226–27
- Ministerial Statements
 - International Day for the Elimination of Racial Discrimination ... 721
- Opposition caucuses
 - Caucus allowances ... 245–46
- Oral Question Period (current session topics)
 - Alberta Human Rights Act ... 605–6
 - Alberta's representative in Asia ... 512
 - Alleged intimidation of physicians ... 451
 - Blood alcohol driving sanctions ... 196–97
 - Election Act reports ... 759
 - MLA remuneration ... 359, 417
 - Provincial tax policy ... 8–9, 60–61, 144
 - Public health inquiry ... 263
 - School board funding ... 293–94
 - School council teleconference remarks ... 667
- Parenting
 - Parents' rights, legislation re ... 606
- Patient advocacy by physicians
 - Alberta Hospital Edmonton forensic patients ... 451
 - Members' statements ... 226–27
- Persons with developmental disabilities
 - Programs and services, funding from supplementary supply ... 86
- Points of order
 - Imputing motives ... 70–71, 237
 - Parliamentary language ... 257, 676
 - Withdrawal of point of order ... 764
- Political parties
 - Chief Electoral Officer investigation of donations ... 759
- Privilege
 - Obstructing a member in performance of duty ... 676–78
- Property Rights Advocate Act (Bill 6)
 - Second reading ... 494–96, 497–98
 - Committee ... 647–49
- Property tax
 - General remarks ... 630–31
 - Revenue ... 694
- Property tax – Education levy
 - Utilization of revenue ... 630–31
- Results-based Budgeting Act (Bill 1)
 - Second reading ... 37–38, 96
- Revenue
 - Nonrenewable resource revenue ... 629–31

Anderson, Rob (W, Airdrie-Chestermere) (continued)

- Royal Alberta Museum
 - Redevelopment ... 592
- St. Albert and Sturgeon Valley School Districts
 - Establishment Act (Bill 4)
 - Second reading ... 484–85
- School boards and districts
 - Capital plans ... 340–41
- Schools – Construction
 - Funding ... 93–94
 - Project scheduling ... 94
 - Project scheduling, publication of production list ... 339–42, 350–52
 - Provincial strategy ... 157
 - School board requests for funding ... 293–94, 667
- Schools – Construction – Airdrie
 - Alternative financing models, minister's remarks during teleconference ... 667
- Schools – Maintenance and repair
 - School board requests for funding ... 293
- Schools – Maintenance and repair – Grimshaw
 - Letter from Mr. Goudreau to school board ... 293
- Seniors' Property Tax Deferral Act (Bill 5)
 - Second reading ... 493–94
 - Eligibility criteria ... 493–94
- Speaker
 - Retirement of current Speaker ... 764
- Special-needs education
 - Programs ... 93, 156–57
- Speech from the Throne
 - Motion to consider (Fawcett/Rodney), addresses in reply (Government Motion 10) ... 93–94
- Student testing (elementary and secondary students)
 - Provincial achievement tests ... 157
- Supplementary estimates
 - Supplementary estimates 2011-12, No. 2, debate ... 81–82, 86
- Supreme Court of Canada
 - Decisions on human rights ... 605–6
- Tax policy
 - General remarks ... 8–9, 60–61, 93, 144, 210–11, 249–50, 630–31
- Tom Baker Cancer Centre
 - Departure of former pathology laboratory director (Dr. Tony Magliocco) ... 318
- Traffic Safety Amendment Act, 2011 (Bill 26)
 - Implementation ... 196–97
 - Sanctions for blood-alcohol levels of .05 to .08 ... 196–97
- Wildrose Party
 - Coasters with message on impaired driving legislation ... 196
 - Fiscal policy ... 119–20

Benito, Carl (PC, Edmonton-Mill Woods)

- Arts and culture
 - Tax incentives for cultural endeavours, Motion Other than Government Motion 503 (Benito: defeated) ... 438–39, 441
- Culture policy (Spirit of Alberta)
 - General remarks ... 438–39
- Introduction of Guests (school groups, individuals) ... 104, 318, 414–15
- Tobacco Reduction (Protection of Children in Vehicles) Amendment Act, 2012 (Bill 203)
 - Committee ... 614–15

Berger, Evan (PC, Livingstone-Macleod; Minister of Agriculture and Rural Development)

- Agriculture
 - Research and development ... 397
- Agriculture Financial Services Corporation
 - Loan and risk management programs ... 728–29
- Alberta – History
 - Archival preservation of pioneer farming family stories (proposed) ... 668
- Alberta Hansard*
 - Recording of remarks off record, point of order on ... 609–10
- Alberta Land Stewardship Act
 - Member for Airdrie-Chestermere's 2009 remarks ... 651–52
- Crop Diversification Centre South
 - New greenhouse ... 397
- Family farms
 - Century farm and ranch awards ... 668
- Farm safety
 - Safety initiatives ... 422
- Farmers' Advocate
 - Appointment of advocate ... 509
- Greenhouses
 - Investment in technology ... 397
- Introduction of Guests (school groups, individuals) ... 5, 57, 189, 259, 415, 503
- Irrigation
 - Provincial strategy ... 655–56
- Land-use framework
 - Industrial development in regions ... 656
- Oldman River
 - Dam construction ... 655
- Oral Question Period (current session topics)
 - Agricultural research and development ... 397
 - Agriculture Financial Services Corporation ... 728–29
 - Century farm and ranch award ... 668
 - Farm safety ... 422
 - Farmers' Advocate of Alberta ... 509
- Points of order
 - Relevance ... 660
 - Remarks off the record ... 609–10
- Property Rights Advocate Act (Bill 6)
 - Committee ... 651–53, 655–57
- Property Rights Task Force
 - General remarks ... 651
- Research and development
 - Agricultural research ... 397
- Water management
 - Aquifer protection ... 656
 - Statutory consents for water use ... 652–53

Bhardwaj, Naresh (PC, Edmonton-Ellerslie)

- Council of Alberta University Students
 - Meetings with MLAs ... 603
- Dept. of Advanced Education and Technology
 - Policy on consultation with students ... 603
- Economy
 - General remarks ... 761–62
- Edmonton Clinic Health Academy
 - Members' statements ... 169
- Education
 - Provincial strategy ... 112
- Education Act (Bill 2)
- Employment
 - Job creation ... 670
- Fritzler, Dr. Marvin
 - Members' statements ... 260–61
- Infrastructure
 - Funding ... 761–62

Bhardwaj, Naresh (PC, Edmonton-Ellerslie) (continued)

- Introduction of Guests (school groups, individuals) ... 104, 226, 355, 573
- Labour force planning
 - Recruitment and retention of skilled workers ... 14–15
- Members' Statements (current session)
 - Edmonton Clinic Health Academy ... 169
 - Dr. Marvin Fritzler ... 260–61
- Municipal sustainability initiative
 - Funding ... 761–62
- Municipalities – Finance
 - Funding ... 761–62
- Office of the Premier
 - Premier's meeting with Braemar school students ... 172
- Oral Question Period (current session topics)
 - Education 10-point plan ... 112
 - Education services for teen parents ... 172
 - Infrastructure funding ... 761–62
 - Noninstructional postsecondary tuition fees ... 603
 - Provincial tax policy ... 670
 - Skilled labour shortage ... 14–15
- Parenting
 - Teenaged mothers, programs and services for ... 172
- School Act
 - General remarks ... 112
- Schools – Construction
 - Playground development ... 112
- Schools – Construction – Edmonton
 - Summerside school ... 112
- Schools – Edmonton
 - Braemar school, supports for pregnant and parenting teenagers ... 172
- Tax policy
 - General remarks ... 670
- Tuition and fees, postsecondary
 - Mandatory noninstructional fees ... 603

Bhullar, Manmeet Singh (PC, Calgary-Montrose; Minister of Service Alberta)

- Condominium Property Act
 - Review of act ... 758–59
- Employment and immigration agencies
 - Regulations ... 395, 606
- Housing – Construction
 - Construction and inspection standards ... 758–59
 - Provincial strategy ... 607
- Housing – Rental housing
 - Consumer protection ... 578
- Internet
 - Rural access to high-speed service ... 606
- Introduction of Guests (school groups, individuals) ... 137, 286, 663
- Oral Question Period (current session topics)
 - High-speed Internet services for rural Alberta ... 606
 - Protection of job seekers ... 395
 - Rent regulation ... 578
 - Residential construction standards ... 758–59
 - Workforce employment services ... 606–7
- Speaker
 - Retirement of current Speaker ... 758
- Temporary foreign workers
 - Programs and services ... 606

Blackett, Lindsay (PC, Calgary-North West)

- Education Act (Bill 2)
 - Committee, amendment A1, subamendment SA1 (insertion of phrase “paramount right and responsibility” of parents) (defeated) ... 519
- Committee, amendment A7 (establishment of charter schools) (carried) ... 747–48

Blakett, Lindsay (PC, Calgary-North West) (continued)

- Immigration
 - Provincial strategy ... 77
- Introduction of Guests (school groups, individuals) ... 49, 720
- Libraries
 - Members' statements ... 505
- Members' Statements (current session)
 - Library services ... 505
- Oil sands development – Environmental aspects
 - Federal-provincial monitoring ... 452
- Oral Question Period (current session topics)
 - Environmental monitoring ... 452
- Tax policy
 - Comparison with other jurisdictions ... 77–78
 - Flat tax rate, replacement with progressive tax (Motion Other than Government Motion 501: defeated) ... 77–78

Blakeman, Laurie (AL, Edmonton-Centre)

- Aboriginal peoples
 - Missing women ... 402
- Affordable housing
 - Funding ... 509
- Alberta Companies Act
 - Not-for-profit organization incorporation provisions (part 9 companies) ... 295
- Alberta First Nations Energy Centre
 - Provincial strategy ... 576
- Alberta heritage savings trust fund
 - Provincial strategy ... 72
- Alberta Land Stewardship Act
 - Land trust provisions ... 266
- Alberta multimedia development fund
 - Grants program ... 397–98
- Alberta Works employment program
 - Support worker deployment ... 198
- Alcohol
 - Sale of alcohol ... 72
- Appropriation Act, 2012 (Bill 7)
 - Committee ... 627–29
- Arts and culture
 - Provincial strategy ... 629
- Bears
 - Protection of dens ... 42
 - Shooting of bears near work camps ... 234
- Bills (procedure)
 - Voting on amendments, point of order on ... 765
- Budget debate (procedure)
 - Ministers' response to questions ... 19
 - Schedule of debate ... 19
- Budget documents
 - Financial reporting ... 627
 - Level of detail provided ... 18
- Budget process
 - General remarks ... 18–19
 - Revenue/cost forecasts used ... 72
- Canadian Charter of Rights and Freedoms
 - Sexual orientation provisions ... 565
- Caribou
 - Habitat protection ... 670
- Castle-Crown wilderness area
 - Maps of wildlife den locations ... 42
- Charter schools
 - Administration ... 410, 517, 532
- Child poverty
 - General remarks ... 45

Blakeman, Laurie (AL, Edmonton-Centre) (continued)

- Committee on Energy, Standing
 - Report on consideration of main estimates and business plan, 2012-13, for depts. of Agriculture and Rural Development; Energy; Environment and Water; Intergovernmental, International and Aboriginal Relations; and Sustainable Resource Development ... 479
- Community initiatives program
 - Eligibility criteria ... 260
- Community Sustainability Task Force
 - Provincial funding ... 17
- Constitution of Canada
 - Application to Bill 2, Education Act ... 406–8
 - Rights and freedoms ... 516, 634, 645–47
 - Sexual orientation provisions ... 516, 517, 646
- Construction industry
 - Protection for builders ... 291
- Corporations – Taxation
 - Revenue to province ... 72
- Dept. of Agriculture and Rural Development
 - Main estimates 2012-13 debate, Standing Committee on Energy report under Standing Order 59.01(7) ... 479
- Dept. of Energy
 - Main estimates 2012-13 debate, Standing Committee on Energy report under Standing Order 59.01(7) ... 479
- Dept. of Environment and Water
 - Main estimates 2012-13 debate, Standing Committee on Energy report under Standing Order 59.01(7) ... 479
 - Program eligibility criteria ... 260
- Dept. of Intergovernmental, International and Aboriginal Relations
 - Main estimates 2012-13 debate, Standing Committee on Energy report under Standing Order 59.01(7) ... 479
- Dept. of Sustainable Resource Development
 - Main estimates 2012-13 debate, Standing Committee on Energy report under Standing Order 59.01(7) ... 479
 - Program eligibility criteria ... 260
- Edmonton and Area Land Trust
 - Casino licence application denial ... 295
 - Member's statement ... 260
- Education – Curricula
 - Content re sexual orientation ... 564–67
- Education – Finance
 - Funding ... 628–29
- Education Act (Bill 2)
 - Second reading ... 406–8, 410
 - Committee, amendment A1 (addition to preamble on parental choice) (carried) ... 515–17
 - Committee, amendment A1, subamendment SA1 (insertion of phrase “paramount right and responsibility” of parents) (defeated) ... 518, 531–32
 - Committee, amendment A2 (elimination of tuition fees) (defeated) ... 563–64
 - Committee, amendment A3 (parental notice of instruction dealing with religion, sexuality, or sexual orientation) (defeated) ... 564–67
 - Committee, amendment A4 (definition of bullying to include entire school community) (carried unanimously) ... 567–68
 - Committee, amendment A5 (charter school provisions) (defeated) ... 570–71

Blakeman, Laurie (AL, Edmonton-Centre) (continued)

- Committee, amendment A8 (charter school restrictions; registration/accreditation of private schools; school division creation; francophone school trustee candidate criteria; shared school spaces) (not voted) ... 765–67
- Emergency debates under Standing Order 30 (current session)
 - Health Quality Council review report, request for debate (proceeded with) ... 273
 - Health Quality Council review report, debate ... 283
- Environmental protection
 - Provincial strategy ... 13–14
- Estimates of Supply (government expenditures)
 - Main estimates 2012-13, motion to consider (Government Motion 6: carried) ... 18–19
 - Main estimates 2012-13, schedule of debate ... 19
- Forest industries – Castle-Crown area
 - Logging activities ... 42
- Funeral industry
 - Provincial contracts ... 60
- Gaming (gambling)
 - Revenue (cash in and out) ... 72
- Government accountability
 - Financial reporting ... 627
- Government caucus
 - Time allotted in budget debates ... 19
- Government contracts
 - General remarks ... 60
- Government savings
 - Comparison with other jurisdictions ... 72
- Government spending
 - Provincial strategy ... 628–29
- Health care system
 - Rehabilitation care ... 509
- Health care system – Finance
 - Financial reporting ... 627
- Home-schooling
 - Curriculum content ... 516–17
 - Programs and services ... 532
 - Student assessment ... 766
- Homelessness
 - 10-year plan to end ... 44–45
- Homeowner Protection Act (Bill 209)
 - First reading ... 585
- Hospitals
 - Support staff labour negotiations ... 229–30
- Hospitals – Emergency services – Capacity issues
 - Health Quality Council report findings ... 283
 - Wait times ... 283
- Housing
 - Homeowner programs (proposed) ... 291
- Housing – Construction
 - Construction and inspection standards ... 291, 324, 727
 - New home warranty program ... 291, 324, 727
- Housing – Rental housing
 - Health and safety standards ... 324
- Immigration
 - Provincial strategy ... 78
- Imperial Sovereign Court of the Wild Rose
 - Members' statements ... 575
- Income tax, provincial
 - Revenue to province ... 72
- Introduction of Guests (school groups, individuals) ... 58, 226, 259, 443, 573
- Land trusts
 - Eligibility for grant funding ... 266, 295

Blakeman, Laurie (AL, Edmonton-Centre) (continued)

- Man in Motion 25th anniversary relay
 - Address to Assembly by Rick Hansen, Government Motion 11 (Hancock: carried) ... 402–3
- Members' Statements (current session)
 - Edmonton and Area Land Trust ... 260
 - Imperial Sovereign Court of the Wild Rose ... 575
- Mental health services
 - Diagnostic billing codes ... 230–31
 - Provincial strategy ... 198
- Midwifery
 - Certification of internationally trained midwives ... 422–23
- Nonprofit, not-for-profit, voluntary, and charitable organizations
 - Eligibility for casino licences ... 295
- Nurses
 - Labour negotiations ... 229–30
- Official Opposition
 - Time allotted in budget debates ... 19
- Oil sands development – Environmental aspects
 - Federal-provincial monitoring ... 13–14, 108
- Opposition caucuses
 - Time allotted in budget debates ... 19
- Oral Question Period (current session topics)
 - Alberta First Nations Energy Centre ... 576
 - Alberta multimedia development fund ... 397–98
 - Alberta Works program on-site support ... 198
 - Bear management near work camps ... 234
 - Caribou habitat protection ... 670
 - Castle-Crown wilderness area ... 42
 - Diagnostic billing code for sexual orientation ... 230–31
 - Environmental monitoring ... 108
 - Environmental protection ... 13–14
 - Health services labour negotiations ... 229–30
 - Land conservation trusts ... 266, 295
 - Midwifery services ... 422–23
 - Poverty reduction ... 44–45
 - Provincially controlled funeral services ... 60
 - Residential construction standards ... 291, 324, 727
 - Residential rehabilitation assistance ... 509
 - Sand and gravel extraction management ... 607, 757–58
 - Water allocation ... 451
- Parks, provincial
 - Embargo on logging ... 42
- Patient advocacy by physicians
 - Allegations of intimidation ... 283
 - Allegations of intimidation, Health Quality Council report findings ... 283
- Physicians
 - Services agreement ... 230
- Points of order
 - Clarification (use of term “rescue”) ... 566
 - Referring to the absence of members ... 675
 - Relevance ... 563–64, 660
 - Voting on amendments to bills ... 765
- Postsecondary educational institutions – Finance
 - Funding ... 629
- Poverty
 - Reduction strategy ... 44–45, 198
- Privilege
 - Obstructing a member in performance of duty ... 678–79
- Property Rights Advocate Act (Bill 6)
 - Committee ... 645–47
- Property tax
 - Revenue ... 72

Blakeman, Laurie (AL, Edmonton-Centre) (continued)

- Property tax – Education levy
 - Utilization of revenue ... 627–28
- Registry services
 - Licences and fees ... 72
- Reports presented by standing and special committees
 - Main estimates and business plan 2012-13 debate, Standing Committee on Energy reports under Standing Order 59.01(7): depts. of Agriculture and Rural Development, Energy, Environment and Water, Intergovernmental, International and Aboriginal Relations ... 479
- Revenue
 - Nonrenewable resource revenue ... 72
 - Sources of revenue ... 72
- Royalty structure (energy resources)
 - Provincial strategy ... 72
- Safety Codes Act
 - Amendments (proposed) ... 324
 - Enforcement, training of safety codes officers ... 324
- St. Albert and Sturgeon Valley School Districts
 - Establishment Act (Bill 4)
 - Committee ... 633–35
- Sand and gravel mining
 - Extraction management ... 607, 757–58
- School boards and districts
 - Financial decision-making ... 408, 628
- School fees (elementary and secondary)
 - Provincial strategy ... 563–64
- Schools
 - School closures ... 408
- Seniors – Housing
 - Home adaptation program ... 509
- Seniors' benefit program
 - General remarks ... 509
- Seniors' Property Tax Deferral Act (Bill 5)
 - Committee ... 635–36, 639–40
- Sexual orientation/identity
 - Constitutional and legal protections ... 516, 517, 565, 646
 - Use in medical diagnostic billing codes ... 230–31
- Social policy framework (proposed)
 - General remarks ... 44–45
- South Saskatchewan River basin
 - Water licence transfers, publication of ... 451
- Special-needs education
 - Programs ... 410
- Student testing (elementary and secondary students)
 - Provincial achievement tests, student exemption from ... 766
- Tax policy
 - Comparison with other jurisdictions ... 72
 - Flat tax rate, replacement with progressive tax (Motion Other than Government Motion 501: defeated) ... 71–73, 78
 - General remarks ... 72, 627–28
- Tobacco use
 - Revenue to province ... 72
- Waste management – Oil sands area
 - Best practices ... 234
- Water licences
 - Approval process ... 451
- Water management
 - Aquifer protection ... 607, 757–58
 - Conservation ... 451
 - Groundwater mapping ... 757
- Wildfires – Slave Lake
 - Recovery program ... 291, 324

Blakeman, Laurie (AL, Edmonton-Centre) (continued)

- Wolves
 - Wolf culling ... 670
- Boutilier, Guy C. (W, Fort McMurray-Wood Buffalo)
 - Alberta Human Rights Act
 - General remarks ... 519
 - Appropriation Act, 2012 (Bill 7)
 - Third reading ... 686–87
 - Budget 2012-13
 - Government advertisements ... 321
 - Budget process
 - Results-based budgeting ... 35–36
 - Zero-based budgeting ... 35–36
 - Children – Protective services
 - Advancing futures bursaries ... 466
 - Dept. of Education
 - Main estimates 2012-13 debate ... 353
 - Dept. of Human Services
 - Departmental restructuring ... 476
 - Main estimates 2012-13 debate ... 464–67, 474–77
 - Minister's communications with front-line staff ... 465–66
 - Programs and services ... 464–65
 - Education
 - Parental choice ... 188
 - Education Act (Bill 2)
 - Second reading ... 184, 187–88
 - Committee, amendment A1, subamendment SA1 (insertion of phrase “paramount right and responsibility” of parents) (defeated) ... 519, 534–35
 - Elections, provincial
 - Election 2012 date ... 724
 - Electric power – Prices
 - Comparison with other jurisdictions ... 112
 - Electric power lines – Construction
 - Critical Transmission Review Committee report ... 112
 - Emergency medical services (ambulances, etc.)
 - Medevac services ... 396
 - Emergency medical services (ambulances, etc.) – Edmonton
 - Medevac services ... 396
 - Executive Council
 - Compensation ... 171
 - Ministers' provincial tour, members' statements on ... 16
 - Federal Public Building
 - Redevelopment ... 686–87
 - Fetal alcohol spectrum disorder
 - Treatment and services ... 475
 - Fiscal framework
 - General remarks ... 42–43
 - Fort McMurray
 - Provincial cabinet ministers' visit ... 16
 - Golden Years Society
 - General remarks ... 16
 - Government integrity
 - Members' statements ... 356
 - Government spending
 - Provincial strategy ... 353
 - Health care system – Health Quality Council
 - preferential services inquiry (2012)
 - Legislative provisions ... 233
 - Health care system – Health Quality Council review (2011)
 - Final report ... 233
 - Final report recommendations ... 396
 - Health Quality Council of Alberta
 - Medevac services review ... 396

Boutilier, Guy C. (W, Fort McMurray-Wood Buffalo)(continued)

- Highway 63
 - Twinning ... 687
- Home-schooling
 - Programs and services ... 519
- Legislative Assembly of Alberta
 - French remarks ... 37
- Long-term care facilities (nursing homes/auxiliary hospitals)
 - Funding ... 686–87
- Long-term care facilities (nursing homes/auxiliary hospitals) – Fort McMurray
 - Funding ... 187
- Members' Statements (current session)
 - Cabinet tour ... 16
 - Integrity in government ... 356
- Ministerial Statements
 - Tribute to Member for Barrhead-Morinville-Westlock ... 752
- Oral Question Period (current session topics)
 - Electricity prices ... 112
 - Fixed election dates ... 724
 - Health Quality Council review report ... 233
 - Medevac services ... 396
 - Municipal taxation ... 577
 - Provincial fiscal framework ... 42–43
 - Provincial tax policy ... 171, 321
- Points of order
 - Parliamentary language ... 610
- Property tax – Education levy
 - Revenue to province ... 577
- Results-based Budgeting Act (Bill 1)
 - Second reading ... 35–37
- Schools – Fort McMurray
 - General remarks ... 187–88
- Seniors – Fort McMurray
 - Meeting with provincial cabinet ministers ... 16
- Seniors' Property Tax Deferral Act (Bill 5)
 - Second reading ... 490
- Special-needs education
 - Programs ... 187
- Tax policy
 - General remarks ... 171, 321
- Workers' Compensation Board
 - Executive remuneration ... 466
- Workplace health and safety
 - Programs and services ... 475–76

Brown, Dr. Neil (PC, Calgary-Nose Hill)

- Alberta sustainability fund
 - Utilization of fund ... 75
- Dept. of Advanced Education and Technology
 - Premier's mandate letter ... 62
- Education
 - Transition to postsecondary education ... 62
- Education Act (Bill 2)
 - Committee, amendment A1, subamendment SA1 (insertion of phrase "paramount right and responsibility" of parents) (defeated) ... 520–21
- Elizabeth II, Queen
 - Diamond Jubilee, member's statement on ... 68
- Health care system
 - Members' statements ... 664
- Immigration
 - Provincial strategy ... 75
- Income tax, provincial
 - Personal exemptions ... 75
 - Revenue to province ... 75

Brown, Dr. Neil (PC, Calgary-Nose Hill) (continued)

- Justice system
 - Restorative justice program ... 607
- Justice system – Innisfail
 - Restorative justice programs ... 607
- Labour force planning
 - Recruitment and retention of skilled workers ... 62
- Law enforcement
 - Minor offences, motion to reduce arrest warrants re (Motion Other than Government Motion 504: defeated) ... 625
- Legislative Assembly of Alberta
 - French remarks ... 356–57
- Members' Statements (current session)
 - Queen Elizabeth II Diamond Jubilee ... 68
 - Les Rendez-vous de la Francophonie ... 356–57
 - Seniors' benefit programs ... 505
 - State of the health care system ... 664
- Oral Question Period (current session topics)
 - Evanston community transportation access ... 452–53
 - New school construction in Calgary ... 512
 - Restorative justice ... 607
 - Student finance system ... 62
- Population
 - Increase ... 75
- Postsecondary educational institutions – Admissions (enrolment)
 - Aboriginal students' participation rates ... 62
 - Rural students' participation rates ... 62
- (Les) Rendez-vous de la Francophonie
 - Members' statements ... 356–57
- Road construction – Calgary
 - Evanston community access roads ... 452–53
- Safe communities initiative
 - Relation to restorative justice program ... 607
- Schools – Calgary
 - Evanston community ... 512
- Schools – Construction – Calgary
 - New schools ... 512
- Seniors' benefit program
 - Members' statements ... 505
- Seniors' Property Tax Deferral Act (Bill 5)
 - Third reading ... 700
- Student financial aid (postsecondary students)
 - Loan eligibility criteria ... 62
- Tax policy
 - Flat tax rate, replacement with progressive tax (Motion Other than Government Motion 501: defeated) ... 75
- Tobacco Reduction (Protection of Children in Vehicles) Amendment Act, 2012 (Bill 203)
 - Committee ... 621–22
- Wages
 - Average weekly earnings index ... 75

Calahasen, Pearl (PC, Lesser Slave Lake)

- Aboriginal children – Education
 - Federal-provincial-First Nations co-operation ... 670–71
- Aboriginal peoples
 - Missing women, member's statement on ... 391
- Agreement on internal trade
 - Impact on government contracts ... 323
- Dept. of Sustainable Resource Development
 - Mandate ... 323
- Electric power – Prices
 - Comparison with other jurisdictions ... 728
 - Rates ... 728

Calahasen, Pearl (PC, Lesser Slave Lake) (continued)

- Electric power lines – Construction
 - North-south transmission line reinforcement ... 728
- Film and television industry
 - American Indian Film Festival awards, member's statement on ... 261
- Government contracts
 - Slave Lake recovery program ... 323
- Health care system – Delivery models
 - Family care clinics ... 760
- Health care system – Slave Lake
 - Family care clinic pilot ... 760
- Hospitals – Construction – High Prairie
 - Functional plan ... 198
- Introduction of Guests (school groups, individuals) ... 296, 342, 598
- Members' Statements (current session)
 - REDress project for aboriginal women ... 391
 - Roseanne Supernault ... 261
- New West Partnership
 - Impact on government contract process ... 323
- Oral Question Period (current session topics)
 - Electricity prices ... 728
 - First Nations education ... 670–71
 - High Prairie hospital construction ... 198
 - Safe communities initiative ... 362
 - Slave Lake disaster recovery contracts ... 323
 - Slave Lake family care clinic ... 760
- Safe communities initiative
 - Bridging funding ... 362
 - Pilot projects ... 362
- Trade, investment, and labour mobility agreement (Alberta-British Columbia)
 - Impact on government contract process ... 323
- Wildfires – Prevention
 - FireSmart program ... 323
- Wildfires – Slave Lake
 - Recovery program ... 323

Campbell, Robin (PC, West Yellowhead)

- Health care system – Health Quality Council review (2011)
 - Final report ... 268
- Hydraulic fracturing
 - General remarks ... 47
- Introduction of Guests (school groups, individuals) ... 259
- Members' Statements (current session)
 - Peter Watson ... 260
 - Special Olympics Canada Winter Games ... 355–56
- Oral Question Period (current session topics)
 - Health Quality Council review report ... 268
 - Hydraulic fracturing practices ... 47
- Special Olympics Canada Winter Games
 - Members' statements ... 355–56
- Water quality
 - Hydraulic fracturing guidelines ... 47
- Watson, Peter
 - Members' statements ... 260

Cao, Wayne C.N. (PC, Calgary-Fort)

- See also Chair of Committees; Deputy Speaker*
- Alberta Works employment program
 - Services provided ... 323–24
- Dept. of Service Alberta
 - Consumer protection services ... 583–84
- Health care system – Calgary
 - Alex youth health bus, member's statement on ... 51
- Income support programs
 - Client benefits ... 324
 - Supports for independence program ... 324

Cao, Wayne C.N. (PC, Calgary-Fort) (continued)

- International trade
 - Foreign delegations ... 510
- Introduction of Guests (school groups, individuals) ... 39
- Members' Statements (current session)
 - Alex youth health bus ... 51
 - World Consumer Rights Day ... 583–84
- Oral Question Period (current session topics)
 - Foreign delegations ... 510
 - Workforce employment services ... 323–24
- Schools – Calgary
 - Health service provision ... 51
- World Consumer Rights Day
 - Members' statements ... 583–84

Chair of Committees (Cao, Wayne C.N.)

- Budget debate (procedure)
 - General remarks ... 237
- Chief Electoral Officer, office of the
 - Supplementary estimates 2011-12, No. 2, vote ... 90
- Committee on Members' Services, Special Standing
 - Consideration of Legislative Assembly Offices main estimates, 2012-13 ... 479
- Dept. of Health and Wellness
 - Main estimates 2012-13 debate, procedure for debate ... 367
- Dept. of Human Services
 - Supplementary estimates 2011-12, No. 2, vote ... 90
- Dept. of Justice and Attorney General
 - Supplementary estimates 2011-12, No. 2, vote ... 90
- Dept. of Municipal Affairs
 - Supplementary estimates 2011-12, No. 2, vote ... 90
 - Transfer from capital investment to, supplementary estimates 2011-12, No. 2, vote ... 90
- Dept. of Seniors
 - Supplementary estimates 2011-12, No. 2, vote ... 90
- Dept. of Solicitor General and Public Security
 - Supplementary estimates 2011-12, No. 2, vote ... 90
- Dept. of Tourism, Parks and Recreation
 - Supplementary estimates 2011-12, No. 2, vote ... 90
- Dept. of Transportation
 - Supplementary estimates 2011-12, No. 2, vote ... 90
- Estimates of Supply (government expenditures)
 - Supplementary estimates 2011-12, No. 2, vote ... 90
- Executive Council
 - Main estimates 2012-13 debate, procedure ... 237
- Officers of the Legislative Assembly
 - Main estimates (expense and capital investment) 2012-13, committee agreement to and reporting of ... 479–80
 - Main estimates (expense and capital investment) 2012-13, procedure for ... 479
- Points of order
 - Allegations against a member ... 527, 749
 - Inflammatory language ... 712
 - Relevance ... 244

Chase, Harry B. (AL, Calgary-Varsity)

- Aboriginal children – Education
 - Programs and services ... 30
- Aboriginal children – Protective services
 - Deaths and serious incidents ... 30–31
- Aboriginal peoples
 - Programs and services ... 397
 - Workforce strategy ... 396–97
- Aboriginal peoples – Economic development
 - First Nations development fund ... 396–97
- Alberta Grandparents Association
 - Petition on grandparents' rights ... 328

Chase, Harry B. (AL, Calgary-Varsity) (continued)

- Alberta heritage savings trust fund
 - Provincial strategy ... 696
- Alberta Supports
 - Programs and services ... 13, 30–31, 47
- Alberta sustainability fund
 - Utilization of fund ... 74–75, 696
- Appropriation Act, 2012 (Bill 7)
 - Third reading ... 682–83, 689, 691, 693, 696
- Assured income for the severely handicapped
 - Client benefits ... 13, 31, 510
 - Client benefits, health-related ... 361
 - Client benefits, residents of continuing care facilities ... 361, 510
 - Rent protection for clients ... 510
- Auditor General – Recommendations
 - Long-term care facilities ... 31
 - Reporting of resource revenues ... 33
- Bitumen – Export
 - Unprocessed bitumen ... 33
- Bitumen – Upgrading
 - Alberta industry ... 683
- Budget process
 - Revenue/cost forecasts used ... 222, 683
 - Revenue/cost forecasts used, Auditor General's recommendations re ... 683
 - Use of supplementary supply ... 32–33
- Calgary-Varsity (constituency)
 - Member's retrospective, member's statement on ... 599
- Canadian Wheat Board
 - End of monopoly ... 31
- Care workers
 - Wages, government-private sector differential ... 47
- Castle-Crown wilderness area
 - Management plan ... 145–46
- Children – Protective services
 - Deaths and serious incidents ... 30–31
- Children with disabilities
 - GPS tracking device use, member's statement on ... 51
- Climate change
 - Provincial strategy ... 693
- Committee on Community Development, Standing
 - Report on consideration of main estimates and business plan, 2012-13, for depts. of Culture and Community Services; Municipal Affairs; and Tourism, Parks and Recreation ... 479
- Continuing care strategy
 - General remarks ... 265
- Dept. of Culture and Community Services
 - Main estimates 2012-13 debate, Standing Committee on Community Development report under Standing Order 59.01(7) ... 479
- Dept. of Environment and Water
 - Minister's meeting with environmental scientists ... 673
- Dept. of Finance
 - Main estimates 2012-13 debate ... 222
- Dept. of Municipal Affairs
 - Main estimates 2012-13 debate, Standing Committee on Community Development report under Standing Order 59.01(7) ... 479
- Dept. of Tourism, Parks and Recreation
 - Main estimates 2012-13 debate, Standing Committee on Community Development report under Standing Order 59.01(7) ... 479
- Domestic abuse
 - Shelter availability ... 31

Chase, Harry B. (AL, Calgary-Varsity) (continued)

- Early childhood education
 - Kindergarten and junior kindergarten ... 30
- Edmonton General hospital
 - Long-term care, Auditor General's recommendations on ... 289
 - Long-term care, incident involving Audry Chudyk ... 289
- Education
 - High school completion ... 30
 - Public system ... 689
- Education – Curricula
 - Content re sexual orientation ... 537, 566–67
- Education – Finance
 - Funding ... 222
 - Funding for rural boards ... 177
- Education Act (Bill 2)
 - Committee, amendment A1 (addition to preamble on parental choice) (carried) ... 544, 549–51, 556–57
 - Committee, amendment A1, subamendment SA1 (insertion of phrase “paramount right and responsibility” of parents) (defeated) ... 537–38
 - Committee, amendment A2 (elimination of tuition fees) (defeated) ... 558–59, 561–63
 - Committee, amendment A3 (parental notice of instruction dealing with religion, sexuality, or sexual orientation) (defeated) ... 566–67
 - Committee, amendment A4 (definition of bullying to include entire school community) (carried unanimously) ... 569–70
 - Committee, amendment A6 (replace section 16, diversity and respect) (defeated) ... 735–36
 - Committee, amendment A7 (establishment of charter schools) (carried) ... 741–42, 749
- Elections, provincial
 - Fixed election date ... 31
- Electric power lines – Construction
 - North-south transmission line reinforcement ... 497
- Electric Statutes Amendment Act, 2009 (Bill 50)
 - General remarks ... 496
- Environmental protection
 - Provincial strategy ... 31
- Estimates of Supply (government expenditures)
 - Procedure on questioning ... 682
- Farm safety
 - Worker exclusion from workplace legislation ... 31
- Fiscal policy
 - 2012-15 fiscal plan ... 222
- Forest industries
 - Clear-cutting practices ... 31, 693
- Forest industries – Bragg Creek area
 - Environmental issues ... 673, 693
 - Logging activities ... 693
- Forest industries – Castle-Crown area
 - Environmental issues ... 673, 693
 - Logging activities ... 31, 106, 145–46
 - Logging activities, member's statement on ... 114
- Global positioning systems
 - Children with disabilities' use, member's statement on ... 51
- Government integrity
 - Members' statements ... 328
- Government savings
 - Comparison with other jurisdictions ... 74
- Government spending
 - Provincial strategy ... 74
- Grandparents' rights
 - Petition re legislation ... 328

Chase, Harry B. (AL, Calgary-Varsity) (continued)

- Group homes
 - Deaths and serious incidents ... 31, 47, 173
- Health care system – Finance
 - Funding ... 222, 682–83, 689
- Health care system – Health Quality Council
 - preferential services inquiry (2012)
 - General remarks ... 31
- Home care
 - Funding ... 265, 683
- Immigration
 - Provincial strategy ... 74
- International trade – European Union
 - Trade agreements ... 33
- Introduction of Guests (school groups, individuals)
 - ... 41, 58, 168, 597
- Land-use framework
 - Implementation ... 673
- Legislative Assembly of Alberta
 - French remarks ... 37
- Long-term care facilities (nursing homes/auxiliary hospitals)
 - Auditor General's recommendations ... 31
 - Caregiver training and wages ... 31
 - Deaths and serious incidents ... 31, 761
 - Funding ... 265, 683
 - Provincial strategy ... 603
 - Residence fees ... 31, 265, 602
 - Safety equipment ... 31
 - Wait-lists ... 265
- Members' Statements (current session)
 - Castle-Crown wilderness area ... 114
 - GPS tracking devices for disabled children ... 51
 - Integrity in government ... 328
 - Retrospective by the Member for Calgary-Varsity ... 599
- Métis children – Education
 - General remarks ... 30
- North Saskatchewan regional plan (land-use framework)
 - Status of plan ... 673
- Oil sands development – Environmental aspects
 - Federal-provincial monitoring ... 673
- Oral Question Period (current session topics)
 - Assured income for the severely handicapped ... 13, 361, 510
 - Caregivers for persons with developmental disabilities ... 173–74, 177
 - Castle-Crown wilderness area ... 106, 145–46
 - Edmonton General continuing care incident ... 289
 - First Nations economic development ... 396–97
 - Long-term and continuing care ... 265
 - Long-term care ... 450, 602–3
 - Long-term care serious incidents ... 761
 - PDD administrative review ... 325–26
 - Protection of vulnerable Albertans ... 47
 - School board funding ... 177
 - Support for tourism ... 65
 - Water management ... 673
- Parks, provincial
 - Provincial strategy ... 65
- Persons with developmental disabilities
 - Administrative review ... 325–26
 - Board and Appeal Panel member qualifications, member's request for information on ... 174, 177
 - Caregiver deaths and serious incidents ... 173–74
- Petitions presented
 - Legislation re grandparents' rights ... 328

Chase, Harry B. (AL, Calgary-Varsity) (continued)

- Pine beetles – Control
 - Castle-Crown and Bragg Creek areas ... 31
- Points of order
 - Allegations against a member ... 749
 - Clarification (use of term “rescue”) ... 566–67
 - Relevance ... 558
- Postsecondary educational institutions – Admissions (enrolment)
 - Participation rates ... 30
- Privatization
 - Provincial strategy ... 691
- Progressive Conservative Party of Alberta
 - History of party ... 30
- Property Rights Advocate Act (Bill 6)
 - Second reading ... 496–97
- Protection for Persons in Care Act
 - Implementation ... 761
- Reports presented by standing and special committees
 - Main estimates and business plan 2012-13 debate, Standing Committee on Community Development reports under Standing Order 59.01(7): depts. of Culture and Community Services, Municipal Affairs, and Tourism, Parks and Recreation ... 479
- Results-based Budgeting Act (Bill 1)
 - Second reading ... 32–33, 37
- Revenue
 - Fluctuations in revenue ... 33
 - Forecasts ... 74–75
 - Nonrenewable resource revenue ... 30
 - Nonrenewable resource revenue, Auditor General's recommendations on reporting ... 33
 - Sources of revenue ... 682
- Royalty structure (energy resources)
 - Use of corporate information as basis for, Auditor General remarks on ... 33
- St. Albert and Sturgeon Valley School Districts
 - Establishment Act (Bill 4)
 - Second reading ... 484–87
- School boards and districts
 - Staff wages and salaries ... 683
- School fees (elementary and secondary)
 - Provincial strategy ... 558–59, 561–63
- Schoolchildren – Transportation
 - Funding for rural boards ... 177
- Schools – Construction
 - Project scheduling ... 683
- Schools – Maintenance and repair
 - Unfunded liability ... 683
- Seniors' benefit program
 - General remarks ... 265
- Seniors' Property Tax Deferral Act (Bill 5)
 - Second reading ... 489–90
- South Saskatchewan regional plan (land-use framework)
 - Status of plan ... 673
- Speech from the Throne
 - Motion to consider (Fawcett/Rodney), addresses in reply (Government Motion 10) ... 30–31
- Supportive living accommodations
 - Private vs. public facilities ... 450
 - Resident health, comparison to long-term care facilities ... 450
 - Standards enforcement ... 450
- Tax policy
 - Flat tax rate, replacement with progressive tax (Motion Other than Government Motion 501: defeated) ... 74–75
 - Flat tax rate vs. progressive rate ... 33, 74, 222

Chase, Harry B. (AL, Calgary-Varsity) (continued)

- Tourism
 - Industry in Alberta ... 65
- Tranquility Care Homes Inc.
 - Advertisement as long-term care facility ... 602
 - Eviction of resident ... 602–3
- Travel Alberta
 - Funding by hotel industry ... 65
- Water management
 - Aquifer protection ... 31
- Water quality – Oil sands area
 - Monitoring ... 31
- Waterton national park
 - General remarks ... 31
- Wildfires – Control
 - Methods used ... 31

Dallas, Cal (PC, Red Deer-South; Minister of Intergovernmental, International and Aboriginal Relations)

- Aboriginal children – Education
 - Memorandums of understanding ... 12
 - Programs and services ... 12
- Aboriginal peoples
 - Programs and services ... 397
 - Workforce strategy ... 397
- Aboriginal peoples – Economic development
 - First Nations development fund ... 397
- Agreement on internal trade
 - Licensing of certified general accountants, Manitoba challenge to Ontario practices ... 235
- Alberta First Nations Energy Centre
 - Provincial strategy ... 416, 506, 576
- Bitumen – Upgrading
 - Alberta industry ... 416
- Correctional services
 - Federal prisons ... 12
- Dept. of Intergovernmental, International and Aboriginal Relations
 - Minister's meetings with Assembly of Treaty Chiefs re Alberta First Nations Energy Centre ... 576
- Ethics Commissioner, office of the
 - Investigations re international office representative in Hong Kong ... 422
- Government contracts
 - Slave Lake recovery program ... 323
- Immigration
 - Federal regulations ... 399
- International offices – Hong Kong
 - Suspension of representative ... 422, 507, 512
- International offices – United Kingdom
 - Advocacy role for energy industry ... 230
- International trade
 - Foreign delegations ... 510
- International trade – European Union
 - Fuel quality directive ... 230
 - Trade agreements ... 197
- Introduction of Guests (school groups, individuals) ... 49, 57, 295–96, 317, 751
- Introduction of Visitors (visiting dignitaries)
 - German ambassador and honorary consul ... 167
- Labour force planning
 - Recruitment and retention of skilled workers ... 399
- Oral Question Period (current session topics)
 - Aboriginal education ... 12
 - Alberta First Nations Energy Centre ... 506, 576
 - Alberta's representative in Asia ... 422, 507, 512
 - Bitumen upgrading ... 416
 - Canada-European Union trade negotiations ... 197

Dallas, Cal (PC, Red Deer-South; Minister of Intergovernmental, International and Aboriginal Relations) (continued)

- Oral Question Period (current session topics) (continued)
 - European Union fuel quality directive ... 230
 - First Nations economic development ... 397
 - Foreign delegations ... 510
 - Labour mobility barriers ... 235
 - Skilled labour shortage ... 399
 - Slave Lake disaster recovery contracts ... 323
- Progressive Conservative Party of Alberta
 - Executive appointments ... 507
- Water licences
 - Provincial strategy on export ... 197

Danyluk, Ray (PC, Lac La Biche-St. Paul; Minister of Transportation)

- Anthony Henday Drive
 - Project status ... 582
- Building Canada fund (federal program)
 - Project funding ... 79
- Dept. of Transportation
 - Supplementary estimates 2011-12, No. 2, debate ... 79–80
- Farm safety
 - Worker transportation ... 175, 421
- Highway 63
 - Improvements ... 64
 - Twinning ... 48–49, 64
- Introduction of Guests (school groups, individuals) ... 39, 226, 415, 751
- Oil sands development – Athabasca area
 - Transportation Coordinating Committee ... 12, 231
- Oral Question Period (current session topics)
 - Anthony Henday Drive ... 582
 - Athabasca Oil Sands Area Transportation Coordinating Committee ... 12
 - Blood alcohol driving sanctions ... 197
 - Evanston community transportation access ... 453
 - Farm worker labour protection ... 421
 - Farm worker safety standards ... 175
 - Impaired driving ... 10–11, 449
 - Impaired driving legislation ... 365
 - Oil Sands Transportation Coordinating Committee ... 231
 - Trucking safety regulations ... 672
 - Twinning of highway 63 ... 48–49, 64
- Public transportation
 - GreenTRIP incentives program ... 79–80
- Public transportation – Calgary
 - GreenTRIP incentives program ... 80
- Public transportation – Edmonton
 - GreenTRIP incentives program ... 79–80
- Road construction
 - Funding ... 64
 - Project scheduling ... 48–49
- Road construction – Calgary
 - Evanston community access roads ... 453
- Supplementary estimates
 - Supplementary estimates 2011-12, No. 2, debate ... 79–80
- Traffic safety
 - Farm worker transportation ... 175, 421
- Traffic Safety Amendment Act, 2011 (Bill 26)
 - Implementation ... 10–11, 197, 365
 - Sanctions for blood-alcohol levels of .05 to .08 ... 197
 - Sanctions for repeat offenders ... 449

Danyluk, Ray (PC, Lac La Biche-St. Paul; Minister of Transportation) (continued)

- Trucking industry
 - Company safety records ... 672
 - Safety regulations ... 672

DeLong, Alana (PC, Calgary-Bow)

- Alberta Human Rights Act
 - General remarks ... 556
- Arts and culture
 - Tax incentives for cultural endeavours, Motion Other than Government Motion 503 (Benito: defeated) ... 440–41
- Bitumen – Royalties
 - Provincial strategy ... 76–77
- Bullying
 - Motion pictures about ... 579
 - Prevention strategies ... 579
- Education Act (Bill 2)
 - Committee, amendment A1 (addition to preamble on parental choice) (carried) ... 545, 555–56
 - Committee, amendment A7 (establishment of charter schools) (carried) ... 748–49
 - Antibullying provisions ... 579
 - Curriculum provisions ... 232
- Film and television industry
 - Bully*, movie rating ... 579
- Forest industries – Bragg Creek area
 - Public consultations ... 66
- Home-schooling
 - Accountability and transparency ... 232
 - Programs and services ... 231–32
- Oral Question Period (current session topics)
 - Bullying ... 579
 - Home-schooling ... 231–32
 - Logging in the Bragg Creek area ... 66
 - School fees ... 394
- Recreational trails – Bragg Creek area
 - Impact of logging on ... 66
- Royalty structure (energy resources)
 - Provincial strategy ... 76–77
- School Act
 - Curriculum provisions ... 232
- School fees (elementary and secondary)
 - Provincial strategy ... 394
- Tax policy
 - Flat tax rate, replacement with progressive tax (Motion Other than Government Motion 501: defeated) ... 76–77

Denis, Jonathan (PC, Calgary-Egmont; Solicitor General and Minister of Public Security)

- Alberta in Canada
 - Federal-provincial-territorial meeting of Justice ministers ... 48
- Budget process
 - Results-based budgeting ... 164–65
- Chief Electoral Officer, office of the
 - Supplementary estimates 2011-12, No. 2, debate ... 79
- Child abuse
 - Online exploitation ... 48
- Corporations – Taxation
 - Comparison with other jurisdictions ... 73
- Correctional services
 - Funding from supplementary supply ... 89
- Courts, provincial
 - Security levels ... 89

Denis, Jonathan (PC, Calgary-Egmont; Solicitor General and Minister of Public Security) (continued)

- Dept. of Municipal Affairs
 - Transfer from capital investment to, supplementary estimates 2011-12, No. 2 ... 79
- Dept. of Solicitor General and Public Security
 - Money transferred to general revenue fund ... 88
 - Staff wages and benefits ... 88
 - Supplementary estimates 2011-12, No. 2, debate ... 88–89
- Dept. of Transportation
 - Supplementary estimates 2011-12, No. 2, debate ... 79
- Education Act (Bill 2)
 - Committee, amendment A7 (establishment of charter schools) (carried) ... 740–41
- Fiscal policy
 - 2011-12 fiscal plan ... 79
- Fuel (gasoline and diesel) – Taxation
 - Comparison with other jurisdictions ... 73
- Government contracts
 - General remarks ... 89
- Government savings
 - Comparison with other jurisdictions ... 74
- Gun registry
 - General remarks ... 197, 266–67
- Immigration
 - Provincial strategy ... 73
- Impaired driving
 - Evidence on .05 blood alcohol limit ... 448
- Income tax, provincial
 - Comparison with other jurisdictions ... 73
 - Personal exemptions ... 73
- Internet
 - Service providers' data retention ... 48
- Justice system
 - Restorative justice program ... 607
- Justice system – Innisfail
 - Restorative justice programs ... 607
- Motor vehicles
 - Commercial vehicle enforcement ... 89
- Oral Question Period (current session topics)
 - Blood alcohol driving sanctions ... 196–97
 - Impaired driving ... 448
 - Long gun registry ... 266–67
 - Online exploitation of children ... 48
 - Restorative justice ... 607
- Peace officers
 - Number of sheriffs ... 89
- Points of order
 - Parliamentary language ... 257
- Police
 - Contract policing and policing oversight ... 89
- Privacy impact assessments
 - Internet service provider retention of records ... 48
- Results-based Budgeting Act (Bill 1)
 - Third reading ... 164–65
- Sales tax
 - Provincial strategy ... 73
- Supplementary estimates
 - Supplementary estimates 2011-12, No. 2, debate ... 79, 88–89
- Tax policy
 - Comparison with other jurisdictions ... 73
 - Flat tax rate, replacement with progressive tax (Motion Other than Government Motion 501: defeated) ... 73–74
 - Flat tax rate vs. progressive rate ... 73–74

Denis, Jonathan (PC, Calgary-Egmont; Solicitor General and Minister of Public Security) (continued)

- Traffic Safety Amendment Act, 2011 (Bill 26)
 - Implementation ... 196–97
 - Sanctions for blood-alcohol levels of .05 to .08 ... 196–97

Deputy Chair of Committees (Zwozdesky, Gene)

- Appropriation Act, 2012 (Bill 7)
 - Motion to approve (carried) ... 645
- Bills (procedure)
 - Voting on amendments, point of order on ... 765
- Budget debate (procedure)
 - General remarks ... 203
 - Speaking order ... 219
- Chair – Rulings
 - Addressing questions through the chair ... 207
 - Decorum ... 349, 657, 706
 - Relevance ... 207, 208, 221–22, 465
- Dept. of Education
 - Main estimates 2012-13 debate, procedure for debate ... 329
- Fiscal policy
 - 2012-15 fiscal plan ... 222
- Gaming (gambling)
 - Problem gambling, relevance to budget debate ... 204
- Points of order
 - Clarification (main estimates debate) ... 331
 - Clarification (use of term “rescue”) ... 566–67
 - Factual accuracy ... 337
 - Relevance ... 558, 564, 660
 - Voting on amendments to bills ... 765

Deputy Speaker (Cao, Wayne C. N.)

- Appropriation (Supplementary Supply) Act, 2012 (Bill 3)
 - Second reading ... 161
- Members of the Legislative Assembly
 - Anniversaries of elections ... 673
- Points of order
 - Parliamentary language ... 257, 676
 - Referring to the absence of members ... 675
- Privilege
 - Obstructing a member in performance of duty ... 733–34
- Speaker – Statements
 - Members’ anniversaries of election ... 673

Doerksen, Arno (PC, Strathmore-Brooks)

- Agriculture
 - Research and development ... 397
- Alberta Bill of Rights
 - Landowner rights provisions ... 307
- Alberta Bill of Rights (Property Rights Protection) Amendment Act, 2012 (Bill 201)
 - Second reading ... 306–7
- Alberta Works employment program
 - Member’s statement ... 200
- Bitumen – Royalties
 - Forecasts ... 449
- Budget process
 - Revenue/cost forecasts used ... 449
- Crop Diversification Centre South
 - Member’s statement ... 425–26
 - New greenhouse ... 397
- Dept. of Seniors
 - Minister’s visit to Sagewood seniors’ residence ... 608
- Expropriation Act
 - Review of act ... 307

Doerksen, Arno (PC, Strathmore-Brooks) (continued)

- Greenhouses
 - Investment in technology ... 397
 - Investment in technology, member’s statement on ... 425–26
- Highway 1
 - Petition presented re route ... 16
- Introduction of Guests (school groups, individuals) ... 40–41
- Members’ Statements (current session)
 - Alberta Works program ... 200
 - Greenhouse research and production complex ... 425–26
 - Sagewood seniors’ residence ... 608
- Oral Question Period (current session topics)
 - Agricultural research and development ... 397
 - Resource revenue projections ... 449
- Petitions presented
 - Highway 1 route ... 16
- Property Rights Task Force
 - General remarks ... 307
- Research and development
 - Agricultural research ... 397
- Revenue
 - Nonrenewable resource revenue ... 449
- Seniors – Housing – Strathmore
 - Sagewood seniors’ residence, member’s statement on ... 608
- Surface Rights Act
 - Review of act ... 307

Drysdale, Wayne (PC, Grande Prairie-Wapiti)

- Alberta Association of Municipal Districts and Counties
 - Members’ statements ... 731
- Arctic Winter Games 2012
 - Member’s statement ... 425
- Edmonton City Centre Airport
 - Closure of, alternatives for medevac services ... 110
- Emergency medical services (ambulances, etc.) – Edmonton
 - Medevac services ... 110
- Expropriation Act
 - Review of act ... 759
- Freehold lands
 - Landowner rights ... 759
- Health Quality Council of Alberta
 - Medevac services review ... 110
- Introduction of Guests (school groups, individuals) ... 518, 751
- Members’ Statements (current session)
 - Alberta Association of Municipal Districts and Counties ... 731
 - Arctic Winter Games 2012 ... 425
- Oral Question Period (current session topics)
 - Landowner property rights ... 759
 - Medevac services at Namao Air Base ... 110
 - Property rights public consultation ... 194–95
- Property rights advocate (proposed)
 - Mandate ... 194–95, 759
- Property Rights Task Force
 - Public input ... 194–95
 - Recommendations ... 759
- Surface Rights Act
 - Review of act ... 759

Elniski, Doug (PC, Edmonton-Calder)

- Alberta Bill of Rights (Property Rights Protection) Amendment Act, 2012 (Bill 201)
 - Second reading ... 310

Elniski, Doug (PC, Edmonton-Calder) (continued)

- Edmonton-Calder (constituency)
 - Cabinet tour visit, member's statement on ... 51
- Elniski, Thom
 - Member's statement ... 318
 - Member's statement, e-mail re ... 585–86
- Executive Council
 - Ministers' provincial tour, members' statements on ... 51
- Health and wellness
 - Breast health awareness, member's statement on ... 226
- Health care system
 - Primary care networks ... 142
- Health care system – Edmonton
 - Primary care networks ... 142
 - Primary care networks, member's statement on ... 139
- Introduction of Guests (school groups, individuals) ... 41, 138, 167–68, 189, 225, 598, 663
- Introduction of Visitors (visiting dignitaries)
 - Member of Parliament for Edmonton-St. Albert ... 225
- Legislative Assembly of Alberta
 - Decorum, e-mail from high school assistant principal on ... 585–86
- Long-term care facilities (nursing homes/auxiliary hospitals)
 - Members' statements ... 598–99
- Members' Statements (current session)
 - Bust a Move breast health awareness campaign ... 226
 - Cabinet tour visit to Edmonton-Calder ... 51
 - Helmets to hardhats program ... 16
 - Oliver primary care network ... 139
 - Thom Elniski ... 318
 - Tribute to long-term care residents ... 598–99
- Oral Question Period (current session topics)
 - Primary care networks ... 142
- Property Rights Advocate Act (Bill 6)
 - General remarks ... 310
- Property Rights Task Force
 - Public input ... 310
- Seniors – Housing – Edmonton
 - Edmonton-Calder constituency area housing ... 51
- Veterans
 - Career and employment services, member's statement on ... 16

Evans, Iris (PC, Sherwood Park)

- Alberta Health Services (authority)
 - Brain injury partnerships ... 68
- Brain Health Symposium 2012
 - Members' statements ... 68
- Introduction of Visitors (visiting dignitaries)
 - Former Minister of Economic Development and Trade for Ontario and Pricewaterhouse Cooper manager ... 443
- Members' Statements (current session)
 - Brain Health Symposium 2012 ... 68
- Public guardian
 - Advocacy role for persons with brain injuries ... 68

Fawcett, Kyle (PC, Calgary-North Hill)

- Alberta Electric System Operator
 - Mandate ... 364
- Alberta Health Act
 - Public consultations ... 388
- Alberta heritage savings trust fund
 - Provincial strategy ... 22

Fawcett, Kyle (PC, Calgary-North Hill) (continued)

- Alberta Innovates: Technology Futures
 - Research on energy conservation ... 363
- Alberta sustainability fund
 - Review of fund ... 22
- Alberta Utilities Commission
 - Mandate ... 364
- Arts and culture
 - Tax incentives for cultural endeavours, Motion Other than Government Motion 503 (Benito: defeated) ... 439
- Budget process
 - Results-based budgeting ... 22
 - Results-based budgeting, members' statements on ... 607–8
 - Revenue/cost forecasts used ... 147–48
- Capital projects
 - Funding ... 22
- Cities and towns
 - Inner-city revitalization, member's statement on ... 114
- Dept. of Health and Wellness
 - Main estimates 2012-13 debate ... 387–88
- Economy
 - General remarks ... 21
- Edmonton
 - Community Sustainability Task Force report ... 114
- Education
 - Provincial strategy ... 21, 22
- Electric power – Retail sales
 - Demand-side management ... 363–64
 - Industrial consumers ... 364
- Energy industry
 - Provincial strategy ... 22
- Energy products – Export
 - Market diversification, interjurisdictional co-operation on ... 22
- Environmental protection
 - Federal-provincial monitoring ... 22–23
- Fiscal framework
 - General remarks ... 22
- Gaming (gambling)
 - Revenue (cash in and out) ... 22
- Greenhouse gas emissions
 - Reduction strategies ... 364
- Health care system
 - Family care clinics ... 388
 - Primary care networks ... 22, 388
 - Provincial strategy ... 21, 388
- Health care system – Delivery models
 - Family care clinics ... 388
 - Primary care networks ... 22, 388
- Health care system – Finance
 - Evidence-based decision-making ... 388
 - Increased costs ... 387
- Health sciences professionals
 - Workforce planning ... 388
- Infrastructure
 - Funding ... 22
- Introduction of Guests (school groups, individuals) ... 6, 40
- Labour force planning
 - Recruitment and retention of skilled workers ... 22
- Lieutenant Governor of Alberta
 - Career ... 21
- Members' Statements (current session)
 - Community Sustainability Task Force report ... 114
 - Results-based budgeting ... 607–8
 - Social enterprise ... 584

Fawcett, Kyle (PC, Calgary-North Hill) (continued)

- Office of the Premier
 - Premier's input from public ... 21
 - Premier's leadership ... 23
- Oral Question Period (current session topics)
 - Energy demand-side management ... 363–64
 - Provincial budget projections ... 147–48
 - Student finance system ... 672
- Postsecondary education
 - Retention of graduates ... 672
- Postsecondary educational institutions – Admissions (enrolment)
 - Attraction and retention of students ... 672
- Revenue
 - Forecasts ... 147–48
 - Sources of revenue ... 22
- Social enterprise
 - Members' statements ... 584
- Speech from the Throne
 - Motion to consider (Fawcett/Rodney) ... 21–23
 - Overview ... 21–22
- Student financial aid (postsecondary students)
 - Provincial strategy ... 672
- Tax policy
 - Review ... 22
- Universities
 - Attraction and retention of graduate students ... 672

Forsyth, Heather (W, Calgary-Fish Creek)

- Alberta Bill of Rights
 - Former Premier Peter Lougheed's remarks ... 302–3
- Alberta Bill of Rights (Property Rights Protection) Amendment Act, 2012 (Bill 201)
 - Second reading ... 302–3
- Alberta Health Act
 - Proclamation ... 364
- Alberta Health Services (authority)
 - Centralization of services, Health Quality Council report comments on ... 267
 - Senior executives ... 105
- Alberta Health Services Board
 - Relation to Dept. of Health and Wellness ... 376
- Alberta Hospital Edmonton
 - Forensic patients, physician advocacy re (Dr. Peter Rodd) ... 447
- Alberta Medical Association
 - Emergency section president's remarks on health care system ... 278, 279
- Alberta Urban Municipalities Association
 - Relations with provincial government ... 141
- Assisted living accommodations
 - Statistics ... 376
- Budget debate (procedure)
 - Speaking order, point of order on ... 122
- Bullying
 - Legislation ... 256
- Cancer – Diagnosis and treatment
 - Wait times ... 376
- Carbon Capture and Storage Statutes Amendment Act, 2010 (Bill 24)
 - General remarks ... 302
- Committee on Public Accounts, Standing
 - Health Quality Council appearance ... 278
- Continuing/extended care facilities
 - Extra service charges (for baths, etc.) ... 64–65
- Dept. of Health and Wellness
 - Communications, funding for ... 377
 - Deputy minister's office, funding for ... 377
 - Main estimates 2012-13 debate ... 376–77
 - Minister's office, funding for ... 377

Forsyth, Heather (W, Calgary-Fish Creek) (continued)

- Drugs, prescription
 - Generic drugs ... 376
- Education – Curricula
 - Children's exemptions from specific classes ... 257
- Education Act (Bill 2)
 - Second reading ... 256–57
 - Committee, amendment A1, subamendment SA1 (insertion of phrase “paramount right and responsibility” of parents) (defeated) ... 522–23, 542–43
 - Committee, amendment A6 (replace section 16, diversity and respect) (defeated) ... 709–11
 - Ages of children included ... 257
 - Preamble ... 256–57
- Electric Statutes Amendment Act, 2009 (Bill 50)
 - General remarks ... 302
- Emergency debates under Standing Order 30 (current session)
 - Health Quality Council review report, debate ... 278–79
- Emergency medical services (ambulances, etc.) – Edmonton
 - Medevac services ... 278
- Executive Council
 - Ministers' provincial tour ... 12
- Government caucus
 - Meeting in Jasper ... 12
- Government integrity
 - Members' statements ... 730–31
- Government spending
 - Provincial strategy ... 129
- Group homes
 - Deaths and serious incidents ... 580
 - Whistle-blower legislation (proposed) ... 728
- Health care system
 - Allegations of queue-jumping ... 288
 - Family care clinics ... 376
 - Members' statements ... 105
 - Primary care ... 376
 - Task force, Health Quality Council report recommendation on ... 279
- Health care system – Delivery models
 - Primary care networks ... 377
- Health care system – Health Quality Council preferential services inquiry (2012)
 - Alberta Medical Association response ... 289
 - Legislative provisions ... 228–29
 - Terms of reference ... 288–89
- Health care system – Health Quality Council review (2011)
 - Final report ... 228–29, 267, 278
 - Final report recommendations ... 278–79
 - Members' statements ... 191
- Health Facilities Review Committee
 - Funding ... 377
- Health Quality Council of Alberta
 - H1N1 management review ... 278
 - Medevac services review ... 278
 - Public Accounts Committee appearance ... 278
- Health sciences professionals
 - Allegations of bullying ... 141
- Hospitals
 - Acute-care beds ... 376
- Hospitals – Emergency services – Capacity issues
 - History of issues ... 278–79
- Immunization
 - H1N1 influenza ... 278

Forsyth, Heather (W, Calgary-Fish Creek) (continued)

- Introduction of Guests (school groups, individuals) ... 104, 295, 444
- Land Assembly Project Area Act
 - General remarks ... 302
- Long-term care facilities (nursing homes/auxiliary hospitals)
 - Costs to residents for additional services ... 65
 - Deaths and serious incidents ... 580, 728
 - Standards of care ... 728
 - Statistics ... 376
 - Wait-lists ... 64–65
- Members' Statements (current session)
 - Health care services in Alberta ... 105
 - Health Quality Council review ... 191
 - Integrity in government ... 730–31
- Mental health services
 - Funding ... 377
 - Treatment beds ... 376
- Mental health strategy
 - Member's request for information ... 376
- Office of the Premier
 - Premier's chief of staff's comments on AUMA ... 141
- Oral Question Period (current session topics)
 - Accommodation and health care for seniors ... 64–65
 - Alleged intimidation of physicians ... 228–29, 447, 600–601
 - Government relationship with the AUMA ... 141
 - Health care system ... 267
 - Judicial inquiry into health services ... 288–89
 - Long-term care serious incidents ... 580, 728
 - PC caucus meeting and cabinet tour ... 12
 - Proclamation of health legislation ... 364
- Patient advocacy by physicians
 - Alberta Hospital Edmonton forensic patients ... 447
 - Allegations of intimidation ... 278
 - Allegations of intimidation, Health Quality Council report findings ... 228–29, 267, 288–89, 600–601
 - Allegations of intimidation, physicians' regional presidents' statement on ... 600–601
- Physicians
 - Compensation and development funding ... 377
 - Services agreement ... 105, 377
- Points of order
 - Speaking order in budget debate ... 122
- Results-based Budgeting Act (Bill 1)
 - Committee ... 129–31
- Schoolchildren
 - Enforcement of attendance ... 257
- Seniors' benefit program
 - Drug benefits ... 376
- Seniors' Property Tax Deferral Act (Bill 5)
 - Second reading ... 488–89
 - Eligibility criteria ... 489
- South Calgary health centre
 - Staffing ... 376
- Speech from the Throne
 - Motion to consider (Fawcett/Rodney), addresses in reply (Government Motion 10) ... 159–60
 - Wording ... 159–60
- Substance abuse and addiction
 - Funding ... 377
- Supportive living accommodations
 - Seniors' lodges ... 376
- Surgery procedures – Joint surgeries
 - Cost-benefit analysis ... 376
 - Wait times ... 376

Forsyth, Heather (W, Calgary-Fish Creek) (continued)

- Tom Baker Cancer Centre
 - Departure of former pathology laboratory director (Dr. Tony Magliocco) ... 191, 278

Fritz, Yvonne (PC, Calgary-Cross)

- Oral Question Period (current session topics)
 - Safe Communities Resource Centre ... 294
- Safe Communities Resource Centre
 - Services provided ... 294

Goudreau, Hector G. (PC, Dunvegan-Central Peace)

- Agriculture Financial Services Corporation
 - Loan and risk management programs ... 728–29
- Alberta Foundation for the Arts
 - Grants program ... 440
- Alberta Historical Resources Foundation
 - Grants program ... 440
- Alberta multimedia development fund
 - Grants program ... 440
- Arts and culture
 - Tax incentives for cultural endeavours, Motion Other than Government Motion 503 (Benito: defeated) ... 439–40
- Farm safety
 - Safety initiatives ... 422
- Nonprofit, not-for-profit, voluntary, and charitable organizations
 - Cultural organizations ... 440
- Oral Question Period (current session topics)
 - Agriculture Financial Services Corporation ... 728–29
 - Farm safety ... 422
 - Grimshaw Holy Family school ... 146
 - Schools – Maintenance and repair – Grimshaw
 - General remarks ... 146

Griffiths, Doug (PC, Battle River-Wainwright; Minister of Municipal Affairs)

- Aboriginal peoples – Economic development
 - First Nations development fund ... 89–90
- Affordable housing
 - Access to housing ... 725–26
 - Funding ... 509
 - Repairs and maintenance ... 143
- Agreement on internal trade
 - Impact on government contracts ... 323
- Alberta Association of Municipal Districts and Counties
 - Relations with provincial government ... 142
- Alberta Urban Municipalities Association
 - Breakfast meetings ... 176, 320
 - Relations with provincial government ... 108, 142, 176, 320, 358
- Cities and towns
 - City charters (proposed) ... 320
- Construction industry
 - Protection for builders ... 291
- Dept. of Intergovernmental, International and Aboriginal Relations
 - Supplementary estimates 2011-12, No. 2, debate ... 89–90
- Dept. of Municipal Affairs
 - Minister's relations with AUMA and AAMDC ... 142
 - Supplementary estimates 2011-12, No. 2, debate ... 83–84
- Dept. of Sustainable Resource Development
 - Mandate ... 323
- Emergency management – Cardston (county)
 - Bylaw repeal ... 511

Griffiths, Doug (PC, Battle River-Wainwright; Minister of Municipal Affairs) (continued)

Emergency Management Act
 General remarks ... 511
 Floods – Southern Alberta
 Recovery program ... 420
 Gaming (gambling)
 Revenue from First Nations casinos ... 89–90
 Government contracts
 Slave Lake recovery program ... 323
 Health care system
 Rehabilitation care ... 509
 Housing
 Homeowner programs (proposed) ... 291
 Housing – Construction
 Construction and inspection standards ... 269, 291, 322, 324, 727
 New home warranty program ... 291, 324, 727
 Housing – Fort McMurray
 Penhorwood Place condominiums ... 269, 322
 Housing – Leduc
 Bellavera Green condominiums and apartments ... 269
 Housing – Rental housing
 Health and safety standards ... 324
 Rent supplement program ... 725–26
 Housing – Slave Lake
 Construction standards for new buildings ... 83–84
 Infrastructure – Slave Lake
 Construction standards for new building ... 83
 Introduction of Guests (school groups, individuals) ... 58, 389–90, 751
 Introduction of Visitors (visiting dignitaries)
 AAMDC representatives ... 443
 Saskatchewan Minister of Social Services and guests ... 225
 Lobbyists
 Interest groups ... 358
 Municipal Government Act
 Review of act (proposed) ... 108–9, 320
 Municipal sustainability initiative
 Funding ... 320
 Funding criteria ... 108, 142, 176
 Municipalities
 Emergency management ... 511
 New West Partnership
 Impact on government contract process ... 323
 Oral Question Period (current session topics)
 Advocacy to government ... 358
 Affordable housing ... 725–26
 Disaster recovery program ... 420
 Education property taxes ... 113, 604
 Government relationship with the AUMA ... 142
 Municipal emergency management ... 511
 Municipal financing ... 176, 320
 Municipal property tax relief ... 322
 Municipal sustainability initiative funding ... 108–9
 Municipal taxation ... 577
 Provincial tax policy ... 144
 Residential construction standards ... 269, 291, 324, 727
 Residential rehabilitation assistance ... 509
 Slave Lake disaster recovery contracts ... 323
 Social housing for seniors ... 143
 Westlawn Courts seniors' residence ... 323
 Property tax
 Exemptions (proposed) ... 322

Griffiths, Doug (PC, Battle River-Wainwright; Minister of Municipal Affairs) (continued)

Property tax – Education levy
 Revenue to province ... 577, 604
 Property tax – Education levy – Calgary
 General remarks ... 604
 Property tax – Education levy – Red Deer
 News media reports ... 113
 Safety Codes Act
 Amendments (proposed) ... 324
 Enforcement, training of safety codes officers ... 324
 Schools – Maintenance and repair – Grimshaw
 Advocacy to government ... 358
 Seniors – Housing
 Home adaptation program ... 509
 Seniors – Housing – Bonnyville
 Upgrades and addition of units ... 143
 Seniors – Housing – Edmonton
 Westlawn Courts residence, condition of ... 323
 Seniors' benefit program
 General remarks ... 509
 Social housing
 Repair and maintenance ... 143
 Supplementary estimates
 Supplementary estimates 2011-12, No. 2, debate ... 83–84, 89–90
 Tax policy
 General remarks ... 144
 Tobacco Reduction (Protection of Children in Vehicles) Amendment Act, 2012 (Bill 203)
 Second reading ... 429–30
 Traffic Safety Amendment Act, 2011 (Bill 26)
 Sanctions for blood-alcohol levels of .05 to .08 ... 429
 Trade, investment, and labour mobility agreement (Alberta-British Columbia)
 Impact on government contract process ... 323
 Wildfires – Prevention
 FireSmart program ... 323
 Wildfires – Slave Lake
 Recovery program ... 291, 323, 324
 Recovery program, funding from supplementary supply ... 83

Groeneveld, George (PC, Highwood)

Highwood (constituency)
 Members' statements ... 731
 Introduction of Guests (school groups, individuals) ... 50, 190
 Kennedy, Sheldon
 Members' statements ... 16
 Members' Statements (current session)
 Highwood constituency ... 731
 Sheldon Kennedy ... 16
 Petitions presented
 Request for Dept. of Environment and Foothills MD refusal of BFI Canada/Prairie Sky Resource Centre application for waste landfill site ... 69

Hancock, Dave, QC (PC, Edmonton-Whitemud; Minister of Human Services)

Aboriginal children
 Programs and services ... 475
 Aboriginal peoples
 Programs and services ... 46, 457
 Workforce strategy ... 397, 478
 Aboriginal peoples – Economic development
 First Nations development fund ... 397
 Agreement on internal trade
 Licensing of certified general accountants, Manitoba challenge to Ontario practices ... 235

Hancock, Dave, QC (PC, Edmonton-Whitemud; Minister of Human Services) (continued)

Alberta Act (1905)
 Separate school provisions ... 486–87
 Alberta Foster Parent Association
 General remarks ... 456
 Alberta Secretariat for Action on Homelessness
 Mandate ... 470–72
 Alberta Supports
 Programs and services ... 46
 Programs and services, contracted agencies ... 456
 Alberta Vulnerable Infant Response Team
 General remarks ... 459
 Alberta Works employment program
 Services provided ... 324
 Support worker deployment ... 198
 Appeals Commission (workers' compensation)
 Annual report ... 88
 General remarks ... 87, 88
 Appropriation Act, 2012 (Bill 7)
 Third reading ... 691–93
 Appropriation (Supplementary Supply) Act, 2012 (Bill 3)
 Third reading ... 251
 Budget debate (procedure)
 Schedule of debate ... 20–21
 Speaking order, point of order on ... 122
 Budget process
 Revenue/cost forecasts ... 691–92
 Bullying
 Prevention strategies ... 579
 Chair – Rulings
 Relevance ... 465
 Chief Electoral Officer, office of the
 Supplementary estimates 2011-12, No. 2, debate ... 89
 Child and Family Services Council for Quality Assurance
 General remarks ... 456–57
 Child poverty
 General remarks ... 45
 Child welfare
 Programs and services ... 459–61, 474
 Children
 Employment as farm workers ... 110
 Children – Protective services
 Programs and services ... 456
 Children with disabilities
 Family supports ... 456, 466
 Parenting programs ... 366
 Cities and towns
 Access to daycare ... 458
 Committee of Supply
 Motion to resolve into (Government Motion 3:
 carried) ... 18
 Supplementary estimates, No. 2, considered on February 13, 2012 (Government Motion 8: carried) ... 21
 Committee of the Whole Assembly
 Motion to resolve into (Government Motion 2: accepted) ... 17
 Committee on the Economy, Standing (former policy field committee)
 Recommendations on poverty reduction strategy ... 9
 Committee on Energy, Standing
 Membership changes (Government Motion 9:
 carried) ... 21
 Committee on Legislative Offices, Standing
 Review of legislative officers' budgets ... 89

Hancock, Dave, QC (PC, Edmonton-Whitemud; Minister of Human Services) (continued)

Committee on Public Health and Safety, Standing
 Membership changes (Government Motion 9:
 carried) ... 21
 Construction industry
 Workplace health and safety ... 476
 Continuing/extended care facilities – Lethbridge
 Edith Cavell centre collective bargaining ... 668–69
 Daycare
 Fees ... 473
 Spaces available ... 86–87, 457–58, 473
 Subsidies ... 87, 456, 468
 Subsidies, funding from supplementary supply ...
 86–87
 Daycare centres
 Accreditation ... 458, 459, 473
 Employee credentials and standards ... 87
 Staff wages ... 87, 463
 Dept. of Human Services
 Departmental restructuring ... 476–77
 Funding ... 474–75
 Main estimates 2012-13 debate ... 455–78
 Minister's communications with front-line staff ...
 465–66, 476–77
 Programs and services ... 455–56, 460–61, 464–65
 Dept. of Human Services
 Programs and services, use of contracted agencies ...
 460, 463
 Staff morale ... 460–61, 463–64
 Supplementary estimates 2011-12, No. 2, debate ...
 86–88
 Education Act (Bill 2)
 Committee, amendment A2 (elimination of tuition fees) (defeated) ... 560–61
 Committee, amendment A6 (replace section 16, diversity and respect) (defeated) ... 717–18 Emergency debates under Standing Order 30 (current session)
 Health Quality Council review report, request for debate (proceeded with) ... 272
 Health Quality Council review report, debate ... 279–
 80
 Work stoppages by hospital support staff, request for debate (not proceeded with) ... 181
 Estimates of Supply (government expenditures)
 Main estimates 2012-13, motion to consider
 (Government Motion 6: carried) ... 18, 20–21
 Main estimates 2012-13, schedule of debate ... 20–
 21
 Supplementary estimates 2011-12, No. 2, considered
 in Committee of Supply on February 13, 2012
 (Government Motion 8: carried) ... 21
 Farm safety
 Deaths and serious incidents ... 44, 110, 462
 Worker exclusion from workplace legislation ... 44,
 110, 462
 Worker transportation ... 421
 Federal Public Building
 Redevelopment ... 692
 Fetal alcohol spectrum disorder
 Treatment and services ... 475
 Foster care
 Programs and services ... 456
 Funeral industry
 Provincial contracts ... 60
 Government contracts
 General remarks ... 60, 456, 460, 463

Hancock, Dave, QC (PC, Edmonton-Whitemud; Minister of Human Services) (continued)

Health care system – Delivery models
Private delivery model ... 179

Health care system – Health Quality Council review (2011)
Final report recommendations ... 279–80

Health Quality Council of Alberta
Membership ... 507

Homelessness
10-year plan to end ... 10, 44–45, 456, 470–72
Statistics ... 13

Homelessness – Calgary
10-year plan to end ... 472
Statistics ... 13

Hospitals
Support staff labour negotiations ... 174–75

Hospitals – Emergency services – Capacity issues
Full capacity protocol ... 279–80

Housing – Rental housing
Consumer protection ... 578

Immigrants
Programs and services ... 456

Immigration
Federal regulations ... 450–51, 477–78
Immigrate to Alberta (Internet portal), surplus funds ... 87
Provincial strategy ... 326

Impaired driving
Coasters with message on legislation, point of order on ... 237

Income support programs
Client benefits ... 324, 468–69, 478
Statistics ... 456
Supports for independence program ... 324

Infrastructure
Funding ... 71

International offices – Hong Kong
Suspension of representative ... 507

Introduction of Guests (school groups, individuals)
... 57, 103, 167, 286, 390, 414, 573–74, 597

Labour force planning
Input from business ... 450
Recruitment and retention of skilled workers ... 15, 326, 450–51, 478

Labour market agreement
Decrease in number of learners ... 87–88

Labour Relations Code
Review of code ... 478

Legislative Assembly of Alberta
Evening sittings (Government Motion 8: carried) ... 21

Long-term care facilities (nursing homes/auxiliary hospitals)
Labour disputes ... 421
Private facilities ... 421

Man in Motion 25th anniversary relay
Address to Assembly by Rick Hansen, Government Motion 11 (Hancock: carried) ... 402

Mental health services
Funding ... 475

National Social Work Week
General remarks ... 461

Office of the Premier
Premier's meeting with Braemar school students ... 172

Officers of the Legislative Assembly
Debate of estimates, traditions and practices on ... 89

Hancock, Dave, QC (PC, Edmonton-Whitemud; Minister of Human Services) (continued)

Oral Question Period (current session topics)
Alberta Works program on-site support ... 198
Alberta's representative in Asia ... 507
Bullying ... 579
Edith Cavell Continuing Care Centre collective bargaining ... 668–69
Education services for teen parents ... 172
Electricity prices ... 9
Farm worker exemptions from labour legislation ... 44, 110
Farm worker labour protection ... 421
First Nations economic development ... 397
Homelessness in Calgary ... 13
Labour mobility barriers ... 235
Labour negotiations with hospital support staff ... 174–75
Parent link centres ... 365–66
Poverty reduction ... 9–10, 44–45
Private operation of continuing care centres ... 421
Provincially controlled funeral services ... 60
Rent regulation ... 578
Sexual assault services ... 579
Skilled labour shortage ... 15, 326
Skilled labour supply ... 450–51
Social assistance programs ... 46
Support for front-line social workers ... 396
Workforce employment services ... 324

Parenting
Parent link centres ... 365–66
Teenaged mothers, programs and services for ... 172, 456

Points of order
Allegations against a member ... 179, 749
Imputing motives ... 71, 237
Parliamentary language ... 675–76
Referring to the absence of members ... 674–75
Relevance ... 558, 563–64
Speaking order in budget debate ... 122

Poverty
Reduction strategy ... 9, 44–45, 198

Privilege
Obstructing a member in performance of duty ... 681

Property Rights Task Force
Membership ... 507

Protection of Children Abusing Drugs Act
Apprehension of children under ... 459

Results-based Budgeting Act (Bill 1)
Committee, amendment A1 (mandatory 1-year review) (defeated) ... 127

St. Albert and Sturgeon Valley School Districts
Establishment Act (Bill 4)
Second reading ... 486–88
Third reading ... 697

School fees (elementary and secondary)
Provincial strategy ... 560–61

Schools – Calgary
Louise Dean school, supports for pregnant and parenting teens ... 456

Schools – Construction – Edmonton
General remarks ... 692

Schools – Edmonton
Braemar school, supports for pregnant and parenting teenagers ... 172, 456

Seniors
Financial issues ... 9

Hancock, Dave, QC (PC, Edmonton-Whitemud; Minister of Human Services) (continued)

- Seniors' Property Tax Deferral Act (Bill 5)
 - Third reading ... 699–700
- Sexual assault centres
 - Counselling services ... 579
- Social policy framework (proposed)
 - General remarks ... 9–10, 44–45, 456, 461, 464
- Social workers
 - Supports for ... 396
- Speech from the Throne
 - Motion to consider, addresses in reply (Government Motion 10) ... 348
- Standing Orders
 - Provisions for budget debates ... 20–21
- Supplementary estimates
 - Supplementary estimates 2011-12, No. 2, debate ... 86–88, 89
- Temporary foreign workers
 - Programs and services ... 326
- Tobacco Reduction (Protection of Children in Vehicles) Amendment Act, 2012 (Bill 203)
 - Committee ... 619–20
 - Committee, amendment A1 (replace “January 1, 2013” with “Proclamation”) (carried) ... 619–20
- Trade unions
 - General remarks ... 477
- Trades
 - Workforce incentives ... 478
- Traffic safety
 - Farm worker transportation ... 421
- Workers' Compensation Board
 - Complaints ... 461
 - Executive remuneration ... 466
 - Funding from supplementary supply ... 87
 - Supports for injured workers ... 461–62
- Workplace health and safety
 - Labour legislation, compliance with United Nations conventions ... 174–75
 - Programs and services ... 475, 476
 - Workplace standards ... 456

Hansen, Rick (Co-chair, Board of Directors, Rick Hansen Foundation)

- Man in Motion 25th anniversary relay
 - Address to the Assembly by Rick Hansen ... 413–14

Hayden, Jack (PC, Drumheller-Stettler; Minister of Tourism, Parks and Recreation)

- Campgrounds, provincial
 - Online reservation system ... 234
- Dept. of Tourism, Parks and Recreation
 - Staff wages and salaries, AUPE settlement impact ... 90
 - Supplementary estimates 2011-12, No. 2, debate ... 90
- Education Act (Bill 2)
 - Committee, amendment A7 (establishment of charter schools) (carried) ... 748
- Introduction of Guests (school groups, individuals)
 - ... 39, 50, 573
- Land trusts
 - Eligibility for grant funding ... 266
- Oral Question Period (current session topics)
 - Land conservation trusts ... 266
 - Online camping reservation system ... 234
 - Support for tourism ... 65
- Parks, provincial
 - Provincial strategy ... 65

Hayden, Jack (PC, Drumheller-Stettler; Minister of Tourism, Parks and Recreation) (continued)

- Seniors' Property Tax Deferral Act (Bill 5)
 - Third reading ... 700
- Supplementary estimates
 - Supplementary estimates 2011-12, No. 2, debate ... 90
- Tourism
 - Industry in Alberta ... 65
- Travel Alberta
 - Funding by hotel industry ... 65
- Hehr, Kent (AL, Calgary-Buffer)
 - Aboriginal children – Education
 - Memorandums of understanding ... 12
 - Programs and services ... 12
 - Alberta Bill of Rights
 - Landowner rights provisions ... 304
 - Alberta Bill of Rights (Property Rights Protection) Amendment Act, 2012 (Bill 201)
 - Second reading ... 303–4
 - Alberta First Nations Energy Centre
 - Provincial strategy ... 416–17, 448
 - Alberta heritage savings trust fund
 - Value of fund ... 15
 - Alberta initiative for school improvement
 - Funding ... 334
 - Alberta Land Stewardship Act
 - General remarks ... 304
 - Appropriation Act, 2012 (Bill 7)
 - Third reading ... 687–89
 - Appropriation (Supplementary Supply) Act, 2012 (Bill 3)
 - Third reading ... 251–52
 - Assured income for the severely handicapped
 - Client benefits ... 35
 - Funding from supplementary supply ... 84, 86
 - Bitumen – Upgrading
 - Alberta industry ... 416–17
 - North West Upgrading project ... 448
 - Budget process
 - Results-based budgeting ... 33–34
 - Use of supplementary supply ... 251–52
 - Bullying
 - Public vs. private school incidence ... 232–33
 - Calgary public school board
 - Deferred maintenance ... 268, 338
 - Canadian Charter of Rights and Freedoms
 - General remarks ... 551
 - Carbon Capture and Storage Statutes Amendment Act, 2010 (Bill 24)
 - General remarks ... 304
 - Charter schools
 - Provincial strategy ... 346
 - Committee on Privileges and Elections, Standing Orders and Printing, Standing
 - Compensation to members ... 362
 - Condominiums
 - Reserve funds, standards for assessment studies, Motion Other than Government Motion 502 (Quest: carried) ... 313–14
 - Correctional services
 - Federal prisons ... 12
 - Funding from supplementary supply ... 89
 - Dept. of Education
 - Main estimates 2012-13 debate ... 331–39, 344–47
 - Dept. of Human Services
 - Funding from supplementary supply ... 251

Hehr, Kent (AL, Calgary-Buffalo) (continued)

- Dept. of Justice and Attorney General
 - Supplementary estimates 2011-12, No. 2, debate ... 80-82
- Dept. of Municipal Affairs
 - Supplementary estimates 2011-12, No. 2, debate ... 83
- Dept. of Seniors
 - Supplementary estimates 2011-12, No. 2, debate ... 84, 86
- Dept. of Solicitor General and Public Security
 - Supplementary estimates 2011-12, No. 2, debate ... 89
- Dept. of Transportation
 - Supplementary estimates 2011-12, No. 2, debate ... 80
- Early childhood education
 - Funding ... 346
 - Kindergarten and junior kindergarten ... 322, 331-32
- Education
 - Parental choice ... 158
 - Public system ... 689
- Education – Curricula
 - Children's exemptions from specific classes ... 725
 - English as a second language ... 344-45
- Education – Finance
 - 3-year funding cycle ... 62, 109, 333-34, 336-38
- Additional funding for 2011-12 school year ... 333, 603
- Voucher system ... 159, 347
- Education Act (Bill 2)
 - Second reading ... 158-59
 - Committee, amendment A1 (addition to preamble on parental choice) (carried) ... 544-45, 551, 553
 - Committee, amendment A1, subamendment SA1 (insertion of phrase "paramount right and responsibility" of parents) (defeated) ... 540-42
 - Committee, amendment A2 (elimination of tuition fees) (defeated) ... 557-58, 561
 - Committee, amendment A7 (establishment of charter schools) (carried) ... 743
 - Preamble ... 158
- Electric Statutes Amendment Act, 2009 (Bill 50)
 - General remarks ... 304
- Fiscal policy
 - Fiscal conservatism vs. progressivism ... 252
 - Members' statements ... 15
- Government savings
 - Members' statements ... 296
- Government spending
 - Provincial strategy ... 34, 336
- Health and wellness
 - Programs and services ... 35
- Health care system – Finance
 - Funding ... 689
- Home-schooling
 - Curriculum content ... 669, 725
 - Funding ... 669
 - Student assessment ... 756-57
- Homeowner Protection Act (Bill 209)
 - First reading ... 585
- Housing – Construction
 - Provincial strategy ... 314
- Housing – Slave Lake
 - Construction standards for new buildings ... 83
- Income support programs
 - Supports for independence program ... 86
- Infrastructure
 - Funding ... 453
- Introduction of Guests (school groups, individuals) ... 6, 503

Hehr, Kent (AL, Calgary-Buffalo) (continued)

- Judges, provincial
 - Compensation ... 81-82
 - Compensation, funding from supplementary supply ... 80-81
- Land Assembly Project Area Act
 - General remarks ... 304
- Masters in chambers
 - Compensation, funding from supplementary supply ... 80-81
- Members of the Legislative Assembly
 - Compensation review ... 362
- Members' Statements (current session)
 - Provincial fiscal policy ... 15
 - Saving for the future ... 296
- Oral Question Period (current session topics)
 - Aboriginal education ... 12
 - Bitumen upgrading ... 416-17, 448
 - Bullying in private schools ... 232-33
 - Education funding ... 62, 109, 268, 603
 - Full-day kindergarten programs ... 322
 - Funding for private schools ... 195, 231, 292-93, 394-95, 578-79
 - Home-schooling ... 669, 725, 756-57
 - MLA remuneration ... 362
 - Provincial tax policy ... 453, 511, 581-82
 - School fees ... 142-43
 - School fees collection ... 726
- Peace officers
 - Number of sheriffs ... 89
- Persons with developmental disabilities
 - Programs and services, funding from supplementary supply ... 84, 86
- Persons with disabilities
 - Programs and services ... 33, 34-35
- Points of order
 - Factual accuracy ... 337
 - Parliamentary language ... 675
- Poverty
 - Financial costs ... 35
- Private schools
 - American student enrolment ... 347
 - Faith-based schools ... 669
 - Funding ... 158-59, 195, 231, 292-93, 346-47, 394-95, 578-79, 669
 - Transparency and accountability ... 195, 231, 394-95
- Public transportation
 - GreenTRIP incentives program ... 80
- Results-based Budgeting Act (Bill 1)
 - Second reading ... 33-35
 - Committee ... 126-27, 131-32
 - Committee, amendment A1 (mandatory 1-year review) (defeated) ... 126-27
- Revenue
 - Fluctuations in revenue ... 34
 - Nonrenewable resource revenue ... 15, 252, 687-88
- St. Albert and Sturgeon Valley School Districts Establishment Act (Bill 4)
 - Second reading ... 481-82
- School boards and districts
 - Financial decision-making ... 334-35
 - Publicly available information ... 331
- School fees (elementary and secondary)
 - Local decision-making ... 142-43
 - Provincial strategy ... 268, 335, 557-58, 561
 - School board use of collection agencies ... 726
- Schools
 - Class size ... 159

Hehr, Kent (AL, Calgary-Buffalo) (continued)

- Schools – Construction
 - Long-term planning ... 345
- Schools – Maintenance and repair
 - Deferred maintenance ... 338
- Schools – Maintenance and repair – Grimshaw
 - General remarks ... 338
- Speaker
 - Retirement of current Speaker ... 34, 756
- Speech from the Throne
 - Motion to consider (Fawcett/Rodney), addresses in reply (Government Motion 10) ... 95–96
- Student testing (elementary and secondary students)
 - Provincial achievement tests, student exemption from ... 756–57
- Supplementary estimates
 - Supplementary estimates 2011-12, No. 2, debate ... 80–84, 86, 89
- Tax policy
 - Flat tax rate vs. progressive rate ... 34
 - General remarks ... 131, 296, 337–38, 453, 511, 581–82, 688–89
- Teachers – Supply
 - Number in education system ... 109, 268, 333–34, 603
- Teachers – Wages
 - Contract negotiations ... 62, 109, 338
 - Funding ... 338, 603

Hinman, Paul (W, Calgary-Glenmore)

- Aboriginal peoples – Economic development
 - First Nations development fund ... 255
- Alberta – History
 - John Ware ... 25
- Alberta Association of Municipal Districts and Counties
 - Premier's address to meeting ... 755
- Alberta Bill of Rights
 - Former Premier Peter Lougheed's remarks ... 300
 - Landowner rights provisions ... 311
- Alberta Bill of Rights (Property Rights Protection) Amendment Act, 2012 (Bill 201)
 - First reading ... 69
 - Second reading ... 299–300, 310–11
 - General remarks ... 644
- Alberta Electric System Operator
 - Mandate ... 107
- Alberta First Nations Energy Centre
 - Provincial strategy ... 392–93, 659
- Alberta heritage savings trust fund
 - Provincial strategy ... 26
- Alberta Investment Management Corporation
 - Investment strategies ... 28
- Alberta Land Stewardship Act
 - General remarks ... 192–93, 300, 310–11
- Alberta Medical Association
 - Newspaper advertisement on health care system judicial inquiry ... 325
- Alberta sustainability fund
 - Utilization of fund ... 684
- Alberta Urban Municipalities Association
 - Breakfast meetings ... 176
 - Relations with provincial government ... 138–39, 176
- Alberta Utilities Commission
 - Mandate ... 27, 107
- Appropriation Act, 2012 (Bill 7)
 - Third reading ... 683–86, 704, 705–6
- Appropriation (Supplementary Supply) Act, 2012 (Bill 3)
 - Third reading ... 254–56

Hinman, Paul (W, Calgary-Glenmore) (continued)

- Assured income for the severely handicapped
 - Client benefits ... 255
- Bioenergy industry
 - Ethanol production ... 27, 28
- Budget documents
 - Level of detail provided ... 19–20
- Budget process
 - Balanced/deficit budgets ... 26, 48, 99, 254–56, 685
 - Results-based budgeting ... 19, 26, 28
 - Use of supplementary supply ... 254
 - Zero-based budgeting ... 99–100
- Canadian Charter of Rights and Freedoms
 - General remarks ... 529
 - Religious freedom provisions ... 551
- Carbon capture and storage
 - Provincial strategy ... 26, 28
- Carbon Capture and Storage Statutes Amendment Act, 2010 (Bill 24)
 - General remarks ... 192–93, 300
- Chief Electoral Officer, office of the
 - Funding from supplementary supply ... 255
- Child welfare
 - Legislation ... 436
- Condominium Property Act
 - Homeowner protection ... 312
- Condominiums
 - Reserve funds, standards for assessment studies, Motion Other than Government Motion 502 (Quest: carried) ... 312–13
- Constitution of Canada
 - Rights and freedoms ... 654
- Corporations
 - Programs and services for businesses ... 27–28
- Dept. of Human Services
 - Funding from supplementary supply ... 255
- Dept. of Intergovernmental, International and Aboriginal Relations
 - Funding from supplementary supply ... 255
- Dept. of Municipal Affairs
 - Funding from supplementary supply ... 255
- Dept. of Seniors
 - Funding from supplementary supply ... 255
- Education
 - Public consultations ... 671
- Education – Finance
 - Additional funding for 2011-12 school year ... 255
 - Funding sources ... 255
- Education Act (Bill 2)
 - Committee, amendment A1 (addition to preamble on parental choice) (carried) ... 551–53
 - Committee, amendment A1, subamendment SA1 (insertion of phrase “paramount right and responsibility” of parents) (defeated) ... 528–30, 539–40
 - Committee, amendment A2 (elimination of tuition fees) (defeated) ... 561
 - Committee, amendment A4 (definition of bullying to include entire school community) (carried unanimously) ... 569
 - Committee, amendment A6 (replace section 16, diversity and respect) (defeated) ... 714–17
 - Committee, amendment A8 (charter school restrictions; registration/accreditation of private schools; school division creation; francophone school trustee candidate criteria; shared school spaces) (not voted) ... 771–74

Hinman, Paul (W, Calgary-Glenmore) (continued)

- Electric power lines – Construction
 - Critical Transmission Review Committee report ... 107
 - North-south transmission line reinforcement ... 107, 499
 - Procurement process ... 107
- Electric Statutes Amendment Act, 2009 (Bill 50)
 - General remarks ... 300
 - Repeal of legislation (proposed) ... 107, 192–93
- Elizabeth II, Queen
 - Diamond Jubilee ... 25
- Estimates of Supply (government expenditures)
 - Main estimates 2012-13, motion to consider (Government Motion 6: carried) ... 19–20
- Ethics Commissioner, office of the
 - Investigations re international office representative in Hong Kong ... 422
- Executive Council
 - Compensation ... 26
 - Ministers' provincial tour ... 19, 26
- Expropriation Act
 - Executive Council authority ... 311
- Federal Public Building
 - Redevelopment ... 684, 685
- Freehold lands
 - Landowner rights ... 26–27, 192–93
 - Landowner rights advocacy ... 26
- Government caucus
 - Meeting in Jasper ... 26
- Government integrity
 - Members' statements ... 445
- Government programs and services
 - Provincial strategy ... 684–85
- Government savings
 - Provincial strategy ... 26
- Government spending
 - Provincial strategy ... 25–28, 48
 - Public input on ... 132–34
 - Wildrose position ... 27
- Health care system – Delivery models
 - Private delivery model ... 685–86
- Health care system – Health Quality Council
 - preferential services inquiry (2012)
 - Terms of reference ... 325
- Health care system – Health Quality Council review (2011)
 - Final report recommendations ... 325
- Health Quality Council of Alberta
 - Membership ... 507
- Infrastructure
 - Funding ... 27–28
- International offices – Hong Kong
 - Suspension of representative ... 422, 507
- Irrigation
 - Provincial strategy ... 659
- Judges, provincial
 - Compensation, funding from supplementary supply ... 255
- Land Assembly Project Area Act
 - General remarks ... 192–93, 300, 310
- Land-use framework
 - Implementation ... 498
 - Industrial development in regions ... 654–55, 659–61
- Lieutenant Governor of Alberta
 - General remarks ... 25
- Lower Athabasca regional plan (land-use framework)
 - Industrial development in region ... 644–45
 - Landowner rights impacts ... 310–11

Hinman, Paul (W, Calgary-Glenmore) (continued)

- Mandatory Reporting of Child Pornography Act
 - Proclamation of act ... 436
- Masters in chambers
 - Compensation, funding from supplementary supply ... 255
- Members of the Legislative Assembly
 - Compensation ... 26
 - Compensation review ... 26
- Members' Statements (current session)
 - Integrity in government leadership ... 445
 - Municipal funding ... 138–39
- Municipal sustainability initiative
 - Funding criteria ... 176
- Municipalities – Finance
 - Members' statements ... 138–39
 - Wildrose Party strategy ... 755
- Northern Alberta development strategy
 - General remarks ... 27
- Office of the Premier
 - Premier's chief of staff's comments on AUMA ... 139
 - Premier's leadership ... 755
- Oldman River
 - Dam construction ... 655
- Opposition caucuses
 - Time allotted in budget debates ... 19
- Oral Question Period (procedure)
 - Speaking time, point of order on ... 763–64
- Oral Question Period (current session topics)
 - Alberta First Nations Energy Centre ... 392–93
 - Alberta's representative in Asia ... 422, 507
 - Critical Transmission Review Committee report ... 107
 - Judicial inquiry into health services ... 325
 - Landowner property rights ... 192–93
 - Municipal financing ... 176, 755
 - Provincial budget ... 48
 - School council teleconference remarks ... 671
- Patient advocacy by physicians
 - Allegations of intimidation, Health Quality Council report findings ... 325
- Persons with developmental disabilities
 - Programs and services ... 255
- Points of order
 - Allegations against a member ... 527
 - Inflammatory language ... 712
 - Referring to the absence of members ... 675
 - Relevance ... 660
 - Speaking time in Oral Question Period ... 763–64
- Progressive Conservative Party of Alberta
 - Executive appointments ... 507
- Property Rights Advocate Act (Bill 6)
 - Second reading ... 498–99
 - Committee ... 643–45, 653–55, 659–61
 - General remarks ... 311
- Property Rights Task Force
 - Membership ... 507
 - Public input ... 192–93
 - Recommendations ... 653–55
- Property tax
 - Revenue ... 684
- Protection of Children Abusing Drugs Amendment Act (Bill 6, 2009)
 - Proclamation ... 436
- Public transportation
 - GreenTRIP incentives program ... 27
- Research and development
 - Recruitment and retention of professionals ... 27

Hinman, Paul (W, Calgary-Glenmore) (continued)

- Results-based Budgeting Act (Bill 1)
 - Second reading ... 99–101
 - Committee ... 132–34
 - Committee, amendment A1 (mandatory 1-year review) (defeated) ... 126–28
- Revenue
 - Fluctuations in revenue ... 26
- St. Albert and Sturgeon Valley School Districts Establishment Act (Bill 4)
 - Second reading ... 486
- School fees (elementary and secondary)
 - Provincial strategy ... 561
- Schools – Construction
 - Project scheduling ... 684
- Schools – Construction – Airdrie
 - Alternative financing models, minister's remarks during teleconference ... 671
- Seniors' Property Tax Deferral Act (Bill 5)
 - Second reading ... 491–94
 - Determination of interest rate and home value ... 491–92, 494
 - Eligibility criteria ... 491–92
- Speech from the Throne
 - Motion to consider (Fawcett/Rodney), addresses in reply (Government Motion 10) ... 25–28
- Tax policy
 - General remarks ... 26, 27, 684, 704–5
- Tobacco Reduction (Protection of Children in Vehicles) Amendment Act, 2012 (Bill 203)
 - Second reading ... 435–36
- Tom Baker Cancer Centre
 - Departure of former pathology laboratory director (Dr. Tony Magliocco) ... 27
- Water management
 - Aquifer protection ... 660
 - Statutory consents for water use ... 653
- Wildrose Party
 - Fiscal policy ... 100, 755

Horne, Fred (PC, Edmonton-Rutherford; Minister of Health and Wellness)

- Aboriginal peoples
 - Wellness strategy ... 371
- Affordable housing
 - Access to housing ... 373
- Alberta Health Act
 - Proclamation ... 364
- Alberta health care insurance plan
 - Client benefits ... 293
 - Supplemental benefits ... 368
- Alberta Health Services (authority)
 - Centralization of services ... 109, 370
 - Centralization of services, Health Quality Council report comments on ... 264, 267–68
 - Local health advisory councils ... 386–87
 - Third-quarter report ... 754, 756
- Alberta Health Services Board
 - Relation to Dept. of Health and Wellness ... 370, 377–78
- Alberta Heritage Foundation for Medical Research
 - Discontinuation of endowment fund ... 375
- Alberta Hospital Edmonton
 - Capacity ... 293, 509
 - Forensic patients, physician advocacy re (Dr. Peter Rodd) ... 451
- Alberta Medical Association
 - Newspaper advertisement on health care system judicial inquiry ... 320, 321–22, 358
 - Participation in family care clinic advisory board ... 327

Horne, Fred (PC, Edmonton-Rutherford; Minister of Health and Wellness) (continued)

- Alberta Works employment program
 - Support worker deployment ... 198
- Assisted living accommodations
 - Private facilities ... 386
- Assured income for the severely handicapped
 - Client benefits ... 510
 - Client benefits, residents of continuing care facilities ... 510
 - Rent protection for clients ... 510
- Calgary Lab Services
 - Review of pathology services ... 194
- Canadian Institute for Health Information
 - Report on private health care delivery ... 385
- Cancer – Diagnosis and treatment
 - Drug shortage ... 360–61
 - Funding ... 368
 - Wait times ... 277, 278
- Children
 - Mental health and addictions services ... 293, 371–72
- College and Association of Registered Nurses of Alberta
 - Participation in family care clinic advisory board ... 327
- Continuing care strategy
 - Continuum of care ... 386, 508
 - Demonstration projects ... 277, 756
- Continuing/extended care facilities
 - Capital funding ... 193, 416
 - Levels and standards of care ... 232, 508
 - Wait times ... 170, 175–76
- Continuing/extended care facilities – Calgary
 - Demonstration project ... 386
- Continuing/extended care facilities – Red Deer
 - Villa Marie demonstration project ... 277, 386
- Dept. of Health and Wellness
 - Main estimates 2012-13 debate ... 367–88
 - Mandate ... 580
 - Minister's letter to physicians on one-year settlement ... 290
- Diabetes
 - Prevention initiatives ... 176–77
 - Self-management supports ... 176
- Diagnostic imaging
 - Magnetic resonance imaging ... 387
- Drugs, prescription
 - Funding ... 368
 - Generic drugs ... 63, 375, 377
 - Seniors' benefits ... 361
- East Edmonton health centre
 - Timeline on ... 43, 141
 - Urgent care facilities delay ... 379, 380
- Edmonton clinic south
 - Funding ... 367, 368
- Edmonton General hospital
 - Long-term care ... 193, 575–76
 - Long-term care, Auditor General's recommendations on ... 289–90, 319–20
 - Long-term care, incident involving Audry Chudyk ... 289–90
- Emergency debates under Standing Order 30 (current session)
 - Health Quality Council review report, debate ... 276–78
 - Work stoppages by hospital support staff, request for debate (not proceeded with) ... 179–80
- Emergency medical services (ambulances, etc.)
 - Centralization of services ... 10, 109, 173
 - Funding ... 368

Horne, Fred (PC, Edmonton-Rutherford; Minister of Health and Wellness) (continued)

- Emergency medical services (ambulances, etc.) (continued)
 - Health Quality Council review ... 372
 - Wait times ... 372
- Emergency medical services (ambulances, etc.) – Edmonton
 - Wait times ... 170, 173
- Emergency medical services (ambulances, etc.) – St. Albert
 - Centralization of services ... 109
- Grey Nuns hospital
 - Long-term care in ... 505–6
- Health and wellness
 - Health indicators ... 371–72
 - Life expectancy ... 382
 - Programs and services ... 371–72
- Health care system
 - Access to services ... 277
 - Primary care ... 368, 380, 383
 - Primary care networks, delivery of psychology services (proposed) ... 293
 - Provincial strategy ... 388
 - Public confidence ... 275–76
 - Quality assurance ... 370
 - Rehabilitation care ... 368, 419
 - Statistics ... 382
 - Support service providers (cooks, housekeepers, etc.) ... 372
- Health care system – Delivery models
 - Family care clinics ... 277, 327, 368, 374, 377, 383, 452
 - Integration with community services ... 382–83
 - Not-for-profit delivery model ... 385
 - Primary care networks ... 43, 63, 142, 277, 327, 368, 373–74, 377–78, 383, 605
 - Private delivery model ... 171, 179–80, 385
 - Urgent care centres ... 45, 379, 380
- Health care system – Edmonton
 - North Edmonton services ... 43
 - Primary care networks ... 142
- Health care system – Finance
 - Evidence-based decision-making ... 387
 - Funding ... 382
 - Increased costs ... 387–88
- Health care system – Health Quality Council preferential services inquiry (2012)
 - Alberta Medical Association response ... 358
 - Inclusion of physician advocacy and allegations of bullying (proposed) ... 369–70
 - Legislative provisions ... 233–34, 264
 - Terms of reference ... 320, 321–22, 358, 360
- Health care system – Health Quality Council review (2011)
 - Final report ... 229, 233–34, 267–68
 - Final report recommendations ... 277–78, 369–70, 373, 377–78, 380, 382
- Health care system – Rural areas
 - Access to services ... 45
- Health sciences professionals
 - Workforce planning ... 372–73, 388
- Home care
 - Destination home (home care and rehabilitation program) ... 419
 - Funding ... 380
 - Services provided ... 368
- Hospitals
 - Acute-care beds ... 278, 373, 377, 380
 - Clinical decision units ... 380

Horne, Fred (PC, Edmonton-Rutherford; Minister of Health and Wellness) (continued)

- Hospitals (continued)
 - Local decision-making ... 386–87
 - Support staff labour negotiations ... 169–70, 229–30
 - User statistics ... 373, 382
- Hospitals – Construction – High Prairie
 - Functional plan ... 198–99
- Hospitals – Emergency services – Capacity issues
 - Full capacity protocol ... 277
 - Health Quality Council report findings ... 277
 - Increase in number of visits ... 10
 - Performance measures ... 141–42
 - Wait times ... 109, 170–71, 175–76, 380
- Housing – Rental housing
 - Health and safety standards ... 110–11
- Immunization
 - H1N1 influenza ... 371
 - Programs ... 371
- Introduction of Guests (school groups, individuals) ... 50, 137, 443, 674
- Labour Relations Board
 - Alberta Health Services application on hospital support staff labour negotiations ... 169–70
- Long-term care facilities (nursing homes/auxiliary hospitals)
 - Auditor General's recommendations ... 319–20
 - Deaths and serious incidents ... 319–20, 505–6, 575–76
 - Funding ... 580
 - Labour disputes ... 421
 - Private facilities ... 421, 446, 507–8
 - Provincial strategy ... 277
 - Standards of care ... 580
 - Wait-lists ... 447–48, 508, 754
- Medical examiners – Calgary
 - Review of criminal files ... 194
- Medical research
 - Funding ... 375
 - Reorganization of services ... 375–76
- Mental health services
 - Access to services ... 293, 373, 509
 - Diagnostic billing codes ... 230–31
 - Funding ... 293
 - Provincial strategy ... 198, 368
 - Treatment beds ... 377
- Midwifery
 - Certification of internationally trained midwives ... 423
- Minister's Advisory Committee on Health
 - Recommendation re evidence-based decision-making ... 387
- Nurses
 - Labour negotiations ... 229–30
 - Scope of practice ... 419
- Nutrition
 - Guidelines ... 371
 - Healthy U food checker ... 371
- Obesity
 - National initiatives ... 177
- Oral Question Period (current session topics)
 - Alberta Health Services third-quarter report ... 754
 - Alberta Works program on-site support ... 198
 - Alleged intimidation of physicians ... 229, 451
 - Ambulance services ... 10
 - Ambulance services in St. Albert ... 109
 - Assured income for the severely handicapped ... 510
 - Cancer drug shortage ... 360–61

Horne, Fred (PC, Edmonton-Rutherford; Minister of Health and Wellness) (continued)Oral Question Period (current session topics)
(continued)

- Diagnostic billing code for sexual orientation ... 230–31
- Edmonton General continuing care incident ... 289–90
- Emergency health services ... 141–42, 170, 173
- Emergency room wait times ... 170–71, 175–76
- Enhanced support for home care ... 419
- Expanded role for pharmacists ... 63
- Family care clinics ... 327, 452
- Funding for diabetes self-management supplies ... 176–77
- General hospital long-term care centre ... 193
- Health care system ... 267
- Health Quality Council review report ... 233–34, 268
- Health services for north Edmonton ... 43
- Health services labour negotiations ... 229–30
- Health system restructuring ... 264, 267–68
- High Prairie hospital construction ... 198–99
- Judicial inquiry into health services ... 320–22, 325, 358, 360
- Long-term and continuing care ... 232
- Long-term care ... 319–20, 416, 446, 447–48, 505–6, 508, 575–76, 580, 754, 756
- Mental health and addiction services ... 293
- Midwifery services ... 423
- Minimum housing and health standards ... 110–11
- Organ and tissue donations ... 196
- Patient advocacy by health professionals ... 508–9
- Pharmaceutical benefit for seniors ... 361
- Physician services agreement ... 63, 290
- Primary care networks ... 142, 605
- Private operation of continuing care centres ... 421
- Private operation of long-term care facilities ... 507–8
- Proclamation of health legislation ... 364
- Public health inquiry ... 264
- Review of medical examiner cases ... 194
- Safe Communities Resource Centre ... 294
- Sexual assault services ... 580
- South Calgary health campus ... 145
- Tobacco reduction strategy ... 419
- Urgent care services ... 45
- Westlawn Courts seniors' residence ... 323
- Paramedics – Education
 - Bridging programs for emergency medical technicians ... 373
- Patient advocacy by physicians
 - Alberta Hospital Edmonton forensic patients ... 451
 - Allegations of intimidation, Health Quality Council report findings ... 229, 267, 277, 358
 - Allegations of intimidation, resources for affected physicians ... 508
- Pharmacists
 - Scope of practice ... 63, 368, 375, 380
 - Transition funding re lower generic drug prices ... 63
- Pharmacists – Rural areas
 - Programs and services for pharmacists ... 63, 368
- Physicians
 - Compensation and development funding ... 367–68, 377
 - Family physicians ... 605
 - Internal hotline ... 63
 - Services agreement ... 63, 170, 230, 290, 320, 322, 377, 605
 - Services agreement, Alberta Medical Association president's January letter to members on ... 63

Horne, Fred (PC, Edmonton-Rutherford; Minister of Health and Wellness) (continued)

Physicians (continued)

- Services agreement, minister's letter to physicians on ... 290
- Points of order
 - Allegations against a member ... 179–80
- Protection for Persons in Care Act
 - Implementation ... 575–76
- Protection of Children Abusing Drugs Amendment Act (Bill 6, 2009)
 - Proclamation ... 293
- Provincial Advisory Committee on Tobacco
 - General remarks ... 616
- Public Health Act
 - Amendments (proposed) ... 110–11
- Royal Alexandra hospital
 - Emergency services ... 43, 141, 379
- Safe communities initiative
 - Funding for community-based mental health and addictions services ... 373
- Seniors – Housing – Edmonton
 - Westlawn Courts residence, bedbug infestation ... 323
- Seniors' benefit program
 - Chiropractic services ... 368
 - Drug benefits ... 361, 377, 379–80
- Sexual assault centres
 - Counselling services ... 580
- Sexual orientation/identity
 - Use in medical diagnostic billing codes ... 230–31
- South Calgary health centre
 - Acute-care beds ... 380
 - General remarks ... 145, 367, 368
 - Staffing ... 372, 378
- Substance abuse and addiction
 - Programs and services ... 368, 373
 - Treatment beds ... 377
- Supportive living accommodations
 - Private vs. public facilities ... 448
 - Requests for proposals and supporting documentation for (Motion for a Return M4/12: defeated) ... 613
 - Resident health, comparison to long-term care facilities ... 447–48
- Supportive living accommodations, affordable
 - Affordable supportive living initiative ... 386
- Surgery procedures
 - Statistics ... 382
- Surgery procedures – Joint surgeries
 - Cost-benefit analysis ... 377
- Tobacco Reduction (Protection of Children in Vehicles) Amendment Act, 2012 (Bill 203)
 - Committee ... 616–17
 - Public response ... 419
- Tobacco use
 - Reduction strategy ... 376, 419
- Tranquility Care Homes Inc.
 - Eviction of resident ... 505–6, 507–8
- Transplantation of organs, tissues, etc.
 - Organ and tissue registry (proposed) ... 196, 384
 - Statistics on transplantation ... 384
- Villa Caritas
 - Utilization of facility ... 193
- YMCA
 - Location in Calgary south health campus ... 378
- Youville long-term care centre, St. Albert
 - Long-term care ... 505–6

Horner, Doug (PC, Spruce Grove-Sturgeon-St. Albert; President of the Treasury Board and Enterprise)

Alberta Competitiveness Council
 General remarks ... 669
 Alberta First Nations Energy Centre
 Provincial strategy ... 393, 576–77
 Alberta Gaming and Liquor Commission
 Accounting methods ... 144
 Problem gambling management ... 67, 113
Alberta Gazette
 Information published ... 395
 Alberta Health Services (authority)
 Third-quarter report ... 725
 Alberta Medical Association
 Newspaper advertisement on health care system
 judicial inquiry ... 325
 Appropriation Act, 2012 (Bill 7)
 Second reading ... 587
 Third reading ... 681
 Appropriation (Supplementary Supply) Act, 2012 (Bill 3)
 First reading ... 115
 Second reading ... 150
 Assured income for the severely handicapped
 Funding from supplementary supply ... 150
 Budget 2012-13
 Government advertisements ... 321
 Budget documents
 Government strategic plan and ministry business plans (tabled) ... 52
 Budget process
 Finance minister and Treasury Board president round-table discussions ... 32
 Results-based budgeting ... 32
 Value reviews ... 61–62
 Committee of Supply
 Supplementary estimates 2011-12, No. 2, referred to
 (Government Motion 4: carried) ... 52
 Supplementary estimates 2011-12, No. 2, to be considered for one day (Government Motion 5:
 carried) ... 52
 Committee on Privileges and Elections, Standing Orders and Printing, Standing
 Compensation to members ... 362
 Members' return of payment for ... 722
 Committees of the Legislative Assembly
 Payments to members ... 722
 Corporations
 Programs and services for businesses ... 32
 Corporations – Red Deer
 Productivity initiatives ... 669
 Dept. of Treasury Board and Enterprise
 Mandate ... 31
 Edmonton City Centre Airport
 Closure of, alternatives for medevac services ... 110
 Edmonton General hospital
 Long-term care ... 576
 Education
 Public consultations ... 671
 Education Act (Bill 2)
 Committee, amendment A7 (establishment of charter schools) (carried) ... 745
 Parental rights provisions ... 605–6
 Elections, provincial
 Election 2012 date ... 724
 Emergency medical services (ambulances, etc.)
 Medevac services ... 396
 Emergency medical services (ambulances, etc.) –
 Edmonton
 Medevac services ... 110, 396

Horner, Doug (PC, Spruce Grove-Sturgeon-St. Albert; President of the Treasury Board and Enterprise)

(continued)

Estimates of Supply (government expenditures)
 Main and Legislative Assembly Offices estimates
 2012-13 transmitted ... 52
 Ministry business plans (tabled) ... 52
 Supplementary estimates 2011-12, No. 2, considered
 in Committee of Supply for one day (Government
 Motion 5: carried) ... 52
 Supplementary estimates 2011-12, No. 2, referred to Committee of Supply (Government Motion 4: carried) ... 52
 Supplementary estimates 2011-12, No. 2, transmitted to the Assembly ... 52
 Executive Council
 Compensation ... 171–72
 Ministers' provincial tour ... 12
 Fiscal policy
 2011-12 fiscal plan ... 52
 Gaming (gambling)
 Charitable model ... 144
 Problem gambling ... 67, 113, 143
 Revenue (cash in and out) ... 67, 143–44
 Government caucus
 Meeting in Jasper ... 12
 Government spending
 Provincial strategy ... 32
 Group homes
 Whistle-blower legislation (proposed) ... 728
 Health care system – Health Quality Council
 preferential services inquiry (2012)
 Terms of reference ... 321, 325, 392
 Health care system – Health Quality Council review (2011)
 Final report recommendations ... 321, 325, 396
 Health Quality Council of Alberta
 Medevac services review ... 110, 396
 Home-schooling
 Curriculum content ... 606
 Hospitals
 Support staff labour negotiations ... 169–70, 171–72
 Immigrants
 Attraction of U.S. skilled workers ... 578
 Infrastructure
 Federal-provincial discussions ... 578
 Introduction of Guests (school groups, individuals)
 ... 50, 285–86, 597, 719
 Introduction of Visitors (visiting dignitaries)
 Brigadier-General and advocate for military families
 (husband and wife) ... 137
 Judges, provincial
 Compensation ... 171–72
 Labour force planning
 Federal-provincial discussions ... 578
 Legislative Assembly Office
 Estimates 2012-13 transmitted to the Assembly ... 52
 Lieutenant Governor of Alberta
 Main estimates 2012-13 transmitted to the Assembly
 ... 52
 Offices of the Legislative Assembly estimates 2012-
 13 transmitted to the Assembly ... 52
 Long-term care facilities (nursing homes/auxiliary
 hospitals)
 Deaths and serious incidents ... 576, 723, 728
 Funding ... 723
 Private facilities ... 727
 Residence fees ... 727
 Standards of care ... 728

Horner, Doug (PC, Spruce Grove-Sturgeon-St. Albert; President of the Treasury Board and Enterprise)

(continued)

Members of the Legislative Assembly
 Compensation ... 359, 722–23
 Compensation review ... 359, 362, 722
 Office of the Premier
 Premiers' swearing-in ceremony costs (Mr. Stelmach and Ms. Redford) ... 395
 Oral Question Period (current session topics)
 Alberta First Nations Energy Centre ... 393, 576–77
 Alberta Human Rights Act ... 606
 Cost of Premier's swearing-in ceremony ... 395
 Donations to political parties ... 723, 724
 Emergency health services ... 170
 Fixed election dates ... 724
 Judicial inquiry into health services ... 321, 325, 392
 Labour negotiations with hospital support staff ... 169–70, 171–72
 Long-term care ... 576, 727
 Long-term care serious incidents ... 723, 728
 Medevac services ... 396
 Medevac services at Namao Air Base ... 110
 MLA remuneration ... 359, 362, 722–23
 Municipal taxation ... 577
 NOVA Chemicals Corporation expansion ... 581
 PC caucus meeting and cabinet tour ... 12
 Physician services agreement in principle ... 724–25
 Productivity Alberta ... 669
 Provincial budget ... 61–62
 Provincial economic strategy ... 578
 Provincial tax policy ... 144, 171, 321, 581–82
 Revenue from problem gambling ... 67, 113
 Revenue from VLTs and slot machines ... 143–44
 School council teleconference remarks ... 671
 Parenting
 Parents' rights, legislation re ... 606
 Patient advocacy by physicians
 Allegations of intimidation, Health Quality Council report findings ... 325, 392
 Persons with developmental disabilities
 Programs and services, funding from supplementary supply ... 150
 Petrochemicals industry
 Industry incentives ... 581
 Physicians
 Services agreement ... 170, 724–25
 Points of order
 Parliamentary language ... 610
 Postsecondary educational institutions
 Donations to PC Party ... 723, 724
 Productivity Alberta
 Programs and services ... 669
 Progressive Conservative Party of Alberta
 Donations, investigation of ... 723
 Property tax – Education levy
 Revenue to province ... 577
 Public service
 Operational funding ... 61–62
 Public transportation
 GreenTRIP incentives program, funding from supplementary supply ... 150
 Results-based Budgeting Act (Bill 1)
 Second reading ... 31–32
 Schools – Construction – Airdrie
 Alternative financing models, minister's remarks during teleconference ... 671

Horner, Doug (PC, Spruce Grove-Sturgeon-St. Albert; President of the Treasury Board and Enterprise)

(continued)

Tax policy
 General remarks ... 144, 171, 321, 581–82
 Wildfires – Slave Lake
 Recovery program, funding from supplementary supply ... 150

Jablonski, Mary Anne (PC, Red Deer-North)

Agreement on internal trade
 Licensing of certified general accountants, Manitoba challenge to Ontario practices ... 235
 Alberta – History
 Red Deer history ... 730
 Alberta Bill of Rights
 Landowner rights provisions ... 308–9
 Alberta Bill of Rights (Property Rights Protection) Amendment Act, 2012 (Bill 201)
 Second reading ... 308–9
 Armenia
 Anniversary of genocide, member's statement on ... 664–65
 Assured income for the severely handicapped
 Client benefits ... 756
 Children's charities – Red Deer
 Ronald McDonald House, member's statement on ... 69
 Continuing care strategy
 Continuum of care ... 403
 Demonstration projects ... 730
 Continuing/extended care facilities – Red Deer
 Villa Marie demonstration project, member's statement on ... 730
 Curling
 Scotties Tournament of Hearts women's championship, member's statement on ... 235
 Drugs, prescription
 Generic drugs ... 63
 Education
 Public consultations ... 144
 Education – Finance
 Funding sources ... 113
 Electric power lines – Construction
 North-south transmission line reinforcement ... 583
 Electric power plants
 Plant locations ... 583
 Emergency management
 Emergency preparedness, member's statement on ... 609
 Floods – Southern Alberta
 Recovery program ... 609
 Health care system – Delivery models
 Urgent care centres ... 45
 Health care system – Rural areas
 Access to services ... 45
 Hockey – Red Deer
 Hockey Alberta/Red Deer College partnership, member's statement on ... 503–4
 International trade – European Union
 Fuel quality directive ... 264–65
 Introduction of Guests (school groups, individuals) ... 50, 443, 503
 Members' Statements (current session)
 Armenian genocide ... 664–65
 Central Alberta Ronald McDonald House ... 69
 Emergency preparedness ... 609
 Hockey Alberta/Red Deer College partnership ... 503–4
 Scotties Tournament of Hearts ... 235
 Villa Marie continuing care centre ... 730

Jablonski, Mary Anne (PC, Red Deer-North)
(continued)

- Oil sands development – Environmental aspects
 - Advocacy re ... 264–65
- Oral Question Period (current session topics)
 - Assured income for the severely handicapped ... 756
 - Critical electricity transmission lines ... 583
 - Education legislation ... 144
 - Education property taxes ... 113
 - European Union fuel quality directive ... 264–65
 - Expanded role for pharmacists ... 63
 - Labour mobility barriers ... 235
 - Urgent care services ... 45
- Pharmacists
 - Scope of practice ... 63
 - Transition funding re lower generic drug prices ... 63
- Pharmacists – Rural areas
 - Programs and services for pharmacists ... 63
- Property rights advocate (proposed)
 - General remarks ... 309
- Property Rights Task Force
 - General remarks ... 309
- Property tax – Education levy – Red Deer
 - News media reports ... 113
- Seniors
 - Aging population policy framework ... 403
- Seniors' Property Tax Deferral Act (Bill 5)
 - First reading ... 298
 - Second reading ... 403
 - Committee ... 640–41
 - Third reading ... 698, 701
 - Eligibility criteria ... 698
- Wildfires – Slave Lake
 - Recovery program ... 609

Jacobs, Bryce (PC, Cardston-Taber-Warner)

- Alberta – History
 - Magrath history ... 426
- Emergency management – Cardston (county)
 - Bylaw repeal ... 511
- Emergency Management Act
 - General remarks ... 511
- Introduction of Guests (school groups, individuals)
 - ... 259, 503
- Members' Statements (current session)
 - Alston Scout park ... 426
- Municipalities
 - Emergency management ... 511
- Oral Question Period (current session topics)
 - Municipal emergency management ... 511
- Parks, municipal – Magrath
 - Alston Scout park, member's statement on ... 426

Johnson, Jeff (PC, Athabasca-Redwater; Minister of Infrastructure)

- Alberta Economic Development Authority
 - General remarks ... 11
- Capital projects
 - Determination of specifications ... 194
 - Economic impacts ... 726–27
- Continuing/extended care facilities – Lloydminster
 - Dr. Cooke centre ... 194
- Early childhood education
 - Kindergarten and junior kindergarten ... 420
- Employment
 - Job creation ... 726–27
- Fort McMurray
 - Land development strategy ... 364–65
 - Memorandum of understanding on oil sands development ... 11

Johnson, Jeff (PC, Athabasca-Redwater; Minister of Infrastructure)
(continued)

- Fort Saskatchewan community hospital
 - Opening of facility ... 726–27
- Health facilities
 - Infrastructure funding ... 726
- Hospitals – Construction – Calgary
 - Funding ... 726
- Hospitals – Construction – High Prairie
 - Functional plan ... 198, 726
- Infrastructure
 - Provincial strategy ... 194
- Introduction of Guests (school groups, individuals)
 - ... 50, 103, 137, 138, 444, 719
- Keyano College
 - Land trust ... 364–65
- Long-term care facilities (nursing homes/auxiliary hospitals)
 - Building codes and specifications ... 194
- Oil sands development – Athabasca area
 - Transportation Coordinating Committee ... 11
- Oral Question Period (current session topics)
 - Alberta schools alternative procurement program ... 398–99
 - Athabasca Oil Sands Area Transportation Coordinating Committee ... 11
 - Fort Saskatchewan community hospital ... 726–27
 - Government-owned infrastructure ... 194
 - High Prairie hospital construction ... 198
 - Keyano College land trust ... 364–65
 - Sale of Crown land in Fort McMurray ... 111–12
 - School capital construction ... 729
 - School infrastructure funding ... 111, 145, 420, 449
 - South Calgary health campus ... 145
- Public lands – Fort McMurray area
 - Release for sale ... 111
- Schools
 - Portable use ... 729
 - School closures ... 449
- Schools – Construction
 - Innovative designs ... 449
 - Provincial strategy ... 420
 - Public-private partnerships (P3) (ASAP initiative) ... 111, 398–99, 420, 729
- Schools – Construction – Lac La Biche
 - Innovative designs ... 449
- Schools – Edmonton
 - Overcrowding in schools ... 729
- Schools – Maintenance and repair
 - Funding ... 111
 - Local responsibility ... 145
 - Older schools ... 449
- Schools – Maintenance and repair – Grimshaw
 - General remarks ... 111
- South Calgary health centre
 - General remarks ... 145

Johnston, Art (PC, Calgary-Hays)

- Alberta in Canada
 - Interprovincial relations ... 290–91
- Calgary-Hays (constituency)
 - Reflections of retiring member, member's statement on ... 504
- Immigration
 - Federal regulations ... 399
- Introduction of Guests (school groups, individuals)
 - ... 40, 503, 720

Johnston, Art (PC, Calgary-Hays) (continued)

- Labour force planning
 - Recruitment and retention of skilled workers ... 233, 399
- Medical examiners – Calgary
 - Review of criminal files ... 173
- Members' Statements (current session)
 - Retrospective by the Member for Calgary-Hays ... 504
 - Western Engineering Competition 2012 ... 113–14
- Oil sands development
 - Provincial strategy ... 290–91
- Oral Question Period (current session topics)
 - Promotion of Alberta oil sands ... 290–91
 - Review of medical examiner cases ... 173
 - Skilled labour shortage ... 399
 - Skilled labour supply ... 233
- Western Engineering Competition (Calgary 2012)
 - Members' statements ... 113–14

Kang, Darshan S. (AL, Calgary-McCall)

- Alberta Secretariat for Action on Homelessness
 - Mandate ... 469–71
- Appropriation Act, 2012 (Bill 7)
 - Third reading ... 685, 696
- Bitumen – Upgrading
 - Alberta industry ... 136
- Cities and towns
 - Inner-city revitalization ... 580–81
- Condominium Property Act
 - Review of act ... 758–59
- Dept. of Human Services
 - Main estimates 2012-13 debate ... 469–72
- Early childhood education
 - Kindergarten and junior kindergarten ... 420
- Education Act (Bill 2)
 - Committee, amendment A1, subamendment SA1 (insertion of phrase “paramount right and responsibility” of parents) (defeated) ... 522
- Eid Milad un-Nabi celebration
 - Member's statement ... 200
- Electric power lines – Construction
 - Heartland transmission project, proposed route ... 269
- Employment and immigration agencies
 - Regulations ... 606
- Environmental protection
 - Provincial strategy ... 136
- Farm safety
 - Worker transportation ... 175
- Health care system – Delivery models
 - Private delivery model ... 685
- Highway 28
 - Traffic safety ... 64
- Highway 63
 - Improvements ... 64
 - Twinning ... 48–49, 63–64
- Homelessness
 - 10-year plan to end ... 469–72
- Homelessness – Calgary
 - 10-year plan to end ... 471
- Housing – Construction
 - Construction and inspection standards ... 758–59
 - Provincial strategy ... 606–7
- International trade – European Union
 - Trade agreements ... 197
- Members' Statements (current session)
 - Eid Milad un-Nabi celebration ... 200

Kang, Darshan S. (AL, Calgary-McCall) (continued)

- Oil sands development
 - Provincial strategy ... 136
- Oral Question Period (current session topics)
 - Alberta schools alternative procurement program ... 398–99
 - Canada-European Union trade negotiations ... 197
 - Farm worker safety standards ... 175
 - Heartland electricity transmission project ... 269
 - Impaired driving legislation ... 365
 - Residential construction standards ... 758–59
 - School capital construction ... 729
 - School infrastructure funding ... 111, 144–45, 419–20, 449, 580–81
 - Trucking safety regulations ... 671–72
 - Twinning of highway 63 ... 48–49, 63–64
 - Workforce employment services ... 606–7
- Results-based Budgeting Act (Bill 1)
 - Committee, amendment A1 (mandatory 1-year review) (defeated) ... 128–29
- Road construction
 - Funding ... 63–64
 - Project scheduling ... 48–49
- Schools
 - Community role ... 580–81
 - Portable use ... 729
 - School closures ... 449, 580–81
- Schools – Construction
 - Innovative designs ... 449
 - Provincial strategy ... 145, 419–20
 - Public-private partnerships (P3) (ASAP initiative) ... 111, 398–99, 419–20, 729
- Schools – Construction – Lac La Biche
 - Innovative designs ... 449
- Schools – Edmonton
 - Overcrowding in schools ... 729
 - Role in inner city renewal ... 580–81
- Schools – Maintenance and repair
 - Funding ... 111
 - Local responsibility ... 144–45
 - Older schools ... 449
- Schools – Maintenance and repair – Grimshaw
 - General remarks ... 111
- Schools – Sherwood Park
 - Proximity to Heartland electric power transmission lines route ... 269
- Speaker
 - Retirement of current Speaker ... 758
- Speech from the Throne
 - Motion to consider (Fawcett/Rodney), addresses in reply (Government Motion 10) ... 135–36
- Temporary foreign workers
 - Programs and services ... 606
- Traffic Safety Amendment Act, 2011 (Bill 26)
 - Implementation ... 365
- Trucking industry
 - Company safety records ... 672
 - Safety regulations ... 671–72
- Water licences
 - Provincial strategy on export ... 197

Klimchuk, Heather (PC, Edmonton-Glenora; Minister of Culture and Community Services)

- Alberta multimedia development fund
 - Grants program ... 398
- Bullying
 - Motion pictures about ... 579
- Community spirit program
 - Fund distribution ... 729–30

Klimchuk, Heather (PC, Edmonton-Glenora; Minister of Culture and Community Services) (continued)

- Film and television industry
 - Bully*, movie rating ... 579
- Introduction of Guests (school groups, individuals) ... 317, 355
- Oral Question Period (current session topics)
 - Alberta multimedia development fund ... 398
 - Bullying ... 579
 - Community spirit program ... 729–30
- Tobacco Reduction (Protection of Children in Vehicles) Amendment Act, 2012 (Bill 203) Committee ... 618

Knight, Mel (PC, Grande Prairie-Smoky)

- Alberta Bill of Rights (Property Rights Protection) Amendment Act, 2012 (Bill 201) Second reading ... 309–10
- Freehold lands
 - Landowner rights ... 309–10
 - Pore space ownership ... 310
- Grande Prairie-Smoky (constituency)
 - Member's departing thoughts, member's statement on ... 319
- Members' Statements (current session)
 - Departing thoughts from Grande Prairie-Smoky ... 319
- Tobacco Reduction (Protection of Children in Vehicles) Amendment Act, 2012 (Bill 203) Committee ... 617–18

Leskiw, Genia (PC, Bonnyville-Cold Lake)

- Affordable housing
 - Access to housing ... 725–26
 - Repairs and maintenance ... 143
- Alberta Competitiveness Council
 - General remarks ... 669
- Cold Lake First Nation
 - Primco Dene business development, member's statement on ... 68
- Corporations – Red Deer
 - Productivity initiatives ... 669
- Education
 - Public consultations, member's statement on ... 114
- Education – Curricula
 - Children's exemptions from specific classes ... 325
- Education Act (Bill 2)
 - Committee, amendment A1 (addition to preamble on parental choice) (carried) ... 553–54
- Fort McMurray
 - Land development strategy ... 364–65
 - Memorandum of understanding on oil sands development ... 11
- Health and wellness
 - World Kidney Day, member's statement on ... 400
- Health care system – Bonnyville
 - Primary care clinics, member's statement on ... 297
- Home-schooling
 - Programs and services ... 324–25
- Housing – Rental housing
 - Rent supplement program ... 725–26
- Introduction of Guests (school groups, individuals) ... 40, 104, 137, 248
- Keyano College
 - Land trust ... 364–65
- Lakeland Lodge and Housing Foundation
 - General remarks ... 169

Leskiw, Genia (PC, Bonnyville-Cold Lake) (continued)

- Members' Statements (current session)
 - Bonnyville primary care network ... 297
 - Our Children, Our Future education consultation ... 114
 - Primco Dene rewarding partnerships award ... 68
 - Seniors' housing in Bonnyville ... 168–69
 - World Kidney Day ... 400
 - Oil sands development – Athabasca area
 - Transportation Coordinating Committee ... 11–12, 231
 - Oral Question Period (current session topics)
 - Affordable housing ... 725–26
 - Athabasca Oil Sands Area Transportation Coordinating Committee ... 11–12
 - Keyano College land trust ... 364–65
 - Oil Sands Transportation Coordinating Committee ... 231
 - Parental choice in Edmonton ... 324–25
 - Productivity Alberta ... 669
 - Sale of Crown land in Fort McMurray ... 111
 - Social housing for seniors ... 143
 - Teachers' salary negotiations ... 65–66
 - Productivity Alberta
 - Programs and services ... 669
 - Property Rights Advocate Act (Bill 6)
 - Third reading ... 701, 702
 - Public lands – Fort McMurray area
 - Release for sale ... 111
 - Schools – Bonnyville
 - Dr. Bernard Brosseau school students' participation in education consultation ... 114
 - Seniors – Housing – Bonnyville
 - Members' statements ... 168–69
 - Upgrades and addition of units ... 143
 - Social housing
 - Repair and maintenance ... 143
 - Teachers – Wages
 - Contract negotiations ... 65–66
- Liepert, Ron (PC, Calgary-West; Minister of Finance)
- Agriculture Financial Services Corporation
 - Borrowing of money ... 600
 - Alberta Alcohol and Drug Abuse Commission
 - Programs for problem gamblers ... 203
 - Alberta Companies Act
 - Not-for-profit organization incorporation provisions (part 9 companies) ... 295
 - Alberta Energy and Utilities Board
 - Agreement on transmission line expansion and upgrade ... 205
 - Alberta Gaming and Liquor Commission
 - Accounting methods, Auditor General's recommendations on ... 172, 327
 - Administration ... 202
 - Problem gambling management ... 202
 - Alberta Gazette*
 - Information published ... 395
 - Alberta heritage savings trust fund
 - Provincial strategy ... 202, 216, 600
 - Value of fund ... 209, 221, 424
 - Alberta in Canada
 - Budgetary impacts ... 216
 - Alberta Investment Management Corporation
 - Borrowing money, constraints on ... 600
 - Investment in Viterra ... 725
 - Investment performance ... 202, 209, 600

Liepert, Ron (PC, Calgary-West; Minister of Finance)(continued)

Alberta Medical Association
 Newspaper advertisement on health care system
 judicial inquiry ... 392

Alberta Municipal Financing Corporation
 Borrowing of money for ... 600

Alberta Supports
 Programs and services ... 54, 206, 222

Alberta sustainability fund
 Utilization of fund ... 55, 206, 207–08
 Value of fund ... 207–8

Alberta Union of Provincial Employees
 Binding arbitration ... 212–13

Anthony Henday Drive
 Project status ... 55

Apprenticeship training
 Registered apprenticeships, statistics on ... 54

Appropriation Act, 2012 (Bill 7)
 First reading ... 513
 Third reading ... 681–82

Assured income for the severely handicapped
 Client benefits ... 54

Auditor General – Recommendations
 Reporting of gaming revenue ... 327

Bioenergy industry
 Producer credit program ... 217

Bitumen – Royalties
 Forecasts ... 213, 449

Bow Valley College
 Expansion ... 54

Budget Address
 Government Motion 7 ... 52–56

Budget 2012-13
 Government advertisements ... 358–59, 391–92
 Wage and salary allocations ... 212

Budget documents
 Fiscal plan (tabled) ... 52
 Ministry business plans ... 202–3, 207

Budget process
 Balanced/deficit budgets ... 48, 54, 206–7, 220–21
 General remarks ... 56
 Results-based budgeting ... 53, 174, 207
 Revenue/cost forecasts used ... 202, 210, 212–15,
 218, 222–23, 449, 682

Calgary-West (constituency)
 General remarks ... 52

Cancer – Diagnosis and treatment – Red Deer
 Treatment centre ... 54

Capital projects
 Financial reporting ... 220–21
 Funding ... 54, 212

Carbon capture and storage
 Provincial strategy ... 217, 220

Community facility enhancement program
 Funding allocations ... 205

Corporations
 Response to economic uncertainty ... 218

Corporations – Taxation
 Comparison with other jurisdictions ... 55–56
 Provincial strategy ... 214
 Revenue to province ... 53, 218
 Tax credits ... 54, 203

Debt
 Federal debt ... 53
 Provincial debt ... 53, 54, 174, 202–3

Dept. of Agriculture and Rural Development
 Funding ... 55

Liepert, Ron (PC, Calgary-West; Minister of Finance)(continued)

Dept. of Finance
 Debt-servicing costs ... 202–3
 Fiscal planning and economic analysis ... 219
 Main estimates 2012-13 debate ... 202–23
 Minister's provincial tour ... 53
 Minister's remarks at Airdrie council meeting ... 358
 Technology, funding for ... 203

Dept. of Human Services
 Funding ... 206

Dept. of Treasury Board and Enterprise
 Mandate ... 204
 Minister's provincial tour ... 53

Dollar, Canadian
 Exchange rate ... 53

Economy
 General remarks ... 53

Edmonton and Area Land Trust
 Casino licence application denial ... 295

Edmonton clinic south
 Operational funding ... 54

Education – Finance
 Funding ... 206, 212, 222

Education Act (Bill 2)
 Committee, amendment A7 (establishment of charter schools) (carried) ... 742–43

Electric power – Export
 Licence applications ... 601

Electric power lines – Construction
 Impact on power prices ... 205

Employment
 Job creation ... 53, 54, 670

Energy industry
 General remarks ... 217
 Land sales (leases) ... 219
 National strategy (proposed) ... 55
 Provincial strategy ... 53

Energy industry – Environmental aspects
 International perceptions ... 55

Executive Council
 Ministers' provincial tour ... 53

Families
 Programs and services ... 54

Farm produce – Exports
 Funding ... 55

Fiscal framework
 General remarks ... 42, 55, 202, 206–7, 209–11,
 214–16, 217–18

Fiscal Responsibility Act
 Provisions for deficit budgets ... 207

Forest products – Export
 Funding ... 55

Gaming (gambling)
 Commissions to VLT licence holders ... 327
 Problem gambling ... 196, 203–4
 Problem gambling, relevance to budget debate ... 204
 Revenue (cash in and out) ... 172, 327
 Revenue (cash in and out), Auditor General's recommendations on reporting ... 327
 Revenue from horse racing ... 205

Gas, natural – Royalties
 Decline in revenue ... 53

Government savings
 Comparison with other jurisdictions ... 209
 Provincial strategy ... 206, 215–16

Government spending
 Comparison with other jurisdictions ... 211–12
 Provincial strategy ... 48, 54–55, 206, 212–13, 219–22

Liepert, Ron (PC, Calgary-West; Minister of Finance)(continued)

Government spending – Ontario
 Don Drummond report ... 174
 Health care system – Delivery models
 Family care clinics ... 54
 Primary care clinics ... 54
 Health care system – Finance
 Funding ... 54, 206, 222
 Health facilities
 Infrastructure funding ... 55
 Health sciences professionals – Wages
 Funding ... 212–13
 Homelessness
 Housing First program ... 54
 Horse Racing Alberta
 Agreement with province ... 205
 Horse-racing industry
 Horse-racing and breeding renewal program ... 205
 Hospitals
 Support staff labour negotiations ... 212–13
 Hospitals – Construction – High Prairie
 Funding ... 55
 Income support programs
 Client benefits ... 54
 Income tax, provincial
 Comparison with other jurisdictions ... 55–56
 Revenue to province ... 218
 Tax credits ... 54
 Infrastructure
 Funding ... 55, 453
 International trade
 Economic risks ... 208, 215–16
 Provincial strategy ... 55
 Introduction of Guests (school groups, individuals)
 ... 39, 317, 443, 719
 Land trusts
 Eligibility for grant funding ... 295
 Lobbyists
 Interest groups ... 358
 Lottery fund
 Allocation of funds ... 204–5
 Medical research
 Funding ... 54
 Prion research ... 54
 Mental health services
 Funding ... 54
 Municipal sustainability initiative
 Funding ... 54
 Nonprofit, not-for-profit, voluntary, and charitable organizations
 Eligibility for casino licences ... 295
 Office of the Premier
 Premiers' swearing-in ceremony costs (Mr.
 Stelmach and Ms. Redford) ... 395
 Oil sands development – Environmental aspects
 Advocacy re ... 55, 215
 Federal-provincial monitoring ... 217
 Oral Question Period (current session topics)
 Advocacy to government ... 358
 AIMCo investment in Viterro Inc... 725
 AIMCo investments ... 600
 Cost of Premier's swearing-in ceremony ... 395
 Electricity exports ... 601
 Land conservation trusts ... 295
 Problem gambling ... 196
 Provincial budget ... 48

Liepert, Ron (PC, Calgary-West; Minister of Finance)(continued)

Oral Question Period (current session topics)
(continued)
 Provincial budget advertisement ... 358–59, 391–92
 Provincial fiscal framework ... 42
 Provincial spending ... 174
 Provincial tax policy ... 423–24, 453, 511, 670
 Resource revenue projections ... 449
 Revenue from VLTs and slot machines ... 172, 327
 Physicians
 Services agreement ... 212–13
 Pipelines – Construction
 Enbridge Northern Gateway project (proposed) ...
 208
 TransCanada Keystone XL project ... 55
 Postsecondary educational institutions – Finance
 Funding ... 54
 Public lands
 Revenue from lease sales ... 218
 Public service
 Pension administration ... 209–10, 212–13
 Pension administration, investment performance ...
 600
 Wages and salaries ... 212
 Public transportation
 GreenTRIP incentives program ... 217
 Research and development
 Facilities, funding for ... 54
 Tax credits for scientific research ... 54
 Revenue
 Fluctuations in revenue ... 53
 Forecasts ... 53, 202, 206, 207
 Nonrenewable resource revenue ... 55–56, 207, 215,
 449
 Ring roads – Calgary
 Funding ... 55
 Royal Alberta Museum
 Redevelopment ... 55
 Royalty structure (energy resources)
 Provincial strategy ... 213–14
 Schoolchildren – Transportation
 Funding ... 54
 Schools – Construction
 Funding ... 54
 South Calgary health centre
 General remarks ... 54
 Southern Alberta Institute of Technology
 Trades and technology complex ... 54
 Speaker
 Retirement of current Speaker ... 52
 Special-needs education
 Programs ... 54
 Substance abuse and addiction
 Dept. of Health and Wellness responsibility ... 203–4
 Funding ... 54
 Tax policy
 General remarks ... 55–56, 206, 210–11, 214, 423–
 24, 453, 511, 670
 Teachers – Wages
 Funding ... 212–13
 Treasury Branches (ATB Financial)
 Oversight of ... 202
 University of Alberta. Faculty of Agriculture
 Kinsella and St. Albert facilities ... 54
 Water management
 Research ... 54

Lindsay, Fred (PC, Stony Plain)

- Alberta Summer Games (Lethbridge 2012)
 - General remarks ... 69
- Alberta Winter Games (Stony Plain 2012)
 - Members' statements ... 68–69
- Introduction of Guests (school groups, individuals) ... 503
- Members' Statements (current session)
 - Alberta Winter Games 2012 ... 68–69
 - Fallen Four memorial ... 227
- Royal Canadian Mounted Police
 - Memorial tribute to four officers killed near Mayerthorpe, member's statement on ... 227

Lukaszuk, Thomas A. (PC, Edmonton-Castle Downs; Minister of Education)

- Aboriginal children – Education
 - Federal-provincial-First Nations co-operation ... 64, 671
 - Programs and services ... 12, 153, 330
- Alberta initiative for school improvement
 - Funding ... 334–35
- Alberta School Councils' Association
 - Support for Bill 2, Education Act ... 712
- Alberta school foundation fund
 - Value of fund ... 329
- Alberta SuperNet
 - Use in schools ... 331
- Alberta Teachers' Association
 - Response to Bill 2, Education Act ... 712
- Alberta Works employment program
 - Services provided ... 46
- Bills (procedure)
 - Voting on amendments, point of order on ... 765
- Bullying
 - Prevention strategies ... 579
 - Public vs. private school incidence ... 232–33
- Calgary Children's hospital
 - Cabinet ministers' visit ... 282
- Charter schools
 - Provincial strategy ... 346, 422
 - Restrictions ... 199–200, 421–22
- Child poverty
 - Nutrition programs ... 45–46
- Cities and towns
 - Inner-city revitalization ... 581
- Dept. of Aboriginal Affairs and Northern Development Canada
 - Minister's meeting with Education minister ... 12
- Dept. of Education
 - Main estimates 2012-13 debate ... 329–53
 - Program overview ... 330
- Early childhood education
 - Funding ... 346
 - Kindergarten and junior kindergarten ... 322, 331–33, 334, 360
- Edmonton public school board
 - Capital plan ... 341, 604
 - Student spaces ... 332
- Education
 - Compulsory school attendance age ... 153
 - High school completion ... 153
 - Parental choice ... 152–54
 - Provincial strategy ... 112
 - Public consultations ... 605, 671
 - School support services ... 343
 - Student residency criteria ... 153

Lukaszuk, Thomas A. (PC, Edmonton-Castle Downs; Minister of Education) (continued)

- Education – Curricula
 - Children's exemptions from specific classes ... 325, 725
 - English as a second language ... 197–98, 330, 343, 345
- Education – Finance
 - 3-year funding cycle ... 62, 109, 333–34, 335–38
 - Additional funding for 2011-12 school year ... 333, 603–4
 - Funding ... 330
 - Funding for rural boards ... 177, 330
 - Funding sources ... 113
 - Voucher system ... 347
- Education Act (Bill 2)
 - First reading ... 115
 - Second reading ... 152–54, 411
 - Committee, amendment A1 (addition to preamble on parental choice) (carried) ... 500–501
 - Committee, amendment A1, subamendment SA1 (insertion of phrase “paramount right and responsibility” of parents) (defeated) ... 526–28
 - Committee, amendment A2 (elimination of tuition fees) (defeated) ... 560, 562, 563
 - Committee, amendment A4 (definition of bullying to include entire school community) (carried unanimously) ... 568–69
 - Committee, amendment A6 (replace section 16, diversity and respect) (defeated) ... 711–13
 - Committee, amendment A7 (establishment of charter schools) (carried) ... 743–44
 - Committee, amendment A8 (charter school restrictions; registration/accreditation of private schools; school division creation; francophone school trustee candidate criteria; shared school spaces) (not voted) ... 764–65
 - Antibullying provisions ... 152, 579
 - Curriculum provisions ... 232
- Electric power lines – Construction
 - Heartland transmission project, proposed route ... 269
- Emergency debates under Standing Order 30 (current session)
 - Health Quality Council review report, debate ... 281–83
- Executive Council
 - Ministers' provincial tour ... 282
- Government spending
 - Provincial strategy ... 336
- Health care system
 - Public confidence ... 281–82
- Health care system – Health Quality Council
 - preferential services inquiry (2012)
 - General remarks ... 282–83
- Home-schooling
 - Accountability and transparency ... 232
 - Curriculum content ... 602, 669–70, 725
 - Funding ... 669–70
 - Programs and services ... 231–32, 325
 - Student assessment ... 756–57
- Introduction of Guests (school groups, individuals) ... 50, 103, 137, 167, 225–26, 503, 663
- Lobbyists
 - Interest groups ... 358
- Mennonites
 - Education of children from Mexico ... 197–98
- Minister's Student Advisory Council
 - General remarks ... 152

Lukaszuk, Thomas A. (PC, Edmonton-Castle Downs; Minister of Education) (continued)

- Oral Question Period (current session topics)
 - A. Blair McPherson school ... 453–54
 - Aboriginal education ... 12, 64
 - Advocacy to government ... 287, 358
 - Bullying ... 579
 - Bullying in private schools ... 232–33
 - Charter schools ... 199–200, 421–22
 - Childhood hunger ... 45–46
 - Education 10-point plan ... 112
 - Education consultation ... 605
 - Education funding ... 62, 109, 268, 603–4
 - Education of Mennonite children from Mexico ... 197–98
 - Education property taxes ... 113
 - Education services for teen parents ... 172–73
 - First Nations education ... 671
 - Full-day kindergarten programs ... 322, 360
 - Funding for private schools ... 195, 231, 292–93, 394–95, 578–79
 - Grimshaw Holy Family school ... 146, 292, 362–63
 - Heartland electricity transmission project ... 269
 - Home-schooling ... 231–32, 602, 669–70, 725, 756–57
 - New school construction in Calgary ... 512
 - Parental choice in Edmonton ... 325
 - School board funding ... 177, 293–94
 - School capital construction ... 604
 - School council teleconference remarks ... 671
 - School fees ... 143, 394
 - School fees collection ... 726, 755
 - School infrastructure funding ... 145, 420, 449, 581
 - Teachers' salary negotiations ... 65–66
- Parenting
 - Teenaged mothers, programs and services for ... 172–73
- Physicians
 - Family physicians ... 282
- Points of order
 - Allegations against a member ... 527
 - Clarification (main estimates debate) ... 331
 - Factual accuracy ... 337
 - Inflammatory language ... 712
 - Voting on amendments to bills ... 765
- Postsecondary education
 - Provincial strategy ... 153
- Private schools
 - Faith-based schools ... 669
 - Funding ... 195, 231, 292–93, 331, 346–47, 394–95, 578–79, 669
 - Transparency and accountability ... 195, 231, 394–95
- Privilege
 - Obstructing a member in performance of duty ... 679–81
- Public School Boards' Association
 - Support for Bill 2, Education Act ... 712
- St. Albert and Sturgeon Valley School Districts
 - Establishment Act (Bill 4)
 - First reading ... 236
 - Second reading ... 403–4, 481, 488
- St. Albert Protestant separate school division
 - Replacement of board ... 403–4
- School Act
 - Curriculum provisions ... 232
 - General remarks ... 112, 115

Lukaszuk, Thomas A. (PC, Edmonton-Castle Downs; Minister of Education) (continued)

- School boards and districts
 - Capital plans ... 339–40
 - Financial decision-making ... 334–35
 - Natural person powers ... 153
 - Publicly available information ... 330–31
- School fees (elementary and secondary)
 - Local decision-making ... 143
 - Provincial strategy ... 268, 335, 394, 560, 563
 - School board use of collection agencies ... 726, 756
- Schoolchildren – Transportation
 - Funding ... 346
 - Funding for rural boards ... 177
 - Pilot projects on ride times and in-bus Wi-Fi ... 330
- Schools
 - Class size ... 346
 - Community role ... 580–81
 - Portable use ... 339–40
 - School closures ... 449, 581, 604
 - Technology use ... 153, 331
 - Wraparound service provision (proposed) ... 345–46
- Schools – Calgary
 - Evanston community ... 512
- Schools – Construction
 - Funding ... 331
 - Long-term planning ... 345–46
 - Playground development ... 112
 - Project scheduling, publication of production list ... 339–42, 351–53
 - Provincial strategy ... 145, 338, 420
 - Public-private partnerships (P3) (ASAP initiative) ... 330
 - School board requests for funding ... 293–94
- Schools – Construction – Airdrie
 - Alternative financing models, minister's remarks during teleconference ... 671
- Schools – Construction – Calgary
 - New schools ... 512
- Schools – Construction – Edmonton
 - Summerside school, timeline on ... 112
- Schools – Edmonton
 - A. Blair McPherson school needs ... 453–54
 - Role in inner city renewal ... 581
 - School closures ... 604
- Schools – Fort McMurray
 - Capacity issues ... 339–40
- Schools – Maintenance and repair
 - Deferred maintenance ... 268, 338
 - Funding ... 330–31
 - Local responsibility ... 145
 - School board requests for funding ... 294
- Schools – Maintenance and repair – Grimshaw
 - Advocacy to government ... 358, 362–63
 - General remarks ... 146, 287, 292, 338
 - Letter from Mr. Goudreau to school board ... 292, 293
- Schools – Sherwood Park
 - Proximity to Heartland electric power transmission lines route ... 269
- Seniors' Property Tax Deferral Act (Bill 5)
 - Second reading ... 492
- Separate school districts
 - Funding ... 329–30
- Special-needs education
 - Funding model ... 330, 342–44, 348–50
 - Programs ... 342–43
 - Programs for gifted children ... 343

Lukaszuk, Thomas A. (PC, Edmonton-Castle Downs; Minister of Education) (continued)

- Student testing (elementary and secondary students)
 - Provincial achievement tests, student exemption from ... 756–57
- Tax policy
 - General remarks ... 337
- Teachers
 - Pension plan ... 330
- Teachers – Education
 - Training in special-needs education ... 349–50
- Teachers – Supply
 - Number in education system ... 109, 268, 333–34, 335, 603–4
- Teachers – Wages
 - Contract negotiations ... 62, 65–66, 109, 338–39
 - Funding ... 330, 338–39, 603–4

Lund, Ty (PC, Rocky Mountain House)

- Bears
 - Education program (BearSmart) ... 513
 - Grizzly bear population counts ... 513
- Fuel (gasoline and diesel)
 - Prices ... 398
- Introduction of Guests (school groups, individuals) ... 355
- Members' Statements (current session)
 - Rural integrated community clerkship for physicians ... 731
- Oral Question Period (current session topics)
 - Bear management ... 513
 - Gasoline and diesel prices ... 398
- Physicians – Rural areas
 - Rural integrated community clerkship, member's statement on ... 731
- Seniors' Property Tax Deferral Act (Bill 5)
 - Second reading ... 492–93
- Wildlife
 - Carcass composting facility, Cardston county ... 513

MacDonald, Hugh (AL, Edmonton-Gold Bar)

- Aboriginal peoples – Economic development
 - First Nations development fund ... 90
- Alberta Alcohol and Drug Abuse Commission
 - Programs for problem gamblers ... 203
- Alberta Energy and Utilities Board
 - Agreement on transmission line expansion and upgrade ... 205
- Alberta Gaming and Liquor Commission
 - Accounting methods ... 144
 - Accounting methods, Auditor General's recommendations on ... 172, 326–27
 - Exemption from Lobbyists Act ... 67
 - Problem gambling management ... 67, 112–13
- Alberta Gaming Research Institute
 - Research project ... 202–3
- Alberta Gazette*
 - Information published ... 395
- Alberta Health Services (authority)
 - Centralization of services ... 206
 - Centralization of services, Health Quality Council report comments on ... 267–68
- Alberta heritage savings trust fund
 - Value of fund ... 208–9
- Alberta Investment Management Corporation
 - Christmas party ... 209
 - Investment performance ... 209
- Alberta sustainability fund
 - Utilization of fund ... 206, 207–08
 - Value of fund ... 207–8

MacDonald, Hugh (AL, Edmonton-Gold Bar) (continued)

- Appeals Commission (workers' compensation)
 - Annual report ... 88
 - General remarks ... 88
- Appropriation Act, 2012 (Bill 7)
 - Second reading ... 587–88
 - Committee ... 631–33
- Appropriation (Supplementary Supply) Act, 2012 (Bill 3)
 - Committee ... 185–86
- Assured income for the severely handicapped
 - Funding from supplementary supply ... 85–86
- Auditor General – Recommendations
 - General remarks ... 92
 - Reporting of gaming revenue ... 326–27
- Budget documents
 - Financial reporting ... 587–88, 632
 - Ministry business plans ... 207
- Budget process
 - Balanced/deficit budgets ... 205–7
 - Budgetary surpluses ... 185
 - General remarks ... 203
 - Results-based budgeting ... 207
 - Revenue/cost forecasts used ... 217–18
- Canadian Charter of Rights and Freedoms
 - Religious freedom provisions ... 530–31
- Chair – Rulings
 - Decorum ... 657
 - Relevance ... 208
- Chief Electoral Officer, office of the
 - Recommendations ... 92
- Community facility enhancement program
 - Funding allocations ... 205
- Corporations
 - Impact of electric power prices ... 91–92
 - Response to economic uncertainty ... 218
- Corporations – Taxation
 - Revenue to province ... 218
- Dept. of Finance
 - Appearance before Public Accounts Committee ... 204
 - Fiscal planning and economic analysis ... 219
 - Main estimates 2012–13 debate ... 203–10, 217–19
- Dept. of Health and Wellness
 - Financial reporting ... 587–88, 632
- Dept. of Human Services
 - Financial reporting ... 587
 - Supplementary estimates 2011–12, No. 2, debate ... 88
- Dept. of Infrastructure
 - Budgetary transfers ... 633
- Dept. of Intergovernmental, International and Aboriginal Relations
 - Financial reporting ... 587
 - Supplementary estimates 2011–12, No. 2, debate ... 89–90
- Dept. of Justice and Attorney General
 - Supplementary estimates 2011–12, No. 2, debate ... 82
- Dept. of Seniors
 - Supplementary estimates 2011–12, No. 2, debate ... 85–86
- Dept. of Solicitor General and Public Security
 - Money transferred to general revenue fund ... 88
- Dept. of Tourism, Parks and Recreation
 - Staff wages and salaries, AUPE settlement impact ... 90
 - Supplementary estimates 2011–12, No. 2, debate ... 90

MacDonald, Hugh (AL, Edmonton-Gold Bar)(continued)

- Dept. of Treasury Board and Enterprise
 - Budgetary transfers ... 633
 - Donations to minister during PC leadership campaign ... 447
 - Mandate ... 204
- Education – United States
 - Reports ... 183
- Education Act (Bill 2)
 - Second reading ... 182–84, 408
 - Committee, amendment A1, subamendment SA1 (insertion of phrase “paramount right and responsibility” of parents) (defeated) ... 530–31
 - Committee, amendment A8 (charter school restrictions; registration/accreditation of private schools; school division creation; francophone school trustee candidate criteria; shared school spaces) (not voted) ... 768–69
- Election Finances and Contributions Disclosure Act
 - Limits on donations under ... 447
- Electric power
 - Cogeneration ... 760
- Electric power – Prices
 - Fixed-rate option ... 92–93
 - Rates ... 730, 760
 - Regulated-rate option ... 512–13
- Electric power – Regulations
 - Deregulation ... 91–93
- Electric power – Retail sales
 - Rural consumers ... 730
- Electric power lines – Construction
 - Impact on power prices ... 92, 205
- Electric utilities
 - Corporate political donations ... 512–13
- Energy industry
 - Land sales (leases) ... 186, 218–19
- Executive Council
 - Compensation for committee work ... 418
- Farmers’ Advocate
 - Funding ... 657
 - General remarks ... 650
- Fiscal framework
 - General remarks ... 206–9, 217–18
- Fiscal Responsibility Act
 - Provisions for deficit budgets ... 207
- Freehold lands
 - Eckville public meeting on land legislation ... 649, 650
 - Landowner rights ... 91
- Gaming (gambling)
 - Commissions to VLT licence holders ... 327
 - Problem gambling ... 67, 112–13, 143, 195–96, 203–4
 - Problem gambling, member’s statement on ... 227
 - Problem gambling, relevance to budget debate ... 204
 - Revenue (cash in and out) ... 67, 143–44, 172, 227, 327, 632–33
 - Revenue (cash in and out), Auditor General’s recommendations on reporting ... 326–27
 - Revenue from First Nations casinos ... 90
 - Revenue from horse racing ... 205
- Gas, natural – Prices
 - Fluctuations ... 186
 - Impact on electric power prices ... 92
- General revenue fund
 - Transfers of unexpended funds to ... 96, 633

MacDonald, Hugh (AL, Edmonton-Gold Bar)(continued)

- Government accountability
 - Financial reporting ... 587–88, 632
- Government Organization Act
 - Provisions for government spending ... 97
- Government savings
 - Comparison with other jurisdictions ... 209
 - Provincial strategy ... 206
- Government spending
 - Provincial strategy ... 97, 186, 206, 219, 631–32
- Health care system – Finance
 - Funding ... 206
- Health care system – Health Quality Council review (2011)
 - Final report ... 267–68
- Home-schooling
 - Programs and services ... 530
- Horse Racing Alberta
 - Agreement with province ... 205
 - Funding ... 186
- Horse-racing industry
 - Horse-racing and breeding renewal program ... 205
- Housing – Rental housing
 - Rent supplement program ... 588
- Immunization
 - Financial reporting ... 587–88
- Income support programs
 - Supports for independence program ... 85
- Income tax, provincial
 - Revenue to province ... 218
- Infrastructure
 - Provincial strategy ... 631
- International Day for the Elimination of Racial Discrimination
 - Ministerial statement ... 721
- International offices – Hong Kong
 - Suspension of representative ... 447
- International trade
 - Economic risks ... 208
- Introduction of Guests (school groups, individuals)
 - ... 58, 597
- Judges, provincial
 - Compensation ... 82
 - Compensation, funding from supplementary supply ... 82
- Long-term care facilities (nursing homes/auxiliary hospitals)
 - Standards of care ... 588
- Lottery fund
 - Administration ... 632–33
 - Allocation of funds ... 204–5
- Masters in chambers
 - Compensation ... 82
 - Compensation, funding from supplementary supply ... 82
- Members of the Legislative Assembly
 - Compensation review ... 418
- Members’ Statements (current session)
 - Donations to leadership campaigns ... 454
 - Problem gambling ... 227
- Ministerial Statements
 - International Day for the Elimination of Racial Discrimination ... 721
- Office of the Premier
 - Premier’s remarks on PC Party benefit plan trust ... 10
 - Premiers’ swearing-in ceremony costs (Mr. Stelmach and Ms. Redford) ... 395

MacDonald, Hugh (AL, Edmonton-Gold Bar)(continued)

- Oral Question Period (current session topics)
 - Cost of Premier's swearing-in ceremony ... 395
 - Donations to leadership campaigns ... 447
 - Electricity prices ... 512–13, 730, 760
 - Health system restructuring ... 267–68
 - MLA remuneration ... 418
 - PC Party benefit plan trust ... 10
 - Problem gambling ... 195–96
 - Revenue from problem gambling ... 67, 112–13
 - Revenue from VLTs and slot machines ... 143–44, 172, 326–27
- Persons with developmental disabilities
 - Inspection of accommodations ... 588
 - Programs and services, funding from supplementary supply ... 85–86
- Pipelines – Construction
 - Enbridge Northern Gateway project (proposed) ... 208
- Progressive Conservative Party of Alberta
 - Benefit trust plan, tax credits re ... 10
 - Donations to leadership candidates ... 447, 512–13
 - Donations to leadership candidates, member's statement on ... 454
- Property rights advocate (proposed)
 - Alberta Surface Rights Group response ... 657–58
 - Mandate ... 650
- Property Rights Advocate Act (Bill 6)
 - Committee ... 649–51, 657–59
- Property Rights Task Force
 - Recommendations ... 649, 658–59
- Public lands
 - Revenue from lease sales ... 218
- Public service
 - Pension administration ... 209–10
- Pulp and paper industry – Whitecourt
 - Impact of electric power prices ... 91
- Reports presented by standing and special committees
 - Public Accounts Committee ... 270
- Results-based Budgeting Act (Bill 1)
 - Second reading ... 96–97
- Revenue
 - Fluctuations in revenue ... 186
 - Forecasts ... 207
 - Nonrenewable resource revenue ... 207, 631–32
- School boards and districts
 - Financial decision-making ... 408
- Schools
 - School closures ... 183–84, 408
- Schools – Construction
 - Project scheduling ... 94
- Schools – Fort McMurray
 - Capacity issues ... 184
- Seniors' Property Tax Deferral Act (Bill 5)
 - Committee ... 641–43
- Separate school districts
 - Constitutional guarantees re ... 184
- Speaker
 - Retirement of current Speaker ... 762–63
- Speech from the Throne
 - Motion to consider (Fawcett/Rodney), addresses in reply (Government Motion 10) ... 91–93
 - Motion to consider (Fawcett/Rodney), addresses in reply (questions and comments) ... 94
- Substance abuse and addiction
 - Dept. of Health and Wellness responsibility ... 203

MacDonald, Hugh (AL, Edmonton-Gold Bar)(continued)

- Suicide
 - Underlying factors ... 203
- Supplementary estimates
 - Supplementary estimates 2011-12, No. 2, debate ... 82, 85–86, 88–90
- Tobacco Reduction (Protection of Children in Vehicles) Amendment Act, 2012 (Bill 203)
 - Second reading ... 432–33
- Wildfires – Slave Lake
 - Recovery program, funding from supplementary supply ... 185

Marz, Richard (PC, Olds-Didsbury-Three Hills, to March 16, 2012)

- Introduction of Guests (school groups, individuals) ... 51, 57, 355
- Members' Statements (current session)
 - Donation to Olds College by Jack Anderson ... 297
- Olds College
 - Donation to by J.C. (Jack) Anderson, member's statement on ... 297

Mason, Brian (ND, Edmonton-Highlands-Norwood)

- Alberta Act (1905)
 - Separate school provisions ... 484
- Alberta College of Physicians & Surgeons
 - General remarks ... 273
- Alberta Health Services (authority)
 - Centralization of services, Health Quality Council report comments on ... 261, 263–64, 273–74
- Alberta Land Stewardship Act
 - General remarks ... 702
- Alberta Medical Association
 - Newspaper advertisement on health care system judicial inquiry ... 321–22
- Alberta Teachers' Association
 - Response to Bill 2, Education Act ... 405
- Alberta Union of Provincial Employees
 - Binding arbitration ... 213
- Alberta Urban Municipalities Association
 - Relations with provincial government ... 289
- Appropriation Act, 2012 (Bill 7)
 - Third reading ... 687, 689–91
- Arts and culture
 - Provincial strategy ... 30
- Bitumen – Export
 - Unprocessed bitumen ... 29
- Bitumen – Royalties
 - Forecasts ... 213
- Bitumen – Upgrading
 - Alberta industry ... 29
- Budget 2012-13
 - Wage and salary allocations ... 212
- Budget process
 - Balanced/deficit budgets ... 29
 - Revenue/cost forecasts used ... 212–13, 214, 690, 691
- Bullying
 - Gender identity/sexual orientation as a factor ... 406
- Canada Health Act
 - Health professional compensation provisions ... 378
- Cancer – Diagnosis and treatment
 - Wait times ... 273, 379
- Charter schools
 - Provincial strategy ... 405, 406
- Continuing/extended care facilities
 - Capital funding ... 193
- Corporations – Taxation
 - Provincial strategy ... 29, 214

Mason, Brian (ND, Edmonton-Highlands-Norwood)(continued)

Crime
 Federal legislation ... 29
 Dept. of Finance
 Main estimates 2012-13 debate ... 212-15
 Dept. of Health and Wellness
 Main estimates 2012-13 debate ... 378-81
 Ministerial accountability ... 264
 Early childhood education
 Kindergarten and junior kindergarten ... 406
 East Edmonton health centre
 Timeline on ... 43, 141
 Urgent care facilities delay ... 378, 380-81
 Edmonton General hospital
 Long-term care ... 193, 379
 Edmonton public school board
 Report on school fees ... 406
 Education
 Public consultations ... 406
 Public system ... 691
 Education – Curricula
 Content re sexual orientation ... 406
 Education – Finance
 Funding ... 29
 Education Act (Bill 2)
 Second reading ... 405-6
 Electric power
 Service disruptions ... 30
 Electric power – Export
 Licence applications ... 601
 Electric power – Prices
 Comparison with other jurisdictions ... 61, 107
 Rates ... 9, 29, 30, 61, 690-91
 Regulated-rate option ... 61
 TransAlta price manipulation ... 30
 Electric power – Quebec
 General remarks ... 107
 Electric power – Regulations
 Deregulation ... 29
 Electric power plants
 Coal-fired facilities ... 30
 Electric Statutes Amendment Act, 2009 (Bill 50)
 General remarks ... 702
 Emergency debates under Standing Order 30 (current session)
 Health Quality Council review report, debate ... 273-74
 Energy industry
 Drilling incentive program ... 393
 National strategy (proposed) ... 28
 Environmental protection
 Kyoto protocol ... 29
 Provincial strategy ... 30
 Ethics Commissioner, office of the
 Investigations re international office representative in Hong Kong ... 417
 Executive Council
 Compensation ... 171
 Fiscal framework
 General remarks ... 214
 Government programs and services
 Provincial strategy ... 689-90
 Health care system – Delivery models
 Primary care networks ... 43, 378
 Private delivery model ... 29, 274, 691
 Public-private partnerships (P3) ... 29
 Urgent care centres ... 378, 380-81

Mason, Brian (ND, Edmonton-Highlands-Norwood)(continued)

Health care system – Edmonton
 North Edmonton services ... 43
 Health care system – Health Quality Council
 preferential services inquiry (2012)
 General remarks ... 273
 Terms of reference ... 321-22
 Health care system – Health Quality Council review (2011)
 Final report ... 273
 Final report recommendations ... 379
 Interim report ... 273
 Members' statements ... 261
 Health Resource Centre
 Closure, cost to province of ... 379
 Health sciences professionals – Wages
 Funding ... 212-13
 Hospitals
 Support staff labour negotiations ... 171, 213
 Support staff labour negotiations, member's statement on ... 168
 Hospitals – Emergency services – Capacity issues
 Health Quality Council report findings ... 273
 Performance measures ... 141
 Wait times ... 273, 379, 380-81
 Human Rights Act
 Amendments ... 406
 International offices – Hong Kong
 Suspension of representative ... 417, 667-68
 Introduction of Guests (school groups, individuals) ... 5, 6, 40, 58, 104, 168, 189, 390
 Judges, provincial
 Compensation ... 171
 Land Assembly Project Area Act
 General remarks ... 702
 Lobbyists
 Interest groups ... 289
 Long-term care facilities (nursing homes/auxiliary hospitals)
 Funding ... 687
 Private facilities ... 29, 507-8
 Provincial strategy ... 379, 381, 690
 Residence fees ... 668
 Wait-lists ... 447-48
 Members of the Legislative Assembly
 Compensation review ... 667-68
 Members' Statements (current session)
 Health Quality Council review report ... 261
 Labour negotiations with hospital support staff ... 168
 Oil sands development
 Provincial strategy ... 28-29
 Oil sands development – Environmental aspects
 Advocacy re ... 28
 Federal-provincial monitoring ... 28
 Oral Question Period (current session topics)
 Alberta's representative in Asia ... 417
 Criticism of government ... 289
 Drilling stimulus program ... 393
 Electricity exports ... 601
 Electricity prices ... 9, 61, 107
 Emergency health services ... 141
 General hospital long-term care centre ... 193
 Health services for north Edmonton ... 43
 Health system restructuring ... 263-64
 Judicial inquiry into health services ... 321-22
 Labour negotiations with hospital support staff ... 171
 Long-term care ... 447-48

Mason, Brian (ND, Edmonton-Highlands-Norwood)(continued)

- Oral Question Period (current session topics)
 - (continued)*
 - Pre-election commitments ... 667–68
 - Private operation of long-term care facilities ... 507–8
- Patient advocacy by physicians
 - Allegations of intimidation, events regarding Mr. Horne and Dr. Sherman (contact with Alberta Medical Association re Dr. Sherman's mental state) ... 289
 - Allegations of intimidation, Health Quality Council report findings ... 261, 273–74
- Pension plans
 - Federal plans ... 30
- Physicians
 - Compensation and development funding ... 378
 - Services agreement ... 212–13, 321, 378
- Private schools
 - Legislative provisions ... 405
- Privatization
 - Provincial strategy ... 29, 690–91
- Property Rights Advocate Act (Bill 6)
 - Third reading ... 702
- Public lands
 - Revenue from lease sales ... 213
- Public service
 - Wages and salaries ... 212
- Revenue
 - Nonrenewable resource revenue ... 213
- Royal Alexandra hospital
 - Emergency services ... 43, 141, 378
- Royalty structure (energy resources)
 - Provincial strategy ... 213–14
- St. Albert and Sturgeon Valley School Districts
 - Establishment Act (Bill 4)
 - Second reading ... 484
- School fees (elementary and secondary)
 - Provincial strategy ... 29, 405–6
- Schools – Maintenance and repair
 - Deferred maintenance ... 406
- Schools – Maintenance and repair – Grimshaw
 - Letter from Mr. Goudreau to school board ... 289
- Seniors
 - Financial issues ... 9
- Seniors' benefit program
 - Drug benefits ... 379
- Seniors' Property Tax Deferral Act (Bill 5)
 - Second reading ... 490–91
- Sexual orientation/identity
 - Bullying of individuals based on ... 406
- Speech from the Throne
 - Motion to consider (Fawcett/Rodney), addresses in reply (Government Motion 10) ... 28–30
 - Motion to consider (Fawcett/Rodney), addresses in reply (questions and comments) ... 25
- Student testing (elementary and secondary students)
 - Provincial achievement tests ... 406
- Supportive living accommodations
 - Private vs. public facilities ... 447–48
 - Resident health, comparison to long-term care facilities ... 447–48
- Surgery procedures – Eye surgeries
 - Cataract surgery, wait times for ... 379
- Surgery procedures – Joint surgeries
 - Wait times ... 379

Mason, Brian (ND, Edmonton-Highlands-Norwood)(continued)

- Tax policy
 - Flat tax rate vs. progressive rate ... 29
 - General remarks ... 214–15, 690–91
 - Teachers – Supply
 - Number in education system ... 406
 - Teachers – Wages
 - Funding ... 212–13
 - Tranquility Care Homes Inc.
 - Eviction of resident ... 507–8
 - Tuition and fees, postsecondary
 - Provincial strategy ... 29
 - Utilities Consumer Advocate
 - General remarks ... 61
 - Villa Caritas
 - Repurposing as psychogeriatric facility ... 379
 - Utilization of facility ... 193
 - Water quality – Oil sands area
 - Monitoring ... 28
- McFarland, Barry (PC, Little Bow)
- Alberta Electric System Operator
 - Mandate ... 44
 - Arts and culture
 - Tax incentives for cultural endeavours, Motion Other than Government Motion 503 (Benito: defeated) ... 440
 - Education – Curricula
 - English as a second language ... 197–98
 - Electric power
 - Balancing Pool mandate ... 44
 - Electric power – Prices
 - Rates ... 44
 - Electric power plants
 - Scheduled maintenance ... 44
 - Introduction of Visitors (visiting dignitaries)
 - Family and friends of the Member for Little Bow ... 285
 - Little Bow (constituency)
 - Member's political life and tribute to family and supporters, member's statement on ... 296
 - Members' Statements (current session)
 - A life in politics ... 296
 - Mennonites
 - Education of children from Mexico ... 197–98
 - Oral Question Period (current session topics)
 - Education of Mennonite children from Mexico ... 197–98
 - Electricity prices ... 44
- McQueen, Diana (PC, Drayton Valley-Calmar; Minister of Environment and Water)
- Dept. of Agriculture and Rural Development
 - Mandate ... 364
 - Dept. of Energy
 - Mandate ... 364
 - Dept. of Environment and Water
 - Mandate ... 364
 - Minister's meeting with environmental scientists ... 511
 - Dept. of Environment and Water
 - Minister's meeting with federal Minister of Environment ... 14
 - Dept. of Sustainable Resource Development
 - Mandate ... 364
 - Electric power – Retail sales
 - Demand-side management ... 364
 - Environmental protection
 - Provincial strategy ... 14

McQueen, Diana (PC, Drayton Valley-Calmar; Minister of Environment and Water) (continued)

- Greenhouse gas emissions
 - Reduction strategies ... 364
- Introduction of Guests (school groups, individuals)
 - ... 41, 57, 355, 443–44, 751
- Introduction of Visitors (visiting dignitaries)
 - Strathmore mayor and chief administrative officer ... 167
- Oil sands development – Environmental aspects
 - Canadian Oil Sands Innovation Alliance ... 292
 - Federal-provincial monitoring ... 14, 108, 452, 510–11
 - Research ... 195
- Oral Question Period (current session topics)
 - Canadian Oil Sands Innovation Alliance ... 292
 - Energy demand-side management ... 364
 - Environmental monitoring ... 108, 452
 - Environmental monitoring of the oil sands ... 510–11
 - Environmental protection ... 14
 - Impact of oil sands development ... 195
 - Property rights public consultation ... 194–95
 - Sand and gravel extraction management ... 757–58
 - Water allocation ... 451–52
- Property rights advocate (proposed)
 - Mandate ... 194–95
- Property Rights Advocate Act (Bill 6)
 - First reading ... 236
 - Second reading ... 404, 500
- Property Rights Task Force
 - Public input ... 194–95
- Sand and gravel mining
 - Extraction management ... 757–58
- South Saskatchewan River basin
 - Water licence transfers, publication of ... 451–52
- Water licences
 - Approval process ... 451–52
- Water management
 - Aquifer protection ... 757–58
 - Conservation ... 451–52
 - Groundwater mapping ... 757
- Wetlands
 - Reclamation projects ... 511

Mitzel, Len (PC, Cypress-Medicine Hat)

- Energy industry
 - Provincial strategy ... 290
- Floods – Southern Alberta
 - Recovery program ... 420
- Gun registry
 - General remarks ... 266
- Labour force planning
 - Recruitment and retention of skilled workers, U.S. workers ... 290
- Office of the Premier
 - Premier's travel re energy industry ... 290
- Oil sands development
 - Provincial strategy ... 290
- Oral Question Period (current session topics)
 - Disaster recovery program ... 420
 - Long gun registry ... 266
 - Promotion of Alberta energy industry ... 290
- Pipelines – Construction
 - TransCanada line, Cushing to Port Arthur ... 290
- Tobacco Reduction (Protection of Children in Vehicles)
 - Amendment Act, 2012 (Bill 203)
 - Second reading ... 430–31
 - Committee ... 615–16
- Tobacco use
 - Prevention programs ... 430–31

Morton, Dr. F.L. (PC, Foothills-Rockyview; Minister of Energy)

- Alberta Electric System Operator
 - Mandate ... 44, 107, 364
- Alberta First Nations Energy Centre
 - Provincial strategy ... 393, 448, 506, 576
- Alberta Human Rights Act
 - Implementation ... 546–47
- Alberta Innovates: Technology Futures
 - Research on energy conservation ... 363–64
- Alberta Utilities Commission
 - Mandate ... 107, 364
- Bitumen – Royalties
 - Forecasts ... 450
- Bitumen – Upgrading
 - North West Upgrading project ... 448
- Budget process
 - Revenue/cost forecasts used ... 147–48, 450
- Canadian Charter of Rights and Freedoms
 - Religious freedom provisions ... 546–47
- Corporations
 - Closures during electric power price increases ... 41
- Dept. of Environment and Water
 - Minister's meeting with environmental scientists ... 673
- Education Act (Bill 2)
 - Committee, amendment A1 (addition to preamble on parental choice) (carried) ... 545–49
- Electric power
 - Balancing Pool mandate ... 44
 - Cogeneration ... 760
- Electric power – Prices
 - Comparison with other jurisdictions ... 41, 60, 61, 107, 112, 140, 146–47, 199, 228, 506–7, 728
 - Rates ... 8, 9, 44, 61, 728, 730, 760
 - Regulated-rate option ... 60, 61, 105, 512–13
 - TransAlta price manipulation ... 8, 41
- Electric power – Quebec
 - General remarks ... 107
- Electric power – Regulations
 - Deregulation ... 60, 146–47, 199
- Electric power – Retail sales
 - Demand-side management ... 363–64
 - Industrial consumers ... 41, 364
 - Rural consumers ... 730
- Electric power lines – Construction
 - Critical Transmission Review Committee membership ... 506–7
 - Critical Transmission Review Committee report ... 107, 112
 - North-south transmission line reinforcement ... 583, 728
 - Procurement process ... 107
- Electric power plants
 - Coal-fired facilities ... 195
 - Plant locations ... 583
 - Scheduled maintenance ... 44
- Electric Statutes Amendment Act, 2009 (Bill 50)
 - General remarks ... 497
- Electric utilities
 - Corporate political donations ... 513
- Energy industry
 - Drilling incentive program ... 393
- Ethane
 - Incremental ethane extraction program ... 581
- Expropriation Act
 - Implementation ... 499–500

Morton, Dr. F.L. (PC, Foothills-Rockyview; Minister of Energy) (continued)

- Forest industries – Castle-Crown area
 - Environmental issues ... 673
- Fuel (gasoline and diesel)
 - Prices ... 398
- Gas, natural
 - Development strategy for unconventional sources ... 195
- Hydraulic fracturing
 - General remarks ... 47
- International trade – European Union
 - Fuel quality directive ... 265
- Introduction of Guests (school groups, individuals) ... 58–59
- Oil sands development – Environmental aspects
 - Advocacy re ... 265
 - Federal-provincial monitoring ... 673
 - Research ... 195
- Oral Question Period (current session topics)
 - Alberta First Nations Energy Centre ... 393, 506, 576
 - Bitumen upgrading ... 448
 - Critical electricity transmission lines ... 583
 - Critical Transmission Review Committee report ... 107
 - Drilling stimulus program ... 393
 - Electricity prices ... 8, 9, 41, 44, 60, 61, 105, 107, 112, 140, 146–47, 199, 228, 506–7, 512–13, 728, 730, 760
 - Energy demand-side management ... 363–64
 - European Union fuel quality directive ... 265
 - Gasoline and diesel prices ... 398
 - Hydraulic fracturing practices ... 47
 - Impact of oil sands development ... 195
 - NOVA Chemicals Corporation expansion ... 581
 - Provincial budget projections ... 147–48
 - Provincial tax policy ... 144
 - Resource revenue projections ... 450
 - Water management ... 673
- Petrochemicals industry
 - NOVA Chemicals Corporation/Williams Feedstock Supply partnership ... 581
- Progressive Conservative Party of Alberta
 - Donations to leadership candidates ... 513
- Property Rights Advocate Act (Bill 6)
 - Second reading ... 497, 499–500
- Revenue
 - Forecasts ... 147–48
- School Act
 - General remarks ... 548–49
- Tax policy
 - General remarks ... 144
- Utilities Consumer Advocate
 - General remarks ... 61

Notley, Rachel (ND, Edmonton-Strathcona)

- Alberta Health Services (authority)
 - Centralization of services ... 229
 - Third-quarter report ... 756
- Alberta Human Rights Commission
 - Mandate ... 721
- Alberta Teachers' Association
 - Poll on special-needs education ... 411
- Appeals Commission (workers' compensation)
 - Annual report ... 88
- Appropriation Act, 2012 (Bill 7)
 - Second reading ... 588–91
- Assured income for the severely handicapped
 - Funding ... 589–90
 - Funding from supplementary supply ... 84–85

Notley, Rachel (ND, Edmonton-Strathcona) (continued)

- Budget debate (procedure)
 - Schedule of debate ... 20
- Budget process
 - Balanced/deficit budgets ... 589
 - Zero-based budgeting ... 98–99
- Bullying
 - Prevention strategies ... 410
- Castle-Crown wilderness area
 - Biological significance ... 46
- Centre for Race and Culture
 - General remarks ... 722
- Charter schools
 - Provincial strategy ... 409–10
- Child welfare
 - Performance measures, member's request for information ... 474
 - Programs and services ... 474
- Children – Protective services
 - Deaths and serious incidents ... 473–74
 - Guardianship orders, member's request for information on ... 474
- Continuing care strategy
 - General remarks ... 756
- Continuing/extended care facilities
 - Levels and standards of care ... 232, 281, 577
- Corporations – Taxation
 - New Democratic Party position ... 76
- Courts, provincial
 - Security levels ... 89
- Daycare
 - Fees ... 469
 - Spaces available ... 472–73, 590
 - Subsidies ... 87, 467
- Daycare centres
 - Accreditation ... 472
- Dept. of Education
 - Main estimates 2012-13 debate ... 342–44, 347–50
- Dept. of Environment and Water
 - Minister's meeting with environmental scientists ... 511
- Dept. of Health and Wellness
 - Mandate ... 229
- Dept. of Human Services
 - Main estimates 2012-13 debate ... 467–69, 472–74
 - Supplementary estimates 2011-12, No. 2, debate ... 87–88
- Dept. of Justice and Attorney General
 - Supplementary estimates 2011-12, No. 2, debate ... 82
- Dept. of Seniors
 - Supplementary estimates 2011-12, No. 2, debate ... 84–85
- Dept. of Solicitor General and Public Security
 - Supplementary estimates 2011-12, No. 2, debate ... 89
- Early childhood education
 - Kindergarten and junior kindergarten ... 359–60, 410, 590
- Edmonton public school board
 - Capital plan ... 604
- Education
 - Public consultations ... 408–9
- Education – Curricula
 - English as a second language ... 342
- Education – Finance
 - 3-year funding cycle ... 350
 - Funding ... 590

Notley, Rachel (ND, Edmonton-Strathcona) (continued)

Education Act (Bill 2)
 Second reading ... 408–11
 Committee, amendment A1, subamendment SA1 (insertion of phrase “paramount right and responsibility” of parents) (defeated) ... 519–20, 525–26
 Committee, amendment A6 (replace section 16, diversity and respect) (defeated) ... 734–35
 Committee, amendment A7 (establishment of charter schools) (carried) ... 738–40
 Electric power – Prices
 Provincial strategy ... 590
 Emergency debates under Standing Order 30 (current session)
 Health Quality Council review report, request for debate (proceeded with) ... 272
 Health Quality Council review report, debate ... 280–81
 Work stoppages by hospital support staff, request for debate (not proceeded with) ... 181–82
 Estimates of Supply (government expenditures)
 Main estimates 2012–13, motion to consider (Government Motion 6: carried) ... 20
 Main estimates 2012–13, schedule of debate ... 20
 Procedure on questioning ... 342
 Forest industries – Castle-Crown area
 Logging activities ... 46–47
 Foster care
 Member’s request for information ... 474
 Government contracts
 General remarks ... 89
 Government savings
 Provincial strategy ... 76
 Government spending
 Provincial strategy ... 76
 Health care system
 Public confidence ... 280–81
 Health care system – Finance
 Funding ... 590
 Health care system – Health Quality Council preferential services inquiry (2012)
 Legislative provisions ... 229
 Health care system – Health Quality Council review (2011)
 Final report ... 229
 Final report recommendations ... 280–81
 Home-schooling
 Curriculum content ... 520, 734–35
 Hospitals
 Support staff labour negotiations ... 174–75
 User statistics ... 281
 Housing – Rental housing
 Health and safety standards ... 110–11
 Immigrants
 Statistics ... 88
 Income support programs
 Client benefits ... 467–69
 Inspiring Education
 Public consultations ... 408–9
 International Day for the Elimination of Racial Discrimination
 Ministerial statement ... 721–22
 Introduction of Guests (school groups, individuals) ... 6, 40, 104, 444, 574
 John Humphrey Centre for Peace and Human Rights
 General remarks ... 722

Notley, Rachel (ND, Edmonton-Strathcona) (continued)

Judges, provincial
 Compensation ... 175
 Compensation, funding from supplementary supply ... 82
 Judicial Compensation Commission (2009)
 General remarks ... 82
 Kinship care
 Member’s request for information ... 474
 Labour market agreement
 Decrease in number of learners ... 87–88
 Land-use framework
 General remarks ... 20
 Long-term care facilities (nursing homes/auxiliary hospitals)
 Funding ... 229
 Labour disputes ... 420–21
 Levels of care ... 232, 281
 Members’ statements ... 584
 Private facilities ... 420–21, 727
 Residence fees ... 577, 727
 Standards of care ... 577
 Wait-lists ... 229, 756
 Masters in chambers
 Compensation, funding from supplementary supply ... 82
 Members’ Statements (current session)
 Long-term care for seniors ... 584
 New Democratic Party election choice ... 762
 Women’s equality ... 391
 Mental health services
 Provincial strategy ... 281
 Ministerial Statements
 International Day for the Elimination of Racial Discrimination ... 721–22
 Tribute to Member for Barrhead-Morinville-Westlock ... 752–53
 Motor vehicles
 Commercial vehicle enforcement ... 89
 New Democratic Party
 Election choice, member’s statement on ... 762
 Oil sands development – Environmental aspects
 Federal-provincial monitoring ... 510–11
 Opposition caucuses
 Critics’ attendance at budget debates ... 20
 Oral Question Period (current session topics)
 Castle-Crown wilderness area ... 46–47
 Donations to political parties ... 724
 Environmental monitoring of the oil sands ... 510–11
 Full-day kindergarten programs ... 359–60
 Grimshaw Holy Family school ... 292, 362–63
 Health Quality Council review report ... 229
 Labour negotiations with hospital support staff ... 174–75
 Long-term and continuing care ... 232
 Long-term care ... 577, 727, 756
 Minimum housing and health standards ... 110–11
 Private operation of continuing care centres ... 420–21
 School capital construction ... 604
 Patient advocacy by physicians
 Allegations of intimidation, Health Quality Council report findings ... 229
 Points of order
 Clarification (main estimates debate) ... 331
 Persons with developmental disabilities
 Programs and services, funding from supplementary supply ... 84–85

Notley, Rachel (ND, Edmonton-Strathcona) (continued)

- Police
 - Contract policing and policing oversight ... 89
- Postsecondary educational institutions
 - Donations to PC Party ... 724
- Postsecondary educational institutions – Finance
 - Funding ... 590
- Privilege
 - Obstructing a member in performance of duty ... 679
- Public Health Act
 - Amendments (proposed) ... 110–11
- Public service
 - Deputy minister's salaries ... 82
- Results-based Budgeting Act (Bill 1)
 - Second reading ... 97–99
- Revenue
 - Fluctuations in revenue ... 76
- Royalty structure (energy resources)
 - Provincial strategy ... 589
 - Review (proposed) ... 76
- School boards and districts
 - Natural person powers ... 409
- School fees (elementary and secondary)
 - Provincial strategy ... 410
- Schoolchildren – Transportation
 - Definition of walking distance ... 409
- Schools
 - Class size ... 76, 350
 - Community role ... 409
 - School closures ... 409, 604
 - Support services ... 349
- Schools – Construction
 - Funding ... 590
- Schools – Edmonton
 - School closures ... 604
- Schools – Maintenance and repair
 - Funding ... 590
- Schools – Maintenance and repair – Grimshaw
 - Advocacy to government ... 362–63
 - General remarks ... 292
 - Letter from Mr. Goudreau to school board ... 292
- Seniors' benefit program
 - General remarks ... 20
- Seniors' Property Tax Deferral Act (Bill 5)
 - Committee ... 638–39
- Sheldon M. Chumir Foundation for Ethics in Leadership
 - General remarks ... 722
- South Saskatchewan regional plan (land-use framework)
 - Recommendations ... 47
- Special-needs education
 - Funding model ... 343–44, 347–50
 - Programs ... 343–44, 410–11, 590
- Supplementary estimates
 - Supplementary estimates 2011-12, No. 2, debate ... 82, 84–85, 87–89
- Supportive living accommodations, affordable
 - Affordable supportive living initiative ... 84
- Tax policy
 - Flat tax rate, replacement with progressive tax (Motion Other than Government Motion 501: defeated) ... 75–76
 - Flat tax rate vs. progressive rate ... 75–76
 - General remarks ... 589
- Teachers – Education
 - Training in special-needs education ... 349–50, 410–11
- Teachers – Wages
 - Contract negotiations ... 350
 - Funding ... 350

Notley, Rachel (ND, Edmonton-Strathcona) (continued)

- Tobacco Reduction (Protection of Children in Vehicles) Amendment Act, 2012 (Bill 203)
 - Second reading ... 431–32
- Tobacco use
 - Prevention programs ... 431–32
- Wetlands
 - Reclamation projects ... 511
- Women's equality
 - Members' statements ... 391
- Workplace health and safety
 - Labour legislation, compliance with United Nations conventions ... 174–75
- Oberle, Frank (PC, Peace River; Minister of Sustainable Resource Development)
 - Alberta Land Stewardship Act
 - Land trust provisions ... 266
 - Bears
 - Education program (BearSmart) ... 513
 - Grizzly bear population counts ... 513
 - Protection of dens ... 42
 - Shooting of bears near work camps ... 234–35
 - Caribou
 - Habitat protection ... 670
 - Castle-Crown wilderness area
 - Biological significance ... 46–47
 - Management plan ... 145–46
 - Maps of wildlife den locations ... 42
 - Forest industries – Bragg Creek area
 - Environmental issues ... 673
 - Logging activities ... 393–94
 - Public consultations ... 66–67
 - Forest industries – Castle-Crown area
 - Environmental issues ... 673
 - Logging activities ... 42, 46–47, 106, 145–46
 - Forests Act
 - Timber quota variances ... 394
 - Introduction of Guests (school groups, individuals) ... 39, 138, 286
 - Land trusts
 - Eligibility for grant funding ... 266
 - Land-use framework
 - Implementation ... 673
 - North Saskatchewan regional plan (land-use framework)
 - Status of plan ... 673
 - Oral Question Period (current session topics)
 - Bear management ... 513
 - Bear management near work camps ... 234–35
 - Caribou habitat protection ... 670
 - Castle-Crown wilderness area ... 42, 46–47, 106, 145–46
 - Land conservation trusts ... 266
 - Logging in the Bragg Creek area ... 66–67, 393–94
 - Sand and gravel extraction management ... 607
 - Water management ... 673
 - Parks, provincial
 - Embargo on logging ... 42
 - Recreational trails – Bragg Creek area
 - Impact of logging on ... 66–67
 - Sand and gravel mining
 - Extraction management ... 607
 - South Saskatchewan regional plan (land-use framework)
 - Recommendations ... 47
 - Status of plan ... 673
 - Tobacco Reduction (Protection of Children in Vehicles) Amendment Act, 2012 (Bill 203)
 - Second reading ... 432

Oberle, Frank (PC, Peace River; Minister of Sustainable Resource Development) (continued)

- Waste management – Oil sands area
 - Best practices ... 234–35
- Water management
 - Aquifer protection ... 607
- Wildlife
 - Carcass composting facility, Cardston county ... 513
- Wolves
 - Wolf culling ... 670

Olson, Verlyn (PC, Wetaskiwin-Camrose; Minister of Justice and Attorney General)

- Alberta Bill of Rights
 - Landowner rights provisions ... 301–2
- Alberta Bill of Rights (Property Rights Protection) Amendment Act, 2012 (Bill 201)
 - Second reading ... 301–2
- Alberta Gaming and Liquor Commission
 - Exemption from Lobbyists Act ... 67
 - Problem gambling management ... 67
- Alberta Human Rights Act
 - General remarks ... 720
 - Review of act ... 605–6
- Alberta Human Rights Commission
 - Mandate ... 720
- Calgary Lab Services
 - Review of pathology services ... 194
- Canadian Coalition of Municipalities Against Racism and Discrimination
 - General remarks ... 720
- Chief Electoral Officer, office of the
 - Investigations ... 294–95
- Cost of living
 - Consumer price index ... 81
- Dept. of Justice and Attorney General
 - Supplementary estimates 2011-12, No. 2, debate ... 80–82
- Education Act (Bill 2)
 - Parental rights provisions ... 605–6
- Election Act
 - Review of act (proposed) ... 294–95
- Elections, provincial
 - Fraud prevention ... 294–95
- Expropriation Act
 - Implementation ... 302
- Home-schooling
 - Curriculum content ... 605–6
- International Day for the Elimination of Racial Discrimination
 - Ministerial statement ... 720–21
- Introduction of Guests (school groups, individuals)
 - ... 39, 167, 286, 389, 573
- Judges, provincial
 - Compensation ... 81, 82
 - Compensation, funding from supplementary supply ... 80–82
- Judicial Compensation Commission (2009)
 - General remarks ... 80–82
- Justice system – Innisfail
 - Restorative justice program ... 607
- Masters in chambers
 - Compensation ... 82
 - Compensation, funding from supplementary supply ... 80–82
- Matrimonial Property Act
 - Amendments ... 14
- Medical examiners – Calgary
 - Review of criminal files ... 173, 194

Olson, Verlyn (PC, Wetaskiwin-Camrose; Minister of Justice and Attorney General) (continued)

- Ministerial Statements
 - International Day for the Elimination of Racial Discrimination ... 720–21
 - Oral Question Period (current session topics)
 - Administration of elections ... 294–95
 - Alberta Human Rights Act ... 605–6
 - Restorative justice ... 607
 - Revenue from problem gambling ... 67
 - Review of medical examiner cases ... 173, 194
 - Safe communities initiative ... 362
 - Safe Communities Resource Centre ... 294
 - Wills and succession legislation ... 14
 - Property rights advocate (proposed)
 - General remarks ... 302
 - Property Rights Task Force
 - Public input ... 302
 - Public service
 - Deputy minister's salaries ... 82
 - Safe communities initiative
 - Bridging funding ... 362
 - Pilot projects ... 362
 - Relation to restorative justice program ... 607
 - Safe Communities Resource Centre
 - Services provided ... 294
 - Supplementary estimates
 - Supplementary estimates 2011-12, No. 2, debate ... 80–82
 - Supreme Court of Canada
 - Decisions on human rights ... 605–6
 - Wills and Succession Amendment Act, 2011 (Bill 14)
 - Implementation ... 14
 - Proclamation ... 14
- Ouellette, Luke (PC, Innisfail-Sylvan Lake)
- Alberta Bill of Rights
 - Landowner rights provisions ... 303
 - Alberta Bill of Rights (Property Rights Protection) Amendment Act, 2012 (Bill 201)
 - Second reading ... 303
 - Electric power – Prices
 - Provincial strategy ... 265
 - Rates ... 265–66
 - Regulated-rate option ... 265–66
 - Variable rate option ... 265–66
 - Energy industry – Environmental aspects
 - International perceptions ... 250
 - Executive Council
 - Main estimates 2012-13 debate ... 250–51
 - Mandate ... 250
 - International trade
 - Provincial strategy ... 250
 - Internet
 - Rural access to high-speed service ... 606
 - Introduction of Guests (school groups, individuals)
 - ... 598
 - Office of the Premier
 - Premier's travel re energy industry ... 251
 - Oil sands development – Environmental aspects
 - Advocacy re ... 250
 - Oral Question Period (current session topics)
 - Electricity prices ... 265–66
 - High-speed Internet services for rural Alberta ... 606
 - Points of order
 - Relevance ... 244
 - Tourism
 - Industry in Alberta ... 250

Pastoor, Bridget Brennan (PC, Lethbridge-East)

- Alberta College of Social Workers
 - Partnership with government ... 298
- Appropriation Act, 2012 (Bill 7)
 - Second reading ... 592–93
- Committee on Education, Standing
 - Report on review of main estimates and business plan, 2012-13, for Dept. of Advanced Education and Technology ... 479
- Dept. of Advanced Education and Technology
 - Main estimates 2012-13 debate, Standing Committee on Education report under Standing Order 59.01(7) ... 479
- Education Act (Bill 2)
 - Committee, amendment A1 (addition to preamble on parental choice) (carried) ... 552
- Health care system
 - Access to services, member's statement on ... 574–75
 - Rehabilitation care ... 419
- Home care
 - Destination home (home care and rehabilitation program) ... 419
- Impaired driving
 - Members' statements ... 444–45
- Introduction of Guests (school groups, individuals) ... 189
- Introduction of Visitors (visiting dignitaries)
 - Former MLA, president and chair of board of governors of Lethbridge College ... 103
- Members' Statements (current session)
 - Health care system accomplishments ... 574–75
 - Impaired driving ... 444–45
 - National Social Work Week ... 298
 - Random Acts of Kindness Week ... 178
- National Social Work Week
 - Members' statements ... 298
- Nurses
 - Scope of practice ... 419
- Oral Question Period (current session topics)
 - Enhanced support for home care ... 419
 - Impaired driving ... 10–11
 - Support for front-line social workers ... 395–96
- Prevention of Bullying Youth Committee
 - Members' statements ... 178
- Random Acts of Kindness Week
 - Members' statements ... 178
- Reports presented by standing and special committees
 - Main estimates and business plan 2012-13 debate, Standing Committee on Education reports under Standing Order 59.01(7): Dept. of Advanced Education and Technology ... 479
- Seniors' Property Tax Deferral Act (Bill 5)
 - Second reading ... 491
 - Committee ... 637–38
 - Third reading ... 699
- Social workers
 - Supports for ... 395–96
- Traffic Safety Amendment Act, 2011 (Bill 26)
 - Implementation ... 10–11
 - Members' statements ... 444–45

Prins, Ray (PC, Lacombe-Ponoka)

- Ethane
 - Incremental ethane extraction program ... 581
- Expropriation Act
 - Implementation ... 405
- Farmers' Advocate
 - Appointment of advocate ... 509

Prins, Ray (PC, Lacombe-Ponoka) (continued)

- Freehold lands
 - Landowner rights, member's statement on ... 575
- Introduction of Guests (school groups, individuals) ... 40, 57, 259, 295, 597
- Members' Statements (current session)
 - Property rights ... 575
- Oral Question Period (current session topics)
 - Farmers' Advocate of Alberta ... 509
 - NOVA Chemicals Corporation expansion ... 581
- Petrochemicals industry
 - Industry incentives ... 581
 - NOVA Chemicals Corporation/Williams Feedstock Supply partnership ... 581
- Property Rights Advocate Act (Bill 6)
 - Second reading ... 404–5
 - General remarks ... 575
- Property Rights Task Force
 - Recommendations ... 404–5
- Quest, Dave (PC, Strathcona)
 - Aboriginal peoples – Economic development
 - Aboriginal woman entrepreneur award ... 297
 - Alberta Blue Cross Benefits Corporation
 - Business awards ... 297
 - Capital projects
 - Economic impacts ... 726
 - Condominium Property Act
 - Homeowner protection ... 312
 - Condominiums
 - Reserve funds, standards for assessment studies, Motion Other than Government Motion 502 (Quest: carried) ... 311–12, 315
 - Corporations
 - Alberta business awards of distinction, member's statement on ... 297
 - Corporations – Fort McMurray
 - Business awards ... 297
 - Diabetes
 - Prevention initiatives ... 176
 - Self-management supports ... 176
 - Electric power plants
 - Coal-fired facilities ... 195
 - Emergency medical services (ambulances, etc.)
 - Centralization of services ... 10
 - Employment
 - Job creation ... 726
 - Youth awards ... 297
 - Employment and immigration agencies
 - Regulations ... 395
 - Fiscal policy
 - Members' statements ... 356
 - Fort Saskatchewan community hospital
 - Opening of facility ... 726
 - Gas, natural
 - Development strategy for unconventional sources ... 195
 - Health facilities
 - Infrastructure funding ... 726
 - Hospitals – Construction – Calgary
 - Funding ... 726
 - Hospitals – Construction – High Prairie
 - Functional plan ... 726
 - Hospitals – Emergency services – Capacity issues
 - Increase in number of visits ... 10
 - International offices – United Kingdom
 - Advocacy role for energy industry ... 230
 - International trade – European Union
 - Fuel quality directive ... 230

Quest, Dave (PC, Strathcona) (continued)

- Introduction of Guests (school groups, individuals) ... 40, 259, 390
- Medical research
 - Spinal cord injury research ... 418
- Members' Statements (current session)
 - Alberta business awards of distinction ... 297
 - Provincial fiscal policy ... 356
- Office of the Premier
 - Premier's awards to business ... 297
- Oil sands development – Environmental aspects
 - Research ... 195
- Oral Question Period (current session topics)
 - Ambulance services ... 10
 - European Union fuel quality directive ... 230
 - Fort Saskatchewan community hospital ... 726
 - Funding for diabetes self-management supplies ... 176
 - Impact of oil sands development ... 195
 - Protection of job seekers ... 395
 - Seniors' property tax deferral ... 757
 - Spinal cord injury research ... 418
- Persons with disabilities
 - Employer awards ... 297
- Rick Hansen Foundation
 - Funding ... 418
- Scrap Metal Dealers and Recyclers Identification Act (Bill 205)
 - First reading ... 585
 - Second reading ... 623
- Seniors' Property Tax Deferral Act (Bill 5)
 - Determination of interest rate and home value ... 757
 - Purpose of bill ... 757
- Tobacco Reduction (Protection of Children in Vehicles) Amendment Act, 2012 (Bill 203)
 - Second reading ... 433
 - Committee ... 620–21
- Tobacco use
 - Legislated restrictions, other jurisdictions ... 433
 - Reduction strategy ... 433

Redford, Alison M., QC (PC, Calgary-Elbow; Premier)

- Alberta Association of Municipal Districts and Counties
 - Premier's address to meeting ... 755
 - Relations with provincial government ... 142
- Alberta First Nations Energy Centre
 - Provincial strategy ... 416–17, 448
- Alberta Health Services (authority)
 - Centralization of services ... 229
 - Centralization of services, Health Quality Council report comments on ... 262–64
 - Third-quarter report ... 754
- Alberta heritage savings trust fund
 - Provincial strategy ... 59
- Alberta Hospital Edmonton
 - Forensic patients, physician advocacy re (Dr. Peter Rodd) ... 447
- Alberta in Canada
 - Interprovincial relations ... 240, 242, 291
- Alberta Land Stewardship Act
 - General remarks ... 193
- Alberta Medical Association
 - Emergency section president's remarks on health care system ... 192
- Alberta Order of Excellence Council
 - Funding ... 238
- Alberta Supports
 - Programs and services ... 105
- Alberta sustainability fund
 - Utilization of fund ... 59

Redford, Alison M., QC (PC, Calgary-Elbow; Premier) (continued)

- Alberta Urban Municipalities Association
 - Relations with provincial government ... 139–42, 287, 289
- Assured income for the severely handicapped
 - Client benefits ... 244–45, 756
- Bitumen – Upgrading
 - Alberta industry ... 416–17
- Budget 2012-13
 - Overview ... 237–38, 245
- Budget documents
 - Level of detail provided ... 239
- Budget process
 - Balanced/deficit budgets ... 247, 666–67
 - Results-based budgeting ... 246
 - Revenue/cost forecasts used ... 59, 250, 761
 - Value reviews ... 62
- Cabinet Policy Committee on Community Development
 - Resignation of chair ... 287
- Calgary-West (constituency)
 - Leadership contest ... 287
- Carbon Capture and Storage Statutes Amendment Act, 2010 (Bill 24)
 - General remarks ... 193
- Chief Electoral Officer, office of the
 - Investigations ... 759
- Coal
 - Coal gasification ... 240
- Continuing care strategy
 - Alberta Continuing Care Association executive director's remarks ... 754
 - General remarks ... 265, 665–66, 756
- Continuing/extended care facilities
 - Capital funding ... 193, 416
- Corporations
 - Closures during electric power price increases ... 41
- Corporations – Regulations
 - Review of small-business regulations ... 238
- Debt
 - Provincial debt ... 192, 247
- Dept. of Finance
 - Minister's remarks at Airdrie council meeting ... 228, 287
- Dept. of Health and Wellness
 - Deputy ministers' and assistant deputy ministers' roles ... 263
 - Mandate ... 229
 - Ministerial accountability ... 262, 264
- Dept. of Human Services
 - Programs and services ... 9
- Dept. of Municipal Affairs
 - Minister's relations with AUMA and AAMDC ... 140
- Dept. of Treasury Board and Enterprise
 - Donations to minister during PC leadership campaign ... 447
- Dunvegan-Central Peace (constituency)
 - Member's resignation as chair of cabinet policy committee ... 287
- Economy
 - Forecasts ... 59
 - General remarks ... 761–62
- Edmonton General hospital
 - Long-term care ... 193, 288, 416
 - Long-term care, incident involving Audry Chudyk ... 288

Redford, Alison M., QC (PC, Calgary-Elbow; Premier)(continued)

Education
 Parental choice ... 666
 Public consultations ... 667
 Education – Finance
 Funding ... 666
 Election Act
 Review of act (proposed) ... 759
 Electric power – Prices
 Comparison with other jurisdictions ... 105, 107–8
 Provincial strategy ... 265–66
 Rates ... 8, 9, 41, 192, 265–66
 Regulated-rate option ... 105, 140, 228, 265–66
 Variable rate option ... 265–66
 Electric power – Regulations
 Deregulation ... 192
 Electric power – Retail sales
 Industrial consumers ... 41
 Electric power lines – Construction
 Approval process ... 446
 Critical Transmission Review Committee report ... 106, 107
 North-south transmission line reinforcement ... 107
 Electric Statutes Amendment Act, 2009 (Bill 50)
 Repeal of legislation (proposed) ... 106, 107, 193
 Elizabeth II, Queen
 Diamond Jubilee ... 238, 239
 Emergency debates under Standing Order 30 (current session)
 Health Quality Council review report, debate ... 274–75
 Energy industry
 Provincial strategy ... 290
 Energy industry – Environmental aspects
 Sustainability initiatives ... 251
 Ethics Commissioner, office of the
 Investigations re international office representative in Hong Kong ... 415–16, 417–18
 Executive Council
 Compensation ... 417
 Compensation for committee work ... 418
 Executive Council
 Corporate communications ... 239–40, 242–43
 Corporate services ... 239
 Deputy minister ... 238, 239
 IT support ... 239
 Main estimates 2012–13 debate ... 237–51
 Mandate ... 238, 244–45
 Policy co-ordination office ... 238, 239, 244–45
 Premier's mandate letters to ministers ... 238
 Expropriation Act
 Review of act ... 760
 Farm safety
 Worker exclusion from workplace legislation ... 43
 Fiscal framework
 General remarks ... 43, 60–61
 Forest industries – Castle-Crown area
 Logging activities ... 106
 Freehold lands
 Landowner rights ... 193, 759–60
 Government caucus
 Budget surplus ... 246
 Caucus allowances ... 246
 Meeting in Jasper ... 8

Redford, Alison M., QC (PC, Calgary-Elbow; Premier)(continued)

Government spending
 Comparison with other jurisdictions ... 247
 Provincial strategy ... 247
 Gun registry
 General remarks ... 266
 Health care system
 Access to services ... 665–66
 Allegations of queue-jumping ... 263, 288
 Provincial strategy ... 192
 Health care system – Delivery models
 Family care clinics ... 140–41, 274, 288, 665–66, 760
 General remarks ... 274–75
 Primary care networks ... 140–41, 275
 Private delivery model ... 274
 Health care system – Finance
 Funding ... 11, 192
 Health care system – Health Quality Council preferential services inquiry (2012)
 Alberta Medical Association response ... 289
 General remarks ... 275
 Legislative provisions ... 229, 263
 Premier's remarks to news media ... 263
 Terms of reference ... 287–88, 288–89
 Timeline ... 248–49, 263
 Health care system – Health Quality Council review (2011)
 Final report ... 227–28, 229, 244, 263
 Final report recommendations ... 274, 287–88
 Health care system – Slave Lake
 Family care clinic pilot ... 760
 Health sciences professionals
 Allegations of bullying ... 141
 Home care
 Funding ... 265, 665–66, 754
 Hospitals
 Support staff labour negotiations ... 191
 Hospitals – Emergency services – Capacity issues
 Performance measures ... 141
 Infrastructure
 Funding ... 761–62
 International offices
 Advocacy role ... 242–43
 International offices – Hong Kong
 Suspension of representative ... 415–18, 447, 667
 International offices – United Kingdom
 Advocacy role for energy industry ... 230, 250
 International offices – Washington, D.C.
 Advocacy role for energy industry ... 250
 International trade – European Union
 Fuel quality directive ... 230, 240, 264–65
 Introduction of Guests (school groups, individuals) ... 103, 259, 751
 Labour force planning
 Recruitment and retention of skilled workers ... 242
 Recruitment and retention of skilled workers, U.S. workers ... 290
 Land Assembly Project Area Act
 General remarks ... 193
 Lieutenant Governor of Alberta
 Funding ... 238, 239
 Lobbyists
 Interest groups ... 287, 289
 Long-term care facilities (nursing homes/auxiliary hospitals)
 Funding ... 229, 265
 Levels of care ... 42

Redford, Alison M., QC (PC, Calgary-Elbow; Premier)
(continued)

- Long-term care facilities (nursing homes/auxiliary hospitals) (continued)
 - Private facilities ... 446
 - Residence fees ... 668
 - Separation of couples ... 42
 - Wait-lists ... 229, 265, 288, 416, 448, 665–66, 754, 756
- Members of the Legislative Assembly
 - Compensation review ... 417, 418, 667
- Mental health services
 - Provincial strategy ... 140–41
- Ministerial Statements
 - Tribute to Member for Barrhead-Morinville-Westlock ... 751–52
- Municipal sustainability initiative
 - Funding ... 761–62
- Municipalities – Finance
 - Funding ... 761–62
 - Wildrose Party strategy ... 755
- Office of the Premier
 - Funding ... 239, 240
 - Premier's chief of staff's comments on AUMA ... 140, 141
 - Premier's leadership ... 755
 - Premier's remarks on PC Party benefit plan trust ... 10
 - Premier's travel re energy industry ... 239–40, 242, 251, 290
- Oil sands development
 - Provincial strategy ... 290–91
- Oil sands development – Environmental aspects
 - Advocacy re ... 239–40, 250–51, 264–65
- Opposition caucuses
 - Caucus allowances ... 246
- Oral Question Period (current session topics)
 - Accommodation and health care for seniors ... 11, 42
 - Advocacy to government ... 287
 - Alberta Health Services third-quarter report ... 754
 - Alberta's representative in Asia ... 415–18
 - Alleged intimidation of physicians ... 229, 447, 600–601
 - Assured income for the severely handicapped ... 756
 - Bitumen upgrading ... 416–17, 448
 - Castle-Crown wilderness area ... 106
 - Comments at Airdrie council meeting ... 228
 - Critical Transmission Review Committee report ... 106, 107
 - Criticism of government ... 289
 - Donations to leadership campaigns ... 446, 447
 - Edmonton General continuing care incident ... 288
 - Education funding ... 666
 - Election Act reports ... 759
 - Electricity prices ... 8, 9, 41, 105, 107–8, 140, 192, 228, 265–66
 - Emergency health services ... 141
 - European Union fuel quality directive ... 230, 264–65
 - Farm worker exemptions from labour legislation ... 43–44
 - General hospital long-term care centre ... 193
 - Government relationship with the AUMA ... 139–40, 141, 142
 - Health care system ... 263, 665–66
 - Health Quality Council review report ... 227–28, 229
 - Health services labour negotiations ... 191
 - Health system reform ... 192
 - Health system restructuring ... 262–64

Redford, Alison M., QC (PC, Calgary-Elbow; Premier)
(continued)

- Oral Question Period (current session topics) (continued)
 - Infrastructure funding ... 761–62
 - Judicial inquiry into health services ... 287–88, 288–89
 - Landowner property rights ... 193, 759–60
 - Long gun registry ... 266
 - Long-term and continuing care ... 265
 - Long-term care ... 416, 446, 448, 754, 756
 - Mental health services ... 140–41
 - Minister of Health and Wellness ... 262
 - MLA remuneration ... 417, 418
 - Municipal financing ... 755
 - PC caucus meeting in Jasper ... 8
 - PC Party benefit plan trust ... 10
 - Postsecondary education costs ... 599
 - Poverty reduction ... 9
 - Pre-election commitments ... 667–68
 - Promotion of Alberta energy industry ... 290
 - Promotion of Alberta oil sands ... 291
 - Provincial budget ... 7, 62, 666–67
 - Provincial fiscal framework ... 43
 - Provincial fiscal policies ... 59
 - Provincial tax policy ... 8–9, 60–61, 761
 - Public health inquiry ... 263
 - School capital construction ... 758
 - School council teleconference remarks ... 667
 - School fees collection ... 755
 - Seniors' property tax deferral ... 757
 - Slave Lake family care clinic ... 760
- Patient advocacy by physicians
 - Alberta Hospital Edmonton forensic patients ... 447
 - Allegations of intimidation, events regarding Mr. Horne and Dr. Sherman (contact with Alberta Medical Association re Dr. Sherman's mental state) ... 289
 - Allegations of intimidation, Health Quality Council report findings ... 229, 287, 288–89, 600–601
 - Allegations of intimidation, physicians' regional presidents' statement on ... 600–601
- Physicians
 - Family physicians ... 665–66
- Pipelines – Construction
 - Enbridge Northern Gateway project (proposed) ... 239–40, 251
 - TransCanada Keystone XL project ... 239–40, 251
 - TransCanada line, Cushing to Port Arthur ... 290
- Political parties
 - Chief Electoral Officer investigation of donations ... 759
 - Funding of partisan activities ... 8
- Postsecondary education – Finance
 - Cost to students ... 599
- Poverty
 - Financial costs ... 9
- Private schools
 - Funding ... 666
- Progressive Conservative Party of Alberta
 - Benefit trust plan, tax credits re ... 10
 - Donations to leadership candidates ... 446, 447, 754
- Property rights advocate (proposed)
 - Mandate ... 759
- Property Rights Task Force
 - Public input ... 193
 - Recommendations ... 759
- Protocol office
 - Administration ... 238

Redford, Alison M., QC (PC, Calgary-Elbow; Premier)
(continued)

- Public Affairs Bureau
 - Advocacy role ... 240, 242
 - Funding ... 238, 239, 242
 - Performance measures ... 244
 - Social media use ... 242–43
- Public service
 - Operational funding ... 62
- Regulatory Review Secretariat
 - Transfer to Executive Council ... 238, 239, 241–42
- Results-based Budgeting Act (Bill 1)
 - First reading ... 4
 - Second reading ... 31
- School fees (elementary and secondary)
 - Provincial strategy ... 666
 - School board use of collection agencies ... 756
- Schoolchildren – Transportation
 - Bus route planning ... 758
- Schools – Construction
 - Project scheduling ... 758
 - School board requests for funding ... 667
- Schools – Construction – Airdrie
 - Alternative financing models, minister's remarks during teleconference ... 667
- Schools – Maintenance and repair – Grimshaw
 - Letter from Mr. Goudreau to school board ... 287, 289
- Seniors
 - Health care ... 11, 42
- Seniors – Housing
 - Provincial strategy ... 11
 - Public vs. private residences ... 42
- Seniors' benefit program
 - General remarks ... 265
- Seniors' Property Tax Deferral Act (Bill 5)
 - Determination of interest rate and home value ... 757
 - Purpose of bill ... 757
- Special-needs education
 - Funding model ... 758
- Speech from the Throne
 - Consideration on February 8, 2012, motion on (carried) ... 4
 - General remarks ... 7
 - Motion to consider, addresses in reply (Government Motion 10) ... 348
 - Overview ... 237–38, 245
- Student financial aid (postsecondary students)
 - Loan forgiveness (proposed) ... 599
- Supportive living accommodations
 - Private vs. public facilities ... 448
 - Resident health, comparison to long-term care facilities ... 448
- Surface Rights Act
 - Review of act ... 760
- Tax policy
 - General remarks ... 7, 8–9, 59, 60–61, 250, 666, 761
- Tuition and fees, postsecondary
 - Provincial strategy ... 599
- Utilities Consumer Advocate
 - General remarks ... 140
- Wildrose Party
 - Fiscal policy ... 755

Renner, Rob (PC, Medicine Hat)

- Committee on Finance, Standing
 - Report on consideration of main estimates and business plan, 2012-13, for depts. of Infrastructure, Service Alberta, Transportation, and Treasury Board and Enterprise ... 479

Renner, Rob (PC, Medicine Hat) (continued)

- Dept. of Infrastructure
 - Main estimates 2012-13 debate, Standing Committee on Finance report under Standing Order 59.01(7) ... 479
 - Dept. of Service Alberta
 - Main estimates 2012-13 debate, Standing Committee on Finance report under Standing Order 59.01(7) ... 479
 - Dept. of Transportation
 - Main estimates 2012-13 debate, Standing Committee on Finance report under Standing Order 59.01(7) ... 479
 - Dept. of Treasury Board and Enterprise
 - Main estimates 2012-13 debate, Standing Committee on Finance report under Standing Order 59.01(7) ... 479
 - Education Act (Bill 2)
 - Committee, amendment A1, subamendment SA1 (insertion of phrase “paramount right and responsibility” of parents) (defeated) ... 525
 - Home-schooling
 - Curriculum content ... 525
 - Introduction of Guests (school groups, individuals) ... 49, 598
 - Medicine Hat (constituency)
 - Member's retrospective and tribute to family and supporters, member's statement on ... 664
 - Members' Statements (current session)
 - Retrospective by the Member for Medicine Hat ... 664
 - Reports presented by standing and special committees
 - Main estimates and business plan 2012-13 debate, Standing Committee on Finance reports under Standing Order 59.01(7): depts. of Infrastructure, Service Alberta, Transportation, and Treasury Board and Enterprise ... 479
 - School Act
 - General remarks ... 525
- Rodney, Dave (PC, Calgary-Lougheed)
- Aboriginal peoples
 - Programs and services ... 24
 - Alberta in Canada
 - Federal-provincial relations ... 23
 - Budget process
 - Results-based budgeting ... 23
 - Competitiveness, economic
 - Provincial strategy ... 23
 - Condominium Act (Ontario)
 - Reserve fund study criteria ... 314–15
 - Condominium Property Act
 - Homeowner protection ... 314
 - Condominium Property Act (Saskatchewan)
 - Reserve fund study criteria ... 315
 - Condominiums
 - Reserve funds, standards for assessment studies, Motion Other than Government Motion 502 (Quest: carried) ... 314–15
 - Condominiums – Nova Scotia
 - Regulations ... 315
 - Corporations
 - Programs and services for businesses ... 23
 - Education – Finance
 - 3-year funding cycle ... 23
 - Freehold lands
 - Landowner rights ... 23
 - Government
 - Role of government ... 24

Rodney, Dave (PC, Calgary-Lougheed) (continued)

- Health and wellness
 - Heart function clinics, member's statement on ... 399–400
 - Heart Month, member's statement on ... 104–5
- Health care system – Delivery models
 - Family care clinics ... 23
 - Primary care networks ... 23
- Hotchkiss, Harley
 - Members' statements ... 235–36
- Introduction of Guests (school groups, individuals) ... 104, 390
- Labour force planning
 - Recruitment and retention of skilled workers ... 23
- Man in Motion 25th anniversary relay
 - Members' statements ... 424
- Medical research
 - Funding ... 235–36
 - Spinal cord injury research ... 424
- Members' Statements (current session)
 - Harley Hotchkiss ... 235–36
 - Heart function clinics ... 399–400
 - Heart Month ... 104–5
 - Rick Hansen 25th anniversary relay ... 424
- Métis
 - Provincial strategy ... 24
- Municipalities – Finance
 - Funding ... 23
- Office of the Premier
 - Premier's leadership ... 23
- Oil sands development – Environmental aspects
 - Federal-provincial monitoring ... 23
- Postsecondary education
 - Provincial strategy ... 23
- Postsecondary educational institutions – Finance
 - Funding ... 23
- Seniors' benefit program
 - General remarks ... 23
- Speech from the Throne
 - Motion to consider (Fawcett/Rodney) ... 23–24

Rogers, George (PC, Leduc-Beaumont-Devon)

- Alberta – History
 - Leduc No. 1 oil well ... 138
- Alberta Bill of Rights
 - Former Premier Peter Lougheed's remarks ... 304–5
 - Landowner rights provisions ... 304–5
- Alberta Bill of Rights (Property Rights Protection)
 - Amendment Act, 2012 (Bill 201)
 - Second reading ... 304–5
- Alberta Land Stewardship Act
 - Landowner compensation provisions ... 305
- Alberta Urban Municipalities Association
 - Relations with provincial government ... 108
- Black History Month
 - Members' statements ... 15
- Community spirit program
 - Fund distribution ... 729
- Dept. of Intergovernmental, International and Aboriginal Relations
 - Supplementary estimates 2011-12, No. 2, voted ... 90
- Dept. of Seniors
 - Supplementary estimates 2011-12, No. 2, vote ... 91
- Education Act (Bill 2)
 - Committee, amendment A1 (addition to preamble on parental choice) (carried) ... 548
- Energy industry – History
 - Leduc No. 1 oil discovery, member's statement on ... 138

Rogers, George (PC, Leduc-Beaumont-Devon) (continued)

- Housing – Construction
 - Construction and inspection standards ... 268–69
- Housing – Fort McMurray
 - Penhorwood Place condominiums ... 269
- Housing – Leduc
 - Bellavera Green condominiums and apartments ... 268–69
- Immigration
 - Federal regulations ... 450
- Introduction of Guests (school groups, individuals) ... 49, 148, 286, 598
- Labour force planning
 - Input from business ... 450
 - Recruitment and retention of skilled workers ... 450
- Long-term care facilities (nursing homes/auxiliary hospitals)
 - Funding ... 580
 - Standards of care ... 580
- Members of the Legislative Assembly
 - Black members ... 15
- Members' Statements (current session)
 - Black History Month ... 15
 - Leduc No. 1 oil discovery ... 138
 - National Buyer/Seller Forum ... 445
- Municipal Government Act
 - Review of act (proposed) ... 108
- Municipal sustainability initiative
 - Funding criteria ... 108
- National Buyer/Seller Forum
 - Members' statements ... 445
- Oil sands development
 - Partnerships ... 445
- Oral Question Period (current session topics)
 - Community spirit program ... 729
 - Long-term care ... 580
 - Municipal sustainability initiative funding ... 108
 - Residential construction standards ... 268–69
 - Skilled labour supply ... 450
- Seniors' Property Tax Deferral Act (Bill 5)
 - Third reading ... 700

Sandhu, Peter (PC, Edmonton-Manning)

- Alberta Hospital Edmonton
 - Capacity ... 508
 - Members' statements ... 328
- Anthony Henday Drive
 - Project status ... 582
- Introduction of Guests (school groups, individuals) ... 317, 598
- Members' Statements (current session)
 - Alberta Hospital Edmonton ... 328
- Mental health services
 - Access to services ... 508
- Oral Question Period (current session topics)
 - Anthony Henday Drive ... 582
 - Patient advocacy by health professionals ... 508
- Patient advocacy by physicians
 - Allegations of intimidation, resources for affected physicians ... 508

Sarich, Janice (PC, Edmonton-Decore)

- Alberta in Canada
 - Federal-provincial relations ... 135
- Canadian Arab Friendship Association
 - General remarks ... 59
- Catholic Women's League, Edmonton diocese centennial, member's statement on ... 6–7

Sarich, Janice (PC, Edmonton-Decore) (continued)

- Education – Curricula
 - Arabic bilingual programs, member's statement on ... 59
- Education – Finance
 - 3-year funding cycle ... 135
- Families
 - Programs and services ... 135
- Film and television industry
 - The Basketball Game* (NFB), member's statement on ... 296–97
- Introduction of Guests (school groups, individuals) ... 5–6, 58, 167, 286–87, 317–18, 503
- Legislative Assembly of Alberta
 - Arabic remarks ... 59
- Long-term care facilities (nursing homes/auxiliary hospitals) – Edmonton
 - Extendicare Eaux Claires long-term care complex, member's statement on ... 168
- Members' Statements (current session)
 - Catholic Women's League, Edmonton Diocese, centennial ... 6–7
 - Extendicare Eaux Claires long-term care complex ... 168
 - Glengarry elementary school Arabic bilingual program silver jubilee ... 59
 - National Film Board of Canada world premiere ... 296–97
- Poverty
 - Reduction strategy ... 135
- Schools – Edmonton
 - Arabic bilingual programs, member's statement on ... 59
- Scrap Metal Dealers and Recyclers Identification Act (Bill 205)
 - Second reading ... 624
- Speech from the Throne

Motion to consider (Fawcett/Rodney), addresses in reply (Government Motion 10) ... 134–35Sherman, Dr. Raj (AL, Edmonton-Meadowlark)

- Agriculture Financial Services Corporation
 - Borrowing of money ... 600
- Alberta First Nations Energy Centre
 - Provincial strategy ... 506, 576
- Alberta Health Services (authority)
 - Centralization of services, Health Quality Council report comments on ... 262
 - Third-quarter report ... 754
- Alberta heritage savings trust fund
 - Provincial strategy ... 59, 600
- Alberta Investment Management Corporation
 - Investment performance ... 600
- Alberta Liberal Party
 - Election choice, member's statement on ... 762
 - Fiscal policy ... 116–18
- Alberta Medical Association
 - Emergency section president's remarks on health care system ... 192
 - Newspaper advertisement on health care system judicial inquiry ... 358, 392
- Alberta Municipal Financing Corporation
 - Borrowing of money for ... 600
- Alberta Supports
 - Programs and services ... 105
- Alberta sustainability fund
 - Utilization of fund ... 59

Sherman, Dr. Raj (AL, Edmonton-Meadowlark) (continued)

- Alberta Urban Municipalities Association
 - Breakfast meetings ... 320
 - Relations with provincial government ... 139–40, 287, 320, 358
- Arts and culture
 - Provincial strategy ... 245
- Budget 2012-13
 - Government advertisements ... 358–59, 391–92
 - Motion to approve (Government Motion 7) ... 116–18
- Budget documents
 - Level of detail provided ... 239
- Budget process
 - Balanced/deficit budgets ... 116, 239, 245, 666
 - Revenue/cost forecasts used ... 59
- Cabinet Policy Committee on Community Development
 - Resignation of chair ... 287
- Calgary-West (constituency)
 - Leadership contest ... 287
- Cancer
 - Survival rates ... 276
- Cities and towns
 - City charters (proposed) ... 25
- Committee on Privileges and Elections, Standing Orders and Printing, Standing
 - Members' return of payment for ... 722
- Committees of the Legislative Assembly
 - Payments to members ... 722
- Continuing care strategy
 - Alberta Continuing Care Association executive director's remarks ... 754
 - General remarks ... 665
- Continuing/extended care facilities
 - Capital funding ... 416
 - Wait times ... 170
- Corporations
 - Closures during electric power price increases ... 41
- Corporations – Taxation
 - Provincial strategy ... 24
- Debt
 - Provincial debt ... 192
- Dept. of Finance
 - Minister's remarks at Airdrie council meeting ... 228, 287, 358
- Dept. of Health and Wellness
 - Ministerial accountability ... 262
- Dept. of Intergovernmental, International and Aboriginal Relations
 - Minister's meetings with Assembly of Treaty Chiefs re Alberta First Nations Energy Centre ... 576
- Dept. of Municipal Affairs
 - Minister's relations with AUMA and AAMDC ... 140
- Dunvegan-Central Peace (constituency)
 - Member's resignation as chair of cabinet policy committee ... 287
- Economy
 - Forecasts ... 59
- Edmonton General hospital
 - Long-term care ... 288, 416, 575–76
 - Long-term care, Auditor General's recommendations on ... 319
 - Long-term care, incident involving Audry Chudyk ... 288
- Education
 - High school completion ... 239
 - Parental choice ... 666
 - Provincial strategy ... 25

Sherman, Dr. Raj (AL, Edmonton-Meadowlark)(continued)

- Education – Finance
 - Funding ... 244, 245, 666
- Elections, provincial
 - Voter turnout ... 245
- Electric power – Prices
 - Comparison with other jurisdictions ... 41, 59–60, 105, 140, 228, 506–7
 - Rates ... 7–8, 24, 192
 - Regulated-rate option ... 105, 140, 228
 - TransAlta price manipulation ... 8, 24, 41
- Electric power – Regulations
 - Deregulation ... 24, 59–60, 192
- Electric power – Retail sales
 - Industrial consumers ... 41
- Electric power lines – Construction
 - Approval process ... 446
 - Critical Transmission Review Committee membership ... 506–7
 - Critical Transmission Review Committee report ... 106
- Electric Statutes Amendment Act, 2009 (Bill 50)
 - Repeal of legislation (proposed) ... 106
- Emergency debates under Standing Order 30 (current session)
 - Health Quality Council review report, debate ... 275–76
- Emergency medical services (ambulances, etc.) – Edmonton
 - Wait times ... 170
- Ethics Commissioner, office of the
 - Investigations re international office representative in Hong Kong ... 415
- Executive Council
 - Corporate communications ... 241
 - Main estimates 2012-13 debate ... 238–41, 243–45
 - Mandate ... 238, 243–44
 - Ministers' provincial tour ... 116–17
 - Policy co-ordination office ... 243–44
- Fiscal policy
 - Liberal Party position ... 117–18
- Government caucus
 - Meeting in Jasper ... 8
- Government vehicles
 - Funding ... 239
- Grey Nuns hospital
 - Long-term care in ... 505–6
- Health care system
 - Access to services ... 665
 - Comparison with other jurisdictions ... 239
 - Provincial strategy ... 25, 192, 271
- Health care system – Delivery models
 - Family care clinics ... 288, 665
 - Private delivery model ... 25, 171
- Health care system – Finance
 - Funding ... 25, 117–18, 192
 - Increased costs ... 244
- Health care system – Health Quality Council preferential services inquiry (2012)
 - Alberta Medical Association response ... 358
 - Terms of reference ... 287–88, 358
- Health care system – Health Quality Council review (2011)
 - Final report ... 227–28, 243–44
 - Final report recommendations ... 275–76, 287–88
- Home care
 - Access to services ... 276
 - Funding ... 25, 665, 754

Sherman, Dr. Raj (AL, Edmonton-Meadowlark)(continued)

- Hospitals
 - Support staff labour negotiations ... 169–70, 191
- Hospitals – Emergency services – Capacity issues
 - History of issues ... 275–76
 - Wait times ... 170–71
- International offices – Hong Kong
 - Suspension of representative ... 415
- Introduction of Guests (school groups, individuals) ... 6, 137–38, 574, 674, 720
- Labour force planning
 - Recruitment and retention of skilled workers ... 243
- Labour Relations Board
 - Alberta Health Services application on hospital support staff labour negotiations ... 169
- Lobbyists
 - Interest groups ... 287, 357–58
- Long-term care facilities (nursing homes/auxiliary hospitals)
 - Auditor General's recommendations ... 319
 - Deaths and serious incidents ... 319, 505–6, 575, 723
 - Funding ... 723
 - Levels of care ... 41–42
 - Private facilities ... 446
 - Separation of couples ... 42
 - Wait-lists ... 276, 288, 416, 665, 754
- Lottery fund
 - Administration ... 25
- Market Surveillance Administrator (electric power market)
 - Role of ... 24
- Members of the Legislative Assembly
 - Compensation ... 722–23
- Members' Statements (current session)
 - Liberal Party election choice ... 762
 - Second-hand smoke ... 424–25
- Ministerial Statements
 - Tribute to Member for Barrhead-Morinville-Westlock ... 752
- Municipal Government Act
 - Review of act (proposed) ... 320
- Municipal heritage fund (proposed)
 - General remarks ... 24–25
- Municipal sustainability initiative
 - Funding ... 320
- Municipalities – Finance
 - Funding ... 245
- Office of the Premier
 - Funding ... 239
 - Premier's appearance in online advertising ... 241
 - Premier's chief of staff's comments on AUMA ... 140, 243
- Oral Question Period (current session topics)
 - Accommodation and health care for seniors ... 41–42
 - Advocacy to government ... 287, 357–58
 - AIMCo investments ... 600
 - Alberta First Nations Energy Centre ... 506, 576
 - Alberta Health Services third-quarter report ... 754
 - Alberta's representative in Asia ... 415
 - Alleged intimidation of physicians ... 600
 - Comments at Airdrie council meeting ... 228
 - Critical Transmission Review Committee report ... 106
 - Donations to leadership campaigns ... 445–46
 - Donations to political parties ... 723
 - Edmonton General continuing care incident ... 288
 - Education funding ... 666

Sherman, Dr. Raj (AL, Edmonton-Meadowlark)(continued)

Oral Question Period (current session topics)

(continued)

- Electricity prices ... 7–8, 41, 59–60, 105, 140, 192, 228, 506–7
- Emergency health services ... 170
- Emergency room wait times ... 170–71
- Government relationship with the AUMA ... 139–40
- Health care system ... 665–66
- Health Quality Council review report ... 227–28
- Health services labour negotiations ... 191
- Health system reform ... 192
- Health system restructuring ... 262
- Judicial inquiry into health services ... 287–88, 358
- Labour negotiations with hospital support staff ... 169–70
- Long-term care ... 319, 416, 446, 505–6, 575–76, 754
- Long-term care serious incidents ... 723
- Minister of Health and Wellness ... 262
- MLA remuneration ... 722–23
- Municipal financing ... 320
- PC caucus meeting in Jasper ... 8
- Postsecondary education costs ... 599
- Provincial budget ... 7, 666
- Provincial budget advertisement ... 358–59, 391–92
- Provincial fiscal policies ... 59
- School fees collection ... 754–55
- Tobacco reduction strategy ... 418–19
- Westlawn Courts seniors' residence ... 323
- Patient advocacy by physicians
 - Allegations of intimidation, events regarding Mr. Horne and Dr. Sherman (contact with Alberta Medical Association re Dr. Sherman's mental state) ... 276
 - Allegations of intimidation, Health Quality Council report findings ... 239, 276, 287, 358, 600
 - Allegations of intimidation, physicians' regional presidents' statement on ... 600
- Physicians
 - Family physicians ... 276, 665
 - Services agreement ... 170
- Points of order
 - Relevance ... 244
- Political parties
 - Funding of partisan activities ... 8
- Postsecondary education – Finance
 - Cost to students ... 599
- Postsecondary educational institutions
 - Donations to PC Party ... 723
- Postsecondary educational institutions – Admissions (enrolment)
 - Participation rates ... 239
- Private schools
 - Funding ... 666
- Progressive Conservative Party of Alberta
 - Donations, investigation of ... 723
 - Donations to leadership candidates ... 445–46, 754
- Protection for Persons in Care Act
 - Implementation ... 575
- Public Affairs Bureau
 - Funding ... 241, 245
 - Performance measures ... 243–44
 - Social media use ... 241
- Public service
 - Pension administration, investment performance ... 600

Sherman, Dr. Raj (AL, Edmonton-Meadowlark)(continued)

- Regulatory Review Secretariat
 - Transfer to Executive Council ... 241
- Revenue
 - Fluctuations in revenue ... 24
 - Nonrenewable resource revenue ... 239
- Royal Alexandra hospital
 - Suicide of patient ... 276
- School fees (elementary and secondary)
 - Provincial strategy ... 24, 25, 666
 - School board use of collection agencies ... 755–56
- Schools – Maintenance and repair – Grimshaw
 - Advocacy to government ... 357–58
 - General remarks ... 287
 - Letter from Mr. Goudreau to school board ... 287
- Seniors
 - Health care ... 42
- Seniors – Housing
 - Public vs. private residences ... 41–42
- Seniors – Housing – Edmonton
 - Westlawn Courts residence, bedbug infestation ... 323
 - Westlawn Courts residence, condition of ... 323
- Seniors' benefit program
 - General remarks ... 25, 239
- Speech from the Throne
 - General remarks ... 7
 - Motion to consider (Fawcett/Rodney), addresses in reply (Government Motion 10) ... 24–25
- Sports
 - Children's sports, funding for ... 245
- Student financial aid (postsecondary students)
 - Loan forgiveness (proposed) ... 599
 - Provincial strategy ... 245
- Suicide
 - Royal Alexandra hospital patient ... 276
- Supportive living accommodations, affordable
 - Nonprofit lodges and long-term care ... 25
- Surgery procedures – Thoracic surgery
 - Departure of physician (Dr. Tim Winton) ... 276
- Tax policy
 - General remarks ... 7, 24, 59, 245, 666
- Tobacco Reduction (Protection of Children in Vehicles) Amendment Act, 2012 (Bill 203)
 - First reading ... 69
 - Second reading ... 427–28, 436
 - Committee ... 613–14, 620
 - Committee, amendment A1 (replace “January 1, 2013” with “Proclamation”) (carried) ... 620
 - Third reading ... 623
 - Members' statements ... 424–25
 - Public response ... 419
- Tobacco use
 - Reduction strategy ... 418–19
- Tranquility Care Homes Inc.
 - Eviction of resident ... 505–6
- Tuition and fees, postsecondary
 - Provincial strategy ... 245, 599
- Utilities Consumer Advocate
 - General remarks ... 140
- Youville long-term care centre, St. Albert
 - Long-term care ... 505–6
- Snelgrove, Lloyd (Ind., Vermilion-Lloydminster)
 - Alberta – History
 - Archival preservation of pioneer farming family stories (proposed) ... 668

Snelgrove, Lloyd (Ind., Vermilion-Lloydminster)(continued)

- Alberta heritage savings trust fund
 - Provincial strategy ... 696
- Alberta Medical Association
 - Newspaper advertisement on health care system judicial inquiry ... 357
- Alberta sustainability fund
 - Utilization of fund ... 696
- Appropriation Act, 2012 (Bill 7)
 - Third reading ... 695–96
- Budget 2012-13
 - Motion to approve (Government Motion 7) ... 124
- Budget process
 - Value reviews ... 61–62
- Capital projects
 - Determination of specifications ... 193–94
- Continuing/extended care facilities – Lloydminster
 - Dr. Cooke centre ... 194
- Family farms
 - Century farm and ranch awards ... 668
- Government spending
 - Provincial strategy ... 695–96
- Health care system
 - Level of debate in Legislature, member's statement on ... 357
- Housing – Construction
 - Construction and inspection standards ... 322
- Housing – Fort McMurray
 - Penhorwood Place condominiums ... 322
- Infrastructure
 - Provincial strategy ... 194
- Long-term care facilities (nursing homes/auxiliary hospitals)
 - Building codes and specifications ... 193–94
- Members' Statements (current session)
 - Brenda Lee ... 732
 - Level of debate on health services ... 357
 - Member's tribute to family ... 148
- Ministerial Statements
 - Tribute to Member for Barrhead-Morinville-Westlock ... 753
- Oral Question Period (current session topics)
 - Century farm and ranch award ... 668
 - Government-owned infrastructure ... 193–94
 - Municipal property tax relief ... 322
 - Provincial budget ... 61–62
- Property tax
 - Exemptions (proposed) ... 322
- Public service
 - Operational funding ... 61–62
 - Performance measures ... 124
- Seniors' Property Tax Deferral Act (Bill 5)
 - Committee ... 636–37
- Vermilion-Lloydminster (constituency)
 - Member's family, member's statement on ... 148
 - Staff, member's statement on Brenda Lee ... 732

Speaker, The (Kowalski, Kenneth R.)Alberta Hansard

- 40th anniversary, Speaker's statement on ... 389
- Recording of remarks off record, point of order on ... 610
- Bills (procedure)
 - First reading, Speaker's ruling on ... 115
- Bills, private members' public (procedure)
 - Speaker's statement ... 514, 586

Speaker, The (Kowalski, Kenneth R.) (continued)

- Budget 2012-13
 - Oral Question period questions, Speaker's remarks on ... 71
 - Oral Question period questions, Speaker's statement on ... 67
- Calendar of special events
 - February 2012 ... 149
 - March 2012 ... 366–67
- Committee of Supply
 - Supplementary estimates 2011-12, No. 2, referred to (Government Motion 4: carried) ... 52
- Commonwealth Games (Edmonton 1978)
 - Royal visit ... 4
- Elizabeth II, Queen
 - Diamond Jubilee, Speaker's statement on ... 4
- Emergency debates under Standing Order 30 (procedure)
 - Procedure for debate ... 273
- Emergency debates under Standing Order 30 (current session)
 - Health Quality Council review report, request for debate (proceeded with) ... 273
 - Work stoppages by hospital support staff, request for debate (not proceeded with) ... 180, 182
- Estimates of Supply (government expenditures)
 - Main and Legislative Assembly Offices estimates 2012-13 transmitted ... 52
 - Supplementary estimates 2011-12, No. 2, referred to Committee of Supply (Government Motion 4: carried) ... 52
 - Supplementary estimates 2011-12, No. 2, transmitted to the Assembly ... 52
- Executive Council
 - Response to any question posed in the Legislature, Speaker's remarks on ... 264
- Impaired driving
 - Coasters with message on legislation, inadmissibility for use in Chamber ... 196
 - Coasters with message on legislation, point of order on ... 237
- Information and communications technology
 - Tablet and PDA use in Chamber, Speaker's statement on ... 722
- Introduction of Visitors (visiting dignitaries)
 - Family of the late Brian C. Downey, former MLA ... 5
 - Family of the Speaker ... 751
- Legislative Assembly of Alberta
 - Anniversary of the First Session, Speaker's statement on ... 583
 - Debate broadcasting 40th anniversary, Speaker's statement on ... 389
 - Decorum, Speaker's remarks ... 107, 509, 580
 - Members' use of props, Speaker's remarks on ... 196
 - Royal visits ... 4
- Lieutenant Governor of Alberta
 - Entrance into Legislative Assembly ... 1
- Little Bow (constituency)
 - Member's 20th anniversary of election, Speaker's statement on ... 285
- Man in Motion 25th anniversary relay
 - Address to Assembly by Rick Hansen, Government Motion 11 (Hancock: carried) ... 403
 - Address to the Assembly by Rick Hansen ... 413
- Members of the Legislative Assembly
 - Anniversaries of elections, Speaker's statement on ... 389, 424

Speaker, The (Kowalski, Kenneth R.) (continued)

- Members of the Legislative Assembly (continued)
 - Birthday commemorations ... 6, 138, 424
 - Memorial tribute to Brian C. Downey, former MLA ... 5
 - Memorial tribute to George Topolnisky, former MLA ... 719
- Members' Statements (procedure)
 - Rotation, Speaker's statement on ... 7
- Ministerial Statements
 - Tribute to Member for Barrhead-Morinville-Westlock, member's response ... 753
- Oral Question Period (procedure)
 - Executive Council member follow-up to questions ... 177
 - Preambles to second and third questions ... 180
 - Questions about current legislation, Speaker's remarks on ... 144
 - Questions about other jurisdictions, Speaker's remarks on ... 174
 - Questions about the budget, Speaker's remarks on ... 196
 - Questions about the budget, Speaker's statement on ... 67
 - Questions re news media reports, Speaker's ruling on ... 113
 - Questions to government responded to by any member of Executive Council, Speaker's remarks on ... 264
 - Rotation of questions, Speaker's statement on ... 7
 - Speaking time, point of order on ... 763–64
- PDAs (personal digital assistants)
 - Use in Chamber, Speaker's statement on ... 722
- Points of order
 - Allegations against a member ... 180
 - Imputing motives ... 71, 237
 - Parliamentary language ... 610
 - Remarks off the record ... 610
 - Speaking time in Oral Question Period ... 763–64
- Progressive Conservative Party of Alberta
 - Donations to leadership candidates, questions disallowed ... 447
- Royal Canadian Artillery Band
 - History of band ... 1
- Royal Style and Titles Act
 - General remarks ... 4
- Speaker
 - Final question period ... 762
 - Retirement of current Speaker ... 762
- Speaker – Rulings
 - Decorum ... 601
 - First reading of bills ... 115
 - Questions about media reports ... 113
- Speaker – Statements
 - 40th anniversary of Alberta Hansard and broadcasting ... 389
 - Anniversary of the First Session of the Legislative Assembly ... 583
 - Calendar of special events, February 2012 ... 149
 - Calendar of special events, March 2012 ... 366–67
 - Member for Little Bow 20th Anniversary of Election ... 285
 - Members' anniversaries of election ... 389, 424
 - Oral Question Period questions about the budget ... 67
 - Parliamentary language ... 201
 - Queen Elizabeth II's Diamond Jubilee ... 4
 - Private members' public bills ... 514, 586
 - Rotation of questions and members' statements ... 7

Speaker, The (Kowalski, Kenneth R.) (continued)

- Speaker – Statements (continued)
 - Tablets and other electronic devices in the Chamber ... 722
- Tabling Returns and Reports (procedure)
 - Repeated tabling of documents, Speaker's remarks on ... 271
- Tobacco Reduction (Protection of Children in Vehicles) Amendment Act, 2012 (Bill 203)
 - Schedule for debate, letter from Member for Strathcona to Speaker on ... 586
 - Schedule for debate, Speaker's statement on ... 514, 586
- United Kingdom – History
 - Descendants of King Alfred the Great ... 4
- Wildrose Party
 - Coasters with message on impaired driving legislation, inadmissibility for use in Chamber ... 196

Speech from the Throne

- Aboriginal children – Education
 - Programs and services ... 2
- Agriculture
 - Provincial strategy ... 3
- Alberta – History
 - General remarks ... 1–2, 3
- Alberta heritage savings trust fund
 - History of fund ... 2
- Alberta in Canada
 - Federal-provincial relations ... 3
- Arts and culture
 - Provincial strategy ... 3
- Budget process
 - Results-based budgeting ... 2
- Canadian Wheat Board
 - End of monopoly ... 3
- Competitiveness, economic
 - Provincial strategy ... 2, 3
- Corporations
 - Programs and services for businesses ... 3
- Crime prevention
 - Anti-gang initiatives ... 3
- Economy
 - General remarks ... 2
- Education – Finance
 - 3-year funding cycle ... 2
- Elizabeth II, Queen
 - Diamond Jubilee ... 1
- Energy industry
 - National strategy (proposed) ... 3
 - Provincial strategy ... 2–3
- Energy products – Export
 - Market diversification, interjurisdictional co-operation on ... 3
- Freehold lands
 - Landowner rights ... 3
- Glenrose rehabilitation hospital
 - General remarks ... 1
- Government programs and services
 - Provincial strategy ... 2–3
- Health care system
 - Governance ... 2
 - Provincial strategy ... 2
 - Rehabilitation care ... 1
- Health care system – Delivery models
 - Family care clinics ... 2
 - Primary care networks ... 2

Speech from the Throne (continued)

- Health care system – Finance
 - Funding ... 2
- Health care system – Health Quality Council review (2011)
 - General remarks ... 2
- International trade
 - Provincial strategy ... 2
- Labour force planning
 - Building and educating tomorrow's workforce strategy ... 2
- Municipal sustainability initiative
 - Review of program ... 3
- Municipalities – Finance
 - Funding ... 2, 3
- Northern Alberta development strategy
 - General remarks ... 3
- Nurses
 - Nurse practitioners ... 2
 - Scope of practice ... 2
- Oil sands development
 - Provincial strategy ... 2
- Oil sands development – Environmental aspects
 - Federal-provincial monitoring ... 3
- Pharmacists
 - Scope of practice ... 2
- Postsecondary educational institutions
 - Trade and technology institutes and colleges ... 2
- Postsecondary educational institutions – Finance
 - Funding ... 2
- Property Rights Task Force
 - General remarks ... 3
- Research and development
 - Provincial strategy ... 2
- Revenue
 - Nonrenewable resource revenue ... 2
- Seniors – Housing
 - Supports to remain in own homes ... 2–3
- Technology commercialization
 - Provincial strategy ... 3
- University of Alberta. Faculty of Rehabilitation Medicine
 - General remarks ... 1
- Veterans
 - Rehabilitation services ... 1

Swann, Dr. David (AL, Calgary-Mountain View)

- Alberta Bill of Rights
 - Landowner rights provisions ... 307–8
- Alberta Bill of Rights (Property Rights Protection) Amendment Act, 2012 (Bill 201)
 - Second reading ... 307–8
- Alberta Energy and Utilities Board
 - Private investigators hired for Rimbey public meeting ... 308
- Alberta Health Services (authority)
 - Centralization of services ... 369
 - Lawsuits against (Motion for a Return M3/12: accepted) ... 611
 - Third-quarter report ... 725
- Alberta Health Services Board
 - Relation to Dept. of Health and Wellness ... 369
- Alberta Heritage Foundation for Medical Research
 - Discontinuation of endowment fund ... 375
- Alberta Land Stewardship Act
 - General remarks ... 308
- Alberta Liberal Party
 - Platform 2012 ... 161–62

Swann, Dr. David (AL, Calgary-Mountain View) (continued)

- Alberta Medical Association
 - Newspaper advertisement on health care system judicial inquiry ... 320
 - Position on health care inquiry ... 368–69
- Appropriation Act, 2012 (Bill 7)
 - Third reading ... 703–5
- Appropriation (Supplementary Supply) Act, 2012 (Bill 3)
 - Second reading ... 150–51
- Assured income for the severely handicapped
 - Funding from supplementary supply ... 150
- Budget 2012-13
 - Motion to approve (Government Motion 7) ... 122–23
 - Motion to approve (Government Motion 7), questions and comments ... 118
- Budget process
 - Results-based budgeting ... 122–25, 160–61
 - Use of supplementary supply ... 150–51
- Calgary Lab Services
 - Review of pathology services ... 194
- Charter schools
 - Provincial strategy ... 154
- Child poverty
 - Nutrition programs ... 154, 463
- Child welfare
 - Programs and services ... 458–60
- Children
 - Employment as farm workers ... 109–10
- Cities and towns
 - Access to daycare ... 457
- Climate change
 - Provincial strategy ... 162
- Continuing care strategy
 - Continuum of care ... 508
- Continuing/extended care facilities
 - Levels and standards of care ... 508
- Continuing/extended care facilities – Lethbridge
 - Edith Cavell centre collective bargaining ... 668–69
- Corporations
 - Programs and services for businesses ... 28
- Daycare
 - Spaces available ... 457
 - Subsidies ... 457
- Daycare centres
 - Accreditation ... 457
 - Employee credentials and standards ... 460
 - Staff retention ... 457
 - Staff wages ... 463
- Dept. of Health and Wellness
 - Deputy ministers' and assistant deputy ministers' roles ... 263
 - Main estimates 2012-13 debate ... 368–69, 371–75
 - Mandate ... 580
 - Minister's letter to physicians on one-year settlement ... 290
- Dept. of Human Services
 - Main estimates 2012-13 debate ... 457–64, 477
 - Programs and services ... 162, 457, 460
 - Programs and services, use of contracted agencies ... 460, 462–63
 - Staff morale ... 460, 463
- Early childhood education
 - Kindergarten and junior kindergarten ... 154
- Economy
 - Knowledge economy ... 162
- Education
 - Compulsory school attendance age ... 154
 - Student residency criteria ... 154

Swann, Dr. David (AL, Calgary-Mountain View)(continued)

- Education Act (Bill 2)
 - Second reading ... 154
 - Committee, amendment A2 (elimination of tuition fees) (defeated) ... 559–60
 - Committee, amendment A4 (definition of bullying to include entire school community) (carried unanimously) ... 569
- Emergency medical services (ambulances, etc.)
 - Centralization of services ... 173
 - Wait times ... 372
- Emergency medical services (ambulances, etc.) – Edmonton
 - Wait times ... 173
- Environmental protection
 - Provincial strategy ... 162
- Farm safety
 - Deaths and serious incidents ... 44, 109–10, 462
 - Worker exclusion from workplace legislation ... 43–44, 109–10, 462
 - Worker transportation ... 421
- Government
 - Members' statements ... 177–78
- Government contracts
 - General remarks ... 460–63
- Government integrity
 - Members' statements ... 504
- Government spending
 - Comparison with other jurisdictions ... 703–4
 - Wildrose position ... 27
- Health and wellness
 - Programs and services ... 34–35, 371
- Health care system
 - Public confidence ... 504
 - Quality assurance ... 369
- Health care system – Delivery models
 - Family care clinics ... 140–41, 374–75, 452
 - Integration with community services, member's statement on ... 67–68
 - Primary care networks ... 63, 140–41, 373, 604–5
 - Private delivery model ... 369
- Health care system – Finance
 - Administration costs ... 369
 - Funding ... 11
- Health care system – Health Quality Council
 - preferential services inquiry (2012)
 - Inclusion of physician advocacy and allegations of bullying (proposed) ... 368–69
 - Members' statements ... 400
 - Terms of reference ... 320–21, 360, 392
- Health care system – Health Quality Council review (2011)
 - Final report ... 263
 - Final report recommendations ... 321
- Health Facilities Review Committee
 - Report on Calgary health care ... 67
- Health Sciences Association of Alberta
 - Position on health care inquiry ... 368–69
- Health sciences professionals
 - Workforce planning ... 372
- Hospitals
 - Support staff labour negotiations ... 177
 - User statistics ... 372
- Immigrants
 - Recognition of international credentials ... 162
- Immigration
 - Federal regulations ... 477

Swann, Dr. David (AL, Calgary-Mountain View)(continued)

- Income support programs
 - Supports for independence program ... 463
- Information and communications technology
 - Knowledge economy ... 162
- Introduction of Guests (school groups, individuals)
 - ... 40, 138, 613
- Labour force planning
 - Recruitment and retention of skilled workers ... 477
- Labour Relations Code
 - Review of code ... 477
- Land Statutes (Abolition of Adverse Possession)
 - Amendment Act, 2012 (Bill 204)
 - Second reading ... 438
- Land-use planning
 - Environmental aspects ... 308
- Long-term care facilities (nursing homes/auxiliary hospitals)
 - Residence fees ... 375
 - Wait-lists ... 508
- Medical examiners – Calgary
 - Review of criminal files ... 194
- Medical research
 - Funding ... 375
- Members of the Legislative Assembly
 - Compensation ... 504
- Members' Statements (current session)
 - Integration of community services with health care ... 67–68
 - Integrity in government ... 504
 - Judicial inquiry into health services ... 400
 - Loss of trust in the government ... 177–78
- Mental health services
 - Access to services ... 67–68, 372
 - Provincial strategy ... 140–41
- Mental health services – Calgary
 - Treatment beds ... 373
- Nurses
 - Accreditation of internationally trained nurses ... 372
- Oral Question Period (current session topics)
 - Accommodation and health care for seniors ... 11
 - Edith Cavell Continuing Care Centre collective bargaining ... 668–69
 - Emergency health services ... 173
 - Family care clinics ... 452
 - Farm worker exemptions from labour legislation ... 43–44, 109–10
 - Farm worker labour protection ... 421
 - Health care system ... 263
 - Judicial inquiry into health services ... 320–21, 360, 392
 - Long-term care ... 508
 - Mental health services ... 140–41
 - Physician services agreement ... 63, 290
 - Physician services agreement in principle ... 724–25
 - Primary care networks ... 604–5
 - Review of medical examiner cases ... 194
 - Sexual assault services ... 579–80
- Patient advocacy by physicians
 - Allegations of intimidation, Health Quality Council report findings ... 392
- Persons with developmental disabilities
 - Programs and services, funding from supplementary supply ... 150
- Persons with disabilities
 - Caregiver funding, correspondence on ... 116
 - Programs and services ... 34

Swann, Dr. David (AL, Calgary-Mountain View)(continued)

- Peter Lougheed hospital
 - Bed availability ... 67
- Physicians
 - Accreditation of internationally trained physicians ... 372, 375
 - Family physicians ... 605
 - Internal hotline ... 63
 - Services agreement ... 63, 290, 320, 604–5, 724–25
 - Services agreement, Alberta Medical Association president's January letter to members on ... 63
 - Services agreement, minister's letter to physicians on ... 290
- Poverty
 - Financial costs ... 68
- Progressive Conservative Party of Alberta
 - Use of campaign funds ... 504
- Public service
 - Performance measures ... 122–23
- Results-based Budgeting Act (Bill 1)
 - Second reading ... 34–35
 - Committee ... 124–26, 160–61
 - Committee, amendment A1 (mandatory 1-year review) (defeated) ... 125–26
- Revenue
 - Nonrenewable resource revenue ... 704
- Rockyview hospital
 - Psychiatric beds ... 373
- School boards and districts
 - Natural person powers ... 154
- School fees (elementary and secondary)
 - Provincial strategy ... 154, 559–60
- Scrap Metal Dealers and Recyclers Identification Act (Bill 205)
 - Second reading ... 623–24
- Seniors
 - Health care ... 11
 - Provincial strategy ... 504
- Seniors – Housing
 - Provincial strategy ... 11
- Seniors' benefit program
 - Drug benefits ... 375
- Seniors' Property Tax Deferral Act (Bill 5)
 - Third reading ... 698–99
 - Determination of interest rate and home value ... 698
- Separate school districts
 - Establishment process ... 154
- Sexual assault centres
 - Counselling services ... 579–80
- Social policy framework (proposed)
 - General remarks ... 463
- Social workers
 - Professional standards ... 460
- South Calgary health centre
 - Psychiatric beds ... 373
 - Staffing ... 372
- Speech from the Throne
 - Motion to consider (Fawcett/Rodney), addresses in reply (Government Motion 10) ... 161–63
 - Motion to consider (Fawcett/Rodney), addresses in reply (questions and comments) ... 27–28
- Supportive living accommodations
 - Requests for proposals and supporting documentation for (Motion for a Return M4/12: defeated) ... 613
- Tax policy
 - General remarks ... 150–51, 703–5

Swann, Dr. David (AL, Calgary-Mountain View)(continued)

- Tobacco use
 - Reduction strategy ... 375
 - Traffic safety
 - Farm worker transportation ... 421
 - Workers' Compensation Board
 - Contracts with health services providers ... 461
 - Supports for injured workers ... 461
- Taft, Dr. Kevin (AL, Edmonton-Riverview)
- Aboriginal children – Education
 - Programs and services ... 155
 - Alberta – History
 - Leduc No. 1 oil well ... 163
 - Alberta Bill of Rights (Property Rights Protection) Amendment Act, 2012 (Bill 201)
 - Second reading ... 300–301
 - Alberta heritage savings trust fund
 - Value of fund ... 424
 - Alberta Innovates
 - Funding ... 66
 - Alberta Innovates: Health Solutions
 - Memorandum of understanding with Pfizer Canada (Motion for a Return M2/12: defeated) ... 612
 - Alberta Works employment program
 - Services provided ... 46
 - Apprenticeship training
 - Registered apprenticeship program cost (Written Question 1/12: defeated) ... 610–11
 - Registered apprenticeship program participation (Written Question 2/12: accepted) ... 610
 - Appropriation Act, 2012 (Bill 7)
 - Second reading ... 590, 593–95
 - Third reading ... 705–6
 - Appropriation (Supplementary Supply) Act, 2012 (Bill 3)
 - Second reading ... 151–52
 - Assisted living accommodations
 - Private facilities ... 385–86
 - Budget process
 - Revenue/cost forecasts used ... 705
 - Canadian Institute for Health Information
 - Report on private health care delivery ... 384–85
 - Chief Electoral Officer, office of the
 - Investigations ... 294–95
 - Supplementary estimates 2011-12, No. 2, debate ... 89
 - Child poverty
 - Nutrition programs ... 45–46, 155
 - Committee on Public Health and Safety, Standing
 - Report on consideration of main estimates and business plan, 2012-13, for depts. of Justice and Attorney General, Seniors, and Solicitor General and Public Security ... 479
 - Daycare
 - Subsidies ... 87
 - Daycare centres
 - Employee credentials and standards ... 87
 - Staff wages ... 87
 - Dept. of Health and Wellness
 - Main estimates 2012-13 debate ... 384–86
 - Staff turnover ... 384
 - Dept. of Human Services
 - Supplementary estimates 2011-12, No. 2, debate ... 87
 - Dept. of Justice and Attorney General
 - Main estimates, 2012-13, Standing Committee on Public Health and Safety report under Standing Order 59.01(7) ... 479
 - Dept. of Municipal Affairs
 - Supplementary estimates 2011-12, No. 2, debate ... 83

Taft, Dr. Kevin (AL, Edmonton-Riverview) (continued)

- Dept. of Seniors
 - Main estimates 2012-13 debate, Standing Committee on Public Health and Safety report under Standing Order 59.01(7) ... 479
- Dept. of Solicitor General and Public Security
 - Main estimates 2012-13 debate, Standing Committee on Public Health and Safety report under Standing Order 59.01(7) ... 479
- Dept. of Transportation
 - Supplementary estimates 2011-12, No. 2, debate ... 79
- Education – Finance
 - Funding ... 594
- Education Act (Bill 2)
 - Second reading ... 154–56
 - Committee, amendment A6 (replace section 16, diversity and respect) (defeated) ... 713–14
 - Preamble ... 155
- Election Act
 - Review of act (proposed) ... 294–95
- Elections, provincial
 - Fraud prevention ... 294–95
 - Right to vote, member's statement on ... 665
- Electric power – Prices
 - Comparison with other jurisdictions ... 146, 199
- Electric power – Regulations
 - Deregulation ... 146–47, 199, 701
- Electric power lines – Construction
 - North-south transmission line reinforcement ... 701–2
- Emergency debates under Standing Order 30 (current session)
 - Work stoppages by hospital support staff, request for debate (not proceeded with) ... 179, 180
- Environmental protection
 - Provincial strategy ... 164
- Federal Public Building
 - Redevelopment ... 595
- Fiscal framework
 - General remarks ... 163
- Government savings
 - Provincial strategy ... 151, 594
- Government spending
 - Provincial strategy ... 593–94
- Health care system – Delivery models
 - Family care clinics ... 163
 - Private delivery model ... 179, 384–85
- Health care system – Finance
 - Funding ... 594
- Hospitals
 - Local decision-making ... 386
- Housing – Slave Lake
 - Construction standards for new buildings ... 83
- Infrastructure
 - Provincial strategy ... 594
- Infrastructure – Slave Lake
 - Construction standards for new building ... 83
- Introduction of Guests (school groups, individuals) ... 225, 414
- Members' Statements (current session)
 - Right to vote ... 665
- Natural resources
 - Provincial ownership ... 151
- Officers of the Legislative Assembly
 - Debate of estimates, traditions and practices on ... 89
- Oral Question Period (current session topics)
 - Administration of elections ... 294–95
 - Childhood hunger ... 45–46

Taft, Dr. Kevin (AL, Edmonton-Riverview) (continued)

- Oral Question Period (current session topics) (continued)
 - Conflict of interest guidelines for universities ... 363
 - Electricity prices ... 146–47, 199
 - Noninstructional postsecondary tuition fees ... 602
 - Postsecondary education funding ... 66
 - Postsecondary institution spending accountability ... 582–83
 - Provincial tax policy ... 423–24
- Pipelines – Construction
 - Enbridge Northern Gateway project (proposed) ... 164
- Points of order
 - Allegations against a member ... 179
- Postsecondary educational institutions – Finance
 - Auditor General's recommendations on financial controls ... 582–83
 - Funding ... 66, 163
 - Knowledge infrastructure program (KIP) ... 66
- Property Rights Advocate Act (Bill 6)
 - Third reading ... 701–2
- Public transportation
 - GreenTRIP incentives program ... 79
- Public transportation – Edmonton
 - GreenTRIP incentives program ... 79
- Reports presented by standing and special committees
 - Main estimates and business plan 2012-13 debate, Standing Committee on Public Health and Safety reports under Standing Order 59.01(7): depts. of Justice and Attorney General, Seniors, and Solicitor General and Public Security ... 479
- Research and development
 - Funding, Premier's remarks on ... 66
- Revenue
 - Nonrenewable resource revenue ... 705
- St. Albert and Sturgeon Valley School Districts
 - Establishment Act (Bill 4)
 - Third reading ... 697–98
- School fees (elementary and secondary)
 - Provincial strategy ... 155–56
- Seniors' Property Tax Deferral Act (Bill 5)
 - Second reading ... 488
- Speech from the Throne
 - Motion to consider (Fawcett/Rodney), addresses in reply (Government Motion 10) ... 163–64
 - Wording ... 163, 164
- Supplementary estimates
 - Supplementary estimates 2011-12, No. 2, debate ... 79, 83, 87, 89
- Tax policy
 - General remarks ... 423–24, 594, 705
- Tobacco Reduction (Protection of Children in Vehicles) Amendment Act, 2012 (Bill 203)
 - Committee ... 619, 620
- Tuition and fees, postsecondary
 - Correspondence between Minister of Advanced Education and Technology and postsecondary institutions on fee payment policy (Motion for a Return M1/12: defeated) ... 611–12
 - Mandatory noninstructional fees ... 602
- Universities
 - Conflict of interest guidelines ... 363
- University of Alberta
 - Land expropriation ... 301
- Wildfires – Slave Lake
 - Recovery program, funding from supplementary supply ... 83

Tarchuk, Janis (PC, Banff-Cochrane)

- International Women's Day
 - Members' statements ... 390–91
- Introduction of Guests (school groups, individuals) ... 50–51
- Members' Statements (current session)
 - International Women's Day ... 390–91
- Student financial aid (postsecondary students)
 - Persons Case scholarships ... 390

Taylor, Dave (AB, Calgary-Currie)

- Alberta Association of Municipal Districts and Counties
 - Relations with provincial government ... 142
- Alberta Health Services (authority)
 - Governance ... 381
- Alberta heritage savings trust fund
 - Provincial strategy ... 216
- Alberta in Canada
 - Budgetary impacts ... 216
- Alberta Party
 - Fiscal policy ... 120–22
- Alberta Urban Municipalities Association
 - Relations with provincial government ... 142
- Appropriation Act, 2012 (Bill 7)
 - Third reading ... 694
- Budget 2012-13
 - Motion to approve (Government Motion 7) ... 120–22
- Budget process
 - Revenue/cost forecasts used ... 120–21, 215
- Calgary-Currie (constituency)
 - Tribute to staff, member's statement on ... 190
- Committee on the Economy, Standing (former policy field committee)
 - Recommendations on poverty reduction strategy ... 9
- Continuing/extended care facilities
 - Wait times ... 382
- Dept. of Finance
 - Main estimates 2012-13 debate ... 215–17
- Dept. of Health and Wellness
 - Main estimates 2012-13 debate ... 381–82
- Dept. of Municipal Affairs
 - Minister's relations with AUMA and AAMDC ... 142
- Early Childhood Learning and Child Care Act (Bill 210)
 - First reading ... 513–14
- Energy industry
 - General remarks ... 216–17
- Estimates of Supply (government expenditures)
 - Time allotted for debate ... 694
- Fiscal framework
 - General remarks ... 215–16
- Forest industries – Bragg Creek area
 - Logging activities ... 393–94
- Forests Act
 - Timber quota variances ... 394
- Government savings
 - Provincial strategy ... 215–16
- Health care system – Delivery models
 - Family care clinics ... 381
 - Integration with community services ... 381
- Health care system – Finance
 - Funding ... 381
- Health care system – Health Quality Council
 - preferential services inquiry (2012)
 - Legislative provisions ... 264
- Health care system – Health Quality Council review (2011)
 - Final report recommendations ... 381
- Home care
 - Funding ... 382

Taylor, Dave (AB, Calgary-Currie) (continued)

- Homelessness
 - 10-year plan to end ... 9–10
- Hospitals
 - Acute-care beds ... 382
- Housing – Rental housing
 - Consumer protection ... 577–78
- International Day for the Elimination of Racial Discrimination
 - Ministerial statement ... 722
- International trade
 - Economic risks ... 215
- Legislative Assembly of Alberta
 - 27th Legislature, fourth and fifth sessions (2011, 2012), member's statement on ... 454–55
- Members' Statements (current session)
 - Retrospective on the past year ... 454–55
 - Tribute to staff ... 190
- Ministerial Statements
 - International Day for the Elimination of Racial Discrimination ... 722
- Municipal sustainability initiative
 - Funding criteria ... 142
- Municipalities
 - Relations with province ... 121
- Oil sands development – Environmental aspects
 - Advocacy re ... 215
- Oral Question Period (current session topics)
 - Government relationship with the AUMA ... 142
 - Logging in the Bragg Creek area ... 393–94
 - Poverty reduction ... 9–10
 - Public health inquiry ... 264
 - Rent regulation ... 577–78
- Poverty
 - Financial costs ... 9
 - Reduction strategy ... 9
- Revenue
 - Nonrenewable resource revenue ... 215
- Social policy framework (proposed)
 - General remarks ... 9–10
- Solar energy
 - Provincial strategy ... 217

VanderBurg, George (PC, Whitecourt-St. Anne; Minister of Seniors)

- Affordable housing
 - Repairs and maintenance ... 143
- Alberta Supports
 - Programs and services ... 13, 47
 - Telephone line, seniors' use of ... 13
- Assured income for the severely handicapped
 - Client benefits ... 13, 86
 - Client benefits, health-related ... 361
 - Client benefits, institutional residents ... 361
 - Funding from supplementary supply ... 84–86
- Care workers
 - Wages, government-private sector differential ... 47
- Continuing care strategy
 - General remarks ... 265
- Continuing/extended care facilities
 - Extra service charges (for baths, etc.) ... 65
 - Levels and standards of care ... 232, 577
- Dept. of Seniors
 - Supplementary estimates 2011-12, No. 2, debate ... 84–86
- Edmonton General hospital
 - Long-term care, Auditor General's recommendations on ... 289

VanderBurg, George (PC, Whitecourt-St. Anne; Minister of Seniors) (continued)

- Edmonton General hospital (continued)
 - Long-term care, incident involving Audry Chudyk ... 289
- Electric power – Prices
 - Fixed-rate option ... 92
- Forest industries
 - Electric power purchasing agreements ... 92
- Group homes
 - Deaths and serious incidents ... 47, 173–74, 580
- Income support programs
 - Supports for independence program ... 85–86
- Introduction of Guests (school groups, individuals) ... 39, 436
- Land Statutes (Abolition of Adverse Possession) Amendment Act, 2012 (Bill 204)
 - Second reading ... 438
- Long-term care facilities (nursing homes/auxiliary hospitals)
 - Costs to residents for additional services ... 65
 - Deaths and serious incidents ... 580, 761
 - Levels of care ... 232
 - Private facilities ... 446
 - Provincial strategy ... 603
 - Residence fees ... 265, 577, 602
 - Standards of care ... 577
 - Wait-lists ... 65
- Oral Question Period (current session topics)
 - Accommodation and health care for seniors ... 65
 - Advocacy for seniors ... 13
 - Assured income for the severely handicapped ... 13, 361
 - Caregivers for persons with developmental disabilities ... 173–74, 177
 - Edmonton General continuing care incident ... 289
 - Long-term and continuing care ... 232, 265
 - Long-term care ... 446, 450, 577, 602–3
 - Long-term care serious incidents ... 580, 761
 - PDD administrative review ... 326
 - Protection of vulnerable Albertans ... 47
 - Social housing for seniors ... 143
- Persons with developmental disabilities
 - Administrative review ... 326
 - Board and Appeal Panel member qualifications, member's request for information on ... 174, 177
 - Caregiver deaths and serious incidents ... 173–74
 - Programs and services, funding from supplementary supply ... 84–86
- Protection for Persons in Care Act
 - Implementation ... 761
- Seniors
 - Advocate (proposed) ... 13
- Seniors – Housing – Bonnyville
 - Senior's 103rd birthday celebration ... 143
 - Upgrades and addition of units ... 143
- Seniors Advisory Council
 - Recommendations of ... 13
- Seniors' benefit program
 - General remarks ... 13
- Social housing
 - Repair and maintenance ... 143
- Speech from the Throne
 - Motion to consider (Fawcett/Rodney), addresses in reply (questions and comments) ... 92
- Supplementary estimates
 - Supplementary estimates 2011-12, No. 2, debate ... 84–86

VanderBurg, George (PC, Whitecourt-St. Anne; Minister of Seniors) (continued)

- Supportive living accommodations
 - Private vs. public facilities ... 450
 - Resident health, comparison to long-term care facilities ... 450
 - Standards enforcement ... 450
- Supportive living accommodations, affordable
 - Affordable supportive living initiative ... 84
- Tranquility Care Homes Inc.
 - Advertisement as long-term care facility ... 602–3
 - Eviction of resident ... 602–3
- Vandermeer, Tony (PC, Edmonton-Beverly-Clareview)
 - Alberta health care insurance plan
 - Client benefits ... 293
 - Alberta Hospital Edmonton
 - Capacity ... 293
 - Budget process
 - Results-based budgeting ... 174
 - Children
 - Mental health and addictions services ... 293
 - Debt
 - Provincial debt ... 174
 - Government spending – Ontario
 - Don Drummond report ... 174
 - Health care system
 - Primary care networks, delivery of psychology services (proposed) ... 293
 - Home-schooling
 - Curriculum content ... 602
 - Law enforcement
 - Minor offences, motion to reduce arrest warrants re (Motion Other than Government Motion 504: defeated) ... 625–26
 - Mental health services
 - Access to services ... 293
 - Funding ... 293
 - Oral Question Period (current session topics)
 - Home-schooling ... 602
 - Mental health and addiction services ... 293
 - Provincial spending ... 174
 - Protection of Children Abusing Drugs Amendment Act (Bill 6, 2009)
 - Proclamation ... 293
- Weadick, Greg (PC, Lethbridge-West; Minister of Advanced Education and Technology)
 - Alberta Innovates
 - Funding ... 66
 - Alberta Innovates: Health Solutions
 - Memorandum of understanding with Pfizer Canada (Motion for a Return M2/12: defeated) ... 612
 - Apprenticeship training
 - Provincial strategy ... 423
 - Registered apprenticeship program cost (Written Question 1/12: defeated) ... 610
 - Condominium Property Act
 - Homeowner protection ... 313
 - Condominiums
 - Reserve funds, standards for assessment studies, Motion Other than Government Motion 502 (Quest: carried) ... 313
 - Council of Alberta University Students
 - Meetings with MLAs ... 603
 - Dept. of Advanced Education and Technology
 - Policy on consultation with students ... 603
 - Premier's mandate letter ... 62–63
 - Education
 - Transition to postsecondary education ... 62–63

Weadick, Greg (PC, Lethbridge-West; Minister of Advanced Education and Technology) (continued)

- Education Act (Bill 2)
 - Committee, amendment A7 (establishment of charter schools) (carried) ... 749–50
- Employment
 - Entry-level positions ... 423
- Fair Trading Act
 - Home inspection provisions ... 313
- Fort McMurray
 - Land development strategy ... 365
- Housing
 - Home inspection industry ... 313
- Introduction of Guests (school groups, individuals) ... 597–98, 719
- Introduction of Visitors (visiting dignitaries)
 - Rick Hansen Foundation staff and relay participants ... 414
- Keyano College
 - Land trust ... 365
- Labour force planning
 - Recruitment and retention of skilled workers ... 62–63, 233
 - Skilled labour training programs ... 423
- Medical research
 - Spinal cord injury research ... 418
- Oral Question Period (current session topics)
 - Conflict of interest guidelines for universities ... 363
 - Keyano College land trust ... 365
 - Noninstructional postsecondary tuition fees ... 602, 603
 - Postsecondary education funding ... 66
 - Postsecondary institution spending accountability ... 582–83
 - Skilled labour supply ... 233
 - Skilled workforce training programs ... 423
 - Spinal cord injury research ... 418
 - Student finance system ... 62–63, 672
 - Trades opportunities for armed forces veterans ... 147
- Postsecondary education
 - Retention of graduates ... 672
- Postsecondary educational institutions – Admissions (enrolment)
 - Aboriginal students' participation rates ... 62–63
 - Attraction and retention of students ... 672
 - Rural students' participation rates ... 62–63
- Postsecondary educational institutions – Finance
 - Auditor General's recommendations on financial controls ... 582–83
 - Funding ... 66
 - Knowledge infrastructure program (KIP) ... 66
- Research and development
 - Funding, Premier's remarks on ... 66
- Rick Hansen Foundation
 - Funding ... 418
- Student financial aid (postsecondary students)
 - Loan eligibility criteria ... 62–63
 - Provincial strategy ... 672
- Tuition and fees, postsecondary
 - Correspondence between Minister of Advanced Education and Technology and postsecondary institutions on fee payment policy (Motion for a Return M1/12: defeated) ... 611
 - Mandatory noninstructional fees ... 602–3
- Universities
 - Attraction and retention of graduate students ... 672
 - Conflict of interest guidelines ... 363
- Veterans
 - Career and employment services ... 147

Webber, Len (PC, Calgary-Foothills)

- Alberta Investment Management Corporation
 - Investment in Viterra ... 725
 - Budget process
 - Revenue/cost forecasts used ... 761
 - Continuing/extended care facilities
 - Wait times ... 175–76
 - Dept. of Health and Wellness
 - Main estimates 2012-13 debate ... 383
 - Homelessness
 - Members' statements ... 169
 - Hospitals – Emergency services – Capacity issues
 - Wait times ... 175–76
 - Introduction of Guests (school groups, individuals) ... 49, 189, 598
 - Members' Statements (current session)
 - Homelessness initiatives ... 169
 - Kathleen Sendall ... 400
 - Organ and tissue donation ... 259–60
 - Oral Question Period (current session topics)
 - AIMCo investment in Viterra Inc... 725
 - Emergency room wait times ... 175–76
 - Organ and tissue donations ... 196
 - Provincial tax policy ... 761
 - Sendall, Kathleen
 - Members' statements ... 400
 - Substance abuse and addiction
 - General remarks ... 169
 - Tax policy
 - General remarks ... 761
 - Transplantation of organs, tissues, etc.
 - Organ and tissue donation, member's statement on ... 259–60
 - Organ and tissue registry (proposed) ... 196, 383
 - Statistics on transplantation ... 383
- Woo-Paw, Teresa (PC, Calgary-Mackay)
- Aboriginal children – Education
 - Federal-provincial-First Nations co-operation ... 64
 - Aboriginal peoples
 - Programs and services ... 425
 - Alberta Human Rights Act
 - General remarks ... 551
 - Alberta in Canada
 - Federal-provincial-territorial meeting of Justice ministers ... 48
 - Apprenticeship training
 - Provincial strategy ... 423
 - Bullying
 - Legislation ... 185
 - Canadian Charter of Rights and Freedoms
 - General remarks ... 551
 - Cancer – Diagnosis and treatment
 - Drug shortage ... 360–61
 - Child abuse
 - Online exploitation ... 48
 - Crime prevention – Edmonton
 - Ethnocultural community activity ... 425
 - cSPACE projects
 - Member's statement ... 357
 - Culture Forum 2012
 - Member's statement ... 454
 - DiverseCT Alberta
 - Municipal initiative ... 425
 - Education
 - Compulsory school attendance age ... 184
 - High school completion ... 184
 - Public consultations ... 605

Woo-Paw, Teresa (PC, Calgary-Mackay) (continued)

- Education Act (Bill 2)
 - Second reading ... 184–85
 - Committee, amendment A1 (addition to preamble on parental choice) (carried) ... 551
- Employment
 - Entry-level positions ... 423
- Goodwill Industries of Alberta
 - Member's statement ... 584–85
- Health and wellness – Edmonton
 - Ethnocultural community supports ... 425
- Homelessness
 - Statistics ... 12–13
- Homelessness – Calgary
 - Statistics ... 12–13
- Immigrants
 - Attraction of U.S. skilled workers ... 578
 - Programs and services ... 425
 - Refugees ... 425
- Immigration
 - Provincial strategy ... 326
- Impaired driving
 - Evidence on .05 blood alcohol limit ... 448
- Infrastructure
 - Federal-provincial discussions ... 578
- International Adult Learners' Week
 - Members' statements ... 608
- Internet
 - Service providers' data retention ... 48
- Introduction of Guests (school groups, individuals)
 - ... 429, 444, 574
- Labour force planning
 - Federal-provincial discussions ... 578
 - Recruitment and retention of skilled workers ... 326
 - Skilled labour training programs ... 423
- Members' Statements (current session)
 - cSPACE Projects ... 357
 - Culture Forum 2012 ... 454
 - Ethnocultural inclusivity and integration ... 425
 - Goodwill Industries of Alberta ... 584–85
 - International Adult Learners' Week ... 608
 - Safer Internet Day ... 148
- Multiculturalism
 - Inclusivity and integration, member's statement on ... 425
- Oral Question Period (current session topics)
 - Aboriginal education ... 64
 - Cancer drug shortage ... 360–61
 - Education consultation ... 605
 - Homelessness in Calgary ... 12–13
 - Impaired driving ... 448–49
 - Online exploitation of children ... 48
 - Provincial economic strategy ... 578
 - Skilled labour shortage ... 326
 - Skilled workforce training programs ... 423
- Postsecondary education
 - Transition from high school ... 184–85
- Privacy impact assessments
 - Internet service provider retention of records ... 48
- Safer Internet Day
 - Members' statements ... 148
- Temporary foreign workers
 - Programs and services ... 326
- Traffic Safety Amendment Act, 2011 (Bill 26)
 - Sanctions for repeat offenders ... 448–49

Xiao, David H. (PC, Edmonton-McClung)

- Community facility enhancement program
 - Edmonton-McClung projects ... 608

Xiao, David H. (PC, Edmonton-McClung) (continued)

- Edmonton-McClung (constituency)
 - Member's statement ... 608–9
- International Mother Language Day
 - Members' statements ... 190–91
- International trade
 - Market development, member's statement on ... 663
- Introduction of Guests (school groups, individuals)
 - ... 6, 49, 189, 573
- Law enforcement
 - Minor offences, motion to reduce arrest warrants re (Motion Other than Government Motion 504: defeated) ... 624, 626
- Members' Statements (current session)
 - Edmonton-McClung ... 608–9
 - International marketing ... 663
 - International Mother Language Day ... 190–91
 - National Flag of Canada Day ... 139
- National Flag of Canada Day
 - Members' statements ... 139
- Schools – Edmonton
 - General remarks ... 608
- Tobacco Reduction (Protection of Children in Vehicles) Amendment Act, 2012 (Bill 203)
 - Committee ... 614

Zwozdesky, Gene (PC, Edmonton-Mill Creek)See also Deputy Chair of Committees

- Aboriginal peoples
 - Programs and services ... 46
- Alberta Supports
 - Programs and services ... 46
- Campgrounds, provincial
 - Online reservation system ... 234
- Davis, Vern
 - Member's statement ... 190
- Education Act (Bill 2)
 - Committee, amendment A4 (definition of bullying to include entire school community) (carried unanimously) ... 569
 - Committee, amendment A7 (establishment of charter schools) (carried) ... 745–47
- Hockey – Chestermere
 - Longest tournament, Guinness world record ... 190
- Hockey – Edmonton
 - Quikcard Edmonton Minor Hockey Week ... 190
- Introduction of Guests (school groups, individuals)
 - ... 5, 50, 189, 270, 295, 663
- Members' Statements (current session)
 - Edmonton-Mill Woods Persons Case scholarship winners ... 318–19
 - Vern Davis ... 190
- Oral Question Period (current session topics)
 - A. Blair McPherson school ... 453–54
 - Online camping reservation system ... 234
 - School capital construction ... 758
 - Social assistance programs ... 46
- Schoolchildren – Transportation
 - Bus route planning ... 758
- Schools – Construction
 - Project scheduling ... 758
- Schools – Edmonton
 - A. Blair McPherson school needs ... 453–54
- Speaker
 - Retirement of current Speaker ... 758
- Special-needs education
 - Funding model ... 758
- Student financial aid (postsecondary students)
 - Persons Case scholarships, member's statement on ... 318–19