Speaker's Statement - Members of Parliament Elected as Members of the Legislative Assembly of Alberta

Now, we do have time for a little historical vignette. Last week I talked about individuals who had served in this House, 791 in the history of Alberta, and their source or their origin of where they had been prior to being a Member of this Assembly. In our history of 103 years there have been 10 Members of Parliament, that is, of the Canadian House of Commons, who subsequently became Members of the Legislative Assembly of Alberta.

In chronological order: the first was Joseph Tweed Shaw. He was a Member for Calgary West, a Labour Member who served in the Canadian House of Commons from 1921 to 1926, then in 1926 returned to Alberta and served in this Assembly as a Liberal for the constituency of Bow Valley.

The second was Alfred Speakman. He served in the Canadian House of Commons from 1921 to 1935, his first term from 1921 to 1926 representing Red Deer as a Progressive, then from 1926 to 1935, second and third terms, as a Member for Red Deer but as a Member of the United Farmers of Alberta. Then he came back to Alberta and served in this Assembly from 1940 to 1943, Red Deer again, as an Independent.

John Charles Landeryou served in the 18th Parliament of Canada from 1935 to 1940 representing Calgary East as a Social Credit, then came to Alberta and served from 1944 to 1971 as a Social Credit Member representing the constituency of Lethbridge.

Ernest George Hansell served in the 18th Parliament of Canada, 1935 to 1940. Then from 1940 to 1957 he served in the constituency of MacLeod, but in the first one, from 1935 to 1940, he served as a Social Credit Member. Then from 1940 to 1945 the designation that he used was New Democrat. Then from 1945 to 1957, Social Credit. Then he came to this Legislature and served from 1959 to 1963 for the constituency of Okotoks-High River as a Social Credit Member.

Charles Edward Johnston served from 1935 to 1958 representing Bow River as a member of the federal Social Credit Party. Then he served from 1959 to 1967 representing the constituency of Calgary-Bowness as a Social Credit Member.

Ambrose Holowach served the constituency of Edmonton East as a Social Credit Member from 1953 to 1958. Then he returned to this Assembly and served from 1959 to 1971 representing Edmonton-Centre as a member of the Social Credit Party.

Hugh Macarthur Horner, the father of one of our distinguished Members, served as a Member of Parliament for the constituency of Jasper-Edson from 1958 to 1967 as a Progressive Conservative. Then he served in this Assembly representing the constituency of Lac Ste. Anne from 1967 to 1971 as a Progressive Conservative and, then, from 1971 to 1979 served the constituency of Barrhead as a member of that same party.

Peter Elzinga served in the Canadian House of Commons from 1974 to 1986 representing Pembina as a Progressive Conservative. Then he came back to Alberta and served in this Assembly from 1986 to 1993 representing Sherwood Park as a member of the Progressive Conservative Party.

Stanley Schumacher served in the Canadian House of Commons from 1968 to 1979 representing the constituency of Palliser as a Progressive Conservative, then came back to Alberta and served in this Assembly from 1986 to 1997 representing Drumheller as a Progressive Conservative, including one term as Speaker of the Legislative Assembly of Alberta.

The last individual, the 10th individual to have done this in our history, was Ian McClelland, who served in the Canadian House of Commons from 1993 to 1997 for the constituency of Edmonton-Southwest as a Reform Member. Then he served in the 36th federal Parliament from 1997 to 2000 in the same constituency of Edmonton-Southwest, but with three different party names. He served during that time as a Reform Member, then a Canadian Reform Member, then a Conservative Alliance Member. Then in 2001 he was elected to this Assembly and served until 2004 representing the constituency of Edmonton-Rutherford as a Progressive Conservative Member.
